Aycock New Chief Judge Of District

Judge E. Burt Aycock Jr. of Greenville has been named chief District Court judge of the 3rd Judicial District by state Chief Justice Joseph Branch.

Aycock, who has been a District Court judge since 1976, replaces Robert Wheeler of Grifton, who retired Dec. 31. The 3rd District includes Pitt, Craven, Pamlico and Carteret counties.

In making the appointment, Branch said "Judge Aycock's legal background and dedicated service as a District Court judge well qualify him for the position of chief District Court judge."

Aycock, who is seeking re-election this year, is a 1960 graduate of Rose High School. He received his undergraduate degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1965, and his law degree from UNC-CH in

President Of American Univ. Assassinated

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Two gunmen shot the president of American University of Beirut today near his campus office, killing him with a bullet through the head, authorities said.

About four hours after the assassination of Malcolm Kerr, 52, a Beirut-born American, an anonymous telephone caller told the Beirut office of Agence France-Presse, the French news agency, that "Jihad Islami," or Islamic Holy War, was responsible for the shooting.

Speaking in Arabic, the caller said Kerr was "a victim of the American military presence in Lebanon," according to the news agency.

The caller also claimed the group was behind the abduction by gunmen on Tuesday of the Saudi consul in Beirut, and said the diplomat "is being tried according to Islamic law and we will soon throw out his body."

Islamic Holy War, which is believed to be loyal to Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, also claimed responsibility for the Oct. 23 truck-bombings that killed 241 American and 58 French troops in Beirut.

Several pro-Khomeini Shiite Moslem Lebanese leaders, however, have disclaimed Islamic Holy War. Sheik Hussein Fadlallah, one such leader, has said "this organization does not exist. It is a telephone organization."

Walid Jumblatt, Lebanon's top Druse opposition leader, issued a statement in Damascus saying Kerr's killing and the kidnapping of the Saudi diplomat were the work of right-wing Christians.

Kerr had replaced David S. Dodge, the acting president, who was kidnapped in July 1982. Dodge was held by pro-Iranian extremists in Lebanon's Bekaa Valley and in Iran for a year before being freed after Syrian leaders intervened.

Supreme Court Rules

Selecting Jury Must Be Open

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The constitutional right of reporters and the public to attend criminal trials extends to jury selection, a unanimous Supreme Court ruled today.

The justices, by a 9-0 vote, set aside rulings that allowed California courts routinely to conduct secret jury-selection proceedings in capital cases.

The high court said that unless trial judges can point to specific reasons why jury selection must be closed, the proceedings should be conducted in open court.

Today's decision expanded a 1980 Supreme Court ruling that the public and press have a constitutional right to attend criminal trials, even when defendants object.

The court said in that ruling that judges can close trials, or portions of them, only as a last resort to ensure fairness.

Before today, however, there had been doubt among lower courts whether jury selection should be treated as part of the trial.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger wrote the 1980 decision.

In writing for the court again today, he said, "Since the development of trial by jury, the process of selection of jurors has presumptively been a public process, with exceptions only for good cause shown."

He added, "The presumption of openness may be overcome only by an overriding interest based on findings that closure is essential to preserve higher values and is narrowly tailored to serve that interest."

Burger said trial judges must tell news media representatives who challenge closures why they are necessary.

"The interest is to be articulated along with findings specific enough that a reviewing court can determine whether the closure order was properly entered," he said.

The court ruled that California courts had not overcome the "presumption of openness" when they allowed the exclusion of the news media and public from jury selection in the California trial of a rapist-murderer.

Albert Brown Jr. was convicted and sentenced to death in 1982 by a Riverside, Calif., jury chosen in secret.

The trial judge's decision to close the questioning of prospective jurors was challenged by the Riverside Press-Enterprise.

The trial judge also refused to make public the transcripts of the jury-selection proceedings even after the trial was completed.

Noting that closed jury selection sometimes may be necessary, Burger said the trial judge erred in not making transcripts of the proceedings available within a reasonable time.

"When limited closure is ordered, the constitutional values sought to be protected by holding open proceedings may be satisfied later by making a transcript of the closed proceedings available within a reasonable time, if the judge determines that disclosure can be accomplished while safeguarding the juror's valid privacy interests," Burger said.

"Even then, a valid privacy right may rise to a level that part of the transcript should be sealed, or the name of a juror withheld, to protect the person from embarrassment," he added.

Burger said the trial judge in Brown's case "closed an incredible six weeks of (jury selection) without considering alternatives to closure."

Seven justices joined Burger's opinion, with Justices Harry A. Blackmun and John Paul Stevens also writing separate opinions. Justice Thurgood Marshall wrote an opinion supporting the same result, but did not join Burger's opinion.

New Classifications For Zoning Ordinance Sought

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The proposed addition of four new classifications to the zoning ordinance, specifically addressing single-family development and excluding duplex or multifamily units, was endorsed by the Greenville Planning & Zoning Commission.

The board voted Tuesday night to recommend that the City Council approve the addition of single-family-only designations of R-15S, calling for lots of at least 15,000 square feet; R-12S, requiring at least 12,000 square feet; R-9S, 9,000 square feet; and R-6S, 6,000 square feet.

Staff planner Skip Browder said the ordinance already contains R-20, R-15, R-9 and R-6 classifications and the R-12S proposal is an entirely new zone that would allow single-family development on a lot size that is between the 9,000 and 15,000 square feet requirements.

The list of permitted uses and special uses in some of the current residential classifications, including duplex and multifamily development, has been a subject of controversy for some time. Browder said the inclusion of the new single-family zones would "take the guess work out" of the process.

In recent months, developers have indicated plans to develop only single family homes on their R-9 properties but residents who live in neighboring areas have been reluctant to endorse the developments since duplex units could be built in spite of the promises. The new "S" zones would make the

Gromyko Denounces Military Buildup By The United States

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko denounced the U.S. military buildup as a "pathological obsession" in a bitter speech today shortly before he met with Secretary of State George P. Shultz.

Gromyko also said it would be "pointless" to resume arms control negotiations as long as NATO adheres to its decision to deploy U.S.-made nuclear missiles in Western Europe.

Addressing the East-West conference on European security, Gromyko said it was up to the international community to stop U.S. militarism, which he likened to a drug addiction in which the addict needs greater and greater doses to survive.

Four hours later, Gromyko met Shultz at the Soviet Embassy in Stockholm — the first high-level contact between the superpowers in four months.

The American press center in Stockholm said Shultz and his party went to the Soviet Embassy in a driving snowstorm, arriving five minutes before the talks began at 3 p.m. (9 a.m. EST). They immediately went inside for the closed meeting.

A pooled report from a small group of reporters permitted inside the white-walled embassy said Shultz met Gromyko in a high-ceilinged room, facing each other across a brown lacquered table. Lemon slices and sugar on the table

December Hospital Utilization Fell Below Figures Of Last Year

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
December utilization of Pitt County Memorial Hospital was less than projected and fell below the total for December 1982, hospital president Jack Richardson told PCMH trustees members Tuesday night.

Richardson said the December patient population was 11,181 patients days, 8 percent fewer than those of last December. Utilization of available beds was 64.6 percent. Several units were closed and consolidated with others to minimize staffing requirements through Christmas.

Chief financial officer Warren McRoy reported that the hospital's population was down about 1,000 patient-days in October, November and December. Revenue is down 12 percent from projected, he said, and expenses are down 12 percent, also. January appears to be developing busier, he said, with additions of cardiac surgery and radiation therapy programs at the hospital promising to further increase utilization later this year.

Vice President Fred Brown said a three-phase cost containment plan has been developed by hospital administrative staff and department managers. He said the first phase is simply good management practices. However, the second phase, which would go into effect if patient population fell below 65 percent, and phase three, if patient population fell below 60 percent, involved cutting hours and employees. These phases are contingent in nature, he emphasized.

A new employee cost-containment suggestion program with monetary rewards will get under way soon, Brown said. He said the name of the program will be SEARCH (Shrink Expenses and Earn Cash in Hand). Similar programs in other hospitals have saved hundreds of thousands of dollars, Brown said.

Ralph Hall, the hospital's director of plant operations, reported that an addition of 2,500 square feet to the neonatal unit is now being planned as a change order to

Wedding Gift Ideas That Aren't Apt To Be Alike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — What do you give newlyweds whose marriage is more like the merger of two households? A kit on "How to Hold a Successful Yard (or Garage) Sale" and the promise of a sunny day? That might cross your mind, but if you dig deeper and consider your closeness to the couple, you may think of something they don't already have.

"Gifts do depend on how well you know the couple," says Madison County Home Economics Extension Agent Eleanor Ames.

"Money is a handy gift, but really is so impersonal," Mrs. Ames said in an interview. "Use some creative thinking about gift giving. Think about the couple — their likes, dislikes, hobbies, collections, interests — and go from there."

She said handmade items represent sentimental feelings that grow and have meaning over the years.

"Use your talents to create 'specialty' gifts," she said. For example, counted cross stitch, needlepoint, crewel or candlewicking projects commemorating the wedding.

Bette Barr, in charge of the bridal gift registry at a Columbus department store, said she recently had noticed a few more older brides. For some it was a second marriage and it amounted to the combining of two households.

What did they request? "Towels and sheets," she said.

As a personalized gift she has done decoupage work with the wedding invitation.

"I have given the invitation framed in a tray," she said.

One shopper even brought two bottles of wine to the registry to see if they were on a certain bride's list.

They were.

Today's bride often brings along her future husband to help choose table service articles, kitchen equipment and linens.

"The men are talking about cookware, and some are specific about the type of cutlery they want," Ms. Barr said.

To go with cookware and cutlery, Mrs. Ames suggests cookbooks, maybe a personal one in which friends share at least one recipe of their own.

Other gift suggestions from Mrs. Ames included:

- A telephone, now that phone ownership is on the rise.
- Membership in a health club or sports club.
- Inexpensive baskets that have multiple uses for storage or decorating.
- A promise of time or gift coupons for such things as dining out, washing the car, cutting the grass or cleaning the house.
- Memory book pictures showing the couple as they grew up and as they start their life together. "It's something they can continue to keep," she said.
- Christmas ornaments, perhaps sharing some of your favorites, or a dated collectible commemorating their first Christmas together.
- A plastic house cleaning kit caddy, complete with cleaning supplies.
- A fix-it kit with such things as hammer, screwdriver, pliers, nails and screws.

Dear Abby

Buckle Baby's Seat Belt After Doing Yours

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: "Worried Sick" expressed concern because her sister never bothered to tell her children to buckle up their seat belts. The sister dismisses it by saying, "If anything happens to them, it will be God's will."

I'm sending you an article I clipped from Aide magazine. It really shook some sense into me, and now I religiously buckle my children into their seat belts before I turn the key:

CHILD SAFETY SEATS

This recent letter to Dear Abby made our point about child restraints better than we ever could.

"Dear Abby: Here in New York, the state legislature recently passed a law requiring all car passengers 4 years old and under to be strapped into approved safety seats. There is a $25 fine for parents who have not equipped their cars as yet, and that $25 goes toward the purchase of a seat. I can't believe all the grumbling and complaining about this law.

"We moved here four years ago, leaving behind in Ohio a deep, dark secret we never mention here. Six years ago I was driving my 6-month-old daughter, unbelted, sitting in her carrier beside me. Five blocks from home, I was broadsided by a truck.

"My car flipped over twice, and my precious baby girl was tossed around inside like a pingpong ball. She died 72 hours later of massive head injuries. (I was told it was a blessing—that she would have been a vegetable had she lived.)

"Going home to an empty nursery drove me crazy with guilt. I had always been so careful. I had padded her crib, made sure she had only the safest toys, guarded her with my life and loved her with all my heart. If I had only known what I know now, she would have ridden home from the hospital as a newborn baby in a safety seat instead of in my arms.

"We buried the truth with Tina and moved here to escape the memories. No one here knows we ever had a child. My husband finds it too hard to talk about. Since I can't tell the story, I beg you to do it for me. If it saves only one child's life, Tina's death will not have been in vain.—Learned Too Late"

ALSO WORRIED

DEAR ABBY: In a lot of states it's the law that all children have to be buckled into safety belts when they're riding in a car. There are also TV commercials to remind adults to "buckle up."

If everyone is so concerned about safety in automobiles, how come there are no safety belts on school buses?

If safety belts save lives, why not save more lives by putting safety belts in all public vehicles, like the city buses, too?

B.P. IN AVILLA, IND.

DEAR B.P.: Good question.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a woman (age 46) who would play cards in her home the same evening of her parents was buried? Also, what do you think of the guests who played with her? Thank you.

NO NAMES, PLEASE

...

DEAR NO NAMES: It isn't possible to make a fair judgment without knowing what was in that woman's heart. And the same goes for the guests who played with her.

Marriage Rate Highest In U.S. History

By LINDA WERFELMAN WASHINGTON (UPI) — More Americans are getting married now than at any time in the nation's history, and the trend is likely to continue, government statisticians say.

Data gathered by the National Center for Health Statistics shows 2.5 million Americans were wed in 1982, more than in any previous year. It was the seventh straight year that the number of marriages increased.

"There probably are two factors that are very strongly influencing (the increase in total marriages)," said Barbara Wilson, a demographer in the agency's division of marriage and divorce statistics.

"One would be the increased number of marriageable people because of the baby boom. The other is the number of remarriages."

In 1980, the most recent year for which there are complete final statistics, 56 percent of all marriages were first marriages. The remaining 44 percent were remarriages of one or both partners.

"Most of these folks (who have been divorced) do remarry, and they remarry within five years," Ms. Wilson said.

Statistics show men are slightly more likely to remarry than women.

While the number of marriages has been increasing steadily, the rate of remarriage after divorce has fluctuated.

"There was a peak in 1969 (for women) and 1971 (for men), and it generally fell after that," Ms. Wilson said. "Now that fall seems to be leveling off ... because divorced people are getting remarried sooner after the divorce."

While more Americans are marrying every year, the brides and grooms are older now than they were 10 years ago.

In 1980, the median age for all brides was 23.7 years, compared with 21.3 years in 1963, an agency report said. For all grooms, the median age in 1980 was 25.9 years, up from 23.7 years in 1963.

When only first-time marriages were considered, the agency placed the median age for brides at 21.8 years in 1980, up from 20.3 years in 1963. The median age for grooms was 23.6 years, up from 22.5 years in 1963.

"Average age at first marriage has been increasing over the last decade, but it is really returning to levels it was at early in the century," Ms. Wilson said.

"The people born during the Depression, who were parents of the baby boom generation, married young. Now there's a return to older traditions."

Ms. Wilson declined to theorize on the reasons.

Just as the annual number of marriages has increased, yearly surveys by the National Center for Health Statistics generally have shown similar increases in the number of divorces.

The agency measured one exception — the number of divorces dropped in 1982 for the first time in 20 years, down to 1.2 million couples, 3 percent below 1981 figures.

Agency officials did not discuss reasons for the decline, which Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret Heckler called very encouraging.

Outside the agency, some experts have theorized that the lower 1982 divorce numbers are more a sign of a bad economy than of a surge in happiness among married couples. In poor economic times, they say, many couples simply cannot afford a divorce.

Both Ms. Wilson and a Social Security Administration analyst, who asked not to be identified, declined to speculate on causes of 1982's lower divorce numbers.

"I'm sure all that stuff is important," the analyst said, referring to the suggestion that changes in marriage and divorce statistics could be linked to the economy. "It's just hard to measure how much."

He said his office's projections indicate the decline in divorces registered in 1982 will not continue.

Instead, projections by the Social Security Administration indicate a continuing increase in the annual number of marriages and divorces well into the next century, the analyst said.

The increases in both categories will result largely from the expanding U.S. population, which will include growing numbers of Americans of marriageable age, he said.

Except for a leveling off period between 1987 and 2000, the agency's projections are for a marriage rate that rises continuously each year until 2080, the last year of the agency's long-term forecast. In that year, 3.2 million residents of the United States and its territories will marry, the agency estimated.

A similar increase is forecast in the number of annual divorces between now and 2080, when they are expected to total 1.4 million, projections showed.

Need Is Evident

It should not be lost upon us that the Kissinger Commission, which studied Central America, has warned that fighting there could "threaten the entire hemisphere."

While the commission suggested making military aid to El Salvador contingent upon human rights progress, it nevertheless recommends higher military aid to El Salvador and a five-year $8 billion economic aid package for the entire region.

The commission ties economic aid — to provide a better life for the people of Central America — to potential success in avoiding revolutionary takeover there.

Cuba tells us what communist takeover can do, not only to hemispheric stability but also to human rights. We must do what we can to avoid further communist encroachment in Central America.

Call For A Genius

President Reagan's highly touted Task Force on Food Assistance has caused even more confusion than already existed about hunger in the United States. The task force, in a report to Reagan, says it found no "rampant hunger" but acknowledged that it found "hunger to be a real and significant problem throughout our nation."

That, in itself, is not really controversial. But the task force went on to suggest an additional $500 million for nutrition programs and the consolidation of $16 billion worth of existing federal aid into block grants that would be used as the individual states see fit.

Those block grants apparently would bring about drastic changes in the way such assistance plans as the food stamp program are administered. Food stamps aren't as popular in North Carolina as in some other sections of the country, but they are considered in all cases to be a major leveler of assistance to the needy. Changes that could diminish the stamps' availability will be hard to bring about.

The task force proposals are being considered by the administration, which reportedly will include some of them in its budget proposal for fiscal 1985. It would seem that, by now, we would know how to deal effectively with the problem of eliminating hunger. We don't. Maybe the latest proposals will spur a new burst of innovative genius that will do the job.

Final GNP Ahead

NEW YORK (AP) — In the piles of statistics that spill from government offices nearly every day, none tells more about the ups and downs of the world's most complex economic machine than the gross national product, alias GNP.

Yet for as much fuss as is made about the government's frequent GNP reports, little is said about what it is the GNP measures, or why it matters anyway.

The government is due to release on Friday its first estimate of the GNP for the final three months of 1983. Here are some questions and answers to help explain the GNP:

Q. Why is it considered more important than the other statistics?

A. Mainly because it gives a wider picture of the economy than any other statistic. The GNP measures the value of all goods — from automobiles to toothpicks — and all services — from movie tickets to lawyers' fees — in the nation. No other statistic comes close to measuring such a broad range of economic activity. The GNP also is important because it provides perhaps the best means of comparing the U.S. economic performance with that of other nations.

Q. How does the U.S. stack up against the rest of the world?

A. The American economy not only is the largest in the world, but it is nearly twice as big as its closest rival in the non-Communist world — Japan. The American GNP for 1982 was $1.477 trillion, compared with $860 billion for Japan, $445 billion for West Germany and about $100 billion each for Canada and Britain.

Q. Isn't that distorted by inflation?

A. Such a distortion is avoided by using a base year for calculating the prices of all goods and services. The government uses 1972 sales prices to come up with its inflation-adjusted, or "real" GNP. It also publishes a GNP number that is not adjusted for inflation. That lesser known figure is called the "nominal" GNP.

Q. How can the government possibly count everything produced in the whole country?

A. It can't. Some people think the "underground economy," in which individual transactions are not recorded for tax purposes, accounts for hundreds of millions of dollars. It also is true that even the legitimate economy is not measured fully. For example, the work of housewives in managing their homes is ignored.

Q. Given the imperfections, how useful are the GNP figures?

A. Albert Sommers, chief economist at the Conference Board research organization, calls the GNP the "jewel" of economic statistics. He likens it to the balance sheet of a company: it tells you how much is coming in and how much is going out. On the other hand, the GNP figures may be more useful as a sign of which direction the economy is moving rather than an exact measure of its size.

Q. How often does the government produce GNP numbers?

A. It measures GNP by the quarter, but it publishes several estimates for each quarter in order to refine the figure as more complete data become available.

The Commerce Department starts with a "flash" estimate that is released even before the quarter is over. In the month following the end of the quarter the department makes what it calls its preliminary estimate, which is then revised a month later. A second revision comes the following month, and even that figure can be changed later.

Q. What has been the GNP shown about the economic recovery?

A. After declining 1.9 percent during 1982, the GNP grew at an annual rate of 2.6 percent in the first three months of last year, then recorded robust rates of 9.7 percent and 7.6 percent in the second and third quarters. The "flash" estimate for the fourth quarter said the rate of growth cooled a bit to an annual rate of 4.5 percent in the final three months of 1983.

WASHINGTON — He's never been nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize. But his efforts on behalf of the hungry and homeless may deserve such global recognition.

His name is Mitch Snyder, the 40-year-old Catholic activist leader of Washington's Community for Creative Non-Violence. By many in Washington, Snyder has been called both radical and publicity hound. But if, as a presidential commission has found, there is hunger but not starvation in America, it's people like Snyder and his colleagues who are making the difference.

Fourteen years ago, Snyder quit a cushy family life and job as a management consultant in New York to roam the country in search of himself. Within months, he was arrested and later sentenced to a three-year prison term for driving an automobile rented with a stolen credit card. It was at the penitentiary in Danbury, Conn., that he met and became a follower of the anti-war activist priests, Daniel and Philip Berigan.

Not long after his release — and some anti-war activism in New York — Snyder moved to Washington in 1973 and joined the CCNV, then three years old. He has since come to embody the organization, leading it through numerous controversies to the respect of presidents and community leaders alike.

Among his more provocative endeavors have been a fast to force a wealthy Catholic parish to divert part of a $400,000 church renovation fund to city hunger programs; a takeover of the National Visitor Center, then vacant, to shelter homeless men (after which they were unceremoniously thrown out); and a camp-out for 13 days in cardboard crates in front of the Washington city government building. While some of Snyder's actions have been symbolic, most, the CCNV's assorted soup kitchens and food-collection drives, have directly contributed to the welfare of otherwise desperate citizens.

On Sunday, a refurbished former university building opened as a shelter for the homeless, the result of negotiations between the Reagan administration, District of Columbia government and CCNV. When the accord was announced almost a month ago, a prominent local developer was prompted to offer a condemned but functional hotel building as interim housing.

Such are the gestures that come when one or more concerned citizens persistently prick others' consciences.

Apparently stirred by his own government's reports, Soviet President Yuri Andropov recently urged bureaucrats to remedy food shortages in the U.S.S.R.

Ironically, only 34 years ago, Andropov was on the receiving end of a similar message.

According to British journalist Jonathan Steele in a new book on the heard but unseen Soviet leader, the late Joseph Stalin chastised and almost arrested Andropov, then second secretary of the Karelo-Finnish Republic, for ignoring working complaints about food shortages.

According to documents released in Britain last week, President Eisenhower in 1953 told Anthony Eden — then the Tory foreign secretary — that it would be "treasonous" for the U.S. to consult the British on a decision to launch a nuclear attack. That Eden may have acquiesced to Eisenhower has stirred British anti-nuclear activists, who fear that Conservative Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher had done the same with Ronald Reagan.

Has Walter Mondale already chosen his running mate?

Some campaign sources suggest he has, and that the preferred partner is Florida Gov. Bob Graham. Recently, in fact, campaign chairman James Johnson and other high-level Mondale aides went courting Graham, who apparently expressed interest.

Libyan strongman Muammar Qaddafi is a master of mixed signals.

In a recent New Year's card sent to foreign diplomats in Tripoli, the alleged financier of world terrorism offered the following passage from the New Testament — "But what I tell you is this: Love your enemies and pray for your persecutors."

Trading A Phone For A Car

Now that the local phone companies have received their rate increases people are going to have to make some very hard choices before they call someone they love. If you think your telephone bills are going to be out of sight in 1984, just wait and see what happens in 1985.

"Hello, Momma, this is George."

"I don't know any George."

"George, your son."

"Oh THAT George. You hadn't called in so long I thought you had joined the Foreign Legion."

"Don't be that way, Momma, I called you last year."

"So that's such a big deal?"

"Do you know what local call costs these days?"

"Of course I don't know. I can't make one anymore."

"I was going to telephone you a month ago, but instead used the money to buy a car."

"Naturally a car is more important than calling your mother."

"I need a car for work. Then I was going to telephone you on your birthday, but Carol's tuition bill came in on the same day, and I had to decide whether to wish you a happy birthday or let her finish her sophomore year."

"You made the right decision. Education is much more important than calling one's mother. I thought I might hear from you last summer, but your sister tells me you went to Nantucket instead."

"Momma, I promised the family a vacation, and besides, it only cost us half as much to go to Nantucket as it would have to call you."

"It didn't bother me. You made the right decision. Your sister went to Easthampton, but she also had time to ring me."

"Her husband makes $250,000 a year. Doris can afford to make 35 local calls and not even feel it. Don't put her in the same class as me."

"So what would it hurt if you called me from the office and let the company pay for a call?"

"Momma, we're not allowed to make local calls from the office anymore. Every local call we make has to be authorized by two officers of the company."

"Are you trying to tell me a big company like yours can't afford to let an employee call his mother?"

"You're talking about millions of dollars, Momma. The company is now facing a stockholder's suit because they found a woman in the accounting department who was telephoning her baby-sitter every afternoon."

"So where did you get the money to call me today?"

"The banks are now giving local telephone call loans to their favored customers. Can we talk about something else besides what this call is costing me?"

"Why not? It's your dime."

"That wasn't very funny, Momma. So what's going on with you?"

"Mrs. Fisher's husband died, and left her sitting pretty with 47,000 shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey, and $500,000 in municipal bonds."

"What is she going to do with it?"

"She's thinking of selling it all and putting a Princess phone in her bedroom. Some women have all the luck."

"Listen, I'm going to hang up in a minute. I only took out a bank loan for one call. Is there anything you need?"

"No, I'm fine. It's nice to hear your voice. So when will you call again?"

"I'm not sure. Sally hasn't spoken to her mother for six months, and she says the next local call we make has to be to her."

"It doesn't surprise me. Your wife always struck me as a woman who didn't care how she spent your money."

Strength For Today

A recent headline announced that fortune is fickle.

Like many aphorisms, this one is misleading. Actually, there is no such thing as fortune in the sense that something in the realm of human affairs happens without cause, either good or ill. The cause may not be apparent, but it is there none the less. Something may appear to spring merely from fortune, but in the background is human causation.

So don't rely upon good fortune to get you on some dire and sorrowful turn in your circumstances. Maybe some day we will have machines which will so analyze every situation that cause and effect will be clearly visible in everything we do.

It would be more correct to say that fortune is non-existent than to say that it is fickle. Adult reasoning compels us to confront facts as they are.

Sales Weren't So Good

shoppers seemed to have thronged the stores, for example, and the storeowners themselves reported that sales were up.

Storeowners have been known to say such things in the past, the purpose being, of course, to develop a sense of enthusiasm among shoppers. The shoppers, for their part, could have been just window shopping.

But the newspapers also said sales were up, and the television and radio stations as well.

The confusion is worsened when you consider that, by Commerce's reckoning, retail sales actually would have declined if they hadn't been given a boost by automobile sales.

Perhaps the answer is beyond the expertise of economists, retailers and government economists. Maybe it can be found in the study of mass psychology.

Maybe. But if you polled economists today you can bet that many of them would say that the whole thing will be explained in about a month.

That is when the government's retail sales figures for January will be announced.

Revisions for the previous month, when needed, generally are announced at the same time.

Few Of Hutchins' Lawyers To Be Paid For Life-Saving Work

RALEIGH (AP) — Few of the many attorneys who have represented convicted murderer James W. Hutchins will ever be paid for their efforts in trying to keep the condemned man alive. "As far as we know, we'll never get paid," attorney Thomas C. Manning said. "It's just something lawyers have historically had to do in certain cases. "It's part of your lawyer's function. It's a professional obligation," Manning said. Manning and other attorneys who have worked in Hutchins' behalf are not entitled to any compensation under state law unless they did trial work or filed direct appeals before state courts, said Dallas A. Cameron Jr., assistant director of the Administrative Office of the Courts. There is no money to pay for appeals to federal court or appeals to state court that a defendant does not have an automatic right to — unless the state grants such a "discretionary review," Cameron said. David K. Fox and Ronald G. Blanchard of Hendersonville, Hutchins' trial attorneys, and Roger W. Smith, a Raleigh attorney who pursued appeals on his client's behalf for nearly 3½ years, probably will be the only three lawyers who've helped with the case to be paid. Cameron said Fox and Blanchard were paid

$13,203.31 in October 1979, less than a month after Hutchins was convicted of murdering three Rutherford County law enforcement officers and sentenced to death. Smith, who spent hundreds of hours and thousands of dollars appealing the case 11 times in five different courts, said he expected to be paid only for his time in appealing Hutchins' conviction and sentence to the state Supreme Court in 1979 and 1980. Smith recently submitted a bill to the state for 139 hours of work on the appeals. Superior Court Judge Donald L. Smith will decide whether Smith gets paid. Smith presided over Hutchins' trial and appointed Smith to represent Hutchins. Judge Smith said payment depended on the case, but fees usually averaged $20 to $50 an hour. At that rate, Smith stands to be paid between $2,780 to $6,950 — far less than what he would earn from a paying client. Hutchins' case has been on appeal since Sept. 27, 1979, when he was sentenced to death for murdering two law enforcement officers and to life in prison for the murder of a third. Appeals have been filed more than once in Superior Court and the state Supreme Court and to three levels of federal court along with the U.S. Supreme Court. At least eight attorneys pitched in on the last-minute appeals that helped save

Hutchins from being executed last Friday. The execution has been rescheduled for March 16. Manning, Joseph B. Cheshire V and Barbara A. Smith of the Raleigh firm Purser, Cheshire, Manning and Parker will lead the defense team in appeals for Hutchins' life over the next 60 days — without prospects of being paid for their time. Asked why he was volunteering his time, Cheshire said, "One, I think that some of us working on it believe in the sanctity of human life and that it's not man's right to take a life in any circumstances ... that the right only lies with God."

New Drug For Diabetes Pain

DURHAM (AP) — A new drug being studied by Duke University Medical Center clinical scientists could help relieve some of the painful, chronic symptoms that accompany diabetes. Diabetes often causes a condition known as peripheral neuropathy, a prickly tingle, numbness or shooting pain in the hands and feet. In severe cases it can hamper movement and disrupt sleep. "At present, we don't have an effective treatment for the symptoms of peripheral neuropathy, but we hope this new drug will offer some relief," said Dr. Mark Feinglos, assistant professor of endocrinology and psychiatry at Duke.

still the management of the disease itself, and that means controlling blood sugar." Feinglos said that the nervous system of each potential subject must be studied. Once the subjects are involved in the study, they must not change their diets or medication, "so we can be certain the drug alone is responsible for any improvements," he said. He said that patients will undergo a three-day, "very thorough medical evaluation at the beginning of the study, but will be seen on an out-patient basis after that."

The new oral drug being studied doesn't have a name — it's known only by a number — but if the clinical trials are successful it could gain Food and Drug Administration approval and be on the market within a couple of years, Feinglos said. Duke is one of 12 centers nationwide — and the only one in North Carolina — where the drug is being studied. The year-long study at Duke will include patients ages 18 to 72 and post-menopausal women. "Preliminary tests with the drug have been very promising," Feinglos said. "If these test results are confirmed, the drug could offer relief to thousands of people, and it appears to have only mild side effects, such as headaches. "But is not going to be a cure-all," he said. "Even though it may help relieve some of the symptoms, the most important element in the treatment of diabetes is

District 6 includes 12 counties in the Eastern Belt auction area of North Carolina, including Pitt, Martin and Beaufort. The meeting will be held at the Martin County Agricultural Building.

According to Atlas Wooten of Greenville, director of District 6, the meeting will review the 1983 season and discuss adjustments to the tobacco program in 1984 made by new legislation.

Reports will also be made, said Wooten, by representatives of Tobacco Associates Inc., Tobacco Growers' Information Committee, USDA's Tobacco Division, and several other agencies and organizations. A business session will follow the reports.

Black History Month Set

Mayor Janice Buck has proclaimed February as "Afro-American (Black) History Month in Greenville."

She said, "Black Americans have contributed immeasurably to the success of our nation from the days of early colonization to the present, despite hardships which included bigotry, disenfranchisement, laws which prevented them from owning land, and slavery itself."

She said North Carolina and Greenville "appropriately boast a rich and progressive history which included numerous significant contributions made by black citizens who clearly had in mind and demonstrated the laudable purpose of making our state and our city a better place in which each person can live and develop."

Pitt Native Named To New Post

Jean S. Haislip, a native of Pitt County, has been named an assistant superintendent for Goldsboro schools.

Mrs. Haislip assumed the position, which includes supervising instructional services, this earlier week.

Before accepting the job in Goldsboro, Mrs. Haislip was an educational research and evaluation consultant for the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction. She taught mathematics for nine years in Kinston, New Bern and Roanoke Rapids and for two years served as a teacher of exceptional children in the hospitalized-homebound program in Kinston's schools. She also served as an administrative assistant to the superintendent of Kinston schools. In 1964 she was chosen teacher of the year at New Bern High School.

She is a member of the American Association of School Administrators, Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, North Carolina State Employees Association and serves on the editorial staff of Carolina Journal of Educational Research.

Mrs. Haislip is a member of St. James United Methodist Church in Greenville and has one daughter.

Four Charged In Larceny

Greenville police Tuesday arrested four men on larceny charges following investigation of an incident at the Dodge Store on Memorial Drive.

Officer P.W. Worthington said a clerk at the store reported that several items, including shampoo, deodorant and Ultrashen were taken from the store about 1:08 a.m.

Worthing said Dallas Ray Staton, 33, of 104 N. Washington St., Marvin Earl Carr, 30, of 104 Greenfield Blvd., Tony Fitzgerald Garris, 23, of Winterville and Roger Carr, 25, of 403A Dudley St., were arrested a short time later. The officer said two jars of Ultrashen and a can of deoderant were recovered.

Jones Speaks To Classes

State Rep. Walter B. Jones Jr. spoke with eighth and ninth grade students in classes taught by Faye Creegan, Pat Sheppard and Gladys Harris at E.B. Aycock Junior High School on Monday.

Jones explained the organization of the N. C. General Assembly, the process of making a law, a typical week for a legislator when the General Assembly is in session, and the responsibilities of a legislator when the assembly is not in session.

Property Taken From Cars

Greenville police are investigating the theft of items from two cars parked at two local motels which were reported Tuesday morning.

Officer D.R. Hudson said a 9:08 a.m. call by William Eugene Key reported the theft of a pair of shoes, two gallons of antifreeze and a wrench from Key's car, parked at the Heritage Inn on Memorial Drive.

Officer J.M. Nobles said the theft of a radar detector, two pairs of sunglasses and dictating machine was reported at 9:47 a.m. Nobles said the property was taken from a car owned by Jonathan R. Elliott of Burlington, which was parked at the Holiday Inn on Memorial Drive.

Life Sentence For 2 Killings

KINSTON, N.C. (AP) — A man who pleaded guilty to two counts of second-degree murder has been sentenced to life imprisonment.

Kenneth E. Cookie Grant, 52, of Kinston, entered the plea Tuesday in Lenoir County Superior Court. He admitted killing Sue Chase, 28, and Bobby Ray Alphin, 31, both of Kinston, on Aug. 30. He also pleaded guilty to assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill in the shooting of Buddy Cauley.

Cauley testified that he, the other victims and Grant began arguing while drinking together. Cauley said Grant shot them and fled.

Police later found Ms. Chase and Alphin dead at the scene and Grant asleep in some nearby woods.

Cauley said no one had provoked Grant.

Other Nuke Plants May Lapse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cost overruns that halted construction of an Indiana nuclear power plant this week could force cancellation of other atomic facilities, according to industry analysts who disagree on the severity of the problem.

One analyst went so far as to predict that as many as 19 nuclear power plants could meet the same fate as the two atomic reactors that were scrapped this week by Public Service Company of Indiana. But other industry observers said only a handful of plants are threatened by ballooning construction costs.

After surveying more than 70 nuclear reactors that generate about one-seventh of the nation's electricity, the government reported Tuesday that three-fourths of them cost at least twice the original estimates and 28 percent were at least four times the initial amount.

Of the 47 plants completed in the decade before 1983, the Energy Information Administration said, five cost more than seven times the amount originally projected while only 11 were finished at a cost less than double the initial estimate.

Charles Komanoff, an economic consultant who frequently criticizes utilities for underestimating the cost of generating electricity from the atom, said cost overruns on the 49 plants still under construction or on hold are running 200 percent to 1,000 percent above what consumers were first promised.

That prompted Komanoff to estimate Tuesday that 18 or 19 more reactors could be cancelled, including two plants in Washington and two Tennessee Valley Authority facilities on which construction has stopped while they are officially labeled as "deferred."

"The time and level of uncertainty have just gotten to the point where investors are starting to demand such high rates of return on additional money they put up to cover the overruns that it's become clear that some of these plants threaten the local economy," Komanoff said.

He contended that any plant not at least 70 percent completed by now is vulnerable to cancellation because the cost of finishing them would send electric rates to politically unacceptable levels.

"The only question," Komanoff said, "is how deep the damage will go. Right now, I would guess that there are 31 plants out there still under construction that are safe but one or two of them may fall."

Public Service Company of Indiana's twin-unit Marble Hill plant on Monday became the 99th and 100th reactors canceled since 1974. The announcement was startling because $3 billion had already been spent to build 59 percent of one reactor and 37 percent of the other.

Until then, there had not been a plant cancelled in which the construction was more than 27 percent complete.

Two Washington Public Power Supply System reactors, 60 percent and 70 percent completed, have been put on hold because of falling electricity demands and an inability to raise the money to finish them. But neither has been cancelled.

An industry trade group, Wall Street analysts and at least one owner of a plant that Komanoff says could be canceled all disputed his assertions.

"It's absolutely nonsense," Pete Klute, a spokesman for Arizona Public Service Co., said of Komanoff's inclusion of Unit 3 at the utility's Palo Verde plant on his list of economically vulnerable reactors.

Gerald Morgan, an electric utilities analyst for Prudential-Bache Securities Inc., said any plant more than 50 percent completed should be finished "both for the benefit of stockholders and ratepayers."

Morgan and Carl Walske, president of the Atomic Industrial Forum, a nuclear industry trade group, both said Marble Hill was unique because of the estimated $4 billion in outstanding costs to finish it despite the work already done.

Except for the Zimmer plant in Ohio, Marble Hill is the only nuclear plant at an advanced stage of construction with huge completion costs, Walske said.

"We're near the bottom in terms of cancellations," Walske said. "The resumption of electric growth is going to make people think very hard about it. I think a handful more would be tops at this point."

Of the 49 plants still under construction or on hold, he said, 29 are 75 percent to 99 percent completed and another nine are between 50 percent and 74 percent finished.

Walske contends that construction will resume on the two TVA plants and two WPPSS units now on hold as electric use grows with a continuation of the recovery. Komanoff maintains those four reactors will never be finished.

The Marble Hill announcement followed a decision earlier this month by Gulf States Utilities Co. to cancel the second reactor of its twin-unit River Bend plant in Louisiana. Six reactors were canceled by utilities in 1983.

May Overcome Genetic Defects

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Eastern Virginia Medical School, launching research into using in-vitro fertilization to prevent birth defects and genetic diseases, may be using the technique on humans by the end of the decade, a doctor says.

The school, where America's first test-tube baby was conceived, announced on Tuesday the hiring of Gary D. Hodgen, chief of pregnancy research at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md.

Unspent Funds To Aid Others

LAURINBURG, N.C. (AP) — The unspent portion of the $112,000 donated to the Joshua Brooks Liver Fund will be used to establish a statewide fund-raising organization for organ transplants, the child's parents say.

Rick and June Brooks told friends and supporters Tuesday night they will form the Joshua Brooks Living Memorial Transplant Association, a non-profit, tax-exempt awareness group, with whatever funds remain.

"Josh is gone, but there are still things to be done," Rick Brooks said. "We knew all along — when we started our campaign with Josh — we said we were going to help other kids."

The Brooks' son, 9-month-old Josh, died last November after complications following a liver transplant. He suffered from biliary atresia, a rare liver disease that prevents the body from eliminating bile.

"Even when I was carrying Josh, we knew we had a special mission in life, and we were patient enough to wait. We knew we were a special couple," Mrs. Brooks said. "We don't understand everything that happened, but we knew it happened for a purpose."

The couple spoke to some 30 people who were at St. Luke United Methodist Church to hear plans for the remainder of the fund.

The new group will work with people needing any type of organ transplant, but it especially hopes to help three North Carolina infants now in need of liver transplants, Mrs. Brooks said.

"We need to let people know who these little Shelleys and these little Shakeekas and these little Ashley's are. Those are the babies now," said Mrs. Brooks.

She was referring to 3-month-old Ashley Quinn of Kenansville, 2-year-old Shakeeka Richardson of Charlotte and 6-month-old Shelly Rose McConnell of Cary, all of whom suffer from biliary atresia.

"Every biliary atresia baby in America is special, is sent from heaven as a little angel," she said. "Some day we'll all sit back and see the meaning of these babies."

The couple has used just over $32,000 of the fund so far, leaving $80,408. But supporters said that other undetermined expenses remain until the state employees insurance plan determines the expenses it will not cover.

The Joshua Brooks Living Memorial Transplant Association, which organizers said will be officially formed within days, will be the first such group in the state. Organizers will meet with medical representatives and politicians, including a representative of Gov. Jim Hunt, within the next two months, said the Rev. Jim Lee, interim chairman of the association.

Lee said Duke University is particularly interested in the association since physicians at Duke University Medical Center hope to begin performing liver transplants within a year.

Mrs. Brooks said the new group is a continuance of the couple's struggle to save their son.

"We could have said, 'June and Rick, you forget about this. You go back to normalcy. You go on and have other babies.' But Josh was a special baby and we couldn't do that," Mrs. Brooks said.

The group will be the forerunner of a similar national group, called the American Council on Transplantation, Mrs. Brooks said.

 6 ♦ Pass Pass Pass
 Opening lead: Ten of ♣.

In theory, if you can finesse either way for a queen, it is a pure guess which way you play the hand. In practice, there are factors which necessitate choosing one line over the other.

South had visions of a grand slam when his partner raised his second suit after responding at the two-level. He settled on a small slam when he found out that an ace was missing.

West got his side off to a good start by leading the ten of hearts. Declarer won the ace and cashed the ace of trumps. West made the clever false card of the eight. It appeared to South that, if anyone was short in diamonds, it would be West, so he continued with a low diamond to the king. Now West had a sure trump trick and, since declarer also had to lose the ace of spades, he ended up down a trick.

Unfortunately for his side, South did not think the whole hand through before committing himself to a second round of trumps. If trumps were 4-1, he could not afford to draw all the trumps before he had taken a heart discard on clubs and the ace of spades had been knocked out. If East had started with four trumps, the defenders could force South with a heart when they won the ace of spades, which would set up a trump trick for East.

A 4-1 trump division can be handled only if West has the four trumps. So at trick three South should lead the queen of diamonds. When East shows out, declarer continues with three rounds of clubs, allowing him to sluff his heart loser. Next comes the jack of spades. If West does not take his ace, declarer ruffs a heart with the ten of diamonds, finesesses the nine of diamonds and runs clubs for 12 tricks. So West must win the ace of spades, but no matter what he does declarer makes the rest of the tricks with the help of the marked finesse in trumps.

Gromyko...

indicated tea would be served.

Shultz was accompanied by Richard Burt, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, and Arthur Hartman, U.S. ambassador to Moscow.

In his speech, Gromyko attacked the Reagan administration for its military budget increases.

"New missiles, bombers and aircraft carriers are being churned out in a kind of pathological obsession. New means of mass destruction are being experimented with," Gromyko charged.

He called the U.S.-led invasion of the Caribbean island of Grenada in October "a piratical act of terrorism" and "a challenge to the entire world."

Gromyko demanded: "The U.S. must withdraw its troops from Grenada."

After scathing attacks on U.S. policies in Lebanon and Central America, Gromyko added: "The main threat to peace is the aggressive foreign policy of the United States."

On Tuesday, Shultz said he would try to convince his Soviet colleague in their meeting that the United States wants better relations.

Gromyko reiterated the Soviets' resolve to stay away from arms talks in Geneva, which they abandoned on Nov. 23 after NATO began deployment of U.S.-built missiles in Western Europe.

"We have warned repeatedly that the deployment in Western Europe of U.S. Pershings and cruise missiles will undermine the basis for negotiations and will make them impossible," Gromyko said. "Having started the installation of its missiles, Washington has rendered negotiations pointless."

On Tuesday, Reagan administration sources said Shultz would suggest to Gromyko that U.S.-Soviet arms control talks resume on some level even if formal negotiations remain stalled.

The last meeting between Shultz and Gromyko was Sept. 8 at the U.S. Embassy in Madrid, Spain. Shultz cut that stormy encounter short after Gromyko refused to admit Soviet wrongdoing in shooting down a South Korean jetliner with 269 people aboard.

Both men are in Stockholm for the conference on European security, which opened Tuesday.

"We (the United States) approach the meeting in a constructive spirit," Shultz said of today's meeting. "Our agenda is a broad one ... and we hope for a constructive response."

He said he would try to convince Gromyko that the United States wants better relations with the Soviet Union.

Zoning Bd. ...

single-family homes clearcut requirements.

Currently duplex units are allowed as permitted uses in the R-9, R-6 and R-6Mobile Home zones and as a special use through the Board of Adjustments in areas zoned R-20 and RA-20 (residential-agricultural). Multifamily development is now considered a permitted use in the R-6 and R-6Mobile Home zones and a special use in R-20. The new zones would require the same development standards as specified under the current classifications.

The only permitted uses other than single-family dwellings in the proposed "S" zones would be accessory buildings or uses, churches, farming, forestry, municipal government building, use or facility, noncommercial park or recreation facility, and temporary signs.

The council will be asked to consider the new zoning classifications at the February meeting.

In other business, the board voted to recommend that the council approve a request by Landvest Enterprises and Carl Darden to rezone .529 acres at the northwest corner of Fifth and Holly streets from office and institution to R-6.

Darden said the owners would like to develop the property with 20-to-21 one-bedroom apartments. He said East Carolina University was contacted earlier about possibly buying the property but ECU expressed no interest.

Board member Dr. Wallace Wooles said he was concerned that, unless the university has a plan of development, it could end up being zoned in on its perimeters and have to secure property through the expensive condemnation process.

The commission also endorsed a request by James Williamson to rezone 1.28 acres on North Memorial Drive, approximately 200 feet south of the intersection of Memorial Drive and North Greene Street, from highway commercial to offensive industry.

Browder said the petitioner had sought a variance from the Board of Adjustments from the 50-foot setback requirements under the highway commercial zone but the adjustments board felt the matter could be handled through rezoning. The offensive industry zone allows for development utilizing a 25-foot setback, he said, noting that the staff has no objections to the petition.

Board members, with Wooles and Danny Jacobson opposing, voted to recommend that the council approve a request by William E. Dansey to rezone about 4.05 acres of undeveloped woodland at the southeast corner of Arlington Boulevard and Mulberry Lane from R-6 to office and institutional. Both Wooles and Jacobson said they were concerned about allowing office and institutional uses in the midst of residential development. Wooles said he would favor a tightening up of the O&I zone.

The planning board also:

- Continued until the February meeting consideration of a request by John M. Kane to rezone .675 acres on N.C. 43 across from Brook Road, in order to give the staff time to study the zoning map for a possible plotting error relative to the property;

- Approved the preliminary plat of Summerfield subdivision south of Greenville Country Club and west of Memorial Drive, calling for the development of 27 single-family homes on tracts totaling 46.04 acres;

- Continued until February consideration of proposed amendments to section 32-111 of the zoning ordinance relative to flashing lights on signs;

- Endorsed a change in the wording of section 32-3 and 32-83 of the ordinance; and

- Agreed to have the planning staff take a look at possible modifications in allowed uses in the office and institutional zone.

Evidence Points To Suicide By General

By KRISTIN GAZLAY Associated Press Writer SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The medical examiner's office tentatively has decided that a two-star Army Reserve general found bound and hanged at Fort Sam Houston took his own life, The Associated Press has learned.

A note pinned to the body of Maj. Gen. Robert G. Ownby said he had been executed, but "all the evidence at this point indicates suicide," a source who asked not to be identified said Tuesday.

Ownby, 48, was found early Jan. 11 dangling from a second-story landing in the headquarters of the 90th U.S. Army Reserve Command, which he headed. His hands had been bound behind his back with a military web belt.

A typewritten note said the general had been killed for "crimes by the U.S. Army against the people of the world," but Pentagon officials said the message could have been only a diversion.

An official ruling on the cause of death is expected later this week, perhaps Thursday, from Bexar County Medical Examiner Dr. Vincent DiMaio.

DiMaio said he was waiting for test results from the FBI's forensics lab in Washington before announcing his official ruling.

FBI agent Pat Cowley would not disclose if his agency's probe into the general's death had uncovered any motive for suicide or murder.

"We're still interviewing and conducting our investigation," he said. The source told the AP that the autopsy performed on Ownby "showed no evidence of any marks or bruises that would indicate a struggle. Nothing. All it showed was asphyxiation by hanging."

The FBI issued a statement last Thursday quoting DiMaio, who said it was possible the general had tied his own hands behind his back.

A handwritten note was found on Ownby's desk saying that he had startled some intruders in the building and planned to go investigate.

His jacket, glasses and wallet were stacked in a neat pile on the second-floor landing, and there was no sign of forced entry to the building, the FBI said.

The note pinned to his sweater read, "Captured, tried, convicted of crimes by the U.S. Army against the people of the world. Sentenced and executed."

Ownby, who had a wife and three children, was buried Friday at Fort Sam Houston National Cemetery.

A native of Durant, Okla., he served three years on active duty during his 28-year military career.

As commander of the 90th ARCOM, he supervised 63 combat reserve units throughout Texas and in Bossier City, La.

He also owned and operated a San Antonio company that manufactures steel doors and frames.

Green Plans See Impact Of Program

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green will tour three middle schools in Buncombe County to try to find out if a vocational education program aimed at reducing the high school dropout rate in the state is working.

Green's scheduled Jan. 25 visit will have a major impact on whether the $2 million, two-year pilot program is expanded in the 1984-85 school year, state Sen. Robert S. Swain of Asheville said. Swain introduced the bill in the 1983 session of the General Assembly that created the program.

"The lieutenant governor wants to tour all 32 schools in the project before we (the Legislature) meet in June (for the short, off-year budget session), to determine whether the program is successful and re-visiting some interest in education in these kids that are headed toward dropping out," Swain said.

"We may want to expand the program in the next school year if it appears to be clearly successful and seems to promise what we are aiming at," Swain said.

The project now involves only seventh-graders but eighth-graders will be added next year. Its goal is to reach and teach potential dropouts before they enter high school by using courses on welding, small engine repair, carpentry, electricity, electronics, business skills and other vocational skills.

The three middle schools in Buncombe County taking part in the project are Swannanoa, Hill Street and Weaverville. The Swannanoa and Hill Street programs are funded totally from the state appropriation, and the Weaverville project is partially funded through a special federal program for disadvantaged children, Swain said.

Swain credits Green with passage of the bill and said Green is an ardent supporter of the vocational education program.

"He and I both think every kid in the state ought to have the same chance," Swain said. "If it's a success, if it'll help the young people, then every kid in the state ought to have the same opportunity."

Barbara Tapscott, director of secondary education in Burlington and a member of the State Board of Education, will accompany Green on the tour, Swain said.

"We're trying to examine whether this is a good answer to the dropout problem," Swain said. "Heck fire, if we just save one or two out of a class of 50, we've paid for the program."

"I don't expect to have 100 percent salvation, but if we could save 50 percent from dropping out it would be an overwhelming success, because the people we're working with are not all direct descendants of Solomon," Swain said.

"If they only learn what a screwdriver is or how to drive a nail, they can at least get a job in construction or a factory," he said. "If it doesn't do anything except prepare them to work in a mill, it will do that much."

Sees Mentality Of Shoot-First

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States is accusing Nicaragua of the same "shoot first" mentality that he says led to the Soviet Union's destruction of a South Korean airliner last September.

"Those familiar with the current Nicaraguan mentality know it is, 'shoot first and ask questions later,'" Ambassador J. William Middendorf observed.

He said Nicaraguan forces displayed the "same mentality" last week in shooting down a U.S. helicopter as was used by "Nicaragua's chief mentor and arms supplier," the Soviet Union, in the airliner tragedy.

Last Wednesday, Nicaraguan forces fired on an American helicopter that may have strayed into Nicaraguan air space along the Honduras border.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JAN. 19, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
 from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Except for some delays where some long-desired wish is concerned, you are now under excellent influences for putting into motion a course of action that is broad and comprehensive.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Steer clear of that money problem with another and you can then carry through with activities of worth you have in mind.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Avoid one who is inimical to your best interests and look to family for the support you may need at this time.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Regular tasks can be annoying to you today, so dash out and do those profitable and interesting things at hand.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Finances should be uppermost on your mind. You can handle them well, provided you forget a jealous romance.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Rely on yourself and charm others into doing what you want that is of a constructive nature. Avoid opposition from kin.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Walk and drive with greater care than usual. Don't change those particular plans you want to put in operation shortly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Forget the financial side of life and concentrate on more private, personal affairs and improve them. Spend time with friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get into some kind of civic work that will give you added prestige and stop being demanding with friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Stop worrying about something you can do little about and take on new interests that can be more profitable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get busy on practical affairs and avoid friends who expect too much of you. Devote spare time to your mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be with persons who have your interests at heart and have good ideas. Steer clear of irate higher-ups.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get into money matters that are worthwhile and of real scope and be ready to do the work that can bring big success.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will early in life make wonderful plans for the future and will have the ability to make them materialize. Be encouraging in this. Teach not to be jealous or greedy, but more willing to share good fortune with the less fortunate.

 "The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Home Care Said A 'Better Way'

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Treating chronically or seriously ill patients at home rather than in a hospital or nursing home improves the quality of their lives and reduces medical costs.

These conclusions were drawn from an experimental home-care program funded by the National Center for Health Services Research and headed by Dr. Annemarie Groth-Junker of the University of Rochester Medical Center.

The "house-calls" were made by a team consisting of a doctor, nurse-practitioner and social worker.

Sees A Voice In Coastal Leases

RALEIGH (AP) — U.S. Interior Secretary William Clark's plan to increase state and public participation in the sale of offshore oil and gas leases gives states hope of a voice in the sale process, Gov. Jim Hunt says.

In a letter to Clark, Hunt said the Interior Secretary's "support of a consulting role for states is a welcome sign of concern for states and their coastal resources."

Hunt often clashed with Clark's predecessor, James Watt, over the offshore drilling issue. The governor even threatened legal action, saying the interior secretary was ignoring environmental factors as he designated tracts for oil and gas exploration.

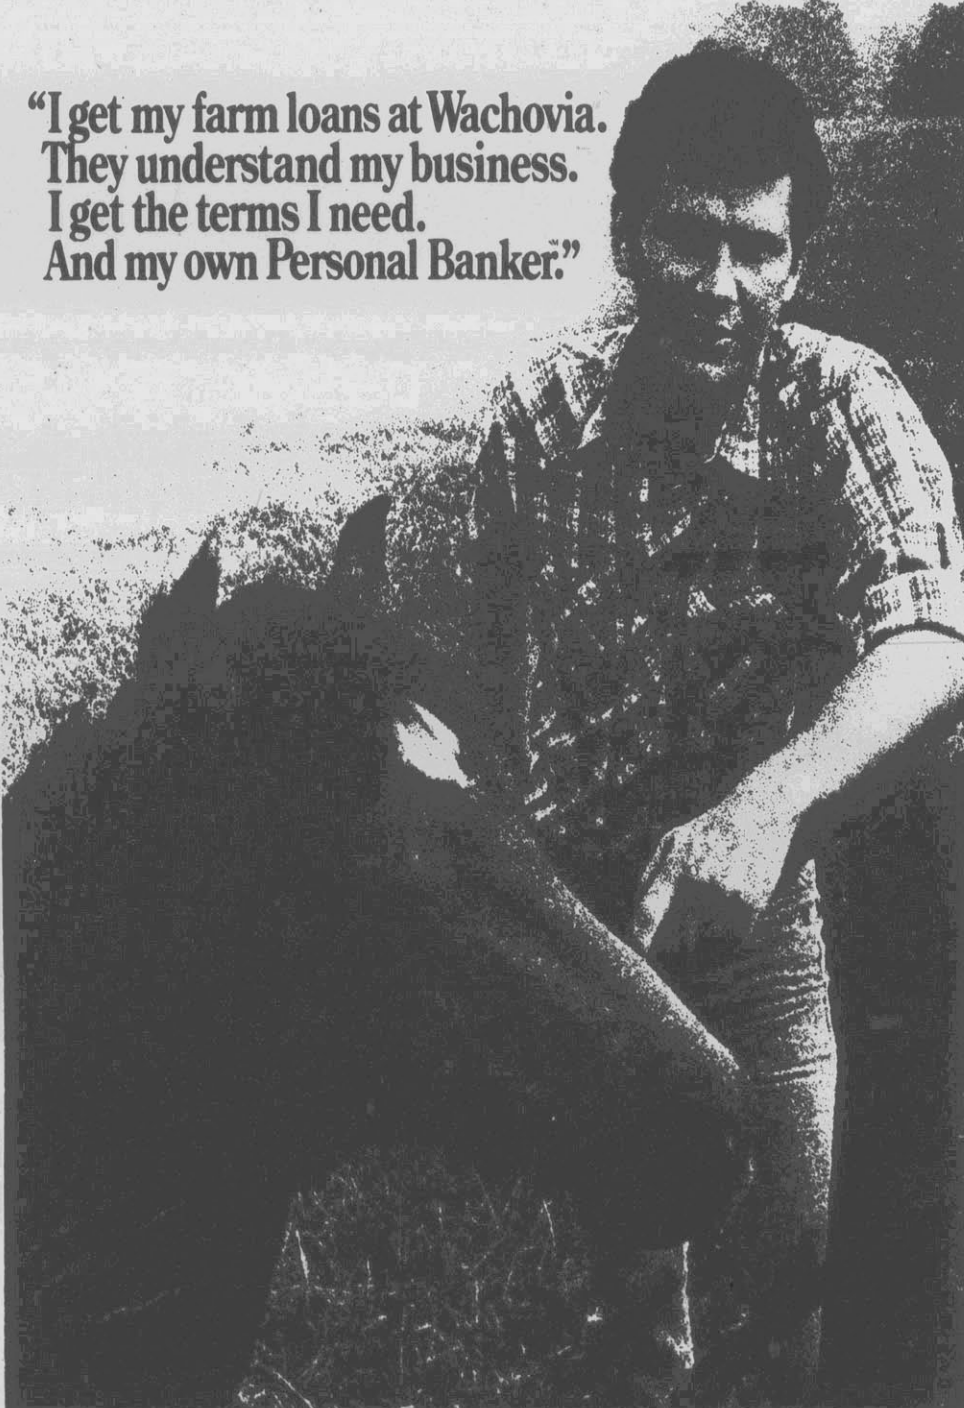

The U.S. Supreme Court recently ruled that the federal government need not consider states' coastal management plans when offering oil and gas leases for sale on the Outer Continental Shelf. Afterward, however, Clark pledged to solicit state officials' opinions.

"I was very disappointed in the court's ruling," Hunt wrote. "It takes away from the state the opportunity to make a comprehensive review of all potential impacts of proposed lease sales, prior to the sales. We feel such a review is crucial to the protection of our coastal resources."

Hunt said Clark's statements "offer us hope that states will indeed continue to have a voice early in the lease sale process. That voice ... was rarely heeded during the tenure of ... Watt."

Federal officials, under pressure from North Carolina, removed a number of tracts from four oil and gas lease sales involving millions of acres on the Outer Continental Shelf. State officials said those tracts were environmentally sensitive and that some threatened the sunken U.S.S. Monitor, a Civil War ironclad.

No drilling has been done off the North Carolina coast, and no further lease sales are planned for the area until January 1985.

Radio Marti's Link To VOA Is Termed A Risk

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan was advised today that the Voice of America's credibility could be damaged by a "questionable" congressional decision to make it headquarters for a new U.S.-financed radio station beamed at Cuba.

The U.S. Advisory Commission on Public Diplomacy also said that administration efforts to explain Project Democracy, a program aimed at promoting democratic institutions worldwide, created "public suspicion and misunderstanding."

The bipartisan board told Reagan in a report that the new station, Radio Marti, should properly come under the Board for International Broadcasting which operates Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty.

Reporting to the president and Congress, the commission said it would keep close watch over Radio Marti to make sure its broadcasts of news about Cuba to Cuba do not violate VOA standards or "become the voice of any single element of American society."

The VOA, which broadcasts in 42 languages worldwide, is intended to provide accurate and objective news about the United States and world events and to interpret U.S. policy and institutions to the rest of the world.

The seven-member commission made public a Sept. 21 letter telling Secretary of State George P. Shultz it "strongly and unanimously" believed the decision to place Radio Marti within the Voice of America "is not sound public policy and ... sets a precedent of uncertain consequence."

In its report the panel noted that the purposes of "surrogate broadcasting" such as conducted by Radio Marti and Radio Free Europe "differ a great deal from the radio voice of the U.S. government."

Shultz replied that he hoped that the conflict of missions of the two organizations would not harm the operations of either. He pledged that Radio Marti's broadcasts "will maintain the same high standards for accuracy and reliability as the traditional Voice of America broadcasts."

Project Democracy is a new multi-agency Reagan administration initiative intended to promote democratic institutions in opposition to communist and Marxist-Leninist forms of governmental organization.

The commission said it does not object to the goals of the new program. But it said it is concerned that the name suggests a new mandate for USIA when the intention was enhancement of proven information and educational and cultural exchange programs.

"It is a disservice to place (USIA) programs under a label that gives rise to public suspicion and misunderstanding — a label that also provides critical foreign observers with the opportunity to make damaging interpretations of the programs themselves," the report said.

The report also called on the administration to continue efforts to reverse what it said has been a "pattern of neglect" of the VOA, to upgrade its broadcasting facilities and to assure that "the Voice of America can deliver a strong, reliable signal worldwide."

The report urged Reagan to give the director of the U.S. Information Agency, currently Charles Wick, a greater role in foreign policy by naming him to serve as an advisor to the National Security Agency. And it said USIA's ability to assess foreign public opinion should be used in the making of every major foreign policy proposal.

Commission Chairman Edwin J. Fuelleer Jr., who is also chairman of the conservative Heritage Foundation, said USIA needs to step up activities in such nations as China which he said "presents unique opportunities and challenges as it emerges from 30 years of isolation."

The report also called for additional USIA offices in Great Britain, Spain, France, Portugal, Germany, Morocco, Nigeria and other countries.

CAR IN THE BEACH SAND — Workers wrestling with the erosion problem in the Kill Devil Hill resort area uncovered a car buried in sand near the Sea Ranch Motel. Apparently the owners had buried the car as a measure to stop erosion. Authorities say the car will have to be removed as it is not in line with erosion control measures. (AP Laserphoto)

Tell Motel Remove Car In Sand

KILL DEVIL HILLS, N.C. (AP) — The town of Kill Devil Hills is demanding that a motel owner dig up a car he buried in the sand to try to keep his beachfront property from eroding farther.

Sea Ranch Motel owner George Powell buried an employee's car in the sand when the ocean made inroads between his building and the neighboring Mariner Motel.

Powell managed to stall the ocean, but town officials have told him to remove the automobile because it obstructs access to the water and violates the state's Coastal Areas Management Act.

"I was called at 3:30 a.m.," said Powell, who saw the sea claim property and the Mariner's septic tank last weekend. "The water was breaking through and we didn't want it to break behind the Mariner. The car was the first thing I could think of."

Kill Devil Hills Town Manager Lloyd Ballance said he told Powell the car would have to be removed and called the Office of Coastal Management.

"We're not going to get involved right now," said OCM Director David Owens. "Lloyd has assured us the car will be removed. We will watch the situation closely because we can't allow the beach to get trashed up."

Powell said he has spent "a fortune" on erosion control as the ocean that was a half-mile away in 1962 has begun lapping the base of the building.

Norman Birdsall, manager of the Mariner, said he spent $74,000 for sandbag bulkheads and to replenish the beach sand. Meanwhile, a mile north, about 50 feet of beach has been regained with artificial seaweed.

"At one time we were worse off than the Sea Ranch," said Bobby Young, owner of Tan-A-Rama. "Now we have beach again."

A similar project has helped hold off the ocean at the historic Cape Hatteras Lighthouse.

Kentucky Gets A New Tank

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Martha Layne Collins looked like a kid with a new toy she had just found under the Christmas tree, but this was no toy — it was a 57-ton tank.

The tank was the real thing

— an M60A3 complete with a 105mm cannon and two machine guns, one of 68 battle tanks the Kentucky National Guard has received from the Army to replace several dating back to World War II.

Inland Port Said Benefit Most N.C.

By ELISSA McCRARY
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE (AP) — Until the state Ports Authority opened its inland office in Charlotte this week, businessmen in the Piedmont had to ship or receive goods at the state port in Wilmington 200 miles away.

Ports Authority officials say the inland port — the state's first — will make it easier and cheaper for shippers to move imported and exported goods through Charlotte.

"Putting an inland facility in Charlotte made good sense because Charlotte is a regional distribution center," said Bill Edwards, manager of the Wilmington port who is overseeing the new operation. "This was a logical step to take to expand the Wilmington port."

Edwards said some shippers can save as much as half their transportation costs to and from Wilmington by using the inland office.

State officials predict the Charlotte port will do about $1 million in business in its first year, and say revenues could eventually climb to $4 million a year.

Ports Authority officials say more than 200 companies in the Charlotte area export goods to foreign countries.

Planning for the Charlotte facility began about five years ago when the Ports Authority ordered a feasibility study, Edwards said. But he said the plan was shelved when the state couldn't work out an agreement with railroad officials.

"It was before deregulation and the railroad people couldn't ship containers less than 300 miles, it just wasn't economical feasible," he said.

Meanwhile, Edwards said, South Carolina officials heard about North Carolina's inland-port plans and moved toward their own inland facility. South Carolina opened its inland port at Greer Nov. 9.

N.C. Ports Authority officials didn't revive their plan until a about a year ago, when they began looking for a Charlotte site.

The Charlotte Intermodal Terminal is located on 23 acres near downtown.

In order to use the inland facility, a shipper must contact a steamship line and book space aboard a ship. Then the steamship line will call the inland port to reserve space.

Officials say shippers who use the inland port will save about $50 a truckload because of the ports authority's agreement with Seaboard System Railroad for lower piggyback freight rates.

Customs clearances also will be available in Charlotte, speeding up some shipments.

Larry Pryor, purchasing director for Lance Inc. of Charlotte, says his company will be one of the first to use the new inland port. Lance imports mint, cinnamon and eucalyptus from the Netherlands and Spain.

"This facility will allow us to avoid clearance logjams and other problems that sometimes come up at the Wilmington port," he said. "We think it will make doing business easier for us."

Excess Heat Is Saved And Used

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Although Michigan winters can be very cold, an office building here is keeping more than 500 occupants warm without using a furnace.

Five 50,000-gallon steel tanks, buried underground, store water warmed by excess heat captured from computers, lights and the building occupants. The water is then drawn from the tanks to heat the five-story headquarters of Steelcase Inc., a maker of office furniture.

In the summer, the system reverses itself. The underground water is chilled at night — when electricity rates are lowest — then pumped through the building during the day to keep occupants cool.

Pirates Open 3-Game Home Stand

East Carolina University's basketball Pirates open a three-game home stand Thursday night - the longest home visit of the year - playing host to Francis Marion. Tipoff in Minges Coliseum is set for 7:30 p.m.

"They just haven't gotten there as a team. It seems that we find a way in every game to lose. It's not the same player or the same position in every game. We just seem to make mistakes that get us into a hole and then we can't get out again. It's just individual mistakes that are not caused by any one thing. It's not the other team. Possibly it's some inexperience, possibly by some lack of concentration, and quite a bit of carelessness," Harrison said.

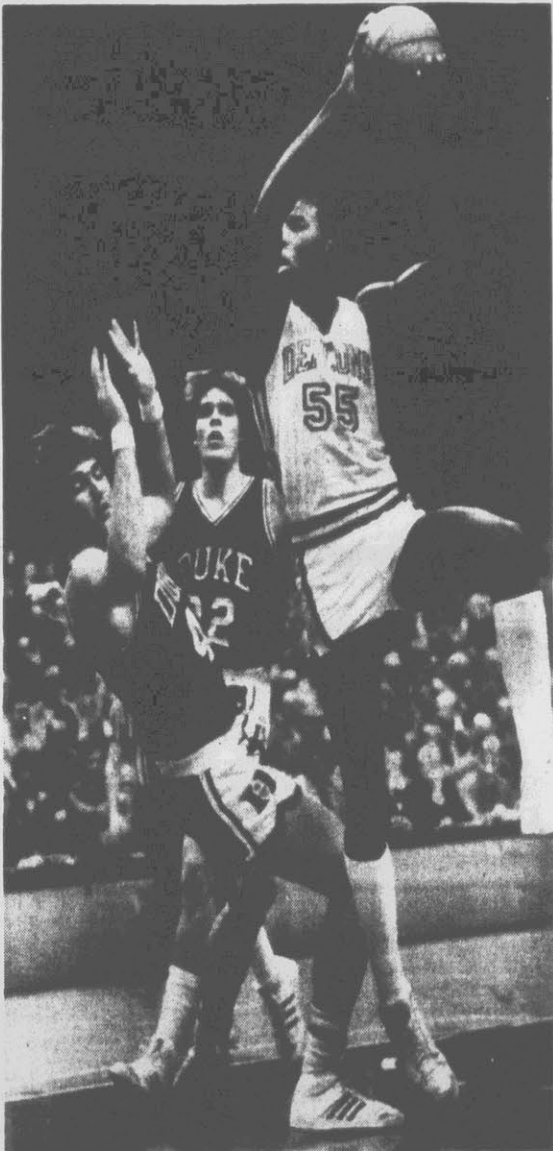

Francis Marion brings in a 10-4 record, but has faced only one Division I team so far this year. Against The Citadel, the NAIA Patriots rolled to a 78-64 victory. The Pats also got a big boost a couple of weeks ago when Fairfield transfer Hank Foster, a 6-6 senior, became eligible. Over the four games he's played, Foster has scored 19.0 points a game. Sophomore forward Jerry Latimore, 6-4, is also hitting well, scoring 17.5 points a game.

The other starters include 6-2 sophomore guard Neal Taylor, scoring 9.0; 6-4 senior guard Joe Hill, 5.2 per game, and 6-6 senior center Mark Thomas, scoring 8.3 per game. Thomas is also the leading rebounder with a 6.1 average, while Foster is pulling 5.8. As a team, the Pats are scoring 71.9 while allowing just 57.3. "They've got a good team," Harrison said. "Anyone who thinks that this is a gimmie is wrong."

ECAC-South leader George Mason tonight. "They're playing a much quicker brand of basketball this year," Harrison said. "John Newman is one of the leading scorers in the country. They have four back from last year's team and they have good experience." The Spiders have been up-and-down to some extent, however. They beat Virginia Tech, 61-56, to pull off a major upset, and also topped the home-standing Naval Academy. "If Newman scores and they get the ball inside to (Bill) Flye then they can compete with anyone," Harrison said.

Flye, a 6-9 senior center, is hitting 12.6, while 6-2 junior guard Kelvin Johnson scores 10.2. The other starters are 5-10 sophomore guard Greg Beckwith, 4.2, and 6-5 sophomore John Davis, 7.5. "The league games are for seeding in the tournament," Harrison said. "I don't think any one team is going to dominate the league, unless it is George Mason. So we just want to get better every game and have a chance to get a good seeding for the tournament. But the tournament is really what it's all about. We want to be ready for that to have a chance to win it." The winner goes to the NCAA. "That's what it all comes down to anyway."

Deacons, Terps Take ACC Victories

By The Associated Press Wake Forest's easy victory over Duke left the Blue Devils wondering what hit them, and Maryland's Ben Coleman followed his coach's advice and that helped the Terps beat Clemson for the 13th time in 14 games.

Lee Garber scored 16 points and Danny Young and Delaney Rudd each chipped in 15 as No. 12 Wake Forest whipped Duke 96-66 on Tuesday night in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game. Meanwhile, in the only other ACC game Tuesday night, Coleman scored 21 points and grabbed a career-high 18 points as No. 7 Maryland downed Clemson 85-72.

first half with runs of 8-0 and 9-2 in the opening half. Young's jumper with three seconds left before halftime gave Wake Forest its biggest lead of the period, 53-35. Duke got as close as 52-37 on Johnny Dawkins' jumper at the start of the second half, but the Deacons stretched their lead to as many 32 in the second half. Kenny Green scored 14 points while Anthony Teachey added 13 and John Toms had 12 for Wake Forest, now 12-2 overall and 1-2 in the ACC. Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski, who was hit with a technical foul, said it just wasn't the Blue Devils' night. "It was a bad night for all of us," Krzyzewski said. "It's not one of those nights where you watch the film to see what went wrong - everything went wrong." Mark Alarie muscled up 19 points to lead the Blue Devils, 14-3 and 0-2. Dawkins chipped in 12 and Jay Bilas had 11. In College Park, Md., Maryland grabbed a 38-31 halftime lead and scored nine straight points in the second half to take command, 48-33, before upping its lead to as many as 19. "We worked with Ben on his power moves inside," Maryland coach Lefty Driesell said. "A lot of times he starts shooting fadeaway jumpers. That's when he doesn't play as good."

Coleman hit 11 of his 14 field goal attempts and had only one turnover while being credited with three assists, two steals and a blocked shot. "That was the best game Ben has played in the last four or five," Driesell said. "In our grading system, he had been averaging over 20 - what a good big man ought to have. But over the last four, he had averaged about five." Just as a late wave of reporters arrived from the Maryland side, someone suggested Clemson may have been a bit complacent following two ACC victories. "It wasn't an overconfidence factor," said Foster, who drew a technical during the game for complaining about the officiating. "What was it then, Bill?" the coach was asked. "I've already answered that two or three times," Foster snapped, and walked away. Adrian Branch scored 22 points for Maryland, 12-2 and 3-1, and Len Bias had 15. Murray Jarman, Anthony Jenkins and Marc Campbell led Clemson, 11-3 and 2-1, with 14 points apiece.

Belhaven Sweeps Pair From Chocowinity Teams

BELHAVEN - Maurice Green pumped in 14 points and Eric Davis and Gerald Spender added 10 each as Belhaven held off Chocowinity 44-41 in a Tobacco Belt 1-A Conference high school basketball game Tuesday. In the girls game, Tellie Cox scored 16 and Paula Smith 13 as Belhaven raced to a 58-41 thumping of the Lady Indians. Wendy Elks poured in 19 points for Chocowinity, but the Lady Indians scored just four points in the final period to allow Belhaven to pull away.

The Lady Indians are now 7-2 in the conference and 8-3 overall. But Belhaven took the Tobacco Belt lead with an 8-1 mark, while 9-2 overall. Reggie Ross paced the Indians with 16 points. Belhaven held an eight-point lead in the fourth quarter, but Chocowinity cut the margin to three with six straight free throws before Belhaven iced the victory. Belhaven improved its record to 2-7 in the conference while 2-9 overall. Chocowinity, which travels to Cape Hat-

Langley's Free Throws Ice Panther Win

By JIMMY DuPREE
Reflector Sports Writer
BETHEL — Lenny Langley stole a pass, then sank a pair of free throws with 10 seconds on the clock to give North Pitt a 47-45 victory over D.H. Conley Tuesday in non-conference 3-A high school basketball action.

In the girls game, the Lady Panthers erased a five-point halftime deficit and held off Conley in the final minute of the game for a 51-49 win. Debra Pittman, who finished with 27 points, scored the winning basket inside on a fast break with 57 seconds remaining, but Regina Cox saved the game when she intercepted a Conley pass just before the buzzer. North Pitt rallied to an 11-point halftime edge in the boys game and led by 13 early in the third quarter, but the Vikings out rebounded the Panthers with tough inside play of center Louis Bryant and outside shooting of Victor Barnes.

Levon Shaw connected on a pair of free throws to give the Panthers a 30-19 lead with 6:28 remaining in the third quarter, but Barnes swished a pair of field goals to cut the gap to five with 4:46 left in the period. North Pitt built the lead to nine before Conley outscored the Panthers 7-2 in the final 2:08 of the period to set the score at 36-32 going into the final quarter. Bryant scored twice inside during that spurt, with Darryl Daniels hitting the final bucket.

Linwood Harris drove inside to expand the Panthers' lead to 38-32 just 12 seconds into the final period, but Conley responded with a 10-2 scoring bulge. Bryant scored six points, including a tip-in and a move inside, while Barnes pumped in pair from outside to give the Vikings a 42-40 lead at the 4:09 mark.

Ronnie Howard swished three free throws to put the Panthers out front 43-42 with 1:46 left in the game. But Barnes dribbled around a defender and pulled up for a 10-foot jumper to give Conley a 44-43 advantage with 1:22 to play.

North Pitt controlled a jump ball with 36 seconds on the clock, and Harris hooked the ball over the Conley defense to put the Panthers ahead to stay with 20 seconds remaining.

Langley connected on his free throws but later fouled Reggie Smith with two seconds left. Smith swished the first to cut the margin to two points, then intentionally missed the second to set up a scoring opportunity for Conley.

"I was kind of irritated at our kids," Panthers Coach Cobby Deans said. "They had the ball out of bounds at mid court, and I told them not to foul anyone shooting. But that's exactly what happened."

"Luckily, he missed the shot and the scoring play on the second free throw didn't work."

Bryant rebounded the errant free throw for the Vikings but was tied up for a jump ball by Howard with one second showing. The horn sounded after the tipoff, as the Panthers preserved the win.

"Our shooting was the cause of the outcome tonight," Conley Coach Shelly Marsh said. "We only shot 25 percent in the first half, but we brought that up a little in the second. We just put ourselves in a position we couldn't get out of."

"We went to the boards better in the second half, but the chips just fell their way."

Shaw led the Panthers with 12 points, while Langley and Keith Clark added 10 each. Bryant paced the Vikings with 15 points, while Barnes added 10.

"We kind of got carried away a little after building a lead in the first half," Deans said. "When you get tired, you tend to stop blocking out of defense like you're supposed to. I think that's what happened to us tonight."

"I think Lenny Langley, Keith Clark and Linwood Harris gave us a solid game on offense and defense, but we've got to get down to where we play a whole game as a team."

North Pitt, 7-7 overall while 2-2 in the Eastern Carolina 3-A Conference, hosts SouthWest Edgecombe Friday. D.H. Conley, now 5-8 overall and 0-2 in the Coastal Conference, hosts Ayden-Grifton Friday in another non-conference matchup.

turnaround jumper to knot the score with 1:08 on the clock.

Pittman's fast break bucket set the final margin before Cox iced the game with a steal.

"It's hard to beat a team three times in a season," Conley Coach Joy Riddick said. "Maybe if we meet them later at the district (tournament) this will give us some added incentive."

Kornegay led the Valkyries with 13 points, while Barrett added 11.

North Pitt improved its record to 8-6 overall while 2-2 in the conference, while the Valkyries slipped to 12-2 overall while 2-0 atop the Coastal standings.

Trinity Inches By Bethel Christian

KINSTON — Trinity Christian held off hosting Bethel Christian to take a 42-40 basketball victory last night. Trinity's girls also got away in a squeaker, 41-40, in overtime.

Bethel jumped out to an 8-0 lead before Art Reynolds finally broke the ice for the Tigers, but Trinity still trailed at the end of the period, 10-6. The Tigers were able to rally in the second quarter, but still were behind at the half, 19-17.

In the third quarter, however, Trinity moved ahead, outscoring Bethel, 13-6, to take a 30-25 lead going into the final period. In the last quarter, Trinity stretched the lead out to as much as 10 points before Bethel rallied to cut it back to the final two point spread.

Darrell Wells led the Tigers with 11 points, including four of five free throws in the final period. Timmy Griffin scored 11 points, all in the second half, to lead Bethel.

"This was by far our best defensive game of the year," Coach Don Southerland said. "Our offense abandoned us so it certainly helped to have such a tremendous defensive effort."

The girls' game was close all the way. Trinity fell behind in the first period, 10-8, then rallied for a 19-18 lead at the half. Bethel came back in the third period, however, to retake the lead, 28-27, going into the final period.

It continued close and Renee Deans scored with eight seconds left to send the game into overtime, tied at 37-37.

In the extra period, Mary Harris hit two quick baskets and the Lady Tigers held on after that to win by one.

Harris led Trinity with 15, while Karen Wells added 10. Bobbie Harrell paced Bethel with 14 and Christy Ormond had 13.

Trinity's boys are now 8-2 and the girls are 5-1. Trinity travels to Ashokie on Friday.

Bear Grass Sweeps Columbia Cagers

BEAR GRASS — Bear Grass High School swept a pair of Tobacco Belt basketball games from Columbia last night. The Bears rolled up an 81-53 margin, while the girls from Bear Grass took a 45-40 win.

The score in the boys' game was a more comfortable margin than in the first meeting of the two teams, in which the Bears took a 51-43 victory. The girls' game ended with the same score as in the first meeting — but that one was won by Columbia.

The Bears pushed out into an 11-6 lead after one period of the boys game, and again outscored Columbia, 25-17, in the second quarter. That left Bear Grass in command, 36-23, at intermission.

Things got ever better for the Bears in the third period as they ran their lead out to 58-32. They then polished off Columbia, 23-21, in the final quarter.

Timmy Williams led Bear Grass with 11 points, while James Williams and Kim Brown each had 10. Andre Bailey had 18 to lead Columbia, while Harold Hill had 12 and Harman Respass had 11.

The Lady Bears fell behind in the opening period, 10-6, but matched Columbia in the second quarter to trail 18-14 at intermission. In the third period, the Lady Bears rallied, 15-10, and pushed into a slim 29-28 lead. The Bears then outthit Columbia, 16-12, in the final period to take the win.

Mary Rodgers led Bear Grass with 13 points while Amy Lilly and Robin Knox each had 11. Tasha Clegg led Columbia with 20 points while Torita Marner added 14.

The win left the Bears at 6-5 overall and 6-2 in league play. The Lady Bears are 6-6, 3-5. Bear Grass plays host to Creswell on Friday.

Pam Pack Rolls By Roanoke Rapids

WASHINGTON — Washington's Pam Pack cashed in on early accuracy and rolled to a 65-48 Northeastern Conference basketball victory over Roanoke Rapids last night. Washington's girls also came away with the win, 58-32.

Washington hit on nine of its first 11 shots from the floor and built up a 20-8 lead in the first period. After that it was just a question of the margin. Both teams scored 13 points in the second period leaving the Pack up, 33-21, at intermission.

In the third period, Washington outthit the Yellow Jackets, 16-13, and built the lead to 49-34. The Pack outthit Roanoke Rapids, 16-14, in the final quarter.

Earl Randolph led Washington with 16 points, while Steve Austin had 15 and Adrian Dudley added 11. Ed Tant led Roanoke Rapids with 15.

Washington's girls moved out into a 12-6 lead after one period and outthit the Lady Jackets, 14-4, in the second frame. That put Washington up, 26-10 at halftime. The Lady Pack matched Roanoke Rapids in the third period as the score climbed to 40-24. Washington outscored the Jackets, 18-8, in the final period.

Gloria Sherrod led Washington with 17 points, while Lisa Price had 10 to pace Roanoke Rapids.

Johnson Caps Rams' Rally Over Aycock

PIKEVILLE — Greene Central's Boneree Johnson fired in a 12-footer with five seconds left last night to allow the Rams to escape from Charles B. Aycock, 53-51, in an Eastern Carolina Conference basketball game.

Greene Central romped to a 56-25 win in the girls' game.

The Rams, who didn't play well according to Coach Lewis Godwin, "were very lucky. Aycock played well and we just had a poor night. They (Aycock) hadn't won a conference game but it's those kind of teams that you have to get ready for."

Aycock, taking advantage of some early foul trouble by Theodore Edwards, pushed out into a 16-12 lead after one period. The Rams, however, rallied and cut the lead back to 26-25 at intermission. Greene Central then outscored the Falcons, 17-12, in the third period to take a 42-38 lead.

Up by as much as five in the final quarter, the Rams saw Aycock rally to take a four-point lead with 1:30 left in the contest. But Greene Central fought back and tied it up at 51-51. Then, with 20 seconds left, Terry Fuller missed on the front end of a one-and-one for Aycock and Edwards pulled it off for GC. The Rams called a time out with ten seconds left to set things up, and Johnson connected on his jumper.

Aycock called a time out with three seconds left, but Elmer Dixon stole the inbounds pass to wrap it up for the Rams.

Edwards finished with 15 points to lead the Rams, while Anthony Thompson had 14, ten of them in the first half. Johnson added 12 and Otis Barnes hit 10. Thompson pulled off 16 rebounds while

Edwards had 12. "The one thing we did well was rebound," Godwin said. "The kids did well on the boards."

Aycock was led in scoring by Jesse Woodard with 14, while Darrell Spencer had 10.

In the girls game, the Rams had no trouble, easily rolling to their win.

The Rams pushed out into a 14-5 lead after one period and extended that to 30-12 at halftime. In the third period, the score climbed to 42-21, and the Lady Rams finished off Aycock with a 14-4 margin.

Antionette Wilkes led the Lady Rams with 13 points, while Allison Battle hit 12 and Sharon Wilkes had 10. Kelly Malpass led Aycock with 12 points.

Greene Central's boys are now 12-2 overall and 4-0 in the league. The girls are 13-4 and 4-0. Greene Central plays host to Southern Nash in a key matchup on Friday.

Chargers Hold Off Jaguars, 55-49

By JEFF ALLEN
 Reflector Sports Writer
LITTLEFIELD — Holding on to a slim 38-36 halftime lead, the Ayden-Grifton Chargers overcame a late fourth quarter rally to defeat the Farmville Central Jaguars 55-49 last night.

In the girls game, Cora Faison scored 32 points, and made three steals in the last minute of play to preserve a 55-53 win over the Lady Jaguars.

The Jaguars jumped out front first when Tornoto Moye connected on a right-side jumper and Kent Hardy added a free throw. The Chargers regained the lead with Marvin Smith's short lane jumper. Farmville recaptured the lead, with Hardy's foul shots, but never led by more than three. At the end of the first quarter, Farmville led 11-10.

In the second quarter, the Chargers took the lead on Mike Dixon's line jumper, but couldn't manage to hold onto it against an impressive 2-3 Jaguar defense. With one second on the clock, Gerald Newton sank a twenty footer from the side to tie it at the half, 26-26.

Mike Woods connected twice for four points and put the Chargers back on top 30-28 with 5:41 left in the third frame. Farmville's Eric Baker came back with his own one-two combination to reclaim the lead. At the buzzer, the Chargers were ahead 38-36.

Ayden-Grifton opened up a 48-40 lead, the biggest of the game, early in the fourth quarter when it scored six unanswered points in two minutes. The rush began with Dixon's bucket from the top of the circle and Doug Anderson's turnaround jumpshot in the lane. With 4:06 left in the game, the Jaguars attempted a comeback that would only pull them to within five. Jaguar Ronnie Barnes' free throw chipped the lead down to seven. Then with 24 seconds left in the game, Barnes got inside to score and narrowed the margin to 52-47. In the midst of an aggressive man to man defense, Ayden-Grifton's Gerald Newton broke open and scored with 15 seconds left. Fouled on the play,

Newton went to the line but missed his shot. Moye, on a fast break, went in for a layup with eight seconds remaining. Then with three seconds left in the game, Ayden-Grifton's Calvin Peterson went to the line and sank the second of his two shots, and gave the Chargers the win, 55-49.

The win moves the Chargers to 9-4 overall, 3-2 in the conference while Farmville drops to 2-11 overall, 0-4 in the conference. Friday, Ayden-Grifton travels to D.H. Conley while Farmville visits C.B. Aycock.

In girls action, the Lady Chargers got off to an early 5-0 lead when Cora Faison scored a layup and two foul shots. Surprising the Lady Jaguars, the Lady Chargers had built up a 13-5 lead by the end of the first half.

However in the second quarter, the Lady Jags adapted to the aggressive offense and held AG to just eight points. Coming back, the Lady Jags controlled the ball for the final three minutes of the period and scored six unanswered points. Led by Debra Joyner and Joy Peaden, who both scored six points in the second quarter, the Lady Jaguars led 23-21 at the half.

Early in the third period, Lady Jaguars' Cynthia Hart stretched the lead to five when she aced her foul shot and added a layup. Trying to keep her team up, Faison fired in six of her own in less than two minutes to put the Lady Chargers in front 30-29. Then Hart, Joyner, and Peaden all added two to give the Lady Jaguars a three point lead, 38-35 going into the final period.

The Lady Jags continued their advantage in the fourth quarter until Faison hit on a 15 foot jumper which cut it to 44-40. Less than a minute later, Ayden-Grifton's Danita McCotter knocked one in from under the net and then stole the inbounds pass to add two more. Faison took over with 4:09 left in the game, driving in hard for a layup which tied the score at 44. Lady Charger Cynthia Hicks then broke the tie with a long 20-footer from the side. Faison again crashed the boards to give the Lady Chargers a four point lead 50-46. But Farmville wasn't ready to give up. The Lady Jags added three free throws to regain the lead with 2:02 left. After McCotter knocked in another one from down under, Faison made three steals in the closing 37 seconds. Capitalizing on these steals, Faison turned them into two points which gave the Lady Chargers a one point lead 54-53. With five seconds left, Faison tossed in the second of her two free throws to lead her team to a 55-53 victory over Farmville.

The win improves the Lady Chargers' record to 5-8, and 3-2 in conference play, while Farmville falls to 6-8, 1-3 in the conference.

Jamesville Outraces Aurora For 74-69 Win

AURORA — Jamesville High School outshot Aurora last night, 74-69, in a Tobacco Belt Conference basketball game. Aurora's girls rolled up a 36-22 win over Jamesville in their outing.

The win by the boys avenged an earlier 52-50 loss by Jamesville in the first meeting of the two on the Bullets' home court.

Jamesville shot away to a 21-15 lead in the first period of the boys' game, and added a 15-12 margin in the second quarter. That gave the Bullets a 36-22 margin at halftime.

Aurora rallied in the third period, however, outscoring Jamesville, 22-17. That cut the lead back to only four. But Jamesville held off Aurora in the final period, 21-20, to take the win.

Tracy Peele led Jamesville with 29 points, while Richie Ange added 24. Danny Ephram led Aurora with 23 points, while John Davis and Steve Minor each had 11 and John Griffin had 10.

The Aurora girls had little trouble with Jamesville, moving out to a 10-4 lead in the

Moseley Ready If Super Bowl Is Decided By A Field Goal

By WILL GRIMSLEY
 AP Special Correspondent
 TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Mark Moseley has a gut feeling that Sunday's Super Bowl XVIII will be decided by a field goal, and he says he is determined to be ready for the challenge.

"It's all mental — you've got to kick the goal hundreds of times in your head before you go out on the field and do it for real," said the 35-year-old veteran as he contemplated the matchup between his defending champion Washington Redskins and the Los Angeles Raiders for the National Football League championship.

"You don't have time to think. The snap, the hold, the swing of the leg all take just 1.3 seconds. It has to be instinctive."

Moseley scoffs at the general impression that place kickers have the cushiest job in the business — on the field no more than 20 seconds a game if you don't kick off, as in Moseley's case, maybe at most four minutes a season.

"You don't even get your uniform dirty."

"But that's only what the public sees," said the Redskin kicking specialist, a pro for 12 years. "I spend the whole week preparing just as the other guys do."

"I lift weights, strengthen my legs and do the usual physical things, but they aren't the most important. I have to get myself ready mentally."

For this, Moseley said he surveys the field from every possible kicking position and then he visualizes himself sending the ball through the uprights.

Reduced to today's computer technology, he is, in effect, storing his head full of mental tapes. When the crucial time comes, he reaches down in his memory bank and pulls one out for the occasion.

Then — wham! — he lets his leg fly.

"I even have a big picture in my living room of a pair of goal posts shown with a ball going through the uprights," he said. "I study it by the hours and picture myself making the kick."

"Concentration is the key. If you miss, you can't worry about it. All you can do is go back to the bench, analyze and try not to repeat it next time."

Moseley had to do a lot of reassessing a couple of weeks ago in the NFC title game when he missed his first four tries — against the San Francisco 49ers — only to recover with 40 seconds remaining to boot the 25-yard goal that won the game 24-21.

One pundit remarked that if he had missed the fifth try he would have become the first player in history to be fired on the field.

Even with these last-gasp heroics, he was showered with abuse by fans.

"No, I didn't lose confidence when I missed those four in a row," Moseley said. "The conditions were horrible. The surface was sandy, like a beach. Everybody was slipping and falling down."

"My left foot slipped on the first three (all wide right from 45, 34 and 38 yards). I didn't get enough foot into the fourth one (41 yards) and it just went under the cross bar."

"But I made sure on the last one and it's the one that counted. Everybody's human. The important thing is to hit the one that wins the game."

Moseley is the last remaining orthodox straightaway kicker in a game inundated with soccer-style specialists, but he doesn't feel he is an outmoded relic.

"I can't criticize the soccer-style guys," he said, "but I think I generally have an advantage. I don't work with a hook and I have my weight over the ball."

Moseley was easily the best kicker in the league in 1982, scoring on his first 20 tries and extending his streak to an NFL record of 23. His 95.2 percentage also was a league record.

The past season he hit on 62 of 63 extra points and made 33 of 47 field goals for a league-leading 161 points.

Life was not always so rosy for the onetime quarterback from little Stephen F. Austin, a 14th round draft choice by the Philadelphia Eagles in 1970. He was cut after his first year and signed by the Houston Oilers.

"I led the league with 73 points the first year with the Oilers, but when I reported to camp the second year they said I had a ruptured disc," he said. "Bill Peterson gave me my walking papers."

"I contacted every club in the league and nobody would talk to me. Houston had put out word that I was all washed up."

Season Ticket Gives Up, Cashes In

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
AP Sports Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Viewers of Atlantic Coast Conference basketball yelled foul when Season Ticket came into their lives and now the package of additional coverage is out of the game.
Disqualification came

Tuesday afternoon, when officials of the ACC, Raycom Jefferson Productions and the Entertainment and Sports Programming network announced they could no longer endure the torrent of protests.

The end took effect with Tuesday night's Duke-Wake Forest basketball game. As for the remainder of the schedule, a spokesman for ESPN said the network might pick up two or three of the games, but would not carry the rest of the package.

"Recent court decisions have made it impossible to continue the package this season," Raycom president

Rick Ray said in a prepared statement.

Under the terms of Season Ticket, cable television subscribers were to pay for the privilege of seeing 21 ACC basketball games in addition to the 38-game package offered on commercial television. Those who did not subscribe lost their ESPN signal and were told to tune to another channel, where alternate programming was provided.

What followed was a fast break to the courtrooms of North Carolina. Attorneys sought and received temporary restraining orders lifting the Season Ticket blackout and forcing local cable system operators to show those games originally scheduled as part of the package.

The final straw may have come last Thursday, when a host of legal maneuvers forced cable systems to lift the blackout on the North Carolina-Maryland game. Approximately 13 systems were hit with the orders.

"We still feel the concept of pay cable is the only alternative for distributing extra ACC basketball games," Ray continued. "We hope fans recognize that this was an opportunity to view games that would not otherwise be available."

ESPN president Bill Grimes decided to end the idea instead of allowing cable operators to suffer what he called "continued undue hardship and expense resulting from the legal proceedings."

Grimes added that ESPN will continue to fight in state and federal courts for the right to show such games on a cable-exclusive pay basis.

N.C. Attorney General Rufus Edmisten, who said he would attempt to get the games shown to all cable subscribers, was not pleased with the decision.

"I had hoped that the decision would go the other way, and that the producers and broadcasters would allow all ESPN cable subscribers to see these broadcasts," Edmisten said in a prepared statement. "In my opinion, the promoters had no right to charge the public twice for the same broadcast."

In the meantime, those who subscribed to Season Ticket have been advised to contact their local cable operators to try and secure their refunds for the games not provided.

Raycom vice president Ken Haines said he hoped the time could be used evaluating what has happened and how it might be avoided later. "We'll wait to hear from the fans if they want more games," Haines said.

Florida Surprises In Win Over Kentucky

By The Associated Press
The Florida Gators had a plan, which means the third-ranked Kentucky Wildcats have their second straight loss.

"We figured we were going to gamble on them making them from the outside rather than gamble on them making them from the inside," Florida Coach Norm Sloan said.

The Wildcats got only four points each from their two big men — 7-foot-1 Sam Bowie and 6-11 Melvin Turpin — as unranked Florida chalked up a 69-57 Southeastern Conference basketball victory Tuesday night.

"I knew we had the same talent. They just have more height," said Vernon Delancy, who led Florida with five assists and added 14 points.

In other games involving ranked teams, seventh-ranked Maryland downed Clemson 85-72 and No. 12 Wake Forest defeated Duke 97-66.

"I'm really concerned with what happened to us early in the game," Kentucky Coach Joe B. Hall said. "Forget about our offense. The way our defense played, we couldn't have beaten anybody."

Eugene McDowell and Ronnie Williams, each 6-8, took advantage of a sluggish Wildcat defense, combining for 31 points and 16 rebounds to lead Florida to its first victory over Kentucky in five years. McDowell hit 8 of 9 from the field for 16 points, while Williams finished with 15, including 7 of 9 from the free throw line.

Freshman guard Andrew Moten added 13 for the Gators. Jim Master led Kentucky with 18 points, while Kenny Walker added 15. The Wildcats' record fell to 12-2 and 4-2 in the Southeastern Conference.

"It was a complete game," Sloan said. "They handled the ball well and played the clock well."

Top Twenty

A career-high 17 rebounds and 21 points by Ben Coleman paced Maryland over Clemson in an Atlantic Coast Conference game. Maryland is now 12-2, including 3-1 in the ACC.

The loss snapped Clemson's four-game winning streak and dropped the Tigers' record to 11-3 with a 2-1 league mark. Leading 38-31 at halftime, the Terps scored nine straight points shortly after intermission to take a 48-33 lead. Maryland extended its margin to 65-46 with 7:59 remaining before the Tigers closed the gap in the final minutes.

Adrian Branch led Maryland with 22 points, while Murray Jarman, Anthony Jenkins and Marc Campbell had 14 each for Clemson.

Reserve Lee Garber scored 16 points as six Wake Forest players reached double figures as the Demon Deacons easily defeated Duke in an ACC game. Danny Young and Delaney Rudd added 15 points each, while Kenny Green scored 14, Anthony Teachey had 13 and reserve John Toms 12.

The Deacons, now 12-2 overall and 1-2 in the ACC, snapped a 6-6 tie with an 8-0 spurt and were never headed. Mark Alarie scored 19 points to lead Duke, 14-3 and 0-2.

Unranked Teams

Dwayne Johnson scored 14 points and Tom Copa added 12 to lead Marquette, 9-7, to a 63-54 nonconference victory over Creighton, 9-5. The Warriors broke the game open early in the second half with a 9-4 spurt to go ahead 38-27. Creighton was led by Greg Brandon with 18 points.

Jeff Turner sank an 8-foot jumper with four seconds remaining to give Vanderbilt a 73-71 Southeastern Conference victory over Auburn. It was Auburn's first loss in five SEC games, but the Tigers retained their half-game lead over Kentucky.

Turner led all scorers with 27 points, while Chuck Person, the SEC's leading scorer, paced the Tigers with 22.

Miller Hopes For Better Luck

PHOENIX (AP) — Johnny Miller was only joking when he suggested that he did, indeed, win the Bob Hope Classic last weekend.

"I led at the end of four rounds. That's a golf tournament, isn't it? 72 holes? They just made a mistake and extended it a day longer," Miller said.

Miller, who ran afoul of a balky putter over the last 36 holes, lost the lead in the fifth and final round of the 90-hole Hope event and eventually finished third behind John Mahaffey and Jim Simons.

"It was just the putting," Miller said before a practice round for the $400,000 Phoenix Open, which begins Thursday on the 6,721-yard, par 71 Phoenix Country Club course, one of his favorite hunting grounds.

"I hit the ball very well last week, certainly well enough to win," Miller said. "I feel like I'm playing very well right now. It's just a matter of making some putts."

"Maybe this week. I've had good luck in Phoenix." He has, indeed. He won twice in the mid-'70's and lost in a playoff last year. That history of success, along with his solid play over his last three starts (he won two unofficial events prior to the Hope) made him a prime contender for the $72,000 first prize here.

Arrayed against him is a 144-man field that includes a trio of U.S. Open champions who are making their first appearances of the PGA Tour season — current titleholder Larry Nelson, Hale Irwin and Lee Trevino.

Some other leading contenders include Bob Gilder, who won his second Phoenix title last season, former winner Lanny Wadkins, Simons and Mahaffey, and Rex Caldwell, another playoff loser here a year ago.

Also on hand are Andy Bean, Ben Crenshaw, Tom Kite, Jim Colbert, Calvin Peete, Fuzzy Zoeller and British star Nick Faldo.

Two major figures were forced to withdraw because of injuries suffered last week. Bruce Lietzke is out with a pulled muscle in the chest and Jerry Pate with a chronic neck problem.

Grant Is Showboat

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Mike Grant, a linebacker for the East Carolina Pirates, has signed a contract with the Memphis Showboats of the United States Football League.

Grant was the 35th pick of the Showboats.

A 6-1, 229-pounder from Charleston Heights, S.C., Grant missed the 1982 season after a slow recovery from knee surgery following the 1981 campaign. He had transferred from Chowan Junior College following his sophomore year, when he had been selected as the Most Valuable Linebacker and also received the Big Hitter Award.

He led the team in tackles as a junior and was one of the standout players during his senior campaign.

Plunkett Fined For Snoozing

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Quarterback Jim Plunkett of the Los Angeles Raiders says he didn't get a wakeup call at the team hotel on his first morning in Tampa, Fla. It appears that such an oversight is going to cost him $1,000.

Plunkett was one of seven Raiders who will be fined that amount for being late to a team meeting Tuesday morning, it was learned later in the day.

Team officials confirmed that several players were late to the meeting but refused to identify them. But other members of the Raiders gave their identities and said the players will be fined $1,000 apiece.

"I was just late," said Plunkett. "Not by much, enough. I should have been there on time, I wasn't. I didn't get a wakeup call."

The other late arrivals were reserve cornerbacks Ted Watts and James Davis, reserve safety Kenny Hill, reserve defensive ends Johnny Robinson and Greg Townsend, and offensive guard Curt Marsh, who has been on the Raiders' injured reserve list all season.

"To me, it's not a big thing, but maybe it is to you guys (reporters)," said Coach Tom Flores of the Raiders. "There were a few late for the meeting this morning. It was an early meeting. It was 4 o'clock when they got up this morning, our time. I don't think it will happen anymore."

The Raiders arrived from Los Angeles on Monday for Super Bowl XVIII, to be played here this Sunday. Flores made the reference to "our time" because his team came from the Pacific time zone to the Eastern time zone, a difference of three hours.

"I don't know why everybody seems to almost have a fit because some guys are late and they're going to get fined," said Flores. "It happened. There were a couple that were a little late and that's it. It's not going to destroy the whole week."

Plunkett said he talked to Flores about the situation.

"I told him what happened," said Plunkett. Concerning the fine, the veteran quarterback said, "We'll see later."

When asked about Plunkett not getting a wakeup call, Flores said: "When you have a responsibility, that's it. The matter will be handled privately."

The meeting was scheduled for 8:30 a.m., 75 minutes before the Raiders took part in a photo and interview session at Tampa Stadium, where Los Angeles will meet the Washington Redskins in the National Football League's championship game.

Three years ago, the last time the Raiders played in a Super Bowl game, defensive end John Matuszak was fined "in excess of $1,000" for breaking a midweek curfew.

Matuszak, who later apologized to his teammates, had said when the Raiders first arrived in New Orleans, that he was going to make certain none of the players broke curfew.

"The last time this happened was one time in New Orleans and it was written up as if the whole team was down on Bourbon Street every single night and I didn't appreciate it," said Flores.

The incident didn't have an adverse effect on the Raiders, as evidenced by their 27-10 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles. At least one member of the team doesn't think it will have a negative influence on this year's game either.

"Tom (Flores) made a big speech about the importance of punctuality and those types of things yesterday," said veteran linebacker Ted Hendricks. "But this is typical Raider stuff. We've broken tradition again."

"It was a just a matter of a couple of them being out and about last night and not coming in this morning. The meetings were going on and then some of the guys came in."

"Nothing bothers this team. This could happen to another team and they could totally collapse but this isn't going to bother us at all."

Military Reprimands Could End Officer Careers

By DON WATERS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — For a member of the armed forces hoping for higher rank, a piece of paper in a personnel file can lead to a slide down the promotion pyramid and an abbreviated career. Such a prospect may be facing some officers associated with the Marine headquarters that was bombed to rubble in Beirut Oct. 23, killing 241 Americans. A Pentagon commission found last month that officers extending from the Marine battalion commander to the head of U.S. forces in Europe had failed to assure adequate security precautions despite growing threats to the 1,800-man peacekeeping force.

The panel recommended that Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger "take whatever administrative or disciplinary action he deems appropriate."

President Reagan, as commander-in-chief, effectively ruled out legal prosecutions when he said on Dec. 27: "I do not believe ... that the local commanders on the ground, men who have already suffered quite enough, should be punished for not fully comprehending the nature of today's terrorist threat."

After some initial confusion as to the scope of Reagan's directive, defense officials determined from the White House that he was referring only to courts-martial and was not precluding the service secretaries from taking administrative steps, such as disciplinary letters.

Weinberger asked the service secretaries for their comments on the report, including disciplinary recommendations, and they were submitted to him last week, Pentagon officials said.

Michael I. Burch, assistant defense secretary of public affairs, said Weinberger is expected to make his views public after seeing the recommendations. Because of Privacy Act restrictions, however, the text of any reprimand is unlikely to be released.

Because the military operates on an "up or out" career system, those passed over twice by promotion boards after becoming eligible can be separated from the service. If they have served fewer than 20 years, they also lose any retirement benefits.

While reprimands naturally are something to be avoided, promotion boards consider them in context with the evaluation reports that all members of the services receive annually from their superiors, said a Pentagon spokesman, Army Lt. Col. Eric Opsahl.

And, he said, the reason for the reprimand, the rank of the person issuing it and the stage in a career it was issued all are taken into account, he said.

Those who believe they have been treated unfairly may appeal up the chain of command or to the inspector general, Opsahl said. And, he said, it is up to the person issuing the reprimand whether to make it part of the personnel record at all or just to send it to the serviceman or woman involved as a private admonition.

In the military, as in most hierarchies, promotion possibilities narrow as rank rises and a spotless record and laudatory evaluations take on increasing importance.

A major barrier to promotion in the officer corps is from colonel or Navy captain to the one-star grade of brigadier general or Navy commodore.

As of last year, there were 14,400 colonels and captains on active duty, but only 532 men and women in the lowest flag-officer grade. All officer commissions and promotions are subject to presidential appointment and Senate confirmation, but nearly all are handled routinely at those levels.

Non-judicial punishment can go beyond a letter in a file.

In May 1971, then-Army Secretary Stanley Resor stripped acting Maj. Gen.

Samuel W. Koster of one of his two stars and a Distinguished Service Medal as an outgrowth of the massacre in the South Vietnamese village of My Lai in March 1968 by troops of the Americal Division.

As division commander, Koster was cited for failing to adequately investigate reports of the slaying of hundreds of South Vietnamese civilians, which came to public attention only in late 1969. He retired from the service in November 1973 as a brigadier general.

Anti-Semitic Incidents Drop

NEW YORK (AP) — The number of anti-Semitic incidents nationwide has dropped because educational efforts have reduced prejudice, publicity has heightened public interest and stricter laws against ethnic vandalism have been passed, a Jewish organization says. Jewish institutions also have taken stronger measures to protect themselves, the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith said Tuesday.

MS Magnifies Uncertainty of Life

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
For everyone life is uncertain, but people with multiple sclerosis have this uncertainty magnified and multiplied.

MS is a disease of flareups and remissions of symptoms — of being crippled a while and then able to walk; of impaired vision that unexplainedly improves at times; of weakness that is overwhelming at times, not so bad at others; of numbness of various parts of the body which comes and goes; of bladder malfunction and return of function.

Some people also experience hearing problems, though this is not one of the more common symptoms. Because of the extreme fluctuation, cause and effect are hard to determine. Cure seems to elude researchers and even coming up with provable treatments is difficult.

Doctors say that multiple sclerosis is caused by damage to the fatty tissue called myelin which insulates the brain and spinal cord of the central nervous system. It's a kind of short-circuiting, not unlike the malfunctioning of a phone system when insulation of wiring is frayed. The effect is that messages from the brain are slowed, misdirected or lost when even a pinpoint of myelin is damaged.

No one knows why demyelination occurs, though many observers suspect it's an immunological breakdown in which the body's antibodies start attacking the victim's own tissue.

"We've come to believe within the past 10 years," local neurologist Dr. Charles Matthews said, "that MS is much more common than was once believed. We also believe that there are many degrees of severity. Some people probably have one flareup and never experience symptoms again. Many people do have an ongoing struggle, however."

Many, when they are diagnosed, realize that they've probably had the condition for some years previous. Robin Pagel, 24, a student at East Carolina University, uses this knowledge to assure herself that she can cope with whatever comes along. "I made it through many years when I was having symptoms I didn't understand," she said. "So I can deal with whatever comes, too."

Paul Rogers

Miss Pagel was living alone in Columbia, S.C., when she was diagnosed in May 1982. Since her diagnosis, she's moved to Greenville to live with her parents and younger sister, Lisa. "Being back home is different from when I was a teen-ager," she said. "I appreciate my parents and how well they're dealing with my illness and studying with my little sister (a ninth grader) is great. I help her with her work and she helps me." Robin Pagel's present flareup has rendered her nearly blind. She has to have a reader at school. "I have to plan my day," she said, "so I can do as much as possible in the morning. My energy goes the later in the day it gets. By night I might not be able to walk across a room without resting several times."

"My energy's the exact opposite," Paul Rogers, 27, said. "I wake up at low ebb and so stiff I can hardly move. My right leg is completely useless right now; it's like a lead weight. The later in the day it gets, the more flexible I get."

Rogers was diagnosed while he was an art major at East Carolina University. He now does free-lance commercial art at home, working whenever his energy level will allow. Despite all the hardships he's experienced in the past four years, he says he's optimistic about the future, happily looking forward to the birth of his and his wife, Joy's, first child. "I'm tired of having MS," he says. "I'm ready for a cure to be found."

Dr. Matthews, who worked in an MS research program in Kentucky prior to coming to Greenville, says he believes there will be a cure within five years. He encourages Rogers and all other MS patients to do everything they can to take care of their general health.

"I am taking care of my health in every way I can," Greenville resident Leslie Brooks said, "because I do believe that there's going to be a breakthrough in dealing with MS."

Diagnosed just after the birth of her fourth child about two years ago, Mrs. Brooks said, "Having MS sure changes your values, gets your priorities in order. I know now my most fervent wish is to be well enough to raise my children. My husband and my children are my first priority."

A free-lance artist, she still works when she can in her studio. And, like all the others interviewed, she takes part in the activities of the local MS support group.

David Griffin, 55, who was diagnosed as having MS when he was 21 years old, travels the 30 miles from Williamston any time there is an MS group activity. A widower who lives with his daughter, he was a long time alone with his disease and enjoys the fellowship of the others who participate. Mindy Davis, patient and family services social worker at Pitt County Memorial Hospital, and Mary Louis, a social worker in the East Carolina Family Practice Center, located at the hospital, assist the group. "It's just great," Miss Pagel said, "to know that the group is here. I went for several months after I got here thinking there was no MS group here. Then finally I learned that there was one all the time. If there is anyone out there who has MS and isn't taking advantage of this group, I can tell them, it's made a tremendous difference for me. I now have regular contact with other people who know how I feel.

David Griffin

The frustrations you experience with energy interference and all the rest are so great. It's just wonderful to have people in your life who know exactly what you're talking about."

"Being part of the group has been a way of adjusting to having MS," Mrs. Brooks said. "I don't mind telling you, I was sad and scared when I was diagnosed. I saw myself as becoming bedridden, unable to care for

Killed One Of Three Intruders

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A 77-year-old security guard shot and killed one of three intruders who attacked him at the Godley Auction Co. warehouse, authorities said.

The guard, Walter Houston, was patrolling the company's warehouse Tuesday when three men broke into the building around 2:30 a.m., police said.

The men grabbed Houston and hit him with a chunk of wood, police said. But Houston broke free and fired his large-caliber handgun. He hit Lonnie Carelock Jr. in the head and killed him, police said.

Police Capt. Roy Phillips said Houston "could (face) criminal charges," just as anyone who uses a deadly weapon. But he added that the decision of whether to file charges was "up to the D.A."

The district attorney's office is expected to decide this week whether charges will be filed.

Houston was hired by company owner Frank Godley because the auction warehouse had had two break-ins over the weekend. On Saturday, thieves stole 12 kerosene heaters valued at $780. On Sunday, 24 more heaters were taken, police said.

Ski Comedy At Box Office Top

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Hot Dog... The Movie," a comedy about life at a ski resort, opened strongly on movie screens around the country, with its weekend receipts topped only by No. 1 "Terms of Endearment."

Produced by MGM-United Artists on a $2.7 million budget, "Hot Dog" grossed $4.5 million in its first weekend. That sum was more than any movie over the weekend except for "Terms of Endearment," which grossed $5.2 million in its eighth week.

Starring Shirley MacLaine, Jack Nicholson and Debra Winger, "Terms of Endearment" had been in the No. 1 spot the two previous weeks and has grossed $55.8 million since its release during the Christmas season.

Only "Sudden Impact," starring Clint Eastwood, has approached that figure, grossing $54.3 million in six weeks.

Here are the top grossing films of the past weekend, followed by the weekend's receipts, total receipts to date and weeks in distribution.

1. "Terms of Endearment" (Paramount), $5.2 million, $55.8 million, 8 weeks.
2. "Hot Dog... The Movie" (MGM-UA), $4.5 million, 1 week.
3. "Sudden Impact" (Warner Bros.), $3.7 million, $54.3 million, 6 weeks.
4. "Scarface" (Universal), $2.5 million, $29.9 million, 6 weeks.
5. "Yentl" (MGM-UA), $2.4 million, $25.8 million, 9 weeks.
6. "Silkwood" (20th-Fox), $2.3 million, $13.9 million, 5 weeks.
7. "Uncommon Valor" (Paramount), $2.2 million, $20.8 million, 5 weeks.

Artists Of Graffiti Lovingly Treated

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Are they budding Picassos, spray-painting moving canvases for art's sake, or are they exhibitionistic 'hooligans, defacing public property for their own egos?

They're graffiti artists, leaving their signatures on the metallic landscape of New York's subway system, and they're captured on film tonight in "Style Wars," a revealing, beautifully photographed examination of this form of pop-culture expression in urban America.

For the most part, "Style Wars" lovingly treats graffiti artists, known as "writers" in their own vernacular, focusing on the best and the brightest of their work. Rarely do we see pictures of the random, vulgar scribbles that litter many subway cars. The producers, Tony Silver and Henry Chalfant, chose, instead, to let voices of authority, such as New York Mayor Ed Koch and several transit authority cops, criticize these bockin' Rembrandts. Silver is a documentary filmmaker and Chalfant is a sculptor and reigning authority on graffiti.

One cop says he's not art critic, but he knows graffiti is a crime. Koch calls subway graffiti a "quality-of-life offense," comparing it to pickpocketing and shoplifting.

The mayor's idea of erecting barbed-wire fences with patrolling guard dogs has been introduced in at least one subway yard, and

Koch is proud of the "Dump Koch" non-endorsements scrawled on some cars. "It's the highest praise imaginable," he said. "It shows I'm getting to them."

Graffiti also takes on generation-gap overtones when one young artist and his disapproving mother are interviewed together. His desire is to be "all-city," meaning his work will be displayed on enough subway lines to cover New York. His mother, obviously a caring woman whose doleful look speaks volumes, says graffiti-writing is dangerous and "a poor, miserable subculture."

The basic motivating force for most of the graffiti artists is identity, the knowledge that the city's millions of commuters are a captive audience for their personal statement and style. One dedicated writer says he loves the excitement of the high-voltage third rail, cops breathing down his neck and the smell of the trains.

Michelangelo, who painted the Sistine Chapel while on his back, had a different set of problems from these modern-day wall painters. The best of them are seen drawing outlines and filling in their elaborate, energetic works with cans of spray paint.

A lament from one artist is that the trains used to remain stationary for entire weekends, now they're constantly on the go, and it's impossible to hit a moving target.

Another problem, an ironic coincidence that seems lost on this particular graffiti artist, is that his masterpieces have been vandalized by other writers, called "dogs" who cross out other people's work out of jealousy. He calls it a "never-forgive" action.

Unquestionably, the best writers would be talented artists on any canvas. An art-gallery exhibit brings praise from aficionados in Soho, one of whom raves about how "alive and vibrant" graffiti is. One graffiti painter explains his move indoors to hanging art this way: "I'm into making money."

The major omission in the production is that it doesn't go far enough in exploring how the graffiti painter has fared in the world outside subway cars and subterranean museums. How many have earned art scholarships, and how have they done in traditional art classes?

"Style Wars" also takes a look at another burgeoning form of urban expression, "breaking," which is an increasingly popular and intricate form of dancing that combines the energy of the street with the studied discipline of gymnastics.

Breaking is not the kind of dancing that Fred and Ginger could do cheek-to-cheek. In a sense, the breaker's only partner is the sidewalk, and, in one unforgettable move, the breaker spins on his head, like a top.

Thicke Program Has A Renewal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite the low ratings that have plagued it, Alan Thicke's syndicated late-night variety show has been renewed for six months, with production of new programs to resume early next month, a spokesperson for the show says.

"Thicke of the Night," a joint venture of former NBC president Fred Silverman's InterMedia, MGM-UA Television and Metromedia has been on the air since September. But for a while it looked as if not enough stations would renew their contracts to keep the show going.

A formal announcement is expected shortly.

4 WAYS TO SAY
"CHARGE IT"

Colorado River Basin Sees Growing Flood Threat

By ELLEN HADDOW
Associated Press Writer
PALISADE, Colo. (AP) — When the flood came last spring to Plateau Creek, it claimed some of Pat Byvoet's pasture and all his hopes of building a black-smith business.

The 28-year-old Byvoet says he doesn't think he could survive a repeat of the spring snowmelt that swelled the quiet mountain creek and caused $30,000 in damage.

"Last year the whole mountain came down at once," Byvoet said. "If I could fix everything, I might keep from more damage this year. But by the time I got through all the permits I had run out of money."

So he's rented his place, sold his dozen horses and set out to revive his business in nearby Grand Junction.

Last spring's flooding on the western edge of the Rocky Mountains was serious; farther downstream along the Colorado River it was devastating. Roads and businesses were damaged, businesses washed out, homes destroyed. People called it a "100-year flood."

And officials say it could happen again this spring across the seven-state Colorado River Basin.

Snowpack in the Rockies is nearly twice the average depth, winter is not even half over and storage reservoirs remain nearly full from last year's huge runoff.

Whether flood fears will be realized depends on a number of things: how much more snow the mountains of Colorado, Utah and Wyoming get this winter; how well repairs on the spillways of Utah's Glen Canyon Dam proceed, and how quickly heavy snow melts in May.

"It depends on how the melt comes," said Terry Holzworth, flood control director for Salt Lake County in Utah, where officials are working on $24 million worth of flood projects.

But he warned that if there is a repeat of 1983's flooding, the damage will be much worse because creek and river banks already are so eroded they can't hold high water.

Much flood damage remains from 1983, when unusually high spring temperatures triggered a quick melt of a high snowpack and caused damage from western Colorado into Mexico. Financial losses still have not been officially tabulated, but they clearly are in the millions of dollars.

"Our problem is that the water has not gone down yet," said Patrick Harrington, assistant state director for emergency services in Arizona. "It's hard to tell what damage there was unless you can see it."

Damage in 1983 was scattered over a wide area, from small dams breaking in western Colorado; rivers of water inundating streets in Salt Lake City and the flooding of homes and resorts in Arizona and California.

Financially strapped state and local governments have been hard pressed to fund repairs.

"We may have the second 100-year flood this year, right after last year," said Bill McDonald, deputy director of the Colorado Water Conservation Board. "There's just no money for any of this."

Utah Gov. Scott Matheson is asking his state Legislature to appropriate $38.1 million to cover flood costs.

The U.S. Bureau of Reclamation was criticized at congressional hearings last June in Nevada and California by people whose homes were flooded. Residents wanted to know why an elaborate system of dams and reservoirs failed to prevent widespread damage.

The tourist industry complained, too. Campground operators in Colorado and casino owners in Nevada said bad publicity cut business.

Reclamation Commissioner Robert Broadbent spent the last several months touring the affected western states, trying to gain the cooperation of water district boards, state governments and other agencies in formulating an operations plan to prevent a repeat of 1983 flooding.

Last week, the Bureau of Reclamation issued its January forecast for the Upper Colorado River Basin, saying the snowpack in Colorado, Wyoming and Utah stood at 173 percent of normal. Bud Rusko, spokesman for the bureau's regional office in Salt Lake City, said the current forecast calls for 13 million acre-feet of runoff — twice the normal amount and just under last year's 14.6 million acre-feet that caused extensive flooding in several states.

"The forecast assumes a wide margin of error and assumes normal snowfall and a gradual melt," Rusko said. "If the runoff is 13 million acre-feet, it could be handled with no great problems."

If the bureau drains Colorado River reservoirs and anticipated snowmelt doesn't fill them back up, cities and farmers downstream don't have water. If it holds too much water in storage and is faced suddenly with a heat wave and a large runoff, there is flooding.

"It's tough, almost a no-win situation," said Clark Germann, a federal Bureau of Reclamation spokesman in Denver. But with unpleasant memories of last spring still fresh, bureau officials plan to drain down reservoirs to allow an extra 2.5 million acre-feet of water. Complicating that plan in Utah is damage to the spillways at Glen Canyon Dam, where an intense repair job is under way.

U. S. To Resume Ocean Studies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is embarking on a major new ocean drilling program this year to explore the bottom of the world's seas for clues to the evolution of the Earth and its waters.

The National Science Foundation has awarded a five-year, $141 million contract to a consortium of university and oceanographic institutions to operate the Ocean Drilling Program. The group will lease and convert a commercial oil drilling ship for scientific drilling around the world. The program is scheduled to start in October with drilling in the Gulf of Mexico and in the Blake-Bahamas area of the Atlantic. The ship will later explore the mid-Atlantic Ridge and move to the Labrador Sea. The ship is to end its first year's schedule in the Mediterranean Sea.

Suicides Mar Mondays, Spring And 5th Of Month

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
AP Science Writer
BOSTON (AP) — A study of suicides shows that people are most likely to take their own lives on Mondays, on the fifth day of the month and in the springtime.

Just why these patterns occur is a mystery, though experts suspect they reflect particularly stressful times for people who are depressed.

The latest study, conducted by Kathleen MacMahon at the Harvard School of Public Health, is based on an analysis of 185,887 suicides in the United States from 1972 through 1978. It confirms two trends that other researchers have also noticed: Monday is the most common day for suicides, and Saturday is the least. And people are most apt to kill themselves in May and least suicide-prone in December.

However, another finding of the study is new. According to the report, published in the American Journal of Epidemiology, the statistics "reveal a remarkable cyclic variation by day within month which has not previously been recognized."
Suicides reach a peak at about the fifth day of each month, when there are 6 percent more of them than usual. Then they decline to about the 23rd, when they start to go back up again. Throughout the whole year, the only major exception to this pattern is February, when suicides peak during the middle of the month.

However, none of this seems to be related to the phases of the moon, which some people think affect behavior.

"No ready explanation comes to mind for this as for the other cycles," Miss MacMahon wrote. "Possibly it is related to cycles in personal finances during the month — arrival of bills or pay checks, for example."
During April, she noted, the suicide surge arrives a bit later than usual and peaks in the week before federal income tax returns are due.

At the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, sociologist James Mercy said the outburst of suicides at the start of the work week has promoted some people to call this day "blue Monday."
Although it is not clear why people choose this day to kill themselves, he said, some theorize that "people are going back to work, and those who are isolated or left out feel an exaggerated sense of depression at that period."

These suicide trends are more than statistical curiosities, Mercy says.
"If we know that suicides occur at a higher rate at one point in time," he said, "we can alter interventions to take that into account."
It might help, for instance, to advertise suicide hotlines on Sunday evenings or in the springtime.
The study of suicide is a craft that thrives on

The Facts About Beta Blockers

Almost every day I meet friends of my own age, which is 62, who are taking special drugs they call beta blockers. It all sounds so mysterious. I'd like to know what they are and why so many people are taking them. — Mr. I.C.J., New Hampshire
Dear Mr. J.:

associated problems, patients who are given beta blockers are told to stop the drug immediately and consult their doctor if any unusual effect occurs.
The beta blockers are now being tried to reduce severe anxiety. A number of scientific studies are in the works for the treatment and control of specially chosen cases of schizophrenia. The beta blockers have also been used during the difficult time of withdrawal from a chronic state of alcoholism.

Beta blocking drugs can be considered one of the great advances in modern medicine. There is nothing mysterious about these drugs. Yet their action is complicated and filled with scientific detail that can be confusing.
Besides the nervous system, including the brain, the spinal cord, and the nerves that issue from them, there is also a sympathetic nervous system. The action of this remarkable sympathetic system is involved with many of the reflex actions of the body.

A new group of drugs known as calcium blockers are also being tried with favorable results for special types of heart disease.
Beta blocking agents are recognized as a significant group of therapeutic agents. We have only begun to see the new outcroppings of the second and third generations of these drugs. They hold tremendous promise in modern medicine.

There are now many different beta blocking drugs that affect the heart, the rate and regularity of the heartbeat, blood pressure, the opening and closing of blood vessels, endocrine disturbances, and even the pain of angina pectoris. Some of the beta blockers are even being used to treat migraine headaches and the so-called vascular and cluster headaches.
Because of their direct action on the sympathetic nervous system, these drugs are carefully chosen and just as closely monitored by the doctor once they are prescribed.
As with all relatively new and exciting drugs, their usage over a protracted period of time has pointed out some of their adverse effects. An inordinate fatigue is sometimes associated with their use. The drug can affect sleep and sometimes produces skin rashes.

Is there any real advantage to water bath treatments or is it all psychological? — Miss M.G.R., Indiana
Dear Miss R.:

Because of their direct action on the sympathetic nervous system, these drugs are carefully chosen and just as closely monitored by the doctor once they are prescribed.
As with all relatively new and exciting drugs, their usage over a protracted period of time has pointed out some of their adverse effects. An inordinate fatigue is sometimes associated with their use. The drug can affect sleep and sometimes produces skin rashes.

Hydrotherapy is a recognized scientific application of water for the relief, control and treatment of some diseases. There are many different physical advantages to the well chosen and well regulated use of water therapy.
People with arthritis, neurological problems and muscular conditions get a great deal of comfort from water baths of various degrees of temperature. The motion of the water is soothing and stimulating.
In addition there is, of course, the relaxation that has psychological value in reducing tension and inducing tranquility.

Bird Control Is Airline Expense

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. airlines spend about $20 million a year to control flocks of birds that inhabit air space near airports.

A novel approach to bird control has been in effect for the past three years at Toronto International Airport. When the control tower sights a flock of birds, a falcon or some other bird of prey is released from the skies to frighten them away.

Waiting Lists For New Book

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The sudden flurry of publicity over "And Ladies of the Club," written by 88-year-old Helen Hooven Santmyer, has public libraries in central Ohio building up long waiting lists of people who want to read it.
Ms. Santmyer, a near-invalid in a Xenia nursing home, chose "Waynesboro" as the fictitious setting for the novel that took her almost 50 years to write. But a friend, 83-year-old Mildred Sandoe, said, "Nobody in Xenia (in Greene County, southwest of here) will ever see anything except Xenia in the book."
According to Weldon Kefauver, director of the Ohio State University Press, libraries were the biggest buyers at the time of publication in 1982. But now the book has been picked up by the Book-of-the-Month Club, and the New York publisher plans to have 50,000 copies in bookstores — but not until late August.

Librarians report the scarcity of the limited copies now available also is due to their inability to impose a seven-day limit on borrowing because of the book's length — 1,344 pages.
KEEN SMELL
SEEWIESEN, West Germany (AP) — It has long been established that homing pigeons use the sun and the earth's magnetic field to guide their flight. But a West German research team says that smell is the primary tool these birds use for navigation.
It says research suggests pigeons literally follow their noses, using certain odors found in the air as a map.

Troops Build 'Mole City'

By EILEEN ALT POWELL
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Staff Sgt. Edward Peerenboom fired up a gas-fueled camping lantern and gestured toward a narrow dirt passage that leads underground.

"Welcome to 'Mole City,'" he said.

Carrying the lantern at shoulder level, the 27-year-old sergeant from Milwaukee, Wis., led the way through a labyrinth of tunnels that connect 21 sandbagged bunkers along one perimeter position of the U.S. Marine base in Beirut.

The sparkler-white lantern light illuminated a full kitchen underground and a series of "bedrooms" with Marine-issue cots, home for several dozen men. At various turns in the passageway, the darkness was broken by ceiling-level "windows" used as gunports for the platoon's machine guns, grenade launchers and shoulder-held automatic rifles. Eight dirt ramps serve as emergency exits.

The third platoon of the Golf Company line unit has dug in to the point where its members need surface only to get water, go to the latrine or take a shower.

"We had a lot of incentive to do this," Peerenboom said. "When we first got here, we were taking mortar and rocket fire almost every night."

Most of the Marines stationed at Beirut International Airport live in underground bunkers, but no other unit, including the peacekeeping forces of other nations, has developed the elaborate connecting tunnels that Peerenboom's platoon has.

"It's a hard-charging platoon that takes a lot of pride in what it does," said the battalion commander, Lt. Col. Ray Smith, 38, of Jacksonville, N.C. "They took the initiative, and they put a lot of back-breaking work into it. They should be proud."

The Marines, who as recently as last summer often lived in tents or in bunkers above ground, have been digging in for better protection against repeated attacks on their post.

Some of the newer bunkers are actually submerged metal boxes, about the size of a small truck trailer, reinforced with sandbags to sustain the impact of a direct hit. Many have plastic sheets or tar paper strips interwoven with rooftop sandbags to keep out torrential winter rains. Some even have electricity.

The Golf Company labyrinth is entirely hand made, and Peerenboom figures his men have filled nearly 500,000 sandbags to do it.

"We'd dig the trenches during the daylight hours, then fill sandbags until midnight," recalled Cpl. Garrett

Tatum, 22, of Charlotte, N.C., of the first weeks after the unit arrived as a relief force in mid-November. "It wasn't fun, but we all knew it was for our own protection, so we kept at it."

The sandbags — burlap casings measuring about 2 feet by 1 foot by 6 inches when full of dirt — are piled 15 high. Steel poles or pieces of wood reinforce the walls and brace ceilings made of steel plates or 5-inch diameter pipe. Sandbags and dirt "camouflage" help the roofline blend in with the dusty terrain.

Although they are still digging "additions," the Marines of Mole City figure they've got the basics in place for as comfortable a life as one could expect in the field.

Lance Cpl. Kenneth Gainey, the platoon cook, can prepare a hot meal for his unit even when the Marines are on alert and required to stay in their bunkers. "Don't matter to me what's going on outside," said Gainey, 21, of Dunn, N.C.

That night on his diesel-fired stove he was planning "to whip up something simple: beef in barbecue sauce, scalloped potatoes and a fresh tomato and cucumber salad."

Down the corridor, Sgt. Russell Jackson, 24, of Mission, S.D., sat at the plywood desk in his "hooch" carefully numbering Polaroid pictures of the Marine base to send home to his wife, Nancy. Three white candles and a camping lantern illuminated his work.

The largest of the sleeping bays hold up to four men, and at times double as card rooms. Some smaller rooms were designed for work — the communications center is packed with Marine radios, and the machine gun positions have tar paper walls to eliminate silhouettes during night firefights.

The underground home is not, however, without its drawbacks.

"I've gotten as many as 20 or 21 mice in a single trap in four days," said Lance Cpl. Duke Walker, 21, of Little Rock, Ark. "Peanut butter's the best bait."

There are also large beetle-like creatures that the troops have nicknamed "four-wheel drive bugs" for their ability to maneuver.

Two lance corporals taking a break from filling sandbags — Jesse Duarte, 19, of Los Angeles and Jay Savage, 20, of Atlanta — said they like their underground quarters.

"It creates more of a family atmosphere," Savage said. "Everybody can be together."

"And it's much safer than before," Duarte added. "But of course, you can't ever feel really safe around here anywhere."

Wood Stove Is No Safer Than Way It's Used

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer
Sales of wood-burning stoves have soared in recent years and so have fires involving them. But you may have only yourself to blame if someone in your home gets hurt.

Studies at the Center for Fire Research in the National Bureau of Standards show that only 13 percent of the fires involving stoves and other appliances which burn solid fuels like wood were due to product malfunctions, construction defects, design deficiencies or worn-out equipment.

"Overwhelmingly, conditions related to the installation, operation or maintenance of the appliances were reported as responsible for the fires," said Richard Peacock, a chemical engineer with the bureau.

The U.S. Fire Administration says that wood-burning appliances were associated with 130,000 fires in 1981, a rise of 88 percent since 1978. There were 290 people killed and $265 million worth of property lost.

The Bureau of Standards says the most common safety rules are often the ones that are ignored and it recommends specific steps to take in installing the stove, using it and taking care of it. Here's what to do:

INSTALLATION

Install the stove at least 36 inches — three feet — from unprotected walls. You can reduce the clearance to 18 inches if the walls are protected with 24-gauge sheet metal over one-inch glass fiber or mineral wool batts and to 12 inches if the batts are sandwiched between two plates of the sheet metal.

Do not stand the stove on an unprotected, combustible floor. Floors have to be protected not only from radiant heat, but also from glowing embers which may fall out of the stove. Mount your stove on an approved mat made of something like fiberglass batts covered with sheet metal, mortared bricks, stone or concrete. The mat should extend at least 18 inches in front of the stove. There should be a minimum of four inches of clearance between stove and floor.

Make sure the stove is not near anything that can burn; leave at least 36 inches between the stove and furniture, drapes, carpets, etc.

The stovepipe may connect directly to an existing masonry chimney or may have to pass through a wall to the chimney. A single-walled stovepipe passing through a wall should be protected by a thimble — a piece of metal which fits around the pipe. If no thimble is used, the hole should be covered by at least 18 inches of non-combustible material on all sides of the pipe. That means you would need a hole with a diameter of 42 inches for a stovepipe with a diameter of six inches. If you don't have that kind of clearance, look for a stove with a specially constructed double- or triple-walled pipe.

OPERATION

Do not put anything combustible near the stove, even temporarily. This includes newspapers you might use to start the fire.

Don't use flammable liquids to start or rekindle a fire and don't use coal in a wood-burning stove unless the manufacture specifically says it's OK.

Don't overload the stove with wood or use green wood and don't use artificial logs which can create a fire that is too hot and which contain wax which can clog up the air inlet.

Don't touch the stove to see if it is hot and don't wear flowing clothing when you're near it.

If you're going to use the stove for a long time, keep a window open to get fresh air and avoid problems with pollution.

MAINTENANCE

Take steps to prevent a chimney build-up of creosote, which is a by-product of wood combustion and is very flammable. When you begin using your stove, check the chimney every two weeks to see how fast the creosote accumulates and use your findings to work out an inspection and cleaning schedule.

Look at the stovepipe regularly to see that its components have not corroded and are connected tightly; creosote can eat through the connectors.

Sending A Team Of Disabled

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The People's Republic of China will send a team of athletes to take part in the 1984 International Games for the Disabled, to be held here June 16-30.

The Chinese team will include some 20 athletes and support staff, with more athletes possibly qualifying in time to compete, according to Mike Mudgett, games director.

More than 1,500 physically handicapped athletes from over 45 countries are expected to compete in 20 Olympic-style events in and around the new $11 million Mitchel Park Athletic Complex in Uniondale.

Soviets Use Orwell Tale In Attacks

By ANDREW ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union, which for 35 years has banned George Orwell's classic satire of totalitarianism, is using the novel "1984" in an effort to portray America as Orwell's nightmare world of Big Brother and thought control.
The 1949 novel, like Orwell's "Animal Farm," still is taboo here and is regularly confiscated from tourists and Western stalls at the Moscow Book Fair. Last month, a Latvian dissident accused of having a copy of the novel and another banned work was sentenced to seven years' hard labor.

There is no hint that "1984" might be approved for general Soviet consumption.

But the official press has run at least four articles in the past two weeks that focus on the book, including two weekend pieces in the government newspaper Izvestia. One even contained praise for Orwell's artistry, although it attacked him on ideological grounds as a "socialist renegade."

In each case, the book was mentioned only to press a single argument: that Orwell's vision of a government which seeks total control of thought and action is a reality in the United States.

All four articles acknowledged Orwell's book has always been considered anti-communist satire, although the British author said it was not aimed solely at the harshly repressive Stalinist era.

"Since '1984' was published, some critics of the Soviet Union have taken suppression of the book as tacit acknowledgement of parallels to Soviet life.

But all Soviet writers who have dealt with the book reject links between "1984" and the Soviet state in 1984. They insist the real parallels are to be found in America.

The first known mention of "1984" in an official Soviet publication was on Jan. 26, 1983, when the Literary Gazette charged Orwell's nightmare was becoming reality in the United States.

This month, the foreign affairs journal New Times ran a similar article claiming Orwell's newspeak, doublethink, thought police and other sinister inventions have their counterparts in America.

Writer Viktor Tsoppi said Orwell's novel "is a grim warning precisely to bourgeois society... In which as he feared the poisonous roots of anti-humanism, all-devouring militarism and oppression have today thrust up truly monstrous shoots."

Tsoppi said the U.S. president is the counterpart of Orwell's all-seeing Big Brother.

Writing in the weekly Moscow News, Gennady Gerasimov nominated the FBI as Big Brother and President Reagan as the embodiment of the fictional nation Oceania's motto: "Ignorance is strength."

"The American president's lack of knowledge has become the talk of the town in Washington and even the world," Gerasimov charged.

The two articles in the newspaper Izvestia depicted the U.S. National Security Agency as the Orwellian thought police, who enforced government-established norms in Oceania.

"This agency... is certainly a favorite candidate for the title of Big Brother," wrote Melor Sturua.

Sturua claimed Reagan's position on arms reduction is an example of Orwellian doublethink, through which the rulers of Oceania tried to change the meanings of words, and newspeak, which used acronyms and contractions to homogenize speech and thought. For example, the Ministry of War in 1984 became the Ministry of Peace—or "Minipax."
