Heaviest Barrage Battleship's Guns Speak

By FAROUK NASSAR

Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The battleship New Jersey bombarded positions in the Syrian-controlled central Lebanese mountains today with its massive 16-inch guns and U.S. Marines awaited orders to pull back from their airport bunkers to ships off the Lebanese coast.

The 115-man British contingent of the multinational force withdrew from its suburban base and moved to a ship offshore because of the "deteriorating" situation in Lebanon.

The British move followed President Reagan's announcement Tuesday night that the 1,600 U.S. Marines would be redeployed to American ships off the shores of Lebanon. But Reagan authorized broader use of American naval guns and warships to support the disintegrating Lebanese army and the embattled government of President Amin Gemayel.

"The ESS New Jersey is firing 16-inch guns at targets in Syrian-controlled areas of Lebanon which have been firing on the city of Beirut," said a spokesman for the Marines, Maj. Dennis Brooks. The Voice of Lebanon radio station said the bombardment destroyed at least eight Druse militia gun positions in the central mountains.

The ship's 16-inch guns are the largest afloat. Brooks said the New Jersey opened up at 1:25 p.m. and still was firing at 4 p.m. (9 a.m. EST). It was the ship's heaviest barrage since it joined the 6th Fleet flotilla off the Beirut coast last September.

Brooks said the targets had earlier fired at U.S. Ambassador Reginald Bartholomew's residence in suburban Yarze "and areas in Beirut," but he did not say if the residence was hit.

He also said the Marine compound at Beirut International Airport was hit by "three or four mortars or rockets" within minutes after the battleship began firing.

Moslem and Druse militiamen who took control of west Beirut after a week of fierce fighting tightened their grip on the largely Moslem sector today and the army's 6th Brigade, under Brig. Gen. Lutfi Jaber, said today it had defected to the rebels. A statement published by the leftist newspaper As-Safir said the brigade would assume security duties in west Beirut.

Amal, the nation's largest Shiite Moslem militia, ordered all armed militiamen off the streets of west Beirut. "All forms of armed presence are henceforth banned and any encroachments on citizens, official institutions or private enterprises will be stopped by force," Amal said in an announcement read on state radio.

In Paris, the Defense Ministry said more than 1,800 French troops in Beirut remained at their posts in west Beirut this morning, but patrols outside their sector had been halted. It said there were no immediate plans to redeploy the French contingent.

A spokesman for the 1,400-man Italian contingent said there were no new orders concerning its mission. But in Rome, Defense Minister Giovanni Spadolini said Italy will reduce its force, although it plans no immediate withdrawal.

A statement by Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's office said the British troops were withdrawing to a Royal Navy ship off the Lebanese coast.

It cited the "deteriorating security situation in Beirut and the particularly exposed position of the British force in Lebanon head-quarters building..." It said the troops would remain at sea "until the situation becomes clearer."

Landing Weather Eyed Shuttle Crew Has Easy Day

By HOWARD BENEDICT

AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Challenger's astronauts went before the camera today to star in a panoramic movie, while on the ground officials were eyeing bad weather that could delay or once again cancel the first shuttle landing in Florida.

The space travelers, after five bittersweet, busy days in orbit, welcomed a relatively easy day of experiments and relaxation before winding down the journey with more tetherless space walks on Thursday, a news conference from space Friday and return to Earth on Saturday, landing at a launch site runway.

But weather officials reported a storm front is heading this way from the Gulf of Mexico, and if a high front to the north does not pull it that direction, it could bring rain and clouds to this area at the planned 7:21 a.m. EST touchdown time Saturday.

NASA would like to start landing shuttles here instead of in California to save money and cut down turnaround time between launches. To achieve that goal on this flight, the agency said it would keep the Challenger crew in space an extra day and land here Sunday morning. After that there are no daylight touchdown opportunities here for several days, so the shuttle would be diverted to Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. The weather prediction for a Sunday landing is good.

One previous attempt to land the shuttle here, last July, was scrubbed because of bad weather.

Mission control radioed the five astronauts that three Soviet cosmonauts were launched today, with the comment: "That makes an all-time record, having eight folks in space at one time."

Commander Vance Brand replied: "It's really getting populated up here."

Today's filming sessions, with a special Cinema-360 camera, were to capture footage for a half-hour documentary, "The Space Shuttle: An American Adventure." They began with shots of Brand and pilot Robert Gibson working at their control stations.

The finished film, which will put audiences in the center of the 360-degree action, is designed for projection onto the domes of specially-equipped planetariums. It is to be completed after two more shuttle missions.

Mission specialist Ronald McNair is the man behind the lens, prompting his colleagues to call him "Cecil B. McNair" after famed movie director Cecil B. de Mille.

Most of today's footage will be of activities inside the cabin. Some of the most spectacular film was made Tuesday by a second Cinema-360 camera, located in the open cargo bay and operated remotely from inside the shuttle.

That captured man's first free flights in space, as astronauts Bruce McCandless and Robert Stewart unhooked their lifelines and maneuvered away from Challenger, propelled by a $10 million jet-powered backpack to a distance greater than the length of a football field.

McCandless flew the jet-pack for 90 minutes, calling it a "nice flying machine." Stewart glided around for 65 minutes and said it operated "beautifully."

When the space-walkers reentered the cabin after 5 hours, 55 minutes outside, mission control congratulated them on a super job.

"It was a real thrill," responded McCandless. "A real honor to be up there."

McCandless and Stewart are scheduled to be back outside Thursday for five more hours.

The backpack will be used for a satellite repair mission planned on the next shuttle flight in April.

On that flight astronaut George Nelson is to use the jet-pack to retrieve a 4-year-old satellite named Solar Max, bringing it into the cargo bay for replacement of a defective electronics box.

McCandless and Stewart on Thursday will use a spinning device to perfect techniques for securing the slowly rotating Solar Max and will test tools needed for the repair job.

The rescue of the Solar Max satellite also will be filmed by the Cinema-360 cameras.

The successful space walks erased some of the disappointment the astronauts felt at the failure of the two communications satellites they launched for Western Union and the Indonesian government earlier in the flight.

The astronauts deployed the payloads properly, but the satellites did not reach the desired orbits because rockets aboard each misfired.

Construction Bids Awarded By Pitt's Education Board

By MARY SCHULKEN

Reflector Staff Writer
Construction bids totaling $445,566 have been awarded for the Pactolus School cafeteria-lunchroom project.

The bids, approved at Tuesday's monthly meeting of the Pitt County Board of Education, were let to the following low bidders: C.A. Lewis Inc., general construction, $249,500; Southern Piping Co., heating and ventilating, $72,000; Pitt Electric Co., electrical construction, $34,143; Kipco Piping Inc., plumbing construction, and Sefab Inc., kitchen equipment, $53,423.

These bids, along with the $33,863 architect's fees, will bring the total project cost to $479,429. The cost to the county, however, will total $439,372, since the kitchen equipment will be purchased through school food service funds.

The project includes construction of two classroom additions, a new kitchen-cafeteria and a connecting corridor for the school. The corridor, which will be used by students exiting and entering the cafeteria, will not be enclosed during the initial construction, school officials said, because funds are not available. The bids were approved, however with the stipulation that the board fund enclosure of the corridor the next fiscal year. The enclosure, with architect's fees, will cost an estimated $12,811.

Board members also heard a report on the county's fixed asset accounting project, which will involve an inventory of items, including land, buildings, equipment, etc., currently owned by Pitt County schools.

According to Superintendent Eddie West, establishing a fixed assets accounting fund is a move recommended for school systems by auditors and suggested in the School Budget and Fiscal Control Act.

At this point in Pitt County, fixed asset accounting is in the planning stage, West said, but once under way should take around one year. Items will be coded, tagged and entered into a computer, he added, and inventory will begin with items having the largest dollar value such as buildings, land and vehicles.

The work will be done by the central office Management Information Services and will include affixing a cost to all inventoried items.

According to West the plan has been discussed with the county schools' accountant and is approved.

In other business:

•The board heard a report from Dr. Jasper Lewis on dental health efforts in the schools during February, which is designated Dental Health Month. Dr. Lewis explained dental health contests the schools are conducting to board members. The theme of the program is "Let's Get Dental."

•West reported that Pitt County's schools had 28 winners in the statewide scholastic art competition held at Atlantic Christian College.

•Assistant Superintendent Leck Keeter presented the county's two-volume, recently rewritten policy manuals and explained how to use them.

•Revenue from fines and forfeitures was reported down in January. 1est said the county schools received $15,473 from this source during the month, $2,850 below the amount originally budgeted. The schools now have a $12,973 deficit for this fiscal year in revenues received from fines and forfeitures.

INTERCULTURAL EXCHANGE

Host families are being sought for 25 high school students from Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Holland, Germany, France, Spain, Italy, Colombia, Brazil, Australia, Malaysia, Singapore, Korea, Hong Kong and Japan for the school year 1984-85 in a program sponsored by American Intercultural Student Exchange (AISE).

The students, aged 15-17, will arrive in the United State in August 1984, attend the local high school, and return to their home country in late June 1985. The students, all fluent in English, have been screened by their school representatives in their home countries and have spending money and medical insurance.

Host families with small children are welcome to participate in both programs. They may deduct $50 per month for income tax purposes.

AISE is also seeking American high school students 15 to 18 who would like to spend a high school year or a five-week summer stay with a host family in most of the above-mentioned countries.

Anyone interested in any aspect of this program may contact Lynda Mann, 203 S. Meade St., Greenville, N.C. 27834; 752-1542.

Greenville's Transit System Posts A Gain In Passengers

While several public transit systems in North Carolina were recording ridership decreases during the first quarter of fiscal year 1984, Greenville posted a gain in passenger activity.

According to figures reported by the state Department of Transportation, ridership on the Greenville Area Transit (GREAT) system for the first quarter totaled 66,080 passengers, up 9.1 percent from the comparable 1982-83 period.

The department said that for the 12 months ending in September, ridership in Greenville was up 11.02 percent from a year earlier.

The department noted that "smaller transit systems in general have fewer passengers per mile and per hour due to lower population density of the service area. Exceptions are those properties such as Greenville which have recently redesigned service to concentrate on neighborhoods which are of greater density and have greater transit ridership potential."

According to state Department of Transportation figures, the GREAT system posted the largest gain of any system in North Carolina. Other public transit systems in the state showing an increase in ridership in the first quarter were Greensboro, Gastonia and Salisbury.

The public transit system with the largest decrease in ridership in the first quarter was the Chapel Hill transit system with a 17.3 percent decline.

Designed For The President

HAPPY BIRTHDAY — Agnes Fullilove and Lelia Higgs look on as Frances Taylor signs a birthday card for President Ronald Reagan. The residents and staff of the University Nursing Center of Greenville constructed and

PCMH Makes Changes In Unit

Changes are occurring in Pitt County Memorial Hospital's labor and delivery unit, where greater emphasis is being placed on the comfort and specialized care of the expectant mother and the child she is bearing, as well as on the family.

For example, the fetal/maternal intensive care area is being expanded for the care of mothers and babies thought to be at high risk, said Ruth Syre, nursing administrator for the maternal/child division. Providing an area within labor and delivery where mothers and unborn babies can simultaneously be monitored is a new service "not many medical centers have," she said. It began in September.

While the fetal/maternal intensive care area serves high-risk mothers who are in labor, it is also important in cases where the mother and baby are endangered by trauma. For example, when an expectant mother is hospitalized after a serious auto accident, she and her unborn baby can receive constant, specialized monitoring there, Syre said.

While having fathers present at childbirth has been encouraged at Pitt Memorial for several years, mothers requiring Caesarean births have been unable to share the big moment with a partner. That was because the procedure had to be performed in one of the hospital's surgical suites, a place where laymen are not allowed.

Since Jan. 2, however, Caesarean births have been performed in a specially equipped area of the labor and delivery department with highly trained staff on hand, Syre said. Once policies are developed, fathers will be able to share in Caesarean births, she said.

Still other plans call for a recovery room to be added in labor and delivery in the near future, Syre said.

The mother's comfort and privacy are also being enhanced with the advent of a new concept in childbirth — LDR (labor, delivery and recovery) rooms. No longer is there a need for the mother to be moved to various rooms as she progresses from labor to childbirth to recovery.

The two LDR rooms — available on a first-come, first-served basis — are designed to have a more home-like atmosphere than traditional hospital rooms. Each room has a bedroom and a separate living area where family and friends can visit. A curtain gives the mother and baby added privacy when needed.

Each LDR room is equipped with special "Borning beds" designed for the comfort of the mother. Special carpet, wallcovering and other furnishings are also being chosen to give the rooms warmer appearance.

The changes in labor and delivery have been implemented using suggestions from the community, particularly from a local prepared childbirth group, Syre said. Nearly all the work, costing around $45,000, has been accomplished during the past year by the hospital's facilities management department.

There are two general types of wills that are valid in North Carolina—written and oral.

Written wills that require no witnesses are called holographic wills. To be valid in North Carolina, a holographic will must be entirely in your handwriting and signed by you. In addition, it must be found among your personal effects or else in the hands of a person or bank entrusted with its safekeeping.

The witnessed written will requires two witnesses to be valid in North Carolina (three in some states). These wills are usually prepared by an attorney and witnessed in his office. A variation of the written will is the mutual will. Mutual wills are the separate wills of two or more persons in which the provisions are substantially the same. Mutual wills are usually made by husbands and wives.

If you don't have a will—you might want to ask yourself this question. What would happen if our entire family—husband, wife and children died? How would the state distribute our property?

Well the order of death determines who gets the property. If the wife dies first, children next and husband last, the property would go to his side of the family.

But if the husband died first, the children next and the wife last, the property would pass to the wife's side of the family.

Unless you have a will, the sequence of deaths—even if only a few moments apart—could result in the property going to one side of the family or the other.

This is just one reason why having a will is important to a family.

To learn more about making a will and other aspects of estate planning,

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

Keep Small Quarters Tidy At All Times

DEAR ABBY: I live alone in very cramped quarters. I have no complaints until unexpected company drops by. Since I have no warning, I usually ask my guest to stand outside for a few minutes while I quickly tidy up my one room, which serves as living room, bedroom, den and eating area.

One guest said she thought this was very rude of me. What are my alternatives? I enjoy having company.

CRAMPED IN BURBANK

DEAR CRAMPED: (1) Keep your quarters tidy at all times in case unexpected company knocks on your door. (2) Open your door immediately and bear the embarrassment. (3) Continue to ask drop-ins to wait a few minutes while you rush around trying to make the place presentable.

(P.S. And tell the person who called you "rude" that she won't have to wait outside if she phones first.)

Presumably, the single person is a friend of the bride or groom and will know most of the people there. But if the single person can't have a good time at a wedding without a date, then he or she should decline the invitation.

B. INLA.

DEAR B.: Let's here from a Canadian reader:

DEAR ABBY: The next wedding invitation I receive that does not include an escort, I will decline.

Do you know that it is lonely to attend a wedding where the focus is on the happy couple, their happy parents and their many happily married friends? Couples, couples, couples! And there you are, all by yourself. Then some well-meaning relative says, "Next, it's your turn to get married!"

Believe me, Abby, rather than attend alone, I will stay home where I feel more comfortable.

ELIZABETH IN WINNEPEG

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the bride who invited 31 singles to her wedding and was furious when 14 accepted and indicated that they were bringing a "date."

A wedding is a special occasion when the friends and family of the bride and groom gather to celebrate a joyous event. It is not a party for strangers.

DEAR ABBY: My wife would like to trade me for a kindly gentleman who is well-to-do and no longer interested in sex. Based upon our 45-year marriage, I can recommend her highly as a person of good moral character and an excellent homemaker. She is also a healthy, attractive, conservative and well-informed woman with many friends.

I am prepared to release my 65-year-old wife to any man she might choose because I want her to be happy.

Also, feeling humiliated and frustrated over my long exile from the marriage bed, I would like to be free to love again.

Can you suggest a way in which I might discreetly "advertise" her availability? If successful, the golden years of three senior citizens might thus be substantially enriched.

SERIOUS IN LAGUNA BEACH, CALIF.

DEAR SERIOUS: If you're looking for a kindly, well-to-do older gentleman who is no longer interested in sex, take an ad out in The Wall Street Journal.

(Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Oat Spice Cake & Coffee
OAT SPICE CAKE

Made with honey, it's one of the best of its kind.

- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 cup quick-cooking oats
- 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour, see Note
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/2 cup butter
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 cup honey
- 2 large eggs

Grease and flour a square cake pan (9 by 9 by 1 3/4 inches). In a small bowl pour boiling water over oats; cover and let stand 20 minutes. On wax paper stir together flour, soda, salt, cinnamon, ginger, nutmeg and cloves. In the large bowl of an electric mixer beat together butter, sugar and honey until blended. Add eggs and beat to blend. Add oatmeal mixture and beat gently until there are no lumps. Add flour mixture and gently stir until blended. Turn into prepared pan. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 50 to 60 minutes. Loosen edges and turn out on a wire rack. Delicious served warm with lemon sauce.

Note: Thoroughly stir flour in its container, then lightly spoon into dry measures and level.

- thyme
  - 1/2 teaspoon crushed dry tarragon
  - 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
  - 1/4 cup dry sherry
- Cook shrimp; shell and devein; arrange in a buttered 10 by 6 by 2-inch baking dish. In an 8-inch skillet melt butter; off heat stir in crumbs, parsley, scallion, garlic, thyme, tarragon, nutmeg and sherry. Sprinkle over shrimp. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until hot — about 10 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Security In The White House

Year Of Democracy

Every four years, when the time comes to elect a new president, Americans see democracy at work under its strongest conditions. This year's demonstration is approaching classic proportions.

Really, now, can you think of a more partisan campaign, one that is spilling over into world affairs, than the one that his being conducted this year.

A Republican, especially if its President Reagan, speaks, and Democrat Tip O'Neill responds, belittling the sanity of it all. Reagan, as the incumbent, seldom has to respond and is thus put into the position of being "put upon" by the Democrats.

The Democrats thus are caught in a vise, one that has left them scratching even harder and, at times, making them look a little silly. With a handful of candidates running for their presidential nomination, the Democrats have no real leader to serve as their spokesman. That leaves O'Neill, whose prestige isn't quite as strong throughout the country as his power is in Congress.

Congressional Democrats now have launched a drive to "bring the boys home" from Lebanon. There are many who believe the Democrats' drive, despite their protestations, is not aimed so much at the safety of "the boys" as it is to put Reagan in a bad light in a situation that has substantial support from the American people.

Again, politics is at work in a presidential election year. It's a true paradox ... the machinations sicken you, but the fact it can be done makes you more aware than ever that democracy does give us a chance to criticize a government in power and to choose whether it will remain or go. That keeps the government responsive to your needs.

It's going to be a good year to keep up with the news.

WASHINGTON — A White House aide was working in her office recently when a stranger entered the room and began rummaging through desk and file drawers. Duly alarmed, the aide asked her unexpected visitor what he was looking for.

"The president will be walking by this office in the next half hour," the aide recalls his reply. "Please keep your door closed until he's gone by." When the aide decided to wait in her doorway anyway, she found herself standing between two uniformed guards as Reagan passed.

When this nation's leadership can't even trust its own staff, one can begin to fathom the paranoia that's led to concrete barricades around the White House and intensive security precautions throughout Washington.

That paranoia can also be seen in the grandiose nature of the Defense Department's $305 billion 1985 budget request revealed last week. That request represents a 13 percent increase over this year. The Pentagon would like to devote $107 billion to new weaponry and $34 billion to research and development — a 25 percent increase in each category.

Cynicism is difficult to resist. The administration wants as much of the proposed Pentagon budget hike as it can get. When confronted with potential terrorism on their very doorstep, members of Congress may be willing to give more than the 5 percent real increase that they approved for 1984.

But even a genuine fear about the world outside may cloud the clarity with which a government seeks solutions. As the Washington Post recently reported, it took only one devoted follower of Ayatollah Khomeini and $50,000 to kill 249 U.S. troops and nearly push the remaining contingent out of Lebanon last fall. What evidence does the Pentagon have to show that its hefty purchases of weaponry and surveillance technology are at all useful given the tactics of the modern terrorist?

Such questions may be asked in the coming weeks. We only worry that Washington's present bunker mentality won't inhibit our ability to treat the Pentagon's shopping list with common sense.

Vice President Bush did not learn about President Reagan's reelection intentions until three days before the president's candidacy announcement, according to aides. When asked, during a morning staff meeting on Thursday, Jan. 26, whether he would provide advance comment for the television networks, Bush declined, saying he still didn't know Reagan's inclinations. After a weekly luncheon with Reagan that day, however, Bush agreed to sit for the cameras.

A new spy scandal involving the CIA has surfaced in India. Four prominent Indian citizens, including two high-ranking military officers, have been charged in a New Delhi court with pirating secrets about Soviet weaponry for the U.S. According to British press reports, the investigation is expected to reach to the highest levels of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government. The CIA has no official comment on the matter.

The Reagan administration may propose legislation that would establish a new fund for distributing money collected from oil companies to fund low-income energy assistance programs. The Energy Department, which has recovered about $1.3 billion in overcharges since 1973, currently disburses the money through an escrow account.

Yet, in any one year, the administration would appropriate only 25 percent of the fund's assets. Congressional critics of the plan, saying that consumers deserve full reimbursement, contend it's aimed more at alleviating the Energy Department's budget problems than helping poor households.

Footnote: Four states — Illinois, Kentucky, New York and Ohio — are expected to exhaust their funds for low income energy assistance by the middle of this month.

It was bound to happen, perhaps. In Delaware County (Pa.) Court, Marcus Martino and his mother filed suit against the Sony Corp. and three other parties for damages incurred after Martino was hit by a car in 1981. Martino, who was wearing a Sony Walkman radio headset at the time of the accident, contends the device prevented him from hearing the car's approach.

For The Fun Of It All

I have been accused by some readers of always picking on President Reagan. "Why?" the writers ask, "don't you make fun of the Democrats?"

It's a fair question. The answer is that so far the only thing funny about the Democrats is that there is nothing funny about them.

Let me give you a humor test. I'm going to name the Democratic candidates and you see if you laugh. All right no cheating.

Mondale, Glenn, Jackson, Hart, Hollings, Cranston, McGovern, Askew and Dark Horse Candidate

Now you probably laughed at the dark horse candidate more than you laughed at the others. So you can see the bind I'm in.

Mondale is the front runner according to the polls. There is nothing funny there. I know because I have a mole in the Mondale camp and last Monday morning I called and said, "Did Mondale do anything funny last week like cry in New Hampshire or something?"

"Nope. He just went around making speeches about the greatness of America and how Reagan doesn't care about the poor or the elderly or the disadvantaged and the unemployed."

Then I checked in with Glenn headquarters. "Any laughs over at your place?"

"Glenn changed campaign managers again and he bombed out in the South talking about the greatness of America and how Reagan does not care about the elderly or the disadvantaged and the poor."

I then talked to my mole in Jesse Jackson's office.

"You guys having any chuckles over there?"

"I don't know if this is funny or not but Jesse just gave a speech last night at a church talking about the greatness of America and how Reagan has shortchanged the elderly, the disadvantaged and the poor."

"It's not a thigh slapper," I told him.

I won't go through the rest of the candidates because the reports were all similar except for the call I made to McGovern's headquarters. McGovern answered the phone himself, "Hi, this is George McGovern. I'm out on the campaign trail for a few hours and can't answer the phone. At the sound of the beep please leave your name and telephone number, and if you're thinking of voting for me I'll get back to you as soon as I can."

I'm not copping a plea because a columnist should be able to find humor in a political party, even if there isn't any. But it's always easier to make fun of someone in power than it is someone who has none.

A Potential For Mischief

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says he supports a balanced budget and equal rights for women, yet he wants to amend the Constitution to achieve one but not the other.

That's not necessarily a contradiction. Yet the argument he uses to oppose the Equal Rights Amendment could apply to the proposal to mandate a balanced federal budget.

The president feels, in the case of the budget, that the courts can force it into balance. But on the matter of women's rights, he foresees judicial intervention as "an opportunity for mischief-making."

Opponents of a budget amendment claim it has enormous potential for mischief. They contend that either it would have to contain so many loopholes that its impact would be limited, or its effect on the economy could be devastating.

The director of the Congressional Budget Office talked about "too strong a shock to the economy" if the budget were abruptly squeezed into balance.

The amendment that passed the Senate and was killed by the House would have permitted deficits. Its principal provision would require Congress to approve red ink by a three-fifths vote.

Both issues are part of the current political debate and are likely to remain so through 1984 and beyond.

At this point, the rhetoric on both sides sounds more like politics than substance. Feminists are vowing to wreak vengeance on members of Congress who voted against ERA.

The budget amendment could enable the president to take control of the budget debate and turn the tables on Democrats who are lambasting him for proposing record deficits.

After the House killed a balanced budget amendment last summer, Reagan expressed a "deep burning anger." He said the Democratic leadership of the House had "played politics with the will of the people."

His anger was echoed a few months later by Judy Goldsmith, president of the National Organization for Women, after the House killed ERA.

"The Republican members of Congress who orchestrated the loss of the Equal Rights Amendment in the House ... will face the wrath of their constituents," she said.

On the matter of the Equal Rights Amendment, the president has said his opposition is based "not because of opposition to what it was supposed to accomplish, but to the fact that it would take out of the legislature and put in the hands of the courts this matter."

A lot of questions are raised about the impact of ERA should it become part of the Constitution.

During the most recent ERA debate in Congress, an issue that occupied lawmakers was the question of whether the amendment would require that women be considered for combat roles in the military service.

The president surely is right in expecting that adding ERA to the Constitution would prompt lawsuits by women claiming that particular laws and government practices are making them victims of unconstitutional discrimination.

Equally possible would be suits under a balanced budget amendment that would challenge governmental actions as unconstitutionally forcing excessive spending.

The president wants to take the budget balancing initiative away from the legislature because that branch didn't approve all the spending cuts he requested. Critics of his deficits contend that the root of the deficit problem is that Congress gave him too much of what he wanted in the form of tax cuts and defense spending.

One-Sided Revenue

Those who grumble about taxes should talk to a tobacco farmer.

The Tobacco Institute says federal and state governments collected five times the money in cigarette taxes that farmers, who grew the tobacco, earned.

Governments received $7.8 billion in taxes, a record, from cigarettes for the fiscal year ending last June 30. Tobacco used in cigarettes was valued at $1.4 billion.

Thus it can be seen that government is doing quite well from cigarette sales. Perhaps those who make the tax laws should be aware that tobacco is the livelihood of a hard working group of the nation's farmers. Government is making far more off the crop than the growers and one has to wonder how much more the tobacco growing segment of agriculture can take in excess taxes.

Endless War

NEW YORK (AP) — This year promises to be a lively one in the endless tug of war between management and labor.

In the view of many economists, there will be much more than the size of workers' paychecks at stake when negotiators sit down at the collective bargaining table in the months ahead.

The outcome of their talks will do much to determine whether progress against inflation can be sustained — and to set the mood of workers as they prepare to vote in the November election.

Edward Yardeni, economist at the Wall Street firm of Prudential-Bache Securities, notes that contracts are scheduled to expire in the construction industry in the spring and early summer, the railroad industry in June, and auto manufacturing and bituminous coal mining in September.

All told, he adds, there will be negotiations affecting 3 million of the 7.9 million workers in private industry who are covered by major labor contracts. The calendar is heavier than it might otherwise have been because bargainers tended to go for shorter contracts than usual during the recent period of recession and economic upheaval.

Now, of course, the recession is officially over. Corporate profits are improving, and it would be only natural if workers were to press for a share of the increased prosperity.

Since labor is an important part of business costs, however, an acceleration in wage gains could pose the threat of revived inflation. That's the way things often have gone in the past.

But Yardeni and other observers say the country isn't likely to see a wage explosion in the immediate future, with both management and workers still licking their wounds from the slump of 1981 and 1982.

"We believe that management will successfully resist wage increases that exceed productivity gains," Yardeni says. "There is still quite a bit of unemployed labor, which should temper union demands. Fierce foreign competition resulting from the strong foreign exchange value of the dollar will also increase the resolve of management to keep a lid on labor costs."

To the editor:
I wish to commend the International Reading Association for the outstanding Storytelling Day they sponsored recently at Carolina East Mall.

As a parent and librarian, I particularly appreciated this effort to promote and encourage reading. My 3-year-old daughter and I spent several hours going from storyteller to storyteller listening to their stories and enjoying the costumes they wore. It was very obvious that much work and time had been given to create such a worthwhile event.

Parents, teachers, librarians, students, as well as IRA members, participated as storytellers. Coupons were given which could be redeemed at Sheppard Memorial Library for a special bookmark — thereby encouraging children to visit the library.

I hope this organization will continue to receive enough support from parents, businesses, etc., to make this an annual event.

Held For Break-In

One arrest has been made in the continuing investigation of a break-in at D.H. Conley High School that resulted in the larceny of various items and vandalism of property, the Pitt County Sheriff's Department said today.

Chief Deputy Brooks Oakley said Greg Smith, 21, of Route 3, Greenville, was charged with breaking, entering and larceny in the Feb. 3 incident. Oakley said Smith is stationed with the Marines at Cherry Point.

The spokesman said school officials are still assessing what was taken in the break-in, which took place when a window was pried from its frame on the south side of the building to gain entrance. Oakley said several rooms and offices were entered and ransacked. Papers were scattered on the floor and various items, including an undetermined amount of money, were taken from desks and cabinets which were forced open.

Oakley said some damage was also reported to small computers and other property at the school but the extent of that vandalism has not been determined. He added that officials are taking inventory to determine if any property was taken from the school's ROTC supply

HELPING HANDS — Christian Mission Outreach men load boxes of food, clothing and medicine to be distributed to poverty stricken people in West Virginia. The needy, some of whom have been out of work for three years following the shutdown of coal mines in the area, came to the attention of a local parishioner who contacted Christian Mission Outreach through a local radio station. The organization, active since December, raised enough money and donations to have food shipped from Richmond, Va., and Greenville to McDowell County, W.Va., for distribution through local churches. In addition, 18 local residents will visit McDowell County and provide a meal for 500 people Saturday.

3rd Year Arranged

Greenville has again been chosen to participate in the International Friendship Force, a program dedicated to promoting friendship among nations through exchange visits between cross-sections of their citizens.

This year's exchange, with a

Mexican city, marks the third year Greenville-area citizens have participated in Friendship Force exchanges. Previous exchanges were with residents of Arnhem, Holland, in 1982 and the Gaspé Peninsula, Quebec, Canada, last year.

The local Friendship Force Committee will be responsible for the selection of local travelers, called ambassadors, and those in the Greenville area who will receive visits from the exchange city in their homes.

During the first half of the two-week visit to the exchange country, ambassadors stay in private homes with host families and participate in the daily routine of the hosts' lives. The remaining days are optional; each ambassador may choose to remain in a home situation with the same or a second host, tour the host nation at his or her own expense, or return home.

The fee for each traveling ambassador in the exchange depends on the distance between the two exchange cities. For this year's Mexican exchange, the total cost will be about $600. There is no fee for hosts.

Persons in the Greenville area interested in becoming a host or an ambassador should telephone the local Friendship Force office (752-1784) for further information.

Guns Speak...

on Feb. 8, 1983 — exactly one year ago — in a show of solidarity with its Western allies.

A man who answered the telephone at the former British post identified himself as a Lebanese soldier. "We're under bombardment. Shells are falling all around us," he told The Associated Press.

The future of Christian President Gemayel was uncertain, his army weakened by Moslem defections and his U.S.-backed government riddled by the Cabinet's resignation.

Brooks said the Marines were aware of Reagan's decision, but had received no order to leave their vulnerable positions.

Two-hundred and fifty "support personnel" were transferred to ships on Tuesday before Reagan's announcement, but Capt. Jim Santana, a spokesman for the Defense Department in Washington said, "Basically, it's not related to the announcement."

He called it a "normal procedure" to protect support personnel during times when "things get a little out of hand or we're taking fire."

Brooks said the Marines remain under orders "to stand fast and continue our mission." When the word comes to move out, it will "take three to five days to get all our supplies ... and all our personnel in a staged, orderly withdrawal back aboard ship."

Thirty-nine employees and dependents of the U.S. Embassy in west Beirut were airlifted to the ships by helicopter Tuesday because of "the current unstable situation," Brooks said.

They arrived today at Larnaca, Cyprus, where one called the experience "pretty damn scary."

Meet On Thursday

Several public hearings relative to rezoning, annexation and zoning ordinance amendments highlight the agenda for Thursday's 7:30 p.m. City Council meeting at city hall.

Public hearings are scheduled on a request by Derek Dunn to rezone section five of Westhaven subdivision, located south of Club Pines subdivision and east of N.C. 11, from RA-20 (residential-agricultural) to R-9 (residential); a request for annexation of section five of Westhaven; a request by Landvest Enterprises and Carl Darden to rezone .529 acres at the northwest corner of Fifth and Holly Streets from office and institutional to R-6 (residential);

A request by Dr. James M. Williamson to rezone 1.28 acres on North Memorial Drive about 200 feet south of the intersection with North Greene Street, from highway commercial to unoffensive industry; a request by William E. Dansey to rezone 4.05 acres at the southeast corner of the intersection of Arlington Boulevard and Mulberry Lane, from R-6 to office and institutional; three amendments to various sections of the zoning ordinance; and on an ordinance amending the zoning map.

The council will consider a resolution providing for the use of a consent agenda by the board on routine and noncontroversial items.

Other business includes: consideration of Traffic Commission recommendations; scheduling of a public hearing on a revision to the thoroughfare plan; budget amendments; tax releases and refunds; consideration of an ordinance amending the city code regarding the discharge of firearms; consideration of bids on a used bulldozer, and appointments to boards and commissions.

Your neighborhood can assist the Police Department by joining the Community Watch Program. Call 752-3342 for details.

Excess CD Funds Facing Farmville

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE — Farmville Commissioners are faced with what to do with $400,000 in excess Community Development Funds.

A hearing was held Tuesday night during the commissioners' regular monthly meeting to get citizen input into how the funds can best be reprogrammed into new activities.

Several citizens said they believe that some of the money should be used for a Southside Fire Station. There has long been concern in Farmville that a pumper and other equipment need to be on each side of the railroad that cuts the town in two.

Several citizens also talked about specific houses and specific areas that need refurbishing. Pete Anderson said the CD Advisory Committee believes that the money can best be spent in improving the area two blocks south and two blocks west of the corner of South Main and Bennett streets. He said the streets need work, as do many of the 58 houses in this area.

The board authorized the purchase of $1,735 of equipment for the Community Center which will open soon. Included in the purchase are a vacuum cleaner, a typewriter, wall clocks, wastebaskets and ashtrays, a television set and pictures for walls.

It was voted to fund the demolition of the houses at 206 and 210 Belcher Street, at the same time allowing the owner, W.A. Allen Jr. 30 days to be under way with bringing the two structures up to town codes.

Authorization was given for the construction of a drainage system to contain flooding at the Wastewater Treatment Plant. The cost of materials, labor and equipment is expected not to exceed $2,989. Also authorized was the engineering for the construction of water line extension from Greenfield Heights to Lang's Crossroads at a cost of $67,467. One fourth of this is expected to be grant-reimbursed.

Approvals were given for the purchase of a 350-pound sandblaster cleaner from Cameron and Barkley Co. at a cost of $1,745.50 and a fault locator for detecting underground electrical problems from Service Instrument Corp. at a cost of $995.

A resolution was adopted to sell the abandoned No. 1 Wastewater Treatment Plant. An offer of $7,000 from Earl Keel will be accepted unless a higher price is offered, the board indicated.

Approval was given for the mayor's appointment of Dianne Warren to the town Tree Board.

The board asked for citizen input into whether the town is doing anything to discourage development. Moses Moye, a commissioner who is also one of the developers who recently announced the scrapping of plans to build townhouses across from the Town Commons on North Main Street, read a statement from himself and Dr. Mike Dixon, also a commissioner and one of the developers. This project and two other apartment construction projects on the outskirts of town have recently fallen through.

Dr. David Reeves expressed his personal regret that the townhouses are not being built and asked that serious looking be done to see if town policy is discouraging responsible development in and near the town.

The re-election by fire department members of H.P. Norman as fire chief was approved. Commendation was made of the fire department for its recent second-place in the Fire Prevention Week display competition at Carolina East Mall. Norman was also commended for being named Pitt County Fireman of the Year.

Saw A Rebound In Bldg. Permits

Building permits valued at $6,817,457 were issued in Greenville during November as construction activity rebounded from the $2,847,900 figure reported a month earlier, state Labor Commissioner John Brooks reported.

The November construction figure ranked Greenville fifth among 44 cities of more than 10,000 population. Greenville was one of six cities to exceed the $6 million mark in permits.

The Greenville total included $2,532,200 for 73 single-family structures; $60,000 for four multifamily units; $40,472 for five non-residential units; and $4,184,785 for 38 additions and alterations. Brooks said 120 units were authorized in Greenville during November.

The commissioner said Pitt County issued permits amounting to $6,962,957 during the month, including Greenville's construction figure. The total included $2,658,200 for 75 single-family units; $60,000 for four multifamily units; $57,472 for nine non-residential structures, and $4,187,285 for 39 additions and alterations.

Statewide the 44 reporting cities authorized 4,208 new construction units in November, up 30.8 percent from 3,216 recorded in 1982 and up 1.4 percent from October's 4,149.

Estimated value of the units, at $139,226,430, rose 48.6 percent from the 1982 total of $93,709,401 but dropped 1.5 percent from October's $141,377,701.

Brooks said building activity in the 44 cities increased 30.8 percent during the first 11 months of 1983 when compared to the same period of 1982. Through November, 42,081 construction units were authorized, up from 32,161. Estimated value, at $1,437,620,419, rose 52.3 percent from $944,158,520 in 1982.

At 42,214, the average construction cost for a single-family home decreased 2.6 percent from $43,350 last November and was down 1.9 percent from $43,051 in October.

November building permits in several eastern towns included: Elizabeth City, $1,098,900; Goldsboro, $2,174,000; Jacksonville, $2,113,517; Kinston, $452,000; New Bern, $988,690; Roanoke Rapids, $1,228,472; Rocky Mount, $1,377,609; Tarboro, $284,300, and Wilson, $1,349,688.

School Bus In Sliding Tumble

LENOIR, N.C. (AP) — A school bus slid on an icy Caldwell County road and tumbled down an embankment, sending 23 high school and junior-high students to a hospital for treatment of minor injuries, authorities said.

No one was seriously hurt when the bus wrecked Tuesday, said a spokesman with the county sheriff's department. However, two students — 15-year-old Carlos Hood and 14-year-old Cindy Calloway — were admitted to Caldwell Memorial Hospital for observation.

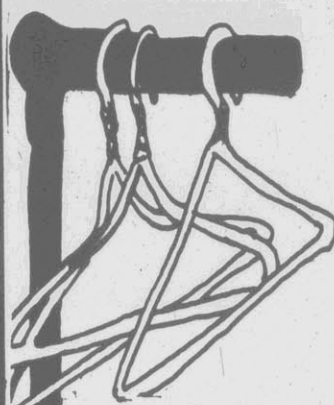

The others were treated and released.

Social Security Rolls At Record High

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Social Security rolls, after dropping two years ago due to the elimination of some benefits and a disability crackdown, are growing again and hit an all-time high in January. James Brown, spokesman for the Social Security Administration, said 36,182,998 retired or disabled workers and their families received benefits in January. That was about 22,000 more beneficiaries than in March 1982, when the previous record was set.

The number of beneficiaries had soared upward without interruption every year from 1940, when the first 222,488 people began drawing monthly Social Security checks.

But after hitting 36,161,000 in March 1982, the rolls began contracting as the system felt the impact of changes that the Reagan administration and Congress made in 1981, as well as the sweeping disability reviews launched that year.

The lawmakers ordered a phase-out of Social Security benefits for college students ages 18 to 22, who used to draw regular dependent's benefits if they had a parent who was retired, disabled or deceased. Students' benefits also were halted for the first time in the summer months.

Another change adopted in 1981 led to a cutoff of benefits for widowed mothers when their youngest child turned 16 instead of 18. Widows without children in their care must wait to age 60 to draw benefits, or 50 if they are disabled.

In January 1981, before the congressionally-ordered disability reviews began, 2,857,331 disabled workers were drawing tax-free monthly checks. A million had their eligibility checked over the next 2½ years and 45 percent were told they were fit to work.

Many managed to keep their benefits on appeal. Counting those workers awarded disability for the first time, the number of disabled worker beneficiaries dropped to 2,571,727 by April 1983 — a reduction of 285,604. There has been little change in that figure since then.

The total number of beneficiaries dipped to 35,278,027 in August 1982 — down by nearly 900,000 in five months. But then it began building back up, with some monthly fluctuations, to the current all-time high.

Brown said Social Security's actuaries expect the number to swell to 36.4 million by June. The Reagan administration fiscal 1985 budget projects further growth to nearly 37 million next year.

"It's due to the greying of America," said Brown, referring to the nation's gradually rising median age.

The cost of Social Security's retirement and disability programs is expected to rise from $179.8 billion this year to $191.3 billion next year.

But the administration says that thanks to higher payroll taxes, a tax on half of some retirees' benefits starting in 1984 and a six-month delay in last July's cost-of-living increase, Social Security's trust funds actually will increase by $11 billion in 1985.

GM Sees Year Of Big Profit

By EDWARD MILLER
AP Auto Writer

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp.'s record $3.7 billion earnings for 1983 may be the beginning of a long string of high profits for the world's largest automaker, an industry analyst says.

GM announced Tuesday that its earnings for last year surpassed its previous high — $3.51 billion in 1978.

GM was the first U.S. carmaker to report its yearly earnings and auto analysts say its figures may be the key to breaking the industrywide sales record of $5.18 billion set in 1977.

The earnings compare with $963 million for GM in 1982.

Gary Glaser, an analyst with Sanford C. Bernstein & Co. in New York, said the "biggest difference in 1983 over 1982 came in much higher level of volume" of car sales, which were up 17.2 percent from 1982 to 1983 for all the major U.S. automakers. GM was up 15.3 percent.

"The other single biggest factor, really, is the productivity gains" at GM, Glaser said. He said that by cutting staff and raising productivity, GM has been able to lower its break-even point drastically from 5 million vehicles in 1978 to 4 million vehicles last year. GM also is embarking on a reorganization that would merge its five car divisions into two, one for big cars and one for small.

"From that, one can surmise that costs can be reduced further within the GM system," he said.

The earnings figured out to $11.84 a share, not a record but substantially higher than the $3.09 of 1982. Glaser said he predicts that 1984 earnings will reach $17 a share.

GM, which builds nearly one-fifth of all motor vehicles in the world, said the profits were made on record sales of $74.6 billion, breaking a record of more than $66.3 billion set in 1979.

A big part of the $3.7 billion in net income, more than $980 million, was attributed to General Motors Acceptance Corp., the automakers' financing arm. But that was a lesser percentage than in 1982, when $688 million of the $963 million in earnings came from GMAC.

"This time, they just made money on the (building of) cars," said David Healy, an analyst for Drexel, Burnham Lambert Inc. in New York.

The earnings put $322 million into a profit-sharing fund and the company said 531,000 U.S. employees will receive an average $640 each — more for those who worked a lot of overtime last year. The profit-sharing was won by the United Auto Workers union in contract bargaining last year.

GM released the figures in Detroit and in Washington, where Chairman Roger B. Smith, who has led the company on its way out of the sales slump, addressed the National Press Club.

Smith noted that GM lost $762 million in 1980, at the height of the four-year auto recession.

"The results we're announcing today — just three years later — are an incredible $4.5 billion improvement over that figure, although our unit sales increased less than 10 percent," he said.

Smith emphasized profit-sharing and company-worker harmony more than any other issue. Harvey Heimbach, auto analyst for Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith Inc. in New York, said GM was "trying to tone it down because they they have labor talks coming up and they don't want to blow any trumpets." GM's UAW contract expires Sept. 14.

Earnings for the final quarter of the year were put at $1.3 billion, a record for any quarter in GM's 75-year history.

Senate Bill Modifies The Exclusionary Rule

'TRIP-WIRE VET' — Encountered this past weekend outside his western Massachusetts home, self-described "trip-wire" veteran Jim Caprine displays a photograph taken in Vietnam before the 1968 Tet offensive showing him, right, and a fellow Navy Construction Battalion member. Caprine constructed his wood-heated non-electrified home in a community near the Quabbin Reservoir that he asked not be identified. (AP Laserphoto)

By LARRY MARGASAK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-passed bill that would allow federal courts to use a type of evidence barred for 70 years "does not diminish constitutional safeguards," the chief sponsor says.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., urged that the House approve modification of the "exclusionary rule," which bars admission of illegally seized evidence. The Senate passed the bill Tuesday night, 63-24.

The bill would allow admission of improperly obtained evidence in federal criminal cases — if law enforcement officers had a "reasonable good faith belief" they acted properly.

The exclusionary rule was imposed by the Supreme Court in 1914, so that courts could enforce the Fourth Amendment protection against unreasonable searches and seizures.

That decision applied to federal criminal cases only, but the high court extended the rule to state and local courts in 1961. The pending legislation, however, only applies to federal courts, where few criminal trials take place.

Twenty-one Democrats and 42 Republicans voted to modify the rule, while 18 Democrats and 6 Republicans were opposed.

Next turns to legislation that would impose the death penalty for such federal crimes as treason, espionage and attempts to assassinate the president.

Senate Majority Leader Howard

Baker on Tuesday filed a motion to limit debate, a maneuver to head off an expected filibuster by death penalty opponents. The debate limiting "cloture" motion cannot be voted on until Thursday.

Baker said he did not expect a vote on the death penalty until after the recess scheduled Feb. 10-20.

The exclusionary rule legislation was a victory for the Reagan administration. The American Bar Association and the American Civil Liberties Union opposed the bill.

Also opposed were liberal senators who voted for a series of other anti-crime bills during the past week, including a package that would eliminate parole and change laws on bail and sentencing.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said there was no connection between the other measures and the evidence bill, which he said "may well infringe on constitutional rights and important civil liberties."

Kennedy cited a General Accounting Office study released in 1979 that showed evidence was barred under the exclusionary rule in only 1.3 percent of 2,084 criminal prosecutions studied.

"Simply put, the so-called reform in this legislation will not make any significant difference in reducing crime," he said.

But Thurmond, echoing the Reagan administration's sentiments, said the bill "would stop criminals from escaping punishment through legal technicalities, which clearly undermine our criminal justice system."

"This bill does not diminish constitutional safeguards against unlawful searches and seizures," he said.

Regardless of what Congress does, the issue likely will be decided by the Supreme Court — which has before it two pending cases where the "good faith" exception is the major issue.

In another anti-crime measure, the Senate passed by voice vote a board to create a cabinet-level policy board with authority to reduce duplication, competition and inefficiency in narcotics enforcement.

Last year, President Reagan vetoed a comprehensive anti-crime package because it would have created a cabinet-level "drug czar" to carry out a similar task. Reagan objected then to creating a new level of bureaucracy.

However, it is not known whether Reagan will support the new version, which would create a policy board headed by the attorney general, with other existing cabinet chiefs as members.

It was Oscar Wilde who first proposed the theory that life imitates art. Certainly, events at the bridge table seem to bear him out. This deal from the 1983 World Team Championship is a case in point — it could easily come from a teacher's hand file.

The auction was straightforward. Note that South, Jim Jacoby of the U.S. team, did not feel constrained to overcall more than one spade at his first turn — to bid vulnerable when partner has passed and both opponents are in the auction you need a good hand. Once North raised, Jacoby went right to game.

West took his two high clubs and shifted to a heart, taken by the ace in the closed hand. Obviously, the problem was to avoid losing two tricks in diamonds. Also, West almost surely had the king of diamonds for his opening bid, so leading a diamond to the queen was unlikely to succeed. Instead, Jacoby planned to make use of dummy's nine-eight of diamonds to engineer an end play.

He crossed to dummy with a trump to the nine and ruffed a heart high. He went back to the table with a trump to the ten, cashed the king of hearts for a diamond discard and then led the eight of diamonds from the table.

Had East played low, declarer would have run the eight to West, gaining a sure end play if West won with either the jack or ten. East scotched this plan by rising with the jack of diamonds. Now declarer had to guess the position. He elected to play East for the ten as well, so he ducked. On East's forced diamond return, declarer again played low, and when West produced the king, all was well.

Teachers, Take Note!

National Newspaper in Education (NIE) Week is coming March 5-9, 1984. The Newspaper in Education program encourages the use of newspapers for a variety of educational purposes. National NIE Week emphasizes the importance of reading and writing and is a cooperative effort of the International Reading Association and newspapers.

Teachers, use ads, maps, graphs, and schedules to teach reading and math. Show students how to write news stories, editorials, ads, and reviews. Also have them write letters to the editor and use newspapers to update research projects. Ask them to discuss the judgments that are made in interviews and editorials. Most important, have them read daily to develop the habit of reading and to keep well informed.

Locally, THE DAILY REFLECTOR has an intensive NIE program complete with newsletters, student presentations, teacher workshops, tours, activity sheets and manuals, and an NIE lending library. To find out more about the NIE program at THE DAILY REFLECTOR, call 752-6166, ext. 312. Or write: NIE Coordinator, THE DAILY REFLECTOR, P.O. Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27835.

A special edition of the state's Newspaper in Education newsletter, DATELINE NC, is available free of charge. The newsletter features teaching ideas for use during NIE Week. To receive the newsletter, send the coupon below to the N.C. NIE Foundation. Return the coupon before February 24.

Budget Deficit Conference Has Shaky Start

By CLIFF HAAS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Talks between administration officials and members of Congress on President Reagan's call for a $100 billion "down payment" to reduce deficits were off to a shaky start today with senior Democrats and Republicans predicting failure.

At Reagan's urging, five top presidential advisers and two members each from the House and Senate gathered today at Blair House, the government's official guest residence across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House. There was no indication how long today's meeting would last.

House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, entered the session saying he hoped agreement could be found.

"We have some suggestions to make, but first we want to hear what the White House has to say," Wright said. Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., representing Senate Republicans, said, "I certainly am not going in on the basis that this is a political exercise. I hope something productive will come out of it."

But prospects for the negotiations are bleak.

"How," asked Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd, "can anyone realistically expect the whole budget to be rewritten by a few members of Congress and administration representatives meeting downtown, whether at the White House or Blair House or wherever?"

The fact of the matter is the process of crafting a budget requires weeks and weeks of careful preparation," said Byrd, of West Virginia.

Reagan's invitation to the talks was issued a week before he sent Congress a fiscal 1985 spending plan that projects deficits of $180 billion in each of the next few years, not far off the record $195.4 billion posted in 1983.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., has said the president called for the election-year talks simply to "pass the buck" on the issue of huge federal budget deficits.

Legislative efforts to significantly reduce federal budget deficits have been stalled since last year by Reagan's insistence that big increases in taxes or big reductions in military spending are off limits while Democratic leaders ruled out further domestic spending cuts.

But the president's key economic advisers have been urging Congress to take the talks seriously and slash the enormous budget deficits or risk sending the economy into a tailspin.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan, one of the administration participants, insisted Tuesday that White House officials "are willing to talk about anything" in the negotiations. Regan added, however, "We're going to go for the less contentious items."

Wright said Tuesday, "I will at least explore" administration feelings on repealing tax indexation, which ties personal income tax rates to inflation beginning in 1985. Wright said such a move could save the government about $60 billion over three years.

Regan said of such a suggestion, "That would be very contentious."

And in testimony before the House Appropriations Committee, Regan added, "to my way of thinking, it is better to cut spending than to raise taxes."

Wright said he will insist on "serious deficit reductions, not cosmetic deficit reductions," adding that the president's goal of a $100 billion package over three years is too small.

"We'll probably suggest that is not enough and we should do more," Wright said. But the question of election-year politics is as critical to the success of the talks as agreement on specific proposals.

Brother Emerging As Aquino's Successor

By DAVID BRISCOE
Associated Press Writer
MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Five months after his brother was assassinated at the Manila International Airport, Agapito "Butz" Aquino is emerging as a major opposition figure in the Philippines.

A former plastics manufacturer and onetime actor in a cough syrup commercial, Aquino, 44, wasn't widely known before Benigno Aquino's Aug. 21 killing, and has little political experience.

But opposition demonstrators now chant "Butz" along with "Ninoy," the nickname of his brother.

No other opposition leader has so far appeared likely to fill Benigno Aquino's role as President

Ferdinand E. Marcos' chief rival. Marcos, 66, has indicated he will run for re-election in the 1987 election, and some local observers are projecting Agapito Aquino as an opposition candidate. But Aquino says he is not ready to run for office.

Benigno Aquino had been jailed for eight years by Marcos, who was then ruling under martial law. Martial law was lifted in 1981, and last summer Aquino ended three years of voluntary exile in the United States, vowing to help opposition efforts against Marcos. But the 50-year-old former senator was gunned down at the Manila airport on arrival. His killing has not been solved.

Agapito Aquino's picture has appeared on magazine covers. A tabloid published by the opposition-oriented Mr. and Ms. magazine dealing almost exclusively with the aftermath of the assassination featured Aquino declaring, "If Ninoy could only see me now."

He has acknowledged that some of the affection for his older brother has been transferred to him.

An article in the tabloid quoted him as saying he has three major assets: "First, I look like Ninoy. Second, I sound like Ninoy. And third, I don't have a first lady," a reference to first lady Imelda Marcos, a target of much opposition criticism.

On Sunday, a dramatic march ended with Aquino and a circle of 20 followers gathering at the airport tarmac where his brother fell. Aquino read a pledge to carry on his brother's fight.

Police had backed down and allowed the marchers through a blockade after Aquino insisted on taking at least 1,000 people to the airport and a small delegation to the tarmac itself.

A week earlier, he won a similar confrontation with riot police, negotiating with three generals to let him lead a march through Manila. It grew into the biggest opposition showing since Aquino's funeral with hundreds of thousands lining streets on joining the march.

Aquino, father of three, has been separated from his wife, but she has joined some of his rallies. Aquino and other members of his family, including the late senator's mother, son and widow, have been giving speeches at rallies and civic clubs all over the islands.

The family members bring more enthusiastic reaction than the dozens of former senators, congressmen or constitutional convention delegates among the opposition who have failed to regain power during Marcos' 16-year rule.

Last month, Aquino organized a conference of quarreling opposition groups, with the result that a 15-member council of leaders was formed.

A lawyer, who asked not to be identified, said there has been malicious speculation that Marcos might be allowing Aquino victories in his confrontations with military blockades to build up the image of an inexperienced man he thinks he can handle.

During the most recent showdown between Aquino supporters and riot police, as Aquino spoke to the crowd from atop a small truck, an opposition lawyer turned to a police colonel and said, "I hope he doesn't become another Bobby Kennedy."

His reference to the late American senator who died from an assassin's bullet after the assassination of his brother, President John F. Kennedy, brought no reaction from the officer.

ILLEGAL TO OWN — "Throwing stars" — Oriental weapons that are unlawful to possess but not to sell — are a current fad among schoolchildren. Law enforcement officials say most of the youngsters who own the throwing stars don't realize they can be arrested and possibly jailed. (AP Laserphoto)

Bunny Birthrate Down: Too Cold

CHESHIRE, Ore. (AP) — The bunny birthrate is down in western Oregon, and experts think they know why: Last month it was just too darn cold.

At the end of December, temperatures were downright frigid — and so were the does, who lost interest in the bucks because of the freezing weather, said rabbit breeder Pat Ribe of Cheshire.

"It was the I've-got-a-headache kind of thing," she said.

Litters are born 30 days after breeding, so now is the time production should be lowest, said Nephi Patton, director of the Rabbit Research Center at Oregon State University.

Since the weather has warmed up, breeders say the chilly relations have thawed, love is hopping again and the number of bunny babies should be back on track well before Easter.

Files Suit Over Exhuming Photos

DALLAS (AP) — The widow of Lee Harvey Oswald, Marina Oswald Porter, has filed suit over videotapes and photographs taken when the body of the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy was exhumed to dispel the theory that a Soviet spy had been buried in Oswald's grave.

Mrs. Porter contends in the suit filed Monday in state district court that Hampton Hall and John Norman Collins of Rockwell, Texas, were paid to record the October 1981 exhumation and autopsy but never turned over the tapes and photos.

She said she and British author Michael H.B. Eddowes, who proposed the spy theory, paid Hall and Collins.

Both Hall and Collins have unlisted telephone numbers and could not be reached for comment on the court action.

May Escape Death Penalty By Pleas

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Two men accused in the 1981 Ashe County mineshaft murders may have escaped the death penalty by pleading guilty to three counts of first-degree kidnapping and two counts of second-degree murder.

Gary Hansford Miller of Asheville and Allan Ray Hattaway of Salisbury had been charged with two counts of first-degree murder and three counts of first-degree kidnapping.

The two men pleaded guilty Tuesday in Buncombe County Superior Court. They each face a maximum of 220 years in prison, 120 years on the kidnapping charges and 100 years on the second-degree murder charges.

Superior Court Judge Claude Sitton said presumptive sentences in the charges, the sentences they could expect to receive without mitigating circumstances, are 15 years for each count of second-degree murder and 12 years for each count of kidnapping.

They were accused in the kidnappings and deaths of Tommy Eugene Forrester and Lonnie Marshall Gamboa, whose frozen bodies were found at the bottom of a 250-foot abandoned mineshaft in Ashe County. They also were charged with kidnapping Betty Darlene Callahan from an Asheville motel and taking her to Chicago.

District Attorney Ronald C. Brown had said he would seek the death penalty.

Both defendants have been in custody since June 1982, but were sent to trial first in Chicago on federal charges. Hattaway later was involved in a jurisdictional dispute between state and federal authorities after he claimed to have knowledge of county corruption. Both men were placed in state custody in August 1983.

Prosecutors contended Miller and Hattaway kidnapped Forrester, 29, and Ms. Callahan, 26, from the In Town Motel on Tunnel Road on Dec. 13, 1981. They said Forrester owed Miller and Hattaway money for an illegal drug transaction. Forrester's body was pulled from the Ore Knob mine in Ashe County Jan. 25, 1982. The body of Gamboa, 29, was found in the same mine shaft.

Ms. Callahan told police she was taken to Chicago to become a prostitute for the Outlaws motorcycle gang. She said she escaped from captivity Jan. 25.

Questions Need For Delay For Inlet Jetties Report

By The Associated Press
The chairman of a key congressional subcommittee is questioning the need for a delayed report on the economic justification for proposed jetties for Oregon Inlet. Rep. Robert A. Roe, D-N.J., also called Tuesday for the U.S. Department of Interior and the Army Corps of Engineers to resolve their dispute over the $100 million project.

Roe is chairman of the water resources subcommittee of the House Public Works and Transportation Committee. His subcommittee Tuesday held the last of a series of congressional hearings in Washington, D.C., on the jetty project.

Roe told reporters his panel, one of three considering the legislation, could act quickly.

Roe pressed environmentalists and Interior officials on Tuesday to back up claims the jetties would cause major environmental problems and to propose workable alternatives for the commercial fishermen who must use the treacherous inlet.

Meanwhile, the corps' study on whether the project can be economically justified remains unfinished. The study isn't scheduled for release until June 30.

However, Roe dismissed such corps studies as "so much blue smoke ... that doesn't mean a ... thing."

Roe and Rep. Arlan Strangeland, R-Minn., the ranking Republican on the subcommittee, also said cost-benefit studies frequently ignore the human side of water projects.

"There is a human factor," he said. "Can anyone in this government project the cost-benefit ratio of one human life?"

A major argument of jetty supporters is that eight lives have been lost in the stormy inlet since 1969 and the jetties would stabilize the inlet for safe navigation between Pamlico Sound and the Atlantic Ocean through which fishermen sail to reach the open sea.

The reception by Roe and other subcommittee members Tuesday was in marked contrast to the reception the proposed legislation received last month before a subcommittee of the House Interior Committee under the chairmanship of Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio.

That hearing witnessed a host of environmentalist opposition to the project and tough questioning of jetty supporters. Sieberling has threatened to seek a delay in the March 1 deadline set by the House leadership for action by the Interior and Public Works committees on the legislation, sponsored by Rep. Walter B. Jones, D-N.C.

A Senate committee also is considering a similar bill for the jetties sponsored by Sens. Jesse Helms and John East, both North Carolina Republicans. The Senate panel held hearings Monday on the bill, but no decision has been reached.

Four 'Expelled' By Ethiopia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says two Ethiopian diplomats were ordered to leave the United States after four U.S. envoys were told to leave Ethiopia.

Alan Romberg, the State Department's deputy spokesman, refused to speculate on the reasons for the expulsions.

Ethiopia's pro-Soviet government disclosed the expulsions two days after Ethiopian radio confirmed that 18 people had been arrested for distributing anti-government leaflets in the capital city of Addis Ababa.

Must Decide On Higher Credit Card Costs

By DAVID GOELLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is running out of time in answering the multibillion dollar consumer question: Should it extend a law forbidding merchants to charge higher prices for items purchased with credit cards?

The issue, which will have to be decided by Feb. 27, pits consumer groups and the Federal Reserve Board against the nation's banks and leading card companies such as Mastercard, Visa and American Express.

Nancy H. Teeters, a governor of the Federal Reserve Board, says a Fed study has confirmed that "cash customers subsidize credit to some extent."

This is because merchants must pay a credit card company a percentage of each charged sale and recover this cost by adding it to the price of an item, according to Mrs. Teeters.

She told the consumer affairs subcommittee of the Senate Banking Committee on Tuesday that although the cost of credit adds only about 1 percent to the price of an item, the total markup across the economy is about $6 billion a year.

The issue of credit subsidization by cash purchasers — many of them low-income people who can't get credit cards — has bounced around Congress for more than a decade. In 1979, Congress extended the credit surcharge ban to permit the Fed to study the issue.

Mrs. Teeters said the Senate should not pass a House-approved bill that would extend the ban for another six months.

She said the Fed prefers an open market system under which merchants could either give a discount for a cash purchase or require a credit-card user to pay more for the same item.

She said, however, that the discount or surcharge should be limited to 5 percent. Discounts for cash are now permitted, but she noted that few merchants other than service stations offer them.

Congress recesses on Friday for 10 days, leaving only nine working days before the surcharge ban expires.

Joining Mrs. Teeters in urging expiration was Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin, the ranking Democrat on the Banking Committee.

extension to allow additional study of "legitimate" questions of how surcharges would relate to state usury and truth-in-lending laws.

Warn Fair Sentencing Act Is Not Always Adhered To

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Court of Appeals says trial judges are not always adhering to the provisions of the Fair Sentencing Act, and that's forced the court to order new sentencing hearings in a number of cases.

The act establishes standard or presumptive sentences for various crimes, though sentences can be increased or shortened depending on aggravating and mitigating factors listed in the law.

The court ordered new sentencing hearings in a handful of cases Tuesday, and said, in an opinion written by Judge Gerald Arnold, that such problems could be avoided if judges followed the Fair Sentencing Act closely.

"In light of the increasing number of cases that have been remanded (for new sentencing) because of erroneous findings of non-statutory factors in aggravation, this court deems it appropriate to remind trial judges that only one factor in aggravation is necessary to support a sentence greater than the presumptive term," Arnold wrote.

"With these rules in mind the trial judge may wish to exercise restraint when considering non-statutory aggravating factors after having found statutory factors. This prudent course of conduct would lessen the chances of having the case remanded for resentencing," Arnold wrote.

The opinion came in the Mecklenburg County case of Donald Eugene Baucom, who pleaded guilty in January 1983 of taking indecent liberties with a child. The prosecutors argued an aggravating factor was that Baucom took advantage of a position of trust and confidence when he committed the crime, a factor listed in the state law.

The Superior Court judge found as an aggravating factor that Baucom committed the crime against his brother, a factor not specifically listed in the law.

The Appeals Court ordered a new sentencing hearing for Baucom.

In other cases, the court ordered a new sentencing hearing when the trial judge decided a longer sentence was needed to protect society or to deter others from committing the same crime.

The court said such factors were "within the exclusive realm of the Legislature and were presumably considered in determining the presumptive sentence."

In an Onslow County case, the Appeals Court ordered a new trial because evidence was excluded about a previous sexual assault suffered by the prosecuting witness.

James Leon Johnson had been convicted in April 1982 of second-degree rape, second-degree sexual offense and crime against nature and sentenced to 12 years in prison.

But the Appeals Court said the credibility of the witness was an issue in the trial because she gave differing statements about the crime to a physician and to the court at a preliminary hearing. The court said such testimony would not be affected by the rape victim shield law, which it said addresses evidence about a woman's reputation for chastity.

The Appeals Court also elaborated on an earlier opinion saying the state Utilities Commission may consider only increased fuel costs and not the reasonableness of a utility's fuel costs during fuel-cost adjustment proceedings.

Such questions may be raised during general rate cases, the court said in the rehearing of a case brought by the Conservation Council, the Kudzu Alliance and Great Lakes Carbon Corp. against the state, the Utilities Commission, Duke Power Co. and others.

Seek Save A Lobster

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — Employees at Hagan Seafood are making progress in their campaign to keep Harold, a 17-pound lobster who may be 90 years old, from meeting his end beside a dish of melted butter.

Next to Harold's tank, employee Cathy Scofield placed a petition, "A Right to Live!"

The petition says Harold is "approximately 90 years old. If you feel he should have a chance to get even older, like some of us do, please sign. If we have enough names, our kind-hearted owner, Michael Hagan, will bring him back out to sea."

Since the petition was put up last week, between 300 and 350 people have signed it, employee Trisha Clark said Tuesday night.

"One man came in today, and the only reason he came in was to sign the petition," Ms. Clark said.

She said she hadn't spoken with Hagan since the drive to save Harold began, but "word is he's that he's going to put Harold back. Most of us want to see him go back out."

Harold is safe at least until the end of the month. Hagan decided before he left on a fishing trip to keep the giant lobster on display for 30 days, said store manager Tom Brown.

Lobsters the size of Harold are rare.

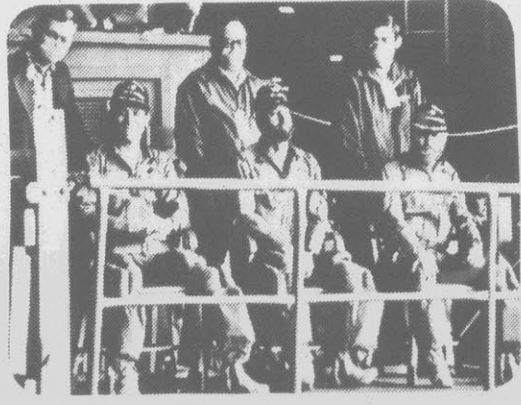

W.A. Van Engel, senior marine scientist at the Virginia Institute of Marine Science in Gloucester Point, said there is no doubt that Harold is old for a lobster, though there is no way to determine the age exactly. He said the estimate of 90 years was reasonable.

If Hagan gives in to Mrs. Scofield and others who sign the petition, it may be a costly decision.

Brown said lobster is selling for $5.19 a pound for those six pounds and over. At that rate, Harold is worth $88.23.

British Pullout Their Beirut Peacekeepers

By MICHAEL WEST
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The 115 British troops serving with the multinational force in Lebanon began withdrawing today from their suburban base southeast of Beirut to a Royal Navy ship off the Lebanese coast, the government announced.

The 1,885 French troops in Beirut remained at their posts, but all patrols outside their sector had been called off, French Defense Ministry sources said.

They said there were no immediate plans to redeploy the French troops despite the departure of the British and the planned move of U.S. Marines.

A statement by the British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's 10 Downing St. office said the troops would remain at sea "until the situation becomes clearer."

It said Britain was "in the closest touch" with the Lebanese government and other countries in the multinational peacekeeping force.

President Reagan announced Tuesday night that the American

Marine contingent in Beirut was being redeployed to U.S. warships off the Lebanese coast, but the Marines remained at their Beirut airport post today and no timetable for their departure had been announced.

A spokesman for the 1,500-man Italian contingent in Beirut said there were no orders to move or withdraw.

"If the Americans leave, that does not mean that the Italians should leave," said the spokesman, who spoke on condition he not be identified. He said the Italians still protected the Palestinian refugee camp of Chatilla in west Beirut and "there are no armed elements there."

The 5,000-strong, four-nation force was employed in Beirut at the invitation of the Lebanese government.

Reagan said he ordered the pullout of Marines following consultation with Britain, France and Italy and with Lebanese President Amin Gemayel.

His announcement came shortly after Marine helicopters evacuated non-essential U.S. Embassy personnel and their dependents from Beirut in what the State Department called a "prudent response" to fighting in Beirut.

Mrs. Thatcher told the Commons on Tuesday that the Beirut situation had "deteriorated overnight" and that her government was in "urgent and constant touch" with the three other nations. The British government announced its decision after Mrs. Thatcher held a 45-minute emergency meeting with top Cabinet officials at 10 Downing St.

Her office said the British troops had left their base at Hadath this morning and were beginning to board the 23,000-ton Royal Fleet auxiliary vessel Reliant at the port of Jounieh, north of Beirut.

Italian Foreign Minister Giulio Andreotti sent messages Tuesday, before Reagan's announcement, to Washington, London and Paris asking for a meeting "in light of the dramatic events" in Lebanon.

Visiting the Hague, French President Francois Mitterrand told a news conference Tuesday that France had not sent troops to Lebanon "to stay there indefinitely."

He said, "I have long been asking for the quickest possible replacement of the (multinational force) by the forces of international operations of the United Nations. France cannot substitute itself for those forces."

The Paris daily newspaper Le Quotidien de Paris today published a poll which showed that 47 percent of those questioned wanted France to pull its troops out of Lebanon; 39 percent favored maintaining troops in Lebanon.

A total of 241 U.S. Marines and 96 French troops were killed in terrorist truck bombings in Beirut last October and the Italian contingent, suffered 11 wounded in 24 hours of intensified fighting in Beirut. The British contingent escaped with a few minor injuries.

Fear Glut Of Doctors

DURHAM (AP) — Fearing a "doctor glut," Duke University's medical school has announced a phased-in 10 percent reduction in the size of its freshman classes.

The school will reduce its class size from 114 to 110 over the next five years, said Dr. William G. Anlyan, chancellor for health affairs. He had said last January that Duke would not reduce its medical class.

About two students will be cut each year, beginning this fall.

Anlyan said the move could avert a serious health care problem — too many doctors, which could increase the cost of medical care. Studies and health care leaders say more doctors are being trained than are needed.

North Carolina does not have too many doctors, Anlyan said. But the cut is a symbolic gesture meant to "send the message to other schools that we must correct ourselves rather than wait for federal intervention."

Anlyan said last January that states such as Illinois and Michigan are turning out too many doctors, many of whom might wind up practicing in North Carolina.

Another problem is medical schools in the Caribbean, Anlyan said. Those schools, which he said were essentially "diploma mills," are taking many American citizens not accepted at U.S. medical schools. The students later graduate and return to the U.S. to practice, he said.

Oppose Chrysler Antitrust Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is lending its support to efforts to dismiss Chrysler Corp.'s lawsuit against a proposed venture between General Motors Corp. and Toyota Motor Co.

Department spokesman Mark T. Sheehan said the department's antitrust division has permission from the U.S. District Court to file a friend-of-the-court brief on Feb. 13 spelling out the reasons why the government supports General Motors' motion to dismiss Chrysler's private antitrust suit.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market opened broadly higher today, extending gains from a late rally Tuesday that stopped a selling spree.

Nearly two stocks rose in price for every one that fell in the early tally on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.88 points at 1,282.37 in the opening half hour of trading.

On Tuesday, the blue-chip average rose 6.18 points to 1,180.49, only its fifth advance in the past 22 sessions and its biggest gain since Jan. 5.

Prior to the rebound, the stock market's best-known indicator had tumbled 112.33 points from its 1984 high of 1,286.64, reached Jan. 6.

Analysts attributed the "the 1984 winter massacre" to concern that huge federal deficits and a restrictive Federal Reserve Board would combine to keep interest rates high and slow economic growth.

Nothing has happened to calm those fears, but analysts said the market's pickup was a sign the first wave of selling may have ended.

Traders bought stocks in search of bargains or to profit from earlier "short" sales.

In a short sale, a trader sells borrowed stock and hopes the price falls before he buys stock in the market to complete the deal.

General Motors, which reported record earnings on Tuesday, was an early leader today, up 1 1/4 at 70 3/4.

Other active issues were little changed in the early going.

Texas Instruments, up 3 3/8 Tuesday, retreated 1 1/8 to 124 1/2.

In Tuesday's mixed session, declines outpaced advances by about 9 to 7 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 107.64 million shares, against 109.09 million Monday. It was the 11th consecutive day in which volume surpassed the 100 million mark.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stock rose .23 to 91.66. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .64 at 208.60.

Will Plead Guilty To Embezzling

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A railway union leader, one of six current and former labor officials facing federal corruption charges, will plead guilty and try to pay back the $121,139 he is accused of embezzling from the union, his lawyer says.

Information released Tuesday by the U.S. attorney's office outlined the charge against Al Archual, 57, who resigned in October as general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks' System Board 86 with jurisdiction over 114 union locals. His lawyer said Archual took the money to support his "compulsive" gambling.

In a separate case, a federal grand jury indicted five current and past leaders of a Teamsters local on charges of conspiring to extort more than $275,000 from wholesale seafood distributors, the U.S. attorney's office and FBI said. The accused include Maurice Schurr, president of Local 929 and an international vice president.

Rose Runs Past Gryphons

Wilson's FT's Pace Conley

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

THE DAILY REFLECTOR

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, FEBRUARY 8, 1984

Tyrone Smith scored 19 points in playing his best game of the year and led Rose High School to a 70-59 Big East Conference victory over Rocky Mount last night.

The Rocky Mount girls, however, continued the Rampettes slide downward, handing the Rose lassies a 46-28 setback.

The win kept Rose's hopes of an upper bracket finish during the regular season alive and kicking. The Rampettes are now 4-5 in league play and 9-8 overall. Rocky Mount tumbles to 3-6 in the league and 6-11 overall.

The Gryphons led early in the contest, moving out to an eight-point lead early in the second quarter. Rose battled back, led by Carlton Wilson, and finally took the lead at 23-22, holding it for the rest of the half.

Then, after a tight third period, Rose pulled away to lead by as many as 15 points in the final quarter, chalking up the win.

The win avenged an earlier 57-45 defeat at the hands of the Gryphons.

"We played a lot better tonight," Coach Jim Brewington said. "We played good defense, and I thought Dwight (Smith) helped us a lot with his steals and defensive play. Tyrone played his best game of the year and that was a big help too. Carlton played another strong game and Hunter (Bost) got some key rebounds for us. Jeff (Hopkins) also played a strong second half and that helped."

The Rampettes are still without number two scorer Mac Walston, who injured his knee late in the Kinston game a week ago. Brewington said he was hopeful that Walston would show progress in his recovery and be ready to play soon.

"But I think we got some good confidence tonight, playing without him. If we continue to play like this, I think we'll have a good chance from here on."

Rocky Mount led throughout the early going and except for a tie at 2-2 was ahead the entire first quarter. Led by the play of Ernie Griffin, the Gryphons built up a 16-10 lead by the end of the frame.

Michael Earl scored to open the second quarter, giving Rocky Mount an 18-10 lead — its biggest.

However, Wilson and the two Smiths sparked the Rampettes through the rest of the period, and Rose ran off seven straight on a three-point play by Hopkins, a jumper from the lane by Wilson and a hook shot by Hopkins to cut the lead to 20-19. Two free throws by Wilson then pushed Rose ahead, 23-22, and Dwight Smith scored off the fast break for a 25-22 lead.

The two swapped baskets the rest of the half, leaving Rose up 29-28 at the horn.

Rocky Mount knotted it at 33-33 and then took the lead at 36-35 on a three-point play by Reggie Barnes. After that, the two teams swapped the lead five times and a basket by Darrell Powell tied it at 42-41 for the Gryphons with 2:14 left.

But for the rest of the period, Rose outscored Rocky Mount 6-2 and took a 48-44 lead into the final quarter.

Tyrone Smith scored the first basket to up the lead to 50-44 and after a Gryphon free throw, Bost made two free throws. From 52-47, Rose ran off ten in a row, five by Dwight Smith, to run the lead out to 62-47 with 5:02 left. Over the next four minutes there was no change in that, and Rose, up 70-55, with 55 seconds to go, pulled its regulars.

In addition to Tyrone Smith's 19, Wilson added 17, Dwight Smith had 15 and Hopkins had 11 for Rose. Griffin had 14, Powell had 12 and Tyrone Pride had 10 for Rocky Mount.

The girls' game was a rout from the beginning. Rocky Mount pushed through the first eight points of the game and raced out to a 16-4 lead after one period.

Things continued to go wrong in the second quarter as Rocky Mount — which has only six players — raced on out to a 34-10 lead, scoring the final 12 points of the half.

It lead reached 44-20 in the third period, and Rose finally managed to put two baskets together for the first time in the final quarter. The Rampettes outscored the Gryphons, 8-2, in that frame, but it was only a dent in the big Rocky Mount lead.

"We came out of the dressing room with no desire," Coach Dennis Gibson said. "After the first couple of shots refused to drop for us, we had nothing left. It was like how many can we let them score. We need to get the chemistry back we had at the start of the league season. But right now, we couldn't split the squad and beat ourselves."

"They beat us in all phases of the game. We can execute better than that and we're going to have to if we expect to win any more."

Sabrina Lewis led Rocky Mount with 16 points while Jewel Sharpe had 14 and Sabih Hamid added 10. Doris Richardson had ten to lead Rose.

The Rampettes fall to 3-6 in the league and 3-14 overall. Rocky Mount is now 2-7, 4-11.

Rose travels to Wilson Beddingfield on Friday.

Tarboro Tops Roanoke, 50-49

TARBORO — Derrick Boyd's 20-foot desperation shot at the buzzer sailed off target as the Roanoke Redskins' fourth-quarter rally fell short and Tarboro took a 50-49 win in Northeastern 3-A Conference high school basketball action Tuesday.

Dal Battle pushed in 18 points as the Lady Vikes remained undefeated in the Northeastern Conference with a 54-43 victory over Roanoke in the girls game. Kim Smith and Pam Long added 11 points each for Tarboro, while Gloria Duggins paced the Redskins with 16 and Ginya Smith added 12.

Curtis Jones fired in 24 points to lead Tarboro as the Vikings' only player in double digits. Gary Baker pumped in 18 points, Boyd 14 and James Duggins 11 for Roanoke, now 6-8 in the conference and 6-10 overall.

Tarboro jumped out to a 15-8 lead in the first quarter, but by halftime the Redskins had trimmed the margin to 29-26. The Vikings again held the upper hand in the third period outscoring Roanoke 12-9.

In the final period, the Redskins managed a 14-9 scoring edge but fell shy of improving their standing in the league. Tarboro is now 8-4 in the league and 11-6 overall.

After a 7-7 knot at the end of the first quarter, the Lady Vikings raced away to a 30-21 edge at halftime. After Roanoke held a three-point scoring advantage in the third quarter, Tarboro outscored the Lady Redskins 20-12 in the fourth for the final bulge.

Tarboro is now 12-0 in the Northeastern standings and 15-2 overall, while Roanoke is 6-8 in the league and 7-10 overall. Roanoke travels to Williamston Friday.

HOLLYWOOD — Donald Wilson's sharpness at the free throw line helped D.H. Conley to a 58-41 victory over Coastal Conference foe White Oak last night.

The Valkyries also came away with a win over the last place White Oak lassies, 65-34.

Conley's boys raced to an 11-3 lead in the first period of the game and continued to pull away in the second quarter with a 14-4 advantage in scoring. That gave the Vikings a 25-7 lead at intermission.

Conley was a little more laid back in the third period as White Oak held a 15-13 advantage, but still was well back, 38-22. Conley outhit its foe, 20-19, in the final quarter.

Wilson led the way for Conley with 15 points, including a perfect 11 of 11 at the foul line. Reggie Smith added 10 points. Jim Jorgenson led White Oak with 21 while John Alston had 17.

Conley's record rises to 4-3 in the league and 10-9 overall. White Oak falls to 2-5 in the league and 7-12 overall.

In the girls' game, Conley took a little longer to shake White Oak loose. The Valkyries held only a 17-13 lead after one period. But in the second, they stormed away, outscoring White Oak's brand of Valkyrie, 20-2. That gave Conley a 33-15 lead at the half.

Conley continued to built on its lead in the final half, taking a 53-25 lead into the last quarter and outscoring White Oak, 12-9, in that.

Karen Barrett led Conley with 24 points while Mechio Kornegay added 19. Sandy Posey had 15 to lead White Oak.

Conley climbs to 5-2 in the conference and 16-4 overall. White Oak is winless in seven Coastal starts and is 1-18 overall.

Conley travels to North Lenoir on Friday.

Edwards Sparks Rams Past A-G

By JIMMY DUPREE
Reflector Sports Writer
HOLLYWOOD — For once, both coaches agreed: it wasn't a pretty sight to behold.

But in the end, Theodore Edwards came off the bench after sitting out over eight minutes of the second half with four fouls to score eight points and lead Greene Central to a 49-42 victory over Ayden-Grifton in Eastern Carolina 3-A Conference high school basketball action Tuesday.

Maurice Edwards led the Rams with 14 points on the night, while Theodore Edwards finished with 12 and Anthony Thompson had 11. Calvin Peterson and Marvin Smith paced the Chargers with 10 points each.

In the girls clash, Cyndi Hicks fired in 19 points and Cynthia Jones 12 as the Lady Rams defeated Ayden-Grifton 53-44 to remain a game behind league-leading SouthWest Edgecombe. Cora Faison bucketed 19 points for the Lady Chargers.

Despite getting Theodore Edwards in foul trouble early in the second quarter, the Chargers held just a 19-13 advantage at halftime and that margin slowly dwindled to a 26-25 lead after three periods.

"We were lucky to get him in foul trouble," Ayden-Grifton Coach Bob Murphrey said. "But we just didn't take advantage of it. He was probably out almost half the game altogether, and we didn't get the ball inside."

"I thought this was one game we'd be really mentally ready to play, but that just wasn't the case. We looked like we were in a daze. We made several runs at them, but we just couldn't seem to take control on offense.

"I'm disappointed that we played that poorly whether we won or lost. We just had a golden opportunity and didn't take advantage of it."

Although Greene Central improved its conference mark to 7-2 on the season while 15-4 overall, Coach Lewis Godwin wasn't pleased with his team's performance either.

"I'm just glad we could come over here and squeak it out at the end," Godwin said. "We shot so poorly in the first half; we got good shots inside and didn't put them in. We turned the ball over in key situations."

"Theodore getting in foul trouble took away some of our inside game, so we had to do more outside shooting. Early in the year we shot more from outside than inside. Now they might be trying a little too hard to push the ball inside to Theodore and Anthony."

"If we don't get (more outside shooting), I don't know what we're going to do. We can't seem to find a happy medium; we're too hesitant outside. Tonight several times Maurice Edwards had good outside shots he should have taken but didn't. I think it did the team good to see they could play without Theodore in there all night."

Theodore Edwards exited with his fourth foul with 5:59 left in the third quarter and the score knotted 19-19. The Chargers scored the next five points to take a 24-19 edge at the 3:59 mark, but the Rams outscored Ayden-Grifton 6-2 through the end of the period.

A drive inside by Mike Fulton with 13 seconds elapsed in the fourth quarter put Greene Central ahead for the first time since midway the opening period. Maurice Edwards dropped in a field goal to build the lead to three before Theodore Edwards took the floor with 4:53 remaining. Maurice Edwards popped in a 15-footer from the corner to give the Rams a 31-26 edge.

Ayden-Grifton outscored the Rams 6-2 through the 3:23 mark to trim the margin to 33-32, but Theodore Edwards tipped in a missed shot and pumped in a 15-footer to restore the five-point Greene Central edge.

Peterson kept the Chargers' offense alive from outside with a pair of field goals, but Thompson matched each with an uncontested shot inside as Ayden-Grifton went to a sagging trap defense. Danny West connected from outside for the Chargers, but Maurice Edwards deposited a pair of free throws to give Greene Central a 43-38 margin with 37 seconds left.

Peterson added another outside shot to trim the margin to three with 31 seconds on the clock, and Ayden-Grifton's Mike Dixon was whistled for a foul five seconds later. Greene Central got the ball out of bounds, and Smith grabbed Thompson attempting an intentional foul before the clock could start.

Instead, Thompson was whistled for pushing off, and Smith calmly sank both free throws to set the score at 43-42 with still 26 seconds remaining.

But then Theodore Edwards was fouled with 22 seconds left to prevent a fast break dunk and again with 12 seconds on the clock. The senior pivot man sank all four free throws and Boneree Johnson set the final margin with a layup at the buzzer.

After trailing 14-13 after the first period, the Lady Chargers tied the score at 19-19 midway through the second quarter. But Lady Rams bucketed 10 unanswered points for a 29-19 lead with a minute left in the first half and held a 29-21 advantage at intermission.

Faison scored seven points in the third quarter to help Ayden-Grifton whittle the margin to 39-34 going into the final period, and Cynthia Hicks scored on a fast break to cut it to three as the Lady Chargers controlled the fourth-quarter tipoff.

Greene Central built the lead to 43-36 on a 15-footer by Melody Bowen with 6:15 remaining, but Ayden-Grifton held a 6-2 scoring edge over the next four minutes for a 45-42 tally.

Faison fouled out of the game with 1:01 remaining and the Lady Chargers behind by four, but the only other offense Ayden-Grifton managed was a pair of free throws by Cynthia Hicks. The Lady Rams connected on three free throws and a field goal to set the final margin.

The Lady Rams improved their league mark to 8-1 while 15-4 overall. Ayden-Grifton fell to 3-7 in the conference and 5-14 overall.

"This was more of a team effort (than our game Friday at North Pitt)," Greene Central Coach Brenda Dail said. "I'm still looking for the game when all my players are having a good night."

The Lady Rams connected on just nine out of 21 trips to the free throw line in the contest, while Ayden-Grifton sank four of seven tries.

"Free throws won the game for us last Friday," Dail said. "But we didn't practice yesterday because of the snow, and I think that may have had something to do with our rhythm at the free throw line."

Greene Central hosts C.B. Aycock Friday, while Ayden-Grifton travels to Farmville Central.

Cape Hatteras Tops Jamesville, 66-51

JAMESVILLE — Cape Hatteras High School — still fighting for respectability — used the foul line in the final period to gain a 66-51 victory over Jamesville last night.

The Hurricanes, who are without a conference, are seeking a good enough record to break into the District One tournament three weeks away, and took another step toward that with the win.

Jamesville's girls took a 38-30 win in their half of the evening's play.

Hatteras eased out into a 12-10 lead after one period of play in the boys' game. The Bullets kept it close, however, and tied it up at the half, 20-20.

In the third period, however, Hatteras pulled away 20-11, taking a 40-31 lead into the final period. The Bullets made no headway for the next three minutes and then the Hurricanes went into a delay and scored ten of 11 times at the free throw line to build up the 15-point lead.

William Jones and Lonnie Woods each had 22 points for Hatteras while Joey Hammond added 10. Richie Ange led Jamesville with 18 while Robbie Harris hit 12.

The loss dropped Jamesville to 5-10 on the year.

Jamesville's girls doubled the score on Hatteras in the first period, 12-6. The Lady Bullets continued to pull away in the second frame, holding a 21-11 lead at the half. Hatteras cut it back to 30-21 in the third period, and nipped one more point off in the final quarter.

Cindy Getchell led Jamesville with 16 points, while no one scored in double figures for Hatteras.

The Jamesville girls are now 4-11.

The Bullets play host to Mat-tamuskeet on Friday.

Cavs Rout Ga. Tech

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — With his Virginia basketball team troubled in recent games by early foul trouble, Cavalier coach Terry Holland decided to juggle his lineup and go with speed and defense instead of height and offense.

The result was a 91-59 rout Tuesday night of No. 18 Georgia Tech, snapping Virginia's four-game losing streak and improving its record to 13-6 overall and 3-6 in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

After the game, Holland said that on Monday, "we decided to change the starting lineup to get a quicker group in the game at the beginning — at a time when they weren't worried about being in foul trouble and the other team wasn't in the one-and-one. We wanted to get a good tempo started early."

Virginia built a 15-point halftime lead at 39-24 and never looked back. Five Cavaliers finished the game in double figures.

Senior guard Rick Carlisle led Virginia's attack with 18 points, while backcourt mate Othell Wilson contributed 16 points, moving him into the No. 10 spot on Virginia's career scoring list with 1,258 points.

Tim Mullen added a season-high 15 points, and Jim Miller and Olden Polynice tallied 14 and 10 respectively.

John Salley led Georgia Tech, 15-6 and 5-5, with 19 points. The loss was the worst for the Yellow Jackets since a 96-67 thrashing at the hands of Virginia in the ACC tournament last season. It was the 17th straight ACC road loss for Georgia Tech.

Georgia Tech's top three scorers on the season, Mark Price, Bruce Dalrymple and Yvon Joseph, all failed to reach double figures against a tenacious Virginia defense. Price and Dalrymple each finished with eight points while Joseph had six. Price had tallied 22 against Virginia 15 days earlier in Atlanta when the Yellow Jackets tripped the Cavaliers 72-71 in triple overtime.

Holland, whose squad entertains No. 1 North Carolina Thursday night, was asked whether he planned to stay with his new lineup. "Almost assuredly through this week, anyway," he said.

National Tennis Center Chosen For Olympic Trials

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States Tennis Association has chosen its National Tennis Center here for the qualifying tournament and Olympic Trials for the selection of the U.S. men's and women's teams that will compete in the Summer Olympic Games in Los Angeles.

The qualifying tournament and Trials will be held May 28 to June 2.

The first three days of play will feature a 128-draw qualifying tournament for men and women. The Trials, from which the teams of four men and four women will be selected to compete in the demonstration sport in Los Angeles, will consist of draws of 32 for men and women.

In the Trials, 16 places will be filled from the qualifying tournament. The remaining 16 spots will be selected by the USTA from amateur players, as determined by their national or computer ranking, and wild cards given by the USTA.

The competition is open to all players — professional and amateur — born in 1964 or later.

Steve Stefanki of Napa, Calif., and Gayle Godwin of Los Alamitos, Calif., will coach the two teams.

The National Tennis Center also is the site of the U.S. Open.

Opening Ceremonies For Olympics

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (AP) — Frank Masley, bearing his country's flag proudly, led a U.S. contingent today in the opening ceremony that officially began the XIV Olympic Winter Games.

Against a snowy backdrop, the U.S. team marched in cowboy hats and Western gear — a stark contrast to this Eastern European city, ruled for some 500 years by the Turks.

Masley, a luger from Newark, Del., was chosen from 124 U.S. athletes to carry the Stars and Stripes at these Games.

"It's probably one of the proudest moments of my life," Masley said before the traditional procession. "I'm super happy. It's a big day."

"I told the rest of my team also, and we were just so excited. It's hard to hold it all in," said the 23-year-old computer expert who is participating in his second Olympics.

The USA marched behind a sign bearing the acronym "SAD," Sjednjenje Americke Drzave, the Serbo-Croat for United States of America.

As the traditional birthplace of the Games, Greece was the first team to enter Kosevo Stadium, adjacent to the ice hockey rink.

The Olympic flame was carried into the Kosevo Stadium, which is normally used for soccer, by Yugoslav figure skater Sanda Dubravcic. Adding to the pageantry of this ceremony were a group of 800 gymnasts dressed in red, white, blue, violet and turquoise jump suits, 400 cadets from the Yugoslav National Army schools, 1,200 folk dancers and the 180-member Yugoslav army band.

"I have to go up 94 steps — running, but really slowly," the 19-year-old Dubrovic said before the ceremony. "It is really a great honor to carry the flame."

The Yugoslav national champion the past two years, Dubravcic was 11th in the 1981 World Figure Skating Championships at Hartford, Conn., and 13th in last year's world title meet in Helsinki, Finland.

Dubravcic will be part of the Yugoslav team, one of a record 49 nations competing in these Games which were preceded by a controversy over amateur status that resulted in the disqualification of five hockey players.

Olympic competition actually began Tuesday with six hockey games, including a 4-2 victory for Canada over the defending Olympic champions from the United States. In some ways, the victory served as retribution for Team Canada, two of whose players were banned from the Olympics for professionalism after protests from the U.S. Olympic Committee and Finland.

The storm, more intense in the higher mountain areas, forced cancellation of training for the women's downhill. On Tuesday, Swiss skier Michela Figini turned in the fastest practice time for the second straight day at the Jahorina course. She was timed in 1 minute, 10.86 seconds, 1.56 seconds ahead of Holly Flanders of Deerfield, N.H.

"Several of the women teams wanted a day off anyway because of the opening ceremony," said Hank Tauber, the U.S. technical delegate to the International Ski Federation.

The men, meanwhile, held off long enough to get in a training run for their race on Thursday. Anton Steiner won a spot on the Austrian team by turning in the fastest time of 1:49.16 at the Bjelasnica course, while Bill Johnson of Van Nuys, Calif., was second in 1:49.18.

As the hockey controversy finally moved from the political arena to the ice, two of Team Canada's stars were players questioned but not expelled from the Olympics — goaltender Mario Gosselin and forward Dan Wood. The two men disqualified were Mark Morrison and Don Dietrich, both of whom had played for National Hockey League teams.

The other hockey players who fell victim to this ill political wind were goaltender Jim Corsi and Rick Bragnalo of Italy, and Greg Holst of Austria.

Carey Wilson scored three of Team Canada's goals, and David A. Jensen scored both goals for the U.S. team, whose hopes of repeating its glory of Lake Placid in 1980 dimmed considerably with the loss.

Gosselin has an NHL contract with the Quebec Nordiques, but has yet to play in a game. On Monday, he was sure he would be banned from the Games. Instead, he started in goal against the United States.

He had given up an average of five goals per game in 12 exhibition contests. But against Team USA, he stopped all but two of 39 shots, including 18 in the second period. He made two fine saves in the final period when the United States was trying to erase a two-goal deficit, blocking all 13 American shots.

"Their goalie made some really big saves when he had to," U.S. goaltender Marc Behrend said. "He was the difference."

The United States had won the pre-Olympic series against Canada 5-4-3, but Pat Flatley scored for the Canadians only 27 seconds into the first period, and Team Canada was on its way.

Jensen's second goal of the game, in the second period, pulled Team USA to within 3-2. But Wilson, with the help of Wood, put the game away at 9:19 of the final period. Wilson's final goal was a tip-in of a shot by Wood that gave the Canadians' their two-goal margin of victory.

"In some ways, it could have gone either way," Canadian Coach Dave King said of the adrenal flow created by the hockey hassle. "It did help us get together a bit more and make the challenge a bit greater."

The hockey competition is split into two groups, A and B. The United States and Canada are part of Group B. In other Group B games, Czechoslovakia defeated Norway 10-4 and Finland defeated Austria 4-3. In Group A, the Soviets defeated Poland 12-1, Sweden downed Italy 11-3 and West Germany beat Yugoslavia 8-1.

At the end of the round-robin competition, the two teams with the best records in each group advance to the medal round. A tie goes to the team with the greatest average margin of victory.

Barring upsets, the United States must win its next game against mighty Czechoslovakia Thursday night in order to have a chance to advance into the medal round.

The question of eligibility finally was decided in bizarre fashion late Monday as the IOC and the International Ice Hockey Federation joined in making a statement that, in effect, banned only players who had played in National Hockey League games. Paid minor leaguers or pros from European leagues would be considered amateurs, even though the Olympic Charter seemed to prohibit this.

Despite Gosselin's NHL contract, he has not yet played with Quebec, and Wood has played in the Central Hockey League. They still are considered amateurs.

At a news conference Tuesday, IOC President Juan Antonio Samaranch was unable to explain the apparent discrepancy in interpreting the Olympic rules.

"We will have to think more about it in the future," Samaranch said.

Free Throws Boost Chocowinity, 48-43

BATH — Chocowinity High School used good shooting from the foul line down the stretch to pull out a 48-43 victory over Bath last night and retake first place in the Tobacco Belt Conference.

The Indians' victory, coupled with a win by Mattamuskeet over Creswell, put the Tribe back in front with an 11-3 league record. Creswell is now 10-3.

In the girls' game, Chocowinity held off Bath for a 42-41 victory, remaining one game back of front-running Belhaven.

Bath slipped into the lead in the first period of the boys' game, 13-12, but the Tribe came back with a 10-6 advantage in the second period. That gave Chocowinity a 22-19 lead at halftime.

In the third period, Chocowinity upped that to 33-29, but Bath fought back and tied it up with three minutes left in the contest. The Indians then hit seven of eight free throws to pull out the five-point victory.

Reggie Ross led the Chocowinity scoring with 23 while Terry Moore had 10. Bath was paced by Galen Braddy with 18 and Billy Byner with 14.

Bath and Chocowinity battled on even terms in the first period of the girls' game, each scoring eight points. But in the second quarter, the Lady Indians pulled away 16-6, taking a 24-14 halftime lead.

Bath rallied, however, 12-4, in the third period, cutting the lead back to 28-26. In the final period, Chocowinity moved back out by eight only to have Bath rally within two again. The Lady Indians then pulled out by five points with 30 seconds left, with Bath scoring the final two baskets, the last at the buzzer.

Kim Green led Chocowinity with 13 points while Wendy Elks added 11. Vanessa Riddick and Karen Boyce each had 16 for Bath.

Chocowinity's boys are now 14-3 overall while Bath falls to 7-8 in the league and 7-10 overall. The Lady Tribe is now 12-2 and 14-3, while Bath drops to 10-3, 12-3.

Chocowinity travels to Bear Grass on Friday.

JV Game: Chocowinity 73, Bath 33.

St. Joe's Upsets DePaul, 58-45

By The Associated Press

It was the best of times for the St. Joseph's Hawks... and the worst of times for the DePaul Blue Demons.

"We've played a lot of games, but I've never seen us shoot 14 for 54 before," DePaul Coach Ray Meyer said after his second-ranked basketball team was upset 58-45 by St. Joseph's (Pa.) Tuesday night.

Losing to St. Joseph's is getting to be a bad habit for DePaul. The Blue Demons were knocked out of the 1981 NCAA playoffs by the Hawks in one of the biggest upsets of the tournament.

St. Joseph's Coach Jim Boyle described Tuesday night's upset over the previously unbeaten Blue Demons as the greatest victory of his college coaching career.

"I think our defense was the cause of their poor shooting," Boyle said, noting DePaul's 25.9 per cent from the field.

In the only other game involving a ranked team, Virginia crushed No. 18 Georgia Tech 91-59.

Top Twenty

The Hawks broke the game open by scoring 13 straight points early in the second half, turning a 27-23 lead into 40-23. DePaul went more than six minutes without a field goal during the Hawks' rally, shooting 0-7 from the field.

The closest DePaul got thereafter, as the Blue Demons went down to their first loss in 18 games, was nine points with 3:29 remaining in the game. But St. Joseph's then boosted its lead to 50-37 and never led by fewer than 11 the rest of the way.

Tony Costner scored 18 points and Bob Lojewski had 13 to pace the offense for St. Joseph's, which won for the 15th time in 19 games.

Meyer took the loss philosophically.

"I've seen defeat before. We'll make this loss a positive thing. It may help us," he said.

Rick Carlisle scored 18 points and Othell Wilson contributed 16 points and 11 assists as Virginia snapped a four-game losing streak by routing Georgia Tech. The Cavaliers built a 15-point halftime lead at 39-24 and never looked back.

Tim Mullen added a season-high 15 points, and Jim Miller and Olden Polynice tallied 14 and 10, respectively, in the balanced Cavalier offense. The loss was the worst for the Yellow Jackets since a 96-67 thrashing at the hands of Virginia in the ACC tournament last season. It was the 17th straight Atlantic Coast Conference road loss for Georgia Tech.

"I've been saying that one of these days we would hit our shots, make our free throws and play good defense all at the same time," Virginia Coach Terry Holland said. "Tonight we were able to do that. All our kids played exceptionally well. It would be hard to single out any heroes."

Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Cremins said his Yellow Jackets showed their inexperience against Virginia.

"That wasn't my team out there," Cremins said. "Virginia really wanted it and that made the difference."

Bear Grass Downs Belhaven, 63-60

BELHAVEN — Bear Grass High School took the lead in the first period and held off Belhaven the rest of the way to gain a 63-60 Tobacco Belt Conference basketball victory last night.

The Belhaven girls, leading the league, had a struggle in getting past the Lady Bears, 61-57. The Bears shot out into an 18-12 lead in the first period of the boys' game, and it gave Bear Grass the margin it needed. Belhaven came back, 14-11, in the second frame, cutting the lead to 29-26 at the half.

The rest of the game, the two teams matched points. Each scored 14 in the third period and both dumped in 20 in the fourth.

Lawrence Watson led Bear Grass with 16 points while James Williams had 14, Terry Brown had 12 and Timmy Williams had 11. Eric Davis led Belhaven at 20 and Michael Reddick had 10.

The win leaves the Bears at 7-6 in the conference, 7-10 overall. Belhaven falls to 4-10, 4-13.

Belhaven's girls eased out into a 20-12 lead over the Lady Bears in the first period of their game. Both teams scored nine in the second frame to leave Belhaven up, 29-21 at the half.

Belhaven tacked two more points to its margin in the third period and led 47-37 going into the final frame. In that, however, the Lady Bears rallied, 20-14, and nearly pulled it out.

Feleisa Peele led Belhaven with 14 points while Tellie Cotton had 13 and Morticia Butcher and Dephne Leathers each had 13. The Bears were led by Amy Lilly with 23 and Mary Rodgers and Sharon Land each had 11.

The Lady Bears are now 4-9 in the league and 8-10 overall. Belhaven is 13-1, 15-2.

Bear Grass plays host to Chocowinity on Friday.

JV Game: Belhaven 70, Bear Grass 50.

S. Korean Students Restless

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
Associated Press Writer

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The universities and colleges are closed for winter vacation until March but South Korean authorities are alarmed at the prospect of student disorders when classes resume and the weather warms.

Spring traditionally is a time of student activism when fair, warming weather lends itself to gatherings on campuses. This year, however, actions on the part of government and school authorities and responses from students have focused early attention on the student-state situation.

Students have played protest roles against various types of authority throughout Korea's long history.

In South Korea, they were in the forefront of activity that brought the downfall of the late President Syngman Rhee in 1960. They sought to continue their activist performance under the government of President Park Chung-hee, a former general, but firm measures kept them largely in check.

After Park was assassinated in October, 1979, students again were in the front ranks of those taking to the streets in widespread demonstrations that were ended with a harsh military crackdown in May, 1980.

Since then, under the government of President Chun Doo-hwan, another former general, student dissidents have staged sporadic rallies and demonstrations, denouncing the government. These outbursts were largely kept under control by police units on and near campuses across the country.

Hundreds of students were arrested under laws barring rallies or demonstrations without official authorization and many were expelled from their schools.

Then last Dec. 21, Education Minister Kwon E-hyock announced that the government would allow the 1,363 students expelled since 1980 to return to their schools, beginning with the term that opens in March.

Some student activists, however, voiced objections to the procedures that would put those expelled back in classes.

At the prestigious Seoul National University a meeting of ousted students was held Jan. 14 and some reports said their leaders protested the right of the school to screen them on a case-by-case basis for readmittance.

Other reports said more than 380 expelled students from nine universities in Seoul and six in the provinces had organized groups to deal with issues relating to their return to school. They were said to have prepared leaflets and pamphlets calling for campus democratization and demanding that school authorities meet with them on the question of the return of the expelled.

Student protests of recent years generally have centered on what leaders call a restoration of democracy in South Korea, along with more specific demands such as free labor movements, a free press, and better conditions for the poorer people.

There occasionally have been incidents with anti-American overtones, but these have not played a dominant part. The United States and South Korea are staunch allies, and there now are about 40,000 American military personnel in this country as part of the defense against communist North Korea.

The reaction of some student dissidents to the government plan for reinstatement has brought meetings and conferences of authorities.

On Jan. 26, the president of Seoul National University, Lee Hyun-jae, called in South Korean news reporters to tell them that reinstatement of students will depend on their desire to devote themselves to educational pursuits.

Readmission, he said, will be granted according to the students' "preparedness and willingness to dedicate themselves to study."

The university president also was quoted as having said the initial response from expelled students "shocked me, and I would like to strongly urge them to re-examine themselves."

In response to a question about the chance of campus turmoil this spring, Lee was quoted as saying, "I do not think so, but I am greatly concerned about such a possibility."

Some government authorities earlier sought to depict the government action in permitting the return of ousted students as a magnanimous gesture that would serve to leave control and discipline on campuses to school authorities and help quiet unrest.

Struggled 15 Years To Teach

By MARCIA DUNN
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Her students know her simply as "teacher," the one who is teaching them English in a country which prides itself for giving individuals the freedom to achieve what you can.

But the fact that the foreign-born adults can't remember — let alone pronounce — her name doesn't bother Ceinwen King-Smith, a blind woman who fought 15 years for the right to teach in the Pittsburgh city schools.

"I'm very, very, very happy to be here. They (the students) respect me so much, so it's very easy for me to put everything into this job," Mrs. King-Smith said recently after a long day of classes at the Connelley Skill Learning Center.

"I'm teaching, which has been my main goal for a long time. Not only am I teaching, I am teaching people who are receptive enough to learn from me," she said, smiling.

Mrs. King-Smith, 38, who has been blind since birth, applied to teach in the Pittsburgh City Schools in 1968. She was a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Stanford University and held a master's degree in education from Harvard University. But she failed to earn a spot on the school board's eligibility list for hiring.

After filing a lawsuit against the school district and bidding her time as an instructor at private schools, she finally won a job teaching junior high math in 1980.

But then she received an unsatisfactory rating as a teacher — after students threw gum at her, pulled her hair, untied her shoes and stole money from her purse.

She was transferred to another junior high school, but was suspended in April 1981 because of another unsatisfactory rating. Three months later, she was among 138 teachers laid off.

In a second lawsuit, she contended that her civil rights had been violated and that school officials hadn't backed her in discipline matters. She also claimed that any teacher — sighted or blind — needed aides or other methods for dealing with misbehaving students.

She dropped the lawsuit when she was offered a job at Connelley teaching English to foreign-speaking adults. She's been conducting one of the school's four such classes since January 1983.

"I had thought that I might not like this job so much, but at least I could deal with it," she said recently. "I discovered after about that second day that I was here that I loved working with the students, and it's every bit as rewarding as teaching math or anything else I've taught."

School officials and the American Foundation for the Blind say they're pleased, too.

"She's always had the potential for being a fine teacher. All she needed was a fighting chance," said vice principal Bill Jackson.

"There's been a great move against discrimination of blind teachers in the past 10 years," said the foundation's Dr. Susan Spungin, who estimates there are about 350 blind public school teachers in the country.

From 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each weekday, Mrs. King-Smith uses small magnetic boards and colorful plastic letters in lieu of blackboards to spell out English words to her 27 students, most of them in their 20s and 30s from Laos, Vietnam and China.

She speaks slowly and loudly in a perfectly pitched soprano voice, clearly enunciating each word again and again.

Only a Braille typewriter, stapler and pencil sharpener rest on her desk. At the front of the room, a bookcase holds thick black binders — the Braille version of her students' texts. Her red and white cane dangles from a coat rack.

She occasionally hushes some talkative adults at the back of the room or chastises someone for looking at magazines during class — she knows instantly, by sound, when someone rustles through the National Geographic's stacked in a bookcase. Otherwise, she has no discipline problems.

"I don't have to motivate the students," she explains. "That's one thing I had to do when I was trying to teach math."

Mrs. King-Smith, who fluently speaks English, Russian and Polish and converses in five other languages, spends about $30 each week to employ people to grade her students' papers. She has no aide.

"I would not expect the school to pay for my grading. That's something that I have to have because I can't see," she said.

Mrs. King-Smith says she never wanted money or notoriety. She simply wanted to do what she's wanted to do since childhood.

"I'm not doing anything to prove anything to anyone. I don't need to prove to anybody that I can teach. I know I can teach," she said.

Despite constant attention from the media, Mrs. King-Smith said her family has remained unaffected. She has two children, 14-year-old Heather and 13-year-old Martin.

Her only wish is that her struggle helps someone else.

How Tar Heels Voted In The House, Senate

WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Jan. 26 through Feb. 1.

HOUSE
VOTING — By a vote of 236 for and 155 against, the House tabled (killed) a resolution calling on the Rules Committee to investigate absentee voting in House committees.

Most panels have rules under which absent members can have colleagues cast their votes "by proxy" on pending legislation. Critics say this encourages absenteeism, caused uninformed voting and enables members to escape accountability for their acts.

There was no debate before this vote. Later, Rep. Hal Daub, R-Neb., said proxy voting should be banned because "the vast bulk of the truly significant work" of the House is done in committee.

Members voting yes wanted to block a Rules Committee probe of absentee voting in House committees.

North Carolina House members voting yes: Walter B. Jones, D-1, Tim Valentine, D-2, Charles Whitley, D-3, Stephen Neal, D-5, Charles Britt, D-6, W.G. Hefner, D-8, James Clarke, D-11.

Those voting no: James Martin, R-9, James Broyhill, R-10.

Not voting: Ike Andrews, D-4, Charles Rose, D-7.

LINE ITEM VETO — The House rejected, 144 for and 248 against, an amendment giving the president authority to veto specific outlays in a library-aid bill (HR 2878). Later passed and sent to the Senate, the bill authorizes $250 million over five years in library construction and development grants.

President Reagan has called for a "line-item veto" constitutional amendment allowing presidents to kill outlays for a particular program that Congress has funded. This would bolster a president's authority to veto entire appropriations bills.

Fiscal conservatives said the library amendment was the first of several attempts they will make this year to give President Reagan the new veto authority on a bill-by-bill basis.

Supporters called this vote a test of whether members are serious about budget-cutting. Foes said amendments such as this should undergo hearings before reaching the floor.

Members voting yes wanted President Reagan to be able to veto any part of the library aid bill.

Those North Carolina House members voting yes: James Martin, Broyhill.

Voting no: Valentine, Whitley, Neal, Britt, Rose, Hefner, Clarke.

Not voting: Walter Jones, Ike Andrews.

ORGANIC FARMING — By a vote of 206 for and 184 against, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill (HR 2714) that advocates "organic farming" to reduce American agriculture's dependence on chemicals and its high rate of energy consumption.

The measure would spend $10.5 million over five years to step up Department of Agriculture research, including demonstration projects to be carried out on a cross-section of U.S. farms.

In part, organic farming minimizes the use of synthetic fertilizers and pesticides, stresses conservation and recommends against the use of chemical additives to fatten animals for slaughter. Foes such as the American Farm Bureau and livestock organizations say it would cripple productivity by returning farm technology to where it was before the Industrial Revolution.

Supporter Kika de la Garza, D-Tex., said organic farming "can be the salvation of American and world agriculture in the years to come."

Opponent Thomas Bliley, R-Va., said "a new study of this most ancient of farming methods can do little but waste the tax-payers' money."

Members voting yes wanted more federal research into organic farming.

North Carolina House members voting yes: Walter Jones, Neal, Clarke.

Those voting no: Whitley, Britt, Hefner, James Martin, Broyhill.

Not voting: Valentine, Ike Andrews, Rose.

SENATE CELEBRATION — By a vote of 67

Eye Israel Free Trade Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is hopeful it can reach a free-trade agreement with Israel in about half a year, U.S. Trade Representative William Brock says.

Brock appeared before the Senate Finance Committee to inform Congress of the progress of the talks, which started last month.

He argued the trade pact is needed because U.S. products are facing a growing disadvantage in Israel because of competition from goods produced in the Common Market, which has negotiated a free-trade pact with Israel.

Total U.S. imports from Israel in 1982 amounted to $1.2 billion, excluding military trade, while total U.S. exports to Israel amounted to $1.5 billion, Brock said.

Poor Reversing The Long Trend

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world's poor nations are reversing a long trend and paying back more money to wealthy lenders, including the United States, than they are receiving in loans.

The World Bank says that the latest tabulation shows that all poor countries, which comprise most of its 146 members, paid $11 billion more in repayments and interest in 1983 than they received.

In 1982, the flow went the other way. The poor countries received $6.6 billion in new loans beyond what they repaid. In 1978, that figure was $32.8 billion.

for and 23 against, the senate passed a bill creating a commission to plan a national celebration of the 500th anniversary of the year in which Christopher Columbus is said to have discovered North America.

The bill (S 500), which was sent to conference with the House, authorizes $2 million over nine years for the commission.

Supporter Charles Mathias, R-Md., said, "It is not too soon to begin to plan for ... such an unprecedented event, the 500th birthday of the New World."

Opponent James Exon, D-Neb., called the $2 million pricetag too high.

Senators voting yes favored establishing the commission at a cost of $2 million.

North Carolina senators John East, R, and Jesse Helms, R, voted no.

MEMORIALIZED — The late Lillian Moller Gilbreth, known internationally as an industrial engineer, and whose family was the subject of the book "Cheaper by the Dozen", written by two of her 12 children, will be memorialized on a 40-cent postage stamp. U.S. Postal Service officials said Sunday. (AP Laserphoto)

'A Good Sport' Offers Two-Hour Diversion

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "A Good Sport" tonight on CBS is romantic comedy in the traditional mode, with Ralph Waite as a crusty, cigar-chomping sports columnist who falls in love with an elegant fashion editor played by Lee Remick.

They meet in a four-star restaurant for lunch with "Zack the Sack," a professional football player who's designed a line of leisure wear. A drunken lout knocks Zack on the head with a beer bottle, and Tommy O'Bannon, the sports writer, pops the guy in the kisser.

The fashion editor, Michelle Tenney, is not particularly surprised by the disagreeable turn of events.

"Well," she says sarcastically, "at least this gives you another 'sporting event' to write about."

"What would you do," Tommy growls back, "if a mean drunk came after you with a beer bottle? Criticize his color coordination?"

Waite, a regular in "The Waltons" and, more recently, "The Mississippi," is delightfully credible as the ruffled O'Bannon, though the portrayal at times waxes stereotypical — more caricature than character. Miss Remick's Michelle is just classy enough to make Tommy appear coarse in almost any circumstance. The contrast is beautiful.

"Darling," purrs Michelle's photographer, Clifford (Antonio Fargas), "where did you get this divine, shaggy man?"

For whatever reason, the two unlikely companions are drawn to one another, though Michelle (two failed marriages, two "serious, meaningful relationships") is less inclined than Tommy ("14 months single," "a whole bunch of meaningless relationships") toward permanence.

Indeed, she's dead against it. "No romance, no courting, no games," she declares.

"You don't go out with guys?" Tommy inquires, characteristically.

With Tommy in pursuit, Michelle's attitude begins to change ... and so is Michelle's ban on mixing friendship and sex. This causes Tommy to leave New York for some commiserating with the horses at a racetrack, supposedly Saratoga.

"That's a good life," he says of one horse on his way to a stud farm. "All the oats you can eat, 40-50 ladies a year, and not one of them wants to be just a friend."

But, gradually, the relationship takes on the look of love ("going soft in the head," in Tommy's words). Michelle talks sports with Tommy's newspaper cronies, Abe and Carl (Sam Gray, Richard Hamilton), and he sits down for lunch with her high-fashion friends.

"I thought you said he was gruff and surly," Michelle's daughter, Suzanne (Tracy Pollan), says when Tommy arrives for the luncheon, with flowers for her and a bottle of wine for her mother. "He keeps surprising me," Michelle says.

Michelle decides to end her long-distance affair with an older guy from Chicago, but that seems a bit premature when she catches Tommy in his drawers and Sherri (Janie Sell) in the bedroom.

Tommy's response is not particularly original (except, perhaps, for him) and the happy ending is predictable. But no matter; there's enough humor, enough tenderness and enough of the Spencer Tracy-Katharine Hepburn magic in "A Good Sport" to recommend the two-hour diversion.

Private Concert By Dolly Parton

HOUSTON (AP) — A terminally ill 11-year-old girl who is blind and unable to speak is getting a dream come true — flying to Hollywood to meet her country-western favorite, Dolly Parton, and get a private concert.

Vickie Perales of Houston was going to Hollywood with her parents and brother today to visit with the entertainer at the Metro Goldwyn Mayer Studios in a trip arranged by A Child's Wish Come True, a nationwide organization that helps grant the wishes of terminally ill children.

While Vickie can't see or speak, she listens to Miss Parton's albums. The youngster suffers from calcification of the brain stem and is confined to a wheelchair. Two years ago doctors told her parents she had only four weeks to live.

Showing Slave Rebellion Film

WILMINGTON — At 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Dr. Robert Toplin will show the PBS film, "Denmark Vessey's Slave Rebellion," at the New Hanover County Museum of the Lower Cape Fear, 814 Market St., Wilmington.

Dr. Toplin researched and wrote the script for the film which depicts the thwarted slave uprising in Charleston, S.C., in 1822. The film includes Burgaw-born playwright and Broadway actor Samm-Art Williams among others in the cast.

This program is one in a series of four programs being presented at the museum in connection with February as Black History Month.

Grumman Flexibles Scrapped

By MARGARET GORDY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Transit Authority, scrapping all 851 of its Grumman Flexible buses, was madly shuffling other buses today in an attempt to ease the strain on peak-hour riders.

The decision to retire the defect-plagued buses at the end of Tuesday night runs was announced at a news conference earlier in the evening by TA President David Gunn.

He predicted service would be badly disrupted and in some cases non-existent on nearly 50 bus routes in all five boroughs beginning this morning, with the disruptions possibly lasting for months.

Gunn said that in addition to borrowing General Motors buses from other routes, the TA could draw on an inactive reserve fleet of 274 vehicles.

But he said it was not clear how many of the reserve buses could be pressed into service today.

Gunn said a big factor in his decision to take the buses off the streets was an incident Friday when a bus caught fire after discharging its passengers because of mechanical problems.

Referring to another problem, a defect in the steering columns of many Flexibles, Gunn asked: "What happens if you have that bus moving at a high speed and you suffer a complete loss of steering?"

Mayor Edward Koch, who arranged for the Flexibles to be stored in an army depot in Brooklyn, said, "We hope we will be able to recover the dollars whether it is by way of repair or by way of buying new buses with Grumman paying the freight."

Sandy Jones, vice president of public affairs for Grumman, which sold its Flexible bus division to General Automotive Corp. last summer, said the company wrote to Gunn and Metropolitan Transportation Authority Chairman Robert Kiley last week "asking for maintenance and repair histories of these buses and sample parts for analyses."

"We assured them that we would accept our responsibilities on the warranty," he added.

Jones said that based on preliminary information Grumman has from other cities, the problems the TA has experienced with the buses "seem to be directly related to the potholes in New York City streets and the operating conditions for buses here."

Protects Rowdies

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Cay Millard, who has managed taverns for 33 years, says he knows how to handle unruly patrons. But bouncing the city government out of her business is another matter.

Ms. Millard, 56, has hired a lawyer to fight a ruling by Assistant City Attorney Larry O'Brien that repeat troublemakers cannot be thrown out of bars for more than 36 hours at a time.

To do so, O'Brien ruled, is an act of discrimination that violates a person's civil rights and could land the tavern owner in court.

O'Brien's interpretation of local discrimination ordinances says bar owners cannot ban unruly patrons indefinitely because their business is one of "implied invitation" to the public and they are licensed by the city.

"I feel so helpless," Ms. Millard said recently. "This is a form of reverse discrimination. I'm held legally accountable for what goes on in my bars, with the danger of insurance rates going up if something major does happen, but the troublemakers are allowed to stay."

"I'm not a discriminatory person, I just feel the city is overlooking safety too much in favor of guarding against discrimination."

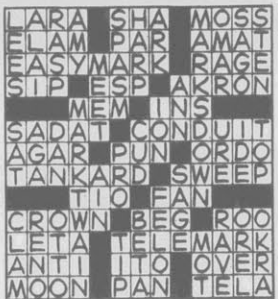

Ms. Millard said she has had numerous encounters with troublesome pimps, prostitutes and alcoholics at her two downtown bars, Millard's Bar and the Comic Strip Lounge, but cannot get police to remove them.

In one instance, a police

CRYPTOQUIP 2-8

DYJDPGWJ PURDNARY QC CNEDG MNQLWNF' MNQEH LRF DAHWRPUWJ.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — ROUGH, BUSY LION TAMER IS BY ALL MEANS A CAGEY CHARACTER.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: L equals W.

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, FEB. 9, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until midafternoon, you can make some serious mistake that involves financial or business matters. Make sure you handle things in a most cautious manner.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be careful not to take on any heavy investments which could cripple you financially very quickly. Socialize tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are anxious to go after your personal wishes, but don't use force and make others turn against you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be tactful with your friends since they are apt to be under some tension or other and quick to retaliate.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You may find it difficult to get backing for practical affairs during day hours, but the evening is fine for such.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Be protective of your good name during the daytime, but tonight you can have recreational fun. Use care at work.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You want to get into new interests, but it is important you handle regular routines during the day. Safeguard your money.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make sure you go over some account well and be sure you have not made a mistake. Devote yourself to loved one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A partner could be fixed in ideas and give you a rough time if you don't compromise. Reach a happy agreement.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You may have difficulty on the job today, but use self-control and you win out. Rest up and be happy at home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't spend too much money for pleasure during the day. Await the evening to seek out inexpensive pleasure.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) There could be trouble at home if a close tie is under some bad outside influence, so be tactful with this person.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A letter or telephone call could cause problems, but handle them quickly and rise above depressed feelings.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she may have to contend with poor environment and other limitations, but with determination, can rise above them. Spiritual training is important. Teach how to work, even to acquire a good education and avoid bad influences.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

officer at the scene refused to remove a woman who said "she knew her legal rights and that since it had been more than 24 hours since she was last kicked out for cause, she could not be ejected," Ms. Millard wrote in a letter to O'Brien.

Ms. Millard's attorney, Jeff Scott Olson, said that bar owners frequently do not ask people to leave because they want to make money.

Olson said the letter to O'Brien doesn't constitute formal legal action at this time, but only an attempt to persuade the city attorney's office to change its interpretation of the law.

Artificial Heart Colors Transplant Future

By PAUL RAEBURN
AP Science Writer

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — In a 1971 cover story, Life magazine predicted that heart transplants would soon be abandoned, ending what the magazine called "an era of medical failure."

Dr. Stuart Jamieson, head of the heart transplant program at Stanford University, today takes a certain pleasure in recalling what happened the following year: "It wasn't heart transplants that came to an end," he said. "It was Life magazine." Life halted monthly publication for six years.

Life was not alone in contending that heart transplants were better at capturing headlines than saving lives. But heart transplants have become much safer. And a competitor has arrived — the artificial heart.

The question now is whether transplants of human hearts will eliminate the need for the artificial heart. Conceivably, the artificial heart — a technological marvel — could become a solution in search of a problem.

Recently, the artificial heart's inventor and some of the world's leading heart-transplant surgeons met at St. Joseph's Hospital in Tampa, Fla., where they discussed that possibility.

Dr. Bruce Reitz, who performed the first successful heart-lung transplant at Stanford University three years ago, said he was not a strong believer in the artificial heart.

"The artificial heart is so primitive now, I think before it's safe and reliable we may have conquered the immunological problems with xenography (organ transplant) and may even be using animal hearts," said Reitz, now chief of cardiac surgery at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

The notion of using animal hearts in humans has been considered for some time, and was even attempted by Dr. Christiaan Barnard of South Africa, who in 1967 performed the world's first heart transplant.

In 1977, Barnard kept a patient alive briefly with the heart of a baboon. The baboon heart was, however, too small to keep a human alive, and the patient died within hours.

Barnard later tried a chimpanzee heart. But because the number of chimpanzees available for medical research is small, chimpanzee hearts would probably never become a practical substitute for human hearts, Reitz said.

Pig hearts, on the other hand, are widely available and appear to be well suited for use in humans, he said.

Dr. Richard Lower, a cardiac surgeon who with Stanford's Dr. Norman Shumway perfected certain heart-transplant surgical techniques and developed a method of preserving donor hearts, is also skeptical about the artificial heart.

He believes the device should be used only as a temporary measure, allowing doctors time to find a perfect donor heart.

"I think they should have done that to Barney Clark," said Lower, chief of heart and chest surgery at the Medical College of Virginia. The artificial heart "could function like dialysis does for the renal (kidney) transplant patient," Lower said. Dialysis is a mechanical filtering and purification of the blood of a patient whose own kidneys are too diseased to do that job themselves.

Robert Jarvik, the principal inventor of the artificial heart, is himself cautious about its use and believes that transplants are generally a better alternative.

"It's very clear that any patient who has the opportunity to have a transplant should have a transplant," Jarvik said. Use of the artificial heart as a "bridge" until a patient can receive a transplant "makes sense," he said.

According to Reitz, the circumstances requiring use of the artificial heart as a bridge would be rare. If it were to be used at all, he would limit it to older patients, he said.

Jarvik agreed that older patients were the best candidates for the artificial heart because doctors have less experience with artificial hearts and don't know for certain how long the hearts will last.

"I would also expect ultimately that donor hearts would be saved for the youngest patients," he said, "and use the artificial heart for the older patients."

The costs of both transplants and the artificial heart are very high.

A heart transplant costs roughly $50,000 in the first year, said Reitz. One anti-rejection drug, cyclosporine, costs $5,000 a year, Reitz said.

William DeVries, Jarvik's surgeon collaborator, has estimated that the artificial heart and its associated equipment alone will cost $20,000. That is a difficult figure to predict, however, because the cost of the heart will depend in part on how many artificial hearts are produced.

The current version of the artificial heart, the Javik-7 heart implanted in Barney Clark in 1982 and the first intended to be a permanent replacement, is an outgrowth of experiments begun in 1957.

Jarvik, with support from private investors, has reduced the size of the drive system that powers the heart from the 4-foot-high console used by Barney Clark to a machine the size of a handbag.

An electrical heart Jarvik is testing in animals would be self-contained except for a battery pack to be worn around the waist.

Heart transplantation has a longer history. According to Dr. Dennis Pupello, director of cardiovascular surgery at St. Joseph's, Chinese medical literature records that a doctor named Bian Que performed two human heart transplants in 500 B.C.

Transplant research on animals was begun in the early 1900s. As of 1981, more than 600 humans had been given transplants. Five hundred are alive, Pupello said. One Frenchman, 14 years after the transplant, has outlived his surgeon.

"I really think now in 1984 we've reached the point where cardiac transplantation has achieved a new respectability," said Jamieson.

Transplants still, however, pose considerable problems.

Donor hearts are extremely difficult to come by and difficult to handle once they are obtained. They can be preserved only 4 to 5 hours outside the body and so must often be retrieved by expensive chartered jets.

The drugs used to prevent rejection are imprecise. It is difficult to determine the best dosage in a given patient, and the drugs have numerous harmful side effects, said Lower.

Cyclosporine, the newest of the drugs, is toxic to the kidneys, can cause hypertension and is believed by some to cause a mild form of cancer.

Barnard, drawing on his unique perspective, nevertheless told the Tampa conference that the situation had improved considerably since he performed his first transplant. He cited more careful selection of patients and better drugs and surgical techniques.

"The goal of medicine is not to prolong life but to improve the quality of life," he said. "And there's no doubt in my mind that cardiac transplantation has certainly improved the quality of life of many patients."

ECU Fall Semester Honor Students Named

ECU News Bureau
Students earning academic honors at East Carolina University during the fall semester represent 89 of the state's 100 counties, 24 states and the District of Columbia and 17 foreign countries.

A total of 2,673 ECU students earned places on the university's official honors lists for the semester, compared to 2,901 for the spring semester last year.

Most elite of the honors is all A's. Those making the dean's list have earned a B plus average with no grade below a C. The honor roll includes students with a B average and no grade below a C.

Local and foreign names, hometowns and appropriate lists of students follow:

Carolina's most gigantic display of exotic fresh produce

- taste exotic Kiwi fruit
- tropical recipes from the islands
- taste fresh fruits that were growing yesterday
- you can't beat the luscious flavor of fresh fruit

Overton's goes to the ends of the earth to please anything to please its customers. We've flown in far away as Central and South America, Australia, by refrigerated carrier from California, Mexico. "We've got the freshest and the best—reasonable and excitement at Overton's. Bring the whole family."

Let Overton's put a little spice in your life. One of Carolina's largest selections of Mexican Hot Peppers such as: Anaheim, Carribe, Jalapeno, Green Hot Peppers, Red Peppers and assorted Hot Peppers.

JET FRESH PAPAAYA LARGE SIZE 89¢ each Bitter Melon (FOO GWA, BALSAM APPLE) Prized by oriental cooks. Slightly bitter flavor lends a refreshing accent. Favorites are soups, stuffed bitter melon and combined with beef and other meats in stir-fry dishes. TO PREPARE: Cut in half. Scrape out seeds and discard. Wash and cut into desired size pieces. Quickly plunge into boiling water for 1 minute. Remove and add to soup, stir-fry or other recipes. © 1979 SYBIL HENDERSON	GRANNY SMITH APPLES Fresh from S. Africa 69¢ lb. Ginger Root A very versatile seasoning. Used in most Oriental dishes but equally good with meats, fish, vegetables and fruity desserts. Used grated, minced, sliced, according to recipe. NOT NECESSARY TO PEEL. STORAGE: For short periods, store in a cool, dry place, do not refrigerate. For longer periods, put in jar, cover with sherry wine and refrigerate. If Ginger Root sprouts, just grate the sprouts along with the root. © 1979 SYBIL HENDERSON	FAMOUS DOLE Fresh Pineapple JUMBO "8" SIZE 99¢ each Won Ton Wrappers Fried Won Ton and Won Ton soup are great favorites and quite easy to make. A delicious way to use leftovers with crisp fresh vegetables. Follow package directions for preparation. Use what you need and STORE the remainder tightly wrapped in refrigerator or freezer. Don't let them dry out or they will crack when you fill them. © 1979 SYBIL HENDERSON

Guarding Debtors' Rights

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Almost nine years after the Federal Trade Commission proposed a regulation to prevent unfair credit practices, the agency is putting the final touches on the rule.

The details of the plan are still incomplete; the commissioners sent the latest version proposed rule back to the FTC staff in November for last-minute changes. But preliminary drafts indicate that practices which might be banned include:

—Confessions of judgment. These are clauses in credit contracts under which the consumer waives the right, in advance, to notice of and a chance to be heard in any suit concerning the debt.

—Waivers of statutory property exemptions. Most states have laws allowing debtors to keep certain basic items, even when their property is seized to enforce a monetary judgment against them. In some places, the debtor can waive the right in advance.

—Wage assignments. These allow a creditor to obtain portions of the debtor's wages directly from his or her employer. They are different from garnishments in that the creditor does not have to notify the debtor or get a court judgment before acting.

—Pyramiding of late charges. An accounting method allowing the creditor to collect multiple late charges even when only a single payment was late, was subsequently made up and all other payments are on time.

Consumers who fall behind in their bills already are protected by the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act which limits actions by debt collectors. The law applies only to third-party collectors, however; it does not cover banks, retailers and other companies who are collecting on their own accounts.

The law prohibits debt collectors from contacting anyone but the debtor except to find out where the debtor is or verify his or her location. When the collector calls someone other than the debtor, he or she cannot reveal the consumer's debt. Nor can the collector use a post card to contact the debtor.

The debt collector also is limited in contacting the debtor. The collector cannot call at an inconvenient or unusual time. (That generally means no calls after 9 p.m. or before 8 a.m.) The collector can't call the debtor at his or her place of work if the employer has a rule against such calls or if the debtor tells the collector such calls are inconvenient. If a bill collector learns that the debtor is being represented by a lawyer, the collector must deal with the attorney — not the debtor.

Within five days after contacting the debtor, the collector must send him or her a notice giving the amount of the debt and the name of the creditor. The notice must include a statement explaining that the debt will be assumed to be valid unless it is disputed within 30 days and that, if there is a dispute, the collector will verify that the debt is valid and send a copy of the verification to the consumer.

The law prohibits collectors from using abusive or harassing tactics. Among the banned practices:

- Use or threat of violence to the debtor, his or her reputation and his or her personal property.
- Use of obscene language.
- Publicizing the debt.
- Anonymous phone calls.
- False representations about the status of the debt or consequences of non-payment.
- Collection of a fee not authorized by law or by the terms of the debt agreement.
- Failure to adequately disclose the reason for contacting the consumer.
- Charging collect telephone calls or telegrams to the debtor.

A collector who violates the law may be sued by a debtor for actual damages, plus additional damages up to $1,000, and may be held liable for court costs and reasonable attorney's fees.

Would Bar Some From Nuke Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressional Office of Technology Assessment says the federal government should consider barring some utilities from the nuclear business in order to guarantee that "only qualified companies would have responsibility."

The office's report also said atomic power is unlikely to expand beyond the 80 plants now in operation and some 40 others under construction without significant changes in management, technology and public acceptance.

The congressional agency said a certification process "could force weaker utilities to improve their nuclear management capabilities, obtain independent and external expertise or refrain from entering the nuclear power business."

'Trailer' Home Has Changed

By ROGER GILLOTT
Associated Press Writer
POMONA, Calif. (AP) — Mention manufactured housing, and a lot of people have visions of the nondescript "pre-fab" buildings and flimsy trailers of the 1960s.

That image nags at the manufactured-housing industry, which accounted for one-third of all new housing built last year and nearly one-tenth of the nation's entire housing stock.

In recent years, builders have been working hard to overcome those long-held biases against factory-built housing by turning out sturdier, better looking products.

And one of the industry's leaders, Los Angeles-based Kaufman and Broad Inc., is in the midst of erecting the nation's first manufactured-home community — a walled, master-planned neighborhood with the modest single-story homes separated by small, neatly trimmed lawns along gently curving streets.

"So they're made in a factory. My coat is, too. But I don't worry about that as long as it fits," said Ellis Biderson, national sales manager for Kaufman and Broad.

"These aren't like the old mobile homes where you lean on a wall and it leans with you, or you jump on the floor and everything bounces," Biderson said as he walked through finished models and other homes still sitting on trailers, waiting to be set on their foundations. "These are built just like a regular house, except they're built in a factory."

Unlike the metal trailer "condominiums" of earlier days, these homes have wood siding outside and concrete tile roofs.

About 180 of what will eventually be 300 houses have been built since June. About 100 are already sold — more than the company had expected so early in the project on the outskirts of Pomona, about 30 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Buyers, all of them first-time homeowners, are enthusiastic.

"I'm delighted," said Imogene Ford, a retired assistant vice president of Wells Fargo Bank who had spent her life as an apartment dweller. "I don't draw any distinction between these homes and traditional homes."

Much of one side of each house is made up of windows and sliding glass doors that open onto a narrow enclosed yard. Landscaping — whether with hot tub, barbecue pit, plants or just a plain lawn — is left up to the buyer.

Mrs. Ford, who bought a two-bedroom home for herself and her Chihuahua, has grand plans for a garden of lattice screens, bougainvillea vines, trees and ferns.

Her next-door neighbor, Ramona Street, lives in a three-bedroom model with her husband and 1½-year-old son. They plan a simpler brick patio with a large grass area for their son's swing set.

"I love my windows," Ms. Street said.

Biderson freely admits that by using glass and mirrors, the company is selling "the psychological feeling of space.... That's something you can do in the Sun Belt, but you couldn't in Montana."

Each 950-square-foot house sits on a lot of about 2,500 square feet — half the size of a standard lot.

Once a home arrives at the site, Biderson said, "it takes about 30 minutes" to bolt it to its concrete-wall foundation. Another two days are needed to build the facade and garage, which is done at the site.

Prices have been a major attraction.

Homes in the Pomona development cost from $65,900 to $71,900. Statewide, the median home price is $109,000, according to the California Association of Realtors.

Industry officials contend that the savings will make manufactured housing the standard for the next generation of first-time buyers.

The Veterans Administration is even considering jumping on the bandwagon, with plans for a manufactured-home community near Riverside, about 55 miles east of Los Angeles. The VA expects its homes will sell for about $70,000.

But factory-built homes needn't be small and inexpensive.

At a recent industry show held at Dodger Stadium, Leveon Homes Inc. of Fountain Valley showed a two-story, four-bedroom Victorian-style house with a cupola and attached two-car garage. Cost: $89,850 plus $20,000 for delivery and set-up. That doesn't include the cost of the land, which could vary.

The industry in its infancy had problems with quality, and it wasn't until 1974 that national legislation was passed establishing uniform building codes.

The lexicon of the industry is still evolving as builders seek to shake off their old image.

"Pre-fab" and "mobile home" are gone, and even "manufactured housing" may be on its way out.

"The new buzz word," said Jana Greer of Kaufman and Broad, "is site-delivered housing."

Like traditional site-built homes, the new term has a more permanent ring to it.

Military Dogs Are Treasured

By EILEEN ALT POWELL
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Bobbie, Bandit, Baron and Fritz make life a little safer for the U.S. Marines in Beirut.

They are dogs trained by the U.S. Air Force to sniff out bombs and patrol the Marine base at Beirut International Airport. They also work the main gates, sniffing for any explosives that someone might be trying to sneak in. With their Air Force handlers, the dogs also "inspect" incoming mail and check cargo at the port.

The dogs and their handlers also spend time at the U.S. Embassy in west Beirut and, from time to time, go on special assignments such as the "V.I.P. sweep" of the American University of Beirut campus before the Jan. 25 memorial service for its slain president.

"Our duty is to augment the security for American personnel here," said Staff Sgt. Wesley Ross, 25, of Los Angeles, who directs the four-team crew. "All our dogs are patrol dogs — and explosives dogs."

Ross added in an interview that the dogs and their handlers haven't turned up any explosives on people or in civilian vehicles that have come to the Marine base gates.

"But the dogs have detected smoke canisters or smoke grenades or flare pistols in some of the military vehicles coming through," he said. Such items are allowed on the base.

The dogs' presence also "is a deterrent" to an attack, Ross said.

The dogs — three German shepherds and a brown Doberman pinscher (Baron) — are housed in a kennel protected with several layers of sandbags.

Baron's handler, Staff Sgt. Michael Blackshear, 27, of Savannah, Ga., said, "We always get a second look from people because a Doberman isn't your usual patrol dog."

He added, "We're really like a two-man patrol. He's my backup, and I'm his if he needs my help."

The canines and their Air Force handlers were trained at the U.S. Defense Department dog center at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas.

The teams of man and dog graduate from patrol work to either narcotics or explosives school, where special training exercises help fine-tune the dogs' sense of smell.

Sgt. Joseph Pfothenauer, 25, of Country Club Hills, Ill., said that when his dog, Bobbie, is "working an odor" she will follow it to the point where it is strongest, then sit and wait for his appraisal. If Pfothenauer believes they've found a bomb or other explosive device, he will call for a Marine explosives expert to detonate or disarm it.

The bomb-sniffing dogs were brought here shortly after the Oct. 23 truck-bomb attack that killed 241 American servicemen at the Marine base. They are part of a wider program of Marine security that has the Americans reinforcing bunker positions, building massive concrete barriers around the base and setting up internal barricades.

Security also has been stepped up around the temporary offices the U.S. Embassy has been using on Beirut's seafont since the April bombing of the embassy building.

During one patrol there, one of the dog handlers, Staff Sgt. Robert Hohl, 25, of Chaffee, N.Y., ran into trouble.

Hohl said he was walking with Airman 1st Class Michael Wilcox, 21, of Rice Lake, Wis., and Wilcox's German shepherd, Bandit, when "someone started shooting at us from across the street. We fired back to cover ourselves, then ducked behind some cars." Hohl was hit in the arm by a ricocheting bullet and spent a week recovering aboard a U.S. ship offshore.

"I think we became a target because of the dog," Hohl said. But he added that he "was committed to this work because we really think it is deterring attacks like they've had before."

Ross said his men have tried to be sensitive about "the parent widespread fear of dogs" among the local population.

"We try to keep a short leash on our dogs, maintaining close control," Ross added. "And if an individual gets too close, we warn them to get back. The dogs will attack if threatened."

The Marines, in general, say they welcome the canine security. But one Marine guard at the gate, who asked that his name not be used, said of the dogs, "I don't want to sound ungrateful, but they don't carry M-16s (rifles), and that's what counts around here."
