City Board Opposes Rate Structure

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

A letter to Greenville Utilities Commission opposing a proposed rate structure for water service that would increase charges to in-city users while reducing rates for out-of-city customers has been drafted by the City Council.

The letter, addressed to GUC Chairman Margaret Wirth, will be delivered prior to tonight's meeting of the Utilities Commission when the water charges will be considered.

The council, which discussed the matter at a special call meeting Monday, said in the letter that it is "aware that out-of-city users will pay 150 percent of in-city water users under the proposed rates; however, because out-of-city water users are currently paying 200 percent of in-city water users, these customers will receive a decrease in rates.

"Additionally, the relationship between in-city and out-of-city water rates will be further distorted by the monthly fire hydrant charge for city residents," the letter stated. The council said Monday it is not objecting to the hydrant charges.

Saying that GUC is owned by Greenville citizens and "the commission's first and foremost obligation" is to those citizens, the council went on record urging the GUC members to retain the current 200 percent water charge for out-of-city residents. It was noted that general statutes allow municipalities to adopt different schedules for services provided outside the corporate limits.

The council, saying it reviewed and discussed the water and sewer cost of service study prepared for GUC, applauded the commission members "for their business-like approach in establishing the rate structure of the commission; however, we feel that there are times when the commission must consider the interest of the citizens of Greenville."

City Manager Gail Meeks said the proposed rate structure would mean a 19 percent increase in charges for in-city users and a 12 percent reduction in fees paid by out-of-city users.

Council members agreed that one detriment in lowering out-of-city water charges would be the loss of annexation incentives on the part of citizens residing in the fringe areas.

Councilman William Hadden declined to sign the letter Monday, saying he wanted to receive further information in order to be clear on just what the ramifications of the GUC proposal would be.

The council authorized Ms. Meeks to enter into a contract on behalf of the city for the purchase of a 49,525-square-foot tract at the corner of Red Banks Road and N.C. 43 for a fire-rescue substation site.

Estimated cost of the property is $80,000.

Mrs. Meeks said that a Florida resident, Bill Heymann, had purchased the tract from the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce for $75,000 several years ago and has agreed to sell it to the city for $80,000.

The purchase of the property for the substation is one of four projects totaling $926,000 that would be funded through the sale of net-debt reduction bonds. Other projects include: the acquisition of 20 acres south of Mumford Road for a municipal cemetery, $132,000; the addition of 2,350 square feet to the children's room at Sheppard Memorial Library, $140,000; street resurfacing, $534,000, and the purchase and installation of a traffic signal and intersection improvements at Red Banks Road and Arlington Boulevard.

The council adopted a resolution authorizing the submission of an application to the Local Government Commission for approval of the issuance of bonds for the five city projects.

An ordinance was adopted rescinding the city's capital reserve fund and setting up a new fund for the purpose of constructing the fire-rescue substation. The ordinance also provides for the appropriation of funds to purchase the Mumford Road cemetery land and for the return of those funds to the capital reserve account when proceeds from the bond sale are received in June. In addition, the ordinance appropriates $11,000 to Sheppard Memorial Library for architectural fees relative to the renovation project at the library.

Faircloth Makes Whirlwind Tour

By STUART SAVAGE

If nothing else, D.M. "Lauch" Faircloth was consistent as he campaigned in Pitt County Monday in his bid for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Faircloth, who attended a breakfast and then a reception in Farmville during the morning, followed the same theme — more jobs, better schools and a more efficient state government — as he spoke to Rotary and Lions clubs in Greenville at mid-day, met with members of East Carolina University's Student Government Association legislature late Monday afternoon, and spoke at a rally attended by several hundred supporters Monday night.

Although Faircloth has never run for an elective office before — "my name's never been on a ballot," he says — he entered politics at 20, while running his family's farm, to help elect Kerr Scott governor.

Faircloth served as a member of the Highway Commission from 1961 to 1964, was Highway Commission chairman from 1969 to 1973, and directed the N.C. Department of Commerce from 1977 until he resigned last July to campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Saying "I feel it's my obligation to be involved," Faircloth commented that "it's a full-time job running for governor ... a 16-hour a day job" that "doesn't stop."

The candidate is quick to point out that during the 6½ years he was secretary of commerce, his industrial development program helped attract 180,000 jobs throughout the state — "more jobs than in the previous 25 years combined."

Assault By Deputy Is Charged

Pitt County Deputy Sheriff James M. Evans was charged Monday with assaulting a 15-year-old Alabama youth following an automobile chase Feb. 14 which ended near Winterville.

The simple assault warrant, which had not been served by mid-morning today, charged that Evans assaulted James William Gwin of Odenville, Ala., by "kicking him beside the head with his feet."

The incident which led to the assault charge began when a Highway Patrol trooper attempted to stop a car driven by Alabama juvenile Russell Toney on U.S. 17, five miles south of Chocowinity. Later joined by members of the Pitt County sheriff's department and Greenville police officers, the chase led through Greenville before the car was stopped on N.C. 11 at Winterville.

The warrant issued Monday alleges that Gwin, a passenger in the car driven by Toney, was beaten after the vehicle was stopped.

Toney was charged with a number of traffic violations as a result of the chase. However, no charges were brought against Gwin.

On Feb. 29, Sheriff Ralph Tyson confirmed that Evans, a deputy since January 1974, had been suspended for 30 days without pay and demoted, but Tyson declined to give specific reasons for the action.

In an interview last week, Gwin's mother, Susan Gwin, said the family would try to have criminal charges filed against Evans because "we're not satisfied with officer Evans being demoted."

Mrs. Gwin, who described her son as "an A and B student" with "sense enough not to try to fight the police," said in fact "my son was the one that actually stopped the car. He pulled the wheel, jerked it off the road and pulled the (emergency) brake up."

As a result of the alleged beating, Mrs. Gwin said her son suffered "a bruised kidney, two black eyes and a hairline fracture (of his skull)."

Lt. Gov. Green Cites Two Major Issues For N.C.

By JANE WELBORN
Reflector Staff Writer

The economy and education are two important issues in the gubernatorial campaign this year, and Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green translated those issues in eastern North Carolina into tobacco and universities.

"I'm the only real farmer running (for governor of North Carolina in 1984)," Green said in an interview Monday night. "I'm the only one in tobacco, and tobacco is close to the people in eastern North Carolina. It is the real bloodstream of the economy here. I don't know of any affinity my opponents have with tobacco."

"Another big issue in this part of the state is the university," Green added. "In 1976-78 we (the General Assembly) funded the medical school (at East Carolina University) with much opposition from people in the rest of the state. I am happy today that the school is in place and I know firsthand that the school is doing a good job. It is giving students a chance to go to med school who wouldn't have that opportunity in this state or any other state."

The lieutenant governor, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, was in Greenville for a reception at the American Legion Building.

Last year, Green was tried on bribery and conspiracy charges in the Colcor scam in Columbus County and was acquitted. His recent campaign advertisements show him re-enacting a statement before the jury. Green said that the political commercials were not run for public sympathy, but were meant "to tell the truth."

"We determined that we had to run that type of ad because in 30 seconds we needed to tell the public the truth. The public press hadn't told the truth," Green said.

He said that the large field of gubernatorial candidates this year may cause more in-fighting than usual.

"There are a larger number of candidates running (for governor) than usual and each one has some support. But I have run in large fields before. I run a positive campaign and talk about myself and leave the others alone," the candidate said.

Green is basing his campaign on his previous political experience.

"The experience I've had in 24 years of continual service at the state level is more than my contenders combined," Green said. "Experience is the best teacher."

"There is little a governor can do unless he works through the General Assembly to accomplish it. I have headed the Legislature for 10 years and I know how to work programs through the Legislature. Every program we engage in in North Carolina is dependent on the budget of the state and the governor is the director, but the General Assembly ratifies it. I am in a better position to work with the General Assembly

ECU - N.C. State Football Series Appears In Doubt

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

The future of the East Carolina-N.C. State football series is apparently in doubt after the current contract expires in 1985.

At Monday night's ECU football "Quarterback Club," a report surfaced that the N.C. State Athletic Council had unanimously recommended that the series be discontinued as soon as the current contract expires. The two teams are slated to meet in 1984 and 1985, but after that, only verbal agreements of dates exist and they could easily be canceled.

James A. Hackney III of Washington, vice chairman of the board of trustees of N.C. State University, confirmed that the recommendation had been made by the athletic council at a meeting in December.

At that time, rumors surfaced that the series was in jeopardy, but State officials denied it.

"The council has recommended that the series be ended," Hackney said. "But this does not necessarily mean that it will be. That decision would be in the hands of (Athletic Director) Willis Casey, and I presume that the chancellor (Bruce A. Poulton) would also have to concur."

Attempts to contact Casey and Poulton were unsuccessful this morning. Both were in conferences. Dr. Ken Karr, athletic director at East Carolina, was also unavailable, attending ECAC-South meetings in Richmond, Va.

Casey did make a statement through a staff member late this morning, however. "No decision has been reached, and I have no plans to discuss the East Carolina situation with anyone," he was quoted as saying.

Hackney said he had no idea what the timetable would be as far as State's officials coming to a con-

I would like to have contact with anyone who is using a "tens unit" — transcutaneous nerve stimulator. Jewelry Keyed To Lean Lines Of Springtime Fashions

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Senior Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The new ready-to-wear for women provides the perfect backdrop for spring and summer jewelry, says the Jewelers of America Inc.

Feminine clothes stress long, lean, uncluttered lines. And the plethora of unbelted chemise dresses, usually collarless, gives space for display of jewelry, whether real or costume.

Both the Jewelers of America, an information source for fine jewelry, and the Jewelry Industry Council, a trade group for both fine and costume, agreed the pearl girl will reign in the coming months. Pearls have been perennials as an accessory, but they're enjoying a massive new popularity.

Today, bead manufacturers can dye the costume pearls in an infinite variety of shades, from the natural through gold, assorted shades of blue and green, gunmetal and black.

A favorite combination in pearl necklaces, which go to all lengths from choker to the waistline and below, is black with white. The combination is striking with all the black and white in spring-summer fashions and the menswear looks. Pearls are a perfect foil for Chanel-like jacketed suits, which also are a good setting for assorted lengths of gold chains.

There also are multiple strands of pearls in bracelets and a favorite earring is the mabe pearl, a pearl grown against the inside shells of oysters instead of within the body. They're hemispherical in shape, and can be arranged to sit flatly against the ear.

Kae McCullough, fashion director for the Jewelry Industry Council, said in costume jewelry the new season brings something called hightech. This is represented by such items as a choker made of rubber tubing with metallic fastenings that form a design in the front. Watch also for use of woods, such as ash and ebony for beads.

Gemstones, once called semiprecious stones, "are not all that costly," Miss McCullough said. That is why their market is increasing.

These include tourmaline, agate, amber, carnelian, garnet, jade, jasper, lapis lazuli, opal, topaz, turquoise, garnet, malachite and rose quartz.

Gemstones are durable, and their wide variety of color makes them perfect for combination with each other, or with gold or silver, said Lisa Roman of the Jewelers of America.

In beads, you'll see them either carved or smooth, and some have a textured look.

In precious stones, the sapphire promises to be the big one of the year, Miss Roman said. Sapphires come in all the ranges of blue, from pale blue to almost blue-purple, and also in yellow.

Some jewelry designers are combining the blue and yellow in high style settings.

In bracelets, the wide cuff is the popular look. It's a bold look in gold or ivory, and some women are wearing bracelets in multiples. They also are stacking rings.

Big pins will appear with both daytime and evening clothes and Miss Roman said many jewelers are showing colored stone combinations in fantasy designs with animals, birds or flowers. Back, too, are bar pins and circular pins.

Since pearls are so big an item for spring, the developers have some suggestions on care. Don't expose pearls to acid-based hair sprays, cosmetics or perfumes. Don't clean them with chemicals on abrasives. Put on pearls after applying cosmetics, hair sprays, perfumes. Wash your pearls with mild soap and water after wearing, especially if they're cultured. Do have pearls restrung by your jeweler once a year. Cosmetics and ordinary wear weaken and stretch the nylon threads on which pearls are strung.

The same rule about using colognes and toiletries applies if you are wearing gemstones. Apply them on before you put on your jewelry.

Keep gemstone jewelry pieces separated when you put them away. Always put them on soft fabric.

Clean jewelry regularly. Ask your jeweler to recommend the proper cleaning method for particular stones. Also take your stones to your jeweler once a year. This annual checkup means a cleaning and a check that the stones are secure in their settings.

At Wits End

By Erna Bombeck

There's nothing wrong with American technology. When it comes to making our life easier, no one does it better. The problem is it is misguided.

Take the price tag they put on the window of a new car. There is nothing in this world that can remove that tag. You can torch it, soak it in acid, or take an electric sander to it, but that little sucker is there to stay for the life of the window.

There's a place for a sticker like that. In the United States post office on the back of stamps that drop off a letter when someone opens a door.

I have containers of medication equipped with caps so tight the disease could cure itself before you got them off. Those caps do not belong on a life-or-death container. They belong on my luggage, which cannot pass a carousel without throwing its lid back and exposing its contents to the entire world.

Why is it that technology hermetically seals a new comb inside of a wrapper and secures bread with only a twist and a little wire tied around it? New combs don't dry out and turn green when the air hits them. Bread does.

Aa long as I live, I will never understand the man who decided to put a see-through door in the oven. Who wants to see a cave layered with meals past? If they really want to serve mankind, why don't they put a see-through window in the refrigerator so the kids don't have to suffer a chill every three minutes?

Someone just isn't thinking. They put chains on picnic tables in public parks that would secure the Q.E. II at dock. Who do they think going to pick up a two-ton picnic table and throw it in the trunk of their car? On the other hand, that same chain on pencil by a telephone in your own home would probably save your sanity.

Sometimes I think we're in too big a hurry to put our knowhow into practice without considering where it would do the most good. Recently, a man took his first walk into space without being tethered. Consider the fact that there was nothing to see, no place to go, and not a single gift shop in sight. Big deal!

You hook that pack up to a housewife en route to a white sale or a parking space and now we're talking progress!

Reader Needs To Know Of Church's Position

DEAR ABBY: I sent for the Living Will from the Society for the Right to Die, because if I should ever get to the point in my life where I am terminally ill and there is positively no hope for my recovery, I do not want to be hooked to any machines that will keep my old heart beating for another miserable six months or so. What is the Catholic Church's position on this?

DEVOUT IN WINONA, WISC.

(She is 15, but could pass for 20 easily.) OK, let us say that the man was no stranger to this girl, they had gone on several dates and she willingly agreed to have sex with him. He didn't ask her how old she was because he thought she was of legal age, and remember, he didn't have to talk her into having sex with him.

Is the man guilty of statutory rape?

NO NAMES

DEAR DEVOUT: "When inevitable death is imminent in spite of the means used, it is permitted in conscience to make the decision to refuse forms of treatment that would only secure a precarious and burdensome prolongation of life, so long as the normal care due to the sick person in similar cases is not interrupted. In such circumstances the doctor has no reason to reproach himself with failing to help the person in danger."

"Life is a gift of God, and on the other hand death is unavoidable; it is necessary, therefore, that we, without in any way hastening the hour of death, should be able to accept it with full responsibility and dignity."

"It is true that death marks the end of our earthly existence, but at the same time, it opens the door to immortality."

Pope John Paul II approved this declaration in Rome on May 5, 1980.

Those who are interested in obtaining a Living Will should write to: The Society for the Right to Die, 250 W. 57th St., New York, N.Y. 10019. It is a non-profit organization, so please send a donation to cover the cost of the document and mailing.

I sent $10 for five living wills and it's the best $10 I ever spend. I've given one to my physician, clergyman, lawyer and members of my family.

DEAR NO NAMES: Whether or not the girl cooperated willingly makes no difference. Neither does whether or not the man knew the girl's age. A man who has sexual intercourse with a girl who is not of legal age is guilty of statutory rape.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: What if tomorrow as the prayer says, you should die before you wake? Will people near and dear to you find something in your drawer (at the office, perhaps?) that will shatter their illusions; fill their hearts with sorrow; tarnish their memories? Make a bonfire of the past. Toss in those letters and pictures, and be done with it. What was, was. Give your survivors a break.

(From Abby's Popularity booklet: "Good advice for people of all ages: Don't rush into an intimate relationship, regardless of how 'right' it may seem at the moment. To put it bluntly, that which is too easily acquired is seldom valued.")

To order Abby's booklet, "How to Be Popular — You're Never Too Young or Too Old," send $2 plus a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

DEAR ABBY: What if a man (over 21) has sexual intercourse with a girl who is legally underage?

Misguided Policy

Education Secretary Terrel H. Bell has joined the list of dissenters to many of the textbooks used in today's public schools. Bell, at a news conference in Washington, urged publishers to resist the move toward "the dumbing down of textbooks."

According to the secretary, publishers for the 22 states that have statewide textbook adoption procedures are being pressured "to meet 'readability formulas' and other requirements for short sentences and limited vocabulary." In other words, publishers are being asked to make their books suitable for students on the lower rung of achievement.

That's not surprising ... not when you realize teachers are being told to direct their instruction to the low-level learners, and to pace their work to those same students' progress; not when you realize students here in North Carolina must only reach a sixth grade level to pass the competency test required for graduation, and that many don't pass.

It's all part of the same misguided philosophy that brought along social promotions — that belief that little Johnny shouldn't be hurt psychologically because he either didn't or wouldn't study. If test scores and promotions were handled realistically, those so-called "competency tests" wouldn't have to be around.

Keep that philosophy going, in textbooks and in the report cards, and it will not be too many years before those "dumbed down" textbooks really will be needed.

Just Waiting

We never cease to be shocked at how hardened criminals can be returned to the streets.

In California a man who beat a Stanford man professor to death with a hammer was paroled after only 5½ years in jail.

A few hours later his parole was revoked for refusal to abide by release terms. Authorities said he would not sign release papers or accept $200 release money.

Publicly he had shown no remorse for the killing and was "non-committal" about whether he would kill again.

So the man will return to prison to serve out his sentence, but even then he can be out in a few years, presumably with no change in attitude. Society can only wait and see what his next move will be.

Trudeau Era

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the world of diplomacy, Pierre Trudeau was at least slightly irritating. He had ideas, made waves and insisted on being heard — unusual qualities for the leader of a country, Canada, that often walks softly on the world stage.

He arrived at last year's economic summit meeting in Williamsburg, Va., waving a planter's hat and wearing a red rose in his lapel, inevitably attracting the attention of television crews and photographers.

Those who wrote the script for President Reagan's summit should have expected as much from the Canadian prime minister. But they probably did not anticipate that he would spice up the proceedings with the advice that "we should be busting our asses for peace."

Word got to the world press, naturally, and for once reporters had something besides briefing blather to write about.

For the past four months Trudeau has been promoting a peace initiative that challenges NATO strategy and calls for an end to "megaphone diplomacy" between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Critics find in Trudeau's campaign a yearning for international prominence. They accuse him of formulating a vague amalgam of ideas. But they can't deny that he worked at it — traveling to Washington, Peking and Moscow in an effort to break the "ominous rhythm of crisis" between East and West.

Trudeau was largely ignored by opinion and policy makers. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger was attending a NATO meeting in Montebello while Trudeau was outlining his "third rail" plan in Guelph.

When reporters caught up with Weinberger to ask him what he thought of it, the Pentagon chief replied he was too busy with NATO matters to read accounts of the prime minister's speech.

Now, after 15 years on the job, Trudeau is getting out. The Liberal Party will pick a new leader in mid-June, who will take over as prime minister, pending elections in the fall.

Trudeau will retain his seat in Parliament, but his personal peace initiative probably will be collapsed. It's hard enough for a Canadian prime minister to get anyone's attention, even one who wears a red rose. It's impossible for a lone MP to conduct a successful crusade.

Trudeau argued that the superpowers were locked into hardened attitudes. He wanted the five nations with nuclear arms — the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China — to hold a disarmament meeting.

The prime minister discussed his ideas with Reagan in December and with Soviet leader Konstantin Chernenko last month at Yuri Andropov's funeral in Moscow. Reagan praised Trudeau for his "efforts to build a durable peace."

But it's hard to see any practical results, although Trudeau may have been instrumental in getting the NATO foreign ministers to attend the European disarmament conference in January in Stockholm, Sweden.

Also, Canada along with West Germany, played a leading role in persuading Reagan to take a conciliatory stand in the East-West troop reduction talks that reopen next (March 16) Friday in Vienna, Austria.

WASHINGTON — There is a saying that troubles often come in bunches, like grapes, and the saying applies regrettably these days to the bench and the bar. The legal profession is in trouble. It has problems both of performance and of public relations. They merit a look.

In his address last month to the American Bar Association, Chief Justice Burger dwelled upon familiar themes. He opened with a couple of statistics that go to the heart of the matter. American lawyers now number approximately 650,000. "It has been reported," said Burger, "that two-thirds of all the lawyers in the world are in the United States, and of those, one-third have come into practice in the past five years."

Given this remarkable level of immaturity and inexperience, it may be no wonder that problems have developed. We have too many lawyers for the amount of unavoidable litigation in prospect. It follows, therefore, that lawyers will churn avoidable litigation in order to make a living. From this economic need comes the frivolous lawsuit. Burger cited two examples — the parent who sues to get a child's school grade raised from a C to a B, and the football fan who sues to revise a referee's ruling on a disputed forward pass.

The relative inexperience of so much of the bar contributes to another problem the chief justice has addressed many times. Many lawyers plainly are not qualified for the specialized tasks they assume. As a newspaperman who has spent much of his life covering courts, I can testify that Burger's charge is well-founded. It is an embarrassing experience to watch an ill-prepared attorney present oral argument before the Supreme Court. All too often, as Burger said, inexperienced counsel will turn a one-day or two-day trial into a week-long trial. At least two criminal cases this term involve allegations of incompetent counsel.

Burger is of the old school. He finds it distasteful for lawyers publicly to advertise their availability. To some extent this advertising probably has contributed to the tides of litigation that are swamping our judicial system. Some of the advertising probably is as gauche as Burger's fictional examples; and though only about 10 percent of all lawyers advertise, the overall image has been damaged.

The law's procedures for self-discipline contribute to the problem. Burger touched upon this, too. There is growing public opinion, he said, that the legal profession "is lax in dealing with the incompetent lawyer or the errant and dishonest lawyer."

Except for one fleeting reference, Burger did not touch the matter of the errant and incompetent judge. This aspect of the problem should not be ignored. Down in Texas last summer, a woman wrote a letter to a judge complaining that her two sons were being railroaded through his court. The judge ordered her to apologize in court for her temerity, and then sentenced her to 30 days in jail for contempt. The incident led to a hearing before the Texas Commission on Judicial Conduct, but characteristically the hearing was held behind locked doors and the commission's "appropriate action" was kept secret.

Judges have a responsibility, said Burger, to ride herd on lawyers who abuse the judicial process. He urged judges to take these responsibilities more seriously and to punish lawyers who litigate in bad faith. A few $5,000 or $10,000 penalties "will help focus attention" on the matter. He also suggested that costs and fees be imposed upon a plaintiff who brings a frivolous suit.

All this is bad news. The good news is that in many states constructive efforts are indeed being made to reduce the costs, the delays and the volume of adversarial litigation. The progress is slow, for the law moves slowly, but progress clearly is being made. And perhaps we should not read too much — or too much that is new — in Burger's castigation. The chief justice began by recalling an address by Roscoe Pound in 1906. The topic: "The Causes of Popular Dissatisfaction with the Administration of Justice." The more things change, the more they stay the same.

Strength For Today

Have you ever tried for several minutes to unlock a door, and then find to your disgust that you have been using the wrong key?

We waste a lot of time trying to open doors with the wrong keys. Many people, attempting to open the door which leads to happiness, try first the money key, then the popularity key. They use the indulgence key and the liquor key. But the door doesn't open.

Other people around them seem to be opening their doors with one or another of these keys. That is, from a distance they appear to be doing so. But a close examination will show that they are meeting with no success.

What are the keys that really open the doors to contentment, happiness and health? One of these is diligence. Two others are self-control and thoughtfulness. Knowledge is a wonderful key, but the greatest of all is faith. All people can have it, and using it enter into the eternal.

—Robert Olds—

A Little Here And There

I can just see it. It might be two weeks. It might be two months. But it's going to happen. You're going to read something I wrote and you're going to put down the paper and look up and say, "Who is this guy?"

And you won't know. You won't know because you didn't read this, my very first column in the Daily Reflector. Indulge me, then, while I tell you about myself.

I'm a psychiatrist, but I'm not the sort to whom you cannot tell a good shrink joke now and then. I will admit, though, that I prefer lawyer jokes.

I was almost through medical school at Ohio State when I read a line of Mark Twain: "Never do for a job what you really like lest it become a job." Lucky for me I was becoming a doctor instead of a relief pitcher for the Cleveland Indians. Right then I decided that psychiatry was for me, despite novelist Graham Greene's warning in "The Heart of the Matter": "Only fools and drunks believe that one man can understand another or help him with his problems." The main character said it. The poor guy worked for the government.

Since I drink only moderately, you can see what that makes me.

Neither do I smoke. A friend in Tallahassee, Florida, where I just moved from, says it's against the law in North Carolina not to smoke. That's not true, is it? Is it?

I stay in shape by chasing women at least four times a week for a period of not less than 30 minutes, during which I monitor my pulse to make sure it's 70 percent of the maximum rate. I avoid dates, however, as they stick to the roof of my mouth.

Otherwise, I mostly do a lot of functioning, in order to please the social workers.

Fool that I am, I believe that I'm no worse off than anyone else, which is why we are all sort of ... well ... funny. At least that's what I think. That's what I write mostly. Humor. I just thought I'd let you know that, in case you find yourself laughing at something I wrote, that that's what I write. Humor.

Ahem. Well, I've still got a lot of unpacking to do and then I've got to find somebody who knows something about heat pumps. Mine won't, pump, that is.

As I write, the mercury in my thermometer is all curled up in such a small space that it is barely peeking out of the bulb. I tried to plant a postbox out by the curb and encountered what must have been permafrost. While retreating indoors, I saw my neighbor lounging in his chaise and asked if the weather was typical.

"No," he said, removing his sunglasses to get a better look at me, "sometimes it gets a little nasty." Like I said, I came from Florida.

This is not going to be a column, though, where I talk about the weather, even though I just did. No, I'm not going to waste any time here. In the coming weeks, you can expect me to attack certain Blakean assumptions concerning the incorruptibility of children, and their liberal progeny, the notion of the essential goodness of mankind.

I'm not sure how I'm going to do that yet. Maybe I'll interview a Jedi knight and get him to talk about the dark side.

Watch this space, then. No, not constantly. You'll strain your eyes. And when you finally look at something else, you'll get this afterimage where everything you see has newsprint on top of it.

Wait. I know. I saw it in Cosmopolitan. They asked a lot of women who they would like to have dinner with. (I know it's "whom they would like to have dinner with," but who wants to have dinner with a whom?) If they asked me, I would say Ray Charles and William F. Buckley. There. That ought to tell you something.

What they were talking about, see, was not your romantic candlelight dinner in a fancy French place, but ... Oh, never mind.

—Tom Raum—

Keeping Minds On The Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress may be trying to keep their minds on their jobs but their eyes seem to be only on the presidential campaigns now under way.

Senate rules forbid election campaigning on the Senate floor, but that didn't keep Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., from parading around the chamber the other day with a campaign bumper sticker. It said: "Honk if Walter Mondale promised you anything."

Senate Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, held a news conference recently to announce his support for Mondale. He was asked to comment on speculation that he might be considered for the vice presidential slot on the Democratic ticket under Mondale.

"I am not a candidate for the vice president and I do not expect to be," Wright retorted. "If a genie came out of a bottle and gave me a choice between being vice president and (House) speaker, I would choose to be speaker under normal circumstances."

Meanwhile, Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., who has made no secret of his interest in seeking the Republican presidential nomination — in 1988 — was asked about reports that he was being viewed as a likely candidate for secretary of state in a second Reagan administration.

Baker said he wouldn't want the post.

"There are but two jobs in this city that I'd like to have and I already have one of them," he said.

Later, while addressing the Senate during a debate on school prayer, Baker noted that many senators would probably be absent today, March 13, because of primaries in their states. In fact, in addition to state races, today has been dubbed "Super Tuesday" because of Democratic presidential primaries and caucuses in eight states.

"It may be that we all should engage in a little prayer that day," Baker said.

"The minority leader (Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va.) points out that there may be people on that Tuesday who want and need prayer more than we will. But that is probably further than a Republican ought to go in a Democratic situation," he added.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz got into an animated discussion the other day with Rep. Clarence Long, D-Md., on party politics and federal deficits.

Shultz said that he had been told that there was only one major difference between Democrats and Republicans on spending: "the Democrats enjoy it more."

Long: "Well, maybe deficits are a little like sex..."

Ayden Bd. Tentatively OKs Land Purchase

By MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

The Ayden Board of Commissioners has tentatively authorized the purchase of property on East Avenue that officials say will be used for town vehicle parking and a town garage.

The property, located at 320 East Ave., will cost the town $34,000. Included in the price is an existing 4,000-square-foot metal building and over an acre of land.

"For quite a while we have had a critical need for a place to park town vehicles and town trucks and for expanded garage facilities," said

Town Manager Don Russell. "We think this property will fill this need and we are happy to have negotiated the purchase."

The property, located near the Ayden Town Hall, formerly housed a fertilizer dealership, Russell said.

Authorization of the purchase will not be complete until a title search on the property is finished. The tentative authorization was made at the town board's monthly meeting Monday.

Board members also discussed the issue of transfer truck parking in the town, but no action was taken because the board and Police Chief Tommy Burney said they felt more time was needed to study the situation. Complaints about trucks parking in residential areas, allegedly creating noise and damaging streets, spurred the study.

Currently, Burney noted, the town's ordinance allows transfer truck parking only on portions of East and West avenues and Third Street for a period of six hours only.

This ordinance does not apply to trucks loading and unloading.

The board agreed drivers required to drive trucks home need a place to park these vehicles overnight.

The board established a Beautification and Tree Committee composed of Town Manager Don Russell, Commissioner Sue Moody, the town's public works director and three members of the Ayden Home and Garden Club. The committee, proposed by the Ayden Home and Garden Club, will control trimming of trees and shrubs on public and park property and regulate new planting. The committee's first target areas, according to the proposal read by Home and Garden Club member Linda Stanfield, are the Ayden Elementary property and the town park.

In other business:

•James Wagstaff was approved as chief of the Ayden Fire Department. Wagstaff, along with assistant fire chief Jeff Tripp and secretary-treasurer Ed Skinner, were elected recently by the fire department.

•Commissioners approved a plan that would include the $3 town tag license fees on individual tax bills.

•A check meter will only be installed on a resident's electrical meter every six months, members voted. If the check is requested more frequently, the resident must pay a deposit that will be refunded if his meter is found to be inaccurate.

•Town Manager Russell reported that the town's task force on utilization of the old Ayden Middle School property is currently preparing data on renovation cost of the facility and use of the property. Russell predicted the task force, which meets again March 29, will have a recommendation for the board in April.

•Russell also reported the town's electrical bill for February was $212,209, down from January's record bill. Ayden customers used 3.9 million kilowatts of electricity in February, Russell noted, and the load peaked Feb. 8 at 8 a.m.

•Estimates place the first-quarter revenue from the half-cent sales tax for Ayden at $30,000, Russell reported. The town had originally anticipated around $16,000 in first-quarter revenues.

Grant Extension On Street Work

By TOMMY FORREST
Reflector Staff Writer

WINTERVILLE — Winterville aldermen Monday night granted Barrus Construction Co. an extension on street work, moving the scheduled completion date to May 15.

According to John Robertson of Talbert, Cox Associates, the project had been scheduled for completion Monday. He said it had been delayed by inclement weather.

The street work is to be performed on Hammond and Myrtle streets.

In other business, Police Chief Keith Knox asked the board to approve a mutual aid agreement between area police departments. Knox said this would allow officers to assist other towns and still be covered under workmen's compensation benefits. The board approved the resolution to adopt the plan.

John Robertson also reported bids were opened Monday afternoon for three houses in the Community Development Block Grant area. Bids received were for renovation on the James Patrick house, Valley Cox home and the Elias Washington house. Low bidder for the Patrick house was Allgood Builders with a low bid of $13,800, low bid on the Washington house was Allgood Roofing with a low bid of $13,210, and the lowest bid on the Cox house was Allgood Roofing, $9,495, which was not in the bid range estimated by Talbert, Cox Associates. The board approved the bid on the Patrick and Washington houses and tabled the bid on the Cox house for further evaluation and a possible rebid.

Robertson also asked the board's approval of a budget amendment of the Community Block grant budget. The $11,000 amendment was passed by the board.

Knox also reported that citizens were being warned of not having town stickers displayed and that approximately 300 owners had not purchased the stickers. Knox said there may be a need for a road check of cars and that warning tickets will be issued.

Engineer Linwood Stroud reported to the board on the Sylvania Street project, saying it may be some time before the state can proceed with the paving, but it would need curb and gutter.

Linda Gaylord questioned the board as to what was being done to enforce the dog leash law. Ms. Gaylord told the board her son was bitten by a dog that had followed a traveler from Ayden. Knox explained a warrant could be issued for the dog owner if the dog was identified and was in another resident's yard. Knox said the area would be checked and the leash law would be enforced. Knox also pointed out traps were available to residents to trap strays.

J.H. Weatherington asked the board if the town would supply labor for the installation of tile on his property. The board tabled the request until the property could be examined.

Board members also heard a

Assault...

After the car was stopped, Mrs. Gwin said an officer "kicked a window out of my car," while another "stood on the hood with a gun pointed at these kids."

When Gwin got out of the car, his mother said, officers "kept beating him and telling him he was driving. James said three or four (officers) was beating him." But, Mrs. Gwin said, Evans "was the main one."

Mrs. Gwin said, "We talked to Evans after James was beaten. He was so nice about it ... said it was uncalled for." That was before the family learned of his alleged involvement, she said.

Gwin's father, James C. Gwin, who appeared before a magistrate with his son Monday, said last week that the family was not interested in charging "any of the other officers. We're just going to charge one of them ... the deputy."

District Attorney Tom Haigwood, who requested the State Bureau of Investigation to investigate the alleged beating, said two weeks ago that charges would be sought in the case if the Gwins chose to prosecute.

In addition to young Gwin and his father, an SBI agent testified before the magistrate before the warrant charging Evans with assault was issued.

The case is tentatively scheduled to be heard in District Court on April 11.

Three Arraigned In 1978 Slaying

WAYNESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Three people charged with murder in the 1978 shooting death of Waynesville security guard Willard R. Setzer were arraigned Monday before District Court Judge John J. Snow.

Attorneys were appointed for Mitchell John Pakulski, Donna Leigh Rowe Porietis and Elliot Rowe III, all of Toledo, Ohio. They are scheduled for trial during the April 16 term of Haywood County Superior Court. All are charged with first-degree murder and numerous other counts, including breaking and entering and forgery.

All three told the court they are unemployed and cannot afford lawyers.

Setzer's body was found in a Waynesville doctor's office. He had been shot in the head with his own revolver, his body was draped in an American flag and his car was missing.

The three began fighting extradition soon after their arrests in November and December 1978. After complicated legal maneuverings, the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati ordered them Thursday into the immediate custody of North Carolina officials. The order ended a five-year struggle by North Carolina officials to bring the trio back to Haywood County.

Snow said his court had no jurisdiction to set bond for them, but if it had, he would not allow bond.

Wachovia IRA

Wachovia is still your best choice for an Individual Retirement Account.

Here's why.

There's one thing nearly all financial experts agree on: An IRA is one of the best tax-deferred retirement plans you can have. Here are five good reasons to have yours at Wachovia.

1. Money market rates. All Wachovia IRA investments earn top money market rates, compounded daily for higher annual yields. And there are no investment fees to reduce your yield. Compare with the rates being paid anywhere.

Example: Current rate and yield on Wachovia IRA invested in a 4-year, fixed-rate deposit (subject to change daily).

|---|------------------------|---------|--------------|
| 10.50% | Annual Percentage Rate | 11.069% | Annual Yield |
| Other variable-rate and fixed-rate options are available. For the current rate, call a Personal Banker. | | | |

2. No minimum deposit. At Wachovia, you can open or add to your IRA in any amount. The maximum, by law, is $2,000 per year for every wage earner, or $4,000 for a working couple. But at Wachovia you don't have to deposit that much to get tax benefits and start saving for your retirement.

3. Multiple investment options. Wachovia offers a wide range of fixed-rate investments with guaranteed rates, at terms from three months to four years. And our variable-rate investment, the Accumulator, has no minimum and no required term: That means you can deposit any amount anytime, and you can automatically transfer funds to fixed-rate investments as often as you like without paying interest penalties. You'll receive a periodic statement showing all activity on your account.

4. Insured safety. Every Wachovia depositor's funds are insured up to $100,000 by F.D.I.C. And no matter how far away your retirement may be, you know Wachovia will still be here.

5. Your own Personal Banker. Only Wachovia gives you the services of your own Personal Banker, who can explain all the investment options in detail and help you decide which ones are right for you.

Add up the advantages, and you'll see — there's no better place for your IRA than Wachovia. Talk to a Personal Banker right away.

You can save on your 1983 taxes if you deposit before April 15.

Faircloth...

Carolina has caused the state to be "the number one producer of pharmaceuticals in the world... the largest producer in the nation of beauty aids," and has given the state "the most modern engine plant in the world," in Cummins Diesel at Whitakers, according to Faircloth.

In the past four years, Faircloth said, industrial development east of I-95 has exceeded development in the entire state of Virginia.

Because "high tech industry is here and now," Faircloth said the state needs to "improve the educational systems, starting with primary and secondary schools."

"In the past seven years," according to Faircloth, financial support for primary and secondary education has eroded. Now, 41 percent of the state's money goes for public school education, while seven years ago, he said, 67 percent was spent on primary and secondary education.

One of the main ways to improve education, Faircloth suggested, is to have good teachers.

"Teachers are what make a school system work. They are the meaning and grass roots of education. You get good teachers in the classroom by paying them. Salaries must be competitive with industry," Faircloth emphasized.

"We need to teach our young people to read, write, do math," so they can find jobs. "We need to continue to maintain the university system and the community college system and have the finest education for the 70 percent of our young people who don't go beyond high school."

While "we need new money in primary and secondary education," Faircloth said, "the nice thing about it is that we can afford it. We don't have to raise taxes to do it."

"Government is growing faster than the economy. In the past 20 years, government has grown faster than the private sector. It is time to stop the growth of the bureaucracy in-state government, and I intend to stop it."

Stop the growth, Faircloth said, and more money will be available to provide services to the people.

"The number of state employees will not increase," Faircloth said, if he is elected governor. "If we start a new program, we'll close an old one down. We'll stop the bureaucracy. We will live with what we have."

According to Faircloth, the Legislature, when it meets in June, will have $260 million in surplus funds, "because of the growth of the economy. By January 1985, Faircloth said, the General Assembly will have another $300 million in surplus."

"We've got the money" to raise salaries of teachers and state employees and improve services, he said, "if we spend it properly" and don't add new programs.

"We don't need a tax increase," Faircloth said. "It's incumbent on us to spend that money as wisely" as the person paying taxes "would have spent it... spend that tax dollar as wisely and carefully as you would spend it."

"A 5 percent savings in state government, according to Faircloth, would mean $300 million "in extra money."

Although North Carolina has enjoyed "spectacular growth" in the past six years, Faircloth said, "We've just scratched the surface. There is room to grow in agriculture, industry, tourism."

"It is time we start saving the tobacco program. It is too important to this state," he said. But "every job today requires more education that it did five, eight or 10 years ago."

Talking about his campaign, Faircloth said, "This race is ceasing to be a popularity contest." The question now, the candidate said, is "who can best run a $17 million a day business."

"I'm confident we can bring a business-like approach to state government," and "I promise you I will see that the money is spent wisely."

"It's an exciting time to be here. We are tied for first place" in the race for governor, Faircloth said. "We have the momentum and we are moving."

In addition to his speaking engagements, Faircloth Monday afternoon toured Procter & Gamble Paper Products' Greenville plant and spoke to a number of employees.

Following the tour of the plant that opened 10 years ago, Faircloth told reporters, "This is what I was talking about earlier. This is high tech industry. I don't know of a better indication of what we were talking about earlier than what you see right here."

"We need more people trained in this kind of subject," and "the work-place is going to determine the quality of school teachers we need."

"They pay more at Procter and Gamble" than many teachers make, Faircloth said.

Using Lie Detector

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Bureau of Investigation has begun administering lie detector tests to some employees of the North Carolina Division of Motor Vehicles in hopes of finding out who stole the non-public driving record of gubernatorial candidate D.M. "Lauch" Faircloth.

Initially, the lie detector test will be administered to the nine or 10 employees in the medical review unit, said R.W. Wilkins, commissioner of motor vehicles.

"They've all agreed to take it. I think they (SBI agents) are going to try to get two or three a day, or that's what I was told," Wilkins said on Monday. He said he decided last week to ask employees to take a lie detector test.

The record of Faircloth, a Democrat and former state commerce secretary, was taken from a computer terminal in the medical review unit of the DMV's driver license section and mailed to people across the state, apparently by a supporter of one of Faircloth's political opponents.

Wilkins said that about 20 other DMV employees had access to the computer terminal from which Faircloth's record was copied.

"We'll start on those next, if we don't have some positive proof that we feel like we know who it is," he said.

Wilkins said any employee who refused to take the test would not be fired or penalized, but he said he did not tell the workers that when he asked them to take the test.

The DMV maintains two types of driving records of motorists licensed in the state. One of those records is public and can be bought from the DMV for $4. The non-public record is more detailed and might, for example, include medical information relating to a person's ability to drive. Faircloth's public driving record shows he's been convicted of 32 traffic violations, mostly for speeding, in the last 28 years.

Wilkins asked for the SBI investigation last week after learning that the non-public record had been circulated.

"There's a law against stealing," he said. "They stole that driver record."

Mild Rebukes For Documents Snafu

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three State Department employees have been given mild rebukes for their role in the mistaken delivery of top secret government documents to a prison last year, while a probe continues into possible damage to the nation's security.

John Hughes, the State Department spokesman, said Monday that two employees were given letters of reprimand, while the third was verbally rebuked. He declined to reveal their names.

The documents were discovered in the possession of inmates at Lorton Reformatory in northern Virginia last November. The papers were in a filing cabinet that was taken by mistake from the State Department in July and sent to the prison along with surplus office equipment.

Although four months had elapsed from the time the documents were taken until they were discovered at Lorton, they were never reported missing. They included Secretary of State George P. Shultz's daily briefing papers from January 1 through March 23 of last year and two other files containing other classified material.

Several surplus memory typewriters containing classified information also were discovered at the prison in the subsequent investigation.

Hughes said a State Department investigation "revealed certain procedural weaknesses, not attributable to any one individual, which contributed to the unfortunate handling of the missing documents."

Another senior department official said a separate FBI national security damage assessment, focusing on what happened to the documents at the prison itself, was still under way. He said that probe is aimed at learning "the extent of exposure and possible damage to security."

"We still don't know the prospects of the information getting beyond the inmate who reported it," said the official, who briefed reporters on the understanding he remain anonymous. He said results of the FBI probe won't be made public.

The official said Shultz had approved the relatively mild disciplinary action. He said the main reason the rebukes weren't more harsh was that the breakdown in security was considered "a collective responsibility" and that the "historical system has to share the blame for what occurred."

He said the letters of reprimand would be removed from the files of the two employees after a year, barring any further problems.

The senior official said dozens of recommendations to tighten security procedures had emerged during the investigation and were being implemented.

Among them, he said, are ways to keep employees more aware of security procedures: "A jolt is sometimes required to bring people to focus attention."

A State Department report in January said that although the person who had primary responsibility for the documents discovered them missing soon after the filing cabinet was taken away, "no formal report of loss was made" and a comprehensive search was never conducted.

"The safeguards concerning document control and surplus property were not adequately observed," the report said.

Trial Delayed By 'Fight' Injuries

BEAUFORT, N.C. (AP) — The trial of two Garner men charged in the 1982 death of a Morehead City woman was delayed Monday because of injuries suffered by one of the defendants in a weekend fight.

Public Defender Henry Boshamer told Superior Court Judge James R. Strickland that defendant Terry Lee Moore, 19, suffered a broken jaw and cheekbone Friday during a fight with a relative. Boshamer said Moore was scheduled to undergo surgery Tuesday at N.C. Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill.

After talking with Moore's doctor, District Attorney David McFadyen agreed to ask Strickland to postpone the trial until April 16.

Moore is charged with first-degree murder in the death of Angela Willis Ballard, 23. Her nude and battered body was found July 9, 1982, by two boys playing in a sand dune on Atlantic Beach.

Lee Dwight Johnson, 19, is charged with being an accessory after the fact.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 57.75 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pound birds. The final weighted average was 59 cents f.o.b. dock or equivalent. The market is generally steady and the live supply is light to moderate for a moderate to good demand. Average weights desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Tuesday was 1,777,000, compared to 1,633,000 last Tuesday.

Hens

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was steady. Supplies adequate. Demand moderate. Prices paid per pound for hens over 7 pounds at farm for Monday and Tuesday slaughter was 32 cents.

Grain

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — No. 2 yellow shelled corn slightly lower at mostly 3.73 to 3.84 in the East and to mostly 3.88 to 3.91 in the Piedmont. No. 1 soybeans lower at 7.86 to 8.10 in the East and mostly 7.79 to 7.95 in the Piedmont. Wheat mostly 3.49 to 3.50. New crop — corn 2.79 to 3.03. New crop — soybeans 6.90 to 7.15. New crop — wheat 3.02 to 3.33.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market jumped today, in what analysts called a follow-through from Monday's rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 12.67 to 1168.03 by noontime.

Gainers among New York Stock Exchange listed issues outpaced losers almost 3-1. Blue chip, retail and electronic stocks were prominent among the earlier gainers.

In Monday's rally, when the Dow Jones average climbed 15.60 to 1,155.36, bargain-conscious traders were doing some buying with the market near its lowest levels since last spring, analysts said.

In this morning's economic news, the Commerce Department reported that retail sales were down 0.2 percent in February, the first drop in six months.

The department said the decline was not surprising, given the strong 3.3 percent monthly gain in January — the highest since May 1975 when sales jumped 4 percent.

February's retail sales totaled $106 billion, up 16.3 percent from February 1983. All figures are seasonally adjusted.

Despite the decline in sales, Sears Roebuck rose 3/8, to 34 3/8, K mart rose 1/4 to 31 1/4, J.C. Penney rose 1/4 to 53 1/4, and Woolworth rose 1/8 to 33 1/4. Both Federated Department Stores and Associated Dry Goods rose 1/4 to 50 1/4 and 55, respectively.

Today's volume leaders included Gulf, down 1 1/4 to 65; AT&T, unchanged at 17 1/4; Dresser Industries, up 1 to 20 1/4; Sony, up 3/8 to 16 3/4; and IBM, up 1 1/4 to 111 1/2.

clusion on the recommendation of the athletic council.

"As an individual, I favor the continuation of the series," Hackney said. "It's been good for both schools. I have expressed this opinion to both the chancellor and the athletic director."

Hackney said that many East Carolina people are under the false impression that N.C. State "makes a mint" out of the game between the two schools. "This is not true," he said. "In fact, State makes less from this game than it does with any other Division I-A school."

While details of the contracts have not been made public, it is believed that after the expenses of running the game are met, the two schools divide equally the remaining income, including television money, if any. Hackney said that was his impression of the contracts' terms.

Three Arrested In Bid-Rigging

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Two North Carolina Department of Transportation officials and a contractor were arrested Monday and taken before a U.S. magistrate following their indictments Friday by a federal grand jury on big-rigging charges.

Edward Hume Paschall, a retired resident engineer from Black Mountain; William Albert Ricker, a maintenance crew chief from Mars Hill; and Baxter A. Taylor, president of Asheville Contracting Co., each posted $2,500 unsecured bond.

Magistrate Toliver Davis explained the charges to the men and set their arraignment for Thursday.

Paschall is charged with three counts of extortion to affect commerce and faces a maximum of 60 years in prison and $300,000 fines. Ricker is charged with two counts of extortion to affect commerce and faces 40 years and $20,000. A spokesman for the DOT said Monday that Ricker had been suspended without pay.

Taylor is charged with three counts of mail fraud, one count of conspiracy and one count of violation of the anti-trust act. He faces 23 years in prison and $113,000 in fines.

and I cannot agree with that. There are only two bases for such a statement, prestige and financial. I don't think either team gains any more prestige from the game than the other, and ECU certainly gains more financially."

Hackney said also that two Atlantic Coast Conference moves may weigh on the eventual State decision. "We're now an eight-team conference instead of a seven-team league and that reduces the flexibility of the schedule. And the ACC is putting pressure on all its schools to play only opponents whose academic standards are as high as ours. While I can't cite ECU's academic status, I do know that the average SAT scores in the ACC are between 1,020 and 1,200."

The series between the two schools began in 1970 and games have been played each year since then. State holds a 4-10 advantage in the series, although East Carolina won this past year.

East Carolina has also had series with the other members of the "Big Four," but they, too, have been dropped. Wake Forest played the Pirates twice, the last time in 1979, each winning one game. Like State, Wake had agreed verbally to several other games, but dropped them.

Duke played four games with ECU, the last in 1981, and has since declined to reschedule the Pirates. The two teams split the series, 2-2.

North Carolina played the Pirates eight times from 1972-81, winning all but two as ECU won one and one ended in a tie. Carolina then said that it was its policy to play no other North Carolina schools except those within the conference.

The State series has been one of the state's most attractive, setting several stadium records in Raleigh's Carter-Finley Stadium. A number of the games dot the top 10 crowds in the stadium.

than my opponents."

Green said he wants to attract new industry to eastern North Carolina. "I'd like to see any type of industry move into the state, as long as it doesn't pollute the land and water," he said.

He said that improving education can help business.

"The keystone of our democracy is education," Green said. "I want the best of educational opportunities for our people. That means improving the school system. Community colleges and universities are also important. Industry goes where people are well trained and then the industry expands."

Green cited other issues in the campaign as the underprivileged, the mentally ill and the environment.

Wells Blasts Pirates Past Fairfield

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

David Wells slammed two home runs to account for all five runs as East Carolina rolled up a 5-2 win in the second game of a baseball doubleheader against Fairfield Monday afternoon.

Fairfield took advantage of four Pirate errors in the second inning to score five unearned runs and gain a 6-4 victory in the opening contest.

The second game seemed to be in doubt when Fairfield, trailing 3-1, scored on three straight hits in the second game's sixth inning and chased starter Chubby Butler.

But Jimbo Peterson came on with none out and struck out the next two batters. Then, after walking the bases full, he got the final out on a fly ball to get out of the jam. He then cut down the Stags on three straight outs in the seventh to earn the save.

"That was the best relief job I've seen in a long time," Pirate Coach Hal Baird said. "And other than that one inning where we forgot how to catch and throw the ball, it was an fine pair of college baseball games."

Both coaches agreed that in general, it was a good day for the pitchers.

Bob Davidson, who had a rocky sophomore season, took the loss in the opener, despite giving up no earned runs and just two hits before giving way to Tom Webb in the fourth. Butler, who evened his record at 1-1 with the second game's win, got into trouble several times, but pitched out of it until the sixth.

The first game was decided in the second inning when Fairfield got only one hit but used four Pirate errors to score five runs. Mark Portanova went all the way to second when Steve Sides threw the ball away at first. Joe Charno followed with a single and advanced to second on a wild pitch. T.J. Paoletta grounded back to short and Charno was cut down at third as Portanova scored. John LaPoint then walked and Ken McGovern's grounder back to the mound was thrown away by Davidson, scoring Paoletta. Tom Reardon reached on an error when his pop fly was dropped by Wells and John Martin's grounder to short got Reardon while scoring LaPoint.

With runners at the corners, a double steal scored McGovern and Martin moved on to third when the relay home by Greg Hardison sailed to the screen. He then scored on another Davidson wild pitch.

The other Stag run came in the fifth off Webb. Joseph Mancini led off with a single to center, stealing second. He scored on Paoletta's single to center.

East Carolina scored once in the third as Hardison tripled and scored on a single by Todd Evans.

A second ECU run crossed in the sixth. Mike Sullivan walked and moved up on an out. He scored on Mike Williams' double.

Then, in the bottom of the seventh, the Pirates just missed a winning rally. With one away, Evans singled and Winfred Johnson walked. Wells doubled in Evans and Mike Sullivan walked to load them up. Williams' sacrifice fly brought in pinch-runner Mark Shank, and Chris Bradberry walked, reloading the bases.

Pinch-hitter Mark Cockrell then lofted a fly into short right that LaPoint just got to on a diving catch, preserving the victory.

Paoletta had two hits for Fairfield, while Evans had two for the Pirates.

East Carolina got all it needed in the first as Wells banged out his first homer, scoring three runs. With two away, Evans singled and Johnson walked. Wells then sent the ball over the fence in left for a 3-0 lead.

Fairfield, which left runners in scoring position in the first, second, and third, got its first run in the fourth. That came on a two-out homer by Tom Reardon to left.

The Stags closed the gap to one, 3-2, in the sixth and threatened to pull it out. Paoletta opened with a single and Joe Charno got a hit to right. Chris Tiso then doubled to right, driving in Paoletta.

That brought on Peterson, who fanned the next two batters before walki John Martin. But pinch-hitter Mike Della Vecchia fly to left, ending the threat.

Wells then provided the Pirates with a couple of insurance runs in the bottom of the sixth. Johnson doubled to center and Wells sent the ball out of the park in left again, making it 5-2.

Wells' two hits led the Pirates, while Mancini had a pair for the Stags.

East Carolina climbs to 5-3 with the split, while Fairfield drops to 1-2.

Weather permitting, the Pirates were to host Fairfield again today at 3 p.m., then entertain ECAC-South rival George Mason in a pair of games on Wednesday and Thursday.

Jordan Named ACC Best

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Michael Jordan, who led top-ranked North Carolina to the No. 1 seed in the East Regional of the NCAA Basketball Tournament, has been named the Atlantic Coast Conference player of the year by the Atlantic Coast Sportswriters Association.

The 6-foot-6 junior from Wilmington received 113 of the 130 votes cast by the ACSWA. North Carolina senior forward Sam Perkins was second with 15 votes while North Carolina State forward Lorenzo Charles picked up two votes.

Jordan averaged 19.6 points to lead the ACC in scoring while also hitting 55 percent of his field goals and 79 percent of his free throws. Jordan also had 63 assists, 62 steals and 33 blocked shots.

"Michael Jordan is a player who excels on the offensive end and defensive end as well," North Carolina coach Dean Smith said. "He has been outstanding offensively since conference play began, and he's been great defensively all year."

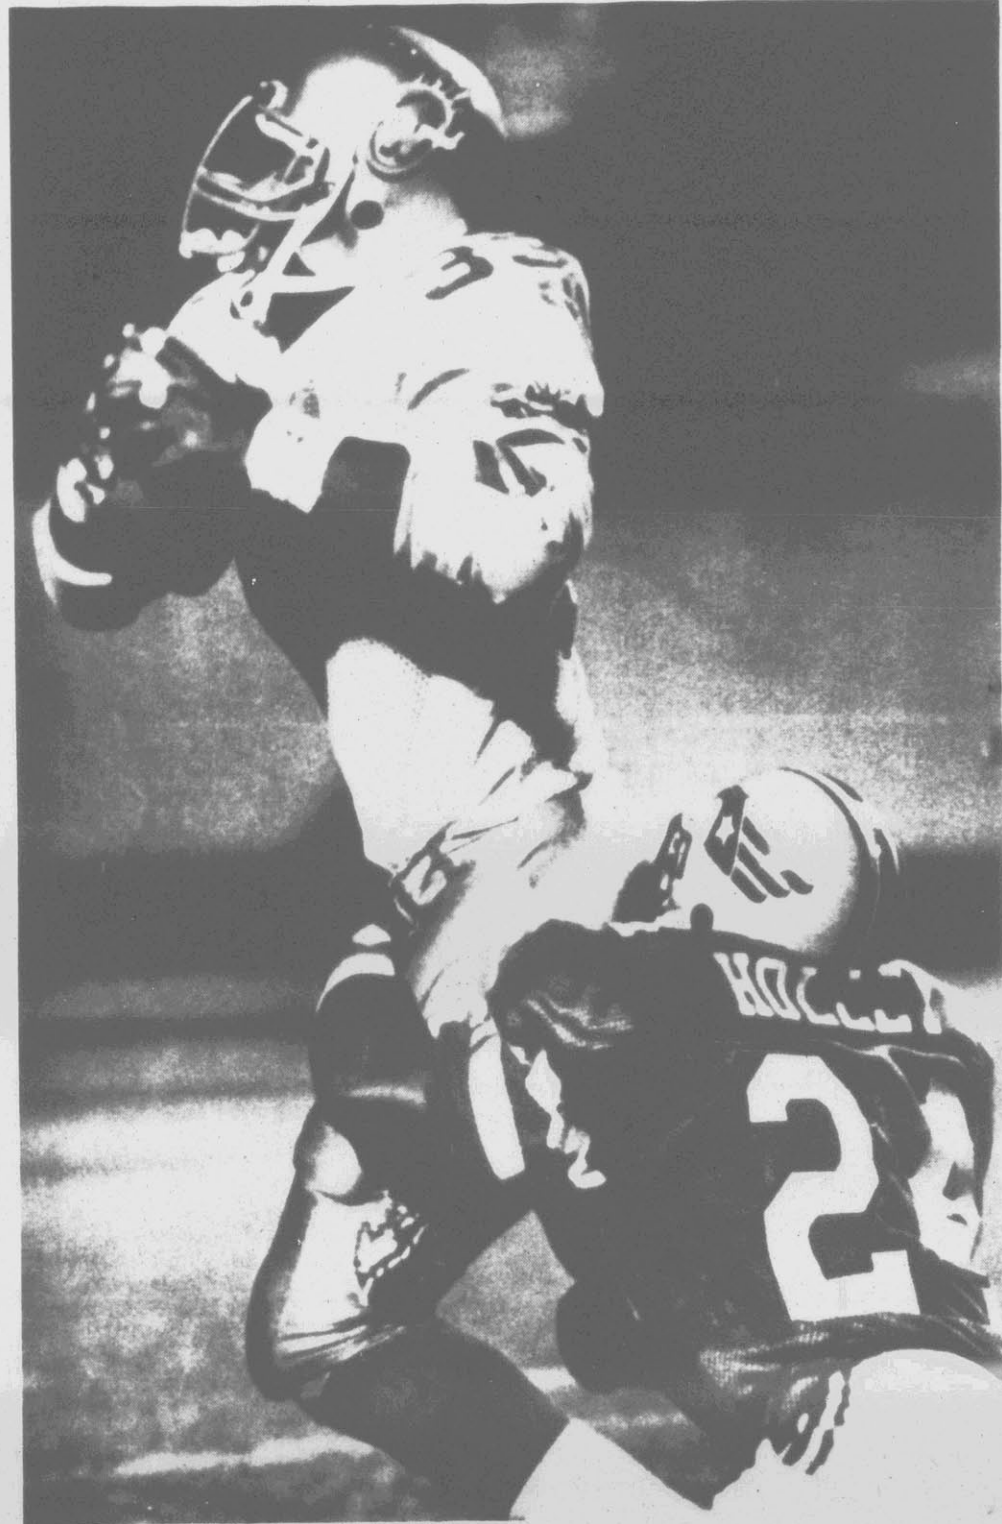

Jordan has been named ACC player of the year by The Associated Press and has won the Wooden Award, given annually to the nation's best collegiate basketball player.

Behind Jordan, the Tar Heels became only the sixth team in league history to go through the ACC regular-season unbeaten with a 14-0 mark. The Tar Heels lost to Duke in the semifinals of the ACC tournament.

Smith said that he would "have been very happy if either Michael or Sam Perkins had won this award."

"I'm pleased the player of the year came from the regular-season champion," he added. "I hope that's the way it continues. Basketball is a team game and the player of the year should come from the team which does the best in conference games."

The Tar Heels, 27-2, have an opening-round bye in the NCAA tournament and will play the winner of Thursday night's Temple-St. John's game on Saturday in Charlotte.

'Basics' Lift Arizona Over Federals, 37-7

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Veteran quarterback Greg Landry, upset with his play-calling in the Arizona Wranglers' first two United States Football League games, says he reverted "back to the basics" against the Washington Federals.

On Monday night, the 37-year-old Landry threw three touchdown passes — including two to Trumaine Johnson — and set a league record for consecutive completions as Arizona beat winless Washington 37-7.

Landry, who finished with 23 completions in 31 attempts for 285 yards with one interception, hit his first 11 passes to break Alan Risher's club record by five.

Combined with five straight in Arizona's previous game, Landry had 16 completions in a row to surpass the league standard of 13 set last year by Bobby Scott of the New Jersey Generals and later tied by the Boston Breakers' Johnnie Walton.

"Landry is like a good French wine because he's getting better with age," said Federals Coach Dick Bielski. "He called a perfect game and executed it just as well."

The Wranglers led 27-0 at halftime and coasted from there in improving their record to 2-1. Washington fell to 0-3 before a crowd of 25,218 at 70,021-seat Sun Devil Stadium here.

"Greg called an outstanding game. He looked like the guy I was used to seeing back in the NFL days," said Arizona Coach George Allen of the 14-year National Football League veteran. "Greg did all of the things we've been working on since the season started. It all came together for him tonight, and us."

Tim Spencer's one-yard run capped an 11-play, 91-yard Wrangler drive for a 7-0 lead seven minutes into the game. Then, after safety Bruce Laird recovered a Federal fumble at Washington's 45, Landry found Johnson on a 12-yard scoring strike.

Landry's 5-yard pass to Wamon Buggs in the second period made it 20-0, and safety Eddie Brown's fumble recovery set up Landry's 26-yard touchdown toss to Johnson.

Owen, Treble Lead Pirates Past GWU

East Carolina's Paul Owen swept Troy Marguglio of George Washington and later teamed with Galen Treble to win the top doubles match as the Pirates took a 6-3 victory Monday in collegiate tennis action.

Owen earned a 6-3, 6-3 win over Marguglio in singles and added a 6-3, 6-1 win over the team of Marguglio and Todd Long in doubles.

The Pirates took all three doubles matches, including a 6-4, 3-6, 7-6 victory by Davis Bagley and Greg Willis over John McConnin and Tod Gomer on a 7-5 tiebreaker in the third set.

"The top three played extremely well," ECU assistant coach Keith Zengel said. "The weather was cold and windy, and our four, five and six singles players got slow starts. All three doubles teams played classic doubles."

The Pirates are now 2-0 during the spring schedule, while 8-6 overall. ECU hosts Old Dominion Wednesday at the Minges Coliseum tennis courts.

While the big guns wait until later in the week to hit the road to the Final Four, 10 of college basketball's lesser knowns begin the NCAA tournament with little hope of advancing to Seattle.

But nobody from Rider, Richmond, Houston Baptist, San Diego or the others who play today in preliminary round games is complaining. Just a trip to the tournament is reward enough for them.

It is the first time in college basketball's premier event for those four schools. Rider, 20-10 and winner of the East Coast Conference, takes on Richmond, 20-9 and champion of the ECAC South, in one of three games at Philadelphia. San Diego, 18-9, won the West Coast Athletic Conference and faces Ivy League winner Princeton in another game of the Palestra tripleheader, while Northeastern, 26-4 and ECAC North titlist, played ECAC Metro champion Long Island University, 20-10, in the afternoon opener.

At Dayton, Ohio, Morehead State, 24-5, which won the Ohio Valley, opposes 22-6 North Carolina A&T of the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference, and Alcorn State, 20-9, of the Southwestern Athletic Conference, plays Houston Baptist, 24-6, of the Trans-America.

Each team earned an automatic berth in the expanded 53-team tournament by winning championships in what the NCAA Basketball Committee deemed the 10 weakest of the 29 NCAA Division I conferences.

"It's hard to say without being overemotional how good it feels to be in this tournament," said Houston Baptist Coach Gene Iba, whose team boasts four African imports on its roster. "There's probably only about three people who know how I feel, and they stood over in our gym with me seven years ago when we had three scholarship players and we were just trying to do anything possible not to get embarrassed."

There is no embarrassment on the part of any of the preliminary 10.

"We've been to the NAAs three out of the past four years and it's still a thrill," said Northeastern Coach Jim Calhoun.

Northeastern's battle with Long Island University might be a grudge match. The Huskies, who will be without center Roland Braswell, a 6-foot-8 center out with a bruised right knee, did not renew their contract with LIU this season. Last year, the teams got into a brawl during their game.

"We've always had great games — one or two pointers," said LIU assistant coach Chuck Buzzi.

The other teams making their NCAA debuts are Auburn, Nevada-Reno and Louisiana Tech.

Tar Heels Cruise Through 1984 Polls

By The Associated Press
North Carolina, which was No. 1 in the preseason poll, finished atop the rankings today in the final Associated Press college basketball poll of the season.

The Tar Heels, despite their second loss of the season last week — to Duke in the semifinals of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament — captured the honor by a comfortable margin.

A nationwide panel of 62 sportswriters and broadcasters rewarded North Carolina, 27-2, with 51 first-place votes and 1,227 points.

Georgetown, 29-3, remained a solid No. 2, collecting eight first-place votes and 1,169 points.

The points system is based on 20 points for each first-place vote, 19 for second, etc.

It was the second time in three seasons that Coach Dean Smith's team was the No. 1 preseason choice and wound up the regular schedule in the same position. The 1981-82 team also did that and went on to win the NCAA championship.

The 1975-76 Indiana squad was the only other team to be ranked No. 1 in the AP preseason poll and win the NCAA crown the same season.

North Carolina was top-seeded in the East Regional of this year's NCAA tournament, while Georgetown was seeded No. 1 in the West.

The other top-seeded teams, Kentucky and DePaul, which drew two first place votes, held to their third and fourth positions, respectively, in the final poll, while Houston remained fifth.

Kentucky, which received one first-place vote, was No. 1 for one week during the season, the only time North Carolina was not in first place.

Illinois and Oklahoma swapped places from the previous week, the Fighting Illini moving up to sixth place and the Sooners dropping to seventh.

Arkansas and Texas-El Paso stayed at Nos. 8 and 9, respectively. Purdue, the co-winner of the Big 10 title, moved up to 10th place.

Nevada-Las Vegas, losers to unranked Fresno State in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association tournament final, fell three notches to 13th.

Surging Maryland showed the greatest improvement in the Second Ten, climbing from 14th to 11th. The Terrapins, winners of the ACC tournament, go into the NCAA tournament riding a seven-game winning streak.

Tulsa stayed at No. 12 and Duke climbed two spots to No. 14.

Washington was No. 15, Memphis State 16th and Oregon State 17th. Syracuse reappeared in the rankings in the 18th spot, replacing Louisville, which dropped from the Top 20. Wake Forest remained No. 19 and Temple, a loser to West Virginia in the semifinals of Atlantic 10 tournament, fell five places to No. 20.

Rapp Working For Versatility With 1984 Cincinnati Reds

By The Associated Press
The Cincinnati Reds will be nothing if not versatile this year.

Manager Vern Rapp has had his players working in as many positions as possible this spring training to gauge their ability and possible contributions to the club.

Duane Walker, for instance, has been used in all three outfield spots. And Paul Householder, another outfielder, was playing first base during the Reds' 4-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals Monday.

"We forgot to bring another first baseman, other than Danny (Driessen)," Rapp said. "I told Paul on the bus that we might have to use him at first in the late innings if Danny's leg started bothering him. It got a little tight on him so we moved him (Householder) over there."

Walker and Householder are two of nine outfielders in the Reds' camp.

"Oh, yeah, I've played first base before," Householder said, "in Little League when I was 10 years old. He (Rapp) asked me on the bus coming down if I had ever played first before. I said I did once back in Little League and he said, 'You're there.'"

Householder doubled in one run and scored another in the third inning for the Reds. The game was called after seven innings due to rain.

In other exhibition baseball action Monday, Minnesota tripped Los Angeles 2-1, the Chicago White Sox edged St. Louis 4-3, Houston nipped Atlanta 1-0, Boston outslugged the New York Mets 8-7, San Diego stopped Milwaukee 7-3, Cleveland pounded the Chicago Cubs 8-3, Philadelphia trimmed Detroit 7-2, California beat Seattle 10-8, San Francisco beat Oakland 8-6 in 10 innings and Montreal edged Baltimore 6-5. A game between Toronto and Pittsburgh at Bradenton, Fla., was washed away by rain with the score 0-0 and the Pirates batting in the third.

Kent Hrbek slugged a solo home run and Al Williams pitched six scoreless innings to lead Minnesota over Los Angeles. Hrbek's homer came leading off the fourth inning and gave the Twins a 2-0 lead. Mike Marshall's run-scoring double accounted for the Dodgers' tally.

The White Sox scored two unearned runs with two out in the ninth to hand the Cardinals their third straight loss. Tim Lullman drove in the game's only run with an eighth-inning single to lead Houston over Atlanta.

Jackie Gutierrez singled home two runs as the Red Sox exploded for seven runs in the fourth inning against the Mets. Pittsburgh pitcher John Candelaria, who has criticized the Pirate management and asked to be traded, made his spring debut before the rain came, pitching one inning and facing just three batters with one strikeout.

Mario Ramirez drove in two San Diego runs, stole a base and scored a run against Milwaukee. Rich Gossage, the former New York Yankee reliever who signed with San Diego as a free agent, made his Cactus League debut with the Padres, pitching one inning, giving up two hits and striking out one.

Cleveland third baseman Brook Jacoby hit a three-run homer in a four-run fourth that sent the Cubs reeling to their fifth loss in six games. Phillies second baseman Juan Samuel collected three hits, including a home run, and Joe Lefebvre drove in two runs with a double in the victory over the Tigers. Philadelphia third baseman Mike Schmidt, who had missed the first eight games of the exhibition season with bursitis in his left heel, made his first appearance.

Brian Downing had a home run, two singles and four RBI to lead the Angels over Seattle. Johnny Rabb delivered a three-run double in the eighth inning and also doubled during San Francisco's game-winning rally in the 10th.

Lewis Close To Beamon's Record

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

When Bob Beamon launched himself through Mexico City's rarefied air in the 1968 Olympics and came back to earth a phenomenal 29 feet, 2 1/4 inches later, Carl Lewis was 7 years old and more concerned with the second grade than he was with the long jump.

"I wasn't paying much attention when he did it," Lewis said.

Now, almost 16 years and four Olympics later, Lewis is enchanted with the event and Beamon's long jump record, once considered untouchable, is clearly within the young man's sights.

He is less than five inches away from Beamon's mark and as much as that prospect excites him, Lewis is just as moved by his role in popularizing his sport and his specialty. "I consider myself a pioneer for a generation," he said, accepting the Black Athlete of the Year award presented by Gordon's Gin.

Beamon's explosive jump came with stunning suddenness. His record leap was two feet more than he had ever gone before and he never approached it again after those Games. Lewis' progress has been more gradual, moving up steadily on the mark.

"I think that's been better for me and for my sport," he said. "People seeing me advance can feel and touch my progress. It makes them feel more a part of it."

Lewis twice has soared 28 feet, 10 1/4 inches, tantalizingly close to Beamon's record. The most recent jump was in the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden in January and it came on his final attempt of the night, when he was trailing Larry Myricks at 27-6.

"I knew I was behind and I knew I could do that," Lewis said. "Twenty-seven-six is not a big jump. Last year I didn't have a jump under 27-6. So I told myself to just relax and get a good jump."

All night long, however, Lewis had been having problems with the runway.

"It was too short and I had to use an extension board. It was slipping and I couldn't get a consistent approach."

So, on his last chance, he had an idea. He called his sister, Carol, who is also a long jumper, down to the track, stationed her on the board to steady it, and just took off.

When he came down, the tape measure reached 28-10 1/4 — almost

1 1/2 feet beyond Myrick's best jump and, once again, just 4 1/4 inches away from Beamon.

Because he is so close, the logical question is when will Lewis jump past Beamon. The logical answer would seem to be the Olympics, with the world watching. Lewis, however, is not committing himself to that target.

"I'm not worried about the world record," he said. "My potential is farther than that. My goal is 29 feet, but I think 30 feet is possible. It may not be today, or tomorrow or next week. When it happens, it happens."

In the back of his mind, though, is not just the long jump gold medal and Beamon's record. He thinks he can take home three other Olympic gold medals — from the 100 and 200-meter dashes and the 400-meter relay.

"It's attainable, without question," he said. "I watched the Winter Olympics from Yugoslavia and I cheered for everybody. I felt the same emotions as the athletes there did."

But he did not see himself in their place on the medal platform. Not yet, anyway.

"I've been around since 1979 on the international scene," he said. "Whether you're 16 years away from the Olympics or two months away, I know there are so many variables. Nobody's even on the team, yet. I'm taking things as they come."

One inch at a time.

Krzyzewski Ready To Watch Potential NCAA Opponents

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
AP Sports Writer

DURHAM — Maybe the best way Duke basketball coach Mike Krzyzewski will learn about either of his opponents in the NCAA West Regional is to watch them play, especially since getting film may be impossible.

The Blue Devils, losers to Maryland in the finals of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, are seeded third in the regionals. They will meet either Washington or Nevada-Reno in a second-round game on Sunday at Pullman, Wash.

Krzyzewski said he will attend Friday night's game between the Huskies and the Wolf Pack. Between now and then, he will try to get some video tapes of the two teams.

"You find out if the conference has a policy about exchanging films with other conference members," Krzyzewski said. "We'll call one of the Pac-10 teams and find out what the conference policy is. If someone called us for Maryland stuff, we wouldn't send them any material. We have an agreement among the coaches that we don't do that at all."

He said the Blue Devils have an advantage in that they will be able to scout the contest.

"We'll be out there by Friday. If it's on TV out there, the players can watch it," Krzyzewski said, noting he won't allow his players to accompany him. "That's the way we've done it all year long. There's no sense in changing."

Washington was Pac-10 champion with an overall record of 22-6. Nevada-Reno is 17-13, the worst record in the 53-team field.

"From what I understand about Washington, they're really big, a strong team," Krzyzewski said.

"But I don't know if they're quick. I don't know if you'd liken them to a Maryland as far being strong."

Krzyzewski was asked if the element of surprise was greater now because teams are now meeting each other for the first time, unlike the ACC where teams meet as many as three times a season.

"You get to this time, they've probably seen everything," he said.

Video Tape Creates Cage Parity

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Video is the great equalizer in college basketball, according to Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps.
 "I'm not talking Pac Man," Phelps said Monday. "I'm talking VHS."
 According to Phelps, the ability to video tape the televised games of faraway teams his players will never meet in the regular college basketball season is the reason for "parity in basketball" at tournament time.
 Notre Dame, 17-11, will take on Old Dominion, 20-10, of Norfolk, Va.,

Wednesday night at 8 p.m. EST in the first round of the National Invitation Tournament.
 The caliber of the 32-team field in the NIT, which some observers consider a weak sister to the NCAA tournament, will make it "an interesting march to New York City for all the teams involved," said Phelps.
 The semifinal and final rounds of the tournament will be played in New York's Madison Square Garden.
 Among the have teams in the 32-squad NIT field is North Carolina State, last year's NCAA champion.

There are 13 teams that have won at least 20 games in regular season play.
 The Irish have played five of the teams in the NIT field this year, scoring victories over Oregon, Marquette and Fordham, while losing to LaSalle and Pittsburgh.
 Wednesday night's game will be the first meeting between the Monarchs and the Irish.
 Old Dominion is a question mark to Phelps, who admitted he never would have guessed the Monarchs would be his team's first round opponent.

Phelps watched their 62-60 loss to Alabama-Birmingham last week.
 "I watched the game, but I didn't think we were going to wind up playing them. That's how smart I am," Phelps joked. "We didn't even tape the game."
 Old Dominion finished third in the Sun Belt Conference and was runner-up in the conference tourney.
 "We're both unknowns to each other," said Phelps. "They're a different challenge. I respect their balance."
 Maryland and Dayton are the only common opponents played by Notre Dame and Old Dominion.
 Notre Dame upset Maryland 52-47, while the Terps beat Old Dominion 69-58. The Irish lost at Dayton in their last regular season game, 80-70, and the Monarchs lost there a week later, 64-63.
 Old Dominion has four players who averaged in double figures during the season.
 The Monarchs are led by guards Keith Thomas and Mark Davis. Davis, a 6-4 junior, is averaging 14.2 points a game and Thomas, a 6-3 sophomore, 14.1 points over 30 games.
 Guard Charlie Smith and forward

Kenny Gattison both averaged more than 11 points a game.
 Phelps had some good news for Irish basketball fans. Starting center Tim Kempton is returning to the lineup.
 Kempton was sidelined with a stress fracture and missed the last six games. Starting guard JoJo Buchanan has been plagued by knee tendinitis since December and did not play in Notre Dame's final five games.
 Loss of the two starters led Notre Dame to a late season slide that saw the Irish lose five of their last eight games.
 Phelps said Kempton will play Wednesday night but will not start. Buchanan's tendinitis flared up again, and it's unlikely he will play, said Phelps.
 Kempton resumed practice Wednesday, and Phelps said the 6-foot-9, 245-pound center is "getting back in shape, getting his timing down."
 The bad medical news doesn't stop with Buchanan, however, said Phelps. Point guard Joe Howard, a wide receiver on the football team before Phelps recruited him to help out in the front court, sprained his ankle Sunday. Sophomore forward

Jim Dolan is suffering back problems. Phelps was confident that both would be ready to play the Monarchs Wednesday night, however.
 Notre Dame is led by senior captain Tom Sluby, who closed out the season with back-to-back 30-point games against Marquette and Dayton.
 "In each game he was our workhorse, our bread and butter — more so when Kempton was out," said Phelps.

Jackets Disappointed By NIT Opening Round Foe

By The Associated Press
 Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Cremins says he's disappointed the Yellow Jackets aren't playing their opening National Invitation Tournament game in Atlanta, but Georgia Coach Hugh Durham says he's not surprised his Bulldogs aren't playing Tech in their opener.
 Tech, 18-10, meets Virginia Tech, 18-12, in Blacksburg on Thursday, while Georgia, 17-12, takes on Tennessee-Chattanooga in Chattanooga on Wednesday in the college basketball tournament's opening round.
 "We're very disappointed that we won't be playing a game in Atlanta," Cremins said Monday. "We thought we'd be able to get some attention. We might have played in the Omni. We could have gotten a good crowd, like we have all year. Being a team in the city of Atlanta, I thought it would be something very attractive to the NIT selection committee."
 "We were a little surprised we're going to Virginia Tech," said Cremins. "There's Florida, Florida State, Tennessee-Chattanooga, South Alabama, Tennessee. We thought we would match up with one of those teams and draw a pretty good crowd."

The selection committee sits down and tries to pair the games up as best they can for the regional matchup," said NIT spokesman Vincent Bruno. "Georgia Tech was unfortunate enough to be paired with Virginia Tech. Two Southern teams and I guess they wanted to get the Southern exposure down there for a sellout."
 The NIT did not match up the two Georgia teams in the opening round, although they could well meet in the second or third round if they get that far.
 "It wasn't something that I gave much thought to," Durham said. "but I never expected to play in the opening round against Tech. For one thing, we've played once (Georgia won 64-62) and the NIT doesn't like to pair teams that already have met."
 For that same reason, Durham did not expect to be paired against any of the other SEC teams — Tennessee or Florida — receiving NIT bids.
 Durham said Georgia's opening game at Tennessee-Chattanooga makes sense. "For travel purposes it's close enough," he said. "And it should be a good match. They've had a good season and barely lost to Marshall in the Southern Conference championship game. It doesn't bother me at all that we're playing on the road. This is our third NIT and we've been the home team in several games.

 "This year's team had as its goal to play in a postseason tournament," Durham said. "Everybody wants to be in the NCAA, but there's no feeling of failure or a letdown by going to the NIT. Our kids want to play. They're the first group to come through Georgia and play in four postseason tournaments, and it's something they can be proud of."
 Georgia lost in the second round of the NIT in 1981 and then went to the semifinals at Madison Square Garden in New York before being eliminated in 1982. Last year, the Bulldogs made the NCAA's Final Four, losing to national champion North Carolina State in the semifinals.
 Tech last played in the NIT in 1971, losing to North Carolina in the finals in New York.
 "Virginia Tech is what I consider an NCAA team," Cremins said. "They had a little slump at the end of the year and it cost them an NCAA bid. Then they almost got an automatic bid in the Metro finals but they lost to Memphis State."

Phelps Pleased With NIT Bid For His Fighting Irish

By The Associated Press
 In early February, Digger Phelps expected to take his Notre Dame basketball team to the NCAA Tournament. As it turned out, the Irish are in the National Invitation Tournament, and Phelps is happy to be there.
 "We weren't ready for the NCAA," says Phelps. "After the loss to Rutgers (61-59) and DePaul (62-54), we knew we were not going to the NCAA."
 After winning 14 of their first 19 games, the Irish were hurt by injuries and lost six of their last nine. They will take a 17-11 record against Old Dominion in one of the NIT's opening-round games Wednesday night.
 "At 14-5, we thought we were in great position for the NCAA tournament when February began," Phelps said. "That's when we lost Tim Kempton, our rock in the middle, along with JoJo Buchanan, our point guard."
 Kempton was sidelined with a stress fracture and missed the last six games of the season. He is, however, expected to play some against the Monarchs in the game at South Bend, Ind. Buchanan has been plagued by knee tendinitis since December and missed Notre Dame's last five games.

 Old Dominion, 20-10, a third-place finisher in the Sun Belt Conference, is an unknown quantity to Phelps, although he watched them on television during the season.
 "I watched the game, but I didn't think we were going to wind up playing them," said Phelps. "That's how smart I am. We didn't even tape the game."
 In Wednesday night's other first-round NIT games, it's Georgia, 17-12, at Tennessee-Chattanooga, 23-6; Florida, 16-12, at South Alabama, 22-7; St. Peter's, 23-4, at Tennessee, 19-13; Lamar, 25-4, at New Mexico, 24-10, and Southwestern Louisiana, 20-8, at Utah State, 19-10.
 On Thursday, the schedule features Florida State, 19-10, at North Carolina State, 19-13; Georgia

Tech, 18-10, at Virginia Tech, 18-12; Nebraska, 17-11, at Creighton, 17-13; Ohio State, 15-13, at Xavier, Ohio, 20-9; Marquette, 16-12, at Iowa State, 16-12; Wichita State, 18-11, at Michigan, 18-10, and Santa Clara, 22-8, at Oregon, 16-12.
 In Friday's action, Boston College, 17-11, plays St. Joseph's, 20-8, and Pittsburgh, 16-12, meets La Salle, 20-10, in Philadelphia and Fordham, 19-14, is at Weber State, 22-8.
 The second and third rounds in the 32-team field will also be played at regional sites. The four surviving teams head for New York's Madison Square Garden, where the semifinals in the nation's oldest postseason basketball tournament will be held March 26 and the finals March 28.
 Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Cremins feels that his draw against Virginia Tech is as tough as any in the tournament.
 "Virginia Tech is what I consider an NCAA-tournament caliber team," Cremins said. "They played well early in the season, but fell off late in the year."

Tar Heels Cruise Through 1984 Polls

By The Associated Press
 North Carolina, which was No. 1 in the preseason poll, finished atop the rankings today in the final Associated Press college basketball poll of the season.
 The Tar Heels, despite their second loss of the season last week — to Duke in the semifinals of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament — captured the honor by a comfortable margin.
 A nationwide panel of 62 sportswriters and broadcasters rewarded North Carolina, 27-2, with 51 first-place votes and 1,227 points.
 Georgetown, 29-3, remained a solid No. 2, collecting eight first-place votes and 1,169 points.
 The points system is based on 20 points for each first-place vote, 19 for second, etc.
 It was the second time in three seasons that Coach Dean Smith's team was the No. 1 preseason choice and wound up the regular schedule in the same position. The 1981-82 team also did that and went on to win the NCAA championship.

 The 1975-76 Indiana squad was the only other team to be ranked No. 1 in the AP preseason poll and win the NCAA crown the same season.
 North Carolina was top-seeded in the East Regional of this year's NCAA tournament, while Georgetown was seeded No. 1 in the West.
 The other top-seeded teams, Kentucky and DePaul, which drew two first place votes, held to their third and fourth positions, respectively, in the final poll, while Houston remained fifth.
 Kentucky, which received one first-place vote, was No. 1 for one week during the season, the only time North Carolina was not in first place.

 Illinois and Oklahoma swapped places from the previous week, the Fighting Illini moving up to sixth place and the Sooners dropping to seventh.
 Arkansas and Texas-El Paso stayed at Nos. 8 and 9, respectively. Purdue, the co-winner of the Big 10 title, moved up to 10th place.
 Nevada-Las Vegas, losers to unranked Fresno State in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association tournament final, fell three notches to 13th.
 Surging Maryland showed the greatest improvement in the Second Ten, climbing from 14th to 11th. The Terrapins, winners of the ACC tournament, go into the NCAA tournament riding a seven-game winning streak.
 Tulsa stayed at No. 12 and Duke climbed two spots to No. 14.

Washington was No. 15, Memphis State 16th and Oregon State 17th. Syracuse reappeared in the rankings in the 18th spot, replacing Louisville, which dropped from the Top 20. Wake Forest remained No. 19 and Temple, a loser to West Virginia in the semifinals of Atlantic 10 tournament, fell five places to No. 20.

Rapp Working For Versatility With 1984 Cincinnati Reds

By The Associated Press
 The Cincinnati Reds will be nothing if not versatile this year.
 Manager Vern Rapp has had his players working in as many positions as possible this spring training to gauge their ability and possible contributions to the club.
 Duane Walker, for instance, has been used in all three outfield spots. And Paul Householder, another outfielder, was playing first base during the Reds' 4-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals Monday.
 "We forgot to bring another first baseman, other than Danny (Driessen)," Rapp said. "I told Paul on the bus that we might have to use him at first in the late innings if Danny's leg started bothering him. It got a little tight on him so we moved him (Householder) over there."
 Walker and Householder are two of nine outfielders in the Reds' camp.
 "Oh, yeah, I've played first base before," Householder said, "in Little League when I was 10 years old. He (Rapp) asked me on the bus coming down if I had ever played first before. I said I did once back in Little League and he said, 'You're there.'"
 Householder doubled in one run and scored another in the third inning for the Reds. The game was called after seven innings due to rain.

 In other exhibition baseball action Monday, Minnesota tripped Los Angeles 2-1, the Chicago White Sox edged St. Louis 4-3, Houston nipped Atlanta 1-0, Boston outslugged the New York Mets 8-7, San Diego stopped Milwaukee 7-3, Cleveland pounded the Chicago Cubs 8-3, Philadelphia trimmed Detroit 7-2, California beat Seattle 10-8, San Francisco beat Oakland 8-6 in 10 innings and Montreal edged Baltimore 6-5. A game between Toronto and Pittsburgh at Bradenton, Fla., was washed away by rain with the score 0-0 and the Pirates batting in the third.
 Kent Hrbek slugged a solo home run and Al Williams pitched six scoreless innings to lead Minnesota over Los Angeles. Hrbek's homer came leading off the fourth inning and gave the Twins a 2-0 lead. Mike Marshall's run-scoring double accounted for the Dodgers' tally.
 The White Sox scored two unearned runs with two out in the ninth to hand the Cardinals their third straight loss. Tim Lullman drove in the game's only run with an eighth-inning single to lead Houston over Atlanta.
 Jackie Gutierrez singled home two runs as the Red Sox exploded for seven runs in the fourth inning against the Mets. Pittsburgh pitcher John Candelaria, who has criticized the Pirate management and asked to be traded, made his spring debut before the rain came, pitching one inning and facing just three batters with one strikeout.

 Mario Ramirez drove in two San Diego runs, stole a base and scored a run against Milwaukee. Rich Gossage, the former New York Yankee reliever who signed with San Diego as a free agent, made his Cactus League debut with the Padres, pitching one inning, giving up two hits and striking out one.
 Cleveland third baseman Brook Jacoby hit a three-run homer in a four-run fourth that sent the Cubs reeling to their fifth loss in six games. Phillies second baseman Juan Samuel collected three hits, including a home run, and Joe Lefebvre drove in two runs with a double in the victory over the Tigers. Philadelphia third baseman Mike Schmidt, who had missed the first eight games of the exhibition season with bursitis in his left heel, made his first appearance.
 Brian Downing had a home run, two singles and four RBI to lead the Angels over Seattle. Johnny Rabb delivered a three-run double in the eighth inning and also doubled during San Francisco's game-winning rally in the 10th.

Lewis Close To Beamon's Record

By HAL BOCK
 AP Sports Writer
 When Bob Beamon launched himself through Mexico City's rarefied air in the 1968 Olympics and came back to earth a phenomenal 29 feet, 2 1/2 inches later, Carl Lewis was 7 years old and more concerned with the second grade than he was with the long jump.
 "I wasn't paying much attention when he did it," Lewis said.
 Now, almost 16 years and four Olympics later, Lewis is enchanted with the event and Beamon's long jump record, once considered untouchable, is clearly within the young man's sights.
 He is less than five inches away from Beamon's mark and as much as that prospect excites him, Lewis is just as moved by his role in popularizing his sport and his specialty.

 "I consider myself a pioneer for a generation," he said, accepting the Black Athlete of the Year award presented by Gordon's Gin.
 Beamon's explosive jump came with stunning suddenness. His record leap was two feet more than he had ever gone before and he never approached it again after those Games. Lewis' progress has been more gradual, moving up steadily on the mark.
 "I think that's been better for me and for my sport," he said. "People seeing me advance can feel and touch my progress. It makes them feel more a part of it."
 Lewis twice has soared 28 feet, 10 1/4 inches, tantalizingly close to Beamon's record. The most recent jump was in the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden in January and it came on his final attempt of the night, when he was trailing Larry Myricks at 27-6.

 "I knew I was behind and I knew I could do that," Lewis said. "Twenty-seven-six is not a big jump. Last year I didn't have a jump under 27-6. So I told myself to just relax and get a good jump."
 All night long, however, Lewis had been having problems with the runway.
 "It was too short and I had to use an extension board. It was slipping and I couldn't get a consistent approach."
 So, on his last chance, he had an idea. He called his sister, Carol, who is also a long jumper, down to the track, stationed her on the board to steady it, and just took off.
 When he came down, the tape measure reached 28-10 1/4 — almost

1 1/2 feet beyond Myrick's best jump and, once again, just 4 1/4 inches away from Beamon.
 Because he is so close, the logical question is when will Lewis jump past Beamon. The logical answer would seem to be the Olympics, with the world watching. Lewis, however, is not committing himself to that target.
 "I'm not worried about the world record," he said. "My potential is farther than that. My goal is 29 feet, but I think 30 feet is possible. It may not be today, or tomorrow or next week. When it happens, it happens."
 In the back of his mind, though, is not just the long jump gold medal and Beamon's record. He thinks he can take home three other Olympic gold medals — from the 100 and 200-meter dashes and the 400-meter relay.

 "It's attainable, without question," he said.
 "I watched the Winter Olympics from Yugoslavia and I cheered for everybody. I felt the same emotions as the athletes there did."
 But he did not see himself in their place on the medal platform. Not yet, anyway.
 "I've been around since 1979 on the international scene," he said. "Whether you're 16 years away from the Olympics or two months away, I know there are so many variables. Nobody's even on the team, yet. I'm taking things as they come."

 One inch at a time.

Krzyzewski Ready To Watch Potential NCAA Opponents

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
 AP Sports Writer
 DURHAM — Maybe the best way Duke basketball coach Mike Krzyzewski will learn about either of his opponents in the NCAA West Regional is to watch them play, especially since getting film may be impossible.
 The Blue Devils, losers to Maryland in the finals of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, are seeded third in the regionals. They will meet either Washington or Nevada-Reno in a second-round game on Sunday at Pullman, Wash.
 Krzyzewski said he will attend Friday night's game between the Huskies and the Wolf Pack. Between now and then, he will try to get some video tapes of the two teams.
 "You find out if the conference has a policy about exchanging films with other conference members," Krzyzewski said. "We'll call one of the Pac-10 teams and find out what the conference policy is. If someone called us for Maryland stuff, we wouldn't send them any material."
 He said the Blue Devils have an advantage in that they will be able to scout the contest.
 "We'll be out there by Friday. If it's on TV out there, the players can watch it," Krzyzewski said, noting he won't allow his players to accompany him. "That's the way we've done it all year long. There's no sense in changing."

 Washington was Pac-10 co-champion with an overall record of 22-6. Nevada-Reno is 17-13, the worst record in the 53-team field.
 "From what I understand about Washington, they're really big, a strong team," Krzyzewski said.

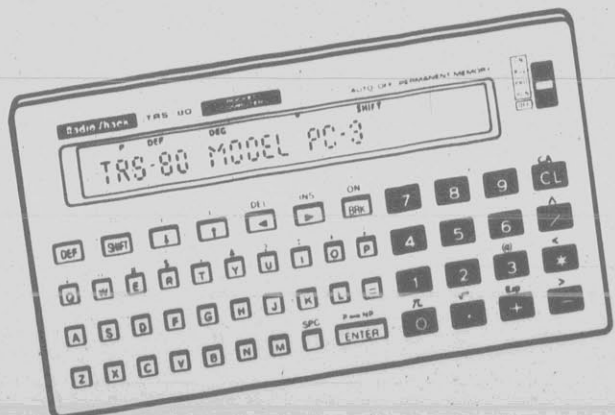

"But I don't know if they're quick. I don't know if you'd liken them to a Maryland as far being strong."
 Krzyzewski was asked if the element of surprise was greater now because teams are now meeting each other for the first time, unlike the ACC where teams meet as many as three times a season.
 "You get to this time, they've probably seen everything," he said.

Early Morning News Is Alert And Well-Rounded

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — In this age of instant information and round-the-clock news, one of television's most complete summaries of today's happenings is on tomorrow.

Only the earliest rise share the secret of ABC's "World News This Morning," an alert, aggressive and exceptionally well-rounded hour of news, business, sports and weather packaged in 15-minute segments for broadcast from 6 to 7 a.m. Eastern time.

On any given weekday, co-anchors Steve Bell and Kathleen Sullivan might deliver or introduce about 75 news and business items, many of them with pictures, and this doesn't count reports on sports and weather.

It's remarkable that there's so little repetition on a show that manages to be both a 15-minute gulp of news for the dashing commuter and a longer meal for the more leisurely breakfast-clubber. Stories that appear in more than one quarter hour are given fresh angles or are structured to look ahead.

Executive producer Rick Kaplan said the broadcast keys on developments that break after 5:30 p.m. the previous day — too late for Dan, Peter and Tom on that day's dinner-time newscasts. Kaplan said he also believed the 11 o'clock news probably was on too late for his early morning viewer.

Another emphasis is on overseas news that's been percolating overnight. "We're in competition with morning news radio, so we move live foreign news," said Kaplan. "But I don't want to be the London Times."

The real competition, however, is "NBC News at Sunrise" and the "CBS Early Morning News" — both 30-minute broadcasts, beginning at 6 a.m., that are taped and repeated at 6:30.

Some weeks, the ratings for "World News This Morning" are equal to the combined total of "Sunrise" and "Early Morning News." For the first nine weeks of 1984, ABC captured 1.92 million households to CBS' 1.25 million and NBC's 1.17 million. Kaplan said the program now is making money.

The paths of Kaplan and the executive producers of the rival morning shows have crossed before. He and NBC's Steve Friedman were fraternity brothers at the University of Illinois. CBS' Bob Ferrante was Kaplan's first boss at WBBM-TV in Chicago.

Despite the higher ratings, Bell and Miss Sullivan have received less national attention than Connie Chung, who left the CBS family for "Sunrise," and the CBS morning team of Bill Kurtis and Diane Sawyer.

"It hurt that we were No. 1 and nobody noticed, and they all noticed No. 2 and No. 3," said Miss Sullivan.

Last month, Miss Sullivan was noticed when she turned her clock upside down to become the late-night anchor for ABC's Winter Olympics wrap-up show. For her, it was a new audience that included some TV critics who wondered where she'd been hiding. One called her "a find."

Although her star is ascending from Sarajevo, she still occupies the second seat on "This Morning." When Bell and Miss Sullivan are together, he's the anchor on the right side of the screen. When Bell's not on the show, Miss Sullivan switches to the right seat.

"On any newscast there's a primary chair," said Kaplan. "Steve is our senior anchor, and we're making an editorial statement in-house and out-of-house."

With so much information dispensed, so quickly, there's no time for happy talk, although each 15-minute segment generally ends with a light piece. The anchors may get a brief moment to react, and a spontaneously funny parting line might make it difficult to switch gears and immediately get back to the next segment's headlines.

"There have been some close calls and I remember once not being able to sign off," said Miss Sullivan.

In one case, the two anchors kept their distance on purpose.

During a space-shuttle landing, Bell was providing live reports for "Good Morning America," while Miss Sullivan was inserting live updates into the West Coast edition of "World News This Morning." They were reporting simultaneously from the same anchor desk in Washington, with different cameras shooting individual close-ups.

"Everything went unbelievably smoothly, and neither audience could see or hear the other anchor," said Kaplan. "But Steve and Kathleen did have to lean in opposite directions."

Strike Is Put Off

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS news writers today voted not to authorize a strike against the network, sending the contract dispute for 350 workers back to the bargaining table and leaving the union negotiating team "disappointed."

The workers voted 226-107 to delay a strike in the dispute, which centers on allowing non-union workers to perform certain jobs, Writers Guild of America spokeswoman Sue Scheid said early today. The strike had been set for 8:30 this morning.

"We are disappointed in the vote, but we recognize that it is the will of the majority of our members," said Mona Mangan, associate executive director of the guild.

She said the union's executive council would review the proposed contract at 4 p.m. today and decide what action to take. "We don't know what course they'll follow," she said. She added that the vote was only whether to strike "given the present offer that's on the table" and did not mean that a strike was ruled out in the future.

George Schweitzer, vice president of communications for the CBS Broadcast Group, said, "We are pleased that the members voted not to strike and we are hopeful that the proposed contract will be sent out for ratification."

"We'll await ... hearing from the union," he added. "We're certainly encouraged."

Talks for a new three-year contract broke down over the weekend, prompting the union to call for a strike authorization vote. The walkout would affect CBS network news operations in New York and Washington and local TV and radio in Chicago, Los Angeles and New York.

PEARL IN MOSCOW — Pearl Bailey a concert at the residence of U.S. Am-bassador Arthur Hartman. (AP Laserphoto)

Pearl Surprised Russian Guests With Sing-Along

By ROXINNE ERVASTI
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Surprised Soviet concertgoers became part of Pearl Bailey's act as the 65-year-old singer strolled amidst the audience, bestowed a kiss on one guest, and invited a young girl to join her on stage.

She frequently invited the audience to sing along with her and — when she began singing the Russian ballad "Dark Eyes" in Russian — many did.

She dedicated the song to a Russian man seated among the audience of about 250 Soviet guests and members of the diplomatic community at a 90-minute show at Spasso House, the U.S. ambassador's residence.

But the man was obviously not expecting the kiss Miss Bailey gave him.

Apart from a portion of "Dark Eyes," Miss Bailey's non-stop performance of numbers, including

Dolly Says She Uses Workouts

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Will the real Dolly Parton stand up — or bend over, or lift weights?

The country singer says yes, and it's all part of her new fitness routine as she strives to trim down to a figure of 40-20-36.

She's already trimmed her waist to 21 inches through her own "Individual Awareness Method."

Her workouts include stretching and lifting weights, but none of "those Jane Fonda things," the 37-year-old singer told the Ladies' Home Journal. "They're too hard for me."

"I try to think what I'm hungry for," she said, explaining that she steers clear of "junk foods."

If her plan works out well for her, she may open fitness camps around the country, she said in an interview with the Ladies Home Journal.

The entertainer even suggests that the "new Dolly" may shed her wigs, long nails and spike heels.

"Hello, Dolly" and "Bill Bailey," was in English.

For her encore, Miss Bailey looked at Ambassador Arthur Hartman and his wife Donna, and said she would like to sing a number that meant a great deal to her, and she hoped the audience would not misunderstand.

She put down the microphone and sang the spiritual, "Let Us Break Bread Together on Our Knees."

There was loud applause at the conclusion.

Police outside Spasso House for a time halted Soviet guests for document checks before the concert began Monday night. U.S. diplomats said the police told them they were making "security checks," but that the Americans considered the police actions harassment and intimidation of Soviet citizens.

Miss Bailey, wearing a black African tunic with gold lace over a black sheath, began by saying she was "thankful to be in your wonderful country. I didn't come here with any opinions and I won't make any during the show."

At one point, she invited shy 10-year-old Natasha Kolodzei, who did not speak English, to come on stage. She later gave the girl an autographed copy of her children's book, "Duey's Tale."

A Soviet saxophonist in the front row of the audience, Igor Butman, 22, tapped his feet and bobbed his head to the music. He declined, in accented English, an invitation to join her in singing on stage, explaining, "I don't know the words..." Later, Miss Bailey's husband, Louie Bellson, one of the four musicians in the band, presented him with a set of drum sticks.

Miss Bailey will perform again Wednesday night at Spasso House and go to Leningrad on Thursday to perform at the U.S. consul-general's home. Her fees, reduced for the Soviet visit, are being paid by the U.S. Information Agency.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MARCH 14, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have very lofty thoughts and you would be wise to make notations of them since you will find some frustrations in putting them in motion; they are too valuable to neglect.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Plan how to get your best ideas working even though it may take a long time to do so. The fun you were planning may be delayed.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study the situation at home, and do whatever will improve conditions there. Not a good day for entertaining.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have much correspondence to handle, but be sure to use the right words if you want to get the best results.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Your potential for making money is quite good, but be unusually clever at this time. Take it easy tonight.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You have good ideas how to gain your finest aims, but may suffer delays because of interruptions from others. Be happy at home later.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have a fine plan for getting out of some unpleasant condition, but it may take longer than you think. Help your loved one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have to study that problem with a friend a little more before you can handle it wisely. Get busy with aims that will take time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be sure to handle whatever your job is with precision since higher-ups are watching you. Take it easy at home tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) New situations are all right now, but take care you do not get into any new interests as yet. Learn more about them first.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you follow your intuition today, you could get yourself into quite a pickle. Meet the expectations of your mate.

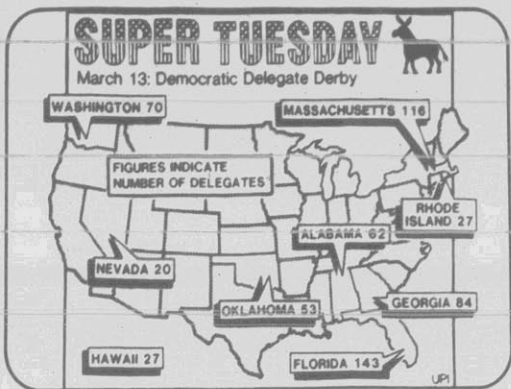

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't endeavor to get your ultra-modern ideas over to one who is ultra-conservative or you get nowhere fast.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You want to make changes in your surroundings, so draw up plans, and then be patient in case of delays. Be tactful.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one whose ideas will be great and the imagination likewise, so be encouraging in this, even though it may be much later in life before his or her dreams can be realized. Praise for any especially good work that is done.

FOCUS

Super Tuesday

Today nine states hold presidential primaries or caucuses. At stake are more than 600 delegates and possibly the Democratic nomination. Some past presidential nominees include a convict and a woman. In 1920, Eugene Debs was nominated as the Socialist Party candidate while serving a 10-year prison sentence. In 1872, Victoria Woodhull became the nominee of the Equal Rights Party. Her running mate was black leader Frederick Douglass.

DO YOU KNOW — What famous author was once a nominee for California governor?

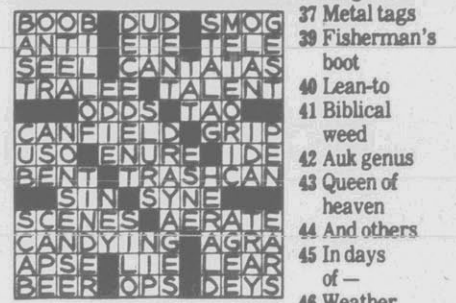

MONDAY'S ANSWER — James Montgomery Flagg painted the famous "I Want You" poster.

Florida Justices Put In A Strange Position

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The seven members of the Florida Supreme Court are in a "funny position" because they may have to review a judicial ethics recommendation barring free club memberships that all seven are violating, one justice says.

A special panel of judges appointed by the high court recommended last year that gifts of golf club, yacht club and other club memberships to all members of a court should be declared improper.

All seven justices would run afoul of the provision because each has a free membership in Tallahassee's Killearn Golf and Country Club.

"It puts us in a funny position," Justice James Adkins told the St. Petersburg Times in an article published Sunday. "How are we going to review it when everybody's running around at Killearn?"

In a letter to the Committee on Standards of Conduct Governing Judges, Chief Justice James Alderman wrote that the high court disagreed with the recommendation. But the panel refused to change its view and repeated its proposal in an article published last month in the Florida Bar Journal.

However, the opinion isn't binding and wouldn't be put to a test unless a complaint is filed against a judge or justice with the Judicial Qualifications Commission. That panel's decision would then go to the Supreme Court for a final determination.

At Killearn, the justices pay their own dinner checks and fees, but don't have to pay the $3,000 initiation charge and $70-a-month dues.

Six of the justices reported the memberships as gifts worth more than $100 on their financial disclosure forms. Adkins said he didn't report his membership because he never uses it.

The country club also offers free memberships to state legislators and Cabinet members as a promotional gimmick.

"To create a demand for club memberships, you get certain names in that membership," said Ken Creely, the club's president and general manager.

The standards panel is chaired by Palm Beach County Judge James T. Carlisle.

When declarer led his last diamond, West could not afford to sluff a club lest declarer cross to the board and lead the king of clubs for a ruffing finesse, which would pin the jack and set up the ten. So he discarded a spade. Declarer let go of dummy's low spade and now East was in trouble. If he pitched a club, declarer would enter dummy with a spade, lead the ten of clubs to ruff out the ace, and make the last two tricks on the table with the high spade and king of clubs.

So East also was forced to part with a spade. Declarer cashed the ace-king of spades, returned to his hand with a club ruff and scored the nine of spades for the fulfilling trick. A double guard squeeze, no less!

Jackson Campaign Seen In Great Disarray

CHICAGO (AP) — On a blustery winter morning, 550 people braved the cold for a special crusade. They sang. They prayed. But they didn't see the guest of honor — the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

The Democratic presidential contender — once again running late — had to bow out of his first two stops of a whirlwind campaign tour through Illinois. It was his third cancellation in the state in less than a week.

This time there was a transportation mixup: the bus to take Jackson's entourage was at one Chicago airport, but the candidate was at another.

The bad news was delivered to about 300 of the Jackson faithful in North Chicago — some who waited nearly four hours — and to 250 others 70 miles away at another rally in Joliet.

Many Jackson supporters don't see the cancellations as a washout, and in North Chicago, one found a pot of gold for Jackson's "rainbow coalition."

"Anytime you can get 300 people out at 6 a.m. for a candidate, it is something to be happy about," says Robert Evans, a pro-Jackson alderman in Waukegan.

"We don't get any complaints," Arnold Pinkney, Jackson's national campaign chairman, says of the recent cancellations. "Our supporters understand the demands of his schedule..."

But the problems encountered in Illinois — which holds its primary March 20 — are not unique, and Jackson, never much of a detail man during his years as a civil rights leader, is proving he's not one as a presidential candidate.

Jackson, who can mesmerize crowds with his oratory and seemingly limitless energy despite grueling 18-hour days, frequently runs two hours late.

Appearances are scrapped. Jackson's national staff in Washington sometimes doesn't know his day-to-day agenda. Hours before a recent Chicago appearance, top aides didn't know where he was speaking.

Schedules — when they are available — are sometimes changed with little or no notice, leaving reporters and Secret Service agents puzzled. Town names, on occasion, have been wrong. Addresses aren't always given. The next day's events sometimes aren't made final until the night before.

"We don't do a long advance," Pinkney says. "Every campaign has its own rhythm and own style. Our style is not to do (schedules) 10, 20, or 30 days in advance."

But that style often results in confusion in a presidential campaign where preachers and political novices are the backbone — rather than pollsters and professionals.

Once, Jackson's national campaign headquarters told reporters the candidate was visiting New Orleans when he was holding a news conference in Washington.

Another time, in Columbus, Ga., local supporters expected Jackson to open the city's campaign headquarters. About 75 children were there to greet him, practicing the familiar "Win, Jesse, Win" chant.

But after waiting 1½ hours and crowding reporters for autographs, they dispersed without ever seeing Jackson.

Pinkney, who worked on former President Carter's campaign, says Jackson's scheduling difficulties are created by the stacking of primaries early in the season.

"I think the media should give attention to the impracticality of having several primaries on one day, he says. "The public is not that interested in the problems you have in getting Jesse Jackson to a meeting." Unlike other campaigners, Jackson does not have aides who push him on to the next stop when he lingers on with a crowd.

"That's the uniqueness of Jesse Jackson," Pinkney says. "Others stick to 20 minutes... Jesse will not do that and I admire him for that. He will stop and sign autographs." The results aren't always positive.

At a Tallahassee, Fla., rally, where there were many empty seats, one Jackson worker joked about the event that had been rescheduled several times.

"Raise your hand if you thought this (rally) was canceled," Noble Sissle, Jackson's Florida campaign director, told the audience. "I thought it was, and I'm state coordinator."

WINNER OF SUPPORT AWARD — Jefferson Florist of Greenville is one of 11 companies and three arts organizations statewide to receive an award for outstanding support to the arts in North Carolina. The firm is one of only two in the state with less than 50 employees to receive one of the annual awards. Presentation of the award was made by Gov. Jim Hunt in a ceremony held last week at the N.C. Museum of Art in Raleigh. Jefferson Florist was cited for its leadership role in the formation and development of the Greenville Arts Council and for its continued support to the arts in Greenville and Pitt County. Russia Pledges

'Support' Syria

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Geidar Aliev, first deputy foreign minister of the Soviet Union, left today for Moscow after a four-day visit during which he pledged "full support" for Syria.

Aliev met twice with President Hafez Assad, and a Syrian presidential spokesman said Aliev promised support for Syria in its struggle against "imperialism and Zionism."

Assad, the Soviet Union's closest ally in the Middle East, praised the Soviet Union as a "loyal friend."

AWARD — Frank W. Wilson (above), formerly of Greenville, is one of four engineers that received a 1983 Army Research and Development Award at the Army Combat Surveillance and Target-Acquisition Laboratory at Fort Monmouth, N.J. The award was for developing the Meteorological Data System, which provides ballistic meteorology or weather information. Before going to work for the Army, Wilson taught at Eppes High School from 1949-55.
