Last Full-Service Day At Aid Center

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Today was the last day for all-in-one-place service of various agencies to tornado victims through the Pitt County Disaster Assistance Center. It was located at the Eastern Pines Fire Station through 5 p.m.

At 10 a.m. this morning, representatives of 16 households had visited the center seeking aid, Mark Aydtlett of the North Carolina Department of Social Services said. More were expected.

"Some people who have already been to the Disaster Assistance Center when it was located at the county office building are coming in again," federal disaster assistance director Jim Haddad said. "And we welcome them. Today is the opportunity to get all one's questions about available help answered. We hope everyone will use it. Everyone not satisfied with his or her first visit should return."

He said that, after the center is closed, people will still be encouraged to contact individual agencies with their questions about assistance.

Haddad said there was a possibility that some of the mobile homes being provided as temporary housing for tornado victims might be brought in today. Independent contractors for transportation and setup were being retained to move the mobile units now stored at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, Goldsboro, and Fort Bragg near Fayetteville to various areas of the state affected by the March 28 tornadoes.

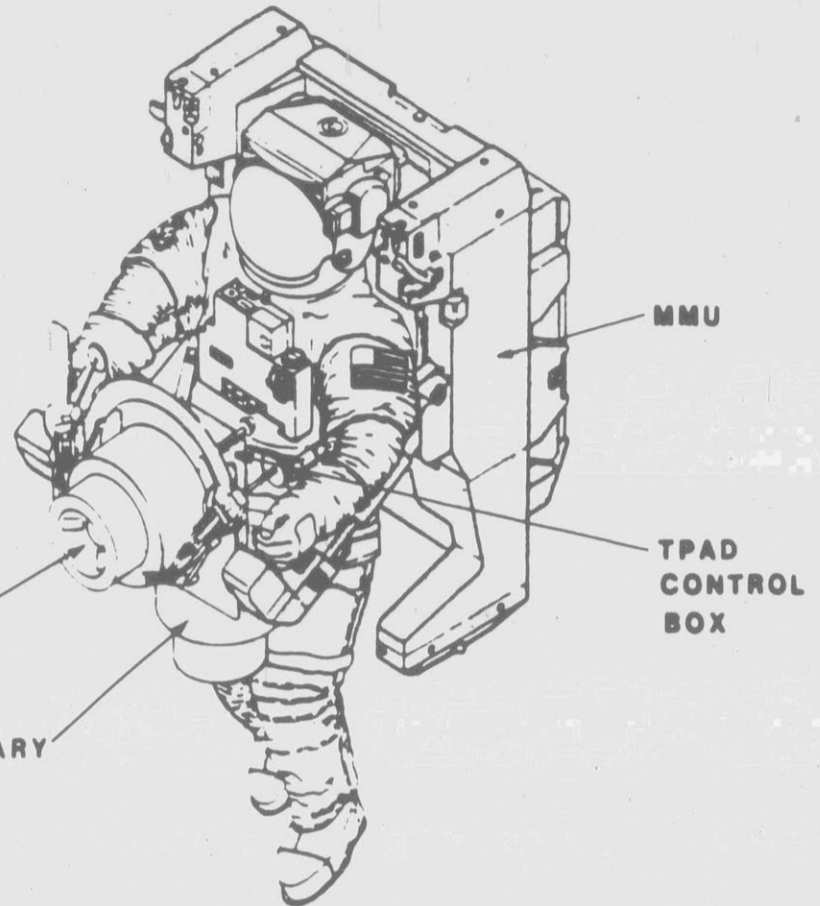

Simpson Mayor Galloway Thompson said some Simpson area residents would be attending the Eastern Pines Emergency Center today, with transportation arranged through his office when needed. He said he understands the mobile unit sent in to be used as the Simpson Post Office until repairs can be made to the severely damaged post office was in place today. The post office has been housed at a local church since the tornado.

Faith Pentecostal Holiness Church continues to serve as the Red Cross disaster aid center from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. each day. "We will be there till all the needs are met," Red Cross executive secretary Ruth Taylor said. "We urge people to come back and let us help them with whatever their needs are now. At first we tried to meet immediate needs. Now we are ready to help with refurbishings, rent, whatever is needed at this point. People should come back in."

Several large corporate donations including those of A.C. Monk Tobacco Company ($10,000); Bob Barbour Honda ($5,000) and Burroughs Wellcome Company ($2,500) have been channeled through the Red Cross.

The Salvation Army and volunteers at the New Greenville Warehouse continue, also, to give financial aid and household goods, clothing and food to the victims. There has been such a surplus of clothing and food donated from this and many other areas of the country that some sent here has been channeled to persons in other North Carolina counties, including Greene, Bertie and Gates, project director Rachael Hardee said. She said at the time of this morning's phone interview that a tractor trailer loaded with gifts from the people of the West Palm Beach, Fla., area was being unloaded.

ADAPTER FAILED — The trunnion pin adapter, the socket-like receptacle labeled primary TPAD, is the unit that failed to close on the Solar Max trunnion pin. Mission specialist George Nelson maneuvered out to the satellite and attempted to connect, but failed. With the attempt to connect the satellite became destabilized. (AP Laserphoto)

Salvaging Satellite Given 'Good Chance'

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Challenger's astronauts will try again Tuesday to snare the crippled Solar Max spacecraft with the shuttle's bionic arm, and a flight director said today they have a "fighting chance" to carry out the first satellite repair mission in space.

The satellite eluded them Sunday when free-flying spaceman George Nelson was unable to hook on to it despite repeated attempts.

"We are in good shape and anticipate a good shot at it tomorrow," flight director Jay Greene told reporters. He said the effort was given new life by a dramatic series of radio commands from Earth that stopped Solar Max's wild gyrations, stabilizing it for a safe approach.

"It's going to be tight; we have no guarantees," he said. "But if everything works the way it does in the simulator, we have a fighting chance."

Greene raised the possibility of bringing satellite back to Earth for repair, instead of fixing it in space. He said the decision will depend on how much maneuvering fuel Challenger has remaining after Tuesday's effort.

The satellite, formally known as the Solar Maximum Satellite, is a sophisticated solar observatory that was launched in 1980 to study sunspots and other phenomena. Within a year after it reached orbit, a control system and electronics box failed, greatly reducing its value to science.

Commander Robert C rippen and his crew had hoped to try again to rendezvous with the satellite today, but the radio commands succeeded in steadying Solar Max so well that engineers had to start it spinning slowly again to enhance the chance of grabbing it.

"They did a magnificent job on the ground," Greene said. But because the target is now almost steady in space, he said, there is a high probability the docking pin will be on the side opposite the shuttle when it approaches.

It would be better, he said, if Solar Max were given the extra day to resume spinning slowly, about one revolution every six minutes.

White House Avers U.S. Will Ignore World Court

By JAMES ROWLEY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, fearing a lawsuit over the mining of Nicaraguan harbors, says it won't abide by World Court decisions on Central America, and has reportedly devised contingency plans for sending combat troops to the region.

President Reagan's spokesman, however, flatly denied today that such a contingency plan has been devised.

In announcing its decision to renounce World Court jurisdiction in Central America for the next two years, the State Department cited Nicaragua's move in the U.N. Security Council last week to condemn the mining of Nicaraguan harbors. Congressional sources say the mining by anti-government rebels is directed by CIA operatives.

"We believe that, as evidenced by their appeal to the United Nations Security Council, recent Nicaraguan behavior has shown a lack of serious interest in addressing regional issues," the department said Sunday.

Kathleen Lang, a State Department spokeswoman, declined to comment when asked if the move was taken to preclude claims over the mining.

But an administration official, who requested anonymity, said the department's decision was made in anticipation of a Nicaraguan lawsuit in the World Court, known formally as the International Court of Justice.

Other administration officials, meanwhile, confirmed the drafting of contingency plans for the use of U.S. combat troops in Central America. The officials, however, stressed that the contingency plans do not differ from those drawn up for other trouble spots.

At the White House today, however, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes flatly denied such a move is even under consideration.

"We don't have any contingency plans that would involve U.S. troops in Central America," Speakes said.

Asked if there were any situation at all under which the United States would send troops into the region, the presidential spokesman said, "There are no plans to involve U.S. troops in Central America. Period. Period. Exclamation point. Exclamation point."

Another administration official, who requested anonymity, said the reports of the contingency plans could make it harder to win congressional approval for more military aid to El Salvador.

But the official added that it could also be a signal to Congress of the administration's resolve to send U.S. troops if financial support to the Salvadoran government isn't sufficient to turn back leftist guerrillas.

Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger denied in a television interview Sunday that the Pentagon has such contingency plans.

"There is no plan of that kind, nor is there any necessity for it..." Weinberger said under questioning on ABC-TV's "This Week With David Brinkley."

Weinberger also said that "the United States is not mining the harbors of Nicaragua."

When asked if his denial included CIA activity, Weinberger said: "Well, I'm not talking about anything the CIA is doing or not doing."

"I'm following the basic policy that is adopted by the government."

OPEN FOR BUSINESS IN SPITE OF HIGH WATER — Carolyn Roberson walks from her store located at Gardner's Creek on highway 64 near Jamesville, on wooden pallets donated by a friend. Mrs. Roberson said she and her paraplegic husband, Ed, operate the tackle shop on the creek in spite of the high water, which at times has been as high as 22 inches inside the block structure. Dressed in her knee boots, Mrs. Roberson explained the water was just a way of life. At one time the high water did cost them a freezer she noted. Water caused the freezer to float up and overturn. The water rose three and half feet above the normal level on the creek March 1 and has been that way since. Mrs. Roberson said as of Sunday afternoon, there was eight inches of water in the store. In The Area

Assistance Offered

The United Methodist Church is offering monetary assistance to those who suffered property losses or physical injuries during the recent tornado. The denomination has already donated over $200,000, which will increase according to approved needs.

The money is being made available through the North Carolina Conference Disaster Committee which receives funds from the United Methodist Committee of Relief, special offerings from local churches and individual donations.

These funds can be obtained by victims within the disaster areas who have no insurance or other financial assistance to cover their losses by contacting the minister of the nearest United Methodist Church.

The minister will have application blanks and will assist in filling them out and making the requests through proper channels.

Guidelines for obtaining these funds follow:

1. Funds shall be disbursed without regard to race, sex or religion.
2. Efforts shall be made to prevent duplication of funding by the church and other agencies.
3. Funds shall be used for needs not otherwise being met by other agencies, or to supplement these funding sources and to repair or replace United Methodist Church property.

GCA Spring Program

Greenville Christian Academy will hold its spring program and final Parent-Teacher fellowship meeting of the year at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the school's main auditorium, in the facilities of People's Baptist Temple.

The program will include the presentation of awards to winners of GCA's fine arts competition. First-place students will perform and science fair winners will display their projects. Information on the school's promotion policy will also be distributed.

A book fair will also be held before and after the program with proceeds earmarked for purchase of books for the school's library. PTF officers for 1984-85 will be elected at the conclusion of the program.

Annual Meeting

The Rev. Willis Wilson of Greenville will be the speaker at the 16th annual meeting of the Mid-East Commission, scheduled to be held in Ahsokie, on April 19.

The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Ramada Inn.

Mary Andrews, chairman of the commission, will preside at the session which will include the installation of commission board officers for the coming year.

The new officers include: Grace Bonner of Aurora, as chairman; Samuel Carson of Bethel as second vice chairman; Joseph Spruill of Bertie County as secretary; and John House of Martin County as treasurer.

The Mid-East Commission, designated as a state planning region, served the counties of Pitt, Beaufort, Hertford, Martin and Bertie in planning and development activities.

Counselor Here

Job Corps Counselor Cephus Kimble will be at the Pitt County Department of Social Services April 11, 19 and 25 to interview youths 16-21 years old interested in Job Corps training at a residential Job Corps Center.

He will be at the Martin County Department of Social Services April 27 for the same purpose. For more information, call Careline toll-free 800-662-7030.

Arrest Made

Greenville police Saturday afternoon arrested Mary Anne Best, 19, of 1204 Myrtle Ave. on larceny charges in connection with the theft of clothes from three local stores.

Officer D.R. Best, no relation to Ms. Best, said the woman was charged with taking $25.98 worth of clothes from Cato's at 423 Evans St., an estimated $20 worth of clothes from Stuart's at Carolina East Mall, and a quantity of clothes from Belk-Tyler Co., also at Carolina East Mall.

Teacher Honored

Reanee Ivey, daughter of Marion G. Wilkes of Greenville, recently was named Special Education Teacher of the Year at Martin Luther King Jr. Middle School in Atlanta.

Ms. Ivey, a J.H. Rose High School and Hampton Institute graduate, has been employed as a speech therapist with the Atlanta School System for three years. She formerly served Pitt County Schools in the same capacity. She presently is pursuing a masters degree in speech pathology from Georgia State University, Atlanta.

The title is accompanied by receipt of the Academic Achievement Incentive Award in Special Education. Martin Luther King Jr. Middle School is represented by 14 special education instructors.

State Secretary

Coleman Bailey, a freshman at Farmville Central High School, has been elected state secretary of the North Carolina High School Library/Media Association.

Bailey was voted into office at the organization's recent annual conference in Wilmington.

COLEMAN BAILEY

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Bailey and is active in Farmville Central's library club, chorus, science club, literary club and yearbook staff. In addition, he will appear as Pappy Yokum in the school's upcoming production of Li'l Abner.

Art Of Parenting

The art of parenting will be the topic for the April meeting of the Greenville AFPO-Lamaze Parents group, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Jarvis United Methodist Church parlor.

Mrs. Mary Louis and Mrs. Judy Beckert will discuss topics including discipline and guidance, the family bed, weaning, and "How to Survive the Terrible Twos."

A nursery will be available.

Fire-Rescue Report

Fire-Rescue Chief Jenness Allen has announced that department personnel responded to 218 calls during March, including 193 for rescue and 25 fire alarms. He said 149 of the rescue calls were within the city.

Allen said the department transported 118 city residents, 52 county residents, and 26 non-residents. Rescue vehicles traveled 1,673 miles, including 1,038 miles in the city and 635 outside the corporate limits.

Department employees spent 1,317 hours in various training exercises and skills development during the month, the chief reported.

No Overdue Fines

The Pitt Community College Learning Resource Center will not charge any fines on overdue books, magazines and pamphlets that belong to the center during National Library Week, April 8-14.

No questions will be asked, according to librarian Cecilia M. Boklage. The LRC is revoking fines this week, she added, in an attempt to get needed materials that are overdue returned to the center.

The LRC is located on the third floor of the Humber Building, PCC.

In Honor Society

John D. Hendrix Jr. of Greenville has been inducted into Phi Beta Kappa Honor Society at Davidson College.

Hendrix is the son of Dr. and Mrs. John D. Hendrix. He has maintained a 3.6 or above grade point average during his four years at Davidson.

Media Day Set

Ayden Middle School has planned a number of activities in conjunction with Wednesday's School Library Media Day proclaimed by Gov. Jim Hunt.

The activities are a means of encouraging citizens to become more aware of the contributions made by school library media programs in the education of children. Theme for the day is "The School Library Media Program: A Knowledge Base."

Various activities include a balloon launch, a competitive poster display throughout the school and special bulletin boards. An open house is scheduled Wednesday from 1:45-2:30 p.m. All parents are invited to tour the school halls and visit the library.

Radio Guests

City Manager Gail Meeks has announced that Willie Nelms, director of libraries, and Margaret McGlohon of the recreation and parks department will be the guests on the "City Hall Notes" radio program this week.

Nelms will discuss National Library Week and Ms. Glohon will talk about the senior games scheduled for April 11.

The program is aired each Tuesday and Thursday at 10:25 a.m. on WOOV Radio.

Participants

The following students from North Pitt High School will participate in the High School Mathematics Contest will be held at ECU Thursday: algebra I team — Stanton Alleyne, John Linton, Ron Linton, Charles Tyson; geometry team — Sandi Braxton, Hank Briley, Jason Clark, Cisse Davenport; algebra II team — Trudy Oakley, Scott Rawls, Sheila Russell, April Weatherington; comprehensive team — Yvette Alleyne, Chris Ayers, Sandra Little, Martha Rollins. These students will be accompanied by their coach and math teacher, Mrs. Jewell Whitehurst.

Car, Engine Collide

Regina Lynn Hathaway of 3001 Brunswick Lane, was injured Friday when her car collided with a Seaboard Coast Line Railroad engine at the crossing on Brownlea Drive, south of the 14th Street intersection.

Officers set damage from the 9:10 a.m. collision at $3,500 to the Hathaway car and $3,000 to the train engine.

Ms. Hathaway was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of the collision.

Applications Taken

Applications for Emergency Food Assistance for the victims of the recent tornadoes in Pitt County will be taken through Wednesday.

Those eligible may make application at the Pitt County Department of Social Services, 1717 W. Fifth Street, today through Wednesday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Food Stamp Supervisor Betty Rouse said.

Election Planned

The last meeting for 1983-84 of the Falkland Elementary Parent/Teacher Organization will be Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m. Officers for the coming year will be elected. In recognition of the Arts Festival, a school art exhibit and the spring concert of the school chorus will be presented. Following the program, open house will be held in the library.

Clean-Up Campaign

The state Department of Transportation has designated the seven-day period through Saturday as statewide clean-up week and Mayor Janice Buck and the City Council have pledged local support for the campaign.

The program is a cooperative effort throughout North Carolina to clean up roadsides.

Ms. Buck said the city has asked various organizations, civic clubs and Scout troops to help in the local clean-up effort, which is being coordinated by the city's Community Appearance Commission and the division office of D.O.T.

Presents Paper

RALEIGH — Donna Jane Clark, a graduating senior at Appalachian State University, was among several students selected to present her research paper at the annual Carolina Psychological Conference here Saturday.

Each year several students from the southeastern states who have exhibited superior academic scholarship and research ability in the field of psychology are selected to present papers at the annual conference.

Ms. Clark's research was in the area of achievement motivation.

Ms. Clark is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Donald L. Clark of Boone, and the granddaughter of Leon E. Stocks Sr., of Greenville.

Commission To Meet

The board of commissioners of the Greenville Utilities Commission will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the utilities building at the intersection of Fifth and Washington Streets.

Included on the agenda is the consideration of new water and sewer rates, and reports on load management operations and damage caused by the March 28 tornado.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I totally disagree with your attitude toward breast-feeding a 6-year-old boy. (You said, "At his age he should be drinking from a cup — and I don't mean a D cup.") You also said that most pediatricians would agree with you. Which ones?

I am sending you a list of physicians on the La Leche League's Advisory Board. If you had called any of them you would have been told that it is perfectly OK and very beneficial emotionally as well as physically for a 6-year-old to nurse.

Please don't allow your own prejudices to interfere with your advice.

JUDY K., PATTERSON, N.J.

DEAR JUDY: My office telephoned pediatricians in Denver, Cincinnati, Washington, D.C., Des Moines, Iowa, Rochester, N.Y., Edmonds, Wash., Columbia, Mo., Miami, Chicago, Tucson, Ariz., and Toronto, Canada.

The consensus was that to breast-feed a 6-year-old in this culture would be highly irregular, bizarre, psychologically unhealthy and definitely not recommended. Most doctors indicated that the mother needed psychiatric treatment — that she is satisfying her own need, not that of the child.

Only one physician said he saw nothing wrong with a mother breast-feeding her 6-year-old son, but it would be considered somewhat "unusual" in our culture. He pointed out that he had read in the medical literature that an 82-year-old man had been breast-fed by his daughter, but that occurred in Peru where the culture is different from ours.

In conclusion, shall we say that the dairy bar should be closed to any child who is old enough to put his foot on the rail?

talked much about my grandfather's absence from the family scene from 1908 to 1920. An indirect hint from a cousin led me to search the records of the state mental institution. Sure enough, there was Grandpa's name.

Shall I tell the relatives where Grandpa was all those years, or keep the family secret? The problem is particularly pressing because I have children, one of whom is chronically mentally ill, and I understand that these tendencies are often inherited.

Should my children be told? It could involve future generations.

WORRIED IN EUGENE, ORE.

DEAR WORRIED: Absolutely. To withhold such information would be unfair and unwise.

DEAR ABBY: I feel terrible about something and want your opinion. I went to visit a friend one afternoon without calling first to tell her I was coming.

When I knocked on the door, she called through the door, "Who is it?" After I told her who it was, all I heard was her footsteps walking away from the door. I stood there for about five minutes, and when she didn't come back, I began to wonder if maybe she was sick or something, so I knocked again to make sure she heard me.

About 10 minutes later she came to the door and yelled, "What's the matter? Can't you take a hint?" When I tried to explain that I thought maybe she was sick, she walked away from the door again.

Now I'm upset and my feelings are hurt. What should I do if I see her again?

HURT IN HIBBING, MINN.

DEAR HURT: Apologize for knocking on her door without having called to find out if she wanted company. She may have been sleeping, not feeling well, or otherwise occupied.

Your friend was very rude to have asked, "Can't you take a hint?" Let her know your feelings are hurt. In the future, if you want to be welcome, call first.

DEAR ABBY: I always wondered why my aunts and uncles never

Positive Statistic

As crime news flows daily into our columns, it is easy to lose track of the fact that crime actually dropped in Greenville in 1983.

Police Chief Ted Holmes reports that crimes reported for 1982 was 12.64 percent under the year of 1982.

There were 2,681 offenses reported during 1983 compared to 3,069 in 1982. Robberies were down by 42.5 percent, simple assault down by 38 percent, motor vehicle theft down 34.2 percent and burglary down 17.1 percent.

Chief Holmes also reported that 20.7 percent of the crimes reported were solved in 1983 compared to 16.7 percent in 1982.

On a per capita basis crime also dropped from 10 crimes per 1,000 persons in 1982 to 8.6 crimes per 1,000 persons in 1983.

The statistics are reassuring. As a city grows there is more potential for crime and it is positive when the crime statistics drop even as the community grows.

Bitter Learning

What most young people today know of the "SS" troopers is based on movies, television shows, or some fiction; and that's a rather uncertain history source.

In the beginning, they were the "enforcers" of the Nazi party in Germany. As time passed they included the Gestapo, Hitler's personal bodyguard, the concentration camp guards and finally the Waffen SS who were elite combat troops.

Functions of the SS were more varied than briefly described here; but these were the main elements.

In late March, 250 or so aged veterans of an SS Waffen division held a reunion to commemorate German soldiers who died in World War II. Perhaps an equal number of wives and relatives were on hand.

Five thousand or so relatively young demonstrators, who knew the atrocities of the SS, protested the gathering of aging veterans in West Germany. It is quite possible they targeted the wrong people; but in their minds (and in the minds of most of us) all members of the SS were alike and shared the same guilt.

The people most deserving of surveillance are the new generation whose imagination is inflamed by the pageantry, ideals and philosophies which led their forebears to destruction.

The oldtimers learned better. The hard way.

Fun Deductions

NEW YORK (AP) — Here's an organization that offers you a unique vacation in beautiful surroundings, a healthful experience you'll never forget, a chance to do something for your country and a tax deduction to boot.

The organization that offers this will even attempt to tailor the experience to the requirements of the applicants, and in many instances it will even provide room and board. It is taking applications now.

"The best thing for us would be to be overwhelmed," said Tom Deans, the fellow in charge. He is enthusiastic. "We'd love to have this program taxed to the limit. It's a dilemma we would love to have."

Tom Deans is executive director of the Appalachian Mountain Club, which is setting out to prove to the country that volunteers can help take over some of the jobs being dropped by budget-pinched government programs.

"We've been practicing for 108 years," said Deans of the AMC, which has sent thousands of volunteers into the Eastern back-country, building and maintaining trails, halting erosion and opening up nature's recreational areas.

And having a great time doing it. Now the effort is going national. Thanks to a $623,000, three-year grant from the Richard King Mellon Foundation, the AMC has formed the National Volunteer Project, and already has taken its formula to seven areas:

Lake Tahoe on the California-Nevada line; Palo Alto, Calif.; Florida, where a state-long hiking trail is under way; western Pennsylvania; Colorado; northern New Mexico; and the Pacific Northwest.

In fact, the AMC even has volunteer projects planned in the Virgin Islands and Wales, usually in support of existing volunteer groups. And in each instance the participant's travel costs, at least, are tax-deductible.

"We had the formula," said Deans, explaining why the grant was extended to the AMC. "We can provide technical backup, instruction, workshops, tools, leaders, and on some projects food and lodging. Money even, in limited amounts."

The question, he said, was this: "Could we project this spirit of volunteerism, or would people continue to think government should handle these jobs?"

The AMC thinks it will win, in part because of the current focus on keeping in shape, the understanding that if government services diminish then volunteers must do more, the joy of getting involved, and a growing feeling that it is better to do things yourself than expect others to do them for you.

There are financial reasons too, said Deans, including the belief that government must be kept in bounds. "We are responding to the financial issues of the day," he said, adding: "But it makes good sense anyway."

WASHINGTON — Officials from academe and the Pentagon squared off recently in an often heated discussion of proposed government controls on campus-based research activity.

The meeting accentuated differing views on what constitutes justifiable restraint on academic work stemming from government-sponsored projects. It also suggested that the two sides are far from reaching a resolution.

At issue was a new classification plan drawn up by Defense Department officials to restrict the flow of information gathered during work on Pentagon-sponsored research projects. Universities receive 50 percent of the department's basic research dollars and about one-quarter of its exploratory and development budget. From the government's perspective, the high volume makes campuses and faculty members valuable resources for the technology-starved Soviets.

The Pentagon would divide the two types of research contracts into "sensitive" and "non-sensitive" categories. Anyone planning to publish an article or present a paper at a conference using information drawn from a "non-sensitive" project would only have to agree in writing to give a copy to the government simultaneously.

Spin-offs drawn from a "sensitive" contract, however, would require advance submission to the Pentagon of no less than 60 days in the case of basic research and 90 days where an exploratory and development project is involved. Any article or paper in the latter category would require Defense Department approval before submission to a publisher or conference.

Pentagon officials especially worry that work on very high-speed integrated circuits (VHSIC), a revolutionary computer technology, could fall into the wrong hands. And the universities say they'd be happy to let government officials review potentially sensitive works in advance.

Yet college administrators want no part of a requirement that would allow outright Pentagon prohibitions on publishing certain work. They contend that Pentagon classifiers will tend to overestimate the national security implications of government-sponsored research. They add that the flow of information among U.S. scientists could be stifled, and so with it America's precious technological lead.

"Nobody wants to compromise national security," said an official with the Association of American Universities. "But, as a matter of principle, to require prior approval up front in a contract is unacceptable to the institutions. If it's going to work, (the defense Department) will have to come to a system that relies more on voluntary compliance."

Professors may now buy insurance policies to protect themselves in the event that a student files suit over a failing grade. The program has been underwritten by the American Association of University Professors, National Education Association and American Federation of Teachers.

Former Interior Secretary James Watt has retreated from the spotlight, but not from Republican politics. Watt, who is now affiliated with the Heritage Foundation, in Washington, has already signed several GOP fund-raising letters since leaving office. Watt quickly became one of the party's top draws for speaking engagements upon joining the administration in 1981.

Congress now has before it some 30 bills intended to discourage merger mania in the oil industry, and most of the sponsors are Republicans. "I can see Rockefeller, Mellon and the rest wringing their hands now, wishing that they, too, could play in today's version (of monopoly)," said Rep. Silvio Conte (R-Mass.) on the House floor recently.

In 1983, the single largest television advertiser in the local-retail category was McDonald's Corp., according to the Television Bureau of Advertising. The hamburger chain spent $105 million for promotion on the tube.

At last count, Iran's revived Islamic system of justice had left 1,700 Iranians with one arm each. Since last March, when the ancient law codes were reinstated, there have also been 2,600 executions.

Bankruptcy Situation Muddled

WASHINGTON — Most of the time our political system works pretty well. On a given issue, Congress and the White House reach an accommodation; House and Senate resolve their differences; affected private interests find areas of compromise. But now and then the system goes bloeoy and a mood of pervasive irresponsibility fills the air. Such is the case in the matter of our bankruptcy law.

The subject may sound dull. It isn't dull. The concept of a fresh start through bankruptcy is at least as old as Deuteronomy 15:1. The power to legislate in this field is specifically delegated to Congress by the Constitution. At the moment our federal bankruptcy courts are handling the estates of roughly 825,000 debtors who went into bankruptcy owing nearly $125 million to 13 million creditors.

Congress last undertook wholesale revision of the bankruptcy act in 1978. Among other things, the 1978 amendments undertook to give new jurisdictional authority to 227 judges of bankruptcy courts. Dozens of knowledgeable critics, both in Congress and in private practice, protested at the time that this part of the act was unconstitutional. The critics were exactly right.

In June 1982, in what is known as the Marathon case, the Supreme Court ruled that the amendments gave the judges too much power and not enough independence. The court gave Congress three months to remedy the problem, either by restricting the judges' jurisdiction or by giving them the full-blown protections of life tenure demanded by Article III of the Constitution.

Thus began the recent history of irresponsibility. The 97th Congress fiddled away the three months. The Supreme Court then granted a three-month extension. The 97th fiddled that time away too. On came the 98th Congress. It wasted the whole of 1983. Meanwhile the bankruptcy courts labored in limbo, under a "Model Rule" promulgated by the Judicial Conference of the United States. That Model Rule expired on March 31, but last week both houses of Congress agreed on yet one more extension, this time for 30 days.

If Congress at last gets around to acting responsibly this month, nearly two years will have elapsed since the Marathon decision. The story is disgraceful.

Part of the problem lies in partisan politics. Many Democrats are loath to give President Reagan a chance to nominate 227 lifetime judges, most of whom presumably would be conservative Republicans. This ill becomes the Democrats, who saw to it in 1979 that Jimmy Carter could nominate 300 lifetime judges, most of whom in fact were liberal Democrats. At the moment the prospect is that congressional Democrats will prevail on this issue. The bankruptcy judges probably will not be lifetime judges; they will be appointed by circuit courts to 14-year terms.

If so, will this arrangement pass constitutional muster? Perhaps not. The House bill strikes some critics as just as flawed as the 1978 enactment; too much power, not enough protection.

Most of the time, as I say, things are better. But when the Democrats, the Republicans, the House, the Senate, the unions and the business community all behave with the maturity of 5-year-olds having kindergarten tantrums, it's hard to say a kind word.

In a recent column dealing with the travails of Ed Meese, I recalled the 1981 incident involving National Security Director Richard V. Allen. He became the unwilling, temporary recipient of $1,000, intended as a thank-you gift from Japanese journalists to Mrs. Nancy Reagan. I wrote that Allen had a "faulty memory" about the cash.

Strength For Today

The church becomes a vital force in human life only when it recognizes and condemns the shortcomings of the day.

Someone has said that a prophet is never worth his salt until people are ready to stone him as a public nuisance. Many men had to mount the gallows before the fundamentals of major reform movements were established.

Outstanding in the Bible is the doctrine of the remnant. A little group has to stand out against evil. The leaders of this little group has always a few individuals rejected by their generation. It was a hilarious crows which gathered around the cross of Jesus and threw jibes in the teeth of the young teacher of Nazareth who dared challenge the ecclesiastic big-wigs of his generation.

Christianity was supposed to be all washed up on that occasion. As a matter of fact, it was only the beginning.

Bradley Sticks To Caution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., is taking no chances, though he appears unstoppable in his campaign for re-election.

The man he defeated for the Senate in 1978 and the woman he is likely to oppose this fall acknowledge that the former basketball player is extremely popular at home, but Bradley is acting as though he were an overmatched, frail defender assigned to guard former basketball great Will Chamberlain.

He is laying the groundwork for a strong organization, building up a huge reserve of money, and taking care to say the right things.

"I've never been one to get out there and make big predictions," Bradley, 40, says when asked to assess his chances of winning his first re-election race. "I think you go out there and yo-yo work every day. Every day is another day and things tend to build."

Such is the cautious nature of Bill Bradley, whose persistence can be dated in lore back to the days when, as a youngster in Crystal City, Mo., he would forgo dinner until he made 25 straight basketball free throws.

Even today, one of his aides says privately, "You know Bill. He wouldn't even cross the street without a crossing guard."

The Bradley campaign, gearing up slowly, has already raised about $2.9 million out of a target of about $4.2 million, says Doug Berman, his campaign manager. The senator has been talking openly about seeking re-election for months — and pointedly denying that he would consider being a vice-presidential candidate this fall — but he won't make his official announcement until mid-April.

"Bill has a record this time," says Berman about the theme the campaign is likely to take. "We're no longer just anticipating a situation where Bill is saying what he'd like to accomplish. Now, he's got six years worth of solid achievement."

Asked what those achievements are, Bradley says he classifies his efforts into three categories: "fighting for New Jersey, listening to people responding to their frustrations and hopes, and taking a longer term view of the needs of America."

Bradley is probably best known here for the Fair Tax Act he has sponsored with Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., a measure that would create a flat tax rate for individuals and corporations and do away with many loopholes.

It is a bill that has gone nowhere in two years, but Bradley insists that it will become more popular next year when "the deficits will continue to mushroom."

Bradley's record wins him high grades from liberal organizations, despite his vote for the first round of President Reagan's 1981 budget cuts, his consistent support for tuition tax credits for parents of private school students, and his vote for the death penalty for certain federal crimes.

Bradley himself refuses to discuss his political philosophy.

"It boils down to labels," he said. "I'm someone who thinks life is more complex than labels. And your record is really a mosaic of all of your service and all your actions."

No serious primary opposition to Bradley has emerged. The state's most prominent Republicans have shied away from challenging him, fearing a match with the man considered one of the most popular politicians in New Jersey.

The candidate considered most likely to win the GOP's June 5 primary is Mary Mochary, the little-known mayor of Montclair, N.J., who has the backing of GOP Gov. Thomas Kean and other key Republicans.

Mrs. Mochary, 41, says she likes the senator but considers him "out of step" with New Jersey residents.

"He stands for increased expenditures, higher taxes and a weak defense," she says.

Gubernatorial Candidates 'Tune' Strategies

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Gubernatorial candidates entering the four-week home stretch to the Democratic primary are making final adjustments to their election strategy in a sprint to make the anticipated two-man runoff.

The field of 10 Democrats has splintered party voters and the latest poll shows as many as 24 percent of the voters have not decided who to support.

Candidates used the Jefferson-Jackson Day celebrations during the weekend to inspire volunteers and brief campaign workers on their duties during the remaining days.

Most candidates and campaign leaders agreed that television commercials will be a vital part of their efforts, partly because of research showing that voters make up their minds in the last three weeks of the campaign. There also are several televised candidate forums scheduled and candidates say it's important they make a good appearance.

They also agreed that the tone of debate among candidates may become more critical, with more pointed attacks against their records. As the candidates grow increasingly weary, campaign staffs also will look to capitalize on possible mistakes.

Most polls show former Charlotte

Mayor Eddie Knox as the frontrunner. The Knox staff admits it will be pleased just to continue its momentum, but coordinator Marvin Blount predicts Knox will focus on areas where there are large concentrations of undecided voters such as the Greensboro and Winston-Salem area.

Blount said Knox will intensify his media efforts, but he questioned how effective that will be at a time when so many other candidates are buying commercial time.

"We'll be humble," Knox said. "There's a saying that those who go up in a hurry often fall fast and we realize that."

Most polls show that close behind Knox are Attorney General Rufus Edmisten and former Commerce Secretary D.M. "Lauch" Faircloth, who may become engaged in the fiercest battle for a seat in the runoff.

"Our media campaign has barely begun," said Mike Carmichael, an Edmisten associate. "The way you go to the undecided is through the media."

He said the campaign has marshalled its money to launch a strategic ad campaign in the final days.

Vic Bell of the Faircloth campaign said he will continue to concentrate on media advertising and getting out voters.

"If you don't have things in place now, it's too late," Bell said.

But Bell said the campaign will begin working harder to keep Faircloth available to the press to talk about issues.

"Up until now the press hasn't had that much interest," Bell said.

Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green says he'll try to meet with as many voters as possible before the May 8 primary.

"One on one is what counts," he said. "If I could see every voter in this state, or so my people tell me, we could win hands down."

Campaign advisor Weldon Denny said he thinks Green must continue to visit farmers and religious people, with whom Denny believes Green will do well. He also must run television commercials that "leave everybody wanting to see it again."

"Everybody is trying to hold what they've got and if they can think of anything that they haven't tried, they'll try that," Denny said.

Rodney Maddox, an advisor to Tom Gilmore, predicted the race will turn more to issues than personalities and that can help his candidate. He said Gilmore is one of the few candidates promising to make specific changes in state government and challenging his opponents to take a stand.

"We've been able to make other campaigns respond to ours and we're not through yet," Maddox said.

Gilmore's ability to make the news with issues is important because he lacks large sums of money for advertising.

Insurance Commissioner John Ingram said, "the last month will be people to people." He said he'll continue to emphasize pocketbook issues and his record "of saving the people of this state over a billion dollars by the time I leave office."

Ex-Janitor Today Has Stethoscope

By SYDNEY RUBIN
Associated Press Writer
CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — As a high school student, Manuel Mendoza was known at Driscoll Children's Hospital as the guy who worked nights and weekends, sweeping, mopping and waxing the floors.

Now he's known as Dr. Mendoza, an accomplished medical resident on his way to becoming a pediatrician.

"I've been wandering these halls a long time without realizing where I was going to wind up at the end of it all," said Mendoza, 34.

The son of a migrant farm worker, Mendoza spent his childhood years traveling with his father to harvest crops in Texas, Idaho and Florida. He found custodial work at the hospital while attending a Corpus Christi high school.

"I was willing to take any job at the time because I wanted to work. But I guess I wasn't really tuned into medicine then," he said.

By the time he graduated the Vietnam War was near its height. Mendoza decided to go to nursing school, with an eye to enlisting as a military nurse.

The war was over when he finished school, however, so instead of enlisting he went to work in a Corpus Christi hospital.

Later, he joined the nurse practitioner and pediatric program of the Children's Heart Institute and worked for four years in the institute's Rio Grande Valley satellite clinic.

"Then I decided, well, why not go to medical school," he said.

While his interest in medicine arose by chance, Mendoza fit squarely into the plans of Dr. James Simpson.

Simpson, director of cardiology at Driscoll and head of the Heart Institute, recruits Hispanic students for a program that "pays a small stipend to minority students studying health sciences to come work with us," said Laura Berlanga, heart institute spokeswoman.

"Lots of people brought up in rural areas don't come back after they become doctors which creates a shortage of trained doctors in South Texas," she said.

"Dr. Simpson feels that if we could train some of these students and let them see the work we're doing, perhaps some would want to practice at home."

Mendoza received a scholarship from the Mexican government and went to medical school at the University of Tamaulipas. He continued working part-time in the heart institute's clinic until 1982 when he went to work at Driscoll.

During the final year of his residency, Mendoza will decide whether to specialize further or enter private practice.

Meanwhile, he is glad to be carrying a stethoscope in the hospital halls instead of a mop.

5 Sets Of Twins In Neighborhood

VINELAND, N.J. (AP) — Newcomers to the neighborhood might do a doubletake, but with the frequency of twins around here they would have good reason.

A neighborhood of about 20 homes in this suburban community can boast of at least five sets of twins.

"Unusual, but fun," said Sandy Chodnicki, mother of one identical pair.

"In this neighborhood, you just don't say 'the twins,'" said Sally Grabowy, who alone can account for two sets, ages 8 and 4.

The newest neighborhood pair, Matthew and Eric Zinader, just celebrated their first birthday. They live around the block from the Chodnickis.

Local lore says the twin tradition began with the Stern brothers, Albert and Alfred, now 70, who were raised on a farm several doors down.

"The neighborhood runs right up to the farm, and we did always tell everybody they could pick whatever they wanted," said Albert.

"Maybe it was something in the food."

British TV Series Casts Doubt On Gospels

By GRAHAM HEATHCOTE
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — A three-part television series that questions the authenticity of the Christian Gospels has angered some Britons and sparked a lively debate among Britain's clerics, scholars and theologians.

One politician asked that the show be canceled. But a Church of England spokesman is advising viewers to "grit your teeth and see it through."

The first one-hour segment of the series, entitled "Jesus: The Evidence," aired Sunday night on national television.

It suggested that the writers of the Gospels invented incidents in the life of Jesus Christ because they knew nothing about him and that the virgin birth and resurrection of Jesus are myths borrowed from earlier religions.

Another proposition was that the Gospels were "ghost written" after the apostles died. The four Gospels of the New Testament are attributed to the apostles Matthew, Mark, Luke and John.

The program cast doubt on the miracles attributed to Christ and said he might not have walked on water but instead on a sandbank.

The entire three-hour series, produced by London Weekend Television for the commercial Channel 4 network, was screened for selected groups before the national broadcast.

A 41-member group of the Anglican state Church of England's Evangelical Alliance denounced the program as "mischievous, misleading and imbalanced."

However, a Church of England spokesman advised laymen to "grit your teeth and see it through. Anyone unsettled by the program should talk to their vicar."

The show prompted New Testament scholars to argue over the Gospels' reliability.

George A. Wells, professor of German at London University, said: "One has seriously to consider whether Jesus existed. There is nothing in the evidence that commits us to accepting the historical figure of Jesus."

However, theology professor Dennis Nineham from Bristol University — who appeared in the show — was quoted in Sunday's Observer newspaper as saying the series "fails to do justice to the views of a large number of scholars who don't have the power to shock, unlike some of those in the program."

A group of Roman Catholic scripture scholars, theologians and historians was asked by Archbishop of Westminster Cardinal Basil Hume to study the program. They issued a statement calling it "the latest example of a tendency to present religious questions in the media in a sensational and unbalanced way."

A team of 11 legislators and peers were among those shown the series in advance. Conservative lawmaker Simon Coombs said he asked program controller Paul Bonner not to air it.

Bonner refused, saying the series was passed by the religious advisory panel of the Independent Broadcasting Authority, a government-appointed body which oversees commercial television in Britain.

Ian Wilson, a Roman Catholic who wrote the book on which the series is based, said he feels his book is less negative than the TV version, "but the series does need to make its point, and the result is that we do have a debate."

"What we are trying to get at," said producer-director David W. Rolfe, "is why religion exists at all, and what it is supposed to mean to human beings as a way of life."

This is not the first time the authenticity of events described in the Bible has been questioned. Eighteenth century French scholar Jean Astruc is credited with starting what became known as Higher Criticism, which tried to apply scientific methods to biblical events. The debate between what is allegorical and what is real still rages.

Writers for Britain's newspapers were divided about the new program.

James Murray, TV editor of London's Daily Express, said the series was a "mistake" because it "challenges the very foundations of Christianity."

Clifford Longley, the Times of London religion writer, said there is a "Jesus obsession" among some skeptics in their desire to "arrive at the final answer which will make him go away."

Richard Last of the Daily Telegraph wrote: "If the historical provenance of the most significant human being who has ever lived is not fit material for sober investigation, then what on earth is?"

Four People Die In N.C. Traffic

By The Associated Press
The North Carolina Highway Patrol says four people have died on state highways over the weekend, including a Mooresville woman who was killed in a three-car crash.

Joyce Waugh Woods, 35, died around 7 p.m. two miles east of Mooresville after her car ran a red light. Two others were injured in the three-vehicle crash, the Highway Patrol reported Sunday.

Pedestrian Henry K. Tate, 66, of Kings Mountain died at 10:45 p.m. Saturday when he was struck on N.C. 216 two miles south of the Cleveland County town.

Tracey Dawn Grubbs, 17, of Germantown, was killed at 11 p.m. Saturday when the car in which she was riding left the road in Forsyth County and overturned.

Donna Wood Pleasants, 51, of Raleigh, died Sunday around 3:50 p.m. when the car she was driving crossed the center line of a rural Wake County road and struck another vehicle head-on.

The deaths brought the North Carolina highway death toll to 291 for 1984, compared with 299 killed by the same date last year.

Crowds Enjoy Last Days Of Azalea Fete

WILMINGTON (AP) — Retailers and tourists took advantage of a temporarily suspended blue law to enjoy the pleasures of free enterprise on the final day of the Azalea Festival.

At least a dozen merchants enjoyed the one-day reprieve from Wilmington's blue laws Sunday, opening stores along the riverfront and across the city. The city council decided to suspend the blue law on Azalea Festival and Riverfest weekends, and several merchants opened their downtown Wilmington stores in response.

"We just decided to open because of Azalea Festival," said Leonard Wagner, owner of Knock on Wood furniture store at 271 N. Front St. Wagner said he probably would not open every Sunday if given the option unless other stores opened too and drew a steady stream of shoppers.

Meanwhile, festival goers had a choice of the circus, an auto race, and multitudes of gardens.

"Each year they say this is the biggest and the best," said William Rose, president of the festival. "Quite frankly, I haven't had a single complaint. I don't know what we can do to top it, but I guarantee somebody next year will try."

The festival day began early with an autocross sponsored by the Cape Fear Chapter of the Sports Car Club of America. Cars which most autocross drivers used to take themselves to work twisted through a mile-long slalom course most of the day on blocked city streets just north of the Wilmington Police Department.

Later Sunday, some speculators turned their eyes ringside during two shows under the big top at the Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus.

In the afternoon, Azalea Festival fans watched a karate demonstration on Water Street, browsed through craft shows in the city parking garage and toured the U.S.S. Petrel and the Coast Guard cutter Bear. Others chose a classical music recital at the St. John's Museum of Art.

Black Shank...Blue Mold...
Ridomil®
Gets Them Coming and Going

Ridomil kills black shank and blue mold in two ways. Ridomil destroys the disease in the soil before it ever gets to the tobacco plant. And Ridomil waits inside the plant (it's a systemic) to destroy any disease organisms that might get by the first line of defense. Two hard blows at black shank and blue mold with one powerful fungicide. Ridomil. Yours, at our store, today.

THE FRACTURED TOOTH

Every year thousands of people have accidents that cause damage to face and mouth, sometimes resulting in a fractured tooth. It may be caused by an auto accident or sports or an accidental fall at home. Whatever the cause, a fractured tooth presents a serious problem and should be treated by the dentist immediately to prevent infection and loss of the tooth.

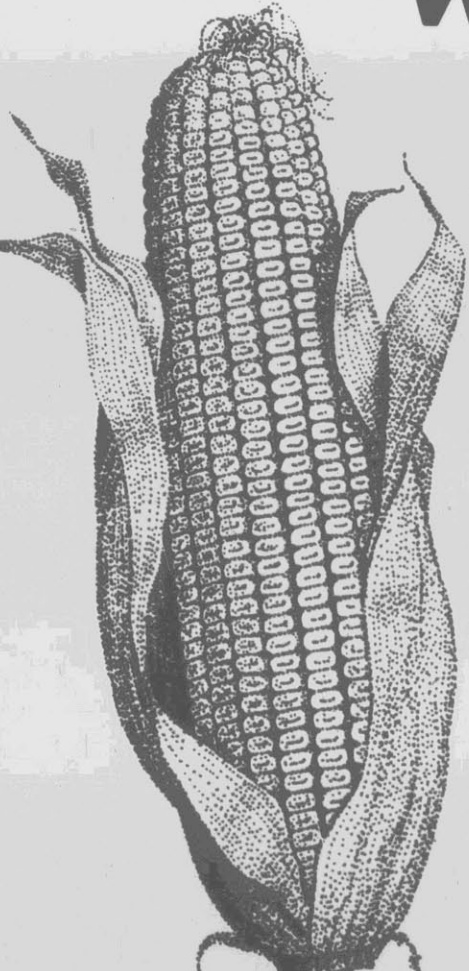

If the fracture hasn't penetrated to the pulp of the tooth, the dentist will apply medication to ease the pain and place a temporary cap over the tooth to protect it. Later the tooth will be crowned to restore its appearance.

If the pulp has been exposed by the fracture, the tooth must be treated within 24 hours to prevent infection and other complications. Any pulp that becomes infected will have to be removed to save the tooth. Eventually the pulp will heal when the dentin or inner wall of the tooth knits back together.

Whatever the cause, there should be no delay in seeking treatment when a tooth is fractured.

Argonauts Set Sail

SPETSAL, Greece (AP) — A reconstructed Bronze Age galley that will try to re-enact the legendary voyage of Jason and the Argonauts set sail today from this island near Athens on the first stage of a 1,500-mile journey to the Black Sea.

The 54-foot open rowing boat, powered by an international crew of oarsmen, headed for the rocky island of Hydra in calm spring weather.

"From there we'll sail to Poros, then around the coast of Attica and north to Pagasae near the port of Volos," Tim Severin, the expedition's British leader, said in a telephone interview.

The Argo, named after its mythological ancestor, will set sail for Colchis on the Soviet Black Sea coast early next month, Severin said. The journey is to end at the River Rhion in Soviet Georgia.

The Argo, built by a local Greek craftsman on Spetsai, carries a square linen sail. But the full 20-member crew, each pulling a 14-foot oar, is expected to row five or six hours each day.

"We'll hug the coastline all the way, like ancient Greek sailors, landing when it gets dark and camping on shore at night," Severin said.

Jason and his crew of 49 mythological heroes, including Heracles and Orpheus the lyre-player, set out from Iolkos, the ancient port on the site of modern Volos, a generation before the Trojan War, according to legend.

Archaeologists now date the Trojan War to around 1200 B.C.

Mental Health Perspectives

REACTION TO DISASTER
By
Catherine Radecki, Ph.D.
Adult Services Coordinator

Normal people, exposed to extraordinary events, may experience a delayed stress reaction. Their first responses are shock and disbelief. Feelings of being stunned, numbness and doubts about what really happened are seen. When the impact of what happened hits them, feelings and reactions emerge and take the form of vivid recollections in which the person acts as if the disaster is reoccurring or will reoccur. Sensitivity to noise, feelings of helplessness, fearfulness or panic may develop. People worry about their safety. Survivors may feel depressed or guilty because they were more fortunate than other victims. They may worry themselves with thoughts of things they might have done differently. Disturbances of sleep, appetite, concentration and social relating are common. Children sometimes act younger than their age, are fearful of sleeping alone or may just "act up" more.

For most, these reactions diminish with time, although assistance is beneficial. If you know someone experiencing these reactions it is important to allow them to talk in an atmosphere of understanding and acceptance. He or she should be allowed to talk at a comfortable pace. Don't push, just listen. If you feel unable to handle extreme emotional reactions, assistance is available 24 hours a day by calling 752-7151.

Tornado victims face two problems in trying to salvage damaged timber, say forestry experts.

One problem is the danger of harvesting "jackstrawed" trees. The other problem is finding a quick market for such a large volume of wood.

The tornados with left paths of destruction from Robeson to Gates counties on March 28 damaged or destroyed over 23,000 acres of timber.

The North Carolina Forest Service, Agricultural Extension Service, Soil and Conservation Service and Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service are working together at both state and county levels to help landowners salvage as much of the timber as possible.

"Our first concern is safety," said Earl Dean, extension forestry specialist at North Carolina State University. "Many of the trees are piled on top of one another (jackstrawed). Beneath the top trees are often smaller trees or limbs that are bent over and are under enormous tension. Once the top trees are removed, those beneath can spring up with great force."

Deal said he had reports from two counties where people have been injured removing jackstrawed trees.

"My advice is to get a professional timber harvester if possible to cut such trees," he said. "If timber owners decide to do the work themselves, they should not stand directly in front of the trees or limbs that are being sawed."

Deal also said that in some instances hand tools may be safer to use than a chain saw because of the danger of chain saw kick-back.

Storm victims who have timber to sell are urged to get in touch with their county extension office. These offices can advise victims on where they can get professional help in salvaging timber. They are also serving as clearing houses for getting timber buyers and sellers together.

"With warm weather coming the damaged timber could start spoiling in about six weeks," Deal said. Spoilage begins with a blue stain fungus which reduces the value of wood for pulp.

About the only good news for storm victims is the fact that the market for timber has been reasonably good since the end of the recession.

However, Deal cautioned victims not to expect too much from their wood. Harvesting costs could run 40-50 percent above normal because of the condition the timber is in. Also, the sudden influx of such a large volume of wood on the market could depress prices.

A meeting will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Pitt County Office Building for those with tornado-damaged timberland. The meeting will be conducted by members of the Pitt County Interagency Committee and others. Topics will include marketing damaged timber, evaluating damaged timber, services available from public agencies and industry as well as tax considerations of storm-damaged timber.

Woodland owners who cannot attend the meeting should call the Pitt County Extension Office at 752-2934 and ask for the timberland damage information package. Persons who

Housing Units For Homeless

By The Associated Press

The first two families left homeless by tornadoes that thrashed North Carolina last month have been placed in temporary housing, state officials announced Saturday.

One family was placed in a Pembroke housing unit at 11 a.m., said Russ Edmonston, a spokesman for the state Department of Crime Control and Public Safety. The second was placed in a Maxton rental unit around 2 p.m.

The tornadoes left 43 North Carolinians dead, more than 800 injured and some 2,200 homeless while causing more than $100 million in damages.

Edmonston said the housing units are rent free for up to a year and come with kits including dishes, pots and pans and other household items.

would like free help in assessing damage may call this number and leave their name, address and phone number.

It is very important that salvage on damaged timber begin as soon as possible but not without proper evaluation of each stand by a professional forester.

If you get your beans to block out the sun you can control sicklepod in soybeans.

A sicklepod in the shade is a pushover. But since you can't make your soybeans canopy any faster, why not make sicklepod emerge slower?

That's where Vernam® herbicide comes in. Tank-mixed with your Treflan®, Prowl® or Basalin®, and applied preplant incorporated, Vernam knocks back first-flush sicklepod. So later-emerging sicklepod has already lost the shade race to your soybeans.

Research also shows Vernam applied preplant incorporated has a unique ability to reduce the foliar waxes on sicklepod. So your postemergence sprays stick better and knock out sicklepod more efficiently.

Cover your fields with Vernam and deny sicklepod its place in the sun.

Contribution

The Charlotte based Belk Foundation has announced that it is contributing $50,000 to state disaster relief funds established in North Carolina and South Carolina to aid victims of the March 28 tornadoes.
 A spokesman said $25,000 will be donated to North Carolina's tornado victim housing fund and $25,000 will go to the South Carolina disaster relief fund.
 Money from the two funds will provide direct aid to individuals who suffered losses not covered by federal relief programs. Funds will be used primarily to help replace housing and equipment and to help cover medical expenses and burial costs, the spokesman said.
 In addition to the assistance provided by the Foundation, various Belk stores located in or near areas affected by the storm have provided clothing and other types of aid to the tornado victims.
 Twelve counties, including Pitt and Greene, have been declared disaster areas in North Carolina, while 11 South Carolina counties have been designated.
 The Belk Foundation was established in 1928 by the late William Henry Belk, founder of the Belk department store organization.

Correction

Greenville police charged Joe Henry Tripp of Farmville with leaving his vehicle unattended with the engine running following investigation of a Friday collision in the Harris Supermarket parking lot on Memorial Drive.
 A report of the accident published in Sunday's edition incorrectly reported Dennis Meyers of Ayden, the owner of the second car involved in the mishap, as being charged.

SERVICES BEGIN

Services started Sunday at God's Remnant Church of Christ and will continue through Saturday at 7:30 p.m. The Lord's Supper will be discussed.

Police Kill Man In Airport Scare

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A man killed by police after he wounded two airport security guards was trying to get to a doorway leading to runways at McCarran International Airport, authorities said.
 "We don't know if the suspect might have been trying to hijack a flight, if he was a wanted subject or what," said a police spokesman who would not give his name. The man was carrying a passport, but authorities were unable to immediately verify his identity.
 The man was halted when he tripped a metal detector at a boarding area for Pacific Southwest Airlines around 7 a.m. Sunday. He wounded one unarmed guard, ran for the door, then twice shot another guard who gave chase, police said. Both guards were in stable condition.

Your Social Security Disability Benefits

BENEFITS DENIED?
 Have you been denied benefits under Social Security's disability benefits programs? Do not be discouraged. That happens to most people who apply the first time.

Have you asked for reconsideration of your disability claim and been turned down a second time? Again, don't be discouraged or give up. That's the way the disability system works today.

Take your case one step further and go before a Social Security Administrative Law Judge for a hearing with a qualified representative to present your case. Then the chances of your winning benefits are somewhere between 70% and 80%. The Judge will see you and hear your personal description of your physical or mental illness, and your representative will present your case as it applies to the complex rules of the Social Security Act.

If you have a hearing requested or scheduled before an Administrative Law Judge, call now for an immediate conference. There is no fee for an initial conference to discuss your eligibility for disability.

Soviets Call For IOC Meeting

Accuse U.S. Of Olympic Charter Violations

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union, accusing the United States of violating the International Olympic Charter, today asked for an emergency meeting of the International Olympic Committee.

The call was made in a statement issued by the Soviet National Olympic Committee and carried by the Tass, the official Soviet news agency. The statement did not say whether the Soviet Union has yet decided to send teams to the Summer Games, which start July 28.

The statement said that the 23rd Olympic Games in Los Angeles are just three months away and that "time is ever nearer for the national Olympic committees to take a decision on participation in the Olympic Games."

The Soviets said they had signed an agreement with the Los Angeles Olympics organizing committee, but U.S. State department actions, including refusal of a visa for a Soviet Olympics official, were "jeopardizing" fulfillment of the accords.

The statement said President Reagan has submitted to the International Olympic Committee written guarantees that the United States will respect the Olympic charter, but "these obligations and guarantees are not respected in a number of major matters."

It accused the Reagan Administration of using the Games for "selfish political ends" in the U.S. Presidential election year.

The statement said "different reactionary political, emigre and religious groups are teaming up on an anti-Olympic basis, in particular a coalition of 'Ban the Soviets' enjoying the support of U.S. official services has been set up."

The Soviet committee said "open threats of physical victimization and provocative actions are made to sportsmen and officials of the U.S.S.R. And other socialist countries. Slanderous allegations are being made that the participation of a Soviet delegation in the Olympic Games would presumably threaten U.S. security."

A Soviet emigre group in the United States has said it would try to encourage Soviet athletes to defect.

The Soviet statement said that the American press has reported that "preparations are under way in the city for staging political demonstrations and rallies during the games" and that anti-Soviet posters and slogans are already on display.

Last month, the U.S. State Department denied a visa to Oleg Yermishkin, the proposed Soviet Olympics attache. State Department officials said Yermishkin had been identified as a high-ranking official of the KGB secret police during previous service as first secretary at the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

The United States cited "internal security and national security grounds" for refusing the visa. U.S. officials have said they reserve the right to reject applications of other Soviets with backgrounds that would violate normal U.S. immigration regulations.

The State Department has approved Soviet requests for special flights of the Soviet national airline Aeroflot from July 1 to Aug. 30. Landing rights of Aeroflot in the United States have been suspended since the imposition of martial law in Poland.

In addition, the United States has approved the berthing of the Soviet passenger ship Gruzia in Long Beach harbor from July 15 to Aug. 15. The ship is to transport equipment and team personnel and families from the Soviet Union to the United States.

The Soviet Olympic committee statement said:

"In the beginning of April the (Soviet) committee was notified that it should deliver to the embassy of the U.S.A. in Moscow the list of all members of the delegation for getting visas. The embassy of the U.S.A. reserved the right for itself

Bean Confident After GGO Win

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Andy Bean, having won a tournament for the first time in two years, had a simple answer to the question.

"Are you playing well enough to win the Masters, he was asked.

"Yes," he said, a big smile on his face.

It was some time before he got back to the subject, discussing instead his two-stroke victory Sunday over George Archer in the Greater Greensboro Open, the ninth victory of Bean's PGA Tour career and his first since the 1982 Doral-Eastern Open.

"I finally got it over with," he said of that long drought.

"Now, let's talk about Augusta (site of the Masters which begins Thursday).

"I've definitely got my sights set on next week's tournament.

"I'm driving the ball good. I'm hitting my irons very, very good. I'm putting good. Things are going great for me.

"Winning a major would do a lot for your confidence. And that's definitely what most of this game is — confidence. When you think you're going to play good, usually you do play good."

That confidence began building over the last 18 holes at the Forest Oaks Country Club, which he played in 2-under-par 70 in chilly weather under threatening skies.

Although never headed, a birdie by the 44-year-old Archer on the 10th put them in a tie.

"I felt confident," Bean said. "I was determined to make a couple of birdies."

And he did, taking the lead alone with a 10-12 footer on the 13th, and then stretching it out with a 15-footer from the fringe on the 16th. He parred home for a 280 total, eight under.

"I had a chance, but it was not to be," said Archer, who missed several putts in the 10-12 foot range coming home.

Archer, a two-time winner of this old event and a former Masters champion, finished with a no-bogey 69 and second alone at 282. He won $43,200 to Bean's $72,000.

Ben Crenshaw came out of the pack with a 67 that lifted him into a tie for third at 285. Also at that figure were Jack Renner, Scott Simpson, Buddy Gardner and Fred Couples, the winner of last week's Tournament Players Championship.

Simpson and Couples had 71s, Renner 72 and Gardner 73.

Bean admitted there was frustration and disappointment in the two-year non-winning string, which was touched off by wrist and shoulder injuries.

"I could have won maybe four tournaments last year, and a couple this year. I was right there, but I didn't finish there," he said.

"But I figured if I kept knocking on the door, sooner or later it would open. And I had a feeling that when it opened, it would open big.

"Well, I finally got that string ended.

"I think I may have learned some things. I'm more patient. And when you're patient, things tend to turn out the right way."

Lady Pirates Top Owls, Win Tourney

FAIRFAX, Va. — East Carolina's Stacey Boyette scattered five hits and Wendy Ozment drove in a pair of runs to lift the Lady Pirates to a 3-1 victory over Temple in the championship game of the Patriot Invitational softball tournament.

Boyette was named the tourney's most valuable player for her efforts, while Suzanne Martin, Lisa Zmuda, Carla Alphin and Pam Young were selected to the all-tournament team.

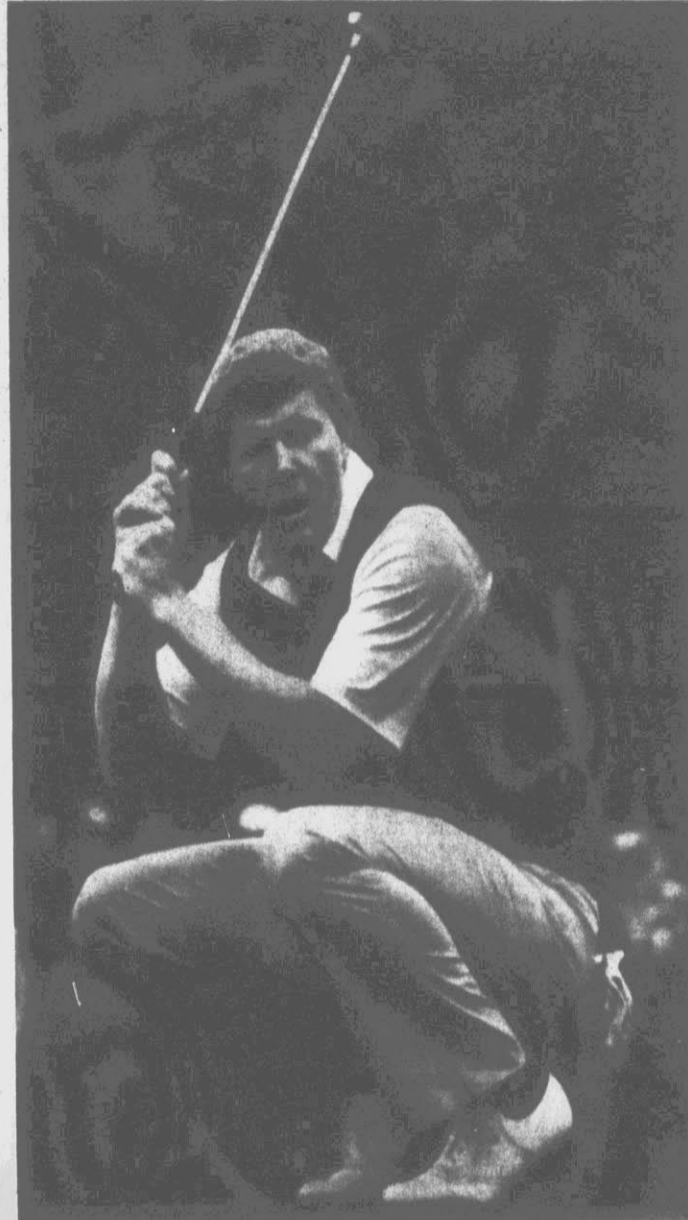

Alphin posted a pair of singles in as many at bats, while Ozment went 2-3.

The Lady Pirates got all of their runs in the second inning. Zmuda tripled to open the rally, and Suzanne Martin drove her in with a single. Martin was out on a fielder's choice by Boyette, and Tamara Franks followed with a single. Dawn Langley advanced the runner with a sacrifice, and Ozment followed with the game winning RBI single.

Temple scored its only run in the third, as Ann Stork doubled and scored on a double by Kim Reid.

The Lady Pirates, who advanced to the finals with a win over LaSalle, are now 18-10 on the season. Boyette improved her record to 10-2 with the victory.

Williams, Peterson, Lead ECU Past Madison, 3-1

HARRISONBURG, Va. — Mike Williams' two-run single and Jim Peterson's six hitter gave the Pirates of East Carolina University a 3-1 victory over James Madison Sunday in ECAC-South baseball action.

Peterson improved his record to 6-0 on the season with the victory, while the Pirates are 19-8 overall and 6-2 in the conference.

"We though Peterson pitched an excellent ballgame," ECU assistant Coach Gary Overton said. "This win is a big one that could push us into the ECAC tournament."

All of East Carolina's runs came in the third inning. Chris Bradberry ripped a leadoff double, and Jabo Fulghum was safe at first while advancing Bradberry to third. Greg Hardison singled in Bradberry, and Winfred Johnson loaded the bases with a walk. Williams followed with a single to drive in Fulghum and Hardison.

The Dukes scored their only run in the bottom of the third, as Glenn Deren singled, Tony Morant walked, and Deven scored on a fielder's choice.

Bobby Mortimer suffered the loss for JMU, now 2-3 in the league and 19-7 overall.

The Pirates travel to Kinston tonight for an exhibition game against the Kinston Blue Jays, a Class A farm club of the Toronto organization.

Inkster Holds Strong For Tourney Victory

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Rookies are supposed to wilt under pressure. Apparently Juli Inkster hasn't been on the LPGA tour long enough to learn that.

The 23-year-old former amateur golf star, who joined the LPGA circuit last August, charged into a tie with veteran Pat Bradley on the final hole of regulation, then won the first playoff hole Sunday to capture the women's richest event, the $400,000 Nabisco Dinah Shore.

Bradley, 33, winner of 13 titles since joining the tour in 1974, appeared to feel the pressure. She began spraying her drives on the final holes of regulation, then drove into the trees on the playoff hole.

After Bradley took four shots to reach the green and made a 10-footer to salvage a bogey, Inkster made her 2-foot putt to collect the $55,000 winner's prize.

Inkster, who began the day two shots behind leaders Bradley, JoAnne Carner and Dale Eggeing, carded a closing 68, 4-under-par over the Mission Hills Country Club course.

She and Bradley, who shot a final-round 72, finished at 8-under-par 280. Eggeing, with a 72, was third at 282, with Beth Daniel pulling into fourth with a 69.

Carner struggled to a 74 to wind up tied for fifth with Sally Little.

Inkster said she was in her element during the final holes.

"I felt the pressure, but I get myself psyched up under pressure," said Inkster, who won three consecutive women's U.S. Amateur championships ending in 1982.

"I enjoy it and I think that's what golf's all about. I wouldn't be out here if I didn't like pressure."

Inkster, recalling Bradley's costly tee shot on the playoff hole, said, "I couldn't believe she hit her drive into the trees. I hit a good shot, so I was pretty confident.

"I felt down the stretch that I had the momentum. I felt she'd have to beat me. Pat's a great player and I'm happy to be able to beat her."

Inkster, playing in the threesome ahead of Bradley, had applied the pressure when she made a 3-foot birdie putt on the final hole of regulation to move into the tie at 8-under. Bradley still had a chance to win, but she missed a 10-foot birdie putt on the 18th to set up the playoff.

If Inkster truly enjoys pressure, she should love the next LPGA tournament, this week's J&B Scotch Pro-Am in Las Vegas, Nev. If she's able to parlay her Dinah Shore victory with one in the Pro-Am, she will collect a $1 million bonus from the sponsors of the two tournaments.

Bradley collected $33,000 for finishing second. Eggeing earned $23,833.

Kornegay Chosen For East-West

D.H. Conley senior guard Mechio Kornegay has been chosen to participate in the East-West All Star Game to be held in Greensboro in late July.

Kornegay, who averaged 20.7 points per game in her final season, helped the Valkyries to a second place finish in the State 3-A Tournament in 1983.

Darlene Cannon, a senior on the 1983 runner-up squad, participated in the East-West game last summer.

Seaver Loses Debut Tigers Sweep Chisox

By The Associated Press
Last year, the Chicago White Sox coined the catch-phrase "Winning Ugly" en route to the American League West championship.

Over the weekend, it was more like "Losing Ugly." Not only were the White Sox swept in three games by the surging Detroit Tigers, they were victimized by a no-hitter on Saturday, then dropped a 7-3 decision in a desultory effort Sunday.

Sunday's poor performance included an off-day by Tom Seaver, making his AL debut. The 39-year-old Seaver, a three-time Cy Young winner, failed to last five innings and admitted, "The bottom line is I pitched poorly, period."

The victory was the fifth straight for the Tigers, the AL's only unbeaten team. The defending world champion Baltimore Orioles and Milwaukee Brewers, meanwhile, can't buy a win so far. The Orioles extended their losing streak to four with a 7-3 loss Sunday to Minnesota, while the Brewers dropped to 0-5 after a 5-4 defeat by Seattle.

Elsewhere, the New York Yankees tripped the Texas Rangers 4-3 in 13 innings; the Kansas City Royals nipped the Cleveland Indians 5-4; the Oakland A's rolled past the Boston Red Sox 14-2 and the California Angels trimmed the Toronto Blue Jays 4-3.

Rookie Barbaro Garbey drove in three runs with a pair of doubles to trigger Detroit's victory. Garbey's first double was his first major league hit, a two-run, pinch shot off reliever Juan Agosto in the fifth inning. He also doubled to drive in a run in a two-run seventh.

The White Sox, who were victims of Jack Morris' no-hitter Saturday, got solo homers from Ron Kittle and Harold Baines.

"He's an outstanding hitter and an excellent fielder," Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson said of Garbey. "He can run, swing and field. I don't know what else ball players are supposed to do."

Garbey, who was signed as an undrafted free agent by the Tigers in 1980 and spent the next four seasons in the minor leagues, said he was unaware that his two-run double in the fifth was his first major league hit.

"I didn't think about it. I just thought about the two runs I drove in and felt that put the game away," said Garbey.

Twins 7, Orioles 3
Mickey Hatcher collected four hits and knocked in three runs as Minnesota rallied to beat Baltimore. Hatcher gave an assist to the Twins' fans for his first four-hit day in the majors.

"As long as I keep hustling and doing my job, the fans will stay with me," said Hatcher. "They've motivated me and got me more into the game the last three days."

Hatcher went 4-for-5, with three singles, a triple and three runs batted in. His flyout to right in the seventh ended a streak of five consecutive hits over two games.

Noted Baltimore Manager Joe Altobelli of his team's spin, "I'm not happy, period. I doubt I'm even content."

Mariners 5, Brewers 4
Jack Perconte ripped three singles, driving in one run and scoring three, as Seattle defeated Milwaukee and handed new Brewers Manager Rene Lachemann his fifth straight loss.

Seattle scored three runs in the bottom of the fifth to take a 4-3 lead and added a run in the seventh on an RBI single by Gorman Thomas, the eventual winning run.

"I'm just a contact hitter, and I tried to put the ball in play," Perconte said. "It just happened that I got a decent pitch in the fifth inning and I hit it where I wanted."

Lachemann, meanwhile, pointed to a lack of clutch hitting as being a key to his team's poor start.

"We've had a lot of people in scoring position who we haven't driven in, and we need to do that. We're just not playing good ball," he said.

Royals 5, Indians 4
Orlando Sanchez dumped a pop double between second base and center field with the bases loaded in the eighth inning, scoring two runs and lifting Kansas City over Cleveland.

Losing 4-2 entering the inning, the Royals cut Cleveland's lead to one run before Sanchez delivered his game-winner in his first AL at-bat.

"It was a blooper and we were lucky," Kansas City Manager Dick Howser said of Sanchez's hit. "But Orlando is an aggressive hitter who doesn't strike out much. We were just looking to put the ball in play and get the tie."

Yankees 4, Rangers 3
Don Mattingly's pop-fly double down the left field line, his fourth hit of the game, scored Omar Moreno in the top of the 13th inning and New York salvaged the finale of a three-game series with Texas.

Mattingly doubled off reliever Odell Jones with two outs after Moreno had singled and stole second with Dave Tobik, 1-1, on the mound. Tobik had gone 28 consecutive scoreless innings before Sunday's game.

Angels 4, Blue Jays 3
Reggie Jackson and Doug DeCinces homered on consecutive pitches in the eighth inning to rally California over Toronto.

Jackson hit his second homer of the year, a two-run shot to score Rod Carew ahead of him and tie the game at 3-3, and DeCinces hit the next pitch off losing reliever Roy Lee Jackson over the left field fence at Anaheim Stadium to snap the Angels' four-game losing streak.

A's 14, Red Sox 2
Davey Lopes singled home a run during a six-run first inning and belted a two-run homer in the fifth as Oakland rolled past Boston.

The A's, held to four hits in a shutout loss Saturday, erupted for 16 Sunday.

Cubs Utilize Opportunities To Down San Diego, 8-5

By The Associated Press
The Chicago Cubs are proving to be a most opportunistic team in the early going of the National League season.

In Sunday's 10-inning, 8-5 victory over the previously unbeaten San Diego Padres, the Cubs took a 5-3 lead in the top of the ninth on bases-loaded walks to Keith Moreland and Ron Cey only to see the Padres come back to tie it up in the bottom of the inning.

But a fielding error, a triple by Ryne Sandberg and his subsequent steal of home in the 10th were more than enough to put away the Padres.

In other National League play Sunday, Atlanta stopped Montreal 6-2, Cincinnati came from behind in the 11th inning to beat Philadelphia 8-7, Pittsburgh tripped Los Angeles 5-2, St. Louis belted San Francisco 9-3 and New York topped the Houston 3-1.

The tenacious Padres, who had won their first four games, came from behind three different times but couldn't put the Cubs away.

With the score tied 5-5 in the 10th, Steve Lake opened the Cubs half of the inning with a single and went to second on a one-out bunt by Bob Dernier. Rookie Henry Cotto then grounded to deep short and Garry Templeton kicked the ball into left field, allowing Lake to score the go-ahead run.

Sandberg followed with his bases-clearing smash to the center field wall, then stole home easily off Padre reliever Mark Thurmond, 0-1.

"Don Zimmer (the Cubs third base coach) pointed out that he (Thurmond) was fairly slow to the plate," Sandberg said. "All I wanted to do was get a big lead. As soon as I saw him move, I went."

"I think the key to play was (Tom) Veryzer not swinging. Otherwise I'd have been killed," Sandberg added.

San Diego Manager Dick Williams was philosophical about the tough loss.

"It would have been a nice one to win, but four out of five isn't bad to start out with," Williams said. "I'll take four out of five all year long and take my chances."

Reliever Lee Smith, 1-1, earned the victory despite being roughed up for a pair of runs in the ninth inning.

Braves 6, Expos 2
Right-hander Len Barker, 1-1, scattered four hits over 6 1/3 innings and Glenn Hubbard came up with his first two hits of the season, including a solo homer, to spark Atlanta.

Leadoff hitter Claudell Washington reached base four times, stole two bases, advanced two bases on an infield out, scored twice and drove in a run for the Braves.

"Stealing bases is my job," Washington said after his daring allowed the Braves to score their first two runs without benefit of a hit. "I've got the green light this year and I plan to take full advantage of it."

In both the first inning and the fifth, Washington led off with a walk, stole second, was moved up by Rafael Ramirez hitting to right, first on a fly and then on an infield grounder, and was driven in by Gerald Perry, first on a fly and then on a grounder.

Steve Bedrosian followed Barker and earned his second save of the season, while Charlie Lea, 0-1, took the loss.

Reds 8, Phillies 7
Philadelphia staked three-time Cy Young winner Steve Carlton to a 6-1 lead, but it wasn't enough as the Reds took advantage of three Phillie errors to get back in the game and eventually win it on Eddie Milner's RBI single.

The Phillies pounded out 19 hits in the game, but wasted what looked like a sure victory by letting the Reds rally for three unearned runs in the bottom of the fifth for a 6-6 tie.

Philadelphia then went ahead 7-6 on Ozzie Virgil's pinch-hit single in the top of the 11th, but Dave Parker and Tony Perez cracked consecutive doubles to start the bottom of the 11th and Milner, a late-inning replacement, singled in Paul Householder with two out to end the game and snap Cincinnati's three-game losing streak.

Pirates 5, Dodgers 2
Lee Lacy, who drove in only two runs in the last three months of the 1983 season, knocked in three against the Dodgers with four singles as Pittsburgh completed a three-game sweep.

Lady Pirate Awards
Sylvia Bragg, right, was named as the Most Valuable Player on this year's East Carolina University women's basketball team at an awards' ceremony held yesterday at the Pirate Club. Darlene Hedges, at left, received an award as the lone senior on the club. Each member of the team also received a plaque in recognition of ECU's championship in the ECAC-South tournament. Soviets Call For Meeting...

not to give permission for entry to those it considers unsuitable. This is a fact already being carried out."

It said this was a violation of the Olympic Charter, and with "the anti-Soviet campaign being unleashed by reactionary circles of the U.S.A. under connivance of official authorities there exists an abnormal situation."

"In this connection, the National Olympic Committee of the U.S.S.R. appeals to the International Olympic Committee and its president, Juan Antonio Samaranch, with a request to immediately discuss the situation on the eve of the Olympic Games in Los Angeles in an extraordinary session of the executive committee, and demands the American side strictly observe the Olympic Charter, adopting effective measures guaranteeing a proper security for the participants and guests of the Olympics."

The statement also said the Soviet committee was appealing to international sports federations, Olympic committees of all nations, and world public opinion to "unite in efforts to defend the principles and ideals of the Olympics movement, to (ensure) that the games will be preserved as a holiday of peace and friendship to the entire peoples of the planet."

Soviet press commentaries on planning for the Los Angeles Games have complained about smog, the crime rate, prices and what the Soviets say is excessive profiteering.

The Soviet statement Monday said profitmaking on the Games "has assumed quite ugly forms" including a proposal for commercial sponsorship of the Olympic torchrunners.

"Price rises in Los Angeles are not controlled and exorbitant money will be charged there for many traditionally free services," it said. It also said "civil rights of sportsmen may be infringed and their dignity outraged."

There have also been commentaries saying there will be a massive FBI presence that will spoil the "peaceloving" nature of the Games and that the extra security in the city for the Olympics will also be for domestic surveillance.

A senior U.S. diplomat, who asked not to be further identified, said on Friday that it appeared the Soviets were "trying to build a record of complaints in order not to come to the olympics" should that decision be made.

The Soviets have maintained that they do not practice politically motivated boycotts, such as the decision under the Carter Administration in 1980 for the United States to boycott the Moscow Olympics.

Luck, Skill Aid Richmond's Win

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Tim Richmond says luck and skill clinched his victory in the $227,290 Northwestern Bank 400 at North Wilkesboro Speedway.

"It was a combination of getting down to pit row as quick as we could — we were lucky coming in — and the skill of the guys who changed the tires that made the difference," said Richmond Sunday after driving his Pontiac an average of 97.837 mph to win the 250-mile race.

For a luxurious Centipede lawn

NEW Centi-Seed

NOW COATED for Quicker, Surer Results

For more than a generation, thousands of lovely lawns have been established annually with Centi-Seed, the original and dependable Centipede grass seed. New Centi-Seed is coated for fungus and bacteria protection and with a natural growth stimulant for quicker, surer results. Centipede develops and grows slower than other grasses but unlike "quicker starters" it produces a dense, weed-free, lifetime turf. Ask your neighbor who has used it and insist on Centi-Seed for planting your new lawn or converting your old lawn.

Perez' Jail Term May End Soon

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Atlanta Braves pitcher Pascual Perez's stay in jail here appeared as though it might end, according to court sources.

Perez, 26, who has spent three months in jail following a charge of possessing cocaine, met Saturday for more than an hour with the prosecutor general of the republic, Americo Espinal Hued, at the office of the Santiago chief of police.

No details of the meeting were released, although Espinal Hued reportedly reprimanded Perez and condemned the use of drugs. Sources close to the case said the prosecutor general was willing to sign Perez's release order today and waive the right to take the case to the Supreme Court.

Second Time Around

Bagley Wins D.C. Marathon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two weeks ago, Scott Bagley had no intention of running in the D.C. Marathon. His rivals now wish he had stayed home.

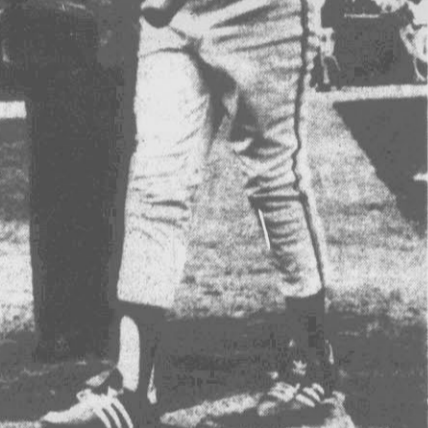

Bagley, of Ontario, N.Y., took the lead just past the midway point of the course Sunday and held on to win the 26.2 mile event in course-record two hours, 26 minutes and 40 seconds. James Alexander of Arlington, Pa. finished 17 seconds later in second place.

Peggy Kokernot, of San Antonio, was the top woman finisher, smashing the old course-record by over 10 minutes with a time of 2:49:05. Karen Wilbur of Amherst, Mass., finished second, a minute behind Kokernot, and Beth Zimmerman finished third. All three women qualify for the Olympic trials.

More than 1,500 runners, the largest field in the history of the race, participated in the event which passes through the city's most famous monuments.

Bagley, 20, was nursing a foot injury and had planned to skip the race. But after a few friends offered to finance his trip south, he decided to run although he only went through 10 days of workouts while preparing for only his fourth marathon.

Bagley, who attended Auburn University last year and currently works in a sporting goods store in Atlanta (AP) — Hammerin' Hank Aaron celebrated the 10th anniversary of one of baseball's most dramatic moments by belting a home run in the re-enactment of the blast that surpassed Babe Ruth's record of 714.

Using souped-up baseballs, the 49-year-old Hall of Famer drilled the 16th pitch from Al Downing over the left-center field fence Sunday, almost in the same spot where his historic 715th landed April 8, 1974.

"It's not the easiest thing in the world when you haven't picked up a bat in over a year," Aaron said after receiving a standing ovation from a crowd estimated at 10,000 that arrived for the re-enactment ceremonies about one hour before the start of Sunday's Atlanta-Montreal game.

"I never knew hitting was that tough," Aaron said. "Now I know what the other guys went through."

The Braves tried to simulate the real thing — bringing back Downing, the Los Angeles Dodgers' left-hander who served up the record home run pitch in 1974; Eddie Matthews, the Braves manager at the time; and former Braves' reliever Tom House, who caught the ball on the fly in the Atlanta bullpen. Each was introduced to the crowd before television tapes of Aaron's re-enactment were shown on a huge screen hanging from the roof beyond the center field fence.

Aaron took seven pitches from Downing Sunday, missed one, fouled back four more, and popped up three others before belting the 16th over the fence in the left field power alley.

The baseballs used for the re-enactment were more tightly wound than the usual National League baseballs. Made by a Japanese company, the baseballs were given to the Braves by the San Diego Padres, who had used them for a home run hitting contest.

Aaron, currently the director of player development for the Braves, completed his 23-year major league career with 755 home runs and stands with Ruth as the only two players to reach the 700 plateau. The Hammer spent his first 12 seasons with the Braves in Milwaukee, had nine seasons with the Braves in Atlanta and closed his career with a two-year stint with the Milwaukee Brewers in the American League.

"I noticed it took a lot longer to run around the bases this time," Aaron said of the 1984 version of his home run trot. He carried the bat with him and was accompanied by Braves' play-by-play announcer

Ernie Johnson, who emceed the re-enactment. Britt Gaston, a 27-year-old businessman from Waycross, joined Aaron at second base just as he and a friend had done 10 years earlier.

"I took the bat with me because it wasn't mine," Aaron said. "It was Bob Watson's. I didn't want it to get lost. I wanted to make sure I put it back in the rack."

COUNTRY MUSIC BENEFIT — Grand Old Opry Star Charlie Walker left, and Hee Haw Comedian Bobby McLamb were just a few of the Country Music and Gospel stars performing at Minges Coliseum Sunday. The program, highlighted by Country Music Hall of Fame Performer Hank Snow, was a benefit concert for victims of the recent tornado disaster. Over ten individual and group performers donated their time for the concert which raised over $10,000 for the disaster victims. Among the groups performing at the two-show benefit were: Bill Petcock, David Rogers, The Dixie Melody Boys, The Silver Wings, Heaven Bound Gospel Group, members of Super Grit Band and The Special Edition. Oscar Movies Not Box-Office Hits, But Have Potential With Pay-Cable

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Tender Mercies" is one of those warm, intimate films that got lost at the theater box office but found a home on Home Box Office.

It ranked 97th among the top-grossing movies for 1983, as compiled by Variety. Yet, in its first showing on the pay-cable service March 18, "Tender Mercies" handily out-performed the network fare on ABC, CBS and NBC in HBO's 13.5 million TV households, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co.

"Quality films play proportionately better on cable, that's the experience of 'Tender Mercies,'" said Steve Scheffer, HBO's executive vice president for movie acquisitions.

"Tender Mercies," starring Robert Duvall as a faded country-and-western star piecing together his life, is up for best picture in the Academy Awards, which will be broadcast tonight on ABC. The film is reflective of many of this year's major-category nominees: small-scale productions, without mass appeal.

Of the five films nominated for best picture, only "Terms of Endearment" (16th but still rising in 1984) and "The Big Chill" (25th) made the Top 50 on Variety's list of 1983's biggest grossing films through last Dec. 31. The other nominees were "The Right Stuff" (56th) and "The Dresser" (unlisted).

In its nominations, the industry tends to reward seriousness of purpose, message and emotion, while the movie-going public prefers fantasy, adventure, romance and comedy.

Going into the 1983 Academy Awards, the 10 top-grossing films on Variety's list were "Return of the Jedi," "Tootsie," "Trading Places," "War Games," "Superman III," "Flashdance," "Staying Alive," "Octopussy," "Mr. Mom" and "48 Hrs."

Among these, only "Tootsie" was deemed worthy of a best picture nomination, and it lost to "Gandhi" last year.

"Historically, there's a bunch of movies in the Academy Awards that don't capture the imagination of the public," said Scheffer. "If those movies don't do well quickly, the theaters grab the next available movie to try and sell more popcorn."

Scheffer said movies that get lost in that shuffle often find more receptive audiences in the homes. "One theory," he said, "is that a movie that is everybody's third choice will get hurt because people just don't get to see it before their attention turns to the next group of movies released."

Except for the blockbusters that get re-released or do well in videocassette sales ("E.T.," "Raiders of the Lost Ark" and "Jedi"), most films are available to HBO about a year after their theatrical runs.

That was the pattern with "Tender Mercies," and HBO's decision to broadcast the movie in March was made before the Oscar nominations were announced. When the film received five nominations, the producers tried to delay the cable release, to capitalize on tonight's exposure.

Scheffer said HBO would have complied, but the viewing guides and promotional material for March, which included "Tender Mercies," already had been printed.

This bothered the producers more than Scheffer. He said he believes awards have a negligible impact on ratings. "Nominations mean virtually nothing, awards mean virtually nothing," he said. "Maybe, winning 8-10 awards would make a marginal difference."

He said a movie's success at the box office is the paramount factor for success later on HBO, which is why he predicted that "Tootsie" would be "one of our all-time hits." (It's scheduled for distribution on HBO next month.)

Among its advantages, "Tootsie" is a comedy, has a big star (Dustin Hoffman) and was a smash hit with a lot of publicity. It also should repeat well. Comedies often do.

In contrast, "Gandhi," even with its eight Oscars, isn't expected to reach wide audiences. With a predominantly foreign cast, it is not a comedy, an adventure saga or a love story. And it's long, meaning even if people watch it once, they're unlikely to watch it again. "Gandhi" will be on HBO this fall.

Scheffer he expected that "The Right Stuff," coming to cable later this year, would improve on its poor theatrical performance. The movie about the first astronauts is more than three hours long. Yet the length, which deterred some film fans, may not be a great disadvantage in attracting a first-time audience on HBO.

"That's the convenience factor of home-viewing," Scheffer said.

Even though the movie's advertising campaign did not inspire flocking crowds, HBO will emphasize the same promotional elements: the film's exhilarating photography, exciting flight sequences and first-rate acting.

"We see the movie as a real celebration," Scheffer said. "We're not going to say this is a great love story set against the backdrop of the space administration."

Thought Alarm Was TV Sound

BOSTON (AP) — One of more than 100 guests evacuated during a motel fire said he'd mistaken the beeping of the fire alarm for part of a television broadcast on the flight of the space shuttle.

The two-alarm fire Sunday filled all seven floors of the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge near Kenmore Square with dense smoke and caused an estimated $50,000 worth of damage. No injuries were reported.

"I was watching the space shuttle on TV, and I kept hearing this beep, beep, beep," said John Wilson, a Chicago businessman.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 10, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day and evening to go after the plans which have your greatest inspiration to gain your aspirations. There may, however, be some delays that can take a while to work out.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't get involved in business affairs. Work on ideas that are creative and can bring fine results. Don't criticize.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't permit an outside partner to take over; concentrate on improving conditions at home. Keep busy at home and be happy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Work is quite tedious today so handle only what is absolutely necessary. Visit one who is cheerful.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Get into monetary matters and avoid seeking pleasure. Forget all that wishful thinking and be more practical.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Get into outside duties and get away from home for awhile and restore your energies. Be happier. Don't overspend.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Have a consultation with a clever person who can give you good ideas for your advancement. Show true devotion.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get out and shop with a friend; forget problems for the time being. Concentrate on the personal side of life and restore your energies.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Getting expert advice is wise now, since your own judgment is a little off at this time. Get involved in some public affair.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Fussing over some problem you cannot solve is not wise, so turn to something else that is more constructive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Avoid that friend who likes to con you, and get busy at responsibilities ahead of you. Buy some thoughtful gift of love.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be more with dynamic partners who are generous and ambitious. Handle only those duties that are important. Be alert.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get busy at regular work and forget something new and unknown. Accept suggestions from co-workers.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one who can only be happy when busily engaged in some outside work and mingling with all kinds of people and dealing with all kinds of projects. Prepare for some kind of executive position.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

FIRST PUBLIC NOTICE (EO 1198)

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) hereby gives notice to the public of its intent to reimburse applicants for eligible costs of debris removal, replacement of building contents and for repairing their flood damaged public facilities within the designated counties as a result of the recent Presidentially declared disaster for North Carolina. The facilities involved are those which are within the 100-year floodplain or which may affect that floodplain.
In accordance with the President's Executive Order 11988 on Floodplain Management, FEMA may require that the restoration of the above named public facilities incorporate certain measures designed to mitigate the effects of future flooding.
Certain projects may not be included in this notice and will be the subject of other notices in this publication of one or more of the following conditions exist:
1. FEMA estimated costs of repairs is more than 50% of the entire facility or structure, or is more than $100,000.
2. The action is located in a floodway or coastal high hazard area.
3. The facility or structure is one which has previously sustained structural damage from flooding due to a major disaster or emergency or on which a flood insurance claim has been made.
4. The action is a critical action.
The above mentioned exceptions (1-4) will be subject to a more detailed review under the criteria of the Floodplain Management Executive Order 11988.
Those persons interested in the implementation of Floodplain Management Executive Order 11988 to the repair and restoration of any of the projects covered by this notice are provided opportunity for review and comment. Interested persons should submit comments, in writing, to the Federal Coordinating Officer, Federal Emergency Management Agency, Public Assistance, Bldg. 8 T 3015, McComb St., Ft. Bragg, Fayetteville, N.C. before April 19, 1984.

Answer to Saturday's puzzle.

CRYPTOQUIP 4-9

T BUSVLZ TK ORL BLIORLZALS
 RITFLV KZUA DAIFF OUBSD.

Saturday's Cryptquip — PAPER HUNG IN THE CHIC, HUGE DANCE HALL HAD LOTS OF WALL FLOWERS.
 Today's Cryptquip clue: T equals I

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Says Health Care Data Restricted

DURHAM (AP) — A Duke University law professor says accreditation boards are restricting health care information to consumers which he says is a violation of anti-trust laws.

In two articles in the American Journal of Law and Medicine, Duke professor Clark C. Havighurst and Duke research attorney Nancy M.P. King say information is a commodity that should be produced under competitive conditions.

Boards like the Liaison Committee on Medical Education and the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals submerge the opinions of their member organizations by adopting a single strategy on serving consumers, the authors say.

Havighurst said joint boards have long been part of "a cartel strategy" to curb competition by standardizing medical training, personnel and services. A vital feature of the strategy is denying consumers information about differences in the quality of medical professionals and hospitals, he said.

"The profession long prohibited physician advertising and still frowns on claims of superior quality," Havighurst said.

By viewing the suppression of consumer information as a violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act, the courts could help consumers make more informed choices about health care, he said, adding that consumers should see competing ideas about health-related services.

"It (the marketplace) should, for example, enable consumers to locate providers who share their particular philosophy about how drugs and other technology should be used or about how aggressively disease should be treated," Havighurst said.

"Choices should be influenced, too, by differing price tags, in order that the strength of consumer preference for more costly styles of care may be tested."

The Liaison Committee on Medical Education, a joint venture by the AMA and the Association of American Medical Colleges, "has unduly standardized medical education," he added.

In addition, the American Board of Medical Specialties, comprising 23 boards that certify physicians, may be vulnerable to antitrust laws.

"These boards have defined the specialty areas narrowly and have agreed not to compete by certifying competence in each others' fields," Havighurst said. Because nearly all doctors are certified, the system provides consumers no information to distinguish an excellent specialist from a less-qualified one, he added.

Arbor Day Honor To Ex-Forester

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A retired forester will receive the highest honor of the National Arbor Day Foundation at its 12th Annual awards banquet April 28 in Nebraska City.

William E. Towell, of Southern Pines, N.C., will receive the J. Sterling Morton Award, named in honor of the founder of Arbor Day.

Towell was director of the Missouri Department of Conservation and executive vice president of the American Forestry Association.

Foundation President Mitchell Ferrill of Lincoln said in a telephone interview that Towell has "supported trees and wildlife programs nationwide, and fostered good relations with diverse environmental and professional groups."

The Army Corps of Engineers' Harlan County Project, based at Republican City, will receive a Good Steward Award for its stewardship of trees, land and shrubs.

The foundation said that despite opposition, the corps altered the project's land-use practices to favor wildlife.

Also getting a Good Steward Award will be Robert Lee Scarborough of Eastover, S.C., for work in conservation, forestry, agriculture and education.

What action would you take?

A. — Even if we were playing negative doubles, this hand is too distributional to reopen with a double. Also, we would not opt to bid some number of diamonds — we don't introduce four-card minors before rebidding seven-card majors. It is simply a matter of how many hearts to bid, and three looks about right — although we will forgive a jump to four hearts.

Q.2 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠Q52 ♥AJ83 ♦J32 ♣KQ6

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ Pass

1 ♥ Pass 3 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A. — You have an eight-card fit in a major suit, but that does not mean that you should go on to four hearts. With perfectly balanced distribution, you should seize the opportunity to describe your hand by bidding three no trump. Partner is free to return to four hearts if his hand is unbalanced.

Q.3 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠Q52 ♥AJ83 ♦J32 ♣KQ6

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ Pass

1 ♥ Pass 3 ♥ Pass

3 NT Pass 4 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A. — Even though you have not been enthusiastic, partner has expressed an interest in slam. However, with no control in either spades or diamonds, you should reject the overture. Bid four hearts.

Q.4 — As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠K107632 ♥K ♦7 ♣A8763

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ Pass

1 ♥ Pass 3 ♥ Pass

3 NT Pass 4 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A. — Even though you have not been enthusiastic, partner has expressed an interest in slam. However, with no control in either spades or diamonds, you should reject the overture. Bid four hearts.

Q.5 — Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠J8542 ♥Q762 ♦95 ♣73

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♠ Dble 1 NT Pass

2 ♠ Dble Pass ?

What action do you take?

A. — If West has his hand in your pocket, let him go ahead and pick it. Any action is too risky, especially at this vulnerability. Every once in a while an opponent's preempt will steal you blind. Accept that fact, and don't try to be a hero on every hand.

Q.6 — As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AQJ6 ♥9 ♦J73 ♣KJ872

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ 3 ♦ ?

What action do you take?

A. — The way the bidding has developed, you almost wish you hadn't opened in the first place. There is only one way you can tell partner you have a dead minimum — pass. If you double to warn him not to bid on, he will play you for a much stronger hand, including strength in the enemy suit.

FOCUS

The Living Room War

The U.S. Civil War came to an end on this day in 1865. This war took an estimated 500,000 lives. But it was perhaps unkindest of all to Wilmer McLean. The first big battle of the war took place in McLean's front yard. One cannonball went through his kitchen. He then moved to the quieter town of Appomattox Courthouse. The surrender of Lee's army took place in McLean's living room. Officers from both armies tore the room apart for souvenirs.

DO YOU KNOW — Where was the first shot of the Civil War fired?

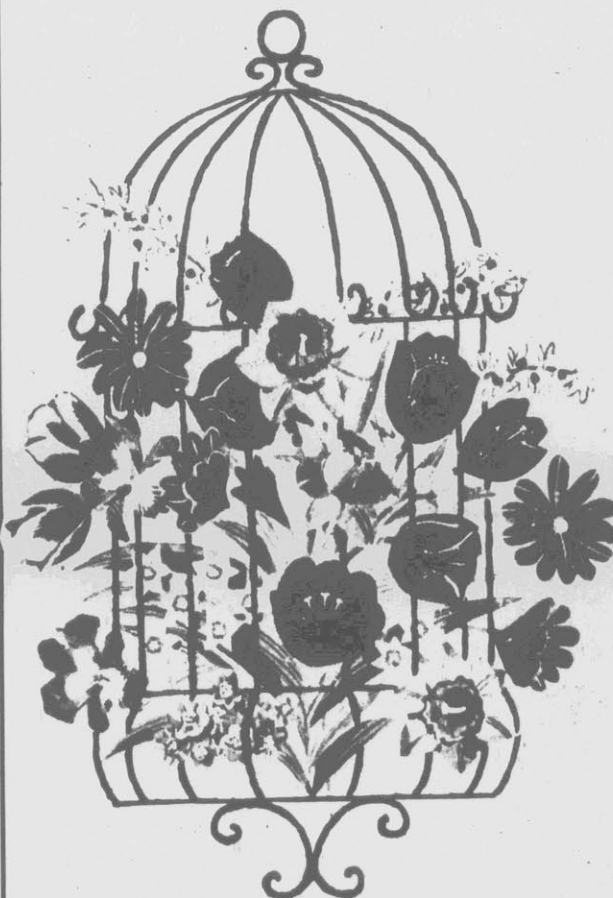

FRIDAY'S ANSWER — Franklin Pierce was elected President in 1852.
