Air Strike Request Up To The Marines

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has decided to let Marine commanders in Lebanon ask for air strikes from Navy fliers if the action is needed to defend U.S. troops in Beirut, his spokesman said today.

Spokesman Larry Speakes said Marines in Beirut could request air strikes from the carrier-based fighters off shore and the request, if granted, would be approved locally rather than in Washington.

In addition, said Speakes, such support could be sought if other troops in the multinational peacekeeping force are threatened or if threats to the Lebanese Army could endanger the Marines.

But Speakes would not say who would make the local decision whether to call in air strikes.

It was not clear whether today's announcement amounted to a change in policy. Nonetheless, the administration has never announced that local commanders had the authority to order in air strikes.

Speakes said, "The Marines have always been authorized to defend themselves. They have done so and will continue to do so. With the existing MNF (multinational force) mandate, the Marine contingent in Beirut and the supporting elements off shore may take appropriate measures in defense of the MNF, specifically, if there is a threat to the safety of the MNF, other U.S. military personnel, and the U.S. diplomatic presence. The Marines or the supporting units off shore may take appropriate counter-action against the attack units."

The United States has 1,200 Marines in Beirut. Another 2,000 are being moved into position off shore. Speakes said there was no plan to increase the number of troops in Beirut.

While he would not discuss the chain of command, or say at what level a decision would be made — other than to say it would be made in Beirut and not in Washington — Speakes said in response to a question about the use of air strikes that a local Marine commander "can ask for it."

He said the strikes could be used to help the Lebanese Army, under attack from Druse Moslem militia units that have also fired on U.S. positions, if the Lebanese units "experience difficulty that may pose a threat to the Marines."

The firing on the U.S. positions has resulted in the deaths of four Marines in recent weeks.

"In each specific instance, the threat to the Marines will be evaluated," he said.

Meanwhile, Speakes said that Robert C. McFarlane, the president's special Middle East envoy, "is literally working around the clock in discussions with the Lebanese" and, through third parties, with the Syrians, who are supporting the Druse.

The White House spokesman also said that the administration was "actively reviewing our legal position" under the War Powers Act.

Key White House aides, including Chief of Staff James A. Baker III, were expected to consult with congressional leaders on that issue today.

"Anything that would tie the president's hands would have serious ramifications on the Marines," said Speakes, referring to proposals to limit the use of the troops without congressional approval.

For School Personnel

Optional Deduction Plan For United Way Okayed

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Authorization for city schools' staff personnel to contribute to the Pitt County United Way through payroll deductions was approved at the information meeting of the Greenville Board of Education Monday night.

The motion, which carried by a vote of 5-3, is for an optional decision on the part of each school staff member. Superintendent Delma Blinson explained that the county has agreed to do the necessary computer programming for both city and county schools at a nominal administrative cost.

Blinson added it would first be determined that enough personnel are interested in this form of making a contribution to constitute a sufficient "threshold" number to justify using the automatic computer system.

Sept. 26 was set as the date to conduct a public hearing on alternatives to be considered for the operation of Fullilove Community School. The public hearing will be held at 7:30 p.m. at Agnes Fullilove.

Earlier, authorization had been granted by city building authorities to use the facility at Agnes Fullilove School only for the current school year unless extensive renovations are carried out.

Alternatives to be considered include making costly renovations or various possibilities of locating the program at some other school in the school system.

The second (action) school board meeting for this month will follow the Sept. 26 public hearing at Fullilove. This is a change from the previously scheduled Sept. 19 meeting night.

Three budget amendments were approved. One, in the School Food Service budget, is a bookkeeping revision which adds $12,300 to business and other support for the food service. Another amendment, in the current expense category, increases that budget by $14,956 through funds received through criminal control and public safety grants. The third amendment, also in current expense, is an amount of $14,956 to be used to make possible the hiring of four aides on a full-time rather than on a half-time basis. Blinson explained it was not possible earlier to budget these positions on a full-time basis due to tight budget allocations, and the decision to use this amount from the fund balance was made as these positions, aides for exceptional children's classes, are considered a top priority need.

Approval was given to the first reading of a multi-sectioned policy document, File 1A, which includes a broad range of policy matters. Topics in which school board members asked that clarification be provided prior to final adoption are those of the examination policy at the secondary level, whether or not credit will be granted to exams taken during summer school, and the policy on graduation requirement. Approval also was given on a second reading to the policy on personnel recruitment for the city schools.

A field trip for one day to Jamestown, Va., by fifth graders from Wahl-Coates School was approved; and delegates and alternates to the upcoming State School Board Conference were named. Voting delegates will be members Ernest Brown, Jack Wall and George Williams. First and second alternates are Wilson Rhodes and Erma Carr.

In executive session, the board approved the election of 12 personnel and the resignation of one person.

Several items discussed at Monday night's meeting will be on the agenda for action at the next meeting. One of these

Japanese Jets Scramble Against Soviet Bombers

By CYNTHIA A. STEVENS
Associated Press Writer

Eight Japanese jet interceptors scrambled today when at least seven Soviet bombers appeared off the northwest coast of Japan, in the general area where a South Korean jetliner was shot down.

A Japan Defense Agency official said he did not know whether the Soviet planes were part of a live-fire exercise begun by Soviet warships today near where a Soviet jet fighter shot down the jet with 269 people aboard two weeks ago.

The defense official, who requested anonymity, told reporters in Tokyo that the Soviet Backfire and Badger bombers were first tracked 140 miles west-northwest of Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island.

He said the Japanese interceptors scrambled and followed them for 370 miles, to a point about 100 miles northwest of Japan's Sado Island before returning to base.

Crimestoppers

If you have information on any crime committed in Pitt County, call Crimestoppers, 758-7777. You do not have to identify yourself and can be paid for the information you supply.

The official said there was no violation of Japanese airspace, no encounter between the interceptors and the bombers, and that it was the 300th time this year that Japanese jets scrambled during a flight by Soviet warplanes.

Meanwhile, Lloyd's of London and other insurers paid Korean Air Lines $26.8 million today for the downed Boeing 747 — about three-quarters of the insured value of the plane. The rest of the amount is insured by a South Korean company.

A Maritime Safety Agency official in Wakkana, Japan's northernmost city, said the Soviet shelling exercise began in waters west of the tiny island of Moneron, 55 miles to the north. The Korean Air Lines plane is believed to have crashed nearby after being struck with a missile Sept. 1, and the 269 people on board are presumed dead.

In other developments, the United States on Monday demanded compensation from Moscow for the 61 Americans killed in the plane attack. European pilots boycotted flights to the Soviet capital, and 13 of the 16 NATO governments got ready to bar the Soviet airline Aeroflot from their airports.

In Tokyo, the Japanese Foreign Ministry confirmed a Self Defense Agency analysis that the Korean Air Lines jetliner was in the air for more than 12 minutes after a heat-seeking missile struck one or more of its four engines. Last week the agency had said its radar indicated the plane crashed after three minutes.

A headless body that washed up on Japan's northernmost coast was believed to be from the plane. Since last Thursday, police and fishermen have found a child's body, a Caucasian woman's torso, five chunks of human flesh and more than 450 pieces of clothing and other items from the plane.

Japanese Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe today announced a two-week cancellation of all civil air flights between Japan and the Soviet Union to protest Soviet "lack of sincerity" in accounting for the downing of the airliner.

The Korean Air Lines Boeing 747 was shot down by Soviet jet fighters after it flew over the southern tips of both Sakhalin and the Kamchatka Peninsula, where the Soviet military maintains sensitive naval, missile and submarine bases.

At the United Nations in New York on Monday, the Soviet Union, supported by Poland, vetoed a Security Council resolution deploring the attack. Four of the 15 council members abstained and nine approved the measure.

In Seoul, the South Korean government today denounced the Soviet veto as "brazen-faced" and said it once again proved the "limit in the function" of the council because of the veto power enjoyed by permanent council members.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used.

FOUND A PET

A dog that's obviously someone's pet has taken up at my house over the weekend. He looks like a combination of German shepherd and chow and is very friendly. I would like to find the owner. S.C.

Legally any strayed animal found should be taken to either the Pitt County or the Greenville Animal Shelter, depending on the area in which he or she is found. Therefore, anyone losing an animal should contact the Pitt County Animal Shelter through the Pitt County Health Department Rabies Control section, 752-4141, and the Greenville Animal Shelter through the Greenville Police Department, 752-3342, to see if their pets are there. It should be kept in mind that animals placed in public shelters are either put up for adoption or exterminated very quickly, so inquiries about lost pets should be made promptly.

Hotline also recommends that anyone losing a pet or finding one contact the Pitt County Humane Society, which keeps a constant list of "losts" and "finds" in order to reunite pets and their owners. Humane Society volunteer phone numbers are listed at the bottom of the Adopt-A-Pet column each Sunday. Humane Society volunteer Bobbie Parsons consolidates the lists received by each volunteer each week and, because of this, is probably the person in the county most likely to be able to assist in getting the loser and the finder of a pet together. Her phone number is 756-1268.

Winterville Plans Readvertise Street Work Bids

WINTERVILLE — Town Board members were told Monday night that bids will be readvertised for street work in the Community Development Block Grant program now under way in Winterville.

Harriet Britt reported only two of the three bids needed for an opening were received. The street work included curb and guttering on Myrtle and Hammond; paving on Grimes, Chapman, North Railroad, Hammond and Myrtle, and installation of a six-inch water main on parts of Grimes Street, Boyd, Myrtle and Hammond.

Ms. Britt also reported there are 51 houses in Winterville to be rehabilitated on the block grant. A total of 36 houses has been inspected, six have been completed and four are now under construction.

In other business, board members agreed to purchase an enclosure to house power transformers at W.H. Robinson School. The transformers are now surrounded by a chain link fence. The cost of the enclosure will be $2,195.

At a public hearing the board passed the preliminary assessment for street work to begin on Worthington Street. Work was to begin immediately on curb and gutter.

The board also approved a quote from Magette Well and Pump Co., to clean out screens on the six-inch well behind the town hall.

In new business, the board approved Nov. 8 for the town election, with registration deadline to be Oct. 10 at 5 p.m. The filing period for candidates will be from noon on Sept. 16 to noon Oct. 7, with the filing fee of $10. Two town positions are up for election.

A motion for an approval for the town to join the Electricities new joint municipal assistance agency and to appoint a commissioner and alternate commissioner to serve the agency was tabled by the board.

The board also disapproved an ordinance to regulate the use of sewers for the Contentia Metropolitan Sewer District.

The board authorized the town clerk to advertise for bids for a 1984 truck to be used by the electrical department.

The board voted to approve three resolutions: fixing Winterville Rescue Day, to be held Sept. 17, with a parade beginning at 9:45; supporting Gov. Jim Hunt's resolution for the week of Sept. 18-24 as Emergency Services Week in the state, and also the week of Sept. 19-24 as Clean Up Litter Week, with a youth involvement day.

Dear Abby

Penny-Pinching Mother Needs Live-In Help

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My mother, who is 85 years old, is failing in health and fast approaching the time when she can no longer live alone. She has over $100,000 in savings, but she refuses to spend a dime of it because she wants to leave an "inheritance."

I am willing to take her into my home, although it is too small to accommodate three people comfortably. My husband is opposed to giving up our privacy and thinks my mother should spend her money on the care she needs.

We have no designs on her savings, and I agree with my husband that no amount of money is worth sacrificing our privacy. But Abby, how can I turn my back on my mother if she insists on living with me? She regards all nursing facilities as "sties." I'm afraid if I recommend one she would interpret it as an act of abandonment. I am frustrated and upset worrying about this.

What is your advice?

TORN IN MASSACHUSETTS

DEAR TORN: Since you can't accommodate her in your home and she can well afford to pay for her own care, suggest that she employ a live-in attendant to look after her in her own home. And don't feel guilty. Every 85-year-old person should be so fortunate.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I had a very loving relationship almost every night. (I think you know what I mean.) If it matters, we're both in our late 20s.

Recently, my husband started a great paying job. Now the problem: Every two weeks he has to work swing shift, and he's exhausted when he gets home. I work from 7:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. and don't see him until he gets home around 2 a.m., so we don't have any time for lovemaking. We want to be more than just weekend lovers.

How do other couples manage their lives when they work overlapping shifts?

NOT SWINGING WITH THE SWING SHIFT

DEAR NOT SWINGING: They somehow make do. And when they can't make do, they don't.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 34, fairly attractive, have a good personality and a sense of humor. I've never been married, and that is my mother's problem. We went to a friend's wedding (her second) and Mom was depressed the whole next day. She said, "You're so attractive, I can't understand why you can't find someone." I happened to mention that a patron of mine met her husband on a cruise. Immediately Mom said, "Go on a cruise!"

One day I may marry, but I'm not desperate. I was engaged twice, and thank God I didn't marry either one! I don't need a man for security or support. I own my own business and I'm independent. I'm alone, but I'm not lonely.

I like children, but I really wasn't cut out for motherhood. I like men, but am I going to get married to show the world I can get a man — or to make my mother happy?

Abby, please tell parents to enjoy their grown children for the people they are — not for what they want them to be.

SINGLE BUT NOT ALONE

MUSIC TEAM ... with "It's Happening" are Randy Atcheson and Donna Stephenson.

She Communicates Through Singing

By ROSALIE TROTMAN

Reflector Staff Writer
Mezza soprano Donna Stephenson has been singing in some fashion her entire life. She started singing with her father and in her church in Benson.

"My mother told me she thought I tried to drown out the congregation when I was singing because I was so loud," she says.

"My daddy took me to Geraldine Cate at St. Mary's Junior College for an audition. I sang 'Holy, Holy, Holy.' I started my formal training with her."

Ms. Stephenson has been studying music for 15 years. She has a B.M. in performance from East Carolina University and a certificate in opera from the N.C. School of the Arts.

Her favorite selection is "Adieu, forets" from "Jeanne d'Arc" by Tchaikovsky.

"I learned to communicate with an audience when I was performing 'Adieu, forets,' making people understand what I'm singing regardless of the language — this was the breakthrough for me. Especially because of Joan of Arc's dedication to God."

"No matter where I am or where I'm going, I want to share my faith with others. Singing is the way I communicate. I think people would listen to me sing instead of talking," she said.

Her favorite moment when performing is "when I feel I'm singing well and that the audience is with me."

When asked about her future, Ms. Stephenson said, "I see singing in my future. It's quite an honor to be invited to Cincinnati to sing and it's a breakthrough for me."

Now living in New York City, she will be moving to Cincinnati next week. She has signed a contract with the Cincinnati Opera Company. She will perform such roles as the mother in "Amahl and The Night Visitors," Dorabella in "Cosi Fan Tutte," Mimosa in "Sweet Betsy From Pike," and Adalgisa in "Norma."

She made her opera debut as lead soprano in the New York premiere in Tchaikovsky's "Iolanthe" in 1977. She has also appeared with the New York Opera Repertory Company at Lincoln Center in "The Rape of Lucretia" in 1983 and Brahma "Alto Rhapsody" with the Holy Cross Orchestra and Mens Chorus.

Ms. Stephenson is in Greenville with Albert Long to appears in "It's Happening" being held tonight and Wednesday at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church. The program starts at 7:30 p.m.

Ms. Stephenson has been appearing with Long for nine years. Long refers to Ms. Stephenson as the "mocking bird." The reason: the male mocking bird sings over 100 different tunes.

Ms. Stephenson and Randy Atcheson appeared at a luncheon/concert Monday at Immanuel Baptist Church. Atcheson is also a member of "It's Happening."

Focusing The Outrage

What should the United States' response be to the barbaric destruction of a Korean airliner by the Soviet Union?

We registered outrage and demanded an admission and retribution from the Russians. Beyond that, there is not much we can do.

President Reagan eloquently expressed the outrage of all decent people, but there was little he could propose that would truly bring the message home to the Soviets.

Launch a military action? It would only lead to far more killing, perhaps the destruction of the world.

Cancel the grain deal? We have tried that and it harmed American farmers most.

Cancel arms reductions talks? Surely that would be cutting off our nose to spite our face if there is any hope of ending a senseless arms race.

As a conservative, Sen. John East certainly feels as strongly as anyone about this Soviet massacre. Yet, he waited to comment until the facts were clear.

He cautioned against selective embargos such as the grain embargo after the Afganistan invasion which he saw as "swinging at the Russian bear and hitting the American farmer in the nose.

Instead, he called for strong national defense and restricting of Soviet planes landings, along with other sanctions.

The Soviet action was a horrible crime, but our best weapon at this point is focusing the outrage of the world on the Soviet Union. The Russians have admitted shooting the plane down and certainly they should provide compensation to the victims' families.

Popular Choice

The Farmville Board of Commissioners last week joined other government bodies in voting to recommend to the Pitt County Commissioners that a half-cent sales tax be considered for the county.

If the county participates, 40 percent of the per capita amount received by the municipalities must be spent for water and sewer capital improvements. Farmville has used clean water bond funds for water and sewer improvements in the past and having the sales tax money available for such projects is attractive to the commissioners.

The half-cent sales tax is proving popular in Pitt County where many people feel a sales tax is something that everyone pays. Since the sales tax is collected on each sale it is easier to pay than the property tax or the income tax.

Paying taxes is never enjoyable but certainly it is best to levy the tax that is most palatable to the taxpayer. In Pitt County the sales tax seems to be that.

—John Cuniff—

From The Past

NEW YORK AP — So much that is viewed as innovative today in the world of business and finance is really the rediscovery of old knowledge almost forgotten.

Such as the realization among automotive companies that you can't overcome poor quality and service with advertising and promotion, or the finding by labor unions that higher wages must be tied to productivity gains.

Belatedly and reluctantly, such lessons were resurrected from the past under the pressures of realities, but they are as old as cogenation.

Cogeneration, a term used in power production, was practiced at the turn of the century and probably long before by industrial plant managers who saw no sense in venting the heat of their machines out an open window.

But that very thing happened of course, and on a huge scale, so long as energy costs were low. As prices rose, however, the amazing rediscovery was made that you could heat the plant at no extra cost by closing the window.

The list of such rediscoveries is endless. It was known by ancient people that added services inevitably produced higher taxes, that expenditures could not long exceed revenues, and that government excesses could debase money.

Nevertheless, generation after generation has seemed compelled to experiment with the possibility that there was a way to skirt the inevitable, learning only through hard experience that there are immutable laws.

Nowhere, perhaps, is this more obvious than in the stock market, where new trading concepts are discovered all the time, some of them enjoying a period of success that reinforces the anguish attending the eventual collapse.

The arena of labor relations probably has been the site of more momentous rediscoveries than anywhere else. Such as the realization that workers work best if they feel their efforts and skills are appreciated by management.

In fact, The One Minute Manager, a management book built on concepts as simple as praising a worker for doing well and criticizing him constructively when he did poorly, has remained on best-seller lists for almost a year.

Inherent in the book is the notion that workers give more if they feel appreciated, and one of the most obvious ways to do that is to seek their help and provide them with a sense of participation.

The concept of a participating worker being an appreciative worker has been repackaged as a Japanese import under the extremely popular name of Quality Circles, although wise managers understood it long before it had a name.

In many companies, however, such concepts were shunned. Some unions and managements, in fact, felt more secure as adversaries, arguing that it was best to keep the enemy at bay rather than invite him into the den.

The productivity impact didn't show up for a few years, but when imports undersold American products it led to disastrous consequences.

—Elisha Douglass—

Strength For Today

Jesus declared on one occasion, "What things so ever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them" (Mark 11:24).

This is a strange and startling statement. We get things from the Giver of all good things not only because we ask for them but because when we ask for them we definitely believe that the petition will be granted. It is not enough that we should ask. We must ask with confidence.

WASHINGTON — After deciding on his response to the Soviet Union, Ronald Reagan told intimates he was "frustrated" by the restraints on him — duplicating a sense of unease among Reaganauts both inside and outside the administration.

Emotions from many hard-line national security officials in middle and upper-middle slots surpassed frustration, ranging from melancholy to anger. Yet, the Soviet atrocity and President Reagan's response to it has restored the initiative to the president on arms control and defense spending and presumably outflanked the Democrats on the war-and-peace issue.

So ironic a coincidence of political benefits with low morale by its recipients suggests the administration's response to the disaster of KAL 007 marked Reagan's final transformation from idealistic campaigner to workaday incumbent. Even if it protected the president's national security program in Congress and made his re-election more likely, slapping the Kremlin's wrist was government-as-usual, not the Reagan Revolution.

That fit prolonged efforts by pragmatist aides James Baker and Michael Deaver to show the world that Reagan is not Genghis Khan. But for once, the president's caution was not predicated on public opinion surveys. No pollster is needed to know that this time the president would have the American people behind any retaliatory moves.

That there was never any real chance that this mandate would be followed testifies to how much the Reagan administration has changed in office. From the moment it became clear what had happened over the Sea of Japan, counsels of caution from the State Department dominated.

Reaganaut hard-liners scattered through the administration never really fought back. They understood that cancellation of the Soviet grain deal was politically impossible, and nobody had the stomach to renew the battle over technology transfer.

The one meaningful response open to Reagan was actually proposed by the Defense Department: suspend ongoing arms control negotiations with Moscow, just as Lyndon Johnson delayed SALT I negotiations after the Soviet Union's 1968 invasion of Czechoslovakia. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger embraced this option, but how vigorously he pursued it in the National Security Council debate is unclear and subject to varying reports.

Even if Weinberger did battle fiercely, the anti-armscontrol option was stillborn. Secretary of State George Shultz argued that bringing this nation's allies along on any anti-Soviet sanctions was essential, and that meant continuing arms control talks. National security adviser William P. Clark was not prepared to challenge expert diplomatic opinion, and neither was the president. Thus was derived the decision to punish Moscow by closing down Aeroflot operations around the world, a modest sanction that most of America's allies predictably are resisting.

A few Reaganauts, while heartsick over the passive response, believe the soft-line was probably necessary to mobilize anti-Soviet opinion worldwide. But most hardliners, in the administration and on Capitol Hill, are outraged. Passivity, they believe, will encourage Soviet misbehavior while not sustaining world indignation for more than two or three months. words used to us by a variety of such national security experts include "atrocious," "disastrous," "embarrassing," "de-meaning" and "chicken-bleep."

In their despair, Reaganauts say that the president has blundered politically by misreading the public mood. But that analysis fails to comprehend what one Soviet missile did to the left wing of the Democratic Party and its call for detente and nuclear freeze. Demands for dialogue with the Kremlin have become so reflexive that front-running presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale reacted to the Kremlin's behavior by declaring that as president, "I'd get on the telephone right now to Mr. Andropov and ask him what happened."

Mondale's principal rival, Sen. John Glenn, was more circumspect with purposely watery rhetoric that showed he has no intention of trying to get on Reagan's right as he approaches Democratic primaries against Mondale. Secure from any threat of being outflanked himself, the president outflanks his critics on the left by having been "statesmanlike" in the face of bloody provocation.

Nor does he risk serious revolt from his own conservative base; important Reaganauts are not going public with the harsh words said to us. What has happened in the last week is at once less immediately menacing to Reagan's political prospects and more profoundly disturbing to his presidency.

High-Tech Chicken

WASHINGTON — When ill-fated Korean Air Lines Flight 007 flew into Soviet airspace last week, it stumbled into the middle of a high-tech game of chicken played daily by the superpowers. The game is called aerial electronic surveillance, and isn't for amateurs.

From Eielson Air Force Base near Fairbanks, Alaska, and Shemya Air Force Base at the western tip of the Aleutian Islands, Air Force and Navy aircraft routinely set out on reconnaissance missions near or over the Soviet Union's Eastern edge. Data collected on these flights (called ELINT for electronic intelligence) accumulate in supercomputers managed by the National Security Agency (NSA) at Fort Meade, Md., among other locations. In his Sept. 5 address to the nation, President Reagan admitted that a reconnaissance plane had trailed KAL 007, but that it had returned to Alaska prior to the Soviet attack.

Meanwhile, U.S. military aircraft also traverse Soviet airspace, just as the Russians do ours, to test the range and frequency of radar on the ground.

Although satellites and radar installations in Japan and other countries are undertaking an increased surveillance burden, the U.S. is soon expected to make additions to its electronic squadrons. For example, E-Systems, of Dallas, Texas, is developing a pilotless drone that will be able to accomplish any number of tasks before its likely destruction by anti-aircraft missiles. Israel demonstrated the drone's capabilities during its confrontation with Syria in Lebanon last year.

America's investment in electronic surveillance technology, for which the Reagan administration is seeking $4.7 billion in 1984, may seem worth every penny after last week's air atrocity. Yet it might be heading the U.S. and the Soviets toward more deadly, unnecessary incidents in the future. As James Bamford, author of "The Puzzle Palace," a book about the NSA, said last week, "The truth is that at any moment this whole game of electronic surveillance can blow up. It gets more risky day by day."

The Most Useful Key

Sentences are like suitcases. They ought to be packed neatly, with no socks, ties or bra straps sticking out, and they ought never to be so overpacked that they bulge with strain.

Newsweek magazine recently provided a splendid example of how not to pack a sentence:

"Silent Cal has gotten a raw deal," says Rep. Silvio Conte, a Massachusetts Republican who persuaded the House to declare last week the first annual Calvin Coolidge Week, marking the 60th anniversary of his swearing-in after Warren G. Harding's death by his notary-public father in the family home in Plymouth Notch, Vt.

Is that not godawful? Let me offer another example, even though I have quoted it before. It comes from United Press International:

"TEL AVIV — The 16-1 vote followed a grenade explosion in a crowd of Peace Now protectors outside the Cabinet meeting that killed a paratrooper who friends said fought in the Lebanon invasion and injured nine others who demanded Sharon be fired."

Yet one more, this from The Washington Post's man in London, in a piece about The Economist: "Founded in 1843 — and edited later in the century by Walter Bagehot, the period's most famous English journalist of democratic politics and capitalist economics — the weekly's circulation has doubled to about 200,000 over the past decade."

The authors of this mush had forgotten the most useful key on a typewriter's keyboard. It is on the bottom row, at the far right. When properly struck it produces this symbol: " ". It is called the period. Every writer, amateur or professional, now and then contrives a portmanteau sentence. We try to pack everything at once — subjects, predicates, objects, modifying clauses, amplifying afterthoughts, bits and dabs of possibly relevant information. Once we discover the problem, the solution is simple: Unpack and start over. When we recast one sentence into three or four smaller sentences, everything fits. We do not speak of Harding's death "by his notary-public father." We do not have Cabinet meetings that kill paratroopers. We do not have a magazine's circulation founded in 1843. Recast, recast, recast!

Verb of the week: "to mother-hen." This comes from a young lady in Florida. I assume she would prefer to remain unidentified, because she invented the verb in a moment of exasperation at her overly solicitous beau: "Stop mother-henning me!" she cried. His response is not recorded.

Public Forum

To the editor:

To the citizens of Greenville and the readers of this newspaper, I wish to offer another opinion to that of Mr. James W. Leutgens (Public Forum, 7 Sept. 83).

To me the United States does indeed mean "good," "God-fearing" and "free;" and Russia is the absolute scum of the earth, their leaders have the morals of a rabid Dog and the average citizen has the mentality of a sheep. For the security of the rest of the earth they should be exterminated and, in fact, will be unless they get us first.

Mr. Leutgens must have more information about the shooting down of the KAL 747 than I. The news media has reported that the KAL plane was given no warning, was not told to land, was not communicated with in any way. The first indication the crew and civilian passengers had of an encounter with their Russian-murderers was when a missile ripped their plane apart at 35,000 feet. Justifiable? Never!

The murderers have given warning in the past that trespassers will be shot — but an obvious civilian airliner on an arrow-straight course for thousands of miles is not a spy plane and should be given opportunity to land.

I do not agree that the United States would do the same as the Red killers. The U.S. would not shoot down an airliner belonging to any nation flying anywhere in U.S. airspace, whether over Camp Lejeune or Washington, D.C. Civilized people just would not consider such an act.

To the editor:

Through your column, I want to take the opportunity to express publicly my heartfelt thanks to James W. Leutgens, of Greenville, for his letter which appeared in The Daily Reflector of Wednesday, Sept. 7, 1983.

Mr. Leutgens has expressed most clearly the opinion I fervently pray and hope is shared by an overwhelming majority of thinking Americans, as well as by thinking peoples all over the world — not excepting those in the U.S.S.R.

Political figures, especially in times of crisis, and especially when changes of government looms as it does in our country, are inclined to go overboard verbally to indicate to their listeners, or readers, that they are extremely knowledgeable and "on the ball" to protect the interests of their constituents.

Words are cheap. A voluminous dictionary or comprehensive thesaurus can be bought for a few dollars. The ability to use and digest the contents of either volume is priceless.

My advice, over 75 years of life in my native United States, years which have encompassed four wars, numerous political campaigns, and the resulting clamor from uncounted aggressive opportunists all shouting/shoving their way into the limelight and the public eye and ear, is this:

"I have two ears, two eyes, one mind, one mouth. I wonder what my Creator had in mind?"

Mrs. Margaret M. Creamer
Greenville

To the editor:

Just a word, please! No sign carried a message calling for "justification" of the Korean airliner slaughter; my friends think there is no way it can be justified. The sign called for "justification" — a legal judging in which witnesses could be examined under due process.

Two other changes in my letter published last Friday are minor. Introducing the last paragraph: "at last," not "at least" and "societally" (connoting structurally or institutionally, as well as regarding a large group) not "socially."

Despite the above carping, I think the Public Forum editor does a fine job in offering us readers a megaphone. It's interesting to read. Would that more used it.

Times: "President Reagan will Air Force One his way into the area Tuesday ..."

Honorable mention, from the minutes of a Midwestern hospital's "quality assurance panel." The panel, having considered complaints that patients' meals were often cold by the time the meals reached the floor, "was assured by the dietary department that meals will be rethermalized by use of microwave oven before delivery to patients." Webster's informs me that "to thermalize" is "to change the effective speed of a particle to a thermal value," as in, "to thermalize a neutron." If this is what it takes to improve hospital food, let us thermalize, rethermalize, and again rethermalize. But let us leave the Jell-O alone.

The Washington Post recently reported on a suspicious fire in nearby Montgomery County, Maryland. Said the assistant fire chief: "I would unequivocally say it very probably could have been set."

Mangle of the week comes from the Marysville (Ohio) Journal-Tribune: "According to the (police) report, a vehicle apparently ran off Ketch Road and struck the mailbox as it attempted to get back on the road-way." Follow that mailbox, men!

A Little Rain For Parched Pitt Soil

By MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County got slight but needed relief from dry weather Monday as late-afternoon and late-night thunderstorms dropped just under a quarter-inch of rain on parched soil.

Two storms that moved through the area brought .15 inches of precipitation, according to the Greenville Utilities Water Plant. In addition to the moisture, the rain ushered in welcome cooler temperatures.

GUC said the temperature dipped to 68 degrees Fahrenheit during the night and by 9:30 a.m. had risen to 78 degrees. A high of 98 degrees was recorded Monday.

According to Malcolm Green, superintendent of GUC's electrical department, the storm produced much lightning but caused only minor damage to the electrical system.

"The only major outage occurred when a tree limb fell on a line on Contentnea Street that was the main line to the hospital (Pitt County Memorial Hospital)," said Green.

Power was interrupted to the hospital for 15-17 minutes, he said, but an auto-transfer system at the hospital shifted critical loads such as life support systems and operating room lights to another circuit. These loads were without power only seconds, according to Green.

Green said no extra crew was called out for the storm. "It was not a storm that gave us much problem," he noted.

Plan Hiring

KINSTON — Howard Kress, manager of the Du Pont plant here, announced plans today for the hiring of approximately 80 part-time employees, beginning in mid-October and continuing through early 1984.

Kress explained that, "The pace of the economic recovery has created some short-term job opportunities that we have decided to fill with part-time employees. These part-time employees will work approximately 20 hours per week on shift schedules designed especially to attract those who desire part-time employment and students from local colleges and universities."

The official said, "In past years the plant has used part-time employees as summer hires to avoid hiring permanent employees to fill temporary needs."

All applications for part-time employment with Du Pont are being accepted by the state Employment Security Commission, said Kress.

The Kinston plant, located on N.C. 11, has over 2,200 employees and produces Dacron polyester fiber for the apparel, home furnishings and automotive upholstery markets.

Anti-Cancer Drugs Risky

CHICAGO (AP) — Health workers who handle powerful intravenous anti-cancer drugs should take care to avoid contact with the drugs because some of them may cause cancer or birth defects, researchers say.

In the current issue of Ca, a journal of the American Cancer Society, the researchers recommended that nurses and pharmacists who dispense or administer the drugs wear long-sleeved gowns and disposable gloves, masks and safety glasses.

Sen. George McGovern Again Seeking Presidency

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Former South Dakota Sen. George S. McGovern, rejecting the advice of family members and longtime aides, is running for president once more, a decade after his longshot liberal campaign won the Democratic nomination but lost to Richard M. Nixon's landslide.

"When I lost in 1972 they said I was 10 years ahead of my time," McGovern, 61, said late last year when he disclosed he was thinking about running for the Democratic presidential nomination. "Well, it's 10 years later."

The formal announcement was expected today before an audience at George Washington University.

This time, as in 1972, McGovern begins far behind the field of contenders for the 1984 Democratic nomination.

But he has additional handicaps, as well.

His wife, Eleanor, is against the race and won't campaign with him this time. Many former aides are involved with other campaigns, and still others have urged him strongly not to run.

"I'm not enthusiastic," Mrs. McGovern said in a telephone interview. "I have said 'No, I won't campaign.'" She said she might change her mind as the race wears on.

For McGovern, it will be the third try for the White House.

He ran for the nomination but lost in 1968. Four years later he started out far behind the field, but captured the nomination. He was buried beneath Nixon's landslide, winning only

Massachusetts and the District of Columbia in the worst Democratic defeat in presidential politics.

McGovern and his aides have said he intends to campaign strongly against President Reagan's foreign policy and the "unfairness" of his economic policies.

He is expected to come out for a variety of steps to promote full employment, curb the arms race and trim defense spending — all delivered with what one adviser called a "sharper edge" than he feels the other Democrats have wielded.

One longtime adviser, Henry L. Kimelman, noted that McGovern won his national reputation by opposing the Vietnam War.

He believes "we have no alternative but to live peacefully and to coexist with the Russians," said Kimelman. "He will project himself as the kind of man who will sit down with them."

A spokesman, Mark Kaminsky, conceded the campaign starts out months behind the field, including former Vice President Walter F. Mondale, the frontrunner; former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew and Sens. Alan Cranston of California, John Glenn of Ohio, Ernest Hollings of South Carolina and Gary Hart of Colorado.

Hart served as McGovern's campaign manager in 1972, and sources said the two men corresponded briefly early this year. McGovern wrote Hart at one point saying he didn't believe this year's contenders were saying "what needed to be said," according to one source, who asked not to be identified.

Hart responded by shipping off copies of some of his speeches and position papers. This source said McGovern read the Hart material, then boned up on what the other contenders were saying.

He spent time at a cabin in the Smoky Mountains in Tennessee this summer, firming up his decision to run, even though the advice of former aides and some family members was overwhelmingly against.

"There were concerns he might get hurt again," said Mary McGovern, the former senator's daughter and new deputy campaign manager.

"It makes a lot of us very uncomfortable," said one former aide who asked not to be identified. "(But) we wish him very well."

For all their good wishes, though, McGovern has no campaign manager, no direct mailing organization, no full-time fund-raising operation, writes most of his own speeches, has little.

Sources said McGovern does have a list of about 200,000 proven donors who have contributed to him in the past.

To establish his credibility as a candidate, McGovern is considering putting whatever money he can raise into an early media blitz in Iowa, where the first delegates to the 1984 Democratic convention will be selected next year, as well as New Hampshire, which will hold the first primary election.

The race will be McGovern's first since he was defeated in 1980 in his bid for a fourth Senate term from South Dakota. After his defeat, he established a political organization, Americans for Common Sense, designed to counteract New Right conservative groups.

N.C. Guardsmen Leave For NATO Maneuvers

LAST-MINUTE PACKING — North Carolina Guardsmen Sp4 Leslie Lee (left) from Aulander, and Staff Sgt. Lokie Majette, right, from Conway, N.C. do some last minute packing before they board a C-141 for their trip to Italy. POPE AIR FORCE BASE, N.C. (AP) — Hundreds of North Carolina National Guardsmen depart this week for Italy and what officials call the largest U.S.-Italian military exercise since World War II.

"Display Termination '83" also is the first operation for which a National Guard battalion force has taken organizational equipment to Europe for field training.

An estimated 135 N.C. Army National Guardsmen flew Monday from Pope Air Force Base for the NATO exercise in northern Italy that's expected to last until early October. Another 665 guardsmen are slated to leave Saturday.

The group that left Monday was to land today at Marco Polo Air Field in Venice. Wednesday, the guardsmen will begin unloading a special merchant ship that left Wilmington, N.C., Aug. 31.

The ship carries the vehicles and other equipment to be used during the exercise, including armored personnel carriers, M-60 tanks and self-propelled artillery.

Most of the task force is composed of four companies from the 1st Battalion, 119th Infantry-Mechanized, headquartered in Ahoskie. There's also the C Company, 252nd Armor, from St. Pauls.

Guard units from Ahoskie, Tarboro, Roanoke Rapids, Williamston, Windsor, Woodland, Elizabeth City and Edenton make up the 1st Battalion, 119th Infantry portion.

Support personnel from guard units in Clinton, Mount Olive, Belmont and the 230th Support Battalion headquartered in Goldsboro also will be deployed to Italy.

Forty-two members of three additional guard battalions will participate in a week-long command post exercise in Italy while the task force is there.

The North Carolina guard force's main headquarters is 30th Separate Infantry Brigade in Clinton, commanded by Brig. Gen. Kenneth Newbold of Greensboro.

Officials said the operation would climax late this month when part of the North Carolina guard task force participates in an exercise to be observed by high-ranking political and military observers from many NATO and Warsaw-Pact countries.

The exercise, designed to demonstrate NATO regard for its Southern flank, will occur simultaneously with the annual Reforger Exercise in Germany, in which U.S. forces have participated for some years.

Apples Late But Quality Is Good

By The Associated Press
Brushy Mountain apples have emerged mostly unscathed from late spring freezes and a summer-long drought, although the fruit is a bit smaller than usual and the harvest has been delayed, an official says.

"Growers have been waiting for their apples to get some size after all the dry weather we've been having," said Terry Garwood, an agricultural extension agent who works with fruit-tree growers in Wilkes and Alexander counties.

Brushy Mountain growers in some areas started harvesting their crop of golden and red delicious apples this week, said Garwood. Normally, the picking would have begun in late August, he said.

This year's Brushy Mountain yield should be between 800,000 to 900,000 bushels, compared to 1.2 million bushels in good years.

"Overall the quality of the crop is excellent," he said. Apples may be slightly smaller, but most should reach the size to make the top grades.

Another factor behind the delayed harvest is a program begun this year by the North Carolina Apple Growers Association aimed at improving crop quality and creating new markets.

The association established the Apple Maturity Advisory Committee, composed of members from the state's four apple growing areas, which will evaluate the maturity of each variety during the harvest season. Samples collected from 25 areas in the state are tested at North Carolina State University for maturity.

The committee recommended that the harvest begin Monday for Brushy Mountain growers but recommended a slightly earlier harvest for the Lincoln-Cleveland and the Hendersonville apple-growing areas.

Growers follow the harvest recommendations voluntarily, said Garwood. The committee's weekly reports are released to packers as a buying guide to North Carolina apples.

"It's a step by apple growers to guarantee the quality of apples from North Carolina," he said.

Maneuvers

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — About 16,000 U.S. Army and Air Force personnel have arrived at European bases to take part in NATO maneuvers involving more than 250,000 allied troops, NATO officials said Monday.

The U.S. forces, stationed in Texas and Georgia, arrived at airports in Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands and West Germany over the weekend.

Stronger Leaf Prices Noted

By The Associated Press
Stronger prices and improved quality marked the opening of the seventh week of auctions on the three North Carolina tobacco belts on Monday, the Federal-State Market News Service reports.

Prices averaged $1 to $7 higher per hundred pounds on the Eastern Belt and volume remained heavy. Fair and good quality tobacco made up over 80 percent of sales.

A record high average of $193.90 per hundred was set for 23,755,202 gross pounds last week, up $5.31 from the previous week. Sales for the season rose to 147,342,038, averaging $177.35.

Flue-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corp. receipts were 4.6 percent of gross sales last week, and for the season 23.2 percent has been placed under loan.

Sales averaged $2 to $9 higher on the Old and Middle Belts, with more upper stalk tobacco sold.

Gross sales last week totaled 19,455,313 pounds, averaging $179.03 per hundred — a gain of $6.39 from last week. Season sales stood at 81,793,324 pounds at $164.49.

Growers placed 16.8 percent of gross sales under loan last week, and for the season 17.7 percent has been delivered to the stabilization corporation.

On the South Carolina and Border North Carolina markets, prices averaged $1 to $7 higher, with volume heavy.

A record price of $193.18 per hundred pounds was paid for 16,386,965 pounds last week. The average was up $4.73 from the previous week's high record. Season sales are 110,246,307 pounds, averaging $174.37.

Loan receipts amounted to 2.5 percent of gross sales last week. Season deliveries under the loan were 16.5 percent.

SBI Probing Fatal Shooting

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The State Bureau of Investigation is investigating the shooting of a Sanford man early Sunday morning by police, authorities said.

David McCullough was shot a number of times by four Sanford police officers after he took a shotgun out of a van and then refused to halt when ordered to by police, said Sanford Police Chief Ronnie Yarborough.

McCullough was listed in fair condition Monday at North Carolina Memorial Hospital, Yarborough said. The shooting occurred about 2 a.m. Sunday in Sanford.

Prelate Out Of Coronary Care

BOSTON (AP) — Cardinal Humberto Medeiros is able to walk about as he recovers from what was described as a mild attack and may be released from St. Elizabeth's hospital late this week, a spokeswoman for the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Boston says.

"His eminence spent a restful weekend in the interim coronary care unit," spokeswoman Ethel Froia said Monday. "All signs indicate that his mild heart attack is healing properly."

Through the use of special monitors, the 67-year-old Medeiros is able to walk around, she added.

At BB&T, The Quality Comes Through.

When more and more banks seem preoccupied by the idea of crossing state lines, we thought you might appreciate hearing from a bank that calls North Carolina home and not just home base.

Our overriding interest is in delivering the highest quality financial services to the people in North Carolina in ways that offer the best overall value.

A case in point is UVEST® Brokerage Services. UVEST was designed as a way for our customers to save up to 70% in brokerage commissions.

With toll free service, UVEST provides up-to-the-minute market information as well as prompt execution of trades.

But it's what UVEST doesn't have that's really impressive.

UVEST commissions are up to 70% lower than those of most brokerage houses. And since the brokers receive no commissions, you'll find you're never under any pressure to buy anything.

UVEST is available by itself or as a part of a much more comprehensive personal financial plan we call OMNI BANKING. OMNI BANKING supplies a wide range of financial services designed to facilitate, not only your day-to-day banking, but also your long-term financial planning.

Every element of OMNI BANKING is of the highest quality. You receive, for example, interest-earning checking with checks designed to identify you as a special customer.

You have access to a pre-arranged line of credit at prime rate for your personal use. We even provide a special personal financial review to assist you in analyzing your financial objectives and devising strategies to meet them.

And that's just a sampling. At BB&T, we realize that the quality of the service is inseparable from the quality of the person who renders it.

That's why we place such importance on the attitude of our people. It's an attitude that's reflected, for example, in our deeper commitment to understanding the full range of your long-term financial needs.

It becomes apparent, too, in our responsiveness to your requests. Because we know that, in today's fast changing world, your requirements will become ever more varied and complex in the future.

Finally, the BB&T attitude is evident in the kinds of insight we can provide. Because we realize that, the more insight we can provide for you, the more rewarding the relationship will be for both of us.

Come to BB&T. And discover how the quality comes through in everything we do.

BB&T

It's More Than A Bank.
It's An Attitude.

Ayden Board Tables Proposal

By ANGELA LINGERFELT
Reflector Staff Writer
The Ayden Board of Commissioners tabled a motion Monday that would give Creative Designs of New Bern permission to solicit advertising in Ayden for the purpose of publishing a recreation activity booklet at no cost to the town.
"I think the recreation department themselves could make a good, cheap booklet. It seems to me that our activities are such that a minimal booklet stapled together would serve our purposes," Commissioner Marvin Baldree said.

The commissioners said they were in favor of a booklet, but they would prefer the advertising dollars for it go to the recreation department.

"The board wants to encourage the recreation department to have a brochure, but one that is produced and controlled locally instead of the money going out of town," Dr. Elliott Dixon commented.
Baldree said he felt that, if the booklet was published by Creative Designs, it would be "just another money-making project for somebody."
In other business:

•A public hearing on the local option one-half cent sales tax was held. No one was present for the hearing, but board members told County Commissioner Charles Gaskins that they encourage the imposition of the tax.
"I think there's some things in this town that the board knows needs to be done and this is the opportunity for us to get the needed money to do them. By being a local option tax, local government has to put their necks on the line to get this needed money," Dixon said.

•The commissioners approved a recommendation by the Ayden Planning Board to grant Rudy Robinson a conditional use permit to add two apartment units to the dwelling at the corner of West Second and Venters streets.
•The board agreed to add a $10,000 historical grant to its revenue and expenditure items in the town's budget.
•The board authorized the Contentnea Metropolitan Sewage District to control and monitor industrial waste within Ayden and assess sewer use charges to the industry for waste discharged.

•Commissioners approved the sale of the following surplus property: 1970 Chevrolet two-ton dump truck, 1979 Ford Fairmont (police car), 1976 Chevrolet pickup truck and two old lamp posts at the entrance to the Ayden Cemetery.

•The board decided to use a workshop session later to revise its policy covering bad checks in payment of utility bills, including those accounts paid by draft. A customer goes on the town's bad check list if he has written two bad checks within a six-month period.
"Once a person is on the list, there's no way to get off. Just because a person had financial difficulties once, doesn't mean that he will always have them. If a bank can show a letter of good credit over a period of time, then he should be able to get off the bad check list. I think this needs to be revised," Dixon said.

"We need a letter from the bank for someone who is on the bad check list," Town Manager Don Russell said.

•The board recommended that Odell McLawhorn serve another three-year term on the Ayden Planning Board.

•Commissioners agreed to buy a $100 ad in the Ayden-Grifton yearbook.

•The board passed a resolution to delete an outdated housing scoring system as recommended by Housing and Urban Development.

Ireland Hosting A Poker Playoff

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — A full house of the world's top poker players draw their cards today night in a million-dollar game of "Texas Hold 'Em" stud in a hotel outside Dublin.

With official prize money of $150,000, and far more on the line in side bets, it will be one of the richest poker games played outside the United States. A total of 48 high-rollers, most of them Americans, have come to Ireland to compete.

The game at the Kilinney Castle hotel is expected to go on for at least 24 hours.

Apart from the prize money, Irish bookie Terry Rogers, who organized the game, said up to 1 million pounds — $1.5 million — will be at stake in side bets.

The players include several world poker champions: "Amarillo Slim" Preston from Texas, who took the 1972 title; "Puggy" Pearson, the 1973 champ who got his name because of a nose flattened in a childhood accident; and Stu "The Kid" Ungar, a 30-year-old New Yorker who won in 1980 and 1981.

The player they fear is the current champ, Tom McEvoy, who disdains the use of a nickname.

McEvoy, a 38-year-old father of three from Grand Rapids, Mich., is a former accountant who turned professional gambler five years ago.

It was a smart move. He's believed to have won at least $200,000 this year.

"Suitcase Jim" Ray, a 60-year-old construction engineer based in Peru, was the first to arrive in town last week for a few preliminary games.

"I like to get the feel of a place," he explained as he wandered around Dublin, sampling the Irish whiskey in bars where the biggest action is usually a game of dominoes.

He got his nickname because of his habit of "going suitcase" in a big game — betting his roll on one hand. When he loses, all he has left is his suitcase.

Ray prefers playing with the pros, but said he keeps his hand in by taking on lumber dealers along the Amazon.

"If you want to know about gambling, those are the guys to play poker with," he said. "They'll bet a boatload of timber on one hand."

Amarillo Slim is trying to live down his defeat in Las Vegas by the world's top woman poker player, Betty Carey. She took $100,000 of his money in a 36-hour head-to-head marathon.

Dutch Churchman New Head Of Jesuit Order

By SAMUEL KOO
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — The Jesuits, the largest and most powerful religious order of the Roman Catholic Church, today elected the Rev. Peter Hans Kolvenbach of the Netherlands as their new superior general, Jesuit officials reported.

Born Nov. 30, 1928, Kolvenbach joined the order in 1948 and has been serving as rector of the Rome-based Pontifical Eastern Studies Institute.

His election came within two hours of the start of secret balloting by 211 Jesuit delegates at a special conclave, said the officials, who asked not to be identified. They said a formal announcement would be made later.

Kolvenbach, who was one of the delegates at the conclave, is the second Dutchman to head the order. The first was the Rev. Johann Philipp Roothaan, who served from 1829-53.

The new superior general, elected for life, succeeds the Most Rev. Pedro Arrupe, the 76-year-old Spaniard who has guided the order since 1965 and who became the first Jesuit head to resign after he fell seriously ill.

The 26,000-member Society of Jesus, founded 449 years ago by St. Ignatius Loyola to check the spread of Protestantism, runs prestigious Roman Catholic universities and religious missions around the world as well as the Vatican Radio and newspaper.

Their early successes, long and rigorous training and special vow of loyalty to the pope, have earned the Jesuits the nickname the pope's "first legion" or "private army."

The leadership change comes at a time when the Jesuits' membership is at a low point and many young members are demanding the order do more to advance social justice in the world.

Pope John Paul II repeatedly has criticized the order for the involvement of some of its members in politics and urged it to root out the "regrettable deficiencies" in its behavior.

Two years ago, the pope, in an unprecedented gesture, intervened and appointed his personal representative to run the order after Arrupe suffered a stroke.

Eventually, Bigger Grocery Bill Due Small Harvest

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers are headed for their smallest corn harvest in 13 years as the blistering dry heat of summer continues to take a toll of crop yields. That will eventually add up to larger grocery bills, says the Agriculture Department.

According to Sept. 1 indications, corn production was estimated Monday at 4.39 billion bushels, down 48 percent from last year's record of 8.4 billion bushels. The new estimate also was down 16 percent — 846 million bushels — from the August forecast.

Agriculture Secretary John R. Block estimated consumer food costs will rise an additional 1 to 1.5 percent next year because of the severely reduced crop. That comes on top of a previously estimated food price boost of between 4 and 5 percent — meaning an overall jump of as much as 6.5 percent next year.

Still, Block said that increase remains in line with anticipated inflationary increases for other consumer goods so "there's no reason for anyone to become overly concerned about soaring food costs."

As for the impact of the drought on farmers, Block called it "staggering," but he offered no specific dollar figure. After last month's crop report, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration placed the crop loss nationwide at $7 billion.

Block also said that "I would not anticipate a PIK for feed grains next year" and predicted that many of this year's idled crop acres would be brought back into production in 1984.

Part of the decline from last year's bumper corn harvest is due to the Reagan administration's attempt to curb grain production this year with a payment-in-kind acreage program. Under PIK, farmers get free surplus commodities — wheat, corn, sorghum, rice and cotton — in return for cutting back on crop acres.

In July, before the drought's impact was known, department officials projected a 1983 corn harvest of 6.2 billion bushels, the reduction attributed to farmers cutting back under the PIK program.

Soybean production was estimated at 1.53 billion bushels, down 33 percent from the record 1982 harvest of 2.28 billion bushels — and 11 percent less than the August forecast of 1.84 billion bushels.

Corn is the most valuable farm crop in the United States and, along with other feed grains and soybeans, comprises the main feedstuffs for the production of meat, poultry and dairy products.

The corn estimate of 4.39 billion bushels points to a sharp decline in U.S. feed grain supplies in the coming year. If current USDA projections are borne out, the corn stockpile a year from now could be the smallest in eight years.

Currently, the department estimates that about 3.43 billion bushels of corn from previous crops will be on hand as of Oct. 1. With a new harvest of 4.39 billion bushels, the total corn supply for 1983-84 will be about 7.82 billion bushels.

The latest forecast calls for about 7.0 billion bushels of corn to be used in the coming season, including domestic use and exports. That would leave about 820 million bushels in the stockpile on Oct. 1, 1984.

According to USDA records, that would be the smallest carryover of corn at the start of a new marketing year since the stockpile was 400 million bushels on Oct. 1, 1976.

Overall, the department's Crop Reporting Board said, the situation as of Sept. 1 pointed to a total crop production this year of only 88 percent of the base year 1977, which is used for comparison. In 1982, overall U.S. crop output soared to a record 119 percent of the base.

Cotton production was estimated at 7.78 million bales, down 35 percent from last year's harvest of 12 million bales. The August forecast was 7.81 million bales.

The 1983 wheat crop, which has been mostly harvested, was estimated at 2.41 billion bushels, down 14 percent from last year's record of 2.81 billion bushels. Most of the wheat crop was ready for harvest before the full impact of the summer drought was felt.

According to the new production report, 1983 corn yields are expected to average 85.1 bushels per acre, compared to 114.8 last year.

Soybean yields, at 24.9 bushels per acre, compared to an average of 32.2 last year.

The average wheat yield for all types was estimated at 39.5 bushels per acre, compared to 35.6 in 1982.

Cotton yields were estimated at 501 pounds per acre against 590 last year.

Other crops included: —Oats, 472.5 million bushels and a yield of 52.2 bushels per acre, compared to 617 million and 58.4 last year.

—Barley, 531.7 million bushels and 53.7 per acre, compared to 522.4 million and 57.3 last year.

—Sorghum, 480 million bushels and 47.4 per acre, compared to 841.1 million and 59 last year.

—Rice, 103.9 million hundredweight and 4,627 pounds per acre, compared to 154.2 million and 4,742 pounds per acre last year.

—Peanuts, 2.9 billion pounds and a yield of 2,185 pounds per acre, compared to 3.44 billion pounds and 2,696 last year.

—Tobacco, 1.36 billion pounds and a yield of 1,709 pounds per acre, compared to 1.98 billion pounds and 2,183 last year.

St. Louis Teachers Back On Job, But Thousands Of Others Striking

By CYNTHIA GREEN
Associated Press Writer

Teacher strikes in five states disrupted classes for 109,000 students today, but the nation's largest walkout came to an end in St. Louis where instructors threatened with mass firings agreed to return to their classrooms.

More than 6,400 teachers were on strike in 21 school districts in Michigan, Illinois, Rhode Island, Washington and Pennsylvania.

In Los Angeles, where classes for 550,000 students were to begin today, the teachers union filed an unfair labor practices action against the city school board Monday.

Judy Solkovits, president of United Teachers of Los Angeles, called the board's approval of a 7.8 percent salary hike for teachers a "union-busting tactic."

The 16,000-member teachers' union, without a contract since July 1982, has demanded a 9.4 percent increase and did not agree to accept the raise granted by the school board.

More than 2,700 teachers in St. Louis agreed Monday to go back to work while negotiations between their union and school officials resume after a week-long break.

The four-day walkout by American Federation of Teachers Local 420 collapsed as school officials threatened to dismiss all 2,700 striking instructors and hire replacements to teach the district's 56,500 students.

St. Louis Superintendent Jerome B. Jones promised "there will be no reprisals" taken against teachers who struck over wages and class sizes.

Classes also were resuming today for 2,735 students in South Kingstown, R.I., after women clerks and aides, who had struck claiming their pay was discriminatory, ratified a new contract. The district's 190 teachers had refused to cross picket lines.

School officials in Pawtucket, R.I., where 8,700 students have been idled, were scheduled to appear in court today to seek an injunction forcing 640 teachers back to work. And a similar session was set for Warwick, R.I., officials, seeking an injunction against 1,000 teachers whose walkout has affected 12,400 pupils.

Strikes by 3,200 teachers in 12 Michigan school districts continued today, affecting 60,050 students. But schools were opening in several areas as settlements were reached in some districts and judges ordered strikers back to work in others.

Among those returning to work in Michigan today or Wednesday because of contract settlements were teachers in Dowagiac, Willow Run, Columbia and Menominee's County North Central district. Strikers in East Detroit, Beecher and Howell faced dismissal if they refuse to return to their jobs.

Two northern Illinois school districts, Grayslake District 127 and Blue Island District 130, were hit by strikes Monday, joining Crete-Monee District 201-U in wage-related walkouts. The three job actions by 530 teachers disrupted classes for 9,000 students.

The largest strike in Washington state ended Monday night, when 650 teachers ratified a one-year contract, returning 12,000 students to class today. But more than 900 teachers remained off the job in the Cheney, Clover Park and Stanwood districts, affecting 16,000 pupils.

Picketing continued for the fourth day Monday in the Pittsburgh suburb of East Allegheny, where 133 teachers in Pennsylvania's only strike kept 2,300 students out of classes.

Watt Defends Big Coal Sale

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Secretary James Watt says he is "defending the clear intent of Congress" by going ahead with a plan to lease 540 million tons of coal along the North Dakota-Montana border.

Watt has ignored the action of the House Interior Committee, which last month tried to halt the leasing by invoking a seldom-used emergency provision of a 1976 law which gives a single committee of Congress power to withdraw federal land from development for up to three years.

Watt defended his actions Monday in a 14-page letter to Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., chairman of the Interior Committee.

"This is not a confrontation between Interior and Congress — in fact, it is the opposite. We are defending the clear intent of the Congress against 27 members of one committee of one chamber," Watt said in a statement released with the letter.

Watt said the bids to lease the 22,000 acres of coal will be opened as planned Wednesday in Billings, Mont.

Other Interior Department officials said Monday that a lawsuit filed by the National Wildlife Federation and the Wilderness Society would not affect the sale. A federal judge last Friday refused to block the sale, but directed the department to give 15 days notice before any leases are actually awarded.

Interior officials said it would take about 60 days to conduct the review necessary to determine whether the bids match required fair market value for the coal reserves.

Watt has been heavily criticized for his ambitious program to lease up to 15 billion tons of coal by 1985.

Face A Fine If Carrying Moth

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Homeowners who move out of some gypsy moth-infested Northeastern states could be fined up to $1,000 if federal inspectors find evidence of the moths in their belongings.

In an effort to keep the foliage-destroying moths from spreading nationwide, the U.S. Department of Agriculture will require starting Oct. 3 that residents have such outdoor belongings as lawn furniture and bicycles inspected for gypsy moth eggs before they move.

Moving vans and packed autos will also be subject to random checks at weighing stations, tolls and rest stops.

The regulation applies to New Jersey and parts of the New England states, Pennsylvania, New York, Delaware and of Michigan.

MARIJUANA HAUL - Pitt Deputies Neil Elks, left, and Jamie Allen load part of the marijuana that was confiscated Monday morning off rural unpaved road 1278 west of Greenville. Sheriff Ralph Tyson said 13 plants, standing about 10 feet tall and valued at about $3,900, were seized from cleared plots near the railroad tracks off Stantonsburg Road. He said a locally owned private airplane assisted officers in searching for additional plants. Investigation continued today.

'Miss Texas' Says Cosmetic Surgery Changed Life

By ROBERT WADE
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Bigger breasts and a shapelier nose will outlast the fleeting glory of the Miss America pageant, says this year's Miss Texas, who underwent cosmetic surgery to fix her less-than-perfect features.

"The pageant is only around for one or two years of your life, but you've got to live with this forever," said Dana Rogers, a 22-year-old blonde from Boerne, Texas, after registration ceremonies on Monday. The new Miss America will be crowned Saturday night.

"Now I'm a perfect size 8, and I'm very happy," Miss Rogers said in acknowledging that she had undergone the surgery. Her bustline now measures 36 inches.

"Some women wear their padding on the outside. Mine is already there, on the inside," she said. Her operation was performed last year, after she finished as second-runner up in her state pageant.

Miss Rogers won the Miss Texas crown this year, but said the nose job and silicone implant had nothing to do with the pageant.

Miss Rogers said she was bothered particularly by the appearance of her nose and "I grew up wanting to change that all my life."

At 5-foot-9, she said her nose and small bust weren't the only things she thought she would like to change about herself.

"At one point I would have said my height, but now I'm always wearing high heels," she said.

June Mirike, executive director of the Miss Texas pageant, said that there are no rules barring cosmetic surgery for the entrants.

"There is nothing that says you can't do anything," she said, adding that such changes occur "probably more often than anybody knows."

Miss Rogers currently is a senior at Texas Wesleyan College, where she is studying communications.

"Dana probably told you she thinks it helps her. If it helps her psychologically, then why not?" said Ms. Mirike.

The reigning Miss America, Debra Sue Maffett, 26, of Anaheim, Calif., had nose surgery for a deviated septum, a disorder that runs in her family.

State pageant officials from Texas first said that Miss Maffett had her "nose done." They said Miss Maffett's surgery was performed after she lost in the 1978, 1979 and 1980 Miss Texas pageants, and before she went to California to try again.

"Debbie has had extensive cosmetic surgery since she last tried our pageant," Gary Jordan, the former executive director of the Miss Texas contest, was quoted as saying after last year's finals.

"She had her nose done, her chin and I'm not sure what else."

Miss Maffett called Jordan's comments "sour grapes," because she went on to win the Miss America crown from California.

Other contestants said they saw nothing wrong with cosmetic surgery.

"I think if they want to do something like that, I think it's wonderful to improve yourself," said Miss Georgia, Tammy Fulwider, 24, of Columbus.

Plan Checkups On Fair Rides

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The amusement rides at the North Carolina State Fair will be inspected by the North Carolina Department of Labor before the midway opens and also during the fair's nine-day run. The N.C. Department of Labor's Elevator and Amusement Device Division will inspect the more than 50 rides at the fair, which is scheduled to open Oct. 14, officials said.

Each ride will be re-inspected daily before the fair opens.

Expulsions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says two Soviet diplomats were expelled from the United States last month for alleged spying. The action was revealed only after a U.S. diplomat was sent home from Leningrad on similar charges.

The decision to announce the expulsions of the Soviet diplomats was made because the Soviets ordered U.S. diplomat Lon David Augustenborg to leave the Soviet Union, said a State Department official who spoke on the condition that he not be identified.

Augustenborg was vice consul at the U.S. consulate in Leningrad. His wife, Denise, also was declared persona non grata.

State Department spokesman Alan Romberg said the United States is "vigorously protesting the physical mistreatment" of Augustenborg. He refused to elaborate on the alleged mistreatment.

The two Soviets were identified as Yuri Petrovich Leonov, an assistant air attache at the embassy here, and Anatoly Yevgenyevich Skripko, another embassy attache.

Both were expelled for "for engaging in espionage," Romberg said. Skripko was declared persona non grata on Aug. 17. The action against Leonov followed two days later.

U.S. officials said Skripko was caught handing money to an undercover FBI agent after Skripko received a classified document. Leonov was said to have been apprehended carrying a briefcase containing classified documents.

One official said Leonov attempted in September 1981 to obtain information on MX missile deployment plans from Rep. David F. Emery, R-Maine. The official said Leonov left the United States temporarily after the Emery incident but later returned.

San Diego Runs By Chiefs, 17-14

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Don Coryell finally discovered a defense capable of clipping

the wings of San Diego's high-flying passing game — his own.

And so the Chargers ran for 191 yards on a surprised Kansas City Monday night before finally emerging — thanks to a patented Dan Fouts-led drive — with a 17-14

National Football League victory.

Almost as satisfying as the final score to Coryell was the fact that the Chiefs ran off just 51 plays on offense.

"We just couldn't have our defense on the field for 82 plays like we did last week against the New York Jets," Coryell said. Despite rolling up almost 500 yards in total offense against the Jets the week before in the season opener, the Chargers came up on the short end of a 41-29 count because their defense was unable to keep up with the break-neck pace.

"As we've been saying, our defense is young and inexperienced, but they're talented and aggressive and they're just going to get better and better," Coryell said. "We just decided we had to keep the defense off the field, so we decided we were going to have to run more. If we hadn't been able to run, we naturally would have gone back to the pass."

But the Chargers ran with abandon. James Brooks carried 23 times for 86 yards and Chuck Muncie picked up 110 yards on 27 carries.

Fittingly, the game was decided when Fouts unsheathed his passing arm on a five-play, 80-yard drive capped by a 12-yard touchdown pass to Wes Chandler with 1:45 to play.

"At that point, I didn't care how quickly we scored," Coryell laughed. "I just wanted to score."

It was a bitter loss for the Chiefs, who were sky-high with their first Monday night national TV appearance in six years and encouraged by a season-opening victory the week before against Seattle.

"We held them to 17 points, and that's not a lot for San Diego," said cornerback Gary Green. "But we just let them run right at us in the second half. They live and die with the pass. We'd shut off any run they've attempted in the past, but today was different. That's what's so disappointing."

Two great defensive stands by the Chiefs were quickly followed by two touchdowns. After Rolfe Benirschke kicked a 51-yard first quarter field goal, the Chiefs stopped Brooks for no gain on fourth-and-inches from the Chiefs' 3-yard line. Bill Kenney then went to work moving the Chiefs downfield, and put Kansas City on top 7-3 with a 45-yard touchdown strike to Anthony Hancock.

Muncie's 10-yard run restored the Chargers to a 10-7 lead with 8:26 elapsed in the third period and the Chargers were driving for what figured to be the clinching touchdown when Muncie fumbled and Green recovered in the end zone.

Moments later, Kenney laterelled to wide receiver Carlos Carson, who threw a 48-yard touchdown pass to Henry Marshall, dragging safety Tim Fox the final five yards into the end zone.

All the talk about the Chargers' weak defense had not set well with Fox and his teammates, said the veteran safety.

"If not for two plays, we would have had a shutout," he said. Coryell's plan to keep the defense off the field made sense, he added.

"Obviously, it helped a lot," he said. "When we get in shootout matches we have trouble stopping teams because it's like one long two-minute drill. Some teams will go up and down the field for four quarters til they get in that last two minutes, and that will be the only time they move the ball. And when teams play us and we put so many points on the board, that's what happens to us a lot. It's just the nature of the game. But today, we ran the ball a lot. In turn, they ran the ball a lot. So it wasn't one of those shootouts and our defense played like any other defense. And we played pretty well."

Benirschke's field goal was the 100th of his career, qualifying him for ranking among NFL career kickers and shot him to the top of the list. He missed a field goal later in the game, but his career percentage of 72.9 jumped him ahead of Toni Fritsch's 67.97.

Dallas Treats St. Louis Legend Roughly; Hart Ponders Career

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Jim Hart's name is sprinkled throughout the National Football League record books, usually in the company of Johnny Unitas and Fran Tarkenton, two other quarterbacks accorded deification by their legions of coast-to-coast fans.

But outside St. Louis, Hart is little more than another name on a roster, this despite 18 seasons in this business, more than 5,000 passes, more than 2,500 completions, more than 30,000 yards...

"I don't put myself in their category," Hart said, "even though the numbers are there. It's obvious you need to win championships to get the national recognition, the exposure, and we've not done that. Or if you don't do that, then you've got to be at least a little controversial, and I'm not that. I don't lament my situation at all. It's been a fun time."

It wasn't fun Sunday. The Dallas Cowboys were in his face all day. Five sacks. Four interceptions. A 10-0 lead vanished before halftime and became a 34-17 loss. The locker room was a tomb.

"It's times like this that I wonder why I'm still around," Hart said, slouching at his locker. "This isn't any fun. No, let me temper that. It's fun out there. This atmosphere in here, it stinks."

Even getting buried in his own backfield has its enjoyable moments, he said. "You don't necessarily look at it that way at the time, but when you look back it later..."

He paused. "It's fun. It's fun to get knocked down every once in a while. I'd just as soon the ball be gone when I'm hit. That's the fun of it, when you throw the ball and get knocked down and the guy looks at you and wonders where the ball is and you kind of smile and say, 'Gone,' and you hear him mutter an expletive. That's when you get a little smile on your face and say, 'This is fun.'

"But right now it's tough to look any farther than this game. All the other things — the numbers — they're all kind of hollow at this point. All I can do is shrug my shoulders when someone asks me about the records and say, 'That's great,' but it doesn't do much to ease my soul right now."

"When you come in here and go through the gloom of another loss, you wonder if it's all worth it." It sounded as though he was thinking about calling it quits. Was he? "Now that sounds like one of those things where if I say 'no' you won't believe me and if I say

'yes' it's admitting it," he replied. "I won't say that that hasn't happened."

It's been a while since Hart and the Cardinals were flying high. That was in the mid-1970s, when Don Coryell was the coach. But he became disenchanted with the midwest and with the front-office meddling and quit after the 1977 season. Since 1978 Coryell has been San Diego's head coach.

When he was the boss in St. Louis, Hart said, the team invariably found itself behind going into the fourth quarter — but absolutely certain that it was going to win. The players knew someone would come up with the Big Play.

"We need to become believers in ourselves again," he said. "We need to get that feeling we used to have, rather than the feeling that can develop — and I'm not saying it's prevalent now, but it can happen when you start losing too many games — where guys start worrying to themselves, 'What's going to go wrong next?'"

That's how the Cards appeared to play Sunday. They were up by 10 points less than 13 minutes into the game and were within a whisker of making it 17-0, if only Hart had connected on a long pass.

The veteran quarterback shrugged. "It's like that old Don Meredith line," he said. "If ifs and buts were candy and nuts, we'd have a heck of a Christmas."

Thompson Selected For Tampa Bay Slot

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Tampa Bay Coach John McKay, searching for answers to the Buccaneers' offensive woes, says Jack Thompson will take over the National Football League club's No. 1 quarterback job next Sunday against the Minnesota Vikings.

McKay said Monday that Thompson, acquired in an off-season trade from Cincinnati in exchange for the Bucs' top draft choice in 1984, will replace Jerry Golsteyn in the lineup.

The Bucs' coach didn't place the blame for the club's 0-2 start on Golsteyn's shoulders, but did talk about the fifth-year pro's inability to hit open receivers when afforded adequate pass protection during Sunday's 17-10 loss to the Chicago Bears.

McKay also was critical of a fourth-quarter interception that Chicago's Terry Schmidt returned 32 yards for the decisive touchdown.

"He just shouldn't have thrown the ball there at all," said McKay, adding that game films showed Golsteyn wasn't under intense pressure from the Bears' pass rush.

"He was under a little bit of pressure, but not enough to throw that kind of pass," he added. "He should have been able to get to another man (receiver) or throw the ball away."

Thompson, who replaced Golsteyn in the second half of an 11-0 season-opening loss to Detroit Sept. 4, didn't play Sunday.

McKay has referred to his quarterbacks to date as No. 1a and No. 1b, at times suggesting he would be comfortable with a two-quarterback system.

The coach indicated Monday, however, that the idea of flip-flopping quarterbacks is out. "I don't intend to do that. Jackie Thompson is my starting quarterback," he said.

A start against the Vikings would be Thompson's first since 1980 when he started four games for the Bengals.

McKay said that for the second week in a row he felt the Bucs' defense had played well enough to win.

"We haven't generated enough offense or played consistently enough to win in the National Football League, though," he said.

McKay said injuries on the offensive line have been a problem, but emphasized the play of the entire unit has to improve to turn things around. Outlaws in January.

Crump Out For Surgery

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Reserve defensive end George Crump of the New England Patriots will be out of action for up to eight weeks after undergoing arthroscopic surgery Monday to remove bone chips in his left knee, club spokesman Tom Hoffman said.

Crump, a former East Carolina player who was a fourth-round draft choice of the Patriots last year, was slated to replace Kenneth Sims, who broke a leg during training camp.

Hoffman said said it would be at least another two weeks before Sims is allowed to begin workouts.

Twitty Signs With Outlaws

Former East Carolina linebacker Amos Twitty has signed a contract to play with the Oklahoma Outlaws, one of the new teams for 1984 in the United States Football League.

Twitty, a 6-1, 220-pounder from Heath Springs, S.C., made the squad recently following a tryout in Columbia, S.C. He was the only linebacker selected from more than 20 hopefuls, while only eight players from the 200-plus who tried out, inked contracts with the team to be coached by Sid Gilman.

Twitty, who transferred to ECU from Chowan Junior College, had a fine senior season for the Pirates in 1982, collecting 71 tackles.

He is to report to the Outlaws in January.

Nebraska Tightens Hold On Poll Lead

By The Associated Press
Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas remained 1-2-3 today in the Associated Press college football poll, while Notre Dame moved into fourth place and Penn State's winless defending national champions dropped out of the Top Twenty for the first time since 1979.

In addition, Arizona climbed from 11th place to seventh, its highest ranking ever and only the second time the Wildcats have cracked the Top Ten since the AP poll began in 1936. Arizona did not appear in the Top Twenty from 1976 through last season.

Nebraska, which crushed Wyoming 56-20, received 51 of 56 first-place votes and 1,114 of a possible 1,120 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Oklahoma, which opened its season with a 27-14 victory over Stanford, received two first-place votes and 1,034 points, while Texas, which gets under way this Saturday at Auburn, received two first-place ballots and 964 points.

Notre Dame's 52-6 rout of Purdue enabled the Irish to move up from fifth to fourth with 909 points. They passed Auburn, which slipped from fourth to fifth with 903 points despite a 24-3 triumph over Southern Mississippi. The Tigers also received the remaining first-place vote.

Ohio State, a 31-6 winner over Oregon, moved up from seventh to sixth with 756 points, followed by Arizona with 667 points. The Wildcats trounced Utah 38-0.

Michigan, which was hard-pressed to beat Washington State 20-17, slipped from sixth to eighth with 624 points. Rounding out the Top Ten are Florida State with 623 points and North Carolina with 622. Florida State jumped from 12th to ninth with a 40-35 victory over LSU, while North Carolina, which defeated Memphis State 24-10, fell from eighth to 10th.

The Second Ten consists of Georgia, Alabama, Iowa, Southern Cal, Florida, Washington, Maryland, Southern Methodist, Pittsburgh and West Virginia.

Williams Wins First Contest

David Lee Williams of 207 Crown Point Rd., Greenville, is the winner of The Daily Reflector's first weekly Football Contest.

Williams correctly picked the winners in 25 of the 32 games listed in last Tuesday's contest section. His victory came on the basis of his point total pick, however, with a guess of 80. A total of 76 was actually the highest total of points scored in a single contest game.

Second place went to John Dunn of P.O. Box 417, Winterville, who also picked 25 correct winners. His guess of 59, however, was further off the actual total.

The second of the weekly contests appears in today's Reflector.

Australia Begins Quest To Seize Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Is Australia II the breakthrough boat that will seize the America's Cup that has been U.S. property since before the Civil War?

Does the more traditional Liberty have enough all-around strengths to stave off one of the strongest challenges to America's 132-year dominance?

After a summer filled with competition and controversy, the first few moments of today's opening race of the best-of-seven final series may answer those questions.

"It would be interesting for the first 10 minutes" to see which boat has the edge, says Liberty skipper Dennis Conner.

"Give us 20 to 30 minutes with average wind and you'll know pretty quickly if someone is getting blown out of the water," says Warren Jones, executive director of the Australia II syndicate.

Since trials to determine the two finalists began June 18, Liberty raced 50 times, compiling a 34-16 record, and Australia II, in 54 races, amassed a 48-6 mark.

But they've never measured their relative strengths in the same race, making the beginning of today's battle especially revealing.

Australia II, an exceptionally maneuverable boat skippered by John Bertrand, won most of its starts during the foreign trials and excelled on the first, fourth and sixth legs, which go upwind. Its crew was happy to stay even going downwind on the second, third and fifth legs of the six legs of the races over a triangular 24.3-mile course on Rhode Island Sound.

Moderate northeast winds of about 15 knots and scattered showers were predicted for Rhode Island Sound today. The winds were expected to pick up Wednesday.

Australia II, a light 12-meter yacht with a radical winged keel, performs best in moderate winds. A stronger breeze would favor the longer and heavier Liberty.

Both sides contend, however, that they can do well in all winds.

"We are born and bred in 25 knots," Jones said Monday. "As kids we all learn to bail boats out because we spend most of our time upside down."

Liberty sail trimmer John Marshall said that boat was chosen over stablemate Freedom because while Freedom may be "the best 12-meter in the world in strong winds," Liberty does better over a wide range of wind speeds.

He said that in recent practices in heavy winds, Liberty beat Freedom, the 1980 Cup winner under Conner's helmsmanship.

The two finalists spent the past week practicing. Liberty was chosen Sept. 2 over Courageous to defend the Cup. Defender was eliminated earlier.

U.S. vessels have won the previous 25 matches in the series.

Australia II got the nod Sept. 5 with a 4-1 triumph over Victory '83 of Great Britain in a best-of-seven series that capped foreign trials that began with seven boats.

Neither finalist practiced Monday. Instead, crews sanded hulls, prepared sails and went over final details. Conner played golf.

Conner planned to use the instruments and at least two sails from Courageous.

"We have not been really happy with the instruments" Liberty used in the trials, Marshall said. "So we're using Courageous' instrument package. That's been a big improvement for us."

Several thousand spectator boats were expected to ring the course and could kick up a swell that would tend to hurt Australia II more than Liberty.

"I'm sure their keel is going to work very well in certain conditions," Liberty designer Johan Valentijn said Monday. "It's going to limit them very much downwind and in any kind of a chop."

He said that after seeing the keel Friday night during Australia II's required reinspection he became more confident of his boat's chances.

But Liberty navigator Halsey C. Herreshoff said Monday, "I've been in three previous Cup race series and I've always had utter confidence at this stage."

"This year, I have not the same feeling. I have the feeling that we're doing the right things but the outcome is not by any means certain."

He claimed that the innovative keel was a "trick" that should not be permitted.

The Aussies downplayed the accusation, and syndicate head Alan Bond, whose boats have won just one of 13 races in the last three Cup challenges, exuded confidence that he would fulfill his "magnificent obsession" with breaking America's stranglehold on the Cup.

On virtually the eve of the showdown with Australia II, Herreshoff clung to his contention that the keel, is a "peculiarity" under international 12-meter rules.

"I've felt right along...that we've had this summer a whole lot of oranges out there (during trials to determine the two finalists) and one apple. I won't say it's a rotten apple but at least it's a difference," he added. "There may be a little worm in there somewhere."

The New York Yacht Club had protested to the International Yacht Racing Union that the keel made Australia II more than a 12-meter under a complex formula that considers several boat measurements. It later dropped that challenge.

In a memo as part of that effort, Herreshoff wrote that if the Australians are allowed to use their keel without being penalized they "will likely win the America's Cup in September 1983" and become the first foreign boat to capture the prize.

Jones said he didn't think Herreshoff really believed the comments he made Monday.

Bond was optimistic at a ceremony Monday in which an Australian bank official presented him with a gold-plated wrench with which to free the Cup from its perch at the New York Yacht Club.

"We're not quite sure if we have to hit them over the head with it or use it to unbolt the Cup but whatever has to be done will be done," Bond said, raising the shiny tool high above his head.

The keel has been covered by plastic whenever Australia II has been hoisted out of the water. Bond was asked when the keel would be revealed.

"My answer to that is, when will a lady drop her skirt?" he said. "We'll present to the world the keel the same time the Cup is presented to us."

Ticket Sales Running Brisk

Ticket sales have been very brisk for East Carolina University's opening game Saturday night at 7 p.m. against Murray State.

The ticket office at ECU reported Tuesday morning that Monday sales kept them "covered up" throughout the day.

"In my six years as ticket manager, I've never seen a Monday like yesterday," said Brenda Edwards. "The phones were just unreal in addition to the window business."

More season tickets have already been sold for the 1983 home season than were sold during any of the last three seasons.

Students sitting in groups have their pickup on Monday and more groups picked up yesterday than any year previous for a single game. The regular student pickup began today and lines were waiting for the ticket office to open at 8 a.m.

East Carolina defeated N.C. State, 22-16, last weekend and was edged by Top Ten team Florida State, 47-46, in the season opener.

"It looks as if we are going to have a very large attendance for Saturday night," added Edwards. "I would suggest fans buy their tickets as soon as possible this week."

The economy plan, five season tickets purchased together in a special section for half price, remains on sale until game time Saturday night. After that time, all seats are $10.

Sloan, Devils Hope For Gamecock Feast

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Duke football coach Steve Sloan acknowledges his winless team is hungry for a victory, but says Saturday's matchup with South Carolina may be the toughest so far.

Sloan said at his weekly news conference Monday that the Gamecocks have "the biggest personnel" Duke will have faced.

"It will also be the first time that we have seen the veer offense, which will give us a number of problems," said first-year coach Sloan, whose Blue Devils are coming off a 15-10 loss to Indiana.

South Carolina defeated Miami of Ohio 24-3 Saturday to even its record at 1-1 after losing to North Carolina 24-8 in its season-opener.

"We need to get a win going into the open date," Sloan said. The Blue Devils take the week off following the South Carolina game.

Duke had its problems against the Hoosiers. Two drives were stopped by fumbles and the Blue Devils were hit with 81 yards in penalties.

"We must keep trying to improve. We must correct penalties," Sloan said. "We had the ball 11 minutes in the third quarter and came away with no points."

"We will be working a great deal this week on scoring when we get within the scoring zone," Sloan said. "We seem to stop ourselves. We are getting all types of defensive fronts and as many different things as I have seen in football.

"We have seen, and will see, a lot of different defenses to try to stop our passing game," he said.

Sloan said the season is still early, and his team can rebound.

"Sometimes Duke gets off to a good start and doesn't play well down the stretch," he said. "We are taking the approach that now that we have gotten off to a poor start we will have to finish strong."

Duke quarterback Ben Bennett on Saturday became only the 16th player in NCAA history to pass for over 7,000 yards. Bennett, who hit on 27 of 40 passes for 290 yards against the Hoosiers, now has 7,071 yards and is 15th on the NCAA Division I career passing list.

Allison Ups Lead

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Bobby Allison has benefited from a second straight victory to increase his lead over Darrell Waltrip to 71 points in the NASCAR Winston Cup Grand National standings.

Allison has accumulated 3,548 points to Waltrip's 3,477, following his victory Sunday in the Wrangler 400 at Richmond, Va.

In third place is Bill Elliott with 3,193 points. Richard Petty, 3,174, is fourth and Harry Gant, 3,106, is fifth.

Rounding out the top 10 are Neil Bonnett, 2,987; Terry Labonte, 2,937; Dale Earnhardt, 2,857; Ricky Rudd, 2,774, and Joe Ruttman, 2,657.

Waltrip continues to lead the stock-car circuit in money winnings with $499,201, while Allison is second with $477,750.

Other top money winners are Earnhardt ($324,701); Petty ($299,870); Gant ($298,910); Bonnett ($279,220); Elliott ($253,245); Cale Yarborough ($245,050); Dave Marcis ($219,395); and Morgan Shephard ($184,700).

Martina Is Becoming Sports' Golden Girl

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Martina Navratilova is truly the "Golden Girl" of sports — with the emphasis on the gold. She has the combination to the underground vaults at Fort Knox. Call her "Miss Moneybags."

"She is perhaps the most marketable woman in sports, as well as in other areas such as movies and TV," says Peter Johnson, vice president of Racquet Sports for the sprawling International Management Group in Cleveland.

"I think she would compare favorably with the top men in tennis in commercial value — about even with John McEnroe, Jimmy Connors, and Ivan Lendl and a little back of Bjorn Borg and Mats Wilander. If they surpass her, it's in exhibitions of which Martina does very few."

A tall young man in a black striped suit, Johnson was at Martina's side Monday when she appeared at a fashionable New York restaurant to announce a new five-year contract with Puma for endorsement of shoes and other tennis wearing apparel.

Johnson declined to disclose the financial figures but others close to negotiations said it would approximate $2.5 million for five years, $500,000 a year, including bonus and incentive clauses. By 1985 she will have her own "MN" logo on the equipment.

Instead of spending the U.S. Open aftermath gorging herself on pheasant under glass and champagne, Navratilova has been traipsing around town picking up money in large bundles. She collected $144,000 for winning both ladies' singles and doubles (with Pam Shriver) at Flushing Meadow. Monday it was the Puma deal and today she added the $500,000 bonus from the Playtex Challenge for winning three events on three different surfaces in 1982 — Family Circle on clay, Women's Indoor on carpet and Wimbledon on grass.

Only failure to win the U.S. Open a year ago on hard court prevented her from making a cool $1 million bonanza. As it was, her stash for four days was $1,144,000.

Endorsement money is not counted in official prize money. For the year, Martina's tournament prize winnings alone have amounted to $1,185,697, giving her a career total of $6,113,756, both categories exceeding that of any male player.

Lendl, victim of Connors in Sunday's final, is the year's leading money for men with $1,144,878. McEnroe has won $585,981 and Connors $322,8478. Connors is the men's career money leader with $5,003,402 with McEnroe and Lendl farther back in the $4.6 million range.

"Excluding exhibitions, Martina is on the level with most of the top men in endorsements as well as prize money," said Johnson, who also handles golfer Nancy Lopez and the Boston Red Sox Jim Rice, among others.

Martina receives about $400,000 a year for playing the Yonex racket under a Japanese contract which also includes bonus clauses. McEnroe not long ago signed a $600,000-a-year deal for five years to play the Dunlop racket.

McEnroe is reported to make an additional $1.3 million a year for tennis endorsement and around $500,000 for non-tennis related tennis items (Bic razors, Omega watches, an Australian dairy, an Italian soft drink and Toyota of Japan).

But John doesn't get anything for wearing slinky silk blouses as does Martina, featured in full-page color by Royal Silk Ltd. in Vogue, Glamour, Ms. and New York Times magazines.

It's a six-figure contract.

"Our sales have picked up about 200 per cent since we started using Martina in our ads," said Gerald R. Pike, Royal Silk's vice president in charge of public relations.

"It's great to show that a fine athlete can be so feminine."

Martina has more modest contracts with seven different companies in Japan to promote the sale of handkerchiefs, towels, hats, aprons and other accessories, all bearing her logo.

"They love her in Japan," said Johnson.

Collard Festival Champs

Festival Golf Tournament at the Ayden Golf and Country Club. Presenting the award to Clark is Sherry Forrest, the 1983 Collard Festival Queen.

Ward, Clark Winners

AYDEN — Jim Ward and Billy Clark captured the championship of the Fifth Annual Ayden Collard Festival Golf Tournament, played this past weekend at Ayden Golf and Country Club.

Ward and Clark combined for a 128 in the tournament which drew 240 players in the two-man Superball event.

Second place went to Dallas Jackson and Tom Boyd with a 130, while Doug Cross and Mike Spickett finished third after a playoff, having carded a 130 also.

In the first flight, the title went to Pete Beaman and Scott Nichols with a 133. They won a three-way playoff with Tom Riley and Thomas Riley, who finished second, and Dean Wingate and Jeff Wingate, who ended up third.

G. Coley and S. Briggs took the second flight with a 135, followed by Doug and Mitty Wingate at 136, and Danny and Tommy Turrentine at 137.

The third flight was won by Jimmy Walls and Boyce Barwick with a 135, followed by T. Hamilton and R. Mintz at 137. Steve DeLuca and Larry Chappell finished third, also carding a 137.

Shelton Everette and Adrian Waters won the fourth flight with a 138. They were followed by J.C. Bright and Al Portella at 142 and Gene Hemby and Mike Woodard, also at 142.

J. Broadway and Woody Holloman took the title in the fifth flight with a 144, trailed by Joe Johnson and Al Piland in second and Tommy Cooke and Tim Shadle in third, also with 144's.

Joe Whaley and J.T. Price took the sixth flight, with Cecil Hinnant and Warren Kinlaw finishing second and E. Wright and C. Zucker finishing third. All three had 148 at the end of regulation play.

The seventh flight was won by J. Davis and Chuck Riggs. W.T. Hill and W. Garrett were second and L. Smith and E. Sterner were third. Again, all three finished regulation tied, with 150's.

Playoffs were held for first place ties, with blind draws for card comparisons for other ties.

McIntosh Honored

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina State tailback Joe McIntosh and Maryland offensive guard Ron Solt were named Atlantic Coast Conference football players of the week for their performances last Saturday.

Earlier, linebackers Vaughn Johnson of N.C. State and Eric Wilson of Maryland were selected as ACC defensive players of the week. The selections were made by a special committee of the Atlantic Coast Conference Sportswriters Association.

McIntosh, a 5-foot-10, 186-pound junior from Lexington, N.C., rushed for 160 yards on 21 carries in the Wolfpack's 22-16 loss to East Carolina. He also caught one pass for 20 yards.

Two of McIntosh's runs — for 41 and 35 yards — set up N.C. State field goals.

"Joe played very well the entire game," said coach Tom Reed.

Denny Huris Phils To Lead

By The Associated Press
If not for John Denny, Philadelphia Phillies Manager Paul Owens thinks his team "would be planning for next year" by now.

As it is, the Phillies are in first place in the National League East after Monday night's 2-1 victory over the New York Mets behind Denny's strong pitching.

Denny pitched three-hit ball for eight innings and won his 15th game with Al Holland's relief help. The victory, combined with Montreal's 8-0 loss to Chicago, vaulted the Phillies into first place in the East by a half-game over the Expos.

"He's been so consistent," said Philadelphia first baseman Pete Rose of Denny. "I don't remember him having a bad game. Even when his arm was bothering him he gave a good effort."

"He had a good sinker and curve tonight, kept the hitters off stride. And he helps himself. He bunts, fields his position."

In the only other NL action

Monday night, the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 7-5.

Denny, 15-6, struck out eight and walked two in eight innings before Holland pitched the ninth for his 19th save.

The Phillies scored both their runs in the third, on an RBI single by Von Hayes and a bases-loaded walk to Greg Gross by Mets starter Ron Darling, 0-2.

Denny, who had given up only one hit through the first four innings, was reached for a leadoff home run in the fifth by Darryl Strawberry. It was the 24th for the rookie outfielder and his 66th RBI in 108 games. It also extended his hitting streak to 10 games.

Owens said he went to Holland for the ninth inning because Denny told the manager he had had enough.

"He (Denny) has always been honest. He tells you when he's tired. He pitched his heart out in the eighth, and I had Holland well rested," said Owens. "That's what he (Holland) is there for and he did it."

Cubs 8, Expos 0

In Chicago, Dick Ruthven pitched a four-hitter and Keith Moreland drove in two runs and had two key hits in a seven-run sixth inning as the Cubs beat Montreal.

Ruthven, 12-11, struck out four and walked none to record his fourth complete game and snap a personal three-game losing streak against the Expos. Montreal's Steve Rogers, 17-10, took the loss, his first against Chicago, in five decisions.

Moreland drove in Chicago's first run in the third with a grounder. Moreland triggered the seven-run sixth with a double and capped it with an RBI single.

"Hitting is contagious and I'll tell you this much — you won't see Steve Rogers in that situation often," said Moreland. "Rogers is one of the best you're going to face and you need some breaks to beat him."

"There were a couple of bad hops, and once he (Rogers) was gone, we just kept on beating the ball."

Pirates 7, Cardinals 5

In Pittsburgh, Brian Harper hit a two-run pinch single in the sixth as the Pirates rallied from a three-run deficit to defeat St. Louis.

The Cardinals had taken a 3-0 lead in the first, ending the 28-inning consecutive scoreless streak of Lee Tunnell, 9-5, on an RBI single by George Hendrick and Ken Oberkell's two-run single. But the Pirates came back for a tie in the fourth on singles by Bill Madlock and Mike Easler, an RBI double by Tony Pena and Dale Berra's two-out, two-run double.

The Pirates made it 5-3 in the fifth, chasing loser Danny Cox, 2-4, on Madlock's RBI single and Dave Parker's sacrifice fly. After the Cardinals scored in the top of the sixth, the Pirates put the game away with Harper's two-run base hit in the bottom of the inning.

Wilcox Holds Off Indians For 5-1 Win

DETROIT (AP) — He's a far cry from the Milt Wilcox who came within one out of a perfect game back in April, to be sure.

However, the stocky right-hander clearly has regained some of his old form since coming off the disabled list Aug. 1 and could be a valuable member of Detroit's starting rotation down the stretch.

Wilcox, 9-10, allowed nine hits Monday night and managed to pull out a 5-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians. It was the first triumph in three starts since recovering from a sore shoulder for Wilcox, who had not won since June 12.

"I think this can help us," Wilcox said. "You know, Jack Morris and Dan Petry have been our big horses and they're still the ones who are going to have to get us there. But, I hope now I'm in a groove, too. It's been a long time since I've won."

The victory was Detroit's fourth in a row and pulled the second-place Tigers within five games of the Baltimore Orioles in the American League East. The Orioles were rained out in Boston.

New York nipped Milwaukee 1-0 in the only other AL game Monday.

The Tigers were aided by Bert Blyleven's wildness. The Indians right-hander hit three batters and threw a wild pitch while giving up nine hits and four runs in the 4 2-3 innings he worked.

"I couldn't get my breaking ball over consistently," said Blyleven, 7-10, who was making his third start since coming down with a sore shoulder Aug. 7. "I'm just getting the feel of it. I had bad control."

The Tigers spotted the Indians a 1-0 lead in the fourth when Andre Thornton singled, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on Ron Hassey's single.

Detroit rallied for three runs in its half of the fourth. Enos Cabell led off with a single and went to third on Chet Lemon's single. Lemon went to second on a passed ball and Rick Leach singled home both runners.

Wayne Krenchicki also singled, putting runners on first and third, and Leach then scored on Lou Whitaker's hard liner that went off second baseman Mike Fischlin's glove for an error.

Cabell doubled in the fifth and scored when Blyleven hit Lemon with a pitch, walked Leach and hit Krenchicki. Lance Parrish singled home a run in the sixth off Dan Spillner.

Yankees 1, Brewers 0
Rookie Ray Fontenot and relievers George Frazier and Rich Gossage combined on a four-hitter, and Willie Randolph's RBI single in the fifth inning accounted for the game's only run.

Fontenot, 7-2, gave up three hits in six innings. Gossage got the final three outs for his 20th save.

Randolph's hit, which was his first game-winning RBI of the season, came off rookie Chuck Porter, 6-8, who gave up six hits in pitching a complete game.

Eleven Conferences To Use Shot Clock

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Eleven Division I basketball conferences, including the Atlantic Coast Conference and the Sun Belt, have been granted permission to use a 45-second shot clock next season, the NCAA announced Monday.

The basketball rules committee, reversing an earlier stance to limit experimentation to two conferences, endorsed all applications for a clock from qualified conferences.

The ACC, Sun Belt and seven other conferences will use a 45-second clock turned off in the last four minutes of a game. The Big Sky and ECAC North Atlantic will use a 45-second clock left on the entire game.

In addition to the ACC and Sun Belt, other conferences using the clock turned off at the four-minute point will be The Big East, Southeastern, Southwest Athletic, Atlantic 10, Ohio Valley, Pacific Coast Athletic Association and Southland. Four conferences — the SEC, Metro Atlantic, Southland and Southwest Athletic — will use a coaches' box.

Support for the shot clock is growing, according to a survey conducted last season by Ed Steitz, secretary-rules editor of the committee. However, coaches still voted against the clock 352-342. Division I coaches voted 160-148 in favor of a clock. The overall margin was narrower than a 226-168 no vote the previous season.

Last season, the committee allowed eight Division I conferences to use a clock, with several different times. Nine conferences used a three-point goal, with varying distances.

Pryor Looks To Mancini

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer

A master plan seems to be in the works for Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini, the popular, out-going World Boxing Association lightweight champion.

But the best laid plans ... At the heart of the plan is Aaron Pryor, the whirlwind WBA junior welterweight champion.

After pounding the great Alexis Arguello into retirement with 10-round knockout last Friday night at Las Vegas, Nev., the Hawk said, "It's Boom Boom time."

He also said numerous times before and after the fight that he would retire if he doesn't get a fight against Mancini. Sure.

Before he fights relatively-obscure Orlando Romero of Peru Thursday night in the Garden, Mancini talked about fighting Pryor.

But fighters only talk about fights and fight them. Promoters and managers make them.

No promoter would turn down a Mancini-Pryor fight. Mancini's manager Dave Wolf knows this. He also knows that when it comes to lucrative fights, Pryor needs Mancini a lot more than Mancini needs him.

Wolf also feels that Mancini also could make big money defending against either Howard Davis or Hector "Macho" Camacho, the WBC super featherweight champion.

"The first fight for 1984 is Camacho, Davis or Pryor. The first one would be the one that brings the best offer," said Wolf. "If we are successful in the first fight, then the other two become more valuable. We could have the first one in the spring, then one in the fall."

But Mancini will have win two, possibly three fights before the plan can be implemented.

The 22-year-old Mancini should get past Romero, whose reputation is that of boxer rather than a puncher and whose opposition has not been generally first-rate.

If he beats Romero, he will sign to fight Bobby Chacon, the former WBC featherweight and super featherweight champion. Mancini should be too strong and fast for Chacon, a slambang fighter, who might have had one too many wars in a career dating back to 1972.

Then there is the possibility that Mancini could open 1984 with a fight in South Africa in February against South African Aladdin Stevens for which, according to Wolf, promoter Bob Arum had made a good offer.

St. Louis Cardinal Ozzie Smith is tripped up by hard sliding Pirate Brian Harper after making the put out at second during the sixth inning of Monday's game in Pittsburgh. DUNKEL COLLEGE FOOTBALL INDEX

EXPLANATION - The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

Brynner Marks 4,000 Appearances In Show

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was an evening fit for a king, and Yul Brynner enjoyed himself greatly at the celebration of his 4,000th performance in "The King and I."

The champagne feast took place Monday night at the stylish Le Dome restaurant on the Sunset Strip. The hostesses were the widows of Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II, whose classic musical Brynner first played on Feb. 26, 1951.

After 4½ years with the original company, Brynner starred in the movie "The King and I," winning the 1956 Academy award as best actor. After 20 years, Brynner began touring the musical in record-breaking engagements.

Mary Martin, Rodgers and Hammerstein's heroine of "South Pacific," told the dinner guests of playing "Lute Song" with Brynner, then recommending him for "The King and I."

"I blame Mary for ruining my career," said Brynner facetiously. "Before that, I had a very promising career as a television director."

Earlier, the shaven-headed star predicted that he would tour with the musical for another year and a half, "then maybe put the scenery in storage and bring it out every year or so and play four months."

He claimed never to have lost enthusiasm during his 3,999 performances because

TV And Miss America Gamble On Later Show

By ROBERT WADE
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Since the days when a flock of bathing beauties was the biggest thing to hit Atlantic City each year, the Miss America Pageant has always been held the first Saturday after Labor Day to extend the shore resort's summer season.

But as nine new casinos began pulling in crowds year-round, the tradition dating to 1921 became an expensive bother to the private corporation that took over the operation from the city.

Officials had to fight vacationers for hotel rooms and pay holiday overtime to crews working during the week of pre-pageant festivities.

This year's pageant will be the first held on the second Saturday after Labor Day, NBC, which won the broadcasting rights, will carry the show live from Convention Hall.

It's a gamble that Albert A. Marks Jr., executive director of Miss America Pageant Inc., hopes will pay off in lower overhead and higher TV ratings, as more Americans are home from vacation and settled into their fall viewing habits.

The switch presents risks both to Marks' corporation and to NBC. A significant drop in the pageant's viewership could affect advertising revenues, sponsorship of future shows and negotiations for television rights to next year's pageant.

Marks will be in New York by Monday, ratings in hand, to begin negotiating with the three major commercial networks over the broadcasting rights for next year's show.

While the pageant has been the highest-rated program of the week each year since it was first broadcast in 1954, the ratings peaked in 1961 when the show scored an impressive 41.8 rating and 75 share.

That means that of the television sets that were on, three of four were tuned to Miss America and people were watching Miss America in 41.8 percent of all the households with televisions.

By 1982, the show scored a 23.4 rating and a 45 share — still high by television industry standards but well below the early showings.

"Over the course of a season, a ratings point is worth about $50 million in revenues for a network," said NBC spokesman Matt Messina.

Sensitive Letters For Moyers

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Moyers doesn't get normal celebrity fan mail. He doesn't get requests for autographs and pictures. Instead, people give him intelligent, sensitive reflections — much the sort of thing he gives them.

"(Your show) helped us to become better informed of the changing moods and attitudes of our fellow citizens," wrote a woman from Huntsville, Ala. "And that is without ever leaving our chairs."

Moyers' summer series, "Our Times with Bill Moyers," movingly communicated a concern for humanity in stories ranging from unemployment to AIDS to divorce. In return, Moyers' letter-writers expressed a similar compassion about Moyers and the fate of his program. They wonder if "Our Times," or something similar, will return in the near future.

"I do hope they will allow you to continue informing us and, therefore, I suppose I wish you good ratings," wrote a woman from Coconut Grove, Fla.

All network programs have hard-core followings, but "Our Times" seems to have touched an especially sensitive chord with American audiences. Give the public entertainment programs, and they might be entertained. Give the public shows with humanity and enlightenment, and they might become better human beings.

"We appreciate such an intelligent and responsible program that forces us to look at the issues of the day," wrote a couple from Alton, Ill. "Only by challenging our thinking can we grow as a nation."

"When the credits are shown, and that great music is playing," wrote one viewer from Tampa, Fla., "I stare into space completely immersed in thought of the previous half-hour topic. Programs of this nature are enriching and worthwhile to our national community."

"We need many more like you to champion the cause almost always beneath the headlines," said a man from New York City.

"Thanks to you, your associates and to CBS for having the courage to portray so vividly what is happening in the country so that all of us can see it first hand, and with skillful interviewing to make it more real," wrote a couple from Winnetka, Ill.

CBS should be commended for broadcasting 10 hours of "Our Times" and the equally satisfying "On the Road with Charles Kuralt" this summer. It would have been more profitable to schedule entertainment reruns, but the CBS Broadcast Group and CBS Network found the necessary funds and gave the Moyers and Kuralt programs the appropriate promotional push.

The back-to-back shows attracted 20 percent or more of the viewing audience Tuesday nights — better than previous CBS shows in that summer time slot. Even so, the network considers that viewing level too low for the regular prime time season.

There's really little risk in running public affairs programs in the dog days of summer. What would be courageous, and novel, would be CBS devoting suitable time to programs such as "Our Times" and "On the Road" in the heat of a tight 1983-84 prime-time TV season.

Several things apparently need to happen first. Van Gordon Sauter, president of CBS News, has to come up with a format that deals with serious journalistic issues but also has the potential to deliver higher audiences. Next he has to sell conflicting egos in the news division on the idea, and then convince Gene Jankowski, president of the Broadcast Group.

Jankowski says he wants to be convinced. He appreciated "Our Times" and "On the Road," and he understands what letters like the following mean for CBS' prestige:

"I realize it is rating points, not fan letters, that determine the life span of TV shows. ... I write, nevertheless, in the name of beauty, decency, caring, knowledge, understanding, and other still worthwhile human senses."

"There is more than enough garbage on all the networks. Strike a blow of decent sensibility and stick with ("On the Road") and ("Our Times") in the fall."

That one was signed: Thomas F. Eagleton, United States Senator.

Tayback Is Out Of Hospital

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — The hash can soon start flying again at Mel's Diner. Mel — also known as actor Vic Tayback — is out of the hospital after triple heart bypass surgery.

"He had an excellent recovery," said spokeswoman Rhoda Weiss of St. Joseph's Medical Center after the 53-year-old actor, a star on TV's "Alice," was released Monday, nine days after he underwent the operation.

"It usually takes anywhere from 10 days to two weeks" to recover, Ms. Weiss said.

$100,000 Gift For New Heart

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television producer Aaron Spelling, touched by the story of a young man needing a heart transplant, has donated $100,000 to help pay for the operation.

"I was overwhelmed," said 20-year-old Derrick Gordon of the gift Monday from Spelling, who helped create such hit TV shows as "Dynasty," "Charlie's Angels," "Mod Squad," "Hart to Hart," "Love Boat," "Fantasy Island" and "Starsky and Hutch."

The contribution will give Gordon "a new chance at a new life," says Dr. Linda Kocsis, who has been treating Gordon.

The operation would be performed at the Stanford Medical Center and Spelling's gift would pay most of the $125,000 guaranteed fee the hospital requires.

TUY BRTA: GYZALYSU BLMYD.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — THE PLACE WHERE TINY IN-SECT DIDN'T FIND NEWS: FLY PAPER.
Today's Cryptoquip clue: Y equals E.

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Opening lead: Five of ♦.

If you are going to try for a seam at the bridge table, make the crucial play early.
The less the opponents know about the hand, the better.
Take this example from a side game at the recent Summer North American Championships in sunny New Orleans.

North's two diamond opening bid was the Flannery convention. It showed a minimum opening bid with five hearts and four spades.
South's two no trump was forcing and North's three no trump showed a hand with two cards in each minor suit and honors in those suits.
South chose to gamble on slam.

West's choice of a club opening lead is open to argument. The queen won in dummy and declarer did not fancy his chances—in fact, there was no legitimate way that the contract could be made.

So declarer had to fall back on subterfuge.
At trick two, he led a low heart from dummy to his queen. East could not rise with the ace without giving declarer his contract, so the queen won. Now declarer exited with a low club.
West won the king and he had to return a heart to defeat the contract as the cards lie. But he was afraid that he would be helping declarer by leading any red suit, so he exited "safely" with a club.

Declarer needed no more.
He cashed out all his winners, coming down to four diamonds in his hand and the king and another heart and two diamonds on the table.
East had to hold onto the ace of hearts, so he was forced to discard a diamond. Declarer now scored all his diamonds to bring home the slam.

Highway Safety

Every 10 minutes an auto accident claims another life in the U.S. That represents a loss of more than 52,000 lives each year, although there have been three percent fewer fatalities during the first eight months of this year than last. On this day in 1899 H.H. Bliss of New York City became the first traffic fatality.

DO YOU KNOW — Which form of travel has the fewest fatalities per passenger mile?

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1983

YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The very early part of the day is good for getting ideas for your future well-being, so try to be up early and take advantage of this influence for.
Impress others in authority.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Some new venture inspires you and you can get backing for it from one in power, so do just that as early as possible.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Keep promises and then go off to look into new projects that interest you and involve yourself in the best of these.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Learn what it is that an associate expects you to do and then carry through in a most efficient way. Spend time with loved one.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Early get work done so that later you can be with a partner to work out some new deal. Take time to gain more prestige.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Pleasing loved one early is wise, and later you can be with a co-worker and plan how to be more efficient.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Early handle home responsibilities and then you can work on creative ideas that can give you a greater income.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Come to a better understanding with daily allies early and tonight you can have a fine time at home. Get home in better order, also.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Morning is best time to handle some financial affairs that are important to you and later you can talk over new interests with allies.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Early sit down with an advisor and then you can study your goals more objectively and know how to gain them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A good pal assists you in reaching a vital decision and then do the work quietly connected with it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Early make plans for greater progress in the future and do the work necessary toward such ends. Your hunches are good.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) One who is well organized can help you to greater advancement both in personal and business life, so follow advice given.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have excellent ideas as to how to better self and also listen to advice of others with more expertise, and profit thereby.
Then upon reaching maturity, your progeny can become a fine organizer and very clever in business.

Lighthouse To Receive Apron

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C.
(AP) — The Cape Hatteras
Lighthouse will receive a "protective apron" this winter as an interim measure to bolster part of its foundation.

In cooperation with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the National Park Service will place a granite stone and gabion apron for about 260 feet of the inshore portion of its 650-foot groin.

"The Corps of Engineers has state that this protection apron is the most crucial element of interim protection for the lighthouse," said Tom Hartman, superintendent of Cape Hatteras National Seashore.

"Placement of the scour apron will complete the interim protection plan charted from public workshops and engineering consultations," he said.

North Carolina Unions Saw Recession Losses

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Economic recovery should boost labor union rolls in North Carolina and South Carolina, which have the nation's lowest union membership, says an AFL-CIO official.

But the head of a North Carolina anti-union organization says the recent decline in union membership will continue as technological advances keep wiping out jobs.

Christopher Scott, secretary of the North Carolina AFL-CIO and the only declared candidate for the group's presidency, acknowledged that "we're hurting as far as membership is concerned."

He said recruiting would head the list of topics for discussion when the AFL-CIO, which represents about 140,000 of the state's 200,000 union members, has its annual convention next week in Asheville.

Scott, 37, said that during the last 12 months nearly 35,000 union members lost their jobs due to plant closings and layoffs.

He said the economy is slowly recovering and unions will benefit from it.

Suspend Prison Food Director

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The chief of food service for the state Division of Prisons has been suspended and is scheduled to go on trial on Friday in Wake County Superior Court on charges of misusing state property.

Marsha W. Lilly was suspended without pay from her $26,556-a-year job on June 24 "pending review of allegations of misconduct," said Stuart Shadbolt, information officer for the Department of Corrections.

Mrs. Lilly is charged with misdemeanor violations involving the misuse of a state automobile and telephone. Wake County District Attorney J. Randolph Riley said.

Mrs. Lilly, 37, of Raleigh, has been in charge of food service for the 17,000 inmates in the prison system since 1973 and was responsible for a multimillion-dollar budget.

Plain Tomb Belies Life Of Cardinal

By GEORGE JAHN
Associated Press Writer
MARIAZELL, Austria (AP) — A simple marble tombstone marking Cardinal Jozsef Mindszenty's grave at this Roman Catholic shrine gives little hint of the Hungarian churchman's turbulent life.

Pope John Paul II planned to pray today at the tombstone, fashioned of red Hungarian marble and placed over Mindszenty's grave in the basilica's Hungarian Chapel.

Organizers of the pope's four-day visit to Austria have sought to play down its political overtones in regard to Eastern Europe, but John Paul's decision to make a pilgrimage to the tomb is a clear signal of solidarity with the Roman Catholic Church in the Soviet bloc.

The Latin inscription reads simply: "Jozsef Cardinal Mindszenty, 1892-1975. He lived and long may he live for his holy Hungary."

In 1948, Mindszenty, appointed to the primacy with the assent of the Communist government, was inexplicably arrested as an enemy of the state. Following a humiliating show trial, he was sentenced to life in prison under trumped-up charges of high treason.

He was freed during the rebellion of 1956, when he took refuge in the U.S. legation in Budapest.

In 1975, four years after leaving the legation, Mindszenty died in self-exile in Vienna, an unrepentant opponent of Communism in his homeland.

Pope Paul VI's decision officially to remove Mindszenty from the primacy of Hungary on Feb. 5, 1974, was followed by a marked improvement in relations between the Vatican and Hungary.

The cardinal regarded himself as a sacrifice to a thaw in the cold war, writing in his memoirs that he had become an unwelcome guest in the U.S. legation "because I stood in the way of the policy of detente."

He was allowed to come to the West under an arrangement between the Hungarian government and the Vatican. In his will, Mindszenty asked to be buried in the Hungarian chapel.

The chapel, built in 1685, symbolizes the close ties Austria had with Hungary until the breakup of the Dual Monarchy at the end of World War I.

Lightning Killed Man

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A 47-year-old Columbus County man who was carrying a sack of corn to feed his hogs was killed by lightning Monday as he walked in an open field during an isolated thunderstorm, authorities said.

Douglas Marley of the St. Bethel community near Whiteville was struck by lightning about 2:30 p.m., killing him instantly, said Columbus County Coroner Willard Harris.

"His mother was looking out the window, saw the dust fly up and rushed out after him," Harris said.

Thunderstorms were reported in the area at the time, but they were not as heavy as other storms in the state, a spokesman for the National Weather Service at New Hanover County Airport said.

Heavy thunderstorms were reported in Pender, Duplin, Onslow, Beaufort and Craven counties, the spokesman said.

Marley was the second Wilmington man to be struck by lightning this year. Another man was struck by lightning in his yard during a storm July 3, but survived.

Three people died in North Carolina in lightning-related accidents last year, while five others were injured by lightning. Nationwide, 77 people were killed by lightning and 174 injured.
