Council Delays Vote On Mayo Proposal For Shopping Center

By SUE HINSON
Reflector Staff Writer

The City Council has delayed action until June 14 on a proposed shopping center near Pitt County Memorial Hospital, citing the need for more information before acting on the unprecedented zoning request.

A public hearing will be held at the June 14 meeting on the zoning request submitted by Guy B. Mayo, who is seeking permission to construct the shopping center.

City Manager Gail Meeks said several members of the council wanted more information before acting on the proposal. Mayo's request calls for rezoning approximately five acres of land located near PCMH from medical arts to residential commercial.

"It's a potentially controversial situation," Greenville Mayor Janice B. Buck said. "Whatever the council decides will set a precedent for future rezoning in that area," she said.

The Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission has recommended that the council deny Mayo's request. However, proponents of the petition say that a shopping center in the area would serve the needs of the hospital area including employees and visitors to the medical complex.

Opponents cite erosion of the medical district development plan that was adopted in 1975. The plan called for the property involved in the Mayo request to be used for medical and medical support uses with limited industrial development clustered at surrounding intersections.

In other business, the council approved an ordinance prohibiting the use of flashing or blinking lighted signs in all areas of Greenville. Signs currently in use, however, will be allowed to remain, according to Planning and Zoning Commission Director Bobby Roberson.

Signs exempt from the ruling include traffic signals, railroad crossing signals, time and temperature signs, board signs like the East Carolina University information structure on Greenville Boulevard and other warning or regulatory signs, Roberson said.

HOTLINE

Hotline gets things done. Write and tell us about the problem or issue into which you'd like for Hotline to look. Enclose photostatic copies of any pertinent information. Our address is The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C., 27835. Because of the large numbers received, Hotline cannot answer or publish every item we receive, but we deal with all of those for which we have staff time. Names must be given, but only initials will be published.

CANDYSTRIPE INVITED

Greenville Villa Nursing Home has asked Hotline to appeal for volunteers to participate in its summer Candystripe program. Young people are invited to give as many hours as each would like each week interacting with residents of the nursing home — assisting with recreational and other activities. A Candystriper meeting will be held May 26 at 10 a.m. in the dining hall of the nursing home. For more information call Terry Fuller, 758-4121, any weekday between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. All ages will be interviewed, Ms. Fuller said.

HUMBER HOUSE KNOWLEDGE ASKED

Local citizens are asked to participate in the compilation of a history of the Robert Lee Humber house.

Located at 117 W. Fifth St., the house, now used as the Eastern Office of the N.C. Division of Archives and History, was the home of Dr. Robert Lee Humber, international lawyer, former state senator, patron of the arts and one of those instrumental in the founding of the North Carolina Museum of Art. It was placed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1981.

Carpenters, electricians, masons, decorators and others who worked on the house over the years are asked to call Diane Hankins, Eastern Office of the Division of Archives and History secretary, 752-7778. Specially needed are photographs of the house (interior and exterior) and grounds, and information on the past uses of the small building at the rear property lines. Photos and documentary materials will be returned.

Attorney Indicted

A Pitt County Grand Jury has returned a nine-count bill of indictment against Garry Thomas Pegram, a local attorney, charging him with embezzlement, corporate malfeasance and false pretenses, in connection with alleged actions last February.

The embezzlement counts allege that Pegram, a partner in the law firm of Pegram and Hahn, P.A., wrote two checks — $25,000 on Feb. 9 and $2,000 on Feb. 10 — for trust funds held by the firm and converted the money to his own use.

The funds, according to the indictment, belonged to 18 individuals and one corporation.

The indictment also charges Pegram with attempting to embezzle $30,000 by writing a check for trust account funds on Feb. 15.

The corporate malfeasance charge resulted from the check-writing incidents, while the three false pretense counts charge Pegram with obtaining $25,000 credit from Branch Banking and Trust Co. on Feb. 9, $2,000 credit from BB&T on 10 Feb., and attempting to obtain $30,000 credit from BB&T on Feb. 15, by depositing the checks to his personal account.

Pegram, 39, of 202 Jamestown Road, had practiced law in Greenville for about 10 years before he was arrested by the State Bureau of Investigation in connection with the case Feb. 18.

The Pittsboro native was released under a $30,000 bond following his arrest.

Inflation Rate Holds Line At 4.4 Percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices held flat in April, ending four months of increases, the government said today. The sharpest food price decline since June offset the only gasoline price gain in nine months.

Today's report showed that, for the first four months of 1984, inflation at the wholesale level was running at an annual rate of 4.4 percent, in line with analysts' predictions that, for the full year, the rate will be 4.5 percent to 5 percent.

The 2.9 percent boost in gasoline prices had been expected by industry analysts who point to increased consumption but diminished refinery capacity.

Not since the summer has the Labor Department's Producer Price Index for finished goods recorded an increase in gasoline prices.

Offsetting that, however, was the good news on food prices.

Wholesale vegetable costs plummeted a sharp 26.1 percent. Fresh fruit prices tumbled 8.2 percent while beef and veal prices were off 2.8 percent.

Fish prices fell 3.4 percent after soaring 30.2 percent in March as fishing off the Northeast coast was slowed sharply by bad weather.

In a separate report, the Commerce Department said retail sales rebounded sharply in April, rising 2.9 percent to wipe out a March decline that had been one of the biggest in recent years.

As for wholesale prices, natural gas costs recorded their steepest increase, 1.7 percent, since March 1983. But fuel oil prices, reflecting the end of the winter heating season, plunged 9.2 percent.

The energy price increases lag a month behind the other wholesale price calculations as energy companies make their reports too late for inclusion in the current tabulation.

Wholesale prices overall had risen 0.5 percent in March, 0.4 percent in February and 0.6 percent in January. Prices rose a tiny 0.6 percent in 1983, their best showing in two decades, after advancing 3.7 percent in 1982.

The wholesale price index measures month-to-month changes in the prices paid to producers for food, energy products and other items. The prices American consumers actually pay — usually to retailers — are measured by the Consumer Price Index. The producer price measure often gives a good idea where those consumer prices are heading.

Detailing last month's price activity, the Labor Department said:

— Food prices overall were down 0.6 percent.

Egg prices shot up 18.6 percent, reversing the 18.5 percent drop in March. Pork prices rose 8.7 percent, reversing a March decline. Poultry prices edged up 0.4 percent, a moderation from the previous month's increase.

Rouse, Johnson Challenge Votes

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Jim Rouse, a candidate for the Greenville Township seat on the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, has asked for a runoff with incumbent Charles Gaskins, who was the top vote-getter in Tuesday's primary, and Tom Johnson, the third-place finisher in the race, has requested a new primary.

Board of Elections officials said this morning that Rouse requested a runoff, suggesting that the votes cast for disqualified candidate Frank Grooms should be counted as a part of the total vote in figuring a majority.

Johnson's request for a second primary cites Grooms' ineligibility to seek the Greenville Township commissioner's seat, suggesting Grooms' name was on the ballot due to an error and saying a new primary should be held between the three eligible candidates.

The Board of Elections Tuesday disqualified Grooms, even as balloting in the race was under way, because he is a resident of Winterville township.

Elections board chairman Clifton Everett Jr. said Thursday that the Board of Elections would follow the opinion of the N.C. attorney general's office that votes cast for Grooms not be counted when figuring the majority needed to determine the election.

Gaskins received 7,422 votes, while Rouse got 4,190 votes. Johnson followed with 2,256 and Grooms placed fourth with 1,689.

(Please turn to page 21)

Primary Results Checked

Relatively few corrections were made in The Daily Reflector's unofficial vote totals reported Wednesday as a result of the Board of Elections' official canvass Thursday of votes cast in the May 8 primary.

Democratic presidential hopeful Reubin Askew received a total of 36 votes, rather than the 45 reported Wednesday, while the official "no preference" total was 1,078 rather than the 1,068 reported.

In the Democratic gubernatorial contest, Andy Barker received 6,688 votes rather than the 6,685 reported by the Reflector, while Eric Little, in his bid for the Republican lieutenant governor's nomination, received only 31 votes, rather than the unofficial 51.

In the Democratic race for nomination as commissioner of labor, Don Wiseman took 1,253 votes CHORAL FESTIVAL — Winterville High student Bernadette Daniels gives emphasis to the last words of "O Bone Jesu," one of the songs sung by area high school students at the Pitt County Choral Festival held at Farmville Central this week. More than 300 students from North Pitt, Farmville Central, D.H. Conley and Ayden-Grifton high schools participated in the annual event. Following performances by each school's choral group, the students joined into one chorus and sang together. Pitt Community College visiting artist Phillip Evancho and Jerry Jolly, minister of music at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, led the students in musical workshops.

Bryant-Tillman Vows Said On Saturday

Angela Marie Tillman and Johnny Wilson Bryant Jr. were married Saturday at 3 p.m. in the Live Oak Free Will Baptist Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Nathan Darden.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Odell Tillman Jr. of Route 1, Grifton. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Maggie Bryant of Route 2, Grifton.

Tearser Styles of Grifton, sister of the bride, was honor attendant and bridesmaids included Doris Moore of Grifton, sister of the bridegroom, Sherlene Skinner of Kinston, aunt of the bride, and Cynthia Hicks of Ayden.

Latasha Willis of Grifton, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl and the ring bearer was Nathan Darden Jr. of Grifton.

Clifton Gray, uncle of the bridegroom, Don Gray, cousin of the bridegroom, and Jeffrey Tillman, brother of the bride, were ushers. The best man was Elvis Gray, uncle of the bridegroom. All are from Grifton.

Samuel King was organist for the ceremony and Edna Brock was soloist.

The bride wore a floor length dress made of sheer organza and ivory satin. The gown was styled with a princess bodice with a piped waistline and detachable train. The waistline was accented by a satin cummerbund. A sheer jacket with a front keyhole opening and ruffle lace sleeves complemented the gown. She carried a bouquet of pink and ivory silk flowers and lavender mums.

Candles were lighted by Juan Skinner and Anthony Elbert.

The couple will live near Grifton.

The bride is a graduate of Ayden-Grifton High School and Lenoir Community College. She works at Belk's Hair Salon in Greenville. The bridegroom is a graduate of North Lenoir High School and is employed by Cox Trailers of Grifton.

A reception was held after the ceremony in the church dining hall and was given by Agnes Miller and Irma Skinner.

The bride was honored at a bridal shower and miscellaneous shower prior to the wedding.

ROAST RACK OF LAMB
8-rib rack of lamb, in one piece (about 2 1/4 pounds)
Salt and pepper

- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1/4 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- 2 tablespoons parsley leaves, minced
- 1 clove garlic, minced

Have butcher trim fat from surface of the meat and saw or crack about 1 inch from the bottom between each rib for ease in carving.

With a knife, gently push down the meat between the tops of the ribs, leaving about 1 inch bone exposed.

Line a 13 by 9 by 2-inch roasting pan with foil. Place the rack of lamb in the roasting pan, lying flat and meat side down; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Roast on the middle rack of a preheated 500-degree oven for about 15 minutes; leave oven control at 500 degrees.

In a small skillet, melt butter. Off heat, stir in bread crumbs, parsley and garlic. Remove pan from the oven, turn lamb over and spread the meat side with crumb mixture. Return pan to oven and roast lamb about 10 minutes longer.

Carve rack of lamb by cutting off each rib at the table. Or, carve rack in the kitchen and arrange on a heated serving platter.

Makes 4 servings.

Note: These directions yield well-done ribs at end of roast and medium-rare ribs at the center.

Consider His Taste In Buying Man's Clothing

NEW YORK (AP) — A woman who buys clothing for a man should purchase it in the color and style he likes rather than buy something she thinks will look good on him, advises an expert in the field.

"Many women are color and style blind when they buy for males," says Marvin A. Blumenfeld, president of a merchandising consulting firm that represents more than 250 men's stores around the country. "They think that men's clothing for the most part is too conservative and traditional and lacks imagination. They believe that the average man has not developed the discerning eye for color and style in fashion that a woman has."

Blumenfeld, head of April-Marcus Inc., says that this preconceived notion on the part of women is the major reason that men return so many of the gifts they receive from the opposite sex.

"What women fail to realize," says Blumenfeld, "is that every person regardless of sex has a very good idea of what color and style looks best on him or her. When you tell a man who feels most comfortable in a white shirt that he should wear pink or yellow ones because they'll 'liven up his staid appearance' he'll not only disagree but he'll probably get annoyed because he's in effect being told that he doesn't know how to dress."

Blumenfeld says that a woman who attempts to get her man to dress differently has taken on a difficult assignment.

"A man dresses the way he does for one of three reasons or a combination of all three of them," says the clothing expert. "The reasons are that he thinks he looks his best in the suits and sports outfits he wears; he feels comfortable in them; they are right for his lifestyle."

The real secret of buying for a man, Blumenfeld points out, is sticking to standard items.

"For instance," he says, "every man, no matter what his taste or line of work, will have use for a white shirt. The same goes for a navy blue tie or a blue tie with white dots. A sweater in blue or gray is also a good bet as well as such items as black gloves, a blue or red muffler and tennis shirts in white, blue or beige."

"However," warns Blumenfeld, "if a woman wants to buy a more expensive item such as a suit or a coat for a man, she'll do a lot better if she asks him to come along."

"Although his presence will obviously take her gift out of the surprise category, it will be a much more practical way to guarantee that he's getting something that he likes; that will fit; that he will enjoy wearing and will not have to be returned."

Literally the hottest states in the United States are Arizona, Texas, Florida and Nevada, according to Rand McNally's "Places Rated Retirement Guide." Austin, Texas, and Orlando, Fla., for example, both have more than 100 days a year when the temperature is 90 degrees or higher with an average relative humidity of more than 65 percent, says the guide. It says four places have more than 130 90-degree days a year: Las Vegas, 131; Phoenix, 164; Tucson, 139, and Yuma, Ariz., 168. All four, however, average less than 40 percent relative humidity.

China produces more than half the world's silk. More than 10 million Chinese farmers raise silkworms.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

She Discovers Love For Kids Is Part Time

DEAR ABBY: After waiting for over five years to adopt a child, my husband and I became the proud parents of a 3-month-old baby girl. Everything was wonderful for the first month, then reality set in and I began to realize how much I had to give up for an infant. My husband and I had been married for over 10 years and were accustomed to coming and going as we pleased. Maybe at 35 I was already too set in my ways.

I was used to baby-sitting kids in my home for the last three years, but they always went home at the end of the day, and I had my evenings and weekends to myself.

I began to resent the baby for taking away all my free time and ruining my night's sleep. I became angry and resentful when she cried or fussed. My husband was no help at all. At times, I felt myself slipping out of control, and I worried that I might even hurt the baby.

When my social worker came to check on the baby, I became hysterical, broke down and admitted I couldn't handle being a mother 24 hours a day. The baby was removed from our home and I was told that not every woman is "cut out" for motherhood. I feel like a failure.

My main concern is what to do with all the baby furniture and clothing. Most of her clothes have never been worn because she didn't grow into them. Please hurry your answer. I can't stand to see all these things around.

NEEDS YOUR HELP

DEAR NEEDS: Your local welfare department can surely find a needy family who will welcome the baby furniture and clothing. Please call it immediately. And don't feel that you are a failure. Your social worker was right. Not every woman is cut out to be a mother.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I both have the same problem. I just had a set of dentures made (this is the second pair made by the same dentist), and I hate them! They are so dark and dingy I try not to smile. I've seen dazzling white teeth on TV and that's the kind I want.

My husband has worn his dentures for six years, and he also wants a set that dazzles. The dentist who made my husband's set and now is making mine refuses to make us the teeth that dazzle. He says they will look artificial and ridiculous.

My husband and I don't care. If our teeth look artificial and ridiculous, it will be our problem, not the dentist's. We told him this, and he said it will be his problem because he will be ashamed if anyone knew he made them for us.

Abby, what should we do? Money is no problem. Should we stick with this dentist or go elsewhere? He has been our dentist for years, but we can't seem to get anywhere with him.

WE'LL NEVER SMILE AGAIN
DEAR NEVER: Tell the dentist that if he will make you the kind of teeth you want, you promise not to tell anyone who made them. If he refuses, find another dentist.

DEAR ABBY: I have been a flight attendant for a major airline for 16 years. I have seen a lot of unusual things happen, but I am sick to death of the number of mothers breast-feeding their walking, talking, very large children! It doesn't even matter where they are sitting; they just do it right in front of everyone! (I'm not talking about women from another culture, either.)

I object because I, as a flight attendant, am forced to interact with the mother-child situation as I am conducting my beverage, cocktail and meal service.

I don't care what people do in their own homes, but please, mothers, on an airplane, take your child to the lavatory or feed your child before you get on the plane.

COFFEE, TEA OR WATER—NO MILK, PLEASE!

(If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 (this includes postage) to: Abby, (Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Junior Women Have Installation

The Greenville Junior Woman's Club held its annual installation and awards dinner Wednesday evening at the Greenville Country Club. Becky Taylor is the new president.

BECKY TAYLOR

She will be assisted by Lydia Hayes, first vice president; Holly Edwards, second vice president; Linda Barnes, secretary; Rose Skinner, treasurer; Jackie Carson and Cindy Carter, co-editors. Margaret Hester, District 15 president and member of the Washington Woman's Club, was installing officer.

The new president teaches special education at Greenville Middle School. She is married to Donnie Taylor and they have a son, Wesley, 2. They attend the First Free Will Baptist Church. She was first vice president last year and has served as membership chairman and on ways and means. Mrs. Taylor was chairman of the Home Life Department during 1982-83 and received the outstanding department chairman's award the same year.

Jackie Carson received the president's award and the Basnight-Whichard Award went to Kathy Hunnings. Dianne Jevicky was named winner of the Nancy Gustafson Award and Rose Skinner received the Dean Fuqua Award. The Crawford-Hunnings Community Service Award went to Gayle Sterken. Mrs. Taylor was named Miss Congeniality.

Special guests were Florence Holt, who will be the club advisor for the coming year, and Dot Harrigan, outgoing advisor. Each was remembered with a gift. Other guests included Julie Everette, Nancy Meek and Jan Kimble.

Jana Gurganus, outgoing president, and Mary Shearin, who represented the club on the state level as junior editor, were also remembered with gifts. Mrs. Gurganus was also given a past president's pin.

The joint board meeting will be held May 23 at the home of Mrs. Gurganus. Incoming, outgoing officers and chairmen will attend.

The Champions Win Occasionally

Happy Coincidence

A happy set of circumstances emerged early this week when Dr. Delma Blinson, superintendent of the Greenville schools, realized a goal of returning to the teaching profession and, coincidentally, opened a door to easing the potential transition to merging city and county school systems.

Dr. Blinson submitted his resignation to be effective Jan. 1, 1985, and accepted an appointment on the East Carolina University faculty immediately following termination of his duties as superintendent.

School Board chairman Jack Wall announced the board will delay seeking a replacement until mid-summer, to determine what direction will be taken on the issue of merging city and county school systems. "If there is no decision to merge by that time," said Wall, "we will begin a search and employment process."

That prospect not only permits time for decision-making (it's been on the back-burner for a long time), but also holds out a freedom from rivalry on naming a superintendent of a combined system.

Clearly, the Blinson resignation carries with it a signal for action.

We are pleased Dr. Blinson and his family will continue to be members of the Greenville community. We are happy he is achieving a role he has dreamed (a return to teaching) for 15 years.

His role as school superintendent in Greenville has been a great asset for our families and for our schools; we trust the university will similarly treasure him.

Near The Bottom

An interesting summary of findings in a UNC-Chapel Hill psychologist's study of tenured professors with outstanding reputations as teachers appeared this week.

Dr. Joseph Lowman found a common quality: each had the ability to hold a class almost spellbound.

They could subtly create excitement and promote rapport ... they were also masters of the English language and could convince listeners they were hearing the greatest story ever told ... imparting motivation and enthusiasm for learning that might last through students' lives.

Lowman noted "attention given the wrong indicators of good teaching," saying, "It is a sad commentary on contemporary higher education that among the varied arenas for achievement open to faculty — scholarship, grant-getting, consulting or administration — classroom teaching ranks in importance near the bottom for many."

He has a point, there.

Press Offers Counter Views

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — After years of censorship and state control of the news media, a lively opposition press has emerged in Egypt, offering a range of news and political opinion unparalleled in most of the Arab world.

Four days a week, Egyptians can buy the latest issue of one of four weeklies published by legal opposition parties whose views range from free-enterprise conservative to pro-Soviet socialist.

Opposition party weeklies frequently lampoon government officials, in particular Prime Minister Fuad Mohieddin; ridicule Egypt's close ties to the United States, or parade the state's latest failures to deliver on promises of better housing and social programs.

Although none of the four opposition weeklies has a circulation even close to that of the three major, state-owned morning daily newspapers, individual copies are passed among friends or relatives through unofficial distribution networks.

Frayed copies of Al-Wafd, Al-

Ahali, Al-Shaab and Al-Ahrrar can be found on coffee house tables or office desks throughout Cairo and Alexandria, the country's largest cities.

The combined circulation of all four weeklies comes to around 500,000 compared with 750,000 each for Al-Akhbar, and Al-Ahram and 400,000 for Al-Gomhuria, the three major state-owned dailies.

Still, Egyptians frequently trade stories of the latest opposition cartoons, and news reports which appear in opposition papers but not in state-owned dailies help fuel rumor mills in the capital. Egyptians who don't support the parties say they still read their newspapers because they find the fare refreshingly different.

"Our first aim is to give people reliable information, because we know that the newspapers owned by the government do not give people real and complete information about domestic issues or the Arab world," said Hussein Abdel-Razik, editor of Al-Ahali, published by the pro-

WASHINGTON — It hasn't happened very often since I Samuel 17, but it happened the other day in a U.S. District Court here in Washington: David slew Goliath and for the time being, at least, put the Philistines to rout.

The David of this story is the National Right to Work Legal Defense and Education Foundation. The United Auto Workers and nine other international unions filled the role of Goliath. What the foundation's victory means, in brief, is that it is now free to continue its legal efforts in support of individual workers who resent the tyranny of the union shop.

The story began almost exactly 11 years ago, when the UAW and its cohort filed what their attorneys called "the largest multi-union lawsuit ever filed." The unions' object never was disguised: The object was to destroy the pestiferous Right to Work Legal Defense and Education Foundation, and thus rid itself of a litigious nuisance that was getting to be a serious pain in the neck.

The foundation's principal reason for existence lies in situations that are all too common across the country. A labor union wins a collective bargaining election in a particular plant. The union proceeds swiftly to impose a union shop. Under a union shop, all workers in a bargaining unit must become members of the union (or pay an agency fee) or lose their jobs.

To ardent defenders of trade unionism, the union shop is an altogether justifiable device: It solves the problem of the non-union "free rider" who accepts all the benefits of a union-negotiated contract but proposes to pay nothing toward the union's expenses.

To ardent defenders of individual freedom, the union shop is a form of tyranny not far removed from involuntary servitude. These non-union workers did not ask for union "benefits." They heartily resent paying dues for political activities unrelated to collective bargaining. They reel at the idea of paying tribute to union bosses.

On this plain of battle, the individual worker — a teacher in one case, a telephone company worker in another — undertakes to sue the appropriate union. The worker's resources are limited. He appeals to the national foundation for help, and David steps into action.

For some years prior to 1983, the unions sought to ignore the national foundation. It was a case of "Go away, kid, ya bother me." Finally the annoyance became unbearable and the mammoth suit was filed. Ten years of motions, counter-motions, interrogatories, discoveries and legal maneuvering ensued. For a long time David seemed to be losing. At one point in 1974, District Judge Charles Richey ordered the foundation to disclose the names of 190 business contributors. The foundation fought at every step of the way to protect the privacy of its contributors in the same way that such organizations as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People have protected the names of their supporters.

At long last the case boiled down to a single issue: Do interested employers "control" the foundation's activities? On April 19 Judge Richey handed down a summary judgment in the foundation's favor.

The plaintiff unions, he said, had not presented "a single fact" to show that employers control the foundation's litigation decisions.

"Despite the many depositions that plaintiffs have taken," he wrote, "they have still failed to show one instance of interested employer control or participation in the litigation program decision-making process."

Barring an improbable reversal on appeal — improbable because Judge Richey precisely tracked the orders of the U.S. Circuit for the District of Columbia — the national foundation now is assured its rightful status as a bona fide legal aid organization. Eleven years after it all began, with probably half a million dollars expended in resisting the unions' lawsuit, the foundation can go back to giving its full-time attention to the little guys in the labor market. Down in the metaphorical Valley of Elah, our champions don't win many, but they do win a few.

Clark Wants Back In The White House

WASHINGTON — Before the presidential campaign is even fully under way, Republican conservatives are plotting to control a second Reagan term by moving Interior Secretary William Clark back to the White House early next year as chief of staff.

Clark, indubitably Ronald Reagan's oldest political and personal ally, appeared to signal his own interest in returning to the White House with his private pledge to the president: Use me as much as you possibly can in your campaign; I'm rarin' to go!

That word from the former California Supreme Court justice looked to Reagan's political aides like an announcement of boredom now that Clark has removed Interior from the line of political fire. White House chief of staff James Baker III, not beloved of conservative Reaganites, would like a Cabinet post, not another four years in the White House.

The Voice of American foiled at least part of the Chinese decision to censor President Reagan's criticism of the Soviet Union by transmitting the president's speech in full during the Voice's regular 12-hour-a-day Chinese broadcasting.

Although the Voice cannot reach the estimated several hundred million Chinese video watchers who might have been expected to hear Reagan's censored speech on the single, national TV network, it has an audience of at least 20 million, possibly far higher.

Communist China does not try to jam Voice broadcasts or, as far as the U.S. knows, discourage listening. Reagan ordered aides to downplay their anger at the last-minute Chinese censorship — which, in fact, may have benefited his election-year political gains from the trip.

New Republican polls show that conservative Republican Sen. Jesse Helms has forged 5 percentage points ahead of Democratic Gov. Jim Hunt in the torrid North Carolina Senate race, an election Democrats must win to have any chance for recapturing Senate control in 1984.

Helms has been steadily gaining ground on Hunt since late 1982 polls showed him trailing by over 20 percentage points. His latest burst followed a new batch of commercials picturing Hunt as a liberal.

The governor has disappointed some supporters by moving a little to the right to counter Helms. But national Democratic strategists believe Hunt has no hope if he lets Helms brand him as a liberal.

Behind the unexpected endorsement of Walter Mondale by Texas Democratic fateat Jess Hay just before Saturday's (May 5) Texas presidential caucuses was the making of a deal to help Sen. John Glenn retire his towering $3 million campaign debt.

Hay, a money-raising wizard who backed Glenn early and hard, had entertained former President Jimmy Carter as his weekend guest in Dallas not long before the caucuses. Carter drew on his friendship with Hay to encourage his Mondale endorsement, hinting at help by both Mondale and himself on paying off Glenn's debt.

Hay decided to go along with Carter despite his close friendship with Sen. Gary Hart, on grounds that even if Hart did unexpectedly win in the Texas caucuses, he had no chance to win the nomination.

For the first time since the calamitous failure of his Lebanese policy, Secretary of State George Shultz is sporting an air of self-confidence and optimism that convinces his top aides that he wants to remain in office for a second term.

That view is concurred in by the top-level Secretariat, the small group of anonymous officials that runs the Secretary's diplomatic and housekeeping office.

One reason: the political success, in Shultz's view, of the president's state visit to China. But Shultz's wife, Obie, still wants to take the man she loves out of the Washington maelstrom and into a line of work that will give them more time together. If Shultz does not stay, UN Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick is the hottest long-shot successor.

Strength For Today

The Swiss have an old adage, "God never lets the trees grow so tall that they touch the sky." By which is meant that when people become haughty and arrogant and use other people and their own prowess to feed their vanity, God will stop them somewhere short of their selfish goals.

Of course, every person needs self-respect. A most important source of this quality is living in such a way that one's life contributes something valued and needed by society. But there is a great difference between self-respect and pride. The "proud" person proclaims that his abilities are far greater than people know them to be. Everyone who has that sense of confidence which accompanies self-respect should examine himself to find out whether or not it has the corrupting elements of pride.

Neither trees or men ever grow so tall that they reach the sky.

AT&T Embraces Order To Cut Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Far from protesting, American Telephone & Telegraph Co. is publicly embracing a federal order to reduce its long-distance charges by about $1.7 billion a year — a rate reduction of about 6.1 percent for U.S. customers.

The first such reduction in 14 years was ordered Thursday by the Federal Communications Commission, with May 25 as the target for rates to decline.

AT&T spokesman Pic Wagner said, "We welcome the commission's action, which enables us to cut long-distance rates. This is something we've wanted to do for a long time."

Lower rates, which require this federal approval, could allow AT&T to step up its competition with such relatively new long-distance challengers as MCI and GTE-Sprint.

Those companies' rates to consumers are not controlled by the FCC.

Thursday's order, billed as "a landmark decision" by FCC Chairman Mark Fowler, contained other major provisions, some of which would help AT&T make up some of the revenue that might be lost through the rate reduction. These provisions included:

—A reduction of 8.5 percent — about $700 million a year — in AT&T "access-charge" payments to local phone companies for use of their lines for long-distance calls. There would also be an associated reduction of nearly $100 million for other long-distance companies' payments.

—New charges of as much as $6 per month per line to businesses with more than one telephone line. Those payments would be to the local companies. An earlier decision was confirmed to put off a local-use fee of $2 per month for individuals and families with just one line.

—Permission for AT&T to charge 50 cents for long-distance directory-assistance calls — after two free calls a month — a provision the commission estimated would bring AT&T about $140 million a year.

The FCC made no move to change current rules under which AT&T's long-distance competitors pay less than AT&T for using local telephone lines — an inaction Wagner said his company was disappointed to see.

He said he couldn't estimate how much the new order would save AT&T customers, since that will depend on how many calls an individual, family or business makes.

On a monthly bill of $20, however, 6.1 percent savings would be $1.22; on a bill of $50, it would be $3.05.

The decision was criticized by Sam Simon, director of the Telecommunications Research and Action Center, who contended the savings won't be felt by most residential telephone users. "Only 25 percent of consumers are likely to save anything from this," he said.

Simon also suggested that the 8.5 percent reduction in the fees local telephone companies charge long-distance firms could force increases in local rates.

Precedent For Damage Claims

Judge Holds Government To Blame In Fallout Cases

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — In the first ruling to hold the U.S. government responsible for fallout damage from atomic testing, a judge condemned the failure to give simple advice — like "wash everything" — to people who later suffered cancer.

The decision, arising from above-ground nuclear blasts at the Nevada Test Site from 1951 to 1962, ordered the government to pay $2.1 million in nine cancer cases. Damages in a 10th are to be decided later.

The ruling also is expected to set a precedent for settling hundreds of other claims of radiation-induced cancer.

U.S. District Judge Bruce Jenkins found the government negligent, rejecting arguments that monitoring was sufficient and that all precautions known by the early 1950s to be necessary were taken.

Instead, he said, government publications were "consistently heavy with confident reassurances" that the fallout dissipated as it moved downwind. One pamphlet showed a cowboy on a horse, watching a blast in the distance.

"There is nothing frightening about being told to wash one's self with plenty of soap and water and one's clothing in a hot-water wash with Tide (or whatever) a time or two in minimizing the chance of damaging exposure," Jenkins wrote in the 489-page decision issued Thursday.

Appeals, both by the government and on behalf of 14 cases dismissed as not being clearly tied to radiation, were considered likely.

But downwind residents found vindication for their lengthy battle to have the government held responsible.

"All I wanted was to draw attention to the pain this caused. I never expected any money," said Lorna C. Bruhn of St. George, Utah, awarded $400,000 for the death of her husband to leukemia. "All I wanted was for no one else to ever have to go through this pain."

Among people who lived downwind of the Nevada Test Site during the open air tests from 1951 and 1962, 1,192 plaintiffs brought suit involving 375 cancer cases.

Jenkins deliberated for 17 months after hearing evidence on 24 cases he considered representative of different types of cancer. He expects the cases he considered to provide guidelines for settling the other claims.

Federal spokesmen in Salt Lake City and Washington said they would not comment until the decision has been studied.

Jenkins awarded damages in eight cases of leukemia, one of breast cancer and one of thyroid cancer.

Much of the mammoth ruling, which provided a primer in physics, dealt with the difficulty of assessing which cancers likely were due to radiation.

But the condemnation of the government was unambiguous.

"Many people were exposed to more radiation, and greater risk than ever needed to be," Jenkins wrote. "At the most fundamental level, the government's failure to educate, to inform and to warn deprived those people of an opportunity to protect themselves."

He said the government could have advised people "at risk to do the simple things learned in prior Pacific experiments."

Zeroing in on government pamphlets, Jenkins said:

"When in doubt, 'wash everything' seems like advice far more consistent with minimizing exposures than the advice given. 'When in doubt, call the monitors or the test site.'"

"The pamphlet doesn't even provide telephone numbers," he wrote.

Attorney Ralph Hunsaker, of the plaintiffs' lawyers, said some clients felt they were betrayed by their government.

"They were told, 'Don't worry about it, you'll be safe. In several instances, they were invited outside to look at the pretty flash in the sky,'" he said.

Jacqueline Sanders, a 38-year-old mother of six who survived thyroid cancer and was awarded $100,000, said, "I don't think the monetary awards — which may or may not be awarded — matter when compared to the issue."

"They're still testing (underground) in Nevada and they still wait for the winds to be blowing over Utah."

GOP Gets $5 Million At Dinner

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 3,000 Republicans paid $1,500 each for an elegant dinner with President Reagan and replenished GOP election coffers to the tune of nearly $5 million.

The event occurred Thursday night in a packed ballroom in a hotel surrounded two and three deep by black limousines. It led former Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis to quip: "Walter Mondale may have the beef, but we have the bread."

Dressed in black tie, the president chose the occasion of the annual Senate-House Republican dinner to maintain that his 25 percent cut in income tax rates soaked the rich more than the poor. Democrats have always contended the tax cuts were unfair to the poor.

In fact, Reagan said, the tax cuts shifted a greater percentage of the tax burden to the rich.

"Today, our tax code is fairer than it was under the Carter-Mondale administration," the president said. He did not mention that he has ordered a study group to recommend by the end of the year a plan of income tax simplification.

In 1982, Reagan said, people with incomes of less than $20,000 a year paid 10 percent less in tax revenues than the year before.

Those with incomes between of $50,000 and up, he said, contributed 8 percent more to total tax revenues.

"And to go one step further, and narrow that group down to those earning $500,000 and up, the share of taxes paid by them increased by a whopping 41 percent."

Reagan, who is seeking a second term in the White House, said his strategy will be to run on his record. A Rose Garden strategy, he said, was a sure winner "if all you want is the horticulture vote."

The menu for the dinner included kiwi and strawberries, salad with raspberry vinaigrette, beef and lamb mignon, carrots au berre, pommes frites pont neuf, artichoke bottoms, and souffle Grand Marnier with hot fudge sauce and crushed macaroons.

'1776' Has All Needed To Interest

Ayden Theater Workshop's "1776" has what it takes for a good evening's entertainment: toe-tapping Revolutionary music, a dream to follow, and just enough insults to pique the interest. Insults to our North Carolina, whose Continental Congressman does whatever South Carolina says; to our forefathers (we'd rather see them as the respectable men we thought they were); and to women.

While the men are characterized according to their varying tendencies toward pride, rum, stubbornness, idealism, illness, profit, or a fondness for fried chicken, the women in the play either, so to speak, fish or cut bait. In a play for 23 men and 2 women, the women, especially Abigail Adams, should count mightily.

"1776," at its worst, is a series of cheap shots and anecdotes made worthwhile by a few outstanding performances. Al Trader is an astonishingly effective Ben Franklin. There is some fine singing by Jeff Krantz, Darryl Mitchell and Heide Lane.

And contrary to the play-long joke, Michael Culp as John Adams is not the obnoxious or disliked agitator he'd have us think, but a passionate believer in believing; what he agitates is the performance. There are only two creatures of any value, according to Adams, those with commitment and those who require the commitment of others.

To follow Culp through the sometimes tedious chamber scenes, past the cane-stomping, fly-swatting rum swigging members of the Continental Congress, finally to reach the well orchestrated ending, is to be rewarded with his soul: "Is anybody out there? Does anybody care? Does anybody see what I see?"

In that moment, director Doug Mitchell brings us "1776" at its very best.

Pope Takes Verbal Swing At Communists

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Pope John Paul II visited a refugee camp today and then lashed out at Communist Indochina, blaming government persecution for the mass exodus from Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

After he spoke to 3,500 refugees at the camp, about 55 miles outside of Bangkok, he returned to the capital, where in speech prepared for delivery to government leaders, diplomats and clergy, he sharply denounced the Communist regimes.

"It is something repugnant and abnormal for hundreds of thousands of human beings to have to leave their own countries because of their race, ethnic origin, political convictions or religion, or because they are in danger of violence or even death from civil strife or political turmoil," the pope said in prepared remarks.

Refugees, he said, have a "right to go back to their roots, to return to their native land."

More than 1 million refugees have fled the three Southeast Asian nations since communist forces triumphed there in 1975.

While he was at the refugee camp, a papal message was being beamed to Vietnam from Radio Veritas, the Catholic station in the Philippines. The pope prayed, the message said, that Catholics in Vietnam "will always have practical opportunities for professing and living your faith."

John Paul, in Thailand on his last day of a tour of Asia and the South Pacific, urged nations to help alleviate an "immense" refugee problem.

"The sad lot of these courageous and unfortunate people cannot be ignored by the international community. Indeed the conscience of humanity must be made ever more aware of the evils of the situation," the pope said.

He spoke of his visit to the camp housing 18,000 refugees at Phanat Nikhom. Looking "into the faces of so many suffering human beings" was "a particularly moving experience for me," John Paul said.

At the camp, a 63-year-old Laotian man asked the pope to help the thousands of refugees find permanent homes.

"My heart goes out to you," said the pope told the refugees, his voice cracking with emotion. "Never forget your identity as free people who have a rightful place in the world."

His speech, delivered in English, was translated into Vietnamese, Cambodian and Laotian. The pope also presented a $50,000 check for the camp hospital, which is run by a Thai Catholic relief organization. The camp is operated by Thailand and the United Nations.

The Laotian man, identified as Khampoui Douangphouxa, told the pope: "We have prayed for a long time for this visit, and your presence here brings to all refugees the hope that those who have been persecuted for several years because of their fight for freedom will not be further delayed here."

Status At $7

NEW YORK (AP) — The latest status symbol from one of Manhattan's trendiest department stores comes in an elegant silver package, costs a mere $7, is 100,000 years old — and can be used to cool 12-year-old scotch.

It is ice. Bloomingdale's this week introduced 35-ounce bags of imported ice chips culled from a 100,000-year-old glacier in Greenland. The store claims its "Glazonice" is the oldest and purest ice on earth.

"They're selling like hotcakes," said Sellers Washington, who stood behind a freezer containing bags of ice in the store's gourmet food section.

"It's trendy too," said Phil Festa, the assistant manager of the food section. "Remember the pet rock?"

Donna Goodman, of New Haven, Conn., bought a bag on Thursday because "I have a crazy boyfriend who will get a kick out of it. I don't see any other reason to spend $7 on a bag of ice."

She said she wasn't worried about the ice melting during rush hour on the road to New Haven, 75 miles northeast of New York City. Festa told her the glacial ice had been compacted by pressure and was incredibly dense. "We tested it," he said. "We left it in the sun for five hours, and only half of it melted."

"It doesn't dilute your drink," said Washington.

Bus Crashes

CIUDAD CARDENAS, Mexico (AP) — A bus crashed into a parked semi-trailer in a rainstorm, killing at least 11 people and injuring 13, authorities said.

The trailer had been left on the road with a flat tire Wednesday, and no emergency flares were set out, said Col. Jesus Lopez Jimenez of the Ciudad Cardenas police station.

He said the bus, bound from Campeche to Mexico City, hit the trailer about two miles outside Ciudad Cardenas, about 480 miles southeast of Mexico City in Tabasco state.

Quite often, there is a simple way to prevent the defenders from scoring a ruff against your suit contract. Simply don't let the danger hand gain the lead. This is hand is from the Vanderbilt Team Championship at the recent Spring North American Championships held in San Antonio, Texas.

The auction at both tables started with a weak two-bid in spades by East, over which South opted for four hearts. At one table West passed; at the other he doubled.

Both Wests cashed a high club and then shifted to a spade, and both declarers won the ace. At one table declarer ran the jack of hearts. West won the king and led his remaining spade. East won and led a third round of the suit, and whether declarer ruffed high or low, West had a second trump trick for down one.

At the other table Ron Smith of Chattanooga, Tenn., was sitting South. He saw the danger of a trump promotion, and found a simple, yet effective, way of countering it. After winning the ace of spades at trick two, he led the jack of clubs from dummy and sluffed his spade loser on it.

West won his remaining club honor for the second defensive trick, but now he had no way to reach his partner for the trump promotion. Declarer ruffed the spade return, crossed to the ace of diamonds and ran the jack of hearts. He was able to win any return, draw the outstanding trumps and claim the rest of the tricks for a large gain.

President Cites Steps For Reform In Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan and his education advisers, who warned a year ago about the "rising tide of mediocrity" in American schools, today celebrated the steps taken in virtually every state to reverse that tide.

Reagan was meeting with members of the National Commission on Excellence in Education today and then speaking in the Rose Garden before 60 high school winners of his new "Presidential Academic Fitness Awards" — honors for B-plus students akin to the kudos for physical fitness.

Education Secretary T.H. Bell released a glossy 229-page report, "The Nation Responds," cataloguing efforts by states, local schools, colleges and businesses over the past 12 months to raise school standards.

Bell said two weeks ago, on the actual anniversary of the commission's "A Nation At Risk" report, that the rising tide of mediocrity had turned into "a tidal wave of reform, unprecedented in its breadth and support, that promises to restore excellence as the hallmark of American education."

At a news conference called to release the new report, Bell predicted that there will be "a slight upward glitch" in College Board scores this year and that within five years the average score will back near the level that prevailed before a long decline started two decades ago.

Bell said it was "enormously significant" that 34 states and the District of Columbia have moved recently to raise their high school graduation standards, and 13 other states are weighing tougher diploma requirements. An Education Department chart listed only Hawaii, Iowa and Massachusetts as having taken no such steps.

He said that 44 states and the District of Columbia have adopted or are considering curriculum reforms, while 21 states have moved or are considering steps to require more time spent in class and, in some cases, longer school years.

Bell urged a renewed emphasis on teaching foreign languages, which he called the area with "the biggest gap between what is and what ought to be."

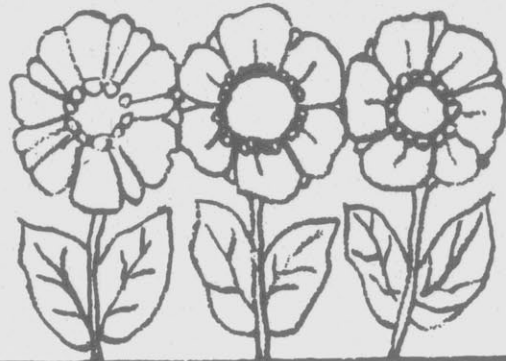

"The Nation Responds" is six times longer than the pithy, punchy report the commission issued last April. It capsulizes major school reform laws enacted in several states, including Mississippi, Florida, California and Tennessee. It cites Wyoming's $250 scholarships for math and science teachers as well as California's $4,000 bonuses for "mentor" teachers among its highlights.

Bell said the credit for school reform must be shared with several other blue-ribbon panels that issued major school studies in the past year. He said the challenge now is to build on that momentum and not let education slide back down the list of the nation's concerns.

"If we let our momentum die down, if it turns back to a relatively ho-hum circumstance, then we're not going to follow through and attain the accomplishments that we need to," Bell said.

Hostages Freed In Bank Standoff

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas (AP) — A fugitive wanted on a murder charge shot a motorist, stormed a bank and took seven hostages, but was stepped by FBI agents when he grabbed outside a vault to pick up food and three of the hostages locked him out, authorities said.

Richard Donald Foster, a 31-year-old ex-convict, was being held today at the Parker County Jail in Weatherford in lieu of $1 million bond on a capital murder charge, said Assistant District Attorney Dan Carney.

Foster, an Oklahoma native also known as "Stoney Armadillo," also was being held in lieu of $600,000 bond on an aggravated kidnapping charge lodged by Stephens County authorities, Carney said.

The 12-hour siege began shortly before noon Thursday in this town of 7,000 about 100 miles west of Fort Worth when a gunman rushed into the Citizens National Bank and took seven people hostage, authorities said. It ended about 11:40 p.m. with no shots having been fired.

Stephens County clerk Pat Kinnison said the gunman had shot and critically wounded a motorist about 9:45 a.m. 45 miles outside of town, stole his car and drove to Breckenridge where he abandoned the car and dashed inside the bank to elude lawmen.

"He started yelling, 'Everyone get up, this is not a robbery,'" said Barbara Pierce, 42. She said the man told the people in the bank that the police were after him and that he would not hesitate to shoot.

He "was not talking straight," she said, and a sheriff said the man was under the influence of drugs.

Some 50 law enforcement officers from the Breckenridge Police Department, Texas Rangers, FBI and Department of Public Safety officers surrounded the bank.

Reagan Wins House Vote On Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, by narrowly approving President Reagan's request for military aid to Central America, is setting the stage for confrontation next week over emergency funding for El Salvador's military forces.

Following a raucous day of debate that saw House Majority Leader Jim Wright break with his own party, the lawmakers voted 212-208 Thursday in favor of a Republican-backed amendment that authorized $120 million in immediate military aid for El Salvador and other Central American nations.

"It is a great victory for President Reagan," said Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., after the vote. "I was quite pleased."

Kemp said the tally was an example of "bipartisan" support for the president's program, which he predicted will carry over when House-Senate conferees meet Wednesday to consider a $61.7 million emergency appropriation requested by the president for the Salvadoran military.

But Rep. Michael Barnes, D-Md., who made the final Democratic appeal against adoption of the Republican plan, said he thought the vote "was not exactly a mandate" in favor of Reagan's requests.

Barnes pointed out that the vote was on an authorization bill, and that the battle over the aid to El Salvador will reappear in the House when a measure to appropriate the funds is considered.

The vote came one day after the president went on national television to press Congress for the aid, which Reagan argued was necessary to halt a Cuban-inspired takeover in El Salvador.

The GOP amendment authorizes enough military aid for Central America in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 to meet the president's request for $132.5 million for El Salvador. It places relatively few restrictions on the aid, making the first half available after the president tells Congress that the Salvadorans are making progress in human rights and other reforms. The rest would require a second presidential report and be subject to congressional disapproval within 30 days.

By adopting the Republican proposal, the House in effect rejected a proposal backed by Democrats on the House Foreign Affairs Committee that would have withheld two-thirds of the funds unless Congress and the president agreed that the Salvadorans had curbed death squad activities and begun negotiations with left-wing guerrillas to end the country's civil war.

Earlier, the lawmakers turned aside an attempt to cut off all military funding for El Salvador unless significant progress was made on human rights and political reforms.

Wright, a Democrat, in a surprise move that he admitted was an "agonizing" one, took to the floor to speak in favor of the Republican bill.

He criticized the Democrats' proposal, saying it placed demands upon El Salvador that were unrealistic and that "we don't require of any other nation in the world." He received a rousing round of applause as he left the speaker's podium.

Speaking against the Republican amendment, Rep. Stephen J. Solarz, D-N.Y., told the House, "Leaving the determination up to the president alone virtually guarantees that the certification will be made regardless of the realities in El Salvador."

"The American people do not want any more Cubans in Central America, but neither do they want any more Vietnamese," Solarz said.

Taking note of Solarz' remarks, Rep. Ike Skelton, D-Mo., said comparisons with Vietnam were "a mistaken way of looking at this very, very different situation; El Salvador is in our front yard."

The senior Republican on the foreign affairs panel, Rep. William S. Broomfield of Michigan, said, "If we botch the job in Central America, there will be no way to walk away from the wreckage unscathed."

"This island we share with our Central American neighbors will be doomed to generations of border warfare," Broomfield said.

House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., supported the Republican proposal, saying, "These conditions are realistic. They can be met. El Salvador is the sick man of Central America. If we impose stringent conditions, we may bring about a crisis rather than a recovery."

The votes on Central American aid came during consideration of a $10.5

billion global foreign aid measure, which was approved on a 211-206 vote. A similar bill is awaiting Senate action, but it contains no Central American provisions because of a deadlock in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

In other House action taken earlier on the foreign aid measure:

—Members voted to cut military aid to Turkey by $85 million to $670 million and approved a $250 million fund to foster a settlement of the Cyprus dispute.

Declassification

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department is preparing to declassify evidence documenting its claims that Nicaragua has been sending weapons, supplies and money to leftist rebels in El Salvador, U.S. officials say.

By making some of the information public, the administration believes its case for providing aid both to El Salvador and to anti-government insurgents in Nicaragua will be strengthened, the officials said.

U.S. intelligence agencies have been reluctant to disclose evidence on grounds that to do so would compromise sources. Negotiations are now under way among the CIA and various other agencies to determine how much information should be included in a special report on the subject, according to the officials.

The report is expected to be released in about two weeks.

U.S. Yields To Mine Ban

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nicaragua's foreign minister says the United States will be an international outlaw if it refuses to accept jurisdiction of the World Court, which has ordered an end to U.S. mining of Nicaraguan waters.

Nicaragua claimed moral victory Thursday after the World Court issued its interim order against the mining and other military activity. Managua had filed a complaint with the court that the United States is waging "armed attacks" to topple the leftist Sandinista government here.

The World Court, the judicial arm of the United Nations, has no enforcement powers.

The U.S. State Department, which earlier had rejected the court's jurisdiction in any matter involving Central America, said Thursday it would accept the court's ruling.

U.S. sources, as well as Nicaragua, have said the CIA-directed mining of Nicaraguan harbors was discontinued a month ago, although CIA-backed rebels have threatened to continue mining on their own.

Foreign Minister Miguel D'Escoto of Nicaragua said that unless the Reagan administration changes its position on World Court jurisdiction, it will become an "international outlaw."

D'Escoto told reporters Thursday, "We hope the United States reconsiders" its position, which he called "evidence of how the policies of the United States are bankrupting that country's moral capital."

Nicaragua filed its complaint with the World Court on April 9. More than a month before that date, the CIA had directed the rebel mining of Nicaraguan ports. Mine explosions damaged seven ships of various nations.

The World Court has yet to rule on Nicaragua's complaint that the United States violated international law by supporting anti-leftist rebels.

Readiness Drill

The activity at Kinston's DuPont plant Thursday morning was "an emergency readiness drill, not a real incident," according to Arthur Roede, staff assistant to the plant personnel superintendent.

"Word got out that some type of disaster had taken place at the plant," Roede said, "but the activity Thursday was a readiness drill based on a simulated disaster situation." He said emergency drills are held periodically, using trained rescue personnel both from the plant and from area fire and rescue squads.

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Dr. David G. Brown, an economist and author, was named today as chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Asheville.

Brown, 48, succeeds UNCA chancellor William E. Highsmith, who is retiring effective July 1. Brown was selected from among 200 applicants. He will take office upon Highsmith's resignation.

"I want to be a leader in a time and place where a leader can make a difference," Brown said.

Brown taught economics at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill from 1961 through 1966 and has spent the last 16 years in college administration. Brown was provost at Drake University, provost and executive vice president of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, and president of Transylvania University in Lexington, Ky.

Brown is currently teaming with Dr. Clark Kerr, former president of the University of California system, and Harvard sociologist Dr. David Riesman on a study of the American college presidency funded by the American Association of Governing Boards.

He is also completing a book tentatively titled "The Academic Deanship" a study of how colleges and universities can best anticipate the future.

Brown is the author of three other and 30 articles. In 1978, he was listed among "100 Young Leaders in Higher Education" by Change magazine. He is past president or chairman of the National Council of Land-Grant Provosts, the National Council of Chief Academic Officers and the 6,000-member American Association for Higher Education.

He is currently chairing the Higher Education Colloquium, a group of 50 select scholars who share current research before it is published.

A native of Chicago, Brown is a 1958 Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Denison University in Ohio. He earned a masters degree and Ph.D in economics at Princeton University.

In 1965, he received UNC's coveted Tanner Award for "excellence in the inspirational teaching of undergraduate students."

Warren Appreciation Event Attracts 300 For Pig Picking

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

More than 300 persons attended a pig picking at the Greenville Golf and Country Club Tuesday to conclude a day of activities designed to promote Pitt County and East Carolina University.

More than 50 out-of-town guests, including 25 members of the General Assembly, participated in one or more of the activities, which included a tour of the new radiation therapy center at the East Carolina University medical school, and a legislative appreciation golf tournament.

Rep. Ed Warren of Greenville said he sponsored the event as a way of "entertaining some friends who have been a tremendous help to me during my tenure in the General Assembly," and as a means of "promoting the university and Pitt County."

Included among the guests were Appropriations Committee chairman Sen. Harold Hardison, Advisory Budget Commission chairman Sen. Kenneth Royall, Education Base Budget chairman Sen. Marvin Ward, Secretary of Transportation Bill Roberson, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles R.W. Wilkins, former University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill football

All-American Charlie Justice, Duke University All-Americans Eric Tipton and Ace Parker, Weyerhaeuser Co. vice president Carl Jessup, and Transportation Board member George Harper.

Royal, commenting on the appreciation day program, said, "It's been a great day for eastern North Carolina."

"We enjoyed going to the ECU radiation center. It will mean a lot to the people of eastern North Carolina."

Justice, known as "Choo-Choo" during his football days at UNC-CH, said, "This is fantastic. Ed Warren does a good job" with the golf tournament. "It's going to grow. In years to come, people will be begging to be in it."

Justice also commented, "N.C. State and East Carolina ought to play football with each other," and voiced support for legislation, if necessary, to continue the series.

The former UNC-CH star also suggested that ECU and UNC-CH meet on the football field on a regular basis.

Tipton, a member of Duke's 1938 football team which went unscored on during the regular season only to lose in the Rose Bowl in the last 30 seconds by a score of 7-3, also voiced support for the continuation of the ECU-N.C. State series, suggesting it would be beneficial to both schools.

Tipton retired in 1977 after coaching football and baseball at West Point for 20 years. Prior to his West Point career, Tipton coached both sports at William and Mary and played professional baseball.

Abductors Seeking $2 Million In Gold For American Couple

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (AP) — Eight armed men kidnapped an American couple today from their home in the northern city of Jaffna and demanded $2 million in gold be given to an Indian state, government and U.S. Embassy officials said.

Foreign Minister Shaul Hameed said the abductors released photocopied letters in Jaffna demanding that $2 million in gold be paid to the government of Tamil Nadu, a state in southeastern India dominated by the same Tamil ethnic group that predominates in northern Sri Lanka.

The letter also demanded the release of 20 alleged Tamil terrorists in Sri Lanka custody, Hameed said.

The couple's employer, the Ruhlin Co. of Columbus, Ohio, identified them as Stanley B. Allen, 36, and his wife, Mary. John Ruhlin, an official of the construction firm, said the Allens were from Akron, Ohio, but spend most of their time abroad.

Ruhlin said he was notified of the abduction in the middle of the night, but has yet to hear anything about the kidnapers' demands.

"We haven't heard anything," Ruhlin said. "We're trying to get the information from Washington."

The Tamil Nadu government shares the culture, religion and politics of Sri Lanka's Tamil ethnic minority — who are a majority in the Jaffna region, 175 miles north of Colombo. Tamils and the Sinhalese majority in Sri Lanka clash frequently in disputes fueled by a Tamil separatist movement.

Details of the abduction were sketchy, and the U.S. Embassy said it was sending an official from its Colombo office to Jaffna to obtain more information.

Hameed said he and Security Minister Lalith Athulathmudali met with U.S. Ambassador John H. Reed.

water distribution project for the Sri Lanka government financed by the U.S. government and the U.S. Agency International Development, said Ruhlin, whose company is a general contracting construction firm.

Knox Wins Endorsement From Green

RALEIGH (AP) — Rufus Edmisten and Eddie Knox continued to court support from gubernatorial candidates whose bids failed Tuesday, with speculation already beginning on how the endorsements will be aligned.

Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green, whose gubernatorial bid collapsed in Tuesday's primary, ended some of the speculation, endorsing Knox over Edmisten on Thursday for the June 5 Democratic runoff for governor.

Knox also won the support of a lesser known candidate, J.A.

"Andy" Barker, mayor of Love Valley. Political observers noted that Edmisten would probably receive the endorsement of former commerce secretary D.M. "Lauch" Faircloth. The candidates are still vying for the endorsements of Insurance Commissioner John Ingram and former Rep. Thomas Gilmore.

"My endorsement and support of Mr. Knox is founded upon his strong commitment to excellence in public education, to the improvement of economic opportunities and a better quality of life for the people of our rural areas and to the stability and leadership that he will bring to North Carolina state government," Green said in a prepared statement.

Green said he and Knox share "values of fiscal integrity and financial responsibility." He said Knox, a former chairman of the state Advisory Budget Commission, knows best how to manage the state budget wisely.

Knox said he was honored to be endorsed by the state's second-highest official and predicted the support would help him most in eastern North Carolina.

"This should substantially solidify the area of eastern North Carolina,"

Knox said. "Green has been a workhorse for eastern North Carolina."

Knox tried to downplay the feelings of Green supporters, who feel Edmisten was responsible for Green's trial on bribery charges. Green was acquitted and Edmisten has said he played no part in bringing Green to trial.

"I hope it wouldn't be that," Knox said. "I believe he made a genuine endorsement because he believes my philosophy is best for the state."

Edmisten's campaign was not upset by the endorsement.

"Regardless of who Jimmy Green endorses we believe we will get our share of those supporters," said Edmisten spokesman Jerry Mobley.

The endorsements were the first from losing candidates. Edmisten and Knox emerged as the leaders in the field of 10 Democrats on Tuesday while Congressman Jim Martin defeated Ruby Hooper in the Republican primary.

In complete but unofficial returns, Edmisten had 293,860 votes or 31 percent and Knox had 247,673 votes or 26 percent.

Behind them were Faircloth with 151,350 votes or 16 percent, Gilmore with 82,364 votes or almost 9 percent, Green with 81,326 votes or almost 9 percent, Ingram with 74,965 votes or 8 percent and Bob Hannon with 9,465 votes or 1 percent.

Democrats with less than 1 percent were Glenn Miller with 5,679 votes, Barker with 3,655 votes and J.D. Whaley with 1,473 votes.

Former state Sen. Walter Cockerham decided Thursday not to file for a recount in his 164-vote loss to state Rep. Howard Coble, R-Guilford, in Tuesday's GOP primary for the 6th Congressional District.

Cockerham said a canvass of the votes did not show evidence of errors or illegal ballots required by North Carolina law in demanding a recount.

John Carrington, a Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, called Thursday for a runoff with Frank Jordan after finishing a close second to Jordan in Tuesday's five-man primary race.

Jordan led the slate with 29.69 percent while Carrington had 28.09 percent.

"Because of the strong encouragement from Republican leaders throughout the state, I feel it is my duty to ask for a runoff," Carrington said in a prepared statement.

Republican C. Allen Foster challenged Democrat Lacy Thornburg to a debate in their race for attorney general.

"Hashing out the issues face to face is the best, the quickest and perhaps the only way to delve beyond sloganeering and to show the voters the real choice they face in November," Foster said.

Thornburg has not responded to the suggestion.

High Tech Top Job Prospect In Southeast

ATLANTA (AP) — High technology and service industries offer the best job prospects in the Southeast, according to a study by the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta.

"Service industries nationwide should enjoy the fastest growth of any industries through 1990, and it seems likely that the Southeast will gain a disproportionate share of that growth," said the study prepared for the Atlanta bank's 1983 annual report.

The study covered Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, North Carolina and South Carolina.

The economists expect the fastest growth in medical care, tourism, non-profit organizations and occupations encompassing the fields of business, professional and personal services.

"Florida is likely to profit the most from these industries' growth, but large cities throughout the region are likely to benefit because of the tendency of service firms to cluster in urban areas," the study said.

The Southeast's share of total high-tech jobs should increase from 7 percent in 1981 to 10 percent in 1990, it said.

The study also cited a recent national survey that ranked the Southeast as "most attractive" in availability and cost of labor, tax climate and cost of living.

The same survey ranked the region third in labor productivity, but "poor" in quality of academic programs.

"Much of the region's high-tech growth will be spurred by Defense Department spending on electronic weaponry and surveillance and communications equipment," the study said.

Defense spending has made Florida the biggest technology center in the Southeast, but Georgia also attracts its share of defense dollars, the study said. Mississippi and Louisiana will benefit from increased shipbuilding, Tennessee from munitions production and Alabama from maintenance.

Population and business growth, which create new housing and commercial building, also have made construction a growth industry in the region.

Construction, in turn, provides a boost to the Southeast's wood products industry, which supplies lumber, paper and furniture manufacturers.

"In a sense, the Southeast is the nation's wood bin," the study said.

Textile Official Pledges Fight Over Imports

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A North Carolina textile official says he is "fighting mad" about the Reagan administration's refusal to step up controls against increased imports.

"I don't think we're going to get any more help, but we're not going to give up," Jim Martin, vice chairman of Gastonia-based Ti-Caro Inc., said Wednesday at a convention of the Society of American Business and Economic Writers.

"The government should have the courage to tell the American people we're going to give some of our (textile) jobs to the Chinese," he said.

The Reagan administration "simply seems determined to give away the store," Martin said, predicting that 190,000 U.S. jobs would be displaced by import growth in 1984 on top of 140,000 lost last year.

Reagan went against the advice of most of his cabinet members in ordering stronger enforcement of textile-apparel import quotas last December. The industry, saying the action was insufficient, now is urging Reagan to freeze imports at 1983 levels, impose a system of global quotas, renegotiate textile trade agreements and license textile-apparel importers.

But Martin, the president of the American Textile Manufacturers Institute, did praise Reagan for signing an executive order aimed at preventing other countries from circumventing trade agreements governing textile products.

The order stems from concerns that some countries have skirted terms of textile agreements by shipping their goods to a third country or altering the products after they have been imported into U.S. customs territory.

"We believe that the executive order will be in improving and strengthening enforcement of current restraints under the textile program and we welcome this," Martin said.

Trooper Fired

LENOIR, N.C. (AP) — A North Carolina state trooper accused of sexual misconduct on the job was fired Thursday on the recommendation of a five-officer review panel.

Trooper Dennis Pressley, a 16-year veteran of the Highway Patrol, was reprimanded in April after reports surfaced that he had sex with a Caldwell County woman after stopping her for speeding and that he made suggestive comments to another woman.

Pressley denied having sex with the first woman and acknowledged telling the other she was "too pretty not to have a man," although he said he didn't mean to be suggestive.

W.C. Palmer, who represented Pressley at the April hearing, said the women who made the accusations had "no character whatsoever" and that the first woman "has some sort of fetish about bragging about her sexual contacts, both real and imagined."

Soles Re-Elected To State Senate

WHITEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — State Sen. R.C. Soles Jr., D-Columbus, won a fifth term Thursday after an official canvass of votes upheld his narrow lead over challenger Lawrence Bowers.

Soles avoided a runoff when final totals showed he gained just over 50 percent of the vote in the Democratic primary for the 18th Senatorial District, which includes Bladen, Brunswick and Columbus counties and the Beaverdam precinct of Cumberland County.

Official results Thursday showed Soles with 13,781 votes, Bowers with 12,612 and Claude Spivey of Tabor City with 1,121.

It was the first race for Soles since he was acquitted of bribery charges in August 1983 in connection with the Color probe in southeastern North Carolina.

Soles said he was not surprised at the narrow margin, but still said it was his second toughest reelection fight. He said the closest was a challenge from real estate developer Odell Williamson of Ocean Isle Beach, who took Soles into a runoff in 1978.

"That, in my opinion, was a much harder race than this one was," Soles said.

Business Leaders Forecast 'Good Times'

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
Associated Press Writer
HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Economic good times should continue through this year and next, but threats from looming budget deficits could plunge the nation back into a recession by 1986, the country's top business leaders warned today.

While the chiefs of America's biggest companies saw storm clouds on the far horizon, their short-term prediction was for continued economic growth in the months ahead, but at a slower pace than last year.

A forecast prepared for the spring meeting of the 200-member Business Council predicted that interest rates would continue to rise, spurred in part by the continuing heavy borrowing needed to finance federal deficits edging near $200 billion annually.

The prime rate, a key business borrowing rate, has already climbed three times in the past two months to 12.5 percent, its highest level in 18 months.

The business forecast, presented to executives gathered at this plush resort in the Virginia mountains, is based on the views of top economists at 19 major corporations.

John R. Opel, chairman of IBM Corp., said there was wide disparity among the economists about interest rates.

The report predicted the prime rate would not go higher than the current 12.5 percent this year and 13 percent in 1985, but Opel said a minority saw the prime rising to 15 percent or higher next year.

Opel said the fear of higher rates was based on concern that current efforts to trim the federal deficits don't go far enough.

"Our consultants do not see in present administration or congressional budget proposals much hope for significant or early budget reductions," Opel said.

Congress and the administration are currently looking at various packages to make a "down payment" of around $150 billion in deficit reductions over the next three years.

"None of our consultants believes a recession will occur this year, but a growing minority feels unless decisive action is taken on the deficit, the current expansion cannot be sustained," Opel said.

The number of economists fearing a recession has grown from 25 percent last year to 40 percent currently, Opel said.

"They are saying if the deficit isn't reduced in some material way, we can expect trouble in 1986," he said.

For the rest of this year, the business leaders saw few problems with the economy to plague President Reagan before the November election.

Economic growth surged at a surprisingly robust 8.3 percent rate in the first three months of 1984. Like other forecasters, the businessmen expect this to slow dramatically, averaging 3 to 4 percent in coming months.

However, the slowdown will not prevent the economy for the year as a whole from growing 5.6 percent, compared to 3.4 percent in 1983. For 1985, growth will be 3.1 percent, the report predicted.

The administration is forecasting economic growth of 5 percent this year and 4 percent in 1985.

The report forecast very little further improvement in the unemployment rate, which has been stuck the last three months at 7.8 percent. The report said this figure would remain basically unchanged in coming months, not dropping lower than 7.3 percent next year.

Even with interest rates pushing the cost of money upward, the business economists don't look for inflation to reignite. They predicted inflation would hold at 5 percent this year, about the rate it has been running in recent months, and would creep up to 6 percent in 1985.

The country's foreign trade deficit should total $96 billion this year and hit $100 billion in 1985 before beginning to improve as the lagging recovery in foreign countries finally begins to boost U.S. exports, the business forecast said. Others have predicted an even worse $110 billion record trade deficit this year.

The corporate executives, interviewed separately, were generally upbeat about their companies' prospects in coming months.

James Evans, chairman of Union

Pacific Corp., said the railroad industry was having a very good year with freight shipments up for a wide variety of industries from autos to chemical products. He said Union Pacific had just ordered 60 new locomotives at a cost of $1.6 million each.

Donald V. Seibert, former chairman of J.C. Penny Co., said even though retail sales slowed in February and March, sales surged upward in April and should remain strong through the rest of the year.

Nissan Plans To Open Car Production Plant In U.S.

DETROIT (AP) — Nissan Motor Corp. of Japan plans to begin building cars next year at an assembly plant in Smyrna, Tenn., according to a report published today.

Nissan Motor Manufacturing Corp., the automaker's U.S. subsidiary, intends to assemble up to 300,000 subcompact Sentras each year at the facility beginning in January, the Detroit Free Press said.

Nissan, the No. 2 Japanese automaker, has manufactured compact trucks at the new $600 million Tennessee plant since June. The company scheduled a press conference for today at its U.S. headquarters in Smyrna, where it is expected to announce the move to produce autos in the U.S., the Free Press said.

Engines, transmissions, body panels and other major components would be shipped from Japan, the newspaper said. The Free Press quoted sources as saying that Japanese-built parts would be replaced by American components over the next two to three years.

The move would make Nissan the third Japanese manufacturer to decide to assemble cars in the United States.

Honda Motor Co. has been building its Accord models at a plant in Marysville, Ohio, since November, and Toyota Motor Co. plans to assemble subcompact cars in Fremont, Calif., through a joint venture with General Motors Corp. A spokesman for Nissan Motor Corp. in Tokyo would neither confirm nor deny that the U.S. production plans would be the subject of today's press conference.

Summer Travel Sacrificed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans are buying new cars at the fastest clip in several years, but auto-dominated vacation travel is expected to grow only modestly this summer, says a survey performed for the tourism industry.

That seeming paradox comes about because Americans are taking advantage of better economic times to invest in cars, along with homes and expensive electronic gadgets such as home computers — and pleasure trips may be sacrificed, the U.S. Travel Data Center said in a forecast released Thursday.

"These other purchases are strong competitors for the consumer's discretionary dollar," the study found. "Moreover, the nation's love affair with electronics competes for leisure time as well. In short, despite the extraordinary improvement in personal financial conditions, a vacation travel boom this summer is far from assured."

In fact, the study said, the number of Americans taking vacation trips in June, July or August is expected to remain unchanged from 1983 at 107 million.

However, the number of trips will rise by 3 percent, to 123 million, and the number of nights away will increase by 4 percent, to nearly 1.76 billion, it said.

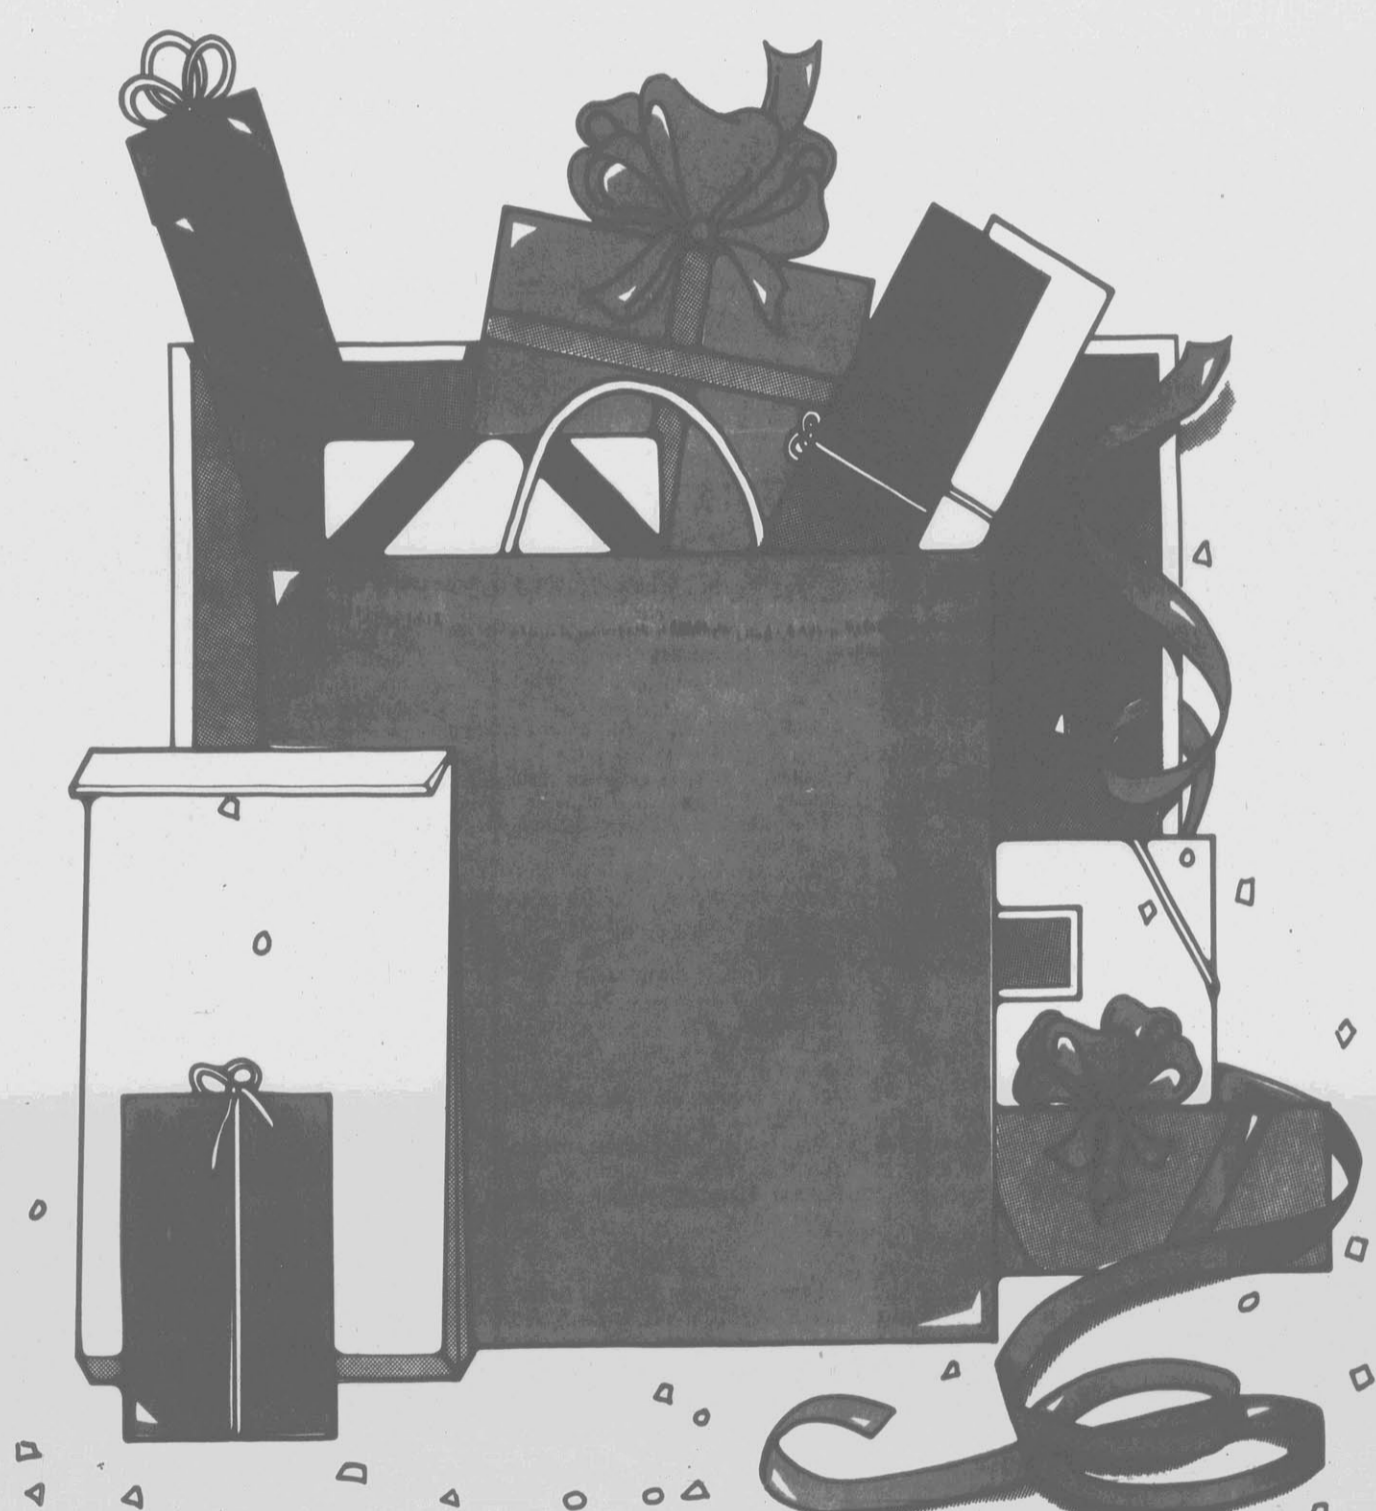

Although modest, the projected increase in trips marked an improvement over the slight 1 percent rise between the summers of 1982 and 1983. The figures are based on monthly telephone interviews of 4,000 adults.

Foreign travel this summer also will grow by about 4 percent this summer, as 5.2 million Americans plan vacations in Mexico or Canada and 3.1 million anticipate going overseas, the survey indicated.

As in 1983, private cars or recreational vehicles will be used by 81 percent of this summer's travelers, while 14 percent will fly, 3 percent will take a bus and 2 percent will use a train or other means, the survey found.

The summer months account for 40 percent of all U.S. vacation travel.

Stock And Market Reports

By The Associated Press
HOGS:

Trend is steady at N.C. buying stations. Kinston, Spivey's Corner, Murfreesboro and Robersonville 47.50; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourn, Ayden, Laurinburg and Benson 47.75; Wilson 48.00; Rowland 46.50. Sows: (500 pounds up) Wilson 45.00; Fayetteville 45.00; Whiteville unreported; Wallace 46.00; Spivey's Corner unreported, Rowland 46.00.

BROLLERS:

The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 52.75 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pound birds. 54 percent of the load offered have been confirmed with a preliminary weighted average of 54.88 cents f.o.b. dock or equivalent. The market is firm to mostly firm and the live supply is generally moderate for a good to very good demand. Average weights mostly desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Friday was 1,975,000, compared to 1,701,000 last Friday.

HENS:

Market steady with a weak undertone. Supply adequate. Demand light to moderate. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds at farm for Monday and Tuesday slaughter were 21 cents.

GRAIN:

No. 2 yellow shelled corn higher at 3.87-3.95; No. 1 yellow soybeans sharply higher at 8.40-8.56 in the east; wheat 3.40-3.86, mostly 3.59-3.83; oats 1.85-2.15; (new crop corn 2.87-3.24; soybeans 6.80-7.06; wheat 3.20-3.35).

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks were broadly lower at midsession today as trading slowed from the previous day.

Steel, computer, energy and airline issues paced the losers.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials lost 7.12 to 1,160.07 after two hours of trading, erasing its 1.67-point gain on Thursday.

Declines held nearly a 3-1 lead over advances on the New York Stock Exchange, whose composite index fell 0.60 to 91.43.

Big Board volume at noon EDT slowed to 34.77 million shares from 48.33 million at that hour Thursday.

Today's opening setback came as government reports continued to point to renewed economic strength in April without an immediate spurt in prices.

Wholesale prices held steady last month, halting a four-month rise in that measure of inflation, the Labor Department said today. Separately, the Commerce Department said retail sales rose 2.9 percent in April, reversing the 2 percent decline of March.

Wall Street fears that continued robust expansion in the economy will foster higher inflation and interest rates as rising private credit demands clash with the Treasury's massive borrowing needs.

The Treasury completed its latest quarterly refinancing on Thursday, and yields on some of those securities reached two-year highs.

On the NYSE today, Continental Illinois rose 3/4 to 12 3/4, General Motors gained 1/4 to 64 and City Investing fell 5/8 to 41 1/8.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell 0.61 to 210.31.

Child Is Buried In Home Planter

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Authorities are deciding whether to file charges against a woman who buried the body of her 2-month-old son in a vegetable planter after he died suddenly, a spokeswoman for the district attorney said.

The body of Paul Michael Davis was uncovered April 16 by authorities who had gotten a tip from a former member of a religious group living at the home. Sara Davis, 23, told authorities she buried the child on the advice of the group's leader, 70-year-old Florence Alva Kent.

Hoyas Pound ECU In Tourney Opener

HARRISONBURG, Va. — John O'Malley and Bob Ebner hit back to back home runs and Eb Burke handcuffed East Carolina's batters as Georgetown gained a 4-1 win over the Pirates in the first round of the ECAC-South baseball tournament at James Madison University yesterday.

The hosting Dukes downed LaSalle, 10-2, in the other first round game.

For the Pirates, top-seeded in the double elimination tournament, the ECAC-South jinx appeared in full bloom in the contest. Only once in the six-years of play at the tournament has the number one seed been able to win the event.

Burke, who improved his record to 8-3 on the year, didn't allow an ECU hit until the fourth inning and gave up only two over the next four innings with the Pirates getting three of their six hits in the ninth inning. Burke walked three and struck out six.

In contrast, Pirate hurler Winfred Johnson wasn't as sharp. He gave up nine hits — including four for extra bases, walked two and struck out none in eight plus innings. Bob Davidson came on in the ninth to retire the side.

"Basically, we didn't find a way to solve Burke until it was too late," Coach Hal Baird said. Burke, who missed four starts because of a sore arm returned to action only May 3, and was in top form against the Pirates.

"We never got a chance to get an inning started early," Baird added. "There were always one or two outs when we got things started and Burke kept us off strike really well. Winfred didn't have his best stuff, but he kept us in the game. If we could have gotten him some runs it would have taken the pressure off him. We just didn't hit any balls hard until the last inning."

Baird said that he felt the two-week layoff by the Pirates without competition from outside sources hurt. "When you see the bats lethargic like that, you know a layoff can do that. The first three or four innings we weren't timed into him (Burke) at all. I felt like we should have put the ball in play more than we did."

While the Pirates were trying to solve Burke and get something going, Georgetown was making hay, scoring once in the third inning to take the lead for good.

Mark Lepnew got things started with a double to right center, moving to third on Bill Pendley's single. Then, after two popups, Steve Iannini singled to right to score Lepnew.

It remained at 1-0 until the sixth when Johnson gave up back-to-back homers. O'Malley drove the first out of the park, and on the very next pitch, Ebner got all of it.

The Hoyas added one more run in the ninth. Mike Saguto opened up with a double and Lepnew singled him over.

The lone run by the Pirates also scored in the ninth inning on a freak inside-the-park homer by Mike Williams. Williams' drive hit the top of the fence in left, bounced up and came back down inside the playing area — still live. But leftfielder Joe Gervais, attempting to make the catch, got his foot stuck in the fence and while Iannini chased the ball down, Williams dashed around the bases for the homer.

The Pirates also had a couple of other threats. They loaded the bases in the fifth after two were out as Chris Bradberry and Steve Sides singled and Jim Riley walked. But Greg Hardison's popup ended the inning.

Then, in the ninth, after Williams' homer, Bradberry doubled and Sides singled but pinchhitter Mark Cockrell grounded out to end the game.

Bradberry and Sides led the Pirate hitting with two each, while Lepnew was the only Hoya batter with two hits.

"Our backs are to the ball now; we'll just have to respond," Baird said of ECU's hopes of returning to the NCAA regionals — as they have done on a number of occasions in even-numbered years.

For the baseball superstitious, it's a question of which is stronger: the ECU even-numbered successes or the ECAC top-seed jinx.

Today, the Pirates face LaSalle in a noon contest, with the loser eliminated. Georgetown and James Madison collide at 3 p.m.

Saturday at noon, the survivor of the ECU-LaSalle games meets the loser of the Madison-Georgetown game, with the winner moving on into the 3 p.m. game against the remaining unbeaten team. Should a third game be needed to decide the title, it would be played Sunday.

Georgetown is now 31-15, while ECU is 28-11.

Steve Wall and Traye Fuqua each hit two-run homers and Billy Michel tossed a four-hit shutout at Wilson Fike last night as Rose High School rolled up a 7-0 victory in Big East baseball.

The win boosted Rose to 10-2 in league play and almost assured the Rampants of a berth in the 4-A state playoffs in two weeks. A single Rose victory in the remaining two games, or a loss by Wilson Beddingfield in its remaining contests — they play two more games this week and two next week — would wrap up a berth for the Rampants.

Rocky Mount, which stayed even with the Rampants for the championship, would need to win another also to eliminate Beddingfield from the other berth. Rose holds an advantage over the Bruins, having won both of the games against them.

Michel, who picked up his fourth shutout with the victory, was shaky at the start, but seemed to get stronger as he went along. He didn't record a strikeout until the fourth inning and gave up all four of the Fike hits in the first four frames. He walked five, including two in the fifth inning, and finished with four strikeouts.

Fike did threaten on a couple of occasions, but the Rampants were able to shut them down each time.

"I'm glad to win this one," Rampant coach Ronald Vincent said. "Michel threw well, and we did a good job of hitting the ball."

The latter was somewhat of an understatement. Of the seven Rampant hits, five of them were for extra bases — two homers and three doubles — and each played a role in the scoring.

"When we did hit, we hit it hard and well," Vincent said. "This was a big game for us. It moved us just a little closer to the playoffs and it kept us in the race for the championship."

Fike threatened to score in the second inning when Mark Harris got a two-out double and Doug Flowers walked. But a fly ball ended that. The Demons threatened again in the fourth as David Allen led off with a single and Ricky Jenkins added a one-out hit. But a strikeout and a ground ball again killed the threat.

Two walks put a runner in scoring position in the fifth and a pair of errors — the first by Rose on the evening — gave the Demons hopes in the seventh. But each time the defense shored up to end it.

Rose took the lead in the second inning, scoring a single run. Mike Kinley walked and scored on a double by Michel.

After leaving runners at second and third in the third inning, Rose picked up one more in the fourth. Michel doubled — his second two-double game in as many days — and Mike Smith reached on an error. Smith and courtesy runner David Jester pulled a double steal, with Jester scoring.

A third run scored in the fifth. Toby Fischer led off with a single, then stole both second and third. He scored on a double to right by Kinley.

In the sixth, the Rampants picked up their final four runs. Van Alston walked and scored when Steve Wall hit a towering drive over the fence in left.

Then, after Marc Nover reached on an error when his attempted bunt was popped up to the mound, Traye Fuqua followed with another blast to left center, providing Rose with the final 7-0 margin.

Fuqua and Michel each had two hits to lead the Rampants, while no one had more than one for Fike.

The Golden Demons drop to 7-5 in league play and 11-10 overall. Rose climbs to 15-5 overall.

The Rampants open the final week of the regular season on Tuesday at Fleming Stadium in Wilson against Wilson Hunt at 7:30 p.m. They close out the season Thursday by hosting Northeastern at Guy Smith Stadium at 4 p.m.

Bolger Named New Panther Grid Coach

BETHEL — Larry Bolger, currently head football coach at Lakewood High School in Sampson County, has been named as the new head football coach at North Pitt High School.

Bolger replaces B.T. Chappell at North Pitt. Chappell resigned his coaching position at the end of the 1983 season and will be teaching at Ayden Middle School next year.

Bolger, a native of Maryland, becomes the second new head coach in the county for the coming year. Earlier this week, it was announced that Donnie Bunn, currently an assistant at SouthWest Edgecombe, would become the head coach at D.H. Conley.

The head coaching positions are J.H. Rose and Farmville Central are still vacant.

Bolger graduated from Anne Arundell Community College in Maryland, where he was an all-state junior college selection. He received a football grant to East Carolina for his final two years, playing under Sonny Randle as a reserve offensive guard.

Following his graduation in 1975, he taught in the 7th and 8th grades at Midway Middle School, coaching the line for Midway High School from 1975-77. He then held the same positions at Hobpton (77-78) and Raleigh Enloe (78-79) before becoming head coach at 2-A Lakewood.

At North Pitt, he will be in charge of the football program and additional coaching duties may be assigned, according to Principal Josh Potter. Bolger will teach in healthy and physical education.

Jags Gain Playoff Berth

FARMVILLE — Joey Steppe scored the winning run in the bottom of the eighth on a costly error as the Farmville Central Jaguars insured a playoff berth with a 3-2 victory over Ayden-Grifton Thursday in Eastern Carolina 3-A baseball action.

Farmville improved its conference record to 8-2, even with C.B. Aycock for the lead. The Jags host the Falcons today at 4 p.m., while each team has one other league game remaining.

Randy Daniels went 2-3 and Steppe 2-4 to lead the Jaguars, while winning pitcher Billy Godley scattered three hits by the Chargers.

"I felt like it would be a low-scoring game," Farmville Coach Bill Davis said. "I knew both pitchers would be sharp. I thought the team with the fewest mental mistakes would win."

Steppe opened the bottom of the eighth with a single and moved to second on a sacrifice by Taylor Walston. Greg May's rapped the ball to Jackie Conway, and the Charger shortstop heaved the ball away from the first baseman allowing Steppe to score.

Both teams committed three errors, but the final boot by the Chargers was the most costly.

Farmville took the lead in the bottom of the first with a pair of runs. Nat Norris singled and Daniels singled, and Steppe singled in Norris for the first run. Greg May ripped a single to drive in Steppe.

But the Chargers knotted the score in the third. Jesse Hooker went to second on a throwing error and scored on a single by Leo Venters. Conway was hit by a pitch, Roger Moye reached first on a fielder's choice, Coley was hit by a pitch to fill the bases, and Venters scored on a wild pitch.

Godley struck out five and walked just one batter, but Coley struck out 12 and walked three.

"It was a tight game," Davis said. "(Coley) throws the ball hard for a high school pitcher."

BELHAVEN — Lawrence Watson and Jay Whitley combined for a one-hitter as the Bear Grass Bears blanked Belhaven 12-0 Thursday in Tobacco Belt 1-A baseball.

Brian Coltrain went 3-3 and Billy Fulford 3-4 to lead the Bears at the plate, while Dave Cratt went 2-3 and Watson 2-4.

The Bears took the lead in the top of the second, as Fulford singled and scored on a single by Cratt. Coltrain singled in Cratt for a 2-0 lead.

Bear Grass added two more runs in the third, but broke the game with eight in the fifth. Coltrain and James Lilley each wangled in a pair of runs, as the Bears ripped six hits in that tear.

JAMESVILLE — The Jamesville Bullets continued to roll along yesterday, downing Cape Hatteras in a non-conference baseball game, 12-2.

The contest was called after five innings under the ten-run lead rule.

Kevin Perry and Tony Hale combined for a one-hitter for the Bullets, with Perry giving up the lone hit in the third.

Jamesville took the lead with a run in the first, but put the game away with seven in the second.

Terry Perry led off the third with a single and stole second. He scored on a double by Earl Bowen. Greg Bell walked and Matthew Moore rached on an error, scoring Bowen.

Richie Ange walked to load them up and an error on a ball hit by Rusty Holliday scored Bell and Moore. Kevin Perry reached on an error, scoring Ange, and Terry Perry, back up, tripled to drive in Holliday and Kevin Perry.

Jamesville added one in the fourth and three in fifth to wrap up its scoring.

Moore, Pee Wee Groover and Terry Perry each had two hits to pace the Bullet attack.

Rampettes Top Fike By 5-4

Rose High School's girls' softball team outlasted Wilson Fike yesterday, taking a 5-4 victory in 11 innings.

Fike scored first, pushing over two runs in the second inning. Rose came back with single runs in the bottom of the second and in the fifth, knotting it at 2-2. Both teams then scored twice in the seventh inning for a 4-4 tie.

Rose finally got the win in the 11th frame. With two away, Joann Green singled and scored when Niansa Outlaw tripled.

Outlaw led the Rose hitting with four, while Susan Tadlock had three. Jane Whitley, Cheryl Clark, Lisa Harkley, Green and Vickie Parrott each added two. Fike was led by Leggett and Pender with three each, while Fuller, Jarrell and Bisette each had two.

Rose is now 5-7 in Big East play and 6-10 overall. Fike is 8-4 in conference play.

The Rampettes travel to Wilson Hunt on Tuesday.

BELHAVEN — Cindy Taylor ripped three hits including a solo homer to lead Bear Grass to an 8-6 victory over Belhaven Thursday in Tobacco Belt 1-A softball action.

Sharon Land and Stephanie Harrison went 2-4 for the Lady Bears, while Belhaven was led by Davenport with 3-4 and Leathers with 2-4.

Bear Grass held a 5-4 lead going into the seventh, and added three more in the top of the frame. Sharon Land reached on an error, Amy Lilley walked and Cindy Taylor singled in Land. Regina Whitaker rapped a fielder's choice to drive in Lilley, and Taylor scored when Valerie Daniels reached on an error.

JAMESVILLE — Jamesville's unbeaten girls' softball team added another gem to its crown yesterday, dumping Cape Hatteras, 12-3, in a non-conference contest.

Jamesville had little trouble with the Lady Hurricanes, pushing over four runs in the first inning, three of them on a homer by Kathy Williams. The Lady Bullets added two in the third, four more in the fifth, two of those on a Senita Rodgers homer. The final two came in the sixth.

Hatteras scored single runs in the second, fifth and sixth innings.

Cindy Getchell, Williams and Robin Manning each had two hits to lead Jamesville. No one had more than one for Cape Hatteras.

Jamesville, now 15-0, returns to Tobacco Belt action on Tuesday, traveling to Mattamuskeet.

FARMVILLE — Ayden-Grifton slapped just three hits — one a grand slam homer by Juanita Murphy — but picked up its first victory of the 1984 season with a 12-2 victory over Farmville Central Thursday in Eastern Carolina 3-A softball action.

Joy Peaden went 2-3 for the Lady Jaguars and Lori Tugwell 2-2, but the Chargers won with the help of walks and three errors by Farmville.

Ayden-Grifton took the lead with five runs in the second, but Farmville plated one in the bottom of the frame. The Chargers plated nine runs in the fourth, as Murphy's homer capped the rally.

Farmville slipped to 2-12 overall with a 1-9 conference record, while Ayden-Grifton improved to 1-9 in the league. The Lady Jags host Aycock today.

Rose Girls Lead Track Qualifying

WILLIAMSTON — Rose High School ran away with the Northeastern Sectional girls' track meet yesterday, as the Rampettes qualified 16 times for next week's regionals, to be held at Wilson Fike.

Rose finished the meet with 117 points, well ahead of Fike, which had 74. Tarboro took third place with 64, followed by Hunt with 54. Manteo took fifth with 38, just nosing out Farmville Central which had 37. SouthWest Edgecombe was next with 25, followed by D.H. Conley with 18, Northeastern with 14, Northern Nash with 12, Currituck with 10, Holmes with 8, Bertie with 7 and Roanoke with 4.

Top four finishers in each event qualified for the sectionals, set for next Friday at Fike.

Highlighting the afternoon for Rose was the victory of Doris Richardson in the triple jump. Richardson soared 37 feet, 5 1/2 inches to set a new school record.

Rose had three other first place winners. Jennifer Byrd won the 100-meter hurdles, Becky Thompson took the 800-meter run and Amy Moore won the 3,200-meter run.

Farmville Central had two winners as Lisa Lang won the 200-meter event and the 400-meter relay team also captured a first. They included Kim Payton, Christy Smith, Donna Knight and Lang.

Also, Rose had Sonya Williams qualify in the long jump and 100-meters, Tarsha Williams in the shot put and discus, Byrd in the 200-meter hurdles, Lisa Pagel in the 100 hurdles and the 400-meter dash; Moore in the 1,600-meter run, Kristin Michel in the 1,600-meters, and Jody Ross in the 400-meters.

The 400-meter relay team of Pagle, Ross, Dawn Lambing and Sonya Williams also qualified as did the 1600-meter relay of Byrd, Laming, Ross and Thompson.

Farmville's Lang also qualified in the long jump and the triple jump, with Payton qualifying in the 100-meters.

D.H. Conley qualified two individuals and one relay — the first time in nine years that a Valkyrie has advanced past the sectionals. Vanessa Marrow qualified in the 1,600-meters and Lisa Anderson in the 800-meters. The 1,600-meter relay team of Rhonda Thomas, Angela Hicks, Lucretia West and Priscilla Barnhill also qualified.

Cubs Take Win

WILSON - Rose High School's junior varsity baseball team added another victory to its list, downing Wilson Fike yesterday, 7-1. Tyrone Jones tossed a three-hitter at Fike and also had two hits to help pace the Rampant Cub attack. Sterling Edwards hit a solo homer in the first inning and Robbie Erhmann added two hits for Rose. The Cubs are now 10-0 on the year and play host to Kinston today.

Split Two Games

BETHEL - Bethel and G.R. Whitfield split a pair of junior high school ball games yesterday. Bethel took the softball game, winning, 19-10. Shirley Perry led Whitfield with a three-run homer and a single. Whitfield gained a 12-6 win in the baseball game. James Boyd hurled the win, while Shelton Boyd had four hits. Jeff Best added two hits and James Smith had a double for Whitfield.

Thursday Youth Baseball

Little League

Sportsworld.....7
Kiwanis.....4

Tim Moore and Jamie Brewington combined for a no-hitter as Sportsworld took a 7-4 victory over the Kiwanis in the North State Little League yesterday.

Between them, they struck out 18 batters in the no-hitter.

Sportsworld took the lead with two runs in the first, both coming on a homer by Tim Moore, while the Kiwanis came back with one in the bottom of the frame.

Sportsworld then put it away with four runs in the third. Moore singled and came all the way around when two errors followed on the relays. Brewington followed with a home run that made it 4-1. Kelvin Yarrell followed with a double, moving to third on a wild pitch. He scored when Ty Fickling singled. A wild pitch followed by an error allowed Fickling to circle the bases.

Sportsworld added one more in the fourth, while the Kiwanis got one in the fifth and two in the sixth.

Moore led the Sportsworld hitting with three.

to score.
 True Value added four more in the fourth, with Hammonds and Sawyer each hitting two-run homers. The final run crossed in the fifth.

THE BITTER WATERS OF MARAH!

WHEN MOSES LED THE ISRAELITES OUT OF EGYPT HE WAS BESET BY PROBLEMS ALMOST IMMEDIATELY! NO SOONER HAD HE CROSSED THE RED SEA WITH HIS PEOPLE AND FOUND HIMSELF IN THE WILDERNESS OF SHUR THAN HE HAD TO FACE THE PROBLEM OF NO WATER! THE PEOPLE WENT FOR THREE DAYS INTO THE WILDERNESS AND STILL COULD FIND NO WATER! THEN ON THE FOURTH DAY...

...AT LONG LAST, THEY COME UPON WATER, AND THE JOYOUS ISRAELITES RUSH FORWARD TO SLAKE THEIR THIRST!

WE CANNOT DRINK OF THIS WATER - MUST WE DIE?!

WHERE NOW IS THE LORD TO HELP US?!

...BUT CRIES OF JOY SOON TURN TO HOWLS OF OUTRAGE, AS THE SPUTTERING PEOPLE DISCOVER THE BITTER WATER IS NOT FIT TO DRINK! THE PEOPLE TURN UPON MOSES, ADDING THEIR OWN BITTERNESS TO THE GRIM SITUATION!

Catholic Woman Becomes Chaplain

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — When Donna McKenzie was in eighth grade, someone asked her if she wanted to be a nun. No, she answered, but she'd probably like to be a priest.

Since women can't be priests in the Roman Catholic Church, Ms. McKenzie did what for her was the next best thing. She became a lay minister and now is the chaplain for Albertus Magnus College, a small Roman Catholic school for women.

Such posts as chaplains, counselors, parish administrators and other ministries are commonplace nowadays for many Catholic women, nuns and laity, some of whom would enter the priesthood if the rules permitted it.

Although annoyed that they're excluded from it, Ms. McKenzie says: "Women are doing marvelous things in the church right now. I hope against hope that they will be recognized and offered the opportunity to share their involvement fully."

She says her own main inclination always has been "to work with people" and "help make the world a better place to be in. I also wanted to create a place in the church, to help people recognize their membership in the church."

From study of the Scriptures, she says she is convinced there is "so much good that could be operative today."

Ms. McKenzie, 29, has worked for

Saturday TV Good For Do-It-Yourselfers

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — If you're looking for something to do this weekend, or perhaps when you have some spare time in the summer, take a look at "The Great Outdoors" and "Do It Yourself" Saturday on public television.

Both weekly series assume that you're willing, not to mention able, to pay whatever it costs to enjoy the fresh air or, if you wish, get something done around the house. The Timberland Co. and W.L. Gore & Associates helped pay for production of "The Great Outdoors," so you can assume they'd like to you consider their outdoor wear when you take to the woods. Ditto for 3M Co., the Cooper Group and Skil Corp., with tools and materials and "Do It Yourself."

On the other hand, great care seems to have been taken to avoid mention of any specific product or manufacturer in the course of either program. And what's left — in each instance — is a visually appealing, generally unassuming and moderately instructive half-hour of television.

In other words, don't really expect to learn how to install ceiling tiles by watching "Do It Yourself" this weekend. Curt Burbick and Avian Rogers will explain the technique, demonstrate the process and probably talk about how easy it is to do.

We all know, of course, that nothing can replace experience as a teacher.

But you can learn what's involved in a task that appears rather imposing — laying a hardwood parquet floor, for instance (the subject of a previously broadcast program).

Curt and Avian tackle that job cheerfully, not at all concerned that it might take longer than they planned to finish, or that they might mess it up.

"For most do-it-yourself projects," Avian enthuses, "you'll find most of the tools you'll need already in your toolbox." Not including, Curt adds, the drum sander and edger that you probably will have to rent.

Rest assured that these folks know what they are talking about. Curt started his own remodeling business in 1978, and that same year began teaching a drafting course for homeowners who wanted to do their own work. Avian has been a building contractor since she was 24.

Jim Tabor, host of "The Great Outdoors," is similarly qualified — an expert skier, canoeist, fisherman, backpacker and survivalist. He's a contributing editor of Outside magazine and a former editor of Cross Country Skier magazine.

The show is produced in association with Outside and the Appalachian Mountain Club, and is designed to familiarize the uninitiated with active pursuits like hang-gliding, snorkeling or plain hiking. This week's program features a segment on rock-climbing. Tabor, like Curt Burbick ("Wood's such a wonderful material... one of the most pleasant materials with which to work") appreciates the esthetics of his chosen field:

"The first time I saw a rock climber in action, I was reminded of a dance in the vertical plane," Tabor says. "The climber seemed to be moving up the rock from hold to hold so gracefully that he was like a bubble being borne up by some invisible force."

There is a refreshing spontaneity to both "The Great Outdoors" and

"Do It Yourself." "Where do we go from here?" Jim asks his guest expert, John Bragg, from the top of a large boulder. "Well," the climber replies, "I think it would be a good idea to climb down."

"The Great Outdoors" is magazine-style in format, and the upcoming installment includes segments on how to recognize and treat blisters, campsite cooking, Hawaiian canoeing and outdoor fashion.

The two series were introduced April 7 and continue through the end of June.

Stars Gathering For Cannes Event

CANNES, France (AP) — Film-makers, stars, critics and fans crowded into this Riviera resort today for the Cannes Film Festival, where nearly 300 movies will be screened almost non-stop over the next 13 days.

The 37th annual festival opens today with "Fort Saganne," a French-made colonial saga set in the Sahara, and ends May 23 with "The Bounty," a big-budget version of the famous South Pacific mutiny.

In between, if this year's extravaganza goes the way of predecessors, movie moguls will crowd into high-priced restaurants, cafes and bars along the Croisette, Cannes' coastal road, to try to cut the best possible film distribution deals.

While the dealmakers barter and the critics watch the screens, other Cannes visitors will be gawking at topless sunbathers on the resort's beaches.

The festival began as an art competition and showplace for Europe's avant-garde directors but has evolved into a huge movie marketplace.

Indeed, "outside the competition" films at the festival have soared in popularity over the years. One of them is "Fort Saganne," which stars Gerard Depardieu and Catherine Deneuve, who last teamed in Francois Truffaut's Academy award-winning "The Last Metro."

Other films up for the exposure and not for awards are Woody Allen's "Broadway Danny Rose," an homage to his early days as a cabaret performer, and Ingmar Bergman's "After the Rehearsal," a movie about actors and their real-life emotions. Neither director will be on hand to present his film.

Only 17 movies are competing for the Golden Palm, an award which can spell the difference between success and failure at the box office.

Court OK's Senate Plan

RALEIGH (AP) — A panel of three federal judges has approved seven new state Senate districts, allowing the state to schedule primaries there July 17 and runoffs Aug. 14.

Jim Wallace of the state attorney general's office said he received notification of the decision Thursday.

The decision affects Senate districts 1, 2, 6, 9, 10, 11 and 14.

They include all or parts of Beaufort, Bertie, Camden, Chowan, Currituck, Dare, Edgecombe, Franklin, Gates, Halifax, Harnett, Hertford, Hyde, Lee, Martin, Nash, Northampton, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Tyrrell, Vance, Wake, Warren, Washington and Wilson counties.

The three-judge panel ruled this year that state Senate Districts 2 and 22 and House districts 8, 21, 23, 36 and 39 unconstitutionally diluted minority voting strength. It was only the second time in history that a federal court had overturned plans with prior approval from the U.S. Justice Department.

The ruling by 4th Circuit Court Judge Dickson Phillips and District Court Judges Franklin Dupree and Earl Britt came in a suit filed by Ralph Gingles and other minority voters in 1981.

New districts were enacted in 1981 using statistics from the 1980 census. But the U.S. attorney general objected to a state constitutional amendment prohibiting lawmakers from dividing a county between two different districts and the Legislature met again in 1982 to redraw the districts.

After the three-judge panel's ruling, the Legislature enacted new districts March 8.

New Senate districts in Cabarrus and Mecklenburg counties will hold primaries June 5 and runoffs July 17 as will House districts in Mecklenburg, Wake, Forsyth and Durham counties.

Two House districts in Nash, Edgecombe and Wilson counties still must be approved by the U.S. Justice Department so primaries there have not been scheduled.

Stantonsburg Youth Charged

STANTONSBURG, N.C. (AP) — A 17-year-old armed with a butcher knife who allegedly attacked two women — one of whom was pregnant — has been charged with assault and attempted rape, Wilson County Sheriff's officials say.

Wilson County Sheriff Wayne Gay said James Artis was charged Thursday with assault with intent to murder, assault with a deadly weapon with intent to do bodily harm and attempted first-degree rape.

One of the victims, June

Shingleton, who is seven months pregnant, suffered a cut hand, Gay said. Ms. Shingleton's mother, Eleanor Shingleton, suffered a stab wound to the chest when she tried to help her daughter. Both women were treated at Wilson Memorial Hospital.

Council ...

According to Mayor Buck, the flashing signs are traffic hazards and affect the appearance of the city as well.

The council also approved three annexation requests during its Thursday meeting. Those asking for annexation rights were Unity Free Will Baptist Church which asked to incorporate approximately eight acres located on the east side of SR 1740 and west of Quail Ridge Subdivision, Satterfield North Raleigh Development Corporation and David Jones who petitioned annexation of approximately 8.7 acres known as Whichport Development located south of Greenville Boulevard and east of Nichols Shopping Center, and Myles Carterette who requested annexation of .967 acres located on SR 1204 east of Green Ridge Subdivision, south of Westhills Subdivision, and west of N.C. 43. All annexations were recommended by the Planning and Zoning Commission. Public opinion was solicited on each issue, but no one responded.

Rezoning requests by Thomas Anthony and Tucker Farms were also unanimously approved by the Council.

Anthony requested the rezoning of .386 acres located on the east and west side of Vance Street, between Fifth and Cherry streets, from high density residential to commercial downtown fringe.

The Tucker Farms request involved rezoning .923 acres located on the north side of U.S. 264 west of Tobacco Road from highway commercial to high density residential.

In a blanket decision, the council approved the scheduling of a public hearing on the proposed annexation of Quail Ridge Subdivision, a resolution establishing street and highway priorities to be presented to the N.C. Department of Transportation at a Division 2 informational meeting in New Bern May 16, and a request by Derek A. Sanderson for a privileged license to operate a pawn shop.

In final business, the council made the following appointments to local boards and commissions:

— Lucille Gorham and Ruth Trevathan to spots on the Community Appearance Commission that were created by the resignation of two board members. Each will serve a three-year term.

— John Shannonhouse to another five-year term on the Parking Authority.

Polly Dail to fill the unexpired term of David Bumgarner on the Human Relations Council.

— Dr. Patricia Rice to a second five-year term on the Housing Authority.

— Cordell Avery to a second three-year term on the Environmental Advisory Committee.

— Mrs. George Coffman and Francis Mebane to four-year terms on the Greenville City School Board.

— Dr. Wallace Wooles to a regular member of the Planning and Zoning Board. He had been an alternate. Wesley Hankins succeeds Wooles as an alternate.

— Mrs. Nelson Crisp to an unexpired term on the Greenville Foundation.

The Utilities Commission appointment was continued at the request of Councilman Stuart Shinn.

Vote ...

rather than the 1,254 reported Wednesday, while Raymond Taylor, in his bid for associate justice of the Supreme Court, received 6,292 votes, rather than the 6,085 reported. There was a 207-vote error in reporting the early returns from the Simpson precinct.

In the race for nomination as judge of the Court of Appeals, the official canvass gave 2,311 votes to Meyressa Schoonmaker, rather than the 2,201 unofficial total, while in the race for the Republican nomination as 1st District congressman, Herbert Lee's total was 948 rather than the reported 966 and Gene Leggett's total was 650, rather than 640.

Robert Halstead, unopposed in his bid for the Swift Creek seat on the Pitt County Board of Education, received 7,062 votes rather than 7,112.

Changes in the totals in the second and third district county commissioners' races reported in Thursday's edition of the Reflector resulted from changes in totals from Greenville 7 precinct. The officials totals gave Gene James 8,809 rather than 8,784 votes and Annette MacRae 3,821 rather than 3,815 in the second district race, while in the third district contest, incumbent Bruce Strickland received 7,791 votes rather than the 7,772 reported in Thursday's Reflector.

Thursday's official canvass also gave complete totals in the race for District Court judge for the 3rd Judicial District and in the race for the Greenville Board of Education, where totals for Simpson precinct were not reported Wednesday.

Randall Hunter of New Bern received an official 7,007 votes for the nomination as judge, while Don Hicks of Greenville, took 6,336 votes.

Official totals in the school board contest gave Ernest Brown 2,589 votes, Lena Brown 3,242 votes, Donovan Phillips 2,786, Jerry Smith 2,330, Jack Wall 3,340 and Sue Zadeits 3,989.

Gang Warfare

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Police say gang warfare in Jamaica's capital this week has left seven dead and at least one wounded.

Authorities said five unidentified bodies were found Wednesday, and a teen-age boy and a 25-year-old shopkeeper were killed Tuesday.

Runoff ...

By discounting Grooms' votes in figuring the majority, Gaskins holds a clear majority in the race.

If Grooms' votes are counted, Gaskins would not have a majority and Rouse would be eligible for a runoff, according to the attorney general's opinion.

Everette was unavailable this morning for comment on the two requests. However, it is expected that the elections board will allow Rouse and Johnson to appear at a hearing.

This is National Photo Week. The first actual photograph was produced in 1822 by French inventor Joseph Niepce. It required an exposure of up to 8 hours. Louis Daguerre refined the process, but an 1837 "daguerreotype" still required a 15-minute exposure. The subject's head was put in a clamp to hold it still. The first Kodak hand cameras had to be sent in with the film still inside. A reloaded camera was then sent back to the owner.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MAY 12, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you will be able to charm others by the attention and interest that you indicate in their welfare and activities, and you will find they respond to your concern by being helpful.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Showing more affection for allies brings good results during the daytime, but steer clear of arguments in the evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can get your environment improved considerably now and be more comfortable in the future. Be kind with co-workers.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Good day to get into recreations best enjoyed by your associates, but tonight stay at home and save money.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Show kin that you are willing to cooperate with them more and you get good results. Be calm, cool and poised.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) A fine day for telling your associates how much you like them. Be sure not to criticize. Thus you can improve relationships.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find some way of adding to present income and also get property affairs in better order. Try to cut down on expenses.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you tackle some definite personal aims in a positive fashion and are ingenious, you can gain them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A good day for ferreting out the truth in relationships with others; then use this knowledge wisely.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get busy at personal aims that are difficult to handle during work days, and use positive methods. Drive with care.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Fine day to get outside affairs handled for which you have had little time of late. If you state your aims, you will gain support.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Very interesting ideas can be yours now if you are alert. One who thinks differently from you can be of real assistance now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan what should be done to bring more happiness to your mate and then carry through with ideas. Show that you are dependable.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who will get along well with friends because of the innate understanding of their needs. Slant education along lines of endeavor where coordination with others is the prerequisite. Teach the power of making decisions quickly.

Charlie McGee is a happy, healthy eight-year-old little girl. Normal in every way but one.

She has the power to set objects afire with just one glance.

It's a power she does not want. It's a power she cannot control. And, each night, Charlie prays to be just like every other child.

But there are those who will do everything in their power to find her, control her...or destroy her.

Charlie McGee is Stephen King's

 Today's Cryptoquip clue: L equals I

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Wheat Prices May Reach 6-Year Low

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers can expect wheat prices to decline as a result of a bumper 1984 harvest, possibly to a six-year low, according to new projections by the Agriculture Department.

In a "highly tentative" look ahead, the department also projected a huge corn harvest this year of nearly 7.76 billion bushels, nearly double the skimpy 1983 harvest of 4.2 billion bushels.

Officials said Thursday in a new supply-and-demand report that the average price of wheat is expected to be in the range of $3.20 to $3.50 per bushel in the marketing year that will begin on June 1, down from $3.50 estimated for the 1983-84 season just ending.

According to department records, that would be the lowest season average price for wheat since farmers got $2.97 per bushel in the 1978-79 season. Prices rose to $3.78 in 1979-80, $3.91 in 1980-81, $3.65 in 1981-82, and $3.55 in 1982-83.

The analysis followed the department's report on Wednesday that estimated 1984 winter wheat production at 1.98 billion bushels, less than 1 percent below last year's huge output. Wheat industry officials said at the time that the big prospective crop would put pressure on prices.

Overall, the latest report said, total U.S. wheat output this year could be around 2.55 billion bushels, up from 2.43 billion in 1983. That would make it the third largest crop on record.

The biggest was 2.81 billion bushels in 1982, just edging the 1981 harvest of slightly less than 2.8 billion bushels, which was the second largest.

According to the analysis, another huge wheat crop this year would mean a resumption in the U.S. wheat surplus to about 1.47 billion bushels by the end of the 1984-85 marketing year on May 31, 1985. The old-crop inventory this May 31 is expected to be about 1.39 billion bushels, down from the record high of 1.54 billion bushels a year ago.

The latest winter wheat production figure is an official estimate based on field surveys as of May 1. Production of corn and some other 1984 crops were "projected" for the first time by USDA, based on assumptions that weather will be normal and yields in line with recent trends. The report said those projections should be viewed with caution, with an understanding that the figures could vary greatly.

The corn crop, which was only 10 percent planted by May 6, was projected at about 7.78 billion bushels. Last year's harvest dropped to 4.2 billion bushels as a result of drought and the government's payment-in-kind acreage program. Corn output set a record in 1982 of 8.36 billion bushels.

According to the projected figures, corn prices at the farm in the 1984-85 marketing year that will begin on Oct. 1 may average $2.65 to $3.20 per bushel, compared to an estimated $3.25 this marketing year and $2.68 in 1982-83.

The corn inventory is expected to be down to 520 million bushels by Oct. 1 from a record carryover of 3.14 billion bushels last fall.

Soviets' Imports Unclear

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says the Soviet Union may import 35 million metric tons of grain in 1984-85, the second largest amount in history and the sixth consecutive year of imports exceeding 30 million tons.

But the department said Thursday that if the Soviet Union's 1984 grain harvest turns out larger than 190 million tons, imports could be less than the 35 million tons now estimated in the international marketing year that will begin on July 1.

The USDA tentatively projected on Wednesday that this year's Soviet grain output will be around 190 million tons. However, the projection was said to be "highly tentative" and subject to revision when the department issues its official estimate of Soviet grain production about midyear.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal, for example, to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn.

Last year the Soviet Union produced 195 million tons of grain, the biggest harvest since the record output of 237.4 million tons in 1978.

Poor yields from successive crops forced Moscow to turn heavily to imports in order to feed an expanding livestock sector and to maintain inventories. The current heavy string of grain imports began in 1979-80 with 31 million tons, reaching a record of 46 million tons in 1981-82, according to the report. Shipments are expected to be about 31 million tons in 1983-84.

Travel Funds Denied

DANVILLE, Va. (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that the Virginia Agricultural Growers Association does not have to advance transportation money to domestic laborers recruited to harvest tobacco in southern Virginia.

Two Georgia workers — who were offered jobs by VAGA but could not afford to travel to Virginia — had asked the court to order the U.S. Department of Labor to require VAGA to advance travel funds to U.S. workers.

The workers, Sherman and Debra Paulk, alleged that migrant laborers recruited by VAGA from Mexico had received transportation advances last year.

U.S. District Judge Jackson L. Kiser, in a 14-page ruling Thursday, said he found no evidence that transportation advances paid by Jorge del Alamo's Del-Al Associates to Mexican workers last year originated from VAGA.

Del Alamo, a former president of VAGA, was under contract to the growers association to recruit laborers from Mexico and arrange their transportation from Texas to Virginia.

"It was clear that the risk of loss from Del-Al's operation fell upon Del-Al and not upon VAGA or its members," Kiser said.

The Labor Department certifies the need for temporary alien workers only if domestic labor is not available. Farmers cannot offer inducements to foreign laborers that they do not offer domestic workers.

Lawyers for the Paulks had argued at a hearing before Kiser last week that the Labor Department had made the payment of advance travel funds to U.S. workers a condition for certification this year.

Curtis M. Rowland, executive director of VAGA, testified that if the growers association was required to advance travel costs, it would refuse to recruit any workers at all.
