U. S. Civilians In Beirut Departing

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — U.S. military helicopters flew civilians from Beirut to warships off the coast today, and Moslem militiamen skirmished with Lebanese army soldiers across the "green line" dividing east and west Beirut.

But except for scattered shooting, Beirut was relatively quiet after a week of heavy fighting that saw Moslem militias take over west Beirut and defeat the Lebanese army. And on Wednesday, shells from the huge guns of the battleship New Jersey thundered over the city as the American ships pounded rebel-held hills beyond the capital.

With the government of President Amin Gemayel weakened by the fighting, efforts were underway to evacuate British civilians and South Korea ordered the immediate evacuation of its embassy.

Syrian-supported opposition leaders consulted in Damascus with Syrian President Hafez Assad as continued to maintain public silence.

The 1,400 U.S. Marines at Beirut airport, buoyed by President Reagan's announcement Tuesday that they will gradually be re-deployed to American ships offshore, remained at their posts.

"We're hanging in here, awaiting orders," said Marine spokesman Maj. Dennis Brooks.

The U.S. Navy sent reconnaissance flights over the capital and neighboring hills at daybreak, apparently to survey damage from Wednesday's shelling — the heaviest American naval bombardment of targets in Lebanon — Beirut radio stations said.

A Pentagon spokesman in Washington said the battleship New Jersey and destroyer Caron hurled more than 550 shells into the mountains on Wednesday. A Marine spokesman in Beirut said at least some of the fire was in support of and at the request of the Lebanese army.

American officials did not comment on the effects of the shelling, but a Lebanese government official said about 30 military positions were hit in the mountains, including a Syrian army headquarters at Hammana, 15 miles east of Beirut. Police said 30 people were killed and 135 wounded in the shelling and the fighting in Beirut and its suburbs.

The 115-man British contingent in the multinational force was transferred Wednesday from its suburban Beirut base to a Royal Navy ship off the coast.

Italy ordered a gradual withdrawal of its 1,400 troops assigned to the multinational force, while the 1,240 French soldiers in Lebanon dug in at their positions and halted patrols of their area. Although order appeared to be returning to west Beirut, four U.S. helicopters were seen soaring off from the barricaded seafront boulevard in front of U.S. and British embassy offices with groups of civilians, including some children.

The number of the evacuees could not be determined, and U.S. Embassy press secretary John Stewart refused to talk to reporters. About 90 American civilians were evacuated to U.S. warships off Beirut during the two previous days and then flown to Cyprus.

Fierce winds and storm-whipped seas hampered plans to evacuate hundreds of British civilians aboard Cypriot ferries.

Plan Merging Two Shelters

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Members of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners and the Greenville City Council gave tentative approval Wednesday night to a plan to merge the city and county animal shelters, and told county and city administrators to work out plans and costs involved in establishing a nature center at the city's River Park North.

Under the animal shelter merger plan, the county would fund construction of a new animal shelter on county property near the solid waste container site near Bells Fork and the city would operate the facility. Operating funds would be allocated by the two governments on a "cost per day per animal" basis, County Manager Reginald Gray reported.

Gray told the two boards that a preliminary design for the shelter includes "a totally enclosed, environmentally controlled facility." He said no estimates of the cost of the shelter have been made.

The new facility, Gray said, would have an attendant on duty to operate the facility and care for the animals and provide "more convenient hours" for the public. Having an attendant, the county manager said, would allow city and county animal control officers to spend more time in the field.

The boards instructed Gray and City Manager Gail Meeks to get cost estimates for construction and operation and reduce the plan to writing for their consideration.

County Board Chairman R.L. Martin said the joint shelter would "solve mutual problems."

In discussing the proposed nature center at River Park North, Mrs. Buck told county board members that the council "is enthusiastic about it," and suggested the nature center is "important to all the students in Pitt County."

The nature center, similar to centers in Charlotte, Greensboro and Durham, would "improve the quality of science education" in area schools, increase the public's awareness of the out-of-doors, and "provide experiential teaching opportunities" that students otherwise would not receive, Dr. Robert C. Wendling, a member of the parks, recreation and conservation faculty at East Carolina University told County Commissioners last month.

Mrs. Meeks told commissioners "the city would like to commit to the buildings" and have the county "help in the cost of other things," such as installing displays, installing a planetarium (which may be donated by ECU), and funding teachers.

Again, the two boards asked Gray and Mrs. Meeks to reduce the proposal to writing for their consideration.

The two governing boards also discussed the use of the 911 emergency phone number in the county.

County officials reported that the fire marshal is now in the process of talking with the various municipalities to determine their interest in a 911 system and obtaining cost estimates for its installation.

Hunt Pledges To Support Farmers

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Pledging to "work my head off" as a U.S. senator in support of policies to benefit North Carolina farmers, Gov. Jim Hunt today said he is "not willing to give up our tobacco program or our family farms without one heck of a fight."

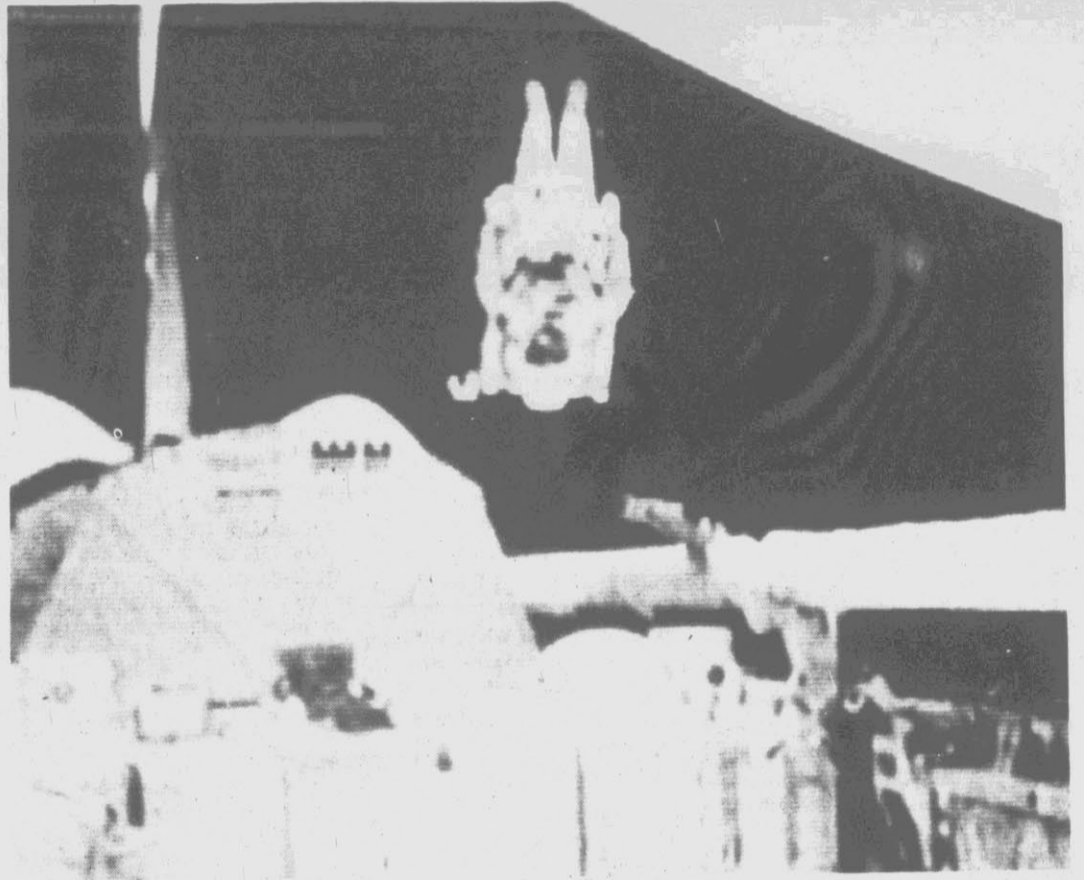

Hunt, speaking to reporters at a Greenville farm equipment dealership, said that if some "key decisions" were made in Washington, "the future of our family farms could be bright again."

The governor, who is seeking the Democratic nomination in his attempt to unseat Republican Sen. Jesse Helms, promised to fight for the tobacco price-support program in Washington. "I believe a lot of farmers in North Carolina are in bad shape today," he said.

Hunt pointed particularly to tobacco growers who he said are being squeezed by several factors including interest rates and export problems.

Hunt said the current plight includes the 11.5 percent cut in tobacco quotas; the responsibility of growers to pay a 7 cents per pound assessment cost to support the tobacco program; the doubled federal tobacco tax that he said is hurting sales and causing plant layoffs in North Carolina and Virginia; the increase in the tobacco stocks of Stabilization, and the dumping of "cheap tobacco" by other countries "on our markets with few restrictions."

"We need to balance the budget," Hunt said. "I will propose soon a plan for reducing the deficit that I think will be fair to the working

FREE FLIGHT IN SPACE — Shuttle crew member Bruce McCandless with earth in the background. (AP is photographed as he flies today upside Laserphoto)

Zero-Gravity Play For Spacewalkers

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Challenger's daredevil spacewalkers, again flying free and turning somersaults in space, abandoned a plan to dock with a slow-spinning box today because of trouble with the shuttle's robot arm. Instead they linked successfully with a stationary metal pin in a test of human ability to capture a disabled satellite.

And the Challenger's commander got some unscheduled practice in rescuing a stranded astronaut when a foot restraint floated out of the shuttle's cargo bay and he steered close enough for one of the spacewalkers to snare it.

"Up, up in the bay," Bruce McCandless exulted as for the second time he strapped on his gas-powered jet-pack, discarded his lifeline and scooted around and above the shuttle cargo bay.

That set the tone for a free-wheeling, wise-cracking excursion. But the two quickly settled down to the business at hand: Testing techniques for grappling, repairing and refueling crippled payloads.

First McCandless, then Robert Stewart, took a whirl on the jet-pack — just as they did Tuesday when they became the first humans to fly un tethered in open space. Unlike Tuesday, when they ventured out 300 feet, they intended to stay close to Challenger today.

McCandless drew a round of applause when he reached over the side of the spaceship and retrieved a foot restraint that accidentally broke loose and began floating away. He was not on his pack, but on his safety line at the time.

"We not only deliver, but we pick up," he quipped.

McCandless had help from commander Vance Brand, who gently pulsed Challenger's small steering rockets to move in close to the restraint. "Just as he would do if he had to rescue a stranded astronaut in a maneuvering unit," mission control said.

The cancellation of the hookup with a large box rotating very slowly on the end of the arm was a disappointment, because it had been a major goal of the space walk. The "wrist" on the 50-foot mechanical arm would not move properly.

But the astronauts substituted the metal pin on a work station box.

"I've completed a hard dock here," McCandless reported as he clamped a tube-like device on his jet-pack onto a docking pin at a work station. He did it several times, and Stewart later did the same without a flaw.

Warrants For 22 On Drug Charges

Warrants charging 22 local area residents with 80 drug law violations have been issued in connection with a joint Greenville police and State Bureau of Investigation undercover drug operation that began a year ago, Chief Ted Holmes said this morning.

Holmes said the arrest of those charged began Wednesday, and said officers are still hunting for a number of persons in connection with the investigation.

Detective Clifton Weatherington, at mid-morning, said seven of the persons charged in connection with the investigation have been arrested. He said two others wanted in connection with the operation are already in jail on other unrelated charges.

An SBI spokesman said arrests resulting from a similar undercover operation in Beaufort County also began Wednesday.

The Beaufort County investigation resulted in 19 people being charged with a total of 82 drug law offences, most of them involving the sale of heroin.

Weatherington identified those arrested in Greenville and the charges against them as: Horace Lee Duffie, charged with possession and sale of heroin and conspiracy to sell heroin; George Clayton Parker, possession and sale of heroin; Jessie Cooper Daniels, possession and sale of heroin (three counts), conspiracy to sell heroin (two counts), and trafficking in heroin (two counts); Jeffery McRay Daniels, possession and sale of heroin (two counts), conspiracy to sell heroin (two counts) and trafficking in heroin (two counts); Robert Pettus, possession and sale of heroin and conspiracy to sell heroin; Inez Brown Bell, possession and sale of heroin, and Jackie Dupree, possession and sale of heroin (four counts) and conspiracy to sell heroin.

Those already in jail, Weatherington said, include Bobby Ray Williams, charged with possession and sale of heroin, and Bobby Joe Dupree, charged with possession and sale of heroin (two counts) and conspiracy to sell heroin.

The value of drugs purchased by undercover officers during the investigation was estimated at $3,000.

People Are Buying $250 Valentines

By JULI CRAGG
ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A St. Louis candy shop has just the thing for this Valentine's day — a $250 box of chocolates.

"People are actually buying them," said Bud Kolbrener, who was 23 when he bought the turn-of-the-century candy firm of Karl Bissinger French Confections a decade ago.

The company was suffering along with other small businesses during the recession of the 1970s. Kolbrener steered it into safer financial waters by placing snob-appeal ads in ritzy publications.

The company's specialties include fresh raspberries hand-dipped in chocolate — shipped overnight and sold only in July — and Valentine's Day jigsaw puzzles of white and dark chocolate.

The company's four-color catalog, sent to about 250,000 regular customers six times a year, touts its 8-pound extravaganza for $250 as the gift sure to impress.

"Be the one everyone mentions for your generosity," says the ad.

Other offerings include chocolate truffles at $40 a pound, a 30-piece set of white chocolate dominoes for $20, and a box of 11 Oreo cookies, each covered in chocolate and topped with a candy heart, for a mere $10.50.

"This is fun," Kolbrener said, "but you should see the beautiful things we come up with for Easter."

Not all the company's products require a bank withdrawal. Molasses lilies are among the most popular items, at 35 cents in the store or $12.75 a dozen by mail order.

The most luxurious delicacies are Langtrys, available only by special order because they keep only 12 hours. The delicacy is a French marshmallow dipped first in fondant and then in chocolate. Company founder Karl Bissinger named the confection for British stage beauty Lily Langtry, who died in 1929 at age 76.

The company name goes back 300 years to Paris, where Kolbrener said the family has died out. Karl Bissinger set up shop in St. Louis in the 1880s and died without heirs in 1946 after selling the firm for $1 to five veteran employees.

Inflation in the 1970s, including a sudden rise in sugar costs, rocked all small candy manufacturers.

The employee-owners sold out to Kolbrener, who was then making hockey puck banks for the National Hockey League.

Kolbrener wooed customers outside St. Louis with magazine ads and a mouth-watering catalog he said has won design awards. He opened two other stores in the area and is debating expansion to other cities.

And he raised the prices. "Either we charge a higher price or we discontinue the product," said Kolbrener. "It's all fresh ingredients. That's one of the reasons we charge more."

He insists on real cream, eggs and butter, and goes on overseas buying trips for ingredients.

Kolbrener expects business to continue improving. While people have become more health conscious, he said, they also have developed a taste for the niceties of life, like fine chocolate.

"Actually chocolate's good for you," he said. "It's very high in minerals and vitamins. Most people don't eat it plain or in good amounts."

"I'm giving you egg whites, nuts and fruits — all the things you're supposed to eat."

Charity Ball Preview Given

The February meeting of the Greenville Service League was highlighted by a preview of the upcoming Charity Ball given by Mrs. Frederic Robbins, overall chairman.

She described decorations that will be used to carry out the theme "Aloha Paradise." According to Mrs. Robbins, the Greenville Country Club will be transformed into a Hawaiian island paradise. Additional workshops were announced for the ball which will be held Feb. 17.

Mrs. Frank Layne, president, called for committee reports. Mrs. Kelly Barnhill, bloodmobile chairman, announced visits at Mendenhall Student Center and Feb. 29 at the Moose Lodge. The Jan. 11 visit at Public Works resulted in 53 units collected with 22 workers volunteering 50½ hours.

Mrs. Horton Rountree answered two calls from the Laughinghouse Fund and received a memorial. Mrs. James H. Hudson, finance chairman, told members that over $80 had been collected for the Laughinghouse Fund from the sale of coathangers this fall.

Ms. Mary Wesley Harvey, placement chairman, announced Friday would be a holiday for hospital workers. Sustaining representative Mrs. Ed Harris reported on their recent luncheon meeting and invited league members to a coffee April 11 to be given by the sustaining group in honor of the new provisional members.

At Wits End

By Erma Bombeck

My husband, Jack the Clipper, is forever ripping articles out of the paper, drawing arrows to the part I should read, and then stuffing them in my typewriter.

It is usually something we have argued about and the article completely agrees with his point of view.

His latest "finding" points out that researchers who have spent several years studying gifted children in mathematics found out they are twice as likely to be left-handed, six times as likely to have allergies, and five times as likely to be nearsighted and MALE!

As coincidence would have it, my husband is left-handed, has allergies, is nearsighted and MALE!

Frankly, I am sick to death of men claiming mathematical supremacy over women. Any country that is run by men and has a national deficit of 200 billion dollars . . . doesn't have any reason for throwing hats in the air.

Add to that the fact that men have not had a balanced budget in this country since Alexander Hamilton and you've got a lot of right-handed men in the wrong places.

If men want a mathematical challenge, women could give them a couple.

Can they multiply a pound of hamburger, divide it by six people and end up with a balanced meal?

Do they dare put three kids in the back seat of a car with two windows and come out even?

Can they pay the rent, the utilities, pay $5 on the freezer, $8 on the snow tires, make the payment on the braces, buy lunches and gas and still have enough left over to have a virus before the 15th of the month without printing new money?

It really ticks me off that mathematicians have always been the anointed apostles of academia. It doesn't matter if you can dream dreams of which eonnets are made or that you can run faster around the track than a gazelle or even have an "ear" for every language in the world, if you can talk "trig," you can write your own ticket.

Frankly, I wouldn't give you diddley-squat for a man whose nose runs, has to use left-handed scissors and can't see to drive a car, so there!

My husband asked me what I thought of the article.

I told him I thought it was amusing.

CARROT CAKE

An easy and successful version.
3 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
2 cups sugar
4 large eggs
1½ cups vegetable oil
2 teaspoons vanilla
3 cups lightly packed grated (medium-fine) pared carrots
½ cup walnuts, chopped medium-fine
½ cup raisins, chopped medium-fine

In large electric-mixer bowl stir together flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and sugar. Make a well in the center and add eggs, oil and vanilla; beat at medium speed until smooth. With a wooden spoon stir in carrots, nuts and raisins until well distributed. Turn into a greased 10-inch angelcake pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 75 minutes. Place cake in pan on wire rack for 10 minutes; loosen edges and around tube; turn out on wire rack. Cool completely. Frost as desired.

'Scores' Predict Good Marriage

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — If you're overly concerned about your partner's smoking, drinking, tidiness or tardiness, the marriage you're planning might be heading for trouble.

David Olson, a sociologist at the University of Minnesota, says such concerns may point the way to bliss or bust.

According to Olson, a premarital compatibility test he developed can predict with 87 percent accuracy which couples will divorce or separate within three years of their weddings, and can predict with 76 percent accuracy who will remain together.

"Everyone who took the test said they're in love, but love is irrelevant here," Olson said in a recent interview. "Just knowing someone's in love is not enough. They need to know relationship skills. They need to communicate, to learn how to resolve their differences and handle important issues."

Since 1978, Olson has surveyed more than 30,000 couples who were involved in premarital counseling throughout the United States.

According to Olson, a 'yes' answer to any of the following questions indicates a potential problem:

—"Do you and your partner think your problems will go away with time?"

—"Are you concerned with your partner's drinking, smoking, being messy, being late to things, or being too dependent on you?"

—"Do you avoid talking about things that might be upsetting?"

—"Do the two of you argue over little things too much?"

Olson said six other categories — financial management, sexual relationship, leisure activities, roles within marriage, children, and family and friends — were not as important in predicting the outcome of marriages.

Olson said there were no right or wrong answers to the 125 questions in the test, called PREPARE. "The purpose is not to add up all the points and then say you should or shouldn't get married," he said, but to understand the strengths and weaknesses in a relationship.

Statistics indicate that 25 percent of all new marriages end in divorce or separation within three years, with or without counseling.

FOLK ART

Straight Talk On Prescription Drugs

DEAR READERS: If you are not taking any kind of prescription drug and you don't plan to — skip this column. It's not for you.

The Food and Drug Administration, in cooperation with the National Council on Patient Information and Education, has embarked on a program to inform and educate people about the medication they use.

Most people are unaware that there can be an interaction between the prescribed drugs they are taking and certain foods they eat. This interaction can cause some drugs to work faster or slower, or to become totally ineffective.

For example, people who are taking certain prescribed drugs for severe depression or high blood pressure should avoid aged cheese, Chianti wine, pickled herring, yogurt, chicken liver, bananas, avocados, sour cream, and all foods prepared with meat tenderizers.

Persons taking anti-coagulants (blood thinners) should avoid large amounts of leafy vegetables and liver because the vitamin K in those foods promotes blood clotting.

People on thyroid medication should avoid brussels sprouts, turnips, cabbage, soybeans and kale.

Dairy products should not be eaten by a person who is taking a specific kind of antibiotic.

Alcohol and even aspirin should not be combined with certain other drugs. Mixing alcohol with a high dosage of Valium or Darvon can be fatal.

The next time your doctor gives you a prescription, don't hesitate to ask him — or your pharmacist — the following questions:

1. What is the name of the drug and what is it supposed to do? (Write it down so you won't forget.)
2. When do I take it, and for how long? (Does "three times a day" mean morning, noon and night? Should it be taken before meals, with meals or after? If the directions say "every four hours," should I get up during the night to take it? Do I stop taking the medicine when I feel better? Or should I keep taking it until it's all gone?)
3. Are there any foods, beverages, medications or activities I should avoid while taking this drug? (Is alcohol allowed? Aspirin? Antacids?)
4. Are there any side effects? And what should I do if they occur?
5. Is there any written information you can give me about the drug you have prescribed for me?

6. Is there an approved generic version of this drug? (There usually is, and it is much cheaper and just as effective.)

What you should tell your doctor:

1. If you have ever had any allergic reactions or side effects to certain drugs in the past.
2. If you are taking any medication on a regular basis, such as contraceptives or insulin, or if you use a non-prescription drug on a regular basis.
3. If you are being treated for a different condition by another doctor.
4. If you are pregnant, or a heavy smoker, or a heavy drinker.
5. If you are on a special diet or are taking vitamins and mineral supplements.

Some tips to help you use prescription drugs safely and effectively:

1. If a drug is not doing what it is supposed to do for you, check with your doctor. You may need a different dosage or a different drug.
2. If you have an unexpected symptom — rash, nausea, dizziness, headache — report it to your doctor immediately.
3. Don't stop taking your medicine just because you're feeling better. You may prevent the drug from doing its work completely.

Medical Fees

A national study group has concluded that Medicaid as we know it today should be scrapped in favor of a pseudo-socialized medicine plan that would cover two sharply delineated groups — the poor, and the elderly and retarded.

Barbara Matula, North Carolina's director of medical assistance and a member of the study group, says a fixed monthly fee — the so-called health maintenance system — should be used for health care instead of the traditional fee-for-service plan. Such a plan, she says, would create more competition among hospitals and doctors.

The reasoning is difficult to follow there. Where's the competition in a fixed fee system? We suppose the reasoning is that competition would exist for the right to provide the service. But after a physician or hospital is granted the right to provide that service and collect the fixed periodic fees, what happens to the other physicians and hospitals? An open market, so to speak, would certainly provide more overt competition.

The other recommendation by the study group seems to have more merit. Ms. Matula says the study shows that while 66 percent of the Medicaid population is made up of mothers and children receiving AFDC funds, they only spend 24 percent of the dollars. The bulk of the Medicaid funds, the group said, goes for the elderly and the retarded who need prolonged health care.

Totally separate systems, perhaps expanding on the Medicare program, is worth consideration.

Know Candidates

Considering the political activity which began months ago, one might think the primaries and elections are only a few days away.

No so. In fact the date for candidates' to file passed only last Monday. Now the campaigning for the primaries begins.

At least, however, voters now know that the slate of candidates is complete. It would be wise to become familiar with the positions of all the candidates seeking office so that an informed choice can be made when the ballot is in hand.

A Way Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, facing politically unattractive choices on the federal budget deficit, is punting to a special commission. It's a script he has followed successfully in the past.

On Central America, he punted to the Kissinger Commission to help him decide what to do. On Social Security, he punted to another panel to come up with politically palatable solutions to the retirement program's financial woes.

Now, the question is, who decided to punt the deficit football first, the president or the Democrats in Congress?

Vice President George Bush argued Sunday that Reagan had not "refused to face up to the crisis" posed by the deficit. Rather, the vice president said, "he has challenged the U.S. Congress to come up with a budget-reducing scheme."

At the same time, he acknowledged that "we are in a political year. We're in a fiercely political year," and the president has chosen the best way "to address ourselves to the immediacy of the economy."

White House officials freely acknowledge that in his decision to negotiate with Congress to find the least contentious areas of the budget to cut quickly, Reagan was trying to move to the politically high ground. But, they say, he is only emulating the Democrats.

Reagan embraced the idea of a negotiating group in his State of the Union address on Jan. 25. But his aides say that was only after the Democrats had first raised the possibility of joining representatives of the White House to sit down together and get to work.

At issue is how to shave the looming $180 billion budget deficit of fiscal 1985, which begins Sept. 30.

With Reagan continuing to push for a growing Pentagon budget — he would push it up 14.5 percent next year — while refusing to support higher taxes, the Democrats saw themselves in a position to make the deficit an issue in the presidential campaign. Economists argue that a high deficit forces the government into borrowing huge sums, limiting money available for others, driving interest rates up, and slowing economic expansion.

But if the Democrats saw themselves moving into position on the deficit issue, the White House saw that possibility, too.

While the Democrats balked last week at taking the president up on the idea of negotiations, Reagan's spokesman, Larry Speakes, said time after time that the president was more than willing to live with the budget request he sent to Congress on Feb. 1. Of course, that would have given the Democrats free reign to say that it was the president who was proposing the huge deficit, while Reagan could argue that Congress was refusing to go along with spending cuts he had recommended in years past.

Before Reagan opted for the commission, said deputy White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater, several ideas were being kicked around within the administration: a "contingency" tax plan unveiled a year ago to permit tax increases based only on the performance of the economy; a standard tax increase proposed by Reagan's chief economic adviser, Martin Feldstein, and adamantly opposed by the president, or a proposal by Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan for a 3 percent across-the-board cut in federal spending.

"Out of that came a feeling that all of these proposals would be difficult to get through Congress in an election year," Fitzwater said.

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration has been hurt by relatively few stupid actions over the past three years. Like every administration, it has suffered from occasional gaffes, boners, embarrassments and acts of individual misconduct, but until the White House last year pronounced National Security Decision Directive 84, we had seen little that was really stupid. This thing is downright dumb.

The purpose of Directive 84 is to prevent the disclosure of highly sensitive information in ways that would harm our national security interests. No person with even a touch of patriotism could oppose that purpose.

But ends are one thing, and means are another. Directive 84 would directly and immediately affect more than 100,000 civil servants. It would compel them to sign an agreement, binding for the rest of their lives, in which they pledge to submit for prepublication censorship anything they may write that deals with their experience in government or makes use of information they handled in the course of their work. Failure to sign the required oath will result in dismissal.

James Baker, White House chief of staff, attempted a feeble defense of Directive 84 recently on "Meet the Press." He said it really applied only to top-level people in Defense, the National Security Council, the CIA and related agencies. It was "only an expansion" of rules the CIA has enforced for many years on its own employees. But Baker conceded that the directive, which has been temporarily suspended until April 15, is the subject of "rethinking."

A whole lot of rethinking needs to be thought. As a condition of original employment the requirement probably is defensible. This was the position the Supreme Court took in the matter of Frank Snepp, a onetime agent of the CIA who wrote a book about his experiences in Vietnam. No one had compelled Snepp to sign on with the CIA. He voluntarily pledged his word to abide by the requirement of prepublication review. He broke his contract, and he got what was coming to him by being forced to disgorge his earnings from the book.

But to impose this requirement retroactively upon thousands of civil servants with only occasional access to sensitive information is absurd. How in the unholy name of J. Edgar Hoover would this draconian censorship ever be enforced? The directive speaks at one point of unlawful "disclosures" and at another point of "prepublication review." Obviously, unlawful disclosures may be either oral or written. Taken on its face, the directive would prohibit a Jim Baker from answering questions on "Meet the Press" until the questions and his proposed answers had first been submitted for review to — to whom? To Jim Baker?

If there were convincing evidence of widespread abuse, perhaps these measures could be resentfully tolerated, but no such evidence has been forthcoming. Sen. Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland held hearings last September. He asked for examples of damaging disclosures from the Departments of State, Justice and Defense. Over the past five years, State and Justice couldn't think of any, and Defense could recall only one confirmed incident.

Enough said. Let us drop Directive 84 down George Orwell's memory hole, and forget it ever was proposed.

Carrying Things Too Far

Playing Both Ends

WASHINGTON — An angry sense of having been bilked pervaded the White House West Wing recently when the senior aides there realized Dr. Martin Feldstein had not been pacified by President Reagan's deficit "down payment" — a ploy beginning to look more like a trap than an escape.

The president's invitation that Congress join him in deficit-reduction never contemplated it actually would produce an election-year austerity package. Rather, it was seen as a cosmetic: to harmlessly appease his dissenting economic advisers and to give central banker Paul Volcker an excuse for loosening money and bringing down interest rates.

Instead, "down payment" negotiations are providing a new forum for Reagan's recalcitrant economic aides — Feldstein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, and Budget Director David Stockman — to trash the president's policy. While the Reagan ploy gives the short-run appearance of having bought peace from Volcker's Federal Reserve Board, no long-run cooperation has been forged.

Reagan's problem is that while he has resisted the establishment's pressures against growth-oriented policies, he has surrounded himself with men hostile to his ideas. His retention of Feldstein and Stockman and hastily arrived-at decision to reappoint Volcker to the Fed chairmanship led to the strange state of economic policy here that threatens economic recovery and his re-election.

Ronald Reagan had neither political nor economic reservations about submitting a budget that, while projecting large estimated budget deficits, avoided the election-year tax increases invariably fatal to incumbent presidents. Nor did his "pragmatist" aides in the West Wing, James A. Baker III and Richard Darman. But as the time neared for Reagan's State of the Union Address, two problems weighed against this straightforward approach.

Problem No. 1 was procedural: Neither Baker nor Darman would be called by Congress to defend the president's budget. That task would fall to Feldstein and Stockman, who had battled it internally and do not play the good soldier externally. Thus, the White House pondered the prospect of two-thirds of Reagan's economic "troika" (Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan is the loyalist third member) savaging the president's budget on Capitol Hill.

Problem No. 2 was scarier: Volcker's threats to keep money dangerously tight unless the president imposed higher taxes. An unannounced showdown late last year between Reagan and Volcker produced only an ambiguous promise from the Delphic Fed chairman to "sustain non-inflationary growth." Since then, Volcker has slowed the recovery by tight money, reflected by high interest rates.

That Feldstein, Stockman and Volcker are still around points to Reagan's weakest point as president. His aides late last year botched an effort to run Feldstein out of town that they felt necessary because the president would not do it himself. Reagan's tolerance of Stockman's disloyalty was confirmed recently when the president, shown the budget director's latest heresies in Fortune magazine, softly conceded that David made some good points. Volcker's reappointment, putting the president's fate in the hands of a non-political banker-bureaucrat, has been described by a political adviser as Reagan's worst political mistake.

The White House answer to the problems was not finally to get rid of Feldstein and Stockman or to confront Volcker with the majesty of the presidency. Rather, at the 11th hour, they inserted the "down payment" into the State of the Union. It presumably would enable Feldstein and Stockman to embrace the administration's budget as their own. In private, Don Regan has defended it as a means of persuading Volcker to loosen.

Within a week, it had become clear that Feldstein and, to a lesser degree, Stockman regarded this a down payment on their own austerity demands. Feldstein's abandonment of the Reagan budget and pleas for extraordinary taxation generated rage from senior aides who wanted him out last November.

As is usual in the Byzantine world of Fed policy, Volcker's reaction is more complicated. Don Regan and the president (briefed by his Treasury secretary) indicated by their public statements they have been given reason by the Fed to worry no more about election-year-money-tightening.

In Search Of A System

NEW YORK (AP) — In the struggle to make money with money, there is a constant quest for the perfect system.

Whether people are playing with millions in real estate or $1 a week in the state lottery, they seek out formulas to impose some sort of order on a chaotic world.

This activity is especially intense in the stock market, where theories have evolved over the years linking the ups and downs of stock prices to the money supply, the behavior of corporate insiders, even the currently fashionable level of hemlines on women's skirts.

Skeptics might scoff whenever a new market "law" is discovered, but if it seems to work over a period of time it almost inevitably gains a wide following.

So it came to be that last month the Los Angeles Raiders' victory in the Super Bowl caused a big fuss on Wall Street. Under a principle known as the Super Bowl indicator, the outcome of the game was supposedly a negative omen for stock prices.

The pattern was discovered several years ago, presumably by some market-conscious sports fan glancing over a table of past Super Bowl results. Victories by a team from the original National Football League preceded good years for stocks, and, conversely, victories by teams from the old American Football League came at the start of down years for the market. It has worked out that way in 16 of the past 17 years.

Brokers up and down the Street quickly picked up on the Super Bowl indicator as a bit of whimsical relief from the solemnities and frustrations of the forecasting trade. But as its correct "predictions" continued year after year, they found that some people were beginning to take it seriously.

Last month, as stock prices declined in the days before the Super Bowl, a caller asked one broker whether investors were anticipating a Raider victory. At another firm, an analyst fielded questions about whether the margin of victory in the game was as significant for the market as the identity of the winner.

The day after the Raiders' 38-9 victory over Washington, the Dow Jones industrial average fell almost 15 points.

At about that point, some Wall Streeters started calling time out. "Ridiculous, what?" said Anthony W. Tabell at the firm of Delafield, Harvey, Tabell. "There is absolutely no rational reason why the results of a sports contest should determine the outlook for the stock market. It is obvious that the two phenomena are totally unrelated."

Silly as the whole scene might be, however, Tabell said it illustrated some important points about the use of statistics and systems in playing the stock market or any other difficult game.

By Tabell's reckoning, the chances are roughly one in 1,000 that a random event like the Super Bowl could compile its record of accuracy as a market indicator. Nevertheless, he added, "on a moment's reflection, it is easy to see how the anonymous discoverer of the Super Bowl indicator could have come up with it."

"The answer is that he had an infinite number of candidates for the 'perfect stock-market indicator' from which to choose. Let us take sports alone. He could have tried World Series results, Stanley Cup winners or left-handed finalists at Wimbledon."

Probability theory aside, Tabell pointed out that the Super Bowl indicator fails to meet one test that should be applied to all potential systems and theories for making money multiply. "It makes no sense," he said.

Public Forum

To the editor:

The terms "liberal" and "humanist" have been used recently by certain religious leaders as if they are labels for something evil. We, the members of the Universalist Convention of North Carolina Inc., would like to declare publicly that, not only do we proudly claim the liberal and humanist aspects of our heritage, we affirm and recommend them as essential and positive elements of our society.

Liberals trust freedom. It is a plurality of diverse people and thought that gives society resilience and creativity. Humanists trust themselves. It is not the self-destructive belief of inherent sin that we encourage; rather we believe in the beauty, worth and potential fulfillment of every human and all humanity. Also, we are not anti-God, just anti-certain images of God.

That others have the right to believe differently, we honor and would help protect. But such unconstitutional attempts as enforcing piety in the classroom and Bible in the science class, we see as religious impositions not suitable in American schools. When proponents of such causes wave the flag, they should remember it was largely humanistic liberals and Deists who, in saving American from becoming a Christian theocracy, established the right, not just of religion, but from religion.

There are many churches, all with some good. It is everyone's right and privilege to choose which he or she will attend, if any. Our liberal faith and hope is in the universal, inherent, inalienable right of persons and groups to their own form of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

$10,000 In Interest Was Lost

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Winston-Salem State University did not intentionally violate state regulations in improperly moving funds from an interest-bearing university account into a non-interest-bearing account at a local bank, state auditors say.

Winston-Salem State lost more than $10,000 in interest income because of the error, which auditors discovered while reviewing the university financial records for fiscal 1981-1982.

State regulations require revenues from self-supporting state university activities, such as food and health services, to be kept in auxiliary funds on deposit with the state treasurer's office, said Sam Newman, director of audits for the state.

But Newman said auditors found no evidence of an attempt to seek personal gain on the part of university finance officers.

Willie Grissom, who was the schools vice chancellor for financial affairs at the time of the fund transfer, said the error was an oversight on his part.

"It was not invested in an interest-bearing account for an inordinate period of time," said Grissom. "It slipped our attention in the midst of other things we were engaged in."

Robert Fenning, acting vice chancellor for financial affairs, said Tuesday the money was transferred to help relieve a cash-flow shortage during restoration of the school's Kennedy Dining Hall. The school managed to pay for the restoration without using the money, he said.

The records show that on Sept. 19, 1981, $41,000 was transferred from the school's Auxiliary Enterprise Fund to a checking account. The money remained in the account, earning no interest, until January 1983, when it was moved to an insured money market account in the same bank.

In June 1983 it was transferred to the university's capital improvement fund which is used to finance new building projects.

Then last December, after school officials were notified of the impropriety, the money was returned to the Auxiliary Enterprise Fund, along with $11,478.32 in interest the auditors estimated it would have earned had it remained in the auxiliary fund.

The principal had earned $1,309.61 while in the money market account, so the university's net loss on the interest was $10,087.71.

Fenning said the interest difference had to be withdrawn from the university's general endowment to restore the full interest amount to the restricted Auxiliary Enterprise Fund.

Four Charged In Drug Violations

GREENSBORO (AP) — A Winston-Salem attorney, two Pilot Mountain businessmen and a Greensboro man have been charged with drug violations, the FBI said Wednesday.

Robert Pence, special agent in charge of the FBI in North Carolina, said attorney Renn Drum Jr., 53, and Henry Franklin Warden Jr., 33, of Greensboro were charged Tuesday with conspiring to distribute cocaine and marijuana.

Donald Henry Martinat Jr., 37, of Don Martinat and Associates' accounting firm in Pilot Mountain and Robert Pons Martinat, 35, a Pilot Mountain man who operates a Winston-Salem lounge, were charged with attempting to possess cocaine with intent to distribute.

If convicted, each could be sentenced to up to 15 years in prison and $15,000 in fines.

Preparing Suit On Unfair Trade

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. steel companies are preparing to file unfair trade lawsuits in an effort to weaken White House opposition to a global quota on imported steel, U.S. Steel Corp. Chairman David Roderick says.

He said Wednesday his company is preparing cases against Australia, South Korea, Argentina, Romania, Finland, Spain, South Africa and Sweden.

"This isn't an attempt to harass. It's an attempt to deal with the market situation," Roderick said. "These (cases) are very expensive. You don't spend a lot of money just to harass."

In the first 11 months of 1983, foreign steel accounted for 20.3 percent of American consumption. The domestic steel industry hopes to win passage of a House bill that would limit steel imports to 15 percent of the U.S. market.

Says Odds Favor The Tax Cheater

WASHINGTON (AP) — A temporary federal amnesty program for tax cheaters probably wouldn't work because "the chance of getting caught" is too slight, the chairman of a presidential commission on budget cuts says.

J. Peter Grace said Wednesday the Internal Revenue Service expects to audit fewer than 1.7 percent of the individual tax returns that were filed last year, compared with 2.4 percent in 1977.

The staff of a House committee is studying the amnesty idea as a way to bring more people into the tax system and reduce the federal deficit. One amnesty supporter estimated such a program could produce $20 billion a year in uncollected tax revenues.

States Talk Higher Drinking Age

By BILL McCLOSKEY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The highway death toll among young, drinking drivers, especially under-age youngsters who cross state borders to drink legally, is the target of scores of bills in state legislatures that are aimed at raising the legal drinking age.

"There is a tremendous amount of interest in raising the drinking age throughout the country," said John Moulden of the National Transportation Safety Board as he scanned a computer printout of alcohol-related legislation being debated across the country.

He estimates that more than 200 proposals have been introduced in various state legislatures. "Even in states where we thought there wasn't a chance, there's a lot of activity," he said in an interview.

The problem of teen-age drinking was recognized by President Reagan's commission on drunken driving, which recommended in December after an 18-month study that Congress set a legal drinking age of 21 and cut off federal highway funds to any state that fails to enforce that standard.

"There is evidence of a direct correlation between the minimum drinking age and alcohol-related crashes among the age groups affected," the panel said.

"The lack of uniformity among state laws is especially critical regarding the minimum legal drinking age because an incentive to drink and drive is established due to young persons commuting to border states where the drinking age is lower."

"There is simply no way to adequately address the needless tragedies caused by young persons commuting to border states except by establishing a uniform drinking age among the states," the commission said.

The National Safety Council in Chicago estimates that about half the 46,000 traffic deaths in the United States in 1982 were alcohol-related. A report by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration found that eight states which had raised the legal drinking age showed an average 28 percent annual reduction in nighttime fatal accidents involving drivers aged 18 to 21.

Only 19 states have a legal drinking age of 21 for all alcoholic beverages: Alaska, Arkansas, California, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Missouri, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Utah and Washington.

Four states, Vermont, Hawaii, Louisiana and Wisconsin, have the lowest legal drinking age of 18. Wisconsin has enacted a 19-year-old drinking age, which goes in effect July 1.

In West Virginia, Gov. John D. Rockefeller IV says his primary legislative goal for the year is to raise his state's legal drinking age of 19 for residents. Hearings on the proposal are to begin Thursday in the state legislature.

Gov. Richard Snelling of Vermont, which has kept the legal drinking age at 18 since 1971, opposes raising the age to 21. He says the solution to drunken driving among teen-agers is improved education and better enforcement of drunken driving laws.

Snelling says driving deaths have decreased in Vermont.

Although Congress is taking steps to set a nationwide minimum legal drinking age of 21, Moulden says, state laws are "much more likely to be enforced."

Several governors, as well as Jim Burnett, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, oppose any congressional threat to withhold federal highway money as a way of enforcing a uniform drinking age of 21 among the states.

White House spokesman Robin Gray said Wednesday that the president has taken no position on the commission's highway fund cutoff proposal.

But Sen. Frank R. Lautenberg, D-N.J., has introduced a bill that would use the fund cutoff threat to pressure states into enforcing a uniform drinking age of 21 — the same threat used to enforce the national 55 mph speed limit. Companion measures sponsored by Rep. James J. Florio, D-N.J., and Sen. Richard G. Lugar, R-Ind., would simply declare a national legal drinking age of 21.

Set Games On April 11

Initial preparation for the Greenville/Pitt County Senior Games to be held in Greenville April 11 on the East Carolina University campus has begun. Anyone 55 and older may take part.

Several clinics have been developed to help interested persons learn a new skill or to begin training for the events, which are being sponsored by the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department, the ECU Departments of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Dance, and Pitt County Community Schools.

Clinics, locations and dates are:

•Archery, ticket office, Minges Coliseum — Feb. 20, 10 a.m.-noon; March 2, 1-3 p.m.; March 26, 10 a.m.-noon.

•Racquetball, Greenville Athletic Club — Feb. 22, 6:30-8:30 p.m.; March 24, 10 a.m.-noon.

•Bowling, Hillcrest Bowling Lanes — Feb. 17, 11 a.m.; March 16, 11 a.m.

•Tennis, River Birch Tennis Center — Feb. 22, 2-5 p.m.; March 22, 9 a.m.-noon.

•Swimming, Eastern Carolina Vocational Center — Feb. 15, 5-7 p.m.; Feb. 27, 1-2 p.m.; March 7, 5-7 p.m.; March 30, 10-11 a.m.

•Shuffleboard, horseshoes, badminton, softball, football and basketball throws, Elm Street Gym — Feb. 20, 2-4 p.m.; March 13, 6:45-8:30 p.m.; April 4, 10 a.m.-noon.

•Track — contact the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department for dates.

Information concerning other days and times to include facilities to use for practicing will be provided at the clinics.

For more information, contact Alice Keene at 752-6106 or Margaret McGlohon at 752-4137, ext. 259.

Cite Decline In Gasoline Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gasoline prices in 1983, averaging $1.22 a gallon for leaded regular and $1.29 for unleaded gas, declined 4.7 cents a gallon from 1982, the American Automobile Association says.

But gas prices were still three times higher than in 1973 when the average price of gasoline was 39 cents a gallon, AAA said in a report Tuesday.

Gasoline prices reached a peak of $1.40 in April 1981, the report said.

No Kids Seen At Toy Fair

By TAMARA JONES
Associated Press Writer
NUREMBERG, West Germany (AP) — Even with stuffed rabbits quaffing beer, eight-inch dolls bent on ruling the galaxies and miniature burning buildings, something seems to be missing from the world's biggest toy fair.

Kids. Not a tyke in sight. The irony hits at the same time and with about the same impact as a Road Ripper launched by a zealous salesman.

Nuremberg's week-long 35th International Toy Fair, boasting 1,780 exhibitors from 40 nations and 40,000 buyers from 83 countries, is serious business — millions of dollars worth by the time the fair closed Wednesday, organizers estimate.

And in the vernacular of the German hosts, children are strictly verboten.

"It's a major trade fair. People are here to do business and we can't have kids running all over the place, playing with everything," explained a woman at one of the information counters.

Instead, you see suited businessmen and women patting the nose of a huge stuffed dromedary from Ghana, or cheering on their favorite toy race car whizzing along a loop-de-loop track.

Or fingering cats eyes and blue bombers from the British firm that claims to be the world's biggest marble maker.

Or talking back to a gregarious knee-high robot roaming the halls as a promotional gimmick from a German firm.

Buyers wooed with free drinks and sample toys dicker in a multilingual din over the price of Lego bricks or Barbie dolls in a dozen sprawling halls.

Salesmen from the Danish-based Lego company conducted free tours of Legoland, where futuristic space stations and skyscrapers built from snap-together plastic bricks are on display in a stall the size of a football field.

The centerpiece was a medieval castle (complete with an anachronistic electrical fireplace) and snap-together knights taking up most of a wall.

Asked how many bricks it took to make, a Lego man blanched. "Thousands," he replied. "Thousands and thousands."

The Lego displays were built by anonymous toilers "in our model department in Denmark" who spent weeks gluing together the little pieces "so they wouldn't fall apart at the fair," said Lego representative Rudolf Raehler.

Another Danish firm, Scanglobes, offers globes in 24 languages, including Swahili, Tamil, Farsi and Singhalese.

It becomes something of a diplomatic juggling act, said representative Rolf Herdes.

"Our Arabic globe, for example, has no Israel. It's called Palestine, and the Persian Gulf is the Arabian Gulf," he said. The Spanish-language globe, in deference to Argentina, shows the Malvinas. The English one calls the same group of islands the Falklands.

"You have to watch these things carefully," Herdes said.

Among other fair curiosities was the lone Bulgarian stand. Christmas ornaments made up a large part of the stock from the Communist country, and travel brochures urging vacationers to visit Bulgarian motels were tucked on the toy shelves.

Italians, the biggest foreign exhibitor with 137 stalls, could be seen playing unabashedly with their wares between customers.

A salesman from one of 92 British firms colored quietly in a corner with his company's felt pens while a woman at a German stand surreptitiously devoured a dainty torte baked in a play oven.

The bathroom in a Swedish doll house was fully equipped with a tiny massage table, while a miniature French kitchen was well-stocked with gourmet cheese.

Mattel, the U.S. maker of the perennial prom queen Barbie, is pushing a new line of not-so-sweet dolls. The characters in 'Master of the Universe' are armed with laser guns, Road Ripper mobiles, caveman clubs, trap jaws and the like.

And a German firm hoping to win the hearts of parents as well as children was selling a "Burning Tax Office" set.

Fire trucks are extra.

$1 Million 'Lesson'

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP) — Businessman William E. Clemens has taught St. John's University a million-dollar lesson in keeping the faith.

Ten years ago the Rev. Michael Blecker, then president of the Roman Catholic school, asked Clemens for a $100 donation.

"I don't have it," Clemens said at the time. "But some day I'd like to give you a million."

Blecker chuckled, thanked Clemens for his time and returned to the university in Collegeville no richer for his efforts. But Clemens, president of Bankers Systems Inc., a St. Cloud firm that makes forms and other materials for financial institutions, was not joking.

He recently handed over $1 million to the university to establish the William E. and Virginia Clemens Chair in Economics and Liberal Education.

The donation is one of the largest ever to the university, said the Rev. Hilary Thimmesch, the university's current president.

"My wife and I just thought this would be a good way to thank the Benedictines (the Roman Catholic order that runs the university) for the influence they've had on this community," Clemens said.

Clemens himself attended St. John's from 1938 to 1941 but didn't receive a degree because "being patriotic and poor, I withdrew and soon joined the Navy," he said.

"Furthermore, when I look back, my marks were terrible."

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Again, it is indicated that the daytime is not the time to force any issues and you would be wise to use your most sensible judgment in whatever arises. The evening is better.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Good day to look into some new interests, but don't confide in others as yet just what you intend to do.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Avoid those who have an eye on your assets during the daytime and keep calm. Don't lag behind in social affairs tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Find a better way of meeting your responsibilities and then you can be very constructive in the days ahead.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Decide what it is you want in life after you have analyzed what is good and what is bad, forgetting the latter.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Analyze how well you are handling your career work and plan to improve it so that you gain more in the future.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make sure you study every phase of your new ideas before you get them in motion. A new contact can be helpful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have made promises that should be kept, so get at them early and they are soon behind you. Keep busy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A conscientious attitude during the day can bring fine benefits tonight. Think constructively and logically.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Co-workers may be hard to handle, but be sure to use tact and they cooperate more. Be careful spending money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Seek only those pleasures you can truly afford in the evening, after you get important work done. Avoid arguments.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study those plans well concerning kin before getting them in operation. Make sure you get bills paid on time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A day to be most careful and not get into anything that could get you into trouble or spoil your reputation. Drive carefully.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be able to solve difficult problems and should be taught also how to handle practical affairs intelligently. Give as good an education as you can afford in order to best equip your progeny for the business of living.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Trapped In Car Wreck

RALEIGH (AP) — A Cary teenager trapped when a car overturned in a creek was in satisfactory condition Wednesday after rescuers held her head above water until more help could arrive, police said.

Laura J. Ager, 16, was a passenger in a car that ran down an embankment about 5 p.m. Tuesday. The driver, Amy L. Munday, 17, of Cary, climbed back to the road and flagged down Douglas Branch, a State Bureau of Investigation agent.

Branch said he and another man clambered to the wreck after sending a woman for more help. Branch said he knocked out the window of the overturned car with a hammer.

"I could see a hand submerged under the water, floating," he said.

Branch said Miss Ager was on her back on the roof of the car, her head submerged and her other arm pinned outside the car. When Branch got her head out of the water he said she opened her eyes, but made no response.

"I knew she was in deep shock," he said.

Within minutes, an emergency medical technician arrived, got inside the car and held Miss Ager's head up until members of the Apex Rescue Squad could free the young woman's arm from beneath the car.

Recovers Dream In Lost Wallet

GREENSBORO (AP) — For several minutes Tuesday night, Daly K. Goh was in a panic, terrified that his hopes of getting home to Malaysia had been shattered.

He had lost his wallet and the $750 he had saved working at a Chinese restaurant for his plane ticket home.

But when he called the Greensboro police to report the missing wallet, he was told the wallet and the man who found it were waiting for him.

Thomas Hite of Guilford College said he found the wallet in a parking lot.

"I looked in it to find a driver license and I saw the card with his name on it; then I saw how much money was in it and I decided the best thing to do would be to turn it in" to police, Hite said.

"I was just speechless for joy," Goh said. "I'm leaving (for Malaysia) Thursday. I'll use much of the money for my airline ticket," said Goh, a recent graduate of University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Hite said he doesn't consider himself any more honest than the next person, and he said he experienced no temptation to keep the money for himself.

"I'd like to think that if somebody found something of mine that they'd turn it in," Hite said.

Will Not Discuss Medical Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Idaho Sen. Frank Church is "doing well" despite undergoing out-patient chemotherapy treatment, his wife says.

Bethine Church refused to discuss the results of tests performed last month in a New York hospital to discern whether her husband's pancreatic tumor was malignant.

Church, 59, a Democrat, is the former chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He returned to his home in suburban Bethesda, Md., after being released from the New York hospital on Jan. 24.

Branch said she was on her way to the hospital by 5:20 p.m. Miss Munday, who was charged with driving while impaired, was treated and released at Rex Hospital, officials said.

Recreation Commission Names 3 To Committees; Report Is Presented

Members were named to three committees and the annual report was presented at the February meeting of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission meeting Wednesday night.

One of the committees, appointed to look into procedures and projects relative to the proposed science nature center at River Park North, is comprised of Recreation and Parks Commission members Mrs. Sydney Womack, Ms. Leslie Starr and Dr. Alfred King, and City Council members Judy Greene and Stuart Shinn.

"Of the three committees being appointed tonight," King, chairman of the commission, said, "this is the one which will be very active. The other two are more in the category of in-readiness committees."

The two other committees appointed are ones to work with the Greenville school system on a proposed school recreation athletic faciility possibly to be shared with the Recreation Department, and a committee to consider the possibility of establishing a tennis pro shop.

Summing up highlights of the 40-page, large format 1983 Annual Report of the department, executive director Boyd Lee noted:

- The department offered over 183 programs during calendar year 1983.
- Participation of volunteers was a significant factor in the department's programs, resulting in an estimated contribution equivalent to over $250,000 in man-hours costs.
- The department now has 16 sites comprising more than 600 acres and in excess of 50,000 square feet of floor space in structural facilities.
- River Park North was officially opened to the public in 1983.
- A softball field has been completed in the 33-acre complex at West Meadowbrook Park, and a soccer field is now being completed in that park.
- Several staff members were recognized for achievements and/or appointed to offices at the state level.

Activities in tennis increased significantly during 1983, including the hosting of a tennis tournament in Greenville.

Lee added that the report this year has been expanded in context to reflect additional information, including listing the cost of fees for programs for which charges are made.

Total attendance in programs during 1983 was 297,065, a 6 percent increase over attendance figures in 1982. Non-residents of Greenville paid a total of $11,025 for six-month and one-year memberships. The majority of this amount is accounted for by 722 persons who paid a $12.50 fee for six months — $9,025, primarily players on basketball and softball league teams.

Apply Computers To Hieroglyphics

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The vast number of ancient Egyptian writings that have so far gone untranslated will be made more accessible to scholars by a computer system that can write, edit and print hieroglyphics, researchers say.

The system uses a computer terminal to manipulate the Egyptian symbols, much like an English-language word-processing system moves letters and words.

After editing, the system prints the symbols, which is allowing the researchers to develop the first dictionary of Late Egyptian hieroglyphics.

Once completed, the three-volume dictionary may help speed the translation of Late Egyptian texts.

"The literature is vast," said Brown University Egyptology professor Leonard H. Lesko. "Only about half has been translated."

Until now, most Egyptian texts have had to be laboriously written out by hand because hieroglyphics were intended to be drawn and could not readily be adapted to the printing press.

One reason is that the alphabet itself is complex, with about a thousand symbols representing various sounds, objects or ideas.

The size and position of each symbol must be carefully drawn with respect to adjacent symbols because "everything has to be grouped in little squares," Lesko said.

Thus, the open-mouth symbol that represents the "r" sound can appear in a variety of sizes in the same sentence, a nightmare for most conventional printing processes.

"You can see why most of the texts are written by hand," Lesko said. "And while some people have good handwriting, some don't. It's silly to stick to that when you have a computer that can do it so nicely and neatly."

Working at the computer terminal, Lesko, his wife, Barbara Lesko, and Harold Streeter, a former member of Brown's geology department, can move the symbols side by side or on top of one another on the computer screen. Then a printout can be made of the text.

The Leskos said they decided to compile a dictionary of Late Egyptian to help other scholars read what Mrs. Lesko says is "the world's hardest language." She says it's so difficult to learn because it has no vowels.

"I guess they didn't think they were necessary," said Mrs. Lesko, an administrative research assistant. "It's like speedwriting. It's bad for us, but I guess it was easy for them."

Program Costs Sharply Rising

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators say millions of dollars could be saved annually if productivity could be improved in the food stamp and Aid to Families With Dependent Children programs.

The General Accounting Office said Wednesday that the costs of running the two programs have increased at a more rapid pace than payments to beneficiaries.

State and local welfare offices spent nearly $3 billion, of which half were federal funds, to operate the food stamp and AFDC programs in 1982, compared with about $730 million in 1973, the report said.

Total benefit payments for the two programs were $22.79 billion in 1982, compared with $9.1 billion in 1973, it said.

Election Year Is Not For Deficit

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The federal budget deficit has become a major concern of politicians, but an economist says don't expect the Democrats or Republicans to do much to reduce it in an election year.

"Neither party wants to deal with the deficit," said Dr. Roger Waud, an economics professor at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. "If they do, they are faced with either raising taxes or cutting government spending."

Waud said Wednesday that if spending cuts are made, they could affect social programs which is not good politics during an election year. And, he said, if congressmen cut defense spending, they may appear to be weak.

Meanwhile, Democratic candidates who are seeking election to the U.S. House of Representatives or Senate are using the deficit as a political tool to "beat the administration over the head," he said.

Economics professor Maurice Lee, who is semi-retired from UNC and who writes a quarterly economic commentary, says the deficit has become a major concern because of its size and because it threatens the recovery next year.

From 1933 to 1983 the deficit has grown from $24 billion to $138.4 billion, Lee said in his first quarter report. Annual deficits have been predicted to exceed $300 billion if taxing and spending policies are not changed.

As the economy begins its second year of the upswing from the recession, expansion will be necessary to meet the demand for goods, he said. Inventories have been reduced and continued consumer demand will stimulate investment spending on factories, better machinery and newer technologies.

But the federal government also needs financing to pay for the deficit-financed programs, Lee said. The private sector needs for financing will come in competition with the government which will lead to higher interest rates. Housing and business expansion will be dampened with the higher interest rates, he said.

Heavy Penalty

CHICAGO (AP) — A judge imposing a two-year sentence and $258,000 in fines on a man who sold the Defense Department 2 million yards of defective parachute cord called it "the most aggravated case of white-collar crime" he'd ever seen in his six years on the bench.

U.S. District Stanley Roszkowski imposed the sentence Wednesday on Barry W. Splinter, former head of the American Cotton Yarns Inc. Ronald J. Hurley, the former vice president, was sentenced to three months in a work-release program and 57 months probation.

Both had pleaded guilty to selling the defective cord from 1978 to July 1982, when the faulty cord was discovered and a recall was ordered.

Expedition Believes Ancient 'Lost Army' Has Been Found

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The Persian army of King Cambyses marched into the Sahara 25 centuries ago and vanished beneath the sands.

The leader of a U.S.-Egyptian expedition said Wednesday his group has found several hundred graves, including bone fragments, that may have solved one of history's oldest mysteries — the fate of the "lost army."

Gary Chafetz, 36, said the bones appeared to have been buried in the Persian fashion, laid out on flat stone outcroppings among the sands, then covered with stones.

"We need to have the bones analyzed for dating," said Chafetz, a Boston writer. "If they turn out to be from 500 B.C., then one might safely conclude that these are the remains of the lost army of Cambyses."

The largest fragment is little more than three inches long.

King Cambyses, the son of Cyrus the Great, conquered Egypt's dynasty in 525 B.C. He dispatched an army from the ancient Egyptian capital of Thebes, now known as Luxor, to the temple and oracle at Amun, at Siwa Oasis, 625 miles to the northwest.

The Greek historian Herodotus quoted the people of Siwa as saying of the army, "A southerly wind of extreme violence drove the sand over them in heaps as they were taking their midday meal, so they disappeared forever."

The modern expedition was sponsored by the Egyptian Geological Survey, which was interested in having a remote part of the western desert explored and in Chafetz's use of sophisticated radar equipment that can pinpoint foreign objects in sand dunes.

With three pack camels, Chafetz, co-leader Deanne Peterson, 33, of Decatur, Ill., and two filmmakers associated with Harvard's film study center, Ned Johnston, 29, of Kenilworth, Ill., and Susan Todd, 23, of Glendale, Ohio, criss-crossed a 150 square mile patch of the Great Sand Sea south of Siwa for four months, searching for evidence of the army.

Survey director Dr. Bahay Issawi, who has written on archaeological topics, said he believed Chafetz had found the army. "Judging by the number of graves, I am sure they are the army," he said.

Dr. Carl Lamberg-Karlovsky, director of Harvard University's Peabody Museum, said in a telephone interview that the graves found by Chafetz appeared to be Persian. He said he had excavated many similar graves in Iran.

"I think it's rather remarkable what Gary found out there," Lamberg-Karlovsky said. "The presence surely demands some explanation — there were no human settlements of any size in that area. He has discovered a problem that has to be solved."

Chafetz raised more than $100,000 and gained the support of experts at the Brooklyn Museum, Boston's Museum of Fine Arts, the Peabody Museum at Harvard, the National Geographic Society and many private contributors.

See 'Surge' By Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Intelligence Agency and CIA analysts are suggesting a new surge in Soviet weapons output after about seven years of slowdown.

These analysts, speaking to reporters Wednesday on condition they not be identified by name, said that even during the slowdown Soviet arms factories were reporting "still more than the United States" was churning out for its armed forces in the 1975-1982 period.

They said "very rapid growth in research and development," a preliminary step to production, has been noted in the Soviet Union.

They estimated that Soviet research on advanced weaponry has been growing at about 5 percent to 6 percent a year, which they said is about twice the U.S. growth rate.

The analysts acknowledged that their assessments were only estimates and they provided no specific dollar equivalent amounts for Soviet arms production.

In his annual report to Congress last week Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said the Soviet Union's "high level of military investment over a long period has enabled the Soviets to accumulate a stock of military assets much larger than our own."

The Weinberger report and the follow-up briefing by intelligence analysts obviously were designed to support the Reagan administration's case for pushing ahead with its record U.S. military buildup.

Agents Refusing To Inform CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some secret agents who once provided intelligence information to the CIA are refusing to do so now because they fear exposure under the federal Freedom of Information Act, CIA deputy director John McMahon says.

McMahon testified Wednesday before a House Intelligence subcommittee which is considering legislation to allow the CIA to exempt files about how it gathers intelligence from the information law.

"Foreign agents, some very important, have either refused to accept, or have terminated a relationship on the grounds that in their minds...the CIA is no longer able to guarantee that they can be protected," McMahon said.

He provided no specific estimate of how many U.S. agents may have quit or refused to be recruited, except to say there have been "numerous such cases."

ANNOUNCING A PROUD ADDITION TO YOUR FAMILY.

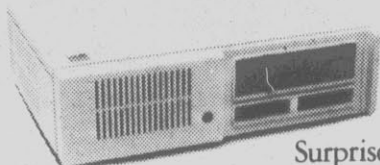

The next addition to your family could be the bright little newcomer in the growing family of IBM® personal computers.

Name: PCjr. Weight: 12 pounds. Heritage: more than 30 years of computer experience.

"Junior" is a powerful tool for modern times. Yet it's simple enough for a child to enjoy.

BRINGING HOME BABY

It's a big day when PCjr comes home. The surprises begin the moment you open the carton.

Surprise #1 is the IBM "Freeboard" — a keyboard that doesn't need a connecting cord. The Freeboard frees you to move around and relax.

Then there's the Keyboard Adventure — an instructional exercise for first-time users. It's built into the computer and explained step-by-step in the Guide to Operations. It will help anyone begin learning as soon as PCjr is hooked up to a TV set.

In systems equipped with a diskette drive, there's a program that lets you explore computer fundamentals at your own pace, with PCjr as your teacher.

And to get you off and running from the very first day, a sample diskette with eleven useful mini-programs (ranging from a spreadsheet for monthly expenses to a word game and a recipe file) is also included. But there are still more surprises.

FAMILY COMPUTING MADE EASY

Many IBM software programs written for other IBM personal computers will run on PCjr. And inexpensive new ones written especially for PCjr are being released.

An easy-to-use diskette word processing program, for example, uses pictures as well as words to guide you along. A comprehensive IBM home budget program makes keeping track of money easier. There's also a selection of educational programs for children at home and at school.

And when the work is finished (or perhaps before), the fun can begin. Just slip in a game cartridge and stand back.

GROWING UP WITH JUNIOR

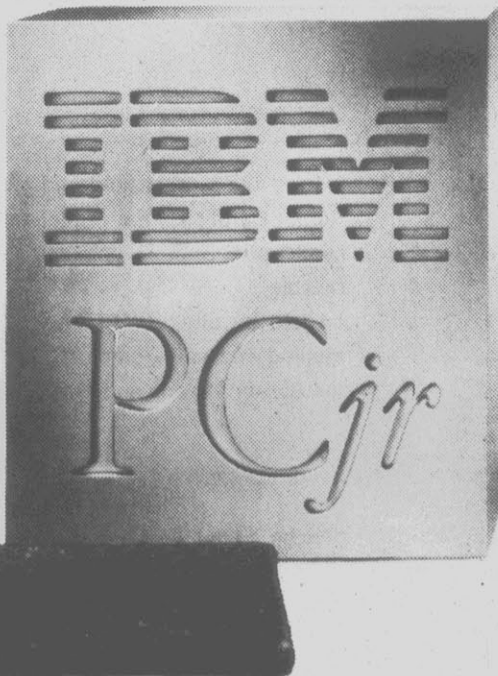

Add a printer. A diskette drive. An internal modem for telecommunications. Increase user memory from 64KB to 128KB. With these and other add-it-yourself options, even the lowest-priced PCjr can grow up real fast.

PCjr is a powerful tool for home, school or college. With its optional carrying case, it's a powerful tool anywhere you care to take it.

SEE JUNIOR RUN

Junior's starting model includes a 64KB cassette/cartridge unit and Freeboard for about $700. A 128KB model with diskette drive is about $1300. (Prices apply at IBM Product Centers. Prices may vary at other stores.)

Your local authorized IBM PCjr dealer proudly invites you to see this bright little addition to the family. For the store nearest you just call 1-800-IBM-PCJR. In Alaska and Hawaii, 1-800-447-0890.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned mixed today, following a $27 billion loss Wednesday, helped by a bounceback of blue-chip and technology stocks and a comment by the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board that Wall Street's distress about the economy "may be overdue."

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which plunged 24.19 points Wednesday in its steepest slide in more than 15 months, fell further in the opening hour but was up .32 to 1,156.62 by noon.

But nearly two stocks fell in price for every one that rose in midday tally on the New York Stock Exchange.

A wave of selling that erupted this week was fed by fears that lack of progress in curbing huge government deficits could lead to another recession.

Hospital Included

WILLIAMSTON — A vote of approval to include the Robersonville Community Hospital in hospital planning efforts was approved at the February meeting of the Martin County Board of Commissioners. Commissioners, however, tabled action in considering a request for emergency funds for the facility.

Planning procedures for the future of hospital and health care in the county are expected to get under way soon with county and hospital officials to meet with representatives of several hospital management teams later this month.

In the event a management team is hired by the county hospital board, long-term health care planning would perhaps be one of the team's primary responsibilities.

A request for $50,000 or as much of that amount as possible to assist with the emergency financial needs of the Robersonville facility was tabled until after the meeting with management teams.

The chairman of the Robersonville facility, J.R. Crandell, told commissioners the hospital was in desperate need of money to pay outstanding bills. He noted, too, that area residents wanted to keep the hospital operating until future planning can be made, and fears have been expressed that, if the facility should be closed, it would probably never be reopened.

In another hospital agenda item, Eleanor Hardison, a registered

Pirate Rally Falls Short, 65-62

MACOMB, Ill. — East Carolina University's Pirates rallied from 16 points down, but couldn't quite pull it out as Western Illinois gained a 65-62 win over the Bucs last night.

East Carolina, which trailed 34-18 with about six minutes to go in the game, managed to take a three-point lead midway through the final half, but the Leathernecks used the foul line in the final minutes to pull out the three-point win.

The Pirates had their opportunities, missing several layups in the contest when they had broken away on fast breaks, but also missed a chance for a couple of free throws to break out of a 50-50 tie when they were not awarded free throws on the seventh team foul of the second half.

"The kids did a great job of coming back," Coach Charlie Harrison said, "against all odds. It's very difficult to do the things we had to do to come back and then lose that way."

The Pirates shot the best they have all year, canning 54 percent. They scored 16 more points from the floor than did Western, but made just six of 12 free throw attempts as compared to 21 of 25 by the Leathernecks.

The Pirates also recorded 17 assists, another new season high.

Following their poor performance against Eastern Illinois on Monday night, the Pirates appeared headed for a repeat of that as they got away to a slow start against the Leathernecks, falling behind quickly 10-2. The Pirates failed to put two baskets together until Leon Bass and Tony Robinson hit inside 14 minutes to cut the Western lead back to 14-10.

Western, however, continued to build on its advantage, pushing out to a 14-point spread at 26-12 with just over nine minutes left in the first half. They were helped along by a three-point play and a basket by Todd Hutcheson during that sprint.

With just over six minutes left to play, the Leathernecks reached their biggest lead, 34-18 on a goal-tending call on a shot by Johnny Holman, and it appeared that they were on their way to an easy victory.

But suddenly, the Pirates came to life. Over the rest of the half, led by Curt Vanderhorst, Derrick Battle and William Grady, the Pirates outthit the Leathernecks, 13-5. (Please Turn To Page 14)

Old Dominion Hosts EC Women

East Carolina's Lady Pirates, coming off a 61-56 overtime victory over Georgia Tech Sunday afternoon, take to the road tonight to face nationally ranked Old Dominion in a 7:35 p.m. game in Norfolk, Va.

Old Dominion, currently ranked seventh in the Associated Press women's poll, brings in a 14-4 record into the contest. The Pirates are currently 9-11 on the season.

The Lady Monarchs are paced by Tracy Claxton, a 6-1 junior forward, scoring 20.8 points a game. Right behind her is 6-3 junior forward Medina Dixon, scoring at a 20.7 clip. Regina Miller, a 5-10 senior guard, rounds out those in double figures with a 12.9 average.

The three will be joined in the starting lineup by Dawn Cullen, a 6-4 sophomore center with an 8.8 average, and Marie Christian, a 5-7 freshman guard, hitting 4.7 points a game.

Dixon is the team's leader in rebounding with a 10.6 average, while Claxton is just behind at 10.3.

Old Dominion is averaging about 84 points a game, while allowing 66 per outing.

ODU's defeats came at the hands of Tennessee, currently ranked ninth; Western Kentucky, UCLA, and California. All four losses occurred on the road. The Lady Monarchs are unbeaten at home and will be seeking their 39th straight on their home court.

East Carolina, meanwhile, is led by the scoring of Sylvia Bragg, with a 13.4 average. Lisa Squirewell is hitting at 10.6 and is the only other player in double figures.

Anita Anderson, hitting 6.3 points a game, sat out the Georgia Tech game with the flu, but is expected to be ready to play against the Monarchs.

East Carolina trails in the series with the Lady Monarchs, 10-7. East Carolina's last victory, however, came in 1974, and ODU has won the last nine in a row.

ODU comes into the game following a 66-64 victory over Louisiana Tech, ranked number one in the last poll. The loss was the first for the Lady Techsters this year.

Squirewell was named to the ECAC-South honor roll for her play this past week. Squirewell, in two games, averaged 7.5 rebounds and 17.5 points, as the Pirates lost to East Tennessee, 68-58, and defeated Georgia Tech.

The Pirates will travel on to Washington, D.C., to face American University on Saturday and George Mason on Sunday. The latter is an ECAC-South game. The Mason game will be broadcast on the Pirate Sports Network, starting at 2 p.m.

Wake, State Take Wins

By The Associated Press
While 14th-ranked Wake Forest worked overtime — twice over — to outlast No. 13 Maryland, streaking North Carolina State went to the boards behind forward Lorenzo Charles for its seventh straight victory.

Danny Young and Chuck Kepley each nailed four free throws in the second overtime as the Demon Deacons beat the Terrapins 90-87 in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game Wednesday night.

Charles scored 23 points — 14 in the second half — to spark the Wolfpack to a 69-59 victory over Clemson in another ACC game.

In a nonconference game, Duke slipped by Harvard 89-86 as Johnny Dawkins scored a game-high 33 points — 23 in the first half.

The Demon Deacons' victory over Maryland was their third straight overtime triumph and their fifth of the season with a loss. Wake Forest, which has also beaten Virginia Tech, Marquette, Georgia Tech and Clemson in overtime, is now 16-4 overall and 5-4 in the ACC.

"I'm glad that we won our first overtime game because it led to our win in the second one, which led to our success in the third one, and so forth," Wake Forest coach Carl Tacy said.

Delaney Rudd's free throws with 20 seconds left in regulation gave Wake Forest a 73-71 lead, but Ben Coleman's tied it with seconds left to force the first overtime.

A pair of Jeff Adkins free throws gave the Terrapins an 81-75 edge with 1:13 left, but the Demon Deacons used a 6-0 spurt — the last two points on a Kenny Green tap-in with 11 seconds left — to bring on the second overtime.

Maryland led 82-81 when Young stole the ball from Terry Long and drove for the layup with 2:22 left.

Anthony Teachey added a free throw for an 84-82 lead. After Adkins connected from the free throw line with 37 seconds remaining, Young threw in two more for an 86-83 advantage with 22 seconds left.

Long scored with 14 seconds left, but Kepley hit four straight free throws in the last six seconds to seal the victory.

Young led Wake Forest with 22 points while Green added 17 and Rudd had 14. Teachey scored 11 and Mark Cline chipped in 10 for the Deacons.

Maryland coach Lefty Driesell didn't have much to say, primarily

First Gold Medals Are Awarded

Sectional Meet Set

The Northeastern Sectional Wrestling Championships will be contested Friday and Saturday at D.H. Conley High School.

Matches will get underway on Friday at 2 p.m., with the quarterfinals set for 7 p.m. Saturday, the semifinals will be held starting at noone, with the consolation at 2:30 p.m. The consolation championships will begin at 6:30 p.m. followed by the championships at 8 p.m.

The top four in eight of the 13 weight classes will advance to the regionals to be held next Saturday in Winston-Salem. The top four there move on to the state meet to be held the next weekend in Winston-Salem.

Friday, all first round losers are eliminated, after that, it is more or less a double elimination event.

Conley is the defending champion in the sectional, but last year's runner-up, West Carteret, winner of the Coastal Conference tournament and two other tournes, appears to be the favorite. Other top contenders are Northeastern champ Washington and Big East title winner Rocky Mount. Rose, Beddingfield, Plymouth, Havelock and Conley are also possible title contenders.

The top seeds, their record, and the area seeds are as follows:

101 — Joe Landen (Washington) 19-0; also David Farris (Conley) 11-0, and Patrick Kite (Rose) 6th.

108 — Danny Iwanicki (West Carteret) 20-0; also Jackie King (Conley) 12th; Chris Latham (Williamston) 15th, and Brian Stokes (Washington) 6th.

115 — Reginald Moore (Conley) 23-1; also Paul Michaelson (Rose) 6th, Wayne Cutler (Washington) 15th.

122 — Mike Stokes (Tarboro) 15-0. Stokes is a two-time defending state champion at 108 and 115. There has been only one other three-time state champ in the past ten years, Conley's Gary Harris. Other seeds are Kerry Farris (Conley) 6th and Ken Smith (Washington) 11th.

129 — Joey Powers (White Oak) 9-1; also Phil Harris (Washington) 4th; Mark Brewington (Rose) 6th, and Joel Maye (Conley), 11th.

135 — Paul Morton (White Oak) 16-0; also Shawn Hardy (Conley) 4th; Adam Levine (Rose) 7th; and Dwayne Satterthwaite (Washington) 12th.

141 — Lee Ferguson (Washington) 17-1; also Sherry Frank (Rose) 4th; Jeff Whitley (Williamston) 10th; and Martin Anderson (Conley) 11th.

148 — D.J. Fleming (Havelock) 18-0; also Kent Keyes (Washington) 5th; Scott Boyd (Conley) 9th; and Jeff Roberson (Rose) 13th.

158 — Mike Rose (Havelock) 20-0; also Ken Daniels (Rose) 15th.

170 — Jeff Newsom (West Carteret) 18-0; also Rob Jackson (Washington) 5th; and Alton Mobley (Conley) 14th.

188 — Stacy Bryant (Northeastern) 18-1; also Ricky Rice (Conley) 5th; John Szymczek (Washington) 8th; Brinson Green (Williamston) 13th; and John Nelson (Rose) 14th.

198 — Kent Glover (Hunt) 17-0; also Marvin Fleming (Rose) 6th; Gerald Harper (Conley) 7th; Mark Biddle (Washington) 11th, and Andy Eure (Williamston) 14th.

Hwt — Scotty Arnold (Jacksonville) 11-0; also Stacy McCarter (Conley) 2nd; Keith Griffin (Williamston) 3rd; Barry Lyons (Rose) 6th; and David Cuthrell (Washington) 7th.

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (AP) — East German speed skater Karin Enke and a Finnish cross-country skier won the first gold medals of the 1984 Winter Olympics today, while the U.S. ice hockey team had to duel one of the world's top teams in order to stay alive for medal contention.

Enke's time of 2 minutes 34.2 seconds in the 1,500 meters was a world record.

High winds and blowing snow forced postponement of the men's downhill ski event at Bjelasnica, where Bill Johnson of Van Nuys, Calif., was one of the favorites. The event was rescheduled for Friday.

Enke broke the world record of 2:04.04 by Soviet Natalya Petruseva and nearly matched her career best time of 2:03.40, which was at an unsanctioned meet and has not been recognized as a record. She also broke the Olympic record of 2:10.95, set by Annie Borchink of the Netherlands in 1980.

The silver medal went to teammate Andrea Schoene with 2:05.29. Petruseva was third at 2:05.78. Mary Docter of Madison, Wis., finished 14th in 2:12.14.

Enke, a 22-year-old student, said she "was more nervous before this race than at the World Championships before coming here. I might try for four gold medals here." The women also skate at distances of 500, 1,000 and 3,000 meters.

"I haven't made a decision whether to enter the 3,000 meters yet," she said. "I will decide that after the 1,000."

As expected, Marja-Liisa Hamalainen of Finland ran away with the women's 10-kilometer cross-country ski race, winning by a commanding 18 seconds. The defending World Cup overall champion was timed in 31:44.2. With the victory, her first medal in the Olympics, Hamalainen denied Raisa Smetanina of the Soviet Union a fourth Olympic gold medal.

Smetanina, 31, was second at 32:02.9, giving her a third Olympic silver medal. Norway's Brit Pettersen was third, 28.5 seconds behind the winner. Judy Rabinowitz Endstad of Fairbanks, Alaska, was the top American, finishing 27th in 34:35.1.

A tearful, yet smiling, Hamalainen said, "I worked for many years for this." She was so overcome by emotion that when asked how she felt, she could answer only: "It is hard for me to say."

Panthers Down Jaguars, 37-31

BETHEL — North Pitt High School rallied in the final quarter and gained a 37-31 Eastern Carolina Conference basketball victory over Farmville Central last night.

North Pitt's girls also came away with a win, taking a 50-44 win.

The Panthers pushed out into a 9-5 lead in the first period and held Farmville to a similar total in the second, scoring eight more themselves. That left the Panthers in front, 17-10, at the half.

Farmville tried to rally in the third period, outscoring the Panthers, 12-9, cutting the lead back to 26-22. But North Pitt rushed away in the final quarter, outscoring the Jaguars, 17-9, to win going away.

Linwood Harris led North Pitt's scoring with 15 points while Ronnie Barnes had 11 and Kent Hardy had 10 for Farmville.

The Panthers are now 5-5 in league play and 10-10 overall. Farmville falls to 0-9, 3-16.

North Pitt managed only a 10-9 lead in the first period of the girls game, and added just one to that in the second. That made it 23-21 at halftime. In the third period, however, North Pitt began to pull away, outscoring the Jaguars, 12-7. That gave the Panthers a 35-28 lead going into the last quarter. Both teams scored 15 points in that.

Delores Pittman led North Pitt with 16 points while Sudi Sharpe added 12. Joy Peaden led Farmville with 17 while Stephanie Newton had 14.

North Pitt climbs to 6-4 in the league and 12-8 overall. Farmville is now 3-6, 9-11.

Farmville Central plays host to Ayden-Grifton on Friday, while North Pitt is idle until Tuesday when it travels to South West Edgecombe.

Wake, State Win...

because he was late for his scheduled return flight to the Washington, D.C., area, and likely because his team blew a lead that could have ended the game in the first extra period.

"We had the game won five or six times, but still lost," Driessell said. "Wake Forest played hard, our kids played hard. That is all I have to say."

Adkins and Coleman led Maryland, 14-5 and 4-3, with 19 points, while Len Bias scored 18 and freshman Keith Gatlin had 17.

The Wolfpack stretched a 33-32 halftime lead to 40-33 early in the second half and never trailed, upping its record to 17-7 and 3-5.

Clemson dropped to 11-9 and 2-7.

N.C. State coach Jim Valano said his team wasn't "getting the ball inside the first half and we were a half-step slow on defense. We did a better job on the boards in the second half."

Charles hit six of eight shots from the floor in the second half to key the Wolfpack charge. He also pulled down a game-high 12 rebounds.

Clemson coach Bill Foster said Charles "beat us inside and his offensive rebounding was a key to the game."

The game marked the return of Clemson guard Vince Hamilton, who played for the first time since breaking his foot Jan. 26 against Georgia Tech. The senior led the Tigers with 15 points while Murray Jarman added 14.

Foster said Hamilton played well "considering he is coming off a broken foot and had to play a lot of minutes."

Freshman Russell Pierre scored 14 points and Terry Gannon added 12 points for N.C. State.

The Blue Devils traveled to Cambridge, Mass., looking for victory No. 18. But securing the triumph turned out to be a tough chore as the Crimson stayed close behind Joe Carrabino, who scored 30 points.

Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski said Harvard was "playing on a different level tonight. This is the hardest a team has played against us all year."

"I wouldn't say we were flat," he added. "That would detract from Harvard. But we weren't as hungry as we were for our ACC games."

Harvard coach Frank McLaughlin said his Crimson "played as well as we could possibly play. It's a tribute to Duke that they made their free throws down the stretch."

"I think we executed our game plan perfectly," he added. "We were just a little short on the score."

Harvard led most of the first half, opening up a nine-point lead — the biggest of the game — with five minutes left before cut the lead to 45-43 at halftime.

After Duke grabbed a 49-45 lead early in the second half, Harvard regained the lead at 52-51. Duke went back up 76-70 with just under nine minutes left as Mark Alarie scored 11 of his 23 points.

Harvard fought back to tie it 78-78 with 6:20 left, but David Henderson, who finished with 19 points, hit five straight foul shots in the final 46 seconds to give the Blue Devils, 18-5, the victory.

Bob Ferry added 20 points for Harvard while Ken Klutnicki chipped in 11 points.

Jackets Top Tigs, 57-52

ROANOKE RAPIDS — Roanoke Rapids and Williamston split a pair of Northeastern Conference basketball games played last night.

The Yellow Jackets outlasted the Tigers in the boys' game, 57-52, while the Williamston girls came away with a 50-38 victory.

In the boys' game, Roanoke Rapids eased ahead, 14-9, at the end of the first period. Williamston rallied in the second frame, 14-6, and pushed into a 23-20 lead at intermission.

The Yellow Jackets, however, came back in the third quarter to hold a 15-8 advantage, regaining the lead at 35-31. The Jackets outtraced the Tigers to the final horn, 22-21, to take the win.

Ricky Clayton led the Jackets with 14 points while Ed Tant and Jack Barber each had 11 and Kerr Putney had 10. Williamston was led by James Ward with 15 and Donnell Griffin with 14.

Williamston's girls took an 11-7 lead after one period, but couldn't shake Roanoke Rapids in the first half. The Jackets kept it close and trailed by 21-18 at intermission. In the third period, both teams scored 12 points, but in the final frame, the Tigers finally pulled away, 17-8, to take the win.

Kim Barnes led Williamston with 18 points while Timberley Rodgers had 13 and Shelly Harrington had 10. Lilly Horne led Roanoke Rapids with 14.

Williamston's boys are now 2-11 in the league and 4-11 overall. The Yellow Jackets are 3-11, 3-14. The Williamston girls are 2-11, 3-13, while Roanoke Rapids falls to 0-14, 0-17.

Williamston returns to action on Friday, hosting Roanoke.

trimming the lead down to 39-31. At one point, they had cut the lead to as little as six, 37-31 before Holman closed out the half with a couple of free throws.

In the second half, the Pirates kept their momentum. After the score reached 45-37, Robinson scored a three-pointer and Vanderhorst made a basket off the fast break to cut the lead to 45-42. Then, after Hutcheson scored again for Western, the Pirates scored eight in a row to take the lead for the only time in the game.

Battle and Jack Turnbull both hit to cut the lead to one, and Robinson scored on the fast break for a 48-47 lead. Battle followed, hitting off a rebound to give the Pirates a 50-47 margin.

But Hutcheson made a free throw and Holman came back with a basket to tie it up at 50-50 with 10:17 left in the game.

On the next trip down the court, Grady was fouled by Western — the seventh team foul — but no free throws were awarded. The Pirates then missed a shot and Holman was given a goal-tending call that put Western back up, 52-50.

East Carolina came back to tie it up five times over the remaining time left, missing a couple of chances to regain the lead.

The last time it was tied was at 62-62, but J.D. Dykstra's two free throws with 34 seconds left returned the lead to the Leathernecks. The Pirates ran the clock down, hoping for a tie or a three-point play to win, but Robinson missed with eight seconds to go, and Rich Resetch hit the first of the one-and-one to seal the victory.

Hutcheson finished the game with 22 points for the Leathernecks while Resetch had 17 and Holman added 13.

East Carolina was led by Vanderhorst with 18, while Robinson hit 13.

The loss drops the Pirates to 4-16 on the year. East Carolina will return to action on Saturday night, hosting William & Mary in an ECAC-South game at 7:30 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

Craven Rips Pitt, 119-74

NEW BERN — Craven Community College pulled away from Pitt Community College near the midpoint of the first half and went on to record a 119-74 basketball victory last night.

Pitt kept it close for the first seven or eight minutes, trailing only 19-14 at that point. But then, Craven ran off ten straight points and Pitt was never able to get back into the action after that. The Craven squad built up a 59-33 lead by the end of the first half.

Then, in the early minutes of the second half, Craven outscored Pitt, 15-3, and made any hope of a rally out of the question. Craven outscored Pitt, 60-41, in the second half to finish the rout.

Fernie Hyman led the way for Craven with 21 points, while the team placed a total of eight players in double figures.

Albert Brown led Pitt with 27 points, while William Rollins had 18, Earnest Hyman had 12 and Mark Barnett had 10.

The loss leaves Pitt with a 1-4 record. Pitt travels to Wilmington to meet Cape Fear on Saturday.

CRYPTOQUIP 2-9

XPH UPHI'G VWCYKHT XPHLCQHG LM
 ULLZQMV WCH PWKI YWZHT.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip - INDICTED CHAIRMAN OF FRUIT GROWERS' GROUP WAS IMPEACHED.
 Today's Cryptoquip clue: U equals C.

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Opening lead: Five of ♣.

British author Victor Mollo has delighted us over the years with his mythical Griffins Club and the characters who inhabit it. They are lorded over by the Hideous Hog, a very fine technical player who is not above taking every advantage he can of the less fortunate members.

Their exploits have been described in two books and hundreds of magazine articles. And a third book will soon be available in the United States - "You Need Never Lose At Bridge." Here is a typical example of the Hog in action.

The Hog, sitting West, heard Papa the Greek become declarer at four spades after the Walrus had opened the bidding with one heart. North's jump raise to three spades was about a king light. The opening lead was routine.

When two rounds of hearts went through, the Hog realized that to defeat the contract the defenders would need a trump trick and a diamond. The danger was that East, afraid of yielding a ruff and sluff, would shift to a diamond, which would allow declarer to pick up the suit.

Declarer ruffed the third heart, cashed the king of clubs and crossed to the ace. He led a trump to the ace and continued with the jack. To these two trump tricks West followed with the eight first and then the three. The Walrus won the second trump and led a fourth heart. Eventually, declarer had to yield a diamond for down one.

"Fortunately," explained the Hog, "that Walrus is eminently bamboozable, for though he knows precious little about bridge, he knows all about points, peters, echoes and signals of every sort. So all I had to do was play the eight of spades before the three, proclaiming three trumps and a desire to ruff. Thereupon, to promote my mythical nine of spades, he duly led a heart and all was well."

No Measuring Hunger In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The chairman of the President's Task Force on Food Assistance says he still can't measure how much hunger exists in the United States, even after holding hearings and eating meals with the needy.

James Clayburn LaForce told the Senate Budget Committee that a safety net of public and private efforts is essential, and there are 13 major federal programs.

"Any amount of hunger is too much and represents a serious social problem," he said.

LaForce said the task force found that program cuts in recent years have not cut participation among the most needy families.

MANY FARMS FOR SALE — Gov. Jim Hunt holds a newspaper as he speaks about the number of farms for sale in the state. Hunt, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, spoke on the plight of the farmer this morning at a press conference before making a campaign tour of other points in Greenville. Sees A Cost Of 300,000 Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lee Iacocca says the United States will lose 300,000 jobs if General Motors Corp. carries out a proposed joint venture with Toyota Motor Corp. Iacocca told the House subcommittee on energy and commerce Wednesday that the proposed joint venture was "patently illegal" and could have far-reaching implications if other domestic automakers follow

GM's lead and increase their imports to remain competitive in the small-car market. "By the time the rest of us get through following their (GM's) lead just to stay alive, U.S. auto plants are going to fall like dominoes," Iacocca said.

interest rates," he said.

Hunt said the number one committee he would strive to serve on in the Senate would be the Agriculture Committee, where he would "make friends ... for farmers of North Carolina."

Hunt said Helms will spend more in his re-election campaign this year than most people spend in running for president. He said he will "spend enough to do the job" but will "have to depend on our people to work extra hard this year. They know what this means to the people of North Carolina."

The governor, who is continuing to fight the proposed construction of the Gaston Lake pipeline to serve the water needs of the Virginia Beach area, said the Corps of Engineers "acted hastily and acted wrong" in approving the plan without an environmental impact statement. He said U.S. Rep. Walter B. Jones' bill to require such a statement should be supported. The state has filed suit to block the pipeline. Hunt said, contending that Virginia Beach has other alternatives for water service.

Hunt said he intends to propose a plan that will make "substantial increases in our commitment to education." He said the state's ranking of 33rd in the nation in the amount of funds spent per public school student in 1982-83 is "not as good as we want it to be." He said school programs should be strengthened, with teacher salaries raised as North Carolina "takes a giant step that will help us get our education system where it ought to be."

Might Abandon Idle Nuke Plant

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Long Island Lighting Co. will consider selling or even abandoning its controversial, $4 billion Shoreham nuclear power plant, the utility's new chairman says.

But while LILCO probably made a mistake in building the plant, whose operation has been put off by disputes over an evacuation plan, the utility will continue to put "strong emphasis" on nuclear power, William Catacosinos said Wednesday.

He said abandonment "has not been spoken about seriously." But a chief critic, Suffolk County Executive Peter Coahalan, said he was heartened on hearing for the first time that LILCO would even discuss the possibility.

Sierra Meeting

"The Garden of Eden," a film produced by the Nature Conservancy, will be shown at the Sierra Club meeting Monday at 8 p.m.

The film explores why protecting the genetic diversity of the world's plant and animal life is critical to our future. Earl Trevathan will introduce the film and discuss the work of the Nature Conservancy.

The Sierra Club meets at the First Presbyterian Church on 14th and Elm streets in Greenville and is open to the public.

Wooten Chosen

Atlas Wooten of Greenville has been re-appointed to the Tobacco Advisory Committee of the American Farm Bureau Federation according to Robert Delano, president of the national farm organization.

Wooten's committee will discuss issues and programs dealing with tobacco and make recommendations to the American Farm Bureau's board of directors for consideration in policy execution.

Young Democrats

The Pitt County Young Democrats will meet Monday at 7 p.m. at Archie's Restaurant to complete plans for the Feb. 16 Governor's Forum. Anyone between the ages of 18 and 35 interested in membership may attend.

Wilkerson Elected

DON WILKERSON

Donald M. "Don" Wilkerson of Greenville has been elected president of the American Heart Association of Pitt County.

A funeral director, Wilkerson is secretary of S.G. Wilkerson and Sons Inc. of Greenville, a member of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist church, a director of First Federal Savings and Loan Association, and has been active in the Rotary Club, the Greenville Jaycees and Little League.

Other officers for 1984 are Katherine Vinson, vice president, and Katherine Gray, secretary-treasurer.

Wilkerson said that, in addition to a regular program of blood pressure check for the general public, the Heart Association has a speakers' bureau available to provide resource persons for subjects related to health, and heart disease prevention and treatment. Persons wishing to acquire a speaker may call 752-2101.

Plays Scheduled

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department Youth Theater will present four one-act plays Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Jaycee Park auditorium.

The one-hour program will include "The Tortoise and the Hare Hit the Road," "Let's Hear it for Pied Piper," both spoofs of classic children's stories, and "Fair Today Followed by Tomorrow," a short comedy, and a pantomime with narration.

The performers are students in the Youth Theater under the direction of Andrea Croskery, assisted by Joseph White. Admission is free and refreshments will be served.

Council Meeting

The Pitt County Council on Alcoholism will meet at 7 p.m. tonight at the Willis Building, corner of First and Reade streets.

Representatives of several county agencies will talk about detoxification services for Pitt County. A resolution, concerning the need for a detoxification program for county citizens, to be presented to the County Commissioners will be considered for adoption. A scholarship fund will be established.

Senior Recital

Anita Dawn Thompson of Ahsokie, a student of Dr. Everett Pittman, will present her senior recital in piano at 9 p.m. Friday in the A.J. Fletcher Recital Hall on the East Carolina University campus. For her program, she has chosen Mozart's "Fantasie in C minor," Schumann's "Bunte Blatter, Opus 99," and Ginastera's "Suite de danzas criollas." This is a shared recital with Mary Beth Gillis.

Honor Students

Several students from Pitt County have been named to the dean's list for the fall semester at North Carolina State University. They include: (all A's) Edith Rand, Mark Schmidt, Heath Thomas and Anarita Weber, all of Greenville; (B plus or better average) Gregory Churchill, Donna Costner, David Davenport, Amy Gibbs, Bradley Griffin, Mark Morgan, Melanie Streeter and Lisa Whitlow, all from Greenville.

Other all A's: Shannon Carson, Winterville; Michael Corbett, Fountain; David Dunn, Farmville and John Edwards, Ayden.

Reward Offered

A $5,000 reward is being offered by the state of North Carolina for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for the murder of Willis Hubert Tripp of Greenville, Gov. Jim Hunt announced today.

Tripp, 67, was shot and killed at his service station on Memorial Drive Dec. 31, 1983. He was owner and operator of Tripp's Bypass Service Station.

Persons having information about the case should contact the Greenville Police Department or the State Bureau of Investigation.

Scholarship

Mary Ellen Wingate of Grifton has been awarded a $750 honors scholarship at Atlantic Christian College.

Miss Wingate is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B.A. Wingate of Route 3, Grifton, and is a senior at North Lenoir High School. She is a member of the National Honor Society, Science Club and French Club and belongs to the Rainbow for Girls.

Fund Drive

St. Timothy's Episcopal Church, located in Cherry Oaks in Greenville, has begun a major fund drive in preparation for the building of an education building. The 5,300-square-foot building is scheduled for completion in the fall of 1984.

New Professor

MARILYN E. MILLER

Marilyn E. Miller has joined the staff of East Carolina University as assistant director of library services. She will hold the faculty rank of assistant professor.

For the past five years, Mrs. Miller has been head of cataloging for Connecticut State Library in Hartford, Conn., and was previously assistant librarian and coordinator of technical services at North Shore Community College in Beverly, Mass.

She also served as assistant librarian and head of cataloging at Captain John Smith Library at Christopher Newport College in Newport News, Va.

Mrs. Miller holds the master of library science degree from Syracuse University School of Library Science with concentration in cataloging. She and her husband, Lamonte Miller, are making their home in Washington, N.C.

Participants

Four Greenville people recently took part in Inside/Out '84, a four-day seminar at Caswell Center in Kinston designed to have students and professionals experience life inside an institution for the developmentally disabled.

Among those taking part were Cheryl Muzzarelli and Suzanne Shelton, East Carolina University seniors; Linda Higby, an East Carolina University junior, and Robert Shelton, a member of the TEAACH (Training and Education for Autistic and Children with Communication Handicaps) program. They lived in housing units with mentally retarded residents and attended meetings with professionals in the field of retardation as well as the residents themselves.

Driver Injured

Two collisions investigated by Greenville police Wednesday injured one person and caused an estimated $5,800 damage, officers said.

Police said Kimberly Jean Spencer of 107B Cherry Court was injured when the car she was driving collided with a vehicle driven by James Cecil Clack II of 403 Oak St. about 11:40 p.m. at the intersection of Elm and Fifth streets.

Officers, who charged Ms. Spencer with failing to stop for a stop light, estimated damage at $1,500 to the Clark car and $3,000 to the Spencer vehicle.

'Cagney & Lacy' Returning On March 19

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Cagney & Lacy," the first canceled CBS show to be returned by popular demand, comes back on the schedule March 19. "CBS said they're doing this because of the avalanche of mail and because the press would not let the show go," said Barney Rosenzweig, the show's executive producer who orchestrated the campaign by badgering the network and talking to anybody who could pick up a pencil.

Harvey Shephard, CBS' senior vice president for programming, Wednesday announced the return date for the tough-talking cop show that is distinctive because women play the two crimefighters.

Tyne Daly, who won an Emmy award as best actress in a dramatic series for her work last season, and Sharon Gless, also nominated, will return in the major roles, along with the entire regular cast.

CBS also announced starting dates for three new programs, all comedies, which also have women in the starring roles.

Suzanne Pleshette will be featured in "The Suzanne Pleshette Show," beginning March 4. Miss Pleshette will play a hard-news reporter for a New York newspaper who reluctantly becomes a feature writer.

Susan Saint James and Jane Curtin are cast as divorced women and mothers who share a household, in "Kate & Allie," starting March 19. Lila Kaye plays a Brooklyn grandmother with her own cooking show in "Mama Malone," which debuts March 7.

"Cagney & Lacy" was canceled after the 1982-83 season for the TV crime of lackluster ratings. The show ranked 55th among the 99 prime-time series.

Even so the show made money for the network because it drew a strong audience among women, making it attractive to advertisers, said David Poltrack, CBS' vice president for research.

"Its core audience, women 25 to 54, is the most saleable demographic segment," said Poltrack. "Now, by playing off the publicity and press attention, maybe some new people will try the show."

The show, which will return to its old 10 p.m. EST Monday time slot, also did better than its replacement, "Emerald Point, N.A.S."

"It was a show we were always proud of, even though its performance was disappointing," said Shephard. "The public's reaction to the cancellation was so intense we felt the show deserved another chance. It generated a lot of publicity, and we thought it was a worthwhile gamble."

Shephard said the last time a network was swayed by public opinion was for ABC's 1962 series, "The Law and Mr. Jones." That reprieve lasted six months.

Rosenzweig said the renewal is for seven episodes, which will give CBS enough time to test the show's strength for possible fall renewal. "All we have to do is not fail," he said.

Miss Daly said Chris Cagney and

Mary Beth Lacey offered two of TV's few realistic, self-sufficient women. "Television is supposed to reflect society back on itself," she said. "And I see very little of some images."

Miss Gless said her next victory would be the day she can do a scene from behind the bathroom stall, "like they do on 'Hill Street Blues.'"

TV Dials Nearing Saturation Point

By NORMAN BLACK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Slowly but surely, the TV dial in the nation's largest cities is becoming saturated. The Federal Communications Commission, in a report released Wednesday, found only 23 commercial channels out of 706 assigned to the 100 largest cities that were still vacant and unapplied for as of June 30, 1983.

While the commission said a precise comparison was impossible because of a change in tabulation procedures, the FCC had counted at least 31 such vacant channels in the top-100 markets six months earlier on Dec. 31, 1982.

The report also shows the majority of the vacant and unapplied-for commercial channels are located in markets 51-to-100 and not in the very biggest cities. Of the total 23 vacant channels, only seven — all of them UHF channels between 14-and-69 on the dial — are located in the top 50 markets.

VHF, or very high frequency, stations broadcast on channels 2-to-13 and have always been more attractive than UHF, or ultra high frequency, stations. That is because VHF stations require much less power to transmit a strong signal and most TV sets display a better VHF signal.

Despite the broadcast industry's preference for VHF stations, however, the report shows the demand for TV stations is such that even UHF channels are becoming scarce. The agency had counted 11 vacant UHF channels in the top 50 markets as of Dec. 31, 1982, compared to the seven tabulated in the latest report.

The new report also shows the industry's growth is not restricted to just the top 100 cities. There were only 29 vacant commercial channels out of 358 allocated to markets ranked 101-to-200 in size as of last June, down from 47 counted on Dec. 31, 1982.

Nationwide, including all markets up to 225th in size, the FCC counted 129 vacant and unapplied for channels out of a total 1,335 allocated. As of Dec. 31, 1982, the agency had counted 192 vacant channels.

George Peppard Injured On Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — George Peppard needed eight stitches when he cut his back in a fall from a truck during filming of "The A-Team," but the 55-year-old actor got right back on the job, a series spokeswoman says.

The fall occurred Feb. 2 when the Stephen Cannell Productions team was shooting a scene in Valencia, spokeswoman Cheryl Kagan said Wednesday.

"He was stitched up in his trailer by a doctor from a nearby hospital and came right back to the set as if nothing had happened," she said.

Peppard was standing on some oil drums as the truck was being positioned for shooting and fell when the truck came too close to a building, she said.

To add to his troubles, the actor was knocked out of action two days later by the flu and missed the last three days of filming, she said.

Nixon Visits The Magic Kingdom

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Former President Richard Nixon has been touring the Magic Kingdom and Epcot Center at Walt Disney World on what's described as a "real casual visit."

"He's just out there on his own with his children and grandchildren having a good time," said Disney spokesman Gary Hallman.

Park officials said Nixon, his wife Pat, their two daughters and three grandchildren checked into Disney's Contemporary Hotel on Tuesday.

Mrs. Nixon spent much of Wednesday on other activities while her husband and the others enjoyed the rides and exhibits at both theme parks, Hallman said.

Nixon's daughters, Julie Eisenhower and Tricia Cox, had their children in tow but weren't accompanied by their husbands, he said.

Opposite Views With Maturity

NEW YORK (AP) — The Gary David Goldberg of the 1960s would probably picket the Gary David Goldberg of the 1980s for his more conservative convictions, including his position on teen-age sex, the subject of tonight's episode of "Family Ties."

The NBC comedy, about a flower-generation couple from a '60s now raising three young Republicans, mirrors the executive producer's real life. A former University of California-Berkeley radical and self-described "outlaw," Goldberg says his new outlook was shaped by his family and the responsibility he feels as a broadcaster.

"It's a surprise how, on many of today's issues, I've done a complete 180 (degree turn) and now find myself the strongest proponent of the other side," said Goldberg.

Electric Consumers Win One In The House

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — In another blow to the nuclear and electric industries, the House is rejecting a notion that consumers should be billed on a pay-as-you-go basis to help pay for uncompleted new power plants.

With $100 million in higher electric rates already at stake and billions of dollars more looming over the horizon, the House voted 288-113 Wednesday night to overturn recent government regulations allowing the increases.

Whether the Republican-controlled Senate will go along is doubtful. Two similar bills have been introduced there but both have languished for months in the Energy Committee and not even a hearing has been scheduled.

The new regulations, adopted last June by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and endorsed by the Reagan administration, allow utilities to bill consumers for half of the financing costs of a new power plant as it is being built.

That change, long sought by the nuclear and electric industries, reversed two traditional government regulatory principles:

—Consumers should not have to pay for a new power plant until they are actually getting electricity from it.

—Stockholders, rather than consumers, should bear the risks of building new power plants.

With 100 nuclear plant cancellations in the past decade, high interest rates, construction times of seven to 14 years and much more vigorous enforcement of safety regulations, utilities contended those risks have become just too great for them to bear alone.

Rep. Carlos Moorhead, R-Calif., who unsuccessfully led the opposition to the House-passed bill, called the FERC-approved changes "a necessary response to some very real problems in the utility industry."

Without such help, he said, utilities will be unable to raise the capital to build new plants to meet future electric needs.

Rep. Dan Coates, R-Ind., said Congress shouldn't pass laws that preclude growth. "That might not be the intent of this bill, but it could be the effect," he said.

Supporters, however, called their bill "the most important piece of consumer legislation we'll handle this year" and said the FERC policy would only encourage utilities to build more unneeded power plants.

"It makes it much easier to finance a plant that in fact may be imprudent," Rep. Richard Ottinger, R-N.Y., said of the commission's decision to include part of the cost of "construction work in progress" — CWIP — in electric rates. "Consumers could end up bearing the burden for a canceled plant."

Industry figures show that the 100 abandoned nuclear plants alone, not including dozens of coal-fired power plants also canceled the past decade, consumed more than $10 billion in construction costs before they were dropped.

"If you look at recent history, in each instance the utilities and the government have over-estimated the need for new generating capacity," said Rep. Sam Gejdenson, D-Conn.

The House-approved bill and the FERC regulations apply to only about 10 percent of the nation's utilities — those with wholesale rates set by the federal government.

But consumer groups and the utility industry expect the federal policy to become the prevailing precedent for state regulators in deciding how retail rates should be adjusted to reflect the cost of building new power plants.

The American Public Power Association, which represents municipally owned retail electric distributors, calculated that consumer bills across the nation could rise by $6.5 billion a year if all 50 states followed FERC's lead.

If they do not, Gejdenson predicted Wednesday night, the utilities will form "seven giant holding companies nationwide" to take over ownership of the power plants in order to come under federal rather than state regulation.

Twenty-seven states now allow some level of CWIP in their rates to help utilities cover their construction costs. But three of them — California, Ohio and Idaho — are considering repealing or further restricting it.

Since the new regulations were adopted last June, 10 utilities in 14 states have filed construction-related rate increases with FERC totaling $101 million.

The states in which consumers are affected by those actions are Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Kansas, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Kentucky, South Carolina, New York and California.

20 years ago tonight, Ed Sullivan introduced the Beatles to America — and the first "British Invasion" was on. It peaked on June 19, 1965. Joining the Beatles on the charts that week were the Yardbirds, Donovan, and the Rolling Stones. The second and current "Invasion" eclipsed the first on July 16, 1983, when 18 singles of British origin were in the American Top 40. Among those were two holdovers from 1965 — the Rolling Stones and the Kinks.

DO YOU KNOW — What British town is known as the birthplace of the Beatles?

WEDNESDAY'S ANSWER — Edward White made the first "spacewalk."
