Jim Hunt Formally Enters Senate Race

By MELVIN LANG
Reflector Staff Writer

Gov. Jim Hunt, with years of preparation behind him in North Carolina politics, announced formally Saturday as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate — a Senate race that would match him against one of the nation's strongest conservative voices in Republican Sen. Jesse Helms.

Hunt, in an interview prior to his announcement in Wilson County, told The Daily Refector he wanted to go to Washington "to represent the people of this state ... to get things done that you just can't get done on the state level."

He touched on that philosophy in his announcement speech Saturday morning, saying he wanted to "see that equal rights and civil rights are treated as they should be, a moral imperative and the law of the land."

"I intend to be a United States senator who works for a healthy and competitive economy that creates jobs and opportunities, and I intend to be a senator who works for a fair economy where tax cuts go to working families and the middle class and not just to loopholes and tax shelters for the rich," he said.

"I know we can balance the budget in Washington, because I balance North Carolina's budget every single year," he said. "I know when to spend and when to cut. I know how to say yes to the people's interest and no to the special interests."

Hunt said he would work to lower interest rates by reducing the federal deficit.

"I think we've heard enough excuses about the deficit from both Republicans and Democrats in Washington. I think it's time to get the job done," he said.

His entry into the race had been a certainty for months, but Hunt had delayed his formal announcement and campaigning as Helms paid his filing fee and unleashed a barrage of broadcast advertising calling on Hunt to state his stand on the issues and challenging him to a debate.

Hunt, who started building his political future in college and went on to become state president of the Young Democrats, then lieutenant governor and eventually the first North Carolina governor to serve two full elective terms, will challenge Helms in what many expect to be a campaign that will cost more than $20 million.

In the Reflector interview, Hunt took note of the expected campaign expenditure, saying he "would very much favor a federal curb" on candidates' spending.

"We are going to raise plenty of money to run a political campaign, but we are going to run against a candidate who will raise $15 million. I think it has gotten way out of hand."

Hunt said he would issue position reports in the next few weeks as he launches his campaign. He indicated that most of those positions already have been established but would be issued individually at appropriate times during his campaign.

"We will be running a campaign that is based on the needs of the people of North Carolina. I want to

Hunt Is 'Ready' To Run

Gov. Jim Hunt, who announced his candidacy for the U.S. Senate earlier in the day, told several hundred people at a reception here Saturday that "I am ready for this campaign."

Hunt said, "This morning, in Wilson County, I told my homefolks. Tonight, I'm telling my neighbors ... in the capitol of eastern North Carolina, Pitt County, Greenville, North Carolina."

The $50-a-ticket reception, from 5 p.m. until 7 p.m., was billed as a fund-raiser for Hunt's bid to unseat Republican Sen. Jesse Helms.

"We know we'll be out spent 3 to 1," during the campaign, Hunt said. "But they are going to be out worked 10 to 1."

Hunt said that, during his two terms as governor, "we've shown what the people of North Carolina can do for themselves by working together," citing "a strong economy, low taxes," improvements in education, and pride "in what we've done on roads," including the start of construction on a new four-lane U.S. 264 from Greenville to Wilson.

Hunt also reminded the audience of his support for the East Carolina University School of Medicine, which he termed "one of the finest medical schools in this state and in this nation."

"Let's take the North Carolina

Shuttle's Satellite Viewed As Useless

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An official raised the possibility Saturday that the $75 million Westar VI communications satellite exploded after it was launched from the space shuttle Challenger and is now merely chunks of junk orbiting the Earth.

Bill Ziegler, mission director for Western Union, which owns the satellite, also said later that a faint signal heard by a California ground station may indicate the satellite wasn't destroyed. But he said it was useless anyway because there was no fuel left to send it up to its 22,300-mile-high orbit.

Meanwhile, a second shuttle customer — the government of Indonesia — had NASA postpone Saturday's shuttle launching of Palapa-B, an electronic twin to the Westar VI. When the astronauts went to bed, they were told that no decision had been reached whether to release it on Sunday or Monday, or bring it back home.

Another decision hinged on the second launching: whether the Challenger should stay up an extra day to accommodate the delay. On Tuesday and Thursday, mission specialists Robert Stewart and Bruce McCandless are to don back packs and perform the first space walk without a lifeline.

The North American Aerospace Defense Command said its huge radars in California and Florida determined that "two of the objects are large enough to be the satellite" and said the pieces are in the same general orbit as Challenger.

That would indicate the rocket firing that was to take Westar VI from the Challenger's 190-mile orbit to one 22,300 miles high may have spun the satellite in place like a pinwheel. The solid state fuel used in Westar's rocket stage burns until it is exhausted; there is no way the engine shuts down once the fuel is ignited.

With no fuel, "there is virtually no chance of it being useful ... we could never get it up to geosynchronous orbit," Ziegler said.

A tracking station operated by Hughes Aircraft Co., in Fillmore, Calif., "received two minutes of signal from an object trailing the orbiter" about 1 p.m. EST, but it was so weak that antennas could not lock on it, Ziegler said.

"It was a signal of the type we would expect," he said.

Asked whether he thinks the satellite has been found, Ziegler replied: "Probably."

NORAD said the largest piece it tracked is at least 690 miles behind Challenger and poses no danger to the ship and its five-man crew "at present," and that the closest approach for 24 hours is greater than 31 miles.

"Based on the number of pieces that have been detected, it appears the Westar VI satellite did not have a successful transfer to synchronous orbit after departing the payload bay of the orbiter," NORAD said.

"At the present time we have no way of determining the actual condition of the satellite or what caused this situation to occur."

Conley Teacher Wins Pitt Title

By MARY SCHULKEN

Pitt County's Teacher of the Year for 1984 says her formula for success is role reversal — she puts herself in her students' places and tries to be the kind of teacher she wanted when she sat behind a desk as a pupil.

Delores Barnhill, a Title I teacher at D.H. Conley High School, has been selected as Pitt County's Teacher of the Year for 1984-85. She has 11 years experience in the classroom, 10 of them at Conley, and currently teaches an English lab for ninth and 10th graders.

Mrs. Barnhill says as a teacher she tries to remember that "while I enjoyed grammar, reading and writing, (in school) not all of my students do."

Recognizing students' strengths and weaknesses is important, she added, along with motivation. "A smile, a comment on a paper or a little personal praise goes a long way in motivating a student," she said.

Discipline is essential, said the teacher of the year. "I must demand good discipline from the first day of school," she said. "Students must always know what I expect from them."

In addition, students must understand why a teacher takes disciplinary action, Mrs. Barnhill said, something teachers must remember to explain.

The teacher of the year says communication between parents and

Vernon White Says Won't Seek Another Senate Term

VERNON WHITE

WINTERVILLE — Sen. Vernon White, who has represented Pitt County in the North Carolina General Assembly since 1969, said Saturday that he will not seek re-election.

"I will be 78 years of age at the completion of my eighth term," he said, and "there are a few things that my wife and I would like to do and enjoy during the future years."

White, who said the decision not to seek re-election was made several months ago, said "I shall forever be grateful to my friends for allowing me to serve ..." and "for the trust and confidence ... bestowed upon me."

During his tenure in the Senate, White was instrumental in helping East Carolina University expand its programs and in securing funds to establish a four-year school of medicine.

He has served on such committees as appropriations, higher education, agriculture, highway safety, mental health, public health, law enforcement and crime control, and was a member of the Medical Manpower Commission that recommended establishment of the degree-granting medical school at ECU.

He and his wife, the former Louise Ange of Winterville, have one son.

Robert L. "Bob" Martin, of Bethel, current chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, and Greenville attorney Tom Taft have filed as candidates for White's Senate seat, which represents Pitt and parts of Martin and Beaufort counties.

Pitt Still Waiting For 911

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Shortly after the North Carolina General Assembly, in 1979, approved legislation that gave communities the option, Pitt County officials and citizens interested in emergency services looked into the feasibility of converting to a 911 countywide phone number system for citizens to use to summon emergency assistance.

After considerable discussion, it was decided that the idea was not then one whose time had come. The concensus seemed to be that, while it "would be nice," it was too expensive and that not all the municipalities in the county were solidly behind it.

911 is a universally known and accepted 3-digit way to directly summon emergency assistance — whether it be to fight a fire, for medical assistance and transportation or for law enforcement. It's used in many areas of the United States and the world.

Pitt County now has a sophisticated Communications Center in the Sheriff Department at the courthouse here, one which can channel emergency calls and quickly dispatch assistance anywhere in the county. At the present time, the number to call is 752-5136, much more difficult for a person hampered by agitation, age (elderly or young child) or other cause to use. Most of Pitt County is now on the same phone line for most purposes, but for those communities (largely Fountain and Grifton), a Zenith number can be used, i.e. calls to the 752-5136 are not paid for by the caller, but by the county. Some county citizens are still calling any of 13 other local numbers, all seven-digit, which will summon assistance of a specific nature. Most municipalities still hire their own dispatchers for police, fire and rescue calls.

Telecommunicators who work at the Communications Center say they would welcome the new system. "You can't imagine," telecommunicator Garland Johnston Jr. said, "how hard it is to get correct directions from an excited person. We understand that, with the 911 system, computerized location of the emergency site would be displayed for us. This would really speed up and make more sure the service we provide. I'd love to see it come about."

Carolina Telephone has stated that it will cooperate with the community in providing the service, but only if the community or governmental unit takes responsibility for initiating, implementing, maintaining and paying for the service.

Demos To Soften Beirut Stand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., said Saturday there is majority support on the House Foreign Affairs Committee for a toned-down version of a resolution calling for withdrawal of the Marines from Lebanon.

Solarz, a committee member who is working on a compromise, said he expects the panel on Tuesday to approve a resolution designed to win support from some Republicans as well as many Democrats.

"The most important thing is the addition to the resolution of language making it clear that while we're calling for withdrawal of the Marines from Beirut, we're not calling for withdrawal of all U.S. forces from the region," he said in a telephone interview.

In addition, he said, he expects the final version of the resolution to delete explicit criticism of the administration.

If a resolution seeking withdrawal of the Marines passes with Republican support, "it would presumably have a greater impact on the president and on our policy," Solarz said. "It would obviously be more difficult for Republicans who are privately unhappy and uneasy (about the Marines in Lebanon) to vote for criticism" of the president.

A source in the Senate leadership said Friday that a strongly partisan resolution would stand no chance in the Republican-controlled Senate, but that some Republicans would be willing to consider a bipartisan proposal.

Solarz said that virtually all Democrats on the House Foreign Affairs Committee favor changes in the resolution that was first drafted and he expects approval of a toned-down version on Tuesday.

But the call for getting the Marines off Lebanese soil remains locked in. "The operative paragraph is still strongly supported," a committee aide said, referring to the resolution's call for a "prompt and orderly withdrawal" of the 1,600 Marines who were sent to war-torn Lebanon last year as part of an international peacekeeping force.

The push for withdrawal is being led by House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., who worked with the administration last September in fashioning the war powers compromise that authorized President Reagan to keep the Marines in Lebanon for 18 months more.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee had planned to vote on a resolution Friday, but did not when it became apparent that there was strong support for changes in the original version.

O'Neill had hoped to get the measure to the House floor for a vote before Congress recesses in mid-February for George Washington's birthday. But the delayed committee vote may make such early action impossible.

States Took Lead On EDB

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — EDB was a national problem, and for months the states pleaded for a national response.

That response finally came Friday, when the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency all but banned the agricultural use of EDB, a fumigant used to kill insects in the soil and in grain storage bins.

But it took pushing and prodding from Florida and several other states — alarmed last year when highly toxic ethylene dibromide started showing up in ground water and food mixes — to get the federal agency to set national standards, state leaders complained.

The federal action forbids use of EDB as a fumigant for fighting insects in stored grains and in grain milling machinery and suggests safety standards for food containing EDB residues. The government had previously suspended the use of EDB as a soil fumigant.

The standards announced Friday, which are only guidelines for the states, allow EDB residues of 30 parts per billion in ready-to-eat foods, 150 parts for foods that require cooking before eating and 900 parts for raw grain intended for human consumption.

State leaders said Friday they welcomed tighter national standards. but they accused the Reagan administration of foot dragging. Some said the history of EDB regulation was an example of the tail (the worried states) wagging the dog (the slow-to-act federal government).

"It has been 10 years since the National Cancer Institute identified EDB as a carcinogen," said Florida Gov. Bob Graham. "The Environmental Protection Agency should act promptly to avoid further delays in protecting American consumers."

"We'd be better off in this situation if we didn't even have an EPA," said Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox. "EPA still marches to the beat of the special-interest drum."

David Pingree, secretary of Florida's public health agency, accused the federal agency of years of delay in reacting to warning signals about EDB.

Florida officials say the lack of federal regulations forced the state to take a tough regulatory posture that eventually prodded the federal government to act.

"I am quite certain that the concerns raised by this state and by a number of other states led very directly to the action on the part of the Environmental Protection Agency," said Florida's state health officer, Stephen King.

Last month, EPA boss William Ruckelshaus acknowledged that his agency had been slow to respond to the problem.

"I think we've been slow in regulating EDB," Ruckelshaus said while visiting Dallas. "It is bad stuff and it is a very potent carcinogen, but we don't have any evidence that it has harmed anyone — nor do we have any that it hasn't."

Tests on laboratory animals, some made seven years ago, have shown that EDB produces cancer, mutations, sperm disorders and liver problems.

EDB has been in the national spotlight less than a year, but it has a long history in industry and agriculture. It has been registered as a pesticide since 1948.

Most EDB — perhaps 90 percent — was used as a fuel additive and the rest in agri-business.

A key use in farming was soil fumigation to fight destructive nematode rootworms. In Florida, EDB had been used since 1961 in a program to control nematodes in citrus groves.

Teen-Ager Leads Trooper On Chase

A 15-year-old Alabama boy was taken into custody about 2 p.m. Saturday on N.C. 11 near Winterville, following a chase which began about five miles south of Chocowinity on U.S. 17.

Greenville policeman R.L. Gorham said a car driven by Russell Toney of Owensville, Ala., attempted to elude Highway Patrol Trooper Ronald G. Mills when Mills attempted to stop the the vehicle.

Mills, who called for assistance, chased the Toney car into Pitt County on N.C. 33.

Pitt County sheriff's deputies and Greenville police joined the chase, which led west on 10th Street and Dickinson Avenue, and south on Memorial Drive.

Toney, who drove his car into Gorham's vehicle on N.C. 11 near Pitt Community College, was finally stopped near the N.C. 903 intersection at Winterville.

Gorham, who said Mills took Toney and two other juveniles in the vehicle into custody, said the driver faces multiple traffic violation charges by the Highway Patrol, including an assault with a vehicle charge in connection with the ramming of Gorham's patrol car.

Damage to the police car was set at $200, while damage to the car driven by Toney was placed at $100.

The Republican Corner

Pitt County's Conservative Voice

The other day I made the trip from Wilson to Greenville again on Highway 264...bumper to bumper traffic, one foot hovering over the brake, one hand poised over the horn, wondering about the mentality of the screwball who tailgated me the last five miles. My only consoling thought was that plans have been completed to four lane 264 from Wilson to the coast. Construction begins on one segment this year... just before elections...and another section will be completed in 1986 ...just before elections...and yet another in 1992. What a heartwarming thought! I don't expect to live long enough to see it completed; but hope springs eternal. If your hopes are based on Democrat promises, they would almost have to spring eternal. The only action ever taken on the 264 project was during the Republican administration of James Holshouser (1972-1976): the road between Zebulon and Wilson was four laned. When Jim Hunt became governor, all construction ceased, while a blue ribbon 264 Commission received "input" from everybody and his brother about the proper routing of the new highway. Eight years of "input"! We Republicans are much more interested in "output", of which there has been none...not one additional mile. Now...just before elections...a few trucks and men have appeared on the highway near Wilson! We are convinced that construction has begun! We are equally convinced that if the Democrats win in November, construction will cease and those trucks will disappear like the morning dew. Remember: Iron bars do not a prison make, nor two trucks and a hardtop, a highway. So, the next time you are driving to Farmville on 264, if you hear an anxious little "beep, beep, beep" behind, don't be alarmed! It will just be one of us saying: Let's Vote Republican.

Six Months In Jail

MIAMI (AP) — Police didn't believe James Earl Beasley when he said he had been shooting dice, and losing, on the night a 17-year-old girl claimed he raped her.

Beasley, who had been unemployed, spent more than six months in jail. On Friday, in the middle of a polygraph test, the teen-ager said she had lied.

Beasley, too poor to post $10,000 bond, was promptly freed.

"I took him home, and he was a happy man. A very happy man," said Chet Zerlin, his court-appointed defense attorney.

"He hugged me. When we left the courthouse, he threw his arms up in the air and said, 'My God, I'm free, I'm free,'" Zerlin told The Miami Herald in a story published Saturday.

Allison Fulton still maintains she was raped, even if Beasley had no part in it, prosecutor Nicholas Berry said.

Officials said Ms. Fulton may face charges for filing a false report.

go to Washington to represent the people of this state, who need better jobs, better schools. They need a senator who would be that voice," Hunt said.

"I grew up among those people in eastern North Carolina, the farmers, the working people, " said Hunt, a Wilson County native. "I want to get things done that you just can't get done on the state level ... things we have got to do involve cutting spending and closing tax loopholes."

Hunt said his experience as governor "in bringing people together" would offset Helms' position as chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee. The two frequently have clashed over how efforts to keep the tobacco program should be conducted.

"I think that my most important committee assignment would be agriculture, and I have been assured by the Democrats I've talked to in Washington that I would get my committee choices," Hunt said.

"I think what we really need in Washington is people who can bring people together. As governor, I've got people to work together. I know I can do that in the United States Senate, and get people to support this program that have not supported it before, not by giving up on principles, either ... to get a whole new lease on tobacco."

Hunt basically expressed the same objections voiced by other Democratic spokesmen in discussing President Reagan's budget proposal for fiscal 1985, hitting especially on the lack of emphasis on agriculture.

"I was disappointed that the president did not present a means for cutting those huge federal deficits, and he did not say anything in the world about agriculture," Hunt said.

"Our agriculture is in a deep recession. Last year we had more people fail than the year before. At the end of December, 27 percent of all Farmers Home borrowers were delinquent in paying off their loans, about 77,000 nationally.

"It's a most serious situation in agriculture, and I believe that with the kind of energy, drive and ability to work with the people that we've shown in the governor's office, I can help turn this situation aroundfor farmers," Hunt said.

"I know good and well I can and will do everything in my power to prevent an increase in the cigarette tax and to prevent any further cuts in our tobacco allotments. In fact, I think they've cut them too far already. A North Carolina senator needs to be working to make sure those cuts don't come."

Hunt, who has acquired a reputation in the state and nationally as a governor advocating good education, was rebuffed last weekend by the North Carolina Association for Educators, which refused to endorse his primary campaign because of his failure to lift a state pay freeze and to support funding of other education projects. He said in the Reflector interview that he does not think the NCAE action will have a major effect on his campaign.

"I have done what I thought was right for education, and I'm not going to change my position. ...," Hunt said. "I think you will see most parents and educators voting for me. I think I can be one of the top spokesmen for schools in the U.S. Senate."

Hunt, 46, so far has only one opponent — Harrill Love Jones of Gastonia — in the Democratic primary. Helms also has minor opposition in the Republican primary, facing a bid by George Wimbush of Charlotte.

U.S. Blamed For Air Raids

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Sandinista leader Daniel Ortega on Saturday blamed the United States for two air raids that killed five soldiers and seriously wounded 10 at military installations in northwestern Nicaragua.

Speaking at a news conference, Ortega also indicated preparations for scheduled 1985 national elections would continue, and said rebel attacks were the main hindrance to the process.

He was asked if the attacks could delay the elections and replied, "We have said the problem of aggression is the principal one, but this does not prevent for the time being that we continue institutionalizing the revolution." He did not elaborate.

Ortega, coordinator of the ruling three-man junta, repeated the Sandinista government's promise that all political parties will be given access to all news media for campaigning, and that the government will finance 5 percent of the parties' campaign costs. He said parties also will be allowed to receive donations from outside Nicaragua.

The government is scheduled to announce on Feb. 21 the date for the balloting. It has said the voters will elect a president, vice president and 90-member legislature that will have the task of writing a new constitution.

Military officials said A-37 attack planes coming from Honduras, where CIA-supported Nicaraguan rebels are based, attacked military targets Thursday and Friday in Chinandega province, 81 miles northwest of the capital. The planes also wrecked communication facilities and destroyed fuel depots.

"The attacks on military barracks in Chinandega were directed by the United States government through the Honduran government and the counterrevolutionaries financed by the Central Intelligence Agency," Ortega said.

In Tegucigalpa, the Honduran capital, the rebel Nicaraguan Democratic Force issued a communique claiming reponsibility for the air raids, saying they were carried out "by the clandestine resistance inside Nicaragua."

Emilio Mendoza, a government representative in the Chinandega town of El Viejo, said in a telephone interview that five planes Friday fired more than 100 rockets and "the attack was repulsed by anti-aircraft batteries."

The military officials claimed the U.S.-made A-37s were of "the same type used by the Honduran air force." The a-37 is a jet with a two-man crew that can carry bombs and rockets.

Nicaraguan Democratic Force rebels, called "freedom fighters" by President Reagan last year, have been stepping up land, air and sea attacks across the border in their battle to overthrow the Sandinista government.

Some of the Democratic Force rebels are former national guard officers and men who served under the late President Anastasio Somoza. His rightist government was overthrown by a Sandinista-led revolt in 1979.

Ortega called the news conference after his return from Caracas, Venezuela, where he and Secretary of State George Shultz were among scores of officials attending Thursday's inauguration of President Jaime Lusinchi.

In Caracas, Shultz had dismissed as a "figment of his imagination" Ortega's allegation Wednesday that the Kissinger commission on Central America had secretly recommended to the White House that United States invade Nicaragua El Salvador to protect U.S. interests.

Shultz said the Sandinistas had betrayed their revolution by harassing church leaders, the press and Nicaraguan Indians. He challenged Ortega to ensure open elections in Nicaragua.

In response, Ortega said Saturday: "Shultz's position confirmed the closed attitude of the United States who do not want a peaceful solution to the Central American crisis.

teachers is important to a student's success. She sends papers of students she feels are not studying home to be signed by parents, she says, and sends parents copies of the pre-competency test scores.

"Many times when a student knows there is communication between the teacher and parent, that in itself is the beginning of a more productive learning situation," said Mrs. Barnhill.

The success of a school is based on good relations between teachers and students, which in turn, she said, "builds a supportive community."

"If I as a teacher provide a good meaningful learning experience for my students when they become part of the adult community they will be more likely to look favorable on the school," she said.

Her decision to become a teacher, Mrs. Barnhill said, was influenced by the role her early schooling at Belvoir played in her life. Her family was also very important, she said, and encouraged her to be involved in both academic and extracurricular activities at the school. Her family also supported her by joining activities themslves.

"I gained from my parents the feeling of success which can be achieved from working and helping other people," said Mrs. Barnhill. "Whether teaching a Sunday school class, coaching a Little League team or working as part of a group on the farm, I had a chance to be part of as well as observe the teaching and helping of others."

Between her junior and senior years, Mrs. Barnhill worked as a summer school aide, her first teaching situation. The experience was a positive one, she said, and when she entered East Carolina University after high school she enrolled in the business department.

After college she became a Title I teacher at North Pitt, then moved to the reading lab at D.H. Conley. "Because of the success I felt working with slow learners I decided to conitnue teaching remediation," said Barnhill, "and returned to ECU and completed my certification in reading."

The teacher of the year says she backs the addition of a writing skills exam to the North Carolina competency test but feels competency testing should begin earlier for students.

She also favors voluntary prayer in schools, she says, because "we are all so busy — a moment of silence, whether we use it for prayer or not — would give us a moment to reflect, to stop and to think."

Mrs. Barnhill will participate in the regional Teacher of the Year competition late in 1984 and, if selected, will go to the statewide competition.

approach to Washington, D.C. ... people working together to get things straight," Hunt said. By working together, Hunt suggested, the nation could have a "strong and stable" economy, lower interest rates, and a ballanced federal budget.

"We've got to put security back in Social Security," Hunt said, and voiced support for a strong military and "the moral courage to save the world from nuclear war." He also said "America should have the best schools in the world," and said improvement in education should be "a national goal."

"I'm ready for this campaign," Hunt said. "It's going to take everything we've got. I ask you for all the help you can give us. I'm counting on my friends. Help me take the message.

"Let's go out and carry the message. Do the work and we'll win the primary and the general election."

Hunt was introduced by Kenneth Dews, Hunt's Pitt County campaign manager. Also present at the reception were Hunt's state campaign manager, Joe Grimsley, and Betty McCain, co-chairman of the state Jim Hunt Committee.

Dick Flye said he has had some inquiries recently about the institution of 911 and has obtained some reading material for several individuals. However, at the present time, no figuring of the logistics or the cost of providing the service has been done. He said engineering can be done out of the Tarboro office at any time it's requested by a county official.

At the time 911 was discussed previously it was believed that the system could only be instituted if all of the county were on the same phone line, County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner said. He said he now understands that specially dedicated lines for 911 would make possible use of the system regardless of phone line boundaries. He said he is willing to do whatever research is necessary to make the possibilities clear to county officials and interested citizens.

The Pitt County Rescue Association is considering going on record as favoring the 911 system, but no action has yet been taken. The Winterville Fire Department expressed its advocacy of 911 in a display at the Fire Prevention Week fair held at Carolina East Mall last week. Along with posters telling of the advantages of the system, the firemen provided a petition for citizens who favor the system to sign.

Dr. Jack Allison, who heads the Pitt County Memorial Hospital and the East Carolina University Departments of Emergency Medicine, said he is "very much in favor of the 911 system."

He said that, in addition to fire departments, emergency medical service (as he prefers to call rescue squads), and police, sheriff, and highway patrol, the systems some places can also be used to reach drug abuse, crisis intervention, public works, weather warning, civil defense, and utilities in times of emergency. He cites a truck which wrecked and caught fire and blocked a highway in South Carolina some time ago in an area which had 911 service. Within seconds, a witness was able to summon fire, rescue, highway patrol, utility and other appropriate services. Much time and much destruction and suffering was prevented, he said.

He also tells of a 4-year-old visiting his grandmother in California who was able to summon help when Grandmother passed out, because he knew the 911 number at his home on the East Coast and the same number was useful there.

Joyner said he understands that 911 has been put into effect in a number of North Carolina areas, including both Wilson and Dare counties. He said Wilson is using a parallel system, i.e. the old emergency summons numbers are continuing to be used along with the 911 number for one year. He said he believes, if Pitt County does implement the 911 system, that a parallel program might be well to try here, too, allowing plenty of time for the public to become educated about the new and easier system. Any municipality which would wish to continue to use its own dispatchers could do so, he said he believes.

Oil Firm Says Operations Cut

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — The U.S.-based Chevron Oil Co. is phasing out its operations in parts of southern Sudan and may shut down its activities there following a rebel raid, a Chevron spokesman said Saturday.

Three employees were killed and seven wounded in the dawn attack Thursday on a Chevron base camp at Rub Kona, near Bentiu, 470 miles south of the capital of Khartoum. A guerrilla group known as Anyanya (snake venom) 2 has been blamed for the raid.

NCAE's Rebellion: A Case Of Calming The Unruly Student

The North Carolina Association of Educators said "no" when it came time to endorse a candidate for the U.S. Senate race. In North Carolina politics, that translates to a refusal to back Jim Hunt as the Democratic candidate against Republican Jesse Helms.

The 145-1 vote by local NCAE chapter presidents against endorsement really isn't all that surprising — Hunt steadfastedly has declined to back efforts for a teacher pay raise financed by tax increases — but it is a break in tradition for the Democratic-oriented educators' group. And NCAE spokesmen make it plain the action does not constitute support for Helms' candidacy.

Rejection of Hunt's candidacy came one day after the NCAE leaders pulled off another surprise of sorts by endorsing Tom Gilmore for the Democratic nomination. Gilmore, considered by most observers to be well back in the pack among the Democratic hopefuls, is the only candidate who has called openly for tax increases to provide teachers more money.

Gilmore sees the endorsement as a major advantage, and it could well be if the NCAE membership is active in the primary.

On the other hand, it is difficult to believe that the NCAE will hold to its non-support for Hunt, who has acquired a reputation for being an advocate of education. Nor is it conceivable, as the governor indicates, that Hunt will ignore the NCAE's action.

Hunt, as a senator, could be important to the NCAE and its national affiliate, the National Education Association. The NCAE's 42,000 members definitely could have a major role in Hunt's quest for the Senate seat. Neither is going to drop the other.

It would appear that, once again, a teacher has used a slap on the bottom to calm an unruly student, and nothing more.

Swiss Judges Say Share The Blame

The news item, about the Swiss supreme insurance tribunal ruling that drivers who fail to fasten their seat belts must pick up part of the medical bill if they are hurt in a road accident, hit home.

Something like that in this country would make the percentage of seat buckle-uppers soar.

It's very plain the seat belt safety factor has strong believers in Swizerland. Their tribunal's action conceivably could have some impact in other countries, including the United States; but not to the extreme imposed on the Swiss motorist.

Here, you're entitled to get what you pay for; and if there is no seat belt proviso in one's insurance policy, it would seem next to impossible for an insurance company to avoid payment-as-promised to injury victims.

Still, one can visualize inserting the seat belt clause in insurance policies; and that would be a considerable impact on the average motorist's attitude.

Teachers In Uproar Over Test

WASHINGTON — A splendid little row is developing in Arkansas between Gov. William Clinton and the Arkansas Education Association. The controversy has its parallels in other states and thus merits a moment of your time. The governor wants teachers to be tested on their competence. The teachers are kicking like mules.

Let me try to summarize their positions. Gov. Clinton took the lead last year in winning an increase of 1 cent in the state's sales tax. The new revenue will be used, among other things, to finance a substantial increase in teacher salaries. But at the governor's urging, the Arkansas Legislature wrote in an unpleasant requirement: All of the state's 26,000 teachers and school administrators must take a test of their basic skills. The test for teachers will examine their proficiency in their subject areas — math, science, English or whatever. If the teachers fail to pass the exam by 1986-87, their teaching certificates will not be renewed.

In an interview with The Washington Post, Gov. Clinton explained his purpose. The idea is to assure the taxpayers that new taxes for higher teacher salaries would not wind up in the pockets of "a small but not insignificant number" of incompetents.

"The people of this state," he said, "know we have to spend more money on education, but what really burns them is that they know there are teachers out there who can't cut it. They don't want those teachers to get the raises."

Kai Erickson, 'director of the AEA, accused the governor of playing politics on the issue. He said the law requiring the tests made teachers "automatically guilty until proven innocent." Competency tests may be racially biased. Peggy Nabors, president of the association, described the requirement as "absolutely the most humiliating thing he could have done." She never has seen morale lower. A special panel of the National Education Association is considering whether Arkansas should be formally censured as an undesirable place to teach.

My guess is that the teachers' unions will lose on this issue. Gov. Clinton, who incidentally is a former Rhodes scholar and a moderately liberal Democrat, correctly gauges public sentiment. If I am not grossly mistaken, the people are unwilling to pour more money into the kind of schooling their children have been getting. So many horror stories have come out, having to do with teachers who cannot spell easy words or write a grammatical sentence, that the taxpaying public is rebelling. We have seen this in Ohio, among other states, where schools have been closed for want of even a tiny increase in the local levy.

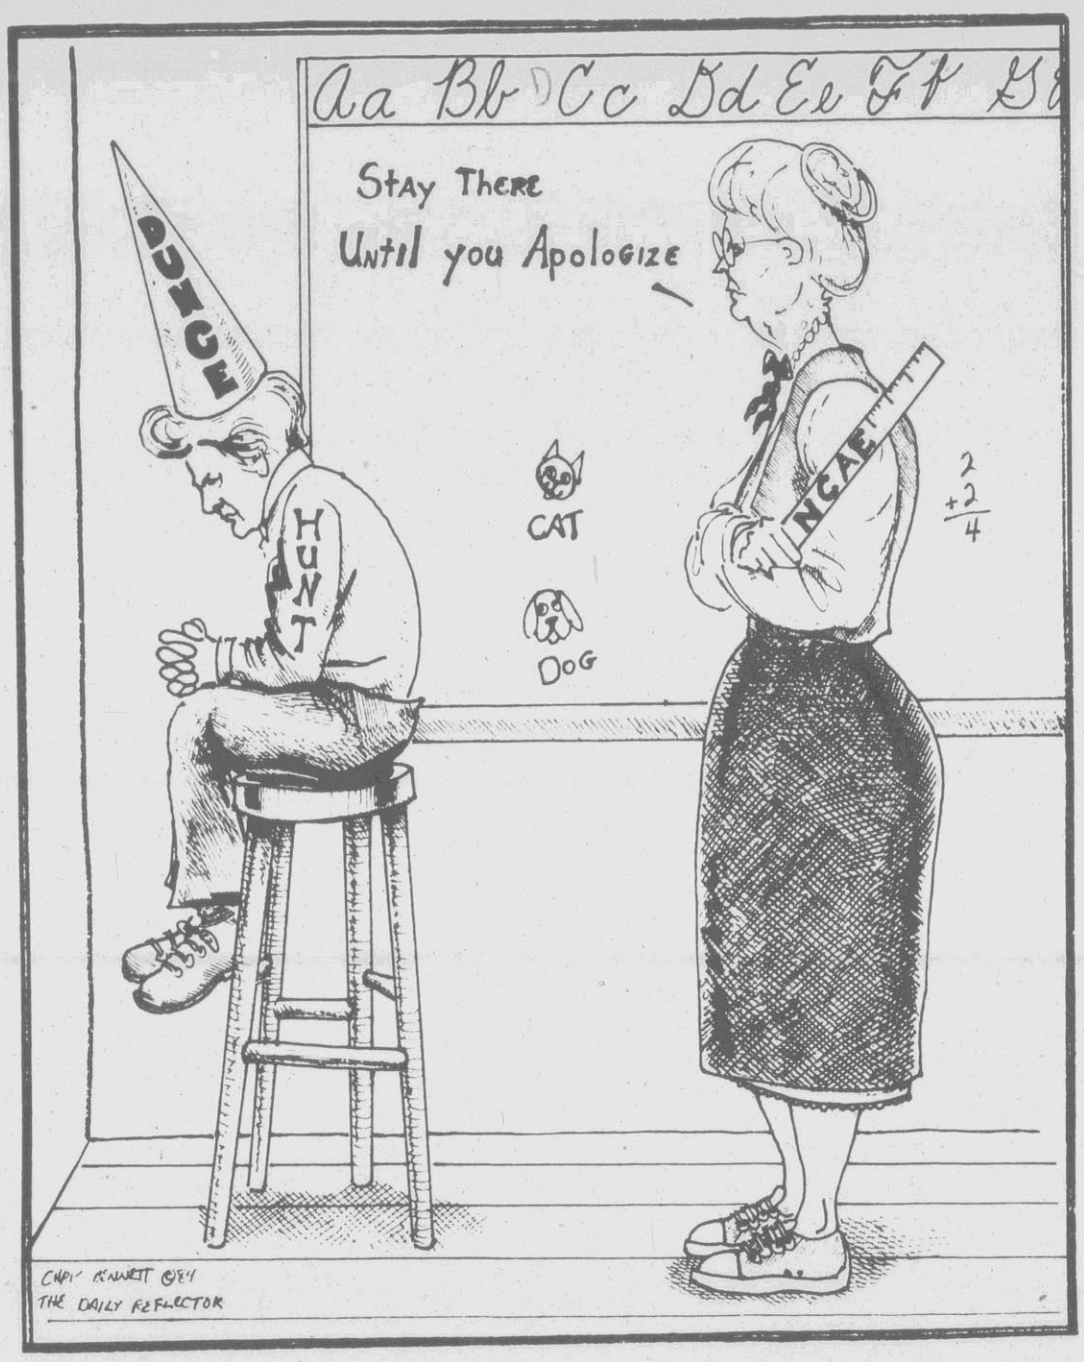

The NEA would earn Brownie points, it seems to me, by candidly acknowledging that of course there are some incompetent teachers out there. In a universe of 2.1 million teachers, it would be incredible if there weren't 10 or 15 percent who have no business teaching. By the same token, there probably are 10 or 15 percent who are truly brilliant teachers. The other 70 or 80 percent are spread over a curve ranging from not-so-hot to fair to good.

Such governors as Alexander in Tennessee and Clinton in Arkansas are on sound ground in searching for ways to reward the topflight teachers and to weed out the knuckleheads. Merit pay is one device. The competency test is another. Some states — not nearly enough — are considering changes in certification requirements to the end that prospective teachers would take more courses in their subject fields and fewer courses in management and methodology.

The teachers' unions have some quite legitimate beefs on their side. It is a sad commentary on the values of our society that in many cities a starting school teacher earns less than a starting garbage collector. The teachers understandably resent the extra duties imposed upon them in such areas as sex education, driver education, drug education and school lunch certification. Especially in low-income neighborhoods, teaching is fiendishly hard work, and its rewards are mostly intangible.

But on the matter of competence, such critics as Gov. Clinton have the better case. The taxpayers are willing to pay for teachers who are peaches and plums. They balk -and who can blame them? — at rewarding the lemons.

Sunday Morning Notes

ElectriCities of North Carolina Inc., which represents municipally owned electric systems, has published "A Glossary of The Strange Language of Electricity." The booklet is designed to be informative but it is also funny.

That is not surprising since it was written by Jack Aulis, who was a newspaperman and columnist for years.

An A&G, for instance, is "what engineers and accountants say when they mean a utility's administrative and general expenses."

An auxiliary building is "a building at a nuclear power plant that houses a variety of equipment, pumps and large tanks necessary for the operation of the reactor. Or, in a small town, the place where the fire department auxiliary holds bake sales."

Boiler: "A very tough chicken. Or, a large closed container in which water is heated as it passes through a series of tubes and is turned into steam that can be used to drive a turbine, and hence, an electrical generator."

Computer model: "A bunch of formulas stuck into a computer."

Control room: "The operation center of a power plant. Or a radio or television station. Or whatever."

Cooling tower: "A very large and very expensive tower that cools water from the condenser of a power plant by evaporating a small percentage of it into a moving stream of air. Sort of like blowing on your saucer of coffee."

Core: "The central part of a nuclear reactor. It contains the fuel and produces the heat needed to generate electricity. Also, what's left of the apple after you eat it."

Critical, "What an irate city manager is. Or, the condition of a person who is very sick. Also, the term used to describe a nuclear reactor that is sustaining a chain reaction, which is what a nuclear reactor is supposed to do once you get it going."

Fuel pool: a large pool containing water in which spent nuclear fuel is stored. No diving or swimming."

Gigawatt: "One million kilowatts (one billion watts) is called a gigawatt. But, who cares?"

Line loss: "Electricity lost in the process of distributing it over power lines. None of the electricity lost in this way has ever been found again."

Consumption Tax Fails To Find Favor

WASHINGTON — Just hours before Ronald Reagan ruled out any new taxes in his State of the Union Address, the National Association of Manufacturers — looking for the least obnoxious way to boost federal revenue — failed to marshal American business behind a new consumption tax on Joe Lunchpail.

Washington-based legislative strategists for business organizations met secretly Jan. 25 to consider a resolution run up the flagpole by the NAM.

It asserted: "A consumption-based tax offers the best balance between the need to stimulate investment and any perceived need for additional federal revenues." Hardly anybody saluted.

The meeting broke up in considerable disagreement and some mutual annoyance.

That assures organized business this year will not duplicate its unanimous support for tax cuts in 1981 or its majority backing for tax increases in 1982. For the longer run, it suggests deep divisions within the business community over whether Reagan's promised tax "simplification" should be based on taxing what Joe Lunchpail eats, drinks, wears, smokes and drives on. Those divisions extend to the Reagan administration and Republicans generally.

The "consumption" tax long has excited passions on Wall Street and in corporate boardrooms as the way to increase revenues without hurting business or discouraging investment. It has been pushed by the likes of Martin Feldstein (chairman of Reagan's Council of Economic Advisers), Alan Greenspan (one of Feldstein's predecessors) and Chrysler's Lee Iacocca.

This industrial-financial consensus was reflected when Washington representatives for national business organizations received a confidential letter dated Jan. 13 and signed "Sandy" — former Commerce Secretary Alexander Trowbridge, the NAM's hard-charging president. He spied trouble over the horizon, and unveiled the consumption tax as the device to avoid it.

"While at present it appears we may get through 1984 without a major tax bill," Trowbridge wrote, "the pressure for such a bill exists, and may not abate much after the November elections. I believe the business community will be incomparably better off if we attempt to establish the terms of the debate rather than merely reacting passively to what others propose."

Trowbridge stressed spending cuts as the "primary" means of deficit reduction, but added "it may be desirable to replace the present complex system, and its bias against savings and investment, with some type of broad consumption-based tax."

He enclosed a NAM-drafted resolution to that effect, and urged revival of "the business coalition that was so successful" in passing investment incentives in 1981.

By the time the lobbyists met at NAM headquarters in downtown Washington two weeks later, the atmosphere had soured. Several grumbled that the NAM had given the game away by even talking about tax increases, and NAM staffers were miffed when they heard one recipient had leaked a copy to Fortune magazine.

Only the American Council on Capitol Formation gave limited backing to exploration of the consumption tax. The Business Roundtable ventured no opinion. But the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the National Federation of Independent Business (NIFB) and the American Business Conference wanted themselves counted out. Would organized labor's strategists, one asked, discuss removal of cost-of-living benefits?

That represented a change by the American Business Conference, which joined Reagan in pushing his $90 billion tax increase through Congress in 1982. Having been led two years ago to expect spending cuts would outnumber those tax hikes aat a level of 3-to-1, it was not about to bite again.

But opposition derived from long-run policy as well as short-run tactics. The NIFB's Mick McKevitt declared small businessmen viewed consumption taxes as a nuisance and a depressant of sales. Dr. Richard Rahn of the U.S. Chamber warned that consumption taxes would increase inflation and thereby boost cost-of-living allowances, neutralizing any reduction in the budget deficit.

Similar divisions over consumption taxes extend to Republican Party circles, where there is doubt over the political prudence of taxing Joe Lunchpail's consumption. Besides, it is well-remembered on Capitol Hill that Democratic Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, lost a seemingly secure seat in Oregon after suggesting the value-added tax — a typical consumption tax.

If politicians are skittish, they need the unified business support Sandy Trowbridge was trying to build. Instead, any final obituary for consumption taxes will have to note that life-signs were failing during that Jan. 25 meeting at the NAM.

To the editor:

Here's some good news. People often write to you complaining about this and that. I want to write a letter of praise.

Recently I was at the Rafters Nightclub and lost five $20 bills. After getting home and realizing I had lost it, I called Rafters to see if anyone had turned it in (knowing no one would ever mention finding $100 in hard cold cash!) I was told it had not been. After calling all the places I had been, I started backtracking on foot all the places I had been. When I entered Rafters, I looked and looked and asked around if anyone had seen my money. "No" was always the answer.

As I was leaving, a police officer was working at the door and I disheartenedly said to him, "Can you believe it? I lost $100." Officer David Johnson reached in his shirt pocket and pulled out the five $20 bills neatly folded. Smiling, he said, "Yep, I'd believe it. I found a hundred dollars."

How's that for honesty and integrity! He didn't have to even mention it to me. This young officer has restored my faith in humanity! I told him so. Greenville should be proud of officers like this. Thank you, Chief Holmes, for having officers with such high degrees of integrity!

Thank you, Officer David Johnson. I know you could have used the money. You represent policemen well. Thank you, Daily Reflector, for allowing me to praise, not criticize, a fellow citizen of Greenville.

Where is it written in the Dead Sea scrolls of the FCC that TV must be 85 percent trivial entertainment? Or that Saturday mornings must be a parade of silly cartoons? I claim that, if the cereal makers will provide a program showing the exciting history of our country, the children will still sit there as immobile as they now do and in the process become better Americans and better fitted to preserve our freedoms for another 208 years. Let's have a mix of the funny with the educational.

Soon it will be Washington's birthday. Have you ever seen this great man's face on your screen, or his deeds? I never have. The high priests of TV think Washington is a place where the FCC resides. Last year CBS showed viewers on its morning talk show the death date of Karl Marx. Will they do as much for the birthday of the father of our country this month? They may give us a few seconds where an hour or two would be a proper honor.

If TV was a 'vast wasteland' years ago, as one man said, what is it today? Missing are such fine progams as the Ed Sullivan Show or the Wizard show for children featuring simple laws of physics, in prime time or on Saturday morning. Instead of using this powerful medium to uplift and make proud a free people it is being terribly wasted — and the nation is sure to pay the price, unless we the people raise our voices to both sponsors and networks. Our priceless freedoms are not preserved on battlefields alone.

I want you to know how I enjoy The Daily Reflector. So much so that when I'm out of town and several days behind, I still read them all when I return.

This morning, however, proved to me I'm addicted to reading The Daily Reflector. Yesterday I didn't return home until late; therefore, I didn't go through my usual little ritual of getting the paper from the proch, settling down for a cup of coffee and reading.

At 5 a.m. this morning, I awoke, realized I had not read the paper and went out in the cold in my night clothes to get it. It wasn't on the proch. Since it was windy, I know it must have blown away. I came back in, got the flashlight and went out on a search. Sure enough, it was almost in my neighbor's yard. It was very wet and one small portion of it almost frozen. I carefully laid it out in the floor and read it anyway.

It's now 6 a.m. and I am writing you. Just thought you might like to know you have a "fan." Especially enjoy Sue Hinson's articles. Keep up the good work.

As an East Carolina student, I recently completed a work-study position with the Greenville Employment Security Office. Before I worked with the ESC, I saw it as just another bureaucratic office where the employees were probably more worried about their own job security than the concerns of those they serve. I can honestly say that this isn't the case.

The employees work with obstacles ranging from budget cuts, to employer reluctance to use the agency, to job-seeker indifference. Despite these obstacles, the staff always strives to provide the best service to applicants and employers.

Few people seem to realize, much less appreciate, how hard the people there work. During my last week at the agency, I was at the front desk when an applicant walked in. Not your ideal job seeker, he was upset that, in an entire year, the Job Service has been unable to get him a job. I refrained, but I wanted to put the Job Service into perspective for him. This is entirely my opinion, but one should not view the Job Service as the sole avenue to obtaining a job. Rather, it should be seen as an aid. There are other avenues — private employment agencies and, of course, nothing can take the place of the individual sending out resumes and knocking on doors himself.

This is not to discount the ESC. They have the most resources. It is merely to say that the individual limits himself or herself if it is the only source used.

The people at the ESC endure a lot. Budget cuts can make their own jobs less than secure. High unemployment means long lines and few breaks for the interviewers. And occasionally angry applicants make their jobs tiresome, to say the least.

The Job Service employees do care. They handle thousands of applicants and hundreds of employers. What they need, in my opinion, is more support from employers and more appreciation from applicants and the public they serve.

President Turns Jokester

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now that Ronald Reagan is a presidential candidate, as opposed to just president, we can expect a few more speeches from "the great communicator." And that means a few more jokes.

The president weaves them into the fabric of his talks — they are never included in the texts distributed to reporters in advance — as he finds an opportune moment and senses a willing audience.

Just such moments arose Tuesday during a speech in Chicago.

"Too often government is given a lion's share of the credit" for progress in the nation, he said.

Then, he readily admitted that he now had a "pretty good" excuse to dust off one of the old standby stories he had not recited recently.

He was talking to a convention of the concrete and aggregates industries — that's sand and gravel, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said. The tale went like this:

There was a fellow who decided it was time to cultivate his rocky patch of land near a creek, and he set to it, working hour after hour. As his hard labor bore fruit, he invited his minister to take a look one Sunday.

The visitor marveled at the corn, the melons, the tomatoes and squash, and each crop led him to praise the Lord for the bounty that had come from the patch of earth. Finally, the farmer got edgy and could hold back no longer.

He told the minister: "I wish you could have seen it when the Lord was doing it by himself."

The president returned to his text and found himself defending the profit motive.

"Because our business men and women have been working for profit, the American people pay less of their income for food and necessities of life than people anywhere else," the president said. And out came another story:

It involved a man who was opening a new branch office and a friend sent a floral arrangement. The display read "Rest in Peace." So, Reagan said, at the end of the day, the fellow "stopped by the flower shop to complain."

Just think, suggested the florist, "someone was buried under a floral arrangement inscribed 'Good Luck in Your New Location.'"

Another old standby made its return to the Reagan speech: a quotation from Alexis de Tocqueville.

The French author who toured America in the 1830s and wrote his impressions is a favorite of the president when Reagan is looking for a quotation with a touch of history to weave into an address.

De Tocqueville, the answer to a speechwriter's prayers, has provided the president with a seemingly never-ending supply. In Tuesday's selection, the president said the young Frenchman discovered that "America is a land of wonders, in which everything is in constant motion and every change seems an improvement."

Now, at the president's anticipated rate of speechmaking and a loyal adherence to a healthy dose of De Tocqueville in every speech, he just might be able to complete his recitation of the Frenchman's works by the end of the 1984 presidential campaign.

Then there is the planned joke used to warm up an audience.

The president opened his remarks by saying that he had addressed a meeting of the same construction supply group in San Francisco in 1971 and had told them "I just returned from a trip to Washington, D.C., and have to say it is a great place to visit, but I wouldn't want to live there." The line got him a quick round of applause.

But his kicker, skirting close to politics on what his staff vowed would be a non-political trip, brought the crowd to its feet: "I feel sort of the same way today, but I think I'll stretch the visit out a few more years if I can. Then I'll head home."

Lectures

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As one of the last acts of his life, Martin Herz, a diplomat, teacher and writer who died last year of cancer, gave a series of four lectures at Georgetown University called "The Vietnam War in Retrospect."

The talks, which have now been published by the university, raised some troubling questions for democracies in general, and for jornalists, in particular.

Some of Herz's conclusions:

— The United States is not capable of waging a protracted war, especially one that is complex and difficult to understand.

He was talking about combat and Vietnam, but his point could just as easily be applied to Lebanon and the U.S. wish to salvage the situation in that tangled swamp of contradictions by sending a U.S. peacekeeping force as an expression of American resolve.

— The lack of American staying power, Herz said, is partly the result of the shortcomings of the American press, which tends to report all wars in terms of good guys (white hats) vs. bad guys (black hats).

In Vietnam, the conventional wisdom of American reporters was that the South Vietnamese government was corrupt, repressive and unpopular. But, in retrospect, he said (and he was there) it was clear that the South Vietnamese government was making military progress in fighting the war, and that it was generating popular support, while the Viet Cong was increasingly dependent on forced inductees from the North.

The lasting impressions of the Vietnam War are photographic: South Vietnamese soldiers clinging desperately to helicopter skids, Gen. Loan summarily executing a Viet Cong captive in the streets of Saigon, bodies laid out in the U.S. embassy compound after the 1968 Tet offensive.

Herz offered no solution to the problems he posed.

But he thought the lack of American ability to back up its worldwide commitments would lead to more Vietnams (and Lebanons).

Battle Is Won

Until 1930, when the state Supreme Court changed things, North Carolina blacks wishing to travel by bus faced serious problems because some North Carolina bus lines refused to carry black passengers.

This meant that blacks living in areas where carriers denied them bus service had a Hobson's choice: make other arrangements, or walk. It also posed serious problems for blacks when they sought to travel into a section where bus lines would not aide them. Again, unless they could make other arrangements, they had the unhappy choice of walking or staying at home.

The situation also presented problems for blacks who traveled into North Carolina by bus from other states. Under federal law, buses operating in interstate commerce were required to transport all comers regardless of race. But when the interstate bus arrived at a terminal in North Carolina the blacks having to transfer in order to reach their destinations faced the same quandry: walk or make some other arrangement or stay at home.

The State Corporation Commission, the predecessor of the present State Utilities Commission, refused to order North Carolina's intrastate bus lines to carry black passengers. To do so, it said, would necessitate its interpreting laws which it considered outside its jurisdiction. It noted that this would, among other things, involve a ruling that the intrastate bus lines were common carriers.

The subject came up at a meeting in the State Capitol of the Transportation Committee of the North Carolina Commission on Interracial Cooperation on Feb. 12, 1928. About 75 persons, both black and white, attended the session. They included Dr. W.C. Jackson, the committee chairman who was then a history professor and vice president of North Carolina College for Women (now UNC at Greensboro); Dr. W.L. Poteat, an eminent biology professor at Wake Forest College and a leader of the state's dry forces; Mrs. W.T. Bickett, widow of the former governor; J.O. Wharton, I.H. Hughes and W.W. Alexander. Although he was not a member of the committee, Episcopal Bishop J.B. Cheshire also was present.

The committee voted unanimously to ask its counsel, Judge L.R. Varser of Lumberton, one of North Carolina's most prominent attorneys, to take legal action. Varser said his first step would be to ask the Corporation Commission to say definitely whether bus lines were common carriers. He said the next step would be to challenge the bus companies to show cause why blacks did not have a right to ride their buses. The committee thus embarked on a battle it would take two years to decide.

But it took only two weeks for the Corporation Commission to set the stage for an appeal to the courts by dismissing Judge Varser's petition on the grounds that it lacked jurisdiction. Varser filed an appeal in Wake Superior Court and got a ruling one year later from Judge M.V. Barnhill, who sided with Varser and the committee.

Barnhill, who later became chief justice of the state Supreme Court, held that "bus operators who have received franchises to transport passengers for hire, pursuant to chapter 136, Public Laws of 1927 ... and who have undertaken to operate pursuant to such franchises and who enjoy the privileges and immunities of such franchises are common carriers."

Michael

WASHINGTON — Only one individual could have stolen the stage from Ronald Reagan last weekend. His name is Michael Jackson, and he did.

As some of the world waited anxiously for the president to declare his future plans, most of it contemplated the scalp burns suffered by Jackson during a Pepsi commercial taping. Before releasing Jackson to the greater privacy of his family's Encino, Calif., home, Brotman Memorial Hospital had been deluged with 200 telephone calls a minute. The singer's condition seemed to warrant hourly updates.

Reagan-Bush '84 and Walter Mondale, eat your hearts out. The country's response to Jackson's accident demonstrated the almost unparalleled hold the 25-year-old entertainer how has over millions of Red, White and Blue American citizens. It is a cross-sectional allegiance that any politician would envy.

Admittedly, many of us who scoffed at Michael Jackson more than a dozen years ago are probably eating their back issues of Rolling Stone. At the beginning of the '70s, rock enthusiasts were following "progressive" FM radio stations for the latest trends. With some exceptions, Motown's Jackson brothers (of whom Michael was number five) were wholly identified with the more wholesome AM variety, teen magazines, animated films and the Ed Sullivan Show — not stuff for self-respecting rockers at the time.

But now many of yesterday's cynics are given to trading conversation for oscillation whenever a Michael Jackson number blasts the air. They and other young followers have helped make Jackson, whose recent "Thriller" album has sold 23 million copies, the highest-selling solo recording artist of all time. His name is of such prominence that when the Syrians told Lt. Robert Goodman that a "Mr. Jackson" would be paying him a visit, the Navy pilot was heard to ask not "Who, Jesse?" but "Who, Michael?"

Michael Jackson has eclipsed his bubble gum roots to become a pretender to Frank Sinatra's title as chief crooner to the American middle class. He's got everyone from Valley Girls to Republican activists oogling and wiggling. Many in the media seem to be acting similarly, focusing on Jackson's intensely private and sometimes peculiar ways with myth-maker's diligence.

Jackson's ascendancy is a function, in part, of the artist's vocal talent. No one since the Beatles has been able to place so many singles on the airwaves with so much wide-ranging approval.

But Jackson (undoubtedly with the help of his managers) has also proved adept with the modern instrument of rock: the video. Featured in the film version of "The Wiz," Jackson has become both star and producer in the world of Music Television, MTV, where some of today's most popular bands (Men at Work, Culture Club) have made their splash. His video exploits have included a duet with Paul McCartney and, for distrib[illegible] to movie theaters, a $1 i-million film based "Thriller" album.

Misery Index May Help Reagan

PRINCETON, N.J. — President Reagan's newly launched re-election campaign may benefit from a sharply lower "misery index," an economic barometer Reaqan used to good effect against incumbent Jimmy Carter during the 1980 presidential campaign.

The index — a combination of the public's forecasts of the inflation and unemployment rates — now stands at 13.7 percent compared to 20.7 percent recorded soon after the 1980 election. The current index is the most optimistic since this measurement began.

In the latest (December) Gallup survey the public's median estimate of what the inflation rate will be at the end of 1984 is 6.1 percent. Their estimate of the unemployment rate at the end of this year is 7.6 percent.

The public's projections of the inflation and unemployment rates for the end of 1983 — obtained in November 1982, at the de-th of the recession — combined to produce a misery index of 17.4 percent. This turned out to be far more pessimistic than the actual government figures of 3.8 percent inflation and 8.2 percent unemployment, indicating a "misery index" of only 12 percent. In earlier surveys a closer correlation between the public's "misery index" projections and subsequent government statistics was found.

The "misery index" was created in 1976 by presidential candidate Jimmy Carter to dramatize the failure of the Ford administration to improve the economy. Candidate Ronald Reagan, in turn, found the index an effective political weapon to use against President Carter during the 1980 campaign.

Following is the full trend of these Gallup measurements:

'Misery Index' Trend
(Median Estimates)

	Forecasts for year-end	Inflation rate	Unemploy rate	Total
1983
Decembe[illegible]	1984	6.1%	7.6%	13.7%
1982
November	1983	7.3	10.1	17.4
[illegible]me	1982	7.9	10.6	18.5
[illegible]iary	1982	10.2	9.4	19.6
[illegible]	1981	13.5	8.2	21.7
[illegible]	1981	13.6	7.1	20.7

To a considerable extent, the public's current view of the twin economic problems of inflation and unemployment is colored by their political allegiance, with 68 percent of Republicans, but only 42 percent of Democrats predicting an inflation rate of 6 percent or lower a year from now.

The same pattern holds for unemployment, with Republicans more sanguine than Democrats about the jobless rate. Nationally, 44 percent of the public believes the unemployment rate will be 7 percent or lower at this time next year. The same sentiment is expressed by 53 percent of Republicans but only 40 percent of Democrats.

As shown in the table below, Republicans, whites and persons from the upper-income and college-educated strata are far more optimistic on both the inflation and unemployment fronts than are persons from population groups with a Democratic orientation.

Inflation, Unemployment Forecasts

	Inflation 6% or lower	Unemploy 7% or lower
NATIONAL	50%	44%
Republicans	68	53
Democrats	42	40
Independents	47	43
Whites	53	45
Blacks	30	38
College education	62	48
High school or less	42	41
Family income:
$20,000 & over	58	45
Under $20,000	42	43

The findings are based on in-person interviews with 1,510 adults, 18 and older, conducted in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation during the period Dec. 9-12, 1983.

For samples of this size, one can say with 95 percent confidence that the error attributable to sampling and other random effects could be 3 percentage points in either direction.

Study Gives New Twist To 'Alice'

By RICHARD M. HARNETT

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "Alice in Wonderland" — considered one of the greatest nonsense tales in literature — was, in reality, Queen Victoria's secret autobiography, a group of researchers has concluded after 11 years of study.

"It perhaps will shock many to learn of my duplicity in having hidden behind Mr. Charles Dodgson and his pen name of 'Lewis Carpoll,'" says Victoria in a contrived "confession" of the hoax just published by the Continental Historical Society.

The society's 241-page study called "Queen Victoria's Secret Diaries" meticulously connects each incident in "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland" to the early life of Victoria, who, as a girl, lived a very secluded life in the castle.

The Ugly Duchess, for example, is Victoria's mother, the Duchess of Kent, whom the princess hated. The White Rabbit is the Duke of Kent, Victoria's father. The White Knight in Shining Armour is Prince Albert, the Queen's husband whom she loved so dearly.

David Rosenbaum, president of the Continental Historical Societynand chief editor of its book, describes the organization as an "ad hoc group of friends who have been speculating about the authorship of Alice since 1973 when an exchange of letters in the London Times suggested Charles Dodgson was not Lewis Carroll."

Rosenbaum's fellow researchers include Dr. John-Raphael Staude, a former history instructor at the University of California and other colleges; Charles Ponce, a San Francisco psychotherapist and author; John Norton, retired professor of English; and Kathleen Charous, assistant curator of the Henry Miller Memorial Library at Big Sur, Calif.

They have spent thousands of hours "deciphering" Alice.

Queen Victoria is known to have kept extensive diaries throughout her life. Some of them were published and many were burned after her death.

Under the theory proposed by the Continental Historical Society, the queen wanted to "have her cake and eat it." She resented very much her childhood and wanted to "get it off her chest." But, since she was still reigning, she felt she had to do it in a secret way, intending that a future age would discover her story.

The new study alleges that Victoria bribed Dodgson by allowing him to receive the royalties from the Alice book and its sequel Through the Looking Glass, and also bribed Sir John Tenniel, whose remarkable illustrations, the researchers say, are heavy with hidden meanings about Victoria's life.

Thatcher Says 'No' To Missile Change

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said Saturday she hoped the Soviets would return to the Geneva arms talks soon, but said NATO would not reverse its missile deployment program as an inducement.

At a news conference that ended her first official visit to a Soviet bloc country, she also said President Reagan was "absolutely sincere" in his disarmament efforts and dismissed speculation about differences between the United States and Britain on the arms issue.

"I hope we get them (the Soviets) back to the nuclear disarmament talks," Mrs. Thatcher said, mentioning as a positive sign the March 16 resumption date of the Vienna talks on reducing conventional forces and armaments in Central Europe.

But she said, "I do not yet know the circumstances under which they will come back."

Moscow pulled out of the Geneva talks on reducing nuclear medium-range missiles, after NATO began deploying new U.S. missiles in the first of five West European nations destined to get the weapons.

Asked if the Western Alliance might consider a change in this program to woo the Soviets back, the prime minister replied, "I do not believe we are able to reverse the decision. ... We cannot reverse the actual deployment of cruise and Pershing missiles (in Western Europe.)"

She reaffirmed the Western view that the deployment came in response to the Soviets' stationing of SS-20 rockets, adding, "We are evening up."

She denied that there are "any differences between the United States and the United Kingdom. We are loyal and devoted members of the Western Alliance."

"Mr. Reagan is absolutely sincere in his desire to see disarmament agreements as long as they are achieved in a balanced and verifiable way," she stressed.

Regarding the chances of improved East-West relations, she cautioned "the process will be inevitably slow..."

Disarmament and East-West relations were the main topics of her talks with Hungarian Premier Gyoergy Lazar and Communist Party chief Janos Kadar on Friday.

Mrs. Thatcher said Saturday it was too early for a U.S.-Soviet top-level meeting — "a lot of groundwork needs to be done before one approaches such a summit meeting."

While expressing her satisfaction over her Hungarian trip, she indicated that no further trips to Soviet bloc countries were in immediate prospect.

Before meeting the press, Mrs. Thatcher toured a market in Budapest and went on a sightseeing tour north of the Hungarian capital.

During her shopping outing, people were seen kissing her hand, despite the police guard around her. The prime minister appeared delighted by the warm reception.

Paying out the purchase prices herself in forints, the local currency, she bought a pot of honey for her husband, chocolate liqueurs and other delicacies.

Haiti May Get Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration has certified to Congress that the government of Haiti, long regarded as one of the most oppressive regimes in the Western Hemisphere, is improving its human rights record and may receive U.S. aid, officials confirmed Saturday.

The administration is asking Congress to approve $54 million in aid for fiscal 1985, up from $44.7 million in fiscal 1984. The 1985 total includes $750,000 in military assistance.

A statement issued Saturday by the State Department said: "We recognize that serious human rights abuses continue to exist in Haiti. However, on balance, the government of Haiti is making a concerted effort to improve the human rights situation in that country."

But a human rights group, the Lawyers Committee for International Human Rights, insisted the Haitian government "has not met standards set forth by Congress as a prerequisite" for aid, particularly in the establishment of political parties, free elections and freedom of the press.

It said the certification for Haiti "makes a mockery" of the legislative requirement.

Michael Posner, executive director of the group, wrote Secretary of State George P. Shultz asking him to withhold certification, but was unsuccessful. The group, which is privately financed, has a long-standing interest in human rights in Haiti and has sent several delegations there, most recently last June.

Sugar Rules Decried

BACOLOD, Philippines (UPI) — More than 5,000 angry farmers and field workers marched in the central Philippines' "sugar bowl" Saturday demanding that the government ease its control over the vital sugar industry.

Led by a fleet of tractors decorated with yellow streamers, the protesters marched through Bacolod, 310 miles south of Manila, carrying signs that read "stop economic terrorism" and "restore free enterprise in the sugar industry."

The protest was tantamount to open defiance of Roberto Benedicto, a close friend of President Ferdinand Marcos and the leading sugar plantation owner on the central Philippine island of Negros.

Bacolod is in the heart of the central Philippine sugar bowl and the industry is vital to the region.

Benedicto heads the Philippine Sugar Commission, or Philsucom, and the National Sugar Trading Corp., or Nasutra, the government agencies established to regulate the sugar trade after Marcos declared martial law in 1972.

The demonstrators want the two agencies dismantled.

Hijackers Take Brazilian Airliner On Flight To Cuba

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — A band of hijackers, including a woman with a small child, commandeered a Brazilian airliner on a domestic flight Saturday and forced the pilot to fly to Cuba after releasing all 158 passengers at a refueling stop in Surinam. Passengers said some of the hijackers had pistols.

Cuban authorities took the hijackers into custody when the plane landed at Camaguey, 300 miles southeast of Havana, and granted permission for the 14-member crew to take the Cruzeiro Airlines Airbus back to Brazil, according to government and airline officials. They said no one was hurt in the incident.

The hijackers — at least two men and the woman with a child — were believed to be Brazilians with no known connection to a political group. One passenger said there were at least seven hijackers.

Flight 302 took off from Rio de Janeiro, headed for Manaus, on the Amazon River in Brazil, with several scheduled stops en route. The plane left one of those stops, the northern city of San Luis, late Friday and before it reached the Amazon port city of Belem Saturday morning, some of the hijackers entered the cockpit and diverted the flight, a Varig-Cruzeiro Airlines spokesman said.

It flew first to Zanderij Airport at Paramaribo, Surinam, on South America's northern coast, where the hijackers negotiated with Brazil's Ambassador Luis Felipe Lambreia. They agreed to release the 158 passengers in return for maps and additional fuel, Brazil's Foreign Ministry said.

Officials in Surinam said Lambreia rejected the hijackers' offer to release only women and children passengers. There was no breakdown on passengers' nationalities, according to airline spokesmen, who spoke on condition they not be identified.

A passenger, Argemiro Figueiredo, said in a radio interview later that the passengers were never informed of the hijack and at first thought bad weather had caused cancellation of the Belem landing. "By the time we landed, we knew we had been hijacked," he said, "but we didn't know where we were."

He said he and others on the flight counted "seven or eight hijackers, including several women," one of whom was carrying a child about one year old. He said they boarded the plane during a stop at Fortaleza.

A dispatch from the official Cuban news agency Prensa Latina, monitored in Mexico City, said that "three of them (the hijackers) were armed," but did not give the type of weapons. It said the hijackers "apparently were more than five, none of them Cubans, and including at least two women and a year-old baby boy."

Guerillas Knock Out Power Lines

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftist rebels attacked military patrols and dynamited four power lines, blacking out electrical service to about 250,000 people in northern El Salvador, military sources said Saturday.

A military spokesman, who asked that his name not be used for security reasons, said a guerrilla group sabotaged the nation's power grid at a point 18 miles north of the capital early Saturday.

The blackout left dozens of communities in Chalatenango province and part of San Salvador province without electricity, running water and other power-driven services, but did not affect San Salvador, the capital.

Power lines and other electrical installations have been favorite targets of the guerrillas since they launched a civil war in October 1979. It is part of what rebel leaders have acknowledged is an effort to wreck the economy and overthrow the U.S.-supported government.

Friday, the rebels sabotaged power stations in Usulutan, San Miguel, Morazan and La Union provinces, leaving 1.3 million people in the eastern third of the country without electricity.

A power company official said crews were repairing the damage, but most of the area was still without power Saturday afternoon.

Another guerrilla group attacked civil defense and national guard posts late Friday at San Sebastian, 31 miles east of the capital, a military officer there said in a telephone interview. The officer said a civilian was killed in one of the firefights.

Experts Seek Cause Of Split Pipe In Nuclear Power Plant

BAXLEY, Ga. (AP) — Government and industry experts worked Saturday to determine the cause of a "significant crack" in a steam pipe inside the emergency system of a dormant reactor at a nuclear power plant, officials said.

Utility engineers, Nuclear Regulatory Commission officials and engineers from the Bechtel Corp., which designed the Plant Hatch power plant, were inspecting the doughnut-shaped water tank which surrounds the reactor, said Georgia Power spokesman Dave Altman.

But Altman and NRC spokesman Joe Gilliland both said they did not expect the inspectors to determine before Sunday what caused the crack at the twin-reactor Plant Hatch.

The discovery of the crack Friday prompted Georgia Power to shut down the plant's other reactor, and the NRC immediately ordered other utilities with similar reactors to check for similar problems.

Georgia Power workers found the crack in a 4½-foot diameter pipe inside the water tank surrounding the Unit 2 reactor, which had been shut down for maintenance and refueling. Gilliland said the crack appeared to extend completely around the pipe and all the way through its quarter-inch-thick wall.

The tank would be important in the event of an emergency in which too much pressure built up in the reactor. Excess radioactive steam then could be channeled into 500,000 gallons of stored cold water. The crack occurred in a pipe inside the tank which would spray the steam under the water, Altman said.

The crack did not affect the operation of the plant's other reactor, Unit 1, but the utility ordered that unit shut down anyway to make sure cracks had not occurred there, Altman said. An inspection of Unit 1 probably would begin Sunday, he said.

"We recognize that it was a significant crack and part of an important safety system," Altman said. "The question remains how such a significant crack could occur in a system that generally is only used in emergency conditions."

The NRC on Friday ordered the owners of five other plants with the same type of reactors, all already temporarily closed, to search this weekend for cracks. The agency told the owners of 16 other plants now producing electricity to search their records for any clues that might indicate a similar pipe crack.

NRC officials said they know of no other instance of such a crack in a reactor's steam condensing containment system.

The NRC ordered visual inspections at these plants: Oyster Creek in New Jersey, Pilgrim in Massachusetts, Browns Ferry Unit 3 in Alabama, Dresden Unit 3 and Quad Cities Unit 2 in Illinois.

Gilliland said Tennessee Valley Authority officials told the NRC on Saturday that they had inspected the Browns Ferry Unit 3 and had found no cracks in the steam condensing containment system.

Frostbite Victim Refuses Treatment

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — A judge appointed a legal guardian Saturday to decide on treatment for a 56-year-old frostbite victim who has refused the partial amputation of his feet — an operation doctors say is needed to save him from deadly gangrene.

A psychiatrist has said the patient, identified as Matthew Singleton, believes God will take care of him.

Superior Court Judge Virginia Long declared the man mentally incompetent after three psychiatrists testified he should not be allowed to make decisions about his treatment, court officials said.

Dr. Lawrence Erlich, a psychiatrist appointed by the Helene Fuld Medical Center where Singleton is a patient, testified the man is a paranoid schizophrenic, said Neil Shuster, the man's court-appointed lawyer.

Shuster said he does not intend to appeal to block medical treatment. "If he doesn't have it, there is a likelihood of death," Shuster said.

The judge appointed George Warren, a Princeton lawyer, as guardian for the man, said Joan Arnone, a court assignment clerk. Singleton has no known family or home and was brought to the hospital by a rescue crew that found him in an abandoned building three weeks ago.

Warren visited the hospital for about 1½ hours Saturday, reviewing the patient's records and talking with him, said a hospital spokeswoman.

Lebanese Minister Offers To Resign

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan said Saturday he is prepared to resign to pave the way for a National Salvation Cabinet to end the fighting between Moslem militiamen and the Lebanese army.

Shiite Moslem militiamen drove army troops back from a fiercely contested entrance to Beirut on Saturday and a Shiite leader called on Moslem Cabinet members to resign.

Police said 58 people have been killed and 154 wounded in three days of fighting at a southern highway entrance to Beirut.

Wazzan, a Moslem, told reporters he met with three Moslem members of his nine-member Cabinet and also had discussed the resignation of his Cabinet with President Amin Gemayel.

Wazzan said he agreed on the "necessity for change and resignation" with the minister of electricity, Bahaeddin al-Bissat, a Sunni Moslem, and Minister of Health Adnan Mrouwa and Minister of Commerce Ibrahim Halawai, both Shiites.

"This stemmed from our conviction that all factions should inevitably participate in shouldering the responsibilities in the current grave situation to prevent further deterioration and to work for salvation," Wazzan said in a statement to reporters.

Fighting broke out at the Galerie Semaan entrance to Beirut on Thursday, and Christian, Shiite and Druse areas have been shelled. Fires burned out of control in many areas Saturday and police said thousands of people hid in basements and bomb shelters.

A few hours before Wazzan issued his statement, Lebanon's top Shiite Moslem militia commander called on the Moslem Cabinet ministers to resign and urged Moslems in the Lebanese army to lay down their arms.

Nabih Berri's call raised fears the 37,000-man army, trained and equipped by the United States, might disintegrate along sectarian lines. Shiites are the largest single religious group in the army's enlisted ranks.

Berri claimed that one brigade of soldiers in west Beirut and another in the Bekaa Valley of east Lebanon had refused to take part in the fighting. The government made no comment on the claims. There are about 2,200 men in a Lebanese brigade.

Berri heads Amal, the dominant paramilitary group among the 1 million Shiite Moslems who make up the largest single religious sect in Lebanon.

The army has failed in three days of bitter fighting to win back a key position at the Galerie Semaan from Amal militiamen.

An Associated Press reporter and photographer saw army troops, fighting with U.S.-made tanks, driven back by Amal troops backed by mortars and anti-aircraft guns.

Amal militiamen pushed army units about 150 to 200 yards east from the embattled St. Michael's Church.

The army used U.S.-made M-48 tanks to pound sandbagged Amal positions at the church entrance and adjacent smoke-blackened buildings.

Syrians Reject Withdrawal Plan

CHICAGO (AP) — Syria has rejected a plan from President Reagan's special Middle East envoy, Donald Rumsfeld, for a partial withdrawal of Israeli and Syrian troops from Lebanon, according to a published report.

Lebanese Druse leader Walid Jumblatt said Rumsfeld suggested in talks with Syria that Israeli forces would partially withdraw from southern Lebanon if Syria agreed to withdraw its troops from part of the Bekaa Valley in eastern Lebanon, the Chicago Tribune reported in Sunday editions.

The newspaper said Jumblatt and other Lebanese sources made their remarks in interviews with a Tribune correspondent in Damascus.

They said Rumsfeld's plan apparently would include further staged withdrawals, eventually leading to total evacuation of the foreign troops from Lebanon, the newspaper said.

But Syria rejected the plan and insisted that Israel first withdraw completely from Lebanon, clearing the way for a political settlement that then would lead to a Syrian withdrawal, the Tribune reported.

The United States has been anxious to bring about a disengagement of Israeli and Syrian troops in Lebanon as a first step toward a peace settlement that would enable the Reagan administration to pull out the 1,800 U.S. Marines serving as part of the international peacekeeping force in Beirut.

Israeli Peace Group Protests

JERUSALEM (AP) — Thousands of demonstrators marched by torch-light to the prime minister's office Saturday to protest Israel's occupation of southern Lebanon and to mark the first anniversary of the murder of a peace activist.

Peace Now, the movement that organized the demonstration, claimed 50,000 people took part. Reporters estimated the crowd at 20,000.

Mayor Teddy Kollek called it "the biggest demonstration Jerusalem has ever seen." Police sources said 800 officers protected the marchers.

The protest was called to commemorate the death of Emil Grunzweig, killed a year ago when a hand grenade was thrown into a group of peace demonstrators gathered in front of the prime minister's office.

But it quickly turned into an anti-government rally as speakers called on Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's Cabinet to resign because of the continued presence of Israeli troops in Lebanon and its policy of building more Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

"Those responsible for the deaths of hundreds (in Lebanon) are still sitting in the Cabinet. Every day more people are becoming casualties. Until when?" asked Tsali Reshef, leader of Peace Now.

Among 100 public figures who signed one call for the protest march was Shlomo Argov, former Israeli ambassador to Britain. He was the target of an assassination attempt in London in June 1982 that helped lead to Israel's invasion of Lebanon that same month.

Many protestors came by bus from collective farms, strongholds of the opposition Labor Party, and from other Israeli cities.

The march began at Zion Square, a main intersection in downtown Jerusalem, and moved slowly and quietly about two miles to a square named after Grunzweig that is near Shamir's office.

No one was inside the prime minister's office during the protest.

Police put searchlights around the square and checked demonstrators for weapons. "We want to be sure this time that nothing happens," said a policewoman at one barricade.

Kollek, speaking to the huge crowd, said violence among Israelis was spreading. He referred to booby-trapped grenade attacks against Christian and Moslem institutions that police believe were the work of Jewish extremists.

"Terrorism goes on, and it doesn't matter that it is directed at others. We can't live with it," he said.

Study Group Urges Changes In Medicaid Health Program

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — State health officials from six states recommended Saturday that the Medicaid health program be broken down into two systems — one a federal health care provider for the poor, the other a state-run system for the elderly and disabled.

The nine officials, members of the National Study Group on State Medicaid Strategies, found that the program which was intended to offer basic health services to the poor "has grown in ways that were never intended, reflecting basic structural problems requiring fundamental reform."

The nine study group members are from Oklahoma, Illinois, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Vermont and Michigan. They either operated the state Medicaid program or were in charge of the state's health services department.

The study group was convened in the fall of 1982 by the Center for the Study of Social Policy, a nonprofit research group. The project was financed by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation of Princeton, N.J., the largest grant foundation in the health care field.

Tom Joe, director of the nonprofit center, said the group's plan could be phased in by 1992 without adding to the anticipated cost of the program if it continued operating under present law. The Congressional Budget Office projects an $81.8 billion cost for Medicaid by that time — $44 billion federal and $37.6 billion for states.

President Reagan's new budget anticipates federal expenditures of $20 billion on Medicaid this year and asks for $22.1 billion in fiscal year 1985. The federal government pays about 54 percent of the cost of Medicaid while states pay the remaining 46 percent.

Medicaid's client population includes not only poor adults and children, but also the elderly and functionally impaired persons who need long term care, as well as mentally retarded and developmentally disabled persons.

Although the basic client population comprises poor families and children who are eligible for cash benefits in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program, states have discretion in making others eligible.

"Medicaid is not a single, unified program ... but a collection of programs in each state incorporating multiple objectives, target populations and services in an uneasy, and often antagonistic relationship," the study group concluded in its report.

Thus, Medicaid is no longer merely the major health financing program for the poor as it was intended, but also the largest public financier of both long term care for the elderly and disabled.

"The study group finds no conceptual, practical or political justification for maintaing the current combination of primary, acute health care and long term care services in one program," the group said.

"Continuing to finance and administer preventive and acute medical care and long term maintenance care within a single system has inhibited federal and state efforts to establish appropriate delivery systems, effective administrative procedures and workable cost controls," the report said.

The Continuing Care Service Program, the state-run plan which the group envisions for the elderly and disabled, would operate within broad federal guidelines. That program would be paid for with federal and state funds as is Medicaid.

The proposal is supposed to clearly define administrative responsibility between the federal and state governments, establish uniform eligibility standards and benefits, and include primary care in the services offered.

Child Starts Fire, 9 Youngsters Die

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — A boy playing with a cigarette lighter started a fire that raged through a small two-story home Saturday, quickly killing nine youngsters who were trapped on the second floor, authorities said.

The victims, five boys and four girls, ranged in age from 1 to 8 years old, said fire Capt. Lloyd Hanson.

"Preliminary reports are that a 4 or 5-year-old child was playing with a lighter in a closet," said Police Lt. Darrell Hughes. "When the fire started, he got scared and took off." The boy escaped the blaze and police talked with him, Hughes said.

"The fire spread very rapidly and was inhumanly hot. They were all dead before firemen arrived," Hanson said.

He said investigators found at least two places upstairs where they believe children had tried to start earlier fires. "I'd say it seems the children were not well supervised," Hanson said.

Four youngsters, aged 2 to 6, two men and a woman escaped unharmed, officials said, leaving one man "walking around the neighborhood in a daze," Hanson said.

Maine Democrats Endorse Mondale

By The Associated Press

Walter F. Mondale won the support of Maine's top two elected Democrats on Saturday while California Democrats lined up behind the Rev. Jesse Jackson's call for changes in party rules that favor the top two or three candidates.

In New Hampshire, George McGovern went ice fishing and said the Reagan administration shows "political genius" in getting voters to accept its explanations of economic policies.

And John Glenn said neither President Reagan nor Mondale would be as effective scaling down federal budget deficits as he would.

In a paid campaign broadcast, meanwhile, Reagan challenged Republicans and Democrats to shun election-year politics and work together to cut the federal budget deficit, promote democracy in Central America and restore peace in Lebanon.

But Reagan made clear he was not backing away from any of his own policies — particularly his opposition to major tax increases, his plan for big increases in military spending and his insistence on keeping American servicemen in Lebanon.

The five-minute talk was carried by the Mutual Radio Network, which reaches 900 stations. The paid address replaced the weekly radio broadcast Reagan has delivered on Saturdays for most of his presidency.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the talks will be paid for by the campaign committee from now on to avoid questions about compliance with federal law.

Mondale had intended to be in Portland to receive the endorsement of Gov. Joseph E. Brennan and Sen. George J. Mitchell.

But his plane circled above a fog-bound airport for 20 minutes before heading back to Boston and then south for appearances in the more pleasant winter climes of Florida and Puerto Rico.

Brennan, who was the only governor to support Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts four years ago in his primary challenge to the Carter-Mondale team, called Mondale "the most qualified Democratic candidate this year.

"He understands the powers of the presidency and the limits of the presidency. As important as anything, he won't need to be trained for the job," Brennan said at an airport rally.

Maine holds caucuses March 4 to select delegates to the national convention this July in San Francisco.

The California Democratic Party, without debate, adopted a Jackson-backed resolution asking the national party to repeal its so-called "20 percent rule," which denies a proportionate share of presidential delegates to candidates who get less than 20 percent of the vote in any given primary.

The resolution of the California party's statewide convention puts California on record with Vermont and Mississippi seeking the rules change.

Five Men, Woman Spend 6 Days Adrift

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Five men and a woman who spent six days adrift after their two boats ran out of gas survived by eating raw fish and sharing one beer a day until a Navy destroyer rescued them.

"Thank God for the Navy," survivor Jose Ramon Minsal of Hialeah said Friday.

The Navy destroyer USS John Hancock rescued the six boaters Thursday night after they prayed together and then fired their last flare. "If we had a gun, we would have shot ourselves."

The crew of a Navy plane saw the flare and sent word to the destroyer. Neither boat had a radio to call for assistance.

The boaters appeared in good health and came through the ordeal "quite well," said ship Cmdr. John P. Collins Jr.

Rescued were Abundio Fernandez, 35, of Miami; Maria Faroy, 26, of Miami Springs; and Hialeah residents Minsal, his brother, Pedro, 32, Barbaro Lara, 19, and Jose Rodriguez, 32.

By the time the destroyer appeared on the horizon Thursday night, the two boats had drifted more than 200 miles to a location about 40 miles northeast of Cape Canaveral, the boaters said.

Lara and Fernandez had set out Jan. 26 in the Atlantic for a daylong trip in their 19-foot vessel, the boaters said.

Later that day, Minsal, his brother Pedro, Rodriguez and Ms. Faroy left in a 23-foot cabin cruiser, also to go fishing.

That night, the crew of the larger vessel saw the smaller boat, which had run out of gas. The larger boat took the smaller one in tow, but then it too ran out of gas.

The smaller boat soon began to take on water and had to be bailed out each day, so the six stayed aboard the larger boat.

Initially confident they would be rescued, the six quickly drank the several gallons of water aboard Jose Minsal's boat. Within three days, they were out of water and had to ration a six-pack of beer to satisfy their thirst.

They caught a dolphin and a lemon fish for food.

Then they watched as several freighters passed by without noticing their flares, they said.

As their hopes of surviving dwindled, on the fifth day they found one more flare.

Man Held In Virginia Murders

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — A 27-year-old man was arrested Saturday in the latest of five gunshot slayings of women on the Virginia Peninsula in 11 days, and police said there is a "definite relationship" among the killings.

The killings have provoked widespread fear in the region, and hundreds of calls to a special task force investigating the cases were a "crucial factor" in cracking the case, said task force spokeswoman Sgt. Susie Mowry.

Syvasky Lafayette Poyner of Newport News was arrested at 1:15 a.m. and charged with capital murder. He was being held in the Newport News City Jail without bond.

Poyner was charged with the shooting death of Carolyn J. Hedrick, 44, a sales representative and mother of three children. Her nude body was found Thursday afternoon in a parking lot behind a church in Newport News.

Investigators said Mrs. Hedrick had been killed between 11 a.m. and noon Thursday.

Authorities believe her killing is related to the first four slayings, but haven't disbanded the special task force investigating the slayings.

The other victims of slayings the task force is investigating are: Joyce Baldwin, 45, found murdered in a Hampton beauty supply shop Jan. 23; Motel manager Louise S. Paulett, 72, and Chestine Brooks, 43, found murdered Monday in a motel office in Williamsburg; and Vicki Penrose Ripple, 17, found murdered Tuesday in a Newport News ice cream store.

"Further investigation has indicated that there is a definite relationship between this homicide and the homicides of the women in Williamsburg, Hampton and Newport News," said Hampton Police Chief Pat Minetti, reading a prepared statement at a news conference Saturday. The cities are within 20 miles of each other.

"Some clothing and other evidence was recovered that led to the arrest of the suspect," Minetti said.

The Rev. Willie Wilson of Newport News, an evangelist who let Poyner live in his one-story house, said Poyner was a quiet man who normally stayed in his bedroom with the door shut.

But on days Poyner didn't work at a McDonald's restaurant in Hampton, "he was in and out all day long," Wilson said. He said he was surprised by the arrest.

Poyner's wife, Theresa, said she talked to her husband after the arrest and he told her "he did not do" the murders.

"I don't believe he did," she said. "He's never been a violent person."

Lift Operator Killed

BESSEMER, Mich. (AP) — A ski lift operator was fatally injured when he became entangled in the cable of a chair lift Saturday morning, and as the lift derailed six skiers were injured, officials said.

The operator, Harry Beckman, 33, of Bessemer, apparently climbed on the lift at about 10 a.m. after he thought he had shut it down, said Louis Gheller, general manager of Big Powderhorn Mountain ski resort.

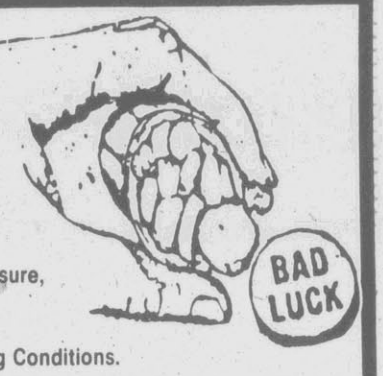

The lift started again, possibly because Beckman had hit the wrong switch, Gheller said.

Beckman became entangled in the cable, causing the lift to derail. Six riding skiers were injured, according to the resort's ski patrol.

Gheller said about 80 skiiers may have been on the lift at the time of the accident. The ski area remained open and Gheller said the lift was expected to be operational later Saturday.

Beckman, an employee of the resort for seven years, died shortly after being brought down from the lift, Gheller said.

Highway Deaths Hit 20-Year Low

WASHINGTON (AP) — Traffic deaths fell to their lowest level in two decades last year, but highway safety experts disagree over how much of the decline should be attributed to campaigns against drunken driving.

The Transportation Department said 43,028 people died on the nation's highways during 1983, a 2.1 percent drop from the year before, when the number of traffic deaths plummeted by 10 percent.

Last year's drop in traffic deaths came as driving increased, resulting in a decline in the traffic fatality rate to 2.6 fatalities for every 100,000 vehicle miles driven — the lowest rate ever recorded.

"These statistics show clearly that you can save lives by focusing sharply on improved highway safety," Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole said in a statement. She concluded that "a national resolve to put a halt to drunken driving" played a major role in the decline.

But other safety officials said that while stronger laws against drunken driving and stricter enforcement resulted in reductions in traffic fatalities in some areas, there is no evidence that they are having a nationwide impact.

"There have been large decreases (in traffic fatalities) in states that did not wage such campaigns, and even in some areas where there have been tough crackdowns the death tolls are going back up again," said William Haddon, president of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety.

Figures from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration show that on a year-by-year comparison monthly highway fatalities dropped or remained essentially the same from January through August 1983.

They increased 2.7 percent in September, stayed essential constant in October and increased again in November. A drop of nearly 4 percent was recorded in December, but some safety experts attributed some of that to the severely cold weather during the month.

Traffic fatalities in the United States reached their peak in 1972 when 54,589 people died in highway accidents. When the oil embargo curtailed driving, the fatalities dropped to 45,196 in 1974 and then shot up again to more than 50,000 a year in 1978 through 1980. The deaths declined to 49,301 in 1981.

A sharp drop in traffic deaths in 1982 was widely attributed to the recession, which held down the number of miles driven. Haddon believes some of that extended over to 1983.

"Our analysis of fatality figures shows the downward trend has reversed in recent months, and we believe the bulk of the change during the last two years has resulted from the recession," Haddon said in a telephone interview.

Last year's figures were the lowest since 1963 when 42,700 people were killed in automobile accidents.

Hawaii Records Low Of Only 57

HONOLULU (AP) — The temperature at Honolulu International Airport set a record low for the date Saturday: It dropped to 57 degrees.

The National Weather service said the old record of 58 degrees was set in 1982.

The average low for the month of February is 65 degrees.

Forecasters said Saturday's temperatures were expected to rise to near the month's average high of 80 degrees.

Diet Pill Sweeping U.S.

New Grapefruit 'Super Pill' Gives Fast Weight Loss

No Dieting - Eat All You Want Pill Does All the Work

BEVERLY HILLS, CA. (Special)—An amazing new "super" grapefruit pill has recently been developed and perfected that reportedly "guarantees" that you will easily lose at least 10 pounds in 10 days. Best of all, it allows you to "eat as much as you want of your favorite foods and still lose a pound a day or more starting from the very first day until you achieve the ideal weight and figure you desire."

This "super" grapefruit pill is a dramatically improved version of the world famous grapefruit diet. It is far more effective than the original and eliminates "the mess, fuss, and high cost of eating half a fresh grapefruit at every meal."

"Pill Does All the Work"

According to the manufacturer, "the pill itself does all the work while you quickly lose weight with NO starvation "diet menus" to follow, NO calorie counting, NO exercise, and NO hunger pangs." It is 100% safe. You simply take the pill with a glass of water before each meal and the amazing combination of powerful ingredients are so effective they take over and you start losing weight immediately.

Pill Contains ALL Daily Vitamins

The powerful and unique combination of ingredients are what make this a "super-pill". It contains highly potent grapefruit concentrate and a diuretic to help eliminate bloat and puffiness. No need to take any vitamins to maintain your good health and energy. The pill is fortified with ALL (100%) of the U.S. Government daily vitamin requirements.

Contains Japanese 'Glucomannan'

Each pill also contains an amazingly effective amount of "glucomannan", the remarkable natural dietary fiber discovery from Japan (used successfully for over 1500 years) that expands in your stomach and gives you a full and satisfied feeling all day long.

The super-pill is already sweeping the country with glowing reports of easy and fast weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

Now Available to Public

You can order your supply of these highly successful "super" grapefruit pills (now available directly from the manufacturer by mail order only) by sending $12 for a 14-day supply (or $20 for a 30-day supply, or $35 for a 60-day supply) cash, check, or money order to: Citrus Industries, 9903 Santa Monica Bl., Dept. R59, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not satisfied.) Visa and MasterCard OK. (Send card number, expiration date, and signature.) © Copyright 1983.

U.S. Finds Full Employment Still Elusive

By MERRILL HARTSON
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Steadily improving U.S. civilian unemployment is reviving talk of an America where jobs would be plentiful and only those with little education, training, or work skills would be left behind.

President Reagan, applauding the decline in the national jobless rate to 8 percent in January, vowed late last week that "I'm not going to be satisfied until everyone who wants a job can find one."

But in his economic message to Congress two days earlier, Reagan acknowledged that his administration's forecast of jobless rates through 1989 would miss the 4 percent unemployment goal stated in the Humphrey-Hawkins Full Employment and Balanced Growth Act of 1978.

Economists in and out of government differ on the definition of "full employment" or "natural unemployment" — the point in the American economy at which every person who can reasonably be expected to hold a job actually has one.

The full-employment act, named for Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., and the late Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, committed the government to achieving a civilian unemployment level of 4 percent by the end of 1983.

That legislation assumed that most joblessness is caused by cyclical swings in the business cycle and that some unemployment will always exist because of structural problems — meaning a certain number of people are destined to unemployment because of the lack of marketable skills.

Although America's joblessness has plunged dramatically since the depths of the long 1981-82 recession, when the rate peaked at 10.7 percent in November 1982, some 9 million people remain officially categorized as unemployed.

Under the Humphrey-Hawkins "full employment" concept, the ranks of the unemployment would total about 4.5 million — half the present level — and those remaining out of work would be the hard-core unskilled job-hunters, many of them young people, who would face difficulty landing a job even during a business boom.

Stated another way, the goal would be achieved if 96 percent of the labor force was at work.

In his economic report, Reagan said the 4 percent unemployment goal contained in the Humphrey-Hawkins legislation "is also a high priority for this administration."

But he noted that the administration forecasts joblessness to fall no lower than 5.7 percent by 1989.

Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan echoed Reagan's desire to produce an economy that would make jobs available to all who seek them.

But he said most economists now say that because of sharp increases in the size of the labor force in the 1970s — it now totals over 112.2 million — that full employment likely would be achieved with a 5.5 percent jobless rate.

"Crystal-ball gazing is a dangerous game," he said when asked where unemployment might stand by the end of this year. "Whether it (the jobless rate) will hit the level ... it was when we came in (to office), I don't know. I would say the chances are 50-50 that it would."

The jobless rate was 7.5 percent when Reagan was inaugurated in January 1981.

Private economists differ on the question of what unemployment rate would signal "full employment."

Some said that declining birth rates and the maturation of the "baby-boom" generation means fewer young people will be entering the labor force in the next decade. That will ease competition for available work, these analysts pointed out, thus possibly permitting overall joblessness to fall to the full-employment level of 4 percent stated in the Humphrey-Hawkins Act.

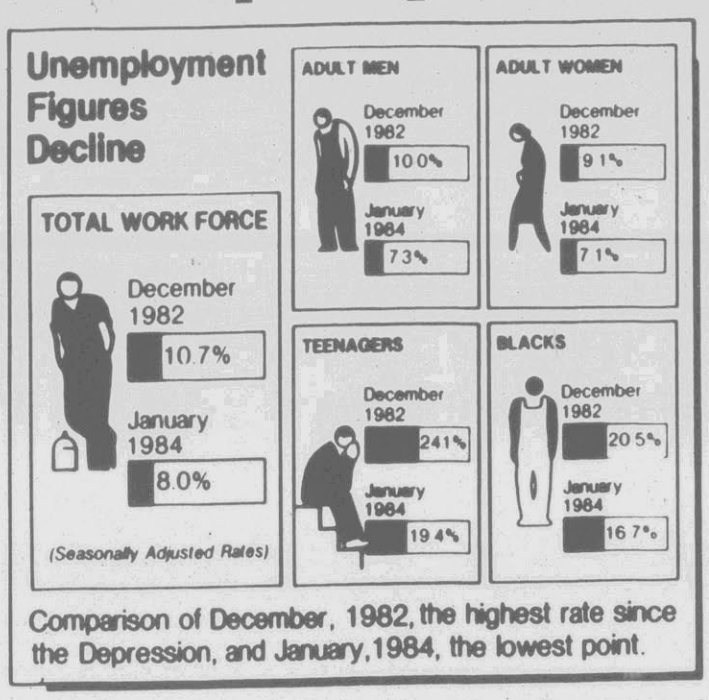

But Edward F. Yardeni, chief economist at Prudential Bache Securites Inc. in New York, said he thinks the full-employment would be higher than that, possibly 5.5 to 6 percent, and that it is achievable.

"The labor force is definitely growing at a much slower pace," he said.

Allen Sinai of Lehman Brothers Kuhn Loeb said the unemployment rate "will go down more slowly because economic growth will slow."

He defined "full employment" as existing when unemployment drops to 5 percent of the labor force and said that "I think we have a shot at it around 1986 or 1987, but only if we change the mix of policy" on federal deficits and interest rates.

Donald H. Strazheim, vice president and economist at Wharton Econometrics in Philadelphia, said: "It looks to us like the contemporary full employment rate is in the 6.5 to 7 percent range. Our forecast is for the economy to continue to do quite nicely, but we don't see the advance as being so rapid that we get to that level" any time soon.

UNEMPLOYMENT RATE DROPS — This graphic details comparisons of theunemployment rate in December 1982, the highest point since the Depression, and January 1984. The unemployment measurement in January showed improvement for the fifth straight month and was the lowest since October 1981. (AP Laserphoto)

Explosion Shatters Buildings In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — An explosion shattered two buildings on the South Side on Saturday, injuring eight people, one seriously, and scattering glass, bricks and boards onto the streets for two blocks, authorities and witnesses said.

The blast was blamed tentatively on a natural-gas leak, but bomb and arson officers from the police department were investigating.

Several nearby buildings were badly damaged and extra police were called out to reroute traffic and prevent looting of damaged stores and a bank, witnesses said.

"It looks like natural gas but we can't be sure because of all the restaurant bombings we've had over the years," said Ed Joyce, spokesman for Peoples Gas Co.

Tom Hanley, 18, a passing motorist said, "It felt like an earthquake. Glass was flying everywhere."

"It looked like Mount St. Helen's," said passerby Hank Pulala, 27. "There was one big explosion, then another little one. It sounded like a sonic boom."

Court Appeal May Delay Assembly Elections

By GENE WANG

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — The state's appeal of a federal court decision overturning reapportionment of legislative districts will determine whether primary elections for the General Assembly are held on schedule.

Legislative leaders agreed last week to appeal the ruling by a three-judge federal panel and seek postponement of an order requiring immediate changes in seven districts.

The request for a delay represents the only chance of avoiding disruptions in the May 8 legislative primaries. The court blocked the state from holding primaries in the affected districts unless the Legislature or the court makes the required changes to the 1982 reapportionment plans.

The appeal is vital because the U.S. Supreme Court should resolve the "fundamental issues" of the case, said Rep. Parks Helms, D-Mecklenburg.

But he said, "I think it's entirely appropriate that we see if we can have that order stayed so that we can get the primaries done in an orderly fashion."

"My perception is most people favor an appeal or at least a stay until we can get through this primary," said Helms, who is stepping down from his House seat to run for the state Senate.

The House district Helms now represents and the Senate district in which he is running are both affected by the Jan. 27 decision.

The court overturned the reapportionment plans for five House and two Senate districts. It said the creation of large, multi-member districts dilutes the voting strength of black voters and prevents them from electing black candidates in six of those districts.

The seventh, which has a predominantly black population, still does not contain enough black voting strength to ensure the election of a black candidate, the court said.

The House districts involve cover Mecklenburg, Wake, Forsyth, Durham, Wilson, Nash and Edgecombe counties. The Senate districts involved are a multi-member district covering Mecklenburg and Cabarrus counties and the singla-member 2nd Senate District covering much of northeastern North Carolina.

The court gave the General Assembly a March 16 deadline to enact changes of its own or face implementation of a court-ordered plan for the seven districts. The changes would involve the creation of smaller, predominantly black districts within the six multi-member districts and an increase in black population in the 2nd District.

Because of the time schedules set in state law for filing and conducting primary elections, the ruling could prevent the state from holding primaries in those districts unless it is delayed by the Supreme Court.

Senate President Pro Tem Craig Lawing said the Legislature could make the needed changes and still conduct primaries on May 8 — if it also enacts special revisions to the election timetable, such as reopening the filing period for candidates to file in the seven districts and reducing the period for absentee voting.

But Lawing, like most legislators, preferred to seek a stay in the hope the primaries can proceed on schedule. He criticized the timing of the court ruling, which was handed down 11 days before the filing period ended.

Leslie Winner, one of the lawyers representing black voters who challenged the reapportionment plans, had little sympathy for the lawmaker's plight.

The court considered legal issues, not the political and procedural problems caused by its decision, said Ms. Winner, who plans to oppose any effort by the state to obtain a delay.

The ruling has had an impact on her. Ms. Winner had announced as a Democratic candidate for the state House from Mecklenburg County, but dropped out last week because it would be a conflict of interest for her to run and continue representing her clients during the appeal.

It also had caused problems for incumbent lawmakers from the affected districts because they don't know who their constituents will be.

"Some people jerk my chain," said Rep. Josephus Mavretic, D-Edgecombe. "They ask 'Where are you going to run this time?' or 'Am I still your constituent?'"

"Folks are laughing about it," he said, but "I've already paid my filing fee and I'm going to run somewhere."

Rep. Aaron Fussell, D-Wake, agreed.

"I know I'm going to be running for something," he said. "I'm going ahead with my campaign."

Fieldcrest Reorganization Erases 17 Executive Posts

EDEN, N.C. (AP) — Three former Fieldcrest Mills Inc. executives say they were shocked when they learned their jobs were being eliminated in a reorganization that cut 17 executive posts.

"It was complete dumbfoundedness," ssaid Gerald F. Ridley, former product manager of Fieldcrest's rug-carpet division in Eden. Ridley and two Eden division vice presidents were notified of their job cuts Jan. 27.

The reorganization, which consolidated subdivisions in the bed, bath and rug-carpet divisions, was designed to streamline Fieldcrest's executive ranks and enable the company to be more competitive, said company president Francis X. Larkin.

Most of the cuts, announced last week, were made in Fieldcrest's marketing offices in New York, he said.

Also losing their jobs in Eden were John R. Mauney Jr., former vice president of the carpet-rug manufacturing, development and planning division, and David T. Arnold, former vice president of the bedspread manufacturing division. Both said they were surprised by the decision.

Mauney had been with Fieldcrest for 31 years, Ridley for 26 and Arnold for 10.

Haven H. Newton, Fieldcrest's vice president for human resources, declined to say exactly how far-reaching the Eden cuts were or how much they are expected to save the company in salaries.

But Larkin said positions of two additional Eden executives were eliminated and the men were transfered to other jobs in the company.

"You got to have a leaner, sharper, more market-focused operation," he said. "We had too many layers. ... Part of our strategy was to speed up decision-making."

Before reorganization, most of the bed, bath and carpet-rug subdivisions had separate vice presidents. Under the new plan, developed with the aid of a New York consulting firm, each of the three subdivisions will be headed by one executive vice president, aided by vice presidents responsible for different aspects, such as sales, marketing and accounting.

Fieldcrest's corporate headquarters are in Eden, along with plants that manufacture Fieldcrest brand sheets and bedspreads, St. Marys blankets and Karastan rugs. There are other plants in North Carolina, Virginia, Georgia and Alabama.

ECU Scientist's Study Leads To New Test For Salmonella

ECU News Bureau

A scientist's discovery at the East Carolina University School of Medicine has led to the development of a simplified test for salmonella contamination of food.

Research by Dr. A. Mason Smith, associate professor of microbiology, provided information essential to the development of the new testing procedure. Litton Bionetics Inc., a maker of laboratory products, has applied the results of Smith's work in the manufacture of a testing kit now undergoing field trials.

The new test should eliminate much of the time and trouble that food processors encounter when they suspect salmonella contamination of their products. A type of bacteria, salmonella is a common cause of food poisoning.

Smith said the current method of testing for the presence of salmonella involved many steps and required a minimum of three days to complete, long enough to allow the harmful bacteria to become well-established in the product. In contrast, the new procedure is much simpler and can be completed in less than 36 hours.

"I think the potential of this is tremendous," said Smith, noting that the incidence of salmonella infection is on the rise in parts of the United States.

Apart from its obvious value to the domestic food industry, the scientist said, the new test should have important application in some foreign countries where poor sanitation increases the risk of salmonella infection.

In addition, Litton Bionetics is using the same research findings to develop a test to diagnose salmonella infection in humans. Smith noted that further research may lead to the development of a therapeutic agent for food poisoning caused by salmonella, though work on this has yet to bear fruit.

Smith, who has been at the medical school since 1970, said he expects to continue his research in this area in hopes of further simplifying the system.

Brick Shipments Reported Higher

GREENSBORO (AP) — The Brick Association of North Carolina says in-state shipments for 1983 totaled nearly 500 million bricks, up 39.7 percent from last year.

The major reason for the increase in production was a steady decline in residential mortgage interest rates at the beginning of the year and a stabilization of the rates at 12½ percent to 14 percent, said Marion R. Cochran, general manager of the association.

The association is made up of the 19 brick manufacturers in the state, which produces more than 15 percent of all the brick used in the country, said Cochran.

Egypt's President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin concluded a summit meeting at Camp David, Md., Sept. 17, 1978, with the signing of a framework for peace in the Middle East.

City, ECU Install Sidewalk Ramps

By SUE HINSON
Reflector Staff Writer

If you drove down the section of Fifth Street fronting East Carolina University last week, you probably wondered what was happening to the sidewalks.

According to Mayo Allen, Greenville's public works director, the workers and debris that have prompted motorists to slow down and take a second look is all part of an East Carolina University-city of Greenville effort to make handicapped students' lives a bit safer.

"There are several handicapped students that live on the other side of Fifth Street and the only way that they've been able to get back and forth from school up until now is to ride in the streets," he said.

Allen said that sidewalks at about five Fifth Street intersections have been under construction since Monday by Public Works employees. "All we are doing is supplying the labor, ECU is supplying the materials," he said.

C.C. Rowe, ECU coordinator for handicapped student services, said he has been concerned for handicapped students' safety for some time and is pleased that the university and the city are working together on this project. "We have one student who has been having to ride out in Fifth Street to get to and from class and because of this cars have been having to stop ... It's a dangerous situation," he said.

Rowe said he called Allen Jan. 27, told him the situation, and on Monday work was begun. "Allen said he had witnessed the problem himself and that he'd drop everything he was doing and get right on the job if we'd supply the concrete," Rowe said.

The concrete is costing the university approximately $500.

The city and ECU are also looking into another project that would involve laying a sidewalk on state-owned land from Umstead Dorm to Memorial Gym — an area Rowe said is heavily traveled by both pedestrians and motorists. However, the state will have to grant the city an encroachment easement before the sidewalk can be laid. Rowe said he will meet with state officials this week to discuss the plan.

Pirates Avenge Loss To Mason

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Freshman Keith Sledge took the ball on the left side, dribbed toward the middle, turned at the foul line and jumped up, sending the basketball spinning toward the basket.

Swish! It was through with two seconds left and East Carolina University's Pirates had pulled off one of the biggest upsets of the ECAC-South this year, downing pre-season favorite George Mason, 70-68.

The Pirates, led by three freshmen in double figures and senior Tony Robinson, who played his most aggressive offensive ball game, simply refused to die when the Patriots scrambled back from as much as 14 points down early in the game to lead by as much as five in the second half.

The youthful Pirates — playing a much more experienced Mason team — proved their better in this one, and it gave the Bucs their first ECAC-South victory of the year after five bitter losses.

The Pirates had to do it the hard way too, outscoring a Patriot team that crashed through 26 of 29 foul shots in comparison to just 12 of 22 for the Pirates. ECU did hit at the end when it counted.

They weren't perfect — they missed some — but they hit enough.

Roy Smith, who had proved the goat in the early season loss to Drexel, was the target on several occasions late in the game of Mason fouls, but he banged through three of five in the final 1:34 and that helped the Bucs to keep the lead.

Mason managed to tie it up, however, when Ricky Wilson hit both of his shots with 13 seconds left after William Grady had missed on the second of two free throws. Mason called a time out to try and stop the Pirate move down court, but ECU moved it through and Sledge took his step into the middle to make the shot.

Coach Charlie Harrison said later that there had been no set play for Sledge. Each man was to look for the shot.

The Roanoke Rapids rookie did just that. "When I brought the ball up, Carlos (Yates) laid back and I saw that I had the shot. I took it and luckily, it went in."

With two seconds to go, both teams used their final time out to set up strategy. ECU lay back to beyond mid court and Mason lofted a long one to Yates — its superstar.

The Pirate defense went high to block the pass, but was unable to get a hand on it. But it was enough to throw Yates off his mark and he fumbled the ball and was still trying to pick it up with the horn went off.

"We made the big play when we had to make it," Harrison said afterwards. "George Mason is a very, very good basketball team and we're fortunate to win, but these kids deserve it."

Harrison said that many times a team faced with the problems ECU has had this year would have given up. "But these kids have stuck with it. I can't say enough for 'em. When you have good kids, good things are bound to happen and this was a good thing tonight. It's easy to front run, to smile when things are going right, but these kids are working hard. They're still puppies, but they're getting better."

Harrison said Sledge's move to the basket was a mark of guts and character.

And while the freshmen were doing their thing, senior Tony Robinson was performing uncharacteristically. Robinson, who usually lays back in the backcourt and allows others to take it to the basket, did it himself, driving to the CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Wake Forest Coach Carl Tacy quipped, "How about time-and-a-half pay?" after his Deacons defeated Clemson 76-72 in overtime in Atlantic Coast Conference play Saturday.

It was the second straight extra-period win for the Wake Forest team, which defeated Georgia Tech 78-74 in overtime Thursday.

"It couldn't have come at a better time," Tacy said, adding that the Deacons needed the victory.

"We missed some free throws to put it away in regulation and got a little tired ... but then we sealed it with free throws."

"We could as easily be second in the conference instead of last," said Clemson Coach Bill Foster.

"I cannot figure the foul situation. With about 10 minutes left in the game, they had shot 23 free throws and we had shot two."

Delaney Rudd sank two free throws with nine seconds left in overtime to give the Deacons the win.

The Deacons sank nine free throws in the overtime period to make up for missing three critical opportunities at the end of regulation play.

Clemson, down by three points with 39 seconds to play in regulation, gained ground when Danny Young missed two free throw opportunities and freshman Mark Cline missed another for Wake Forest. Warren Wallace scored a field goal and Murray Jarman scored at the buzzer for a 67-67 tie.

Jordan's 24 Sparks UNC

CHARLOTTE — Michael Jordan's dunk and three-point play late in the first half ignited top-ranked and unbeaten North Carolina to a 76-60 college basketball victory over The Citadel Saturday night.

The Tar Heels captured their 20th victory, the 14th straight season a Dean Smith-coached team has reached that plateau. In his 23 years as North Carolina head coach, Smith has won 20 games or more 17 times.

The triumph was also the last game ever of the annual North-South Doubleheaders in Charlotte. In the opener, North Carolina State romped to a 95-72 victory over Furman.

Primed for an upset after a near-miss against N.C. State in Friday night's action, the Bulldogs took a 26-23 lead on Jimmy Tharpe's two free throws with 3:02 left before intermission. A Sam Perkins hook and a Brad Daugherty free throw tied the score at 26 with 2:32 left.

Regan Truesdale got a basket on a goal-tending call, but Jordan, who finished with 24 points, retaliated on the one-handed stuff at the 2:02 mark. His jumper and free throw with 1:26 left gave North Carolina a 31-28 edge it would never surrender.

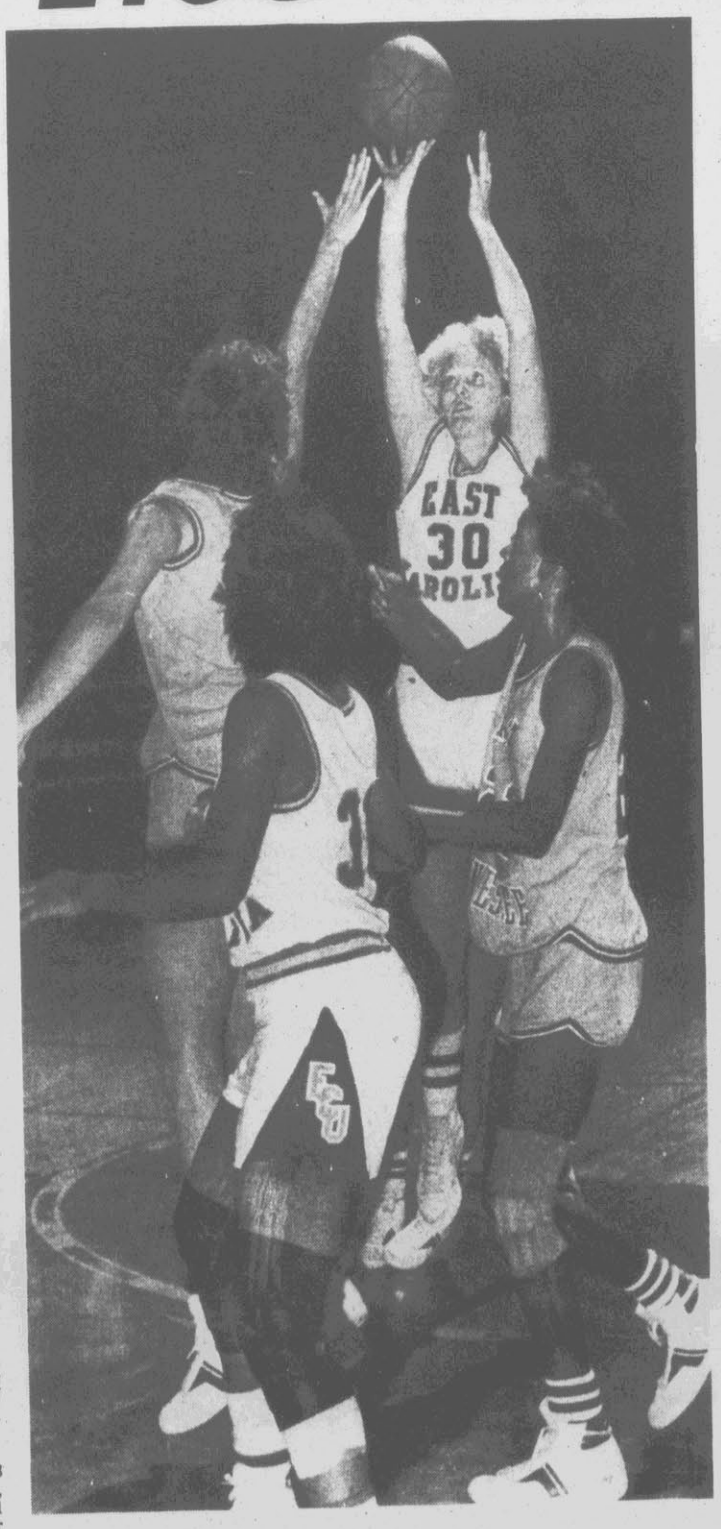

The Bulldogs got as close as 33-32 on an Al Sheppard layup with 44 seconds left, but Jordan scored two more baskets, the last with one second left to give North Carolina a 37-32 halftime lead.

ETSU Thrashes Lady Pirates

Over The Top

Tammy Larkey, a 6-5 junior transfer from Tennessee, came off the East Tennessee State University bench to score 23 points and lead the Lady Buccaneers to a 68-58 basketball victory over East Carolina University Saturday afternoon.

Larkey, who doesn't start for ETSU despite being the team's leading scorer, tossed in 10 of 16 field goal attempts and added three of four at the line. She led the ETSU rebounding with eight.

"She doesn't start because she's a tranfer who just became eligible a few weeks ago," Coach Susan Yow said. "I'm loyal to my people and they will be starting the rest of the year. Too, it's nice to have someone like Tammy to come in off the bench. People get used to what's going on out there, and then Tammy comes in. It's a whole new thing."

East Carolina did have some success in stopping her, mainly with the defense put up by Lisa Squirewell.

Coach Cathy Andruzzi said the Lady Pirates had several things they wanted to do against ETSU, and in the first half they accomplished them both. "We've been having a lot of turnovers, so we wanted to not fast break, but use the clock, get it down to about ten seconds then get it in. We wanted to get the ball inside, too, and try and get some fouls on their big people. We got Punky Mills to make three fouls, so we were pretty well successful in that in the first half."

ECU had nine turnovers in each half.

However, Andruzzi didn't feel that the Pirates sustained that attack in the second half. "That was the biggest problem we had. Then, on defense we didn't crash and help out as much as we had in the first half."

The first half was a nip-and-tuck affair that saw both teams lead several times. ECU never led by more than two and ETSU held a four-point lead on five occasions. East Carolina's final lead came at the half at 27-25. The Pirates gained the lead late in the half on a basket off a rebound by Squirewell, and after Larkey tied it once more, Sylvia Bragg hit a 15-footer to end the first half scoring.

In the second half, however, things changed. Leigh Jaffke's three-point play just under a minute into the period put ETSU ahead for good at 28-27. Larkey and Regina Blair added baskets to up the lead to 32-27 before the Pirates scored again.

Although the Lady Pirates cut the lead back to one on four occasions after that, they were never able to regain the lead. A basket by Blair and a pair of free throws by Jaffke, followed by a basket by Kim Skala ran the lead out to seven, 46-39, and ECU never got closer than four after that.

The Lady Buccaneers began to slowly pull away after that, moving out by as many as 11 points at 57-46. ECU cut it back to six, 59-53, but couldn't hold the Lady Bucs off at the foul line, where they made seven of nine in the final 1:14 to gain the win.

East Carolina's scoring was led by Squirewell and Bragg with 17 each while Rodriguez scored a career high 14, hitting on six of 12 from the floor.

Blair added 16 to ETSU's total while Jaffke had 12 and Lori Hines had 10.

The defeat was the third in a row for the Lady Pirates, equalling their longest of the year so far. They are now 8-11. East Tennessee climbs to 12-6 on the season.

The Lady Pirates return to action this afternoon at 3 p.m. in Minges Coliseum against Georgia Tech.

Gannon, Myers Pace Pack In 95-72 Win Over Furman

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
AP Sports Writer

CHARLOTTE — Terry Gannon fired in 21 points and Ernie Myers added 17 as North Carolina State raced to a 95-72 college basketball victory over Furman Saturday night.

The victory marked the Wolfpack's last game in the 26th annual North-South Doubleheaders in Charlotte. The two-day, round-robin tournament ended with the nightcap between top-ranked and unbeaten North Carolina and The Citadel.

The Wolfpack took a 9-0 lead in the first two minutes, but Furman battled back to within 14-10 on George Singleton's dunk with 14:04 left in the half. A 10-2 Wolfpack spurt, capped by two Myers' free throws, gave N.C. State a 24-12 lead and put the Paladins out of reach.

Spurred by a 69.2 percent performance from the field, N.C. State took a 50-29 halftime lead which steadily grew to 85-58 on two Gannon free throws with 4:20 left to play.

Lorenzo Charles scored 13 points in the second half and finished with 15 as the Wolfpack climbed to 16-7. Anthony "Spud" Webb had 12 and reserve Russell Pierre added 10 for N.C. State.

Gatlin Fires In 19, But Terps Fall

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia Tech accomplished one of Coach Bobby Cremins' goals Saturday when John Salley converted a three-point play with eight seconds remaining to give the Yellow Jackets a 71-70 double overtime triumph over No. 10 Maryland in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game.

"A winning season was one of my goals when I came here...and this guarantees me of my first winning season here," Cremins said. "I'm real happy we could do it with just two recruiting classes.

"I hope this helps us," he added. "Things finally went our way. I'm happy for our kids, the program. We are not a finished product by any means."

Coach Lefty Driesell of Maryland said, "I thought we played about as well as we can play. A couple of breaks at the end and we didn't capitalize on them and we lost. It was a tough loss."

Tech, ranked 18th, snapped a three-game losing streak by bouncing back from an 11-point deficit with less than 16 minutes to play, forcing the first overtime on Anthony Byrd's 17-footer from the top of the key to make it 62-62 with 1:57 remaining and the second extra period when Byrd hit a 20-footer from the same area to tie the game at 66 with 1:06 to play.

Tech broke on top in the second overtime on Yvon Joseph's layup 13 seconds into the extra period and neither team was able to take advantage of opportunites until Maryland tied at 68 with 1:23 to play on a pair of free throws by Jeff Adkins.

Tech then held for the final shot, which Salley put up off a feed from Mark Price. The Jackets then yielded an uncontested layup to Maryland's Keith Gatlin with three seconds remaining.

The victory lifted Tech to 15-5 overall and 5-4 in the ACC. Maryland, playing its second game since starter Adrian Branch was suspended after being arrested last weekend on a marijuana possession charge, fell to 14-4 and 4-2.

Tech took an early 19-14 lead before Gatlin and Ben Coleman led a Maryland comeback that put the Terps in control by a 36-30 score at halftime. Gatlin's rebound layup with 15:27 remaining gave Maryland its second 11-point lead, 46-35, before Salley sparked the comeback that forced the overtimes.

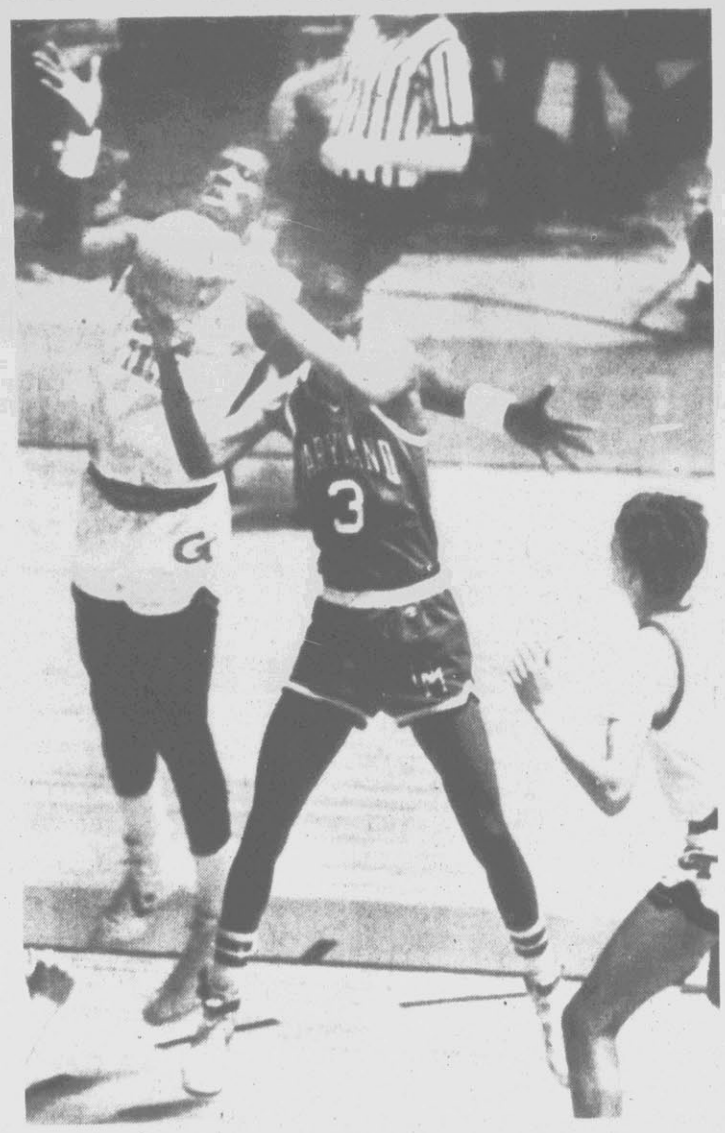

Salley led Tech with 21 points and Bruce Dalrymple added 15. Gatlin had 19 and Coleman had 17 for Maryland.

Ala.-Birmingham 51

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Keith Lee sank two free-throws with six seconds remaining in overtime Saturday as the Memphis State Tigers edged Alabama-Birmingham 53-51 for their ninth straight college basketball victory.

The ninth-ranked Tigers improved their record to 16-3, while UAB fell to 18-6.

The Blazers carried the game into overtime by holding Memphis State scoreless over the final six minutes of regulation play. UAB, led by McKinley Singleton's 14 points and Anthony Gordon, with 10, scored eight consecutive points during the final five minutes of play to deadlock the game at 51.

The Tigers lost an opportunity to avoid the overtime when sophomore guard Andre Turner lost the ball out of bounds as the horn sounded.

Lee, who scored 13 points, and Phillip "Doom" Haynes, with 12, were the Tigers' offensive leaders.

Seven of Lee's points came in the first half which produced seven ties. Memphis State trailed 13-6 when Lee hit seven of the Tigers' next eight points to bring the score to 15-13 midway through the first period.

Oklahoma (12).....76
Missouri.....65

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Senior guard Jan Pannell scored a career-high 21 points Saturday and 12th-ranked Oklahoma posted a 76-65 Big Eight Conference victory over Missouri despite the poorest scoring performance ever by All-America Wayman Tisdale.

Pannell, who was averaging only 6.6 points a game, connected on nine of 12 field goal attempts and all three of his free throws to lead the Sooners, who improved to 18-3 overall and 5-1 in the league.

The Sooners beat the Tigers for only the second time in Billy Tubbs' four years as head coach at Oklahoma.

Missouri, whose Malcolm Thomas scored a career-high 34 points and grabbed 11 rebounds, fell to 14-7 and 3-3.

Tisdale came into the game averaging 29 points, second best in the country. But he was held to 10 points and three rebounds, and played only 29 minutes of the game after getting into foul trouble in the first half.

The Sooners took a 12-4 lead with 15:09 left in the first half following four consecutive Missouri turnovers, and were in front 40-34 at halftime despite 22 points by the Tigers' Thomas.

Oklahoma pushed the lead to 54-42 with 11:03 left to play when Pannell hit a long jumper, and, with about six minutes remaining, forward Calvin Pierce slammed home a thundering dunk and then got a sprawling tip-in to make it 64-48.

UCLA (20).....81, 3OT

SEATTLE (AP) — Reserve guard Clay Damon and forward Detlef Schrempf scored five points each in the third overtime Saturday as the Washington Huskies defeated the UCLA Bruins 89-81 in a regionally televised Pacific-10 Conference basketball game.

With their ninth straight home victory, the Huskies improved their league-leading conference record to 8-1 and their overall mark to 15-4. UCLA slipped to 6-2 in conference play and 13-5 on the season.

Schrempf topped all scorers with 27 points while Kenny Fields topped the Bruins with 26 before fouling out with 3:49 to play in the third overtime.

The Huskies had opportunities to win the game in regulation and the second overtime, as they ran down the clock on both occasions but failed to get a high-percentage shot.

In the third overtime, Washington grabbed a quick six-point lead. Damon hit an 18-footer from the left corner and sophomore forward Paul Fortier added a lay-in and free throw before Schrempf sank one of two free throws for a 79-73 lead with 3:15 to play.

UCLA never got closer than three the rest of the way.

The lead changed hands 22 times and the score was tied on 11 occasions in regulation play, which ended at 62-62.

Alabama Upsets Kentucky

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Alabama, led by Buck Johnson's 18 points, pressed Kentucky into 23 turnovers and upset the third-ranked basketball Wildcats 69-62 in college basketball Saturday.

"Alabama beat us with the press," Kentucky Coach Joe B. Hall said. "They handled us well with the press, and it certainly was the difference this afternoon."

"I think this is the most intense basketball game I've ever seen Alabama play. It was a great effort," said Alabama Coach Wimp Sanderson, who credited the extra timeouts in the televised game with helping his exhausted team hold on to its lead.

Alabama improved its record to 13-6 overall and 6-4 in the Southeastern Conference. Kentucky fell to 16-3 overall and 7-3 in the league.

In addition to Johnson's 18 points, Alabama got 17 from Bobby Lee Hurt, 12 from Eric Richardson, and 10 from Terry Williams. Kentucky was led by Kenny Walker with 14, while Melvin Turpin and Jim Master had 12 each and Sam Bowie 10.

Alabama shot an ice cold 30.6 percent from the field in the first half, but Kentucky helped the Crimson Tide stay close with 13 turnovers. Kentucky led 32-29 at the half after being on top by as many as 12 points early in the game.

"We started out shooting poorly and playing a zone on defense. When they started turning it over in the first half, we decided we needed to start pressing, which is what we did," said Sanderson, whose team had only six turnovers.

In the second half, Alabama came out storming, taking its biggest lead 52-40 with 12:02 to play when Richardson hit a 20-foot jumper from the left wing. Richardson ended the game with 15 assists — a school record.

Kentucky got hot again late in the game, going on a 16-4 run, including six points by Master, and tying the score at 56-56 with 4:56 to play.

With 2:44 to go, Hurt hit a foul shot to put Alabama ahead 57-56 and the Tide never dropped its lead again, taking a field goal and 10 free throws down the stretch.

Hall said Kentucky's comeback effort late in the game was "destroyed" when Bowie fouled out.

"Alabama is a great team and they should do well the rest of the season. They pounded the boards hard, they defensed us inside well, but their press was the difference, and our turnovers were devastating," Hall said.

Purdue (16).....48
Iowa 46

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Curt Clawson and Jim Rowinski scored key baskets down the stretch and 16th-ranked Purdue, using a delay game for much of the second half, held on to beat Iowa 48-46 in Big Ten Conference college basketball Saturday.

Purdue, winning in Iowa City for the first time since 1977, sent its record to 15-4 overall and 8-1 in the Big Ten, assuring the Boilermakers of remaining at least tied for the conference lead. Iowa, losing its fourth straight game, fell to 9-10 and 2-7.

Purdue went into its slowdown after Andre Banks hit two free throws to cap a run of six straight Iowa points that cut the Boilermakers' lead to 35-32 with 12:51 remaining.

Iowa kept threatening, but Purdue responded with critical baskets in the closing minutes and the Hawkeyes never got closer than the final margin. Clawson hit a short jumper to put Purdue ahead 45-40 with 1:05 remaining and after Michael Payne scored for Iowa, Rowinski got free for a layup to make it 47-42 with 42 seconds left.

Iowa made its final run after Steve Reid hit one of two free throws for a 48-44 Purdue lead with 29 seconds to go. The Hawkeyes' Greg Stokes dropped in a rebound shot with four seconds remaining, but the Boilermakers ran out the clock.

Rowinski led Purdue with 11 points and James Bullock came off the bench to get eight. Reserve Andre Banks topped Iowa with 16 points, Steve Carfino scored 12 and Stokes added 11.

The first half ended on a controversial note after Reid fouled Banks with two seconds remaining and Purdue ahead 30-20. Iowa had been in the one-and-one free throw situation since the 8:20 mark, but the officials gave Iowa the ball out of bounds instead of sending Banks to the line and Carfino misfired on a jump shot at the buzzer.

ECU Swimmers Take Pair From Blue Devils

DURHAM — East Carolina's men's and women's swimming teams each captured victories over Duke University Saturday afternoon.

The Pirates came away with a 65-48 decision, while the Lady Pirates swam to a 70-43 total.

Gregor Wray and Chema Larranaga each won two events for the men. Wray took the 200 individual medley and the 200 butterfly, while Larranaga took the 1,000 and 500 freestyles.

For the Lady Pirates, Cindy Newman, Kaycee Paust and Renee Seech were double winners. Newman won the 200 freestyle and 100 butterfly, while Paust took the 200 individual medley and the 100 backstroke. Seech won both of the diving events.

The men are now 8-3 on the season while the women climb to 8-4. The Pirates return to action on Saturday, Feb. 18 at South Carolina, while the women host to William & Mary the same afternoon.

Blue Demons Escape

CHICAGO (AP) — Kenny Patterson's 10-foot jump shot with three seconds remaining in overtime Saturday lifted undefeated and second-ranked DePaul to a 59-57 college basketball victory over St. John's.

Patterson had put DePaul ahead 57-55 with a pair of clutch free throws with 17 seconds left, but Chris Mullin, who led all scorers with 21 points, tied it for St. John's on a pair of free throws with nine seconds to go.

The victory was the 17th straight for the Blue Demons, while the hard-luck Redmen fell to 12-7 and have now lost six of their last seven games.

Regulation play ended with the score tied at 51-51 and St. John's playing for a final shot, which the Redmen missed.

Patterson finished with 10 points, while Kevin Holmes had 11 for DePaul and Dallas Comegys added 10. Jeff Allen chipped in 15 for St. John's.

DePaul couldn't get untracked in the first half, although the Blue Demons held several leads — including an 8-5 advantage in the early going.

Tyrone Corbin, the team's leading scorer, managed only two free throws in the early going and, with DePaul leading 16-15, Mullin connected for a 17-16 St. John's lead.

With Mullin, Mark Jackson and Allen leading the way, the Redmen opened up a 27-20 halftime lead as DePaul was guilty of 11 turnovers to only two for St. John's.

DePaul came out in the second half and outscored the Redmen 9-2 to climb into a 31-30 lead. But St. John's retaliated with an 11-2 spree, which included seven points by Mullin, to again pull ahead.

With Patterson and Tony Jackson hitting, the Blue Demons finally tied it up 51-51 on a 20-footer by Patterson with 1:28 left in the game.

St. John's played for a final shot and Bill Wennington attempted a layup at the buzzer only to have it blocked by Corbin to force the overtime.

Georgetown (4).....87
Connecticut.....62

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Patrick Ewing scored 23 points, grabbed 15 rebounds and blocked six shots to pace fourth-ranked Georgetown past Connecticut 87-62 Saturday.

With the victory, their sixth straight, the Hoyas moved into a first-place tie in the Big East Conference with idle Syracuse at 8-1. Overall the Hoyas are off to their best start ever at 19-2.

Connecticut, which has lost its last three games, is 11-8 overall and 3-6 in the Big East.

The game marked the fifth straight the Huskies have had to play without their leading scorer, guard Earl Kelley, who remains sidelined with a sprained ankle.

Connecticut was led by sophomore Tim Coles, who scored 18 points.

Joining Ewing in double figures for the Hoyas were Reggie Williams with 14, DHorace Broadnax, 13, and David Wingate,11.

Georgetown, an 81-69 winner over the Huskies earlier this season, took charge six minutes into the game.

After trading baskets with the Huskies for an 11-9 lead, the Hoyas went on a 12-4 spurt to open a 23-13 lead with 8:55 to play in the half.

Huskies Coach Dom Perno called time to settle down his team and the strategy paid quick dividends as UConn scored six straight points.

Alvin Frederick's driving layup off an assist from Karl Hobbs drew Connecticut within 23-19 with 6:53 remaining in the first half. It would be, however, as close as the Huskies would come.

With the 7-foot Ewing controlling the boards and Wingate providing the scoring punch, the Hoyas outscored UConn 16-8 to close out the half with a 39-27 advantage.

Wingate, a sophomore, scored 11 points in the half, including six in the final four minutes as the Hoyas pulled away.

Louisville (17).....93
LaSalle.....88

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lancaster Gordon scored 20 points and Jeff Hall came off the bench to add 19 in leading 17th-ranked Louisville to a hard-fought 93-88 victory over LaSalle in college basketball action Saturday.

The Cardinals, 15-5, trailed 79-74 with six minutes left in the game but rallied to tie the score at 82 on a jump shot by Hall with 4:02 to play.

Hall made a three-point play with 3:17 left to give Louisville an 85-82 edge and the Cardinals never trailed again.

Two free throws by Steve Black of LaSalle, the game's leading scorer with 28 points, closed the lead to 87-86 at the 1:19 mark. But Charles Jones and Gordon answered with two free throws apiece to secure the victory.

LaSalle raced to a 14-4 advantage in the first five minutes of the game and, sparked by Black, led by 10 points on five different occasions during the first half.

The Cardinals came within 47-44 on Milt Wagner's jump shot with just under a minute left in the half, but the LaSalle scored six straight points, four by Albert Butts, to take a 53-44 lead at intermission.

Tulane.....63
Virginia Tech.....61

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — Tulane's Jon Johnson scored 13 points, snared 13 rebounds, recorded five assists and made a key steal in the late going Saturday as the Green Wave scored a 63-61 Metro Conference victory over Virginia Tech's Hokies.

Gary Delph of Tulane, who finished with 14 points, scored the decisive points on two free throws with 18 seconds left after being fouled by Dell Curry of Tech, now 12-7 overall and 5-3 in the conference.

The Hokies then brought the ball downcourt but Keith Colbert's pass was intercepted by Johnson, who was fouled with six seconds to play. He missed the first of a one-and-one free throw situation, but a 20-foot jumper by Tech's Tim Lewis at the buzzer went awry.

Tulane, 12-7, 4-4, was led in scoring by center John Williams with 17. Clyde Eads added 13 for the Green Wave.

Tech, in foul trouble throughout, was led by Curry with 23. Curry hit his first seven shots from the floor to start the game and finished the first half with 14. Bobby Beecher, with 14, was the only other Tech player in double figures.

Sheehan Leads Arden

NORTH MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Patty Sheehan birdied the final two holes for a 3-under-par 69 Saturday and a two-shot lead after three rounds of the $175,000 Elizabeth Arden Classic at the Turnberry Isle Country Club.

Sheehan, who with Sally Little of South Africa shared the second-round lead in the Ladies Professional Golf event, had a three-round total 8-under-par 208.

Anne-Marie Palli of France entered Saturday's play three shots off the pace, but carded a 4-under-par 68 for a 210 total and sole possession of second place.

Rookie Sherri Turner — who set a course record on the front nine with a 31 — was in third place after firing a 5-under 67 for 211.

Cathy Mant and Pat Bradley were tied at 212 for fourth, while six players — including JoAnne Carner and Beth Daniel — were deadlocked for fifth at 213.

Sheehan, the 1983 Player of the Year, birdied the first two holes of the day and at times was tied for the lead by Palli and Turner.

"The wind was a little stronger today," said Sheehan of the 18-22 mph gusts. "When you know how strong the wind is, you just step up and hit the ball.

"A lot of times, though, you have to guess. But this week I've been under control," said Sheehan, 27.

The leader remained confident going into Sunday's deciding round over the par-72, 6,-092-yard course.

"I usually handle it well with a good final round. But I really don't know what to think. I'm playing so well now so early. I don't usually start playing well until May," said Sheehan, who had five birdies and two bogeys Saturday.

Palli, who credits new contact lenses purchased Friday with improving her putting game, had five birdies — including one of 35 feet on the second hole — to go with one bogey.

"I'm half surprised with my round," said Palli. "But I played pretty well last year and won one tourney."

Vikes Take Second In Coastal Tourney

HOLLYWOOD — Although four D.H. Conley wrestlers won first place in their wieght class, the Vikings came in second behind West Carteret in the Coastal 3-A Conference Tournament Saturday.

West Carteret posted 163½ points, Conley 159, Havelock 154, White Oak 53 and West Craven 11 in the tourney.

Heavyweight Stacy McCarter continued to dominate that class, as he drew a bye in the seminfinals and pinned West Carteret's L. Glancy in just 52 seconds.

Reginald Moore pinned Richard Riggs of West Carteret for the 115 pound championship, and Kerry Farris decisioned Havelock's Chuck Anderson 11-2 for the 122 title.

Shawn Hardy decisioned Jeff Peay of Havelock 13-4 for the 141 championship.

"Any one of the top three teams could have won it, though West Carteret was a slight favorite," Conley Coach Milt Sherman said. "We had several good matches throughout the day, but we weren't consistent enough to win the championship."

Moore moved into fourth place and McCarter took over 10th on the all-time Conley top ten scoring list.

The sectional tournament will be held February 10-11 at Conley.

Irwin Concentrates For Round Of 68

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Hale Irwin contrived a hard-won 68 despite the distractions of a merry-making group he called "Dirty Harry's crowd," and moved into a two-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the 43rd Bing Crosby National Pro-Am.

"That's the most people I've ever seen on this golf course. It had to be a record," said Irwin, a two-time U.S. Open champion who seemed little short of amazed at the size of the gallery that scurried through the pines and cypress, and romped along the cliffs and crags overlooking Carmel Bay.

They were lured by the third consecutive day of what Irwin called "fantastic weather" that graced the spectacular beauty of the picturesque Monterey Peninsula and the chance to see major show-business celebrities in something other than their natural habitat.

Actor Clint Eastwood, who has portrayed the character "Dirty Harry" in several films, played in the same foursome with Irwin at Pebble Beach.

"The gallery could be a little boisterous," Irwin said. "It can be disconcerting. The difficult thing was keeping your concentration and getting through Dirty Harry's crowd."

When he eventually worked his way through the party-time atmosphere around the 18th green, Irwin had completed one round on each of three courses in 206 — 10 shots under par and firmly in command going into Sunday's final round of the chase for a $72,000 first prize.

And, in that final round, he won't have to worry about Tom Watson, a two-time Crosby champion and the winner of the first event this season. Watson, suddenly unable to find his game, shot a 73 at Pebble Beach, and, with a 221 total, missed the cut for the second week in a row. It was the first time since the spring of 1978 that the four-time Player of the Year had missed two consecutive cuts.

David Edwards, who led through three rounds of this event in 1980 but has yet to take his first individual title, came out of the pack at Cypress Point with a 69, despite a double-bogey, and was second alone at 208.

Hal Sutton, the 1983 PGA champion and Player of the Year, birdied his last four holes at Pebble Beach — with Jack Nicklaus and former President Gerald Ford in his foursome — for a 71 that put him in a tie for third at 210 — four shots behind — with Fred Couples, Mark O'Meara and Canadian Jim Nelford.

O'Meara had a 68 at Spyglass Hill, Couples 69 and Nelford 70 at Cypress Point.

Nicklaus, playing in his first tournament of the year, recorded his first sub-par round, a 71, and was at level par, 216.

The former President, who sent a female spectator to the hospital for stitches after he'd sliced a shot into the crowd on Friday, scattered the gallery a couple of times Saturday, but no damage was reported. Ford, with a 17-handicap, helped Nicklaus four strokes, but their team total of 207 was not good enough to make the cut for the final round.

Rookie Willie Wood and John Adams, who shared the second-round lead, encountered various difficulties at tough Spyglass and drifted back. Wood had a 74 and was at 211. Adams shot 76-213.

Irwin, winner of 15 tour titles, moved into a share of the lead with a couple of birdies on the front side, then pulled away from the pack with 15-footers for birdies on the two back-nine par-5 holes, the 15th and 18th.

Pirates Down Mason...

hoop on several occasions and scoring 14 points in the process.

"Tony was thinking back on the last Mason game, where he probably had one of his worst performances," Harrison said. "Again, a lot of seniors might have quite under the pressure he's been under, but he's got a lot of pride. This might be the worst team — recordwise — he's been on, but I could tell at noon practice today that we were ready to play.

"If we come ready to play like this and keep learning, then the cards may just fall our way at the end."

Harrison was happy to see Smith come into the game and play well, scoring 13 points, including five of seven from the field. He also had six rebounds. "We kind of threw Roy to the dogs early, but we had to. Derrick (Battle) has been out there go-from the start. William (Grady) came along slowly and we've been able to bring Keith and Leon (Bass) along more slowly. Roy has been practicing well lately and earned his chance and he came through."

Harrison said the Pirates made some adjustments against the Mason press, but that is wasn't anything new. Instead it was things that had been coming along slowly.

The play of Smith on the boards, along with Sledge, who led the way with eight, and Battle, with seven, enabled the Pirates to hold a 38-25 edge over Mason in that department.

Early on, it appeared East Carolina might be going to blow the Patriots away, streaking out to a 14-point lead in the first ten minutes of play. Grady scored six points along the way as the Pirates too a 22-8 lead with 11:38 to go in the half. Bass, Sledge, Robinson and Battle each scored four in the string.

But the experince of the Patriots finally began to show and Mason crept back, cutting it to 24-14 on a jumper by Rob Rose, and finally to two at 26-24, when Yates hit two free throws.

John Niehoff finally tied it at 28-28 with a jumper with 3:05 left, and Vincent McQueen gave Mason the lead at 30-28.

East Carolina tied it up twice, the last time at 32-32 with 1:19 left on a jumper by Smith. Smith then scored on a layup with 37 seconds left to give the Pirates a 34-32 halftime edge. Both teams had chances to score again before the half ended, but both failed.

Robinson put the Pirates up by four at the start of the half, but Mason tied it up at 36-36 and then took the lead on Wilson's layup with 17:18 to go. McQueen hit two free throws for a four-point lead and later Yates hit the second of two free throws for a 43-38 lead, Mason's biggest.

ECU fought back, however, and kept it close, tying it on five occasions before moving back ahead at 55-53 on a pair of free throws by Sledge at 8:18. It was tied twice more before Ricky Dillard scored a three-point play to put Mason up by one, 64-63, with 3:39 to go.

Robinson tied it up on the foul line, and then Smith hit three of four in a minute span to up the lead to three. Wilson cut it back to one with 26 seconds left, then fouled Smith again. He missed, but ECU got the rebound and Grady was fouled ten seconds later, hitting the first for a two-point lead.

Wilson then made his two with 13 seconds to go, knotting it, and Sledge won it with his jumper for the Pirates.

Yates, who was only five of 17 from the floor, finished with 23, hitting 13 of 16 at the stripe. Niehoff added 12 and Wilson and Rose each had ten.

The loss drops Mason to 15-4 overall and 3-3 in the league. ECU is now 4-14 overall and 1-5 in conference play.

The Pirates travel to Illinois on Monday and Wednesday for games at Eastern and Western Illinois, respectively. They return home next Saturday night, hosting William & Mary in another ECAC-South game.

Duke Free Throws Topple Virginia

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Duke took 33 foul shots in the second half to Virginia's two trips in the Blue Devils 67-64 victory Saturday — and how did Cavalier coach Terry Holland feel about that?

"I think you can answer that for yourself," Holland said.

Virginia committed 11 of those fouls in the last six minutes in an effort to pull back into what could have been a runaway.

"I thought we had a chance if we got Duke to miss a few one-and-ones," Holland said. "But it's a lot easier to hit them with an 8-point lead."

Duke did miss a few of those chances, hitting 10 of 16 opportunities at the free-throw line in the last 2:30. But as time wound down, the Blue Devils hit enough of their attempts to give them breathing room.

"I thought our free throwing was important," Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski said. "We hit some big free throws all along."

Johnny Dawkins scored 19 points, including 5 at the free-throw line in the last five minutes, to help Duke preserve its fourth Atlantic Coast Conference basketball victory.

Duke appeared to have the game in hand in the final three minutes. The Blue Devils took their largest lead of 11 points with 2:34 left on two Dawkins free throws.

Knights Rip Injured Rampants

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

RED OAK — Northern Nash, taking advantage of the absence of Mac Walston in the Rose High School lineup, gained revenge for an earlier loss as the Knights trampled the Rampants, 71-52, Friday night.

Walston, injured late in the Tuesday game against Kinston, did not dress and Coach Jim Brewington said that there is a possibility that he may not play again this year.

"He hurt his knee and at first they wanted to operate, but decided to wait. He might miss a week, and he might miss the rest of the season. It's just one of those things that we'll have to wait and see on."

It made a difference.

Walston, the second leading scorer for the Rampants with a 14.7 average, watched as no one took up the slack for him. Only Carlton Wilson scored in double figures for Rose in the contest which saw the Rampants icy cold from the floor and Northern Nash red hot.

The Lady Knights also gained revenge for one of only two Big East defeats they've had, downing the Rampettes, 60-43.

"We just couldn't seem to get in sync," Brewington said. "We were out of sync all night long. Northern played well, and I guess we did the best we could under the circumstances. We had to play a lot of young kids in there tonight, trying to get them experience without Mac. It's tough to have to play without him having been with him all year. There's no doubt that he means a lot to our hopes. Carlton did a good job, but you can't play a team like Northern when you're not at full strength and hope to win."

The Rampants, who made only 16 of 53 shots from the floor — a cold 30.2 percent, couldn't hope to win with those stats. Northern, which canned 30 of 50 — a brisk 60.0 percent, also controlled the boards, outrebounding the Rampants, 41-32.

Rose never led in the game, but did tie it up three times in the early going before Mark Richardson and Dennis Williams hit to make it 10-6 with 4:27 to go in the first period. After that, it was a steady pull away for the Knights to as much as a 24-point bulge.

Rose trailed by 18-10 after the first period, and fell behind by 13 in the first two plus minutes of the second frame. That lead came at 26-13 on a jumper by Gerald Sumter with 5:28 to go. Before the period ended, the Knights expanded that to as much as 15 on a three-point play by Richardson and a free throw by David Brody at 32-17. Rose did manage to cut it back to 32-21 by halftime, however.

During the final three minutes of the third period, Northern again pulled away, outscoring Rose, 13-2, to run the lead out to 23 at 56-33. It reached its apex at 58-34 early in the final period. Rose, behind five points by Jeff Hopkins, made a brief run after that, pulling it back to 58-41, but the Knights were never in danger of losing by then.

Brody led the Northern scoring with 15 points while Marvin Macklin and Richardson each had 12. Wilson led Rose with 23 points.

Things went about the same for Rose's girls. They tied it twice early on, only to see Northern pull away to a 12-point lead before the period ended. After a 4-4 deadlock, Carol Edwards hit a baseline jumper and added two free throws for an 8-4 lead. Then, from 10-8, Northern scored ten straight points and that was the nail that sealed the coffin for Rose. Teresa May and Monica Harris each scored four of those ten, making it 20-8. Rose cut it back to 20-12 before the period ended.

The Rampettes scored the first two points of the second quarter, but never got closer than six. Midway through the frame, Northern ran off eight in a row to up the lead to 32-19, and held 38-24 halftime advantage.

Northern expanded the lead to as much as 15 in the third period and pushed out by 19 in the final period at 53-34, scoring 11 straight unanswered points over the change of quarters. The high point finally came at 57-37 with 2:51 left on a basket by Barbara Pittman.

Rose was hampered when Doris Richardson, the leading scorer for the Rampettes, picked up three fouls in the first period and sat out much of the game. "We got into foul trouble early and that killed us," Coach Dennis Gibson said. "They were hot from the floor too. We changed from the zone to man and they killed us in that. We were able to have a little success when we went to the trap, but then the turnover started."

Harris finished the game with 20 points for Northern, while May had 12 and Edwards had 10. Sheila Carmon paced Rose with 13, while Richardson scored ten in the second half to finish with 12 and Niansa Outlaw had 10.

The Rose boys fall to 3-5 in the Big East with the loss, and are 8-8 overall. The girls dip to 3-5, 3-13. Northern's boys are now 4-4, 9-7, while the girls are 6-2, 10-6.

Rose plays host to Rocky Mount on Tuesday.

Driving Inside

North Pitt forward Levon Shaw drives around a Greene Central defender during the second quarter Friday night. North Pitt Survives Greene Central

By JIMMY DuPREE
Reflector Sports Writer

BETHEL — It took four overtimes, but North Pitt's Levon Shaw drove in for a layup with one second on the clock after a Lenny Langley defensive rebound to lift the Panthers to a 45-43 marathon win over Greene Central Friday in Eastern Carolina 3-A high school basketball action.

The ending of the girls game was no less dramatic as a 15-foot jumper by Cyndi Hicks with 22 seconds remaining gave the Lady Rams their only lead of the second half, and North Pitt missed a trio of shots inside as Greene Central emerged with a 46-45 win.

"We did not play a very good basketball game tonight," Lady Rams Coach Brenda Dail said. "We played well enough to lose, but we pulled it out somehow."

Linwood Harris and Paul Streeter led the Panthers with 12 points each, while Gentry Sneed returned to action after missing three games with a fractured jaw and bucketed eight.

Anthony Thompson and Theodore Edwards dominated play inside, especially early in the contest, and finished the night with 13 and 12 points, respectively. Maurice Edwards fired in 10 points from outside for the Rams.

Thompson pulled down 11 rebounds and Edwards 10 for Greene Central while Harris controlled 11 for North Pitt, which held a slim 29-27 edge in that category.

But the game was decided at the free throw line, as both teams connected on 20 field goals. North Pitt capitalized on all five trips to the line, while Greene Central managed to hit on just three of eight.

"That was a big win for us," North Pitt Coach Cobby Deans said. "I hope it'll help pick us up. On the last two shots we got in overtime, we were supposed to get the ball inside.

"This is the first time we've played a physical team the way we played against Greene Central tonight, and I felt like we held our own pretty well. Gentry Sneed coming back gave us a little of a boost, and I thought Paul Streeter and Levon Shaw played a heck of a ballgame."

After leading by just a point at halftime, Greene Central erupted in the third quarter to take a 33-25 advantage. But Harris connected on a 20-footer, then sank a follow-shot to trim the margin to 33-29 with 5:43 left in the period.

Edwards muscled free inside for a Greene Central field goal, and Keith Clark responded for the Panthers. After Otis Barnes drove down an open channel on the left side of the lane to put the Rams ahead by six, Streeter scored twice for North Pitt to trim the margin to 37-35 with 2:48 left in the period.

Sneed pulled down a rebound and Harris completed the fast break to knot the score at 37-37 with 1:44 left.

Greene Central held the ball and called timeout with eight seconds on the clock. North Pitt stole the ball on the inbound play, but Edwards intercepted a pass as time ran out in regulation.

Maurice Edwards dropped in a field goal with 21 seconds elapsed in

RINGGOLD TOWERS
At The Campus•East Carolina University

We're building a special place for East Carolina University students to live — next to campus in their own private, secure, air-conditioned condominium units. Surrounded on three sides by ECU property, Ringgold Towers is closer to classrooms than some on-campus dormitories. Downtown Greenville is one block away.

Three floorplans are available, and units are completely furnished. Each unit will be individually owned either by students and their parents or by investors renting to students.

Recent changes in tax laws make ownership of this type property advantageous for both investors and parents of students. We have full information on these units including a CPA's forecasted statement of operations. We'd like to show you how Ringgold Towers can provide a special place for ECU students to live and provide you with an excellent investment requiring very little down payment.

Creswell Tops Bullets

CRESWELL — Creswell's Tobacco Belt Conference leading boys pulled away from Jamesville in the final period to take a 63-47 win over the Bullets Friday night, remaining a half-game up on Chocowinity.

Creswell's girls pulled off a 40-25 upset of the Lady Bullets in their game, leaving the possibility for a playoff game to make the conference tournament a possibility for the two.

Jamesville's girls are currently 2-11 in the league while Creswell is 2-10. Should neither gain an advantage the rest of the way, and since they split their two meetings, a one-game playoff would be needed at the end of the regular season to decide which team will advance into the league tournament — and play the league champ in the first round.

Jamesville's boys found themselves ahead, 14-13, after one period, but they couldn't hold onto the league. Creswell came back and forged a 31-24 lead during the second period.

The Bullets crept back during the third period and trailed only 41-38 going into the final quarter. But Creswell pulled away in that, outscoring the Bullets, 22-9, to win going away.

Darrell Mercer led the Creswell scoring with 23 points while Danny Moore had 13 and Ezroe Webb had 12.

Jamesville was led by Tracy Peele with 21, while Robbie Harris had 13 and Richie Ange had 10.

The Bullets are now 5-8 in the league and 5-9 overall. Creswell is 10-2, 13-5.

Creswell's girls took an 11-6 lead after one period and never looked back at Jamesville. They upped their lead to 22-8 by the end of the half. Jamesville rallied to trail by only 33-22 in the third period, but couldn't put on enough of a rally to catch up.

Cassandra Davenport and Sidney Leigh led Creswell with 13 points each. No one scored in double figures for Jamesville.

Jamesville entertains Cape Hatteras on Tuesday.

Hatteras Rally Downs Bears

CAPE HATTERAS — Cape Hatteras outscored Bear Grass 12-4 in the third period to erase a three-point halftime deficit and went on to take a 47-35 victory Friday in high school basketball action.

The Lady Bears posted a 47-33 victory, as Laurie Cowan posted 14 points and Amy Lilley 13. Wilhelmina Midgette paced Cape Hatteras with 11 points.

Lonnie Woods canned 11 field goals and finished the night as the only Hatteras player in double-digits with 28 points. Lawrence Watson led the Bears with 18 points.

Bear Grass held a 33-30 lead at halftime, but the third-quarter rally by Cape Hatteras put the game out of reach before Hatteras outscored the Bears 15-8 in the final period.

Bear Grass, now 6-10 overall, travel to Belhaven Tuesday for a Tobacco Belt 1-A Conference matchup. The Lady Bears improved their record to 8-9 with the win.

Youth Sport Clinic Set

Jack Hutsler of Kernersville, an authority on athletics and sports activity for young people, will direct an all day "Youth Sport Clinic for Parents and Coaches" Saturday, March 3, at the Jaycee Park Auditorium.

Sponsors of the program are the East Carolina University Division of Continuing Education, the Greenville Parks and Recreation Department, and the North American Youth Sport Institute.

Hutsler, founder of the North American Youth Sports Institute, a national advisor to the Junior Olympic Basketball Program and a consulant to Pop Warner Football, has made a career of telling parents how to put fun and safety in children's sports. The clinic will address these issues.

"My feeling is that sports can be safe and a lot of fun for kids if the grownups will let it be," says Hutsler, who began working with children's sports programs while in high school in Ohio. Later, he received undergraduate, master's and doctoral degrees in physical education and has taught at Penn State-McKeesport, Ohio State, Tennessee-Chattanooga, Wake Forest and UNC-Greensboro.

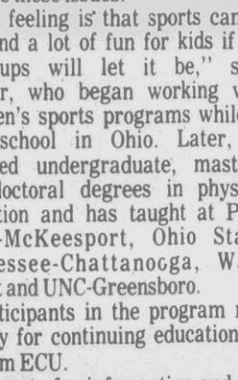

Participants in the program may qualify for continuing education units from ECU.

Requests for information and registration forms should be made to the office of Non-Credit Programs, Division of Continuing Education, East Carolina University, Greenville, N.C. 27834. The phone number is 757-6143.

Registration should be made prior to the beginning of class.

Chargers Upset Firebirds

LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton helped its Eastern Carolina title hopes with a 62-55 upset of Southern Nash Friday night, knocking the Firebirds out of a share of first place in the league standings.

Southern's girls watched Cora Faison's final shot bounce away with three seconds left in their game as the Lady Birds gained a 53-52 win over Ayden-Grifton earlier in the evening.

The win leaves Ayden-Grifton with a 6-3 record, a half game back of Southern and Greene Central, tied at 6-2. SouthWest Edgecombe, a winner over Charles B. Aycock, is a half-game ahead of the pack at 7-2.

Ayden-Grifton eased ahead in the first period, gaining a 12-8 lead in the first eight minutes. They expanded that with a 21-14 margin in the second period, going to the locker rooms up 33-22.

Southern tried to rally in the third period, outscoring the Chargers, 18-12. That cut the lead back to 45-40. But the Chargers held them off, 17-15, in the final period to take the victory.

"We played mighty well," Coach Bob Murphrey said. "(Marvin) Smith, (Doug) Anderson and (Calvin) Peterson — well, all the team — played well. We rebounded well and handled their press well, too. We were ahead just about all the way."

The Chargers made only one field goal in the final period, but cashed in on 15 of 18 free throws during those eight minutes. "They were forced to foul us to try and catch up, and we were successful there," Murphrey said.

Smith led the Ayden-Grifton scoring with 25 points. Peterson added 14 and Anderson had 11. Terry Battle was high for Southern with 20 points, while Kelvin Crudup had 12 and Chris Hawkins had 10.

Ayden-Grifton's girls shot out to a 16-8 lead in the first quarter of their contest, but were unable to hold onto it. Southern rallied, 18-10, in the second period and knotted it at 26-26 at the half.

The Lady Birds then outscored the Lady Chargers, 14-6, in the third quarter, to take a 40-32 lead into the final period. The Chargers rallied in that, finally tying it up at 52-52. But Crystal Murray scored a free throw with 15 seconds left and Faison's try with three seconds to win it fell short.

Barbara Blount and Ellen Lewis each had 14 points for Southern, while Scarlet Jones added 10. Faison scored 26 and Cynthia Hicks had 17 for Ayden-Grifton.

Both the Ayden-Grifton and Southern boys are 12-6 overall. The Southern girls are now 2-6 in the league and 4-14 overall. Ayden-Grifton's girls fall to 3-6, 5-13.

Ayden-Grifton entertains Greene Central on Tuesday.

Roanoke Upsets Bertie, 59-45

ROBERSONVILLE — Roanoke High School stunned Northeastern Conference leader Bertie Friday night with a 59-45 basketball victory. The loss was the first in the league for the Falcons, now 11-1 on the season in Northeast play.

Roanoke's girls also downed Bertie, as Ginya Smith's basket gave them a 59-58 victory.

Roanoke jumped off to a big lead in the first period, pushing out to an 18-9 lead after the first eight minutes. They held off Bertie in the second quarter and took a 32-22 lead into intermission.

The action slowed in the third period, but the Redskins continued to dominate the game, running the lead out to 41-27. Both teams then pushed through 18 points in the final period as the Redskins preserved the upset win.

Garrett Baker led Roanoke with 27 points while Derrick Board added 14 and James Duggins contributed 13. Bertie was paced by Calvin Moore and Calvin Cook, each with 12.

Roanoke's climbs to 6-7 in the league and 6-10 overall while Bertie is now 14-3 overall.

In the girls' contest, Roanoke rode out to a 17-10 lead in the first period, but Bertie trimmed a pair off that to trail by 29-24 at intermission. Bertie rallied further in the third period, pushing into a 40-36 lead. But Roanoke refused to bow, rallying until Smith's shot in the final minute put them ahead for good. Bertie had the chance to regain the lead, but failed.

Gloria Duggins tossed in 36 points in the contest to lead Roanoke, while Cheryl Randolph added 10. Coretta Gilliam had 23, Joyce Holly had 12 and Andrea Gilliam and Kecia White each had 10 for Bertie.

Roanoke's girls are now 6-7 in the conference and 7-9 overall. Bertie drops to 5-7, 6-9.

Roanoke travels to Tarboro on Tuesday.

Early Sprint By Patriots Too Much For Vikings

HOLLYWOOD — West Carteret's league leading Patriots took a 78-60 victory over D.H. Conley Friday night while the Valkyries outlasted the Lady Pats, 68-57, in their game.

West Carteret, now 6-0 in Coastal Conference play, raced out to a 21-8 lead in the first period of the boys' game — and that clinched it. The Vikings were never able to overcome that 13-point lead and suffered for it the rest of the evening. The Vikes matched the Patriots in the second period, 20-20, but still were down, 41-28, at intermission.

Conley was finally able to make a run at the lead in the third period, outscoring the Patriots, 17-10. That cut it back to 51-45. But West Carteret pulled away again in the final period to outscore the Vikings by five and preserve the win.

Donald Johnson led West Carteret with 25 points while Kelly Willis had 16 and David Yancey had 10. Donald Wilson had 19, Louis Bryant had 12 and Darryl Daniels, 10, for Conley.

The loss drops the Vikes to 3-3 in the league and 9-9 overall. West Carteret is 15-3 overall.

West Carteret put four girls in double figures but it wasn't enough to overcome a total of 55 points by Mechio Kornegay and Karen Barrett. Conley held a 17-12 lead after one period and extended that to 35-23 at the half. Conley then outhit the Lady Pats, 24-18, in the third period and gained a 59-41 lead going into the final period. Both scored 19 in that.

"They shot the eyes out of the basket from the outside," a relieved Coach Joy Reddick said afterwards. "It isn't often you'll see a girls' team put four in double figures and lose."

Kornegay led Conley with 35 points while Barrett added 20. Donna Lawrence led West Carteret with 13, while Carmetha Williams had 12, Stephanie Moore had 11 and Cindy Murdak had 10.

The Conley girls are now 4-2 in the league and 15-4 overall. West Carteret falls to 3-3, 8-8.

Conley plays host to White Oak on Tuesday.

OUTDOORS With Joe Albea

Sportfishing School — The annual Harders Island Sportfishing school will be held again this year on each of the five weekends in March. The three day school is tailored to the saltwater fishing enthusiast with emphasis placed on a variety of topics. Practical hands-on instruction will be prvided both in the classroom and aboard fully equipped sportfisherman by professional crews.

Among the addition for this year are expanded sessions in inshore and sound fisheries. This section centers on flounder, trout, drum, blues and mackeral. Also included is a session on marine electronics for fishermen. The basics of Loran navigation, recorder function and marin radio will be discussed.

The cost is $165 per person inclusive with a $65 deposit required to hold your reservations. For further details write Captain Jim Luxton, P.O. Box 488, Harkers Island, N.C. 28531 or call (919) 728-3575 or 728-2672.

Steelhead Are Biting — For you cold weather fishermen, the "steelhead fever" is on in most of the western North Carolina reservoirs.

The fish move up the tributaries of Fontana, James, Nantahala and Santeetlah reservoirs this time of year and offer some fantastic fishing.

Most of the steelhead rivers that run into the reservoirs are classified under native trout regulations. Anglers may keep four trout each day, but only one of them may be longer than 10 inches. As most migrating steelhead are at 18 inches in length, usually only one fish may be taken each day.

Natural bait is outlawed on native streams and only single-hook artificial flies and lures may be used.

The purpose of these stringent regulations is to prevent overharvest of the steelhead.

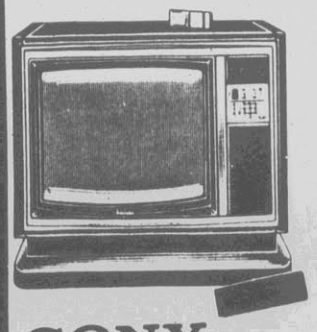

Ultralight tackle is not advised for the novice, and at least six pound monofilament line should be used on spinning reels. To reduce the chance of the fish stripping all the line from fly reels, fly fishermen should use a minimum of 50 yards of backing behind their line. Wet flies and Rapala or Rebel-type lures are productive baits.

1984 World Fish Record Book — The annual updated book of world and state record sport caught freshwater fish will be available to the public and the fishing industry the latter part of April, it was announced by Bob Kutz, director of the National Fishing Hall of Fame — a non-profit organization and fishing museum located in Hayward, Wis.

The 70-page 1984 edition of the annual publication will list world records caught through spring 1984 for over 125 species by all tackle and line class. The latest fish records of all 50 states appear on 16 pages of the book.

The book is sent free to 10,000 hall members and thousands of supporters, media persons, fisheries personnel, tackle manufacturers and angling organizations. Copies are available to the public for $3 to cover postage, packing and handling from the National Fishing Hall of Fame, Box 33, Hall of Fame Drive, Hayward, Wis. 54843.

Heels Rip Furman; Pack Nips Citadel

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
AP Sports Writer

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Although some fans might consider it a break from the Atlantic Coast Conference wars, top-ranked North Carolina's 83-48 college basketball victory over Furman was not a time to let up.

The Tar Heels played as though the ACC title was on the line. They applied constant defensive pressure on the Paladins and forced 29 turonovers. Offensively, Michael Jordan's outside shooting and inside agility netted a game-high 21 points as North Carolina took its 19th straight triumph.

The victory came in the nightcap of the 26th North-South Doubleheaders in Charlotte. In the first game, reigning national champion North Carolina State needed a Russell Pierre free throw to squeeze out a 50-49 victory over The Citadel.

"These teams want to beat us," Jordan said. "So, we just want to play the best we can and improve each game."

Sophomore center Brad Daugherty added 15 points while senior forward Sam Perkins added 14 points. Of the 11 Tar Heels who played, 10 scored at least two points.

"We have an unselfish team. We're not hungry for points or anything like that," Jordan said. "We're like a family team."

Tar Heel coach Dean Smith, closing in his 14th straight season with 20 victories, said it was a combination of senior leadership and tenacious defense that led to the rout.

"Our senior leaders got our team ready to play," Smith said. "Sam Perkins, Cecil Exum and Matt Doherty — we've really gotten great leadership from them.

"We ... didn't let (Furman) sit back and dictate tempo," Smith continued. "It was a great defensive effort."

North Carolina also shot 58.6 percent from the field on 34 of 58 shots. In all, Furman coach Jene Davis said there were too many obstacles to overcome.

"Obviously, North Carolina is a very difficult team for us to play," Davis said. "Their defense hurt us badly. They forced us into a lot of mistakes."

George Singleton scored 12 points to lead Furman, which dropped to 8-11. Shawn Reid added 10 for the Paladins.

Pierre's free throw came with 28 seconds left and was the tail end of a two-shot foul. After Terry Gannon had hit four straight free throws, the Wolfpack missed five of their last six from the line.

"It seems every year I come up here, I say 'Congratulations, coach (Les) Robinson. Your team played well,'" Valvano said. "They came ready to play. They gave us fits.

The Citadel held a 22-16 lead late in the first half, confirming to Robinson that he had convinced his team it could pull off the upset.

"We believed for 40 minutes that we could win. That is important from our standpoint, being a military school and having been picked to finish no better than eighth in (the Southern) conference," Robinson said. "This is definitely one of the best games we have played this year, although we have played better at home."

Aycock Tops Nash Central

E.B. Aycock Junior High School gained revenge for one of its two losses in basketball Friday night, downing Nash Central, 69-58.

Terry Warren led the Aycock scoring with 19 points while Melvin Jenkins added 18 and David Lee hit 12.

The Aycock girls remained unbeaten with a 46-40 win over Nash Central in their half of the doubleheader. Kim Dupree led Aycock with 16 points while Kim Bridges had 13.

Aycock's boys are now 6-2 on the year, while the girls are 6-0. The Jaguars travel to Rocky Mount on Tuesday.

Moore, Ross Lead Indians

CHOCOWINITY — Terry Moore and Reggie Ross scored 43 points between them and led Chocowinity to a 75-50 romp over Aurora Friday night in Tobacco Belt basketball action.

The Chocowinity girls rolled to a 53-38 win in their game.

Moore led the Indians with 22 points while Ross had 21.

Aurora hung tough for a while, however, staying even with the Tribe through the first period, 8-8. In the second frame though, Chocowinity's press began to create layup baskets and the Tribe scored the final 12 points of the half in a 22-12 period to take a 30-20 halftime lead. Ross scored eight of those 12 points.

In the third quarter, the Indians ran the lead out to 49-33. Moore scored the first eight points of the final period to give the Tribe a 24-point lead and they held as much as a 32-point bulge during the frame.

Mark Smith contributed 10 more points to the Chocowinity totals. Danny Ephriam led Aurora with 21 points.

The victory boosts the Tribe record to 10-3 in the league, a half-game behind front-running Creswell, 10-2. The Indians are 11-7 overall. Aurora is 6-7 in the league and 8-8 overall.

Chocowinity raced to a 23-6 lead in the first period of the girls' game and were in no danger after that. They led 31-20 at the half and took a 42-26 lead into the final quarter.

Rhonda Mizelle and Zina Warren each had 16 and Wendy Elks had 12 for Chocowinity. Bernadette Simpson led Aurora with 17, while Leddie Smith added 10.

The Chocowinity girls are now 11-2 in the league, a game behind Belhaven. The Lady Tribe is 13-3 overall. Aurora drops to 7-6, 10-6.

Chocowinity plays at Bath on Tuesday.

Pam Pack Sweeps Ahoskie Cagers

WASHINGTON — Washington High School swept a pair of Northeastern Conference basketball games from Ahoskie Friday night as the Pam Pack continued to flex its mucles. The boys won, 80-63, while the girls took a 41-35 decision.

The Pam Pack ran out to a 17-9 lead in the first period of the boys' game and increased the margin to 36-27 during the second quarter. Washington upped that to 57-30 during the third frame and matched points with Ahoskie the final eight minutes.

Steve Austin led Washington with 15 points while Jeff Cox and Adrian Dudley each scored 14. White led Ahoskie with 17 while Stanley added 12.

The win boosted the Washington record to 7-5 in the conference and 9-9 overall. Ahoskie falls to 4-9, 6-11.

Washington doubled the score on Ahoskie in the first period of the girls' game, 10-5, but was outscored 8-7, in the second frame. That left Washington up, 17-13 at the half. The Pack broke it open in the third period, however, racing out to a 32-17 lead going into the final period. Ahoskie tried to rally, outscoring Washington 18-9, but it fell short.

Gloria Sherrod and Yvette Moore each scored 13 points for Washington, while Anita Harrell had 18 to pace Ahoskie.

Washington is now 4-8 in the conference and 6-10 overall. Ahoskie is 7-6, 7-8.

Washington travels to Bertie on Tuesday.

Moon Ready To Sign With Houston Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — His name is not on the dotted line yet, but free agent quarterback Warren Moon has decided to cast his lot with the woeful Houston Oilers.

Moon, the Most Valuable Player last season in the Canadian Football League, told Oiler officials through his attorney, Leigh Steinberg Friday night, that he would play for the Oilers next season.

Moon, who led the Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League to five league titles in six seasons and was the first pro quarterback to pass for 5,-000 yards in a season, had also been negotiating with the Seattle Seahawks.

Hugh Campbell, Moon's former coach at Edmonton, was hired by the Oilers recently to be their head coach.

Moon said the fact that he did not make his decision on whether to go to Houston or Seattle until Friday night demonstrated that the Oilers' selection of Campbell, head coach of the Los Angeles Express of the United States Football League last season, and his decision was not a package deal.

the first overtime, and the Panthers held the ball till Clark tied the score with 51 seconds left. Theodore Edwards fouled Sneed with two seconds remaining after a steal, but it was just the fourth team foul against Greene Central.

The Panthers took too much time trying to put the ball in play, and the Rams had yet another chance — slim as it was — to pull out a win. Theodore Edwards fired the ball at the goal from midcourt, but the effort fell harmlessly short.

Theodore Edwards picked up his fourth foul with 1:08 left in the second overtime, and Streeter calmly sank both free throws to put the Panthers ahead 41-39.

It appeared the game might end with that score when Thompson missed on a baseline drive, but he redeemed himself with a steal on the other end. Boneree Johnson drove towards the goal, and he slipped as the tried to stop but flipped in a field goal on the way down to send the game to its third overtime deadlocked 41-41.

Thompson missed a pair of free throws with 2:35 left in the third overtime and Shaw cleared the rebound on the second shot. Neither team scored in the three minutes, and the game lingered on.

Harris swished a pair of free throw 17 seconds into the final overtime, but Barnes again drove inside to knot the score 43-43 with 2:19 remaining. Streeter missed a turnaround shot with 30 on the clock, and Theodore Edwards grabbed the rebound to set up the final chain of events.

"We didn't get the ball inside the way we were supposed to in the overtime periods," Greene Central Coach Lewis Godwin said. "We just didn't take advantage of what we had been doing early; we relaxed too much."

The loss drops the Rams out of the lead of the Eastern Carolina Conference, as SouthWest Edgecombe carries a 7-2 league mark while Greene Central is 6-2 — tied with Southern Nash for second. North Pitt improved its league record to 4-5 with the win.

The Lady Rams exhibited the qualities of "winning ugly" in their contest, as they trailed by as much as 13 in the fourth quarter.

Antionette Wilkes fired in 20 points for Greene Central, while Hicks posted nine on the night. Deloris Pittman pumped in 15 for the Pant-HERS, as Alice Pittman added 10.

A layup by Allison Battle with 10 seconds left in the third quarter trimmed North Pitt lead to 37-28. But the Pant-HERS got four points out of Deloris Pittman on the front end of a pair of one-and-one trips to the free throw line and a field goal to spread the margin to 41-28 with 6:18 remaining.

That's when the Lady Rams finally came alive, as Wilkes drove inside and Melodie Bowen connected on a follow shot before Hicks posted a field goal and a pair of free throws to cut the gap to 41-36 with 4:09 on the clock.

Another drive inside by Wilkes trimmed the margin to three, but Deloris Pittman put in a follow-shot to set the score at 43-38 with 2:24 left.

Cynthia Jones scored inside after a five-second violation on an inbound play by the Pant-HERS to bring the Lady Rams to within three again. Another five-second violation by North Pitt set up a pair of free throws by Wilkes to cut the lead to 43-42 with 1:31 to be played.

Battle attempted to steal the ball from Sherry Bradley but committed a foul. Bradley swished the free throws to give the Pant-HERS a 45-42 lead with 1:27 left.

Wilkes powered her way inside to cut the lead to one with 46 seconds showing on the clock.

"We just didn't play in the other three periods," Dail said. "We didn't have a game Tuesday, and I think that had a little to do with the way we played."

The victory leaves the Lady Rams alone in second place with a 7-1 record in the conference, while SouthWest Edgecombe leads the league with an unblemished 9-0 mark. North Pitt slipped to 5-4 for third place in the conference.

Greene Central travels to Ayden-Grifton Tuesday night, while North Pitt hosts Farmville Central.

No. 10270 — The Weymouth

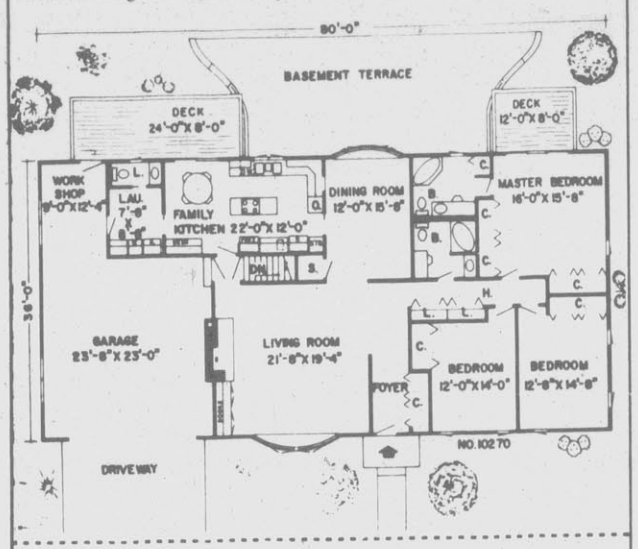

Elegant Design Suits Sloping Lot

By Jerry Bishop

Detailed luxury is the keynote of the Weymouth, a one story traditional designed for a backsloping lot. With features such as the well-designed family kitchen, workshop, and master bedroom deck, the plan shows an attention to detail that results in maximum livability.

The exterior is marked by a hipped roof and bay window, with the design calling for a sloping lot so that the rear decks and walk-out basement are possible. Since the major living and work areas are found on the main level, the basement can be reserved for recreational use and finished as time and budget permit.

New Sheet Collection Setting Trend

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

The sheet industry shows new spring lines to retailers in November. But Ralph Lauren's second collection for J.P. Stevens was introduced to the trade in January.

The motto for the industry often appears to be "off with the old and on with the new" as many of last season's domestics are discontinued to make room for a new set of designs. But the new Lauren domestics and related products build on themes introduced in his first collection, on sale since late fall.

The industry generally waits to see if a designer collection is going to be a success before investing in it. But Stevens set up a special marketing subsidiary with its own staff and quarters to handle the Lauren collection before the first washcloth was ready for production.

If you get the idea that the Lauren collection breaks new ground in the planning and marketing of home furnishings, you are right. The gamble has paid off, according to Dan Finley, general manager of the Lauren Home Furnishings subsidiary of Stevens. The first collection is in 30 of the nation's top department stores, and selling well at retail, he said.

One of the more unusual aspects of the first Lauren collection was the large number of separate items in it — 2,500 stock-keeping units, or SKU's in industry jargon.

"We expect to have 2,500 SKU's all the time," said Finley. The new collection, however, will not entirely supplant the old. Instead, many of the more wintry items will be out of production, so spring and summer designs being introduced now can be made.

Then as fall succeeds summer, the winter things will come back into production, Finley said.

The home furnishings designed by Lauren encompass everything for the home except furniture. Originally, Lauren was planning to include furniture, but none has been produced and it may never be, he said.

Besides bedding, towels and bath accessories, there are fabrics by the yard, wallpaper, dinnerware, flatware, glasses, kitchenware and a variety of home accessories. Many of the products are made by manufacturers other than Stevens, under license.

The designer has applied the same philosophy to home furnishings that has served him in apparel. He prefers to design classic clothes firmly based on traditional themes.

For example, he says he virtually reinvented the American West with rough outerwear, jeans and country plaids. Other themes he has made use of include small town 19th-century life on the eastern seaboard — or our idea of it — as well as Victorian opulence and English gentility.

The same themes are evident in his five new home furnishings collections. Each one has a full complement of home products — enough to create a special ambience in the home, according to Lauren.

There is "Cottage," a summery interpretation of a vanished 19th-century life with its dainty embroideries, blue and white color scheme and natural fiber cottons and linens.

"Mariner" is a mainly red, white and blue collection based on nautical flag designs. Among original ideas in the collection is the use of sweatshirt material as blankets.

"Safari" is a sort of fantasy of 19th-century safari travel, mainly in khaki and olive drab with some prints that recall English chintz.

"Cricket," is Lauren's homage to the English gentleman. The home furnishings — mainly in blue and white — feature motifs from the sports of cricket, golf, tennis and hunting and riding.

"Jamaica" featured some of Lauren's most expensive products when it was introduced last season. For example, an embroidered linen sheet cost $200 or more, depending on size. He has added to "Jamaica" with a series of brilliant tropical colored sheets and towels.

Lauren says this season's home furnishings designs have echoes in his ready-to-wear. He did both Safari and Cottage collections for women.

The designer said that while he had completed only his second home furnishings collection, he was in home furnishings to stay. He said he had set out to "make things I would want to buy myself."

Q. I want to start some vegetable and flower seedlings indoors. I know the soil I sow these in should be sterilized. How do I sterilize it? (F.H., Mount Airy)

A. The soil mix needs to be sterilized to prevent seedlings from being killed by the fungus that causes damping-off disease. Vermiculite is an inexpensive seed-starting medium that is already sterile when purchased. Other commercial mixes may also be sterile. A mix you can prepare yourself consists of equal parts of soil, sand and peat moss. This mix should be sterilized by baking it for one hour at 210 degrees farenheit.

Q. Is Japanese andromeda hardy in the Raleigh area? (E.T., Raleigh)

A. Japanese Andromeda (Pieris japonica) is hardy throughout North Carolina. Japanese andromeda is an upright evergreen shrub which has pendulous clusters of white flowers in the spring. There is also a variety with dark pink flowers and a variety with varigated leaves.

Q. Can you give me some information about white forsythia? (S.N., Eagle Springs)

A. The white forsythia's botanical name is Abeliophyllum distichum. It is hardy throughout North Carolina. It makes a nice companion plant for yellow forsythia. It is not as dense as yellow forsythia and can get scraggly when it gets old if it is not properly pruned.

Q. What soil is best for American boxwoods? (R.S., King)

A. All boxwoods should be planted in well-drained soils. They sould never be planted near downspouts, under the dripline of a roof or in any area that stays wet. While boxwoods will live in locations that receive full sun, they grow best in semi-shade. Some organic matter wuch as peat moss, leaf compost or pine bark should be worked into the soil. A soil sample should be taken four to six weeks before planting and submitted through your county agent for analysis. Boxwoods grow in soils ranging from slightly acid alkaline (pH 5.5 to pH 7.5). Based on a soil analysis, the proper amount of lime and fertilizer can be added to the area to provide the best requirements for growth.

Nearly 30 percent of the 120 million person work force in Latin America is currently unemployed or underemployed, according to the Inter-American Development Bank. Open unemployment in the region decreased from 6.6 percent to 5.8 percent between 1970 and 1980. However, in 1982 it rose to 7.4 percent, and indications are that it climbed to much higher levels in 1983.

What's new on the market?

THE PRODUCT — A hacksaw for use in close quarters.

Manufacturer's claim — That this hacksaw will accept both hack and reciprocating blades for use on either wood or metal ... that it has a molded plastic handle and a die-cast frame with a tightening screw ... that blades, either broken or whole, slide into the handle and are locked in place with the screw ... that its exposed ends easily reach difficult locations ... and that it is a tool equally good for either do-it-yourselfers or professionals.

THE PRODUCT — A mobile home roof coating.

Manufactuerer's claim — That it is a 100 percent acrylic coating, is highly mildew resistant and is reflective and insulative ... that it is especially good for styrofoam panels, but can be used on black and galvanized steel, aluminum, asbestos shingles and stucco ... that it may be applied with brush, roller or spray ... that it does not have to be thinned and can be cleaned from tools with warm soapy water ... and that it can be used on rusted metal which has been primed.

THE PRODUCT — A lever press for converting newspapers to fuel for use in open fireplaces, stoves and outdoor grills.

Manufacturer's claim — That the press weighs only 7½ pounds and turns out logs that can burn for more than 60 minutes ... that newspaper sheets are dropped into a tub of water and soaked at least overnight or until the paper becomes a pulpy mache ... that a sturdy plastic trash container can be used as the tub ... that the wet pulp is placed in the unit, which squeezes out the water ... and that the logs then are dried and stored for later use.

THE PRODUCT — A heat gun which is lightweight yet delivers 800 degrees of working temperature an inch away from the nozzle.

Manufacturer's claim — That this gun weighs only 1¾ pounds ... that it can be used for curing adhesives, de-soldering electric connections, drying motors and controls, thawing frozen lines, setting caulks, softening tiles, etc. ... that it has a standard nozzle of ¾ths of an inch and two smaller accessory nozzles ... and that it has a special high-temperature resistant housing and handles with no asbestos insulation.

THE PRODUCT — A pipe thermometer.

Manufacturer's claim — That this thermometer snaps onto pipes and tubing of water heaters, solar collectors and woodstove hot-water systems and reads the fluid temperatures inside copper, plastic and galvanized pipes from 50 degrees to 250 degrees Fahrenheit ... that it attaches quickly and easily with spring steel clips ... that, after the attachment, the water tap is turned on and an accurate reading can be obtained in about 3 or 4 minutes ... that it can be used to verify the proper functioning of a swimming pool heater and the water temperature of a clothes washing machine.

Here's the Answer

Q. — Our house is nearly paid off. I understand we can get a large loan by using the house as collateral. What can you tell me about such a loan?

A. — If the house is being used as collateral, you actually are giving the bank or lending company a second mortgage on it. In such cases, you usually can get a loan of between 50 and 70 percent of the equity you have in the house, with the amount depending on a number of credit factors.

Q. — I have been told that keeping a box of baking soda in the refrigerator is a good idea, but the person who told me did not know exactly why. Can you tell me? Also, please advise me if this is safe.

A. — Baking soda is used for the purpose stated because it is an absorbent and will pick up odors that otherwise might get into the various foods. It is safe.

Q. — We have some fairly expensive art prints. A couple of them look as though they need cleaning. What should we use?

A. — You did not say whether the prints are protected by glass, but the wording of your letter ceems to imply they are not. There are three places to go for advice to be sure the prints do not get damaged. One is your local art supply store. Better yet, ask somebody at an art museum or art gallery. Advice from here would not be precise because a lot depends on the kind of prints they are and the material they are printed on.

Q. — You recently gave someone advice on cleaning the stopper in a bathroom sink. You said the stopper could be lifted out and up, sometimes by turning it just a little. I tried that with our stopper and cannot remove it. What have I done wrong?

A. — Every so often, a stopper will not respond to the recommended method of removal. In that event, look under the sink and locate the bottom of the stopper. There will be a small pin of some kind there. Push or pull it horizontally and it will come out. You can then remove the stopper and clean it. After reinserting it into the drain opening, replace the pin.

Q. — We have had a slate floor put down at the entranceway to our house, just inside the front door. I have heard that slate stains when something is spilled on it. While that is not a very likely possibility, we would like to be sure such staining does not occur. Is there something we can put on the slate to prevent this?

A. — Ask your local hardware dealer, home supply store or home improvement center for a sealer that can be used on slate. Once you seal the slate, anything spilled can be wiped up easily. As in all cases of this nature, the quicker the wiping is done, the better.

Q. — I shellacked a table recently. It seemed all right at first, but now it is gummy. I don't want to make it worse, so I would appreciate advice on how to get off the stickiness. What could have caused this?

A. — Moisten a clean cloth with denatured alcohol and rub the surface lightly. There are a number of reasons for this kind of result, the most likely being the use of shellac that was too old. Shellac you have had more than six months or a year is the likely culprit.

Q. — We have a house that is partly brick, and we want to paint the bricks white. We are thinking about using an oil paint because we have heard it covers better than latex. Is this true?

A. — Generally, oil paint covers better than latex, but not in all circumstances. In this particular case, you should not use oil paint because the alkali in the mortar may attack the paint. Use a latex paint made especially for masonry.

Q. — We want to put a sealer on an exterior house wall made of brick. Any recommendations?

A. — There are colorless water repellents available which will protect the bricks from rain and not change their appearance.

Arrington said Sizemore specializes in designing and marketing computer forms and supplies.

Figures Improved

Winn-Dixie Stores Inc. reported sales for the 16 weeks ended Jan. 11 of $2,204,293,000 compared with $2,154,903,000 for the comparable period a year earlier, an increase of 2.3 percent.

For the 28 weeks ended Jan. 11, the sales total was $3,852,269,000 compared with $3,737,727,000, an increase of 3.1 percent.

Earnings after taxes for the 16-week period were $35,014,000 compared with $32,865,000 last year. Cumulative current year earnings amounted to $54,413,000 compared with $53,638,000 last year.

The firm had 1,224 units in operation on Jan. 11, up from 1,220 in 1983.

Figures Improved

Fieldcrest Mills Inc. announced that fourth quarter and year-end sales were both up 12 percent for 1983. Sales for the quarter reached $163 million with net earnings of $5.5 million.

Sales for 1983 were $550.5 million. Net income was $15.1 million compared to $10.4 million for the previous year.

Fieldcrest said that excluding unusual items, 1982 fourth quarter earnings were $2.5 million.

Income Went Up

NCNB Corp. reported a 21 percent increase in net income for 1983. Net income totaled $92.2 million compared to $76.1 million for 1982.

Net income for the fourth quarter was $23.9 million, up 7 percent from the $22.5 million in the fourth quarter a year earlier.

NCNB said TranSouth Financial Corp., its consumer finance subsidiary, also contributed record earnings to the consolidated net income total. TranSouth's earnings rose 80 percent to $10 million in 1983.

Appointment Made

Jerry N. Creech, president of Carolina Microfilm and Mailing Services Inc. in Greenville, announced that Doug Mewborn has been appointed operations manager for the firm.

Mewborn, a long time resident of Greenville, resides with his daughter, Tiffany, at Fletcher Place.

Realtor Honored

Jack Duffus of Greenville was one of five Realtors honored by the North Carolina Association of Realtors recently as a recipient of the 1983 NCAR Regional Service Award. The five Realtors are among the more than 9,500 members of the association.

The awards are presented annually by the NCAR to honor Realtors for service to their profession, their board of Realtors, their community and the association. Only one recipient can be honored annually in each of NCAR's 10 regions.

NCNB Dividend

The board of directors of NCNB Corp. declared a regular quarterly dividend of 28 cents per share payable March 23 to sharholders of record March 15.

The corporation is the largest bank holding company in the Southeast with assets of $12.8 billion. Its major subsidiaries are NCNB National Bank of Florida and NCNB National Bank of North Carolina.

Net Income Up

Peoples Bancorp. reported net income of $4.823 million for the year ended Dec. 31 compared to $4.729 million for 1982.

For the three months ended Dec. 31, net income was $1.186 million compared to $1.169 million a year earlier.

Assets of the corporation on Dec. 31 totaled $603.9 million, a 27.6 percent increase over $473.1 million reported for 1982.

New Board Member

Harry Hastings, owner of Hastings Ford on East Tenth Street in Greenville, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the board of directors of the Carolina Ford Dealers Advertising Association. Hastings will serve during 1984.

Favorite Store

Belk Stores announced that in an independent survey conducted last September by the Roper Organization asking 2,000 shoppers across the nation to name their favorite department store, Belk stores led the list.

John N. Belk, board chairman of Belk Stores Services Inc. of Charlotte, said the survey indicated Belk outranked such retailing firms as May Co. California, Macy's New York, Famous Barr, Bamberger's, and Macy's California.

In addition, consumers ranked Belk eighth on a list of the top 10 retailers in the country, Belk said. The survey was commissioned by a New York management consultant-marketing company.

Belk/Leggett is a family of more than 350 stores in 16 states in the southeastern United States.

P&G Totals Noted

The Procter & Gamble Co. announced that net earnings for the first six months of the 1983-84 fiscal year amounted to $487 million, an increase of 4 percent over net earnings for the same period a year ago of $467 million. Worldwide net sales were $6,412,000,000, an increase of 3 percent over sales of $6,231,000,000 for the same period a year ago.

For the October-December period, net earnings amounted to $214 million, up 2 percent over $210 million for the same three months a year ago. Worldwide net sales were $3,135,000,000, an increase of 3 percent over sales of $3,030,000,000 a year earlier.

P&G had sales of $12,452,000,000 during fiscal 1982-83.

Attended School

Katherine J. Swindell, owner of Sam's Lock & Key Shoppe in Greenville, and her husband, Gene, attended a wireless alarm school at Central Security Electronics in Statesville.

Ms. Swindell said the firm is now licensed by the state to sell and install wireless burglar alarms.

Index Rose Again

The level of business activity in North Carolina continued to expand in December, according to the Wachovia Business Index which registered 124.1, up 0.3 percent from the revised figure for November.

The rise in the Index resulted from increases in non-agricultural employment and a decline in initial claims for unemployment insurance. New business formations and building permits were down in December.

The increase in non-agricultural employment was supported by gains in both manufacturing and non-manufacturing sectors. Employment was up in furniture, textiles, apparel, construction, government and trade.

The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for the state was 7.9 percent in December, down 0.4 percent from the revised November level.

Cash Dividend

The board of directors of The Black & Decker Manufacturing Co. declared the regular quarterly cash dividend of 13 cents a share, payable on March 23 to stockholders of record on March 9.

Division Manager

Ayden native W. Barry Moore has been appointed manager of the health services division of Kurt Salmon Associates, international management consulting firm in Atlanta, Ga.

A certified management consultant and a certified public accountant, Moore was previously managing partner for consulting operations at Touche Ross in Philadelphia and Atlanta and general manager for a service organization.

A graduate of Georgia Tech with a bachelor's degree in industrial management, he resides with his wife, Carol, and their three children in North Atlanta.

Terminated Talks

Vermont American Corp. announced that negotiations relative to the proposed acquisition of Bayrische Bohrerwerk GmbH, a German manufacturer and distributor of high speed steel and masonry drill bits, have been terminated.

Vermont American, which has a plant in Greenville, manufactures cutting tools, power tool accessories, and hand tools for consumer and industry.

Employees Retire

Union Carbide Corp. announced the retirement of five employees who were honored at the plant recently for their dedication to the company.

Retiring were Mrs. Mary Boyd with 36 years service, John Nabors, 39 years, Mrs. Ruth Kinion, 29 years, Mrs. Elsie Johnston, 28 years, and James Mayo, 11 years.

Purchasing Post

Empire Brushes Inc. announced the promotion of G. Cleveland Elswick to purchasing manager with responsibility for the operation of the brush manufacturer's purchasing department and the acquisition of materials bought in the United States and abroad.

Elswick joined the firm almost eight years ago in the production control department and transferred to purchasing where he gained experience as a buyer and purchasing agent.

He graduated from the University of South Carolina with a degree in business administration. Elswick and his wife, Ruth, live with their daughter in Winterville.

Blue Bell Names Bauman President

GREENSBORO (AP) — Edward J. Bauman, president and chief executive officer of Blue Bell Inc., has been elected chairman of the textile company.

Bauman, who was appointed at a stockholders' meeting, will fill the vacancy left by the retirement of former chairman L. Kimsey Mann, said company spokesman Terry Weatherford.

Blue Bell, which manufactures and distributes Wrangler, Sedgefield and Jantzen clothing and Red Cap industrial uniforms, announced earnings for the first quarter ending Dec. 31 of $4,617,000 — an increase of 15 percent over the same period in 1982.

Sales were $227,018,000, compared with $240,372,000 in the same quarter last year — a 6 percent decline.

Earnings per share were 40 cents for the quarter ending Dec. 31, a 25 percent increase over the prior year quarter earnings of 32 cents per share. Average shares outstanding were less in 1983 than in 1982.

Domestic sales declined 2 percent for the quarter. International sales declined 22 percent from the prior year first quarter, about one-half of which was due to the strenghtening of the U.S. dollar against most foreign currencies, Weatherford said.

Dollar May Cue Stocks' Future

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street analysts are watching the dollar closely in foreign-exchange markets for possible cues to the future course of stock prices.

Over the last four years the dollar has put on an impressive show of strength, reaching record highs as recently as last month against leading foreign currencies.

In many ways, of course, this performance has been a pleasant change from the dollar's woes in the 1970s, when it got so weak that some analysts feared its days as a world standard were numbered. But as the dollar's recovery progressed, economists say, it became too much of a good thing for many important participants in the U.S. economy.

To be sure, it helped reduce inflation by pushing down prices of imported goods for domestic consumers. But at the same time, those attractively priced imports represented stiffer and stiffer competition for merchandise produced by companies in this country.

And by raising the price tag on American goods in foreign markets, it hurt sales of many American companies that do a significant portion of their business overseas.

In 1983, the United States had a record $69.4 billion trade deficit.

"The drop in U.S. net exports resulted partly from the earlier and stronger recovery in the United States as compared to that of our major trading partners," economists at the investment firm of Goldman, Sachs & Co. observed in a recent report.

"That is, U.S. demand for imports picked up sooner and by more than foreign demand for U.S. exports.

"But market-share analysis suggests that the high foreign exchange-value of the dollar, which makes imports cheap and U.S. exports expensive, is also significantly responsible for the slide in net exports."

Thus, when the dollar took a downward turn in foreign exchange during the past week, it quickly caught the attention of stock traders. A flurry of buying quickly showed up in the stocks of international companies like Merck, Pfizer, Johnson & Johnson and Coca-Cola.

That turned out to be the only bright spot in the stock market's fourth straight declining week. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 32.97 to 1,197.03, bringing its loss since Jan. 6 to 89.61 points.

The New York Stock Exchange composite index dropped 1.79 to 92.98, and the American Stock Exchange market value index was down 7.19 at 213.34.

Big Board volume averaged 108.83 million shares a day, against 102.67 million the week before.

There was much noisy disagreement over whether the dollar's drop in recent days marked any sort of turning point, or was merely a temporary pause in its long climb.

For months now, brokerage firms and investment advisory services have been producing lists of companies whose stocks might benefit from a turnaround in the dollar. But the currency markets have so far refused to bow to their expectations.

Even when the dollar did begin to decline in recent days, there were many skeptics who said the fundamental forces behind the dollar's strength hadn't changed.

For one thing, they noted, interest rates in this country remain very high in relation to the inflation rate. That acts as a powerful magnet for investment money from other countries.

Committee Role

Robert L. "Bob" Abbott, operator of the Beef Barn Ltd. and Mr. Gatti's restaurants in Greenville, Kinston and Cary, has been reappointed to a full term on the executive committee of the North Carolina Restaurant Association.

In late October, he was appointed to fill three months of an unexpired term. Paul Huey, newly elected president of the association, said Abbott was asked to remain on the board and will be given committee assignments this month.

The NCRA is a non-profit trade association of more than 1,000 independent and multi-unit firms operating over 3,000 restaurants in the state.

Drivers Cited

Food Lion announced at a driver safety awards breakfast in Salisbury that its truck drivers amassed 10.4 million miles of accident-free driving during 1983.

The company said that of the 111 Food Lion drivers operating vehicles out of the Salisbury dry grocery and perishable warehouse, 102 received awards recognizing from one to six years of safe driving.

A spokesman said that while national professional drivers average 13.9 accidents per one million miles of driving, Food Lion has only 4.8 accidents per one million miles.

Hamilton Plant

Cogentrix of North Carolina Inc., which will build plants to generate steam for use by textile firms and electricity that will supplement power produced by the states' utilities, said two companies have indicated they intend to purchase the steam Cogentrix will generate from six plants, including a proposed facility in Hamilton.

George Lewis, president, said the Hamilton plant will be one of three serving West-Point Pepperell in North Carolina. He said construction is expected to begin this spring.

Lewis said a total of 16 plants will be built by Cogentrix and will include steam boilers and electric turbines and use coal. He said instead of producing hydro-electric power, the plants will generate steam. When operational, the plants will employ about 25 people each and have annual payrolls of about $500,000 each.

He said on average, the company expects textile plants using steam generated by the plants to save about 30 percent of their thermal energy costs.

Steam produced by the boilers will be put to two uses — to run the turbines to produce electricity and to be used by textile plants in manufacturing processes, said Lewis.

Huey Lewis Pleased His Greenville Audience

The young man in the Yale sweatshirt, jeans and black tennis shoes grinned and said in a Southern accent,"It's great to be here in Green-vul, North Carolina. I love this town."

Huey Lewis, lead singer and harmonica player of the popular band Huey Lewis and the News, said in an interview Tuesday, "I have been here three days and I have been having lots of fun." The band came to eastern North Carolina to play in a local nightclub.

"We have a break in our tour, so we have been enjoying ourselves here," Lewis said. "We've been playing a little golf.

"I love the South. It's good for your metabolism," he added. "Everything is slower." The handsome, quick-witted singer seemed relaxed as he sipped a cup of coffee.

Lewis was born in New York, but moved to California when he was young. "My mom is an artist and my dad is a jazz drummer and a doctor," Lewis said, digging his hand into the bag of popcorn and settling back in the chair on the band's tour bus.

Not only did his artistic background come from his parents, but also from his hometown, Lewis said.

"San Francisco is a very artistic place," the singer said. "Consequently it is easier to go into music. There are lots of different influences: soul, pop, punk, hard rock.

"But there are only two kinds of music — good and bad. Duke Ellington said that, and he was dead right. My dad always used to quote that," he added.

The musician said his biggest musical influence when he was growing up was "rhythm and blues stuff. Then when I got into the business, I started listening to all the current music."

Lewis claimed that he was a "good kid. I only got into a little trouble." He attended a preparatory school in New Jersey on a baseball scholarship, "and had pretty good grades," he added.

After graduating from high school, Lewis hitchhiked through Europe. "I took my harmonica with me, and because I didn't get many rides, I spent a lot of time playing the harmonica. By the time I came back to the United States, I was a pretty good harmonica player," he said.

On his return to California, Lewis began playing with a band named Slippery Elm. "And you wonder why we didn't make it," the musician said with a grin.

Then Lewis began making country-rock music with Clover, a band that developed a large following in the Bay area of California. After five years and two records, "neither of which did anything," Lewis said, Clover broke up when band member John McFee joined the Doobie Brothers.

"The break-up was a financial thing I can't understand. They only offered him about a million dollars," Lewis cracked.

Huey Lewis and the News formed in late 1979 when local out-of-work musicians, led by Lewis, got together at a Bay-area nightclub called Uncle Charlie's for Monday night jam sessions.

"We're just a bunch of local Marin County guys," Lewis said. "We're a neighborhood band. We didn't advertise in trade papers or on bulletin boards for musicians. When we needed a guitarist, we said, 'What about John who lives down the street.'"

The News consists of ex-Clover keyboardist Sean Hopper; guitarist Chris Hayes; and three members of another local band Soundhole, Johnny Colla (guitar and saxophone), bassist Mario Cipollina and drummer Bill Gibson.

"We were given some free studio time after word of mouth on the Monday night jams got out, so we cut this disco take-off on 'Exodus,' 'Exo-disco'," Huey explains. "I sent that record to this guy I knew in England, and the next thing I knew, we had a singles deal with Phonogram. With the advance, we recorded three tunes we had written and that demonstration tape attracted our manager Bob Brown, and eventually, Chrysalis Records.

"The rest is Mill Valley history," Lewis said with a playful smile. "We are the only band from Marin County, California, to ever have a top ten record."

The band's self-titled debut album was released in 1980 and included bluesy tunes such as "Some of My Lies Are True (Sooner or Later)" and "Who Cares." "Picture This," released in 1982, reached number 13 on the Billboard album charts and produced three top 40 singles for Huey Lewis and the News: "Do You Believe in Love" (which went to #7), "Hope You Love Me Like You Say You Do" and "Workin' For A Livin'."

The band recently released its third album, "Sports." Lewis, with his quick wit, said that the band decided on the name "Sports," "because we couldn't spell 'weather.'

"No, really, it looked right and it felt right," Lewis said. "Besides, music is a team sport. And we liked the idea of having the cover photograph be us at a bar watching the Super Bowl on television."

The new album, which was recorded in two months, contains six original songs: "The Heart of Rock & Roll," "Bad Is Bad," "I Want A New Drug," "Finally Found A Home," "If This Is It" and "You Crack Me Up," and three covers, "Heart And Soul," "Walking On A Thin Line" and Hank Williams' "Honky Tonk Blues."

"We've always been a good live band, and now I think we're becoming a good studio band," Lewis said. "We worked hard on this one — but we also had a lot of fun."

Huey Lewis and the News also have fun making the videos shown on Music Television (MTV). The music videos have given the group much exposure. "People recognize me in Greenville and all over the country," Lewis said. "The reason they recognize me is MTV."

Although Lewis said that its exposure on MTV has contributed to the success of Huey Lewis and the News, the singer admitted that he has mixed feelings about videos.

"We were thrust into making videos," Lewis said, "and the ham in me loves it.

"Videos are a new art form," he continued. "Radio was becoming stagnated, and videos came along to break new acts. Until MTV came along, music was going nowhere. A lot of deserving bands have become popular on MTV that wouldn't have made it otherwise.

"But just like the book is usually better than the movie, the song is usually better than the video. The musician in me feels it's a shame to make a video of an imaginative song. Many times, the song paints a better picture without the video."

Another complaint Lewis has about the new music videos is that "too much emphasis is placed on pretty boys and pretty girls. It would be a shame if the best singer in the world couldn't get a video because he had a pimple on his nose," he said.

Although the traveling is hectic, Lewis said that he's glad to tour to promote his newest album.

A typical day in the life of a rock star begins early for Lewis. He said he "forces" himself to run or swim each day before breakfast. "Then I do four or five interviews. That's a lot of interviews in one day, but that is great because it means the band is popular," he said.

His usual day then includes a sound check at the place the band is playing that night. After the sound check, Lewis returns to the hotel for a shower before the concert. "After the concert, we go back-stage to do the post-concert 'schmooz' (A California word for 'junk,' he explained) of shaking hands. Then its back to the hotel for a large meal before going to sleep in the hotel or driving all night to get to the next gig," Lewis said.

"I only get to spend about six months a year in California," the singer said. "I really do miss my family, but that's the nature of the game. When you have a record that's going, then you have to tour."

And Huey Lewis and the News have been covering the country.

"When we are in California, all the fans say, 'Hey, you guys are really hot,'" Lewis said in a "valley girl" accent. "Then we go to play in Texas and people say, 'Ya'll are great' (and he imitates a Southern drawl). Then we get on the bus and ride all night and when we wake up we are in Boston and people say 'You guys are hot,'" Lewis said in a Northern voice. "Accents are amazing. Going across the country, you really notice them."

Lewis is a master of accents. He noticed right away that Greenville is pronounced "Green-vul." And he seemed to be really glad to be spending some time here.

The popular singer said, "We (the band) were playing golf at Brook Valley Country Club and we were playing terrible. We're not the best golf players in the world, but we enjoy playing. Well, I was playing golf really bad and I was getting more and more angry. Then I shanked the ball to the right and as I was getting ready to yell obscenities, I turned around and there were four little kids who said, 'Can I have your autograph, Mr. Lewis?' That's what it's all about."

A Review

Huey Lewis' Music Is Good News

In today's concert world of wild costumes, ear-piercing rock music and hyped-up stage antics, Huey Lewis and the News brings a very naturalistic stage performance interlaced with smooth-sounding music with a solid, rythmic delivery.

The young band, recently nominated for a Grammy Award for best vocal performance of a rock group, put on a dynamic show Tuesday night at Greenleaf, a Greenville night club.

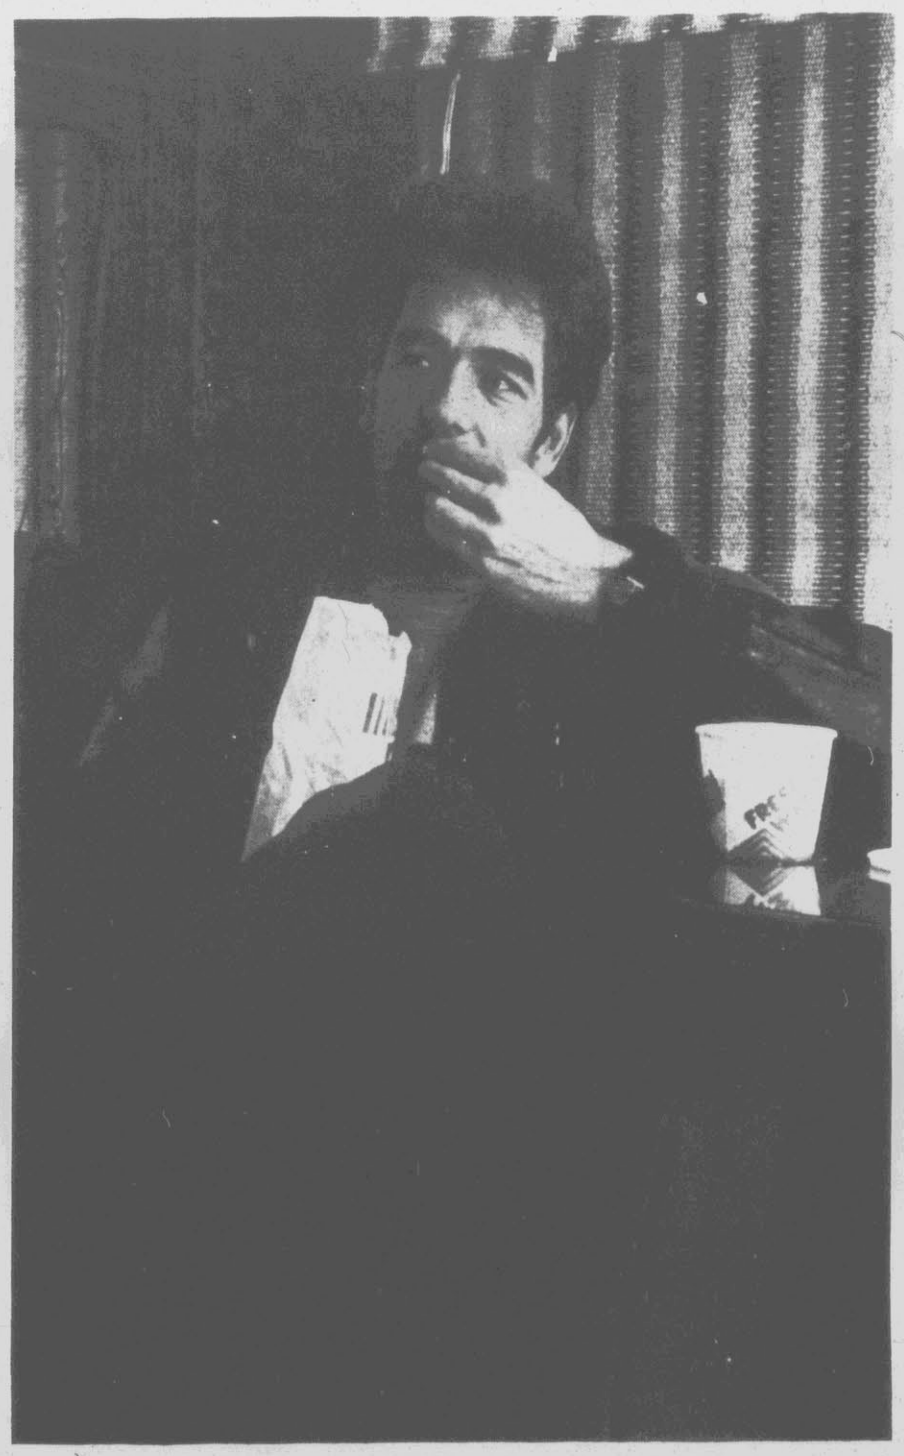

A West Coast group, Huey and his men have a way of showing their "westernness" without the punk outfits and Valley Girl lyrics.

In his most recent hit, "I Want a New Drug," for example, Huey's smooth, satisfying tone is revealed to best effect. Instead of screaming that he wants a new drug, he makes the words more of a statement — something to think about. The song is not about drugs per se, but rather the get-up-and-go work attitude of Americans — work as balm.

Huey's music is not produced from the monotony of a couple of guitars and a set of drums. It is enriched by the addition of a keyboard, saxophone and harmonica. These new sounds, mixed in a talented blend with the old, produce a new and original type of music.

Perhaps these "new" sounds is why Huey calls his band "The News" — and based on his recent album and his performance Tuesday night in Greenville — it is indeed good news.

At Wits End

By Erma Bombeck

You probably thought you had heard the last of the Cabbage Patch dolls, but a nation doesn't go through a 2.5 million baby boom without some fallout.

Since Christmas, there are 2.5 million single parents under the age of 12 out there floundering under a sea of diapers and feeding schedules who are asking themselves, "Is that all there is?"

They are too young to drink and too young to chuck it all and run away from home.

To the rescue comes Edward J. Zumach, a communications consultant from Phoenix, Ariz., who realizes the importance of a good old Mom's Network. He calls his support group the International Association of Dollbaby Parents.

Every month there will be a Newsletter, "The Dollbaby News," to "entertain and inform the millions of newly-blessed parents."

There will be a special feature called "Dollbaby Firsts," featuring news about unusual activities like taking ' a hot-air balloon ride or riding in a sailboat or helicopter.

In addition to contests and personal mothers' stories,. little mothers will have a horoscope prepared for their dollbabies by a leading astrologer.

Imagine the thrill of knowing that if your child is a Libra, she "seeks beauty, peace and harmony but can be extremely ambitious and can burn the midnight oil, then collapse into complete laziness."

The Association is open not only to Cabbage Patch mothers, but those who are raising Strawberry Shortcake, Blueberry Muffin and Barbie and Ken children. (Tell me thera will be an article on what age Ken can drive a cardboard car.)

We've come a long way since we slung a Christmas doll under the bed in February where it remained naked, unkempt, uncombed and rejected until our mothers stuffed it into a trunk to save for our children to throw under the bed.

Frankly, I think it's a great idea. I foresee doll pediatricians, psychiatrists, day nurseries when the miniature mothers go to work, babysitters and beauty pageants. Not only will they open up a new range for the economy, they will instill responsibility in a child at an early age.

But more important, it will be the greatest boon to birt0 control since garlic!

Tasting Tea Set For March 3

The Cherry Oaks Home and Garden Club will hold its annual tasting tea March 3 at the American Legion Building located on St. Andrews Street. The country store, featuring all types of homemade goodies, will open at noon with the luncheon starting at 12:30 p.m.

The theme will be "Easy Does It" with guests getting to taste two dozen different recipes from categories such as Easy Entertaining, Freeze Ahead, Easy on the Budget, Cooks Away, Easy on Mom and Oops, Company Just Dropped In! Each guest will receive a cookbook containing all the recipes used.

Tickets are $7 and will be on sale to the public from 7-9 p.m. Feb. 9 at the Cherry Oaks Clubhouse.

Club members may purchase their alloted tickets at the Feb. 7 Garden Club meeting. Tickets will be available at 7 p.m. with the meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m. The program will be "Cancer Awareness."

Further information may be obtained by calling Betsy Little at 756-6903, Sharyn Lennox at 756-4746, Glenda McLawhorn at 756-1217 or Debbie Allen at 756-6333.

Pittman-Woodbury Vows Are Solemnized

People's Baptist Temple was the scene of the wedding ceremony of Mary Little Woodbury and James Carr Pittman Saturday at 4 p.m. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. J.M. Bragg.

Chris Forrester played the piano and Ruth Moskop played the harp. Steve Wright was soloist.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. H.O. Woodbury. She was given in marriage by Joe Henderson Sr. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Hurt Pittman and Joseph Carner Pittman, both of Richmond, Va. The father of the bridegroom was best man.

Millie Huneycutt of Miami, Fla. was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Penny Henderson of Greenville, Ann McPeters of Richmond, Va., and Paige Huneycutt of Miami, Fla. Ashley Huneycutt of Miami, Fla. was junior bridesmaid and the flower girl was Veronica McPeters of Richmond, Va.

Ronnie Huneycutt II of Miami, Fla., Tucker Perkins and Byron Roberts of Richmond, Va., and Jack Risendal of Washington were ushers.

The bride wore a formal gown of ivory satin faille taffeta over peau de soie. The open, regal neckline was enhanced by a stand-up ruffle of taffeta bordered by a ruffle of imported schiffli embroidered English net. Appliques of floral silk Venise lace beaded with pearls trimmed the modified natural waistline. Matching lace in a cutwork pattern accented the long Edwardian sleeves and the cuffs were fashioned with a lace ruffle. The modified A-line skirt extended into a cathedral length train. A double ruffle of taffeta with schiffli lace bordered in silk Venise lace edged the hemline and train. She wore a Victorian inspired hat with an upturned brim trimmed in lace with veil of imported ivory illusion. She carried a bouquet of silk daisies.

MRS. PITTMAN

The attendants were dressed in formal gowns of dusty blue in qiana with spaghetti straps. Their picture hats had an overlay of lace and bow of illusion with dusty silk flowers with flowing fingertip illusion in back. Each carried a candleholder surrounded by daisies. The flower girl wore a floor length dress of pink satin.

A reception was held at the American Legion Home after the ceremony and guests were greeted by Dot Seay. The Bill Bolen Trio provided music.

The couple will live in Greenville after a cruise to Mexico.

The bride graduated from Methodist College with a B.A. degree and received her master's from East Carolina University. She is employed by the Pitt County Schools. The bridegroom graduated from Virginia Tech and works at Procter and Gamble.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the parents of the bridegroom and was held at the Colonial Inn in Farmville. Florence Henderson and Suzy Henderson entertained at a wedding breakfast at the Ramada Inn.

On The Young Side

By Clay Deanhardt

Green and house, two very common words have caused a lot of excitement here at Rose this week. Under the direction of Virginia Read, head of the science department, the school is in the process of building its own greenhouse.

Made possible by a grant from GTE and donations from local businesses, the greenhouse will be open to all students as well as the science department for experimentation.

The greenhouse is completely a school project — it is being totally built by Rose students. Jesse Dawkins' masonry class prepared and laid the base and James Vernelson's carpentry classes are in the process of assembling the building. There will be an open house upon completing of the building, so look for the date in this column in the upcoming weeks.

Congratulations to Mark Brewington and Mark Elmore, winners of the regional competition in the Scholastic Art Awards. For their efforts, they received a gold key and a chance to compete at the national level in New York for cash prizes. Brewington won in the print category for his work titled "Wash Day." Elmore won for an untitled acryllic work. Stacy Hamilton and Monica Green both received honorable mentions in the competition. Congratulations and good luck to each.

The drama department, directed by Betty Topper, has announced that this year's spring musical will be "Finnian's Rainbow." Auditions for parts will be held Feb. 20-24 after school. Audition sheets can be picked up in Ms. Topper's room or at the old checkout counter during lunch.

Friends of the Theater, a group of adult supporters of the drama department, held its first organizational meeting of the year. Camilla Harris is serving as president and will be assisted by Glen Chappel, vice president, Ann Stanton, secretary, and Dick VanScoy, treasurer.

Memberships are $10 membership, $25 sponsor and $50 patron. Interested persons should contact VanScoy for memberships.

Double Ring Vows Performed Saturday

MRS. MELVIN

CHESTER, Va. — Mary Lynne Showers and Winslow Britt Melvin, both of Greenville, were married here Saturday at 2 p.m. in St. John's Episcopal Church. The Rev. Robert H. Armstrong performed the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John Walter Showers of Chester, Va. and Mr. and Mrs. Leon M. Melvin of Figure Eight Island, Wilmington.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. Sandra Jo Showers of Charlotte was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids included Johnna Lee Showers of Richmond, Va., sister of the bride, Leslie Dawn Wells of New York and Susan Stephenson of Raleigh. Rebecca Byrum of Winston-Salem was junior bridesmaid her her aunt.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man while ushers included David Melvin of Greensboro, brother of the bride, Matthew Bridger and George Hall of Greenville. Owen Smith of Mt. Airy, nephew of the bride, was junior usher.

Cezette Barnes of Chester, Va. was organist for the ceremony.

The bride wore a formal gown of white delustered satin and pearled re-embroidered alencon lace. The gown featured a Queen Anne neckline, basque waist and long straight sleeves trimmed in alencon lace. The back of the gown was enhanced with English netting and alencon lace with seed pearls and white satin covered buttons. The full flowing skirt extended into a chapel train. Her white waltz length French imported illusion veil was attached to a small brimmed satin covered hat accented with seed pearls. The hat was accented with a satin flower, lace and seed pearls.

The attendants were each dressed in a slipper length gown of orchid satin styled with a fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, short puffed sleeves and gathered skirt. A self-tie belt accented the waistline. Each wore an orchid small brimmed hat with satin trim, lace and seed pearls. The back was enhanced with orchid French imported illusion.

A reception was given by the bride's parents at the Meadowbrook Country Club in Richmond, Va.

The couple will live in Greenville after a trip to Williamsburg, Va.

The bride graduated from East Carolina University with a nursing degree and works at the Pitt County Health Department. The bridegroom graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and is a third year medical student at the ECU School of Medicine.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained at a rehearsal dinner at the Meadowbrook Country Club. A bridesmaids luncheon was held Friday and was given by Mrs. Robert Hitch and Mrs. Conway Eberhardt at Willow Oaks Country Club in Richmond.

New Force In Hawaii Politics

By SUSAN MANUEL
Star-Bulletin

HONOLULU (AP) — The last elections in Honolulu all but feminized City Hall.

Honolulu's women moved in on the mid-1970s watershed years that opened state and local government to women across the country, putting Hawaii among the top five states in political presence of women.

Enough powerful women hold offices or wait in the wings here for a female-to-female race for governor within the next two elections to have become a common prophecy.

But even Hawaii's outstanding report card — one of five big city mayors, eight council women and 17 legislators — doesn't say much when considering women outnumber men in Hawaii's population by 105 to 100.

And while women head a different administration and City Council than their predecessors, attributing any change in government to gender or any stereotypes to these women can be tricky business.

Mayor Eileen Anderson has displeased few. A career bureaucrat with associations to her name like Boy Scout and Little League mother, she came on as a no-nonsense fiscal conservative. A leader with impeccable style, she's been called gracious, boring, lacking in ideology and increasingly independent and political. Her administration has given women's groups heart.

Her gender, which about 20 years ago kept her from a high-level city job, turned off and attracted about the same number of voters, she estimated, and is an issue today only for a few nasty letter writers and strangers who pass her up in a receiving line for her husband.

Her background as state budget director deflects one common criticism of female politicians — that they lack business and economic knowledge.

At the City Council, the crusades of Marilyn Bornhorst, lone woman and liberal for eight years, finally bore fruit with the 1980 breakup of the council's "old boy network."

The arrival of political veteran and social activist Patsy Mink and liberal attorney Welcome Fawcett bolstered and calmed her. But lately she's receded from several stands, sensing lack of support from colleagues and the media.

Some say the day of liberals on the Council was inevitable. Three just happened to be women. Women in the state Legislature can't be painted with the same ideological brush.

But the Council women's liberal philosophy can be practically irrelevant to the mattters of garbage and safety they deal with most often. And they rarely vote as a threesome on issues that divide the Council.

The one goal on which the women obviously agree — their desire that the city take on human services such as child care — is barred to them by Mayor Anderson's determination to keep City Hall minding its own business.

By its constitution the state handles "human services," and offering to take on any would open a floodgate of demands the city can't afford to satisfy, the mayor says.

Next year will see a continuing struggle between the mayor and female Council members over the fate of $1.3 million in community development block grant funds the Council wants to spend on human services.

The Council also will be faced with how to come up with affordable housing, reviving issues like inclusionary zoning that could bring out dormant ideological and maybe gender differences.

But so far, without that common thread of social activism at play, the Council's women have popped up on all sides of the issues.

Strong women have figured here through history. It was Kaahumanu who broke the kapu (taboo) system in 1819 when she persuaded Liholiho (Kamenhameha II) to eat with the female chiefs. Her goal was to penetrate the groups forbidden to women, where important political decisions were made.

Although women's participation in government hasn't exactly grown steadily since then, a recent influx means Hawaii's 26 women politicians put the state fifth in the country in percentage of women in office.

Useful tips on decorating with lights from Thomas.

A family room is a great place for track lighting.
Install track in the family room to furnish light to many different areas like a desk, game table, reading corner, plant grouping or conversation area.

Cheer up a dreary kitchen with brighter lighting.
You may not need that paint job after all. Often a larger fixture or a number of new lights, strategically located in dark areas, can brighten the whole room.

Dear Abby

Freeloader Burdens Neighbor With Paper

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

Dear Abby: I need your help. The woman across the hall from me asked (a couple of years ago) if she could have my daily newspaper when I finished with it. I've always obliged. The Sunday paper is too enormous to read in often kept it until Monday or sometimes Tuesday. Every Monday morning my neighbor asks me if I've finished the Sunday paper yet, which gives me the feeling that I am being rushed.

Also, occasionally I will come across an article or an ad that I want to save, so I clip it out. Yesterday this lady asked if I would give her the newspaper intact, and after she reads it she will return it to me — and then I can clip out whatever I want. How is that for nerve? It's much more convenient to clip something when I first come across it; it would be too time-consuming to go through the newspaper a second time.

If you were in my place, how would you handle this? I don't want her for an enemy. Oh, another thing, she doesn't subscribe to any newspaper and she's in better shape financially than I am.

APARTMENT DWELLER

DEAR DWELLER: Tell her it's too time-consuming to go through the newspaper twice, so if she wants it, she will have to put up with an occasional gap. And when she asks for the Sunday newspaper, tell her you will give it to her after you've read it, and you'd appreciate it if she wouldn't ask for it because you feel guilty keeping it an extra day or two.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of grandchildren, ages 13 and 15, who received some very nice Christmas gifts, and had their mother write their thank-you notes? ("The kids are so busy with hockey and schoolwork that I was elected to thank you for the terrific gifts you sent them," etc.)

JUST ASKING

DEAR JUST: I think the kids are the losers for having a mother (and/or father) who do for the children what they should do for themselves.

A child who is old enough to print should write his own thank-you notes. It matters not that the printing is barely legible and the spelling is atrocious; the note will be considered a treasure.

Some teen-agers require more prodding than others, but it's the responsibility of the parents to stand over them with an iron hand until the deed is done!

DEAR ABBY: Your statment, "Pets raised in a Christian home are assumed to be Christian, and pets raised in a Jewish home are assumed to be Jewish," left me in a quandry concerning the burial of my cat.

You see, I'm half-Jewish and half-Christian, and if I follow your logic, when the cat dies, I'll have to decide whether it should be buried as a Christian or Jew.

Gevald! Or should I say, "Heavens to Betsy"?

TORN IN N.Y.

DEAR TORN: Cremate the cat, and give half the ashes a Jewish funeral service and the other half Christian.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LIVES BY THE BIBLE IN MEMPHIS: Whom have you visited in prison lately? In Matthew 25 there is a description of the day of judgment. It explains that those who are saved are saved because "I was hungry, and you gave me food; I was thirsty, and you gave me drink; I was in prison, and you visited me."

VFW Auxiliary National President Visits In Kinston

Harriet Timmons, national president of the Ladies Auxiliary to the VFW, made her official visit to North Carolina Wednesday. Included in activities in her honor were a reception and dinner given by the Kinston Auxiliary.

Fifteen members of Greenville attended.

Carrie West, Americanism chairman, reported the auxiliary will recognize outstanding students in the ROTC program at East Carolina University. Special badges and bonds will be given the students when announced.

Margie Tyson, chairman of the cancer aid and research, reported that $204.25 had been received from cake sales during last month.

The following donations will be made: $100 to Cerebral Palsy, $50 to March of Dimes, $50 to Salvation Army, $100 to American Cancer Society and $100 to Special Olympics.

Meeting hostesses were Margaret Brown, Mattie Askew, Dorothy Armistead, Madeline Vincent and Lil Joyner.

Welcome Wagon To Have Luncheon

The Welcome Wagon Club of Greenville will have its luncheon meeting Wednesday at 11:30 a.m. at the Brook Valley Country Club.

The club will be having a silent auction and white elephant sale during the meeting to raise funds for charity.

Camp Fire Inc. Offers More Than Camping By Firelight

By TONI CARDARELLA

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Camp Fire Inc. is no longer just for girls and its members don't spend all their time around camp fires roasting marshmallows.

And although the name was changed four years ago form Camp Fire Girls, some people still find it hard to speak of the organizaton without adding "girls" on the end of the name.

But Camp Fire Inc.'s national executive director is trying to re-educate the public on the non-profit organization's purpose and goals.

He is quick to point out Camp Fire is not what many believe it to be.

"It's hard to correct the misconception," said Arnold E. Sherman, who took over the director's seat a year ago. "We are a contemporary, multi-program youth organization. We use an informal approach to try and teach life skills."

Camp Fire has about 50,000 mem "Publishing the book in both languages was originally intended to appeal to Americans and Mexicans alike in the interior," Ms. Navarro said. "It now turns out to be a good idea for the border areas and is especially helpful for Americans who employ Hispanic cooks."

A copy of the cookbook is in daily use at a Mexican restaurant in Idaho and the books have sold briskly in the San Francisco, Calif., area as well as throughout New Mexico and Arizona, she said.

"One of the discoveries I made while working in Guadalajara was the difficulty of translating certain terms from Spanish to English, such as 'baste,' 'beat,''mix,' common terms in a cook's language," Ms. Navarro said. "Cookery terms and definitions are included in my cookbook."

Also included in the book is a conversion table of measurements for the benefit of cooks and aficionados of Mexican food. Mexico uses the international metric system.

"Mexican food is becoming increasingly popular throughout the United States," she said. "Some experts have said it is the fastest growing of all ethnic foods in the nation."

"Simplified Mexican Recipes," however, contains a wider variety of recipes than usually found in a restaurant, Ms. Navarro said.

"Some recipes in the book are traditional ones, some Indian from the days of Montezuma and some from the Spanish conquistadores."

Methods and preparation time have been modernized, she said, taking advantage of the food blender, for example, as opposed to a primitive stone and pestle.

Typical of the recipes is that for zapote negro, a fruit with a black pulp, served mixed with lemon, sugar and wine or rum, or jicama, a turnip-looking vegetable which tastes like a cross between an apple and a potato and is eaten raw or used as an appetizer when mixed with oranges.

While the book includes American favorites, chile con queso, guacamole, tacos, tamales, enchiladas and chiles rellenos, it also includes a recipe for nopales, cactus leaves with the thorns removed, a common item in markets south of the border.

The cactus leaves are cooked with onion rings in salted water and served in salads or to perk up meat dishes.

Ms. Navarro foresees a continued need for Mexican food cookbooks as Mexican food increases in popularity.

Promoting the cookbook is only a sideline for Ms. Navarro, who is an international secretary in the El Paso administrative offices of Chrysler Corp. The firm owns an assembly factory in Juarez which manufactures wire harnesses.

Ms. Navarro's job includes translating complicated documents from Spanish to English.

"And I'm still being asked, what is this or that food and how do you make it, just like when I worked in Guadalajara," she said.

Classes Planned In Country Crafts

Classes in country crafts will start Tuesday and will be sponsored by the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department.

A new craft will be taught for the next six weeks including chicken scratch, shadow quilting, stenciling, count stitch on hopscotch material and plastic canvas Easter baskets.

Classes will be held from 1-3 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. at the Community Center at the corner of Fourth and Greene Streets. Lucille Sumrell and Patsy Denson will be class instructors.

For the first class, participants should bring ½ yard of gingham fabric with ¼ inch checks and a skein of white embroidery thread.

A stain glass class will begin Thursday starting at 9:30 a.m. Students will create a project learning to cut glass shapes and paint with patina using copper foil. Registration fee will be $9 and Judy Chaplinski will be the instructor.

For information call 752-4137, extension 250.

COFFEE DESSERT

Many years ago this was a favorite of the wife of President Harry S. Truman. It's well worth reviving.

- 1 cup water
- 2 tablespoons instant coffee
- 8 ounces marshmallows
- 8 ounces (1 cup) heavy cream

In a medium saucepan bring water just to a boil; off heat stir in the coffee until dissolved. Shake off as much as possible of the marshmallow coating and add marshmallows to coffee. Over low heat stir until marshmallows melt and mixture is smooth. Chill until slightly thickened. In a medium bowl whip cream until stiff; gradually fold in marshmallow mixture until blended. Using ½ cup for each, ladle into sherbet cups or dessert bowls. Chill to set. Makes 8 servings.

Bridal Policy

A black and white glossy five by seven photograph is requested for engagement announcements in The Daily Reflector. For publication in a Sunday edition, the information must be submitted by 12 noon on the preceding Wednesday. Engagement pictures must be released at least three weeks prior to the wedding date. After three weeks, only an announcement will be printed.

Wedding write-ups will be printed through the first week with a one column picture. During the second week, a one column picture will be used with a write-up giving less description and after the second week, just as an announcement.

Wedding forms and pictures should be returned to The Daily Reflector one week prior to the date of the wedding. All information should be typed or written neatly.

In Memory Of William Andrew Ross

It has been three years ago today since the Lord called you to a home far away. I miss you as much as if it had been yesterday. However dark the days may seem, I have no fear because I know I have my faith in God. I know He will not leave me or forget one in my need, as long as I believe in Him with every thought and deed. His guiding grace reminds me of the mercy He has shown. And in my deepest misery, I never feel alone. For Jesus has promised He'll help until the end. Things must turn out right when we have such a friend.

Until we meet again,

By His Wife, Lucy M. Ross

Mexican Cookbook Identifies Recipe Foods

By KEN FLYNN

EL PASO, Texas (UPI) — Most Americans visiting Mexican border cities have never heard of zapote negro, jicama or nopales — exotic-sounding fresh fruits and vegetables found in popular recipes south of the border.

An El Paso woman, J. Elena Navarro, has written a book which not only identifies and describes Mexico's garden fruits and vegetables, but provides simple recipes showing how to cook them.

"Simplified Mexican Recipes" is now in its second printing. Ms. Navarro, a native of Chihuahua City, Mexico, is working on the third edition.

The cookbook is written in both Spanish and English and contains a glossary of kitchen terms and ingredients in both languages.

"I was working as a secretary for the Latin American Center of the University of California at Los Angeles," she recalled. "The center was located in Guadalajara, Mexico, where there are many Americans. My friends would ask me about this or that fruit or vegetable, and that would always lead to, 'type us up a little recipe.'"

Ms. Navarro said she spent as much time working with the printers to correct typographical errors as it took for her to compile and write the book. There were 1,000 copies of the first edition and 2,000 of the second, most of which have been sold.

The book was printed at the LITO-SUAR Printing Co. in Mexico City, she said, then imported into the United States for sale in book stores throughout the Southwest. "Simplified Mexican Recipes" is sold for $5.50.

"Publishing the book in both languages was originally intended to appeal to Americans and Mexicans alike in the interior," Ms. Navarro said. "It now turns out to be a good idea for the border areas and is especially helpful for Americans who employ Hispanic cooks."

A copy of the cookbook is in daily use at a Mexican restaurant in Idaho and the books have sold briskly in the San Francisco, Calif., area as well as throughout New Mexico and Arizona, she said.

"One of the discoveries I made while working in Guadalajara was the difficulty of translating certain terms from Spanish to English, such as 'baste,' 'beat,''mix,' common terms in a cook's language," Ms. Navarro said. "Cookery terms and definitions are included in my cookbook."

Also included in the book is a conversion table of measurements for the benefit of cooks and aficionados of Mexican food. Mexico uses the international metric system.

"Mexican food is becoming increasingly popular throughout the United States," she said. "Some experts have said it is the fastest growing of all ethnic foods in the nation."

"Simplified Mexican Recipes," however, contains a wider variety of recipes than usually found in a restaurant, Ms. Navarro said.

"Some recipes in the book are traditional ones, some Indian from the days of Montezuma and some from the Spanish conquistadores."

Methods and preparation time have been modernized, she said, taking advantage of the food blender, for example, as opposed to a primitive stone and pestle.

Typical of the recipes is that for zapote negro, a fruit with a black pulp, served mixed with lemon, sugar and wine or rum, or jicama, a turnip-looking vegetable which tastes like a cross between an apple and a potato and is eaten raw or used as an appetizer when mixed with oranges.

While the book includes American favorites, chile con queso, guacamole, tacos, tamales, enchiladas and chiles rellenos, it also includes a recipe for nopales, cactus leaves with the thorns removed, a common item in markets south of the border.

The cactus leaves are cooked with onion rings in salted water and served in salads or to perk up meat dishes.

Ms. Navarro foresees a continued need for Mexican food cookbooks as Mexican food increases in popularity.

Promoting the cookbook is only a sideline for Ms. Navarro, who is an international secretary in the El Paso administrative offices of Chrysler Corp. The firm owns an assembly factory in Juarez which manufactures wire harnesses.

Ms. Navarro's job includes translating complicated documents from Spanish to English.

"And I'm still being asked, what is this or that food and how do you make it, just like when I worked in Guadalajara," she said.

LIGHT SUPPER
Brown Rice Martha & Salad
Baked Apples & Honey

BROWN RICE MARTHA

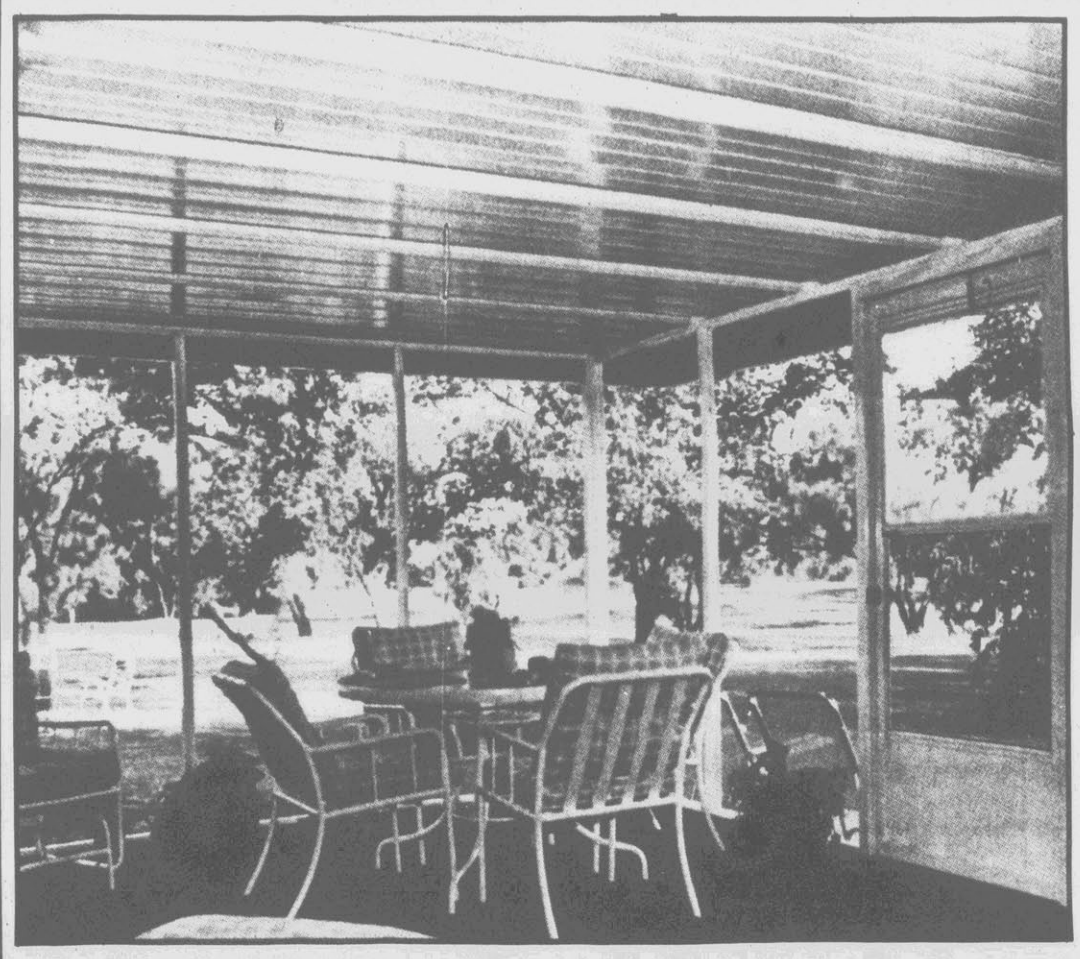

Nutritious and good tasting main dish.

- 1¾ cups water
- 1 cup long-grain parboiled brown rice
- ¼ cup (½ of a ¼-pound stick) butter
- 1 medium onion, finely diced
- ½ of a large green pepper, finely diced
- 1 clove garlic, finely chopped
- ¾ cup tomato juice (6-ounce can)
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- Grated cheddar cheese

In a 2-quart saucepan bring water to a boil; add rice and stir once or twice; cover tightly and simmer until rice is tender and grains separate. In a 10-inch skillet melt butter, add onion, green pepper and garlic, cook gently, stirring often, until onion is wilted — about 10 minutes; add tomato juice and pepper; bring to a boil. With a fork, stir tomato mihtube into hot cooked rice; cover tightly and let stand off heat until tomato juice is absorbed — 5 to 10 minutes. Serve hot; pass cheese. Makes 4 to 6 main-dish servings.

Try New Policies In The City Of Canton

By JEFF BRADLEY
Associated Press Writer

CANTON, China (AP) — Canton is humming under a system the communist government refers to as "state capitalism" and many of its people are earning salaries far higher than other Chinese.

Workers at the Haizhu Wristwatch Factory don't look up when a visitor takes their picture: they're on piecework turning out watches for Hong Kong.

Top earners among the 544 employees in the backstreet factory make 180 yuan ($90) a month — 2½ times the national average for city workers in other parts of China.

New open-door trade policies, introduced by the government of Deng Ziaoping in Peking, closely link Canton and Hong Kong, 80 miles apart along the Pearl River. Workers in this ancient trading center are reaping the benefits.

The Haizhu watch factory is an example. Its capacity of 1.2 million electronic, 400,000 mechanical and 45,000 quartz watches a month for Hong Kong distributors makes it a money-spinner.

The Baogang garment factory in the same neighborhood began five years ago with 20 housewives sewing underwear in what once was a Roman Catholic church.

Expanded and air-conditioned, the plant now employs more than 200 women who produce men's suits and leisure jackets for the Hong Kong market.

"We have built 13 factories in all and earned processing fees of 2.36 million U.S. dollars," said Zhang Jinwang, manager of the Baogang Industrial Corp., overseer of a burgeoning empire of light industry that turns out clocks, earphones and anything else foreign investors want.

Canton authorities have cracked down on pornography and corruption, which they attributed to the proximity of Hong Kong, and no one here contends that standards of living are yet comparable to those in the British colony.

But the easing of strict regulations of the past has led to growing Hong Kong investment and sales in China, mostly via Canton.

At the same time, fewer Chinese are fleeing to Hong Kong. Last year the figure was 9,067 compared with 89,677 in 1979.

Hong Kong's crackdown on illegal immigrants is held partly responsible, but many Cantonese say the desire to cross the border is waning.

"The political situation here is stable and if you work hard you can earn more than 100 yuan ($50) a month while paying just 10 yuan ($5) rent," said Chen Weiliang of the Haizhu Foreign Trade Corp. "In Hong Kong you might have to pay 1,000 to 2,000 H.K. dollars ($125 to $250) for a room.

"Also their welfare system is not so good. If you fall ill, you're in trouble. We have free medical treatment for workers."

From plastic brooms — impossible to find in Peking — to Grundig TV sets, Canton seems awash with consumer goods when compared with elsewhere in China.

On the top floor of the Nanfang Dasha Department Store, youths clamor around space invader machines on display for local sale.

A Western-style supermarket on Renmin Road sells wrapped meats, cans of passion fruit juice and packages of American-type gelatin dessert.

At wharfside before dawn, peasants sell their catches of carp for profit, having provided the state with a contracted amount at a lower price. Private vendors load vans and bicycle carts with the fish to sell in the streets.

Yin Chunyen, board chairman of the Guangdong Aquatic Products Corp., explained that after the government introduced the "responsibility system" in 1979, allowing peasants to earn more if they produced more, supplies of fish went from 20,000 tons to 80,000 tons a year, some of which is exported to Hong Kong.

The fish industry here is now worth 400 million yuan ($200 million) a year, Yin said, and the corporation turns a profit of 1 million yuan ($500,000).

Half goes to the state and much of the rest is spent on housing for the firm's 8,000 employees, a practice many work units are following to improve living standards.

One new apartment was allocated to a wholesale fish-shop worker, Jiang Zhun, 31, widowed two years ago when her fisherman husband died of cancer. She supports her 7-year-old son and mother-in-law on a salary of more than 100 yuan ($50) a month, she said.

The grandmother, 72, a retired printworker on a 40-yuan ($20) monthly pension, recalled the conditions in Canton when she was a girl — a slum-filled hotbed of revolution where Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai trained communist cadres, she said.

The city's current boom began in 1979 after Deng Xiaoping opened China to Western trade, technology and finance.

Guangdong Province, of which Canton is a part, was given special autonomy to do business with foreigners, and in 1980 three "special economic zones" were established — Shenzhen, the largest on the Hong Kong border; Zhuhai, and Shantou — with preferential laws to attract foreign investment.

Wilson Art Show

WILSON — "All Creatures Great and Small," an exhibit depicting animals in art, opens in Wilson today at the Arts Council of Wilson center, 205 Gray St. A reception, open to the public, is being held from 6 to 8 p.m.

A total of 22 artists are showing their interpretation of animals in art in this show, which will be up through Feb. 29.

On Thursday, a party for all children is being held from 4 to 5 p.m. Children, who will be provided refreshments, may take their favorite stuffed animal with them to the show.

Receive Art Awards

WILSON — Four art students at Rose High School have won recognition in the annual 1984 Scholastic Art Awards at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson. The four are — Mark Brewington and Mark Elmore, both Gold Key honors, and Monica Greene and Stacey Hamilton, honorable mention.

The art works by Brewington and Elmore will now go to New York where it will be entered in the national Scholastic Art Awards competition.

Art Exhibit Opens

BEAUFORT — An art exhibit, "Flowers, A Visual Fantasy," with work by Cathy Crowell, artist-in-residence at Carteret Technical College in Morehead City, is opening Wednesday at the Mariners Museum.

The exhibit features a photographic technique of visual layered collage work, and will be shown at Mariners through March 16.

Mariners Museum is located at 120 Turner St. near the waterfront on downtown Beaufort. For full details on museum programs, call 718-7317.

Book News

FROM SHEPPARD MEMORIAL LIBRARY

By HANSY JONES

Adults who were fortunate enough to read when they were young usually have warm memories of those moments and want to share that same pleasure with the children in their lives. Often, though, it is difficult to know just where to begin or how to find the right book.

"For Reading Out Loud," a recent addition to the juvenile collection, explores ways to enrich children's lives and improve their reading skills through the very pleasureable experience of reading aloud on a regular basis. The authors (Margaret Kimmel and Elizabeth Segel) discuss why it is is important to read aloud all through the childhood years and suggest how to find the time to do it — at home and in the classroom. They discuss effective ways of reading and recommend what to read, reviewing in detail more than 140 books that have time-tested appeal to children. Additional recommendations are listed by age and interest group, subject, length and even by geographical location.

"For Reading Out Loud" will simplify the task of selecting appropriate books to read aloud and is sure to make "read aloud" sessions an eagerly awaited and fondly remembered time in the life of any child.

Betsy Byars' new novel, "The Glory Girl," (another recent addition to the children's collection) is an excellent choice for reading aloud to upper elementary grades. With her usual fine hand in combining thoughtfulness and humor, Mrs. Byars has written an engrossing and poignant novel about a young girl's discovery of her own self-worth amid the tension of a performing family:

Anna Glory is the only person in the Glory family history who can't carry a tune. Her twin brothers, her beautiful sister, "Angel," and her parents all join in the exhuberant singing of the Glory Gospel Singers, while Anna is relegated to selling Glory albums in the back of the auditorium.

Returning home from a tour, they find news that disrupts the whole Glory family: Anna's outcast Uncle Newt, imprisoned for a particularly inept robbery, has been paroled. Despite her father's intolerance of his brother, Anna feels a strange kinship with this fellow misfit, and she tries to make timid contact with Uncle Newt. When a viscious prank endangers the whole Glory family, it is up to the two misfits to overcome their fears and attempt a daring rescue.

Betsy Byars has another surefire hit!

Stamps In The News

NEW REGULAR STAMP — The United States Postal Service issued on Friday this 11-cent coil stamp at Rosemont, Ill., featuring an 1890s railroad caboose. The stamp is the 13th issue in the transportation series which features early modes of transportation. (AP Laserphoto)

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newsfeatures

Fiftieth anniversaries are always poignant occasions for the issuance of stamps by countries throughout the world.

Malaysia philatelically honors the 50th anniversary of its armed forces. The 15-cent shows the Royal Malaysian Air Force (RMAF) aircraft RF-5E. The logo of the RMAF appears at the top right-hand corner of the stamp.

The 20-cent depicts a missile being fired from a Royal Navy vessel. The logo of the Navy is seen at the top right of this stamp. The 40-cent illustrates the Battle of Pasir Panjang. The logo of the Army is at the right corner. The highest value, 80 cents, features the trooping of the royal colors. The logo of the Malaysian Armed Forces is at the top right corner.

The Malaysian stamps are available at your local dealer.

The U.S. Postal Service hails the 50th anniversary of the soil and water conservation movement and also honors the 50th birthday of the Credit Union Act. Both are 20-cent stamps.

The "Soil and Water" stamp pays tribute to a most important objective in this country. In 1934, the newly formed Soil Erosion Service began to work directly with farmers through various projects. That same year an Act of Congress created the Soil Conservation Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Since 1935, approximately 2.5 million land users have cooperated with soil and water conservation districts.

First-day cancellations may be ordered in the usual two ways.

You may purchase your own stamp at the local post office and affix to your envelope. No remittance is required. Send to: Customer-Affixed Envelopes, Soil and Water Conservation Stamp, Postmaster, Denver, CO 80202-9991. It should be postmarked no later than March 7.

If you prefer to have the USPS affix the stamp, enclose a money order for 20 cents and send to: Soil and Water Conservation Stamp, Postmaster, Denver, CO 80202-9992 prior to March 7.

LOSE WEIGHT EVEN AS YOU SLEEP

THE 24 HOUR DIET PLAN PACK

Losing weight has never been easier, faster, more healthful, or more certain.

The GNC Research Staff had a difficult assignment...to develop a weight loss program that puts its demands on science rather than human will power. They screened all the most effective plans and aids now known, and combined the best of the best. Although nobody expected a miracle, a lot of people are describing this three-part program as just that.

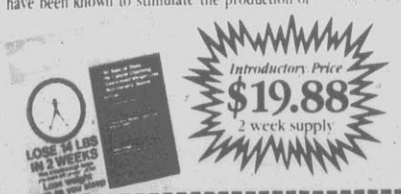

1. Glucomannan helps you shed an average one-half to one pound a day. Two Glucomannan capsules taken ½ hour before meals with an 8 oz. glass of water form a natural high fiber gel that reduces amounts of food you need to feel full, and also provides the bulk your system needs for passing more calories undigested out of the body.

2. Amino FB burns away fat while you sleep. These amino acid tablets taken before bedtime have been known to stimulate the production of growth hormones which direct your system to burn fat for energy instead of protein or carbohydrates—a reversal of the usual process. This action is continuously effective, even during sleep.

3. Preventron assures healthful nutritional balance. This high potency vitamin and mineral supplement delivers the all important nutritional requirements your body needs to look your best, feel your best and work your best.

Absolute Guarantee We unconditionally guarantee that the 24 Hour Diet Plan Pack will help you lose 5 pounds in ten days or your full purchase price will be refunded.

The 24 Hour Diet Plan Pack contains directions and a 2 week supply of products that together make weight control a physical science, not a challenge for your willpower.

This May Be His Last Journey

By JOHN PLATERO
Associated Press Writer

NORTH PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — For explorers, there are few hidden corners of the world unknown and unvisited by man, but Lewis Cotlow, the oldest of his breed, is making what he says may be his last journey into the unknown.

"At 86, every trip is my last trip," says the famed explorer who, for over 65 years, has traveled the continents in search of primitive cultures.

Wearing a pacemaker and despite one heart attack seven years ago and a cardiac arrest while playing golf in 1981, Cotlow is undaunted by his health problems and age as he plans this year's trek to eastern Malaysia. There, with members of the Circumnavigators club of Singapore, he will visit the Dyaks, once a feared tribe of headhunters.

En route to this expedition, he will visit Greece, Sri Lanka, Andaman Island in the Bay of Bengal, Thailand, Singapore and Borneo.

He says, "I'm counting on the Cotlow luck," to carry him through the strenuous journey.

It was this "luck," said the retired New York insurance broker, that landed him a job with the U.S. Shipping Board in 1919, shortly after he was released from the U.S. Army, and started him on a life of travel and adventure.

"I didn't weigh much over 100 pounds and I became the government representative on a cargo vessel," he recalled. Thus began his first journey around the world.

Cotlow's good fortune carried him unscathed through 14 major expeditions including a 22,000-mile exploration of equatorial Africa. In 1978, at 80 years of age, he traveled to Antarctica.

He has carried the Explorers Club flag on 10 scientific missions — more than anyone else — and he's one of 40 men to win the club's prestigious Gold Medal. He shares that honor with such notables as astronaut Neil Armstrong and the late Lowell Thomas.

He has written five books, made five feature-length films and two shorts on his explorations. For years, he has lectured around the country.

Cotlow's affinity for people has earned him friendship with the Jivaro Indians of the Amazon, the small Pygmies and giant Watusis of Africa, the Colorado tribe of South America and primitive tribes of New Guinea.

"All my life, I've tried to reach the most primitive cultures in the world while they were pristine and before the 20th Century caught up with them," he said. "There are so many beautiful things in this world, but there's nothing like a human being."

Cotlow has donated his artifacts collection, valued between $1 million and $3 million, to the Cincinnati Museum of Natural History where Armstrong is board chairman.

When not traveling, he lives a sedate life here in an affluent area of Florida's Gold Coast with his wife, Charlotte, and their Himalayan cat. He still golfs a little and enjoys recounting his adventures with friends.

He talks about death complacently. "I've led a full life. All I'd like to do now if make this last trip and see my exhibit in Cincinnati when it opens this spring."

Never has Cotlow carried a weapon — even when searching out cannibalistic peoples. Never has he been harmed while on expedition.

However, New Year's Eve, Cotlow was mugged and robbed by three men a short distance from his home.

"It happened in Palm Beach, the gem of the world," he said with astonishment. "It took me back 5,000 years to the Stone Ages."

Britain's Spandau Ballet Finishes American Tour

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Spandau Ballet, the hit British quintet, has finished a five-week North American tour. "We were putting our big toe in the water and testing the temperature," says Gary Kemp, the group's guitarist and songwriter. "It was a lot hotter than I thought it was. It's boiling up around us.

"In Toronto, people said they'd never seen anything like it," Kemp recalls. "There were 3,000 kids in a store where we appeared. They blocked the road outside. In Minneapolis we had to be dragged off stage in the middle of a song. The kids were crawling all over us. It was terrifying. Some young kids are more powerful than six guys."

Kemp prefers to think of it as an "American welcome" more than a "British invasion."

Spandau Ballet's first single release in the United States, "True," held No. 4 on the best-selling chart for the last two weeks in October and the first week in November. The second single, "Gold," was No. 29 and climbing on Jan. 28.

The Chrysalis LP "True" was No. 62 on Jan. 28.

Spandau Ballet is one of the new, young English bands. Kemp and drummer John Keeble are 24. Vocalist Tony Hadley and saxophonist Steve Norman are 23. Kemp's brother Martin, who plays bass, is 22. Their manager is 26.

A lot of their fans are the same age or younger. Kemp says Spandau Ballet waited to come to America until it was too popular for the club scene and needed bigger halls. The legal drinking age keeps the younger crowd out of clubs.

"A half-hour video of us performing was on MTV. It showed the crowd screaming. Kids think that's cute, and they're excited to be doing something their older brothers don't know about. Very young kids have not had a band of their own. The popular ones have come from a generation or two generations above them."

In England, Spandau Ballet has released three albums and 11 singles, made 11 videos. Kemp says eight sold in the top 10, four in the top five and "True" was No. 1.

In Kemp's view, America is consumer oriented, therefore much music that has been played appeals to listeners in their 30s, who can buy the products advertised on music shows. "MTV started playing our videos because we were making the most exciting ones. The band was formed by conceptualists, not just by musicians. Of course, you can't bluff your way through musically.

"There was a massive vacuum. Young kids wanted a visual band. I think they'd rather see bands than just have them come out of the radio. We grew up watching TV more than listening to the radio, unlike groups of the '60s and early '70s. It seems right for bands of our generation to concentrate on videos.

"The first thing that appeals to a young person about a group is whether he or she can relate to that band. Can they see themselves in that band? If they think, 'I'd like to be in that band,' then they say, 'That band is my group.'"

Kemp, who writes the songs, says, "I think in the '80s you have to be a multimedia band. For me a video isn't a promotional device. It's another medium to channel ideas through, using powerful images to get across the ideas you had when you wrote the song. You can be surreal, psychedelic even.

"Playing live you show another side — you sweat and put power into it, move a lot, show aggression.

"Recording, we use technology. We play the studio like an instrument. But at the end of the day you have to make a good and commercial song. You can use technology but you can't sell a record because it has a new sound on it."

In 1976, Kemp says, "Punk gave people a new attitude in rock music. It was saying you don't need to be good musicians but your ideas need to be strong. It faded. It didn't go anywhere.

"In 1978 Blitz opened, a small club run by kids. The clientele was basically working-cllass kids out of work. Many were artistic. They made their own clothes, creating style gave them an identity.

"I'd been writing songs for a long time. I said to the other four, 'Let's get a band together that suits the way we're thinking.' We're all from Islington, a district of London. We told Blitz to give us their worst night. We packed it. Then we got elitist. We played a lot of unusual places — Belfast, a boat moored on the Thames, the Sadler's Wells Theater — and never advertised. They were packed, mainly with kids interested in that scene.

"They made a documentary on us on TV as an exciting phenomenon in pop culture. Then record contracts started being offered and we made our choice. There was a big buzz about the band in England."

Spandau Ballet's music has changed, Kemp says, because young fans like change. Kemp wrote lyrics about himself for the first time in the new album. Previously they'd been cryptic, he says, "puns and two-liners."

The group name was chosen to be memorable and to put together things as different as ballet and a German prison, both removed from rock, in an attempt at irony.

Artist Adams Visiting Here

Dennis Adams, an artist known for his innovative work as an environmental sculptor, will give a public presentation and meet with artists in the campus and local communities this week. He will be on the East Carolina University campus through Friday.

At 8 p.m. Monday Adams will give a lecture in the auditorium of the Jenkins Fine Arts Center. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Adams holds the MFA degree from the Tyler School of Art, Philadelphia, and has exhibited widely throughout the United States. He now lives and work in New York.

His visit is part of a project to plan a new site-specific sculpture somewhere in the Greenville area. The project is part of a competition organized by art school Dean Edward Levine and funded by the N.C. Arts Council and the ECU Visual Arts Forum.

Correction

In an article on an art show at Gray Gallery, carried in last Sunday's paper, hours for the gallery were listed as 10-6 weekdays, and 1-5 Sundays. This is in error.

The correct hours for visiting the gallery are 10-5 weekdays, and 1-4 on Sundays.

Faculty Chamber Recital

CHAMBER MUSIC RECITAL MONDAY — Two compositions by master composers, Mozart and Beethoven, will be performed in an ECU Faculty Chamber recital at 8:15 Monday night in the A.J. Fletcher Recital Hall. Members of the quintet, are: seated left, David Hawkins, Henry Doskey; standing, from left, Brian Schweickhardt, James Parnell, and Kim Peoria.

The five-member East Carolina University Faculty Chamber will be in recital at 8:15 p.m. Monday in the A.J. Fletcher Recital Hall on the ECU campus. The recital is free and open to the public.

Members of the faculty chamber group are David Hawkins, oboe; Brian Schweickhardt, clarinet; Kim Peoria, bassoon; James Parnell, horn, and Henry Doskey, piano.

For their Monday recital, the quintet will perform two major chamber works. The first is Mozart's "Quintet in E-flat for Piano and Winds, K.452" in three movements — largo, larghetto, and allegretto. After an intermission, they will play Beethoven's "Quintet in E-flat for Piano and Winds, Opus 16," also in three movements — grave, andante cantabile, and rondo.

The two compositions are near each other in time. Mozart's quintet is now 200 years old, dating from 1784, and the Beethoven piece is dated but 12 years later, in 1796.

A footnote that might be handy to those attending the performance: sponsors say patrons who receive parking tickets while attending the performance may submit them to the dean, school of music, East Carolina University, for handling.

GETTING READY FOR TOBACCO ROAD — Drama students at East Carolina University are shown at work recently getting old planks to cover the stage house in the set of "Tobacco Road." The boards are being taken from what is reputedly the last remaining slave quarters in Greenville. The play, based on the early '30s best seller by Erskine Caldwell, opens Thursday at McGinnis Auditorium for five performances. The stage design, in addition to the weathered planks, will include a spread of real earth and a genuine China berry (or chaney ball) tree. (Photo by Scott Parker)

Best Bets On Public TV

CHAPEL HILL — The University of North Carolina Center for Public Television has chosen productions during the coming week which are considered to be the best bets for viewing. These are:

•Today, 10 p.m. — "The Last Song," an adult comedy about a middle-aged couple faced with the empty nest syndrome.

•Monday, 8 p.m. — "The Old Man and the Gun," a look at how some Irish-Americans have joined hands with the IRA and are advocating the overthrow of British rule in Northern Ireland.

•Tuesday, 9 p.m. — An American Playhouse production about a young black man who challenges a white community's concept of what a black man should be, "Nothing But A Man" stars Ivan Dixon.

•Wednesday, 8 p.m. — A National Geographic Special, "Love Those Trains," is filmed in various sites of the world, and includes a look at the Orient Express.

•Friday, 10 p.m. — In the Nature series, the focus of this segment is the "Osprey," and the bird's progress from hatching in the Scottish highlands and its migration to Africa and back to Scotland.

•Saturday, 10 p.m. — "Miles of Smiles, Years of Struggles" chronicles the life and times of the Pullman porters and their struggles to establish the first black union in America.

AS RINALDO — Mezzo-soprano Marilyn Horne will appear in the role of Rinaldo in Handel's opera, "Rinaldo," airing at 2 p.m. Saturday on WITN radio, 930 on the radio dial, Washington, N.C. The weekly Texaco Inc.-sponsored broadcasts are aired each Saturday afternoon October to April. Others in the cast are Edda Moser as Armida; Benita Valente as Almirena; Dano Raffanti as Goffredo; Samuel Ramey as Argante; Diane Kesling as the first mermaid; John Darrenkamp as Herald; and Arthur Thompson as the Christian Magician. Mario Bernardi is conducting the orchestra.

Hospitality House Today

WASHINGTON, N.C. — Dr. Anne Russell, author and teacher from Wrightsville Beach, will be the first guest on Kay Currie's Hospitality House, airing from noon to 12:30 p.m. today over WITN-TV, Channel 7, Washington.

Dr. Russell will conduct a lecture series "Literature of the Sea" at the George Library in Swan Quarter from Feb. 22 until April 18, and at the Washington County Library in Plymouth Feb. 21 through April 10.

A second guest on the show today is Sally Zimmerman, president of the North Carolina Shell Club and Education Coordinator for the North Carolina Marine Resources Center, Fort Fisher. She will display unusual shells and fish prints she collected in Africa.

Latin America's trade balance showed a surplus of $7.7 billion in 1982. This, according to the Inter-American Development Bank, indicates the countries of the region are making an extraordinary effort to generate resources needed to pay their loans. Mexico alone accounted for most of the surplus — $6.9 billion.

Presenting A Play At Belvoir School

A children's play, "Rapunzel and the Witch," based on the popular fairy tale, will be presented at 1 p.m. Feb. 20 at Belvoir Elementary School.

A production of the North Carolina Theater for Young People, the play is sponsored by the Edwin Gill Professional Theater Project of the State Department of Public Instruction and is funded by the General Assembly.

Cast members are Vickielee Wohlback as Rapunzel; James Lash as Otto the father; Sandi Jocobs in the role of the mother; Sally Knight as the witch; and Erik Abbott as the dashing prince.

Melenda Pomykal directs. Scenery is designed by David Dvorscak, and costumes are by William Rodgers. The N.C. Theater for Young People is a professional program of the Department of Communication and Theater at UNC-Greensboro.

On Oct. 1, 1918, Col. T.E. Lawrence, also known as Lawrence of Arabia, occupied Damascus, leading insurgent Arab forces, during the fighting against Turkey in World War I.

Pitt-Greenville Arts Council Fund Raising Now Underway

After a month of training sessions for solicitors, division leaders and vice chairmen, the Pitt-Greenville Arts Council officially "kicked off" its Arts Fund Drive '84 at a luncheon held recently at the Greenville Country Club.

The fund drive began on Jan. 30 and will continue until Feb. 24. Speakers for the event were fund drive chairman Phil Dixon; vice chairman and council president Terry Shank; vice chairman John McConney, and executive director Penny Laing.

A video presentation, "Business and the Arts/Humanities," produced last year by the N.C. Department of Cultural Resources, featuring Greenville and Charlotte, was shown.

Vice chairmen for the fund drive are: Janice Faulkner, public/governmental; Jef and Ed Glenn, organization membership/publicity; Terry Shank, business; Carolyn Powell, financial; John McConney, general membership; Richard Cox, professional, and John McGara, industrial.

Weekly reports from vice chairmen and divsion leaders will be given at lunch meetings held each Friday during February. A "victory celebration" is scheduled to close the Arts Fund Drive '84 on Feb. 29.

The Pitt-Greenville Arts Council is an umbrella organization of 33 member groups (arts, education and civic/service) thorughout Pitt County. The purpose of the council is to promote, support and encourage the arts countywide.

The Eastern Carolina Arts Festival, CIRCA (journal of the arts), Artists-in-the-Schools, Arts Directory, administrative services and workshops for member groups, and a cultural inforamtion center for the public are among the many functions of the Pitt-Greenville Arts Council.

Benefits of a membership donation include a year's subscription to CIRCA, inclusion in the P-GAC master mailing list for arts events, public recognition for donors, and special recognition for donors of $1,000 or more. All gifts to the Pitt-Greenville Arts Council are tax-deductible.

THE ROMEROS ... a family quartet of classical guitarists, will be in concert at 8 p.m. Thursday in Hendrix Theater, Mendenhall Student Center, on the ECU campus. Natives of Spain, the four are father Aledanion and sons Celin, Pepe and Angel. Tickets are $3.50 for youths 14 and younger purchased in advance, $7.50 for adults, and $7.50 for all ages if purchased at the door. Tickets are now on sale at Central Ticket Office, Mendenhall, open 10 to 4 daily, or by phone, 757-6611, ext. 266.

Classical Guitarists Concert

They are termed supreme in a special field of musical virtuousity, and they are coming to Greenville. The East Carolina University Union Artists Series Committee continues its 1983-84 season with a performance by the Romeros Quartet on Thursday at 8 p.m. in Hendrix Theater, Mendenhall Student Center, on the East Carolina University campus.

Tickets are now available at the Central Ticket Office, Mendenhall Student Center. The ticket office is open daily from 10 am. to 4 p.m., and reservations can also be made by phone, 757-6611, extension 266. Tickets are priced at $3.50 for youths age 14 and younger, and $7.50 for others. All tickets at the door will be $7.50.

The Romeros are a phenomenon in today's international concert scene — a rare quartet of classical guitarists. Natives of Spain, Aledanion Romero and his sons — Celin, Pepe, and Angel, first became known to American music lovers in 1964, when they began what was to be the first of many successive sold-out, coast-to-coast tours of North America. The Romeros have also performed in numerous European concerts.

The quartet has been engaged by most of America's top symphonic ensembles, including the Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles orchestras as well as those in Cleveland, San Francisco and Canadian orchestras, among others.

The Romeros are equally well known for their performances on the campuses of numerous college and university campuses and throughout the United States and Europe in city and community concert halls.

Local Young Talent To Be In Offenbach Opera At ECU

Twenty-four young musicians, dancers and singers, from fourth grade through high school, will combine their talents with East Carolina University music students and community members in the upcoming presentation by the East Carolina University Opera Theater of Jacques Offenbach's "Orpheus in Hades," under director Clyde Hiss.

The production will open at 8 p.m. Feb. 16 in the A.J. Fletcher Recital Hall on the ECU campus and will be performed nightly through Feb. 18.

The young performers include a children's chorus of 13 students from Wahl-Coates Elemenary School, directed by Edith Synder. They are Robin Allen, Dawn Brinkley, Teresa Darden, Joseph Davis, David Higdon, Rachel Higdon, Noah Meineke, Greg Parker, Shannon Roberts, William Shiver, Angela Stallworth, Yolanda Stephenson and Lisa Young.

Also to be performing are eight dancers from the North Carolina Acadamey of Dance Arts, Sherryl Mercer, director. The dancers are: Sarah Burden, Blair French, Anna Harrington, Alison Cox Hendrix, Sandi Kannen, Ingrid Lalik, Heidi Schellenberger, and Carmela Weber. Three junior and senior high school string players will perform as members of the 14-piece orchestra — Carol Moore, concertmistess; Amy Moore, violin, and Jennifer Lucht, cello.

According to Dr. Hiss, "the participation of these young people adds a special dimension to our production of this landmark work for the musical theater. We are delighted to have them join us."

Tickets for "Orpheus in Hades" are now on sale and are priced at $2.50 for students and $4 for adults. Tickets for adults purchased in blocks of ten or more are available at $2.50 each. They are available from the ECU Central Ticket Office, Mendenhall Student Center, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily Monday through Friday. For telephone reservations call 757-6611.

Shaw Players To Perform In Greenville Saturday

RALEIGH — The Shaw Players will be performing in several North Carolina cities and in Newark, N.J., during the next three months, including a Saturday performance on the East Carolina Univesity on Saturday.

Dr. Patricia C. Caple, director of the Shaw Players and Company, said the three-month schedule begins Thursday with a presentation of "In My Father's House" at Fayetteville State University. The play was written by H. Bruce Caple, artist-in-residence at Shaw.

The next presentation of the play will be on Saturday at Wright Auditorium on the ECU campus, with performances at 2:30 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. The Greenville performances are being sponsored by the Pitt County chapter of the Shaw University Alumni Association and ECU's Society of United Liberal Students.

Feb. 18 is the date for a performance at Camp Lejeune for a matinee at 1 p.m. and a second performance at 8 p.m. It is being presented as part of the military base's Black History Month observance.

Other performances of "In My Father's House" will be at Symphony Hall in Newark, N.J., on March 31; at North Carolina A&T State University, Greensboro, on April 6, and at the Thomas Wolfe Auditorium in Asheville on April 14.

Shaw University's Encore Players, an extension of the Shaw Players and Company, will present "Images in Black" at 8 p.m. Feb. 17 in Emery Gymnasium, St. Augustine's College, Raleigh.

Junior Recital

Cynthia Thompson of Wendell, a junior in the school of music, East Carolina University, will give her junior recital at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the A.J. Fletcher Recital Hall on campus.

A student of Dr. Paul Tardif, she has chosen for her program Mozart's "Sonata in F Major;" Schumann's "Fantasiestucke, Opus 12;" Debussy's "Children's Corner Suite;" and Bartok's "Suite, Opus 14."

Smith Concert In Kinston

Rollin Smith, an organist labeld by The Chicago Tribune as a player with "fire and brimstone flamboyance," will be in concert at 8 p.m. Feb. 14 at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Rhem and Rountree streets, Kinston.

Formerly artist-in-residence at The Brooklyn Museum, he gave weekly recitals in the museum's Sculpture Court, and has played in major concert halls and churches in many areas of America.

For his Kinston concert, Smith will perform a program of works by composers of the 18th, 19th and 20th centuries — Eugene Gigout, Eduardo Torres, Camille Saint-Saens, Marcel Dupre, Antonio Soler, Franz Liszt and Cesar Franck.

The concert will be open to the public. No admission will be charged, but donations will be accepted. The St. Mary's Organ Recital Series is supported solely by voluntary contributions.

Famed Play 'Tobacco Road' Is Next Playhouse Offering

TOBACCO ROAD CHARACTERS ... Three of the cast members of "Tobacco Road" — Tom Hull, Mavis Ray and Brian Cottle — congregate for their picture. The play, a long-running hit on Broadway, comes to McGinnis Theater for five performances on Thursday through Saturday and again on Feb. 13-14. Tickets are now on sale at the McGinnis Theater Box Office, corner of Fifth and Eastern streets, open daily from 10 to 4. The telephone number for reservations is 757-6390. (Photograph by Doug Ray)

Two Broadway veterans have teamed up on stage for the East Carolina Playhouse production of "Tobacco Road." Performance dates are Feb. 9-11 and 13-14 starting at 8:15 p.m. in McGinnis Theater on the East Carolina University campus.

Mavis Ray and Tom Hull have performed on and off Broadway, toured plays in all but four states and have had leading roles in "The Lost Colony;" however, they have never appeared on stage together.

Miss Ray is a choreographer and actress for the East Carolina Summer Theater. She performed on Broadway in Michael Bennett's "Ballroom" and toured the country in a production of "Da." She has had roles in ABC's "All My Children" and "Annie." For two seasons she was seen in the role of Queen Elizabeth in "The Lost Colony."

In "Tobacco Road" she will play the wife of a back-woods dirt farmer who aspires only to snuff and a new dress to be buried in.

A Durham native and a graduate of ECU, Hull will play the dirt farmer, Jeeter Lester, in "Tobacco Road." In professional theater he is known for a variety of character roles including "One Mo' Time," "Jim Thorpe, All American" and "Little Mary Sunshine." For eight seasons, he played Old Tom in "The Lost Colony" and last October was seen in "Times Remembered" produced in Wilmington's Thalian Hall.

Others in the cast are: Brian Cottle in the role of Dude Lester; Crisa Warren as Ellie Mae; Hal Wells as Lov Bensey; Boyce Cutchin as Henry Peabody; Mary Whichard Vars as Grandma Lester; Ingrid Wight as Bessie; Jeanne Resua in the role of Pearl; Alan McCoy Jr. as George Payne, and Mike Pitts as Captain Tim.

Adapted from Erskine Caldwell's best selling novel "Tobacco Road," the play centers around the aging toothless Jeeter Lester who lives with his bickering family in a dilapidated shack on a dusty track of once-rich farmland. Originally written as a compassionate social document about a family of Georgia crackers ground by poverty into an animal-like pursuit of starved appetites, its audiences have often come to see the play as a comedy.

"Tobacco Road" ran on Broadway for eight years in the 1930s, with four companies also touring the country giving numerous one and two-night performances during that time. Considered controversial in those days, it was banned in a number of towns, including Raleigh. The movie version, made in 1941, was directed by John Ford and starred Gene Tierney, Dana Andrews and Ward Bond.

The East Carolina Playhouse production, directed by Edgar Loessin, is being presented in realism. The shack on stage has been constructed of old lumber salvaged from an old slave cabin in Greenville and a real Chinaberry tree now stands on the McGinnis stage.

Reserved seat tickets are on sale at the McGinnis Theater Box Office at the corner of Fifth and Eastern streets in Greenville. The office is open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling 757-6390.

Dinner Theater Feb. 16-17

A two-act comedy by Greenville's Stuart Aronson, "Aphrodisiacs Unlimited," will be presented for two dinner theater performances Feb. 16-17 at the King and Queen North on North Greene Street.

Five area actors are cast in the play — Lisa Distefano has the role of Honey Lamb, with Greg Watson as Bobby Bannisters, Hazel Stapleton as Penelope Prendergast, Bobby Myers as Kermit Womble, and Joey Pollock as Adrian Pugh.

Aronson, who is also author and director of the Bath outdoor drama, "Blackbeard: Knight of the Black Flag," is directing "Aphrodisiacs Unlimited."

Dinner will be served at 7 p.m., with performance of the play to begin at approximately 8 p.m.

For more details and for reservations, call 758-9714.

Three Local Youths Chosen To Perform In Wilmington

Three young Greenville musicians have been chosen to perform concertos with the Wilmington Symphony Orchestra in April. They were chosen recently in a competition to select three young performers from an area of within 120 miles of the port city for a spring performanc with the orchestra.

Philippe Aronson, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Aronson, will perform the first movement of Beethoven's "Concerto No. 1 in C Major." Philippe has been a piano student of Carlene Ragan of Greenville.

The other two winners, Andrea Bath and Amy Moore, will together perform the three movements of J. S. Bach's "Concerto in D Minor" for two violins. Andrea, 15, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Bath. Amy, 15, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Moore. Both are violin students of Joanne Bath.

All three are students at J. H. Rose High School.

The concert will be performed in Wilmington April 17.

Winners In Competition

CHARLOTTE — Three young Charlotte musicians, Sarah Stroud, Todd Geer and George Carter, were selected as winners in the Senior's Division of the recently held 29th annual Young Artists Auditions competition sponsored by the Charlotte Symphony Women's Association and Case Brothers Piano.

The three are winners in voice, piano and instrumental categories. As winners, each will receive $150 and will perform with the Youth Symphony of the Carolinas.

The competition was judged by three professional musicians. Two of the three judges are members of the faculty of the school of music, East Carolina University — Robert Hause, professor of music and conductor of the East Carolina University Symphony Orchestra, and Dr. Paul Tardif, professor of music, ECU.

The Queen Mary was launched Sept. 26, 1934, after a royal christening in Glasgow. Four years later she captured the Blue Riband of the Atlantic from the French ship Normandie and held the title until 1952.

Awarded A Grant

The Playwrights' Fund of North Carolina, Inc., headquartered in Greenville, has been awarded a consultancy grant from the North Carolina Arts Council under the auspices of the Pitt-Greenville Arts Council. The grant is part of a program "designed to improve the effectiveness of North Carolina's arts organizations by assisting them in obtaining needed expertise." The grant will cover consultant's fees and travel expense for Candyce Mason, who is Director of Development for The Acting Company in New York.

"Playwrights' Fund of North Carolina has grown almost 20 fold in two years," explains Preston Sisk, president of the Greenville-based organization. "This rapid growth has heightened the need for us to develop a long range plan which encompasses the next ten years.

"The generosity of the North Carolina Arts Council, the National Endowment for the Arts, and the Pitt-Greenville Arts Council is providing the funds which will bring Ms. Mason to Greenville and will enable us to gain an invaluable perspective on our organization and its potential role in fostering the creation and development of new works for the stage."

The consultancy project is jointly supported by a grant from the North Carolina Arts Council and the National Endowment for the Arts in Washington, D.C., a federal agency.

Curtain Players Presenting Mime Show

OPENING ON THURSDAY — The Curtain Players Mime Company, a group of young student performers at Ayden-Grifton High School, will be presenting another mixed fare program in the next in a series of entertainments which has run for several years. Material they have chosen for this Winter 1984 production ranges the spectrum from bubble gum to silent movies, from juggling to thievery, on to the Globe's Theater's 40 minute cutting ofShakespeare's play, "Taming of the Shrew" in this, their newest venture. Performances will be given three times, on Thursday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. and on Sunday at 3 p.m. All performances will be in the auditorium at Ayden-Grifton High School. For more information and reservations, call 746-6782. (Photo by Brenda Ross)

Arts Council Seeks Artists

RALEIGH — March 1 is the deadline for applications for positions in community residency programs in North Carolina administered by the North Carolina Arts Council.

The two programs seeking applicants are visiting artist and artists-in-schools. Application is encouraged by the council in all art forms.

The visiting artist program, which the council sponsors with the N.C. Department of Community Colleges, places individual artists at technical schools and community colleges to serve 12-month countywide residencies. Visiting artists are not formal teachers but work with various groups within the county in different types of activities.

The artists-in-schools program places individual artists and professional theater and dance companies, in residencies, usually for a semester, at elementary and secondary schools.

Once selected for the program, artists are chosen by individual schools and may participate up to four years. Applicants must be willing to relocate to any part of the state; and after being hired, must work and live in the community of the residency.

Minimum requirements for both programs is a master's degree or equivalent training and experience in the applicant's art form. An audition may be required.

For more information and application forms for either program, write to: Adrienne Witherspoon, N.C. Arts Council, Department of Cultural Resources, Raleigh, N.C., 27611, or call her at 733-7897. Assistance in completing aplication forms is available.

Suzuki Players In Mini-Concert

The Suzuki Violin Players, a group of Greenville and area young people studying violin by the Suzuki method under the direction of Joanne Bath, will be in concert at noon Wednesday at the Greenville Museum of Art, 802 S. Evans St.

This is one of the series of lunchtime events held during each month at the museum. The mini-concert is free and open to the public. Those wishing to do so may bring along bag lunches to eat during performance.

Children's Play In Wilson Monday

WILSON — "Aesop's Kaleidoscope," a Jester Children's Theater presentation, will be performed at 4 p.m. Monday at Fike High School.

The entertainment will be performed by the Richmond Theater Co. Inc., under the auspices of Jester's Theater, an affiliate member of the Arts Council of Wilson.

Shaw Players Now On Tour

RALEIGH — During Feburary, designated as Black History month, the North Carolina State University Center Stage is hosting the noted black theater troupe, the Negro Ensemble Company, for an exclusive North Carolina engagement.

The NEC will present four performances of Charles Fuller's "A Soldier's Play" — at 3 and 8 p.m. Feb. 11-12.

For additional information and reservations, call the box office at 737-3104 between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Millions Now Celebrating New Year In Asian Nations

THE YEAR OF THE RAT . . . The Chinese, or Lunar New Year for the western year 1984 got underway Thursday, Feb. 2, as millions of Chinese, Japanese, Thais, Vietnamese, Cambodians, Laotians, Malaysians, Koreans and other Asian nationalities began a 12-day period of festive celebrations. In Hong Kong, to mark the occasion, the British Royal Mint is issuing a $1,000 22-karat gold coin (equivalent to about $125 face value in U.S. currency). The coin features a portrait of Queen Elizabeth II on the obverse side and an alert rat, Shu, on the reverse side. (Photo courtesy the British Royal Mint)

Texts By Jerry Raynor (Except For Hong Kong Story)

HONG KONG — The Chinese people love a celebration and none is as festive and elaborate as the Chinese New Year which welcomed in The Year of the Rat on Thursday, Feb. 2. The festivities embrace folklore and traditions thousands of years old.

To make way for the New Year, the house is cleaned from top to bottom, special foods are prepared, debts are paid, new clothes bought, family ties renewed and ancestors remembered.

Firecrackers and gongs scare away lazy and evil spirits, while the burning of incense welcomes new spirits to earth. Banners of greeting in bright red and orange, the color of joy and happiness, are hung on doorways, and once each year the sacred dragon parades thorugh the streets to wish peace, prosperity and good luck to all. It's like Thanksgiving, Christmas and the Fourth of July all rolled into one.

In China the festivities last for 14 days, beginning with the new moon on New Year's Eve and ending with the Festival of Lanterns or Feast of the Full Moon when tens of thousands of gaily decorated lanterns light the Chinese night.

The Chinese base their calendar on an ancient lunar system. Legend tells that the first New Year celebration began when Buddha summoned all the animals in creation to join him for a New Year's feast, only 12 accepted. To reward the 12 who came, Buddha named a year in honor of each, to be repeated in 12-year cycles. This system is very similar to the signs of the Zodiac in astrology as each animal symbolizes special character traits.

The first to arrive in Buddha's feast was Shu, the rat, an animal long respected as a good omen. For centuries the Chinese have regarded the rat as a sign of prosperity, creativity, longevity and honesty.

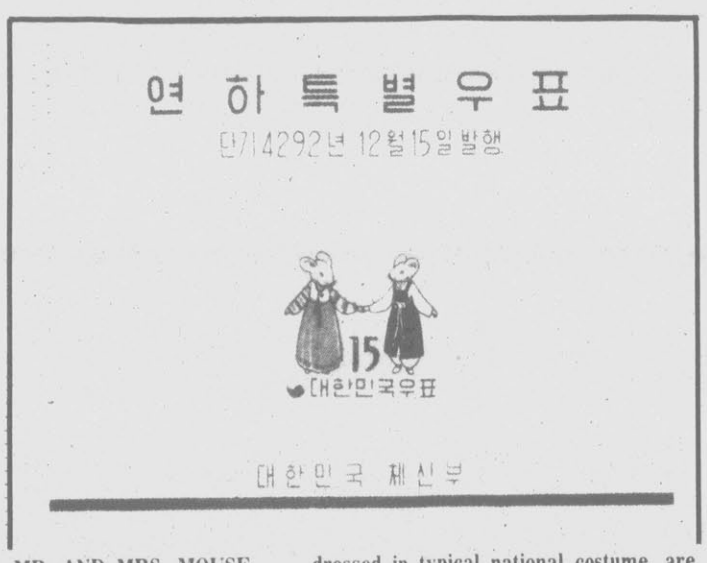

To honor the Year of the Rat, the Hong Kong Government has issued a special 22-karat gold coin. Produced by the British Royal Mint, one of the oldest in the world, the revere design features the legendary Shu as designed by artist-sculptor Lady Elizabeth Haddon-Cave. The obverse bears the Arnold Machin portrait of Queen Elizabeth II, the portrait which also appears on most British and Commonwealth coins.

The coin is one in an ongoing series struck by the British Royal Mint depicting the 12 animals of the Lunar Calendar. The Year of the Rat coin will be legal tender in Hong Kong with a face value of $1,000 Hong Kong dollars (the equivalent of approximately $125 in U.S. currency); although the coins are more likely to end up with collectors around the world than in someone's pocket in Hong Kong. The coin is not only a momento of the New Year, but a symbol of an entire way of life.

Coins play an important role in the New Year celebration. Old coins, which have a hole in the center, are hung on the traditional "money tree" together with paper flowers and nuts. The "tree" made from pine and cypress branches arranged in a large vase, is prominently displayed in the home to bring good fortune. Copper coins threaded on colored string are placed at the foot of each child's bed and formed in the shape of a dragon for protection, prosperity and good luck throughout the year. Children also receive special "lai see," good luck money wrapped in red paper from friends and relatives.

With Shu, the rat, symbolizing prosperity, 1984 should generally be favorable for purchases, loans and investments.

So on Feb. 2, Chinese and other Oriental people ask that people think of Shu and prosperity for 1984. As the Chinese say — "Gung hay fat choy," Happy Chinese New Year.

MR. AND MRS. MOUSE . . . dressed in typical national costume, are pictured in this small New Year postal souvenir sheet of 1960 issued to call attention to the animal of that year, which was the rat, the same as for 1984.

An Abbreviated Chart Of The Chinese Zodiac

In the Chinese, or Lunar Zodiac calendar, a dozen animals were long ago chosen by the Buddha to be honored by having each 12th year named for them on a continuing rotating cycle.

This year, 1984, is the Year of the Rat. Using a beginning date of 60 years ago, 1924, the years since then assigned each animal and a brief list of characteristics reputedly applicable to persons born during that particular year follow:

- Year of the Rat — 1924, 1936, 1948, 1960, 1972, 1984 — Ambitious and sincere, you can be generous with your financial resources.
- Year of the Ox — 1925, 1937, 1949, 1961, 1973 — A leader, you are bright and cheerful.
- Year of the Tiger — 1926, 1938, 1950, 1962, 1974 — Forthright and sensitive, you possess great courage.
- Year of the Rabbit — 1927, 1939, 1951, 1963, 1975 — Talented and affectionate, you are a seeker of tranquility.
- Year of the Dragon — 1928, 1940, 1952, 1964, 1976 — Robust and passionate, your life is filled with complexity.
- Year of the Snake — 1929, 1941, 1953, 1965, 1977 — Strong willed and intense, you display great wisdom.
- Year of the Horse — 1930, 1942, 1954, 1966, 1978 — Physically attractice and popular, you like the company of others.
- Year of the Sheep — 1931, 1943, 1955, 1967, 1979 — Aesthetic and stylish, you enjoy being a private person.
- Year of the Monkey — 1932, 1944, 1956, 1968, 1980 — Persuasive and intelligent, you strive to excel.
- Year of the Cock — 1933, 1945, 1957, 1969, 1981 — Seeking wisdom and truth, you have a pioneering spirit.
- Year of the Dog — 1934, 1946, 1958, 1970, 1982 — Generous and loyal, you have the ability to work well with others.
- Year of the Boar — 1935, 1947, 1959, 1971, 1983 — Gallant and noble, your friends will remain at your side.

It can be seen from this brief chart that only the finest attributes of human virtues are noted. A detailed study of literature on the subject reveals a complex look into human character, including guidelines on persons born in other years most or least compatible as partners in love, business and intellectual associations. (Information in this chart courtesy the Peking Palace Restaurant)

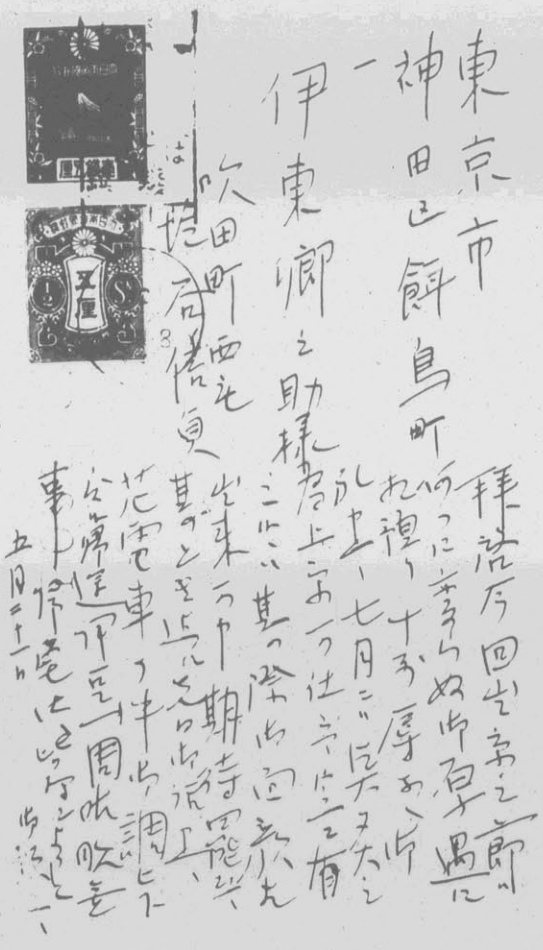

A Time Of Hope, Renewal

Those who have visited or lived in the Orient will recall the excitement generated in those countries on the arrival of the New Year, whether it is called Chinese or Lunar New Year, Tet, or by some other name.

Many of the observances are similar — in some ways akin to the Western world's observance of Christmas, only for a longer period of time.

New clothes, bright toys, the visitation of relatives, festive meals, trips to ancestral homes and to the burial places of ancestors, rounds of entertainment with special dance and music, worship services in temples and at family altars, and time-honored rituals designed to insure prosperity, fortune and long life — are all an integral part of New Year festivities in the Far East.

In the war-weary years of the 20th century in Japan, Korea, Vietnam, Singapore, China and Malaysia, among other nations, people somehow found the courage, even in the direst years of adversity, to carry on the traditions of generations before them in the annual celebration of New Year. Whether in good or lean years, the Oriental New Year is a time that is symbolic of hope and renewal for the future.

NEW YEAR'S GREETING . . . A Japanese postal card bears, at top, the initial stamp of the Japanese postal system designed especially to mark the New Year. The stamp, issued in 1935, depicts the sacred mountain, Fuji. The additional stamp at bottom is a one-half sen stamp of the regular issue in use at that time.

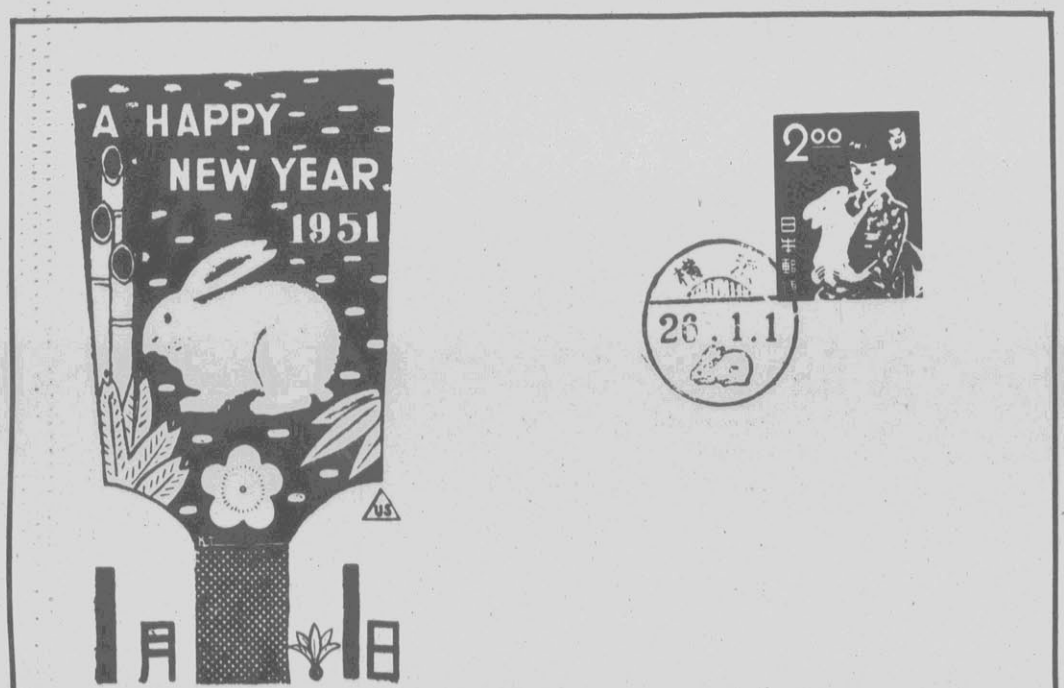

Influences On Society Today

Contemporary celebrations of the Asian New Year have provided stamp and coin collectors with a wealth of fascinating material for their collections. Japan was the pioneer, with the issuance in late 1935 of a small one and one-half sen rose carmine stamp showing Mt. Fuji for use on New Year's card. In the years since, other Asiatic nations have begin to issue stamps and coins for New Year use. Today collectors have a wide variety of special New Year stamps, postal cards, souvenir sheets, and less frequently, coins, to choose from each year.

In other spheres, observance of the Chinese New Year has long been traditionally associated with dance, theater, storytelling and literature. Many of the ancient New Year legends have been re-interpreted to make them more even more colorful and appealing to younger generations of Asians.

A PAPIERMACHE LION'S MASK . . . is one of the favorite festival masks used for New Year celebrations. This mask, worn here by a Vietnamese youth, is decorated with wisps of cotton and plastic baubles. Although the lion is not one of the 12 animals in the Chinese zodiac, his image is used extensively in numerous festivals throughout the year. (Photo by Jerry Raynor)

CRYPTOQUIP 2-4

LEE FEQQAC GYYGTSF UQAD LZZYD-UYW; LZY IYTSF UZTYW IC GYYZD.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — THE RASH BARBER CANNOT USE A SHORTCUT.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Y equals E.

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

FACT OR FANTASY?

DEAR READERS: We have had many requests over the years for those hands that we consider to be our favorites. That makes quite a list. For the time being, therefore, we are devoting the Sunday column to a series of famous hands. At the end of the series, we will go back to our weekly question and answer column.

Both vulnerable. North deals.

♠ 6 4 3
♡ Void
◇ 10 9 8 5 4 2

WEST
♠ Void
♡ K Q J 10 7 6
♢ Q J

EAST
♠ Q 10 8 7
♡ A 9 8 5
♢ 7 6 3

SOUTH
♡ Void
♢ A K
♣ A J 7 5 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	2 ♠	4 ♡
4 ♠	Pass	5 ♣	5 ♡
5 ♠	Pass	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	Dble	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: King of ♡.

When a young bridge player makes his mark at the top level of competition, he is usually around to delight us for many years to come. This hand was reported from the Indonesian Championships several years ago. Sitting South was Oscar Iranan, then 17 years old.

The bidding is noteworthy for its many flaws and the fact that it got South to a contract where he could demonstrate his skill. We will refrain from commenting on North's failure to support his partner's second suit despite holding four cards in it, or on East's double, because of the libel laws.

Because of the double and lack of dummy entries, declarer knew that he had to reduce the length of his trumps if he was going to pick up East's four trumps without losing a trick in the suit. So he ruffed the opening lead in dummy with the three and underruffed with the two. He then finessed the nine of trumps successfully, cashed the ace-king of diamonds and ace of clubs, and threw West on lead with a club.

West was forced to return a heart. Declarer ruffed in dummy with the six and again underruffed in hand. Now he simply led diamonds from the table until East ruffed. When East chose to do so, declarer would overruff, draw the outstanding trumps and claim his slam.

Note that it would not help West to discard a club on the first trump trick. Declarer could still end play him by cashing the ace-king of diamonds, then exiting with a low club rather than first cashing the ace.

Now we are not so naive as to believe that no bridge writer has ever credited a hand to someone who might not have played it. However, this hand looks mighty like a double dummy problem to us.

What makes us particularly suspicious about this hand, however, is that you might think that someone who could declare a hand as well as this would since have made his mark on world bridge. Not so. Young Oscar was simply a one-hand star, and has since faded into obscurity.

Pine Ridge Sioux Survive Winter's Winds And Cold

By LEON DANIEL
UPI National Reporter

PINE RIDGE INDIAN RESERVATION, S.D. (UPI) — Killer winds whipped across the plains this winter as the mercury plunged as low as 47 below, but America's poorest of the poor survived, some by burning meager possessions for heat.

They are the Oglala Sioux, whose legends are of harsh winters and hard times.

Elders who recall the blizzard of 1949 once heard their own grandparents speak of the winter of 1890 when U.S. soldiers massacred 150 of the tribe, including 44 women and 18 children, at nearby Wounded Knee.

"I estimate unemployment on the reservation at 85 percent," said Joe American Horse, the tribal council president who in another time would be called a chief.

"The majority of those without jobs can make a better living staying on welfare and food stamps than by working," acknowledged the president. He explained that the $3.35-an-hour minimum wage they might earn would be grievously eroded by the high cost of commuting to jobs, available only outside the reservation.

President Reagan was busily cutting the federal budget — and Indian programs — when American Horse took office almost two years ago with high hopes for his people.

Despite the budget cuts, American Horse told UPI after five months in his new job, "We are moving in the direction of providing a good life for the Oglala Sioux people."

Another hard year later, however, he acknowledged unemployment had climbed another 13 percentage points and the reservation still is afflicted with rampant alcoholism and the kind of poverty that grinds men down.

American Horse lays much of the blame at the door of the White House.

"The Reagan administration cut out too many necessary programs and reduced funding for others that were needed," he said.

American Horse and some other Indian leaders were encouraged when Reagan vowed to reverse a century of unsuccessful federal supervision over reservations and instead encourage tribal self-government.

The plan includes efforts to lure private investment to the reservations to create jobs and reduce the need for federal funds. It calls for cutting funds for Indian programs this year to $2.3 billion — $353 million under the 1983 budget.

Once a long-distance runner at the University of Nebraska, American Horse is running again, this time for a second two-year term as the tribe's leader.

One of the former U.S. Marine's opponents will be the bright young lawyer he brought in as the tribe's executive director, Robert Fast Horse.

"I can't say we've accomplished much," Fast Horse said bluntly. "We've failed to attract industry and jobs to the reservation."

Indians need federal help to do that, he said, and they are not getting it.

"We've had enough studies and task forces to determine what we need," Fast Horse said. "We know what we need. We're the most studied and regulated people on the face of the earth. It's hard to argue with the amount of money Indians get, but Congress is going to have to see that this money confronts our problems. Indians need to help formulate Indian policy in this country."

Fast Horse counts as one tribal accomplishment the relief efforts that so far have prevented any Indian deaths during this winter's severe weather.

"At the coldest, we had 120 families in emergency shelters and 220 families moved in with other families," he said, adding that the wind-chill factor plunged to 90 below in the heart of the reservation in the southwest corner of South Dakota.

Some who ran out of propane, wood and other fuels resorted to burning furniture and clothing to stay alive until rescue workers could distribute emergency supplies. Fast Horse said the coal-black braids of his hair were frosted white and frozen stiff by the cold.

"Nobody stopped to pray," he said. "We were too busy."

If John Yellow Bird Steele, the tribe's vice president, had prayed, it would have been as a Roman Catholic. But he applauds the 1978 Indian Religious Freedom Act which he said "brought the peace pipe out from underground."

"Some of the priests say mass with the pipe," Steele said. "They say Catholicism and the Indian religion are parallel."

Wounded Knee is a 20-minute drive but a world away from reservation headquarters at Pine Ridge.

Garry Rowland is the proprietor of a general store in a converted house trailer, the only business establishment for miles around. Eleven years ago he was a member of a band of militant youths who seized the Wounded Knee massacre site.

They held it for 71 days against federal agents in an armed confrontation that came to be known as Wounded Knee II and spotlighted the demands of the American Indian Movement (AIM) for fair treatment of the people AIM called Native Americans.

Rowland, a U.S. Army veteran, soon gave up militant politics to go into business.

A year ago his business was poor but today Rowland, who lives in the back of the trailer with his wife and four children, is one of the relatively few Indians who might agree with Reagan that the nation's economic recovery has begun.

"I'm slowly expanding," he said. "I'm going to put up a building next year. I've already put in a couple of gas pumps. I'm going to stay here. My business fulfills a need."

So does the business of Ted Twiss, which is to help Indian veterans of the military services secure benefits to which they are entitled. Twiss, a highly decorated former U.S. Air Force pilot who has an office at tribal headquarters, also helps recruit Indians for the services.

"Enlistments are up because of the crisis in the economy," Twiss said.

NOBODY DOES IT BETTER

How Jeannette Cox has become Greenville's Most Successful Relocation Specialist.

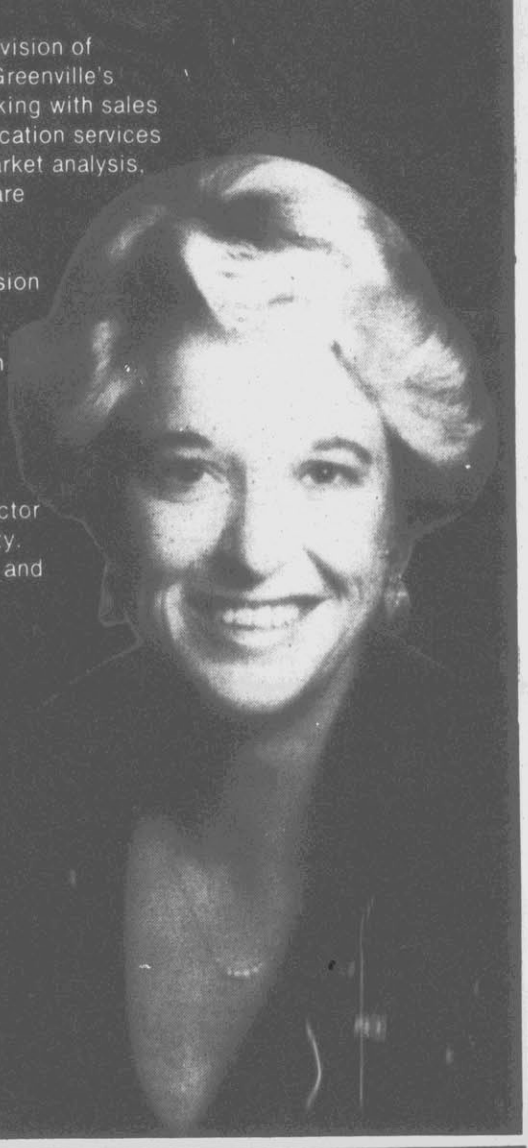

When corporations need help in the transfer and relocation of their employees in the Greenville area, more of them call Jeannette Cox than any other Realtor. Because no one equals her experience in managing residential properties. Or her success in selling them.

Jeannette heads the Relocation Division of Jeannette Cox Agency, Inc., one of Greenville's most dynamic real estate firms. Working with sales Associates, she coordinates the relocation services required by her corporate clients. Market analysis, sales, mortgage financing and the care and upkeep of vacant homes. It's all handled efficiently and at the lowest possible cost by the Relocation Division at Jeannette Cox Agency, Inc.

In addition to working directly with major corporations, Jeannette also represents relocation firms such as Equitable Relocation Management Company, Merrill Lynch Relocation management, Bank of St. Lewis, Proctor and Gamble Company and Homequity. Here, too, her property management and sales skills find a ready market.

If your company is involved in employee transfer and relocation in Greenville or the surrounding counties, call Jeannette Cox at (919) 756-1322.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, FEB. 5, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day that is likely to be replete with delays, obstacles and broken promises unless each of us makes a point to be watchful, kind and thoughtful. Accept whatever happens as an opportunity.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Although you may feel hemmed in, don't let it upset you and go along with present situations. Avoid arguments.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle your own affairs yourself today since friends and acquaintances could be disappointing. Enjoy a quiet evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Not a good day to be in the outside world or to argue with any higher-ups. Think over credit affairs and plan to pay soon.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Seriously study any philosophical matters and get the most out of them. Keep out of trouble and be happy.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Don't take any risks in conversations with others today, since everyone seems to be under some kind of tension.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) It is best to be cooperative with any partners since opposition could bring much trouble. Take things in stride.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Forget business worries which can best be handled tomorrow and get a good day's rest. Enjoy a quiet evening at home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A good day to really live the good life and be kind toward others who are having difficulties. Don't overspend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You and kin may feel hemmed in today, but let faith make you more courageous and outgoing. Avoid moot subjects.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may be feeling pugnacious today, so calm down and be more objective and thoughtful. Take time for study.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If going over financial status, plan how to save more mony in the future instead of spending it. Seek advisors.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You feel upset and irate today, so think pleasant thoughts and go to charming places and snap out of it. Avoid large groups.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will always be wanting to change things to his or her liking, feeling that nothing is really as it should be. Slant the education along the lines of trouble-shooting so that the most can be made of this natural bent.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, FEB. 6, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day and evening to utilize the talents and special gifts with which you are endowed to bring them to light in new, unique and progressive lines of activity.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get in touch with as many friends as you can since they can be of real assistance to you now. Carry through with plans.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can accomplish much in the business world today, provided you seek out bigwigs who can assist you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Look for more enterprising and profitable activities to help you get ahead. Follow your hunches which are leading you correctly.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You know now how to please the one you love and be happier together, so don't hesitate to do so.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) A good day to add to your roster of allies. This will broaden your wisdom. Start planning a trip now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Begin the new week properly by looking into more modern ways of handling your interests and career.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Good day to come to better terms with partners and to add others who can be helpful. Utilize a more modern outlook.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be more enthusiastic about the work you have to do and this impresses higher-ups and co-workers. Take health treatments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Find more modern ways of enjoying yourself and be sure you dress correctly. Have a more cheerful outlook.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Put some life in your home living and get out of the dull rut you may be in. Invite interesting people to your home.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Find the best way to increase production and be more alert at whatever else you may be doing. Think logically.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get busy with money-making ideas and get good results and become more prosperous. Talk to one who has been successful.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be very alert and aware of what is going on and will be very interested in the modern and in details. Teach early to complete what has been started, but do not thwart the enthusiasm for new enterprises.

Sarajevo Shines As Olympic Hometown

By Mark Nolan

The XIVth Winter Olympic Games get underway this week and CTV will provide 68 hours of coverage, beginning with a pre-Olympic special on Monday, Feb. 6.

Due to the barrage of media information it seems that almost everybody knows the games are being held in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia. It is also unlikely, however, that any more than a handful of viewers know anything about the host city.

Perhaps the most appropriate word to describe Sarajevo is "diverse." Since approximately 1000 B.C., when the Illyrians first settled the region, the area has experienced dozens of invasions and settlements. Today, Sarajevo's history is visible in the architectural style of the city's religious centers, which are a blend of eastern and western influences.

Like the city's inhabitants themselves, nearly every aspect of daily life in Sarajevo reflects a mixture of cultures. In the eastern side of Sarajevo, known as the Bascarsija, or the Old City, Moslem influence can be seen in the form of mosques. Attached to these mosques are the minarets, which tower above the adjoining copper roofs, and from which the call to daily prayer can be heard.

One of the most interesting landmarks is the Gazi Hursevbey mosque, the largest mosque in the country. This magnificent structure stands adjacent to the sahatkula, or town clock. Western tourists would be somewhat confused by the way this particular clock keeps time. Following the custom of the Turks, the clock is at 12 o'clock precisely as the sun is setting.

In 300 B.C., the region was invaded by the Romans. A Roman Catholic Cathedral located in the Bascarsija offers Sarajevo's Catholic population their own place of worship. Approximately one-fourth of Yugoslavia's popula[illegible] is Roman Catholic.

Also in the Basca[illegible] of Sarajevo's olde[illegible], the Old Orthodox C[illegible] located not far fr[illegible] Synagogue, which Sarajevo's Jewis[illegible] since the migrati[illegible] dic Jews nearly

The world's finest athletes will strive for the Olympic gold during the 1984 Olympic Games in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, televised Feb. 6-19 on ABC.

Michele Will Tell

By Michele Marks

DEAR MICHELE: I enjoy watching "Webster" with Emmanuel Lewis. I was wondering if he has kidney problems like Gary Coleman of "Diff'rent Strokes?" — A.B.

To A.B.: Let's put this erroneous assumption to rest once and for all. Emmanuel Lewis does not suffer from any kidney ailments. He's just short.

DEAR MICHELE: Would you please settle an argument between my husband and me? I say that Elizabeth Taylor's eyes are green, he says they are purple or violet. Seven days of housework rides on this. — Y.

To Y: Oh, I wish I didn't have to do this, but break out the vacuum and the rubber gloves. I have seen Liz, up close, and can tell you her eyes are, without a doubt, the most incredible shade of violet I have ever seen.

DEAR MICHELE: What does the L.C.P.D. stand for on "T.J. Hooker" uniforms? — D.K.

To D.K.: Nothing. At least that's what my friends at ABC tell me.

DEAR MICHELE: I've been a fan of Mary Tyler Moore ever since she was on "The Dick Van Dyke Show." Can you tell me something about her? — C.M.

To C.M.: Mary Tyler Moore was born Dec. 29, 1937 in Brooklyn, N.Y. Right out of high school she married Richard Meeker. They eventually split, but they had one son, Richie. In 1963, she wed producer Grant Tinker, and for many years enjoyed tremendous success, including Emmy, Tony and Oscar wins. Then suddenly in 1980 tragedy struck. Her 23-year old son died of an accidental gunshot wound. She also lost her sister and to top it off her 17-year marriage to Tinker, now the head of NBC, ended. Her life, however, appears to be back on track again following her marriage last November to heart surgeon Dr. Robert Levine.

DEAR MICHELE: I just love the scenery on "Fantasy Island." Can you tell me where it is filmed? I think it would make a great vacation spot, if it exists. — D.T.K.

To D.T.K.: I wouldn't pack the suntan lotion. "Fantasy Island" is filmed in various Southern California locales and at the Burbank Studio. Clips of Hawaii are added in for good measure.

DEAR MICHELE: I watch Menudo regularly, and would like to know all their names and where to write them. Are they all from Puerto Rico? — W.M.

To W.M.: The singing group is currently composed of Ricky, Johnny, Mique, Charlie and Ray, the only member not born in Puerto Rico. Fans may write to the "little ones" — translated that's what Menudo means — in c/o ABC-TV, 1330 Ave. of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019.

TV Chatter

By Polly Vonetes

During an interview with "CAGNEY & LACEY" stars, TYNE DALEY and SHARON GLESS the pair asked that their fans be thanked for the many letters sent to CBS protesting their cancellation. Because of the impact if the letters, the pair will be returning to the CBS schedule in March.

Seventy percent of the letters written were from women who obviously approve of the series and the roles they portray.

BARNEY ROSENZWEIG, executive producer of the series said, "We had short notice. We were called on Wednesday to get the show together by Friday. Luckily we were able to assemble 80 percent of the original cast and crew. We are planning to bring the same show back — no changes."

RATHER's secret revealed: DAVID POLTRACK, CBS head of research, admitted that newsman DAN RATHER's sweater had no marketing value, even though he honestly needed it to keep warm. "A lot of new computer equipment had been brought into the broadcast room requiring the temperature to be kept very low. Dan wore a sweater to keep warm — besides that his wife liked it," he said. However, public opinion won out and Rather lost his sweater.

I don't think you will be sorry if you watch "Celebrity," starring BEN MASTERS, MICHAEL BECK, JOSEPH BOTTOMS, HAL HOLBROOK, DEBBIE ALLEN, JAMES WHITMORE and KAREN AUSTIN.

It is a powerful drama based on THOMAS THOMPSON's best-selling novel of three boyhood friends who each attain great national fame but are haunted throughout their lives by an unspeakable crime they committed on the eve of their high school graduation.

Twenty-five years later, in a strange twist of fate, the friends are reunited at the scene of the original crime. The meeting ends with one dead, one seriously wounded and another charged with murder.

Fashion fascinates morning TV viewers

By Elaina Thompson

Being in fashion is back in fashion on local morning talk shows. So when one male caller suggested more sports talk and phasing out the fashion shows — even the ones with the models in leather bikinis — he didn't realize the opposition he would come up against.

With both female and male models in designer threads getting the eye from viewers these days, there are not many who could resist the walk-bys with details about fabrics, colors and styles. Merv Griffin discovered long ago that fashion fascinates, and a fair chunk of his "Tennis in Venice" coverage four years ago sidetracked to a Giorgio Armani fashion show.

Lynda Carter

Good budget wardrobes, where one can match or scramble four separates into 20 outfits, get into the viewing pattern too.

But not everybody wants the tube to mirror what he or she might stash in his or her own closet.

Bob Mackie, who for several years has been designing exotic lingerie for retail stores, first dazzled the nation with the always slinky stunners worn by Cher, many of which could not have held up to a social evening in real life. Mackie is a man who knows that there's a place (on stage, or on camera) for the pure, lavish and outrageous costumes.

Glenn Close, seen in everyday garb as the mother in the recent ABC movie "Something About Amelia," admitted that she once took a small role because it gave her a chance to wear a ball gown.

But when it comes to fashion, it's going to be hard to top what Lynda Carter has in store for her CBS March special, "Lynda Carter's Body & Soul and Then Some." You thought she was far out as "Wonder Woman"? Well, this time it's a low cut something for the torso, and a feathered, jeweled headdress for a show stopper. In all, the tab for jewels and costumes is put at $2.5 million.

Commentator Al Michaels (r.) will be joined by Hockey Hall of Famer Ken Dryden (center) and Mike Eruzione, captain of the 1980 U.S. Olympic Hockey Team, when the trio cover the hockey battle between the U.S. and Norway in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, Saturday, Feb. 11 on ABC.

Knight Rider Soon To Have Wife In Tow

By Ian Harmer

HOLLYWOOD — David Hasselhoff is under intense pressure to tie the knot in a blaze of publicity when he marries longtime girlfriend Catherine Hickland this spring, but the star of NBC's "Knight Rider" confesses he'd much rather head for some exotic hideaway and get hitched in private.

Hasselhoff is adjusting nicely to the novelty of being a primetime superstar after six years of hard labor in the nether world of the soaps, but both he and his fiancee are discovering that owning a face that has launched countless thousands of toy cars (plus lunch boxes, bubble gum, baseballs, T-shirts and games) isn't always all it's cracked up to be.

"It's ridiculous for someone who is being paid a lot of money to do a job he has been dreaming about for years to start complaining," says Hasselhoff, "Mostly I think of myself as the luckiest guy in the whole world.

"'Knight Rider' isn't just a hit: it's a pretty damn good show and the thrill I get out of being a part of it keeps me going even when I have to work a 21-hour day.

"But now and then I find myself asking questions like, 'When do I sleep?' or 'Wouldn't it be nice to walk along a deserted beach with Catherine some day without having someone run up and tell me I'm Michael Knight?"

Hasselhoff admits that four years into his stint as Snapper on the soap opera "The Young and the Restless," he fell apart emotionally and physically, and needed professional advice to get him back on the track that eventually led to "Knight Rider."

"Now, every dream I ever had about making it in this business has come true," says Hasselhoff. "And I am working on some more. I've written the stories for a few episodes of 'Knight Rider,' they're going to let me direct a couple this year and I'm happy to give the show a few more years before moving on to feature films.

"Plenty of TV stars have tried to make it in features and failed, but I learned a lot about myself when things were tough, and I believe in myself.

"My success and the demands the show makes were a problem for Catherine and me for a while, but we worked things out. I guess it helps that now she has a regular role in 'Capitol' and gets recognized in public the same as I do.

"We're planning to get married in March and we're being told it's going to be a major media event. Maybe we can figure out a way to have them hold the party without us and we'll sneak off alone to some far-off country where 'Knight Rider' isn't a hit. Yet."

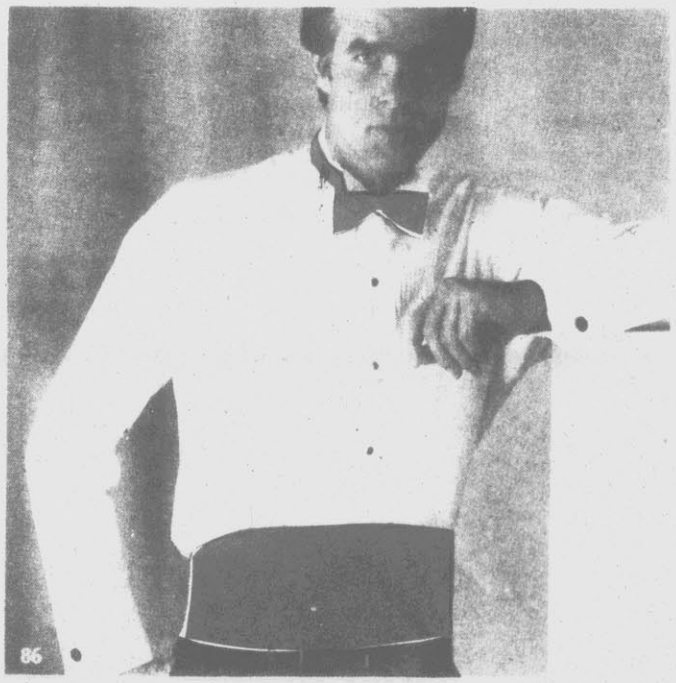

MONDAY:
'LITTLE HOUSE'

JIM McKAY'S OLYMPIC MEMORIES

ASK THEM YOURSELF

FROM THE "ASK" EDITORS

LOS ANGELES — Vincent Price has been sending chills down audience spines for years, but right now he's none-too-thrilled about Michael Jackson's latest enterprise. Price lent his sonorous voice to Jackson's hit record Thriller, for which he was paid a flat fee. But when a video version of the platinum platter was produced, Price reports, "I never heard a word, not even, 'Do you mind if we use your voice?'" His agent, Walter Kohner, and the show-business unions AFTRA and SAG are investigating the cross-media reuse.... With Love Boat sailing through its seventh season, Lauren Tewes's agents decided to test the waters with a deep — er, steep — salary demand. But Tewes may have to shore herself up for a fight: Her asking price of close to $2 million was waved off by producers Spelling-Cramer. —Robert Windeler

Burnett: monkey business.

WASHINGTON — Even as a White House guest, Carol Burnett can't stop her high jinks. At a recent state dinner for the King of Nepal, Burnett and daughter Carrie Hamilton partied until long after the Reagans and the royal guests of honor called it a night. As the actress finally said her goodbyes in the Grand Foyer, she could find no words to describe the wonderful evening. So instead she pounded on her chest and let loose with her famous Tarzan bellow. —Jane Ottenberg

Quinn: a novel approach to filling spare time.

NEW YORK — Robert (Benson) Guillaume, the not-so-silent butler on Soap, is planning to produce and star in a motion picture based on the hit ABC series, which also starred Diana Canova, Billy Crystal and Katherine Helmond.... By all rights, eight performances a week as the lead in Zorba should leave Anthony Quinn with hardly enough strength to lift a glass of wine. But he has found the time to write three books simultaneously: Sub Rosa, his autobiography and a third, as yet untitled.... The tune "Misty" may bring a mist to the eyes of lovesick listeners, but for Sarah Vaughan, it just seems to bring tears of boredom. Says the singer, "After performing it all these years, I've come to hate it."... Eddie (Trading Places) Murphy, who has become a one-man Fort Knox for Paramount Pictures, insists his hefty per-picture fees are paltry compared to some other stars. "Sly Stallone makes $12 million a movie, which means I've got a long way to go," he says.... Bernadette Peters, who lost out on the chance to play Betty Boop in an upcoming TV special, has found other employment. She'll be playing the lead in a new musical by Stephen (Sweeney Todd) Sondheim. Scheduled for a March opening on Broadway, Sunday in the Park with George will also star Mandy (Yentl) Patinkin. —Anita Summer

Peters: the songs of Bernadette on Broadway.

Tewes: Will she jump ship if the money's not right?

Do you get a lot of use out of the gorgeous clothes you wear on TV? —B.J., Briston, Tenn.

After I wear a gown on TV, I put it away for three years before bringing it out again. Gown styles don't really change, and these days anything goes. I give some of my clothes to auctions. Off-camera, my favorite look is man-tailored suits. For those, I borrow my husband's ties, which I wear with a single Windsor knot. Since I'm a size 5, I can't buy many things off the rack other than blouses and jeans. That's why most of my clothes are made by a young woman in Nashville.

LIBERACE, pianist

To what do you owe most of your success? — F.M., Billings, Mont.

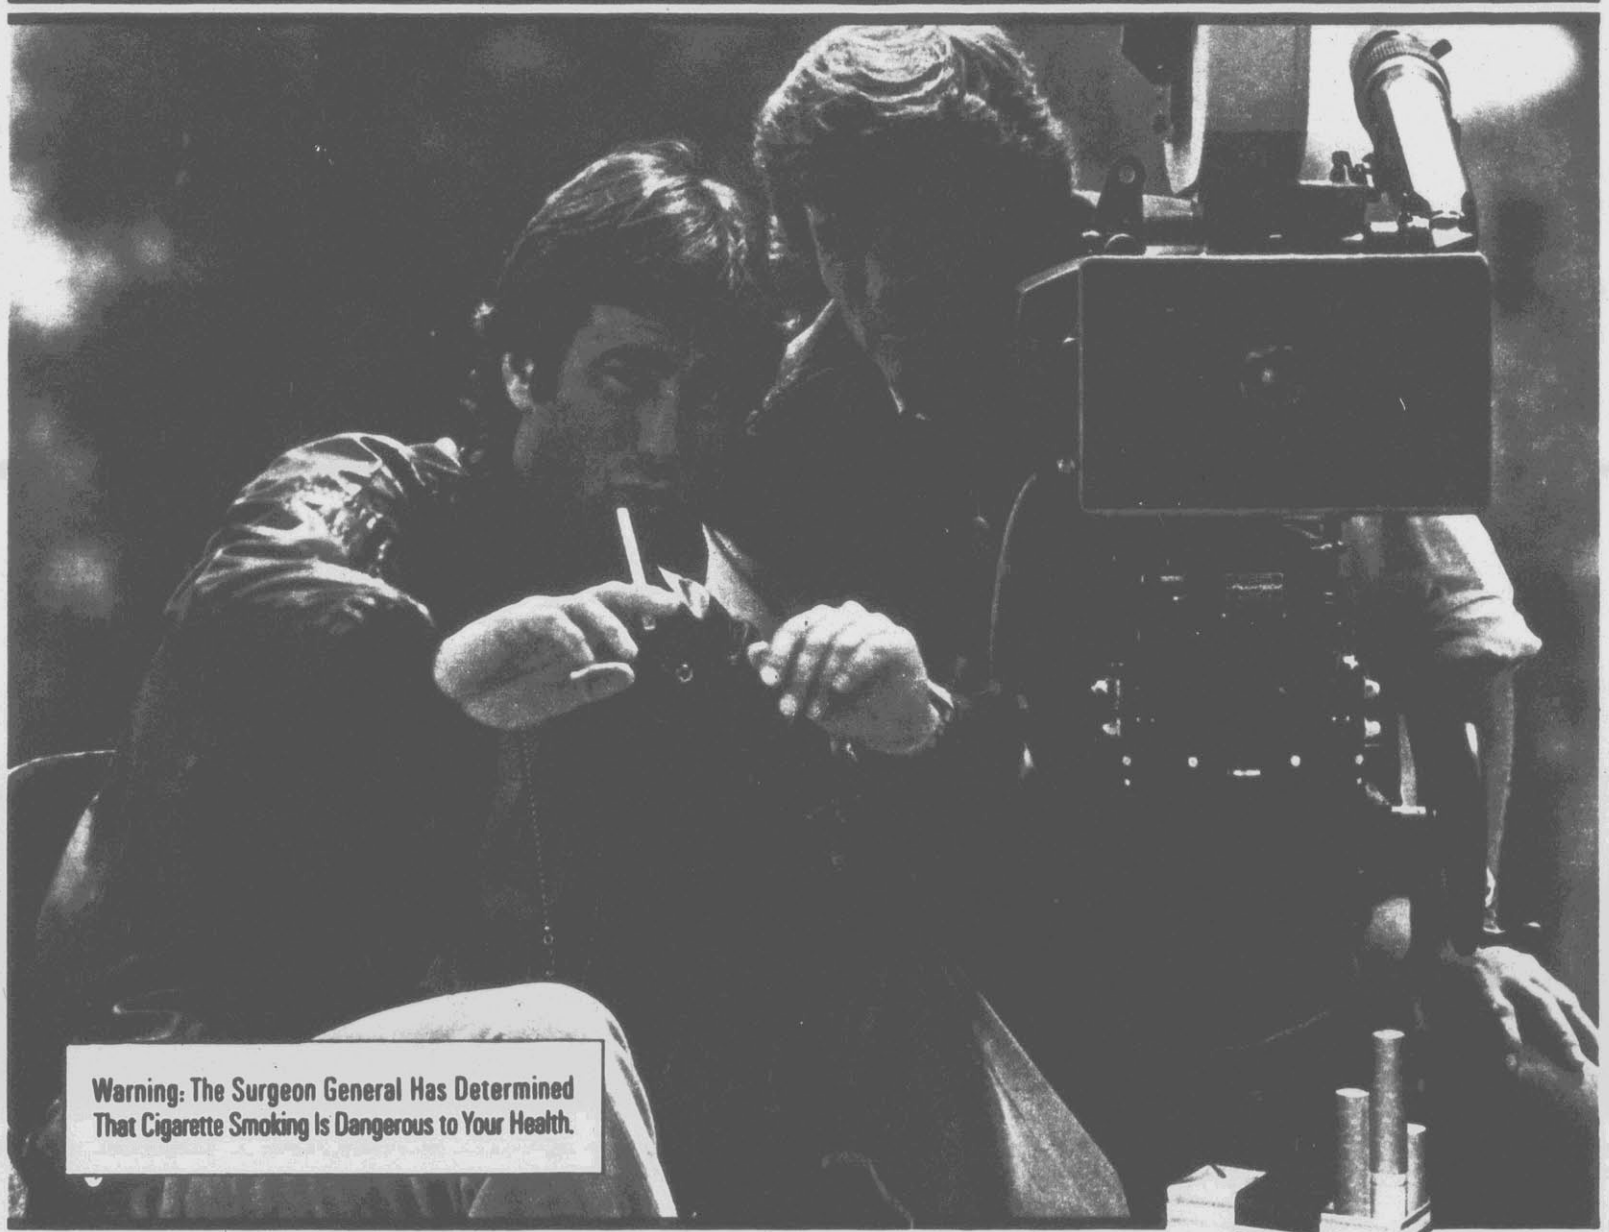

To showmanship more than talent. There are millions who can sing like I can and play piano better. But I created the person — the crazy suits, hairstyles, shoes. No one else did that. In this business, image is everything. The trouble with entertainers today is that they have no sense of showmanship and want to give the impression that they're like the folks next door. But let's face it, do I look like someone who lives next door to anyone in his right mind?

JIM McKAY'S OLYMPIC MEMORIES

BY VIC ZIEGEL

Jim McKay can always tell what's coming. He will be sitting on a dais, sipping his coffee, preparing to make an after-dinner speech. When he is through talking and it is time for questions, without fail someone in the audience will ask for McKay's favorite Olympic memory.

The request doesn't seem outrageous. After all, the 62-year-old McKay has been on the Olympic beat for ABC TV since 1960. He won two Emmys (one for sports and one for news) for his coverage of the killings of the eleven Israeli athletes and coaches at the 1972 Games in Munich. For the 1984 Olympics, the Winter Games from Sarajevo, Yugoslavia — which begin this Tuesday — and the summer competition in Los Angeles, McKay will once again serve as the anchorman. He has covered, by one estimate, over 100 different sports in 40 countries. He must have a trunkful of unforgettable Olympic experiences.

Well, for sure he does. And that has always been the problem. There have been too many unforgettable athletes,

It seems McKay's job has always involved being where things are happening.

too many thrills of victory. So for years, when the question came up, McKay would usually answer, "I honestly can't say. I've seen too many things to pick just one out."

The 1980 Winter Games at Lake Placid, however, changed all that, giving him an Olympic souvenir he can now honestly say he cherishes above all others. No doubt about it, it's the memory of the U.S. ice hockey team winning the gold medal.

"There can't have been anything in the history of sport to directly compare with the hockey team's performance that year," says McKay. "For one thing, it was an upset. And the game took place when our hostages were being held in Iran. We needed a lift. The whole country exploded when we won. I think a lot of it had to do with the fact that the players were such charismatic kids. They made contact with the people."

The tragedy in Munich is a different sort of recollection. McKay was away from the microphone when Arab terrorists began their killing spree in the Olympic Village. In fact, he was back at his hotel, just out of the swimming pool. "I was having a sauna, sitting in my bathing suit," he says, "and they called down and told me, 'Get out of there! You're going on the air in 45 minutes.' So I got dressed and went out. But honestly, it wasn't until I finally got back to my hotel room, about 18 hours later, and was getting undressed, that I realized I still had the damp bathing suit on under my clothes."

After McKay returned home, he made a speech in Colorado. His introduction was followed by a standing ovation, which he didn't think he deserved because, after all, he was only doing his job.

It seems McKay's job has always involved being where things are happening. He was captain of a U.S. Navy minesweeper during World War II, and after the war went to work as a reporter on The Evening Sun in Baltimore. (He was Jim McManus then; he changed his name later for broadcasting.) In 1947, he moved into TV when the newspaper bought a television station. Three years after that, he was a game-show host for WCBS-TV in New York City. He got into sports in the 1950's and actually hosted his first Olympics for the CBS network in 1960.

Some host. The Summer Games were in Rome, and McKay was sitting behind a desk in New York. CBS flew the tapes of the competitions to New York (there was no satellite transmission back then) and McKay would simply tell viewers what they were about to see on their television screens.

There were significant changes by 1964. McKay had gone over to ABC in 1961 to introduce a new show called Wide World of Sports. The 1964 Winter Olympics were in Innsbruck, Austria, and this time, so was he. A transmission satellite system was also in place.

That doesn't mean the technology could always be relied on. The ABC booth for those Games didn't afford McKay a view of the opening ceremony. He had to rely on a television monitor to help him describe the scenes that the ABC cameras were sending back live to America. A minute or so before McKay went on the air from Innsbruck, there was a final check with his producer, Chuck Howard.

"Chuck said, 'Jim, what picture do you have on your monitor?' And I said, 'It's all the flags around the top of the stadium.' But that wasn't the picture the ABC cameras were showing. We had the wrong feed.

"So Chuck had to talk me through the whole ceremony. He'd say to me, 'Now we have a closeup of speed skater Terry McDermott,' and I'd tell the people, 'Here's Terry McDermott.'"

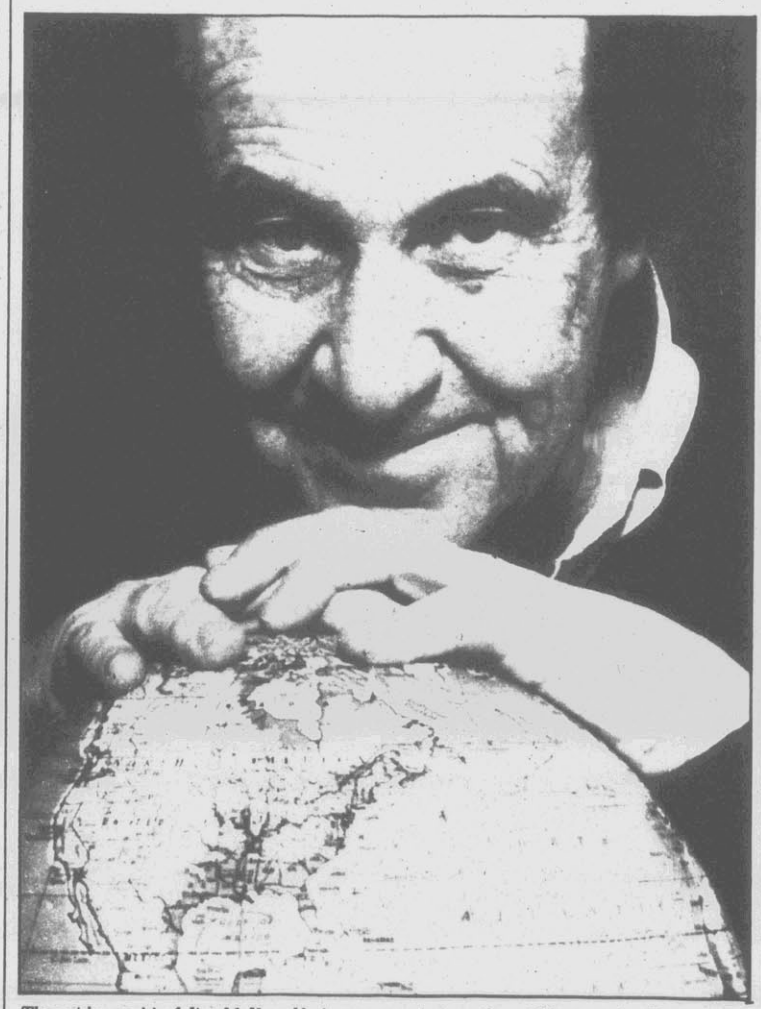

Naturally, this became a big inside joke for the ABC sports department. A dozen years later, the Winter Olympics were back in Innsbruck, and the technology was greatly improved over the stone-age 1960's. By 1976, McKay even had a terrific view of the ceremonies. That takes care of the good news....

"Two minutes before the opening ceremony," McKay remembers, "somebody stepped on the cable and broke the line to our monitor. This time I could see the ceremonies, but I didn't have a monitor to tell me which pictures we were sending to America. So Chuck had to talk me through it all again. Twelve years later: same town, same location."

McKay's fondest memories are about the athletes themselves. There was a U.S. competitor in the decathlon in 1972 whom he couldn't forget, though McKay wasn't sure why: He didn't win a medal and "was fairly down the line, in fact," he explains. It could have been his appearance: "a long-haired, bearded hippie kid. He was about as disheveled looking as anybody I'd ever seen. Four years later, this same kid was back again, trying at the Montreal Olympics, but he was a different person — no long hair, no beard. He was a blond Adonis." And this time he took home the gold medal.

"I bumped into him on an airplane not too long ago, and we were talking about that change. He said, 'Yeah, I figured if I was going to make anything out of this, I'd better clean up my act.'" His name was Bruce Jenner.

Two other competitors made the Montreal Games memorable for McKay. "A princess and a bouncer," is the way he puts it. The former was

When you really get it all together.

by one of the most gifted porcelain artists of our time.

The Strawberry Girl

by Kate Lloyd Jones

Inaugurating an important new series designed by Kate Lloyd Jones exclusively for Franklin Heirloom Dolls

Available by direct subscription only.

Limit: One doll per collector.

Please mail your application by March 31, 1984.

When an artist of international renown creates her first work in a new medium, it is news of great interest to collectors. And when that first involves the field of collector dolls, the news is especially significant. For doll collecting is not only one of the oldest and most cherished forms of collecting, but today it has reached new heights of popularity both in America and abroad.

Now, Franklin Heirloom Dolls is pleased to announce the new "Covent Garden Collection" by Kate Lloyd Jones. A suite of handcrafted costume dolls re-creating the charming street vendors of London's Covent Garden—the colorful marketplace where Professor Higgins found his fair lady. And, to inaugurate this important series, Kate Lloyd Jones has created a lady equally as fair, The Strawberry Girl.

A remarkable blend of artistry and craftsmanship

The Strawberry Girl brings the timeless craft of dollmaking to a level of artistry rarely seen today. For Kate Lloyd Jones has designed her first collector doll with all the wonderful detail, the sheer enchantment that are the hallmarks of her art. And The Strawberry Girl has been crafted so meticulously that you almost expect to hear her cheerful cry, "Buy my ripe Strawberries!"

In the tradition of the finest collector dolls, her costume is completely hand-tailored. What's more, her dress authentically re-creates the fashion of the late 18th century. And, like the rare and cherished heirloom dolls of yesteryear, her head, feet and hands are crafted from fine bisque porcelain and delicately hand-painted.

Here is a masterpiece of the dollmaker's art. Perfect in every detail from the delicate lace edging of her white neckerchief to the buckles decorated with pure 24 karat gold which adorn her black porcelain slippers. The result is a 16" costume doll that combines the very finest in traditional craftsmanship with the special magic of an original by Kate Lloyd Jones.

An unusually attractive price

Collector dolls of comparable size and quality are currently sold in retail stores for as much as $200 or more. But because The Strawberry Girl is available exclusively from Franklin Heirloom Dolls and only by direct application, we are able to offer you this fine collector doll at the attractive price of $125, payable in convenient monthly installments of $31.25 each.

Each imported doll will be individually crafted under the supervision of Franklin Heirloom Dolls and will bear our distinguishing mark. And each will be accompanied by a Certificate of Authenticity and by a special display stand.

And wherever you display The Strawberry Girl in your home, she will add a distinctive touch of beauty. And an important one as well. For she is the first in a suite of costume dolls portraying Covent Garden vendors like The Lavender Girl and The Ribbon and Lace Seller. As the owner of The Strawberry Girl, you will have the opportunity—but not the obligation—to acquire any of these later dolls if you wish to.

No advance payment is required now. But since it will take considerable time to craft your doll, the attached application should be returned by March 31, 1984.

Doll shown smaller than actual size of 16" in height.

Meticulously crafted of fine bisque porcelain. Hand-painted. $125.

JIM McKAY

Princess Anne, Queen Elizabeth's daughter. "Princess Anne didn't get to come to the Olympics just because she was a member of the royal family," he points out. "She had to go out and qualify for the British team, which she did. In Montreal her horse threw her, showing no respect at all for royalty. But maybe someday when she's talking to her grandchildren about the various honors in her life, she'll mention one that she earned herself — not those that she got through inheritance — the honor of being an Olympian."

The bouncer's name was Allen Coage, and he worked in a nightclub in New Jersey. "He popped out of nowhere," McKay says, "and won a bronze medal in judo. We had never heard of him." So they brought him back to the studio for an interview.

Kimberly/Butler

McKay and his wife, Margaret. They've been a special team for 35 years.

"Al, how did you get interested in judo?" McKay asked. He couldn't have guessed what was coming his way. Seems Coage was riding in a New York subway car, hanging on a strap, and found himself staring at an advertising poster that said "You too can learn judo." He learned it very well indeed.

McKay and his wife, Margaret, whom he met while working on The Evening Sun (they have a grown son and daughter), shared a special memory during the 1964 Games at Innsbruck. Austrian Franz Klammer had won a gold medal in the downhill skiing competition on the first day of the Games. That night, the McKays were having very little luck finding a restaurant with an available table. "The town was so crowded, but we finally tried a restaurant near our hotel, and the owner let us go up to the second floor, which wasn't normally used."

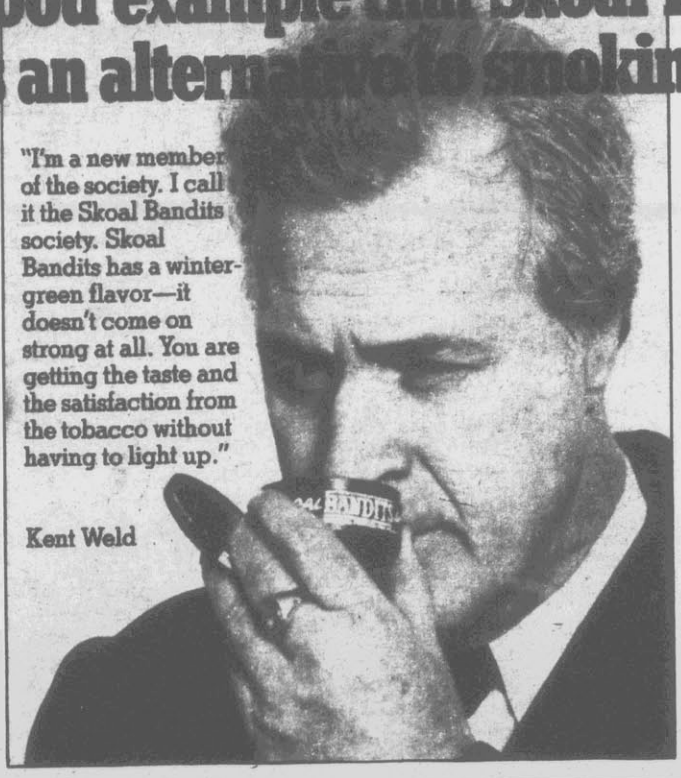

There were about eight people sitting at the only other occupied table, and one of them, McKay realized, was Klammer. He was having a victory celebration with his family. "They were the simplest farm people you could imagine," McKay reports. "We toasted them, they toasted us, and it really made for a memorable evening. Just as they were getting ready to have dessert, two of Franz's brothers got up to leave. One of the sisters spoke a little English, so I asked, 'Where are your brothers going? How come they're leaving so early?' She told us, 'Somebody has to milk the cows.'"

Can McKay anticipate what his good memories of the '84 Games will be? He thinks the ice-hockey team has a shot at a medal but that it will be tough to make it a gold one. He foresees top honors for Americans in figure skating — men's and women's — and alpine skiing as well. "I think we may have the best overall showing in the Olympics the United States has ever had." FW

"I'm a good example that Skoal Bandits™ is an alternative to smoking."

"I'm a new member of the society. I call it the Skoal Bandits society. Skoal Bandits has a wintergreen flavor—it doesn't come on strong at all. You are getting the taste and the satisfaction from the tobacco without having to light up."

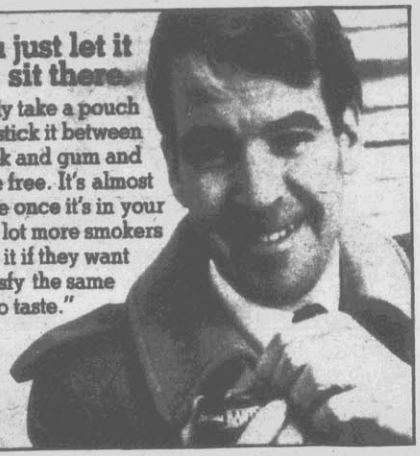

Kent Weld

"You just let it sit there.

You simply take a pouch out, you stick it between your cheek and gum and you're home free. It's almost undetectable once it's in your mouth. A lot more smokers should try it if they want to satisfy the same tobacco taste."

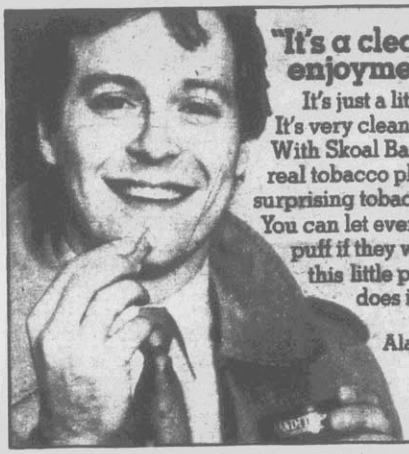

Neal O'Connor

"It's a clean enjoyment.

It's just a little pouch. It's very clean, no mess. With Skoal Bandits, I get real tobacco pleasure–surprising tobacco pleasure. You can let everybody else puff if they want to but this little pouch does it all."

THE SEXES

WHY AGING SCARES WOMEN MORE THAN MEN

By Stephani Cook

Getting older is the one thing — barring the alternative — that we can all be sure of, and it can bring a most unsettling sense of loss that may escalate into anxiety, depression and a feeling of worthlessness. Elissa Melamed, Ph.D., a psychotherapist and author living in San Francisco, has written a book, Mirror Mirror: The Terror of Not Being Young (Linden Press/Simon & Schuster) exploring that very issue. While it focuses on women's turmoil about aging, it recognizes that no fear exists in a vacuum. FAMILY WEEKLY talked to Dr. Melamed, 53, about the difficulties faced by people who grow older together.

Q: Why do so many women have anxiety about aging?
A: Because they know that their "market value" declines with every wrinkle, every sag, every gray hair.

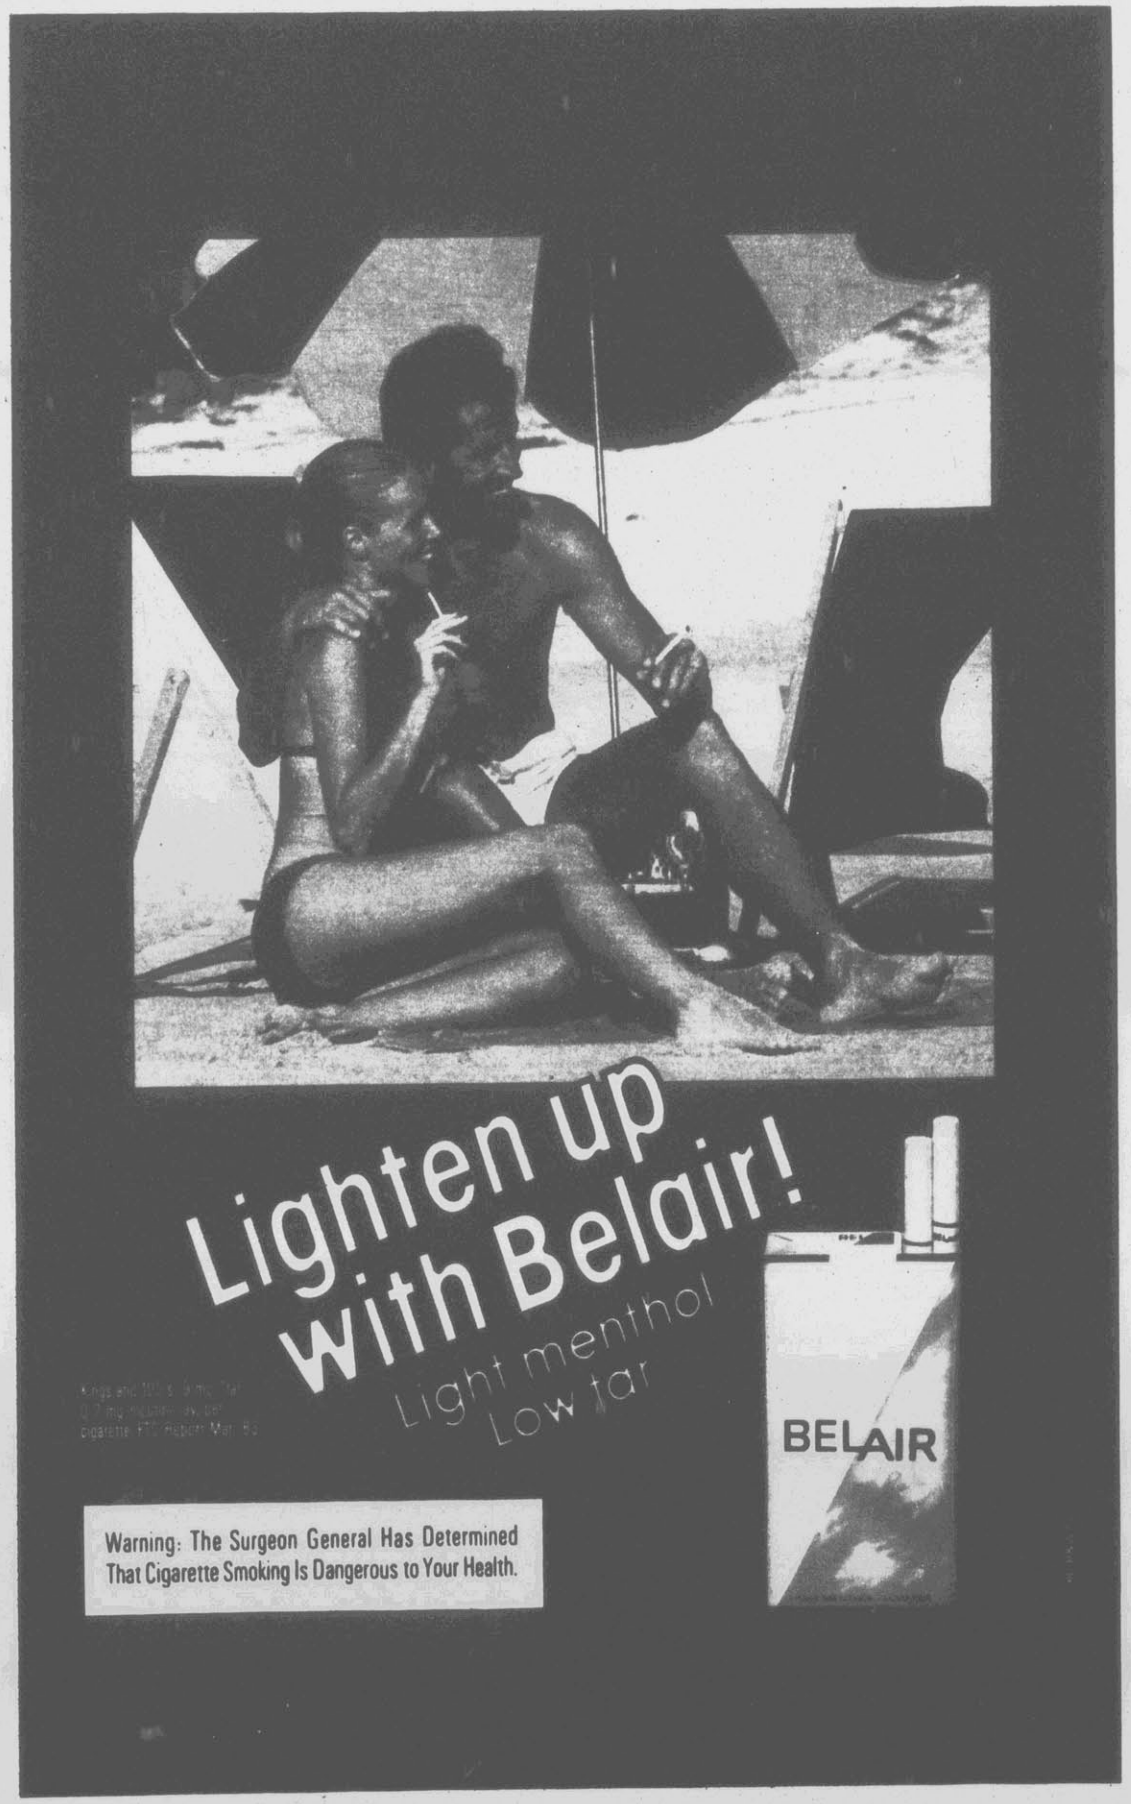

Q: Paul Newman has wrinkles and gray hair, yet he's still appealing.
A: Part of the reason we find Paul Newman so attractive is that he looks interesting, distinctive and mature. We value his accomplishments and experience. But most women are not appreciated for those same qualities; they are usually considered important insofar as they reveal the hallmarks of fertility: curves, youthful skin, beauty.

Q: Men don't get off scot-free, do they?
A: Men develop performance anxiety as they grow older, which parallels what I call appearance anxiety in women. As men reach middle age, they are locked into the same social system — but they're supposed to be tough, invulnerable, successful. They often take refuge in blaming their wives for what they see as their own failures of performance.

Q: It sounds as if it could be a dangerous time for a marriage.
A: That's very true. But I think it's worse for females than for males. Even in a good marriage, a wife may be haunted by the notion that her husband is going to be attracted to the 28-year-old woman in the office. This fear of rejection or abandonment causes a serious imbalance in the relationship in favor of the husband.

Q: Surely women themselves must accept some responsibility for this.
A: Yes, to the extent that they buy into the myth that they are over the hill, when really they are in the prime of life. The first step toward change is understanding that there's nothing wrong with them and that all the energy that goes into fighting a normal process like aging is wasted. Getting older does not mean instant decrepitude; females can enjoy the distinctive way they look, which wasn't true when they were 25 and looked like every other 25-year-old. As women grow they become wiser, more mature and have more to give, but they somehow feel they need to hide that. FW

GETTING POLITICAL WITH

GEORGE McGOVERN

Fourth in a Series of Interviews with 1984's Presidential Candidates

AP/Wide World

When former South Dakota Senator George McGovern announced his Presidential candidacy in September 1983, many people reacted with disbelief. After all, McGovern had been buried by Richard Nixon in 1972 and then in 1980 lost the Senate seat he had held for 18 years. The 61-year-old McGovern, however, is wading hip deep in the waters of Presidential politics and loving every minute of it. He even says he's more relaxed this time around. The candidate was interviewed by David J. Lynch recently for FAMILY WEEKLY.

Lynch: What do you see as the major concern of America's families?
McGovern: I believe high-quality education is an issue every family is thinking about. Support for education by people in public life has to be one of the two or three most important family concerns today.

Q: What is your reaction to the growing involvement of the Roman Catholic Church in national security issues, particularly the nuclear freeze debate?
McGovern: I think it's fine for religious leaders to speak out on public questions. It's a matter of high spiritual and political commitment for church leaders to articulate their views on economic survival and the nuclear questions. All of us have a right to enunciate our views. What we don't have a right to do is prescribe them for everyone else.

Q: What level of aid, if any, should the Federal Government provide for day-care centers?
McGovern: If day-care centers are to work properly, there ought to be neighborhood involvement both in financing and running the centers; there should be state involvement; and there ought to be Federal participation. I don't think those programs can be funded nationwide by any one level of Government.

Q: Do you think children of working mothers are as likely to receive good parenting as children of nonworking mothers?
McGovern: I'm very impressed with how smart some of these young parents are. I think some of my own children are making more intelligent judgments in the way they're handling their offspring than my wife and I did. But I also see a lot of children suffering from the impact of having both parents out of the home. It takes an awful lot for the mother to work full time and still give her children the attention they deserve. I'm not suggesting that only fathers should work. What I would advocate is more effort on the part of fathers and mothers to share the work time so that they're not both gone for eight or 10 hours a day and away from their young children.

Q: Do you approve of Federal Government legal intervention in cases where parents in effect decide not to prolong the life of a seriously deformed child, such as in the case of Baby Jane Doe?
McGovern: Well, it's a no-win proposition. I think you have to sympathize with the Government's understandable desire to keep that child alive. On the other hand, the parents also have an understandable interest there in saving the girl from suffering and travail. I guess I came down on the side of thinking that the Government had a case, but I certainly sympathize with those parents. I could argue that both ways.

Q: What level of abortion aid should the Government provide?
McGovern: As long as abortion is declared legal by the courts and by the Government, it has to be available to the poor as well as to the rich. I'm not very sympathetic to abortion, but I think there are extenuating circumstances where a parent might reach the conclusion that an abortion is the best solution. I think it's a judgment that should be made very carefully and painstakingly by the mother, along with medical consultation. I don't consider it something that 100 aging Senators ought to be deciding for the rest of the people in the country.

Q: Should sex education be taught in the public schools?
McGovern: The public schools have every right to offer education about any feature of the body, including the reproductive system; I think that's fine. But, I don't believe the Federal Government should be in the vanguard on sex education. That is really a matter for the local schools. FW

COLD COMFORT

When Mother and Father both work, who is going to take on sickroom chores if the kids come down with the flu? You can't just call off the presentation to the client or set up a nursing station in accounts payable. Now Children's Hospital of St. Paul comes to the rescue with a special visitation program for local families.

Shary Flenniken

The hospital's child-care service department sends licensed practical nurses and specially trained nursing assistants to care for sick children in their own homes. The charge is $4 per hour and the service is available to anyone who needs it.

According to Beverly Propes, the program director, hospitals in San Francisco and Charleston, N.C., are setting up similar programs, and health-care groups in Texas, Illinois and Massachusetts have made inquiries. The interest is nothing to sneeze at, considering that children under the age of 6 chalk up as many as 10 colds every year.

RETIRING KINDS OF PLACES

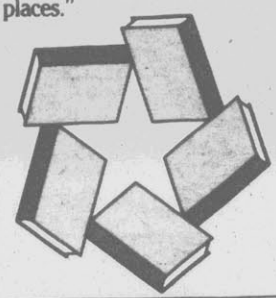

Pat Redding

For years, Florida, California and Arizona have been havens on earth for retirees seeking the sunniest shuffleboard courts. But there is a new hot spot on the horizon. The Places Rated Retirement Guide (Rand McNally) ranks Brevard, N.C., as the most ideal retirement community in the United States.

The guide, written by David Savageau and Richard Boyer, took into account climate and terrain, housing, affordability, crime, health-care facilities and recreational opportunities before it settled on Brevard. Other spots in its top 10 include Harrison, Ark., Cookesville, Tenn., and Lexington-Fayette, Ky. Out of the 3,100 counties surveyed, Phoenix, Fort Lauderdale, Sarasota and San Diego are still sitting pretty in the top 100 retirement communities.

That doesn't mean that all senior citizens are heading for cities in the Sun Belt. Many choose to settle in the north and opt for quiet burgs instead of bustling urban areas. Explains Savageau: "Direct-mail marketers have identified retirees as a hot new market group for all kinds of products. There are the traditional Sun Belt worshippers, and now there's the new leisure set, called Golden Ponds (from the 1981 movie On Golden Pond), which is settling in smaller, out-of-the-way places."

WHAT AMERICA IS READING

We telephoned the main public library in Billings, Mont., to find out what's being read there lately. The 10 most frequently requested books:

- Blue Highways, by William Least Heat Moon
- Changes, by Danielle Steel
- Creating Wealth, by Robert Allen
- In Search of Excellence, by Thomas J. Petersand and Robert H. Waterman Jr.
- Megatrends, by John Naisbitt
- Motherhood: The Second Oldest Profession, by Erma Bombeck
- Pet Semetary, by Stephen King
- Poland, by James Michener
- Thurston House, by Danielle Steel
- The Wicked Day, by Mary Stewart

EARNING WHILE LEARNING

Bad enough to have a boring professor for a class you didn't want to take in the first place. Worse when the class textbook has a price tag of $20 plus. But worst when it's your boring prof who wrote it. Now an economics professor (who else) has found the perfect way to diffuse resentment: He splits royalties from his textbook sales with his students.

Leonard W. Weiss of the University of Wisconsin at Madison truly believes his books are useful to his classes, but being fair-minded, he decided to share the profits in whatever one of four ways appealed to them: He could use the royalties for a class party; donate the money to charity; award a certain amount by lottery during each lecture; or award a certain amount by lottery each week. Students chose the third option, and that's the method Weiss employs. The handout each class period runs anywhere from $5 to $20, and yes, winners do have to be present to collect. As Weiss explains, "The system has inspired certain people to come to class."

THE MOUSE THAT SCORED

It may sound too goofy to be true, but Mickey Mouse has become a big-time recording artist. His 1979 debut disc for Disneyland Records, "Mickey Mouse Disco," went triple platinum (three million copies sold). On its tail in 1981 came "Mousercise" (500,000 copies sold). Now comes "Mickey Mouse Splashdance," a send-up of — we'll give you three guesses — last year's hit movie Flashdance. Try imagining Minnie in a sweatshirt dress with as many holes as, well, a slice of Swiss cheese.

Can we have an open debate about smoking?

The issues that surround smoking are so complex, and so emotional, it's hard to debate them objectively.

In fact, many of you probably believe there is nothing to debate.

Over the years, you've heard so many negative reports about smoking and health—and so little to challenge these reports—that you may assume the case against smoking is closed.

But this is far from the truth.

Studies which conclude that smoking causes disease have regularly ignored significant evidence to the contrary. These scientific findings come from research completely independent of the tobacco industry.

We at R.J. Reynolds think you will find such evidence very interesting. Because we think reasonable people who analyze it may come to see this issue not as a closed case, but as an open controversy.

We know some of you may be suspicious of what we'll say, simply because we're a cigarette company.

We know some of you may question our motives.

But we also know that by keeping silent, we've contributed to this climate of doubt and distrust. We may also have created the mistaken impression that we have nothing to say on these issues.

That is why we've decided to speak out now, and why we intend to continue speaking out in the future.

During the coming months we will discuss a number of key questions relating to smoking and health. We will also explore other important issues including relations between smokers and non-smokers, smoking among our youth, and "passive smoking."

Some of the things we say may surprise you. Even the fact that we say them may prove controversial.

But we won't shy away from the controversy because, quite frankly, that's our whole point.

We don't say there are no questions about smoking. Just the opposite. We say there are lots of questions—but, as yet, no simple answers.

Like any controversy, this one has more than one side. We hope the debate will be an open one.

ARE YOU UNDER STRESS? Fight Tension Without Drugs!

"STRESS FIGHTERS" tablets have been specially formulated to replenish nutritional losses due to stress

You may not know it, but right now at this very moment your body may be coping with a stressful situation. Sometimes we do not even realize it until we snap at those we love!

Your body is under stress when you are overworking, very worried or have emotional strain within your family or on your job. When stress reaches an excessive level it tends to rob the body of certain essential nutrients which are vitally involved in the healthful performance of virtually every part of the body. These nutrients are not stored in the body and must be replaced daily.

"STRESS FIGHTERS" tablets have been specifically designed to help restore depleted supplies of the nutritional factors lost due to emotional and environmental stress. Stress isn't limited to executives—your entire family may benefit from "STRESS FIGHTERS" tablets.

Check the box in the order blank and return it with an order for any of the products in this ad and we will include a month's supply of "STRESS FIGHTERS" tablets FREE.

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them? Check answers with those below.

Differences: 1. Doorknob is different. 2. Cap is missing. 3. Pants are different. 4. Lollipop is smaller. 5. Bag is missing. 6. Sign message is missing.

- SNAKE BIT! What snake shakes trees? The timber rattler. What snake provides security? The guarder snake. What snake chews tobacco? The spit viper. What snake is out of breath? The puff adder.

- She Fibbed! She fibbed in 1982 that she was 18, when she was only 15. How old is she now? Think this over for no longer than 15 seconds.

She is seventeen this year (1984).

- Eyes Right? A line of letters on the eye-doctor's chart reads: H I Z T N. Challenge: Add one letter and rearrange the six to form a word.

Add E and the word 'zenith' may be formed.

- Count Off! Ask someone to count from 10 to 5 backwards. Strictly speaking, the count should begin with 5. Or did you suggest physically turning around and facing the other way?

LETTER-PERFECT?

A certain letter of the alphabet is the answer to this excerpt from an age-old verse-riddle.

'Twill be found in
'tis riven asunder.
Be seen in the lightning, heard in the thunder.
'Twas allotted to man with his earliest breath,
Attends him at birth,
awaits him at death.
Presides o'er his happiness, honor and health,
Is the prop of his
of his wealth.
What letter?

The letter M.

SEE HERE! What can you draw to complete this unlikely scene above? To find out, insert lines from dot to dot.

IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR

CREATED BY HAL FOSTER

Our Story: AS THE BEAR HOBBLES IN PURSUIT, VAL AND NATHAN PULL FARTHER AHEAD UNTIL, CROSSING THE FROZEN RIVER, THEY REACH THEIR MOUNT. FROM SAFETY THEY SEE THE BEAR AMBLE ONTO THE ICE, FOLLOWING THE SCENT. HER WEIGHT IS TOO GREAT. WITH A SPLASH SHE FALLS THROUGH. "WATCH WHAT SHE DOES NOW," VAL TELLS HIS SON.

DRIPPING WITH ICY WATER, THE BEAR ROLLS IN THE DRY SNOW. "HER THICK COAT WILL FREEZE LIKE A ROCK," VAL EXPLAINS. "NO HUNTER'S ARROW WILL SCRATCH HER TILL SPRING."

NATHAN BABBLES EXCITEDLY AND VAL HAPPILY INTERPRETS THE SOUNDS AS FILIAL GRATITUDE FOR THIS BIT OF LORE. YET THE CHRONICLES, UNSENTIMENTAL PARCHMENTS THAT THEY ARE, LINK NATHAN'S OUTCRY TO THE APPROACH OF A STRANGER. "SIR VALIANT," HE CRIES.

IT IS ONE OF THE MOUNTAIN MEN, SKILLED TRACKERS THAT CAMELOT HIRES AS SCOUTS. "REFRESH YOURSELVES AT MY HOVEL," HE OFFERS. "I SAW YOUR ADVENTURE WITH THE BEAR, BUT WE MUST TALK OF A MORE DEADLY CREATURE IN THESE HILLS." THE WARMTH INSIDE IS WELCOME.

"THEY CALL ME WALDO," SAYS THE MOUNTAIN MAN. "I AM A MAN OF THE WOODS. A TWELVEMONTH AGO, CATTLE AND SHEEP BEGAN DISAPPEARING IN THESE PARTS. ALWAYS THEY WERE FOUND WITH THEIR GUTS RIPPED OPEN. ONE NIGHT I FOUND A EWE, HER BODY STILL WARM. I TRACKED THE KILLER AND THRILLED AS I CLOSED IN, SPEAR READY.

"AS I APPROACHED THE BEAST IT TURNED ON ME. WHAT I SAW MADE ME RUN FOR DEAR LIFE. SINCE THAT NIGHT I HAVE SENT WARNINGS TO CAMELOT, BUT NOTHING HAS BEEN DONE."

WHAT'S FOR DINNER?

HE WON'T KNOW FOR A WHILE...

Y'KNOW, UNCLE COSMO, THAT JULIA CHILD HAS REAL CLASS...

RIGHT.

BEFORE SHE GETS INTO HER RECIPES AND THE ACTUAL SERVING OF THE MEAL...

SHE GOES ON LOCATION—TO THE SOURCE OF THE FOOD.

LAST WEEK SHE WENT TO A FARM, AND BEFORE THAT SHE VISITED A SHRIMP BOAT...

TRACING HER MENU FROM ITS ORIGIN THROUGH THE PREPARATION STAGE AND ONTO THE TABLE.

BY THE WAY, WHAT ARE WE HAVING FOR DINNER TONIGHT?

WELL, IT'S HARD TO SAY, EXACTLY...
