Council Calls For More Funding By GUC

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

A meeting of the Greenville City Council and members of the Greenville Utilities Commission Tuesday to review the proposed 1984-85 utilities budget turned into a meeting to discuss city requests that could cost the GUC an additional $662,000 in fiscal year 1984-85 and an additional $1.36 million beginning July 1, 1985.

Members of the Utilities Commission completed work on a proposed $58.72 million budget for the coming fiscal year — up $3.98 million from this year's $54.73 million budget — two weeks ago, and scheduled a meeting with the City Council to review the proposals Tuesday.

Monday, GUC members received a memo from City Manager Gail Meeks to GUC Director Charles Horne, dated May 14, which said in part, "I expect the City Council will offer its support for several requests ..." at the joint budget session. "To prevent any surprises at the meeting, I have summarized these requests ..." Mrs. Meeks' memo said.

The requests included:

— That the city receive a turnover from all utilities funds — electric, water, sewer and gas — rather than a turnover based on electric and gas only.

— That a municipal electric rate be established to sell electricity to the city and the commission at wholesale cost, rather than the present rate which is based on cost-of-service.

— That the commission assume responsibility for municipal street lighting, thus relieving the city of costs involved.

— And that an additional $500,000 in turnover be made in the 1984-85 budget to assist the city with capital needs.

Mrs. Meeks' memo continued,

"The city is aware that the commission has some major capital projects to fund in the next few years. Perhaps the burden of these capital needs will be lessened by the one-half cent sales tax for water and sewer which is now estimated to be around $200,000 in 1984-85.

"If the commission provides the additional $500,000 additional turnover in 1984-85," the memo concluded, "the net cost to the commission would be $300,000 because of the sales tax."

Opening the meeting, Mayor Janice Buck said that for the last two years, the city has had a "bare bones budget."

"We must play catch-up in areas where we've slipped behind," she said. "We (the council and commission) must act as one ... do what's best for all of the citizens."

Reviewing the requests, Mrs. Meeks said the additional $362,000 it (Please turn to page 16)

WORKER INJURED — Members of the Greenville Fire-Rescue squad give emergency aid to John Cox, an employee of Southmet Recycling Corp., Tuesday afternoon after a tank he was working on exploded. Other workers said Cox was cutting aluminum tanks when one tank exploded, sailing into the air. The tank hit

Cox's helmet and cut his head. Cox, who was thrown backward by the force of the explosion, was knocked unconscious for a short while. A co-worker said today that Cox was in the intensive care unit at Pitt County Memorial Hospital. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

City Panel Endorses Plan For Condos Near Hospital

By SUE HINSON
Reflector Staff Writer

Despite protests of four area residents, the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission endorsed the building of a condominium development on acreage near Pitt County Memorial Hospital during its regular meeting Tuesday night.

Commission members cited an increasing need for housing to handle Greenville's growing population before approving Collice C. Moore's request to zone his 23.65-acre holding to allow for the proposed multifamily dwellings. Moore's property is located on the southwestern corner of Stantonsburg Road and SR 1204.

The request will now go before the City Council for final approval carrying the commission's recommendation for acceptance.

Bubba Rawl, owner of property adjacent to Moore's, said he objected to the zoning request on the grounds of traffic safety. "With that many people on that small an acreage, congestion problems are bound to result," he said.

The zoning commission estimates that 114 people would live in Moore's proposed units and that those people would make 1,100 trips a day with the majority of those trips taking place during peak hours.

Tommy Edwards, also a property owner in the area, agreed with Rawl and told commission members that the safety issue needed to be "heavily considered" before a decision was made. "Before we make a decision on a short-term need for housing, we need to consider the long-term question of the safety of putting housing on this corner."

Another area land owner, John Satterfield, commented "that you have to live along that road to realize you're taking your life in your hands whenever you use that intersection. You just cannot see over the hill."

Satterfield added that Moore's development plans would result in nothing better than "a future slum."

"There won't be any place for the children to play and who's going to build a single-family unit next to a parking lot and dumpsters anyway?" Satterfield said.

According to Moore, the condos will be priced from $45,000 to $60,000.

In other business, the commission recommended approval of a three-part petition by William H. Clark to rezone land located on the south side of Red Banks extension to allow for office and institutional structures, duplexes and multifamily buildings and a buffer zone ranging from 50-30 feet.

U.S. Sees Booming Economy For Spring

By The Associated Press

More Americans found work, industrial production and housing starts rose sharply and domestic automakers reported their best early-May sales in five years as the nation's economy continued a spring boom.

Home building rebounded in April, with housing starts up 19.3 percent last month after plunging 27.3 percent in March, the Commerce Department said today.

Despite the best monthly performance since January 1983, many housing industry analysts are worried that a recent spurt of interest rates threatens to slow down the home construction business.

But so far, economic figures are pointing to continued brisk growth.

All 50 states recorded declines in their unemployment rates in March, the first such nationwide drop since the depths of the 1981-82 recession, the Labor Department said Tuesday.

Unemployment dropped by two or more percentage points in roughly four-fifths of the states from March 1983 to last March and plunged by four or more percentage points in Arizona, Michigan, Mississippi, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, West Virginia and Wisconsin, the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

West Virginia, with 16 percent unemployment, continued as the state with the highest joblessness, although its rate was down from 20.7 percent a year earlier.

The 1.4 percent jump in industrial production in April — the 17th straight increase — followed a modest 0.5 percent rise in March and was the strongest improvement since a 1.5 percent jump in January, the Federal Reserve said Tuesday.

Output gains were "widespread" in the nation's factories and mines except for auto plants, which had a slight drop due to plant closings caused by retooling for the new model year, it said. Auto assemblies dropped to an annual rate of 7.7 million units in April, down from 8.2 million in March.

U.S. automakers said Tuesday their early-May sales climbed 25.5 percent from a year earlier.

Julian Allsbrook Dies At Age 81

ROANOKE RAPIDS, N.C. (AP) — State Sen. Julian R. Allsbrook, D-Halifax, a conservative spokesman and a senior leader in the General Assembly, once said he nearly abandoned politics.

Instead, Allsbrook became a familiar name in the General Assembly since 1935. Allsbrook, who died Tuesday, was to attend his last Legislative session in June.

Allsbrook, 81, died at 1:40 a.m. in North Carolina Memorial Hospital of respiratory failure brought on by pneumonia, said hospital spokeswoman Cathy Bartlett.

"I've been serving with him since 1965," said state Sen. J.J. "Monk" Harrington, D-Bertie. "He was the dean of the Senate. He was an expert when it came to Constitutional law and was one of the most knowledgeable senators we have had."

In a 1977 interview, Allsbrook said that when he was elected student body president at the University of North Carolina in 1924, he swore that he would never enter the political arena again.

"I told them that if they ever heard of me running for public office again to go over to Dorothea Dix Hospital and bring a strait jacket and two strong men to take me away," Allsbrook said.

He added that his negative view diminished with time.

"Experience takes care of a lot of that," Allsbrook added.

Allsbrook, a 1924 graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, started his legislative career in 1935 as a member of the state Senate. He also served one term in the House in 1941.

Funeral services have been scheduled for Thursday at 3 p.m. at First Baptist Church in Roanoke Rapids.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Blake A. Auchmoody of Richmond, Va., and Mrs. Marion L. Fisher Jr. of Roanoke Rapids; one son, Richard B. Allsbrook of Roanoke Rapids, one brother, one sister and six grandchildren.

PCMH To Use Gift For Children's Park

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees Monday night accepted a gift from Mr. and Mrs. W.M. "Booger" Scales for the completion of building and furnishing a children's park at the hospital.

The Scales have requested that the park be built in honor of the staff of the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit of the hospital and Doctors Ben Shappley, Michael Bramley and Charles Willson. The Scales' granddaughter was a patient in the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit for sometime.

The park will be located between the West Tower and the administrative wing of the hospital and is designed to provide a structured non-threatening environment for pediatric patients and their families during the children's hospitalizations. Designed by the facilities management staff of the hospital, in consultation with representatives of the pediatrics and recreation therapy departments, the landscaped park will consist of a shelter, picnic tables, and a variety of playground equipment. Construction began in April and is expected to take 90 days.

The board gave approval for the East Carolina Health Services Inc. arm of the hospital to look into operating a free-standing episodic emergency center in Greenville. Such emergency clinics have been developed in other cities largely by free enterprise and the hospital hopes to provide the service here through the publicly owned facility.

Patient days during April were 13,048, or 2 percent under projected totals, Jack Richardson said. A hold-the-line budget is being planned and will be presented to the board in June, he said.

Fireman Files $60 Million Suit

Frank Leslie Dereberry, a former Winterville volunteer fireman, has filed suit with the clerk of Superior Court seeking $60 million in compensatory damages and $2 million in punitive damages because of injuries he received in a March 5, 1983, traffic accident at the intersection of N.C. 11 and N.C. 102 at Ayden.

Named as defendants in the suit are the Winterville Community Rural Fire Association, the town of Winterville, the county of Pitt, Sheriff Ralph Tyson, Deputy Harvey James Gardner and Winterville volunteer fireman Linwood Ray Hines.

Hines, the suit charges, was operating a fire department tank truck which collided with Dereberry's vehicle about 5:45 a.m. as both vehicles were traveling toward a fire between Ayden and Grifton.

According to the complaint, Dereberry suffered "disabling and permanent personal injuries and damages" from the collision, including a spinal fracture and dislocation which resulted in paralysis.

Gardner, operating his patrol car, according to the complaint, "passed the tanker truck as well as other emergency vehicles that were displaying their own flashing red emergency lights," then "suddenly slowed or stopped his vehicle in the" (Please turn to page 16)

Egyptians Defy Tradition To Train As Policewomen

By DALIA BALIGH
Associated Press Writer
CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Thirteen young women are defying conservative social and religious traditions by studying to become the first policewomen in Egypt's history.

They have been mocked and ridiculed in the media, harassed by their 107 male classmates and questioned by their families and friends.

Still, instructors at the Police Academy say the women have shown perseverance and enthusiasm during their year-long training, which includes criminal and civil law, self-defense, weapons and physical training.

The women themselves told The Associated Press that they are determined to prove themselves and fully intend to graduate with their male classmates in June.

"We are a living experiment," said Iman Gamal-el-Din, a 23-year-old university-trained sociologist. "And we will prove that Egyptian girls can take the hardships and work beside men."

Newspapers and magazines at first scoffed at the idea, claiming women were psychologically and physically too weak to take the responsibility of being policewomen, and advised them to stay at home and raise children.

Besides criticism from media and society, the women cadets claimed many of the male students were hostile toward them.

"We faced a lot of hostility at the beginning," said Faten Abu Lemon, 23, a graduate of the physical training college. "We felt they were not accepting us, their sarcasm and behavior were not pleasant, but now they seem to have gotten used to us."

Egyptian society is one of the most liberal in the Arab world regarding the place of women. By law, women must be represented in Parliament. Women hold posts ranging from the arts to management, and even such male-dominated jobs as taxi drivers and car park attendants.

But they are still constrained by traditions which deny them access to some jobs which demand strenuous physical labor or are frowned upon by society because of late hours or close contact with men.

One of the 13 female cadets is married and most of the rest are engaged. They said family and spouses had at first been reluctant to approve their careers.

"My father encouraged me, but both my mother and fiancé were not happy because they thought it would be too much danger and work," said Mona Ahmed el-Salmy, 23, a sociologist. "Now they see how much I enjoy it, and they have stopped attacking it."

Maj. Gen. Sobhy Shaaban, director of the Police Academy, said Egyptian traditions had not been completely overlooked and that the policewomen would be used exclusively in women's prisons, juvenile delinquent institutes, clerical work at police stations, public relations and to search female passengers at airports and customs points.

"Nearly 70 percent of the police work is social work, and they will participate in that sector," Shaaban said. "I chose them for the work where they are more efficient than men."

The women cadets scoffed at the idea they were not physically capable of serving as police.

"Our physical exercises are identical to those of the male cadets and we go through them easily," Amira Abdel-Aziz, 25, a sociologist, said.

All 120 male and female cadets in the class are university graduates.

The 13 women include three lawyers, seven sociologists, an engineer, a physical training college graduate and a nurse.

The women attend classroom lectures with male cadets, but they have separate exercise fields. The men are allowed to go home only twice a week, while the girls go home every day.

The women's daily uniform consists of wide khaki trousers and a zip-up thigh-length khaki jacket and beret. The school bends the rules to allow women to wear light makeup and jewelry.

Wicker Furniture Needs Cleaning

Wicker furniture and summer days just seem to go together, but wicker can become tired and dirty.

Dust it with a clean cloth or vacuum cleaner attachment, suggests Dr. Wilma Hammett, extension home furnishings specialist, North Carolina State University.

Raw wicker can also be washed. Spray it with a very fine spray from the garden hose. Be careful not to get the wicker too wet. If further cleaning is needed, use a mild detergent solution or soap, rinse well and dry thoroughly.

Dry the furniture upside down to help it retain its original shape. A coat of shellac once a year will enhance the beauty of raw wicker, the extension specialist says.

Painted wicker is cleaned the same as a piece of painted furniture, but do not get it too wet or the paint may peel or crack.

Dear Abby

Couple Living Together Are Million Miles Apart

DEAR ABBY: Eight years ago my husband came home and told me the doctor told him he had genital herpes. I'm 53 and he is 54.

I was shocked and hurt and tried to believe he caught it some way other than the obvious. He listed several possibilities, from building a house near an open sewer to kissing a lot of girls at a Christmas party. I never commented except to say that if I had come home and told him I had caught genital herpes that way, I wouldn't have been able to finish the second sentence. He laughed and agreed.

We rarely have sex, as he always has an excuse. I keep myself immaculate, am nice looking and wear size 9 jeans. I know other men find me attractive, but I never give them any encouragement. My husband and I occupy the same house but seldom talk. We can ride for two hours and no words are spoken except to criticize my shoes, clothes, etc. I never answer anymore; it's easier that way.

Thanks for letting me "talk" to you, Abby. I feel better already.

EMPTY MARRIAGE

DEAR EMPTY: The herpes virus could have been dormant in your husband's body for years until his lowered resistance caused it to become active. But where he caught it is the least of your troubles. You and your husband haven't been communicating either sexually or verbally for many years.

You're both too young to go on as you are, sharing only an empty marriage. At the risk of sounding like a broken record: Somewhere there is a marriage counselor who can replace this cold war with a reasonably warm relationship. "Seek and ye shall find."

DEAR ABBY: I am an animal lover—always have been. I've often wondered how animals "know" this. Domestic dogs and cats always sleep on top of me. Parakeets perch on my fingers even while I'm pounding a typewriter. Even in the wilds of the Pocono Mountains, wild birds have rested on my shoulder and chipmunks have eaten from my hand.

Is there an explanation for this? Maybe some of your readers know. I have no idea.

JULIET BRIDGMAN
IN NEW YORK

DEAR JULIET: Animals and birds are born with an instinctive sense that signals a warning in the presence of potential danger, as well as trust when there is no threat to fur or feather. They "know" intuitively who their friends are. Would that man were so blessed.

DEAR ABBY: I have had it with these yahoos who have no telephone manners. May I submit a few suggestions?

1. Call me at a decent hour. Mealtime is between 5:30 and 7 p.m. Bedtime is 10 p.m. A phone call in the middle of the night denotes death or heavy breathing. Also, remember that 10 p.m. in California is midnight here in Kentucky.

2. When you call, please don't say, "Hi, do you know who this is?" tell me.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

In a perfect blend of past and present, a traditional Folk Art design is worked in counted cross stitch on a new type of plastic canvas, creating the Edelweiss Trinket Box — a decorator accessory to help you end clutter in your home or office.

The Natural Weave plastic canvas mimics the basketry look so popular with today's needlecrafters. It's easy to handle, too. Just cut out the shapes you want, stitch the design of your choice in cross stitch and whip the pieces together. Regular 7-mesh colored canvas could be substituted if the Natural Weave is not yet available in your area.

To obtain directions for making the Edelweiss Trinket Box, send your request for Leaflet No. NL-0513 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, (The Daily Reflector), P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29597.

Or you may order Kit No. N-0513 by sending check or money order for $8.50 to Pat Trexler at the same address. Kit price includes shipping charges, full instructions, yarn, needle and Natural Weave canvas.

Dear Pat: Can you explain the differences in counted cross stitch and needlepoint cross stitch? — Clara C., Corvallis, Ore.

The only real difference, Clara, is the background material. Needlepoint is literally embroidery on canvas. Cross stitch is one of hundreds of stitches that can be used on canvas or fabric.

Counted thread embroidery refers to embroidery worked on any even weave fabric when the threads are counted to determine the placement of the stitches.

Happily, most of the cross stitch done in this country today is worked using a design taken from a graph chart with each symbol on the graph representing one cross stitch. As a rule, this creates a much more artistic piece than the old cross stitch pieces where the design was stamped on the fabric.

To work a single, basic cross stitch, bring the needle up in hole 1 and take it down in hole 2, diagonally above and to the right; bring needle up in hole 3 and take it down in hole 4 (Illustration A).

To work a row of horizontal stitches, work across from left to right making only the first half of each stitch (Illustration B); then work back in the opposite direction, crossing each previously made half cross stitch (Illustration C). Work in a similar manner for vertical cross stitches.

There are many fabrics on the market today that are suitable for cross stitch. Aida and Hardanger are the most commonly used. Any needlepoint canvas may be used for cross stitch although it is more often used on the heavier rug canvasses and on plastic, 7-mesh canvas. In my opinion, cross stitch is a "natural" for Natural Weave.

Because of the large amount of mail she receives, Pat is unable to answer your letters personally. However, she welcomes all questions and hints and will use those of general interest in the column whenever possible.

Perspective

For a time last Tuesday night there was an error in totals coming from the News Election Service computer in New York which put Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green in second place among the gubernatorial candidates.

Thus it appeared that Green might be eligible for a runoff election, confounding the pollsters who had predicted he would receive 10 percent or less of the votes.

Understandably, the totals caused jubilation in the Green headquarters and television crews sought Green out for comments on the unpredictability of polls. It had to be a crushing blow for the lieutenant governor to eventually learn that the figures were wrong and the nomination was lost.

Certainly we would wish that the embarrassing mixup in totals had not occurred. It teaches us, however, there is danger in putting too much stock in early election returns. All such returns are unofficial and they are transmitted by phone and then by computers. Large blocs of early votes can put a candidate ahead but the lead can shrink as later precincts report. Errors can occur, although they are usually caught and corrected as the tallying proceeds.

We think the late President Harry Truman had the best philosophy. Truman said he went to sleep on election night in 1948 and awoke to find what many though was impossible had occurred. He had won the presidential election.

Let It Stand

We really don't understand so much "surprise" expressed over the Soviet Union's announcement of a decision not to attend the Summer Olympics in Los Angeles.

For weeks, maybe months (who keeps count?) of complaining by various spokesmen of the USSR Olympics organization and government over various aspects of the Games in the United States, it should have been evident some kind of decision-making was under way. Pretexts were trial-ballooned all over the place.

Disappointment would be a more appropriate expression.

Our sympathies, of course, go to American athletes who will miss their big opportunity to pit their talents against the top medal-winning sports machine in the world. No doubt about it, the Soviet Union's athletes have posted a near-awesome record over the years.

It is easy to explain other Soviet-bloc countries similarly skipping the 1984 Games. There may be no coercion, but they know Big Brother is watching. Too, they dread the thought of any defections ... though that possibility never has seemed to worry our government nor the American public.

There is, so say some, a possibility the Kremlin could change its mind before the June deadline. If that is so, we trust that possibility is not tied to pleadings and/or special concessions. It would be an ignoble price.

It is Moscow's problem and that of the International Olympics Committee. Not ours. Be grateful for that.

DAR Goes After School Curricula

WASHINGTON — What are Phyllis Schlafly and the Daughters of the American Revolution afraid of?

At a recent DAR convention, more than 2,000 delegates passed a resolution encouraging members to "investigate and monitor local school curricula, protest the use of the 'new nuclear curricula' in schools and urge the elimination of politically motivated, anti-American material from the classroom."

Schlafly, the anti-ERA activist and "national chairman of national defense" for the DAR, contended that none of the nuclear war courses taught by public schools are "good history or good science. They are courses that promote despair and depression" Ms. Schlafly insisted, "and they contain political propaganda in favor of pacifism and against a strong national defense."

But such criticisms couldn't be more off-base. Surveys have consistently shown that a majority of Americans under 20 believe that a nuclear war will occur in their lifetimes. It is to students' fears and feelings of helplessness that some educators have tried to respond.

Meanwhile, an example of the "propaganda" cited by Ms. Schlafly advises students on how to use — not attack — the American system to make their opinions heard. The pamphlet, "Choices," published by the National Education Association and produced by the Union of Concerned Scientists, advises readers on how to write a congressman and organize study groups and seminars.

"Our interest was to provide data and help (students) sort through it to make conclusions about the future," says Robert McClure, associate director of the NEA's Department for Instruction and Development.

"It's nothing more than an old-fashioned civics lesson."

McClure adds that pilot programs involving 2,000 students resulted in a full spectrum of conclusions about nuclear war and strategy, ranging from support for disarmament to advocacy of increased defense expenditures.

Such a balanced outcome would seem ideal. But either Ms. Schlafly and the DAR simply can't stomach the NEA or, as most conservatives are with sex education, they believe ignorance is bliss.

Libya's Col. Muammer Khaddafy, who reportedly survived the latest of attempts to overthrow him, spent two months in an Egyptian mental hospital in 1979, according to Kamal Hassan Ali, Egypt's foreign minister. Hassan Ali told the Vienna newspaper, Kurier, last week that Khaddafy was treated for "schizophrenia and depression." While Egypt and Libya have been at odds for many years, the Egyptian allegations may be more than mere propaganda. U.S. Intelligence officials have reported similar tendencies in Khaddafy's personality.

The social and political attitudes of American college students change little during their four years of study, according to Jon Miller, director of the Public Opinion Laboratory at Northern Illinois University. Miller studied the experiences of 2,000 students as they progressed from freshman orientation to graduation day. "This is not a generation that wants to reform the world ...," Miller concluded. "If someone else reforms society, they probably won't even notice."

Vice President George Bush has raised some eyebrows at the U.S. Department of Agriculture. On a recent campaign trip to Arkansas, Bush declared that reductions in federal school lunch subsidies hadn't hurt the poor but instead ensured that taxpayers would no longer "subsidize a bunch of rich kids."

USDA officials conceded, however, that the Reagan administration has knocked at least a million children from needy families off the program.

Public Forum

To the editor:

Freedom of speech and press are rights protected under Amendment 1 of the Constitution. Gary Jones exercised this right when he voiced his concern over the transvestites on Dickinson Avenue. He cannot legally be fired from his employment for exercising his right to freedom of speech. Mr. Jones even stated that he was not speaking on behalf of his employer (White's Stores) or the city of Greenville, but as a concerned citizen. He wanted this incident brought to the attention of the people in Greenville because it is a growing problem.

Now my question is this — why did the mayor phone Mr. Jones' employer to inform him that Gary Jones had written a letter to her concerning this issue and, by doing so, jeopardize this man's job? It seems to me that this type of conduct by the mayor will serve to discourage public opinion for fear the mayor may call their employer and complain! It was only after Mr. Jones could not get action on this issue that he turned to the television media to expose this problem. I feel that, if this letter to the city had been regarded properly, there would have been no firing from his employment and no subsequent television interview.

The fact remains that there is a problem of solicitation for sex on Dickinson Avenue. Whether by males or females — solicitation for sex is illegal. Mr. Jones simply wanted this problem brought to the attention of the proper officials. He has a right — a fundamental right — to voice his opinion without fear of his employer, the mayor or anyone else! Hooray for Gary Jones.

Paying For The 'News'

There is some question as to whether NBC paid for an exclusive interview on the "Today Show" with Colonel Qaddafi after the Libyan Embassy shootout in London. CBS claims they were originally offered Qaddafi for $5,000, and turned it down. But CBS did pay a half million dollars for a three-part interview with former President Nixon.

It is obvious that the price of exclusive interviews with world figures will soon be an important part of the "news" business.

Every world leader worth his salt will eventually hire show biz agents to haggle over fees for appearing on American TV.

"Hello, Gerry, this is Sam at the William Darkness Agency. Are you sitting down? How would you like the Ayatollah Khomeini, on his rug, for five minutes tomorrow night?"

"How much are you asking for him?"

"One hundred thousand dollars."

"You're crazy, Sam. We got Qaddafi for $5,000."

"Qaddafi is a bush-league terrorist. Khomeini hasn't been seen on American television for over a year.

He's willing to dump on the United States and the Soviet Union, and declare a Holy War on China. If you don't want to deal I'll call ABC."

"Do I have your word that he won't appear on any of the other networks for six months?"

"You have to be kidding. If you want an exclusive it will cost you $200,000. Look, we're talking about one of the most hated men in the Western World. You want ratings, you have to pay through the nose."

"Okay, we'll take him. Who else have you got for next week's morning show?"

"How about Madame Marcos? She knocked them dead on '60 Minutes."

"Will she talk about the Aquino assassination?"

"She'll talk about anything if the price is right. Cable TV offered me $75,000 and I turned them down. Madame Marcos is one of a kind, and I'm not going to sell her for scale."

"For that kind of money we're going to ask the tough questions."

"She's used to tough questions."

"Okay, we'll book her."

"Gerry, are you still sitting down? How about Klaus Barbie? I can let you have him for $50,000. You'll be the first network to interview the 'Butcher of Lyons.' You could put him against 'Love Boat.'"

"He's not that known in the states."

"Okay, forget Barbie. Would you go for a package deal of Assad of Syria, Arafat of the PLO and Fidel Castro?"

"What will it cost us?"

"Seven hundred and fifty thousand. The other networks have expressed extreme interest, and the only reason I'm mentioning it to you is that they won't guarantee the show for prime time, which is the only way my three guys will go on."

"Let me get back to you on that. What have you got in your American stable?"

"I can give you Louis Farrakhan, but he's real hot now and it'll cost you."

"Will he promise to stay off the other news shows if we sign him?"

"If the price is right, he belongs to you people until the November election."

Democrats Can't Write Off The GOP Opponent

RALEIGH — In a typical election year, Democratic voters would go to the polls for the June 5 run-off fairly confident that their gubernatorial nominee would, in November, be elected governor. It would be a presumption based on the historical fact that the Republicans have elected only one governor in this century.

But 1984 is not a typical election year. The GOP ticket is headlined by two popular candidates, President Reagan and Sen. Jesse Helms, and the party's nominee for governor, U.S. Rep. Jim Martin, is considered by many Democrats to be a very worthy opponent.

Therefore, with the campaign for the Democratic nomination narrowed to Attorney General Rufus Edmisten and former Charlotte Mayor Eddie Knox, many Democrats are asking which of those two candidates can run the better campaign against Martin and maintain the party's grip on the Executive Mansion.

Both the Knox and Edmisten camps can argue that their man is better equipped to take on Martin in the fall. It is the perfect subject for a political argument because everyone can take a position and no one can ever be proved right or wrong.

Edmisten supporters point to independent polls — several months old — which show that Edmisten would score 10 or more percentage points higher against Martin than would Knox. Walter DeVries, Knox's pollster, says his polling shows the two men would fare about as well.

Dick Carlton, Edmisten's statewide campaign director, says Edmisten has the kind of political reputation which will be needed to face Martin. "He's basically a populist candidate who appeals to the masses. He's seen as a consumer advocate who fights the utilities," Carlton said Edmisten is also widely recognized for his crime-fighting — especially against drug pushers — as attorney general. That image will endear him to conservatives who might otherwise be lured by Martin, Carlton said.

Bill Bost, Edmisten's Moore County manager, added that his candidate is also better known statewide. "He's run in every county in this state three times in the past 10 years." Bost and Carlton both said that Edmisten would better hold together the Democratic Party because he's been active in party affairs, statewide, for those 10 years.

Knox supporters say their man is more likely to beat Martin. Their major argument is not philosophical, it is geographical.

The Knox folks say that the Democrats must cut into Martin's base of support in the greater Charlotte area. Martin's congressional district is centered in Charlotte. "This year looks like 1972," says DeVries. "They (the GOP) will have a strong ticket like 1972 and the lesson of that year was that (Skipper) Bowles (the Democratic nominee) lost in the Charlotte area." Bowles lost to the GOP's only governor in this century, Jim Holshouser. Bob Wynne of Raleigh, a former state senator who is supporting Knox, made the same argument. "Eddie can split Martin's base" while maintaining a hold on the Democrats' eastern base, Wynne said.

Wynne said Knox also takes away the "fresh face" advantage which Martin would enjoy in a race against Edmisten. Although Martin and Knox are both veteran politicians, they are just becoming known statewide. Edmisten has been around for 10 years.

Knox and Edmisten differ on some issues but they both come from the party's middle. Some loyal Democrats who see little difference between the two might choose between them on the basis of their perceived strength against Martin.

Strength For Today

It is natural for people to gather together in groups, making their selection of friends on the basis of common interests. Jesus gathered about him a group of disciples who could sustain, comfort and encourage him in hours when he needed such support. It is pernicious, however, for us to be party to the creation of cliques.

There have been little cliques or oligarchies in the past made up of men gathered together for the purpose of exerting tyranny over their fellows. There are social cliques today of men and women who consider themselves superior to the general run of mankind and want to be associated only with people they consider superior.

Let us have associations based on common interest which still have sympathy and respect for the rest of mankind. But let us avoid that decline of wider fellowship into cliques, little groups sufficient unto themselves and hostile to most of the life about them.

Pentagon Says U.S. Militarily Ready Although Supplies Short

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's "warfighting capability" has improved over the last four years despite a temporary decline in readiness in some Army and Air Force units caused by a slow buildup of supplies, the Pentagon says.

The Defense Department said Tuesday in a report to the Senate Armed Services Committee that higher military spending under the Reagan administration is "beginning to show results."

"U.S. warfighting capability is substantially greater," the report said, and "steady improvement is projected in the future."

"We have more and better people, they are better trained, and our men and materiel are better supported," the report said.

The version of the 124-page document made public was censored to delete statistics reflecting the readiness ratings of military units. Officials said that action was taken for security reasons.

Indications of weaknesses in the nation's military buildup, however, appeared in the document, which acknowledged that the stockpiling of ammunition and spare parts had been "rather flat." It attributed that shortcoming to "austere funding levels" under the Carter administration.

"Unfortunately," the report said, building such stockpiles "is a slow and expensive process."

Over the last four years, equipment and "supplies on-hand readiness" have "declined in the Army and the Air Force," the report said.

"This apparent reduction in readiness, however, is only temporary and is more than offset by modernization improvements that enhance overall capability," the report said.

At a news conference, Deputy Defense Secretary William Howard Taft IV described the military as "ready to do the missions we are asked to do."

Marine Commandant Paul X. Kelley told reporters the services are "not yet where we'd like to be in warfighting capability" but that compared to their state of readiness in 1980 they are "considerably better off."

Army Lt. Gen. Fred K. Mahaffey said the readiness of Army units has dropped off by about 4 percent "because of the drag effect" in the acquisition of new equipment. Air Force Maj. Gen. David McNichols said most of the service's units are in a state of "substantial" readiness for war but that "spares are the critical problem."

Vice Adm. J.A. Lyons Jr. said all Navy units deployed recently "have been substantially combat ready," while the report described Marine land and aviation units as being "at high levels of readiness."

Under White House pressure, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger cut $2.5 billion from readiness accounts for fiscal 1985. Taft said that action would "have an impact on our capability."

"It will mean we will have to delay some of the things we wanted to do sooner," Taft said.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the report "demonstrates conclusively that our combat capabilities have improved significantly" but acknowledges that the services "still fall short of the goals we must meet if we are to defend this nation adequately."

Vote On MX Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — House opponents of the MX missile say they have the votes to shoot down the much-debated nuclear weapon, but President Reagan is lobbying until the last minute to try once again to save the centerpiece of his defense buildup.

The House was scheduled to vote this afternoon on whether to give the Pentagon authorization to go ahead and buy more of the 10-warhead weapons in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

The vote will be only the first of several congressional decisions this year on the MX.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said Tuesday that MX opponents have 220 votes — two more than necessary — and predicted the Democrat-controlled House will send Reagan "a message: the people want arms control, now."

The MX battle is the major fight in House efforts to pass a bill authorizing the Pentagon to spend $285 billion in fiscal 1985. That would be an inflation-adjusted increase of 6 percent, compared to the Pentagon's original request of a 13 percent hike in the fourth year of Reagan's five-year defense buildup.

House Panel Wants Man-Tended Station

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House appropriations subcommittee, bowing to critics, is requiring the U.S. space agency to include a "man-tended" facility in its planning for an $8 billion manned space station.

The subcommittee voted Tuesday to appropriate $150 million in start-up money for the manned station, but said $15 million of that must be used to plan a station that would be serviced periodically by crews carried aloft by the space shuttle.

President Reagan has set a space station as the country's next major goal in space and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration hopes to have one aloft by 1992.

The $150 million, plus $250 million to be added in the next fiscal year, are for studies to determine what the station will look like and what it is intended to do.

Rep. Bill Green of New York, the ranking Republican on the subcommittee on Housing and Urban Development and independent agencies, had fought for a two-track approach, saying "the aim is to give us a choice between permanently manned and man-served," stations.

The full Appropriations Committee is expected to vote on the bill next week.

NASA has predicted that the manned station will cost $8 billion in current dollars. But critics, citing past cost overruns at the expense of other projects, fear the station will

Religion-School Issue Dropped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Battered by arguments their bill would bring devil worship and cults to the classroom, sponsors of defeated legislation to allow student religious meetings in public high schools say they're abandoning the fight for 1984.

Shortly after the bill failed in the House Tuesday, chief sponsor Don Bonker, D-Wash., said "you can take my word" it would not be revived this year. "We've got other things to work on."

Floor manager Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., told colleagues before the decision. "This is the only vote you're going to get on equal access (to classrooms). This is it."

The bill would have given student religious organizations an equal opportunity to use school facilities during non-class time, if the building was available for other extracurricular groups.

Teachers could only have acted as monitors. Any violations could have meant a cutoff of federal aid to a local school district.

The House voted 270-151 for the legislation, with one member voting "present" and 11 not voting. But that total was 11 short of the two-thirds majority needed under a procedure requested by the bill's sponsors. Their purpose was to disallow amendments, which are prohibited under the same procedure.

Bonker said he and Perkins requested the special procedure, fearing that otherwise the measure would be "amended to death" not only by civil liberties lawmakers opposed to it but by conservatives seeking to add provisions to expand religious activities in schools.

Supporting the bill were 123 Democrats and 147 Republicans. Opposed were 134 Democrats and 17 Republicans.

The bill was the second defeat within two months for members of Congress and supporters who wanted some way of keeping organized religion in the schools. On March 20, the Senate voted 56-44 against a proposed constitutional amendment to permit organized, spoken prayer in public schools.

President Reagan had fought for the school prayer amendment as a major election-year issue. He then embraced the concept of equal opportunities for student religious groups.

Bonker tried vainly to separate the prayer and religious meeting issues, saying during debate. "This is not the school prayer issue, nor is it the son of school prayer or grandson of school prayer. All it does is to say, if a school allows a Young Republican club to meet, equal treatment must be given to religious groups."

SURRENDERS — Fugitive Michael Alexander Bortin, 35, surrendered Tuesday to the FBI in San Francisco. Bortin has been sought since 1977 for violation of probation. He once was linked to the Symbionese Liberation Army, which kidnapped Patty Hearst. (AP Laserphoto)

Fugitive Surrenders

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A fugitive linked to the kidnappers of Patty Hearst says he abandoned a comfortable life built up during seven years as a wanted man and surrendered to the FBI because "it seemed to mean a lot" to his dying mother.

Michael Alexander Bortin surrendered Tuesday after staying up all night with his mother, Barbara, 65, who has cancer.

Linked by authorities to the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army, Bortin was to be turned over today to San Francisco police after a brief appearance before a U.S. magistrate, who was expected to dismiss a federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

The 35-year-old house painter also faces a 1976 felony charge that he perjured himself on a driver's license application, according to U.S. Attorney Robert Ward.

It was unclear whether Bortin would face any state action in connection with the revocation of his probation on a 1972 explosives possession charge.

Bortin had been sought since March 4, 1977, on a federal warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for violating parole.

"It wasn't like I was going to get caught," said Bortin, who said he has a wife and 4-year-old son and had "prospered" painting houses and plastering. He declined to say where he'd been living.

Bortin said he went underground to avoid continual harassment by authorities because of his alleged SLA connection.

"It was an everyday grind that eats away at your relationships and your family," he said. "It was a relief to get away from that."

Bortin said his mother's illness was the key to his surrender.

Hart Campaign Gets Psychological Lift

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

Sen. Gary Hart, manhandling Walter F. Mondale in Nebraska and Oregon, has won a psychological lift that overshadows the small number of delegates gained for his longshot drive to rebound and win the Democratic presidential nomination.

Although Walter F. Mondale lost by 2-to-1 margins in the two Western states on Tuesday, he noted his continuing improvement in the delegate count and predicted, "By the time of the convention, I think we'll have enough delegates to secure my nomination."

But Hart, in an interview broadcast today on the CBS-TV "Morning News," predicted that, by the convention, "I'm not going to be substantially behind. That delegate gap will be closed dramatically. It will be a neck-and-neck horse race."

The Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, in California, offered no comment on the results from Oregon, where he had not campaigned, and Nebraska, which he visited last week. He finished a distant third in both states.

Not surprisingly, Hart said the twin victories were further evidence of his strength as a western candidate capable of defeating Californian Ronald Reagan in next fall's general election.

"Now we've won all but one state west of the Mississippi," Hart told supporters in his adopted hometown in Denver. He apparently was referring to primaries only, with Louisiana the lone loss, since he has lost several Western caucuses including Texas.

After the final round of primaries June 5 including delegate-rich California, he said, "I think I'll be able to say we've still won all but one state west of the Mississippi."

Oliver Henkel, the Hart campaign manager, said the wins "recreated momentum and the sense of vitality in the campaign" and showed a "tremendously broad rejection of his (Mondale's) candidacy by these two states."

Despite Mondale's big delegate lead, Henkel said, "The viability of (Mondale's) candidacy has to be seriously questioned."

There were 67 delegates at stake on Tuesday in states where Mondale campaigned not at all in Oregon and only one day in Nebraska.

Hart held a total of 45 — 29 from Oregon and 16 from Nebraska. Mondale led for 22 — 14 from Oregon and 8 from Nebraska.

With ballots counted from 99 percent of Nebraska's precincts, the vote was:

Hart, 85,997 or 59 percent.

Mondale, 39,103 or 27 percent.

Jackson, 13,402 or 9 percent.

In Oregon, with results from 82 percent of the state's 2,452 precincts, the vote was:

Hart, 185,061 or 59 percent.

Mondale, 86,428 or 27 percent.

Jackson, 30,314 or 10 percent.

Based on Tuesday's contests, the delegate totals are:

Hart, 979.75

Mondale, 1,599.06

Jackson, 295.2

Uncommitted, 304

Others, 55.

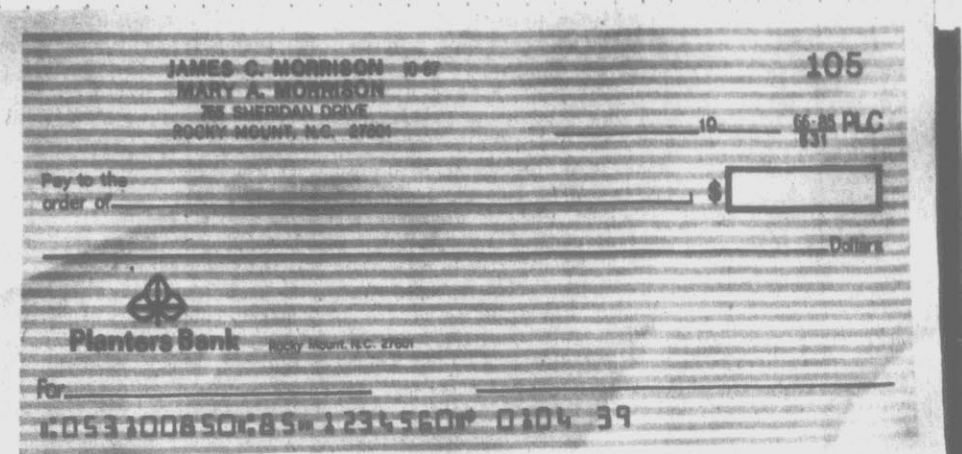

Some 1,967 delegates are needed for the nomination.

Besides emphasizing his natural constituency in the West, Hart is hoping to demonstrate that despite his earlier string of losses in industrialized states in the Midwest and Northeast, he is a stronger national opponent than Mondale against Reagan.

A majority of Nebraskans questioned in exit polls by CBS News after leaving the polls said they believe Hart has a better chance of beating Reagan this fall.

Hart plans to use the "electability" argument with about 600 uncommitted and unpledged delegates before and during the party's convention in San Francisco, now just eight weeks away.

Study Says Waste Cleanup To Cost Government More

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing a new study predicting that the $1.6 billion "superfund" program to clean up hazardous waste will be hopelessly inadequate, congressional sponsors are pressing for a fivefold expansion of the program this year.

The study by the General Accounting Office, an investigative arm of Congress, says the cost of cleaning up polluted waste sites could fall anywhere between $5.3 billion and $26 billion.

The GAO estimates, released Tuesday, are even more far ranging than estimates offered earlier by the Environmental Protection Agency, which suggested the cost could range from $8.4 billion to $16 billion.

The GAO said the range reflects the lack of hard information on how much of a hazard is posed by the abandoned waste dumps. EPA also has argued that further study is needed before recommendations can be made on what to do with the "superfund" program.

But Rep. James J. Florio, D-N.J., chairman of the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee on commerce, said the estimates show clearly that the present $1.6 billion "superfund" program will never be able to accomplish its goals.

"It is beyond dispute that the program has to be expanded and extended," Florio said.

Florio urged Congress to enact legislation introduced by him which would increase the "superfund" to $9 billion and extend it for another five years.

He said the GAO report suggests that a midline figure of $15 billion "represents the more plausible basic price tag" for cleaning up polluted sites.

Florio made the plea Tuesday before the House Public Works and Transportation subcommittee on water resources, one of the numerous congressional panels with jurisdiction over the "superfund" law.

That subcommittee was continuing hearings today on the "superfund" law, while the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee began its hearings on reauthorization of the program.

The "superfund," financed primarily from taxes on the chemical industry, was enacted in 1980 in the wake of New York's Love Canal disaster.

It was intended to prevent dangerous pollution from remaining intact and threatening health, while polluters and enforcers fought it out in the courts.

It also was supposed to provide a quick source of federal money to clean up abandoned sites that threaten human health, leaving the pursuit of the polluters for later.

The program was plagued at first by poor management; its handling prompted the congressional investigation into EPA that ultimately led to the resignation of former Administrator Anne M. Burford.

But also during that period, the scope of the problem became more apparent, as well as the likely expense.

Snowmelt Flooding Rockies

By The Associated Press
Rocky Mountain states already besieged by flooding and mudslides were hit with a second straight day of rain today amid predictions that the "really rapid snowmelt is just starting" and a reservoir is about to spill its banks.

Residents of Oakley, a town of 700 people in south-central Idaho, were warned to "be prepared to move" as forecasters said the Oakley Reservoir would overflow by the weekend.

In Colorado, meanwhile, the town of Oak Creek was declared a disaster area by Routt County authorities after three of its four bridges were washed out Tuesday and another was under water, cutting the community of 1,000 people in half.

A state of emergency was expected to be declared today in Utah's Salt Lake County, state flood control spokeswoman Barbara Woolf said. A similar declaration was issued Monday in Utah County.

Three people have died and a fourth is missing since temperatures in the 80s and 90s touched off Western snowmelt flooding over the weekend.

"A light rain is falling in northern Utah," Nolan Duke of the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo., said today. "They'll have scattered showers throughout the day. Obviously, anything they get will hurt."

Duke said melting of snowpacks as much as 13 feet deep will slow somewhat as temperatures dip into the 60s and 70s today, but he predicted the mercury will get back into the 80s by the weekend.

"The really rapid snowmelt is just starting," Duke said.

Thunderstorms with winds gusting at near-hurricane force of 74 mph knocked down trees and caused power outages in four counties in Idaho Tuesday and the cold front brought May snow to central Nevada, where 6 inches fell at Austin after midnight.

Officials in Idaho said the Oakley Reservoir was sure to flood this weekend for the first time in 60 years.

"People along the old Goose Creek drainage should be prepared to move themselves and their belongings," Cassia County Disaster Services Director Terry Bingham said Tuesday.

The Army Corps of Engineers met with county officials to plan a way to channel the water and Gov. John Evans put the Idaho National Guard on standby.

Record flooding was reported in southern Idaho along the Portneuf River, which was more than 5 feet over flood stage at Pocatello. Sandbag crews were working to protect threatened homes.

Researchers Identify Genetic Defect Cited For Kidney Cancer In Children

NEW YORK (AP) — The identification of the genetic defect responsible for a kidney cancer in children could lead to the discovery of similar defects causing lung, colon and breast tumors, America's leading cancer killers, researchers say.

The discovery of these genetic defects would allow the identification of people especially susceptible to the cancers, scientists said in interviews Tuesday.

Finding the defects could also make possible quicker diagnosis of cancer, thus improving the chances it could be controlled or eliminated.

In reports from four independent research groups in the current issue of Nature magazine, scientists say they have found a specific genetic defect in 12 of 22 patients with the childhood kidney cancer called Wilms' tumor.

The cancer strikes about one in 10,000 people, according to Webster Cavenee, a molecular biologist at the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine and principal author of one of the reports.

Testing for the defect could theoretically allow doctors to identify children at risk of the disease, but Wilms' tumor is not common enough to justify testing all children, says Dr. Stuart Orkin of the Dana Farber Cancer Institute in Boston, principal author of another report.

"I doubt this has much immediate implication in terms of prevention or treatment," Orkin said in a telephone interview. "The treatment is pretty good right now."

Wilms' tumor can be cured about 70 percent of the time, according to the American Cancer Society.

The significance of the research is that it highlights a new way cancer can be triggered, Orkin said.

The other laboratories reporting the discovery of the Wilms' tumor defect were at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in Baltimore and at the University of Otago and Dunedin Hospital in Dunedin, New Zealand.

"The utility of this is that it will allow understanding of how these tumors develop," said Bert Vogelstein of the Johns Hopkins group. Eventually that could lead to new means of prevention and treatment, he said, but such developments will take time.

"I wouldn't want anyone to get the idea that this research would allow anyone who has the disease to be cured," Vogelstein said.

Dr. John Minna, a lung cancer expert at the National Cancer Institute, is looking for a similar defect in what is called small-cell lung cancer, which afflicts 25,000 to 35,000 Americans every year.

The discovery of such a defect would allow doctors to say with certainty which patients are susceptible to that cancer. Those patients could be advised not to smoke, with the virtual assurance that they would get cancer if they disregarded the advice.

The genetic defect was traced to chromosome 11, one of the 23 pairs of gene-carrying chromosomes that pass hereditary traits from one generation to the next.

It appears that if only one member of that pair has the defect, the disease will not develop. In that case, the normal member of the pair seems to somehow protect against the development of the cancer, Cavenee said in a telephone interview.

"People are carrying these genes in which the removal of the function has some effect on the genesis of tumors," he said. "These are genes we never even knew existed."

A similar defect was previously identified in retinoblastoma, a children's eye cancer, by Cavenee and others at the University of Utah and Harvard Medical School.

That discovery was of immediate significance, because retinoblastoma often runs in families. That meant doctors could test for the presence of the genetic defect in children of families in which retinoblastoma was known to exist.

Such testing is already making possible prenatal diagnosis of susceptibility to the disease.

Cancer-Fighting Drug To Be Tested

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new cancer-fighting drug that works like a "fake virus" will be tested on leukemia patients and other cancer victims with a $5.5 million federal grant awarded to Philadelphia's Hahnemann University.

Preliminary tests of the drug ampliten indicated seven of 12 patients with advanced cancers had "partial or more than partial tumor response," Dr. William Carter, director of clinical research at Hahnemann, said Tuesday at a Capitol Hill news conference.

"We have evidence it will be even more effective in earlier stages," Carter added. "We are trying to treat cancer as early as we can — hopefully in the very early stages after the first fuse is lit."

The three-year grant from the National Cancer Institute will be used to test human response to ampliten, the fruit of a 12-year, $20 million research effort at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

Ampliten is described as a "fake virus" that blocks the proliferation of cancerous cells or converts cancerous cells back to normal ones. And unlike most cancer chemotherapies, researchers say ampliten stimulates the body's immune system instead of depressing it.

The stimulation triggers the production of interferon, the body's first line of defense against viruses.

Paper Says Four Sought In Kennedy Death

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Drug-conspiracy warrants have been issued for the arrests of four people in the death last month of David Kennedy, son of the late Sen. Robert Kennedy, according to a report published today.

The Fort Lauderdale (Fla.) News and Sun-Sentinel, quoting sources close to the investigation, said warrants charging drug conspiracy have been issued for the arrests of four people in Kennedy's death at the plush Brazilian Court Hotel near the family's oceanfront winter home.

The newspaper said details of the warrants would be withheld until the suspects are in custody.

Meanwhile authorities in Rhode Island said Peter A. Marchant, 24, had been arrested and faced arraignment there on a fugitive warrant from Florida. Rhode Island State Police Lt. Richard M. Wheeler said the man is wanted by Palm Beach police on a charge of conspiracy to sell cocaine and selling cocaine.

It wasn't immediately known whether Marchant was one of the four referred to in the newspaper story, but Wheeler said Florida officials believe Marchant "may have some knowledge about and may be involved some way with the death of David Kennedy."

Palm Beach police spokesman Henry Marchman refused to comment on the report, but said a statement would be issued later.

Marchant was arrested without incident at his home Tuesday night in Warwick, R.I., Wheeler said.

Marchant's father, John, of Warwick, said in a telephone interview today that his son worked as a bellhop last winter at a Palm Beach hotel "that I understand was the one where David Kennedy died. The Brazilian something or other."

Kennedy, 28, was found dead April 25 in a suite at the Brazilian Court, several miles from the estate of his grandmother, Rose Kennedy.

A preliminary autopsy report said officials found "significant amounts" of cocaine and the painkiller Demerol in his body. Florida authorities also said 1.3 grams of cocaine was found in Kennedy's hotel room.

Officials have not disclosed the cause of Kennedy's death. Earlier this month, a Florida judge barred the release of information relating to the death, saying it would hamper the investigation.

Wheeler said warrants for Marchant's arrest, issued by the 15th Judicial Court in Palm Beach, were delivered Tuesday to state police.

Marchant's father said his son also had worked summers as a parking attendant at a club in Narragansett, R.I., and several winters at the Everglades Club in Palm Beach.

Besides parking cars at the Everglades Club last winter, Marchant worked part-time as a hotel bellhop, his father said.

Plane Attacks Tanker In Gulf

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — An unidentified warplane attacked a Saudi Arabian oil tanker in Saudi waters near the industrial center of Jubail today, the company that owns the tanker said.

A fire caused by the attack was under control four hours later and there were no casualties, said a spokesman for the Arabian International Maritime Co.

The ship was the third Saudi tanker to be hit in the Persian Gulf since April 2. Two Kuwaiti tankers also were attacked by warplanes in the gulf waters Sunday and Monday.

The British Foreign Office expressed concern over the mounting attacks on gulf shipping and said it appeared both Iran and Iraq were to blame.

Salvadoran Panel Rejects Election Challenge

SAN SALVADOR. El Salvador (AP) — The Central Election Council rejected a challenge by the far-right candidate and said moderate Jose Napoleon Duarte would be accredited today as official winner of El Salvador's bitter presidential election.

The council announced its decision Tuesday night after a two-hour meeting to consider a request that Duarte's victory in the May 6 runoff be nullified because of alleged improper vote counting.

Roberto d'Aubuisson, candidate of the far-right Republican Nationalist Alliance, said on television Tuesday night, "We still have time to rescue the victory they are trying to steal from us." But at the time of his remarks, he was apparently unaware of the council's decision.

D'Aubuisson has been linked with El Salvador's rightist death squads, but the charges have not been proved.

Julio Adolfo Rey Prendes, secretary general of Duarte's Christian Democratic Party, said Duarte will leave for Washington this weekend for a visit that will include a meeting with President Reagan.

A Duarte aide, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said Duarte will urge key congressmen to approve Reagan's request for military and economic aid to El Salvador, where the government has been battling leftist rebels for more than four years.

Armando Rodriguez Eguizabal, the election council president, said the request by d'Aubuisson's party, known as ARENA, was ruled "inadmissible."

"The petition has been denied," Rodriguez said. "This is a final decision." The petition was the last opportunity under Salvadoran law to challenge Duarte's election.

Rodriguez said Duarte and his vice president-elect, Rodolfo

Castillo, will be presented with their credentials today. Duarte's inauguration for a five-year term is scheduled for June 1.

Rodriguez did not say whether the vote rejecting ARENA's petition had been unanimous.

The council has five members representing different political parties. However, the ARENA representative was hospitalized two months ago and was not replaced.

The council proclaimed Duarte the election winner Friday night, saying he got 53.6 percent of the vote and d'Aubuisson 46.4 percent. D'Aubuisson said he won by 52 percent to 48 percent.

On Monday night, ARENA presented a formal challenge to the council, demanding a recount of votes it said were improperly tabulated.

D'Aubuisson's running mate, Hugo Barrera, said a number of ballot boxes were stuffed and invalid votes were counted. ARENA also claimed the United States interfered by supporting Duarte behind the scenes.

Duarte led an eight-candidate field in March 25 voting but failed to get a majority, leading to the runoff between him and the runner-up, d'Aubuisson. Leftists boycotted the election, calling it a "farce."

Israelies Raid Refugee Camp

SIDON, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli occupation forces surrounded a Palestinian refugee camp with armored vehicles, then stormed it early today, blowing the doors off houses with explosives and arresting about 150 people, witnesses said.

At least 20 people were injured in the five-hour operation at the Ein el-Hilweh camp, hospital sources said.

Israeli military sources said, "During searches and actions meant to prevent terrorist actions, a few arrests of suspects have been made in Ein Hilweh camp near Sidon and quantities of weapons, ammunition and terrorist materials have been discovered.

"While effecting the arrests, two local persons were injured while opposing the arrests of suspects," the statement said. "A large part of the weapons and ammunition was found in the houses of these two persons."

Residents of the camp on the edge of Sidon, a port city 25 miles south of Beirut, told reporters the Israeli force blew up houses before it withdrew at dawn. Palestinian refugees pointed to about 20 damaged or leveled houses which they said were dynamited.

About 300 refugees protested the operation this morning by setting car tires ablaze and demonstrating inside the camp, chanting slogans in favor of Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasser Arafat and denouncing Israel.

Camp residents said there would be a three-day strike in protest of the incident. Schools and shops closed in the camp, which houses more than 26,000 Palestinian refugees registered with the United Nations.

Mourners Salute Nazi Fugitive

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Five elderly men, their arms raised in the Nazi salute, shouted "Heil Hitler" at the graveside of Nazi fugitive Walter Rauff following a funeral service for him.

The ceremony Tuesday was attended by about 200 relatives and friends of Rauff, who died of lung cancer Monday at his home. After most of the crowd left, the five men gave their salute.

Rauff was accused by Israel and West Germany of designing "black raven" vans in which at least 97,000 Eastern European Jews were killed. The victims were asphyxiated by the vehicles' exhaust fumes.

Rauff escaped from a prison in occupied Germany in 1946 and settled in Chile in 1958. Chilean authorities' refusal to extradite him to West Germany caused friction between Chile and several other countries which had pushed to bring him to trial.

"It is not for us to try or condemn others," said the Rev. Ricardo Wagner in a German-language Lutheran service for Rauff. "May God forgive the deceased for his faults and give him peace."

Wagner did not mention Rauff's Nazi past.

Wagner's church has a right-wing congregation that broke away from the German Lutheran church when the church's bishop helped form a human rights group to defend Chilean dissidents following the military coup in 1973.

A wreath bearing a swastika was left at the church door during a private wake Monday night.

NATO Ministers Open Strategy Session

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — NATO defense ministers today opened a two-day strategy session intended to focus on beefing up the alliance's conventional forces.

Heading into the meeting, NATO officials said cooperation in strengthening these forces would be the main topic. But the 14 defense ministers also were expected to discuss the Dutch government's reluctance to accept its allotted share of 48 NATO nuclear missiles for deployment in the Netherlands.

Americans Are Freed In Sri Lanka

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (AP) — Stanley and Mary Allen, the American newlyweds released by rebel kidnapers after five days in captivity, were welcomed back to this capital city today with champagne, flowers and a presidential reception.

"We are glad to see so many happy, smiling faces," said Allen, 36, as he and his wife, Mary Elizabeth, 29, alighted holding hands from an air force plane that brought them to Colombo from Jaffna in northern Sri Lanka.

The Columbus, Ohio, couple were kidnapped from their home in Jaffna when separatist rebels stormed their bedroom Thursday night. Allen said he was wearing only a bath towel at the time.

The kidnapers threatened to kill the pair unless demands were met for a ransom of $2 million in gold and the release of 20 jailed rebels. After the demands were rejected, the rebels decided instead to free the couple and delivered them Tuesday night to the home of a Roman Catholic bishop in Jaffna.

The couple, wearing jeans and white T-shirts, were met today in pouring rain by about 100 cheering friends, government officials and embassy staff.

Mrs. Allen was given a bouquet of orchids and their friends uncorked champagne to toast their safe return. A friend rushed to embrace Mrs. Allen and they both wept.

Allen said his wife had been "a good trooper" during the ordeal, and Mrs. Allen said, "We want to see our parents, friends and family back home — they are very anxious."

They declined to hold a press conference or discuss their captivity. Bishop Deogu Pillai, at whose home the Allens were released, described the kidnapers as friendly and said the couple were not harmed. He said the six or seven kidnapers left immediately after dropping off the couple.

Auction Record

NEW YORK (AP) — A painting by Paul Gauguin that had been in storage for more than 20 years brought a record auction price of $3,350,000 at a Sotheby's auction which sold $32.9 million worth of art work.

Gauguin's "Mata Mua," a Tahitian scene painted in 1892, was purchased Tuesday evening by a London art dealer for Baron Hans Heinrich Thyssen, a well-known collector who is a director of Sotheby's and a trustee of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, said Batya Monder, a spokeswoman for the auction house.

The price was a record for a Gauguin sold at auction. Ms. Monder said. The previous record at auction was $2.9 million for his "La Plage du Pouldu" in 1980.

The issue is sensitive because a final Dutch rejection of the cruise missiles could jeopardize the schedule of deployment in other North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries, including Belgium, officials have said.

"Nobody is going to be publicly pouncing on anybody," one NATO official said in reference to the issue. He spoke on condition that he not be identified.

The 48 missiles to be deployed in the Netherlands are part of 572 medium-range cruise and Pershing 2 missiles that the NATO countries in 1979 agreed to deploy by 1988 to offset Soviet SS-20s aimed at western Europe.

Dutch Premier Ruud Lubber's center-right government has said it would announce a final decision on the missiles by June.

Dutch Gen. Cor de Jager, chairman of NATO's military committee, said the committee had no reason to believe his country would back out of the agreed-upon deployment.

"We keep them to their word," he told a news conference during a break in the defense ministers' meeting.

De Jager also downplayed the Soviet Union's announcement Monday that it had begun installing new nuclear missiles in East Germany.

"It is nothing substantially new," he said. "It is maybe to influence NATO thinking." He said the new missiles, believed to be medium-range SS-20s, are part of a Soviet weapons modernization program.

Richard Burt, the U.S. assistant secretary of state for European affairs, said Tuesday the Soviet deployment was timed "to intimidate Western public opinion."

Before the start of the meeting at NATO headquarters, U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger met separately with West German Defense Minister Manfred Woerner and Turkish Defense Minister Haluk Bayulken.

U.S. officials declined to comment on Weinberger's talk with Woerner. They said Weinberger and Bayulken discussed the level of U.S. aid to Turkey, although they did not provide details.

The officials said Weinberger would also meet separately with Giovanni Spadolini and Narsico Serra, the Italian and Spanish defense ministers.

On Tuesday, the defense ministers of 12 European NATO countries met in Brussels and issued a statement urging the United States to consider greater use of European technology in weapons manufacturing.

The ministers said that in the months ahead they would identify in detail what European technology could be incorporated in NATO defense systems in the 1990s.

British Defense Secretary Michael Heseltine, chairman of the European ministers' meeting, told a news conference Tuesday "there was an awareness" that the push for European technology must be now.

"It would be too late once the weapons systems are under development," he said. Presently, he said, seven times as many NATO arms are built in the United States as in the European NATO nations.

NATO officials have drawn up a list of 11 weapons systems that could be put into development using the latest technologies. They include laser-guided munitions and electronic jamming gear.

MEMORIAL SERVICE ... The Rev. Willis Wilson spoke at a service observing National Police Memorial Day Tuesday in Winterville. The service featured a 21-gun salute honoring officers killed in the line of duty. Throughout the day law enforcement officers in the county wore black mourning bands in recognition of the memorial. The week of May 15 has been proclaimed National Police Memorial Week. (Reflector Photo By Tommy Forrest)

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices opened higher today, after the previous session's trendless, narrowly mixed performance.

The Dow Jones Average of 30 Industrials, which slipped 0.21 on Tuesday for its third consecutive decline, was up 3.14 points at 1,154.00 after the first half-hour of trading.

Advancing issues took a narrow lead over declines in the early rally on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts say investors have been wary about buying stocks because returns are so high in the bond markets and their expect rates may rise even more.

The bond market staged a modest rally on Tuesday, however, as long-term bond prices rose by more than $10 for every $1,000 in face value and yields fell.

Some economists also say they expect a slowdown in economic growth which they say will ease pressure on interest rates.

Before trading opened today, the Commerce Department reported housing starts were up 19.3 percent in April, the big-gest one-month increase since January 1983 and a marked reversal from the 27.3 percent decline in March.

On the NYSE's active list, Mesa Petroleum was up 1/8 at 18 1/4, Mobil was unchanged at 29 and American Telephone & Telegraph was down 1/8 at 15 3/4.

Hewlett Packard, which reported improved earnings results in its latest quarter, was up 3/8 at 35 3/8.

On Tuesday, the Dow Jones industrial average slipped 0.21 to 1,150.86. Advancing issues were even with declines in consolidated trading among stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, whose composite index rose 0.24 from 90.90.

Condos...

There were no objections to his request.

Dr. Gary Crawford, a land owner whose property adjoins the proposed building site, said he supported Clark's endeavor. "If he (Clark) meets all the specifications we've gone over, the condominium concept he describes would be preferable to single family dwellings," Crawford said.

Clark has assured area land owners that, in addition to a 50-foot buffer, he will plant a double row of evergreens to ensure privacy.

In finalization of old business, the commission approved a proposal seeking the allowance of restaurants in the office and institutional district of Arlington Boulevard. However, Planning and Zoning Director Bobby Roberson said restaurant owners will have to comply with certain types of requirements should the measure be approved by the City Council. "The major requirement is that when restaurants abut land being used for residential purposes, the buffer areas would have to be increased from 10 feet to 25 feet," Roberson said.

The commission also announced a pending revision of city sign regulations that would limit subdivision signs to 50 square feet — excluding the support area.

Under the new business section of its agenda, the commission approved a preliminary plat of Park Village, located off Greenville Boulevard and adjacent to Twin Oaks townhomes and the City/Recreation Library facility at Jaycee Park. The plat involves 11 large lots on a 9.42 acre tract upon which multifamily dwellings will be located. However, land included in the plat which faces Greenville Boulevard has been designated for single-family or duplex use.

In final business, the board referred rezoning requests of the Tar River Neighborhood Association and Louis Tyson to the Planning and Zoning Task Force for study.

The Tar River Neighborhood Association is seeking to rezone a portion of its neighborhood from R-6 to R-6s, excluding multi-family dwellings, and Tyson is seeking rezoning of land located near Pitt-Greenville Airport to residential mobile home.

Anniversary

The Evening Star Usher Board of Philippi Church of Christ will celebrate its anniversary at 3 p.m. Sunday with the Rev. Glen Williams as the speaker.

would cost the GUC to take over street lighting (estimated to cost $300,000 next year) and sell power to the city at wholesale (a savings to the city of an estimated $62,000 in 1984-85), could come from fund balances (which the commission holds in reserve to handle emergency situations).

As for the additional turnover from water and sewer funds, which produce little or no profit, Mrs. Meeks said "my thinking is ... study (and) reach a decision by the fall ..." so the additional turnover could take effect at the beginning of the 1985-86 fiscal year.

Mrs. Meeks said the additional turnover, based on a 6 percent return on equity, would yield an additional $1 million in turnover to the city.

Based on an established formula, the turnover to the city this year amounts to $1.28 million from the electric fund and $179,958 from the gas fund. The proposed 1984-85 budget projects a turnover from the electric fund of $1.32 million and $190,000 from the gas fund.

As for the request that the GUC take over the street lighting and sell power to the city at wholesale, Mrs. Meeks said, "we're asking that the commission" study the requests and put them into effect "as soon as possible."

Mrs. Meeks said that if the city receives the additional $500,000 in turnover in the coming fiscal year, "we'd be willing to turn over the $200,000" in water and sewer funds from the half-cent sales tax to the commission.

Mrs. Buck noted that "the council hasn't discussed" the turnover of the sales tax money in future years, but said "if the first ... items (the additional turnover from water and sewer, the street lighting and wholesale rates) are done in 1985-86, the sales tax money would be turned over to the commission "in the future."

"A good faith on your part would be followed by good faith on our part," Mrs. Meeks suggested. "Good faith merits good faith."

Mrs. Meeks continued, "The reason for the $500,000 request (in additional turnover in the coming year) is because we were not able to meet on turnover before budget time."

GUC Director Charles Horn suggested "whatever we do, we would southbound lane on N.C. 11" and activated his blue flashing light.

Hines, the suit charges, "failed to stop his vehicle," which collided with Dereberry's vehicle.

The complaint said Dereberry's medical expenses amounted to $25,010.

The civil action asks to recover $10 million in compensatory damages and $1 million in punitive damages from Gardner and the county; $10 million in compensatory damages from Tyson and the county; $10 million in compensatory damages from Hines, the town of Winterville and the rural fire association; $20 million in compensatory damages from Winterville and the fire association, and $10 million in compensatory damages and $1 million in punitive damages from the town of Winterville.

Highway Needs To Be Outlined

Representatives of Greenville and Pitt County were to appear during a North Carolina Department of Transportation hearing in New Bern today to present this area's priorities for highway and street improvements.

Jerry Powell, who was representing the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce, said he would stress the need for a western loop to link two sections of U.S. 264 now under construction. The loop would be from 264 west of Pitt County Memorial Hospital to an intersection with N.C. 11 near the Burroughs Wellcome manufacturing plant.

Other projects proposed included five-laning of Evans Street from 10th Street to the 264 Bypass, extending Arlington Boulevard from its present western end at Memorial Drive to N.C. 43 northwest of the hospital; widening and multi-laning N.C. 33 east of Greenville to State Road 1726; the widening N.C. 43 south of Pitt Plaza Shopping Center, and five-laning 14th Street from 14th Street to its intersection with State Road 1725.

Among those attending from here, in addition to Powell, will be Greenville Mayor Janice Buck, Greenville City Manager Gail Meeks, County Manager Reginald Gray, East Carolina University representative Dick Blake, and Chamber Director Ed Walker.

Spotlights

Dr. Harold J. May of the department of family medicine, East Carolina University, will speak on "Feeling Healthy" at Thursday's Spotlights series of luncheon talks and discussions. The program, sponsored by the Mental Health Association in Pitt County, will be held at noon in the Jaycee Park Administrative Building, 2000 Cedar Lane.

Speaking on Feeling Needed will be volunteer Eli Bloom.

Those attending the program may bring their lunch; beverages will be served. There is no charge for the program. For further information, call the Mental Health Association in Pitt County, 752-7448.

Pirates Sign 7-0 Dutchman

East Carolina University head basketball coach Charlie Harrison has announced the signing of Peter Dam, a 7-0, 235-pounder from Haaksbergen, Netherlands, to a grant-in-aid for the coming season.

Dam, the first seven-footer to attend ECU, is expected to provide needed strength and rebounding on the inside for the Pirates next season — an area that was hurting last season.

A member of the Dutch Junior National Team, Dam visited three schools in the United States: Louisiana State, Southwestern Louisiana and East Carolina, before settling on the Pirates.

He was recommended to Harrison by former ECU standout Al Faber, who has been playing professional basketball in Europe for the past eight years.

"We're pleased to have Peter," Harrison said. "He gives us depth and experience up front because he's been playing against older and more experienced players. He's been playing organized basketball for three years in Dutch club programs."

Harrison said that Dam is expected to have three years of eligibility, although a check is being made with the NCAA on the fourth year. A ruling is expected later this summer.

The signing brings to three the number of players signed by Harrison for the coming year. The other two are point guards, one a freshman and the other a junior college transfer.

Tougher Standards Are Not The Cure

By ED CAUDILL

Associated Press Writer

Tougher academic standards for high school athletes may be a fact of the future, some North Carolina educators admit, but they say such action is not a cure for real or imagined educational ills.

The North Carolina High School Athletic Association is considering a proposal that would require high school athletes to pass four courses and have a 75 percent attendance record each semester. Now, athletes are required to pass three courses and attend at least 60 percent of their classes.

Tightening requirements for athletes could hinder a student's ability to excel in sports, according to Donald Jones, superintendent of Asheville City Schools. "For some of our students, this is a skill they possess and should be allowed to follow," he said.

"Anything we can do to provide meaningful learning experience for students, then we ought to do it," Jones said, adding that special standards do not exist for students in other extracurricular activities like drama and band.

"Why get that hung up on athletics? If a school system properly monitors a program and keeps it out of the hands of pressure groups, such as booster clubs, then it can be a viable program," Jones said.

But Bill Burke, associate dean in the School of Education at the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill, said he did not see the standards for high school athletes as an issue.

"I see athletics as part of the curriculum," he said, much as dance and drama are part of a program. "We shouldn't differentiate for athletes and not differentiate for other students. Athletes shouldn't be given preference."

He said concern should focus on the content of the curriculum, not simply on the number of courses a student takes. Requiring more courses, he said, doesn't mean a tougher program.

However, Burke said, a high school program needs latitude. "Not all high school students are the same. Some want to go on to college. Some do not."

"We don't think the (current) standards are stiff enough," said Chris Folk, associate superintendent in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg School System. "We felt like we needed to go beyond what the state is requiring."

He said the Charlotte-Mecklenburg system is considering expansion of requirements for athletes to all extracurricular activities, and not just passing three subjects, but doing so with a C average.

Julius A. Fulmore, assistant superintendent for professional support services in Greensboro City Schools, said he thought the system would be in favor of stricter standards.

Hunt Stuns Rose, 7-3

By WOODY PEELE

Reflector Sports Editor

WILSON — "I knew we were in trouble when they pulled off a pitcher-to-third-to-first double play," Rose High School Coach Ronald Vincent said last night.

"And when they did it twice, we were dead."

Vincent was reflecting on a 7-3 setback handed the Rose Rampants by Wilson Hunt at Fleming Stadium last night. The loss — coupled with a Rocky Mount loss to Kinston — kept the Rampants and Gryphons deadlocked for first place in the Big East Conference, both 10-3 at present.

Both teams have already claimed post-season playoff bids — the only question is which will go where.

"When was the last time you saw a 1-5-3 double play?" Vincent queried. "It's been years since I've seen one and I saw two tonight. That just shows you how it was. We just weren't supposed to win this game. That's all there is to it."

"Hunt made some really fine defensive plays tonight, and although we made some mistakes, we've played worse and won," the coach added. "They hit the ball well, but they also got some cheap ones too."

Point in question: Hunt scored a run in the fourth inning without getting a ball out of the infield. Three infield hits a walk and two fielder's choices did the job.

Hunt picked up 11 hits off loser Mike Kinley, now 4-5 on the year. Of those, five were of the infield variety. Only one, a first inning triple by Steve Hinnant, was for extra bases.

It was either feast or famine for Kinley, who walked but two during the night. Only three of the runs he allowed were earned, as three Rampant errors — one of them by the pitcher — helped the Warrior cause along.

Rose scored first, getting a run in the top of the first. With one away, Toby Fischer singled to center and stole second. He scored on Kinley's single to left.

But Hunt came quickly back to score three times in the bottom of the inning. With one down, Tony Richardson struck out, but reached on a passed ball. He scored on Hinnant's triple to right. Michael Little then reached on an infield hit, scoring courtesy runner John Logan. Little raced all the way to third when Kinley's attempt to pick him off was off-target, and he scored on Jeff Barnes' two-out single.

Two more Warrior runs crossed in the second. Mark Shadding led off with a single and Darin McClure got a hit to right. William Chatman followed with a third-straight hit, scoring Shadding. Richardson reached when his sacrifice bunt was errored and Little's ground-out brought McClure home.

Hunt upped it to 6-1 with one in the fourth — without getting the ball out of the infield. Chatman reached on a high hopper to third and Richardson walked. Hinnant then bunted the ball past the mound to load them up. Little grounded back to Kinley, who forced Chatman at the plate. But Stephen Stanley's squeeze bunt scored Richardson. Barnes grounded into another force at home before Kinley struck out Jeff Massey to end the rally with the bases still loaded.

Rose, hamstrung by a double play in the second, saw another in the fifth take the wind out of potential rally.

Fischer led off with fifth with a single and Eric Woodworth walked. But a double play got the lead runner and left two away. Billy Michel followed with a triple to deep center, scoring courtesy runner David Jester, but the rally died there.

Hunt scored its final run in the sixth. Hinnant reached on a single off Kinley's glove, moving up as Little reached on an error. With two away, Barnes singled to right, scoring courtesy runner Logan.

Rose tried to rally, but got only one run. After a double play got the inning off to a poor start in the seventh, Woodworth walked, and Jester, running for him, scored on a double by Kinley. Michel beat out an infield hit, but a grounder ended the game at that point.

Hinnant led the Hunt hitting with three, while Chatman and Barnes each had two. Fischer, Kinley, Michel and Van Alston each had two hits for Rose.

The Rampants drop to 15-6-1 overall with the loss. Hunt climbs to 9-10 overall and 5-8 in league play.

Rose closes out the regular season on Thursday, hosting Elizabeth City Northeastern at 4 p.m. at Guy Smith Stadium.

Vikes Top Havelock; Ice Coastal Conference Title

By JIMMY DuPREE

Reflector Sports Writer

HOLLYWOOD — If Havelock's Rams think they never had a chance Tuesday against D.H. Conley, they may very well be right.

Senior lefthander Darryl Edwards struck out 16 Rams, including the final 13 outs of the game, and scattered three hits as Conley clinched the Coastal 3-A Conference baseball title with a 5-0 shutout over Havelock.

Calvin Phillips blasted a two-run homer to center to cap a four-run first inning rally by the Vikings, and Edwards did the rest.

A double in the top of the fifth by Danny Clark was the only interruption of Edwards' string of strikeouts in the final four innings.

"Darryl did a good job; he's thrown really well the last two games he's pitched," Conley Coach Alan Wilson said. "We played some decent defense the last six games of the season. We haven't hit the ball for a lot of hits, but they've been grouped together well."

Edwards came into the game needing five strikeouts to reach the 100 mark for the season, and he fanned Richard Carter in the fourth for the feat. Edwards' bid for his second no-hitter of the season was erased by when D.J. Fleming lined a leadoff double in the first. Edwards finished the regular season with a 7-4 record.

The victory set the Vikings' record at 8-2 in the conference for the title, while North Lenoir followed with a 7-3 mark. Conley will host Farmville Central, the runner-up of the Eastern Carolina Conference, Monday at 8 p.m. in the opening game of the tourney. North Lenoir travels to Eastern Carolina champion C.B. Aycock Monday.

"We set our goal to win the conference championship," Wilson said. "We feel fortunate to win it outright."

Conley managed four runs and four hits in the first off Havelock starter Danny Clark. But after Phillips' homer, Richard Carter took over on the mound and gave up just one hit while striking out nine.

"Carter came in and we got the one (other), but that was it," Wilson said.

Steve Mills opened the bottom of the first with a single to left, moved to second on a sacrifice by Todd Cochran. Fred Bryant singled in Steve Mills, and Bryant scored from first on a long single by Chris Via. Phillips followed with his homer, but Carter closed the door after Lee Hardee reached first on an error.

Eric Storm singled to open the second, but Bryant, a sophomore catcher, gunned him down at second on a steal attempt.

Neither team stranded more than one runner in an inning, and the Vikings scored the only other run of the game with the help of an error and a wild pitch.

Bryant singled to open the fifth and went to third on a throwing error on a pickoff attempt by Carter. Bryant raced home on Carter's second wild pitch of the night.

"This makes four years in the playoffs for me," said Wilson, who is in his first year at Conley after coaching at Ayden-Grifton. "I'm still looking for that first win, but we're going to be ready. We're playing well."

Chinese Team Won't Back Out

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sports leaders of the Peoples Republic of China made it clear the decision to attend the Summer Olympics would not be influenced by other countries, according to officials of the Los Angeles Games.

"They indicated they were coming and that their decision to come was not going to be interfered with or changed based on decisions of other countries," said John Svenson, vice president of sports for the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee.

Svenson was a member of the three-person delegation that received China's official acceptance during a visit to Peking last week. The Chinese commitment came four days after the Soviet Union announced its boycott, citing inadequate security and an "anti-Soviet hysteria."

Concern over security was only briefly mentioned by the Chinese and the issue of defections "was not brought up," LAOOC envoy Charles Lee, who headed the delegation, said Tuesday.

The touchy issue of Taiwan was raised, however, before the official decision was made, Svenson said.

"They expressed their concerns and we assured them that the LAOOC will abide by the IOC Charter," Svenson said.

The two-China issue led to Mainland China's withdrawal from the Olympic movement in 1956, after Taiwan was recognized by the International Olympic Committee and allowed to enter athletes in the Games.

A compromise was reached in 1979, with China accepting an IOC resolution which stated that Taipei be called the "Chinese Taipei Olympic Committee" and refrain from using its national anthem, unless it was changed.

Mainland China competed in the 1980 Winter Olympics at Lake Placid but boycotted the 1980 Moscow Summer Games to protest the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

If the Soviets and other Eastern bloc countries go through with their announced boycott, other countries would be allowed to increase the size of their athletic delegations.

China, competing in the Summer Games for the first time since 1952, would be permitted to enlarge its delegation from 322 to more than 350, Svenson said.

Relations between China and the U.S. government were strained a year ago when Chinese tennis player Hu Na defected to the United States and was granted asylum.

In retaliation, China ordered a suspension of cultural and athletic exchanges with the United States. LAOOC President Peter Ueberroth questioned the U.S. action and urged China to reconsider its boycott of international sports in the United States.

Besides bringing a strong team that will be competing in 17 sports, the Chinese indicated an interest in being the host for future major competitions.

"They are very interested in learning from us how our venues were constructed and how our fields of play were developed," said Svenson.

Peking is under consideration as the site for the Asian Games in 1987 and there have been reports that the Chinese are seeking the Olympic Summer Games in the year 2000.

Willie Pep and Sandy Saddler fought four times for the featherweight title. Pep won once by a decision, but Saddler knocked him out in the other three fights.

Southern Nash Rallies Past Jags

STANHOPE — A two-run error in the fifth allowed Southern Nash to tie the score, and the Firebirds squeezed in the winning run in the sixth as took a 5-4 victory over Farmville Central Tuesday in Eastern Carolina 3-A baseball action.

The Jaguars had already clinched second place in the league behind C.B. Aycock and will face Coastal Conference champion D.H. Conley.

Farmville Central held a 4-0 lead through four innings, but Coach Bill Davis lifted starter Billy Godley in the third, and freshman Robert Evans cruised through two innings before Southern Nash plated four runs in the fifth.

"Billy's arm was getting tired, so we didn't want to take any chances," Davis said. "Evans did real well. If we had played behind him a little better on defense, it would have made a big difference."

Randy Daniels singled in the first for Farmville and went to third on an error in right field. A sacrifice fly by Godley drove in Daniels for an early 1-0 lead.

Farmville added three more in the fourth. Godley walked, Joey Steppe singled and Taylor Walston lofted a sacrifice fly to drive in Godley. Greg May ripped a triple to drive in Steppe, and Evans added a sacrifice fly to score May.

But in the fifth, Phil Bryant, Morgan and Marlow singled to load the bases. Blackmon walked to force in Bryant and Hendrix singled in Morgan before the Jaguars' costly two-run error.

Then in the sixth, Bailes walked, moved to second on a passed ball, took third on a sacrifice and scored on the squeeze bunt by Marlow.

"We had a couple of big errors that didn't help any," Davis said. "We've got to get ready for Conley now."

Farmville Central closed out the regular season with an 8-4 conference mark while 12-6 overall.

Downing Breaks Slump In Angels' 5-2 Win Over O's

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Sometimes, it's the little things that get a team going, Brian Downing says. Sometimes, it's bigger things.

The California Angels were off to bigger and better things Tuesday night, moving into first place in the American League West with a 5-2 victory over the defending World Series champion Orioles.

The Angels got their first run off Baltimore left-hander Mike Flanagan, 2-3, in the fourth inning on three infield hits, then Downing broke out of a 5-for-38 slump with a three-run homer to cap the four-run inning.

"Sometimes it takes breaks to get going," Downing said. "I was glad we could take advantage of it. That's the beauty of a three-run homer."

The victory, coupled with Minnesota's 5-2, 10-inning loss to Toronto, moved the Angels, who finished fifth in the AL West last season, a half-game into first.

"When I'm not swinging good, like now, I try to get a big hit to drive in multiple runs," Downing said. "Of course, that's easy to say now."

Eddie Murray homered off Angels rookie Ron Romanick, 4-3, in the sixth inning.

In the rest of the league, Detroit beat Seattle 6-4, Chicago edged Kansas City 3-2, Cleveland defeated Boston 7-5, New York beat Oakland 9-6 and Milwaukee shaded Texas 3-2.

Gary Pettis started the Angels fourth with a bunt single and stole second. Pettis went to third on a groundout and scored on Reggie Jackson's sharply hit single that glanced off Flanagan's pitching hand. Doug DeCinces then beat out another infield hit before Downing homered.

The Angels had lost six of their previous seven games, while Baltimore had won eight of 11.

Blue Jays 5, Twins 2

Toronto tied the score 1-1 in the ninth, then scored four more runs in the 10th — two on George Bell's triple — to upend the Twins. Mitch Webster scored the tying run, and he drove in one of the runs in the 10th.

After consecutive singles by Damaso Garcia and Dave Collins to start the 10th, Lloyd Moseby knocked in the tie-breaker with a single. Willie Upshaw then walked, and Webster followed with a run-scoring double. Bell's triple drove in the final two runs of the inning.

The Twins came back with one run in the bottom of the 10th on Tim Teufel's RBI grounder.

Tronto tied it up with the help of an error by Minnesota first baseman Kent Hrbek in the ninth.

Tigers 6, Mariners 4

Kirk Gibson and Howard Johnson drove in two runs apiece to back Jack Morris to his seventh victory. Morris pitched seven innings, and Willie Hernandez struck out five in the final two innings for Detroit, now 28-5 and eight games ahead of Toronto in the AL East.

Both of Gibson's RBI came on sacrifice flies. Johnson drove in two runs in Detroit's three-run third inning.

Spike Owen hit a three-run homer for the Mariners.

Morris walked five and struck out three in an outing that saw his string of four straight complete games snapped.

White Sox 3, Royals 2

Rich Dotson pitched a four-hitter for his fifth victory, and Julio Cruz singled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning.

The score was tied 1-1 when Royals rookie Danny Jackson hit leadoff batter Dave Stegman with a pitch in the seventh. Stegman stole second, went to third on a sacrifice bunt and scored on Cruz's single. Cruz went to second on a balk and scored on a single by Scott Fletcher.

The Royals pulled within one when Jorge Orta, who had two of the hits off Dotson, tripled to lead off the ninth and scored on a sacrifice fly by Hal McRae.

Indians 7, Red Sox 5

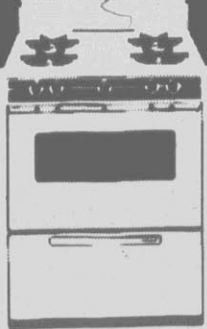

Andre Thornton had three RBI, including one in the eighth inning that broke a 5-5 tie and enabled Cleveland to beat Boston. Thornton's single came after consecutive walks to Tony Bernazard and Pat Tabler. Another run scored on a sacrifice fly by Julio Franco.

Andujar's Grand Slam Lifts Cards

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Sports Writer

Joaquin Andujar, who plummeted in one year from World Series hero to a 6-16 loser, is making like Babe Ruth this year. Both on the mound and at bat.

The St. Louis Cardinal right-hander equalled last year's win total Tuesday by beating the Atlanta Braves 9-1 and chipped in with a grand slam home run — that like the legendary Babe he called before he hit.

"In the on-deck circle, if they walked (Tom) Nieto, I told George (Hendrick) I was going to hit it," Andujar said of the grand slam, which climaxed a six-run Cardinal eighth. "When I hit them, I go. I just swung and the ball went over the fence."

In other National League games Tuesday, the Chicago Cubs beat the Cincinnati Reds, 6-3; the Pittsburgh Pirates edged the Houston Astros 3-2 in 10 innings; the Philadelphia Phillies crushed the Los Angeles Dodgers 12-1; the Montreal Expos beat the San Diego Padres 6-4 and the New York Mets edged the San Francisco Giants 7-6 in 11 innings.

Andujar, who was 15-10 in 1982 with two wins against Milwaukee in the World Series before inexplicably losing his edge last year, was in total control against Atlanta. He scattered eight hits, struck out six and walked none in running his record to 6-3.

But he was prouder of his home run, which he stroked left-handed. It was the fifth homer of his career, but the first from the left side of the plate.

"Every day I hit about five or six home runs in practice," he said. But Braves Manager Joe Torre, who ordered the intentional passes that set up Andujar's grand slam, was more impressed by his pitching. "He threw a heck of a game tonight," Torre said. "He was changing speeds, moving the ball around. I think that's the secret to winning."

Cubs 6, Reds 3
Gary Matthews had four hits as the Cubs won in Cincinnati.

"When I hit, it seems like we're winning," said Matthews, acquired from the Philadelphia Phillies just before the start of the season. "When I hit, it seems like we're winning. I was glad to come out of my slump today."

Dickie Noles relieved Scott Sanderson who suffered back spasms after pitching to two batters and went six innings, allowing five hits and one run. Tim Stoddard finished up for his second save.

"One of the things we've been getting is good, consistent pitching," said Cubs Manager Jim Frey. "In the spring, a lot of people questioned our pitching, but it's been good."

Pirates 3, Astros 2, 10 innings
Tony Pena's two-out single in the 10th inning with the winning run, but it was a squeeze that failed that was the key to the game.

With runners at first and third and one out and the game tied in the ninth, Houston tried a suicide squeeze. But Bill Doran pulled away from the pitch by Pirate reliever Rod Scurry and Enos Cabell was caught in a rundown, thwarting the rally.

"Billy had the sign, but he pulled the bat out of the way for some reason," said Houston Manager Bob Lillis.

Scurry, making his first appearance in Pittsburgh since undergoing a month-long treatment for a cocaine problem, received a warm hand from the 2,978 who showed up in 40-degree weather.

"I appreciated the way they greeted me," Scurry said. "I have a lot better feeling about pitching here now."

Expos 6, Padres 4
Pete Rose, relegated to the bench with a heel injury, pinch-hit a two-run double that keyed a three-run sixth inning rally in Montreal's come-from-behind victory.

Rose's double scored the tying runs and Doug Flynn followed with a single to send home the game-winner and send the Padres to their sixth straight defeat.

Bryn Smith got the win, his fifth in seven starts. Dan Schatzeder allowed only one hit over the final four innings to get his first save.

Phillies 12, Dodgers 1
Mike Schmidt became the 19th player in big league history to reach the 400 home-run plateau and Len Matuszek and Luis Aguayo also cracked homers.

"Eleven years ago when I came up I never dreamed I'd hit 400," Schmidt said.

"But anything's possible if you can stay healthy," he said. "The only thing I kind of wish this one had been a game-winner. As for any other milestones, I feel the same about those that I feel about 400 ...if the Lord is willing, I'll get there. But I'm not thinking about any other goals."

Mets 7, Giants 6
Keith Hernandez, batting with the bases-loaded and one out after Manager Frank Robinson ordered light-hitting Jose Oquendo walked intentionally, stroked and 11th-inning sacrifice fly.

Lady Rams Roll Over SWE, 27-3

SNOW HILL — Greene Central's girls' softball team closed out the regular season with a 27-3 romp over SouthWest Edgecombe yesterday.

The Lady Rams, 11-1 in Eastern Carolina Conference play, will now enter the 3-A/4-A playoffs next week, facing the number two team in the Three Rivers Conference.

Greene Central scored twice in the first inning to take the lead and put it away with seven in the second. Two more crossed in the third, three in the fourth, seventh in the fifth and six in the sixth.

All three SouthWest runs came in the fifth, one of them on a solo homer by T. Davis, who had two hits for the Lady Cougars.

Jenny Hardison and Denise Warren each had three hits to lead the Lady Rams, while Dalen Herring, Stephanie Streeter, Pat Davis, Angie Wilkes, Sharon Croom and Cyndi Hicks each had two. Wilkes had a homer.

The Lady Rams close the regular season with an 18-3 record.

Wanda Congleton went 2-3 for Chocowinity, which improved its record to 11-4 in the conference and 12-4 overall.

Amy Lilley went 2-3, and Sharon Land, Vicki Daniels and Vicki Mizelle were all 2-4 for Bear Grass.

Chocowinity took a 10-0 lead with sixth runs in the second and two in the third and fourth, but needed a solo run in the sixth to preserve the win.

Bear Grass plated a pair in the fifth and added eight more in the sixth, before being shut out in the seventh.

Warren and Ingalls walked, and Warren scored from second on a pop fly by McLawhorn.

Bell slapped a homer in going 4-5 at the plate in the first game, while five other Lady Rams had two hits. Susan Childers added a homer for Havelock.

Karen Barrett and Rhonda Jackson went 2-3 for the Valkyries.

Jobless Rate Shows Decline For March

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment was at double-digit levels in 11 states in March, only about a third of the number of states suffering such high joblessness a year earlier, government statistics show.

The District of Columbia, where the labor market has been adversely affected by heavy layoffs among government employees, was among the areas with jobless rates at 10 percent or more in March 1983 and this past March, according to the Labor Department.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said, however, that in all 50 states and the nation's capital, joblessness was less severe in March than it was a year ago. In March 1983, 30 states and the District of Columbia had double-digit unemployment.

The latest government state-by-state labor force report was released

Tuesday at the same time that the National Federation of Independent Business gave an upbeat assessment of second-quarter hiring prospects.

The organization, which represents nearly a half-million small business firms in the United States, said a survey of 2,068 randomly sampled companies showed that 24 percent planned to add new workers in the second quarter while only 5 percent anticipated staff reductions. That was among the brightest second-quarter showings in the 10 years the federation has conducted the survey.

Payroll employment, excluding people who work on farms, increased by 2 percent or more in 40 states between March 1983 and last March, the government said. Its report said that job growth was strongest in Arizona, where total non-farm employment jumped at a 7.8 percent clip. Employment increased by 6 percent or more in Arkansas, Florida, Nevada and New Hampshire.

West Virginia, with 16 percent unemployment, continued to suffer the nation's most severe joblessness, even though that state's rate was down significantly from the 20.7 percent level of March 1983, the government reported.

Over the year ended March 30, reductions in unemployment of two percentage points or more happened in almost four-fifths of the states. Eight states had rates that were at least four percentage points below those of a year earlier.

Here are the March unemployment rates for the 50 states and the District of Columbia, as compared with the figures for March 1983, reported on a seasonally unadjusted basis Tuesday by the Bureau of Labor Statistics:

West Virginia, 16.0 percent, down from 20.7 percent; Michigan, 12.5-17.0; Alabama, 12.2-15.7; Alaska, 12.2-12.5; District of Columbia, 11.8-12.7; Oregon, 10.7-12.9; Washington state, 10.7-13.0; Illinois, 10.6-12.5; Ohio, 10.6-13.7; Indiana, 10.5-13.3; Mississippi, 10.3-14.3; Kentucky, 10.0-13.7; Montana, 9.7-10.6; Pennsylvania, 9.6-13.9; Tennessee, 9.2-13.3; Louisiana,

President Renewing Proposal For Youth Opportunity Wages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, putting last year's congressional setback out of mind, is renewing its quest to lower the minimum wage for teen-agers taking summertime jobs.

Administration officials call the proposal the "Youth Employment Opportunity Wage," while the bill is derided by the AFL-CIO as a "subminimum wage" that would allow companies to exploit young workers while laying off older workers.

Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan was to announce introduction of the legislation in the House and Senate at a Capitol Hill news conference today.

The proposal, if enacted, would amend the Fair Labor Standards Act to permit employers to pay people between the ages of 16-21 at a rate of $2.50 an hour — 85 cents below the current legal $3.35-an-hour minimum — for jobs performed between May and September.

To address fears of those who argue a cut-rate young worker would replace adult workers, sponsors included penalties for employers who discharge adult workers, including a $10,000 fine, six months in jail and payment of back wages to the fired worker.

In an interview today, Donovan said the proposed legislation would contain safeguards against the displacement of older workers with youths working for the lower wage.

The secretary, appearing on the NBC-TV "Today" show, said that if such displacement should occur as a result of the youth differential, "there's a lot of teeth" in the proposed legislation to prevent any such abuse.

"The youth of today are being denied, as a result of the minimum wage, the opportunity you and I had when we were young ... to stand 10 feet tall, to get a first job," Donovan said.

Donovan, who has declared that "I'm going to fight for this because I think it's right," lined up supporters of the bill, along with the congressional sponsors, to appear with him at the session with reporters.

During an appearance Tuesday before the Agudatah Israel, an Orthodox Jewish group in New York, Donovan said joblessness among minorities is over 50 percent in many of the nation's urban areas, and called that "a national tragedy."

The secretary said at the time that "I won't go into the legislation, but it's called the youth opportunity wage, which we're sending up to the Hill ... to attack the problem."

Administration officials have maintained that enactment of the lower minimum wage rate could provide summertime jobs for some half-million out-of-school teen-agers.

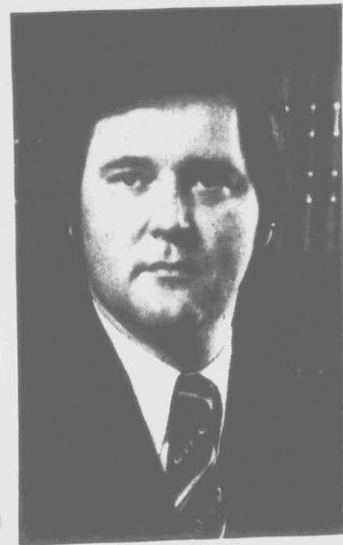

Last year, the youth wage differential was contained in President Reagan's Employment Act of 1983, which included a host of other employment initiatives, but it got nowhere in Congress.

The administration lobbied hard for endorsement of the proposal by the National Conference of Black Mayors, and that organization came out in support of the legislation at its conference in St. Louis, Mo., last month.

AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland criticized the black mayors for endorsing the decision, telling reporters in Piney Point, Md., last week he believes the group was "sold a bill of goods."

Kirkland maintained that because the legal minimum wage has been frozen at the $3.35-an-hour rate since Jan. 1, 1981, people working for that rate have fallen far behind inflation and thus have, in effect, been drawing a sub-minimum wage.

Kentucky Group Promoting Leaf Import Curbs

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Bombard the White House with letters and telegrams.

That message was delivered to Jefferson County residents by County Judge-executive Mitch McConnell and Louisville Mayor Harvey Sloane, who are the latest to join the campaign for quotas on tobacco imports.

They stressed the importance of tax dollars to the community during a news conference Tuesday with Ray Mackey, president of the Kentucky Farm Bureau.

Mackey and other farm leaders nationally have been urging President Reagan for immediate restrictions. The letter writing campaign has been part of their strategy.

"One out of every 14 jobs in this state directly or indirectly exists because of tobacco," McConnell said.

Sloane warned that without quotas a major portion of the nation's economic vitality would be at stake.

Mackey said burley and flue-cured imports have increased 350 percent since 1970 while domestic loan stocks have risen 670 percent since 1975.

The farm bureau selected Jefferson County for the final phase of its drive to underscore the point that "tobacco's problems are not just those of farmers but extend to virtually all segments of Kentucky's economy," Mackey said.

McConnell said the tobacco industry is responsible for more than 32,000 jobs — including growing, processing and storage, cigarette manufacturing, and distribution — involving more than $3 million in wages in Jefferson County.

"Tobacco contributes more than $2.6 million in local tax revenues," McConnell said. "When the tobacco industry is failing, the entire Commonwealth of Kentucky, including a large percentage of Jefferson Counties are hurt."

Reluctant Marine Is On Trial

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — The first case of a soldier refusing to go into combat for religious reasons will begin today, as a Marine corporal is tried for being absent without leave in order to avoid going to Beirut.

Ron Kuby, an attorney with the Center for Constitutional Rights in New York City, says Cpl. Alfred Griffin, a black Muslim from Chicago, decided not to go to Beirut to avoid having to shoot at fellow Moslems.

Griffin, 22, is represented by civil rights lawyer William Kunstler, who has defended Martin Luther King Jr. and members of the Black Panthers. Officials said he refused to leave Camp Lejeune Oct. 18, when his unit left for Beirut. En route to Lebanon, the unit was unexpectedly diverted to take part in the U.S. invasion of Grenada.

On Oct. 23, a truck-bomb exploded at a Marine barracks at the Beirut airport, killing 241 servicemen.

If convicted, Griffin could be sentenced to six months' hard labor, a bad-conduct discharge, reduction in rank to private and forfeiture of pay.

Kuby said the defense may attempt to present evidence that the Marines' presence in Lebanon was illegal. If that fails, he said, they will concentrate on Griffin's religious beliefs and the severity of the sentence.

Army Recruiters Short Of Goals

ATLANTA (AP) — America's revved-up economy has more teen-agers entering offices and factories and fewer donning military uniforms.

"In an improving economy, a young man or woman's perception of whether a job might be out there when they graduate from high school is obviously a factor," said Col. William J. Northquest, commander of the 2nd Recruiting Brigade, which covers nine Southeastern states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Army figures show recruiters fell short of their goal in the first seven months of the 1984 fiscal year, which began Oct. 1. At the end of April, recruiters had signed 80,549 new soldiers to contracts, or 93.9 percent of their goal of 85,771.

Southeastern recruiters, who topped their goal for the October-December quarter of the 1984 fiscal year, missed their January-March goals by nearly 17 percent, recording an 83.2 percent figure. The worst single month was March, when the region's recruiters achieved 73 percent of their goal.

Spokesmen for the Air Force and Navy said those services have not experienced a numerical recruiting shortfall in recent months, but they said there is a service-wide awareness that the next few years may be difficult ones.

McConnell had urged the Reagan administration last month to impose emergency restrictions on imports. Sloane joined in that appeal Tuesday by publicly signing a letter to Reagan requesting limitations.

"Tobacco dollars underpin an extensive network of agri-business, warehousing, transportation and retail concerns, all of which are vital to the economy of the Louisville metropolitan area," Sloane said.

The money provides substantial support to local governments and to the public school system, Sloane said. "All would face crippling cutbacks if the tobacco program, which stabilizes and distributes tobacco dollars, falls victim to the flood of cheap imports."

Sloane was asked how he, as a physician, could justify his support of tobacco, which the U.S. surgeon general has labeled detrimental to health.

"I believe the American public should have the opportunity to do what they choose in life," Sloane said. "I don't see this as inconsistency. This is not a pro-smoking campaign."

The Tobacco Research Institute was set up in Lexington to collect data on smoking, Sloane said, and he added, "Give people information and let them make a choice."

Mackey was asked about a $9.3 billion lawsuit filed Monday in Charleston, W.Va., by three lung-cancer victims against 14 tobacco manufacturers, distributors and advertising corporations. The suit claims the defendants failed to warn the public that their products were physically and psychologically addictive.

"I can't imagine anyone in West Virginia not knowing that smoking might be addictive," Mackey said, explaining that he saw no reason for including such a warning on cigarettes.

"I think the (present) warnings are sufficient. Some people would have you change labels every week."

Mackey said he's never smoked a cigarette in his life "but that's my choice." Before the conference broke up, he presented potted tobacco plants to McConnell and Sloane as reminders of "this campaign for quotas."

He instructed them to water the plants at least once a week.

"That's a lot more than we got last summer," Mackey said, referring to the disastrous drought that cut heavily into Kentucky's 1983 tobacco crop.

Edmisten Cautions Democrats To Heal Primary Wounds

How They Voted

WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes May 3-10.

HOUSE

POWER — The House rejected, 176 for and 214 against, an amendment to stop the provision of low-cost electricity from the Hoover Dam to some 10 million southern California, Arizona and Nevada consumers. The amendment called for selling the government power by competitive bidding when a 50-year contract expires in 1987.

The House later passed a bill (HR 4275) to renew the contract for 30 years. This will perpetuate subsidized rates that today are about one-tenth the market rate. Critics said the bill will cost the Treasury $3.5 billion during the first ten years and billions more after that.

Supporter Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., said the amendment should be backed by "those who believe in a free market and believe that energy from whatever source ought to be freely priced in that market."

Opponent Morris Udall, D-Ariz., said renewing the contract was consistent with the historical rationale of federal hydroelectric projects, which is not to make a profit but to recover construction and transmission costs plus interest.

Members voting yes wanted Hoover Dam power to be priced at market rates.

North Carolina representatives voting yes were James Martin, R-9, and James Broyhill, R-10.

Those representatives from North Carolina voting no were Charles Whitley, D-3; Stephen Neal, D-5; Charles Britt, D-6; Charles Rose, D-7; W.G. Hefner, D-8, and James Clarke, D-11.

North Carolina representatives who did not vote were Walter Jones, D-1; Tim Valentine, D-2, and Ike Andrews, D-4.

MILITARY — By a vote of 207 for and 208 against, the House rejected an amendment to spend less on the category of military aid that goes primarily to Third World countries. The amendment sought to save $164.8 million by freezing fiscal 1985 outlays at the 1984 level of $422.5 million. It did not affect aid to Central America, Israel or Egypt.

The vote occurred during debate on a $1.8 billion foreign aid bill (HR 5119) that later was passed and sent to conference with the Senate.

Sponsor Byron Dorgan, D-N.D., asked: "When will this Congress and this president come to grips with the federal deficit that threatens to rupture this country?"

Opponent Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., said the higher outlay "contributes to the national security of the U.S." by enabling friendly Third World nations to defend themselves rather than request U.S. intervention.

North Carolina representatives voting yes were Whitley, Hefner, Broyhill and Clarke.

Those voting no were Neal, Britt and Rose.

Representative from North Carolina not voting were Walter Jones, Valentine, Ike Andrews and James Martin.

EL SALVADOR — By a vote of 212 for and 208 against, the House gave President Reagan a big victory by approving some $261 million in fiscal 1984-85 military aid to El Salvador. This followed House rejection of a Democratic plan to provide no additional aid this fiscal year and link 1985 aid to a better human rights performance by the Salvadoran government. The amendment was attached to HR 5119 (above).

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Rufus Edmisten cautioned Democrats to put aside any bitter feelings from the primary run-off battle with former Charlotte Mayor Eddie Knox.

"Everytime we (the Democratic Party) have been bitter we have lost," Edmisten said Tuesday at a Forsyth County Democratic Party rally. "Whether I am the Democratic nominee or not I will fight with every ounce of strength I have to see that all Democrats win victories in November."

Edmisten urged Democrats to support him if they care about children, victims of crime, spiraling utility rates and economic development in rural North Carolina.

Edmisten is scheduled to meet with his steering committee this morning and will attend a Wadesboro fund-raiser with D.M. "Lauch" Faircloth tonight. Meanwhile, Knox is scheduled to campaign in New Bern today.

Aides to the candidates also said that Edmisten and Knox would meet June 1 in a debate to be broadcast statewide by the University of North Carolina Center for Public Television.

WBTV of Charlotte had planned a debate for Saturday, but spokesman Jerry Mobley said Edmisten would not participate because he didn't want to show favoritism to a commercial TV station.

Knox had agreed to take part in the debate. During a stop in Hickory, where he attended a forum sponsored by the N.C. Association of Arts Councils, he accused Edmisten of hiding.

The candidates each received an endorsement Tuesday. Insurance Commissioner John Ingram, who finished sixth in the gubernatorial primary, threw his support to Edmisten.

Robert Hannon, one of the lesser-known Democratic gubernatorial hopefuls, threw his support to Knox, saying he "represents the highest ideals of what human relationship is all about."

In other political news, former Labor Department employee Don Wiseman, who finished third in the Democratic primary race for labor commissioner, Tuesday endorsed state Sen. Richard Barnes over incumbent John Brooks.

In a Raleigh news conference, Wiseman said the department's morale was low and turnover high. He accused Brooks of using department workers in his campaign while forbidding employees from participating in his opponents' campaigns.

"Mr. Brooks' management style does not contribute to the open, fair and democratic operation of a successful department of labor," said Wiseman, former director of the department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration office.

In the U.S. Senate race, an aide to Gov. Jim Hunt said representatives of Hunt and Sen. Jesse Helms would meet Wednesday to discuss possible debates.

The meeting will take place at 2 p.m. in the Raleigh law office of Tom Ellis, a top Helms adviser, said Hunt campaign press secretary Will Marshall.

The Helms campaign released a list of Democrats from 60 counties whom it said supported Helms. J.T. Knott, a former Wake County commissioner, said in a Raleigh news conference that many conservative Democrats were disillusioned with Hunt.

Former Chapel Hill Mayor Howard Lee said Tuesday he probably would endorse Rep. Ike Andrews, D-N.C., after they meet this weekend.

Andrews, who defeated Lee in last week's congressional primary, faces a general election challenge from Republican Bill Cobey.

Discrimination Charged

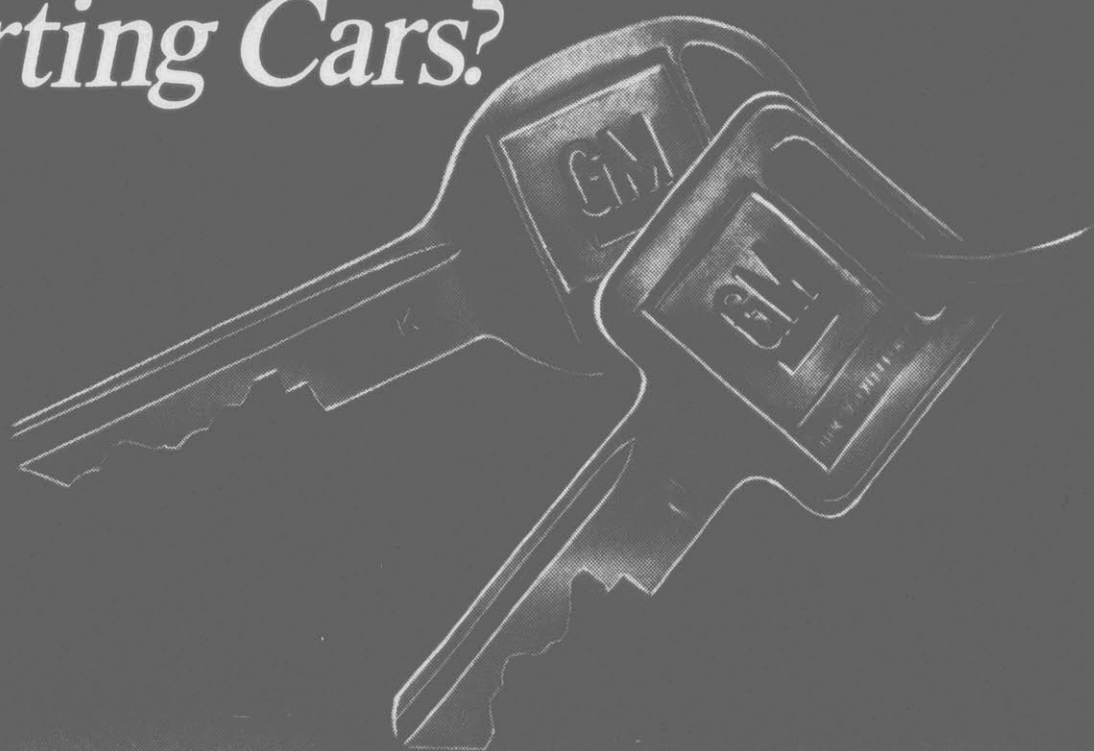

RALEIGH (AP) — The state's former student medical loan director says she was stripped of her responsibilities, and was fired after she filed a discrimination suit against the state.

Janet M. Proctor, 59, testified Monday before a federal magistrate that state Budget Director John A. Williams Jr. and his deputy, Marvin K. Dorman Jr., worked quietly to have her exempted from the state Personnel Act and fired her after stripping her of all responsibility.

Mrs. Proctor later filed suit citing a discrepancy in pay between men and women in comparable state government jobs. That suit was settled out of court in 1980 with the provision that Mrs. Proctor would not be punished for taking her superiors to court.

In a one-line provision in the 1983 budget, however, the General Assembly exempted Mrs. Proctor's job from the Personnel Act, effective July 15. Williams fired her on Aug. 25.

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A District Court judge will decide next Monday whether to exempt a Henderson County 6-year-old from immunization because it is against her parents' "bona fide" religious beliefs.

The case marks the first time state laws on disease inoculation exemptions have been tested in court since they were revised in 1981, said Don Lay, assistant coordinator for immunization with the N.C. Department of Human Resources' Division of Health Services.

"This is the test case to see if North Carolina will uphold this type of exemption," Lay said.

If denied their request by 29th

District Court Judge Zoro Guice, Dean and Lili Davis of Horse Shoe said they will appeal.

Before 1981, the only immunization exemptions granted by the Division of Health Services were to children of families whose church-affiliated beliefs prohibited vaccines. A child can also escape boosters for specific medical reasons, Bond said.

State law requires every child to be immunized for tetanus, diphtheria, whooping cough, rubella, measles and polio by age 2. All children must be inoculated against communicable diseases before first grade.

Of North Carolina's 162,601 kindergarten or first-graders, only 92 have not been immunized because of their family's religious convictions, Lay said. Those exemptions were granted by the Division of Health Services. There are only 36 medical excuses logged, Lay said.

Henderson County is the only place where the immunization issue has reached the courtroom in recent history, said Newton MacCormack, Division of Health Services chief.

The division denied the Davises' initial request in March on grounds they cited scientific reasons for opposing the boosters, MacCormack said.

"The scientific merits (of immunization) have been approved and adopted," Bond said.

The Davises' original request "probably" would have been granted by the state had it rested in religious grounds, he said.

"It is the state's position that the religious position is not that deep-seated because the first request cited medical reasons," Bond said. "I had no alternative but to take them to court. The evidence they submitted didn't meet the requirements of the law."

Circle was dismissed from kindergarten this spring, and the Davises said they want the issue settled by fall to avoid truancy charges.

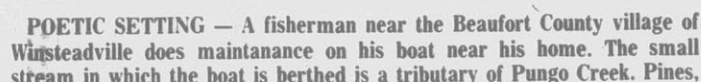

The "body is a temple" and shouldn't be injected with "foreign things," according to the Davises. "We believe in taking charge of our own health," Davis said Tuesday.

The Davises, who are Mormons said their church takes no stand on the issue. "What we're doing has nothing to do with the church," Davis said. "We prayed about it and received an answer from the Lord."

The Davises, parents of seven children who are not all fully inoculated, moved here from Utah four years ago. Utah and 21 other states provide exemptions based on personal beliefs, Davis said.

"There is no evidence in their testimony of official religious beliefs," said Jeff McConaughy, assistant district attorney who is prosecuting the case. "Nobody showed that the immortal soul will be in jeopardy and that takes religious issue out of it quickly. They were completely unable to articulate any article of religious practice that prohibits immunization. All they said is the body is a temple and this defiles it."

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Sen. Jesse Helms and state GOP chairman David Flaherty have asked to intervene in former U.S. Rep. Bill Hendon's court challenge of a state split-ticket voting law.

U.S. District Court Judge
Woodrow W. Jones will hear motions

Thursday in the 1982 lawsuit from attorneys for Hendon and the state Board of Elections as well as from four parties wanting to join Hendon.

Hendon lost by 1,324 votes to Democrat James McClure Clarke in 1982. He blamed the loss on faulty ballot-counting in Haywood. Henderson, McDowell, Rutherford and Transylvania counties that gave votes cast for him to his opponent.

In those counties, which used paper, punch-card and optically scanned ballots, some voters marked a straight Democratic ticket but also crossed over to vote for Hendon. Election officials counted only the straight party votes because the election law said a crossover vote amounted to "overvoting."

Hendon said that thwarted the intent of split-ticket voters. He failed to get a recount, but convinced the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., to declare the law unconstitutional in June 1983.

The appeals court remanded the case to the federal trial court in Asheville and instructed Jones to rework the election law.

Flaherty said Republicans want to join the lawsuit to ensure that any changes made to the election law are applied statewide.

"We want to make sure that the tricky ballot is not allowed to be kept all over this state," Flaherty said. "We want to make sure the way the state plays the game that they don't try to con us into doing it just for Bill Hendon's district."

Assistant Attorney General Sandra King and Deputy Attorney General James Wallace, who are defending the state Board of Elections, were not available for comment Tuesday.

Go the GREAT way! The City transit system will take you all over town. Call 752-4137 for information on rates and bus routes.

GREENSBORO (AP) — The state has been successful in reducing prison overcrowding by decriminalizing violations like public drunkenness, but the prison system is still overused, according to the chairman of the North Carolina Paroles Commission.

100,000 residents, more than double the national average, while the state historically has ranked about 40th in overall crime. He urged network members to continue progress in finding alternatives to prison.

Johnson said that last spring, the state had 17,500 inmates in state correction facilities. He said many prison officials feel the prison system is overcrowded and overburdened.

Johnson, estimating that each prison cell cost $36,500, said taxpayers can't bear that burden in addition to the cost of supporting inmates' families. He said the state also loses tax income from unemployed inmates.

New ABC Lineup Keeps 'Fairytale' Look

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — When Henry Kissinger put in a cameo appearance on ABC's "Dynasty," he partied with Joan Collins. They were not talking foreign policy.

If you watch shows like "Dynasty," "The Love Boat" and "Hotel," you get lush lifestyles, expensive clothes and the beautiful people. If you want reality on ABC, you have to wait for Ted Koppel and "Nightline."

ABC, even with the cancellation of "Fantasy Island," remains the Fairytale Network.

ABC has made a lot of money and finished a healthy second to CBS the past five seasons with prime-time series that drip glitter and glamour, dreams and wishes.

ABC does not hold up a mirror to real life; it stares at the good life from behind sunglasses. On ABC, the carriage never turns into a pumpkin. The biggest problem its characters face is which dress to wear to the ball.

So, when ABC announced it would drop "Fantasy Island" after five years of making dreams come true, it didn't miss a beat with a replacement. "Finder of Lost Loves" stars Tony Franciosa as a widower who reunites couples who have drifted apart.

For ABC's objectives, the two shows are interchangeable. ABC wants to reach women at home on Saturday nights who wish they could be anywhere but home on Saturday nights. They used to travel on "The Love Boat" and get off on "Fantasy Island." Next season, after "The Love Boat" docks, they can search for "Lost Loves."

The shows all come from the same fantasy factory, Aaron Spelling Productions, which is ABC's exclusive supplier through 1988.

Spelling produced seven of ABC's 22 prime-time hours in 1983-84, and he'll control the same amount of time and programs this fall. Out are "Fantasy Island" and "Hart to Hart," in are "Finders of Lost Loves" and "Glitter," about a magazine that seeks out glamorous people and enchanting places.

ABC, which might stand for Aaron's Broadcasting Comp., also has Spelling's popular "Dynasty," "Love Boat," "Hotel," "Matt Houston" and "T.J. Hooker" — none of which will ever compete with "Hill Street Blues" for the Emmy as best dramatic series, an award ABC last won in 1970, with "Marcus Welby, M.D."

Not surprisingly, ABC is the No. 1 network among women aged 18 to 49 and the advertisers who want them. It doesn't matter that ABC's programs are anti-intellectual and pro-popcorn.

The major exception are ABC's special movies, including such thoughtful films as "Something About Amelia," about incest, and "The Day After," about the effects of nuclear war.

In its new fall programs, which have not yet been previewed, ABC doesn't seem to deviate from its successful strategy of fancy schlock.

Spelling's former partner, Leonard Goldberg, is executive producer for "Paper Dolls," about "the fast-paced, dazzling world of fashion," an ABC press release says. "Here are the flesh and blood stories of stunning, famous women, and the rich and powerful people who struggle to control them."

Some other newcomers include: —"Honolulu Run." This is about two Chicago cops who chuck the crime and grime (the real world?) for the surf and sun as detectives in Hawaii.

—"Who's the Boss?" Another "Odd Couple" show, this time with Tony Danza as a former ballplayer who becomes housekeeper to a beautiful, divorced advertising executive and her 7-year-old son.

—"People Do the Craziest Things." Here, people will be caught embarrassing themselves, which may be as close to reality as ABC gets.

This past season, ABC offered one entertainment series with a heart and a mind: "Two Marriages," which convincingly and cleverly dealt with the every-day concerns of family life. A midseason replacement, it was a ratings failure, but it never had a chance to succeed. If ABC really wanted this mature program to work, it could have found a safer spot than Thursdays, against "Magnum, P.I."

"Lottery" also had charm, but, alas, ABC scheduled it against "Dallas."

There will be no tears shed here for ABC's other canceled shows, the forgettable "Automan," "Blue Thunder," "Masquerade" and "That's Incredible," and these witless comedies: "Shaping Up," "Just Our Luck," and "Oh Madeline."

"Happy Days" had warmth and, sometimes, a message. It had a good, long run, although, as ABC's best comedy, it would never be mistaken for "Cheers" or "Kate & Allie." "Happy Days" was about the 1950s and 1960s.

Has anybody at ABC heard of the 1980s?

NBC Takes Top Rating With 'V'

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC's earthlings repelled the reptile invaders from outer space as "V: The Final Battle" took the top two places in the Nielsen ratings for the week ended May 13.

Still, ABC claimed its fourth straight week as the winning network. NBC was second and CBS was third.

The final episode of "V" was the highest-rated show for the week. In second place was the second chapter. Despite the victory by the earthlings, reptilian femme fatale Jane Badler escaped to return in the fall when "V" becomes a regular series.

Over at ABC's "Happy Days," the Fonz and friends took their leave in the Top 10 after 11 years as one of TV's most popular situation comedies. The final one-hour special episode was 10th, its first time in the Top 10 since August 31, 1982, when it was also 10th. After the appearance of NBC's "The A-Team" the show's ratings fell off sharply.

ABC's "Dynasty" came in third with its cliffhanger show ending the season. CBS' "Dallas," building up to its own cliffhanger this week, was fourth.

Here are the week's 20 top programs:

1. Miniseries—"V: The Final Battle," Part III, NBC, a rating of 28.9 or 24.2 million households.
2. Miniseries—"V: The Final Battle," Part II, NBC, 25.8 or 21.6 million.
3. "Dynasty," ABC, 25.7 or 21.5 million.
4. "Dallas," CBS, 24.4 or 20.4 million.
5. Movie—"The Dollmaker," ABC, 22.7 or 19.0 million.
6. "Falcon Crest," CBS, 22.3 or 18.6 million.
7. "The A-Team," NBC, 21.6 or 18.1 million.
8. "Hotel," ABC, 20.7 or 17.3 million.
9. "TV Bloopers & Practical Jokes," NBC, 19.6 or 16.4 million.
10. "Happy Days," ABC, 19.0 or 15.9 million.
11. "Hill Street Blues," NBC, 17.0 or 14.2 million.
12. "Magnum, P.I.," CBS, 16.8 or 14.1 million.
13. Miniseries—"Last Days of Pompeii," Part III, ABC, 16.7 or 14.0 million.
14. "Simon & Simon," CBS, 16.6 or 13.9 million.
15. Miniseries—"Last Days of Pompeii," Part II, ABC, 16.5 or 13.8 million.
16. Movie—"Family Secrets," NBC, 15.6 or 13.0 million.
17. Tie—"Cagney & Lacey," CBS, 15.6 or 13.0 million.
18. "Scarecrow & Mrs. King," CBS, 15.4 or 12.9 million.
19. "60 Minutes," CBS, 15.2 or 12.7 million.
20. Tie—"The Love Boat," ABC, 15.2 or 12.7 million.

Soviet Ship Ending Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — The helicopter carrier Leningrad, biggest Soviet warship ever to operate in the Caribbean, apparently is heading homeward after seven weeks of maneuvers with the Cuban navy and visits to Cuban ports, defense officials said Tuesday.

The 20,000-ton Leningrad is accompanied by an advanced, 8,000-ton guided-missile destroyer, a diesel-powered submarine and a tanker, said the officials, who spoke only on condition that they not be identified.

At last report, the Soviet squadron, whose appearance in the Caribbean in March caused U.S. authorities some concern, was in the mid-Atlantic apparently headed for the Mediterranean. Navy officials believe the Leningrad squadron is returning to its Black Sea home waters.

Soviet warships have been visiting Cuba periodically since 1969, but rarely have they drawn the attention focused by the United States on the arrival of the Leningrad and its accompanying ships in the Caribbean on March 25.

Defense Department spokesman Michael Burch said at the time that the appearance of the squadron "shows the importance the Soviet Union places on the region."

Burch added that "that is a concern" and he promised the United States would watch the Leningrad's movements "very closely."

Cellular Telephones Ready For Service

By TOM MINEHART
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE (AP) — Mobile telephones with much more mobility and better voice quality could be available in the Charlotte, Greensboro and Raleigh areas by the end of the year, say officials of Alltel Mobile Communications Corp.

"We're waiting on North Carolina Utilities Commission approval and an FCC (Federal Communications Commission) construction permit," said John DeLuca, marketing and planning manager for the Hudson, Ohio, firm, which will own 70 percent of the cellular telephone system serving the Charlotte area.

The new technology should make automobile and portable telephones commonplace and more effective. It's called "cellular" because each city is divided into cells served by individual low-power radio transmitters.

As the mobile telephone moves through the city, the telephone call is switched by computer from cell to cell without interrupting the conversation. The Charlotte-Gastonia-Monroe area will have six such cells.

"The computer continually queries the cell sites to see which site gives the best reception," DeLuca said. "The quality of voice transmission is unsurpassed."

The FCC has set aside two cellular licenses for each major city — one for telephone companies and one for non-telephone companies.

In the Charlotte area, the telephone companies in addition to Alltel are GTE Mobiltel Inc., United Telespectrum Inc. and BellSouth Mobility Inc., said DeLuca.

Some 22 non-telephone companies have applied for the non-telephone license for Charlotte, and the FCC may use a lottery to decide who gets the license.

In the Greensboro-Winston-Salem area, Centel will own about 57 percent of the telephone system, said DeLuca. In the Raleigh-Durham area, United will own 60 percent of the system, he said.

Subscribers will be able to use their cellular telephones in other cities, said Alltel vice president Dan Thompson. Eventually, the switching and billing will be done automatically by computers, which will even check the subscriber's creditworthiness.

But for the first year or so, switching will be manual, he said. Callers from a different city will first go through an operator who will bill the call through a credit card. Out-of-town subscribers could also receive calls through call forwarding, he said.

Eventually, most of the state will have cellular telephone service, said Thompson.

"We think most of North Carolina will be covered in the next five years except for the mountains," he said. "We're prepared to build a system from Rock Hill, S.C., to Winston-Salem if the FCC would let us go loose. United is prepared to go from Durham to Greensboro and to the coast, and other companies are interested in building a system from Knoxville, Tenn., to Winston-Salem."

Rural areas should have the service in about 10 years, Thompson said.

Cellular systems are already operating in Chicago, Indianapolis, Washington, and Buffalo, N.Y., and Los Angeles and New Orleans are expected to start up soon, he said.

Alltel will charge roughly $40 a month for cellular telephone service, said Thompson. In addition, air time will probably cost about 35 cents a minute during prime time.

Mobile units will cost anywhere from $19.95 to $2,500, he said. Units could be leased for about $70 per month.

Rail Cars Get Zip In China

ABOARD THE KOWLOON-CANTON EXPRESS, China (AP) — Attendants once walked the aisles with grimy kettles, sloshing hot water into passengers' teacups as loudspeakers blared "The East is Red." Now they push carts laden with duty-free U.S. cigarettes, French brandy and Chinese treats, hawking them for the state.

The loudspeakers are gone, replaced by imported Japanese color televisions mounted on the walls, hooked to a central videotape system showing traditional Chinese operas.

The Kowloon-Canton Express, China's twice-daily service from Kowloon in the British colony of Hong Kong to the Chinese city of Canton 90 miles west, caters to overseas Chinese, Hong Kong Chinese and foreigners.

The Chinese communist moderates who took power following the tumultuous 1966-76 Cultural Revolution introduced the train to earn foreign exchange, not to proclaim revolutionary struggle. The duty-free products can be bought only in Hong Kong dollars.

The train does not stop at the border crossing point at Shenzhen, where other trains halt for passengers to clear a lengthy customs and immigration check. Express passengers go through these formalities quickly at special areas of the Canton and Kowloon train stations.

"This is wonderful," said Yu Wuming, an overseas Chinese from Canada, who was on his way to visit his family in northeast Heilongjiang province. He clutched four bottles of Martell Napoleon brandy he had bought for $11 U.S. each. In Hong Kong they would have cost a third more.

Speaking loud Cantonese, some passengers on the six-car train waved money at harried-looking attendants, their carts crammed with cartons of U.S. cigarettes $5.90 U.S. each.

"It is usually like this," said one woman attendant, who identified herself by the tag on her blue jacket as "Train Service Worker 1336."

The bidding:

1 ♥ 2 ♥ 3 ♦ Pass
7 ♠! Dble Rdbble Pass

Opening lead: Nine of ♥.

Tournament players tend to complain about the distributional quirks of computer-dealt hands. However, hands dealt normally seem to be even wilder, and the Spring North American Championships in San Antonio produced more than its share of weird distributions. This one swung a match in the quarterfinals of the Vanderbilt Team Championship.

In one room North opened the bidding with six hearts and East overcalled seven diamonds. That contract was doubled and defeated five tricks. So East-West lost 900 points—hardly an optimum result, since North was going to have considerable difficulty at any heart contract.

In the other room the bidding proceeded at a somewhat more leisurely pace. East's two heart overcall showed spades and a minor suit. South introduced his club suit and North took a fair gamble when he elected to try a grand slam in clubs. East's double was lead-directing; it requested the lead of dummy's first-bid suit. South redoubled to warn partner not to run back to hearts.

Consider West's predicament. The opponents had reached a grand slam and he was on lead holding an ace in the unbid suit. Yet his partner had announced that he wanted a heart lead, so he either had the ace or, more likely, was void in the suit.

After much agonizing, West decided to lead a heart. East did ruff, but declarer overruffed, finessed West for the king of trumps successfully and claimed his grand slam.

The team captained by John Devine of Tenafly, N.J., gained 17 IMPs on this deal; had the grand slam been defeated, they would have lost 16 IMPs—a swing of 33 IMPs. They won this match by a margin of 30.

Brothers Confined In Baby's Death

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Two brothers aged 7 and 9, sentenced to a child care facility after killing a baby, are "not psychotic or severely emotionally disturbed" and should be easily rehabilitated, a judge says.

Pinellas Circuit Judge Jack Page ordered the boys to Camelot Care Center, an Illinois program for emotionally troubled youngsters. They will remain under supervision of the state of Florida indefinitely, but not beyond age 19, Page said.

The brothers were found guilty in the September death of 8-month-old Barbara Parks, who was left in their mother's care. Testimony showed the boys assaulted the infant with a coat hanger and a pencil, imitating acts they saw in pornographic magazines.

Mitchell Heirs Granted Rights

ATLANTA (AP) — A court has ruled that heirs of Margaret Mitchell, the author of "Gone With The Wind," are entitled to sole rights to any sequel to the blockbuster film based on the novel, but Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Inc. may appeal, a lawyer says.

The ruling by U.S. District Judge Robert Vining said a 1961 contract between the late Stephens Mitchell, the late author's brother, and producer David O. Selznick renegotiated various property rights to the original movie but did not mention a sequel. MGM had contended the sequel rights were transferred in that contract.

Robert L. Pennington, an attorney representing MGM, said MGM will decide whether to appeal after Vining puts his ruling in writing.

Oxford Changes Entrance Policies

By WILLIAM S. COWLES
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The 28 colleges of historic Oxford University have approved a simplified admission procedure that may draw more students from state-funded schools and counter Oxford's image as a domain of the privately educated upper class.

The main change will eliminate private school students' extra term to cram for the Oxford entrance exam, putting them on more equal footing with graduates of state-maintained schools, said Edward Baskerville, secretary of the colleges' admissions office.

"The aim was really to simplify the application procedure, but it may also have the effect of attracting more applications from (state-) maintained schools," he told The Associated Press in an interview.

Despite efforts to recruit students from working-class backgrounds, about half of the some 2,700 applicants annually accepted by Oxford come from the privileged 7 percent of the population educated in private secondary schools.

An Oxford degree retains much of its value as an uppercrust credential giving entry to the higher levels of the civil service and diplomatic service.

But Baskerville rejects the colleges' elitist image recalled in the television series "Brideshead Revisited."

"Our record of admission of students from the (state-) maintained sector is already good," he said. "The 'Brideshead Revisited' image just is not representative of modern Oxford."

The balance of state and private school students admitted roughly reflects the proportion who apply, Baskerville said. Of those who applied for admission in 1983, 4,000 were state students and 3,000 private.

"Whether the new procedure makes us more egalitarian in the eyes of those who spent too much time watching 'Brideshead' remains to be seen," Baskerville said.

The change adopted by the colleges in December goes into effect for students applying for admission in September 1986.

Most British students headed for university apply in the autumn of their last year and are accepted contingent on performance in essay achievement tests called Advanced Level exams taken at the end of that year.

Candidates for Oxford and Cambridge, however, must take special entrance exams in November on the subjects they hope to study.

Private school applicants have been able to spend an extra autumn term after their "A-levels" specifically cramming for the entrance test. State schools do not offer such a term.

"In the past most private school candidates have done better on the entrance papers," Baskerville said. "But the exam has always been regarded as a test of potential and will continue to be accepted in that light."

A spokesman for Cambridge University's admission office said Cambridge had plans to make similar adjustment to its college admissions process in the next three years.

The state schools' Secondary Heads Association welcomed the change as a positive one. "The new situation will cut away much of what was seen as an unfair advantage to the independent schools," said the association's Deputy Secretary Mary Chapman.

But private schools, who will lose tuition money from the cram term and may be forced to reorganize seniors' fall curriculums, aren't so happy.

"It is thoroughly bad from the education point of view to interfere with the normal autumn term schedule," said Robson Fisher, Deputy Secretary of the Headmasters' Conference.

"Whether it means more state students will apply and be accepted remains to be seen. It may just show private school students better qualified sooner," he said.

Group Threatens To Use Poison

LONDON (AP) — London newspapers have reported receiving letters from an animal rights group threatening to inject rat poison into eggs and meat at food shops.

Police said syringes containing rat poison were subsequently found in the freezers of some of the five London foodstores listed in the letters.

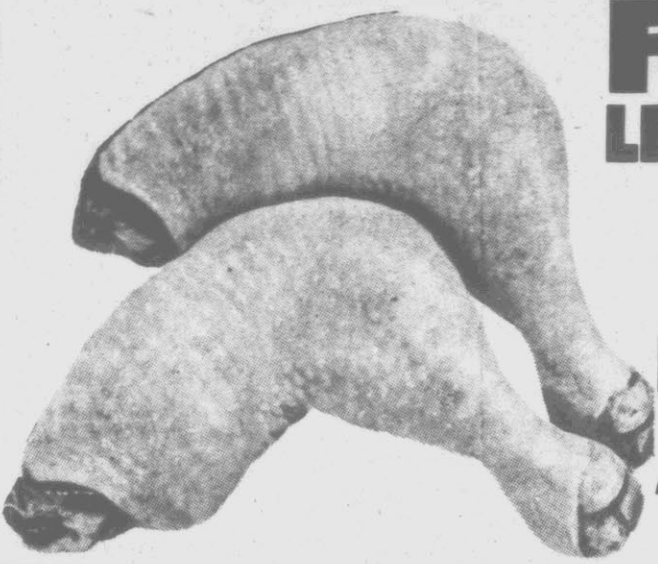

There was no evidence any food had been contaminated, but police said Monday the threat was being taken seriously and an investigation was under way.

A spokesman said police were playing down the affair for fear of encouraging cranks. The papers said the poison could cause violent illness but was not lethal.

U.S. Eyes Corn Crop Forecasts

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Although farmers have made up part of this spring's delay in planting corn, the crop is still a long way from harvest next fall. It will be a crucial six months, according to Agriculture Department analysts.

Based on projections — which, in turn, are based on an assumption that farmers will have "normal" weather — the 1984 corn crop may produce about 7.8 billion bushels, nearly double last year's skimpy 4.2 billion.

"A major concern at this time is the delayed plantings because of excessive moisture, not only for corn but for barley and oats as well," the department's Economic Research Service said Monday.

The projections, which are described as highly tentative, would mean a total corn supply of about 8.3 billion bushels in the 1984-85 marketing year that will begin next Oct. 1. That would include about 500 million bushels expected to be left over from previous crops.

Officials said that total corn use in 1984-85 is expected to rise about 6 percent from this season to about 7.2 billion bushels. That would leave corn carryover stocks on Oct. 1, 1985 — the start of the 1985-86 season — at slightly more than 1.1 billion bushels.

"This implies somewhat lower farm prices than during the current year, but supply would still be tight enough to yield a season average price of $2.65 to $3.20 a bushel, 10 to 65 cents above the national average loan rate, with the most likely price below the midpoint," the report said.

Nationally, the 1984 corn loan rate — which is the government's basic price support level — is $2.55 per bushel. If the report is correct, the farm price will "most likely" be less than the $2.92 midpoint of the projected price range.

Corn prices at the farm this year, meaning an average over the entire 12-month marketing year, are expected to average $3.25 per bushel, up from $2.68 in 1982-83, according to USDA economists.

Prices averaged $3.16 per bushel in the first half of the current marketing year that began last Oct. 1, up 36 percent from $2.33 a year earlier, the report said. Price strength in March continued into April and may strengthen further as supplies tighten during the summer, before weakening in the fall.

One reason for weaker grain prices ahead is an expected 3.6 percent decline in "grain-consuming animal units" on farms in 1984-85. To simplify, their calculations, agency economists convert cattle, hogs, sheep and chickens into these units, with each computed to eat as much grain in one year as one dairy cow.

"The bulk of the decrease will result from fewer hogs raised, with smaller reductions coming from the dairy industry and cattle feeding," the report said.

In a related report, the department said Monday that farmers have taken up some of the slack in this spring's delayed planting schedule but still lagged far behind normal.

A weekly report showed that by May 13 an estimated 29 percent of the intended corn acreage had been planted, compared to only 10 percent by May 6. Planting has been delayed in much of the country by rain and soggy fields.

On the average, 54 percent of the corn has been planted by May 13, the report said. A year ago, when farmers also were delayed by field conditions, 42 percent of the acreage had been planted.

Feeder Cattle Shows Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of cattle being fed for the consumer market as of May 1 in the seven major beef states totaled 7.38 million head, up 2 percent from a year ago and 4 percent more than two years ago, according to a new survey by the Agriculture Department.

Feedlot inventories were down in Colorado, Iowa and Nebraska but up from a year ago in the other four states.

Marketings of "fed" cattle in April totaled 1.52 million, a 4 percent increase from a year earlier and 8 percent more than two years ago, the report said Monday.

The placement of new cattle and calves in feedlots last month was reported at 1.52 million head, down 3 percent from April the past two years.

Feedlot inventories as of May 1 in the seven states, which account for about three-fourths of the nation's beef, and their percentages of a year earlier, included:

Arizona, 376,000 head on May 1 and 112 percent of a year earlier; California, 550,000 and 119; Colorado, 820,000 and 91; Iowa, 850,000 and 77; Kansas, 1,330,000 and 108; Nebraska, 1,500,000 and 94; and Texas, 1,950,000 and 123.

Old Town Keeps Up With Its Traditions

By ANDY LIPPMAN

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Old-fashioned buildings and old-fashioned virtues are something to be prized in this small Mason County community four miles south of the Ohio River.

The town's bank is in a log cabin and so is the post office. On Sundays, a church bell rings from an 18th-century steeple. And the mile-square area of downtown is called "Old Washington," just to distinguish it from the newer suburbs that also have a "Washington" address.

A new home along the main street is anything less than a century old and residents look on old homes as challenges they can turn into antique shops.

This is a town with a past to be proud of. In 1790, it was the second largest city in Kentucky, with 462 people. It has about the same number today.

Washington stakes a claim to being the first town west of the Alleghenies to have public waterworks, a macadam road, and a post office, which was the distributing point for all points west.

In 1809, Zachary Taylor, who later became president, performed his first public duty when he was stationed here for recruiting purposes, and Confederate general Albert Sidney Johnston was born here in 1803.

The town's fall as a "metropolitan" center started in the early 1800s when steamboat traffic along the Ohio River began expanding neighboring Maysville, which had grown to a city of 5,000 residents by the time the county seat was moved there from Washington in 1848.

Washington remained an educational and cultural center through the late 1800s, although it steadily lost population.

The town remained relatively unchanged through the first 50 years of the current century. Postmistress Mary Bickley said an attempt to bring something new into town about 25 years ago had sparked a revival, getting people to think about what treasures they had.

"What really got things started was they wanted to turn the old Methodist Church into something we didn't want," Miss Bickley said.

Since then, Miss Bickley said many area residents had been taking a second look at their homes and their town. A historic district was created in 1969 and it was placed on the National Register of Historic Places.

No longer does Washington enjoy the commercial success it had in the 18th century. Even U.S. 68 was moved out of town and out of the middle of things. Nowadays, Washington has one service station, one convenience market and 15 antique shops.

But its renovation draws busloads of people in the summer to wander the tree-lined streets and look at the old buildings. The Harvest Festival in August drew about 3,000 people in 1983, and tourists came again in the winter to help Washington celebrate its "Frontier Christmas."

Perhaps people come because it reminds them of a time gone by.

When the alarm goes off in the bank, Miss Bickley says, it has always been a false alarm. Once in a while, she says, the service station has trouble with youngsters. For most of the residents, however, no news is good news.

"Washington is full of good neighbors," said Miss Bickley, who has spent all but a few days of her 64 years in Washington. "You don't have to be afraid. No one bothers anyone."

Elaine Cotten agrees. "It's quiet and quaint," she said. "You can go out and leave things unlocked. Everyone watches out for everyone else."

It's easy to tell what was once here. Many of the houses display historical markers, and those that don't can be easily identified by Miss Bickley.

Like many of Washington's residents, Miss Bickley knows she lives in an old-fashioned town with old-fashioned virtues. "I started here, and I hope to end here," she said.

Court Rules Out Common Law Plan

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Couples of the same sex can't contract a common-law marriage, and therefore aren't eligible to divorce, but the law should take into account changes in social relationships, a Pennsylvania appeals court ruled.

Writing the unanimous decision for the state Superior Court, President Judge Edmund Spaeth Jr. said common-law marriage was necessary in pioneer days, when access to clergy or public officials was difficult, but should not be encouraged now by expansion to include either two men or two women.

The ruling dismissed an appeal by John DeSanto, who had sought since 1981 to divorce William Barnsley, whom he claimed to have married in a common-law ceremony in 1970.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: T equals I

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Youth Turns Wooden Blocks Into Models

READING, Pa. (AP) — Gary Fehr has found a way to make birds lay golden eggs. The 17-year-old Wilson High School senior carves birds out of wood, and his hobby has not only won him national honors, it has also paid off as an enjoyable way to make money.

Four years ago, Fehr became interested in bird carving through the example of his neighbor, Fred Cutts, a carver who won first and second place in the Ward Foundation World Championship Wildfowl Carving Competition in 1976.

Fehr works in a neat, well-lit workshop in a corner of the basement of his parents' Whitfield home. He is surrounded by various woodworking tools and source books for bird photos and paintings, such as the Audubon Society's field guides.

To make each bird, Fehr draws a pattern on paper, then carbons it onto the wood, using a band saw and belt sander to make the rough cuts and smooth them.

"I use basswood, which comes from the linden tree, because it has little grain, and it works well," Fehr said. "It's soft but not too soft — you don't lose the effect you want."

For the fine, detailed work such as the feathers, intricately reproduced down to the individual barbs on each feather, Fehr uses a variety of grinding, burring and woodburning tools.

Depending on the coloration of the bird, Fehr either burns the color into the wood, or paints it with acrylic paint.

"I use acrylic because of the quick drying time," he said.

Fehr even makes remarkably natural-looking settings for his birds. It is nearly impossible to tell, even at close range, that the tuft of grass on one of his models is made out of aluminum.

Shrinking Peso Hurts Business

By ARTHUR H. ROTSTEIN
Associated Press Writer

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP) — This border city is in an official disaster area, but merchants here felt neither earthquakes nor floods — only a kind of sinking feeling as the Mexican peso shrank to a fraction of its former self.

As it shrank, business shrank. Drug store proprietor Albert Kramer closed a sundries store and laid off more than 20 workers. His stepfather and brother stopped taking salaries.

In Ernesto Chavez's stationery store, the number of walk-in customers went down 80 percent.

"A lot of us have borrowed money to stay alive," said Alex Kory Jr., who runs a department store.

Now, as a result of Gov. Bruce Babbitt's declaration this month of an economic disaster area in Arizona's four border counties — Pima, Santa Cruz, Cochise and Yuma — merchants heavily dependent on the border trade could be eligible for 8 percent Small Business Administration loans under a new disaster loan program President Reagan signed April 18.

Babbitt asked Reagan to make the merchants eligible for the loans, but had not yet received a reply. Babbitt spokesman Jim West said the other three states that border Mexico — Texas, New Mexico and California — have not sought loan money under the new legislation.

Current interest rates are much higher. And some merchants, including Kramer, were simply unable to convince banks to loan them the money they needed.

"I think it will help a little bit, but what impact it's going to have on the total economy I can't tell you," said Richard Capin, secretary of the Capin Mercantile Corp., the largest independent retail operation along the Arizona border.

His company hasn't needed SBA help, but all of the retailers in this city of about 18,000 people have been living a lean existence for the last 16 months or longer, struggling since devaluations in February, August and December 1982 reduced the peso's value from 26 to the dollar to 150 to the dollar and gutted the Mexican consumer's buying power.

The devaluations were meant to strengthen the country's deteriorated financial condition by making Mexican goods cheaper to foreign buyers and making foreign-made goods more expensive to Mexicans. The idea was to gain export income and cut imports.

"Some people think this federal help comes too late, but nevertheless we welcome it and hope they can approve these loans," said Tony Rodriguez, a Valley National Bank official. Rodriguez added that loans at 8 percent interest "would be very attractive and would be very helpful."

Business has been making a slow comeback, estimated now to be about 50 percent improved from the 1982 lowpoint. Some merchants estimate that Mexican purchases make up 80 percent of that 50 percent improvement.

"Things are getting better compared to what they were when we first had the devaluation in August 1982," Rodriguez said. "People do not buy the big quantities they used to buy, but they still like to buy the American products." He said the improvement has been reflected in local banking.

Arthur Doan, a former businessman and now executive director of the Santa Cruz (County)-Nogales Chamber of Commerce, said inflation, a lack of quality and a lack of some basic merchandise in Mexican stores are driving Mexican consumers back across the border into the United States. But because of the less valuable peso, "they're being more selective, more careful in their buying."

Nogales city retail sales tax collections reflect the improvement. From $120,529 in April 1981, they fell to $88,426 in April 1982, plummeted to $52,341 in April 1983, but came back to $88,044 last month.

Sales are still about 50 percent below the 1981 peak, businessmen say, and for nearly everybody it has been a new ballgame.

Chavez said "past experience has proven to us that you lose exactly as much sales percentage-wise as the Mexican peso drops." He said his walk-in traffic dropped 80 percent after December 1982.

"We consider we went into a new business," said Capin. "You've got to throw away all your old records.... I told my people just forget about '82 (and) back.... Don't think about the old days."

For the Nogales-based Capin Mercantile chain of 25 stores, including 15 along the border throughout the state, devaluation meant letting go about half of a 1,200-to-1,300-employee work force.

Group Says Litter Law For The Birds

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bea Foster flew in the face of the law by feeding some feathered friends. But in the absence of any stool pigeons, she escaped becoming a jailbird herself.

There were plenty of other pigeons around Monday as Ms. Foster, president of the Association for Animal Relief, challenged a city ban on pigeon-feeding.

She tossed 10 pounds of bird seed to a flapping, cooing, pecking flock on a downtown square. Passersby ducked as dozens of apparently ravenous birds swooped in for the feast.

Despite the commotion, not a single police officer turned up.

"I'll plead guilty," said Ms. Foster, discussing her response to a hoped-for arrest. "I'll take it to the highest court."

Ms. Foster said she has received about 15 complaints of police harassment from pigeon lovers.

"Most are from older people who have been threatened and harassed for throwing popcorn and bread to pigeons," she said. "The birds will starve if people stop feeding them."

Maribeth Salley, director of the Clean City Committee, denies that authorities are anti-pigeon. "We're trying to get people away from the habit of throwing things down," she said.

Police began warning feeders of pigeons May 1 as part of a city anti-litter drive. Salley said she knows of no one who has actually been cited for pigeon feeding.

The Association for Animal Relief is a non-profit group chartered by the state to enforce laws against cruelty to animals.

FOCUS

On The Dotted Line

Button Gwinnett, signer of the Declaration of Independence, was killed in a duel on this day in 1777. Gwinnett was born in England and became a rich rice merchant in Georgia. Because he died so young, 44, his signature is among the rarest and most valuable in the U.S. Collectors have paid up to $16,000 for his "John Hancock," which is the first one on the upper left of the document. In 1968, a copy of the Declaration was discovered in a Pennsylvania bookstore.

DO YOU KNOW — Who was the oldest signer of the Declaration of Independence?

TUESDAY'S ANSWER — Typhoon is the generic name for a Pacific hurricane.

Congress Eases Rules On Some Tax Credits

By JIM LUTHER AP Tax Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the law is being violated, just change the law.

That could be one lesson in the tax-increase bill passed by the Senate last month. The measure includes a provision making it easier to claim a tax credit for using geothermal energy — the Earth's natural heat.

In 1978 Congress authorized a tax credit of up to $4,000 for installing geothermal heating in a home. Four years later, the General Accounting Office, an arm of Congress, concluded that up to 91 percent of the benefits were being claimed improperly.

Scientists say only about a dozen states have geothermal energy that can be recovered economically. The Internal Revenue Service said thousands of claims were being filed from other states or from areas whose geothermal deposits were so deep that it was not feasible to tap them.

In several cases, GAO said, taxpayers were claiming the credit for using a heat pump fed by ground water, which relies on the air and sun for heat. That water is rarely hot enough to meet the law, which says a geothermal spring must be at least 122 degrees to qualify for the tax credit.

So, the Senate Finance Committee voted to allow water as cool as 104 degrees to qualify. The Senate agreed; the House has not acted.

Since the GAO pointed out the problem, the IRS has challenged credits claimed by 11,108 taxpayers; 3,509 agreed to pay an extra $3.1 million in taxes.

A vow of poverty does not necessarily excuse a priest from paying taxes, the Tax Court says.

Lazarus W. Macior, a Franciscan, was hired to teach biology at the University of Akron. He wore no clerical garb; paid cash for a home; owned two motorcycles, a station wagon and a travel trailer, and maintained two savings accounts. He sent the order none of his salary and filed no tax return.

When the IRS billed him for taxes, he protested that he was subject to vows of poverty and obedience and sued in Tax Court. The court, upholding the IRS, ruled simply that Macior "was not living as a priest" in 1978, the year in question.

If you've ever paid for a plane ticket and the airline went out of business before you got a chance to use it, you'll be interested in a bill introduced by Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D. It would guarantee the ticket would be honored by another carrier.

The carrier could recoup its money from the federal airport and airway trust fund, to which special taxes on airlines and passengers already are contributed. In turn, the government would try to collect from the bankrupt line.

"I have become allergic to filling out forms," William A. Robertson of Greenwich, Conn., protested when he sued IRS. He argued that the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution, which protects against self-incrimination, relieved him of the responsibility of stating his income.

The Tax Court, in disagreeing, quoted a 1927 Supreme Court holding: "It would be an extreme if not extravagant application of the Fifth Amendment to say that it authorized a man to refuse to state the amount of his income.... The right to remain silent does not arise ... unless the government seeks testimony that will subject its giver to criminal liability."

Lowe's Pricing Policy: Many items in this tabloid carry a reference retail price. The reference is intended as a guide to the range of retail selling prices in our area, and may be useful in identifying different units of the same manufacturer. An item's reference retail price is either the manufacturer's suggested retail price or our determination of its full retail price based on prices at which it or similar merchandise is offered by principal retailers (department stores, specialty shops and other non-discount sellers) in our selling area. While we believe our reference retail price does not appreciably exceed the highest retail prices at which sales are made in our selling area, we cannot assure you that our reference retail prices as described above represent the prices in every community on any given day. Some items in this advertisement are listed at "regular" selling prices. The merchandise is offered at this price except during a special sale. The purpose of showing a reference retail price (or a regular price) is to assist you, our customer, in making a knowledgeable and better informed buying decision. We suggest that you do comparative shopping and compare our prices. (Prices in this tabloid do not include delivery charges. Ask us about delivery rates.)

Lowe's Raincheck Policy: If we sell out of an advertised item, we'll issue you a raincheck. When we restock, you'll be notified so you can buy at the previously advertised price (except for products marked "Limited Quantities"). Our smaller stores may not stock all advertised items.
