City Council To Proceed With Cemetery Project

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Despite reservations expressed by some members of the City Council, the board voted Monday to honor the commitment of a previous council to pursue the purchase of land for the development of another municipal cemetery.

The council authorized City Manager Gail Meeks to purchase for $132,000 about 20 acres located on the south side of Mumford Road across from the Greenville Utilities operations center.

Several years ago, a committee was appointed to look into the cemetery situation and a group of black morticians met with the committee to discuss the matter, particularly the declining number of lots available in Brown Hill Cemetery. Following a study, the city manager was authorized to find property suitable for a cemetery and to make a recommendation to the council.

Present Council members Stuart Shinn, M.W. Aldridge and Louis Clark said Monday that while they questioned the city spending money to remain in the cemetery business, they would honor the earlier commitment.

Clark recalled that he expressed previously his feelings that the city should not be in the cemetery business.

"Do we need to commit this much money at this time?" asked Shinn.

Aldridge said he felt the earlier council made a mistake in pursuing the matter but since it went ahead and authorized Ms. Meeks to find the property, the present board had no choice but to honor the commitment.

Ms. Meeks said the owner of the

Pitt Commissioners To Study Funding Of Tobacco Museum

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners told representatives of the county committee for America's Four Hundredth Anniversary celebration Monday that the board would consider allocating money toward the establishment of a tobacco museum in the 1984-1985 budget.

Gladys Howell, chairman of the anniversary celebration committee, said North Carolina's observance will begin July 13, the 400th anniversary of the arrival of the first ship from England, and end in August 1987 on the anniversary of the birth of Virginia Dare, the first child born to English settlers on Roanoke Island.

Mrs. Howell, appointed by Gov. Jim Hunt to chair Pitt's anniversary committee, told the commissioners, plans call for a log cabin at the Village of Yesteryear at the Pitt County Fairgrounds to be renovated and turned into a permanent tobacco museum as "our main project." But Mrs. Howell said "we need financial resources to follow through on it."

Harry Leslie, the committee's fund-raising chairman, pointed out the "vital part" tobacco has played in the heritage of the county and said the committee's budget for the three-year celebration amounts to some $24,950, of which $15,600 has been allocated for renovation of the building and installation of exhibits.

Saying contributions to the committee are tax-deductible, Leslie then asked the board to fund "10 percent of the overall budget," which would amount to about $2,500.

Board Chairman Robert L. "Bob" Martin, saying commissioners "certainly agree with the project," told Mrs. Howell and Leslie that commissioners would consider the request when the new budget is adopted.

Mrs. Howell, who said East Carolina University has been "extremely helpful" in the committee's activities so far, said work on the renovation of the building to house the museum will be done by ECU students as a class project beginning in the fall.

Dr. David Ames of the Pitt County Mental Health Center, reporting on alcohol detoxification efforts, told commissioners that Pitt County Memorial Hospital officials are considering setting aside a number of beds for the treatment of alcoholics.

Pointing out that 450 alcoholics were admitted to PCMH last year for treatment, Ames said the only change at the hospital would be that the patients would be grouped together in one area.

Ames said an in-hospital unit would complete a pilot program which includes the operation of a clinic seven days a week to help alcoholics, home visits and foster care for short periods of time for alcoholics who cannot return home immediately.

Although no formal action was taken Monday, commissioners gave tentative approval to leasing of a 2.5-acre site behind the Greenville Villa nursing home to Children's Services of Eastern Carolina, a non-profit group which will build and operate a Ronald McDonald House on the site.

The house, which is expected to cost $500,000, will provide low-cost lodging for families of children undergoing treatment at PCMH and at the ECU School of Medicine.

Iowa Victory For Mondale

By EVANS WITT
AP Political Writer

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Walter F. Mondale says his "perhaps spectacular" victory in Iowa will help convince Democrats that he is the man to defeat Ronald Reagan, but his opponents for the nomination say they will be ready for him next week in New Hampshire.

Sen. John Glenn, whose claim to be Mondale's prime challenger sank under the weight of a fifth-place finish, said, "We took a licking tonight but we are on to New Hampshire ... I hope we do much better than we did in Iowa. Obviously, we won't do much worse."

Mondale scheduled a quick trip to the Granite State today. Others were already at work there, preparing for the first-in-the-nation primary Feb. 28.

After the dimensions of his Iowa caucus victory became clear Monday night, former vice president Mondale told reporters:

"I think I'm going to be nominee and I think this win here in Iowa strengthens me considerably," said Mondale. "Tonight is the beginning of the end of the Reagan administration. Let the word go out from Iowa to the nation — to all Americans who want a safer world, I am on your side."

Iowa Republicans held caucuses as well on Monday, but Reagan had no opposition for renomination. To rally his troops and beat up on the Democrats, Reagan came to Iowa on Monday for his first political trip since he announced.

Mondale's victory was lopsided and long expected. Television networks projected his triumph while the caucuses were still under way, prompting an outraged state chairman, David Nagel, to complain that they had interfered with the process.

Mondale nearly shut out his opponents in the fight for national convention delegates. He took nearly half the raw vote at the 2,495 precinct meetings and led for 48 of 50 nominating delegates. Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado, whose second-place finish gives him a claim to be Mondale's top challenger, won two delegates.

"It will be a big boost. It will add additional energy to our effort here," Hart told supporters in Manchester, N.H. "Hopefully, it does turn this into a Hart-Mondale race ... It sets up a contest between the party's future and its past."

George McGovern, starting late and spending little here, finished a surprising third and called it a "minor miracle."

"A great many Iowa voters ... voted their convictions and voted their conscience," said the party's 1972 standardbearer.

With the New Hampshire primary only eight days away, Mondale said the Iowa results stand as a "recommendation to the rest of the nation" to support him.

Iowa will send a total of 58 of the 3,933 delegates to the Democratic National Convention in San Fran-

Extended School Program Said Gaining Momentum

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

A new Extended School Program (ESP) established at Rose High School in January is gaining momentum, with 25 students currently enrolled in the program.

Ann Harrison, director of exceptional children programs and pupil personnel, along with two of the persons working in the new program, Joe Godette Jr. and Drew Perry, presented a status report on the program to the city school board at its action meeting Monday night.

Funded by a federal grant under the Joint Training Partnership Act, the program, according to Godette, is capable of accommodating 35 to 40 students.

Basically, the ESP is designed for dropouts and potential dropouts in the 16-21 age bracket. It now is limited to financially disadvantaged and handicapped persons. Mrs. Harrison said it may be extended later to include those needing assistance regardless of financial or physical status. Those taking part must begin before their 22nd birthday, but can continue past that age if already in the program.

"Most of those enrolled now are in the 18 and older group," Godette noted.

To form a beginning class, a list of 90 students, known dropouts and a smaller number of potential dropouts was drawn up, with students and their families contacted to determine interest in the program.

Classes are held at Rose from 4 to 7 p.m. to permit working students to be able to continue at work and attend classes after work hours. At this point, the program is based on two components — academic and work-oriented training. The academic portion offers English and math; the work-oriented portion includes training in basic working skills.

Those heading the program are coordinating with prospective employers in the community for job placement and training.

Dropouts from Pitt County schools are also eligible for the program. Mrs. Harrison reported that applicable county schools have been informed and provided details on the program.

On the subject of merger of the Greenville and Pitt County schools, city school Superintendent reported

"at this time we have completed our assigned task. We have taken our presentation to the Research Triangle Institute study to all interested groups in the community, talked to people, held public hearings."

A motion by Frank Grooms was approved which asks that Dr. Blinson return to the board with a resolution encompassing appropriate action for each of the three proposed alternatives covered in the RTI report.

Action was tabled on the second reading of the fund-raising activities policy for the city schools to give board members an opportunity to consider a suggested revision. Director of Education Charles Ross reported that in meetings with PTA officers, the crucial issue in the proposed policy centered on the wording of the policy dealing with students in grades K-7 taking part in "fund-raising activities in which they would be selling items or soliciting contributions, pledges, or

Supreme Court Backs N.C. Desegregation Proposals

By JAMES H. RUBIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, rejecting a challenge by blacks, today left intact a Reagan administration agreement with North Carolina officials to desegregate the state's four-year colleges.

The justices, without comment, refused to hear arguments by lawyers who previously called the agreement a "civil rights sellout."

The agreement, aimed at concluding a 14-year dispute, was accepted by a federal judge in North Carolina in 1981.

Contending that the plan was inadequate to eliminate segregation, however, the NAACP Legal Defense Fund and black students from North Carolina schools sought to reopen the case before a federal judge in the District of Columbia.

Joseph L. Rauh Jr., chief counsel for the challengers, said in 1981 that the agreement was "the worst civil rights sellout of the Reagan administration thus far."

He said the agreement permitted North Carolina "to keep a segregated system of higher education" 2 years after the Supreme Court declared segregation unconstitutional.

But last June, the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here blocked the challengers from reopening their suit, first filed in 1970 against the federal government and not against the state.

Allowing such a suit now "would disturb the fundamental balance our rules of procedure strike, not only between courts and executive agencies, but also among the powers of coordinate federal tribunals," the appeals court said.

The 1981 settlement put an end to the possibility, raised by the previous Carter administration, of a cutoff of $90 million in federal aid to 16 North Carolina colleges.

Cabbage Patch Kid Clothes Can Cost More Than Owners'

By BILL McCLOSKEY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If your child has a Kid, the Kid's clothes could well cost more than your child's.

Xavier Roberts, creator of Cabbage Patch Kids — the doll that took the country by storm at Christmas — has come up with a set of clothes for the stuffed dolls. The clothes retail for $7.84 to $11.99.

Sears, Roebuck and Co., sells the same clothes for living, breathing humans of approximately the same size for prices ranging from $3.99 to $11.00.

Don't try to cheat and buy your Cabbage Patch Kid clothes in the infants department of your local department store. "Kids" and children are proportioned differently.

Marsha Mendenhall, a clerk in the doll section of Toys-R-Us, in Rockville, Md., said the Cabbage Patch Kid clothes are "just like clothes for infants and they come with a monogram."

Kathleen McNamara, a merchandise associate at the Woodward & Lothrop department store in Chevy Chase, Md., said, "A lot of kids (the human kind) come in to buy clothes for their dolls, but they don't fit. They just hang off them."

She also says most infant clothes are much better made than doll clothes. "Some doll clothes won't stand up to two washings, they just fall apart."

And the dolls can't walk, crawl or climb," she added. She acknowledged, however, that dolls do "get dragged around a lot."

Ms. McNamara was talking about doll clothes in general. She hadn't seen the Cabbage Patch clothes.

Toys-R-Us sells Cabbage Patch "casual wear" for $7.84. The line includes pajamas, a vest, a pants and jacket set and a two-piece terry cloth ensemble.

For $11.97 at the same store you can get outfits that include socks and cloth shoes with cardboard soles. Dresses, jogging suits and sleepers come in this price range.

Mary Lanier, a sales clerk at Sears in Washington, D.C., said sleepers there range in price from $5.99 to a Winnie-the-Pooh model for $9.99. She said Sears had jogging suits for infants on display for $6.99 to $7.99 and pajamas for as little as $3.99.

Hecht's, another Washington department store, advertised a special on their least expensive "playwear for newborns" at $2.98.

There is a low-cost solution for the Cabbage Patch Kid who needs wardrobe additions.

A Norcross, Ga., firm has prepared a book of patterns, including those for a dress, panties, pants, a knit top, shirt, cap and shoes. The book, which sells for $5, says by mixing and matching materials, a Cabbage Patch owner can have "countless variations."

The pattern book has been on the market only since the end of January, but Joanna Spong of Plaid Enterprises says it is "selling very well so far."

You can get the clothes, but is Christmas 1983's most elusive gift readily available? No, at least not at Toys-R-Us. "We haven't had any in two weeks," Mendenhall said. "They still sell out almost as soon as they come in."

Creative Writing Contest Has April Deadline

The Greenville Woman's Club will have its annual author's tea at the club house May 11 when awards will be presented in the Creative Writing Contest. The deadline for mailing entries this year is April 15.

Awards will be given in grades one through six for poetry and stories. In grades seven through nine, awards will be presented for poetry, stories and essays. The categories for adults are lyric poem, essay and short story. Categories open for anyone and any age are story based on Pitt County history, best children's poem, best story for children under eight, best sonnet and one-act play.

All entries should be typed, double spaced and signed by a pen name. Two copies of each entry should include the following information: correct name, school, grade, teacher, address, telephone number and pen name. Adults entries should include name, address, telephone number and pen name.

Entries should be sent to Mrs. J.L. Savage, P.O. Box 178, Greenville, 27834.

The author's tea will be held 3-5 p.m.

Beth Winstead Is DAR Speaker

Beth Winstead, chapter vice regent, was speaker at the meeting of the Susanna Coutanch Evans Chapter DAR held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Robert Daniel.

Speaking on "The Blue Christmas Ribbon," she related how and why the National Society had its beginning, its first six president generals and their accomplishments.

Janet McGlohan was welcomed as a new member of Mrs. Everett Ballengee, chapter chaplain.

Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mrs. D.W. Johnson and Mrs. Lee Williams were elected to the nominating committee.

Mrs. Winstead gave the president general's message and Dr. Lois Staton gave the national defense report. It was reported that Mayor Janice Buck had signed a proclamation declaring February American History Month.

Mrs. Donald C. McLane Jr., regent, said Mrs. Winstead will be the personal page of Mrs. Albert J. Potter, state regent, at the state conference in Pinehurst in March. Mrs. McLane will serve on the conference reading committee and at Continental Congress, will serve on the house committee.

Will Contract For Life Encourage Drinking?

DEAR ABBY: I was very disappointed to see you praise the "Contract for Life," an agreement signed by parents and their teen-aged children in an effort to reduce the number of deaths involving drunk drivers.

I totally disagree with this contract, which in reality gives the teen-ager who signs it permission to drink, and obligates the parents to pick up their child at any hour, any place — with no questions asked.

If my teen-ager called me at 3 in the morning from an hour's drive away to say he was smashed out of his mind and needed a ride home, I would tell him to stay where he was until he sobered up, and then take a bus home!

First of all, teen-agers are too young to drink, so why don't they sign a contract saying, "I promise not to drink?"

This so-called "Contract for Life" will not cut down on drunk driving; it will only increase teen-age drinking because they know their parents will provide taxi service for them if they are too drunk to drive.

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU

DEAR FIL AND MIL: Thanks. It's better than nil.

FHA Banquet Held Thursday

The North Pitt High School Chapter of Future Homemakers of America sponsored its annual parent daughter-son banquet Thursday evening.

Honored guests, welcomed by Angie Moore, FHA president, included Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Potter Jr., Hilda Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Ferrall Blount and Kathryn Lewis.

Director of the Rural Education Institute, Mrs. Lewis was keynote speaker. She told of five guidelines to follow in order to make a positive difference in one's life including: efficient use of time; believing in oneself; following dreams; having faith in oneself as well as others; and being able to laugh at oneself.

Entertainment was provided by Marty Warren, a student at North Pitt.

The Western Sizzlin' banquet room was decorated in the national FHA colors of red and white. Parents were presented a long-stemmed red rose.

Guests included parents, students, teachers and special guests.

At Wits End

By Erma Bombeck

As television viewers, there are few things anymore that make our blood run cold and cause the hairs on our arms to frost over.

The following story will do it. A housewife and mother from Maryland walked into her home with her two young daughters and within seconds the door she entered closed again. She thought it was the wind.

As she viewed a large, sharp knife on the table she thought she must have left it out and chalked it up to forgetfulness. As she walked down the hall, she grew angry because obviously her son had thrown a large candle and put hole in the wall.

"Here dog, come on girl," she called. No dog appeared. (She was later found cowering behind the toilet bowl.) Then she noticed her jewelry box was missing. Finally, it hit her. They had been robbed. Now, here comes the bad part.

"I got over the burglar and the police seeing our unmade beds," she wrote. "I lived with them checking for fingerprints on slightly dusty furniture. Even the hole in the wall was easily repaired. But the thing I will never get over is the time it took me to convince the officers that the children's rooms were not ransacked. They kept telling me that the insurance company would come in and put the rooms back in order. It was tempting, but I just couldn't lie. They always looked like that!"

What woman reading this account has not had nightmares about dying and having the neighbors come in and see her corroded oven and dust balls so big they look like they've been fed? I've known women who have put off their hysterectomies until their wax build-up was under control.

It reminds me of a story told to me by a Norwegian captain of a cruise ship on which I was traveling. He said he came from a small seaport in Norway that was a haven for a fleet of warships during world War II. It was an absolute mess. A real eyesore. Somehow, there was never time to restore order to it. One night they decoded a message from the enemy giving orders to bomb it. The reply from the reconnaissance plane was, "It's already been hit!"

I have plans for one of the scariest novels ever to hit the literary world. It's the story of a woman with three teenagers who is trying to sell her house. The night after the party for 300 half-crazed football fans, the realtor calls to bring by the only real prospect in the country who can get a loan. Will she get the toilet paper off the shrubbery in time? Will she get the tire marks off the entryway wallpaper? Will she rescue the dog from the TV antenna?

Eat your heart out, Stephen King!

Stewart, Jordan In Near 'Tie'

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Former state House Speaker Carl Stewart and state Sen. Bob Jordan are nearly even in the Democratic race for lieutenant governor in North Carolina, according to a newspaper poll.

But the largest chunk of voters surveyed are undecided, according to The Charlotte Observer poll.

Stewart, of Gastonia, was the choice of 24 percent of the 677 registered Democrats contacted, the newspaper reported in today's editions. Jordan, a lumber company executive from Montgomery County, was chosen by 21 percent — a difference of less than the sample's 3.8 percent margin of error.

About 47 percent of those surveyed said they were undecided on who they would vote for if the election were held today.

The poll was conducted Feb. 11-17 and was weighted to reflect the opinion of those most likely to vote in the May 8 primary.

Stephen Miller of Fayetteville, who is running as a representative of the Ku Klux Klan, was the choice of 2 percent of those surveyed while 3 percent named other candidates or no candidate. Three percent refused to answer the question.

In an election season clogged with Democratic primaries for president and governor, the race for lieutenant governor apparently has yet to grab voters' attention. Neither candidate managed more than 50 percent in name recognition, with Stewart's name recognized by 49 percent of those responding to the poll and Jordan's by 48 percent.

"I do believe the poll is accurate and reflects the internal polling we're doing. I do think this race will go down to the wire," Stewart said Monday.

Stewart said he is not concerned that the poll showed that fewer than half of those contacted recognized his name even though he, and not Jordan, has run a statewide race. Stewart narrowly lost to Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green in 1980.

"It may be unusual," Stewart said. "We have not spent very much, and Bob has done quite a bit of direct mail."

"I'm not so much worried about name recognition on a broad poll sampling as I am about marshalling votes from my traditional sections of voters — women, educators, working people and others," he said.

Jordan could not be reached for comment, but campaign coordinator John Bode said the poll heartened him.

"We are very pleased," Bode said. "We have not run statewide before, and we're still as good as Stewart. Any recognition out there is the result of grass-roots work."

Bode agreed the race would be close, saying, "We have felt all along our fund-raising efforts will help us with that."

Persinger Honored

ROSS PERSINGER

AYDEN — Mayor Ross Persinger was presented the 1983 Citizen of the Year Award Monday night by the Ayden Council of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce.

The presentation was made by last year's winner, J.J. Brown.

Persinger has served as mayor or town commissioner for the past 20 years. He has worked with the chamber of commerce on the economic and industrial development council and is former president of the Mid-East Commission.

The council heard its guest speaker, the Rev. Willis Wilson, minister at the Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church, speak on volunteerism. Board chairman Marvin Baldree gave the 1983 annual report and presented awards to the volunteer leadership.

The chairman's message was given by Billy Nobles, incoming chairman of the board.

Starting Point

Pitt County Commissioners have given a green light to preliminary planning for the first phase of a $10 million building program at Pitt Community College. According to college officials, the proposed project still would only meet the needs of PCC's current enrollment.

But it is a start for the school, which has seen available classroom and campus space grow progressively more inadequate as its enrollment climbed.

The only solution, other than building or buying new facilities, would be drastic curtailment of PCC's new admissions.

PCC, now 12th largest in the state's community college system, has filled a major void in academic and vocational training in eastern North Carolina. Its potential really is unlimited, so long as adequate funding can be arranged.

The Board of County Commissioners, in agreeing to work out funding for this project, recognized PCC's value to this area. Now comes the task of paying for that value, and that will be a job for everyone in Pitt County.

Thinking Ahead

The way of big power politics continues to mystify.

All of a sudden, the oversized Grenada airport that the United States only a short time ago viewed as a Cuban military threat — and Grenadians insisted was to make the island paradise more available to trade and tourism — is now seen as a good idea by the U.S.

There is talk of investing "at least" $15 million to finish the project. (And if we know the ways of government, it will be considerably more.)

If things follow the usual pattern, the change of heart in Washington will lead Cubans to brand the airstrip as a military facility posing a threat to peace in the area.

Washington should start thinking of some snappy comebacks now, instead of later.

Buying Energy

NEW YORK (AP) — All it takes is a Washington's birthday sale to demonstrate the eagerness of consumers to buy up an economic storm.

But that storm could be a real one rather than just a figure of speech that suggests robust activity. Rather than signifying an economic picnic, it could be interpreted as a warning bolt of lightning.

You can look at it either way. Economists are always doing that.

The picnic is that consumers, buoyed by a rise in personal income, seem to be making up for many months of bad times, when they were actually in a recession or else worried so much they didn't dare buy.

Now the consumer is feeling strong, and the strength can be measured in many ways.

At the University of Michigan, for example, researchers report that consumer optimism and confidence hasn't been as favorable for so long since a peak was reached in 1972.

From the Commerce Department comes a report that January retail sales vaulted 2.2 percent higher than those of December. And from the Federal Reserve comes the word that consumer credit expanded a record $6.6 billion in December.

But if you listen to the pundits — and even some of the consumers — and if you attempt to pick up signals from the Federal Reserve Board, you might find it less easy to enjoy the picnic.

For one thing, the consumption is not being matched by domestic production. Much of what people are buying is coming in from abroad, which is another way of saying that jobs and production are being exported.

In short, the benefits from the surge of consumer spending are more short range than long range. Consumer spending isn't boosting the country's productive might as it would if there were fewer imports.

The problem isn't simply that American companies are poor exporters. More to the point is that the American dollar has such a high valuation, in part because of America's energetic economy, that export deals are hard to make.

The reason is that dollar-denominated American goods are priced high in the world economy, and the goods of other countries are priced relatively lower. It is therefore difficult for Americans to export, but very easy to import.

Conceding that economists will always find reasons to worry, the other big concern is about interest rates.

Because of the federal budget deficit, Uncle Sam already is into the banks and the general public for nearly $200 billion. That's okay, they say, so long as other parts of the economy aren't borrowing at the same high rate.

But what happens, the economists ask, when the two other categories — consumer and business — begin to impose their demands on a limited supply of funds? Will there be sufficient funds for all? Or will interest rates rise?

Those questions are, perhaps, the very ones now being asked by the stock market, which has been in a sinking spell for several weeks. Consumer borrowing is rising. And business spending shows signs of accelerating.

The Fed seems to be worried, and so in fact do the very consumers who are buying up the storm. While the Michigan survey shows confidence high for the short term, it also shows diminished prospects for a long-lasting recovery.

"The repeated cycles of recession and recovery during the past decade have not been forgotten, even in the current mood of optimism," according to the latest Michigan survey, issued last week.

Court Takes Up 'Exclusionary Rule'

WASHINGTON — The badly burned body of Sandra Boulware, 29, was found in a vacant lot in the Roxbury section of Boston about 5 o'clock on the morning of Saturday, May 5, 1979. She had been murdered. Almost five years later the U.S. Supreme Court is struggling with the case of the man found guilty of killing her.

The case offers one more example of the "exclusionary rule" in action. This is the procedural rule, supported by 80 years of high court opinions, which says that certain evidence against a defendant must be excluded from a jury's consideration. Such evidence is inadmissible if it has been obtained in violation of a defendant's Fourth Amendment right to be protected against unreasonable, unwarranted or unlawful search and seizure.

Many of the exclusionary cases baffle one's sense of justice. In recent years the admissibility of evidence has turned upon such weighty questions as: Was the policeman's foot inside the door? Was the plastic in which the marijuana was wrapped opaque or translucent? Was the inside of an open glove compartment visible from the sidewalk? In the Boston case at bar, the profound question of constitutional law boils down to this: Were the two pieces of paper stapled together?

These are the facts. You decide if justice is being served.

The young woman had been beaten, bound with wire and set on fire before she died. Police investigation led to a boyfriend by the name of Osborne Sheppard. The cops brought him in on Saturday afternoon, read him his Miranda rights, and questioned him about his movements on the night in question. As it turned out, Sheppard's alibi failed to hold up. Detective Peter J.

O'Malley became convinced that a search of Sheppard's home on Deckard Street might turn up some damning evidence.

O'Malley needed a search warrant. It was now Sunday morning, May 6, and the wind was up. Unless the search were conducted swiftly, it was likely that the suspect would destroy the evidence or take to his heels. The only warrant form that could be found at the station house was a form for drug busts. O'Malley scratched out "controlled substances" at one point and did what he could to adapt the form to the case at hand.

Then O'Malley took a separate piece of paper, and here he described the place to be searched (the basement and second floor) and the things to be seized (wire, blood samples). O'Malley went to a magistrate and established probable cause to believe that a warrant should issue. The magistrate tinkered a little more with the form, but he neglected to cross out "controlled substances" at another place in the warrant. The magistrate then handed the detective the two pieces of paper — signed warrant and O'Malley's accompanying statement — and the cops went off to Deckard Street.

There they found wire that matched the wire on the victim's body. They found blood samples that matched her blood. They found earrings and items of clothing that were identified as hers. All this was admitted as evidence at Sheppard's trial. He was found guilty and sentenced to life. But then a motion was made for a new trial on the ground that the evidence had been obtained under an illegal warrant: The two pieces of paper had not been stapled together. The Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts agreed with this contention and ordered that the defendant either be freed or tried anew. The Commonwealth appealed. The case was argued before the Supreme Court last month.

What about it? The appellate court in Massachusetts went out of its way to praise the "careful and commendable police investigatory techniques" that led O'Malley to evidence that was "highly probative" in the case. The magistrate was a member of the bar. It was not O'Malley's fault — it was the fault of the careless magistrate — that the warrant and the supporting document were not tied together. The police had acted in good faith, and they had obtained evidence that satisfied a jury beyond a reasonable doubt.

On the other hand, the warrant was in fact defective. It was a mishmash of wrong terms and unreferenced data. Which is more important, form or substance? Without the evidence, the Commonwealth may have no case at all against Sheppard. But if the evidence was indeed admissible, the guilty verdict stands. Common sense says the evidence was properly admitted in the first place, but common sense and Supreme Court decisions are not necessarily the same thing.

Technical Difficulties

WASHINGTON — President Reagan has picked Dr. Annelise Anderson, 45, half of a famed Reaganite husband-wife team, for a vacancy on the Federal Reserve Board of Governors. However, the appointment is being delayed by technical difficulties that the White House is trying to surmount.

She is married to the better known Dr. Martin C. Anderson, a longtime Reagan policy adviser. Before returning last year to Stanford University's Hoover Institution to become senior research fellow in economics, she served in the Reagan administration as an associate director of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB).

At a time of deepening conflict between the Reserve Board under Chairman Paul Volcker, and President Reagan, she would give the White House a badly-needed ally at the central bank. Recently released minutes show that Vice Chairman Preston Martin, the only other governor appointed by Reagan, was alone in opposing further tightening of the money supply during December.

However, the fact that both Martin and Anderson are from California runs afoul of statutes limiting each Federal Reserve district to one governor. Frequently ignored in the past, the law has been enforced more strictly since Sen. Jake Garn (R-Utah), now chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, protested its violation by the Carter administration.

Nevertheless, the White House is trying to find a loophole to justify her appointment. One ploy, employed in the past, uses a governor's birthplace or former residence as his home Federal Reserve district.

Annelise Anderson has no reputation as a monetary expert, and her views on Federal Reserve policy are not well known. At one point in her career she was known to be a follower of Professor Milton Friedman's monetarist theories while showing skepticism that government actually could put them into effect by controlling the money supply.

A further clue as to her course on the Fed may be found in her husband's outlook. "The two of them are both very hard-core libertarians," said one friend. "I've never known them to disagree about anything except how many cats to own."

Martin Anderson, who served a little over a year as head of domestic policy in the Reagan White House, was frequently mentioned as Volcker's possible successor before the president reappointed him to the chairmanship last year. As a presidential aide, he joined supply-siders in fighting tax increases but parted company with them in refusing to advocate a return to the gold standard.

However, returning to the Hoover Institution as senior fellow, he recently published an "Economic Bill of Rights" that criticizes the Fed and calls for a constitutional amendment requiring a gold standard as the only way to force the federal government to reduce the budget deficit. A return to basing the value of the dollar on gold is opposed by Volcker and by the monetarists.

One former associate believes that Anderson on the Fed might be a monetarist in the short run but would advocate gold in the long run. "She wouldn't tip her hand if she could help it," he said. "The quieter she is the more likely that she has a radical agenda."

Even without coming out for gold, Annelise Anderson does not fit the usual mold of central bankers. She has no banking experience and does not list monetary policy among her specialties. Her doctorate (Columbia University, 1974) is in business administration, not economics.

If Reagan actually appoints her to the 14-year term, she would replace Nancy H. Teeters, a liberal economist and former Fed staffer named by President Jimmy Carter in 1978 to fill an unexpired term. Considering gender-gap problems in an election year, it was decided long ago at the White House that Teeters would be replaced by a woman.

Barring death or resignation, the next opportunity for Reagan to appoint a Fed governor would be 1986.

Strength For Today

Jesus was born into a generation which believed that a person should love friends and hate enemies. Moses had taught man how to draw a circle around himself and his neighbor, and within that circle he said that love must operate.

Jesus came to enlarge the circle. He said that the teaching of Moses was all right as far as it went, but that the circle must be enlarged until it took in everyone, enemies as well as friends. He insisted that a heart really touched by the Spirit of God was a heart in which love reigned supreme, and when it did, no one was outside the radius of its influence.

To Jesus the one rule for the living of a godly life was the rule of love.

The wider circle is the answer to most of life's obvious problems. Statesmen need to remember this — and so do parents, employers, employees, business leaders and preachers.

Public Forum

To the editor:
Your attack of Feb. 17, 1984, on the U.S. Olympic team is so completely uncalled for that one must wonder if you have any conception of the Olympic program itself! Our country was founded on the strength and integrity of the individual who was willing "to do his best". Would you have us believe that this is now not sufficient?

If, indeed, as you allege, the "best is not enough", kindly put that philosophy to work in The Daily Reflector building and begin to produce a newspaper worthy of Greenville. For 16 years I have endured gross misuse of the English language as well as spelling errors that should mortify a third grade student! Having seen no improvement during this time, I had concluded that relief was not to be found.

Now that you have picked the bones of dedicated Americans who did their best, perhaps you can find time to examine and improve this newspaper and demonstrate that "best is not enough".

Physician, heal thyself! Please don't give us a "cop-out".

N.C. Peat-Methanol Plant Project Scrapped

By The Associated Press
Supporters of a $540 million peat-methanol plant say its cancellation is a "hard blow," but foes say the decision is a victory for the state's fishermen and environmentalists.

The proposed plant, which was to be built near the Washington County town of Creswell, was scrapped on Monday — only four days after a federal agency rejected a request for extra funding for the project.

Koppers Co. of Pittsburgh, a major investor in Peat Methanol Associates, said the plant was canceled because the Synthetics Fuels Corp., refused on Thursday to provide more federal financing for the project.

"It would be a hard blow not only to Washington County, but to eastern North Carolina," if the decision stands, said Ralph G. Plumblee, director of the Washington County Economic Development Commission.

"If the project is not resurrected, it would be disappointing considering that there is a significant potential involved here," said R. Brent Hackney, a spokesman for Gov. Jim Hunt.

Robert W. Fri, president of Washington-based Energy Transition Corp. and one of the PMA partners, said PMA would be dissolved. He said it was unlikely the project would be revived.

Meanwhile, North Carolina fisherman and environmentalists said that the decision was a victory for them. The two groups had warned of potential damage from the plant and the associated peat mining.

"We feel like we won a big battle," said H.O. Golden, a Dare County fisherman.

"It is good that the government didn't pursue an environmentally destructive and economically unsound project," added Manley K. Fuller, a wildlife resources specialist with the National Wildlife Association.

The Koppers news release said that PMA had "advised the chairman of the Synthetics Fuel Corp. that the SFC (Synfuels) board action on Feb. 16 cancels the project."

The project was to mine peat from coastal Washington County, convert it to methanol and use the methanol as a gasoline additive.

The scrapping of the project will mean a loss of $15 million which partners in the project have invested, according to a PMA official.

The plant had received an initial commitment from the the Synfuels to receive up to $465 million in federal loan guarantees and methanol price supports.

Synfuels board of directors last week rejected a request from PMA for additional federal assistance. Synfuels said the project could either continue with the $465 million level of assistance set in late 1982 or start over with a new application for aid.

The project has been the object of Congressional criticism, and a subcommittee of the House Energy and Commerce Committee has been investigating the project.

Marines Moving To Offshore Ships

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — U.S. Marines began pulling their combat forces out of Beirut today to Navy ships offshore, and Israeli warplanes bombed and strafed suspected guerrilla positions in the Syrian-controlled central mountains.

"Today the support people have gone and we're working on the combat gear," said Marine spokesman Maj. Dennis Brooks. "Today is the first day of the relocation of the actual 22nd MAU (Marine Amphibious Unit) personnel."

Brooks said he did not know how many of the roughly 1,300 Marines based at Beirut airport would leave today. He said the evacuation would take "approximately a week, maybe two."

Brooks said all support gear and 99 percent support personnel had been evacuated since President Reagan disclosed his decision Feb. 7 to withdraw the Marine contingent from the airport.

The Marine base has been surrounded by Syrian-backed Druse and Shiite Moslem militias since the militias wrested control of mostly Moslem west Beirut from the Lebanese army 15 days ago.

The Israeli military command said its warplanes attacked "terrorist targets" — the usual reference to Palestinian guerrillas — in Mansouriyeh, Ain Jdeide and south of Bhamdoun, a Druse-held town about nine miles southeast of the Lebanese capital on the Beirut-Damascus Highway.

There were no immediate reports of damage or casualties in the raid, the second this week and the fifth this year. All Israeli planes returned safely to base, the command said.

The raid coincided with reports the Israeli army has moved dozens of tanks and armored personnel carriers across its southern defense line toward Beirut over the past two days.

In Beirut, police said 11 people were killed today during clashes across the "green line" separating the capital's Moslem and Christian sectors and in fighting at the Lebanese army garrison in Souk el-Gharb, atop a mountain east of Beirut. At least 86 civilians and combatants were wounded, police said.

U.S. Navy jets made repeated reconnaissance runs over Beirut and the neighboring hills overnight and this morning, drawing no ground fire, Lebanon's state radio said.

Despite the fighting, and demands by opposition leaders for the resignation of President Amin Gemayel, two Saudi Arabian envoys were sent to Syria, reportedly to propose another peace plan that would keep Gemayel in office, impose a cease-fire and comply with Syria's demand that the Lebanese-Israeli troop withdrawal pact be scrapped unconditionally.

The Voice of Lebanon radio station of the rightist Christian Phalange Party said 10 Israeli jets, dropping red balloons to deflect heat-seeking missiles, staged four raids on bases belonging to Syrian-backed Palestinian guerrillas.

City Council...

Mumford Road property, Ready Mix Concrete of Raleigh, advised the city that it is willing to sell the property but it did not realize that a house on the tract had any value. She said that even though the city has no use for the house, she felt it could be rented until the city needs that portion of the property or it could be offered for sale to be moved. The firm offered to delete the house and the land it occupies from the sale or to include the house and increase the sale price to compensate for the value of the structure, she said.

The city manager said she renegotiated with the company to include the house in the sale and settled on a figure of $12,000, which is in addition to the initial $120,000 purchase figure.

The property does not front on Mumford Road but access would be available from Holly Street, Ms. Meeks said. She said access would also be desirable from Mumford Road and the purchase of one lot fronting on the road would be necessary in order to serve the cemetery.

It was pointed out that Frank Wooten, a local attorney, has expressed an interest in possibly developing a cemetery in front of Pinewood Cemetery. The group of black morticians has indicated a desire for the city to pursue its development of another municipal facility.

The council adopted an amendment to the city budget authorizing the withdrawal of $132,000 for the property purchase from the capital reserve fund.

In another matter during the special call meeting, the council conducted a public hearing on the submission of amendments to the community development block grant budget in order to close out the local "hold harmless (entitlement) program" for 1976 through 1980.

Ms. Meeks, noting that the Department of Housing and Urban Development wants the program closed out by May 1, said projects which could be finished by May 1 will remain in the overall hold harmless program. Other projects which will require more time to complete, such as housing rehabilitation and street improvements, will be realigned administratively under the first year of the city's "small cities discretionary program" for 1980-81.

A public hearing on the amendments was necessary prior to submitting the proposals to HUD.

Upheld Right Of 'Double-Trailers'

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — States may not ban double-trailer trucks from their highways, the Supreme Court ruled today.

The justices unanimously upheld a ruling that Connecticut's 1983 ban on tandem trucks is an unconstitutional interference with interstate commerce.

Until 1983, states had been free to regulate the size of vehicles traveling within their borders — even on highways that received federal financial assistance in construction and maintenance.

That freedom was not absolute. The Supreme Court in 1978 invalidated a Wisconsin limitation on truck lengths, and in 1981 the high court struck down a similar Iowa law.

But in 1983, Congress passed the Surface Transportation Assistance

Act. It restricts state regulation of vehicle size on major highways, and flatly bans any state law interfering with the operation of double-trailer trucks if either trailer length is 28 feet or shorter.

The Connecticut ban was enacted by the state Legislature in defiance of the federal law, and was challenged by Justice Department lawyers as soon as Connecticut State Police sought to enforce it.

U.S. District Judge Jose A. Cabranes barred enforcement of the law last June 13. He said the Connecticut law was inconsistent with, and preempted by, the federal law.

The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld that ruling last Sept. 1.

In seeking Supreme Court review, Connecticut Attorney General Joseph I. Lieberman argued that in passing the 1983 law Congress "usurped the state's role in overseeing the safe use of state highways."

The federal law, he said, "significantly interferes with Connecticut's ability to formulate and implement policy in the vital area of highway safety."

Justice Department lawyers urged the high court to uphold the lower court rulings as "clearly correct."

"This court has long recognized that motor vehicle size and weight are matters on which Congress may legislate under the (Constitution's) commerce clause," the government lawyers said. "The enjoined provisions of state law thus encroach upon a field Congress has legitimately occupied."

Enquirer Told 'Pay'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to free the National Enquirer from paying Carol Burnett $200,000 for suggesting in a 1976 gossip column that she was tipsy at a fashionable Washington restaurant.

The justices, citing a lack of jurisdiction, refused to hear arguments that, among other errors, California courts wrongly denied the weekly tabloid state libel law protections after finding it is not a "newspaper."

Miss Burnett sued the tabloid over a March 2, 1976 gossip column item said she had a loud argument with Henry Kissinger and giggled after spilling wine on another restaurant patron.

Before the popular entertainer sued, she had demanded a retraction. The National Enquirer published one in its gossip column, stating: "We understand these events did not occur and we are sorry for any embarrassment our report may have caused Miss Burnett."

When Miss Burnett sued seeking $10 million, the Enquirer's lawyers sought to invoke a California law that limits libel awards to compensatory damages — out-of-pocket losses — when a demanded correction is published.

The law, which applies to newspapers, radio and television stations, bars any recovery for mental anguish or embarrassment and bars punitive damages.

The California courts decided that the Enquirer was not entitled to that law's protection because, they said, it is more like a magazine than a newspaper.

The rest of the field — Glenn, Sens. Alan Cranston of California and Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina, the Rev. Jesse Jackson and former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew — were shut out. Jackson and Hollings made virtually no effort in the state.

Cranston had been looking for a strong finish to boost his long-shot campaign, but he came in fourth in the raw vote.

Pesticide School

The Agriculture Extension Service of Pitt County is conducting a private applicator's class for persons who use a "restricted use" pesticide on his farm or home. Restricted use pesticides are those that are identified with a skull and crossbone emblem and are dangerous to use.

The class will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. Thursday in room 20 of the Pitt County Office Building (the old Pitt Memorial Hospital) and is free. For more details, call Sam Uzzell at 752-2934.

Representatives

The Coastal Plains chapter of the Epilepsy Association of North Carolina sent three members to the association's quarterly board meeting recently in Fayetteville. Attending were Cathy Jessen, chapter president; Louise Moore, treasurer; and Scott Luce, state president, all of Greenville.

The North Carolina Poster Child, Dawn Ives, 10, of Fayetteville, was introduced at the meeting. The Coastal Plains chapter's nominee for poster child was Melanie Voliva, 7, of Ayden.

The possibility of an eastern office opening in the Raleigh area to serve this area was discussed. For more information, call toll-free 800-642-0500.

Woman Injured

A 23-year-old Greenville woman has told Greenville police she was injured early Monday morning by a man who attempted to force her into a car in the 800 block of E. 10th St.

Officer Jeff Bridges said Lorri Ann Rapoza of Wilson Acres apartments told police she was walking home along 10th Street about 4 a.m. Monday when the driver of a car stopped and asked her if she wanted a ride. Bridges said the car pulled away when Ms. Rapoza refused, but then returned, and the driver attempted to force Ms. Rapoza into the vehicle.

During a scuffle, Ms. Rapoza suffered a broken nose and bruised ribs, according to Bridges. The incident was reported to police at 4:05 p.m.

Quarterly Meeting

Quarterly meeting will be held at Mount Calvary Free Will Baptist Church this weekend.

A board meeting will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Rehearsals are set Thursday for the W.L. Jones Traveling Choir and on Friday for the senior choir. Saturday at 7:30 p.m. a holy communion service will be held. On Sunday a 3 p.m. service will be led by Bishop W.H. Mitchell and the Good Hope Free Will Baptist Church of Winterville.

Re-Appeal Rate Hike

RALEIGH (AP) — Southern Bell asked the North Carolina Utilities Commission Monday to reconsider a request for an interim rate increase.

The Utilities Commission denied Southern Bell's original request last week, which the company said was aimed at recovering $22 million in revenues from providing telephone sets and equipment as a result of the breakup of the Bell System.

Jere A. Drummond, Southern Bell's vice president for North Carolina, said there were points which needed to be reconsidered.

"The Commission order said that while the evidence showed we had lost revenues from the transfer of telephone equipment, we did not show how expenses also had been reduced by the transfer," Drummond said. "The affidavits and exhibits we submitted documented that expenses were reduced by the transfer, showing the $22 million as a net loss which had been used to support basic local phone service in the state."

Drummond said the last rate increase of $36.7 million was made with the assumption that the $22 million would continue to be received in annual revenues.

Drummond said the $22 million dollars lost on Jan. 1, when the breakup occurred, represented 60 percent of the revenue increase ordered in September and is approximately 10 percent of the expected net operating revenues in 1984.

Mecklenburg Is 89th To Approve

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Mecklenburg County Monday became the 89th county in the state to approve a half-cent increase in the sales tax to finance schools and other projects.

The increased approved Monday will provide an estimated $5.4 million a year for Charlotte-Mecklenburg public schools and $3.6 million for the City of Charlotte and six Mecklenburg towns.

Night Jumps

Members of the East Carolina Parachute Club conducted a series of night parachute jumps near Greenville between 10 p.m. Saturday and 1 a.m. Sunday.

Lonnie Willer, area safety officer, conducted safety briefings prior to the jumps, which were made from a Cessna 210 flown by Mike Allison. Wives and friends of the jumpers acted as ground control at the landing site near the Route 5, Greenville, home of Roscoe Barnhill.

The jumps included a four-man star formation by Lonnie Willer, Ben Currin, Larry Masotti and John Masotti from 9,500 feet, and two-man formations from 7,500 feet made by Willer and Lee Hawley, Currin and Allan Kinlaw, John Masotti and Ken Reese, and Larry Masotti and Steve Donald.

A night jump is one of the requirements parachutists must meet in order to obtain a D license (expert rating).

Scholarships Given

The East Carolina Engineers Club recently awarded scholarships to four community college students in eastern North Carolina.

The recipients of the scholarship are: David S. Willis, Jacksonville, Coastal Carolina Community College; John P. Brooks, Aurora, Craven Community College; Joseph T. Warren, Roanoke Rapids, Halifax Community College, and John A. Griffin, New Bern, Lenior Community College. Each student is enrolled in at least the second year of a pre-engineering curriculum.

The scholarship program was initiated in March 1983 by the club. Funds for the program are provided on a matching basis by the East Carolina Engineers Club and the North Carolina Society of Engineers. The program is designed to award up to five scholarships annually to eastern North Carolina community college students.

The East Carolina Engineers Club, founded in 1948, has approximately 200 members within eastern North Carolina.

Teen Dems Meet

The Teen Dems of Pitt County will have a special projects work meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Allied Health Building, Charles Street.

Counted 2 Collisions

An estimated $4,450 damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated Monday by Greenville police.

Officers reported a car driven by Stacy Ray Lee of Ernul and a truck operated by Edward Russell Page of Route 6, Greenville collided about 6:43 p.m. at the intersection of 10th and Cotanche streets, causing an estimated $1,400 damage to the Lee car and $1,000 damage to the truck.

Lee was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of the collision.

William Wilber Turner of Durham was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety after the truck he was driving collided with a car operated by Robert Joseph Hyde of Ayden, about 1:55 p.m. at the intersection of Fourth and Pitt streets.

Damage from the collision was set by officers at $2,000 to the Hyde car and $50 to the truck.

Exhibition

Art work by Deborah Lynn Rawls of Ahsokie, a senior in the East Carolina University School of Art, is being shown this week in Joyner Library. Her show includes lithographs, woodcut and intaglio prints, drawings, relief etchings and other items.

State Sen. Bob Jordan, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, will be honored at a reception Feb. 26 at the DAR Chapter House in Farmville.

The reception will be hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Ledbetter, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lewis Jr. and Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Patterson. Jordan is a four-term senator from Montgomery County.

Two Arrested

Two people have been arrested by Pitt County deputies on charges stemming from a recent break-in at a rural home that resulted in the theft of several thousand dollars worth of property, including silverware.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said Willie Watson Dixon of Third Street, Greenville, was charged with breaking, entering and larceny at the home of E.R. Lewis near Conetoe west of Bethel. David Wooten of Colonial Trailer Park was charged with possession of stolen property in connection with the incident, Tyson said.

Dixon was placed under $5,000 bond, while Wooten's bond was set at $500.

Tyson said officers recovered almost $4,000 in property, including a quantity of silverware and a shotgun. A rifle and clock taken in the Jan. 30 break-in have not been recovered, he said.

IRS Fines 84-Year-Old For 60-Cent Error

By JIM LUTHER
AP Tax Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An 84-year-old wheelchair-bound woman living off her savings underpaid her $315 federal income taxes by 60 cents and got a bill for interest and penalties totaling $50.28.

It was enough to upset even a mild-mannered politician.

The situation was "so absurd that I was ready to flay the hide of the first IRS official I could reach," Sen. Nancy Landon Kassebaum, R-Kan., recalled in a Senate speech. When she cooled off enough to put her staff to work on the problem she found the plight of the elderly woman was not unusual — and it was not the fault of the Internal Revenue Service.

The root of the taxpayer's trouble was not that she had miscalculated her taxes by 60 cents but that she had not filed a quarterly estimated tax return. "She didn't file it because she had never heard of it," Mrs. Kassebaum said.

Congressional aides estimate 300,000 or more elderly people a year get into trouble with the IRS because they don't know about the requirement. IRS officials note the law makes no provision for waiving the penalty, even when failure to file the quarterly document is due to ignorance of the law.

Sens. Kassebaum and John Heinz, R-Pa., are sponsoring a bill to excuse the penalty in just such cases if the taxpayer is 65 or older or is retired.

The case of the unidentified Kansas City woman points up the need for millions of people to file quarterly returns and pay a portion of their taxes in advance. In 1982, 9.5 million couples and individuals used quarterly returns to pay a total of $45.1 billion in taxes.

Although the estimated tax requirement is one of the more confusing provisions in federal tax law, the reason for the quarterly return is simple: If you earn taxable income that is not subject to withholding, you must estimate what you owe and pay a share of it each quarter.

Most people live most of their working lives without ever hearing of the estimated tax because their taxes are deducted from each paycheck and they get a refund from the IRS after the end of the year. However, there is no withholding from interest and dividends or from capital gains, for example. So the only way for the government to collect taxes on a pay-as-you-go basis is through quarterly returns.

But, as the Kansas City woman proved, you don't have to be rich. Nearly half the estimated returns filed in 1982 were from people with incomes under $20,000 a year.

As explained by Mrs. Kassebaum, the elderly woman was living out her retirement on interest from savings. That interest income was so low that the woman owed no taxes and wasn't even required to file a federal tax return. But then, to make ends meet, she sold some of her securities in one transaction — and that one-time deal temporarily increased her income to a level that required her to file a return.

The woman filed a regular tax return and paid the $514.40 that she thought she owed. But at that time, the law required that a quarterly estimated return be filed if a person expected to owe the government a balance of $300 or more at the end of the year. The woman clearly had failed to meet that requirement, so the IRS did what the law requires and imposed the penalty.

For income earned in 1984, the cutoff point rises to $400. In most cases you must file quarterly returns and make estimated tax payments if you expect to owe more than $400 when you file your return a year from now and meet one of the following conditions:

—Your expected income subject to tax includes more than $500 that is not subject to withholding, or —Your expected income subject to tax exceeds $20,000 if you are single or a two-earner couple, or exceeds $10,000 if you are a two-earner couple.

Many more retired taxpayers may be subject to quarterly payments this year because, for the first time, as much as half of monthly Social Security benefits may be taxable. Estimated quarterly returns are filed on a special form, 1040-ES, that includes vouchers to mail with your payments. Publication 505, free at any IRS office or through the mail, gives a full explanation of estimated taxes.

Robbed And Shot

Greenville police are investigating the shooting of a man following an alleged robbery at B&B Foodland at 1006 Bancroft Ave. about 12:05 a.m. today.

Detective C.E. Weatherington said the robbery and shooting were reported about 2:30 a.m. when Alvin Purvis, 20, walked into Harvey's Restaurant at 817 Memorial Drive and told employees he had been shot. Weatherington said Purvis reported that two men, wearing ski masks and armed with a shotgun, entered B&B Foodland where he is a clerk.

According to Purvis, the intruders took $245 in cash and a quantity of food stamps from the store, a .22 caliber pistol from Purvis, then ordered Purvis to close the store and forced him into their car.

Weatherington said Purvis reported the robbers drove him around town for more than two hours, then took him Guy Smith Stadium on Chestnut Street and shot him in the right arm before driving away.

Purvis told officers he walked to the restaurant after the robbers left. He was taken from the restaurant to Pitt County Memorial Hospital for treatment of the wound, Weatherington said.

Video Stores To Fight Measure

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A group of video store operators say they'll fight a pending Congressional bill that could triple videotape rentals fees and put many of them out of business.

Owners of videocassette players can now rent a cassette of a major movie for $2 to $4 a night. But that would change if the "Consumer Video Sales-Rental Amendment of 1983" is approved. The bill gives the copyright owners of the movies control over how those videocassettes could be rented. If approved, that could increase rental fees about 300 percent, said Risa Solomon of the Home Rights Recording Coalition.

It will also put video store owners out of business, said several of the dozen Charlotte store owners who met at a local video store Sunday to discuss strategy to fight the bill.

Asks Action On Insurance Co.

RALEIGH (AP) — Insurance Commissioner John Ingram filed a petition Monday asking the Forsyth County courts to place a North Carolina chartered insurance company in rehabilitation.

Beacon Insurance Co., which has executive offices in Texas, is currently under examination by the Commissioner's staff.

Under rehabilitation, which is a legal method to protect policyholders when an insurance company is in financial difficulty, Ingram would assume complete control of the company. If the courts approve, he would have the authority and power of the chief officers and company board of directors.

HOW TO PLUG YOUR FAMILY INTO MODERN TIMES.

Hooking up the new IBM® PCjr isn't much harder than plugging in a lamp. But you should find it much more enlightening.

"Junior" is IBM's new personal computer and it's full of bright ideas.

THE LIVING ROOM REVOLUTION

PCjr is a tool for modern times that works with the family TV set.

It will open up new channels of information for you. New avenues of education for your child. And new experiences for all.

Many of the things you now do with words, numbers, pictures or music, you may soon find yourself doing faster, easier and more accurately with the IBM PCjr.

FAMILY COMPUTING MADE EASY

IBM designed PCjr with first-time users in mind.

An instructional exercise built into the machine lets the learning begin immediately. A program included with diskette-drive systems lets you explore computer fundamentals at your own pace. And to get you off and running from the very first day, a sample diskette with eleven useful mini-programs is also included.

Junior's keyboard doesn't need a cord, so you're free to get comfortable with it. (Which is why we call it the IBM "Freeboard.") telecommunications. There's even a choice of printers. Best of all, PCjr is compatible with many existing IBM software programs for other IBM personal computers.

HOME ECONOMICS FROM IBM

The IBM PCjr holds lots of surprises. But perhaps most surprising is the price. The starting model includes a 64KB cassette/cartridge unit and Freeboard for about $700. An enhanced model with 128KB and diskette drive is about $1300. (Prices apply at IBM Product Centers. Prices may vary at other stores.)

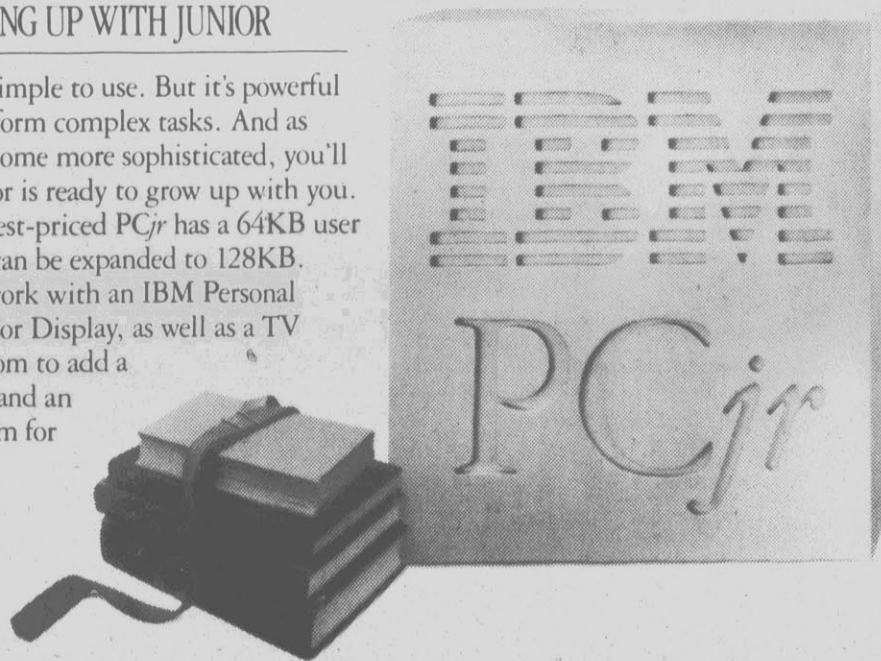

Take modern times into your own hands at your local authorized IBM PCjr dealer. For the store nearest you, just dial 1-800-IBM-PCJR. In Alaska and Hawaii, 1-800-447-0890.

GROWING UP WITH JUNIOR

PCjr is simple to use. But it's powerful enough to perform complex tasks. And as your needs become more sophisticated, you'll find that Junior is ready to grow up with you.

The lowest-priced PCjr has a 64KB user memory that can be expanded to 128KB.

It will work with an IBM Personal Computer Color Display, as well as a TV set. There's room to add a diskette drive and an internal modem for others and are not to have money collected from them at school." The proposed revision adds to the suggested prohibition on fund raising by these students the phrase "or by a school-related organization" to broaden the context of the proposed policy.

An overnight field trip for 12 members of the Juniors at J. H. Rose High School to New York was approved. The trip is scheduled March 8-10, and since March 9 is a teacher workday, the students would not miss a school day by taking the trip.

The proposed attendance policy and applicable regulations for students in the city school received approval on a second reading; and action on the proposed dismissal of classified employees was tabled until a later date. Blinson requested the action in order to look into ways to incorporate reduction in force guidelines for classified employees into the dismissal policy rather than have a second, separate policy.

Approval was given to the Education Consolidation and Improvement Act proposed by the North Carolina State Board of Education Controller's Office. The act covers allocation of funds for federal programs for both Pitt County and Greenville city schools. Under this act, both boards mutually agree to a State Board of Education allocation on a countywide total of children aged 5 to 17 from families classified as poor.

Two budget amendments were approved. Amendment No. 3 for state public school funds provides an increase of $12,618 in state funds — bringing the total for fiscal year 1983-84 to $6,256,600. Amendment No. 9 to the local fund is for an increase of $21,719, bringing that category for the current fiscal year to $3,511,864.

Two presentations were made to the board — a report from Mike Joyner on the audit of the 1982-83 school budget; and a presentation by Dr. Jasper Lewis and Ann Griffin on the National Dental Health month programs being conducted in the city schools.

A motion not to send a representative to the annual meeting in Houston of the National School Board Association was defeated. A substitute motion that the board members be provided details on the expenditure the trip would involve was approved, with a decision on whether or not to send a representative to be made after all the facts are considered.

Bridge Collapse Due Heavy Truck

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — A steel-hauling truck that was crossing a bridge when the structure collapsed, injuring three people, weighed about three times the posted weight limit, officials said.

The tractor-trailer and a car with two female occupants both fell about 90 feet Monday when the 300-foot Oak Street Bridge, which spans the city's Lincoln Park, gave way, according to police.

Mahoning County Engineer Michael Fritas said the 80-year-old bridge was last inspected a year ago and was posted with a 10-ton weight limit. Documents found in the truck showed that the vehicle weighed 10 tons and was carrying 20 tons of steel coil, he said.

Spokeswomen at local hospitals said one of the car's occupants was in guarded condition and the other was in satisfactory condition, and the truck driver was in guarded condition.

RICH BOOTY

PARIS (AP) — Thieves stole almost $2 million in jewels, solid gold tableware and stereo equipment from the Paris apartment of a Greek businessman, police reported yesterday.

Named Directors Of Development

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina State University Chancellor Bruce R. Poulton announced the appointment Monday of Julia Grace May and Dennis A. Taylor as assistant directors of development at the university.

The new appointees will be involved in the school's $32 million "State of the Future" fund-raising campaign. Ms. May will work as a development prospects researcher. She was director of major gifts research and was assistant director of research at Vanderbilt University's office of Alumni Development.

Taylor was development intern and planning coordinator at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine in Winston-Salem. He will work with university staff and faculty during a phase of the "State of the Future" campaign.

Suspended For Movie-Watching

CHARLES TOWN, W.Va. (AP) — An anonymous adult caller tipped officials that four teachers and the librarian at Jefferson High School watched an R-rated movie in the school library while students were in an assembly, the superintendent says.

The five were to begin three-day suspensions without pay today for their Feb. 3 viewing of "Valley Girls" on a school-owned videocassette player, said Superintendent Raymond Frazier.

Frazier said the movie, which a teacher had rented for home viewing, was "not the kind of film we'd want to condone here." He said the pay losses from the suspensions would range from $228 to $282.

Missions Program

Seventeen missionaries will be involved in programs on missions, sponsored by the Eastern North Carolina Presbyterian Missions Conference, to be held this weekend in Wilson, Greenville, Pinetops and Rocky Mount.

The purpose of the programs is to encourage support for missions, both in the United States and abroad.

Missionaries from Bangladesh, China, India, Japan, Korea, Nepal, Pakistan and Zaire will attend a 6:30 p.m. covered-dish supper at the First Presbyterian Church in Wilson on Friday.

A 10:30 a.m. breakfast at the Ramada Inn in Greenville on Saturday will include a short program and visitation by Molly Berry of Zaire, now a student at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro; the Rev. John Ellington, a Zaire Bible translator; the Rev. and Mrs. Joe B. Hooper of Korea, and the Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Ruff, who have served in Nepal and India since 1947.

Other programs Saturday include a 9 a.m. mission breakfast at the Carleton House Restaurant in Rocky Mount and a 1 p.m. rally for children (grades K-6) and parents at the Pinetops Presbyterian Church.

Craig Meisner of Bangladesh will speak at the 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. worship services at the First Presbyterian Church in Greenville, while a 3 p.m. program at the First Presbyterian Church in Rocky Mount will include worship services, a songfest, a youth rally and exhibits.

Scout Council Awards Planned

The East Carolina Council Boy Scouts of America will hold its first "Distinguished Citizen Awards" banquet Wednesday at the Carleton House in Rocky Mount.

Guest speaker for the event, which the council plans to continue on an annual basis, will be Dr. Tom Haggai, a nationally known motivationalist.

Arafat Making Visit To China

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasser Arafat will make an official visit to China in March at the invitation of the Chinese government, the Palestinian news agency Wafa reported today.

The news agency did not give the exact dates of the trip. It said the invitation was extended during a meeting Monday night between Arafat and The Chinese ambassador to Tunisia, Xie Bangdung.

Little
BETHEL — Ms. Lydia Augusta Little of 703 Moore Drive died this morning in Pitt County Memorial Hospital. She was the mother of Mrs. Darline Myers of Riverside, Conn. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Flanagan Funeral Home.

Services will be conducted Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. at the Church Street Chapel of the Farmville Funeral Home by the Revs. John Coates and Ronald Davis. Interment will follow in Crestlawn Memorial Gardens near Farmville.

Mr. Peaden was a life-long resident of Fountain and a member of Grace Baptist Church. He was a retired employee of Greenville Utilities and a veteran of World War II.

He is survived by one stepson, the Rev. Bobby Smith of Fayetteville; two sisters, Mrs. Dawn Bryan of Farmville and Mrs. Susie Joyner of Rocky Mount; one brother, Robert Wayne Peaden of Williamston, and two step-grandchildren.

The family will receive friends at the Farmville Funeral Home from 7-9 p.m. tonight and at other times at the home of Mrs. Dawn Bryan, 605 E. Grimmersburg St., in Farmville.

Roebuck
Mrs. Myrtle G. Roebuck, 85, died Monday at her home, 404 E. Church St., Farmville. A graveside service will be conducted at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday in Greenwood Cemetery in Greenville by the Revs. Willis Wilson and Joseph Lehmann.

A Pitt County native who resided in the Stokes community prior to moving to Farmville 42 years ago, Mrs. Roebuck was a member of Briar Swamp Primitive Baptist Church of Stokes.

Surviving her are a daughter, Mrs. Jerome Perkins of Stokes; two sisters, Mrs. R.L. Spivey of Farmville

Navy Dulls Pirate Rally, 66-56

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Vernon Butler scored 20 points and pulled away 11 rebounds to lead the U.S. Naval Academy to a 66-56 ECAC-South basketball victory over East Carolina last night.

Again, it was a case of the Pirates suffering a letdown at the start of the second half. Up by 21-19 at intermission, the Pirates folded during the first 9:15 of the second half and Navy took advantage, outscoring ECU by a 25-4 margin to take a 19-point lead.

Freshmen Derrick Battle and Jack Turnbull sparked a Pirate rally over the next six minutes, giving ECU a 21-9 advantage, but the rally was finally blunted by the more-experienced Midshipmen and they pulled away again to take the win.

While the Pirates did go through a rough period of being too tentative and having a number of turnovers, Coach Charlie Harrison was also incensed by the officiating in the game.

A total of 32 fouls were called on the Pirates, as compared with just 19 against the Midshipmen. "It's the worst I've ever seen," Harrison said. "They are just bad officials."

Harrison noted that at one point in the game, umpire Tom Scott called a foul against Navy as Turnbull went up for a shot. Scott signaled one-and-one on the call, but referee Frank Cutko, as the teams lined up for the shot, called for two shots. The two officials then conferred as the two teams offered suggestions in the lane, and finally Cutko returned under the basket and again signaled "two shots", while Scott handed Turnbull the ball and signaled "one and one."

Turnbull settled the argument: he hit both shots.

"I'm sure that we beat them unmercifully inside," Harrison said with obvious sarcasm. "One time they had three seniors, a sophomore and a freshman out there, and they're 6-11, 6-10, 6-9, 6-7 and 6-2. We have four freshmen and a sophomore and we're beatin' 'em to death. I can't believe we reached and grabbed that much. Forty fouls! When we do it, it's a foul, when they do it, it's aggressive basketball. Maybe it just looks that way. And it's not just tonight."

Harrison was charged with a technical midway through Navy's pullaway. "All I said was, 'That was a foul.' Then, (Navy coach Paul) Evans curses the official and he gets nothing. These guys are bad, bad, bad, bad, bad! This is the second time we've had them this year. They were bad then and they haven't improved."

Evans was also asked if he would rate the officials on a scale of one to ten. "The proper numbers aren't in there," he said.

East Carolina's more veteran backcourt didn't perform well at all — and had little time to do so. Tony Robinson played only 11 minutes and fouled out scoreless. Curt Vanderhorst, who has been the leading scorer for the past month or so, also fouled out after 30 minutes and scored but two points. The two inside freshmen, Roy Smith and Leon Bass scored no points and had just four rebounds between them. They both drew four fouls.

But if there was some dark spots, there also were some bright ones for the Pirates as Battle played his best game of the year, scoring 20 points and grabbing 11 rebounds, matching Butler's stats. And Turnbull hit on four of five from the floor, hit all five of his free throws for 13 points with four rebounds.

"I hope Derrick showed he grew up some tonight. He played more aggressive in attacking the basket. And he did a good job on Butler at times. (Butler's) just a solid player who knows his limitations and they get him the ball in a position to get it in the basket."

Navy led much of the first half, but never by more than four and by that only twice, the last time at 13-9. East Carolina held the initial lead, was up again at 7-6, and finally regained the lead at 19-17. After a tie, ECU scored again on two free throws by Keith Sledge with 5:48 left and after David Robinson missed two free throws with 5:17 left, the Pirates held the ball outside to attempt to get one last shot.

"They wouldn't come out, so why go for it," Harrison said. "We had people in foul trouble and we had four freshmen and a sophomore out there."

The Pirates were successful but they failed to score as William Grady's shot with seven seconds left missed.

But ECU threw the ball away on the first play of the second half, and Navy tied it up on a layup by Butler then took the lead on another by Rob Romaine. ECU scored its only points of the first eight minutes on a jumper by Battle, then Navy scored the next 16 points. Then, after Turnbull hit, Navy added three more on a three-point play by Cliff Maurer to make it 44-25. Herb Gilchrist then fed Battle for a slam dunk, and that seemed to spark the Pirates, who raced to a 21-9 margin over the next few minutes, cutting the lead to 53-46 with 4:34 left.

But Navy went to the foul line for 11 of its final 13 points and held off the Pirates for the win.

"Navy is a good team," Harrison said. "They have a good chemistry and they are one of the most physical teams we've played. Duke was probably the only more which was more physical."

"I guess if there was anything good for us tonight, it was Derrick's aggressiveness with the ball and Jack coming in an getting into scoring positions he hasn't been in all year."

The Midshipmen had three other players besides Butler in double figures. Romaine had 14, Kaylor Whitaker had 12 and David Robinson had 10.

In addition to Battle and Turnbull, Grady was also in double figures for ECU with 14.

Navy, with the victory, raises its overall record to 21-7, and to 5-4 in the ECAC-South. East Carolina drops to 4-20 on the year and 1-8 in the conference.

The Pirates are idle until Saturday night when ECU travels outside the conference to face UNC-Wilmington — one of the few teams the Pirates have beaten this year.

Pulling It In

East Carolina's Derrick Battle (35) pulls in a rebound over an unidentified Navy player last night during ECAC-South action in Minges Coliseum. Battle scored a career high 20 points and pulled away 11 rebounds but the Pirates fell to Navy, 66-56. (Reflector Photo by Katie Zernhelt)

Lady Pirates Host Spiders

East Carolina's Lady Pirates, after suffering two straight losses in the Converse-Lady Pirate Classic this past weekend, entertain ECAC-South leader Richmond to-night at 7:30 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

Currently 10-15, the Lady Pirates are 2-2 against ECAC-South foes, and this is their final league contest of the regular season. The regular season comes to an end on Saturday night when ECU hosts South Carolina and the Lady Pirates will then host the first-ever ECAC-South women's tournament on the following weekend.

Richmond currently leads the league with a 4-0 ECAC-South record. The Lady Spiders are 14-9 overall, but have only a 4-6 road record.

Three members of the starting five are currently averaging in double figures, led by 6-2 junior center Karen Elsner. She is hitting 23.7 points a game and pulling down 12.6 rebounds a contest. The other two in double figures include 5-6 junior guard Jackie Israel, 10.1 points a game, and 6-1 senior forward Betsy McCormick, with a 10.8 average.

McCormick was named as the ECAC-South's Player of the Week for her play in the week ending Saturday.

The other two starters are 5-10 senior forward Margaret Sears, scoring 8.7 points a game, and 5-7 senior guard Julie Dryer, with a 3.5 average.

This will be the first meeting between the two teams.

North Pitt Nips Chargers; Farmville Girls Top 'Birds

By JIMMY DuPREE
Reflector Sports Writer

FARMVILLE — After leading throughout the first half, Ayden-Grifton suffered through the third period while North Pitt held a 16-3 scoring advantage. Despite a pair of fourth-quarter rallies by the Chargers, North Pitt held on for a 47-45 victory in the opening round of the Eastern Carolina 3-A high school basketball tournament Monday at Farmville Central.

Farmville Central's Lady Jaguars jumped out to 7-0 lead at the start of the opening game of the night, but Southern Nash rallied in the second quarter before Farmville Central cruised to a 69-53 victory.

In Monday's other first round contest of the boys' tournament, SouthWest Edgecombe trounced C.B. Aycock 71-55 to advance against the winner of tonight's Greene Central-Farmville Central bout. The Rams face the tourney host Jaguars at 9 p.m.

"We played kind of hesitant in the first half," North Pitt Coach Cobby Deans said. "Then we tried to speed it up a little, and we were able to take the lead. We shot pretty well at the free throw line tonight, and I thought that made the difference in the ballgame."

Linwood Harris posted 17 points including five out of six from the free throw line to lead North Pitt into a semifinal matchup with conference champion Southern Nash, which received a bye in the opening round. Clifton Williams posted 10 points as the only other Panther in double digits, while Ayden-Grifton's Doug Anderson contributed 14 points to lead the Chargers.

Danny West pumped in 13 points with hot outside shooting that got the Chargers back in the game in the fourth quarter.

North Pitt tied the score at 26-26 with 2:41 left in the third quarter, then took the lead for the first time as Lenny Langley completed a three-point play. The Panthers went on to outscore Ayden-Grifton 9-2 through the end of the period to take a 36-28 advantage. Keith Clark completed a fast break layup and added a pair of free throws with Harris had a three-point play during the spurt by the Panthers.

A 17-footer by West just 15 seconds into the fourth quarter set the stage for the final shootout, and he pumped in two more and a free throw while North Pitt managed a lone free throw by Harris through the 5:59 mark as the Chargers cut the gap to 37-35.

The Panther offense came to life again, though, as Williams broke free inside and Clarke completed a fast break with a layup before a pair of free throws by Langley put North Pitt ahead by eight.

Ayden-Grifton's Calvin Peterson and Mike Dixon each drove inside for field goals to trim the margin to 43-39 with 2:15 remaining.

But North Pitt retaliated with a two free throws by Harris and a fast break layup by Williams to take a seemingly insurmountable 47-39 advantage with just 41 seconds on the clock.

Marvin Smith, who finished the game with 10 points, swished two shots from the charity stripe with 31 seconds left, then scored inside with 16 seconds remaining to trim the lead to four. Meanwhile, Williams missed a pair of free throws and Langley was off target on the front end of a one-and-one at the line to give the Chargers a final rally.

West connected on the final field goal of the night with four seconds left, and the Panthers managed to survive the final ticks of the clock to advance.

"Our man-to-man (defense) looked good at times tonight," Deans said. "I thought we were patient going against their man-to-man."

"Southern Nash is going to be a tough one. We didn't play very well against them at our place, and we were hurt when we played there. We're a better team now than we were then."

North Pitt committed several errors in the fourth quarter, but the Chargers were unable to capitalize on their opportunities.

"When it counted, they were a little more determined than we were," Ayden-Grifton Coach Bob Murphrey said. "I think maybe they had a little of a psychological edge. It's tough to beat a team on Friday night and get ready to play them again Monday like we had to."

"If we could have maintained our organization and intensity, we could have beaten them pretty well. They

Conley Girls Rip White Oak

HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley's girls' basketball team rolled up a 46-31 victory over White Oak last night in the first round of the Coastal Conference's post-season tournament.

In the other game, played at West Craven, the Lady Patriots ripped West Craven, 76-57, to advance to the semifinals.

Tonight, action shifts to the boys' first round, with North Lenoir visiting West Craven and Havelock entertaining White Oak.

The tournament then moves to West Craven for the semifinals on Wednesday and Thursday and the finals on Friday.

Conley had little trouble in gaining its victory, rushing out to a 10-2 lead in the first quarter. White Oak came back in the second quarter with a 15-12 margin, but still trailed by 22-17 at the half.

Conley again pulled away in the third period, holding a 12-4 margin that raised the lead to 34-21. Conley outlasted White Oak, 12-10, in the final period.

Mechio Kornegay led Conley with 16 points while Karen Barrett added 14. Sandra Posey had 17 points and Adrian Henderson had ten for White Oak.

The loss closed out the year for White Oak which finishes with a 1-22 record. Conley is now 18-6.

The Valkyries will play #2 ranked Havelock in the semifinals on Thursday at 7 p.m. at West Craven.

The Conley boys, who finished second in the conference standings, gained a first round bye and will play the Havelock-White Oak winner on Thursday at 8 p.m.

Roanoke Advances

WILLIAMSTON — Roanoke's boys pulled off an upset of #3 ranked Washington last night in the first round of the Northeastern Conference basketball tournament, but Roanoke's girls were upset victims.

The Lady Redskins fell to Bertie, 52-49. Roanoke's girls were fourth-seeded in the tourney while Bertie was ranked fifth.

In the other game, Plymouth (#4) downed Edenton (#5), 74-48, to advance to the semifinals.

Tonight's games send #1 Tarboro against #8 Williamston and #3 Edenton against #6 Ahoskie in a pair of girls' games, while #1 Bertie faces #8 Williamston in a boys' game.

Roanoke, seeded sixth, will face the winner of the Tarboro-Ahoskie game on Friday in a boy's semifinal, while the Bertie girls meet the Tarboro-Williamston winner on Thursday.

Roanoke ran out to a 12-6 lead in the first period of the boys' game, and outscored the Pam Pack, 20-19, in the second for a 32-25 halftime lead.

Both teams pushed through 15 points in the third period as the score climbed to 47-40. Washington was able to cut two more off in the final period but was unable to effectively rally.

James Duggins led Roanoke with 20 points while Garrett Baker added

15 and Shawn Chance had 10. Jeff Cox led Washington with 17, while Adrian Dudley had 15 and Steve Austin had 12.

In the girls' game, Roanoke eased into a 14-12 lead after one period, but Bertie came back with a 16-10 margin in the second quarter. That gave the Lady Falcons a 28-24 halftime lead.

Roanoke rallied in the third period, 10-7, and cut the Bertie lead to 35-34, but Bertie held them off, 17-14, in the final period to take the win.

Andrea Gilliam led Bertie with 19 points while Kecia White had 12 and Joyce Holley had 10. Gloria Duggins led Roanoke with 23.

Washington, while out of the Northeastern Tournament, still has a berth in the District I 3-A Tournament next week at Weldon. Roanoke's girls, however, are on the bubble and will attend the tournament only if one of the top three seeds wins the tournament. Roanoke's boys, meanwhile, must

Memphis St. Making Bid For Return To AP Top Ten

NEW YORK (AP) — Memphis State, which dropped from eighth place to 12th in this week's Associated Press college basketball poll after having its 12-game winning streak ended by an 85-78 weekend loss to Louisville, is making a bid to return to the Top Ten.

Keith Lee tipped in a missed 20-foot jumper by Andre Turner at the buzzer Monday night to give the Tigers a 69-67 Metro Conference basketball victory in overtime over Southern Mississippi. The Tigers are 20-4 over-all and 10-1 in the conference.

Meanwhile, the four teams rated the best in the preseason have returned to the top, although not in the exact order. North Carolina, Georgetown, Houston and Kentucky — ranked 1-4-3-2 in the preseason — are 1-2-3-4 in this week's rankings.

The No. 1 Tar Heels took out the frustration of losing their first game of the season — a 64-63 loss to Arkansas on Feb. 12 — by defeating Atlantic Coast Conference rivals North Carolina State 95-71 and Maryland 78-63 in the past week. North Carolina received 61 of the 62 first-place votes and 1,239 of a possible 1,240 points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and sportscasters.

Georgetown, which received the other first-place vote and 1,169 points, remained No. 2 after defeating Providence 59-38. Houston replaced DePaul as the No. 3 team with 1,097 points. The Blue Demons, upset by Dayton 72-71 on Saturday, fell to fifth place. And despite withstanding a scare from Vanderbilt 58-54 on Sunday, Kentucky advanced two places to No. 4.

The major surprise of the week was Nevada-Las Vegas' 68-43 loss to Fresno State which dropped the Runnin' Rebels from fifth to seventh behind Illinois which inched up to No. 6. Oklahoma and Texas-El Paso each climbed one spot to eighth and ninth, respectively, while Tulsa entered the Top Ten for the first time this season as No. 10.

UTEP was in action Monday night, defeating Colorado State 62-55 as Fred Reynolds scored 16 of his 17 points in the second half.

Indiana and Louisiana State, tied for 17th last week, dropped out of the Top Twenty, giving way to Auburn at No. 19 and Oregon State at No. 20. Both had been in the rankings previously.

However, Auburn was upset by Tennessee 57-54 Monday night when Willie Burton hit two free throws to break a tie with 40 seconds remaining.

Also in the Second Ten, Arkansas, Duke and Temple continued to draw support. The Razorbacks, 21-4, advanced three places to No. 11 while Duke, a winner over Stetson and Wake Forest, soared five places to No. 14, one spot ahead of Wake Forest, which slipped from No. 13.

Temple, undefeated in the Atlantic 10 and 20-2 overall, moved up three to No. 17, while Purdue dropped from 12th to No. 13. Syracuse remained at No. 16 and Washington, a 64-52 loser to Oregon State, fell three places to No. 18.

Vols Utilize Clock To Upset Auburn

By The Associated Press
First, the Tennessee Volunteers took their time. Then they took care of 19th-ranked Auburn.

Using the Southeastern Conference's 45-second shot clock to its advantage, Tennessee slowed down the pace in dealing the Tigers a 57-54 loss in college basketball Monday night.

"They ran 40 seconds off the clock and made us play defense for 40 seconds and then would get off a shot with five seconds left," lamented Auburn Coach Sonny Smith. "Tennessee did what it had to do to win. We didn't deserve to win."

The score was tied 51-51 with 40 seconds left when Willie Burton made two free throws to put the visiting Volunteers ahead. Rob Jones then tipped in Dan Federmann's missed free throw with 11 seconds remaining for a four-point cushion.

In other Top Twenty games, ninth-ranked Texas-El Paso beat Colorado State 62-55 and No. 12 Memphis State nipped Southern Mississippi 69-67 in overtime.

Tennessee got balanced scoring as Jones led the Vols with 13 points and Federmann and Kirk Naler had 10 apiece.

"There is no question about it, this was our best game of the year," said Tennessee Coach Don DeVoe. "We did a great job of controlling the tempo."

Auburn led 39-34 midway through the second half before Tennessee rallied to take a 44-43 lead with 5:09 left on a dunk by Jones. The teams swapped baskets until the decisive final minute.

The Tigers slipped to 16-7 overall and 10-4 in the conference and missed a chance to tie Kentucky for the SEC lead. Tennessee is 16-11 overall and 7-8 in the SEC.

Top Twenty

Texas-El Paso, 23-2, spent considerable time at the foul line in downing Colorado State in Western Athletic Conference action.

The host Miners hit nine of 11 free throws in the first half and made 15 of 20 from the foul line after intermission. The visitors, meanwhile, attempted just three free throws in the game.

Senior Fred Reynolds, who scored one point in the first half, added 16 in the second half as Texas-El Paso avenged its first loss of the season, which came at Colorado State last month.

Southern Mississippi had chances to beat Memphis State near the end of regulation and again in overtime, but the Eagles did not take advantage of either opportunity and ended up losing the Metro Conference game at home.

With the score tied 67-67 in the closing seconds of overtime, Memphis State's Keith Lee stole the ball as Southern Miss tried to set up for a final shot. Lee passed to Andre Turner, who missed a 20-foot shot, but Lee tipped in the rebound at the buzzer to win it.

Lee led Memphis State, 20-4, with 27 points and 15 rebounds.

With 11 seconds left in regulation and the game tied, James Williams of Southern Miss missed the front end of a one-and-one to send the game into overtime.

Other Games

Charles Jones scored 23 points and was one of five Louisville players in double figures as the Cardinals beat Wright State 90-69. Louisville led the defending Division II champions 49-29 at halftime.

Freshman guard Darryl Gresham sank three foul shots and added a slam dunk in the final minute to help Florida hold off Georgia 70-64 in the Southeastern Conference. Gresham finished with 13 points.

In other SEC games, junior center Bobby Lee Hurt's 25 points and eight rebounds powered Alabama past Mississippi 74-65 and Don Redden scored eight of his 31 points during a 15-4 burst that carried Louisiana State over Mississippi State 85-70.

Graylin Warner tallied 19 points as Southwestern Louisiana scored the game's first seven points and went on to defeat Wichita State 78-61.

Tim Kearney sank a short jump shot at the buzzer as West Virginia got past Virginia Tech 68-67. West Virginia trailed 41-23 at halftime.

Vern Giscombe scored 17 points and Tim Coles had 16 points and 15 rebounds as Connecticut beat Providence 62-59 in the Big East Conference.

Mark Price scored 18 points, many from long range, as Georgia Tech downed Maryland Eastern Shore 70-61.

Florida State, helped by Al Gipson's 19 points, held on to edge Tulane 52-51 in the Metro Conference.

Sam Potter scored 24 points and Charles Dorsey added 22 on 11-of-11 shooting from the floor as Oral Roberts outscored Butler 105-100 in the Midwestern City College Conference.

Clifford Morgan made two free throws with 19 seconds left to help Tennessee-Chattanooga beat Davidson 63-60 in the Southern Conference.

South Florida, which got 24 points from Charlie Bradley, scored the final seven points of the game to squeak past Alabama-Birmingham 58-57 in the Sun Belt.

In other games, Barry Mungar's 20 points helped St. Bonaventure defeat Boston University 75-60; Vernon Butler had 20 points as Navy beat East Carolina 66-56; and Nelson Franse, who made 10 of 11 shots from the field, hit a 20-footer at the buzzer as New Mexico nipped Air Force 49-48 in the Western Athletic Conference.

Seaver Joins White Sox

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Tom Seaver, armed with 273 triumphs, has joined the Chicago White Sox to round out what could be one of the most devastating pitching staffs in the major leagues this season.

"It's nice to have my feet on the ground after the last few weeks and it's a tremendous relief to put on a uniform again," said Seaver who was claimed by the White Sox as compensation for the drafting of free agent pitcher Dennis Lamp by Toronto.

Shocked, stunned and dismayed to learn the Mets had not protected him, Seaver at first indicated he would not report to the White Sox and might retire. But he agreed to join the club when final terms of his contract were ironed out last week.

"Retirement would have been a last resort, my last alternative," Seaver said Monday. "I felt all along that I would pitch someplace."

Seaver, 39, had a 9-14 record with the Mets last season with a 3.55 earned run average.

Ga. Tech Survives

ATLANTA (AP) — Coach Bobby Cremins said Georgia Tech played the game just like the Atlanta media had tabbed it — as little more than a practice scrimmage.

"This was not the case, but that's the way we went about it," Cremins said after the Yellow Jackets struggled to a 70-61 victory over Maryland-Eastern Shore Monday night.

"We went about it like a warmup game, and we almost got burned," Cremins said.

The Jackets, 17-7, never could put away the underdog Hawks, who chipped a 15-point deficit with 5:19 remaining to a seven-point deficit with two minutes to play.

"I tried to tell the kids that Georgia State beat Tennessee and that if you don't wake up anybody can beat you," Cremins said. "The game was disappointing. I guess the biggest thing that we learned is we've got to be more ready."

Mark Price tallied 18 points and John Salley 14 to lead the Jackets, who opened the game with leads of 6-0 and 9-2, but saw the Hawks cut the lead to 16-14 with 10:30 left in the first half.

Tech led 36-26 at halftime and seemingly was set to blow the game open when Price tallied six points in a 16-6 run that created a 58-44 lead with 8:45 remaining.

"I've got to give it to how hard my guys played and refused to quit," Eastern Shore Coach Kirkland Hall said.

"It's always tough on the road and it's even tougher when you play a club the caliber of Georgia Tech," he added. "We didn't get much help from the officials, but you don't expect too much when you're on the road. Apparently they played good defense because we only shot two free throws."

The Hawks had a 30-29 advantage in field goals, and hit one of their only two free throw attempts. Tech went 12 of 20 at the line, with freshman Bruce Dalrymple hitting only four of nine to see his string of 25 in a row end.

Eastern Shore's Donnell Boney stole the individual spotlight, pouring in 28 points by hitting 14 of 21 floor shots, many from long range.

Boney had his team's first 12 points in the game and his cousin, Robert Boney, added 10 for the Hawks, who fell to 6-18 for the year, including a 2-13 road record.

USFL Heads To Second Season Facing Lagging Ticket Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — With two of its charter members on the financial ropes and several other clubs facing lagging ticket sales, the United States Football League moves into its second season in desperate need of another Herschel Walker.

"Ticket sales are off in a number of cities with the biggest problem areas in San Antonio, Washington and Chicago," according to Dom Camera, the USFL's Director of Marketing, using figures through Friday, Feb. 17.

The much ballyhooed signing of Walker last year, at the time an All-American at the University of Georgia and the Heisman Trophy winner, spurred ticket sales and gave instant legitimacy to the new league.

"Herschel was a shot in the arm for the whole league last year," Camera noted. "Unfortunately there is no Walker this time."

According to figures compiled by the league, half the 12 clubs that fielded teams last year have sold fewer season tickets this year. In addition, three of the six new entrants in the league are experiencing lagging ticket sales.

San Antonio, one of the new expansion franchises has been hurt by a squabble, recently resolved, with city officials over the availability of a stadium.

"The ownership decided early not to sell any tickets until they were sure they had the stadium," said Camera, adding that "as a result the team has sold only 5,000 season tickets."

Doing the best are the Arizona Wranglers, formerly the Chicago Blitz, whose ticket sales are up 39 percent and the USFL champion Michigan Panthers, who are up 292 percent.

In Tampa Bay, home of the Bandits and site of this year's championship game, over 33,000 season tickets have been sold with 50,000 expected for the season opener.

"From a marketing standpoint, Tampa is our Dallas Cowboys," said Camera. "Sixty percent of everything the league markets says Tampa Bay, 25 percent goes to Michigan with the other 16 teams splitting the final 15 percent."

In addition to Tampa, Arizona and Michigan, other teams running ahead or even with last year's advance ticket sales are Birmingham and Philadelphia and the Breakers' franchise, which moved in the off-season from Boston to New Orleans.

Pittsburgh, which signed Heisman Trophy winner Mike Rozier, leads the new franchises with over 25,000 season ticket holders. Jacksonville (25,000) and Memphis (20,000) are both heading over the league's professed break-even point of 25,000.

New Jersey, Oakland, Denver and Los Angeles are either down slightly or even with last year's ticket sales.

Houston, with an advance season sale of 16,000, and Oklahoma, 13,000, have joined San Antonio in the bottom third of the league's pre-season attendance derby.

The Washington Federals are in the deepest difficulty.

Following a dismal performance on the playing field (4-14) and plagued by bad weather (the first six home games were played in the rain) the Federals have seen ticket sales drop from 19,000 in 1983 to 8,800 this year.

"The trouble in Washington is that they have nothing to sell," Camera said. "Just about everything that could go wrong has. They follow the Redskins in Washington which is one tough act to follow, plus their troubles with the weather. Last year's highlight film looked like it was filmed in Brazil."

An unusual switch of franchises in the off-season between the Chicago Blitz and Arizona Wranglers has left Chicago in the cold.

The Blitz, under coach George Allen, was one of the league's top attractions last year. With the team in Arizona this year, season ticket sales in the Valley of the Sun have zoomed from 6,000 in 1983 to over 20,000 today.

got us a little disorganized at the start of the second half, and we got frustrated when they got aggressive."

Joy Peaden fired in 21 points and Cynthia Hart 16 to lead Farmville into the semifinals against regular season champion SouthWest Edgecombe. Stephanie Newton added 14 points and Lisa Lang 10 for Farmville Central.

Ellen Lewis paced Southern Nash with 13 points, while Sandy Montague added 12 and Barbara Bryant 11.

The Lady Jaguars led 16-15 at the end of the first period, Bryant connected from outside with just 16 seconds elapsed in the second quarter to give the Lady Birds their first lead of the night. The lead changed hands five times before Peaden scored on a follow shot with 4:49 remaining to put the Lady Jags ahead to stay at 24-23.

Farmville Central outscored Southern Nash 11-2 through the 1:49 mark of the second period to take a 35-25 advantage and maintained a 37-27 margin at intermission.

Bryant pumped in a shot from 17 feet out to open the second half for the Lady Birds, but Farmville Central rattled off the next nine points to set the score at 46-29 with 5:58 left in the third period.

A pair of field goals by Lewis helped Southern Nash trim the margin to 53-41 at the end of the third quarter, and Corliss Hall's layup after the opening tipoff of the final period cut the gap to 10.

The Lady Jags again built the lead to 14, but again Southern Nash whittled it down to 57-47 with 6:48 to be played.

Farmville Central crushed the Lady Birds' hopes of an upset when the Lady Jags posted eight unanswered points and outscored Southern Nash 12-2 through the 3:13 mark for a 69-49 advantage — their biggest of the night.

"I thought my girls were more ready to play tonight than they have been in a while," Farmville Coach Hilda Worthington said. "Peaden and Hart gave us a lot of points inside, and that really made the difference.

"Now we've got to play SouthWest Edgecombe, and that's not going to be easy."

The Lady Jags face Eastern Carolina Conference champion SouthWest Edgecombe Wednesday at 6:30 p.m.

Arizona Signs Sanchez As USFL Trims Rosters

By The Associated Press

While other United States Football League teams were cutting down to the opening-game limit Monday, the Arizona Wranglers were signing their No. 1 draft choice, UCLA defensive back Lupe Sanchez.

Sanchez signed a three-year contract with the Wranglers, calling it "an opportunity I couldn't pass up. I got what I wanted and I'm very happy to be here."

Coach George Allen said the signing of Sanchez was vital since cornerback Carl Allen is out indefinitely after separating his right shoulder in a scrimmage two weeks ago.

"He'll fit right in with our style of defense," Allen said of the 5-foot-10, 187-pound Sanchez. "He can play both corners. He has good speed and quickness. He has good hands and returns kicks. And what I like about him is he's a smart player and he has dancing feet, which is very important in a defensive back."

Arizona also announced that it has traded two future draft choices to the Philadelphia Stars for defensive tackle Mark Bubben, cut eight players and placed six others on injured reserve to get its roster down to 50. All USFL teams are allowed 40 active players, while the 12 holdover teams also have a 10-player developmental squad, which swells to 13 for the six new franchises.

Elsewhere, the Pittsburgh Maulers put running back Amos Lawrence and guard Scott Burris on injured reserve. The Maulers also released eight players, including Dave Jacobs, who was expected to be their regular placekicker, and strong safety Derrick Goddard, who had been competing for a starting job.

The Oklahoma Outlaws, another fledgling franchise, reduced their roster by cutting eight players, including punter Rick Engles, who spent parts of three seasons in the National Football League, and trading defensive end Joe Gary to Birmingham for a future draft choice. The release of Engles left the team without a first-string punter heading into Sunday's season opener.

The New Orleans Breakers disclosed that tight end Dan Ross, who balked at joining the Breakers when they moved from Boston to New Orleans, will rejoin them. Ross, who played five years with the NFL's Cincinnati Bengals, originally signed with the Breakers when they were based in Boston last season. He joined the team for one day earlier this month and then was traded to the Chicago Blitz. But Randy Vataha, the Breakers' president, said the trade wouldn't stand up because of complications in Ross' contract.

By The Associated Press

The Breakers cut six players Monday and will have to drop one more when Ross reports.

The Oakland Invaders waived eight players, including veteran NFLers quarterback Mike Livingston and safety Benny Barnes, and traded offensive tackle Kurt Jonker to the Memphis Showboats for an undisclosed draft choice.

The defending champion Michigan Panthers placed all-league guard Thom Dornbrook and two others on injured reserve and waived four players. Dornbrook injured his knee Saturday in an exhibition game against Oakland and was to undergo surgery and could be out for the season.

The Philadelphia Stars got down to the

Alexis Smith Should Bring Touch Of Class

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Alexis Smith gives "Dallas" a major shot of class next month when she becomes a regular cast member of that band of two-timing, bed-jumping Texas oilionaires.

But then Alexis would add a touch of class to the court of St. James.

She, along with Audrey Hepburn, Grace Kelly and Candice Bergen, epitomized Hollywood's concept of glacial, aristocratic beauties whose very presence enhanced the style and grace of any situation.

Usually, too, these paragons of selective breeding traditionally were dressed in high style gowns, rich furs and extravagant jewelry.

All looked regally at home wearing tiaras, as compared to, say, Teri Garr, Debra Winger and Sissy Spacek.

For whatever reason, the cool, elegant, statuesque lady has disappeared from films and television,

Sholokhov Said Died At Age 78

MOSCOW (AP) — Mikhail A. Sholokhov, the author of "Quiet Flows The Don" and the only officially sanctioned Soviet writer to win the Nobel Prize for literature, has died, official Soviet sources said today. He was 78.

The sources, who insisted on anonymity, said Sholokhov died Monday night. No details of his death were immediately available.

Sholokhov won the coveted Nobel prize in 1965, 30 years after he published his first and best known novel. Asked his reaction on receiving the prize, Sholokhov replied, "I smiled, sighed quietly — and thought it was too late."

"I am proud to be the first Soviet and the first Russian writer to win the Nobel Prize," he said.

Boris Pasternak, whose major work, "Doctor Zhivago," has never been officially published here, was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1958 but refused under pressure to accept it. Exiled writer Alexander Solzhenitsyn was awarded the prize in 1970.

In awarding Sholokhov the prize, the Nobel committee cited him for "the artistic power and integrity with which, in his epic of the Don, he has given creative expression to a historic phase in the history of the Russian people."

Sholokhov scorned dissident Soviet writers and was an outspoken critic of Pasternak, whom he once called "a poet for old maids."

He remained in the official spotlight throughout his life, touted as a model Soviet author, and he spoke out in support of official Soviet policies, including efforts to get the international literary world to campaign against U.S. foreign policies.

"I am first and foremost a Communist," he said in a 1962 speech. "Only thereafter am I a writer."

Sholokhov was born May 24, 1905, in the Cossack village of Veshenskaya. His formal schooling ended at 13.

When he was 15 he joined a Communist armed band requisitioning food from peasants and later became a machine gunner fighting anti-Soviet forces in his native Don River area.

His first story, "The Birthmark," appeared when he was 19, and by the time he was 21 he was at work on "And Quiet Flows The Don," a massive story of the Cossacks around the Don during and after the Bolshevik revolution. As published in the United States, it ran 755 pages and nearly 250,000 words.

He didn't finish the final part of the book until 1940.

Meanwhile, he began his second major work, "Virgin Soil Upturned," an expose of Josef Stalin's brutal collectivization of Soviet farmlands that took 8 million Russian peasant lives in 1929-31.

"Virgin Soil Upturned" came under fire from some Soviet critics concerned that the novel portrayed some characters as being too humanly flawed.

But Sholokhov never was in serious disfavor and even at the height of the Stalinist control of literature, he was regarded as one of the epitomes of socialist realism, the official artistic line.

Still, the second part of "Virgin Soil Upturned," the part that dealt with the worst excesses of collectivization, was not published until 1959 — the year Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev, a friend of Sholokhov's, denounced Stalin.

Sholokhov became a member of the Communist Party in 1932, and in 1949 joined the Soviet Academy of Sciences. In 1961, he was elected to the Communist Party Central Committee, the group that ousted Khrushchev in 1964.

perhaps because they are a disappearing breed in these days of feminicm, punk fashions and sexual promiscuity.

Alexis will bring her considerable hauteur to "Dallas" in the role of Lady Jessica Montford, a titled former Texan who returns from England to visit her brother, Clayton Farlow, played by Howard Keel.

Lady Montford will, inevitably, run afoul of J.R. Ewstar in movies and on stage since the 1940s.

She disconcerted "Dallas" producers. Never having watched the nighttime soap, Alexis had no idea of who played whom, the story lines or even whether Sue Ellen was fooling around with her kid's swimming instructor.

"There's a lot of mystery working on 'Dallas,'" Alexis said during a noon break in the MGM commissary. "They don't tell you in advance what your character is up to or what plans they have for her.

"Sometimes they take a page or two out of the script so you won't give away any secrets. But I can tell you this much, Lady Montford is up to no good."

Alexis is no stranger to playing ingenues, but she never lost her grand lady image, even in bitchy, sinister roles.

Her introduction to elegant parts began in 1941 with Errol Flynn and Fred MacMurray in "Dive Bomber" at Warner Bros. Milo Anderson provided an exquisite wardrobe, and Alexis' screen image was established forever after.

A rare occasion when she wasn't splendidly wardrobe was as Ronald Reagan's jeans-clad leading lady in "Stallion Road" (1947). Her friendship with the president endures. Last year he invited her to the White House.

"I realized I hadn't lost my image when someone asked me what sort of woman I was going to play in "Dallas," Alexis said. "I replied, 'Well, I play this very rich woman...' It seems I've played them all my life.

"I was never an ingenue. Diminutive women and girls play ingenues. It becomes them to be shy and retiring. But when you're tall — and I'm 5-foot-9 — you can't convincingly be coy and demure."

Alexis is well aware of her on-screen, off-screen ice princess reputation, a sort of unapproachable demeanor that keeps people at a distance. Those who know her, however, are delighted with her sense of humor and amiability.

"I think your background has something to do with the ladylike image," she said. "Maybe it comes from a basic shyness that is mistaken for hauteur.

"I was born in Canada and reared in a strict Presbyterian atmosphere, which eliminates a lot of things. I wasn't allowed to date until I was 16.

My family believed in high standards and decent language.

"My appearance, I know, gives strangers pause about approaching me. It puts them on the defense and they don't come on strong to me. It gives me, not them, the choice of making the first move.

"People's preconceived image of me is serviceable. Guys don't tell me dirty stories. I hear people say, 'Not in front of Alexis.' A 10-year-old kid could be standing beside me, but they're more concerned about not offending me.

"The big departure from my usual roles was 'The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas' on Broadway and for 14 months on the road. It was great fun after all those elegant ladies.

"But let me tell you something about ice princesses. You can't believe how interesting and imaginative they can be in a romantic situation when they thaw out!"

'American Playhouse' On Public TV Stages A Short Story By I.B. Singer

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — For many of the patrons, the cafeteria is a second home: a place to meet friends, converse in the mother tongue, contemplate mortality.

"We sit, we eat rice pudding," says the rabbi, "and between the raisins, we wonder ... who's next?"

"You heard about Dershowitz?" the painter asks a year or so later. "Used to sit over by the men's room. ... No. He went to Los Angeles ... real estate."

Most of the regulars in "The Cafeteria," tonight on public TV's "American Playhouse," are Jewish refugees from Poland and Russia; no wonder they worry about death and disappearance.

Some, like Esther, seem to confuse nightmarish past with cheerless present: "These are the plain facts," she insists after telling Aaron, the noted Yiddish writer, that she saw Hitler in the cafeteria the night the building burned. "Why would I make up such a queer thing?"

"A vision," Aaron replies. "You had a vision. ... A glimpse back in time."

Much of Aaron's narration, and a good deal of the dialogue, in Amram Nowak's first-class production was drawn intact from Isaac Bashevis Singer's short story of the same name. Frequently, that technique results in a stilted, bookish sound; here, it works, thanks to Singer's sensitive ear.

"The Cafeteria" is set on New York City's Upper West Side. Nowak takes full advantage of the urban atmosphere, and the interior scenes — shot in the city's only surviving cafeteria, Dubrow's on 7th Avenue in midtown — are particularly effective.

The superior cast includes Bob Dishy as Aaron, Guy Sorel as the rabbi, Pierre Epstein as the painter, Zohra Lampert as Esther, Howard da Silva as the cafeteria-critic and Joe Silver as Gruenwald the lawyer. Neither the critic nor the lawyer are speaking characters in the written work.

Aaron, who narrates the haunting tale, says he wandered into the cafeteria shortly after emigrating to this country from Europe 30 years ago. At first, he was mystified by all the people carting trays. "I said to myself, 'Why are there so many waiters in such a small place?' But when I finally understood, I began to like cafeterias very much."

Nowadays, he spends much of his time in distant places, writing and lecturing. "There are times when I need my Yiddish, to hear and to speak," he says. "So I have my cafeteria ... a foible."

One day, he meets Esther, a woman in her early 30s. She remembers reading Aaron's books and stories while in prison camps in Russia and Nazi Germany. "She said to me, 'You are my writer.' The moment she uttered those words," Aaron says, "I imagined I was in love with her."

Esther invites Aaron to her apartment. "I had affairs with many women in this neighborhood," Aaron says to himself, "and I wondered if anything would come of it."

Esther's legless, embittered father is there, and nothing does. "There is no such thing as love," the old man growls. "Give me a cigarette. In the camp, people climbed on one another like worms."

Weeks, months pass — the cafeteria is damaged by fire, then rebuilt — and then another year or two, maybe more. Aaron and Esther see one another infrequently, and always by chance.

Late one night, the wretched woman comes unannounced to Aaron's apartment. "I want you to know," she says, "I saw Hitler. It was here, on Broadway. ... In the cafeteria."

"How could the brain produce such nightmares?" Aaron wonders to himself, "What goes on in that little marrow behind the skull?"

Then, something happens that forces him to reconsider.

"I thought about what Esther had told me about Hitler," he says. "But now, I began to reappraise the idea. If time and space are nothing more than forms of perception, as Kant argues, why shouldn't Hitler confer with his Nazis in a cafeteria on Broadway?"

Nowak has managed, with deft touch, to maintain the spirit of Singer's original — something he could not have done on a soundstage. Look, especially, for the large mural on the cafeteria wall.

Has Lead Role In Production

ELIZABETH CITY — Gary Wayne Savage, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene J. Savage of Greenville, has been cast in a leading role in the Elizabeth City State University's production of "No Place To Be Somebody."

The play is scheduled for a three-performance run on Thursday, Friday and Sunday at 8:15 p.m. in the Little Theater, located on the ECSU campus in Elizabeth City.

Savage, a graduate of Rose High School, is a senior political science major. He will portray Johnny Williams, owner of a New York bar who is trying to break into the world of organized crime. For information on tickets, call 335-3436.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is one of those days when you need to use a considerable amount of self-control to avoid getting involved in arguments. Proceed with caution.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't argue over some account with a business person; quietly go over figures and make sure you didn't make a mistake.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) It is best that you compromise with another over some long-time matter that is important to both of you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You may not like what a fellow worker is doing; forget about it for now, and save yourself a lot of trouble.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You may feel that your talents should be appreciated instead of criticised. Take care you do not spend too much on pleasure and then later regret it.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Do nothing erratic that family would not approve of. Not a good time to invite guests into your home. Read, watch TV or listen to the radio.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Talk over with allies how to get ahead. Be careful on the highway. Make sure your car is in good running order.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Your business affairs worry you some, but don't make any radical changes. Clear out the bugs in present set up. Listen to experts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study how to get rid of your frustrations and then do so, but be tactful. Don't permit a friend to upset you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be careful not to argue with one who is disturbed and wants to take frustrations out on you. Happiness is yours.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Clarify what it is you most want. One who has problems expects your aid, but be tactful in what you do. Don't get caught in a trap.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Use care in handling vocational or political matters. Do not jeopardize your good name. Do not ask any favors.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are impelled to make changes and get into new projects; study them but don't take any action. Take yourself more seriously.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be someone who has the ability to get right at the core of any matter, and should have a good education, since the mind is brilliant here. Teach not to criticize others so much, even if done in a humorous way.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Presidents Abroad

On February 21st, 1972, Richard Nixon became the first President to visit Communist China while in office. Nixon spent nearly half of his 5½ years in office away from the White House. Franklin Roosevelt traveled a total of about 364,000 miles during his 12 years in office. Eisenhower once made a journey of more than 22,000 miles, visiting 11 countries in 19 days. Of the past 8 Presidents, Truman spent the least time away from Washington.

6 ♠ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♠.

Even seemingly simple hands usually offer several lines of play. For example, there are three possible ways to attack this hand. What are they, which would you choose and why?

After South's demand opening bid — justified because of his great playing strength — North set the suit immediately. A cue-bidding sequence propelled North-South to slam in quick time.

West's opening lead was most damaging — it removed the only side entry to the table. Declarer's first thought was to play to drop the queen of trumps; holding nine cards in a suit, that is slightly better than a 52 percent shot. If that doesn't work, declarer can still hope to drop a singleton king of diamonds, to increase his chances slightly.

The second chance is to use the entry to dummy to take an immediate diamond finesse. While the finesse can be repeated, it really needs a 2-2 diamond break as well, for if the diamonds are 3-1, one of the defenders will be able to get a ruff in the suit. All things considered, this is a much inferior line to the one above.

The last possibility is to take the trump finesse at trick two. If that succeeds, declarer is home regardless of what happens in the diamond suit. But even if the trump finesse fails, South has not yet lost his contract. He will still land his slam if East has the king of diamonds and the suit breaks no worse than 3-1. The combination of two finesses is a better than 75 percent chance, and is by far the best line.

Declarer now has another entry to the board in the remaining trump honor. He wins any return, cashes a high trump and crosses to dummy with a trump. Now he runs the nine of diamonds. South will still land his slam if East has the king of diamonds and the suit breaks no worse than 3-1.

The combination of two finesses is a better than 75 percent chance, and is by far the best line.

Farm Insurance Rates To Increase

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina Rate Bureau officials say a planned increase in the cost of farmers' home insurance is reasonable considering the inflation rate since the last increase nearly 20 years ago.

The bureau said Monday it will increase rates by 17.2 percent on property covered under the farmowners program beginning April 1 while a rate case is appealed through the courts.

It is the first increase since 1966. "Given the inflation rate since the last increase, we consider this a very reasonable request, one that is completely borne out by the numbers," bureau manager Paul L. Mize said.

Mize said homeowners' insurance rates have increased an average of 27.5 percent in the 18 years since the last rate increase for farm property.

The bureau's increase was denied by Insurance Commissioner John Ingram in January, but under state law, the bureau can put the changes in effect pending action by the courts.

Bureau officials said they plan to appeal the denial within the next week to 10 days.

William F. Trawick, assistant manager of the bureau for property insurance, said even with the increase, North Carolina farmers will pay lower rates than in surrounding states.

The top basic annual premium on a $35,000 policy for a frame house in Wake County is currently $262.50. Under the revised rates, with a $100 deductible, the basic annual premium on the same house will be $316.40.

"Compare these figures," said Trawick, "with Tennessee, where an annual premium for the same insurance runs $434 a year, or South Carolina, where it costs $639."

The change in rates applies to coverage on farm residences and their contents and related buildings such as garages and pump houses. It does not apply to insurance purchased under the farmowners' policy for barns, livestock or machinery.

Mize said the filing will also make other changes in farm coverage. The mandatory deductible will become $100, he said, but farmers can opt for a higher deductible and reduce premium costs, with up to a 20 percent savings on a $1,000 deductible.

Mize said farmers will also be able to earn a 2 percent premium credit by equipping their homes with approved smoke detection devices.

The bureau was established by the Legislature in 1977 and has jurisdiction over insurance rates for private passenger cars, private dwellings and workers compensation.

Treatment Center Records Missing

GREENSBORO (AP) — Guilford County officials say an alcoholism treatment program is running smoothly though an unknown number of patient records are missing and a family counseling service hasn't functioned in three months.

Almost six months have passed since the director of Crawford Alcoholism Treatment Center resigned and the Guilford County Board of Commissioners ordered a study on reorganizing its entire alcoholism services program.

Laurence Pandolfo, Guilford County's alcoholism services director, says an unknown number of outpatient records are missing from the Crawford center, a 24-bed residential unit.

Son Charged In Woman's Death

CATAWBA, N.C. (AP) — The son of a woman found in a shallow Caldwell County grave has been charged with her murder, according to Caldwell County deputies.

The body of Sumie Takimoto Triplett, a 59-year-old Japanese-born textile worker, was unearthed north of Lenoir Saturday afternoon. Her son, Bobby Dean Triplett, 31, is being held in Caldwell County Jail without bond.

An autopsy Sunday by the state medical examiner in Chapel Hill determined the woman's death was by strangulation, Detective Steve Reid said.

Performance, Experience Key To Pay Plan

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina public school teachers would be paid based on their performance and experience under a plan proposed by an educational advisory group.

The personnel committee of the Public Education Policy Council tentatively approved the group's plan Monday.

Under the plan, teachers would primarily be evaluated and paid according to classroom performance, but criteria such as experience would also be taken into account.

Teachers would be classified in several categories, ranging from entry level to a level signifying more than 16 years experience. The recommendations would, in effect, de-emphasize the importance placed on teachers' advanced degrees when setting salary levels.

The council was created by the Legislature in 1983 to look at the fiscal and operational functions of the state's public school system. Members include legislators, other public officials and individuals from professional groups.

Rep. Josephus L. Mavretic, D-Edgecombe, the committee chairman, urged the advisory group to act quickly.

"We need to make our move now," he said. "We can't push (action) too far back, because if we do (delay), it's going to fall through the cracks."

The advisory organization made no specific recommendations on how much of a salary increase educators should receive under the proposal.

Cecil S. Banks, a member of the council and president-elect of the North Carolina Association of Educators, criticized the group for what he called a premature action.

"My concern is that once (the plan) is in print, you will start paying people just on performance," he said.

He said the recommendations could be used by school systems to reward just a few teachers while leaving most without a pay raise.

The group also made these recommendations:

- That a candidate for a superintendent's position have served as a school principal in the state and meet other requirements of set by the State Board of Education before becoming eligible.
- That a candidate for assistant principal or principal have at least 10 years' experience as a classroom teacher and at least a master's degree in education administration.
- That the Board of Education submit to the Legislature by Nov. 1 a plan to reflect a "more rigorous course of study" in teacher preparation programs.
- That school systems provide the chance for a year's sabbatical for those teachers who have taught seven to 16 years in public schools.

All the recommendations except the plan on teachers' classification plan were approved unanimously by the group.

Banks was the only member to object to the teachers' classification plan.

"We've got a long ways to go," he said. "There's going to be a lot of details that will have to be worked out to implement the policy that was worked out today."

The personnel committee is expected to complete its recommendations in 20 days. The recommendations will be drafted into bill form by the committee's staff and submitted to the full council for a vote.

The recommendations are then expected to be introduced in the Legislature.

Few Emergency Farm Loans Seen

By The Associated Press

Many North Carolina farmers who suffered heavy losses in the 1983 drought won't qualify for low-interest emergency federal loans because they had crop insurance to cover part of their losses, officials say.

Nationally, in counties declared disaster areas, an average of slightly more than two loans per county has been approved, but most applications have not yet been processed, Farmers Home Administration officials said.

The loans are being offered by the FHA.

The North Carolina average has not yet reached two per county in the 96 counties declared agricultural disaster areas, officials said.

To qualify for an emergency loan, a farmer must show at least a 30 percent loss in his main money crop. To qualify for the low-interest rates, a farmer must show that he cannot get the loan from other credit sources at reasonable terms.

If he meets all the requirements, the farmer can receive a loan for up to 80 percent of his actual losses to adverse weather at an interest rate of 5 percent on the first $100,000 borrowed and 8 percent on the remainder.

But many North Carolina farmers do not qualify because of the provision on the 30 percent loss, according to state officials.

Clyde O. Pickle, the Forsyth County supervisor of Farmers Home, said that no tobacco farmer has qualified so far because most tobacco growers had crop insurance to cover part of their losses and because an unused tobacco marketing quota can be carried over for 1984.

Larry Godwin, the state director of Farmers Home, said payments through the government's payment-in-kind program have also kept many applicants from qualifying. The PIK program pays farmers in commodities for reducing their acreage of that commodity.

Pickle said his office had received 26 applications for emergency loans. Six did not meet all the qualifications for a loan and were turned down. The other 18 are still being processed.

"We're not getting as many applications as we anticipated," Godwin said. He said 2,000 applications had been expected statewide, but he said he now estimates 1,000 to 1,500 will be received.

Still Look For Missing Soldier

ERWIN, N.C. (AP) — Rescue workers are still searching for a Fort Bragg soldier who fell into the rain-swollen Cape Fear River late Saturday when his canoe capsized.

Harnett County Sheriff Lewis Rosser said the missing soldier is believed to be William E. MacMichael, 37, of C Co., 2nd Batt., 7th Special Forces, one of four men who took part in the canoe trip.

Rescue efforts have been inhibited by strong currents in the Cape Fear, which was just a few feet below flood stage at the time of the accident.

The four men began the trip in four separate canoes, according to Rosser. One boat capsized early in the excursion so that four men were in three canoes. But at some point in the trip, in some extremely rough water, Rosser said that the remaining three boats also capsized.

Cool Over 'Room Tax'

RALEIGH (AP) — A 2 percent room tax to promote tourism is getting a cold shoulder from Wake County and Raleigh officials, who say it isn't appropriate to use taxes to support private industry.

The Greater Raleigh Chamber of Commerce and the Raleigh Hotel-Motel Association are urging local politicians to back the tax, which would be used to establish a tourism authority to attract tourists, businessmen and conventions.

The room tax would need approval by both the Raleigh city council and Wake County commissioners before local legislators would take it to the Legislature.

Raleigh Mayor Avery C. Upchurch says the room tax proposal doesn't have council support largely because of questions about pumping tax money into an advertising blitz by a private group.

Wake County commissioners chairman M. Edmund Aycock says commissioners have the same reservations.

"I have great reservations about the room tax because it isn't appropriate to use a government's taxing authority to collect revenues for a private industry," Aycock said. "By the same reasoning, there's just no end to what you could tax if we did this."

Avery and Upchurch said if hotels want to raise money to beef up tourism, they should place an additional charge on rooms and collect it themselves without government involvement.

But hotel operators say antitrust laws prevent them from negotiating room rates among themselves.

Similar room taxes have been levied in other North Carolina cities after approval for such taxes by the Legislature last year.

Mecklenburg County approved a 3 percent tax effective last Oct. 1 that will raise $900,000 in the first year. Buncombe County will soon begin spending its 2 percent tax proceeds on advertising.

Forsyth County's Tourism Development Authority is considering using its tax fund to hire a public relations firm. Haywood County, New Hanover County and Ocean Isle Beach are also imposing room taxes to develop tourism.
