Women Score Gains As Area Politics Shift

By TOM BAINES

News events that not only made front page headlines locally but gained widespread attention on several occasions unfolded almost daily during 1983 in Greenville and neighboring areas.

Sadly, many of the year's major developments dealt with tragedy or stories on unpleasant events and as 1984 approached, the final chapters on several of those news happenings remained to be written.

The Daily Reflector also covered its share of stories that made its readers happy and it generally kept the public informed on day-to-day issues, some of them resulting in decisions that will affect the lives of area citizens for years to come.

It was a year during which women assumed new and significant leadership roles, long-awaited projects finally got under way or progressed to new phases, business reorganization took place, and too many lives were lost. The weather also got in a few shots, particularly during an icy Christmas when temperatures plunged to single digits and wind chill factors registered below zero.

Sports fans in the area had more to cheer about during 1983 as East Carolina University fielded an impressive football unit that turned heads nationally and nearly achieved the reward of a post-season bowl.

March Explosion

A predawn March 2 explosion in a laundry room at Village Green Apartments demolished 11 units of the complex, killing one resident and injuring 12 others in a tragedy that was covered by the national news networks. David Martin, 21, an ECU student, died when the 5:45 a.m. blast hurled him from his third floor apartment into a swimming pool and his roommate was critically injured when he was thrown to the ground.

Rescuers, who spent hours digging through the rubble, were relieved that the death and injury toll was not higher in view of the devastation. Authorities decided that leaking propane gas from a clothes dryer fueled the explosion, which damaged numerous units and forced many residents of the 60-unit development to seek other housing.

Months later, repercussions from the late winter blast were still being felt as lawsuits filed by the Martin family and on behalf of injured residents sought more than $7 million in damages. Named in the suits were the owners of the complex and several companies the plaintiffs said played major roles in the sale, installation and maintenance of the clothes dryer and its gas supply. The firms denied all allegations of negligence and three contended that residents of the complex contributed to their injuries by remaining in the units in spite of reports that gas was leaking.

Female Mayor Elected

Greenville voters elected the city's first female mayor in November, choosing City Council member Janice Buck over retired businessman A.B. Whitley. Mrs. Buck, who ran for mayor after one term as a member of the council, assumed her new duties following installation ceremonies in December.

MAYOR JANICE BUCK

The November balloting also saw Ed Carter lead a slate of council aspirants, an accomplishment that resulted in his selection by the governing board as mayor pro tem for the next two years.

Joining Carter on the council following their elections were incumbents Louis Clark, Judy W. Greene, William Hadden and Stuart Shinn, and Dr. M.W. (Henry) Aldridge, a former member of the board. Incumbent George Pugh narrowly missed re-election after serving one term.

Women Become Leaders

In addition to Mrs. Buck's successful bid for mayor, several other women assumed leadership roles during 1983. They included:

City Opts For New Horizons

By JERRY RAYNOR

Expectations for 1984 as a year of new horizons for Greenville along with a determination to continue progress with less outside assistance are among visions for the new year voiced by leaders on the Greenville scene.

Mayor Janice Buck, reflecting her hopes and plans for 1984, touched on a broad spectrum of possible trends and achievements, saying "I'm excited about what I see as a trend for involvement by more capable, experienced, qualified citizens in efforts to make good things happen in Greenville. The key is working together to make things happen."

Greenville alone is not Mayor Buck's concern for an outreach approach in 1984. "Greenville's continued growth and its position as a leading center depends on the whole eastern part of North Carolina," she says. "I intend to make efforts for better communications among surrounding cities so that we can work together to make good things happen for the eastern part of the state. We need to look at the broad aspect of growth, to get together to talk about all our needs and goals. Greenville," Mrs. Buck adds, "may have to be not as competitive as some would like it to be."

On the continuity of programs and projects with less assistance from state and fedeal resources, Mayor Buck feels "Greenville will face continued economic transition from dependence on federal and state and depend to a greater degree on our own local revenues. This has got to happen if ever we expect to see the federal government balance their budgets. It's beginning to happen already, with cuts in many fields of federal funding. And none of us want to continue creating heavy de-

Service Station Owner Is Killed

William H. Tripp, owner of Tripp's Bypass Service Center on Memorial Drive, died Saturday at Pitt County Memorial Hospital shortly after he was shot at his service station.

According to PCMH Nursing Supervisor Mattie Bryan, Tripp died at approximately 7:15 after being brought to the emergency room by members of Greenville Fire and Rescue.

Police Detective Sgt. George Albertine said it appeared Tripp was shot, just outside the station near the gas pumps, when he and a black male struggled. "Then he must have staggered back into the building," he said.

While police initially thought the station was robbed, Albertine said there didn't seem to be any money missing.

Albertine said witnesses last saw Tripp's assailant just after the shooting when the gunman headed toward a field adjacent to the station and Village Drive. According to Albertine, the assailant was wearing all black or dark clothing, stood approximately 6 feet tall and weighed about 160 pounds.

French Trains Hit By Bombs

MARSEILLE, France (AP) — Bombs ripped through Marseille's main St. Charles railroad station Saturday evening, and through a speeding train 120 miles north. Officials said at least four people were killed and scores more were injured.

There was no immediate indication who planted the bombs.

One bomb exploded at 8:09 p.m. in the baggage checkroom of the main hall at St. Charles station, killing two people and wounding 38, said regional authorities in Marseilles. Reports from police and firemen said six to 12 were critically injured.

About 25 minutes earlier and 120 miles north, a bomb blasted through two first class carriages of one of France's new TGV high speed trains as it raced north toward Paris from the same Marseille station.

Despite the blast, which blew gaping holes in the carriages' walls and roofs, and its 100 mph speed, the train did not derail

Uncertainty Marks Farmer's Plans

By MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

Higher production costs and uncertain prices — these are words farmers hear every year and are words that form a forecast for Pitt County farmers in 1984, say local agricultural officials.

The outlook in 1984 for tobacco, the county's largest crop, contains "a lot of uncertainty," says Pitt Agricultural Extension Agent Mitch Smith. The tobacco quota cut of 11 percent for 1984, announced earlier in December, will cost Pitt County around $8 million, Smith estimates, in what he calls "fallout from not being able to sell that amount of tobacco."

In 1984 Smith says he foresees "production costs that will continue to climb," and a year when the "strength of the dollar hurts exports."

Smith said tobacco growers must emphasize quality in 1984's crop. "We must strive for quality in an effort to to offset the cheap labor in other countries with our quality," he added.

The farm agent noted growers need to use the best marketing skills they can in 1984 and look closely at basic practices like rotation that control disease.

"We lost tobacco to disease in 1983, particularly to tobacco mosiac," said Smith, "and I think this can be prevented in 1984 with the use of resistant varieties, chemical and rotation."

"For the majority of the grains, prices will be best between January and March," said Sam Uzzell, Pitt extension agent. "They (grain prices) will peak then for the year.

"Corn has been a bit of a letdown because a lot of people have substituted wheat for corn for feed," he added. "It will probably continue that way."

Uzzell predicted a great deal of grain acreage would be planted nationwide in 1984, and that Pitt County will follow the national trend.

ECU Looks At Year Of Expansion

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Expansion is a planned-for probability for East Carolina University, especially the ECU School of Medicine, during 1984, school officials said in interviews this week.

Chancellor Dr. John Howell said applications for enrollment in university programs are up by 16 percent. While the school will not be able to add more than a couple of percentage points to its enrollment, the increased demand looks good in an era when many higher education enrollments are shrinking, he said.

He said it looks as if funding for the coming year is going to be adequate, with no reason to believe that there will be any midyear financial crunch. "That's always reassuring to an administrator," Dr. Howell said.

The university's new Center for Applied Technology, which will work with private industry in development of new products, is an exciting prospect for the coming year, Howell said. "It's another way in which the university can serve the Eastern North Carolina community," he commented.

He also mentioned the new master's degree program in social work as an academic step forward. "Most of our other academic programs," he said, "will be about the same, but will be adapting to changing times."

He said he believes the university's athletic fans and participants can also expect a good year. And he said the university's new vice chancellor for institutional advancement is going to be an enabler for better fund-raising through gifts from the community and grantsmanship.

Another reason for optimism, he said, is that the maintenance budget for this year will allow for repairing

GM Considers Reduction In Divisions

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. plans to make sweeping changes in its organization by consolidating its five automobile divisions into two — a large car group and a small car group, according to published reports.

The consolidation plan may be unveiled by GM Chairman Roger Smith on Jan. 9 when the carmaker's board of directors meets in New York, Automotive News reported in its current issue.

GM spokesman Clifford D. Merriott refused comment on the report and a similar one in the Jan. 9 issue of Newsweek magazine. However, Merriott said the automaker began a corporate organizational review last year.

"It's no secret that 15 months ago we announced a man (John Debbink) was coming to Detroit to head a study on GM," Merriott said Saturday. "That study is still continuing. Beyond that, I have no comment."

Newsweek, in a preview of its story released Saturday, said the plan would be implemented over the next three years.

The Buick, Oldsmobile and Cadillac divisions would become the large car group, and Chevrolet and Pontiac would become the small car group, Automotive News said. The two groups would have their own marketing and administrative functions, the industry trade magazine reported.

"We've been doing things the same way a long time and ought to take a look to see if we can do it more efficiently some other way," GM President F. James McDonald was quoted as saying.

However, McDonald said the study group could conclude that the divisions should remain as they are, Automotive News said.

According to Newsweek, Wall Street analysts believe the move represents a decision by GM to push its efforts in the U.S. small-car market, which accounts for 40 percent of all cars sold. Design, engineering and marketing once handled by central staffs will be handled instead by the two divisions, the magazine said.

The magazine said it was the biggest reorganization of the company since the 1920s.

Auto industry analyst David Healy of Drexel, Burnham, Lambert, Inc., said the goal of a realignment might be to consolidate the administrative side of the operation "to get rid of overlapping people."

"It's an interesting thing," Healy said in a telephone interview from New York. "There can't really be any change in the marketing end of the operation, Chevys will still be sold under that name, it would be foolish to change that.

"I doubt there will be any change at the car dealers," Healy.

Automotive News said a realignment might pave the way for more dual dealerships.

Under the reported consolidation plan, Chevrolet and Pontiac would make nothing larger than intermediate size cars such as the A-body Chevrolet Celebrity and the Pontiac 6000, Automotive News said.

The Oldsmobile, Buick and Cadillac divisions would lose their small body cars, such as the J- and X-body model cars, but those restrictions would not apply to specialty cars, the industry journal said.

Fisher Body and GM Assembly Division also would be consolidated into the two car groups under the plan, Automotive News said.

Last year, the nation's largest automaker formed the GM Truck and Bus Group to put its administrative, marketing, manufacturing and planning of its worldwide commerical vehicle opereations in one body.

GM reported record third-quarter earning of $737 million, a gain of 471 percent over $129.4 million earned in the same period a year ago. The old third quarter record was $528 million set in 1978.

So far this year, GM has earned $2.4 billion compared with $818 million in the first three quarters of 1982.

Jackpot

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) — A California grape grower was handed a check Saturday for $2,478,716 after state gaming authorities verified that he had won the nation's largest slot machine jackpot.

The jackpot, paid at Harrah's Tahoe casino, is twice the $1.2 million paid by an Atlantic City casino in November 1982.

Rocco Dinubilo, 63, of Fresno, told casino officials he had read about the growing progressive slot machine prize and told friends he was "going to get it."

"I have been coming up here four times a year and I've had my share of good and bad luck," Dinubilo said.

He said he wasn't certain what he'll do with the money. "Right now I'll pay taxes and some bills and then figure out what to do next."

The machine paid off at about 4:45 a.m. but under a new Nevada gaming policy all jackpots over $100,000 must be verified by authorities. That process took more than five hours.

The policy was instituted after a San Francisco man apparently won a $1.7 million jackpot at the same casino last August. The prize was rescinded after the man was implicated in a rigging scheme.

Black-Eyed Peas: Sign Of Luck

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — It's New Year's Day and the ham is on the table, but if you live in Dixie the menu isn't complete without black-eyed peas — for good luck, of course.

For more than a century, Southern families have rung in the New Year with the "lucky" peas. An Auburn food specialist says the tradition has its roots in the Civil War.

"There are countless tales explaining why you should eat black-eyed peas on New Year's Day," said Oleane Zenoble of the Alabama Cooperative Extension Service.

"One thing ties them all together," she said. "The small cream-colored pea, actually a bean, with a 'black eye' in the center, is supposed to bring luck."

Ms. Zenoble said the early folklore surrounding the misnamed pea centers on the bleak and bare countryside after Gen. William T. Sherman's Union troops blazed a path across the South during the Civil War.

"Many a Southern family was considered lucky to have black-eyed peas, cornbread and a bit of hog jowl to put on the table," she said.

Since smokehouses and granaries were primary targets for the Northern invaders, most meat was taken. The hog jowl, the least meaty piece of the hog, was least inviting and often was left behind.

"Not much to brag about," said Ms. Zenoble, "but it does season a pot of black-eyed peas delightfully."

Another tale has it that a farmer down on his luck ate the peas on New Year's Day. The next day, while digging a post hole for a fence he discovered a pot of Spanish gold doubloons, the story says.

Others say you will make $1 for every pea you eat on New Year's Day, said Ms. Zenoble, adding that even if you ate a dozen tablespoonfuls "you would only make a thousand dollars."

But, she said, "when this tale was started, a yearly income of a thousand dollars was considerably above average. Many a Southern planter would be delighted with it."

While black-eyed peas may not possess all the powers folklore has attributed to them, they are nutritious, said Ms. Zenoble.

She said they are an excellent source of carbohydrates, which are used for energy. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, they also contain some B vitamins and significant amounts of iron, calcium and protein, she said.

There's one last note in the saga of the black-eyed pea, said Ms. Zenoble. The purists believe that only dry black-eyed peas, not frozen or canned, will bring good luck.

Rescue workers found two passengers dead and 20 injured, five of them seriously, according to the Interior Ministry in Paris.

Police and railroad authorities earlier had said that four people died in the Marseilles explosion. There was no explanation for the reduced toll announced later by the regional authorities.

The Interior Ministry said the Marseilles bomb was "very powerful." It left a crater a yard wide.

All rescue services in Marseille and nearby towns were called in, ambulances coming from the town of Aix-en-Provence some 20 miles north.

Rose Kennedy Health 'Fair'

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Rose Kennedy, the 93-year-old matriarch of one of the nation's foremost political families, is responding well to treatment for a viral infection, a spokeswoman said Saturday.

Mrs. Kennedy's condition was listed as fair, added Judy Rich, a spokeswoman for St. Mary's Hospital.

She will remain in the hospital for "at least for the next few days," Ruth E. Hardy, another hospital spokeswoman, said Friday. "The family is very anxious to get her home."

Mrs. Kennedy was admitted Thursday after doctors feared she might be suffering from bronchitis or pneumonia, Ms. Hardy said. She said tests revealed Mrs. Kennedy had a viral infection.

Neighbors and a housekeeper said Mrs. Kennedy first felt ill Thursday after a three-day cold spell. Ms. Hardy said that since Mrs. Kennedy was admitted, the hospital has been "deluged" with telephone calls from well-wishers.

Bob Shrum, press secretary for Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., said Friday that Mrs. Kennedy's only surviving son didn't plan to visit "because she has nothing serious."

Mrs. Kennedy has been staying at the family's Palm Beach mansion since November.

Mrs. Kennedy underwent minor surgery in Boston in 1979 and 1980. She was hospitalized at St. Mary's the following year, complaining of chest pains.

Growth

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The church in China is "one that would not die" but that instead grew in the long period of harsh suppression, says a Lutheran scholar, back from a tour in China with 23 other Lutherans.

The Rev. Kenneth Senft, head of the management committee of the Lutheran Church in America's mission division, said there now are 3 million to 5 million Protestants in China, compared to 750,000 at the time of the communist takeover in 1949.

SERVICE

One Crown Deserved

In Memory Of Sheila Marlene Bland

As I drove into the parking lot, a car did I miss;
Although I paid little attention, my mind would insist.
I began to wonder, why do I feel this way,
When everything is the same as any other day.
But I was wrong, without a doubt,
'Cause no one was running or jumping about.
As I walked up to the entrance of the school,
I felt a sense of sadness, I felt like a fool.
When I opened the door, everyone turned around,
But no one was talking out loud or making a sound.
I did not understand what was going on;
I just kept on walking alone.
When I turned the corner of the hall,
I heard nothing but a whisper from all.
I kept on walking not knowing what I was about to discover,
When I heard one person say to the other,
"I just do not understand...why Sheila?
She is sweet, pretty, and nice, too.
Why not just me or you?"
I gazed out over the crowd in dismay,
After I heard what he had to say.
I thought...This cannot be true-
But it was--her crown was due.
She had worked for it and she had paid for it,
And now she had died for it.
She is in a better place, none can compare--
That glorious Heaven in the air.
I hope to see her one glad day,
To tell her she had shown me the way.

Long-Time Pitt ABC Officer 'Jim' Ward Enters Retirement

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

J.M. "Jim" Ward, a veteran with more than 45 years experience in enforcing ABC laws, retired as the county's ABC enforcement officer Saturday.

Ward, who will be 80 years old in April, was one of two Pitt County ABC emforcement officers hired May 1, 1937, two years after county ABC stores opened in 1935. He is the last officer on the county payroll.

After seven yars as a county enforcement officer, Ward – in the mid-1940s – joined the U.S. Treasury Department's Alcohol Tax Unit (later to become the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Unit and more recently the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms). However, after two years, he returned to the Pitt agency where he has remained.

"There was too much red tape in government work," Ward explained.

Over the years, Ward has seen the local enforcement agency grow, and in recent years, decline.

"We had six officers at one time in the 1950s, Ward recalled.

Some of the men who helped enforce the law as county officers, he remembers, were H.B. Lilley, Walter Taylor, Jack Russell, Glenn Perkins, James Ross, Dick King and Claude Manning.

"I love the work, and there was plenty to do in those days," Ward said of the years before the mid-1960s, when the enforcers would prowl the woods in search of illegal distilleries, look for non-tax-paid or bootleg whiskey, and hunt for persons illegally dispensing tax-paid booze. "The county was full of bootleg liquor" in those years, he said.

J.M. 'JIM' WARD

"I reckon we did too good a job," Ward said, only half-jokingly, as he explained the declining need for county enforcement officers.

"Good law enforcement, the high cost of material (rising prices due to inflation), and government checks stopped bootleggers."

It's cheaper to buy tax-paid whiskey than it is to make bootleg, and unless you are under-age, it's a lot more legal, Ward suggested.

The high cost of sugar, corn meal, yeast and other materials used in the mash from which bootleg is distilled, and the cost of copper from which quality stills are made, now make bootlegging a non-profit venture, Ward said. In fact, the use of metals other than copper in stills can turn bootleg whiskey into poison.

"The last still we got was about four years ago," Ward said, "and we haven't gotten any bootleg liquor in years."

But Ward has still enforced the ABC laws, working cooperatively with the state's Alcohol Law Enforcement agents to enforce the state's one-gallon possession law and other regulations.

"We used to get two or three stills a day, every day in the week. I've helped destroy several hundred stills," Ward said.

And several hundred people have been arrested by Ward and other ABC officers, and thousands of gallons of non-taxed whiskey have been confiscated and destroyed, along with tens of thousands of gallons of mash.

Depending on the situation, axes were used to demolish illegal stills or dynamite (more recently military-type plastic explosives and detonator cord) was used to blow them up.

Ward remembers the largest single seizure of non-tax-paid whiskey in the county came in 1961 when 2,605 gallons of the clear, sparkling liquid was found near Bethel and destroyed.

"One of the largest stills we ever got was across the river from Grimesland," he said. "That was in April 1952. Seven men were arrested and three cars and some 4,200 pounds of sugar were confiscated."

County, Hospital Officials See Chance For Continued Growth

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County government and hospital officials said last week that 1984 should be a good year.

Although the Board of Commissioners has "no specific projects" scheduled for the coming year, board Chairman R.L. "Bob" Martin said, "We're going ahead with present policies and planning for the years ahead."

Pointing out that county revenue is good, Martin said "I see good prospects for 1984," and said "we're trying to operate at a level to provide the necessary services, while at the same time live within our means."

Martin said that generally, "I think we're on an upswing," as far as the economy is concerned, and the improvement "will continue on into 1984.

"It looks like building has really taken off again in the county. With the expansion that's going on, I don't see any reason for a decline."

Fred Brown, senior vice president at Pitt County Memorial Hospital, said 1984 "promises to be a good year for the hospital and for the patients and communities that we serve."

Brown said the "Phase 1" construction project, which includes a new emergency department and expansions for radiology and surgery, will be "going on throughout the year," with completion set for 1985.

Brown also said the hospital will be "adding two new services ... real landmarks in the growth and development of the medical center" during the coming yar.

"Cardiac surgery is scheduled to begin in July," Brown said, to "round out" PCMHH "becoming a major medical center.

Brown said too, that the East Carolina University School of Medicine, in July, will be "bringing on line" the new radiation theropy unit.

The hospital official said the two new services "should significantly change our referral patterns and (hospital bed) utilization. "I see 1984 as a year of new service and change."

Brown said patient load at the hospital should "remain stable" during the first six months of the new year. However, he said officials are forecasting an increase in patients during the second half of the year, because of the impacts of cardiac surgery and radiation theropy.

Hit Man Sought In Killing

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) – A hired professional may have killed a used car dealer and one of his employees, says Randolph County Sheriff Robert Mason, who says authorities have a suspect but have established no motive.

Kenneth R. "Butch" Hazelwood, 46, and Grady Junior Williams, 57, were found dead in Hazelwood's auto dealership just south of High Point on Thursday. Each had been shot twice in the head.

Authorities believe Hazelwood was the target of the attack and that Williams, an employee, was killed because he was a witness, Mason said Friday.

"The person or peopple who committed the crime knew what they were doing – close range, all gunshot wounds to the head," he said.

He predicted that deputies would establish "a true motive in a day or so."

In a news conference Friday, Major Larry Emerson of the sheriff's department said there was no evidence of forced entry into the building, no sign of a struggle and, apparently, nothing taken.

That, plus the fact that each man was shot in the head "in a vulnerable position," suggests "execution-style killings," Emerson said.

Hazelwood's body was found behind his desk in the office of the building. Williams' body was found in a storage shed built onto the rear of the building.

Hazelwood's brother, Chuck Hazelwood of Thomasville, said he saw Kenneth at Christmas and "everything was all right. I certainly wouldn't have anticipated anything like this."

a lot of leaking roofs. "Leaks," he said, "cause about as much dissatisfaction as anything except inadequate parking. Seriously, we're happy about our roof repair possibilities."

"We've completed the first year of settling into the Brody Medical Science Building," School of Medicine Dean Dr. William Laupus said, "and we look forward this year to new and exciting programs in radiation therapy and cardiac surgery. We expect both to start up this summer."

"We're pleased with the near completion of our first phases of development and we are hopeful 1984 will see us working more closely with the communities of eastern North Carolina. The medical school already has some programs out in the communities beyond Greenville and we expect to continue to propose and develop this kind of thing over time. Two areas we feel need to the addressed in the community beginning this year are those of hypertension and diabetes.

We expect our family practice, medical and pediatrics departments to work on both."

Three medical school department heads are being sought now – one for obstetrics and gynecology, one for rehabilitation medicine and one for radiation therapy. W. Randolph Chitwood has been secured to head the cardiac surgery program. Budget increases have made possible additional faculty in nearly every department and these are expected to be "on board" by July, Laupus said.

The computer program which links the the medical school, the rest of the university and the hospital which served as a major teaching facility of themedical school is being expanded, he said.

The size of the next class to be accepted will be either 64, as it was last year, or 68, he said. A decision on the number has not yet been made.

He said the Medical School Foundation's fund drive is "coming along very well. We've had a good response."

Scientist Says Primate Fossil Links Man, Ape

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) – Discoveries in a wind-swept Egyptian desert have made a cat-sized primate one of the best known common ancestors of man and apes, a Duke University scientist says.

Elwyn L. Simons, director of the Duke Primate Center, discovered skull parts and limb and ankle bones of the ape during a November expedition southwest of Cairo.

In addition to increasing knowledge of the animal – Aegyptopithecus zeuxis – the expedition has shown that it flourished 32 million years ago instead of 27 million years ago as had been believed, Simons said.

Aegyptopithecus was a small, social ape that lived in male-dominated groups. A tree-dweller, it subsisted primarily on fruits since North Africa had a more temperate climate than it does now.

Potassium argon was used to date an overlying lava flow in the Fayum Depression, where all Aegyptopithecus remains have been found, Simons said.

"The new date for the oldest of the Fayum lava flows was determined ... at the U.S. Geological Survey in Denver as being 31 million years," he said.

The ape fossils come from layers about 100 yards below the newly-dated and lowest lava flow, suggesting that Aegyptopithecus existed in North Africa at least 32 million years ago, Simons said.

More importantly, he said, "the four best preserved faces of this ancestor have distinctly different proportions even though they all appear to be males of the same species of Aegyptopithecus."

On two of the skulls, the snout is very short, resembling more recent apes. On all four, the shape of the eye sockets and the broad space between them is like African, not Asian, apes.

A fifth forehead or frontal bone is much more broadly expanded than the others, suggesting that some of the Fayum apes already had developed unusually large brains for that ancient period, Simons said.

"Both high degrees of individual variations and progressive brain enlargements are the hallmarks of all higher primates related to ourselves," he said.

"This indicates that in this earliest known phase of anthropoid evolution, just as in the early evolution of our own genus, Homo, brain volume varied greatly."

Tooth and facial structures foreshadow those of later apes and monkeys. The new partial skulls and other bones "today make Aegyptopithecus one of the best-known stages in human ancestry," Simons said.

Farms ...

"That means barring another drought, there will be a large (grain) crop," he said, "and cash prices in the fall will be low."

Uzzell said he feels it will become "very important in 1984 for a grain farmer to lock in on a price he can live with for a crop."

"Again, skilled marketing will be important," said the farm agent. "Farmers need to explore alternative marketing methods such as contracts, hedging and futures marketing."

Hedging is establishing a price for a product that will be not available until the future, either by cash contract or futures contract.

Uzzell said he felt a large crop of peanuts will be planted locally in 1984 because of the past two disppointing years.

The farm agent said there were "a lot of people in Pitt County interested in vegetable growing for profit" but noted that as 1984 begins, there is "no market of sufficient means to do it."

"I would advise someone interested in commercial horticulture to pursue his own study to get in tough with a buyer," said Uzzell.

"Locally there is some room for expansion in the pick-your-own markets, except for strawberries," said Uzzell. "That's probably the only area in the county I see any possible expansion in."

According to Miriam Redden, former Pitt livestock agent, prices for cattle and hogs will rise in 1984. "Cattle prices in the spring will rise, especially feeder and stock calves," predicted Mrs. Redden. "Hog prices will rise all year, then drop down in November."

Mrs. Redden said she felt hog prices would reach around 55 cents per pound. They currently stand at around 50 cents per pound.

Production costs, she noted, will continue to rise, and that will increase the amount growers need per pound to make a profit. It currently costs 45-48 cents per pound to get a hog to market, she said.

"1984 will be a year, agreed all three agricultural officials, when farmers can't afford excess production costs.

"They keep telling us (farmers) to tighten our belts but we've tightened them about as far as they're gonna go," said Uzzell. "No one can afford unneeded production expenses this year."

Uzzell said the Pitt Extension Service can help farmers determine where costs can be reduced through production meetings and individual workshops.

Also, he said, workshops on hedging are scheduled in January in addition to a series of area meetings titled "Managing for Profit in 1984."

"These meetings will be an attempt by the extension service to equip farmers to make better decisions," said Uzzell, "and that's going to be the name of the game in 1984."

New Year's Resolution

Perhaps you are uninterested in politics or feel you just don't have the time to get involved. Maybe you have not even voted as regularly as you should have. The political system we as Americans enjoy may not be perfect but it is as good as it is only because our founding fathers and generations of our ancestors devoted their time, efforts, resources, and at times even their lives to make it so. Should we do any less? Are our freedoms any less valuable today? Are we in any less danger of losing these freedoms today? Please make it your New Year's Resolution to answer NO to these questions and to DO something about it.

1984 will be a crucial year. The United States of America will either continue what was begun in 1980, with an improving economy, strengthening National Defense, and reduction in government regulation, or, we will return to the high inflation, tax, tax, tax – spend, spend, spend, vote-buying ways of the past.

Let this be the year YOU get involved. There is much you can do. Call or write-we'll tell you how to get started.

'Big Brother' Or Not, 1984 Can Be Happy

Happy New Year!

Today is the first day of another year. The number — 1984 — has no special significance except possibly for the devotees of George Orwell, whose book by that title, written 40 years ago, set many to wondering about the future and whether there really would be a "Big Brother" watching over us all.

Some say "Big Brother" is here; if no where else, in that computer that always seems to want your Social Security number.

Regrettably, there are many today who see little to smile about, just as did the characters in Orwell's book. Orwell, as his biographers point out, effectively ended his already frail life by devoting so much of his time to writing the book in the coolness of rural Scotland. His readers, and their descendents, have gone even further in adapting their own fears and political policies to those he imagined.

There are those among us today who either cannot or refuse to see a light at the end of the tunnel. Economic experts do little to help; one says "yes, indeed, recovery is in full swing," while another filled with equal expertise cries loudly into his towel.

Lebanon, Grenada, Southeast Asia, Central America: all are areas of trouble, of desperation, places that mean little to us except for their strategic significance to the United States in its role as a so-called world power. Yet, as the United States has become inextricably involved in their internal affairs, these far-off places have become household words synonomous with hurt, fear and death.

At home, we buy new cars on time plans that may double the cost, walk off our jobs in a strike that we think may bring us more money to make up for that we lost during the strike, smoke cigarettes that some say will riddle our bodies with cancer, drink booze that we know will knock us senseless and use drugs that will give us a high before we fall.

On the surface, the outlook for 1984 isn't all that cheerful. But is it really all that different from any of the other years that came before?

The number 1984 does have a special meaning for Christians; their faith in an almightly being and the hope of eternal life has endured for 20 centuries, despite persecution and the foibles of mankind. For those of other religions, the number of the year may be different or the new year may start at the same time, but the concept is the same — this is a new year that, despite the instinctive fear built into most of us, carries with it the same chance for happiness that any other year has had.

For us, it is really what we make of it, individually and collectively.

We hope it is a good one for you. Again, happy New Year!

Alvin Taylor — Sunday Morning Notes

There's a new kid on the block. Everyone's calling him 1984, a year that — because of a novel some years — back, is known as a sort of doomsday year for individual freedoms.

The kid pushed aside an old man, known as 1983, who only had one short year on this earth. It is not surprising that 1983 aged so quickly. That's the way it is when you carry around all the burdens that humanity can heap upon you in one year.

At any rate, it all belongs to Kid 1984 now. He will have to wrestle with the problems of nuclear weapons, hunger and famine and war in the Middle East. Pollution, overpopulation, ecological changes and rising expectations will all be his.

Even at that, Kid 1984 will find a better world than did many of his predecessors. There were some who saw millions of slaves used to build the pyramids of Egypt. Others presided over cruel wars in Europe. A few have seen the two great World Wars which disrupted the lives of millions and brought us to our present state of super powers facing off each other.

Through it all mankind has progressed in the sense of developing better ways to live, work and spend our leisure time. And he has also progressed in developing more terrible weapons which will make war more awesome and perhaps a time of complete annihilation.

There are some who believe that a simple agreement between the super powers will be enough to forstall the total destruction. Others think the end will come, no matter what. Most of us feel the weapons are simply too terrible and thus neither side will ever use them.

Regardless, life goes on on the old planet and most of us go on planning our careers, marriage, families and the things we will do next week. Generally we hold up pretty well under the constant threat of death and destruction.

Kid 1984 will make his contributions during his time on earth. There will be steps forward for mankind during his year and certainly there will be negative developments.

When the year is done, Kid 1984 will be an old man like all his predecessors, but if he does he does his job as well as those before him, when the positive and negatives are added up, he will leave the world just a little better off.

Helen Thomas — Peace?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan believes the outlook is brighter now for getting his Middle East peace plan off the ground.

He sees the reconciliation between Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat and Egypt's President Hosni Mubarak as offering a good chance to get the ball rolling on Palestinian autonomy talks.

Mubarak has said repeatedly that the Palestinian question is the number one problem in the Middle East. Few would contest that it has been the crux of problems, including crises and wars, stemming from 1948 when the state of Israel was created.

Part of the peace plan calls for Jordan's King Hussein to represent the Palestinians in negotiations with Israel for self rule on the occupied West Bank and in Gaza. The proposal envisages that the areas would eventually be tied in a federation with Jordan.

Israel has rejected the plan and has built new settlements on the West Bank, although the United States has said repeatedly they are obstacles to peace.

Arafat talked with Hussein last spring and appeared on the verge of conceding power to the Arab monarch to represent the Palestinians, but he broke off the negotiations when the more radical PLO factions protested.

The split with the Syrian-backed PLO rebels in Tripoli and the departure of Arafat from Lebanon opened the way for Arafat to meet with Mubarak. The Egyptian leader believes that Reagan's peace plan is the proper way to implement other provisions of the Camp David accords. But the Mubarak's meeting with Arafat was denounced by Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir.

In an interview with wire service reporters just before Christmas, Reagan was asked whether he thought there was a possibility for a breakthrough for his peace plan.

"I'm always a little leery about saying a breakthrough, but I do think this," he said. "We are optimistic about this because, if you look at the relationship there and the two countries — or the two peoples that were involved. Mubarak is the head of state of the one country in the Arab world that has gone forward and has a peace treaty with Israel. We're hopeful that the peace progress will bring about more Arab nations making their peace with Israel."

The president said that part of the process "depends of a fair and just settlement of the Palestinian question." He made it clear for the negotiations to progress the Palestinians would have to recognize Israel's right to exist.

"Now, I think that what President Mubarak is doing is talking to him about returning to where he was earlier, making contact with King Hussein and getting those peace negotiaitions, our peace proposal underway," Reagan said.

Furthermore, Reagan said that he now believes that it is possible to get started on an overall peace agenda for the area without waiting for a settlement of the turmoil in Lebanon.

Shamir has said that Israel would not talk to Arafat even indirectly, but Reagan believes that Arafat is still the strongest leader with the Palestinians, despite his defeats and setbacks. He also believes Arafat is the more moderate of the Palestinian leaders, and that he may now be ready to opt for a political solution to the long festering problem.

In the interview, Reagan said he did not believe that Mubarak's meeting with Arafat was a violation of the Camp David accords. He said that he understood Israel's feelings in view of the recent terrorist attack on a bus in Jerusalem with a radical PLO faction taking credit.

But he said that Israel, as it looks "at this a little more clearly" will see that Mubarak is "simply trying to persaude others" in the Arab world to "change their thinking" and go the peaceful route.

He noted that in the past Egypt was as "violent in its hostility" to Israel "as perhaps today the elements of the PLO are."

"So," he asked, "who is better able to try and bring in another person into the peace process than someone who has made the change that Egypt has made?"

Some Israelis have taken issue with Shamir's denunciation of the Arafat-Mubarak meeting. Opposition leader Shimon Perez of the Labor Party said that Shamir's recent talks with Reagan should have dealt not only with Lebanon but with the Palestinian question, which he called "the burning issue today."

If Arafat is now free to negotiate with Hussein and defer to Jordanian representation at the peace table, there may be some movement toward an overall settlement. But Israel also would have to make concessions on the Reagan plan which it rejected from the day it was proposed.

Rowland Evans and Robert Novak — MX Panel Calls For More Caution

The unannounced meeting covered two days, Dec. 16-17. Its purpose was to give Robert McFarlane, the president's national security adviser, the commission's view on "Star Wars" technology. The commission, headed by retired Lt. Gen. Brent Scowcroft, has enjoyed high prestige since breaking the long deadlock over the MX missile and saving it from the congressional scrap heap.

Reagan's idea of using high-energy laser beams to knock out incoming ICMBs won general approval from former national security adviser Scowcroft and other heavyweights on his commission such as former defense secretary Harold Brown and former CIA direction Richard Helms. But they warned of a potentially dangerous Soviet reaction if the U.S. moved too fast. Their prescription: continued research and development, but no quick production without careful political preparation.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson's presidential campaign theme of arguing for more statewide black candidates in the South has gotten unexpected encouragement from Georgia Democratic Chairman Bert Lance. He has summoned all 13 Southern Democratic state chairmen to hear Jackson at a closed-door session Jan. 4 in an Atlanta airport motel.

Lance, President Carter's political and personal pal, does not accept the conventional wisdom that Jackson's demands for black candidates threaten to divide the party again along racial lines. Instead, he contends blacks on statewide ballots should maximize the overwhelmingly Democratic black vote turnout.

But Jackson will get no help from Lance on his demands for party rules changes. Also on that point, Jackson struck out in his meeting last week with Democratic National Chairman Charles Manatt.

Friends of James A. Baker III believe there still remains a small — less than 10 percent — chance that he will quit as White House chief of staff within the next month. But they add he will stay on through the election campaign if still on the job at the end of January.

Thus, the choice for Baker: Stay on at the White House or leave the administration. His chances for appointment to a national security post — perhaps as preparation for becoming secretary of state or secretary of defense in a Reagan second term — have vanished.

The only reason Baker would leave his post of power at the White House is fatigue, which his colleagues say he feels deeply. But he laughs off reports of "burnout," leading to predictions that his decision to stay is 90 percent sure.

After first trying to appease maverick Sen. Lowell Weicker into cooperating with the Reagan re-election effort in Connecticut, the president's campaign chairman — Sen. Paul Laxalt — has virtually broken off relations with his Senate colleague and is hardly talking to him.

Laxalt had insisted on letting Weicker name the Connecticut state chairman in hopes of making the liberal senator more sympathetic to the Reagan campaign. But that did not diminish Weicker's intense criticism of the president. Laxalt has now given up.

At first, Laxalt was even inclined to accept Weicker's demand that Roger Stone, Reagan's regional political director for the Northeast, be kept out of Connecticut. Stone had run Prescott Bush's abortive campaign against Weicker last year. Ed Rollins, Reagan's campaign manager, convinced Laxalt that Weicker was asking too much and that Stone was far too valuable to be banished from Connecticut.

James J. Kilpatrick — Milk Program Is Stuff Of Dreams

WASHINGTON — There are sermons in stones and books to be drawn from running brooks, said the exiled duke in "As You Like It," and if there had been a cow barn in the forest of Arden, that noble philosopher might have found a political lesson amid the milking stools. Our federal milk program has turned into the moonbeam stuff from which Shakespearean fantasies are made.

First, a word of commiseration: Farmers who undertake to operate small dairy farms are gluttons for work; they have to love their unremitting labor or they wouldn't keep at it. Second, a word of resignation: In creating the original milk stabilization program many years ago, Congress may have had some justification under the commerce clause of the Constitution; I am resigned to laws that create price supports.

Very well. The milk program worked fine until about 1976. The net expense to the government was relatively small, and the program succeeded in promoting adequate supplies of milk and dairy products at reasonable prices. But a funny thing happened on the way to the 1976 elections. The nation's 312,000 milk producers flexed their muscles and burst into political action: They contributed $1.3 million to congressional candidates — the dairymen that year ranked second only to the doctors among the national lobbies — and they got their money's worth.

The 1977 farm bill evolved from a scratch-back agreement between the city boys, who wanted liberalized food stamps, and the country boys, who wanted higher support prices. When the deal was cut, the price support on milk went from 75 percent to 80 percent of parity, with promised adjustments every six months, and for the dairy farmers this was money in the bank. The government's outlay for milk payments went from $1.9 billion in 1981 to $2.2 billion in 1982; in the fiscal year ended last September the bill climbed to $2.5 billion.

The higher price supports in recent years have been accompanied by significant improvements in technology. On efficient farms, cows now are milked three times a day. The animals are fed the bovine equivalent of caviar and sirloin steak. They produce fountains of milk, rivers of milk, whole oceans of milk — and the government is compelled to buy all the stuff that can't be sold.

Let me throw some figures at you: This year the government has given away 484 million pounds of cheese to needy households. We still have 903 million pounds of cheese in storage. The government has given away 174 million pounds of butter. We still have 391 million pounds of butter on hand. For reasons too technical to get into, it apparently is tough to "instantize" non-fat dry milk in vast quantities. For this reason the government was able to give away only 45 million pounds of non-fat dry milk in 1983. But behold: We still have 1.35 billion pounds of powdered milk left.

This is lunacy. In a bid for relative sanity, Congress provided some changes. The new act, just signed by a reluctant president, cuts the support payments from $13.10 to $12.60 per hundredweight. At the same time, the charge levied upon farmers for administration of the program is cut from $1 per hundredweight to 50 cents. These adjustments are a net wash.

But the act provides a lovely new wrinkle: The government (meaning all of us) will pay participating producers over the next 15 months the sum of $10 for every hundred pounds of milk they do not produce. What will this cost? No one has any clear idea. Two billion dollars, maybe; or maybe more.

On the typical dairy farm, I am told, the average cow gives 40 pounds of milk per day, or about 12,000 pounds over 305 lactation days. Let us suppose the farmer with 40 cows decides upon a 10 percent cut. Under the diversion program he culls his four poorest producers, takes them to slaughter, certifies that he will not produce the 48,000 pounds of milk the cows otherwise would have produced, and pockets a check for $4,800 from a government grateful for his contribution to the public weal.

Such sacrifices will constitute hard lines for the dairy producers, but that's the way it goes. "Sweet are the uses of adversity," said the duke, and the old boy had it exactly right.

Public Forum

To the editor:

It seems to me that if we aren't the most ignorant people in the world, we are fast gaining that distinction. For years we have become embroiled in the affairs of foreign countries. If it was to gain peace, where is the peace?

We have completely forgotten the Monroe Doctrine which says the United States shouldn't get involved with European countries. We are to protect our interests in this hemisphere, but we've been so busy elsewhere that there's less freedom and peace here. Cuba? Central America?

If this isn't bad enough, our president wants to send an ambassador to the Vatican! What horrible ignorance of First Amendment guarantees! What did our ancestors come here to escape? "If we don't learn from history, we'll be doomed to repeat it," as someone once said.

Congress has already given its approval of establishing full diplomatic ties with the Vatican by repealing the 115-year-old ban against funding such a misadventure. In the past, Reagan and other presidents have had personal representatives to the Catholic stronghold, and I would definitely question this. If you can't think of any reason why this would be a bad move for our country, look for Chick Publications concerning the life of ex-Jesuit priest Dr. Alberto Rivera and books by Chiniquy, "The Priest, The Woman and the Confesssional" for one. In this book Chiniquy told of many deplorable things "to make the Protestants remember why their heroic fathers have made such great sacrifices and fought so many battles, shed their purest blood and even died, in order to break the fetters by which they were bound to the feet of the priests and the popes of Rome." I pray that we won't have to repeat that part of history.

Law's Bite Tougher Than Expected

RALEIGH — One of the most emotional issues tackled by the 1983 General Assembly was the anti-slavery bill. The state and federal constitutions forbid slavery but no state law was on the books under which state law enforcement officers could prosecute. So an anti-slavery law was proposed and it ran into almost immediate opposition from coservative rural lawmakers and the state's farm lobby.

Modern day slavery most often occurs in migrant farm crews. A crew boss will hold — either through force or threats — an unwilling farmworker in a crew. The migrants work on farms as employees of the crew boss who enters a contract with the farmer. In the waning days of the session, the Legislature passed a law forbidding slavery but farmworker advocates showed little pleasure with their victory. They said the Legislature — in its desire to keep farmworkers happy — so watered down the law as to make it virtually toothless.

But it appears that the "toothless" law may have a tougher bite than was originally thought. The legislator who sponsored the legislation may have managed to slip some tough provisions into the law during its final re-writing. Rep. Malcolm Fulcher, D-Carteret, says the law — as written in the final compromise — is a "very, very good piece of legislation" which, in some regards, is stronger than anything he would have dared propose at the beginning of the 1983 session.

Under Fulcher's original bill, farmers risked felony prosecution for any migrant farmworker who was held in involuntary servitude with their knowledge on their property. The farm lobby objected saying that provision was an insult to farmers. They said the responsibility for the crime should rest with the crew boss.

A compromise reached near session's end said that if a farmer knew a worker was being held in slavery and that farmer failed to report it to the local police, then the farmer was liable for a misdemeanor. The crew boss was liable for a five-year felony. Farmworkers derided the penalties as "slaps on the wrist."

There was a legal problem with the final compromise, however. Legislative lawyers realized that the proposal could weaken the state's kidnapping laws. So a provision was added to the last paragraph of the bill that sought to avoid that unwanted side effect. In the process, it made slavery a form of kidnapping and brought the full weight of the state's kidnapping laws to bear on anyone charged with slavery.

According to a legislative lawyer, the differences wrought by that one change are immense. Someone convicted of slavery could actually be sentenced for kidnapping. Instead of only five years, the maximum sentence could be 30 or 40 years. A farmer who knowingly allowed a farmworker to be held in slavery could be prosecuted for aiding and abetting a kidnapping — that's a lot more serious than a misdemeanor.

The kidnapping facet of the slavery law is not likely to be invoked in every prosecution, the legislative lawyer speculated. But it should act as a mighty strong deterrent.

Fulcher said there was nothing clandestine about the kidnapping reference, even though he added it without the knowledge of his opponents. The reference was written out in the bill. Anyone interested needed only to consult a statute book.

On the other hand, he didn't warn folks that the law had been strengthened. "Very, very few people realized what was in that bill ... I was afraid someone was going to catch it. I was holding my breath."

Justice

WASHINGTON — Never let anyone say that the wheels of justice don't roll like they used to. They do.

Too often, however, the justice juggernaut misses the bigger targets while crushing smaller fry in its path. Worse, yet, its seemingly errant course generally reflects the priorities of those at the helm.

That conclusion is almost inevitable when considering the case of Richard Lee Boyd, a 31-year-old Wahsington, D.C., native. Last July, Boyd and his firm, North American Reporting, were convicted by a U.S. District Court jury of mail fraud and making false statements in overcharging the government for transcribing presidential news conferences and other work.

With information from a Justice Department investigation, a grand jury in February had indicted Boyd and his company for essentially eight different incidents of alleged overcharges totaling $13,260 during parts of 1980 and 1981. The grand jury said that he had submitted "false" billings that included inflated number of hours worked, the names of employees who hadn't done the work and nonexistent overtime.

Boyd claimed that the overcharges simply reflected the sloppiness typical of a self-employed businessman whose operation exceeds his experience. As proof, he and his lawyer tried to offer evidence that the company had undercharged the government by about $30,000 (his White House billings alone amounted to more than $184,000 in the first eight months of 1981).

But Judge June L. Green, whom even her admirers consider an unexceptional jurist, refused to allow a presentation which the defense considered crucial. On Sept. 9, she handed Boyd a sentence of five years in prison with three suspended to allow him to repay the government. Boyd's company received a $5,000 fine.

Boyd's conviction was a victory for a Justice Department that is presently flexing its prosecutorial muscle at military contractors and hazardous waste dumpers. And yet it's in the defense and environmental areas that the prosecutors are reluctant to ask the maximum penalties.

Take defense procurement, for one. No other area of government purchasing may be as riddled with widely documented overcharges and fraud. According to the Washington-based project on Military Procurement, there's the example of Morton Thiakol, a subcontractor on the MX missile whose own employees claimed that they had been asked to charge their work hours to contracts with cost overrun provisions.

Meanwhile, in one overcharge case, Boeing is alleged to have charged $1,100 each for plastic "stool caps" worth 26 cents; in another, Sperry is said to have made a more than $9,000 markup on a hexagonal wrench worth 18 cents.

Yet, after dragging its heels for years, the Justice Department jailed not a single Morton Thiakol executive, fining the firm $1.5 million instead. In the Sperry wrench case, involving some $1 million in overcharges, it's prosecuting the company but no individuals.

While the number of Justice actions against environmental lawbreakers has increased in the last year, it remains paltry even in comparison to the standards of individual states. Last year, the federal government prosecuted nine corporations and 83 individuals, which according to The Wall Street Journal approximately equaly the efforts of New Jersey alone.

Recently, The New York Times reported that, for hardly excusable reasons, federal and state authorities may have missed a statutory filing deadline for lawsuits possibly involving hundreds of hazardous waste sites. Some state officials were said to have indicated that the Reagan administration had deliberately dragged its feet in favor of polluters.

For Richard Boyd, there was no such luck. Despite 1980 guidelines suggesting that the Justice Department only prosecute overcharge cases of $25,000 or more where bribery is not involved, he lost his company and credibility, not to mention several years of his life. Though Boyd refuses to say so publicly, White House sources suggest that a personality conflict between Boyd and presidential adviser Michael K. Deaver and others may have precluded Boyd from an out-of-court settlement.

Such a possibility might mean nothing to those who believe that "jury spoken, justice done," But one can only wonder whether a "small-is-better" mentality reflects the government's standard for prosecuting cases, and whether that standard is to the nation's benefit.

Letters To Judges

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the Supreme Court, not all the tough queries arrive in legal documents. The nation's highest court and each of its nine members get hundreds of letters from inquisitive citizens each week.

"Are you having fun, or is (the job) too complicated?" asked one third grader recently.

Some other queries: "How much do you get paid per case? What is God's last name? Do you think all politicians are crooks, thieves, cheats and liars?"

Obviously, judicious replies may be required.

Letters recently received by individual justices or by the court as an institution were shown to The Associated Press on the condition that neither the writer nor recipient would be identified by name.

Some came from souvenir seekers. "I would like to have an item that you no longer need, in other words a piece of your trash," one correspondent requested of a justice.

But most sought information.

"I learned recently that the Supreme Court has the power to declare laws unconstitutional," one high school junior said. "I have been looking in the Constitution and I cannot find the passage anywhere that allows this."

A prankster might have been tempted to further confound the puzzled youngster by referring him also to those portions of the Constitution spelling out the right of privacy, the right to travel and the public's right to know — they don't exist either.

Instead, the student was told about the Supreme Court's landmark 1803 decision in Marbury vs. Madison that found such power of review for itself and helped establish the judiciary as an equal branch of government.

An eighth grade class from Missouri wrote to ask a justice for a favorite prayer. That, the students were told, was a matter between the justice and God — "and not subject to public dissemination."

It was hard to tell whether one Illinois youth was seeking frightening legal help or just trying to drive home an anti-abortion point.

"My little brother is only 2 years old and he keeps me awake at night," his neatly written letter said. "He cries and bothers me all the time. Can you please change the law so I can kill him. I heard you said it was OK up till nine months."

Mysteriously, one writer asked the court for "any information on Sweden" it might have.

Some seek help in legal matters. A man imprisoned for killing his psychiatrist asked the court to point out any helpful precedents.

An eighth grader facing an imminent test needed quick help: "Would you please send me the latest interpretation of the Constitution?"

The student no doubt would have been surprised to discover the court's edicts on the Constitution's meaning fill hundreds of volumes.

"We try to be helpful but we are working with a limited staff and a limited budget," said Toni House, the court's public information officer.

"Anyone who writes and asks a question will get a response in some form," she said. "We refer some writers to written materials available in most libraries, and we refer some to the Library of Congress."

For example, there was the teen-ager who asked how one justice had voted on the Equal Rights Amendment and requested "some information about what the ERA is."

She was told that Congress, and not the court, voted on the ERA and was given some suggestions for further research.

Another young correspondent, seeking help for a class discussion, invoked the wisdom of her social studies teacher to explain the importance of getting the answers: "If we are not informed about our government we can't control it."

Poll

PRINCETON, N.J. — By a 5-to-3 margin Americans today thinkdefense policies of the Reagan administration are bringing the United States closer to war than to peace.

In the latest survey, 47 percent say closer to war, 28 percent closer to peace, 15 percent do not see a difference in either direction, while 10 percent are undecided.

The latest survey, conducted in the aftermath of a turbulent four months on the international scene, shows a substantial and growing number of Americans holding the view that President Reagan has not gone far enough in trying to bring about an agreement with the Soviet Union on nuclear weapons.

A total of 48 percent hold this view; while 12 percent say he has gone too far, and 28 percent about right.

7 In 10 Favor Bilateral Freeze

The latest survey also shows widespread public support (77 percent) for an immediate, verifiable bilateral freeze with the Soviet Union on the testing, production and deployment of nuclear weapons.

At the same time, the public continues to overwhelmingly reject a unilateral freeze, with only 23 percent saying they would favor a freeze on the production of nuclear weapons whether or not the Soviet Union agrees to do the same.

1 In 6 Says Nuclear War Likely In 10 Years

About one person in six (16 percent) believes that we are very likely to get into a nuclear war within the next 10 years, while 24 percent think it is fairly likely, 28 percent fairly unlikely and 25 percent very unlikely.

While the current weight of opinion is clearly on the side that it is unlikely that we will become involved in a nuclear conflagration within the next decade, as many as 7 in 10 feel that if such a tragedy were to occur, their chances of living through it would be poor.

The proportion saying "poor" has grown since June 1981 when the figure was 60 percent and is considerably higher than the comparable percentage recorded in 1963 (52 percent) and in 1961 (43 percent).

4 In 10 Want More Spent On Civil Defense

About four in 10 Americans today (43 percent) think the United States should spend more money on civil defense than we are now doing, while 4 percent think we should do less, and 43 percent believe our present efforts are sufficient.

Here are the questions, national findings and results:

University To Study Plan

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — University of North Carolina officials will meet this month to examine how they can improve teacher exchanges with public schools, but their plans differ from what the legislator who proposed the idea had in mind.

Rep. Howard Chapin, D-Beaufort, wanted to set up pilot programs in which college education professors spent two weeks as teachers in public schools, while the instructors they replaced would give students a preview of what they would find on education's front line.

His idea won near-unanimous House approval earlier this year, but the Senate turned it into a resolution urging the University of North Carolina to work more closely with public schools on exchange programs.

In about three weeks, the deans of all the education schools in the UNC system will meet in part to take stock of current exchange programs and decide what new efforts are needed.

All but two of the university system's 16 campuses have some sort of program, said Dr. Donald J. Stedman, UNC system associate vice president for academic affairs. They range from simple visits to the semester that the dean of UNC-Charlotte's education school spent teaching at West Mecklenburg High School.

"The Chapin resolution focused almost exlusively on the notion of swapping a teacher with an educator at a university," Stedman said. "We've gone beyond that because the intent of the resolution is to bring the teaching faculties in the colleges of education much closer to the work of the public schools."

Chapin said he will wait to see what UNC says in its required report to the Legislature, due when the General Assembly meets in June. But the 34-year teaching veteran said he believes that setting up brief visits by professors won't be enough.

"There are many college professors who do not know what's going on in the public schools," he said. "You can't know by going in and observing one period or two periods."

Stedman disagrees.

"The majority of the faculty members in the colleges of education have had teaching experiences in the public schools and have had experience," the UNC executive said. "But he's right on the money with regard to one issue: unless any faculty is apprised with what's happening in the system, they lose touch....

"What we're saying is that there are various ways to get that done," he said. "One way is exchange. Another way, and in many ways more effective, are continuing joing projects that bring teacher education faculty out into the public schools on a regular basis, and high school teachers especially in contact with advances in teaching."

Investors Should Take Good Look Before Plunging

NEW YORK (AP) — You can welcome in the new year with the usual felicities and expectations of good fortune, but if you're wise you won't trust the newcomer until you get to know him better.

Beware, for example, of new-issue mania, a feverish malady that sometimes breaks out in the stock market after a year or so of good times — times good enough to make many people think prosperity is here for good.

It is at such times that people begin dreaming of the new Xeroxes and IBMs and Polaroids, or companies that will grow into tomorrow's giants, transforming their lives because they were smart enough to buy early and low.

A new issue is a volatile thing, capable of doubling its price in a few days of excitement and then shrinking to less than the price at which it was offered, there to become a bargain for those more patient than you.

Watch out for investment fads. Marketing people have achieved a near-genius ability to create what the public wants, and to set them storming the stores in search of it. It applies to dolls and it applies to investments.

Have you forgotten, for example, the sorry story of Baldwin-United's single-payment deferred annuities? Annuities that were supposed to finance retirement for the purchasers — until it was realized Baldwin couldn't afford to do so.

Real estate tax shelters are likely to be faddish in 1984. But even before the year begins some of the wisest of those who offer limited partnerships are warning that many properties are becoming overvalued.

In fact, the probability exists, those in the business say, that many real estate partnerships won't be able to recapture their investments, simply because they paid too much for their buildings in the first place.

Personal computers also will be faddish. "You mean you haven't got one — that you're still managing with pencil and paper?" You'll hear the words often from those who have them. They'll add, "You don't know what you're missing."

Maybe it's just as well, because not everyone needs them now. Maybe in the future they will. But why the panic to buy before the need is established, before the buyer's requirements are clear, before the investment makes sense?

Smart money-managers will avoid a trap that left many households in a bad way during the late and unlamented recession. That is, such households set their sights too high, lived it up, spent every cent they got their hands on.

Locally, Mayor Buck sees "continued stable new growth, but at the same time I think there will be greater emphasis on the preservation of older neighborhoods and the downtown business district."

Education in the local area is also a field in which Mayor Buck expresses expectation of "exciting and rewarding growth and change. I think there will be a significant impact resulting from measures to continue promoting quality education at all levels – the local schools, Pitt Community College and East Carolina University - to meet new employee requirements for business and industry. I see a move in the direction of teaching more technology, of looking at curriculum and programs to prepare students for jobs."

These expectations, Mrs. Buck concludes, "are only part of the exciting possibilities I foresee for 1984 as we continue to build on good programs already in existence and plan for new developments in Greenville and the area."

A veteran Greenville employee, City Manager Gail Meeks, also "looks forward to 1984 as being a good year." Focusing her remarks on the area of city government, Mrs. Meeks notes "we begin the year with a new City Council and two new department heads, engineer and inspections director Tom Tysinger and finance director Ron Kimble.

"The council will be addressing a number of important issues during the year. For one thing, the city staff recently developed a two-year program of work which we will be busy implementing. Greenville has capable employees who are proud of the work they do in providing services to citizens.

"One of our goals in 1984," Mrs. Meeks adds, "is to continue to provide quality services in the most efficient and economical manner.

"The budget looks good now, with revenues on schedule and expenses being held down. We anticipate the 1984-85 fiscal year to be about the same type as for the current year."

Though working on a cautious budget approach, the city manager says "we still have some pressing capital improvements that are needed. Our number one project will be to work on developing a Science and Nature project at River Park North. Another item we will give attention is a new park in the Westhaven and Club Pines Subdivisions. Hopefully, we can acquire the land needed for this planned park."

Another area which Mrs. Meeks sees as one in which extended services will be provided is "an increase in important levels of service and protection to everyone through the police department under Chief Ted Holmes. Progress has been made in this area over the past few years, and I foresee a continued increase in this important public service."

Charles Horne, director of Greenville Utilities Commission, for 1984 sees "a better outlook for potential new industries. Our utility rates are competitive, and the overall basis of competitive utilities costs play a major role in attracting new industries, along with an area's climate and general livability.

"I foresee a continued trend in growth in industry as well as institutional growth," Horne says, "and I think our system is adequate for reasonable new growth. Hopefully, we'll not be faced with an unexpected wild growth. The word in Greenville is orderly growth and development, which makes possible handling the demands on labor and utilities arising from new industries coming in."

Horne cautions that "increase in rates are not going to diminish in 1984. We will have to take a look at water and sewer rates by mid-year, and a look at possible electric rates increases later in the year."

The City of Greenville has a Citizen Concern System to help citizens with their questions, needs and concerns. If you need assistance, call Nadine Bown, Coordinator for the Citizen Concern System, at 752-4137.

Research Cites TV Religious Prejudice

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) – Television news presents a distorted picture of religion in America by putting too much emphasis on Roman Catholics, Jews, Episcopalians and Mennonites, a University of North Carolina study says.

Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians and Lutherans receive far less coverage from the three major networks than their proportion of membership in the American religious community would indicate, said the study. The number of stories about Mormons closely paralleled their share of church membership.

"People may get the mistaken impression from television that a particular religion is either more or less important that it really is in terms of membership," said James Gordon Stewart Jr., who conducted the research for his master's degree in Radio, Television and Motion Pictures.

Nightly news programs on ABC, CBS and NBC are the only exposure many people have to national and world information, Stewart said in an interview. Their combined audience is about 50 million viewers, he said.

Because of the disproportionate coverage, "the less visible denominations may begin to lose members and financial support to the more visible denominations or to the evangelists, for example, who are particularly adept at using television to their advantage," Stewart said.

He used the Vanderbilt Television News Index and Abstracts, which contains synopses of all ABC, CBS and NBC evening news broadcasts from 1972 to the present, to count and analyze stories about religion in the United States.

Stewart said he checked only weekday newscasts and eliminated stories dealing more with politics than religion, such as fighting between Catholics and Protestants in Northern Ireland and between Arabs and Jews in the Middle East.

During the 11-year period, Stewart said, 56.4 percent of the network religious coverage concerned Roman Catholicism – which comprises 44 percent of the nation's church membership.

Jews, who represent 5 percent of the U.S. religious community, received 16.2 percent of the TV news coverage. Episcopalians, who are 2 percent of the nation's church members, got 3 percent of the stories and Mennonites (Amish), received 1 percent although they comprise only .2 percent of American church members.

Baptists, Presbyterians, Methodists and Lutherans, who together represent about one-third of the American churchgoing population, attracted only 2.3 percent of the coverage.

After Roman Catholicism and Judaism, the two most frequently-covered religious topics were cults and evangelists, Stewart said. Reports on Muslims, Buddhists, Hindus and members of small Christian groups like the Greek Orthodox Church were so infrequent they were combined into an "other" category.

The location of Catholic, Jewish and Episcopal headquarters in New York or Washington and the ornateness and formality of their worship services and customs help attract television coverage, Stewart said in a telephone interview Saturday. He acknowledged, however, that he had little solid evidence to support that conclusion.

The reason why television news covers religion as it does "probably was the one part of my research I couldn't really pinpoint," he said. "So you sort of have to hypothesize."

The emergence of visible leaders such as Billy Graham and Jerry Falwell have helped attract television coverage, he added.

Also, he said, coverage of the Catholic Church increased substantially in 1978 with the death of Pope Paul VI, the election and sudden death of successor Pope John Paul I, and the emergence of Pope John Paul II as a popular spiritual leader.

Heightened tensions in the Middle East tend to increase coverage of Judaism, he said.

Captured Pilot Says Needs Only Plane Ticket Home

By TERRY A. ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — U.S. Navy airman Robert O. Goodman Jr., held prisoner by Syria for seven weeks, told Democratic presidential candidate Jesse Jackson on Saturday that he is well treated and needs only a "plane ticket home."

Jackson, in Syria on a private visit to make a "moral appeal" for the release of Goodman, arranged the visit for his party and members of the foreign press during talks with Syrian officials earlier Saturday.

He met with Foreign Minister Abdul-Halim Khaddam and Syrian religious leaders, but a scheduled session with President Hafez Assad was postponed.

Soldiers and security guards covered the neighborhood from roadblocks and rooftops as Jackson's calvacade of limousines, escorted by U.S. Secret Service and Syrian secret police, arrived at the heavily guarded compound in late afternoon.

Goodman was brought into a small study from a room across the hall that held a bed. It was not known if that was where he had been held since he was brought to the Syrian capital. He would not say.

Goodman appeared in good spirits and good health. His only apparent injuries were what he described as a "slight shoulder dislocation" and bruises on one hand that he said he received when he ejected from his A-6E Intruder jet Dec. 4. The plane was hit during a bombing attack on Syrian anti-aircraft positions in Lebanon's central mountains.

He said he had been treated "surprisingly" well since his capture.

"I've got a pretty good-size room. I've got my own bed. I've got three meals a day — more than I can eat," he told reporters. Asked what he needed, Goodman replied, "a plane ticket home."

The airman laughed often with Jackson and other delegation members, most of them American clergymen. He received a letter from his mother, who lives in the New York City borough of Queens, and was presented a Bible and a Koran signed by the delegation members.

Jackson's personal physician examined Goodman and pronounced him in good health.

The Navy lieutenant was dressed in civilian clothes — brown trousers and boots and a green sweatshirt. Twice he pulled up the sweatshirt to show a T-shirt on which was drawn the silhouette of a jet, a target and the words "Aktron 85." He refused to explain the slogan, saying it was a secret that his fellow Navy airmen would understand.

Goodman said he was glad to see Jackson because, "he's respected over here." But he would not say if he thought the civil rights leader could obtain his release.

"I don't know about that," he said. "I'm not a politician. I'm a naval officer. I'd better stay away from that, and let the people who are responsible for getting me out of here get me out of here."

Jackson's visit is strictly private, paid for by church donations, individual donations and, in some cases, by delegation members themselves, a spokesman for the group said.

Jackson told a news conference earlier he was making a "moral appeal" to the Syrians to release Goodman to help calm the confrontation between Syria and the United States.

But it still was unclear Saturday if the Syrians were considering releasing the American bombardier-navigator.

Jackson said Khaddam told him during a two-hour meeting that Syria wanted to hold Goodman until U.S. reconnaissance flights over Syrian-held Lebanese areas stopped.

"There is a strong body of opinion in this country that he should not go until the flights stop because Syria feels threatened and, in some sense, insulted" by the flights, Jackson said Khaddam told him.

He said he replied that Goodman's continued imprisonment "may very well be helping to escalate those flights" because some "hawks" in the Untied States were using this as "justification for escalation" in the confrontation between the two nations.

U.S. F-14 Tomcat jets make almost daily reconnaissance runs over Syrian positions in Lebanon. Firing by Syrian anti-aircraft batteries at the planes sparked a retaliatory bombing raid in which Goodman's plane was shot down. The pilot of Goodman's plane, Lt. Mark Lange, was killed.

Goodman sent a message to Lange's widow and child in America through Jackson's group. He said they had been close friends and "often exchanged baby pictures." Goodman and his wife have two young children. The family is based in Virginia Beach, Va.

Sets 45-Day Deadline

Mondale Says Marines Should Leave Lebanon

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter F. Mondale, the front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination, called Saturday for the withdrawal of all U.S. Marines from Lebanon within 45 days.

"Force without purpose is weakness, not toughness," the former vice president said. "The vulnerability of our Marines undermines — not preserves — our credibility."

However, Mondale said U.S. naval power has proven its effectiveness and should be kept off the shores of Lebanon.

In a statement and an Associated Press interview, Mondale denounced President Reagan's policy in Lebanon and in the Middle East at large as one of "illusion, reaction and drift."

He said the administration has lost the initiative against the Soviet Union and Syria and has not exerted pressure on Lebanese President Amin Gemayel to bring Druse and Moslem elements into his government.

"We've wasted precious time," Mondale said, "and instead just beat up on Israel."

In California, White House spokesman Peter Roussel said, "We haven't reacted to campaign rhetoric in the past and we'll want to follow that policy."

Dressed in cardigan sweater and jeans, Mondale made these other points in an hour-long discussion of foreign policy issues:

—He would not deal with Yasser Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization, and would inform King Hussein of Jordan that if he did not join Mideast peace talks "we are not going to impose a solution on Israel."

—He would move to hold yearly summit meetings with the leader of the Soviet Union even if agreements could not be pre-arranged. "The risks are so terrible, like the survival of society, in this nuclear age that there is no alternative to trying to grind away, to communicate," Mondale said.

—The Reagan administration should have pursued an agreement to limit U.S. and Soviet intermediate-range nuclear weapons based on an informal discussion held by negotiators Paul Nitze and Yuli Kvitsinsky in mid-1982, in Geneva. "It served our interests," Mondale said. "I think the alliance would be stronger with it."

—Virtually ruled out U.S. relations with Cuba unless there was a shift in the "very irresponsible" behavior of President Fidel Castro.

—The United States, in cooperation with other nations, must "shape new, very tough policies to deal with the rising threat of terrorism around the world."

Mondale's call for a withdrawal of the 1,600 Marines in Lebanon marks a shift in his position and could add to growing pressure on Reagan to bring them home. He said the withdrawal should start immediately, in consultation with the other three countries participating in the peacekeeping force — France, Italy and Britian — and be completed within 45 days.

Last week, in another interview, Mondale said the Marines should be redeployed to more protectable positions but "I would not pull them out of Lebanon right now."

But Mondale said Saturday he had always opposed the 18-month limit that Congress set or an "open-ended blank check" for using the Marines in Lebanon.

He said he had given the administration "time to try to work out a policy" and to put pressure on Syria to withdraw its troops from Lebanon.

In the meantime, Mondale said, U.S. Marines initially sent to Lebanon "to provide a presence" are now perceived as a security force for the Gemayel government.

Diplomatically, Mondale said, there is no progress, and "our troops are sitting there in danger."

Bomb Hits Israeli Convoy

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A bomb blasted an Israeli army convoy in southern Lebanon on Saturday, and state radio said Italy had served notice it would cut its peacekeeping forces by half.

Two U.S. Navy Tomcat fighter-interceptors took off from the aircraft carrier Independence and made a thunderous run over Beirut, releasing heat balloons that deflect ground-to-air missiles as they swept toward the Syrian-controlled mountains in central Lebanon, but drew no fire.

In Sidon, police said an Israeli convoy was bombed on the Sidon-Tyre highway near the entrance to a large Israeli army camp at Lebanon's Zahrani oil refinery.

The military command in Tel Aviv said there were no casualties although some vehicles might have been slightly damaged in the midmorning explosion three miles south of the port of Tyre.

But Sidon-based Lebanese reporters quoted fishermen near the scene as saying two or three Israeli soldiers appeared to have been killed or injured in the blast, which the witnesses said blew a Land Rover 20 yards in the air and overturned a military truck.

The official news agency of the Palestine Liberation Organization said in a dispatch from Nicosia, Cyprus, that the bomb was detonated by remote control by a "guerrilla unit," but did not elaborate.

Israeli troops closed the highway to traffic for two hours afterward and arrested several fisherman.

Italy's defense minister, Giovanni Spadolini, formally notified Lebanese President Amin Gemayel that Italy would replace its 2,100 reservists in Lebanon with 1,000 army regulars, state-run Beirut radio reported. He reportedly assured Gemayel the cut would not affect Italy's commitment to the multinational force "until the Lebanon problem is solved."

In other developments:

— Actor Charlton Heston flew into Beirut, at the request of President Reagan, for New Year handshakes with Marines. "In Lebanon, the road to peace has proven long and hard," Heston said. "But there has been progress that would have been impossible without our Marines and other troops in the multinational peacekeeping force."

— In Syria, Democratic presidential candidate Jesse Jackson met with captive U.S. Navy airman Robert O. Goodman Jr. Goodman, a prisoner since Syria shot his plane down over Lebanon Dec. 4, said the only thing he needed was "a plane ticket home." He met for about an hour with Jackson, who went to Syria seeking Goodman's release.

— President Gemayel, in a New Year's message, vowed to liberate all of Lebanon from foreign occupation "so that peace will prevail over every inch of our sacred land."

A Shiite Moslem leader at the nearby town of Ghazieh was placed under house arrest, Lebanon's state radio reported. Mosque preachers in southern Lebanon have exhorted the predominantly Shiite population to resist the Israeli occupation.

Western diplomats in Israel have said 39 Israeli soldiers lost their lives in more than 130 attacks since Sept. 4, when the Israeli army withdrew from central to southern Lebanon to reduce its casualties.

In Beirut, the Lebanese army's top explosives expert, Sgt. Maj. Youssef Bitar, said there had been 16,780 terrorist bombings in Lebanon since the nation's civil war began on May 13, 1975.

"The combined force of these bombings equals the force of the U.S. atomic bomb that was dropped on Hiroshima...," Bitar told the privately owned Central News Agency in a year-end interview.

Bitar said about 4,000 Lebanese and foreigners, including 241 American servicemen and 59 French paratroopers, died in the bombings, "making us the world's foremost victims of terrorism, followed respectively by France and Ireland."

He said the Oct. 23 bombing of the Marine headquarters was the biggest attack of its type "in world history."

Brig. Gen. James R. Joy, the U.S. Marine commander in Beirut, said security at the Marine base at Beirut airport had been tightened. He said troops had been more widely dispersed, waist-high concrete barriers had been constructed along vulnerable perimeters and the guard had been doubled.

In other developments, Yassar Arafat was to meet in Tunisia with the Central Committee of the PLO's Fatah movement, then preside over a PLO Executive Committee meeting and report on his meeting with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, PLO sources said. The meeting with Mubarak has been criticized by some Palestinians, who consider the Egyptian leader a foe.

Warmer Air Thawing Out Some Of U.S.

By ROGER PETTERSON
Associated Press Writer

The record cold spell retreated with the old year Saturday as warmer air began sliding up from the Southwest and some spots got above freezing for the first time in nearly two weeks, but the weather had enough punch left to set more low temperature records around the Southeast.

"What a perfect way to start off the new year," said National Weather Service forecasters in Chicago. Temperatures across Illinois were above zero during the night for the first time in a week.

"The real outstanding thing about the year was that it was marked by such extremes," said forecaster Dennis McCarthy in St. Louis, one of many cities baked by a summer heat wave. "But the funny thing is that the average temperature for the year was just about normal."

Despite the warming trend, problems were not over for strangers to such cold weather, especially in Texas where the weather broke water lines and killed crops. Since Dec. 17 the cold and snow killed 450 people across the nation, including victims of hypothermia, traffic accidents, drownings, fires caused by overworked heaters and other accidents.

The only significant snowfall Saturday was over the northern Plateau and central Rockies, with freezing rain icing highways in Utah. Up to 4 inches of snow was expected in the mountains of Colorado.

During the height of the cold snap low temperature records crashed from the Rockies to the East Coast, but Saturday's record lows were confined to 25 cities in the Southeast, from Texas east to Florida and north to Elkins, W.Va., which had 5 degrees below zero.

Dallas-Fort Worth Airport had the coldest December on record, with an average temperature of 35.6 degrees, breaking a 1914 record of 39.7 degrees and far below the normal mark of 47.8 degrees.

But by early afternoon temperatures had risen above freezing in much of the area, with southern and central Florida and southern Texas — where Corpus Christi had a record-tying low of 28 — warming into the 50s.

On Friday, record lows were reported in 41 cities from the Midwest to the Gulf Coast.

The Red River at Shreveport, La., was jammed with the most ice seen since 1895. But elsewhere in the state, rivers swollen by heavy rain threatened to flood low-lying areas, particularly in southeastern Louisiana near the Pearl River.

Temperatures were below 10 degrees early Saturday from the upper Great Lakes region to New England and from northern Minnesota to north central Montana.

But even in those regions temperatures were milder than they had been, with morning readings in Indiana 10 to 15 degrees higher than the night before. The low at Kimball, Neb., was a balmy 31 degrees and the coldest reading in the state was a mere 11 degrees.

Little Rock, Ark., got above freezing Saturday for the first time since Dec. 18, a record string of sub-freezing days, and Friday was the first time in 12 days that many parts of Texas got above freezing. Oklahoma City ended a record string of nearly 14 days below freezing Saturday, with thermometers getting as high as 38 degrees.

Saturday's lows in the 20s in Kansas were as much as 30 degrees higher than Friday morning's readings, and lows in normally frigid Montana ranged from zero in the northeast all the way up to near freezing along the east slopes of the Rockies.

Temperatures remained above freezing Saturday across the Florida Peninsula, where the cold damaged citrus crops. In all, the frigid air caused an estimated $400 million damage to citrus and vegetable crops in Texas, Florida and Louisiana. Geogia Gov. Joe Frank Harris has asked the federal government to declare 12 onion-growing counties in southern Georgia disaster areas.

In addition to the crop losses, Texas insurance representatives say damage to homes and businesses in that state could exceed $100 million, most due to broken water pipes.

Texas Gov. Mark White on Saturday asked utilities not to shut off power to impoverished families who lost agricultural jobs to the cold in the valley.

Texas Public Utility Commission Chairman Al Erwin said the weather has magnified the problems of the poor.

"They are out of food stamps and out of all kinds of stuff," Erwin said. "They really are freezing. They don't have heat. They don't have blankets."

White said eight National Guard armories in the valley would be opened as emergency shelters.

Elsewhere, locally heavy snow coupled with freezing rain and fog created hazardous driving conditions in Utah, causing hundreds of accidents along the Wasatch Front.

"The whole county is solid ice," said Salt Lake County Sheriff's Lt. Dan Ipson. "People are going slow but they still can't stop."

Interstate 80 near Tooele, Utah, was closed for more than an hour after a multiple-car collision, which included two patrol cars and a semi-trailer truck.

ICY POLE — A burst fire hydrant sent water shooting up the side of a utility pole in Oklahoma City on Friday. Sub-freezing temperatures stopped the motion and helped create this bizarre ice sculpture, a sign of the times as much of the nation remains gripped in severe cold. (AP Laserphoto)

Nuclear Missiles Said Functional In Europe

LONDON (UPI) — The first American nuclear cruise and Pershing-2 missiles deployed in Europe were operational Saturday, according to statements by the British and West German defense ministries.

The British announcement on the 16 cruise missiles stationed in Britain came a day after the West German Defense Ministry reported its first battery of U.S. Pershing-2 missiles was operational.

Belgium also gave the go-ahead Friday for deployment of cruise missiles if no agreement was reached between the superpowers on medium-range weapons.

The Soviet Union walked out of the Soviet-American talks in Geneva on limiting medium-range missiles last month after the West German parliament approved deployment.

Lt. Col. Doug Kennet, a U.S. Air Force spokesman in Britain, said the cruise missile "deployments are under way in compliance with NATO's 1979 decision."

A Defense Ministry spokesman said, "We will have operational capabilities before the end of 1983." Defense Secretary Michael Heseltine had made a similar promise to the House of Commons earlier in December.

The 16 Tomahawk cruise missiles, to be operated by the 501st Tactical Missile Wing, began arriving at the Greenham Common air force base in mid-November under tight security. Britain is to receive a total of 96 cruise.

The deployment of cruise and Pershing missiles is part of a 4-year-old NATO plan to base medium-range missiles in Europe to counter Soviet SS-20 missiles targetted on Europe.

The plan calls for a total of 108 Pershing-2 and 464 cruise missiles to be stationed in Europe by the end of the decade.

Population Falls

MIAMI (AP) — For the first time in at least 33 years the Dade County population has dropped and county planners, who "double-checked and triple-checked" the information before releasing it, say they don't know why.

A 15-page report being prepared by the Metropolitan Dade County Planning Department's research division indicates the population dropped by 2,000 between April 1982 and April 1983, to 1.73 million.

"Out-migration" — Dade residents moving out for various reasons — was blamed for the drop.

"No absolute fall in the population has ever been recorded by the Planning Department in estimates dating back to 1950," says the report, to be submitted to county manager Merrett Stierheim. "It is possible that this has not occurred since the Depression."

The county typically grows by 20,000 to 30,000 people a year, Blowers said. But between April 1981 and April 1982, the population increased by just 7,000.

Dade's planners still estimate the county's population will reach 2 million by 1990 and 2.4 million by the year 2005.

Massive Quake Hits In Northern Pakistan

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — A massive earthquake in central Asia early Saturday collapsed hundreds of homes on people as they slept. At least eight people were killed and officials warned the death toll would rise as reports came in from remote villages.

All casualty reports were in the mountains of northern Pakistan, which suffered the brunt of the quake damage. More than a dozen other people were injured, officials said.

Officials said a true picture of the damage and casualties would not be known until relief efforts began and reports came in from the remote villages hardest hit.

Nearly all the casualties occurred when walls of houses collapsed on sleeping residents inside, officials said.

The dead included two women and a child killed when their home collapsed as they slept in the Chitral region 230 miles northwest of Islamabad, government officials said. More than 600 mud homes were reported damaged in the area.

Reports of the quake reached across central Asia from southern Pakistan to India and through Afghanistan to the southern republics of the Soviet Union.

In Islamabad, the Pakistani capital, the quake awakened sleeping residents and sent some fleeing outdoors for safety despite chilly weather.

One of the areas hardest hit was Pattan, 110 miles north of Islamabad, in a region where scores of homes were reported flattened. The area was hit by a quake on New Year's Eve in 1974 that killed more than 5,000 people.

Ma Bell Breakup Official Today

By NORMAN BLACK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Overnight, Ma Bell's kids have become adults.

Completing the largest corporate reorganization in American history, American Telephone & Telegraph Co. officially gave up ownership of its 22 local Bell System companies at the stroke of midnight Saturday, when they were absorbed by seven new regional companies expected to stand on their own.

The nation's telephone customers hardly noticed the difference. There was no change in the way local or long-distance calls are dialed, or how telephones are rented for a new home.

But the breakup of the Bell System, under a government antitrust settlement which the Justice Department set into motion more than nine years ago, will mean other, more noticeable changes in coming months.

Initially, there will be a confusing welter of monthly billing information and — for many customers — higher rates for local calls. Later this year, consumers could be required to pay a new monthly fee called an "access charge." Eventually, there will be changes in the way long-distance calls are dialed.

Advocates of splitting up the Bell System held out the promise of vigorous, price-cutting competition in the telephone equipment and long-distance businesses, more options in phone service, faster technical innovation and an economic base to support America's march into the "information age."

Already, consumers can purchase a telephone for less than $10, something unheard of just a year ago.

Among the drawbacks: no more one-stop shopping at the local phone company, dislocations for nearly 1 million AT&T employees and 3.2 million stockholders and — in the eyes of some critics — the possibility that the world's finest telephone system has been placed in jeopardy.

AT&T chairman Charles L. Brown, in an interview with The Associated Press in December, described the breakup of his company as a "bad mistake" and a "tragedy" at a time when American business is competing against giant corporations in Japan and elsewhere in the world.

"I think it's bad for the country and we're just going to have to now make the best of it," he said.

The breakup of the world's largest company was assured on Jan. 8, 1982, when Brown and Assistant Attorney General William F. Baxter signed an agreement settling the government antitrust suit filed in 1974. Under the settlement, AT&T was allowed to keep its long-distance operations, the Bell Laboratories and its Western Electric Co. manufacturing unit in exchange for divesting itself of the 22 Bell System companies.

AT&T also gained the right to compete in any unregulated business it wished, such as data processing or computer manufacturing. The company had been prevented from doing that by a 1956 consent decree that settled another antitrust suit.

The government had charged that AT&T was using its control of the local Bell companies to freeze out potential competitors in the equipment and long-distance businesses. The Bell companies were accused of enforcing needless requirements for connection of non-Western Electric equipment to the network, and of denying long-distance competitors equal access to Bell customers.

AT&T repeatedly denied the charges, but with the prospect of years of court appeals and uncertainty about its ability to compete with challengers in the meantime, the company threw in the towel.

On Aug. 24, 1982, the antitrust settlement was signed by U.S. District Judge Harold H. Greene after other concessions were extracted from AT&T. The company agreed, for example, to leave the Yellow Pages with the Bell companies and to stay out of the "electronic information" business for seven years. The Bell companies also were given the right to sell, but not manufacture, new phone equipment after Jan. 1.

Nearly a year later, last Aug. 5, Greene approved a detailed reorganization plan, again after winning concessions. AT&T gave up the right to use the Bell name and logo, with the single exception of Bell Laboratories, its research facility.

On Nov. 16, AT&T and the new regional Bell companies filed with the Securities and Exchange documents disclosing their assets, debts and projected 1984 revenues and earnings. Five days later, trading began in the stocks of the seven regionals and the "new" AT&T.

In the midst of Greene's deliberations, the Federal Communications Commission and Congress became involved. The FCC ordered a series of regulatory changes to accompany the breakup, including a requirement that phone customers begin picking up a subsidy for local phone service that previously had been paid by long-distance callers.

Congress, declaring that the FCC had gone too far in trying to spur long-distance competition, responded with bills aimed at blocking the new charges. One such bill passed the House in November, but did not clear the Senate.

The seven regional companies meanwhile selected new names and contemplated life without Ma Bell's protective umbrella. The names ran from traditional to high-tech: Bell Atlantic, BellSouth and Southwestern Bell to Ameritech, Nynex, US West and Pacific Telesis.

AT&T left the regionals with the assets they need to provide local phone service, and their leaders saw new doors opening in such fields as equipment sales and mobile telephones.

Brown, too, is bullish about the new AT&T's future, even stripped of two-thirds of its assets. What company, he asked, would not like to begin with $34.3 billion in assets, a vast long-distance network, a leading manufacturing concern and the world's premier corporate research facility?

Nonetheless, some in the financial community express doubts about AT&T's ability to thrive in the world of business competition, to move from years of government regulation and booking orders to a situation requiring sharp marketing skills and attention to profits.

Brown said the company is prepared to do just that. But he also said the breakup damaged an important service ethic that was the Bell System's hallmark for more than a century.

The breakup is an emotional thing, he said, "because our whole upbringing was involved in trying to work in parallel with a million people with very clear objectives. It involved a commitment to the end product, which was service rendered. And to see the system split up so that we now have different entities with different objectives and different economic drives is a major emotional change.

"But we're largely over the sadness and disruption," Brown added. "We're now — from AT&T's standpoint and from the Bell companies' standpoint, too — looking toward the future and what it can bring."

Eastern, Banks Sign Loan Agreement

MIAMI (AP) — Eastern Airlines and its 60 lenders have signed a revised financial pact allowing the Miami-based carrier to avoid default on its loans in 1984.

The old agreements would have died at midnight Saturday.

Mounting losses that reached $191 million in the first 11 months of 1983 forced Eastern to negotiate a $367 million financial bailout plan with its 37,000 employees.

The plan persuaded the group of more than 60 lenders, headed by Chase Manhattan, to restructure Eastern's loans and leasing agreements.

"Eastern has satisfied our requirements and the majority of lenders have agreed to relaxation of the covenants," a spokesman for Chase Manhattan confirmed Friday.

The new waivers establish financial tests relating to debt-equity ratios — the amount of debt Eastern is allowed to maintained compared with its level of stockholder equity. Airline officials would not disclose the amount; the airline carried a $1 billion debt at the start of 1983.

Wayne Yeoman, senior vice president at Eastern, said the airline has enough cash for the near future and the new loan agreement does not provide more.

Eastern Chairman Frank Borman said the "critical agreement" couldn't have been achieved "without the support of every employee at Eastern Airlines."

"The willingness of our people to put 18 to 22 percent of their wages into the corporation and the support of the unions' leadership in that program were the decisive factors in convincing lenders that Eastern is determined to regain the path to profitability," Borman said.

The financial rescue plan reached Dec. 8 requires employees to give up 18 to 22 percent of their wages next year in return for a stock investment program and two seats for employees on the board of directors.

Eastern's machinists and non-contract employees have approved the wage concessions. The carrier's 3,900 pilots and 5,800 flight attendants have not ratified the plan, but their leaders endorsed it and approval is expected next month.

It is at least the sixth time in two years that Eastern has been forced to request modified loan terms from its lenders. The last time was in June when the company almost ran out of cash.

Reagan Proclaims New Year With New 'Sense Of Purpose'

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan marked the approach of the new year on Saturday by saluting the old, and told the nation "1983 was a good year for America."

The president, who was welcoming 1984 with longtime friends and at least a third of his Cabinet at a black-tie party in this desert resort, used his weekly radio speech on the eve of an election year to celebrate the economic recovery and "a new sense of purpose in our armed forces and foreign policy."

In 1983, Reagan said, "America was on the mend, and as our economy regained strength, we watched the progress of a sparkling recovery.

"Yes, we had some hard months at first, but 1983 saw our patience pay off as our program took hold."

He said that the Atlantic Alliance had passed through "harsh trials" — an apparent reference to political unrest over deployment of new U.S. nuclear missiles in western Europe — and "has emerged more firmly united than ever."

With his administration facing increasing opposition from Democrats and Republicans in Congress to the deployment of U.S. Marines in Lebanon — where more than 260 U.S. servicemen died in 1983 — the president declared:

"In Lebanon, the road to peace has proven long and hard. But there has been progress that would have been impossible without our Marines and the other troops in the multinational peacekeeping force."

The president said morale in the armed forces had improved, "partly because we've given our men and women in uniform better pay and better equipment."

"But I just have to believe the courage of our soliders and Marines in Lebanon and Grenada has a lot to do with it," he added.

The president also used the speech, broadcast at midday, to remind his audience not to mix drinking and driving.

"A drunk or drugged person at the wheel of a car isn't a driver," Reagan said. "That person is a machine of destruction."

ATTENTION GREENVILLE CITIZENS

In 1983 the Greenville City Council adopted a new method of billing and collecting the annual motor vehicle property tax.

Until this year, citizens of Greenville have been required to purchase metal license plates in January for each of their vehicles. This is no longer necessary. Instead of metal plates, the City will include a $5 motor vehicle tax for each vehicle on the annual tax notice. Plates will be available for those citizens who would like to have them.

Plates purchased in January, 1983, were valid until December 31, 1983. Therefore, the 1983 tax billing for those vehicles was only $2.50 which covers the six-month taxation period from January 1 through June 30, 1984.

Vehicles registered and listed on and after July 1, 1983, are subject to the full tax of $5.

Questions pertaining to the City's new motor vehicle property tax law should be directed to the Collector of Revenue at 752-4137.

Meet Yale -a new company making lift trucks for over 60 years

On January 1, an important new industrial enterprise began global operations. Eaton Corporation's former Industrial Truck Division became an independent company: Yale Materials Handling Corporation.

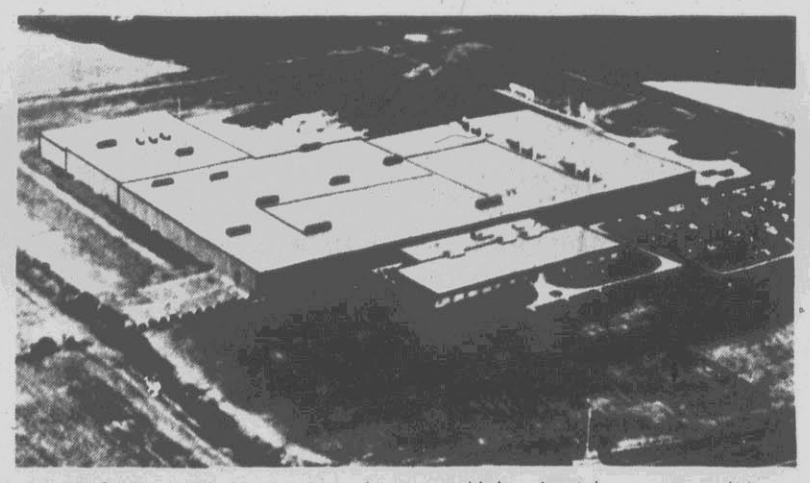

Yet Yale has been building fork lift trucks for six decades. Today, Yale® trucks are working throughout the world — sold and serviced by 210 Yale dealers in 146 countries. Yale people and facilities — your neighbors — certainly aren't new to the lift truck business.

Then what makes Yale a new company? No longer a part of a multinational conglomerate, Yale has been totally restructured. It is a public company, directed by its own management. It now operates as a global enterprise with international partners. Shared ownership through Employee Stock Plans and profit sharing are part of the new Yale. Most importantly, Yale's energies can now be focused toward a single goal: the successful, profitable manufacturing and marketing of fork lift trucks.

The employees and management of Yale Materials Handling Corporation approach the future with confidence, expertise, resources and enthusiasm. Theirs is the personal commitment of entrepreneurial pride.

Double Murder

Pitt County authorities, acting on a tip, located the weighted bodies of the Rev. Leslie Thorbs of Grifton and Anthony Ray Herring of Goldsboro in the Tar River near Falkland in late February. The men, reported missing several days earlier, had been shot in the head and cement blocks attached to their bodies.

Deputies arrested 20-year-old Carolyn Pippins of Route 4, Greenville, on two counts of murder and one armed robbery charge in connection with the case. Three days later, Dwight Parker Sr., 43, of New Jersey was arrested in Newark and charged on two counts of murder and robbery.

In September, a Superior Courty jury deliberated 77 minutes before finding Parker guilty of first degree murder and robbery in the gangland style murders. The same panel sentenced Parker to two consecutive life sentences, plus a 28-year term for robbery as one of the county's longest criminal trials concluded. Ms. Pippins, who pled guilty to charges of accessory after the fact of murder and accessory to armed robbery in a plea bargaining arrangement, was given a six year prison sentence in Superior Court. During the trial, officers said Ms. Pippins furnished information that led to the recovery of the two bodies from the river and also resulted in Parker's arrest.

Braswell Guilty

Following a summer trial and three and a half hours of jury deliberations, former sheriff's deputy Billy Braswell was found guilty of first degree murder in the 1982 shooting death of his wife, Lillie, in a car near Farmville. Braswell showed little emotion as he was sentenced to life in prison for the murder that testimony indicated stemmed from an impending marital split.

Several days later, Lee Pascasio resigned his job as an investigator with the sheriff's department. He testified during the trial that he had considered taking out a warrant on Sheriff Ralph Tyson because he "believed the sheriff had done a very wrong thing." The investigator later explained that he felt Tyson had pressured him not to testify at a bond hearing for Braswell and that Tyson's actions bordered on intimidation of a state witness.

Braswell claimed in court that he shot his wife after she fired a pistol at him, striking him in the chest. Pascasio, who said he was Braswell's friend, was accused by the state with being the author of the deputy's defense, an accusation that the investigator denied.

Tragedy In Bethel

Law enforcement officials in Bethel pressed their investigation into the Dec. 19 murder of 17-year-old Sheila Bland and John Michael Edmondson, 33, at a Bethel dry cleaning business. Authorities first said Miss Bland, a North Pitt High School senior, and Edmondson, a teacher in Washington, were shot but autopsy reports revealed they were beaten to death and Miss Bland was partially strangled. Both were found behind a partition at the store.

Miss Bland was a clerk at the store and Edmondson was a customer, police said. No arrests had been made as of Dec. 28 and no motive for the double murders had been established. The governor's office put up a $10,000 reward and a reward fund in Bethel had grown to $1,000 through contributions by Dec. 27.

Merger Consideration

The year 1982 ended with the city and county school boards awaiting a report from an independent research organization regarding a merger of the two systems. A year later, the matter was back in the hands of the respective boards after receipt of a Research Triangle Institute study funded by the Pitt Board of Commissioners. The study recommended merger as a solution to problems in both systems, particularly declining enrollment in the city schools.

The RTI study said consolidation would alleviate the enrollment woes in the city, make it easier to maintain racial balance in the schools, provide for better utilization of facilities, and improve planning and organzation. Both boards were urged to be prepared to compromise.

The study indicated that alternatives such as coterminous boundaries for the two school districts and restructuring of attendance lines might help but merger was the number one recommendation.

Officials said a joint meeting of the two school boards might be expected in February or March and efforts would be made to gain more public input.

Legislator Died

Sam Bundy, 76, of Farmville, who had represented Pitt and Greene counties in the state Legislature continously since 1971, died in Raleigh in January. Bundy served as a school administrator for 42 years prior to going to the General Assembly, including 24 years in his native Farmville.

Following Bundy's death, Pitt and Greene Democrats geared up to recommend a successor. A four-member committee, meeting in Snow Hill, interviewed four candidates and considered resumes submitted by several others before making Walter B. Jones Jr. its unanimous choice. The Farmville Democrat, son of U.S. Rep. Walter Jones, was then named by Gov. Jim Hunt to occupy Bundy's seat. Swearing-in ceremonies were held in February.

Hospital Rejected

In April, the Eastern Carolina Health Systems Agency's governing board rejected an application by Charter Medical Inc. of Macon, Ga., to build a 65-bed psychiatric hospital in Greenville. The ECHSA decision, for all intents and purposes, ended a debate that saw the medical community oppose the proposed facility and the Chamber of Commerce board vote 11 to 7 to support Charter's bid.

The application for a certificate of need became controversial as soon as it was made public. The board of Pitt County Memorial Hospital said it was against the proposal and joined the hospital's medical staff in adopting resolutions of opposition. PCMH said it felt it could serve area psychiatric care needs in view of planned expansion to the hospital's psychiatric unit. The ECU Medical School also voiced its opposition to the Charter plan.

The City Council voted not to take action on a request by Charter for a letter of endorsement until a 15-member psychiatric service task force of the chamber studied the issue. In the meantime, a project review committee of the ECHSA, following a hearing, voted to recommend disapproval of Charter's application to its full governing board.

Although Charter had the chamber's divided endorsement, the application was formally rejected in August by the state Department of Human Resources.

New Chief Appointed

With the August retirement of Police Chief Glenn Cannon after 27 years of service with the department, 45-year-old Floyd H. (Ted) Holmes of Austin, Texas, was named as the new head of the force. A California native, Holmes was on the job in October after serving 10 years as a police management specialist with a nationally recognized management firm in Austin.

Charged After Deaths

Highway Patrol Sgt. Stephen Michael Compton was charged by Greenville police in late November on two counts of death by vehicle following investigation of a Nov. 12 accident on Memorial Drive that killed two local women.

The charges, which are misdemeanors, were levied after investigators concluded that Compton was at fault when his patrol vehicle, traveling "in excess of 90 miles per hour," struck a car operated by Mrs. Alice Long. Mrs. Long and Rosa Lee Lang Harrell were killed and a second passenger was injured, as was Compton.

Chief Holmes said at a news conference that the department brought its charges against Compton "with a heavy heart." During the conference, it was noted that while initial reports had not indicated Compton was in pursuit at the time of the accident, it was learned that the trooper was indeed chasing a vehicle and the cruiser's blue light was flashing.

City Wins Suit

A summary judgment in favor of the city was granted by a Superior Court judge in December in a lawsuit brought by former city employee Alton E. Warren. Fired as chief building official in April 1981, Warren filed suit against the city to get his job back, recover over $50,000 in back pay, and to have a portion of the city's personnel ordinance declared unconstitutional.

In his ruling, Judge Charles Winberry Jr. said it appeared to the court "that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact" in Warren's suit.

Shooting Unsolved

The year ended without any new developments in the investigation of the February shooting death of 25-year-old Donald Minges at his Greenville home. While the area medical examiner ruled that the Minges death was a homicide, the police department was not satisfied, contending that Minges apparently died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Reorganization

In January a group of investors, headed by Grover C. Maxwell Jr. of Greenville, reached agreement to buy the 72-store Maxwell Furniture chain from Wickes Companies Inc. for over $10 million. Maxwell is the son of the founder of the retail furniture store chain which operated until 1968 under the Maxwell Brothers name.

Pepsi-Cola Bottlers in Greenville and five other cities announced plans early in the year to consolidate their bottling operations in Goldsboro in a move intended to cut down on their individual operating expenses. Jack Minges, president of the Greenville firm, said the bottling segment of the local plant would close, with the facility becoming a storage and distribution center for this area.

Eaton Corp. announced that its industrial division for trucks, which included the Greenville plant, would undergo restructuring and become an independent company with international partners. It was noted that the industrial truck operations, which manufacture and market fork lift trucks under the Yale product line, would be established with Yale as a wholly-owned subsidiary and than as an independent company. As the year ended, employment at the local plant had risen to about 500 under the new operational format.

New Facilities

It was a good year for construction in the area as ground-breaking activities occurred on a regular basis. Among the facilities going up or progressing during 1983 were: a $5.2 million, 24,000-square-foot radiation therapy center at the ECU Medical School; the Greenville Sheraton Hotel, a four-story complex on Greenville Boulevard with 120 guest rooms and meeting facilities; Ormond Wholesale's new 110,000-square-foot food distribution center on a 34-acre site on Industrial Boulevard;

Greenville Utilities' new $10.4 million waste water treatment plant on a site north of the Tar River east of the bypass; and a major addition to the Sunnyside Eggs operation, to be located on a 216-acre site south of Greenville, projected to increase the firm's shipping volume to over 50 million dozens of eggs annually.

Plans were also announced for the expansion of Pitt Plaza into a 300,000-square-foot enclosed mall, operating as "The Plaza" with 60 stores. The $3 million project is scheduled for completion in August.

U.S. 264 Work Began

Contracts for construction of the first segment of the relocated four-lane U.S. 264 expressway from Greenville to Wilson were finally awarded in July after years of planning, study and uncertainty as to whether the 33.4 mile, $76.35-million project would ever get started. Construction on the initial legs of the new corridor was well under way as the year ended.

Area officials were also pleased that plans are being made by the state Department of Transportation for additional road improvements in and near Greenville. The projects include a 7.3-mile bypass north of Greenville and a U.S. 264 bypass at Wilson.

Weather Extremes

The Greenville area experienced weather extremes during 1983 that ranged from scorching temperatures above 100 degrees during the summer leading to an extended dry spell that damaged area crops, to one of the coldest Christmas seasons on record as Arctic-like winds pushed the mercury down to 4 degrees.

Almost seven inches of snow fell on March 25, five days after the official arrival of Spring. The March snowfall represented the only significant accumulation of the year, although the area was dusted lightly in February.

Fatalities

Through Dec. 28, the Highway Patrol had recorded 13 traffic fatalities in Pitt County, matching the number of highway deaths for 1982. A spokesman said the five-year average from 1978 through 1982 for Pitt was 16 fatalities, including 23 in 1979 and 22 in 1981. Nine deaths were recorded in 1978.

Four motorists had lost their lives on Greenville streets through the 28th, down one from the previous year.

Fire Deaths

At least one fire-related fatality occurred in Greenville during the year. Willie David Spellman of 1505 W. 14th St. died of smoke inhalation from a fire that damaged his home. No fire deaths were recorded here during 1982.

Village Green

Rescue workers sift through the rubble of the laundry room and adjoining apartments at the Village Green Apartments after an explosion last March 2. An East Carolina University student, David Martin, 21, was illed when the blast threw him from his third-floor apartment into a swimming pool. (Reflector Photo By Tommy Forrest)

An elderly couple, Mack and Clara Bowen of Route 1, Ayden, died in February when an early morning fire destroyed their two-story home. The double fatalities matched the number of Pitt fire deaths recorded a year earlier.

Area Fires

While there were several fires in the Greenville-Pitt County area that caused extensive damages, one of the more spectacular blazes occurred in January when an annex to Cannon's Warehouse off Hooker Road burned to the ground. The fire, which destroyed an estimated $180,000 worth of unprocessed ground-up plastic bottles stored by Du Pont for recycling, produced dense columns of smoke that were visibile from as far away as New Bern.

Sports News

In sports, the ECU Pirates posted an 8-3 football record, suffering narrow losses to three nationally recognized teams and making the Associated Press Top 20 poll, among others. The Pirates were featured during the year in Sports Illustrated.

ECU standout Terry Long was a concensus All-America after making first team on the AP, Coaches, Writers and Walter Camp polls and second team UPI.

The D.H. Conley girls' basketball team advanced to the State 3-A finals before bowing, while the Roanoke boys reached the Eastern 3-A finals before being eliminated. Rose High School advanced to the 4-A baseball playoffs again, losing in the second round of play. Williamston gained a Division II 3-A football berth, losing out in the eastern finals.

Charlie Harrison's ECU cage squad posted a winning record in his first season and Conley's Keith Gatlin was named AP High School Basketball Player of the Year in North Carolina. Gatlin signed a grant-in-aid with the University of Maryland.

Howell Installed

Gov. Jim Hunt installed Dr. John Howell as ECU chancellor during February ceremonies. Howell became the 8th chief administrative officer in the 75-year history of the state's third largest university.

Acting President

Dr. Charles Russell was named acting president of Pitt Community College in the absence of Dr. William Fulford, who began a year's leave on June 1. Russell has been associated with PCC since 1971.

State Bar Post

Attorney Clifton Everett Sr. of Bethel was sworn in as president of the State Bar during October ceremonies in Raleigh that marked the Bar's 50th anniversary.

Nigeria Military Seizes Power In Bloodless Coup

By MAUREEN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Nigeria's military announced Saturday it had seized power in a bloodless coup, sealed the borders and replaced the elected civilian government of the West African nation with a federal military regime.

Radio stations and the semi-official news agency carried no reports of shooting or bloodshed in the fifth military coup since Nigeria became independent from Britain in 1960. The military had relinquished control to civilians in 1979.

A special announcement on state-run Lagos Radio, monitored in London and repeated at intervals amid martial music and appeals for calm, said the "inept and corrupt" four-year-old administration of President Alhaji Shehu Shagari had been toppled.

"I and my colleagues in the armed forces (have) ... decided to form a federal military government. The task has just been completed," said the announcer, who identified himself as Brig. Sana Abacha.

The announcement said political parties had been banned, the nation's borders sealed and a dawn-to-dusk curfew imposed.

There was no official word on the fate of Shagari, 58, who was re-elected to the presidency in August general elections. Diplomatic sources in Paris said Shagari and most of his top aides were under arrest.

In pre-dawn raids, truckloads of armed soldiers moved in on the residences of the vice president and the speaker of the house of representatives and arrested them, the semi-official News Agency of Nigeria reported, quoting sources at the two officials' homes.

The agency said Vice President Alex Ekwueme was "whisked away" by soldiers commanded by a colonel at 2:30 a.m. (9:30 p.m. EST), some six hours before announcement of the military takeover. The troops then headed for Speaker Benjamin Chaha's home, the agency said.

Small groups of people clustered at street corners in Lagos discussing the coup with "mixed feelings," but the capital remained calm through the day with crowds doing last-minute New Year's Eve shopping, the agency said in reports monitored here.

The agency, reporting reactions from centers across the country, said there were scenes of joy in the central city of Kaduna, 350 miles north of Lagos, but busy shoppers showed little response in northeast Ondo.

State radio broadcasts ordered civilian governors of Nigeria's 19 states — 16 of whom belong to Shagari's National Party of Nigeria — to quit their residences and report to the military.

The news agency said several had done so, others could not be found, and one, Ibadan's Gov. Omololu Olunyo, turned up at a scheduled year-end news conference shortly after the announcement. Olunyo declared himself unruffled, but added:

"I may have to run for my dear life if the need arises."

Son's Insurance Fills Promise To Buy Home

By JANE SEAGRAVE
Associated Press Writer

WHITINSVILLE, Mass. (AP) — Before his death, the family of Lance Cpl. Thomas S. Perron used to joke about the tidy gold-painted frame house he once promised to buy his mother.

"There's our house," they would say each time they passed by.

Next week, the Perrons will move into Tommy's dream house. They scraped together a down payment from insurance money they received after he was killed Oct. 23 in the terrorist bombing of U.S. Marine headquarters in Beirut.

"The Lord knew the size of Tommy's heart," said his mother, Christine Perron. "And it seems like He fulfilled his wishes even after Tommy died."

More than two months after the explosion in Lebanon claimed the life of their 19-year-old Marine and 240 other American soldiers, the Perrons feel no bitterness.

"Of course, it could have been avoided. What tragedy couldn't have been avoided?" said the corporal's father, Ronald Perron, who served in the Marines in the Korean conflict, and whose father also was a Marine.

But Perron sees no point in assessing blame. He was not swayed by a Pentagon report, released Wednesday, that criticized American commanders as being inadequately prepared for terrorist attacks and pointed at stepped-up American involvement in Lebanon for endangering the Marines.

"We are masters of hindsight in this country. Everyone has a solution after it's too late," he said. "You can't look back. We did what we had to do at the time.

"I support our country. I supported in the past, and even now, everything the president has done."

Still, grief lingers. It comes unexpectedly, while they are driving in the country or sitting around the kitchen table of their home in south-central Massachusetts.

Tommy's brother, Brett, 15, has put Marine stickers in his bedroom window. His sister, Michelle, 11, brings a framed picture of the slain Marine to a visitor. On a chain around her neck, Mrs. Perron wears a gold star pin that belonged to her son.

"There isn't a day that goes by that I don't think of it. The realization keeps flooding me that Tommy won't be home," said Mrs. Perron, her eyes filling with tears. "Until you've lost a child, you don't know the way that maternal instinct is ripped away from you."

Tommy Perron was part of the first group of Marines sent to Beirut and assigned to try bring peace to the war-ravaged country. His father said their role demanded that they remain vulnerable.

"If they had gone in there and put up walls and brought in tanks, how would we look as peacekeepers?" he said. "Someone had to get hurt to get to the point we're at now."

"The first boys in there were the real heroes of this Lebanon thing," his wife said. "They were the sacrificial lambs, you might say."

The Perrons' Christian faith, and the knowledge that their son also felt close to God, has helped dull the pain of loss.

"We are not the only family that has been called to make this sacrifice," Mrs. Perron said. "We're just Americans who love our country who were called by God to bear this sacrifice."

After they learned of Tommy's death, the Perrons bought a cocker spaniel puppy. It's beige-colored, the breed and shade of dog Tommy always wanted.

She's called Tommy's Angel Buffy and, like their new house, is a bittersweet reminder of their son.

"I can just see him," said his mother. "When he had a smile, it was ear-to-ear, and I can just visualize how excited he would be."

"Yes, he's one young man we'll never forget," added his father. "He wanted to be a true fighting man and that's what he was. I spent 19 years training him and making him strong and responsible. And, well, I guess it worked."

Pilot Could Be Reprimanded

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A pilot who survived five days on a snow-covered mountain after his light plane crashed could be reprimanded for not having an emergency locater beacon, a Federal Aviation Administration official says.

All private, non-commercial planes are required to carry the beacons, said Tom Walenta, manager of the FAA's general aviation district office in Albuquerque.

The beacons broadcast radio signals after a crash to help search crews find survivors.

Depending on results of an investigation, Tony Mink of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., could face a reprimand ranging from a letter of warning to a fine, Walenta said.

Mink, 36, and his son Brian, 14, were found alive Wednesday on a snow-covered ridge north of Canjilon Mountain in northern New Mexico, five days after their single-engine Beechcraft Bonanza crashed.

Mink and his son were released Saturday from Presbyterian Hospital in Albuquerque, where they had been hospitalized since the rescue.

Mink suffered head and chest injuries as well as severe facial lacerations, and both he and his son suffered exposure and shock, Presbyterian Hospital officials said.

Mink's wife, Charlene, 35, died the day after the crash. Mink said he used parts of the airplane and Christmas gifts to make a shelter that protected him and his son from snowstorms and freezing temperatures.

Mink said Friday that the beacon was inadvertently left behind, along with a first aid and survival kit, at the Fort Lauderdale airfield where he kept the plane.

"We keep it with the emergency kit we always take along in the plane," Mink said. "We normally have one and it was ridiculous not to have brought it."

He said the beacon, emergency kit and other valuables are routinely taken off the plane when the plane is on the ground to prevent theft.

ADA Lists Massachusetts Delegation Most Liberal

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Massachusetts had the most liberal House of Representatives delegation of any state in 1983, but West Virginia was coming up fast, Americans for Democratic Action said Saturday.

The ADA, in a comparison limited to states with four or more House members, said Massachusetts' 10 members, all but one of them Democrats, earned a composite rating of 83 on a scale of 100, based on their votes on selected issues.

West Virginia, whose four House members rated only a 36 in 1982, climbed to an 81 in 1983. Three of the state's four current House members, all Democrats, were first elected in 1982. Two of them succeeded Republicans.

The average ADA rating for the entire House of Representatives was 49. The liberal organization released its ratings of individual members earlier.

The organization said Oregon's congressional delegation registered the greatest decrease in liberal voting, falling off from a 70 percent in 1982 to a 51 percent. The four Oregon incumbents were all re-elected in 1982 and Republican Robert F. Smith was elected in a new district.

Rated behind Massachusetts and West Virginia were Connecticut with a 75, New Jersey 67, Maryland and Michigan 65, Minnesota and Washington 60, New York 59 and California 56.

Rated the most conservative delegations were Virginia with a 24, Mississippi 28, Kansas 30, Alabama 31, Arkansas and Georgia 32, Louisiana 33, Arizona and Tennessee 35 and South Carolina 36.

Michigan's Democratic members earned a composite of 91, the highest of any state with three or more Democrats in the House. Alabama was the lowest with a 29.

New Jersey Republicans earned the highest rating of any state GOP delegation of three or more members, getting a 39. Utah was the lowest, with a zero.

California was the state with the greatest difference between its Democratic representatives and its Republicans. The Democrats earned a rating of 87 and the GOP members a 5.

Average ratings for delegations from all states, including those with fewer than four members, were as follows:

Alabama 31, Alaska 20, Arizona 35, Arkansas 32, California 56, Colorado 49, Connecticut 75, Delaware 80, Florida 38, Georgia 32, Hawaii 55, Idaho 0, Illinois 46, Indiana 46, Iowa 55,

Kansas 30, Kentucky 42, Louisiana 33, Maine 37, Maryland 65, Massachusetts 83, Michigan 65, Minnesota 60, Mississippi 28, Missouri 53, Montana 45, Nebraska 14, Nevada 35,

New Hampshire 45, New Jersey 67, New Mexico 34, New York 59, North Carolina 51, North Dakota 80, Ohio 48, Oklahoma 50, Oregon 51, Pennsylvania 54, Rhode Island 70,

South Carolina 36, South Dakota 75, Tennessee 35, Texas 41, Utah 0, Vermont 65, Virginia 24, Washington 60, West Virginia 81, Wisconsin 54, Wyoming 5.

Jumbled

Three houses lie crumpled on the side of a hill after slipping down the cliff in a landslide near San Clemente, Calif. An elderly resident of one of the homes was injured slightly as she bounced around inside the sliding house. (AP Laserphoto)

Elderly Woman Rides Landslide Into Canyon

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — Geologists inspected a hillside Saturday in an attempt to determine what caused a landslide that sent three houses, including one containing an 83-year-old woman, cascading 75 feet into a canyon.

The slide, which occurred without warning Friday evening in the affluent Verde Canyon area, 60 miles south of Los Angeles, forced occupants to flee seven other homes that were damaged.

Police said no one was injured, but Meda Carpenter, a grandmother, was shaken up when her home slid into the canyon. In the darkness, no one knew of Mrs. Carpenter's presence until nearly an hour later when she was seen waving from a window in her damaged home, officers said.

It took rescue workers three hours to free her and she was flown by helicopter to Mission General Hospital, where she was treated and released. A hospital spokesman said she was "in good condition but terribly shaken up."

Lt. Al Ehlow said the hillside supporting a cul-de-sac collapsed just after 6 p.m. Friday.

Bucs Host UNCC; Seek To Snap Losing String

East Carolina's Pirates, reeling under a six-game losing streak, seek to find some comfort in Minges Coliseum Monday night as the Bucs play host to UNC Charlotte.

Tipoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Youth Night will be observed at the game and all youths, 17 and under, will be admitted for $1.

Coach Charlie Harrison's young Pirates haven't won yet on the road, losing all five games played away from Minges, and are 2-1 on their home hardwood. However, they failed to win a game during the month of December, including the lone home game they played.

The six game losing streak is the longest since the 1981-82 team, Dave Odom's last, lost an equal number. To find a longer streak, the Pirates go back to the 1976-77 season, Dave Patton's last, where the Bucs lost seven in a row. The longest losing streak ever was in 1966-67, when Tom Quinn's first team lost the first eight games they played. Added to that was the final game of the 1965-66 season under Wendell Carr for an 0-9 string.

Charlotte comes into the game with a 5-5 record — the best under second year Coach Hal Wissell. UNCC split its two games in its own holiday tournament to reach .500 for the second time this season. It took the 49ers 16 games last season to win their fifth.

Charlotte's victories have come over Missouri-St. Louis, 75-73, Erskine, 93-77, Campbell, 81-65, Penn State, 76-67, and Appalachian State, 67-51.

They've been defeated by UNC-Asheville, 57-56, N.C. State, 79-60, Wake Forest, 77-55, Furman, 77-71, and UNC-Wilmington, 82-77.

The Pirates have one common opponent with the 49ers, Campbell. East Carolina downed the Camels, 75-66, in Minges in the season opener.

Forward Melvin Johnson, a 6-9, 220-pound senior, is the leading scorer for the 49ers with an 18.8 average. He's also the leading rebounder with a 9.1 average.

Two other 49ers are in double figures, 6-5 senior forward Emery Atkinson, 13.4, and 6-2 senior guard Randy Davis, hitting 10.4. The other starters for Charlotte are expected to be 5-11 freshman guard Keith Williams, hitting 6.4 points a game, and 6-11 freshman center Ray Gromolowicz, scoring 7.9 points a game.

The meeting between the two North Carolina schools is only the fourth, with ECU winning each of the previous meetings. The Pirates won 65-64 during the 80-81 season and took a 71-68 win in 81-82. Last year, ECU won, 66-64. Barry Wright hit the winning baskets in the first and last meetings of the two.

Wright currently is the lone Pirate in double figures, hitting 10.0 per game.

Sledge played well in his first start, but Harris and Battle didn't play as well as Harrison had hoped. Harris had moved into the starting lineup at the River City Shootout, replacing freshman Roy Smith. No one, however, has given the Pirates consistant post play as yet.

Among the probable starters for Monday's game, Robinson is the leading scorer with an 8.3 average, while Battle is scoring at an 8.0 clip. Vanderhorst has improved his average to 7.6, while Sledge is hitting 2.8 and Harris 2.0.

Robinson and Vanderhorst have been the most consistant players for the Pirates over the eight games to date.

The home visit for ECU will be a brief one. They return to the road for their next three games before finally playing three in a row at home in mid-January — their longest home streak of the year.

Saturday, the Pirates will be back in Boston to face Northeastern University, then meet George Mason on Monday, Jan. 9, in Fairfax. That will be the first ECAC-South game of the year for the Pirates. The following Saturday, Jan. 14, they travel to Williamsburg, Va., to face William & Mary in another ECAC-South contest.

Joe Montana's Pass Helps 49ers Nip Detroit, 24-23

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Joe Montana's 14-yard touchdown pass to Freddie Solomon with 1:23 to play vaulted the San Francisco 49ers past the Detroit Lions 24-23 Saturday and into the National Football Conference championship game.

The Lions, one-touchdown underdogs coming into the game, took a 23-17 lead with 4:54 to play when Billy Sims burst three yards up the middle for his seond touchdown of the game.

But Montana, who had thrown an interception that set up Sims' apparent game-winning run, then drove the 49ers 70 yards in nine plays. The first seven plays were short runs and passes that kept Detroit off-guard.

Then, on first down at the Detroit 27, the San Francisco quarterback rolled to his right and, under intense pressure, fired a pass to Russ Francis. The big tight end caught the ball on his knees at the 20, sprung to his feet and ran for six more yards.

On the next play, Solomon roared down the middle and was wide open in the end zone when Montana threw his game-winning pass. Montana completed all six of his passes for 52 yards in that drive.

The Lions had a final chance to win but Eddie Murray, who had kicked three field goals earlier — including a National Football League playoff-record 54-yarder — was wide to the right on a 43-yard attempt with five seconds to play.

It was his second miss from that distance in the final quarter.

The 49ers' defense kept Detroit at bay much of the game, intercepting Gary Danielson five times — three short of Chicago's National Football League playoff record — as the Lions were forced to settle for field goals by from 37, 21 and 54 yards.

Two of the interceptions were by rookie linebacker Riki Ellison, and each led to a score, Wendell Tyler's two-yard touchdown run in the second quarter and Ray Wersching's 19-yard field goal in the third that gave the 49ers a 17-9 lead with about 20 minutes to play.

But in the fourth quarter, the Lions sprung to life. Sims scored his first touchdown on an 11-yard run with a pitchout to the right 1:28 into the quarter, and, after cornerback Bobby Watkins intercepted Montana, Sims ran three yards up the middle.

Danielson, starting in place of injured Eric Hipple, burned the San Francisco secondary with passes of 14 and 16 yards to rookie Jeff Chadwick on Detroit's opening drive that ended with Murray's 37-yard field goal 4:33 into the game.

But on the Lions' next possession, cornerback Ronnie Lott intercepted a pass intended for Chadwick, killing a Detroit threat at the San Francisco 15.

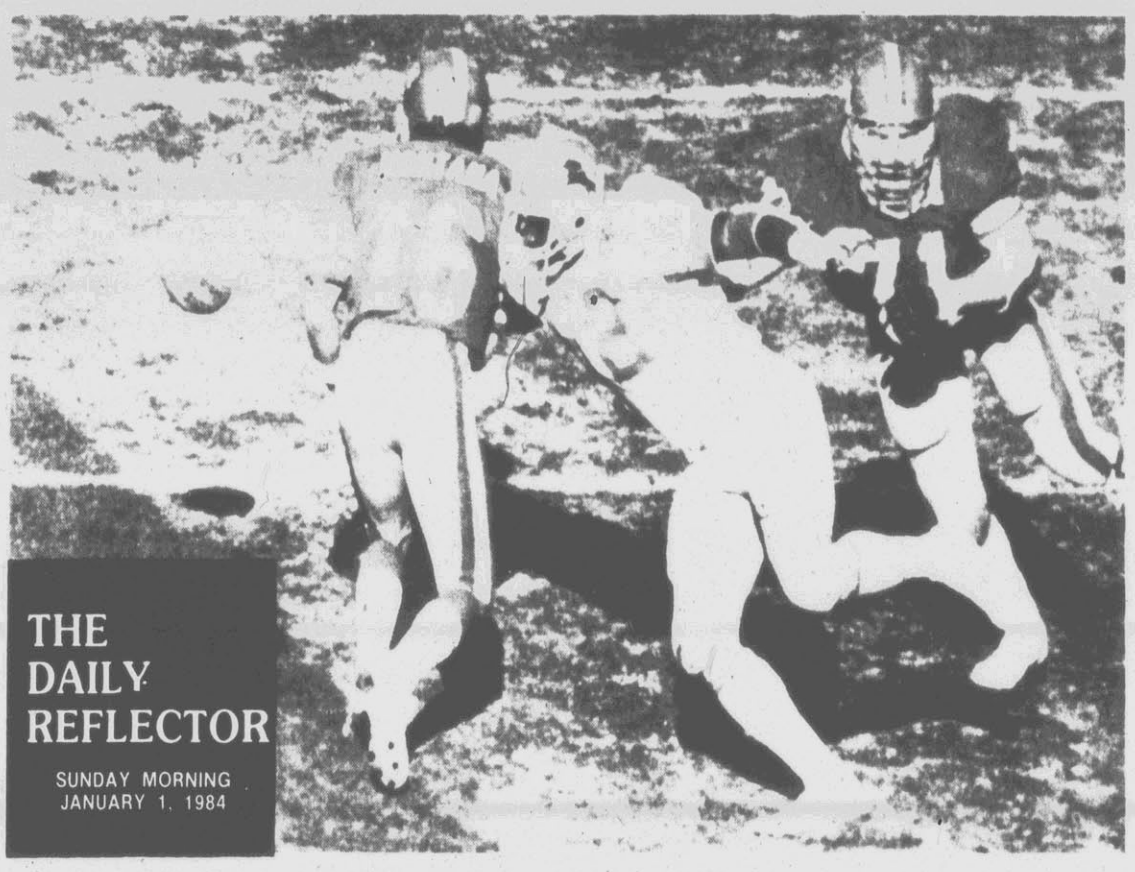

Montana then began tearing up the Detroit defense with passes of 26 yards to Mike Wilson and 19 yards to Francis and 15-yard quarterback scramble to the Lion 12.

Tyler picked up 11 yards on a sweep to the right, then Roger Craig went the final yard and San Francisco led 7-3 with 66 seconds left in the opening quarter.

On Danielson's next pass, Ellison stepped in front of tight end Ulysses Norris and made his first pro interception, giving San Francisco the ball on the Detroit 24. It took just four plays for the 49ers to widen their lead to 14-3 in the opening minute of the second quarter, Tyler blasting his way through two defenders at the goal line for the final two yards.

ECU Women Bow To Lady Tar Heels, 77-49

FAYETTEVILLE — North Carolina followed the scoring and rebounding of Tresa Brown to a 77-49 romp over East Carolina University's Lady Pirates Saturday afternoon. The 28-point margin was the largest the Lady Tar Heels have ever run up against an ECU women's basketball team.

Things didn't go right from the start from the Lady Pirates, who shot only 29.7 percent from the floor (22 of 74). Their poor shooting, plus the fact that they were outrebounded, 60-30, contributed to the margin the Tar Heels were able to run up on them.

Turnovers helped keep ECU as close as it was. The Lady Heels committed 27 while ECU had seven less. UNC hit on 46 percent of its field goals.

North Carolina also made hay at the free throw line, canning 21 of 35 attempts. ECU hit on just five of 11. ECU committed 25 fouls to UNC's 12.

"We just didn't play well," lamented Coach Cathy Andruzzi. "It was a very frustrating two days for us," she added, pointing to the lopsided 72-41 loss to N.C. State on Friday night in the City of Dogwood Classic's first evening of play.

"The team is obviously not implementing what we're supposed to do to win. We are applying no pressure offensively or defensively. We are not getting the ball inside," Andruzzi said.

East Carolina never led in the contest, although it was able to draw even with the Heels twice during the early going. The ties came at 8-8 and 10-10, but UNC pulled away over the rest of the half and held as much as a 17-point lead during the half. The first half ended with ECU trailing, 38-25.

Carolina scored the first six points of the second half to boost its lead to 44-25, a 19-point spread, and ECU never drew much closer, falling back by as much as 28 — which was the final margin.

Brown led the Heels in both scoring and rebounding with 23 and 13, respectively. Pam Leake added 13 points while Ranti Killian hit for 12. Dawn Royster pulled away nine rebounds, while Killian added eight.

East Carolina was led in scoring by Anita Anderson with 17, while Lisa Squirewell picked up 14. Anderson had seven rebounds to lead ECU in that category.

The loss drops the Lady Pirates to 5-5 on the year and hands the team its second straight loss. Carolina boosted its record to 8-1 on the season.

"We had not been playing consistantly for 40 minutes," Andruzzi said. "We have got to get back to the fundamentals of the game. We have a long way to go in the season ahead. It's not over by any means.

East Carolina returns to Greenville to face Notre Dame on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

Seattle Upsets Dolphins

MIAMI (AP) — The Seattle Seahawks, eager to prove they have indeed arrived as a National Football League team, shocked the Miami Dolphins 27-20 Saturday and ousted the defending American Conference champions from the chase for Super Bowl XVIII.

"We came down here and nobody gave us a chance. They thought we were going to be blown out," Coach Chuck Knox said after Curt Warner's second touchdown of the game, a 2-yard run with 1:48 remaining, helped his team ease past the 12-5 Dolphins.

"I can't tell you how proud I am of this team," Knox said. "They played an excellent game against a fine team."

The triumph, before an Orange Bowl crowd of 71,032, sends the 11-7 Seahawks, a wild-card entrant, into next weeks's AFC Championship game against the winner of Sunday's conference semifinal between the Pittsburgh Steelers and Los Angeles Raiders.

"We didn't come down here just to play a game, we came here to win the game," said Seahawks quarterback Dave Krieg. "We don't have the most talent in the world, but when we play together we can play with anybody."

Miami Coach Don Shula, who guided the Dolphins to a Super Bowl loss against the Washington Redskins a year ago, said the suddenness with which the the game turned around will stick with his players for some time to come.

"You never get over the suddeness of losing in the playoffs. It's the toughest thing you have to live with," said Shula. "We had some opportunities in the second half, but we didn't do anything to win the ball game."

The Seahawks, in the playoffs for the first time in their eight-year existence, launched the game-winning drive — a five-play, 66-yard march — after Miami Woody Bennett ran 3 yards to give the Dolphins a 20-17 lead.

Krieg, who completed 12 of 13 passes for 200 yards in Seattle's 31-7 playoff victory over Denver the week before, set up Warner's TD with completions of 16 and 40 yards to Steve Largent, the latter giving the Seahawks a first down at the Dolphins 2-yard line.

Warner, who rushed for 113 yards on 29 carries, scored on the next play for a 24-20 lead, and Seahawks placekicker Norm Johnson added a 37-yard field goal, 33 seconds later, after Miami's Fulton Walker fumbled the ensuing kickoff.

Miami quarterback Dan Marino burned the NFL's 27th-ranked defense for a pair of touchdown passes in the first half as Miami took a 13-7 halftime lead and appeared in the control.

The rookie quarterback sandwiched the second-quarter scoring heaves — covering 19 yards to tight end Dan Johnson and 32 yards to wide receiver Mark Duper — around Krieg's 6-yard TD pass to Cullen Bryant that gave Seattle a 7-6 advantage with 9:19 remaining in the half.

The complexion of the contest, however, shifted dramatically when Miami committed the first of four costly second-half turnovers.

Seattle's John Harris recovered a David Overstreet fumble 4:30 into the third quarter, and it took Krieg only eight plays and 3:58 to take the Seahawks 55 yards for a 14-13 lead.

Warner scored the touchdown on a 1-yard run with 6:26 left in the period, and Seattle boosted its advantage to 17-13 when Johnson booted a 27-yard field goal with 10:42 left in the fourth quarter.

Time appeared to be running out on Miami, which has won the AFC East title 11 times since Don Shula took over in 1970. But then, Miami cornerback Gerald Small intercepted a Krieg pass intended for Largent and raced 18 yards to the Seattle 16.

Marino threw for 14 yards to Nat Moore on second down, and Bennett went over from the 2 on the third play of the drive for a 20-17 Miami lead with 4:43 to go.

Seattle's game-winning drive took only 1:55, and Marino, who missed the Dolphins last two regular season games with a knee sprain, had plenty of time to rally his team.

But Walker, the AFC's top kick returner, fumbled the kickoff — setting up Johnson's 37-yard field goal — and then lost a fumble on the kickoff next return as well, killing the Dolphins' hopes.

Marino finished with 15 completions in 25 attempts for 193 yards and was intercepted twice.

Kreig hit 15 of 22 passes for 192 yards and was intercepted once. Miami's defense, which played most of the game without linebacker A.J. Duhe because a knee strain, sacked the Seattle quarterback once for a loss of 9 yards.

Miami moved the ball almost at will against the Seahawks defense in the first half, rolling up 232 yards but only 13 points.

Marino used a 12-yard completion to Duper, the first 1,000-yard receiver in Dolphins history, and Andra Franklin's 5-yard run on third-and-1 from the Seattle 24 to set up his first touchdown pass.

Bob Kuechenberg's snap on the point-after was high, though, and holder Don Strock was smothered before he could get it on the ground for kicker Uwe von Schamann.

The 6-0 advantage was shortlived.

Seattle's Zachary Dixon returned the kickoff 59 yards to the Dolphins 38, and six plays later Krieg found Bryant circling out of the backfield to his right for the 6-yard scoring pass that boosted the Seahawks into a 7-6 lead with 9:19 remaining in the second quarter.

Miami responded with a seven-play, 74-yard drive leading to Marino's touchdown heave to Duper, who beat double coverage as Miami took a 13-7 lead less than five minutes later.

Petty Looking To 1984

LEVEL CROSS (AP) — Stock car racing "king" Richard Petty says the wounds from his controversial victory in this year's Miller High Life 500 have healed and he's looking forward to 1984.

Petty, 46, who has competed on the NASCAR Grand National circuit for 25 years and earned more than $5 million, was accused of cheating after winning the Miller race at Charlotte Motor Speedway in October.

An oversized engine and four left-side tires were found on his car after the race, and he was fined $35,000. Petty said he didn't know about the infractions and said his crew was responsible.

"Naturally, it affected my life for about a week," he said at his Level Cross headquarters. "It was an everyday deal with the newspapers, radio and TV people talking. It became very aggravating. I made my statement. I explained what had happened, and then everybody started trying to read between the lines and making something else out of it."

Although the 198th victory of his career was tarnished, Petty said time has eased the pain.

"Once we started racing again, it started to fade away to a certain extent. Now the only mention of it is people joking about it, and I go along with the joke too. It was just very inconvenient for awhile."

He said most of his fans remained loyal, which has helped him remain optimistic about the next racing season.

Petty will change teams in 1984, driving for the Rahmoc team of Kannapolis, N.C. It will be the first time in 25 years that he hasn't driven a car prepared by Petty Enterprises, so he's counting on 23-year-old son Kyle to run the family business.

"I'm probably as excited about Kyle running the business as I am with what I'm about to do," said Petty. "This is going to give Kyle a chance to be on his own, whereas he's always been under my coattail no matter what the situation was before. Now he makes the decisions, and if he falls flat on his face, it's his fault and he realizes that."

Petty is convinced he can win quickly with Rahmoc team because all the team members are proven NASCAR veterans. Buddy Parrott will be the team manager, Bob Rahilly will build the engines and Butch Mock will be the chief mechanic.

Neil Bonnett, who drove for Rahmoc last year, won the World 600 and Atlanta Journal 500.

"I really think I can win it," he said. "I've proved that I can be lucky enough to win there, and Butch and Bob always have a fast car there."

Seahawks Flying High

MIAMI (AP) — The Seattle Seahawks were flying high after their 27-20 National Football League playoff victory over the Miami Dolphins Saturday, one step away from the American Conference championship few gave them a chance to win two weeks ago.

"We're not saying we're a Super Bowl caliber team team yet, but one more game and we will be," said Seattle fullback Dan Doornink.

"It's (the Super Bowl) something you dream about. We're so close to it. Next week we'll fight and scratch and hopefully do as well," said rookie running back Curt Warner, who rushed for 113 yards and scored two touchdowns to pace Saturday's AFC semifinal triumph over the defending conference titlists.

Warner said the Seahawks, who beat the AFC West champion Los Angeles Raiders twice during the regular season but lost to AFC Central champion Pittsburgh, gained confidence by playing one of the toughest schedules in the NFL.

"We wanted to win. We'll do what we have to win," added Warner, who led the AFC in rushing with 1,449 yards. "We're not intimidated by anybody. You've got to suck it up and go out and play, there's no tomorrow.

"We believed," said Warner.

Reggie McKenzie, the 12th-year offensive guard who played for Seattle Coach Chuck Knox in Buffalo, agreed.

"I've played in the Orange Bowl (Dolphins' home) with a lot of teams that lost and had more talent than this one," said McKenzie. "You talk about believe. This team believes."

Knox said the team is where it is today because it never gives up and refuses to believe it's beaten.

"Even after the Dolphins went ahead late in the fourth quarter, I thought we could come back," said Knox, who in his first year at Seattle has the Seahawks in the playoffs for the first time in their eight-year history. "Our whole bench thought we could.

"We've been coming back like that all season," added Knox. "I'm just happy we won, and that's it. The players have given me a game ball — that hit a very sensitive spot."

Quarterback Dave Krieg bounced back in the closing minutes to direct the game-winning drive after throwing an interception that set up a Miami touchdown to give the Dolphins a 20-17 lead.

"I was disappointed, but knew we could score when we got the ball back," said Krieg. "I just knew we had to do it."

No Next Week For Miami As Seahawks End Hopes

MIAMI (AP) — Suddenly, there was no next week for the Miami Dolphins, whose dream of returning to the Super Bowl died in a 27-20 loss to the Seattle Seahawks Saturday.

"I don't know how it happened. One minute we had it and the next minute ... it was gone," halfback David Overstreet said in a somber Miami dressing room.

Suddenly, the defending Amrican Conference champions were out of the National Football League playoffs, and the upstart Seahawks were one victory away from Super Bowl XVIII.

"You go through a season planning for next week. All of a sudden, there is no next week," said end Doug Betters, the NFL Defensive Player of the Year. "We have a lot to think about during the off-season. Every time we had a chance to get back in it, we gave the ball away."

The Dolphins turned an interception by Gerald Small into a touchdown and a 24-20 lead on Woody Bennett's three-yard run with 3:43 to play. But Seattle quarterback Dave Krieg hit Steve Largent for 40 yards four plays later, setting up Curt Warner's two-yard touchdown run.

The Miami offense was denied a chance to stage a come-from-behind scoring drive when Fulton Walker lost the ball at the Miami 27 on the kickoff return, leading to a 37-yard field goal by Norm Johnson with 1:15 remaining.

Walker fumbled again on the ensuing kickoff and left the field in tears.

"I guess it wasn't meant to be today," said Walker, who had a record 98-yard return for a TD in the Dolphins' loss to Washington in last year's Super Bowl. "Coach (Don) Shula came over and said something like I had done a good job all year and should hold my head up. That's all I heard....

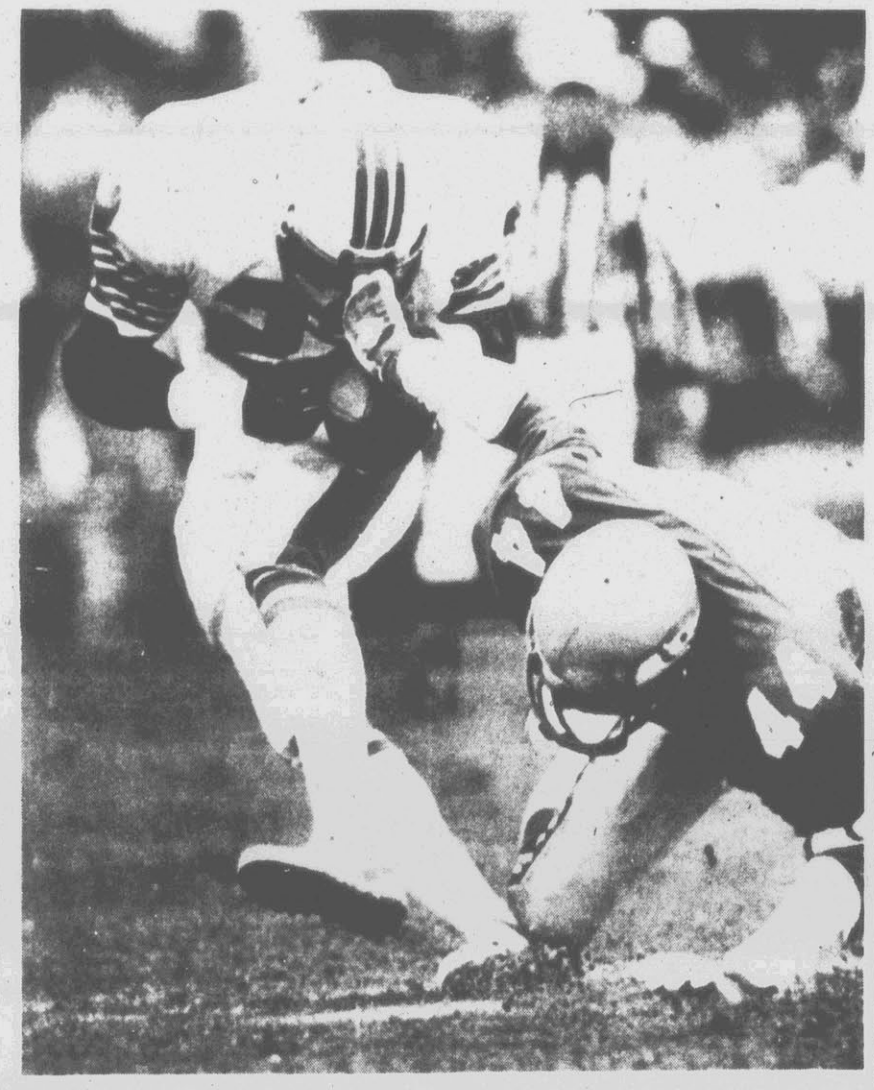

"I feel like I let the guys down ... I feel sick to my stomach."

Shula didn't blame Walker or rookie quarterback Dan Marino, who threw for only 58 yards passing in the second half after going to the dressing room at intermission with 135 yards and two TDs on 10-of-14 passing.

"We had the opportunities in the second half and we didn't do anything to win the football game," the disappointed coach said. "We had everything going for us ... we certainly don't have any excuses."

Marino said the Seahawk defense was stronger after the half, shutting the Dolphins down on first and second downs and forcing them into third-and-long.

"We didn't make it when we had to," said Marino, the first rookie quarterback ever elected to start a Pro Bowl.

To The Sports Editor:

In response to several letters appearing within the last month or so about UNC and the Peach Bowl, I have sveral comments:

First of all, I feel that if there ever was any doubt about who the "best team in the state" was this year, it has been extinguished. If you will recall, the Pirates of ECU racked up 46 points on Florida State, losing a heartbreaker by one. For those of you who may not know what the Seminoles did to the "mighty Heels of Carolina," they lashed them soundly, 28-3.

Another point I would like to make is that Carolina and their diehard fans got what they wanted (like Florida State). Both schools got bids to a prestigous bowl. But look what happened. Nobody could sell tickets! Peach Bowl officials got exactly what they deserved. They named two "big-name schools" too early, thinking they would make some money off the game and didn't even consider ECU. They should have picked two deserving teams like the Pirates and Virginia Tech. Tech would have gone had Carolina not squeezed by the tough 3-8 Blue Devils of Duke the final week. Meanwhile, the Hokies whipped Virginia 48-0, the same Cavalier team that defeated UNC the week before! But like ECU, Virginia Tech stayed home. But the funny things about it is that the Peach Bowl lost a lot of money by pulling such an idiotic stunt. Well, maybe the bowl officials will clean up their act next year, if there is a Peach Bowl next year.

I would also like to wish Ed Emory, the Pirates and all of their supporters a prosperous New Year.

Gators' NCAA Probe Lingers

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The NCAA's investigation of the University of Florida's football program will apparently extend well into 1984, say former players and school officials.

National Collegiate Athletic Association officials refused to comment, but university spokesman Hugh Cunningham said the inquiry's end is "not imminent."

Some university officials thought the year-long probe would end in 1983.

However, former running back Joseph J. Portale and other witnesses say NCAA investigators indicate that several weeks, perhaps months, of work remain, the St. Petersburg Times reported Saturday.

Since last December, the NCAA has been looking into allegations that several past and present members of the Gators football team have been involved in recruiting or academic violations.

Long Overlooked Word Creeping Back

A long-overlooked word is creeping back into the language of major-college football, a word heard more and more as the New Year's bowls approach with two unbeaten teams and no chance of a head-to-head matchup.

Playoff.

The sport that produces the most revenue, major-college football is the only one of the NCAA's 74 sponsored sports that does not have a championship game.

Even now, as 12-0 and top-ranked Nebraska prepares for the Orange Bowl and 11-0 and No. 2 Texas tunes up for the Cotton Bowl, visions of a game to decide the national champ remain a dream.

But support for a playoff appears to be at its strongest since 1969, the year of the great Texas-Penn State debate over No. 1. President Nixon and most of the voters went for Texas.

"It bothers me that I had undefeated teams in 1968, 1969 and 1973, yet we never won the national championship," says Penn State's Joe Paterno. "We never had a chance to win it because we couldn't play for it. Votes decide the champions, not competition."

"It would eliminate opinions as to who the No. 1 team in the country is," says Akers. "It would also generate tremendous revenue."

CBS recently polled head coaches at 101 of the 105 Division I-A schools, missing only the four which didn't have a coach at the time.

The result was 58 in favor of a playoff, 37 opposed and six undecided. Throwing out the undeciceds, that comes to 61 percent in favor of a playoff.

The numbers get even more interesting when you stick to the seven "major" conferences — Atlantic Coast, Big Eight, Big Ten, Pac-10, Southeastern, Southwest and Western Athletic — plus the independents. The playoff vote there is 48-27, with six undecided. That figures out to 64 percent in favor.

And throwing out the Big Ten and Pac-10, which have a vested — and wealthy — interest in the Rose Bowl, and sticking to members of the College Football Association, the count is 42-17, with one undecided — 71 percent.

"I don't feel it's in our best interests to be in a national playoff system," says UCLA's Terry Donahue, one of the Rose Bowl coaches. "First of all, the NCAA holds to the principle of the student-athlete, and if we had a national championship tournament we would be playing too long, which is not conducive to academic achievement.

"Second of all, bowl games have done a lot to promote college football and every New Year's Day there are a lot of winners. And third, who benefits from it? Players don't get a dime and maybe you play 13 or 14 games, but was it to the players' benefit?"

Illinois' Mike White, UCLA's Rose Bowl opponent, agrees.

"Last year, we squeaked into a game (the Liberty Bowl) with a 7-4 record," he said. "If the bowl programs were keyed to turning out someone who was No. 1, coaches would be taking a lot of shortcuts and it would create a few teams that would be built solely at hammering at No. 1."

Although some opponents of a playoff say the season would be too long, the players would miss too much classwork and the coaches would be under excessive pressure, there is one main reason a playoff has not come about — the bowls.

Forget the other arguments; two or three more weeks for a handful of teams wouldn't kill anyone, college baseball and basketball players miss far more classwork than football players and it's hard to imagine coaches being under any more pressure than they are now.

"I do better academically during the season than I do in the spring," says Steve Young, Brigham Young's All-American quarterback. "The football season makes me discipline myself more and I budget my time for studying."

"I agree that the bowl games are important as we know them now," says Minnesota Coach Lou Holtz, who would like to see a four-way playoff after the bowls games, with the teams selected by a computer. "They're a great experience for the players and shouldn't be disrupted. But usually one bowl decides the national championship and the others are of lesser importance.

"Under this system, every bowl game is important. I've been proposing this since 1978 and the response is a lot greater now. A lot more could be done with what I proposed."

Holtz's system would rank teams on record and strength of schedule. A victory would be worth 10 points, each game won by a defeated I-A opponent five points. This year, if the field were picked at this momemnt, the four playoff teams would be Auburn with 405 points, Nebraska with 390 (the Cornhuskers' Kickoff Classic victory over Penn State wouldn't count), Brigham Young with 370 and Texas with 350. However, BYU and Texas could be knocked out in the bowl games and replaced by Miami (340) and-or Illinois (335).

Bobby Ross, Maryland (in favor): "It declares a true champion on the field and there would be no disadvantage whatsoever."

Jim Criner, Iowa State (opposed): "Because a tournament would have to be minor in scope so as not to elongate the season too much, fewer teams would get the exposure guaranteed by the bowls."

Mike Gottfried, Kansas (in favor): "As the NCAA basketball tournament does, itwould give the greatest number of teams the chance to compete for a national title regardless of size or fan appeal. There is no real disadvantage. If they did exist, they could be surmounted."

Jim Dickey, Kansas State (opposed): "There is nothing wrong with two schools thinking that they are No. 1."

Dennis Green, Northwestern (in favor): "The key advantage would be the determining of a definite champion. It would be a conclusive champion because in order to cop the championship, a team will have had to prevail in a series of games rather than just one isolated game."

Dave McClain, Wisconsin (in favor): "We would escape the politics of the bowls. Bowl teams are picked arbitrarily when they should be selected based on a number of variables including difficulty of schedule, record, etc."

Bill Yeoman, Houston (opposed): "If we were to adopt a postseason tournament, we would be leaving amateur status and moving into the professional realm. I am violently opposed to a tournament."

Bobby Collins, Southern Methodist (in favor): "The teams that earned the right to play for a championship by playing well during the season would have the opportunity to c g e p e t e f g r thm (No. (9 (zifcafo (zmoizllm (on (tedevasagf gr faf appead& As te bgwd sqstee as preseftdq cgfstatuted$ faf appeal is more important than quality.

"There is no real disadvantage. It has been brought up that players would miss an inordinate amount of classes, but since the tournament would be played during the break between semesters, it would not impair the players' schoolwork."

But even though David Cawood, assistant executive director of the NCAA, says that "we've had more mail on the playoff subject than on anything else," don't hold your breath waiting for the NCAA to act.

Says John R. Toner, athletic director at the University of Connecticut and president of the NCAA: "The NCAA ... has never officially considered a Division I-A football championship because there has not appeared to be a need or a formal request made by its I-A members. The NCAA is not going to initiate such a move."

Two of the strongest supporters of a playoff are Paterno and Arkansas athletic director Frank Broyles. But Paterno thinks that "it's a long-shot at the most for the near future," while Broyles says that "we will never see it happen in my lifetime."

Or will we?

"It's going to happen because of the money involved and what it can do for the sport of intercollegiate football," predicts Jackie Sherrill, head coach and athletic director at Texas A&M.

And SMU's Collins adds, "I think we're going to see a playoff in the near future, like within the next five years. I have seen an increased awareness among college leaders for the need of such a playoff."

"There's not any question about the bowls being opposed to any form of playoff," Brock says. "We don't see anything wrong with 16 teams being able to go home after the bowls saying they are winners."

Brock also points out the bowls have paid $255 million to colleges over the years, including $158 million in the last decade. This year's payoff is expected to be in the neighborhood of $30 million.

But with a playoff, says Holtz, "I think you'd be talking about a payoff in excess of $80 million."

Meyer Calls DePaul Victory 'Ugly' One

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Veteran DePaul Coach Ray Meyer said it certainly wasn't pretty.

"This is what you call winning ugly," he said after his fourth-ranked Blue Demons pulled out a 59-57 overtime victory over Creighton in a non-conference college basketball game Saturday afternoon.

DePaul went to its bread-and-butter player, Tyrone Corbin, to win the contest. Corbin hit an off-balance jumper with three seconds left in the extra session to win the game.

"With eight seconds left we wanted the ball in Corbin's hands because he is an excellent free throw shooter and we thought he might get fouled," said Meyer.

DePaul, 9-0, trailed most of the first half, falling behind the 7-2 Bluejays by as many as 10 points, 26-16 and again at 28-18 with 57 seconds remaining in the half.

"I was afraid of this ball club and we certainly didn't play well," said Meyer.

"I thought we had a chance to win the ball game," said Creighton Coach Willis Reed. "But we had some key turnovers there at the end of the first half and could have had a 10-point lead going into halftime. That could have made some difference."

DePaul outscored Creighton 9-2 in the opening minutes of the second half to take a 33-32 lead with 17:36 to go.

DePaul led 53-50 when Creighton's 7-foot Benoit Benjamin was fouled while making a shot with 23 seconds left. Benjamin hit his free throw and DePaul missed a last-ditch shot to send the game into overtime.

With the score tied 57-57 and 53 seconds remaining in the overtime, DePaul got the ball and ran the clock down before Corbin took his game-winning shot.

Corbin topped all scorers with 14 points. Dallas Comegys scored 13 points for DePaul, with Tony Jackson and Kenny Patterson adding 10 each.

Match Play Tourney Kicks Off Golf Year

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The long, lucrative PGA Tour gets an earlier-than-usual start Monday with the $1 million-plus Sieko-Tucson Match Play Championship.

Competition in the two-pronged event, a new addition on the tour, begins the day after New Year's with 32 matches in two brackets — seniors, and members of the regular tour. Some of the favorites in both sections, however, aren't expected at the Randolph Park Municipal Golf Course until later in the week.

It's the start of the busiest season pro golf has had. In all, there are more than 70 tournaments — 40-plus on the regular tour, 10 on the Tournament Players Series and 20-plus on the expanding seniors tour — with more than $27 million in total prize money.

The Tucson tournament is the first match-play event on the American schedule in a decade. But some liberties were taken with the format to assure that at least a few of the more prominent players would be around for the weekend.

"We worked with literally dozens of ideas," tour Commissioner Deane Beman said. "We wanted to have the match-play format, but we also wanted — for the sake of television as well as the local gallery — a format that would insure some of the leading players being in competition on the weekend."

As a result, the eight leaders from the 1983 Seiko Grand Prix points list — Fuzzy Zoeller, Hal Sutton, Tom Watson, Lanny Wadkins, Cal Peete, Tom Kite, Ben Crenshaw and Gil Morgan — won't begin play until the fifth round Saturday morning.

The next eight on that list — David Graham, Craig Stadler, Ray Floyd, Andy Bean, Fred Couples, Mark McCumber, Wayne Levi and Curtis Strange — drew first-round byes and begin play Wednesday.

The tournament is broken into two segments: The regular-tour section, with 128 players competing for $708,000 in prize money and the seniors section, with 24 players and $306,000. First prize in each section is $100,000. Play in the two sections will be held simultaneously on the same course.

In the seniors section, Seiko Grand Prix leaders Miller Barber, Don January, Gene Littler, Billy Casper, Gay Brewer, Rod Funseth, Charles Sifford and Dan Sikes are exempt from first-round play.

The first round will be spread over two days, with 28 regular-tour and four senior-tour matches each Monday and Tuesday. Second-round play is Wednesday, with 32 regular-tour and eight senior-tour matches.

Senior semifinals will be held Saturday and the finals Sunday.

Semifinals and the finals will be held Sunday.

The tournament will be televised nationally by ESPN.

Griffins Top Kent State

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mike Smrek's tip-in with 1:40 left and Mike Trivisonno's foul shot with 50 to go in overtime gave Canisius College a 65-63 victory over Kent State in a college basketball game Saturday.

The game saw five ties and 10 lead changes throughout despite Kent State leading by as many as 11 points twice early in the second half.

The Golden Griffins won their third straight, including two in a row in overtime, and improve their season mark to 6-3/ Kent State, 5-3, had a two-game winning streak snapped.

Ray Hall led Canisius with 21 points, while Robert Turner scored 15 and Derrick Russell added 10 for the Golden Griffins.

Larry Robbins and Steve Tindall topped Kent State with 15 points apiece, while Anthony Grier chipped in with 14 and Marvin Robinson had 12 as all five starters fouled out in the last six minutes.

Robinson had a game-high 10 rebounds as Kent State took the edge on the boards 48-31.

Joe...

With 1:05 left in the half, Wersching was wide to the right on a 45-yard field goal attempt set up by linebacker Keena Turner's interception.

That gave the Lions one last shot at a score before the half and they capitalized when Murray boomed his record-breaking 54-yarder. It surpassed the mark of 52 yards set in 1951 by Lou "The Toe" Groza for the Cleveland Browns and matched by Washington's Curt Knight in 1973 and Matt Bahr of the Browns in 1982.

That trimmed the 49ers' lead to 14-9, but they widened it on Wersching's 19-yarder with 4:46 to go in the third quarter, this score also set up by an interception by Ellison that tied the team's playoff record of two interceptions by Lott and Skip Vanderbundt.

Huskers Hope Three Is Charm

MIAMI (AP) — Tired of being a bridesmaid and hoping the third time will be a good luck charm, the Nebraska Cornhuskers return to the Orange Bowl for third year in a row Monday night, again seeking that elusive national championship.

Two years ago, a Nebraska team ranked No.. 4 in the Associated Press poll had a shot at all the marbles against top-rated Clemson — runnerup Georgia and No. 3 Alabama lost in the Sugar and Cotton Bowls, respectively — but flopped 22-15 to an 11th-place finish.

Last year, Nebraska had virtually no chance since No. 1 Georgia met No. 2 Penn State in the Sugar Bowl and the Huskers wound up No. 3 after nipping LSU 21-20.

Now, they are back with a 12-0 record and one of the most explosive offensive teams in the history of college football, invading the bailiwick of the fifth-ranked University of Miami Hurricanes, who finally succeeded in stealing some of the headlines from the National Football League's Miami Dolphins.

And although most coaches will tell you that defense wins championships, while offense runs a poor third behind the kicking game, the oddsmakers have made Nebraska roughly a two-touchdown favorite over a 10-1 Miami team that finished fourth nationally in total defense (259.4 yards a game), 13th in rushing defense (106.4), 15th in pass defense (153.0) and third in scoring defense (9.6 points a game).

As impressive as those numbers are, they pale before Nebraska's offensive onslaught — second in total offense (546.7), first in rushing (401.7) and scoring (52.0). And thanks to a 12-game schedule, the Cornhuskers are the first team ever to crack the 600-point barrier, finishing with 624. They have been so potent that they have only had to attempt four field goals all season.

"People have heard a lot about our offense — and we do have a good offensive team," says Coach Tom Osborne. "But we probably haven't played a defensive team as good as Miami. Oklahoma has some great defensive personnel, but they gave up 18½ points a game."

Nebraska fields a troika of backfield superstars in quarterback Turner Gill, Heisman Trophy-winning tailback Mike Rozier and speedster Irving Fryar at wingback. Gill, who threw only 11 interceptions in 428 career passes and has piloted the Cornhuskers to 28 victories in 29 games, and Rozier, whose 2,148 rushing yards in 1983 is the second best in major-college football history, are considered Nebraska's best ever at their positions. The only reason Fryar doesn't rate the same laurels is because the Cornhuskers had an equally talented wingback named Johnny Rodgers who won the Heisman in 1972.

"If we're not disciplined, Nebraska will rip our hearts out," says Tom Olivadotti, Miami's defensive coordinator. "The inside linebackers have to be able to read their keys and react. The ends cannot allow Gill to be successful running the option, which he does about 12 percent of the time.

"When he sprints out, he's not afraid to put it down (run). Even when he drops straight back to pass, he can run the ball. And he can beat you with the run."

"The defense has taken it on the chin publicity-wise," says Osborne. "They've given up more yards than we'd like (368.3 per game), but they've done a good job at times keeping people out of the end zone (15.5 points a game)."

And the Hurricanes are no slouches on attack with their pro-style passing game. They are averaging 25.6 points and 369.6 yards a game (233.2 passing, 19th nationally) led by Bernie Kosar, a redshirt freshman quarterback.

"Put a darn good offense against a darn good defense and coaches will take the defense most every time," says former Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian. "But there are exceptions."

This is one of them, says Parseghian, who terms the Cornhuskers "the most awesome offense ever assembled. I'll still take the defense, except if the offense is Nebraska's this year."

Underdog Status New To Donahue

Illinois Coach Mike White isn't cocky about being the favorite because the Bruins "won six of their last seven games when it counted."

It's a new year, though, and nothng counts now except the final score of Monday's Rose Bowl game between the Illini and the Bruins.

Illinois, making its first Pasadena appearance in 20 years, wrote football history by beating every Big Ten opponent to win the conference title.

After a season-opening loss to Missouri, the Illini won 10 games in a row and climbed to No. 4 in the nation.

"Now, we'll see how we deal with success," said White. "Don't forget, (UCLA) is the team that defeated Michigan in the Rose Bowl a year ago."

Donahue remembers Michigan was the underdog then, and his Bruins won 24-14.

"I would prefer to go into a game as the favorite," he said. "This year, the roles are reversed."

The reason is UCLA's 6-4-1 record. The Bruins, plagued by injuries early in the season, began 0-3-1, losing to Georgia, Nebraska and Brigham Young and tying Arizona State.

Georgia is ranked seventh, Nebraska No. 1 and Brigham Young is ranked ninth in the country.

"I know that people are saying UCLA's record diminishes the game, but I don't believe it," said Donahue, noting his tough schedule, strong finish and Pacific-10 Conference championship. "They think they've got a pigeon, but I'm confident our team will give a great account of itself."

Both teams passed effectively and balanced their offenses with good running games. UCLA's attack was guided by walk-on quarterback Rick Neuheisel, and Illinois' was engineered by sophomore Jack Trudeau.

The Illini allowed 1,034 yards rushing and made 84 tackles behind the line of scrimmage; UCLA gave up 1,797 yards rushing and had 28 tackles for losses.

"We've got to be able to establish some kind of threat with the running game or we'll have eight guys coming at our quarterback all the time," said Donahue.

That means the Bruins' offensive line will have to clear the way for tailback Kevin Nelson, who led UCLA with 829 yards. In the way will be the heart of Illinois' defense — tackles Don Thorp and Mark Butkus. They led a unit that refused to give highly ranked Iowa and Michigan a single touchdown.

"They've been able to win with their defensive unit although the offensive unit has the notoriety," said Donahue.

But, he also had two excellent runners behind him — Thomas Rooks with 842 yards and Dwight Beverly with 685.

Neuheisel — who began the season as a starter, lost his job to Steve Bono, then got it back when Bono was injured in the fifth game of the year — completed 69 percent of his passes for 1,947 yards. Mike Sherrard, another walk-on, caught 44 for 684 yards.

"If you're going to rate us, I think you have to rate us on the last seven games (6-1)," said UCLA tight end Paul Bergmann. "When Illinois walks off the football field they're going to say (UCLA) played a great football game no matter what the scoreboard says."

Horns' Title Chances Rest In Cotton Bowl

DALLAS (AP) — Second-ranked Texas meets No. 7 Georgia in the 48th Cotton Bowl Classic Monday with the Longhorns thinking about a possible national title.

"Both teams have a lot of incentive," said Texas Coach Fred Akers. "Georgia has the opportunity to play for a higher position in the polls. We feel we are playing the game for the national title."

The Longhorns are 11-0 but have trailed No. 1-ranked Nebraska since the first week of the polls.

The 12-0 Cornhuskers play Miami in the Orange Bowl the night of Jan. 2, hours after the Texas-Georgia joust, which starts at 12:30 p.m. CST.

Should the Longhorns win, they'll rush to the nearest television set.

"We're playing to win the national championship," said tailback Ronnie Robinson. "A 12-0 season would be great but it would not be as great as being ranked No. 1 after the bowls."

The game will feature two hardrock defenses.

The Southwest Conference champion Longhorns are tops in the nation in total defense and second in pass defense and scoring defense, and fourth in rushing defense.

The seven-point underdog Bulldogs of the Southeast Conference are 10th nationally in scoring defense, allowing only 13 touchdowns in their 9-1-1 season.

Texas defeated the War Eagles 20-7 in the first game of the season while Auburn downed Georgia 13-7 in the next-to-last game of the regular campaign.

Georgia has never defeated Texas, losing three times, including a 41-28 decision in the 1949 Orange Bowl with current Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry as the Longhorn fullback.

The last meeting was in 1958 with Texas winning 13-8, although Fran Tarkenton gave the Longhorns a scare.

"They're intimidating," George Coach Vince Dooley said of the Texas defense. "Their linebackers are like linemen. And their secondary people are like linebackers."

Dooley pieced together an excellent season although Herschel Walker decided to forego his senior season for the high finance of playing in the United States Football League.

Georgia is looking to improve its recent bowl record.

The 'Dogs have lost six of their last seven postseason appearances. They defeated Notre Dame 17-10 in the 1981 Sugar Bowl to earn the national title.

This is Texas' 18th Cotton Bowl trip and the 'Horns are 9-7-1 in previous trips.

Ironically, Texas and Georgia have identical records over the last three years — 30-4-1.

Schembechler Likes Role Of Underdog

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Coach Bo Schembechler, who has steered Michigan to victory almost 82 percent of the time for 15 seasons, finds himself in an unusual position in the 50th Sugar Bowl game — one he likes.

"Not many people give us much of a chance in this ball game," Schembechler says of his eighth-ranked Wolverines' battle with No. 3 Auburn in the Louisiana Superdome Monday night.

"We like it," he said. "The only people who pick us to lose when we go to bowl games are our own writers. This time everybody is picking us to lose.

"But we're not shrinking violets. We'll play hard."

Auburn, led by sophomore halfback Bo Jackson, is a four-point favorite to spoil Michigan's first appearance in the Sugar Bowl, a triumph that would give the Tigers their first 11-victory season.

Auburn, 10-1, also retains some hope of capturing college football's 1983 national championship, but it will need help.

Two unbeaten powers ahead of Auburn in The Associated Press poll would have to lose — No. 1 Nebraska to No. 5 Miami, Fla., in the Orange Bowl Monday night and second-ranked Texas to No. 7 Georgia in the Cotton Bowl Monday afternoon.

Auburn is riding a nine-game winning streak since dropping a 20-7 decision to Texas.

The Tigers developed their national power image over a three-year period under Pat Dye, running the an offense that has become a dying breed — the Wishbone.

"Dye's got patience and he's tough and he's good," Schembechler said. "He put that thing in there when everybody else was getting out of it and made it go. There are very few coaches who have the patience to take this offense and make it go, or the length of contract to do it."

Dye, likewise, has praised the coaching of Schembechler, saying, "I've been a fan of his for a long time.

"Coach Schembechler knows how to win," Dye said. "He's been in a lot of 'em."

Dye also says Michigan, the Big Ten Conference runner-up with a 9-2 overall record, comes as close to running a Wishbone offense as any team that doesn't call it that.

Schembechler says he sees Dye's point, in that the Wolverines do use an option attack out of the I formation, but adds that his team only option about 25 percent of the time and doesn't have the element of a lead blocker out of the backfield.

Jackson, the only sophomore on the All-American team, led Auburn in rushing with 1,230 yards. The Tigers also got 728 yards from Lionel James and 604 from freshman fullback Tommie Agee.

Senior Randy Campbell has been the steadying influence, accounting for 1,100 yards in an offense that seldom has turnovers.

Quarterback Steve Smith is the key cog in the Michigan attack, having passed for 1,295 yards and 13 touchdowns and rushed for another 653 yards and nine scores.

The Sugar Bowl is set for an 8 p.m. EST kickoff in the 72-degree weather of the indoor arena, and the game will be televised nationally (ABC).

'War-r-r-r' Cry At Sugar Bowl

Another took it up: "War-r-r-r."

Others joined in, and it was a chorus along a chilly block of the French Quarter: "War-r-r-r."

Then, a collective deep breath and all together in a roar: "Eagle."

It's the traditional battle cry of 3rd-ranked Auburn, officially nicknamed Tigers, and also known as the Plainsmen because of the topography of the Alabama region where the school is located.

Auburn meets 8th-ranked Michigan Monday in the 50th Sugar Bowl.

How did the Tigers-Plainsmen begin using the cry "War Eagle?"

Here's the tale related by the school in the press guide produced for reporters covering the game:

"According to legend, football and the cry of "War Eagle" came to Auburn the same day.

"It was February 20, 1892, the day Auburn and Georgia met in the first game of the longest continuous football rivalry in the deep South.

"The story actually began before that. That first Auburn-Georgia game was only the culmination. It began in 1864 at the Battle of the Wilderness in far-off Virginia.

"An Auburn student had gone off to fight with Robert E. Lee and his gallant lads in gray. He was with them on the worst day of the long and fierce battle.

"He was wounded, and when the armies retreated to their respective lines, he was left on the battlefield — left for dead. When he regained consciousness, there were only two living things as far as he could see, himself and a baby eagle.

"Brought together by their common bond of misery, the soldier took the wounded bird with him and nursed him back to health. When he returned to Auburn after the war, the eagle came with him.

"The student-turned-soldier came back to Auburn and ultimately became a member of the faculty. He was there that day in Atlanta's Piedmont Park when Auburn in Georgia met in what would now be called "The Game of the Century." As usual, the eagle — called War Eagle because of the circumstances under which he was found — was there with him.

"When Auburn scored the first touchdown, the old eagle broke free from its master and began to soar above the field. Auburn people looked skyward, saw the familiar figure and shouted "War Eagle."

"At the end of the game, which Auburn won 10-0, the old eagle collapsed and died, having given his all in pursuit of victory for Auburn. War Eagle's body may have died that day, but his spirit lives forever in the hearts of Auburn people who love to stand and shout "War-r-r-r-r Eagle" long into the night following an Auburn victory.

"The facts of this legend cannot be authenticated, but it makes a gopod story and is the one most used to describe how the "War Eagle" battle cry became associated with Auburn teams."

The press guide also says the mascot of the Tigers is War Eagle V, a golden eagle weighing 10 pounds and having a wing span of 6 feet. War Eagle V is 10 years old and has a life expectancy of another 40-50 years.

War Eagle V came to Auburn from Wyoming three years ago, just a few weeks after Coach Pat Dye made the same move.

Top Minnesota Preps Commit

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Lou Holtz, Minnesota's new football coach, has received verbal agreements from four of the state's top prep prospects to attend Minnesota next fall.

"I was hardly awake and he was raring to go," said Blaine High School lineman Pat Hart, after Holtz knocked at his door at 7:30 a.m. Friday. "He's so energetic. He said Minnesota had a locker waiting for me and I said, 'I'll take it.'"

In addition to the 6-foot-3, 220-pound Hart, Blaine's Tim Juneau, White Bear Lake's Dan Jones and Owatonna's Kurt Clausen have told Holtz they plan to attend Minnesota.

Holtz, the former Arkansas mentor who came to Minnesota two weeks ago, told the recruits he intends to have a winning season in 1984 and play in a bowl game the next year. Minnesota has finished last in the Big Ten the last two years and has lost 17 straight conference games.

Juneau, ranked No. 1 in his class, is a 6-foot-6, 225-pound tight end. He was recruited by Iowa, Ohio State and Wisconsin.

"Lou Holtz is half the reason. The other half is that I'm from Minnesota and I've always wanted to play at Minnesota," Juneau said.

Buckeyes, Pitt Renew College Grid Rivalry

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Ohio State and Pittsburgh, two perennial college football powers who haven't played each other in 30 years, clash Monday in the 13th annual Fiesta Bowl, with both coaches expecting a battle royal.

"Anytime you get a football team from Ohio playing one from Pennsylvania on any level, you know you're going to have a brawl on your hands," said Pitt Coach Foge Fazio, whose 15th-ranked Panthers put their 8-2-1 record on line against the 14th-ranked Buckeyes, who are 8-3.

"We know all about them and they know all about us. They're the best team we'll play all year and it's going to be a great football game," added Fazio. "I recall seeing them play earlier this year against Oklahoma and I never thought we'd end up playing them in a bowl game. I thought they'd be in the Rose Bowl."

So did Ohio State Coach Earle Bruce, whose squad was the Big Ten Conference preseason favorite. But road losses to Iowa (20-14), Illinois (17-13) and Michigan (24-21) dropped the Buckeyes into fourth place and the Fiesta picture.

"It's a new year, a new game, a new opponent and a new challenge," said Bruce. "But when I look at Pitt, they are in the same class of the three teams that beat us this year."

The Panthers, picked to finish 4-7 by some, instead went on with sophomore quarterback John Congemi, who took over when junior John Cummings broke his collarbone in the season-opener's first play from scrimmage.

Congemi completed 139 of 242 passes for 1,599 yards and 14 touchdowns with one interception and is within 100 yards of sixth place on the school's all-time single-season yardage statistics.

"We have an inexperienced team. But after you get through 11 games, you can't say that anymore," said the 44-year-old Fazio, whose first Pitt team had a 9-3 record in 1982 and suffered a 7-3 Cotton Bowl loss to Southern Methodist. "Some of our players have been to three bowls, but they've never started. That's why they're so excited for this game."

Ohio State holds a 13-4-1 edge over Pitt in the all-time series dating back to 1929, including a 26-0 victory in their last meeting in 1954.

Bruce, 52, has a 46-13 record in five years with the Buckeyes and guided them to a 41-17 win over Brigham Young in last year's Holiday Bowl.

This season, Ohio State has been led by junior quarterback Mike Tomczak and sophomore tailback Keith Byars. Tomczak has completed 116 of 205 passes for 1,716 yards and 12 touchdowns despite a dozen interceptions, while the 240-pound Byars has rushed for 1,126 yards and 19 touchdowns on 207 carries.

"Tomczak's one of the most underrated quarterbacks I've seen," said Fazio. "He can throw well. He runs well. He just never gets the publicity some of the other guys get. Byars is a Pete Johnson-type of running back. They can control that football.

"I have a lot of respect for their team and Earle Bruce," added Fazio. "No matter where Earle has been, he's won and won big. I think he should be up there in the same light as Joe Paterno."

Paterno has taken Penn State to three Fiesta Bowls and the Nittany Lions have won them all — including a 31-19 victory over Ohio State and Bruce in 1980.

Pittsburgh lost to Arizona State 28-7 in the 1973 Fiesta Bowl and beat Arizona 16-10 in 1979 — both times under Jackie Sherrill, with Fazio serving as an assistant coach.

State Women Thump Pirates

FAYETTEVILLE — The Lady Wolfpack of N.C. State outscored East Carolina 23-0 over a span of 8:35 and went on to take a 72-41 victory Friday in the opening game of the City Of Dogwood Classic women's basketball doubleheader.

Priscilla Adams led the 13th-ranked Wolfpack with 12 points, while Sylvia Bragg and Lisa Squirewell had 10 each for East Carolina. N.C. State improved its record to 6-1 with the win, and ECU slipped to 5-4.

"We didn't play well — not near to our capacity," ECU Coach Cathy Andruzzi said. "Our inside game was nonexistant. They were trying hard, but we just couldn't produce.

"We did not take our time. When our first shot was not there, we didn't look for our second and third options. (Shooting) 12 percent in the first half is ridiculous."

ECU held a 6-2 lead just over three minutes into the contest, but State rallied to knot the score at 6-6 with 15:02 left in the half and never relinquished the lead.

The score remained close over the next seven minutes, and the Lady Wolfpack led 15-11 with 7:35 till intermission. But East Carolina went cold — dead cold — and State raced to a 34-11 halftime advantage.

NCSU scored four more to open the second half before the Lady Pirates got on the board again.

On the night, ECU shot just 31 percent from the floor while being out-rebounded 54-33.

"I thought the refs lost control of the game, which upset our kids," Andruzzi said. "When we tried to go inside, we got no calls.

FSU Crushes Heels, 28-3

ATLANTA (AP) — Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden found no redemption in the Seminoles' decisive Peach Bowl victory over North Carolina, but he did discover a quarterback and a defense that was missing most of the season.

Bowden gave sophomore quarterback Eric Thomas his first collegiate start and the youngster from Valdosta, Ga., responded with a pair of first quarter touchdown passes to Weegie Thompson, then scored the Seminoles' final touchdown in the 28-3 victory over the Tar Heels in the nationally televised contest Friday.

Despite the triumph that raised Florida State's record to 7-5, Bowden's immediate thoughts lingered on the Seminoles' final regular season game, a 53-14 embarrassment to state-rival Florida.

"This was a great win for us but there's no way we could have redeemed ourselves from that Florida game," he said. "It did help though to do it on national television."

"Those people out there watching the game don't remember that Florida game like we do. They don't hate the Gators like we do," he said.

"Our 6-5 season is still disappointing to me, but this helped a little bit. This leaves a good taste in your mouth," Bowden said.

Thomas and a defense that had allowed 309 points during the regular season, also left Bowden with a good taste.

"Our defensive staff did a heck of a job preparing for this game. We came up here and decided to simplify everything and execute," Bowden said. "You have to play great defense to hold a team like North Carolina to three points."

The defense, which held North Carolina to 196 yards, was led by senior tackle Alphonso Carreker, who was named the game's outstanding defensive player, and senior linebacker Ken Roe.

Thomas, who completed seven of 13 passes for 99 yards, including the TD tosses of 18 and 15 yards to Thompson, also ran for 41 yards on 13 carries and the 1-yard touchdown. Roosevelt Snipes also scored on a 1-yard run for Florida State, which led 21-0 at the half.

"Eric Thomas did an outstanding job. The guy is a winner. He always has been. He won all the way through high school," said Bowden of the 6-foot, 190-pounder, who had played sparingly in three games this season. He completed three of eight passes for 51 yards and rushed for 24 yards on 10 attempts.

Starting quarterback Kelley Lowery went out with a dislocated knee in the eighth game of the season, and Bowden decided to test Thomas, instead of Bob Davis, who started Florida State's other three games.

"This will send us into the spring with two quarterbacks who have been to war," Bowden said.

North Carolina Coach Dick Crum said his 8-4 Tar Heels "self-destructed" in the first half.

"You can't do that and beat a team like Florida State," he said.

North Carolina fell behind 14-0 less than eight minutes into the game and never could mount an offense, managing 85 yards in the opening half.

The Tar Heels' only score came early in the final period when Brooks Barwick booted a 36-yard field goal.

Ethan Horton and Tyrone Anthony, each of whom went over the 1,000-yard rushing mark this season and ranked No. 1 and No. 3 in the Atlantic Coast Conference, were held to 30 and 27 yards respectively. Quarterback Scott Stankavage completed 17 of 39 passes for 150 yards.

Edwards Paces Rams To Tri-County Title

WHEAT SWAMP — Theodore Edwards scored 20 points and garnered Most Valuable Player honors in guiding Greene Central to a 57-52 victory over Ayden-Grifton in the Tri-County Holiday Tournament championship Friday night.

Greene Central managed a slim 9-8 lead after one period, but was able to forge ahead in the second quarter. The Rams outscored A-G, 18-12, and built up a 27-20 halftime lead.

In the third period, the Rams were able to inch a few more points ahead of the Chargers, running the lead out to 45-36 as the last quarter got underway. In that Ayden-Grifton rallied, 16-12, but fell short.

"They did a good job on defense in the last quarter," Greene Central Coach Lewis Godwin said of the Charger rally.

In addition to Edwards' 20 points, Anthony Thompson added 13 for the Rams. Both pulled down 14 rebounds each. Otis Barnes added 10 more points for the Rams. Ayden-Grifton was led by Calvin Peterson with nine points.

Greene Central is now 8-1 on the year and travels to East Duplin on Thursday. Ayden-Grifton falls to 6-2 and plays host to SouthWest Edgecombe on Wednesday.

Greene Central's girls eased into a 10-7 lead in the first period of the game and further extended that with a 15-12 margin in the second quarter. That game the Lady Rams a 25-19 lead at the half.

But North Lenoir turned things around in the third period, outscoring Greene Central, 17-7, to power ahead, 36-32. Veronica Chapman scored 11 points during the quarter to spark the rally. The Rams rallied in the final quarter, but were not quite able to come back, missing the game's final shot.

Chapman, named the girls' MVP, led North Lenoir with 19 points while Jennifer Wooten had 10. Antionette Wilkes led Greene Central with 14.

The loss leaves Greene Central's girls with a 7-2 record on the year, both losses coming to North Lenoir.

Named to the all-tournament team for Greene Central was Allison Battle, while Cora Faison made the team for Ayden-Grifton. The boys' team featured Edwards as the MVP, while Thompson was also named, along with Ayden-Grifton's Peterson.

Thomas Enters QB Picture

ATLANTA (AP) — Eric Thomas' performance in Florida State's Peach Bowl victory over North Carolina sets up a battle for the Seminoles' starting quarterback's job next year.

Thomas "did an outstanding job," FSU coach Bobby Bowden said after Friday's 28-3 shellacking of UNC. "This will send us into the spring with with two quarterbacks (Thomas an Bob Davis) who have been to war."

Bowden decided earlier his week to start Thomas, a sophomore, over Davis, who had quarterbacked FSU after senior Kelly Lowery dislocated his knee in the eighth game of the season.

Thomas, known as "ET" to his teammates, was named the game's most valuable offensive player. He completed seven of 13 passes for 99 yards and two touchdowns and rushed for another 41 yards and a touchdown. He had one pass intercepted.

Bowden's decision to start Thomas was vindicated early as he closed out FSU's first two possessions with touchdown passes to Weegie Thompson.

The Seminoles took the opening kickoff and moved crisply downfield, scoring on a 15-yard toss from Thomas to a leaping, 6-foot-6 Thompson.

"The coaches told me to just throw the ball to Weegie and let him use his height," Thomas said.

"On the second touchdown pass to Weegie, I rolled out and when I turned around I saw all those North Carolina players in my face. I also saw Weegie, though, so I let it go."

On the pass, Tar Heel cornerback Walter Black was hanging on Thomas as he threw the ball to a wide-open Thompson for an 18-yard score.

Bowden credited much of Florida State's success to Thomas' poise. "All he did was he handled the football team without making any errors." The one interception came late in the first half in North Carolina territory.

Both Bowden and Thomas said the victory was one Florida State had to have. In their last regular season game, the Seminoles were embarrassed by Florida 53-13. Friday's victory, however, didn't make up for that loss although it gave the team a 7-5 record. "How do you atone for a loss to the Gators?" Bowden asked.

North Carolina coach Dick Crum, who earlier in the week complained because he said the Tar Heels didn't get any respect, said his team "self-destructed."

"We put ourselves in a bad position in the first half," Crum said. "You can't do that and beat a team like Florida State." The Seminoles were up 21-0 at halftime.

The Tar Heels ended the season with four losses in their last five games, after streaking to a 7-0 record and No. 3 national ranking and hopes of a New Year's Day bowl game.

But senior UNC running back Tyrone Anthony said he thought the way the team finished the season will help next year.

Elmassian To Minn.

Elmassian earlier had talked with Holtz about taking a job on his staff at Arkansas before the Razorback coach left that school two weeks ago. Holtz then hired the 32-year-old native of Cambridge, Mass., as a member of his new staff.

Elmassian came to East Carolina only a year ago from Ferrum College in Virginia, having coached there for three years. His earlier coaching experience was at William & Mary and Richmond.

A graduate of Ferrum and William & Mary, Elmassian played collegiate football at both schools after playing his high school ball at Wellesley High in Wellesley, Mass.

"I think it's a situation that's a challenge, just like it was coming here," Elmassian said. "It's a difficult situation, leaving the people here at East Carolina. They are not only my coaching peers, but my friends. I played for Coach Holtz (at W&M) and this will mean I've worked for all three coaches I played under."

Elmassian will work with the defensive backfield at Minnesota and will leave Greenville on Tuesday.

Peach Hits Ticket Goal

ATLANTA (AP) — Less than an hour before the game, Peach Bowl Executive Director George Crumbley announced enough tickets had been sold to retain the bowl's certification by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The bowl was in danger of being shut down in 1984 because of poor ticket sales this year. Under NCAA regulations, local sales must equal 40 percent of the 60,000-seat capacity at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium.

Crumbley announced just before Friday's nationally televised contest between North Carolina and Florida State, that more than 24,214 tickets had sold locally to meet the minimum necessary. Florida State defeated UNC 28-3 in the game.

Conley Nips North Pitt For Third In Own Tourney

HOLLYWOOD — D.C. Conley held off North Pitt in the final period to gain a 38-37 victory over North Pitt to take third place in the Conley Girls Invitational Holiday Tournament Friday night.

Goldsboro defeated Kinston, 59-51, to win the championship, while Farmville Central romped to a 65-49 victory over West Craven for fifth place.

In the opening game of the final day, Farmville took control in the third period to roll to its victory. West Craven inched out into a 12-11 lead after one frame, but Farmville came back, 18-17, to knot it at halftime, 29-29.

In the third quarter, however, the Jaguars took over, 18-9, and ran out to a 47-38 lead. They continued to pull away in the final period with an 18-11 advantage to win handily.

Kim Smith led Farmville with 13 points, while Cynthia Hart and Debra Joyner each had 10. Beverly Peele had 17 and Charlotte Smith had 10 for West Craven.

The win boosts the Farmville record to 5-4 on the year. The Lady Jags travel to D.H. Conley on Tuesday.

Conley jumped out into an early lead in game two and took a 13-7 lead by the end of the first quarter. North Pitt, however, rallied in the second frame, 15-8, and took a 22-21 lead by halftime.

Conley regained the lead during the third period, outhitting the Pant-HERS, 10-8, to lead by 31-30. Conley then held off North Pitt throughout the fourth period, never allowing the Pant-HERS to take the lead.

Mechio Kornegay led Conley with 25 points, while Alice Pittman had 12 and Delores Pittman had 10 for North Pitt.

Conley upped its record to 9-1, and hosts Farmville on Tuesday. North Pitt falls to 5-3 and travels to Aycock on Wednesday.

Among those named to the all-tournament team were Kornegay and Karen Barrett of Conley, Delores Pittman of North Pitt, Joy Peaden of Farmville Central and Doris Richardson of Rose.

Gibbs Sees Rams As Double Threat

By The Associated Press

Coach Joe Gibbs envisions a double threat when his defending Super Bowl champion Washington Redskins face the Los Angeles Rams Sunday in the National Football League playoffs.

"Some teams can beat you running it down your throat," Gibbs says. "Others go for the big play. The Rams have the capability to go both ways."

The Redskins won the National Conference East title with the best record in the NFL, 14-2, while the wild-card Rams, 9-7, advanced to second round by beating Dallas 24-17 last weekend.

In Sunday's other conference semifinal, the Los Angeles Raiders, 12-4 and winners of the American Conference West, meet AFC Central champions Pittsburgh, 10-6.

Saturday's games sent wild-card 9-7 Seattle, which beat Denver 31-7 in the first round, to AFC East winner Miami, 12-4; and NFC Central winner Detroit, 9-7, to NFC West champion San Francisco, 10-6.

The conference championships are scheduled for Sunday, Jan. 8, with Super Bowl XVIII on Sunday, Jan. 22 at Tampa Stadium.

The Rams' grind-it-out offensive thrives on the abilities of running back Eric Dickerson, whose 1,808 yards rushing and 18 touchdowns earned him Offensive Rookie of the Year honors. Revitalized quarterback Vince Ferragamo spearheads Los Angeles' big-play potential. Ferragamo passed for 3,276 yards and 22 touchdowns this season.

The Redskins counter with a somewhat similar offense, led by the running of fullback John Riggins and passing of quarterback Joe Theismann, the NFL's Offensive Player of the Year. Riggins ran for a career-high 1,347 yards and a record 24 touchdowns, while Theismann passed for 3,714 yards and 29 touchdowns.

The Steelers-Raiders contest marks the renewal of one of the NFL's toughest playoff rivalries. The teams have met four times in the playoffs, the last time in 1976. But this rivalry probably is best remembered for the 1972 playoff when Pittsburgh won 13-7 on Franco Harris' "Immaculate Reception."

Harris rushed for 1,007 yards this season, giving him 11,950 in his career, 363 yards short of Jim Brown's all-time record.

Who will start at quarterback for the Steelers is still up in the air.

Cliff Stoudt, who started all but one game for the Steelers, and third-string signal-caller Mark Malone have both been working with the first team offense during the week. Terry Bradshaw, who underwent preseason elbow surgery, started just one game this season and is considered doubtful to see action Sunday. Head Coach Chuck Noll said he will announce his decision at gametime.

Raiders quarterback Jim Plunkett completed 230 of 379 passes this season for a career-high completion ratio of 60.7 percent, while Marcus Allen rushed for 1,014 yards.

Dr. J Notches 25,000, Sixers Lose To Sonics

By The Associated Press

Julius Erving became the ninth player in pro basketball history to score 25,000 points, but his play, like that of the Philadelphia 76ers, again was not up to standard.

The 76ers, 21-7 for the season, lost to Seattle 97-93 in overtime Friday night, the first time they have lost two games in a row.

Philadelphia scored only 172 points in regulation time during the losses to Seattle and Denver, while Erving hit only eight of 29 shots.

"It was a great event, but it was unfortunate we didn't win," Erving said after scoring just nine points in the loss to the SuperSonics.

Erving came into the game needing seven points to reach 25,000 and scored six in the first half. With 5:59 left in the third quarter, he was fouled by Seattle's Jack Sikma and sank the second of two free throws to reach the milestone.

In other National Basketball Association games, it was Denver 135, Utah 130; Golden State 116, Los Angeles 105; Phoenix 121, Houston 110; Milwaukee 93, Portland 88; San Diego 99, Kansas City 96; Boston 114, Dallas 109 in overtime; Atlanta 109, Cleveland 98; Detroit 103, Chicago 96; Washington 91, New York 86 and New Jersey 118, Indiana 106.

Erving saw limited action late in regulation and in overtime.

"I guess (Coach Billy) Cunningham thought the team that he had in there would win the game," Erving said. "But we didn't have that explosive offense in there."

"We were not executing well at the offensive end of the court and we are not moving on the fast break with any crispness," Cunningham said.

"We helped each other better than I've seen us do in a long time," he said. "When one guy went to help another guy somebody else would cover his man, and we kept doing this the entire game."

Chambers topped all scorers with 21 points while Sikma had 20. Andrew Toney paced Philadelphia with 19 points.

Warriors 116, Lakers 105

Golden State upset Los Angeles at the Inglewood Forum as Joe Barry Carroll had 30 points and a season-high 13 rebounds.

The Warriors never trailed in the second half after overcoming a 43-35 deficit with a 26-12 spurt in the second period.

Nuggets 135, Jazz 130

At Denver, the Nuggets snapped Utah's eight-game winning streak behind the scoring of Dan Issel, Kiki Vandeweghe and Rob Williams.

Pistons 103, Bulls 96

At Pontiac, Mich., Detroit broke Chicago's seven-game winning streak as Bill Laimbeer scored 28 points, including eight in the final 3½ minutes of the third quarter to stifle a Bulls rally.

Chicago, which got 23 points from Quintin Dailey, cut a 14-point halftime deficit to one in the third period before the surge by Laimbeer, who also had 19 rebounds.

Celtics 114, Mavericks 109

Boston, with Larry Bird scoring 36 points, handed Dallas only its second home loss of the season by overcoming a six-point deficit in the final 2:40 of regulation and then outscoring the Mavericks 11-6 in overtime.

The Celtics, who haven't lost to Dallas in seven meetings since the Mavericks joined the league, won despite 34 points from Dallas guard Rolando Blackman.

Bucks 93, Blazers 88

Milwaukee used a 20-7 spurt in the third quarter to pull away from a tie with Portland en route to a home victory.

Sidney Moncrief scored six points during the spree, which gave the Bucks a 67-54 lead. Bob Lanier led Milwaukee with 22 points.

Suns 121, Rockets 110

At Phoenix, the Suns won their fourth straight game as Walter Davis scored 15 of his 35 points in the third period against Houston.

The Suns stretched a six-point halftime lead to eight in the third quarter and the Rockets, who got 28 points from Robert Reid, didn't get closer than seven points in the fourth period.

Nets 118, Pacers 108

Otis Birdsong hit 14 of 18 shots and scored 32 points to lead New Jersey to a home victory over Indiana that snapped a four-game losing streak.

Buck Williams added 17 points and 18 rebounds for the Nets, while rookie center Steve Stipanovich had a season-high 29 points for the Pacers.

Trying For Two

Freshmen Pace Indiana Victory

By The Associated Press

"I definitely felt that one official (Ed Hightower) was particularly poor," said Boston College coach Williams, who spent as much time standing up protesting the officials as he did sitting on the bench as his 12th-ranked Eagles were upset 72-66 by Indiana Friday night in the finals of the Hoosier Basketball Classic.

"Hightower was blatant," Williams added. "The other two did a good job."

The Hoosiers beat the veteran Big East team despite using four freshmen for the most part in the second half — Marty Simmons, Steve Alford, Daryl Thomas and Todd Meyer — and sophomore Stew Robinson.

"The real key was when we were up by seven, we had four freshmen on the floor and they did a helluva job," Knight said."Robinson handled the ball well against the press and he and Alford played well offensively. Simmons obviously played very well."

Another Top Twenty team was upset in tournament play when No. 17 Memphis State was beaten 73-66 by Iowa in the Winston Tire Classic in Los Angeles.

In other action involving the nation's ranked teams, No. 5 Georgetown nipped Nevada-Las Vegas 69-67 in overtime; No. 6 Maryland beat LaSalle 96-83 to win the Maryland Invitational; 10th-ranked Wake Forest crushed Rollins 112-74; No. 13 North Carolina State turned back Campbell 80-65; No. 16 Texas-El Paso stopped Alcorn 70-57; Iowa won the Winston Tire Classic by upsetting No. 17 Memphis State, 73-66, and No. 19 Oregon State beat Oregon 63-59 in overtime in the Far West Classic.

Simmons hit a pair of free throws and grabbed two key offensive rebounds in the final 30 seconds to help Indiana upset Boston College.Simmons, selected the tournament's most valuable player, led all scorers with 21 points.

Indiana needed scoring help from outside after the 7-foot-2 Uwe Blab got into foul trouble and spent much of the second half on the bench with four personals.

"We were trying to take Blab out of the game," Williams said. "I'd rather get beat outside than inside. Alford and Simmons are good shooters from the outside. Simmons, especially with that high arcing shot."

Top Ten

David Wingate's layup with five seconds remaining in overtime lifted Georgetown over Nevada-Las Vegas.Wingate, who had 22 points, scored all six of his team's points in the five-minute overtime to lead Georgetown's victory.

Jeff Adkins scored 20 points and Ben Coleman 19, leading Maryland over LaSalle. It was the 10th triumph in 11 Maryland Invitational outings for the Terps.

Kenny Green scored 32 points and Anthony Teachey added 15 as Wake Forest defeated Rollins. The Deacons raced to a 51-36 halftime lead and outscored Rollins 61-38 in the second half to improve their record to 9-0.

"We had some good periods of play and some other times we were a little ragged, but we're still happy with the win," Wake Forest Coach Carl Tacy said.

Second Ten

Lorenzo Charles scored 27 points and Ernie Myers had 22 to lead North Carolina State over Campbell. Charles hit 11 of 13 shots from the field and pulled down 11 rebounds as the defending national champions improved their record to 10-2.

Kevin Hamilton scored 26 points and grabbed 14 rebounds to pace Texas-El Paso over Alcorn State. The surprising Miners improved their record to 11-0.

Andre Banks and Steve Carfino scored 12 points apiece to lead a balanced Iowa attack as the Hawkeyes upset Memphis State. Craig Anderson and Michael Payne added 11 points each for Iowa, which never trailed.

"They are an awfully talented team," Memphis State Coach Dana Kirk said of the Hawkeyes. "They have top four or top five talent. We just didn't ring the bell."

Oregon State got key baskets from A.C. Green and Darryl Flowers in overtime and struggled over Oregon in the championship game of the Far West Classic. A technical foul on the Oregon bench, the fourth technical of the emotional game, allowed Charlie Sitton to hit two free throws and give the Beavers a 51-49 lead.Baskets by Flowers and eight points for Green in the last 90 seconds clinched the Oregon State victory.

Others

In other tournament action, Mike Schlegel scored 16 points to lead Virginia Commonwealth to a 61-47 win over Richmond's Spiders in the championship game of the Times-Dispatch Invitational.

John Devereaux scored 23 points and pulled down nine rebounds to lead Ohio University to the championship of the Siena Invitational Tournament with a 69-56 win over Siena.

Roosevelt Chapman poured in 19 second-half points to finish with a game-high 32 and lead Dayton to the Merrill Lynch Classic championship with an 82-67 victory over Oklahoma State.

Deacs, Wolfpack Roll; Marshall Shocks Tigers

By The Associated Press

Tenth-ranked Wake Forest and 13th-ranked North Carolina State won decisive victories Friday night, while sixth-ranked Maryland won its invitational tournament, Duke won the consolation championship of the Rainbow Classic and Clemson was upset by Marshall in Atlantic Coast Conference basketball action.

Forward Kenny Green poured in a career-high 32 points and center Anthony Teachey added 15 as Wake Forest rolled to a 112-74 victory over Rollins in Winter Park, Fla.

"We had some good periods of play and some other times we were a little ragged, but we're still happy with the win," Wake Forest coach Carl Tacy said afterwards. "It's fitting that Kenny (Green of nearby Eustis, Fla.) had a good game here before some of his hometown friends and family."

Junior forward Lorenzo Charles scored 27 points and guard Ernie Myers chipped in 22 as North Carolina State defeated Campbell 80-65, and coach Jim Valvano said the team is moving closer to defending its national championship.

"We're halfway to our first goal," Valvano said. "This gives us ten wins. I'm thankful for that. 1983 has been a good year for us."

While pleased with the victory, Valvano said he was concerned with his team's health. Forward Russell Pierre has a sprained leg muscle while Charles and guard Spud Webb have bad ankles.

Jeff Adkins scored 20 points and Ben Coleman 19, as the sixth-ranked Terps defeated LaSalle 96-83 and won the Maryland Invitational Tournament at College Park.

It was the 10th triumph in 11 MIT outings for Maryland, which has an 8-1 record for the season.

Mark Alarie scored 22 points and David Henderson and Johnny Dawkins added 21 and 20 respectively as Duke defeated Navy 90-79 Friday for the consolation championship of the 20th Annual Rainbow Classic tournament in Honolulu.

Duke hit 30 of 33 free throws in gaining the win.

LaVerne Evans scored 15 points to lead Marshall to a 63-61 victory over Clemson in the consolation game of the UNLV Budweiser Classic at Las Vegas, Nev.

Marshall, which now has a 7-2 record, scored the first 12 points and led all the way.

A layup by Clemson's Horace Grant with seven seconds remaining made it 62-59.

A free throw by Marshall's Sam Winley made it 63-59 before Vincent Hamilton of the Tigers made a layup with one second left to complete the scoring.

Nature Conservancy Acquires Roanoke Islands — The North Carolina Conservancy established a new nature sanctuary at the mouth of the Roanoke River near Plymouth December 8. The preserve consists of Great and Goodman Islands, 4,881 acres of riverine swamp forest in its natural state. The property possesses exceptionally high value as wildlife habitat and was acquired at a bargain price from the Lyme Timber Company of Lyme, New Hampshire. The purchase represents a major step in the North Carolina Nature Conservancy's continuing efforts to protect the best remaining natural areas along the Roanoke, which is North Carolina's largest and least developed river system.

Located where the Roanoke River enter the Albemarle Sound, the acquisition consists of Goodman Island and Sunken Marsh, which front the sound itself, as well as the major portion of Great Island, which lies immediately upstream and is bounded by the Cashie and Middle Rivers. State Road 45 traverses the preserve.

In a region that has been heavily disturbed by logging and land clearing for agricultur, the Great Island Preserve will offer important refuge for many species of wildlife, especially the Coastal Plain bear, which in recent years has suffered badly from the loss of habitat throughout eastern North Carolina. The preserve is also important ecologically because of the unique quality of its cypress, gum and tupelo forests and because of the occurance within the natural area of both blackwater (silt-free, acidic) and brownwater (silt-free, alluvial) stream systems. The blackwater streams and bayous are home to extensive and varied plant communities which are not elsewhere protected in North Carolina.

NCNC puchased the tract for the remarkably low price of $80 per acre and at a total cost of $390,500, which represents only a fraction of the land's fair market value. The North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission has provided the Nature Conservancy with a letter of intent to repurchase the tract with federal funds reserved for wildlife protection in North Carolina.

Deer Season Closes — The deer season for 1983 draws to a close tommorrow at sunset. From all indications, the season was a good one in Pitt and surrounding counties, with more bucks sighted and taken than in recent years.

For the small game hunter, there is plenty of hunting to come. Squirrel season is open through the end of January, with rabbit and quail continuing until February 29. The season on raccoon and opossum is also open through February 29.

Jamesville Earns Tie In Wachovia Race

Only one area high school is among the leaders for the annual Wachovia Cup awarded on the prep level for overall athletic excellence.

Jamesville's Bullets stand tied for ninth among the 1-A schools in the race with 27½ points after the fall season.

The Wachovia Cup award, sponsored by Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. and the North Carolina High School Athletic Association, is currently in its fifth year. The top four schools, one in each class, receive the cup annually.

All schools which finish in the top eight positions in the state playoffs, plus any ties, are awarded points. Where non-classified playoffs exist, points are awarded on the school's standing within its own classification and if there are fewer than eight schools from a classification involved, only those represented receive points.

Fifty points are awarded for a first place finish, 45 for second, 40 for third, 35 for fourth, 30 for fifth, 25 for sixth, 20 for seventh, and 15 for eighth. Ties receive equal awards of points available for the tied places.

Each school is also awarded five points for each sanctioned sport. Fall sports include football, soccer, girls' tennis, boys' and girls' cross country, and girls' volleyball.

Greensboro Page currently leads the 4-A race with 222½ points, followed by Chapel Hill with 220 and South Mecklenburg with 112½. Page won the girls' tennis title and football, while Chapel Hill took soccer and girls' cross-country.

Durham Jordan leads the 3-A standings with 130 points. Skyland Roberson is second with 125 while Enka is third with 107½. Jordan won the volleyball and soccer titles. Roberson was first in boys' cross-country.

Swansboro leads the 2-A ranks with 120 points. Randleman is second with 70 followed by East Caretert with 60. Swansboro was the top 2-A school in soccer and volleyball. Randleman was the football champion.

The 1-A race is led by Edneyville with 65 points, while Robbinsville is econd with 60. Cullowhee is third with 55, followed by Tobacco Belt member Creswell with 50. Edneyville was the top 1-A team in volleyball, while Robbinsville won the 1-A football title.

Steel Moves To Trim Costs In Catch-Up Try

By STEVEN ROSENFELD
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Big Steel took some more painful steps toward slimming down this past week in an effort to catch up with the economy's 13-month-old recovery.

U.S. Steel Corp. said it would eliminate 15,400 jobs by closing six steel plants and curtailing production at 24 other facilities, slashing production capacity 16 percent by April 1984.

Analysts said the steel shakeup does not appear to be over yet.

The cutbacks are an effort by the industry to compete with foreign steelmakers and with smaller, non-union steel producers at home at a time when demand for steel remains sluggish, said John Jacobson, an economist at Chase Econometrics, a private consulting firm.

"Now it is clear that U.S. steel demand will not return anytime soon to the peaks of 1973," Jacobson said.

Steel consumption has fallen from 111.4 million tons in 1973 to about 90 tons in 1983, while more than 200 steel facilities have been closed in the past decade, according to the American Iron and Steel Institute, a trade organization.

The decision to retrench at U.S. Steel was "unavoidable in light of global economic and market conditions in steel," said David Roderick, the chairman of the nation's largest steelmaker. "Everybody must be competitive. And if any of us fail to do that, any facility is in jeopardy."

But Frank McKee, treasurer of the United Steelworkers Union, complained that the plant closings demonstrated the "futility and foolishness" of the union's agreement to an estimated $3 billion in contract concessions last March.

As Big Steel contracted, the union's membership shrank, dropping to 750,000 from 1.4 million in 1978.

Analysts said two other U.S. Steel plants with outdated open-hearth furnaces remain in jeopardy — the Fairless Works near Philadelphia and the Geneva Works in Utah. Plant closings also are expected at LTV Corp., if the Justice Department approves a proposed merger of LTV's Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. and Republic Steel Corp.

But once the shakeout is over, analysts say prospects will be brighter for a more efficient steel industry that is expected to survive.

"This really opens the way to profitability ... not only for U.S. Steel but for other companies in the market," Jacobson said of U.S. Steel's action.

He said that if the economic recovery follows typical patterns, business spending for new plant and equipment should pick up in 1984, providing increased business for steel producers.

That would be a welcome change for the industry, which lost a record $3.5 billion in 1982.

This past year has not been much better.

U.S. Steel lost $497 million in the first nine months of 1983 and analysts predict steel industry losses will approach $2 billion for the full year.

In other business and economic developments this past week:

— The Commerce Department said its Index of Leading Economic Indicators, the government's main economic barometer, fell 0.4 percent in November. It was the first monthly decline since August 1982. Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said "occasional dips" are to be expected in this stage of a recovery and that the economic expansion appeared to be "settling down to a moderate and sustainable pace."

— Texas and Florida imposed embargoes on shipments of fruit damaged by freezing weather. Damage to those states' citrus crops is estimated at more than $400 million.

— Shareholders of Trans World Corp. overwhelmingly approved a plan to spin off the company's international airline through a distribution of stock to its shareholders. Trans World Airlines, which lost $33.4 million in the first nine months of this year, will become a separate company Feb. 1. Trans World Corp. will be left with hotel, restaurant and real estate businesses.

— Pennzoil Co., an energy and mining company, launched a $1.6 billion offer to buy 16 million shares of Getty Oil Co., or a 20 percent interest in the nation's 14th largest oil company. J. Hugh Liedtke, chairman of Pennzoil, said he wanted to restructure Getty and increase the market value of the company, which is three times larger than Pennzoil.

— Gulf Oil Corp. said shareholders narrowly approved a management plan to reincorporate in Delaware, a move than will enable the company to change by-laws and make it more difficult for an outsider to win representation on the board of directors. Gulf management's proposal was approved by 52.7 percent of the shareholders who cast ballots, according to a preliminary count released by independent election judges.

NOTICE TO OWNERS OF PROPERTY IN PITT COUNTY

The listing of property for tax purposes in Pitt County will begin January 3, 1984, and will continue through January 31, 1984.

Any person, firm, corporation or organization owning property in this county as of January 1, 1984, whether real or personal, must list such property within the listing period or be subject to the penalties prescribed by North Carolina Law. Property must be listed in the township in which it is located.

Persons who requested to list by mail should receive their listing forms early in January. These forms must be completed and returned to the office of the Tax Supervisor before the deadline of January 31, 1984.

Bring your social security number and your motor vehicle registration cards with you when you come to list.

Application for the Age and Disability Exemption should be made at the time of listing, but no later than April 15th. Once application is made and approved you will not have to reapply unless circumstances change within the household.

Owners and operators of parks or storage lots renting spaces for three or more trailers or mobile homes are required by law to furnish the Tax Supervisor of the county in which the lot is located, the name of the owner and a description of each trailer or mobile home situated thereon. This list must be submitted by January 15th of each year. Owners and operators failing to comply with the law shall be liable to payment of taxes in addition to a penalty of $250.

Persons having custody of taxable tangible personal property belonging to another firm or individual that is held for storage, sale, rent, or any other business purpose shall furnish the Tax Supervisor a report of such property by January 15th or will be liable for the taxes on the property plus a penalty of $250.

Delegate Tasks For Enjoyable Parties

By SUE HINSON
Reflector Staff Writer

The problem with having a party is that you never really realize just how much damage is done until you struggle out of bed the morning after and come face to face with the carnage — brimming ash trays, half-sipped tumblers of punch, cracker crumbs and clam dip that has taken on a slight greenish tinge.

So there you are, hair sticking up, wrapped in your old bathrobe, contemplating a colossal pile of dirty plates, glasses and a rug covered with enough crumbs to thrill a herd of mice.

The wakes of all parties are not like this, but chances are if you had guests over last night, you are now facing a similar scene. There are ways, however, to make parties more enjoyable and their aftermaths a bit less horrific according to Extension Home Economist Evelyn Spangler. "Delegate tasks. Have some friends clued in before time that you'd like some help quietly removing the dishes, ash trays, empty cups. And do all of the cleaning as unobtrusively as possible, otherwise the guests will feel uneasy. When the hostess is working herself to bits, and consequently drawing attention to herself, the guests tend to be self-conscious and not have as good a time," she said.

Staying simple is also one of the elements of a good party according Mrs. Taylor Anderson of Ayden. "Don't get too carried away, maybe have something easy like apple cider or clam chowder in a pot, crackers, some cheese, chips and dip, that will do just fine."

"Just stay simple, that's the key," she said. "Everyone always puts so much emphasis on the food, drink or whatever. Personally, I find that tedious. The people and the friendship are the important things. And you know, it's interesting that when there's a huge choice of food people don't seem to eat as much. I don't know why, but perhaps it has something to do with having too many choices," Mrs. Anderson said.

A couple of items that seem to go over well time after time, according to both Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Pat Burnette of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce are punch, small cakes (perhaps apple-nut), cheese straws, ham biscuits, cheese balls, meatballs and vegetable trays.

"Overall, those appeal to the men as well as the women," Mrs. Burnette said. "But I always have to be careful when planning a menu because I tend to pick the things my friends or I would like and that's not going to appeal to all of the men who generally like beef," she said.

Mrs. Burnette, organizer of the Chamber's recent Christmas open house that drew over 550 people, had quite a few tips for party givers from food choice to correcting your mistakes from past parties.

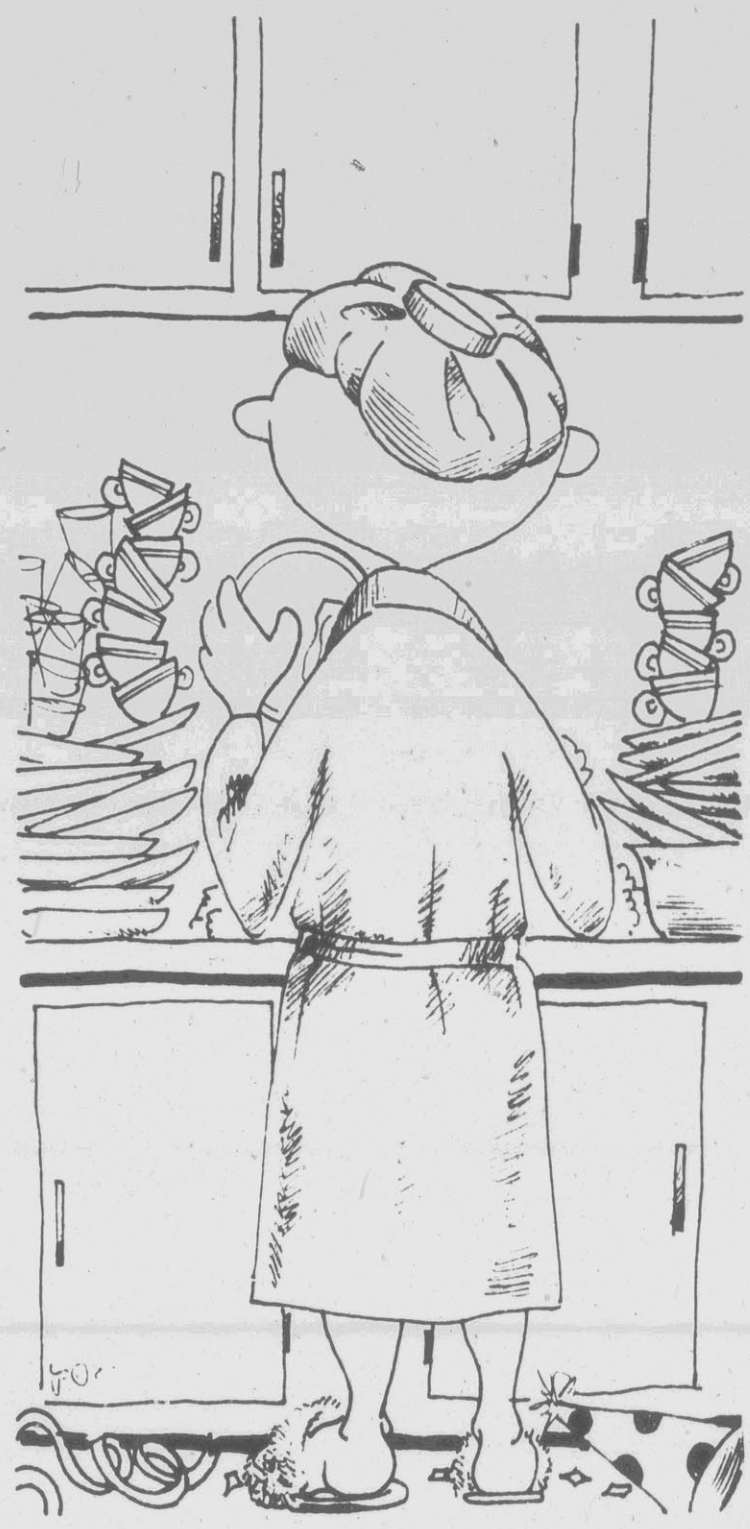

"Whether you're going to have a big or a small party, the main thing is to plan ahead. If you're going to have a theme, everything else will be based upon it, and of course, you have to take into consideration the number of people who are going to attend," Mrs. Burnette said.

With help from several friends and a local garden club, Mrs. Burnette spruced up Fleming House for the holidays with Victorian decor — a large Christmas tree hung with wooden ornaments, tiny nosegays of baby's breath and ribbons, white lights, and topped with a ribbon bow; the remainder of the house was decorated with magnolia leaves, fresh fruit, boxwoods and candles. "Since the house is of the Victorian period, we thought it would be really nice to keep the decor and the atmosphere of the house the same," she said.

But perhaps the most difficult thing to do is decide on what types of food to serve and how much, Mrs. Burnette said. "I just try to figure out how many I think will show up and then just hope," she said.

"Then after you have your party, either make a mental note or write down what went over well and what basically flopped. That way you'll have a good guide of what not to do and what to do the next time around," she said.

And of course, don't foget to use paper plates, platters and cups and set out convenient waste cans unless you are having a real To-Do. Even if you ignore all the other tips, the ones listed above will considerably cut down on clean up. Just imagine being able to get out of bed, drink a cup of coffee and read the paper without having to push aside debris.

Family Now Has A Better Life In Sight

By MERRELL GREGORY
Asheville Times

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — America's welfare system worked for Diane Riddle-Teague. Today she has an education, a profession, a brand new job and hope for the future. She still has one rough winter ahead of her, but by this time next year, she said, her days of being cold will be over.

"I've heard of people who came through the Great Depression and said they'd never be hungry again," she said with a smile. "Well, I'm never going to be cold again. All those times I've been cold, I would think, there's people out there just flicking a switch anytime they want to be warm. Well, someday soon I'm going to be one of those people who flick a switch, too."

Diane Riddle-Teague grew up in a family where there was always plenty of food and plenty of heat. "We didn't have any money left over, but we were rich," she said.

Diane was a high school dropout, a mistake she now says was a major factor in her years of poverty. But she had a gift for nursing sick people which was quickly recognized. She cared for her grandmother during her final illness, then for an older friend during hers.

She married and had a baby. The marriage was troubled, but Diane stayed with it. Her husband did not want her to work outside the home, and money was tight.

In September 1977, she had a cancer scare that forced her to examine her life. "It made me really stop and think," she said. "I was starting to discover me, and the fact that I had a potential to be a good nurse. I was still hungry to learn. And I knew that I was going to have to work if we were ever going to be financially better off."

She and her husband separated. She went back to school and passed her high school equivalency test with a few extra weeks of study.

During that first Christmas alone, and those that followed, she agonized over how she could get a present for her son. "I was trying to think, what I could get, and then it came to me, if you cut up a 2-by-2, it would be just the size of blocks.

"I'll keep this forever," she said, showing the handmade wooden tote box and blocks she made that first year. "I'll never forget, being down in that cold basement, cutting up boards for blocks and then putting the decals on them for letters and numbers."

That winter, she kept the heat off as much as possible to save money and bundled herself and her 3-year-old against the cold. Every morning the pipes were frozen and she had to thaw them out with a small butane torch.

Friends and some people she scarcely knew helped by giving her wood. "I'll never forget those kindnesses," she said. "There was even one man who brought me a load of wood clear from Yancey County. And several churches brought us baskets at Christmastime.

"I didn't even know there was such a thing as AFDC, (Aid to Families with Dependent Children)," she said. "When I did find out, they told me it would be at least a month before I got any help. I was really desperate. I went to the person in charge and then they were able to help me sooner."

Diane learned about food stamps and a HUD program that would help pay the rent on her home.

"I didn't have any debts," she said. "That's the one thing that's saved me all this time. But I had no car, no way to go out and work, and a 3-year-old to take care of."

But she was good at economizing. It seemed to come naturally to her.

"There's nothing you can't do without," she laughed. "I cut up my sewing scraps for tissue paper. Billy was hyperactive, so he couldn't eat junk food anyway. I remember going in my closet and working a little magic to get one more outfit out of what I had. People would compliment me on a skirt — little did they know it cost 50 cents at a rummage sale. I'm a really good seamstress; I could cut down a pair of size 30 jean's to fit Billy.

"I used to hear people talking about how they'd buy brand name jeans and shoes for their kids, and thinking to myself, 'I wonder what they'd think if they knew I got our shoes for 25 cents at a rummage sale.'

"But I remember wishing for Billy a lot, especially at Christmastime. I wouldn't want to get him everything he wanted, not even now, but it made me sad not to have even $20 to spend on him."

Transportation was a continuing problem, particularly since she lived in an outlying town. She had a bike for short trips to the grocery store. There was one year when a friend let her use his late model Chrysler.

"You hear about people on food stamps driving up to the grocery store in Cadillacs," she said. "Well, I was one of those people. That's how it looked. But you don't always know the whole story."

In fact, said Diane, nobody ever realized just how desperately she was struggling. "Mother had a good idea," she said. "Whenever she'd come over, she'd bring a stick of wood. And my sister was real good about making sure that Billy had a Christmas. But people didn't realize the position we were in. I wonder what they would have thought if they could have seen us all bundled up at night, with the heat off to save money. But I'm a survivor, and survivors are good at putting up a front."

In 1980 she started "climbing back out." She was again without use of a car, but got a job as a carhop about an hour and a half walk away, during mid-day hours while Billy was in school. Then her brother learned she had no transportation and gave her the old blue Ford that had been sitting in his driveway. "When he gave me that car, I thought, this is how I'm going to get back to school."

She was trained and hired as a night shift aide at a nursing home.

"It felt so good to have a check coming in and know it was mine," she said. "To know I earned it, and to have the hope finally that I could go farther.

Then she had an accident. "And it seemed like the end of the world had come," she said.

One night as she rode Billy on her bike to her mother's house before going to work, she somehow wrecked. Billy was unhurt. But her shoulder and collarbone were seriously and painfully injured. "They let me go," she said. "There was no way I could pick up a patient — I couldn't even pick up a broom.

"I signed back up for AFDC, and I'll never forget how awful that felt. I thought that was the end. There went my dreams. But good can come from bad. I think it was the Lord's way to get me in a different position, where I could go to school."

She enrolled in the CETA Program, hoping it would help pay her way through a one-year practical nurse program. She did get a short term job through CETA, but there was a delay in getting qualified for school.

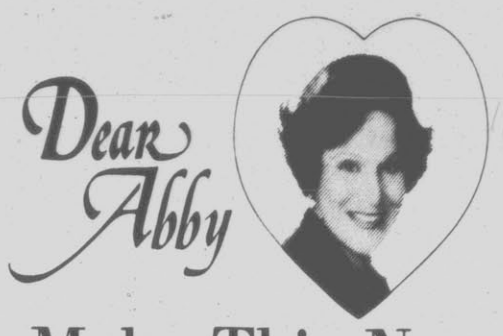

"And then — here's those programs again — I got a federal and state grant that helped me get my books and uniforms." She started school in the fall of 1982. Several months later, she qualified for CETA help. "And last winter was my warmest winter in years," she said.

Diane Riddle-Teague graduated from the one-year program in August. Her graduation coincided with the first oversupply of nurses in recent history. Few of her classmates were finding jobs. She enrolled in another CETA program that taught her how to write a resume and conduct a job interview.

Friends gave her a ride to Charlotte to take her board exams to be a licensed practical nurse. She did well. The day she came home from the exam, she saw that her mother, whose health had been failing, was extremely ill. Diane nursed her through her last illness until she died on Nov. 7. The next week she got a call from a local hospital for a job interview. She started the job last week.

"I'm sure there are women out there today who feel like I've felt, that there is no hope, no way out," she said. "I'll never forget the bleakness of it. But for somebody that's got the desire and the motivation, there is a way out. Their dreams can come true. And part of it is through those programs that people criticize.

"I won't be rich," she said. "But I'll be productive, and I'll be a nurse. That's what I'm meant to be."

Make This New Year Better And Brighter

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Last New Year's Eve you published some New Year's resolutions. I cut that column out and taped it on my bathroom mirror where I could read it every morning. I want you to know that it has helped me to become a better person. I am not saying that I kept every one of those resolutions every day, but I kept most of them, and they have now become habits that have made a remarkable improvement in my personality and character.

I hope you will repeat that column every New Year's Eve. I'm sure it will benefit many others as it has me.

NEVER TOO OLD

DEAR NEVER: By popular demand, my "resolutions" column has become an annual tradition, and here it is:

DEAR READERS: These New Year's resolutions are based on the original credo of Alcoholics Anonymous. I have taken the liberty of using that theme with some variations of my own:

Just for today I will try to live through this day only, and not set far-reaching goals to try to overcome all my problems at once. I know I can do something for 12 hours that would appall me if I felt that I had to keep it up for a lifetime.

Just for today I will try to be happy. Abraham Lincoln said, "Most folks are about as happy as they make up their minds to be." He was right. I will not dwell on thoughts that depress me. I will chase them out of my mind and replace them with happy thoughts.

Just for today I will adjust myself to what is. I will face reality. I will try to change those things that I can change and accept those things I cannot change.

Just for today I will try to improve my mind. I will not be a mental loafer. I will force myself to read something that requires effort, thought and concentration.

Just for today I will do something positive to improve my health. If I'm a smoker, I'll make an honest effort to cut down. If I'm overweight, I'll eat nothing I know is fattening. And I will force myself to exercise—even if it's only walking around the block or using the stairs instead of the elevator.

Just for today I will be totally honest. If someone asks me something I don't know, I will not try to bluff; I'll simply say, "I don't know."

Just for today I'll do something I've been putting off for a long time. I'll finally write that letter, make that phone call, clean that closet or straighten out those dresser drawers.

Just for today, before I speak I will ask myself, "Is it true? Is it kind?" And if the answer to either of those questions is negative, I won't say it.

Just for today I will make a conscious effort to be agreeable. I will look as well as I can, dress becomingly, talk softly, act courteously and not interrupt when someone else is talking. Just for today I'll not try to improve anybody except myself.

Just for today I will have a program. I may not follow it exactly, but I will have it, thereby saving myself from two pests: hurry and indecision.

Just for today I will have a quiet half-hour to relax alone. During this time I will reflect on my behavior and will try to get a better perspective on my life.

Just for today I will be unafraid. I will gather the courage to do what is right and take the responsibility for my own actions. I will expect nothing from the world, but I will realize that as I give to the world, the world will give to me.

P.S. Have a happy, healthy New Year. And pray for peace!

LOVE, ABBY

Menu Features Unusual Dish Of Spaghetti

By TOM HOGE
AP Wine And Food Writer

Mention spaghetti and many of us think of pasta with a tomato sauce, or possibly such mixtures as minced clams or mushrooms and garlic.

But how about spaghetti blended with ripe olives, anchovies, capers, fresh tomatoes and spices? I recently tried this intriguing dish called Spaghetti Puttanesca at Zi Peppe, a cozy bistro in New York's Greenwich Village.

It is a favorite of Mario Manno, 32-year-old co-owner of the newborn inn, which goes in heavily for pastas and other Italian favorites.

"Maybe I'm prejudiced since about 95 percent of what I eat consists of pasta in one form or another," said Manno as we sat down to a steaming platter of Puttanesca.

"We plan to specialize here in the food of southern Italy, which goes in heavily for pasta," he said. "But there will be other attractions.

"I have found that Americans are fond of many Italian dishes, like stuffed mushrooms, eggplant with an Italian sauce and squid with a hot dressing."

Manno got his grounding working as a waiter in Italian restaurants around New York for the past eight years and became impressed with American patrons' overriding interest in spaghetti and other pasta.

What some people don't realize is that pasta dishes are by no means identical all over Italy. In northern cities like Bologna they favor the flat ribbon-type noodles, whereas in the south they go in for tubular macaroni and spaghetti.

Few Americans are aware of such regional pasta favorites as agnolotti, or "little fat lambs" — rolls of pasta stuffed with meat. Other oddities are pasta creations in the shape of sparrows' tongues, mustaches and little boots.

Then there are the pasta dumplings known as gnocchi, which are made from a variety of ingredients including farina, semolina and potatoes.

Italian peasants often refer to the thick minestrone that makes up the bulk of their noon meal as pasta in broth, since the soup is so heavily laden with noodles.

- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 cloves garlic, diced
- ¼ pound black olives, pitted
- 2 or 3 anchovies, cut into small pieces
- Capers to taste
- 2 pounds fresh tomatoes, cut up
- 2 pounds spaghetti, cooked to desired consistency

Brown garlic bits in oil. Blend in olives, anchovies, capers and tomatoes. Cook over low flame about 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Strain cooked spaghetti and saute briefly with the sauce, stirring all the time. Serve with a green salad and a robust red wine. Serves 6.

Wedding Vows Are Solemnized

The wedding ceremony of Cindy Kaye Sandeford and Wayne Neal Lewis was solemnized Saturday afternoon at two o'clock in the Immanuel Baptist Church. Conducting the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Nathan Hanchey, uncle of the bridegroom of Newton Grove.

Sylvia McCreary of Washington and Rita Dixon of Greenville, pianist, presented the wedding music. Joe Collins of Wake Forest sang "What a Difference You've Made in my Life," "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Parents of the couple are Ms. Pauline Sandeford of Greenville and John C. Sandeford of Columbia, S.C., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lewis of Greenville.

The maid of honor was Debbie N. Hudson of Greenville. Bridesmaids included Kimberly Bennett of Triplett, Va., cousin of the bride, Beth and Jan Wheless of Greenville and Jamie Rich of Leland.

Flower girls were Kristen Riggs of Ayden, niece of the bride, and Laura Hubbard of Roanoke Rapids, cousin of the bride.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers included Charles A. Lewis Jr. and Tony Lewis, brothers of the bridegroom, Jim Ensor and David Williams, all of Greenville. The ring bearer was Brian Allen of Triplett, Va., cousin of the bride.

The bride wore a formal gown of white organza over peau de soie designed with a high neckline encircled with silk Venise lace. The fitted bodice was enhanced with a sheer organza yoke outlined in beaded silk Venise lace. Chantilly lace and silk Venise lace accentuated the modified natural waistline. The sheer bishop styled sleeves featured appliques of chantilly lace beaded with sequins and finished with matching lace cuffs. The skirt and train were edged at the hemline in a ruffled flounce of organza accented with chantilly lace and floral appliques centered with iridescent sequins. She wore a fingertip pencil edged illusion veil trimmed in appliques of silk Venise lace. It was attached to a Camelot headpiece overlaid in silk Venise lace beaded with pearls. The bride carried a cascade of silk burgundy roses and forget me knots, dusty rose and white miniature carnations and stephanotis with fern tied with white satin ribbons and streamers.

MRS. WAYNE NEAL LEWIS

The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore formal gowns of burgundy chiffon over taffeta fashioned with rolled fabric straps with a fitted bodice trimmed in pleated chiffon. The modified natural waistline was enhanced by a corded tie belt. The gathered skirt featured tiers of pleated chiffon at the hemline. A sheer bolero jacket complemented the dresses. They wore derby styled braid hats in burgundy trimmed in matching illusion and silk flowers.

The honor attendant carried a colonial bouquet of silk burgundy and white roses, miniature carnations, forget me knots with white caspia and greenery with rose velvet ribbon and streamers. The bouquets of the bridesmaids were tied with burgundy velvet ribbons.

The flower girls each wore a formal gown of white organza designed with a high ruffled neckline and chantilly lace yoke with long sheer puffed sleeves. They wore silk flower halos of burgundy and daphne rose. Each carried a white satin basket filled with burgundy roses and miniature white carnations.

The mother of the bride wore a formal gown of daphne rose georgette designed with a high neckline. The mother of the bridegroom selected a cotillion blue gown of lustreglo styled with a V-neckline. Both wore a white orchid corsage.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall. The Rev. and Mrs. Hugh Burlington greeted guests. Lisa Dickerson, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest register. Directing the ceremony was Mrs. Lloyd Bennett, aunt of the bride, assisted by Lynn Bennett. Cake was served by Judy Lewis, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, and Lynn Bennett. Punch was poured by Sonya Pruden and Beth Carlton.

The couple will live in Richardson, Texas, after a wedding trip.

The bride graduated from Pitt Community College and worked at Waldrop Acres Day Care. The bridegroom graduated from N.C. State University and will be employed with Rockwell, Inc. in Dallas, Texas.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained at a pig picking prior to the rehearsal Friday. A bridesmaids luncheon was held Wednesday given by Faye Howell, Helen White and Sylvia Wheless. Several dinner parties, showers and tea honored the couple before the wedding.

BALANCED DIET BEST

COLORADO SPRINGS (AP) — There are many misconceptions about nutrition and diet for athletes, according to Ann Grandjean, a nutrition consultant to the U.S. Olympic Committee Sports Medicine Division.

"Athletes, especially in power sports like wrestling and weightlifting, often believe that large amounts of protein will increase muscle size and strength," Ms. Grandjean said.

"Only exercise can do that," she added. "The best diet is still the well-balanced square meal."

Couple Marries Saturday In Double Ring Ceremony

FARMVILLE — Lynette A. Harris and Johnny E. Whichard Jr. were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at St. James Free Will Baptist Church here.

A double ring ceremony was performed by Eldress Bettie Rhinehardt of Greenville. A.J. Clark of Greenville presented a program of music. Sandra Lovett of Greenville sang "We Can Make It Together." Wanda Carmon of Raleigh and Wren Lock of Greenville sang "Lord Lift Us Up" and Ms. Carnon sang "The Lord's Prayer." The bridegroom sang "You Are Flesh of My Flesh."

The bride is the daughter of Ms. Ida Mae Harris of Farmville and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Helen Whichard of Greenville.

The bride was escorted by her brother, James Harris, of Fort McClellan, Ala. and was given in marrige by her mother. The best man was Walter Bolden of Farmville.

The bride wore a formal white silkened gown fashioned with an open Queen Anne neckline outlined in Venise lace beaded with pearls and iridescent sequins. The fitted bodice also featured the beaded appliques of lace extended over the waistline. Lace sleeves tapered to a point. The back skirt lace flounces extended to a chapel length train. She wore a Juliet cap trimmed in lace and carried a formal cascade of white carnations, baby's breath and greenery with white streamers of picot lace.

The matron of honor was Jackie Williams, sister of the bride of Farmville, and the bridesmaid was Diane Corey of Greenville, sister of the bridegroom. They wore formal light blue satin gowns with high ruffled necks. The sleeves tapered down with ruffled edges and had a matching satin ribbon at the waistline. They wore baby's breath in their hair and carried a blue mum with baby's breath and matching blue streamers.

The flower girl was Trevia Harris, niece of the bride of Farmville. She wore a satin light blue gown with a high ruffled neck and carried a basket of rose petals with white streamers.

The ring bearer was Timothy White of Farmville. The groomsman was Mickey Fields and the ushers were Jeffery Fields and Willie Baker II, all of Farmville.

A reception was held at the church in the fellowship hall. After the traditional cutting of the cake by the bridal couple, it was served by Annie Fulton of Raleigh and Willie Ruth Washington of Farmville poured punch. Jannette Harris, sister of the bride, and Teresa White, both of Farmville, presided at the guest register. Goodbyes were said by the mother of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Farmville Central High School and is attending Pitt Community College, where she also works. The bridegroom is a graduate of J.H. Rose High School and PCC. He is employed by Burroughs Wellcome.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will live in Greenville.

An after-rehearsal dinner was given by Jackie Williams, sister of the bride. A miscellaneous shower was given for the bride by Mary Grimes and Berlice Grice at the home of Martha Stokes.

Julie Stout And Carey M. Aman Marry On Saturday

HIGH POINT — The wedding ceremony of Julie Page Stout and Carey Michael Aman, both of Greenville, took place Saturday at 3 p.m. in the Emmanuel Lutheran Church here. Parents of the bride of Mr. and Mrs. May William Stout of High Point. Mr. and Mrs. Carey Wallace Aman Jr. of Roanoke Rapids are parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. Gary A. Perryman performed the double ring ceremony. Margaret Hearne played the organ. Sarah Hearne, Gary Warren and the church choir presented the vocal selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown which was made and designed by her cousin, Jerry Kidd, wardrobe master, Ice Capades. The gown was of ivory silk and styled off-shoulder with a chapel length train. It had seed pearls on the bodice and around the hemline. She wore a garland of silk flowers with a chapel length veil and carried a bouquet of orchids, baby's breath, ivy and roses.

MRS. CAREY MICHAEL AMAN

Susan Biggerstaff of Demarest, N.J. was maid of honor and bridesmaids included Kim Aman of Snowshoe, W.Va., sister of the bridegroom, Linda Clawson of Raleigh, Allyson Gordon of High Point, Jamie Klopfer of Atlanta, Ga. and Dee Martin-Hughes of Marietta, Ga., cousin of the bride.

Best men were the father of the bridegroom and Scott Aman of Roanoke Rapids, brother of the bridegroom. Jason Kidd of San Francisco, Calif. was ring bearer and ushers included Tim Balance of Fremont, Bob Benson of Winston-Salem, Tom Pupa of Orlando, Fla. and Mitch Stout of High Point.

The couple will live in Greenville after a wedding trip to Disney World.

The bride and bridegroom are graduates of East Carolina University. He is office manager with A.B. Whitley, Inc. and she is a graduate assistant with ECU Alumni.

A rehearsal dinner was held Friday evening at the Top of the Mart in High Point given by the bridegroom's parents. A bridesmaids luncheon was held Friday at the Raddison Hotel in High Point and was given by Mrs. Bill Hylton, Mrs. P.A. Sedberry and Mrs. Howard Stutts.

A brunch was given for the couple Monday by Mrs. Vernon Ross. Several showers were also held prior to the wedding honoring the bridal couple.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

For years, I've studied the symbol of the New Year . . . a smiling baby wearing a diaper and a top hat.

What does it mean? A beginning of life? A time of innocence? A scenario for change?

Then it hit me. For years, I've been overdressed for the New Year.

I enter it with shoulders bent, swathed in all the ills of the previous year and when I can't wear it all on my body, I lug it along in heavy boxes and suitcases, kicking it along with my foot to make sure all of it makes it into the next year of my life.

Wrapped around my neck is a mantle of guilt, some of it going back as far as 1940. (Guilt for the time my parents gave me a savings bond for my high school graduation when I wanted a silver charm bracelet and I threw the savings bond on the floor. An oldie, but a goodie.)

The hair shirt of self-pity is uncomfortable but for years has provided me with enough ammunition to bring tears to the eyes of my husband and children. To discard it would be unthinkable. After all, self-pity, if you do it right, takes a long time to amass.

The belt of prejudice is an old one and encompasses anyone who does not agree with every single word I have ever said. I'd feel naked without it.

The large foot locker contains anger. True, a lot of it doesn't fit anymore, but I hang onto it just in case I'm caught short.

Adorning all of this are the jewels of frustration over things which I can never do anything about, but which I wear like medals to torture myself.

And of course, the biggest piece of baggage contains old grudges that I sift through each year like old photographs and pressed flowers . . . the critic who was unkind, the one mistake from a friend I want to forgive . . . the trust I gave a child that was abused . . . the harsh words from a family member that I refuse to forget. Grudges, many of them antiques, that I plan on handing down to my children.

Each year of my life, the load gets heavier and heavier to carry into a new year. Once, around March, I almost sunk, but stubbornly I hung onto every bit of New Years past.

Frankly, I don't know if I can face a New Year without my clothes on. I don't know if I can check into 1984 without luggage. Can I look at old friends and see them for the first time? Can I keep my eyes forward and not look back? Do I have the guts to emerge with nothing on but a smile and a top hat?

I'm gonna try.

Faust-Sutton Vows Said On Saturday

Mirinda Faye Sutton, daughter of Nat Sutton and Joyce S. Sutton, and Gary Stewart Faust, son of Frances P. Faust, all of Greenville, and the late Don Faust, were married Saturday afternoon at two o'clock.

The Rev. J.M. Bragg performed the double ring ceremony which was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and Kim Owens of Greenville was the honor attendant. Phil Faust of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride wore a formal gown of white silk organza over peau de soie. The empire bodice of re-embroidered alencon lace featured a high scalloped neckline and fitted sleeves of matching lace. The full A-line skirt continued into a chapel length train bordered with lace flowers. She wore a matching veil and carried a bouquet of red and white silk flowers with baby's breath.

A reception was held after the ceremony. Mrs. Frank Tate served the cake and Ann Garris, sister of the bride, poured punch. Greeting guests were Ed and Jane Walker assisted by Jodie Louya, sister of the bridegroom.

The wedding was directed by Faye Barefoot.

The bride is employed by Kiddie Kollege Day Care Center of Greenville. She is a graduate of Greenville Christian Academy and a gradute of Pitt Community College. The bridegroom graduated from D.H. Conley and attended East Carolina University. He is serving in the U.S. Navy aboard the U.S.S. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The bridegroom's mother entertained at a rehearsal Friday evening.

Dreams Turned Into Nightmares

By BILL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

ELK CITY, Okla. (AP) — The lights have blinked off across the far western Oklahoma prairie, and tumbleweeds kicked along by the cold wind roll unhindered across the scarred landscape.

And although the sign at the edge of town teases, "Get In Bed With Us Tonight," most of the parking spaces around the sprawl of motels remain empty.

Paved streets flanked by telephone poles and guarded by swinging lines that carry few calls run through a vacant field that was to have become a housing development. "For sale" signs blossom in the yards of hundreds of homes.

"Two years ago people were paying $250 a month to live in somebody's cellar, and they were glad to have it," says Terry Nichols, a convenience store owner. "They were sleeping on tables in the city park and camping along the creeks. And those who were camping and didn't have tents just lived in their cars."

But two years ago was when the lights on the dbilling rigs sparkled like jewels in the clear nights and the oil company trucks were backed up as much as four blocks at the traffic lights along the main street of this and other western Oklahoma towns.

Then was when the dreamers poured their life savings into the holes being punched as much as five miles into the earth and the jobless from nearly every state drove or hitchhiked in to seek their fortune in the oil patch.

But a mild winter, the slumping price for natural gas, rising unemployment in the gas-using Northeast and the collapse of Oklahoma City's Penn Square Bank turned many of the dreams into nightmares.

"The petroleum industry always cycles," says Rob Snipes. "We didn't cycle. We just fell off at the high point. The industry just collapsed."

"I had a lot of good friends who were millionaires, and now they're just hardly getting by," adds Nichols, who says his two convenience stores were stuck with more than $30,000 in bad checks and uncollectable debts as petroleum-related industries went into bankruptcy and the oilfield hands just drifted away.

It was a tough lesson for James Dupree, owner of Dupree Oil Co., a Clinton petroleum distributor. He estimates he is "doing about 45 percent of what we were when the boom was here."

Nichols estimates his business is off 75 percent to 80 percent from the boom "when you couldn't get into the parking lot." Back then, he "had 28 people working full time. I had two cash registers going and one person stocking shelves full time.

"Now I'm down to eight employees and my children come in and stock the shelves after school."

Sales tax collections for 1983 were running above the 1981 average. But, compared with 1982, business is down about 40 percent.

"Back then, the men from the oil companies would come in and say, 'Give me a carton of that and two cartons of that,' Snipes says. "Now they come in and ask, 'Do I really have to buy a whole dozen pens?'"

Despite the ups and downs, Elk City's main street shows few, if any, scars from the decline of drilling activity.

"Actually, business is just about the same as it was before the boom," says Snipes. "In reality, the boom got to the point it was unhealthy because people were just spending money indiscriminately."

One downtown building sits vacant, but that's because the store that had occupied it moved to larger quarters in a spanking new shopping center at the edge of town.

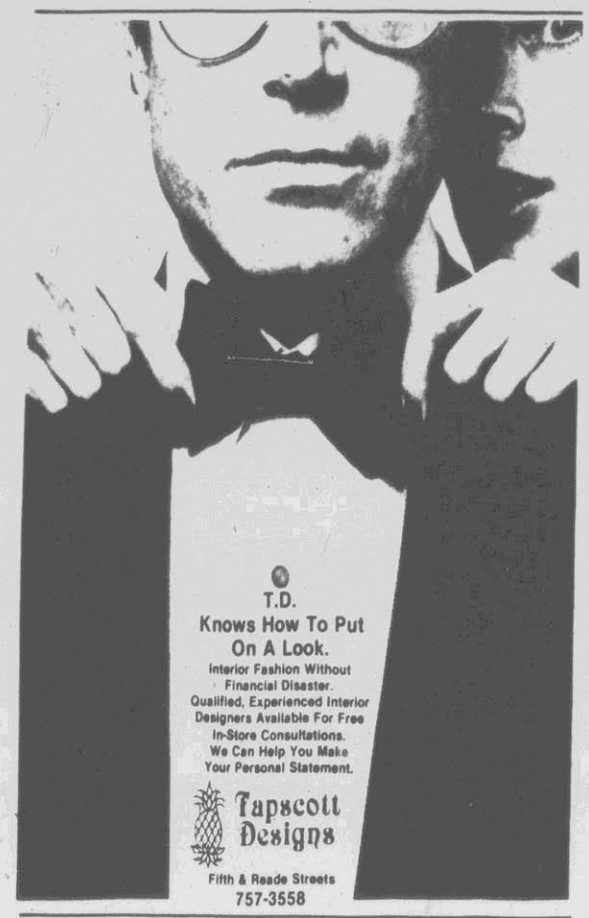

That shopping center, along with several new motels and the city's first fast-food outlets, are vivid testimony that Elk City isn't going under because drilling is down.

Community fathers have attracted one "high-tech" plant — it manufactures floppy disks for computers — and efforts are being made to turn Elk City into a regional convention center.

Beyond that, R.D. Meyers, a retired Clinton and Elk City businessman, estimates that drilling has rebounded to about one-fourth of what it was during the boom.

Although some companies brought in wells during the boom, many were capped and remain unproductive because federal regulations keep the price of gas too low to be marketed interstate.

"I don't want to sound callous and I don't want to see old people die in the cold, but we need a severe winter," says Richard Armstrong, president of Heritage Savings and Loan Association. "We need to get the gas reserves flowing to get the economy moving."

"How can you eat so much and still be so thin?"

Maybe you know someone like that. Someone who eats and eats, yet never seems to gain an ounce. Maybe you've wondered why you weren't so lucky? Well, it's not just luck.

Growth Hormone Directs the Body to Burn Fat.

Recent studies of the human endocrine system have demonstrated that an increase in the release of somatotropin, or Growth Hormone, can actually redirect the body to burn fat, over other sources of energy! But is there a way to stimulate the production of Growth Hormone in anyone? The answer is 'yes!'

Life Expander™ G.H. (Growth Hormone) Releaser

Chances are you've already heard about how certain amino acids—L-Ornithine, L-Arginine and L-Tryptophane—have the ability to stimulate body production of the Growth Hormone. By taking "Life Expander™ G.H. Releaser" you supplement your body's intake of these three important amino acids. Together they form a potent combination of ingredients which have been known to stimulate the release of Growth Hormone that directs your body to burn fat for needed energy. Obviously, a very desirable factor when you're trying to lose weight!

Weight Control and Reduction Without Dieting!

Because "G.H. Releaser" works by attacking the fat in your body, it's a totally different method of weight control and reduction. You can eat normally! You don't have to worry about special foods, calorie counting, fad diets or starving yourself. "G.H. Releaser" does the work for you!

Start Enjoying this Revolutionary Plan Today!

"G.H. Releaser" is designed to provide precisely measured amounts of the crucial amino acids which have been known to stimulate the release of Growth Hormone.

"G.H. Releaser" is one example of GNC's full line of "Life Expander™" products, all designed to take advantage of recent scientific discoveries that could add quality to the years of your life. And it's available now!

Columbus, Ohio Museum To Get Prized Collection

By ROBERT GREENE
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Columbus Museum of Art has begun a six-year acquisition of a $19-million private collection of paintings, drawings and sculpture.

The collection of Dr. Howard and Babette Sirak, who live in the Columbus suburb of Bexley, will change the entire character of the museum by adding a new dimension, says director Budd H. Bishop.

The Columbus museum is known among art scholars for the collection of early modern American masters. The Sirak collection will add a large number of impressionists, post-impressionists, cubists, fauvists, expressionists and other pioneers of modernism, Bishop said.

Although the collection is valued at $19 million, the museum will get the 76 works for $8 million, Bishop said. The remaining $11 million will count as a gift from the physician and his wife, who has long been active in museum affairs.

Bishop expects 90 percent of the money raised for the collection to come from people in central Ohio.

Although the museum will buy the collection bit by bit, the Siraks will hold the collection until it is completely paid for. Bishop says that's to keep the collection intact, which was one reason for the sale to the museum.

Bishop said the Siraks had begun collecting the artworks in the 1960s, and the collection had a thematic unity reflecting a process of self-education.

For instance, the Siraks bought a canvas by German expressionist Ernst Ludwig Kirchner depicting an outdoor bathing scene. The work was clearly inspired by Paul Cezanne, and the Siraks bought a Cezanne study that makes that point.

"The collection is very focused," Bishop said. "It's the kind of thing that even with unlimited time and unlimited funds is not coming up."

Many works in the collection add to what is already at the museum, Bishop said. The museum owns a 1913 collage by Spanish cubist Juan Gris

Between the additions and the collection already at the museum, the Columbus museum will have a good exhibit of art from 1913, a pivotal year in art history in the United States and abroad.

Another example of this rounding out is the addition of several works by Claude Monet, Bishop said. The addition will bring to seven the number of Monets at the Columbus museum.

Another highlight is the acquisition of 11 works by the German-Swiss painter and theoretician Paul Klee. Bishop says the Klee collection represents such a wide spectrum of the artist's total work that a student could begin a doctoral dissertation on this group.

The rare collection of German expressionists is a strong point. It includes works by Emil Nolde, Alexej von Jawlensky and Kirchner. "It is an area that is not as well-known (as other modern art movements)," Bishop said. "It hasn't traveled as well."

PBS Will Air Youth Series

CHAPEL HILL — The Danny Wilson specials, a dramatic television series for young people, will air each Sunday morning over the University of North Crolina Center for Public Television (PBS) beginning Jan. 8. The series has won over 47 awards, including four Emmys, the Peabody and TV Critics Award, as well as Ohio State and Christopher Awards.

The first of the series, "P.J. and the President's Son," is a modernization of Mark Twain's "The Prince and the Pauper."

Has Painting In Magazine.

Tran Gordley, an instructor in painting in the school of art, East Carolina University, has a painting of a cake featured in the January-February issue of a national magazine, "American House."

To Resume Story Hour

Preschool story hour at Sheppard Memorial Library will be resumed at the regular Wednesday time, 10:30 a.m., beginning Jan. 4. The program, planned for children ages 3-5, includes picturebooks, films, music, poetry, puppets and fingerplays. There is no charge for the program. For more details, call 752-4177.

Bergman Show Next At Greenville Museum

Carl Bergman, a Charlotte photographer, will open the newly renovated Upstairs Gallery of the Greenville Museum of Art, 802 S. Evans St., with an exhibit of his multi-exposure landscapes and cityscapes. The show will open on Jan. 10 with a reception for the artist, open to the public, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Bergman's work combines planned composition with the ever-present opportunities for accident and surprise. The artist has degrees in economics and photography from the University of Charleston and East Tennessee State University.

He has exhibited throughout North Carolina and most recently was selected to exhibit in a national competition at Cradle School of Art in Florida.

Bath Adds Mondays To Tour Schedule

BATH — Historic Bath Historic Site will join the 23 other state historic sites in daily operations and tours to include Mondays, beginning tomorrow, Jan. 2.

Bath, North Carolina's oldest incorporated town, became a North Carolina state historic site in 1963. Traditionally, it has been closed on Monday for maintenance activity.

the town's historic buildings, the Palmer-Marsh and Bonner Houses. The fee is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

The tour of Historic Bath begins in the Visitor Center

Under the newly adopted schedule, Historic Bath will be open for daily tours Mondays through Saturdays from 9 to 5 p.m. and on Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. An admission charge will be made for the tours of two of

Other places to be visited on the Bath tour include the 1790 van Der Veer House, some formal gardens, and a public picnic area overlooking the water.

Book News

By LOUISE PERRY

For exciting reading during the dreary post-Christmas days of January, try one of the new novels of intrigue and romance available at the East Branch of Sheppard Library.

Mary Stewart's newest book, "The Wicked Day," continues the gripping story begun in "The Crystal Cave" and continued in "The Hollow Hills" and "The Last Enchantment." This volume centers on Mordred, bastard son of King Arthur by his half-sister Morgause. When Mordred learns of his parentage and is thrust into the life of King Arthur's Court, he rises to a position of trust but is drawn into the web of plots and counterplots that are the climatic drama of the Arthurian legend. As in her earlier novels, Mary Stewart challenges the accepted legends. Was Mordred really a traitor or was he the victim of fate? Ms. Stewart's views bring tremendous emotional impact to the drama and makes for an exciting twist to a classic tale.

"The Children's Game" by David Wise is a novel of espionage with an ingenious plot that sweeps from Washington to the Swiss Alps, to a breathtaking climax at the Kremlin. William Danner, an ex-spy dragooned back into the CIA, must find the mole whose sabotage threatens to destroy the CIA. Investigating, he finds himself battling the KGB and a group of ex-agents fired by the CIA. When he uncovers a plot at the highest level, he risks his life to stop it — and to save his daughter and the woman he loves.

"The Time of the Hunter's Moon" is Victoria Holt's latest novel. In it, legend beckons a romantic schoolgirl to await her future husband in a forest at the time of the hunter's moon. When a handsome stranger appears, Cordelia Grant wonders if she is dreaming. But time will prove that this fateful encounter is most definitely real. Cordelia begins her life as a schoolmistress still dreaming of her mystery man, but finds herself persued by Jason Verringer, a dashing land baron with a scandalous reputation. As usual, Ms. Holt's heroine discovers that people are not who they appear to be — especially the two men in her life, one of whom is a murderer.

London Theaters Booked For Holidays

THEIR SHOW PRAISED — Teen-agers Kelly Pino, Frank Gomez and Judy Leak, hosts on PBS's "3-2-1 Contact" television show, have traveled thousands of miles in search of adventures that bring the excitement of science alive for young audiences. The show has been praised by educators, parents and the television industry for its content and method of presentation. (UPI Photo)

BY MATT WOLF
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Only one of the 44 theaters in London's West End is without a production this season, giving theater producers a reason to cheer.

Last Christmas, six theaters were dark, and at one point this past March, 16 theaters were empty.

Only the Astoria is dark now, and its previous occupant, a rock anthology called "Jukebox," closed just recently.

"The Theater certainly looks better now," said producer Michael White, who currently has Bob Fosse's Broadway import, "Dancin'" on the West End. "There is greater financial security, and people are beginning to accept higher seat prices."

White's definition of "higher seat prices" in London may surprise Broadway theatergoers, who are conditioned to paying up to $45 a ticket. Andrew Lloyd Webber's hot musical, "Cats," which costs from $30 to $45 a seat in New York, will cost Londoners $20.60 for a top ticket.

Since the average ticket price in London is $11.10, the theater is a major tourist attraction here, and the recent boom in tourism, fueled by the continued strength of the dollar against the pound, has kept the theater financially healthy.

"The tourist influx normally registers through late September, but this season, it continued into early November," said Nicholas Allott, a production administrator for Cameron Mackintosh, the British producer of "Cats" who has six shows now in the West End.

Vincent Burke, the development officer at the Society of West End Theaters, said that the organization also had been taking measures to make theatergoing in London more attractive.

Efforts are also under way to introduce combined ticket-dinner packages to keep a lid on the overall cost of an evening out, since, as Burke pointed out, the food-to-ticket price ratio in London is exactly the opposite of what it is in New York.

"In New York, it costs half the price of a ticket to eat out. Here, it costs double the price of a ticket," he said. "We're trying to bring both costs in line."

One show, "Lovers Dancing," is currently offering a pre-theater dinner at a nearby restaurant and a top orchestra seat for $20.15. Such arrangements are not nearly as common in London as they are becoming in New York.

But despite indications of general prosperity, one London producer noted that many current shows are running just for the holidays.

"I don't mean to sound gloomy, but I'd be interested to see how many theaters are lit in February once these current engagements are over," said Duncan Weldon, who is presenting eight shows now on the West End, four of them limited runs.

Student Auditions

CORAL GABLES, Fla. — The Drama Department at the University of Miami will hold auditions in North Carolina for students considering entering Miami University in the fall of 1984.

The auditions will be held on Jan. 23 at Holiday Inn Airport, 2707 Little Rock Road and I-85 West in Charlotte, from 3 to 5 p.m.

The drama department offers a pre-professional BFA degree with areas of specialization in acting, directing, musical theater, design and theater management.

High school students wishing further information about drama auditions are to call Robert Ankrom at 305/284-4474 or write to: Drama Department, University of Miami, P.O. Box 248273, Coral Gables, Fla., 33124.

1983, A Disappointing Year For Movies

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Movie goers seeking a varied menu at the nation's theaters in 1983 were doomed to disappointment. A certain sameness has seeped into the industry, destroying the sense of discovery that is essential to movie magic.

There were no splashy musicals, sophisticated comedies or good old swashbucklers.

Instead, the year brought a flood of sequels and remakes. There were lots of superguys, such as Sean Connery, Christopher Reeve. Roger Moore and Clint Eastwood beating up on the baddies. And it was the season of teen-age boys burning to lose their virginity. There also were spooks and horrors of all kinds.

But the year wasn't all bad. A conscientious reviewer can scrape together a reasonable list of 10 commendable movies. Some had flaws, but all offered degrees of satisfaction. Here are the selections of this aisle-sitter, more-or-less in order of preference:

1. "Terms of Endearment." Solid performances by Shirley MacLaine, Debra Winger and Jack Nicholson can be expected. The surprising thing was the brilliant writing and adroit direction of James L. Brooks, graduate of quality sitcoms. He guided the film through a mine field of cliches, providing one original scene after another.

2. "Educating Rita." Willy Russell's play provided a brilliant debut for Julie Walters as the brassy beautician seeking to improve her mind. Michael Caine was equally effective as her burnt-out teacher.

3. "The Right Stuff." Space exploration is the kind of subject movies were made for, and Philip Kaufman's film captured the sweep and drama of America's space beginnings. The one drawback was Kaufman's caricature of government brass, especially Lyndon B. Johnson.

4. "Yentl." Talk about surprises. Everyone expected Barbra Streisand to fail in her one-woman production. Yet she brought forth a film that was alive, endearing and lovingly photographed.

5. "The Big Chill." The most enjoyable thing about this film was watching the interplay of an octet of some of the industry's best young actors. Lawrence Kasdan's direction captured the mood of a bittersweet college reunion, though the script provided no dramatic payoff.

6. "The Dresser." Pyrotechnical acting by Tom Courtenay and Albert Finney made the British import immensely watchable.

7. "Flashdance." Despite an improbable plot, the film was totally cinematic and enhanced by an appealing debut of Jennifer Beals. Whether she danced or not is immaterial.

8. "Fanny and Alexander." The masterful Ingmar Bergman at the peak — and reportedly the end — of his film career.

9. "WarGames." The prophetic movie about a high schooler cutting into the U.S. air defense computer maintained a high level of suspense. Its best asset was the engaging Matthew Broderick.

10. "Zelig." A Woody Allen curiosity, fascinating in its strangeness. Only Allen would have the nerve and the talent to tackle something like "Zelig."

HANGING ON — A dried, folded leaf on the tip of a sweet gum twig clings to its anchor after all its neighbors have fallen to the ground. Just beneath the twig is a tiny bud waiting for the coming of spring when it will unfold into a new green leaf in 1984's output of foliage. (Reflector Photo by Jerry Raynor)

Actors Clash

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Those who worked with Lee Marvin and William Hurt on the Finland locations of "Gorky Park" expected a clash of styles and acting with the starring combination. They weren't disappointed.

Marvin is the battle-scared veteran of the South Pacific and Hollywood wars, a man given to provocative — some say outrageous — statements. Hurt is a New York actor — distant and introspective.

They play antagonists in "Gorky Park," Orion Pictures' release based on the Martin Cruz Smith bestseller and filmed in bitterly cold Finland and Sweden. Hurt is Arkady Renko, a Moscow police officer investigating the mutilation murders of three unknown victims near an ice rink. Marvin is Jack Osborne, a mysterious American moneyman suspected of black market dealings.

Hurt doesn't give interviews. Marvin does, speaking in bursts of wisdom that are sometimes more puzzling than wise.

"He's a 'hair' actor," Marvin said of Hurt. "For every new role he has to part his hair differently or dye it another color. ... My daughter, who is a student of film, saw 'Gorky Park' and observed that Hurt gets a lot of closeups. Maybe he needs them.

"We were doing a scene in a restaurant, And I noticed something. I told him, 'Bill, you're getting loud.' You know what? He gets louder. Now look, I'm playing the heavy, and he's getting loud. Doesn't make sense."

Marvin had even more to say about his co-star. "He's a dangerous actor, but he didn't scare me. I've always operated under the same philosophy: Know your lines and defend yourself."

Marvin, 59, has been defending himself in films since 1951 when he made his debut as a sailor in the movie, "You're in the Navy Now." He was the discovery of Henry Hathaway, reputedly the toughest director in Hollywood.

"I saw old Henry this year at the film festival in Deauville, where he was getting a tribute," Marvin said. "I was talking to a bunch of reporters when Henry came up and said, 'I see you're still making the same mistake — talking and not listening.'"

Marvin was in California to help promote "Gorky Park." He seemed eager to return to his home in Tucson, Ariz. Until a few years ago, he lived in Santa Barbara, Calif.

"I came out here because I wanted to work with the big stars, and I was lucky to do so," he said. "Now the oldies aren't here anymore, so I don't live here. I left Santa Barbara when the new breed of actors and the rock stars started moving in."

What does he do in Tucson?

"Oh, I go to the garbage dump," he said. "I go to the hardware store to pick out one screw; that takes about three days. And I wait for the work to come. When it comes, I hate it. I must admit I hate to work.

Hospitality House Today

WASHINGTON, N.C. — A look at the past year is on tab for Kay Currie's Hospitality House today. The program airs from 12:30 to 1 p.m. over WITN-TV, Channel 7, Washington.

For today's 1983 roundup show, Ms. Currie has selected clips from interviews with actor Jack Kruschen of California and authors Hope Mihalop, Louise Shingleton Shivers, David Stick and Clairborne Young.

Also selected are Peter Marshall, Dr. James Mathis of ECU, Beverly Brooks of Durham and Graydon Paul of Beaufort. The roster is rounded out with appearances by Steve Bryan, Helen Simpson and Abigail Trafford.

Other features on today's shows include a special from Beaufort on strange seafood, a father's day special, and closing shots of personalities including a senator, show people, circus performers, and music groups from East Carolina University.

Patterns On Mildewed Wood

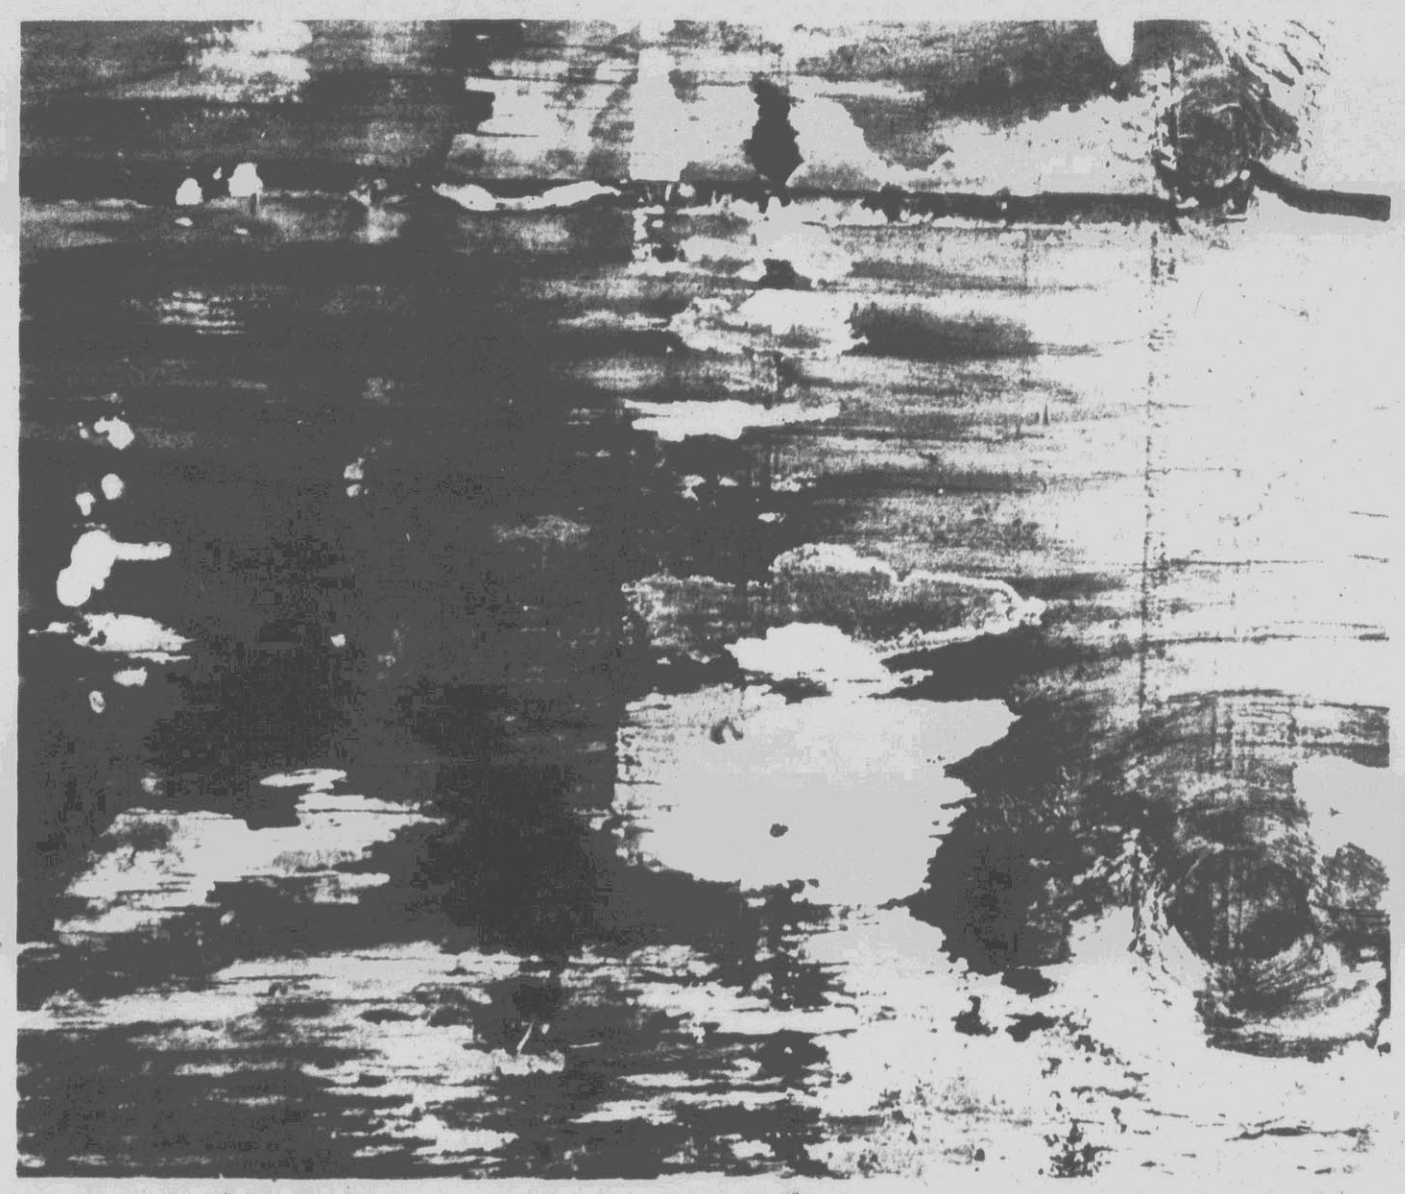

It's unfortunate from both the economic and time consuming standpoint when leaks make it necessary to strip a roof of moisture-damaged plywood that no longer serves its function to keep an internal area dry.

When such remedial action is required, it need not be considered a complete loss. A sheet of plywood that has been subjected to an extensive buildup of moisture provides a veritable art gallery of dark and light shapes created by enclosed lingering moisture, random shapes festooned with networks of orange, gray and yellow fungi and clusters of tiny mushroom-like growth resembling sea coral in shades of chocolate, gray and charcoal.

Nature's laws of deterioration of wood exhibits fascinating abstractions that can provide exciting new ideas to an artist or a field day for photographers in search of something different to record on film.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, JANUARY 1, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A wonderful day and evening for you to start the New Year with vim, vigor and the realization it's a great time to get right into making the arrangements necessary for success.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have fine ideas just what can be done to improve your talents and interests. Make new contacts of worth.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try to get your mate to agree with your ideas and plans for the days ahead and have greater understanding and well-being.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Know who you want to be allied with in the New Year and then get in touch with them and state your aims.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Even though it is a holiday, you get excellent ideas how to make your daily work pay off more handsomely.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Study talents which need perfecting and then you can improve them. Be with mate and good friends for happy socializing.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Have a family conference and decide how you can achieve more in the future through combined efforts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Good day to get in touch with those who can be most helpful to you and gain their good will and added cooperation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Analyze your finest talents and plan how to make them yield fine benefits in the new year. Get into quiet activities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study your personal goals and know how beste to attain them and contact those persons who can assist you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be less concerned with money and more concerned with ideas that can bring you finer results in the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Gadding about and meeting interesting personalities can be very inspiring today. Gain their respect also.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contact those persons in the outside world who can be of assistance to you in the new year and gain added prestige.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have tremendous vision and will also be interested in international matters and could easily spend time in foreign countries. Add foreign languages to the school curricula, as well as different philosophies of life.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, JANUARY 2, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today is excellent for starting your New Year right by getting into vocational activities and for getting the approval of influential persons. Fine time for organizing mundane activities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Work on the new ideas you were inspired with yesterday. Avoid arguments with others. Control your tongue and temper.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get an early start on organizing your work load and travel plans. Control your temper and gain the upper hand.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Talk over with someone how you can become more successful, and then follow their good advice. Be more understanding with your mate.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Try to please those you want as allies n the future. Rectify mistakes quickly. Contact a goood friend this evening.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Get your work done in an orderly fashion. Don't argue with a co-worker over some unimportant detail. Be cooperative.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get your important work done first. You can be with friends later. Don't be too stingy. Be tactful with your mate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't fly off the handle at home or you will get into trouble. It is not wise to keep entertaining. Be practical.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Use tact with allies, and don't make any radical changes they would not appreciate. Take no risks that could prove costly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ignore temptation to go out and spend lavishly; it is best to be economical. Make any needed repairs now thay get costly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't go off on any tangents; carry through with your plans. Be certain your friends are loyal. Take no risks with your credit.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Stop worring about things you can't do anything about. This is not the day to settle that problem with the one you love; think about it.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Look to an older pal for the assistance you may need. Make sure you are not too demanding with your wishes. Be tactful.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be someone who will have to learn self-control so that enthusiasm can be channeled in the right directions. This is a born trouble-shooter and one who will do well in organizational work. Parents should be gentle yet firm

Blocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has temporarily blocked rules that would restrict the courtroom activities of 17 special support centers for legal aid organizations.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell on Wednesday issued a temporary restraining order against enforcement of rules set down by the Legal Services Corp. The regulations, originally due to take effect on Sunday, would require the centers to spend no more than 10 percent of their federal grants on "direct representation" of clients.

Fourteen of the 17 centers moved to throw out the rules, arguing they were promulgated without public notice. Gesell said the rules would require the centers to drop many court cases in violation of professional responsibility to clients. He scheduled a Jan. 6 hearing on a preliminary injunction.

Home Buyers Still Find Frustration Over Costs

NEW YORK (AP) — For large numbers of Americans, the economic recovery of the past year hasn't resolved the problem of the unaffordable house.

The improvement in the economy that began in the waning days of 1982 has brought some undeniable blessings to both sellers and buyers of houses. Personal income is on the rise, while reduced inflation has slowed the rate of increase in the cost of most building materials.

But although prices of houses themselves are no longer soaring the way they did in the 1970s, they remain out of reach of many family budgets. Even more important, the era of the cheap mortgage appears to be gone for good.

"Since the 1930s, long-term fixed-rate mortgages have been the standard method of financing homes in the U.S.," notes the Real Estate Research Corp., a large consulting firm based in Chicago.

"The whole system worked remarkably well until the late '70s, when lenders found that high inflation and lengthy fixed-rate loans mixed like oil and water," the firm says in an appraisal of the real estate outlook for 1984.

"Actually, America was the last country to have long-term fixed-rate mortgages; as lenders in other countries discovered earlier, they simply do not make sense economically.

"In the U.S., small savers were the ones who subsidized the mortgage system because they had no alternative to 5¼ percent or 5½ percent savings accounts — even when inflation was at or above that level."

As long as passbook accounts predominated, institutions such as savings and loans could rely on a reasonably steady supply of money, and they knew precisely how much those funds would cost them in interest payments. So they could make long-term mortgage loans with confidence, at fixed rates a few percentage points above what they were paying passbook depositors.

This nice arrangement started to come unraveled, however, with high open-market interest rates, the appearance of money-market mutual funds to attract savers away from standard savings accounts, and ultimately the deregulation of most banking and other financial services.

"Needless to say, once you pay market rates on savings, you have to charge market rates for loans," Real Estate Research observes.

So far in the 1980s, the firm recalls, the whole business of housing finance has been in constant turmoil, with rates fluctuating widely and lenders introducing a bewildering array of new types of mortgages.

The effort to restore order has been helped, it says, by the growth of the "secondary market" for mortgages, where investors' money is collected in pools to supply funds for mortgages. Further progress would come, in Real Estate Research's view, with the development of a small set of standardized mortgage formats that would gradually become familiar to the public.

Whether that happens, however, Real Estate Research says anyone who hopes for a return to the simple ways that used to prevail in the housing market is likely to be disappointed.

"If we were once again able to produce moderately priced houses and condominiums with 9 percent mortgages, demand would unquestionably be high," the firm concludes. "But with those days gone, households are going to have to learn to live with smaller units, more sharing of housing space, and higher proportions of their incomes devoted to housing."

Computers Having Impact On Private Homes

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

Even those who do not own home computers may be benefiting from them.

Computers are having an impact on the American home whether or not they are actually present in an individual home, speakers said at a recent symposium on home computers sponsored by the National Home Fashions League.

Interior designers and architects are already using them to design homes and commercial spaces; retailers in many parts of the country are also experimenting with shop-at-home services.

Jim Tompkins, an executive with Videodial Inc., predicted that by 1987 almost 5 million households (or about 5 percent of American homes) would be using videotex networks for both shopping at home and obtaining information.

In the meantime, the use of computers to set up in-store gift registries is already well developed, according to Joe Ricevuto of AT&T Information Systems.

Computer-based registries offer improvements on older systems since they can be rapidly updated and can be programmed to make shopping easier, he said. For example, a customer might use the computer to enter the name of the bride or groom in a bridal registry, as well as the price range he was considering and get a listing of several appropriately priced gift selections.

Thomas Frank, marketing director for the American Society of Interior Designers' computer system, explained that the group has developed its own hardware and software specifically geared to designers' needs. ASID is marketing its equipment to designers who may save time and effort by using it to do architectural renderings and to experiment with the rearrangement of space and furnishings.

Jeanne Choffe, president of Electronics Marketing Service, said many parents were buying the computer for the children who were often the most knowledgeable about computers. She underscored her point by introducing a panel of computer experts between the ages of 9 and 15. Each of the youngsters had played an important role in the selection of the computer their family owned.

Ms. Choffee said that at present 5 million families had home computers, but that by 1990 it was expected 30 million families would be so equipped.

Judging from a recent report published by Consumers Union, the children in the family may be the computer's heaviest users.

In an extensive article on home computers (Consumer Reports, September, 1983) CU queried its readers for their experiences and discovered that among the 2,800 computer-owning families who responded, children between 5 and 17 were among the heaviest users of the machine.

The average family spent about 15 hours a week with the computer and about half the families who bought one found themselves using it more than they expected.

CU found the most popular uses for the home computer included game playing (69 percent), learning about computers (63 percent) and learning how to program (61 percent). On the other hand, only about a third of the families said they used the computer to learn something other than computer subjects.

One result of the interest in home computers has been an increase in the amount of information available to help people in the selection process.

Recently, the Electronics Industries Association published a 50-page booklet, "How to Buy A Home Computer," which points out that prices for home computers vary widely — from about $100 to several thousand dollars. Such a wide variation indicates there are many choices that have to be made in order to get what you want.

The booklet is a good first step in beginning to sort out the issues in computer ownership and suggests a number of additional steps that can be taken to become a wise computer consumer.

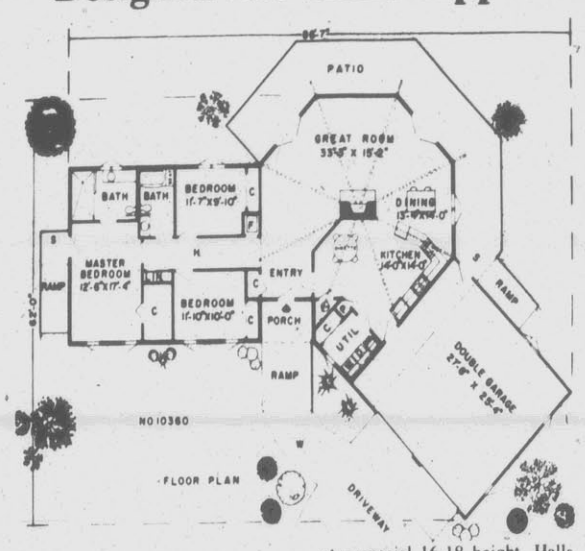

For a free copy of "How to Buy a Home Computer," enclose in an envelope a stamped 5- by 7-inch or larger self-addressed envelope with 54 cents postage attached and mail to Electronic Industries Association, Consumer Electronics Group, P.O. Box 19100, Washington DC 20036.

No. 10360 — The Catalina

Trim Plan Designed For Handicapped

By Jerry Bishop

Attractive and accessible, the Catalina is a three bedroom home carefully planned to provide both comfort and self-sufficiency for the handicapped individual. Features include ramps that allow entry to garage, patio, and porch, doors and windows located so they can be opened with ease, and baths with wall-hung toilets at a special 16-18 height. Halls are wide to allow a wheelchair to be maneuvered with ease, and the large shower in the master bath can be reached via wheelchair. On the exterior, the Catalina is an appealing home, with neat vertical siding, and a roof of red cedar shakes.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

A house is a place where there never is enough storage space. It is also a place where the lack of sufficient storage space has, in many cases, pushed the automobile out of its assigned area in the garage.

Strangely, the garage, even when it's apparently filled with both necessities and junk, is the very location where plenty of storage space still exists. The trick is to look around until the available space becomes visible. It's there. You simply have to find it.

In most garages, especially in the suburbs, the studs on the inside are open and begging to be used as supports for shelves. Attach the shelves to the studs any way you wish, the easiest being to place them on small wooden cleats on the sides of the studs. To keep things from sliding off, if that appears to be a problem, nail small strips of wood to the outer edges of the shelves.

In addition to shelves, small cabinets also can be placed between the studs. Just be sure that the few extra inches will not interfere with the movement of your car and the opening of the car doors. Most cabinets can be open, but if you plan on using a couple of them for the storage of materials that you don't want children to touch, put simple doors on them that can be locked. Even if you have no knowledge of carpentry, don't let any of this intimidate you. Precision work is not necessary, since the shelves and cabinets are to be functional, not decorative. When the shelves and cabinets are to hold something heavy, use metal brackets screwed into the outer edges of the studs.

When the studs are not visible, the most usual material covering them is gypsum board. In that event, it is easy to cut into the board and uncover the space you will need. Where there is enough room, you don't even have to cut into the gypsum board. Build the shelves and cabinets outside the board and attach them through the board into the studs.

A great place for hanging tools and garden equipment is on perforated hardboard, screwed or hammered into the studding. Some space is required behind the perforations so the necessary metal clips can be attached to them. The space is already there if the board is to be hung on open studding. If not, put a few horizontal strips on the wall, then attach the perforated board to them. This will create the needed space for the hanging of the clips.

Q. — There appears to be a leak in our roof, but we have been unable to find it. There are at least three places in our attic where small puddles of water accumulate on the floor. It has been suggested that we do not have a leak, but merely condensation. Could this be true and what is the cause of it?

A. — The fact the puddles are occurring in different places indicates it probably is condensation, unless by some coincidence your roof is leaking in several spots at the same time. It's easy enough to check. If you are getting the puddles when there has been no rain for a day or two, it definitely is condensation. It takes place because warm, moist air in the attic is settling on the cool underside of the roof. Insulation will keep the underside of the roof warm and prevent the formation of condensation, but adequate attic ventilation will not allow the moisture to come to rest in the attic, sending it to the outside.

Q. — An elderly neighbor says that years ago he used to put wedges under the outside siding boards to permit the house to breathe, as he put it. He says this allows moisture to esape and prevents peeling paint. We would like to try but want to be sure we aren't doing something wrong.

A. — He is right. Many homeowners used this method and some still do. However, moisture was less of a problem in his generation because there were fewer appliances generating moisture and houses were not as airtight. Small vents are often used these days. If you use the wedge method, use metal ones and insert them under each board where it is nailed to a stud. The wedges should not pry up the boards more than 1-16th of an inch.

Q. — We have just purchased some second-hand wicker and rattan furniture in very good condition. How can we keep it that way over the years?

A. — By keeping all the pieces from drying out. One way to do this is to wipe them periodically with a cloth dampened with lemon oil. Be sure to give special attention to the undersides. Dust everything as well as oil it.

Q. — I have to repair some screens soon. Is it all right to use aluminum screening?

A. — Yes. It is naturally non-corrosive and can be kept in shape with mild soap and water at least once a year.

Q. — You recently recommended someone wash a varnished surface with denatured alcohol to remove accumulated grime. I always thought turpentine was better for that.

A. — Turpentine will do the job, but it is a solvent for varnish and may so affect the surface that a refinishing job will be necessary.

(The techniques of using varnish, lacquer, shellac, remover, stain, bleach, etc., are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," which can be obtained by sending 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, NY 11743. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

Garden Clinic

Q. I have a large overgrown shrub that needs to be pruned. When should I do it? (E.E., Dover)

A. Large overgrown shrubs can be pruned heavily now that they are dormant. They should begin to rejuvenate themselves in March and April.

Q. My house plants are not doing well because of low humidity in my apartment. What is a good way to raise the humidity for my plants? (D.T., Winston-Salem)

A. There are several ways to increase the humidity. Grouping the plants together will help. Misting the plants will also help. Plants can be put in shallow, water-tight trays filled with a few inches of crushed stone or sand. The stone or sand material should be kept moist, but the plants should not sit in water. Pans of water placed on radiators will increase the humidity as the water in them evaporates. Humidifying devices on hot air furnaces should be kept filled with water. Plants that require excessively high humidity should be grown in a terrarium.

Q. My Chinese holly has a large crop of berries but its leaves are yellow. What could be the reason? (P.R., Jacksonville)

A. Your holly could be having a nutritional problem due to the heavy demand for nutrients made by the berries. The best solution is to fertilize with two to four pounds of 10-10-10 per 100 feet of bed area in early summer before blooming begins.

Q. Can you give me some information on the Satuski hybrid azaleas? (G.H., Raleigh)

A. The Satuskis were introduced from Japan to America in 1938. Generally, Satuski azaleas are low growing, only reaching a height of two to four feet and a spread of two to four feet. Satuskis flower from May to June. Flowers are large and showy. Some popular varieties are: 'Amaghasa' — deep pink with blooms three and one-half inches across; 'Beni-kirishima' — orange-red with blooms two inches across; 'Gunrei' — a double variety with blooms two inches across that are white and pink flecks; 'Higasa' — deep rose pink with blooms four and one-half inches across and 'Eiten' — a mallow purple variety.

SL DUDDZ CUIJZ YBJA'L AUYQ LST-INQMJU CSL " NMQB-TJNDC"?

Today's Cryptoquip clue: D equals P.

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Old Cabooses Become Motel

STRASBURG, Pa. (AP) — In 1970, Donald Denlinger salvaged 19 cabooses destined for the scrap heap and converted them into a motel that boasts: "The end of the train was just the beginning for us."

Denlinger now wants to expand and to sell other refurbished units as adult playhouses because cabooses, considered obsolete or excess baggage by America's railroads, are a hot collectors' item.

"It's a nostalgic thing. You want to grab a piece of the best of yesterday before it gets away," said Denlinger, whose Red Caboose Motel is surrounded by corn fields between Strasburg and Paradise in Lancaster County.

"It's the only place like it in the world. We get a lot of honeymooners who want make sure their marriage starts on the right track," he said in a recent interview.

Denlinger plans to buy and refurbish a dozen more cabooses. Six will be resold to people who want them as getaway housing.

"So many people say they'd give anything to have a caboose as a summer home, we have a waiting list," said Denlinger, whose work garb includes a black conductor's hat, red pants, white shirt and black vest adorned with a gold watch chain.

A 25-ton scrap caboose costs about $4,000. They are usually rusting and smelly, and it takes plenty of money and elbow grease to refurbish them with plumbing, water lines and insulation.

"You'd probably have to spend another $15,000 fixing them up. But what size of a house can you buy for $20,000 that's ready to move in, turnkey?" said Denlinger.

In their heyday, cabooses served as rolling offices, but computers now handle a railroad's paperwork. And cabooses are no longer needed to ferry repair crews or carry tools.

So last year, America's railroads reached an agreement with the United Transportation Union to gradually phase out cabooses. The Florida East Coast Railway eliminated cabooses 20 years ago, and they became obsolete in Europe after World War II.

THIS HAS BEEN A VERY GOOD YEAR

FOR OUR CUSTOMERS *

Because our professional marketing system has sold a great number of homes for our customers, both buyers and sellers. We have seen them move happily and satisfied to new homes, larger homes or to their new job assignments.

If you are selling your home, our company specializes in residential sales, new or old. Our entire staff, advertising program, personal contacts, referral system will be geared to the selling of your home. Additionally, we are members of the largest not-for-profit referral service in the world, RELO-Inter-City Relocation Service. That means that over 800 real estate firms in the U.S. and overseas will send us the names of people coming to Greenville and looking for a home!

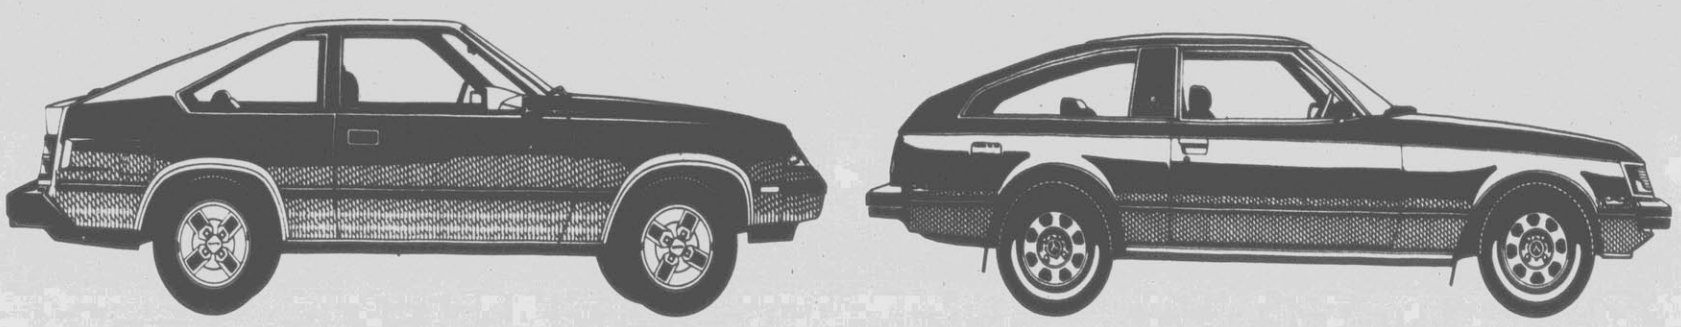

If you are looking for a home, we are interested in finding you the right home in the right place, with the right financing. We will work with you until we find you that home, whether is today, tomorrow, next week, next month or next year. We want you in the right home because we want you to be happy.

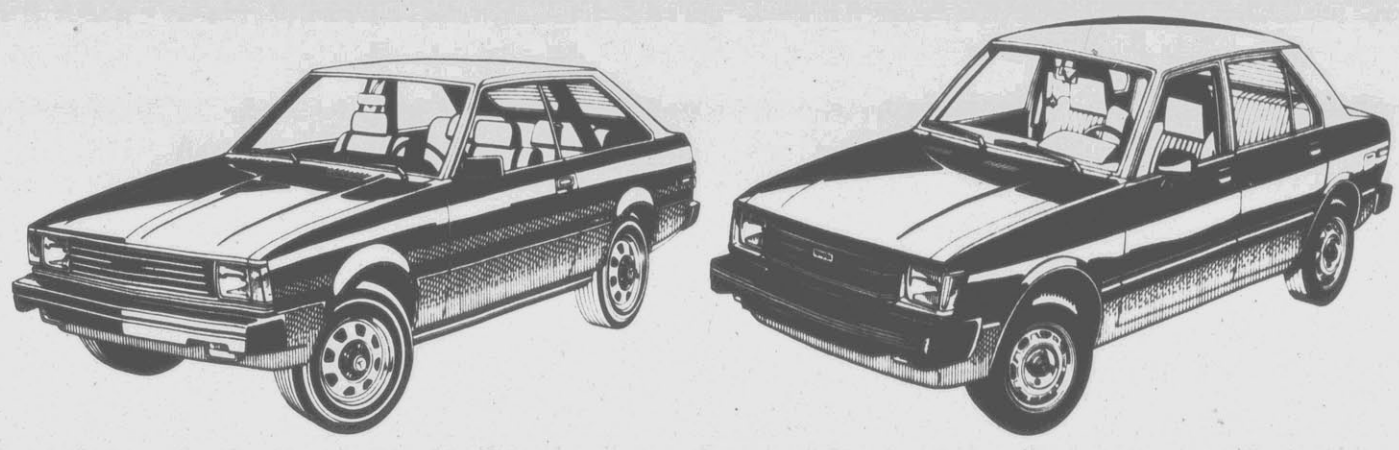

Yes, if you are looking for a home or if you are selling your home, our team of eleven real estate people will work hard for you. We believe in service, professionalism, integrity and basic, old time Eastern North Carolina friendliness. Never any pressure, just lots of help, because we never forget, that we work for YOU!

Life As It's Lived

By GAIL MICHAELS

I despise New Years, not only because of my inability to stay awake until midnight to celebrate them and my extreme aversion to football and black-eyed peas, but because of my inability to remember which year it is.

I am still stuck in 1982. My phone book is dated 1982 (1983 was never delivered) and so is my desk calandar. Anyone examining my canceled checks would think that I disappeared from the ranks of American consumer last year. My only consolation is that Phillip is still stuck in 1973.

The predicament of those of us with poor memories is not a funny one. Whereas I have spent years paging my daughter with an "earth to Meg," our situations are now reversed. To say that she thinks I'm spacy is putting it mildly. In the morning I scurry around fixing her lunch, then send her to school without it. I set out to find a pencil for her and come back with an armload of folded laundry and the mail.

Half the time I can't even remember the words to end sentences I've started. This is a dreadful disadvantage when one has to deal with two children who haven't been at a loss for words since birth.

Naturally, I read every article I can find on memory enhancers. One drug company declares that it will seek FDA approval for one by the end of 1984. By my calculations that's still two years away, and I don't think I can wait that long. If I could recollect the name of the drug company, I'd be ready to volunteer as a guinea pig now, before I'm reduced to wearing a large blackboard around my neck in order to function properly..

As it is, I make lists, lots of them. I make grocery lists, chore lists, cooking lists (i.e., turn on the stove; turn off the stove); you name it, I have a list for it. But at least I can still spell. A friend of mine assures me that I don't have to worry about losing that ability until I'm 40. After that even the dictionary becomes inaccessible.

At this point, however, that good book is one of my few defenses against premature senility. I resort to it almost every emergency. I especially like to have it close at hand during conversations with Meg.

When I'm not using it, I'm using a thesaurus. Today for instance, I wanted to look up the medical designation for senility. It's either Alzheimer's or Altsheimer's or Altzheimer's. But after an extensive search of my desk, the laundry hamper and the kitchen drawers, I could not discover the whereabouts of my supposedly handy reference work.

The only thing I did discover is that my friend lied. I'm even further away from 40 than I am from 1985.

Everything's Rose-y For Danny's Parade

By Ian Harmer

PASADENA, Calif. — The producers of TV's longest-running hit can afford to indulge in a little smug superiority whenever prime time's hypesters trumpet the ratings garnered by such fly-by-night diversions as "Dallas," "The Winds of War" and "The Day After."

When Danny Kaye assumes the role of Grand Marshal on Monday, Jan. 2 and leads this city's 95th annual Rose Parade along its jam-packed route, it's estimated that the worldwide TV audience will exceed 200 million.

For years, the Tournament of Roses parade and the Rose Bowl, the battle of college football giants that follows the parade, have been a must-see for more television viewers than any other show dares claim.

The U.S. audience is estimated at 125 million — more than twice the number that tuned in to the finale of "M*A*S*H" and other prime-time record-breakers — and the remainder will be gathered around sets in 38 foreign countries (another record).

Kaye will be carrying on a tradition started in 1890 by the Grand Marshal of the first parade, Dr. Francis F. Rowland.

The selection of the Grand Marshal is the privilege of the Tournament of Roses' president, who also picks the parade's theme and gets to announce it in a pretty ritzy setting. This year, the theme — "A Salute to the Volunteer" — was announced by President Reagan at a special White House lunch. And no, it wasn't held in the Rose Garden.

Grand Marshals are selected to match the different themes and since Kaye's first TV appearance 27 years ago was in his capacity as a globe-trotting fundraiser for UNICEF, he was the choice.

Presidents, scientists, sports figures and even astronauts have served as Grand Marshals, but show business supplies the most candidates — and that's appropriate, because the budget for the extravaganza matches anything Hollywood could put up.

The budget for the tournament's year-round operations is a mere $1 million, but each one of the 60 floats featured costs between $40,000 and $100,000.

Grand Marshal Danny Kaye and Ann Marie Colborn, Queen of the Tournament of Roses Parade, will kick off the Rose Bowl game with the pre-game Tournament of Roses Parade, airing Monday, Jan. 2 on NBC.

Cast Named

Ned Beatty, Juanin Clay, George Grizzard, James Read and Jack Warden join Brad Davis, Veronica Cartwright and Beatrice Straight in "Robert Kennedy and His Times," a sweeping seven-hour mini-series chronicling the life of the former Attorney General, U.S. Senator and Presidential candidate which began production in Los Angeles for future broadcast on CBS.

Ned Beatty will portray J. Edgar Hoover. Juanin Clay will be seen as Jacqueline Kennedy and George Grizzard will portray John Siegnthlaer, a lasting Kennedy intimate who, when Bobby was Attorney General, traveled to Birmingham, Ala., to assist in the plight of the Freedom Riders.

James Read will be seen as Edward Kennedy and Jack Warden will portray Joseph P. Kennedy.

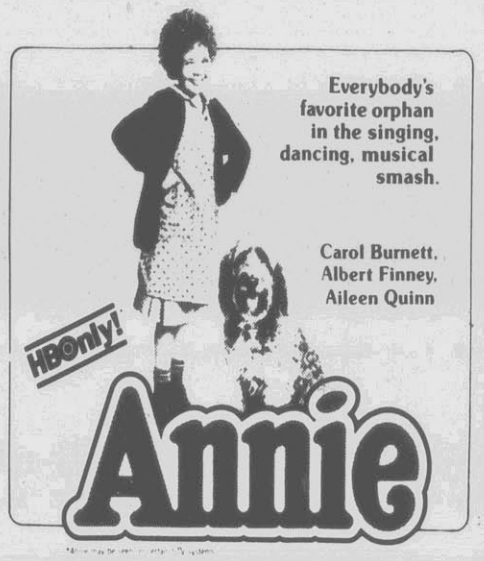

Previously announced as appearing in "Robert Kennedy and His Times" are Brad Davis in the title role, Veronica Cartwright as Ethel Kennedy and Beatrice Straight as Rose Kennedy.

Michele Will Tell

By Michele Marks

DEAR MICHELE: Could you please give me some information on Pierce Brosnan? I would also like to know where I can write to him. DAWN LOCKEE, HILDERBRAN, N.C.

TO DAWN IN HILDERBRAN: Series star Pierce Brosnan was born in County Meath, Ireland, on May 16. He moved to England when he was 11 years old and received his early theatrical training at the Drama Centre in London, England. A variety of several supporting roles on British television and in films led to his U.S. debut as Rory Manion in the 1981 miniseries "The Manions of America." As for his role of Remington Steele, "I didn't think I'd get a TV series in my wildest dreams," says Brosnan. "I had come over with the idea that something might happen. I though my chances were dim but that I'd sow some seeds. I had just bought a new house in London and wasn't exactly flush with money." Luck won out when Pierce was at MTM Productions while they were looking for someone to play the role of Steele. Married to actress Cassandra Harris, the couple have a son, Christopher (9), daughter, Charlotte (10), and a new baby. Write to Pierce Brosnan and the other cast members of "Remington Steele" in c/o NBC-TV, 3000 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, Ca., 91523.

DEAR MICHELE: I would like to know all about Mark Hamill and where I could write to him. TIM HUGHES, TRINITY, N.C.

TO TIM IN TRINITY: Mark Hamill, better known as Luke Skywalker of "Star Wars" fame, was born on September 25, 1952, in Oakland, California. Son of a US Navy Captain, he grew up in California, Virginia, New York and Japan. He majored in drama at the Los Angeles City College and made his acting debut in an episode of "The Bill Cosby Show," in 1970. His other TV credits include "General Hospital," and "The Texas Wheelers." Besides the "Star Wars" sagas, Hamill also appeared in the films "The Big Red One" and "Corvette Summer." He's currently appearing on Broadway in the hit play "Amadeus." Mark and his wife, Mary Lou (a former dental receptionist), are the proud parents of a young son, Nathan. Mark Hamill lists his religious affiliation as Protestant. I suggest you write to him in c/o 20th Century-Fox, 10201 West Pico Blvd., P.O. Box 900, Beverly Hills, Ca., 90025.

Hidden Mistakes

Ed Flanders, star of "St. Elsewhere," plays the part of a doctor and likes to quote Frank Lloyd Wright's statement that "A doctor can bury his mistakes - but an architect can only advise his client to plant vines."

Scarpelli Honored

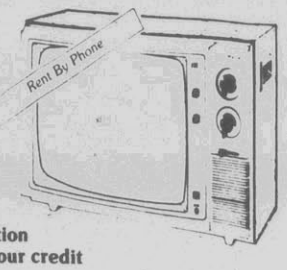

Glenn Scarpelli was honored by Youth in Film with a Special Achievement Award for all of the areas he has covered in his career: film, TV, Broadway and recording. Glenn and Kim Fields were co-hosts of the awards presentation.

TV Chatter

By Polly Vonetes

It will be a dual celebration for STACY WEBSTER, the 1984 ORANGE BOWL QUEEN, when the 50th ANNUAL ORANGE BOWL GAME is telecast Monday, Jan 2 on NBC. STACY, who had never entered a beauty contest before this one, will be celebrating her 23rd birthday on that day. She attributes her success to her family. In following her mother's advice she regularly made the dean's list at Florida State University — but it was her dad who urged his beautiful daughter to enter the ORANGE BOWL QUEEN contest. (It pays to listen)

Honors were bestowed on "NIGHTLINE" anchorman. TED KOPPEL, and as far as I am concerned, no one is more deserving.

The GENTLEMAN'S QUARTERLY MANSTYLE AWARD is presented annually to men in various professions for the outstanding style in the way they dress and how they present themselves in public life. The winner in the communications field was TED KOPPEL — an excellent selection. He was further honored when he received a DISTINGUISHED ACHIEVEMENT AWARD from the Journalism Alumni Association of the University of Southern California.

PRISCILLA PRESLEY has agreed to participate in a special show from GRACELAND on Jan. 8 commemorating ELVIS' 50th birthday.

STEVE BINDER will produce and direct the show, which he promises will be a very special tribute to ELVIS. Plans are to distribute the program globally by satellite. He has also signed an agreement with RCA and the PRESLEY estate to produce a videodisk and cassette based on 'outtakes' from the NBC special telecast in 1968.

Spound Checks In Finds Rooms In 'Hotel'

By Peter Meade

"Everything seems to be falling into place," says Michael Spound, who plays bellman Dave Kendall on ABC's Wednesday night series "Hotel." "It's great for a young actor to just sit around here and watch what's going on."

Spound was a very young actor — 6, to be exact — when his father took him off the baseball field in Concord, Mass., and persuaded him to join an amateur stage production. A year later, the youngster had appeared in two more productions and had found a career.

He continued to act at Philips Academy and later at Northwestern University. After graduation he was planning on trying the New York stage. But again his father influenced his path because Spound decided to visit him in Los Angeles before heading for Broadway. Soon after Spound found guest-starring roles on several comedy series.

Although "Hotel" is not a sitcom, Spound's character, who is working his way through law school while working at the St. Gregory, is often called on to provide a moment of comedic relief.

"That's OK," says Spound, "even though I studied mostly the classics at Northwestern. But I did a bit of comedy and the timing is much more difficult."

But again Spound reminds himself that everything is falling into place. He has a spot on one of the season's most successful new shows, and the show has "Dynasty" as its lead-in each week. Spound can't help but be impressed and so is his father.

Spound's parents recently flew out from Boston to see their son and two of his newest possessions; a director's chair on the set with his name on it and his own parking spot in the studio lot.

"And if the show goes on," says Spound, "you'll see how fast there'll be a new car in that spot."

Soap Stars Host Diabetes Telethon

By Nancy M. Reichardt

Gloria Loring of "Days of Our Lives" and Stuart Damon of "General Hospital" recently co-hosted the first annual Juvenile Diabetes Foundation Telethon, "8-1/2 Hours to Cure Diabetes," along with Miss Loring's husband, talk-show host Alan Thicke ("Thicke of the Night"), and game show host Chuck Barris.

"My primary reason for participating in the telethon is to save my son's life," says Miss Loring. "JDF has been raising money in dribs and drabs all through its various chapters and it's time for a national push. More than 82 percent of the money raised goes directly to diabetes research. The first telethon raised half a million dollars. That was a wonderful first year. The telethon was an enormous success and we are already talking about next year's, which is definitely going to be a national event."

"We were there (at the telethon) because of our son, Christopher, who has juvenile diabetes," says Stuart Damon's wife, Dierdre.

"We're willing to do anything we possibly can," adds Damon, "because there's a good chance of diabetes being stopped. And if it's going to be stopped we want it done while our son is a youngster so he can look forward to the rest of his life without having to punch his arm three times a day and take blood tests."

Also on hand for the telethon was "All My Children" star Candi Earley (Donna Tyler), who had hosted a JDF fund raiser in Chicago a few weeks prior to the Atlantic City telethon.

Newman Special

The hour-long special was produced at the Odeon restaurant in New York. He will include the songs, "I Love L.A.," "Sail Away" and "Short People" in his presentation. Guest stars include Linda Ronstadt and Ry Cooder.

Animated Series

Hanna-Barbera Prods. has entered into an exclusive agreement with ABC to develop an animated series called "Breakdance," which will be based on the popular street dance phenomenon currently enjoyed by young people in America.

UCLA meets Illinois in 1984 Rose Bowl

The Pacific-10 Conference champion UCLA Bruins (6-4-1) will face the Big 10 Conference champion Illinois Fighting Illini in the 1984 Rose Bowl, airing on NBC, Monday, Jan. 2.

This is UCLA's ninth Rose Bowl appearance and with a record of 3-5. However, they have won their last three Rose Bowl contests — over Michigan State in 1966, over Ohio State in 1976 and over Michigan in 1983.

The Rose Bowl is home for the Bruins, who moved from the Los Angeles Coliseum prior to the 1982 season. Their only loss at home since then was against Brigham Young University this year.

UCLA rebounded from an 0-3-1 start to earn its second consecutive Pacific-10 championship. The three early losses were to Georgia, Nebraska and BYU, all of whom qualified for a post-season bowl game.

The main reason UCLA produced a strong ground game in the latter half of the season was Kevin Nelson, a senior tailback from Los Angeles. Although he only rushed for 247 yards in the first five games, he nearly doubled that effort in the last five games, becoming the first Bruin since Freeman McNeil to gain over 100 yards in three straight games. In addition to being the team's leading rusher, Nelson led the squad in touchdowns (6) and was the No. 3 pass receiver (22).

The team's No. 1 receiver is Mike Sherrard, with 44 catches. He progressed from a walk-on in 1981 to second-team All-American (Sporting News) in 1983. Sherrard needs just three receptions in the Rose Bowl to break Cormac Carney's year-old school record of 46 receptions in one season. Sherrard is also the only player in school history to gain more than 135 yards receiving in one game twice in a career.

Perhaps the success story of the year for the Bruins is Rick Neuheisel, who will end his career as the starting quarterback in the Rose Bowl. He is the No. 1 single-season and career percentage passer in UCLA history. Neuheisel enjoyed a stellar senior year, completing 69 percent of his passes for nearly 2,000 yards and nine touchdowns. He set an NCAA one-game completion percentage record (92.6) by completing 25 of 27 passes against Washington.

The Bruins are coached by Terry Donahue, now in his eighth season at UCLA. He is the only player ever to appear in the Rose Bowl as a UCLA player, assistant coach and head coach.

Monday, Jan. 2, is the day of the college bowl games, with broadcasts of the Rose Bowl (UCLA Illinois), Orange Bowl (Nebraska Miami), Cotton Bowl (Texas Georgia) and Sugar Bowl (Auburn Michigan).

The Tigers, coached by Pat Dye, who is 24-10-0 at Auburn, are ranked No. 3 in the nation with a 10-1-0 record. Auburn was 6-0-0 in the SEC to win its first conference championship since 1957.

The Wolverines, coached by Schembechler, who is in his 15th year (140-30-3) at Michigan, are ranked No. 8 in the nation with a 9-2-0 record. Michigan went 8-1-0 in the Big Ten for second place.

Auburn has appeared in 15 bowl games and has compiled a 7-7-1 record. The Tigers have been to the Sugar Bowl only once and they lost to Oklahoma 40-22 in the 1972 classic. Auburn defeated Boston College in last year's Tangerine Bowl.

Michigan has participated in 14 bowl games and has compiled a 6-8-0 record. This will be the Wolverines' first trip to the Sugar Bowl. Michigan played in 11 Rose Bowls (5-6) and once each in the Orange (0-1), Gator (0-1) and Bluebonnet (1-0). Under Schembechler, Michigan has a 2-8 post-season record.

Key players to watch on Auburn include halfback Bo Jackson (6-1, 224-pound sophomore from Bessemer, Ala.) the team's leading rusher with 1,213 yards and 14 touchdowns, and quarterback Randy Campbell (6-0, 170-pound senior from Hartselle, Ala.), who has a 55 percent passing percentage.

Key players to watch on Michigan are quarterback Steve Smith (6-0, 194-pound senior from Grand Blanc, Mich.) who has a 54 percent passing percentage and 13 touchdowns in the air and tailback Rick Rogers (6-2, 220-pound junior from Inkster, Mich.).

Country Calendar

Anniversary Show

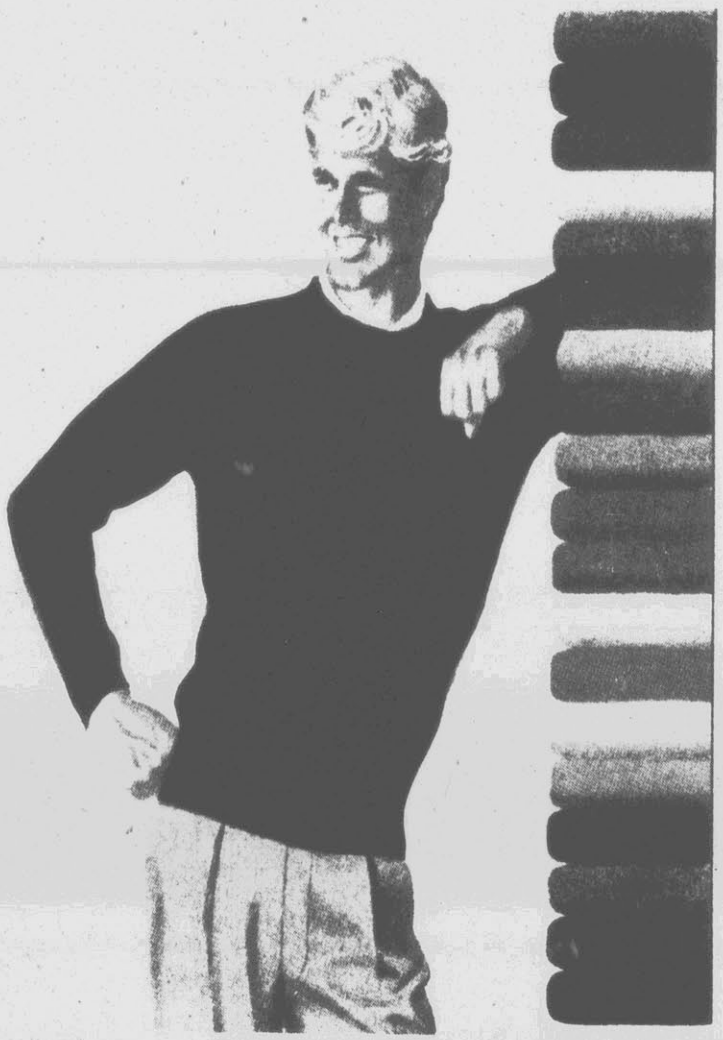

The Screen Actors Guild is planning a special celebration for their 50th anniversary. A two-hour show, "A Golden Anniversary of the Silver Screen," is being developed by David Wolper for the event. CBS has confirmed that they will telecast the festivities live either late February or early March of 1984.

A special tribute to the many stars who were the founding members of the union in 1933 will be included in the show. Cary Grant, Bette Davis, Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers, James Cagney, Leon Ames and Ralph Bellamy are among those to be honored.

CBS Film Cast

Bonnie Bedelia, Pat Hingle, Barrie Youngfellow, Blue Deckert and Tina Chen have been set for roles in "The Lady From Yesterday," joining previously signed Wayne Rogers in the two-hour telefilm currently in production in Houston, Texas.

ASK THEM YOURSELF

FROM THE "ASK" EDITORS

LOS ANGELES — Producer Aaron Spelling, creator of those TV sirens, Charlie's Angels, is now trafficking in crime prevention of a different sort: police car, or rather, police-car knock-offs to serve as holiday gifts for Beverly Hills chums. What could be more arresting?... Perhaps to prove that she was not just window dressing for her late husband, Bing, Kathryn Crosby has been appearing in a series of commercials for Coit, a West Coast drapery cleaning company. Initially, as an incentive to would-be customers, Crosby offered a tour of Bing's mansion plus an autographed copy of her book, My Life with Bing, to anyone who had a roomful of drapes cleaned. But in Hillsborough, a tony San Francisco suburb, the City Council took a dim view of that scheme and ruled that such tours were an improper use of a private residence. Undaunted, Crosby threw a cocktail party at a local hotel for loyal Coit customers.

—Robert Windeler

WASHINGTON — While the Rev. Jesse Jackson's goal is the 1984 Democratic Presidential nomination, his son, Jesse Jr., is running the football for Washington's posh, private St. Alban's School, where he is star halfback and a cynosure for college recruiters. Among those scouting the prep-school senior, according to Coach Richard Allanson: Yale, Brown and North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University, where Jesse Sr. played football. Says Allanson: "The big question isn't whether he's good enough to play college ball, but whether he'll choose to play or to help his father on the campaign trail."... Thanks to a newly leased private jet, Postmaster General William F. Bolger will be arriving at his destinations, uh, posthaste. Bolger told the U.S. Postal Service's board of governors that he had signed a $40,000 per month lease for a used 1981 Cessna Citation II jet the same day the board voted to request a rate increase for a first-class stamp from 20 to 23 cents. This coincidence left some cynics wondering whether the two transactions cancelled each other out.

—Kathleen Maxa and Jane Ottenberg

NEW YORK — For his recent film, Under Fire, Gene Hackman learned to play the piano; for his new film, Moscow on the Hudson, Robin Williams learned to play the saxophone.... Kimberly Beck, former co-star of the

CBS soap Capitol and estranged wife of hotel magnate Conrad Hilton's grandson, Barry, has been signed to star in Friday the 13th Part 4.... X-rated actress Sylvia (Emmanuelle) Kristel is having an exhibit of her paintings in Paris, and critics agree that her body has more appeal than her body of work.

—Anita Summer

BARBRA STREISAND

Do you have any desire to return to the stage? —S.L., Green Bay, Wisc.

No. I didn't particularly enjoy my early days in the theater. I like rehearsals, the constant movement with changes of scenes, songs, lines — but once things fall into place, that's it. You're in prison; same thing over and over. That's why I prefer movies. You get it right, and that's it forever. The best part of that "ever" is being able to watch myself on TV.

KENNY ROGERS

What do you look for in a new love song that you plan to record? —F.D., Cheyenne, Wyo.

I look for lyrics that every woman wants to hear and every man would like to say. First time I did "She Believes In Me," I saw some couples holding hands as if to say, "This is what I've been wanting to tell you." Most men can't verbalize that kind of stuff too easily, even though they know women are dying to hear it. That's what I look for in romantic songs: giving people the words that they can't find to describe their feelings.

Predictions 1984

What's the savviest New Year's resolution of all? Not to make any, of course. And so last year, after our first annual "predictions" issue, we resolved: never again! So what's our first move for '84? Yup: a whole new list of fearless predictions. We'll take the credit for the ones that come true, naturally. And the ones that bomb out? We'll just blame the experts we've been consulting. Only fair, right?

Naisbitt on 1984

"I think we've pretty much stood author George Orwell's scenario on its head. Orwell's vision was one of a top-down, centralized, Big Brother government running everybody's lives. What's happening in the country is that we Americans, bottom-up, are running our own lives.

"In this vast land it is our natural condition to be decentralized and diversified. But there were two events in history that centralized us. One was the combination of the Great Depression and World War II and our response to them. The other, and the more important, was the incredible centralizing impact of industrialization. During the 50's, we kind of turned our souls over to the corporation. We turned our kids over to the schools, welfare to the Government and health to the medical establishment. Now we are in the process of reclaiming all of the above. In large part this is because we are moving from an industrialized to an informational economy. We will become more diversified and more decentralized during the rest of the century."

Hard for Your Money

Pay raises will average only 6.6 percent this year, according to a survey by Sibson & Co., a compensation consulting firm based in Princeton, N.J. Despite the economic upturn, companies are keeping salary budgets lean.

A Leg Up

If you want to stay in step fashion-wise in '84, consider it the year of the leg. "We'll be seeing a lot of hosiery," says Emily Cho, nationally known image consultant and author of Looking, Working, Living Terrific 24 Hours a Day. "The Flashdance look will stay with us, because exercise, budget and putting your own colors together are in. So with the short Flashdance-style T-shirt dresses, you can wear leggings on top of leggings for a terrific look."

Will on Reagan

"Conservatives are all going to run off and hide their heads in the sand come election time, because they are not allowed to talk about a balanced budget; they are reduced to hoping that they misled the country for 30 years on the importance thereof. So I think that out of sheer embarrassment, if not out of conviction, they will talk about national security and foreign policy — the need for a strong military defense and post-Grenada foreign policy.

"On the minds of the voters, the bread and butter issue will be, as always, the price of bread and butter. It will be jobs and inflation, with a heavy dollop of interest rates thrown in. Which way are the numbers moving? Almost all American elections will be dominated by the economic issue in 1984. People always say that the foreign-policy question is extremely important, but it never quite works out that way when they go to vote.

"I would expect the '84 election to be a fairly orthodox one involving an incumbent. That is, there will be a referendum on Reagan. The question will be: Do we or do we not like Ronald Reagan? He got to be President not because people liked him, but because people did not like Jimmy Carter.

"Democrats to watch in '84 — is there a dark horse? Well, there are six dead horses and two very old gray mares. I don't see how anybody, at this late date, can break out of that pack to catch those two front-runners (Mondale and Glenn). It will be very hard to catch Mondale. If I had to bet on a Democratic nominee today, I would (1) be very unhappy and (2) bet on Mondale."

Rabbit Run

It's almost certain there will never be a meat shortage for the soon-to-be-franchised fast-food eatery known as Hop-Scotch. The specialty of the house is Southern Fried Rabbit.

Richard Stewart, owner of Rex Rabbit Development Corporation, a rabbit-breeding business, has had so much success with his first rabbit-meat fast-food restaurant (on the Purdue University campus in Indiana) that he's taking his hare-brained menu on the road. The first franchised Hop-Scotch is scheduled to open in a few months in Florissant, Mo., near the University of Missouri in St. Louis.

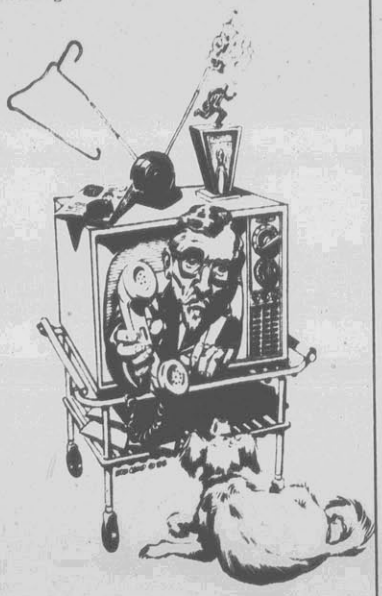

Collins on Rising Stars

"The hot male stars of the year will be the hot ones of '83: Tom Cruise (Risky Business), Matthew Broderick (WarGames), Timothy Hutton (Daniel) and Matt Dillon (Rumblefish).

"Two very hot women are Ally Sheedy (WarGames) and Jennifer Beals (Flashdance). [Beals has signed an exclusive contract with French designers Marithé and François Girbaud.]

"I also think the home viewing market — not cable, but video cassette — will be big in '84. Once the hardware becomes less expensive, the market will boom. I believe we're going to see stars, producers and directors making a package: agreeing to do a movie for a fair sum of money — not low-budget but not $24 million either — and do it for home use only. These will be movies you can only get in a cassette. And it will have a life of, say, a year or so, then be sold to cable."

Anyway, Don't Jump

Call-in therapy will be increasingly popular in 1984, as more people than ever before let it all hang out over the airwaves in order to get free professional advice. The Association for Media Psychology, whose members include many radio and TV therapists, recently listed the most-popular topics of today's callers. The winners are marriage, child care and discipline, phobias, depression, anxiety and sexual relations.

Thurow on the Economy

"I believe an economic recovery is underway but that it will be stalled by early 1985 because of a return of high interest rates. These rates will prevent consumers from buying houses and autos and will stymie corporate investment in new plant equipment. In addition, the dollar's strength will prompt a flood of imports, making U.S. goods too expensive for foreign buyers. This will thwart the growth of American companies."

Lester Thurow is a professor of economics at M.I.T. and author of The Zero-Sum Society.

Psyched About Ike

It's hard to say what the 34th President would make of all of this, but it's probably safe to guess that he would grin. Some 15 years after his death, Eisenhower is becoming popular again. A number of books about him have recently been published. And perhaps most noticeable, says syndicated columnist Bob Greene, author of the recent American Beat, "Folks who haven't thought about Eisenhower in years are suddenly finding him on their minds. One now hears ordinary citizens dropping his name into their discussions of politics and world events."

McKay's Olympic Picks

"I think the United States may have the best overall showing in the Olympics that it's ever had. In the Winter Olympics, I think we'll win gold medals in men's and women's figure skating: Scott Hamilton and Rosalynn Sumners.

"In alpine ski racing, we could win the first men's gold medal ever. Phil Mahre could do it, or his twin brother, Steve, could. In women's ski racing, there are two contenders capable of winning a medal, maybe a gold medal: Tamara McKinney and Cindy Nelson.

"The big question is the hockey team: Can it duplicate what the hockey team in 1980 did? I think it'll win a medal; the gold medal is really, really tough. The team won't be playing at home this time, and the home crowd had a lot to do with the outcome in 1980.

"The star of the Summer Olympics should be a young man named Carl

Illustrations by Bob Camp

Lewis: People are already talking about him as the new Jesse Owens. He could win four gold medals, participating in the 100 meters, 200 meters, long jump and relay.

"In the 1,500-meter races, the Americans Steve Scott and Sydney Maree are both medal contenders. Mary Decker could be a very big star for women's track — the biggest since Wilma Rudolph."

Jim McKay is an ABC sports commentator.

All Lathered Up

CBS will be "coming on like a bull" in 1984 to take the first two ratings spots in the soap-opera derby, predicts Joyce Becker, owner of Soap Opera Festivals Inc. and a columnist for Daytime TV magazine. "There will be a fight for the No. 1 rating between Guiding Light and As the World Turns. Both will appeal strongly to young audiences." She also says that storylines will lean more toward the male characters.

Hop to It, Fella!

In a tradition-shattering move, the New York Playboy Club is ready to include "male service personnel" when it opens early this year in a new location with a new look. The men will not be called bunnies, and no decision has been made yet as to what they will wear. But word is that Hugh Hefner, chairman of the board of Playboy Enterprises, is looking for a costume that's "sexy but not intimidating."

De Borchgrave on Foreign Affairs

"Soviet intelligence operations are increasing and becoming bolder. That means more and more spies get caught, which automatically augments tension. Tensions were growing even before the shooting down of the Korean airliner and the stall in arms negotiations. There had been a perceptible hardening on the Soviet side, even though immediately prior to that hardening, both sides came to grips with the need to change their relationship from confrontation to negotiation. Now there is a hardening again.

"It is very significant that, following the Korean airliner incident, Yuri Andropov came out on the side of the military with no if's, and's or but's. In other words, the harder heads prevailed. And whatever dialogue was going on, at a senior level, between our two governments was suddenly shut off. This is, of course, dangerous.

"Grenada was a very significant turning point in that it was the first dent made in the Brezhnev doctrine, which holds that Marxist revolutions are irreversible. The Soviet Union and Cuba will no doubt be looking for ways to even the score."

Tops Down

They were the rage of the late 50's and early 60's, but by 1974 convertibles had pretty much disappeared from Detroit assembly lines. This year, thanks to popular demand, they'll be back in full force in auto showrooms. Even the Caddy Eldorado convertible will make a return.

Suits Them Fine

Stop knocking polyester — it may save your life someday. Knitted tubes of the synthetic fabric have been used in European hospitals to replace defective human arteries for the past year and may be used here eventually. "The device is lighter, more pliable," says John Pollock, a surgeon at the Royal Infirmary in Glasgow, Scotland. And since polyester does not fray, the ends of the artery can be sewed right up to the edge.

Terkel on Social Trends

"In the last few years, we've seen that people in communities and neighborhoods are aware about various matters and are protesting what they don't like. I don't just mean young people, I mean people of all ages and of all strata. That's a sign of awakening.

"So this year I think people will respond to a broad range of social issues, as well as to political issues like nuclear weapons and nuclear reactor plants. I believe they'll start thinking in concert and have gatherings. I'm looking for it."

God Is Not Dead

Americans in growing numbers are placing their trust in religion and repudiating the claims of science, says pollster George Gallup Jr.

Over half of all Protestant adults surveyed told Gallup they rely on God more today than they did five years ago.

At the root of this change, Gallup says, is "the growing conviction that religion, rather than science, can answer the problems of the world."

Gallup adds, however, that only about 12 percent of our population is "highly committed" to religious practice. Even more revealing is the poll's finding that the perceived improvement in the nation's spiritual life seems to hinge largely on the feeling of "material well-being" among Americans.

Hi-Fi Tech

First it was rock 'n' roll. Then hard rock, soft rock, acid rock, punk rock.... And now, according to an Adweek magazine survey of recording and radio-station producers, the next great fad will be techno-pop, which just suits a country deep in the throes of computermania.

Techno-pop is rock music that's totally synthetic except for the vocal parts. Some industry experts predict the synthesizer will be to the mid-80's what the electric guitar was to the 60's.

More Like a Man

"Organized labor may soon become tired of seeing jobs slip out of its hands into the hands of robots," says Steve Weissman, a research associate at International Resource Development Inc., a market-research consulting firm based in Norwalk, Conn. One alternative, he points out, would be major nationwide strikes organized by the A.F.L.-C.I.O. Another possibility, though, is the incorporation of the robots into the labor unions. "If the unions continue to lose jobs to the robots, they might insist upon collecting dues from the robots," says Weissman. "These, of course, would be phantom dues paid by the manufacturers employing the robots."

Loeb on the Stock Market

"I believe strongly that the stock market will be higher at the end of 1984 than it was at the end of 1983. So it's sensible and worthwhile to invest in it. The reasons for this improvement are, first, we have curbed inflation: We expect no more than a 4 to 6 percent inflation next year. Second, interest rates should be either flat or slowly declining, probably declining. Third, the economy will continue to rise somewhat rapidly. But beyond that, the fact is that stocks today are very, very low priced: They have declined so dramatically during the periods of oppressive inflation of past years that we've got a very long way to go before catching up to where they were in the past."

Marshall Loeb is the managing editor of Money magazine and author of Marshall Loeb's Money Guide.

Reed's Oscar Predictions

Best Actress: Shirley MacLaine for Terms of Endearment. ("Her strongest competition: Barbra Streisand in Yentl and Meryl Streep in Silkwood.")

Best Actor: Albert Finney for The Dresser or Al Pacino for Scarface. ("1983 was not a very strong year for actors.")

Best Picture: Terms of Endearment or Zelig.

Dr. Brothers on Relationships

"Men and women are beginning to look for sex with trust, with care, with commitment. Divorce is no longer the first option; it has become the last option. Young people are far less promiscuous than they were. We are seeing people less willing to run into extramarital affairs, and there seems to be a general return to conservative sex: sex with commitment.

"The economic conditions have also regenerated the family as the source of personal satisfaction. There are so many of the postwar baby boomers in middle management now that they know, even if they work hard and perform well, they aren't going to get big pay raises or new titles automatically

Kills Every Roach Or Double Your Money Back

(Atlanta, Georgia) —

Answer: Roach Kill works. Period. Its formula is 99.5% effective as proven in tests at a leading university.

In contrast, eight well known brands of spray insecticides flunked the same scientific tests. They failed to kill a high number of roaches in heavily infested areas. One of these smelly sprays actually failed to kill any roaches at all!

Question: What is Roach Kill?

Answer: It's an odorless white powder. Roach Kill is applied in seconds from a squeeze bottle behind appliances and in other out-of-the-way areas.

Question: Frank, how does Roach Kill work?

Answer: The secret is in the fact that it's odorless. Roaches can't smell it, so they don't avoid it like they avoid smelly spray insecticides. Instead, they walk right over it. They pick up a little bit on their legs and carry it back to their hidden nests in the walls. There, Roach Kill wipes out the whole colony that breeds new roaches.

Question: How long does it last?

Question: What is your full guarantee and how does it work?

Answer: Roach Kill is so incredibly effective that it has a double-your-money-back guarantee. Roach Kill is guaranteed to wipe out every roach in the house or apartment with one treatment or I'll send the customer double his money back.

All a customer has to do is return the empty bottle with a note that he saw even one single roach after trying it according to the simple directions.

Question: How can readers order Roach Kill?

Answer: Roach Kill isn't sold in stores; so cut out and mail the coupon to order now. Or call the toll-free number below. I'll ship your order fast so you can prove to yourself that it really works. Order extra bottles for garages and basements.

Prescription Drugs' Side Effects Revealed

(Atlanta, GA)—

FC&A, a nearby Peachtree City, Georgia publisher, announced today the release of a new book for the general public, Prescription Drugs Effects and Side Effects. It reveals the little known side effects of over 200 of the most often prescribed drugs — side effects which are known to few people besides doctors.

The Good Effects of Drugs

You take drugs prescribed by your doctor for their good effects like relieving pain, fighting infection, birth control, aiding sleep, calming down, fighting coughs, colds or allergies, or lowering heartbeat and blood pressure.

Do You Have Any Of These Dangerous Side Effects?

Prescription drugs can cause diarrhea, dizziness, dry mouth, sleepiness, depression, headache, insomnia, upset stomach, blurred vision, cramps, rashes, constipation, fever, stuffy nose, short breath, high blood pressure, fear, ringing sounds. Also poor appetite, balance, sex or heart function.

Do You Know The Answers To These Questions About Prescription Drugs?

When your busy doctor gives you a prescription, what do you, or even your doctor, know about it? What's it for? Will you be allergic to it? What are its side effects and dangers? Will it affect other medicine you're taking?

It's up to YOU to keep yourself informed by reading this book. For example, on page 30 you'll learn that a drug you take for upset stomach can cause nausea — the very thing it's supposed to prevent — plus convulsions or heart attack!

Latest Facts On Each Drug

Two outstanding pharmacists have helped add newly discovered side effects to the new edition. The book describes more than 200 of the most-often-used drugs. Facts are given in easy-to-understand words instead of hard-to-understand medical terms.

Easy To Read

Drugs are listed in alphabetical order for quick, dictionary-style finding. The book lists brand names, money-saving generic names, good effects, side effects, warnings and interactions with other drugs.

It tells how to save money by using generic drugs instead of expensive brand names. It also explains drug categories. (For example: a drug may be called an "analgesic" — analgesic means "pain reliever.")

How To Help Your Doctor

Tell your doctor if you have any possible side effects given in this book. If he thinks best, he may lower your dose, stop your medicine or switch to a different drug not having such side effects.

A Remarkable Guarantee

Order this 30,000-word, easy-to-understand book, edited by two pharmacists. Simply cut out and mail the coupon today. There's a no-time-limit guarantee of full satisfaction or your money back.

PREDICTIONS

every year. So these individuals are looking to their families for satisfaction and emotional stroking.

"I think people today are getting closer than they used to. We have gone through a time of self-improvement to a realization that, unless you relate to someone, there isn't much satisfaction."

Dr. Joyce Brothers is a psychologist and author of How to Get Whatever You Want Out of Life.

More Tease, Please

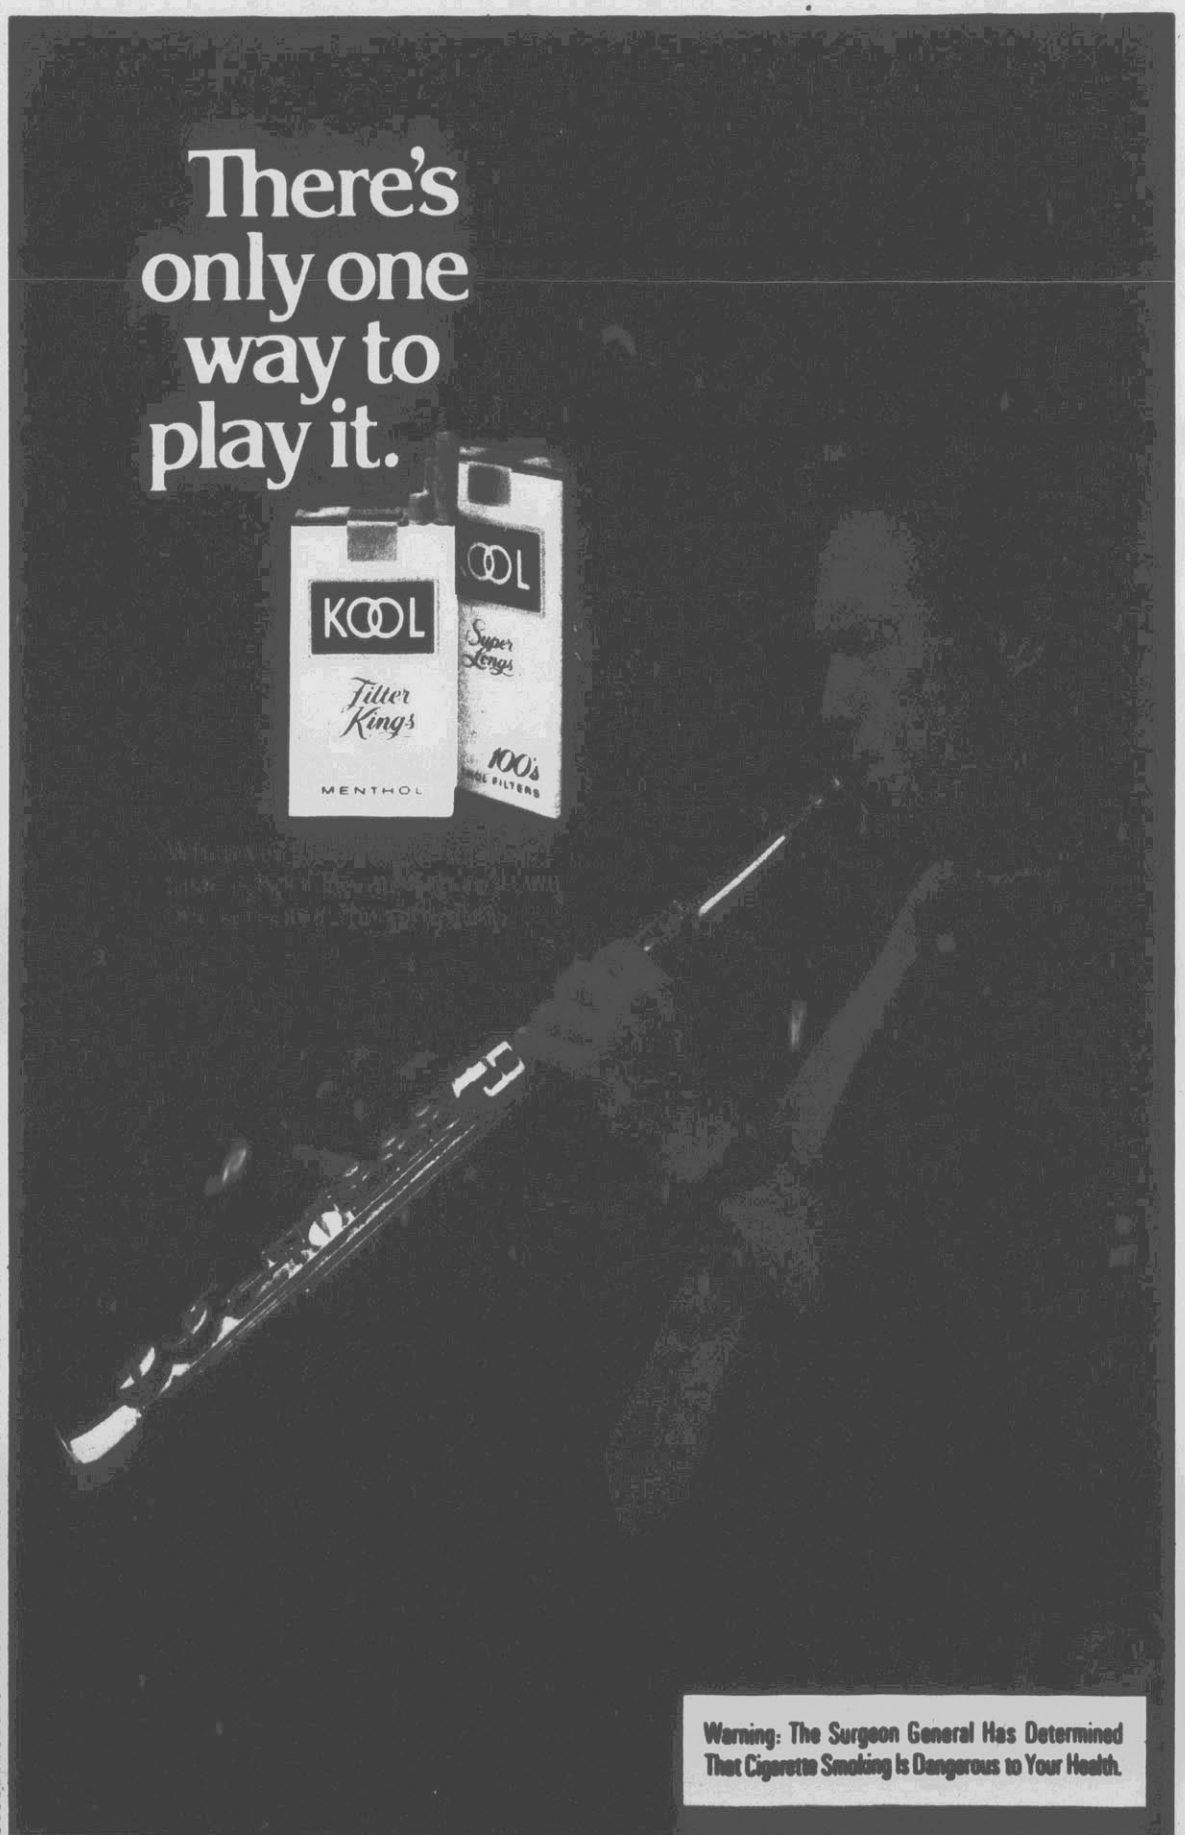

No teasing — the bubble hairstyle of the 60's is back, but it's in an 80's version, designed by Edwin Lombardi, a stylist for Sebastian International. Nowadays, teasing is kept to a minimum, and the result is a hairstyle that's short, simple and easy to care for.

Stockton on Pro Basketball's Powerhouses

"The teams that have been dominant in pro basketball for a long time may not sustain that position much longer. There will be new and different teams that will become threats, largely because of the number of great new stars coming up.

"Teams to watch: First of all, Houston, because of Ralph Sampson; that's a team that's really going to rise in the next couple of years. Also, watch San Diego, which has a fine mixture of veteran players and new, young players, like Terry Cummings. Detroit, Chicago, Portland and Dallas could also come on strong."

Dick Stockton is a CBS sports commentator.

Say That Again!

Have you ever strolled down a city street and heard a siren blaring from a vehicle parked at the curb? Was the car burglarized? Or was it just sounding off? Well, now comes the very latest in car protection: the voice-synthesized alarm. Cahs Inc., a manufacturer of automobile alarms in Mt. Vernon, N.Y., has come up with a device that not only emits the usual piercing siren but adds a chorus of "Burglar, burglar!"

Weather or Not

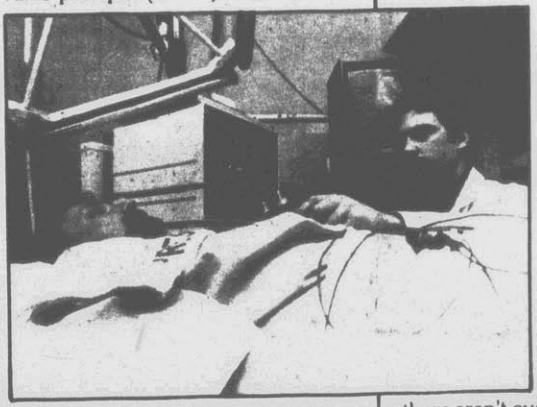

And last but not least, the weather. During the past two years, we felt the effects of a reoccurring phenomenon known as El Niño: Dramatic temperature changes in the tropical Pacific Ocean's surface indirectly caused a significant increase in precipitation in the U.S. According to the National Weather Service, El Niño conditions are almost back to normal, and it is expected that this year our climate will be influenced by more traditional factors. HEALTH

THE HEART SOUND THAT SIGNALS TROUBLE

By Toni Raiten

Your doctor places his cold stethoscope on your chest. If the heart is working normally, it will make the reassuring "lub-dub" sound of blood pumping through the heart's chambers. If the doctor hears a clicking sound, though, you could have an enlarged heart valve and be among the 10 percent of the population who suffer from mitral valve prolapse (M.V.P.). Odds are that you never felt anything amiss.

The Presbyterian Hospital

The mitral valve works as a gate between the upper left reservoir chamber of the heart and the lower left pumping chamber. To regulate the flow of blood into the pumping chamber, the mitral valve snaps shut, preventing any blood from flowing back into the upper chamber as it contracts. An enlarged mitral valve functions well enough in most cases, despite its "floppiness," which causes it to waiver when closing, instead of snapping shut. But sometimes the valve loosens and blood seeps back into the upper chamber, cutting down on the heart's efficiency.

Though many M.V.P. patients have no side effects, some suffer from annoying symptoms. "Patients have experienced shortness of breath, fatigue, dizziness, chest pain, a 'skipping' or 'racing' heart, sometimes even the loss of consciousness," says Dr. H. Cecil Coghlan, a professor at the University of Alabama's School of Medicine. For centuries physicians coupled these symptoms with hypochondria. Then in the early 1970's, a breakthrough in medical technology, echocardiography, permitted doctors to watch the heart work and led them to believe that their patients' symptoms were linked to an enlarged mitral valve.

Seventy percent of patients with M.V.P. are women. In most cases, the only unsettling aspect of M.V.P. is the diagnosis. Joan Hayward, 32, of New York City, was shocked last year when she learned she had M.V.P. "After I found out it was common and not disabling, I was able to calm down," she says. "It doesn't affect my life." In fact, few patients suffer from it so severely that they must restrict their activities.

However, some M.V.P. patients develop additional heart problems and run a higher risk of heart attack or stroke. Studies at the University of North Carolina and Stanford University of California have found that patients with the condition also run a higher risk of endocarditis, which is a bacterial infection around the heart. Before any M.V.P. patient has surgery, doctors prescribe antibiotics, and in severe cases, M.V.P. sufferers are placed on a heart medication.

Doctors aren't sure why some people with M.V.P. experience problems — such as a racing heart — while others aren't even aware of their condition. According to a study by Dr. Coghlan, the size of the valve's enlargement has little to do with the severity of the symptoms. Coghlan's study combined other findings to indicate that an enlarged valve by itself will not cause the complaints voiced by M.V.P. sufferers. Something else might be at fault. Dr. Coghlan theorizes that the symptoms might be caused by a "disorder in the patient's computer."

He discovered that M.V.P. patients with severe symptoms suffer from an imbalance of the nervous system, which helps regulate a heart's response to physical or emotional stress. Simply standing up or climbing stairs, for example, requires a message from the brain to the heart and lungs regulating circulation and respiration. M.V.P. patients who suffer severely not only have an enlarged mitral valve but may also have a malfunctioning "central computer in the mid-brain," Dr. Coghlan explains. With the "computer" out of whack, some control over circulation and respiration can be lost, which may explain why some M.V.P. patients get dizzy when they stand up.

Researchers have raised more questions than answers, but there is little to fear. You can live with M.V.P. If you have these symptoms, contact your doctor; and for more information, call your local American Heart Association. FW

Dodge Caravan. A truly revolutionary vehicle. It can handle two adults plus 125 cubic feet of cargo. Or five adults. Even seven with the available rear seat. Yet it's shorter than a full-size station wagon, so it's easier to maneuver and park. And since Caravan stands a mere 5'5", it's easy for you to get in and out of. And it's easy to get Caravan in and out of your garage.

Caravan's 2.2-liter engine rates an est. hwy. of 37 and EPA est. mpg of 24 – impressive mileage for a vehicle of this sort. Caravan also has front-wheel drive to handle slippery surfaces outside and give you more room inside. Yet for all of this, Caravan is remarkably low-priced and even backed by Dodge's 5 year/50,000 mile Protection Plan on engine, powertrain and outer body rust-through.

The totally new Dodge Caravan. You've got to see it, sit in it, and drive it to believe it. All of which can happen at your Dodge dealer – where you can buy or lease your very own transportation revolution. Order one now.

WORKING

SPARKING CREATIVE ENERGY ON THE JOB

Rita Grasso

By Bob Weinstein

Creativity is vital to job success. Yet most of us associate creativity with the so-called creative fields, such as painting, sculpture, writing, music and architecture.

If you look around, however, you'll see that creativity exists in all fields. Whether you're a nuclear physicist, physician, marketing specialist, salesperson, potter, tool-and-die maker or astronaut, getting in touch with and productively channeling your creativity can distinguish you as an innovative leader in your field.

What is creativity? The dictionary provides a few definitions. On creative: "Productive, having the quality of something created rather than imitated." And on creator: "One that creates, usually by bringing something new or original into being."

These definitions are fine, but they don't tell us anything about the creative process. If we're going to tap our creative core, we first have to know something about the stages of creativity.

Donald W. MacKinnon, Ph.D., professor emeritus in psychology at the University of California at Berkeley, breaks the creative process down into five steps: (1) a period of preparation during which one poses a problem to be solved; (2) a period of concentrated effort — one either solves the problem or experiences frustration; (3) a period of incubation during which one withdraws from the problem; (4) a moment of insight accompanied by exhilaration; (5) a period of verification, evaluation, elaboration and application.

Successfully harnessing creative energy inevitably gives birth to the creative product, which Dr. MacKinnon defines as "anything that is experienced or made by man — an idea, a work of art, a scientific theory, the design of a building."

As straightfoward as MacKinnon's steps are, don't think the creative process moves effortlessly from one stage to the next. More likely than not, the creator experiences untold frustration. At this point, he has to stop, withdraw and let the problem or project gestate, sometimes for months. Time heals and allows clear, objective thinking and a fresh confrontation with the problem.

Now that we understand the creative process, here are five steps to help improve our on-the-job creativity:

Find a target. The $64,000 question is: How are you going to channel your creativity to have maximum impact, or, how are you going to successfully target your creativity? What idea or problem is most viable? Which one stands the best chance of being realized? In what areas are your valued abilities of most use to the company?

Get organized. Once you have a target, organization is needed. What tools or equipment are required? Where are you going to execute your plan? What systems are needed to get the work done efficiently?

Use imagination. Without imagination the creative person can't harness ideas. Imagination is the ability to spot gaps and inadequacies that others fail to see. The creative person is disturbed by those gaps and works to close them. It was Albert Einstein who once said, "Imagination is more important than knowledge."

Visualize your goal. The creative person fuels the creative process by visualizing his idea in detail. In that way, he looks beyond the moment and sees his idea emerging from its embryonic state to a final, completed form. In the process, he anticipates problems, makes changes and works toward making his concept as perfect as it possibly can be.

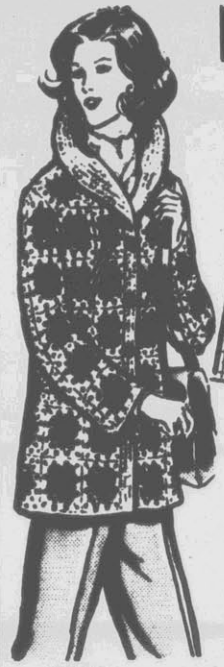

Research. Take nothing for granted. Cover your tracks, avoid duplication and make sure you've overtaken your competition. Don't be foolish enough to think that no one else thought of the idea first. It doesn't necessarily mean the project has to be abandoned, just restructured.

And be adaptable. You may need to modify your plans as you gather new information and adjust to the competitive demands of a changing marketplace. If you feel stuck, you may only be in the incubation period. FW

GETTING PERSONAL WITH

DONALD SUTHERLAND

FRANK TALK ABOUT FAMILY, FATE AND FONDA

Donald Sutherland may be known best for his performance in the movie Ordinary People, but his career has been far from commonplace. As a child growing up in Nova Scotia, he was frequently bedridden with illness. He was also unusual looking, dubbed Dumbo and Goofus by other children because of his long face, ungainly frame and big ears. Later that unconventional appearance landed him roles in the horror films Castle of the Living Dead and Die! Die! My Darling! After that, he went on to perform offbeat parts in the movies M*A*S*H, The Day of the Locust, Casanova and Invasion of the Body Snatchers. Sutherland's personal life has been equally variegated: two marriages that ended in divorce and a love affair with his Klute co-star, Jane Fonda. For the past 11 years, however, he has been living with Canadian actress Francine Racette, mother of three of his five children. He also sees steadiness in the roles he's been playing recently in movies such as Threshold, Max Dugan Returns and, opening next month, Crackers. Sutherland, 48, talked about past hardship and present happiness with FAMILY WEEKLY*'s Mary Ellin Bruns.*

© Theo Westenberger/Gamma-Liaison

Bruns: What is the connection between you and the characters you've played recently?
Sutherland: I think the link in my life is Francine Racette, because she has provided me with an extraordinary stability, and all those characters have stability. They are not fragmented, they are not ephemeral or fanciful.

Q: You once said you'd fallen a little in love with each of your female co-stars. How did you like working with Marsha Mason in Max Dugan Returns?
Sutherland: She's a terribly sexy woman; physically, she's a wonderful woman. She's so searching in her life and her identity and constantly, severely perusing every aspect of herself. I find her wonderful and loving.

Q: Did you daydream a lot as a child?
Sutherland: My head's always worked that way. It has a rectangular kind of screen and everything plays on it. I could move people around. I could sit and watch them and tell them to do things. It was extraordinary.

Q: Robert Redford directed you in Ordinary People. Would you work with him again?
Sutherland: Yeah, sure, because he's a terrific film maker, more so than a terrific actor. He has, I think, immense talent.

Q: I understand you assisted with the births of your three youngest children. What was that like?
Sutherland: Lovely, wonderful, thrilling. With all three children it worked out wonderfully. Our experience was terrific.

Q: Have the difficulties of your own childhood made you a more sensitive father?
Sutherland: Not really, no. They say that children who are beaten beat their own children. My parents loved me with an intensity that I hope I love my children with. I love them in a long-range way. Sometimes I'm ruthless in my demand for an intelligent approach to a situation, which maybe I should do a little less, but they sure are well loved.

"Oh, I would love to get married, fly in 10,000 people, have a terrific time. Well, maybe when I'm 60."

Q: So your parents were pretty good to you.
Sutherland: I didn't even know that people argued. I was 16 or 17 years old when somebody yelled at me, and I said, "What?" I found out quickly.

Q: What do you remember best about your childhood illness?
Sutherland: I was in the hospital once for a very long time. I can remember the heavy doors, the sound of them shutting. I can remember the squeak of the nurses' shoes, the starch in their uniforms; they were starched and white. The nurses had very cool hands and so much grace, so much grace.

Q: Did you think about death?
Sutherland: One day when I was 6 or 7, I realized that people died. I didn't know anyone who had died — my brother was to die much later — but I realized that life would come to an end and that death was a part of living; and I remember sitting all day in a corner and looking at the wall. I just stayed there trying to work out how I was going to deal with it. I was with my mother when she died. She was in my arms and I knew that she was dying and the event of her death was not a surprise, but it was a shock, it was a true shock — awesome.

Q: Is it true that in 1969 you had meningitis and almost died?
Sutherland: They say I almost died, not for very long but, you know, 10 seconds, five seconds. I was in a coma. I felt as if I were in water and my feet were sinking down into the water very quietly. There was a noise, a very comforting sound. Then it all became blue, really beautiful, and I started to go down a tunnel, and it was so seductive. I knew I was dying, and I really had to fight hard to resist.

Q: Did that experience change your life?
Sutherland: I find it very difficult to sleep now unless I am with someone who loves me a lot. I sleep for two or three hours, and then I wake up. The experience made it clear that when you die, you're on your own, and that your commitments and obligations to people and to the world are relative to that.

Q: Have your illnesses made you very protective of your children's health?
Sutherland: Yeah. I don't think I could survive the loss of a child. I don't think I could even survive talking about that. I really love them. I don't think I'm overprotective, but I'm pretty protective. They sure don't go on a boat without a life vest.

Q: Did being teased by other kids affect your confidence with girls?
Sutherland: I remember when I was 17 asking a girl if she would go out with me and she said yes. I was shocked.

Q: Do your kids want you and Francine to get married?
Sutherland: They don't care one way or the other, and Francine doesn't want to get married. She was scared by a cousin's wedding when she was a kid. But I really would love to have a grand party. I bought her a wedding dress about three years ago, really a wonderful dress — a $3,500 white dress, a beauty, just a beauty. She's never had it out of the box. Oh, I would love, you know, to get married, fly in 10,000 people, have a terrific time. Yeah, well, maybe we'll do it when we're 60.

Q: What did you learn from your relationship with Jane Fonda?
Sutherland: I learned in the process of it never to be dependent on anyone ever again, literally not to invest in any individual ever, nobody. I also learned huge respect for women. I just had a terrific time; it was a great friendship. I really liked it.

Q: You were once very active politically. Are you active now?
Sutherland: I work in the American Film Institute, and all of my social and political energies at the moment go into that. . . . And I have tried to educate my children so that they will make the best use of their brains in this nuclear age. I hope that if, by some magic and good luck, the world is still around when they're old enough to have power, they will have the intelligence to make it safe forever. FW

PETS AND PEOPLE

WHEN YOU'RE DOGGED WITH PROBLEMS, TRY PUPPY LOVE

By Betty White and Thomas J. Watson

During a 60 Minutes segment on pet therapy, newsman Harry Reasoner quipped, "It seems that man's best friend in some cases may prove to be man's best medicine." Reasoner was referring to claims that a pet may improve your physical and/or mental health.

For example, a study conducted by the Center for Interaction of Animals and Society at the University of Pennsylvania showed that heart attack victims fared better during recovery if they were pet owners. Of the 53 patients studied who had pets, only three died within a year after their attacks. Of the 39 patients studied who had no pets, 11 died: a difference of over 20 percent. It didn't matter what kind of pets — dogs, cats, birds, fish; they all relaxed their owners.

Pets seem to prove not only physically but also emotionally therapeutic. "Animals cannot take the place of another human being," says James Lynch, Ph.D., a professor of psychology at the University of Maryland School of Medicine, "but they are another important dimension through which the need for companionship may be satisfied."

To help meet that need, pets have been brought into children's centers, nursing homes and reform schools. Psychologists and psychiatrists have witnessed some remarkable successes with pets and emotionally impaired people. As part of one project, inner-city children who have never been around many animals are bused to Green Chimney Farm in upstate New York. The children, many of whom are terribly introverted and cannot relate to people, coddle and pet the animals. Therapists hope that the animals will serve as a kickoff point for psychotherapy and help the children become more responsible and self-controlled.

Once a relationship develops between a patient and an animal, the patient often transfers his or her trust from the pet to the therapist, and ultimately, to other people. Sonny, a 19-year-old psychotic, spent most of his time in a hospital lying in a mummy position. The staff tried treatments ranging from recreational therapy to drugs to try to pull Sonny from his uncommunicative behavior. Nothing worked. Before administering electroshock therapy, his doctor placed a little terrier on Sonny's bed. Immediately the dog jumped on the youth, licking his face, and to everyone's surprise, Sonny burst into a smile. Raising himself up on one elbow, he asked, "Where can I keep him?"

Psychiatrists on this case credit the terrier with making the initial breakthrough that eventually led to Sonny's recovery. The operative words here are initial breakthrough. When problems are complex and deep-seated, a pet should not be expected to change a patient's personality forever. Pet therapy can, however, open a locked door and make a patient reachable to others.

Aline Kidd, Ph.D., a professor of psychology at Mills College in California, had a young patient who refused to talk. When the little boy arrived with his mother at Kidd's office, he curled himself into a ball and pulled his jacket over his head. He then wrote a note: "Leave Me Alone!" The boy's mother mentioned that he only talked to his cat, so Kidd asked her to bring the pet for the next appointment. "The little boy would talk to the cat, and in about two months he would talk to me because I talked to the cat," says Kidd.

Though not appropriate in all cases, pets can satisfy many patients' needs for unconditional affection. Patients discover rather quickly that pets will not judge them. "Using a pet is not an open sesame to the inner world of the mentally disturbed," says Boris Levinson, a pioneer in the field of pet therapy. But the problems of mental disorders are so vast that any therapy offering relief deserves attention, he says.

Perhaps Michael McCulloch, M.D., a psychiatrist in Portland, Ore., puts it best: "If pet therapy offers hope for relief of human suffering, then it is our professional obligation to explore every avenue for its use. Cure when possible . . . comfort always." FW

There's really no mystery about what causes foot problems

Very simply stated, when you're born, each of your feet has 26 different bones held in balance and position by tendons, muscles and ligaments.

There's really no mystery about finding relief

Since 1948, over 3,000,000 people are enjoying blessed relief they never thought possible . . . thanks to flexible Featherspring® Foot Supports.

How do Feathersprings bring relief? Well, unlike costly special shoes, mass-produced arch preserves, or ready-made, drug store remedies. Custom-formed flexible Feathersprings actually restore and maintain the elastic support your feet had when you were a youth.

No matter how long you've had foot problems—be it 3 months or 30 years—the instant you slip a pair of Feathersprings in your shoes (one pair is all you'll ever need)—you'll be able to stand all day, walk, dance, even jog or run in total comfort.

What people say in unsolicited testimonials, about Featherspring:

". . . I have thoroughly enjoyed the comfort Featherspring has provided me. You would not believe the difference they have made my feet feel–before I had such pain when walking because I have severe callus' on both of my feet."
M.W.R./Richmond, VA *

"I am probably one of your worst customers as far as being difficult because of my various peculiarities, but I am more than pleased and for the first time in my life I feel like really walking. I am wearing my Featherspring and they are everything you said they were!"
E.G.W./Lookout Mountain, TN *

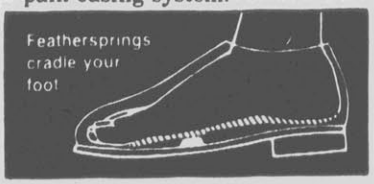

There's really no risk involved in finding out whether Featherspring can relieve your foot problems

We're so certain that Featherspring Foot Supports will end your foot problems that if you're not completely satisfied . . . we'll refund your money in full . . . with no questions asked.

- Structurally realigns your feet restoring their balance.
- Allows your feet to flex normally in all types of shoes.
- Provides continuous, moving support.
- Acts as a shock absorbing and pain easing system.

WHAT IN THE WORLD

NEW YEAR, NEW PLEDGES

By the end of this month, most New Year's resolutions will have as much fizzle as leftover champagne. But Denis Waitley, the recently appointed chairman of psychology for the U.S. Olympic Committee and author of the best seller Seeds of Greatness: The 10 Best-Kept Secrets of Total Success, has some ideas for giving your pledge lasting power.

- Make sure the goals you set are just out of reach, but not out of sight. Instead of vowing to drop 25 pounds, break it down to five pounds by Washington's Birthday.
- Get group reinforcement. This does not mean hooking up with people in the same straits but rather with those who have similar motivations and have already had some success in taming their difficulties.
- Don't share your resolutions with negative people.
- Don't tell people what you're going to try to stop doing. Instead, concentrate on the desired new habit or result.
- Establish a reward for yourself ahead of time... to which the editors of FAMILY WEEKLY say: Good luck, and have a Happy.

CLEAN BILLS OF HEALTH

It's hardly news that a dollar bill doesn't go as far as it used to. Well, starting this year, a dollar bill won't go as long as it used to either. As part of a $1 million effort to make U.S. currency more presentable, new sensors will be installed in the Federal Reserve System's money counters to detect worn-out bills and take them out of circulation. Consequently, the average life of a dollar bill is expected to shrink from 18 to 17 months.

The quality of the money in circulation began declining in 1978 and was duly noted, says David Starin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank's new quality-control task force. "Americans are pretty fussy," he points out. "They want their money, like their flag, to be clean and crisp."

Still, bucking the old system leaves the Government with a new problem: what to do with the dirty dollars. At one point it was suggested that the tons of shredded money might make good bedding for horses, but the idea was quickly scratched when it was learned that the green ink on the bills is poisonous. "I also think the idea that the money be washed or mended instead of shredded is impractical," says Starin. "I mean, what would we do? Hang it out on a clothesline to dry?"

The Baltimann Archive

NO MORE MR. NICE GUY

For the past several years it has begun to appear that chivalry, while not exactly as dead as the dinosaur, has pretty much gone the way of chaperones and crinolines. Yet, according to a Merit Report Opinion Survey conducted recently, 90 percent of the 1,200 adults questioned are all in favor of traditional male niceties: opening doors for women, assisting them in and out of cars, lighting their cigarettes. "Such etiquette should not be a casualty of the changing roles of men and women," is the view.

There's just one small problem: People seem to like the idea of courtesy more than the practice of it. Thirty percent of those polled think men are treating women worse now than they did 10 years ago. And a more interesting point: 32 percent of the survey participants believe women are treating men worse than a decade ago.

A SUPER IDEA

What good is a grocery store in which you can't poke the melon, squeeze the bathroom tissue or scowl at the checkout attendant who puts a carton of eggs at the bottom of your bag. Admittedly, you can't squeeze or scowl at the Phone-In Drive-Thru Market, which recently opened in Los Angeles. On the other hand, you can buy a week's worth of groceries without leaving your car and be in and out of the parking lot in three minutes.

Store patrons make selections from a catalogue of 4,000 items, and phone in their orders using product code numbers (a banana, for example, is 66-029). Three hours later, when customers pull up to the market warehouse, a "greeter" brings bags and bill to the car. A $1.50 service charge per visit plus a $20 membership fee are required.

Says owner Ron Cameron, "We think this will revolutionize the modern grocery business the way the first supermarket did 30 years ago."

EVEN SANTA GETS THE BLUES

So you think you've managed to survive the holidays. But, according to David Moss, an episcopal priest and a psychologist with the Seabury Institute in Atlanta, Ga., the worst may be yet to come.

For many people, the close of the Christmas season does not bring relief from stress, but provokes an "explosion that results in personal, familial or marital apocalypse," says Moss.

"It's only when all the festivities are over that reality sets in and people notice the empty chair, the lost loved one, the lack of funds," he explains. As a result, tension and depression build. To help prevent the post-holiday blues, family and friends should be particularly sensitive to each other's needs and feelings at this time of year.

1-Carat Emeralds $4 Apiece

This is NOT a Misprint.

Dear Reader:

Today the famous New York jewelry firm of Carter & Van Peel, of which I am President and Chairman of the Board, has begun removing 1-carat emeralds from its New York corporate vault and will distribute them, on a first-come basis, for only $4 apiece to every person who mails this ad to the company address (below) before Midnight, January 31, 1984.

All emeralds are 1-carat in size or larger (some may be as large as 1½ carats) and will be accompanied by our Certificate of Authenticity to that effect issued by gemologists of the firm of L.G.P. Gem, Ltd., of New York.

All emeralds are genuine precious stones of the same size and quality that the firm of Carter & Van Peel regularly sells to its customers and advertises in leading publications such as The New York Times.

All emeralds are completely finished stones, each one cut, faceted and polished, ready to be displayed in a collection of precious stones or set in jewelry of the owner's choice.

These emeralds will not be sold at this price by the company in any store. To obtain one at this price, mail this original printed ad to the company address below no later than Midnight, January 31, 1984.

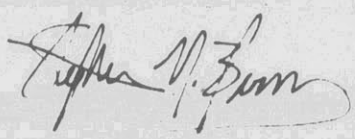

Why do we offer genuine emeralds for $4 apiece?

Being neither philanthropists nor saints, we at Carter & Van Peel expect to gain far more than we lose from this publicity campaign: Our firm is already known to the public as a large response advertiser of diamonds and precious stones. We expect this publicity campaign to make us the largest, and to increase our yearly sales by millions of dollars. We will also gain the names of persons such as yourself, who will constitute a valuable roster of potential clients to whom we can mail announcements of future sales.

As we readily admit, this publicity campaign is unashamedly profit-oriented and self-serving. If you accept in the same spirit, I think we shall both be well pleased—or your money will be speedily refunded.

There is a limit of two (2) emeralds per address at this price, but requests which are mailed early enough (before Jan. 22) may request as many as seven. Therefore I suggest you respond promptly—to avoid dissapointment.

Sincerely,

President and Chairman of the Board,
Carter & Van Peel, New York

TO OBTAIN YOUR EMERALDS: Mail this original printed ad (copies or photostats are not acceptable) together with your name and address and $4 for each emerald. Add only $2 shipping and handling no matter how many emeralds you are requesting. Mail to: Carter & Van Peel, $4 Emerald Offer, Dept. 603-119, Box 1047, Westbury, N.Y. 11595. (V23782)

NOTE: All emeralds are covered by a full money-back guarantee. For your protection, they will be self-insured by the company and shipped direct from our corporate vault in New York.

FREE SEED SPROUTER WITH YOUR ORDER

GROW SPROUTS IN YOUR KITCHEN Free Sprouter makes it Easy!

Now you can have fresh sprouts every day—grown right in your own kitchen for just pennies. These sprouts can be used in dishes like chop suey, omelets, soups or casseroles—or eaten raw in salads. Fresh crunchy and delicious sprouts add zest and food values to your diet.

VITAMIN CONTENT INCREASED UP TO 600% AS SEEDS SPROUT

Bean sprouts have been used by the Chinese for thousands of years. Now it has been discovered that the vitamin content of various seeds and beans can increase up to 600% in sprouting.

HOW THE SPROUTER WORKS

There are only 2 easy steps—Nature does the rest. You just put a spoonful of seeds in the sprouter and fill with water. Snap on the perforated cover and invert sprouter to drain off excess water. Repeat morning and evening and in 2 to 5 days the jar will be filled with delicious crisp sprouts.

Check the box in the order blank and return it with an order for any of the items in this ad and we will include without charge a SEED SPROUTER and packet of seeds. Growing sprouts is fun!

● HAL'S PALS! Dear Hal: Did all of the animals on Noah's ark come in pairs? Dear Pal: All but the worms. They came in apples. Dear Hal: When will a new baby brighten up a house most? Dear Pal: In the middle of the night.

● Sum Year! Add the four digits of 1984 and they will total 22. When will the four digits of the year total 22 again? Answer in 30 seconds.

In the year 1993

● Word Play! Challenge: Find five words containing the word SIGN. EnSIGN is one, for example. Now see if you can find five more.

Design, assign, resign, consign, signal, etc.

● Riddle-Me-This! What era had the most confusion? The Muddle Ages. What's big and gray and thinks it's sick? A hippo-chondriac. What baseball team has the fattest legs? The Chicago Wide Sox.

SUMMING UP THE YEARS!

Are you clever with sums? Let's see! The last two digits of four consecutive years are contained in the diagram above. You are asked to fill the remaining empty squares with numbers 1 through 12 so that each row, column, and corner-to-corner diagonal will total exactly 105.

Remember, insert all of the numbers 1-12 (no number is to be repeated) so that the sum across, down and diagonally is 105.

Across, top 10, 8, 1, 86; next 1, 84, 12, 6; next 87, 2, 7, 9; bottom 5, 11, 85, 4.

DROPPING IN! There's a new kid in town! And how did he arrive? To find out, connect dots 1 to 2 to 3, etc.

Our Story:
ON THE MORN AFTER THE BANQUET TEMPERS ARE SHORT AND FACES LONG. GROANING HUNTERS SLEEP WHERE THEY FELL. ARN BUNDLES UP HIS FAMILY FOR A TOUR OF THE ROYAL DOMAIN AT ORR -- "MY PLACE," HE CALLS IT. THE FRESH AIR REVIVES EVERYONE'S SPIRITS. JUDITH AND MATTHIAS AND NATHAN HAVE NEVER PLAYED IN SNOW.

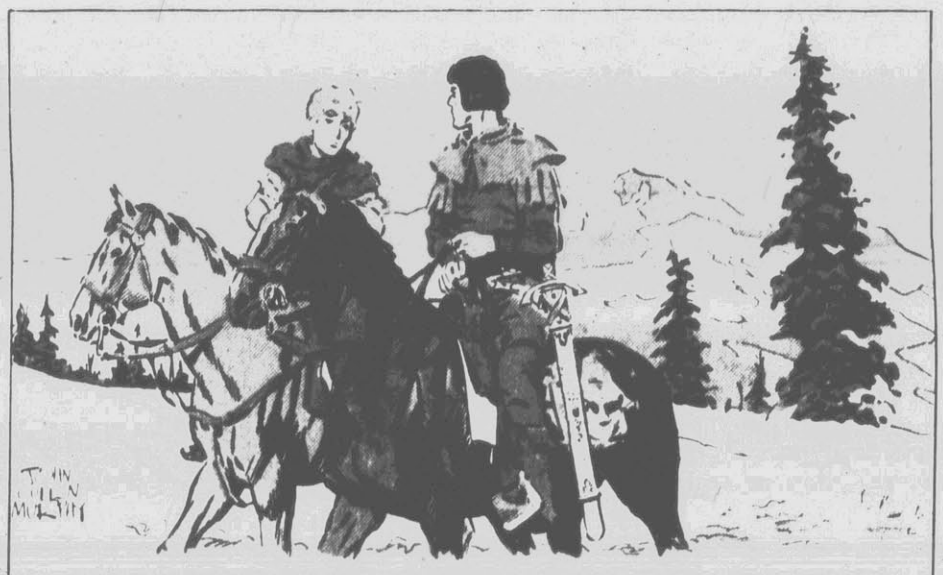

.... BUT THEY PICK UP THE RULES QUICKLY. "OH, NATHAN," JUDITH CALLS SWEETLY. THE UNSUSPECTING LAD EATS SNOWFLAKE PIE.

LATER THEY CHANCE UPON ONE OF THE NEW SAXON HILL-TOWNS. "THE SAXONS SPENT THE TIME THEY CALL 'BLOTMONATH' OR BLOODMONTH SLAUGHTERING BRITONS," ARN EXPLAINS. "NOW THEY MUST CATCH UP AND SPEND THE MONTH THEY CALL YULE SLAUGHTERING HOGS."

HENGIST, THE SAXON CHIEF, COMES FORWARD TO GREET HIS NOBLE VISITORS. AFTER MANY BOWS HE PRESENTS ALETA WITH THE HEART AND LIVER OF A FRESHLY KILLED PIG. "IT IS A MARK OF HONOR," ARN WHISPERS TO HIS MOTHER. ALETA ACCEPTS WITH IRON GRACE.

....E SHADOWS ARE LONG WHEN THE PARTY HEADS BACK. PRINCE VALIANT RIDES AHEAD TO JOIN HIS SON. "MERLIN SUMMONED ME," VAL TELLS ARN WHEN THEY ARE OUT OF EARSHOT. "HE SPOKE OF MAEVE AND HINTED AT AN UGLY SECRET. AND HE BADE ME GIVE YOU THIS RING, SAYING THAT IT 'HAS ONLY ONE USE AND CAN BE USED ONLY ONCE.'"

ANYONE CAN WRITE A COUNTRY SONG, PERFESSER..
YOU JUST DRAW FROM EVERYDAY EXPERIENCE
"Momma, Don't Let Your Babies Grow Up to be Rotarians"?!
YOU'VE WRITTEN A COUNTRY SONG?
SURE.... IT WAS A SNAP.
I JUST SAT DOWN AND FIGURED OUT THE BASIC ELEMENTS OF CLASSIC COUNTRY SONGS...
PUT 'EM ALL TOGETHER AND HAD ME A TUNE..
YOU NEED A TRUCK, A TRAIN, A GIRLFRIEND WHO LETS YOU DOWN...
THEN THROW IN SOME WHISKEY, YOUR MOMMA AND A GUITAR
AND... Voilà!
WHAT'S THE TITLE?..
"The Drunken Freight Train of Your Heart Mashed a Truckload of My Dreams at the Crossroads of a Lifetime of Needin' You and the Prison of This Ol' Guitar My Daddy Gave to Me"
mmm.. Down in San Antone."

ANOTHER YEAR COME AND GONE! I CAN'T BELIEVE IT!
WHERE DOES THE TIME GO?
NOT TO WASTE THE COMING YEAR...
BUT BE UP AND WORKING...
AND PACK EACH MONTH...
WITH DEEDS OF GLORY AND ACTION...
BUT, OF COURSE, THIS WILL TAKE PLANNING...

"...AND TO USE THE TIME IN INCREASED INTERACTION WITH THE AFOREMENTIONED WIFE AND CHILDREN."

IT'S REALLY TOUCHING.
YES, IT IS TOUCHING

WAKE UP, DEAR... YOU HAVE TO SEE THIS!

YOU WON'T BELIEVE IT!

PLOP

I'VE NEVER SEEN ANYTHING LIKE IT IN ALL MY LIFE!

IT GIVES ME GOOSE BUMPS ALL OVER!

JUST LOOK AT ALL THAT FRESH NEW-FALLEN SNOW, AND THE WAY THOSE ICICLES FORMED IN THE TREES LIKE THAT!

AND SMELL THE AIR... IT'S SO CRISP AND CLEAN AND PURE...

LET'S GO FOR A WALK RIGHT AFTER BREAKFAST!
