One To Be Remembered

Santa Brought Icy Christmas

By MARY SCHULKEN Reflector Staff Writer

Santa Claus and his sleigh blew in with an icy blast this Christmas and brought many people more than they asked for - burst pipes, malfunctioning heat pumps and a holiday that many will remember as the coldest ever.

Christmas 1983 will be the year many recall as "the year the pipes burst at Christmas" or "the year the heat went off. For children, it will be the year it was too cold outside to ride their new bikes or too cold inside to take off their gloves.

From Christmas eve to mid-morning today the mercury refused to rise above the freezing point and for the majority of the 72-hour holiday temperatures hovered in the teens and single-digits.

Across Pitt County, plumbers and air conditioning repairmen were busy today working on frozen water lines and over-stressed heating systems. A spokesperson for Conger Plumbing Company said the company received around 25 calls this morning alone about frozen or burst water pipes.

The spokesperson said the plumber "was still busy on calls from yesterday (Monday)" and had the additional repairs waiting for him when he called in." Many of these calls, she noted, were from apartment complexes and would affect more than one person or family.

The company had also received "a large number" of heating repair calls, said the spokesperson, who noted that on a normal morning, the company has 3-4 calls.

An employee of City Plumbing Company said the business opened today for the first time since the holidays and that by 11 a.m. had around 27 calls requesting that burst pipes be

Greenville Utilities Director Charles Horne said by mid-morning GUC had received 85 calls from customers requesting that their water service be cut off because of broken water pipes and that GUC was "still answering calls this morning

A water pipe around Clement Dormitory on the campus of East Carolina University reportedly burst during the holidays and flooded quickly-frozen water into nearby Reade Circle but university officials could not be reached this morning for an estimate of damages

Three Greenville city water mains ruptured during the holidays, said Horne, but were being repaired today. Mains on Meade and Broad streets and on state road 1534 burst during the intense cold

Sprinkler systems that malfunctioned due to the cold caused damages at at least two Greenville businesses over the holiday weekend, according to Greenville Fire and Rescue Chief Jenness Allen.

Damage to Lowe's, a building supplier on Memorial Drive, was heavy, he noted, and was caused when a pipe in a sprinkler system normally containing air filled instead with water, then froze and burst

At the J.C. Penney department store a water line in a sprinkler system froze and broke, then dropped water on a portion of the store, Allen said. Damage at Penney's was moderate, he noted.

On Sunday, Christmas day, a low temperature of 4 degrees Fahrenheit was recorded in Greenville. The high reached 20 degrees that day, which was the coldest of the three-day holiday. On Monday the temperature stretched to a high of 28 degrees but fell to a low of 6 degrees. At 8 a.m. today the mercury stood at 25 degrees

Greenville Utilities electic department reported no major outages or problems from the extreme cold but said utilities received numerous "customer problem calls" during the

"We had a lot of calls from customers with fuse panels overheating from plugging in electric heaters and similar problems," said Malcolm Green, superintendent of GUC's electric department. Green said GUC replaced only two distribution transformers during the cold "and we have 10-12,000 in our system so we feel lucky.

Mike Finney, director of utilities in Washington, said some 9,700 customers in the city and in Beaufort County north of the Pamlico River were without electricity for up to two hours early Christmas morning when power on the Virginia Electric and Power Co. lines was interrupted.

"I havent talked with anybody at Vepco," Finney said, "but I understand they lost a voltage regulator at the Everettes

Finney said the Vepco outage started between 2 a.m. and 2:15 a.m. and lasted for about a hour and 15 minutes. He said it took another 30 to 45 minutes to get all of Washington's customers back in service.

Electric power to Williamston was also interrupted for a time before dawn Sunday

The Salvation Army in Greenville reported it received two requests for emergency fuel on Christmas eve and had several more this morning

A spokesman for the Greenville Police Department said "a normal number, one or two" requests for emergency lodging were made during the holidays.

FARMVILLE - Mr. Thomas Warren Willis, 60. retired director of the East Carolina University Regional Development Institute, died Sunday in Pitt County Memorial Hospital. A Farmville resident, Mr. Willis served from 1964 to 1981 as the director of the Regional Development Institute which he had been instrumental in forming in 1964 and was the first director of the Farmville Economic Council. A graduate of Farmville High School and Wake Forest College, he attended Randolph Macon Military Academy and served in the U.S. Armed Forces during World War II. He had been assistant city manager of the city of Raleigh, city manager of the town of Newton, and had worked as an industrial engineer for the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development The building housing the Regional Development Institute, located at the corner of First and Reade streets in Greenville, was named for him in 1974.

Appointed by Gov. Jim Hunt, he served on the Industrial Development Advisory Committee, the Coastal Plains Regional Commission. the Advisory Council of the North Carolina State Data Center, and the board of directors of the Roanoke Island Historical Association. He was a member of the board of directors of the First American Savings and Loan Association. He organized and served as vice president of the ECU Foundation Inc. from 1967-69 and was named Farmville Man of the Year in 1963 and Tar Heel of the Week in 1969. FARMVILLE - A Farmville man apparently died of exposure in his carport after being dropped off at home Christmas Eve by a friend.

Farmville Police Chief Ron Cooper said the regional medical examiner ruled that Alfred Dean Williams, 63, of 404 S. Fields Street Extension apparently fell and bumped his head in his carport and lay there until he died. The temperature in Farmville dropped to approximately eight degrees that evening.

Williams lived with his wife and daughter, but was home alone at the time, as the two women were visiting in the Washington, D.C. area for Christmas. The friend said he left Williams at his curb. He was found Sunday afternoon about 4 p.m. by a son from Greenville who went to visit him, Cooper said he understands.

Last week I discussed the importance of using any size hook or needle to achieve the listed gauge for any knit or crochet pattern. I know that most people hate to spend the extra time to work up a sample swatch to determine this, but doing so can save you time and tears in the long run.

Even those people who do make swatches often make them too small. Strangely enough, the gauge can appear to be correct on a small swatch but the finished garment will end up being too large or too small ches square is sufficient for determining correct gauge. With bulky yarn a swatch of 6 inches square should do it.

After you have made your swatch, lay it flat to measure. If it is a knitted swatch, take it off of the needles to measure. Then, measure it across the center to see if it is the planned 4 or 6 inches.

Don't cheat on yourself here! We knitters and crocheters will sometimes stretch a piece slightly or "scrunch" it up to make it conform to the desired measurement. Unfortunately, you are only asking for trouble when you smaller size.

Some of you may not understand how to figure the number of stitches to use in your swatch. Just multiply the number of stitches per inch in the listed gauge by four or six, depending upon the size swatch desired.

If you are knitting, cast on exactly that number. If you are crocheting in a simple stitch, work 1 more chain than the number of stitches needed for the desired width. With most pattern stitches, additional chains are required. To be safe, just make the chain several stitches longer than needed and are working a pattern stitch, a certain "multiple" of stitches might be required to make the pattern come out even. The multiple means the number of stitches required for a single pattern repeat. Sometimes, you will see the phrase something like this: "a multiple of 5 stitches plus 2." This means that you must have a number of stitches evenly divisible by 5 plus 2 extra stitches.

If the information on the multiple is not given, you can figure it out by counting the number of stit-ches used between the asterisks or within parentheses in the instructions for the first pattern stitch row. Then be sure to add in any extra stitches given before or after the asterisks and/or parentheses.

It's a nuisance, I know but once you have the correct implement size, you can merrily knit or crochet with assurance that the item will be the planned size.

Kids Who Steal A Smoke Cheat Themselves

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My 16-year-old son has just informed me that the enclosed article from our local newspaper had been read by his teacher in class today, and as a result of the discussion that followed, six boys and girls had decided to quit smoking. (All six had been sneaking cigarettes and smirking about it.)

Occasionally you print an article that you think deserves wider readership. I hope this is one. N.J.R., PELL CITY, ALA.

DEAR N.J.R.: It's dynamite, so here is my slightly edited version of the article skillfully written by Marie West Cromer for the Daily Home in Talladega,

"This column is for all junior high and high school students out there who have begun snitching, sneaking and smoking.

"Another Great American Smokeout campaign has come and gone, taking with it the resolve and best intentions of millions of nicotine-addicted

"My father was a Camel man years before filters, low tar and mild cigarettes hit the market. I'm talking two or three packs a day.

"He was lucky. He lost only part of one lung, after which he quit smoking. Now he is in his healthy 70s.

"My father-in-law wasn't so lucky. Oh, he had changed over to a pipe and had eventually quit altogether several years before his retirement. Two years ago we visited him in an intensive care room at a hospital in Florida. He was suffering from emphysema.

"While I was a senior in high school, a carload of my girlfriends picked me up once or twice a week and we drove to a nearby lake where we did away with a pack of Dad's Camels. I provided snitched cigarettes. They brought mouthwash, peppermints and breath fresheners. It worked! We really put one over on our parents!

"Just one problem. Some quit smoking, some did not. I was one of the ones who continued to smoke when I left for college.
"But I knew I could quit any time I wanted to. Let me tell you about the times I've quit: "Once, when I decided it wasn't 'cool' to hold a baby while puffing on a cigarette. "Another time when I'd burned a hole in a new dress which had taken most of my paycheck to pay for.

"And of course the trip to the intensive care ward. Now don't get me wrong, it wasn't the sight of my father-in-law under an oxygen tent that did it. It was the sight of an elderly lady walking up and down the halls of the hospital with a portable oxygen tank on her back-chain-smoking! "I quit again when a friend beat the socks off me in a tennis match. I quit again after I had several bouts with upper respiratory problems.

"So, kids, while you snitch, sneak, smoke and smirk about how you're putting it over on parents and teachers, take it from me-you are the losers!"

People's Plan

The Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service recently introduced what is essentially a self-development program. It involves agriculture, community and rural development, the familiar 4-H and home economics fields.

Appropriately enough, it is designed for both urban and rural young people with learning fields encompassing essentials to a better life.

It is no accident the microcomputer plays a major role in both the teaching and learning and application processes. The electronic gadgetry will keep records, budget time and

The new program is called "People's Plan '87" and offers participants more than they could hope to gain from any unguided studies or learning "by the book." It is a hands-on education.

Our enthusiasm is dampened by memories and experience.

To the targeted age group, four years closely resembles "forever;" the subject matter sounds so very unexciting though it is tied to the real life experiences most of us must undergo.

And, it's a rare young person whose eyes light up at the thought of learning something new and valuable.

Maybe this is one of those occasions deserving of strong parental guidance that is remembered best now by old television family shows.

More Work Ahead

The new U.S. 264 between Greenville and Wilson is currently going under contract, unfortunately without the interchanges it needs to be considered an adequate freeway by modern

There is hope, however. George Harper of Kinston, a member of the N.C. Board of Transportation, says the land is being acquired for the future construction of the clover leaf interchanges

In a letter to the County Commissioners he, furthermore, reported that road separations are being constructed for rural road crossings where access is not planned.

Thus we would assume the outlook is good for making the highway fully of freeway standards. It means, however, that area leaders will have to continue working to bring about funding for the needed U.S. 264 interchanges.

State Wants A Higher Grade

RALEIGH — Dean Stuart Bondurant of the UNC Medical School used schoolteacher terminology when he was asked to rate the quality of North Carolina's efforts in biotechnology. Appearing before the Legislative Study Commission on Richard Parkey Randwant said two on Biotechnology, Bondurant said two states in the country — Massachusetts and California — rated the grade of "A" for their programs. North Carolina, he said, rated a very strong "B.

As the study commission sets out on its ambitious study of the industry and its potential here, it is asking three questions. First, what does North Carolina have to do to raise its grade from a high "B" to an "A?" Second, does North Carolina want to do that? Third, if it does, what is the Legislature's role in moving towards that goal?

Biotechnology is a new term for a rather old, but now quickly developing, field. Biotechnologists fidget with life forms to make better products — drought resistant crops, meatier cows, taller and straighter pine trees.

Although the term is new, the science has been here for quite a while. Cigarette manufacturers, for one, have been looking for better ways to grow tobacco for a

In 1981, the administration of Gov. Jim Hunt recognized the biotech industry's potential for the state and formed the N.C. Biotechnology Center. The center, which was applauded by private and academic biotechnologists during two days of legislative hearings, coordinates biotech research in the state. Often, the center will match private firms with research needs and scientists capable of doing that work. The state's universities have a biotech council which coordinatres work on a systemwide basis and several universities have individual

Could the state compete with Massachusettes and California? A number of scientists appearing before the study commission said yes — if several more "world-class" scientists are encouraged to bring their work here, and if top flight biotech firms like Ciba Geigy, which recently announced a new research facility in the Triangle, continue to move here.

Several members of the study com-mission said biotech promises great rewards for North Carolina. Rep. Jack Hunt, D-Cleveland, noted that the industry would spread out across the state, not stay locked up in the big urban centers. Also, he said the industry's focus on agriculture would benefit the state's

Sen. Gerry Hancock, D-Durham, noted that North Carolina's industrial economy is highly dependent on agriculture and forestry. Cigarettes, furniture and textiles all can benefit from biotech research into better crop yields. The two said biotechnology would not only bring new jobs to the state in terms of workers for the biotech firms. The industry, more importantly, would help the major existing employers in the state.

So what does the Legislature do to help North Carolina move ahead in this field, Hunt asked? A number of witnesses gave the same basic answers.

The state must provide its universities with some money targetted at the industry. That money would go towards big salaries to lure top-notch scientists and towards assistantships for graduate students. Also, bigger and better laboratories are needed.

Beyond money, some personnel rules which encumber resarch and which fail to recognize the value of trained technicians must be re-written, the witnesses said. Finally, regulations that might keep university personnel from consulting should be examined.

Biotech is here and it's growing, the witnesses said. The question is whether North Carolina is an "A" or a "B."

Jackson Loses A Round

MOBILE, Ala. - In grinding down the Rev. Jesse Jackson's irregulars here recently, the inexorable Mondale political machine exposed the disorganization of the civil rights leader's presidential campaign but by no means eliminated its Jackson was stunned at the ease by which Walter F. Mondale won endorsement of the all-black Alabama Democratic Conference (ADC). But the reaction of the losers must distress Mondale's managers. "We have just shot another bullet into Martin Luther King," the Rev. John Nettles, Alabama state president of King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) declared after the vote - rhetorical excess which Jackson refused to repudiate.

Such post-mortem caterwayling showed why Jackson's candidacy is a storm cloud for the Mondale campaign and the Democratic establishment at large. Jackson threatens the solid black support Mondale needs to overcome Sen. John Glenn's presumed white Democratic majority in Southern states. But whatever happens to Glenn, Jackson also threatens cozy arrangements between black politicians and state Democratic Parties throughout the post-segregation

Nowhere is that linkup tighter than in Alabama, where the party is dominated by a coalition headed by the ADC and the teachers union, the Alabama Education Association (AEA), with the AFL-CIO a junior partner. Joe Reed, who heads the ADC and is a high-ranking AEA staffer, long ago committed himself to Mondale But Jackson's late entry into the race questioned that commitment's credibility.

The suggestion of the Rev. Joseph Lowery, national SCLS president, the ADC give Mondale and Jackson a dual endorsement met neither Mondale's compaign requirements nor Reed's needs to maintain organizational control. Thus, when the ADC convened here last Saturday morning, Reed had in his hand a hard vote count showing a 3-to-1 edge for Mondale. "Do you really think Jesse Jackson can take my own people away from me?" Reed asked a friend.

It was no contest organizationally Jackson's amateurish advance men collected few more than 800 people for a Friday night rally intended to whip up enthusiasm. Jackson could not get his hands on the ADC delegate list, from which Mondale's experienced operatives had been working for weeks. No ADC delegate heard from Jackson until Friday. He had counted on support from Birmingham's Mayor Richard Arrington, who ended up proposing the "com-promise" of Mondale-for-president, Jackson-for-vice-president.

Still, Mondale's campaign was suffi-ciently worried to send its deputy national campaign chairman, Paul Tully to Mobile Friday night to work over ADC delegates individually in the privacy of his hotel room. The reason: fear of Jackson's golden oratory.

Indeed, Mondale - unaccountably reading from a standard text that was numbingly familiar - was no match for the flamboyant preacher. Jackson's nerve-throbbing oration ("I never refused you when you called me; now my time has come") had listeners emotionally involved and answering back.

That's why Reed gave Mondale the final speaking position and took care that he was out of the room during Jackson's speech so that he could not be intimidated by it. But actual ADC delegates were silent and unmoved. They liked neither Jackson's assault on the AEA and organized labor nor making his support of the party's eventual nominee conditional on endorsement of his demands for changed delegate-selection rules.

At this most blessed time of the year, when we've been rushing around buying gifts, going to parties and visiting with family and friends, my heart turns to a most different plane. This is the time when we should be celebrating the birth of Christ. Our Lord gave His most precious gift that we might know Him and accept Him as Lord of our life and Saviour of our soul.

My friend, have you asked the Lord into your heart and made Him Lord of your whole being? It is the easiest, most simple thing that you may ever do, but it makes the difference in where you will spend eternity.

Do not wait another day to make this decision. We all think we have to have a new car, a new home, fine clothes and we are social outcasts if we are not married or living with someone. All these things were once important to me, but you see, I lost my husband, my marriage and home and all these things I thought were so important. You may think I am alone and lonely, but I am never alone.

The love of Christ is most sufficient. It will be there when all else fails. He said, "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee." Consider it, friends. What is more important; all of these material things or spending eternity with our Lord? He can give you more joy in your life than you can contain when you surrender your life to Him. Praise the name of Jesus Christ.

An Indian put an eagle's egg into a chicken's nest. The eaglet hatched and grew up with chicks. All his life he thought he was a chicken and did what the chicken and did what the chickens did. He scratched in the dirt for seeds and insects and he clucked and cackled. He never attempted to fly more than a few feet off the ground. After all, that's how chickens are supposed to fly.

Years passed. The eagle grew very old. One day he saw a magnificent bird far above him in the cloudless sky. Hanging with graceful majesty on the powerful wind currents, it soared with scarcely a beat of its strong golden wings.

"What a beautiful bird!" said the eagle to its neighbor. "What is it?"

"That's an eagle - the chief of birds," the neighbor clucked. "Don't give it a thought. You could never be like him.' So the eagle never gave it another thought and he died thinking he was a

What a tragedy. Though designed to be among the most awesome of all fowl, he believed his neighbor's counsel: "Hev. you're only a chicken ... come on, let's go find some insects."

Computers Are No. 1

NEW YORK (AP) — A trip through the stores or a glance beneath the Christmas tree should have convinced diehards that an irresistable force, centered on the magical computer, is irrevocably changing human affairs.

It is creating a new class of those who understand, a class separated by a chasm of age and instinct from those who don't know and cannot seem to learn or understand how machines store data, rearrange it and release it on command.

Not everyone wanted a computer for Christmas, but a sufficient number did to create a shortage so critical that, believe it or not, it is as bad a scene in some homes today as that created by the shortfall of Cabbage Patch dolls.

The intensity of competition has forced manufacturers into brutal price-cutting designed to drive their foes into submission. And it has enticed others into copying the technology of others and, to their embarassment, being caught.

A thriving underground business has developed in the counterfeiting of name-brand merchandise, and a brand-new, above-ground cottage industry has erupted with entrepreneurial zeal to supply software, or brains for the You could say even that the electronic computer is involved in the breakup of the world's largest corporation, American Telephone & Telegraph Co. And the computer, of course, will be a major product of the new AT&T.

It has forced major nations into bizarre and embarassing behavior.

Russia desperately desires American computers - certainly as intensely as many American children do - but several times has been thwarted trying to import American machines on the sly. Japan wants them, too, and one Japanese company, Hitachi, was caught redhanded trying to buy IBM's secrets.

In just the past few days the following events occurred:

- Sweden, with apparent assistance from the United States, impounded as war materiel an American computer that had arrived there by a circuitous route from South Africa, destined for the Soviet Union and possible military use. - Apple Computer said it conducted an investigation with U.S. Customs assistance, that resulted in the seizure of 400 copies of its products. Apple has about 50 cases in 16 countries alleging copyright infringement.

- IBM received a $683.4 million/order from the U.S. Navy. If gathered in one year, revenues of that amount would put a company well within any list of the 500 largest U.S. industrial companies.

- Fortune magazine announced a list of "America's most admired corporations," the result of a survey of 3,500 executives, directors and financial analysts. The top three: IBM, Dow Jones, Hewlett-Packard.

Two of them make computers. The other, Dow Jones, is a leader in the application of computer technology to printing and publishing and providing information electronically.

Finally, the electronic computer is making this Christmas like no other. A happy one in many homes if the youngsters got the machine they seek. A rather unpleasant one if Santa Claus slipped up.

One of the wanderers reporter Dirk Johnson interviewed last December was Korf, who grubbed through garbage for chicken parts, hamburgers, moldy buns or lettuce scraps. He wrapped his hands in cloth to ward off the bees that swarmed around the discarded food.

Korf "was really lost," Johnson recalled. "He asked if this was Chicago and wondered if Christmas had gone by.

The reporter learned that Korf had been hospitalized for hallucinations before being released to a halfway house in February 1981. After a fight there. Korf left for the

Many a pecan has found its way into Christmas confections recently. The pecan is a highly prized ingredient in baking because its taste and texture blend so well with butter, sugar and other good things.

The pecan is an interesting food crop. It is native to North America and has been enjoyed by everyone in the South since the days of the first European explorers Most well-drained areas of the lower Mississippi River watershed were areas where the pecan flourished naturally. From east Texas and West Alabama, fur traders moved the pecan east and the first recorded shipment of pecans to North America occurred in 1761. Since this time, pecan production has become a huge industry in America. Most of the production occurs in Georgia. Texas. New Mexico and the Deep South. Commercial growers in these areas realize large yields because of a high level of management. Growers in eastern North Carolina have not cultivated pecans as intensively as our neighbors in the Deep South.

As prized as pecans are in eastern North Carolina, it makes you wonder why more pecan trees are not planted and maintained properly.

Yield and quality of pecans depends upon yearly maintenance, fertilization and freedom from insect and disease problems. There are several practices of which a pecan grower should be aware. Adherance to these practices will help yield and quality to improve in a few Apply 8-8-8 or 10-10-10 fertilizer at the rate of 3-5 pounds per inch of remainder after the crop is set on the tree. Pecan trees grow best in slightly acid soils. The soil pH should be between 5.6 and 6.5. A soil test of the area can be taken to determine how much lime is needed. The end result of liming and fertilization should be sixeight inches of new growth per year on the twigs. The prompt raking up and burning of all crop refuse such as leaves, twigs, husks, etc. is important in reducing "scab disease and insects. These two pests can be sprayed and somewhat controlled, but few people have the equipment necessary for the job.

Pecan scab is a fungus disease that disfigures young pecans and causes blackening of leaves and husks. Very often, infested pecans will be empty and may remain on the tree attached to the husks long after sound, welldeveloped pecans have tallen to the ground. The reason

Growers in central Florida, the heart of that state's $2.5 billion citrus industry, were encouraged by temperatures today slightly warmer than 20-degree readings that descended Sunday night, leaving icicles on golden fruit.

But some record lows for the date were still noted this morning, with Orlando reporting 31, breaking the 33 degree mark set in 1977. Other chilly points were Daytona Beach 33, Tampa 32. Pope John Paul Meets Would-Be Assassin In Cell

By JOHN WINN MILLER
Associated Press Writer
POME (AR)

ROME (AP) — Pope John Paul II today today met Mehmet Ali Agca in his prison cell and called the Turk who tried to kill him a "brother who enjoys my complete trust," Vatican officials said.

The Vatican officials, who watched the meeting with several guards from outside the open cell door, said Agca knelt and kissed the pope's ring at the end of the encounter. They were alone in the cell for 21 minutes, sitting side by side on chairs.

The officials, who briefed reporters on the condition they not be identified, described the meeting at Rebibbia as being "almost like a confession." They did not elaborate. Agca is a Moslem.

They said the two men spoke in hushed tones in Italian and could not be overheard. It was their first face-to-face meeting.

The officials said the 63year-old Roman Catholic pontiff appeared deeply moved and quoted him as saying "I talked with a brother who enjoys my

Williamston House Fires

WILLIAMSTON — House fires during the Christmas holidays in Martin County resulted in considerable damage, most of it, an estimate of $36.000, attributed to three house fires — two on Christmas night and one early Monday morning.

The Williamston Fire Department responded to a total of 13 calls over the weekend.

The first of the three major fires was reported at 8:09 p.m. Christmas night at the home of Tim Jackson, Rt. 3, Williamston. Damage to the Jackson home was set at $17,500.

The second major Christmas night fire was at 11:25 p.m. at the home of Allan C. Courch on Park Drive in Williamston. Damage to the Crouch home is estimated at $11,000.

At 1:01 p.m. Monday morning, the Williamston Fire Department responded to an alarm at the home of R. J. Duggins, on U.S. 64 west of Williamston. Damage there is estimated at $7,500.

The remaining ten fires were minor in nature, including one small barn in which hay was stored that was lost to flames.

was lost to flames.

Due to the extreme cold, firemen were encrusted in ice at any point that water hit their clothing. None of the fireman involved in fighting the fires, however, suffered injuries as a result of the weather conditions.

complete trust."

The pontiff was asked by television reporters who were allowed near the cell what they talked about.

"That is a secret that must remain between me and him (Agca)," the pontiff replied. Agca is a serving a life sentence for shooting the pope May 13, 1981.

The meeting followed a visit by John Paul with other inmates at the prison.

After arriving to applause

After arriving to applause from Italian government and prison officials, the pope went to the chapel, where 500 prisoners wearing civilian clothes were waiting.

More than 100 unarmed guards lined the inside wall of the circular red brick and cement block chapel. He greeted each prisoner individually, and some kissed him on the cheek and hand.

In a welcoming speech, Luca Onesti, a right-wing terrorist, thanked the pope for coming "because it makes us feel that we are not abandoned, not alone against the world, that there is someone who thinks of us and who loves us."

The pope read from the Bible during a prayer service and delivered a 30-minute speech. He said he had come "within these walls in which you cannot help but feel cut off and cold to bring you the warmth of a friendly word together with the comfort of hone"

After the inmates presented gifts to the pope, one prisoner rushed out of the crowd and handed him a typewritten statement, the contents of which were not disclosed. The prisoner spent several minutes talking with the pope and was eased away by chaplains.

The pontiff was given a cross, a banjo and a sailboat

— all made from matchsticks and toothpicks.

Police took extraordinary security precautions, with guards posted along the outside walls of the prison and roadblocks erected on access roads to the prison.

Vatican Radio said the papal trip to Rebibbia prison would be a "symbolic entrance" to prisons and concentration camps around the world. It said John Paul wants to give the prisoners "words of pardon, comfort and hope" for the Christmas season.

Newspaper reports said the pope asked to meet Agca to pardon him personally for the assassination attempt. The Vatican decline to comment on those reports.

Five days after he was shot, while still in his hospital bed, John Paul said he "sincerely pardoned" Agca. The 25-year-old Turk told reporters in a surprise encounter earlier this year that he was sorry for the attack.

"I repent shooting the pope. I am against terrorism," he said, adding, "I admire the pope."

He also has written letters to the Vatican apologizing for trying to kill John Paul.

Rebibbia, in southeastern Rome, holds more than 1,500 prisoners, including leftist Red Brigades terrorists, right-wing terrorists, Mafia figures and common criminals.

The Vatican described the visit as part of special activities for the 1883 Extraordinary Holy Year of Redemption.

Other modern popes have visited prisons. Pope John XXIII celebrated Mass at Rome's Regina Coeli prison on Dec. 26, 1958, and his successor, Pope Paul VI, visited the same prison on April 9, 1964.

The walled Rebibbia is considered a model prison, with tennis courts, a soccer field, game rooms and a 4.8 acre field where the inmates can grow gardens.

It is one of the few penal institutions in Italy that is not considered overcrowded and has more than 600 guards.

Agca was moved to Rebibbia last year after he began cooperating with judges investigating the shooting in St. Peter's quare. At his trial, Agea said he worked alone, but he has since charged that Bulgarian agents and the Soviet KGB intelligence service were behind the attack.

Apparently based on his testimony. Italian magistrates have implicated three Bulgarians and four Turks in the assassination attempt.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1983

YOUR DAILY from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A wonderful day and evening for you to consider what you want to have as your rapport with other persons during the coming year. Let family and friends know you appreciate them.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Sitting down with associates and showing appreciation for their efforts brings you more cooperation now and in the future.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) By adding that neat touch and fine finish to your work, you can gain greater benefits. Find ways of improving your health.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Planning amusements for the near future is wise in the morning, so contact your special buddies. Include your mate in these plans.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Get busy and make those improvements at home that family has asked for. Then entertain proudly and with poise.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) By being more cooperative with regular allies, you get fine results. Make life easier for yourself. Visit close friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study ways for having a greater income in the days ahead so that you can enjoy more of the good things of life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have many fine ideas for gaining whatever you desire and also have good judgment. Spend the evening with an interesting group. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have been endeavoring to garner data you need, but now it comes to you quite easily. Make plans to realize your ambitions. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) With the onset of the coming new year, this is a good day to decide how to make your future brighter. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take your ambitious plans to those who can help you. Your career should be uppermost in your life right now. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study new interests that could prove very profitable in the future and plan how to add them to present activities PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Spending more time with the one you love can patch up any misunderstandings and you can reach fine rapport.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be so radiant and will gain favors from others without even asking for them. Reach early to be more independent and to learn to work since later on your progeny will have to rely on own efforts and ingenuity.

Dallas Eliminated

upstart Los Angeles Rams will continue their stunning season with a New Year's Day playoff game against the Washington Redskins while Tom Landry performs an autopsy on the Dallas Cowboys' sudden demise.

The Rams won their first National Conference playoff game since 1979 Monday with a 24-17 victory over the Cowboys, who lost their last three games after a promising 12-2 beginning.

Los Angeles will play defending Super Bowl champion Washington at 12:30 p.m., EST, Sunday in an NFC divisional playoff game.

The Rams, who were 2-7 last season under Ray Malavasi. made the playoffs with a 9-7 record under new Coach John by rookie running back Eric Dickerson and a revived Vince Ferragamo at quarterback. the Rams dominated the Cowboys by both land and air in the wild-card playoff.

Ferragamo rifled three touchdown passes, Dickerson rushed for 99 yards, and the Ram defense forced three interceptions and a fumbled Dickerson, who played in Texas Stadium for Southern Methodist, said, "I got sick of hearing about the Cowboys. Cowboys, Cowboys when I was in college.

'Nobody thinks they can lose. To beat 'em here means everything.

Robinson used a little psychology on his team. "It made us mad that we were 10-point underdogs. Dickerson said. "Coach Robinson talked about that alone for 10 minutes Friday. He was really mad about it.'

Dickerson suffered a sprained arch in the game but is expected to be ready for the 31-10 to Washington and 42-17 to San Francisco before playing the Rams, said, "The last three weeks we just selfdestructed. You just can't play that way.

He said the Cowboy collapse could be traced to the Washington rout.

"It was just too big a game for us to lose emotionally. Landry said. "We just didn't recover from that game. Landry said he wasn't certain whether he will return next year. "I don't ever make a decision like that after a game like this," Landry said. "It is a challenge to see if you can put this team back together. The last time it took me three years. I don't know if I have that much time or not."

There were a record low With a new offense headed 43,521 fans in Texas Stadium with 20,015 no-shows because of the 27-degree weather.

Ferragamo threw touchdown passes of 18 yards to David Hill, 14 yards to Preston Dennard, and 8 yards to George Farmer.

Thomas To Start For Seminoles ATLANTA (AP)

State will give sophomore quarterback Eric Thomas his first college football starting assignment in Friday's Peach Bowl against North Carolina. In announcing his decision to replace junior Bob Davis with Thomas, Coach Bobby Bowden said, "Bob Davis has started three games for us and has done quite well. We know what he can do. I want to find out what Eric Thomas can

Thomas and Davis have seen action because No. 1 quarterback Kelly Lowrey injured a knee in the Seminoles' eighth game of the 20-yard field goal after LeRoy Irvin returned an interception 94 yards, longest in NFC playoff history.

Danny White was intercepted three times and sacked four times. Two of the interceptions led to 10 points and a muffed punt led to another touchdown.

White had touchdown passes of 14 yards to Tony Hill and 2 yards to Doug Cosbie.

"It was a tough loss." White said. "For the past three weeks our passing game has been 90 percent on and 10 percent off. But the 10 percent killed us

Fresno State, Chaminade Upset Houston, Louisville

HONOLULU (AP) — Call it Upset City. Or the Land of Aloha, as in hello and, especially,

For Houston and Louisville, it was a blue Hawaiian holiday Monday night, with both teams getting beat in the Western Airlines Chaminade Classic, hosted by the team that just one year ago upset then-No. 1-ranked Virginia.

The Fresno State Bulldogs stopped Houston's 7-foot center, Akeem Olajuwon, and the nine-game winning streak of the No. 3-ranked Cougars came to a halt with a 68-61

Earlier, Chaminade made it two losses in a row for Denny Crum's 14th-ranked Cardinals. The Silverswords outran Louisville 83-72. On Sunday, Houston beat Lousiville 76-73. Houston coach Guy Lewis had nothing but praise for Fresno State's tenacious defense, which held Olajuwon scoreless in the first half and to 12 points in the game. "Tonight Fresno State was our worst enemy." Lewis said. "They forced us into a lot of our errors. They run their offense very patiently. They are well coached Houston never led in the game. The Bulldogs stole the opening tap from Olajuwon and grabbed a 2-0 lead. Using a disciplined, spread out offense, they slowly built the lead to 16-11 midway through the first half and 28-18 at the

The key on offense was getting the early Fresno State coach Boyd Grant said. 'After that we were able to control the tempo by spreading things out a little bit

With Michael Young hitting from all over the floor. Houston managed to close the gap to 61-57 with 2:35 left. But that was as close as the Cougars could get.

Forward Ron Anderson, who finished with 25 points and was named the tournament's outstanding player, connected on two 1-and-1 foul situations in the last 36 seconds to sew up the win. Bernard Thompson added 18 points for the Bulldogs, and senior guard Mitch Arnold had 12 points, including eight straight at one stretch midway through the second half. Center Scott Barnes, who spent much of the night fronting Olajuwon, finished with 10 points and seven rebounds

Young led all scorers with 26 points

Houston had to play the game without Benny Anders, a standout on last year's team that went to the NCAA championship game. Anders quit the team before Monday's game and returned to Houston. Lewis said Anders was upset over a lack of playing time in recent games. Lewis said he did not consider Anders suspended, but he did not know if he would be allowed to rejoin the team

The win raised Fresno State's record to 9-2, while Houston slipped to 10-2.

Crum said Louisville simply got outplayed

'They just wanted it more, and they went out and got it." Crum said of the surprising Louisville's Milt Wagner led all scorers with 27 points. Tony Randolph had 22 and Richard Haenisch added 14 to key the Chaminade victory, which coach Merv Lopes called even sweeter than last year's upset of Virginia.

"This was definitely better," Lopes said Things always get bigger and better and that's where this is at Chaminade raised its record to 9-3 with the win, while Louisville sank to 4-4.

Aithough the upset victories have brought fame to Chaminade, the 900-student NAIA school's program still has a long way to go. Lopes said

My secretary and I had to wash Louisville's uniforms before the game in a little shack behind the athletic department.' Lopes said.

Then the Silverswords hung the Cardinals out to dry

In other college basketball action Monday night, Fred Lee scored 26 points and had nine rebounds and seven assists to lead Rider to a 92-71 victory over Lafayette in an East Coast Conference game. Lee, a 6-foot-1 senior, hit 11 of 19 shots and sank all four of his free throws.

Guard Craig Hammer and forward Derrick Lamar each added 16 points and Kevin Thomas chipped in with 11 points and 12 rebounds as Rider boosted its record to 5-3 overall and 1-0 in the ECC. Lafayette, led by Stan Morse's 16 points, fell to 1-6 and 0-1.

Keith Gray scored 10 of his game-high 18 points in the second half to lead Detroit to a 48-46 victory over Toledo.

The teams were tied at 28 with 14:30 left in the second half. But then the Titans outscored Toledo 14-6 over the next 712 minutes to grab the largest lead of the game at 42-34 wth 7:01

Toledo pulled within one, 45-44, with 52 seconds left on a free throw by junior forward Ken Epperson. But a basket and a free throw by Detroit forward Doug Chappell sealed the Titans' victory

John Battle scored 22 points and Chris Remley added a career-high 20 as Rutgers coasted to a 93-78 victory over Seton Hall.

Brian Ellerbe chipped in with 19 points. including 15 in the second half, and 12 assists as the Scarlet Knights boosted their record to

Sipe, Cleveland: 'Friendly Separation'

N.J. (AP) - Quarterback Brian Sipe is the latest National Football League star to jump to the United States Football League, signing a contract with the New Jersey Generals, a move which Cleveland Browns owner Arthur B. Modell called a "friendly separation.

The 34-year-old Sipe, who has been the starting quarterack for the Browns for most of the past decade, will be introduced as the Generals' quarterback today at a 1 p.m. EST news conference at Giants Stadium, team spokesman Kevin MacConnell said Monday

Terms of the contract were not released, but it was reported the pact is for two years with an option year and will pay Sipe a total of $1.9 million. The Browns reportedly offered Sipe $2 million over four years, with less guaranteed money.

The veteran just completed the final year of a three-year contract in Cleveland that paid him $315,000 in the final

'We promised everyone a Christmas present and we are only a few days late," Generals President Jay Seltzer said Monday in a statement. "Our promises and efforts have both come together. We promised we would sign a top NFL quarterback and our efforts were worth it. We are delighted to have him.'

Generals owner Donald J. Trump announced earlier this month that Sipe was his top choice to guide his team in its second USFL season. Trump predicted last week at a news conference that he would sign Sipe to a pact. At that time Trump introduced former New York Jets coach Walt Michaels as the new Generals

"I expected Brian would be leaving us and I'm happy for said. "The contract he is signing with the USFL gives him and his family security that was not to be forthcoming from the National Football

"Our intention is, and has been, to go with Paul McDonald as our quarterback next year," Modell continued.
"It would have been nice to have Brian with us, but our plans revolve around Paul. So it's a friendly separation.

The news also came as no surprise to Sam Rutigliano, the Browns' head coach. "This isn't something that came out of the blue," he said. "If there's anybody who wasn't expecting this, they've been hibernating for the winter.

Asked what Sipe's defection does to the Browns' quarterback situation, Rutigliano said, "We've got Paul McDonald, Rick Trocano and the 1984 draft.

Mike Pruitt, Browns fullback, talking about the situation when ooth Sipe and McDonald were negotiating with the USFL, said, "I'm sure it upset a lot of the guys because nobody knew what was going on with the quarterback situation. I'm glad it came to a head and I'm glad a decision has been Sipe led the Browns to an 9-7 record this season, capping it with four touchdown passes in a 30-17 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers in the final regular season game.

Sipe hit 291 of 496 passes for 3,566 yards this season, with 26

In his NFL career. Sipe completed 1,944 of 3,439 passes for 23,713 yards, with 154 touchdowns and 149 interceptions. He became the 32nd NFL quarterback to throw for more than 20,000 yards.

The San Diego State graduate enjoyed his best season in 1980, when he was named the NFL's Most Valuable Player after hitting 337 of 554 passes touchdowns.

Steinbrenner Fined For Role In Pine Tar Game

NEW YORK (AP) - Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has assessed a $300,000 fine on George Steinbrenner in connection with the "Pine Tar Game" last summer and says that "any future improper conduct" could result in a suspension for the principle owner of the New York Yankees' baseball team.

The warning came Monday in the same letter in which Kuhn informed Steinbrenner that he and the Yankees were fined $250,000 and an additional $50,000 to reimburse Kuhn's office for legal fees

The pine-tar fine marked the fourth time in the last 18 months that Kuhn has fined Steinbrenner for one infraction or another. The Yankee owner also was suspended for a week during last season by Lee MacPhail, then the American League president

A Yankee victory was wiped out in the game on July 24, when MacPhail overturned a ruling by umpires that had disallowed a home run by Kansas City's George Brett in the ninth inning because he had pine tar on his bat.

"I must reiterate," Kuhn said in his letter, "that any future improper conduct on your part or on the part of the Yankees may result in such other sanctions, including suspension, as may be within the commissioner's authority. I sincerely hope that as a result of my decision in this matter, and the amount of the penalty imposed, it will not be necessary to face those options.

Steinbrenner has said he would not contest the commissioner's ruling.

Kuhn notified Steinbrenner of his ruling in a two-page letter-released to the press, adding that besides the $250,000 fine, the Yankee owner would be required to pay "an additional $50,000 to reimburse this office for legal fees incurred in connection with the litigation brought by you and the Yankees to enjoin me from conducting the aforesaid hearing

UNC Tar Heels Remain On Top Of Cage Poll

Carolina's Tar Heels remain firmly planted atop The Associated Press college basketball poll, but footing isn't so firm for the rest of the nation's Top Twenty

By virtue of a 103-58 rout of Dartmouth in their only game last week, the 6-0 Tar Heels widened their margin over second-place Kentucky in the weekly voting Monday, amassing 985 points to 963 for the Wildcats. Last week, the Wildcats were only nine points behind the Tar Heels in the voting

Third-ranked Houston, No. 4 DePaul and No. 5 Georgetown stayed in place, but Boston College, Purdue and Louisville dropped out of the Top Ten and Michigan State left the rankings altogether.

Arrest Made In Break-Ins

Greenville police arrested Bobby Joe Dupree. 38, of 705 West Fifth St. on two counts of breaking, entering and larceny this morning following investigations of break-ins at Moore's Pop Shop and Hemby's Shoe Shine Shop on Albemarle Officer R.L. Gorham, who said Dupree was found inside the shoe shop about 3:40 a.m., reported $32.25 in quarters allegedly taken from coin operated machines at Moore's Pot Shop was recovered from Dupree when he was taken into

Robbery Charged

FARMVILLE - Two men were arrested here Saturday morning and charged with the armed robbery with a dangerous weapon of the Expressway Store in the Marlboro community on the south end of Farmville.

Arrested were Michael Jerome Worsley, 18, of Wallace Street, Farmville, and Moses David Barron, 28, of Greene County. Worsley was also charged with the robbery of the ABC Store in Fountain earlier the same morning and Barron was charged with driving while impaired and driving while driver's license permanently revoked.

Police Chief Ron Cooper said the two were identified by the clerk in the Expressway Store as the men who hit him twice on the head with a miniature baseball bat and robbed the store of an undisclosed amount of money. The clerk was treated and released from Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

Worsley is in Pitt County Jail under $30,000 bond; Barron is there under $25,000 bond. Preliminary hearings for both are set for Jan. 5 in Farmville District Court.

Reward Grows

BETHEL. There have been no arrests in the deaths of the area residents killed in a dry cleaning plant here last Monday afternoon and a reward fund for information about the murders continues to mount According to a report from the Bethel Police Department this morning, the investigation is continuing but there is nothing to report to the public at this time. Mayor Frank Hemingway said the town's reward fund, as of yesterday, had about $1,000 in it, all contributions - some from as far away as New York. He said the town board will meet Tuesday and set the amount that the town will place in the fund. The North arolina governor's office has put up a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer or murderers.

Bob Hope Ends Another Trip To Cheer The Troops

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

ABOARD THE USS JOHN KENNEDY (AP) - Costumes got stranded on the wrong ship, band instruments got lost, and there was a blackout not called for in the script, but Bob Hope persevered.

Before arriving back in the United States today, he brought down the curtain Monday on his 31st tour overseas for U.S. troops with one of the most tumultuous shows of his career.

When the costumes failed to turn up for the final show aboard the carrier USS John F. Kennedy, steaming in the Mediterranean off Beirut, Brooke Shields and Miss USA Julie Havek went on in white Navy officer shirts and black net stockings

Courts Inquiry Picks Up Steam

CHICAGO (AP) - An investigation into alleged ticket fixing and court corruption involving thousands of drunken driving arrests has 'picked up steam," says a U.S. attorney

A federal grand jury in Hammond, Ind., has subpoenaed records in 6,000 drunken-driving arrests between 1979 and 1982, in an effort to determine if bond money had been used as bribes to win favorable rulings, the Chicago Tribune reported Monday.

U.S. Attorney R. Lawrence Steele confirmed the investigation and said it had increased recently because of the additional state and federal law agents on the case.

The inquiry came to light after an official of New Chicago, Ind., was arrested last week on charges of obstructing the grand jury. the newspaper said.

Reality Confronts Demo Presidential Candidates

ROTHBERG AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) -The realities of Iowa and New Hampshire are closing in on the Democratic presi dential candidates and confronting seven of them with the question of whether Walter F. Mondale can be prevented from quickly locking up his party's nomination to challenge President Reagan in 1984.

An early victory in the Democratic race was Mondale's strategy from the beginning of the campaign that began last winter more than a year before Iowa voters make the first move toward selecting convention delegates.

Superbly organized and well-financed, the Mondale campaign accomplished all its 1983 goals, gaining endorsements from major factions within the party labor, women and minorities

- and maintaining a lead in public opinion polls.

in the preliminary stages of the campaign that he has forced his rivals to base their strategies on trying to stop

'It is clear that Mondale is going to have to be slowed down on Super Tuesday, said Sergio Bendixen, campaign manager for Sen. Alan Cranston of California. Super Tuesday is the tag given March 13, a day nine states will hold primaries and caucuses

The Iowa caucuses are scheduled for Feb. 20 and the New Hampshire primary for Feb. 28.

All his rivas proclaim Mondale the favorite in Iowa and New Hampshire, while haboring hopes voters in one or both states will provide an unpleasant surprise for the front-runner and a welcome one for themselves

Mondale's big advantages in Iowa are that he grew up in neighboring Minnesota and has the type of strong organized labor, that should work well in a caucus state.

Mondale is leading strongly in Iowa," said Bill White, Sen. John Glenn's campaign manager. The Ohio senator and former astronaut once had hopes his all-American image would play well in the corn belt.

White predicts the New Hampshire vote "will be narrower" than in Iowa Glenn consistently runs second to Mondale in the polls and White concedes that once the voters start marking their choices in February and March "we have to start winning sometime." He declined to be more specific than to say "the middle of March" would have to see Glenn topping Mondale in some contests.

The South weighs in heavily during March and that is an area where Glenn hopes he can run well by contrasting his military background and more conservative views with Mondale's traditional mid-March battleground, if the race has come to a contest between Mondale and Glenn, would be the March 20 Illinois primary.

A disappointing showing by Mondale in Iowa or New Hampshire would slow his drive and could derail it. But there are even greater dangers in the two states for some of his rivals. Finishing lower than second in either state could be equally damaging to Glenn.

"It is close to impossible to do poorly in those two states and still continue," said Bendixen, while saying he would be happy if Cranston finished a strong third in both places.

'We have to clearly emerge" as the third-place candidate after Iowa and New Hampshire, he said. "A poor third won't do the job.'

Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado is hoping he, rather than Cranston, will be the thirdplace finisher in both Iowa working hard to win the support of young people and women, Hart often is regarded as the candidate who might surprise observers. "I'm tired of these political oddsmakers," he said in a moment of frustration recently. "They treat this thing like a horse race and tell people it's all over months before the convention. Well, it's not over, it's only begin-

Curt Moffatt, campaign manager for Sen. Ernest F Hollings of South Carolina, said his candidate will ignore Iowa and concentrate on New Hampshire, Alabama and Georgia. The two Southern states will hold primaries on March 13.

According to Moffatt, the Hollings campaign has the money to concentrate on those three states, but a disastrous finish in New Hampshire could effectively knock him out of the race.

'Our contributors will have a lot to say if we finish fifth (in New Hampshire),

Former Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida has spent a lot of time in New Hampshire and hopes to be the surprise finisher in that primary. He also is hoping that help from anti-abortion activists in Iowa will give him a base of support in the caucuses. Askew is the only Democratic presidential candidate who strongly opposes legal abortions

With neither money nor organization, former Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota depends on people remembering fondly his 1972 campaign as the Democratic presidential nominee. McGovern was a landslide loser that year, but the Watergate burglary in June 1972 eventually made Richard M. Nixon an even bigger

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, whose campaign hopes rest community, is making bids for support in both Iowa and

New Hampshire despite the fact neither state has a substantial black population.
