A Christmas In Jail Said Not So Bad

By SUE HINSON

Reflector Staff Writer

At about 2 p.m. Sunday, Nichols Gilmer will be sitting down with approximately 50 others for a Christmas dinner of turkey, potato pie, cranberries, corn bread and green beans. The atmosphere will more than likely be festive, but there will be a difference; Gilmer and the others will be in jail.

"It's not so bad, really. I'd just as soon be here as anywhere else," he said.

Gilmer, who will be spending his fifth Christmas in jail this year, said he clearly remembers his first time: "It was the worst," he said. "I got nervous, depressed, and went way, way back in my memories remembering how things were or could have been, but it's worse on the teen-agers who have never been locked up. They get a little upset and that's when the phone calls home start."

According to Sheriff Ralph Tyson, he and the jailers expect the inmates to get a little depressed so they take special pains to make sure everyone feels part of something over the holidays. "We give them a nice Christmas dinner, and stockings filled with nuts, fruit and about five or so little things," Tyson said.

He said local church groups also come in to carol and ministers drop by to give a comforting word or two. "It just makes the whole holiday a lot easier," Tyson said.

But no matter where you are, in jail, on the street or at home with scads of relatives, Christmas is what you make it, Gilmer said. "You can make it hard or you can make it easy. It just depends on the person. Heck, some people even like it better here," he said.

Liz Burns, also an inmate and trusty like Gilmer, agreed wholeheartedly. "For example, there was this guy who was let out a while back and told to find someplace to live within the next 35 days or something like that. Well, one morning he came back at about 5 a.m. asking to be let back in. He'd rather be in jail than anywhere else," she said.

While hospital patients aren't inmates in the literal sense of the word, they more than likely feel the same sense of isolation as do prisoners. That is why all but those most in need of care are released over the holiday, a Pitt County Memorial Hospital community relations spokesperson said.

"We cut back quite a lot on staff as well as patients, because we feel people need to be at home, and feel happier at home, at this time of year," she said. The hospital also prepares a traditional Christmas dinner for those who have to work over the holidays and for patients who are not on a regimented diet.

Sheriff, police and fire-rescue department employees will be on regular duty, however, to ensure that Pitt Countians have a safe holiday. But according to spokesmen from all three departments, they don't expect anything but the usual occurrences. "The holiday has been quiet so far, with no more than the usual incidences of traffic accidents and crime," a Greenville Police Department officer said.

Should you need to contact the police, fire department or sheriff's office for any reason, their numbers are as follows:

Greenville Police Department—752-3141
Greenville Fire and Rescue—752-3116
Pitt County Sheriff's Office—752-5136

CHRISTMAS IN JAIL ... An inmate in the Pitt County Jail stands at the door of his cell as the holiday approaches. While spending the holiday in confinement sounds horrifying to most people, another Pitt County Jail inmate, Nichols Gilmer, says "no matter where you are, Christmas is what you make it. It's better here than it is on the street." (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Not Even Red Cross 'Exempt' In Lebanon

By FAROUK NASSAR

Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A land mine explosion injured three members of an International Red Cross medical team today as they fled an outbreak of fighting between Christian and Islamic Druse militiamen southeast of the capital.

The flareup came as Saudi Arabian peace efforts were reported nearing a breakthrough to disengage Lebanon's warring factions and put Italian and Greek cease-fire observers in Beirut and the Chouf mountains.

Red Cross spokeswoman Laure Speziale said a physician, a nurse and a Lebanese aide were injured when their car hit a mine near Wadi El-Zaineh along the Mediterranean coast. She said the physician suffered a serious leg wound while the other two escaped with minor injuries.

Ms. Speziale did not identify the three people, but said the physician was taken to American University Hospital in Beirut for treatment. The Christian-controlled Voice of Lebanon radio said the injured physician was a Frenchman, Pierre Duvrant, and that the nurse also was French and was named Clare Dinguere.

The radio said the mine blast occurred as the Red Cross team was racing toward southern Lebanon's coastal highway to flee the fighting between the rightist Christians and the leftist Druse.

In the northern port city of Tripoli, Syrian-backed PLO rebels were preparing to withdraw after forcing Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasser Arafat and his 4,000 loyalists to abandon their last Middle East stronghold, reports by state and privately owned radio stations said.

Arafat, after a conciliatory meeting with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak in Cairo that set off a storm of criticism from Israel and within the PLO, was steaming down the Suez Canal with many of the exiled loyalists in Greek ships bound for North Yemen.

The Beirut radio stations and Beirut's leading newspapers said Saudi mediator Rarik Hariri was close to wrapping up a disengagement accord that would set the stage for reconvening a reconciliation conference in Geneva among Lebanon's principal warring leaders.

Hariri held a series of meetings Thursday here with Shiite Moslem and rightist

Christian militia leaders to arrange for an exchange of kidnapped hostages between the two factions. He also held lengthy telephone talks with Druse opposition leader Walid Jumblatt, who is in the Jordanian capital of Amman, the radios reported.

Most newspapers and radio stations gave no details of the disengagement agreement. But the leftist Beirut newspaper As-Safir said the plan primarily calls for:

— Withdrawal of Christian militia forces from all positions facing the Shiite-populated southern suburbs of Beirut and the closing of all their barracks in the hills overlooking the suburbs. Shiite militiamen, in turn, would pull back 700 yards from current front-line positions.

— Withdrawal of Christian militiamen from the Chouf Mountains and the Kharroub region overlooking the Israeli defense line in southern Lebanon to the Christian hinterland north of Beirut. Lebanese police would take over security functions in these regions, and Lebanese troops would control the highway linking Beirut with southern Lebanon.

Be Of Good Cheer, Bob Hope Is Here

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

AP Special Correspondent

ABOARD THE USS GUAM

(AP) — "If you think you guys are fighting over here," Bob Hope told an audience of U.S. Marines just arrived from Beirut airport, "you should see them battling for Cabbage Patch dolls back home."

Hope, giving his first Christmas show to U.S. troops overseas since Vietnam, delighted the audience aboard this Navy ship with a patter of jibes aimed at President Reagan, Democratic presidential candidate Jesse Jackson, former Yankees baseball manager Billy Martin and the cease-fire in Lebanon.

The lights of Beirut could be seen just a few miles off the flight deck of this amphibious assault ship as the 80-year-old entertainer sprayed the hooting, cheering Marines and sailors with a rapid fire opening monologue.

Hope arrived aboard the Guam only hours before the Thursday night show and made a surprise visit to the sick bay. He was to hopscotch to the battleship USS New Jersey and the carriers USS Independence and USS John F. Kennedy for a series of shows.

During the day, a large segment of the audience was shuttled by helicopter aboard the Guam from duty at Beirut airport, where they frequently have been the target of artillery shelling.

Hope evoked a torrent of howls and whistles with the line: "Beirut — that's an Arabic word meaning 'Let's get the hell out of here.'"

Then he gave his definition of "semper fidelis," the Marine Corps motto: "That means Mr. T is a sissy."

Singers Ann Jilian and Cathy Lee Crosby wept at the standing ovation the Hope troupe received from the crew of a ship that has been at sea for 65 days and, after leaving its home port of Norfolk, Va., took part in the Grenada invasion.

Some in the crew-cut audience were brushing their eyes, too, when Miss Jilian led everyone in the singing of "Silent Night," which has closed every Christmas show of Hope's since he first went overseas to entertain troops in 1943.

A chorus of whistles greeted actress and model Brooke Shields and Miss USA Julie Hayek when they came out on the makeshift stage in slinky dresses to join Hope and crooner Vic Damone in a comedy skit built around the song "Standing On The Corner, Watching All The Girls Go By."

"A military audience provides the best laughs in the world," Hope said when the sound broke down for a time and he filled in with ad-libs. "I haven't done a show like this in 12 years and I needed the fix."

He seemed overwhelmed by the enthusiasm of the audience, even when some of his jokes bombed. But he had a remedy for that too: "Stuff the bad jokes into the 5-inch guns and aim them at the Syrians."

President Ronald Reagan, Hope said of one of his closest friends, "is the greatest thing to happen to Hollywood since George Burns made God."

"Jesse Jackson," he quipped, "has made some concessions: if elected, he will still call it the White House."

On the firing yet again of Martin as Yankees manager, Hope said, "His head has rolled so many times he's got a zipper on his neck."

Hope came on stage in golfing plus-fours made of camouflage cloth and the youthful audience was his from the first crack of "I'm happy to be here for the 181st ceasefire in Lebanon."

Hope was to visit Lebanon last Christmas, but an eye ailment forced him to put off the visit for a year.

Agencies Aver No One In County Should Be Hungry This Season

By CAROL TYER

Reflector Staff Writer

There is potential for hunger in Pitt County, as there is anywhere, but with the network of organizations and agencies which seek to feed the hungry, no one here should be without nourishing food through Christmas, several agency representatives said.

Dorlas Cayton, assistant director of the Pitt County Department of Social Services, said, "With the Food Stamp program and the food distribution program in place and with the degree of communication among people via the media and person-to-person contact, it's hard to believe that anyone in this county would be hungry, now or at any other time of the year. Anyone who is or knows someone who is should contact us immediately."

Some 10,000 households in Pitt County receive varied degrees of assistance with food buying through the Food Stamp program and many more receive the supplemental cheese, butter and other commodities offered through the Agricultural Extension Service each month, she said. People who go to Social Services requesting Food Stamps and who have to have a waiting period until they are approved are referred to the Salvation Army, Church Ministries United or some other social action agency for assistance.

The Salvation Army has provided food assistance to some 600 families this Christmas and fruit baskets to more. It is always available for emergency assistance for food, fuel, whatever, though it does, like other agencies, require verification that the need is real. Church Ministries United Inc., a coalition of churches in Greenville, is providing a similar service out of its office at 917 Dickinson Av. And WRQR Christian radio here has opened a Christian Mission service of the same nature at its offices across the street from the Church Ministries United office. The Southern Christian Leadership Conference also offers aid of this type, as do individual churches.

Probably the most likely to go hungry are the elderly and disabled who live in their own homes. Pitt County Council on Aging nutrition service contract manager JoAnne Goodman said. She said Pitt County had a tremendous problem with shut-ins who were not eating

New Williamston Bridge In '85

WILLIAMSTON — Construction of a new four-lane bridge system to span the Roanoke River between Williamston in Martin County and Bertie County is expected to get under way in July 1985, according to a tentative schedule released by the N.C. Department of Transportation.

The project has been approved but the choice of the design to be used has not been made yet, according to William A. Garrett Jr., who moderated a public meeting on the bridge and designs held last week.

One recommended construction plan is based on the least expensive of several alternative plans, at a total estimated cost of $5,233,000. This plan is also the one considered least disruptive to the environment.

This design includes a twin, fixed-span system which would rise 45 feet above the mean water level. It would be located immediately east of the current draw bridge. In this plan, the two-span bridge would be built as closely as possible to the current bridge with one span to be constructed, traffic switched to that span and the old bridge to be removed prior to construction of the second new span. DOT officials explained this method would keep the roadway, a heavily traveled portion of U.S. 17, open to both vehicular traffic and boat traffic on the Roanoke River at all times.

Another plans, more expensive than the one outlined above, includes construction on the west side of the current bridge with two drawbridge systems. This plan would also entail the relocation of two businesses. These structures would run directly over the top of the N.C. Green Oil Co. property, and the bridge and roadway would cut to the front door of Barnhill Electric Co.

In response to concerns expressed by businessmen owning property in the area between the current Main Street and the proposed bridge path, DOT officials indicated that access roads would be placed on both side of the bypass for the property owners. DOT officials have agreed to further study the access arrangement before a final bridge plan is approved.

Annie Glenn Breaks The Sound Barrier — Speaking

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
NEWPORT, N.H. (AP) — For 53 of her 63 years, Annie Glenn was a prisoner of her own tongue, a stutterer who tripped over eight of every 10 words, relying on facial expressions to make a point. She disciplined her two children, she recalls, "with my eyes and my hand."

Today, the wife of Ohio Sen. John Glenn has broken through a sound barrier. "Being able to talk to people is something I could never do," she says. "My life is like a dream."

Says her husband: "Unless you've lived with a person like this for so many years, it's hard to believe the changes. She still has to work very hard. As far as discussing issues, there's more communication between us. And she wants to do so much on her own."

"She used to read about causes that interested her and send money. Now she's on the board of directors."

Today, 20 years after the space flight that hurtled Glenn into orbit and guaranteed him celebrity as a folk hero, 40 years after they married, there is no question that John and Annie Glenn are a team.

"Where's Annie?" Glenn asked a dozen times one recent campaign day, scanning factory aisles, restaurant lounges and diner counters to spot the woman who won't be rushed when she meets someone who interests her, who not only asks people's names but remembers them.

"When people ask me about Annie, I always say I married above myself," Glenn says. "And I believe it."

The Glens sat knee-to-knee in a cramped, eight-seater plane that was criss-crossing New Hampshire, another day in Glenn's quest for the Democratic presidential nomination. They were tired, operating on just a few hours' sleep and the cold, caloric fast-food that makes up campaign fare.

In numerous conversations throughout a day that started before dawn and ended long after sunset, they talked about Mrs. Glenn's newly acquired ability to speak fluently and the impact of her lifetime of stuttering on their marriage, children and career.

"John would make all my telephone calls," Mrs. Glenn said, shooting a stern look at her husband as he reached for a third chocolate bar. "I would try to go shopping but couldn't ask the clerk what I wanted, so I would hunt and hunt. A lot of the time I'd go out of the store empty-handed because I couldn't find what I wanted."

If Glenn has failings in her eyes, they're hardly capital crimes: He doesn't pick up his clothes or turn off the lights. But yes, John Glenn does take out the garbage.

Speaking slowly, carefully, she describes how he empties change from his pockets each evening and makes piles of pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters on his bedroom dresser.

"He saves the quarters for my mother to use in the washer-dryer," Mrs. Glenn says.

Mentally and physically, Annie Glenn has learned to pace herself, measuring each day, each conversation, each sentence, each word.

"Fatigue is my greatest enemy," she says as the plane bounces through a turbulent sky. "I have to work that much harder on my speech. If I get really tired, I don't have the energy to try."

It was in 1974, after Mrs. Glenn enrolled in a speech program at Hollins College near Roanoke, Va., that her speech improved noticeably. But she didn't keep up the daily therapy sessions or return for refresher courses, and she regressed.

After a second session at Hollins and a program of daily therapy, Mrs. Glenn is making speeches.

"John stands for a strong defense, but he will also stand up to the military," she declared not long ago at a fund-raising luncheon for 200 people in Arlington, Va. She talked for 20 minutes and then answered questions.

"I've been the elated bystander," Glenn says.

"Annie was never silent to me," he says. "But to see her at this age branch out to things she was interested in but could never participate in..." Glenn was asked about a report in Richard Reeves' book about the 1976 election of Jimmy Carter that quoted Carter staff members as saying Mrs. Glenn's stuttering was "one of the negatives" in the consideration of Glenn for vice president and that Mrs. Carter did not believe she would be an effective campaigner.

"I don't know," Glenn says. "I always wondered if it wasn't true, why didn't they deny it when the book came out or send a note?"

From the front seat, a dissent: "No truth to it at all," says Greg Schneiders, who worked in the Carter White House and now is communications director for Glenn.

Glenn leans forward and replies. "They had to know how it made Annie feel."

Survey Predicts Dramatic Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dramatic increases in the number of food companies using voluntary sodium labeling are forecast by a food trade association.

An announcement from the Washington-based National Food Processors Association says the labeling will jump from 26 percent of canned juices and drinks in 1982 to 78 percent by the end of 1983. The figures are taken from a recent survey by the NFPA, which says respondents represent nearly 100 percent of the fruit canners and more than 90 percent of the vegetable canners in the United States in 1982.

NFPA's executive vice president Harry Mussman says the figures for sodium labeling of canned vegetables will jump from 30 percent to 65 percent by year's end, and for canned fruits, from 25 percent to 41 percent.

Gift-Giving Is Thankless Task For Exasperated Aunt

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I need your help in handling this "slow burn" that's been building up over the years. How does one get young relatives to understand the importance of acknowledging gifts?

Having no children of my own, I have lavished generous gifts on nieces, nephews, great-nieces, great-nephews, etc. However, my regular outpouring of gifts for birthdays, graduations, weddings, Christmas, etc., was seldom acknowledged.

For too many years I have overlooked their rudeness by reasoning that their parents were too busy coping with big problems to train their children to write thank-you notes.

Though distance has often separated us, I know I am their favorite aunt and dearly loved in return. For this important gift I am truly thankful.

My concern is less for the hurt I have felt than for the awareness that such social insensitivity may be damaging to them. It seems to be perpetuating itself from generation to generation. How can I stop this from snowballing?

FAVORITE AUNT IN HAWAII

DEAR AUNT: Have you ever told them how you feel? If not, it's time you did, stressing that people who do not acknowledge gifts are considered ungrateful and ill-mannered. If they don't care what others think of them, that's their business, and they will have to live with the consequences.

In the future, give only for the joy you derive from giving, without regard for thanks. And if there is no joy in thankless giving, stop giving.

DEAR ABBY: How can I get my husband to lose weight? I have begged, pleaded and done everything within my power to get him to diet, but to no avail. He's not just "a little" overweight, Abby—he's gained over 70 pounds in the six years we've been married.

One of the reasons I fell in love with him was because he was so physically appealing. He no longer is.

He used to dress well. Not anymore. Nothing fits him. He refuses to buy new clothes—he keeps wearing clothes that should have been discarded years ago.

I love my husband, but I have absolutely no desire to have sex with him. (It's like being crushed by a ton of bricks.) Please help me. Perhaps you or a reader can offer a workable solution.

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: Neither you, nor I, nor any reader can help your husband unless he wants to be helped. The longest march in the world begins with one step, and in this case, that step is to a physician's office for a complete checkup. The next step is a diet and exercise program. No amount of nagging or pleading will help. His is a do-it-yourself project. He may need a "shrink" to help him shrink the rest of him.

DEAR ABBY: Gil and I are living together to see if we are compatible enough for marriage. The one big problem is that he absolutely refuses to use any kind of birth control. I am afraid of the side effects of the pill and I do not like any of the other contraceptives. We can't afford a family right now, but someday we probably will, so Gil doesn't want a vasectomy, and I don't want to have myself sterilized.

Otherwise we get along great. We really love each other. He says birth control is the woman's responsibility. I say it is just as much the man's responsibility as the woman's. Can you settle this?

FIGHTING IN FULLERTON

DEAR FIGHTING: The responsibility should be equally shared. Don't assume the role of the "victim." You have a choice. You can always say no. In the meantime, visit your nearest family planning clinic and take Gil with you. You both have much to learn.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Hurt in Lexington," the widow who complained because nobody sent her a card or congratulated her on her wedding anniversary.

The gift was from alumnus Ira D. Wallach and his wife, Miriam.

I am a 70-year-old widow, and if I were to receive anniversary cards I would consider it a mockery.

A wedding anniversary celebrates a couple's having been married for a certain number of years—but a marriage lasts only as long as both parties are alive. The marriage ceremony says "as long as ye both shall live"—or words to that effect. Therefore, when one person dies, the one remaining is no longer married.

The date of my marriage means a lot to me and I cherish the memories of past wedding anniversaries. But to celebrate the day alone? Absolutely not! My husband's death ended that marriage. I am no longer a married woman, and there are no more anniversaries to "celebrate."

Couple Marries Saturday Afternoon

Jennie Lee Baird and David Calvin Stokes were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at four o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church here. Gerald Anders performed the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Alexander Baird of Currituck and Mr. and Mrs. David Calvin Stokes of New Bern.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her sister-in-law, Angela Baird of Greenville was the honor attendant. Bridesmaids included Patricia Weathersbee of Greenville, Paula Alsop Edwards of Morganton and Cindy Beckman of Farmville.

The father of the bridegroom was best man while ushers were Jack Crawford, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and David Melvin of Greenville and David Baird of Currituck, brother of the bride.

Dr. Robert Irwin was organist and Susie Pair of Greenville was soloist.

For the ceremony, the bride wore a formal gown of candlelight silkened organza over peau de soie. The gown was fashioned with a Victorian neckline outlined in ruffled chantilly lace. The fitted bodice featured a sheer yoke embellished with Brussels lace embroidery in a floral motif centered with pearls. The yoke was outlined in a ruffle of chantilly lace and the long fitted sleeves were fashioned in chantilly lace with calla points at the wrist.

The fitted bodice featured a basque waistline enhanced with a corded fabric. The full skirt and attached chapel length train featured alternating tiers of ruffled chantilly lace and sheer organza. She wore a bridal hat in matching candlelight. It was trimmed in chantilly lace and sheer illusion. The bride carried a Victorian styled bouquet of alstroemerias, lily with star of Bethlehem and white roses.

The attendants wore formal gowns of wine organza over matching taffeta. The Victorian inspired gown featured a high neckline encircled with wine chantilly lace. The fitted bodice featured a sheer yoke of wine English net outlined in ruffled chantilly lace. The modified natural waistline was enhanced with a matching satin ribbon and the full skirt extended to a sweep train with ruffled tiers of chantilly lace centering the back. Each carried a cluster of pink cymbidiums with star of Bethlehem.

A reception was held at King and Queen North with music provided by 504 North. Assisting at the reception were Jeanne Clemmer, Lynn Tilley and wedding director, Barbara Penland.

The couple will live in Greenville after a wedding trip to the Bahama Islands.

The bride and bridegroom graduated from East Carolina University. She is owner of J.B.'s Island Seafood and he is sales coordinator of Culligan, Inc. in Washington.

Nursing Home Elderly Rely On Religion, Personal Autonomy

ECU News Bureau
Elderly persons with strong religious orientation and who are permitted some degree of independence are those most likely to adjust well to life in a nursing home, according to an East Carolina University sociologist.

"Religiosity exerted the strongest relative influence on the life satisfaction," says a study by Dr. Avtar Singh based on interviews with male and female residents of three medium-sized private nursing homes.

Singh and a student assistant, Nickie E. Nichols, conducted interviews with 125 respondents as part of ongoing research on the aged in eastern North Carolina. The sample consisted of relatively old, largely white and widowed persons from skilled and unskilled occupations and rural background.

The basic premise of the study was that despite the provision and availability of care and facilities, the nursing homes, in final analysis remain institutions and for the most elderly people, the "last home" before death. The researchers used a list of 23 factors reported through computerized research as related to life satisfaction among the elderly.

"If the goal of the nursing home facilities is to serve the elderly and to enable them to live the later years of life peacefully and comfortably, the concerned agencies, policy makers and administrators should pay equal if not more attention to the emotional needs, personal autonomy and preferences as perceived by the residents themselves rather than prescribing and ensuring the so-called objectively definable standards of physical care and health services alone," the Singh study said.

"Surprisingly," the researchers said, religiosity appeared to be "the most neglected variable in pertinent gerontological research."

"An important implication of this finding is that the institutionalized elderly may be served better by strengthening the religious and personal autonomy components in the institutional environment," they said.

Next to religiosity, the researchers found that the degree of personal autonomy allowed — being able to move about and do things for one's self — was the most influential factor contributing to a sense of well-being. For example it is important, Singh said, that nursing home residents be permitted to keep cherished personal possessions.

The researchers noted a "direct relationship" between the length of residence in the nursing home and life satisfaction, which they believe indicated "gradual adjustment to the institutional environment."

Other factors contributing to the residents' sense of well-being included whether or not they liked their roommates and their degree of participation in institutional-sponsored social events.

Age, marital status, years of widow or widowerhood and previous occupation were not found to be significantly related to the degree of life satisfaction.

"This was not a study of contentment, but rather of life satisfaction and adjustment to the institutional environment," Singh said.

"Contentment is different," he said.

Skeleton Watches And Wine Label Wallpaper Are Gift Suggestions

NEW YORK (UPI) — Skeleton watches, wine label wallpaper and adult candy corn with gemstone prizes in the box are among Christmas gift suggestions from manufacturers or retailers.

The works of the Ermitage collection pocket watches from Swiss watchmaker Piaget are exposed in rock crystal and yellow gold cases. The $132,000 model has 305 diamonds and 116 baguette rubies, and the $398,000 model, 180 baguette diamonds, 313 baguette rubies and one cabochon (unfaced) ruby. The $360,000 model is set with 300 diamonds and 152 baguette emeralds.

The wallpapers, in Grand Vin Label and Grand Chateau Wooden Case Ends designs, are available from Winewares of New York City at $59.95 and $49.95 per roll, respectively, for shipment throughout the United States in quantities of one double roll or more. The rolls are 28 feet long and in full color.

The caramel-glazed popcorn, pecan and almond product is a more affordable $12.95 for a 1 pound box. The manufacturers of Diamond Jacks — Hot Rocks, Inc., of Chicago — say every 1,999 out of 2,000 boxes contains a gem stone of five to 12 points — so small they're sealed in plastic in playing card designs on cardboard.

Manufacturers Lee Brady and David Sanderson say one box in every 2,000 contains a certificate redeemable for a $1,000 diamond — and the first consumer to solve the riddle on the back of each box gets a $10,000 diamond

'Reach Out' For Their Love

NEW YORK (UPI) — The no-strings-attached love of grandparents can provide stability for teenagers and be invaluable in overcoming personal problems and family tension, a magazine article says.

Writing in the December issue of Seventeen magazine, Dianne Hales says such unconditional affection can provide a sense of security and emotional sanctuary from normal living pressures.

The author quotes Dr. Arthur Kornhaber, a child psychiatrist, as saying, "Parents are charged with 'socializing,' or training, their children, but grandparents can sit back and enjoy them."

"Don't just sit back and wait for your grandparents to come to you," Kornhaber says. "Reach out and get the love they have to offer."

EVENING REFRESHER Midnight Cake & Coffee

Made by an easy method.

- 1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1 1/4 teaspoons baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup Dutch-process cocoa
- 2 large eggs
- 1 1/4 cups sugar
- 2-3rds cup oil
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Line bottoms of two square cake pans (each 8 by 8 by 2 inches) with wax paper. In a large bowl thoroughly stir together flour, baking soda, salt and cocoa; reserve. In another bowl beat eggs until foamy; gradually beat in sugar; continue to beat if necessary until thick and ivory color; reserve. To reserved flour mixture add oil, buttermilk and vanilla; beat until smooth; fold in reserved egg mixture until blended — batter will be thin. Turn into prepared pans. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 35 to 40 minutes. With a small metal spatula, loosen edges; turn out on wire racks; cool completely. Put layers together with 1/2 cup raspberry jam. Beat together until thick 1 cup heavy cream, 1/4 cup Dutch-process cocoa, 1/4 cup confectioners' sugar and use to cover top and sides of cake.

Entanglements

Those entangling arms of politics might have reached into the area of athletics with the resignation of Arkansas football coach Lou Holtz, who quit the Razorbacks after a public outcry over endorsements he had taped for Sen. Jesse Helms' upcoming re-election campaign.

Holtz declined to say why he resigned, saying only that it was due to personal reasons. Helms, however, had ordered his staff not to use the Holtz ads after Arkansas newspapers published the fact they had been taped.

The controversy coincided with a 6-5 season for the Razorbacks, the worst since the one-time N.C. State University coach went to Arkansas seven years ago. As the speculation goes, the combination was too much for Holtz.

The whole matter points up the problems encountered by public figures when they endorse political campaigns or issues. Actor Lou Asner's efforts on behalf of unpopular issues alienated him from other segments of the Hollywood community; Holtz apparently has alienated himself from the university and its athletic followers.

As Helms says, the First Amendment guarantees an individual the right to speak his feelings. But it says nothing about how those personal expressions are to be received. Holtz apparently has found the reception less than cordial.

It's a pity, for Holtz, but it is a natural characteristic of humans to respond antagonistically when they feel threatened or "let down," and to the Arkansans, Holtz had let them down by endorsing a candidate whose philosophy includes views some consider to be racist. No longer, they say, could Arkansas expect to recruit black athletes to play under Holtz.

There is an adage to the effect that, if you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen. For Holtz, the heat obviously got hot — and he got out.

Joy Lights Up

This holiday season, more than any other factor this year, has shown that North Carolinians at least are no longer fear-stricken by a possible shortage of energy.

Houses literally glare in the darkness with Christmas lights; streets are jammed with automobiles and, now, comes the report that more service stations will be open across the state this Christmas than last — and gasoline prices have fallen near 7 cents a gallon during the past year.

Compare that to the darkness and empty highways of 1974 or 1975, or some of the other years between then and now.

Where once a homeowner would have been branded a traitor for using more than one string of lights, there now seems to be a race on as to how many lights can be strung.

That race, incidentally, may have been won by a small community just west of Stantonsburg on N.C. 222. Occupants of four or five homes and three mobile homes, all lined up side by side along the highway, have attached lights to anything growing in their yards.

We haven't seen anything quite that elaborate in the Greenville area, but the Christmas spirit obviously has been revived — at least in the use of energy for celebration.

Housing Booms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Though nervously eyeing interest rates, the nation's home builders and sellers are forecasting that 1984 will be a good housing year to follow up their booming 1983.

Construction, to take one long-suffering part of the industry, hit its lowest level in 25 years during 1982. But it is bouncing back this year, with the latest figures showing housing starts up 63 percent for the first 11 months of 1983.

And barring any big increase in interest rates — or a completely unexpected big decline — home construction should be about the same or slightly higher and sales should be up at least a bit next year, analysts say.

For consumers, houses will be more expensive but not horrendously so. Loans should be available.

First-time buyers will be taking a bigger share of the market. Of the major regions, the South and the West will be taking smaller shares, though still remaining dominant.

Foreclosure proceedings should continue downward as more home-owners laid off during the recession get their jobs back.

By all accounts, the good news could turn sour if interest rates began to surge back to pre-recession levels of more than 20 percent on construction loans and 18 percent on mortgages. And builders, buyers and sellers probably won't have much to do with that.

"The great bugaboo remains the federal deficit," said Mark Riedy, executive vice president of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America.

Congress is likely to take "at most, feeble steps" to reduce the government's red ink from the record 1983 level of nearly $200 billion, he said.

Economists are generally agreed that deficits continuing at that level eventually would push interest rates higher, making it tougher for builders to get construction loans and nearly impossible for some prospective buyers to get home loans.

If that happens, the consequences could be widely felt, because housing's health affects the well-being of other industries, including lumber and appliances.

In the words of a recent analysis from Chase Econometrics, a private forecasting firm, "an interest rate rebound, in response to either ballooning federal government deficits or a renewed surge in inflation, would derail the recovery in housing and durable goods expenditures and would, therefore, abort the recovery" of the economy in general.

But that's merely the worry, not the expectation for the short term.

In fact, Riedy said he expected home loan rates to decline by mid-year from the present 13-to-13.5 percent range — perhaps by a full percentage point.

Michael Sumichrast, chief economist for the National Association of Home Builders, said he expected a half-point decline.

Air Bags Aren't The Answer

WASHINGTON — The whole business of automobile "air bags" is in limbo these days, waiting upon the appellate process to run its way in the courts. During this lull it may be useful to examine the controversy once more. I am increasingly persuaded that when it comes to the automobile death toll, we encounter a problem that has no satisfactory answer.

An evenhanded account of the long controversy appears in the current News & Views of the American Council on Science and Health. Prepared by Sharon Lynn Campbell, a research associate at the council, the article examines the air bag, looks at its alternative and offers a recommendation that might help. The recommendation strikes me as unsound, but we will come to that in a moment.

The controversy goes back to 1969, when 56,400 highway deaths aroused such an outcry that the Nixon administration ordered the Transportation Department to find the facts and suggest some answers. This led in 1972 to the first air bag proposal. An air bag regulation still is tied up in the courts today.

For those who may have come in late: An air bag is a pillowlike container that ordinarily is tightly folded and tucked out of sight under the steering wheel on the driver's side and under the glove compartment on the passenger's side. When a car collides with a solid barrier at 12 miles per hour, or with another vehicle at 25 miles per hour, sensors activate a small container of sodium azide. This generates nitrogen gas, which inflates the bags. The bags pop out, creating a cushion between the occupants and the windshield. Inflation takes 0.04 seconds; deflation is complete within 15 to 20 seconds.

Repeated tests have shown that in certain situations, air bags work well and reliably. The chance of accidental inflation is virtually nil. The bags do protect drivers and front-seat passengers in frontal collisions, and these collisions account for 50 percent to 60 percent of all fatal accidents.

But the system, Campbell concludes, "has severe weaknesses." Frontal collisions make up only 20 percent of all crashes; thus the bags are of no value in four out of five accidents. The bags are expensive: "Current estimates range from $575 to $828 in 1982 for initial installation." The bags can be used only once; replacement of the system, assuming a damaged car could be repaired at all, runs to about $1,500.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has estimated that if air bags were made mandatory in all passenger vehicles, 9,000 deaths and 50,000 injuries would be averted every year. Campbell finds no valid support for the estimates. The government has conceded, she says, that the sample is "too small to have statistically meaningful results."

The principal alternative to the air bag is the passive seat belt, which positions itself automatically around an occupant as a car door is opened and closed. The devices work only on cars with bucket seats, and they require special knee restraints under the dashboard, but otherwise they work well. Their big drawback is that the belts can be easily dismantled, and given Americans' disdain for ordinary seat belts, the government estimates that half of all drivers would disassemble the passive belts if their installation were made mandatory.

What to do? Campbell's recommendation, based upon European experience, is to enact laws "that make seat belt usage mandatory for all drivers and passengers." These could be made effective by well-publicized heavy fines. Drivers who failed to buckle up and were involved in an accident also could be charged with contributory negligence, which would affect their insurance benefits.

My own thought, after 12 years of following this story, is that answers should be left to the private sector. If there truly is a consumer demand for air bags or passive belts, the marketplace will supply that demand. Nothing prevents insurance companies from offering incentives to drivers who buckle up or have air bags installed. A free people must be free to be foolish. The government ought not to hold our hands all the time.

Savers Find New Investments

NEW YORK (AP) — With the impending breakup of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. at year end, savers looking for income-producing investments will have a new set of vehicles to choose from.

They are the stocks of the seven regional holding companies that will be split off from AT&T, retaining the business of local telephone service in their respective areas of the country.

As part of the breakup plan, the stocks began trading last month on a "when-issued" basis at the New York Stock Exchange and regional exchanges around the country.

Actual settlement of these when-issued sales and purchases isn't scheduled to take place until next February. But in the meantime, it has allowed the markets to start the process of putting a value on each company-to-be.

Most security analysts on Wall Street agree that the seven newcomers — Ameritech, Bell Atlantic, Bell South, Nynex, Pacific Telesis, Southwestern Bell and U.S. West — will eventually develop widely disparate corporate identities. But so far, the markets seem to have made no great distinctions between them.

The companies are expected to pay their first dividend on May 1. Based on their projected payouts then, they are all now trading at prices that would produce annual yields thereafter of between 9.2 percent and 9.6 percent.

Yields in that range, or close to it, are available now on Treasury bills, bank certificates and other interest-bearing investments that are considered ultra-safe. For example, three-month Treasury bills offered an effective yield of about 9.4 percent as of early this week.

But the new phone companies, unlike T-bills or bank deposits, offer the hope of future dividend increases, as well as the possibility of capital gains.

Once these companies have been out on their own for a little while, analysts point out, they will be under considerable pressure to perform well enough to increase their dividends at a healthy rate.

They need large amounts of capital for equipment and other facilities, and they will be competing for investors' money not only with other industries like electric utilities, but with each other.

It seems clear that conservative individual investors, as well as many investing institutions such as pension funds, have taken a very gingerly approach to the new phone companies so far. That may be partly due to a general unfamiliarity with the idea of when-issued trading.

In addition, for all their entrenched position in a big, solid business, the offspring of Ma Bell are still unknown quantities, with no past record as independent entities to rely on.

As time passes and the companies' prospects become clearer, long-term investors are expected to become more active participants in the trading of the new stocks. They will have the advantage then of knowing more about the risks and problems, as well as the opportunities, confronting each of the companies.

But some analysts believe there is a good possibility that anyone willing to take the market risk and venture into the stocks now could profit from the wariness of others.

"Without significant participation by long-term investors, we think the market in these stocks has functioned imperfectly and that present prices of the new companies do not reflect their fundamental values," contends the Merrill Lynch Market Letter, published by the nation's largest brokerage firm.

"We think this has created unusual intermediate-term profit opportunities for the individual investor."

"When institutions begin to trade these stocks more actively, we expect the average yield of the regional companies to drop, the spread in yield to widen, and an emphasis on quality to increase," Mark Luftig, an analyst at the investment firm of Salomon Bros. wrote recently. "We expect them to outperform the electric utility industry in 1984."

Mitterrand Tightens Security

PARIS — With minimum publicity, socialist President Francois Mitterrand is tightening French military links to West Germany in a move toward partnership that is unprecedented in the history of the two old adversaries.

The effort by Mitterrand, whose steely realism about the Soviet threat to Europe has become President Reagan's best, most unexpected foreign surprise, has one main source: fear that shattering of the defense consensus in Bonn may lead either to neutralism or anti-Western nationalism across the Rhine.

The prospect of France and the rest of NATO Europe deprived of the West German defense line against the Warsaw Pact is a specter causing nightmares here. Mitterrand does not advertise the prospect nor how he hopes to fend it off, partly out of fear of anti-French repercussions in West Germany and anti-German reactions in France. But there can no longer be doubt that the hard-nosed Socialist leader of France, strongly backed by Gaullist leader Jacques Chirac, intends to institutionalize the defense relationship between the two countries. He is building a new French arsenal that he hopes will influence Bonn away from its new and still murky separatism, centered in the Social Democratic Party (SPD) and the Greens.

Although Chancellor Helmut Kohl's conservative party turned back the SPD effort to block deployment of new Pershing II missiles, the French fear the SPD may now turn against NATO itself in its zealous courtship of detente and the favor of Moscow.

Thus, Mitterrand and Defense Minister Charles Hernu are building a new 50,000-man Rapid Action Force and a nuclear-tipped missile, with a 250-mile range, called Hades. The force is geared for front-line duty beside West German troops on the first day of combat; the Hades will fire warheads against Warsaw Pact choke points, possibly from both French and German bases.

What makes this unique is a first-ever attempt at integration between French and German forces. The Rapid Action Force, now half built, will eventually have nearly 300 helicopters to move it to the border of East Germany and the Warsaw Pact in hours. The plan is to use German aircraft for protection on the way to the battlefield.

Far more delicate is the question of whether the Hades missile, still under development, should be based in both countries and, if so, whether Bonn should have some control over its firing. "We're not even whispering about that except behind locked doors," one French official told us.

The fact that the French would even consider "dual key" control over firing nuclear-tipped missiles, with Bonn possessing one of the keys, shows the level of French concern over new separatist tendencies in the Federal Republic. Centuries of taboo against Gallic military collaboration with the once-hated and feared Hun seem to be melting under the political heat of Bonn's pacifist-neutralist-nationalist mood. Keeping West Germany strongly in NATO is worth a great deal to Paris.

The Reagan administration is giving silent encouragement to Mitterrand, but not without some caution. French-German nuclear cooperation on the Hades missile could anger the Soviet Union.

Librarians Attend Program

Dr. Gerald Hodges, assistant professor in the UNC-Greensboro Library Science-Educational Technology Division, and Frances Bradburn, Upper School librarian at Greensboro Day School, were featured speakers at "Booktalking," a recent program in East Carolina University's Saturday workshop series.

Approximately 40 librarians attended the program, which was sponsored by the ECU Department of Library Science and the ECU Division of Continuing Education.

Future workshops in the series include "The Small Computer: Advanced," scheduled for Jan. 14, and "Program Planning," set for Feb. 11.

Cohen Attends Program

Winterville chiropractor Dr. Steven Cohen recently attended a three-day postgraduate program in Miami. He studied the evaluation and chiropractic treatment of neck-shoulder-arm disorders, particularly those which become apparent after athletic and motor vehicle accident injury.

ECU Schedules Seminar

A two-day seminar for maintenance managers in business, industry and government titled "Organization and Management of a Preventive Maintenance Program" is being offered in Raleigh by the East Carolina University Division of Continuing Education Feb. 13-14.

The program, in which more than 6,000 maintenance managers have participated in the past, will be directed by Kenneth H. Little, operations and management consultant.

Further information is available from the ECU Division of Continuing Education, Erwin Hall, East Carolina University, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

FmHA Approves Truck Loan

Sen. John East's office said Thursday the Farmer's Home Administration has approved a loan of $50,000 for Carolina Township Volunteer Fire Department.

The loan, which is for 20 years at 9.5 percent interest, will be used to purchase a new truck chassis with a 1,000-gallon per minute pump and a 750-gallon tank.

Car Runs Into House

An estimated $2,500 damage resulted when a car driven by Jeffery Laughinghouse of 1005 Colonial Ave. went out of control and collided with a house at 1230 Davenport St. early today.

Officers set damage from the 4 a.m. collision at $2,000 to the house and yard, and $500 to the Laughinghouse car.

Tape Player Stolen

The larceny of a tape player from a car parked at Pitt Plaza was reported to Greenville police about 4 a.m. Thursday. Officer D.D. Hines said someone broke into a car owned by Laura Lee Ward of E3 Cannon Court, to take the player, valued at $350.

Collision Investigated

An estimated $200 damage resulted to each of two vehicles involved in an 8:48 a.m. collision Thursday at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Chestnut Street.

Police said the mishap involved a truck driven by Charlie Junior Briley of Route 1, Bethel, and a car driven by Rudolph Teel of Route 4, Greenville.

Dinner Will Honor Helms

U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms will be honored at a dinner at the Greenville Moose Lodge on Jan. 6.

Claude Allen, a spokesman for the Helms for Senate Committee, said "Sen. Helms is looking forward to spending some time with his friends and supporters in the Greenville area. This dinner will give the senator the opportunity to hear their views on issues that are important to our state."

Information about tickets can be had by calling Gilda McKinney at 756-2233.

Driver Is Charged

An estimated $600 damage resulted to each of three cars involved in a collision Wednesday on 10th Street, 200 feet west of the Rock Springs Road intersection.

Police identified the drivers of the three vehicles involved as Elizabeth Anne Gettig of Mebane, Kimberly Frances Turnage of Kinston, and Mamie Anderson Williams of Route 1, Ayden.

Ms. Gettig was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of the collision.

Tobacco Fee To Stay At 7 Cents For 1984 Crop

Tobacco farmers got some of their best news of the year Thursday when U.S. Agriculture Secretary John Block announced that next year's assessment for the tobacco program will remain at 7 cents a pound, tobacco leaders say.

"That's good news," said Rep. Charles Rose, D-N.C., chairman of the House subcommittee on tobacco and peanuts. "I was afraid it would be higher."

Rose said Stabilization officials are making the program work.

T. Carlton Blalock of Raleigh, executive vice president of the Tobacco Growers of North Carolina, said

Block's decision was "some of the best news" tobacco farmers have had all year.

Blalock said the decision would save growers about $60 to $140 per acre of tobacco compared with early speculation that the fee might have been set at 10 cents or 14 cents a pound.

State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham said limiting the assessment to 7 cents would put farmers in a better position to make a profit next year, assuming Stabilization does not take a large percentage of the 1984 crop.

The Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corp. in Raleigh said Wednesday it had recommended the assessment not be increased for the 1984 crop.

The fee is paid by farmers to support the federal tobacco program. The chief use of the assessment is for interest and handling on tobacco that is sold under federal loan.

The fee was first imposed in 1982 in answer to congressional critics who said the federal tobacco program should be self supporting.

CAR MISSES CURVE — Two persons were slightly injured when their car missed a sharp curve on rural paved road 1725 at the end of 14th Street Extension Thursday night. According to Trooper J.B. Heath, the car was driven by Jasper Bullock of Winterville and the passenger was listed as his wife, Deborah. Heath said the car was headed west and approached the curve at a high speed, ran off the shoulder of the highway and lost control. The investigator said charges are pending. Members of the Eastern Pines fire and rescue department as well as Greenville Rescue responded to the call. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Season Also One Of Extra Fire Risk

Greenville Fire-Rescue Department Chief Jenness Allen has urged local area residents to be more cautious during the holiday season because of the increased threat of fire caused by traditional Christmas decorations.

Allen said tree-trimmers should inspect electrical wires used in trimming holiday trees to make sure they are not frayed or otherwise unsafe.

He also suggested that live trees be kept outdoors or in other cool areas as long as possible before putting them up. He said too, that stands used to hold live trees should be able to hold water so the three won't dry out as fast.

Never use candles on trees and don't use large Christmas lights on artificial trees, Allen warned, because of the increased fire hazard.

The fire-rescue chief said tree lights and other decorative lights should be turned off when members of the family are not at home, and he cautioned parents about leaving young children at home alone with Christmas decorations turned on.

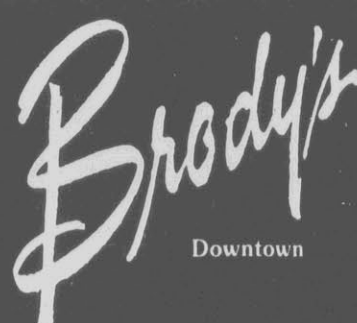

Allen said too that fireplaces should not be left burning when family members are not at home or after the family has gone to bed at night.

Screens should be used in front of fireplaces, he said, to prevent sparks from popping out onto floors or carpet near the fireplace.

The fire-rescue official said when presents are opened Christmas morning, wrappings should not be thrown in fireplaces or left lying around the house. Instead, he emphasized, wrappings should be gathered together as quickly as possible and placed in a proper container outside the home.

CRYPTOQUIP

DWUP SGFUY SG JUUJ ORP'K IZUUJ
YGUI IWU DRKOW WUF IWUUJ ZURJ?

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — LADY USED SKELETON KEY TO ENTER HER HAUNTED HOUSE.
Today's Cryptoquip clue: U equals E.

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Seeking Determine Cause Of Fish-Kill

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (AP) — Biologists are trying to determine what killed millions of finger-sized menhaden which have been washing ashore on Cape Hatteras and Ocracoke Island for about 10 days.

"We suspect that this is a natural happening, where the abundance of fish in a small area simply deplete the amount of oxygen available, causing death," said Jeff Ross, a biologist with the U.S. Marine Fisheries Service.

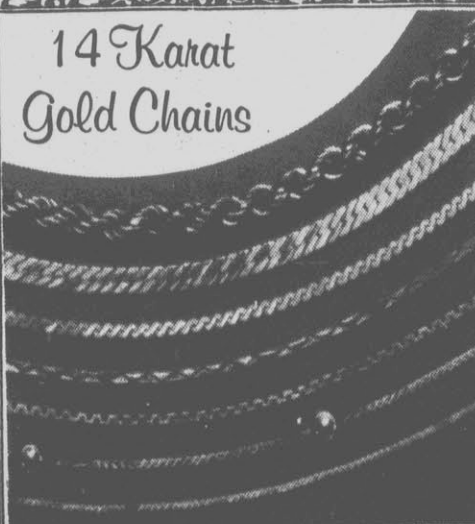

Ross said there is no danger from the fish kills except the smell as they decay.

"If it were summer, we would have had hundreds of telephone calls by now," he said. He said there is no cleanup program which goes into effect when such natural phenomena occur and the only way the shores and inlets will be cleaned will be with the help of a strong southeast wind.

"We've been trying to ignore it (the smell)," Dave Hamrich, an employee of the Hatteras Harbor Marina at Hatteras Inlet, where the largest numbers of fish have been reported, said.

Ross said the fish may have been "packed so tightly" in the passage through the sound that they depleted the available oxygen, causing their deaths.

To Talk Future Power Supplies

Officials of North Carolina Eastern Municipal Power Agency and Carolina Power & Light Co. have agreed to discuss the future of the agency's power supply in light of the cancellation of Unit 2 at CP&L's Shearon Harris nuclear power plant earlier this week.

CP&L's decision not to complete the generating unit reduces the agency's ownership of electric generating capacity by 16 percent, and reduces the potential savings that NCEMPA cities had expected from the power agency's purchase and co-ownership of portions of CP&L generating facilities.

The cancellation also reduces the amount of revenue bonds which will have to be issued to fund the NCEMPA project and reduces the risks inherent in funding construction of the $2 billion nuclear unit, Ralph Shaw, general manager of the NCEMPA said.

While no date has been set for the meeting, Shaw said the talks will center on possible methods of restoring the size of the original NCEMPA project.

NCEMPA's agreement with CP&L in October 1981 called for the power agency to purchase interests in Units 1, 2, 3 and 4 at Harris; Unit 4 at Roxboro Electric Power Plant; Units 1 and 2 at Mayo Electric Generating Plant; and Units 1 and 2 at Brunswick Steam Electric Plant.

Cancellation of Harris Units 3 and 4 by CP&L in December 1981, resulted in a 24 percent reduction in the initial NCEMPA project.

The NCEMPA purchase of CP&L electric generating facilities provides the agency with its own generating capacity and reduces the energy that NCEMPA must purchase from CP&L to provide service to the 32 member cities — including Greenville — which purchase power at wholesale from the agency.

The NCEMPA replaced CP&L and Virginia Electric and Power Co. (Veeco) at the power supplier to the agency's 32 members.

At the end of 1982, NCEMPA's members had saved a total of $7.8 million in power costs as a result of the power agency project, compared to what the costs would have been if CP&L and Veeco had continued to supply the members with electricity, according to Shaw.

Ayden, Farmville, Robersonville, Kinston, Washington, New Bern, Wilson and Rocky Mount are among other area cities who are NCEMPA members.

Christmas Gift Was Explosive

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A small explosive device was left disguised as a Christmas gift in a hallway at Millbrook High School Wednesday, Raleigh police said.

The device, discovered by a custodian, did not explode. Detective Lt. B.W. Peoples said the package probably was left as a prank.

"It was probably not designed to hurt anybody, but it would have," he said. "We were very lucky that it didn't go off."

Police declined to provide details about the device.

Hunger...

als wishing to help enlarge this program may contact her.

This Meals on Wheels program, which has a central kitchen for five counties in Oak City, is closed next week, she said, as kitchen workers and others need some vacation. "We've found," she said, "that Christmas week is the time of year that our clients are most likely to have family and friends to see to their needs, so this is when we take a break. And we try, even then, to be sure that someone is responsible for looking in on and providing food for our people."

She suggested that those who know people who are Meals on Wheels recipients be conscious of checking in on them more through Christmas week.

All of the agencies and organizations pointed out that their work is supplemented and made possible through the contributions of money and time by area people of good will. "Many, many churches and businesses and organizations and individual families take people to support through the Christmas season," Mrs. Ronald Davis of the Salvation Army said.

"Our work in the community is greatly aided by the other churches and by individuals. Just yesterday we received large gifts of food supplied through a movie theater 'canned goods for admission' promotion and from a local industry. Our work wouldn't be possible without everyone in the community giving as they do."

Gurganus Joins Region Office

WASHINGTON, N.C. — John H. Gurganus has been named industrial development representative in the N.C. Department of Commerce's northeastern regional office here.

Commerce Secretary C.C. Hope said Gurganus, a graduate of East Carolina University, with a master's degree in management from Central Michigan University, will join developer Bill Abeyounis at the office when senior development representative Roger Critcher retires Dec. 30.

Critcher has been employed by the Department of Commerce since 1970.

Prior to joining the Department of Commerce Dec. 15, Gurganus served as executive director of the Duplin Development Commission and from 1974 until 1976 worked as executive director of the Northampton County economic development commission.

The northeastern regional office serves 21 counties.

Seattle, Denver Set To Clash

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle Coach Chuck Knox and his counterpart at Denver, Dan Reeves, disagreed on who would start at quarterback for the Broncos when the teams square off in the National Football League playoff opener.

When asked on Monday who he thought would start for Denver in the Christmas Eve American Football Conference wild-card game at the Kingdome, Knox replied: "John Elway."

On Thursday, injured veteran Steve DeBerg was activated and Reeves named the seven-year veteran as his starter.

"I can certainly see the reasoning," Knox said when he was informed of Reeves' decision. "Dan Reeves wants to go with a more experienced quarterback. They had won four games in a row with him prior to his injury."

DeBerg suffered a separated left shoulder against the Seahawks in a game here on Nov. 6. He left the Kingdome grunting in pain with his arm in a sling.

Although he still has a pin in his left shoulder, DeBerg has been throwing in practice for three weeks.

Elway, a 1982 Stanford All-America and the 1983 NFL draft's No. 1 selection, has struggled in his first NFL season and threw four interceptions in zero-degree weather in a 48-17 loss in Kansas City last weekend. That defeat cost Denver the home-field advantage against the Seahawks.

"I'm tickled to death as a rookie just to get into the playoffs," said Elway.

"My philosophy has always been that you don't lose a starting job because of injuries," said Reeves.

"I would much rather start than have to come into the game off the bench when we're behind," DeBerg said.

Seattle earned the right to get into the playoffs for the first time in the franchise's eight-year history last Sunday by beating New England 24-6 in the Kingdome.

The Seahawks and Denver each ended with 9-7 records. The AFC West rivals split two regular-season meetings in 1983, with Seattle winning 27-19 in the game in which DeBerg was injured and the Broncos taking a rematch in Denver 38-27 on Nov. 20.

In the game in Denver, third-string rookie Gary Kubiak filled in for Elway, who was in bed with the flu that day, and quarterbacked the Broncos' victory.

Despite his glowing collegiate statistics, Elway has struggled in his first NFL season and Denver is just 2-6 with him as a starter. DeBerg has directed the Broncos to a 6-1 mark.

Seattle is in the playoffs after three straight losing seasons. While this will be the team's first time to the playoffs, it will be Knox's eighth playoff appearance in 11 seasons as an NFL head coach.

However, a Knox-coached team has never made it to the Super Bowl.

"I think the one thing you have to be careful of is being satisfied you're in the playoffs," Knox said. "That's something you have to guard against."

RALEIGH — D.H. Conley's Shawn Hardy captured the 138-pound championship of the prestigious WRAL Invitational Wrestling Tournament yesterday, leading the Vikings to a fourth place tie.

Hardy Wins Title; Vikes 4th At WRAL

Cape Fear of Fayetteville took the team championship with a score of 181½, well ahead of top-ranked Cary with 145. Fayetteville Westover finished third with 124½, while Conley and Fayetteville Pine Forest both finished with 95½.

Defending state champion Raleigh Sanderson finished sixth with 64½, followed by Oxford Webb at 46 and hosting Athens Drive with 38.

Conley also added three second place finishes and two fourths.

"Overall we did a fairly good job, considering two factors," Coach Milt Sherman said.

"One was the overall strength of the competition, since the top six schools are all ranked in the top 20 in the state right now. Cary is ranked first and got beat. Sanderson is ranked sixth and finished sixth. The other factor is that we had to leave two starters at home due to injuries or absences and hopefully we'll be at full strength again for the West Carteret Invitational next Thursday in Morehead City."

Hardy, who was seeded sixth in the field fought his way through to gain the 138-pound championship. He won three matches, gaining a pin in the first, then winning by injury default in the second. He then defeated Cape Fear's Melvin, 5-3, to win the title.

Finishing second for the Vikings were Reginald Moore at 119, Gerald Harper at 195 and Stacy McCarter at heavyweight.

Taking fourth place were Jackie King at 105 and Kerry Farris at 126.

Summary:

98 — David Farris lost to King (Cary), 6-3, lost to Bradley (AD), 8-1, and did not place.

105 — Jackie King lost by pin to Calloway (WO), 0-39, pinned East (San), 1-33, lost to Naylor (PF), 4-1, and finished fourth.

112 — Did not compete.

119 — Reginald Moore pinned Henna (San), 5-01, decisioned Lewis (Cary), 7-2, lost to Rodgers (CF), 10-5, and finished second.

126 — Kerry Farris decisioned Spell (CF), 1-4-6, lost to Karmierzak (San), 10-0, pinned McLeod (PF), 2-37, lost by pin to Spell (CF), 0-55, and finished fourth.

132 — Did not compete.

138 — Shawn Hardy pinned Johnson (WO), 3-22, won by injury default over Tobin (Cary), decisioned Melvin (CF), 5-3, and finished first.

145 — Martin Anderson pinned Walker (WO), 1-23, lost by pin to Martin (San), 0-47, lost by pin to Autry (CF), 4-54, and did not place.

155 — Scott Boyce lost to Haynes (WO), 9-4, lost by pin to Stainback (OW), 2-34, and did not place.

167 — Alton Mobley decisioned by Johnson (WO), 20-1, lost by pin to Pope (CF), 2-07, and did not place.

185 — Ricky Rice pinned Williams (AD), 2-26, lost to Moore (CF), 22-2, lost to Thompson (WO), 7-1, and did not place.

195 — Gerald Harper pinned Herndon (OW), 2-23, decisioned Wray (PF), 12-5, lost by pin to Jacobs (CF), 1-36, and finished second.

Hwt — Stacy McCarter pinned Capps (OW), 0-39, decisioned McDuffy (Cary), 4-2, lost to Elliott (CF), 7-0, to finish second.

West Virginia Rallies, Tops Kentucky In Hall Of Fame

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Coach Don Nehlen believed Paul Woodside and believed in Jeff Hostetler, and the result was a 20-16 victory for West Virginia over Kentucky in the Hall of Fame Bowl.

The 18th-ranked Mountaineers trailed Kentucky 10-3 at the half Thursday night after Hostetler had thrown 10 passes with no completions and one interception.

Kentucky was to get the ball to start the second half, but Woodside, an All-American place-kicker, recovered his onside kick at the Wildcat 48.

"Coach, we can get it," Woodside told Nehlen before the kick. "So, I said, 'Let's try.' Nehlen said, 'We needed a lift, and we were kicking with the wind. It's a bowl game, so I said, 'Let's go after it.'"

After Woodside's kick, Tom Gray ran twice and then Hostetler completed his first pass. Four more runs by Gray led to Hostetler's 16-yard toss to Rich Hollins to tie the score.

"Nothing seemed to go right in the first half," Hostetler said. "But I'm proud that the team had confidence in me and the coaches stuck with me. After I completed the first couple of passes, I felt pretty good and knew I could move the team."

Nehlen said he "never had a game where we did not complete a pass in the first half, but I wasn't worried. Jeff is too good a quarterback, and I knew he would bring us through."

Hostetler later ran the ball 37 yards to the 2 and hit Rob Bennett on a scoring pass, and Woodside kicked his second field goal to give the 9-3 Mountaineers enough cushion to absorb Kentucky's final score, a 13-yard pass from Bill

Ransdell to Joe Phillips.

Kentucky, 6-5-1 after going 0-10-1 in 1982 in Jerry Claiborne's first year as the coach, took its halftime lead on a 26-yard halfback pass from Tony Mayes to quarterback Randy Jenkins, a play that caught the Mountaineers off guard, and a 23-yard field goal by John Hutcherson.

Ferguson Tops Pack Tourney

WASHINGTON — Lee Ferguson was named the Most Outstanding Wrestler and two other Pam Pack matmen won titles as Washington finished third overall in its own invitational wrestling tournament yesterday.

West Carteret took the team championship with 169½ points while Havelock was a close second with 155. Washington took third with 149½.

Fourth place was won by New Bern with 84, followed by Eastern Wayne with 82. Williamston took sixth with 63½, followed by Pinecrest with 57½ and Northeastern with 50.

Ferguson won both of his matches in the meet, including a 8-5 comeback win over Wally Cowperthwait of West Carteret for the 138-pound championship. Cowperthwait qualified for the state championships last year.

Also winning titles for Washington were Joe Landon at 98 pounds and Sean Phalen at 126. Both were defending their crowns won at those weights last season.

Williamston had one champion in the event and Keith Griffin won the heavyweight title, downing Washington's David Cuttrel on a 51-second pin.

Washington had one other second place finish, as Brian Stokes lost in the championship bout at 112.

Williamston's Donnell Lawrence also was a second place finisher at 155.

Washington's Phil Harris finished third at 132 while Rob Jackson was third at 167.

Summary of Washington and Williamston championship bouts:

98 — Joe Landon (Wa) p. David POUND (NB), 1-24.

112 — Dan Iawanicki (WC) p. Brian Stokes (Wa), 1-32.

126 — Sean Phalen (Wa) d. Chad Hawks (PC), 7-2.

138 — Lee Ferguson (Wa) d. Wally Cowperthwait (WC), 8-5.

155 — Mike Rook (H) p. Donnell Lawrence (Wm), 3-56.

Hwt — Keith Griffin (Wm) p. David Cuttrel (Wa), 0-51.

Scouts Eye Blue-Gray Stars

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Charles "Fats" Jones, executive director of the 46th annual Blue-Gray Football Classic, says he has high hopes for the professional careers of 72 college all-stars playing Sunday.

More than 200 scouts from the National Football League, United States Football League and Canadian Football League arrived in Montgomery earlier this week to scrutinize the all-stars.

Among those players is East Carolina offensive guard Terry Long.

The game kicks off Christmas Day at 11:30 a.m. It will be televised by CBS.

"The inference I get from the pro scouts is that this year's squads are every bit as talented as last year," Jones said.

"We've been able to add players from some of the perennial powers such as Southern Cal, Arkansas and Oklahoma that are always sure draft choices. That would indicate we could well exceed 60 players this year."

A record 58 Blue-Gray players were drafted last year, including NFL first-round choices Gabe Rivera of Texas Tech, Chris Hinton of Northwestern, Mike Haddix of Mississippi State, Gil Byrd of San Jose State and Leonard Smith of McNeese State.

Southern Mississippi's Reggie Collier and Louisville's Frank Minniefield also were first-round NFL choices. Thirty-two other players made NFL rosters and more than a dozen more made USFL teams.

The players arrived Sunday night and began preparing, except for Alabama's Malcolm Simmons, who won't arrive until the night before the Blue-Gray game.

Simmons has to punt for Alabama in Saturday's Sun Bowl game with Southern Methodist.

Some highly regarded players on the Blue team include Tulsa running back Michael Gunter, Indiana wide receiver Duane Gunn, Purdue tight end Cliff Benson, Kansas State defensive tackle Reggie Singletary, Arizona linebacker Ricky Hunley, Michigan State linebacker Carl Banks and Utah State defensive back Patrick Allen.

For the Gray team, top players include Furman running back Stanford Jennings, Tennessee wide receiver Clyde Duncan, Southern Mississippi offensive tackle Glenn Howe, East Carolina's Long, Duke Center Phillip Evinger, Texas-Arlington center Mark Cannon, Maryland defensive tackle Pete Koch, North Carolina State defensive lineman Vaughan Johnson, Clemson cornerback Rod McSwain, South Carolina State cornerback Barney Bussey, Alabama State defensive lineman Zac Barnes and Clemson defensive lineman James Robinson.

Boomer Esiason, scheduled to play quarterback for the Gray team, was scratched after he suffered a shoulder injury in last Saturday's Citrus Bowl clash with Tennessee.

He was replaced by Wake Forest's Gary Schofield.

The Gray coaches are Vanderbilt's MacIntyre, Virginia Tech's Bill Dooley and Clemson's Frank Howard, the recruiter. The Blue will be coached by Wisconsin's Dave McClain, Arizona's Larry Smith and recruiter Don Faurot of Missouri.

Business During The Past Year.

Woody Peele

This story came to us a few days ago. You can judge for yourself the meaning of it all.

We'll give two of the people names, say Smith and Jones, to protect the innocent.

Seems last week, Smith, an assistant football coach at a college in the Carolinas-Virginia area, got a call from then head coach Lou Holtz at Arkansas, asking if he would be interested in a job on his staff for the 1984 season.

Well, of course, Smith told Holtz, and then asked if he might be intersted in Jones, an assistant at another school also in this area. Holtz said that he would, and contact was made with Jones, who set up an interview on this past Sunday with Holtz in Fayetteville, Ark.

On Sunday, Jones was at the Charlotte Airport, making a change for an Atlanta flight when he was paged. "Call the Arkansas football office," he was told. But, attempts to complete the call met with constant busy signals, and the coach had to board his plane for Atlanta.

There, he ran into Smith, who, with his wife, was returning from Arkansas, where he had been hired on Saturday afternoon. Things looked good for Jones, Smith told him.

Jones then told Smith of the message he had to call Arkansas, and the two made the call, finally getting through.

They were then stunned to learn that shortly after Smith had left Arkansas, Holtz had resigned, saying he was "burnt out" as a coach.

It really sounds as if Holtz was intending to quit, doesn't it.

How quickly things change. This column was prepared late Thursday morning. At the same time, the wheels were already in motion for Holtz to be named as the new head football coach at the University of Minnesota.

Again, it really sounds as if Holtz were "burnt out" in football.

The only question we have now is whether Smith and Jones will again be offered jobs on the new Holtz staff.

Time will tell.

The basketball rules committee wasted little time the other day in dropping the two-minute-two-shot foul rule from the books.

The object of the rule had been good, to cut down on the number of fouls in those final minutes of play by making the penalty stiffer. But some coaches were abusing the rule by going after the poorest free throw shooter on the court, whether he had the ball or not. In some cases, players were even tackled while out of bounds. It got to be a situation where some injuries actually did occur.

Thus, the rules committee got together and quickly voted down the rule.

May it rest in peace.

Holtz Takes Gopher Post

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Lou Holtz, who resigned four days ago as football coach at the University of Arkansas, Thursday was named coach at the University of Minnesota.

"I'm not a miracle worker. I'm no genius," Holtz told a news conference. "And I'm not going to be able to wave a magic wand. We're going to have to have a plan. We must recruit athletes in the state of Minnesota."

Holtz and school officials said he had agreed to a five-year contract worth $100,000 a year, plus unspecified radio and TV contracts.

Officials of the school's search committee said Holtz had been their first choice but was unavailable until he resigned at Arkansas.

He will take over from Joe Salem, whose teams compiled a 4-18 record during the last two years.

Holtz earned a reputation of hating cold weather at Arkansas, some 850 miles south of Minneapolis, where the low temperature today was minus-20 degrees.

"I loathed the cold weather and I still loathe the cold weather, but when a young woman said, 'Where will you live', I said, 'Indoors,'" he said.

Holtz said he had not made any demands on Minnesota. "That's not the way I do things, but facilities need to be updated," he said.

Holtz assumes the reins of one of the nation's least successful college football programs during the 1983 season. The Golden Gophers had a 1-10 record, with their only victory a 21-17 triumph over Rice. Many of Minnesota's losses were by scores of 50 or more points, including an 84-17 defeat to top-ranked Nebraska.

Holtz, 46, was at Arkansas for seven years and compiled a 60-21-2 record before resigning Sunday. Before that, he had coached the New York Jets of the National Football League. He also coached at William and Mary College and North Carolina State.

Prior to 1983, he had a 100-47-5 collegiate coaching record. The Razorbacks were 5-5 this year. In his first year at Arkansas, Holtz guided the Razorbacks to an 11-1 record and a 31-6 upset of unbeaten Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

This year was the first that an Arkansas team coached by Holtz did not get a bowl bid.

He was named to the Arkansas Hall of Fame in 1983 and was The Associated Press Southwest Conference Coach of the Year in 1979. He was named national Coach of the Year by football writers in 1977.

Holtz said he resigned from the Arkansas coaching position for personal reasons which he declined to discuss. "Now I feel is the appropriate time for me to resign from the University of Arkansas. There are many different ways to resign and none of them are very easy," he said.

He was asked if TV endorsements that he made for U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina had played a part in the resignation. He replied that many factors were involved in his resignation but declined to answer the question directly. The commercials never were broadcast.

Rose Wins Against IRS

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose has won his suit against the Internal Revenue Service, which had refused to grant him business deductions for Jeeps he gave to Cincinnati Reds coaches and employees in 1978.

The jury in U.S. District Court determined Thursday that the nine Jeeps were legitimate necessary business expenses for his career.

Rose had sued the IRS to get back the money he had to pay in income tax and interest on his 1978 return. He claimed the IRS failed to give him proper credit for all his business expenses.

Rose, who has played with the Philadelphia Phillies since 1979 but was released and became a free agent this year, had testified that he gave the Jeeps to the nine men for years of extra services they afforded him.

BYU Offense Faces Missouri's Defenses

SAN DIEGO (AP) — College football's ultimate irresistible force — the Brigham Young offense — bumps up against Missouri's nationally ranked immovable object in tonight's sixth renewal of the Holiday Bowl.

Ninth-ranked Brigham Young, host of the game every year by virtue of winning the Western Athletic Conference title, has rung up some mind boggling numbers in winning 10 consecutive games after a season opening loss to 20th-ranked Baylor.

The Cougars' quarterback, All-American Steve Young, has gained more yards rushing and passing — 4,346, or 395 per game — than the entire Missouri team. He set national records with 306 pass completions and a 71.3 completion percentage.

BYU led the nation in total offense (584 yards per game) and passing (381 per outting) and was second to top-ranked Nebraska in scoring with a 44-point-per-game norm.

Even the BYU running attack, forever in the shadow of the passing game, netted 203 yards per game, only 16 less than ground-oriented Missouri.

But Young isn't expecting an easy outing against Missouri, which finished 7-4 overall and second to Nebraska in the Big Eight Conference. He mentioned seeing the Tigers' 10-0 shutout of Oklahoma earlier this year.

"Watching that game, I don't think anyone can beat them," Young said. "They're very aggressive and hard-hitting, they have speed and size up front and speed in the defensive backfield and at linebacker. We won't have an easy time."

"The big matchup, obviously, will be our offense against their defense — and that's not to take anything away from our defense and their offense," he added.

Young said he was particularly concerned with the size of Missouri's defensive front line, although that unit is outweighed 15 pounds a man by BYU's offensive line.

"They're one of the few teams we've played all year that has enough size in the defensive line and at linebacker that they don't have to bring extra people to put pressure on the quarterback," Young said. "Whereas other teams tried to bring six, seven or eight guys to put pressure on the quarterback, these guys have the size and quickness to put pressure on with five or six."

The chief headhunter for Missouri is linebacker Jay Wilson, a 6-foot-3, 215-pound senior who sees Young as the key to both team's efforts.

"If you don't contain him and he gets outside the pass rush, then you're in big trouble," Wilson said. "He'll have all kinds of time to throw or he can take off and run the ball. We've got to limit the things he can do and keep their offense below 400 yards."

TIS THE SEASON TO BE JOLLY . . . AND SAFE!

During the holidays, your home may be brimming with boughs of holly, shiny ornaments, and twinkling, brightly colored lights. To make sure your home will be as safe during the holiday season as it is jolly, we at your electric utility ask you to heed these electrical safety precautions:

- Check indoor and outdoor holiday lights each year. Make sure all cords are completely covered with insulation, and the sockets are firmly attached to the cords and contain good light bulbs.
- Unplug lights before stringing them.
- Keep lights away from a tree's water source, paper decorations and tinsel—they can cause a fire.
- Use only lights and extension cords labelled for outdoor use when decorating your yard or the exterior of your home.
- Don't overpower your home circuits with too many lights. Keep extra fuses on hand in case you blow a fuse.
- Always unplug all decorative lights before leaving an unattended room or going to bed.

For more electrical safety information, call us.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE SANCTITY OF THE PRIESTHOOD

BY MOSAIC LAW, THE ISRAELITES WERE COMPELLED TO PROTECT THE PRIESTHOOD FROM BODILY HARM AT ALL TIMES AND UNDER EVERY CIRCUMSTANCE BECAUSE THEIR OFFICE WAS SACRED. THIS BECAME A STRICT TRADITION. IT WAS SOMETHING NEVER TO BE QUESTIONED. ALL ACCEPTED IT AS AN UNBREAKABLE COMMAND, GENERATION AFTER GENERATION OBEYING THE INSTRUCTION. AFTER SO MANY YEARS OF BEING OBEDIENT TO THIS LAW, IMAGINE THE CONSTERNATION, THEN, OF SAUL'S ISRAELITE SOLDIERS WHEN HE ORDERED THEM TO KILL THE PRIESTS BECAUSE THEY HAD HELPED DAVID ESCAPE FROM SAUL'S MURDEROUS INTENT. Cites Growth In TV Ministry

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A United Methodist seminary professor says that mainline denominations, which shun use of electronic media for evangelism, have declined in growth, while conservative ministries using that media are flourishing.

"We are, at present, in a posture of resistance to the media and the result is that we're becoming an ingrown church," the Rev. Tom Boomershrine of Dayton, Ohio, told staff members of denominational agencies.

"I am convinced that there is a direct relationship between our resistance to the media age and our declining power as a denomination. We have responded with fear and are clinging to the past."

Suggest Steps To Full Union

NEWBURY, England (AP) — An international Anglican-Lutheran team urged at a meeting here that the two world communions move toward "full communion" and suggested stages for pursuing it.

"We look forward to the day when full communion is established between Anglican and Lutheran churches," the group said, adding that it would mean more than sharing the same altar.

"To be in full communion implies a community of life, an exchange and a commitment to one another in respect of major decisions on questions of faith, order and morals."

Friendship, A Christian Quality, Widely Needed, Says Theologian

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Friendship is the heartbeat of Christmas, socially and theologically. But it's hard to be an authentic friend, particularly in the modern atmosphere, says psychologist-theologian Eugene Kennedy, even though it's the core of living.

"Friendship, in any and all of its branching forms, is what life is all about," he says.

Yet it's also a mystery, he adds, strange and elusive, usually most poignant and real in small, ordinary ways instead of in big events or activity, loaded with paradoxes.

"We can only draw close together, for example, because we are separate individuals," he says. He also notes that other separations, periods of being apart, are inherent in friendship, as well as the comings together.

The holiday season is a special time of friendship, of old ties renewed, of family reunions, of gifts and affection exchanged, all mirroring the theme of Christmas itself.

Religiously, the occasion marks God's giving of self to humanity, his joining with human life across a separating gulf, an accepting, loving identification with earthly existence, an intimate friendship sealed.

Yet it, too, happened in simple terms. "When the time had fully come, God sent forth his Son, born of woman," Scripture says. She "wrapped him swaddling cloths and laid him in a manger."

Kennedy, a psychology professor at Loyola University in Chicago, a former Roman Catholic priest and keen, widely read author, says friendships are mainly built, not on elaborate occasions, but on commonplace, shared experiences.

In a book entitled, "On Being A Friend," newly issued by Ballantine Books, he analyzes that relationship in strictly human terms, not its links to religion or holidays. Yet there are underlying parallels.

He says friendship requires that "we surrender something of ourselves for the sake of others," one of the mysterious paradoxes of it. "We die to ourselves as we make true friends. This experience fills us with the life that is stronger than death."

However, he says much of the modern generation, under influence of pop therapies focused on self, has severely crippled its capacities for friendship by narcissistic "emphasis on No. 1."

"Many young people are literally stuck in a phase of self-absorption and do not know how to free themselves," he says. "They have lost something. Ironically, he says, from concentrating on self, they've become "confused and desperately lonely."

"The move toward insularity... is well advanced," he says. Calling friendship a "national need," he says "we need each other more than ever just as we are sorely tempted to give up on each other."

He says friendship flourishes only "in proportion to our willingness to break the boundaries of our own self-absorption," only "as we die to our own selves to make room for others in our lives."

"There are deaths every day in loving others — deaths to the selfish ego that wants to turn in on itself, death to the impulses whose unthinking gratification has been easily and cheaply rationalized over the last several years," he says.

Oddly, however, the giving of self for others enhances rather than diminishes, he says. "We see things that we were never able to see before... What was once drab and uninteresting is suddenly suffused with wonder..."

"The routine activities of life take on a magic that we never suspected... Friendship has struck the restrictive blinders from our eyes... We are looking now at the world with some-one else."

Strangely, however, friendship necessitates separations, he says, beyond people simply being separate individuals, but also making them something like a railroad station, a point of departures and returns, of pulling apart and meeting.

He also notes that every-day morning partings and returns in the evenings reflect the process.

FCC Votes No Quotas On TV

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of Action For Children's Television is promising a court fight to overturn a government decision against requiring broadcasters to air a minimum number of weekday TV shows for children.

"We are going to court," Peggy Charren, president and founder of the child advocacy group said Thursday after the Federal Communications Commission announced its decision.

"We're going to appeal this decision, which we think is another example of the Reagan administration taking from the poor to feed the rich," said Ms. Charren, whose group pushed for the commission's rulemaking proceeding on children's programming that was begun in 1979 by former Chairman Charles D. Ferris, a Democrat.

"We think the commission has given a great big Christmas present to American broadcasters and that they're leaving a piece of coal in the stocking of every child in America," Ms. Charren said.

The decision was not unexpected. Mark S. Fowler, a Republican who succeeded Ferris as FCC chairman, has expressed the fear that a quota for children's programs might violate the First Amendment.

On Thursday, Fowler said a programming quota would require the FCC to determine what constituted a children's show and encourage broadcasters to sacrifice quality to meet numerical goals.

The FCC also voted 4-1 to loosen its 1974 requirement that TV broadcasters make a "meaningful effort" to air weekday programs geared to children of specific age groups.

The changes will also allow broadcasters to provide children's programs according to the "market situation" of their locality. A broadcaster whose station is located in an area served by cable TV, public broadcasting and independent stations would not have to air as many children's shows as a station that is the only TV outlet in a community.

"I guess I would call it a raped 1974 Policy Statement," said Commissioner Henry M. Rivera, who cast the lone dissenting vote.

"This is a sad day for children in this country. The report and order adopted today writes, I think, the epitaph of the FCC's involvement in children's television," Rivera added.

Tar Heels Need Barbecue Pork

Meg is dreaming of a white Christmas, but I'm dreaming of pork. I realize that I can't have it on Christmas day. Meg would never stand for such a breach of tradition even if I could find someone in Tennessee who knew how to cook a pig. But I have already informed my in-laws that they had better welcome me with open arms and a platter of barbecue when I walk through their door for a post-Christmas visit. I'm not the only one who hungers for the Tar Heel answer to ambrosia. Ask almost any transplanted North Carolinian what he misses most about North Carolina aside from civilization, and he will start salivating as he visualizes a big ugly metal pig cooker. A local church turned this craving into a fund-raising bonanza by advertising "North Carolina Pit-Cooked Bar-B-Q" on several occasions. But after countless starving pig-lovers had sampled the fare, the word eventually got around: the secret of preparing good swine had not yet passed the state line. What is especially tragic about this lack of culinary communication is my failure to appreciate the savory treat while it was readily available. I didn't pig out on the stuff seven times a week or even twice a week for that matter. Phillip and I would visit a barbecue restaurant once every two or three months, and then, as often as not, I would order fried chicken. I guess that it takes several orders of "foreign" barbecue, a mess of pallid meat drowned in thick orange sauce, before a North Carolinian really comprehends what she's missing. I kept telling waiters and waitresses that the orange sauce belonged in the Brunswick stew until one of them asked me what Brunswick stew was. I stopped trying to explain barbecue to anyone who had not walked the hallowed ground of the Coastal Plains. But I continue to discuss it with all natives and converts. I recently attended a cocktail party at which the major topic of conversation was pig. As we feasted on scrumptious hors d'oeuvres, even those guests who had resided in North Carolina for a mere year or two declared their allegiance to the state's foremost delicacy. Those who were not returning for the holidays were begging those who were to make room for an empty cooler or two in their cars. But my Christmas spirit doesn't extend to sharing a pig. What I bring back, I eat. And that goes for the Brunswick stew, too.

Asserts Helms Distorts Record

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Heman Clark, secretary of the state Department of Crime Control and Public Safety, said Thursday that Sen. Jesse Helms re-election campaign has distorted the Hunt administration's anti-crime record. Clark said Helms' claim that crime rose 110 percent faster in North Carolina than in the U.S. since Gov. Jim Hunt took office was not true. He said the Helms campaign was relying on a statistical increase in property crime that "is almost entirely attributable to better reporting of such property crimes as burglary and larceny."

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1983

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until 7 pm this Christmas Eve there are apt to be some upsets or difficulties which require your self control. But the rest of the evening is excellent for your well being.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Before lunchtime you can get some excellent results from inspiring ideas you have. Take care not to argue with others. Be precise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Do what the family desires this morning, but be tactful with your mate. This evening is good for the social side of life.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can handle those communications well this morning. Today is rather tense, but find solace in the bosom of your family.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) This morning is good for handling secret matters but don't get nervous about work that has to be done. Take it in stride.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Handle personal affairs in the morning. Do not be extravagant. Be practical with your money. Surprise your mate with a gift.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Private matters can be handled to your benefit early, but you may have a problem later. Handle it wisely. This evening is quiet and serene.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good friend can give some fine advice this morning. You may get a nice surprise that will make you very happy. Spread good cheer.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try to be of assistance to a bigwig this morning. Don't add to your expenses after lunch. Celebrate Christmas Eve ideally.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are inspired in the morning, but don't be forceful with others. Complete all your work. Drive more carefully than usual.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Garner that data you need this morning. You will be very charming and inspired this evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do whatever your mate requests of you this morning, then buy a fine present. Avoid a friend who is a troublemaker in the afternoon.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Fix up your home in the morning. Don't argue with anyone in the evening. You feel popular and admired. Stop feeling depressed.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be someone who will have inspired ideas on being successful, but upon reaching adulthood, may suddenly want to make complete changes, due to outside pressures, so teach perseverance. This could be a pillar of the community.

There was no place for declarer to put his losing diamond, and he had to concede a trick to the ace of that suit for down one.

In the other room, the U.S. North-South pair played in five spades after using Blackwood to learn that they were missing two aces. So a deficit of 8 IMPs was turned into a victory margin of 5 IMPs, and the Bermuda Bowl, symbol of world bridge supremacy, was on the way back to the United States.

With only two of 176 deals left to play, Italy led the United States by 8 International Match Points in the final of the 1983 World Team Championships. There seemed to be no place where the United States could gain points, but bridge is a strange game.

Italy's great pair of the 1970s, Giorgio Belladonna and Benito Garozzo, were playing North-South for Italy. It had been a long, grueling tournament, and the great Belladonna, now 60, had been showing signs of weariness. He had gone down in two contracts which, only a few years ago, he would have brought home without batting an eye.

On this deal, Garozzo made a light opening bid of one spade with the South hand, and Belladonna knew that they were in the slam zone. His two no trump jump agreed spades. He intended his four no trump bid to be a general slam try but, according to Garozzo, in this sequence it was Blackwood, and he duly showed his ace. However, Belladonna thought Garozzo was cue-bidding first-round diamond control, so he bid the slam.

West led the queen of clubs. East won the ace and shifted to a heart, but that only delayed the inevitable.

U.S. Soldiers At Home With German Families

By GEORGE BOEHMER
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — About 4,000 lonely American soldiers will celebrate Christmas in West German homes in a program that thrives despite the bitter controversy over deployment of new U.S. nuclear missiles.

Some host families suggest their desire to share the holiday is a statement of support for the missile deployment in West Germany and elsewhere in western Europe.

"We want to show the Americans that not all Germans are like the Greens, the Communists and the other riff-raff, and to show we support the U.S. presence in Germany," said Heidi Marie Mueller, whose family will be host to an American soldier this Christmas for the first time.

The anti-NATO Greens party and the West German Communist Party have been at the forefront of protests against stationing 204 cruise and Pershing 2 missiles in West Germany. The protests have included blockades and marches at a dozen U.S. military installations.

The West German deployment is part of a NATO plan to place 572 of the new missiles in five western European countries to counter Soviet missiles.

About 4,000 unmarried soldiers throughout the command will be taking part in the program in which local families, working through U.S. military authorities, invite American troops to join them for the holiday.

"That is about the same figure we have had for the past few years," said program organizer Claus Dornseiff.

He estimated that another 20,000 to 25,000 soldiers celebrate Christmas with the local population through private contacts not associated with the special Christmas program.

About half of the 220,000 U.S. Army troops in Europe are unmarried, and many of them are spending their first Christmas away from home, Dornseiff said in a telephone interview from the U.S.

Army Europe's headquarters in Heidelberg.

Pfc. Neal Kammergard, 20, of Santa Clara, Calif., is one of five soldiers in his unit, the 21st Replacement Battalion in Frankfurt, taking advantage of the invitation.

"I come from a big family and Christmas has always been something special around our house," Kammergard said. "I felt left out last year because I heard about the program too late."

"But I'm looking forward to meeting a German family this year. It should be quite fun."

Even in Schwabach-Gmuend, about a mile from the south German city of Muttlangen where the first Pershing 2 missiles are being deployed, the Christmas program is a success.

"The town has a U.S. military population of only 1,100 soldiers, and we have more invitations from the Germans than we can fill," said Army spokesman Guenther Schatz.

"The only difference this year is that many families are inviting more than one soldier because they feel the men will relax and enjoy themselves better with a friend," he said.

Schatz said that 65 families had extended Christmas invitations, and that 75 soldiers had signed on for the program. "Some families will just get one soldier, even though they wanted more," he said.

Anne Adams, community relations spokeswoman in Frankfurt, said about 55 U.S. soldiers will be joining German families there for private Christmas celebrations. She said the families and soldiers had already met at a pre-Christmas "warm-up party."

Marie Shaw, public affairs officer at Landstuhl, said 40 soldiers signed up at her office to spend Christmas in German homes.

"The main thing is that we get them out of the barracks," Ms. Shaw said. "We get a lot of soldiers who sign up on recommendations of others who had good experiences the year before."

Many German families feel Christmas is an ideal time to get to know Americans and show their hospitality.

"We have a cousin in Canada who wrote us a very sad letter because he was sitting in his room alone at Christmas. We thought many of the Americans here are young and alone and we wanted to do something about that," said Mrs. Heide Vogel of Frankfurt.

In nearby Hanau, community relations spokeswoman Beverly James said that 63 German families have invited 80 soldiers to their homes, some for overnight stays. Another 211 Americans, single and married with families, have been invited by 13 civic clubs in the Hanau area for Christmas parties and dinners, she added.

"About 25 percent of the families extending invitations were couples under 30 years old," Ms. James noted. "Many of those sending invitations said that they wanted to show their support for the American presence here," she said.

Denny said the person apparently came in through the front window of the building, which is directly behind the Governor's Mansion. He said he discovered the break-in Thursday morning.

"Most of what they did was tear up the drink machine," Denny said. "They threw files everywhere. So far we haven't missed anything."

The campaign staff still was moving into the office. The campaign headquarters for Democratic gubernatorial candidate Tom Gilmore were entered recently and files there were thrown about the office.
