Astronauts Net Disabled Solar Max

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Challenger's astronauts salvaged Solar Max and the mission of the shuttle today by snaring the disabled satellite with a bionic arm and bringing it into their 300-mile-high workshop for a space-walking repair on Wednesday.

"We've got it," commander Robert Crippen reported as the now-or-never effort succeeded.

The astronauts scored when they guided Challenger alongside the slowly spinning solar observatory and astronaut Terry Hart reached out and grabbed it on the first try with the wire fingers of the ship's 50-foot arm. Operating from a remote station in the cabin, he gingerly berthed Solar Max on a repair stand in the cargo bay.

"We did it; we've got three good latches," Hart reported as Solar Max was secured on the stand and began drawing power from the shuttle's supply.

"Outstanding," said capsule communicator Jerry Ross in Mission Control, where cheers and applause erupted at the consoles.

"The historic first capture of a satellite in orbit for in-flight repair," said mission control commentator Terry White.

A television picture showed Solar Max being remotely rotated on the stand, putting it in position for the fix-it job on Wednesday, when astronauts George Nelson and James van Hoften are to take a double space walk to replace two defective parts — a control system module and an electronics box. If they succeed in restoring the satellite's health, it will be returned to its own orbit on Thursday.

Success came on the last-ditch effort to retrieve the satellite, which had eluded Challenger on Sunday when a space-walking astronaut was unable to hook onto it. If the crew had been unable to snag Solar Max on two or three passes this morning, there would not be another chance because the shuttle is low on fuel. Even if Nelson and van Hoften can't repair Solar Max in orbit, flight director Jay Greene said they have demonstrated what they set out to do — that the shuttle can rendezvous with a satellite and service it, either by repair or resupply or by returning it to Earth. That is a selling point NASA is using as it seeks to attract commercial customers to its shuttle space transportation system.

If the spacewalkers aren't successful, they'll return Solar Max to Earth for treatment by experts.

Gilmore Says He Stands Alone On Key N.C. Issues

Tom Gilmore, claiming he stands alone on key issues, says he would like nothing better than a chance to debate his fellow gubernatorial hopefuls, who he suggests have campaigned under the cloak of their press secretaries.

The former state legislator said Monday the race for the top spot in the May 8 primary has centered more on personalities than on issues. He said in spite of his challenges, the other candidates have avoided meeting him in debates.

"The people need to know where they (the candidates) stand on issues," the Democrat from Julian said during a stop at the Pitt County Courthouse. "I want to know where they stand. I have spoken clearly on the issues."

Gilmore said it is time for his challengers to "stop hiding behind their press secretaries." He noted, "They can say, 'I'm for more teacher pay' or 'I'm for better education' but none of them will say how they will do something. I'm hoping the public will demand a real debate."

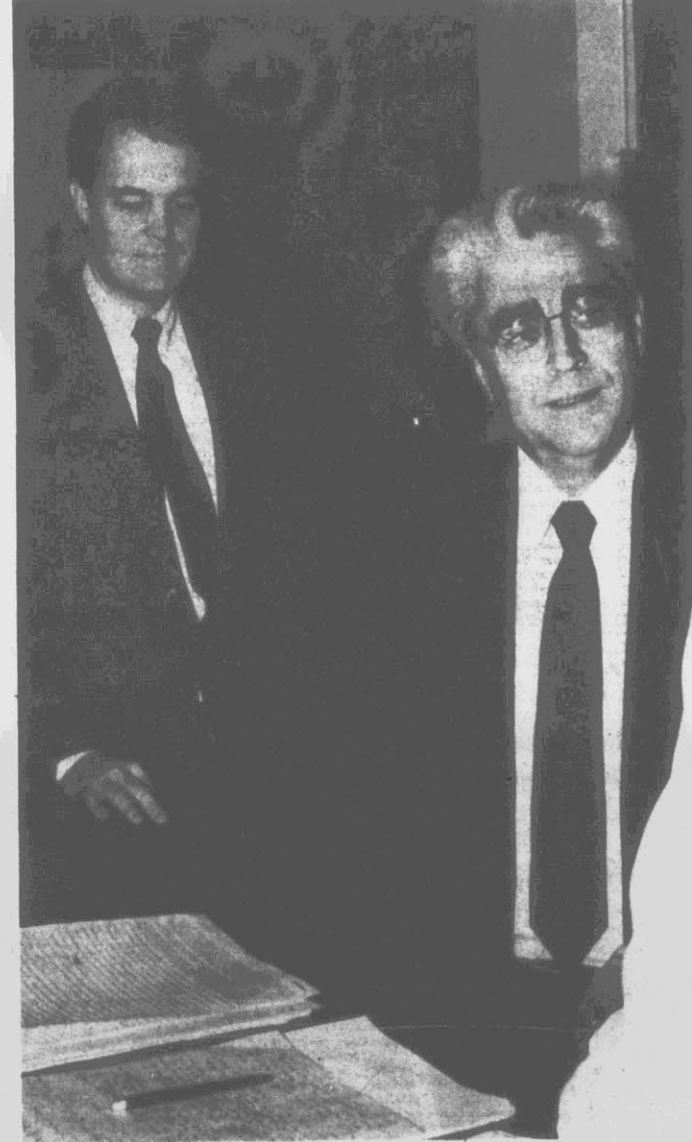

Gilmore said he has continued to discuss issues that he sees as important, among them the need for "right to know" legislation, the construction of coastal jetties, which he opposes, the need for open meetings legislation, the opening of Council of State sessions to the public, and the make-up of the state's Advisory Budget Commission.

He said the budget board now entails a small number of influential legislators who meet in private to prepare the package for presentation to the General Assembly. He said he would place representatives of the State Association of County Commissioners on the board, as well as private citizens and others familiar with the budget process, and open the meetings to the public.

Gilmore said it is time to let voters express an opinion on veto power for the governor. He noted, however, that a three-fifths vote of the House and Senate is needed in order to place the matter on the ballot. He expressed doubt that it will take place any time soon, reasoning that lawmakers are reluctant to give up their power to gubernatorial veto.

Gilmore said that as governor he would advocate a separate comprehensive budget for education that

Mondale Looks For Pennsylvania Win

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — With a late survey revealing a surge for Walter F. Mondale, all three Democratic presidential hopefuls made last-minute bids for support as Pennsylvania Democrats went to the polls today in a crucial big-state primary.

Mondale looked for his second straight win in a big, heavily industrialized state, while Sen. Gary Hart bid to get back on track to the Democratic presidential nomination.

Hart greeted commuters at a Philadelphia train stop today, while Mondale was due to shake hands with factory workers.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson started out a full day of campaigning with a sunrise church service here, saying "I see evidence of a massive black vote today." Pennsylvania is another test of his ability to turn out the black vote in record numbers, as he did in New York and elsewhere.

At stake in today's primary were 172 pledged delegates to the Democratic National Convention in San Francisco in July.

But delegates are not the only prize today, for the winner is certain to pick up significant momentum in the race.

Mondale substantially widened his lead in the state in the last few days, according to a final poll released early today.

The former vice president was the choice of 43 percent while Hart was named by 33 percent in the poll conducted by ABC News-Washington Post on Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Jackson had 16 percent and 7 percent were undecided. The poll of 622 Democrats has a margin of error of plus or minus 5 percentage points.

The survey showed major movement toward Mondale with the Monday night interviews with 317 likely voters giving him a 50-28 edge over Hart.

Hart said his hopes lie with the undecideds and whether they opt for change or choose to stay with traditional Democratic Party policies.

"The pattern in the last two or three primaries is the undecideds get to the edge and then back off," he said, explaining his recent losses.

And Hart said the states after Pennsylvania are better ones for him.

"Happily for us, I think the states that remain are more open to change," he said.

The big issue was the economy and which candidate had the best plan for rebuilding the ailing steel industry in Pennsylvania.

At a shopping center in Bucks County, Hart told a large crowd that "this state's economy and this nation's economy must literally be rebuilt."

The senator said repeatedly that he is the only candidate with a plan to revitalize basic industries like steel and automobiles and he quotes Mondale as saying he has no plan for individual industries.

Mondale cited Hart's opposition to government aid for Chrysler Corp. and for Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel as examples of the senator's uncaring attitude toward troubled companies responsible for thousands of jobs.

Hart countered that the Chrysler bailout didn't really save any jobs, that other companies were ready to buy out its profitable divisions when the government stepped in with loan guarantees.

Jackson, in Pittsburgh, hoisted a sign saying "Reopen the plant. Rebuild the cities. Labor for Jackson" and walked a picket line with several hundred striking ship-builders.

Ingram Says Big City Press Seeks To Undermine Bid

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
North Carolina Insurance Commissioner John Ingram, a candidate for the Democratic nomination as governor, charged at a news conference here this morning that "big-city newspapers" are biased in their coverage of his campaign and are trying to keep him from being elected governor because of their "ties with big business."

"Among the large-city newspapers in North Carolina, there exists, without exaggeration, a fraternity of malice against John Ingram," the candidate said.

"They schedule vicious attacks on Sundays, reprint each other's dead fish on Mondays, and ignore me when I talk about important issues like fighting unfair utility bills, jobs, roads, quality education and water, hazardous wastes," Ingram said.

From reading big-city newspapers, Ingram continued, "You would never know that John Ingram was the first candidate to address the problem of unfair electric and phone bills, or that I am the only candidate calling for a Utilities Commission elected by the people. I am the only candidate who will stop the abuse of CWIP — Construction Work-in-Progress — which charges our citizens, in advance, for abandoned nuclear power plants which will never produce a single kilowatt of electricity."

Ingram said papers such as "the Charlotte Observer, Greensboro Daily News, the News and Observer and the Wilmington Star, will only give me coverage when they have a fresh hatchet-job to perform."

Ingram, who said that he has been given more "page-one headlines in the Charlotte Observer" in the past two weeks "than I have gotten in the past 12 years" because, "according to that big-city paper, my campaign received some contributions from insurance people."

"It doesn't seem important to them that for a dozen years all the insurance money in North Carolina was used attempting to defeat me as insurance commissioner, or that 99 percent of the insurance money around today is going to my opponents," or that the Charlotte Observer "is in bed with Duke Power Company."

"The mere thimbleful of support I have from individuals in the insurance industry is because some people like the fact that there is more competition in insurance than before, and that I am a strong supporter of free enterprise working for everyone and not just a special few," Ingram said.

"Ours is a campaign against the special interests. It always has been. I'm proud of my record. My record is helping people."

"The grassroots supporters like farmers, small business people, homemakers and professionals know that I am the only candidate who will stand up to the powerful utilities — Veeco, Duke and CP&L — and fight for a Utilities Commission

Hotline gets things done. Write and tell us about the problem or issue into which you'd like for Hotline to look. Enclose photostatic copies of any pertinent information. Our address is The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C., 27835. Because of the large numbers received, Hotline cannot answer or publish every item we receive, but we deal with all of those for which we have staff time. Names must be given, but only initials will be published.

BOYS CLUB ASKS YARD SALE ITEMS
The Boys Club of Pitt County has asked Hotline to appeal for donations of household goods, clothing, plants, books, records — anything resalable — for its third annual yard sale to be held Saturday from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Items may be taken to the Boys Club, 502 W. Arlington Blvd., between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. Any items donated are tax-deductible and a letter identifying the donations will be provided upon request. The funds raised will be used to reduce the debt on the Boys Club facility. Inquiries may be made by calling 355-2345.

Two Hearings For Winterville Board

WINTERVILLE — The Town Board agreed Monday night to hold two public hearings during its scheduled meeting on May 14.

A hearing will be held to amend the zoning ordinance's multifamily residential dimensions and off-street parking requirements. A second hearing will be held to rezone the Juanita Olive property off Main Street, changing the zone from agricultural-residential to R-10.

In other business heard Monday night, approval was given for the budget schedules and adoption of the new budget. Mayor E.C. Hines gave the following dates: May 10, 7 p.m. electric, water, sewer, fire, rescue and police departments will meet; May 31, 8 p.m. the tentative budget will be presented to the board; June 15, 8 p.m. a public hearing will be held on the budget; and June 29, 8 p.m. a meeting will be held to adopt the new budget for 1984-85.

Mayor Hines reported that Carlton Branch, who had been mowing the cemetery, was not in business this year and could not take the job. The mayor said Melvin Hines offered to mow the cemetery for $105 each time. He noted this was the same amount as last year. The board approved the motion.

A recreation commission report was given by Karl McLawhorn, who said $52,295 was spent during 1983 and at this time applications were being made for a $50,000 grant from the North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources. This would be a matching arrangement, with the town or recreation commission also raising $50,000.

The board also approved June 11 as tax lien sale day for unpaid 1983 real estate taxes.

Approval was given to Town Clerk Elwood Nobles for disposal of a surplus 1972 Ford truck.

Mayor Hines asked the board to consider plans for a shelter to be constructed at the town maintenance building. Hines said money had been allocated for the project. The board agreed to study the placement of vehicles at the maintenance garage and see what size shelter would be needed.

License Deadline

Revenue Collector Floyd Little has reminded local businesses which hold city beer and wine licenses that the certificates expire on April 30. Little said the processing of renewal applications is already under way by the city revenue office and inspections division. He urged license holders who have not been contacted to call the revenue office at 752-4137.

Timber Meet Set

A meeting of those people who experienced tornado damage to timberland will be held Thursday at 7 p.m. in room 201 of the Pitt County office building. The meeting will be conducted by members of the Pitt County Interagency Committee and others. Topics to be discussed include marketing damaged timber, evaluating damaged timber and services available from public agencies and industry as well as tax considerations of storm-damaged timber. Woodland owners who cannot attend the meeting should call the Pitt County Extension office, 752-2934, and ask for the Timberland Damage Information package. Those persons who would like free help in assessing their damage should also call the number and leave their name, address and phone number. Jim Kea, area forestry agent, said it is important that salvage on damaged timber start as soon as possible, but not without proper evaluation of each stand by a professional forester.

Revival Starts

Eldress Irene Epes, pastor of Morning Glory Church here, will conduct a revival tonight through Friday at Cedar Grove Holiness Church in Chocowinity. Each evening's service will start at 7:30.

Hart Fund-Raiser

A fund-raising entertainment for the local Gary Hart campaign will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday at The Altic in downtown Greenville. Entertainment will be provided by two local bands comprised of East Carolina University students — The Trend and The Amateurs. The fund-raiser is open to the public. Admission is a $2 donation to the Hart campaign fund.

Dance Lessons

Square dance lessons will be held at the Jaycee Park Recreation Building on Cedar Lane beginning Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department and the Sundancers Square Dance Club, the class will be taught by Mary Whichard. For information, call 758-0263.

PTO Meeting

The G.R. Whitfield Parent Teacher Organization will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria. A film, "Epidemic II," a follow-up of the film shown last month on drug and alcohol problems in children, will be shown at 8 p.m. Wade Johnson, head of the alcohol and drug program for Pitt County schools, will be in attendance for questions and follow-up information.

Panel To Meet

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the auditorium of the administrative building, 2000 Cedar Lane.

Two items are on the agenda — a donation by Kiwanis Club of Greenville for Special Olympics T-shirts, and presentation of Red Cross certificates to Jim Parker and Nell Stallings.

Concerned Women

The Pitt-Greenville Black Concerned Women will meet at the home of Evelyn Lopez, 902 Colonial Ave., at 5:30 p.m. tonight.

Alumni Meeting

The Greenville Industrial-Eppes High School Alumni Association will meet at the home of Marion Wilkes, 1108 W. Fifth St., Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Plans will be made for reunion weekend July 6-8.

Drill Planned

Students in Greenville schools will take part in a drill demonstrating what to do when a tornado watch has been announced and what to do if a warning is declared during school hours. Participation in the program will take place this week.

Principals in each school have an emergency plan to implement during tornadoes and other similar incidences. Additionally, Ann Harrison, director of pupil personnel, in collaboration with school counselors, is developing a plan to help individual children deal with their reactions to the recent tornadoes and reactions to other disturbing situations. Parents are also being encouraged to consider discussing with their children possible precautions to take in a tornado or other situation of disaster.

Reading Goals

Sixty-eight students at Third Street School have been recognized for achieving reading goals at the school. Of that number, 51 have read 50 or more books in the school year to date, with 17 having read 100 or more books. Each student achieving the goal received a memento.

Benefit Walk

The March of Dimes and area day care centers will stage a benefit Mini-Walk on Saturday open to children of all ages. Participants should arrange for sponsors.

Registration will take place at 12:30 p.m. Saturday at Elm Street Park, with the mini-walk to begin at 1 p.m.

Witney the Hobo from WITN-TV will be on hand and prizes will be awarded. Sponsors include Dr. Jasper Lewis and his staff, Greenville Pediatrics, Red Carpet Realty, and McDonald's.

If the weather is inclement, the March of Dimes Mini-Walk will be held at Rose High Gymnasium.

Funds Raised

Falkland Elementary School students raised over $650 in the recent "Jump Rope For Heart" for the American Heart Association.

The school announced the following winners in the fund drive: most money raised (individual), Ginger Harris; most money raised (team), Edith Edwards, Shirley Joyner, Lashawn Petteway, Katrina Edwards, Ginger Harris, Kim Roberson, and poster contest winners, Chris Gillikin, Tracy Lawrence, Derek Brown, Edith Edwards, Ginger Harris, Maurice Thigpen, Josephine Redd, Randall Harris, Kim Roberson, Charlene Edwards.

Fifty students and eight parent volunteers participated.

Balloon Launching

Falkland Elementary students will launch helium balloons containing messages at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in recognition of School Library/Media Day.

A quiz bowl will follow for the entire school. Other special activities scheduled for National Library Week, April 9-13, include storytelling by Louise Kessell, nursery rhyme characterizations by Farmville Central students and a book fair.

Students Featured

A Wellcome Middle School art instructor and four Wellcome students will be featured in a Public Broadcasting System television special titled "Ready or Not."

Instructor Annette Brooks and students Randall Ange, Scotty McKinney, Laura Tripp and Michelle Levy were chosen for the film from 23 sites where computers are used in the art classroom.

The special was filmed in Raleigh in March and is part of series of films produced for television by the North Carolina Department of Education on the use of computers in education. The series will air in May and is scheduled to be shown nationwide at a later date.

Garris Speaks

Dr. David Garris, a member of the anatomy department at East Carolina University, spoke to advanced biology students at North Pitt High School recently. Dr. Garris discussed aspects of ovulation and follicular development in mammals and presented a corresponding slide show.

Correction

Sunday's Daily Reflector incorrectly identified the youth in a picture depicting the Greenville-Pitt County Special Olympics as Paul Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Parker.

The youth in the photo was Aaron Flowers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Flowers.

Correction

An item published in The Daily Reflector on April 1 stated that Chris Ridenour, a new broker with Hignite Realtors, resides in Winterville with his wife, Arti. The story should have said that Chris Ridenour resides with her husband, Arti.

Award Winner

Tommy Mayo won the United States Air Force Award at the recent East Carolina University Science Fair. Mayo is a senior at Farmville Central and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Mayo.

First Exhibit

Exhibits on Burroughs Wellcome Corp. are featured at North Pitt High School this week as the first display by the school's newly established industry awareness project.

Poster, brochures and a slide presentation explain the industry to students.

The project was established by the school's career education program and the job training placement act. It was designed, say project officials, to expose students to a wide variety of career opportunities and to enable them to better comprehend operations of industry while studying in a classroom environment.

Patient Picnic

The annual patient picnic sponsored by the Mental Health Association in Pitt County will be held April 18 from noon-2 p.m. at the Pitt County Wildlife Club, located near Falkland. Reservations must be made by April 16 at 752-7448.

County Convention

The Pitt County Democratic Convention will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Willis Building in Greenville.

Local delegates for the state and district conventions will be elected along with the executive committees for the state senatorial, House of Representatives and judicial districts.

Party officials said the convention will be open to all Democrats.

Junior Revival

Junior revival services will be held today through Friday at Best Chapel Free Will Baptist Church. The Rev. Eugene Joyner will be the evangelist.

Services begin at 7:30 p.m. daily.

Fashion Show

The Spring and Summer Expo '84, a fashion show, will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday at South Greenville School.

The show will feature the Laticia and Flaire models. Tickets are $1.50 in advance and $2 at the door. Advance tickets are available from Annie Tyson, 758-4901; Lisa Green, 752-3082, and Carlette Daniels, 758-8270.

Association To Meet

The Greenville-Pitt International Reading Association will meet at Western Sizzlin on 10th Street on April 16. Dinner will be served at 5:45 p.m., with the program to begin at 6:30 p.m. Ellen Johnston-Hale, poet-in-schools and a free-lance consultant, will be the speaker.

League Meeting

Candidates for Pitt County elections will guests at the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters annual meeting and pot luck supper tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the First Presbyterian Church, Greenville.

The league's program for the coming year will be adopted and a board of directors slate will be presented. The fifth annual zebra sale will be held, with members bringing discarded items to be auctioned among themselves to add to the group's finances. For information, call Lynne Hilliard, 756-7821.

Visual Arts

A visual arts show will be held this week at Wellcome Middle School featuring displays of student and teacher art work in the school's media center.

An open house for parents, teachers and students is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the media center. The use of the computer in the art curriculum will be demonstrated. The school's band and chorus will also perform.

The show is in celebration of cultural arts month.

City Brochure

The city has published an updated brochure, "Greenville: A Gold Mine of City Services," offering information about local government with an A-to-Z listing of services, as well as entries on the form of government and historical data.

City Manager Gail Meeks said the 28-page booklet also includes a chart of organization, data on boards and commissions, and a telephone reference.

Copies of the brochure are available at city hall and at other public buildings and facilities, or interested citizens may call Nadine Bownen in the city manager's office for a free copy.

Cooking Is Fun

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: When I was growing up my mother and her friends made a candy called Date-Pecan Rolls. I've never come across this sweet since. Can you track down the recipe? — YOUR FRIEND BILL.

DEAR FRIEND BILL: I did track down a recipe for Date-Pecan Rolls. It wasn't in any of my candy cook books, but in an old advertisement in my candy file. So here's your nostalgic sweet. — C.B.

DATE-PECAN ROLLS

- 3 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/4 cup light corn syrup
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup coarsely chopped pitted dates
- 1 1/2 cups coarsely chopped pecans

In a heavy 3-quart saucepan stir together the sugar, milk, syrup and salt until blended. Over medium heat, stirring constantly, cook until mixture boils.

Stir in dates. Scudding often, cook until the demadubbe on a candi dhermomedeb reaches 230 degbeeb ob until a small amount of the mixture dropped into very cold water forms a soft ball that flattens on removal from the water. Remove from heat. Add pecans.

With a wooden spoon, beat until mixture completely loses its gloss and almost holds its shape. Turn out onto a clean, cold, damp towel.

Shape into a 12- by 7-inch rectangle, using the towel to form it. Roll up candy lengthwise in jelly roll fashion. Using the towel, shape into a compact roll about 15 inches long and 1 1/2 inches in diameter. Cut into 2 rolls; reshape. Wrap each roll tightly in saran, then foil. Store in the refrigerator.

To serve, cut in 1/4-inch thick crosswise slices. Makes two 7-inch rolls.

Teens Willing To Work Can Always Find A Job

DEAR ABBY: I've had a clipping of your column pasted in the front of our job application book for 12 years.

Since we hire so many teen-agers, I hope some of them read it while filling out their applications. By the looks of it, I think they have. It's so dog-eared and yellowed nobody can make out the last half of it. Could you please print it again? We need a new one. Thank you.

THE GOLDEN EGG
OMLETT HOUSE, NOVATO, CALIF.

DEAR GOLDEN EGG: The clipping looks as though it's been fried, poached and scrambled. Here's a clean copy for you:

DEAR ABBY: I am enclosing a newspaper clipping that appeared in a section of the paper very few teen-agers read.

I think it should be in your column — or maybe the comics, where teen-agers would be sure to see it.

If you agree with me, please print it. Thank you.

MRS. E.B. CLINGNER,
COVINGTON, KY.

DEAR MRS. C.: The piece appeared in the Cincinnati Enquirer, in William Raspberry's column. It was written by Karen Rak, who teaches English to students at Center Junior High School in Strongsville, Ohio.

Ms. Rak composed a letter (ostensibly from an employer) designed to let her youthful job seekers see themselves as they are seen. With so many young people looking for jobs now, I think this piece deserves all the exposure it can get.

"DEAR KID: Today you came to me for a job. From the look of your shoulders as you walked out, I suspect you've been turned down before, and maybe you believe by now that kids your age can't find jobs.

"But I hired a teen-ager today. You saw him. What was so special about him? Not experience; neither of you had any. Attitude, son. A-T-T-I-T-U-D-E. He did his best to impress me. That is where he edged you out.

"He wasn't dressed like Easter Sunday, but then that wasn't necessary. His clothes were clean, and he had gotten a haircut. He filled out the application form neatly and completely. He did not ask to borrow a pen. He carried his Social Security card, had basic identification and did not ask, 'What's a reference?'

"He didn't have two friends waiting for him by the pop machine. He didn't start to chew gum or smoke while being interviewed. He didn't keep looking at his watch, giving me the impression that he had something more important to do.

"He took the time to find out how we 'operate' here, and what his day-to-day tasks would be. I think he'll keep his eyes open and work for me like he'd work for himself.

"He was willing to start at that point where I could afford to pay. Someday, perhaps, he'll get to the point where he'll have more authority over others and a better paycheck.

"You know, kid, men have always had to get a job like you get a girl: case the situation, wear a clean shirt, and try to appear reasonably willing.

"Maybe jobs aren't as plentiful right now, but there are jobs. You may not believe it, but all around you employers are looking for young men and women smart enough to go after a job in the old-fashioned way.

"If you have even the vaguest idea of what I'm trying to say, let it show the next time you ask for a job. You will be head and shoulders above the rest.

For both our sakes, get eager, will you?

THE BOSS"

Foot Dragging

An open question to members of the Pitt and Greenville school boards and to Pitt County's Commissioners: why the delay on meaningful consideration of the proposal to merge city and county schools.

It would appear there again are foot-dragging delays; this time, all indications point to the county, which was stung in times past by city reluctance to merge.

Now the city school board, while publicly calling for quick action on merger, has also pulled an end run by going ahead with its planning on the basis that merger will not be acted upon anytime soon. The wisdom in such a move is doubtful, but it could serve as a prod for others to act.

But finger-pointing accusations are not going to be the answer to school problems in Pitt County and Greenville. And, although the city's problems perhaps are more pronounced and more widely publicized, the county does have problems, too, especially with its enrollment patterns changing so drastically.

The answer lies only in one direction: for the two school boards to get together, and do so with all reasonable speed, to reach agreement on what proposal they will submit to the County Commissioners and the voters.

Delays only build up more problems, including resentment that will be difficult to overcome.

Predictable Slump

It's as predictable as the seasons.

When the employment picture is bright, military recruitment prospects darken; and maintaining the quality of servicemen in the armed forces via volunteers becomes a very real problem.

The Pentagon says that prospect again looms large on the horizon.

A high-tech military establishment requires grads with high-scoring entrance exams. Those more capable enlistees are in line for training in skills that private industry wants, and is willing to offer attractive pay scales.

Too, a lot of top quality military personnel are siphoned-off by inducements private industry can offer.

The defense establishment suffers. They recruited, they trained, and bingo! They lose out on a major investment.

It is true that in the past a backlog of civilians skilled in fields applicable to the military specialties has been an invaluable resource in rapid buildup of the national defense in times of emergency; but that resource is of dubious value in these times.

The force-in-being is expected to be the decisive factor.

Whatever the answer to the anticipated dilemma will not come cheap.

Jackson Poses Problems

PHILADELPHIA — The unexpectedly solid triumph of Walter F. Mondale in New York's critical presidential primary subtly shifted the focus for today's Pennsylvania test to the Rev. Jesse Jackson — not as a possible winner but to the problems his growing success pose for the Democratic Party.

The problems are highlighted in the City of Brotherly Love. Understandably terrified of alienating its emotionalized, pro-Jackson black constituencies, the elected black leadership that won control of Philadelphia for the first time last fall has reluctantly decided it cannot stay neutral. With one powerful exception, it committed itself to Jackson.

The exception is Mayor Wilson Goode, whose election last November broke a racial barrier here without overt signs of residual racial hostility of backlash. Goode has not only endorsed Mondale; he cut two television commercials for him and promised several joint campaign appearances. The mayor told us that Jackson would not get more than 60 percent of Philadelphia's booming black vote. Blacks represent nearly half of all registered Democrats.

Given Mayor Goode's public endorsement of Mondale and the fact the mayor received essential white support in his 1983 triumph, a nearly monolithic black vote for Jackson could backfire, however understandable that support in terms of black pride and Jackson's appeal. It could start racial currents flowing straight to the Democratic Convention in San Francisco and on to November.

A white Democratic leader with close ties to the labor movement explained his concern to us about the possibility of such a near-monolithic black vote: "If black voters now feel compelled to vote for a black every time one runs, it is bound to create a similar reaction among whites, a polarization that is bad for our party and dangerous for the country."

But his advice to key black elected officials that Mondale, as the most likely nominee with no civil rights blemish, deserves black support is not easily accepted. At a meeting of WASHINGTON — Most drivers of delivery trucks are men. Most workers in laundries are women. The first question before the house is, Are their jobs substantially equivalent? The second question is, If so, should they be paid at the same rate?

On the resolution of those questions an estimated $320 billion a year in wages and salaries could well depend. What we are discussing is the suddenly hot topic of equal pay for jobs of putatively comparable worth.

That issue is light-years removed from the familiar issue of equal pay for the same job. With certain exceptions for small employers, federal law requires that men and women, whites and blacks, old and young must be treated identically in the workplace. If a male is hired to drive a delivery truck at $1,574 a month, a woman driver must be paid the same salary. This has become elementary.

But over the past couple of years an entirely different concept has taken root. Out in the state of Washington the concept has flowered into a lawsuit as awesome as Jack's famous beanstalk. The story doubtless goes back for eons, to the time when cavemen killed the tigers and cavewomen cooked the tigers. Over the centuries certain jobs became well defined as "women's jobs" and other jobs as "men's jobs." It was that simple.

The more immediate story goes back only to 1971, when the state of Washington enacted a law prohibiting sexual discrimination in employment. The state government itself promptly took action to comply with the statute. The then-governor, now senator, Daniel Evans issued a directive: "If the state's salary schedules reflect a bias in wages paid to women compared to those of men, then we must move to reverse this inequity."

This directive led to a 1974 study by Norman Willis & Associates. The study focused not on individual jobs, but on "job classes." The consultants began by examining 59 job classifications typically dominated by males and 62 that were typically female. They developed a hypothetical point system based on four criteria: knowledge and skills, mental demands, accountability and working conditions. In the case of the truck driver and the laundry worker, it turned out that each scored about 100 points.

From this subjective and conjectural analysis, the Willis study concluded that "the tendency is for women's classes to be paid less than men's classes, for comparable job worth." The disparity resulted in the truck driver's earning $1,574 a month, the laundry worker $1,114.

For one reason or another — parsimony and procrastination both played a part — the Washington state government did nothing about the Willis findings. Their patience exhausted, unions representing state employees filed a class action in July 1982. Last December U.S. District Judge Jack Tanner, a Carter appointee in 1978, sweepingly upheld the Willis postulation and ordered the state to get started at once on equalizing pay for about 45,000 employees in 284 job classifications.

The idea sounds plausible. The male truck driver and the female laundry worker are both high school graduates; both jobs carry about the same mental demands and imply about the same accountability; the hazards and discomforts of a delivery route may reasonably be equated with those of an industrial laundry. Therefore, is it not unjust to pay the women at an annual rate of $13,368, the man at an annual rate of $18,888?

If that simplistic summary were all that mattered, Tanner's injunction could not easily be challenged. This is the problem: The apparent inequities could not be thus resolved without wholesale abandonment of the principles of a free marketplace. Decisions that historically have been made by the interplay of supply and demand, of productivity in terms of output, of contributions toward profitability — these decisions would now be controlled by committees on comparable worth.

The idea is superficially plausible. It is fundamentally implausible. It could not work in either public or private employment unless both labor and management were to abdicate their functions. That Orwellian day may come. It is not here yet.

To the editor:

Faye Creegan's death has not left me since I heard the news. Death does not suit her, for if she stood for anything, it was the celebration of life.

Her death has grieved our entire family, but her life as it lives now in the thousands of children she taught is the finest legacy a human being could leave. The cries for excellence in our schools continue to ring — but if ever excellence had a name, it was Faye Creegan and Patti Sheppard.

Their eighth grade social studies and English classes at Aycock Junior High School were rightly coveted by more students than there was room for. These two — with the skill and love of the artists they were and are — took minds and hearts and taught them how to think, how to question, how to judge, and how to care. Their students worked and worked hard, but they were never burdened with the joyless task of hours of busywork homework or of the uncreative assignment of "answer all the questions at the end of the chapter." Creegan and Sheppard's course requirements dealt not in linear numbers but in depth — in creative and intelligent depth. That is what excellence in teaching is all about.

The list of excellent teachers in Greenville could go on. That Faye Creegan cannot go on is a senseless and terrible waste. Her life honored the teaching profession, and we were honored by her presence in our lives.

A Little Here And There

There is a particularly smarmy popular song, released several years ago, instrumental versions of which can still be heard in elevators and supermarkets, called "You Light Up My Life." Notwithstanding the efforts of the GUC, which as my February bill attests, have hardly gone unrewarded, I have never felt like singing along. Until now.

That's because Reverend Ewing and the Prayer Family want to send me, whom they consider their friend, a "Little electric Faith Night Light (absolutely free)." I do not consider myself the Reverend's friend through any leap of faith. No, he actually calls me his friend, or at least his computer does, for that is how I was addressed on the letter which appeared in my mailbox last week.

Far be it from me to impugn the motives of a man of the cloth. Santayana might have been right when he said that skepticism was the chastity of the intellect, but I'll bet he was never offered a "little electric Faith Night Light (absolutely free)." I put my business reply card, which didn't even require any postage if mailed within the United States, in the mailbox and flipped the flag up.

Inside the card were my separate instructions to the Reverend and his family, already conveniently typed and organized alongside boxes, all of which I checked, except for "Pray for my blood pressure," which is 115/75. Now I don't mind telling you that I would have felt a bit shallow checking "List any other needs you have," and noting that as long as I have lived I have needed to own a hillside bungalow in Monaco, except that a precedent had been set.

You see, Reverend Ewing's letter to me, his friend, contained several examples where people had not only made such materialistic requests, but had actually been so blessed. Take Mrs. Lewis, who was "very discouraged" when she received the Reverend's letter. Eureka. Soon she had "a new Cadillac, a business, and a mink." No need to feel guilty about owning a gas-guzzler. As for the mink, one presumes it is a coat made from such animals, and not the animal itself, which would be a mixed blessing. Mrs. Lewis "gives God the credit because of Reverend Ewing praying for her."

And there's the story of Mrs. Montigny, who had her prayers of 27 years answered with a mobile home. Her problem, apparently, was that she had been asking God directly to bless her. No sooner did she abandon her attempts to cut out the middle man and enlist the aid of the Reverend Ewing, than, abracadouble-wide, her prayers were answered. I consider that a word to the wise. I do not intend to waste 27 years praying for a bungalow in Monaco when I could get it in the time it takes for postage to get to and from the "Church by Mail, Box 4574, Atlanta, Georgia, 30302."

After that, I expect I'll want to thank him somehow, but he says, "Please send no money." No doubt there are those who consider this akin to Br'er Rabbit asking to be tossed into the briar patch, but I am not one of them. No, I see now that to send money in return for my heavenly blessing would debase a divine act of pure charity. And it would be tacky.

Nevertheless, when I am finally moved into my bungalow, I am going to sit down in the glow of my little electric Faith Night Light, and compose one of those testimonial letters, just like Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Montigny did. Now I know that the postage will not be paid if it is mailed outside the United States, and that stamps are probably very dear in Monaco, but I'm going to send that letter anyway.

Then you'll see, ye of little electric Faith Night Lights, when Reverend Ewing sends another letter to one of his friends, according to the computer printed address. It might be you. Inside you'll see my letter, along with Mrs. Lewis's and Mrs. Montigny's and all the others, having come all the way from Monaco.

Then you can ask the Reverend Ewing to pray for what you need, whatever it may be, even if it's to see a camel pass through the eye of a needle. I'm sure he could manage it, assuming the paper and the tobacco were ground up really fine.

—Elisha Douglass—

Strength For Today

A husband and wife were arguing one evening about a question of geography. At last the husband went to the room of their little 10-year-old son and got a globe which had been a birthday present a few months before. The lad awoke before the father left the room and in sleepy tones inquired, "Daddy, what are you going to do with my world?"

Although he did not know it, the youngster was speaking for the whole of his generation. What are we going to do with the world in which these kids are growing up?

Twenty-five or 50 years from now our children and grandchildren will be running things. Will they bless us or berate us? Will they say we did the best we could, or will they speak with sneers and anger at the way we muddled things and set the world on its head?

Let us look at every child we meet and ask ourselves what we are doing to his world.

Ayden Learns Tornado Cleanup Costs Today

By MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

Ayden officials say they will know today how much the March 28 tornado will cost the town in cleanup and damages.

Town Manager Don Russell told the Town Board of Commissioners at its monthly meeting Monday that he and two representatives of the Federal Emergency Management Administration had completed a survey of the damage and that FEMA officials would report back to him today on cost and eligibility for federal funds. Most expenses the town incurred in the cleanup, said Russell, are eligible for FEMA assistance.

Russell said the cost of the disaster "was not as much as we originally thought in terms of damage." He said he could not give a cost yet because "we haven't put a pencil to it."

The heaviest damage to town property, said Russell, occurred at the town's water tank west of Ayden. The well house was "pretty much destroyed," reported Russell, but the well itself was not damaged. In addition, he said, the water tank "does not appear to have any visible damage."

Russell said he and the FEMA representatives conducted a visual inspection of the tank and found no cracks that would indicate stress damages from the storm. However, he noted, "there may be damage we cannot see" and an X-ray of the structure would be the "only way to know for sure if there's damage." Russell estimated an X-ray would cost around $20,000 and said both he and the FEMA representatives "do not believe we need to X-ray."

A screen vent on the top of the tank was blown off by the tornado, Russell said, and will cost $250 to replace. "Again, we do not know what damage was done to the bolts that hold this vent on," he said.

To have an expert climb the tower and inspect it, said Russell, would cost around $5,000. No action was taken by the board.

The town's Little League baseball field was heavily damaged by the tornado, Russell reported, but "most (destruction) will be eligible for federal assistance." The field lights were destroyed, he noted, and are not eligible for federal replacement funding.

In addition, Jerry Cox, the town housing director, estimated the storm did $20,176 to Ayden's north housing project.

Board members passed a resolution thanking volunteers who "helped the town and its citizens" during the disaster cleanup. "There are so many volunteers who gave time and energy," Russell reported, "and many of which we do not even know their names."

"This is the only way we can say 'thank you' to many of them, and we do it quite sincerely," Russell noted.

In other business:

•Bill Allen of the Ayden Country Club area and Bruce Cox of Route 1, Ayden, were appointed to the Town Planning Board as representatives of the extraterritorial limits.

•Commissioners approved an increase in the town's medical insurance coverage for employees. The increase represents an increased cost to the town from the insurer and will average, reported town officials, $126 per year per employee.

Housing Market Open To First-Time Buyers

By ROBERT FURLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Enthused by falling mortgage rates, first-time homebuyers rushed into the housing market last year, accounting for a record 40 percent of all sales and pushing the industry to its strong recovery, says a national group of lenders.

The key, says the group's chief economist, was a national interest-rate decline that allowed current homeowners to move up to bigger or better houses, thereby making their old homes available for first-timers.

Today's report by the U.S. League of Savings Institutions was mostly upbeat in profiling the kinds of Americans who took part in last year's housing revival. But the report was also accompanied by a somber warning.

Paul Prior, the group's chairman, said that despite strong 1983 figures, "the worrisome state of federal budget deficits threatens to drive interest rates back up to the level that will freeze millions of homebuyers out of the market."

Here are some highlights of the U.S. League's biennial nationwide study of housing trends, culled, it said, from information on more than 13,000 home loans made last year at 371 savings institutions:

—First-time homebuyers accounted for a record 40 percent of sales, up from just 13.5 percent in 1981.

—Nearly half of those first-time buyers — 46.1 percent, bought homes that were 25 or more years old, up from 36.2 percent in 1981.

—New homes accounted for 19.1 percent of last year's overall purchases, down from 26.1 percent. The condominium market fell even more sharply, to 10.9 percent from 21.5 percent in 1981 when high housing prices had made condominiums more attractive.

—The median price of homes sold last year declined to $65,000 from $72,000 in 1981. But rather than any loss in housing value, that was because there was "a change in the mix," with older, generally less expensive homes making up a bigger percentage of sales in 1983, said James Christian, the group's chief economist. The Commerce Department has reported prices for new houses rising over the same two years.

—Similarly, with interest rates and the median selling price declining, average housing expenses on homes bought last year were down to $709 per month from $816 in 1981. The median income of homebuyers was $35,987, down from $39,196, another indication that lower-income Americans were able to afford houses. And the percentage of buyers spending more than "the time-honored standard of affordability" — 25 percent of household income — on housing declined to 40.4 percent from 44.9 percent.

—A record 55.1 percent of all homebuyers obtaining mortgages at savings institutions last year made down payments of less than one-fifth the purchase price of their homes. That was up from 30.9 percent in 1981 when rates were higher, encouraging buyers to keep loans as small as possible.

Christian said the study "clearly shows that the decline in mortgage rates and inflation unlocked the existing home market for first-time buyers."

For several years, he said, Americans who already owned homes were reluctant or unable to move to larger or more-expensive houses because they couldn't afford the payments that higher interest rates would have required.

"The inability of owners of existing homes to move up means that hat often is affordable housing for first-time buyers simply does not come onto the market," he said. "The existing homeowner is locked in and the first-time buyer is locked out."

Average home-loan rates declined from 14 percent in 1981 to 12.2 percent in 1983, the study said.

Rates have been rising again in recent months, causing the new worry expressed by the group's chairman. The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which regulates savings institutions, reported last week that rates on commitments for new fixed-rate, long-term home loans reached an average of 13.74 percent in early March. The League's study also included figures on housing expenses in 75 housing markets.

Leading the list was the Los Angeles-Long Beach area with a median home price of $139,950 and monthly housing expenses of $1,334 last year. Next came Anaheim, Calif., $125,018 and $1,331; Washington, $120,600 and $1,253; San Francisco-Oakland, $120,074 and $1,196, and San Diego, $106,000 and $960.

Least expensive were: San Juan, Puerto Rico, $35,050 median selling price, $424 median monthly housing expenses; Youngstown-Warren, Ohio, $39,050 and $453; Muncie, Ind., $40,033 and $481; Louisville, $44,013 and $506, and Springfield, Ill., $44,025 and $540.

High Marks Given N.C. Environment

RALEIGH (AP) — Close to 50 percent of North Carolinians surveyed by the Office of Management and Budget don't think the environmental regulations are strong enough, but only three percent think environmental quality in the state is poor.

The survey, conducted between mid-September and mid-October, revealed 52 percent believed environmental quality is good while 23 percent rated it excellent and 20 percent described it as fair. Three percent said the environment was poor and 2 percent said they didn't know.

Twenty percent of the 1,551 adult respondents said the quality of the environment is improving, while 55 percent said it is staying the same, 20 percent said it is declining and 4 percent had no opinion.

Some 47 percent said state environmental regulations are not strong enough while 38 percent said they were about right and 3 percent said they were too strong.

Fifty-two percent of respondents said industrial plant wastes pose the most serious threat to surface water supplies. Only 25 percent said city sewage plants are a serious problem. Twenty percent said eroded soil from construction sites posed a serious threat, while 14 percent were concerned about erosion from farmland, 17 percent were strongly concerned about runoff from farmlands and 15 percent worried about runoff from city streets and parking lots.

Fifty-eight percent rated landfills for hazardous and toxic waste disposal as a serious problem with another 22 percent saying it was somewhat serious. Landfills for solid waste disposal had the next highest response, with 38 percent rating them as a serious problem for the underground water supply.

Phosphate detergents, which encourage algae growth, are used by 64 percent of respondents, 14 percent used non-phosphate detergents and 22 percent could not be classified.

However, 91 percent said they were willing to switch to non-phosphate detergents if state officials said the algae problem was very serious. Four percent said they would not switch, 4 percent were not sure and 1 percent said they had already switched.

The survey is the 11th since 1976 and has a margin of error of less than 3 percentage points.

Number Of N.C. Farms Declined

RALEIGH (AP) — The number of farms in North Carolina fell by 9,007 between 1978 and 1982, but the average farm in the state grew by seven acres during the same period, the U.S. Census Bureau reports.

Preliminary findings of the 1982 federal Census of Agriculture released this week show that in 1982, the state had 72,799 farms, down from 81,706 in 1978. Conversely, in 1982 farmland totaled 10.3 million acres — an average of 142 million acres per farm — down from 11 million acres, or 135 acres per farm, in 1978.

The Census Bureau defines a farm as any place from which $1,000 or more of agricultural products were sold or normally would have been sold.

State sales of agricultural products were $3.5 billion in 1982. Of the state's farms, 8,999 had gross sales of $100,000 or more; 39,528 had sales of less than $10,000. The average value of land and buildings per farm was $187,882, with a per-acre value of $1,314.

Farmers spent $704.8 million for livestock and poultry feed in 1982; $277 million for farm energy; $238.4 million for fertilizer and $245 million for hired labor, according to the preliminary data.

Pentagon Cites Soviet Buildup Of Weapons

By TIM AHERN

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon today issued its third annual report on the Soviet military, outlining a vast buildup of weapons which may include a ground-based laser capable of blinding U.S. satellites.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said the Soviet increase should be met with higher U.S. defense spending to "restore the strength necessary to maintain peace with freedom."

The 121-page document covers a wide array of Soviet weaponry and was released as congressional committees prepare to begin voting on a record Pentagon budget in the fourth year of the Reagan administration's five-year plan to "rearm America."

Weinberger told a news conference he thought the Soviet goal remains what it always has been: "World domination, it's just that simple."

Weinberger said the Pentagon book documents a "continuing upgrade of all elements" of Soviet conventional and nuclear forces.

To meet the Soviet buildup, Weinberger urged the United States and its NATO allies "to make very large" efforts to increase defense spending.

"The United States and its allies have made progress toward restoring the military balance," Weinberger wrote. "But to succeed, we must sustain not only our unity of purpose as a nation, but also our determination to complete the task we have begun — to restore the strength necessary to maintain peace with freedom."

While the report contains little which was not in previous reports issued in 1981 and 1982, it does offer a more detailed view of some weapons, including a ground-based laser the Pentagon says the Soviets are building at a research facility at Sary Sagan.

That laser could lead to a "prototype laser anti-satellite weapons as soon as the late 1980s," the Pentagon said.

Senior defense officials, discussing the report on the condition they not be named, refused to confirm reports circulating for the past several years that several U.S. satellites have been "illuminated" by lasers.

The United States is now testing an anti-satellite weapon, a small rocket which would be fired from a high-flying F-15 jet.

Both nations depend heavily on satellites for reconnaissance and early warning of attacks and President Reagan two weeks ago rejected congressional calls for U.S. Soviet talks aimed at outlawing such weapons. A treaty would be too difficult to verify, he said.

The Pentagon began issuing the reports two years ago to support its contention that large increases were needed in U.S. defense spending.

For fiscal 1985, the Reagan administration proposed increasing authorized defense spending to a record $305 billion, an 18 percent hike over the current year.

But that budget has run into trouble in Congress and Reagan has agreed with Senate Republicans to limit it to $291 billion, although Congress may trim that figure even more. Pentagon planners are now trying to come up with $14 billion in cuts, a process expected to be finished within several days.

Like earlier editions, the latest version of "Soviet Military Power" is designed to appeal to the public. It includes a number of photographs, multi-colored drawings, and easy-to-read charts.

The report documents Soviet work on a number of weapons which the United States developed first.

For example, the report says the Soviets are producing a new version of their aging Bear long-range bomber which will be designed to carry cruise missiles. The United States has been deploying those low-flying weapons on some B-52 bombers for the past year.

The Soviets also last year laid the keel of their first nuclear-powered aircraft carrier, a 60,000 ton vessel which will be capable of launching attack jets.

The Soviets currently have no carriers that size, but the United States has 13 carriers, most of them far larger, and is building two more.

Last year, the Soviets also launched two new classes of attack submarines.

Gilmore...

The General Assembly would be asked to consider before it tackles the overall state financial package.

He said he would ask the Legislature to submit the issue of a state lottery to the voters and he would support the measure if he was assured that 100 percent of the revenues would be targeted for education.

The candidate proposed the creation of a "blue-ribbon" tax study commission with clout that would "look at the tax laws, the overall package. It's time we took a look at the total picture, not just put a Band-Aid on the system."

Gilmore said he feels "people are willing to pay their fair (tax) share, particularly if it is earmarked for education." He said, "We will have a good economy and a good system. If it means adding taxes, then I'll go to the people and ask for that."

The candidate, who lists the North Carolina Association of Educators as among the groups endorsing him, said North Carolina has made the "biggest mess" of any state in handling its public school financing.

In a grassroots campaign effort, Gilmore has spent days working at various jobs throughout the state, ranging from duty as a parking lot attendant at Pitt County Memorial Hospital to teaching a class in Asheville. "I challenge other candidates to go into a classroom and teach five classes, take up money for popcorn sales, and take the children to recess and to lunch," he said.

Milk And Bread Distribution Set

Milk and bread donated by Kroger Sav-on will be distributed to Pitt County tornado victims tonight and Wednesday.

Bill Brown, who helped unload a transfer truck of milk delivered this morning to the Eastern Pines Fire Station, said the bread — he understood there are 2,000 loaves — is to be delivered to the fire station this afternoon. He said he was told 1,000 gallons of milk were given.

Firemen and other volunteers will deliver the bread and milk this evening, he said. Anyone who suffered loss during the tornado who does not receive a delivery tonight may pick up milk and bread at the fire station Wednesday, Brown said.

ELEVEN THINGS YOU CAN DO ON THE VERY FIRST DAY.

Your first day with PCjr isn't just exciting. It's rewarding. This IBM® personal computer quickly hooks up to the family TV. And there's a lot you can do right from the start.

PCjr MAKES IT EASY

PCjr was designed to make the whole family feel at home with computers.

The keyboard, for example, doesn't need a connecting cord. This refreshing bit of technology — the IBM "Freeboard" — frees you to get comfortable up to twenty feet away.

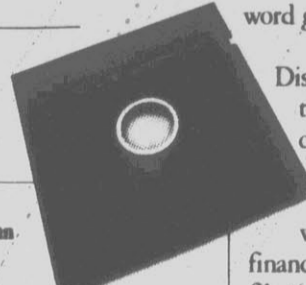

And the keys are color-coded, so even a beginner can find the right key for the right job. Right away.

YOU'RE OFF AND RUNNING

You can start using PCjr as soon as you set it up. The Sampler Diskette (included with diskette-drive models) gives you eleven useful mini-programs to choose from.

Including:
A home spreadsheet to help keep your expenses in line.
An electronic address book to help you sort out who's who and who's where.

A home loan calculator that can tell you interesting things about your principal. An easy-access file for recipes. A checkbook balancer. And a challenging word game.

2. Monthly Expenses
3. Word Race
4. Shopping List
5. Recipe File
6. Tile Game
7. Typewriter
8. Alarm Clock
9. Checkbook
10. Address Book
11. Telephone Connector

Of course, the Sampler Diskette is merely a taste of what you can do with PCjr. You can buy easy-to-follow programs to help you write letters, plan your finances, educate the kids, file tax data — to help the whole family use its time to better advantage.

Plus, PCjr runs many IBM Personal Computer programs that run on the IBM PC and PC/XT. So you can finish at home what you start at the office, and vice versa. And when it's time to relax, PCjr is always game. Plug in an entertainment cartridge and let the fun begin.

A COMPUTER THAT CAN GROW WITH YOU

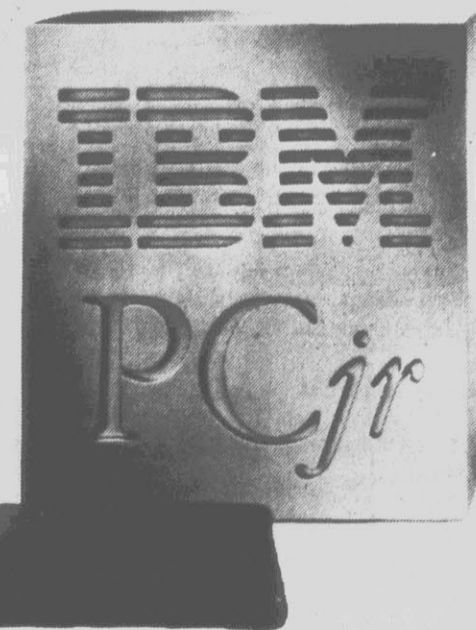

PCjr is the most affordable of the IBM personal computers. You can start with the 128KB model, equipped with a diskette drive, for about $1300. Or the 64KB base model, for about $700.

(Prices apply at IBM Product Centers, and may vary at other stores.)

And as your needs become more sophisticated, PCjr can easily keep pace. With add-it-yourself options like a printer, diskette drive and internal modem for telecommunications, even the lowest-priced model can grow up fast.

To see all the things PCjr can do, visit an authorized IBM PCjr dealer or an IBM Product Center. Check the listing below for a convenient location.

Monday and Tuesday slaughter was 31 cents.

Poultry
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 54 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pound birds. 100 percent of the loads offered have been confirmed with a final weighted average of 54.05 cents f.o.b. dock or equivalent. The market is mostly steady and the live supply is moderate for a moderate to good demand. Average weights desirable to occasionally heavy. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Tuesday was 1,758,000, compared to 1,783,000 last Tuesday.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market staged a broad advance in more active trading today, after turning in a mixed performance the previous day.

Steel, auto, defense, airline, drug and financial issues were among the gainers. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which rose 1.68 points on Monday, was up 8.16 points at 1,142.06 by noon.

Advancing issues were running 8 to 5 ahead of declining issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

A Conference Board survey released late Monday said consumers' confidence about the economy drifted lower in March for the second straight month. The business-financed research group called the decline modest and was no cause for concern, saying its timing was due to recent widely publicized drops in stock market prices.

Among the early volume leaders, Archer Daniels Midland was down 7/8 at 18, American Telephone & Telegraph was up 1/8 at 15 1/2, Chrysler was up 1/8 at 24 1/2, Ford was up 1/8 at 34, American Can was up 3/8 at 45 1/2 and PepsiCo was up 1 1/2 at 39 1/2.

A 1 million-share block of Archer Daniels Midland stock traded at 18, while a block of 238,800 shares of American Can stock crossed at 45 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index was up .52 at 90.00. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .60 at 205.30.

Volume by noon on the Big Board was 38.27 million shares, compared with 32.10 million shares at the same point Monday.

Reagan, Ford And Nixon At Party

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's three living Republican presidents rubbed elbows for the first time in 2 1/2 years at the 35th anniversary party of the Chowder and Marching Club — a society of House Republicans. President Reagan and former presidents Gerald R. Ford and Richard Nixon all attended the private dinner Monday night at the Fort McNair Officers' Club. The last time the three were together was in October 1961 when they and former President Jimmy Carter gathered at the White House before Carter, Nixon and Ford attended the funeral of Anwar Sadat.

Hearing Loss Is Not A Sign Of Old Age

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who have trouble hearing has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of one of the smallest Beltone aids of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Mrs. Ellis was a native of Pitt County and attended public schools here. She was a member of Lewis Chapel Church and served in the senior choir. She was also a member of the Household of Ruth No. 2212.

Send for this model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this free model will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a fourth of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit. These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 55706, Beltone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Illinois 60646.

Surviving are a son, Herman Ellis Sr. of Farmville; five daughters, Mrs. Sadie O'Neal and Annie Mae Ellis, both of New York, Mrs. Sallie M. Dupree and Mrs. Mamie R. Baker, both of Maury, and Mrs.

Blue Jays Rally Past ECU, 8-2

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

KINSTON — For a while there, it looked like the professionals were in trouble. Through five innings, East Carolina University was leading the professional Kinston Blue Jays of the Carolina League, 2-1.

But three errors, a wild pitch and two passed balls helped contribute to a five-run sixth inning for the Blue Jays, who rallied to take an 8-2 victory in the exhibition contest.

The game was played in a steady rain throughout, and was finally called after seven and a half innings.

"I think the field conditions had a lot to do with the way we played in the sixth," East Carolina Coach Hal Baird said. "Too, we wanted to get a chance to play a lot of people, and after we got past (Mike) Christopher and (Bob) Davidson, they got down in the bottom of our order."

Christopher, who started the game, went the first two innings and allowed but one hit. That was a drive into center that was just off the tip of the charging Mark Shank's glove, going for a double. He also walked one and struck out three in facing eight batters.

Davidson, who went the next three innings, fanned two walked none and gave up only a bunt single that just stayed fair and rolled to a half in the rain-soaked clay of the third-base line basepath. The hitter came around to score an unearned run to close the gap to 2-1.

But after that, Chubby Butler hurt himself with an error after a runner had reached on another misplay, and a wild pitch, the passed balls and three singles contributed to his downfall. Craig Van Deventer also was tagged for two runs in the seventh.

East Carolina went hitless off the pitching of starter Jose Segura until the ninth batter came up. Jabo Fulghum then cracked a two-out double to right center, and came around to score when Steve Sides sent a single up the middle.

The Pirates added their second run in the fifth. David Wells led off with a walk and Mike Sullivan drilled a shot into dead center that hit on the wall just under the 390-foot mark, going for a triple. The wind throughout the game blew straight in from center.

"That would have been out easy with the wind in any other direction, or calm," Baird noted.

The Pirates, however, were unable to generate any further offense either in that frame or later, leaving Sullivan stranded as the final baserunner of the night for East Carolina.

Kinston, after leaving a runner on third in the fourth after he reached on an error, got a run in the fifth.

Chris Shaddy led off with the bunt that stayed fair and he moved to second when a pickoff attempt was errored. With two away, Nelson Liariano's grounder to second was thrown away and that allowed Shaddy to score, closing the gap to 2-1.

Then, in the fifth, the bottom fell out. With one down, Cecil Fielder reached when his grounder was dropped at first. He moved all the way to third when another pickoff attempt went astray. Ramon Sarmiento reached when Butler hit him, and a wild pitch allowed Fielder to score the tying run, and moved Sarmiento to second. Rico Sutton singled to center, scoring Sarmiento with the go-ahead run.

Sutton stole second and dashed on to third when the ball was again errored on the throw-down. He scored on a passed ball. Shaddy walked and moved to third on Drex Roberts' single to right. A double steal scored Shaddy and put Roberts on second. Jeff DeWillis singled to left and another passed ball let Roberts score for a 6-2 lead by the Jays.

The final two came in the seventh. Kash Beauchamp led off with a single to center and moved to second on a passed ball. Fielder doubled to left to score him, and Sarmiento followed with another double to left, driving in Fielder.

No one on either team had more than one hit.

The Pirates return to collegiate action on Wednesday, traveling to Rocky Mount to face N.C. Wesleyan in a 3 p.m. game on the Bishops' field.

Harrison Given Contract Extension Through 1987

East Carolina University Director of Athletics Dr. Ken Karr announced this morning the extension of head basketball coach Charlie Harrison's contract through 1987.

This marks the second extension given Harrison since his original signing year at the beginning of the 1982-83 season.

"Charlie Harrison has begun to establish the type program footing that we had hoped for here at East Carolina," said Karr. "While everything did not fall in place with wins and losses last year, Harrison and his staff proved again their commitment to build a solid program. The first real recruiting class for Harrison was one that will bring good things to Pirate basketball in the future."

"We are pleased with the two years that Coach Harrison has worked with our program and we feel very confident in our future under him and his staff. Therefore, we want to extend the contract for Coach Harrison through 1987."

Harrison, a 34-year-old native of Scotland Neck, stirred the area with his first team, 1982-83, with a 16-13 club that came within three points of playing for the championship of the ECAC-South. Several school records were set including fewest points allowed by opponent teams.

Last season the Pirate team was drained of veteran players and Harrison and staff brought in six freshmen, four of whom were named Rookie of the Week in league play. Three of four in-state recruits were selected for the East-West All-Star game.

"I appreciate this vote of confidence to me, my staff and what we are trying to do here at East Carolina," said Harrison. "I believe this shows that patience of the people here, in light of a disappointing season last year, in trying to achieve what we ultimately set out to do, and that's to build a basketball program at East Carolina. I appreciate people recognizing that we are taking steps to do just this."

"I also think that this extension shows that the administration and powers-to-be want me to be with the kids I recruited last year through four years, and to give me a chance to talk with new recruits about a solid program and a coach who will be here for a while."

Harrison expects to sign two point guards tomorrow on National Signing Day for college basketball, with two big men expected later.

The former pupil of Bobby Knight will leave for Indiana within the next few days to work the Olympic trials that open April 18 at the invitation of Coach Knight.

"Recruiting is top priority, of course" added Harrison, "but I also feel this is a great opportunity to go to Indiana and try and learn some new and good things for our program in the future, while trying to help Coach Knight and the entire Olympic staff pick the very best players to represent our country."

Harrison came to East Carolina after serving at Iowa State under former NCAA winner Johnny Orr.

Denver Improves Record With Help Of Fumbles

DENVER (AP) — A pair of fumbled Los Angeles kickoff returns late in the first half helped complete a 25-point second-quarter flurry that lifted the Denver Gold to an improbable 6-1 record.

Denver, everybody's choice to be an also-ran in 1984, posted its fourth straight victory and raised its Pacific Division lead to three games with Monday night's 35-27 United States Football League victory over Los Angeles before 19,115 rain-soaked fans.

Houston beat winless Washington 31-13 in the only other game of the night.

"We're on an emotional roll," said Denver Coach Craig Morton. "We're playing with great intensity and nothing seems to discourage us. We don't panic."

Panic might have set in after the Express jumped to a 14-0 lead in the first quarter. Steve Young, Los Angeles' $40 million rookie quarterback, set up the first score, beating the blitz by dumping a short pass over the middle to Mel Gray, who went 52 yards. Kevin Nelson scored four plays later.

With 5:23 left in the opening period, Los Angeles safety Dwight Drane intercepted a Craig Penrose pass and returned it 22 yards for the second Express tally.

The Gold rebounded with a vengeance in the second period.

First, Penrose lofted a 73-yard bomb to Kevin Williams, then David Martin scored returned a punt 79 yards. But the extra-point attempt failed and Denver trailed 14-13.

Then came the two crucial fumbles on kickoff returns.

Gray, trying to negotiate a muddy area of the field, coughed up the ball at the Los Angeles 17. Penrose hit Vincent White on a 5-yard pass for the go-ahead TD with 1:31 left.

Tony Boddie fumbled away the next kickoff return, giving Denver possession at the 10, and Bill Johnson's 5-yard run made it 25-14 with 30 seconds left in the half.

Los Angeles never fully recovered from that second-period onslaught. Nelson took a short pass and turned it into a 69-yard scoring play early in the third period. But Denver used its ball-control offense to eat up the clock and countered with a field goal and a touchdown before Young ran for the final score in the closing seconds.

"You can't fumble that many times (four) and win," said Express Coach John Hadl, whose team fell to 2-5.

Young, who completed 16 of 37 passes for 267 yards and ran for 34 more yards in his second pro game, wasn't satisfied.

"I'm still learning," he said.

Gamblers 31, Federals 13

Houston running back Sam Harrell scored on runs of seven and 16 yards, sandwiched around a 39-yard field goal by Toni Fritsch, as Houston, 4-3, turned a 7-0 first quarter edge into a 24-7 halftime lead.

ECU Golfers Struggling

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — East Carolina's golfers held down last place at the halfway point of the first-ever ECAC-South golf championship, being held at Kings' Mill in Williamsburg, Va.

Navy holds down first place with a 316 team total, two shots ahead of William & Mary at 318. James Madison is another stroke back at 319, followed by Richmond at 325. George Mason came in with a 326 total, while East Carolina is last at 331.

Roger Newsom led the Pirate scoring on Monday with a 77, while Mark Arcilesi was next at 82. Mike Helmes recorded an 85, while Paul Steelman came in with an 87.

The tournament winds up today.

Moore Leads Rose

Amy Moore won the two distance events to lead Rose High School's girls' track team to a 68-63 victory over Northeastern of Elizabeth City yesterday.

Rose won seven individual events while Northeastern won five. Rose won two of the three relays, while the 200-meter hurdle event was not run.

Moore was the only double winner in the day's activities, as she took the 1,600 and 3,200-meter runs.

The victory boosted the Rose record to 7-0 on the season. The Ramettes close out the regular season on Wednesday, traveling to Hunt.

Banded or In-Furrow.

COUNTER® Delivers Broadest Spectrum Insect Control.

For nine years, university tests have proven COUNTER® systemic insecticide-nematicide to be the most effective corn insecticide there is—whether you apply it banded or remove your banders and apply it directly in the seed furrow. And COUNTER is the only corn insecticide to combine this application flexibility with the broadest spectrum insect control you can get. All at one low rate.

Check the charts shown here. Compare COUNTER with other corn insecticides. Applied banded or in-furrow, COUNTER controls more corn pests than any of them.

Best for conservation tillage. COUNTER can be applied safely and directly in the seed furrow where it won't get lost in the trash or be blown away. At the same time, COUNTER in-furrow or in a band controls more corn pests than any other insecticide. Plus, COUNTER acts systemically, as well as on contact, so it works through the plant for total root and early-season foliar protection.

Safe for seed. Since 1975, tests by universities

Late Inning Blues For Blue Jays

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Toronto Blue Jays have the late-inning blues. Oakland A's Manager Steve Boros remembers the feeling well.

"We came from behind in a lot of games last season and let leads slip away," Boros recalled Monday night. "Now, we feel we can come from behind and then wrap the games up."

Carney Lansford hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning off Toronto's Dennis Lamp, and the A's beat Toronto 4-3 in the only American League game of the day. An error by second baseman Damaso Garcia got the Blue Jays in trouble.

It was the third come-from-behind victory for Boros' club, off to a 5-1 start and leading the Western Division. Lansford, missing from the A's lineup a year ago because of the death of an infant son, has collected seven runs batted in, including three game-winning RBI, this year.

"These kind of games can give a club a lot of confidence," said Lansford, who singled home a run in the sixth off Toronto starter Jim Clancy.

him up like Carney did tonight."

Caudill, 1-0, was most grateful, and he faced only three batters in the ninth, striking out pinch hitter Ernie Whitt to end the game.

"Bell got the better of me this time, but we've got guys with unlimited capabilities on this team," Caudill said. "We've got 25 guys picking each other up, the mark of a good team."

"I know it's awfully early to talk about, but I think we've got a chance to win a pennant. I've been saying that since the start of spring training."

The Blue Jays could use some rebuilding of confidence right now.

"We've played six great games and lost three of them, two in the eighth inning and one in the tenth," Manager Bobby Cox said. "That error tonight was the first we've made this season."

On Sunday in Anaheim, reliever Roy Lee Jackson tried to preserve a 3-1 lead for Toronto starter Jim Acker, but Reggie Jackson and Doug DeCinces belted homers in the eighth and the California Angels downed the Blue Jays 4-3.

On Monday night, Toronto pulled into a 2-2 tie when two runners scored on an infield single by Garcia in the seventh. George Bell greeted Oakland reliever Bill Caudill with a homer in the eighth and the Blue Jays led 3-2.

Caudill, who had 26 saves for Seattle in each of the last two seasons, earned saves his first two times out in an Oakland uniform.

"We know he can't do it every time out, but he's going to do it nine times out of ten," said Boros, who sent the hard-throwing right-hander in with an opportunity for a victory Monday night.

"Hopefully, on that tenth time when he doesn't come through, someone will come along and pick Wachovia is creating better ways to borrow.

Whatever your reason for borrowing, and however you prefer to borrow, Wachovia has new ways to lend you money you won't find anywhere else — ways that can offer you lower interest rates and better terms.

Wachovia BankLine

Wachovia BankLine is a personal line of credit from $2,500 to $25,000 at rates that are determined monthly, based on Wachovia's prime rate*. BankLine is as easy to use as writing a check. Your BankLine account costs you nothing to open, and there are no annual fees.

The rate you pay is based on your credit line, not on the amount you borrow.

If your line of credit is:	Your rate is:
$10,000 or over	Prime + 1%
$ 5,000 to $9,999	Prime + 1½%
$ 2,500 to $4,999	Prime + 2½%

If the prime rate goes down, so does your interest rate. But no matter how high the prime rate should go, under present North Carolina law the maximum Annual Percentage Rate (APR) you will be charged is 18%. The minimum rate is 8% APR.

cash you need for other purposes, without selling the securities. You may borrow up to 50% (or more) of the market value of the securities you own, simply by making a phone call.

A Wachovia margin account is easy to open. And you get preferred interest rates based on Wachovia's prime rate*. Under current North Carolina law you are protected by an interest rate ceiling of 15% APR.

If your outstanding margin loan balance is:	Your rate is:
Up to $24,999	Prime + 1%
$25,000 to $49,999	Prime + ½%
$50,000 or more	Prime

Wachovia Home Equity Loans

Your home is probably worth more than you paid for it. Wachovia offers ways that you can borrow from the equity you've built up, with affordable monthly payments.

A Wachovia Home Equity Loan is an excellent way to borrow at favorable rates for major expenditures, such as home improvements, education, or retirement property.

Your Personal Banker can help you decide on the terms and options that fit your budget best. So when you think of borrowing money, think about putting the money in your home to work, with a Wachovia Home Equity Loan.

Wachovia Prime-Plus Installment Loans

Wachovia Prime-Plus Installment Loans offer initial interest rates lower than our fixed-rate loans. And that means lower payments.

The rate you pay is based on Wachovia's prime lending rate* and can vary monthly, but the amount of your payment remains the same. Any changes in interest rates will result in adjustments to the number of payments you make, not to the monthly payment amount. If rates fall, your loan will be paid off earlier. Rising rates may require additional payments.

You have the protection of an interest rate ceiling established at the time you take out your loan. So you'll know in advance both the maximum and minimum interest rate you could be charged.

Wachovia Brokerage Margin Loans

A Wachovia Brokerage Service margin account is an effective way of using your securities to access

You have a choice

Whether you prefer a loan with a prime-based rate or a fixed rate, Wachovia is your best loan source. No other lender offers you a greater choice.

See a Personal Banker

Stop by this week and talk over your credit needs in the privacy of a Personal Banker's office. Your Personal Banker can explain our new lending options and help you decide on the type of loan that suits you best. And your Personal Banker has the authority to make lending decisions, so you'll get a prompt answer.

Before you borrow anywhere, ask a Personal Banker about the better ways, at Wachovia.

Mike Lawrence is rapidly becoming this country's most prolific author. His latest effort is "Play Bridge With Mike Lawrence" (Devyn Press, 227 pages, paperback, $9.95. Available from Bridge World, 39 West 94th St., New York, N.Y. 10024.) It takes you through 52 hands of a pair tournament as you would play them at the table. After each hand Lawrence assesses the result in terms of possible matchpoints, and shows how this affects your play. The hands are interesting and the advice sound. If we have any reservations about the book, it is the price tag.

Note Lawrence's decision to jump to four hearts after the preemptive two spade opening bid at his left. Three hearts would be competitive, and would place an enormous strain on partner.

West leads his singleton spade. "I duck in dummy and East wins the king. Normally I would play the jack, leaving East to wonder who has the two. This time though, I am not sure that's best. If I play the jack and East is persuaded it is a singleton, he may find a diamond shift."

"No, instead I play the two. I think my best chance is to draw a road map for East. If he knows I have the jack, he may be induced to play ace and another spade. Against a good opponent, this shouldn't work. He would ask himself how come I'm not making the mandatory falsecard. And if he asks himself that question, he would be forced to the right conclusion... RHO... bangs down the ace and another spade."

"I ruff with the ace and draw trumps. Fortunately, they divide 2-1. When I lead the club ten, LHO grabs it and I have ten tricks."

"Matchpoint Evaluation: This looks like a solid position. Even if they decide to save, they should escape for 500. I expect to tie a few pairs and there might be a 790..."

"Further Analysis: You will often have to decide between a technically correct play and an anti-percentage line. Often the quality of your opponents will dictate whether you should try good bridge or sneaky bridge."

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 11, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when it is necessary to avoid arguments, for a considerable amount of trouble will follow confrontations that take place, especially between mental and mundane viewpoints.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you schedule your time well, you can handle both business and creative work ideally. Don't worry your mate about monetary matters. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Keep home ties and outside partners apart so that no arguments can arise. Take no risks while driving.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) It is best to get your work done first and later you can take care of outside interests. Avoid that tendency to drive too fast.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Don't get into expensive pleasures that you would later regret. Your mate and an expert could get into an argument.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Don't argue with close ties over some plans they do not like, but quietly go about your business and get right results.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A friend needs help but give it confidentially. Don't neglect communications that are vital to your welfare.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be loyal to generous pals and go along with them and forget practical affairs that are intricate for the time being.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Your own ideas may be quite different from those of a higher-up, but don't argue; try to compromise. Improve relationships.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Stop fretting, and get into new interests at which you can be most efficient and gain added income.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Your mate could have an argument with an outsider, but don't mix in and it will soon be over.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) An associate could be of more help to you now than a higher-up, so gain support from him or her.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) There are new interests coming into your life that should at least be studied. Listen to what a high class new contact has to suggest.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one who will have much inner conflict and will ricochet from being very extroverted at one time, and most introverted at another. Religious training could be helpful. Be very careful in disciplining, and be gentle.

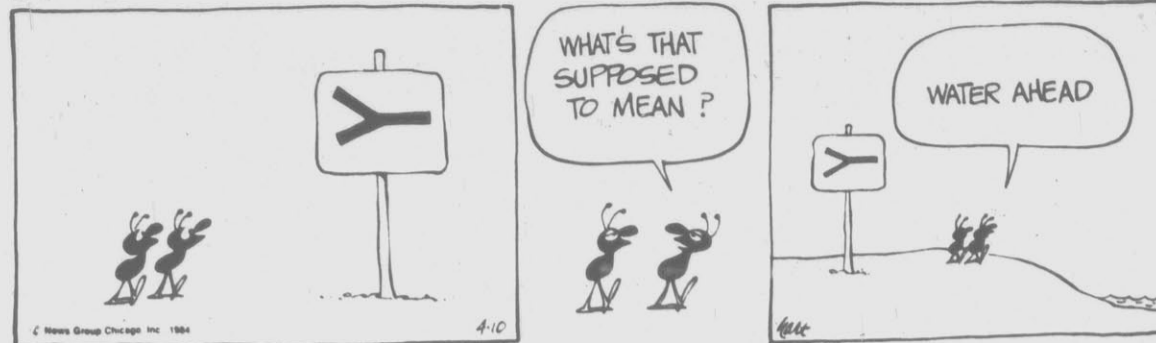

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Nine Traffic Accidents Counted On Monday

Damage estimated at $14,750 resulted from a series of nine traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Monday. Police said heaviest damage resulted from a 7:30 a.m. collision at the intersection of Memorial and Village drives, involving cars driven by Linda Person Heath of 1205 Meadowbrook Drive and Ervin James Buck of 2608 Dunn St.

Damage from the collision was set at $2,000 to the Heath car and $1,000 to the Buck vehicle.

Investigators charged Buck with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Officers said cars driven by Kathryn Denise Miller of 119G Lakeview Terrace and James Earl Jenkins of 102 Glenda St. collided about 7:38 p.m. on Fifth Street, near the Bancroft Avenue intersection, causing an estimated $1,400 damage to the Miller car and $400 damage to the Jenkins vehicle.

Police, who said Ms. Miller was injured, charged her with failing to reduce her speed enough to avoid an accident.

Esther Delinda Thompson of 110 Ervin Drive was charged with failing to yield the right of way following investigation of an 8:55 p.m. collision on Memorial Drive, 1 mile south of the Greenville Boulevard intersection.

Officers said the Thompson car collided with a vehicle driven by Lester L. Everett Jr. of 103 Ravenwood Drive, causing $1,000 damage to the Everett car and $750 damage to the Thompson vehicle.

Police said a car driven by Amy Dianne Vanscoy of 309 Stanwood Drive skidded into a second car on Greenville Boulevard, 300 feet east of the Arlington Boulevard intersection about 7:03 p.m., causing $1,500 damage to the Vanscoy vehicle.

Investigators said the second car involved in the collision left the scene.

Cars driven by Thomas Maroon

Anthony of 107 St. Andrews St. and Jacqueline Wooten Blackwell of 707 E. Gum Road collided about 1:50 p.m. at the intersection of Fifth and Lathan streets, causing $400 damage to the Anthony car and $1,000 damage to the Blackwell vehicle.

Ms. Blackwell was charged with improper registration by police.

Daniel Ray Scharf of 1115 S. Overlook Drive was charged with following too closely following investigation of a 5:07 p.m. collision on Memorial Drive, 1,000 feet south of the Belvoir Road intersection.

Investigators said the Scharf car collided with an auto driven by Arthur Earl Heath of Maury, causing an estimated $500 damage to the Heath car and $200 damage to the Scharf auto.

Investigators, who identified the Cars driven by Teresa Rhodes Whitley of 1211 Kingsbrook Road and Edward Walkinstik of 2519 Dickinson Ave. collided about 9:14 a.m. at the intersection of Third and Greene streets, injuring both drivers, officers said.

Police, who charged Walkinstik with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, estimated damage at $1,500 to the Whitley car and $500 to the Walkinstik vehicle.

Shirley Bullock Nichols of Route 4, Tarboro, was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 12:04 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Bismark Street.

Investigators, who identified the driver of the second car involved as Willie Lee Jenkins of 316 Oakgrove Ave., set damage at $800 to the Nichols car and $700 to the Jenkins auto, and said Jenkins was injured in the collision.

Cars driven by Robert Clark Avery Jr. of 22 Carriage House Apartments and Bonnie K. Heath of 207 Abby Lane collided about 1:27 p.m. at the intersection of 10th and Monroe streets, causing $400 damage to the Avery car and $700 damage to the Heath auto.

Investigators charged Ms. Heath with failing to reduce her speed enough to avoid an accident.

Took Part In Youth Exchange Day Event

More than 150 students from North Carolina and around the world participated in the North Carolina International Youth Exchange Day in Raleigh recently.

Sponsored by the University of North Carolina at Charlotte's Center for International Studies, which coordinates the North Carolina International Exchange Network and the President's Initiative on Youth Exchange, the event allowed students and host parents to receive information about exchange opportunities. There were more than 30 parents and students from 27 countries in attendance.

The students, including exchange students and those interested in future exchanges, toured legislative buildings and museums and were treated to a reception at the governor's mansion by Mrs. Carolyn Hunt.

Local participants, their addresses and high schools, included:

Martin County — Jorge Alberto Martinez Barrientos of El Salvador, Route 1, Robersonville, Roanoke High School.

Pitt County — Kirsil Arrola of Finland, Greenville, J.H. Rose High School; Pedro Gener of Spain, Greenville, J.H. Rose; Nicholas Hedstrom of Sweden, Greenville, D.H. Celebrate Media Day

Schools across the state will celebrate School Library Media Day Wednesday.

The purpose of this celebration is to draw attention to school libraries and the central part they play in the total school curriculum. Mayor Janice Buck and Dr. Delma Blinson both have cited the importance of school libraries in our community.

Greenville City Schools had a photo display at Carolina East Mall last week showing library activities in the schools. In addition, events are planned in the individual schools for this week.

Eastern Elementary School and Sadie Sauter will have displays in their libraries which the public is invited to view. Third Street and Elmhurst are designing book jackets and bookmarks. The Elmhurst Hatters will perform at the school. Wahl-Coates has had a storytelling festival which will culminate when the finalists present their stories in a school assembly Wednesday.

Students at South Greenville will do some "yarnspinning" and participate in a "Question for the Day" contest. Greenville Middle School will have several guests this week. Willie May Gibbs, Owen Kingsbury and Joanna Tyson will perform for the students.

There will be an open house at Aycock Junior High School from 9:30 a.m.-3 p.m. Wednesday.

At Rose High School, students will have the opportunity to view a videotape and see a display on computers. All the activities are open to the public.
