Auditors OK City's Financial Condition

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Auditors presented a favorable report of the city's financial condition for 1982-83 Thursday night, indicating that "significant improvement" was made by holding down expenses in order to increase the general fund balance or cash on hand.

Ralph Ward of the CPA firm of Farley, Prescott and Mizelle reported that the city's general fund balance increased by $635,452 during the year as total local expenses went up by only 3.88 percent.

Ward told the City Council the audit indicated the city was able to "hold the line" and finance its operations through revenues collected in 1982-83, without having to go into the fund balance for financial help.

Councilman Louis Clark expressed his pleasure with the audit results, saying, "That's pretty good." Ward agreed with Clark, concurring that the financial report indeed looked "pretty good."

City Manager Gail Meeks said the $635,452 increase in cash on hand as of June 30 brings the city's total undesignated fund balance up to the minimum amount recommended by the North Carolina Local Government Commission of 8 percent of the annual budget. She said the 1983-84 fiscal year marked the first time in many years that the city did not budget any of its fund balance for operations and this enabled the fund balance to increase.

"This change in financial management philosophy will allow the city to base its annual expenditures on anticipated annual revenues, thereby allowing the city to continuously maintain a sound financial condition," she said.

Mayor Percy Cox said the city manager and council used "good business practices" to accomplish the improved financial situation for the city.

The council, following a public hearing and despite reservations expressed by a member, voted to approve a request by Ralph C. Tucker to rezone 36.59 acres across from Pitt Community College from RA-20 (residential-agricultural) to highway commercial and office and institutional.

Planning Director Bobby Roberson explained that Tucker was seeking 8.31 acres of frontage on N.C. 11 to be rezoned for commercial use and the remaining 28.28 acres for office and institutional designation. Roberson said Tucker initially requested highway commercial zoning for the entire tract but later resubmitted the proposal with a request for 600 feet of commercial frontage and the remainder O&I. The Planning and Zoning Commission, meeting in October, recommended that 400 feet of frontage be rezoned highway commercial and the rest of the tract O&I.

Clark said he had reservations about zoning that much property office and institutional and he questioned the proposed depth of over 800 feet of highway commercial zoning. He pointed to a potential for a number of driveway access points in a high traffic area.

Cox and Clark both indicated that R-6 (high density residential), which allows multifamily development, might be a better rezoning choice for the property than O&I, which also permits the development of multifamily units.

Jim Walker, representing the petitioner, noted that Tucker had compromised from his original rezoning request for the property. He said the city would have the opportunity to control access points to the tract at the time subdivision and sale of the property take place.

Roberson said the city's comprehensive plan does recommend some type of commercial activity for the area. He said that PCC was contacted regarding the rezoning proposal and

More Snow For Rockies

By DANA FIELDS
Associated Press Writer

A snowstorm that gave the Rockies another dose of foot-deep snow in places spread into the heartland today, icing highways across parts of Missouri, Indiana and Illinois, with a tag-along storm forming off the Pacific Coast.

A travelers advisory was posted over much of Indiana for snow, sleet or freezing rain and snow already was falling at Fort Wayne, Terre Haute and Sheridan. Police said roads around Peru and Williamsport had become snow-covered and freezing rain was reported 10 miles north of Monroe.

An inch of snow also had fallen since midnight at Peoria, Ill., as well as in Milwaukee and Madison, Wis. Travel advisories for freezing rain were up in central and northeast Missouri.

Meanwhile, frigid Canadian air surging over the eastern Great Lakes whipped snow equalls around motorists digging out their cars from storms that dropped 22 inches of snow Thursday on Lancaster, N.Y., and 6 to 8 inches along the Lake Erie shores in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Nationwide, the death toll in the series of snowstorms since Nov. 21 climbed to 83 — 42 this week — including traffic fatalities, people who froze to death in their cars and those who collapsed of heart attacks while shoveling snow.

The season's fourth Pacific storm settled into Colorado and New Mexico after wallowing Utah with 15 inches at Tremonton in the Wasatch Mountains, and blanketing southern Idaho with 10 inches of snow that closed schools in a half-dozen towns.

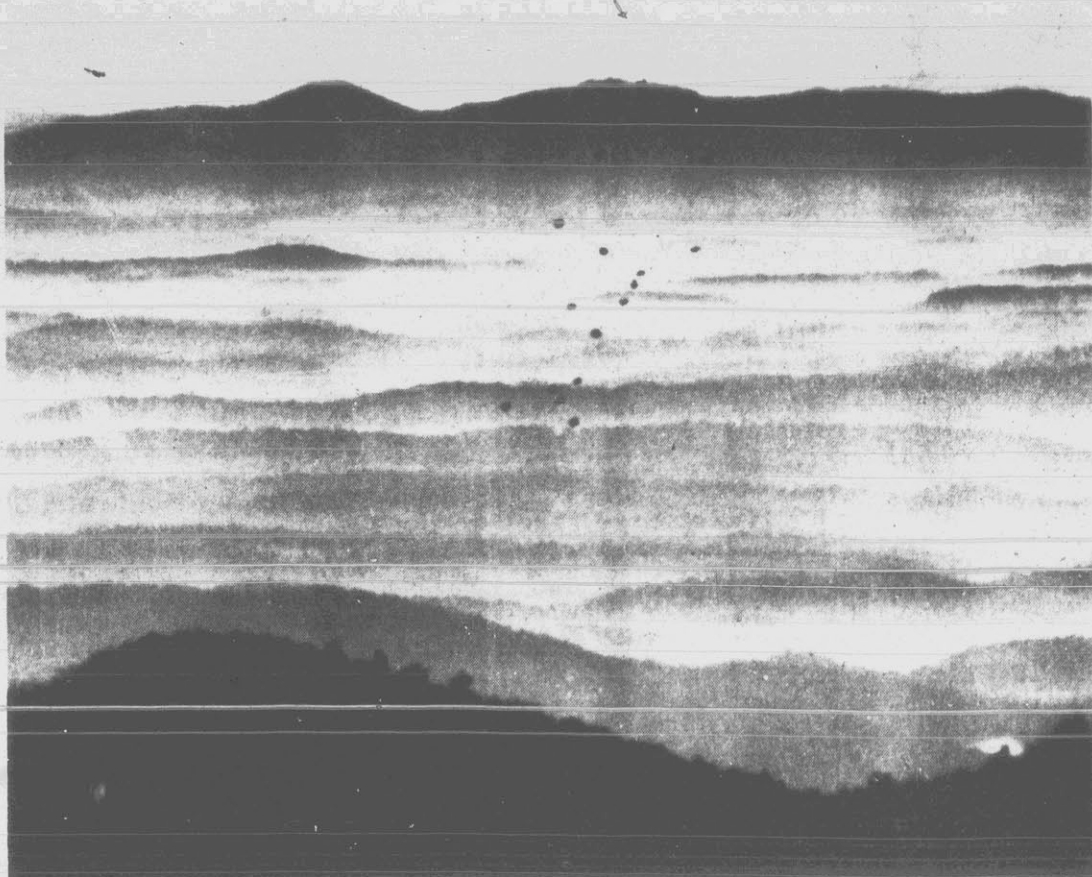

"It's a white Christmas — three weeks early," said Harry Gordon, meteorologist at the government's Severe Storms Center in Kansas City, Mo.

It was a bitter 10 degrees below zero this morning at Broadus, Mont., and the 9 degrees at Boise, Idaho, was a record for the date. Snowy-covered Denver reported at 8 degrees.

Forecasters said today's relief from snow in the northern Rockies likely would be brief. Another Pacific system is hovering off the Washington coast and threatening more snow over the weekend. A travelers advisory was posted for a couple of inches of snow in Portland, Ore., this morning.

Drivers in Wisconsin and southern Michigan were cautioned to watch for icy patches under snow falling in those regions.

December's opening salvo at normally arid Utah followed a November of record precipitation. The National Weather Service said 143.5 inches of snow fell at the Alta Ski Resort southeast of Salt Lake City, bettering the previous record of 118 inches for the area set in 1847 and the average November snowfall of 60 inches.

November Unemployment Rate Sees Further Drop

By MERRILL HARTSON
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's civilian unemployment rate fell to 8.4 percent in November, the lowest in two years, as a record number of Americans held jobs, the government reported today.

The seasonally adjusted jobless rate fell 0.4 of a percentage point from October's 8.8 percent level, and the government's survey of U.S. households showed that approximately 743,000 people found work.

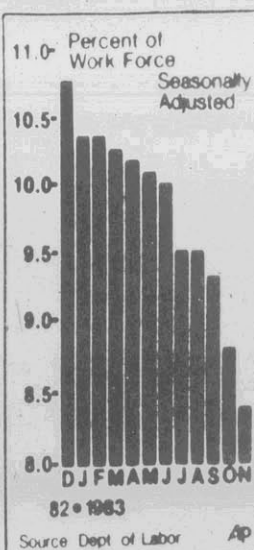

The number of those Americans officially categorized as unemployed shrank by 520,000 last month, to 9.4 million.

Since the U.S. civilian unemployment rate hit a post-Depression peak of 10.8 percent last December, with more than 12 million out of work, some 3.6 million people have found jobs, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The November rate was the lowest since the 8.3 percent recorded in November 1981. The total number of Americans with jobs last month reached 102,671,000, beating the previous high of 101,945,000 registered last September.

Many private economists were surprised the second substantial decline in unemployment in as many months.

In advance of today's report, three analysts said they felt there would be little change from October's 8.8 percent rate. October's rate was an improvement over September's 9.3 percent unemployment figure.

Janet L. Norwood, commissioner of labor statistics, said: "The economic recovery, in terms of employment and unemployment developments, compares quite favorably to past recoveries."

"The November statistics reported today continue to show strong and widespread employment gains and further declines in unemployment," she said in testimony prepared for delivery to a Joint Economic Committee of Congress.

An alternate unemployment rate, which includes the 1.7 million members of the armed forces stationed in the United States, dropped from 8.7 percent to 8.2 percent last month, the report said.

It was the eleventh consecutive month in which national joblessness has either declined or held steady.

The improvement last month was shared by virtually all population groups within the labor force, and joblessness among adult men and adult women "posted sharp declines," the report said.

The overall civilian rate tell despite the fact that approximately 220,000 people entered the labor force to compete for available work.

Some private economists had noted that October's half-a-percentage point drop was accompanied by the departure of more than a 500,000 people from the labor force. They attributed part of the decline in October's unemployment rate to the fact there was less competition for work.

Asked about this, John Bregger, head of the bureau's Division of Employment and Unemployment Analysis, said: "They [the private analysts] thought that just because the labor force was down, that everybody had simply given up and dropped out, and that caused the rate to go down."

"That was a false presumption," he said.

The report said that the jobless rate for teen-agers, which had shown little recovery from recessionary high levels until recent months, fell by 1.7 percentage points to 19.9 percent in November.

HEATER NEEDED

An oil heater is needed by a 79-year-old woman living on a fixed income. She is a terminal cancer patient who is presently hospitalized in Pitt County Memorial Hospital. She has been ready for discharge since Tuesday and will be released as soon as heating of her home and attendants can be arranged for. Anyone who can help is asked to call Evelyn Sanders in the Patient and Family Services Department of Pitt County Memorial Hospital, 757-4490.

ARMED ROBBERY INFO REQUESTED

The Greenville Police Department is appealing for information leading to the arrest of two men, one armed with a shotgun and both wearing ski masks, who robbed Wilber's Family Favorites on North Greene Street Thursday night about 9:45. Anyone having any information that might be helpful in solving this case is asked to call Sgt. John Ennis, 752-3342. Information will be paid for through the Pitt-Greenville Crimestoppers program and identities of those providing it will be kept confidential.

CONTACT STORE OWNER

The woman who bought two pictures at A-1 Imports here Thursday is asked to contact the store owner, Usha Gulati, as soon as possible.

Easement For Utilities OK'd

An agreement to grant the Greenville Utilities Commission an easement across the southern end of the Pitt Community College property was made at a Thursday meeting of the PCC Board of Trustees.

The easement was granted subject to a requirement that should the lines ever create interference with the school's mission, then PCC may require that GUC take necessary action to correct such interference.

In routine business, the board approved budget transfers and formal acceptance of gifts to the school.

After considerable discussion, the board agreed to take no action on a proposal to rezone the property across from the PCC campus. Also to be considered again at a later date is a review of a report, "PCC Facility Needs," which contains suggestions for solutions to space needs.

Kay Whichard, chairman of the board's personnel committee, reported that the committee has approved the employment of two personnel — Harry (Hal) Smith as a counselor-recruiter and SGS adviser, and Thomas Harding as a respiratory therapy instructor.

Chairman Clifton W. Everett Sr. reappointed board members to their current committee assignments, and acting President Charles Russell reported that the enrollment for the winter quarter is expected to be slightly higher than the 1982 winter quarter figure.

Building Permits For September Saw Decline

Building permits valued at $2,847,900 were issued in Greenville during September as construction activity dipped from the $3,880,310 recorded in August, according to state Labor Commissioner John Brooks.

Greenville ranked 11th among 44 cities of more than 10,000 population in the value of permits issued in September and was one of 13 cities to go over the $2 million mark. Brooks indicated in his report.

The commissioner said the Greenville total included $1,104,900 for 38 single-family dwellings, $304,525 for 18 multifamily units; $699,978 for 12 nonresidential structures and $738,497 for 48 additions and alterations. He said a total of 116 units were authorized in Greenville during the month.

Brooks said Pitt County issued permits amounting to $3,169,874 in September, including Greenville's construction figure. The Pitt total included $1,220,083 for 41 single-family units; $461,418 for 22 multifamily units; $706,978 for 13 nonresidential buildings; and $781,395 for 53 additions and alterations.

Statewide, the 44 reporting cities authorized 4,150 new units during September, down 4 percent from August's 4,321 but up 38.6 percent from last September's 2,994.

Estimated value of the units, at $158,448,299, rose 5.4 percent from $150,321,850 reported for August and 72.7 percent from the September 1982 total of $91,769,695.

Brooks said that compared to last September, the average construction cost for a single-family home dropped 8.9 percent, to $40,677 from $44,633. The average decreased 11.5 percent from August's $45,984.

September building permits in several eastern towns included: Elizabeth City, $354,600; Goldsboro, $195,000; Jacksonville, $3,587,612; New Bern, $1,421,464; Roanoke Rapids, $476,045; Rocky Mount, $1,397,654; Tarboro, $89,800; and Wilson, $1,203,901.

Annual Doll Show Set For Sunday

The annual doll show and tea will be held Sunday from 2-5 p.m. at The Salvation Army Citadel located on the Farmville Highway. The theme this year will be "It's A Small Small World."

Over 200 dolls have been dressed this year by various churches and individuals in the Greenville area. After the show, the dolls will be placed in the Salvation Army toy shop and will be given to needy children for Christmas.

A special feature at the show will be 15 dolls that are considered collectors items. These dolls may be purchased and all proceeds will be utilized by the Salvation Army to assist in the annual Christmas assistance program.

Approximately 200 toys were given to the Salvation Army by motorcycle clubs in eastern North Carolina for holiday distribution.

The show and tea are sponsored by the Salvation Army Women's Auxiliary. Lina Wynne is president of the group and other officers are Joyce Borchert, vice president, Ruth Webb, secretary, and Hilda Laughinghouse, treasurer. Revena Smith was chairman for the doll dressing project.

Dressing dolls this year were the following churches: Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist; Philippi Missionary Baptist; Immanuel Baptist; St. James United Methodist; University Church of Christ; Mt. Pleasant Christian;

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a mother who, when she drives her kids around, never bothers to tell them to buckle their seat belts? When I say something to her about it, she says her children are "covered by prayer"—that if anything did happen to them, it would be "the will of God." I am these children's aunt, and I am ...

WORRIED SICK

DEAR WORRIED: Inform the woman that seat belts are now mandatory in most states because statistics show that they have saved many lives and prevented serious injuries. And tell her that if she fails to provide her children with seat-belt protection and something were to happen to them, she could attribute it to her negligence—not God's will.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me set my mind straight. Our 20-year-old son and his 19-year-old cousin were always very close. We thought nothing of it until one day they came to us and said they were in love and wanted to marry.

Since there is no insanity in our family that we know of, we thought it was OK, but we soon found out that first cousins are not allowed to marry in the state of Massachusetts.

We talked to a lawyer, and he said about 20 states permit first cousins to marry, so they will go to one of those states to get married.

Here's my question: After the kids get married, will they be living in sin if they live in Massachusetts?

KATHLEEN

DEAR KATHLEEN: No. A valid marriage is valid in every state.

VOLUNTERISM AND LEADERSHIP...were discussed by Carol Ann Tucker, left, Thursday at the meeting of the Pitt County Extension Homemakers. She is shown with Mayo Rogers, center, and Deborah Cannon.

Volunterism, Leadership Talk Given Homemakers

The annual day meeting of Pitt County Extension Homemakers Association was held Thursday. A talk on volunteerism and leadership was given by Carol Ann Tucker, of the East Carolina University Regional Training Program.

"In looking at your eight programs of work, you are leaders, you volunteer and you are involved. What can I tell you?" she said. In spelling out the word, leader, Ms. Tucker gave each letter a definition including: listening, enthusiasm; appreciation; doer; expectation; and real. She was introduced by Rubelle Goin, immediate past Northeastern District president.

Greetings were extended to the group by Charles Gaskins, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, and Leroy James, county extension chairman.

"I bring you greetings from the Pitt County Board of Commissioners. Your 1983 program of work is tremendous — someone has done an important job where the community and family are concerned. The commissioners commend you on your program of work, we know what you are doing," said Gaskins.

"We appreciate what you all do in Pitt County. It takes a lot of people to run America and a lot to run Pitt County. Keep doing a good job. As we approach the holiday season and 1984, make it a good year," said James.

Mayo Rogers, president of the Extension Homemakers County Council, conducted the meeting and recognized special guests. The report of accomplishments was given by Deborah Cannon, first vice president.

Ms. Cannon reported on citizenship and community outreach; cultural arts, textiles and clothing; family relationships and child development; family resource management; health; housing; international; public relations; and others.

Mrs. Rogers recognized the Pactolus Extension Homemakers as having the most outstanding club project — Adopt-A-School. The women were also recognized for having obtained the most members. The traveling gavel was award them and each member was given a special pen by Mrs. Rogers and Ms. Cannon.

Extension homemakers having perfect attendant were also recognized. Those having perfect attendance of 32 years were Mae Briley and Margaret Briley, Sweet Gum Grove; 34 years, Geraldine Alexander, Sweet Gum Grove; 37 years, Clara Jane Hardee, Red Banks and Margaret Tetterton, Sweet Gum Grove; and Margaret Barnhill, Belvoir, 39 years.

It was announced that Blackie Smith is the International POW chairman for 1984.

Hostesses for the day were Margaret Barnhill, Mattie Norcott, Dot Simmons, Erlene Wynne and Lucy Barnhill.

Bernice Clark and Leolia Dixon assisted in registration and the devotional was given by Brenda Allen, second vice president. Mrs. Clark is treasurer and Mrs. Dixon is secretary.

No Change Needed

North Carolina tobacco farmers have cleared still another hurdle in their obstacle course toward survival with their price support program apparently safely intact for another year. Still to come, however, is the question of a quota for 1984.

The bill just signed by President Reagan isn't all that magnificent in its contents — for one thing, it gave corporations another year before they must sell their tobacco quotas — but it does give farmers some hope for the future. The price freeze on supports should help, too, in that grower costs will remain stable.

Now comes the true test: at what level will the secretary of agriculture set the 1984 quota? With the low yields of this past year, we don't foresee the need for any cuts. And with the carryover from the 1983 crop, no additional quota is needed. The status quo would seem to be in order.

Hope For Victims

Heart attack victims will have a better chance for survival now that a radio system for transmitting electrocardiogram impulses to Pitt County Memorial Hospital has been placed in operation.

The system was activated Thursday and rescue squads in Greenville, Winterville and Grifton have been equipped with five radio transmitters. The EKG signals can be transmitted to the hospital emergency department where an evaluation can be made by physicians on duty. The three squads equipped with the radio equipment have personnel trained to administer intravenous fluids.

The equipment was purchased at a cost of $49,616 with half that coming from the county and half in federal funds through the East Carolina Emergency Medical Systems Services Inc.

The benefits of the new system are obvious. Prompt treatment is heart attack cases is essential and the radio equipment can mean better treatment for victims.

Fate Was Cruel

WASHINGTON (AP) — In all the spate of tears and nostalgia about John F. Kennedy during the 20th anniversary of his murder, one figure was forgotten, just as he almost was forgotten at the time.

He was the president of the United States — the new president.

Looking back, one can sympathize with Lyndon B. Johnson. He assumed the presidency under shattering circumstances. He was bound to be met with hostility: he was the only person in America whose station in life clearly benefitted from the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

Fate was cruel, too, in another way. It was in Lyndon Johnson's Texas that Kennedy was killed. He'd gone to Texas on a political fence-mending mission at Johnson's behest.

Somehow, to many, Johnson almost became the villain. Those who loved Kennedy and mourned him were not so generous to concede that Johnson had to take over quickly. For this president, there could only be an awkward transition.

So everything he did those terrible first days was measured against impossible standards.

Wasn't it unseemly for Johnson to insist that the presidential oath of office be administered on Texas soil a mere hour and a half after Kennedy's death? That the oath be given on the presidential airliner with the curtains drawn? That the new president insist that Kennedy's widow, still wearing her bloodstained clothes, be a witness to the transfer of power?

No, it wasn't unseemly. Lyndon Johnson had every reason to be both cautious and frightened that afternoon in Texas. No one knew the killer or his motive; no one knew if the assassination were an act of madness or an act of war.

Suspicion between a vice president and his coterie and a president and his associates is nothing new in American politics, but suspicion had extra reason to exist in the Kennedy-Johnson camps.

Lyndon Johnson had been Kennedy's rival for the presidential nomination three years earlier.

Johnson, a product of the Congress a master of the Senate — truly king of the Hill — held Kennedy in minimum high regard, as they say in the Capitol. He saw Kennedy as a young, well-born, rich, cultured and ambitious dilettante who had no Senate accomplishments.

Kennedy had shocked everyone, especially his younger brother, Robert, by offering to make Johnson his running mate. It was ticket-balancing: LBJ was a Southerner and more conservative. Robert fought against the choice and did little to conceal his unhappiness, even when Johnson surprised many in the Kennedy camp by agreeing to trade a powerful office for a powerless one.

Now, with John Kennedy gone, Robert Kennedy, the attorney general, would soon be asked, along with the rest of the Cabinet, to transfer loyalties to the new president.

"From the moment Air Force One landed in Washington (after the assassination), and progressively in the days and weeks that followed, Bobby was ready to see slight to his brother, his brother's widow or himself in whatever Lyndon did or didn't do," writes Merle Miller in his book, "Lyndon: An Oral Biography."

According to historian Francis Loewenheim of Rice University, Johnson said in an interview that Robert Kennedy blocked him from using the Oval Office in the first few days following the assassination and even — Johnson believed — wondered if there were a way to keep him from automatically assuming the presidency. Johnson cited no evidence, in the 1969 interview, to back up the claim, but it still stands as testimony to their mutual hard feelings in those days of tragedy and tension.

Despite the obvious obstacle posed by Kennedy ill-will and national misgivings over his likely course, Johnson assumed office with skill and professionalism.

Sure-handedly, he established the continuity of government, conveyed the impression of a man up to the job and committed himself to two Kennedy proposals that had become mired in Congress — to "get this country moving again" through a big tax cut (heresy in those days) and to assure black people of their rightful place in American life through the enactment of what remains a keystone law, the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

At a time of grief and paralysis, Lyndon Johnson chose to set aside regional provincialism and internal division to become president of all the people.

RALEIGH — U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms is using a photograph of a family killed in the Korean Air Lines incident to raise money for his re-election campaign and it has some of his supporters upset with him.

Helms was on KAL flight 015 to Seoul on the August night that a Soviet fighter shot down Seoul-bound KAL flight 007. While the planes used in those flights were being refueled in Anchorage, Alaska, Helms met Mr. and Mrs. Neil Grenfell and their two daughters in the airport lounge. The Grenfell family died several hours later when the Soviets shot down the unarmed Korean passenger airliner.

In a fund-raising letter dated Oct. 4, Helms poignantly recounted his visit with the Grenfell family. He told how he introduced himself and began to play a game with the two children, aged 3 and 5. "Maybe you have played it with your children," he writes in the letter. "An imaginary oil truck runs down their arms and makes deliveries at an imaginary house at the end of each finger, each little hand a neighborhood. It tickles."

Helms went on to tell how, when it was time for KAL 007 to leave, "the little girls hugged this stranger's neck. Kissed him on the cheek. Then, waving and blowing kisses, they scampered through the door with their parents and boarded that plane."

Helms moves from this story to a denunciation of the Soviets, of liberal Democrats and of the newspapers who criticized his proposals responding to the incident. At the end of the letter, he asks for a contribution. "Can you help once more with an especially significant contribution? Without your help, our work cannot continue."

Also included in the mailing were a photograph of the Grenfell family, printed on a separate card, and a return envelope for making contributions.

Claude Allen, press aide for Helms' re-election campaign, says the campaign never asked for, nor received, permission from the dead family's survivors to use the photograph. He said they obtained it from a North Carolina newspaper that had received it as a wire service photo and ran it with a story about the airplane.

Allen said the ethical question of using a dead family's photograph to raise political funds did not come up until a Rochester, N.Y., newspaper called him in mid-October. The Grenfells' closest survivors live in Rochester.

Although the Grenfell survivors refused to comment to the Rochester Times-Union, one of Helms' Rochester area supporters did. Edward Zuitvogel, who said he had contributed to Helms' campaigns before, was outraged when he received the fund-raising letter, according to the newspaper.

"I don't think anybody should use a tragedy like this to ask for money," Zuitvogel is quoted as saying. "He's using it to say, 'If you give me money it won't happen again.' But how ... does he know?"

Unfavorable response to the letter wasn't limited to New York. One eastern North Carolina Republican recently told this reporter that she was shocked by the poor taste exhibited by the letter. A very active Republican from Raleigh said she was "disappointed" by the letter which she had not seen but which she had heard about.

Allen defended the letter and the use of the photograph. The letter was an "information piece," he said. In a sense, it was a newsletter for Helms' supporters. If it was OK to use the picture in newspapers, then it should be OK to use it with this letter. He noted that the four-page letter had only the one-paragraph reference to a contribution.

Public Forum

To the editor:

This is in answer to Marvin Wells' letter to the editor published Sunday, Nov. 20, 1983.

First, Mr. Wells made several statements regarding changes made in the Greenville Police Department by Chief Holmes. I would like to comment on one statement, and that one to be a fact: The statement was "within the first 20 days of Holmes' administration a lieutenant with 29 years was lost." This lieutenant referred to was R.B. Elks, and his retirement has nothing to do with Chief Holmes or any other change of administration.

I want you, Mr. Wells, and the public to know that Lt. Elks has a total of 30 years and 9 months service time (9 months of which was sick leave never taken). His retirement was planned two years ago and he was looking forward to this time with much excitement and enjoyment, but timing of a big changeover of chief administrator in the department made it unpleasant because the public was not made aware of this faithful public servant's achievements nor loyal service to his community.

He was the senior officer in the department. He was a recipient of the Police Officer of the Year Award by the Pilot Club in 1973. He is a Christian, a great father and grandfather, and a wonderful husband. But due to the change in administration at this time, his retirement date arrived and he was allowed to step down with no recognition by the department nor the city.

It is true that Chief Holmes never knew this man and bestowed no honors nor recognition on him, but he, Lt. Elks, has nothing to be ashamed of.

So, Mr. Wells — Chief Holmes did not have anything to do with this one lieutenant leaving the department and a law enforcement career.

To the editor:

I would like to thank The Daily Reflector and anyone who had anything to do with bringing the United States Air Force Tactical Air Command Band to East Carolina University recently.

This good musical program had variety, offering something to please all music lovers. There was plenty of enthusiasm, both on the stage and in the audience.

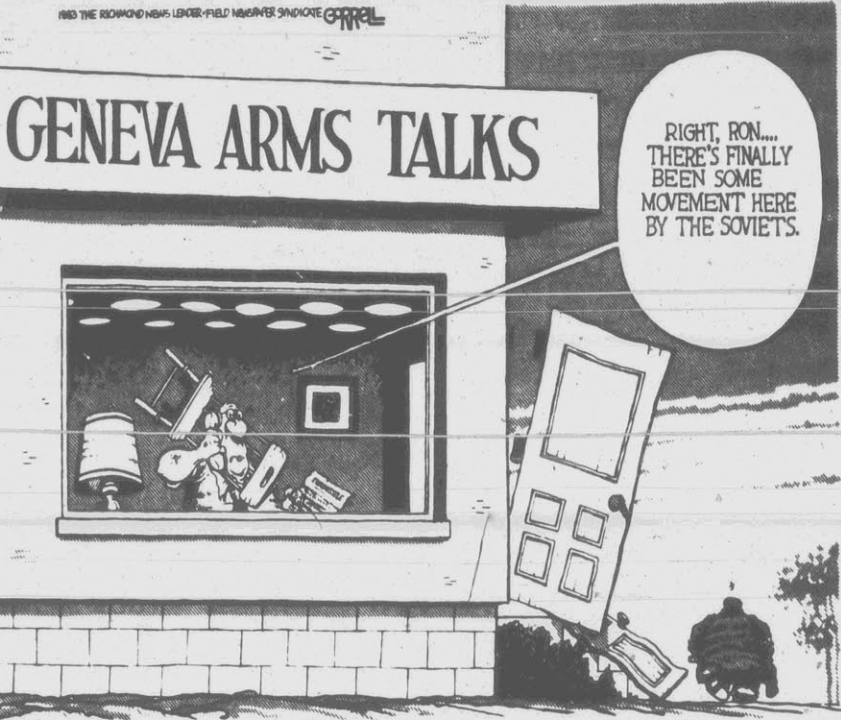

Again, thanks to all who provided this musical treat which made a happy evening for many people.

The Voice That Leads

My last column dealt with subliminal voices. This one deals with liminal ones, we are now entering the age of recorded messages. I didn't realize how pervasive it was until I had to fly to Atlanta the other day. After I deplaned I took a long walk and then a long escalator into the bowels of the earth, and waited for a two-car train to take me several stops to another long escalator which would bring me back up to the crust to claim my baggage.

The train pulled in and a voice said, "This is the B station. Please enter and go to the center of the train."

This was a reasonable request, but as I followed the mob trying to board, my carry-on bag got caught and I held the door so I wouldn't be dragged along the train. The voice said, and I swear I am not making this up, "Someone is holding the door and preventing the rest of you from moving."

"I can't help it," I shouted. "My strap is caught."

The voice sounded angrier. "Someone is holding the door. The train cannot start."

I finally broke the strap and squeezed on the train. Everyone was staring at me. I tried to smile. "It wasn't my fault," I said defensively. A dozen hostile eyes were on me. The voice said, "Please do not stand near the door as we approach station A."

"I'm not standing near the door," I shouted at the loudspeaker. "Does anyone see me standing near the door?" The other passengers looked away in disgust.

By the time I got to station A I was in a cold sweat trying to figure out how to get off the train by not standing near the door. I made it to the platform just as the doors closed behind me.

Then I went to rent a car. It was a new sedan and when I started it up a voice came out of the dashboard and said, "Your safety belt is not fastened." I could have sworn it was the same voice who bawled me out on the train. I quickly fastened the safety belt. The voice repeated itself, "Your safety belt is not fastened." I undid it and fastened it again.

The voice repeated "Your safety belt is not fastened."

After being told two more times I called over the rental attendant. "This car keeps telling me my safety belt isn't fastened."

"Don't pay any attention to it," he said. "It's been telling our customers that for three days."

I drove to my hotel. By the time I got there I was smashing my fist against the dashboard.

I checked into one of those huge glass greenhouses with the elevators on the outside of the building. As soon as I got in the voice said, "There is no smoking on the elevator. Press the button just once. This elevator does not go to the roof garden. If you wish to go to the roof garden, take the elevators on the other side of the lobby."

"I don't want to go to the roof garden, and I'm not smoking," I yelled. A couple took one look at me and got off.

I finally got to my room and locked the door. The first thing I did was search it for loudspeakers. If they were there they were carefully hidden. Then I called down for room service. A recorded voice answered, "All lines for room service are busy now. Please hold on until someone is available to take your order." I slammed the phone down.

Then I turned on the TV set. It was the same voice. "In case of fire follow these instructions carefully." I turned off the set.

There was nothing left but to go to sleep. I left a wakeup call for 7 a.m. The phone woke me up. "It is 7 a.m."

"Thank you," I said. "What's the weather like outside?"

The voice said, "It is 7 a.m."

"Look, is it cold or raining or snowing or what?"

"It is 7 a.m."

"Hello. This is a guest in room 1209. Is anybody there? This is a guest in room 1209. Is anybody there?"

The voice said once more, "It is 7 a.m.," and then there was a click and dead silence. There was nobody there.

Luncheon Raises Some Eyebrows

ly turned down the offer.

A prime mover and shaker for decades in Congress and the Nixon administration, Laird has long warned the U.S. against playing "Israel's attorney" and thus alienating the Arabs. But that did not dissuade Reagan from giving him the nod.

Also pushed for the post that Donald Rumsfeld finally accepted was Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, but neither Reagan nor top White House aides wanted him. Officials disagree whether Kissinger himself actively sought the job.

The damaging dispute over whether Gov. James Thompson or longtime Reaganite Don Totten would run the Reagan-Bush re-election campaign in the crucial state of Illinois was settled without the help of White House chief of staff James Baker III, an indicator that his hand may not be all that close to the 1984 campaign.

Thompson got the nod over Totten when Sen. Paul Laxalt, the campaign chairman, and campaign manager Ed Rollins decided the governor was too important a figure to alienate. Reagan would personally have preferred old friend Totten.

Baker learned of the decision after it had been made, a non-involvement feeding speculation that he is indeed eyeing an exit from the White House sometime soon. One job insiders think he might be eyeing: U.N. ambassador, the post soon to be vacated by Jeane Kirkpatrick.

Shots Fired In Wilmington Strike

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Pistol shots erupted during the fifth week of a strike against DePoortere Corp., but officials say no injuries were reported.

Witnesses, most of them members of the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers who were picketing the plant Thursday, said a blue pickup truck leaving the plant at the 3 p.m. shift change slowed as it came up to marchers.

James Grady said pickets were approaching the truck, yelling "scab" at the driver, when he noticed the gun.

"I went up to the window and stared down the barrel of that gun," Grady said. "Then I think I tried to hit him. I don't know what I did, but I think I tried to get my hands on him."

The man then reportedly fired the gun, then drove onto nearby Division Drive, where he stopped and shot several times at a crowd across the street, which included a news crew from WWAY TV. He then drove off, followed moments later by sheriff's deputies.

Sheriff's investigators said they were not sure whether the gun was loaded with live ammunition or blanks, but they found a .22-caliber shell casing.

"I think I was closest to him ... and it looked like I was in the line of fire, so I just hit the ground," said Tom Fuldner, a reporter for WWAY. "I think I was the only one who did. I figured I was a big target."

Fuldner said investigators viewed the video tape of the incident, taken by cameraman David Powell, in an effort to identify the driver. He described the driver as in his late 20s and wearing glasses. Fuldner and others said the gun looked like a German-made Luger.

In an apparently unrelated incident minutes before the shooting, witnesses said someone driving a blue automobile attempted to back into the crowd of strikers.

"The only reason he didn't (hurt anyone) was 'cause everybody run," said one witness, who refused to be identified.

After the 11 p.m. shift change Wednesday, a 45-year-old man was cut when a brick crashed through the window of his pickup truck as he drove along the driveway of the plant, according to Capt. L.P. Hayes of the New Hanover County Sheriff's Department. The man did not require emergency treatment, Hayes said.

About 20 minutes later, bricks shattered the passenger-side window and windshield of another worker's car, causing about $400 damage, Hayes said.

Sheriff Joseph McQueen said he will station deputies at the plant before shift changes "until the problem is solved."

The violence comes on top of news that contract talks between DePoortere and Local 1676 have again halted after three negotiating sessions this week.

David Stewart, personnel manager for the textile firm, said Thursday morning that while the union has modified its demands somewhat, "it's still more than we can afford." He would not say whether the company had changed its offer.

Robert Jones, president of the local, said the union had backed off "slightly" from its original demands "to see what would happen." The company, he said, has not changed its contract terms.

Negotiators did not meet Thursday and were not expected to meet today, Stewart said, adding that he didn't know when the next bargaining session would be scheduled.

The 230 members of the local union have been on strike since Oct. 26, when their previous contract expired and after rejecting two company contract offers.

Union officials said they originally were asking for a 12.5 percent increase — 10 percent in wages and 2.5 percent to cover increased insurance costs.

The union in March agreed to take a 20 percent pay cut after DePoortere announced it would have to close without such a concession.

Company spokesmen have refused to discuss their offer, but union representatives said the pay increases proposed for 1984 and 1985 would be wiped out by higher insurance premiums.

'Too Tall' For Army Service

KALKASKA, Mich. (AP) — Teresa Young wants to join the Army. But instead of a uniform, all she's received is "a bunch of hassles" because the military says she's 2 inches too tall.

The Army so far has refused to waive its 6-foot height limit for female recruits to accommodate the 6-foot-2 Miss Young.

"They'd rather have a short dumb one in there than a smart tall one," said her disgruntled stepfather, Bud Hamilton. "She wants to better herself and help her country and what does she get? A bunch of hassles."

Miss Young, 18, who graduated this year from Kalkaska High School, says she wants to study business administration or medicine in the Army.

When she went to her pre-enlistment physical in Detroit, Miss Young was told that although she was in good health, she had failed the physical because she had a "medical condition" — she was 2 inches too tall. Men must be shorter than 6-foot-8 to enlist.

Miss Young said the Army told her her "medical condition" could be aggravated by "the peculiar rigors of military training."

"This is the only time in my life I ever wished I was a couple of inches shorter," she said.

Her mother, Patricia Hamilton, scoffed. "The Army must figure the taxpayers won't get their money's worth out of her if they have to spend a little more money to lower her heels."

"I really never thought her height would be any problem. I still don't see why it should be," said her recruiter, Sgt. Tom Olson of Traverse City, who spent a fruitless three months trying to get the limit waived for Miss Young and now says he's going to try again.

While the Air Force, Navy and Marines have more lenient requirements when it comes to height, she wants to stick with the Army.

"I want to be a soldier," she said.

Lake At Record Level

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Great Salt Lake has reached its highest level in nearly a century and threatens to cause $480 million in damage to lakeshore property by spring, officials say.

On Wednesday, the lake was measured at 4,205.3 feet above sea level, the U.S. Geological Survey said, noting it last reached that height in 1888. The rise is attributed to above-normal precipitation and low evaporation.

Lavelle Found Guilty Of Perjury, Obstructing

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rita Lavelle, who insisted all along that she had told the truth and never tried to obstruct a congressional inquiry, says she is "very, very disappointed" that a jury believed otherwise.

The former Environmental Protection Agency official was convicted Thursday night on four of five felony counts lodged against her. She will be sentenced Jan. 9 and faces a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison and a fine of $19,000.

After an eight-day trial, the federal court jury convicted Ms. Lavelle on all of the counts alleging she lied about her dealings at the EPA with her former employer, Aerojet-General Corp.

She was found innocent on one count of lying when she denied playing politics with the $1.6 billion hazardous waste cleanup fund she managed.

Ms. Lavelle, 36, remained composed while each guilty verdict was read but began crying after the jury had left and she was alone in the courtroom with her lawyers.

"I am very, very disappointed," she told reporters outside the courthouse. "Unfortunately, that is about all I can say at this point."

Asked if she would appeal, her attorney, James Bierbower, said, "Who knows?"

Defense attorneys had called Ms. Lavelle a "scapegoat." Out of all the accusations of political favoritism and conflict of interest swirling around the agency earlier this year, she was the only EPA official to face criminal charges.

The Justice Department investigated others but said it had found insufficient evidence to support prosecution of former EPA Administrator Anne Burford and seven other top-ranking EPA officials.

Asked if Ms. Lavelle was a scapegoat, government prosecutor William Hendricks said, "not at all."

"It is our belief that our prosecutorial resources were used in an effective and efficient manner and we have no regrets," Hendricks said.

Asked if there might be other indictments, Hendricks said there would be "no further actions."

However, Rep. James Scheuer, one of a half-dozen congressional committee chairmen who led investigations into the agency, said the EPA case should not be closed.

"One hopes that the prospect of a large fine and possible jail term will encourage Miss Lavelle to cooperate and provide details on her many contacts with White House political operatives, a line of inquiry conspicuously avoided by the Justice Department's investigation and prosecution," said Scheuer, D-N.Y.

The four counts for which Ms. Lavelle was convicted involved the date she first learned that her former employer, Aerojet, had dumped wastes at the Stringfellow Acid Pits in California.

The government charged that Ms. Lavelle was told on May 28, 1982, and ignored repeated warnings to stop handling the Stringfellow case until June 17. During this time period, the government said, Ms. Lavelle called an Aerojet official to alert him to EPA's findings in an effort to "ingratiate" herself with the company in the hopes of landing a well-paying job once she left the EPA.

Ms. Lavelle maintained that she did not consider the May 28 discussion conclusive and waited until June 17 to stop handling the case after further evidence was presented to her.

Ms. Lavelle was convicted of lying about this twice in congressional testimony in February, of signing a false statement about Aerojet on Dec. 13 and of obstructing a congressional inquiry by sending this statement to Congress.

The jury acquitted Ms. Lavelle on the charge connected to most of the accusations last winter — that the national program to clean up hundreds of hazardous waste dumps had been placed on an "election track" with spending decisions based on helping Republican candidates and hurting others.

A string of government witnesses testified that Ms. Lavelle pushed cleanup actions before the November 1982 elections to aid Sens. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., and John Danforth, R-Mo., and threatened to "hit" Democrat Edmund G. Brown Jr., then governor of California, by withholding an EPA grant.

'Farm' Raising Gold Fish Crop

By ELISSA McCARRY
Associated Press Writer
REIDSVILLE, N.C. (AP)

When Maurice and Lusanna Vaughan decided to raise oriental gold fish for a living, the first thing they had to do was find a climate where the rare fish could thrive.

The Vaughans chose Reidsville in the Piedmont section of North Carolina because the climate was, the most like that of Tokyo.

After a year in business, Piedmont Fisheries has 4,000 goldfish for sale. The Vaughans raise 23 varieties of goldfish — more than any other fish company in the country.

"This seemed to be the perfect spot as far as climate," Mrs. Vaughan said. "And the fact that the fish are doing so well proves we made a good choice."

The Vaughans opened their business last year after moving to Reidsville from Pittsburgh. They had raised goldfish as a hobby.

The fish, which range in color from red to white to black-spotted, come from Japan, Indonesia, China and Thailand. Most of them are about five inches long.

The Vaughans breed the fish themselves at Piedmont Fisheries. The 400 breeder fish they have were shipped to them from the Orient.

The couple raise the fish in 42 outdoor concrete tanks.

"Most goldfish are raised in dirt ponds but these are rare fish," Mrs.

Vaughan said. The fish stay outside yearround because of the area's relatively mild climate.

The fish eat a specially prepared high proteum diet, she said.

Because the fish are rare, they are more expensive than ordinary goldfish. They sell for $3.50 to $4 per fish compared to about 50 cents apiece for ordinary goldfish. The Vaughans sell their fish to pet stores across the country.

Republicans Expect Reagan's '84 Announcement In January

By MAUREEN SANTINI
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — After delaying for months the formal announcement of his intention to seek a second White House term, President Reagan is preparing to make it official in late January. Republican sources say. Congress returns Jan. 23 and Reagan's State of the Union message to the House and Senate is likely to follow that by perhaps a day or so. The president's re-election announcement will occur "very close to" that speech, according to a White House source. However, the source, who demanded anonymity, cautioned that plans could be changed because "it's a very fluid situation."

Aides are encouraging Reagan to make his announcement from the Oval Office in a televised speech to the nation since that was considered a more presidential setting than, for example, a political rally.

So far, the president has been reluctant to reveal his political plans, explaining that from the day he announces everything he does will be perceived as political. He has said only that he'll announce his intentions before his 73rd birthday on Feb. 6.

However, the suspense about what his decision will be was over long ago for those who know him best. While there is quite a bit of discussion in his camp about how, where and when the president should announce, no one there is entertaining the possibility he will not run.

White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III has said repeatedly for several months that he is certain Reagan will seek a second term.

Some of Reagan's political aides originally were urging that an announcement be made in late December or early January to coincide with filing deadlines for the New Hampshire and Illinois primary elections. But that idea apparently has been rejected.

Candidates who plan to enter the New Hampshire primary, the first in the nation, must sign a formal, legal statement of candidacy by Jan. 3. Those who want their name on the Illinois ballot must sign such a statement by Dec. 30.

Although the president has no primary opposition, it is unlikely he would forgo those primaries so he may sign the necessary papers before he has actually announced his candidacy. He already has signed papers making him a legal candidate in the eyes of the Federal Election Commission.

Several top members of Reagan's campaign staff, as well as his informal political advisers, met in Los Angeles this week to write out a campaign strategy.

While no White House aides were involved in the meetings, which began Wednesday; it was believed the political advisers will schedule a meeting with their White House counterparts to present their strategy document next week.

Town Gift Means She Can See, Find A Job

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Margie Brady had lived in shadow since she was born without an iris 30 years ago. But thanks to a gift from a generous town, today "everything is clear" — and ahead she sees her merriest Christmas, schooling and a decent job.

"It's like being born again," said the 30-year-old woman whose vision was corrected this week from legal blindness to 95 percent normal with a combination of lenses, prisms and shades that act as a telescope and eye protector.

With no income but a Social Security disability check, she received the $3,200 custom-designed eyewear, much like frame-mounted opera glasses, only after folks in Cookeville, Tenn., raised money and the Pennsylvania College of Optometry donated services.

Ms. Brady expressed thanks in an interview Thursday at the college's Feinbloom Clinic, adding, "Seeing is going to make my life a whole lot better."

She was born with an ailment known as congenital aniridia, which means she has pupils with no iris — the pigmented membrane whose muscles adjust the pupil's size to regulate light taken in. Being extremely sensitive to light and sun, she could see only glary images.

"Additionally, her retina didn't develop properly and this created additional reduced vision," said Dr. Richard Brilliant, who helped fit Ms. Brady with the special seeing devices — a three-tier system that includes sun lenses originally invented for astronauts in the harsh brightness of space.

Medicare doesn't pay for such optometric services, and the costs were too much for Ms. Brady's family.

So two of her aunts in Cookeville, a town of 18,000 about 70 miles east of Nashville, decided to see what the town could do to help.

Cookeville merchants donated goods, which the aunts auctioned to raise $1,400. Lions International helped with a donation. And finally, the optometry college reduced its tab to erase the remaining amount owed.

Reading even an eye chart for the first time is "a big thrill," Ms. Brady says, adding she can spot birds in trees, and is preparing for her greatest Christmas and New Year.

The complex seeing devices were an early present.

The first part of the three-tier system is an aperture-control soft contact lens with which Brilliant said "we actually created an artificial iris and pupil that eliminates part of the glare and light sensitivity."

"The second aspect is the camera lens bi-optic which is a miniaturized inch-and-a-half telescope tube made specifically for the patient," Brilliant said. "It is composed of nine lenses and four prisms that gives better distant vision, plus a lower prescription lens that allows her to see as she walks around. The tube is fixed on a regular pair of glasses."

"The third system is two pairs of special sun lenses," one pair to be worn with the protruding telescopic lenses and the other with contact lenses alone, he said.

The devices correct her vision to 20-30 in both eyes compared to her previous 20-240 in the left eye and 20-700 in the right.

That's clear enough to see the future quite differently, said the woman who once made it through training as a beautician only to lose her part-time job because dim vision made her too slow.

"I want to get a job where I can support myself," Ms. Brady said, hoping first to go back to school for training in the computer field.

"I know what it means to be able to see. It makes life a whole lot better," she said.

She added, "Now everything is clear."

Join Critics Of Grenada Action

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Council of Churches Executive Board joined other ecumenical groups on Thursday in condemning the military invasion of Grenada by the United States.

The council and other ecumenical groups adopted a state resolution and is similar to a statement passed by the New York headquartered National Council of Churches.

That resolution said the invasion of Grenada constituted a "dangerous precedent" and was an alarming "injection of U.S. military forces into another country and the violation of its sovereignty."

The North Carolina version of the statement passed 12-4 during a board meeting. About 25 board members attended the 5-hour meeting, but only 16 were present when the resolution was voted on.

The Raleigh-based council has more than 25 member denominations.

Speculate Fossil That Of Fabled 'Missing Link'

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — In a dry river bed in Kenya, scientists have discovered fossil bones that may have belonged to a creature who was the distant great-grandfather of man and all the great apes.

The 17 million-year-old remains from the lower Miocene period of Earth history could belong to the much-sought-after common ancestor of humans and apes, a key figure in evolutionary theory.

The National Geographic Society announced Thursday that an expedition it sponsored found the important fossils in an isolated region of northern Kenya called Buluk.

The scientists, led by Richard Leakey of the National Museums of Kenya and Alan Walker of Johns Hopkins University, made the discoveries while on the first major expedition to the area.

Dr. Meave Leakey, wife of the co-leader, found part of a lower jaw from the creature in July during preliminary digging along the weathered-out river channel. The full expedition found an upper jaw, teeth and a few bones from below the head during August and September.

Researchers said the newly discovered creature was quite similar to an ape in appearance, with a very short face like that of an orangutan. The creature probably was about the size of a male chimpanzee or female orangutan, standing about four feet high and weighing between 120 pounds and 150 pounds.

If the bones prove as old as preliminary chemical dating indicates, the researchers said, then the creature could represent the ancestral bridge between man and the great apes in Africa and orangutans and their predecessors in Asia.

The initial dating of between 16 million years and 18 million years is supported by finding nearby animal fossils whose age is known from other locations, the researchers said.

Dr. David Pilbeam of Harvard University, an expert on ancient apes, called the discovery "a major find."

"The Buluk specimen date

from about the time Africa and Asia were linked because of continental drift," Pilbeam said in a telephone interview. "At that time, species crossed both ways and this could have been the time the ancestors of the orangutan moved into Asia."

Scientists said the new discoveries could be explained in one of four ways: the specimen is the ancestor of all apes on both continents as well as man, it is only ancestor to African apes and man, it is solely the ancestor of orangutans, or it is the predecessor of another branch of apes that died out early.

Walker said he favors the first alternative because of certain characteristics in the bones and teeth. But he cautioned that confirmation awaits discovery of more specimen and detailed examination of the samples.

The new fossils are very similar to a creature known as sivapithecus, one of a group of apelike creatures known as the ramapithecines. The oldest fossils of these types have been found only in Asia and date back between 8 million years and 13 million years ago.

Because the new specimen are much older and were found in Africa, they support the theory that all apes arose in Africa, scientists said. No fossils of a possible orangutan ancestor have previously been found in Africa.

Pollution Curb Is Seeing Opposition

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A regional planning agency's plan to limit pollution of Falls and Jordan lakes is meeting opposition from some municipalities and developers.

"With no pun intended, it blows us right out of the water," said Paul Norby, Durham planning director. Norby said the proposals by the Triangle J Council of Governments staff would limit growth around the Research Triangle Park.

Meanwhile, Orange County Commissioner Ben Lloyd said that while he's "a proponent of clean water ... some of these proposals are overly restrictive. The restrictions will devalue property and possibly the public will have to pay the bills."

The proposals were presented to officials of affected municipalities for the first time Wednesday. The proposals would not become official policy until adopted by the COG Board of Delegates to.

Under the proposals, building would be severely restricted in a designated "critical area" around Falls and Jordan lakes. The critical area would then be surrounded by an outer buffer with fewer restrictions.

The plans also call for anti-pollution controls around the basins of the lakes.

Within the critical areas, development would be allowed to cover only 6 percent of lots and only residential development would be allowed. Sewage treatment plants would also be prohibited in the critical areas.

Industry not using, producing or storing hazardous materials would be allowed in the outer buffer area.

Schedule

Regular monthly worship services will be held at Sweet Hope Free Will Baptist Church Sunday at 11 a.m. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. James Nobles, music will be provided by the Sweet Hope Youth Choir.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1983

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until noon, you need to further work out a course of action under which you can gain the outlets which are important to your development. You have considerable energy to handle any problems.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Meet those obligations you have where business people are concerned in the morning. Then get out to social events.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Reach a fine agreement with partners early in the day. Trying to please your mate in the evening is wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get at the jobs ahead of you early and complete them so that later you have time to see persons you want to impress.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Get future recreational activities well arranged early in the day. Get right at the jobs awaiting your attention.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Get tasks done at home, but don't take any risks or get into arguments there. Later enjoy the pleasure that most appeals to you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Talk over your plans for the future with an associate in the morning. Later be at home with kind and have a delightful time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get busy at collecting money owed to you. Pay pressing bills. Go to an expert if you are in need of advice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have many little personal tasks to handle in the morning, so do them quickly. Then concentrate on how to have a greater income.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Think over what it is you most want from the personal angle in the morning. Later go after such goals with alacrity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Look to a good friend to give you a different, but workable angle so that you can gain a wish important to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be sure to follow suggestions of one who is vital to your well-being in the morning. Gain personal desires.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Early study new plans you have in mind, but don't put them in operation until you have discussed them with bigwigs.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will devise a wise plan for the future and be able to make a big success of life. Be encouraging and give as fine a course of education as you can, slanting it toward business administration. Religion is a must early in life.

The Stars impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Burroughs Wellcome Donates Units

Burroughs Wellcome Co. has announced plans to donate three mobile office units to Pitt Community College, Greenville schools and the Junior Achievement Program.

Each unit, a mobile home outfitted as office space, will provide 2,000 square feet of space and is valued at approximately $50,000. Plans are being made to donate the mobile offices in early 1984, according to John McConney, general manager of Burroughs Wellcome's Greenville site.

The unit given to Greenville schools will be used for a model school science and mathematics program. Pitt Community College plans to use its mobile office for training in electronics. The Junior Achievement Program will use its mobile office as its headquarters.

Christmas Party Planned

The Greenville ASPO/Lamaze Christmas party will be held at Cherry Court Apartments clubhouse Sunday from 2-4 p.m. Dr. Garry Levine will provide guitar music.

Santa Claus will visit during the afternoon. Families should bring a small, wrapped gift for their children.

Democrats Name Ensley

Dr. Donald Ensley of Greenville has been named chairman of an affirmative action committee appointed by state Democratic Party Chairman David Price. The committee will help implement the party's delegate selection process for 1984.

Other local representatives are Janice Faulkner of Greenville and Betty Speir of Bethel. The committee will sponsor an information and outreach program to encourage full participation in Democratic caucuses and conventions at the precinct, county, district, state and national levels.

For more information about the North Carolina Delegate Selection Plan, contact State Democratic Headquarters, P.O. Box 12196, Raleigh, NC 27605, or call 821-2777.

Moskop To Be Radio Guest

Dr. John C. Moskop, a member of Physicians for Social Responsibility, will discuss the social and medical consequences of a nuclear war on "ECU Concepts" at 8 a.m. Sunday on radio station WOOW, 1290 on the radio dial.

A professor of Humanities in the ECU School of Medicine, Moskop will also discuss the recent television movie, "The Day After," which depicted life in a Midwestern American city following a nuclear disaster.

"ECU Concepts" is a 15-minute program produced weekly by ECU, and is hosted by James Rees of the ECU Department of Theater Arts.

Variety Benefit Show Planned

Joyner Library will sponsor a variety show to benefit the Pitt County Foster Childrens Fund Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Jenkins Fine Arts Building. A minimum donation of $2 will be charged.

Students Tour Local Plant

Twenty-four Pitt County school students and 12 Greenville school students toured Burroughs Wellcome Co. recently as part of the Pitt-Greenville Regional Eastern Carolina Affirmative Student Training Program.

Eighth graders from Chicod Elementary School and Wellcome Middle School and ninth graders from E.B. Aycock Junior High School toured the company's Greenville site.

The RECAST program in Greenville and Pitt County is a function of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce Economic Education Committee.

Center Offers Free Service

The Bishop Payton Child Learning Center of Stokes is offering one free day of child care service during the month of December. For further information on this offer, interested persons may call the director, Margie L. Smith, at 752-9329 or 757-1197.

Cox Plans Holiday Program

The annual A.G. Cox Christmas program will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the school's multipurpose room.

This year's program will feature the chorus, the band and the strings orchestra. A book fair will be held in the library before and after the program.

Phi Beta Kappa Initiates Two

Two Greenville students at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill were among 77 students initiated recently into Phi Beta Kappa, the nation's highest scholastic honor society.

Patricia Lynn Bath, a senior music major, and Carlton David Johnson, a senior zoology major, were both initiated into the society in ceremonies held in Gerrard Hall.

Miss Bath is the daughter of Dr. Charles Bath and Mrs. Joanne Bath of 1304 Oakview Drive. Johnson is the son of Dr. Thomas Hatcher of 1304 Kingsbrook Road.

Guilty Plea To Assault

HICKORY, N.C. (AP) — The chief U.S. probation officer for the western district of North Carolina pleaded guilty Thursday to assaulting a North Carolina Highway Patrol trooper.

Wayne H. Carson, 41, of Bryson City received a six-month suspended prison sentence and one year probation. He was also ordered to pay a $100 fine plus court costs and to pay $114.59 restitution to Trooper C.T. Watson.

Watson stopped Carson the night of Oct. 12 on Interstate 40 near Hickory after clocking Carson's car at 73 mph and was later assaulted, authorities said. Watson was treated and released from Catawba Memorial Hospital after the incident.

Carson was also found guilty of driving while impaired, for which he was fined $100 plus court costs and ordered to perform 24 hours of community service work, according to Clerk of Court Diane Williams. Carson also was ordered to surrender his driver's license for one year unless he attends an alcohol driving school, which would allow him to reclaim his license after six months.

Mrs. Williams said the speeding violation apparently had been dismissed because there was no mention of the charge in court records.

Carson, appointed to the district post July 29 by U.S. District Court Judge Woodrow W. Jones, is responsible for 32 counties in the western part of the state.

Who is NEC?

While NEC is not a household name in the United States, it is an institution in Japan where the Company owns more than half of the personal computer market and is one of the world's top ten electronics manufacturers.

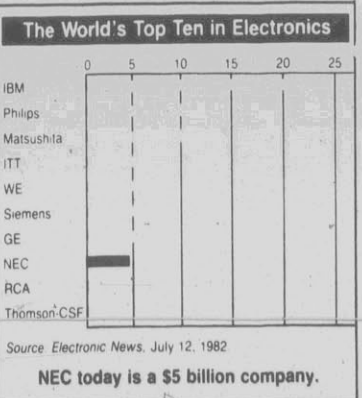

This makes NEC larger than most of its competition in the home video products category, but NEC's size becomes especially relevant when you consider the Company is entirely devoted to electronics. (NEC does not make elevators, automobiles, steel, etc.) Thus, NEC's vast experience in related fields ranging from semiconductor manufacturing to digital satellite telecommunications is brought to bear on the design of the video products you enjoy in your home.

City Council...

it appears the school will not take a stand.

The council gave its approval to a City Code amendment which makes animal traps available for loan to the public, upon written application to the division of animal control.

The ordinance stipulates that: the device may only be used to trap wild or stray animals; all animals trapped must be released at the location where the animal was trapped, or delivered or turned over to the division, with traps checked at least once every 24 hours and trapped animals released or delivered; traps must be checked out for a one-week period which may be extended for a second week; and, before a trap is set, the person setting the device must give "express consent" for division officers to verify the trap's actual use. The regulation also stipulates that the person setting the trap is responsible for notifying adjoining property owners in writing.

The ordinance carries a $50 penalty for failure to check a trap once every 24 hours or to release or turn over to the division any animal trapped in a city-owned device.

Council members endorsed an amendment to the city's thoroughfare plan map and recommended that the state Department of Transportation approve the addition of Brownlea Drive, designated as a minor thoroughfare, from the northern right-of-way line of 10th Street north to the intersection with First Street. The amendment requires the approval of D.O.T. since the city and state mutually adopt the thoroughfare plan.

The council also approved requests by:

— Kensington Development Corp. to annex 22.485 acres on the west side of N.C. 43 south of Oakmont Professional Plaza;

— Greenville Rest Home to annex 2.951 acres located north of and adjacent to N.C. 43 west of Moyewood, with an effective annexation date of May 31;

— Ralph Tucker to annex 8.8 acres (phase one, section three of Tucker Estates) on the east and west sides of Tucker Drive and south of section two of Tucker Estates;

— Collice Moore to rezone 60 acres at the southeast corner of Eastbrook Drive and Luce Drive from shopping center to office and institutional; and — The city to zone 302 acres to unoffensive industry and 125 acres to RA-20, located in the extraterritorial area near Eaton Rd., and to rezone 11.1 acres located north of Secondary Road 1529 and east of Secondary Road 1590 from RA-20 to unoffensive industry.

Approval was given to three amendments to the zoning ordinance, regarding nonconforming structures and uses and parking area location criteria, allowing multifamily dwellings as a special use in the downtown commercial fringe zoning classification, and regarding administration and enforcement of the ordinance.

The board adopted a resolution accepting a grant agreement for financial assistance of $996,200 from the N.C. Department of Natural Resources and Community Development for the third-year program of the South Evans Community Development project. An ordinance was also adopted establishing a 1983-84 Small Cities — South Evans Grant Project budget.

An agreement with the state for replacement of the Hooker Road bridge over Green Mill Run in fiscal 1985 was approved. State Highway Administrator Billy Rose notified Cox that the replacement is included in the state's recently approved bridge improvement program.

Cox presented a plaque to retiring police Lt. Redding Elks for over 29 years of service and gave retired Chief E. Glenn Cannon a framed copy of a resolution adopted recently by the N.C. League of Municipalities recognizing Cannon for his service.

Town's Radar License Taken

ATLANTA (AP) — State officials disputed every one of 1,553 traffic citations issued by a south Georgia city once called the nation's "No. 1 speed trap," and told police there to hang up their radar guns.

The city of Ludowici has 10 days to appeal the first-ever revocation of a radar license by the state Department of Public Safety, but City Attorney Richard Phillips said Thursday it had not yet been decided whether to appeal.

Complaints by motorists prompted a state patrol probe that found traffic-bond revenues quadrupled in one year in Ludowici. It also found that out-of-staters, more likely to forfeit bonds, accounted for three-quarters of the arrests by police using radar devices that had never been serviced or checked for accuracy.

Mayor Sammy Stapleton and Police Chief Leslie Mitchell were unavailable for comment, said a secretary at city hall.

The state patrol investigation found errors or violations in all 1,553 traffic citations issued by city police from January 1982 through October 1983.

Located 35 miles southwest of Savannah, Ludowici is on U.S. 301 which, before Interstate 95 was completed, was a main route of Florida-bound travelers.

In the 1950s, a national automobile association called it the "No. 1 speed trap in the nation."

Since then, the city of 1,286 has been the focus of state and federal inquiries into corruption charges lodged by four governors but never resulting in charges.

Former Gov. Lester Maddox became so frustrated he had billboards erected at the city limits, warning: "BEWARE — You are in Long County and approaching Ludowici, Georgia. Do not get fleeced in a CLIP JOINT. Do not get caught in a SPEED TRAP."

Former Gov. Jimmy Carter concluded in 1972 that "most evidence of any wrongdoing applies to citizens who have already died."

The new state patrol probe began several months ago, said Public Safety spokesman Bill Wilson. He said it showed:

—No indication the city's

Alert Scramble By Korean Jets

SEOUL, South Korean (AP) — South Korean jets took to the skies today when nine Soviet bombers flew toward the Tsushima Strait separating Japan and South Korea, officials said.

A South Korean air force spokesman said at least 10 F-4 Phantom jets scrambled from air bases after radar picked up a formation of TU-95 Bears and TU-16 Badgers. The spokesman declined to be identified.

In Tokyo, Japan Defense Agency officials said it was the third time in 17 days Soviet bombers have been sighted heading south through the strait, and sources speculated the bombers might be reinforcing Soviet air power in Vietnam.

Agency officials said two Badgers flew toward the South China Sea and the other bombers changed course near Okinawa, flying back to the Pacific Ocean northward along Japan. The Badgers appeared to be making a "surveillance flight," they said.

Sources said the southbound Soviet planes might have been headed for Vietnamese bases at Da Nang or Cam Ranh Bay, which were operated by the United States during the Vietnam War.

The sources said Soviets might have sent bombers to Vietnam to show its military muscle in Southeast Asia. They said that Vietnam does not need Soviet air support for its land war in Cambodia.

The South Korean air force spokesman said Soviet flights off Korea's east coast have increased since President Reagan visited Seoul last month to reaffirm the U.S. defense commitment to South Korea.

The spokesman said Soviet bombers were spotted flying over the same area on four occasions in November and South Korean Air Force jets scrambled each time.

Number Of Break-Ins

Several cases of breaking and entering and larcenies have been reported to Greenville police recently.

Annie Mae Smith of 1903-B Kennedy Circle reported that a video game machine and two cartridge games — total value $240 — was taken from her daughter's bedroom Thursday. Nothing else was disturbed, she reported.

Donna Charlene Smith of 110C Cherry Court reported that her apartment was entered through a front window over Thanksgiving vacation but nothing was taken.

Carter Clifton Cole reported that a coat valued at $120 was taken from his truck parked at the corner of Deck and Pitt Streets Thursday morning.

Mark Aaron Conway reported a ring stolen from him at Greenville Marble and Granite Co. He told police he had taken the ring off and laid it on a shelf while he was cutting stone.

Mary Stroud White of Kinston reported merchandise valued at $250 stolen from her car while she was dining at Darryl's Restaurant.

Therese Mayo reported $10 stolen and $50 damage done to her car when it was broken into while parked at 1006-B Chestnut Street Thursday.

Solar Fraction

Greenville's solar fraction calculated by the department of physics of East Carolina University was 53 Thursday, which means that a solar water heater could have provided 53 percent of your hot water.

Pirates Hit Road; Face #20 VCU Rams

East Carolina's Pirates take their youthful show on the road for the first time Saturday night, traveling to Richmond to face Virginia Commonwealth University. Tipoff is set for 7:35 p.m. in Richmond Coliseum.

VCU comes into the game — its second of the year — as the number 20 team in the Associated Press basketball poll. The Rams are favored to win the Sun Belt Conference title this season after 24-7 mark last year earned them a bid to the NCAA Tournament.

The Rams return four starters off last year's squad, 6-5 sophomore forward Michael Brown, 6-8 junior center Mike Schlegel, 6-3 junior guard Calvin Duncan and 6-2 junior guard Rolando Lamb. They are expected to be joined by 6-7 junior forward Neil Wake, a transfer from Southeast Community College in Nebraska.

Duncan is the leading returning scorer with a 17.4 average last year, while Brown hit on 10.6. Schlegel was 9.8 and Lamb was 7.2.

In the NCAA last year, VCU defeated LaSalle, 76-67, then lost to Georgia, 56-54. Georgia went on to the final four before losing to eventual winner N.C. State.

East Carolina Coach Charlie Harrison isn't worried about having to open his road schedule against such a tough opponent. "It doesn't make any difference. You got to go somewhere. You can't dodge people all year."

"I knew that our team would have had spots and voids in play in December and January, but they might as well get accustomed to playing good people now," Harrison added.

East Carolina, 2-0 after a 59-43 comeback victory over Christopher Newport Wednesday night, struggled through that game until the final ten minutes when the Pirates suddenly came to life. After that, they outscored 22 straight points in a 25-6 stretch to take the win.

It will take a more consistent effort against the likes of VCU.

"They're going to have to play with more purpose," Harrison said, "that's the biggest thing. This is the first ranked team we've played on the road outside the state since I've been here. It's a tremendous opportunity. You have to approach it this way."

VCU comes into the contest after a 94-46 romp over Johns Hopkins last night, and the Pirates scouted the Rams in that contest. But, Harrison doesn't think that having played an extra game and having an extra day's rest will make any difference.

"When you have a veteran team and help yourself by recruiting, you don't have to worry as much. J.D. (Barnett — VCU coach) is a good coach and they have excellent players. They've know what it's all about. They've been to the NCAA and they are deep."

The Pirates come into the game led by freshman center Roy Smith and junior forward Barry Wright, both with 12.5 averages, while senior point guard Tony Robinson has an 11.2 mark. The other starters are likely to be freshman forward Derrick Battle (6.5) and guard William Grady (6.0). Sophomore guard Curt Vanderhorst, who's been in a reserve role has an 8.5 average.

Smith is the leading rebounder for the Pirates, pulling off 9.5 per game while Battle is getting 5.5.

One thing that has pleased Harrison over the first two games is the turnover ratio. The Pirates have forced 42 while committing only 24.

Following the game, the Pirates take a week away from game time, traveling to Durham the following Saturday to face another young team, the Duke University Blue Devils.

ECU Dominates All-South

ATLANTA (AP) — East

Carolina offensive guard Terry Long and four of his teammates made the Associated Press All-South Independent football first team, while Bernie Kosar of fifth-ranked Miami has set a precedent on the squad.

The 6-foot-4, 207-pound Hurricane star became the first freshman selected to the quarterback position when the news service's 16th annual all-star team was announced Thursday.

Thursday.

Miami, headed for an Orange Bowl date with top-ranked Nebraska, placed three other players on the first team, six on the second and had its coach, Howard Schnellenberger, named the Coach of the Year for the second time in four years.

East Carolina led the first team selections with five, while landing four more on the second unit, also having a total of nine.

The other Miami first teamers were tight end Glenn Dennison, offensive guard Alvin Wood and linebacker Jay Brophy. Named to the second unit were offensive tackle Dave Heffernan, running back Albert Bentley, place kicker Jeff Davis, defensive tackle Kevin Fagan and defensive backs Kenny Calhoun and Rodney Bellinger.

In addition to Long, others named to the first team were tackle John Robertson, running back Ernest Byner, defensive end Jeff Pegues and defensive back Clint Harris. Named to the second team were wide receiver Henry Williams, tight end Norwood Vann, quarterback Kevin Ingram and defensive lineman Hal Stephens.

Schnellenberger, who steered the Hurricane to a 10-1 record, drew seven votes for the coach of the year award from a panel of regional sports writers. Ed Emory of East Carolina was the runner-up receiving four votes.

The 1983 team consisted of 10 repeaters from last year, headed by center Tom McCormick of Florida State and middle guard Jerald Baylis of Southern Mississippi, named to the team for the third year in a row.

Other repeaters were Dennison and Brophy of Miami, offensive tackle Glen Howe of Southern Mississippi, East Carolina's Long and Harris, FSU running back Greg Allen and defensive tackle Alphonso Carreker and Virginia Tech linebacker Mike Johnson.

The offensive unit also consisted of wide receivers Wayne Smith of Tulane and Louis Lipps of Southern Mississippi, tackle John Robertson of East Carolina, guard Alvin Ward of Miami, freshman quarterback Bernie Kosar of Miami, running back Ernest Byner of East Carolina and place kicker Tony Wood of Tulane.

The remainder of the defensive team consisted of ends Tim Harris of Memphis State and Jeff Pegues of East Carolina, tackle Bruce Smith of VPI, linebacker Mike Durrah of South Carolina, backs Kirk Perry of Louisville and Bud Brown of Southern Mississippi and punter Chris Norman of South Carolina.

Kosar, a redshirt in 1982, completed 201 of 327 passes for 2,329 yards and 15 touchdowns.

Allen was the leading rusher on the team with 1,047 yards and still has one game remaining against Florida on Saturday. Byner rushed for 862 yards for East Carolina. Among the receivers, Smith had 35 catches for 836 yards, Lipps 42 for 800 and Dennison 34 for 594. Tulane's Wood converted all 18 of his extra point attempts and had 14 field goals in 20 attempts, with his shortest miss coming from 48 yards away.

Smith, VPI's tackle, led the defensive unit in quarterback sacks with 22 for 188 yards in losses and he also nailed nine runners for losses totaling another 35 yards.

Here is The Associated Press All-South Independent football team for 1983:

Option Pass Begins Raider Victory Run

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Things weren't going well for Jim Plunkett and the rest of the Los Angeles Raiders in their quest for a another divisional crown.

After 28 minutes of football Thursday night, the Raiders had gained but 72 offensive yards. Only 14 of the Raiders' 26 plays had gained yardage. Quarterback Plunkett was chugging for his life in the face of an inspired San Diego pass rush.

The Charger offense, meanwhile, had scored on Dan Fouts' 5-yard swing pass to Chuck Muncie and on Rolf Benirschke's 24-yard field goal.

At moments like these, all eyes turn to the sidelines for guidance. And when they did, Coach Tom Flores came up with the play that turned the game around and led to a 42-10 National Football League rout the Raiders.

"It was an ideal call on his part," running back Marcus Allen said of the 43-yard option pass he threw to Todd

Christensen with 1:50 left in the first half. "It was the right time for a play like that."

That score signalled the beginning of a stunning eight minute, five-touchdown symphony of offensive and defensive dominance by the Raiders.

With the victory, the 11th in 14 games for Los Angeles, went the AFC West crown, the Raiders' ninth in 12 years. San Diego, meanwhile, sank to 5-9.

The Raiders didn't appear poised to score — indeed, didn't seem to be doing much of anything — when Allen took a handoff from Plunkett and headed for the left sideline.

Suddenly, Allen screamed to a halt and threw back to his right to a sprinting Christensen, who was running free at the Charger 10.

"I felt pretty confident throwing the ball," said Allen, a former prep quarterback, "but he was so wide open that I was a little concerned about overthrowing it."

"He's an excellent passer," Flores said of Allen. "We felt their defense overreacted, and we executed perfectly."

"We're notorious for being slow starters," said Christensen. "It took us awhile to get going but it was only a matter of time."

Brought to life by the Allen-Christensen strike, the Raiders needed only five plays and 26 seconds to move 65 yards for the go-ahead touchdown. It came 32 seconds before the half when Christensen made a one-handed grab of a feather-soft 25-yard pass from Plunkett.

Frank Hawkins ran 21 and 1 yards for touchdowns early in the third period before defensive back Rod Martin made it 35-10 with a 29-yard pass interception return at the 8:33 mark.

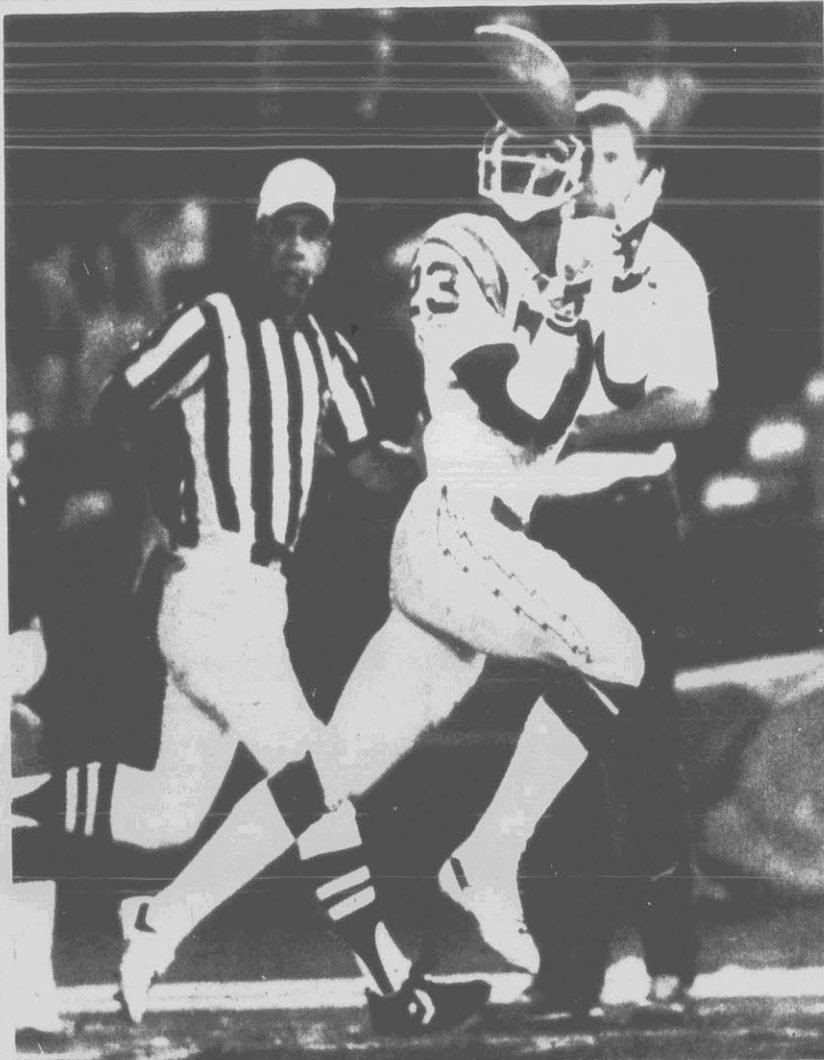

Christensen got his third touchdown of the night on a 14-yard toss from Plunkett with 3:21 left in the quarter. It was the eighth catch of the night for Christensen and his 77th of the season, breaking by one a Raider team mark set in 1964 by Art Powell.

"Sometimes quarters like that just happen," said Charger linebacker Billy Ray Smith. "It was mistake after mistake. It leaves a bad taste to play a good first half and then come out and totally blow the second half."

"I'm shocked," added Chargers Coach Don Coryell. "It's like the St. Louis game (a 44-14 Charger loss two weeks ago). I don't think we're that bad, although the score indicates we're that bad."

On Sunday, it will be Buffalo at Kansas City, Chicago at Green Bay, Miami at Houston, New Orleans at New England, Cincinnati at Pittsburgh, Atlanta at Washington, the Los Angeles Rams at Philadelphia, St. Louis at the New York Giants, Dallas at Seattle, Tampa Bay at San Francisco, Cleveland at De-

Lady Pirates Dumped By Fayetteville State

FAYETTEVILLE — Sparked by a tenacious full court defense and 20 points from freshman guard Joyce Vaughn, Fayetteville State upset East Carolina's Lady Pirates, 64-53, last night in women's basketball action.

The Lady Broncos defense forced 36 East Carolina turnovers and totally kept the Lady Pirates out of the flow of the game.

FSU jumped to an early 10-0 lead and did not allow an ECU score until guard Delphine Mabry scored with 12:51 remaining in the first half. The Lady Pirates closed the gap to 15-13 with 6:17 left before FSU pulled away again and led, 28-21 at the half.

ECU forward Anita Anderson hit three straight jumpers early in the second half to bring the Lady Pirates within three points at 32-29, but that was as close as the score would come as Fayetteville State connected from the free throw line consistently down the stretch to seal its third win in six games.

The Lady Broncos were 30 of 38 from the line for the game with Vaughn hitting 10 of 12 and leading all scorers. ECU, now 2-2 on the season, was led by junior forward Annette Phillips' 12 points and 12 rebounds.

"We just played a terrible basketball game," East Carolina coach Cathy Andruzzi said. "Thirty-six turnovers is unbelievable. Fayetteville State continually substituted players who came in and played extremely hard and we found it difficult to find matchups."

"We knew what they were going to do, but the team did not come ready to play and it cost us. There simply was no concentration out there. We have to bounce back quickly too, because UNC Charlotte is playing very good basketball right now and we must put our game together quickly or find ourselves behind the eight-ball."

East Carolina plays host to UNCC on Sunday at 3 p.m. in Mingos Coliseum.

Terps, Spartans Upset In 'Tuneups'

By The Associated Press
This is supposed to be tuneup time for both Michigan State and Maryland as they prepare for their respective conference basketball races in about a month or so. But both national powers ran into some unexpected opposition Thursday night at the Meadowlands Arena in East Rutherford, N.J.

Unheralded St. Peter's of New Jersey stunned the 11th-ranked Spartans of the Big Ten 73-66 in the opener of a doubleheader before Ohio State upset the sixth-ranked Terrapins of the Atlantic Coast Conference 72-68. The last two minutes of the opener "was like an eternity" to St. Peter's Coach Bob Dukiet after he watched his team lose most of an 18-point first-half lead. "It's a scary feeling," Dukiet said. "You hate to see a game go out from under you when you've been in control so long." In other games involving the nation's ranked teams, No. 12 Louisiana State tripped Washington 51-48, No. 14 Arkansas defeated Southeast Missouri State 98-69, No. 17 Fresno State trimmed California-Davis 92-49 and No. 20 Virginia Commonwealth routed Johns Hopkins 94-46.

Tommy Best's 22 points and 20 by Shelton Gibbs led St. Peter's first-game shocker over a supposedly vastly superior opponent. The Peacocks' early 18-points lead was whittled to 28-21 at halftime. But they built it to 17-2 in the second half before Sam Vincent, who scored 30 points for Michigan State, triggered a comeback for the Spartans that fell short.

Six points by Gibbs in the final 35 seconds, including the conversion of a two-shot technical foul, clinched the victory from the little Jesuit school from Jersey City. "I think we lost the game in the first 10 minutes," said Michigan State Coach Jud Heathcote. "Their overplaying, aggressive defense really bothered us. I take nothing away from them. I give them credit."

Tigers Look To Pass Against Tide

By The Associated Press
The game plan is obvious for Auburn's football team Saturday.

"I don't think we're telegraphing any secrets when I say we're going to open up our offense," said Auburn Coach Pat Dye, preparing to meet 19th-ranked Alabama. "We'd be foolish not to. When you spot a weakness in your opponent, you're crazy if you don't make an effort to exploit that weakness. We're not the first team to discover where Alabama is vulnerable."

That, of course, is in the area of pass defense. Alabama's has been the worst in the Southeastern Conference this season.

That would put more of a burden on quarterback Randy Campbell, who has led the third-ranked Tigers to a 9-1 record and the top of the SEC primarily by handing the ball to runners Bo Jackson, Lionel James and Tommie Agee. Auburn's running game is No. 1 in the SEC.

The game at Birmingham is one of two between longstanding intrastate rivals Saturday, the last weekend of the regular college football season. In the other, Florida State plays at 11th-ranked Florida. On an otherwise light schedule, Oklahoma plays at Hawaii and Air Force is at San Diego State in major college games.

In college football playoffs, it's Indiana State at Southern Illinois; Western Carolina at Holy Cross; North Texas State at Nevada-Reno and Boston University at Furman in the NCAA Division I-AA quarterfinals.

In the Division II semifinals, it's North Alabama vs. Central State and North Dakota State vs. California-Davis. In the Division III finals at Kings Island, Ohio, it's Union, N.Y., at Augustana, Ill., for the Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl.

In quarterfinals of the NAIA Division I playoffs, it's Shepherd College, W. Va., at Carson-Newman College, Tenn.; Saginaw Valley State College, Mich., at Central State, Okla.; Northeastern Oklahoma State at the University of Central Arkansas and Eastern New Mexico University at Mesa College, Colo.

In NAIA Division II semifinals, Northwestern plays at William Jewell and Westminster is at Pacific Lutheran.

If Alabama wins, Auburn will have to share the SEC title with Alabama and Georgia. While 7-3 Alabama has shown defensive weaknesses, the Crimson Tide is best in the conference at moving the ball and at scoring, averaging 431 yards and 31.8 points a game.

Quarterback Walter Lewis is the triggerman, with his 13 scoring passes and his scrambling runs. Fullback Ricky Moore has turned in three straight games over more than 100 yards running to complement Lewis' passing.

However, Jackson, James and Agee all are among the SEC's top 10 runners.

"We will have to, unquestionably, play our best game," said Alabama Coach Ray Perkins. "We haven't played a 60-minute game yet this year. We've got to have several big plays in the passing game, which I think we can get."

Meanwhile, Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden said he was "kind of relieved" that all the rehearsing was over for Saturday's game in Gainesville.

"I guess it's like having all the eggs in the barn," said Bowden. "I think we've done just about all we can to get them prepared. I just hope we can execute on Saturday."

Bowden isn't thrilled with playing in the Gators' home stadium.

"I'd rather play in Tallahassee, but we played here last year and that didn't seem to help," Bowden said, recalling the season-ending 1982 loss.

Bowden said he plans to start reserve quarterback Bob Davis "and go from there."

It was no secret the Florida State offense was thinking about Gators linebacker Wilbur Marshall when they went through their final workout Thursday.

"He's such a dominating player," said Bowden. "He's really something else."

Rozier Tops Heisman Trophy Candidates

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Rozier, the record-setting running back from the University of Nebraska, tops a list of blue chip candidates, one of whom will be named the nation's top football player for 1983 at Saturday's Heisman Trophy announcement.

Rozier, who became only the second player in NCAA history to rush for more than 2,000 yards in a season, and quarterbacks Steve Young of Brigham Young and Doug Flutie of Boston College reportedly were the three players asked to attend Saturday's reception and news conference at the Downtown Athletic Club.

The Nebraska senior rushed for 2,148 yards this season, giving him 4,780 for his career. Only Southern Cal's Marcus Allen previously had topped the 2,000-yard mark in a season, rushing for 2,342 in 1981.

Announcement of the Heisman winner was scheduled for 7:50 p.m. EST. The Heisman has been awarded annually since 1935.

Rozier's career total broke the Big Eight Conference mark of 4,582 by Oklahoma State's Terry Miller from 1974-77, and his 29 rushing touchdowns set an NCAA mark previously held by Lydell Mitchell of Penn State, who rushed for 26 in 1971.

Rozier led the Cornhuskers to a 12-0 record this year, a No. 1 ranking in The Associated Press poll and a berth in the Orange Bowl Jan. 2 against Miami, Fla. A victory against Miami undoubtedly would cap Rozier's season with a national championship.

"There are other players out there with talent, but none that makes use of it like Mike has," says backfield coach Frank Solich, who recruited Rozier to play at Nebraska.

If Rozier wins the award, he will be the 33rd Heisman Trophy winning running back. Last year, Georgia's Herschel Walker won the Heisman Trophy. The last Nebraska player to win the Heisman was wingback Johnny Rodgers in 1972. Rodgers also was the last non-running back.

Top Twenty

Don Redden sank a pair of free throws with 10 seconds to play to help LSU stem a Washington comeback. Derrick Taylor led LSU with 16 points and was the only Tiger player in double figures. Redden finished with six — all in the second half.

Joe Kleine scored 19 points and Alvin Robertson tossed in 18 to pace Arkansas over Southeast Missouri State. The Razorbacks were ahead 39-31 at halftime, and erupted for 59 points in the second half.

"We played fairly well considering we were only three days back from Alaska," said Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton, whose team opened the season in the Great Alaska Shootout. "Usually it takes four or five days to get your body back."

"Our effort was tremendous. We had several opportunities to break the game open early, but lost our patience on the offensive end. We were pleased to be able to play so many players. Our young players got a feel for the game and for playing in Barnhill Arena without having pressure."

Ron Anderson and Scott Barnes scored 14 points apiece as Fresno State defeated Cal-Davis. The Bulldogs broke the game open early in the first half, scoring 20 straight points and taking a 33-9 lead.

Rolando Lamb and Robert Dickerson hit 15 floor shots without a miss between them as Virginia Commonwealth routed Johns Hopkins. Lamb wound up hitting nine of nine from the floor for 18 points and Dickerson was six of six for 12.

East Carolina in the Orange Bowl? Too far fetched? Well, maybe not!

Reynolds May, along with Bob Deyton and Leon Moore, was invited out to the Oklahoma-Nebraska game by Big Eight Commissioner and personal friend Carl James. On Friday night, James and the party ate dinner with two representatives of the Orange Bowl, there to offer Nebraska that event's bid the next afternoon.

May, seated next to Stan Marks, vice-president of the bowl committee, struck up a conversation and learned that Marks was an Alabama alumnus, having attended that school on a baseball scholarship. May, an Alabama native, turned down a 'Bama grant to attend Duke on a baseball grant, and the two turned out to have several mutual friends.

May asked Marks if he did much actual scouting for the Orange Bowl, and was told he did. May then asked him who had impressed him the most this season.

"This will probably surprise you," Marks replied, not knowing May's residence. "It was a school from North Carolina — East Carolina. They have an excellent quarterback, a good overall team and appeared to be well coached."

Marks saw the Pirates against Miami, and said that the Bucs lost to both Miami and Florida by "an eyelash. They should have and could have won both games."

May laughed and related that he was from Greenville, the home of ECU. He then asked, what if ECU had won both of those games, would they have been considered for a major bowl?

Marks told May that ECU definitely would have been a contender. "They probably would have had my vote for the Orange Bowl," he related. "That, however, doesn't mean they would have gotten it. Bowls look for teams with prestige and a large following. Right now, I don't think ECU is quite in that category."

Marks further said that having lost to Florida State in the opening game would have had no effect on his feelings about the Pirates. They deserved a bowl game somewhere, and he was disappointed that they were not picked.

"Many of the minor bowls" and he listed a number to May, "will pick a team with a known name and following regardless of their record."

May, a former Pirate Club president, asked what ECU must do to get the necessary backing for a bowl. Naturally, the answer was the building of prestige and increased backing.

But he also noted that a team must be on the bowl lists — circulated among the various committees — early. "And I'm putting them on my list to watch next year, so they're already off to a good start," Marks said.

Now, it's back in the Pirates' corner — to have a good season — and in the fans — to support them home and away.

While Tony Collins (known as Anthony when with East Carolina) and Tootie Robbins continue to be starters for New England and St. Louis, respectively, a couple of other former Pirates are watching from the sidelines this year.

A teammate of Collins', lineman George Crump is down with a knee injury and will not return this season. New England reportedly was very high on Crump when he was hurt early in the season. He was starting at the time.

Rookie defensive end Jody Schulz, worked his way into a starting lineup spot with the Philadelphia Eagles, but also has been sidelined.

According to his mother, Jody underwent surgery on November 21 on his left knee. Schulz had been injured earlier in the season, and had missed six games before being reinserted into the lineup on November 20 against the Giants. But he was injured again in the game and underwent surgery the following day.

Schulz will be in a cast for six weeks, then go rehabilitation with the Eagles. According to Coach Marion Campbell, Schulz is "the best pass-rush linebacker the Eagles have had in my seven years with the club."

We'd like to issue an apology to the Alabama fans in the area. In Monday's column, we said that Alabama, with a loss to Auburn this weekend, would drop to 6-5. Not so, the Crimson Tide is currently 7-3 and would be only 7-4 with a loss.

ECU's Dave Hart, a 'Bama alumnus, was quick to point out our error — and to predict an upset by the Tide over former ECU-coach Pat Dye's War Eagles.

Heisman...

to win the award.

The other top two candidates for this year's Heisman apparently are Young and Flutie. Pat Sullivan of Auburn, in 1971, was the last quarterback to win the award.

Young, a direct descendant of his school's founder, Brigham Young, was the top passer in the NCAA this year, completing 306 of 429 passes for a percentage of .713. He threw for 33 touchdowns and 3,902 yards, giving him 7,733 passing yards for his career.

"I don't know if I'm the best guy in my own locker room, and you're talking about the nation," Young said recently when asked about his chances of winning the Heisman. "I just approach it as, 'Hey, that'd be great.' It's flattering to be considered, just to be in the same breath as come of the guys around the nation that are being considered.

"I haven't tried to aspire to it or even try to lobby for it. It's just something that's a great honor, and, if you get it, an even greater honor," Young said.

Young, a senior, guided Brigham Young to a 10-1 season, a No. 9 national ranking and a berth in the Holiday Bowl Dec. 23 against Missouri.

Flutie, meanwhile, brought Boston College from obscurity to national recognition in his junior season. The multipurpose quarterback passed for 2,724 yards and 17 touchdowns as the 13th-ranked Eagles compiled a record of 9-2, including a stunning victory over Alabama, and earned a berth in the Liberty Bowl Dec. 29 against Notre Dame.

"It's something I really didn't expect," Flutie said of his consideration for the Heisman. "I thought I might be in the top 10, have my name mentioned here or there, but that's about it. Nothing like this."

John Riggins, star fullback of the Washington Redskins, weighs 235 pounds but was a sprint champion in the state of Kansas while in high school.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

ELIJAH AND THE PRIESTS OF BAAL

WHEN THE PRIESTS OF BAAL FAILED TO BRING FIRE ON THEIR SACRIFICE, ELIJAH STEPPED FORWARD TO TAKE COMMAND. HE EVEN INSTRUCTED THE PEOPLE TO POUR WATER AGAIN AND AGAIN OVER HIS SACRIFICE...

IF THE LORD DID SEND DOWN FIRE, HOW THEN CAN IT BURN WHEN ELIJAH HAS DRENCHED THE ALTAR WITH WATER?!

LORD GOD OF ISRAEL, LET IT BE KNOWN THIS DAY THAT THOU ART GOD... O LORD, HEAR ME, THAT THE PEOPLE MAY KNOW THAT THOU ART THE LIVING GOD!

AND SUDDENLY FIRE FILLS THE AIR AND FALLS ON THE ALTAR, CONSUMING THE SACRIFICE AND THE WOOD AND THE STONES OF THE ALTAR, AND LICKING UP THE VERY WATER IN THE TRENCH ROUND ABOUT THE ALTAR...

'Overnight' Fade-Out

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Most Fridays, "NBC News Overnight" does the week in review. Tonight, it will be a program-in-review, when it writes its own obituary after fewer than 18 months of classy, breezy and intelligent broadcasts.

"I'm real sorry to see it go," said anchor Linda Ellerbee. "But we're going to go out in style. Sappy is not our way."

"Overnight," which was canceled because of light ratings and heavy financial losses, plans to devote its final "Not-Ready-for-Prime-Time-News" segment to showing how other programs went off the air, including "The Huntley-Brinkley Report" and "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

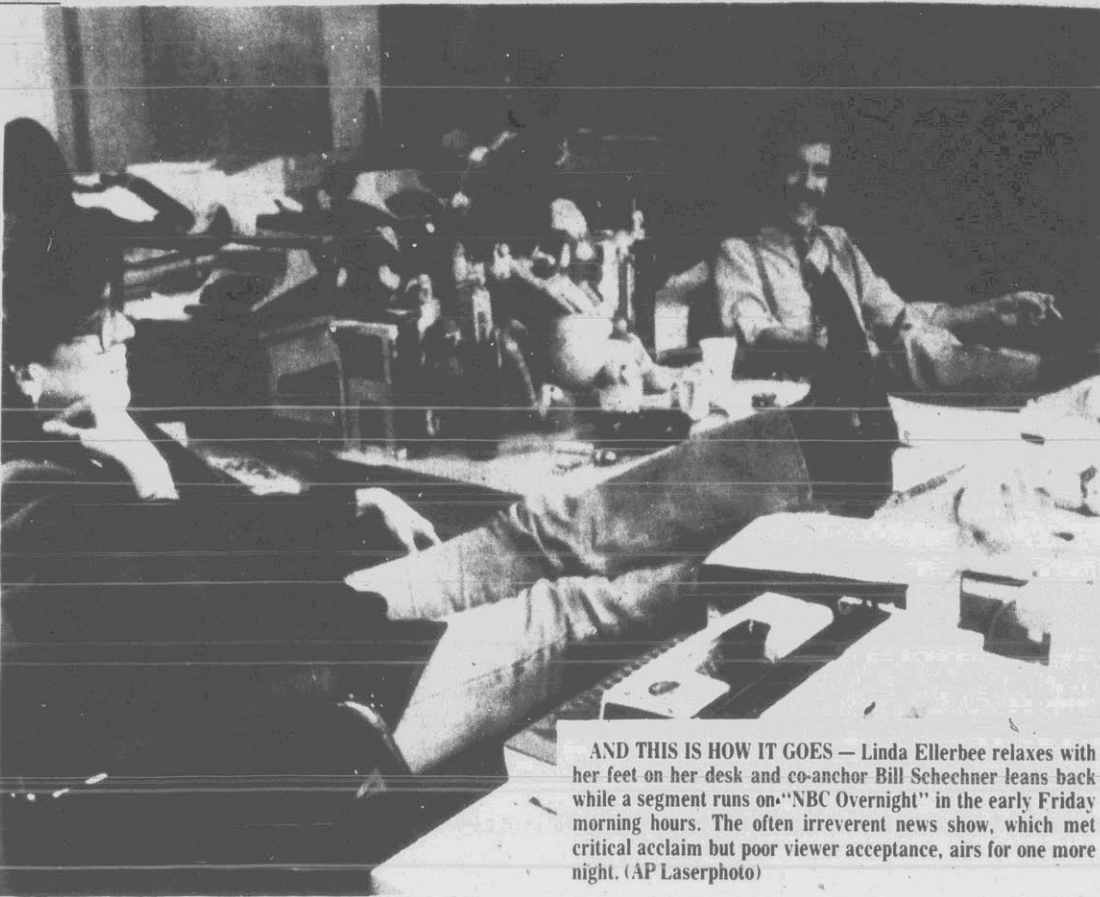

At least fans of "Mary Tyler Moore" can see her in reruns. In fact, in New York, NBC's station has scheduled three consecutive half hours of "Mary Tyler Moore" as the nightly replacement for "Overnight." Reruns of "Overnight" won't work. So, unless the newscast returns this summer, a possibility that NBC Chairman Grant Tinker didn't dismiss out of hand, Ms. Ellerbee will say her last "And so it goes" for "Overnight" tonight.

It will be missed. As one letter-writer said: "We ... looked at your effort as the best that creativity had ever delivered to our nighttime audience." Signed, Bill Lord, executive producer of ABC News' "Nightline."

For the central character, an unemployed steelworker, ABC's "Heart of Steel" Sunday night takes an appropriately cynical view of both Ronald Reagan's America and Franklin Delano Roosevelt's America.

This film points an accusing finger at all sides — unions, management, government and workers — in explaining why the work ethic doesn't work as well anymore.

AND THIS IS HOW IT GOES — Linda Ellerbee relaxes with her feet on her desk and co-anchor Bill Schechner leans back while a segment runs on "NBC Overnight" in the early Friday morning hours. The often irreverent news show, which met critical acclaim but poor viewer acceptance, airs for one more night. (AP Laserphoto)

In one scene, after the steel mill has been shut down by management, the workers hold a meeting to discuss buying the plant. They blame their bosses for not modernizing to compete with the Japanese. Management, in turn, accuses the union of not making necessary concessions.

And a financial consultant, brought in to assess the feasibility of the union's purchase, is made to look like a complete fool. Speaking financial gobbledegook, he says the necessary $66 million is "not a lot of money."

Peter Strauss, the movie's executive producer, also stars as Emory, whose all-American values are challenged by the mill's closing. Strauss used unemployed steelworkers as extras in the film, which was shot in Ohio and West Virginia.

Emory's American dream is not grandiose. His house doesn't have to be big, his car doesn't have to be fancy, his TV set only has to pick up his beloved Cincinnati Bengals. Yet even those things require the income of the job he thought was his for life. "What the hell did I do wrong?" he asks.

The lesson of this moving, stark and, yes, noble film is that only when Emory stops hiding behind the security of HIS union, the safety of HIS hometown and the blind faith in HIS country and takes responsibility for HIS life does he regain the self-respect that's been missing since he lost his job.

"Heart of Steel" begins as if it were a chummy "Miller Time" beer commercial, then quickly turns into "Blue Collar Blues."

The movie captures the depressing sights of unemployment in excruciating detail: a once-pulsing steel mill lying dead still; unemployed steelworkers hanging around cold streets waiting for job crumbs, and all-day benders in dank gin mills, where time is measured in empty glasses.

The film pays as much attention to mood as story line, which is good since the disintegrating-family thread running throughout frequently goes too far, particularly when Emory's damaged pride and wounded macho spirit turn him into a wife- and child-beater.

But the "Rocky"-like ending, which could have been hokey in less caring hands, is emotionally uplifting.

And it challenges, at least for one night, one wry line from the film. While noticing some silliness on the bar's TV, Emory says that what's made in Hollywood is "nothing, noise and game shows."

Actors Donate Land To County

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Actors Clint Eastwood and James Garner have donated 350 acres worth $2.7 million in Carmel Valley to the county for development into housing for the elderly and a public park.

The northern part of the property known as Carmel Valley Overlook is next to Jacks Peak Regional Park, which already has hiking and riding trails and picnic areas.

At least 300 of the 350 acres of the donated land will be used for park development while the remainder will be taken up by low-cost housing, said Bruce Moore, executive director of the Housing Authority of Monterey County.

Hurting When He Moves

NEW YORK (AP) — Playwright Neil Simon — author of "Only When I Laugh" — may be hurting every time he moves.

Simon, 56, was in an unidentified New York hospital Thursday night with a painful back condition. The problem is nothing new, dating back about 10 years, said Simon spokesman Albert Da Silva. "It kicks out every so often and it kicked out a few days ago."

Ropes and 15-pound weights were being used to help stretch the back, a process Da Silva described as painful.

Among Simon's other plays are "The Goodbye Girl," "Brighton Beach Memoirs" and "Chapter Two."

Yesterday's Cryptquip — SAID DISGRACED GIRL, "THAT ACHILLES — HE'S A HEEL!"
Today's Cryptquip clue: F equals S.

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

FOCUSFloating Monument

Several Washington leaders are attempting to restore to greatness the Presidential yacht "Sequoia". The yacht was purchased for Herbert Hoover in 1933. Each subsequent President left his mark on the boat. What is now a bar was once an elevator for Franklin Roosevelt's wheelchair. John Kennedy placed a rock-hard mattress on the bed to ease his back problems. Lyndon Johnson lowered the bathroom floor because he was too tall for the shower. And finally, in 1977, Jimmy Carter sold it.

DO-YOU KNOW — What major river runs through Washington, D.C.?
THURSDAY'S ANSWER — "Alcatraz" is Spanish for pelican.

Military Assisting In Marijuana War

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Military officials are joining forces with state, local and federal law enforcement officials to track down marijuana plants they say have grown into a major problem in North Carolina.

The plants are easy to spot from the air once you know what you're looking for," Col. Billy M. Summerlin of Camp Lejeune told about 75 officials attending the Eastern North Carolina Law Enforcement Coordinating Committee meeting at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base on Wednesday.

Summerlin, military liaison for the committee, said military helicopters can be used to locate marijuana plants. He said military pilots could inform local or state officials once the plants are located.

Officials at the day-long meeting included the director of the State Bureau of Investigation, U.S. attorneys and marshals, the secretary of the N.C. Department of Crime Control and Public Safety, sheriff's deputies and police officers.

Assistant SBI Director Cuyler L. Windham said more than 100,000 plants have been destroyed by law enforcement officials in the state this year. In 1982, 144,000 plants were found in the state.

"People don't realize how serious growing the stuff is," Windham said. "The growers are smarter and know more about how to hide it."

"They're planting it on smaller plots of land instead of acres. They're using hot houses. In the mountains, we even found it growing underground with lights," he said.

To succeed at bridge, you have to do more than just "get there firstest with the mostest." You have to select the right course as well.

North-South have more than enough points to contract for three no trump. If you rely on point-count alone, the contract should be a laydown. But declarer has to proceed with caution to make his nine tricks.

When dummy appears, declarer can count eight sure tricks, with many chances for a ninth. The only danger to the contract is a 4-1 club split combined with a losing diamond finesse and spades 5-3. Since this is well within the realm of possibilities, declarer should adopt countermeasures.

If South blithely goes about setting up his longest suit, he can be defeated. Suppose declarer wins the spade lead and bangs down the king of clubs. As the cards lie, East wins and knocks out declarer's remaining spade stopper. When the clubs don't break, declarer must fall back on the diamond finesse.

Correct technique is for declarer to cross to dummy with the ace of hearts to lead a club from there. If West holds the ace of clubs, declarer must hope that the SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — U.S. warplanes joined South Korean air force fighters in formation flights over the southern part of the Korean peninsula Thursday at the end of a three-day exercise.

The exact number of participating aircraft was not disclosed; but a South Korean spokesman said "hundreds" of U.S. and South Korean planes participated in the exercise.

Airline Traffic Up In November

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Piedmont Airlines passenger traffic increased 39.4 percent in November while revenue jumped 31 percent, airlines officials said on Thursday.

"In addition to continued growth at our three hubs, Baltimore-Washington, Charlotte and Dayton, we are experiencing strong traffic growth on our more traditional system routes as well," said William G. McGee, senior vice president for marketing.

"We expect this growth to continue through December and 1984," McGee said in a news release.

For the first 11 months of this year, Piedmont passenger traffic has gone up 37.3 percent, while revenue is up 32 percent, officials said.

"One of the surprise delights of the season.
A literate, literary, offbeat comedy. Julie Walters is a joy."
— Gene Shalit, NBC-TV, TODAY SHOW

"'Educating Rita' graduates with honors. A very good film... beautifully funny, beautifully sad, beautifully real. The performances by Michael Caine and Julie Walters are excellent."
— Joel Siegel, WABC-TV

"A charming contemporary comedy with stiletto-sharp performances by Michael Caine and Julie Walters."
— Judith Crist, SATURDAY REVIEW

"Julie Walters in her first film delivers a performance that demands an Academy nomination; she is funny, touching, sage, silly, tough, sentimental."
— Bob Thomas, ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Warm, human, delightful, fragile and hilariously simultaneously. Michael Caine gives the best performance of his career."
— Bernard Drew, GANNETT NEWSPAPERS

"Witty, warmhearted and funny. Michael Caine is a total joy. Julie Walters is a riot."
— Rex Reed, SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

"Touching, quite moving and wonderfully acted. 'Educating Rita' is one of the year's most rewarding films. Go see it."

N. C. Phone Companies Criticize AT&T Move

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — While the General Assembly considers removing restrictions on in-state long-distance competition, North Carolina's telephone companies have criticized American Telephone & Telegraph Co. marketing efforts.

Representatives of Southern Bell and independent telephone companies appeared Thursday at the first day of hearings on a request by AT&T for permission to provide in-state long-distance service.

The Utilities Review Committee is studying a bill, approved this year by the state House, that would empower the Utilities Commission to allow long-distance competition within the state.

But R. Frost Brannon Jr., a Charlotte attorney for Southern Bell, questioned AT&T's tactics under the court-ordered breakup of the Bell System.

"One of the reasons why we all feel somewhat threatened... is that AT&T has not asked for merely what it is allowed to provide through (the federal court order on the breakup) but for a lot more," he said.

Southern Bell has agreed to shift its own North Carolina long-distance service to AT&T on Jan. 1, the scheduled date for the Bell System breakup, but will still provide long-distance service in metropolitan areas.

R.E. Fortenberry, vice president for regulatory matters for AT&T Communications of Southern States, said if AT&T's application is granted, it would allow the company to offer long-distance service within metropolitan areas already served by other companies.

He said, however, that would be contingent on the General Assembly removing legislation prohibiting in-state competition. He said that as of now AT&T had no plans to provide service within those areas.

Brannon noted the court-ordered breakup of the Bell System would leave Southern Bell responsible for long-distance service within the metropolitan areas it now serves.

"You don't need any authority from this commission to provide any services other than (in-state long-distance service)," Brannon said.

Fortenberry said that was AT&T's initial intent, but he said the company might go into intrametropolitan long-distance "should there be changes in the future."
