Cranston Bows Out Upset Rejuvenates Hart

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

Gary Hart and Walter F. Mondale were back on the campaign trail bright and early today, Hart rejuvenated by an upset primary victory delivered by "cantankerous" New Hampshire voters and Mondale demonstrating his vow to fight to the end for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Hart returned to an electronics plant outside Manchester, N.H., where he had received an enthusiastic reception earlier this winter — this time to thank the white-coated technicians for helping spring his New Hampshire surprise.

"We will win others in the South, in the West and elsewhere," declared Hart before flying to Denver for a triumphant homecoming.

Mondale headed out early for afternoon stops in Georgia and Alabama — site of two of the three Southern primaries March 13 in which the former vice president hopes to establish dominance over Hart, who thus far has made little effort in the region.

But he first took time out to greet commuters at a Boston subway stop while an Irish band played in the background. Massachusetts also has a primary March 13 — the Super Tuesday that will provide the next big political barometer.

Also early this morning, Sen. Alan Cranston of California, the first man to enter the race, became the first to bow out after a disappointing seventh place finish.

"I know the difference between reality and dreams," Cranston said. "I know when to dream and how to count votes."

Mondale, a limping front-runner at best, predicted he would win the nomination despite Tuesday's surprise.

"I am ready to contest every primary ... I am ready to run this race and win," a somber Mondale told supporters late Tuesday.

But Hart, appearing on NBC's "Today" show, predicted today he would go "head to head in very close contests" with Mondale. "Instead of eight candidates going state to state, it is now two candidates going throughout the entire country," he said.

Sen. John Glenn of Ohio finished third. He described the results as "not so hot" for him, but that he wasn't even considering quitting. He has been challenging Mondale in Alabama, as has Jackson — fourth place here.

"I'm quite happy with the way things look for Super Tuesday," said Glenn, also on the "Today" show. Mondale's second-place finish in New Hampshire "opens the whole race up again," he said.

President Reagan beat Harold Stassen in a non-contested Republican primary. And he polled more write-in votes from Democrats than the final three finishers — Cranston and Ernest Hollings, and former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew.

Reagan said the Democratic results in New Hampshire will "stir things up" but declined to get into which candidate would make a tougher opponent for him in November.

"I'm not going to run against anyone," Reagan said while mingling with guests at a White House dinner. "I'm going to run on what we have been doing all along."

But Vice President George Bush said he was pleased with the New Hampshire surprise because "the more things keep churning around, the longer there is uncertainty on the other side, the better it is for us."

Askew was another potential dropout. Hollings said he'd follow the election calendar South.

Hart polled about 40 percent of the vote to 29 percent for Mondale, who had been heavily favored until polls began detecting a sudden shift the day before the voting. Glenn had 13 percent with Jackson and George McGovern locked at 6 percent.

Hart and Mondale aides were surprised by the outcome, particularly the margin of the senator's victory.

Iran Claims 'Aggression'

By ALEX EFTY
Associated Press Writer

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran said today that the U.S. military presence in the Persian Gulf is "an act of aggression and blackmail" and warned that Washington must take responsibility for any incident in the area.

A statement by Iran's Foreign Ministry, broadcast on Tehran Radio, said conditions established by the United States regarding air and sea movements around the U.S. vessels violate international law and represent support for Iraq. Iran and Iraq have been at war for 3½ years.

"The Islamic Republic of Iran, considering its responsibility to protect its sea and air borders, will under no circumstances accept this and strongly condemns it," said the statement by an unidentified ministry spokesman.

The United States, which has five Navy ships in the gulf and 30 more in the Indian Ocean, has declared a five-mile safety zone around them.

President Reagan sent the flotilla into the area in response to Iranian threats to close the Strait of Hormuz, through which 20 percent of the non-Communist world's oil passes.

On Sunday, a U.S. warship fired machine gun shots and flares at two Iranian frigates and an airplane to warn them off after they had approached too closely.

Today's statement represented the first Iranian reaction to the incidents but did not mention them directly.

The war was escalated last week after a series of Iranian offensives that began with a push by Iranian fighters into Iraq's southern border region, near the Persian Gulf and its oilfields.

In fighting Tuesday, Iraq claimed it won the biggest victory of the war by crushing an Iranian offensive and driving Iranian forces back across the border near the southern city of Basra.

But Tehran Radio claimed today that the Iraqi counterattack was "smashed" by Iranian forces using "special tactics."

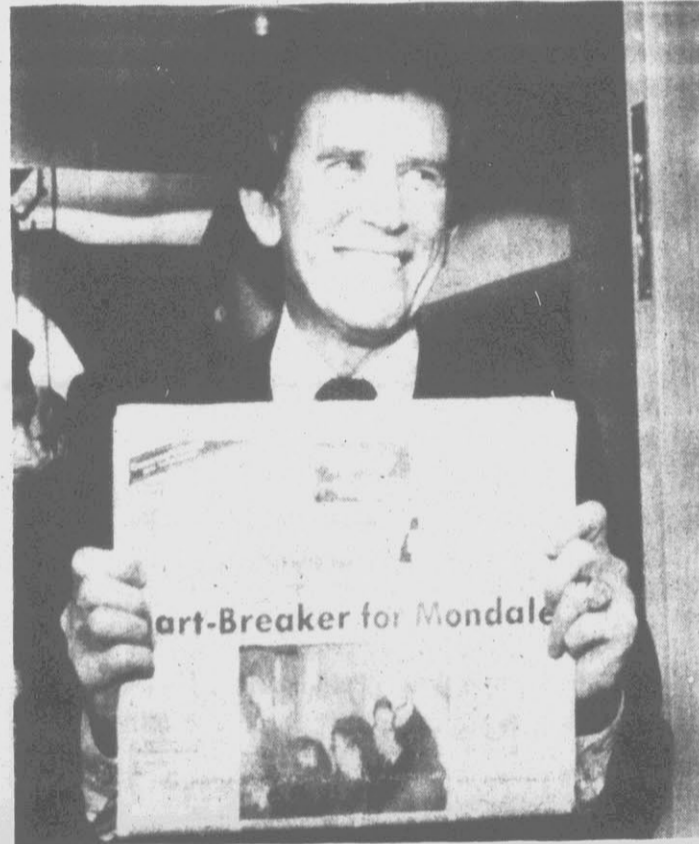

The claims could not be independently verified. Western reporters are rarely allowed into the war zone.

Associated Press reporter Mohammed Salam, along with other foreign journalists, visited a warfront town in the southern sector Tuesday escorted by the Iraqi army.

He reported seeing about 150 Iranian prisoners, irregulars ranging in age from 9 years to 57. From their own accounts, Salam said, at least some of the prisoners had received only minimal training before being sent to battle.

An Iraqi military communique, broadcast today on Baghdad radio, said 17 Iranian military commanders and three mullahs, Moslem religious leaders, were killed in a "purging operation" at Hur al-Huwayzah, in the marshlands of southeast Iraq where Iranians have been fighting.

The broadcast said Iranian prisoners of war identified five of the dead as a regiment commander, chief of staff and three brigade commanders.

Two Police Officers Out, Deputy Demoted In Probe

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Two Greenville police officers involved in a Feb. 14 chase through Greenville have left the department, and a Pitt County deputy sheriff has been suspended and demoted in connection with the incident. A teen-ager arrested after the chase contended he had been beaten.

Greenville Police Chief Ted Holmes said Officer Robert L. Gorham has resigned and that Officer Les Causey has been fired.

According to Sheriff Ralph Tyson, Deputy Jimmy Evans has been suspended for 30 days without pay and demoted. When Evans returns to work, Tyson said, he will be assigned as a regular field deputy in the civil division, rather than as an investigator.

Tyson declined to give specific reasons for Evans' suspension and demotion.

Holmes also declined to say why Gorham resigned and why Causey was fired. However, he did say that the department had been conducting an internal investigation separate and apart from an investigation being conducted by the State Bureau of Investigation, at the request of District Attorney Tom Haigwood.

However, other sources close to the investigation said Gorham told investigators several versions of his participation in the incident.

Causey, sources said, failed to cooperate with SBI agents who were giving officers involved in the chase polygraph or lie detector tests late last week.

Haigwood requested an SBI investigation of the incident after a juvenile passenger in a car chased from Chocowinity, through Greenville, to Winterville, was allegedly beaten by officers after the car was stopped. The youth displayed two black eyes when he attended a preliminary hearing for the driver, two days after the incident.

The district attorney said this morning that his investigation of the incident is still under way, and he did not know if any criminal charges would be filed in connection with the case.

About a dozen officers, including highway patrolmen, Greenville police, sheriff's deputies, East Carolina University officers and Winterville police, were involved in the chase.

Capt. Carl Gilchrist, Highway Patrol Troop A commander, said this morning that no disciplinary action will be taken against Trooper Ronald Mills, who began the chase on U.S. 17, 5 miles south Chocowinity.

In fact, Gilchrist said "I have commended Mills" for his actions. Gilchrist said Mills' actions in the chase were designed to stop the car "without anyone getting hurt."

Causey joined the police department in June 1974. Gorham first joined the department in April 1975, then resigned in July 1980 to accept other employment. He returned as an officer in August 1981.

Evans has been a deputy sheriff since January 1974.

Earlier, an ECU officer was demoted from the rank of sergeant to patrolman for his participation in the chase.

Joe Calder, chief of security at the university, said the demotion resulted because the officer participated in the chase against university policy.

Able To Walk Out Of Hospital

CHICAGO (AP) — Jimmy Tontlewicz, the 4-year-old boy who spent more than 20 minutes in icy Lake Michigan after a sledding accident last month, was able to walk out of the hospital accompanied by his mother and father.

Tontlewicz showed no vital signs when he first was pulled from the lake Jan. 15 and spent eight days in a coma.

Doctors at Children's Memorial Hospital, describing his recovery as remarkable, say he's in good condition physically but still recovering from injury to the brain.

The boy is speaking in sentences and can help dress himself, a hospital spokesman said. The youngster was transferred Tuesday to the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago.

Dedicate Inland Port

CHARLOTTE (AP) — North Carolina dedicated its first inland port Tuesday before about 40 governmental officials and business representatives.

State Commerce Secretary C.C. Hope Jr. cut the ribbon for the 23-acre facility, called the Charlotte Intermodal Terminal.

The ports authority opened the terminal Jan. 16 to help shippers simplify cargo handling and save money when they ship cargo to Wilmington, 200 miles to the east on the Atlantic Ocean.

By shipping directly to the Charlotte port facility, some shippers can save as much as half their transportation costs, port officials say. They explain that shippers save by sharing the expense of moving container freight by rail to and from Wilmington, rather than paying for special shipments by rail or truck.

The savings can range from $50 to $100 per container, according to Elwood Thomas, manager of the Charlotte terminal. A container is 40 feet long, 8 feet high and 8 feet wide.

The terminal has moved 75 containers to Wilmington since the facility opened, Thomas said.

Tom Taft of Greenville, chairman of the State Ports Authority, participated in the ceremonies.

JOB APPLICANTS, BEWARE

State Labor Commission John C. Brooks warns North Carolinians to beware of advertisements and promotions describing glamorous jobs, particularly in overseas locations, which require applicants to pay a fee before the job is secured.

He said the labor department's private personnel service division has investigated a Florida company which advertised in at least two N.C. daily newspapers last week for construction helpers, supervisors and operators to work on South American highway construction. Offering "excellent pay and benefits," the ads asked for "all kinds of heavy equipment operators, paving people, all trades plus electricians, welders, pipefitters, etc."

Persons who responded to the ad were asked to call a given phone number to set up a personal interview in Wrightsville Beach last Friday and Saturday with a representative of International Careers of Jacksonville, Fla. Some were told to forward a $475 fee to International Careers at its Florida address. Brooks said the company is not licensed to be operated in North Carolina and that North Carolina law prohibits a private personnel service from charging a registration or any other "up front" fee for assistance to a client in securing a job. "Fees to a private personnel service are payable by the client only when that person has accepted employment due to the services of the agency," Brooks said.

He said no one should send any fee to International Careers and that anyone who has already done so should immediately contact Hugh G. Horton Jr., director, N.C. Department of Labor Private Personnel Service Division, 111 E. North St., Raleigh, N.C. 27601; phone, 919-733-4895.

A 1979 law strengthened job applicant protection laws in North Carolina, Brooks said. It provides that all job listing service and applicant-paid private personnel services must be licensed by the N.C. Department of Labor, the agency charged with administering the law. It also includes strengthened contract requirements between an applicant and an agency, as well as authorization for the Labor Department to inspect licensed agencies upon receipt of a formal consumer complaint. The only private personnel agencies which need not be licensed in North Carolina are those whose fees are solely employer-paid, Brooks said.

Greenville Women Have Many 'Young Life' Accomplishments

By ROSALIE TROTMAN
Reflector Lifestyle Editor

Still a teen-ager according to her birthdate, Ann Whitehurst has graduated from college, taught school, is a wife and mother. Polly Little's grandchildren think its quite the thing to say that their grandmother is 20 years old. Their secret — Feb. 29, Leap Day, is their birthdate.

Mrs. Little was born in Larchwood, Iowa. When asked how she came to Greenville she said, "It was a long route." She taught school in Sioux Falls, S.D., and then Kansas City, Mo. After going into the commercial field in Chicago, as a stylist at Marshall Field and Co., Mrs. Little went from there to Detroit as head of the Kelvin Kitchens for Kelvinator Corp. where she met her future husband, James T. Little.

"They were married and moved to Greenville. She has lived here since 1935. "It was the most fortunate move of my life — I love the people and I love the town," she said.

"My most outstanding birthday was my third. My parents had a weekend house party for me and eight of my girlfriends came from Rock Rapids, Iowa, on the train — 16 miles. We went to the movies on Saturday night — it was a good weekend.

MRS. WHITEHURST

MRS. LITTLE

"I dated a young man while in college who was also born on Feb. 29. For a while it was the talk of the campus," she added.

"Recently I was talking to a doctor who said the computer had my birthdate wrong — Feb. 29. I told him that it was right. He said he had never known anyone with that birthdate," she said.

Mrs. Little has a son, James T. Little Jr. and two grandchildren, Tom and Barbara Little.

Mrs. Little learned of Mrs. Whitehurst's same birthdate through a member of her book club, Stella Debnam, who is Mrs. Whitehurst's aunt.

Mrs. Whitehurst was born at home in Rockingham County and was delivered by a general practitioner. "I was grown when I found out my birth certificate only said 'Baby Girl Huffines,'" she said.

Several of her birthdays have been celebrated by both family and surprise parties. "I generally celebrate my birthday in February because by March 1 I'm a year older," Mrs. Whitehurst said.

"When I was teaching high school in Danville, Va., I had a friend that taught in Charlottesville. On one birthday, my mailbox was stuffed with cards from her second graders. They had a hard time figuring out how I could only be 6 years old and still be teaching school," she added.

"I feel humble because so many people remember my unusual birthday and I can't remember all of theirs from year to year. This year I have heard from a couple of relatives that I only hear from on Leap Year birthdays. Friends do special things for me on my real birthdays.

"One of my favorite stories is finding out about another who has the same birthdate. I backed into his car and the policeman investigating the accident made the comment, 'You all have the same birthdates' as he was checking our driver's license," she said.

Mrs. Whitehurst and her husband, J.C., have three children, Elizabeth, Helen and Jim. They are going to entertain for her at a graffiti party.

ECU Medical School Receives Research Funds

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars presented $3,165 to the East Carolina Medical School for the Cancer Research project. The presentation was made by Belle Boyles of Kinston, chairman of the state cancer fund, at the state council meeting held in Charlotte.

Dr. Spencer Raab of the Medical School staff accepted the grant for the university. Dorothy Armistead, president, and Carrie West, secretary, represented the local auxiliary at the meeting. They made the announcement of the special grant at the meeting of the local auxiliary Thursday evening.

Magie Tyson, chairman of the cancer aid research committee, reported that $147.50 has been made from cake sales during the past month. She also read a letter from the Pitt County Cancer Society for the auxiliary's recent contribution.

Lillian Bradshaw noted that birthday gifts have been sent to adoptive residents of the O'Berry Center. The group voted to continue sponsorship of the two residents for another year.

A $100 contribution was made to the renovation fund for the Statue of Liberty and $50 was made to the American Heart Fund. A $50 contribution was also made to the chapel fund of the state institutions for retarded children in memory of Jean Polsun, former N.C. president of the auxiliary.

Alice Moseley announced the annual Gold Star banquet would be held March 23 at the Post Home.

A report on the recent visit of Harriet Timmons, national auxiliary president, to Kinston was made by Rosa Lee Boyd.

Lillie Randolph and Brenda Boyd were welcomed as new members. Mrs. Armistead conducted the installation ceremony.

A certificate of appreciation was awarded to the auxiliary for its services by the Salvation Army.

Hostesses of the evening were Marjorie Angstadt, Louise Bell, Rosa Lee Phillips, Lola Boyd and Mrs. West.

Homemaker's Haven

By Evelyn Spangler

The heating of water is the major source of energy required for handwashing dishes and utensils, apart from human input. Individual habits of water usage vary greatly. However, the higher costs of heating water present an important factor in encouraging efficient use for all household purposes. Of all the uses, dishwashing is one where no compromise in cleanliness is acceptable. Hot water is essential for hand dishwashing.

Estimates of hot water usage for hand dishwashing range from 9-24 gallons per meal, part of which is cold water. This wide range indicates not only household variations, but differing procedures. Undoubtedly, water temperatures vary greatly. Washing dishes, and particularly greasy utensils, in water less than 90 degrees F, even with sufficient detergent, is likely to leave a greasy film. The hottest water most individuals can stand is about 110 degrees F. Keeping dishwashing water as close to these upper limits as possible will provide good results. Conserve by reducing quantity rather than temperature.

Here are some sensible ways to save on hot water usage:

- Soak utensils with stubborn, burned-on or cooked-on soils using a liquid dishwashing detergent.
- Wipe off any food residues and heavy grease using a rubber spatula or paper towels.
- Wash items in a sink or dishpan of hot suds, rather than under running water, even for a few dishes.
- Wash lightly soiled items first, more heavily soiled later. Use enough liquid dishwashing detergent to produce a thick, rich layer of suds. Change the washing solution when it cools down, becomes greasy and dirty, or the suds disappear. Otherwise, the more heavily soiled pieces may not be adequately cleaned.
- Rinse by dipping each item in a pan of hot water. This is the most economical use of hot water. Or rack and spray rinse dishes. Avoid running hot water for rinsing.
- Save a few dishes from one meal to the next, rather than run hot water for each. Soaking will soften food soils.

There are times when the use of a disinfectant in home laundering may be desirable or necessary, for example, when there is an infection or contagious illness in the family.

Several types of disinfectants are available with liquid chlorine bleach, undoubtedly, the most common. There are other types of all-purpose household disinfectants that can be used as a laundry additive. They include quaternary compounds, phenolic compounds and pine oil products. When using a disinfectant in the wash or rinse cycle, select one that is safe for the load in terms of fabric and color. Read the package instructions and follow the manufacturer's recommendations on the amount and when to use the disinfectant. Measure carefully and add to the washer at the proper time in the cycle.

Dinner Honors Irene Prewett Tuesday Night

Irene Prewett, retiring social worker in the Children's Services area of the Pitt County Mental Health Center was honored Tuesday with a dinner at the Greenville Country Club.

Mrs. Prewett joined the Mental Health Center in July, 1973 and is the first full-time staff member to retire from the center. During her 10½ years with children's services, her service area has grown from two staff members to its present five-member team, she said. She served as coordinator for a portion of that time.

Mrs. Prewett said she has enjoyed the preventive aspects of working with children and their families. She said a major part of her work with children involved, "just being their friend. It isn't often the child can have the undivided attention of an adult without being scolded or told what to do."

Before coming to the Pitt County Center, Mrs. Prewett worked with Greensboro Family Services/Travelers' Aid and was a specialist in staff development training for the Headstart Program through the Learning Institute of North Carolina. In reviewing her life's work, Mrs. Prewett said she feels that the teamwork with her co-workers has been an important factor and that she will always treasure memories of specific cases. "Most of all," she said, "I'm always impressed with the strength of the human spirit to overcome what seem like impossible obstacles."

When retired, Mrs. Prewett said she will look forward to spending more time with her grandchildren, family and friends. She told her co-workers, "I have seven rocking chairs, but I don't intend to rock."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

Grateful Mother Thanks Abby For Encouragement

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for encouraging people to donate blood. Recently our 3 1/2-year-old son was accidentally run over by a riding lawn mower, and his arm and part of his face were mangled. We live 22 miles from the nearest hospital, and when we finally got there, the boy had nearly bled to death.

Thanks to donors, blood was available or we would have lost him.
GRATEFUL MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Your letter bears two equally important messages: (1) Donate blood; (2) Parents, please protect your children from such accidents.

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to the widow who discovered her late husband's "unfaithfulness" when his secretary brought her the contents of his desk drawers. Among his personal papers were some "love letters" from other women.

I am reminded of an incident that occurred in our circle of friends a number of years ago in Kansas. A man in his mid-40s died suddenly of a heart attack after being happily married for many years.

His widow grieved for an unusually long time, so finally a family friend, who had also been her late husband's accountant, asked her why she was still so unhappy. She replied, "Why didn't you tell me that my husband had been supporting another woman all these years? You surely must have known." The friend said, "Why, that can't be right. How do you know? And who was the woman?"

The widow replied, "When I took over his checkbook, I discovered monthly payments to a 'Marjorie Jones' — extending over many years."

My friend replied, "Good heavens! Marjorie Jones is the secretary at the country club. She handles the liquor pool in this dry state, and we all make monthly payments to her to settle our accounts."

LOOKING BEYOND THE OBVIOUS

DEAR LOOKING: Add to that this incident:

DEAR ABBY: About the widow who came into some "love letters" among her husband's belongings after his sudden death:

My husband also died suddenly, and all over his appointment book he had scribbled, "Call Val."

I was heartsick until I found out that "Val" was "Valenti" — his bookie.

MARIA IN RHODE ISLAND

DEAR ABBY: We have a neighbor who borrows eggs, sugar, milk etc., but never pays back anything. She calls us when she's locked out of her house or her car, or when she's stuck somewhere and needs transportation. I think you get the picture.

Well, over the Christmas holidays, she asked our 13-year-old son to feed the cats and fish and bring in her mail while she and her family were out of town. She said she would pay him. He agreed. My son took care of her requests, but as of this writing, he hasn't been paid. It's not the money; it's the principle of the thing.

My question to you: Should we just forget about it, or should she be reminded of her promise? Our son is too shy to ask her for himself, so I think I should say something to her. She has no financial hardships. How should I put it?

IRRITATED NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: Put it this way: "You promised to pay my son for looking after your cats and fish and bringing in your mail while you were away last Christmas. It probably slipped your mind, so I'm reminding you."

(Problems? What's bugging you? Unload on Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

A Special Day

The world has a day on its hands that needs something to commemorate.

We are told February 29 is very important; and without it calendars would go haywire with seasons changing at such a rate that Christmas Day might eventually fall in mid-summer.

(Obviously, the calendar people tried it once, and didn't like it.)

So we have what should be a very special day ... and the people who foisted it on us (every four years) never made it a red-letter occasion. All we got for their trouble was a "nothin' day".

The oversight was not ours. It happened before there was a Daily Reflector to keep an eye on things. We have thought that, coming every four years, it would be an ideal opportunity for inaugurating presidents. But that would be too sensible. Congress would never buy it.

It is a good day to be wary of senior citizens who deepen their facial creases with a broad smile and remark "True, I count only 16 birthdays".

Do not, repeat, do not, assume your friend has been living 16 years in the fast lane, and promptly swear off your favorite vices. Being born on a February 29 would not agree with you, either.

Finally, The End

And so, we hope, an end comes to the drawn-out battle over desegregation of the 16-campus University of North Carolina. The U.S. Supreme Court, finally getting into the case after 14 years of litigation in lower courts, has allowed to stand a settlement reached in 1981 between the federal government and UNC.

That settlement calls for UNC to add 29 graduate and undergraduate programs at its traditionally black institutions and to increase black enrollment at predominantly white schools and white representation on traditionally black campuses.

But it also allows UNC to continue programs that duplicate each other on neighboring campuses. This provision had brought charges from the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, which originated the suit in 1970, that the Reagan administration had staged a "civil rights sellout."

It was on that charge that the Supreme Court acted this month in refusing to hear arguments from attorneys for the Legal Defense Fund.

The decision in no way frees UNC from its burden to provide a truly integrated educational system, but it does provide more leeway for internal decisions on how the university system will operate.

Now it is up to UNC officials and the UNC Board of Governors to make the settlement work.

Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force decision to shift its base for overseas flights from New Jersey to Pennsylvania left in its wake a pair of congressional delegations that resembled two football teams after a crucial game.

Up for grabs were the 6,000 monthly flights of the Military Airlift Command, which transport 200,000 Air Force personnel each year to Europe from the Northeast. The trophy: millions of dollars in spin-off revenues and jobs.

In 1981, the Air Force decided to shift all such flights from military bases to civilian airports, and the contest for the flights from McGuire AFB in New Jersey boiled down to Philadelphia vs. Newark.

Lawmakers agreed that politics gave Pennsylvania a decided edge.

Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., recalled a conversation he had with Verne Orr when the Pennsylvania delegation met with the Air Force secretary last month.

"I told him I didn't want politics to play a part, but there were two Republican senators from Pennsylvania and none from New Jersey," Heinz said. Last Thursday, after months of lobbying by representatives, senators, governors, and cabinet officers from both states, the Air Force said flights will start from Philadelphia in October.

Air Force officials said the decision was made because using the Philadelphia airport would be more efficient. Then there were the political realities.

Aside from its 2-0 lead in Republican senators, Pennsylvania had Republican Gov. Dick Thornburgh, former Reagan cabinet members Drew Lewis and Richard Schweiker, and the rest of the state's 23 representatives.

Arrayed on New Jersey's side were Republican Gov. Thomas Kean, Democratic Sens. Bill Bradley and Frank Lautenberg, Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan of Short Hills, N.J., and the rest of the state's 14 House members.

Two Pennsylvania congressmen, Republican Rep. Joseph McDade and Democratic Rep. John Murtha are on the House defense appropriations subcommittee, while Democratic Rep. Thomas Foglietta is on the Armed Services Committee.

Courter is also the New Jersey chairman of Reagan's re-election effort, but that advantage was more than offset by Lewis, who is expected to receive a top role in Reagan's national campaign.

The loss of the Air Force flights did produce some backbiting. Some Democratic aides here noted that the delegation's efforts were not unanimous.

One of those who stayed out of the lobbying was Rep. James Florio, D-N.J., whose district lies across the river from Philadelphia.

The most dangerous place in America to be these days is anywhere near the poverty line. As the president's Task Force on Hunger reported, cuts in food assistance have not hurt the "truly needy," who are still being taken care of. But they have reduced benefits for many people "just above the poverty line."

Mabel Newbaum, a mother of five in South Succotash, is an example of someone who is having a tough time because she can't stay below the poverty line.

"The way things are going now, the nearer you get to the poverty line, the more trouble you're in," she said.

"In what respect?" I asked.

"Well, if you're way below the line, the government has to take care of you. And if you're way above it, you don't need help from anyone. But it's when you get close to the line that you're walking a tightrope. The main problem is no one is quite sure where the poverty line is. Every time you've found it, the government changes the guidelines."

"Would hunger be a test?"

"Not necessarily. Your family could be hungry, but if you own a TV set they could still put you above the line."

"Where are you right now?" I asked Mabel.

"Last week I was eligible for food benefits for my family. But this week they added the benefits I was getting to my income, and decided I was above the poverty line by this much," she said holding her two fingers a sixteenth of an inch apart.

"Are you trying to tell me without the food benefits you might have remained below the poverty line?"

"That's what the lady down at the welfare office said. She told me as long as I didn't take my benefits I could qualify for them. But the minute I took them I went above the poverty line, and was no longer entitled to them."

"It's kind of a Catch-22 situation."

"It's a Crock-22 situation. I told the lady my kids were still hungry even though the government decided we weren't poor. She said she didn't make the rules. David Stockman had to draw the line somewhere."

"Why don't you quit your job? Wouldn't that put you safely below the poverty line?"

"I've thought about that, but I can't make it with five kids on government handouts. I also can't make it just on my salary. What I need is both. If the government would stop moving the poverty line up and down every day I'd know where I stood."

Mabel continued, "Even President Reagan can't agree on who is poor and who isn't. I saw him discussing the homeless on 'Good Morning America' and he said that the fact a person sleeps on a grate doesn't necessarily make him homeless, because many people in America like to sleep on grates."

"I think you're being too harsh on this administration, Mabel. After all, they have to cut the size of the budget. They can either do it by announcing they're going to ignore the poor people — or by insisting there are far less of them than anyone would like to believe. The latter method is much more palatable to the American people. That's why the poverty line is so important to the budget cutters. The less people they include below it the less benefits they have to make available to them. That's just good Reaganomics."

"Yeh, but how does that put food on my table?" Mabel wanted to know.

"I wouldn't look at it from that angle," I said. "Aren't you proud that your government no longer considers you a poor person and a drag on society?"

"I suppose so," Mabel said. "But just because they arbitrarily put me above the poverty line doesn't mean I can pay my bills."

"Look on the bright side of things, Mabel. If they turn off your heat you'll probably drop below the poverty line again, and then you'll be entitled to government assistance."

"Are you sure?"

"Well, they're certainly not going to ask your family to sleep on a grate — unless, of course, you want to."

A Change That Failed

RALEIGH — In 1977, the General Assembly decided that juvenile status offenders shouldn't be sent to the state's five training schools.

Status offenders, basically troublemakers and runaways, hadn't been convicted of any act that would be illegal for adults. Sending them to training school was an overreaction, the Legislature decided. Putting them in a training school only introduced them to kids who had broken laws, kids who could teach them how to do the same.

With the removal of the status offenders and some discouraging trends in juvenile crime, the population of the training schools has changed considerably since 1977. Gov. Jim Hunt recently appointed a commission which is studying these changes and drafting recommendations for dealing with them.

Rep. Margaret Tennille, D-Forsyth, chairman of the study commission, says the changing nature of the training school population is putting strains on the system which current management cannot meet.

The most significant change, Mrs. Tennille said, is the hardening of the population. Most of the children now in training schools have had at least four court appearances. They are children who've repeatedly broken the law and they fit a trend which has found children committing increasingly serious crimes.

The training schools used to have a mix of status offenders and those who had committed crimes of varying degrees of severity. Now the schools are loaded with more severe juvenile criminals. The average resident is now older, more prone to violence and scheduled for a longer stay at the school than was the average student of only five or 10 years ago.

Mrs. Tennille said this creates several problems. The status offenders, for all their problems, used to serve as role models for the children with more serious problems. Now kids in training schools associate only with other criminals.

Just think of what that does to the staff. Just about every kid assigned to a teacher or counselor is an intense problem. There are no soft spots in the day. Mrs. Tennille says there's "a great deal of burnout with our staffs."

That burnout only feeds upon itself. Staff members get ill and can't make it to work. Since a position can't go unfilled for even one shift, another staffer has to pull double duty which just eventually leads to their getting ill. Mrs. Tennille said the commission will probably recommend increasing salaries for staff members and increasing the size of the staffs.

A number of problems stem from the declining number of females in training schools. In 1978, there was one female for every 3.8 males. Now the ratio is one to every 5.8.

Vocational education programs are open to both sexes. But Mrs. Tennille reports that the schools tend to develop programs of traditional interest to males because they comprise the overwhelming majority. There aren't enough females at the schools to justify a good variety of programs for them. The females don't sign up for auto mechanics because they're more interested in cosmetology, Mrs. Tennille said. They end up sitting around. The same thing happens with recreation programs.

One logical solution to this problem would be to move all the females to one school. This was state policy many years ago. But, Mrs. Tennille warns, that would create other problems, the biggest being homosexuality.

Moving the status offenders into community programs may be in their best interest but it hasn't helped the training schools.

Feldstein Loses Again

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's noncommittal press conference statements last Wednesday about Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker followed a backstage dispute at the White House in which economic adviser Martin Feldstein ended up the loser.

The original White House briefing paper recommended that the president tell reporters merely that he expects Volcker to provide enough credit to maintain a non-inflationary recovery. But at the press conference briefing, Feldstein urged Reagan to go much further: to commend Volcker for hitting his M-1 money supply targets.

When he heard about this, Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan intervened, asking the president not to mention M-1 and to take a more neutral stance about Fed policy. Regan took the Treasury's advice and, as planned, is in a wait-and-see public posture regarding Volcker, depending on what decisions the Fed makes.

Secretary of State George Shultz has privately informed 35 of his top aides that he will be at his post in Foggy Bottom for "a long time" to come — probably well into a second Reagan term.

That word from President Reagan's usually reserved and shy chief diplomat was given at an unusually large staff meeting recently that lasted an unusually long 45 minutes. Shultz took the occasion to defend and explain what happened to his collapsed Lebanon policy.

After joking about his non-resignation, he turned to special Mideast envoy Donald Rumsfeld and asked: Do you have anything to say about the Middle East? Rumsfeld, who holds a notoriously close hand, said no. Shultz quickly moved on to other things, displaying an optimism and confidence that surprises his aides.

Rep. Jack Kemp, the conservative supply-sider who played such a major role in President Reagan's first-term tax and economic strategy, will be wearing his foreign policy — not his economic — hat in shaping the 1984 Republican platform.

When Kemp was asked to write the party's foreign policy plank, close friends first advised him to stick with his expertise. Tax and economic strategy have made him a key Republican leader and bidder for post-Reagan succession.

But Kemp decided that moving into the forefront of foreign policy, which he watches as a member of the House Foreign Operations Subcommittee, would be good for his future. Rep. Trent Lott, the platform chairman, strongly favored that course. With another House conservative, Rep. Marjorie Holt, running the platform's subcommittee on national security, that part of the document will be strongly conservative.

While massively supporting Walter F. Mondale in the New Hampshire presidential primary, organized labor refused to buy tickets for the state Democratic Party's annual fund-raiser held four nights before the election.

Several unions have sent their top political operatives and more than 50 paid field workers into New Hampshire to help Mondale. But they turned a deaf ear to repeated requests from state Democratic Chairman George Bruno to fill some seats at the $75-a-plate dinner.

That suggests unwillingness by some elements of New Hampshire labor to get too close to the Democratic Party. These labor leaders like Republican Gov. John Sununu, and prominent state Democrats suspect they want it both ways — for Sununu's re-election as governor this year, against Ronald Reagan's re-election as president.

Dark horse Michael Armacost, the U.S. ambassador in the Philippines, will be picked to succeed Under Secretary Lawrence Eagleburger in a dark-horse runaway from two other contenders: Ambassador to the Soviet Union Arthur Hartman and former ambassador to Turkey Ron Spiers.

Regarded in conventional State Department terms as a relative hard-liner, Armacost impressed Secretary of State George Shultz with a deft performance negotiating U.S. base rights with the Philippine government.

There is one possible major drawback to Armacost: lack of direct, face-to-face experience in dealing with the Soviet Union. The resignation of Eagleburger, a protégé of Henry Kissinger and a diplomatic fixture at the top of the State Department for many years, deprives Shultz of his single important aide. The resignation will be announced within two weeks.

Strength For Today

How different people are in the way they face trouble. Some collapse. Others plunge into despair. Still others seek solace in debauchery.

The people who are really wise and self-controlled take trouble as a part of life, as a lesson to be learned, as an obstacle to be surmounted — an experience out of which some further wisdom may be gained. The poet has said:

"When all the blandishments of life are gone, The coward slinks to death; the brave live on."

We must never for a moment think that we can get the affairs of this world fixed up in such a fashion that there will be no trouble or sorrow for anyone. Fully half our trouble comes from the efforts we make to avert or overcome it. If we are successful in this enterprise, there will be a great deal more we have to endure, and the true spirit of every person will be revealed in the way he or she reacts to further difficulties.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime brings you unusual means by which to express yourself. The evening finds some delays attending your efforts and you need to keep cheerful.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be with persons whom you admire for their fine qualities. Handle intimate matters well in the evening. Be happier.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Put more effort into your daily work. Steer clear of that boring friend. Plan the future more wisely. Be happy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan how to take on some new and progressive activity that will make the future brighter for you. Get a good night's rest.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Handle business affairs intelligently. Find a better method of advancement. Be more thoughtful of your mate.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Find a way of pleasing a valuable partner. Get any outside activities handled well. Carry through with what your associate expects of you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) There are diverse ways of handling your regular job better, so use them and make the future brighter. Steer clear of controversy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Fine day to decide how to have more pleasure at hobbies you enjoy. Use your finest talents at work. Have fun.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Think about how you can make family ties more cheerful. Invite in friends who are inspiring. Make sure everything is in fine order.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study your routines and find better ways of handling them. The evening should be spent quietly at home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be more practical in handling your affairs. Study how you can add to present holdings. Find a way to make work easier.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have a flair for doing things quite differently and you can be individualistic right now. Be more modern.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make a more modern plan for the future. Take more time to please your mate. Avoid friend who could put a crimp in your activities.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one who will be very alert from earliest childhood to whatever is current. Encourage this. The career will start early in life and get better until retirement. Don't try to force your child to the norm early in life.

A Continuing Increase In N.C. Total Employment Is Seen By Economist

By TOM MINEHART
Associated Press Writer

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The state should see nearly a 4 percent increase in total employment in 1984 as the economy continues to improve, a University of North Carolina at Charlotte economist says.

"These are jobs that weren't there before the recession," Dr. John E. Connaughton said at a news conference Tuesday. "These are new jobs.... They show the economy is not simply recovering, it is growing again."

The UNCC-First Union North Carolina Economic Forecast, produced by UNCC and First Union National Bank economists, indicates North Carolina will gain 90,160 new jobs in 1984 — a 3.8 percent jump, said Connaughton, the project director.

The forecast, which is based on a computer analysis of quarterly economic indicators, also predicts North Carolina's Gross State Product will increase 4.4 percent in 1984 and that seasonally adjusted unemployment will fall to 6.8 percent by the end of the year, compared to 7.5 percent at the end of 1983.

"For the second year of recovery, this is a very admirable performance," said Connaughton, an assistant economics professor.

He said the most significant improvements will be in nondurable goods — projected to increase 6.2 percent this year — and durable goods, increasing 5.2 percent. Together, these categories form 35.5 percent of the Gross State Product. Moreover, construction is expected to increase by 10.7 percent, he said.

"That's particularly encouraging for construction, given its poor performance in 1982," said Connaughton, adding that much of the increase so far has been in commercial building.

Construction employment, 4.8 percent of the non-agricultural labor force in the state, should increase by 11.8 percent this year, according to the forecast.

Employment in durable goods is projected to increase by 4.3 percent and nondurable goods by 2 percent. Together, these sectors employ nearly a third of the state's workers.

Economic growth should continue through 1985, Connaughton said. "There's nothing in the economy nationally or in North Carolina even suggesting that this recovery is coming to an end," he said.

The forecast predicts a 2.3 percent increase in the Gross State Product and 28,510 new jobs during the first half of 1985. Unemployment is expected to fall to 6.5 percent by June of next year.

"It should add up to 11 straight quarters of economic growth through the first half of 1985," said Connaughton.

The forecast report says North Carolina's expected performance in 1984 "is typical of a year that follows a strong recovery."

Other sectors expected to show growth during the year include wholesale trade, 5.2 percent, retail trade, 3.8 percent, and mining, 7.3 percent. Agriculture is forecast to drop 0.2 percent.

The 4.4 percent growth in Gross State Product predicted for the year, adjusted for inflation, "is in line with North Carolina's long-term growth rate and is consistent with the growth rates experienced during the second years following the recessions of 1970 and 1974-75," the report says.

REFUGEES DEPART

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — The U.N. Commissioner for Refugees said Tuesday that 11,432 Ethiopian refugees have returned home voluntarily from the tiny country of Djibouti.

Leggett Artwork Being Displayed

The artwork of artist Amy Leggett of Greenville is being displayed through Saturday at Chowan College in Murfreesboro.

Ms. Leggett, whose work is in the Daniel Hall Gallery, is showing works on paper and canvas. Her work is highly patterned and concerned with the visual complexity of overlapping small brushstrokes. She specializes in inks, acrylics, watercolors and pencil.

A closing reception for her and other artists will be held Saturday from 2-5 p.m. in Green Hall Art Building on campus.

Dance Theater

The Pilobolus Dance Theater will perform in Memorial Auditorium on the campus of North Carolina State University, Raleigh, Friday at 8 p.m. This modern dance company blends gymnastic tumbles and contortions into dances.

The dance theater has made numerous appearances at the American Dance Festival in Durham. This 1983-84 season marks its 12th anniversary.

Tickets are on sale and will be available at the door. For additional ticket information and telephone charge orders, call the NCSU Center Stage Box Office, 737-3104, Monday through Friday from 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

N. C. Termed A Good Economic Test Site

CHARLOTTE (AP) — North Carolina is a good place to test the national economic pulse because the state usually falls into recession or begins recovery about three months before the nation as a whole, economists say.

"It's because of the type of manufacturing we have here," said Dr. John E. Connaughton, an assistant professor of economics at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte and project director for the UNCC-First Union North Carolina Economic Forecast.

Connaughton said in an interview Tuesday that the state's manufacturers produce mostly inexpensive goods, such as textiles, that people can buy as the recovery begins.

"You have to be convinced the economy's turning around before you buy a new car," he said after presenting the 1984 report, which projects a 4.4 percent growth in the Gross State Product.

"But after a year of no socks, you go buy some new ones when you feel there might be a recovery," he said. Another reason North Carolina's recoveries begin sooner is that most of the state's factories are relatively new.

"We don't have the shakeout of weak industries during a recession to the extent that the rest of the United States does," he said. "So when recovery comes, manufacturing turns around quickly."

During the recession in 1981, North Carolina's Gross State Product dropped more drastically than the Gross National Product. But when the turning point came in 1982, North Carolina responded first, said Connaughton.

In the fourth quarter of 1982, the Gross State Product rebounded by 7.5 percent while the GNP fell 1.3 percent. In the next quarter, the GNP began catching up with an increase of 2.4 percent while North Carolina improved by 2 percent.

A similar pattern occurred in the recoveries of 1970-71 and 1975-76, said Connaughton.

If a Greenville citizen wants to know about the latest City Council meeting, where can he turn? If someone needs information about Greenville in the year 1889, where does he go?

To find out about cemetery deeds, city codes, "going-out-of-business" licenses, upcoming meetings of all departments of the city of Greenville and street assessments, there is one person in town to contact — Lois D. Worthington, clerk of the city of Greenville.

Mrs. Worthington has been employed by Greenville since 1955. She began as secretary to the city clerk and served as deputy finance officer and deputy city clerk before being appointed clerk in July 1974.

A Greenville native, Mrs. Worthington graduated from the Municipal Administration Course of the Institute of Government, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill and the International Institute of Municipal Clerks Certification School.

A charter member of the North Carolina Association of Municipal Clerks, Mrs. Worthington was elected president of that group this year. She has implemented regional meetings throughout the state and helped begin a second Certified Municipal Clerk's School. Membership in the association has increased since she became president.

She is married to Alva Worthington and they have one son, Wayne Worthington of Cary.

Mrs. Worthington attends Winterville Christian Church and is an elder and treasurer of the Memorial Fund Committee. She is a previous Sunday School teacher and deaconess, and is past-president of the Christian Women's Fellowship and past clerk to the board.

"I like to decorate my home and plan things with my family," she said. "I also enjoy traveling and cross stitch. But with my activities in church and my job and home life, I don't have any other time."

Mrs. Worthington's job is time-consuming, but she said that her duties are interesting and diversified.

"A lot of people think the city clerk is a glorified secretary, but that is not true," she said. "The city clerk writes the history of this city. The history I put in our minutes lives forever."

The city clerk is charged with the responsibility of the official records for the city of Greenville. These records now are microfilmed and put on permanent storage with the Department of Archives in Raleigh. Among these records stored are minutes, deeds, easements, street assessments, cemeteries, budgets, audit reports and inventory of city property.

As city clerk, Mrs. Worthington serves as clerk to the City Council and attends all meetings of the council. Her responsibility is to record the actions taken and prepare the minutes of the meetings for distribution and public record. It is also her duty to properly advertise notice of each meeting.

"There are many follow-up transactions that must be carried out after a council meeting is held," she noted. "All ordinances, resolutions, documents, agreements and certifications of the various transactions made by the City Council must be signed by the mayor and city clerk and placed in permanent records which are indexed," Mrs. Worthington said.

She said that she also must update the city code every six months, as well as carry out the laws and regulations the city council designates to the city clerk. Regulations currently under Mrs. Worthington's care are the ordinance requiring itinerant merchants in Greenville to file an application with the city clerk and the regulation requiring merchants in Greenville to file with the clerk for a "going out of business" sale.

Mrs. Worthington's office also administers a "talent bank" containing files of those citizens who wish to be considered for boards when positions become open. This information is provided to the mayor and City Council once a vacancy occurs on any board or commission appointed by the mayor and/or City Council.

In her position, Mrs. Worthington must work closely with the city manager and city council.

She said she serves as Mayor Janice Buck's assistant. Her duties include secretarial responsibilities and other jobs assigned her by the mayor.

"It is important for the city clerk's office to have open communication with the mayor, city manager and the departments to be effective," she said.

"The office of the city clerk is unique because we deal with every department of the city," Mrs. Worthington said. "The office of the clerk is the nucleus of the city. I enjoy being a part of the department that deals with every department of city government and administration.

"My job is never boring," she said. "There is always something interesting to do. And dealing with citizens in Greenville is a real pleasure."

Barbershop Is Also A Town's Social Center

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP) — Strolling by Ruby's Barbershop, one might dismiss it as just another of Paragould's many tonsorial parlors.

But, as owner John Powell puts it, "It's a place where old friends can meet."

The casual pedestrian should look closely.

As likely as not, he will see a pair of elderly fellows bent over a checkerboard by the window. Perhaps one or two more will be watching, waiting for a turn. Another will be reading a newspaper or gazing out the window.

Conversation centers on local events, politics, reminiscences.

It's the sort of barbershop that might have provided the background for a Norman Rockwell painting 40 or 50 years ago. The artist froze such everyday American institutions of that era firmly in time.

Ruby's is not frozen in time, though. Like its patrons, it is showing its age. Paint peels from the wall here and there. Business cards, newspaper clippings and photographs by the telephone reveal their ages by their shade of yellow.

Powell bought the shop 10 years ago. He and his wife barbered there together, as they had through most of their marriage in Paragould, Dallas and Houston, until she hung up her clippers two years ago.

Powell says he continues to work because "I wouldn't know what to do with myself."

The shop is furnished with a coat rack, a shoeshine stand and a back bar the previous owner, Aaron Massengill, salvaged from the Vandervoort Hotel.

"There's a lot of antiques around here," Powell said loudly to be sure the "boys" around the checkerboard knew which antiques he meant.

When Powell isn't reigning over his domain from his chair, he grooms quite a number of heads. He counts among his regulars about 30 women.

Obstetrician Is Target Of Suit

FAYETTEVILLE (AP) — A $1.25 million dollar settlement has been reached between the parents of a Cumberland County child and a Fayetteville obstetrician.

The suit between Dr. Dudley C. Miller and the parents of 2-year-old Mitchell Paul Smith calls for a lump sum plus monthly payments for the next ten years or the lifetime of the child. The suit was settled Friday.

The suit accused Miller of negligence in delivering the baby in January 1982. According to the suit, the pregnancy of Dawn Davis Smith went beyond her predicted due date and she developed pregnancy-induced high blood pressure, which the suit says Miller did not treat.

The suit also charged that Miller didn't perform adequate tests on the mother and baby, did not perform a Caesarian section or induce labor when the pregnancy went past full term and didn't have a pediatrician present at delivery.

Does Your INCOME Ever Embarrass You?

DON'T LET IT!

Seventeen months ago I uncovered 12 simple ways to earn up to $108,000!

If you can't afford a large investment, then consider these FACTS. Going It Alone You Can Earn up to $36,000 A Year!

Hire One Employee, at minimum wage, and earn up to $72,000 A Year!

Hire Two Employees, at minimum wage, and earn up to $108,000 A Year!

That's $9,000 A Month! $2,200 A Week! $325 A Day!

12 SIMPLE PLANS $108 THOUSAND DOLLARS

Let me explain how easy they work.

But first let me make you aware that these 12 plans are all proven money-making projects that don't require a large investment to put them into operation. You can start any one of the 12 plans the same day my 125-page publication arrives, and begin earning up to $100, $200, or $300 a day.

But that's only the beginning of the good news. Since I uncovered the plans seventeen months ago I've fine-tuned these 12 money-making plans and perfected a 125-page book with over 30 illustrations and pictures that can begin bringing you an income of up to $9,000.00 A Month The Same Month You Receive it. And can continue to bring in that kind of money every month for as long as you care to apply them.

A NEW OPPORTUNITY FOR YOU! Meanwhile, remember...

It's Okay To Be Skeptical!

I realize $9,000.00 a month to start is a bit hard to accept. But please bear with me for a few minutes. Give this page a fair reading, and I'll tell you how these 12 money-making plans have worked for me as well as others who have tried them for themselves. People who were every bit as disbelieving as you may be right now. I'll also tell you how "Shortcuts To Becoming Rich" can work for you. I can prove it!

You can laugh if you want to — but read the rest of this page first.

Today, the No. 1 Problem is lack of Money. And believe me, I found out in a hurry. But I was determined to discover a shortcut to earning money. Fast. A hidden means whereby a man or a woman with little formal education could pull himself up by the bootstraps. I knew there was an answer. Just look around. Notice the number of successful people today who yesterday, were flat broke and stuck in a meaningless job. Now they are driving new automobiles, living in $200,000 homes, taking expensive vacations.

Today I Don't Worry About Money. I don't worry about providing for my family. I know I'll have enough to do that in style. I just use one of the money-making plans a few hours a day, that's all. Last month I activated one of the money-making plans and within 22 days took in $7,850.00. NO TELEPHONE SELLING!

That's not bad for an average American guy who barely got out of high school and never had any special training of any kind. Let me repeat: these 12 money-making plans are all respectable money-making projects that can produce as much as $108,000.00 A YEAR in real American Dollars simply through the application of the steps in the money-making plans.

WHAT'S THE CATCH?

No catch at all. My 12 plans are best described as a series of very basic money-making opportunities that have been overlooked by thousands of people in this country. The plans are all designed with you in mind, they are easy to understand and have never before been published anywhere as far as I can determine; not in any book, newspaper, or magazine. I've checked high and low and nowhere have I found anything that even remotely resembles my money-making techniques.

THESE ARE NOT GET RICH SCHEMES

Or any of that nonsense. I wouldn't insult YOUR intelligence or MINE by offering something that would waste your time like those things do. My PLANS have NOTHING to do with buying or selling real estate. They have NOTHING to do with the stock market. No telephone selling, or mail-order envelope stuffing either. You don't have to depend on "luck" or "chance"... my money-making plans work when they are properly applied; no "ifs" to it. Best of all, my money-making plans are backed by an Unconditional Money-Back Guarantee.

My plans can change your life the way they changed mine. No question about it. You apply them part time at first, getting the hang of things and gradually developing a feel for how they work. You don't need any special place to begin working the plans either; your home, garage or office is perfectly suited for getting started. You don't have to give up your present job, either. MY MONEY-MAKING PLANS ONLY DEMAND A FEW HOURS TO GET THINGS MOVING FOR YOU. They are not complicated. In fact, they are so interesting and the rewards so FANTASTICALLY GREAT that I'm willing to bet you'll want to leave your present job in a few months or less and devote your time to going after THE REALLY BIG BUCKS My plans can generate for you. AND YOU'LL PROBABLY WORK LESS THAN YOU DO NOW—AND ENJOY WORKING TWICE AS MUCH! Because you're not going to be taking orders from anybody. You'll just be applying my money-making plans and earning a good living for yourself.

A SIZEABLE FORTUNE
"I ordered your book last month and I just wanted to offer you my sincere thanks. If a person can't amass a sizeable fortune with your information, then this person should be pitied."

Mr. C. F. Chester, VA.
"Let me tell you a little about myself. I'm 31, married and have a seven-year-old daughter. The last couple of years I've spent sending away for every money-making book on the market. The majority have been a waste of money. I just finished reading your publication. Wow! It contains more ideas of solid value than all the others put together! Now, with thanks to you, I can expect my business to be a success as I am going to take the proceeds and turn it into more."

Mr. M.D., Hartford, CT.

I WAS WRONG
"When I sent for your book I thought your plan was some kind of pyramid or envelope stuffing scheme. I was wrong. Please accept my apologies."

Mr. V.H., Mt. Pleasant, PA.

I AM SO EXCITED!
"Your plans are the most valuable piece of information I have ever read. I am so excited and I'm eagerly preparing to put your secrets into action."

Mr. T.S., Macon, GA.

FAST SERVICE
"Thanks for the great ideas and fast service. Your book arrived here in record time. Now, I will be able to triple my income."

Mr. D.T., Reno, NV.

I've seen how one of the techniques has taken a man with a bad credit... a low paying job and showed him how to start a new business of his own.

I have shown a woman, divorced, no credit established, the plan for making the kind of MONEY she always wanted.

I showed a 70-year-old woman, who could not leave her home, how to earn up to $150-a-week providing a service for local businessmen.

I showed a waitress who was working in a small diner how to SUPPLEMENT her income to the tune of $2,000 A Month!

I have shown a laborer working for a small construction company how to take one of my ideas and start a $400 a week part-time business.

I showed a clerk in a grocery store how to operate a $1,500 bi-weekly business, out of her home, without using any of her savings.

I showed a young couple, living on $350 a month how to make up to $5,000 in the First Month!

The line-up is endless, and there is NO LIMIT to what you can do with "Shortcuts To Becoming Rich." Each one of the 12 different unique ideas are carefully explained and will show you how to make each one of them work for you. SINCERELY, I WANT YOU TO GET OUT OF DEBT AND BECOME RICH... If you are really sincere about wanting to be Successful and Rich, then I am absolutely sure my UNIQUE IDEAS will help you.

I promise I will not waste your time with vague generalities or worthless money-making schemes. I will furnish you with the Actual Working Tools you need to make money at once.

* BONUS FOR ACTING NOW — FREE *

I will show you how to find out if you are the missing heir to $12 Million Dollars. You or someone you know may be entitled to share in thousands of Million Dollar Lost Estates. We have found that one out of every 15 Americans has money awaiting him or her they know nothing about, or roughly 14 million of us.

MONEY FOR THE ASKING

I will give you the names and addresses of 11 different companies (foundations) on page 125 that give money away free, if they like and approve your ideas for a new project. Up to $5,000 — $25,000 — $50,000 — $100,000.

UP TO $350,000 LINE OF CREDIT

If you had the sad experience of rejection by banks for personal loans, you'll be astonished at the amount of LOANS you can acquire with this secret.

UP TO 18,000 PRODUCTS FOR EXPORT

I will show you how to obtain an annual registry of 18,000 British Products available for export into this country. Some have never been marketed in America.

UNCONDITIONAL MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

To ask you to buy money-making ideas of this nature on the basis of anything except personal examination would be unfair. Therefore, I'll accept your $10 check only with this clear understanding... that if at any time after receiving "Shortcuts To Becoming Rich" which explains all my unique money-making techniques you want to return it, for any reason whatsoever, do so. I'LL SEND YOU A COMPLETE REFUND IMMEDIATELY. The check will go in the mail to you within 24 hours. No Questions Asked. No hassles. No Delay. Your money will be cheerfully refunded without any hesitation of any kind.

And if that isn't enough of a Guarantee for you, then I invite you to POSTDATE YOUR CHECK OR MONEY ORDER FOR 30 DAYS FROM NOW. That will give you plenty of time to look over "Shortcuts To Becoming Rich" and decide for yourself. If during that time you feel you're not satisfied return it. I'll send your check back immediately. UNCASHED—exactly the way I received it.

To order please Fill out the Order Form, enclose a $10 check or money order, and mail it today to the agent handling my materials.

Discrimination Ruling Dismayed Women

By JAMES H. RUBIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Stunned by a setback in the Supreme Court, women's rights advocates are regrouping to fight for congressional approval of a broader law against sex discrimination on college campuses.

"Today, I must say to the Supreme Court, 'Shame on you,'" Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., told a news conference.

In a legal victory for the Reagan administration, the court ruled, 6-3, Tuesday in favor of a narrow interpretation of a 1972 federal law banning sex discrimination at colleges that receive federal aid.

The court said the government may not cut off all aid to a college because it practices sex discrimination in a particular program. The court said the 1972 law mandates that funds be cut off only for the specific program that receives federal aid.

While the administration's interpretation of the statute prevailed, the decision could still spell political trouble for the Reagan forces.

Women's rights groups described the administration's position as "thumbing its nose" at women and minorities, stirring anger that will do little to improve President Reagan's standing with women.

"This is yet another piece of President Reagan's complete insensitivity toward the needs of women," said Judy Goldsmith, president of the National Organization for Women.

The women's groups think they have a good chance of reversing the Supreme Court decision in Congress.

Last Nov. 16, the House adopted a non-binding resolution by a vote of 414-8 that any school receiving federal education funds may not discriminate against women in any program. The job of women's rights advocates will be to give that sentiment the impact of law.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of a House subcommittee on civil rights, said he had "no doubt the response will be swift in the House." Senate action appears to be less certain.

Meanwhile, some college officials said they doubted the Supreme Court ruling would change anything because they said their schools do not practice discrimination against women.

"I don't think it's going to have any effect, here or across the nation," said Gothard Lane, director of women's athletics at the University of Maryland. "We've got one of the best women's athletics programs in the country and it's going to stay that way."

The court case started as an obscure dispute between the U.S. Education Department and tiny Grove City College in Grove City, Pa.

The administration has described its position in the case as middle-of-the-road.

It said that Grove City should be required to provide necessary paperwork to the Education Department pledging opposition to sex discrimination, but that a college should not face a cut-off in all federal aid based on discrimination in one program.

Grove City, a private, co-educational liberal arts college, receives no direct aid from Washington. But some of its students accept federal grants to help defray their educational costs.

Grove City was requested in 1977 under Title IX of the 1972 law on education to file a form with the Education Department guaranteeing it does not practice sex discrimination.

The college refused to comply, although it has never been accused of practicing discrimination and is on record as opposing discrimination based on sex or race.

In opposing the paperwork requirement, it pictured itself as the victim of bureaucratic meddling and noted that it historically has sought to maintain its independence by refusing all government assistance.

The Supreme Court said Tuesday that the only program at Grove City which is covered by Title IX is the college's own financial aid program.

The court was unanimous on the less controversial issue of whether Grove City must comply at all with Title IX. It ruled, 9-0, that the college must provide the paperwork sought by the government because student grants are a form of federal aid.

Grove City President Charles Mackenzie described the court's decision as a "partial victory" and a "partial defeat."

"We want to be truly independent of government control," he said. "Therefore we don't expect to sign a form, but will certainly continue to practice non-discrimination in all of our programs as we have in the past."

"We hope ... to be able to raise private money to replace" the federal grants to students.

To Open A 2nd Store

Raleigh-based Kerr Drugs has announced plans to locate its second store in Greenville in the South Jarvis Street facility that will be vacated this spring by Overton's Competition Skis.

Kerr Drugs spokesman Chris Woody said the company will completely remodel the 7,000-square-foot facility now occupied by the ski business, which is moving to Red Banks Road.

Woody said that while the standard Kerr Drugs unit is somewhat larger than the Jarvis Street site, some minor modifications will be made to enable the firm to operate a complete drug store with a pharmacy offering full health care services. He said the store will carry a complete line of health and beauty aids and a variety of other merchandise.

New walls, ceiling and lighting will be installed and the front of the store will be modified, Woody said, noting that the front door will be relocated.

The spokesman said remodeling work will begin as soon as Overton's moves. The schedule calls for the drug store to open around late August or the first of September, he said.

Kerr Drugs also operates a store at Carolina East Mall.

Breakfast Nook's Taxpayer Special

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — Armand Guarante serves the eggs and Joseph J. Laprise specializes in the bacon at the Breakfast Nook, where customers are getting a two-in-one taxpayer's special through April 15.

Laprise is Guarante's accountant, and these days he's working on patrons' 1040 Forms while they eat.

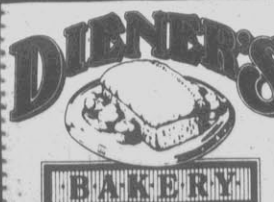

"He's saving my customers a lot of money and bringing me extra business," Guarante, 72, the owner and short-order cook, said recently.

Skip Allen, 28, who works at the General Dynamics shipyard in Quincy, said he'll get an extra $200 tax refund this year after Laprise worked on his federal income tax return while Allen breakfasted in the diner.

Laprise sits at a table in the rear of the diner several days a week, filling out the federal and state short forms for $10 each and long forms for $25.

Guarante said the service has proved so popular, it's brought in enough new customers to overcome a decline in business caused by a new ban on commuter parking on the street in front of the diner.

Oratorical Winners

Jeffrey Litteken and Susan McLawhorn took top honors in the Greenville Optimist Club's Oratorical Contest for 1984.

Litteken and Miss McLawhorn won first place in the boys and girls competition of the event, which featured the topic "My Responsibility, Involvement." Litteken is a student at E.B. Aycock School and Miss McLawhorn attends Ayden Middle School.

Other winners in the contest are: boys competition, second, Greg Parker of Wahl-Coates School, and third, Carl Woxman of Carolina Country Day; girls competition, second, Jessalyn Woods of Ayden Middle, and third, Tracy Nichols of Wellcome Middle.

A runoff contest was also held with 18 students participating.

Myers Cited

Raleigh Beecher (Jack) Myers III, recent recipient of the Greenville Jaycees' annual Distinguished Service Award, was recognized at the awards banquet of the North Carolina Jaycees at Southern Pines.

Myers received a certificate of recognition for being a nominee for the state organization's Five Outstanding Young Men of North Carolina awards. He was cited for his contributions to his family, church, community and profession.

The statewide awards program is sponsored annually by the ADF Marketing Group in connection with the North Carolina Jaycees.

Winners

Sponsors of the 1984 Pepsi Games have announced the winners in the competition. The following youth placed in the bowling event:

Boys competition: 6-7 year-olds, first, Michael Manning, and second, Eric Hixon; 8-9 year-olds, first, Lee Johnson and Rodney Williams, and second, Michael Barwick and Michael Perry; 11-17-year-olds, first, Smith Wallace and Dorwin Greene; second, Greg Lee and Bobby Harrison, and third, Elmarko Carmon and Fred Best.

Girls competition: 6-7-year-olds, first, Natalie Tyndall; second, Julie Van Male, and third, Carla Jones; 11-17-year-olds, first, Annie Smith and Sabrina Gilliam, and second Sonja Jones.

Overall top scorers were: with ramp - Lee Johnson at 348; without ramp - Dorwin Greene at 223.

Participants

Among those attending the mini-reunion of the class of 1931 of Greenville High School held recently were Erma Dixon Carter and Alice Pelletier Tetterton of Washington, Gaynelle Dixon of Ayden and Margaret Thigpen Thompson of Tarboro.

Members of the class met for a luncheon at the Ramada Inn.

Precinct Meeting

Democrats in Greenville's 4th Precinct will meet Thursday at the voting place. Rufus Huggins is chairman.

Fireside Program

A special missionary fireside program will be held Thursday starting at 8 p.m. at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints on Martinsborough Road. It will be a telecast from Salt Lake City via satellite. Elder Thomas S. Monson, a member of the Quorum of the Twelve, will be the featured speaker.

Investigate Flood Of Designer Fakes

By LARRY MARGASAK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The label may say "Calvin Klein," but those stylish jeans in the store may be fakes manufactured overseas and imported illegally into the United States.

The same could be true of Izod Lacoste shirts, Members Only jackets, Jordache jeans and other well-known designer clothes, says a House subcommittee that was conducting a hearing today on cheap imports with phony labels.

The House Energy and Commerce subcommittee, headed by Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., has reported the phony products have been sold at major retail stores around the country.

A subcommittee source, speaking on condition he not be quoted by name, said the U.S. Customs Service "is so undermanned they don't catch most of it."

Representatives of Calvin Klein have estimated to the panel that they lost more than $20 million in sales in 1983 because of counterfeit products. Members Only estimate it lost over $3 million.

But these are conservative estimates, the committee source said, because so many fake garments go undiscovered.

The clothing is imported from Taiwan, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Macao, Mexico, Colombia, Venezuela, Panama and Caribbean countries.

In some cases, American importers knowingly bring the fakes into this country, the committee source said. Some military personnel in South Korea may have participated in the import schemes by shipping the garments through the military postal system, he added.

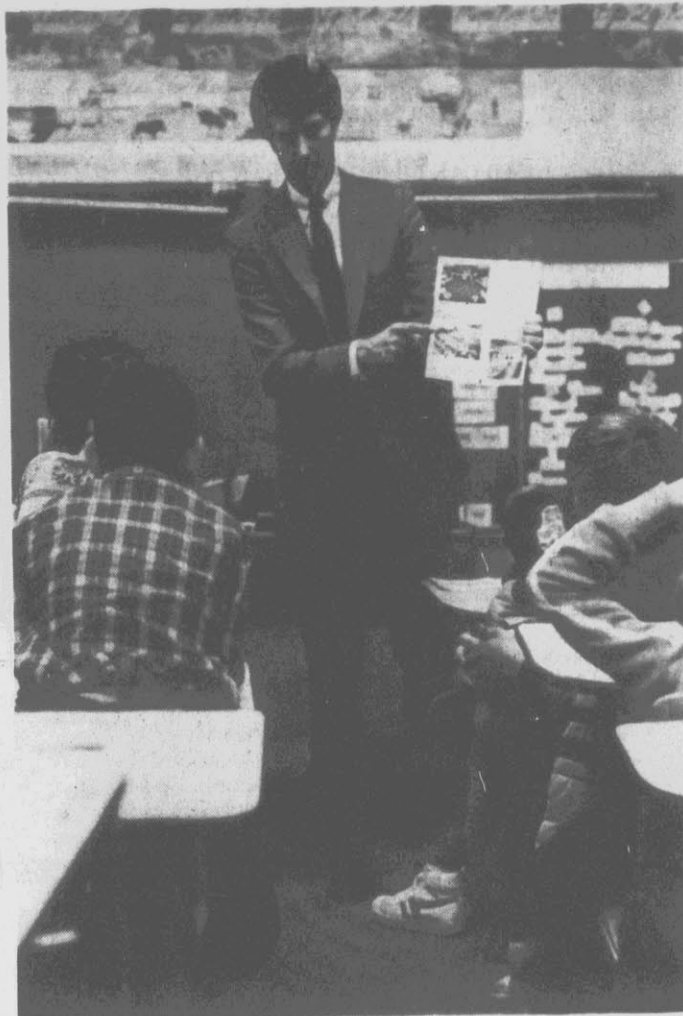

Last Saturday, the subcommittee reported the United States is losing billions of dollars and thousands of jobs to foreign counterfeiters.

In addition to clothing, there are phony labels on heart pumps, transistors, sunglasses, auto parts, electronic video games, athletic shoes and computers.

"The variety of fake goods is limited only by the imagination of the counterfeiters," said the report. "Some consumers have been killed or injured because of substandard counterfeits; many others have been plagued with inferior merchandise."

Dingell is drafting legislation to crack down on counterfeit goods.

The report said current laws are too weak to determine the flow of pirated goods into this country and abroad. It recommended stronger criminal and civil laws on patents, copyrights and trademarks.

Memorial Site Given

PARIS (AP) — France has formally ceded to the United States a site at Utah Beach for a monument to Allied troops who fought in the 1944 D-Day landings and the subsequent battle to free Normandy.

The monument will be dedicated at ceremonies June 6, the 40th anniversary of the World War II Allied invasion of Europe. President Reagan and President Francois Mitterrand of France have said they will attend.

French Secretary of State for Veterans Jean Laurain and U.S. Ambassador Evan Galbraith signed the documents transferring the site to the United States at a brief ceremony Tuesday.

Laurain said that although the 24-foot polished granite obelisk is to be built by the U.S. Battle Monuments Commission, it will "unite in a single homage, without considering nationality, all those who had the honor of fighting on this piece of French territory, and of contributing to the victory."

"It was normal not to separate in this homage the GIs, the Belgians, the British, the Canadians, the Dutch, the Norwegians, the Polish and also the French," he said.

Galbraith said Americans were "conscious of the debt we owe to France for its aid in the War of Independence," adding, "we have always fought together since."

Sentenced For 'Cat Murder'

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — A 26-year-old man received a 60-day suspended jail term in Union County District Court Tuesday for killing a cat that left muddy footprints on the hood of his pickup truck.

Glen Ray Chaney of Route 2, Monroe, was ordered to pay a $25 fine and costs of court. He filed notice of appeal.

Chaney was charged with cruelty to animals in connection with the death of a cat on Jan. 7 belonging to Linda McMahan.

Chaney testified he found the cat walking on the hood of his truck when he came to visit his girlfriend.

"The cat was on the hood and in the back of the truck," Chaney said. "We tried to run it off, but it kept coming back."

Chaney admitted shooting the cat with a 12-gauge shotgun. He said he waited until the cat got away from his truck so the shot would not damage the vehicle.

Yesterday's Cryptquip — THE FLOWER THAT KING MIDAS HAD A WEAKNESS FOR: MARIGOLDS.
Today's Cryptquip clue: H equals P.

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Here's a hand from the defensive play section of our home computer program, "Charles Goren: Learning Bridge Made Easy." It is now available for IBM, Apple II and Commodore 64 computers. See how you would fare against the computer.

The auction is straightforward. With eight playing tricks in his own hand, West tries his best to make life difficult for his opponents by jumping to four hearts at his second turn. However, North is too strong to be shut out of the auction, and his bid of four spades buys the hand.

West leads the king of hearts, and when dummy comes down he can see almost every high card in the pack. Obviously, he cannot expect a high-card trick from his partner. When East echoes in hearts by following first with the ten, West can count on two heart tricks and the ace of trumps. The most likely place for a setting trick is in trumps, and this can be accomplished if, among his collection of useless tickets, East has the jack of spades.

West continues with the queen of hearts and, despite all that he has been told about the evils of giving declarer a ruff-and-sluff, he plays a third round of the suit. Declarer must ruff high in dummy. His best plan is to come to hand with the queen of clubs to lead the ten of trumps toward the table.

Now West must continue with his excellent defense by rising with the ace of spades and leading a fourth heart, which gives declarer a second ruff-and-sluff. This one, however, declarer will not enjoy.

Declarer cannot afford to ruff high, for that concedes the setting trick to the jack of trumps. His only chance is to discard and hope that West holds the jack of trumps. Unfortunately, East has that card, and he ruffs with it to inflict a one-trick defeat.

Forward Leap

Today is "Leap Day" — a day added to the calendar once every four years. The adjustment is made to bring the Gregorian calendar into accord with the Earth's orbital period. A leap year occurs in every year that can be divided evenly by four. The only century years that are leap years are those that can be divided by 400. The Leap Year adjustment was first made in 46 B.C. Traditionally, Leap Year is a time during which women can propose marriage to men.

DO YOU KNOW — When will the next Leap Year occur?

Louisiana Executed Killer In Electric Chair

Massive Storm Is A Killer

By DANA FIELDS
Associated Press Writer

A monster storm already blamed for 42 deaths spread more snow today through the Northeast, where almost 3 feet had accumulated in places, and snowplow operators facing stiff winds and 10-foot drifts said it was like trying to "push back an ocean with a teaspoon."

Highways were closed by snow and ice this morning as far south as Birmingham, Ala., where the entire interstate system was barricaded, and more than half a dozen Dixie cities from San Angelo, Texas, to Mobile, Ala., reported record low temperatures for the date.

With much of the Midwest east of the Mississippi River buried under a foot or more of snow, up to 31.4 inches of had fallen in the North Tonawanda suburb of Buffalo, N.Y., with 26.9 inches at Buffalo International Airport and more on the way.

Snow was falling as fast as 2 inches an hour this morning at Pittsburgh, Pa., where 9 inches had collected by 9:30 a.m.

Some other totals included 25 inches at Niagara Falls, N.Y.; 21.6 inches at Rochester, N.Y.; 16 inches at Cleveland; 18 inches at Erie, Pa., and 1 inch at Tupelo, Miss. Eight to 15 inches collected over a wide area of Ohio from Dayton to Lake Erie with 14 inches in the mountains of New Hampshire.

Twenty-two of the deaths were linked to heart attacks brought on by snow-clearing efforts and there were six alone in Ohio's Cuyahoga County, where Deputy Coroner Lester Adelson warned, "Just like a gun, a snow shovel in the wrong hands is a deadly weapon."

Two children in New York state died of carbon monoxide poisoning, and police in Mason County, W. Va., said a 19-year-old mother of two was crushed to death when a boulder pried loose by ice crashed down a mountainside and slammed through a wall of her house.

More than 120 school systems remained closed today in southeast Michigan, where 7 inches of snow so far were whipped into drifts by 30 mph winds off Lake Huron. Schools also remained closed over much of Ohio, West Virginia and upstate New York.

"It's just unbelievable. It's almost impassable, like driving in a cloud," said Deputy Dale Meldrum in Michigan's St. Clair County, where motorists were urged to remain off the roads.

All but emergency vehicles were ordered off the streets in Buffalo, N.Y., on Tuesday afternoon.

The storm that had swept out of the Rockies on Sunday was centered over southeastern New York today, but it continued to spread snow as far south as Mississippi, Georgia and Alabama this morning.

Even before 40 mph squalls carrying an additional 6 inches off Lake Erie began to pick up early today, records for 24-hour accumulation fell Tuesday evening in Buffalo, N.Y., with 19.6 inches of snow on the ground, and in Cleveland, where the snow was 12.5 inches, just a few inches higher than the average 9 inches blanketing the state.

"When they get down the road it's open," said New York State Trooper W.M. Ryan of the snowplows. "Then they come back an hour later and it's closed. It's a little like pushing an ocean back with a teaspoon."

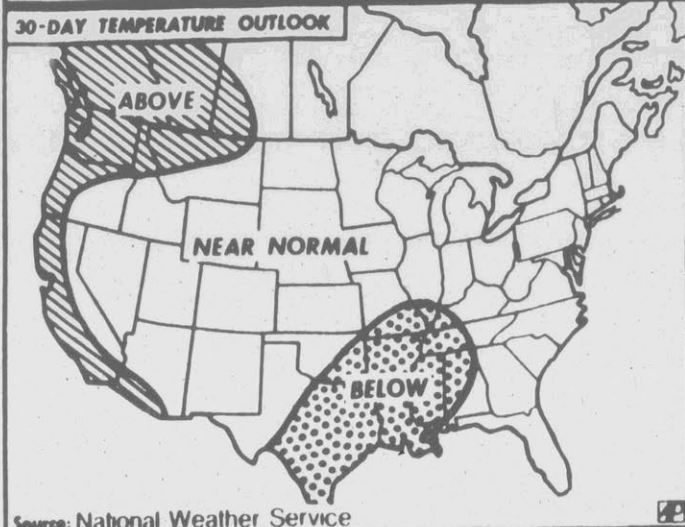

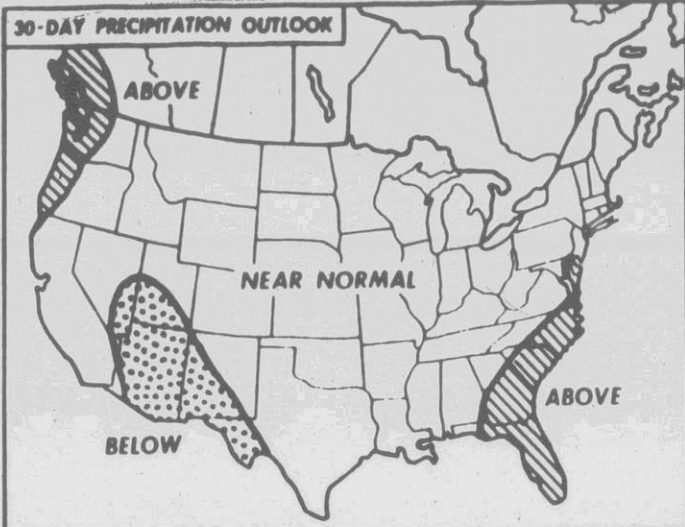

New England was getting mostly rain, but forecaster Nolan Duke of the Severe Storms Center in Kansas City, Mo., said that would turn to 3 to 6 inches of snow as temperatures dropped today.

States of emergency remained in effect today in Indiana, where 119 stranded travelers were put up in National Guard armories, and in Ohio, where thousands of National Guardsmen were on alert and 729 were already assisting local cleanup and rescue efforts. At least 52 people needing kidney dialysis were to be airlifted to Columbus hospitals for treatment today.

In Illinois, where 60 mph winds pushed 16-foot waves on Chicago's Lake Shore Drive on Tuesday, police used snowmobiles to rescue about 100 motorists from stranded vehicles on the Calumet Expressway. An additional 200 travelers spent the night in the high school at Mount Vernon, and 22 motorists were bundled into an Illinois Central Gulf Railroad caboose after being trapped in their cars for three hours.

Highways from Missouri to New York were snarled by drifts and abandoned or stuck cars and trucks. Several lanes of an 18-mile stretch of Interstate 94 near Detroit were blocked Tuesday night by a four-car pileup and three separate tractor-trailer jackknives. Snowdrifts 10 feet high were reported around Kankakee, Ill.

On the fringes of the storm's powerful center, up to 1,000 homes in Missouri remained without electricity-early today because of downed powerlines. Temperatures in the Deep South dipped below freezing in many areas and growers in Mississippi and Alabama braced for a freeze they said would endanger peaches and other crops.

It was 19 degrees this morning in San Angelo, Texas, a record for Feb. 29. Other cities reporting records included Shreveport, La., 27; San Antonio, Texas, 29; and Mobile, Ala., 29.

ANGOLA, La. (AP) — Johnny Davis Taylor Jr., convicted of murdering a man to steal a car, went to his death in Louisiana's electric chair today saying "I've done a lot of wrong ... I guess this is the price I pay."

Taylor, the second killer executed in Louisiana in three months, looked directly at the nine witnesses behind a glass window in the death chamber and read a three-minute statement just before his death.

"Living has been hard, and now it's time to die," he said before turning to the guards and asking them to strap him in.

Taylor, 30, was convicted of the 1980 murder of David Vogler, who was stabbed repeatedly, his body stuffed in his own car trunk and his wife's car stolen.

Four alternating jolts of 2,000 and 500 volts shot through his body for a total of one minute, Warden Ross Maggio said. Twice smoke curled from Taylor's left leg, where electrodes were attached.

West Feliciana Parish Coroner Alfred Gould pronounced Taylor dead at 12:16 a.m. The eight leather straps on the chair were unbuckled and his body was wheeled away to a waiting ambulance.

The execution, the 13th in the nation since the U.S. Supreme Court reinstated the death penalty in 1976, came just eight days after Taylor's lawyers began their last round of appeals. The U.S. Supreme Court refused 6-2 to stop the execution Tuesday, and Gov. Dave Treen refused to intervene Tuesday night.

It was Taylor's second execution date. Others on Louisiana's Death Row have fended off death for years with appeals, and protesters said they were surprised appeals had failed and the execution had come so quickly.

Taylor, of Prichard, Ala., seemed resigned as he went to his death. He visited with eight family members during the afternoon, spent the evening with his spiritual adviser and refused a last meal.

He was led into the cinder-block execution room just after midnight, wearing a gray sweatshirt, prison jeans and white sandals and holding a red bandanna. His head was shaved. He delivered his last statement deliberately, saying he had found God and asking for help for "those out there who need help."

"I've done a lot of wrong, caused a lot of hurt. I guess this is the price I pay for it," he said, adding, "I'm ready to see this through."

"I don't hold any remorse to anyone," he said, apparently meaning he bore no animosity toward authorities. "They feel right with what they're doing."

"That's it. Let's go," he concluded.

George Duke, the spiritual adviser who shared Taylor's last five hours, was not in the death chamber, but when Taylor turned to the chair, Duke's voice could be heard from a side room.

"All right, Johnny," he said. "See you later."

A gray leather hood was pulled over Taylor's face and guards began attaching electrodes to his body.

His death came a little more than three months after the Dec. 14 execution of Robert Wayne Williams, the first person put to death in Louisiana since 1961.

Anthony Antone was the last previous person executed in the United States, on January 26, when Florida became the first state to put three people to death since the 1976 ruling.

There were no demonstrations at the prison, but a crowd held a 30-minute vigil outside the state Capitol in Baton Rouge.

The protesters included Jerry and Karen Williams, Williams' brother and sister-in-law. A sign carried by Mrs. Williams read: "Electrocution Is No Solution."

Taylor's victim, Vogler, had left his wife's car at a department store parking lot in Kenner, La., a New Orleans suburb, with a "for sale" sign in the window. On Feb. 8, 1980, he got a telephone call from a prospective buyer and drove his own car to the lot to make the sale.

Police found Vogler's body the next day. He had been stabbed repeatedly and stuffed in the trunk of his car. His wife's car was missing.

On June 14, 1980, Taylor was stopped for a traffic violation. He was driving Mrs. Vogler's car, but fled on foot. He was finally arrested six days later, in connection with another auto theft.

At his trial, Taylor said he was never in Kenner, but his palm print was found on the lid of Vogler's car trunk.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market edged up in early trading today, following a Tuesday's abrupt slide. The Dow Jones Average of 30 Industrials was up 2.30 points to 1,159.44 in the first half hour. Declines and advances were running about even in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market has been driven in recent days by changing expectations about efforts to cut the federal budget deficit. Congress and the White House have been at a stalemate over whether tax increases or spending cuts should be employed to reduce the deficit. Today, Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker called on Congress to reduce federal budget deficits quickly to avoid a risky "atmosphere of crisis in the financial markets and elsewhere."

Before trading began, the government said in separate reports that its Index of Leading Economic Indicators rose 1.1 percent in January, the best showing in three months, and that America's foreign trade gap widened to a record $9.5 billion in January. Among today's early volume leaders, American Telephone & Telegraph was down 1/8 at 16 1/2, Mesa Petroleum was up 3/8 at 18 1/2, General Electric was off 1/8 at 52, and General Motors was up 5/8 at 69 3/4.

On Tuesday, the Dow Jones industrials average fell 22.82 points to 1,157.14 after a 14.86-point rise Monday. Declines outpaced advances Tuesday by nearly 3 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange. Big Board volume totaled 91.01

Object To Annexing

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — The U.S. Justice Department has filed objections to 11 annexations by Rocky Mount, saying they will further dilute black voting strength. "At the outset, we note that even though blacks constitute over 42 percent of the city's population, at no time has more than one black been elected to the city council," a Justice official wrote to the city on Feb. 21.

The Justice Department said that failure "appears to be the result of a general pattern of racially-polarized voting occurring in the context of Rocky Mount's at-large election system."

Unless it is overturned, the Justice Department ruling means that the 3,200 residents of the annexed neighborhoods cannot vote in municipal elections, Mayor Frederick R. Turnage said.

Turnage said Tuesday that the city probably would appeal the ruling following a 30-day period for its attorneys to research three options.

The annexations involve eight neighborhoods on the mostly-white Nash County side and three on the mostly-black Edgecombe County side. The new neighborhoods will augment Rocky Mount's population of 41,300 by 7 percent and add $57 million to its tax base, Turnage said.

The Justice Department letter said the annexations initially would reduce by 1.1 percent the minority proportion of the city's population.

Single-member districts were the central issue in a federal court ruling Jan. 27 that some North Carolina legislative districts violate the 1965 Voting Rights Act and must be redrawn by March 16.

$20,000 Grant For Observance

ASHEVILLE (AP) — The state of North Carolina has made a grant of $20,000 to help support the state's participation in the Golden Anniversary of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

Wayne McDevitt, Director of the Governor's Western Office in Asheville, presented the check Tuesday. The $20,000 grant will be used by the Golden Anniversary Committee to help coordinate and promote the more than 75 events planned in 11 western North Carolina counties during the year-long celebration.

Sue Motel Over Beating, Robbery

GREENSBORO (AP) — A Blackstone, Va. couple have filed federal lawsuits totaling $4.25 million against officials of a Cabarrus County Holiday Inn after gunman beat and robbed the couple of more than $4,000 in cash and valuables in 1981.

James and Sarah Crinkley filed the suits in U.S. Middle District Court in Greensboro, contending that the motel and its representatives failed to maintain adequate security at the Concord-Kannapolis Holiday Inn.

The suits also say motel officials failed to heed the threat posed to guests by a group dubbed the "Motel Bandits", a group the couple says robbed and assaulted people staying at motels along a stretch of Interstate 85 between Greensboro and Charlotte.

In separate suits, the couple claims Crinkley was attacked by an intruder who entered the room, knocked Mrs. Crinkley to the floor, and threatened to shoot her. They say they were bound and gagged and Crinkley suffered a broken jaw.

Study Aspects Of Verification

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration says it is studying whether a US-Soviet treaty banning anti-satellite weapons would be verifiable.

"There are difficulties which attend a comprehensive ban and therefore negotiations are formidable," deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said.

Pirate Tankers Host Eastern Competition

East Carolina University's swimmers will be the host team for the Eastern Intercollegiate Men's Swimming and Diving Championships, to be held starting Thursday.

The meet will continue through Saturday in Minges Natatorium.

Ten college teams from along the East Coast of the country will be involved in the meet, one of the more prestigious in the country. In addition to the hosting Pirates, the other teams include Cleveland State, Maine, Marshall, St. John's, St. Bonaventure, Rutgers, UNC-Wilmington, Villanova, and Pittsburgh.

West Virginia, the defending champion, will not compete this year due to a conflict with its conference schedule.

Pittsburgh will be the favorite in the meet, having won six times during the last ten years.

Only one individual champion from last year returns, however, Pittsburg's Ed Burgan, who won the 100- and 200-yard backstrokes. He is favored to win both of those events also.

East Carolina's Kevin Richards in the individual medley and Chris Pittelli in the freestyle are rated the top chances for the Pirates to win an individual title.

On the opening day, the 1-meter diving finals and the finals in the 500-freestyle, the 200-individual medley, the 50-freestyle and the 400 medley relay will be held.

Friday's events includes the 400-individual medley, the 200-freestyle, the 100-butterfly, the 100 backstroke, the 100-breaststroke and the 800-freestyle relay.

Saturday's events will be the 1,650-freestyle, the 100-freestyle, the 200-backstroke, the 200-breaststroke, the 200-butterfly, the 3-meter diving, and the 400-freestyle relay.

Time trials will be held daily at 12 noon, with finals getting underway each night at 7:30 p.m. All activities will be held in Minges Natatorium.

The meet affords swimmers the teams one of their last chances to meet qualifying times for the NCAA nationals, to be held March 21-24 at Cleveland, Ohio.

Pats Survive North Pitt

Pant-HERS Upset Rams

By JIMMY DuPREE
Reflector Sports Writer
LITTLEFIELD — After trailing throughout the second half, the Pant-HERS of North Pitt took the lead with 2:54 remaining in the contest on a shot from the corner by Alice Pittman and went on to take a 50-48 victory over Havelock in the opening game of the District II 3-A basketball tournament Tuesday at Ayden-Grifton High School.

North Pitt didn't fair as well in the boys game, as the Panthers fell short on a fourth-quarter rally and were eliminated by West Carteret 47-44.

The Pant-HERS victory sets up a rematch of the Eastern Carolina Conference finale played just last Friday at Farmville Central, as Southwest Edgecombe trounced West Carteret 59-37 to advance to the semifinals. North Pitt and the Lady Cougars will battle in Thursday's 8:30 p.m. game.

Alice Pittman finished the game with 10 points, while Sudie Sharpe led the Pant-HERS with 12 and Deloris Pittman and Regina Cox added 11 each to the balanced North Pitt attack. Jenny Bell paced the Rams with 15 points, with Susan Childers chipping in 12 and Shannon Stobel 10.

"Our foul trouble didn't help," North Pitt Coach Randy Avery said. "But sometimes that kind of thing brings out the best in other people. I think that was the case tonight."

"Regina Cox had a super second half when Deloris Pittman and Sudie Sharpe had to sit out. And Bernestine Wilkins came off the bench and contributed."

Alice Pittman's go-ahead bucket came just 30 seconds after a North Pitt turnover gave the Lady Rams a chance to ice the game. Havelock put up a shot, but Cox grabbed the rebound to set up Pittman's effort.

Cox appeared to be tied up inside with 2:20 left in the game but managed to work free for a 50-47

North Pitt lead with 2:17 till the buzzer.

Sharpe fouled out with 1:59 remaining, and the Pant-HERS called timeout to change strategy. Childers made the first free throw but missed the second, and Cox again cleared the rebound for North Pitt.

"We were at a point that we felt like if we took them out, we might lose too much rebounding," Avery said. "We lost Deloris early in the fourth quarter and then Sudie later, but we had a great effort off the bench."

After Bell missed on the front end of a one-and-one, Childers committed her fifth foul. But Alice Pittman missed her first attempt from the line.

A turnover by Havelock was scooped up by Alice Pittman, and Karen Johnson fouled North Pitt's Sherry Bradley on the way down the floor with 26 seconds remaining. Bradley also missed her first free throw, and Bell started the fast break up the floor for Havelock.

Pirates Open Against ACC

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina University opens its 1984 baseball season Thursday afternoon at 1 p.m., as the Pirates entertain Atlantic Christian College in a doubleheader at Harrington Field.

Coach Hal Baird is relying on a number of young players, but has enough veterans to give the team a good mixture, and he's hopeful of being in the thick of the ECAC-South race during the next two months.

East Carolina has applied to be the host team for this year's league tournament, but there has been no word yet on where the event will be held. Apparently it is between ECU and James Madison.

Coach Hal Baird, in his fifth year as head coach of the Pirates, feels that the good practice weather the team has had over the past few weeks will be helpful in improving on last year's 21-17-1 record.

"We've still had our ups and downs," he said. "There have been days when I thought we were where we should be; but there have been others when we didn't look good at all."

Baird said that East Carolina has played six scrimmage games and has won four of them, testifying of the ups and downs.

"Our young players have looked good. Jim Riley (freshman) has looked good at catcher. He's thrown people out stealing." That would be an improvement over the past couple of years when ECU rarely managed that feat.

Riley appears to be in front for the

"We're still looking at different combinations, but we're liking what we see in Greg Hardison (sophomore transfer) at shortstop and David Wells (senior) at third. Our other two seniors, Todd Evans, will be playing either at first or in left, while Roger Williams will be in right field. Both are looking pretty good now."

Baird feels that the Pirate defense could be at its best in several years. "It's been the most consistent part of the game so far and should be pretty solid. The offense is what hasn't been consistent."

Baird said that sophomore Winfred Johnson and Wells have been hitting a number of balls out of the park, and some of the others have been showing signs of coming around with the bat.

The mound work, Baird said, is about what he expected it to be. "Johnson is throwing well and Mike Christopher (freshman) has had some good outings. Robbie McLanahan (senior) also looks to be in the rotation, and the next most pleasant surprise has been the pitching of Jimbo Peterson (redshirt freshman)."

Junior Chubby Butler, freshman Craig Van-Deventer and junior Tom Webb will get some spot starts and come in from the bullpen, Baird said. One of the veterans, Bob Davidson, a junior, "hasn't thrown well yet and we are hopeful that he's going to come around."

Another who could help is redshirt freshman Roger Greer.

behind-the-plate duties, but Baird says that he will share the job with Jabo Fulghum, a senior, at least during the early season. Neither of them have been hitting the ball that well at this point in the year.

At first base, Johnson will play against lefthanded pitching, unless he's on the mound, in which case Evans will move to first. Against righthanded pitching, freshman Jeff Ginn is a likely starter at first.

Freshman Steve Sides appears set at second base, with Hardison at short and Wells at third. Peanut Langston, a junior, will be the top utility infielder.

When Evans vacates left field, junior Chris Bradbury will move into that spot. Ricky Nichols, who played as a freshman, then sat out his sophomore year, will return and be in center field, backed up by junior Mark Shank. Williams will be in right, backed up by sophomore Daniel Boone.

There are several candidates for the DH job. It could go to freshman Mike Sullivan, sophomore Mark Cockrell, Johnson or Ginn.

East Carolina will play each of the ECAC-South members twice. Home and away games are set with Richmond, William & Mary and James Madison, while George Mason and American are set to play doubleheaders in Greenville against the Pirates.

Madison, while it lost the league's post-season tournament to William &

Mary, ended up getting an at-large berth in the regionals and won its way into the College World Series.

"Based on that, a lot of people are picking Madison to win the title again," Baird said. "But William & Mary has nearly everyone back off the team that won the tournament, and I think Richmond is going to have a good team too."

"If our freshmen players come around and adjust to college baseball, then I think we will be able to compete for the whole shooting match. We have championship-type players. It's just a question of their getting into college baseball."

Following the games with ACC, the Pirates take to the road for their next two games, at Campbell and Francis Marion, Saturday and Monday, respectively. They return home to open a 23-game stand on Tuesday against St. Augustine.

Different Ways To National Title

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Among the 10 coaches at the NCAA's annual College Football Preview this week were two who learned last season what it's like to have a national championship team.

Miami's Howard Schnellenberger won his championship in a poll. Ray Dempsey of Southern Illinois — now the coach at Memphis State — won his on the playing field in the Division I-AA playoffs.

"To be involved in a playoff game and win the national championship is a great thing," said Dempsey. "I like the playoffs, but I've never been able to figure out how to do it in Division I-A."

"Our players really liked it (the playoff system), but when you're in

I-AA you don't get a chance to get much publicity. For I-AA it's a great, great thing. It did affect us academically. A lot of guys had to take incompletes in some courses for the semester. I didn't feel that 14 games (11 regular season, 3 playoff) were too many."

Schnellenberger agreed on that point.

"I don't see any problem with 14 games," he said. "We have 13 games now (Miami plays in the 1984 Kickoff Classic, plus a possible postseason bowl game) and we scrimmage on the Saturdays we're off anyway."

But he doesn't have any argument with the current system since "Miami is the only one that has a chance to win two national championships in a row."

But Schnellenberger has also coached in the pros and he said that "the NFL gives you one champion and 27 losers. The worst thing in the world is to be in the Super Bowl and lose. The best thing to happen to college football is that all the people at Auburn and Nebraska and Miami think they're No. 1. The more winners you have, the better off you are in intercollegiate athletics."

Dempsey saw some of that in the playoffs.

"The teams we beat felt like they were losers, and that's terrible because they had great years," he said.

But Maryland's Bobby Ross said his team didn't feel like a 1983 loser despite a 30-23 loss to Tennessee in the Florida Citrus Bowl.

"I don't believe that at all," he said. "I believe we should have a playoff (in I-A). And I don't see why everybody gets that concerned about grades. Basketball has tougher academic problems than we have and they have a playoff. It should be decided on the field. I'd like to see it structured in some way through the bowls."

"We had no problem with academics," Schnellenberger said. "We had seven weeks between the end of the regular season and the Orange Bowl. That's a lot of time for academics."

Here's what some of the coaches had to say about the upcoming season:

Bobby Ross (Atlantic Coast Conference): "I've still got to go with North Carolina just because of their sheer talent, but Clemson has a chance if they're eligible. Georgia Tech returns 17 starters and I look for them and Virginia to be dark horses. The ACC is going from a quarterback league to a running back league. We'll have some of the top running backs in the country — Ethan Horton of North Carolina, Robert Lavette of Georgia Tech, Joe McIntosh of North Carolina State."

Jimmy White, Oklahoma State (Big Eight): "It will be more muddled up this year than it's ever been, but I've got to say Nebraska because of their tradition and the program they have."

Mike White, Illinois (Big Ten): "Ohio State. They have an established quarterback who'll be a senior and a real solid defense. But from top to bottom the gap has been closed and it's a very competitive conference."

Don James; Washington (Pac-10): "I don't think there's any clear-cut favorite. Call it a tossup among UCLA, Southern Cal, Arizona State and — hopefully — Washington."

Fike Girls Get Revenge, 67-34

WILSON — Two weeks ago, Rose High School's Rampettes shocked the previously unbeaten Wilson Fike girls, but last night in the first round of the Big East Tournament, there was to be no repeat. Fike made sure of that, taking a 67-34 victory over the Rose lassies.

The loss ended the season for the Rampettes, while Fike advances to the semifinals of the tournament.

TKE Boxing Tournery Set

The 9th annual Miller High Life-Tau Kappa Epsilon Boxing Tournament returns to Minges Coliseum on the East Carolina University campus March 13-15.

The American Boxing Federation sanctioned event will begin nightly at 7:30 p.m. Proceeds from the event will go to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

Persons interested in participating in the tournament should call 758-3335 or 752-9527. This year's tournament is open to anyone who has never received prize money for any kind of boxing event.

Boxers will occupy one of nine weight divisions and will fight three 3-minute rounds. Winners will be awarded trophies on the final night.

Admission for the tournament will be $1 each for the first two nights of competition, and $2 for the final night.

TKE tournament chairman Mark Baker and chief coordinator Scott Mosher expect over 10,000 total attendance for the tournament, which is being co-sponsored by Miller and C.O. Tankard Co. of Washington for the fourth year.

the tournament, Northeastern's girls eliminated Hunt, 43-40; Northern Nash's girls slipped past Beddingfield, 52-51; and Fike's first place boys downed last place Rocky Mount, 68-56.

As a result of the Fike boys' win, the remainder of the tournament will be played at the Wilson school. Tonight, Fike's girls take on Northeastern at 7 p.m., followed by Fike's boys against Hunt at 9 p.m.

The semifinals wind up on Thursday with Northern Nash and Rocky Mount meeting in a boys' game, and Rose and Kinston colliding in a boys' contest.

Fike put the game against Rose on ice in the first period, blasting its way to a 17-0 lead during the quarter. "They came out red-hot with revenge on their minds," Coach Dennis Gibson said, "and there wasn't much we could do with them."

In the second period, Rose managed to get going but was still outthit, 21-15, as the lead climbed to 38-15 at intermission. Fike stretched the lead again in the third period, 22-5, barreling out to a 60-20 lead. Rose managed to outscore the subs, 14-7, in the final period to finish the game.

Paula Tucker led Fike with 22 points while Linda Barnes added 14. Rose was led by Doris Richardson with 14 points.

The loss closed out the year for the Rampettes.

Bertie In District Loss

WELDON — One Northeastern Conference team faltered, but another advanced into the semifinals of the District I 3-A Basketball Tournament at Weldon High School.

In girls action, Northeastern regular season champion Tarboro downed North Edgecombe, 50-39, to advance into the semifinals of the tournament. In the boys' contest, Northeastern champ Bertie was the victim, however, bowing to Northampton-West, 52-44.

Tonight's games find Weldon meeting Roanoke in a girls' contest, while Warren County takes on Plymouth in the boys' contest.

First round games continue through Friday, with semifinals Saturday and Monday and the finals on Wednesday, March 8. The winners advance to the Eastern Regionals at Wilson Beddingfield.

Trinity Wins Finale

Trinity Christian School romped to an 85-35 victory last night over Temple Christian, winding up the regular season and now heads for the district tournament. The Trinity girls also gained a win, downing Temple, 28-21.

The Tigers raced out to a commanding 22-4 first period lead and were never threatened after that. Jimmy Powers pushed through 20 first half points to lead the way as the Tigers opened up a 47-10 lead throughout the rest of the half.

During the third period, the lead was widened to 64-21, and Trinity outscored Temple, 21-14 in the final quarter to wrap it up.

Powers finished the contest with 22 points while Darryl Wells added 17, Mike Reynolds had 11 and Maury Harris had 10. Al Adams led the Patriots with 24 points.

The Lady Tigers, missing three regulars, took an 8-2 lead in the first period, but Temple came back with an 9-7 margin in the second to cut the lead to 15-11.

The pace slowed in the third period with Trinity expanding its lead to 21-13. Temple outthit Trinity, 8-7, in the final period, but it wasn't enough.

Stefanie Stevens led the Lady Tigers with 11 points while Jennifer Revels had 12 for Temple.

The Trinity boys wind up the regular season with a 20-2 record, while the girls are 11-1. Both teams will begin play in the district tournament in Edenton on Friday, seeded first.

Both teams went unbeaten in conference play and by virtue of their number one finish in the league automatically will advance to the state tournament in Rockingham,

March 9-10 regardless of their outcome in the district tournament.

Tubbs, Oklahoma Show 'Em

By The Associated Press
Sooner or later Billy Tubbs knew he would show them in the Show Me state.

Tubbs and his Oklahoma basketball team had already clinched the Big Eight Conference title and the main objective facing the Sooners Tuesday night was to finally get the coach a victory in his home state of Missouri. They did — barely — leaving Columbia, Mo. with a 61-60

Panthers...

The Rams got off several shots inside and Bell cleared an offensive rebound for a follow-shot before Bradley grabbed the last rebound as time expired.

"We're another step ahead of last year," Avery said. "These girls deserve it; they've lost a lot of close games this year. It's good to be three points ahead near the end and win a game."

"It's an emotional type thing at this point. It all comes down to which team wants it the most."

West Carteret had three opportunities to ice the game but connected on just one of a possible six free throws. Meanwhile, North Pitt failed to capitalize on the opening, as the only points the Panthers put on the board in the final minutes of the game was a 20-footer by Keith Clark with 1:09 left that cut the score to 45-44.

North Pitt's final opportunity to take the lead ended when a pass attempt inside caromed off Levon Shaw's leg out of bounds with six seconds on the clock. Lenny Langley stole the inbound pass, but his attempt to slam the ball off a Patriot player as he went out of bounds ended with Mansfield recovering the errant ball.

Mark Mansfield sank a pair of free throws with one second left to dash the Panthers hopes of an upset.

Donald Johnson led the Patriots with 16 points on the night, while Mansfield added 14. Clark paced North Pitt with 18 points as the only Panther in double-digits.

"We knew we were going to have trouble on the boards with them," North Pitt Coach Cobby Deans said. "But I felt like we did pretty well there in spurts. We did about what we thought we could do; we tried to cut off their fast break."

"We played well enough to win; a couple of breaks here or there would have made the difference."

The Panthers and the Patriots battled all the way, as the lead changed hands 13 times in the first half with seven ties. Each team held the biggest lead of the half — three points — near the midway mark of the first quarter.

A layup by Lenny Langley with 1:45 left in the first quarter gave North Pitt a 12-11 lead, but a corner shot from Mark Mansfield and a free throw by Donald Johnson gave West Carteret a 14-12 lead with 52 seconds left. North Pitt held the ball, and Lidwood Harris drove through to knot the score at the end of the period.

The Panthers never led in the second quarter, but West Carteret was unable to pull ahead by more than two points as the teams matched each other for a 24-24 halftime score.

But after Levon Shaw gave the Panthers a 26-24 lead opening the third period, the Patriots went to their strengths — inside power mixed with outside accuracy — to outscore North Pitt 16-4 through the 3:44 mark for a 40-30 advantage. Keith Clark pumped in eight of 10 points for the Panthers in the period, as North Pitt trailed 42-34 going into the final stanza.

Just as the Panthers came out cold in the preceding quarter, West Carteret's offense floundered in the fourth as the Patriots posted just six points in the period.

Clifton Williams came alive with a three point play and added another free throw as the Panthers trimmed the margin to 42-38 with 6:47 remaining. A hook shot by Johnson put the Patriots ahead by six, but Harris canned a 12-footer and Shaw worked free inside to cut the gap to 44-42 with 3:17 on the clock.

"I thought we played pretty well till that last quarter," West Carteret Coach Billy Widgeon said. "(North Pitt's players) had all shot mighty well from outside, so I was a little surprised to see them try to work inside at the end. We just got the bounce of the ball."

West Carteret will play the winner of Thursday's SouthWest Edgecombe-Havelock contest Friday at 8:30.

victory over the Tigers.

"You know, it's a funny thing," Tubbs said. "I was born in St. Louis, my dad was in the state legislature, and I finally won a game in Missouri."

The sixth-ranked Sooners had to stave off a late Missouri rally for the victory that improved their record to 25-3, 12-1 in the conference and ended a five-game losing streak at Hearn Center.

David Johnson gave Oklahoma a 61-60 lead with 2:22 remaining and the Tigers held the ball for one last shot. A 12-foot jumper by Prince Bridges bounced off the back of the rim as the buzzer sounded.

In the only other game involving a member of the Associated Press' Top Twenty, No. 5 DePaul routed Evansville 96-65.

Missouri Coach Norm Stewart praised his team despite the loss.

"I thought with one day of preparation after a double overtime game and a thin squad (nine players were in uniform), they really gave us a great effort," Stewart said referring to the victory over Oklahoma State on Sunday. "They carried out our game plan real well."

Greg Cavener led Missouri, 16-12, 4-8, with 22 points.

Tubbs wasn't completely happy with the night's events as he repeated his claim that Big Eight officials call too many unnecessary fouls on All-American forward Wayman Tisdale.

"The game was televised nationally," Tubbs said. "It's just a shame that Wayman couldn't play in front of the audience."

Tisdale, who was forced to sit out a nine-minute stretch in the second half after picking up his fourth foul, finished with 13 points, well below his season average.

DePaul's romp over Evansville gave Coach Ray Meyer a chance to use the entire roster as they improved their record to 22-2.

"We've been aching and we've had some nagging injuries and the game gave us a chance to play some of our kids," Meyer said.

Freshman Dallas Comegys led the Blue Demons with 17 points and four other DePaul players finished in double figures. The victory was the 23rd straight at home for DePaul, which has a 62-3 mark at The Horizon over the last four seasons.

DePaul jumped to a 6-0 lead, but the Purple Aces closed to within 11-9 before the Blue Demons ran off 13 straight points to set the stage for the rout.

Todd Scott led Evansville, 13-13, with 15 points.

Sampson Blames Fatigue For Rockets' Turnaround

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Rockets rookie Ralph Sampson has spent his first National Basketball Association season learning, asking questions, and forming a few opinions.

An opinion — the Rockets' current losing spell can be traced to the marathon practice sessions of Coach Bill Fitch.

"We just aren't jumping and showing the quickness that was there a month ago," Sampson told the Houston Post. "I know that and you know that. The last two weeks, everybody has been going through the fatigue aspect."

A question — why are rookies Rodney McCray and Sampson being asked to be the teams leaders instead of the veterans.

"Everybody's looking at me, I guess, to come in and do it every day," Sampson told the Houston Chronicle. "But then Coach Fitch kept saying 'You and Rodney are the leaders. You're the rooks and this is your team and that's the way it goes.'"

"I think that was the biggest surprise. Because in college, it's the seniors who are supposed to lead. They're the captains and you look for the seniors to do the most. Here it's the young guys. At least that's what they tell me. You've got to play hard every day and lead the way."

The Rockets have a 3-9 record in the last 12 starts but Fitch disagreed with his budding stars as to the causes of the decline.

Fitch said in an interview with Radio Station KOMA that the losses of Robert Reid and Phil Ford to injuries had more to do with Houston's current skid than long practice sessions.

"Ralph Sampson doesn't really have much to compare our workouts to since he is a rookie," Fitch said.

Fitch said he keeps accurate records of workouts for all of his teams and noted that his 1981 world champion Boston Celtics had longer workouts than this year's Rockets team. "That club hardly needed the practice time compared to this team," Fitch said.

Sampson said the Rockets' workouts have gotten longer with each loss.

"When we went on that five-game winning streak just before the All-Star break, it was great," Sampson said in a Post interview. "Our practices were short but served the purpose. We were having fun with shooting games and even Coach Fitch was kidding around at practice. That made things a lot better in the locker room."

"We were loose. We were feeling strong."

Sampson said he was not taking issue with his coach concerning the length of practices, just voicing one man's opinion.

"Coach Fitch has won the championship and is doing what he feels it takes to get the job done here," Sampson told the Post. "I've got no problem with him at all. I'm just here learning and I'll do whatever he says."

"But everybody has their own opinion. I just think we have gone through some tough times in the fatigue area. Our talent is better than the record indicates."

The Rockets are 23-35 following Tuesday night's 111-105 victory over Seattle.

NFL Will Appeal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — National Football League officials say they will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court a federal appeals court decision upholding the move of the Raiders football team from Oakland to Los Angeles.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals handed the Raiders a significant victory Tuesday, ruling 2-1 that the NFL violated antitrust laws by conspiring to prevent the Raiders from moving to Los Angeles. It also ruled that the league has no power to block any future franchise moves.

"We're grateful for the decision by the federal Court of Appeals," said Raiders' managing general partner Al Davis in a statement issued through executive assistant Al LoCasale.

All ACC Teams In NCAA Field?

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Lefty Driesell isn't prejudiced, understand, but the Maryland coach thinks all eight Atlantic Coast Conference teams should get bids to the NCAA playoffs.

"I think every team in the ACC should be in it, if you consider strength of schedules and the strength of the league," Driesell contended.

That would include Clemson, which Driesell argues is one of the top teams in the nation despite a 2-11 record within the ACC which includes four losses by a total of eight points.

"But as long as we get in," Driesell said of the Terps at a news conference Tuesday, "I don't care who else gets in."

Driesell figured a league victory at home tonight over North Carolina State would wrap up an NCAA bid for the Terps, convincing even those who don't share his views of the ACC.

"We're playing well right now, but I think we could play better," said of the Terps, who have won four of their last five and upped their record to 18-7.

A 20-victory season and an ACC tournament championship would be nice, Driesell said, but the main goal is to go all the way in the NCAA playoffs.

"Winning 20, I reckon, is very important to me," Driesell said. "It's always been one of our goals. We'll win 20 before it's all over."

Maryland plays at home against Virginia on Sunday to close out the regular season before heading into next weekend's ACC tournament.

The NFL contended on appeal that it is a single entity rather than 28 franchises, and as such is not subject to U.S. antitrust law.

But the court said Rule 4.3 of the NFL bylaws is, on its face, an agreement to control, if not prevent, competition among the NFL teams through territorial divisions.

The court said there was "ample evidence" for the jury to decide that the rule harmed competition to such an extent that any benefits to the league as a whole were outweighed.

Davis has worked for several years to overturn the rule, which requires two-thirds majority approval of the league's owners before a franchise can be moved.

"The war is now over. What remains is a simple mopping up operation," said Raiders' attorney Joseph Alioto.

"Rozelle's vendetta against Davis has turned into a $60-million boomerang," Alioto added, explaining that attorney's fees and damages will amount to $60 million or more.

The majority decision Tuesday was written by Judge Blaine Anderson and joined in by Judge Dorothy Nelson.

U.S. District Judge Spencer Williams, sitting on the appellate court under special assignment, dissented. He agreed with the NFL's argument that it is a single entity and as such is not subject to antitrust law.

Complications In Feb. 29 Birthday

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The social complications of having a baby on Feb. 29 were really the last thing on Kim Walker's mind four years ago today.

"When I went into labor, the nurses kept telling me, 'Hurry up, hurry up before tomorrow.' And I said 'Why?' And they said that tomorrow was leap year," recalled Ms. Walker, who lives in Asbury Park and gave birth at Jersey Shore Medical Center in Neptune.

"Well, I didn't think about it then, because I was in labor," she said. "But afterward I thought, 'Wow, Bryan's not going to have a birthday but every four years. Since he was born the day after the 28th, I thought maybe I should celebrate it on the first. But, he wasn't born in March.'"

Most parents don't want their babies born on that odd day that occurs every four years, but "people unfortunately don't plan pregnancies out quite that carefully," said Dr. Anthony Quartell, a Livingston obstetrician.

Quartell had two patients due to deliver today at St. Barnabas Medical Center, and "neither one wants to have that baby on the 29th," he said.

"Women simply don't want to have babies on holidays," he explained. "April 1 is the day no one wants to have a baby. This year, I had two patients due on April 1 — one already delivered very prematurely. The baby is fine, and the woman later said, 'Thank God I didn't have the baby on April Fool's Day.'"

"The exception is Dec. 31. On that day, they want the kid out by midnight."

Doctors say that their aim to please their patients stops with the calendar.

"We can't do anything about it," Quartell said. "You never, ever want to be in the position to speed up or slow down a labor for essentially a social decision. Now, if it's a repeat or elective Caesarean, you have a chance."

Maureen Cappuccino of Harrison recalled that when her son, Nicholas, was born Feb. 29, 1980, "the nurses were kidding that night and saying why don't you wait a few more hours, and I said, 'No, no.' I was in labor for such a long time that, at that point, I didn't care what day it was."

For Leap Year babies and their families, the lifelong question is whether to hold birthday parties on Feb. 28 or March 1.

In Minnesota, Peter Flatten of Minneapolis gets the opportunity today to celebrate on his true date of birth as he turns 96 years old — or, as he likes to say, 24.

Shortage For Handicapped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many states report problems in finding teachers qualified to teach handicapped children, with the most severe shortages in rural areas, a University of Maryland survey says.

"Expansion of special education programs and services has slowed since 1980," the schools Institute for the Study of Exceptional Children and Youth said in its report. It said "many school districts are struggling to maintain the status quo with fewer resources."

The researchers polled state education officials in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam and Puerto Rico as well as the Bureau of Indian Affairs. Twenty-two jurisdictions reported that they experience teacher shortages "well into the school year."

OSLO, Norway (AP) — The government says Foreign Ministry official Arene Treholt has admitted giving classified documents to Soviet officers several times since 1973.

Magnar Flornes, director of public prosecutions, said the investigation covers a span starting in 1973, including a period when Treholt had access to classified documents as a member of Norway's delegation to the United Nations.

Eight-Award Grammy Sweep For Jackson

By YARDENA ARAR
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Multi-talented Michael Jackson's eight-award sweep behind his smash album "Thriller" set one record and classical conductor Sir Georg Solti toppled another in a night of firsts at the 26th annual Grammy awards. "Thriller," which has sold 25 million records to become the best-selling record of all time, earned Jackson seven awards Tuesday night, including album of the year and record of the year for the No. 1 single "Beat It." The eighth award, best children's recording, was for his narration and singing on the album version of "E.T. — The Extra-Terrestrial." Jackson went into the National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences ceremony with 12 nominations in 10 categories. The previous record for most Grammys won in a single evening was held by Paul Simon, who picked up seven awards for the 1970 Simon & Garfunkel hit album "Bridge over Troubled Water." Solti, who had won 19 Grammys before the nationally televised awards show, received another four, including best classical recording and best orchestral recording for Mahler's "Symphony No. 9 in D Major." With 23 Grammys, Solti now has three more awards than film score specialist Henry Mancini, who previously held the record for most Grammys. In another Grammy first, 22-year-old trumpet virtuoso Wynton Marsalis won one Grammy for a classical work and another for jazz. A modest winner, he declined comparisons to such greats as Miles Davis and Dizzy Gillespie. "I'm still like Miles Davis and Dizzy Gillespie were when they were 22 — trying to learn how to play," he said. Solti's four awards were matched only by Quincy Jones, who earned three Grammys as Jackson's co-producer on "Thriller" and one as producer of the "E.T." album. "Of all the awards I've got tonight, I'm most proud of this one," Jackson said of the "E.T." Grammy. His other "Thriller" awards included best male pop vocal for the album, rock vocal for "Beat It," rhythm & blues vocal and song of the year for "Billie Jean," and producer of the year. Jackson did not perform during the telecast, but viewers did see him dance in two Pepsi-Cola ads. He suffered much-publicized scalp burns during filming of one of the spots last month, but the injury was not apparent at the awards show. The British rock band The Police kept Jackson from winning the two other awards he was nominated for. The band's elegantly simple ballad, "Every Breath You Take," beat out Jackson and Paul McCartney's "The Girl Is Mine" in the pop group category. Police lead singer Sting took new song of the year honors for writing "Every Breath You Take." The group, which in previous years had won three Grammys, took four this time, including the rock group award for their "Synchronicity" LP and the rock instrumental category for the title track to Sting's "Brimstone & Treacle" soundtrack. Resplendant in a glittering navy-blue-and-orange Sgt. Pepper-style jacket, his trademark single sequined glove and dark sunglasses,

Jackson was accompanied by Jones for most of his halting, soft-voiced thank-you speeches to his family, record company and almost everyone connected to "Thriller." The album is in its 31st week atop Billboard's national chart. In accepting his seventh Grammy for male pop vocalist, he finally doffed the dark glasses. "I don't want to take them off, really," he said. "Katharine Hepburn, who is a dear friend of mine, told me I should, so I'm doing it for her ... and the girls in the balcony." Irene Cara, disheveled after performing her hit "Flashdance ... What a Feeling," was a surprised female pop vocalist winner. "I can't believe this," she said. Boy George, lead singer of Culture Club, which won the award for best new artist, gave the otherwise placid show a comic touch with his acceptance speech, telecast via satellite from London. "Thank you America," he said, sporting feminine makeup, a dress and long, braided hair. "You've got taste, style, and you know a good drag queen when you see one." Another highlight of the CBS telecast, which ran about 15 minutes over its scheduled three hours, was veteran rock 'n' roller Chuck Berry's performance before accepting a special Lifetime Achievement Grammy. Still duckwalking at age 57, Berry was asked when he'd quit rock 'n' roll. "When I lie down for the last time," he said.

'Footloose' Tops Box Office For 2nd Week

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Paramount's "Footloose," the story of a young man who revives dancing in a small town, topped the box office charts for the second straight week. "Footloose," which has grossed $16.9 million in its first two weeks of release, topped "Blame It On Rio" and "Lassiter" as the most popular film of the past weekend, figures from the studios showed Monday. Among movies getting Academy Awards nominations, "Terms Of Endearment" continued a streak of popularity, increasing its gross receipts to $81.8 million in its 14th week.

"The Right Stuff," redistributed widely to take advantage of its eight Academy Award nominations, saw its total earnings rise to $19.2 million, still below the $28 million it cost to make the film. Here are last week's top-grossing films, followed by the past week's receipts, total receipts to date and weeks in distribution:

- "Footloose" (Paramount), $6.6 million, $16.9 million, 2 weeks.
- "Blame It On Rio" (20th-Fox), $3.3 million, $7.6 million, 2 weeks.
- "Lassiter" (Warner Bros.), $2.9 million, $8.9 million, 2 weeks.
- "Terms Of Endearment" (Paramount), $2.8 million, $81.8 million, 14 weeks.
- "Unfaithfully Yours" (20th-Fox), $2.6 million, $11.4 million, 3 weeks.
- "The Right Stuff" (Warner Bros.), $1.3 million, $19.2 million, 18 weeks.
- "Broadway Danny Rose" (Orion), $1.3 million, $7.2 million, 5 weeks.

The Best Selection of Previously Owned Toyotas

The Best Buy

A leading consumer magazine reports that there's no better buy in a used car than a previously owned Toyota.

You see, Toyota's reliability and documented low incidence of repairs means that new or used, you get a very dependable car for your money.

The Largest Selection

In fact, previously owned Toyotas are usually hard to find. After all, Toyota owners are a loyal bunch.

But right now, we have the largest selection you'll find anywhere.

Over 30 previously owned Toyotas in stock now!

The Nicest Bonus

Bring us this coupon, and we'll give you $200 off the price of any previously owned Toyota in stock.

Or, you may use it toward the purchase of almost any other used car or truck in stock.

All of these previously owned Toyotas represent a remarkable automotive value. In fact, many qualify for our 2 year/24,000 mile Tender Loving Care Warranty.

Of course, financing is available with approved credit, on all models in stock.

Use this coupon at Toyota East for $200 Off the price of any previously owned Toyota, or any other used car or truck, except a Pontiac T-1000.

Coupon expires 3/31/84. Limit one coupon per customer.

Oil Shortages Had Early Roots

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Many Americans believe the energy crisis began with the Arab oil boycott in 1973.

But the roots go back to the 1950s and '60s, according to Edd Grigsby of Phillips Petroleum. Grigsby says that was when the American economy, riding the coattails of cheap imported oil, fueled a sharp rise in oil consumption. He says demand was rising so rapidly that to meet demand in the early 1970s the industry would have had to build 10 new refineries a year, and that was impossible.

In fact, the first real oil shortages began to appear in the summer of 1972.

Eclipsing Star Mystery Felt Near Solution

By JOY ASCHENBACH

WASHINGTON — Every 27 years it happens. Some mysterious object comes between the supergiant star Epsilon Aurigae and Earth. You can't see it—the invisible body leaves no trace of itself—but you know it's out there because the star's brightness slowly dims.

The eclipse of Epsilon Aurigae—a star 250 times bigger than the sun and 50,000 times as bright—is one of the classical mysteries of modern astronomy. Among the longest of the known eclipses, lasting nearly two years and occurring only every 27.1 years, it has bedeviled astronomers throughout the 20th century.

Is the star's dark companion a swarm of meteorites, gas clouds, a hot star in a cold shell, a planet-forming disk, or a black hole?

Disk Most Likely
At varying times since the eclipsing pattern was first recognized in 1903, scientists have speculated about all of these. Today the most likely possibility appears to be a developing planetary system. Epsilon Aurigae is again in eclipse, expected to return to full brightness in May.

"I think chances are better than ever this time that we will discover what's going on. We have all the advantages in terms of new technology. And it's our last chance to clear up this mystery before the century ends. The next eclipse won't start until 2009," observes Dr. Robert E. Stencel of the astrophysics division of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. He is a coordinator of the worldwide eclipse-monitoring campaign.

The long time between eclipses, along with the invisibility of the object, makes Epsilon Aurigae "difficult for mere mortals to study. By the time just two eclipses have gone by, your career as an astronomer is about over," Stencel says.

This eclipsing body seems to be a very cool, spinning, dense disk of gas and dust that is extremely large, taking almost two years to move past the star. During the more than a year that it is completely across the star—blocking out about half its surface area—it cuts the star's brightness in half.

The blinking or dimming was first noticed by a German amateur astronomer in 1821, although the precise 27-year pattern was not recognized until early this century. The 1982-84 eclipse is the seventh known.

Burning Out Fast
Normally, the primary star in the Epsilon Aurigae system is among the brightest in our galaxy, a massive F1 supergiant star that is visible from Earth even though it is about 2,000 light years away. One light year, the distance light travels in a year, is 5.8 trillion miles. Part of the constellation Auriga, the star can be seen with the unaided eye in the northern sky, not far from Gemini and Taurus. A careful observer can detect its slow brightening this winter and spring.

The price of being so big and bright is burning out quicker. The star probably has a life span of only a few hundred million years, compared with the sun's 8 billion to 10 billion years, says Stencel.

The fact that it's relatively short-lived could mean that its companion has not yet formed, he notes, or that it somehow is preventing its companion from forming.

At least 55 professional and amateur astronomers in about a dozen countries have telescopes pointed toward Epsilon Aurigae to try to detect its secret companion. Besides groundbased instruments taking photometric, spectroscopic, polarimetric, and infrared measurements, satellites also are making ultraviolet and infrared observations.

"It has to be a protoplanetary system. I don't know how it could be anything else," says astronomer James C. Kemp of the University of Oregon, who bases his statement on preliminary results of his monitoring of the polarized light.

Kemp and his assistants have been watching Epsilon Aurigae since late July 1982, through telescopes at the Pine Mountain Observatory, perched 6,300 feet up in the mountains of Oregon's central desert region. His research is supported in part by the National Geographic Society.

Maybe a Buried Star
"The pattern of polarized light indicates that the eclipsing body is a highly organized dense disk strongly condensed and probably rapidly spinning. Presumably there is a star buried in the middle that holds it together. Given what we know of the formation of planets, this disk seems to have the right properties," Kemp says. "It may be in the process of condensing, shrinking, and cooling into cooler gaseous blobs that may further condense into planets—at the same time becoming flatter and flatter."

At this point, his studies indicate that the disk is about 100 million miles thick, with a billion-mile diameter. However, preliminary infrared measurements by Dana E. Backman of the University of Hawaii show the disk to be somewhat thicker. Epsilon Aurigae's mysterious companion was first thought to be disk-shaped and dense by astronomer Su-Shu Huang of Northwestern University in 1965.

It may be about a year after the current eclipse ends before scientists will be able to agree about what they saw, Stencel says. "It's a matter of comparing notes from all sources and trying to decide what best explains the data," he says. The infrared studies, which can probe regions that appear transparent in ordinary visible light, may hold the key.

"With infrared we hope to see through to what's going on in the center, whether there's a hot center, a cold center, or none at all," says Stencel.

An orbiting infrared telescope, which last year provided the first direct evidence of other solar systems, is expected to give clues about Epsilon Aurigae when further data are analyzed. The Infrared Astronomy Satellite found two potential planetary systems—around the stars Vega and Fomalhaut.

Barring some astronomical surprises, Stencel believes scientists should be able to say the same thing about Epsilon Aurigae. "I hope those studying the eclipse of 2009 to 2011 will be affirming what we have discovered," he says.

THE ECLIPSE of Epsilon Aurigae has astronomers baffled about what comes between the star and earth only every 27 years. This drawing based on observations of the current eclipse, shows a disk as it obscures half of the star.

Speculates On A Changing World

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Imagine a world with 8 billion people, in which India has passed China as the most populous nation. Malaysia and Costa Rica have joined the ranks of industrial states and the United States has become a service and information society.

That is the vision of population expert Leon F. Bouvier, speculating on what the world might be like in the year 2034 in a report done for the Population Reference Bureau, a Washington based non-profit study group.

Bouvier, a senior researcher at the bureau, characterizes his conclusions as optimistic, noting that he assumes that the evolution of society will be generally orderly over the next half-century, that there will be no nuclear war and that there will be sufficient food, water, mineral and energy resources for mankind.

If things do go that well, Bouvier anticipates a world population of just over 8 billion in the year 2034, double the 1976 figure.

India will have become the world's most populous nation with 1.3 billion people, he says, topping China, where efforts to reduce population growth have held the total to 1.2 billion.

The Soviet Union will remain third largest, he says, with 330 million people, and the United States fourth with 270 million.

As growth in less developed nations continues to top the more developed ones, migration will continue to be a problem as people seek better lives and jobs, Bouvier said.

Indeed, he suggests immigrants will become an increasing factor in the populations of some North American and European nations where native fertility rates have fallen below replacement levels, or will have done so by 2034.

Nations like Mexico may have to discourage arrival of people from other Central American states, he says, because of crowding and overpopulation in newly industrialized areas.

Mexico City, Bouvier says, could become the world's most populous city by 2034, at just under 40 million people.

He says the United States, along with Western Europe, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and Japan, will likely have passed beyond the era of industrialization to become information and service oriented societies. But such societies will contain only about 4 percent of the world's people.

The new industrial societies will have about 38 percent of the world's population, Bouvier anticipates.

These are nations that will take over the industrial production formerly done by nations moving toward service and information lifestyles. Included in the newly industrialized states will be China, Korea, Malaysia, Brazil, Argentina, Costa Rica, Mexico, Venezuela, the Soviet Union and some Eastern European nations.

The largest population group — 43 percent — will still be in the developing countries of the world, Bouvier speculates. These are nations that will still be somewhat more rural than urban, such as India, Nigeria, Egypt and Indonesia.

Finally, he anticipates that about 15 percent of the world's people will reside in the least developed nations, where little progress has been made and the situation is not much brighter than in 1984. Those nations include Bangladesh, most of sub-Saharan Africa and some Middle Eastern states.

Bouvier, who usually analyzes current population trends, stresses that his study is a compilation of what might happen under certain conditions and is not a prediction. It was published by the Population Reference Bureau under the title "Planet Earth 1984-2034: A Demographic Vision."

Says Tarantulas Make Ideal Pets

KENMORE, Wash. (AP) — Looking for a neat, quiet pet that can take care of itself while you're on vacation? Has Allan McKee got the critter for you!

Sure, it takes a little time to warm up to a tarantula. Why, McKee himself used to have trouble sleeping with just one in his house. But now, as proprietor of Al's Tarantula Ranch, he routinely shares his home with 3,000 to 5,000 of the giant spiders, in various stages of development from egg to adulthood.

The tarantulas live in what was Fran McKee's sewing room until her husband, who also works as a telephone company technician, launched his venture. That happened when his mother-in-law brought a Mexican Red-leg tarantula for the McKee's daughter.

McKee said in a recent interview that he was "terrorized" at first, until he learned, he said, that the spiders' bite is roughly like a bee sting and is dangerous to people who are also allergic to bee stings. Now he sings his pets' praises.

"They are easy to care for... don't make a mess, eat modestly (live crickets) and, because they don't need water, you can go away on a vacation and not need a pet-sitter."

And they've got staying power, he says — tarantulas have "been on earth for an estimated 360 million years."

Now admit it, can you say all that for man's best pal?

Capture Nature On Film

By JERRY DUBS

Harrisburg Patriot News CHAMBERSBURG, Pa. (AP) — He's a retired newspaper editor with a passion for photography and a love of nature. She's a former director of hospital volunteers who shares his photographic talents and carries a suitcase full of books to help identify the trees, flowers and birds they find on their journeys.

Together, Ken and Lib Beaver have canoeed the Okefenokee Swamp in Georgia, ridden horses up rock-strewn trails in Big Bend National Park in Texas, camped in the back of a truck during a three-month tour of Alaska and explored state and national parks across the land.

Through it all, they took photographs — thousands of photographs, chronicling not themselves, but the land they have wandered through and wondered at.

Revealing an obvious enthusiasm and appreciation of the beauty of nature and wildlife, the photographs have earned the Beavers a statewide reputation.

Their art has been selected for juried competitions in the William Penn Memorial Museum, in Harrisburg, the Cumberland Valley Photographic Salon in Hagerstown, Md., and in the Pennsylvania Best display at Franklin and Marshall College in Lancaster.

They have exhibited at shows and festivals across the state, including the four major displays of the Pennsylvania Guild of Craftsmen.

"We got into selling the photographs in the last part of 1980," Beaver said. "It was one of the alternatives we had thought about."

"At first," said Mrs. Beaver, "we were surprised that people wanted to buy our pictures. At our first show we sold about $10 worth. The next one we sold $80. It's been going up ever since."

But popularity and success had its price for the Beavers. Demand for their photographs grew so much that they found they had less and less time to travel and take pictures.

"Last year we did 24 shows," Beaver said. "This year we cut down to 14. Twenty-four was too many."

Besides the photographic displays, the Beavers compose slide shows of their travels, focusing on nature themes. One show is called Nature's Gay Jewelry, another The Great Land: Alaska.

Preparing the photographic displays and the slide narrations is work, something the Beavers realized they were not leaving behind when they retired three years ago.

But they have managed to wean themselves from labor well enough to enjoy their mutual hobby.

When they first retired they vacationed in Florida for a month before taking a trip they had dreamed about for years — an extended tour of Alaska. The trip was an economical one — they slept, ate and traveled in a truck with a camper on the back.

They didn't see the inside of a motel or hotel room except for a side trip to Pribilof Island, where they photographed seals.

In 1982, they spent 38 days driving south along the Baja peninsula from San Diego, after first motoring cross-country.

A swamp and an ocean island were the highlights of their travels last year as they visited Okefenokee and the Galapagos, made famous by Charles Darwin's writings on evolution.

The couple have logged more than 80,000 miles in the past five years, 15,000 of them on the trip to Alaska. Aside from a few flat tires, they have experienced few mechanical problems.

The Beavers began their sightseeing when they were young. A career newspaper man, Beaver's profession took him from Harrisburg to the state of Washington to St. Louis and back to Chambersburg. Along the route, they took camping trips with their three children, photographed everything they saw and grew to appreciate mountains, forests, rivers, glaciers, deserts and swamps.

"We planned our vacations to go camping in parks," said Mrs. Beaver. "We went up and down the Mississippi, through national forests, wildlife refuges.

"We always enjoyed camping, canoeing and backpacking. We try to plan trips that are out of the ordinary, rather than taking a tour package. It's simply what we both like to do."

BACKCOUNTRY USE

BOSTON (AP) — Backcountry use in the Northeast declined slightly in 1983.

The Appalachian Mountain Club says overnight stays in its shelters during the summer of 1983 were 3.3 percent fewer than in the summer of 1982.

ACID RAIN THREAT

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Acid rain is threatening the medieval stained glass treasures of Europe, according to a study sponsored by the U.N. Economic Mission for Europe.

Brewing Beer Not Difficult

By TOM MINEHART
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE (AP) — Mike Waker's prowess at brewing beer is such that you'd think he came from Pilsen or Dortmund or one of the other great continental brewing cities.

But Waker is from London, where an estimated 10 percent of the people make their own beer and wine at home. As manager of Alternative Beverage in Charlotte, he's helping to bring the art to America.

"We estimate that about 75 percent of the beers someone might like can be brewed at home with malt extracts and additives like grain malt," said Waker, who shares his countrymen's preference for rich, strong beer. "You can even make American light beer. It's a tragedy, but you can do it. And it will only cost you about 8 or 10 cents a bottle."

Waker, 31, said this is how the basic brewing process works: First, the barley is malted — soaked, allowed to sprout and dried. The malt is mashed with warm water in stages at specific temperatures to allow enzymes to turn the starch into sugar. The resulting liquid is boiled with hops, a bitter flower from a vine related to the marijuana plant. The hops balance the sweetness of the malt and add aroma.

Yeast is added and the beer ferments. After a few days, the brewer may put the beer in a secondary fermenter to allow yeast and hops particles to settle, making the beer clearer. The beer is "primed" with a little fresh yeast and corn sugar to carbonate it, then it is bottled.

Alternative Beverage can supply the amateur brewer with everything he needs from barley to burp. But most brewers start with malt extract, which is a boiled-down version of the mash liquid with or without hops extract, Waker said.

The shop's shelves are packed with about 100 different types of malt extract from England, Scotland, Canada, Holland, Germany, Australia, Ireland and elsewhere designed to make dark, aromatic stouts, feisty ales and sparkling lagers.

"You can make a better beer than the export version even if you're inexperienced," Waker said. That's because exported beers are often watered down to meet American standards. Two cases of a beer more satisfying than a well known Dutch export can be brewed at home for only $25, and the equipment can be used for later batches, he said.

The grain malts — malted barley roasted to varying degrees from pale to black — are used by the more adventurous home brewer to add character to malt extracts, or they are used by themselves. But the mashing process is complicated, involving temperature rests at precise points and a specific proportion of acidity.

Alternative Beverage also sells pelletized and loose hops with names like Fuggles and Bullion, several types of yeast, corn sugar and recipe books. Also available are fermenting containers, thermometers and air locks for keeping the brew free of wild yeast.

The store also sells winemaking equipment and imported beer and wine. This allows it to sell the home brewing equipment at a lower cost, Waker said.

Charlotte has an amateur brewer's club, called "The Lagerheads," which meets once a month to exchange ideas and, of course, quaff the results. Nationwide interest in home brewing is growing so fast that Alternative Beverage is starting a national mail order service, Waker said.

North Carolina law allows one to make 100 gallons of beer per year for home consumption, but Waker said some people make more. Right now he's working on a batch of Old Peculiar Ale.

"Word gets around and I get descended upon by thirsty friends," said Waker, who has been making beer since the early 1970s, when home beermaking burgeoned in England.

Alternative Beverage is owned by Jess Faucette.

"We share the same philosophy," Waker said. "With home brew, the quality can be high, the price inexpensive and the labor minimal."

Designated As 'Cancer Month'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has proclaimed April as Cancer Control Month, saying the best way to prevent the disease is to avoid smoking.

Reagan said in a statement that the "news about cancer is getting brighter." Even though "three out of 10 Americans will develop cancer at some time in their lives, half of those who do will live five years or more and are considered curable," he said.

Research indicates that two-thirds of all cancer in the United States is linked with Americans' lifestyles, he said, and the "single most important step which can be taken is to avoid smoking."

Game Threatened By Professional Poachers

By JIM KLAHN
Associated Press Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — In the rain forest of western Washington, a hunter fells a bear with a single shot, then lops off the paws and carves out the gall bladder. He leaves the rest, the mark of a poacher.

Eight hundred miles to the east, another man pays thousands of dollars for the choice of hunting mountain lion in Utah, desert sheep in Nevada, mountain goat in Washington, deer, sheep and goats in Colorado, or bear and assorted other game in Montana. None of the "safaris" is legal.

"You give them the money, they'll take you out and kill something," said Dave Croonquist, assistant chief of law enforcement in Colorado's Division of Wildlife. "They just bring out the trophies. The meat is left to go to waste."

Across the American and Canadian West, a relatively new type of poacher — the professional, hunting for profit — is threatening big-game species, gildlife agents say.

Some of them guide trophy hunters willing to pay big money for handsome heads, horns and antler racks. Others kill to supply a market for gourmet treats made from the pads of bear paws, jewelry from claws, aphrodisiacs from antlers and health foods from gall bladders.

A network of illegal guides for trophy hunts exists from the western United States, across Canada and into Alaska, said Croonquist.

Poachers "sell (animal body parts) powdered, peeled ... from bear paws to velvet antlers to hair. Everything," said Mike Shockman, wildlife enforcement manager for the Washington Game Department. "The last great reservoirs of large wildlife are available in Alaska, Canada and the western United States."

The wild game of Africa is now largely restricted to preserves, he explained, and attention has turned to North America for exotic animal parts. Aphrodisiacs once made of ground rhinoceros horn are now made from deer and elk antlers, he said.

Washington state and federal wildlife officers recently seized almost 700 bear claws and about two dozen bear paws in an undercover operation in Grays Harbor County, where black bears flourish in the thick, wet forests. Agents got a tip when bear claws were spotted for sale in a curio shop.

John Gillespie, agent in charge at the Aberdeen office, said poaching charges had been filed against a Hoquiam, Wash., couple in the case.

Poachers are nothing new to the West, but game agents are finding the professional poacher tougher to handle than the hunter who bags a deer for food.

"The homegrown poacher goes out at night, kills it, takes it home and eats it," Shockman said. "Conversely, the organized criminal knows what the risk is. He dresses in a business suit, he has accountants and attorneys. You can't deal with him on the basis of 'gocha.'"

FACE CRACKDOWN

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — The government is warning the anti-apartheid South African Council of Churches that it risks an official crackdown if it continues its "tendency toward confrontation".

For information of City government, services, and activities, tune in to "City Hall Notes", on WOOW Radio, each Tuesday and Thursday morning at 10:25 A.M.

he said, but a Denver police detective, Dale Leonard, was sentenced to six months in federal prison for interstate transportation of illegally taken wildlife. A guide who worked with Leonard, Stephen McClung, received a lesser sentence.

"They were well aware of the risks," Croonquist said, "but there was money to be made and they were willing to go after it." A goat hunt, he said, can run $2,500 per hunter. Bear claws, said Gillespie, bring $1.50 to $5 each for use in jewelry.

Wildlife agents say figures on poaching are hard to come by. Studies indicate that only 2½ percent to 5 percent of all poaching kills ever come to the attention of authorities.

However, Shockman estimated 26,100 deer and 8,800 elk were lost to poachers in Washington state in the year ending last July 1. The legal take for deer was 60,000 to 65,000 and the legal elk hunt 12,000 animals.

In California, E. Charles Fullerton, state chief of wildlife protection, said 50,000 deer are lost to poaching each year. The legal kill is something more than 40,000 head, he said.

However, California has had success with bears. In 1982, some 1,000 bears were killed illegally, out of a total population of 12,000 to 15,000 in the state. At that rate, the bears were losing ground fast.

Fullerton said stiffer fines and jail sentences, and the realization by legal bear hunters that their sport could end because of the poaching, helped cut the number of illegal bear kills drastically.

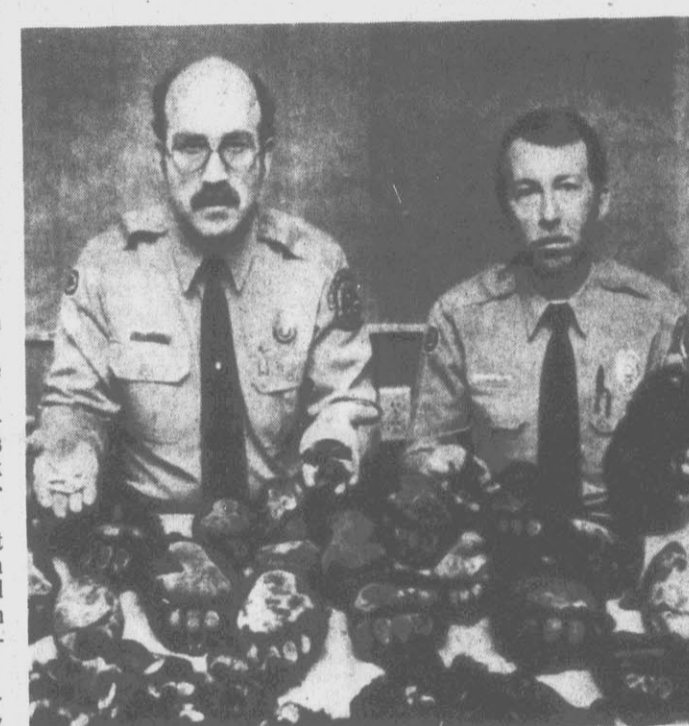

A professional guide from Washington state who was caught marketing bear parts several years ago, but maintained they came from legal kills, says anyone would have to be "crazy" to poach because of stricter laws in several states.

"You're better off selling dope than poaching," said the guide, who requested anonymity.

To combat professional hunters, game officers are using techniques more often associated with detectives and FBI agents — sting operations, forensics and undercover operations.

Such tactics don't come cheaply, Shockman said, adding that money was also needed to extend a successful hotline program started a few years ago and for continued public education about poachers.

Fullerton said California's program, in which informants are paid, has worked well. However, he said more than half of the informants decline payment, saying it was their civic duty.

Boy Born Without Full Limbs Is Prospering

TRANSFORMED LIFE — Eddie Burkel, 14, was born with a partial cleft palate, no right foot, no lower left leg and no forearms or hands. Through therapy and prostheses, his life has changed. (AP Laserphoto)

ROMEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Eddie Burkel was born 14 years ago with no right foot, no lower left leg and no forearms.

Today, he's president of his freshman high school class, Felix Unger in a school skit from "The Odd Couple," and an altar boy.

Eddie endured years of hospital operations, taunts from "normal" children and stays in schools for kids with behavior disorders. He had been one of 300 to 400 children born in the United States each year with similarly severe "congenital deficiencies."

At a doctor's suggestion, Eddie's parents put him as an infant in a home for the handicapped. Physicians predicted he would die.

"But when we came to visit we noticed he was doing everything every other child would do — crawling, holding a bottle," recalled his mother, Pearl Burkel. "So after about a year we took him home. I'd never felt right about giving him up."

Over the next three years, Eddie underwent surgery to separate his tongue from the bottom of his mouth — he was born with a partial cleft palate — and given proper muscle support. Part of his right leg then was amputated to provide a better fit for an artificial limb.

When he was 3, Eddie was enrolled in a physical therapy school, where he practiced walking and talking. As he grew older, other children teased him or fled when they saw him. Eddie cried or tried to fight, but such conflicts prompted his transfer to a school for behavior disorders.

The family back yard became his refuge. Eddie loved water, so his older brother David, now in the Army, taught him to swim.

Then, when Eddie entered high school, his anger suddenly changed to ambition.

"Here's a kid who was an absolute terror when he was a young child," said his longtime physician, Dr. Raymond Pellicor. "Now he's an absolute delight — articulate, glib, a gentleman."

"It was like somebody opened a door," said Mrs. Burkel.

Eddie's social life also is flowering. His new friend is schoolmate Michelle Rossel, whose hand he likes to squeeze affectionately with his $5,000 bionic hand with the help of a muscle flex in his upper arm.

"Me and Eddie can hold hands for the whole class, just like this," Michelle said. "But there's this girl on the bus who's afraid of his hand. She screams every time she sees it." Eddie shrugged. "It doesn't bother me," he said, although later admitting that sometimes the stares and fears of others do upset him. But it hasn't held him back from striving to realize his full potential.

Last fall, he was elected president of his class at Romeville High School. He also plays in a speech team skit from the play "The Odd Couple." He's a townsman in a class production of "The Music Man" and an altar boy at St. Dominic's Catholic Church in Bolingbrook.

On a recent Thursday morning, Eddie helped set the table in his home economics class. He grasped a vase of flowers between his arms and placed it on the table. With the table set, he sat down and ate cottage cheese and peaches, deftly using both arms to rotate his spoon from plate to mouth. Classmates didn't pay much attention. "We've got super kids — they accept his handicap," said his teacher, Carol Coverdill. "Obviously there are things Eddie can't do, but I don't treat him any differently."

Remarked Eddie: "I never considered I was handicapped. I just thought this was the way I was born. And then somebody said, 'Hey, kid, you're handicapped,' and I really understood it for the first time.

"You know — time to wake up and smell the roses."

How Tar Heels Voted In The House, Senate

By ROLL CALL REPORT
Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll-call votes Feb. 20-22.

HOUSE
HUNGER — The House voted, 309 for and 78 against, to create a special committee that will try to alleviate domestic and worldwide hunger. For the remainder of 1984, the panel is to cost taxpayers up to $600,000 for travel, staff and other expenses.

tion it requires."
Opponent Dan Glickman, D-Kans., said the money would be better spent "going to the problem, maybe helping buy bread or provide cheese ..."
Members voting yes wanted to establish a hunger committee.
North Carolina representatives voting yes were Walter Jones, D-1, Tim Valentine, D-2, Charles Whitley, D-3, Ike Andrews, D-4, Charles Britt, D-6, Charles Rose, D-7, W.G. Hefner, D-8, James Martin, R-9, and James Clarke, D-11.

Voting no was James Broyhill, R-10.
Stephen Neal, D-5, did not vote.

SENATE
DEATH — By a vote of 63 for and 32 against, the Senate passed and sent to the House a bill (S 1675) that reinstates the death penalty for a limited number of federal offenses.

Crimes specified in the bill are treason, espionage, an attack that either kills or comes close to killing a president, and murder whether committed directly or as a byproduct of another federal crime.
After being convicted by a judge or jury, the defendant would face a second hearing before the same tribunal on whether he or she is to be executed.

Supporter Jesse Helms, R-N.C., said "the threat of execution has no parallel in getting the attention of the criminal element and conveying to them the inadvisability of committing a capital crime."
Opponent Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., said the bill should require executions to be televised because permitting the public "to witness firsthand the horror of governmentally sanctioned murder ... will lead to swift repeal of this grizzly practice."

Senators voting yes favored capital punishment for certain federal crimes.
North Carolina Sens. John East, R, and Jesse Helms, R, voted yes.

At issue was whether yet another congressional committee is the answer; eight House committees already deal with hunger issues. Also at issue was the growing cost and size of the House bureaucracy, which critics say is overburdened with committees and subcommittees that achieve little because they are tripping over one another.
Additionally, some skeptics saw the panel as an election-year vehicle for members who want to give the impression they are solving the hunger problem. The Reagan administration has been criticized for doing too little about hunger.
Sponsor Tony Hall, D-Ohio, said the committees already having hunger jurisdiction "are unable to give the issue ... the priority atten-

Music By His Robots

McHENRY, N.D. (AP) — When Faron Ziebart heads out to his workshop, there's no telling what — or who — he will come back with.
Ziebart, 22, a farmer from Hamar, N.D., makes robots, but not just any robots. His computer-run creations talk, move, sing and play guitars to entertain customers at the McHenry Bar.
On the wall above the door is Dead Eye Sam, a skeleton who blinks his eyes, moves his mouth and tells jokes. In one corner of the bar stands a seven-foot birdman that some people have named Jo-Jo. He strums the guitar and sings country music or rock 'n' roll.
The star attraction is the Country Critters, two life-size furry brown bears who sing and play instruments as they move their arms, hands, heads and mouths.
A more conventional-looking robot simply stands around for now, but will be waiting on tables within a couple of weeks.
"This is mainly an experiment to see how people react," Ziebart says.
"They can't get over it," says Bob Somerville, McHenry Bar owner. "They can't see how anyone can do this."
Ziebart robots consists of vinyl, foam rubber, fiberglass, plexiglass and fur stretched over steel frames with ball bearing joints and an intricate air pressure valve system that creates movements of the head, mouth, eyes, and arms.
Speakers placed in the heads are wired into a stereo player where songs originate.
The performance is controlled by two computers, tucked into a small storage room at the bar.
Ziebart hopes to make back his $5,000 investment by selling the creatures to bars and restaurants programmed for 10 different complete shows.
You might say he's brought a whole new meaning to canned music.

Inconsistency' Describes Mail

NEW YORK (AP) — "Inconsistency is the best way to describe mail delivery," concluded a society of businessmen who decided to test the U.S. Postal Service.
Last July, members of the New York Society of Association Executives mailed 363 letters to each other, all in Manhattan. Of those letters, 152 reached their destination the following business day. Another 77 letters arrived on the second day, while 30 more showed up on the third day.
But 27 of them didn't arrive until the fourth day or later, while 77 letters disappeared altogether.

Says Color Aids In Productivity

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The proper use of colors in an office can help encourage productivity.
Ann Haight, textile and surface materials manager for Steelcase Inc., a maker of office furniture, says, "It's more important where the color appears and how much of it is used, than whether it is red, yellow or blue. Just as an environment of totally neutral shades can contribute to office worker boredom, too much color adds to a feeling of over-stimulation, which can also cause fatigue."

WIN A TRIP TO ANYWHERE EASTERN FLIES IN THE CONTINENTAL U.S. INCLUDING THE BAHAMAS AND CARIBBEAN, PLUS $500 CASH! *

EASTERN AIRLINES—serves more than 129 cities, in 22 countries, one Magic Kingdom and more of the Americas than ever before. AT EASTERN, WE EARN OUR WINGS EVERY DAY!

Play Kroger COST CUTTER BINGO

BINGO AND WIN UP TO $1,000!

Pick up your free Cost Cutter Bingo collector card and game ticket today. It's easy to play...just punch out the perforated portion of your game ticket to reveal two game markers. Each marker corresponds to a square in the games on the collector card. Some game tickets contain a "Lucky Cost Cutter" marker. These markers are wild and may be played in any Cost Cutter square in any game. Move them around, let them help you win. You can bingo and win $1,000, $100, $10 and $5. Plus, there are thousands of instant $1 winners!

Kroger
Sav-on

*The trip prize package includes round trip coach airfare for two from the nearest Eastern gateway city to anywhere Eastern flies in the continental U.S. including the Bahamas and Caribbean, hotel accommodations for up to seven days and $500 cash. 13 Trip Prizes available!

ODDS CHART

Odds vary depending on the number of game tickets you contain. The more tickets you collect the better your chances of winning.

ODDS CHART EFFECTIVE FEBRUARY 29, 1981

PRIZE VALUE	NUMBER OF PRIZES	ODDS FOR ONE GAME TICKET	ODDS FOR 13 GAME TICKETS	ODDS FOR 26 GAME TICKETS
Trips	13	1 in 517,308	1 in 39,793	1 in 19,897

5	10,000	1 in 673	1 in 52	1 in 26
1	90,000	1 in 75	1 in 6.2	1 in 3.4
TOTAL	103,003	1 in 66	1 in 5.6	1 in 3.1

Odds to win and number of prizes unclaimed will be updated in all participating stores and newspaper ads each week after thirty (30) days. All tickets and collector cards must have same series number and are valid only in that Series Number Game.
Kroger Cost Cutter Bingo #WB03 is being played in 37 participating Kroger Stores in Greenville, Wilmington, Fayetteville, Charlotte, Gastonia, Hickory, Salisbury, Monroe, Matthews, Pineville and Shelby, North Carolina; Irmo, Columbia, Florence, Sumter, Rock Hill, Summerville, Mt. Pleasant, Goose Creek, Myrtle Beach, and Charleston, South Carolina; and Savannah, Georgia.
Game program may be repeated by popular demand. Scheduled termination date of this promotion is May 29, 1984, however, game officially ends when all Game Tickets are distributed.

Kroger Pharmacy

Full Service

Are you paying $7⁰⁰ for a $3⁵⁰ prescription?

Our prescription for savings: Go Krogering!

Why Do Generic Drugs Cost Less? Once the 17-year patent expires on a trademarked drug, then it can be manufactured and sold under its common chemical or "generic" name. When many companies make it, competition lowers the cost.

How Much Will You Save With A Generic Prescription? Your savings can be as much as 50% and even more depending upon the drug involved! In most cases, when the brand-name drug is replaced by a generic, the savings are substantial!

Can All Prescriptions Be Filled With Generics? Many, but not all prescriptions could be filled with generic drugs. Your Kroger Pharmacist will be glad to tell you if a generic equivalent is available for your particular medication.

How Can You Benefit From Generic-Drug Savings? Talk it over with your doctor. Ask him about using generic drugs in your prescription. With a generically-written prescription you could start saving today!

GREENVILLE
756-7393

Go Krogering and save—with generic medications. Your Kroger pharmacy stocks a wide variety of generics, and they all offer comparable quality to name brands, at considerably lower prices. Just ask your Kroger pharmacist to help you choose which generic is best for you. With generics you get the best of everything, including the price!

Festival '84

TV Worth Watching

North Carolina Public Television always presents the highest quality programming for you and your family, but during Festival '84 (March 3-18), we're showing off! Tune in and sample the kinds of programs that make Public Television "TV worth watching."

Music comes in all styles and moods, and Festival '84 has something to please every taste.

For lovers of pop sounds, there's the opening night Starfest: The Stars Salute Public Television, featuring a lineup that includes Diahann Carroll, Richard Kiley, and Gregory Hines. Then four top American lyricists are saluted in I Feel A Song Comin' On, a tribute to Johnny Mercer, Ira Gershwin, Howard Dietz and Dorothy Fields.

Tony Martin and Cyd Charisse take you on Sentimental Journeys through some of the most treasured musical performances of the past 50 years.

Country music fans will certainly want to stay home for back-to-back specials featuring almost every top performer on the Nashville scene. The Best of Live from the Grand Old Opry will be followed by Country Memories with Willie Nelson, a series of highlights from Public Television's Austin City Limits series.

Rock is not forgotten either, as three legendary groups are featured in specials. The Beatles at Shea Stadium is a live-on-tape concert by the Fab Four from 1965. Then stay tuned for The Everly Brothers' Rock 'n' Roll Odyssey, a retrospective of rare footage, concert highlights, television clips and interviews with the sibling superstars and notable musicians Chet Atkins, Dave Edmunds and Linda Ronstadt.

TV Worth Paying For

Everyone agrees that Public Television is TV worth watching. After all, it's the only consistent source of high quality drama, entertainment, science, public affairs and children's programming.

Everyone enjoys the benefits of Public TV—the high quality programs without commercial interruptions. And it's all free, right?

Not exactly. Costs for production, programming and technical services are rising, and federal and state funding just can't make up the difference. Even the generous help of corporate underwriters is not enough.

That's why once a year, Public TV holds its pledge drive during Festival in March.

For all these efforts, fewer than three out of 100 viewers in North Carolina contribute to Public Television. That's an amazing statistic when you consider the benefits North Carolinians derive from Public TV.

School children are nurtured by in-school programming and by outstanding series such as Sesame Street, 3-2-1 Contact and Reading Rainbow. Adults can finish high school or take college credit courses through the adult learning programs.

North Carolina Public Television provides the only hour-long early evening national newscast, The MacNeil/Lehrer NewsHour, and the only weekly statewide newsmagazine in North Carolina, Stateline.

Through cultural and entertainment programs and series, Public TV enriches your life every day.

Now, isn't that TV worth paying for? No one enjoys watching pledge breaks, but the funds they generate are vital to keep Public TV at its current high level of quality.

Why not make an investment for your family and contribute to North Carolina Public Television this year. Join those North Carolina viewers who think that TV worth watching is TV worth paying for.

You may call in your pledge during Festival '84, March 3 through 18, or simply fill out the form on the next page. Your contribution entitles you to receive Centerpiece, a monthly program guide, for one year.

Gilbert and Sullivan Series Premieres

William Schwenck Gilbert and Arthur Seymour Sullivan were one of the most popular and enduring creative duos the world has ever known. Now, Public Television presents a long-awaited series featuring 12 made-for-television operettas by the Englishmen.

The Complete Gilbert and Sullivan premieres with Yeomen of the Guard starring Joel Gray Wednesday, March 21, at 8 pm.

Hosted by Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., the series will be presented over a three-year period and will feature such major entertainers as Keith Mitchell, Vincent Price, Peter Allen, William Conrad and Peter Marshall.

Other operettas scheduled to air in 1984 are The Gondoliers, a double bill of one-act operettas, Trial by Jury and Cox and Box, and The Mikado. Produced by Judith De Paul, these new productions received an enthusiastic send-off from the British press when the first five of the light operas were seen last year. The Daily Express' James Murray judged them "the finest made-for-video productions I have ever seen."

"This is quite different from other music and arts programming," says producer De Paul. "We are staging these operas especially for the television camera, in studio and therefore away from the confines of a proscenium arch. Each production involves many different camera and scenic set-ups, as if we were making a feature film."

The productions are also unique in their blend of recorded and live sound. The singers will be performing live to a prerecorded orchestral track, played by the London Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Alexander Farris.

Harry N. Abrams, Inc. has published The Gilbert and Sullivan Operas, by Darlene Geis, an elegant volume with the history of the operettas, summaries of their plots, and over 200 exclusive color stills from the television productions.

Williams and Darryl Dragon. Rodgers and Hammerstein have made a lasting contribution to the musical heritage of America, and two of their most popular works are represented in films to be shown during Festival '84. Oklahoma, starring Shirley Jones, Gordon McRae, Rod Steiger and Gloria Grahame, tells the story of a cowboy's efforts to win the heart of his true love, told against the backdrop of Oklahoma's struggle for statehood. South Pacific stars Mitzzy Gaynor and Rossano Brazzi as unlikely lovers during World War II.

Musical theater is also represented on Great Performances with a rousing version of Purlie, the musical based on the play Purlie Victorious by Ossie Davis. Melba Moore recreates the role that catapulted her to stardom. Robert Guillaume and Sherman Hemsley also star.

Broadway comes to life again in the American Play- house presentation of The Gin Game. Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn, who starred in the production on Broadway, play two feisty nursing home inhabitants whose gin rummy games serve as a way of unleashing years of pent up emotion and frustration.

Public television's reputation for excellence in science and nature programs is well deserved, as you will see in a number of Festival '84 offerings. Nova brings back one of its most popular programs ever, The Miracle of Life, an amazing microscopic voyage through the human reproductive process. Nature looks at the Plight of the Bumblebee, and a National Geographic Special examines the efforts of Sir Edmund Hillary to help the people of Nepal who helped him conquer Everest.

For history buffs, there is an intriguing documentary about the disastrous loss of the Hindenburg: Ship of Doom. Bill Moyers continues his Walk Through the Twentieth Century with a comparison of the public styles of Franklin Roosevelt and Adolph Hitler.

The career and personal highs and lows of the luminous actress Ingrid Bergman are chronicled in Ingrid, hosted by John Gielgud. Depression-era balladeer Woody Guthrie is profiled in a tour across America by his son Arlo. The people and events that touched the elder Guthrie's life are explored in Woody Guthrie: Hard Travelin'.

Again this year, Festival '84 concludes with a Gala of Stars, hosted by Beverly Sills and featuring an exciting array of music, opera and dance.

There's more! Not only are there more Festival '84 specials, but the programming throughout the month is really "TV worth watching." Check the listings on the next two pages for details.

TV for North Carolinians

In addition to the offerings provided through the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS), North Carolina Public Television presents programs about North Carolina and its people which reflect the many moods, lifestyles and interests of Tar Heels.

North Carolina People, a weekly talk show hosted by UNC President William Friday, features people in lively conversations about life, leisure, politics, education and the arts in the Tar Heel State.

Stateline, a weekly newsmagazine produced by the Public Affairs Department, searches out the issues which affect the people of the state and the decision-makers shaping those issues.

Consumer advice, gardening tips, cooking and nutrition information and visits to off-the-beaten-track people and events highlight Almanac, a co-production of the UNC Center for Public Television and the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service.

People across the country enjoy three productions of the UNC Center for Public Television. Lap Quilting with Georgia Bonesteel is popular among aspiring seamstresses. Woodworkers and non-woodworkers alike enjoy Roy Underhill in his Woodwright's Shop. And Mike Gray helps consumers beat the high cost of energy consumption in the new series Saving Energy.

In these and other special programs and series, North Carolina Public Television brings the events and people of North Carolina into your home every month.

With stores in 19 states, it's never very hard to find Lowe's. And, our 235-store buying power makes it easy to find real value. It's one more reason Lowe's is becoming "Your Household Word."

Up To $1000 Instant Credit!

Apply For A Lowe's Credit Card!

You May Qualify For Up To $1,000 Instant Credit

Just present your Visa, MasterCard or American Express card, and you may qualify for up to $1,000 instant credit on a new Lowe's Card. And even without these major cards, your application will be processed with minimum delay.

Lowe's Low Payment Credit Plan!

Finance Major Purchases Of Up To $5,000

Our Low Payment Plan offers you an easier way to make those major home improvements and larger purchases. It's designed to let you finance purchases of $250 to $5,000 for up to five years at competitive rates. The result is a very low monthly payment that fits comfortably into your family budget and brings important home additions, from a new refrigerator to a new roof, within easy reach. Just look for the above symbol on selected items in our ads. And, where space is available, we'll also provide the specific credit details on selected items to give you an idea of the relative size of monthly payments and Annual Percentage Rates. Low Payment Credit Terms are outlined below. So apply today. You may qualify for up to $1,000 instant credit when you present your Visa, American Express, MasterCard, Sears or Lowe's card!

Lowe's Low Payment Credit Terms

Your credit must be satisfactory. Our cash price does not include sales tax. The monthly payment price may be slightly lower depending upon state tax. The monthly payment price includes sales tax of 4%. If sales tax differs in your area, the monthly payment will vary slightly. Credit Life and Disability Insurance is available upon request. Delivery charges are excluded.

We Also Accept Visa, American Express & MasterCard.

Lowe's Pricing Policy: Many items in this tabloid carry a reference price. The reference is intended to provide a guide to the range of retail selling prices in our area and may be useful in identifying different units of the same manufacturer. An item's reference retail price is either the manufacturer's suggested retail price or our determination of its full retail price based on prices at which it or similar merchandise is offered by principal retailers (department stores, specialty shops and other non-discount sellers) in our selling area. While we believe our reference retail prices do not appreciably exceed the highest retail prices at which sales are made in our selling area, we cannot assure you that our reference retail prices, as described above, represent the prices in every community on any given day. Some items in this advertisement are listed at "regular" selling prices. The merchandise is offered at this price except during a special sale. The purpose of showing a reference retail price (or a regular price) is to assist you, our customer, in making a knowledgeable and better informed buying decision. We suggest that you also do comparative shopping and compare our prices. (Prices in this tabloid do not include delivery charges. Ask us about delivery rates.)

Lowe's Raincheck Policy: If we sell out of an advertised item, we'll issue you a raincheck. When we restock, you'll be notified so you can buy at the previously advertised price (except for the products marked "Limited Quantities"). Our smaller stores may not stock all advertised items. But every item shown here can be ordered for you.
