'Heat' By Mondale As Field Narrows

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

Walter Mondale, battling for support in the industrial Midwest, is putting the heat on Gary Hart for his opposition to the federal bailout of Chrysler Corp., as the Democratic presidential field narrows to three.

Once considered Mondale's chief rival, Ohio Sen. John Glenn dropped out of the race today after his red-ink campaign sputtered to also-ran finishes in key southern primaries earlier this week.

Glenn's withdrawal left the field with just Mondale, Hart and the Rev. Jesse Jackson, and they all were looking to Saturday's round of caucuses, including delegate-rich Michigan, and the Illinois primary on Tuesday.

"Although my campaign for the presidency will end, my campaign for a better America will continue," Glenn said at a news conference in Washington.

Hart claimed another caucus victory Thursday, capturing 43 percent of the vote in Alaska's precinct caucuses to 30 percent for Mondale, 10 percent for Jackson and 15 percent uncommitted. The caucuses determine how 11 of the state's 14 nominating delegates will be pledged.

In what has become a familiar story, Alaska Democratic chairwoman Dianne O'Connell said "nobody up here knew who Hart was" just a few weeks ago. She said Mondale's support was "widespread but soft" before Hart's campaign caught fire.

Mondale, big labor's candidate, campaigned in heavily unionized Michigan on Thursday and predicted he would win both there and in Illinois.

Again and again Mondale hit Hart's opposition to the federal loan guarantees that allowed ailing Chrysler to return to profitability. The former vice president said he worked with labor, management and government to win passage of the bailout in 1979.

"My opponent not only voted against that proposal, but he said companies like these, if they can't save themselves, should go bankrupt," Mondale said.

"I took my stand and we succeeded," Mondale added. "he took his stand and, thank God, he failed."

Mondale's position drew support from Chrysler's chairman, Lee Iacocca, who issued a statement that didn't mention Mondale but did name Hart — and also noted that President Reagan philosophically opposed the loan guarantee idea.

"If it's not good industrial policy to get management, labor and government together to save 600,000 jobs, what is?" Iacocca said.

Hart and Jackson crossed paths in Little Rock, Ark., where Hart boarded Jackson's plane for a private, unscheduled chat, described later by a Hart spokeswoman as "just for fun and a friendly conversation."

In Illinois later, Hart committed a campaign gaffe when he criticized Mondale for a television commercial questioning Hart's age, name and even his signature — and quickly apologized when he learned no such ad has aired and the Mondale campaign said none existed.

"It was a mistake and I apologize," Hart said.

Responded Mondale: "I accept that. I'm glad he did so. We get tired in the campaign. We say things we don't mean."

But Hart stuck by his statements that Mondale is running a "virtually negative campaign." He said Mondale has made a series of inaccurate charges over the last two weeks about Hart's record on arms control, energy taxes and medical costs for the elderly.

Hart said there was a fine line between "constructive criticism and destructive assault."

"That line is called character," he said. "I believe Walter Mondale knows where that line is. I hope for his sake, and this country's sake, that he does not cross it."

The Mondale campaign, meanwhile, faces problems of another sort: money.

It's never been hurting for cash, but it faces serious restrictions because of federal spending limits of $20.2 million for the nomination campaign.

Mondale has already spent more than half the limit, while Hart is just getting started; Hart can spend another $17 million before he reaches the cap, while Mondale can spend just $8 million more.

"We are no longer the Cadillac operation," Mondale said in Chicago. "The salad days are over."

Mondale's paid staff is being reduced from 200 to 75 people. But Mondale campaign manager Robert G. Beckel said: "We're going to have to spread our resources out. We don't see a federal limit as a problem for us."

Jackson campaigned in South Carolina, his native state, and said he expects to carry all six congressional districts in Saturday's caucuses.

He said voters face a choice between "Hart, who you don't know, Mondale, who you know too well, and here am I. Send me, give me a chance. I've paid my dues."

The Republican Party, meantime, began airing TV ads that take notice of Hart's surge and ridicule his "new ideas" theme: "They're the same old empty promises that didn't work before and they won't work now."

In New York, CBS News extended an invitation to the remaining candidates to a debate televised live in prime time on Wednesday, March 28, with "CBS Evening News" anchor Dan Rather as moderator.

If held, it would be the fifth debate for the Democratic contenders.

Besides Michigan, also holding caucuses Saturday are Arkansas, Kentucky, Mississippi and South Carolina. Puerto Rico Democrats vote on Sunday.

Martin Candidate From District 6

R.L. "Bob" Martin of Bethel said today he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination to the Senate from District 6.

Martin became ineligible to run for the Senate seat now held by Vernon White of Winterville, for which he had been campaigning, after Bethel Township was placed in another district by a realignment of Senate districts by the General Assembly earlier this month.

As realigned, District 6 includes Bethel, Belvoir, Falkland, Fountain, Bell Arthur and Farmville precincts in Pitt County, as well as three townships in Wilson County, nine in Edgecombe County and Robersonville Township in Martin County.

Martin, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, said, "I believe I can contribute a great deal to the continued growth of the district as a member of the North Carolina Senate ... because of my background in farming, business and county government, and because of a willingness on my part to make things happen."

New filing periods will be scheduled by the State Board of Elections for districts affected by the realignment. If the redistricting plan is approved by the federal courts and the U.S. Justice Department by April 20, the primary will be held June 5. If approval comes after April 20, but before May 17, the primary will be held July 17.

Murderer Jas. Hutchins Executed In State Prison

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Murderer James W. Hutchins, wearing his wedding band and "at peace with himself," was executed early today at Central Prison after getting a final hug from his wife.

The 54-year-old laborer was the second person executed by lethal injection in two days in the United States, and the 15th put to death since the Supreme Court reinstated capital punishment in 1976. Hutchins' execution was the first in 22 years in North Carolina.

Hutchins was sentenced to death in 1979 for slaying two law enforcement officers and to life in prison for slaying a third officer.

Defense attorney Joseph Cheshire said Hutchins had "a contact visit, so he could hug his wife and tell her goodbye." Hutchins' initial request for the visit was denied by corrections officials, but later was granted. He asked to wear his wedding band and that request was granted.

Gov. Jim Hunt rejected Hutchins' clemency plea Thursday, saying the condemned man had received a fair trial and that there was "certainly no question of his guilt."

Hutchins asked his attorneys not to file further court appeals after the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., denied his latest request for a stay and an appeal this week.

A physician declared Hutchins dead at 2:18 a.m. EST, 15 minutes after the lethal chemicals began entering his body, said state Department of Correction spokesman Phillip Brown.

"The execution was carried out smoothly and without incident," Brown said.

Hutchins made no final statement, said Russ Edmonston of the Department of Crime Control and Public Safety.

Hutchins selected as his method of execution a lethal injection of drugs — sodium thiopental to induce a deep sleep and the paralytic drug procuronium bromide to cause death.

Stripped to his shorts and socks, Hutchins was strapped to a gurney and inserted with intravenous needles. Three technicians behind a curtain pressed plungers that sent the drugs into his body, but none of them knew who pressed the fatal plunger.

at least two people were injured.

The U.S. Embassy's first secretary, Robert Pugh, said political officer William Buckley was abducted this morning as he left his residence in the Ras Beirut neighborhood of the capital's mostly Moslem western sector. The neighborhood is adjacent to the seafront boulevard where U.S. Embassy offices are located.

Pugh gave no further information about the kidnapping, and Marine Capt. Keith Oliver, a public affairs officer at the embassy, said State Department officials "aren't yet ready" to release specifics on the kidnapping or more details about Buckley.

Asked if there had been a claim of responsibility, Oliver said, "Not that I am aware of."

U.S. Embassy officials have said there are about 50 Americans still with the embassy, guarded by about 100 Marines. The United States evacuated non-essential workers and family members in early February.

In Washington, State Department spokeswoman Sondra McCarty said, "We have reports that one of our embassy people was kidnapped but I don't have any further details at this point."

Buckley became the third American missing in west Beirut since it was seized from the Lebanese army by Syrian-backed Druse and Shiite Moslem militiamen on Feb. 6.

Frank Regier, a professor of electrical engineering at the American University of Beirut, was kidnapped Feb. 10. Police said Regier, 50, who has a heart condition, was last seen being forced at gunpoint by two assailants into a black Mercedes near his house in Ras Beirut.

Jeremy Levin, 51, a native of Michigan and bureau chief for Cable News Network in Beirut, disappeared March 7. He was last seen by his wife at their Ras Beirut apartment, and CNN staffers believe he was kidnapped.

Arts Festival Set For March 24

WINSON-SALEM — The N.C. Federation of Women's Clubs, Inc. will hold its annual Arts Festival, sewing contest and Sallie Southall Cotten Scholarship Contest at Salem College here March 24.

Contestants will include high school students and clubwomen who have won first place at the local and district levels. Cash awards will be presented to students winning first place. Contests will be held in crafts, art, public speaking and drama and scholarship.

Mrs. Kern Holoman of Raleigh, president of the N.C. Federation, will preside.

kindergarten students. The youngsters were being entertained by the food service class at Rose High School.

"In the past years my students have helped the developmental K-class by assisting in their holiday parties, putting on Easter egg hunts, baking for them and providing games and stories. This year I wanted to expand on that idea and include more nutrition. I talked to the K-class teacher, Emalyn Colardo, who was equally enthused. Together with my students, we came up with some ideas of our own," said Elaine R. Tschetter, class instructor at Rose.

The food service class is designed as a two-hour, laboratory-type occupational training program. Instruction includes orientation to scope and nature of jobs in the food service fields, interpersonal relationships, hygienic practices in food preparation, safety regulations in use of all types of equipment, preparation of foods for retailing, basic skills for table service and catering, organization of work, proper food handling, training of kitchen helpers, health standards and legal aspects of employment.

"Another important purpose was to get the students as involved as possible in some type of volunteerism. I have found that in working with teen-agers, it is rewarding for them to feel like they are helping others even in some small way.

"The class decided to host their 5-year-old friends for a luncheon. A menu was selected based on the Greenville city school lunch selection and then modified to homemade tomato sauce, meatballs, spaghetti, Italian bread, jello with fruit, salad including apple, celery, raisins, marshmallows and cheese, combined to shape a smiling face," said Mrs. Tschetter.

During desert, Amanda Vines read the story of the gingerbread boy and each youngster received a decorated gingerbread cookie.

Along with menu planning the students also studied diet needs of specific age groups. "With our interest in the kindergarten class it seemed appropriate that we concentrate on the needs of children. In class we came up with a week's menu plan appropriate for children and their families, keeping in mind the following guides — color, texture, interest, variety, local preferences and cost.

"A reinforcement in name learning was achieved by having the youngsters in our lab where a demonstration on making bread dough was held. The kindergarten students were seated at a table and were able to shape the letters of his name in dough. We also have studied the basic four food groups in class and the students made colorful posters illustrating these food groups and their food value. The class then presented a nutrition lesson to the K-class and prepared an original snack of their own using all four food groups, yeast bread roll filled with sausage and cheese," said Mrs. Tschetter.

Couple Marries In Double Ring Ceremony

Deenie Croom of Grimesland and Wayne S. Williams of Greenville were united in marriage Saturday at two o'clock in the afternoon. Elmore Hodges officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Croom Jr. of Belhaven. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. N.T. Williams of Autryville.

The bride wore a suit of candlelight linen and a pearl necklace and earrings that belonged to her maternal grandmother. She carried a nosegay of spring flowers with lace and satin streamers.

Maid of honor was Tonya Williams of Greenville, daughter of the bridegroom. She wore a floral print dress in spring colors with a ruffled hem and neckline. She carried a miniature bouquet like that of the bride.

A reception was held after the ceremony. Cherry Rouse, sister of the bride, served cake and Kit Griffin, sister of the bride, poured punch. Goodbyes were said by the parents of the bride and the parents of the bridegroom.

The bride is a graduate of J.H. Rose High School and is employed by the office of the Pitt County Clerk of Superior Court. The bridegroom graduated from Clemente High School and is the manager of the Pitt FCX, Greenville.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside near Greenville.

Plastic Surgeon Won't Attempt That Surgery

DEAR ABBY: You have to help me! I have been to every doctor in the area and not one will even discuss the type of surgery I want. Where can I go to get this done? I don't care how far I have to go or how much it costs.

I am a 42-year-old woman, and all my life I have been terribly skinny. My legs are a disgrace! I have worn only slacks all my life. I'm so ashamed. I want my legs fixed so I can wear dresses and shorts in 1984. Why will no plastic surgeon help me? They all refuse to add additional flesh and tissue for cosmetic reasons. Why?

I am so sick of being like this! I have done exercises until I am ready to drop. Nothing helps. Please tell me where to go right away. I would rather be dead than look like this.

SKINNY AND UGLY

DEAR SKINNY: No responsible plastic surgeon would attempt that kind of surgery, so look no further because you might find one who is either skilled nor honest but willing to attempt it for an attractive fee, and the results would be disastrous.

Please ask your family physician to recommend a therapist who will help you accept yourself as you are. You may perceive yourself to be skinny and ugly, but others may not see you that way.

You need to talk to an understanding person about your feelings, your dreams, your disappointments, your hopes. Please, please take this advice. It's important that you do. And write again in three months and tell me how you are. I care.

DEAR ABBY: I am a retired, single businesswoman who has a very dear friend who is also retired. Whenever we plan an afternoon together for lunch or shopping, her husband comes along. Of course I say nothing, and the three of us proceed together.

Abby, I have nothing against this woman's husband. He is kind and generous, but I prefer to go to lunch and shop with my friend and indulge in "girl talk." This obviously is not possible with her husband along. How can I convey my feelings to my friend without giving her the impression that I don't like my husband?

THREE IS A CROWD

DEAR THREE: Tell her, just as you told me, that you like her husband, but ask her if just the two of you could have lunch together so you could talk "girl talk."

***

DEAR ABBY: I lost my son five years ago. He left a widow and two young daughters. His widow has since remarried. When I introduce her and her husband to friends, I always say, "I would like you to meet my daughter-in-law, Nora, and her husband, John Smith."

I have been criticized by some who feel that since my son is dead, Nora is no longer my daughter-in-law. Nora's two little girls are still my granddaughters, so how do I explain their presence?

Isn't Nora still my daughter-in-law?

MY FIRST DEAR ABBY LETTER

DEAR FIRST: Although Nora is no longer legally related to you, she is still the mother of your grandchildren, so go ahead and introduce her as your daughter-in-law. And ignore the petty mean-spirited critics.

Maintaining Secrecy At The Polls

'Only Just Begun'

Once there were eight, and now there are three. George McGovern, who had remained in the race only to keep pet issues alive, and John Glenn are gone from the Democratic presidential field. And after Super Tuesday, that leaves only Jesse Jackson as the outsider.

The insiders, of course, are Gary Hart and Walter Mondale, who now appear to be headed into a year-long battle for the nomination. Or, as Mondale put it Tuesday, they now must run "a marathon all the way to California."

Super Tuesday has come and gone. The results were less than satisfying to those who wanted a clear-cut winner; they served only to solidify the theory that no one holds a true advantage in the Democratic campaign.

Now the attention shifts to the Midwest, where Hart already virtually has written off the big delegate vote in Michigan — a major stronghold for Mondale.

Hart now looks for the West, where he hopes to revive the affection shown to him in New England and the South.

To borrow from a song made popular years ago by The Carpenters, "We've only just begun."

Inspiration

Inspiring good citizenship comes naturally to members of the American Legion. They have a tradition of practicing it themselves.

First, as civilians who gave precious months and years of their lives in military service for their country; and with that behind them, as citizens with ideas and energies that made a lasting imprint on our nation.

It was only natural their first concern was to meet the needs of fellow veterans who gave more than their share, and once those programs were set in place their special talents turned to serving their own communities in the advancement of American ideals and the well-being of young people.

Through the years (65 of them, now) the millions of American Legion members have contributed money, time, labors and leadership to the building of America.

Today they are marking 65 years since an unselfish and noble concept was formalized into an institution for which there is no substitute.

Happy anniversary, gentlemen; and thank you.

Punishment Comes Slowly

SONSONATE, El Salvador — Little more than one year ago, Salvadoran army troops herded 74 Indian farmers into trucks for what would be called the Las Hojas massacre.

Today, not a single officer has been brought to trial for the atrocity, a fact that underscores the illusory nature of not only democracy in this country but also of American influence on a military government sustained by U.S. taxpayers.

In this case the tragedy resulted amid a dispute over 90 acres of abandoned land in the district of Las Hojas. A few years before, the National Capital Association of Indigenous Salvadorans, an Indian cooperative, had purchased the parcel with funds secured by a costly (26 percent interest) bank loan with the help of then-defense minister Gen. Guillermo Garcia.

The purchase only angered two wealthy families that had been using the Las Hojas land to graze their cattle. As the Indians built a fence around the perimeter, the neighbors would tear it down. The two families went to court seeking right of passage, but failed to convince the judge of their cause. They also began accusing the Indians of subversion, a claim which the local army commander could not verify.

Army sentiments reversed, however, with a change in command. On Feb. 22, 1983, aided by civilians employed by the two land-owning families, an army force under the command of Capt. Figueroa Morales rounded up the fence-builders in a dawn sweep. When Fermin Garcia, the ANIS treasurer, discovered that his son had been taken, he rushed into Sonsonate to inform the cooperative director, Arian Esquino. The two men went to the regional commander, Col. Elmer Gonzales Araujo, who told the anxious fathers that there was nothing to worry about.

Many of the victims would be boys and old men. None could be called subversives. Only 18 of the 74 killed that day would be found before vultures and the heat had made their faces unidentifiable.

Shaken upon hearing the news from Esquino, Gen. Garcia ordered an investigation. The U.S. Congress became interested, too. Cooperative leaders Esquino and Garcia appeared two months later before a congressional committee in Washington and met privately with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who inscribed a photograph with "your call for justice will be heard."

There was even some hope that bereaved families (seven of which had lost the head of the household) would receive financial compensation as well as justice.

Yet, the two officers ultimately responsible for the murders, Araujo and Morales, have been transferred to desk jobs at army headquarters in San Salvador. The families have not received one penny in compensation (Fermin Garcia, in fact, was detained for 33 days after submitting an official request for $100,000). Lawyers for the cooperative, who met us here with pistols tucked under their belts, said they stopped working on the case two months ago out of frustration.

The U.S. Embassy is still investigating, an American official told us here, the former U.S. ambassador to El Salvador, Dean Hinton, turned the tragedy of Las Hojas into a personal crusade, to the point of getting into a shouting match with Gen. Guillermo Garcia over the lack of progress in the case. Pressured by an American church official recently, Hinton's replacement, Thomas Pickering, tentatively agreed last week to reassert U.S. concern for justice with a visit to the Indian cooperative.

But to what end? As the families of four U.S. church women, two American labor officials, and other innocent victims of Salvadoran army brutality have discovered to their frustration, not one officer has ever been brought to trial for human rights abuses in this country.

Clearing The Air For McGovern

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maybe it was because some people felt guilty about what happened to George McGovern in 1972 that they felt good about what happened to him in 1984.

In 1972, he ran on the slogan "Right from the Start," but in truth he was doomed from the start.

It is likely no Democrat could have beaten incumbent President Richard M. Nixon in 1972, and whatever chance McGovern might have had evaporated after it turned out that his vice presidential running mate, Sen. Thomas Eagleton of Missouri, had been hospitalized several times for treatment of depression.

After hesitating too long and saying he was 1,000 percent behind Eagleton, McGovern dropped him from the ticket. He had to search long and publicly for someone willing to run with him, finally settling on Sargent Shriver, best known then as a Kennedy brother-in-law.

The election might as well have been called off. McGovern couldn't have won.

The Watergate break-in had occurred a few weeks before the Democratic convention, and the Watergate scandal started unraveling during the campaign.

McGovern tried, half-heartedly, to make an issue of it, but it was remote and complicated, and no one paid a lot of attention.

By the end of the campaign, McGovern knew he was a loser and he was out of sorts.

Even when two former White House aides and five others were indicted before the election, leaving open the question of who planned the break-in at Democratic headquarters, the Nixon White House managed to put distance between the president and the crime.

Not until later — far too late to do George McGovern any good — did the country learn how intimately involved Nixon had been in the cover-up. His involvement, almost from the start, came to be known as "the smoking gun" when it was revealed on a spool of tape.

So there was a feeling that McGovern had not been defeated fair and square in 1972.

For all that, there were snickers when McGovern announced last September that he would seek the nomination again.

He had an image as a fuzzy-headed liberal, and a loser.

Not only had he been swamped in the Nixon landslide of 1972 — McGovern carried only Massachusetts and the District of Columbia in the worst Democratic defeat in modern political history — but he was rejected by his own South Dakota when he sought a fourth Senate term in 1980.

Even his wife, Eleanor, didn't want him to run.

He was compared to Harold Stassen, the Republican candidate who runs every four years out of tradition or inertia.

It was not as if the Democrats had a dearth of candidates. McGovern was the seventh in the race.

So he started out behind.

But this was a new McGovern. He was as stern as ever in his message. His flat Plains voice was as squeaky as ever. But he was relaxed, at peace with himself, warmly welcomed by audiences of college students who were 7 or 8 years old when he ran last time.

He was remembered, too, by those who had been young adults then, who had marched to his anti-Vietnam war drumbeat, who had responded with their hearts when, in 1972, he said, "Come home, America." And by those who he had around until the ballots are tabulated.

"Well, they're going to have to wait if they want to know how I voted," Procter said.

"Okay," said a clipboard holder. "If you won't tell us who you voted for, will you tell us who you voted against?"

"Not on your life."

"Does that mean you voted against Mondale?"

"I've got to go home to lunch."

"Don't be hardheaded. We're not going to use your name. If you didn't vote for Hart just tell us why."

"I'm going to call a cop."

"Does that mean you voted for Glenn because you think he's stronger for law and order?"

"Hold it. There are two things in my life that I can do in privacy — and one of them is vote secretly for the candidate of my choice."

"What's the other?"

"Go to the bathroom, which is what I've got to do right now."

One of the pollsters shouted, "If you don't answer our questions you're threatening the sanctity of exit poll."

"Well, you'll have to poll somebody else."

"If you're not talking, that means you voted for Jackson."

"Why don't you all buzz off?"

"You can hang tough if you want to, but Tom Brokaw is going to hear about this."

"If you won't play the game, don't ever ask Dan Rather for a favor."

"You could cost Jennings and Brinkley their jobs."

"Is that all you have to say?" Procter asked.

"No, there is one more thing. Don't ever meet Sam Donaldson in a dark alley."

Public Forum

To the editor:
Two Jesses there were in the land: Pale Jesse and Dark Jesse.

Now Pale Jesse was of an elite governing council whose members were respected by all the people, including Dark Jesse. Pale Jesse, who was on close terms with the Lord, might have been expected to esteem Dark Jesse for that he was a Reverend. But no. In the eyes of Pale Jesse, the tone of Dark Jesse was not pleasing.

In the city of Damascus in Syria, a soldier, native of the land of Pale Jesse and Dark Jesse, had been captured and was being held in duration by the Ruler of that ancient land. Dark Jesse, deploring the captivity, girded up his loins and journeyed to Damascus to treat with its Ruler for the release of his Brother. And lo, the ruler acceded to his plea and let the soldier go. Whereupon, Dark Jesse returned in triumph to his own country where he and the soldier were received with smiles and praises from their own Leader.

Then up rose Pale Jesse, indignant, to noise abroad the word that Dark Jesse and the Damascan Ruler had meanly plotted the release of the soldier solely to embarrass the Leader of Pale Jesse's and Dark Jesse's country.

Dark Jesse, being a Southern Christian Gentleman, did not dignify the accusation with a reply or any other sign.

Unabashed, Pale Jesse mounted his ass and continued to sojourn throughout the land, seeking, seeking, and sure to find, as he had ever found, somebody to dump his righteous indignation on, and to cast a slur upon.

Endeth here the story of Pale Jesse and Dark Jesse.

Strength For Today

One day in 1782 Robert Raikes went into the slum section of his city, Gloucester, England, in search of a gardener. The man whom he wished to see was not at home and, while waiting for him, Raikes noticed that the street was full of children who seemed to be constantly involved in quarreling and violent fights.

This started Raikes to thinking, and as a result he established the first Sunday school in the history of the church. Some people made sport of him, calling him and his school "Bobby Wildgoose and his ragged regiment." But Raikes was not to be deterred. When he came to the end of his life, 3,000 boys and girls were attending Sunday school in England.

Raikes found his greatest opportunity for service right in his hometown and in the least desirable section of that town. There are plenty of places to serve if we keep our eyes open, and often they are nearer at hand than we think.

Hussein Deals Reagan Policies New Setback

By R. GREGORY NOKES

AP Diplomatic Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — By turning his back on President Reagan's peace initiative, Jordan's King Hussein has dealt the Reagan administration its second major foreign policy blow in a month and also jeopardized proposed U.S. arms sales to Jordan.

Hussein said progress toward an Arab-Israeli peace, as envisioned by Reagan, is "hopeless" as long as the United States takes Israel's side.

"You obviously have made your choice and your choice is Israel and support of Israel," he said in an interview with The New York Times.

Reagan's peace initiative, set forth Sept. 1, 1982, calls for much of the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip to be given over to Jordan, which controlled the West Bank before the Israelis took it over during the 1967 Mideast war. But the exact nature and degree of Jordanian control was to be worked out in negotiations.

While Hussein's dissatisfaction with recent American policy in the Middle East was known to the administration, they were caught off-guard by his decision to go public.

A senior State Department official said Thursday that Hussein may have been partly motivated by fear of Syria and the failure of American policy in Lebanon, which Hussein said had contributed to a loss of U.S. credibility in the Middle East.

"Hussein wants some sense of protection," said the official, who insisted on anonymity. "Protection means some commitment from the United States. He can't help but be disturbed by what happened in Lebanon."

A half dozen Jordanian diplomats have been attacked in recent months and several have been killed.

But the senior official lamented that in denouncing the American relationship with Israel, Hussein has now "made it more difficult for himself" to ever enter peace negotiations with Israel, although until he does there can be no lasting peace in the region.

In proposing the peace initiative, Reagan had hoped Hussein would play a key negotiating role.

In response to Hussein's recent comments, administration spokesmen made clear they are neither giving up on the Reagan initiative or on close American ties with Israel.

The peace plan specified that Israel's security needs must be a paramount consideration in any future of the disputed area.

"The United States has had, does have and will always have a strong friendship with Israel," said John Hughes, the State Department spokesman. He said U.S.-Israeli ties are "fully compatible" with successful Arab-Israeli negotiations.

While he said the Hussein statement was "a disappointing setback, of course it is," he defended Reagan initiative as "the most realistic, workable and promising approach" to a lasting peace that would give justice to the Palestinians.

"Obviously the king is in a pessimistic phase," Hughes said.

In an obvious reference to Syria, Hughes said "the forces of extremism and terrorism are complicating the situation in the region, increasing the risks to moderates who contemplate joining the peace process."

The king's remarks constituted the second blow to the administration's Middle East diplomacy in the past month. The first was the breakdown in Lebanon that led to the withdrawal of Marine peacekeeping forces and the scrapping of the U.S.-brokered 1983 Lebanese-Israeli troop withdrawal agreement.

The king's immediate anger appeared focused on what he clearly perceives as the administration's failure to force Israel to freeze settlement construction on the occupied West Bank. It was learned that Reagan this month turned down an appeal from Hussein to support a condemnation of Israel in the United Nations for not freezing settlements.

But the senior official said in an interview that Hussein could find other reasons to be upset with the United States, including the American withdrawal from Lebanon, congressional criticism of proposed arms deals with Jordan, and congressional proposals to move the American Embassy in Israel from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem.

"Certainly the atmosphere in that part of the world has been changed by what happened in Lebanon," said the official. He said Secretary of State George P. Shultz had warned of precisely this kind of outcome when he argued against withdrawing the Marines from Lebanon.

He also said Hussein "is always looking for some indication the United States will work vigorously with Israel for Israel to be forthcoming if negotiations should start" but that such indications are lacking, especially in an election year.

The Reagan peace plan depended on getting Jordan to enter peace talks with Israel, with Jordan representing Palestinian interests. Hussein's statement in the interview that there is now "no hope of achieving anything" means Reagan's initiative is dead for the remainder of this year, an election year, at least.

Another consequence of Hussein's blast could well be congressional defeat of administration proposals to sell Stinger anti-aircraft missiles to Jordan and to provide $220 million for a Jordanian strike force in the Persian Gulf.

Reagan put his own prestige on the line with these proposals by appealing to a Jewish group earlier this week not to try to block them.

Seeks Day In Court

BUTNER, N.C. (AP) — Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt wants a chance to go to court so badly he has taken to threatening President Reagan, two federal judges and employees of the federal prison in Butner.

Flynt is threatening to kill Reagan with a "transfusion of AIDS," says it is the only way he can get his day in court.

"This is the first place I've ever seen that ... you can threaten to kill the president of the United States and two federal judges and a half dozen (prison) employees ... and they won't take you to court," Flynt said in an interview at the federal prison in Butner.

He said he wants a court appearance so he can show videotapes he says show slain model Vicki Morgan and others having sex with Reagan administration officials.

Flynt is serving a 15-month sentence for contempt of court stemming from outbursts during court appearances related to the cocaine trafficking trial of automaker John Z. De Lorean. Paralyzed from the waist down from a 1978 shooting, he was wheeled into the prison visiting room on a hospital bed.

"I've already been declared competent by at least a dozen psychiatrists ... so why don't they take me in and try me?" Flynt said.

Secret Service spokesman Mike Tarr said Thursday: "We're certainly aware of what Mr. Flynt said and we're going to investigate it. We take any threat against the president seriously."

They Disappear Without Trace

MIAMI (AP) — Two women who worked as models have disappeared without a trace, leaving their parked cars behind, and three other young adults have been reported missing in the Miami area in the last three weeks, authorities say.

Foul play is suspected in the case of one model, 20-year-old Rosario Gonzalez, because her car was found where she parked it Feb. 26 and she had no reason to run away, police spokesman Angelo Bistis said Thursday.

However, foul play is not suspected in the similar disappearance of 23-year-old Elizabeth Kenyon, who was last seen March 5, or in the cases of three young men who have been reported missing, police said.

Landings In Arctic By NATO

By JOHN-THOR DAHLBURG
Associated Press Writer

MALANGEN FIORD, Norway (AP) — Five thousand U.S. Marines poured ashore today above the Arctic Circle, 240 miles from the Soviet border, in the biggest set of NATO war games ever staged in Norway.

The 4th Marine Amphibious Brigade landed riflemen, ski troops, tanks and other vehicles before dawn at three beaches off this mountain-ringed fiord in Norway's far north.

Farther down the 20-mile landing front, a combined force of 10,000 allied troops, composed mostly of British and Dutch marines, also were coming ashore to move south on the Americans' flank.

The southern force includes Norwegians, Italians, Canadians, a U.S. engineer company from Karlsruhe, West Germany, and more than one-third of Luxembourg's 600-man army. It has moved in progressively during the last week.

The landing was the main event in the two-week, 25,000-man Teamwork Avalanche Express exercise to test the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's ability to come to Norway's aid if Norway were attacked in winter.

Six hours into the 3 a.m. mock assault, U.S. Marine Maj. Gen. Alfred Gray pronounced operations proceeding "rather well" but slowly.

"Our major consideration is safety and taking care we don't do any damage to the Norwegian farms and towns around here," he said. "We're going slow."

On White Beach, landing craft disgorged 1,000 riflemen of the Marine Corps Reserve's 125th Infantry Battalion from New England and other areas of the Northeast.

Clad in snowsuits and stocking caps, wearing snow goggles to combat the brilliance of the sun reflecting from snow-blanketed fields, the infantrymen moved out to their mock objectives.

"At this point, we've got no problems, nothing, zippo," said beachmaster Capt. Lorne Mazzawi of Montvale, N.J.

Marines in white snowsuits guarded narrow roads along the fiord banks clogged with jeeps, 155mm howitzers and personnel carriers.

Marine helicopters clattered through the sub-freezing winter air, whirling over the fiord ever four to five minutes. Gray landing craft churned through icy blue waters between the beaches and the landing ship dock offshore.

At the village of Rosstraumen, school children clambered over an amphibious vehicle as smiling Marines looked on. Two small girls on a sled followed an M-60 tank as it rumbled toward a crossroad on the road to Red Beach.

The snowpacked roads were plowed by advance units of Marine engineers. Aides to Gray said they knew of only two equipment breakdowns in the operation's early hours. One was an M-60 that blew an engine a few miles from the beachhead. A sergeant of Bravo Company's 1st Platoon blamed that on the 30 days the tank sat idle before being landed.

One purpose of the six-day mock assault is to test new winter combat equipment, including white polyester camouflage suits, freeze-dried rations, sleeping bags and snow cleats for tanks and treaded vehicles.

Another was to test landing procedures for the total darkness of the Arctic winter night. Rules for the early-morning landing were so tight that photographers were forbidden from using flash devices.

Despite the proximity to the Soviet border, officers involved in the exercise never refer to the Soviet Union as the potential invader of Norway against whom the exercise is directed.

Norwegian Prime Minister Kaare Willoch has said protests from Moscow have been "routine," but that the Soviets have not complained specifically about the current exercise.

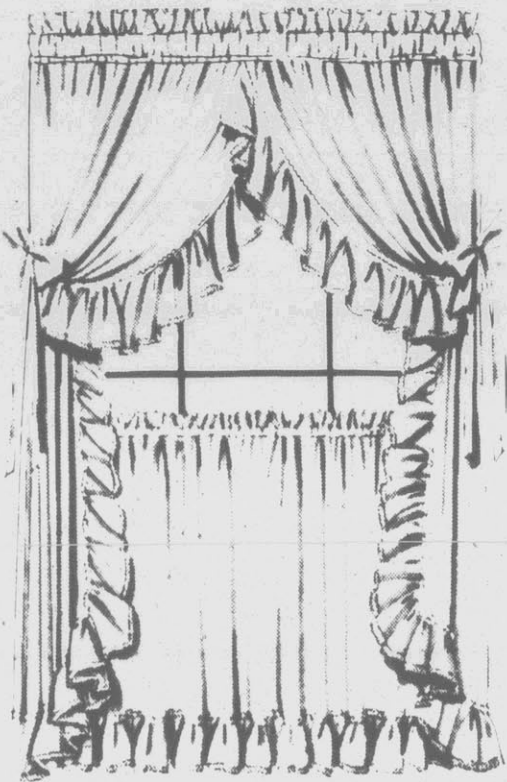

Under new war games rules, there are no winners and losers, no good guys and bad guys. The units that landed today comprise a northern force, those troops north of the Bardufoss airfield two hours south of Malangen Fiord.

Mock combat was to begin late in the day, when U.S. Marines were to make a helicopter assault on bridge with troops of the southern forces defending.

POLICE APATHY?
NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A Cabinet minister says the government will set up a special agency to investigate alleged police apathy toward the increasing number of women believed to have been burned to death by their in-laws after their families failed to meet demands for dowries.

Four Dead In Path Of Storms

By The Associated Press

Vicious thunderstorms that ripped a path from Texas to Michigan unleashed killer tornadoes, baseball-sized hail and 81 mph winds in an Ides of March onslaught that left four people dead and several towns digging out from the fury.

A twister bore through Fisher in northeast Arkansas on Thursday evening killing three people and injuring a dozen others. Another tornado sliced through Brownsville in northern Arkansas, killing one person and leaving behind a path of twisted wreckage.

A man in Edgemont, Ark., was missing after the boat he was in got caught in a storm.

"Everybody was praying, even though they may not have been good Christians before it hit," said Georgia Dennis of Fisher, whose trailer was wrecked in the most severe twister.

Injuries were also reported as tornadoes tore through Tumbling Shoals and Salado, Ark. Damage to homes, barns and schools was reported after twisters touched down at Waverly, Tenn., Natural Dam, Ark., Owensboro, Ky., Olney, Ill., Jefferson City and Hickory Hill, Mo., the National Weather Service said.

"We're getting right into the tornado season now," said Bill Sammler of the National Severe Storms Center in Kansas City, Mo. "There is a risk of more severe weather today from Texas into the Tennessee Valley. And this time of the year you can expect the worst."

Driving rains whipped along by wind gusts between 50 mph and 70 mph soaked the mid-Mississippi and Ohio Valley, forcing authorities in southern Michigan to warn residents to be on the lookout today for flash floods.

Nearly 2 inches of rain fell at Evansville, Ind., in a six-hour period ending early today. Wind gusts hitting 81 mph downed power lines in Fulton, Mo. Baseball-size hail battered northeast Oklahoma near Tahlequah, the National Weather Service said.

The storm cut across Arkansas from Van Buren County to Poinsett County just as night fell Thursday.

Half of downtown Fisher, a community of about 300, was gone. The post office, a seed company warehouse and a power substation are destroyed. Cars clutter ditches and power lines snake across roads. The railroad was blocked by debris.

"It looked like a dump out there," said Troy Farr, a Poinsett County Emergency Medical Services employee.

"I don't see how we come out of it alive," said Mrs. Dennis after she and her husband, Jerry, got out of the wreckage of their trailer. "The trees were white from insulation and tin" blown by the wind, she said.

Poinsett County Coroner Paul Thompson said all three of the dead were found in fields. Two of the victims had been in a trailer that was smashed.

Seven tornadoes and one funnel cloud were counted in the afternoon along an arc that began about 75 miles north of Little Rock and ended about 30 miles southwest of Jonesboro.

The first twister report came from east of Clinton at 5:41 p.m., the weather service said. It slashed trees and severed power lines.

Jim Gray of the Greers Ferry Volunteer Fire Department was in Clinton and saw the funnel cloud forming. He raced home, using the department's radio, "screaming my lungs out, trying to get the message back" to Greers Ferry in the storm's path.

"The funnel was huge in size. When it hit, you could see it sucking up trees," he said.

A minute later a twister clipped Fairfield Bay flattening three homes and a store, damaging eight to 10 other structures and injuring at least three people.

Bud Myrick of Fairfield Bay was standing on his patio when he saw "man-sized chunks floating high in the sky. It looked like rain running sideways."

Shortly later, the steel-and-concrete, two-lane Arkansas 16 bridge across Greers Ferry Lake at Edgemont was clipped from its pilings and somersaulted in the water. There were no confirmed reports of cars on the bridge but divers went into the lake to check.

A pipe beneath the bridge snapped, shutting off Fairfield Bay's water supply, which came from Greers Ferry.

A Cleburne County, Ark., County sheriff's deputy said three people in a boat on the lake in Edgemont tried to outrun the winds; two were rescued and one was missing.

At least five people were hospitalized at Hutchinson Mountain where numerous homes were destroyed.

Urges Voters Lie In The Exit Polls

CHICAGO (AP) — Columnist Mike Royko is urging voters in the Illinois primary to help make newscasters "wild-eyed" and "stammering" on Tuesday by lying to broadcast network pollsters.

ABC and NBC will be conducting a survey of voters as they exit polling sites around Illinois on election day.

"Be polite. Talk to them. But lie. Don't give them one honest answer," Royko wrote, apparently tongue in cheek, in a column published Thursday in the Chicago Tribune.

"If you voted for Mondale, say you voted for Hart. If you voted for Hart, say you voted for Mondale. Or if Glenn is still in the race, say you voted for him," Royko wrote.

"The pollsters will take your answers and feed them to a computer, which will chew on them, digest them, and finally burp a sheet of paper," Royko wrote. "The networks high priests of politics will stare at the numbers, then announce: 'I project the winner as ...'"

"But if enough of you lie, the entire nation will be treated to one of the finest evenings of television viewing since the tube was unleashed," Royko wrote.

Royko said newscasters will "become more and more wild-eyed ... hyperventilating ... (and) stammering about how 'goodness, something seems to have gone wrong.'"

"There will be chaos in the newsrooms, network executives will try to cut their wrists, and anchormen will have nervous breakdowns before our eyes," Royko said.

A spokeswoman for NBC said her network does not project winners based solely on exit polls, but combines them with actual returns from the News Election Service.

"We cannot afford to have any of our executives cutting their wrists," said Mary Lou O'Callaghan, director of news information for the network.

Royko said he was a guest political commentator on election night at a Chicago TV station a few years ago when the station's pollsters proclaimed one candidate the winner, but Royko went on the air to say the contest was too close to call.

The other candidate eventually won.

An Ally In Scheduling

AHOSKIE — State Rep. Ed Warren of Greenville has gained a potential ally in his quest to require N.C. State University to play football with East Carolina University if NCSU tries to discontinue the series.

Joe Parker of Ahoskie, a candidate for the 6th District House seat, said Thursday that, if elected, he would co-sign any legislation Warren might introduce in the House to require the football series to continue.

"Ed and I both hope that reason will prevail and this will not have to become a legislative issue but, if it does, I will stand shoulder to shoulder with him on this," Parker said.

"I have been going all over the 6th District telling people I want to go to Raleigh and speak up for them. Well, I know what they are saying about State dropping ECU from its football schedule.

"I was in the Pitt County portion of the district Tuesday and in Martin Wednesday. The proposed drop of the football series was much on people's minds. I did not run into a single soul who could see any good in it."

Parker said many people in eastern North Carolina are followers of both universities in athletics, and this area is the "heartland of N.C. State support. It's a terrible idea for N.C. State to appear to be turning its back on us."

In fact, Parker suggested, "the whole question of athletics at state-supported universities needs legislative attention."

Hutchins...

his only emotion as he watched Hutchins die was "just curiosity to see what would happen next."

"I've seen worse (deaths)," said Summers. "Have you ever seen you friend's head blown off?"

Defense attorney Joe Cheshire, who fought for Hutchins' life until his client insisted that he stop, said he bade Hutchins farewell at 1:05 a.m.

"We hugged and held hands," said Cheshire, adding that he declined Hutchins' suggestion that he witness the execution.

Hutchins was "stoic, strong, at peace with himself and at peace with his Lord," said Cheshire.

He added that Hutchins' wife, Geneva, was "a destroyed woman" and that she and her children had received "very serious threats."

About 2:50 a.m., a dark-blue hearse drove slowly through the prison gate bearing Hutchins' body, which was taken to Gray Funeral Home in Raleigh. Owner John Gray said today the family had not made funeral arrangements.

Shortly before Hutchins' death was announced, Department of Correction spokeswoman Patty McQuillan said the state had dropped opposition to Hutchins' request that no autopsy be performed.

However, Cheshire said that Dr. Page Hudson, the state's chief medical examiner, insisted an autopsy be done. Cheshire said there would be a hearing in Wake County Superior Court later today.

Hudson said Cheshire had obtained a temporary restraining order on behalf of Hutchins' family to prevent an autopsy. Hudson said it is customary to conduct an autopsy with all deaths in jails or prisons.

"It's in the public interest," said Hudson.

In his final hours Thursday, Hutchins was visited by his wife, Geneva, at Central Prison in Raleigh. He also read newspapers and letters, talked to his son, Jamie, on the telephone, and met with a minister from his native Rutherford County.

The condemned man twice refused to order a last meal, but ate a steak sandwich and drank a soft drink about 1 p.m., said Ms.

The last execution in North Carolina was on Oct. 27, 1961, when Theodore Boykin went to the gas chamber for the rape and murder of a Duplin County housewife.

A grim-faced Hunt told a news conference Thursday:

"There is certainly no question of his guilt. James Hutchins received a fair trial... The state and federal courts have given this matter full and fair consideration. I find no basis on which to overturn their decision and grant this request for clemency."

More than 100 ministers, lawyers, civil rights activists and workers lined the sidewalk around the state Capitol to protest the execution.

The protesters, many wearing tiny green ribbons symbolizing life, stood silently about two hours as they held signs up to motorists in downtown traffic that said, "Jim Hunt is not

God," and "Execute Justice not People."

Before the execution, the demonstrators stood in a circle on the grassy lawn in front of the prison, singing and holding candles. At 2 a.m. they put out their candles.

Fewer than a dozen pro-capital punishment demonstrators holding signs reading "Remember The Victims" stood across the street.

Hutchins was sentenced to die in September 1979 for the shooting deaths of Rutherford County Sheriff's Deputy Owen Messersmith and state Highway Patrol trooper Robert L. "Pete" Peterson. He was also sentenced to life in prison for the death of Deputy Roy Huskey.

The two deputies were killed when they arrived at the Hutchins' home in May 1979 after Hutchins' daughter, Charlotte, called for help. She said her father was drunk and beating her after they fought over the amount of alcohol in punch for a party.

Hutchins escaped execution Jan. 13, when the state Supreme Court imposed a stay 40 minutes before the deadline. Subsequent appeals were rejected by the 4th Circuit Court, U.S. District Judge Woodrow Jones and the state Supreme Court.

Scaffold Is At Toes

NEW YORK (AP) — Scaffolding that will surround the Statue of Liberty during a 30-month, $39 million refurbishing project has reached the lady's toes, six stories above Liberty Island.

The 300-ton aluminum scaffold should reach the top of the statue by the end of April and is expected to remain in place until May 1986.

Although the 12-acre island will remain open to visitors, the statue will be closed intermittently as crews replace 1,600 wrought-iron bands that hold its copper skin to its frame, replace the torch and install an emergency elevator.

The statue's 100th anniversary is Oct. 28, 1986, but the project is supposed to be complete by July 4 of that year, when tall ships from around the world will sail into New York Harbor to honor the statue.

The project calls for restoring the statue and nearby Ellis Island, the nation's immigration center from 1892 to 1952. A private committee has launched a nationwide fund drive, hoping to raise $230 million for the work.

In Madison, Ind., a class of third-graders at Lydia Middleton Elementary School borrowed $200 from a bank to start a $1,000 fund drive for the statue.

The pupils used the money to buy advertising and supplies to make 1,200 note pads saying "Save Miss Liberty." The pads were printed after school hours at the Madison High School printing department.

On Wednesday, Indiana Lt. Gov. John Mutz visited the students and gave the class a $50 contribution.

Seek Cause Of Plant Explosion

CALVERT CITY, Ky. (AP) — Authorities are investigating the cause of an air compressor explosion at a chemical plant which injured eight workers, three critically.

The 6-foot-tall compressor exploded Thursday afternoon while the eight were working on it in the utility area of the Pennwalt Corp., manager Wayne O'Quin said. There was no fire or release of chemicals after the blast, and damage to the plant was minor, he said.

The three seriously injured workers were taken to Lourdes Hospital in nearby Paducah. The other five were treated and released.

Southern Bell Plans Outlays

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Southern Bell plans to spend $236 million this year to improve services in North Carolina, officials say.

"We're trying to implement the very latest in equipment ... that is more efficient and less expensive to operate," Bob Freedman, manager of Southern Bell's Charlotte district, said Wednesday.

About $114 million is for new electronic switching equipment, he said.

St. Sucusus?

Tomorrow, Irish Catholics everywhere will celebrate St. Patrick's Day, honoring Ireland's patron saint. Contrary to popular belief, Patrick was not Irish. He was born in Roman Britain and called Magonus Sucusus. He was later given the name "Patricius," meaning nobleman. Irish pirates kidnapped Patrick and sold him into slavery as a shepherd. He later returned to bring Christianity to Ireland, founding more than 300 churches.

DO YOU KNOW — In what year did Ireland gain its independence?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER — March is named for the Roman god Mars.

Sporadic Violence After Verdict in Miami

By MIKE McQUEEN
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Black jury acquitted a Hispanic policeman in the shooting of a black man hurled rocks, looted stores and set fires overnight and heavily armed police responded with tear gas. Sporadic rock-throwing continued late this morning.
More than 240 people were arrested, sniper shots were reported and five policeman were hurt after the acquittal on manslaughter charges of Officer Luis Alvarez on Thursday night. Mayor Maurice Ferre said police would do "whatever is necessary" to maintain order.

Police had cordoned off troubled areas, but by rush hour, blockades were taken down and highways and schools in the area were open.
"Basically, we have calm," City Manager Howard Gary said on ABC's Good Morning America today. "Everything is restored back to normal...The city looks normal."
Isolated incidents of rock and bottle throwing resumed after dawn and one person was reported injured in predominantly black Overtown, said police spokeswoman Stephanie Dalton.
Police Sgt. Jack Sullivan blamed the morning outbreaks on youths skipping school.

Meanwhile, U.S. Attorney Stanley Marcus said a separate federal civil rights investigation against Alvarez would continue. The probe was suspended while the state prosecuted Alvarez.
"The state's case was mostly baloney," said juror Donald R. Moore, a marine biologist. "There wasn't much to argue about. They didn't have a sufficient case to convict him."
Earlier, officers fired tear gas into a crowd of about 100 young blacks who poured out of a housing project in the predominantly black Liberty City section and threw stones at officers.

sniper fire shattered the window of their patrol car, police spokesman Juan Santos said. Both were released after treatment at Jackson Memorial Hospital, said hospital spokeswoman Betty Baderman. Three other officers received minor injuries.
Liquor stores and gasoline stations in "affected areas" were closed and would stay shut "as long as necessary," police officer Raymond Lang said.

A Cuban-born house painter, John Ebanks, told reporters at a hospital that he was sitting in his car outside a restaurant near predominantly black Overtown when a group of youths beat him up. He displayed long, bloody gashes on his left arm and neck.
"I saw about 12 of them, young men, black," he said. "I had the idea they were going to do something to me and I tried to start the car, but they didn't give me a chance. They pulled me out of the car, and they hit me in the chest and head."

Up to 40 officers in riot gear and carrying shields moved into an Overtown housing project and led a handful of young black men to an orange police truck.

As officers formed a line and marched down the street to disperse the crowd, the youths fled back into apartments and shouted: "We want justice. We want justice."
Trash cans smoldered in the streets, and roving groups of young blacks taunted police.
When rock- and bottle-throwing flared later, police carrying shields and nightsticks swooped through the project and led away about 10 youths. As police told a reporter that one young black man was accused of inciting a riot, the suspect shouted, "No, there were three of us they arrested for nothing."
Reports of sporadic rock- and bottle-throwing were received "all over" the city, said police spokesman Jack Sullivan.
It was the third outbreak of mass violence in black sections of Miami since 1980.
Alvarez, 24, was accused in the Dec. 28, 1982, slaying of Nevell Johnson Jr., a 20-year-old county messenger who was shot while the officer was searching for a concealed weapon at a video arcade in Overtown.
The shooting touched off three days of rioting that left one person dead and millions of dollars in damage. The acquittal of four white officers in the death of a black man in 1980 also ignited bloody rioting, in Liberty City, that claimed 18 lives.
This time, police prepared in advance for possible violence and were on the streets even before the eight-week trial had ended Thursday.
Metro-Dade police spokesman Bill Wallace said about 125 people had been arraigned police spokesman Mike Stewart.
Two officers patrolling a black area suffered minor injuries when

Social Workers

The North Carolina Social Service Association has declared Wednesday as Social Worker Appreciation Day in North Carolina.

"I appreciate the work social workers have done in serving the needy people of our state," said John Syria, director of the Division of Social Services in the North Carolina Department of Human Resources. He pointed out that social workers in all of North Carolina's 100 counties are offering and delivering a broad spectrum of services including adult and child abuse and neglect services, health support services, day care services, foster care services, services geared to assist the elderly or disabled to remain in their homes, and employment services.

Crime Stoppers

Doug Jackson, coordinator of the Greenville Police Department's "Crime Stoppers" program, discussed the project recently with the Greenville-Pitt County Board of Realtors.

Jackson said the first "Crime Stoppers" call was received last September and since then six rewards have been paid out for information, with five arrests recorded.

The Realtors presented $2,500 to "Crime Stoppers" last year. The board's Make America Better Committee is sponsoring the program again in 1984.

Spdomy Report

Greenville police are investigating a sexual attack on a 16-year boy here early this morning.

Sgt. D.D. Heinz said the youth, walking home along Dickinson Avenue about 2:20 a.m., was approached by a man who dragged him into an alley behind a building at 815 Dickinson Ave., struck the youth several times, then sodomized him.

Heinz, who said the attack was reported at 3:27 a.m., said the youth was treated at Pitt County Memorial Hospital and released. A spokesman said investigators were questioning a suspect in the case late this morning.

Members Pinned

Three members of Eta Delta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority were pinned in a recent ceremony at the home of Libby Kinlaw. Receiving pins were Gail Costella, Janice Hopkins and Pat Lindsey.

Members reported that money made from a recent fund-raising project and the upcoming doughnut sale March 31 will be donated by the group to Camp Rainbow, a camp for children with epilepsy and cancer.

Workshops

The North Carolina chapter of the Embroiderers' Guild of America will sponsor two two-part workshops on the quilted vest — one a morning event, one in the evening.

Pat Reep, who is certified through the Valentine Museum, will lead the workshops. The first meeting of the morning workshop will be held Monday from 9 a.m. to noon; the second, Monday, April 2, from 9 a.m. to noon. The NCEGA Night Guild will hold the evening workshop Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. and Tuesday, April 3, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Call Rhonda Whitehurst, 752-0367, or Gloria Baker, 756-8840, for more information.

Family Reunion

The Tyson Family Reunion Committee will meet at the Home of Annie Tyson Sugg, 112 Candlewood Drive, Sunday at 5 p.m.

Senior Recital

Meg Burley of Richmond, Va., a student majoring in flute in the school of music, East Carolina University, will present her senior recital at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the A.J. Fletheer Recital Hall.

She will perform works by Martinu, Tull, Haydn and Bach and will be accompanied by Patricia Foltz, piano, and Mary Ann Prussing, cello. She is a student of Beatrice Chauncey. The recital is free and open to the public.

Vepco Grant

Gladys Howell, chairman of Pitt County America's 400th Anniversary Committee, has announced a $1,330 grant from Vepco to be used by the committee toward the development of a tobacco museum in Pitt County.

Local American Legion Post No. 39 has made a site and a log building available for the museum at the Pitt County Fairgrounds. The committee expects to renovate the building and design the museum with assistance from the East Carolina University Departments of Technology and History.

Vepco has made funds available for each of the local 400th committees in its service area.

ECU Concepts

East Carolina University's Spring Lecture-Seminar Series will be discussed on "ECU Concepts" at 8 a.m. Sunday on radio station WOOW.

Dr. John Ebbs, an ECU professor of English, will be the guest for the 15-minute program to discuss the series' topic pertaining to the use of radio and television in politics and national elections. Ebbs will be interviewed by James Rees of the ECU Department of Theater Arts.

The Spring Lecture-Seminar Series begins Monday at 8 p.m. in Wright Auditorium. Featured speaker for the three-day program is Frank Mankiewicz, author, journalist and political strategist.

Youth Services

Youth services will be held Sunday at 11 a.m. at Union Grove Free Will Baptist Church near Farmville. The sermon will be conducted by the pastor, Elder H.L. Hill.

The Young Adult Choir will meet for rehearsal at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Anniversary

Bells Chapel Holy Church will celebrate its pastor's anniversary today at 7:30 p.m. with Bishop Robert Gorham of Rouse's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church as the guest speaker.

Sunday at 3 p.m. Bishop Ralph Love of Holy Trinity Church will conduct a service.

Youth Day

A Youth Day service will be held at 11 a.m. Sunday at Simpson Chapel Free Will Baptist Church with Eldress Shirley Braxton, the youth choir and ushers in charge.

Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Eldress M.A. Moye and the all-male chorus of Rouse's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church will be in charge of the service.

Guest Speaker

Dr. Constantine Kledaris, president of the North Carolina chapter of the National Association of Social Workers, will be the speaker at a luncheon buffet Thursday in observance of National Social Work Month.

The topic of the event, sponsored by the department of patient and family services at Pitt County Memorial Hospital, will be "A Salute to the Helpers."

The luncheon, which costs $6.50, will begin at 11:30 a.m. at the Ramada Inn, Greenville. To make reservations, call Ann Corey, 757-4490, by March 19.

Notification

Civic groups, area bands and other organizations who will compete for trophies in the 14th annual Grifton Shad Festival Parade should notify parade officials immediately, according to Janet Haseley, festival publicity chairman.

Ms. Haseley said participants in the parade should contact Robbie Brooks, parade chairman, at 524-5593, or Sandy Mitchell, co-chairman, at 524-4724. Participants can also notify officials by writing Grifton Shad Festival, Box 928, Grifton, N.C., 28530. Guidelines and parade routes will be sent to participants.

Trophies will be given to the first and second place bands, the best marching group, the best overall unit, best "Shad Fever — Catch It!" theme entry and best fish entry. In addition the first place band will receive $100.

The parade will be held at 10:30 a.m. April 14.

'Viewpoint'

The recommendations of a recent task force report on excellence in education will be the topic of this week's "Pitt County Schools' Viewpoint," a radio show aired on several local stations.

Host Barry Gaskins will talk with Annette MacRae, local North Carolina Association of Educators representative who served on the task force.

The show is scheduled at the following times and stations: Saturday, 7:30 a.m. WITN-FM, 8:30 a.m. WGHF-AM, 8:25 a.m. WOOW-AM; Sunday, 9:30 a.m. WRQR-FM; 1:06 p.m. WNCT-AM, and Monday, 3:05 p.m. WBZQ-FM.

For further information contact Pitt County Community Schools at 752-6106, extension 249.

The clinic is open to the public.

Degree Awarded

David Thomas Greer Jr. of Greenville received a bachelor's degree from Auburn University today during commencement exercises. Almost 700 degrees were awarded during the ceremony.

Exposure Reported

Greenville police are investigating an incident Thursday in which a man exposed himself to a fifth grade student at St. Gabriel's School at 1100 Ward St.

According to Officer W.A. Reid, a man pulled into a driveway on school property, opened the door of his car, exposed himself to a 10-year-old girl and asked her if she would like to go for a ride. Reid said the child immediately went to the principal and reported the incident.

Police, called at 9:17 a.m., were unable to locate the man.

Board Meeting

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners will meet Monday at 10 a.m. at the county office building at 1717 W. Fifth St.

Included on the agenda is a review of the proposed 1984-85 secondary road improvement program for the county and other matters.

Commissioners have also scheduled a meeting with the mayors of the various municipalities in the county for 7 p.m. April 2, at Parker's Barbecue on Memorial Drive.

Support Group

The support group for widowed persons will meet at 7 p.m. Sunday at the Catholic Newman Center, 953 E. 10th St.

Dr. James L. Mathis, professor and chairman of the East Carolina University School of Medicine's Department of Psychiatric Medicine, will be the guest speaker. He will discuss coping with depression related to grief.

For more information about the group, call Sister Helen Shondell at 752-4216.

Attempted Robbery

The proprietor of Pete Smith's Store, Route 1, Stokes, was injured this morning during an attempted robbery at his business, according to Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

He said William Jettie Smith, 76, was treated at the emergency section of Pitt County Memorial Hospital for a head wound suffered when two men tried to rob him shortly after 6 a.m.

Smith told deputies the men entered his store and as he attempted to wait on them one of the men pulled out a section of pipe, said Tyson. Smith reported that he was struck on the back of his head and knocked to the floor. He said that after he crawled behind the counter and picked up a pistol, the men fled.

Tyson said the incident is under investigation.

Village Meeting

The village of Simpson will hold its monthly meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at Phillippi Baptist Church education building. The meeting is open to all citizens of Simpson.

Democrats Meet

The Pitt County "Democrats at Dawn" will host a group of state-wide candidates or their representatives at a 7 a.m. breakfast March 27 at the Ramada Inn, according to county Democratic chairman Katheryn Lewis.

Mrs. Lewis said those invited to take part in the program include candidates for lieutenant governor, part of the Council of State, and candidates for Congress from the First District.

"If the candidates cannot attend, we are requesting that they send a representative," Mrs. Lewis said.

The purpose of the session is to give persons an opportunity to meet and talk with the candidates, "but there will be no speeches," she emphasized.

Persons wishing to attend the breakfast should make reservations by Wednesday.

Other candidates will be invited to attend a second "Democrats at Dawn" session on April 24.

Business Meeting

Sigma Theta Tau, the National Honor Society of Nursing, will hold a called business meeting at 7 p.m. Monday. The meeting will be in room 203 of the East Carolina University School of Nursing.

A MIGHTY ARMY DOES NOT A VICTORY MAKE!

AS WAS POINTED OUT IN LAST WEEK'S PANEL, KING HANUN BELIEVED, WITH FOREIGN TROOPS TO BOLSTER HIS ARMY, HE WOULD BE SAFE FROM KING DAVID'S FEARSOME REVENGE! BUT THEY HAD NOT RECKONED WITH KING DAVID'S GENERAL, JOAB! JOAB HASTENED TO PREVENT A JUNCTION OF THE ENEMY'S TWO ARMIES. HE PUT HIS BROTHER, ABAISHAI, IN CHARGE OF HALF THE FORCE OF ISRAELITES AND TOOK THE OTHER HALF TO ENGAGE THE SYRIAN HORDES. IN A SERIES OF SPECTACULAR ENGAGEMENTS, JOAB SOON HAD THE SYRIAN MERCENARIES IN FULL FLIGHT! WHEN THE AMMONITES SAW THIS, THEY ALSO FLED FROM BEFORE ABAISHAI, AND SCURRIED INTO THE SAFETY OF THEIR CITY'S WALLS! (II SAM. 10)

Come To CHURCH

Most American Churches Switched Positions On Prayer In The Schools

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

While many of the arguments about prayer in the schools have remained the same since the U.S. Supreme Court banned it in 1962, most of America's churches have changed their positions 180 degrees.

Most major Protestant denominations, once favoring school prayer, now officially oppose it based on actions of their conventions since the 1962 high court ruling.

But an overwhelming proportion of Americans — up to 80 percent as measured by Gallup and other surveys — favor such prayers, no doubt including a big share of members of the denominations in opposition.

Moreover, the biggest Protestant body, the Southern Baptists, traditionally among the strongest advocates of church-state separation and formerly against school-sponsored prayers, now at times swings the other way.

Its 1982 convention came out in support of such prayers, but its 1983 convention said it supports the Constitution's First Amendment, without saying whether or not it is seen as allowing such prayers.

In that nebulous situation, the denomination's president, the Rev. James Draper, has backed President Reagan's proposed amendment, saying it provides for "fully voluntary prayer" without it being state-prescribed.

Bishops of the nation's biggest church, Roman Catholicism, which once opposed public school prayers because they were predominantly Protestant, now say they favor allowing public school prayers and prayer alone isn't enough.

The proposed amendment also should include the "right voluntarily to receive religious instruction" in keeping with students' traditions, says the bishops' secretary, the Rev. Daniel F. Hoye.

Eastern Orthodox denominations also favor public school prayers, as does the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, a large, conservative Protestant body, along with many relatively small, conservative denominations of the National Association of Evangelicals.

Jewish organizations, across the board, oppose such group prayers in public schools.

The nub issue in the debate is the meaning of the Constitution's First Amendment, a double-edged provision saying "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or abridging the free exercise thereof."

In origin, that amendment meant that the federal government could not establish a national religion, and was initially not applied to states, some of which had state churches for years afterward.

Schools then, and for long afterward, remained the business of local communities. But by gradual extension, the federal amendment has been applied to states and localities, with questions now centered on its two-track requirements.

Is allowing group school prayer establishing a government religion, or, on the other hand, is prohibiting such prayer limiting religion's "free exercise?"

Recent interpretations of the amendment by the Supreme Court have varied widely.

Some have tended to bar religious manifestations in state affairs, such as forcing North Carolina to remove a prayer from state maps, forcing Kentucky to remove copies of the Ten Commandments from classroom walls, and stopping public schools from providing for prayer and Bible reading.

On the other hand, other Supreme Court decisions or federal policies have allowed prayers in state legislatures and Congress, chaplains in the armed forces, and religious symbols in city holiday displays.

The differing approaches, as variously phrased on different occasions by the high court, see the amendment either as "accommodating" or excluding marks of religion in the jointly organized public functioning of society.

Beyond the legal differences over it, inconsistent notes have showed up in the arguments over the school prayer amendment.

Opponents say both that school children already can pray privately on their own without feeling different even if the group doesn't pray, but that if the group did pray, it would be hard on those choosing not to do so by making them feel different.

The implication is that those wanting prayer are capable of exercising adult individuality about it apart from a non-praying peer group, but if the group did pray, those choosing not to do it would lack such independent capabilities.

A similar situation exists in regard to schoolroom salutes to the flag, during which those with religious scruples against it, such as Jehovah's Witnesses, need not participate.

Some supporters of school prayer blame the lack of it for widespread social problems without documenting such connections. Some religious educators opposing school-sponsored prayer say that school environments with no attention to religion inevitably imply to children that religion has no value in learning; but they say that instead of prayer, courses "about religion" should be taught in public schools.

That, in essence, is what the Supreme Court said when it outlawed classroom prayer — that any balanced, full education should include objective teaching about religion and its role in human civilization.

Oppose Embassy In Jerusalem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of major Protestant, Eastern Orthodox and Roman Catholic churches have registered opposition to proposed legislation to move the U.S. Embassy in Israel from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem.

They said such a move would undermine the U.S. role in seeking peace in the Middle East.

"Such a unilateral action would exacerbate tensions and heighten frustrations in an already fragile situation," said the Rev. Charles Kimball, Middle East director for the National Council of Churches.

Testimony for the council, including most major Protestant and Orthodox churches, was presented to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee regarding a bill proposed by Sen Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y.

Reid's Chapel Missionary Baptist Church will observe quarterly meeting services Sunday at 11 a.m. with the Rev. Walter Adkins delivering the morning message. Music will be provided by the church's senior choir.

A business meeting for members will be held Friday night.

Religious Books Are Best-Sellers

NEW YORK (AP) — In a rare case, three religious books simultaneously were on The New York Times best-seller list this week, two of them by the same author, the Rev. Robert Schuller of Garden Grove, Calif.

Both his "Tough Times Never Last, But Tough People Do!" and "Tough-Minded Faith for Tenderhearted People" were on the list, along with "Approaching Hoofbeats: Horsemen of the Apocalypse" by evangelist Billy Graham.

Quarterly Meeting

Reid's Chapel Missionary Baptist Church will observe quarterly meeting services Sunday at 11 a.m. with the Rev. Walter Adkins delivering the morning message. Music will be provided by the church's senior choir.

A business meeting for members will be held Friday night.

Stock And Market Reports

By The Associated Press
Hogs

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The trend on the North Carolina hog market today was mostly steady. Kinston, Spivey's Corner, Murfreesboro, and Robersonville 46.00, Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Chadborn, Ayden, Pine Level, Laurinburg and Benson 45.75, Wilson 46.50, Salisbury 45.00, Rowland 45.00. Sows: all weights 500 pounds up; Wilson 43.00, Fayetteville 49.00, Whiteville unreported, Wallace 47.00, Spivey's Corner 48.00, Rowland 48.00. Durham unreported.

Poultry

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 59.00 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pound birds. 64 percent of the loads offered have been confirmed with a final weighted average of 59.00 cents f.o.b. dock or equivalent. The market is steady and the live supply is light to moderate for a moderate demand. Average weights desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Friday was 1,770,000, compared to 1,807,000 last Friday.

Hens

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was steady with a firm undertone. Supplies moderate. Demand good. Prices paid per pound for hens over 7 pounds at farm for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter was 32 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rolled up a strong gain in heavy trading today, responding to signs of progress toward narrowing the federal budget deficit.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials jumped 20.20 to 1,187.60 by noontime on Wall Street. Gainers outnumbered losers by almost 6 to 1 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Late Thursday President Reagan announced an agreement with Republican leaders in Congress on proposals to reduce the projected budget deficit by $74 billion over the next three years.

The plan received a cool initial reception from congressional Democrats. But analysts said stock traders had been looking for months for signs of progress toward resolving the deficit problem.

Another plus for the market was the decline in the money supply reported by the Federal Reserve on Thursday afternoon. Brokers said it eased fears of any stringent credit-tightening by the Fed.

Blue-chip and technology issues leading the advance included International Business Machines, up 1 3/4 at 113 3/4; General Electric, up 1 1/2 at 54; Digital Equipment, up 1 1/2 at 93 3/4, and General Motors, up 3/4 at 69 3/4.

The NYSE's composite index climbed 1.31 to 91.98. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 2.06 at 212.69.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 63.61 million shares at noontime, doubling the 30.82 million total at the same point Thursday.

Await Evidence To File Charges

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Authorities say they are awaiting police reports and a handwriting analysis before filing first-degree murder charges against convicted killer Joseph Paul Franklin in the 1977 slayings of a black man and white woman.

Franklin, 33, is serving a life sentence for the 1980 killings of two black men in Utah as they jogged with a white woman. District Attorney Hal Harlowe said Thursday that charges would be filed next week in the Madison killings, which he said Franklin told authorities about last month.

An avowed racist, Franklin is also a suspect in the 1978 Georgia shooting that crippled Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt and the 1977 firebombing of an Israeli diplomat's home in Washington, D.C., authorities said.

Evacuated Due Chemical Spill

GREENSBORO (AP) — A toxic and flammable chemical leaked in a Greensboro plant Thursday night and a nearby restaurant was evacuated because of fumes, a police officer said.

Officer R.S. Burke said the chemical, which he identified as DEA, began leaking shortly after 8 p.m. at the Phizer Chemical Co. The leak was under control by 9:45 p.m., Burke said, and cleanup had begun.

Same Gun Used In 2 Shootings

NEW YORK (AP) — The May shooting of a watchman at a hotel across from Pennsylvania Station has been linked to the same .25-caliber gun that killed one person and wounded five others in and around the railroad terminal over a 10-month period, police said.

The link came from ballistics evidence that police had "forgotten" until a special task force began investigating the Penn Station shootings, police spokeswoman Alice McGillion said Thursday. Tests this week on bullet fragments gathered at the hotel in May showed they came from the same gun used in the terminal, police said.

The last victim, an Amtrak engineer, died last Saturday of bullet wounds suffered Feb. 21. All the other victims survived.

Shank's Homer Lifts ECU, 7-1

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Mark Shank broke a 1-1 tie with a three-run home run and East Carolina went on to complete a sweep of ECAC-South rival George Mason with a 7-1 baseball victory yesterday.

Shank's round-tripper in the fifth inning helped in him accounting for five of the seven Pirate runs. He drove in four runs altogether and scored another himself.

Robbie McClanahan claimed his second victory on the young season going the distance, but he had some shaky times inbetween. He scattered six hits, walked five and struck out eight.

And Mason hurler Danny Atcheson, who was finally chased in the sixth, confounded the Pirates throughout most of the early part of the game. Through the first four innings, only Shank reached base against him as he retired seven in a row, gave up a triple to Shank, and then sat down five more in a row.

But the Pirates finally got to him for three in the fifth and three more in the sixth.

"I was really concerned there for a while," ECU Coach Hal Baird said. "The guys were in front of him and weren't taking good swings. It seems like when we face a guy like that who isn't real fast, we get so anxious. But Mark's home run got us going and we settled down after that. It's a game I was glad to get."

The win gave the Pirates a fine 2-0 start in the ECAC-South, while Mason, which is now 0-6 overall, is 0-2 in the league. "They're a much better team than their record shows," Baird said. "They'll beat some people in the conference."

Baird said that while McClanahan struggled, throwing 150 pitches in the game, he did make Mason pop up and hit fly balls.

"I'm pleased to win, but I'm not that happy about the way we swung the bats today," Baird added.

East Carolina scored first in the third inning. Shank tripled to deep center with one out and scored on Jabo Fulghum's infield out.

Mason came back with its only run in the top of the fourth, tying it at the time. Carlin Hart walked and Jeff Bowers singled to left. Kevin Burke sacrificed both up, and a sacrifice fly by David White brought Hart in.

And while Mason threatened two other times in the game, McClanahan managed to pitch his way out of trouble and hold on.

East Carolina moved ahead for good in the fifth. David Wells reached on an error and Chris Bradberry singled to left. With one out, Shank hit a 3-2 pitch out of the park in right, and the Pirates led, 4-1.

Three more crossed in the sixth. Greg Hardison walked and Todd Evans singled. Winfred Johnson walked, loading the bases and that chased Atcheson. Wells greeted reliever Mark Holmes with a single to right, scoring Hardison. Bradberry followed with a hit to left, driving in Evans. Johnson was forced at home on Mike Williams' grounder to third, but Shank walked, forcing in Wells

Much Ado About Nothing

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina State University Chancellor Bruce R. Poulton says reports the Wolfpack is considering dropping its football series with East Carolina is "much ado about nothing."

"My feelings are clear. Personally, I'd like to see the series continue," Poulton said Thursday night.

Poulton confirmed that the school's Athletics Council has recommended that the East Carolina series be ended.

"I'm duty-bound to consider" the recommendation, Poulton said. "But it should be what the kids want and the coaches want."

Poulton also said reports about the issue were, "as far as I can see ... has been totally fabricated. As far as I know, we have a contract with them through 1986."

N.C. State Athletics Director Willis Casey would make a recommendation to Poulton before any final decision was made, the chancellor said.

"Nothing is on my desk, and nothing has been presented to me that does not include ECU," he said.

Casey released a statement on Wednesday saying a decision had not been reached and that he would not "discuss the ECU issue" with the media.

Richmond Stuns Auburn

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

It was a bad night for prestige conferences in the NCAA basketball playoffs.

Such teams as Auburn and Louisiana State from the Southeastern Conference, Oregon State from the Pac-10 and St. John's of the Big East went down to defeat as first-round action continued Thursday night.

Auburn was upset by Richmond 72-71 and St. John's lost to Temple 65-63 in the East Regional at Charlotte, N.C.; Oregon State was shocked by West Virginia 67-64 in the Midwest, Memphis State stopped Oral Roberts 92-83 and Louisiana Tech upset Fresno State 66-56, and in Louisiana State dropped a 74-66 decision to Dayton in the West at Salt Lake City.

In the other half of the Mideast, Brigham Young defeated Alabama-Birmingham 84-68. In the Midwest, Memphis State stopped Oral Roberts 92-83 and Louisiana Tech upset Fresno State 66-56, and in the other West first-rounder, Nevada-Las Vegas whipped Princeton 68-56.

The NCAA playoffs continue with first-round action tonight. In the East Regional at East Rutherford, N.J., it's Virginia Commonwealth vs. Northeastern and Virginia against Iona. In the Mideast at Milwaukee, Louisville plays Morehead State and Villanova takes on Marshall.

Illinois State faces Alabama and Kansas meets Alcorn State in the Midwest at Lincoln, Neb., and Nevada-Reno plays Washington and Miami of Ohio tackles Southern Methodist in the West at Pullman, Wash.

John Newman scored 26 points in Richmond's victory over Auburn. The Spiders built a 48-28 lead early in the second half and then held off a frantic rally by the Tigers led by Charles Barkley.

"We didn't play scared at all," Richmond Coach Dick Tarrant said. "We've been through this type of situation all year and have learned from it."

Auburn coach Sonny Smith said the Tigers were hampered by a sluggish first half from which they didn't quite recover.

"Every time we've gone into a game and have started slowly we have come back," Smith said. "But this was our slowest start all year. I think we were tight and we didn't run our offense."

State Hopes Come To Quick End As Seminoles Win, 74-71

By RICK SCOPPE
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina State's drive to become the first team to capture back-to-back NIT and NCAA basketball championships was ended before it began by a Florida State in its first National Invitation Tournament.

Freshman Randy Allen's reverse layup with 41 seconds remaining in overtime enabled the Seminoles to stop the defending NCAA champs 74-71 on Thursday. The Seminoles, 20-10, will play the winner of tonight's Pittsburgh-LaSalle contest in Greensboro on Sunday.

"I thought we intimidated them," Florida State coach Joe Williams said. "I just can't say enough about the job Randy Allen did in there."

Allen, a 6-foot-8 forward, not only

"I believed I'd make it, I'd make it," Gannon added. "I was thinking I'd hit these two and ice it. And it wasn't a bad shot. It just rolled around and came out. Those things happen."

The game was tied 12 times in the second half and neither team was able to get more than a four-point lead.

Vince Martello led Florida State with 17 points. Alton Gipson, who played with a sprained finger on his shooting hand, added 15 for the Seminoles while Shaffer chipped in 11 points and eight assists.

Center Cozelle McQueen ripped off a game-high 18 rebounds for the Wolfpack, which lost its seventh straight game and finished 19-14.

"We felt like there were a lot of things working against us — having to go on the road in this tournament is never easy," Williams said. "Coming into this place (Reynolds Coliseum) and playing the defending national champs ... well, I just can't tell you how great it feels."

Rose, Rams Play To 4-4 Tie

By JIMMY DUPREE
Reflector Sports Writer

SNOW HILL — Steve Wall and Billy Michel combined for a four-hitter and Traye Fuqua ripped a two-run homer, but darkness left the Rose High School Rampants and the Greene Central Rams tied 4-4 after seven innings of baseball action Thursday.

Because the game is non-conference, both coaches agreed it would probably not be completed later. The Rampants host Greene Central Saturday at 1:30 p.m. and Eastern Wayne Tuesday at 4 p.m.

Fuqua's first homer of the year came with one out in the top of the first and Toby Fischer on first base.

The Rampants scored their other two runs in the top of the third as Fischer reached first on a fielder's choice, stole second and moved to third on a throwing error on a pickoff attempt. After the second out, Mike Kinley drew a walk and Fischer scored on a double-steal. Michel singled in Kinley for the Rampants' final run of the day.

Wall pitched two perfect innings before giving up four runs with two out in the third. The Rams managed just three hits off Wall, with two of those in the infield. Michel came on with the bases loaded and struck out Rick Radford to get out of the inning, but Greene Central had already scored four runs to set the final margin.

Brian Hall ripped a single to right field to drive in Radford, who led off the third with a walk, and Jeff Moore, who also received a base on balls.

Todd Grant drew a walk, and Press Harris singled off Wall's glove to load the bases for the Rams. Designated hitter Cotton Joyner beat out an infield single to score Hall, and Grant crossed the plate when Stacy Chase drew the fourth walk of the inning by Wall.

"We had one bad inning with three or four walks," Rose Coach Ronald Vincent said. "I felt as if we're not hitting the ball as well as we should. But you've got to give credit to the Greene Central pitchers; they came on strong."

After the Rampants stranded runners on first and second with one out in the top of the fourth, Michel got into trouble on the mound. Jeff Moore opened with a walk and moved to second on a sacrifice by Kevin Langston.

Michel struck out Mike Warren for the second out, but proceeded to walk Hall and Grant to load the bases. After falling behind in the count, Michel struck out Harris to end the rally.

Neither team threatened until the top of the sixth when the Rampants' Marc Nover singled and stole second base with two outs. Fischer legged out an infield single, but Nover was tagged out at the plate attempting to score the go-ahead run.

The Rams had runners on second and third with two out in the bottom of the seventh, but Michel got out of danger on a ground out.

Nover led the Rampants with a perfect 2-2 at the plate, while Joyner had a pair of hits in three trips for Greene Central.

"We faced the best pitching we've seen to date," Greene Central Coach James Fulghum said. "We've been swinging the bats pretty good. We've got a lot of kids of equal ability, so we've got depth."

Greene Central entertains North Duplin Tuesday in another non-conference contest.

Lady Rams Top Rose

SNOW HILL — Greene Central exploded for six runs in the third inning and gained its second straight win over Rose High School in girls' softball, 7-5, yesterday.

Both teams had scored once in the first and Rose went back out 2-1, with one in the top of the second. But the Lady Rams came up with six in the bottom of the third to take a 7-2 edge.

Rose picked up three more runs in the fifth as Lisa Harkley slapped a three-run homer.

Patronella Davis, Sharon Dawson and Stephanie Streeter each had two hits for Greene Central, while Niansa Outlaw, Harkley and Vickie Parrott each recorded two for Rose.

The Rampettes are now 0-2 while Greene Central is 3-0. The Lady Rams return to action today, hosting Wilson Beddingfield. Rose is idle until Tuesday when it travels to Eastern Wayne.

North Pitt, now 0-1, plays at Conley today.

FARMVILLE — Terry Evans ripped four hits and Joy Peaden picked up the victory on the mound as Farmville Central defeated West Craven 11-9 Thursday in high school softball action.

The Lady Jaguars plated seven runs in the third inning to take an 8-1 lead, then added two more in the fourth to put the game out of reach.

Pam Foreman opened the rally in the fourth with a double and scored on a single by Evans. After a single by Bullock, Hope Moore singled in Evans for the second run.

The Eagles battled back with eight in the top of the fifth, but could come no closer as the Lady Jags evened their record at 1-1.

The Lady Jaguars added an insurance run in the sixth, as Evans led off with a single and later scored on a sacrifice fly by Peaden.

Pam Ellis slapped three hits in as many trips to the plate, while Hope Moore went 3-4 and Diane Bullock 2-3.

Farmville Central travels to North Lenoir today.

Conley 6
Ayden-Grifton 2

LITTLEFIELD — D.H. Conley's girls softball team gained a 6-2 victory over Ayden-Grifton yesterday.

Ayden-Grifton took the initial lead, scoring single runs in the first and second innings for a 2-0 advantage.

But Conley rallied for five runs in the fifth inning and added another run in the sixth.

Michelle Waters led the Conley hitting with three, while Karla McLawnhorn and Karen Carraway each had two.

Juanita Murphy and Meredith Page each had two hits for Ayden-Grifton.

Conley travels to North Pitt today, while Ayden-Grifton is idle until Tuesday when it makes a return visit to Conley.

Jamesville 22
Bear Grass 9

BEAR GRASS — Jamesville High School's girls leaped on Bear Grass in the first inning for ten runs and rolled to a 22-9 softball victory over their Tobacco Belt Conference rival yesterday.

The Lady Bullets went on to add four in the second, five in the third, two in the fourth and one in the fifth.

Bear Grass came up with one in the first and six more in the second.

Dana Byrum hit a lead-off homer in the first for the Lady Bullets, while Cindy Taylor had a three-run homer in the second for the Bears.

Cindy Getchell led Jamesville with four hits, while Rene Brown, Kim Hale, Kay Phelps and Robin Manning each added two for Jamesville. Taylor had three hits to lead Bear Grass.

The Bears are now 0-1 and play host to Aurora today. Jamesville is idle until Tuesday when it also hosts Aurora.

Orrum Ousts Chocowinity

WILSON — Orrum High School lost an early lead, then charged back to gain a 58-41 victory over Chocowinity in the Regional 1-A Basketball Semifinals at Atlantic Christian College last night.

The defeat ended the season for the Lady Indians, who had finished in second place in the Tobacco Belt Conference for 1983-84.

Orrum jumped off to an early 10-2 lead, but the Tribe rallied and knotted the score at 16-16 at the end of the first period. Then, after moving ahead, 22-21, the Indians ran out of steam and were outscored 9-1 the rest of the quarter to trail 31-23 at intermission.

In the third period, Chocowinity tried to come back, outscoring Orrum, 12-10, but the Tribe still trailed, 41-35, as the final quarter opened. In that, Orrum outhit the Indians, 17-6, to take the victory and advance to the regional finals.

April Ford led Orrum with 21 points while Nettie Williams had 16. Kim Green led Chocowinity with 15 points.

Williamston 9
North Pitt 8

BETHEL — Timberly Rogers doubled in a pair of runs in the top of the 11th inning to give Williamston a 9-8 victory over North Pitt Thursday in high school softball action.

North Pitt took the lead in the fifth with a pair of runs. Deloris Pittman doubled, and Bobbi Purvis reached first on an error to drive in the first run. Alice Pittman followed with a single to plate Purvis.

But Williamston knotted the score in the sixth as T. Matthews scored when S. Harrington reached first on an error.

After the Lady Tigers scored their runs in the top of the 11th, North Pitt answered with a lone run in the bottom half of the inning. Francis Woods singled, Deloris Pittman moved her around with a base hit and Bobbi Purvis reached first on an error to drive across the run. A fly ball to left by Alice Pittman ended the game.

Ross Kayos Goldsboro Girls

By The Associated Press
Shannon Thomas hit a jumper with 30 seconds left to lead High Point Andrews to a 45-44 upset victory over Gastonia Ashbrook in the semifinals of the girls state basketball tournament.

In the other game of the 4-A Western Regional of the North Carolina High School Athletic Association playoffs, Greensboro Smith upset Charlotte Independence 42-39 in overtime.

In 2-A Western Regional action, Union Pines, behind an 18-4 spurt in the second half, rallied to defeat Bandy's 66-61 in overtime. Southwest Guilford, now 29-0, beat Sylva-Webster 56-44 in the other contest.

In the 4-A Eastern Regional, Fayetteville Ross trounced

Goldsboro 60-35 and Fayetteville Westover beat Jacksonville 34-28 as Liz Bell scored 17 points.

Twin sisters Phyllis and Lori Gorham scored 25 and 22 points respectively to lead Southwest Edgecombe to a 68-60 victory over Southeast Guilford in the 3-A Eastern Regionals. In the other game, Apex whipped Tarboro 61-56.

Wake Forest-Rolesville edged East Carteret 47-45 in the 2-A Eastern Regionals, while South Robeson got 22 points from Osaie Leach to defeat Hobpton 47-38.

Orrum, who ran its record to 27-0, trounced Chocowinity 58-41 in the opening game of the 1-A Eastern Regional. Wilkinson defeated Princeton in the second game 58-57.

UNC-W Tops Lady Pirates

WILMINGTON — Janet Russell of East Carolina University took a straight-set victory over Jill Amos in the top singles match, but the Lady Seahawks of UNC-Wilmington rebounded for a 6-3 victory Thursday in college tennis action.

Russell won that match 6-3, 6-3, then teamed with Ann Manderfield for a 6-3, 6-3 win over Amos and Angie Frazier in doubles.

The Lady Pirates, now 0-2 on the season, host Peace College Monday at 3 p.m. at the Minges Coliseum courts.

Richmond...

Terence Stansbury's jumper from beyond the key. The Owls squandered a 53-44 lead and Willie Glass' tap-in for St. John's with 7:39 left tied the score at 57.

The teams traded the next three baskets before the Redmen went into a delay to work for the last shot. Chris Mullin was fouled by Jim McLoughlin to force a 1-and-1 shooting situation, but Mullin, the nation's leading free throw shooter at 91.1 percent, missed the first shot.

After a timeout, Stansbury dribbled to the center of the court and fired his one-hand shot just as the buzzer sounded.

"I knew it was in the minute it left my hand," Stansbury said. "This was the biggest shot of my life."

Reserve J.J. Crawl stole a pass near midcourt and hit a driving layup with three seconds remaining as West Virginia upset 17th-ranked Oregon State.

Crawl, who had missed the front end of a 1-and-1 with 21 seconds left, stepped into the path of Alan Tait's pass intended for Charlie Sittan, and drove for the game-winning basket that eliminated the Beavers, who shared the Pac-10 championship with Washington.

West Virginia trailed 56-51 with eight minutes remaining, but fought back for a 60-59 lead with 5:57 left on Renardo Brown's basket.

Sittan converted a three-point play with 5:30 to play, the last shot the Beavers took in the game. Two turnovers by Oregon State gave the Mountaineers the opportunity to tie the game at 62 with 2:02 left on a layup by Dale Blaney.

Roosevelt Chapman scored 29 points and led a second-half surge as Dayton whipped LSU. Chapman, the day's senior on the Dayton squad and the school's all-time leading scorer, scored 10 consecutive points for the Flyers to break open the game.

With Dayton leading 41-40 with about 14 minutes left, Chapman hit a long jumper, a three-point play, two foul shots and another three-point play to put the Flyers up 51-43 with 10:38 remaining. Dayton built its largest lead of the game at 14 points with 2:11 remaining and played keep-away until the end.

Devin Durrant scored 23 points as Brigham Young overpowered Alabama-Birmingham. The Cougars never trailed after Jim Usevitch hit a layup for a 7-6 lead with 16:42 left in the first half.

BYU, the Western Athletic Conference runner-up, surged to a 29-14 lead before UAB fought back, but the Blazers were never able to close the margin to less than four points.

"I'm proud of the way our team responded against a team that is quicker than we are," BYU Coach Ladell Anderson said. "We handled their press well enough to stay on top."

Keith Lee scored 26 points and Memphis State hit clutch free throws in the closing minutes to beat Oral Roberts. Lee hit on 12 of 18 shots from the field and grabbed 11 rebounds.

Playing before a capacity home crowd of 11,200 at the Mid-South Coliseum, the Tigers had trouble putting away Oral Roberts because of the shooting of Mark and Jeff Acres, sons of the ORU coach, Dick Acres. But Memphis State made 13 of 17 free throws in the last 4:31 to sew up the game.

Karl Malone and Wayne Smith led Louisiana Tech, playing in its first NCAA tournament, over Fresno State.

Jags, Chargers Take Baseball Wins

FARMVILLE — Randy Norris hit a three-run homer in the fifth inning to help spark Farmville Central to a 9-2 baseball victory over West Craven High School yesterday.

The victory was the first in two starts for the Jaguars, who played to a 7-7 tie against North Lenoir in their opener.

West Craven took the lead in the third inning of the game, scoring a single run. They added another in the fourth for a 2-0 lead.

But in the fifth, the Jaguars rallied to score four times and take the lead for good. Brian Windom walked and Dennis Tripp reached on an error. Norris then cracked his homer to power Farmville ahead, 3-2.

Randy Daniels followed with a single and he scored when Billy Godley doubled.

The Jaguars then added five more in the sixth to wrap it up.

Daniels and Godley each had two hits for the Jaguars while Daugherty and Elks led the Eagle hitting with each hitting a double.

The win leaves the Jaguars with a 1-0-1 record on the year. They play host to North Lenoir today.

LITTLEFIELD — Doug Coley's two-run triple erased a two-run deficit and helped Ayden-Grifton take an 8-3 baseball victory over D.H. Conley High School yesterday.

The victory evened the Charger record at 1-1 on the season while the Vikings dropped to 0-2. The Charger win was sweeter, too, because it came over former A-G Coach Alan Wilson, now the head coach at Conley.

The Vikings struck first, scoring twice in the top of the first. Steve Mills walked and Todd Cochran singled. Fred Bryant reached on a bunt single, loading the bases. Chris Via then doubled to drive in Mills and Cochran for a 2-0 lead.

The Chargers quickly rallied, however, scoring four in their half of the inning. Wesley Hardee struck out but reached on a passed ball. Jackie Conway was also safe when his sacrifice bunt was errored. Coley followed with a triple, knotting the score at 2-2.

The Chargers kept the rally going with a walk to Roger Moye, who stole second. Shannon Peele then singled in Coley and Eddie Brown's hit plated Moye for a 4-2 lead.

The Chargers then added two in the second and two more in the fourth. The other Conley run came over in the seventh.

Cochran, Bryant and Via each had two hits for Conley, while Hardee, Coley and Moye had a pair each for Ayden-Grifton.

The Chargers play host to Kinston today, while Conley entertains North Pitt.

BEAR GRASS — Jamesville's Rusty Holiday tossed a one-hitter at Bear Grass as the Bullets gained a 6-1 baseball victory yesterday in the Tobacco Belt Conference.

The victory boosted the Bullet record to 2-0 in the league, 2-1 overall. The Bears fall to 0-1 in the league and 0-2 overall.

Holiday, who went the distance, struck out 12 along the way and allowed but two walks. He gave up the lone in to Billy Fulford in the fourth inning when the only Bear run also scored.

The Bullets got all they needed in the first inning, scoring three times. Matthew Moore singled and Greg Hardison reached on an error. Richie Ange doubled both of them across then scored on a sacrifice fly by Kevin Perry later in the frame.

The Bullets added three more in the fifth frame.

No one had more than one hit for the Bullets.

Jamesville plays host to Aurora on Tuesday, while the Bears entertain the same team this afternoon.

ROBERSONVILLE — Duane Whittenburg hurled a two-hitter and the Washington Pam Pack rattled off 10 hits to take a 14-2 victory as the Roanoke Redskins pitching faltered in the early innings Thursday in Northeastern 3-A high school baseball action.

Whittenburg went the distance on the mound to record the win for the Pam Pack, now 2-0 on the season.

Steve Oden and Joey Ange had two hits each in four trips to the plate to lead the Pam Pack.

Roanoke, now 2-1, travels to Edenton today, while Washington remains idle until hosting Edenton Tuesday.

CHOCOWINITY — Chocowinity High School evened its baseball record at 2-2 on the year with a 9-4 victory over Columbia yesterday in a Tobacco Belt Conference game.

The Indians took the lead in the second inning scoring twice. But the bit blow came in the third, with the Tribe scoring seven times for a 9-0 advantage.

Phillip Terry opened the third with a single and Donnie Squires got a hit to drive in him. Larry Harding walked and Shawn Harding reached on an error, loading the bases. Billy Craig singled in two runs, and Kevin Tyree reached on an error, scoring two more. Patrick Wells was safe on an error, scoring Tyree and Terry, back up, singled in Wells. Squires then singled to score Terry with the final run of the frame.

Columbia came up with two runs in the fifth and added two more in the seventh.

Chocowinity is now 1-1 in league play and travels to Belhaven on Wednesday.

Terry led the Chocowinity hitting with three while Shawn Harding had two, one of them a double.

Rampant Golfers Topple New Bern

NEW BERN — Rose High School's golfers won their second straight match of the season yesterday, downing New Bern's Bears at the New Bern Golf and Country Club.

The Rampants finished the round with a team total of 315, well ahead of New Bern's 341.

Jordy Smith paced Rose with a 73, while Simon Moye was next at 79. Pete McCurdy had an 80 and Mike Herrin carded an 83.

Ashley Scott and Mike Bersch each had 83 for New Bern, while Johnny Bayliss had 86 and Robbie Barnes had an 89.

Rose is now 2-0 on the year and travels to Rocky Mount on Monday.

High School came away with a ten-stroke victory in a tri-match with Ayden-Grifton and Kinston yesterday.

The match was held at the Ayden Golf and Country Club.

Eastern finished the afternoon with a 317 total, while Ayden-Grifton was second with 327. Kinston finished another stroke back at 328.

Jeremy Shadle led the Chargers with a 77, while Marc Davis had 82, Brian Heath had 83 and Rob Congleton had 85.

The split left Ayden-Grifton with a 1-1 record on the season.

Baker's Finesse Earns Pole For Coca Cola 500 Event

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — Buddy Baker is better known for a heavy foot on the accelerator than for his finesse in a race car.

Part of that image is due to his 6-foot-5, 215-pound stature, but it's also true that he has won most of his 19 career victories on the horsepower tracks, where the car that goes the fastest for the longest wins.

But the 43-year-old Charlotte, N.C., driver finessed his Ford Thunderbird to the pole position for the Coca Cola 500 Grand National stock car race with a fast lap of 166.542 mph Thursday on Atlanta International Raceway's 1.522-mile oval.

His lap speed was .010-second faster than Ricky Rudd, who put his Ford on the other front-row spot for Sunday's race with an average speed of 166.592.

"Whew," said the smiling Baker. "If I hadn't slipped in the second corner on the first (qualifying) lap, I might have won the pole by two or three-tenths of a second. But I'll take it any way you can get it."

It was his first pole position of the season — matching his total of each of the past two seasons — but the seventh of his career on this track, breaking a tie for the most with Cale Yarborough.

"That surprised me," said Baker, who also has won two races at AIR. "I had no idea I'd had that much success here in qualifying. I guess I do know this track pretty well."

Yarborough was third fastest among the 15 drivers who qualified Thursday for 40-car field. His Chevrolet Monte Carlo SS was clocked at 166.480, just beating out another Ford, driven by local favorite Bill Elliott from nearby Dawsonville, Ga., who had a 166.415.

Fords always seem to qualify and race well at this track, and Baker had an answer for that.

"This track is right in the power range for our (Ford) cars," Baker explained. "The General Motors cars generally are better on the horsepower tracks like Daytona and Talladega."

"And we go particularly well through the corners, and this track has got more corner than straight-away."

This is Baker's second full season with the Wood Brothers, based in Stuart, Va., and he feels very comfortable with the situation.

"We're off to a pretty good start, really," Baker said. "We were running supergood at Daytona and had a lug-bolt problem, and we finished fifth at Rockingham (two weeks ago). Now we've got a pole and a win here would really get us going."

Defending Winston Cup champion Bobby Allison will share the third row Sunday with Lake Speed. Allison, not a particularly strong qualifier in recent years, toured the track in his Buick Regal at 166.278 Thursday. Speed had a 166.253 in a Chevy.

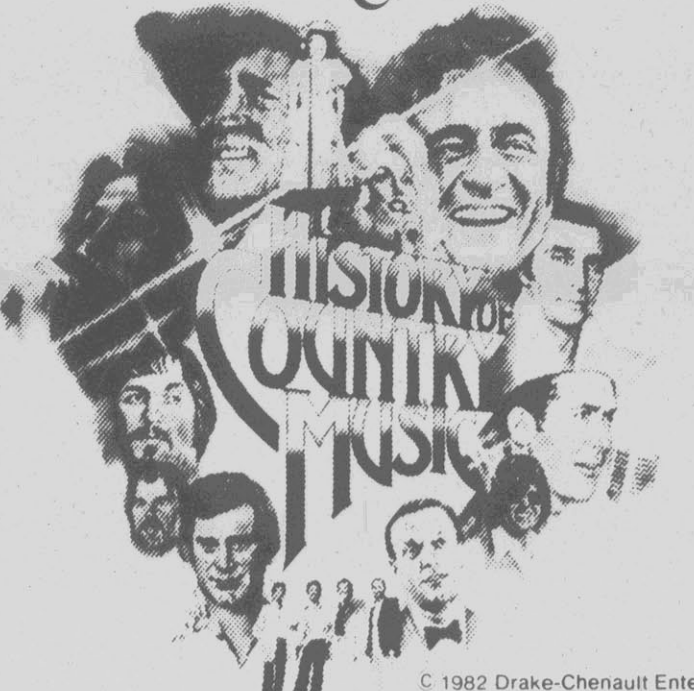

Ron Bouchard's Buick and Benny Parsons' Chevrolet also were over 166, while Dale Earnhardt, Richard Petty, Harry Gant, Geoff Bodine, Tim Richmond and Darrell Waltrip all were quick enough to finish ahead of the 165.480 of 15th qualifier Dave Marcis.

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — The top 15 qualifiers for Sunday's Coca Cola 500 Grand National stock car race, with type of car and qualifying speed in mph:

1. Buddy Baker, Ford Thunderbird, 166.542.
  2. Ricky Rudd, Ford Thunderbird, 166.592.
  3. Cale Yarborough, Chevrolet Monte Carlo SS, 166.480.
  4. Bill Elliott, Ford Thunderbird, 166.415.
  5. Bobby Allison, Buick Regal, 166.278.
  6. Lake Speed, Chevrolet Monte Carlo SS, 166.253.
  7. Ron Bouchard, Buick Regal, 166.117.
  8. Benny Parsons, Chevrolet Monte Carlo SS, 166.107.
  9. Dale Earnhardt, Chevrolet Monte Carlo SS, 165.951.
  10. Richard Petty, Pontiac Grand Prix, 165.870.
  11. Harry Gant, Chevrolet Monte Carlo SS, 165.830.
  12. Geoff Bodine, Chevrolet Monte Carlo SS, 165.755.
  13. Tim Richmond, Pontiac Grand Prix, 165.710.
  14. Darrell Waltrip, Chevrolet Monte Carlo SS, 165.685.
  15. Dave Marcis, Pontiac Grand Prix, 165.480.
- The rest of the 40-car field will be filled in time trials Friday and Saturday.

Fugitives Are Captured In Lawmen's 'Delivery' Trick

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dreaming up schemes more creative than most TV police shows, law-enforcement officials have used a fake package-delivery service, phony job interviews and a "free" trip to Reno, Nev., to round up 2,116 fugitives.

Stanley E. Morris, director of the U.S. Marshal's Service, said Thursday that entrapment was not an issue in the sting arrests because warrants already had been issued for the fugitives.

"This was not to entrap, this was to ensure a safe arrest," Morris said as he described a 10-week fugitive roundup by his service and local police which ended Wednesday night.

The "FIST Bonded Delivery Service" was a popular sting used when authorities found the address of a fugitive, he said. "FIST" is short for the federal Fugitive Investigative Strike Teams.

If no one was home, officials left a note telling the fugitive to call a phone number to arrange for delivery of a valuable package.

"Our man on the phone would arrange a time and place for dispatch of the package, telling the caller to be sure to have good identification," Morris said. "What the fugitive got when he reached for the package was a pair of handcuffs instead."

If the fugitive was home, the "delivery man" would ask him to come out to the van and pick up the package. The arrest was then made.

The scheme greatly decreased the danger to arresting officers, said Thomas Kupferer, the service's chief inspector.

"By asking the fugitive out of the house ... it erases the obvious perils of having to break in and search for someone who probably is armed and willing to shoot policemen," Kupferer said.

In Fresno County, members of arresting teams got creative in devising operations that rounded up 200 fugitives, sheriff's Detective Lt. Jim Daily said.

One such operation netted a fugitive who ran a phony home-insulation business that had bilked people out of thousands of dollars, U.S. Marshal George Richardson said.

For that suspect, the team left a message on the fugitive's telephone answering machine telling him to come to a motel for a job interview.

"He showed up in a suit and tie and we showed up with the handcuffs," Richardson said.

Another fugitive was seized after a team notified him that he'd won a free trip to Reno, Nev. He was arrested when he showed up for his tickets, Richardson said.

Similar schemes have been used in some of the five previous FIST operations since 1981, Kupferer said. The others were in Michigan, New York City, Washington, Miami and Los Angeles in 1982.

"It is amazing how gullible people can be," he said. "In one city, we set up a travel agency and sent out offers for free gambling junkets to Atlantic City. They really responded to that scam, and we were also successful when we set up an office to hire workers for a construction project."

Despite the wide use of stings, most of the arrests resulted from "hard work, and wearing out a lot of shoe leather," Morris said.

Of those arrested, 79 percent were involved in crimes of violence or drug offenses. Records indicated that the fugitives had a total of 10,215 career arrests — about five per person.

The fugitives arrested included 24 sought on murder warrants, 39 for rape, 13 for kidnapping, 22 for manslaughter and attempted murder and 272 for robbery.

In addition to the 2,116 arrests, another 370 warrants were cleared, there were 30 arrests on probable cause and another 203 suspects were located.

Man Pleads Guilty In Freezer Murder Case

RUTHERFORDTON, N.C. (AP) — A man accused of killing his girlfriend's infant son by putting him in a freezer because he wouldn't eat agreed to plead guilty to second-degree murder Thursday.

Ronnie Dale Smith, 21, made the plea after the state reduced the first-degree murder charge because it couldn't prove that the killing was premeditated.

"In his statement, he said he was drunk, he put the child in the freezer and forgot about it," said Rutherford County District Attorney Alan Leonard. "It may well have been intentional, but we didn't have any facts to prove it."

Lt. Ronnie McCombs of the Rutherford County Sheriff's Department said Smith told him he placed Michael in the freezer compartment of a refrigerator after the child refused to eat.

"He said, 'I made a pizza and he wouldn't eat it ... so I got mad and jerked him up and put him in the freezer,'" McCombs said.

McCombs said Smith told him that he had drunk 10 cans of beer and smoked two marijuana cigarettes the day the child died.

Two-year-old Michael Brandon Lowrey was found face-down with his knees drawn up to his chest by his mother, Linda Lowrey Oct. 21 when she returned home from work. Authorities said he died of suffocation and exposure.

Second-degree murder carries a maximum sentence of life in prison. Smith's sentencing hearing is scheduled for Friday morning.

The plea came shortly before the Rutherford County courthouse was to close at 5 p.m., and surprised observers.

Smith's attorney returned from a recess to inform Snapp of the agreement.

'Gala Of Stars' Highlight Of The Public TV Season

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Gala of Stars" has been an annual highlight of the public television season since 1980. This year's show, taped at Radio City Music Hall for broadcast Sunday night, is no exception.

"We like to make each one better," said Peter Weinberg, producer of each of the five "Gala" programs, "and I'm not sure if this is the best, but I know it's the biggest."

The theater audience of 6,000 on Feb. 28 in the renowned auditorium in Rockefeller Center was indeed the largest for a "Gala" production, and the cast of two dozen as illustrious as ever.

Beverly Sills, general director of the New York City Opera, and James Levine, music director of the Metropolitan Opera, both return for the fifth year, Miss Sills as hostess and Levine to conduct the American Symphony Orchestra.

The American Symphony has performed at every show except the first one. "Gala of Clabs" is the concluding program in public TV's annual "Festival" subscription drive.

While "Gala" is devoted primarily to classical music and dance, "Sentimental Journeys," scheduled for broadcast Saturday night, is a tribute to some of the stars of American popular music.

The lineup for that three-hour program, taped before an audience at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, includes Georgia Gibbs, Julius LaRosa, Kay Starr and Nancy Wilson.

"Each year," Weinberg said of "Gala," "we try to make a different show, and in this city, that means moving the venue. We started at the Met, went to Carnegie Hall the next year, then the City Center and last year the State Theater."

"I've had Radio City in the back of my mind for some time," he said, "but it wasn't until this summer that I saw a show there and realized you could create the impression of intimacy, as well as provide for performance on a grand scale."

Weinberg said availability always has been a primary consideration in casting the show, though timeliness is a factor, too. Soprano Jessye Norman and bass Samuel Ramey, both of whom made their debuts at the Metropolitan Opera in the current season, were among those lined up for the program.

Ramey appeared in the 1980 and '82 shows, while Miss Norman was on the "Gala" stage for the first time.

"I've wanted for years to have James Galway," Weinberg said, "and this year we got him." The Irish flutist plays a selection from Mozart.

Westminster Choir College perform in the "Triumphal Scene" from the second act of Verdi's "Aida." "I felt that was the grandest thing we could do," the producer said.

It took more than five hours to tape the show, which has been edited for broadcast in three. "The program is carefully planned out before we start," Weinberg said, "but they've got to come prepared to sit."

One member of the audience who sat through the entire taping said: "It was worth the wait. Where else could you see all of these wonderful people on the same stage?"

Public's Choices In Entertainment

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Adding yet another honor to the long list garnered since the release of his record-breaking "Thriller" album, singer Michael Jackson was named all-around male entertainer of the year in the 10th annual People's Choice awards.

Barbra Streisand and Barbara Mandrell shared all-around female entertainer honors, the fifth People's Choice award for each.

Winners also tied in two other categories of awards announced Thursday night in a live telecast on CBS from Santa Monica Civic Auditorium.

The awards were based on a special Gallup Poll survey in which members of the general public are asked their opinions on television, movies and music.

Burt Reynolds collected his eighth People's Choice award, sharing favorite motion picture actor honors with Clint Eastwood, who earned his second award.

In the favorite television drama category, prime-time soap opera "Dynasty" shared the honor with police drama "Hill Street Blues."

Jackson, who won an unprecedented eight Grammy Awards as well as an unprecedented eight American Music Awards in the past two months, also won the favorite music video award for the 14-minute, $1.2 million "Thriller" film.

Meryl Streep was named favorite motion picture actress, Tom Selleck of "Magnum, P.I." won favorite male TV performer and Linda Evans of "Dynasty" won favorite female TV performer. It was the third award for Selleck and Miss Evans.

Other honored performers were Kenny Rogers, who picked up his fifth People's Choice award by winning favorite country music performer, and actress-model Brooke Shields, who earned favorite young motion picture performer honors, her fourth award.

Mr. T of the "A-Team" and Madeline Kahn of "Oh, Madeline" were named favorite male and female performers in new TV programs.

Trip Awaits Replica Of 17th Century Ship

By JEAN McNAIR

Associated Press Writer

JAMESTOWN, Va. (AP) — A replica of the 17th-century Godspeed will sail next year from England to America, re-enacting its pioneering voyage in what organizers hope will solve an identity problem for this historic Virginia community.

Residents hope to remind potential tourists that the first permanent English-speaking settlers in the New World arrived here in 1607. The Pilgrims didn't get to better-known Plymouth Rock in Massachusetts until 1620.

"People come to the Jamestown Festival Park and want to see the rock," said Ross Weeks Jr., executive director of the Jamestown-Yorktown Foundation. "There is a general lack of clarity on the origins of the United States. It's often said that New England had better PR people than Virginia."

Three small ships — the Susan Constant, the Godspeed and the Discovery — carried 104 men on a five-month passage across the stormy Atlantic to Virginia.

The recreated voyage with just the Godspeed will take three months and a crew of eight.

The three ships were reconstructed for the 350th anniversary of the Jamestown landing in 1957. By 1980, though, the ships were rotting and park officials decided to rebuild the fleet.

The completed 102-foot Susan Constant sits along a pier at the park, but can't be taken to sea because it is weighed down by cement ballast.

The 68-foot Godspeed and the tiny 49-foot Discovery are still under construction and are scheduled to be launched May 12. The Godspeed will undergo sea trials in preparation for its voyage, but the Discovery will not make the trip because it is so small.

The two ships are being rebuilt with $728,500 in state funds. The voyage, however, will be privately funded except for $57,800 in state-paid insurance costs. The trip will cost about $240,000 and about $145,000 has been raised so far, Weeks said.

Plans call for the Godspeed to travel by freighter to England in January or February. It will spend several weeks on display at Ipswich Port, near Otley Hall, family home of the original Godspeed's captain, Bartholomew Gosnold. The ship will set sail on April 1, 1985, from Blackwall, where the original voyage started.

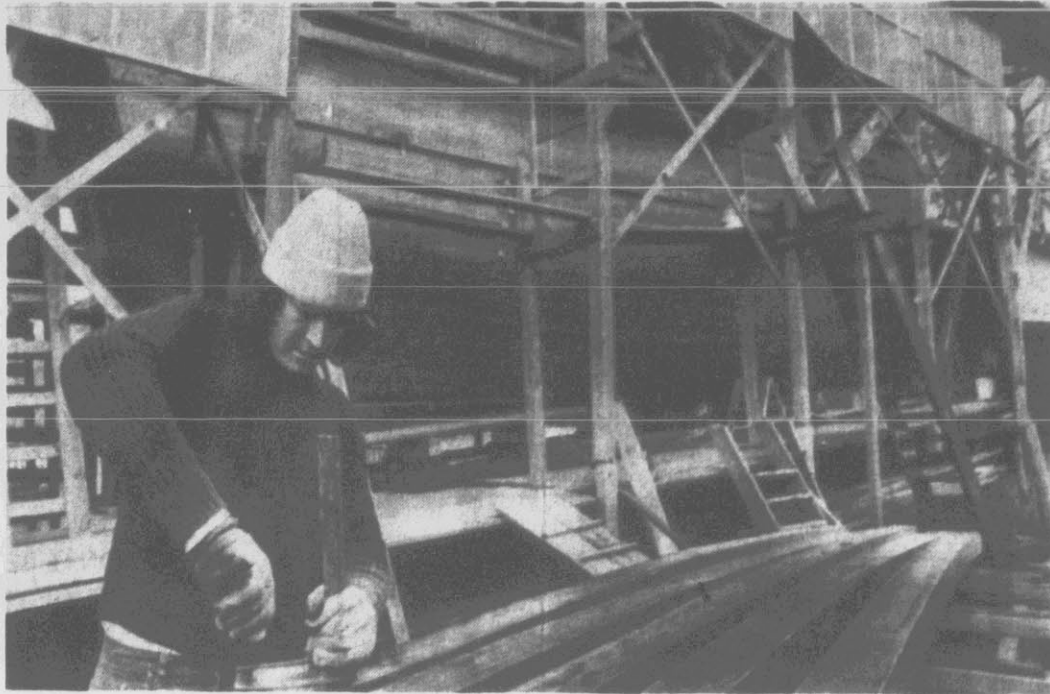

"It gives Virginia an opportunity to re-establish very strong historical ties with England," Weeks said. "Also ... it reminds people that the English settled in Jamestown."

The ship will stop at Tenerife in the Canary Islands, Martinique and other Caribbean islands and Cape Henry in Virginia Beach as it recreates the original voyage. The Godspeed is scheduled to reach Jamestown on June 24, 1985.

The original journey lasted from Dec. 20, 1606 to May 13, 1607, but the pioneers were delayed by storms and a lack of good navigational equipment.

The 1984 version of the Godspeed will have modern radio and satellite tracking equipment. Crew members will rely on wind power, dress in 17th-century garb and sleep on hard wooden bunks. But, unlike their predecessors, they will have indoor plumbing, fresh water storage tanks and a propane stove for cooking.

Sue IRS For Taxes

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The University of North Carolina has filed suit in federal court to recover almost $5 million in income taxes and interest the Internal Revenue Service collected last year on 1971-77 earnings from university-owned facilities.

The university contends in the lawsuit that the taxes were "erroneously and illegally assessed and collected."

The dispute concerns revenues from the water and sewer, electric utility and telephone systems owned and operated by the university until 1977, when it sold the utilities for $44 million.

Assistant Attorney General George W. Boylan, who represents the university in the lawsuit, said the suit was filed after it exhausted its administrative remedies in a controversy that has dragged on since 1975.

The IRS ruled in 1982 that the university owed back taxes because furnishing utility services to the surrounding community constituted an unrelated business or trade.

"The operation of utilities was the university's response to the need to provide for itself utility services," Farris W. Womack, vice chancellor for business and finance for UNC-CH. "Therefore, the activity was not an unrelated business — it was a necessary business."

"We have paid only reluctantly," Boylan said. The IRS has refused the university's claim for a refund, so a lawsuit was the next step, Boylan said.

Wrong Choice To Get Repair Job

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — A man picked the wrong jeweler to fix his watch, and the mistake landed him in jail, police say.

Noland C. Spiers of Forrest County was arrested on auto burglary charges after someone allegedly broke into a truck parked at a hospital Monday and made off with a jeweler's briefcase containing $22,500 worth of watches, rings and other jewelry, said Detective Richard Cox.

Spiers was arrested Tuesday after he showed up at the jeweler's store to get a watch repaired, "one of the same watches that was in the briefcase," Cox said.

"The jeweler recognized the watch immediately, called police and the defendant was arrested a short time later," the detective said.

Somehow, Secrets Disclosed To Publication

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The latest "Jane's All the World's Aircraft" contained new details on three new Soviet interceptors, a strategic bomber and the world's biggest transport plane, the AN-400 Condor — every one of them on the Kremlin's secret list.

The publication was the latest in a long line of coups for John W. Taylor, veteran editor of the authoritative yearbook and one of the world's foremost aviation experts.

But, he said in an interview with The Associated Press, he didn't get the information through a network of agents or undercover sources inside the Soviet Union.

He got it by reading everything available on Soviet planes, tapping old friends in key positions in Soviet aviation and adding two and two to get four.

"We don't have any private spy system or anything like that," said Taylor, 61.

"It's all above board. Our biggest asset is the trust of aviation people, military and civilian, around the world.

"We don't encourage espionage. For instance, a businessman I know told me he was going to East Germany and asked if we wanted him to get photographs of Soviet planes.

"I turned him down. We don't want people getting chopped playing spies. I don't believe the odd scoop is worth risking the life of a friend or anyone else.

"We'd rather err on the side of caution. If we're not sure of something I work on the old adage, 'When in doubt, leave out.'"

Playing it straight pays off. The Americans let him sit in the cockpit of the prototype F-16 Falcon when the jet fighter was still on the restricted list, and asked his opinion.

The current yearbook includes two pages and plan drawings of China's Qiang-5 "Fantan" fighter — courtesy of the People's Republic. "I know most of the Soviet designers personally. I know what they're like and how they think," Taylor said.

"Between that and assessing what they need to produce it's not really that hard to come up with the kind of data that we do."

"One plane leads to another," he added. "Soviet aircraft design is primarily based on what's gone before."

"A lot of what we do is simply projecting on known data. For instance, the next major Soviet development will likely be a helicopter designed to shoot down other helicopters, that's where the gap is."

Taylor, the aircraft annual's fourth editor, has been at the controls for 25 years and has earned a reputation for hitting it right on the button.

His expertise, and that of the editors and researchers of 13 other Jane's yearbooks, has made the weighty annuals — the aircraft yearbook weighs 10 pounds — the bible of defense experts from Australia to Zambia.

Taylor, an aviation engineer, works 100 hours a week for six months of the year collating the mountain of data for the yearbook, charting new entries and updating the 6,000 aircraft listed. He has a staff of six, including his son Michael, an assistant compiler.

In World War II, Taylor worked with the legendary British designer Sir Sidney Camm, who produced the Hawker Hurricane fighter plane. He thinks his engineering background is invaluable.

"An engineer can look at an item of equipment and generally know whether it works or not," he said.

When the Soviets brought out their first supersonic bomber, the TU-22 "Blinder," a few years back they claimed it had a top speed of Mach 2.5, around 1,900 miles an hour.

Taylor estimated its best speed was closer to Mach 1.5, or around 1,000 mph, and was proved correct.

"It had very small air intakes and any engineer could tell that the speed must be far lower than what was claimed," he said.

Jane's publishing house is celebrating its 75th year this year. It was founded in 1909 by Fred T. Jane, a navy enthusiast and inquisitive son of a Devonshire clergyman. He envisioned aircraft carriers, torpedoes and other advances in the science of war long before his contemporaries.

These days the Jane's annuals are deemed authoritative sources from the Kremlin to the White House.

Every year, Soviet defense attaches and other experts troop around to Jane's offices in unfashionable north London to pick up advance copies of the annuals.

"The only difference between them and Western attaches is that they don't even bother returning the proofs we supply," said Jane's spokesman, Richard Coltart.

Jane's first book was "Fighting Ships," published in 1897. It had 221 pages of pen-and-ink drawings, done by Fred T. Jane himself, and an index of about 1,000 warships, virtually every ironclad afloat at the time.

The latest edition has 800 pages, lists 15,000 naval vessels and is required reading for officers of the world's navies.

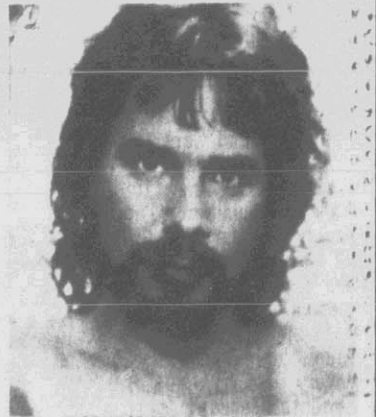

In 1909, the year Louis Bleriot became the first man to fly across the English Channel, Fred T. Jane launched "All The World's Aircraft."

These days, Jane's — now owned by the Toronto-based Thomson Group — publishes annuals on infantry weapons, armor, missiles, freight containers, railways, avionics, airport equipment, military equipment, communications, surface skimmers and merchant ships.

It publishes a quarterly defense review and in January launched a defense affairs weekly. Among the weekly's scoops: details on the Soviets' SA-13 missile being deployed around Moscow, NATO admirals complaining about the lack of warships and the likely new lineup in the Soviet navy leadership.

Leaded Gasoline Ban Is Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency has received a request from two states, two cities and four private groups for a ban or a sharp limit on the use of lead in gasoline starting in 20 months.

The petition also asked for a ban on EDB and its sister chemical, ethylene dichloride or EDC, in gasoline. Leaded gasoline uses 85 percent of EDB produced in the United States.

The petition was signed by the states of Illinois and Massachusetts, the cities of Chicago and New York, the Environmental Defense Fund, the Natural Resources Defense Council, the Consumers Union, the Center for Science in the Public Interest and four physicians.

 Pass Pass 4♥ 4♣

 Opening lead: Jack of ♥.

You don't have to cooperate with declarer. If you can see what he has in mind, you might find a way to thwart him.

In third seat, East's opening bid of four hearts is a reasonable shot. South has no alternative other than to try four spades.

West's lead of a heart is automatic — and devastating for declarer since it knocked out the only entry to the table. Declarer was faced with the prospect of losing a trump, two diamonds and a club. He decided that his best chance for the contract was to engineer an end play.

Declarer won the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart. Then led the king of trumps. West won the ace and exited safely with a trump. Declarer drew the remaining trumps, cashed the ace of clubs and now made the fine play of the king of diamonds.

A careless West would follow low, and the hand would be over. East would win and force declarer with a heart, but declarer would lead another diamond and West would be forced to win and lead a club, and declarer's loser in that suit would vanish.

Fortunately, West was alive to the end play possibilities. He countered elegantly by dropping the queen of diamonds under the king! East cooperated with his partner by allowing the king to win, and declarer was helpless.

South tried as best he could by continuing with a diamond. East won the ten, cashed the ace and exited with a heart. Declarer was forced to ruff, and he saw that he had no way to make his contract. The hand counted out, and he knew that West had all the remaining clubs, including the queen. He could not avoid losing a trick to the lady in black for down one.

Agree To Extend Wetlands Project

WASHINGTON (AP) — A private foundation has agreed to extend its wetlands improvement projects from Canada and Mexico into the United States for the first time.

Ducks Unlimited Inc., a Chicago-based group which has been supporting similar projects in Canada and Mexico for 47 years, signed a memorandum of understanding with the Interior and Agriculture departments. The foundation will support improvements to waterfowl breeding grounds controlled by the Interior Department's Fish and Wildlife Service and Bureau of Land Management and by the Agriculture Department's Forest Service.

Ducks Unlimited, which is financed by private grants and the sale of waterfowl stamps in many states, has sent $237 million to Canada over the years.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 17, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Most of the day is good for you to get into those errands and duties that you do not like very much but which have to be done some time, so get them in back of you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can easily handle those duties ahead of you while the sun shines, but later be with good friends. Take time to improve health.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Go to beauty or barber shop, and get your appearance improved early in the day. Do what your mate expects of you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Early handle all those small duties at home, and they will soon be behind you. Not a good day to invite guests into your home.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Fine morning for shopping and marketing and visiting a few good friends. Entertain at home.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Get bookkeeping done and try to get monetary matters better arranged during the daytime, since tonight you want to be with good friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Delve into personal or business duties, and they are soon behind you, then be with friends and clear up some annoying matter.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan a new campaign for gaining your goals during the day. Arrive at the right decision about some romantic affair.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Instead of asking a favor from a friend, find some way of handling the matter yourself. Think about finances today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A public duty awaits your attention so handle it early and conscientiously. Use tact in some credit matter.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have a project to finish, so don't run off on some tangent or other. Don't take any risks with an influential person.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get your bills paid, and go over statements carefully. Show your mate that you are loyal and kind.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Much talk with partners should be confidential and without prejudice for best results. Make sure pay attention to details.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who will be fussy about having everything around him or her in apple-pie order. Encourage this so that the life can be successful and inspiring to others. One who will have many friends and be willing to help others.

Refund In Diverting Of Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas oil and gas producer has been ordered by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to refund $2.6 million to Florida's main natural gas pipeline company and its customers.

The commission ruled that Coastal Oil & Gas Corp. between 1965 and 1979 illegally diverted to its own intrastate pipeline subsidiary in Texas some 1.9 billion cubic feet of gas that it had contracted in 1958 to sell to Florida Gas Transmission Corp.

The commission refused, however, to go along with a recommendation by one of its law judges that Coastal, based in Houston, should be made to pay Florida Gas the entire 1958 contract price of the 1.9 billion cubic feet that was diverted. That amount was estimated by Coastal at $6 million-plus.

Campaign Against Adoptions Fraud

By MICHAEL BATES
Associated Press Writer

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A small-town police chief who spent $2,000 of his own money to doggedly pursue an adoption agency investigation from southern Arizona to the halls of Congress says he just "wanted to help people."

Chase police Chief John Grubb, 25, began his investigation of an agency called Casas Para Los Ninos — Homes For The Children three months ago after hearing of a local couple who said they paid the agency thousands of dollars but had not received a child.

Due in part to Grubb's efforts, Kansas Attorney General Robert Stephan filed suit March 8 asking that Debbie Tanner of Willcox, Ariz.; Bryan Hall of El Paso, Texas; and Becci Kelley of New Market, Iowa, refund an estimated $46,000 in fees paid to them by Kansas residents. The suit also asks that the three be fined $2,000 for each violation of the state's consumer protection law.

The three have denied any wrongdoing, and no criminal charges have been filed against them.

Today Grubb was to take his campaign to Washington by testifying at an adoption-law hearing called by the Senate Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on courts. Subcommittee chairman Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., arranged the hearing after learning of Grubb's investigation.

Also scheduled to testify were law-enforcement officials, government adoption experts and an Iowa couple who say they too never got a child despite paying big fees to the agency.

Grubb, the only police officer in Chase, a town of 800 people about 70 miles northwest of Wichita, began his investigation in December after a local couple, Don and Pat King, said they were having trouble getting a Mexican baby after they gave the agency $4,000.

In a telephone interview Wednesday, the chief said that when he learned of the problem, the Kings already had waited six months longer than they were told it would take.

Since then, a Mexican woman has claimed her daughters were obtained from her for adoption illegally. She is trying to get the girls back.

"I don't have any hope of getting a child from them now," Mrs. King said. "I'd rather be out the $4,000 than be sitting here worrying about whether someone was going to come get my baby. We're really bitter about the whole thing."

Grubb said about 80 clients in 20 states have paid between $1,000 to $10,000 to the agency, and none has received a baby.

Iowa Attorney General Tom Miller filed a consumer-protection lawsuit against the three in June, and later received a temporary order prohibiting them from operating Casas Para Los Ninos in that state.

The FBI also is reportedly investigating the agency. But Grubb wants more than lawsuits.

"I'm not interested in consumer-fraud suits," he said. "I'm interested in criminal prosecution."

Determined to bring the case to court, Grubb spent about $2,000 of his own money on long-distance telephone calls in his investigation. He said he assumed the expense because he knew the town council wouldn't finance his probe.

One of the calls was to Ms. Tanner in Willcox. She had claimed to be a liaison between prospective adoptive parents and Mexican lawyers who could obtain babies who had been given up for adoption.

Grubb said the woman denied her identity when he called her at a construction company office. He kept her on the line and asked the Willcox Police Department to send an officer to verify that the woman was who she said she wasn't.

"The telephone has been my most powerful investigatory tool," he said.

"I always wanted to help people," Grubb said. "I said I would either be a social worker or a minister. So I ended up as a police chief."

Teacher Pay Hike in Education Plan

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina teachers and school administrators would get a 15 percent pay raise under a $300 million plan approved by Gov. Jim Hunt's Commission on Education for Economic Growth.

The commission on Thursday approved the plan to upgrade the state's public schools. The commission is expected to ask the Legislature for the money at the short legislative session in June.

"Education is the most important thing in this state, the most important function state government has," House Speaker Liston B. Ramsey, D-Madison, said on Thursday.

"I hope we can find the salaries, and if they need the equipment, I hope we can buy it and reduce the class size," Ramsey said.

The plan calls for boosting starting teachers' pay from $13,660 to $15,710 in the coming year and raising the top pay for teachers with master's degrees by 21 percent, to $26,180.

Other recommendations include a career growth program for teachers, designed to give them more responsibility and pay as they gain experience and professional ability, and a similar plan for administrators.

The commission agreed to implement the career growth plan no later than 1987-88, but said it should be ready for widespread testing by 1985-86.

"Charlotte-Mecklenburg is really only starting its experiment this fall," said Hunt, referring to that system's career ladder plan for teachers.

"We could be one year behind so we wouldn't repeat their mistakes and would learn from their experience," Hunt said.

R. Brent Hackney, Hunt's deputy press secretary, said the governor would propose to the General Assembly in June a 10 percent increase for all state employees, including teachers. But teachers also would be advanced one pay grade on the state salary schedule, earning an additional 5 percent raise.

The report also calls for:
— Reducing class size by providing one teacher for each 26 students in grades 4-6.

— Upgrading equipment in science and mathematics laboratories.

— Increasing the secondary textbook allocation from $9 to $15 per student.

— Providing one-time funds to implement the current elementary textbook adoption schedule. Within two years, funds would be provided to establish computer laboratories in every school.

— Establishing an Office for School Discipline within the Department of Crime, Control and Public Safety to serve as a resource to local schools on discipline-related matters.

Clears Network Of False Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission staff has cleared NBC of a charge that the network "deliberately distorted, slanted and falsified" a 1983 news report on strip mining regulation.

In a three-page opinion signed by Milton O. Gross, the chief of the fairness and political programming branch, has ruled that the American Legal Foundation failed to submit evidence that showed NBC executives or reporters had intentionally falsified the news report.

The American Legal Foundation is a conservative public-interest law firm based in Washington.
