Curfew And Roadblocks Are Kept In Effect

Pitt County authorities who are coordinating activities in the wake of last week's tornado said today that the curfew and roadblocks may be lifted after Wednesday but will be maintained at least through that time to keep sightseers out of affected areas.

The officials, discussing security during a morning meeting at the county office building, decided that the roadblocks will continue to be manned through Wednesday, primarily in the Simpson, Portertown and Taylor's Estates areas, while clean-up operations progress.

Ayden Police Chief Tommy Burney said clean-up of the Pines area just west of Ayden should be finished by 6 p.m. today and if that occurs roadblocks will be lifted there.

Another meeting involving representatives of the various county agencies is scheduled for Wednesday to discuss security measures relative to the roadblocks and nighttime curfew.

Officials said plans call for National Guardsmen to be on hand in the disaster areas through Wednesday. A 30-man prison emergency response team, made up of prison guards, that was moved into the area late Friday to assist local personnel was to be replaced today by 30 more guards from Odum and Caledonia prison units.

Food, clothing and household furnishings are available through the Red Cross at the New Greenville

Warehouse here and temporary shelters can be secured through the Red Cross and Salvation Army. Officials said furniture, linens and food is still needed, although ample quantities of clothing have been received.

The Eastern Pines rescue unit said that 500 volunteers reported to help Saturday and Sunday. The unit was also asking for volunteers today and said trucks were needed.

Forestry Service personnel from all over the state arrived in the area this morning and approximately 100 Marines and heavy equipment from Camp LeJeune were also expected today to assist in the clean-up operations.

County officials continued to urge sightseers to remain away from the damaged areas.

A 'Silent Moment' To Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to decide whether public schools may provide a "moment of silence" for meditation or prayer by students.

The court said it will review a ruling that an Alabama law allowing periods of silence at the start of each school day is unconstitutional because it was aimed primarily at promoting religion.

Similar "moment of silence" laws have been enacted in 22 other states.

The justices, however, ruled that a separate Alabama law allowing public school teachers to lead willing students in prayer is unconstitutional.

The Reagan administration urged the high court to seriously consider allowing states to provide brief, daily periods of silence for "prayer or meditation" in public schools.

Government lawyers said such measures pose no threat of establishing an official religion, but merely represent an "accommodation of and toleration for private religious beliefs and practices."

"Permitting school children to maintain a moment of silence in the public schools ... evinces a benevolent neutrality," the government contended in a "friend-of-the-court" brief.

In other action on Monday the court:

— Ruled that police authorities do not need a court search warrant to inspect a suspicious-looking substance first discovered by a private freight company. The justices voted 7 to 2 to reinstate the cocaine-possession convictions of a Minnesota couple. Justice John Paul Stevens, in his opinion for the court, said, the fact that agents of a private (freight) carrier independently opened a package containing cocaine doesn't invalidate the case, even though police would have had to have a warrant to conduct such an inspection.

— Refused to revive a lawsuit filed by a woman who said author Alex Haley borrowed from her copyrighted autobiographical book in writing his book "Roots." The justices, without comment, left intact rulings that dismissed Emma Lee Paul's claims of copyright infringement and unfair competition.

— Agreed to consider helping the government fend off an attempt by imprisoned ex-Teamsters Union boss Anthony "Tony Pro" Provenzano to obtain all criminal files mentioning him. The court said it will review a ruling that the Justice Department and FBI may not deny automatically the records to Provenzano, 66, who was sentenced to 20 years on a racketeering conviction in 1979.

In his latest State of the Union speech to Congress and in declaring his candidacy for re-election, President Reagan cited a need to "find room in our schools for God." He favors a constitutional amendment to allow officially sponsored prayer sessions in public schools.

The Senate last month rejected two separate constitutional amendment proposals — one that would allow silent periods in schools for prayer or reflection and one that would allow government-sponsored spoken prayers.

Since 1962, the Supreme Court has ruled that any official sponsorship of prayer in public schools violates the constitutionally required separation of church and state.

But it can be misleading to say the high court banned prayers from public schools. No Supreme Court ruling interfered with students engaging in voluntary prayer while in school — as long as those prayers are not sponsored or specially accommodated by school officials.

Praise For Their Help

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County officials involved with rescue, disaster relief and clean-up activities resulting from a tornado which killed nine people and caused an estimated $16 million in damage last week have had nothing but praise for the support and cooperation given by local residents and others across the nation.

Bob Martin, chairman of the Pitt County board of commissioners, said "I don't think too much can be said about the volunteers who went to work," to help rescue the 148 persons injured from the storm, or those who have helped provide food and clothing for persons who lost property to the tornado.

Martin added, "Words can't express the thanks this county has for all the help. The offers for assistance and help have just been magnificent."

Pitt County Manager Reginald Gray said "people couldn't have been better," and characterized the cooperation county officials have received as "fabulous."

Tornado Victims Getting Their Lives Back In Order

By JANE WELBORN
Reflector Staff Writer

The victims of Wednesday's tornados are in the process of getting their lives back in order. Relief for the victims of the twister in the Pitt County area is available from several different agencies and organizations.

Monetary funds are provided by the American Red Cross and from federal and state agencies. Food, clothing, furnishings and other items have been donated by citizens so the victims can quickly replace their possessions that were destroyed.

A disaster assistance center has been set up at the Pitt County Office Building on West Fifth Street, Greenville. The center will be open Tuesday and Wednesday from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. and can be reached through the rear entrance of the A wing of the office building. Representatives from state and federal agencies, such as the Farmers Home Administration and the Small Business Administration, will be on hand to help with emergency assistance loans.

The Red Cross service center for disaster victims opened Monday in the fellowship hall of Faith Pentecostal Holiness Church, located on 14th Street extension. The hours of operation are from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. each day until the immediate needs of disaster victims have been met.

The Red Cross is interviewing all disaster victims to establish their immediate needs and provide funds. The service center is operated by the Red Cross and volunteers, especially case workers, are needed. Ruth Taylor, executive director of the Pitt County office of the Red Cross, said volunteer caseworkers must be trained; those wishing to help should call the office and so a training session can be set up.

For more information, victims or volunteers should call Red Cross office at 752-4222. Those wishing to donate money should send their checks to the Pitt County Red Cross, P.O. Box 586, Greenville.

Betty Davis of the Salvation Army said that volunteers are needed at the agency to help sort out the donations. She said items most needed at the agency are household items, blankets and curtains.

Rachael Hardee at the New Greenville Warehouse said male and female volunteers are needed at the warehouse on the Pactolus Highway. The warehouse will be open from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. daily. Household good, toiletries and furniture are needed.

"Now some of the victims have found places to stay and now they are finding our their needs, so they are coming in to get items" Mrs. Hardee said.

This weekend the National Guard brought truckloads of donations in from Raleigh, Havelock, New Bern, Winston-Salem. The Surry County Young Farmers Association brought in brand new clothes donated by factories there and donations came in from Brunswick County, Va.

"I've never seen such an overwhelming response," Mrs. Hardee said. "I never knew that two telephone calls I made Thursday morning would come to this. I am so touched by the people. You have people bring things in and you cry and then people come to pick things up and you cry."

HOTLINE

Hotline gets things done. Write and tell us about the problem or issue into which you'd like for Hotline to look. Enclose photostatic copies of any pertinent information. Our address is The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27835. Because of the large numbers received, Hotline cannot answer or publish every item we receive, but we deal with all of those for which we have staff time. Names must be given, but only initials will be published.

MILITARY WIVES

I recently attended a meeting of the Military Wives Association of Pitt County and feel strongly that there are a lot more of us out there, women who would be eligible and would like to take part. Anyone interested in knowing more about this organization is asked to call 756-0117, 756-6311 or 355-2208.

GREENE PICKUP TONIGHT

Elder Tyrone Turnage said there was a tremendous response to the Friday Hotline appeal for tornado victims in Greene County. He said these people can pick up needed items at Little Creek FWB Church, located between Ayden and Scuffleton, tonight from 5:30 to 10 p.m. Household items and food are still needed, Elder Turnage said. For continued pickup of donations by volunteers, call 746-4023, 355-2305 or 756-2756.

Disaster Center Will Be Opened

Persons who suffered loss to tornadoes in this area last week are invited to visit the Disaster Assistance Center being set up at the County Office Building, 1717 W. Fifth Street, Tuesday or Wednesday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The center will be used to assist tornado victims in meeting emergency needs; obtaining temporary housing; making tax adjustments; getting agricultural assistance; obtaining home, farm or business loans or grants; getting legal assistance, and, in some cases, disaster unemployment assistance.

Those affected should bring whatever documentation they can, including personal identification, photographs of disaster-related damage, bills for repairs, damage appraisals, etc. This documentation is not required, but will speed up the processing of individual applications.

Pitt is one of seven counties in North Carolina whose citizens have been declared eligible for disaster aid.

Those seeking disaster assistance should go to the rear of the county office building, where signs will direct to the proper office.

Because the disaster assistance is being held, the regular commodities (cheese, etc.) distribution usually held the first week of each month has been postponed. Announcement as to when it will be held will be made later.

Two More Days To Register Voters

The Pitt County Board of Elections will remain open Thursday and Friday until 7 p.m. and Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. to give area citizens another opportunity to register or to correct addresses and make necessary changes in previous registrations.

The deadline for registering or making changes in registration data prior to the May 8 primary and election is April 9.

Margaret Hardee, elections supervisor, said that while Pitt County has a permanent registration system, addresses should remain current. Notification of a change of address may be made by mail directly to the elections office, located at 201 E. Second St. in Greenville.

Mrs. Hardee explained that any person who will be 18 years old by the date of the Nov. 6 general election and who is otherwise qualified may register and vote in the primary, but cannot vote on constitutional amendments or any other non-partisan ballot.

She said the new "election day transfer" law enables a voter who has moved out of the precinct where he registered more than 30 days before the election, but remained in the county, to vote. However, the voter must first report to the old precinct in which he is still registered and receive a transfer slip. The transfer must be taken to the elections office where he will be assigned to a new precinct and allowed to vote at the board's office.

Special registration commissioners throughout the county are authorized to register voters "at large" and each town hall in the county has an official authorized to register qualified voters. Libraries in Greenville and county high schools have registrars on duty. The elections office will also remain open extra hours, Mrs. Hardee said.

Persons with inquiries should contact the elections office at 758-4683.

Janice Emory, 33, of Rutherford, was killed at 5:09 p.m. Sunday when she was struck head-on by a car. The Highway Patrol had not determined whether Ms. Emory was the passenger or the driver of the motorcycle which was driving left of the center line on U.S. 221 about seven miles north of Rutherford.

Father, Children Killed In Blaze

BISCOE, N.C. (AP) — A 24-year-old father and his two children were killed Saturday when fire destroyed their single-story frame house in the Montgomery County town of Biscoe.

Biscoe Police Chief James Myrick identified the victims as Rufus Dean Lee, 24, his son Trinity Dean Lee, 3, and daughter Andrea Lana Lee, 17 months.

The fire broke out around 3 p.m. Saturday, Myrick said. Myrick said it swept through the asphalt-sided house and gutted it. He said the house was declared a total loss.

Authorities said they received a call on the fire at 3:22 p.m., but when the first units arrived, the house was engulfed in flames.

Lee's wife, Joyce, was at work when the fire started, Myrick said.

Abby's Drug Column Reprint Requested

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you devoted an entire column to the drug problem. I was so impressed I gave it to the principal of the Mason City (Iowa) high school, who in turn made copies and gave them to other school officials.

Please run it again, Abby. It's needed even more today.

R.H.H., MASON CITY

DEAR MR. H.: I agree. And here it is:

DEAR ABBY: Recently a 17-year-old Florida boy pleaded guilty to possessing hallucinogenic drugs. He also had been charged with violence toward a Miami Beach police officer.

Judge Alfonso Sepe sentenced the youth to one year in the county stockade and four years' probation. The comments of the judge so impressed me that I ordered the transcript from the court reporter so that I may read it to my own children.

Your column is so widely read I am sending you the "lecture" Judge Sepe gave that boy in the presence of his grieving parents. Please publish it and give it the national forum it deserves.

MRS. A.L. CATES, MIAMI, FLA.

DEAR ABBY: CADEC* Babeli do I defode an endibe colemn do one letter, but I agree, this is worth it:

Judge Sepe spoke directly to the youth and said, "Do you know who is going to serve that year? Not you; your mother and father will serve that year."

"That is what's wrong. They get sentenced. They get sentenced for a lifetime."

"You serve a year. Your body is in the stockade for a year, but their souls are tormented for a lifetime. Why? Because you are a selfish, spoiled boy, that's why."

"There is no punishment in the world that I could inflict upon you that could in any way compensate for what you are doing to your mother and father. I have not spent 5 cents raising you. I didn't know you from Adam. But your mother and father have put their lives, their hearts, their sweat, their money and everything else they have into bringing you up. And now they have to sit in this courtroom and listen to a total stranger who had nothing to do with your upbringing scold you and put you in jail."

"This is at a time when phony kids your age are yelling, 'You adults have your alcohol, we want our drugs; you have polluted our water and our air, you have polluted this and that,' and all the rest of the garbage that comes out of your mouths."

"Meanwhile, you put yourselves above everybody else. I feel sorry for you."

"I want you to think of this for one year, and the reason why I say it:

"If you are sick, a doctor will treat you and he won't be on drugs. They lawyer who represents you won't be high on drugs, and the people in whose custody you'll be won't be on drugs."

"Your astronauts are not on drugs, and your president is not, and your legislators are not."

"And your engineers who build the bridges that your drive across and the tunnels that you drive through are not on drugs, and those who build the planes you fly in and the cars that you drive are not."

"Neither are those who build the bathrooms that you stink up with your lousy, rotten drugs."

"None of them have been on drugs, and that is because of people like your mother and father."

"But in the world of the future, the same may not be true. Teachers, doctors, lawyers, legislators — products of the new drug-oriented generation — may well be high as kites."

"You won't know whom to send your children to, or whom to trust your life to."

Sepe sighed and closed the case file.

"Let's see what kind of world you leave to your children," he said,

"before you talk about the world that we left to ours."

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

Knit a season-spanning tweed vest to accent all of your active sportswear. Panels of wheat ear cables add textural interest to the back and front of the vest. Knitting with four strands of a "Miracle Thin" acrylic yarn in the Swedish Flere Troder system gives you warmth without weight or bulk and allows you to create fantastic tweeds at the same time.

With a 5-stitch-per-inch gauge, you can use regular 4-ply knitting worsted-weight yarn if you prefer. Easy-to-follow directions are written for sizes 10 through 16.

To obtain directions for making the Tweed Vest, send your request for Leaflet No. KL-0401 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, (The Daily Reflector), P.O. Bpx 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29597.

Or you may order Kit No. K-0401 by sending a check or money order for $16 to Pat Trexler at the same address. The kit price includes shipping charges, full instructions, and Miracle Thin Cone Yarn in any of the following tweed combinations; beige/brown tweed, cranberry tweed, gray tweed or lavender tweed.

It is interesting to note that the first pattern stitch attempted by most beginning knitters is the basic cable stitch, and usually with great success. Unfortunately, many never progress beyond that, thus denying themselves much of the fascination of pattern stitchery.

It is seldom a lack of skill but merely a lack of confidence that prevents many from exploring the delights of more advanced knitting. If you will face any pattern that is new to you with the "one-step-at-a-time" attitude, I'll bet you can master it in no time!

The wheat ear cable in the vest featured today is a case in point. If you have already learned to work any basic cable, there is really nothing new to learn here, just a slightly different sequence in the various steps. If, on the other hand, you have never progressed beyond the knit-a-row, purl-a-row stage, don't leave us now — I'll give some beginner tips after the pattern stitch instructions.

A single repeat of wheat ear cable is worked on a panel of 17 stitches as follows: Row 1: Purl 2, knit 13, purl 2. Row 2: Knit 2, purl 13, knit 2. Row 3: Purl 2, slip next 3 stitches to a cable holder and hold in back of work; knit 3, then knit 3 from the cable holder; knit 1, slip next 3 stitches to cable holder and hold in front of work; knit 3, then knit 3 from holder; purl 2. Row 4: Work same as Row 2.

Just repeat these 4 rows over and over for desired length. If you want to have double or triple cable panels, just allow 13 stitches for each panel with 2 extra stitches at the beginning, end and between each panel. For example, the 1st row of a double wheat ear panel would be set up on 32 stitches this way: Purl 2, knit 13, purl 2, knit 13, purl 2.

Now for the beginner's tips: Cable holders are simply implements that make it easy for you to hold the stitches either to the front or back of your work while knitting or purling other stitches. This allows one set of stitches to cross over another set of stitches, which is what cables are all about.

Some cable holders look like small double-pointed needles with a small "dip" or "bend" in the center. When you slip the stitches to the holder, they are held in this center section so that you don't worry about them slipping off of one end or the other. Another type of holder simply looks like an oversized fish hook.

You can use either a double-pointed needle or a crochet hook as a holder but this is not recommended for the beginner as the stitches can easily slip off of either of these implements.

Whatever type of holder you use, however, always slip the stitches onto one end and knit them off of the other end of the holder. This is why a regular straight knitting needle with a point on only one end does not work.

Before you try a cabling on a garment, try a small sample with any needles and yarn you have on hand, purchasing only a cable holder or hook. Just playing with pattern stitches can be fun, but if you feel as if you must be "really" making something, work on your panel of 17 stitches until it is long enough to almost reach around your head. Bind off and sew the cast-on and bound-off edges together for a neat headband.

Common Sense

Smoking bans — a smoldering issue here in North Carolina's prime tobacco-producing region — have taken a blow in the last few days.

The Civil Aeronautics Board rejected a proposal banning smoking on most commercial airline flights. The tobacco industry claimed a victory over the ban's failure; anti-smoking advocates were upset by it.

The rejection in our opinion represented a victory for no one but common sense advocates. When the CAB goes out of business, so do any mandates on smoking on commercial flights without further legislation to support them.

Besides, separate smoking and non-smoking sections on aircraft should take care of the problem for most people. If it doesn't there's always the phrase, "Could you please not smoke?"

It's not that we're blind to the reported dangers of smoking both to the smoker and his peers. We feel, however, that persons bothered by cigarette smoke should deal with the problem themselves and ask the offending party to extinguish rather than expecting a quasi-governmental board or legislation to take up their cause. Any smoker who doesn't cooperate has poor taste.

Prohibition is contagious; one good ban deserves another. Hence, the snowball effect. Consider this: Smoking is banned on commercial airlines and in restaurants, sidewalks, department stores, trees, lakes and rivers. Finally, smoking is banned, period.

Good, say health and consumer advocates. But like it or not, those who want to will smoke and risk arrest, ridicule and disease. It's absurd to think a problem will disappear because it is outlawed.

Sign Of Caring

As of the weekend donations from Winston-Salem and elsewhere were coming into Greenville to assist those who lost everything in the mighty storm of last week.

News of the disaster which struck Pitt, Greene and other eastern counties was spread all over the nation, with national networks and large newspapers making it the lead story of the day.

Locally many organizations were volunteering time and money to provide food and other necessities to the victims. Everybody seems to want to help and for most it will mean no recognition or reward. It is simply a time to come to the aid of our neighbors.

The outpouring of concern and assistance illustrates that we do care for our fellow humans. Most of us were fortunate not to suffer the loss of property and life that a few experienced. As often occurs the fortunate come to the aid of those who suffered loss.

Stock Sales

NEW YORK (AP) — It is a question that has not been faced directly: As one of their many financial services, should banks be allowed to promote the sale of common stocks?

"Why ask?" could be the next question, because banks already are selling stocks and promoting brokerage services in what some see as a violation of the decades-old Glass-Steagall Act.

While such activity flourishes, another law seems to be getting worn down: Should nationwide branch banking be permitted?

Again, why ask. While politicians, regulators and financial people argue the question, bankers have gone right ahead over state lines. "We already have it. We just don't have it legally," says an authority.

Should merchants be allowed to add surcharges of any amount on credit card transactions? And if they do, should they be required to notify customers?

While Congress debates the questions, some merchants have begun doing so.

Not long ago the laws governing financial transactions seemed crisp, clear and well understood, but over the past couple of years they have become increasingly fuzzy and almost openly defied.

Deregulation and the innovative, competitive spirit that accompanies it are among the motivations for the changed attitude of otherwise law-abiding citizens. The stakes, it seems, are too high to sit back and wait for the law to change. Instead, they feel, you must act now and change the law later.

In fact, one of the greatest pressures for regulatory and legal changes in the financial services industry is to bring the law up to date with the reality.

Enacted during the Great Depression, at a time when it was felt that stock dealing by commercial banks had something to do with the nation's economic problems, the Glass-Steagall Act stood firm until the past few years.

The act did allow banks to buy and sell stocks for customers, but it was generally understood that such transactions would be at the request of the bank's customers. Now, however, banks seek out customers.

While the practice seems to defy the law, if not in legal technicalities then in spirit, it is apparently growing. And law or no law, the transactions are putting duly registered shares into the hands of bank customers.

The banks maintain they are only barred from underwriting stocks and providing investment counsel, so many have hooked up with discount brokers, who provide neither of those services.

The interstate banking matter apparently has gone beyond the law to at least the same extent.

WASHINGTON — The White House, fresh from a bitter victory over liberal Commerce Department traders, now aims at a double-header trade win by defeating Senate conservatives on a completely different issue: an attempt to crimp high-tech trade with communist China on the eve of President Reagan's Peking trip.

On China trade, the president should overcome conservatives in the Senate who are usually his allies. But victory there would lack the high drama of his recent decision against Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige, who wanted Assistant Secretary of Defense Richard Perle fired or muzzled as the Pentagon's sentinel on trade with communist states.

Resolution of the long battle between the business-dominated, trade-oriented Commerce Department and the security-minded Pentagon signaled a key move by national security adviser Robert McFarlane into the administration's trade-policy swamp. It was McFarlane who was primarily responsible for persuading President Reagan to give Perle and his boss, Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger, their victory over Baldrige.

McFarlane's new target is to terminate any threat to Reagan's election-year trip to China. His move could mark a belated end to chaos in the administration's high level trade policy.

Simmering warfare between commerce-hungry Baldrige, facing record trade deficits, and Perle, Weinberger's top guardian against high-tech handouts to the Soviet bloc, peaked in December. That was when an espionage coup by the Soviets was averted at the last minute: West Germany intercepted a high-powered U.S. computer system bound for Moscow.

Weinberger was immediately asked if the Pentagon had examined the computer export license "before issuing it." He said no, that was up the Commerce Department. But he went on to say that the Pentagon must have power in the future to deny such licenses for high technology that might be illegally routed to the Soviet bloc.

That was challenge enough, but what really infuriated Baldrige and his trade officials was a background briefing given the press by a supposedly anonymous high Pentagon official the next day. The official blamed the Commerce Department for making "a very serious mistake" and for being "careless" in having approved the computer license.

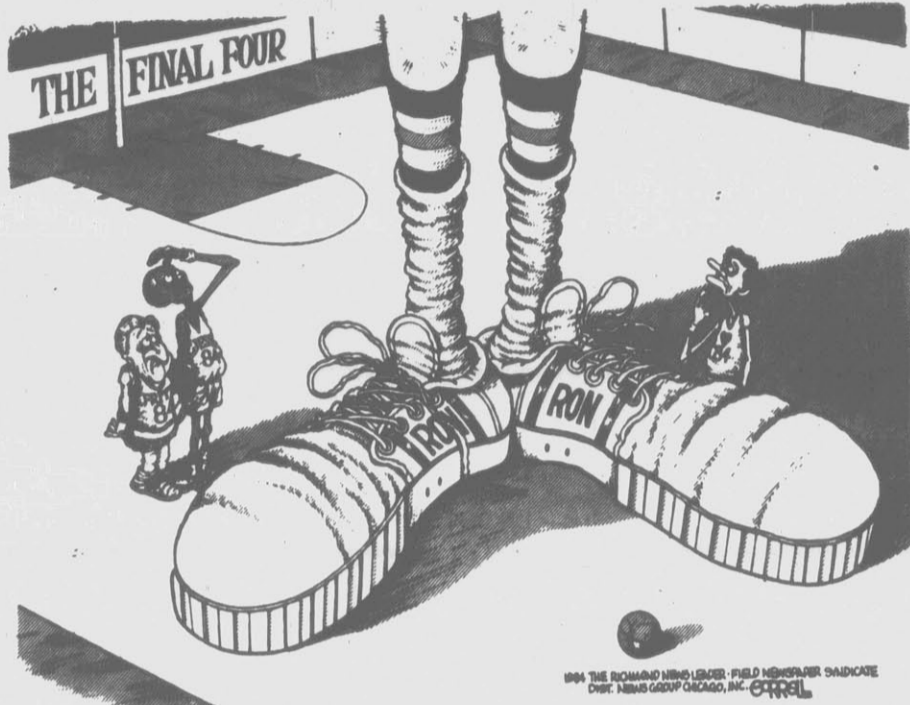

The anonymous official was Perle. When Baldrige found out, he went to Weinberger and asked that Perle either be fired or relieved of his duties as the Pentagon's high-tech watchdog. Naturally, Weinberger refused. Although no word of that Baldrige-Weinberger spat has leaked until now, the climax of their struggle came late last week with McFarlane's ruling.

For the first time, the Pentagon now has a White House-imposed equal say with Commerce over individual export licenses for high-tech equipment bought here by non-communist countries for possible transshipment to communist states.

As for Reagan's China trip, McFarlane's effort to clear away the land mines pits him against tougher opponents. The anti-China trade amendment to the Export Administration Act was written by Sen. Jesse Helms, the conservative leader. In effect, it applies high-tech trade restrictions to Peking similar to those in effect against the Soviet bloc. It contradicts the "differentiation" policy espoused by Reagan after much ideological tension, a policy that treats communist China differently from the Soviet Union.

Although Senate liberals seldom agree with Helms, his amendment includes a provision designed to compel China to sign the Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty, a litmus-test treaty for most liberals. That strengthens it. The Senate-passed bill is about to go to conference with a much different House version on regulating all U.S. trade.

The president and his advisers want final passage of the Export Administration Act before the start of Reagan's April 23 trip to China, confident that Congress will spare him the embarrassment of taking the Helms amendment with him. If McFarlane, fresh from imposing his will on the Commerce Department, can do the same with powerful Jesse Helms and his Senate allies, three years of trade chaos might end.

A Voter Takes It Personal

Jesse Jackson blames the fact that his "rainbow coalition" strategy is not working on racial prejudice.

This bothers a liberal Democratic friend of mine in California who has no intention of voting for Jackson.

"The reason I'm not voting for Jackson is that I don't think he'd make a very good president. Does that make me a racist?"

"It depends. Do you feel he won't make a good president because of his lack of experience, or because he is black?"

"It has nothing to do with his color. I don't like his mustache. I've never voted for a president who had a mustache."

"Then you have a deep-seated prejudice toward people who have mustaches?"

"I don't think I'm the only one. Everyone says Thomas Dewey was defeated by Harry Truman because he had a mustache. I know you should not judge a person for the presidency on the basis of how much hair he has on his face. But people have voted for one candidate over the other on much less."

"Lincoln had a beard," I reminded him.

"Lincoln isn't running in the Democratic primaries this year."

"Then I guess the test to judge if you're a racist or not might be, would you vote for Jackson if he shaved off his mustache?"

"I don't think so. For one reason he shouts too much, and he can get very emotional. I want someone in the Oval Office with his finger on the button who can keep his cool. Is that asking too much?"

"That's Jesse's style. He's a preacher and he is used to shouting a lot."

"I don't want a preacher in the White House. Does that make me a racist?"

"Not necessarily, but Jackson may believe it does. You have to judge a presidential candidate on the issues and not his mustache, his style, or his profession."

"Who says so?" my friend asked. "I didn't vote for Jimmy Carter because I got tired of his smile, my wife didn't vote for Gerry Ford because he kept bumping his head on airplanes, and my son didn't vote for Ronald Reagan because he was an actor. There are a lot more of us than there are people who vote on the issues. Most voters look at a guy on television and we decide if we like him or not."

"Then what you are saying is that you don't like Jackson?"

"You could say that. But it has nothing to do with his color. He strikes me as if he'd be one mean president."

"Why?"

"I've never seen him smile on TV. I want my president to have a sense of humor."

"Warren Harding didn't have a sense of humor."

"I wouldn't have voted for Warren Harding either. But Harding wouldn't have called me a racist."

"Jackson's in a tough battle. All presidential candidates have to blame something when they're behind. You can't blame Jesse for using racism as an excuse for not getting his 'rainbow coalition.'"

"What does he call the black people who don't vote for him?"

"Lackeys of the party bosses."

"Well that at least sounds better than being called a racist."

"Look," I said, "I can't tell you how to vote. But I don't think you should take what Jesse Jackson says about Democrats who don't vote for him as something personal."

"You can say that because you're not a liberal. But when a politician lays a guilt trip on me because of his race, it makes my heart bleed."

Sweetest Primary Turns Sour

NEW YORK (AP) — The mood has turned sour in what Walter F. Mondale once called "the sweetest primary season" ever.

On the road to the San Francisco convention for the awarding of the Democratic presidential nomination, Mondale and Gary Hart traded increasingly bitter charges last week as the pivotal New York and Pennsylvania primaries neared.

In ads and speeches, Hart has both implied and said outright that Mondale's foreign policies could lead to the deaths of many American troops.

Mondale fired right back at Hart, saying the Colorado senator lacks commitment to civil rights and arms control.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, the third Democratic contender, has been generally playing the peacemaker role, but he too has been lobbing a few rounds at the front-runners — saying they are ignoring blacks and other minority voters.

The pattern of charge and counter-charge by the candidates is not new.

Mondale started attacking Hart's record after he lost to him in the New Hampshire primary and Hart has been on the offensive against Mondale's "old ideas" for months. What is new this week is the caustic tone of the exchanges.

The new mood was on display for all the nation's voters on Wednesday night, in the debate televised by CBS.

"Mr. Mondale knows better than that," Hart snapped more than once. "Don't worry about Walter Mondale and American lives. I'll stand strong on that," Mondale said.

Mondale acknowledged Friday that the rhetoric had gotten harsher. In the multicandidate debates earlier this year, he had said the nomination fight was "the sweetest" the Democratic Party had ever had.

"It's lost a little of that edge," Mondale said Friday when asked about his earlier description.

Hart said the "totally negative campaign" by Mondale has damaged their friendship.

"I've had some real disappointment in him. Frankly, I had higher regard for him," Hart told the New York Times.

Hart's week started off well with victories in the Montana caucuses and in the Connecticut primary, victories that broke a two-week dry spell.

It also was early in the week that

Hart's campaign started running the "burning fuse" ad that accused Mondale of wanting to use U.S. troops as "bargaining chips" in Central America and saying "Remember Vietnam."

Hart added that he believes there would be many American deaths later in the decade if Mondale's policies were followed.

Hart also started running ads that reminded voters of Mondale's role as vice president in Jimmy Carter's administration and the nation's economic problems during those years.

Hart's charges outraged Mondale, but his initial response was tentative and imprecise on exactly what his Central American stand was.

By Wednesday night, Mondale was ready.

"Why do you run those ads that suggest I'm out trying to kill kids when you know better. All my life I've fought for peace," Mondale said during the debate. "I think you ought to pull those ads down tonight."

Hart shot back: "Why have you questioned my commitment to arms control and civil rights when you know that I have just as much commitment to both of those as you do?"

With the new tenor of the debate, the next 10 days are crucial.

New York, with 252 pledged delegates, holds its primary Tuesday, while Pennsylvania votes April 10 for 172 pledged delegates to the San Francisco convention in July.

Those are the second- and third-largest pledged delegate blocs at the convention. Only California will have more delegates than New York.

Mondale has been leading in the polls in New York — but by a dwindling margin — and many voters in other states have been waiting until the last moment to make up their minds.

Hart has been working hard in the state and outspending Mondale on television ads. But he said he would not be "vanished or finished or anything like that" if he lost New York.

Both Hart and Mondale claim the fighting between them will not hurt the eventual Democrat nominee's chances against President Reagan in November.

"It's noisy. It's controversial. It's hot," Mondale said Friday of the continuing debate.

Never Charged

The local Salvation Army has issued a statement refuting a claim that the Salvation Army is selling clothing to tornado victims.

"We have never charged disaster victims for any assistance we have provided," Mrs. Major Ronald Davis said, "and we're not doing so now. We never charge persons burned out of their home, people coming out of prison, or anyone who by income statement is eligible for our assistance. We do have a thrift store which charges nominal fees for items for those who do not qualify for assistance. This money is used for our programs. But anyone eligible for assistance because of income or circumstance such as being affected by a natural disaster like the recent tornadoes is not charged."

She said anyone needing Salvation Army assistance is invited to come in. Many people have contributed household goods and clothing through the Army to the tornado victims, including at least one department store which donated new clothing.

Annual Arts Festival Off To A Rousing Start Here

By JERRY RAYNOR
 Reflector Staff Writer
 Greenville's Fourth Annual Eastern Carolina Arts Festival, a two-week event running from April 1-14, got off to a rousing start Saturday night with a special performance of Ida Wooten Tripp's play, "King Bacco" on the East Carolina University.

Mrs. Wooten's play, set in Greene County in the depression year of 1932, covers the period of one day in the "putting in" of a barn of tobacco. The script, which has been praised in previous readings for its authenticity in dialogue and character, features three black women, a white father and son, a white salesman, and an adolescent black boy — with a narrator off stage.

The play, sponsored by the Pitt-Greenville Arts Council, was presented in a reading version at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the auditorium of the Leo Jenkins Fines Arts Center. Greg Smith, of Washington, N. C., a student in dance-drama at East Carolina University, directed the play. Cast members were: Ora "Okera" Frizell-Flynn as Mamie; Delphine Venable as Hattie Ruth; Melissa Flynn as Ella; Robert Ruffin, in the role of George Mitchell; David A. Scott as Parrott Mitchell; John Belote as Ralph;

Sidney Horton in the role of Buddy Wee. Bill Tyson, who has appeared in several ATW productions, was narrator.

Following the performance, the audience was invited to a reception at the home of Chancellor and Mrs. John Howell, where they had an opportunity to talk to the playwright, Mrs. Tripp. A retired school teacher living on a farm near Paoctos, Ida Wooten Tripp has had a number of articles published in magazines and in the syndicated column, "Looking South." A long-standing member of the Greenville Writers Club, most of her work deals with rural life in eastern North Carolina in past years. "King Bacco" is her first effort in penning a play.

Entertainment at the reception was provided by students in the School of Music, ECU, members of the Collegium Musicum and the Madrigal Singers.

No Traffic Problems

By TOM BAINES
 Reflector Staff Writer
 While traffic was heavy with sightseers Sunday around Pitt County areas affected by Wednesday night's tornado, the Highway Patrol reported that no unusual problems resulted from the volume of vehicles.

Lt. Carl Jones said the heaviest traffic was on N.C. 43 south of Greenville where vehicles were bumper-to-bumper, hindering work crews that periodically entered the highway from stricken areas. Roads feeding into N.C. 43 were also busy as curious motorists toured the damage locations where vehicles were permitted.

Jones said the traffic jam on N.C. 43 resulted from the "usual sightseers slowing down to see the damage." He noted that traffic had to be stopped periodically to let trucks hauling debris and other repair vehicles out on the highway.

Traffic was not as heavy on N.C. 33 (Grimesland Highway), said Jones, noting that authorities were still turning motorists away from the Simpson area.

The spokesman said he knew of no accidents Sunday that were related to the sightseeing traffic. He suggested that considering the potential for problems, "it went real good, I thought."

Jones said authorities are still encouraging people to stay away from the affected areas unless they are helping with the clean-up operations. He said officials were meeting today to decide on the status of roadblocks at the various damage sites.

Green Clean-Up Sees Progress

SNOW HILL — Green County Sheriff's Department Deputy Bobby Murphy says "the clean-up in Greene County saw a lot of progress over the weekend. In the past two days, furniture, farm equipment and other items that were still usable were salvaged, and things that couldn't be used were taken away."

"This morning, we are getting in more heavy equipment from out of the county to help in the last phase of the clean-up. Most of the effort today and until the work is finished will be clearing sites and picking up debris that has been scattered across fields."

According to Murphy, all road blocks in Greene County have now been taken down.

SAFETY COUNCIL TO MEET
 The Pitt County Safety Council meeting will start at 12:30 p.m. Thursday at the Greenville Country Club. Sgt. Glenn Swanson, N.C. Highway Patrol, will discuss "Defensive Driving."

USHERS TO MEET
 The City Union Ushers will meet at 7:30 p.m. today at Phillippi Christian Church.

EMERGENCY MEASURES

Restorations (fillings, caps, bridges, etc.) have a way of breaking or getting lost at the most inconvenient time-like when you want to look your best. The only permanent kind of repair is that made by your dentist, but here are a few emergency measures.

- If a filling falls out (and it happens in the best of families) it has to be replaced by the dentist. You can ease some of the discomfort by rinsing with luke-warm water and then placing a piece of cotton dipped in oil of cloves into the cavity.
- If a crown, jacket or cap pops out, don't put it back with commercial glue. If you can leave it out until you see your dentist do so. If you must have it in place for appearance's sake, vaseline or denture cream will hold it in place temporarily.
- Don't try to repair a broken denture or bridge yourself. It could damage both the appliance and the tissue against which it rests. A broken denture is a real emergency and can be repaired quickly by the dentist. A single fractured tooth in a denture can also be replaced quickly by the dentist.

No Counting The Commercial Dairy Farms

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department, which is able to milk just about any other kind of statistic from its computers, has trouble determining how many commercial dairy farms there are on a state-by-state basis.

Clifford M. Carman, a dairy specialist in USDA's Economic Research Service, says the agency does not keep track of state figures on commercial dairy farms, those that regularly produce milk for sale. A farm family with one or two cows to produce milk for their own consumption, for example, would not be a commercial enterprise.

"The only series (of statistics) that we have with state numbers is operations with milk cows, so that is the series we had to use," Carman told a reporter recently.

According to USDA's latest information, which is based on census and other surveys, as of Jan. 1 there were more than 300,000 farm "operations with milk cows" in the United States. That includes farms with one cow or more. Current estimates put commercial dairy operations at fewer than 200,000.

One recent analysis shows that herds having 1 to 4 cows accounted for 1.9 percent of the 333,485 dairy operations reported in 1978, or about 636 farms. Other breakdowns included: 5 to 19 cows, 5.2 percent of the total herds; 20 to 49 cows, 31.9 percent; 50 to 99 cows, 30.2 percent; 100 to 199 cows, 14.9 percent; 200 to 499 cows, 9 percent; 500 cows and over, 6.9 percent.

Some dairy people have complained that USDA's figures regarding the recent sign-up in the 15-month dairy diversion program do not reflect reality because they do not show participation among commercial producers.

The sign-up results were announced on Feb. 6, showing that 37,530 dairy producers signed contracts to reduce milk output during the 15-month period which began on Jan. 1, 1984. Those represented slightly more than 12 percent of the 303,580 "operations with milk cows" that were eligible.

But some critics feel that the participation rate is actually much higher — around 25 percent — if only commercial operations are considered.

Under the program, producers can collect government payments of $10 per 100 pounds of milk that they cut sales from a base level. The cut-backs can range up to 30 percent and be as small as 5 percent over the 15-month period.

Carman said that "the ones signed up for the larger percentage of reduced marketings had the smaller herds and the lower level of output per cow." Overall, he said, those who signed up milked an average of 57 cows which produced about 14,000 pounds of milk annually.

But some of those who signed up have much smaller herds, sometimes only three or four cows and "very limited daily output" of milk per cows, he said.

Carman said other figures have been cited repeatedly by USDA to give perspective to the sign-up, not just the participating 12 percent.

For example, the Feb. 6 announcement noted that those who signed contracts agreed to reduce milk output by 9.3 billion pounds, which would be about 5.5 percent of the U.S. production during the 15 months of the program. Administration officials had hoped for about a 10 percent reduction.

Dairy sign-up figures related to total numbers of cow operations — not simply the larger commercial farms — are not unique in that respect among USDA statistics. Farm income figures traditionally include small as well as large operators, although breakdowns are provided to reflect different sizes of sales categories.

With the early days of April upon us many growers are considering the fertility program of their corn for this year. One of the questions they are most concerned with involves banding versus broadcast application of fertilizer. Banding of fertilizer is a practice which is done by placing a disk opener next to a row of corn and distributing the nutrients closer to the actual seed. This practice applies a small amount of fertilizer to the plant and gives it a "starter" effect. The plant is able to grow more vigorously and escape many early-season problems.

Growers who band their corn fertilizer next to the row should be careful not to apply anymore than 90 pounds total of nitrogen plus potassium. This is to prevent burning of the plant. If a large amount of potash is recommended (120 pounds), then a farmer should consider broadcasting due to the fact that potash offers no starter effect.

The best fertilizer to select for banding is one which contains a 1:2 ratio of nitrogen to phosphorus. Phosphorus offers no threat of burning because it does not contain salt.

Growers who band their fertilizer may experience advantages such as billbug control and weed competition. A plant that receives a boost at planting is more likely to reach the height of six inches in comparison to a plant that does not. At this height the billbug is unattracted to the foliage of the corn plant. Plants which grow better shortly after planting are better able to compete against weed problems which may arise in a given field. Corn crops which have their nutrients closer to the seed may reach pollination earlier in the season and escape some drought pressure.

Equipment set-up and questionable yield increases may be disadvantages of banding fertilizer. Growers who are not set up to band their fertilizer must consider the extra cost of attempting to do so. Although it is certain that banding causes early season vigor, its effect upon yield is questionable. Under normal conditions of high phosphorus soils, the benefits of banding are not usually seen in the final yield of a crop. The benefit of seedling vigor lasts only about 30 days. Crops with broadcast fertilizer catch up in growth after this period.

Both methods of fertilizer application have their advantages before April 15. After this time, research has shown a one-bushel-per-day decrease in delayed planting. Whether a grower decides to band or broadcast he should keep in mind that an early-planted crop usually performs better than a late-planted crop.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q.1 — As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠83 ♠K98 ♠J107 ♠AQ965

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♣ Pass 2 ♣ Pass
2 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A. — Since you have a minimum two over one response, it is tempting to pass two no trump. However, your three hearts to a high honor and ruffing value in spades suggest that the hand might play better at a suit contract. Bid three hearts, and leave the final decision to partner.

Q.2 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠J982 ♠A7 ♠Q842 ♠763

Partner opens the bidding with one diamond. What do you respond?

A. — Don't attempt to get the hand off your chest by raising to two diamonds, because that runs the risk of missing a 4-4 spade fit. The modern tendency is not to by-pass a four-card major suit if it can be shown conveniently, so we will go with the trend and bid one spade.

Q.3 — Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠Q8 ♠J106 ♠AJ9863 ♠A8

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass Pass 1 ♣ Pass
2 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A. — Since partner is a passed hand, his jump in no trump is not forcing. Also, in terms of high cards, you could hardly have had less for your opening bid, so it might seem that the prudent course is to pass. However, we feel that your sixth diamond and useful intermediate cards in the other suits make three no trump an attractive gamble.

Q.4 — As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠9854 ♠Q7 ♠QJ8 ♠AK83

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♣ Pass 2 ♣ Pass
2 NT Pass 3 ♣ Pass
3 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A. — So much stress has been laid upon finding an eight-card major fit that we would not be surprised if your automatic reaction was to correct to four spades. However, your "soft" values (queens and jacks) and the fact that you have a stopper in every suit makes three no trump attractive. This could be one of those hands where there are only nine tricks available at both spades and no trump. Pass.

Q.5 — Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠QJ87 ♠J52 ♠KQ10 ♠AJ6

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♣ Pass 3 ♣ Pass
3 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A. — Your jump to three spades described your hand exactly — 13-15 points and four card spade support. Knowing that partner elected to bid three no trump. With your perfectly balanced hand, you have no reason to overrule him. Pass.

Q.6 — Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AQ8 ♠AQ1092 ♠654 ♠73

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♣ Pass 1 ♣ Pass

What do you bid now?

A. — You can't rebid two hearts — in this sequence that virtually promises a six card suit. You don't have a second suit to show, and you certainly don't want to bid no trump with two suits wide open. That leaves only a raise to two spades. The quality of your support makes up for the fact that you would prefer to have four spades for that action.

German Shepherd 'Best In Show'

CHICAGO (AP) — A German shepherd won "best of the show" honors Sunday at the International Kennel Club of Chicago's 44th annual Spring Dog Show.

The winner was Champion Cuvy Tucker Hills Manhattan, co-owned by Shirlee Braunstein of New York and Jane Firestone of North Carolina.

The 4-year-old dog, nicknamed "Hatter," lives in Lyndonville, N.Y., with its handler, Jim Moses. The animal has won 30 ribbons and 14 "best of the show" honors already this year, Moses said.

About 2,220 dogs were entered in the show, which attracted 20,000 spectators during its two-day run, according to spokesman Lou Auslander of International Kennel Club.

A Scabies Injection

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new anti-scabies procedure has been approved for the treatment of cattle being shipped across state lines, says the Agriculture Department.

Shippers can now use an injection instead of a dip to protect cattle against scabies, a highly contagious skin disease of cattle caused by tiny mites.

Bert Hawkins, administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, said the Food and Drug Administration has approved the injection of ivermectin.

"It allows shippers to avoid the inconvenience and difficulties of dipping," Hawkins said. "Also, it is safer, less toxic, than permitted dips. But users also will find some drawbacks."

The FDA approved the use of ivermectin with certain restrictions:

- Animals must not be slaughtered until 35 days after treatment.
- The product cannot be used on female dairy cattle of breeding age.
- It may only be used by, or on the order of, a licensed veterinarian.

Also, USDA's shipping rules require that all cattle be kept separated from other cattle before and during shipment for 14 days.

"After 14 days, all scabies mites on treated cattle should be dead or incapable of infesting other cattle," Hawkins said. "If treated cattle are re-exposed during the 14 days before or during shipment, this would prolong the time they would be capable of spreading scabies."

Jackson Trying To Change Face Of Politics

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — With a presidential campaign unlike any other in memory, the Rev. Jesse Jackson is trying to change the face of American politics.

"There are three candidates and two points of view," Jackson repeatedly tells audiences.

Walter Mondale and Gary Hart may have their differences, but they are peas in a pod when compared with Jackson. Mondale and Hart approach many sensitive issues with the caution expected of most presidential candidates.

Not Jackson. The latest example of his style was Sunday night when he called for the withdrawal of Britain from Northern Ireland and came close to embracing the Irish Republican Army.

Jackson spent the night with Thomas and Vita Cox in Middle Village, Queens. Mr. and Mrs. Cox were described in a Jackson press release as "actively involved in working with the Irish Republicans in Northern Ireland."

Jackson sidestepped a question on whether he sympathized with the violent methods of some members of the IRA.

"I would tend not to identify with violence anywhere," he said. Then he added that he would "identify with those who struggle to unify Ireland."

The Jackson difference begins with the fact that he has come so far as a black running for president and has accelerated the involvement of the black community in politics.

That difference often seems a product of Jackson's background in the confrontational politics of the civil rights movement. At other times it seems to lie in the contrasts between the traditional constituencies wooed by Hart and Mondale and the have-nots who are Jackson's base.

There also are basic differences on such issues as the size of the military budget and relations with Israel and her Arab neighbors.

On still other occasions, the differences appear to be rhetorical than real, more symbolic than substantive.

Jackson has based his candidacy on a bid to form a coalition of blacks, Hispanics, Asians, American Indians and women. But while Jackson has received white votes in Iowa, New Hampshire and Connecticut, his "Rainbow Coalition" remains largely black.

"I'm trying to reach out," he told the congregation at Bethany Baptist Church on Sunday.

But that congregation was black, and it responded to him as one of their own who was finally making a credible run for the presidency.

"Don't spend a lot of time protesting," he told them. "I'm running. You've got a live option now."

Mondale reminds black audiences of his long record on behalf of civil rights and often adds, "I don't need to come here to get my civil rights card punched."

But when Jackson talks about civil rights, he describes the contrast as between those who laid their bodies on the line and those who didn't.

"I didn't just believe in public accommodations, I marched for them," he said. "They (Hart and Mondale) were old enough. They weren't there."

His consistently biggest applause line, is: "I didn't just believe in getting Lt. (Robert) Goodman back from Syria. I brought him back."

Like an underdog playing as if he has nothing to lose, Jackson often is willing to ignore traditional political considerations.

He calls for a 20 percent cut in the defense budget, while Hart and Mondale advocate continued growth in Pentagon spending though at a far lower rate than proposed by President Reagan.

Jackson says Hart and Mondale are going in the same direction as Reagan "only slower."

On Israel, Hart and Mondale battle to prove which is the more reliable friend of the Jewish state and which would be more likely to move the U.S. Embassy from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem.

Jackson opposes moving the embassy and advocates creation of a Palestinian state, while saying that Arabs must accept the existence of Israel.

Jackson's speeches often are delivered in the best fiery tradition of his ministry.

But what Jackson tells a roaring, chanting crowd, often is moderated when he is asked to explain it during a bus ride with reporters.

For example, he told audiences on Sunday that "we have allowed Castro to be more than what he is" and that as president he would have the courage to talk directly to the Cuban leader.

Later, he told reporters "we have too long missed the opportunity to open relations with Cuba and Castro."

But when asked if he would establish formal diplomatic relations, Jackson said that would be a matter for negotiations.

When asked what conditions he would impose, his position was surprisingly traditional: "Certainly you would not want them exporting arms ... We do not want the spread of communism as an ideology."

When it comes to symbolic differences, none is more stark than Jackson sleeping most nights in a housing project in one of New York's poorest neighborhoods to dramatize his concern for the downtrodden and Mondale sleeping at the apartment of millionaire Arthur Krim.

A Physician-Patient Law Test Scheduled

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — The issue of confidentiality between doctor and patient will be tested when a defendant is brought to trial on charges in the drowning death of her daughter, officials say.

Louise E. Lachat, 52, will be tried for murder of 13-year-old Michelle Lachat, whose body was found in a bathtub in September 1982. No trial date will have been set in the case, pending the outcome of Mrs. Lachat's psychiatric examinations at Dorothea Dix Hospital.

At issue are statements that Mrs. Lachat, 52, made to Dr. Selwyn Rose, a Winston-Salem psychiatrist, and statements made in the presence of Baptist Hospital nurses about the drowning.

Two of the nurses who attended her there and other medical workers have been subpoenaed.

Defense attorney William L. Cofer has filed a motion to suppress the statements on grounds that the legal physician-patient relationship existed between Mrs. Lachat "and those to whom ... she made statements."

The motion says she never gave up that privileged relationship and that any statements she made must not be divulged unless she consents.

District Attorney Donald K. Tisdale declined to discuss the specifics of any evidence he has against Mrs. Lachat, but challenged Cofer's contention that the statements are privileged.

Tisdale said the law that sets up privileged communications between physicians and patients cannot be maintained in cases where disclosure is necessary to administer justice.

Tisdale said the "shield statute" says a trial judge can order such confidential communications disclosed if he thinks disclosure is necessary to the proper administration of justice.

In these circumstances, the Superior Court judge who presides at Mrs. Lachat's trial will have to rule on Cofer's motion to suppress, after a hearing before or during the trial.

Farm Loss Is Heavy

By MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

Damage to Pitt County's farms from last week's devastating tornado will number in the "hundreds of thousands of dollars," county agriculture officials announced today.

According to County Extension Chairman Leroy James, the extension service, the Farmers Home Administration, Soil and Conservation and other organizations met Friday to assess the destruction to crops, buildings, equipment and other farm-related resources.

Officials say the heaviest damage was done to farm dwellings and estimate this destruction will cost area farmers heavily." In addition, James said 200 farm buildings such as barns and sheds were damaged at an estimated loss of $500,000. Around 100 pieces of farm machinery were also destroyed, he said, for losses totaling $300,000.

Around 120 acres of small grains were damaged by the storm, said James, and 25 hogs were destroyed. In addition, landowners lost around 2,000 acres of timberland in the tornado.

Some farmers who didn't lose their machinery to the storm have loaned tractors and other equipment for the county-wide clean-up effort, although a great deal of the task, say officials, has to be done by hand.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market showed a modest gain today, rebounding from its declines late last week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off almost 10 points last Thursday and Friday, recovered 3.24 to 1,168.13 by noon today on Wall Street.

Gainers held a 4-3 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said some spotty declines in interest rates in the credit markets this morning gave the market a lift.

They also said stocks were no longer under the pressure of selling by investing institutions preparing to report their results and holdings at the end of the first quarter of the year. The quarter ended at the close last Friday.

Analysts generally remained skeptical that a sustained market advance had begun, however, with unanswered questions about the federal budget deficit and the outlook for Federal Reserve credit policy lingering in investors' minds.

Tandy Corp. climbed 2 1/4 to 33%. The company offered $35.50 apiece for 10 million of its outstanding common shares.

The NYSE's composite index rose .20 to 91.87. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .35 at 211.69.

Volume on the Big Board came to 37.64 million shares at noon, against 31.76 million at the same point Friday.

Evans, Johnson Lead Pirates By JMU

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Todd Evans' bases-loaded single brought home the tying run and a wild pitch scored Mark Shank with the winning run as East Carolina University slipped past ECAC-South rival James Madison, 4-3, Sunday afternoon.

The game had bounced back and forth until the fateful seventh inning when the Pirates took the lead for good. JMU led early at 1-0, but the Pirates tied it up and then took a 2-1 lead after three innings. Madison rallied to move back ahead, 3-2, before the Pirates finally pulled it out.

Winfred Johnson claimed the win, his fourth against two losses, snapping a two-game losing streak. He gave up nine hits, walked two and struck out two.

The win also snapped a two-game dip in the ECAC-South by the Pirates after they had won their first three league encounters. It left the Pirates at 17-6 overall and 4-2 in league play. Madison, which advanced to the College World Series last year, drops to 17-5 overall and is even at 2-2 in the ECAC-South.

Coach Hal Baird admitted that he was a very nervous man in the last couple of innings after the Pirates took the lead. "I would have given $500 to get those last three without incident," he said. "It was a real white-knuckler." Baird got his wish without having to dig into his wallet — the Dukes went down in order in the ninth.

"Winfred stayed with 'em. He got 'em out," Baird said. "The kids played hard and it's good to come back after a loss and win. Really, I was hoping that we could go through the weekend with no worse than a split. I wanted to win them both (Saturday's game at William & Mary, an 8-2 loss), but I was content with the split."

Baird credited second baseman Steve Sides with the key defensive play of the game. That came in the fourth inning with two away. Madison had put runners on second and third via a walk and a base hit. Tony Marant grounded sharply to the hole between first and second. Sides made a diving stop of the ball and was able to get up and make the throw to Todd Evans for the force. "That would have scored at least one and maybe two," Baird said. "I think we played good defense overall. We just need to swing the bats better."

The Pirates got only six hits on the day, but made them count for more than Madison with its nine.

The Dukes struck first, scoring a run in the second inning. Mike Reeves led off with a single to right and Carey Nemeth got a hit up the middle. Both were sacrificed up and Reeves scored on Colen Deren's grounder to second.

East Carolina came right back to tie it up in the bottom of the inning. Chris Bradberry opened with a walk and Sides also drew one. Mark Shank's sacrifice bunt rolled back to the mound where pitcher Justin Gannon picked it up and fired to third, but was too late to get Bradberry, leaving the bases loaded. With one away, Greg Hardison lifted a sacrifice fly to center, scoring Bradberry for a 1-1 tie.

East Carolina moved ahead, 2-1, in the third as Johnson helped his own cause with a homer to right.

After Sides kept the Dukes from scoring in the fourth, James Madison came back with two in the fifth for a 3-2 lead. Rich Shemer was hit by a pitch and sacrificed up. Mike Siciliano was walked and both moved up on a wild pitch by Johnson. Jeff Urban then singled to center, scoring both runners.

Madison threatened again in the sixth, loading the bases on three singles after two were out. But Johnson got Phil Fritz to ground out, ending that threat.

The Pirates chased Gannon in the seventh, pushing over the winning runs. Sides opened with a double to left and Shank reached when his grounder was errored. Shank stole up and with two away, David Wells was intentionally walked. Evans followed with a single to right, just beyond the reach of Duke second baseman Fritz, and that scored Sides with the tying run. A wild pitch let Shank score the go-ahead run.

Johnson gave up a hit to Steve Cutlers in the top of the eighth, but the next batter grounded into a double play, and Johnson mowed down the next four batters in order to pull out the victory.

Johnson led ECU with two hits, while Cutlers and Urban had two each for Madison.

The Pirates take to the road Monday, facing the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. They return home on Thursday night to entertain N.C. State in a 7 p.m. game.

Pirate Relay Unit Places Second At Florida Relays

GAINESVILLE — East Carolina University's 4 X 100 meter relay unit finished second at the Florida Relays held Friday and Saturday, and the Pirates had the "finest performance we've had in four years in a relay meet," according to Coach Bill Carson.

Nathan McCorkle, Erskine Evans, Joe Dingle and Henry Williams combined for a time of 40.79 in the 4 X 100 for the top finish of the day. McCorkle, Phillip Estes, Dingle and Williams finished sixth in the 4 X 200 relay.

"Dingle and Williams are running national qualifying times," Carson said. "I feel good about this total group qualifying. Dingle had the finest day running he's ever had at East Carolina. This relay group was sharp except for one bad handoff, and Henry Williams had a great anchor leg."

The Pirates mile relay unit faltered, but the Craig White finished second in the 110 high hurdles against one of the top returning hurdlers in the nation.

"Our mile relay team did not place," Carson said. "But they were third or fourth going into second leg when a runner from Florida A&M knocked the baton out of the hands of Ruben Pierce. Obviously at that point we were done, but it's just one of those things that happen in track and field. Oddly enough, on the next leg, the same thing happened to South Carolina State. We were the only team that got all three of our relays in the finals."

"Craig led until the eighth hurdle when he nipped it with his trailing leg and caused him to stand straight up. At that point, Tony Dees of Mississippi caught him and won the race. Dees was third in nationals last year. It was a great race and the best I've seen Craig run."

ECU results:
Long jump: Chris Brooks (3rd) 24-8½, Maurice Monk (5th) 24-2½
4 X 100 relay: Mississippi, ECU (Nathan McCorkle, Erskine Evans, Joe Dingle, Henry Williams) 40.79
4 X 200 relay: sixth (McCorkle, Phillip Estes, Dingle, Williams) 1:26.10
110 high hurdles: Craig White (2nd) 14.11.

Seminoles Top ECU

Teresa Collins drove in the only runs of the day as Florida State swept a doubleheader from the Lady Pirates of East Carolina University, 2-0 and 3-0, in softball action Sunday.

Berube went the distance on the mound for the Seminoles in the finale to record a no-hitter.

Collins drove in Kyler, the winning pitcher, and Miller in the top of the ninth in the first game for the winning runs.

Bahn led the Lady Seminoles with two hits in four trips to the plate, while Lisa Smuda went 2-3 for ECU.

In the second clash, Collins went 2-3 at the plate, driving in one run in the fourth inning and two more in the sixth.

Center Matchup Keys Finale

SEATTLE (AP) — Akeem Olajuwon vs. Patrick Ewing — two pivots packed with power, poured from the same mold.

Each is 7-foot tall. Each is endowed with awesome speed as well as tremendous shotblocking and rebounding abilities.

They are like mirror images and there is little to choose between them going into tonight's showdown for the NCAA college basketball championship between Olajuwon's Houston team and Ewing's Georgetown.

The temptation is to sit back, watch them bang bodies and expect the survivor to celebrate a national title.

There is the suspicion, however, that this battle will not be settled by Olajuwon and Ewing under the basket. They are entirely likely to neutralize each other and not permit either team the great edge at center they both have enjoyed all season.

Rather, this game could be decided at, of all places, the scorer's table. That is because if it turns into a war of attrition, Georgetown simply has more troops to throw into battle.

Georgetown Coach John Thompson routinely rotates 10 men into and out of the lineup. Here comes Reggie Williams. There goes David Wingate. Say hello to Freddie Brown and Michael Jackson. Don't forget Michael Graham, and Horace Broadnax, and Gene Smith, and on, and on, and on.

Against Kentucky in Saturday's semifinal, nine Hoyas were on the court for between 11 and 33 minutes. That is balance.

This could be a hockey team, changing on the fly. They come at you in waves off the bench, a melange of men, playing in a variety

 AQDU GQGHEHZ DQSF: "ULGD."

Saturday's Cryptoquip — FAST NORDIC SKATER ON LAKE CROSSED THE FINNISH LINE.
 Today's Cryptoquip clue: H equals U

Play Ball!

Major league baseball begins a new season today, as the Cincinnati Reds meet the New York Mets. On April 1, 1931 pitcher Virne "Jackie" Mitchell became the first woman to join an all-male major league baseball team. The next day, she struck out Babe Ruth. The first female umpire in baseball was Bernice Gera. She worked one game in 1969 before quitting. The first rules for baseball required the winning team to score at least 21 runs.

DO YOU KNOW — Who was the first black baseball player to join the major leagues?

FRIDAY'S ANSWER — Robert F. Kennedy is the only presidential candidate to be assassinated.

N.C. Home Sales Continue Strong

RALEIGH (AP) — Though interest rates for home-buyers are up, the desire to own a home seems to override the cost, some bankers say. Thad Woodard, president of the N.C. League of Savings Institutions, said he wasn't sure how high interest rates can go before choking housing sales.

"I don't know what the 'magic threshold' would be," he said. "We used to think it was 12 percent. James A. Dinkle, president of Raleigh-based Biltmore Mortgage Co., said, "A couple of years ago, everybody thought 13 percent was the big kicker. This year, a lot of people seem to think 14 percent is the top."

Karl Mendenhall, senior vice president of Cameron-Brown Co., a Charlotte-based mortgage lending company, said home sales were strong in March throughout the Southeast even as loan rates went up about 1 percentage point.

The rate on loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration was boosted half a percentage point to 13 percent last month. That federally set rate, which usually follows the market rate on conventional loans, reached a record 17.5 percent in September 1981 and hit a low of 12.5 percent in December.

Most officials predicted rates will continue to rise. A panel of mortgage bankers at last week's meeting of the Mortgage Bankers Association in Washington, D.C., said rates would reach 14.5 percent within the next three months and predicted consumers would stop buying homes when rates got above 14 percent.

Others, however, say adjustable-rate mortgages will help stave off a housing crunch.

A survey by the Mortgage Guaranty Insurance Corp., which insures lenders against loan losses, showed at least half of all mortgages closed recently in the Southeast were adjustable-rate loans. They tend to have lower interest rates than conventional loans, but have risen faster, said Mendenhall. They are now running at 12 1/2 percent to 12 3/4 percent.

Endorse AMA Freeze On Fees

RALEIGH (AP) — The executive council of the North Carolina Medical Society unanimously agreed Saturday to endorse an American Medical Association resolution calling for an immediate, one-year freeze on physicians fees.

"North Carolina physicians have generally supported AMA initiatives to control health-care costs," said Jack Hughes, president of the society, who said he believed state physicians would support the move.

The society represents two-thirds of North Carolina's 9,000 licensed doctors.

Notice of Public Hearing North Carolina Housing Finance Agency For The Financing Of Multifamily Rental Projects With Proceeds From Sale Of Tax-Exempt Bonds

The North Carolina Housing Finance Agency will hold a public hearing at 10:00 a.m. on Tuesday, April 10, 1984, in the Agency's conference room in the Capahash Crocker House, 424 North Blount Street, Raleigh, NC at which any person may be heard regarding the multifamily rental projects proposed to be financed by the Agency with proceeds from the sale of tax-exempt bonds. Written statements not presented at the hearing should be directed to the Agency on or before April 10, 1984.

There will be no rent subsidies provided for these projects. United States IRS regulations require that 20 percent of the units in each project must be occupied by persons or families earning 80 percent or less of the area median income, and the remaining 80 percent of the units must be occupied by persons or families with incomes not exceeding moderate income limits as established by the North Carolina Housing Finance Agency.

Each project's name, proposed location, owner(s), number of units, and maximum mortgage amount are as follows:

Table with 5 columns: Project, Location, Owner, No. Units, Maximum Financing Amount. Lists various housing projects across North Carolina with their respective details.

The Board of Directors of the Agency will consider the information obtained at the public hearing and take appropriate action that it may deem warranted, including submission of a transcript of the hearing to the State Treasurer, who must approve or disapprove the issuance of the above referenced tax-exempt bond issue to provide permanent mortgage financing for these projects. It is the intention of the North Carolina Housing Finance Agency to issue these tax-exempt obligations in May, 1984.

Compiling Proposals To Submit Lawmakers

Edmisten Campaign Coffers Refurbished

By The Associated Press
Attorney General Rufus Edmisten, armed with more money in his political coffers took his campaign to Ashboro and told supporters to brace for "a real" battle for the democratic gubernatorial nomination.

"I've often said Pharoah's army is running for governor," he said, referring to the 10 Democratic hopefuls in the crowded field. "I want to be Moses."

Edmisten toured the N.C. Zoological Park near Asheboro Sunday and later addressed a group at a restaurant there.

Jerry Mobley, a spokesman for Edmisten, said $240,000 was raised Saturday night in Raleigh when 2,400 people from all 100 counties attended a $100-a-ticket dinner. Mobley said the largest previous total raised was $180,000 by Gov. Jim Hunt.

Meanwhile D.M. "Lauch" Faircloth, former state commerce secretary, told supporters in Asheville Saturday that he has not used North Carolina's low manufacturing wages to recruit industry.

"North Carolina has never been promoted as a source of cheap labor," Faircloth said in response to claims to the contrary by gubernatorial opponents. "This is something we just have to keep working at industry by industry."

Recent U.S. Department of Labor statistics show that North Carolina's average industrial wage is the lowest in the nation.

Bringing more jobs to the state will be his top priority if elected, Faircloth said, noting that he had helped bring 190,000 new jobs to the state in his 6½ years in office.

Faircloth, like the other Democrats in the race, has promised pay raises for teachers and state employees. He said that could be accomplished without raising taxes if state government is made more efficient.

Praise For The Effort

Pitt County officials involved with rescue, disaster relief and clean-up activities resulting from a tornado which killed nine people and caused an estimated $16 million in damage last week have had nothing but praise for the support and cooperation given by local residents and others across the nation.

Bob Martin, chairman of the Pitt County board of commissioners, said "I don't think too much can be said about the volunteers who went to work," to help rescue the 148 persons injured from the storm, or those who have helped provide food and clothing for persons who lost property to the tornado.

Pitt County Manager Reginald Gray said "people couldn't have been better," and characterized the cooperation county officials have received as "fabulous."

Lyman Hardee, chief of the Eastern Pines fire department in one of the areas hit hardest by the tornado, said "people have been just wonderful... people have been so great," in donating food and other relief supplies, and in volunteering their time in a massive clean-up effort Saturday and Sunday. Hundreds of volunteers swept the area from Simpson to N.C. 43, clearing away debris left from tornado.

"I can't say enough for the volunteers who have helped," Bobby Joyner, Pitt County fire marshal and emergency management coordinator said.

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt, educators and legislative study committees are compiling a list of proposals to submit to the General Assembly in June that could enliven a sometimes mundane budget review.

Among the possible topics of discussion are sweeping educational changes, environmental protection spending, hazardous waste and interstate banking legislation.

"The bigger part of it will be public education," said House Speaker Liston Ramsey.

He said there is room for a number of topics under the 1983 adjournment resolution. It said the Legislature in 1984 could consider bills that passed either the House or Senate in 1983 or bills recommended by legislative study committees that meet between sessions.

Hunt spokesman Gary Pearce said the governor, "intends as much as possible to keep things focused on education." He said Hunt is eager for the Legislature to approve money for raising teachers' salaries and reducing class size.

The N.C. Commission on Education for Economic Growth appointed by Hunt will offer a comprehensive plan for upgrading the state's schools this week. A separate legislative committee seeking sweeping and controversial changes in the governing structure of public schools in 1984 and 1985 was voted upon last week.

The Public Education Policy Council wants to see a constitutional amendment that would force the governor to share with the Legislature his power to appoint state Board of Education members. The amendment also would allow the board to name the state superintendent, who now is elected by voters.

The board would be expanded but its members' terms would be shortened. Both Hunt and Superintendent Craig Phillips have objected to all or part of the proposal.

Hunt announced last week that he'll ask the Legislature to spend several million dollars fighting agricultural runoff in sensitive watersheds and expanding waste prevention programs.

He said his "clean water budget" will propose that the state begin sharing the cost of farm improvements aimed at reducing agricultural runoff, a program the federal government has cut back.

Hunt also said he hopes the General Assembly will enact two bills passed by the House. One would hold hazardous waste handlers liable for problems caused by the waste and the other would give the state authority to clean up abandoned waste dumps and bill the owners.

Meanwhile, a legislative committee is trying to resolve differences over proposed hazardous waste legislation. The Legislature adjourned last year without a bill to govern hazardous waste landfills when the House and Senate could not agree on language in the bill.

Another legislative committee is expected to propose a controversial bill on interstate banking when the General Assembly reconvenes. The committee meets this week to determine whether to recommend a bill drawn by a subcommittee.

The bill would provide the legal framework for permitting reciprocal interstate banking among 14 Southeastern states beginning Jan. 1, 1985.

It would let bank holding companies in any of the Southeastern states acquire North Carolina banks or bank holding companies if North Carolina banks get the same privileges in the other states.

Large banks see the bill as the best way to expand business while some smaller banks fear they will be the object of acquisitions. At stake is North Carolina's leadership among banks in the Southeast.
