In Support Of Lebanese Army

U.S. Warships Shell Druze

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — U.S. warships shelled Druze gunners in Syrian-held central Lebanon today to support the Lebanese army battling insurgents hand-to-hand in a strategic town overlooking Marine positions in the capital.

U.S. Embassy spokesman John Stewart said the destroyer John Rodgers and guided missile cruiser Virginia unleashed the bombardment off the Beirut coast for more than an hour, lobbing dozens of shells at Druze targets to the east.

Stewart said the "defensive" naval barrages were ordered to assist Lebanese army forces defending the strategic town of Souk El-Gharb. He said "successful Lebanese armed forces defense of the area is vital to the safety of U.S. personnel."

In Washington, Deputy White House Press Secretary Larry Speakes said the American warships began firing because U.S. officials "thought the Marines could be impacted by the artillery" attacks.

A Western military source who refused to be identified said Druze insurgents and their Palestinian guerrilla allies several times forced their way into Souk El-Gharb, an army-held mountaintop town which overlooks Beirut and the Marine base. But he said the insurgents had been evicted each time — once leaving 50 bodies behind after hand-to-hand combat with troops.

Earlier, a spokesman for leftist Druze leader Walid Jumblatt's Progressive Socialist Party said the party's militiamen entered Souk el-Gharb shortly before midday and were "cleaning the last pockets of resistance inside the town."

In southeast Lebanon town of Nabatiya near the Israeli border, a roadside bomb wounded five Israeli soldiers today as a convoy passed by, the military command in Tel Aviv reported. It gave no further details.

The U.S. warships started firing after Druze gunners shelled the 1,200-man Marine peacekeeping contingent deployed at Beirut's international airport, sending them diving into foxholes and bunkers. No Marine casualties were reported.

It was the third time the U.S. naval squadron has gone into action since the outbreak of civil warfare Sept. 4, and the first since Syria on Sunday ordered its Lebanon-based forces to fire back at any bombardment from the Americans. There was no immediate word whether Syrian batteries on the mountaintops overlooking Beirut shot back today.

Earlier, a Lebanese Defense Ministry spokesman said Druze militiamen, backed by Palestinian guerrillas, attacked Souk el-Gharb from the northeast and the southwest, using tanks and armored cars.

The three operational Hawker Hunter jets that make up Lebanon's air force countered with rocket and strafing attacks, setting tanks and artillery positions afire, an army communique said. Another communique said Lebanese jets destroyed two Syrian multiple launchers on the Batroun hills.

On Sunday, Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasser Arafat confirmed assertions by U.S., Lebanese and Israeli military authorities that PLO guerrillas have been fighting alongside the Druze insurgents.

"We can't prevent some volunteers from participating," Arafat said in a New York Times interview conducted in the Syrian-held north Lebanon port of Tripoli.

Police said the overall Lebanese casualty toll in two weeks of warfare stood at 675 killed and 1,540 wounded.

The continued fighting today indicated Jumblatt was unwilling to accept President Amin Gemayel's offer to meet and discuss a political settlement.

"If I sat with Walid Jumblatt face to face, we would get an agreement in five minutes. I know that. I am willing to meet with him," said Gemayel, a Maronite Christian, in an interview on ABC television's "This Week with David Brinkley."

Jumblatt has been living in self-imposed exile in Syria since Lebanon signed the U.S.-mediated troop withdrawal pact with Israel last May. Gemayel's aides contend Syrian President Hafez Assad's Soviet-backed government is pressuring Jumblatt to continue the conflict.

The fighting broke out Sept. 4 when Israeli forces pulled back from the central mountains and rival Druze and Christian militiamen moved to take over the areas. The Lebanese army joined the fight to rout the Druze, a secretive Islamic sect.

On Sunday, police said, artillery fire from Syrian-held north Lebanon struck Christian targets in the port of Byblos, 23 miles north of Beirut. The police said the barrage killed at least 16 civilians and wounded 42, and more shelling was reported in the area today.

In Libya, the official news agency JANA reported Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafi ordered his troops in east Lebanon's Bekaa Valley "placed under the disposal" of Jumblatt.

Libya is believed to have about 300 troops in the Bekaa but there has been no indication they are involved in combat.

The Israelis invaded Lebanon in June 1982 to destroy Palestinian guerrilla bases. They redeployed in southern Lebanon to extricate themselves from the long standing Christian-Druze feud and avoid persistent guerrilla ambushes, but Israeli officials warn their army will cross the new front to strike at Palestinian guerrillas.

There She Is...

MISS AMERICA — Vanessa Williams, Miss America for 1984 adjusts her crown during a photo session held Sunday in Atlantic City, N.J. The New York beauty became the first black selected to the Miss America title, called another milestone for black progress by minority leaders. (AP Laserphotos)

Miss America Choice A New Milestone

In the promise of America, in the notion that everyone has an even shot at the brass ring, a black woman reigning as Miss America may not rank with voting rights legislation or a court ruling for affirmative action. But it, too, validates the American dream.

Twice now, in less than three weeks, blacks have walked through doorways closed to them before. In their own way, each got the nation's attention and applause.

First, Guion Bluford, a soft-spoken jet pilot, went into the record books as the first black astronaut in space. And now, Vanessa Williams wears the tiara of Miss America 1984.

So another barrier is down. The NAACP's Benjamin Hooks likens the event to Jackie Robinson's entry into major league baseball and says "It will also wake up America to the tragedy of excluding blacks from the competitive arenas of life, like law, medicine, physics."

Not so long ago, black activists had damned the Miss America pageant as a lily-white competition for white women only. For 30 years, until the 1950s, the only blacks allowed to take part were actors who portrayed slaves in crowning ceremonies.

Let it be said that Bluford and Miss Williams were uncomfortable at the attention given their blackness. Bluford acknowledged that he was a pacesetter but made it clear he preferred to be regarded as just another member of a crew.

As for Miss Williams: "At times I get annoyed, because people and the press aren't focusing on me as a person and are focusing on my being black." Miss Williams was born in the year 1963, when Martin Luther King declared his dream of a nation where people "will not be judged by the color of their skin, but by the content of their character."

The new Miss America, whose reign will encompass the 30th anniversary of the Supreme Court decision integrating schools, said she will not just represent blacks, but "everybody in America, no matter what race, creed or color they are."

The historical landscape is nourished with the achievements of blacks who had steep hills to climb. Jack Johnson did not merely knock out Tommy Burns for the world heavyweight championship in 1908, he knocked out "The Great White Hope." Jesse Owens thwarted Adolf Hitler's dreams of making the 1936 Berlin Olympics a showcase of Aryan superiority by winning three gold medals.

While brotherhood is not yet the rule of the land, there are few such firsts left. Baseball was integrated by Robinson when he joined the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947. Hattie McDaniel won an Oscar for "Gone With the Wind," although the character she played was "Mammy."

In politics, Edward Brooke of Massachusetts was the first black in the United States Senate since Hiram Revels of Mississippi in 1871 during Reconstruction. Shirley Chisholm broke the congressional barrier for black women in 1968.

Carl Stokes of Cleveland was the first black mayor of a major city. Daniel "Chappie" James, commander of the North American Defense Command, was the first black four-star general.

On the scroll of black firsts are Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall, who also was the first black solicitor general; Nobel Prize winner Ralph Bunche, undersecretary of the United Nations, in 1950; Dr. Robert C. Weaver, Cabinet officer in 1966; Gwendolyn Brooks, Pulitzer Prize winner for poetry in 1950; and Edward Bouchet, first black to win a Ph.D. at a United States university — Yale in 1876.

President Reagan called Miss Williams' selection Saturday night "a wonderful thing for our nation."

In 1963, King said he had a dream, deeply rooted in the American dream: "I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal.'"

Surely, he didn't have the Miss America contest in mind. But it, too, is part of the American dream.

COTTAGE INDUSTRIES ASSN. ANCE

Can you tell me how to get in touch with an organization called Cottage Industries? M.H.

From Sheppard Memorial Library, we obtained the address and phone number and some information on the National Association for the Cottage Industry, Box 14460, Chicago, Ill. 60614; phone, 312-472-8116.

Founded in 1982, the organization has about 30,000 members. Dues of $45 a year include a quarterly subscription to Cottage Connection, which provides information useful to those work at home. For another $24 a year, one may subscribe to a six-times-a-year publication called Mind Your Own Business At Home.

Members usually are people who work in their homes producing products, providing services, or using a felexible worksite such as a computer terminal in the home connected to a main system. Objectives of the organization are to provide access to information on business organizational methods, marketing, promotion, and financial and family assistance and to build and develop a data base of information on such topics as zoning, taxing and licensing requirements, government reports.

Profiles on successful home-based industries are offered, as as advocacy concerning local and state and national laws that affect home-based workers. Cottage fairs are planned. The nearest to Greenville so far is one planned for Atlanta. The executive director is Coralee Smith Kern. Anyone wishing more information may send a self-addressed stamped envelope to the address given above.

Soviets Increase Efforts To Find Plane's Black Box

WAKKANAI, Japan (AP) — The Soviet Union brought a third submarine and a diving bell into waters off Sakhalin Island today to join a secretive search for the South Korean airliner it shot out of the sky with 269 people aboard, officials said.

Japanese air and sea searchers reported finding more bits and pieces of debris in the water, including a piece of cabin wall and a chunk of lightweight metal.

Before the latest find, Japanese officials said 708 items that might have come from the downed mutilated bodies and several pieces of human flesh, had been recovered.

In the United States, memorial services were conducted in Missouri and Connecticut, and the Idaho statehouse was draped in black to honor those aboard Korean Air Lines Flight 007 when it was shot down Sept. 1 after flying into Soviet airspace over Sakhalin.

In other developments, the Republican National Committee chairman said President Reagan's handling of the crisis has softened his "trigger happy" image and the editor of the Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda criticized his country's armed forces for delaying acknowledgement that Soviet jets shot down the Boeing 747 with heat-seeking missiles.

In Paris, an Air France flight to Moscow was canceled today for the first time since a pilots' strike began last Tuesday to protest the Soviets' downing of a South Korean airliner.

The French government is not joining most other Western European countries in a two-week boycott on direct flights to Moscow. But union pilots, who represent 80 percent of Air France's 1,400 pilots and co-pilots, are staging a 60-day boycott of such flights to protest the missile attack.

Soviet and U.S. search efforts continued today in international waters more than 600 feet deep north of Moneron, a small island west of Sakhalin, to try to pinpoint where the aircraft crashed and find its crucial flight recorder.

The recorder might contain tapes of cockpit conversations that would reveal what occurred in the moments before the plane was hit. The activity by the Soviets appeared to indicate they had not found the recorder, located in the plane's tail section.

Japan's Maritime Safety Agency said two underwater craft were seen aboard the Soviet salvage ship Kikektor which reached the scene today. MSA officials said the two craft were different from the two that had took part in earlier operations.

One was about 36 feet long and painted red with white vertical strips and the numbers RC-12. The other appeared to be a diving bell that was oval shaped and about 12 feet in diameter. Both were on the deck and the Soviet crewmen appeared to be working on them, the Japanese said.

About the time the additional equipment arrived, the 700-ton Soviet ocean surveyor Gidronavt retrieved on of the other mini-submarines from the water and steamed southward from the search area.

Four South Korean trawlers joined at least four U.S. and 19 Soviet vessels in international waters north of Moneron, while a South Korean ship prepared to leave Wakkanai in northern Japan with six divers, MSA officials said.

The MSA patrol boat Rebut, one of three Japanese ships monitoring Soviet operations, observed the Soviet rescue ship Georgi Kozumin pulling a self-propelled mini-submarine from the sea Sunday night. It sent the sub back down about midnight and returned it to the ship's hold several hours later.

SEA BREEZE...bath accessory set is easy to construct. No background stitches are need with the colored canvas so manufacture time is considerably reduced.

Pat's Pointers By Pat Trexler

Here's a sparkling new gift idea — useful and appealing. The Sea Breeze Bath Accessory Set is worked in the simplest of stitches on 10-mesh colored plastic canvas. The colored canvas requires no background stitches, helping you to finish a set in the time it would normally take to work one piece.

To obtain directions for making the Sea Breeze Set, send your request for Leaflet No. NL-0918 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler (The Daily Reflector), P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29597.

Or you may order Kit No. N-0918 by sending a check or money order for $13.50 to Pat Trexler at the same address. The kit price includes shipping charges, full instructions, rings, canvas, yarn and needle.

Those of us who have been stitching for years often assume that everyone knows what is meant by the basic stitch names, so a set of instructions might tell you simply to work in tent, half-cross or continental stitch, leaving the beginner completely in the dark.

So, let's get down to real beginner-basics today — starting with threading the needle! If you have never done any needlepoint or embroidery, you will probably approach this with the "spit-and-twist" method that you use with sewing thread. But this method won't work with the yarns used for needlepoint.

A commercial needle threader is a boon for the beginner, but since you are not likely to have one on hand, let me give you a couple of alternatives. From the sides or bottom of an envelope, cut a little piece about an inch long and no wider than the eye of your needle. Place the cut end of the yarn strands in the fold of this strip and insert the folded strip into the eye. It will slide right through with the greatest of ease.

There is another technique that I prefer since it requires no aids at all, but some find it difficult to master. But do give it a try, and if it comes easy to you, you won't even have to keep paper strips on hand. Hold the needle in your left hand and fold the yarn ends over the needle. Pinch the fold tightly between your thumb and forefinger, withdrawing the needle from the fold. Now, with the fold barely visible, press the eye of the needle down onto the fold and watch it pop through the eye almost magically.

The most common stitch in needlepoint is the tent stitch, a single stitch worked diagonally over one canvas mesh. (A mesh is the point where the vertical and horizontal threads — or ribs — of the canvas cross.) On the stitch diagrams, the chart lines represent these threads or ribs, while the blank spaces represent the holes of the canvas.

There are at least three versions of the tent stitch, all looking alike from the right side of the work, but different on the wrong side. Most beginners prefer the half-cross stitch. This is worked from the left to the right. To practice, bring the needle up in one hole (1 on chart) and take it down in the hole one row up and one row over (2 on chart). Continue to work from left to right, bringing needle up in odd-numbered holes and taking it down in even-numbered holes.

The continental stitch is worked in the same manner, but it moves from right to left, creating a padding on the wrong side. Try a row of each and then look on the back of your work to see the difference.

The third version is the basketweave, but this is a little more advanced so we won't go into that today.

With all needlepoint stitches, you secure your yarn ends by passing the threaded needle under some previously worked stitches — more about that next week.

("Pat's Pointers: The Needlepoint Handbook" by Pat Trexler has organized needlework instructions for easy crafting by beginners and

Designer Originals Highlight Show

A fashion showing of the original designs of Norman Norell and Bill Blass collection will be held Sept. 29 at the Greenville Country Club.

Hal Oakley of New York will be the master of ceremonies. He has worked in the fashion/beauty industry for a number of years. He was a model and performer prior to becoming director of sales promotion and development of Revlon. In assembling the collection, he had assistance from the Parson School of Design in New York, several museums and famous women who loaned their Norell fashions.

Gowns in the Norell collection include one of velvet and lace circa 1900, a white silk gown owned by Marilyn Monroe with a feathered boa, a sequined sheath worn with a coat of bleached feathers, a yellow organza gown complete with an umbrella influenced by Scarlett O'Hara, sequined evening gowns and others.

Two shows will be held — a luncheon at 11:30 a.m. and a wine and cheese party at 7 p.m.

Selected models include Sharon Goodson, Gerda Nischan, Linda Davis, Nelda Hedges, Bonnie Issacson, Kim Tripp, Janie Ferguson, Sandy Vincent, Lyn Holt, Janet McGlohon, Carol Ann Tucker, Margee Blount, Debra Hill, Marcy Byrd, Debbie Lee, Jane Moore, Margie Parrish, Kim Kirtpatrick, Sue Creech, Cindy Mills, Della Dayson, Ee Avery, Sue Cannon, Gail Williams, Betsy Glenn, Harriet Harris, Reva Brown and Jo Smith.

Bridal Policy

A black and white glossy five by seven photograph is requested for engagement announcements in The Daily Reflector. For publication in a Sunday edition, the information must be submitted by 12 noon on the preceding Wednesday. Engagement pictures must be released at least three weeks prior to the wedding date. After three weeks, only an announcement will be printed.

Wedding write-ups will be printed through the first week with a five by seven picture. During the second week with a wallet size picture and write-up giving less description and after the second week, just as an announcement.

Wedding forms and pictures should be returned to The Daily Reflector one week prior to the date of the wedding. All information should be typed or written neatly.

Cookbook Prices Are Up But Buy Paperbacks Under $10

By JEANNE LESEM

UPI Family Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) —

Hardcover cookbooks priced at $10 or less have virtually vanished from stores and even some large-format paperbacks are approaching the endangered species list.

For example, HP Books of Tucson, Ariz., has a $12.95 price tag on its new "Scandinavian Cooking," by Finnish-American Beatrice Ojakangas.

"The Great East Coast Seafood Book," by Yvonne Young Tarr, a 1982 Vintage original, is also $12.95, and "The California Seafood Cookbook," by Isaac Cronin, Jay Harlow and Paul Johnson (Aris Books) is $10.95.

On Sept. 30, both volumes of "Mastering the Art of French Cooking" will be published in paperback at prices understandably higher than the hardcovers when they were first issued in 1961 and 1970. Both are still in print at $20 each. The large format paperbacks will be $12.95 per book or $25.95 for the boxed set (Knopf). Volume 1 originally was $10, and Volume 2, $12.50.

The Ojakangas book contains 200 recipes for such things as Scandinavia's celebrated pastries, cookies and cakes, groaning smorgasbords and farmhouse brunches, arranged in 22 menus. Like all HP books, it contains many appetizing color photos of step-by-step preparation and finished dishes.

The $10.95 Cronin-Harlow-Johnson book is $17.95 in hardcover and a good buy at either price for people who prefer simple fish and seafood dishes. Basic information on each species makes substitutions easy locally or regionally.

The Tarr book contains more than 400 recipes, compared with about 150 in the California book. They tend to be more complex and regional. Substitution suggestions are rarely offered.

The "Mastering" books are well-established classics by, respectively, Louise Bertholle, Simca Beck, Julia Child and Child-Beck.

Other recently published, affordable paperbacks include:

"Fast Italian Meals," by Emalee Chapman (101 Productions, $7.95). Two-serving recipes that are easily halved, simple yet sophisticated, with realistic portion sizes for the weight-conscious. Even $8 per pound fish or seafood becomes affordable when half a pound makes two servings. Most recipes can be prepared and cooked in 30 minutes or less if your kitchen is organized so you don't have to hunt for ingredients and utensils.

"The Clam Lover's Cookbook," by William G. Flagg (North River Press, distributed by Dodd, Mead, $6.95). Simple recipes, usually for four to six servings and easily divisible to serve 2. Directions are included for substituting canned clams for fresh.

"California Cooking," by Mable and Gar Hoffman (HP Books, $7.95) upholds the Golden State's reputation for trendiness, with such things as a buffet pasta bar, a pasta and pizza chapter and zucchini lasagne. It has many beautiful, instructive color photos with the more than 200 recipes.

"The Great Chicago-Style Pizza Cookbook," by Pasquale Bruno Jr. (Contemporary Books, $6.95). Anyone with the time and patience to make pizza from scratch will find unusual recipes and excellent step-by-step directions and photos. Chicago-style pizza, incidentally, is 2 inches thick. One advantage of making your own is the control you have over salt and fat content.

"Cookies for Kids," edited by Jill Burnmeister (Better Homes & Gardens, $4.95). The amusing shapes and names should delight young bakers, although few of the recipes reflect an effort to reduce sweetener content. However, a good number do contain healthful ingredients such as whole grains and dried fruit.

"Soup Bowl West," by Marge Mitchell and Joan Sedgwick (Random House, $8.95). The restaurateur-authors of "Bakery Lane Soup Bowl Cookbook" have moved from Middlebury, Vt., to Jerome, Ariz., with predictable influence on their cooking. Many of their soups, salads, sandwiches, breads and desserts have taken on the spicy flavors of the Far West. Recipes include Un-holy Guacamole, Chino Valley Bean Soup and several chilies.

"Madhur Jaffrey's Indian Cooking" (Barron's, $7.95) originally was published by the British Broadcasting Corp. to accompany the author's Indian Cookery series aired last fall on BBC2. It would make an excellent introduction to Indian fare for beginners, and also should be enjoyed by fans of Jaffrey's Knopf cookbooks.

"Jennie Low's Szechuan Cookbook" (Presidio Press, $7.95). A good basic book of recipes, well-written directions and black-and-white illustrations of techniques. An extensive glossary has names in both English and Chinese characters for people with access to oriental

Dear Abby Girl Down In The Dumps Can Clean Up Her Act

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the 13-year-old girl who is crying the blues because she lives in a "dump". There is something you can do to make your home look better and make you feel better.

When I was 16, I left my aunt's lovely home and went to live in my father's "dump" in another state. (My mother died when I was 5 and my aunt raised me.) My younger sister (14) and I pitched in and cleaned "the dump" up.

The wooden floor was so rough that we got splinters in our hands from wringing out the floor mop. I washed, starched, ironed and mended rotten lace curtains, using a flatiron heated on a wood-burning stove because we couldn't afford electricity.

My sister and I cleaned up the yard and kept the place looking as nice as possible without spending any money because we had none to spend. When my boyfriends came to call, I never apologized for my home because I knew I had done all I could to make it presentable. Work helps. Tears do not.

P.S.

DEAR ABBY: If you don't mind, I would like to give that 13-year-old girl who is ashamed of her house a few encouraging words.

I'm a 15-year-old girl whose family is well-off money-wise, and we live in a very nice house.

My friend, "Pam," lives in a house that could use lots of repairs, and her family does have money problems. But Pam is my best friend, and she always will be, no matter what.

To tell you the truth, I spend twice as much time at Pam's house as Pam spends at mine.

A TRUE FRIEND

DEAR ABBY: When I read the letter from the young girl who was ashamed to invite her friends over because she lived in a dump, I relived my own teen-age years.

I also lived in a "dump," and was so ashamed of it, I had my dates pick me up at a girlfriend's house, which I tried to pass off as my own. When they brought me "home," I would say good-night on the porch, and as soon as they were out of sight I'd walk to my own home alone in the dark.

When I was 17, a 19-year-old "college man" from a well-to-do family called for me at my girlfriend's house, but when it came time to take me "home," he drove right up to my "dump"! I was so embarrassed, I started to cry. Then he said very gently: "Honey, I've always known where you live, but it doesn't make any difference in the way I feel about you. Your father is a decent, hard-working man who's giving his family the best he can afford." (My father worked in the coal mines in West Virginia.)

Then he said, "Why be ashamed of a humble home? More good people have come from humble homes than from mansions."

I've never forgotten those words, nor the beautiful college boy who spoke them. He died last year, after giving me four wonderful children and 49 of the happiest years of my life. Sign me...

Cooking Is Fun

Sponge cake rolls, once always spread with jelly or jam, have changed a great deal — and all to the good. Nowadays they are likely to hold delightfully varied fillings.

We've tried a number of these, but not until recently did we decide that one of the most delectable might be made with fresh limes. No sooner thought of than done.

The filling in the following recipe is purer than pure — only eggs, sugar, butter, fresh lime juice and grated lime rind go into it. You can make this filling at a time that suits you — before or after baking the cake. Just give it time to chill.

Besides garnishing the filled roll with lime slices and a little whipped cream, we like to pass a bowl of the cream when we serve the roll. Its airy creaminess is a perfect partner for both the cake and the piquant flavor of the lime filling.

LIME SPONGE ROLL

- ¾ cup unbleached all-purpose flour
- ¾ teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 4 large eggs
- 2-3rds cup sugar
- 1½ teaspoons grated lime rind
- Confectioners' sugar
- Lime Filling, see recipe
- Whipped cream sweetened to taste and flavored with vanilla
- Thin round lime slices, halved

Line a 15 by 10 by 1-inch jelly roll pan with wax paper; grease paper with unsalted butter.

On another sheet of wax paper or in a small bowl stir together the flour, baking powder and salt.

In the bowl of an electric mixer at high speed, beat together the eggs and sugar until thick and ivory color — about 8 minutes. Stir in lime rind. Gradually sprinkle with flour mixture, fold it in as you do so, until blended.

Turn into prepared pan. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until cake springs back when lightly touched — 6 to 8 minutes.

Meanwhile, generously sprinkle a tea towel with confectioners' sugar, smoothing it over the surface.

As soon as the cake is baked, with a small spatula, loosen the sides; at once turn out onto the prepared towel; remove wax paper. Starting at the cake's short end, roll the cake and towel together; place on a wire rack, end side down; cool completely.

Unroll cake and spread with Lime Filling; roll up again. Cover with saran and chill until shortly before serving time.

At serving time, sprinkle top and sides of cake with confectioners' sugar. Garnish with whipped cream and lime slices. Pass extra whipped cream. Makes 8 servings.

LIME FILLING

- 2 large eggs
- 2-3rds cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons fresh lime juice
- 3 tablespoons butter
- ¾ teaspoon grated lime rind

In a 1½-quart saucepan whisk eggs just until foamy; whisk in sugar and lime juice; add butter. Cook, over low heat, stirring constantly and without boiling, until mixture is about as thick as soft custard sauce — 10 to 15 minutes. Stir in grated rind. Chill. Makes about 1 cup. Use as filling for Lime Sponge Roll.

Improvements Needed

The North Carolina Board of Transportation met on the Elizabeth City State University campus Friday.

The prime purpose of meeting in Elizabeth City was to discuss improvements to U.S. 17 and to attempt to persuade Virginia authorities that the dual laning of the highway should be extended from the North Carolina line.

As with all states other priorities seem to interfere with the improvements on the Virginia side of the border:

However, it makes sense that the improvements should be made. Residents of the northeastern portion of North Carolina are drawn to Norfolk, which is the nearest metropolitan area. It would be an economic boon to the Tidewater area of Virginia to improve this major highway to the North Carolina line.

Reportedly traffic has dropped on U.S. 17 since I-95 was opened. That is surely due to the poor condition of U.S. 17. With improvements it can be a major carrier of traffic again.

Helping Hand

Some good news:

The Greenville Utilities Commission was told last week that electric wholesale rate increases which were expected Oct. 1 have been put off by the Power Agency until Jan. 1.

The new rate structure is expected to increase Greenville's cost of power by about 6 percent.

The increase is still ahead for Greenville Utilities customers, but at least we will have three additional months before it faces us. That is some help.

Begin: The 'King'

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Menachem Begin, a visionary politician and spirited orator, led Israel to its first peace treaty with an Arab state and launched a war that dealt a major blow to the Palestinian guerrilla movement.

But the 70-year-old leader resigned with Israel facing monumental crises: an economy with triple-digit inflation and an open-ended conflict in Lebanon which has ensnared Israel's army.

The prime minister, who first announced his plans to step down last month, made it official when he gave his letter of resignation to President Chaim Herzog last Thursday.

Begin was a spirited and emotional proponent of the fighting Jew. He inspired his followers to call him king. To his opponents, Begin was a man they loved to hate.

In recent months, since the death of his wife Aliza and his closest political ally Simcha Erlich, Begin retreated into himself and lost his spark. His political coalition partners fell into squabbling among themselves.

From the day he was elected May 17, 1977, Begin was a controversial figure. Foreign governments and Israeli moderates feared Begin's militant past and mystic attachment to the West Bank as part of historical Israel would lead him to annex the territory and erase hopes for peace. Indeed, one of his first acts was to declare the West Bank open to Jewish settlers.

But Begin contounded his critics. He took the opposition Labor Party's Moshe Dayan into his Cabinet as foreign minister after Dayan extracted a promise from Begin not to annex the West Bank.

Just six months after Begin's election, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat made his epic peace pilgrimage to Jerusalem. Begin took up the challenge and signed a peace treaty with the most powerful of Arab states.

For that achievement, the man who first attained political prominence under the label of terrorist, shared the 1978 Nobel Peace Prize with Sadat.

Begin pushed ahead with his vision of a "greater Israel," that would incorporate land won from the Arabs in the 1967 Middle East War. On July 30, 1980, the Knesset, or Israeli Parliament, made Jerusalem the "eternal capital on the Jewish state" and in December 1981 annexed Syria's Golan Heights.

All the while, Begin promoted a massive settlement program in the West Bank that was expected to boost the Israeli population there to 100,000 by 1986.

Highrise apartment blocs, villas and planned communities sprung up despite protests from two U.S. administrations. Many believed the process was so far along that no future Israeli government could reverse the trend.

In January 1981, Begin's government fell over a teachers' strike. He set elections for June 30 — five months ahead of schedule and campaigned vigorously.

Three weeks before the election, Begin ordered Israeli planes to bomb and destroy an Iraqi nuclear reactor near Baghdad, saying it posed a threat to Israel's security.

The bombing, dubbed "Operation Babylon" brought widespread denunciation and a U.S. embargo on F-16 jet deliveries, but characteristically Begin was unbowed.

The election ended in a tie between Begin's Likud Bloc and the Labor Party. But Begin was able to woo the religious parties into a coalition to stay in power.

One year later, Begin undertook an even more controversial military adventure — Operation Peace for Galilee. The invasion of Lebanon began June 6, 1982, and resulted in Israeli troops entering an Arab capital for the first time.

The war broke the back of the Palestine Liberation Organization as an effective military or political force but the peace treaty with Lebanon that Begin envisioned never materialized.

Instead, more than 500 Israeli soldiers died in the war and its aftermath, with many Israelis asking why the soldiers had died if national survival was not immediately at stake.

The image of the Jewish state was blackened by the massacre of hundreds of men, women and children in two Palestinian refugee camps in Beirut by Christian Phalangists who had been armed and supported by Israel. For the first time, even Jews abroad split over whether to go on supporting Begin.

An Israeli inquiry commission issued a report in February that said Israel bore "indirect responsibility" and urged the dismissal of then Defense Minister Ariel Sharon and top generals.

Begin, who said he did not know about the massacre until afterwards, got off lighter, with no recommendations that he step down. But the report said his "lack of involvement in the entire matter cast on him a certain degree of responsibility."

He resisted calls for his resignation. Sharon was ousted as defense minister but remained with the Cabinet as minister without portfolio.

Begin took the heavy losses in Lebanon hard and it was cited as a major factor in his resignation, along with the death of his wife last November.

Born in Brest-Litovsk, Poland, and trained as a lawyer, Begin fled Nazi persecution that claimed the lives of his father, mother and other family members.

He went first to Soviet-occupied Lithuania where he was arrested and sent to Siberia for his Zionist activities. He was freed in a 1942 amnesty and joined his wife in Palestine.

Begin quickly took control of the extremist guerrilla group called the Irgun Zvai Leumi. The Irgun under Begin's leadership attacked British police stations, executed British soldiers and dynamited the King David Hotel in Jerusalem, killing nearly 100 Jews, Arabs and Britons. The group also slaughtered 250 Arabs in an April 1948 attack on the Arab village of Deir Yassin.

EMERALD ISLE — Where can you find 5,000 people within 100 yards of the beach and not a handful of them walk down to the water?

At a political barbecue. In this case, at the Emerald Isle home of state ABC Chairman Marvin Speight, where he's throwing his almost annual barbecue for eastern Democrats. It's a massive bask that draws folks from all over the state and more political candidates than horseshies.

Political barbecues are like family picnics in some respects. There's plenty of food. It's rumored that 50 pigs, 500 chickens and a school of fish gave up their lives for this party. It probably took 40 acres of barley and hops to keep thirsts quenched and whoever owns the bagged ice franchise for Carteret County is a rich man today.

Just like the family picnic, things get real noisy — in this case a country band made it difficult to carry on a conversation — and a few folks have too much to drink. There are never enough shady places to sit and some wise guy drinks up the last orange soda just when you're looking to top off your chicken and slaw.

But political barbecues are mostly different from the family or church or soccer boosters picnic. First of all, there are hardly any kids running around throwing ice cubes at each other. The kids at political barbecues usually belong to the candidates and they've been warned that they could lose daddy the election if they splatter a barbecue plate all down the shirt of some political chieftan.

Quite understandably, conversation revolves around politics. On the day when ECU and N.C. State were scheduled to square off on the gridiron, you might have expected a little football talk. But no. "Heard any scores?" I asked one campaign aide. Junst a blank stare. When a young lady walked by in a halter top, his response: "She's working for Rufus."

The candidates and their legions aren't there for a good time — despite the official line. They're looking for supporters. The aides and the lesser known candidates pull folks aside trying to enlist a pledge. The frontrunners hold court and folks come to see them. Everybody else at the picnic is laying out their scenario about Candidate Blob and how he's got the momentum — or, they're talking to reporters.

Optimism abounds. Not a single political helper in North Carolina thinks his or her candidate is in trouble. The sentence "I'm convinced that (fill in the blank) is going to be our next governor," was uttered 7,984 times in less than six hours. "You wouldn't believe how many people — folks we never heard from before — have called recently saying they want to help."

Go to enough of these political things around the state and you'll believe these candidates came equipped with four different voices. "I swear everybody takes on more of an eastern accent when they come down here," quipped a wire service reporter.

Political barbecues are great places to start rumors about your political foes. One candidate's top aide introduced a former small town police chief who, off the record, explained how a prominent Republican officeholder had been arrested at an early age only to have his daddy buy off the judge.

Speaking of judges, they're not supposed to be politick. But N.C. Supreme Court Justice Burley Mitchell was at Speight's. "I'm not (politicking)," Mitchell said. "This is my family." Sure enough, he was talking to cousins.

By the way, the ocean water was warm but it still felt good splashed on your face.

Timing Is Everything In Giving

Dear Friend,

I am running for the presidential nomination and am having a terrible time collecting money at this stage of the game. Do you have any suggestions? — The Best Man

Dear Best Man, Have you ever thought of giving a $1,000-a-plate dinner to honor your wife's mother? Or holding a $10,000-a-person cocktail party at the Playboy Mansion to explain where you stand on pine tar? Or sponsoring a punk rock concert at the Los Angeles Coliseum for kids who want to grow up in better world? If you can't raise a lousy $25 million for a primary campaign, how are you going to find the hundreds of billions of dollars the country will need in the next four years to balance the budget?

Dear Sir, I would like to give money to a candidate, but I want to make sure he knows I gave it. When is the best time to make a political contribution? — Good Citizen

Dear G.C.,

Timing is every thing when it comes to giving to a candidate. The consensus seems to be that "late money talks more loudly than early money." That is to say, in a close race when the person running for office gets more desperate at the end, money becomes a lot more important to a candidate than it was at the beginning of his/her campaign. Therefore, if you hold out until the last week and then suddenly hand your man a check, he will remember you a lot more fondly than if you stuffed a thousand dollars in his pocket months ago when his campaign was in the doldrums.

Dear Mr. B,

I used to give a lot of money to a certain political party and I was invited to many social functions, including the White House. This year I had some severe business setbacks and have been unable to donate any thing. I seem to have been dropped from all parties that I used to be invited to. Is there any correlation between a person's social life in Washington and how much he gives to the political party of his choice? — Tapped Out

Dear Tapped Out,

I don't know where you got this idea. Politicians never allow money to play a part in friendship. You were probably dropped from everyone's list this year because people found you boring.

Strength For Today

Jesus often emphasized the necessity of purity of heart. What does this mean? In today's context we think of it as relating to sexual matters but in the broader context intended by Jesus, it extended much farther. It dealt primarily with motives.

A person may advocate a seemingly good cause for some evil or selfish end. Such a person is not pure in motives — he is not pure in heart.

In the more narrow moral sense, the question arises: does one live a pure life simply because one has not had the opportunity to live otherwise? Is the person deterred simply by fear of consequences? This is not purity of heart, for purity begins when the heart protests firmly against suggestions of evil. Certain things are not to be done because they are wrong, unworthy of the highest and noblest in our lives.

The reward of purity of heart surpasses earthly measurement. "Blessed are the pure of heart; for they shall see God."

—Robert Burns—

It's All In The Word

debt crisis and the U.S. economy:

Q. How bad is the crisis?

A. In some respects it is not as bad as it was a year ago, when Mexico stunned the financial world by announcing it could not pay its foreign creditors on time. Mexico's foreign debt of about $85 billion is second only to Brazil's $90 billion among the developing countries. Mexico recently won a reprieve from its creditors, although it and dozens of other countries are still in trouble.

Q. How can a foreign debt crisis hurt the U.S. economy?

A. It hurts because it crimps world trade, which is an increasingly important part of the American economy. Last year, U.S. exports of merchandise to the most hard-pressed debtor nations — those that do not benefit from oil income — fell 12 percent. And in the first half of this year those U.S. exports dropped an additional 11 percent. U.S. exports to Mexico alone — the third-largest U.S. trade partner — plummeted 52 percent from 1981 to the middle of this year.

Q. How does a drop in exports hurt the United States?

A. For one thing, it means a loss of income for exporting companies, and thus a loss of American jobs. More than 1 million U.S. jobs related to exporting were lost in the last two years, according to Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co.

It has been estimated that about one in 12 U.S. jobs are tied directly or indirectly to the export business. Exports were not always so important to the American economy. As recently as 1970, only 4.4 percent of U.S. production of goods and services was exported. By 1980 that figure had nearly doubled, to 8.4 percent.

Q. Does the debt crisis hurt more than U.S. exports?

A. Some people would argue that U.S. banks are starving American consumers and businesses more for loans than they would if there was not a debt crisis. As that argument goes, the banks are keeping interest rates a little higher than they otherwise might in order to help offset the cost of bad loans to foreign countries. The banks deny this, saying their interest rates are not out of line.

But aside from the economic effects, the debt crisis has other ramifications.

Q. What are they?

A. In the case of Mexico, in particular, the U.S. government must worry about the political stability of a nation whose Central American neighbors are in civil turmoil. Many economists believe the political stakes are so high that the Reagan administration would, if necessary, arrange a bailout of Mexico rather than risk the upheaval that could result from collapse of the Mexican economic system.

Japanese Now Mileage Champs

WASHINGTON (AP) — It took seven years, but the Japanese have ended the German hammerlock on America's fuel economy rankings. The new rankings, however, come amid signs that America's interest in fuel efficiency is waning.

A new Honda two-seater, to be sold in America as the Civic CR-X, tops the ratings for the 1984 model year at 51 miles per gallon. The Japanese automaker used a new 1.3-liter aluminum engine and a new body design that features 40 percent plastic parts to grab the top spot away from the perennial leader, the Volkswagen Rabbit.

It also marked the first time a gasoline-powered car has been No. 1 since the 1976 model year. Beginning the next year, VW captured first place with its diesel-powered cars.

The Environmental Protection Agency, in announcing the new ratings, said domestic automakers had improved fuel efficiency by almost 100 percent since the EPA published its first ratings in 1974 — going from 13.2 mpg on average then to 25.6 mpg for the 1984 models.

While foreign cars still dominate the top-10 list, the Ford Escort and its sister the Mercury Lynx, tied for fifth place with a diesel-powered Japanese-made engine which gets 46 mpg. It marks the first time Ford has introduced a diesel-powered car.

Despite the mileage gains, Americans, with memories of the 1979 gasoline shortages fading, are turning back to bigger, less-fuel-efficient cars. Sales of Detroit's biggest family cars were up 33 percent through July, compared with the same period last year.

For the first time since 1978, when mandatory fuel economy standards went into effect, two automakers — General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. — are not going to meet the industrywide fleet average requirement set under law for 1983 models. The reason: too many Americans bought large cars with poorer mileage figures.

GM officials have already informed the government they expect to be 2.5 mpg below the 26 mpg required for this year and Ford says it will be 2.2 mpg below the requirement.

The law carries a substantial penalty for automakers failing to meet the standard — $5 for every car and every tenth of a mile over the ratings. For industry giant GM, that translates to $20 million for each tenth of a mile.

Neither automaker is facing fines this year because of credits gained in early years from exceeding the standards. However, there is already a move in Congress to abolish the efficiency standards — which call for automakers to reach 27.5 mpg by the 1985 models.

In a recent study, the House Republican Task Force argued the standards should be abolished because they would prevent consumers from buying the cars they wanted — "larger cars or cars with larger engines."

As in the past, diesel-powered cars dominate the 1984 mileage rankings, taking all but two of the top 10 spots. After the Honda Civic, the only other gasoline-powered car in the top rankings was a Toyota Starlet at 44 mpg.

The No. 2 spot was taken by a Datsun Nissan Sentra at 50 mpg followed by a Toyota Corolla and a Volkswagen Rabbit at 47 mpg.

Other mileage leaders were an Isuzu I-Mark and another VW Rabbit at 44 mpg, and a Chevrolet Chevette, another Datsun Nissan Sentra, a Pontiac 1000, a Toyota Corolla and a VW Jetta, all at 43 mpg. According to the ratings, the biggest gas guzzlers are models made by Rolls Royce and Aston Martin which get 9 mpg. The EPA estimated the Rolls Royce driver would spend $2,083 on fuel annually compared to $368 for the Honda Civic owner. The EPA publishes only the city driving figure and it cautioned that its numbers should be used for comparison purposes only.

Sixth Graders Honor Group

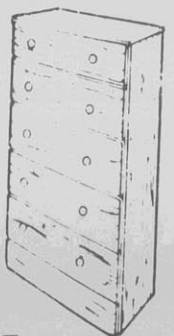

Sixth graders at Wahl-Coates last week honored 75 senior citizens at a coffee. A sign at the entrance was inscribed "Welcome Senior to Wahl-Coates School." Sixth grade teacher Susan Lanier coordinated the event.

Those greeting the visitors include principal Paul Rasberry, school board member Wilson Rhodes, and Shirley Morrison of the Community Schools Advisory Group. Also on hand to discuss school programs with the guests were Carolyn Ferebee, community schools director; Rose High Principal Howard Hurt; Esther Warren, principal of Third Street School; Charles Ross, director of education; Ann Harrison, director of pupil personnel and Wende Allen, director of science/math projects.

During their visit, senior citizens asked questions about the policy for visiting schools, the status of PTAs in the schools, a football stadium, and the declining enrollment in the city schools.

School officials present for the visitation shared information on comprehensive goals of the school system, use of school facilities, and the after-school enrichment program. They also mentioned ways in which older persons can become involved in school programs, and emphasized the need for them as a group and as individuals to become advocates of the city schools.

Views On Dental Health

Kenneth T. Perkins, D.D.S.P.A.

FIRST AID FOR TOOTHACHE

By far, the most common dental emergency is the toothache. Pain usually indicates that decay is present and can be irritating the pulp (a soft tissue in the center of the tooth containing blood vessels and nerve tissue).

The best first aid? Clean the tooth as thoroughly as possible with a toothbrush and rinse the mouth vigorously with warm water to remove any food that may be lodged. Use dental floss to remove particles of food and place a cotton pellet with oil of cloves on the tooth to TEMPORARILY alleviate the pain.

An abscess-caused toothache is often the most painful and is frequently accompanied by swelling of the jaw or face. An abscess is a localized collection of pus in any part of the mouth formed by tissue disintegration and surrounded by an inflamed area.

Aspirin (swallowed, NEVER held against the tooth or gum) will help reduce the pain. Immediate attention by a dentist is needed to drain the infection. Never use prolonged medication with either pain killer or antibiotics. These may temporarily alleviate the symptoms but will not eliminate the problem.

Pedestrian Hurt In Mishap

A pedestrian received minor injuries and an estimated $1,975 damage resulted from traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Saturday.

Officers charged Jimmy Riley Heath, 37, of 920 East 14th St. with crossing at other than a crosswalk after he was struck by a car driven by Elmer Lee Grant Williams of 1701A W. Third St., as he crossed Tenth Street, 35 feet west of the Washington Street intersection.

Damage to the Williams car in the 10:14 p.m. collision was set at $50.

Cars driven by Joseph Michael Noonan of 402B E. Second St., and Mary Regina Troxel of 713 White Dorm, collided about 3:05 p.m. on Greenville Boulevard, 200 feet east of the Arlington Boulevard intersection, resulting in an estimated $1,800 damage to the Noonan car and $125 damage to the Troxel auto.

Ms. Troxel was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

No Charges In Sunday Wreck

Cars driven by Timothy Ross Ricks of Selma, and Patricia Ann Foltz of 208 S. Elm St., collided Sunday on Tenth Street, 100 feet east of the Heath Street intersection.

Police, who made no charges, estimated damage at $1,000 to the Ricks car and $200 to the Foltz vehicle.

Found Innocent

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Two Dorothea Dix Hospital employees have been found innocent of beating a mental patient, and attorneys say the acquittal may affect one employee's dismissal.

Alton L. Artis and Thurl L. Marsh, both of Raleigh, were found innocent Friday by Wake District Judge Narley L. Cashwell of assaulting James Blackman on April 16.

"He was right," Artis said of the judge's decision. "I have no other comment."

Geoffrey H. Simmons, Artis' defense attorney, said the decision may have some effect on Artis' firing.

Both Artis, 26, and Marsh, 33, were health care technicians at the hospital until they were fired in May after a hospital investigation of the alleged beating.

Ten Die In N.C. Traffic Accidents

By The Associated Press
Ten people died on North Carolina highways during the weekend, including two young pedestrians, the state Highway Patrol reported today.

Sean O'Brian Fuller, 3, of Lexington died after he ran into the path of a car on N.C. 8 at 2:47 p.m. Saturday, in his hometown.

Jonathan David Ippock, 12, of Vanceboro, was walking south on U.S. 17 in Craven County, 2 miles south of his hometown. Saturday and ran out in front of a vehicle.

Sally Joyner Bryant, 29, of Woodland died Sunday afternoon when a car crossed the center line on N.C. 561 near Ahoskie and sideswiped the car she was driving. Three other people were injured in that accident.

Susan Martin Kennedy, 31, of Siler City was killed at 1:35 p.m. Saturday in a two-car collision on N.C. 62, 8 miles south of Greensboro in Guilford County. She was a passenger in a car that overturned into a ditch after it was struck by a vehicle that ran a stop sign, troopers said.

A three-car wreck on U.S. 19 in Haywood County, 1 mile east of Maggie Valley, claimed the life of a Spartanburg, S.C., man at 3:45 p.m. Saturday. Troopers identified the victim as Barron Ray Horne, 34, who was the driver of a car struck head-on by a vehicle that had struck another car seconds earlier.

Tonie Ann Knight, 35, of Charlotte, who was killed at 10:40 p.m. Saturday, was a passenger in a car traveling west on N.C. 2820 in Mecklenburg County. The car was passing another vehicle at a rounded curve when the driver lost control, ran off the road and struck a utility pole.

Also Saturday, John Henry Johnson of Greensboro was killed at 6:15 a.m. when the car he was driving was struck from behind by a truck on U.S. 29 south of Reidsville.

Jeffery Allen Black, 19, was killed at 1:10 a.m. Saturday when the car he was driving ran off N.C. 211 about 8 miles west of Pinehurst and overturned, throwing him from it.

On Friday night Tony Vinter Hill, 21, of Hookerton was killed when the car he was driving on U.S. 258 ran off the road about 4 miles south of Snow Hill in Greene County, throwing him from the vehicle.

Cattle Herd Expansion To Be Slow

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department expert predicts that when the nation's cattle herds are rebuilt again, they probably will not reach the record of 132 million head set on Jan. 1, 1975.

Ronald A. Gustafson, a livestock economist in USDA's Economic Research Service, says in a new outlook report that the cattle herd cutbacks of recent years have left a surplus of grazing land that will not be utilized fully in the near future.

"While herd expansion will likely be slow — not really starting until 1986 or 1987 — the present forage area on farms and ranches could allow for expansion to 120 million to 124 million head," he said.

Higher energy costs and only "moderate price incentives" — profits — will probably hold the cattle inventory peak near the level of 120 million head and well below the 1975 record of 132 million.

"This would mark the first time in this century that the peak in the cattle cycle didn't exceed the previous one," Gustafson said. "Excess forage capacity and relatively high grain prices may encourage a shift toward more grass feeding before cattle are placed on feed."

Gustafson's report reviews the changes in the cattle inventory which, over many years, have been "one of the more reliable cyclical movements in the agricultural economy." However, the present cycle, which began in 1979, has not followed the general pattern of the eight previous cattle cycles recorded since the late 1800s.

Over the decades, the average cycle from "trough to trough" or successive low points in cattle numbers has been 9 to 16 years, with the span gradually shortening.

Each cycle peaked in about mid-decade, with the last four peaking in a year ending in five — 1945, 1955, 1965 and 1975 — and each at a higher cattle inventory than the previous one.

Gustafson noted that the last complete cycle began in 1967 with 108.8 million head of cattle in the U.S. inventory. It concluded in 1979 at 110.9 million head.

"This cycle lasted 12 years, ending with an unprecedented inventory liquidation — drop of 21 million head, or 16 percent, from the peak," he said. "Total cow numbers (the breeding stock) declined 9.1 million head; beef cow numbers fell 8.6 million."

The present cycle began in 1979 with 110.9 million head of cattle and rose to 115.6 million by 1982, a fairly typical beginning.

But many farmers and ranchers were having hard times, with staggering debts and sagging incomes. So they sent many of their cows to market to raise money to pay bills.

"As a result, the upswing in the cycle halted, and on Jan. 1, 1983, the cattle inventory numbered 115.2 million head, essentially unchanged from a year earlier," Gustafson said.

"Furthermore, the base for future production of beef cattle was reduced. The cow inventory declined 3 percent, while the number of heifers held for herd expansion dropped 4 percent."

But as warped as the current cycle appears, Gustafson reasons that "the real abnormality may well have occurred in the 1967-79 cycle" instead of the present one.

During the last cattle cycle, the forage base — pastures and rangeland — was expanded rapidly as highly productive cropland was converted into grazing land. Cheap nitrogen fertilizer helped increase the carrying capacity of pastures in the more humid areas.

"In the 1960s and early 1970s, economic conditions favored beef production over crops," Gustafson said. "The economy was expanding, incomes were rising, and inflation ranged from 3 to 5 percent. Grain was relatively plentiful, and reserve supplies of grain were burdensome. Cattle herds, particularly the breeding herd, were increasing rapidly."

Several things happened to disrupt that pattern: In 1970, corn blight sharply reduced feed grain production. There was a record corn harvest in 1971, but in 1972 exports began to climb — and so did feed prices. Huge sales to the Soviet Union began dipping into the U.S. grain pile.

Beginning in 1974, cropland pasture began to be returned to crop production, a reversal that Gustafson said was reinforced by rising petroleum prices — which drove up the costs of nitrogen fertilizer used to boost pasture carrying capacity.

Land has continued to shift back into crop production, although future trends are uncertain, he said.

In any case, all of those factors contributed to cattle herd reductions in 1982. And on many farms, particularly where cattle-grain operations prevail, many producers turned land back to crops or were forced to reduce or liquidate herds in order to raise cash.

"Unless land is again diverted from crop production, which seems unlikely, many of these operations will probably remain out of beef production," Gustafson said.

"In addition, production capacity in the broiler and, particularly, pork sectors remain large, holding up total meat supplies and creating stiffer competition for beef."

Gustafson said that total meat and poultry consumption, on a per capita retail weight basis, has declined from a record of 208 pounds in 1980 to 203 pounds in 1982. However, with larger production this year, per capita consumption may be near the 1980 record.

Ingram Orders Lower Rates

RALEIGH (AP) — Insurance Commissioner John Ingram has ordered rate reductions of 8.4 percent in comprehensive auto insurance and 11.4 percent in auto collision insurance.

Also Saturday, Ingram ordered a 3.7 percent reduction in property damage liability insurance rates and a 9.4 percent reduction in auto medical payment rates for private auto insurance policies in the N.C. Reinsurance Facility.

The facility, which handles policies for drivers considered insurance risks, had asked for increases in rates for bodily injury liability, property damage liability and medical payments.

Ingram said that state law allows the insurance industry to charge the higher rates while they are being appealed, but that his order calls for a reduction.

Collision and comprehensive auto insurance protects the vehicle from loss caused by accident, fire and theft. Together, the two lines of insurance are called physical damage coverage.

The N.C. Rate Bureau had filed for rate increases of 2.4 percent in physical damage rates and 3.3 percent in collision rates.

But the bureau said that because of a cost-of-living cap on insurance rate increases, it was limiting its request to 1.4 percent for comprehensive and 1 percent for physical damage.

Graze Crop Residue Early

By MIRIAM LEWIS
Agricultural Extension Agent

The majority of beef cattle producers in Pitt County graze crop residues during the fall months. Crop residues should be grazed early since they deteriorate rapidly. Crop residues such as corn stalks, soybean stover and peanut vines are excellent to graze. They are good sources of feed between summer pastures and cover crops.

Winter grazing includes stockpiled fescue as well as winter annuals like wheat, rye, oats, barley and ryegrass. Grazing small grains, especially creep grazing by calves, adds pounds to the weaning weight and saves hay.

Now is the time to have your stored winter forage (hay) analyzed in order to balance the ration. For forage sample bags or for further information contact Miriam Lewis, 752-2934.

RESCUE DAY HELD — The Winterville Rescue Squad held rescue day in Winterville Saturday. Competition included teams from Zebulon, Clinton-Sampson, and Crawford of lower Currituck County. Winterville Captain Ashley Dail said the proceeds from rescue day will benefit the Winterville squad.

The activities began with a parade through Winterville, an auction was held Saturday night and dinner was served. Dail said the events helped kick-off Emergency Medical Services week throughout the state. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Log'n Demo To Be Held

Eastern North Carolinians with an interest in logging will have an opportunity to view logging-related activities Oct. 1 at the Carolina Log'n Demo, scheduled near Ayden off N.C. 11.

The Log'n Demo will feature equipment displays, educational booths and live woods demonstrations according to Sam Uzzell, Pitt County extension agent.

The event, the second biennial of its type in eastern North Carolina, is being held for loggers, equipment dealers and timber buyers in the entire mid-Atlantic region.

The sponsors of the Log'n Demo are the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service and the North Carolina Forestry Association.

A pig pickin' will be held and a country band will entertain. The N.C. State University Forestry Club will demonstrate old-time logging techniques.

For further information call 752-2934.

"PERDUE TAKES A CHICKEN SERIOUSLY"

"As Controller of the Roanoke Electric Co-Op, I've invested a lot of our members' money over the years. And I've learned that when you make an investment of any kind, you should check it out. And believe me, I checked out Perdue very carefully before building my broiler house. I called banks and exchange clubs in both Maryland and North Carolina, toured Perdue's facilities, talked to growers...I thoroughly researched the company and every report that I got was very favorable.

Perdue understands the importance of keeping up with technology. I don't think they're the only ones who do, but they are certainly more progressive than most poultry companies. So when they suggest that we growers make an improvement, you can bet it's going to pay off for us. After all, any company that's been in the business for 62 years and has made a profit every year must know what they're doing.

Besides my position with the electric co-op and my Perdue house, I also grow corn, tobacco and peanuts. And the best crop I have is my Perdue chickens. For almost eight years I've enjoyed a good steady income from my broiler house. And with uncertainties in other commodities and row crop farming, I would recommend Perdue as a basic steady income for anybody who wants to remain in a rural area and remain in farming. I know I'll spend a pleasant retirement in the country, thanks to my Perdue chickens."

It's A Great Time to Grow with Perdue. Perdue is into one thing — chickens. That's why our poultry products outsell all the others in the northeastern supermarkets. The demand is increasing for our products, so we need more producers. Start growing with a growing company. Call 1-800-682-8729 or send in the coupon below, and talk chicken with a Perdue representative.

Rookie Helps O's Sail By Brewers

By The Associated Press

Rookie John Stefero got his first chance when Baltimore's starting catcher Rick Dempsey was struck on the neck by a foul ball and on the forearm with a pitched ball. He got another chance in the bottom of the ninth inning with the score tied.

He made both chances pay off as the Orioles decreased their magic number to eight in the American League East race with a 10-9 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Detroit, seven games behind Baltimore, kept its slim hopes alive with a 9-6 verdict over Boston. In other AL games, Cleveland and the New York Yankees split a doubleheader, the Indians winning the opener 10-6 and New York taking the nightcap 13-8, the Chicago White Sox blanked Seattle 6-0, Oakland stopped Kansas City 6-2 and Texas edged California 7-6.

A resident of Odenton, Md., a Baltimore suburb, Stefero was sent into the game in the third inning Sunday as his family and friends watched from the stands. At the time, the Milwaukee Brewers held a 7-0 lead.

"I'd been here so many days and hadn't played," said Stefero, who was recalled from Rochester for the second time on Sept. 1. "I was happy to get in and contribute."

His single helped the Orioles rally for six runs in the eighth inning and take a short-lived 9-7 lead. Then, after the Brewers knotted the score in the top of the ninth, Stefero got another chance.

In the ninth, Glenn Gulliver singled with one out and Lenn Sakata walked, bringing Stefero to the plate again.

"I was happy to see the other guys on base," the Baltimore catcher said. "That got me pumping and all I wanted to do was make contact."

He singled to right, scoring Gulliver with the winning run as Baltimore posted its ninth victory in its last 10 games. It also ran the Brewers' losing streak to a club record-tying nine straight.

A bases-loaded home run by Eddie Murray with two outs highlighted the Orioles' eighth-inning explosion.

Tigers 9, Red Sox 6

Kirk Gibson, Lou Whitaker and Wayne Krenchicki collected three hits apiece and Detroit hung on to edge Boston as the Red Sox scored five runs in the ninth inning.

Gibson had a double and infield single off Boston starter Dennis Boyd, and then slammed a tremendous home run into the bleachers in right-center in the eighth. Whitaker and Krenchicki each had a double and two singles, while Enos Cabell drove in two runs with a pair of infield hits.

Pitcher Milt Wilcox got the victory, the 100th of his major league career.

"It was only natural that I got a little bit concerned," Wilcox said of Boston's ninth-inning fireworks. "That's an explosive ball club, especially in this ball park. When they get within two or three runs, you've got to start sweating."

White Sox 6, Mariners 0

Richard Dotson, backed by four double plays and Harold Baines' fourth home run in as many games, hurled his first shutout of the season for Chicago, which clinched the AL West Division title Saturday night.

It was the seventh complete game of the season for Dotson, 19-7. It was his seventh straight triumph and 11th in his last 12 decisions.

The victory was the 12th in the last 13 games for the Sox and their 17th straight at home.

A's 6, Royals 2

Rookie Mike Warren tossed a five-hitter as Oakland snapped a four-game losing streak. Bob Kearney backed the performance with a single, a double and three runs batted in.

Kansas City had its five-game winning streak snapped.

Rangers 7, Angels 6

A two-run homer in the ninth inning by Larry Parrish lifted Texas over California. Billy Sample led off the inning with a single and, one out later, Parrish connected for his 26th homer.

Victor Cruz, 1-3, worked the final two innings to pick up the win in a game the Rangers won despite blowing an early 5-0 lead.

Indians 10-8, Yankees 6-13

Dave Winfield singled twice and homered, and rookie Brian Dayett drove in four runs as New York stopped Cleveland in the second game for a split of their doubleheader.

For the day, Winfield went 7-for-8, scored five times, homered twice and drove in four runs. New York had 31 hits, including 19 in the second game.

In the opener, Pat Tabler slammed a two-run triple to highlight a six-run third inning that gave Cleveland's Mike Jefcoat his first major league victory.

Under But Out

Atlanta Braves pinch runner Albert Hall (2) slides to second base, but San Diego second baseman Ed Rodriguez had already tagged the base before jumping to avoid a collision. Rodriguez' throw to first completed a double play in Sunday's game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. (AP Laserphoto)

Light Winds Aid Australia II

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — American skipper Dennis Conner now knows the Australians can beat his boat in light winds, and that if he wants to keep the America's Cup here, he'll have to seek stouter breezes.

"We're hoping to have a little different weather and see how we go in that," said Conner after Australia II trounced his yacht Liberty by three minutes, 14 seconds, Sunday.

Conner immediately asked for and was given a day off today after the first Aussie victory in the best-of-seven cup championship series cut his advantage to 2-1.

"We thought there might be more wind on Tuesday," the defending America's Cup king told a news conference after taking the worst cup defeat by a U.S. defender since 1871.

How much wind would he like? "About 40 knots," Conner said to laughter. The 12-meter yachts can't go out to race in anything over 25.

The Australian yacht with its secret winged keel quickly sailed off to a big lead in Sunday's race, lost some of the edge briefly, but moved ahead steadily on the last three legs.

"We tried everything we could think of and she looked awfully good," Conner conceded.

But he emphasized that he is still ahead.

"I'd say that with a 2-1 lead, things don't look too bleak," said the veteran of four straight cup campaigns.

The southwest winds Sunday on the race area in Rhode Island Sound were clocked at an easy seven knots at start of the race and up to 10 at the finish — conditions where Australia II has shown speed all summer.

The Australians, beaten in the first two races after major equipment failures both days, were buoyed by the win.

"I've always maintained that we can win the America's Cup," said skipper John Bertrand. "We've got the people, we've got the expertise, we've got the boat, equipment and sails."

Alan Bond, Aussie syndicate head making his fourth cup try, was a bit more cautious. "Liberty is a fine 12-meter," he said. "She is going to be very tough to beat..."

"We've only won one race and have to win three others," Australia II missed out on another light-wind victory Saturday when time ran out with the Aussie yacht about a half mile ahead of Liberty on the final leg.

Liberty won by 1:10 Wednesday after Australia II's steering gear broke, and by 1:33 Thursday after an Aussie mast fitting broke.

More than 500 people were on the Newport docks to give Australia II a noisy welcome with fireworks, horn tooting and applause when she returned to port a winner.

The size of the victory margin Sunday was unusual in match races which are often decided by times well under a minute.

Liberty was eight seconds ahead over the starting line, but Australia II took command on the first tacking leg and led by 1:14 at the first mark.

Liberty clipped 42 seconds from that on the next two reaches, but then fell back. The Aussies led by 1:15 after the second tacking leg and 2:47 after the run with the wind behind them.

Carlton. We just had to be careful of a pitchout."

Meanwhile, the National League West remained a virtual two-team race between the Los Angeles Dodgers and Atlanta Braves. The Dodgers lost 6-3 to San Francisco, but nevertheless maintained a 3½-game lead when the Braves also lost, 4-2 to San Diego in 13 innings.

In other NL action, Houston beat Cincinnati 4-1 and Chicago edged New York 6-5.

Greg Gross opened the Phillies' seventh with a double and advanced to third on Bo Diaz's sacrifice bunt. DeJesus then dropped down a 1-1 pitch from Joaquin Andujar, who fumbled the ball, then threw too late to nab the sliding Gross at home. The Phillies added an insurance run in the eighth on an RBI single by Gary Matthews.

Carlton, 14-15, gave up eight hits in seven innings, struck out seven and walked three to move within one of the 300-victory plateau, a level reached by only 15 other pitchers. Carlton's strikeouts boosted his major-league career leading total to 3,690, 29 more than runnerup Nolan Ryan of Houston.

Al Holland took over in the ninth for the Phillies and recorded his 21st save.

Expos 5, Pirates 2 In Pittsburgh, Al Oliver and Terry Francona delivered run-scoring hits in a two-run fifth inning as Montreal halted a six-game winning streak by the Pirates.

Pittsburgh starter Rick Rhoden, 11-13, took a 2-1 lead into the fifth and quickly got two outs before Andre Dawson tripled. Oliver followed with a single and Francona then delivered a triple to break the tie and enable the Expos to salvage the third game of a three-game series.

Scott Sanderson, 6-6, worked the first 5 2-3 innings for the victory and got relief help from Bob James, who earned his fifth save.

"If I knew the secret (to the recent success), I would have done it about three years ago," said James, a former Detroit Tigers' farmhand. "It's experience, I guess. If you do things for a certain amount of time, you finally do them right."

Giants 6, Dodgers 3

In San Francisco, Joel Youngblood drove in four runs as the Giants beat the Dodgers and completed a three-game sweep of the West leaders.

San Francisco starter Mike Krukow, 11-9, gave up but five hits, including a leadoff homer in the ninth by Derrel Thomas, before leaving. Greg Minton gave up two more Dodger runs on a single by R.J. Reynolds before Gary Lavelle came on for his 18th save.

The sweep of the series gave the Giants an 11-4 record this season against the Dodgers and Manager Frank Robinson said, "It shows us that we can beat these guys and makes me wonder what happens to us against other teams we play."

Padres 4, Braves 2

In Atlanta, Ruppert Jones slugged a two-run homer in the 13th inning to lead San Diego over the Braves.

Jones, who entered the game in the 10th as a defensive replacement, connected for his 11th homer against Ken Dayley, 4-6, with one out and Tony Gwynn on base with a single.

Gary Lucas, 5-7, the fourth San Diego pitcher, gained the victory for the Padres, who won the series 2-1.

Astros 4, Reds 1

In Cincinnati, Alan Ashby and Terry Puhl hit solo homers to lead Houston over the Reds behind the combined six-hit pitching of Mike Scott and Frank DiPino.

Ashby rapped his eighth homer of the season off Mario Soto, 16-13, with one out in the second to put the Astros ahead to stay. Puhl hit his seventh homer leading off the fifth for a 3-1 lead and Jerry Mumphrey drove in another run in the sixth with a triple.

Scott scattered four hits in 7 1-3 innings, striking out a career high of eight. DiPino earned his eighth save.

Cubs 6, Mets 5 In New York, Gary Woods' two-run double in the ninth inning lifted the Cubs over the Mets. Bill Campbell, 6-8, the fourth of five Chicago pitchers, was the winner.

Doug Sisk, 5-4, making a club record 64th relief appearance for the Mets, gave up a single to Ryne Sandberg and a walk to Thad Bosley to open the Chicago ninth. They both advanced on Bill Buckner's sacrifice and scored on Woods' double.

Rain Helps Youngster Edge Vet Whitworth

KENT, Wash. (AP) — The rain, and age, took their toll in the $175,000 LPGA Safeco Classic, as rookie Juli Inkster inched past Hall of Famer Kathy Whitworth for a 1-stroke victory.

"I think I'm too old," said Whitworth, 43, after she missed a 4-foot par putt on the final hole.

"I just can't play in this kind of weather," she said of the steady rain that plagued the 6,114-yard Meridian Valley Country Club course Sunday. "The concentration goes out the window. You just need the strength and it's not there."

Inkster, 23, didn't have such problems, finishing with 71 for 283, 5-under-par, to win her first Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament.

"It feels great," said Inkster, who also finished a shot ahead of Cindy Lincoln and Jo Ann Washam. "These last four tournaments, I've always had a bad round. I felt I was close to coming through. I just wanted to put four good rounds together."

Whitworth, fifth on the money list with $174,116 before entering the Safeco, said fatigue hurt her game.

On the short par-5 18th, she was short in three, chipped to within four feet and pulled the putt which would have forced a sudden-death playoff.

Whitworth struggled home with a 5-over 77 to finish at 284, one behind Inkster, on the par-72 course.

Whitworth took a 3-shot lead into the final round, but she didn't make a birdie, and had to scramble for pars on Nos. 16 and 17 to have any chance of winning.

Steady rain the first nine holes slowed play to a crawl, and made scoring difficult for Whitworth and the rest of the field. However, Whitworth showed no visible disappointment after blowing a chance to enter the record books as the golfer with the most career victories of all time.

Ingram Named 'Gridiron King'

Kevin Ingram, who rushed for two touchdowns and threw for two more in East Carolina University's 50-25 victory over Murray State Saturday, was named the winner of the R.W. Moore "King of the Gridiron" scholarship.

A $1,000 donation is made to the ECU general scholarship fund in the name of the winner of the award, which is voted on by the working media at each home game and announced after each home game.

The 28,123 present at the game was the fourth largest crowd in Ficklen Stadium history. The largest crowd of 31,251 watched the Pirates defeat Western Carolina 14-6 Sept. 2, 1978.

Woody Peele

For those who saw only the final score — and the final stats — the feeling that East Carolina didn't do too well against Murray State would be an incorrect conclusion.

As a matter of fact, the Pirates — the first string that is — did quite well against them, despite some early success by the Racers.

Murray State did, indeed, score 25 points and pass for 302 yards. However, 19 of those points came after East Carolina had rolled up a 40-6 lead in the third period and had taken the regulars out.

When the score reached that point, Murray State had only 73 yards passing. Their next drive — stalled when the first team defense came back in — pushed that to 131, and at the end of the quarter the total had climbed to 159 yards. So nearly half of their total came in the final period when only second and third team players were on the field.

This points out, to a certain extent, the fact that the Pirates do not have the quality depth as yet that they need. However, this is how depth is built, by playing the inexperienced when the situation allows.

And as Coach Ed Emory said you play all you can and let the opponent come back some for the sake of morale, rather than blow someone completely away when it's not necessary.

Kevin Ingram showed again Saturday night why he's become so valuable to the Pirate offense. The Philadelphia senior rambled for nearly 50 yards and passed for 96. He hit on his first six and seven of his first eight passes for two touchdowns. With the responsibility for four TDs, Ingram was the key player in the offense for the Pirates.

Jeff Heath, too, continues to shine in the kicking game, turning in another perfect performance with six extra points and two field goals. He is rapidly on his way into the top ten scorers in ECU history and will probably be the record holder before his career is finished. He's approaching the half-way point now, with still well over two years to go.

Henry Williams has to be one of the most exciting players in the country once he gets his hands on the football. He had two outstanding returns against Murray State, one of them a 93-yard touchdown jaunt. Another went into the record books as being much shorter than it actually was because of a clip well away from the actual play.

The quickness and speed of the junior streaker was shown by the fact that several players had angles on Williams but were simply left standing as he zipped by them.

And nothing will get the Ficklen crowd going like his post-touchdown flips. His first in Ficklen Saturday night brought the largest ovation of the night.

The football world continues to be a topsy-turvy one. When — if ever — has the defending national champion gone winless the next season through three games.

That's the situation Joe Paterno's Penn State faces this week after bowing to Iowa Saturday afternoon.

And that wasn't the only surprise. Consider the fact that six Top Twenty teams lost and another tied Saturday. Then, tiny Furman University downed bigboy Georgia Tech. Those in Greenville (North) are familiar with their sister school in Greenville (South), however, and know the way the Paladins have of surprising people they're not supposed to stay on the field with.

It wasn't a good day for Pirate opponents either. Of the eight ECU foes playing, four came up on the short end of the score. Florida State lost to Tulane, Missouri was inched out by Wisconsin, Southwestern Louisiana bowed to Tennessee-Chattanooga, and William & Mary lost to Delaware. Only Florida, N.C. State, Southern Mississippi and Miami came away with wins.

The NCAA News for this past week, lists the roughest schedules based on won-lost records last year when not playing each other — if they met and the Pirates find themselves in that list — sort of.

UCLA is listed as having the toughest schedule in the country, with opponents who had a .681 percentage last year. South Carolina is next at .656, followed by Florida, Penn State and Auburn. Florida State is number seven, Temple is 15th, Maryland tied for 17th, Clemson is 20th, and Miami is 36th.

A special category was set up for those teams whose Division I-A opponents did not play at least 75 games, and ECU is at the top of that list with a percentage of .571.

So maybe when you combine the fact that ECU plays seven of its games — all against Division I-A foes — on the road, Ed Emory's right when he claims the toughest schedule in the country.

Elway Fades In Opener

By The Associated Press
John Elway, Denver's heralded rookie quarterback, finally made his long-awaited regular-season home debut. He lasted longer — but the Broncos came out on the short end.

Elway, who had been forced to the sideline by minor injuries in Pittsburgh and Baltimore, and in each case had watched veteran Steve DeBerg rally the Broncos to victory, was in from first pass to last on Sunday against Philadelphia.

Only one of the passes wound up as a touchdown — his first as a pro — and two others ended up as interceptions. But in the end, it was the foot of Tony Franklin which gave Philadelphia its 13-10 victory as he kicked a tie-breaking 43-yard field goal with 57 seconds to play.

It knocked the Broncos from the unbeaten ranks. Only Dallas, a 28-13 winner over the New York Giants, is 3-0. The two remaining unbeaten teams, Miami and the Los Angeles Raiders, play tonight. Houston, St. Louis, Tampa Bay and Cincinnati are winless three games into the new season.

Dolphins, Raiders Renew Rivalry

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In their 17-year history, the Miami Dolphins have a superb 156-99-4 record, including post-season games. And that's despite a 15-39-2 mark in their first four seasons.

Over the years, no team has given the Dolphins more problems than the Los Angeles Raiders, who, while based in Oakland, were 12-3-1 against them, including a 33-17 victory in 1981, the last time the clubs squared off.

The Dolphins hope the fact that the Raiders have a new home will mean a change in the normal result when they face Los Angeles tonight in the third Monday night game of the National Football League season.

Kickoff time at the Los Angeles Coliseum is 9 p.m., EDT. The Raiders, playing their second season in Los Angeles, were listed as two-point favorites.

Both teams bring 2-0 records into the nationally televised affair, which will be blacked out in Los Angeles because several thousand tickets remained unsold as of last Friday night, 72 hours before kickoff.

"Our rivalry with the Raiders goes back a long way," said Miami Coach Don Shula, in his 14th year as the head coach of the Dolphins, who have 132-53-2 record since his arrival in 1970. "We've had a lot of trouble with the Dolphins, especially out there (in California)."

"This will be the first big test for our football team. The Raiders looked awfully strong in their first two games. They've got a great defensive team and (quarterback Jim) Plunkett got untracked against Houston last week."

The Raiders allowed just one touchdown and a total of 16 points while beating Cincinnati, 20-10, and Houston, 20-6, in their first two games.

After a shaky preseason and a mediocre effort against Cincinnati, the veteran Plunkett connected on 19 of his 28 passes for 229 yards as Los Angeles beat Houston. Meanwhile, the Raiders allowed the Oilers only seven first downs.

However, as Los Angeles Coach Tom Flores pointed out, the Oilers aren't the Dolphins.

"This is the best team we've played so far," said Flores of Miami. "They don't have any so-called weaknesses. Their offense is very sound, they don't give up the ball. Their defense is excellent, they try and force you to be impatient."

"They're very difficult to throw against. I think pass protection is a key. They are the type of team that bends a little bit but usually doesn't break. If you try to force something that isn't there, you're usually going to get in trouble."

The Raiders and Dolphins are the winningest teams in the history of Monday night football. Since the nationally televised series began in 1970, Los Angeles is a remarkable 19-2-1 while Miami is an excellent 15-8-0.

Neither coach could explain why their teams have been so successful on Monday nights. They had similar responses when queried on the subject.

"We're very proud of our Monday night record," said Flores. "There's something about Monday nights that our players enjoy. (But) we've done pretty well on Sundays, too."

Taft Takes Putt Event

Jeff Taft won the Danny Woods Memorial Tournament with a 23-under par 121 for the four rounds of competition Sunday at Putt-Putt Golf and Games.

Taft took the lead after the first round, and Johnny Carrow finished second with a 16-under 128. Robbie Ehrmann was third and Danny Pollard fourth in the tourney.

Proceeds from the event went to the American Cancer Society.

Campbell, asked for his impression of Elway, said the Broncos "have got something good coming. He's got a great arm. He can really flip it." And Denver Coach Dan Reeves said: "The mistakes he made, everybody makes. He's doing things a lot better."

Cowboys 28, Giants 13
Dallas' offense rallied the Cowboys to their first two come-from-behind victories this season. Against the Giants, it was the defense that did the job as safeties Dexter Clinkscale and Michael Downs made touchdown returns 12 seconds apart in the fourth quarter to turn a one-point lead into a safe margin.

"The defense won it for us," said Cowboys Coach Tom Landry. "We gave them plenty of chances to beat us. We had our best performance of the year from the defense."

Clinkscale grabbed a Scott Brunner pass and returned it 68 yards for a touchdown with 6:17 to play, putting Dallas on top 21-13. On the ensuing kickoff, Billy Campbell fumbled and Downs picked up the ball at the 10 and scampered in. The Cowboys' other TDs came on Danny White's passes of 4 and 2 yards to tight end Doug Cosbie, the second one following Everson Walls' interception and 37-yard return to the Giants 1-yard line.

Seahawks 34, Chargers 31
Air Coryell got off the ground too late in Seattle, Dan Fouts throwing three of his four TD passes in the fourth quarter.

"Seattle didn't surprise us," San Diego Coach Don Coryell said. "They just played very well. When we got to within three, we were hopeful. I thought we might get the ball back and get down into field-goal position to tie that baby up. But we just didn't get the ball back."

Jim Zorn and Steve Largent teamed for touchdown strikes of 41 and 5 yards for Seattle.

Saints 34, Bears 31
"Never — not in high school, not in college and not in the pros — had I ever had the chance to kick a game-winning field goal," Morten

Andersen said after the Saints won for the first time in four overtime games in the team's 16-year history.

Andersen's 41-yard field goal 10:57 into overtime put a damper on some sensational individual performances by the Bears. Walter Payton rushed 28 times for 161 yards, 49 on a touchdown jaunt, and passed 21 and 56 yards to Willie Gault for touchdowns. Gault also caught a TD pass from Jim McMahon.

Packers 27, Rams 24
Jan Stenerud's 36-yard field goal with one second to play ended a wild game in which the Rams went from 17-0 down to 24-17 up.

"It's never automatic," Stenerud said of his 321st field goal, compared to George Blanda's NFL record of 335. "I'm not thinking if I'm going to be a hero. I'm just thinking of making the kick."

Steelers 40, Oilers 29
Walter Abercrombie caught a 30-yard TD pass and ran 50 yards for another score and Gary Anderson kicked four field goals as the Steelers ripped Houston. The Pittsburgh defense also intercepted Oilers quarterback Archie Manning four times.

The Steelers overcame a 97-yard kickoff return by Houston's Carl Roaches in the first quarter and put down a mild fourth-quarter Oiler rally. Franco Harris rushed for 115 yards and needs 34 to move past O.J. Simpson's 11,236 and into second place behind Jim Brown on the all-time list.

49ers 42, Cardinals 27
Joe Montana threw three touchdown passes, two to Freddie Solomon in the opening half, and Dwight Hicks and Tim Collier returned interceptions for touchdowns as San Francisco routed the Cardinals.

Patriots 23, Jets 13
Tony Collins rushed for touchdowns of 39, 7 and 23 yards and finished with a club-record 212 yards as the Patriots shocked the Jets. The first two times it got the ball, New England put together marches of 66 and 76 yards to take command.

Redskins 27, Chiefs 12
Joe Theismann's second-half touchdown passes of 12 yards to Don Warren and 39 yards to Clint Didier helped the Redskins rally from Kansas City's 12-0 halftime lead. The Chiefs' points came on four Nick Lowery field goals.

Falcons 30, Lions 14
Steve Bartkowski of the Falcons threw three touchdown passes, two to Alfred Jackson covering 54 and 36 yards, and finished with 366 passing yards while fullback William Andrews rushed for 150 yards against Detroit.

Bills 28, Colts 23
Coach Frank Kush of the Colts insisted his team beat itself. "We continue to kill ourselves in more ways than one," he fumed. "It's the same type of consistency ... that is, a lack of consistency."

Baltimore was hit with 153 yards in penalties — and a fumble by Colts quarterback Mike Pagel that gave the Bills the ball on Baltimore's 14-yard line preceded Joe Ferguson's second TD pass to Joe Cribbs, a game-winning 2-yarder with less than five minutes to play.

Vikings 19, Bucs 16
Benny Ricardo's fourth field goal of the game, a 42-yarder 9:27 into overtime, gave Minnesota its victory after Bill Capece blew a chance to make Tampa Bay a winner, missing a 33-yarder a few minutes earlier.

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES GOREN
AND OMAR SHARIF
©1983 Tribune Company Syndicate, Inc.

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦83 ♥96 ♦54 ♠AKQ8763
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♦ 2 ♣ Pass 2 NT
Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—It is true that, in terms of pointcount, you have as little as possible for your two-level overall, especially as you are vulnerable. Still, you are bringing partner seven tricks and, unless the opponents can take five fast tricks, partner must be a favorite to run nine. Bid three no trump.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦AK872 ♥K ♦AKQ ♠J965
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 1 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—With 20 points in high cards, we would not dream of playing this hand below game level, so it boils down simply to which game is best. Partner probably has no more than two spades, and there is no convenient way of finding out if he has more. With honors in every suit, we would take our chances at three no trump.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦K962 ♥K102 ♦AK76 ♠J4
Partner opens the bidding with one club. What do you respond?

A.—With a balanced hand and 14 HCP, we would not fault you greatly if you jumped to two no trump. However, that could result in your losing a 4-4 spade fit. To see if we have an eight-card major suit fit, we prefer the temporizing response of one diamond, in case partner can introduce a spade suit.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦984 ♥A752 ♦AK84 ♠Q6
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♦ Pass
2 ♣ Pass 2 ♥ Pass
3 ♣ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—With two aces, a king and the queen in partner's long suit, you have a very good hand and we would be inclined to jump to five clubs. However, if you have a bit of the conservative in you, we would accept a raise to four clubs. Go to the bottom of the class if you tried three no trump — you gave partner every chance to bid that and he refused.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦K762 ♥AKQJ83 ♦7 ♣74
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ Pass 3 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Partner has shown a balanced hand of 16-18 points, so you could make slam if he has the side-suit controls. The way to ask him about that is to jump to five hearts. That shows a solid trump suit, the desire to play slam but no first-round control to cue-bid.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦A83 ♥10652 ♦AQ ♠J987
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass 1 ♦ Dble Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—You have the values for a jump bid, but no good bid suggests itself. We do not like to jump in hearts with such a weak suit, and we would want a better stopper in the enemy suit for a jump to two no trump. The solution is to cue-bid two spades, which shows that you have close to an opening bid, and see what action partner takes.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For decades, car craftsman George Barris, 55, has souped up, remodeled and redesigned cars for movies and celebrities.

NBC Leads In Early Awards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC led all networks with 12 Emmys for technical and other achievements after preliminary ceremonies to television's more elaborate awards show next week.

CBS came in second with 10 Emmys, while ABC picked up nine.

Thirty-five awards were handed out Sunday at the Century Plaza Hotel. Emmys in 29 categories will be presented during the telecast of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences 34th annual Emmys presentation at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium next Sunday.

The show will be broadcast live by NBC.

That network, which has consistently found itself struggling behind CBS and ABC, had reason to gloat this weekend with its dozen awards.

"Hill Street Blues," the musical special "Sheena Easton...Act I," and "Special Bulletin," a dramatization of news coverage of a nuclear emergency, captured half of those.

CBS's "The Body Human: The Living Code," was named outstanding informational special and picked up two other Emmys.

The ABC mini-series "The Winds of War," starring Robert Mitchum and based on the Herman Wouk novel, received three awards, including one for best cinematography for a single episode of a limited series.

Another ABC mini-series,

In fact, Barris can think of only one car movie he didn't work on: "Corvette Summer."

Barris has prepared cars for Clark Gable, Liberace,

Bob Hope, Ringo Starr. He provided his-and-hers Mustangs for singers Sonny and Cher when they were a couple, fixed up Frank Sinatra's Ghia L-64 with a telephone for calling his Lear Jet and chopped up a 1948 Chevy for John Drew Barrymore's 1958 film, "High School Confidential!"

Zsa Zsa Gabor wanted a roccoco Rolls-Royce, and Barris respected her taste.

"It's gold-plated and bejeweled but that's not gaudiness... it's an expression of Zsa Zsa," Barris said.

He took design classes at Sacramento College and the Los Angeles Art Center, but taught himself welding, painting and metal-bending simply by doing it, he says.

The high-tech Firebird from the television series "Knight Rider" is his work, as is the "General Lee" Dodge Charger from "Dukes of Hazzard."

For a television pilot called "Auto Man," Barris has conceived a computerized Lamborghini Countach for a computerized cop.

"We're also doing a fully jet-powered car for another television series," he said.

The list of Barrismobiles goes on: A futuristic car from the movie "Bladerunner," the Love Bug for Disney, the smoke-belching Batmobile, the Munsters Koach (a Cadillac hearse cum hot rod), Matt

Helm's station wagon (a jigsaw puzzle of 22 parts for optimum interior shots) and the 1934 Ford (three, actually) where Warren Beatty and Faye Dunaway met a bloody film death in "Bonnie and Clyde."

Several thousand cars, in fact, bear the touch of Barris Kustom Industries, from the weiner-shaped truck for Oscar Mayer — on a bed of fiberglass onions — to James Dean's Porsche Spyder. Barris sprayed competition racing stripes on the car in 1955, three days before Dean died in the car in an accident.

From his North Hollywood body shop have rolled Ringo Starr's modified 1957 Chevy and Donny and Marie Osmand's velvety van.

"When I'm doing a personal car you have to get to know the person and the car must be a part of him, not me," Barris said. For Sonny and Cher, he even checked out Sonny's wardrobe.

On a smaller scale, Barris licenses plastic models of his famous cars.

Some of Barris' works will be sold Sept. 24-25 at an auction in the Universal-Sheraton Hotel in Universal City. The items include John Wayne's station wagon with matching Winchester rifles.

But one car will not be on the block. In a corner of Barris' work compound is an ugly dune buggy, stolen in 1968, fitted with crude armor plate and used for months before being recovered by police.

That one, said Barris, was driven by Charles Manson.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1983

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: It is a day and evening for you to think about what your overall imaginative and idealistic aims are to clarify them in your consciousness and then to consider the best ways and means.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get into studies of all kinds so that you can later make a plan that can gain you your most cherished aims.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Good day to weed out those friends who no longer fit into your pattern of current life. Get busy at work that needs to be done.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study ways of becoming more successful and gaining more prestige as well. Get advice from an expert you trust.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You get fascinating new ideas which should be studied further before you put them in motion.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your hunches may be good but check them with your mature judgment and be sure you can rely on them.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Good day for conferring with partners and come to a true understanding with them. Get into some civic work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study your work well and know how you can be more efficient at it and improve your lot in life. Listen to suggestions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Although a good time is on your mind, you have an opportunity to express your talents very well and gain benefits.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have fine ideas but need the cooperation of family ties to put them across successfully. Get much accomplished.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make sure you know what others expect of you and then you can proceed intelligently. Visit friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Fine day for dwelling on practical affairs and particularly on the financial so that you can build up security.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get yourself better controlled since you could ricochet between being highly elated one moment and despondent the next.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young persons who will be very high minded and should have the finest spiritual training possible and the nicest environment in which to grow, as well as an academic education.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Speaking of Your Health...

Causes of Bleeding Gums

I am 42 years old and am a moderately heavy drinker — especially beer. I noticed that every once in a while after a night out on the town, my gums bleed when I brush my teeth in the morning. Could there be any tie-in between alcohol and bleeding gums? — Mr. S.C.C., Va.
Dear Mr. C.:

I doubt that there is any specific relationship between the two. Perhaps a transient congestion of the mucous membrane of the mouth due to tobacco may be the cause. I doubt it.

The more likely reason may be the presence of some gum disease. Chronic swollen gums may often be responsible for the show of blood.

Far too often this condition is neglected and untreated. The longer this condition remains untreated, the greater is the possibility that the condition will not be easily reversed.

The sad thing about this is that it is estimated that more than 60 percent of all the teeth lost can be attributed to periodontal, or gum disease.

The presence of blood on the toothbrush, even occasionally, deserves a careful inspection by a dentist or a dental hygienist. They are able to probe below the gum level to seek pockets around the teeth that may not be easily visible. In addition to this, X-ray films can often uncover areas of bone loss due to periodontal disease.

When a condition is recognized early, curettage can remove the debris and plaque that collects on the surface of the teeth, in between teeth, and underneath the gum margin.

In most instances, the gum treatment can be handled by the family dentist. It is only in those cases that are far advanced that periodontal specialists are called in to treat extensive gum disease.

I think it would be particularly wise for you to seek the opinion of your dentist to be sure that whatever gum disease is present can quickly be controlled.

I had mumps when I was a child. Afterwards I was given mumps vaccine. Recently the left side of my face blew out and again I was told that I had mumps. When I told them that I had had it before, they changed the diagnosis. Can a mumps gland get swollen from anything else but mumps? — Mrs. N.W., N.M.
Dear Mrs. W.:

The parotid glands lie on each side of the face just below the ear. These glands produce saliva which empties into the mouth through a tiny duct. The saliva contains important digestive juices. Food is broken down by these juices in the mouth as the beginning of digestion.

The parotid glands are affected by the virus that causes mumps. But they can also be swollen by other types of infection. The technical term is known as non-specific parotitis. Other bacteria, too, can produce infections of these glands.

It is relatively rare for anyone to have more than a single attack of mumps. The likelihood is that your infection was not due to mumps. In some instances a small stone may block the salivary duct and cause swelling of the parotid gland by the damming back of saliva.

Seek Extras For New Film

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The odds weren't in their favor, but 6,000 would-be extras turned out to audition for 150 spots in Burt Reynolds' upcoming cops-and-robbers thriller, "Stick."

Reynolds, sporting a beard, sunglasses and black sneakers, left after three and a half hours and 1,035 auditions Sunday.

"I'd stay 'til the last man, but they've got about 6,000 people out there and some of them are getting kind of ornery," he said.

The showdown took place outside Durti Nelly's, a popular Intracoastal Waterway nightspot where the star of "Smoky And The Bandit" posed for pictures and accepted kisses.

"I'm looking for specific types, not necessarily extra pretty people," said Reynolds. "And I'm looking for photographic doubles for four of my principal actors."

Two Still Critical

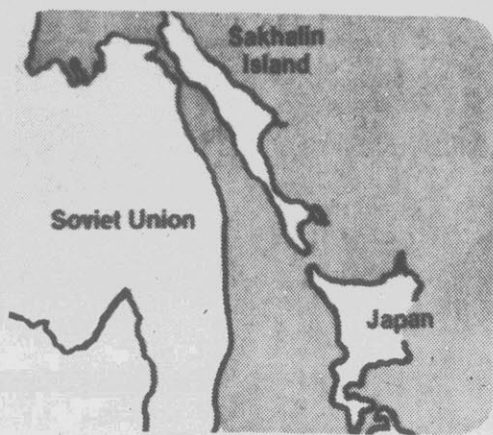

AHOSKIE, N.C. (AP) — Two men remained in critical condition and five in serious condition Sunday, two days after an aluminum plant explosion burned 10 employees.

The blast occurred at the Carolina Billets plant on Friday when molten aluminum was being poured into a mold, said company vice president Randy Britton. He said he didn't know what caused the explosion.

Listed in critical condition at N.C. Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill were assistant plant manager Gerald Orndoff, 50, of Ahoskie; and Rickie Hedgepeth, 24, of Eure. Don Perry, 31, of Corerain, was listed in fair condition.

FOCUS

ANCIENT PEOPLE

Sakhalin, a long, narrow island off the coast of Siberia in the Soviet Union, has been the focus of international attention following the Korean airlines incident. The southern part of this strategic island is inhabited by a race of people called the Ainu. The Ainu are white men believed to have been the first people to live in Japan. Scientists believe the Ainu are one of the oldest existing peoples on Earth.

DO YOU KNOW — What body of water lies to the West of Sakhalin Island?

FRIDAY'S ANSWER — "E Pluribus Unum" means "out of many one".

NOTICE CONCERNING CERTAIN
ANCIENT MINERAL CLAIMS
NORTH CAROLINA
PIT COUNTY

Pursuant to House Bill 443,
Chapter 202 of the 1983 Session, Laws of the General Assembly of North Carolina, and more particularly pursuant to Section 1-42.9 of the General Statutes of North Carolina, the Board of County Commissioners of the County of Pitt do hereby give notice of the essential portions of the Section of said G.S. 1-42.9 as follows:

ANCIENT MINERAL CLAIMS EXTINGUISHED. Oil, gas and mineral interests to be recorded and listed for taxation.
(a) Where it appears on the public records that the fee simple title to any oil, gas or mineral interests in an area of land has been severed or separated from the surface fee simple ownership of such land and such interest is not in actual course of being mined, drilled, worked or operated, or in the adverse possession of another, and that the record titleholder of any such oil, gas or mineral interests has not listed the same for ad valorem tax purposes in the County of Pitt where the said land is located, for a period of five (5) years prior to January 1, 1983, any person, having the legal capacity to own land in this State, who has on September 1, 1983, an unbroken chain of title of record to the surface estate of the area of land for at least thirty (30) years and provided the surface estate is not in the adverse possession of another, shall be deemed to have a marketable title to the fee simple estate as provided in the succeeding subsections of G.S. 1-42.9, subject to the interests and defects as are inherent in the provisions and limitations contained in the muniments of which the chain of record title is formed.

(b) This marketable title shall be held by such person and shall be taken by his successors in interest free and clear of any and all fee simple oil, gas or mineral interests which may be preserved and kept effective by recording within two
(2) years after September 1, 1983, a notice in writing duly sworn to and subscribed before a notary public authorized to take probate by G.S.
47-1, which sets forth the nature of the oil, gas or mineral interest and gives the book and page where recorded. This notice shall be provided as required for registration of instruments by G.S. 47-14 and recorded in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County wherein the area of land, or any part thereof, lies and in the book therein kept or provided under the terms of G.S.
1-42 for the purpose of recording certain severances of surface and subsurface land rights and shall state the name and address of the claimant and, if known, the name of the surface owner and also contain either such a description of the area of land involved as to make the properly located thereby or due incorporation by reference of the recorded instrument containing the reservation or exception of such oil, gas or mineral interest. The notice may be made and recorded separately from the surface conveyance or by any other person acting on behalf of any claimant who is either under a disability, unable to assert a claim on his own behalf, or one of a class but whose identity cannot be established or is uncertain at the time of filing such notice of claim for record.

(c) This section shall be construed to effect the legislative purpose of extinguishing certain ancient oil, gas or mineral claims unless preserved by recording as herein provided. The oil, gas or mineral claims hereby extinguished shall include those of persons whether within or without the State, and whether natural or corporate, but shall exclude governmental claims,
State or Federal, and all such claims by reason of unexpired oil, gas or mineral releases.

(d) Within two (2) years from September 1, 1983, all oil, gas or mineral interests in land severed or separated from the surface conveyance and forfeitable
under the terms of G.S. 1-42.9(b)
may be listed for ad valorem taxes, and notice of this interest must be filed in writing in the manner provided by G.S. 1-42.9(b) and recorded in the local registry in the book provided by G.S. 1-42 to be effective against the surface fee simple owner or creditors, purchasers, heirs or assigns of such owner. Subsurface oil, gas and mineral interests shall be assessed for ad valorem taxes as real property and foreclosed in the manner authorized by Chapter 105 of the General Statutes of North Carolina.

This act does not revive any interest rendered ineffective under the provisions of Sections 1-42.1
through 1-42.8 of the General Statutes of North Carolina.
All persons having any interest in ancient mineral claims should please take notice of this Statute.

Coalition Group Asks For Gov't Role

JERUSALEM (AP) — A key faction in Prime Minister Menachem Begin's outgoing coalition declared today it wanted to serve in a government headed by Begin's colleague, Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir.

The announcement by the National Religious Party (NRP) came as President Chaim Herzog met with leaders of the small parties who control the swing vote in Parliament. The talks mark a crucial stage in negotiating the formation of Israel's next government.

The NRP, whose six seats in Parliament are the largest bloc of swing votes, said its delegates told Herzog that Shamir should succeed Begin. The move was a setback for the opposition Labor Party, which hoped to persuade at least some NRP men to defect and block Shamir's accession to power.

Herzog is empowered by the constitution to select a potential prime minister to try to assemble a parliamentary majority. He is expected to decide by Wednesday whether Shamir or Labor Party leader Shimon Peres gets the first crack at replacing Begin. Shamir is a close associate of Begin, who formally resigned Thursday but remains head of a caretaker government until a successor is chosen. Begin has been in seclusion since resigning, reportedly suffering a skin ailment.

After the session with the NRP, Herzog was to confer with the TAMI faction, whose three seats in the 120-member Knesset also could be pivotal in forming the next government.

On Sunday, Herzog opened the consultations by meeting with delegates of the Labor Party and Likud. Both claimed the right to make the first attempt at forming a coalition.

Likud showed Herzog documents asserting that Shamir had the support of 64 of the 120 Knesset members.

Labor argued that it should have the prerogative because it is the largest single faction, outnumbering Likud 50 to 46.

Labor is counting on its ability to lure members of TAMI, the NRP, and the four-seat Agudat Israel faction out of their alliance with Likud and into a coalition led by Peres.

Herzog told the delegations Sunday that he try to determine which party was supported by the small factions.

Later today, he was to meet with the right-wing Tehiya party, whose three members support Shamir, and the four-man communist faction which is apt to back any combination that would oust the right-wing Likud from power.

Whichever candidate Herzog appoints will have 21 days to form a coalition and can request an additional 21 days if necessary.

Rose High Teachers Chosen For Project

Two Rose High teachers, Virginia Read and Christine Gantt, have each been awarded a $2,500 General Telephone grant for innovative pre-college education program in a model mathematics-science program.

The two were among 22 math and science teachers in North Carolina selected for the awards.

A pre-college pilot education program focusing on math and science is being conducted in North Carolina public schools this year funded by the GTE Corporation. Gov. Jim Hunt announced recently. Hunt said the program would provide outstanding math and science teachers at secondary schools an opportunity to further their education with GTE grants of up to $2,500.

Donald G. Prigmore, president of GTE, said "We want to identify leadership within the ranks of the classroom teachers and encourage outstanding educators."

The award recipients are the lead teachers in the state's eight mathematics-science model programs, including the one at J. H. Rose High School.

The grants are to be used for advanced training at an accredited graduate school or appropriate in-service program. Teachers are expected to concentrate on course work in fields emphasizing state-of-the-art material in their chosen discipline.

Department of Public Instruction officials chose 11 schools representing all of the state's educational districts. Rose High is one of the 11 schools selected.

Labor hopes to win over members of the current Likud coalition who are distressed with the government's tough position on the occupation of the West Bank and its troubled economic policy. Shamir has pledged to continue policies begun during Begin's six-year term.

"I am counting on every member of the Knesset who believes that the situation in Israel needs a new government with a new policy," said Labor representative Moshe Sahal. "I believe there are more than 70, probably even 80, members who are speaking on those lines."

Likud has been endorsed by the NRP, the ultra-

Orthodox Agudat Israel, the nationalist Tehiya faction, TAMI, and three independents.

But Labor hoped to attract support from the NRP's dovish wing or from Agudat Israel and from TAMI, which appeared about to quit the coalition when Begin announced his resignation plans late last month.

Labor also hopes for the backing of dissidents in the 18-man Liberal wing of Likud, and of former Laborites who defected to Likud.

With assured support from the two-man Shinui opposition party and tacit backing of four Communists, Labor could assemble a majority. But veteran observers doubt this strategy could work.

A major problem for Labor would be reconciling the religious parties with its own anti-clerical leftist wing, Mapam.

In east Jerusalem, police and angry Jews and Arabs clashed during one of several protests Sunday marking the first anniversary of the slaughter of hundreds of Palestinians in refugee camps in Beirut, Lebanon.

Saturday's Cryptquip — AN OLD DOCTOR IS BEGGING PATIENTS TO COUGH UP THEIR BILLS.

Today's Cryptquip clue: C equals B.

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.
