

Smooth And Swingy Is Spring Hair Edict

By JUDIE GLAVE
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Put away those electric rollers and find another use for that state-of-the-art blowdryer, because haircut experts say the look for spring of '84 is smooth and swingy, without layers or frizz.

"Hair is finally swinging again," says Don Shaw, a haircut forecaster. "Everybody is dancing again and people are more into athletics, so they need simple but precise cuts that are easy to take care of, yet move with the body."

Shaw is a member of the Intercoiffure, a group of 1,000 of what he described as the "best haircutters" from 50 countries.

Clairol and the USA-Canada-arm of Intercoiffure recently held a worldwide extravaganza at the Parsons School of Design to unveil its spring predictions.

As clouds from dry ice wafted through the auditorium, chilling the knees of those unfortunate enough to be sitting in the front rows, a mechanized female voice suggested that the unadventurous close their eyes, for what they were about to see was "a bold new image to embrace the challenges of tomorrow."

Actually, the styles looked more like a return to the '60s, when flower children let their locks hang loose and lovely. But the major difference between those cuts and the ones for the spring, says Shaw, is precision.

Electric clippers will replace mundane scissors in helping haircutters achieve a smooth, yet rounded, precise cut. In fact, a guide for the "Out of this World" hair show promised that the new tools will "make old-fashioned scissors obsolete."

Blowdryers, which tend to flatten hair, will also be replaced by air-drying or heat lamps to help achieve a fuller look, says Shaw, who owns a hair and skin salon in Atlanta.

Tight rod permanents which leave bumps and ridges near the scalp will also be replaced by "slide" perms, in which the roller is placed at the middle of the hair strands to give fullness underneath the hair shaft instead of on top.

Shaw said the favored hair length for spring will be just above the shoulder to maximize the "bounce" effect of the electric clipper cut. He said the new styles will also be one length, replacing the multi-layered look with a smooth hairdo.

Foaming gels that add body to fine or flyaway hair will help create the sleek styles, says Shaw. Without it, one-length hair is likely to hang limp.

"The stylist also forecasts that 'perms will be bigger than ever' this spring. But he said the new silicone and slide perms will be used to achieve body and straightness, not curl or frizz.

Also on the upswing will be the use of temporary hair colors and tints made of vegetable dyes and milk proteins. The products, which wash out in about six weeks, will be geared for the "young market," Shaw says.

Clairol's contribution to that market is a new tint called "Jazzing," in vibrant colors like "racy wine," "bold gold," "hot red," and "cognac." The colors are painted on the hair and add just a hint of tint to the normal hair color.

Shaw also predicts that bleached blond hair, a la Marilyn Monroe, will make a comeback, along with teased styles for those who don't want to completely abandon the curly look.

The latter, however, will not take the beehive or bouffant style of the '60s, but rather poodle-puff fluffs of hair over the entire head.

"Women are looking for a different type of hat to wear, and your hair is actually your hat," says Shaw.

This Recipe Offers Lesson In Nutrition

Take a portion from the meat group, another from the grain group and add a serving from the fruits and vegetables group! Sound like a lesson in nutrition?

Well, Ripe Olive Stuffed Peppers all by itself is a good example of a balanced meal with ground beef, rice, tomatoes, onion and black ripe olives inside a green pepper. So you can feel confident of supplying sound nutrition when you present this tasty and easy to make dish dramatized with ripe olive garnish.

Ripe Olive Stuffed Peppers

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| 3 large green peppers | 1 tablespoon tomato paste |
| 1/2 pound ground chuck | 1/2 teaspoon basil |
| 1/2 cup long grain rice | 1/2 Dash pepper |
| 1 teaspoon salt | 1/4 teaspoon salt |
| 1 cup water | 1/4 cup grated Cheddar cheese |
| 2/3 cup pitted California ripe olives | 6 whole ripe olives for garnish |
| 1/2 cup chopped onion | |
| 1 tablespoon oil | |
| 1-1/2 cups canned tomatoes | |

Cut peppers in halves lengthwise; remove seeds. Parboil for 5 minutes. Drain, and place in shallow baking dish. Brown beef lightly; stir in rice. Add 1 teaspoon salt and water; cover and cook 20 minutes over low heat. Meanwhile, preheat oven to 350°F. Chop ripe olives coarsely. Saute onion in 1 tablespoon oil. Add tomatoes, tomato paste, basil, pepper and 1/4 teaspoon salt; simmer 10 minutes. Set aside 1/2 cup of the sauce for tops of peppers. Combine ripe olives and remaining sauce with cooked rice mixture. Heap into peppers. Spoon the 1/2 cup sauce over tops of rice. Cover and bake for 20 minutes. Uncover, sprinkle with cheese, and bake 5 minutes longer. Garnish each stuffed pepper half with a whole ripe olive. Makes 6 servings.

We are frequently asked how to remove tub appliques. Following are Rubbermaid's recommendations:

First, it is useful to know that most appliques are made in three layers — the top layer that you see, a middle layer of Mylar film and a bottom layer of adhesive.

Carefully lift a corner or edge of each applique. Use a fingernail, chisel-pointed cuticle stick or any rigid, sharp edged plastic or wood scraper to get it started.

Slowly pull up and peel back the applique making certain the two layers (top surface and Mylar film) remain together. Should the layers separate and the film tear as you progress, start and lift other corners around the applique working toward the center until all portions are free. Cleaners and solvents will not each through Mylar film.

After the appliques have been removed there may be some bits of adhesive remaining on the tub surface. To this adhesive apply Shout, Spray-n-Wash or Magic Spray. Allow the adhesive to soak in one of these solutions for about half an hour. This will soften the adhesive to a rubbery consistency.

Now wipe up the softened adhesive with a coarse, dry cloth. Or thumb roll the adhesive into small balls (much like rubber cement.)

For removing the adhesive repeat the soak procedure several times.

If there is difficulty in trying to pull up and peel back the appliques try the following procedure.

Lift several corners on each applique. Then apply a generous amount of Shout, Spray-n-Wash or Magic Spray over the entire bottom of the tub.

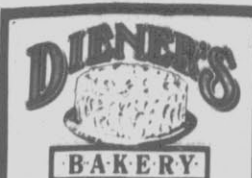

Since nothing will eat through the Mylar film these solutions must get under the applique in order to work on the adhesive.

COLUMBIA SEMINARS

NEW YORK (AP) — A series of Women's Rights Seminars is being held at Columbia University this fall, dealing with topics that include women's health care, health hazards on the job and other health issues. It is sponsored by the Center for the Study of Human Rights at Columbia.

This time allow the appliques to soak for about two hours. One of these solutions should soften the adhesive to a point where the appliques can be lifted easily from the tub surface and any remaining adhesive can be wiped up.

After removing the appliques and any remaining adhesive, scour the tub thoroughly with a cleanser and rinse thoroughly.

Grailville Is Home To The Female Movement

By SUE CROSS
Associated Press Writer
LOVELAND, Ohio (AP) — From the Victorian porch, rolling fields and huge old trees of a rural farm, a movement called Grail searches for truth and justice symbolized by the Holy Grail of Arthurian legend.

The Grail, a women's movement, carries that search from organic gardens and whole grain breads to the latest psychosynthesis, guided imagery and other psychological techniques of self-discovery.

"It all sounds very ethereal, cosmic or something, but it's not," said Peg Moertl, public relations director for Grailville, the group's largest American center, in Loveland.

Local children whisper that Grailville is a secret religious order, and women who live and work at the center surmise that other myths may be many. Even participants find it easier to say what the movement isn't than what it is.

The Grail has no dues-paying members. It is not a religious order, a lifestyle or a political organization, though it was at one time based in the Catholic church. Many of its programs revolve around feminism, nuclear disarmament, anti-militarism and similar issues.

"Part of it might be that, in other organizations, to be a part of an organization you all have to believe in the same things. In the Grail that may not be the case," Ms. Moertl said.

"We've probably always stood for an alternative life," said Joyce Deitrick, one of nine Grail participants at the center.

People who visit Grailville or smaller Grail centers in New York and New Mexico are "outsiders" unless they make a firm commitment to becoming a "participant." They then spend up to two years meeting with women in the movement to discuss their feelings and goals before they are invited to call themselves participants. Ms. Deitrick joined the Grail in 1966 after she graduated from college as a religious studies major and found that the Grail's three tenets — spiritual growth, development of women's creative potential, and social justice — fit her own beliefs.

"I liked their vision of what women could contribute — I guess I always suspected that, but nobody had ever said it," she said. "There was a whole climate then that urged me to plug into that kind of thing."

For Ms. Deitrick, plugging in means leading programs to bring out visitors' inner spirituality with psychosynthesis, a method of using writing, drawing and imagination to bring out underlying religious experiences that she believes are repressed in the American culture.

About 800 people come to Grailville's 360-acre farm each year for such programs, and as the center approaches its 40th year, it is trying to tailor its teaching to women's more hectic lifestyles.

Study or meditation courses on "The Challenge of Peace," "Time and Seasons in Our Lives," "Life Context" and "Women in the Nuclear Age" that might have lasted a month or even a year in the past are now split into week, weekend or evening sessions, as the group tries to carry itself into the community.

Not that the movement is likely to start a membership drive.

The non-profit Grail has seldom counted more than 1,000 participants since it was launched by five Dutch women and a priest in the 1920s. It became independent from the Catholic church in the mid-1970s and now runs centers like Grailville, hospitals, schools and leadership training programs for women in 20 countries.

Grail women live throughout the United States, but many are clustered in greater Cincinnati and a dozen other American cities. They span all ages and have "every diversity of life choice," Ms. Moertl said. At Grailville, some married participants live nearby and

Dear Abby

Engagement Ring Should Be Returned

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My son was engaged for 16 months to a girl who lives in another state. She broke the engagement last night by telephone. She also said she was keeping the ring because Dear Abby said an engagement ring is a gift and belongs to the girl if the engagement ends.

Abby, did you really say that? My son spent a whole year paying for that ring. As a matter of fact, he still owes money on it.

The girl broke his heart, and now she's breaking his pocketbook. Have the rules of etiquette changed?

NO CITY, PLEASE

DEAR NO CITY: The rules have not changed. An engagement ring symbolizes a promise to marry. If the engagement is broken—regardless of who breaks it—the ring should be returned.

DEAR ABBY: I am in a marriage that stinks. Freddy (not his real name) is a macho man who doesn't think a married woman should work outside the home. When he met me I was a waitress. (He owns a cattle ranch.) We've been married three months, and I feel like I'm in prison. He still goes out with the boys, stays out late and never tells me where he's been.

I wanted to take a course in flower arranging, but Freddy wouldn't let me. He knows that the man who teaches flower arranging is gay, but Freddy says you don't have to go to bed with a man to fall in love with him. He feels threatened by every man I say hello to.

To make sure I didn't have a car of my own, right after we got married he sold his car and "borrowed" mine and never gave it back. Now he's begging me to get pregnant, so I'll really be tied down. I'm 22 and Freddy is 32. Please help me.

FREDDY'S PRISONER

DEAR PRISONER: You are your own "prisoner"—not Freddy's. Nobody owns anybody else, and if you allow Freddy to control you, it's a choice that you made. Tell him how you feel. Then ask yourself if you'd be better off with him or without him, and go with your feelings.

some single women work at the center in return for room, board and a "subsistence wage."

Grail participants and their families "come home" to Grailville at Christmas and Easter feast days. The movement is rooted in Christianity although it has members of other faiths, said April McConeghey, a participant who lives at Grailville.

DEAR ABBY: I have always taught my children never to eat anything unless they know exactly what it is. But my mother-in-law, normally a sensible woman, has a habit of sampling plants that grow wild to see how they taste and whether she would like to use them in cooking.

Recently our family and my husband's parents went on a camping trip. The third day, I came upon my mother-in-law urging my children to share some "wild dill seeds" she had found. Fortunately, neither of them had eaten any. The "wild dill" was actually water hemlock, one of the most poisonous plants in the United States!

My mother-in-law protested that the government wouldn't "allow" poisonous plants to grow in a federal park, but she agreed not to eat the seeds. Now she is angry with me for "undermining" her with her grandchildren. (Never mind that I probably saved their lives.)

I am a botanist. My specialty is field taxonomy; I am often called upon to identify "weed" plants. I know what I'm talking about, Abby.

Please tell your readers: Never, never eat any unidentified wild plant or berry because it looks good. Know for certain what you are putting into your mouth. If you don't, it may cost you a serious illness, maybe even your life!

FORMER FARM GIRL

DEAR ABBY: This is my first "Dear Abby" letter, although this has been on my mind for a long time.

I have a beautiful, intelligent, 23-year-old, college-educated niece who has never had a date in her life. Men are attracted to her, but they quickly lose interest because she takes no pride in her appearance. She has a wonderful figure but she doesn't care how she looks. She wears any old thing, no makeup, and does nothing with her lovely blond hair. Her only social life is doing something with "the girls." It's a shame.

I know looks aren't everything, but even the plainest girl can make herself attractive with the right clothes, a hairdo and a touch of lip gloss.

I've tried to get her to spruce herself up, and so have other members of the family, but to no avail. I don't want to be a "buttsky," but I hope you print this because she reads you faithfully and it might help. I love her dearly and want her to be happy.

A LOVING AUNT

DEAR AUNT: Maybe she is happy. If you, and other members of the family, have tried unsuccessfully to spruce her up, it's possible that she is content just as she is. I know you mean well, but unsolicited advice is seldom appreciated. Butt out, Auntie.

Twice as many teenaged mothers drop out of school as do other high school aged persons. Pregnancy is the most common reason for dropout.

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Many yard and garden plants can provide materials for attractive holiday decorations, says Raymond T. Fox, professor of floriculture and ornamental horticulture in the New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, Cornell University.

Pine, boxwood, arborvitae and balsam, for example, create interesting effects when used in combination, Fox says. Snow effects may be obtained with plaster of

Move The Signs

It is an old complaint, the one of political signs and posters placed along street rights-of-way, public property and private property without permission.

It was raised again last weekend as political posters lined the streets leading to the Ficklen Stadium parking areas.

City officials say it is unlawful to place political signs on any property controlled by the city, except in front of homes where permission is given by the owner or occupant and on city owned bulletin boards put there for public use.

The public works department can remove such signs when they are placed there in violation of the ordinance.

University officials also expressed concern about the signs on state property. No such permission was given.

Candidates should see that their supporters follow the city ordinances in placing political posters. Our streets should not be cluttered with the posters.

Homework Needed

Homework is the bane of school kids, but like vegetables, it obviously is good for you.

A study done for the state Board of Education indicates that students in the sixth through ninth grades who spend considerable time doing homework have higher achievement tests scores.

The problem is less than 25 percent of the students in those grades devote as much as five hours per week to homework.

It should be obvious that students need to spend time studying outside of class to be prepared for the discussions which go on in class. The more outside work that is done the more prepared the student will be.

It is the job of administrators, teachers and parents to see that students do the amount of homework necessary to gain an adequate education.

Who Pays The Bill?

WASHINGTON — David Hannah Jr. briefly caught the imagination of a nation last year when his company launched a spacecraft from a barren island off the Texas coast. Hannah announced that the event had marked a new form of competition for the U.S. space program — from the private sector.

Excitement over cost advantages, in fact, overshadowed concern for, among other things, air safety and national security. The unprecedented launch, as Susan and Martin Tolchin contend in a new book, "Dismantling America: The Rush to Deregulate," illustrated "what can happen when the wrong questions — who pays and what does it cost — are repeatedly asked at the expense of two other vital questions — who suffers, and who governs?" Despite contentions to the contrary, these questions unfortunately continue to go underemphasized at the highest levels of government.

Conventional wisdom has it that the Reagan revolution has peaked. After serious losses on the side of poor mothers and children, the budget battle has stalemated. Even Reagan's chief economic advisers are at odds over the meaning of deficits.

Meanwhile, the developers' friend, Jim Watt, is spending his last days at the Interior Department. Margaret Heckler has negotiated a cease-fire, if not a lasting peace, over social issues at Health and Human Services. Many hard-liners once employed by the administration have run off to make more money or write revolutionary eulogies.

But stalemates do not a dead rebellion make, as various units of the Reagan team demonstrated during a recent week in which several agencies issued their semi-annual "regulatory agenda."

Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus of the Environmental Protection Agency conceded that the $1.6 billion Superfund for cleaning up hazardous wastes was insufficient, but he authorized EPA's science advisory board on Oct. 14 to "review" 50 or more air, water and hazardous waste regulations in the coming year. Even under a "rehabilitated" EPA, to "review" is to put cost before benefit.

At the behest of industry and some of his subordinates, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger decided to soften barriers against burying fat salaries in Pentagon contracts. Arms manufacturers, among others, had complained that rules issued last May allowed Pentagon auditors to examine individuals' wages; industry successfully urged that an overall figure was sufficient. Unfortunately, the change puts the Pentagon back where it was, unable to fully detect when defense contractors are overly generous with themselves.

Perhaps the most flagrant example of regulatory relaxation came from a predictable source, the Federal Trade Commission, on Oct. 21. Under pressure from Chairman James Miller, the FTC declared that "deceptive" advertisements would no longer be automatically illegal. Instead, the commissioners would have to prove first that a "reasonable" consumer was likely to suffer injury as a result of the ad. Rep. John Dingell (D-Mich.) responded to the new policy with appropriate indignance: Chairman Miller, he cried, was trying to "undo over 50 years of consumer protection laws."

Michael Pertschuk, the former chairman who has become a consumer's watchdog within the FTC itself, may have best evaluated the Reaganites' undaunted, anti-regulatory mentality in a speech to an economists' group in Washington. "So totally does overregulation occlude the vision of our economic wise men," Pertschuk said, that "they overlook such commonplace evils as human misery and suffering, greed and avarice."

Indeed, there's reason to expect that the administration will proceed oblivious to public opinion as well. The departures of such notable consumer nemeses as Watt, former EPA chief Anne Gorsuch Burford and highway safety administrator Raymond Peck may have given remaining officials reason to think that fewer Americans worry now about the course of health and safety. Key resignations may have encouraged many Americans to think that their troubles are in fact over.

But when Americans see, hear, smell and taste the effects of Reagan's continuing assault on regulatory practices, they'll regret their complacency, and remember that politics is like baseball. As Yogi Berra said, "It ain't over 'til it's over."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The invasion of Grenada should dispel two myths that have surrounded Ronald Reagan's presidency.

The first misconception is that there are really two Reagans — a tough talker who is contained at decision time by a more moderate Reagan.

The invasion demonstrates he can match his tough talk with tough action. The visceral anti-communist is the real article.

The second myth is that it isn't fair to hold the president entirely accountable for what comes out of the White House since most decisions, especially those that prove to be lemons, were arranged by his advisers.

Blame them, not the president, this theory goes. Like Dwight Eisenhower, he is supposed to be above the battle — a charismatic chief of staff who is sometimes ill-served by the people around him.

Eisenhower was able to stand aloof and untouched for two full terms, even while his vice president, Richard Nixon, was cornered over a so-called "slush fund" and his closest adviser, Sherman Adams, was forced to resign in a gift scandal.

Reagan has managed for three years, a remarkable achievement when you consider how everything that flowed from Jimmy Carter's White House was immediately tagged to the hapless Georgian.

But when Reagan ordered thousands of Marines, Rangers and paratroopers to the vest-pocket Caribbean country, his rhetoric and his decisions were firmly aligned and his accountability made inescapable.

The president who condemned the Soviet Union last March as "the focus of evil" was now acting on his beliefs. "Grenada... was a Soviet-Cuban colony being readied as a major military bastion to export terror and undermine democracy," was how he explained the invasion to the country. "We got there just in time."

Secretary of State George Shultz offered a somewhat different view of the U.S. action. "This was not taken as a signal about anything else," he said. "It was taken in the light of the threat to the lives and welfare of American citizens."

In any event, Reagan chose to cast the situation in Grenada in a different light. He accused the Soviets of being the force behind surrogates who were pressing against Western interests in the Caribbean, and in Lebanon, as well.

"Not only has Moscow assisted and encouraged the violence in both countries, but it provides direct support through a network of surrogates and terrorists," he said. "It is no coincidence that when the thugs tried to wrest control over Grenada, there were 30 Soviet advisers and hundreds of Cuban military and paramilitary forces on the island."

With his rhetoric, but more important, with his actions, Reagan has put the Kremlin on notice he will fight to contain "the aggressive impulses of an evil empire," as he described the Soviets in his address last March to evangelical Christians in Orlando, Fla.

The president is inescapably in charge of the Grenada operation and the public will hold him personally responsible — win or lose.

If the success of the military action holds, Reagan is apt to retain the favorable rating he showed in polls taken immediately after the invasion.

But if fighting resumes and the U.S. casualty toll rises, Reagan may find the country still gripped by the Vietnam syndrome. Already, with the help of 147 Republicans, the House has voted to apply the War Powers Act to Grenada. It would require the president to remove the troops within 60 days unless Congress approved an extension.

Democrats are mobilizing to make an issue of the invasion. And they have made Reagan — not his advisers or an amorphous administration — their direct target.

Grenada Dispels Reagan Myths

Public Forum

To the editor:

This past summer, as I made three trips to and from the Midwest, I became more, and more aware of a phenomenon which has continued to perplex me. It was this: as I traveled and listened to the FM band, I heard on the college and university stations, not rock or pops, but rather a fairly consistent affiliation with National Public Radio and its dedication to quality news, panel discussion and a variety of fine music programs. I would like to list for your interest the stations whose names I can recall: UNC-Chapel Hill, Wake Forest, Davidson, University of Tennessee-Memphis, University of Tennessee-Knoxville, Eastern Kentucky State, Morehead State, University of Kentucky, University of Cincinnati, Indiana University, Butler University, Indiana Central College and even the Indianapolis Public Schools station.

I know that I may have omitted some names, but the point is clear, large or small, public or private, the college and university stations in other areas are attempting to offer something more than a mere repetition of that which is so plentifully available on commercial radio. Why has East Carolina alone of those mentioned, not attempted to raise expectations and standards? For a university community to have a quality reputation, it must show as high a degree of regard for the cultural as for the academic and athletic.

Strength For Today

Idolatry remains an outstanding sin against which sound religion contends. In olden times idols were made of stone or metal. Today's idols are appetite, love of money, love of pleasure, power, revenge, the ability to evoke admiration from others.

But these idols are as incapable of giving us soul satisfaction as were the idols of stone or metal which our remote ancestors set up. What lasting satisfaction does the miser get who lovingly counts his money packed away in a drawer?

What solid gratification comes to the holder of a large bank account who anxiously peruses the papers each day in the hope of finding a money fund which will give him a fraction of a point more in interest payments?

Among idolaters are the people who revel in fantasies of smashing their enemies or being the object of deafening applause. This is idolatry no less than worshipping a stone statue.

—Art Buchwald—

Why The Change?

Dabney is not a gun nut. He just hates people who don't love them as much as he does. He was feeling pretty good the other day.

"Did you see the story in the newspaper? The president is asking for major changes in the country's gun laws."

"You mean to make it harder to buy a gun?"

"No, stupid, to make it easier. The gun control act of 1968 was too tough on law-abiding citizens. He's backing a bill now in Congress which will make it possible for you to order a gun through the mail as well as from another state without any red tape."

"You mean I can buy one through the mail this Christmas?" I asked.

"Maybe not this Christmas. But surely by 1984. The bill is now backed by 52 senators and 120 House members. By election time we'll have the others all lined up."

"I can't wait for my gun catalogue," I said.

"Right now there's a slight kicker in the bill. If you order it by mail, the buyer and the seller have to meet face to face before you can make a deal."

"How can I do that, if I live in Washington D.C. and the dealer is in Dallas, Texas?"

Dabney grinned. "It won't be easy. That's why we're not fighting that part of the bill."

"How else will the law be changed?"

"The bill provides that no records have to be kept when a weapon is sold from one person to a party in another state. A lot of people were reluctant to buy handguns in the past because they were afraid the police would know they had one. Under the new law it will be nobody's business."

"And the law enforcement people won't be able to trace a firearm?" I asked.

"Not only that," said Dabney, "but the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms will need a search warrant before they will be allowed to look at a gun dealer's books."

"What a boon to the gun business in the United States," I said. "Almost anybody will be able to buy a gun now without Big Brother looking over his shoulder."

"The anti-gun lobby is trying to get an amendment attached to the bill that would require a waiting period for gun purchases to allow local police time to check out the buyer to see if he's got a criminal conviction or has a mental disorder. But our lobby will fight that one to the death. When a person wants a gun, he should get it as soon as he forks over his money."

"I know it's a good bill, but why is the president so emotionally involved?"

"Because when he ran for office he promised us prayers in school and a handgun under every pillow. He hasn't delivered on prayers in school, and if he doesn't deliver on changing the gun laws in this country he's going to lose the most powerful constituency in the United States."

—John Cuniff—

Consumer Movement Still Alive

NEW YORK (AP) — Is the consumer movement dead?

A magazine — a consumer magazine, no less — asked that question the other day, apparently worried that the Reagan administration is barely lukewarm about enforcing industry regulations imposed in recent years.

But consumerism isn't dead, unless you say that a movement ceases to exist when it changes goals. It is alive OK, and probably more potent than it ever was.

It was, you'll recall, an insistence by the public that it be heard in the marketplace — in the content and purity and labeling of foods, in the safety of automobiles, in the contents and clarity of contracts.

It succeeded too. It changed the way America does business, and if you tend to forget that fact it is probably because you have become so accustomed to product recalls and reminders by companies that they are there to serve.

The consumer message was not wasted, although though some people think it might have been carried to extremes, pushed along by candidates eager to be elected as consumer representatives, and eager to legislate once elected.

The consumer — which is everyone — learned that things could be done merely by acting, and now that discovery is coming to fruition in the realization that individuals aren't helpless creatures at the mercy of the marketplace.

The consumer movement, it can be argued, has become more positive. Beginning in the 1960s, when Denver housewives the word was acceptable then) boycotted their supermarkets, it was largely a reactive movement.

It was negative, that is, in the sense that almost everything seemed to be wrong with commercial society, including its products, its prices, its marketing, its advertising, and even its attitudes.

Now, in contrast, you can witness the same individuals doing their thing in a far more positive manner. It was forced in part by economics, but encouraged by the realization that people are not helpless.

tion, and the evidence is all about.

Individuals who felt they couldn't hammer a nail are renovating and even building their own houses. It took a while, but they discovered they had the wherewithal within them, and that it wasn't always necessary to hire a builder.

People who once felt their technological know-how barely encompassed the dial telephone now handle their own investments on personal computers, and have discovered that their investment records beat those of their broker.

All over the country people are developing their individual lifestyles. Discovering they need not be imprisoned by big cities, they are repopulating smaller towns, sometimes embarking on new careers to do so.

Entrepreneurship is up; it grew right through the savage recession that destroyed so many existing businesses. And in the nation's business schools, young graduates are finding they can fulfill themselves in challenging jobs with small companies, rather than just filling slots in the establishment.

It is seen in less obvious ways. People are practicing preventive maintenance on their bodies as well as on their automobiles. They are laying away pension money instead of relying on Social Security alone.

Literally and figuratively, people have learned to cut wood again in order to accommodate to the changing conditions and challenges of life. They aren't nearly as helpless, it seems, as they once thought they were.

Looking back, they can't be blamed for thinking they couldn't do very much about life.

For decades they were coddled or threatened. Coddled into calling a tradesman or a professional to do what they could do themselves. Threatened by warnings that only a master could hammer nails or twist wrenches.

What seems to have happened to the old consumer movement is that it has become deregulated. On reflection, maybe it isn't the consumer movement at all anymore.

More aptly, perhaps, it could be called the producer movement.

Deficit Spending Plan Appears Doomed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. have fired a pair of broadsides likely to doom a bipartisan congressional effort to reduce budget deficits through billions of dollars in spending cuts and tax increases.

"I am prepared to veto those tax increases if they send them to my desk, no matter how they arrived," Reagan declared Thursday night.

Earlier in the day, O'Neill, D-Mass., ruled out further domestic spending cuts saying, "The poor and middle class in America have been hurt enough."

Reagan and O'Neill made their remarks just as Senate leaders began trying to gauge congressional interest in a bold package of deficit reduction measures.

Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., conducted a private meeting in his office Thursday afternoon that included Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia and the top Republican and Democrat from the Appropriations, Budget and Finance committees.

"Right now, we're exploring the possibility of working something out on a bipartisan basis," Baker said afterwards.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., chairman of the Appropriations Committee, tried to be upbeat, saying, "We have now created a profound and very meaningful approach to the deficit." He conceded, though, "We haven't even put together the framework, let alone the product, yet."

But it appeared that no package could go very far if it contained major elements that Reagan and O'Neill opposed.

"Let them (Congress) keep their hands off the recovery and start doing what they were elected to do — get spending under control once and for all," Reagan told a gathering of supporters who were celebrating his election in November 1980.

"I am still opposed to those who suggest that now we should raise taxes on individuals and businesses," Reagan reminded his audience.

Reagan said his administration "did not come to Washington to raise the people's taxes. We came here to restore opportunity and get this economy moving again."

Fort Bragg Prepared To Welcome Troopers

By ELISSA MCCRARY
Associated Press Writer

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — Residents of this Army post and the nearby town of Fayetteville tied hundreds of yellow ribbons on trees and bushes to welcome their soldiers home from Grenada.

Twelve airplanes, each carrying 140-150 men from the 82nd Airborne Division, were expected to arrive at Pope Air Force Base near Fort Bragg between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., said base spokesman Capt. Bill Maddox.

Secretary of the Army John O. Marsh Jr., Secretary of the Air Force Verne Orr and Brig. Gen. Peter Boylan, public affairs officer for the Army, were to greet the men as they got off the plane and address the crowd at a brief welcoming ceremony.

Marsh planned to present the Combat Infantryman's Badge to three of the returning soldiers, and all infantrymen who came under hostile fire in Grenada will eventually receive the medal.

The men will be returned to their individual units, where families will be allowed to greet them, Maddox said.

Maddox said Fort Bragg officials placed ads in newspapers and on radio Thursday to invite the public to bring American flags and line the four-mile street from Pope to Fort Bragg. He said thousands were expected to show up.

Meanwhile, members of the 82nd Airborne hung signs across the street welcoming their comrades. Other soldiers were expected to return in the next few days.

Military officials ordered 2,300 soldiers to withdraw from Grenada on Thursday, saying hostilities had ceased. On the return trip, the troops stopped at Barbados on Thursday night.

Buono Cleared In One Death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jurors who cleared Angelo Buono in the slaying of a part-time waitress and prostitute were ordered to continue deliberations on eight other charges stemming from the string of deaths known as the "Hillside Strangler" murders.

The same jury, three days ago, convicted Buono of a college student's murder.

The finding Thursday that Buono was innocent of the slaying of 19-year-old Yolanda Washington thus far spared the defendant the possibility of a death sentence. If convicted of more than one murder, the 50-year-old auto upholsterer from Glendale would face the death penalty under special circumstances of multiple murder.

At the close of the five-minute court hearing for the verdict reading, Superior Court Judge Ronald M. George ordered the jury, sequestered at an undisclosed location, to continue deliberations that began Oct. 20.

The trial, which began on Nov. 16, 1981, is the longest criminal trial in California history, and some officials believe it also has set a national record.

Buono, who was impassive throughout the trial, remained visibly unmoved as the second verdict was read in the packed courtroom.

Disabled Soviet Sub Found Off U.S. Coast

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet sub tender was headed north from Cuba today to aid a disabled Soviet nuclear-powered submarine that was bobbing helplessly in five-foot Atlantic Ocean swells 470 miles east of Charleston, S.C., Pentagon officials said.

The 341-foot attack sub hadn't sent out an "SOS" nor had it asked for help from Navy planes circling overhead, the Pentagon said Thursday. A Soviet trawler was in the area to provide any emergency help if needed.

The Victor-3 class boat was disabled by an unknown engineering failure early Wednesday and surfaced at that time, where it was spotted by a Navy P-3 Orion anti-submarine plane flying a routine mission out of Jacksonville, Fla.

There was no indication the sub was leaking radiation, the Navy said. It only had enough power to make about 2 knots, permitting the Soviet captain to keep the nose of the vessel turned into the wind.

The lack of radiation was detected by buoys dropped into the water near the submarine by the Orions, a standard tactic in U.S. anti-submarine operations. The buoys, which contain radars, monitor radiation, as well as engine and other noises coming from submarines. The radars transmit the information back to the P-3s, which have on-board computers.

While on patrol, neither U.S. nor Soviet submarines surface unless they are in trouble, so the incident affords U.S. forces a rare opportunity to gain intelligence about a Soviet submarine.

The sub was in international waters 282 miles west of Bermuda and 470 miles east of Charleston, the home of one of the U.S. Navy's three major sub bases on the East Coast.

Navy officials who spoke on condition they not be identified said a Soviet sub tender was enroute to the area from a base in Cienfuegos, Cuba, but it was not expected to reach the stricken sub until today.

The Victor-3 class subs, first built in 1978, are the latest in a line of Soviet vessels that began with the original Victor-I class ships in 1967.

The attack subs are designed to hunt down other ships. They are armed with six torpedo tubes and anti-sub rockets that have a range of about 15 miles and which can be armed with nuclear weapons. But the Victor-class subs do not carry long- or intermediate-range ballistic missiles.

Three months ago, the hull of an older Soviet Charlie-class sub was raised by a Soviet salvage crew in the northern Pacific Ocean near the Kamchatka Peninsula, according to Pentagon sources.

The salvage team had been hunting in the area for weeks but it was not known exactly when the sub sank, the sources said. The Charlie-class boats normally carry about 90 men.

The last known time the Soviets lost a sub was April 1970 when a nuclear-powered attack sub with as many as 88 men aboard sank in the Atlantic about 400 miles northwest of Spain, the sources said.

The U.S. Navy has lost two nuclear-powered subs in the past two decades. On April 10, 1963, the Thresher sank off Cape Cod with 129 men and in 1968, the Scorpion sank in the Atlantic with a loss of 99 men.

SPY ARREST — Alfred Zehe, a 44-year-old East German physicist, walks with head bowed as he is escorted by a federal agent Thursday night from the John F. Kennedy Federal Building in Boston to a police station.

E. German Arrested On Espionage Charge

BOSTON (AP) — The FBI wants to know why an East German physicist, charged with being a spy, was at a scientific conference on vacuum technology where an official said "no one... had any idea who he was."

"That's part of the question we're trying to get the answer to," agent James W. Greenleaf said at an FBI news conference Thursday night, shortly after the arrest in Boston of 44-year-old Alfred Zehe.

Zehe was described as the first East German ever arrested as an intelligence operative in the United States. "We allege he was successful in getting information into a foreign country," Greenleaf said, adding that Zehe had been under investigation for two years.

The suspect was questioned Thursday night and was being held for an arraignment today before U.S. Magistrate Robert Collins.

The FBI said Zehe has been living in Mexico as a resident alien and was working as an exchange scholar at the University of Puebla.

Zehe was among 2,600 people registered at a three-day meeting of the American Vacuum Society, a society official said.

"No one that I talked to had any idea who he was," John Arthur, president of the group that studies vacuum technology, said Thursday night. "Anybody can attend our conferences. They pay the registration fee."

Arthur said Zehe registered as a non-member and listed himself as being from Technical University, in Dresden, East Germany.

South Africa Gets New Constitution

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The overwhelming approval of a new constitution by white voters is a triumph for the dominant National Party and a mandate for modest racial reform, even though it completely excludes the black majority.

For the first time in more than 300 years, the South African government will provide national representation for Asians and people of mixed-race.

"We gained more votes than we ever expected," Prime Minister P.W. Botha admitted in a news conference after the results were announced Thursday.

Of 2,062,469 ballots cast by whites in Wednesday's referendum, 1,360,223 approved the proposed document, outnumbering by roughly 2-1 an uneasy alliance of whites who believed the plan either went too far in sharing power with non-whites or did not go far enough.

The government has followed an official policy of racial segregation, or apartheid, since 1948 when the National Party came to power. The policy insures white-minority rule.

In fact, South Africa's whites will remain in control of the new three-chamber Parliament because they outnumber the other two population groups.

The white representatives will choose the new executive president, who will replace the prime minister and have final word on disputes among the chambers.

Pitt Schools Air 'Viewpoint'

A unique book drive for supplementary materials will be the topic of this week's "Pitt County Schools' Viewpoint," a radio show aired on several local stations.

Host Barry Gaskins will talk with Andy Haddock and Anita Harper, first graders at W.H. Robinson School, and their teacher, Jo Ellen French, about the drive.

The show is scheduled at the following times and stations: Saturday, 7:30 a.m. WITN-FM, 8:30 a.m. WGHB-AM, 8:25 a.m. WOOW-AM; Sunday, 8:30 a.m. WRQR-FM; 1:06 p.m. WNCT-AM, and Monday, 3:05 p.m. WBZQ-FM.

For further information contact Pitt County Community Schools at 752-6106, extension 249.

Committee Recommends TV Show

Members of the Care Committee of the Pitt County Mental Health Association have suggested that persons interested in the subject of spouse abuse might want to see a Sunday night television program.

A spokesperson for the committee, Bea Chauncey, notes that at 7 p.m. Sunday, NBC's "First Camera" program will feature discussions on spouse abuse, focusing on Duluth, Minn., and other places of the country. Another factor presented will be that of mandatory arrest based on evidence rather than the signing of a warrant.

Cosmetologists To Meet

The East Carolina Cosmetology Association will meet Monday at 7 p.m. at Beaufort County Community College near Washington. Roy Honeycutt of Greenville will discuss salon management and the use of a computer.

At the Dec. 5 meeting, also at BCCC, the cosmetology department will elect officers for the coming year. B.J. Memory of New Hanover County will speak on that date.

Erosion Control Panel To Meet

The Pitt County Erosion Control Commission will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the county office building at 1717 W. Fifth St. Included on the agenda is the consideration of erosion control plans for Senior Village, located on N.C. 43 west of the University Nursing Home.

County Board Meets Monday

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners will meet Monday at 10 a.m. at the county office building at 1717 W. Fifth St.

Included on the agenda are various reports, including recommendations for fuel oil and computer bids, a comparison of the cost of county and private hauling of solid waste containers and the cost of medical services for prisoners at the county jail.

Phelps To Be Radio Guest

Dr. David Phelps, ECU archaeologist, will discuss his excavations of prehistoric Indian sites in coastal North Carolina on "ECU Concepts" at 8 a.m. Sunday on radio station WOOW.

Phelps' current research, supported by a grant from the America's 400th Anniversary Committee, is centered on Roanoke Island and the Outer Banks where he is excavating Algonkian Indian sites. The Algonkians were the major inhabitants of the area before the arrival of the European colonists.

"ECU Concepts" is a 15-minute program produced weekly by ECU. It is hosted by James Rees of the department of drama and speech.

Greenville Man Arrested

Haywood Wilson Strickland, 45, of 408 Pitt St., was arrested by Greenville police Wednesday night on breaking and entering and carrying a concealed weapon charges following a 9:57 p.m. incident at 124 Reade Circle.

Officer T.V. Woolard said a man entered the home of Allyson Lee Perkins through a rear door, then left when Ms. Perkins came downstairs and called police.

Woolard, who said Strickland was carrying a knife, said Strickland was also charged with trespassing at 600 Cotanche St. in connection with an incident a short time earlier Wednesday.

Traffic Citations To Climb

Greenville Police Chief Ted Holmes said this morning that the department will begin stepping up enforcement of traffic laws within the next few weeks in an effort to reduce the number of traffic accidents in the city.

Holmes, speaking to department supervisors, said the enforcement program will be planned and well publicized because local drivers have been "used to a low level of enforcement."

Holmes said the loss due to traffic accidents in Greenville in 1982 was $14 million to $15 million, an amount, he said "greater than the city budget" and greater than the cost of other crime.

He told supervisors that the present ratio of traffic citations issued to wrecks investigated is about 1½ to one. On the average, most police departments will issue five traffic citations for each collision, Holmes said.

Arrested

Frank Smith Jr., 22, was arrested Thursday by Pitt deputies and charged with a recent break-in at a Route 1, Stokes, home and the larceny of an AM/FM stereo radio from the residence. Sheriff Ralph Tyson said the theft was reported at the home of Jerry Thomas.

Bond for Smith, who also resided on Route 1, Stokes, was set at $500, Tyson said.

Youth Charged In Theft Series

Pitt County deputies arrested a 17-year-old Route 1, Fountain, man this week and charged him in connection with thefts dating back to July 15 at the homes of four of his neighbors, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

He said Mitchell Dean Wooten was charged with breaking, entering and larceny at the Route 1, Fountain, residences of Gary Pollard on Oct. 8, where $3 in coins was taken, Haywood Beaman on Aug. 23, where a .22 caliber rifle valued at $75 was stolen, and Nelie Dunn on July 15, where $20 was taken.

Power Out

Pursuant to the General Statutes of North Carolina, Section 143-129, sealed bids will be received by the Pitt County Board of Commissioners Agricultural Committee until 10:00 a.m., E.S.T., on Monday, November 14, 1983, in the Commissioners' Conference Room on the First Floor of the Pitt County Office Building, 1717 West Fifth Street, Greenville, NC 27834, for a one year lease of the following tract or parcel of land: Approximately 12 acres of the Pitt County Landfill property lying directly west of and abutting the Charles L. Stocks property for a distance of approximately 1290 feet on the east; abutting the southern right-of-way line of the Southern Railroad approximately 1000 feet on the north; abutting the Mrs. Thomas Allen land approximately 600 feet on the south; and abutting the James E. Bullock property on the west; and being a portion of Lot 10 as-shown and delineated in the Pitt County Tax Office.

Forms to submit a bid are available at the County Manager's Office, First Floor, County Office Building, 1717 West Fifth Street, Greenville, NC, between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday - Friday, or by calling 752-2934.

Bids will be opened at the County Commissioners Agricultural Committee meeting on Monday, November 14, 1983.

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners reserves the right to reject any and all proposals, and waive informalities in bid.

PITT COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS

H. R. GRAY, County Manager

Several thousand Greenville Utilities Commission electric customers were without power for about 40 minutes today when a main 115,000-volt transmission line, a half-mile south of the old Veeco substation north of the Tar River, went out.

Malcolm Green, who heads GUC's electric department, said insulators at one point in the line exploded, dropping the line on the ground.

The line, according to Green, serves the East Carolina University substation, the East Side Substation at the intersection of 14th Street and Greenville Boulevard, and the Eastern Bypass substation near the intersection of the Pactolus Highway and the Eastern Bypass.

The outage occurred about 8:05 a.m. and power was restored by 8:45 a.m., Green said.

Green said when the line went down, interrupting the flow of electricity to the three substations, everything served by the three substations was without power.

Property Taken From Home

An estimated $703 worth of property was reported taken from a home at 310B Pennsylvania Ave. Thursday, according to Greenville police.

Officers said thieves gained entrance to the home through a front window and took a bicycle, stereo and ham radio equipment.

Kingsbury Visits School

Owen Kingsbury, a glassblower at East Carolina University, recently visited Maureen O'Shannon's class at Third Street Elementary School. He demonstrated how to make figurines using glassblowing tools and techniques. The children were given a straw and spoon of glass by Kingsbury.

Adults Pass GED Tests

Four Greene County adults were among 16 students who qualified for their high school equivalency certificates through the General Educational Development tests at Lenoir Community College in October, Learning Laboratory Director Claude L. Barrett reported.

Those who qualified through the Greene County Extension Unit included Dorothy Smith of Snow Hill, and three in the Maury Corrections Center: Claybourn R. Parks, Sammy C. Perkins and Richard B. Thrall.

Other graduates who completed their tests included: Christian Gladson of Route 3, Grifton, and Catherine J. Sauls of Route 1, Hookerton.

Bailey Wins Scholarship

Elizabeth Roann Bailey of Greenville is one of 15 undergraduate business administration students at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill to win an accounting scholarship.

Ms. Bailey, a senior, was awarded the Peat Marwick Mitchell scholarship. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Donald K. Bailey of Greenville.

Driver Is Charged

Katherine Barber Cottle of 500 East Third St. was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 10:50 a.m. collision Thursday on Memorial Drive, 1,000 feet north of the Greenville Boulevard intersection.

Police said the Cottle car collided with a car driven by Constance Davis Jones of 300 Queen Anne's Road, causing $2,000 damage to the Jones car and $500 damage to the Cottle auto.

Dish Cabinet Reported Stolen

Greenville police are looking for the person or persons who took a dish cabinet from a home at 413A W. Third St. Thursday. Cpl. K.E. Thompson said the cabinet, valued at $40, was taken from the rear porch of the Third Street residence.

Candidates Gathering Set

A "Come and Meet the Candidates" gathering will be held Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. for citizens to meet Ed Carter and Francis Mebane, both candidates for the Greenville City Council, at the American Legion Building on Andrews Street. The meeting is sponsored by the Pitt County Black Concerned Women.

Investigation Continues

Greenville police are continuing their investigation into the theft of a television set and cash from the N.C. Academy of Dance Arts at 207 Plaza Drive Monday night.

Officer J.R. Teel Jr. said Sherry Ezzell Mercer of 519 Crestline Blvd. said a black-and-white television, valued at $130 was taken from inside the building, while $100 in cash was taken from her purse which was locked in her car in the parking lot of the dance studio. Teel said $12 belonging to Edith Louise Snider of 401 Eleanor St. was taken from a pocketbook in the dance studio's dressing room.

The thefts were reported about 9 p.m., Teel said.

Gunman Blasts Door

Greenville police are looking for a man who blasted a hole in the front door of Pantana Bob's at 519 Colaniche St. with a shotgun Thursday night after being denied admittance to the private club. Officer J.E. Nichols said Roger Lazzarini told investigators that he refused to allow a man into the club because he was not a member.

Nichols quoted Lazzarini as saying the man then took the stock portion of a shotgun from his belt, the barrel portion from his sock, put them together, and fired. The shot, Nichols said, tore a hole in the door, but no one was injured by the blast.

The incident occurred about 11:58 p.m.

Clarification

A Greenville Peace Committee member, commenting on a story in Thursday's paper on demonstrations over the invasion of Grenada, said that while some committee members took part opposing U.S. military involvement in Grenada, the committee itself has not taken a stand on the issue.

A Review

Androcles Is Smash Offering

"A roar's a great way to show the world how you feel." This, children have always known, but adults — primal screams notwithstanding, have yet to learn.

Tonight is the last night (of two nights only) for a show that should have run for many more — "Androcles and the Lion" the East Carolina Youth Playhouse production at 8 p.m. in McGinnis Auditorium. Tickets are $2.

Adults as well as children will enjoy this polished musical adaptation of an Aesop's Fable.

The play stars Aubrey Barnes, jack of all trades and master of all: mime, song, dance, and presence. The entertainment also includes Tim White, whose strong features complement his roles as both narrator and the huggable lion, Rob Ruffin as the stuffed-shirt captain, Greg Ange as the wicked Pantalone, Mary K. Cunningham as the eyelash twittering Isabella, and Forrest King as her starry-eyed lover. The leg antics of Todd Ellis (the wall) prove Eugene O'Neill's unpopular contention that actors need not show their faces to act well.

The East Carolina Youth Playhouse, perhaps bolstered by last summer's success of "Pippin," chose a similar play for their yearly children's theater. Why Greenville should be satisfied with this token minority in the country club of local theater is puzzling.

"Androcles" is a smash hit. The children love it, and are totally involved in the action, even to the extent of calling out to help poor Androcles.

Director Doug Ray explains that audition, production, and rehearsal schedules preclude time or space for more children's theater. Perhaps the TV-weary children of Greenville should take the advice of the philosophical lion, and ROAR!

Greyhound Expecting To Continue

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Greyhound hopes to have its buses rolling again in time for the Thanksgiving travel crunch, despite a strike by 12,700 employees who shut down over half the nation's intercity bus service rather than accept wage cuts of at least 9.5 percent.

As pickets circled Greyhound facilities and thousands of job applicants mobbed the bus line's offices on the strike's first day Thursday, cranky children and bewildered adults waited in long lines at rival ticket counters throughout the United States and Canada.

In small towns in Washington, Greyhound agents worried that the strike was stranding commuters and old people who needed to travel to larger cities for medical treatment.

Some itinerant laborers also were unable to get to harvests, said Frank Carruth, ticket agent for the Greyhound station at his bowling alley in Toppenish, which has only one taxi to serve 5,550 people.

"From 7 to noon (Thursday) the phone was ringing off the hook," said Carruth. "Ninety percent of the calls were older folks without any other form of transportation. I've taken a lot of flak from people all day. They take it out on me."

Businessmen fretted over missing freight in Idaho, and Oregon state officials said virtually all the state's coastal cities were isolated, with few prospects of other companies bridging the gap.

The walkout by the Amalgamated Transit Workers, whose contract expired this week, also crippled commuter service between San Francisco and communities south of the Bay City. The San Mateo County Transit District, which contracts with Greyhound to operate four routes, estimated that up to 15,000 commuters will have to find other ways to get to work.

Jackson Campaign Resembles Crusade

By EVANS WITT
 Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — If opening day was any indication, Jesse Jackson's bid for the presidency is going to be more of a crusade than a campaign.

The black preacher and civil rights leader joined the fight for the Democratic nomination with a nearly four-hour announcement ceremony Thursday that was closer to an oldtime church revival than to the political rallies of his seven white opponents.

The official kickoff of Jackson's campaign featured songs and prayer, preaching and testimonials, calls for contributions and quotes from the Bible.

"This is the day," intoned Bishop H.H. Brookins of the African Methodist Episcopal Church. "This is the day ... not of a campaign, but of a crusade for truth and righteousness."

The ceremonies were different as well in that Jackson spoke of what his candidacy would mean to others besides himself.

"I'm not talking about one man running for an office," he said. "It's about elevating the masses, the people."

Jackson talked of registering millions of blacks across America to vote. As one who has never held public office, he talked of electing thousands of others — blacks, women and other minorities — to office for the first time.

Senate Increases Funds For Tanks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, given a chance to make what one member said was a symbolic nick in a $252.5 billion defense spending bill, decided instead to give the Pentagon more M-1 tanks than President Reagan wanted it to get.

As floor debate on the measure opened Thursday, Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, tried to delete the $168.7 million the Senate Appropriations Committee had tacked on in order to give the Army 840 tanks this fiscal year instead of the 720 he sought.

Noting that other amendments to cut spending for MX missiles, B-1B bombers and other expensive hardware are likely to be offered later, Stevens argued that the vote on his amendment was a test of how sincere senators were about trying to keep defense spending under control.

He lost in the attempt, 48-45.

Stevens, chairman of the defense appropriations subcommittee, contended that senators too often "see this bill ... as a jobs bill" and are more concerned over its impact on their communities than on defense needs.

Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., whose state has major contracts and sub-contracts for the M-1, contended, "This is not a jobs bill. This is a conventional strength catch-up bill" that is needed to help the U.S. military cope with a numerically superior Soviet tank force.

The Senate legislation is some $20 billion larger than the amount appropriated for the Pentagon a year ago and $5 billion above a con-terpart measure approved by the House on Wednesday. It provides money for virtually every major defense program except production of nerve-gas weapons.

School Administrators Back Merit Pay Plan For Teachers

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Spokesmen for the North Carolina Association of School Administrators, the N.C. School Boards Association and two school superintendents have added their endorsements to paying higher salaries to good teachers.

"We are headed for a major crisis unless dramatic and major changes are made which will attract and retain competent people to the teaching profession," said Roger H. Jackson, president of the Association of School Administrators, which represents superintendents, principals and assistant principals.

However, John N. Dornan, executive director of the N.C. Association of Teachers, which represents 41,000 educators, spoke against the proposal in hearings before the State Board of Education. He questioned whether a merit pay plan could be administered fairly.

"Minority educators ...

fear rewarding excellence through career ladders will only prove to be a code for another system which will result in white educators moving up the economic and status ladder while black educators are left at the bottom," he said.

Several officials distinguished between differential payment to teachers assuming more responsibilities and higher pay for teachers with excellent performances regardless of whether they take on more duties. But most agreed some reward for outstanding performance was needed.

"We are at a watershed for the way education is structured in the nation and in North Carolina," said board Chairman C.D. Spangler. "No longer is it going to be satisfactory to pay every teacher the same salary."

He said the board would push for differential pay for teachers in the 1984 General Assembly.

Gene Causby, executive director of the N.C. School Boards Association, called for higher base salaries as well as merit pay.

"The current system of compensation lacks sufficient motivation and rewards to attract and retain the needed numbers or the desired quality of employees," Causby said. "That constitutes a clear risk with dire consequences."

Jay Robinson, superintendent of Charlotte-Mecklenburg schools, said the problems of an experimental merit pay process being installed in that system are far outweighed by the expected benefits.

"I could find a million reasons to chuck this whole deal," he said. "But the alternatives are absolutely unacceptable (because) we will not attract bright people into our system."

J. Frank Yeager, superintendent of Durham County schools, warned that a merit pay plan won't work without more supervisors to evaluate teachers.

Supreme Court Orders New Trial In Murder Case

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The possibility that a man convicted of second-degree murder may have confessed under duress has led the North Carolina Supreme Court to grant a new trial in the case.

"The evidence ... conflicted as to whether the defendant was pressured to confess because he was led to believe his family would go to prison if he did not," Justice Burley B. Mitchell said in an opinion for the court. The issue of whether Stanley Marvin Lang, the defendant, was slapped by law enforcement officers also was unresolved, the court ruled. Lang had been sentenced by a Currituck County jury to life imprisonment for the murder of Frances Mae Pack.

Audit Report Cites Errors

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A recent audit of the North Carolina Museum of Art Foundation found that book-keeping was so inadequate that a full audit was impossible, the state's auditor says.

"Because of the foundation's failure to appropriately record financial data and to adequately certify all assets and liabilities ... it was not practical for us to extend the scope of our audit to enable us to express ... an opinion on the financial statements," state auditor Edward Renfrow said.

Arete B. Swartz, the foundation's secretary, said Wednesday she did not disagree with the audit's conclusions. But because the audit for 1980 was not begun until the fall of 1982, inaccuracies in the 1980 records were perpetuated in 1981 and 1982, she said.

Poultry
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 49.75 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pound birds. 38 percent of the loads offered have been confirmed with a preliminary weighted average of 49.92 cents f.o.b. dock or equivalent. The market is steady and the live supply is moderate instances light for a good demand. Weights desirable to heavy. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Friday was 1,532,000, compared to 1,430,000 last Friday.

Hens
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was steady. Supplies light. Demand good. Prices paid per pound for hens over 7 pounds at farm for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter was 30 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices declined today in a market weighed down by rising interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which lost more than 10 points Thursday, dropped another 6.50 to 1,220.63 by noon.

Losers held an 8-5 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Before the market opened, the Labor Department reported that the unemployment rate fell to 8.8 percent in October from 9.3 percent the month before.

As favorable as that news was for workers and the economy, however, traders on Wall Street took it as a possible portent of upward pressure on interest rates.

Interest rates in the credit markets, which rose on Thursday, climbed further today, pushing prices of long-term government bonds down about $5 for every $1,000 in face value.

Pan American World Airways led the active list, unchanged at 7 1/2. A 1.52 million-share block traded at that price.

The NYSE's composite index fell 4 to 93.93. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 7.1 at 213.88.

Volume on the Big Board came to 36.03 million shares at noon, against 37.79 million at the same point Thursday.

Vote On Clark Nomination Is Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Secretary-designate William P. Clark, after breezing through two days of hearings before a Senate committee, is moving slowly closer to the Senate vote that will let him move into the hot seat now held by James G. Watt.

A vote this morning by the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee on the nomination was postponed when the panel was unable to muster a quorum. But Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, its chairman, said he expects the committee to approve Clark at a business meeting Wednesday.

Committee action then would allow the full Senate to vote either late next week or early the following week, McClure said the latter was more likely.

The chairman also said the committee was awaiting Clark's response to 202 written questions submitted by senators after Clark's hearing. He said Clark's responses were expected sometime later today.

Clark testified for two days before the committee this week, but gave few indications about what he would do at the department's helm.

He told the panel President Reagan had ordered him to review the department's policies, processes and personnel and said he could make no commitments until that review is complete.

But Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, the committee's chairman, said Clark had proven himself knowledgeable about the department's functions and the issues that confront it.

Clark, a longtime Reagan adviser and most recently head of the National Security Council, was a surprise pick to succeed Watt. Critics complained that he had no background or demonstrated interest in the department.

But his supporters said he had the most important qualification — the trust of the president — and that the rest would follow. By the time of his confirmation hearing, even those who opposed his nomination conceded he would win approval.

But they also complained that his refusal to make firm commitments of change signaled that the controversial pro-development views of Watt would continue to guide the department.

Watt resigned last month rather than face a no-confidence vote in the Senate. The Senate was prepared to vote on a resolution urging Reagan to fire Watt because of the secretary's description of an advisory commission's members as "a black, ... a woman, two Jews and a cripple."

Although Watt at first appeared ready to ride out the storm, his support in Congress rapidly eroded. When the Republican leadership of the Senate passed word that the vote against him was likely to be overwhelming, he resigned. However, he remains as secretary until Clark is confirmed.

Congressmen Go On Grenada Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 14-member congressional delegation left for Grenada today to obtain firsthand information about last week's U.S. invasion of the Caribbean island.

The delegation, appointed by House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., was headed by Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., House Democratic whip, and Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., House minority leader. The members are scheduled to spend two days in Grenada, possibly sleeping in tents, and return to Washington on Monday.

Foley said the purpose of the trip was to "bring into closer focus the information about the American intervention" in Grenada. The delegation did not intend to make a "policy judgment" about the invasion but hoped to develop a consensus about Grenadian conditions before the invasion, Foley said.

Michel, the ranking Republican in the delegation, said he was "absolutely" confident that President Reagan made the right decision in sending in U.S. forces.

Michel said he was most interested in "getting the reaction of the people as to how they view this operation and to what effect it will have on the long-range (future) in the region."

O'Neill, D-Mass., said the House should "know firsthand what the circumstances were that precipitated the introduction of United States military forces in Grenada." O'Neill also said the delegation would try to determine how long U.S. troops are likely to stay on the Caribbean island.

Reagan said he ordered the invasion to protect 1,000 Americans on the island and to prevent the spread of leftist violence from the Marxist-ruled island to other nations in the eastern Caribbean. He said U.S. troops would be withdrawn as soon as possible.

Meanwhile, a second congressional group of four conservative Republicans, headed by Mark D. Siljander of Michigan, also planned to fly to Grenada today. That trip was being sponsored by the conservative American Security Council, he said.

Miami Toughest East Carolina Foe

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Two weeks ago, East Carolina faced what Coach Ed Emory called "it's greatest challenge."

This week, when the Pirates travel to Miami, Fla. to face the fifth-ranked Hurricanes, it's challenge time all over again.

"Miami is the best football team we've faced to date, plain and simple. They are the best on offense, defense and in the kicking game."

The Hurricanes bring a 8-1 record into the contest, having won every game they've played since losing their opener to Florida, 28-3. There are many now who doubt that the Gators could handle the Hurricanes at this point of the season.

Florida, which beat ECU 24-17 two weeks ago, is the only common opponent the two have had to date. Miami plays Florida State, which beat the Pirates, 47-46, in the season-opener, next week.

Miami comes off a 20-3 humbling of West Virginia — handing the Mountaineers their second straight loss. In that game they held the vaulted Mounties to only two yards rushing.

"They've relied on their quickness in every game this year," a Miami-based reporter said of the Hurricanes. "This will be the first time they've played someone as quick as they are."

Therein may lie the crux of the game.

While many people talk about the offense of the Hurricanes, led by the passing of quarterback Bernie Kosar, Emory says that the Miami defense is really the biggest part of their game. "They have a great football team. They were a young team coming into the year, but Howard (Schnellenberger) hasn't got the recognition for turning their program around like he has. They were talking about dropping football a few years ago."

Miami stands second in the nation in total defense, allowing 241.4 yards a game. They are third in scoring defense, giving up 9.2 points a game. "Only three teams have scored two or more touchdowns on them," Emory pointed out.

Those three include Florida, which lost 56-17, and the Hurricanes, who defeated 42-14. The Hurricanes shut out Purdue, 35-0, and Notre Dame, 20-0, and have recorded wins over Houston, Mississippi State, Cincinnati and West Virginia in their other games.

"They have an outstanding secondary that makes very few mistakes," Emory said. That secondary has picked off a total of 15 passes, returning them for 189 yards and one touchdown.

One of the biggest problems for the Hurricanes, however, will be replacing middle guard Tony Fitzpatrick, one of the top men in the defensive line. Dallas Cameron, 6-2, 232, Jr., will replace him and Emory feels that he's a first-line player too.

"They are strongest where we are strongest. We are going to have to move the ball to beat them, and we're going to have to do a much better job than we did last week."

The Hurricane defense has allowed only 787 yards on the ground in nine games, an average of 2.5 yards a carry. Through the air they have given up 1,386, as opponents had hit on 150 of 309 attempts. "Nobody has gone down there and thrown the ball on them and won. So we are going to have to work very, very hard at moving the ball. They're extremely good at home and play with a lot of emotion."

While the defense is a strong one, the Hurricanes have a very potent offense. Aside from the Florida game, the least they have scored was against Cincinnati (a victor over Penn State), where they scored 17 points.

The 'Canes have rushed for 1,351 yards, led by the rushing of fullback Andre Bentley with 678. Speedy Neal, who also saw a lot of duty at fullback, rushing for 295 yards, second on the team, is out with a dislocated shoulder. Halfback Keith Griffin has 287 yards, while backup Darryl Oliver has 103.

Kosar is the key, however. He's connected on 165 of 267 passes for 1,879 yards and 13 touchdowns. He's been intercepted 12 times and sacked an equal number of times. Overall, Miami has passed for 2,113 yards, hitting 184 of 299 tries.

Top receivers include tight end Glenn Dennison with 47 for 429 and three TDs; wide receiver Stanley Shakespear, 29 for 386, 4 TDs; Neal, 24 for 178 yards; Bentley, 22 for 197; wide receiver Ed Brown, 20 for 422 and four TDs; Griffin, 15 for 113 and two TDs; and wide receiver John Smatana with 11 for 140 and one score.

"Kosar is an exceptional football player," Emory said.

"They will take anything we give them. They read the coverage well. They have a good rushing game too, so we're going to have to play the best defensive game of the year."

Emory also said that the Pirates are probably in their worst physical condition of the season at this point. "Norman

Quick (offensive guard) hasn't practiced for two weeks and neither has (running back) Tony Baker. (Running back Earnest) Byner is questionable. John Robertson (offensive tackle) has shoulder problems. (Tight end Norwood) Vann has a back problem and (center John) Floyd got hit on his appendix scar.

"I'm really concerned about our depth at guard. We don't have any. We've lost five guards for the season, and we don't have replacements."

Kickoff is set for 2 p.m. in the Orange Bowl.

The Pirates return home next week for their final game of the year in Picklen against William & Mary. They then close out the regular season the following week at Southern Mississippi.

Aycock Finishes Unbeaten Year

ELIZABETH CITY — Anthony Cobb scored four touchdowns to lead E.B. Aycock Junior High School to a 38-0 victory over Northeastern yesterday in the final game of the season for the Jaguars.

Aycock ended the season with a perfect 7-0 record, having allowed but three touchdowns on the year and finished with five straight shutouts. The win brought Aycock its second straight Big East junior high title.

Cobb scored twice in the first period as Aycock built up a 16-0 lead. He went 28 yards on the first scored and 24 on the second. Cobb ran over the PAT after the first score while quarterback Tom Moye did the job on the second.

Cobb scored on an eight yard run in the second quarter with Moye passing to Jeff Mahoney for the PAT. That made it 24-0 at the half.

Aycock added a fourth touchdown in the third period on a four-yard run by Cobb with Moye adding the PAT. Tim Clark scored the final touchdown from two yards away in the last quarter.

Cobb finished the game with 169 yards rushing, while Clark had 67 and Rodney Harris had 40.

Singled out for their offensive play were Cobb, Harris, Clark, Moye, Lee Miller, Walt Pollard, Steve Peele, Lee Smith, Jimmy Gillihan, Stacey Best, Earl Wooten, Wesley Jackson, Rexal Williams and Jeff Mahoney.

Leading the defense were Bardell Brown, Harris, Terry

Warren, Jeffrey Green, Robbie McDonald, Lee Rogers, Devin Gatlin, Berwyn Swindell, Kim Hines and Roderick Moore.

Aycock, 13-0-1 over the past two seasons, has given up but 38 points during that span.

Hurricanes Are Now The Hunted Team

MIAMI (AP) — From the hunter to the hunted. Nine weeks of college football have turned the tables for the University of Miami, now ranked No. 5 and facing a talented, hungry East Carolina team Saturday afternoon in the Orange Bowl.

"Every week the stakes get higher. A slip now would be more expensive than a slip six weeks ago," said Coach Howard Schnellenberger, whose Hurricanes started the season unranked but have won eight straight since opening with a loss to Florida.

East Carolina isn't ranked, but would be unbeaten except for two previous forays into the Sunshine State. Coach Ed Emory's Pirates lost their opener 47-46 at Florida State and then dropped a controversial 24-17 decision at No. 9 Florida two weeks ago.

"If they had been able to make a play or two plays ... they would be coming in here undefeated," Schnellenberger said. "Coach Emory brings in one of the most talented groups of athletes ... they are dedicated, hard-hitting, hustling."

And anxious to crack the Top 20 and maybe catch the eyes of some of the seven bowl scouts who watched the Hurricanes down West Virginia 20-3 last weekend.

The Pirates have one more chance in the Orange Bowl at 2 p.m. EST Saturday to win in Florida.

"This is another great opportunity for us," Emory said. "If we win this game, it gives us a chance to reach all our goals."

Emory's 6-2 Pirates are led by, of all people, an offensive guard. But what a guard.

Terry Long, the first East Carolina player ever to be invited to the Hula Bowl all-star game, runs the 40-yard dash in 4.7 seconds and is billed as America's strongest football player. The 6-0, 280-pound candidate for the Outland Trophy power-lifted 2,203 pounds — third-highest total in the world — in his first competition.

Long isn't the only speedy Pirate: all 22 starters run the

Collier Sparks Tech Victory

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia Tech freshman tailback Cory Collier, hampered by injuries most of the season, got well last week — just in time to afflict Virginia.

Collier ran for 118 yards on only 17 attempts and scored on touchdown runs of 5 and 22 yards Thursday night in the Yellow Jackets' 31-27 Atlantic Coast Conference victory over Virginia in a contest nationally televised on cable.

The two touchdowns were the first scored in college by the 5-foot-7, 182-pound Collier, who also recorded his first 100-yard game at Tech.

Coach Bill Curry, whose squad upped its record to 2-7 and 2-2 in the ACC after snapping a 3-game losing string, said there were many fine individual performances but, "obviously Cory Collier and Keith Glanton were phenomenal."

Glanton chipped in with 83 yards on the ground and scored on a 61-yard screen pass.

As for his performance on national television, Collier said: "It didn't matter to me. We just wanted to win."

Collier showed indications of his ability last week in a 32-26 loss to Duke, when he gained 86 yards on 14 carries. He also had a 95-yard kickoff return after carrying the ball only 19 times for 67 yards in Tech's first 7 games.

"He exploded last week. He would have exploded before that if he hadn't gotten injured," said Curry. "He exploded the day he got here in fall camp. But then he got hurt and that kept him behind."

Tech's other scoring came on a 1-yard plunge by Ronnie Cone and a 46-yard field goal by Ron Rice.

Virginia, 5-4, and 2-3 in the ACC, dropped its fourth game in five outings, and its second in a row despite scoring 61 points and gaining more than 1,100 yards in the two losses. The Cavaliers outgained Tech 506-435.

Tailback Howard Perry rushed for 107 yards on 22 carries, including a 3-yard TD run, for the Cavaliers. Other scores came on a 5-yard run by Derek Jenkins, a 12-yard scamper by Barry Word and quarterback Wayne Schuchts 18-yard scoring pass to Billy Griggs.

But a fumble by Jenkins midway in the second half on the Tech 4-yard line may have

Pitt DU Chapter In $57,000 Fund Raiser

Waterfowl conservation took another step forward here Thursday night as area sportsmen and supporters of the international Ducks Unlimited program met for the annual fund raising dinner meeting.

Approximately 290 members and guests, the largest gathering to attend a meeting of the Pitt County DU chapter, had a hand in helping the area committee generate over $57,000 for the international work of Ducks Unlimited.

The Pitt chapter continued to lead the state in its sponsor program, involving supporters who contribute $200 or more to the conservation effort. At the close of the meeting, the roster of area sponsors had grown to 151 sportsmen, according to Dr. Ray Minges, sponsor chairman.

Popular auctioneer Jimmy Hudson again handled the sale of various items on behalf of DU. Mike Renn, chairman of the area committee, said the general auction, as well as a "silent" auction for several items, took in approximately $12,000.

Renn said the auction, sponsor program, general membership and other activities combined to push the local effort over the $57,000 mark, a new high for the Pitt chapter.

Among the items auctioned by Hudson were the 1983 DU Print of the Year, "Night Flight" by Terry Redlin; the 1983/84 Federal Duck Stamp print and stamp; a knife crafted and donated by a local supporter; a 20 gauge "Greenwing" shotgun designed for young hunters; a hunting trip on Currituck Sound; a marlin fishing trip; "Old Friends," a limited edition print by North Carolina artist Allen Montague; a watercolor donated by a local artist; a special "Conservation Edition" of the "First of State North Carolina Duck Stamp Print and Stamp;" and a boat and trailer donated by two area firms.

The overall DU program, founded in 1937 to help restore and rehabilitate prime waterfowl breeding grounds in Canada, has resulted in the completion of over 2,000 wetland restoration projects. Over $163 million has been raised in the organization's 45-year history, including over $130 million designated for wetland improvement and management.

Ducks Unlimited has said that over 70 percent of North America's waterfowl are hatched in Canada.

International membership in the program is over 400,000, while the Greenwing segment for youth under 18, has a membership of over 33,000.

The high school football season winds up this Friday night for all but a very few teams — and it appears that this area, at most, will have no more than three teams involved with post-season play. Farmville Central and Jamesville have already clinched berths and Williamston still has a shot at a spot in the Division II ranks.

So, for all intents and purposes, this will be our last week at the high school picks. We'll continue on a few weeks with the panel and our collegiate picks, however.

Vickie Spivey continues to lead the pack this week with a 72-33 week, while our guests are in second place with a 71-34 mark. Tom Baines and this writer are tied for third place with 70-35 records, followed by Joe Jenkins and Jimmy DuPree, tied for fifth at 68-37.

This week, there are a few differences in the picks and we are hopeful of some changes in the standings.

Our guest last week, ECU offensive coordinator Art Baker, finished up with a 9-3 record, good but not good enough to surpass Slim Short's 9-2-1 which still leads the guests' pack.

This week we have a team for our guest. We asked W.M. "Booger" Scales to be our guest, and he agreed only if we'd allow his son, Waighy, to help him out. We naturally agreed, so the duo is out to do its best for the guests. No Gaylord Perry spitter will save the day this time, however.

Last week's high school picks saw us go 4-2, with a season record of 55-17.

Roanoke has finished up its season, and the rest — with three possible exceptions — do so this week.

North Pitt travels to Ayden-Grifton in the county's primary contest. The Chargers are coming off a tough loss to Farmville Central, and for the first time in three seasons they're staying home from the playoffs. The Chargers also need the game for a winning season. The Panthers, meanwhile, have no hopes for a winning year, but can close on the up-beat. Our choice, however, is Ayden-Grifton, 35-12.

Farmville Central entertains Southern Nash at the Jaguar Homecoming. Farmville has already spoiled three homecomings this year and would like nothing better than to win its own. Southern, however, could find the Jags looking ahead to the playoffs. We don't think so: Farmville 21-7.

Finally, D.H. Conley seeks to avoid sole possession of the Coastal Conference basement with a win over North Lenoir at Hollywood. The Vikings have had little success this year — but neither have the Hawks. This could go either way, but we'll go with the Hawks, 14-13.

In other area games, it's Chocowinity over Aurora, Jamesville over Columbia, SouthWest Edgecombe over Greene Central, Washington over Roanoke Rapids, and in a key Northeastern game, Edenton over Williamston.

Rose closes out its season at Elizabeth City against Northeastern. The Rampants have seen success go out the door in the latter part of the season, while Northeastern has learned what winning is all about. The Eagles are flying high now and we don't see Rose putting together enough to stop them. The panel goes with Northeastern, 6-0.

East Carolina travels to Miami, Fla., to meet the strong Hurricanes and it may be the Pirates' last big chance to impress the bowl scouts. Certainly the Pirates must win their last two to have a chance, but a win against the 'Canes could about wrap up a spot somewhere — with the two wins at the end of the year. It should again be an exciting game with speed against speed, but we have to go with Miami. The panel is split, 4-2, in favor of Miami.

Our other consensus picks: Clemson and North Carolina, a toss-up; Virginia over Georgia Tech (we forgot it was played on Thursday, but we did make the pick before the game), N.C. State over Appalachian State, Florida and Georgia, a toss-up; Syracuse over Navy; Wake Forest over Duke; Auburn over Maryland; Arkansas over Baylor; Mississippi State over Memphis State and William & Mary over Marshall.

DeBerg 'Having Fun' Leading Broncos To Four Straight Wins

By The Associated Press

Both the Denver Broncos and Seattle Seahawks apparently have overcome some quarterback problems the easy way — by changing uniform numbers — and are ready for their American Football Conference West Division matchup on Sunday.

"I'm having a lot of fun," says Broncos quarterback Steve DeBerg, who took over as starter for rookie John Elway five games into the season and has directed Denver to four straight victories.

"It was a little frustrating at first, but I've been in this business long enough to know that quarterbacks win and lose jobs throughout their careers," DeBerg said.

The Seahawks, meanwhile, have rebounded under the leadership of quarterback Dave Krieg, who started last Sunday in place of Jim Zorn and led Seattle to a 34-21 victory over the Los Angeles Raiders.

"You can't fall back on your laurels," says Krieg, "because you're only as good as you played last week."

The Broncos' four straight victories have pulled them into a tie with the Raiders at 6-3 for the AFC West lead, with the Seahawks one game back at 5-4.

Denver is tied with Miami for the National Football League lead in fewest points allowed, 147, while the Seahawks rank next-to-last in the AFC in both total offense and defense.

Denver leads the series 7-4, but the Seahawks have won three of the last four. The Seahawks will depend heavily on the talents not only of Krieg but also of rookie running back Curt Warner, who could become Seattle's first 1,000-yard rusher. He leads the AFC with 755 yards.

Other games Sunday have the Los Angeles Raiders at Kansas City, San Diego at Pittsburgh, Miami at San Francisco, Buffalo at New England, Dallas at Philadelphia, Tampa Bay at Minnesota, Atlanta at New Orleans, Cincinnati at Houston, Cleveland vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee, Chicago at Los Angeles Rams, Baltimore at New York Jets and St. Louis at Washington. The New York Giants are at Detroit on Monday night.

The Raiders, 6-3, will try to rebound from last week's loss, the second this season, to the Seahawks when they take on AFC West rival Kansas City, 4-5. Los Angeles quarterback Marc Wilson, making his second start, passed for 297 yards and two touchdowns last Sunday but also threw four interceptions. The Raiders beat the Chiefs 21-20 earlier this season.

The Steelers have won five in a row to lead the AFC Central with a 7-2 record, while the Chargers, without injured quarterback Dan Fouts, have lost three in a row to trail the AFC West with a 3-6 mark. San Diego has won its last three meetings with the Steelers. Pittsburgh running back Franco Harris continues his assault on the NFL rushing record. With 647 yards this year, he has 11,595 in his career, 718 short of Jim Brown's 12,312.

Division leaders Miami and San Francisco have not met since 1980, when the Dolphins won 17-13. The Dolphins, tied with Buffalo at 6-3 for the AFC East lead, are coming off a 30-14 victory over the Rams behind the AFC's top-rated passer, Dan Marino. San Francisco, 6-3 and leaders of the NFC West, beat the New York Jets 27-13. Wide receiver Freddie Solomon, who did not play against the Jets because of a thigh injury, may be in the lineup again.

Patriots quarterback Steve Grogan will try to complete a season sweep when New England meets AFC East co-leader Buffalo. The Pats shocked the Bills 31-0 on Oct. 24. Bills quarterback Joe Ferguson threw four touchdown passes in a 27-21 victory over New Orleans last Sunday, giving him 12 in four games.

The Cowboys, at 8-1, own the NFL's best record and lead the NFC East by one game over the Washington Redskins. A victory over Philadelphia, 4-5, would ensure Dallas of its 18th consecutive winning season.

Richmond Ready To Win

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — As far as Tim Richmond is concerned, the chemistry is right for him now.

Richmond, who won two Grand National races in 1982 and one so far this season, feels like everything he has done so far is just preparation for the future.

Thursday, in the opening qualifying session for Sunday's Atlanta Journal 500 at Atlanta International Raceway, Richmond collected his fourth pole position of the season.

"Things have been coming together for us since the first Pocono race (on June 12)," said Richmond, who drives for the first-year Grand National team of drag racer Raymond Beadle and Old Milwaukee. The team personnel was revamped under crew chief Tim Brewer and engine builder Harold Elliott after a slow start.

"The obvious reason for the way things are going now is the chemistry and the timing within our team," Richmond said. "We've got a lot of confidence going our way now."

"I'll gladly give up the wins this year to put it together for next year," he added. "If I have to struggle at times this year to build up the consistency in my career later on, so be it."

Richmond, coming off a second place finish last Sunday in the American 500, turned a fast lap of 168.151 mph in his Pontiac LeMans. That narrowly missed the track qualifying record of 168.425, set in 1968 by Cale

Yarborough. "I've been working harder in practice," Richmond said. "And toward the end of practice, we got the car real comfortable."

"The nice thing is that we qualified with the race engine. The car is locked in the truck now and you won't see it on the track (today). We can't afford to put too many laps on that engine."

Despite Richmond's pole, the 1.52-mile Atlanta oval lived up to its reputation as a good track for Fords.

Dale Earnhardt took the outside spot on the front row at 167.278 and Buddy Baker was next at 167.064, both of them in Thunderbirds.

Yarborough was next at 166.886, followed by Benny Parsons at 166.754 and Darrell Waltrip at 166.334, all in Chevrolet Monte Carlo SuperSports.

Bill Elliott was seventh fastest at 166.309 in a Thunderbird, followed by Bobby Allison's Buick Regal at 166.258.

Only the top 15 qualifiers Thursday nailed down spots in the 40-car lineup. Among those who didn't make it Thursday was Donnie Allison, Bobby's younger brother who has not driven in a Grand National event since crashing in this race last November.

The 44-year-old Allison was badly injured in a crash at Charlotte, N.C., in May 1981, but came back to drive in nine races last year. He failed to come up with a competitive ride this season until Geoff Bodine quit Cliff Stewart's Gatorade team earlier this week.

Allison's fast lap of 164.269 in the Pontiac Grand Prix was 18th fastest.

The partial lineup for Sunday's Atlanta Journal 500 Grand National stock car race, with type of car and qualifying speed in mph:

1. Tim Richmond, Pontiac LeMans, 168.151
2. Dale Earnhardt, Ford Thunderbird, 167.278
3. Buddy Baker, Ford Thunderbird, 167.064
4. Cale Yarborough, Chevrolet Monte Carlo SS, 166.886
5. Benny Parsons, Chevrolet Monte Carlo SS, 166.754
6. Darrell Waltrip, Chevrolet Monte Carlo SS, 166.754
7. Bill Elliott, Ford Thunderbird, 166.334
8. Bobby Allison, Buick Regal, 166.258
9. Terry Labonte, Chevrolet Monte Carlo SS, 165.991
10. Dick Brooks, Ford Thunderbird, 165.991
11. Richard Petty, Pontiac Grand Prix, 165.928
12. Joe Ruttman, Pontiac Grand Prix, 165.918
13. Ron Bouchard, Buick Regal, 165.855
14. Harry Gant, Buick Regal, 165.895
15. Neil Bonnett, Chevrolet Monte Carlo SS, 165.419

The remainder of the 40-car field will be determined in time trials Friday and Saturday.

40 in under five seconds. He and his linemates will face the nation's No. 2 defense, a unit that held West Virginia to a net of 2 yards rushing for the whole game and bottled up quarterback Jeff Hostetler.

But it's a defense without nose guard Tony Fitzpatrick, who had surgery Monday on a torn bicep.

The Hurricanes are also fast, as big teams like Purdue, Notre Dame and West Virginia learned.

Quarterback Kevin Ingram is 66 of 119 for 890 yards and five touchdowns this season.

"Stopping them will present a lot of problems. You miss a tackle and you've got problems," said Tom Olivadotti, Miami's defensive coordinator.

"Their quarterback is the trigger to a very explosive offense," added Schnellenberger. "I call him an escape artist. We couldn't chase him down two years ago when he came in late in the game."

The Miami coach doesn't like what he sees on defense, either, even though the Pirates gave up 47 points in Tallahassee.

"The thing that scares me the worst is that their defense looks like ours. We have to go against ours every once in a while, and we get a lot of bloody noses," Schnellenberger said. "They're aggressive, swarming, gang-tackling."

"They just cause general havoc."

Across the line from the Pirate defense will be freshman quarterback Bernie Kosar, who has reeled off five been the key play of the game. Tech took over and scored on Collier's 5-yard run and Glanton's 61-yarder within a 2-minute span to take a 14-0 halftime lead. Virginia never recovered.

"I don't think that the first fumble set the tone for the game," said Virginia Coach Bill Welsh. "But it has been happening to us lately."

The Cavaliers had been 4-0 at the start of the season before the present streak and injuries struck, virtually eliminating Virginia as a bowl contender.

"Hell, we're not a bowl team. If they were to invite us, we should turn them down," said Welsh. "Now we're just giving up too many points, too many big plays."

Tech also has been slowed by injuries, including Robert Lavette, the third leading rusher in the ACC, who missed last week's Duke game and gained only 10 yards on 8 attempts before suffering a sprained right ankle in the third period.

The first motion pictures of a fight were filmed in 1894 at the Edison Laboratories in New Jersey. The fighters were Mike Leonard and Jack Cushing.

The victory was Tech's sixth straight without a loss over Virginia in the series that began in 1965.

Rose Captures JV Conference Title

Rose High School rolled up a 28-12 junior varsity football victory over Northeastern yesterday to clinch the Big East Jayvee championship.

The victory left the Rampant Cubs with an 8-2 overall mark and a 6-1 conference record.

Wilbert Brown put Rose into the lead in the first period with a 2-yard touchdown run. Kendall Phillips added the first of four PAT kicks after the score.

Ervin Best had a hand in two second period touchdowns. The Cub quarterback passed 40 yards to Tyrone Jones for the first score and then later went over from a yard out to up the lead to 21-0 at halftime.

Northeastern got on the scoreboard in the third period on an 80-yard run, while Rose came back with one last touchdown in the final quarter. That came on an 11-yard run by Sherry Frank. Northeastern then scored its other TD on the final play of the game.

Singled out for their defensive play were: Waylon Moore, L.C. Atkinson, Todd Morris, Brian Walsh, James Matthews, Darryl Perkins, Jeff Smith, Joe Hallow, Van Alston, Greg Barrett, Steve Johnson and Brent Langley. On offense, those cited were Mark Elmore, Morris, Greg Vacek, Perkins, Fletcher Phillips, Glenn Duffy, Jones, Mike Staffelbach, Best, Clay Young, Mike Wooten, Mike Branch, Frank and Brown. Kickers George Saad and Phillips were also praised.

The game closed out the 1983 season for the Cubs.

Chapman's first touchdown came in the closing seconds of the first half on a 14-yard run. That ended a 34-yard drive.

Earlier Timmy Best had scored from five yards away for a 6-0 lead. Best passed to Shawn Farmer for a two-point conversion after Chapman's first touchdown to make it 14-0 at the half.

The rest of the scoring came in the third period. After the A-G defense had picked up a safety from North Pitt, Chapman ended a 41-yard drive with a 19-yard run to cap the scoring.

North Pitt's lone score also came in the third period, as Derrick Mullins went 10 yards.

Chapman finished the game with 109 yards on 12 carries. Ayden-Grifton finishes the year with a 7-2 overall record and 5-1 in the league. North Pitt was 3-4 overall.

Mr. Tobacco Farmer

Tired of Tobacco Beds
Tired of Pulling Plants
Try Speedling Grown Tobacco Plants

Unique Advantages

- The inverted pyramid cells direct root growth downward. Roots aren't injured in transplanting.
- Air Pruning
With the cell's open bottom, the natural air flow beneath the flat prunes the down-growing tap root. This encourages secondary root development for vigorous growth after transplanting provided other conditions related to crop production are desirable.
- Speedling transplants are grown to farmers specifications for a period of about 6 weeks. Depending on plant variety and cell size, they are then pulled and packed in wax covered cardboard boxes and shipped to the grower.

Other Advantages For Tobacco Farmers

- No Pulling Plants
- Less Labor Needed For Transplanting
- No Resetting
- More Uniformity For MH30 Application
- Less Topping And Suckering
- Plants Grow Straight Stalks In Field For Easier Machine Harvesting

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

EASY BEING A PROPHET?!!

IT WAS NOT EASY BEING A PROPHET IN BIBLICAL TIMES. TAKE THE CASE OF JEREMIAH. HE WAS WARNED EARLY IN HIS CAREER THAT SUCH WOULD BE THE CASE--HE'D MEET WITH TERRIFIC OPPOSITION FROM PRIESTS AND PEOPLE ALIKE, EVEN THOUGH HIS PROPHECIES WERE TRUTHFUL! IN FACT, FOR TWENTY-ODD YEARS HIS STORMY WARNINGS WERE NOT HEED-ED SERIOUSLY BY MANY WHO THOUGHT HE WAS JUST A CRANK. HE WAS DE-NOUNCED CALLED A TRAITOR AND A DISGRACE TO HIS ANCESTORS, YET STILL HELD TO THE TRUTH AS IT WAS REVEALED TO HIM. AS FAR AS THIS PROPHET WAS CONCERNED, JERU-SALEM WAS DOOMED IF THEY HAD ANY ALLIANCE WITH EGYPT...TO THE DETRIMENT OF BABYLON! THE FACTION AT COURT WHO FAVORED THE EGYPTIAN ALLIANCE CALLED JEREMIAH A BAB-YLON-LOVER, A TURNCOAT, AND RABBLE ROUSER, AND TRIED TO BLACKEN HIS NAME IN EVERY WAY. BUT HE WAS RIGHT AND THEY WERE WRONG! AND IT WAS WITH A SAD HEART THAT HE WATCHED THE HIGH BORN PEOPLE OF JERUSALEM DRAGGED OFF TO BABYLON AND CAPTIVITY. HAD THE PEOPLE LISTENED TO JEREMIAH AND HONORED THE ALLIANCE WITH BABY-LON, JERUSALEM MIGHT WELL HAVE BEEN SAVED AND JEREMIAH WOULD NOT HAVE TO LAMENT... "AH LORD! NOR AH, HER GLORY!...DRAWN FORTH AND CAST BEYOND THE GATES OF JERUSALEM?" (JER. 22:19)

Various ministers and churches will participate in services throughout the week including: Monday, the Rev. Thomas Dixon and Bells Chapel Holiness at Bells Fork; Tuesday, the Rev. Louis H. Green and Cedar Grove Missionary Baptist; Wednesday, the Rev. Walter Blount and Warren Chapel; Thursday, the Rev. Ed Bryant and Warren Chapel Free Will Baptist in Chocowinity; and Friday, the Rev. Joe Dixon and St. John in Farmville. Services will start at 7:30 p.m.

Concert Scheduled Sunday

A music concert featuring Lynn Petrosino will be held Sunday at 7 p.m. at the Fourquare Christian Center. She will also speak about the fighting in Grenada and Lebanon. Mrs. Petrosino's husband, Steve, is a Marine stationed at Camp Lejune and has recently returned from Lenanon. He is now in Grenada. She has been a featured speaker at the Aglow Chapters and is the worship leader of the Jacksonville Foursquare Church, where she is a member.

Ushers To Have Anniversary

The Senior Usher Board of Mayo Chapel Baptist Church will hold its ushers anniversary Sunday at 7 p.m. The speaker will be the Rev. Johnnie Johnson of Pine Chapel in Pinetops, who will be accompanied by the Pine Chapel choir, ushers and members.

Hall To Speak Sunday

Dr. T. Hartley Hall IV, president of Union Theological Seminary in Virginia, will be guest preacher at First Presbyterian Church at the corner of 14th and Elm streets Sunday for the 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. services. His subject will be "The Brothers on Earth." Dr. Hall will also speak to the adult and older youth classes of the church school at 10 a.m. on the state of theological education, its challenges and opportunities.

Revival Services Begin Sunday

Revival services will begin Sunday and continue through Friday at Living Water Free Will Baptist Church in Bethel. The Rev. James Avery will be the guest speaker for the services, which begin nightly at 7:30 p.m.

Pastor's Anniversary Noted

An anniversary service for Elder I.J. Robinson will be held at Holy Temple Church at Saintsville Sunday at 3:30 p.m. The guest speaker will be Pastor Mable Hargrove of Newport News, Va. Dinner will be served after the service.

Gospel Sing Set Dec. 3

The Hope Well Pentecostal Holiness Church will hold a gospel sing Dec. 3 at 7:30 p.m. Local soloists and groups that would like to participate may call Evia Beachum at 756-6684 or Ernest Harrington at 746-3198.

Reedy Branch Plans Celebration

Reedy Branch Church will celebrate its 183rd anniversary and its pastor's 20th year of service Sunday with special services. Reedy Branch Church, dating back to 1800 and named after a nearby stream overgrown by reeds, is located behind Pitt Community College. The pastor, the Rev. Willis W. Wilson, has served the church since October 1963 and has had the church's fellowship hall named after him in recognition of this service. The Wilson Fellowship Hall will be officially dedicated Sunday with the burning of the last note of indebtedness. Services will begin at 9:45 a.m. with Sunday school, followed by morning worship at 11 a.m., and a picnic lunch at noon. A singspiration will follow lunch at 1:30 p.m. The church extends an invitation to all former pastors, members and guests.

Group To Have Anniversary

The Lilies of Calvary will hold its 11th annual Anniversary Celebration Sunday at 7 p.m. at Mount Calvary Free Will Baptist Church. The program will include a concert by the Vines Singers of Farmville. There will also be a short memorial service in remembrance of past members of the Lilies of Calvary. Mount Calvary F.W.B. Church is located on the corner of Hudson and Ward streets.

Usher Board To Meet Monday

The City Usher Union will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Philippi Church of Christ, 1610 Farmville Blvd.

Army To Have Homecoming

The Salvation Army will have its homecoming Sunday. Maj. and Mrs. Earl Reagan of the Salvation Army in New Bern, former corps officers in Greenville, will be special guests.

Crawley To Speak Sunday

Dr. Winston Crawley of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board will be the guest minister at Bethel Baptist Church Sunday at 7 p.m.

DR. WINSTON CRAWLEY

Davis To Speak Sunday

The Rev. William L. Davis, associate pastor of Corner Stone Missionary Baptist Church, will speak at the Ladies Auxiliary's Anniversary at Sycamore Hill MB Church Sunday at 4 p.m. He will be accompanied by a choir from Corner Stone Church.

Bishop To Lead Revival

Bishop J.N. Gilbert and the Arthur's Chapel congregation will conduct services tonight at 7:30 p.m. during a revival at Warren Chapel Free Will Baptist Church. Elder Charlie Honey, Edwards and the youth choirs and ushers will be in charge at 7 p.m. Saturday. The 11 a.m. Sunday worship will be followed by dinner at 1:45 p.m. and a 3 p.m. service led by Elder E.L. Garner and Friendship Free Will Baptist Church.

Mothers' Board To Meet

The mothers' board will meet at 1 p.m. Saturday at Haddock Chapel Free Will Baptist Church. That session will be followed at 2 p.m. by a meeting of the home mission meeting. Church school will be held at 9:45 a.m. Sunday, the board will meet at 7 p.m. Monday and the senior choir and ushers will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Ushers To Mark Anniversary

The senior usher board of Clemms Grove Holiness Church in Stokes will celebrate its anniversary Sunday. The program will begin at 3 p.m.

Special Service Set Saturday

A service honoring Rosa Bell Albritton Whitfield will be held at Little Creek Free Will Baptist Church Saturday. The service will start at 3 p.m.

American Director Plans Movie History Of China

PEKING (AP) — American movie director Alan Pakula, whose credits include "Sophie's Choice" and "All the President's Men," announced plans Thursday to make a major film in China, mirroring its turbulent history over the past century.

To make "Spring Moon," based on the American best-seller by Bette Bao Lord, Pakula said he plans to hire an all-Chinese cast and teach them to speak English. Initial talks with the Chinese Ministry of Culture and China Film Cooperation Corp. were "encouraging," he said, and his first look at the ancient city of Suzhou near Shanghai, where some of the story is set, convinced him it would be ideal for the exterior scenes.

"Enormous chunks of life and architecture are just the way it was," the director told a news conference.

Pakula, 55, who directed Oscar-winners Meryl Streep in "Sophie's Choice" and Jane Fonda in "Kluge," said the "Spring Moon" part was as challenging a female role as he had known. "It's a remarkable role and it must be played by a Chinese actress," he said.

The story, translated into 15 languages, is about a woman born during the Manchu dynasty of the last century and the fortunes of her family to the Communist Cultural Revolution in the late 1960s.

Recording Unit Signs Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — The Puerto Rican pop group Menudo, considered the hottest teen recording group, signed a contract with RCA Records on Thursday.

The first album under the new agreement, "A Todo Rock," will be released in the United States, Puerto Rico and Mexico immediately and in other countries during the next several months, RCA Records said.

Jose Menendez, an executive vice president for operations, said the group's first English-language recording will be released next year.

Connie Chung Will Sit In On 'Today'

NEW YORK (AP) — Connie Chung, who now anchors "NBC News at Sunrise," will sit in temporarily when Jane Pauley takes a maternity leave from NBC's "Today" show starting Nov. 28, a network source said.

Ms. Chung, who moved to NBC in August from KNXT-TV, the CBS affiliate in Los Angeles, currently anchors "NBC News at Sunrise," which airs just before the "Today" show.

The source, who declined to be identified, told The Associated Press on Thursday that Ms. Chung will replace Ms. Pauley for one month of Ms. Pauley's planned three-month leave.

Ms. Pauley's last day is Nov. 25, the source said, stressing that she would be returning to the program after her leave ends.

Ms. Chung, 36, will take a leave from the "Sunrise" program while she sits in for Ms. Pauley, the source said. She is to return to the "Sunrise" program after her "Today" stint, and the network wants to dispel speculation that she would be a permanent replacement for Ms. Pauley, the source said. Before the death of newswoman Jessica Savitch last week, the network had planned to split the three-month period between Ms. Savitch, Ms. Chung and Mary Nissen, an NBC reporter who has covered the Midwest.

Ms. Nissen is still being considered as a replacement, and Carol Marin, a broadcaster with WMAQ-TV in Chicago, is also a possibility.

Ms. Pauley, 33, joined the "Today" program in 1977. She is married to cartoonist Garry Trudeau, who penned the comic strip "Doonesbury."

Before moving to NBC, Ms. Chung anchored the local newscasts at KNXT at 6 and 11 p.m., and had worked for the CBS network before that. She reportedly took a pay cut when she took the "Sunrise" job because she wanted to be on board for key election year assignments.

Besides her early news broadcast, Ms. Chung also anchors one-minute news updates at 9 p.m. and 10 p.m. for NBC.

The "Today" show, the traditional leader of the three morning network news shows, last year trailed ABC's "Good Morning America" in the ratings. Now ratings have stabilized, with "Good Morning America" leading, but with "Today" and the "CBS Morning News" neck-and-neck.

NBC spokeswoman Mary Lou O'Callahan said in a telephone interview Thursday that no official choice had been made for Ms. Pauley's replacement. She acknowledged, however, that Ms. Chung was being considered.

Australia May Export Unique Ethnic Television Style to U.S.

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Australians think they can teach America how to make a better melting pot. The face of this former British colony is changing. The land of meat pie and beer has become home to souvlaki and cannelloni as well.

Before World War II, Australia was about 90 percent British and Irish in national heritage. Immigrants trickled in. But since 1945, that has swelled to a rolling tide.

Today, 22 percent of Australians are foreign-born. It is estimated that by the year 2000, more than 50 percent of the people here will trace their origins to non-English-speaking countries.

To help these new arrivals feel at home, the federal government is financing a television network called Channel 028 — the numbers stand for its frequencies, 0 on VHF and 28 on UHF.

Channel 028, the only network of its kind in the world, brings Australians news and entertainment from more than 300 sources in 33 countries: soap operas from Greece and Argentina, musicals from Egypt, children's shows from Yugoslavia, soccer matches from West Germany, French and Swedish sitcoms, Soviet anti-war films and news as it is reported in every part of the globe.

Most of the material is broadcast in the original languages. An army of translators supplies their network with subtitles. Consequently, in its three years of operation, Channel 028 has amassed a huge video library.

Australia hopes before long to export this video treasure to the United States.

Over the past couple of years overtures have been made to the cable and pay-TV industry in the United States. The Special Broadcasting Service, which oversees Channel 028, plans another foray Nov. 7-10 in Miami at the American Market for International Programs festival.

"In a lot of cases, Americans missed the bus," said Franca Arena, a state legislator in New South Wales and a champion of immigrants' rights. "We don't want to make the same mistakes."

Ms. Arena, who left Italy for Australia 24 years ago, took a study tour of the United States in 1976. "I love Americans," she said. "I found them dynamic and intelligent. But I was shocked by the fractures in the society. Groups seemed to be competing one against the other all the time."

Al Grassby, who has been called the Father of Ethnic Radio in Australia, said, "I see in the United States a great weight of assimilation. They're missing out on the chance to capitalize on culture and language, to make it a richer country."

The idea that diverse cultures and languages should be preserved is called "multiculturalism." That philosophy gave birth to Channel 028 and, before that, to Ethnic Radio. Grassby launched Ethnic Radio in 1975 to serve an audience virtually ignored by commercial and public radio, he said.

From a three-month experiment of broadcasting in seven languages from Sydney, Ethnic Radio has become a national institution. Government-operated or -subsidized stations are now on the air across Australia in 52 languages, including aboriginal.

Arthur Murray Leaves Hospital

HONOLULU (AP) — Former dance teacher Arthur Murray has gone home to recuperate after a brief hospitalization.

"He had a stubborn fever and went into the hospital for tests," said his wife, Kathryn.

"It's nothing very serious and he's going to be fine," she said.

Murray, 88, contracted the fever during a recent trip to the mainland.

Nicaragua Forms Army Of Youngsters

By JOSEPH B. FRAZIER
Associated Press Writer

OCOTAL, Nicaragua (AP) — Sandra Sanchez Sandoval, 14, cradled her assault rifle in her lap, took a pensive slurp from a crimson "raspado" of shaved ice and syrup and spelled out her duty.

"We are here to defend our homeland, because we want to stay free. The 'contras' will not pass over this bridge," she said, referring to rebel exiles seeking to topple the leftist Sandinista government.

As a result of what Sandinista leaders say is an imminent invasion of Nicaragua by rightist-ruled Guatemala, El Salvador and Honduras, school children as young as 11 years of age are being mobilized into the defense forces. They say last week's U.S. invasion of Grenada was just a "prelude."

One outpost is near this northern town of 22,000, in Nueva Segovia province, 13 miles from the Honduran border, which authorities say is a prime rebel target. At least 3,000 of the CIA-backed rebels are reported poised nearby ready to strike.

The kids serve three-week hitches, then return to classes and are replaced by other youths.

"Most of us are volunteers. But some of us were, well, put here," said a 12-year-old who would not give his name.

They say they received quick courses in how to load, fire and clean the AK-47 automatic rifles issued to them but had little other training. "I don't know how to defend myself let alone this bridge," one of them said. "But they say we are needed here and we will stay as long as we have to."

Some of their schoolmates have been wounded in rebel mortar attacks on the Ocotal Bridge and some of the posts around it. The bridge spanning the Coco River is part of the Pan American Highway, linking the capital of Managua 140 miles south with the Honduran border.

It has been a frequent target of the rebels.

"The imperialist aggression is increasing. They tell us things are becoming more critical every day. That is why we are needed here," said Carmen Garcia, 20, a high school student, older than the rest of the defenders.

As she chatted with a visitor, Carmen turned the page of a government-issue children's magazine with topics ranging from sex education to politics.

"Do you agree with the imperialist aggression against us?" she asked.

Many of the terrorist attacks are mounted by the Honduras-based Nicaraguan Democratic Front, which claims a 10,000-rebel force, many of them well-trained former members of the national guard of Gen. Anastasio Somoza, the rightist pro-American strongman the Sandinistas overthrew in a bloody civil war in 1979.

Other rebels are based in Costa Rica.

In contrast, Roberto Jose Pastrana, 13, halfway through his hitch, still cannot fit a bayonet to his rifle. He said he and his young companions get permission occasionally to visit their families in Ocotal, a mile away, and parents visit their sons and daughters any time they want.

"But most don't come here because they feel it is dangerous," Roberto said.

A goated soldier of perhaps 22 trudged up the steep slope from the highway and the young soldiers at the post gathered around.

"We will guarantee you 'pills' for the enemy," he said, holding up a clip of bullets. But he warned that food, among other things, was in short supply and should be provided by families if possible.

"We are going to teach you the use of the defense mobilizations that he have," he continued. "When the hour of combat comes, each of you must know where to go. You can't be asleep then. At the sound of the first gunshot, all jump into the same hole."

He paused. "If you want to go out on patrol later with the regular troops, you will have to learn these things."

"Try to stay happy," he said. "If a comrade says I'm going to leave, you must all work together to lift his morale."

"Bring us a guitar," Pastrana joked, grinning.

The soldier left. "He is from Battalion 643," said a 15-year-old girl, apparently impressed. "That was a political visit, you know, to lift our morale."

A siege mentality is not new to Ocotal. In 1927, when troops of Cesar Augusto Sandino — the rebel chief from whom the Sandinistas take their name — were fighting an American occupation of Nicaragua, U.S. Marine planes bombed the town.

YOUNG TROOPERS — Two teen-age soldiers take a break during guard duties in Ocotal, Nicaragua. The soldiers, who asked not to be identified, were students mobilized for temporary military duty by the Nicaraguan government. (AP Laserphoto)

British Trust Restoring Buildings

LONDON (AP) — Pollution, rising damp and wood-eating beetle grubs are ravaging Britain's legacy of historic buildings and monuments, but determined restorers say they're winning the slow and costly battle against time and decay.

"Our buildings are probably the best maintained in the world," said Warren Davis, spokesman for Britain's National Trust.

The charity, Britain's third biggest property owner after the government and the crown, spends $13.5 million a year on restoration and maintenance.

"Britain is endowed with a national instinct for conservation," said Davis. "Aristocrats did it for centuries. In our democratic age people donate money and land for conservation. Britons believe in saving history."

In London, where the government looks after more than 500 buildings that include bits of ancient Roman walls, restoration goes on continuously, said project supervisor Charming Lacey of the Department of the Environment's historic buildings division.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1983

YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Now you have an excellent Saturday to plan and organize your daily and other duties in such a fashion that you will be able to have long-time beneficial results follow.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A fine day to converse with business people who can give you good ideas and advice you need for the future.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get together with partners and discuss the future so that more can be accomplished in the days ahead.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get into that work that is difficult to do during the busy work days and gain added income for yourself.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Get into amusements that will give you surcease from worries and have a good time. You deserve it.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Establish more harmony at home instead of stirring up trouble there, just for the fun of it. Stop being cantankerous.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get your shopping and marketing done early and first make out a list so that you forget nothing. The cupboard is bare!

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study your current financial position and get into something that will give you added income. You need it right now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Concentrate on your own aims and how best to gain them. Seek out one who can be of assistance to you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't criticize anyone and go after your personal aims and gain them easily. Try to be more patient.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Clarification of innate desires makes it easier for you to attain them. You need to establish a clear direction.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't offend a fellow worker and be more concerned with your career. Early see that influential person who can aid you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You get fine new ideas, but study them well before you utilize them since they will be in effect for a long time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of these delightful young persons with much self determination and not be easily thwarted once the mind is made up to do something, so make sure that only the finest types of individuals are around your progeny.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

New Case Challenges Private Schools

By JAMES H. RUBIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Supreme Court decision last May upholding the government's power to deny tax breaks to racially discriminatory schools, a political bombshell at the time, has had little impact so far.

But the stage is set for a more far-reaching decision in a case that has generated little notoriety.

In it, the high court will decide sometime in 1984 whether private citizens can prod the government to use its power, and prod it to move more forcefully against private schools that may discriminate.

A lawyer representing black parents from seven states — Tennessee, Louisiana, South Carolina, Virginia, Alabama, Illinois and Massachusetts — said winning that case "would hand us the bat we need" to force the government to help.

In May, the justices repudiated the Reagan administration by ruling, 8-1, that the Internal Revenue Service may revoke or withhold tax exemptions from schools with racially discriminatory policies.

The administration had argued that Congress never gave the IRS such authority.

The IRS denied tax breaks to Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C., which forbids interracial dating by its students, and the Goldsboro Christian Schools in Goldsboro, N.C., which had refused to admit blacks. In both instances, the racial policies were based on religious beliefs.

President Reagan said after May's ruling, "We will obey the law." But in practice, the decision has had only minimal impact.

Officials for both Bob Jones University and the Goldsboro schools say they have suffered no significant decline in donations, even though contributors may no longer claim their gifts as tax deductions.

"Things are pretty much the same," said Arcie L. Hines, chairman of the board of the Goldsboro schools. Contributions have not slackened because donors still "believe in the Lord's work," he said.

The Second Baptist Church in Goldsboro, which runs the schools, changed its policy this summer and now says blacks are welcome. But none has applied for admission, and the schools, which include grades kindergarten through 12th, do not intend to re-apply for tax exemption.

Asked why the school changed its policy, Hines said the church is carrying out God's word. "God is in control," he said.

Richard Smith, a spokesman for Bob Jones University, said the college, which has an enrollment of 6,000 students, may have to undergo some "belt tightening" in the future. But so far donations have not dropped, he said.

Smith said the university relies on student tuition — now about $2,000 a year per student — to pay operating costs. Contributions are used for expansion and improvements on the university's campus.

Both Bob Jones and the Goldsboro schools face heavy back Social Security and unemployment taxes, perhaps running to hundreds of thousands of dollars, because of the Supreme Court decision.

But officials at both institutions say they have received no orders to pay up.

"We've had no meetings, no discussions" with the IRS in the five months since the court ruled, Smith said. IRS officials refused to discuss the potential tax liability of the schools, or when they will be ordered to pay.

Current reports from Bob Jones University and the Goldsboro schools contrast sharply with earlier warnings from officials of religiously affiliated schools. They had said losing tax exemptions could mean financial disaster for many institutions.

Bob Jones and Goldsboro lost their tax-exempt status, as have more than 100 private schools since the current IRS policy was adopted in 1970, because they openly admitted policies found to be racially discriminatory.

But the IRS essentially accepts the word of a school in deciding whether it qualifies for an exemption. The only required proof of good intention is that the school state publicly that it does not discriminate against blacks.

The only exception to that IRS policy is in Mississippi, where a federal judge said schools must do more than assert they do not discriminate. Five Mississippi schools facing the loss of their tax-exempt status have appealed the ruling.

Proponents of a more aggressive policy say the government should infer discriminatory intent if, for example, the founding of an all-white private school coincides with the time of court-ordered desegregation.

The Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law is helping represent parents of 25 black students attending public schools in seven states who want to force the government to take such evidence into account.

A federal appeals court here ruled in their favor in 1981. It gave private citizens a broad right to sue for private schools.

Norman Chachkin, a member of the Washington-based lawyers' group, said the ruling provides a powerful weapon to challenge tax breaks for alleged discriminators.

more careful. He realized that he needed only four club tricks for his contract, so at trick two he led a low club from dummy! His slam was now secure.

East won and forced declarer with a diamond. Declarer accepted the ruff, ruffed a heart with dummy's low trump and cashed dummy's remaining trump honor. Declarer could still get back to his hand with a diamond ruff to draw the last two trumps, and when clubs divided normally, twelve tricks were there for the taking.

FOCUS

TRINIDAD

S. AMERICA

Island Nation

Last week the U.S. and several East Caribbean nations sent troops to the island of Grenada. Their mission—to restore democracy and to protect Americans on the island. Christopher Columbus discovered Grenada in 1498. After more than 200 years of British rule, Grenada declared its independence in 1974. In recent years Grenada has been the only Marxist nation in the world to recognize Queen Elizabeth II as its head of state.

DO YOU KNOW—What group of islands does Grenada belong to?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER—A baby kangaroo is called a "joey".

Knowledge Industries, Inc. 1983

It is nigh impossible to make your contract if you lose control of the hand. To maintain control, you sometimes have to concede a trick early in the play. Study this hand from a team match in England.

Both teams did well to reach an aggressive slam on distributional values rather than high cards. At both tables West led a trump, won on the board. Because of the 4-0 break, declarer could not afford to ruff more than one heart on the table without setting up a trump trick for the defenders. Therefore, the club suit had to be established.

One declarer came to hand with a diamond ruff and tried the club finesse. East won the queen and pumped declarer with another diamond. Now declarer could not afford to take a heart ruff in dummy, for he would then have no way to return to his hand to draw the remaining trumps without shortening himself fatally. So he drew trumps and cashed out his winners for down one.

The second declarer was
