U.S., Soviet Vessels Approach In Search

By The Associated Press
U.S. and Soviet warships searching for the wreckage of a South Korean airliner closed to within 550 yards of each other today and a Japanese admiral expressed concern about a possible "shooting incident."

Rear Adm. Masayoshi Kato of Japan's Maritime Safety Agency said the 3,011-ton U.S. frigate Badger and the 8,200-ton Soviet guided missile cruiser Petropavlovsk maneuvered within 550 yards of each other about 20 miles north of Moneron, a tiny Soviet island in the Sea of Japan.

"I hope no shooting incident will occur between the two vessels," the admiral said at a briefing in Wakkana, Japan.

In Montreal, the U.N.'s aviation agency this morning resumed an emergency meeting on the airliner, with Western delegates pushing for passage of a resolution condemning the Soviet Union. A resolution rebuking

Moscow for a "criminal" act was on the way to President Reagan after being passed unanimously by both houses of Congress.

Soviet and American task forces are hunting off Japan for the Korean Air Lines jumbo jet shot down by Soviet fighters Sept. 1 with the loss of all 269 aboard.

A helicopter from the Badger was seen over the area, apparently monitoring the Soviet ships. U.S. military officials in Japan said they had no information on the search operation.

Kato said Japanese patrol boats saw 12 Soviet ships in the area, including the 15,000-ton oil drilling vessel Mikhail Mirchinsk and the 12,000-ton rescue ship Georgi Kozumin.

U.S. Charges Soviets Boosting Propaganda

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department charged today the Soviet Union is intensifying its efforts to influence public opinion in non-communist countries through media manipulation, forgeries, disinformation and other deceptive techniques.

A new department report says a principal aim of the alleged activities is to undercut support in Western Europe for the planned deployment of new American nuclear missiles. It said, however, that the Soviet campaign to advance its interests through such techniques was carried out worldwide.

The study is a compilation of so-called Soviet "active measures" that have come to light since a July 1982 report on the same subject.

It acknowledges that it is sometimes difficult to determine whether a particular activity is implemented by the Soviets or a "surrogate intelligence service." It added, however, that this distinction is not significant given the close collaboration of the Soviet KGB and its sister services in other countries.

Crimestoppers

If you have information on any crime committed in Pitt County, call Crimestoppers, 758-7777. You do not have to identify yourself and can be paid for the information you supply.

Federal and state officials met here today to discuss an alleged attempt by a Pamlico Beach man to bribe Beaufort County Sheriff Nelson Sheppard earlier this summer.

Masceo Evans Daniels was arrested on Aug. 16, after allegedly offering Sheppard $25,000 during the week of June 22-28, for protection of a marijuana smuggling operation.

After his arrest, Daniels produced a letter signed by assistant U.S. Attorney Douglas McCullough granting him immunity from prosecution in unrelated cases.

District Attorney William Griffin Jr. and Sheppard were meeting with McCullough at the State Bureau of Investigation office here to discuss the government's relationship with Daniels and its possible effect on the alleged bribery attempt.

The letter says the immunity would be granted in exchange for information on drug trafficking and smuggling activities in eastern North Carolina. It doesn't mention bribery.

The letter warns that if Daniels commits other crimes or discloses his cooperation with the U.S. attorney's office "to anyone" except authorized U.S. government criminal investigative agents, the agreement would be "null and void," and he would be subject to federal prosecution.

Bribery Charge Discussed

U.S. Factory Utilization Rises

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's factories, mines and utilities operated at 76.7 percent of their production capacity in August, the highest rate in nearly two years, the Federal Reserve Board reported today.

An August increase for the auto industry helped raise the operating rate, as did a jump for utilities — the latter at least partly due to the unusually warm weather in some parts of the nation.

August's overall operating rate was up 0.6 percentage point from July's, a much smaller increase than the 1.4 percentage point rise in July. But the slowing had been expected after the economy's robust growth earlier this year.

One day earlier, the board had reported a 0.9 percent August increase in overall production by U.S. industry, less than half the 2 percent gain of July.

Analysts still welcomed the output increase as a sign the economic recovery was continuing. And the Commerce Department's chief economist, Robert Ortner, said the gain was "especially good" in light of labor strikes during the month.

That report said industrial production had recovered four-fifths of the ground lost during the 1981-82 recession.

The Thursday report covered increases in actual production. Today's covered the amount of producers' capacity being used. The two figures generally move parallel to each other.

Today's report said overall capacity use in August reached the highest level since the 77 percent of November 1981, just after the recession began.

In specific categories, it said factories operated at 76.7 percent of capacity, up 0.5 percentage point from July; mines operated at 70.7 percent, up 1 point, and utilities at 83 percent, up 1.3 points.

Young Man Wants Prenuptial Agreement

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am an unmarried man, 34 years old, and I've got what I think is a serious problem that I can't seem to correct myself.

Although I date a few women and don't consider myself sexually starved, I have a compulsion to follow women drivers whom I spot on the freeways and find attractive. I've done this probably 50 or 75 times in the past two years. I never approach them, never talk to them, never even smile or wave. I just follow their cars until they pull into a garage or up a driveway. Then I usually park nearby and watch them walk into their homes or into a shop.

Now, believe me when I say I get no sexual arousal from any of them, although it leaves me feeling very good. I can't figure out why I do it and can't seem to break the habit, even though it sometimes costs me a couple hours a day, not to mention gas money.

I am a professional man with a few degrees and lots of awards for my work. Please don't tell me I need professional help, because I don't think my habit is hurting anyone, or even me. It's simply puzzling.

Have you any opinions on my problem and how to stop it?

JUST LOOKING

DEAR JUST: I think you have a form of voyeurism. (You get your jollies from looking.)

The "harm" can be in carrying it to the point of violating the privacy of another, which is punishable by law if you should make a nuisance of yourself.

Better nip this in the bud, buddy. A professional man has a lot to lose. And don't dodge professional help, because that's exactly what you need.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I gave up drinking. It's been several months now and I am much happier with my life. I've had no shaking, craving or other symptoms associated with alcohol withdrawal.

I do not plan to drink again, but here is the problem: The very people who decided that I drank too much before now tell me that since I'm not drinking I'm not "any fun" to go out with anymore. How should I respond?

SOBER IN ST. PAUL

DEAR SOBER: This way: "Sorry to disappoint you, but if one of us has to be disappointed, I'd rather it be you."

DEAR ABBY: I am a young man, getting married soon to a wonderful young woman. This is a first for both of us. I earn a good living, have a nice amount of equity and am financially secure.

However, I have one great insecurity. No matter how perfect my fiancée and I seem for each other, there's always a possibility of divorce. I would really like to have a prenuptial agreement, but I'm afraid if I mentioned it, she would be against it.

Your opinion would be greatly appreciated.

CHICKEN

DEAR CHICKEN: Today there's a 50-50 chance that your marriage will end in divorce, so don't be a dumb cluck. Explain this to your "chick," and if she really loves you, she won't fly the coop.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

"My dad died when I was five," she said in an interview, "and my mother went to work as a scrubwoman."

Mrs. Futrell, 43, said she recalls her own childhood before excusing latch-key kids who don't make good in school today.

"I say to myself — you were a latchkey kid and you were from a single parent home."

"My mother would make us leave homework on the table and if it wasn't done right we would need to do it over."

Speaking of her all-black school in Lynchburg, Va., she said:

"We didn't have the latest books and equipment but the quality was great. The desire to have a good education was in us."

"And there was homework. And if we didn't do it there was punishment."

"I believe in homework. I always gave it when I was teaching. But I didn't always get it back. In junior high, 95 percent turn in homework. But by high school, only 50 percent do. There is less motivation, it seems."

"And then many of them from the 10th grade up work. But they must set priorities."

"It may be more important now to learn than to earn a few bucks and lose out on education."

Mrs. Futrell takes the wheel of the 1.6 million-member association at a time many call exciting in education due to reports focusing attention on the need to improve the quality of schooling for the good of students and the national economy and defense.

She is happy about the many studies — from one commissioned by the New York Stock Exchange to that from the President's Commission on Excellence in Education — if not the worrisome conclusions they reached.

The reports served up a smorgasbord of reform suggestions, including those calling for a longer school year, fewer frills and more language, science and math courses. There also were familiar cries for more discipline and homework, plus improved performance by teachers and students.

The NEA, embarked on a crusade to improve public school education, applauds many of the suggestions, but there is some concern that teachers are being cast as scapegoats, Mrs. Futrell said.

"We need to move away from scapegoating. We do not deny problems but believe for them to be overcome all must work together — schools, parents, teachers, community, business, labor. The issues call for a united front, including teachers."

"How can you make changes if you do not include teachers?"

The reports warned that 40 percent of minority children will be functionally illiterate by 1990.

"Those kids now are in the 3rd grade," Mrs. Futrell said. "The problem can be corrected in the intervening years. If we as teachers and citizens make sure we come forth with the total community to draw a blueprint for change, this need not happen."

Only by embarking on a mission broad enough to improve the quality of education from top to bottom will such children be salvaged, Mrs. Futrell believes.

"We do not need to reinvent the wheel to do it," she said.

Mrs. Futrell said education reform movements have been underway in big states such as California, New York, Florida and Texas, some dating from 1979.

She said many reforms proposed by expert committees already are moving off the drawing board in those states. The Texas Board of Public Education, for example, has recommended putting more muscle into curriculum.

In New York, the Board of Regents recommended a longer school year in addition to more solid academic fare.

"The atmosphere for 1983 and onward can be very positive in education if the present momentum is sustained," Mrs. Futrell said.

"But we must get parents involved. If children don't see parents believe in the importance of education, you can't expect too much from the children."

"I feel parent involvement would cut 75 percent of the discipline problems. Education is a joint venture between school and home."

Mrs. Futrell said she is encouraging NEA locals to launch outreach programs, forming networks with civic groups, PTAs, business, labor, religious and civil rights groups.

She said response has been positive and she is optimistic.

"Children will be the winners if we succeed in working for excellence in education," she said.

"I always tell people I have a thousand children. The children you teach are your children. You give them all you have."

"When we as teachers see them succeed, we get as proud as parents. And when we see them fail, we're just as disappointed."

With her business skills, Mrs. Futrell could have fled the classroom years ago.

"I say I am lucky. I stay in teaching because I love it. I enjoy it."

"One of the greatest joys is working with children, helping them to succeed and feel proud."

"I think, of course, that the financial rewards could be better."

During her two-year term as NEA president, Mrs. Futrell's financial reward will be in the neighborhood of $70,000 a year.

Another financial topic she addressed is tuition tax credits President Reagan has proposed for parents who send children to private or parochial schools.

"The best way we can beat tuition tax credits is to make public schools so good people will want to send their children there," she said.

"Some are now, you know."

Ms. Sumrell Gives Talk

The Greenville Welcome Wagon Club held its luncheon meeting Wednesday at the Brook Valley Country Club. Lucille Sumrell of Greenville Recreation and Parks Department talked and displayed craft bazaar items.

The special activities group will tour the Duplin Wine Cellar in Rose Hill and Liberty Hall in Kenansville Sept. 22. They will have lunch at the Graham House in Kenansville. Reservations for the trip must be made by Sept. 19. Call Barbara Hall at 756-6353 for further information.

Area newcomers interested in joining the group should contact Welcome Wagon hostesses Mae McKee at 756-5044, Jackie Heath at 756-0279 or Mary Warren Mann at 756-5131.

The next board meeting will be held Sept. 28 at the home of Joellyn Cohen.

Bridal Policy

A black and white glossy five by seven photograph is requested for engagement announcements in The Daily Reflector. For publication in a Sunday edition, the information must be submitted by 12 noon on the preceding Wednesday. Engagement pictures must be released at least three weeks prior to the wedding date. After three weeks, only an announcement will be printed.

Wedding write-ups will be printed through the first week with a five by seven picture. During the second week with a wallet size picture and write-up giving less description and after the second week, just as an announcement.

Wedding forms and pictures should be returned to The Daily Reflector one week prior to the date of the wedding. All information should be typed or written neatly.

Fashion Show Held Wednesday

A lingerie fashion show was given at Papa Katz Wednesday by Lori's, a lingerie specialty shop at Carolina East Centre.

Items shown varied from day wear to lounge wear from Christian Dior, Lily of France, Iris and Poirrette. Models included East Carolina University students, Missy Cayton, Felicia Warren and Lynette Blaylock.

Wine and cheese were served during the evening.

Check Grandma's Old Canning Recipes

You've just found one of grandma's old canning recipes and it looks interesting. "Don't be too quick to use it," warns Dr. Robert Brackett, extension food safety specialist, N.C. State University. Old canning methods often have three major faults.

"The recipe may lack processing instructions. Often, they simply read, 'Pack in sterilized jars and seal. If food is not processed, it can spoil. Not all spoilage can be detected by sight and smell so a family could eat poisonous food without knowing it until it's too late."

"The measurements may be inaccurate or the ingredients may have changed over the years. For example, most vinegar sold today is 4 to 5 percent acetic acid. But many years ago, 10 percent acetic acid vinegar was widely used so the old recipe may depend upon stronger vinegar."

"The recommended method of canning may be dangerous. Oven canning was once popular until people realized how dangerous it was. Jars can explode or break easily ruining the food and causing burns and cuts."

Cooking Is Fun

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Never before, to my knowledge, have cooks been so interested in recipes for pasta salads. If they aren't borrowing recipes for the salads from their neighbors, clipping them from newspapers and magazines or looking them up in cookbooks they themselves are improvising such combinations.

Here then is a new recipe for a pasta salad. Because it calls for hard salami and pepperoni it makes a main course for lunch or supper.

PASTA AND SAUSAGE SALAD

- 3 cups corkscrew pasta
- 1 cup diced (1/4 inch) red pepper
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced scallion
- 1/2 cup sliced pitted ripe olives
- 1-3rd cup mayonnaise
- 1-3rd cup sour cream
- 1-3rd cup milk
- 1-3rd cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 8 ounces sliced hard salami (such as Genoa), cut into 3/4-inch strips
- 4 ounces thinly sliced pepperoni

Cook pasta according to package directions; rinse with cold water and drain well; cool completely and turn into a large bowl. Add the red pepper, scallion and olives.

In a small bowl whisk together until smooth the mayonnaise, sour cream and milk. Whisk in Parmesan, garlic, salt and pepper. Add to pasta mixture and toss well. Cover and refrigerate.

Just before serving, add the salami and pepperoni to the pasta mixture, tossing it with the other ingredients or using it as a garnish.

Makes 6 servings.

Marriage Announced

Editorials

Hard Times

Hard times are often measured by the number of persons who seek aid from the Salvation Army and other organizations which provide help to the needy.

If we can judge by recent activity at Salvation Army centers in North and South Carolina we must have come through some hard times.

Lt. Col. David Holz, divisional commander, said, "We expected to see increases in the number of people seeking material assistance but not to the extent we've experienced."

He said the number of people assisted in 1982 increased 20 percent over 1981. In the first six months of 1983 the Salvation Army has helped 50 percent more people than in 1982. He said for many centers this had depleted funds set aside for winter programs.

The number of homeless assisted increased 54 percent for the first six months of this year with exceptionally high increases in January, February and March.

What has happened? No one knows for certain. Holz said the people the Salvation Army serves are at the lowest end of the economic scale and are the last to feel the effects of a rebounding economy.

It also has to be considered that there have been cuts in government sponsored programs such as food stamps which may be sending the needy to the Salvation Army.

Whatever the reason there is clear evidence the needs of the poor are real indeed. It is comforting to know that the Salvation Army is there to help fill the need.

Community Asset

In observance of "Emergency Medicine Week" the Pitt County Memorial Hospital Emergency Department will hold open house Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.

Not everyone is aware of the changes in emergency medicine that have taken place at PCMH. It has not been so many years back that the emergency department was manned by community physicians on a rotating basis. Now there are nine full-time emergency physicians and the field has become recognized by the American Board of Medical Specialties. The ECU School of Medicine has begun a residency training program in emergency medicine and four physicians began their training here in July.

The fully staffed emergency department at PCMC is a community asset and a visit to the department during the Sunday open house should be worthwhile.

Risky Course

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Glenn is embarking on a risky but necessary course this fall, trying to give Americans something more than "astronaut" to put next to his name.

The Ohio senator will be giving a lot of speeches around the country in the next few weeks talking about issues: the Middle East, the economy, war and peace. The Democratic presidential hopeful will be laying out his personal platform on the issues.

In a deeper sense, he will be telling Americans that he is a politician of presidential caliber, not simply a test pilot, an astronaut, an American hero.

If he is to win the nomination and the presidency, Glenn has to convince the voters that he can handle the duties incumbent on the person who occupies the Oval Office.

And he must try to add this new level to the public mind without losing the foundation provided by those favorable views generated in his younger days in the space program. It's that favorable foundation that has helped Glenn close in on former Vice President Walter Mondale in the polls.

Americans have been more than willing to accept "non-politicians" as presidential candidates — as long as they are convinced the candidates can handle the job. Dwight Eisenhower's non-political background was an asset to his campaign in 1952, but he also had shown he could handle the big jobs.

A CBS-New York Times poll this summer outlined the strengths and weaknesses for Glenn in terms of public perception.

Forty-eight percent of the public said they have a favorable view of Glenn, compared to only 12 percent with unfavorable views. But 40 percent didn't know enough about him to say or didn't answer.

Those with favorable views were pressed for their reasons. General personal qualities were mentioned by 23 percent, honesty by 13 percent and his astronaut days by 13 percent. Only 16 percent mentioned political or issue-oriented factors.

The poll also showed how Glenn's task is complicated by the nature of his main opponent — Mondale.

Mondale has a long and varied record in public life, a list of elected offices that he has won and duties he has carried out. That record is a key to his status as a leading candidate for president.

That has made Mondale more familiar to the public, but also given him some higher negative ratings. The CBS-New York Times poll said 40 percent were favorable to Mondale, 27 percent unfavorable and 33 unsure.

And those who like Mondale mentioned his public service. Twenty-four percent cited his years in government as the reason for their good views.

These days, Glenn backers love to talk about how Mondale fails to excite the public and to say that Glenn does generate the necessary excitement. This is one indication, they say, that Glenn is more likely to beat President Reagan than Mondale.

RALEIGH — You don't have to drive very far down the back roads of North Carolina to realize that this state's got a heckuva lot of trees. Almost two-thirds of the state's acreage is forested and about a quarter million North Carolinians own commercial forest land.

You can enjoy those trees without owning a single one of them. Those forests make North Carolina beautiful for everyone. But, while they're standing there growing and looking pretty, those trees are making money for their owners. The forest products industry is one of the biggest in the state with one out of every 20 North Carolinians working in either the lumber, paper or furniture industries.

But North Carolinians aren't making the best use of their forest resources, the N.C. Center for Public Policy Research reports. While demand for forest products is expected to double within the next 50 years, North Carolinians aren't being very efficient in the management of their forest resources.

"North Carolinians are cutting down more timber than they are replanting and the timber already growing is not even approaching its potential," the center reports in the summer issue of N.C. Insight magazine.

In the decade preceding 1974, 45 percent of the commercial forest land cleared was neither replanted nor allowed to regenerate itself. Another 36 percent of the land was allowed to grow back wild — a practice which will yield low-quality trees which do not have much of a market value.

Commercial forestry is an industry that in recent years has moved back into the South. One N.C. State professor told Insight that the South is becoming the "wood basket of the nation." While most of the forest land in the West is owned by the government and regulated by the U.S. Forest Service, most of the forest land in the South is owned privately. For that reason, lumber companies find it much easier to operate here.

But lumber companies, whose land holdings are big enough to provide only a small portion of their needs from North Carolina, are finding that many small woodlot owners don't farm trees properly. They're likely to allow land to stand idle, without replanting. Or, they might just let whatever pops out of the ground grow. They don't thin forests and they use the wrong equipment to harvest. So, the lumber companies have started management programs for the small woodlot owners upon whom they depend for their wood. They provide advice and forestry products aimed at securing the best yields from the land.

The state has taken several steps to improve the private forests here. A reforestation program was started in 1969. Four years later, changes were made in the laws governing ad valorem taxes so as to protect woodlot owners and eliminate their need to cut off wood to pay taxes. And, in 1977, the state got into a program with the federal government of reforesting land.

As the center sees the problem, most woodlot owners do not have as great a stake in woodland management as do the large lumber companies. A woodlot is a 30-year investment and people who own only a small amount of land, and who make their principal incomes elsewhere, can't really be expected to know how to properly manage a forest.

But the center reminds us of how important it is to properly manage our wooded lands. In addition to all the jobs the forest products industry creates, "the 20 million acres of commercial forests in the state make up the state's premier natural resource, essential for soil conservation, watershed quality, wildlife protection, scenery and recreation."

Bosses: Take A Strong Stand

Ms. Collins doesn't suggest, which could save both jobs.

Let me give you a scenario. The chief executive of Kiss & Tel calls in two vice presidents.

"Miss Smart, Mr. Duff, rumor has it that the two of you are very much in love."

"Where did you get that idea, J.T.?" Duff asks.

"Well, for one thing Miss Smart is running her hand through your hair while I'm talking to you."

Miss Smart says, "It's true, J.T., Arthur and I are crazy about each other. But we don't fool around on company time."

"That's not the point," J.T. says. "The entire conglomerate knows about it and it's causing a real morale problem. Even our Singapore office thinks you two are plotting against them."

Duff says, "That's ridiculous. Our division has never been in better shape since we've fallen in love. We're the only executives in the company who game plan corporate strategy in bed."

"Nevertheless, Duff, I must take a strong stand on this issue. According to management policy the least essential of the two of you must go."

"You can't do that to Arthur," Miss Smart yells.

"What do you mean me?" Duff cries. "I'm more essential than you are. I was responsible for the takeover of the Brett Pine Tar Company."

"After I showed you how you could do it, by selling off our Mt. Saint Helen's Real Estate subsidiary."

"Are you trying to tell me your job means more to you than our love?" Duff says.

"I can always fall in love," Miss Smart says. "But I worked too hard to get where I am in this company to throw it away now."

"I should have known you were a ruthless broad when you closed down Scranton, Pennsylvania. You can move out of the apartment tonight."

"It will be my pleasure, and from now on you can write your own reports. Let's see how long you last with the company on your own."

J.T. says, "From this conversation I can assume the love affair between the two of you is over, and you will both start behaving like grown-up dog-eat-dog executive?"

"You bet your sweet life, J.T.," Duff says.

"Then the problem is solved and the two of you can stay. I'm proud of both of you. When push came to shove you chose the company over your hearts. That's the kind of managers I want playing on my team."

Strength For Today

There will always be mystery in religion. But we should be assured that we can know and do know everything about religion that we need to know.

For example, we can understand its teaching that there is one God. We can ponder its moral precepts, and slow as we sometimes are to obey them, we know full well that our failure to do so arises not from the fact that we do not understand these moral requirements, but that we understand them only too well.

We shrink from them because we know that they demand sacrifice from us and hte curbing of our baser desires. Mark Twain once said that it was not the things in the Bible he did not understand which bothered him, but the things he did understand.

The mystery of religion is inevitable because of our limitations. It is necessary as a means of stimulating in us a desire to seek more earnestly to know the nature of truth.

Allies Aren't Jumping On Bandwagon

WASHINGTON — After deciding on limited sanctions against the Soviet Union designed to attract maximum international support, the Reagan administration has run into a brick wall in asking other Western governments to restrict Aeroflot operations in their countries.

Opposition from neutral Switzerland and Austria to closing down offices and canceling routes for the Soviet airline was expected. But State Department officials have had to scratch and claw to get help from NATO members, with the early exception of Canada.

Hard-liners inside the administration warned from the start that it would be hard to orchestrate an international response against the Kremlin for its Korean airliner atrocity. Failing to make progress on the sanction route, they are quietly planting seeds in Congress seeking to restore cutbacks in strategic defense spending.

An attempt by Sen. John Glenn to a synonym for racial quotas."

Special Ambassador Richard Stone is trying to arrange a summit meeting between leaders of Nicaragua's extreme leftwing Sandinista government and anti-Sandinista guerrillas to try to set early free elections.

Adolfo Calero, political leader of the CIA-backed contras based in Honduras, is all for such talks. But other anti-Sandinista leaders are uneasy, preferring to fight rather than talk. No sign of agreement in the talks has come from the Marxist government in Managua.

A footnote: A major military thrust by the contras may be in the offing. Guerrilla leaders have been advised by American friends that the anti-Sandinista movement will lose friends in the U.S. without some concrete victory soon — such as capture and at least temporary possession of a Nicaraguan town.

Close political supporters and friends of the late Sen. Henry M.

Jackson are thinking about establishing a living memorial to him: a political action committee distributing campaign funds to Democratic office-seekers who, like Jackson, combine domestic liberalism with hard-line anti-communism.

The problem, however, is that there may not be enough of such Democrats these days to qualify for these contributions. Consequently, one intimate of the defense-oriented senator believes the memorial to him might have to be more conventional — such as calling a new aircraft carrier the U.S.S. Henry M. Jackson.

A footnote: AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland, another anti-communist liberal and strong Jackson supporter, stunned the memorial service for the senator held in the capital when he turned his eulogy into an attack on the Reagan administration. Kirkland accused "conservative" — meaning President Reagan — of "business as usual" in handling the Soviet Union after the Korean airliner disaster.

While Maureen Reagan will be traveling the country mending her father's fences with women's organizations, her real mission as newly-named consultant for the Republican National Committee will be to sensitize the men at the white House — including Ronald Reagan.

The president's political advisers doubt how much good will with women's groups can be sown by his daughter. But they do believe she will alert the president and his men to how issues affect women.

Actually, Maureen Reagan has had a cool relationship with presidential aides, who were none too happy that she ran for the U.S. Senate from California last year. But in a recent California meeting she buried the hatchet with White House political aide Ed Rollins, whom she unsuccessfully sought to manage her 1982 Senate campaign.

Scout Roundtable To Be Held

The Pitt District Boy Scout and Cub Scout leaders' roundtables will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Red Oak Christian Church on U.S. 264 Bypass.

Programs for the evening include the themes of the month. For Boy Scouts, the theme, "How Tall-How Wide," will be observed, while the Cubs have "Ghosts and Goblins." Other Scout activities and important dates will be discussed.

Police Check Two Collisions

An estimated $1,700 damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Thursday.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 3:40 p.m. collision at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Golden Road, involving cars driven by Billy Bridges Wade of 102A Ash St. and Judy Etheridge Dixon of Bethel.

Damage was estimated at $300 to the Wade car and $600 to the Dixon auto.

Cars driven by Donald Jay Bass of 1900 Charles St. and Margaret Ann Bond of 208A Ash St., collided about 5:40 p.m. on Reade Circle, 15 feet east of the Cotanche Street intersection.

Police set damage at $500 to the Bass car and $300 to the Bond auto.

Truck Weight Laws Changing

New truck weight laws, designed to comply with federal regulations, will go into effect in North Carolina on Oct. 1.

W.S. Allen, district supervisor for the license, theft and weight enforcement section of the Department of Motor Vehicles, said the legislation, revised by the 1983 General Assembly, specifies the allowable weight for commercial vehicles operating in or through the state and includes a "grandfather provision" for certain North Carolina licensed vehicles.

Allen said there will be a reduction in permissible weights some vehicles can carry, while on other vehicles, there will be an increase in the maximum allowable weight, providing the spacing between the axles is consistent with the "federal bridge formula." The federal bridge formula specifies the allowable group axle weights and the proper spacing of axles, he said.

Weight limits, Allen said, are important in that they protect the state's highways from further deterioration.

Pointing out that the weight requirements are "somewhat complicated in nature," Allen said persons having questions regarding the new weight regulations should call 733-7872 in Raleigh, or write to the License, Theft and Weight Enforcement Section at 1100 New Bern Ave., Raleigh, 27697.

Allen said a handout booklet, "North Carolina's New Weight Laws for Commercial Vehicles" is also available.

Commissioners Meet Monday

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners will meet Monday at 10 a.m. at the county office building at 1717 West Fifth St.

Included on the agenda is consideration of a grant offer for the Pitt-Greenville Airport Authority, discussion of drainage at the county home property and a resolution on the half-cent local option sales tax.

Money Taken From Pocketbook

Greenville police are investigating the theft of $141 from a pocketbook at Sunshine Garden Center at Pitt Plaza Thursday.

Capt. John Briley said the money, along with a wallet, was taken from a pocketbook belonging to Lillian Blanche Hunning of Route 2, Winterville, who works at the garden center.

The theft was reported about 6:30 p.m., Briley said.

McRae Heads United Way Unit

Dave McRae has been named chairman of the public and academic employees division of the 1983 Pitt County United Way Campaign, according to organization officials.

McRae, a native of Winston-Salem, holds the position of vice president with Pitt County Memorial Hospital. He received his B.S. and M.S. in health administration from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

He serves on the board of the Mental Health Center and is a member of the Noon Rotary Club. He is also active in the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce.

McRae and his wife Patii have one daughter and attend Immanuel Baptist Church.

One Alternate To Be Chosen

Jury selection in the murder trial of Dwight Parker continued this morning in Pitt County Superior Court.

Twelve jurors and two alternates had been seated when court recessed Thursday afternoon. Only one more alternate had to be chosen today. Selection of a jury to hear the case began Sept. 6.

Parker, 23, of Newark, N.J., is charged with murder in the deaths of the Rev. Leslie L. Thorbes of Grifton, and Anthony Ray Herring of Goldsboro, last February.

Their bodies, weighted with cement blocks, were found in the Tar River several days after they had been reported missing.

Health Law Forum Opens

Anti-trust issues are the focus of this year's Health Law Forum sponsored by the East Carolina University School of Medicine. The fifth annual forum started today at the Brody Medical Sciences Building here.

Among this afternoon's speakers is L. Barry Costello, senior trial lawyer with the Federal Trade Commission. He has served as chief complaint counsel in FTC antitrust suits against the American Medical Association, the American Dental Association, the Indiana Federation of Dentists and American Medical International.

Robersonville native Dr. A. Everett James, chairman of radiology at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., and a lecturer and author in health care and legal medicine, spoke this morning.

Middle School Conference Planned

A variety of teaching techniques recommended for middle school environments will be presented at East Carolina University's third annual Middle School Conference Oct. 18.

The conference, to be held in ECU's Joyner Library, is sponsored by ECU's School of Education, Rural Education Institute and Division of Continuing Education.

Participants may attend three of 11 sessions. Topics include classroom organization and effective teaching, middle school administration, writing in the annual testing program, listening skills, career awareness for students and activities suggested for classes in science, geography and mathematics.

Presenters include Emily McCleary, Jean Haislip and Barbara Hardison of the Northeastern Regional Education Center; Tony Sasseen, principal of Washington Park Middle School; William Rivenbark, principal of West Craven Middle School; Joe Webb of the Southeastern Regional Education Center; Lauren Oppenheimer, teacher, Pitt County schools; and several ECU faculty members: Drs. Michael Jones, Patricia Anderson, Beverly Swanson, Clair Van Zandt, William Martin and Parmalee Hawk.

Since space will be limited, interested professionals should register as early as possible with the ECU Division of Continuing Education, Erwin Hall, East Carolina University, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Lawyers Join McLawhorn Firm

NANCY SHORT

CHARLES ELLIS

Two new associates have joined the law firm of Charles L. McLawhorn Jr., P.A., in Greenville. McLawhorn has announced. Nancy Short and Charles Ellis recently became associates with the firm.

Ms. Short, a native of Greensboro, received her law degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1983. She graduated from UNC-Ch in 1980 with a B.S. degree in administration and criminal justice.

Ellis, from Jacksonville, graduated from Campbell University Law School Cum Laude. He participated in the Law Review and belonged to Phi Alpha Delta, a legal fraternity. He received his undergraduate degree from UNC-CH in economics and political science and was a member of Phi Gamma Delta, a social fraternity.

Notary Classes Offered

One-night notary public courses are now being offered at Pitt Community College twice a month. Upcoming courses will be held Sept. 26, Oct. 3 and Oct. 24 from 6 to 10 p.m.

After those dates, classes will be held the first and third Mondays of each month from 6 to 10 p.m. Anyone 18 or older interested in being a notary public may participate.

Adventists' Drive Approved

Police Capt. John Briley has announced the approval of a request by the Seventh-Day Adventist Church to conduct a door-to-door, sidewalk and merchant solicitation Oct. 1 through Dec. 31 to assist in the annual "Humanitarian Drive."

Collision Investigation

Cars driven by Kristal Denise Powell of Route 3, Washington, and Connie Johnson Allen of Azalea Gardens Trailer Park, collided about noon Wednesday on 10th Street, 75 feet west of the Verdant Street intersection, causing an estimated $2,000 damage to each of the two vehicles.

Police, who charged Ms. Allen with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety, said Ms. Powell was injured in the collision.

ECU Group Elects Officers

Dave Maness of Durham and Paige Dixon of Roanoke Rapids, graduate students in the East Carolina University School of Business, have been elected president and vice president, respectively, of the ECU Graduate Business Association.

Adina Hirschmann of Charlotte is the organization's new student representative and Kevin Maurer of Rocky Mount will serve as secretary-treasurer.

The GBA serves approximately 100 master of business Administration degree candidates. The GBA maintains a directory of members' permanent addresses as a network for future reference and is headquartered in ECU's Rawl Building.

Home Meal Program Expanding

The Pitt County Council on Aging will expand its home-delivered meals program by 70 meals.

According to Jo Ann Goodman, program coordinator, the additional meals are supported with funds from the Pitt County United Way. The Council on Aging now serves 63 meals made available through Greenville Jaycees, area churches, individual contributions and Title III of the Older American Act.

To be eligible for a home-delivered meal, an individual must be 60 years of age and homebound. The hot meal fulfills one-third of the recommended daily dietary allowances for adults. Once the 70 are added, the meals are to be delivered in Greenville, Ayden, Grifton, Farmville, Bethel and Falkland.

Ms. Goodman attributed the success of the Pitt County program to the support from the community in the form of volunteers and contributions for additional meals. Anyone interested may call Ms. Goodman, 752-1717.

No Charges Filed In Wreck

No charges were preferred following investigation of a 7 p.m. accident Tuesday on Stantonsburg Road west from Medical Drive involving a vehicle operated by Gregory Leon Brown of 608 Clark St.

Investigating officers said the Brown car collided with a telephone pole, causing damages estimated at $1,500 to the vehicle and $50 to the pole, owned by Carolina Telephone. Police said Brown was not injured.

Scientists Say Life Flourished In Early Arctic

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.

Friday, September 16, 1983 7

By MARCIA DUNN
Associated Press Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Some plant and animal life flourished in the polar chill of the Arctic millions of years before comparable organisms flowered in the tropic zone, researchers reported today, citing evidence that conflicts with a traditional method of dating fossils.

"We know now that these critters (plant and animal organisms) appeared earlier in the north than the south, instead of the species originating in the south and moving northward," said Robert H. West, director of the Carnegie Museum of Natural History in Pittsburgh.

"Only after real soul-searching were we ready to trust our own evidence. It's somewhat heretical in nature," said West, whose findings were reported in today's issue of Science magazine.

West and three other scientists made the discovery while working on Ellesmere Island, in the Canadian Arctic, to verify theories that the North Atlantic Ocean did not exist 60 million years ago and that Europe and North America were connected.

The researchers spent most summers from 1973 until 1982 in the desolate area, living in tents while gathering fossils and rock strata in 30- and 40-degree temperatures.

The team's original goal was fulfilled — they collected the remains of terrestrial animals also found in Europe, evidence that the two continents once were joined. But in 1980, they were shocked to learn their findings didn't match fossils unearthed near the equator.

"We kept asking, 'What's going on here?'" West said in an interview Thursday.

The scientists found they could not date the rocks by using biostratigraphy, the traditional technique of using fossils to date rock strata, because they got conflicting results depending on what specimens they used for comparison.

The research team instead turned toward paleomagnetism, measuring the magnetism of the rocks and comparing it against a worldwide standard to see how old it is.

They discovered that fossils as old as 80 million years found in the extreme north could not be compared with those found near the equator because the organisms apparently evolved at different times.

Some plant species turned up in Arctic fossils 18 million years earlier than those found in the tropics, while some mammal fossils in the Arctic were 2 million to 4 million years older than those to the south.

It was a revolutionary idea, upheaving conventional wisdom which places the origin of all life near the equator.

Some scientists "disagreed violently" with the researchers' findings, while others praised their work, West said.

"It's human nature," West said of the skeptics. "It's antithetical to what they've been taught. It's sort of a show-me. They simply want more data — and so do we — to substantiate what we're saying."

"Some of them said, 'This is terrific, it's exactly the same pattern that's showing up in Antarctica,'" he said.

The findings have theoretical as well as technological implications, according to West. The mineral industry, for instance, will be altered significantly, particularly where rock strata is studied to help locate oil during drilling.

West plans to return to the Arctic next summer to continue his work, which is funded by the National Geographic Society and the Canadian government. He admits there's still much more to be learned.

"It (the group's findings) creates a lot of uncertainties," he said. "We have a responsibility not to just throw it on the table like a dead fish and let it rot."

Los Angeles, Chicago Teachers Plan Strikes

By The Associated Press

Los Angeles teachers without a contract today vowed to boycott classes for 550,000 students despite administrators' promises to keep schools open, and a union leader said "frustrated" Chicago teachers will strike in two weeks unless they get a raise.

As the school year revved up around the nation, strikes by about 5,800 teachers in 21 school districts Thursday kept more than 95,000 students out of school in six states — Michigan, Rhode Island, Washington state, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Today's planned one-day boycott in Los Angeles, the nation's second-largest school district after New York, was announced late Thursday after 6½ hours of fruitless bargaining between the district and the United Teachers of Los Angeles.

"We'll be on the streets tomorrow," said Mike Bennett, vice president of the 18,000 member union. "The district has not changed its position at all."

School superintendent Harry Handler said the district will keep classes open using non-boycotting teachers, principals, supervisors, psychologists, other employees and parents. But Bennett said it is illegal to have people without teaching certificates running classes.

Ruth Bunyan, principal of Tulsa Street elementary school in Granada Hills, said that in their teachers' absence, pupils would see movies like "Maps Are Fun" and "How to Solve a Problem."

"It won't be a regular day," she said, "but it will be a good day."

While negotiations broke off after a brief session Thursday, both sides agreed to resume at 9 a.m. Sunday.

A strike authorization vote is scheduled Monday, but union spokesman Len Feldman said bargaining could continue this weekend. School board has unilaterally approved a 7.8 percent teacher pay raise, which UTLA President Judy Solkovits denounced as a "union-busting tactic." The union wants a 9.4 percent wage hike plus a 1.5 percent increase in paid medical benefits.

Beginning teachers now make $13,700; the average salary is $24,000.

UTLA's last two-year contract expired in June 1982. Teachers worked last year under an extension while a fact-finder reviewed the issues, which also included a variety of non-wage issues.

In the nation's third-largest school district, Chicago Teachers Union President Robert M. Healey planned to continue bargaining today, armed with teachers' support for a walkout Oct. 3.

"Our people are extremely frustrated and they feel they have been used," union President Robert M. Healey said Thursday after 92 percent of the 23,543 voting union members favored a walkout.

Chicago School Board members were "very disappointed" at news of the vote, said board President Sol Brandzel, but he added that they will continue to negotiate to avert any disruption of classes.

The board has offered teachers the same salary they received last year, with a slight increase in benefits. Teachers accepted a wage freeze last year, though it did not affect automatic increases annually from the first year to the fifteenth year of employment. Healey is pledged this time to increasing the entire scale.

Meanwhile, 300 striking teachers in Illinois' Crete-Monee District 201U, south of Chicago, voted Thursday night to accept a two-year contract, ending their 10-day-old walkout which had affected 4,980 students. No details of the agreement were immediately available, but teachers were expected to return to their classrooms today.

In two other Illinois districts, 251 teachers remained off their jobs, affecting 4,870 students.

Other job actions Thursday included: —In Michigan, strikes by 2,300 teachers in 10 school districts kept 41,100 students out of class.

—In Ohio, a strike by 91 teachers in Lordstown kept about 1,000 students out of class.

Honda Wins Top EPA Fuel Rating

DETROIT (AP) — The 1984-model Honda Civic CR-X is the nation's most fuel efficient car, replacing the Volkswagen Rabbit Diesel in ratings by the Environmental Protection Agency, The Detroit Free Press reported today.

The CR-X, a two-passenger hatchback with a 1.3 liter four-cylinder gasoline engine, received the top rating of 51 miles per gallon in a EPA report to be released this weekend, the Free Press said.

The rating was the highest ever reached by a gasoline-powered engine in EPA tests, the newspaper said.

The Datsun Nissan Sentra was second at 50 miles per gallon, the Rabbit and the Toyota Corolla at 47 were third, and the Ford Escort was next with a rating of 46 mpg, unidentified auto industry sources told the Free Press. All of the cars are 1984 diesel models.

VW's Rabbit had been the EPA's top-rated car since the 1978 model year.

Ford's two-liter, four cylinder diesel engine is built by its Japanese affiliate, Toyo Kogyo, which builds Mazda autos. The engine will be offered in Ford Tempo and Mercury Lynx and Topaz models, the newspaper said. Escort is the automaker's first U.S. diesel.

The Corolla also is the Japanese carmaker's first U.S. diesel, while Nissan introduced its Sentra diesel during the 1983 model year, the Free Press said.

Bailey Film To Be Shown

RALEIGH — "Free Show Tonight," a new film about an old custom, will be shown three times on Saturday night at Bailey Elementary School, Pine Street, Bailey. Showings will be at 7, 8:30 and 10 p.m.

From 8-11 p.m., Heritage Bank will host a reception for movie-goers in the Home-makers Club building across the street from the school. Tickets for admission to the film are $1.

"Free Show Tonight" is a joint production of the Smithsonian Institution and the Folklife Office of the Division of the Arts Council. It depicts a reunion staged in Bailey in September 1980 of some of the biggest stars of the by-gone entertainment of medicine shows. Support for the $100,000 project came from grants from the National Endowment for the arts and from North Carolina Public Television.

A preview copy of the 16mm film for eligible organizations is available on videotape upon request. For details, contact Steven Zeitlin, 212/291-1100, New York, or George Holt, Folklife Programs, N. C. Department of Cultural Resources, Raleigh, N. C., 733-7897.

House Accepts More Funds For Jobs Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — With as many as 2 million Americans out of work because of foreign competition, the House has endorsed a two-year extension of an expanded job training and assistance program to help those workers find new jobs.

Critics of the bill, which more than doubles the amount spent on that program this year, warned of a presidential veto. Rep. Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., who led the unsuccessful attempt to water down the measure, warned that it sets a "dangerous precedent for the future that is going to threaten to bust our budget wide open."

But the mainly Democratic supporters of the legislation, approved by voice vote on Thursday, cited a Congressional Budget Office estimate that as of last January at least 750,000

Americans had been knocked out of work by rising foreign imports. Other officials say another million or more have lost their jobs for the same reason since then.

"We are not in this bill passing out a lot of money for weekly benefits," said Rep. Donald Pease, D-Ohio. "We are training laid-off workers."

Spokesmen for President Reagan have warned that the proposal will be recommended for a veto if it reaches the White House. It goes to the Republican-controlled Senate where Reagan's opposition is expected to carry more weight.

The administration has opposed continuing the program on grounds that it duplicates aid provided jobless workers under the Job Training Partnership Act passed by the last Congress. It also opposes changes in the program that effectively remove it from budgetary control and make its benefits an entitlement to eligible workers.

At almost the same time, however, a House subcommittee recommended defeat of legislation that would require foreign automakers selling at least 100,000 cars in the U.S. each year to either build some of those cars in America or use American-made components if they continue producing them overseas.

The so-called domestic content bill, which passed the full House in the last Congress, is intended to help U.S. automakers cope with rising foreign competition and thus preserve jobs. But U.S. Trade Representative William Brock, calling the proposal a "severe piece of protectionism," said the need for such legislation is waning as the U.S. auto industry continues to rebound.

The action on the jobs-related bills came less than a week before House Democratic leaders, trying to build a pre-election record against Reagan's economic policies, have scheduled action on a $3.5 billion plan to create 500,000 public works jobs over the next year. They predicted the plan will be approved.

The bill endorsed Thursday would keep the Trade Adjustment Assistance Act, set to expire at month's end, in effect through September 1985, but it shifts the emphasis of the program, according to backers, from providing financial assistance to securing job retraining for workers hit by import competition.

"We're trying to train people to use their hands and minds and God-given talents to make a living," said Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., chairman of the House trade subcommittee. "We always overlook these jobless people, these people who need the training."

According to congressional budget analysts, about $217 million would be spent on the program over the next 12 months and another $161 million in the following 12 months. The amount for the next year compares with the $95 million spent over the past 12 months and the $134 million earmarked for the purpose in the 1984 budget blueprint approved by Congress earlier this year.

Fresh Air, Big Chairs

Tar Heels, Virginians Discuss U.S. 17

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP) — Improving U.S. 17 would mean more jobs, tourism and economic growth for northeastern North Carolina and the Virginia tidewater region, Gov. Jim Hunt says.

"I know that highway money is tight. But I believe that the jobs and growth and profits to be generated by an upgraded U.S. 17 would repay the initial investment a thousand fold," Hunt said Thursday during a public hearing.

The hearing on proposals to widen and improve the two-lane highway — the major connector between the two states' coastal areas — also drew Virginia Gov. Charles Robb and members of the states' transportation boards.

The meeting was held in a tent alongside U.S. 17 in North Carolina, three miles south of the two states' border. Speakers included county commissioners, chamber of commerce executives, civic leaders and hospital officials.

Hunt said that almost 5,000 North Carolinians from 12 different counties drive each day to work in Virginia while 265 Virginians come to work in North Carolina counties of Currituck, Halifax, Hertford and Northampton.

In addition, North Carolinians spend about $145 million in Virginia stores each year, Hunt said.

"Those ties, economic, social, family, historical, are strong," Hunt said in a prepared statement. "And they can be even stronger with an upgraded U.S. 17."

Defense Bill Passes House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of plans to add to the U.S. stockpile of chemical weapons for the first time since 1969 say their chances should improve when congressional anger over the Soviet downing of Korean Air Lines Flight 007 subsides.

"Absent the emotion of the moment, we would have made a better showing and may have won," Rep. Ed Bethune, R-Ark., said Thursday after the House approved a $187.5 billion defense authorization bill 266-152.

Opponents of the bill had attempted unsuccessfully to turn the vote into a referendum on nerve gas.

"Thirty days ago, the count was close to 200 votes" against the measure, Bethune added, although "we were always aware it was an uphill battle."

Bethune and an ally, Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., said that because the vote came only a day after the House had unanimously denounced the Soviets for their destruction of the civilian airliner and its 269 occupants, they were deprived of an objective hearing.

Both said they have more confidence they will prevail in a few weeks when the House considers an appropriations bill that contains money for the programs authorized in the bill approved Thursday.

The compromise measure earmarks $114.6 million for facilities and components related to production of nerve-gas bombs and artillery shells but bans final assembly of the weapons until October 1985.

Acting on its original versions of the bill last summer, the House voted 256-161 to delete the nerve-gas provision and the Senate turned back a similar attempt when Vice President George Bush cast a tie-breaking vote.

This led Zablocki and Bethune to say that House negotiators, members of the Armed Services Committee, had failed to fight for their chambers' position when they met senators to draft the compromise, final version of the bill.

But Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill., the Armed Services chairman, said "we argued hard and long to sustain the House position" before giving in to an unyielding Senate delegation.

Bethune, Zablocki and others contended also that the existing U.S. stocks of nerve-gas weapons are sufficient and that a multiyear, multibillion-dollar program to replace them is a waste of money.

Farmers Oppose Plan For Trade Department

WASHINGTON (AP) — Formation of a U.S. Department of International Trade and Industry is likely to be approved by Congress despite opposition from many farmers, says the Senate committee chairman conducting hearings on the proposal.

"I think support is building," Sen. William V. Roth Jr., R-Del., said Thursday as his Governmental Affairs Committee concluded hearings on the measure, which is backed by the Reagan administration.

"I remain confident we can get it through the Senate this fall and the House early next year," Roth said after agriculture groups told the panel that farmers fear their interests will not be protected by a trade department.

This was the first major opposition at the hearings to the legislation, which has been endorsed by a broad spectrum of manufacturing groups as a way of making U.S. products more competitive in the world market.

John C. Datt, Washington office director of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said farmers oppose the bill's section merging the Commerce Department and the office of the U.S. trade representative which is part of the White House.

"The Department of Commerce has a constituency of its own that ... often has interests that do not coincide with the interests of farmers and ranchers," Datt said.

"Sometimes those interests get expressed in terms of quotas on automobiles, quotas on motorcycles, limitations on steel imports and other actions which could result in retaliation against American farm products," he said.

"The Farm Bureau fears that if the trade reorganization comes about, eventually agriculture ... will be drawn into the new department or isolated from any imported trade role," Datt testified.

He said that trade representatives have impartially served the interests of agriculture in trade negotiations. He urged Roth to keep the trade representative independent of the new agency.

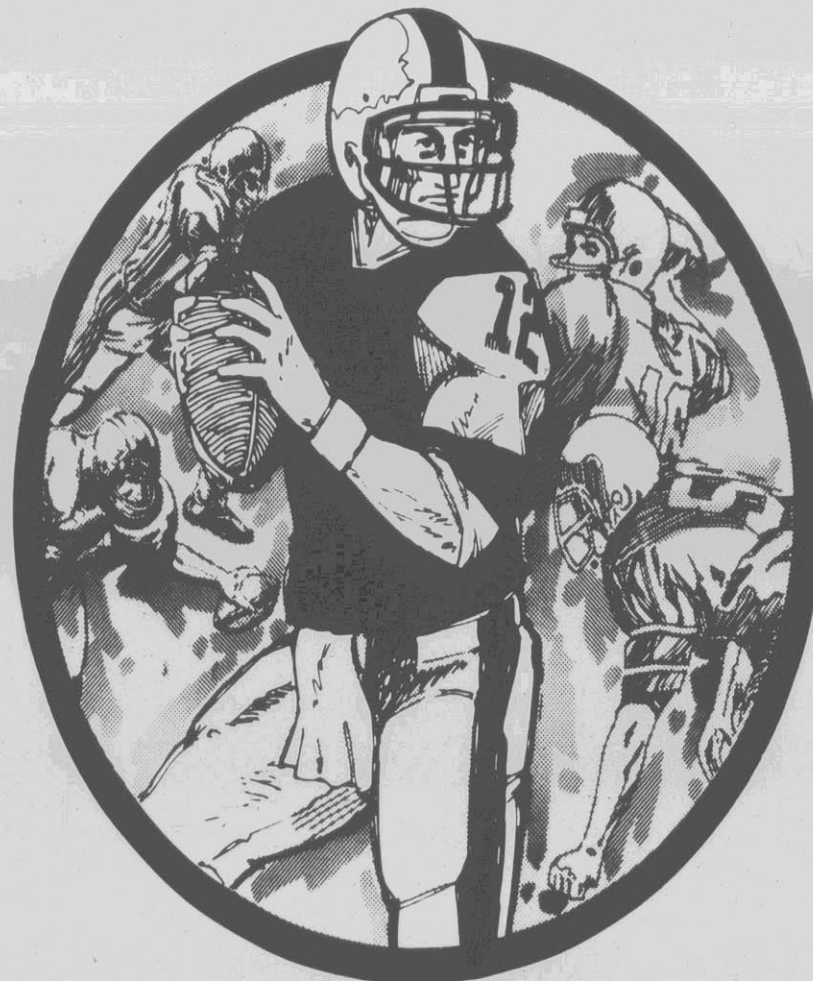

Joining Datt at the witness table were officials from the American Soybean Association and the National Association of Wheat-growers. Datt said Roth's bill is also being opposed by the American Forest Products Association, the National Grange and the National Grain Trade Council.

Roth, noting that other agriculture groups such as the corn growers and fertilizer manufacturers support the bill, said he thought that "in time we can turn more around."

"I'm somewhat surprised to hear the agricultural community is satisfied with where we are now," Roth told Datt. "There are serious problems. Are you satisfied with embargoes?"

Roth said a trade secretary would be able to join with the secretary of agriculture at the highest levels of government in opposing embargoes.

Cents On The Highway

GOLD RUN, Calif. (AP) — A truck hauling 7.6 million pennies from the Denver Mint overturned on Interstate 80 in the rugged Sierra Nevada, spilling half a million coins across the westbound lanes.

The truck and its double-trailer, driven by Michael Stevens, 27, of Banning, was headed for the San Francisco

Federal Reserve Bank when it overturned Thursday, apparently because of brake failure, the Highway Patrol said. Stevens was not hurt.

With a car in front of him and a truck on his right, Stevens said, he put on the brakes on a mountainous stretch about 50 miles east of Sacramento.

The brakes failed, he said, and the truck struck a center divider and overturned.

At least 100 bags of pennies, each containing $50 worth of coins, spilled onto the westbound lanes of the four-lane divided freeway, said Don Marker, a Highway Patrol spokesman.

Crews picked up the 500,000 pennies, except for some which were lost down a drain leading to a creek, he said.

Church: Helms' Policies Are His Own

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., doesn't attend regularly the Raleigh church of which he is a member, and his political philosophy shouldn't be linked to the church, says its pastor.

Dr. T.L. Cashwell commented Thursday in response to Helms' statements that the nation's churches don't do enough to feed the poor. Cashwell acknowledged that Hayes-Barton

Baptist Church has no ongoing feeding program, although it often distributes food to the needy.

Asked about Helms' comments on church food programs, Cashwell said: "You must remember that he has not been a resident of the city of Raleigh for the two terms he has been in office. He is a member of the church; his name is on the roll."

Cashwell said it is unfair to identify the church with Helms' policies.

Bruce Moore, associate pastor of the church, spent part of Thursday in the soup kitchen at the Church of the Good Shepherd in Raleigh, said Cashwell. He said church members frequently help other churches that serve the poor.

"We are also involved in the world hunger program and urban ministry of Raleigh," he said. "We also contribute financially, but I can't give you the figures."

Helms said Thursday in a telephone interview from Washington that he could get to church in Raleigh only about once a month.

During a Senate Agriculture Committee hearing Wednesday, he said the nation's churches and private organizations, not the government, should ensure that Americans don't go hungry. He said most churches are not doing all they can to end hunger, which officials say is on the rise because of economic recession.

"The point I was making was more and more churches are becoming involved in this and more could and should be done," Helms said Thursday. "My comments were mostly in response to comments by witnesses."

Hunt Office Rankled By EPA Claims

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's decision to put PCB-contaminated soil in a Warren County landfill was supported fully by the federal Environmental Protection Agency, says a spokesman for Gov. Jim Hunt.

Brent Hackney, Hunt's deputy press secretary, Thursday denied an EPA scientist's claim that the state could have used a portable incinerator to treat the soil where it lay.

Hackney said the EPA rejected all alternatives to landfill disposal that state officials suggested.

"We did what the EPA told us to do," he said. "There was and is no EPA-approved method for dealing with PCBs other than disposal in a landfill.

"It really rankles me that the EPA can come along so long after the fact and say we should have used a portable incinerator. Even now, it is only being used on an experimental basis," Hackney added.

John E. Brugger, a senior scientist with the EPA's Municipal Environmental Research Laboratory in Edison, N.J., said the incinerator "could have been used, but at a much greater cost" than putting the tainted soil in a landfill.

Brugger was interviewed this week during a PCB conference at the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences, located at the Research Triangle Park.

Oil containing PCBs, or polychlorinated biphenyls, was dumped illegally along 243 miles of North Carolina roadsides in 1978.

Hunt Renews Request For Data On A-Bomb

By The Associated Press

Gov. Jim Hunt has renewed a request he made two years ago for a full report on a B-52 bomber crash near Goldsboro 22 years ago which a former U.S. secretary of defense says nearly detonated a nuclear bomb.

Hunt's request to Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger comes in the wake of a statement by Robert McNamara, defense secretary in 1961, that all but one of the steps needed to explode the bomb were taken.

The Air Force on Thursday disputed McNamara's claim, saying that two mechanisms designed to prevent accidental explosion of an atomic weapon worked as designed and blocked "any possibility of detonation."

News accounts similar to McNamara's statement Wednesday surfaced in December 1980. At that time, Hunt requested a Department of Defense report on the crash.

Hunt "was not satisfied with the explanation we got ... and he is going to renew his request ...," Gary Pearce, the governor's press secretary, said Thursday.

Pearce said the Pentagon told North Carolina officials there had been no danger of a nuclear explosion or the release of larger amounts of radiation after the crash. But McNamara's statement "raises those questions all over again," Pearce said.

The crash occurred Jan. 24, 1961, when the right wing collapsed during a B-52 training flight. The plane was carrying live bombs, a practice since discontinued on training flights.

The bomber from Seymour Johnson Air Force Base in Goldsboro went down near the community of Faro, 15 miles to the north, killing three of the eight crewmen. Two 24-megaton bombs fell out as the plane descended.

One bomb broke apart as it hit the ground, releasing some minor uranium radiation contamination. The Air Force says no radiation remains.

The other bomb, the one McNamara said almost exploded, fell to earth as its parachute opened.

The bomb, 1,800 times more powerful than the one dropped on Hiroshima, could have destroyed everything within a 10-mile radius of the explosion and sent radiation for dozens of miles around, depending on the wind.

Both mechanisms designed to prevent accidental detonation through just such an accident worked, the Air Force said in a statement.

"In fact, all safety devices worked as designed, but those two prevented any possibility of detonation," the statement said.

Details of the accident were first released in 1969 and there have been periodic inquiries and news stories about it since. Each time, the Pentagon has declared there was no chance of a detonation.

McNamara's comment came in discussions with reporters after a luncheon speech at which he discussed a magazine article he had written about NATO nuclear policy.

Senate Rejects Helms Plan For Plane Bill

By The Associated Press
U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., says the Senate's rejection of his proposed amendments to a congressional resolution condemning the Soviet Union will be interpreted as a sign of weakness.

"I think the Soviets will interpret it that way," Helms said Thursday after the Senate unanimously passed the resolution approved a day earlier by the House. It blasts the Soviet downing of a South Korean jetliner, which killed 269 people, as a "brutal massacre" and demands a Soviet apology and compensation of the victims' families.

Helms introduced eight amendments to toughen the measure with specific sanctions. "Unless we put some teeth in it, it will be shrugged off in the Kremlin," he said. "The fact is we must take real action."

However, the Senate followed the lead of Majority Leader Howard Baker in voting down the amendments. Baker said the White House wanted Congress to unite in support of the limited retaliation authorized thus far.

The Senate voted, 95-0, to approve a harshly worded joint resolution passed a day earlier by the House, 416-0.

"When it comes to responding to its aggression, there are no Republicans or Democrats — only Americans, united and determined to protect our freedom and secure the peace," President Reagan said after the Senate vote.

Before gaining final passage of the resolution, which goes to Reagan for his signature, Baker had to deflect attempts by a group of conservatives led by Helms. In doing so, Baker was reflecting White House wishes that Congress show a united front in support of the limited steps that the president has taken thus far.

Baker won motions to table — and thus kill — amendments urging Reagan to, among other steps, begin a broad review of U.S.-Soviet relations, ban Soviet imports produced with forced labor from U.S. markets and recall the U.S. ambassador in Moscow.

Most of the measures were killed by wide margins. However, a proposal to reduce the number of Soviet diplomatic personnel in this country to nearer the number of U.S. representatives in Moscow lost only 49-45, and a call for Reagan to give Congress a report on possible Soviet violations of existing arms-control agreements failed 50-45.

Sen. Walter D. Huddleston, D-Ky., said the Soviets have 1,000 citizens in the United States, of whom the FBI estimates 40 percent are spies, while there are only 300 American embassy personnel in Moscow.

As sent to Reagan, the resolution condemns the Soviets for "criminal destruction" of the South Korean airliner and demands compensation for the families of the 269 victims, an international investigation into the attack and a "full and frank explanation from the Soviet Union for this brutal massacre."

BROTHER AGAINST BROTHER

WHAT AMOUNTED TO CIVIL WAR, AND PITTED BROTHER AGAINST BROTHER, ALMOST CAUSED A COMPLETE DIVISION AMONG THE TRIBES OF ISRAEL! THE GIBEATHITES (NATIVES OF A TOWN IN THE PROVINCE OF BENJAMIN) WERE THE CAUSE OF THE CONFLAGRATION. (JUDGES CHAPTER 20) ALL THE REST OF THE TRIBES WERE LINED UP AGAINST THEM, BUT THE TRIBE OF BENJAMIN HAD PROBABLY THE BEST SOLDIERS OF ISRAEL AND IN TWO SUCCESSIVE DAYS, THEY ROUTED THEIR BROTHER TRIBESMEN AND SWEEPED THEM OFF THE FIELD OF BATTLE WITH TUMULTUOUS EASE! ON THE THIRD DAY PHINEHAS, THE SON OF ELEAZAR, ASKED THE LORD IF THEY SHOULD CONTINUE THE BATTLE AGAINST BENJAMIN AND THE LORD CONSENTED. THIS TIME THE ISRAELITES USED AN AMBUSHING TECHNIQUE AND PUT DOWN THE BENJAMINITES SO SEVERELY THAT THERE WERE ONLY SIX HUNDRED MEN LEFT OUT OF TWENTY SIX THOUSAND!

Saw Growth In Religious Field

NEW YORK (AP) —

Members of an interfaith delegation report "concrete signs of vigorous religious growth" in China.

Rabbi Arthur Schneier, president of the Appeal of Conscience Foundation, reporting on a fact-finding mission to China to follow up an earlier visit two years ago, said there was visible evidence of expanded, functioning religious facilities.

"Attendance at religious services was large and inter-generational," he said.

David Beaty is a native of Charlotte, N.C. In 1976, while a student at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, he committed his life to Jesus Christ. Three years later, he received a new power when he was baptized with the Holy Spirit.

He is a salesman for the Lanier Business Products. He is currently President of the Winston-Salem Chapter of FGBMF. David loves to share the Word of God, and has many opportunities to teach and minister. He recently returned from a second trip to Jamaica where he saw many coming to Jesus for Salvation and Deliverance.

He is particularly interested in obeying God's leading to teach the body of Christ about personal soul-winning. He has taken many groups of young people witnessing at beaches, college campuses, on the streets, and door to door. Hundreds have been saved and many have received miraculous healings in the past two years. David has just completed a mini-booklet entitled "He That Wins Souls..." which contains principles of effective witnessing. He enjoys sharing experiences in personal witnessing which will exhort and encourage others.

Poultry
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 49.75 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pound birds. 52 percent of the loads offered have been confirmed with a preliminary weighted average of 40.18 cents f.o.b. dock or equivalent. The market is lower and the live supply is moderate for a light to moderate demand. Weights desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Friday was 1,640,000, compared to 1,835,000 last Friday.

Hens
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was steady. Supplies fully adequate. Demand moderate. Prices paid per pound for hens over 7 pounds at farm for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter was 22 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices edged upward today as Wall Street kept its weekly vigil on the money supply.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 2.13 to 1,217.17 by noon.

Gainers held a narrow lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Commonwealth Edison led the active list, off 1/4 at 27 1/2. A 150,000-share block traded at that price.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose 19 to 95.42. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 19 at 231.87.

Volume on the Big Board came to 30.48 million shares at noon, against 30.39 million at the same point Thursday.

ECU Adds Five New Members To Faculty

Five new faculty members have joined the division of social work in the East Carolina University School of Allied Health and Social Professions.

They are Dr. Dennis A. Bagarozzi, formerly of the University of Georgia; Dr. Roger D. Sharpe, a Frank Knox fellow from Harvard University to Oxford University, England, during 1982-83; Rebecca Lutz, who has been studying and teaching at Virginia Commonwealth University; James M. Moran, who has been teaching and studying at the University of Wisconsin, and Mary Pegram, former coordinator of social work at Averett College, Danville, Va.

Dr. Bagarozzi, originally from New York, has done research and written several publications on family therapy and clinical social work. He holds degrees from the Hunter School of Social Work and Pennsylvania State University. He will be coordinator of Direct Practice Concentration for ECU's master's degree program in social work.

Dr. Sharpe, a native of Morganton and an alumnus of ECU, received master's and doctoral degrees from Harvard University. He was an Education Fellow with the Secretariat of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare before receiving the master of public administration degree from Harvard's John F. Kennedy School of Government.

Lutz, who has been appointed associate director for field studies in social work at ECU, received a master's degree in social work from the University of Tennessee. Before beginning doctoral studies at VCU, she taught at ECU for three years.

Originally from Seattle, Wash., Moran is a Ph.D. candidate at the University of Wisconsin where he was also been working at Wisconsin's Institute for Research on Poverty. He received a master's degree in social work from the University of Washington.

Pegram, a former resident of Wilmington, is a master's degree graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. She is currently completing doctoral studies at Howard University, specializing in research on exceptional children.

According to Dr. John Ball, director of the ECU division of social work, the five faculty members will be involved in planning and preparations for ECU's new graduate program in social work, which is scheduled to begin in the fall of 1984.

Chimp Bites Man On Cycle

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A motorcyclist slowed down to avoid hitting a chimpanzee standing in the road, then was attacked by the animal and bitten several times, authorities say.

The chimp's owner said he had warned the motorcyclist not to stop, and said the man kicked the animal.

Bongo, about 4 feet tall and weighing 135 pounds, is being held for 21 days at the Columbus Zoo to make sure he doesn't have rabies, said the Muskingum County sheriff's office. Authorities acknowledged that chimpanzees rarely contract rabies.

The motorcyclist, 49-year-old Gary Morrison of Roseville, underwent surgery Thursday night at Riverside Hospital in Columbus. Authorities said Morrison was bitten on his arms, left leg and fingers.

A hospital spokeswoman said Morrison's condition was changed from good to satisfactory, but she had no further details about the surgery.

According to the sheriff's office, Morrison slowed down Thursday when he spotted the chimp standing in the middle of U.S. 22 south of here.

When Morrison slowed down, the report said, the chimp grabbed him off the bike and chewed on him.

Suits Prepared In Blast Here

Greenville attorney Marvin Blount Jr. said today he was preparing to file civil suits on behalf of two persons injured in the March 2 explosion at Village Green Apartments. The 5:45 a.m. blast demolished several apartment units in the complex, killed one man and injured a dozen others.

Blount said one of the suits seeks $2 million in compensatory damages and $400,000 in punitive damages for Gary Thornton Elliott of Durham.

The suits, to be filed with the clerk of court in Pitt County, name Village Green owners Samuel A. McConkey and Reginald Fountain, and the firms Solon Automated Services, International Dryer Corp., United Technologies Corp., Fenwall Corp., Blount Petroleum Corp., and Pargas of Farmville as defendants.

Twelve other suits naming the same individuals and firms as defendants have already been filed in connection with the explosion.

Including the two complaints scheduled to be filed today, plaintiffs are seeking a total of 6.82 million in compensatory damages and $3.19 million in punitive damages.

Hope Will Lead Drive For Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., said today that comedian Bob Hope will lead a fund-raising drive for survivors of the 61 Americans killed in the Soviet downing of Korean Air Lines flight 007.

D'Amato, who launched the effort, said he hoped at least $1 million would be raised. The newly formed Soviet Massacre Victims Fund has applied to the Internal Revenue Service for tax-exempt status, which would make contributions tax deductible.

The senator said that in addition to Hope, who agreed to be honorary chairman, Chrysler Corp. chairman Lee Iacocca and New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner have also agreed to help.

Hope already has taped two messages for use on radio and television, D'Amato said.

D'Amato said he got the idea for the fund from a conversation with Dr. Michael Kole, an Albany, N.Y. dentist whose wife, Muriel, was one of the 269 victims.

Kole has filed a class-action suit against the Soviet government and Korean Air Lines, but said he didn't expect to collect anything and personally did not need the money.

"I said, 'What about the families who do? What would you think of the idea of a fund?' He said I think that would be terrific."

D'Amato said the fund would seek corporate contributions, as well as small donations from individuals.

Man Survives In Snake Pit

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A man who lived for 25 days and seven hours in a box filled with poisonous snakes says he'll never do it again.

Bill "Keoga" Rust emerged Wednesday night from the pit at Wonderland Park, a pit battle and very grateful.

The 44-year-old carpenter said the first thing he wanted to do was take a shower. He said he only took sponge baths while living inside the 3-by-6-foot box.

He said he slid into the snake pit Aug. 20 in an effort to best his brother Tonga, who Rust said lived in a pit with snakes for 25 days. That was 10 years ago in the same amusement park.

"Never, never again," he said.

Rust's roommates included seven rattlesnakes, a cottonmouth and a copperhead. On the second day, he said, he was bitten on the right foot by a rattlesnake but suffered no ill effects.

The body will be at Norcott Memorial Chapel in Ayden from 7-9 p.m. today and will remain until carried to the church one hour before the funeral. The family will meet for the funeral at the Wingate home in Fort Barnwell.

"The Miracle Girl"

Annie R. Murphy and James E. Murphy, along with the family, would like to thank everyone who aided in the recovery of their daughter, Shirley Murphy, of systemic Lupus.

Shirley's condition became very critical in the month of January. She was on the respirator and given 30 minutes to live. Shirley was hospitalized for 5 to 6 months in Chapel Hill Memorial Hospital.

Shirley's mother was by her bedside throughout this entire time giving her the mental, physical and spiritual support that was needed.

We give all praise to God because He is still working miracles.

We would like to thank our pastor, Bishop Griswold, every church, business, individuals, the doctors and nurses from Chapel Hill and those that we didn't know for the cards, flowers, money, food and miles that were traveled to visit and the prayers and love that was shown.

God is still alive and working miracles. We are living witnesses of God's power. If we can be of any help to anyone, we would be glad to share with you the blessings of God.

Thank You!

Pirates Open Home Slate Saturday

By WOODY PEELE

Reflector Sports Editor

For the past two weeks, the Pirates of East Carolina University have fought for recognition against better-known teams. They were successful in their quest, losing to seventh-ranked Florida State, 47-46, in their open, and then rallying to top N.C. State, 22-16, last weekend.

This week, however, the tables are turned on the Pirates. They are the hunted instead of the hunter, and Ed Emory is just a little bit worried about it all.

"I'm concerned about it," Emory said of the upcoming game Saturday night at 7 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium against Murray State. It will be the home opener for the Pirates.

The East Carolina Sports Hall of Fame will also induct four new members Saturday night. They are Howard Porter, former basketball coach; Lt. Col. J.C. Thomas, former basketball player; Bill Hill, former wrestler; and Dick Cherry, former football player.

"These last few years, we've never played as good as we were favored to win. Our level of play has come down to that of the opposition and we just can't do that. I don't think we will (have a let down), though. This team believes in itself and has confidence," Emory said.

Murray State, a member of the Division I-AA Ohio Valley Conference, brings a 1-0 record into the contest, having beaten beaten Southeast Missouri, 25-11, two weeks ago. The Racers have had two weeks to prepare for the Pirates.

This is the "big game" for the Racers, too. East Carolina is the only Division I-A team on their schedule, and it definitely gives Murray State a shot at beating one of the "big boys."

Despite their so-called lack of recognition, Murray State has been a strong member of their conference. Pirate fans might recall, Emory pointed out, that Eastern Kentucky of the OVC came in here three years ago and spanked the Pirates, 28-16. Eastern Kentucky was again a national power among Division II-A teams last year, but only topped the Racers, 21-20.

Offensively, the Racers are a lot like Florida State, Emory says. "They run a one-back backfield, and they throw a lot of stuff underneath your coverage. They have three of the finest receivers of any team we'll face in Keith Lester (6-5, 250, Jr. tight end), a transfer from Florida State; Bart Robinson (6-3, 240, Sr. tight end), a transfer from Villanova; and Stan Trice (5-11, 165, Sr. flanker). Those two tight ends may be the best two together in the country, and Trice is probably the leading receiver in the state of Kentucky," Emory said. "They'll throw a lot."

Oddly enough, the Racers didn't throw that much in their opener. Quarterback Kevin Sisk (6-2, 170, So.) played for the first time against Southeast Missouri, hitting 15 of 23 for 190 yards.

Third-team fullback Willie Cannon, subbing for injured players, leads the rushing with 97 yards. He suffered a knee injury in the late stages of the game also, and is listed as doubtful. Neal Cummins, who started the season at fullback, is slated to start against the Pirates.

"They ran the sweep 33 times against Southeast, but if they try to run 33 sweeps this week, then I'll weight 150 pounds next week," Emory said, not really anticipating one heck of a crash diet.

Emory said that Murray State has six transfers playing on offense, and with only one game behind the Racers, the Pirate staff is really uncertain what its foe can do. "I really think that they'll come in throwing. They have nothing to lose, and a chance to gain some recognition."

Defensively, the Racers use a wide-tackle six, and Emory admits that their formation has given the Pirates trouble in the past. "I've always hated it," the coach said. "It makes you change so many blocking schemes. And you have a lot more versatility and flexibility in it." The Racers also feature four transfers on the defensive unit.

"They put an awful lot of pressure on the punting game," Emory added, noting that the Racers have blocked 22 kicks in the last two years. Their field goal kicker, Jeff Lancaster booted a 53-yarder in the opener, but also missed two inside 30 yards.

"We can't let our opponent keep the ball as much as it has in the first two games," Emory said. "We've got to keep the defense fresh."

East Carolina comes into the game relatively healthy, although Emory said he didn't plan — unless it becomes necessary — to play defensive tackle Steve Hamilton, allowing him some time to recover from leg injuries. Offensive lineman Norman Quick, injured in the state game, is questionable, and John Floyd, the starting center who underwent an appendectomy last week, is out. Keith Brown also has a bruised calf and Chris Santa Cruz has a pulled muscle. Both are expected to see action, however.

Two Pirates will be seeking to move up on the all-time lists this week offensively. Quarterback Kevin Ingram needs only five more pass completions to pass Mike Weaver, and just six more to surpass George Richardson and move into sixth place with 77.

Tight end Norwood Vann needs just 36 yards to become the school's ninth leading career receiver with 642 yards. Vann also needs just four catches to move into the top ten in career catches with 41. Three former Pirates are currently tied for tenth with 40 each.

The Pirates are also pushing "tail-gating" at each of their home games this year. Starting at 5 p.m. this week, a convenience store company will be passing through the parking lots, handing out gift packages to selected tail-gaters, with a special award each week for the "Tail-Gater of the Week."

Liberty Takes 2nd Win

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Skipper Dennis Conner brought a reputation as a sailing genius into the America's Cup races. He has done nothing to hurt it in the two races of the challenge series.

"Dennis does a remarkable job of pacing his personality to the stages of the race," said John Marshall, a sail company president who crews on Conner's America's Cup defender, Liberty.

Liberty and Conner handed challenger Australia II and helmsman John Bertrand the second straight defeat Thursday to take a 2-0 edge in their best-of-seven series for the historic grand prize of sailing.

It was not a good day for the Aussies. They filed a protest of Liberty's win, to be heard today. They called for a day off, so that means the third race won't be held until Saturday.

And the Australian yacht was hit right at start of the race with failure of a mast-head fitting, which hampered the challengers throughout the race, won by Liberty by one minute, 33 seconds at the end.

But Conner noted that despite the fitting failure, he had to come from behind as Australia led through the first three legs of the six-legged race, and apparently had plenty of push.

"She seemed pretty fast to us regardless of her problems," he told a news conference. "I'm sure it (fitting failure) didn't help them any, but they were still pretty fast for us today."

For the second straight day, Conner showed his ability to spot wind shifts coming out into Rhode Island Sound, and put them to use.

Liberty was behind going up the second windward leg, forcing Australia II into tacking duels and finally breaking off to take a long hitch to the east, and the Aussies did not cover them.

"We went to the right and we were fortunate enough to pick up a breeze that lifted us, and so when we came together, they had to tack underneath us," said Conner, veteran of the last four cup series.

Translation: that's the point where Liberty went ahead, to stay.

That's also the point the Australians protested.

The race was staged on a cool, bright day with northeast winds that were 17 knots at the start, dawdling down to 10 or less at the end, and wandering as much as 30 degrees around the compass.

"Dennis is superb in these conditions," commented Marshall, who heads North Sails and is sail trimmer on Liberty. "And some of us have sailed this course since 1974."

"So it's not entirely luck."

Marshall said Conner typically sails conservative tactics at start of a race, but then begins to grind down the opposition.

"He knows exactly the problem the other guy is having," Marshall commented, "and when he sees them in trouble, he gets more aggressive."

"He can sail both boats at once."

Liberty and Australia II are the survivors of ten yachts which went through a summer of racing to determine which two would meet in this series with the cut at stake. The U.S. has never lost it in 24 previous challenges going back to 1870.

Australian team chief Alan Bond said Thursday a pin broke in a fitting at the top of the mast, dropping the sail about 18 inches. The crew twice sent a man aloft, but he couldn't fix it.

Despite the mishap, which caused Australia II's sail to ripple and bulge oddly, the Aussies sailed to a 45 second lead at the first mark. It shrank to 31 seconds at the second turn and 21 at the third.

After Liberty rode the wind shifts to the lead, the U.S. yacht soared to a 48 second advantage after the second tacking leg. The difference dropped to 31 seconds after a run with the wind behind, but Liberty opened up on the final leg.

Conner said the breezes were hard on everyone.

"This wind was particularly fluky (changeable)," he said, "and with the wind dying as well, there were streaks and puffs. It was back and forth. Fortunately, we played things a little better. God smiled on us and enabled us to get by."

Rose Rips Gryphons

ROCKY MOUNT — Rose High School's cross-country team gained a 20-35 victory over Rocky Mount yesterday in the opening Big East meet of the year for the Rampants.

Paul Bolen captured first place for the Rampants with a time of 15:52. Steve Strothers, a sophomore, took second for Rose in 16:31, while Todd Crouch finished in 16:53 to take third, to shut the door on Rocky Mount.

The Gryphons crossed the line fourth with Steve Coley finishing in 17:08, followed by Rose's Clay Jackson in 17:10.

The second five finishers were David Ess of Rocky Mount, 17:29; Elbert Brown of Rocky Mount, 17:31; Simon Bastian of Rocky Mount, 17:45; Tommy Rosche of Rose, 17:46; and Dwayne Livingston of Rocky Mount in 18:08.

Other Rose finishers were John Evans, 14th in 18:35 and Bert Pfisterer, 19th in 19:59.

"Jackson's fifth place finish as a new runner, was a highlight for us," Coach Ron Hockmuth said.

Rose plays host to Beddingfield on Tuesday.

Woody Peele

Hmmm. We're definitely going to have to get better.

The early season has taken its toll in percentages, and maybe we're playing follow the leader too much, but we're also picking a lot alike.

After two weeks, we find that Vickie Spivey and Joe Jenkins (how?) have pulled into the lead with 15-8 records. Tom Baines is close behind at 14-9 — remember? He picked State!

This writer is next at 13-10, tied with the guests, while Jimmy Dupree brings up the rear with a 12-11 record.

Our guest last week, Bob Roller of the ECU Sports Information Staff, turned in a 7-4-1 record, which topped Rick Scoppe's 6-6 the week before.

This week's guest is Dave Hart, the new marketing director for ECU athletics. A couple of the games are close to Dave's heart too. We threw in Missouri at Wisconsin — his dad's the AD at Missouri; and we tossed in Texas at Auburn — he's an Alabama graduate. "I have to pick Missouri and I have to pick Texas. As an Alabama grad, I couldn't pick anybody else in Alabama to win anything."

Our high school picks are doing a little better. Last week's 7-0-1 record brings us up to 16-3-1 on the season, which is not bad at all.

This week, however, there are a few tough

ROCKY MOUNT — Rose High School's girls' tennis team rolled to an 8-1 victory over Rocky Mount yesterday, its second straight victory after an opening loss.

The Ramettes had little trouble in the match, dropping only the number one doubles match after insuring the win with a sweep of the singles. In the singles, Rocky Mount failed to win more than two games in any set.

Now 2-1, the Ramettes play host to Northern Nash in a make-up match on Monday.

Summary:

Louise Evans (R) d. Carmen Coley, 6-2, 6-2.
Kelly Wall (R) d. Joylette Whitaker, 6-2, 6-1.
Vickie Parrott (R) d. Susan Stock, 6-2, 6-1.
Susan Evans (R) d. Fran Worsley, 6-2, 6-1.
Ann Davis (R) d. Dawn Turnley, 6-1, 6-1.
Marjorie Jones (R) d. Sharon Allen, 6-0, 6-2.
Coley-Stock (RM) d. Catherine Land-Carolina Powell, 8-1.
Jessica Perry-Hayes Warren (R) d. Whitaker-Allen, 8-4.
Kara Deyton-Mary Kay Clark (R) d. Worsley-Turnley, 8-6.

Greene Central....6 East Duplin.....3

SNOW HILL — Greene Central's girls' tennis team broke into the win column for the first time this year, downing East Duplin, 6-3, yesterday.

Greene Central won five of the six singles matches, insuring the victory in the match.

Now 1-2, the Lady Rams have a make-up match on Monday at North Duplin.

Summary:

Kathy Herring (GC) d. Phyllis Scholar, 7-5, 6-3.
Jennifer Gay (GC) d. Becky Hunter, 6-1, 7-5.
Pam Lanier (ED) d. Carol Jenkins, 5-7, 6-3, 6-3.

Scholar-Mullins (ED) d. Herring-Gay, 8-3.
Jenkins-Ross (GC) d. Hunter-Lanier, 9-8.
Kelly Quinn-Brown (ED) d. Edwards-Craft, 8-4.

Washington.....7 Tarboro.....2

Washington High School won its fourth straight match of the season yesterday, gaining a 7-2 girls' tennis victory over Tarboro.

Washington swept the six singles matches to take the victory over the Valkyries. Tarboro managed to win two doubles matches to avoid a shutout.

The Lady Pam Pack plays host to Plymouth on Tuesday.

Summary:

Missy Fulmer (W) d. Jill Rogers, 6-2, 6-4.
Tommie Metters (W) d. Paige Temple, 6-1, 6-1.
Michele Manning (W) d. Tracey Harrell, 6-0, 6-2.

Exhibition: Kristi Allgood-Michelle House (W) d. Brenna Braswell-Marilyn Perry, 8-5.

Rose High School's volleyball team went down to defeat at the hands of New Hanover High School yesterday, two matches to none.

The Ramettes lost the first match, 15-5, 15-3. Greta Cooper led New Hanover with 10 serves for points, while Lisa Trevathan had four to pace Rose.

In the second match, the visitors won the opening match 15-4, but Rose came back to take a 15-13 victory in the second. New Hanover then won the rubber game, 15-7.

Sarah Gay led New Hanover with eight serves for points, while Alice Zincone paced Rose with five.

The Ramettes, now 0-6 on the year, play host to Goldsboro on Tuesday.

Greene Central....2 Goldsboro.....0

ones.

Farmville Central, which lost in its first two games, goes up against D.H. Conley, which has won two in a row after bowing in the opener. The Jaguars are hungry for a victory, while the Vikings are seeking a little revenge for the 40-0 loss handed them last year. The Vikes have never beaten Farmville — and that won't end this year. We go with Farmville, 28-7.

Ayden-Grifton travels to North Lenoir in what could be a toughie. The Chargers downed 2-A Richlands last week, but the Hawks a bird of a different color. This will give both teams a chance to find out how good they are. We'll stick with the Chargers to win, 12-7.

In other area games, it'll be Mattamuskeet nipping Chocowinity, Northwest Halifax over Jamesville; Northampton West over Greene Central; Roanoke over Edenton; and Williamston over Ahoskie.

Rose High School faces Eastern Wayne in a game that may not tell the true tale. The Rampants have a number of players sidelined — or slowed — by illness. How that will affect them is still to be seen. At any rate, our panel is still sticking with the Rampants, on a 4-2 margin.

East Carolina plays host to Murray State in the home opener for the year. After their showing at Florida State and N.C. State, the Pirates are solid favorites to win against still another State, Murray. The panel is solid down the line for the Pirates, 6-0.

Our other concensus picks: Georgia and Clemson, a toss-up; Georgia Tech over Furman; North Carolina over Miami of Ohio; Virginia over James Madison; Missouri over Wisconsin; Duke over South Carolina; Maryland and West Virginia, a toss-up; N.C. State over The Citadel; Wake Forest over Western Carolina; and Auburn over Texas.

Cubs Take 6-0 Win

Rose High School's junior varsity football team, despite having to play without its regular starting quarterback, gained a 6-0 victory over Eastern Wayne yesterday.

Quarterback Ervin Best has been moved up to the varsity unit this week because of a rash of illnesses on the main unit.

Clay Young scored the game's only touchdown in the third period on a two yard run. That came following a 35-yard pass to Dwight Smith and a 25-yard run by Sherry Frank that set up the score.

Smith and Tyrone Jones paced the Rose offense, while L.C. Atkinson, Wayland Moore, William Ward, Joe Hallow, George Saad, Van Alston and Adrian Brewington led the defense.

Rose is now 2-1 after claiming its second straight shutout, and will travel to Northern Nash next week for its first Big East game.

Farmville C.....20 Conley.....6

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central's junior varsity football team opened its season with a 20-6 victory over D.H. Conley last night.

The Jaguars moved out into a 14-0 lead before Conley managed to get on the scoreboard in the third period.

Wesley Harris broke a scoreless tie in the second quarter with a six-yard run for the Jaguars, and he added the two-point conversion for an 8-0 lead that held the rest of the half.

Harris scored again in the third period on a 59-yard run to up the lead to 14-0.

Fred Dixon closed out the Jaguar Cub scoring in the fourth quarter on a five-yard run.

Conley's lone touchdown came on a 52-yard romp by Sewell Mills.

Lee Hardee, Guy Mobley, Eugene Gatlin and Shane

Adams led the Conley defense. Conley is now 2-2 and has an open date next week, while Farmville plays host to West Craven.

Ayden-Grifton...32 North Lenoir.....14

LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton High School captured its second straight junior varsity football victory yesterday with a 32-14 romp over North Lenoir.

Timmy Best put the Charger Colts into the lead in the first period with a 37-yard pass from Danny West, but North Lenoir came back to tie it up later in the period.

Best, however, raced 18 yards for another score in the period for a 12-6 lead at the end of the frame.

Alex Chapman scored on a 22-yard run and Edward Barfield ran over the conversion, and West passed 63 yards to Best for another touchdown before the half ended with A-G up, 26-6.

Both teams scored again in the final period. Ayden-Grifton's TD came on an 83-yard run by Jesse Hooker.

Hooker led the rushing with 132 yards on five carries, while Best had 124 yards. He also had 113 yards in receptions, West was seven of 13 passing for 161 yards.

Hooker led the defense with six tackles and ten assists.

Now 2-0, the Chargers play host to Southern Nash next week.

Browns Down Bengals, 17-7

CLEVELAND (AP) — Drug suspensions and a punchless offense aside, the winless Cincinnati Bengals now claim to be leading the National Football League in bad calls by referees.

Cincinnati lost 17-7 to the Cleveland Browns in a nationally televised game Thursday night, and the Bengals argued that poor calls were critical in the loss.

First came a diving catch by Cleveland tight end Ozzie

Newsome in the end zone midway through the first quarter. The effort was outstanding, the 7-0 Browns' lead was recorded, but a televised replay left some doubt about whether Newsome had possession of the ball before it hit the ground.

"The last week, I was apologized to by league officials for four calls," said Bengals' Coach Forrest Gregg. "I wonder how many I'll get this week."

North Lenoir.....2 Farmville C.....0

FARMVILLE — North Lenoir took a pair of volleyball victories over Farmville Central yesterday. The Lady Hawks took the opening match, 15-11, 15-11, then came back with a 15-5, 12-15, 15-11 win in the second.

Judy Jones led the Farmville effort, serving up a total of 13 points, while Sissy King led North Lenoir with a total of 22.

The losses leave Farmville with a 3-3 record on the year. The Lady Jaguars play host to D.H. Conley on Tuesday.

Rose Girls Take Win

ROCKY MOUNT — Rose High School's girls' cross-country team breezed to an easy 15-0 victory over Rocky Mount yesterday in its opening meet of the year.

The Ramettes swept the event, taking the first five places to shut out the Lady Gryphons.

Carol Moore took first place for Rose with a time of 20:30. Cissy Taft finished second in 24:45, followed by Christian Michelle in 21:21. Becky Thompson finished fourth in 21:29, while Jennifer Byrd was fifth, also in the same time.

Rocky Mount first finisher, and the only one in the top ten was Luchsinger in sixth place with a time of 22:08. Rose took the other four places in the top ten with Stacy Thompson, 24:25; Michelle Connelly, 24:26; Layne King, 24:28; and Gina Branch in 24:31.

Other Rose finishers include Emily McDonald, 11th in 24:35; Michelle Silverman, 12th in 26:16; Cathryn Spencer, 13th in 26:18, and Gail Chamberlain, 16th in 29:31.

Rose, now 10-0, plays host to Wilson Beddingfield on Tuesday.

Women Appointees Spread Through The Federal Ranks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says President Reagan has appointed more women to top government posts than his predecessor, Jimmy Carter, named during the comparable period in Carter's term as president.

But a letter defending the administration's record acknowledged that Reagan's claim during a July 26 news conference that he appointed more than 1,000 women to executive jobs includes not only those he has named but several hundred political appointees picked by other members of the administration.

Reagan, who has named a spate of women to federal jobs in recent days, has defended his record against charges by women's groups that he is insensitive to women's issues and has retreated from the progress made by earlier administrations in giving women key government jobs.

In a letter to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission released Wednesday, White House personnel chief John S. Herrington said, "A comparison of all full-time direct presidential appointments shows that President Reagan selected 4 percent more women during the first two years of his administration than did President Carter."

Herrington said Reagan appointed 105 women to Jimmy Carter's 101.

When part-time jobs are included, Herrington said, Carter surges ahead with a total of 437 appointees to Reagan's 381. But the Reagan aide noted that Carter's figures include 39 women appointed to the National Commission on Observation of International Women's Year and 37 women named to the National Advisory Committee on Women.

If those appointments to panels "created to deal solely with women's issues" weren't counted, Herrington said, Reagan would have 20 more female appointees than Carter had. There is no general agreement, however, among those who play the numbers game on the accuracy of the Reagan administration's figures.

The Civil Rights Commission reported earlier this year that Reagan appeared to have hired 388 women in full-time and part-time jobs, but it said that constituted only 14.3 percent of all administration appointments. And Marilyn Neijelsky of the National Women's Political Caucus said any careful analysis of the record shows women simply have been given less important jobs in this administration.

Although she conceded Reagan's appointment of three women to the Cabinet and one to the Supreme Court were significant, she added no woman in this administration has been named to the federal appeals court, none is an under secretary, and none holds the post of general counsel in an agency. Meanwhile, a review of recent White House personnel announcements shows Reagan has named at least five women to various posts this week, including a new treasurer of the United States, a post that traditionally goes to a woman, an assistant administrator of the National Highway Safety Administration, an assistant administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, a federal judge in New Jersey and a member of the National Commission on Continuing Education.

Human Milk Kills Some Parasites

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists have discovered that human milk kills certain major parasites that cause disease in the digestive system, a finding that strengthens arguments in favor of breast feeding.

Researchers at the University of California Medical Center in San Diego found the first evidence that human milk kills the microorganism that is the leading cause of waterborne digestive disease in the United States, says a report published today in Science magazine.

Infections by the organism, a protozoan called Giardia lamblia, can result in severe diarrhea and decreased absorption of nutrients from food.

The infection, sometimes called "beaver fever" or "backpacker's diarrhea" because the organism gets into water through feces from animals or man, is particularly common in mountain areas.

"Infection with this parasitic protozoan is especially prevalent in children and may cause failure to thrive," said the report.

In the laboratory tests, human milk also killed an unrelated parasite that can infect the human colon, a single-cell animal called an amoeba that is formally named Entamoeba histolytica.

Infections caused by both Giardia and the amoeba are readily treatable with drugs and can be cured, said researchers. But human milk may serve a preventive role in children and further research with it could help scientists understand how some people ward off the parasites, they add.

Dr. Frances D. Gillin, the principal researcher, said in a telephone interview that human milk quickly kills the two strains of Giardia tested so far. Other strains responsible for infections also are likely to be killed by human milk, she said.

The researchers found that milk from cows and goats did not have this Giardia-killing ability.

Other research previously showed that human milk contains a number of anti-bacterial proteins that battle infection by these organisms.

"To our knowledge, however, there has until now been no information concerning anti-parasitic factors in human milk," said Ms. Gillin and her colleagues, David S. Reiner of the same medical center and Dr. Chi-Sun Wang, a biochemist at the Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation in Oklahoma City.

Biochemist Says Foods Contain Carcinogens

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Foods are full of their own natural pesticides, some of them cancer-causing, and burning or barbecuing a meal can increase the health hazard, a biochemist says today in a scientific paper.

Human consumption of "nature's pesticides" is "probably at least 10,000 times higher than the dietary intake of man-made pesticides," said Bruce Ames, chairman of the biochemistry department at the Berkeley campus of the University of California.

"Nature is not benign," Ames told reporters Thursday.

Cooked foods, especially burned or barbecued foods, appear to be a major source of potential carcinogens, he said, and the destructive effects of smoking and alcohol are well-documented.

But even raw tomatoes, mushrooms and alfalfa sprouts contain poisons that can cause genetic damage or cancer, he said.

"Plants have to defend themselves. ... They're full of toxic chemicals," Ames said.

"Every plant in nature is a few percent of toxic chemicals....

"They have to have them, otherwise the insects would eat them right up," he said. "They're nature's pesticides."

Human efforts to produce pest-resistant vegetables have sometimes increased their percentages of natural poisons, Ames said.

And because "the human diet is completely different now that it was 500 years ago," the body may not have had time to evolve and produce defenses against some of the harmful chemicals, he said.

However, Ames noted that some foods also contain natural materials that fight cancer and slow aging. And the body itself has "many levels of defense," such as enzymes that repair genes and the natural process of shedding skin, stomach linings and other tissues before they they can cause harm.

Despite his research, published in an article in today's issue of Science magazine entitled "Dietary Carcinogens and Anticarcinogens," Ames says he hasn't significantly altered his own diet, except making sure it's balanced and cutting down on burned foods, like the skin of barbecued chicken.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1983

YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning finds you able to plan your day's activities and organize your time so that you can do those things which mean the most to you in practical ways. Energies are up.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handling pressures of a public nature early is wise and later you can be with persons who can assist you in gaining wishes.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Morning is the best time to push those new ideas you have but later be out in the public for whatever you want to accomplish.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get those errands done for yourself and your loved one. Later be with persons who can be of assistance to you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do something that will please a partner and then handle your own affairs most wisely.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can complete that detailed work, but later be with a partner to look into new deals or ventures. Do some favor for a fellow worker.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Early plan that amusement and then handle all those little chores that await your attention. Then do some favor for kin.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get home tasks done early and later you can take time for the recreation you need and like. Plan the future better with your family.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan just how to state your views to partners before you get busy on home responsibilities. Get correspondence handled.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get financial affairs handled wisely. Then you can see friends who are progressive. Get good ideas from them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get your health in better shape and later get into practical affairs that are important to handle. Get your home in order.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 Feb. 19) Schedule your time well so that you can get work done early and then be out impressing others with your talents.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Gain the advice of a very clever friend and then plan for an adventure that is interesting and exciting. Go after a personal wish.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those fascinating young persons who will have much energy and many ideas and should be guided properly otherwise your progeny could just as easily get on the wrong side of life.

Gummer Picked As Chairman

LONDON (AP) — John Selwyn Gummer, an aggressive member of the Conservative Party's right wing, has been named party chairman by Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

Gummer, 43, a junior minister at the Department of Employment, succeeds Cecil Parkinson, who was promoted to secretary for trade and industry after masterminding the Tories' general election victory last June.

ABC Launches Two New Series This Weekend

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The current pet phrase in Hollywood is "high concept." Television executives, when they're not "doing lunch," are constantly searching for high-concept programs. These are shows that are so undemanding that they don't have to be explained to pre-schoolers or network programmers.

High-concept programs, for the most part, are anti-intellectual, devoid of subtlety and nuance and so blatantly broad in their characterizations that they become offensive.

Some may think this also defines today's family sitcoms and burning-rubber series, and they wouldn't be wrong. Bud Grant, president of CBS Entertainment, says "The Dukes of Hazzard" would be high concept, "The Waltons" low concept.

Anyone suffering from acrophobia best not watch ABC's new series, "Webster," which debuts tonight, and "Hardcastle & McCormick," which starts Sunday — sky-high concepts, if there ever were two.

In one case, ABC wanted warm-hearted comedy in the manner of Gary Coleman's "Diff'rent Strokes." In the other, the network wanted executive producer Stephen J. Cannell, who found ratings magic with "The A-Team," to create another world of punching-bag violence, where the victim always bounces back.

In each case, more is definitely less.

"Webster" stars the pint-size black kid from the Burger King commercials, Emmanuel Lewis, 12, who plays 7-year-old Webster Long. This high-concept, low comedy is so gushingly sentimental and manipulative that it's gooey.

George and Katherine Papadopolis, played by the real-life married couple, Alex Karras and Susan Clark, were just married after a whirlwind two-week courtship. He's an ex-jock who's now a sensitive lunkhead doing football analysis on TV. She's a proper Brahmin who works as an ombudsman but is lost at home, where making toast requires an instructional handbook.

It's instant culture clash, served up in a very heavy-handed way. What's more, the secondary characters are equally exaggerated and stereotypical. Katherine's male secretary is catty. George's ex-teacher, Peanut Butter Bukowski, is Polish, brutish and foolish.

Into this situation walks Webster, the son of George's best friend. Webster's parents died in a car accident, leaving George, as godfather, to raise the child. Katherine balks, but is won over by Webster's terminal cuteness.

In one shameless scene, Webster, upset because Katherine rejects him, runs away. George finds him sitting alone with his teddy bear in Chicago's Soldier Field. Violins are playing sweetly in the background. The only trick they missed was that they weren't playing "Ebony & Ivory."

The cute one in "Hardcastle & McCormick" is Brian Keith, the venerable actor who is much better than his material. Keith plays the eccentric Judge Milton C. Hardcastle, who wears shorts and Hawaiian print shirts under his robes. For enjoyment, he shoots wads of paper into baskets, wins a lot and rarely acts his age.

Around the bar, Hardcastle is known as "Hardcase" for his hard-nose attitude toward lawbreakers. He's just reached retirement age, but that doesn't prevent the judge from dispensing, now ex-camera, his unique brand of jurisprudence. Some might call it vigilantism.

Hardcastle has declared war on every desperado who got off on a legal technicality, lack of evidence or poorly prepared prosecution cases. The plan is to nail — for their current crimes — the guys who slipped through the legal cracks. This show will not be endorsed by the American Civil Liberties Union.

If Keith is Batman, then his Robin is Daniel Hugh-Kelly, the former soap-opera star who plays Mark "Skid" McCormick. He's an ex-con who faces jail on a minor parole violation, until Hardcastle offers him a role in his frontier-justice posse. He'll drive the getaway car.

Since Skid is a race car driver, he's allowed to manhandle more machinery than the "Dukes of Hazzard." In one interminable chase scene, three cop cars are rolled over like Matchbox racers.

As Cannell does with "The A-Team," the violence tends to be noisy, eye-catching and inconsequential. But, while that show can be an engaging spoof, with some wacky characters, "Hardcastle & McCormick" is one long demolition derby, with a high-concept notion of dialogue: screaming tires and roaring engines.

Archie To Union Boss

BOSTON (AP) — Actor Carroll O'Connor is leaving behind the restaurant business for a post as a tough union boss in his latest dramatic venture. But he says when he's greeted on the street, it's often still, "Hey, Archie!"

The 59-year-old O'Connor, who portrayed the opinionated and bigoted male chauvinist Archie Bunker for 14 years on television's "All In The Family" and "Archie's Place," is starring in and directing a play called "Brothers," opening Saturday at the Colonial Theatre.

It concerns a crisis involving a union local president, played by O'Connor, and his four sons.

At a press luncheon Wednesday, the actor said he's still getting a public response from the television series.

"They meet me on the street, they say, 'Hello, Mr. O'Connor.'" However, he added, when he's recognized by someone in a vehicle, it's usually, "Hey, Archie!"

After three weeks in Boston, Brothers travels to Chicago and then goes to Philadelphia before the play opens in mid-November on Broadway.

Namath Making Stage Debut

NEW YORK (AP) — Nicknamed "Broadway Joe" in his days as a quarterback, Joe Namath is about to make a real Broadway debut.

Namath, 40, who had a well-known fondness for Manhattan nightlife when he played football for the New York Jets, goes on stage Tuesday in the role of Lt. Maryk, the officer on trial for seizing control of a Navy minesweeping vessel from Capt. Queeg in the revival of Herman Wouk's "The Caine Mutiny Court-Martial."

Maryk "is a big, somewhat naive guy ... who gets taken advantage of," said a spokesman for the play, David Roggensack. Namath is "a big, open, nice guy" who will "be right for the part physically," he said.

The former football star faces a real-life trial on a misdemeanor drunken driving charge Wednesday in Beverly Hills, Calif.

He was stopped by the California Highway Patrol the night of Aug. 20 after he "crossed over the yellow lines, and was weaving" and failed sobriety tests, police said.

Namath's lawyer entered an innocent plea in Beverly Hills Municipal Court. A pretrial hearing is scheduled next month.

Concert Canceled

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

CRYPTOQUIP 9-16

VFG NQSP FINRY TRYXYZRSS OICV
SXCVC FQC TRLGULGG OXZ—QC UQLGP.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — A YOUNG SENATOR IS FLUSTERED BY DAY-LONG FILIBUSTER.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Y equals N.

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

The bidding:

South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 2 ♦ Pass
4 ♦ Pass 4 ♦ Pass
6 ♦ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Jack of ♡.

At first glance it might seem that declarer's fate hinges on which finesse he tries — clubs or diamonds. But declarer found a way to try both finesses!

After North raised spades, South's hand became enormous. His jump to four clubs was a cue-bid (three clubs would be a game try), and North showed the ace of diamonds in response. South needed no more.

West led the jack of hearts and declarer won. He cashed the ace of spades and was disappointed to learn that he had to lose a trump trick. But he was able to turn that misfortune into a plus.

Instead of simply relying on a finesse in one minor suit or the other, declarer cashed out the ace of diamonds (a key play) and his high hearts. West saw he would be end played if he ruffed the third heart, so he sluffed a club. But he was simply postponing his moment of reckoning.

With his partial strip completed, declarer simply threw West on lead with his trump. Had West still had a heart to lead, he would be yielding a ruff-sluff to declarer. A club lead would be into declarer's tenace, so West was forced to lead a diamond.

If he led the king, declarer would ruff, enter dummy with a trump and take a club pitch on the queen of diamonds. So West led a low diamond, but declarer played dummy's queen and took his club sluff immediately.

What if East had the king of diamonds? Then declarer would ruff, get back to dummy with a trump and fall back on the club finesse for his slam. He would be no worse off than if he had tried to guess which finesse to take initially.

Chilean Missionaries Give Poor Stiff Moral Support In Fight Against Pinochet

By KERNAN TURNER
Associated Press Writer
SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) —

Roman Catholic missionary priests are providing strong moral support for the exploding anti-government unrest among Chile's poor.

While Chile's Catholic hierarchy takes a conciliatory role to promote talks between the government and the political opposition, priests who live and work in Santiago's slums defend demonstrations against President Augusto Pinochet's military regime.

Scores of Chilean and foreign missionaries have been caught up in the confrontations between demonstrators and armed riot police during the monthly opposition-led "Days of National Protest" that began in May.

Some have played heroic roles defusing confrontations and called for peaceful protests. Others preach the legitimacy of violence to counter repression that has left 50 people dead in five months of unrest.

Their involvement is a continuation of the role priests and other members of the clergy have played in recent political drives to end poverty and illiteracy and promote human rights throughout South and Central America. In Nicaragua, for example, some priests are leading members of the Sandinista movement.

"It is very difficult to condemn violence," said the Rev. Ronaldo Munoz, a theologian who lives in the Santiago slum neighborhood of La Granja. "I have the obligation to tell people to think about their actions. But I don't have the right to tell a father to watch his wife or children killed before defending himself."

The Rev. David Murphy, an English priest in the Map section of Santiago, says, "The church always accompanies each side in a battle between armies. If my people go out to risk their lives at barricades, I must go with them. The church must be present."

Bishops in this largely Catholic country have long irritated Pinochet by criticizing the disappearance and torture of hundreds of political prisoners. They have also spoken against the government's tolerance of high unemployment, which is 30 percent nationwide and double that in many slums.

The government often accuses the church of being infiltrated by Marxists. Three foreign missionaries were expelled in March for what the government called politically suspect activity.

Since the monthly protests started, the bishops have been more restrained.

But many priests have become involved in the protest movement. Last Saturday some of them organized a funeral Mass and march for an unarmed worker shot to death by policemen in Santiago's La Victoria neighborhood.

Eleven people were killed in four cities during four nights of protests that ended Sunday on the 10th anniversary of the coup that deposed elected Marxist President Salvador Allende and put Pinochet in power.

More than 6,000 mourners marched in the nine mile funeral procession while another 30,000 lined the route, chanting anti-Pinochet slogans. Police greeted the marchers with tear gas as they arrived at the cemetery.

A battle was halted single-handedly by the Rev. Pierre DuBois, the French parish priest of La Victoria, who rushed between police and mourners shouting, "The people can be calmed, but not if you assault them." The police withdrew.

Two of DuBois' parishioners have died in the

Slum Priest

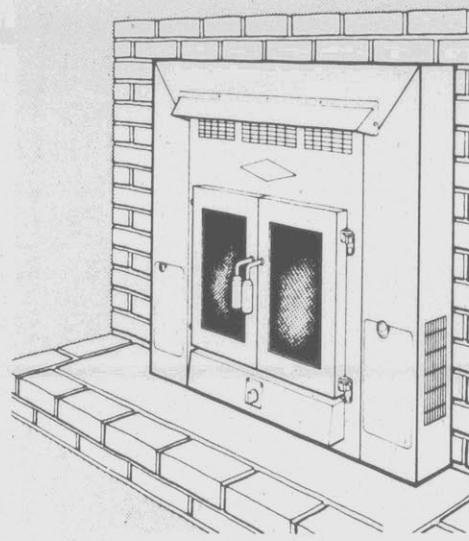

The Rev. Pierre DuBois, a French parish priest in La Victoria, a slum of Santiago, Chile, says his role in the demonstrations in Chile is to act as a witness and "denounce what we have seen."
