City To Consider Annexation Plans

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

A resolution identifying three outlying areas, one of them including Brook Valley and several other subdivisions, for consideration as future annexation possibilities was adopted Thursday night by the City Council.

Two of the areas are located north of the Tar River and include: (A) property north of Greenfield Terrace up to and including Colonial Mobile Home Park, and also Oakgrove Estates and property outside North River Estates, and (B) property north and south of Mumford Road not presently in the corporate limits, including Floral Gardens subdivision and Country Squire Estates.

The third fringe area under consideration, on the southeast side of the city, includes: all property north of N.C. 33 to the Tar River, including acreage along Port Terminal Road, River Hills, the subdivisions of Brook Valley, Holly Hills, Oakhurst, Camelot, Cherry Oaks and Tuckahoe, and Azalea Mobile Home Park.

According to the resolution, general statutes stipulate that "no resolution of intent to annex may be adopted... unless the city has, by resolution adopted at least one year prior to adoption of the resolution of intent, identified the area proposed for annexation as being under consideration."

City Manager Gail Meeks mentioned that the designated areas would not actually be eligible for annexation until one year and one day from the date of Thursday's council meeting.

According to the resolution, general statutes allow a city to include in the area under consideration a general "area larger than that which may eventually be annexed."

The council approved a request by Unity Free Will Baptist Church to rezone 5.848 acres on the east side of Secondary Road 1704 and south and west of Quail Ridge subdivision from neighborhood commercial to R-6 (residential).

Planning Director Bobby Roberson said the petitioners wish to build a new church on the property and are unable to secure a building permit under the present zoning classification. Roberson said surrounding property is R-6 except for one RA-20 lot and existing land uses are generally single family, duplexes and multifamily.

Dr. Harold Kallman of 109 Quail Ridge Road said he had no objection to the development of a church on the property but he asked that the council consider a more restrictive zone that would not allow any options for the development of multifamily units.

Roberson said the new R-6S (residential-single family) zone would be more restrictive as a parallel zone to R-6 and would allow for the development of a church.

Harvey Case, appearing on behalf of the church, said officials of the church agreed to petition for R-6 and he was not in a position to ask for the R-6S instead. He said construction would begin as soon as the contractor provides a dollar figure for the new building.

Councilman Stuart Shinn said, "I've known Harvey Case for 20 some years and if they say they are going to build a church, then I feel they will build a church."

Board members also approved a petition by Derek Dunn to rezone section five of Westhaven subdivision, located south of Club Pines and east of N.C. 11, from R-9

(residential) to R-9S (residential-single family only). Dunn initially asked to rezone the property to R-9 but amended the request to seek the single family classification.

The council adopted a resolution amending the city's thoroughfare plan by reclassifying a portion of First Street, between the proposed Brownlea Drive extension and Elm Street, as a minor thoroughfare.

Appointments to local boards and commissions included Dr. Buddy Zincone to the Greenville Utilities Commission for a five-year term, and the reappointment of Lois Worthington and Dr. Sam T. White for two-year terms on the Firemen's

Beirut Sees New Fighting

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christian and Moslem militiamen battled with heavy machine guns and rocket-propelled grenades in central Beirut today, and a sniper shot and killed a local journalist.

Fighting intensified shortly before daybreak and frequent blasts of grenades echoed through Beirut as the rival militias clashed in the battered downtown commercial district. Police said two people were killed and 27 wounded in the morning fighting.

There was sporadic shelling in the afternoon, and two shells landed about two blocks from the U.S. Marines standing guard outside U.S. Embassy offices in west Beirut. Witnesses said one of the shells hit an upper floor of a nearby apartment building.

Shells falling shortly before sunset on the Christian neighborhood of Ashrafieh in east Beirut interrupted traffic and sent people scurrying for shelter.

There was also fighting along the "green line" between Beirut's old downtown area and the Sodoco crossing dividing Moslem west Beirut from Christian east Beirut.

A sniper fatally wounded journalist Mohammed Houmani, 52, near the French Embassy compound in west Beirut at midmorning, the state radio reported. At first, the state radio said he had been sprayed by a volley of 20 shots fired from a speeding car, but it later dropped that report.

Houmani, a Shiite Moslem, was shot as he walked to the Information Ministry, where he worked as a news editor for state-run Beirut

Radio and the national news agency, the radio said.

In Tel Aviv, the Israeli daily newspaper Yedioth Ahromoth today quoted Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir as saying he would like to end Israel's military presence in Lebanon, "but according to the present situation, it can be assumed we will need to maintain some sort of presence there for a long time."

On Monday, Lebanese President Amin Gemayel bowed to Syrian and rebel pressure and renounced his May 17 troop withdrawal agreement with Israel.

That action freed Israel to take additional measures in Lebanon, Shamir was quoted as saying, such as increasing patrols by its soldiers.

Several Beirut newspapers today said the Israeli army was hurrying to withdraw from its current Awali River defense line south to the Zaharani River, with the expectation fighting would erupt and sabotage the Lebanese reconciliation talks starting Monday in Lausanne, Switzerland.

The leftist newspapers As-Safir and Al-Liwa said the eight-mile pullback was expected to start Sunday.

Avi Pazer, a spokesman for Shamir, denied those reports.

Israel Radio reported that defense experts were considering a flexible Israeli line that would permit a minimal troop presence but allow the Israelis freedom to patrol areas north of the line to prevent Palestinian guerrilla infiltration.

Unemployment At Lowest Level Since Sept. 1981

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civilian unemployment fell to 7.8 percent in February, the lowest rate in 2½ years, as 700,000 Americans found work, the government reported today. It was the sixth straight month of falling joblessness.

The total number of people with jobs reached a record 103.9 million, but some 8.8 million remained officially categorized as unemployed, the Labor Department said.

The 7.8 percent overall civilian rate was down from 8 percent in January and was the lowest since joblessness stood at 7.6 percent in September 1981. The February rate was only 0.4 percentage point higher than the jobless rate when President Reagan took office in January 1981.

Since unemployment hit a post-Depression peak of 10.7 percent in November 1982, the ranks of the jobless have shrunk by 3.1 million, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

A separate unemployment rate, combining the 112.7 million-member civilian labor force with the 1.68 million members of the armed forces stationed in the United States, fell from 7.7 percent from 7.9 percent in January, today's report said.

Martin Feldstein, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, told the National Association of Manufacturers on Thursday that job opportunities should improve throughout the year as the economy continues to grow. He predicted the economy will expand through the first three months at an annual rate of 6 percent.

The Reagan administration has forecast that unemployment will average 7.6 in the fourth quarter of this year, and several private economists said they believe joblessness will continue to recede, although not as dramatically as in the last six months.

The seasonally adjusted jobless rate is based on a Census Bureau survey of some 50,000 U.S. households. A separate survey of businesses, which is not included in the calculation of the rate, showed that payroll employment expanded by 385,000 last month.

In testimony prepared for the congressional Joint Economic Committee, Janet L. Norwood, the commissioner of labor statistics, said, "We continue to experience an unusually strong labor market recovery reflected in large employment gains and a steady decline in the unemployment rate."

Teaching Cheering Is Her Way Of Life

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD

MIDDLEBORO, Mass. (UPI) — When Marilyn Monte attended her tenth high school reunion, former classmates were stunned to hear the peppy mother and engineering student was still cheering.

"Are you going to make a career out of it?" asked several professionals who remembered the spunky cheerleader exhorting the teams to "Fight! Fight! Fight!"

"Right!" responded Mrs. Monte, flashing the grin that encourages thousands of sports lovers to shout out their support and children as young as 3 to time their claps.

Her enthusiasm is contagious, igniting the spirit of the sports-loving town. Even other moms are recapturing those golden moments of adolescence with Mrs. Monte's encouragement.

"Life goes on — we grow older and have more responsibilities," Mrs. Monte said. "But cheerleading is a way to get out and once again experience the excitement, closeness and friendships we shared."

At 28, Mrs. Monte is a member of the New England Patriots professional football team's cheerleading squad, teacher of tots through 12-year-olds, high school coach, organizer of the women's team in addition to studying engineering, bartending at night to supplement the family income and caring for an 8-year-old daughter.

Cheerleading has become much more complicated in the past decade, Mrs. Monte said, resulting in a more rewarding experience for participants, with increasing emphasis on gymnastics and dance proficiency.

"It used to be a cliché type of thing, but now it's more like a sport," Mrs. Monte contends. "Cheerleaders have to learn to cooperate with others as part of a team and continually strive to improve the routines."

"It's like conducting a crowd. A cheerleader's job is to promote enthusiasm. If she acts silly or bored, she'll reinforce the stereotype that cheerleaders aren't smart."

Acknowledging that much of what she teaches stems from her two years as a cheerleader for a National Football League team, Mrs. Monte recommends that the words of cheers be kept short and precise.

"You don't want to get involved in story telling," she says. "Crowds can't get into that. What they really like are tall mounts, back flips and calisthenics they can count to or cheer with."

While Mrs. Monte expects 100 percent effort from the high school students she coaches, working with children and parents entails different aims and tactics.

"All week long you've been hearing people tell you to sit down and don't make noise," she tells 15 excited 3 to 7-year-olds. "Now I want you to yell and clap."

The youngsters, dressed in leotards at a dance school, giggle and shout, "Go! Fight! Win!", happily complying with an assortment of claps.

"Is that how a cheerleader yells?" Mrs. Monte asks skeptically. "Louder!" she exhorts her delighted listeners, who get their chance to perform before crowds at recitals.

"It's a good way to develop their coordination and timing," Mrs. Monte says, particularly when the youngsters are too young for dance training.

Aware their attention spans are short, Mrs. Monte keeps the class noisy and active.

Jill Russell, 4, and her mother Peggy, 28, a bank teller, are both learning from Mrs. Monte. Mrs. Russell said she finds cheerleading appealing because of the exercise and "It's something I can involve my daughter in and do with her."

"Jill likes bounding around the house," Mrs. Russell commented. "She's very active, and the cheerleading gives her another opportunity to be with other children."

Jill has been enjoying the once-a-week class ever since seeing cheerleaders for the professional football teams on television, Mrs. Russell said.

Convinced that other women, working or not, can also benefit from a dose of cheer, Mrs. Monte organized a group of them into a squad to boost the spirits of the Cobras, the local entry in the Eastern Football League.

Although several have fulltime jobs in addition to responsibilities at home, they manage to squeeze in enough practice time to turn out a polished performance.

After Waiting A Year, Write Or Call 'The Kids'

DEAR ABBY: My nephew was married and I attended his wedding. I put $200 in cash in an envelope with a note saying it was from me. I gave it to the newlyweds at the reception and they put it in the wedding box with the rest of the envelopes.

I gave cash because I remembered the trouble I had trying to cash a personal check on my honeymoon and I didn't want that to happen to them. (Do you think I should have given them a check instead of cash?) It has been a year since this wedding took place and I still haven't had any kind of thank-you. I don't know if they got the money or not.

Don't you think it is up to the parents of the married couple to make sure the kids thank people who gave them gifts?

UPSET UNCLE

DEAR UNCLE: Kids who are old enough to marry are responsible for acknowledging their own gifts.

Perhaps they didn't receive it, or possibly the note that accompanied it was misplaced. A year is long enough to wait. Write or call "the kids" (leave their parents out of it) and quit guessing. And yes, I think you should have given them a check instead of cash.

DEAR ABBY: "An Abby Fan" suggested that those who didn't know how to introduce their son's or daughter's live-in partner should so as Lord and Lady Greystone would have done, to wit: "This is my son, Tarzan, and his mate, Jane."

Wrong. In the first place, the name was "Greystroke" — not "Greystone." And in the second place, they could not have introduced their son, Tarzan, and his mate, Jane, because Lord and Lady Greystroke both died when their son was a mere infant. Lady G. died in her sleep, and Lord G. was killed by a great ape. Tarzan was then adopted by Kala, a she ape whose own infant had been killed. Others will probably write to inform you.

R.A.J., JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

DEAR R.A.J.: Others most certainly did write in. I was also informed that Tarzan and Jane were not live-in lovers; they were married by Jane's father, who was an ordained minister.

As coincidence would have it, the day that item appeared in my column, the newspapers were filled with the news that the most famous "Tarzan" — Johnny Weissmuller — had died. Eerie? And the end of an era.

DEAR ABBY: After all those "culpas," you asked, "How does one go about rescinding not only a 'mea culpa,' but a 'maxima culpa'?"

I have the answer: "Ego te absolvo." Go your way and sin no more.

FATHER ANDREW - L.J. JAMES, ATHENS, OHIO

DEAR FATHER: Thank you. I need all the absolution I can get. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: You have published a number of letters about the first cousins from Massachusetts who got married in a state where first cousins could legally marry, then returned to Massachusetts, which forbids such marriages.

Your first response: "A valid marriage is valid in every state."

Then Elaine Trudeau, a registrar from Boston, challenged you with a Massachusetts law that stated otherwise, and you promptly withdrew your comment with a "Mea culpa. Mea maxima culpa."

Next, one Robert Turner of Hopewell, Va., wrote to say that the U.S. Constitution upheld your original position — you were right in the first place!

Abby, Mr. Turner is mistaken. JAMES A. MARTIN, PROFESSOR OF LAW, UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

DEAR PROFESSOR: Let's review this: First I said, "A valid marriage is valid in every state." Then Elaine Trudeau, a Boston registrar, wrote to say that I was wrong, so I apologized.

Then a Robert Turner advised me that I was right in the first place and Ms. Trudeau was wrong.

Now you tell me I was wrong in the first place — that Ms. Trudeau was right, and Mr. Turner was wrong to say that I was right.

Should I rest my case? Or take it to a higher court?

***

DEAR ABBY: After sharing that letter about the 6-year-old who walked over to his mother, unbuttoned her blouse and started to nurse, I suggest you publish a warning to first-grade teachers in Hawaii:

"Wear blouses that button down the front at your own risk."

Cooking Is Fun

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Now that cooks in the United States are more interested than ever in exploring the world of fresh vegetables, fennel (sometimes called by its Italian name, finocchio) may get its due. At one time it could be found most often in shops in Italian neighborhoods, but these days an increasing number of supermarkets carry it.

It has a licorice flavor and its appearance has some resemblance to celery. Its broad leaf stalks overlap each other at the base of its stem, forming a bulb-like structure (3 to 4 inches in diameter) that is firm, white and sweet inside. Fennel's leaves — sometimes called ferns — are needlelike and a beautiful green color. They make a lovely garnish.

Fennel, fairly thickly sliced, may be served as part of a first-course raw vegetable platter. Or the slices may be steamed, mixed with a cream sauce, sprinkled with grated Parmesan cheese and broiled briefly to achieve a golden topping.

Recently, however, we came across an unusual way to use fennel — in a soup along with pears. We found the recipe in a worthwhile new menu cookbook, "Cuisine for All Seasons" by Helen Hecht (Atheneum). Mrs. Hecht says of her fennel and pear combination, "It is a pureed soup made without milk or cream. It is therefore lighter and more intensely flavored than a creamed soup would be."

HELEN HECHT'S FENNEL SOUP

3 medium-large fennel bulbs (about 3 pounds untrimmed)
1 large potato (1/2 pound), peeled and sliced
1 medium onion, peeled and coarsely chopped
Several sprigs parsley

3 1/2 cups chicken stock or broth
1 cup peeled, cored, and chopped Bosc pear
2 teaspoons minced fresh tarragon or 1/2 teaspoon dried
1 scant tablespoon Pernod
Salt
Fresh-ground white pepper
Garnish: minced fennel ferns
Trim the stalks off the fennel bulbs and discard. Slice the bulbs crosswise about 1 inch thick. Put the fennel in a large saucepan with the potato, onion, parsley, and chicken stock. Cover tightly, bring to a simmer, and cook for 15 minutes. Add the pears and cook for 10 minutes longer, or until the vegetables and pears are soft.

Puree the solids in a food processor or blender, adding the stock in a thin stream. Return the soup to the saucepan and stir in the tarragon, Pernod and seasoning to taste. Reheat before serving. Garnish each portion with minced fennel ferns.

Yield: approximately 8 cups or 10 servings

Dumpling Restaurant Always Has A Crowd

By RICK GLADSTONE
Associated Press Writer

TIANJIN, China (AP) — This industrial city is known as the dumpling capital of Northeast China, but the most famous eatery sells dumplings even dogs won't touch.

They are called "gou bu li," which means in Chinese, "even dogs won't touch," named after the original owner Gou Buli who started the dumpling house more than 100 years ago.

"In old China, parents used to give their children bad names to ward off bad luck and prevent disease," said local tourguide Zhao Xiulan, in explaining the origin of the name.

She accompanied a couple of visitors to the two-story restaurant mobbed with Chinese gobbling the gou bu li dumplings, made of steamed dough filled with meat or seafood.

For the equivalent of a few dollars, customers can get heaping platefuls. Some patrons come with plastic bags so they can take the dumplings home.

Located on Shandong Street in a dusty old neighborhood, the restaurant sells thousands of dumplings a day. People have to wait for two hours sometimes to get a table.

The dumplings are so popular that Chinese communist leaders come to eat them, Miss Zhao said. Even Cambodian Prince Norodom Sihanouk comes here from his residence in Peking.

After the communist takeover in 1949, the state took control of most restaurants and the name gou bu li was dropped. However, people still called the dumplings by their old name, and the municipal people's government restored it in 1956.

The government has even published a 12-page booklet on the history of the dumplings and included recipes for them. The restaurant gives the booklet to interested guests.

It credits the restaurant founder with making Tianjin famous for dumplings after he moved here in the mid-1800s from Peking, which is 70 miles to the northwest.

"Preserving the special qualities of gou bu li dumplings satisfies the needs and enriches the lives of the vast masses of workers," says the booklet.

A white-coated waitress, who identified herself by her lapel pin as "service worker 074," said none of the founder's descendants worked at the restaurant any more.

"This is a state-run restaurant, but the dumplings are the same," she said.

Though Tianjin was occupied by European powers after 1858, suffered Japanese invasion in the 1930s, civil war violence in the 1940s, political turmoil under the communists and an earthquake in 1976, the restaurant never closed, Miss Zhao said.

"No matter what happened, people always had to eat," she said.

MINI HOT CROSS BUNS

They're the quick-bread variety. 2 cups well-stirred all-purpose flour
¼ cup sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon ground allspice
1-3rd cup butter
½ cup currants
1 large egg
½ cup milk
Confectioners' Sugar
Frosting

Stir together flour, sugar, baking powder, salt, cinnamon and allspice. Cut in butter until it is fine. Add currants. Beat egg and milk to blend; stir into flour mixture to form a rough dough. Turn out on a pastry cloth; with a stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out to an 8- by 8-inch square. Cut into 1-inch squares. Place slightly apart on an ungreased cookie sheet and bake in a preheated 425-degree oven until golden brown — about 12 minutes. Mark a small cross with the frosting on top of each. Makes 64.

TUNA SALAD

Adding lots of celery stretches it. 7-ounce can tuna, drained
½ cups diced celery
4 pimiento-stuffed olives
1 scallion, minced
1-3rd cup mayonnaise
Lemon juice to taste
Lettuce
Flake tuna and mix with celery, olives, scallion, mayonnaise, lemon juice. Serve on lettuce. Garnish, if you like, with extra olives. Makes 3 servings.

Cause To Wonder

The family name was omitted (for good cause) in a brief account of strange happenings in a Columbus, Ohio home.

They complained of flying objects, lights turning on and off, and other oddities. A photograph taken by a newspaper cameraman caught the movement of a telephone apparently flying across the lap of a 14-year-old girl.

It made a nice change of picture fare from photos of candidates, the vagaries of weather, mayhem and conflict.

Psychical researchers are familiar with experiences of the Ohio family. One, Bill Roll — director of the Psychical Research Institute in Chapel Hill — says the problem could be Recurrent Spontaneous Psycho Kinesis, in referring to the usually unconscious ability to affect physical objects in the person's environment.

Roll says a half-dozen cases each year are usually documented in the United States, and the median age of the victim is 14.

His comments open the door to a wide range of conjecture and wonder. Wonder, for instance, at how little we really know about all that goes into the makeup of a human being.

Big Get Bigger

Researchers at N.C. State University may be correct in projecting a 25 percent drop in prices for tobacco if allotments are eliminated.

We believe, however, that their contention that large allotment holders would be the losers is open to question. The researchers see a 50 percent to 100 percent increase in tobacco production. It is the large allotment holders who are equipped now to grow large amounts of tobacco and, indeed they lease acreage from the small holders.

With no program the large tobacco producers would simply grow more tobacco and there is certainly the likelihood that tobacco production would become the province of a few growers who can invest the large sums of money needed to be most efficient.

Taking A Chance

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Fresh from his stunning New Hampshire upset, Sen. Gary Hart ignored insoluble but secondary organizational problems to concentrate on trumpeting his message in a Southern barnstorming tour that evoked an ever-sharper image of John F. Kennedy.

The evocation was both intentional and highly effective. It was also ideologically bland, an attribute of Hart's message that brought several 1980 Ronald Reagan voters out to the airport here recently. They left the airport as converts to Gary Hart ("Hart-achers," in the tender terminology of one convert).

This new-found ability to convert voters of clashing persuasions into "Hart-achers" is not likely to disappear any time soon. In New Hampshire, following Hart's second-place finish in Iowa, it wounded front-runner Walter F. Mondale. If Hart runs well in Alabama, Georgia and Florida on Super Tuesday, March 13, he will have trouble ducking the front-runner label he does not want.

To middle-aged voters in politically sensitive Dixie, Hart's conscious evocation of John Kennedy has become a striking, even glaring part of the senator's message. "Frankly, I think he has studied the JFK political culture, his mannerisms and his speaking style," Alabama state Rep. Alvin Holmes told us. "If he catches on, I tell you he'll be hard to stop."

As political director of the black Alabama Democratic Conference, Holmes supports Mondale, the candidate of the black establishment. But he left no doubt with us that it is Hart, not Mondale, who is infatuating voters here.

We heard precisely the same judgement from conservative Alabama whites who have suddenly found Hart worthy of scrutiny. A retired Air Force colonel who voted for Reagan (but now regrets it because of Lebanon and budget deficits) took the trouble to journey to the Montgomery airport to watch Hart's brief televised press conference. He liked what he saw, but could not explain precisely why. "What a contrast he'd make against Reagan," he told us. "Youth against age."

The black legislator and the white colonel bestow success on the strategy conceptualized by pollster-consultant Patrick Caddell. Caddell's belief was that Hart could appear to move left and right at the same time with his promise on a "fresh start" and his scorn for "the old politics."

That was the essence of John Kennedy's campaign a quarter of a century ago after the senior citizen presidency of Dwight Eisenhower. That strategy was backed by Hart campaign co-chairman Theodore Sorensen, Jack Kennedy's aide, adviser and speechwriter. Hart has accepted it and embroidered it with outsider-vs.-insider rhetoric that might be coming right from the mouth of Gov. George Wallace (whose support Hart badly wants.)

The anti-elitist Wallace themes of 20 years ago were rampant as Hart attacked unnamed "establishment cynics" and "establishment politics."

Hart and political guru Caddell waste little time on the grievous organizational shortcomings of a campaign that only just now ignited into an explosive political force that could change history. Shortages of delegates here or phone banks there in the few days before Super Tuesday are retail politics that matter little compared to the rich harvest of votes that Hart's wholesale political message is reaping.

RALEIGH — Rep. Jim Martin recently got a letter from an irate constituent. The Charlotte woman, who claimed to be one of his longtime supporters, was so upset she threatened not to vote for him in his bid for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

What had Martin done? Vote for a tax increase? Gut a favored program? Nope. He'd gotten fat.

"As one of your loyal supporters, I have become more and more concerned as your pictures show that you have been steadily gaining weight recently," the woman wrote. "I want to vote for you but as a lifetime member of Weight Watchers I must tell you that you desperately need to lose 30 to 40 pounds for your heart and your general health. At this time, I would be reluctant to back you because I feel this weight will cause you physical problems."

The woman, whom the Martin campaign would not identify, said she'd seen a picture of the 9th District congressman and former Charlotte Mayor Eddie Knox, a Democratic hopeful for governor, in a newspaper. In her postscript to the letter, she said, "E. Knox is also eating too much but he's not the one I want to vote for."

In his response, Martin did the expected for a politician. He blamed the newspaper. He said the picture was unflattering to both himself and Knox. But he did agree that he needed to exercise more and to eat less. In fact, Martin's brother, a doctor, has put him on a special campaign diet, even though Martin doesn't think he needs to lose the 30 or 40 pounds suggested by the letter writer, said Martin's press aide Max Veale.

A survey of the seven major candidates for governor shows that when it comes to exercising, they lag far behind the nine original candidates for president. The USA Today newspaper reported recently that six of the eight Democrats and Republican President Ronald Reagan all have regular exercise programs. Only Rubin Askew, who was injured in the Army, doesn't exercise. Walter Mondale gets exercise frequently by skiing or playing tennis, but he doesn't keep a daily ritual. The rest all set aside some time each day for calisthenics, weight-lifting or jogging, the newspaper said.

Campaign press aides for Martin and the six major Democratic gubernatorial candidates note that the candidates get a lot of exercise just campaigning. Getting in and out of cars, shaking hands and walking around amounts to a good bit of exercise. But calisthenics?

"Are you serious?" asked Arlene Pulley, Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green's aide. "He doesn't have time to exercise." Steve Meehan, aide to Lauch-Faircloth, said his man doesn't exercise. "I've never known Faircloth to like anything that is boring and there is nothing more boring than exercise."

Tom Gilmore said he considers his workday program plus his occasional time at his nursery business exercise enough. Attorney General Rufus Edmisten, who owns four acres of land and is renowned for his gardens, gets enough exercise just digging and weeding, said aide Jay Eaker.

Two candidates do take long daily walks. Insurance Commissioner John Ingram walks four miles every morning. When it rains, he rides his exercycle, said aide Jenny Abbe. Knox, who is a pretty good golfer but can't spare the time now, usually walks a few miles every morning.

Martin works out in the congressional gymnasium and sails — but not as much as he did before he started campaigning, Veale said.

The presidential candidates said they exercised to work off tension. But, as the letter from the Charlotte woman indicates, that exercise may spare some lost votes.

Public Forum

To the editor: As parents of the late Danny Woods, we would like to take this opportunity to praise all those who made the recent Danny Woods Jail-A-Thon a tremendous success.

Sponsored by the Greenville Jaycees with the help of so many people from our area, the three-day event raised more than $20,000. This is a tribute to the effort set forth by the people involved and to the nice people of eastern North Carolina.

Although the Jail-a-Thon is named after our son, we hope everyone concerned realizes that the event is held in honor of all of those who have died because of the dread disease of cancer, those who are afflicted at the present, those who will be afflicted in the future, and all the family and friends of those involved in this horrible dilemma.

Every dollar counts. Maybe we can look some day to the cure of cancer and these types of events will not be needed.

To those who gave pennies and those who gave hundreds of dollars, thank you from all of us involved in the Cancer Crusade. To those members of law enforcement agencies who gave up their time to help, to the American Cancer Society volunteers workers, and to the Jaycees who worked diligently as they always do in their projects, thank you.

Strength For Today

Every flower-lover knows that roses are hard to grow. They get black spot. Beetles devour them. Roses cannot be grown in all kinds of soil, and even in the best of soil a great deal of care and fertilization are necessary.

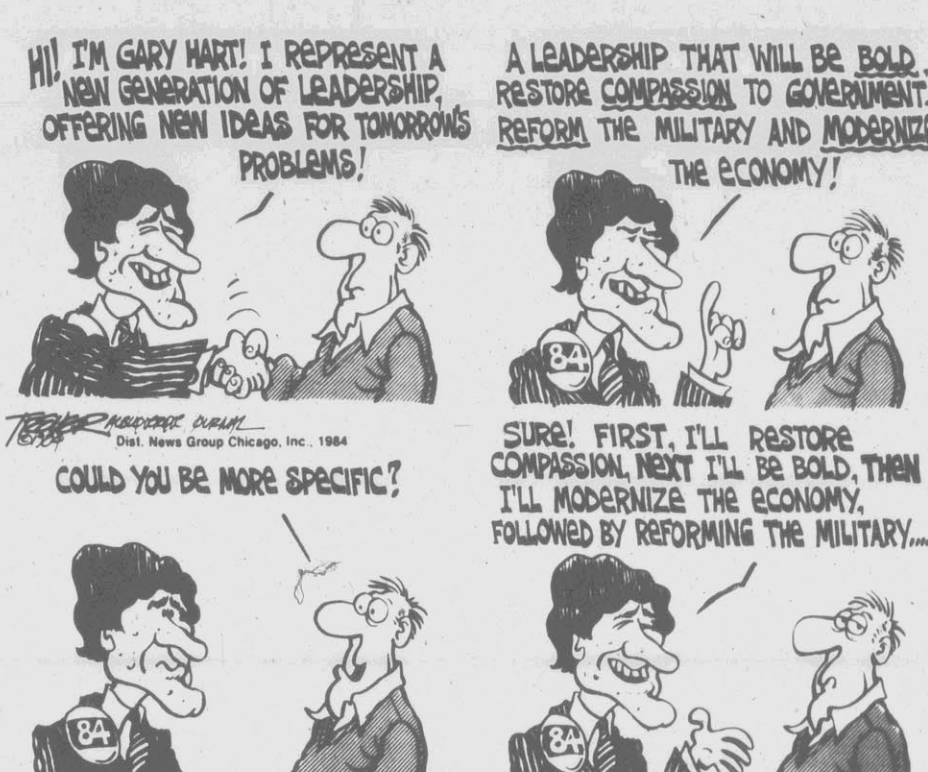

No matter how great one's mental endowment may be, it takes the most intense application to become a competent scholar. Some public speakers rise to their feet and appear to be speaking extemporaneously and with the greatest of ease, but most of them have labored for hours over words, sentences, paragraphs.

Even the comedians on stage and TV who seem to be full of the cleverest kind of wisecracks probably bought them from gag writers and rehearsed with other actors with as much sweat and blood as if they had been untangling the affairs of a defunct corporation.

Roses are hard to grow. You bet they are, and so is everything else that is impressive, creative and worthwhile.

Super Tuesday Is Coming Up

My wife and I were watching the results of the New Hampshire primary.

"Is the race all over now?" she wanted to know.

"Of course it isn't over," I told her. "It won't be over until Super Tuesday."

"You mean the Democrats are going to play a football game to decide who their candidate is going to be?"

"No, Super Tuesday, on March 13, is the day nine states choose 650 delegates for the Democratic convention. We'll know a lot more about who will oppose Reagan then than we do now."

"If Super Tuesday is that important, why was everyone so excited about New Hampshire?"

"Because New Hampshire was the first state to hold a primary. New Hampshire could give us a hint on what will happen on Super Tuesday."

"I thought Iowa did that."

"Iowa was just political caucuses. New Hampshire was decided by the people going to the polls. It's a whale of a difference."

"Then why did the media make such a big deal of Iowa?"

"Because it was the first test of how the candidates would do. The big deal in Iowa was not that Mondale won so big, but that Gary Hart did better than everyone expected, and John Glenn did worse than he had hoped for. This obviously affected what the media would do about the contest in New Hampshire. Many of them who had ignored Hart started concentrating on him and giving him momentum — at the expense of Glenn and the others who bombed out in Iowa. This is why Hart did so well in New Hampshire and Mondale did so badly."

"Mondale didn't do that badly. He came in second."

"Yes, but he was supposed to come in a big first. After Iowa we thought Mondale had the thing all wrapped up. But with Hart's showing in New Hampshire, we now have a new ball game and this will put all the political pundits back in business."

"Why should the public believe anything you people say after you were so wrong in New Hampshire?"

"They have no choice if they want to have an exciting Democratic primary. The only sin we political pundits can commit is to bore the American people."

"I think the media is just hyping up all these races so they have something to write about and show on TV."

"That's not true. We're giving the Americans what they want. If Mondale had it all sewed up after New Hampshire, no one would buy newspapers or watch their TV sets on Super Tuesday. How would you have felt if you knew six months in advance that the Los Angeles Raiders were going to win the Super Bowl?"

"Why did everyone say in the fall that the race was going to be between Glenn and Mondale?"

—John Cunniff—

Taking A Beating

NEW YORK (AP) — Travelers abroad this summer could learn an amazing fact of life — that just one telephone call might cost nearly as much as their air fare.

It has happened. It's likely to happen again.

An Oakland, Calif. executive called his office from Barcelona and paid more than $500. A government official called Washington, D.C. from Beirut and was charged $686. A tourist called Peekskill, N.Y. from Munich and paid $353.

All calls were from hotels, and the bills were issued by the hotels rather than telephone companies.

The Oakland call cost the hotel $120; the rest was markup. The Washington call cost the hotel $270. The Peekskill call cost only $64; the hotel took a 450 percent markup.

A vacationing couple made a $39 call to the United States from Italy and was surcharged an additional $17. When they objected to the 300 percent surcharge the hotel threatened to call police.

All paid, but AT&T caught flak, and now it wants the world to know it has nothing to do with markups, and that it considers them a ripoff.

"We get no income whatever from the hotel rates," says Ed Carr of AT&T Communications. AT&T, he says, splits a rate with corresponding agencies abroad. And those rates, he says, are a fraction of many hotel rates.

German hotels are the worst offenders, claims Carr, who puts Switzerland, Austria and, "to a slightly less extent," France in runner-up positions. The Far East is far less a problem; Carr calls rates in that area reasonable.

Reasonable too, he says, are rates charged by members of Teleplan, created by AT&T. Teleplan members — individual hotels, chains, and national hotel associations — agree to a relatively low ceiling on surcharges.

Carr, director of correspondent relations, travels the world in search of members, and has been especially successful in Ireland, Israel, Panama and Portugal, where the national hotel associations have signed.

Hilton International, Marriott Hotel groups, and Regent International are members. So are Comfort Hotels International in the United Kingdom, France and Holland; the Golden Tulip group in Holland; Inter-Europe Hotels in Germany and Switzerland; Novotel hotels in Germany and Austria; and Mandarin International in the Far East.

Among individual members are the Lygon Arms in England and the Ledra Hotel in Cyprus, but the entire Teleplan membership still amounts to only 900 hotels, or a fraction of 1 percent of the world's 270,000 hotels.

The reason for the charges, says Carr, is that hotels seek to make profit centers of their switchboards.

Views Differ On Prayer In School

CHARLOTTE (AP) — While the U.S. Senate debates a proposed constitutional amendment to permit prayer in the public schools, students at an elementary school in the state are expressing their opinions on the subject.

It appears the students at Steele Creek Elementary School in Charlotte generally support prayer — with certain stipulations.

"It shouldn't be silent because you might be the last one to finish and everybody's looking at you," 10-year-old Stacia Smith said.

But 7-year-old Nathan Sprinkle disagreed.

"It shouldn't be said aloud (because) somebody might be next to you and not believe in God and hear you and think you're stupid," he said.

First-grader Chuck Graham had another view, saying whatever the decision, "it shouldn't cut into play time."

Since Monday, the Senate has debated the proposal amendment, which could reverse a 1962 Supreme Court decision that barred oral prayer sessions in the classroom.

Eight-year-old Jason Nicholson, a third-grader, said he supports school prayer.

"We should pray for God because He's our leader," Jason said, adding that school prayer would expose God to students "who might not have heard of Him."

"I think they should have prayer," said sixth-grader Crawford Patterson, 12, "but it should be silent, because there's so many different religions."

"Your prayers are really what you feel, and when other people are talking, they say what they feel and not what you feel," she said.

Jason thinks differences among students' religions could be dealt with. "If people had different religions, they could have different groups and pray to their religion in the groups," he said.

Twenty-one states now have statutes authorizing a "moment of meditation" in public schools. These statutes typically permit, but don't require, schools to establish a one-minute period of silence, during which students may pray, meditate or engage in any other silent activity.

North Carolina does not have such a statute, the state attorney general's office said.

But even though they've never known organized school prayer, a number of Steele Creek students say they often pray to themselves during school.

"I pray that I get a good grade or above average," sixth-grader Carmen Nichols said.

"I pray because I don't know the answers," first-grader Tamara Wilson said.

Actions Taken By Bethel Chamber

Directors of the Bethel Council of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce met Thursday night.

The board approved a letter of commendation for B.C. Gardner Jr. for the restoration of the building which houses his business, Mayo's Antiques on Railroad Street.

Chairman Robert Young stated that a recommendation to the town board has been made for future Vepco lines to be placed underground in Bethel.

It was announced that Fred Bond of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corp. will address farmers at the April 12 Pepsi Break set for 10 a.m. at the Rotary Building.

The council's membership drive, led by James and Frances Dupree, will be conducted May 8-15.

Governmental Affairs Chairman Dr. Joseph Smith reported that there will be a candidate's forum for the Greenville and Pitt County Boards of Education at the Willis Building April 19 at 7:30 p.m.

Shipping Act Is Passed In House

WASHINGTON — The House took only 30 minutes this week to give its final approval to a conference report on the Shipping Act of 1984, according to Rep. Walter Jones, D-N.C.

Jones, chairman of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, called the shipping act, designed to assist the U.S. steamship industry, "one of the major pieces of maritime legislation of the 20th century."

According to Jones, the legislation will "wipe out the uncertainty which has plagued ocean common carriers seeking antitrust immunity for the agreements they are party to as members of international shipping conferences," and includes several balancing and "pro-competitive features."

Officials from the meetings will answer viewer questions and listen to their comments.

The series will run for 16 weeks, and is sponsored by the state Agency for Public Telecommunications.

Edmisten Stresses Concern For Victims

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina should make violent criminals compensate their victims before they can be paroled, state Attorney General and Democratic gubernatorial candidate Rufus Edmisten said Friday.

Edmisten also called for $1.5 million in funding for a program to compensate victims.

The General Assembly already has enacted the Victim's Compensation Act to provide money for such victims but because of a budget crunch, no money was set aside for the project.

"In many cases, the perpetrators of crime are given every available assistance and care while the unfortunate victims are left to wander aimlessly through the judicial process and trying to return to a normal life," Edmisten said in remarks prepared for news conferences in Raleigh, Greenville and the Greensboro area.

Edmisten also said he will seek a victim's impact statement to make judges aware of personal and financial hardships to victims of the offenders being tried. Edmisten said the judge could use such information in sentencing the offender.

He said a state victim's bill of rights should:

— Make sure witnesses are not needlessly kept waiting and do not spend too much time away from work or family.

— Require that victims and witnesses get medical attention, are safe from threats or harm, have property returned quickly and are informed of the disposition of their cases.

— Give victims and witnesses an area to wait at trial away from the defendant.

Guest Speaker

Eldress Martha Strong will be the speaker at Haddock Chapel Free Will Baptist Church at the 11 a.m. Sunday worship service. Sunday school will also be held at 9:45 a.m.

Stock And Market Reports

By The Associated Press
Hogs

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The trend on the North Carolina hog market today was mostly steady to .50 higher. Kinston, Spivey's Corner, Murfreesboro, and Robersonville 45.00, Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Chadbourn, Ayden, Pine Level, Laurinburg and Benson 45.50, Wilson 45.75, Salisbury 44.00, Rowland 44.50. Sows: all weights 500 pounds up; Wilson 43.00, Fayetteville 44.00, Whiteville 42.00, Wallace 46.00, Spivey's Corner 46.00, Rowland 46.00, Durham 42.00.

Poultry

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 57.75 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pound birds. 62 percent of the loads offered have been confirmed with a preliminary weighted average of 58.67 cents f.o.b. dock or equivalent. The market is firm and the live supply is light to moderate for a moderate to good demand. Average weights desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Friday was 1,807,000, compared to 1,705,000 last Friday.

Hens

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was steady. Supplies moderate. Demand moderate. Prices paid per pound for hens over 7 pounds at farm for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter was 32 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices showed a broad loss today, beset once again by interest-rate worries. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 10.47 to 1,136.61 by noontime.

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than 2 to 1 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Late Thursday the Federal Reserve reported a $1.5 billion decline in the money supply for the week ended Feb. 27.

The credit markets responded negatively to the news, pushing interest rates higher, because advance estimates had called for an even bigger drop in the money supply.

Analysts said the figures probably didn't have any major significance for the Fed's credit policy. But they noted that stock traders have been highly sensitive lately to anything that unsettles the credit markets.

In this morning's economic news, the government reported that the civilian unemployment rate dropped to 7.8 percent in February, its lowest level since September 1981, from 8.0 percent in January. That new sign of strength in the economy also was taken as a possible negative portent for interest rates.

Some bank stocks fell on concerns, discussed in a Wall Street Journal article, of possible new problems with loans to Argentina. Citicorp lost 1 1/2 to 35 1/2; Manufacturers Hanover 1 1/2 to 36 1/4; Chase Manhattan 1 1/4 to 49, and J.P. Morgan 1 1/4 to 69 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .74 to 88.65. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .35 at 207.12.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 31.58 million shares at noontime, against 34.44 million at the same point Thursday.

Repeal Of Act Urged

Herbert W. Lee, a candidate for the Republican nomination for the U.S. House of Representatives from the 1st District, today called for repeal of the Voting Rights Act of 1965 in the wake of court-ordered redistricting which has split Pitt and a number of other counties in eastern North Carolina.

"Counties are the rational building blocks of logical legislative districts," Lee said. "Because of racial gerrymandering to suit the whims of the federal courts, many of our counties have been fragmented and pieced back together in a crazy-quilt pattern of legislative districts."

"With such illogical and haphazard districts," Lee said, "it is far more difficult for the average citizen to have a meaningful impact on government."

The voting rights act, Lee said, "should be called the 'anti-voting rights act,'" because "it allows capricious and often dictatorial federal bureaucrats and judges to invade what is legitimately a duty of our elected legislators."

Lee charged that "Congressman Walter Jones is partly to blame for this fiasco, since he voted in favor of the so-called 'Voting Rights Act.'"

Lee pledged, "I will make it a high priority after my election to Congress to work for repeal of those provisions which give federal bureaucrats and judges any control over the redistricting process."

Star 'Returning' To Planetarium

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The Morehead Planetarium will again be displaying its six-pointed star, thanks to a U.S. Supreme Court decision that Nativity scenes displayed by cities do not violate the separation of church and state.

Christopher C. Fordham III, chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, said the star could be returned to the top of the planetarium, and planetarium officials said it will be possibly be back by May.

"We intend to put it up during the month of May to help celebrate the planetarium's 35th birthday," said Lee Shapiro, planetarium director, on Thursday. "It's not really a Christmas star; it's just a star."

The star has spent more than a year in a storage area after a UNC law professor claimed its use violated the constitutional separation of church and state.

Indict A Former Bank Teller

NEW BERN — A former teller at a Greenville bank was indicted by a federal grand jury here Wednesday on charges of making false entries in bank records to cover shortages totaling more than $1.2 million.

The five-count indictment against Donna Daughtry Strickland, 35, of 847 Drexel Lane in Winterville, charges that false entries were made to cover shortages of $2,000 on Jan. 17, $4,000 on Jan. 18, $4,200 on Jan. 24, and $13,193 on Jan. 25, 1983, and 96 false entries amounting to more than $1.2 million between March 2 and April 20, 1983.

According to the indictment, the false entries were made while Mrs. Strickland was a teller at Wachovia Bank & Trust Co.

Mrs. Strickland, who was not charged with embezzlement, had been head teller at the bank's main office on Washington Street.

The charges carry a maximum penalty of 25 years in prison and a $25,000 fine.

Indians Close Pirates' Long Season

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
HARRISONBURG, Va. — If East Carolina's Pirates didn't have bad luck, they wouldn't have any at all. Last night in the first round of the ECAC-South tournament, the Pirates, who won only four basketball games all year, just couldn't buy a basket and finally fell to William & Mary, the third seeded team in the six-team field, 47-32.

And by no means was the final score indicative of the way the basketball game went. East Carolina was in the ball game until the final five minutes when the Indians suddenly rushed out to a nine-point lead, then scored on 12 of 17 free throws in the final two and a half minutes in the game.

East Carolina's inability to put the ball in the basket — and to get an offensive rebound to try again — was the big difference. The Pirates shot only 28 percent, making only 14 of 50 field goal attempts. In the second half, when the Pirates got good shots, but couldn't make them fall, ECU made only seven of 33 — 21.2 percent.

The Indians had their problems in the second half also, making just 31.8 percent, but it was enough.

On the boards, the Indians held a five-rebound advantage, and had as many in turnovers also, and that helped the Tribe's cause.

The result advanced the Indians into Friday night's semifinals against the U.S. Naval Academy, which has twice down the Tribe this year. James Madison, which defeated George Mason, 63-56, will face top-seeded Richmond in the other game. The championship will be decided on Saturday night.

"It's the story of our game all year," Coach Charlie Harrison said. "We play hard, we practice hard and we play with a purpose. But it just won't go for us. We're young and not very strong. William & Mary played well and did what they had to do to win. We did what we had to do to win, but it wouldn't fall for us."

Harrison said that mistakes by the Pirates seemed to come in flurries and that was enough to cause the downfall.

William & Mary's Barry Parkhill said that he didn't feel any team played as hard as the Pirates. "I respect Charlie and the way they play. I really felt that we had a tough assignment because everyone expected us to win."

"Our defense did a good job for us and it was a great win; a chance to keep playing," Parkhill added.

With the Indians shooting about as poorly as the Pirates throughout the first three-quarters of the second half, the Pirates managed to keep things close although they could never take the lead or tie it up. Trailing 21-17 at intermission, the Pirates broke the ice for both teams nearly two and a half minutes into the half as Jack Turnbill scored. After both teams swapped baskets, ECU missed out on a chance to tie it at 23-23, but Herb Harris scored on a turnaround jumper in the lane, for a 24-21 edge. Curt Vanderhorst added a basket for the Pirates but then they missed on two more chances to pull even at 25.

Then with 9:48 left, Keith Cieplicki stole the ball and after another turnover, Cieplicki fed Kevin Richardson under the basket for a dunk. Harris followed with a shot from underneath with 7:17 to play to run the lead out to 31-23.

East Carolina cut the lead back to five, 31-26 on a three-point play with 6:53 left. Harris scored with 5:36 left and Scott Coval hit with 3:25 to go upping it to nine, 35-26, and the Indians used the foul line from there on out to make the final score look much more lopsided than it actually was.

East Carolina led nearly half of the opening period, taking a 4-2 lead, and breaking two ties after that. A free throw by Tony Robinson and a basket by Vanderhorst gave the Pirates a 9-6 lead but the Indians then scored on seven straight points, five of them by Richardson, giving the Tribe a 13-9 edge.

The Indians stretched that to eight at 19-11, but East Carolina battled back and cut it to four at the half.

Vanderhorst was the lone Pirate to score in double figures, hitting 14. Richardson and Harris each had ten for the Indians.

The loss finished off the 1983-84 season for the Pirates are 4-24.

"I'm not going to say it was a long season," Harrison said. "It was disappointing. Maybe I thought that our young kids would come on faster than they did. And we had two veterans who didn't come through for us. One had late knee surgery (Bruce Peartree) and never really came back from that. Another (Barry Wright) didn't want to be a part of what we were trying to do either on or off the court."

"We are trying to build a program. I could go out and get a quick team by recruiting players who are not very nice people, but that's not what we want. We want to stop the revolving door and bring in people who can play and who can graduate and be successful. You have to start somewhere, and I think we have the foundation now. With the kids we have now and the people we hope to recruit, we will get it going. But it takes hard work and patience."

"I'm not glad it's over. We're improved, but so is everyone else. We haven't come together as a team and we still have a lot of work to do, but we've got to wait until October 15 to do it.

"We can work on strength and we can work on improving some individual things to help us," Harrison said.

The coach, along with the Pirate, fans will be hopeful that next year, the lessons will have been learned, and they will finally begin to pay off.

Carter Hurls Havelock By Rose In Baseball Opener

HAVELOCK — Richard Carter struck out eight and gave up just four hits as the Havelock Rams crushed Rose High School 6-1 in the Rampants opening game of the 1984 baseball season.

Mike Kinley started the game for the Rampants and sustained the loss, while the victory was Carter's first.

After posting a run in the first and another in the second, Havelock put the game away with three in the third. Robert Johnson and Tom Mullins walked to open the inning, and Carter singled in Johnson.

Carter's courtesy runner stole second, and Jeff Peay singled in both runners to seal the victory.

"We didn't play particularly well," Rose Coach Ronald Vincent said. "We made some mistakes that we were expecting to make, with it being the first game and all. We didn't get to practice the last couple of days because of the weather, but Havelock was ready to play."

"Carter can really throw the ball hard. We just weren't ready for a pitcher like that at this point."

Peay was the leading hitter for the day with a pair of hits in three trips to the plate.

Rose scored its lone run in the sixth, as Kinley walked and later scored on a single by Wall.

Manteo Rallies By Jamesville

JAMESVILLE — Manteo rallied for four runs in the top of the sixth inning to earn a 7-3 victory over Jamesville Thursday in the opening game of the baseball season for the two high schools.

Flaskey came on in the fifth inning to pick up the win on the mound for Manteo, while Kevin Perry suffered the loss for the Bullets.

Tillett drove in a pair of runs with a double in the six with the score knotted 3-3 to give Manteo the victory. Flaskey singled and Drake drew a base on balls to set up Tillett's double. Tillett finished the game with two hits in three trips to the plate.

Terry Perry had the only two hits of the day for Jamesville. The Bullets host Chocowinity Tuesday.

Woody Peele

Navy Coach Paul Evans might be excused if he was a bit miffed Wednesday afternoon at the ECAC-South luncheon for coaches, league officials and media.

During the course of the meal it was announced — ironically by George Mason's Joe Harrington — that he and Richmond's Dick Tarrant had been chosen as the league's co-Coaches of the Year.

Tarrant's selection was deserved. He took a team picked to finish among the bottom two of the league and won the regular season title. Harrington took a team expected to win the title and which did win a school record 21 games, and went only 5-5 in the league, tying for fourth place.

Deserving? Evans, meanwhile, took a team that was expected to finish mid-league and took second place, winning six of ten conference contests and going 23-7 overall — a school record and a mark unheard of these days for a service academy.

The honor is voted by the league's coaches. Each coach votes for his peer and cannot vote for himself. The printed announcement of league honors was handed out afterwards and also listed those receiving votes.

Evans and ECU's Charlie Harrison each were also-rans, so it doesn't take a mathematical genius to see that Tarrant and Harrington each received two votes, while Evans and Harrison got one each — a total of six.

While we think Harrison is a pretty good coach, it is more than obvious he does not deserve the honor nor even a vote. Someone, and we have our own ideas who, obviously voted for Harrison in order not to vote for his two opponents, thereby setting up the result.

Six votes should not decide a conference coach of the year nor any other award. Politics and personality come into play too much with such a limited group.

Most conferences have a media organization which selects the teams. The ECAC-South does not have such a group. But somehow, the voting base needs to be expanded, to include, perhaps, the athletic directors, sports information directors, or some of the media.

The league also needs to select a second-team all-conference. Naming only five players slights too many who deserve some recognition.

This makes twice in a row that the league has been snickered at after listing post-season honors. Last year, it named ECU's Johnny Edwards as the only rookie on the all-conference team but didn't make him Rookie of the Year. If he wasn't the best rookie in the league, what was he doing on the all-conference team? The ECAC-South officials say that want more media exposure. They want a broader base of appeal.

But unless they do something to change the image they are showing with these post-season honors, then it will be difficult for them to achieve those goals.

The ECAC-South will have a new look for the 1984-85 basketball season, it was announced Thursday afternoon.

In addition to UNC-Wilmington joining the league, American University of Washington, D.C., will also come in.

UNC-W, which has not been affiliated with the league before, must still pass a vote of the entire ECAC in its late summer convention, but that is expected to be an automatic thing. American, meanwhile, has been a member of the ECAC-East Coast and is merely switching its division affiliation.

That brings the league to a total of eight teams for the next season, and solidifies the league even more.

Further announcements are expected in the coming weeks, too. The league, which added several other league championships for this academic year, will be adding more next year, mostly in women's sports.

The league is also expected to hire a publicity director — interviews were begun during the tournament this weekend — and that should help with the league's overall image.

What had been looked at as a shaky situation a couple of years ago now looks much more solid.

While ECU's basketball team didn't fare that well during the season, one Pirate cage team did well during the ECAC tourney. A "media" cage tournament was held Wednesday night, and the Pirate entry finished 2-1 in the round robin event, finishing in second place.

Making up that team were Public Relations Director Ken Smith, Marketing Director Dave Hart, trainer Greg Beres, and 'East Carolinian' staffers Ed Nicklas and Mark Barber.

This writer, however, made the wisest decision. He just watched it all, and as a result, felt good on Thursday.

Daugherty Hurt In UNC Practice

GREENSBORO (AP) — North Carolina center Brad Daugherty injured his hand in practice and may not be able to play in Friday's opening game of the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament, school officials said Thursday.

Sports Information Director Rick Brewer said Daugherty hit his right hand on a backboard during practice Wednesday.

Pack Calm Going Into Tourney

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
AP Sports Writer

GREENSBORO — You won't find North Carolina State basketball coach Jim Valvano fretting over his team's fate, although the reigning national champion may not get to defend its title.

The Wolfpack enters the first round of the 31st Atlantic Coast Conference tournament as the seventh-seeded team and faces No. 2 seed Maryland in the 7 p.m. game. A loss would jeopardize N.C. State's chances to reach the 53-team NCAA tournament.

Valvano isn't given to worrying and frowning and on the eve of the tournament's opening round, he hasn't changed his tune one bit.

"I haven't been worried about a thing all year," Valvano said. "Everybody's trying to get me to worry about it."

"I had never been in a season after the championships. I didn't want to put undue pressure on a young team," he added. "I wanted them just to enjoy the year and have fun. We never talked about NCAA play or NIT play or anything other than just trying to get their own identity."

The team appeared to claim its own identity when it won 10 of its first 12 games. Then came the five-game losing streak at the start of the conference season. Valvano got the team out of that streak and up to a 19-7 record.

Now, the Wolfpack is in the midst of a five-game losing streak and still one game shy of the magic 20-victory level — the number Valvano believes will qualify his team for the NCAA shootout.

"Our team is not down. Our team is up," Valvano said. "They're a happy team. They've never been a problem. We've never had any problems except the problem we've had with winning the last two weeks."

Getting past 14th-ranked Maryland isn't going to be easy, either. The Terrapin back court is tall with Adrian Branch and Jeff Adkins towering above the Wolfpack duo of Terry Gannon and Anthony "Spud" Webb. It could force Valvano to alter his starting lineup.

"The last time we played them, we played Ernie Myers more and even Bennie Bolton," Valvano said. "We have a starting lineup, but it has to vary sometime because of the match-up problem we have."

Looking at the chances for NCAA competition, Valvano thinks five teams from the ACC will qualify at the end of the three days of madness in Greensboro.

"Could be four," he said. "If we lose, if Georgia Tech loses and Virginia loses, it might be four. If somebody wins, it should be five."

What happens if the Wolfpack wins?

"If we do that, a lot depends on what happens in the rest of the country," Valvano said. "But we would certainly have a legitimate case."

A victory would send the Wolfpack into the semifinals against the winner of the Wake Forest-Virginia game, which is scheduled for 9 p.m. and ends the first day of the tournament.

The 19th-ranked Demon Deacons are 20-7 and 7-7 while Virginia is 17-10 and 6-8.

Top-ranked and ACC regular-season champion North Carolina, 26-1 and 14-0, was to open the tournament at noon against eighth-seeded Clemson, 14-13 and 3-11, while No. 16 Duke, 22-8 and 7-7, faced Georgia Tech, 16-9 and 6-6, at 2 p.m.

The North Carolina-Clemson winner will meet the Duke-Georgia Tech victor at 1:30 Saturday afternoon. The other semifinal game is scheduled to begin at 3:30 p.m.

The finals are scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday afternoon.

Barnell's Single Lifts Cougars Over Conley

PINETOPS — Mike Barnell singled in Barrett Powell in the top of the 10th to lift SouthWest Edgecombe to an 8-7 victory over D.H. Conley in high school baseball action Thursday.

Billy Braswell allowed eight hits while going the distance on the mound to record the win for the Cougars. Darryl Edwards came on in relief of Paul Hill in the fourth inning and suffered the loss for the Vikings.

After one out, Powell reached first on an error by the Conley second baseman and then stole second. Mark Pittman tapped back to the mound for the second out, and the Vikings intentionally walked Braswell before Barnell's winning hit.

Powell finished the day with two hits in four at bats, while Grover Hall was 2-3. Steve Mills led Conley with three hits in five trips to the plate, while Ty Cochran was 2-3, and Fred Bryant and Calvin Phillips both 2-5.

Conley took the lead with four runs in the fourth inning, as Chris Via led off with a double. After one out, Phillips doubled in Via. Richie Overton drew a base on balls and Hill cleared the bases with a three-run homer.

SouthWest tied the score with four runs in the sixth inning. David Sides ripped a one-out double, Jimmy Larsen walked and Powell singled in Sides. Mark Pittman reached first on an error to allow Larsen to score, and an error on a grounder by Barnell sent Powell and Pittman across the plate with two more runs.

Conley, 0-1 on the season, traveled to North Pitt today.

Turpin's 42 Powers Kentucky Victory

By The Associated Press

Melvin Turpin had one of those nights that comes along every 32 years. Kentucky's 6-foot-11 senior center scored 42 points and pulled down 16 rebounds Thursday night to lead the No. 3 Wildcats to a 92-79 victory over Georgia and a berth in the semifinals of the Southeastern Conference basketball tournament.

Turpin's 42 points tied the conference scoring mark set in 1952 by former Kentucky star — and current athletic director — Cliff Hagen.

"I wasn't thinking about the record, I just wanted to win," Turpin said. "It just happened that I was very hot."

Hot is a good word to describe a player who shoots 18 of 22 from the field and six of seven from the free-throw line.

Turpin started the game at a pace where a lot more than 42 points seemed possible. He scored 20 of his points in the first 10:30 of the game as Kentucky opened a 35-16 lead and was never threatened.

In other games involving teams in the Associated Press' Top Twenty, No. 2 Georgetown beat Providence 70-50; seventh-ranked Illinois defeated Minnesota 53-41; No. 10 Nevada-Las Vegas downed San Jose State 70-55; 12th-ranked Tulsa edged Wichita State 86-80; No. 15 Temple crushed Massachusetts 78-54; 17th-ranked Memphis State blasted Southern Mississippi 86-58; No. 18 Louisville beat Cincinnati 62-55; and 20th-ranked Oregon State defeated California 64-60 in overtime.

Two people who didn't want to talk about the scoring mark were Turpin and Georgia Coach Hugh Durham.

Turpin kept changing the subject when reporters asked him about the scoring mark and he gave credit to his teammates.

"We had other guys hitting from the outside — Sam Bowie, Jim Master, Dickie Beal," Turpin said. "It just so happened they were coming to me inside."

Durham was upset about Kentucky going inside.

"He was playing against a 6-foot-6 guy and got his confidence up," Durham said. "What do you want me to say, that he's the greatest thing since sliced bread?"

The record-tying basket came on a short jumper at the buzzer after sophomore forward Kenny Walker gave up an open layup to let Turpin take the shot.

"The one he got the record on, Kenny made an unselfish play," Kentucky Coach Joe B. Hall said. "It was a medium-range jump shot, so it was honest."

Kentucky, the regular-season champions, will face Alabama, which needed an overtime session to defeat Louisiana State 72-70, in one semifinal tonight, while Auburn, a 59-58 winner over host Vanderbilt, will face Tennessee, which also needed an extra session to eliminate Florida 80-74.

Regular-season Games

Bruce Douglas scored 15 points and George Montgomery 14 as Illinois, 22-4 overall and 14-3 in the Big Ten, moved back into a first-place tie with Purdue. Illinois has one game remaining, when Wisconsin visits Champaign on Saturday, while Purdue ends its conference season Sunday at Minnesota.

Charlie Sitton made all six of his free throws in overtime to lead Oregon State and keep alive its hopes for a co-championship in the Pac-10. Even a tie with Washington wouldn't get the Beavers the automatic berth in the NCAA tournament as the Huskies, who beat Washington State 67-51, have not represented the conference in a longer period of time.

Tournaments

Patrick Ewing scored 18 points as Georgetown rallied from a 25-23 halftime deficit for the easy victory over Providence. The Hoyas' semifinal opponent will be St. John's, the defending Big East champion and a 57-56 winner over Boston College. The other semifinal will pit Syracuse, a 73-58 winner over Connecticut, against Villanova, which held off Pittsburgh 75-65 behind Ed Pinckney's 21 points, 17 of which came in the second half.

Reserve Eric Booker scored a game-high 21 points to lead Nevada-Las Vegas, which will face Utah State in the semifinals of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

Good For Business

A Review...

Newman's Screenplay A Professional Effort

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Jack Nicholson says his reputation as a womanizer and a cocaine user is "good for business," and so he has decided to "put up with being falsely described."

"Harry and Son," now playing at the Buccaneer, is almost a one-man show. Paul Newman co-authored the screenplay, produced and directed the film, and plays Harry, a wrecking-crane operator who loses his job and self-esteem when his sight begins to fail. Newman is an excellent actor, and even under his own direction he makes the character of Harry, a working man who defines himself by his job and falls apart when he can no longer work, come alive. Newman is also a sound director. The film moves quickly and is full of interesting scenes. The problem lies in the story.

grown up," Howie comes across as a modern-day Andy Hardy, and while Mickey Rooney played the nice kid for laughs, Benson plays it straight.

There are, however, other strong performances besides Newman's. Joanne Woodward is wonderful as Lilly, a pet store owner with a Spanish-speaking parrot and a sideline in phrenology, and Ossie Davis is delightful as an unemployed janitor who makes a killing in the car repossession business.

"Harry and Son" tries to be both serious and comic, and as long as Newman, Ms. Woodward or Davis is on screen, it works. Throughout his career, Newman has been able to dominate the screen. While opting to portray working-class heroes,

Newman has always generated the kind of enthusiasm which audiences usually reserve for more sophisticated actors. Even with gray hair and a hard hat, Newman is alive, attractive and sexy. His Harry seems real. "Harry and Son" is not a great film, but fans of Paul Newman will enjoy seeing another professional performance by this skilled actor.

A Move By Donahue

CHICAGO (AP) — Phil Donahue, host of the syndicated "Donahue" show, says he's looking forward to a move to New York with "real enthusiasm."

DONAHUE

It's an "exciting challenge for me and the people associated with the program," Donahue, 48, said of the January 1985 move announced Thursday by Multimedia Entertainment, the show's producer.

"It offers many new opportunities," Donahue added. The show started in Dayton, Ohio, in 1967 and moved in 1974 to Chicago, where it was broadcast from WGN-TV studios. "Donahue" now originates from the studios of CBS station WBBM-TV. Multimedia said it is negotiating with NBC's WNBC in New York to originate the program in its new locale.

"Donahue" will maintain its 60-minute, Monday-through-Friday format, said Multimedia president Donald L. Dahlman.

The move is to "accelerate the immediacy of the show's content, incorporate new technical advances and utilize Phil Donahue's time more efficiently," the company said.

"I can't go around saying I'm not a womanizer, because that's silly," Nicholson says in an interview. "First of all, it's good for business if people think I'm a womanizer."

Concerning drugs, Nicholson, 46, admits to using marijuana, but "I've never told anyone that I actually do cocaine. I've never said that to anyone."

"As a workman, I'm known as a model of professionalism," he said. "I have to put up with being falsely described because it's unhip to bridle at it. Besides, just like womanizing, I'm not sure it ain't good for business," he said in the interview in the March 29 issue of Rolling Stone magazine.

Nicholson is nominated for an Oscar as best supporting actor in "Terms of Endearment."

Pearl Bailey To Sing In Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — Singer Pearl Bailey will give three private concerts in the Soviet Union next week, at the residence of the American ambassador and at the home of the U.S. consulate general in Leningrad, it was announced today.

It will be the first U.S. government-sponsored appearance of an American artist in the Soviet Union since July 1982, when jazz musicians Chick Corea and Gary Burton performed in Moscow and Leningrad.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said Miss Bailey would perform twice before invited Soviet and other guests at Spasso House, residence of Ambassador Arthur Hartman, and in Leningrad at the home of the U.S. consulate general.

He said it was not known whether Soviet officials would arrange any appearances for Miss Bailey at Soviet concert halls.

"These things always come together at the last minute, and it is possible something of that kind could be arranged," he said.

Miss Bailey, who for 40 years has enchanted audiences with her indolent singing style, is to perform on Monday and Wednesday evenings at Spasso House and on Thursday in Leningrad.

Ted Turner Sitcom Does Networks A Favor

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — For maybe the first time in his broadcasting career, Ted Turner has done the networks a big favor.

On Saturday night, Turner's Atlanta-based superstation, WTBS, will show its first original situation comedy, "Down to Earth," and it's so pathetically bland, schmaltzy and amateurish that it will make the networks' laugh tracks sound sweet.

Of course, WTBS, which reaches nearly 30 million cable homes and was watched by an average of 3.2 percent of those homes in January, isn't the first cable service to fail at what ABC, CBS and NBC don't do so well in the first place. The Playboy Channel's first original comedy, "4-Play," was worse.

And, if used as a night light, "Down to Earth" is much less offensive.

"Down to Earth" is about a daffy angel, whose earthly assignment is to serve as homemaker and peacemaker to a widowed father of three kids. This, says her stuffy boss, Charles Divine (Lester C. Fletcher), is her last shot at earning her wings after 59 years in limbo.

Angel 972 was known as Ethel Methel MacDoogan (Carol Mansell) in her mortal days. That was from 1887 until 1925, when she was hit by a trolley car. Since then, the world has become a push-button convenience, and Ethel is bound to have weekly battles with modern technology. (See "I Dream of Jeannie.")

In Saturday's debut, she drops the laundry in the trash compactor and triggers the show's artificial giggles by letting pots and the blender bubble over. This re-creates the "I Love Lucy" kitchen. The difference is that the mechanical devices do the best acting.

"Dinner's going to be a little late," Ethel says ad nauseum.

"Down to Earth" is blatantly wholesome comedy. Ethel is sent down because a family is in need. Its members are so wrapped up in their individual concerns that they ignore the youngest child's birthday, and he prays for divine intervention to restore happiness and harmony to the household.

There has been no joy for the Prestons since 38-year-old Richard's wife died a year ago, leaving the prosperous real estate executive (Stephen Johnson) alone to care for 15-year-old Duane (David Kaufman), 13-year-old Lissy (Kyle Richards) and 8-year-old Jay Jay (Randy Josselyn.)

Procter & Gamble co-produces the project, and the nation's largest TV advertiser has evidently starved out any semblance of contemporary humor and humanity. If you think the world of Ozzie and Harriet Nelson was all-white and squeaky clean, you should see the Prestons.

In the 1950s and '60s, advertisers produced most of television. Recently, Procter & Gamble abandoned prime-time series, except for such movies as "Marco Polo" and "Jesus of Nazareth," concentrating, instead, on making daytime soaps.

Jack Wishard, vice president for Procter & Gamble Productions, said in an interview that WTBS was approached after CBS turned down a similar production arrangement.

"I hope there's an appetite for this kind of warm, all-family, wholesome show," he said. "Some people think it's funny in a warm, chuckling way."

Wishard said "Down to Earth" was done for "a lot less than half" the networks' typical per-episode production cost of $300,000 to $350,000. All the actors and directors worked for union scale, and the 26-week series of 13 originals and 13 repeats hired cheaper non-union technicians.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Four of ♠

Much has been written about how to handle certain card combinations. But there are many that you have to work out for yourself at the table.

South's one no trump overcall showed the equivalent of a one no trump opening bid. North had more than enough to raise to game.

West's decision to lead his own suit rather than partner's is questionable, especially since he had no outside entry. However, there can be no gainsaying the effectiveness of the lead in this case. East rose with the ace of spades and continued the suit, and declarer was faced with the depressing task of having to run eight more tricks quickly before he gave up the lead. Once the defenders got the lead they would beat him with their spade tricks.

Assuming a successful heart finesse, declarer could see seven of those eight tricks. For a while he considered trying to steal a diamond trick for his ninth, but against capable defenders there was little hope of getting away with that. Some study revealed a legitimate play for nine tricks. If West held either a singleton eight or nine of hearts, declarer could make four tricks in that suit. To do that, he needed three entries to dummy outside the heart suit.

Declarer cashed the ace of clubs and led the queen. When West followed suit, three entries in that suit were assured. He overtook the queen with the king and led the jack of hearts. East covered and declarer won the king, pinning West's eight. He now crossed to the board with the marked finesse of the nine of clubs and led a heart to his seven.

Declarer cashed the ten of hearts, returned to the table with the jack of clubs and scored his ace of hearts. Four heart tricks, four clubs and a spade trick added up to nine tricks.

THE COMICS

STUDENTS!

This is Newspaper in Education Week. You can use your newspaper as an exciting way to learn. Try one of these ideas with the comic pages:

Elementary — Turn to your newspaper's comic strips. Find characters who look happy, sad, worried, mad, afraid, or confused. Cut out the comics, paste them on a piece of paper and write how each character seems to feel under his or her drawing.

Secondary — Often, comic strips make us laugh or wince at social, economic or political problems. Scan today's comics to find examples. Use one or more strips to illustrate a brief essay about how real life people feel with such problems.
