Mixed Reaction To School Honors Program

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The proposed honors program for the Greenville City Schools received an across-the-board mixture of support, caution in adopting the program, and opposition at a public input session at Rose High School

Monday night.

The recommended program would be one in which selected more difficult courses in high school would give students additional or weighted quality points over and above less difficult courses. The proposal also incorporates a rank in class provision influenced by quality points.

School board members were present as observers but did not take an active role in the discussions. A panel of administrators and educators conducted the session. Members of the panel were Dr. Delma Blinson, superintendent of the Greenville City Schools; Rebecca Oats, director of secondary education; Ann Harrison, director of exceptional children's program; Kay Whitehurst, principal of Aycock Junior High; and Howard Hurt, principal of J. H. Rose High School. Blinson, Mrs. Oats and Mrs. Har-ison outlined the structure of the honors program. They said the provisions of the proposed revised grouping for Rose and Aycock schools are based on a three-tier concept; the application of weighted quality points for certain courses; and devising a rank in class system based on cumulative points, both quality and regular points.

Emphasis was placed on the fact that the honors program would be open to all students, and that students would be counselled not to pass up needed courses outside the

El Salvador Runoff Appears Shaping Up

By REID G. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Bickering among election officials stalled the vote-counting, but moderate Jose Napoleon Duarte and rightist Roberto d'Aubuisson appear headed for a runoff in their bitter contest for the presidency of El Salvador.

A runoff will be required if no candidate gets a majority of the vote from Sunday's election, and by Duarte's own count, that won't happen.

The first round of balloting was seen all along as a showdown between Duarte and d'Aubuisson, who differ sharply on how to end a civil war that has claimed more than 50,000 lives and shattered the nation's economy.

In the absence of an official tally, only Duarte's Christian Democratic Party was providing unofficial election returns, and these figures showed him without a majority.

The official results were delayed by squabbling within the Central Election Council, a supposedly nonpartisan supervisory agency.

Ballot counting began Sunday night by officials at the 6,598 polling places, but certification and tabulation of the results by the election council still had not begun by late Monday. Asked when tabulation would start, council vice president Roberto Meza Delgado replied, "I haven't an idea."

The council is composed of representatives from six of the eight political parties which fielded presidential candidates. The two unrepresented parties had not been formed at the time the council was created.

Each party had representatives at polling places Sunday, and it was from its own poll watchers that the Christian Democrats made an unofficial count.

Monday night, the Christian Democrats were claiming 45 percent of the vote for Duarte and 27 percent for d'Aubuisson, with the other candidates splitting the remaining 28 percent.

Those figures, the Christian Democrats said, were based on returns from about 80 percent of the precincts. They conceded that Duarte was unlikely to exceed the 50 percent needed to win without a runoff.

By law, a runoff would be held within 45 days of the first election, which would mean May 9 at the latest.

D'Aubuisson, 40, who has been linked to right-wing death squads, has said he would never talk with the leftist rebels who have been waging war against the government for 4½ years, vowing instead to crush them militarily.

A cashiered army major, d'Aubuisson is founder and leader of the far-right Republican Nationalist Alliance party.

Duarte, 58, favors dialogue with the insurgents, and has said his government would represent all factions of the divided nation.

Special Olympics Spring Games Launched Monday

The Greenville/Pitt County Special Olympics kicked off its 1984 Spring Games with a swim meet Monday, hosted by the Eastern Carolina Vocational Center at its Natatorium. About 30 Special Olympians participated in the events.

Winners were: 25 meter freestyle — William Blacknall, Tim Warren.

Houston Smith, William Sloan, Maurice Peterson, Ben Moore; 25 meter backstroke — Billy Davis, James Grimes, Liz Williams; 50 meter freestyle — Troy Hales; and the 100 meter relay team of William Blacknall, Dennis Mercer, Tim Warren and Troy Hales.

Some will qualify to attend the North Carolina Special Olympics Spring Games to be held May 18-20 at North Carolina A&T University in Greensboro.

The area Spring Games, which include track and field events, will be held April 6 at the East Carolina University track from 9:30 a.m.-2 p.m.

Another Side To 'Doctor Surplus'

By SUE HINSON
Reflector Staff Writer

Predictions by governmental agencies, universities and individuals that current trends in medical education will result in a surplus of doctors unless changes are made are in part true, according to Dr. William Laupus. But those predictions are "far from being the whole story," he said.

Laupus, dean of the East Carolina University School of Medicine, said ECU and other university health care learning institutions are concerned about the predictions, but that differences exist as to when and where a surplus will actually arise. The predictions, specifically those by the Graduate Medical Education National Advisory Committee, say there will be an excess of 70,000 doctors nationwide by 1990 unless medical schools begin to cut back enrollment. Enrollment was increased in past years, Laupus said, to combat a shortage of doctors.

"But there is not a surplus in every area," he said. "As of 1984, North Carolina is still dealing with a shortage of doctors, particularly in the rural areas where primary care physicians are needed.

"At this time, we believe that the number being produced in North Carolina is about the right number to continue to gain slowly on the physician shortage."

Laupus said there is another side to predictions that there will be an excess of doctors. "Most of us don't believe cutbacks on the number of medical students ought to occur in American universities — because we have the highest standards and maintain the highest quality of care — just to accommodate a bunch of people who go overseas to get their medical educations. This is where the surplus really is right now. I don't think there's any question about that."

While Laupus said ECU currently has no plans to cut back on its number of students, the Duke University School of Medicine has announced that it plans to eliminate 14 student positions over the next six years.

"Our cutback is more or less a

Martin Sees Emphasis On Candidate

By STUART SAVAGE

U.S. Rep. Jim Martin, a candidate for the state's Republican gubernatorial nomination, said Monday night that people in North Carolina are beginning to look more at the candidate, rather than at the party, in deciding who to vote for.

"We're seeing a readiness, all over the state, to look at the best candidates both parties have to offer," rather than voting by party affiliation. Martin told the more than 530 persons attending the dinner and rally here.

"I believe, here in Pitt County, you can do whatever you set out to do,"

Martin said. Citing the transformation of East Carolina College into a university, and the establishment of the ECU School of Medicine, Martin said "they said you couldn't do it, but you got it done."

Martin continued, "they say eastern North Carolina can't elect a Republican governor. But I believe you can."

"We've got a good chance in this election," Martin suggested. "That's one of the things I'm so excited about ... the chance to bring two-party politics to eastern North Carolina."

Martin said "the issue of education is a pre-eminent issue."

Met But 2 Candidates Physician Dies Of Accident Injuries

About 125 persons attended the "Democrats at Dawn" meeting here this morning to talk with candidates seeking the party's nomination for lieutenant governor, Congress, the Council of State and other offices.

But only two candidates — John Gillam, a candidate for the nomination to the 1st Congressional District seat in the U.S. House of Representatives, and Tom Taft, a candidate for the state Senate from the 9th District — attended the 7 a.m. session.

Katheryn Lewis, chairman of the Democratic Party in Pitt County, expressed dissatisfaction at the lack of candidates at the session.

The meeting was billed as an opportunity to meet and talk with the candidates, with no speeches allowed.

Mrs. Lewis told the gathering that "half the candidates for state office got invitations," to attend the meeting. "None said they would be here."

The other half, Mrs. Lewis said, were to receive invitations to a similar program on April 24.

Since only two candidates attended, Mrs. Lewis said all candidates for state office will be invited in April.

"If you are disappointed that your candidate wasn't here today, you get behind them and get them here April 24," Mrs. Lewis urged.

Although Taft and Gillam were the only two candidates to attend, others, including incumbent U.S. Rep. Walter B. Jones, Carl Stewart and Bob Jordan, candidates for the party's nomination for lieutenant governor, and insurance commissioner candidate Jim Long, had tables with campaign literature, bumper stickers and other materials on display.

A Kinston physician died Monday in Pitt County Memorial Hospital, the result of injuries sustained when he was hit by a truck while bicycling March 18.

Dr. Sumner Malone Parham Jr., 37, of Kinston had been listed in critical condition with head injuries since the accident. He was struck from behind by a truck driven by Wesley Roland Carter, 20, of New Bern on Airport Road in Kinston, authorities said.

Julie Hicks, a librarian at Shepherd Memorial Library, will speak at the Wednesday meeting of the Pitt County Council on the Status of Women.

The program will be given in observance of National Women's History Month.

The 5 p.m. meeting will be held at the Pitt County office building.

Green Visiting Pitt

Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green will be in Pitt County Wednesday, with stops in Greenville at Procter & Gamble, the Pitt County Courthouse and the Student Center at the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

Green will also visit businesses and industries in Bethel, Ayden and Farmville.

Also struck was Parham's companion, James Price Prettyman III, 40. He has been listed in fair condition at Lenoir Memorial Hospital. Highway Patrolman P.A. Coombs, the investigating officer, charged Carter with failure to reduce speed following the accident. Investigating is pending, a spokesman for the N.C. Highway Patrol office in Kinston said this morning.

Parham, a Henderson native, was a specialist in obstetrics and gynecology who had been practicing in Kinston since March, 1978. He was known throughout eastern North Carolina for his co-work with his wife, Tempe Southerland Parham, as coordinators of the Episcopal Church Marriage Encounter program. An Episcopalian and member of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, he was also a past president of the Lenoir County Cancer Society and had supported the institution of a birthing room at Lenoir Memorial Hospital. The room will be opened this week and consideration is being given to naming it for Dr. Parham, hospital officials indicated this morning.

Funeral services will be held in Henderson tomorrow, with memorial services in Kinston Thursday.

Prettyman, who is employed by Dupont in Kinston, is reportedly improving, though still confined to a wheelchair.

Assess Attitudes On Park System

The Division of Parks and Recreation of the N.C. Department of Natural Resources and Community Development held a public meeting at the Willis Building Monday night to assess needs and attitudes concerning the Greenville parks and recreation system.

Jim Stevens, N.C. Parks and Recreation director, said he was "pleased with the attendance and the cross-section of representatives."

He added, "As far as I can determine, the people of your area have three top priorities: increasing staff in the state parks system to ensure adequate management of natural resources; the acquisition of critical lands to serve as protectors or buffers around the state parks; and natural heritage, that is interest in plant life and the ecology of the parks and natural areas."

Stevens said information gathered at the meeting will be used to develop a five-year parks and recreation plan.

Services Scheduled

Services will be held at First Timothy Free Will Baptist Church, 1104 Douglas Ave. today at 7 p.m. with Elder Walter Blount as the speaker.

On Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Eldress Millie T. Williams and the G&W Community Gospel Chorus will be guests at Mt. Shiloh Free Will Baptist Church, N.C. 43.

symbolic gesture in response to the predictions," said Dr. Art Christakos, dean of the Duke Medical School.

"We did this in part hoping to set an example that others would follow, but I don't feel ECU or UNC should feel compelled to follow suit," he said.

"I think that UNC and ECU exist primarily to produce physicians for the state of North Carolina and I don't think they should stop providing this service just because in 1990 there is going to be an excess of physicians. In fact I think they have a mandate to produce North Carolinian doctors," he stated.

Christakos added that Duke's cutback will include out-of-state and out-of-country applicants and will not affect the number of North Carolinians that train at Duke. Approximately 30 percent of Duke's medical students are North Carolinians.

Laupus, however, said he thought Duke's intended cutback was unthinkable. "Duke is one of the premier schools in the country and traditionally produces a very high level of student. For them to cut back, to me, is unthinkable."

HOW TO AVOID THE 6 MOST COMMON MISTAKES OF DIETING.

- 1 The first mistake is to go on a diet. People who lose weight successfully don't go on diets. They go on a total program.
- 2 Count every calorie you consume. That's a mistake that will doom you to failure. Successful weight losers know how to lose without counting calories, weighing and measuring foods. There is an easy-to-follow program that requires no special shopping for foods, no time-consuming preparation.
- 3 Eat only celery and carrots and other uninteresting diet foods. And what will happen is what's always happened—four starved taste buds will crave more interesting foods and will be destined to start cheating. Losing weight doesn't mean eating bland food.
- 4 Diet without any professional help. And you're doomed to make mistakes. The knowledgeable people who lose weight easily and effortlessly do it with guidance from trained weight loss counselors who are sensitive to your own special problems.
- 5 Take diet pills or injections. What will happen is you might lose some weight, but stop taking the pills and your back where you began—fat and frustrated. Successful weight losers are taught how to keep the weight off forever.
- 6 Do lots of strenuous exercise. That's fine. But face it. Most of us just aren't the type. Strenuous exercise is unnecessary. Why not try a program with moderate exercise?

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

Here's a delightful idea in tablesetting using plastic canvas needlepoint products with a bare minimum of stitches. Even the first-time needlepointer can easily create this yummy strawberry place mat set with matching coasters, napkin rings and centerpiece basket.

All pieces are worked on matching white or pastel canvas, now available in oval place mat shapes and round coaster frames, as well as the usual sheets.

To obtain directions for making the co lete Strawberry Set, send your request for Leaflet No. NL-2295 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler (The Daily Reflector), P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29597.

Or you may order Kit No. N-2295 by sending a check or money order for $13.50 to Pat Trexler at the same address. The kit price includes shipping charges, full instructions, all necessary yarn and the plastic canvas. Please specify your choice of white, pink, blue, or yellow for the plastic canvas products.

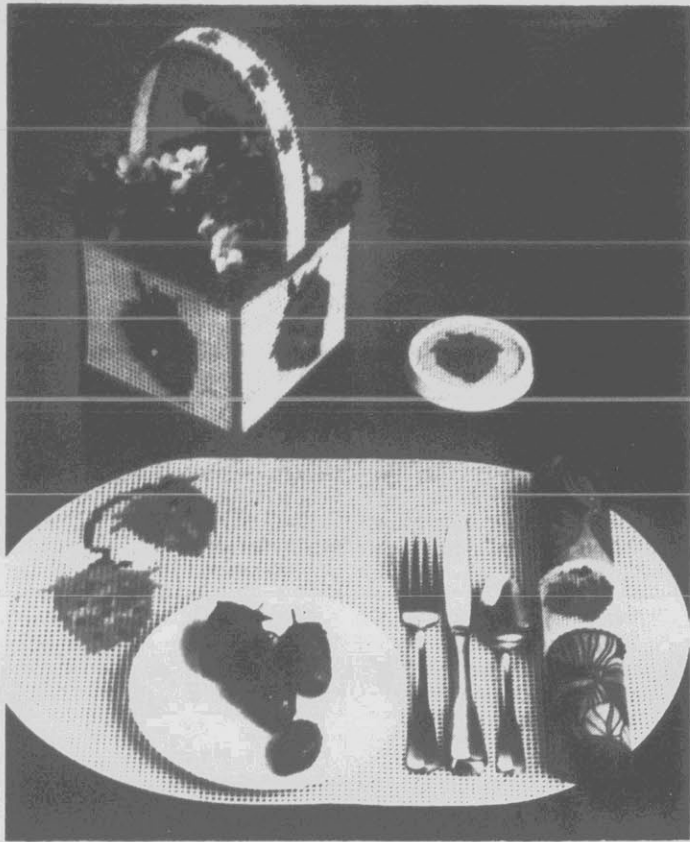

Dear Readers: If you are trying to match needlepoint yarn to a fabric color, you can easily be fooled if you simply lay a strand of yarn on the fabric — the yarn often takes on a different hue after it is stitched. Even more surprising is the fact that different stitches affect the color in different ways.

Small basic tent stitches taken diagonally over one mesh of the canvas will appear a little darker than long flat stitches worked diagonally, as in the Scotch or cashmere stitches. Raised stitches, such as those found in smyrna, rhodes and waffle stitches take on a shade that falls between the darker tent stitches and the lighter flat stitches. Still another shade can appear in the long straight stitches of Bargello or Florentine work.

I first became aware of this fact several years ago — the first time I worked a piece of needlepoint combining a variety of stitches. I would have suspected dye lot shade variation, but I had been working from a single hank when I noticed the difference.

I have since learned that this shade variation is caused by the way that certain stitches reflect the light differently. I am not technically minded enough to understand why this is so — it's just one of those things that I accept as true, having seen it occur many times.

Usually this is not objectionable and can actually add dimension to your work, creating an effect of shadow and depth that can be quite pleasing. The only time I recall being bothered by the shade variation was when I was using an off-white yarn in a combination of mosaic and tent stitches as the background for a pillow. Used next to the mosaic stitches, the tent stitches took on a distinctly gray appearance.

In most colors, however, the differences are so subtle that you may not even notice them unless you have large areas, side by side, worked in more than one type of stitch. This is just one of those bits of information to file away for future use.

By the way, if you find yourself always using neutral colors in your needlework because you don't trust your color sense, pick a quick and inexpensive plastic canvas project to plunge into boldness. You can add a lot of spice and fun to your needlework with imaginative color combinations!

With scraps of canvas and odd skeins of yarn, try out a variety of color combinations and a variety of stitches.

If you don't trust your own ideas, visit a fabric or wallpaper shop for inspiration. You might be surprised at the beauty of some very unexpected combinations.

Childish Game

Words do count. They are a principal means of communication.

When a person says one thing and means something else it undermines future attempts to communicate.

Bellicose words strike a responsive chord within recipients.

The use of words is all-important in foreign relations whether between friends or foes. Our "great communicator" should be cognizant of all this implies, but if he is, it does not always show.

Spokesmen for the Soviet Union are not unfamiliar with using the "forked tongue" and misleading others is pretty much an old story with them.

On our part, our government proclaims a desire for a peaceful world; but public statements by high-ranking Americans often appear designed to inspire retaliatory name-calling and invective.

It's a childish game for great powers to play. Dangerous, too. Strong words often lead to stronger reaction.

If we're not going to be friends, at least the U.S. can maintain an aloof, properly formal relationship that avoids inflammatory verbiage.

America's foreign policy is not faring well, and we suggest a lot of unnecessary talk is at least partly responsible.

Probe Needed

White House counselor Edwin Meese III has called for the appointment of a special prosecutor to investigate the loan of $15,000 interest free to his wife, and other possible financial irregularities.

Meese is seeking confirmation as attorney general as President Reagan's nominee. He has been questioned closely by the Senate Judiciary Committee. Meese feels that he will be vindicated by the independent probe, and he still has the staunch backing of President Reagan.

Certainly the special prosecutor should be named to investigate the matter. It might vindicate Meese and the honor of his family as he says. But it also should be demonstrated to the public that the man who seeks to be attorney general has nothing to hide.

Sitting Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time since 1978, Jack Kemp is not being touted for president, vice president, senator or governor. The congressman who helped draft President Reagan's tax cut policy is just running for re-election to a seat from western New York.

"I don't worry about not being mentioned for anything," Kemp says. "I think I'm where I should be. I'm glad I didn't run for governor. I'm much more comfortable with the national and international issues... I have no regrets."

Kemp has kept a lower profile since colleagues approved the Kemp-Roth tax cuts three years ago and gave him a standing ovation on the House floor. The seven-term representative still vociferously defends Reaganomics, but his attention has shifted to foreign affairs.

"I'm going to be the chairman of the platform committee on foreign policy at the (GOP national) convention," said Kemp, a 48-year-old conservative Republican who is ranking minority member on the House Foreign Operations Appropriations subcommittee.

Last week, Kemp went to El Salvador as a State Department observer of Sunday's national elections. He was a counselor to the recent Kissinger Commission on Central America and endorsed its recommendations for increased military and economic aid.

Kemp had a certain celebrity when he came to Congress in 1970 as the former quarterback for the Buffalo Bills. He became a national political figure by tirelessly promoting tax cuts and by his early support of Reagan for president.

His legislative achievements outside of tax cuts have been modest, but his continuing prominence is attested to by his election to chairman of the House Republican Conference and by the demand for him as a fund-raiser and speaker.

While he'd like to branch out into other areas, Kemp gets drawn back to economics, as opponents link tax cuts with the soaring federal deficit and clamor for tax increases.

Kemp's response is ideological as much as economic: Reagan should ignore any thought of tax increases and focus on economic growth. That stand irritates colleagues who also are skeptical of his endorsement of a return to the gold standard to achieve monetary stability.

"Quackery — quack, quack, quackery," is what Sen. Daniel P. Moynihan, D-N.Y., a member of the Senate Finance Committee, calls "supply side" thinking.

Kemp blames the current deficits on the deep recession of 1981 and 1982, which he says was brought on by the tight money policy of the Federal Reserve Board. He frequently lashes out at Fed Chairman Paul Volcker and the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, Martin Feldstein.

"I would rather listen to the first 2,000 names in the Buffalo phone book than the Council of Economic Advisers..." Kemp says.

At home, Kemp faces little opposition to an eighth term. He coasted to victory against a county legislator in the 1982 election, and already has amassed enough contributions to ward off a primary challenger and probably overwhelm any opponent.

He has won 70 percent of the vote or better in the last six elections. No one has announced against him.

WASHINGTON — It has become a truism in our town that perception isn't everything. To paraphrase a famous football coach, it's become the only thing. There are times when reality hardly matters, and that's where we are right now in the tribulations of presidential counselor Ed Meese. A perception has grown that Meese, the president's nominee for attorney general, is a wheeler-dealer.

That perception, in my judgment, is wrong. The reality, unless I am sorely mistaken, is that Meese is an able and decent human being, devoted to his president, who has suffered unduly from (1) a piece of hard luck and (2) an oversight in filling out a certain form.

If reality governed our public affairs, Meese ought to be speedily confirmed. Absent the most compelling reasons, a president any president — is entitled to confirmation of his Cabinet nominees. But because perception counts so heavily, my unhappy thought is that Meese ought to withdraw his name. He has become the fourth embarrassment to the Reagan White House, and four is too many.

The piece of hard luck involved Meese's heavily mortgaged home in California. He put the house on the market after the 1980 election, when it was apparent that he would be moving to Washington, and the house didn't sell. Meese is not a wealthy man. The move strained all his resources. He had to acquire a second home in the capital. He ran 15 months behind in payments on one house and four months behind on the other. This would have drawn little attention but for one thing: Two officials of the mortgage company got government jobs. Edwin Gray became chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and Gordon Luce served as an alternate delegate to the United Nations.

The oversight involved Meese's failure to report an interest-free loan of $15,000 to his wife in 1980. The loan came from Edwin Thomas, who later was named regional director of the General Services Administration in San Francisco.

There were two other matters. Meese borrowed $60,000 from a California trust headed by John McKean. The loan was unsecured; he paid no interest on it for nearly two years. In July 1981 McKean was named to the board of governors of the Postal Service. Sale of Meese's house in California involved an old friend, Thomas Barrack, who ostensibly lost money on the deal. Barrack wound up with a job in the Interior Department.

This cynical city perceives a pattern. No one has stopped to inquire if these several appointees were qualified for their positions. No one has bothered to recall that in every political situation, friends of friends naturally are preferred for patronage. This is the way the system works. There is nothing crooked about it.

I am not at all disturbed by the loans and jobs. As for the undisclosed loan to Mrs. Meese, find it hard to understand why Meese failed to report it, but 18 years in Washington have taught me something of the almost unbearable strains of life at the highest levels of the White House. It was a mistake, but it was not a mistake of sufficient magnitude to justify rejection of his nomination.

Nevertheless, games must be played by the rules, and politics is a body-contact sport. Reagan's administration already has suffered from a CIA director with a fondness for playing the market, a national security director with a faulty memory of 10 $100 bills, and an attorney general with an eye-popping bonus from old friends in California. The realities may well be that Bill Casey is a shrewd investor, that Dick Allen really did forget the "thank-you money" from his Japanese friends, and that William French Smith had earned the generous payment. It is the perception that counts.

Reagan has enough heavy baggage to carry into the coming campaign. He surely does not need the burden of a long and distasteful battle for confirmation of Ed Meese as attorney general. It may be unfair — it surely will be painful — but no wise man ever said that life is fair. Step aside, Ed, and let the president name a clean-as-a-hound's-tooth nominee, such as William Webster of the FBI, in your place.

—Robert Olds—

A Little Here And There

Now I am not from New York. Still, Greenville has been a real — what do the social workers say? — culture shock?

Up to now, most of the happy faces I saw were little caricatures up in the corner of 3 by 5 slips of paper. "Have a Nice Day," it says alongside, and underneath is something which makes it highly unlikely. Ten such slips of paper equal an interoffice memo, which makes it downright impossible.

Around here, you can actually see these faces. On people. Real people. They look right at me and smile.

They say those words, too, that are on the slips of paper — "Have a Nice Day."

There was a time when I had heard those words spoken so many times, with such obvious insincerity, even outright sarcasm, that I developed a bad attitude just upon hearing them. I considered having bad days in defiance.

I developed techniques to discourage people from saying the words, mostly by distracting them. At the check-out counter, after the last bar code had been passed over the laser beam, but before the dreaded phrase, I would take the offensive.

"Have you ever had any bomb threats here?"

"What...uh...no...uh..."

"Good. You're lucky. I tell you, where I work, we get bomb threats all the time. Sometimes a bomb will actually go off. That sure ruins your day, makes it downright not nice is what it does. Well, so long."

Sometimes that works and sometimes it doesn't. They may just stare and still say it: "Have a Nice Day." You can't get it out of the computer unless you reprogram it.

Finally I just ignored it, like a television commercial. Like a commercial, though, I'm afraid all those "Have a Nice Days" were getting into my subconscious. I began to have nightmares. Every check-out in the supermarket was manned by a different member of the Manson family, each delivering the line with a venal leer. I was connected to lie-detector machines and forced to say the words. The Ayatollah announced a foreign policy shift whereby all Americans were ordered by Allah to have nice days.

Then I came to Greenville.

I wrote to a friend who lives back there that you could take your stock prime-time, post-Vietnam, stressed-out, flash-backing rapist-murderer, turn him loose in Greenville and, assuming he ran across a representative sampling of the citizenry, he'd be feeding the pigeons and donating blood for free inside of a week. This is exaggeration, of course. I know the Daily Reflector carries a police report that contains more than just cases of apple pies stolen off granny's windowsill. But most of the things that are reported here couldn't even make the paper where I come from.

You see, I'm actually starting to believe it. I'm skeptical, sure, but that fellow at the steak place, he seems so sincere, as he looks up, and his smile is so much better than the happy faces on the slips of paper. "Have a Nice Day," he says, and I don't even flinch anymore.

And you know what else. I've actually had several since coming here. Thank-you, then Greenville, and have a...no, I can't do that. Not yet, anyway. Someday maybe.

Looking At User Fees

than cover the cost of your registration, plate and license.

It is important to keep user fees in line with actual costs both to assure that the taxpayer doesn't subsidize services provided to a limited group of people and to keep the state from competing with private industry.

Some of the services provided by the state are also provided by the private sector, the fiscal research report said. If the state's fee is not raised to reflect real cost increases, then these private businesses are put at a disadvantage. For example, if the state charges $2 a night less for a campsite than real costs would demand, then private campgrounds will find themselves being non-competitive and they'll lose business. The private campgrounds will have empty slots while the state parks will suffer from constant overcrowding.

The Legislature has a study commission looking at user fees in the hope that problems such as this can be avoided. Fiscal Research's report suggests several ways that the state can keep user fees in line with rising costs — and the private market.

The first would be automatic indexing. Fees would rise, across the board, every year as inflation figures were announced. This proposal has problems, however. General inflation might run ahead or behind of price increases for the state services. That would leave the state with a fee schedule unrelated to real costs.

The second proposal for raising fees required the governor and the Advisory Budget Commission to review user fees when the budget is being prepared. A report on each fee would be submitted to the General Assembly. It would include the amount of the current fee, the year of the last fee increase, the actual cost of providing the service and other information. It would then be up to the Legislature to meet its responsibility to keep these fees where they belong.

It was decided a long time ago that the taxpayers wouldn't have to compete with state subsidized rates. Now it's up to the assembly to make sure that policy is followed.

Strength For Today

One thing we learn about hurricanes with the passing of time is that after the terror of them is past, the sun seems to shine with new brightness. The day following the big blow is almost always an ideal and beautiful one.

The same is true for the events of life. Sometimes they seem to hit us with hurricane force. We get bad days. We have seasons when everything goes against us. Sometimes the force of averse circumstances piles up until we think we can endure the pain, sorrow, frustration and disappointment no longer. Then the blow suddenly ceases. Peace takes the place of fury. The sun shines again.

Of course, some people seem to get more of the breaks in life, and others more of the misfortunes. But on the whole we all suffer and enjoy about the same. It's hard to believe this when the going is rough, but it's true.

honors program. Principal advantages stressed in going the honors course route is that through taking advanced placement (AP) courses, it is possible for a student to receive one year college credit; and that colleges and universities rely on transcripts that reflect an honors course.

Following the explanatory session, those attending were given time to ask questions about the structure of the proposal.

Blinson asked for specific statements, pro or con, that will be prepared in written form and presented to the school board for its consideration at a future board meeting.

Martin Sees....

bottom in scholastic achievement tests, Martin said, "I'm prepared to work with our teachers, the board of education, the legislature" to improve the state's public schools.

One way to improve the quality of instruction, Martin suggested, is to make education the top priority, and to increase the pay for teachers. "We have to find a way to pay teachers according to their ability."

"Whoever is elected" Martin said, "is going to be an education governor," with two thirds of the state's budget going for education.

Martin suggested that the people of eastern North Carolina have had "so many promises over the years," from Democrats, but little action on them. "Why should you have had to wait to get a governor," from eastern North Carolina "to get 264 four-laned?" he asked.

"Balanced growth? Where is it?" Martin asked, suggesting that more jobs and diversification of industry is needed.

If elected governor, Martin said he would make efforts to bring new industry to the east, especially agricultural related industry to help area farmers.

And pointing to tobacco, Martin said "We've got to strengthen the economics of the tobacco farmers." A supporter of tobacco, Martin said he recently got an amendment through the House Ways and Means committee that would cut the federal tax on tobacco products.

"Issues of importance to you are of importance to me," Martin said. By working together "we can build a strong economy in all of North Carolina."

"You can help," he told the audience. "Help spread the word. I'm seeking your vote in Pitt County and all across" eastern North Carolina. "I need your help."

A resident of Lake Norman, in Iredell County, Martin received a bachelor's degree in chemistry from Davidson College in 1957, and his doctorate in chemistry from Princeton in 1960. He taught at Davidson College until elected to Congress in 1972.

In 1966, while living in Davidson, Martin was elected as a member of the Mecklenburg County board of commissioners — the only non-Charlottesvillean then on the board — and became board chairman shortly thereafter.

As a county commissioner, Martin founded the nine-county Centralina Regional Council of Governments, and was elected chairman of the N.C. Association of County Commissioners in 1970. He also served two terms as vice president of the National Association of Regional Councils.

Recently, Martin has received the Charles Lathrop Parsons Award from the American Chemical Society for outstanding public service by an American chemist — the first elected official to be honored with an award that has regularly been given to Nobel Prize winners or presidential scientific advisors.

In Congress, Martin is a member of the House Committee on Ways and Means and has been chairman of the Republican Task Force on Health and of the House budget committee. He has also been elected chairman of the House Republican Research Committee, which makes him a ranking member of the executive committee of the House GOP leadership.

Wachovia is still your best choice for an Individual Retirement Account.

Here's why.

There's one thing nearly all financial experts agree on: An IRA is one of the best tax-deferred retirement plans you can have. Here are five good reasons to have yours at Wachovia.

1. Money market rates. All Wachovia IRA investments earn top money market rates, compounded daily for higher annual yields. And there are no investment fees to reduce your yield. Compare with the rates being paid anywhere.

Example: Current rate and yield on Wachovia IRA invested in a 4-year, fixed-rate deposit (subject to change daily).

10.50%	Annual Percentage Rate	11.069%	Annual Yield
Other variable-rate and fixed-rate options are available. For the current rate, call a Personal Banker.™

2. No minimum deposit. At Wachovia, you can open or add to your IRA in any amount. The maximum, by law, is $2,000 per year for every wage earner, or $4,000 for a working couple. But at Wachovia you don't have to deposit that much to get tax benefits and start saving for your retirement.

3. Multiple investment options. Wachovia offers a wide range of fixed-rate investments with guaranteed rates, at terms from three months to four years. And our variable-rate investment, the Accumulator, has no minimum and no required term. That means you can deposit any amount anytime, and you can automatically transfer funds to fixed-rate investments as often as you like without paying interest penalties. You'll receive a periodic statement showing all activity on your account.

4. Insured safety. Every Wachovia depositor's funds are insured up to $100,000 by F.D.I.C. And no matter how far away your retirement may be, you know Wachovia will still be here.

5. Your own Personal Banker. Only Wachovia gives you the services of your own Personal Banker, who can explain all the investment options in detail and help you decide which ones are right for you.

Add up the advantages, and you'll see — there's no better place for your IRA than Wachovia. Talk to a Personal Banker right away.

How To Subtract 2000 From 1040.

It doesn't take much figuring to realize that an Individual Retirement Account from BB&T is one of the best tax write-offs you can have.

You can shelter up to $2,000 in an individual IRA for 1983 if you make your contribution before April 16, 1984. And, while your deposits earn interest at market rates, your interest will accumulate on a tax-deferred basis. At BB&T, you have several plans from which to choose, one of which is sure to meet your needs.

Even if you can't make the maximum contribution for 1983, you can get started with as little as $100 and make additional deposits anytime you wish. Open your IRA at BB&T now. Because Uncle Sam's loss is your gain.

UN Team Finds Chemical Warfare Evidence

By O.C. DOELLING
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Four experts dispatched to Iran to investigate charges of chemical weapons use by Iraq say they found evidence that aerial bombs containing chemical agents had been dropped near the Iranian border.

But their report, issued Monday, does not suggest who was responsible for the bombings.

The four, appointed by U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar, spent a week in Iran, from March 13-19. They visited a sector of the Iranian war zone, examined alleged victims of chemical weapons in Iranian hospitals and the bodies of victims who allegedly died from exposure to chemical weapons.

They did not visit Iraq, where much of the war's recent fighting has taken place.

The specialists — from Sweden, Spain, Australia and Switzerland — said they unanimously concluded that "chemical weapons in the form of aerial bombs have been used in the areas inspected in Iran."

Their 28-page report, which was sent to the Security Council, described the weapons as a form of mustard gas and a nerve agent identified as Tabun. It said the specialists could not determine "the extent to which these chemical agents have been used."

Iran claims Iraq has been using chemical weapons in the 3½-year-old war.

The U.S. State Department issued a statement March 5 saying "available evidence indicates that Iraq has used lethal chemical weapons."

Iraq consistently has denied using chemical weapons.

A spokesman at Iran's U.N. mission said there would be "no comment today," and Iraqi Ambassador Riyadh S. al-Qaysi told reporters he had not read the document.

U.S. Ambassador Jeane J. Kirkpatrick said, "We think that the use of chemical weapons is a very serious matter. We've made that clear in general and particular." She declined further comment, saying she had not examined the full report.

As the report was issued, U.S. Middle East envoy Donald Rumsfeld met in Baghdad with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz to discuss the war as well as bilateral relations and the Middle East situation, the Foreign Ministry said. The Iraqi capital was among a number of stops on a week-long tour by Rumsfeld of the Middle East.

The specialists' report quotes members of the Iranian Revolutionary Guards as saying an attack in the Iranian marshlands of Shatte-ali earlier this month was carried out by three Iraqi aircraft. It also speaks of an Iraqi aerial attack on the Iranian desert region of Hoor-ul-Huwaizeh that "was said to have taken place" March 13.

The specialists said they visited the war zone March 14 and examined one unexploded bomb and several partially damaged bombs.

They offered no first-hand accounts of Iraqi attacks or evidence that the bombs, "designed to carry liquid," were of Iraqi origin.

Bomb and soil samples taken by the four were analyzed by the Swedish National Defense Research Institute in Umea and a Swiss military laboratory at Spiez.

Col. Manuel Dominguez, a Spanish army physician who was a member of the U.N. team, examined more than 40 alleged chemical weapons victims in Iranian army field hospitals in Ahwaz and at two hospitals in Tehran. He also examined 12 bodies, including six returned from hospitals in Sweden and Austria.

Some of the patients, the report said, had blisters over their bodies and suffered eye, nose, throat and lung inflammations. Others were said to suffer from breathing problems, nausea and muscular tremors.

The report identifies the chemical weapons as "bis-(2-chlorethyl)-sulfide, also known as mustard gas, and ethylnitrosodimethylphosphorodiamidocyanide, a nerve agent known as Tabun."

A 1925 international agreement, to which both Iran and Iraq are signatories, prohibits use of chemical weapons.

In addition to Dominguez, the other specialists were Dr. Gustav Andersson, a research chemist with the Swedish National Defense Research Institute; Dr. Peter Dunn, of the Australian Defense Department's Materials Research Laboratories at Melbourne; and Col. Ulrich Imobersteg, chief of the NBC Defense Division of the Swiss Defense Ministry at Bern.

Propose An Amendment

RALEIGH (AP) — A proposal which would make the state superintendent of public schools an appointed rather than elected position should be decided upon by North Carolina's voters, a legislative panel said.

The superintendent is elected statewide. Under the proposal by the Governance Committee of the Public Education Policy Council, the superintendent would be appointed by the State Board of Education.

To be placed before the voters, a proposed constitutional amendment requires approval of three-fifths of the members of both legislative chambers — 72 of the 120 House members and 30 of the 50 senators.

The board now consists of 11 members appointed by the governor plus the lieutenant governor and the state treasurer.

Under the committee proposal, there would be eight members appointed by the governor and 11 by the Legislature in addition to the lieutenant governor and the treasurer.

Another council committee, the Finance Committee, recommended that local school systems no longer pay matching funds for vocational educational programs.

The committee also recommended that the Legislature establish a clear policy under which the state would be responsible for all instructional expenses for school operations and counties would be responsible for all capital costs.

The committees recommendations will be considered today by the full Public Education Policy Council.

For Repeal Of Inventory Tax

MURPHY, N.C. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green has called for the repeal of the manufacturer's inventory tax, saying to do so is "is about the only tool we have left to recruit industry."

Green, a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, called for the repeal during a campaign swing through Cherokee County, North Carolina's westernmost county.

"We're going to have to give some tax credits or job credits to attract these industries to the far west and the flat east," Green told about 30 Cherokee County employees at the county courthouse. "I don't exaggerate when I say industrial recruitment is 100 times as competitive as it was even five years ago."

Green said North Carolina has lost several industries to neighboring states that do not have an inventory tax.

Identify Body As Lumberton Man

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — A body found in the Lumber River has been identified as that of a merchant missing since his bloodstained car was found in February, Robeson County Sheriff's Department officials say.

Boaters found the body of Kenneth Fontaine, 55, of Lumberton, floating in debris along the shore on Sunday, said chief of detectives Al Parnell. Fontaine's car was found Feb. 27 abandoned near the river.

Authorities said Fontaine died of a gunshot wound in the head, but they declined to say whether there were suspects in the case.

Now The Best Way To The Coast Is Clear.

In case you're a little foggy about which airline you should fly to Los Angeles, we'd like to clear the air.

Fly Piedmont to LA, and you won't have to change planes in a huge, spread-out airport. And you won't have to change airlines, either.

Instead, we'll fly you to our Charlotte hub, where your LA connection is often just a few steps away. And that's not the only way we make the going easy. Out of Charlotte, you'll have your choice of flying Piedmont First Class or Coach. Either way, you'll get amenities like free champagne, a choice of entrees, extra leg and elbow room, and lots of special attention. The best way to LA becomes perfectly clear April 1.

Virginia Looking For Respect

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Virginia, after four years of surprising the basketball world by not winning a championship with 7-foot-4 center Ralph Sampson, surprised everyone by booking tickets to Seattle the year after he turned pro.

At 21-11, the Cavaliers have more losses than any other team to advance to the Final Four since Bradley and its 12 defeats in 1954. Virginia added four to the win column during the tournament by beating Iowa, Arkansas, Syracuse and Indiana.

"People didn't really respect us," senior guard Othell Wilson said after Saturday's 50-48 win over Indiana in the East Regional championship vaulted the Cavaliers into the Final Four. "This right here should earn us as much respect as we want."

Coach Terry Holland feels his club has a chance.

"The key is to know how bad we felt when we lost in 1981" in the NCAA semifinals, Holland said.

"The closer you get to the national championship, the worse you feel when you lose. That's crazy, I know, but that's the way it is. You can't say, 'Well, we had a great season, we got to the Final Four.' I want to make sure they know that before Saturday's game is played, not after."

Virginia meets 31-4 Houston, while 32-3 Georgetown goes against 29-4 Kentucky in the other semifinal matchup.

The Cavaliers will be the underdogs Saturday against Houston; they lost to the Cougars 74-65 Feb. 18 in one of their two non-conference defeats this season.

But then Houston also played the evil stepmother to North Carolina State's Cinderella last year when the Wolfpack turned Houston into the pumpkin in the championship game.

The comparison between the two Atlantic Coast Conference teams began Saturday as soon as Virginia won the East Regional.

Guard Rick Carlisle told the national TV audience he wanted to say hello to "Dereck Whitenburg, Sidney Lowe and Thurl Bailey" — the senior leaders of the 1983 Wolfpack.

The only problem with the comparison is that N.C. State came into last year's tournament carrying the ACC flag; Virginia was ousted in the first game of the conference tournament by Wake Forest, which lost to the Cougars Sunday.

Virginia junior forward Jim Miller said something helping the Cavaliers will be the relaxation that came when Sampson left and took the pressure with him.

"The problem last year was that everybody was making reservations in Albuquerque in October. We were expected to win. Everything else was a complete failure," said Miller.

Holland says his players have risen to the occasion of post-season ball, and the yeast is pretty evenly divided.

Olden Polynice, the freshmen center from Haiti via New York, plays hard and unafraid, and improves with each game.

Kenton Edelin, who first made the team as a walk-on, admits his shooting range is "out to about three inches," but when he's close he makes them. He's 11 for 12 from the field in NCAA play.

Wilson spent the first three games this season suspended for disrupting practice and went on accumulated a league-high four technicals, but he's been well behaved and has played well in NCAA tournament games.

Ricky Stokes, who has to be shorter than his listed 5-10, has played more games than anyone in school history.

Carlisle, who transferred from Maine three years ago, threw in the clutch game winner against Arkansas.

And Miller came out of a February illness and prolonged shooting slump to score 19 points in Saturday's game.

Notre Dame, Michigan In NIT Finals Wednesday

NEW YORK (AP) — Notre Dame basketball Coach Digger Phelps is still enjoying the Christmas present given him by Irish football Coach Gerry Faust — wide receiver-turned-point guard Joe Howard.

Phelps went to the 5-foot-9 Howard as a last resort when the Irish lost their only point guards on the roster to academics and injury. Howard is still paying dividends and the latest is a trip to the championship game of the 47th National Invitation Tournament.

Notre Dame, 21-11, beat fellow independent Southwestern Louisiana 65-59 Monday night to advance to Wednesday's title game against Michigan. The Wolverines, 22-10, eliminated Virginia Tech 78-75 in the opening game of the semifinal double-header played before a Madison Square Garden crowd of 9,049.

Howard, who scored six points, 20 fewer than senior forward Tom Sluby, was the catalyst in a 15-6 Irish spurt over the final 6:07 that lifted Notre Dame into its second NIT championship game.

"He's been doing those things since he joined the team," Phelps said of the man who has led the Irish football team in receptions each of the past three seasons. Howard arrived at Phelps' sideline after the football team's 19-18 victory over Boston College in the Liberty Bowl on Dec. 29.

With Notre Dame leading 58-55, Ken Barlow of the Irish was called for an offensive foul that nullified a successful dunk. The Ragin' Cajuns came downcourt and Alonza Allen missed a jump shot that Howard rebounded. Nine seconds later, Howard fed Barlow for a three-point play and a six-point lead. Howard then made two free throws with 1:20 remaining and six seconds later he stole the ball as USL tried to get back in the game.

The Irish enjoyed a fine night on the free-throw line to keep the Ragin' Cajuns at bay.

After not attempting a free throw in the first half, Notre Dame made it first 15 in the second half and finished with 17 of 20.

"I don't want to talk about free-throw shooting until Thursday morning," Phelps said in his best superstitious coaching voice. "I've said all along the three things that got us here were defense, rebounding and free-throw shooting."

Southwestern Louisiana Coach Bobby Paschal agreed that those three factors sent his team into the consolation game.

"We didn't handle ourselves very well," Paschal said. "Their defense had a lot to do with that. They made us impatient with their aggressiveness and their offensive rebounding hurt us as much as missed free throws."

The final rebounding total was 38-30 for Notre Dame and the offensive numbers read 12-9 for the Irish.

"Tim (Kempton) and (Jim) Dolan did a great job on the boards," Sluby said. "That made it easier for me to take my shots."

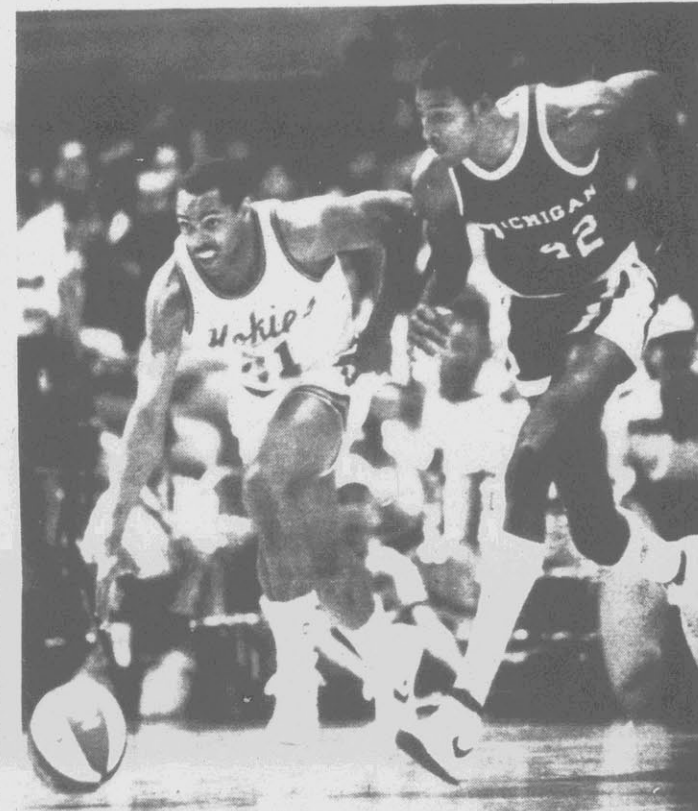

Sluby finished at 50 percent from the field, 11 of 22.

"We wanted to keep Sluby on the perimeter and we did," Paschal said. "They just continued to get the big baskets."

The big points for Michigan came from the free-throw line and they were two of sophomore center Roy Tarpley's 23 on the night.

With 45 seconds remaining, Tarpley made two foul shots that gave the Wolverines a 76-75 lead. After two timeouts were called by Virginia Tech Coach Charlie Moir, the Hokies missed their last chance at victory when a 15-foot jumper by Tim Lewis missed. Tarpley grabbed the rebound and fed freshman guard Antoine Joubert who went the length of the court for a layup that provided the final margin.

Hebert Silences Critics With Record

HOUSTON (AP) — Michigan quarterback Bobby Hebert is doing his best to silence critics of the United States Football League, who say the second-year league is not exciting.

"I don't see how you can't enjoy this," he said after passing for a league-record 444 yards Monday night in leading the Panthers to a

52-34 victory over the Houston Gamblers. "If you like to see points scored, then you have to like this, whether it's college, NFL or USFL."

The second-year pro from Northwestern Louisiana also tossed four touchdown passes in topping the record 440 yards set Sunday by New Orleans' Johnnie Walton. The teams combined to set a league record for most points scored in a game. Birmingham beat Tampa Bay 27-9 in the only other Monday night game.

Hebert completed 26 of 37 passes, including 9-12, 230 yards and three touchdowns in the second half in leading the defending league champions to their fifth victory in as many games. Houston, now tied with Oklahoma behind Michigan in the Central Division, fell to 3-2 before 38,754.

"I think our offense needs a lot of praise," said Michigan Coach Jim Stanley. "I think Bobby showed the world that he is a great quarterback. We've got great receivers, a good offensive line, and a hustling defense."

The game matched Hebert, the league's top-rated quarterback a year ago, against rookie Jim Kelly, who was 18-23 for 298 yards and three touchdowns. But Kelly suffered two interceptions, and the Gamblers, who hadn't fumbled in their four previous games, lost two.

Houston opened a 14-7 advantage early in the second quarter when Kelly hit Scott McGhee and Richard Johnson on 9-yard scoring passes sandwiched around John Williams' 1-yard TD run for Michigan.

But Hebert engineered a drive to Novobojovic's 22-yard field goal and collaborated with Anthony Carter on an 11-yard TD pass to give Michigan a 17-14 halftime edge.

Hebert and Kelly traded long touchdown passes midway in the third quarter before the Panthers scored 28 unanswered points. Hebert hit Derek Holloway for 72 yards at 5:08 while Kelly tossed a 63-yarder to Clarence Yerdin at 6:17.

Then Linnie Patrick scored on runs of 14 and 11 yards and caught a 19-yard pass from Hebert, and Carter caught a 55-yard bomb to make it 52-21.

Houston countered with Greg Moser's 65-yard scoring reception and Todd Fowler's 4-yard run.

Charlie Adams, assistant executive director of the North Carolina High School Athletic Association, has upheld an appeal by D.H. Conley baseball Coach Alan Wilson of a forfeit awarded to Ayden-Grifton last week.

Adams ruled that the home scorebook is official and determines the "official lineup." Since both scorebooks, as well as the lineup cards of the two coaches, had the intended roster, the game could not be forfeited.

The game may be resumed at the point of the protest if both teams can agree on a date and location, but the Vikings record the victory if arrangements cannot be made.

In that game, the Vikings were leading 1-0 in the top of the seventh, but Ayden-Grifton had runners on first and second with no one out and a two-ball count against the batter.

When Wilson went to the mound to change pitchers, an omission on the home plate umpire's roster was discovered. The game had been started with just eight fielders listed for the Vikings, and umpire Charles Coburn ruled the game was a 7-0 forfeit by Conley.

"I don't know what would have happened (with the runners on base and no outs)," Wilson said. "But I didn't think it was right for my players to lose a game because of a mistake on a lineup card.

(Coburn) let the game start, so he should have let it continue and have them protest (the error)."

"(A-G Coach Bob) Murphrey and I talked about maybe finishing the game at the Easter Tournament, but we didn't know what the result (of the protest) would be then. We'll have to talk about it again and come up with something."

Coburn admitted he had never heard of such an error before, but he conceded the event could have been avoided.

"Charlie Adams told me that he's had this happen before," Coburn said. "The conflict is with the official lineup. I've umpired in Texas, and there the lineup given to the umpire is official."

"It was really the only decision I could come up with. With me thinking my lineup was official, it seemed like it wouldn't be right to change it after the game started. I'm not upset because this was learning process for me."

"(The NCHSAA) really needs to put more emphasis on baseball to prevent a thing like this from happening. What I would like to see is the state say 'your (the umpire's) lineup is official' and as far as scoring is concerned, the home book is official."

Darryl Edward, ejected from the game because he was not listed in the lineup, will be allowed to continue in the contest since his ejection was based on an improper interpretation of the rules.

Georgetown To Face Wildcats' Strength

WASHINGTON (AP) — Georgetown, on its way to the second Final Four appearance in three years, will find itself in a rare position against Kentucky on Saturday — looking up at a bigger opponent.

But the Hoyas say the quickness that helped them set records for defense this season should be more than a match for the "Twin Towers" of Kentucky.

"Pressure (defense) has to be more of a factor for us now," said Georgetown Coach John Thompson.

Georgetown earned the trip to Seattle by beating Dayton 61-49 Sunday, and that was the most points the Hoyas have allowed in the postseason tournament.

"It won't be me against (7-1 Sam) Bowie or (6-11 Mel) Turpin," said 7-foot All-American center Patrick Ewing, named the top player in the West Regional. "It will be Georgetown against Kentucky. It will be team defense. That's the way we'll be looking at it."

Senior guard Gene Smith says the Hoyas aren't going to let Bowie and Turpin stop their march to a title.

"Our three objectives this year were to win the Big East Conference, to win the Big East tournament and the national championship," he said. "Two of those we accomplished, and the third is still our objective."

"Guards will be a major factor, but defense will be the major factor. Who can stop whom?" he said.

Smith will have the task of guarding Dickie Beal, the speedy guard who has paced the Wildcats since moving into the starting lineup a little more than 10 games ago.

"He's probably one of the quickest guards in college basketball," said Smith.

Georgetown players stayed on the West Coast, where they have been since traveling to the regionals two weeks ago. A team spokesman said the players would go to the Seattle area without returning to the Georgetown campus before Saturday's semifinal.

In Los Angeles, Thompson began preparing a strategy to offset the Kentucky inside strength.

"They're awesome," he said. "Turpin is the best offensive center I've seen. Bowie passes the ball extremely well ... and they've got a great supporting cast."

Georgetown's win over Dayton did little to change the Hoyas' reputation as an overaggressive team, however. In the second half, power forward Michael Graham completed a scoring spree with a strong dunk and then slammed the Flyers' Sedic Toney to the floor.

Graham apologized to Toney for the incident, but critics say it is one of many involving the freshman from Washington, D.C. this season.

"Basically, I don't care what the people say," Graham said after the game. "I'm just playing the best that I possibly can."

"Michael's been hitting the boards," said Thompson. "I've just got to calm him down a little bit. He gets all fired up and excited."

Dodgers Again NL West Favorites

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

The year 1983 was to have been a rebuilding one for the Los Angeles Dodgers. They were replacing Steve Garvey at first base and Ron Cey at third. Dusty Baker was out of their plans, and some of their pitching was getting a little old.

In that year of rebuilding, the Dodgers won 91 games and finished three games ahead of defending division champion Atlanta in the National League West. The process of rebuilding continues this year, but Manager Tom Lasorda says:

"We don't intend it as arrogance, but we believe we can bring Los Angeles another world championship in 1984. We fear no one, but we respect everyone."

Lasorda would dearly like to get his Dodgers into the World Series this year after losing in four games to the National League champion Philadelphia Phillies in the playoffs last year.

He should get that chance. At the end of last season, the West Division looked like this: Los Angeles, Atlanta, Houston, San Diego, San Francisco and Cincinnati.

This year, it should look like this: Los Angeles, San Diego, Atlanta, Houston, San Francisco and Cincinnati.

Probably the most improved team will be the Padres, presuming both Steve Garvey and Garry Templeton stay healthy for a full season. The most dramatic acquisition for the club was that of reliever Rich Gossage, obtained via free agency from the New York Yankees.

Atlanta's starting pitching is in shambles, but the Braves probably can score enough runs to hang in ahead of an improving Houston. While the San Francisco Giants and Cincinnati Reds also have improved, it won't be good enough to get them out of the second division.

Los Angeles

The Dodgers score high in almost every category. Despite the loss of suspended relief pitcher Steve Howe, who has admitted to a drug problem, the Dodgers have the best pitching in the division. Their starting rotation is five deep with Fernando Valenzuela, Rick Honeycutt, Jerry Reuss, Alejandro Pena and Bob Welch. Tom Niedenfuer can sub for Howe.

While the Dodgers rate only slightly above average in speed and defense, their hitting and power take up a lot of slack. Last year, Pedro Guerrero had 32 homers and 103 RBI, and he'll get some help from Ken Landreaux and second-year man Mike Marshall. If another second-year major leaguer, Greg Brock, can solve his spring problems, he'll also figure.

The acquisitions of Terry Whitfield from Japan and Bob Bailor from the New York Mets will assist off the bench, making up for the loss of free-agent Derrell Thomas.

San Diego

The Padres lag only slightly behind the Dodgers in power and pitching, and they make up some of that with speed and the managerial knowledge of Dick Williams.

Gossage should be able to get the Padres over .500; the rest will depend on Garvey, who didn't play after July 30 because of a dislocated thumb, and Templeton, who had knee surgery just before the 1983 season. The Padres need good offensive years from both to augment the offense supplied by Terry Kennedy (17 homers and 98 RBI).

Williams is confident he can put together a winning rotation from Dave Dravecky, Tim Lollar, Dennis Rasmussen, Eric Show and Andy Hawkins.

Atlanta

The loss of starting pitcher Phil Niekro and the late start of Pascual Perez may be too much for the Braves to overcome. Niekro was cut, while Perez was jailed in his homeland, the Dominican Republic, for drugs until Friday. That leaves only Len Barker and second-year player Craig McMurtry as solid starters, with Ken Dayley, Rick Mahler or Rick Camp likely to join the crowd.

The bullpen could be Atlanta's savior if Gene Garber and Steve Bedrosian can regain their 1982 form.

The Braves ought to be able to win some games with their hitting. Dale Murphy will be shooting for an unprecedented third straight NL Most Valuable Player award, providing power, speed and a good glove in center field. If Bob Horner stays healthy, he could hit 40 homers.

Houston

Astros Manager Bob Lillis says, "We've got a little bit of everything, and that's what it takes."

The problem is, the Astros don't have quite enough of anything. They have good hitters in Dickie Thon, Jose Cruz, Ray Knight, Jerry Mumphy and Phil Garner. But they don't have power.

They've got good pitching in Nolan Ryan, Joe Niekro, Bob Knepper and Vern Ruhle. But Knepper and Ruhle are coming off bad seasons. Reliever Joe Sambito is recovering from elbow surgery.

While Thon, Billy Doran at second and Mumphy in center make the Astros fairly strong up the middle, catcher Alan Ashby still must improve defensively and offensively. He hit just .229 last season.

San Francisco
The Giants made some strides by signing free-agent Manny Trillo and trading for first baseman Al Oliver. But they still lack power, speed and overall experience, and need defensive improvement.

While Trillo should help at second base, Oliver — a proven .300 hitter — is shaky at first. Jack Clark (20 homers, 66 RBI) needs to improve on last year's numbers to give the Giants an offense to match fine pitching.

San Francisco's starters — Atlee Hammaker, the NL ERA king in '83; Mike Krukow; Bill Laskey; Mark Davis, and Andy McGaffigan — are as good as most.

Cincinnati
The Reds brought home a couple of players: Tony Perez, a former Red, and Dave Parker, who played in Pittsburgh but lives in Cincinnati. Parker could have a fine season with the Reds, while Perez will provide bench strength. But the Reds' pitching is only average, and they don't have a player — outside of Gary Redus, perhaps — who can be expected to deliver home runs consistently. Besides Parker and Perez, the Reds have several other players whose best days might be behind them, such as Dan Drisssen, Dave Concepcion and Cesar Cedeno.

The bidding:
South West North East
1♥ Pass 1♠ Pass
4♥ Pass Pass Dble
Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Jack of ♣.

When the opponents' bidding has lacked confidence and you can see from your hand that you are going to run into a misfit, a double on scattered high cards can be profitable. But to do so when the opponents have shown strength is the height of folly, and can draw a blueprint of the hand for declarer.

East had no reason to suspect that he could defeat six hearts, let alone four. His double came back to haunt him, for it allowed declarer to make a contract that would otherwise have been defeated with normal play. Even with a club lead, he could not be sure that he had two tricks in that suit, and where he expected his side to get two more tricks is a mystery.

West led the jack of clubs. East won the king and he was, in effect, end played at trick one. He could do no better than continue with the ace of clubs and another.

Declarer won and cashed the king of trumps. Had West followed to this trick, the contract would have been a laydown.

When West showed out, declarer would quite likely have adopted a losing line had he known nothing about the hand. The natural way to tackle the hand is to draw trumps and lead a diamond toward the queen, playing West for the king. The double, however, marked East for all the missing cards, so declarer cast about for another method. He came up with a pretty solution.

He continued with the ace and a low trump. East won a trick he did not expect with the jack, but he was faced with losing alternatives. A spade would allow declarer to stuff two diamonds on dummy's spades, and a diamond would be away from the king and declarer would run it to the table's queen. Either way, the contract was in the bag.

Note that it would not help East to unblock the jack of trumps. That would simply make the board's ten an entry, and declarer would make an overtrick.

Kuralt, Northshield Team Up For Prime-Time Show

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert "Shad" Northshield and Charles Kuralt, producer and anchor, respectively, of CBS News' widely acclaimed "Sunday Morning," team up tonight for the premiere of a prime-time series that Northshield says fits somewhere between their old show and "60 Minutes."

"You look around at CBS News," he said, "and I guess they do more programs than the others, and still, there are great gaps between what '60 Minutes' does and what 'Sunday Morning' does. There are plenty of other things that can be done."

One of those things, presumably, is "The American Parade," an hour-long program that Northshield said was "going to be very much involved with the human condition, very American and, as Charles says, very celebratory about the country."

"We'll talk about the American Dream," he said, "and also show times when that dream has failed." It's a tricky business — news, or a variation thereof — in prime time. Rarely has journalism done well in prime time — "60 Minutes" on Sunday night is an exception, although that program's time slot is protected, limited by a Federal Communications Commission directive to informational or children's programs.

That's not to say there is no precedent. Indeed, Kuralt's "On the Road" was offered in tandem last summer with Bill Moyers' "Our Times," and the two generated respectable ratings and an abundance of critical acclaim.

Northshield knows what he is about to confront.

"Without saying anything good or bad about 'The A Team' or 'Three's Company,' or whatever it is, the idea of having another choice is arguably better," he said, referring to the competition on NBC and ABC. Actually, ABC's "Three's Company" is on after "The American Parade," which really faces "Foul-Ups, Bleeps & Blunders" and "A.K.A. Pablo."

Northshield said he considered himself more secure this time, for a good reason.

"There is an authentic belief on the part of the news guys at CBS, and at the other two networks, for that matter, that there are certain shows that you do because they ought to be done," he said.

"I think they looked for a way to get Charles Kuralt in prime time, though I'm not sure exactly who THEY are," he said. "What is unusual and wonderful, I know it was much higher up than the news department."

Northshield (he's called "senior executive producer") insisted "The American Parade" wouldn't be "Sunday Morning" in prime time.

"One basic difference," Northshield said, "is that you're going to see a lot more of Kuralt. The orientation may be similar, because he is interested in good writing... and so am I."

"And he and I are absolutely committed to doing stuff ONLY about America and American people, though they may be American people living abroad," he said.

Northshield said "The American

Parade" won't do the "60 Minutes"-style investigative piece, either, though some segments may resemble the "60 Minutes" profile.

"I just looked at a piece tentatively scheduled for the second show about a girl — young woman — who is the first and so far the only Vietnamese woman to be accepted at West Point. It's based on Mort Dean's interview with her, and it's terrific... reminds us of Vietnam and our mistakes and our history."

Dean, the veteran CBS News correspondent, is part of "The American Parade" team, along with Andrew Lack, who is best known as a producer for "60 Minutes" and Moyers' "Our Times," Bill Kurtis and Diane Sawyer from the "CBS Morning News," and Maria Shriver. Humorist Art Buchwald will be the show's "guest columnist."

"I can think of many generally excellent programs that occur in prime time," said Northshield. "They're all characterized by good writing, handsome to look at, riveting, perhaps enlightening, and always entertaining. All of those things we hope for this show."

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MARCH 28, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime will find it difficult not to argue about points of view different from your own. But you will find that it will not be easy to right conditions after any confrontation.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You find business and personal friends do not agree about some matter that is vital to your welfare, but listen anyway.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Outsiders could easily try to spoil your relationship with partners if you permit. Keep silent, and go about your business.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Keep busy at the routine work you have to do, and forget that new venture right now. Schedule your time wisely.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You need not spend a lot of money in order to go through with plans you have made, so don't permit others to pressure you.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You find that kin are opposed to your ideas, but gentle persuasion is best to iron the matter out. The evening can be happy.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You want to run off to other things instead of handling the work ahead of you, so get this done first.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't spend so much time on the practical that you miss out on something worthwhile of an idealistic or cultural nature.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Have more concern for kin and home instead of wasting so much time with an unworthy person. Be active.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Forget private worries, and get into the communications that will help you in the business world. Be with friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get a more modern approach at financial matters, and you get far better results. Listen to the advice of an expert.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make sure you know what you want in life, and go after it in a positive way. Be social and happy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study more modern way of operating, and stop getting tied down with the antiquated. You can now advance more quickly.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who will ricochet from the practical to the imaginary, the old and new, and it would be wise to give courses in school that will teach how to blend the two so that the life can become successful and happy.

FOCUS

Friendly Skies
 The worst aviation accident in history occurred on this day in 1977. 577 people died when two 747 jumbo jets collided in the Canary Islands and burst into flames. But travel by air remains the safest way to go — 30 times safer than traveling by car. U.S. airlines carried 310 million passengers more than 3 billion miles in 1983, and they did it with only 25 fatalities. More Americans than that died from bee stings last year.

Approaching Demo Platform With Caution

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With the race for the Democratic presidential nomination still wide open, party leaders are approaching the drafting of a 1984 party platform with caution, hoping to avoid the bickering among rival candidates that plagued the 1980 platform debates.

"What we're doing on the platform is not focusing on differences among candidates but on our differences with the administration," said Rep. Geraldine A. Ferraro, D-N.Y., who chairs the Democratic Party's platform committee.

The 184-member panel today was beginning the process of crafting a party issues document to be adopted in San Francisco in mid-July at the Democratic National Convention.

The committee was to hear from party leaders and interest groups at today's session. Regional hearings are then planned for New York, Birmingham, Ala.; Springfield, Ill.; Los Angeles; Cleveland, Ohio, and Houston.

In 1980, forces loyal to then-President Carter fought a fierce sentence-by-sentence war with supporters of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., over the wording of the party document, a struggle that was only resolved on the convention floor when delegates approved a mixture of planks penned by each camp.

"We're trying to figure out how not to have the same problems as we had in 1980," said Ms. Ferraro. She said putting together a consensus platform, one that the current candidates can all endorse, will be easier now that there are three candidates left instead of eight.

She said she personally has no preference among former Vice President Walter Mondale, Sen. Gary Hart or the Rev. Jesse Jackson. "I'm perfectly content with any one of the three."

At least the preliminary draft of the party platform will contain nothing that can't be embraced by any of the three contenders, party leaders said.

In 1980, Carter pretty well had the nomination wrapped up before the bulk of the platform drafting occurred. Kennedy forces, having lost the main battle, then focused their energy on influencing the platform.

"If we have a nominee (before the convention), that individual will have a say on what the final platform with look like," Ms. Ferraro said at a briefing on the platform process.

"I want a different platform than what we saw in 1980," said Democratic party Chairman Charles T. Manatt.

In remarks prepared for today's opening session, Ms. Ferraro said the committee's assignment was "to state the case against Ronald Reagan and for a Democratic president — and Democratic senators and representatives, governors, mayors and state legislators."

"We cannot afford to fail," she added. "A successful Democratic presidential candidacy will require the cooperation of Democrats of all viewpoints."

Ms. Ferraro listed some common Democratic themes that she indicated would likely find their way into the platform document: a mutually verifiable nuclear weapons freeze, reductions in defense spending, more funds for education, getting federal deficits under control.

"Americans do not agree with Ronald Reagan's negative vision that their government is their enemy. But they need to be assured that a Democratic government will respond with firmness and common sense to the complex problems of the 1980s."

Party leaders said that the platform would be shaped by the views expressed by those who testify at the hearings around the country. However, at the same time, they said they're in communication with the Hart, Jackson and Mondale camps.

However, actual wording — especially on issues where there are real differences between candidates — is still weeks, perhaps months, away, the leaders said.

"What we'll be doing (at the committee's first meeting) is just putting together our feelings," said Susan Estrich, platform committee director.

Hydroponic Crops Pay

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — In their first full season as farmers, Paul Standridge and John Neville are harvesting about 1,800 heads of Bibb lettuce a week, and picking plenty of foot-long seedless cucumbers.

And they aren't getting their hands dirty.

The lettuce is coming from dirt-free plastic troughs flowing with fertilized water, and the cucumbers are rooted in plastic bags filled with artificial soil.

Standridge and Neville, president and manager of Elkridge Inc. Hydroponic Greenhouse Farms, and they find that business is blooming.

They're hoping to distribute 100 cases of cucumbers and 200 cases of lettuce, with a dozen vegetables per case, to stores and restaurants in the Charlotte area.

"We found that the market really desires continuous supply," said Standridge. "We're learning a lot about food purchasers...We want to supply year-round for the Charlotte market. We can pick and deliver the same day."

Elkridge is the largest producer of European cucumbers in the state.

The crops start from seed in a germinating greenhouse, part of the 12,000 square feet the company has under plastic sheets to maintain optimum temperature and humidity.

Lettuce seeds are planted in a special foam product designed for hydroponics.

The foam is set on a tray of circulating water that contains magnesium sulfate, calcium nitrate and potassium nitrate as fertilizers — but no soil.

After a week, the 1,800 sprouts are moved to a seedling bench and the fertilizer is increased. A week later, the plants go to another greenhouse where they spend two or three weeks growing in water with still more fertilizer.

Anesthetist Said 'High On Drugs'

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Nurse anesthetist Glen Milton Shearer told his former girlfriend his drug use might have contributed to a patient's death, the woman testified in court.

"He was so high (on drugs) in the operating room during surgery that he did not know whether he was the cause of death or not," Janice "Jo-Jo" Wiggins said Shearer had told her.

Shearer, 34, of Mooresville, is on trial in Beaufort County Superior Court. He is charged with second-degree murder in the death of surgery patient Louise Wilson Simmons, 73, last year in Beaufort County Hospital.

Shearer gave anesthesia to Mrs. Simmons during an April 22 operation to remove her right leg below the knee. She never awoke after surgery, according to testimony last week, and was declared dead May 8.

Under questioning by District Attorney William Griffin, Ms. Wiggins said Monday that Shearer had told her he had "done some drugs that day, and complications arose during the operation."

Comic Opera To Be Presented

WILSON — The Atlantic Christian College Music and Drama Departments will present John Philip Sousa's comic opera, "El Capitan," Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in Howard Chapel on the ACC campus.

The performance will be directed by J. Ross Albert. Cast members include Melissa Bissette, Tony Deaton, Vincent Dixon, Maggie Richard, Cathy Wafford, Robert Daniel, Doug Wadkins, Ross Albert and Doug Lane.

Admission is $4 for adults and $1 for students. Tickets may be purchased at the door.
