Soviets Claim Nuclear Strike Range Off U.S.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has increased the number of nuclear-armed submarines off U.S. shores, and the missiles aboard them could reach their targets within 10 minutes of launching, Soviet Defense Minister Dmitri F. Ustinov says.

The official Soviet news agency Tass quoted Ustinov on Sunday as saying the increase was a response to NATO's deployment of new missiles in Europe.

The defense minister accused President Reagan of "drawing the world into another nuclear arms race," and said Reagan's hard-line policies had made arms control talks impossible.

For the first time in public, Ustinov said Moscow had carried out the vow it made last November to respond to NATO's deployment of 572 new nuclear-tipped Pershing 2 and cruise missiles in western Europe by increasing the nuclear threat to the United States.

The NATO deployment began last year, with missiles scheduled to be installed in Britain, West Germany, Italy, Belgium and the Netherlands to counter Soviet SS-20 missiles aimed at Western Europe.

Any nuclear attack on the Soviet bloc would bring "immediate and inevitable" retaliation against the United States and Western Europe, Ustinov said.

"We have increased the number of our submarines with nuclear missiles aboard off the coasts of the U.S.A.," he said.

The Reagan administration counts on the possibility of reaching targets "in the Warsaw treaty countries in 8-10 minutes after launching of the missiles," he said. "But this is an illusory advantage.

"In terms of their characteristics — yield, accuracy, the ability to reach targets on the territory of the United States and the flight time to target — Soviet sea-based missiles create a counterbalance to the threat equal to that which is posed to us and our allies by the American missiles in Europe," he said.

Ustinov reiterated Soviet threats that "in case of further growth of the American nuclear missile potential in Europe, we will accordingly increase the number of SS-20 missiles in the European part of the USSR."

The Soviet Union announced earlier it was installing new missiles in East Germany and Czechoslovakia.

Ustinov told Tass that because of the measures, the military balance between the two superpowers was being restored, but at a higher level.

He said the Soviet Union is not seeking military superiority, and claimed Reagan and other Western leaders were keeping silent about the increased risk the missiles pose to their own countries.

It is futile for the United States to hope that new missiles or plans for "the establishment of a 'comprehensive anti-missile defense of the U.S.A.'" will make the Soviet Union agree to unilateral concessions, he said.

Ustinov said U.S. offers to resume arms reduction talks, which the Soviets broke off after the NATO deployment began, are "mere words," belied by actions such as the push to develop the MX missile.

"Talks are impossible on such a basis," he said.

The present situation with the talks at a standstill is "abnormal and dangerous," he said. "The situation should and can be changed for the better."

State Department spokesman Joe Reap said the department had no new comment on Ustinov's speech.

Republican Files For 9th District

Maynard Waters of Route 4, Washington, a Republican, filed today as a candidate for the 9th District seat in the state Senate.

The deadline for filing for the 9th District and the 6th Senatorial District, both of which involve Pitt County, is noon Friday. The elections will be held July 17.

Greenville attorney Tom Taft filed for the 9th District seat as a Democrat last Friday. The district is composed of portions of Pitt, Martin and Beaufort counties.

A check of the election boards in the district revealed no other candidates as of 10 a.m. today.

In the race for the 6th District, composed of portions of Pitt, Edgecombe, Martin and Wilson counties, Bob Martin of Pitt County filed Friday as did Dr. John Costabile of Wilson County. No other candidates had filed as of mid-morning today.

Ashley Futrell, editor of the Washington Daily News, said today he would not be a candidate in the 9th District, quashing speculation that he would run.

Alaskans Search For Bodies In Wake Of Drifter's Attack

MANLEY HOT SPRINGS, Alaska (AP) — As authorities dragged a muddy river for bodies, townspeople spoke quietly of the "weirdo" drifter with a long knife who wandered in last week and is believed to have killed nine people before being gunned down by police.

"Nobody will feel better until they can get some bodies out of the river," said Cleo Schnorf, a resident of this backwater mining town of 80 people about 90 miles west of Fairbanks. "Nobody will get any rest until they do."

Michael Silka, 25, drove to this community of log cabins on the Tanana River at the end of the Elliott Highway about a week ago and set up camp at a boat launching area about three miles from town.

On Thursday, six residents of the village went to the boat ramp for one reason or another. None was ever seen again.

Silka, shot to death Saturday by state police after he killed a trooper in a helicopter pursuing him, also has been linked to the death of a trapper in this rugged central Alaska wilderness, and was a suspect in a slaying last month in Fairbanks, officials said.

"I think this will be remembered every breakup (when the river ice breaks) for a long time," said Ed Crestin, 28. "Things may not be the same any time soon. I think the people here may be a little more leery of strangers."

A pregnant woman and a 2-year-old child are among those who vanished and are presumed dead. Residents said Sunday they are certain they were killed and thrown into the river.

Authorities presume the missing people were killed, Sam Barnard, a homicide investigator with the Alaska State Troopers in Fairbanks, said Sunday nigth. Dragging for bodies was to resume today.

ECU: $200 Million A Year

ECU News Bureau

More than $200 million in yearly income is generated in Pitt County by East Carolina University, according to researchers in the ECU School of Business.

This estimated total is based on statistical calculations of spending by ECU faculty and staff employees, students and visitors, along with university purchases in the local area. Data used included enrollment and employment figures and surveys of a random sample of students and employees.

The study, a project of the ECU Bureau of Business Research, was directed by Dr. Donald Guy of the department of finance.

"For purposes of this study, ECU was treated as a multiproduct firm whose impact was measured through economic base analysis,"Guy explained. "Our focus was income generated from outside the region."

Individuals' expenditures included funds spent locally for rent, property taxes, utilities, food, clothing, major purchases (automobiles, appliances, furniture) and such intangibles as insurance and local banking.

Spending by ECU's 2,340 employees was calculated at nearly $25 million yearly. Spending by students who come to ECU from outside Pitt County exceeded that figure slightly.

Some $3.7 million in visitor expenditures was added to student and faculty-staff spending, and university purchases were estimated to total about $12,500,000 per year.

The resulting total, $67,293,827, was multiplied three times, the conservative estimate of how often a dollar changes hands before it is spent outside Pitt County, Guy said. In studies of this type, an "economic base multiplier" as low as 1.2 or as high as seven is selected, depending upon a community's economic structure and size.

One major economic factor — construction of new buildings on campus — was not considered in the ECU study, he said, since these expenditures vary widely from year to year and must be identified by which firms (local or outside) receive building contracts and who is hired to work on the projects.

"Even when construction workers come from outside Pitt County for work on campus, they still spend some money locally on such things as meals or gasoline," Guy noted. "Omitting these expenditures has the effect of understating the impact of the university on the local economy.

Construction expenditures, when they occur, are of considerable size, he pointed out, noting as examples two recent projects — the $3 million renovation of the Messick Theater Arts Center and completion of the $27.1 million Brody Medical Sciences Building.

"The estimated dollar value of income generated by ECU in Pitt County — $201,881,481 per year — was the result of considering strictly measurable quantities," Guy said.

"However, there are other ways in which a university campus has economic impact upon its region, such as helping to lure major industries from urban areas."

ECU and similar campuses increase an area's attractiveness by making available a supply of highly trained personnel, cultural amenities and high-quality medical care, he said.

"East Carolina University may raise the potential for future development not only in Pitt County, but over a much wider area of eastern North Carolina."

Copies of the report are available for the cost of duplication from the Bureau of Business Research, ECU School of Business, East Carolina University, Greenville, NC 27834.

SALES TAX ON CARS PROTEST

I have a bill of sale for a car I bought for $300. The tax value is listed at $250. Yet when I took my bill of sale and went to the car licensing bureau to get license plates, I was told I had to pay sales tax on $1,470, that this was the assessed value of my car. I don't blame the license agent, Mrs. Garris. I know she was going by a book that came out of Raleigh. But whoever makes up that book has listed some ridiculously high values. And our legislators have set us up to pay through the nose in sales tax, regardless of what our actual purchase price was. What store do you go into and pay sales tax not in keeping with what you actually pay for the merchandise you buy — regardless of whether you might think it's overpriced or a great bargain? I appeal to other Hotline readers to let our legislators know we think this law is senseless and unfair and should be changed. I will be glad to talk to anyone who wants to discuss this issue. Floyd G. Robinson, 758-2452.

TORNADO VICTIMS INVITED

Tornado victims are urged to visit the New Greenville Warehouse Tuesday or Thursday of this week or Tuesday of next week between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. to obtain items donated for them after the March 28 disaster.

Anything they can use will be given to them. The following Saturday, all the items left in the warehouse will be sold at a yard sale, with proceeds going to the Tornado Relief Fund administered by the Pitt County Department of Social Services, DSS Director Ed Garrison said.

Duarte Says Death Squads Will Be Told To Disband

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan met today with Salvadoran President-elect Jose Napoleon Duarte, who says that under his government, "the message will go out" to rightist death squads that their activities must cease.

Duarte's visit here just two weeks after his narrow victory over conservative leader Roberto d'Aubuisson was seen as an attempt by Reagan to show that, despite congressional doubts, his efforts to promote democracy in El Salvador are succeeding.

Duarte's White House visit today and talks with congressional leaders on Tuesday were expected to focus on his program to end violence of both the right and the left, his ability to win military support for his government and the administration's request for an additional $62 million in military aid.

Discussing the death squad issue on Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press," Duarte said he plans to appoint a presidential commission to investigate the most notorious incidents involving the killing of innocent civilians.

These include, he said, the assassination of Archbishop Oscar Romero in 1980, the deaths of a Salvadoran and two American land reform experts in 1981 and other "important massacres."

"I think if I ... find out what happened, I will establish a criteria that the country will not accept any more of these kinds of abuses," he said. "We will establish the basis of discipline."

Meanwhile, Amnesty International today accused El Salvador's government of ordering the executions of many of the estimated 40,000 people murdered there since 1979 and interfering with investigations of the deaths.

The London-based human rights group said there had been "blatant failure" by El Salvadoran authorities to investigate the killings, and charged that the "authorities themselves lie behind the wholesale extrajudicial executions."

Duarte, who will be sworn in on June 1, also said he is confident that the Salvadoran military, after 50 years of dominating El Salvador's political life, is now ready to accept civilian authority.

"The army has changed a lot," Duarte said. "The army is ready to support the effort we are going to do in the direction of democracy."

That issue is expected to be closely scrutinized in the coming months by the U.S. Congress. Many members believe the military remains unwilling to yield its authority to a civilian president, particularly a liberal such as Duarte.

Double Ring Vows Said On Sunday

Catherine Lynn Emory and Scott Edward Allsbrook exchanged wedding vows Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Spillman Memorial Baptist Church in Kinston. The Rev. Ray K. Hodge performed the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Emory of Kinston and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Allsbrook of Scotland Neck.

A program of organ music was presented by Dan Sellers and B.J. Burns was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white organza and chantilly lace over peau de soie. The gown was designed with a high neckline encircled with schiffli lace and embellished with seed. The leg of mutton sleeves extended to call points fastened with satin buttons. The gathered skirt and attached chapel length train of chantilly lace was accented with a flounce of organza. She wore a portrait hat trimmed in lace with white bridal illusion. The bride carried a silk cascade of white phalaenopsis orchids, miniature carnations, stephanotis and baby's breath interspersed with a touch of lavender and showered with white bridal ribbons.

The honor attendant was Patsy Lefler of Concord, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Judy Parker of Greenville, Ann Allsbrook of Virginia Beach, Va., sister of the bridegroom, Carol Bobbitt of Ayden and Joanne Naeser of Wallace.

Rebecca Lefler of Concord, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Randy Emory of Greenville, brother of the bride, Jay Rollins of Cary, Ralph Barnhill and David Allsbrook, both of Scotland Neck.

Bridesmaids wore formal length gowns of mauve chalk taffeta designed with an open V-neckline outlined in a double ruffle of taffeta. A self-fabric rose accented the modified waistline and the skirt was enhanced with an asymmetrical overlay of taffeta forming a petal hemline.

The couple will live in Greenville after a wedding trip to Savannah, Ga.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina and is employed by Maxwell Furniture. The bridegroom is a graduate of Wayne Community College and will be employed at Eastern Correctional Center in Maury.

MRS. ALLSBROOK

A reception was given by the parents of the bride in the church fellowship hall.

A rehearsal dinner was given at Zachary's Restaurant by Mr. and Mrs. Percy Allsbrook. A bridesmaids luncheon at held Saturday at the home of Lucille Bryant. She was assisted by Anne Vick.

Miss Carson, Mr. Deanes Marry On Sunday

Linda Pearl Carson and Robert Freeman Deanes were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the Bethel Pentecostal Holiness Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Wilbur Carson of Tarboro. Parents of the bridegroom are the late Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Freeman Deanes.

The Rev. Calvin S. Trueblood performed the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Pamela Manning, organist, and Carol Ann Tucker, soloist.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride wore an ivory floor length gown with a chapel train of chiffon and alencon lace over taffeta. The fitted bodice featured a Victorian neckline with an illusion yoke and chiffon bishop sleeves. Alencon lace motifs etched with seed pearls appliqued the bodice and cuffs of the sleeves. Scalloped schiffli embroidery outlined the cuffs and encircled the natural waist. Scalloped schiffli embroidery bordered the hemline of the gown. The bride wore an ivory Victorian designed bridal hat appliqued with alencon lace motifs accented with lace garlands and illusion streamers. She carried a semi-cascade of pink bridal roses, miniature ivory carnations accented with baby's breath and greenery.

Maid of honor was Becky Sue Carson of Tarboro, sister of the bride. She wore a dusty rose formal dress of silk taffeta. The princess bodice was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and the double flounced sleeves were enhanced with shoulder bow and silk rose. The flaring skirt extended into an apron back accented at the waist with a self-bow and open rose. She wore a matching derby accented with seed pearls and carried a colonial nosegay of pink miniature carnations and white daisies accented with baby's breath and satin streamers.

Bridesmaid was Mary Ann Carson of Tarboro, sister of the bride. She was dressed identically to the honor attendant in misty pink and carried a colonial nosegay of pastel pink.

MRS. DEANES

The best man was Robert Freeman Deanes II, son of the bridegroom. Ushers were John Max Dew of Tarboro, Charles Hudson Buck and Marshall Benjamin Tripp of Greenville.

The mother of the bride wore a floor length gown of aqua georgette crepe. The aunt of the bridegroom chose a long gown of light purple chiffon. Each wore a white cymbidium orchid corsage.

The ceremony was directed by Delores Barnhill of Greenville.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Carson Sr. of Bethel presided at the guest register. Mrs. Jimmie Eddie Carson served cake and favors were distributed by Sandee Deanes and Alvah Barnhill III.

An after-rehearsal party was given Saturday evening by the bridegroom in the church fellowship hall.

The couple was honored on several occasions by friends.

The bride is employed by Wachovia Bank in Greenville and the bridegroom is employed by N.C. Department of Transportation, located in Greenville.

The couple will live in Greenville after a wedding trip to Hilton Head, S.C.

Ancient Indian Medicine Can Cure Modern Woes

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you had a letter from a woman who for many years thought she had a wonderful marriage, then her husband died suddenly, and some evidence turned up that made her believe her husband had been having an affair with another woman. The poor widow then worked up an intense hatred for her husband's memory, making her bitter and miserable.

I have been practicing Native American medicine and healing for many years, and I know that most sicknesses begin in the head. Anger, jealousy, fear, resentment and bitterness—all emotional reactions create physical ailments: headaches, ulcers, heartaches, etc. I believe that certain types of cancer are caused by emotional stress.

I help people cure their sickness by having them go outside, dig a hole in the earth, lie down on their stomachs and speak all their angry, negative thoughts into the hole, cover it over with the dirt and leave it there. That way, they actually "bury" all the negative, stressful emotions within them that made them sick. It works, Abby.
SUN BEAR IN SPOKANE, WASH.

Bridal Policy

A black and white glossy five by seven photograph is requested for engagement announcements in The Daily Reflector. For publication in a Sunday edition, the information must be submitted by 12 noon on the preceding Wednesday. Engagement pictures must be released at least three weeks prior to the wedding date. After three weeks, only an announcement will be printed.

Wedding write-ups will be printed through the first week with a one column picture. During the second week, a one column picture will be used with a write-up giving less description and after the second week, just as an announcement.

Wedding forms and pictures should be returned to The Daily Reflector one week prior to the date of the wedding. All information should be typed or written neatly.

United States passports have required a photograph of the bearer since 1914. They assumed their present booklet format in 1926. Of 16 million valid American passports, 4 million were used in international travel in 1983.

Diet Pill Breakthrough
New Proven Diet Pill Gives Fast Weight Loss
Pill Works Without Dieting

SANTA BARBARA, CA (Exclusive) An amazing new diet pill has been developed that has proved remarkably effective. This fantastic pill allows you to lose 10-20-30 pounds and more — easily and quickly. Best of all, you can eat your favorite foods and still lose pound after pound starting from the very first day until you achieve your desired weight.

No Dieting Necessary

According to the manufacturer, the pill does all the work. There are NO special menus to follow, NO calorie counting, NO exercise and NO hunger pangs.

Nutri-Thin contains no drugs, caffeine or preservatives. Take the pill with a glass of water before each meal and the amazing combination of powerful ingredients is so effective that weight loss actually begins immediately.

Papain and Daily Vitamins

The unique and powerful blend of ingredients is what makes this pill so successful. Nutra-Thin contains Papain, the natural digestive enzyme of papaya. Papain works in the digestive system to aid and greatly accelerate the digestion of food you eat. It contains a diuretic to help eliminate bloat and puffiness, and in addition it is fortified with 100% of the recommended U.S. Government Daily Vitamin requirements necessary for health and energy.

Amazing Glucomannan

Nutri-Thin contains an effective amount of "Glucomannan," a natural dietary fiber used in Japan for over 1500 years. Glucomannan expands in your stomach and gives you a full and satisfied feeling all day long. It increases metabolism and thus speeds up the burning of excess fat at a rate that will amaze you.

Reports indicate fast and easy weight loss from formerly overweight people who are now slim and attractive again.

Nutri-Thin Now Available

Candlelight Wedding Vows Said

The Proctor Memorial Christian Church in Grimesland was the scene of the candlelight wedding ceremony of Linda Kay Heath of Grimesland and Joey Earl Weathington of Greenville Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. The Rev. Cedric Pierce officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Paul Majette, organist, and Mrs. Brian Edwards sang "Be Still my Soul," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Heath of Grimesland and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. McCarter of Greenville and Bobby Weathington.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride wore her mother's gown of peau de soie which was designed with a fitted bodice and short sleeves. The rounded neckline was re-embroidered with hand-clipped chantilly lace jeweled with crystals and seed pearls. The full skirt, ending in a full cathedral train, was re-embroidered with sequined lace appliques and was enhanced by twirled peau de soie roses on each side. Her mantilla veil of silk illusion was full length and edged in lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of roses, stephanotis and white cymbidium orchids.

Maid of honor was Jan Heath of Grimesland, sister of the bride. She wore a formal gown of huckleberry organza over taffeta fashioned with a double ruffle neckline. The sleeveless gown featured a ruffled flounce at the hemline that extended up one side to an oranza rose at the waist. She wore a halo of silk flowers tied with matching streamers and carried a bouquet of mixed spring flowers in varying pastel colors tied with huckleberry streamers.

Bridesmaids were Kathy Heath of Asheboro, Carla Fowler of Raleigh, Emily Winstead of Williamston and Rhonda Mills of Greenville. They were dressed like the honor attendant and carried identical flowers.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Stacy McCarter, Steve Mills, Chris Stancill and Hugh Mills III, all of Greenville, Sam Heath of Asheboro and Kent Lawrence of Mount Airy.

The mother of the bride wore a formal gown of apricot tissue taffeta fashioned with a jacket of French lace. She carried a nosegay of daisies and gypsophilia. The mother of the bridegroom selected a formal gown of silver jersey with an attached chiffon caplet. She wore a white cymbidium orchid. Grandmothers wore formal gowns and were remembered with corsages.

Mrs. Glenn Loftin of Greenville and Mrs. Donald Heath of Grimesland presided at the guest register. Mrs. Kermit Lawrence, aunt of the bride, directed the wedding.

A reception followed at the church and was given by parents of the bride. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Heath of Asheboro. Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Stancill Jr. of Greenville. Cake was served by Mrs. Clarence Mills of Greenville and punch was poured by Mrs. Hugh Mills Jr. of Greenville.

A bridesmaids luncheon was given by Mrs. Wiley Stancill Jr. and Mrs. Glenn Loftin. An after-rehearsal dinner was held at the Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church and was given by the bridegroom's parents. The couple was honored at several parties prior to the wedding.

The bride attended Meredith College and graduated from East Carolina University. The bridegroom graduated from ECU and is employed by United Parcel Service of Greenville.

After a wedding trip to South Carolina the couple will live in Greenville.

DEAR ABBY: Please warn people who use the newspapers' classified ads to give away free dogs and cats that many of these animals may wind up in pit bull dogfighting training sessions. Also suggest that they charge at least a nominal fee for the pets, and screen each potential owner.

Another good idea: Ask for visitation rights. If you are refused, you can suspect foul play. Some people "adopt" free pets, then turn around and sell them to research laboratories.

DEAR ABBY: My finace and I are planning to get married. I'm 25 and he's 26. The problem is his parents. They are divorced and hate the sight of each other. Each refuses to attend the wedding and reception if the other is present.

Please don't tell me to have two weddings. My fiance and I are paying for it and one is all we can afford. Hurry your answer. I have to make a choice.

PROBLEM PARENTS

DEAR PROBLEM: You don't have to make a choice, his parents do. Invite them both, and if they aren't sufficiently mature to put aside their hostilities for this one very important occasion, it will be their loss.

DEAR ABBY: I can top that senior citizen who took a premarital blood test and was horrified when it came back positive for syphilis:

Last year, after I had blood and urine tests for my annual physical, the doctor's office phoned to ask me if I knew I was pregnant.

I told them no, I didn't, but I was going to call the newspaper right away because I'm 73 years old and had a hysterectomy 14 years ago.

Board Should Act

The current dispute over the May 8 voting for a seat on Pitt County's Board of Commissioners points up the absence of safeguards against improper entries by candidates. It also pinpoints the failure of the county elections board to do its job.

We cannot really find fault with Frank Grooms, the candidate who precipitated the dispute by filing for the Greenville Township seat on the county board — Grooms lives inside the Greenville city limits but is in Winterville Township. The county board should have caught the error; the burden was not on Grooms.

According to information developed during the election board's hearing last week, Grooms gave election officials his address. A simple check on the township would have shown the problem, and that is not too much to ask of the personnel supervising filing by candidates.

But that was only the beginning. The board apparently learned of the township problem a week before the primary, and did nothing publicly although a request was sent to the attorney general for a ruling. In keeping quiet, the board left Grooms conducting a good-faith campaign, the other three candidates running against him as well as themselves, and allowed voters to consider him along with the other candidates. It was not until election day itself that the board disqualified Grooms.

And by following the attorney general's ruling to discount his votes, the board effectively disfranchised hundreds of voters in Greenville Township. The board then followed the attorney general's advice that, if Grooms were disqualified, his votes should not be included in determining if any candidate had a majority for the nomination. Under that ruling, incumbent Charles Gaskins did have a majority. Understandably, opponent Jim Rouse, who finished second, challenged the ruling and called for a runoff. The third-place candidate, Tom Johnson, called for a new election.

The board held its hearing and, in effect, again did nothing to resolve the situation as it chose to refer the matter to the State Board of Elections, although the state board says Pitt's election board has full authority to act, including the ordering of a new election.

All of this boils down to one point: if the county board is going to serve as the public guardian of the voting place, it must act with more responsibility on behalf of the candidates and the voters. This has been an exercise in futility, a waste of time and money for everyone concerned.

Getting Ready

Few (if any) World Fairs are in complete array on opening day. So the New Orleans extravaganza is right up there with the majority insofar as readiness is concerned.

Certainly, the opening day visitors knew a number of exhibits, entertainment features and amusement rides were not ready, but they showed up anyway in a crowd estimated at 83,000 people.

No one ever "saw" a World Fair in a single day, so not many are going to be overly disappointed.

When one considers the magnitude of such an enterprise (and money involved), there is always room for wonder that such projects even get off the ground. In this case, potential visitors can look to a six-month run.

Nor should prices stagger the imagination. Everything costs more than they did 20 or 30 years ago.

If there are lessons to be learned, we might well take into account the time element between conception of the 1984 Louisiana World Exposition and its opening date; and bear in mind that if things can go wrong, they probably will ... so future planners might be well advised to set an all-in-readiness deadline, allowing additional time for the actual opening.

Clear Distinction Isn't There

RALEIGH — The two finalists in the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination promised immediately after the May 8 primary to define the difference between themselves. After a confusing campaign filled with 10 candidates — six of them major politicians — the two said they looked forward to focusing on only one opponent.

That should have come as a relief for voters who in the first round had to choose from a bushelful of possibilities. But, if you're the type of voter who makes his or her choice primarily on the candidates' stands on the issues, the June 5 run-off may not offer the clear choice you were looking for.

Attorney General Rufus Edmisten and former Charlotte Mayor Eddie Knox, the two finalists, both come from the broad middle of the state's Democratic Party. Both are loyal Democrats (you won't see the loser of this race endorsing Republican candidate Jim Martin) who draw supporters from all corners of the party's political spectrum. Both hold some strong liberal views and some strong conservative views on issues. Each, in a sense, is a candidate for all seasons.

For example, both support the Equal Rights Amendment and the death penalty. Both oppose organized prayer in the schools but would have no problem with silent prayer. Both support a balanced federal budget amendment and state paid abortion for poor women. A little bit of liberalism, a little bit of conservatism from each.

The similarities between these two lawyers go further. In April, the N.C. Association of Afternoon Newspapers asked each of the six major candidates for their stands on three dozen controversial issues which the next governor will probably face during his term. While Knox and Edmisten used different language on answering those questions, this reporter's analysis of the answers is that they agreed on about 30 issues. Comparison of the answers on several questions was impossible and only two or three real differences were found.

They agree, for example, on all the environmental issues. They'd both like the Legislature to repeal the Hardison Amendment which says that the state cannot write environmental regulations tougher than those of the federal government. They both support stricter liability laws for the handlers of hazardous wastes. They both support right to know laws for people working with hazardous chemicals and for communities through which these chemicals are being shipped.

On tax questions, both are pretty slippery. They say they forsee no need to raise taxes and advocate repeal of the intangibles, inventory or food taxes only if adequate replacement revenue can be raised in what is called a "fair" manner. They both support the constitutional amendment that gave governors and lieutenant governors the right to succeed themselves and both promise to consider changes in the primary run-off system.

Two significant disagreements: on the governance of education, Knox prefers appointment of the superintendent of public instruction while Edmisten prefers continuing to elect him or her. On the concept of "camparable worth," a salary system that would probably raise pay for those in traditionally female-held state jobs, Knox supports it while Edmisten expresses doubt that a fair "comparable worth" system could be devised.

This is not to say that the two men would not bring different priorities and emphases to their handling of these issues. But, if you're looking for a clear issue difference between the two, it isn't there.

Learning The Bad News

It was admittedly a body blow to the West when the Soviets pulled out of the Olympics, but it was nothing compared to what happened when the news reached Mongolia.

While the Soviet athletes had to accept their government's decision whether they liked it or not, it wasn't easy to persuade Outer Mongolia's only long-distance runner that he wasn't going to Los Angeles.

Ghengis Kahn was jogging out on the Gobi Desert when his track coach, Yurt Temujin, rode out on his camel 20 miles to break the tidings.

"How am I doing?" Ghengis asked, hardly puffing.

"You're doing fine. But we just got word from Ulan Bator that Mongolia is withdrawing from the 1984 Olympics."

Kahn was flabbergasted. "You're putting me on."

"I'm not, Ghengis. We just got orders from the KGB to tell you to stop running. The Russians are pulling out, and they told us we have to support their boycott or else."

"You mean I've been pounding barefoot on this hot sand for four years for nothing?"

"What can I tell you, Ghengis? The Kremlin says they're doing it for your own good. They were afraid if you went to Los Angeles your life would be in danger."

Kahn said, "Who would want to hurt a Mongolian in California?"

"Ghengis, it isn't for us to question the decisions of Moscow. But if the Russians don't field their team, we can't send ours."

"Why not? We don't have any quarrel with the United States."

"If we showed up and they didn't, it would be a signal to the West that the Socialist nations are in ferment."

"Good. Let's go."

"It's not that simple. They won't fly us out of the country."

"Maybe I could run to the Caspian Sea and pick up a foreign freighter? It would be good practice for me."

"I'm sorry, Ghengis, but you're going to have to live with the idea that you won't be competing this year."

Tears formed in Kahn's eyes. "This means I won't see Lana Turner. You promised me if I trained real hard I could meet her in California. My dream for four years was that she would be in the stands cheering for me when I crossed the finish line."

The coach dismounted from his camel and put his arm around Kahn. "I know exactly how you feel. I was hoping to meet Claudette Colbert. I loved her last movie, 'It Happened One Night,' which just showed in Mandal Gob last week. But there is nothing we can do about it. The Politburo is getting even for what the United States did to us four years ago in Moscow."

"If they weren't going to Los Angeles, why didn't they tell us in 1980, so I wouldn't have calluses all over my feet?"

"I can't answer that question, Ghengis. You know the Kremlin never tells Mongolia anything."

Kahn put his head in his hands. "I could have been a contender. I could have won a gold medal. I could have seen Disneyland. I might have even been invited by Joan Crawford for a weekend in Malibu."

"You must never mention those capitalist thoughts when you get back to Ulan Bator."

"Why do I have to go to Ulan Bator?"

"The Soviet Minister of Athletics wants you to hold a press conference for soviet television telling the Russian people how happy you are that their Soviet leadere have chosen not to participate in the games in Los Angeles. He wants you to profess solidarity with all the working peoples of the world who will not compete against the capitalist lackeys who are threatening world peace in every part of the globe. If you say what they tell you to, they will give you a special Olympic gold medal they've minted for every athlete who doesn't compete in Los Angeles."

"It's not the same as seeing Lana Turner," Kahn said.

"But it will still be better than training for the next Olympics in a Ulaan Goom Gulag for four years."

'Lowering Expectations' For Summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the economic summit of the Western industrialized nations nearly three weeks off, U.S. officials already have begun a favorite bureaucratic game of "lowering expectations" to convince the nation that President Reagan's goals for the annual session are modest.

While just preparing for and holding the summit involves a multinational army of aides and security personnel, not to mention world press coverage, U.S. officials already are cautioning reporters not to expect any dramatic announcement.

Administration officials involved in those elaborate preparations maintain that the president's main purpose in attending the session in London is to promote cooperation among allies.

Western European nations and Japan have their own opinions of U.S.-Soviet relations, the high U.S. deficit and interest rates, and U.S. policy in Central America, but administration officials told reporters recently that none of these issues was expected to be highly controversial among allies.

Although the three-day summit doesn't begin until June 7, the president is leaving the nation's capital on June 1 to make campaign-style appearances in Ireland, his ancestral home, and at the D-Day beaches of Normandy, France, before he sits down to talk with other world leaders.

It will be Reagan's third foreign journey in less than a year: he went to Japan and Korea last fall, and he returned from China just three weeks ago.

During their formal sessions, the summit participants — the United States, England, France, Italy, Canada, Germany and Japan — are likely to discuss protectionism, trade, economic recovery, Third World debt, U.S. deficit and interest rates and other economic concerns.

But during meals, the leaders set aside time to talk politics, particularly the Middle East, including the growing conflict between Iran and Iraq; the Soviet Union, including arms control and undoubtedly the Soviet boycott of the Olympics, and such other topics as international terrorism. Central America also is likely to come up.

One U.S. official, who briefed reporters recently on the condition that he remain anonymous, said there are no current plans for the group to issue a joint statement on any issue, such as the one they issued last year on arms control, but it can't be ruled out, either.

"Once the heads get there, they may decide that they want to release something publicly," the official said, "but the real focus or emphasis would be on confidential consultations."

This official stressed repeatedly that the summits are intended more as a way for the world leaders to discuss topics of mutual concern privately, than as a way of finding quick solutions to problems.

"While there has been an inevitable tendency to look for immediate results for these meetings, I think that history has demonstrated that probably the most important by-product has been the opportunity for the heads of government ... to discuss in a fairly intimate surrounding the concerns that are uppermost on their minds," said the official.

But that doesn't mean the summits are low-key. Not only is the advance preparation for such a summit enormous, but each world leader is accompanied by a large entourage, many of whom are there specifically to hold press briefings, sometimes more than one a day.

In advance of the trip, the White House has arranged a series of six briefings for reporters. And many non-governmental institutions, such as Brookings Institution, hold press briefings as well to spell out the issues involved.

Once the summit begins, deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said recently, he'll hold daily press briefings each morning and other U.S. officials will hold daily briefings each afternoon after the summit sessions end.

The security in London will be tight. "By definition, anytime you get the seven heads of the world's largest industrialized democracies together, you're going to have fairly extraordinary security precautions," the official said.

Strength For Today

"The last enemy to be overcome is death."

No person has won a victory over life unless the person is prepared to overcome death. The resurrection of Jesus Christ teaches many lessons but none greater than that by this event God has testified to the fact that death cannot hold the spiritually victorious soul. When Christ has made the inner life peaceful and strong and healthy, when under the power of his example men have faced the tragedies of life and come off triumphant, then is the greatest of all victories reserved for them — the victory of everlasting life.

"The last enemy to be overcome is death." It is to achieve this that we are born into the world. Any victory apart from this supreme victory is dust and ashes.

Death may be beautiful — paradoxical as this seems — and it is so when it comes after the last heart-beat of a faithful life.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MAY 22, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The affliction of the Moon and the Sun may make it somewhat difficult to put some plans into motion. Nevertheless the daytime is good for thinking up grandiose schemes.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Contact good friends who can help you to gain personal wishes, and then talk with outside partners about having greater mutual success.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can accomplish a good deal in the world of activity provided you do not let some private anxiety deter your progress.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have new plans that are very good so put them in operation quickly in an up-to-date manner, and don't let anyone stop you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Find some way of improving the relationship between you and your mate and forget any extra-curricular activity.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Avoid a demanding higher-up and cooperate more with an associate and then you can accomplish a good deal today.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You find it hard to make changes at your job so postpone for awhile when you have fewer interruptions. Be wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make arrangements for entertainment later in the week even though delays may occur. You may have a problem to contend with.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) There may be some turmoil at home, so get out in the business world and accomplish a good deal. Be happy at home tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Find the right way of making your relations with others more interesting and satisfying. Enjoy yourself socially.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find the right way of getting your financial affairs in better order. Show your mate that you really care and be happier together.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You want to make real progress but find it difficult in the morning; don't get discouraged. Be with cheerful people and be happy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be sure you handle those private affairs although you feel you want to forget them. Show appreciation.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one who can easily adapt new era ideas to standard ones and should be given a chance to do so. Give a comprehensive education since latter years bring great happiness and success, and early training is important.

Indian Army Fights Rioters

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Army troops battled hundreds of rioters in Bombay today as Prime Minister Indira Gandhi toured sites of Hindu-Moslem violence that has claimed at least 99 lives in five days.

More than 1,200 people have been arrested, and police said relief camps were being set up for 7,000 people whose homes have been burned down during the rioting.

Police spokesman P.M. Sawant said mobs of Hindus and Moslems were fighting running street battles in Bombay's troubled northeast Govandi section, which was sealed off by troops.

He said as many as 1,000 rioters were involved, setting fires, throwing stones and looting.

There were no immediate report on casualties in the new fighting, which broke out at midday, about seven hours after night curfew expired.

The violence flared as Mrs. Gandhi visited riot-ravaged northern suburbs of Bhiwandi and Thane. She was scheduled to tour Bombay and hold a news conference later in the day.

About 120 army troops were called out in Bombay early today after police failed to control fierce clashes in Govandi on Sunday night. Police shot dead 14 rioters and wounded five others.

Some of the troops were positioned outside the Bhabha Atomic Research Center, near Govandi district. The center is India's largest nuclear research institute and has a small reactor which produces electricity. Officials said the army troops were ordered to prevent sabotage of the facility.

The army was called out after mobs set fires to shops, homes, temples and vehicles, and hurled rocks at trains and police. Hindu and Moslem mobs fought with bottles, firebombs and stones.

Florida Forest Fire Contained

OCALA NATIONAL FOREST, Fla. (AP) — A fire started by rocket exhaust that burned 2,400 acres of timberland in north-central Florida was "contained but not controlled" a forestry official said today.

Rick Morgan, assistant district ranger for the Seminole Range District, said firefighters planned to drop flammable liquids from helicopters to create "back fires" in an attempt to control the blaze.

The fire, the second on Florida timberland in the last week, was started by rocket exhaust during target practice Saturday at a Navy bombing range, Morgan said.

The fire set off explosives and and shells on the range, but there were no injuries, he said, adding the blaze was confined to the Seminole Range District section of the 380,000-acre forest.

Meanwhile, firefighters controlled Sunday a week-old timberland blaze that burned 8,000 acres in Taylor and Madison counties, said Florida Division of Forestry spokesman Barry Gay.

And in northern Minnesota, a 500-acre fire near Ely in Superior National Forest was controlled Sunday morning, said U.S. Forest Service spokesman Gary Lidholm.

That fire was believed to have started when wind knocked down a power line.

Protester Arrested

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — A protester was arrested today for throwing blood on a building at the Electric Boat shipyard, where the weekend launch of a Trident submarine drew about 500 anti-nuclear demonstrators and prompted dozens of arrests.

Sunshine Appelby, 39, of Hartland, Vt., was among five people carrying protest signs outside the shipyard this morning, Sgt. Richard Horan said. She was charged with criminal mischief and third-degree breach of peace for allegedly throwing blood on the steps of the administration building.

The Alabama, built at an estimated cost of about $1 billion, is equipped with 24 Trident-I missiles and MK-48 torpedoes.

Views On Dental Health

TOPICAL ANESTHESIA

The principal objection patients have to local anesthesia is the sensation caused by the entry of the needle. If you have this fear, be open and frank with your dentist. Several techniques have been developed to eliminate this problem.

Most needles used in dental offices today are disposable. They come presterilized, are used only once, and are then disposed of. This means a smoother entry, since needles used more than once may roughen slightly on the edge and make penetration more irritating.

To protect the area being injected, dentists often use a topical anesthetic, frequently in the form of benzocaine or lidocaine in a cream base. The solution is painted on at the point of injection and causes numbness that may help eliminate the sensation associated with the injection.

A recent innovation is the forcing of a drop of anesthetic into the area to be injected via a charge of compressed gas. This rapidly numbs the area and the anesthesia can then be given with no sensation whatsoever.

U.S. Median Age Climbs To 31 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — America is maturing. The nation's median age has reached its highest point ever, climbing to 30.6 years as of 1982, the Census Bureau reports in a new population profile.

The median age — meaning half the people are younger and half older — had peaked at 30.3 years in 1952, then was lowered by the arrival of the postwar Baby Boom generation.

That huge influx of people is now moving into the 35 to 44 age bracket and has begun pulling the national averages up instead of down, Census officials observed.

The median age had climbed to 30 in 1980, up from 27 a decade earlier.

The 1952 peak in the median age occurred in the wake of nearly two decades of low birth rates during the Depression and World War II.

Low birth rates were also recorded in the 1960s, resulting in a continued decline in school-age children today. But in the last few years a so-called "echo" has occurred as baby boom children had babies of their own, with the result that the population under age 5 is no longer declining, as had been the case prior to 1975.

"From 1980 to 1982 the number of children under 5 grew by 6.3 percent," the report noted.

Overall, the profile recorded 233,267,000 Americans as of Jan. 1, 1983, an increase of 6,206,000 since the national head count on April 1, 1980.

The profile also found that "the proportion of the total black population living in central cities declined for the first time in many decades."

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A6 ♡KQ5 ◇A1093 ♣KQ62
Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with four spades. What action do you take?
A.—The enemy may be stealing game, or even slam, from you, but there is nothing you can do about it. You have no margin of safety for any takeout action such as four no trump. Double. Even though you can't be sure of beating four spades, you must do something to show your strong hand.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AK6 ♡AK763 ◇AK ♣654
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
3 ◇	Pass	3 NT	Pass

What action do you take?
A.—Consider the implications of partner's bidding. He does not have either three hearts or four diamonds, since he did not raise either of your suits. He is also unlikely to have five spades, because he might have rebid three spades if he had. It sounds as if partner has five clubs—or certainly four good ones—and if that is the case, three no trump is probably your best spot. Pass.

Q.3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q6532 ♡J9 ◇A9763 ♣5
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♠	4 ♡	Pass
Pass	5 ♣	Dble	Pass

What action do you take?
A.—Partner has announced that he expects to beat five clubs and, just in case his judgment is faulty, you are providing him with quite a bit of insurance. Although you have some help for partner at a heart contract, don't consider overruling him.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠84 ♡K93 ◇AKJ72 ♣J63
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 ◇	Pass
1 NT	Pass	?

What action do you take?
A.—If you are a dedicated point-counter, you might conclude that you are a point short of a jump to three no trump. But that doesn't allow for the playing strength of your good, five-card suit or for the fact that you have a partial fit for partner's suit. Because of these compensating factors, we consider any bid other than three no trump as a violation of trust.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K8 ♡KQ982 ◇65 ♣K872
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
4 ♡	Pass	?

What action do you take?
A.—Your five hearts and king in partner's suit suggest one move toward slam. Since you cannot use Blackwood because you might have two fast diamond losers, the only way to show your slam interest is to tell partner about your king of spades—cue—bid four spades.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KJ6 ♡95 ◇AKJ83 ♣1092
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East

What action do you take?
A.—No matter how you look at your hand, it is a dead minimum opening bid. In this situation, there is only one way to tell your partner that you have the least the law allows—pass. Partner still has a turn to bid, and he can act if he has a good hand.

TOWN OF BETHEL ADVERTISEMENT OF TAX LIENS ON REAL PROPERTY

Under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by Section 105-369 of the North Carolina General Statutes and pursuant to an order of the Board of Commissioners of the Town of Bethel, dated April 3, 1984, I am advertising tax liens for the year 1983 upon the real estate described below. The amount advertised will be increased by interest and costs, and the omission of interest and costs from the amount advertised will not constitute a waiver of the taxing unit's claim for those items. The name of the person to whom the property is listed for taxes, and the principal amount of the taxes are set out below. If the taxes remain unpaid, the lien will be foreclosed by the taxing unit and the property sold to satisfy the taxing unit's claim for taxes.

Martha J. Mewborn
Tax Collector

Hart Opens Possible Bid To Jackson For No. 2 Spot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gary Hart says he might pick the Rev. Jesse Jackson as his running mate if the civil rights leader modified his Mideast views, while Walter F. Mondale refuses to say whether he might choose Hart.

Mondale and Hart were drawn into the vice presidential talk Sunday in separate television interviews. But both White House contenders, who meet in a final primary showdown on June 5, said it was too early to decide on the No.2 spot on the Democratic ticket.

"I think its presumptuous to pick a vice president now," Mondale said.

The former vice president predicted a pair of big victories on June 5 and said he would have enough delegates to win the nomination at the Democratic National Convention in July.

"I believe I'm going to carry both New Jersey and California ... " Mondale said. "I believe I'll have the delegates I need."

Hart said on a Los Angeles TV news program that Jackson "has earned the right to be considered as a party leader, including vice president. I would consider him." But he said Jackson would have to "change his positions on the Middle East."

"My positions are different from his," Hart said. "There are fairly strong differences. Clearly to be a vice president you have to line up with the president's policies."

Hart did not elaborate on the differences. But the two have disagreed on the status of the Palestine Liberation Organization and U.S. policy in disputes between Israel and the Arab states.

Hart said he would not announce his choice for vice president until the convention.

"That would not be a particularly helpful way to go," he said.

Jackson said in West Virginia that speculation about the vice presidency was premature.

"I would hope that after June 5 we would come together and look at the broad range of issues, including the long and short lists of vice presidential possibilities," Jackson said. "But right now we're very much competing in the marketplace to win the nomination."

George McGovern, the 1972 Democratic standard bearer who dropped out of this year's race, said Sunday he wanted to see a Mondale-Hart ticket to heal the wounds of primary battles.

Appearing on ABC-TV's "This Week with David Brinkley," McGovern said there were no "fundamental differences" between Hart and Mondale. He said Mondale probably will win the nomination.

"I think that if in fact this bitterness and animosity is as deep as some people believe it is, the quickest way to heal that in the public's mind is actually to put these two men on the ticket together," McGovern said. "I'd love to see a Mondale-Hart ticket."

Mondale appeared on the same program and said he is not excluding anyone as a possible running mate.

There are "substantial differences" between himself and Hart, but they are not irreconcilable, Mondale said.

Hart, asked about the possibility of running with Mondale, said such a ticket "is a possibility, yes, but only in one order and that is if I am the (presidential) nominee."

Asked what he thought of McGovern's suggestion, Hart said, "Not much."

Jackson arrived in West Virginia late Sunday to campaign in coal fields hard hit by unemployment. He began with an attack on big corporations that he said "rape our communities."

"They take our valuable resources," Jackson said. "They take our people's best years of labor, tax dollars, consumer dollars; and then they close the plants or close the mine on the workers without notice. It's not right."

Mail To House Is Backing Up

By BILL McCLOSKEY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is so swamped with mail, mainly postcards generated by lobbying groups, that it sometimes takes four days to deliver a letter after it arrives on Capitol Hill.

"There is no relief in sight," House Postmaster Robert V. Rota says.

Rota said in an interview that 1.5 to 1.8 million postcards and 387,000 letters are arriving daily in the House.

The volume is growing in large part because pressure groups increasingly provide their members and sympathizers with pre-printed postcards to send to the lawmakers. That takes the effort out of writing to congressmen.

All anyone getting a card from his favorite lobbying group has to do is fill in his congressman's name, add a stamp and drop it in the mailbox.

Lobbying groups conduct such campaigns because they clearly think a blizzard of postcards proves their cause has "grass roots" support.

With computerized lists making it easier for the pressure groups to find potential supporters, the average House member is now getting 4,100 cards a day.

Rota said that when he first became House postmaster, 14.6 million pieces of mail arrived in a year. That much can now pile up less than two weeks.

The current logjam began April 9. Rota said he hopes to have it all delivered shortly, but that could go awry if a new mass mailing comes in.

"There's no way we could control it," he said.

Rota is asking Congress to increase his staff of 120 workers to help sort the tons of mail. He says his helpers are doing a good job, but each piece must be read and sorted by hand.

"I can't get any more work out of my people," he said.

Working the sorters overtime isn't the answer, he said, because fatigue sets in and lowers speed.

Each House member gets four deliveries a day as clerks pilot small electric carts laden with mail up and down the marble halls of congressional office buildings.

Outgoing mail and deliveries from one House office to another are not affected by the delay.

In the Senate, huge mass mailings arrived in both March and April, but no logjam developed.

Parham Honored

The East Carolina University School of Medicine Department of Family Practice residents have presented their annual "Outstanding Teacher of the Year Award" posthumously to the late Dr. S. Malone Parham Jr., of Kinston.

Dr. Parham, an obstetrician and gynecologist, died in March as a result of injuries received in a bicycle accident.

Dr. Rick Cole, one of the chief residents in the department of family practice at ECU, presented the award to Mrs. Malone Parham at the Lenoir Memorial Hospital medical staff meeting Thursday night.

Honor Roll

The honor roll for Louisburg College for the spring semester includes Mysha Leah Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde B. Alexander of Greenville, and Gregory Briley, son of Mrs. Ella L. Briley of Route 5, Greenville.

Police Nab 8 On Drug Charges

Eight people were arrested on drug violation charges by Greenville police in five separate incidents over the weekend.

Officer E.M. Haddock said Johnnie Edward Brinson Jr., 21, and Mark Alan Wetherington, 18, both of Dover, were arrested Friday after a quantity of marijuana was found in their possession in a parking lot at the intersection of Fourth and Reade streets.

Officer B.M. Highland said Tommy Keith Wall of Dover was also charged with possession of marijuana in connection with the same incident.

Officer Janice E. Harris said Nancy Florence Davis, 23, of Nashville was charged with possession of marijuana after a car in which she was riding was stopped by officers on Evans Street, at the Greenville Boulevard intersection, about 3:22 a.m. Saturday.

According to Patrolwoman D.F. Taft, Bruce Franklin Shasteen of 2721 Memorial Drive was arrested on marijuana possession charges about 1:15 a.m. Saturday when a car in which he was riding was stopped at the intersection of Fourth and Reade streets.

Daniel Perry Brown, 19, of Bayboro was charged with possession of marijuana following a 2:15 a.m. incident Sunday at the Carolina Opra House, Patrolwoman C.A. Sharp reported.

Chief Ted Holmes said officers assigned to the department's narcotics and vice squad arrested James Arthur, 33, and Alice Blayne Burch, 24, both of 130 Fletcher Place, on possession of drugs and drug paraphenalia charges following a 4 a.m. Sunday incident.

Obituaries

Hardee

Mrs. Mattie M. Hardee died Sunday in Pitt County Memorial Hospital. A graveside service will be conducted at 11 a.m. Tuesday in Greenwood Cemetery by Dr. Harold Deitch.

Mrs. Hardee, a native of Surry County, moved to Pitt County in 1910. She was a member of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church and was a furrier and a seamstress. For the past seven years she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Leroy Anderson, in Richmond, Va.

Surviving in addition to her daughter are three sons, Matthew Francis Hardee of Elizabethtown and Norman Marion Hardee and Alton Carr Hardee, both of Greenville; 12 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

The family will receive friends at the Wilkerson Funeral Home from 7-9 p.m. today and at other times will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Carr Hardee, 2523 Dickerson Avenue Extension.

Hyperactive Children
by: Audrey Viner, M.A.
Children Services, Psychologist

Developmental Hyperactivity is the technical name of a childhood disorder which results in a child who "can't be still," stays "out of seat," or is constantly "on the go" with excessive motor activity. This disorder usually begins between the ages of 2 and 6 years but frequently is not noticed until the child reaches school and must "sit still" and "pay attention." It is estimated that 2 to 5% of 6 to 12 year olds are hyperactive with six times more occurances in males than in females.

Signs of the disorder may be absent in one-to-one situations, new situations, or active play experiences. Teachers, therefore, are the most reliable raters of a hyperactive child since they see the child in the situations which require the most self application. Common signs of hyperactivity include inattention, learning impairments, behavior or conduct problems, and immature behaviors which result in poor peer relationship, anxiety, and low self-esteem.

Around 35% of the hyperactive children require no special treatment, but a combination of medication and behavior management plans for school and home have been helpful for many others, to lessen misconduct in school and therefore increase learning. Depending upon the relationship between the child, the family, and the school, therapy may also be used.

Hyperactivity usually decreases in the teen years but inattention, restlessness and impulsive behavior may persist. Outcomes for hyperactive children are better for those who have average or above average intelligence and positive home and school environments.

Lindy's Hop

On May 21, 1927 Charles Lindbergh touched down at Le Bourget airfield in Paris, following his transatlantic flight. The "flying fool" became "Lucky Lindy", an overnight hero. Lindbergh was not the first flyer to cross the Atlantic non-stop. But he was the first to do so alone. Charles Lindbergh inaugurated the first airmail service between the U.S. and the Panama Canal Zone in 1929. During the first decade of U.S. airmail, 43 pilots died.

DO YOU KNOW — From where did Lindbergh leave on his transatlantic flight

Your Social Security Disability Benefits

BENEFITS DENIED?

Have you been denied benefits under Social Security's disability benefits programs? Do not be discouraged. That happens to most people who apply the first time.

Have you asked for reconsideration of your disability claim and been turned down a second time? Again, don't be discouraged or give up. That's the way the disability system works today.

Take your case one step further and go before a Social Security Administrative Law Judge for a hearing with a qualified representative to present your case. Then the chances of your winning benefits are somewhere between 70% and 80%. The Judge will see you and hear your personal description of your physical or mental illness, and your representative will present your case as it applies to the complex rules of the Social Security Act.

If you have a hearing requested or scheduled before an Administrative Law Judge, call now for an immediate conference. There is no fee for an initial conference to discuss your eligibility for disability.

Stuck In Middle

San Antonio quarterback Rick Neuheisel (7) is surrounded by Washington's Ben Apuna (50) and Mike Muller (51) during second quarter action of Sunday's USFL game at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium. Houston Tops Outlaws For USFL Central Lead

By The Associated Press

"I tried to keep from looking at the scoreboard," the Houston coach said Sunday after his Gamblers routed Oklahoma 31-12. "I did steal a couple of looks — but only after we'd taken a comfortable lead."

What he saw no doubt gave him yet more comfort. In Los Angeles, the Michigan Panthers were beaten 24-17 by the Express, leaving Houston alone atop the Central Division with an 8-5 record, one game ahead of the Panthers.

Also Sunday in the United States Football League, Tampa Bay tripped New Orleans 31-20 and San Antonio whipped Washington 30-14.

On Saturday, Oakland downed Memphis 29-14, Philadelphia crushed Jacksonville 45-12 and Arizona demolished Denver 41-6. On Friday night, Birmingham blasted Chicago 41-7. Tonight, Pittsburgh visits New Jersey.

Express 24, Panthers 17

Steve Young threw TD passes covering 28 yards to Freddie Scott and 6 yards to Jojo Townsell in the LA Coliseum, where 10,193 paying fans showed up. In the tight Pacific Division, Los Angeles is 6-7 and one game behind Denver and tied with Arizona.

Tony Zendejas kicked three field goals, including a team-record 46-yarder, for the Express. Bobby Hebert, the Michigan quarterback, had three passes picked off and didn't throw a TD pass until 36 seconds remained in the game, when he found Walter Broughton for 46 yards.

Bandits 31, Breakers 20

Tampa Bay, 10-3, relling off its seventh consecutive victory, stayed within one game of first place in the Southern Division while New Orleans, losing for the third time in four games, fell to 8-5.

"Obviously this was a good victory for us," Coach Steve Spurrier of the Bandits said. "We didn't have any sacks and we ran the ball well."

Gary Anderson gained 57 yards on 16 carries, including TD runs of 2, 3 and 2 yards before 42,592 fans in Tampa Stadium.

Marcus Dupree ran for 104 yards for the Breakers, but, as Coach Dick Coury said, "The turning point was in the beginning of the second half. We fumbled twice. You just can't do that against a good team."

Gunslingers 30, Federals 14

Quarterback Rick Neuheisel of the Gunslingers, having his best day since his four-TD performance for UCLA in the Rose Bowl against Illinois, hit 16 of 25 passes for 213 yards and scores of 4 yards to Joey Hackett and 5 yards to Mark Rush, who also ran 1 yard for a TD.

San Antonio is 5-8 and the Feds 2-11, two reasons there were 6,159 fans in sun-splashed RFK Stadium — and 6,526 no-shows.

"We didn't come out smoking," Washington Coach Dick Bielski understated. "I guess the only good thing that can be said is that no one got killed."

Invaders 29, Showboats 14

Fred Besana passed for 259 yards and two touchdowns and sneaked for a TD to lead the Invaders past Memphis.

"We have a lot better balance now than earlier, and there are just more guys for me to throw to," Besana said. "We're using a lot of play action, too, and we understand the plays better," he said.

Stars 45, Bulls 12

Chuck Fusina threw for a career-high 302 yards and three touchdowns for Philadelphia, which maintained the USFL's best record at 12-1.

"The Stars are skilled and well-coached," said Bulls Coach Lindy Infante. "They totally dominated."

"We're over the hump now and we're going to be tough to beat from here on out," Arizona Coach George Allen said after Greg Landry threw two touchdown passes and the Wranglers turned three Gold turnovers into 21 points.

Lakers Taking Nothing For Granted

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Although they are now a win away from clinching another Western Conference championship, the Los Angeles Lakers are taking nothing for granted against the Phoenix Suns.

Sunday's 126-115 victory here gave the Lakers a commanding 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven National Basketball Association playoff series. Game 5 will be Wednesday night at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif.

"It's not over. This is just one step," said Los Angeles center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who scored 22 of his 31 points in a decisive first half.

"We're a long way from having this thing over with," said Lakers Coach Pat Riley. "We've got the momentum and we want to close it out as soon as possible. I wish we were playing Tuesday night instead of Wednesday because by then the momentum will subside somewhat. We can't count Phoenix out yet."

Behind 105-93 with 9:08 remaining, Phoenix used four points apiece by reserves Alvin Scott and Charles Pittman, plus Paul Westphal's jumper, to cut the gap to 107-103 with 6:16 left.

Earvin "Magic" Johnson, who had 20 points and 15 assists, converted a midcourt steal into a stuff and Abdul-Jabbar's three-point play made it 114-103 with 4:44 left.

The Suns never got closer than eight from there before a sellout crowd of 14,660 at the Arizona Veterans Memorial Coliseum, plus a national television audience.

"We just went soft," Riley said. "We have a tendency sometimes to stop doing the things that got us the lead. Their lineup was quick and pressuring and we tried to hold them off instead of trying to attack. It almost looked like the last game all over again."

Los Angeles lost Game 3 here Friday night 135-127 in overtime and Riley said, "When we lose a big game and play poorly, we always come back strong. We have a tremendous amount of character. We were more intent and more focused this time. We wanted this one."

The Lakers shot 60.2 percent from the field — a playoff high for them. Their first-half field goal percentage was 71 percent en route to a 69-58 lead.

"We shot 63 percent and we're still down by 11. That's almost unheard of," Suns forward Maurice Lucas said. "They got us in the hole early and they never really let us out of it. Kareem played clutch basketball, just like always. Whenever they needed a hoop, they sent the ball down to the big guy and he produced."

The 7-foot-2 veteran poured in 12 first-period points to put the Lakers up 37-36 — the first time in the series they have led after one quarter.

Abdul-Jabbar's patented sky hook with 2:58 left in the second period ballooned the lead to 63-48 before Los Angeles settled for its 69-58 halftime bulge.

Bob McAdoo, who had 11 third-period points and 15 of his 23 in the second half, scored six in a two minute span for a 95-77 Lakers lead with 2:36 remaining. Phoenix trailed 99-87 entering the final period.

"It's very difficult to make up any kind of deficit against a ballclub like that," Suns Coach John MacLeod said. "They're so deep on the bench. Actually, we're playing against a team that has nine starters."

James Worthy added 17 points for Los Angeles while rookie Byron Scott had 16 and Michael Cooper 11.

Larry Nance led Phoenix with 27 points while Lucas had 21 and 10 rebounds. Walter Davis added 18 points, Alvan Adams 14, Kyle Macy 11 and James Edwards 10.

Lucas said "it's not going to be a cakewalk" for the Lakers in Game 5 at the Forum, where they have posted 16-point victories in the first two games of the series.

"We're going over there with the idea that we're going to win Wednesday and bring it back here (for a possible Game 6 Friday night)," MacLeod said. "It's not the best of situations to be in down 3-1, but we're not out of it."

Petty Reigns In Bud 500

DOVER, Del. (AP) — The king of stockcar racing, Richard Petty, still reigns on the Grand National circuit after winning the Budweiser 500 at Dover Downs International Speedway.

Sunday's record crowd of 45,000, included honorary starter Maureen Reagan, daughter of President Reagan. The Budweiser 500 was Petty's 199th Grand National victory. Petty averaged 118.717 mph.

Petty's first victory of the 1984 season earned the 46-year-old Randleman, N.C., native $28,105.

"We got a lot of breaks," Petty added. "There were two or three who could outrun us, but they ran into trouble. I guess you could say it was just our day.

"It's normally a tough race because it's so long, but actually it wasn't too bad today. I was able to move up in the groove for the most of the day and then at the end of the race I dropped down low where I could get more speed."

Petty's victory marked the eight different driver to win on the Grand National curcuit this season, the record is 12 set in 1983.

It was Petty's first victory at Dover downs since the CRC Chemicals 500 in 1979. Victory tied him with Bobby Allison for most wins at Dover, with seven. Allison, the defending champion finished 12th.

Williams Leads Pirates

PHILADELPHIA — Henry Williams won the 100 meters to lead East Carolina to a fourth place finish in the IC4A Meet at Villanova University this weekend.

The Pirates posted 41 points to take fourth in the 73-team field.

Williams won the 100 in 10.5 seconds, then teammed with Joe Dingle, Erskine Evans and Nathan McCorkle to win the 4 X 100 relay with a time of 40.22. Williams ran eight races in the two days of the meet.

Craig White took third place in the 110 high hurdles with a time of 14.20. Evans finished third in the 100 with a time of 10.68.

Williams, Evans, Dingle, McCorkle and White were all named All-East for their performance in the IC4A.

"It was a fantastic performance," ECU Coach Bill Carson said. "In the top 10, I had us figured for eighth or ninth going in.

"The good thing is we came out of the meet healthy, and everything is positve looking to next year. Henry ran real well; he's really pumped up."

Williams and White will compete beginning next Monday in Eugene, Ore. in the NCAA Championships. Williams will run in the 200 meters, while White qualified in the 110 high hurdles.

Dotson Hurls Chisox Past Toronto

By The Associated Press

Richard Dotson threw well, as expected, but this time a Chicago pitcher received help, and it came from an unexpected source.

"We pitched really well here but lost three one-run games," Dotson said after hurling the White Sox to a 3-0 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays on Sunday.

On Thursday, LaMarr Hoyt threw a nine-hitter, but lost 3-2. On Friday, Britt Burns was a 4-3 loser although he gave up fewer hits than his opponent. Then, on Saturday, Tom Seaver tossed a six-hitter, only to lose 1-0.

The "help" came from second baseman Julio Cruz, a defensive specialist, who slammed a two-run homer.

"You don't expect Cruz to hit homers, and it sure hurt us," said Toronto Manager Bobby Cox.

In other AL games Sunday, it was Detroit 4, Oakland 3; California 3, New York 0; Baltimore 5, Seattle 1; Boston 5, Minnesota 4; Cleveland 3, Milwaukee 2; and Texas 3, Kansas City 2.

For Dotson, who posted a 22-7 record last season, Sunday's victory was his 16th in his last 18 regular-season decisions.

"It's nice to be on a roll, but I'd like to see us win more games. I'd like to see the team get it together and start doing the things we can do."

With the victory, the defending American League West champions snapped a four-game losing streak and ended Toronto's five-game winning string.

The White Sox were clinging to a one-run lead when Daryl Boston led off the seventh with a single. Then Cruz, who was batting .218 entering the game, slammed his second homer of the season.

Dotson, 6-2, now has won four straight and six of his last seven decisions.

Tigers 4, A's 3

Rookie Dwight Lowry's first major league home run helped lead Detroit over Oakland as the Tigers improved their major league-leading record to 32-5. Milt Wilcox, 6-0, and Willie Hernandez combined to hold the Athletics to just four hits.

The Tigers scored two unearned runs in the first inning, then Lowry added his solo shot to center in the second. Detroit got an insurance run in the fourth when John Grubb walked, moved to second on Chet Lemon's grounder and scored on a single by Barbaro Garbey.

Detroit begins a nine-game West Coast swing Tuesday with two major league records clearly in sight. One is the 41-9 start by the 1946 Boston Red Sox and the other is the mark of the Washington Senators, who won 16 successive road games in 1912. The Tigers currently are 14-0 on the road.

The Tigers are riding a six-game winning streak and are now 27 games over .500.

"We've got to continue to play well," said Darrell Evans. "Baltimore is playing great, too. Who knows how many it'll take to win it?"

Angels 3, Yankees 0

Rookie Ron Romanick pitched a three-hitter for his first major league shutout and Gary Pettis drove in the first two runs as California blanked New York. The 23-year-old right-hander, 5-3, got the only run he needed in the third inning on triples by Dick Schofield and Pettis off starter Ron Guidry, 2-3.

It was the second straight day the Angels have blanked the Yankees, who have been shut out 10 times this season, and extended New York's scoreless streak to 19 innings.

Orioles 5, Mariners 1

Snapping a 10-game slump with a two-run homer, his 11th of the season, Cal Ripken Jr. powered Baltimore over Seattle.

Eddie Murray slammed his ninth homer of the year, a three-run shot, in the eighth as Baltimore pitcher Mike Flanagan increased his unbeaten career home record against the Mariners to 6-0.

Red Sox 5, Twins 4

Rookie Roger Clemens struck out seven batters in his second major league start and Jim Rice and Rich Gedman knocked in two runs apiece to carry Boston past Minnesota. Clemens, 1-0, scattered seven hits over seven innings, while Bob Stanley hurled the final two innings.

Tom Brunansky homered for the Twins, a solo shot, as only 8,939 fans watched the game in the Metrodome, although 26,731 tickets were sold. Local businessmen, attempting to keep the Twins in Minneapolis, have been buying tickets.

Indians 3, Brewers 2

A fielder's-choice grounder by pinch-hitter Carmen Castillo in the eighth inning drove in the winning run to lift Cleveland over Milwaukee. Reliever Ernie Camacho, who came on to halt a Brewer rally in the bottom of the seventh, got his first victory of the season against three defeats.

The loser was Milwaukee starter Don Sutton, 3-3.

Rangers 3, Royals 2

Buddy Bell doubled home two runs and Curtis Wilkerson scored the go-ahead run when shortstop U.L. Washington let a grounder scoot through his legs for an error, giving Texas its victory over Kansas City.

Mike Mason, 2-2, outdueled Kansas City's Bret Saberhagen, 1-3, in a battle of rookies. Mason scattered six hits, struck out two and walked two. Saberhagen gave up only four hits but was hindered by three errors, including one he committed himself.

Phillies Complete Road Sweep

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia Phillies came out of the West with their bats blazing.

"We're getting timely hitting and starting to hit the long ball. That's the kind of thing a team needs to do, and we're doing it," Philadelphia Manager Paul Owens said after his homer-happy Phillies beat the San Francisco Giants 7-4 Sunday and completed a rare nine-game road sweep of the National League's three California teams.

Before winning three games in San Francisco, the Phillies won three each from the San Diego Padres and Los Angeles Dodgers.

Len Matuszek, Juan Samuel and Mike Schmidt each hit a home run Sunday to bring the Phillies' total to a major league-leading 44. In the nine-game winning streak, longest this year by an NL club, the Phillies have 14 homers.

"Right now, I'm confident and extremely relaxed," said Matuszek. "I'm very comfortable at the plate. Before we began this streak, I was searching up there and I wasn't finding it."

In other National League action Sunday, it was Atlanta 5, Pittsburgh 1; St. Louis 3, Cincinnati 2; Chicago 10, Houston 3; New York 4, San Diego 2 in 10 innings, and Los Angeles 3, Montreal 2.

Matuszek's fifth homer in nine games opened the scoring for the Phillies in the second inning. He added two singles and is hitting .433 in the winning streak, with 11 runs batted in.

Samuel is on a 15-game hitting streak, batting .403 over that period. In the three-game sweep of the Giants, he had seven hits, the biggest of which was a three-run homer in a five-run second inning Sunday. Schmidt hit his 12th homer in the ninth.

Charles Hudson, 5-2, was the winning pitcher. Kevin Gross and Larry Andersen came on in relief, with Andersen earning his first save. Jeff Robinson, 3-5, took the loss.

Braves 5, Pirates 1

Glenn Hubbard's fielder's-choice bouncer drove in the winning run in a four-run ninth as Atlanta, no-hit by Jose DeLeon for seven innings, rallied to beat Pittsburgh.

Bob Watson followed Hubbard's tie-breaking bouncer with a two-run double, then Rafael Ramirez followed with an RBI-single for Atlanta's final margin.

Steve Bedrosian, 3-1, blanked the Pirates the last two innings for the victory, while Kent Tekulve, 1-4, took the loss.

DeLeon flirted with a no-hitter for the fourth time in less than a year when he went into the eighth inning leading 1-0. But the Braves tied it, chasing the right-hander in the process.

"Any loss is tough, but this one is especially tough because of the way Jose pitched," said Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner.

Cardinals 3, Reds 2

Darrell Porter's two-run homer with nobody out in the bottom of the ninth inning lifted St. Louis over Cincinnati.

Porter's homer, his sixth of the year, came on a 1-2 pitch from loser Tom Hume, 2-4, and gave the Cardinals a three-game sweep of the Reds.

Ken Oberkfell led off the St. Louis ninth with a double and scored ahead of Porter. Neil Allen pitched two scoreless innings of relief to improve his record to 2-0.

Earlier, Dan Driessen's infield out brought home the tie-breaking run for Cincinnati in the eighth, giving the Reds a 2-1 lead.

"He threw me three great pitches and one that was not so great," said Porter of Hume. "I was able to hit it good."

Cubs 10, Astros 3

Leon Durham and Ryne Sandberg hit home runs in support of Rich Bordi's first major league victory as Chicago defeated Houston for a sweep of their three-game series.

Durham hit his ninth home run with two outs in the first inning after Gary Matthews had singled and Sandberg's third homer ignited a five-run third against loser Mike Scott, 2-2.

Bordi, 1-0, worked five innings and allowed one run and four hits. He gave way to Dickie Noles, who was nicked for a two-run homer by Jerry Mumphrey in the sixth inning.

Mets 4, Padres 2

Center fielder Tony Gwynn's three-base error set up a tie-breaking sacrifice fly by Kelvin Chapman in the 10th inning as New York defeated San Diego.

Reliever Jesse Orosco, 4-1, opened the 10th by driving a fly ball deep to center that bounced off Gwynn's glove, allowing Orsoco to wind up at third. Chapman brought him home with another fly ball to center, giving the Mets a 3-2 lead.

Ron Gardenhire and Keith Hernandez followed with singles to put runners on first and third, and George Foster followed with a sacrifice fly for an insurance run.

Dodgers 3, Expos 2

Rookie Franklin Stubbs hit a two-run homer in the bottom of the seventh inning to lift Los Angeles over Montreal.

Stubbs' homer off loser Bryn Smith, 5-3, came after Montreal had taken the lead in the top of the seventh on a bases-loaded walk to Tim Raines.

Dodgers reliever Pat Zachry, 2-0, was the winner with ninth-inning help from Tom Niedenfuer, who gained his seventh save.

"We just kept battling," said Dodgers Manager Tom LaSorda, who has four of his players on the disabled list and several others hampered by various injuries. "A win like this gives us a big lift."

Jacobsen Matches Vow To Win Colonial Tourney

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — It was, for Peter Jacobsen, a splendid day of golf and intense emotion.

When Jacobsen beat Payne Stewart in a sudden death playoff for the $500,000 Colonial National Invitation golf championship Sunday, it was only his second victory since joining the PGA Tour in 1977.

But, that was not the reason the tournament had so special a meaning.

As the winning birdie putt on the first extra hole disappeared into the cup, Jacobsen said his only thought was of his father, Erling, critically ill with cancer and hospitalized in his hometown of Portland, Ore.

"Hey, this is for you, Dad," said Jacobsen, who learned of the illness just last week and, after an opening round of 64, vowed to win this one for his father.

Jacobsen ended the playoff with a 5-foot birdie putt after Stewart had bogeyed the hole. Jacobsen and Stewart were tied after regulation play at 270, ten-under-par for the 72 holes. Jacobsen shot a par 70 in the last round, while Stewart had a 72, missing a chance to win the tournament when he had a bogey-five on the last hole.

"The gods were with me, believe me," said the 30-year-old Jacobsen.

The $90,000 raised his 1984 money-winnings to $130,000.

"I did the best I could do, and finished second," said Stewart, 27, who collected $54,000 for second place.

Five strokes behind the leaders was Gil Morgan, who shot a closing 72 and earned $34,000 for third place.

Tom Watson, Ben Crenshaw, Tom Kite, Tony Sills and Mark Pfeil tied for fourth at 277.

The nationally-televised final round opened with Stewart at 198 and holding a 2-shot edge over Jacobsen and a 5-shot bulge over Morgan.

"I felt nervous today, but it was a good nervous, not a bad nervous. There was a lot of emotion there," said Jacobsen.

Celtics Avoid Talk Of NBA Series Sweep

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Four-game sweep? The Boston Celtics don't want talk about it and the Milwaukee Bucks won't accept it.

"We won't even talk about anything doing with brooms," said Boston forward Cedric Maxwell.

"I just want the four games," Celtics' forward Larry Bird said. "I just want to move on."

Boston can win the National Basketball Association Eastern Conference series, four games to none, with a victory tonight at Milwaukee.

A sweep would give the Celtics a measure of revenge. Last season the Bucks embarrassed Boston in four straight games.

Although a comeback by the Bucks would be just short of a miracle, Sidney Moncrief hasn't given up hope that it can be done.

"We have to believe that we can," said the all-star guard. "I'm very optimistic, even up to this point that we have quite a few more games left. We're going to come out our next ballgame and give it our best shot."

After two lopsided loss at Boston in the first two games, 119-96 and 125-110, the Bucks made it respectable in the third game Saturday before losing 109-100.

In that game, guard Gerald Henderson scored 19 points in the second half to help the Celtics overcome a 63-50 halftime deficit.

TEACHERS, TAKE NOTE!

Take note of the opportunities available this summer for exploring ways to use newspapers for educational purposes. The N.C. Newspaper in Education Foundation and the N.C. State Department Division of Communications Skills are planning workshops in the state's education regions. Dates and locations for the workshops are given below, listed by region:

Region 1	August 1-2	Williamston, Martin Community College
Region 2	August 8-9	Jacksonville, Southwest Jr.-Sr. High School
Region 3	June 18-19	Raleigh, Underwood Elementary School
Region 3	June 21-22	Durham, Brogden Middle School
Region 3	June 27-28	Wilson, Fike High School
Region 4	July 25-26	Carthage, South Central Regional Center
Region 5	August 8-9	Greensboro, Western Guilford High School
Region 6	August 1-2	Charlotte, Charlotte / Mecklenburg Ed. Center
Region 7	August 2-3	North Wilkesboro, Northwest Regional Center

Each workshop is 10 hours and offers one unit of credit. Newspaper in Education Coordinators will tailor the workshops to fit the needs of those who register. Each teacher who attends pays a $10 registration fee and receives a copy of the N.C. NIE Teacher's Guide. The Guide covers the areas of newspapering, communications skills, social studies, math, health, science, and cultural arts.

If you have questions about the workshop, call 752-6166, ext. 312. To register for the workshop, send the coupon below and $10 to:

Bunkowsky Tops Field

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Barb Bunkowsky was enjoying herself, and that was just fine when she held a four-stroke lead midway through the final round of an LPGA tournament.

But Bunkowsky decided she was enjoying herself a little too much. And for a while it looked as if she might be destroying the seemingly insurmountable lead she had built with seven birdies on the front nine of the $175,000 Chrysler-Plymouth Charity Classic.

Then Bunkowsky scrambled to regain her lead and captured her first-ever LPGA victory by four strokes Sunday with a final round of 7-under-par 66 that included nine birdies.

"When I made the seven birdies, I was singing and talking and having a great time," she said. "I realized I shouldn't have such a good time. I realized I wasn't preparing myself (for the back nine) like I did on the front nine."

Bunkowsky, who had finished no higher than fourth place in two years on the tour, completed the 54-hole event at 10-under-par 209.

She had a tournament-record 30 on the par-37 front nine Sunday and her 66 tied her with Pat Bradley, last year's champion, for the lowest 18-hole score ever in the event.

On the back nine of the par-73, 6,389-yard Upper Montclair Country Club course, Bunkowsky faltered with two bogeys and she needed a birdie on the par-3, 182-yard 17th hole to pull ahead of Muffin Spencer-Devlin. The two were tied at 8-under after 16 holes.

Bunkowsky then closed out the final round with an 18-foot birdie putt on the par-5, 504-yard 18th hole.

"I was nervous coming down the last few holes," said Bunkowsky, a 25-year-old native of Toronto who now lives in Tallahassee, Fla.

Grimesland 6
Ayden 5

GRIMESLAND — Grimesland rallied for three runs in the top of the seventh and held on to defeat Ayden 6-5 Sunday in Pitt County Babe Ruth League baseball action Sunday.

Ervin Hardee singled in the winning run, while Grimesland managed just four hits in the opening contest. Anthony Harrison came on in relief to pick up the win on the mound.

Taft-Carrow Win Tourney

Ray Taft and Johnny Carrow won the Sunday Night Best Ball Tournament at Putt-Putt Golf and Games.

The pair combined scores of 28, 26 and 29 to finish with a 54-hole total of 83, 25 under par.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: K equals M

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Cable Tests HBO Mailbox

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Dear HBO. Your movies aren't worth the money. Come and take out the box.

Before things get that bad, HBO hopes to deflect complaints and educate subscribers by broadcasting some of the more subdued and intelligent viewer letters on "HBO Mailbox," an on-air attempt by the No. 1 pay-cable service to come down from its sparkling skyscraper and get closer to its public.

Mason Adams, who used to be Ed Asner's managing editor on "Lou Grant," is the fatherly host and resident pen pal for "HBO Mailbox," which responds to a different viewer jab every two weeks. HBO received almost 7,000 letters from subscribers in April, and 4,943 of them were sent to "HBO Mailbox."

On the program, which lasts three minutes and is on about 20 times in each two-week period, Adams is a model of sincerity, speaking from an office, not unlike the one he had at the fictitious Los Angeles Tribune.

"I'm sorry you feel that way," he said to both letter writers featured on this month's shows. One, from Stuarts Draft, Va., said HBO didn't show enough blockbuster movies. The other, from Sedro-Woolley, Wash., protested HBO's limited selection.

Adams addressed those complaints with figures, such as that HBO acquired 121 of the 137 movies released in 1982, HBO broadcast 95 percent of the 500 biggest grossing films in the past decade, and HBO has 75 different offerings each month.

"Give some of them a try and let us know what you think," Adams said in the current installment. "We care."

Evidently, HBO, with 13.5 million subscribers, is conveying concern with this gesture. If HBO doesn't prove worthy every month, it risks disconnection.

Showtime-The Movie Channel, HBO's chief competitior, had a similar broadcast, "Letters to Showtime," but spokeswoman Ellen Cooper said, "We ran out of questions and the show got boring."

CBS' "60 Minutes" has a letters segment for comments about stories. New York's WABC-TV had "Airmail Special," but it was canceled and five employees were asked to resign because bogus letters, prepared by the show's staff, were used on the broadcast.

"We're very careful to print the (letter writer's) name and hometown," said Seth Abraham, senior vice president of programming operatons and sports.

"HBO Mailbox" is not listed in programming guides, and Abraham said its scheduling is random, so viewers can happen by it. After June's two question-and-answer sessions, "HBO Mailbox" will disappear for a facelift, returning in September.

"We want it to look a little more adventuresome," said Abraham. "There's a feeling it's too comfortable, too old-slipperish. If it's too predictable, it could get old before its time."

Abraham said "HBO Mailbox," which began March 1, was not created to counter recent attacks by the commercial networks on HBO's ratings decline.

"Pay-TV is a different experience from commercial TV," said Abraham. "People pay for it and feel they belong to a club. Going to our viewers for feedback is another dimension of pay-TV."

Adams is the show's good-will ambassador, viewer confidante and cable guide.

"Mason is credible and believable," said Abraham. "Other than sports, we're not a live network and don't have any identifiable personalities like Johnny Carson, Dan Rather and Barbara Walters."

With limited human contact, disgruntled subscribers might believe that an impersonal HBO is insensitive to their gripes. "One of our considerations for 'HBO Mailbox' was to develop a personality who would be part of the HBO family," said Abraham.

The line between self-serving promotion and responding to viewer concerns can blur. Even though the "Mailbox" segments are unobtrusively short, they could alienate paying audiences by degenerating into back-slapping sessions.

Generally, they've been informative, although, in the end, always pro-HBO. In the current spot, Adams is more booster than communicator, when he invites viewers to sample HBO's lesser-known movies.

"The program is not constituted to shill," said Abraham. "It's there to answer questions and provide information. The death knell for 'HBO Mailbox' would be if it loses credibility with our own subscribers."

In the future, "HBO Mailbox" probably will talk about the absence on HBO of "Flashdance," "Trading Places" and "Terms of Endearment."

Kaufman Eulogized As Loving Comedian

GREAT NECK, N.Y. (AP) — Andy Kaufman, best known for his portrayal of an immigrant cab driver on the television show "Taxi," was eulogized at funeral services as a comedian whose "humor was based on love."

Judd Hirsch, Kaufman's co-star on "Taxi," sent a letter which was read at the funeral Sunday.

"Nothing has shocked or angered me as much as Andy's death," Hirsch said. "I'm glad I was privileged to know him, and I'm sorry that the world has lost his laughter."

Kaufman, 35, a non-smoker and health buff, died in Los Angeles of lung cancer last Wednesday. Kaufman's parents, brother and sister were among those attending the funeral in his home town.

"Andy was his own person," Rabbi Jerome Davidson told more than 250 people who attended the funeral at Temple Beth-El. "It can be said he was zany, he was off-the-wall, he was avant garde — but all his humor was based on love."

Kaufman gained fame as a frequent guest on "Saturday Night Live," until viewers of the show chose in an unusual telephone-in vote to oust him in 1982. His on-stage hijinks included challenging women to wrestle, a stunt which enraged some feminists.

"You don't measure someone like Andy in terms of years, just as you don't judge the quality of a work of music by its length, or a flower by how long it grows," Davidson said.

He was buried at Beth David Cemetery in Elmont.

Doctors in California said the comedian died of a rare form of lung cancer, large-cell carcinoma, which spreads rapidly and does not respond to traditional radiation or chemotherapy treatments.

The disease was diagnosed only five months earlier, and radiation treatments proved ineffective.

A non-smoker, Kaufman did not fit the profile of the typical lung cancer victim — a person older than 50 who has been smoking for many years.

But researchers say at least a quarter of all lung cancer cases have been linked to other environmental factors, previous bouts of respiratory diseases or a genetic predisposition to the disease.

Large-cell carcinoma, which can strike non-smokers, affects about 10 percent of lung cancer patients. One of the most "aggressive" of all cancer tumors, it doubles in size within months and causes gross distortions in new cell formations, said Dr. Paul Jernstrom of California Medical Center in Los Angeles.

"Nothing seems to work with large cell," said Jernstrom. "By the time we detect it, it's generally too late."

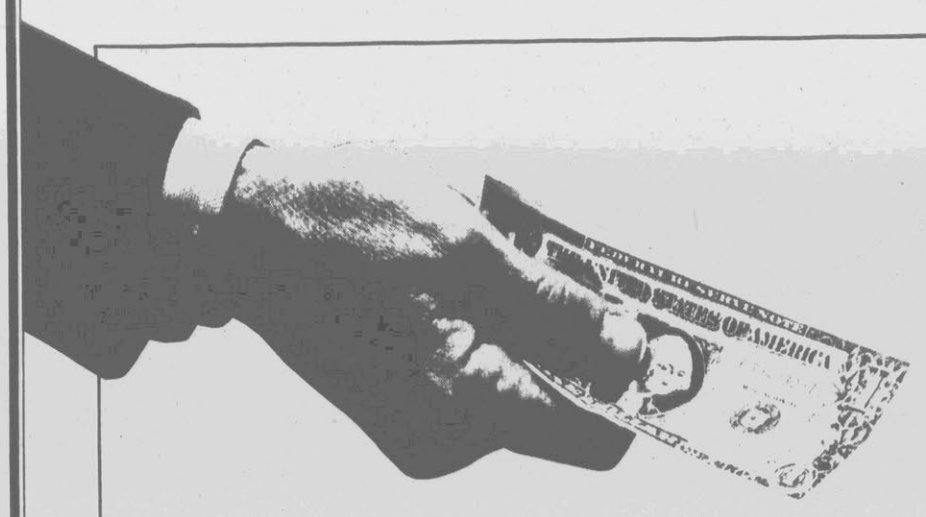
We'll Give You $1.00
Just for Letting Us Tell You About Our Lending Plans!



One buck. The basic American value.

If you're truly interested in consumer, commercial or home lending plans...just spend about 10 minutes with us. Let us tell you about our loans, and we'll give you a dollar.

When you hear what we have to say, you'll have more than just a dollar. You'll have the knowledge that First Federal offers the value of competitive fixed and adjustable interest rates on all our loan plans. You'll learn of the value of our consumer loans...the value of our home loans...and the value of our commercial real estate loans. Finally, you'll experience the value of the service you've come to expect from First Federal.

Come to First Federal. You'll get a dollar and a whole lot more.

Must be 21 years old or accompanied by guardian to qualify. Offer may be withdrawn without notice. First Federal reserves the right to screen recipients.

Legislation

Sen. John East, R-N.C., has introduced legislation that would require the federal government to fulfill a neglected 18-year-old promise made to some Vietnam-era veterans.

East's legislation, added to the Defense Department authorization bill last week by the Senate Armed Services subcommittee, guarantees that retired Marine Corps noncommissioned officers who voluntarily returned to active duty during the Vietnam war will receive the retirement pay that was originally promised them.

According to East, "in 1966, many non-commissioned officers were asked to return to active service with the promise that their retirement pay would be recomputed based on the higher pay scales then in effect. But after their tour of duty, these men were told that the pay adjustment was in violation of current federal law.

"My bill," East said, "changes that and allows the government to make good on its promise."

East is a former Marine Corps lieutenant and is a member of the Armed Services Committee.

Radio Guests

This week's guests on City Hall Notes, the city's radio program, will be Boyd Lee, director of the Recreation and Parks Department, and Capt. Tony Smart, training and development coordinator for the Fire-Rescue Department.

Lee will discuss the proposed 1984-85 recreation and parks budget, and Smart will discuss the Hazardous Chemicals Response Team. City Hall Notes is aired on WOOW radio each Tuesday and Thursday at 10:25 a.m.

Vernon Snyder III will speak Tuesday from noon to 1 p.m. to the Alzheimer's Disease Support Group which will meet at the County Commissioners Auditorium 1717 W. Fifth St. An attorney, Snyder will talk about legal concerns and financial planning for Ahzheimer's families.

Farm Scene

Hay is an important crop in our area. Hay is a versatile forage that is a major feed for beef cattle, dairy cattle and horses. The production of top quality hay is essential for top performance of livestock that consume hay.

The ultimate test of hay quality is animal performance. Three main factors which affect animal perfomance are consumption, digestibility and nutrient content and toxic factors.

There are a number of factors which affect hay quality and consequently, animal performance. Stage of maturity when harvested is probably the single most important factor affecting the quality of hay, and the one where greatest progress in improvement of quality can be made. As grasses advance from the vegetative to the seed stage they become higher in lignin and fiber content, lower in protein, digestibility and acceptability to livestock.

It is very important to cut grasses at proper intervals for production of quality hay. Research shows that as cutting intevals on coastal bermuda hay increased from four weeks to 13 weeks dry matter intake per animal decreased (11.8 pounds to 9.5 pounds), percent digestibility decreased (55 to 45) and average daily gain per animal decreased (1.2 to zero pounds). One can easily see from this illustration that costal bermuda should be cut at three-five weeks to insure optimum quality. Of course, weather sometimes prohibits us from cutting grasses for hay at the best times.

Other factors important in determining top quality hay include curing and handling conditions, soil fertility, plant species, variety and seed quality.

For those who produce hay or just feed hay, quality can be determined through forage testing. Determining hay quality and feeding to livestock based on their nutrient needs can lead to a more efficient forage-livestock program. Forage testing is available through the North Carolina Farm Feed Testing Service. For more information about forage testing or other aspects of hay production contact the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service at 752-2934.
