Green Receives Death Sentence

By JANE WELBORN
Reflector Staff Writer

Harvey Lee Green Jr. has been given two death sentences for the murders of a customer and an employee in a Bethel dry cleaners Dec. 19. His execution was scheduled for Aug. 31, a date almost certain to be postponed by automatic appeals.

The jury of five men and seven women deliberated for 4 1/2 hours before announcing its decision late Thursday afternoon. Green received the death penalty for the murders of Sheila Marlene Bland and John Michael Edmondson.

Green stood quietly with his hands in his pockets and showed no emotion as Judge Thomas S. Watts read the sentence and set the date of execution. Green's mother, Mary Green Richardson, held her hand over her face and sobbed quietly as the verdict was announced.

Green, 23, pleaded guilty to the first degree murders of Miss Bland, a 17-year-old high school senior and employee of Young's Cleaners, and Edmondson, 33, a school teacher and church organist. The two were found beaten to death behind a partition in the dry cleaners.

Given the chance to speak, Green said, "To the Bland and Edmondson families, when I went into the cleaners, it was just a robbery. I didn't mean to hurt anybody, and in my heart I'm sorry."

During the 2 1/2 week trial, investigating officers took the stand and testified that Green admitted to the killings Jan. 1. The statement Green made to the officers said in part that Green had entered the cleaners to get money to cover checks he had stolen from his father and written in his name.

Green said in the statement that

Miss Bland and Edmondson fought with him, and that he picked up a pipe from one of the machines and hit them with it.

Throughout the trial, defense attorney Jeffrey L. Miller stressed Green's cooperation with law enforcement officials and contended that Green did not mean to kill anyone when he entered the cleaners.

The families of the victims declined to comment to reporters.

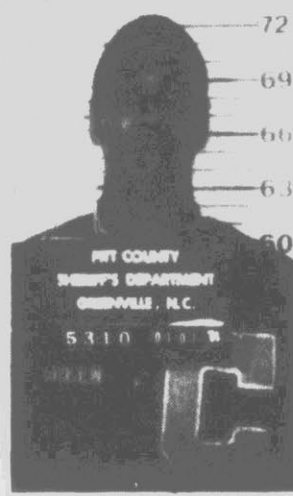

District Attorney Thomas D. Haigwood said this morning, "The jury's recommendation, I feel, was certainly appropriate in light of the evidence surrounding these crimes. I'm satisfied that justice was done yesterday."

Defense attorney Howard J. Cummings had no comment about the outcome of the case.

This is the first case in which the death penalty has been imposed in Pitt County since Dec. 10, 1970, when Owen Swanson Doss, 23, of Martinsville, Va., was sentenced to die in connection with the June 4, 1970, murder of 15-year-old William Raymond Pearce near Winterville.

National Debt Going Up Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — As efforts to trim federal budget deficits sputter to a halt, Congress prepared to begin a summer vacation by boosting the government's line of credit another $53 billion — to $1.573 trillion.

That is enough for the government to cover its bills through August.

The House was due to vote today on the legislation raising the national debt limit, the government's authority to borrow money. Senate action would follow later in the day.

"We have to get it (a debt limit increase) before we leave," House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said today.

The House twice on Thursday rejected any increase, with Democrats vowing to keep voting that way until Senate Republicans agree to cut the defense budget.

But with no movement on the defense issue and a three-week recess for the Fourth of July and the Democratic National Convention at stake, legislators indicated they would go ahead and approve the increase.

"Ultimately, we all know we're going to pass the short-term" debt limit increase, Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said at a meeting of the panel.

Other House members worried that they would look foolish by continuing to vote down the debt limit.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan told reporters Thursday, after a speech at a downtown hotel, that he expects Congress to approve a debt limit increase before starting its scheduled three-week recess today. "I think that'll be handled before they leave," he said. "They're not going to shut off government."

By a 282-138 vote on Thursday, the House rejected the $53 billion increase. Earlier it had rejected, 332-87, a move to raise the figure by $180 billion.

Dancer Kills 6 At Club

DALLAS (AP) — A man flew into a rage while dancing and shot his partner at a posh private club early today, then re-loaded and continued a wild spree that left six people dead and a seventh wounded, police said.

A suspect was arrested several hours after the rampage at Lanni's Restaurant, a private north Dallas bar, according to Dallas Police Lt. Al McAllister.

"He was dancing with one of the ladies, became enraged, pulled a pistol and shot several people, left, went to his car, re-loaded, came back and shot some more," said Police Sgt. L.A. Lewis, who spoke with witnesses.

Five of the victims were dead at the scene and the sixth died a short time later at Parkland Hospital, police said. The names of the victims were being withheld pending notification of relatives.

The suspect was taken into custody without incident about three hours after the shooting by heavily armed police who combed an area lighted by helicopters after the man's car was involved in a traffic accident and he fled on foot.

Abdelkrim Belachheb, 39, an unemployed waiter, was arraigned early today before Dallas County Magistrate Tom A. Boardman on a charge of investigation of murder. Bond for Belachheb, a resident alien from Morocco who lives in Dallas, was set at $500,000.

Police said they had recovered a 9mm automatic pistol.

Economy Activity Declines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's main gauge of future economic activity slipped 0.1 percent in May, the first decline since August 1982, the Commerce Department reported today.

The decline, not unexpected by economy-watchers, snapped the longest string of advances for the Composite Index of Leading Indicators since the end of World War II.

It was yet another signal the economy is slowing from its energetic expansion earlier in the year.

The index had risen 0.5 percent in April after climbing a revised 0.2 percent in March. The department had earlier reported that the index fell in March, but reversed that with more complete data.

Analysts have welcomed indications of a moderate slowdown in the economy's growth rate as a good sign, saying such an easing could lessen upward pressure on interest rates and inflation.

The economy grew at a frenzied 9.7 percent annual rate in the January-March period, matching the strongest quarter in six years.

To Jackson, 'Thanks Million'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cubans fought for political crimes against the regime of Fidel Castro and Americans imprisoned on drug-running and other charges tasted freedom in the United States today, in some cases freedom for the first time in more than two decades.

Most praised Democratic presidential candidate Jesse Jackson for his one-man mission that unlocked their cells, but some of the 27 Cubans said the gesture should not be seen by the world as a humanitarian move on the part of the Cuban leader.

Several among the group reunited with families and friends told of "barbaric" conditions they had suffered at the hands of their Cuban captors.

Rafael Trujillo Pacheco, 46, who had spent 23 years jailed in Cuba for alleged political crimes, told reporters: "It's something I have wanted for so long, to come to the United States and to get away from that small hellhole."

Those left behind in Cuba should "keep the faith in God that everything comes with. They surely will have their freedom also," he said.

Richard Mazura, 30, of the Bronx, New York, said of Jackson: "He came into the prison and told me I was going home. The man turned the key."

His mother, Zina, waved to reporters as she got into the back seat of a car. Asked how she was feeling, the beaming Mrs. Mazura said, "Doesn't my face tell you?"

Larry Cheatham, 44, of Lynchburg, Va., shouted as he left the airport, "Tell Jackson, thanks a million. Rev. Jackson is Jesus Christ right now."

A freed Cuban, 43-year-old Daniel Conde Freire, grinned broadly as he spoke about his relief in finally making it to the United States. He said of Jackson, "he's making politics ... He's trying to look for votes."

But six of the 22 Americans brought back with Jackson had to wait for freedom. They were arrested by federal and state authorities on various outstanding warrants, said Stephen Trott, assistant U.S. attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's criminal division.

Trott said the six would be brought into court later today. He declined to specify the charges on which they were being held, and said they were not allowed to see their families immediately.

Richard Burch, a brother-in-law of detained prisoner Clarence Elbourn, said he felt "very damn rotten" when he found he wouldn't be able to see him after driving 120 miles from southern Virginia. "That's all I wanted, was to see him. I think it's pretty low."

Trott said some of the Cubans, who had been jailed for more than two decades, appeared disoriented.

"The descriptions we're getting of the way they were treated down there are barbaric," he said. Prisoners and their families told of being held in solitary confinement in total darkness for long periods of time, or of many prisoners being crammed into tiny cells. There were beatings, some said.

Home Sales Fall Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sales of new single-family houses declined 4.4 percent in May, marking the fourth decrease in five months, the government reported today. Mortgage rates rose to the highest level this year and house prices, at an average of more than $100,000, reached their highest level ever.

New houses were sold in May at an annual rate of 612,000, the slowest pace since September, said the report from the Commerce Department and the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board has said the average interest for fixed-rate home loans reached 14.34 percent in early May, and housing industry officials say rates have continued to climb since then.

N.C. Delegation Splits Over Veep

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina delegates to the Democratic National Convention agree that party unity is crucial, but they are divided on whether the vice presidential nominee should be Sen. Gary Hart, a woman or a Southern senator.

"He (Hart) has gone through the process and demonstrated he does have some strength," said delegate Judy Sadler of Greenville, who supports Walter Mondale as the presidential nominee. "We want to bring the party together and that might do it."

"There should be a woman on the ticket," said John I. Wilson, a Mondale delegate from Raleigh who likes San Francisco Mayor Dianne Feinstein for vice president. "Democrats need an emotional uplift."

Gov. Jim Hunt, another delegate, says he hopes Mondale will look at Southern senators, including South Carolina Sen. Fritz Hollings and Arkansas Sen. Dale Bumpers.

In telephone and personal interviews with 66 of the state's 88 delegates, 19 had no preference about a vice presidential candidate, 13 preferred Hart and 14 preferred a woman. The others were divided among a number of candidates, many of them Southern senators.

Mondale has been silent about his preferences although he has interviewed a string of potential running mates. Speculation has increased that Mondale might pick a woman, with New York Rep. Geraldine Ferraro leading the list, or Colorado senator Hart.

North Carolina delegates agreed with national political observers that Hart has earned the second spot on the Democratic ticket and they argue that his selection could help unify the party as well as strengthening it in the West, Republican Ronald Reagan's base.

Rep. Charles Rose, who supports Mondale, suggested that Hollings would "give the ticket a lot of balance and it would be good to have somebody from the Southeast."

State Sen. Bob Jordan, D-Montgomery, said a running mate like Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen could draw moderates back into the party. Jordan, the party's nominee for lieutenant governor, is an unpledged delegate.

There was little talk among North Carolina delegates about selecting a black running mate although two of the four announced vice presidential candidates — Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley and Philadelphia Mayor Wilson Goode — are black.

Goode is a North Carolina native. If the North Carolina delegation is any indication, perhaps the biggest stumbling block to selecting a woman as the party's vice presidential candidate is sharp disagreement about the best person for the job.

The most often discussed female contenders are Ms. Ferraro, the highly visible convention platform committee chairman, and Ms. Feinstein, who is hosting the convention.

Among the North Carolina delegation, Ms. Feinstein fell behind Ms. Ferraro and Kentucky Gov. Martha Collins in support.

Nationally, women's groups have stepped up efforts to get a female on the ticket, some threatening a convention walkout if they are unsuccessful. A group of pro-Mondale congresswomen and feminists were to meet with Mondale this weekend.

Hart, however, has received high marks from feminist groups in the past and seems popular among female delegates from North Carolina. Hart has never talked publicly about whether he would take the spot.

First Swiss Female Capt. Has Doctorate

By HANNS NEUERBOURG
Associated Press Writer
UNTERAEGERI, Switzerland (AP) — Alpine Switzerland has the largest merchant fleet of all landlocked nations. It is also the home of a sailor who has a captain's license for all oceangoing vessels, holds a doctorate in literature, speaks six languages fluently — and is an attractive woman.

In a country that has long been a bastion of male supremacy, Marietta Kuntz can pride herself on a remarkable career which started on a stage, made her Switzerland's first woman captain and which she hopes will culminate at the controls of a passenger liner.

She has played as an extra in a Swiss TV film, passed an exam for would-be stage managers, and has studied archeology, musical science, and zoology in addition to literature. Her doctoral thesis, on Friedrich Schiller, the German poet who wrote "William Tell," won her a top-honor "summa cum laude" mark.

"But as a young girl, already I dreamed of going to sea," the 30-year-old blonde said in an interview with The Associated Press during a visit to her parents' home at this small Lake Aegeri town. "I thought of becoming a ship stewardess."

Brilliant marks in graduating from high school made her decide on a more landlubberly course at first. "But I soon realized that a doctorate in literature is not a guarantee for getting a job in which one can make a living, not even with a library."

Often, she suspects, being a woman made her ineligible for a vacancy. And when she finally set her mind on making her childhood dreams come true "everybody at the Swiss Maritime Board was enthusiastic but there was no Swiss shipping line that was ready to hire me."

The daughter of an engineer, she has never been one to give up easily.

The Seamen's School at Oslo, she learned, accepted woman students. "It took me 14 weeks to learn Norwegian," she says.

During a tough practical year, she was the lone woman deckhand on a freighter.

Back at Oslo, she plunged into a heavily loaded curriculum ranging from meteorology to medicine and radiotelephony but was gratified to learn that she was partly credited for her university time.

In 1982, she obtained her captain's license. "Sure, it is valid even for supertankers," she says. But before taking command of a ship, she still needs added seniority as an officer. Last winter, she served on an LPG tanker, an assignment not much to the liking of her mother, who has read about the explosive potential of such cargo.

Except for South America, Marietta Kuntz has already come to know ports in all parts of the world. "My passport is full again," she says. Schiller's poetry is not among her off-duty reading matter. "The books on Norwegian ships are either in English or Norwegian, so it's mostly mystery or adventure books."

"You have to be versatile if you want to survive at sea," she comments. But she does not consider duty on an LPG tanker as posing enough of a challenge. "I would love to switch to a passenger ship. I think it would be an ideal place and my languages would help me," she observes in a German that has already acquired a slight Norse accent.

There is no chance for her to ever be skipper under the flag of Norway because the country's law requires Norwegian nationality for the one at the helm. And Switzerland's 31-unit 305,000-gross ton fleet — larger than that of such island nations as Ireland or New Zealand — does not include passenger ships.

"But I have no plans of changing nationality," she insists.

Pilot Club Work Plan Adopted Monday Evening

The plan of work for each division of the Pilot Club of Greenville was adopted Monday evening at a meeting at Windy Ridge club house. Lenore Morton, coordinator of projects division, outlined major community activities.

Under projects, Winona Daniel is area leader for community services. Activities include renewal of the possibility for a Lifeline System program at Pitt County Memorial Hospital, support the American Council on Transplantation, continue Adopt-a-School, Thanksgiving, food baskets for the Salvation Army, Operation Santa Claus, sponsor handicapped woman of the year, membership in MHA in Pitt County and visitation to nursing homes.

In the area of safety, Blanche Jones leader, emphasis will be placed on awareness of alcohol abuse and safe driving, DWU slogan contest for students, Christmas holiday safety tree display and membership in Pitt County Safety Council.

Plans for international relations, Irene Prewett area leader, includes contributions to CARE, Ruby Newhall Scholarship Fund, community ambassador fund, invitations to Anchor Club members, exchange students and local international professional women to attend a Pilot meeting.

The area of education, Frances Johnson leader, will provide information on Pilot International's scholarship to foreign student at East Carolina and encourage application through the local club.

Pilot President To Attend Meet

Ann H. Barnhill, president of the Pilot Club of Greenville, will attend Pilot Club International Convention July 22-26 in Las Vegas, Nev., as a delegate from the local club.

A highlight of the convention will be honoring the international winner of the annual Handicapped Professional Woman of the Year Award.

Col. Barney Oldfield, USAF (Ret.) will be a featured speaker. He has been a newspaperman, radio commentator, Hollywood press agent, magazine and script writer and author.

Margaret Cronan, past P.I. president of Kannapolis, is convention chairman. Jo Vaughn of Huntsville, Ala., will be installed as the new president.

BEDDARD REUNION

The 41st Beddard reunion will start at 12:30 p.m. Sunday at the Elm Grove Baptist Church fellowship hall near Ayden.

Family members attending should bring a covered-dish dinner. Refreshments will be provided by members of the Ayden-Winterville area.

Cooking Is Fun

By TOM HOGE
AP Wine and Food Writer

The aromatic spice known as cinnamon is one of the world's oldest seasonings, popular in gourmet cuisines the world over.

Actually, there are two varieties of cinnamon. The reddish-brown bark from the cassia tree is the one we usually see in the United States. Buff-colored Ceylon cinnamon from the bark of a laurel tree is popular in many lands, including Mexico, but it is rarely consumed in this country.

Cassia cinnamon is a native of southern China, where the people in ancient times regarded the cassia as the Tree of Life. Our two principal cassia sources today are Indonesia and Vietnam.

There are several mentions of cinnamon in the Bible. The Lord told Moses on Mount Sinai to make an anointing oil which would include cinnamon. And the 45th Psalm says "all thy garments smell of myrrh and aloes and cassia..."

Cinnamon is cultivated today, much as it was thousands of years ago. It is harvested during the rainy season because the bark is easier to handle in wet weather. Once stripped, it is rolled into long, slender quills — the sticks familiar here in the United States.

Cinnamon is usually regarded in the United States as a seasoning to be added to recipes for sweets, but it has many other uses.

In Greece, the spice is used in beef stew, while in India it is used in curries. In our country, the Pennsylvania Dutch sprinkle cinnamon sugar over sliced tomatoes, which I have found very tasty. Cinnamon sticks are also used to stir mulled cider and wine.

As for other uses, I once enjoyed a pungent chicken dish that was flavored with cinnamon. Here is the recipe.

- 4-pound chicken, ready to cook
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 4 cups water
- 1/2 cup chicken fat
- 1/2 cup flour
- 2 slices bread, crumbled
- 2 dozen sliced green olives
- 1 cup (8 ounces) tomato sauce
- 1-3rd cup seedless raisins
- 3 tablespoons instant minced onions
- 1 cinnamon stick, 1 inch long
- 2 teaspoons ground coriander
- 2 teaspoons oregano leaves
- 1/2 teaspoon black pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon instant garlic

Wash chicken and cut into serving-size pieces. Place with salt and water in 6-quart pan. Cover and cook slowly 2 hours until chicken is tender. Remove chicken from stock. Skim fat from broth and set aside. Measure 5 cups stock, adding water if necessary. Set aside. Return chicken fat to pan and blend in flour. Stir and cook until browned. Remove from heat and stir in stock and bread. Beat until smooth. Add remaining ingredients. Stir and cook until thickened. Add chicken pieces. Cook uncovered 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Serve hot with rice or noodles. Serves 8.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1963 by Universal Press Syndicate

Wife Is Uneasy Rider When Hubby Drinks

DEAR ABBY: My husband absolutely refuses to go anywhere in the car without a cooler and a six-pack of beer.

He used to be a menace (drunk driving), but since we've had the kids he usually keeps his beer intake down to one beer per one hour of driving. Our kids are now 3 and 4, and I think it sets a terrible example for them when Daddy refuses to drive anywhere without his beer.

I have argued with my husband about this until I am blue in the face, but it does no good. My only alternative would be to forbid him to take the kids anywhere unless I go along to drive. He loves the kids and likes to take them places. He did have one DWI with our youngest in the car when she was 18 months old. He said he learned his lesson then, and now he watches his intake while driving.

I don't think he should drink at all while driving. Can you help me?
WORRIED IN TEXAS

DEAR WORRIED: Your husband is an alcoholic and should have absolutely nothing to drink while he is driving. You should positively forbid it. Please don't wait until he maims or kills himself, his family or some innocent stranger while he is under the influence.

I beg you to take a firm stand on this now, and if he continues to drink and drive, tell him that whether he admits it or not, he is an alcoholic, and if he does not go to a treatment clinic, he cannot continue to live as a family with you and the children he professes to love.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 22 and in love with a great guy. He's 28. We met four years ago and moved in together last year. He's married, but it's not what you think. His wife left him 4 1/2 years ago. I had nothing to do with the trouble between them—I didn't even know him then. He came home from work one day and she was gone with all her things and some of his. There were no children.

We have no idea where this woman is—we've been looking for four years. She has his parents' phone number and address if she wants to contact him.

We have called lawyers and been to the courthouse and public library, but we can't trace her. So what are we supposed to do? Stay unmarried until she decides to surface? After all, she abandoned him, so why should he suffer?

Abby, she could take forever to show up. No one knows what we should do. Do you? We want to get married, but how can we when he is married to a woman who is hiding? We want to marry and start a family. Thank you.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: A lawyer can tell you what to do. Retain one for this purpose, and good luck.

DEAR ABBY: Like "Learned the Hard Way," I have been asked by friends to shop for them when I travel to foreign countries. After buying and bringing back the requested items, I have been told, "Sorry, that's not what I had in mind," so I was stuck with them.

I finally got smart and ignored such requests. On returning from a recent cruise, I was asked, "Did you bring what I asked for?" I replied, "No, I'm sorry. On the way over, I had all the orders laid out on the deck, and a gust of wind blew them all away but one. The only one that remained was weighted down with money."

WISER NOW IN SEATTLE

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a lovely woman, but we may have a problem.

When her phone rings and I am present, she says, "I can't talk to you now, I have company"—never "My fiancé is here."

She says the callers are old boy-friends who just call to talk to her. Someone who has known her longer than I have told me that she used to

I guess because she's never had a daughter of her own, she expected me to be her daughter—that's why she insisted that I call her Mom. Abby, I just can't call her Mom. But calling her Mrs. Jones seems too cold and formal. I could call her Agnes without any trouble, but she won't let me.

It's been two years now, and I still feel a very definite coldness between us because I never call her anything. I would like a better relationship with her, but how?

My husband says just let it blow over. What do you say?

DEJECTED
DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

DEAR DEJECTED: Don't wait for it to "blow over"—it might blow up first. Have a heart-to-heart talk with your mother-in-law and come up with some name that's agreeable to both of you. "Mother Agnes"? "Mother Jones"?

DEAR ABBY: "It Happened in Sioux City" wrote: "Last year, after I had blood and urine tests for my annual physical, the doctor's nurse phoned to ask me if I knew I was pregnant."

"I told her no, I didn't, but I was going to call the newspaper right away because I am 73 years old and had a hysterectomy 14 years ago."

Well, Abby, I can top her with an experience my neighbor recently had. (The neighbor's name is Clare.)

"You want me to go to the hospital at once, doctor? Isn't your diagnosis sufficient?" asked Clare.

"No, I want to see you there in the morning for further tests to confirm my findings," said the doctor.

So Clare obediently checked in and spent several hours undergoing various tests. Clare was apprehensive about the bill, but thankful that the insurance policy would cover most of it.

Eventually, a copy of the hospital bill was presented to Clare, outlining every charge in detail to the last safety pin: pregnancy test, two restraining devices, X-rays, reading the X-rays, etc.

Clare is not a violent person and concluded that the restraining devices would be needed only after the bill was presented.

Now, to anyone who has experienced a hospital stay, all of this may not seem too unusual. What is unusual, however, is that not only is Clare a senior citizen, but Clare is a man!

Thinking As One

Pitt County's Board of Education earlier this week endorsed consolidation with Greenville's public school system. For the most part, city and county leaders have welcomed the decision as the wisest of the choices facing the two school systems. Greenville's school board earlier had gone on record as backing merger.

Now comes the task of working out the details of merger and preparing a plan to implement the actual consolidation.

Most of those commenting on the county's proposal for merger say it offers a reasonable framework for successful union of the two systems. The one glitch in the works, however, could be the county board's call for resolution of capital outlay needs — specifically classrooms — to be provided for or met prior to merger.

On the surface, at least, that looks a little too much like the county board may still be thinking in terms of two systems while talking consolidation. City school Superintendent Delma Blinson took note of that issue in a statement reported Tuesday:

"The big issue, of course, is the providing of sufficient capital outlay money by the County Commissioners. But that should be done regardless of the issue of merger."

We agree with that assessment. Additional classrooms apparently are needed in both of the existing school systems. Safeguards will have to be maintained to keep the schools, merged or not merged, in compliance with federal civil rights guidelines. Residents of the city also are residents of Pitt County and, like those who live outside Greenville's corporate limits, pay county taxes. Again, all of that will take place with or without merger.

Now that the two school boards and the County Commissioners have expressed a willingness, let's get on with the merger — not in a mad rush, but at a determined, thoughtful pace with steps in unison now and later.

It could be costly, even lethal, for either side to maintain a "me first" attitude.

Best Choice

The Greenville City Council acted with wisdom this week in ruling out special fees for garbage collections and turning, instead, to a tax increase as a source for new revenue.

The unpopular collection fee would have been a straight out-of-pocket expense for city residents. The tax increase, at least, can be offset partially by deductions on income tax returns.

There has been little opposition to the city's desire to increase its revenue. No one likes to pay more taxes, but everyone knows it costs more to operate anything today. The tax increase of 7 cents per $100 valuation will cause little problem to anyone while providing the city $240,000 in new income.

We have not agreed recently with some of the directions taken by the council — especially its raid on the Greenville Utilities Commission — but, if more income is needed, this is one move we can and do support.

Rumors That Never Die

The trouble all started when I told my wife's sister that I had been taken to the Orlando airport by the same chauffeur who had driven Michael Jackson the previous week.

My sister-in-law apparently got the story mixed up and told her 15-year-old daughter I had driven Michael Jackson to the airport.

The next day I got a call from my niece. "Uncle Arthur, I have to go to the Michael Jackson concert or I'm going to die."

"I'm sorry to hear that," I said.

"Mommy said you know him personally."

"I don't know him personally," I said. "I told your mother I met the man who took him to the airport from Disney World."

"What's he like?"

"He's a very good chauffeur."

"I don't mean him. I mean Michael Jackson."

"I've never met Michael Jackson."

"Please, Uncle Arthur. I'll never ask anything from you ever. This is the most important thing I'll ever do in my whole life. I told all my friends you know Michael Jackson and you'd get us seats. I'll never be able to show my face again if you can't get us into his concert."

"How many friends did you promise?"

"I have no idea how to get seats. I swear it."

The next day I got a call from her father. "What the hell did you say to Lilly?"

"I told her the truth. I don't know Michael Jackson. What's wrong?"

"She doesn't believe you. She's gone on a hunger strike, until you come up with the tickets."

"I can't get her any tickets," I said. "Look, I have friends at the Department of Interior I can arrange for her to see the Beach Boys on the Mall on the Fourth of July. But that's as far as my musical connections go."

"You're one rotten person," he said and hung up.

That night I heard from the doctor who was trying to get Lilly to eat. He was speaking in a low voice. "One of my patients tells me you saved Michael Jackson's life in Orlando."

"I can't get Lilly any seats for a concert," I said.

"I wasn't calling about her. I'm trying to get some for my kids. I'll give you a hundred dollars a ticket, no questions asked."

"I don't have any tickets."

"Okay, $200. But that's my final offer."

"I'm not scalping tickets. If you want to get Lilly well persuaded I've never met Michael Jackson in my life."

"That doesn't solve my problem I already told my kids I knew someone who could get them tickets. What do I do now?"

"You better call a doctor."

Apparently the word had spread all over town. One friend said, "I hear you're booking the Michael Jackson tour. I'll trade you my Mercedes Benz for a box at RFK stadium."

"I don't even know if he's playing RFK stadium."

"I get it. You don't want anyone to know you're financing the tour. Your secret will die with me. But this is serious. If I don't get my banker a box for his kids, he's going to call in the loan on a shopping center I'm building in Seven Corners."

"I can't help you," I said.

"Thanks, rat. I won't forget this."

The final call came from a friend at the Pentagon who is developing a new super death ray that can wipe out an army with one zap.

He was desperate. "You have to get me a pair of tickets to the Jackson concert or my 13-year-old son will kill me."

Strength For Today

Accountability in all human affairs is something that many people find hard to accept.

We are all accountable to somebody or to some thing. We are accountable to an employer, or to the requirements of public office, or to the demands of a profession, and always to our loved ones.

But the strictest accountability does not reside in the realm of either persons or things. We are made in the image and after the likeness of God, and such being the case, the accountability we owe to our own souls, and to God who communicates to us through these souls, is primary.

The greatest happiness in life comes first from a quiet conscience, and that person has a quiet conscience who has accepted the demands of accountability in every sphere of life and who tries doggedly, if not gallantly, to live up to them.

he were behind the slanting, Kincaid said, "That's not true. We did something but that's not what we did."

Sen. Cass Ballenger, R-Catawba, when asked how he ranked senators, said that Republicans discussed options for improving their scores. "We had said that it was loaded against us in the past. So, we decided to rank Republicans better — in line with the respect they truly deserve." He denied, however, that he was responsible for any of the five ballots which were marked with only ones and tens.

When told the Republicans had denied any participation in the slanted voting, Ran Coble, the center's director, simply shrugged and asked why any Democratic senators would give such partisan vote to the Republicans.

Coble said the five ballots represented the first time anything so blatantly partisan had happened in the voting. He said that next year a warning will be distributed with each ballot saying that any ballots returned with blatantly partisan scores will be thrown out.

Confused as to how you feel about a statewide phosphate ban in laundry detergents? One way to decide if you're pro or con might be to study a partial list of laundry detergents compiled by the N.C. Department of Natural Resources.

The department reports that the following detergents would not be banned: Yes, ERA, Dynamo, Wisk, Dreft, Ivory Snow, Arm & Hammer, Purex, Trend, Dutch and All brands.

The following detergents could not be sold with their present levels of phosphate: Tide, Gain, Fab, Oxydol, Fresh Start, Cheer, Cold Power, Bold, Punch and Super Suds brands.

Influence Shifts To The Soviets

KUWAIT — Fearfully exposed to Iranian attack or subversion, Kuwait is sending its defense minister on a desperate mission to Moscow July 9 to seal a $327 million Soviet arms purchase of air defense and ground-to-ground missiles, plus other modern armaments, possibly including tanks.

"They are opening the door to us," Defense Minister Salim al-Sabah told us in an exclusive interview two days after the U.S. rejected Kuwait's bid to buy short-range Stinger anti-aircraft missiles. More in sorrow than anger, he added: "The U.S. looks at us and decides they don't approve of us. Do they really think our Stingers could be used against Israel?"

The opening of a major weapons pipeline to Moscow by this pro-Western but non-aligned oil-rich country was a decision not easily taken. It means Kuwaiti military officers must be sent to the Soviet Union for training or Soviet technicians must come here. Neither prospect pleases the virulently anti-communist Kuwaiti government.

This, then, is one more example of Reagan administration and congressional folly in submerging U.S. interests in the Arab world to the new "strategic partnership" with Israel. A key Israeli objective of this "partnership" is to block American arms for Arab states, and Secretary of State George Shultz appears to be going along.

Kuwait fears Iranian air attack in retaliation for its help to Iraq. The bustling Persian Gulf port here is a major transit point for unloading Soviet arms purchased by Iraq, whose border lies a few miles to the north.

Although long-range Iranian strategy is almost as obscure here as in the West, some officials believe that reprisals will be triggered if and when Iraq uses new Soviet missiles, probably the SS-21, against Kharg Island, Iran's major oil-loading station. Iraqi strongman, President Saddam Hussein, has said he has been promised these ground-to-ground missiles, but there is no doubt here that they will be delivered before August.

The threat of subversion by the pro-Iranian Shiite minority in this Sunni kingdom is no less ominous than the prospect of overt attack. If the December terrorists bombings had been fully successful, Kuwait might have been torn apart. Bombs exploded at the U.S. and French Embassies, but they miraculously fizzled at six other targets, including vital harbor installations, the airport control tower and the crucial water desalinization plant.

Later, Kuwaiti intelligence found large arms caches, clearly intended for use as a follow-up to the bombings. Two weeks ago, a four-man terrorist group, penetrated by local police, was seized with a bomb designed to blow up Kuwait's only television tower.

"The gulf war is in a momentary calm that cannot last," al-Sabah told us. He said he hoped that his 10-day trip to Moscow, where he is certain to be received on a red carpet, will "not be misunderstood" in Washington. "Our relations have been good," he said, but the U.S. must "appreciate our need for self-defense."

In addition to the Soviet arms deal, Kuwait is buying $800 million of new weapons from France. These include command-and-control radars, computers, Mirage F-1 fighter aircraft and heavy helicopters. The minuscule Kuwaiti air force, manned by gung-ho pilots but lacking combat experience, will soon be patched into the Saudi Arabian AWACS system, despite traditional Kuwaiti-Saudi rivalry. The early-warning AWACS planes are flown by U.S. pilots. As of now, the Kuwaiti air force is informed only by telephone when Iranian aircraft are spotted. Connecting Kuwait's interceptors electronically to the AWACS will save precious minutes.

Last year the U.S. had big plans for protecting the Gulf and its vulnerable Arab oil states from Iran, including a Jordanian strike force and the pre-positioning of equipment in the Gulf region. The strike force died when Israeli objections overrode the Reagan administration's plan to arm King Hussein with Stinger missiles for defense against Syria, infuriating Hussein. As for pre-positioning military equipment under U.S. control, it was never acceptable to the Gulf states, who want arms, not Americans.

The mood here grows more tense. If Iran's long-awaited offensive to isolate the Iraqi Gulf port of Basra should succeed, the road to Kuwait is short and open. The alternative routes — air attack or subversion — are equally inviting.

While the U.S. bends to Israel's political might in Washington, Moscow seizes the opportunity to gain what is has always dreamed of: power in the Persian Gulf.

Public Forum

To the editor:

The citizens of Greenville have a right to be proud of the numerous improvements in our local police force. The increased number and training of personnel was long overdue.

Citizens may cry out about small tax increases that made these improvements possible, but the investment in quality and professionalism has been well worth it.

Our experience in the Tar River Neighborhood has been very positive. Reduced noise problems because of ordinance enforcement and better traffic control of speeders on small city streets are only two of many improvements we have seen.

Thanks are due to Chief Holmes and officers of the Greenville Police Department.

Inez Fridley, President
Tar River Neighborhood Assn.

To the editor:

Your account of the City Council meeting on the budget June 28 was very interesting.

Your account stated that when it became apparent all the money asked for from the taxpayers was not forthcoming, the city manager stated that a meeting would be held with department heads and by Wednesday morning the money would be found.

I respectfully suggest that meetings of this kind with department heads be held more often!

If $50,000 can be found at such a late date, then maybe in the future ways can be found to save the taxpayers money.

I also respectfully suggest that City Council look at all these proposed projects for next year again — a long look!

Kings Mountain Complex Planned

KINGS MOUNTAIN, N.C. (AP) — An industrial, commercial and residential complex that would cover 1,000 acres and create as many as 2,500 new jobs in the next 10 years is planned near Kings Mountain, a Charlotte newspaper reports.

Kings Mountain Mayor John Henry Moss told The Charlotte Observer this week that the development near the Interstate 85 and U.S. 74 interchange could serve as the "high-tech area of western North Carolina, and at some point in time could rival Research Triangle Park."

Moss has helped bring more than two dozen industries and $20 million in federal and state grants to Kings Mountain during his 19-year term as mayor.

Moss said he plans to meet Monday with area property owners he declined to identify to work out details of the development.

Moss said the city's Industrial Development Team will invite only high technology industries - such as computer manufacturers - to locate in the industrial park section of the complex.

Tar Heel Inmate Helping Children

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — The letters are grateful and warm — a bridge between distance and cultures.

In one she writes: "I'm ashamed sponsor, but I really need your help."

He does so givingly, just as he had with two children before her. Each month he sends $18. On her birthday and Christmas, she receives a watch, dress or doll.

Not much, an observer might think. But for the Mexican child and the convicted thief, the friendship means a great deal.

"It just thrills me that I can correspond with kids in other countries like that," says Leroy Clark of Lincoln County, N.C., who is serving a sentence for interstate shipment of stolen vehicles at the Federal Correctional Institution in Talladega. "It warms my heart."

Clark, 49, became a sponsor for the Christian Children's Fund in 1972 while in an Atlanta prison. Another inmate had "adopted" a child in a foreign nation, and Clark decided he would like to do the same. By the time he left Atlanta in 1979, Clark says 25 inmates were sponsoring overseas children.

"I have always been for older people and kids," he says. "When I was growing up I had no father, and I raised nine kids (his brothers and sisters)."

Clark, now a father of three and grandfather of two, says Mirna, 13, is like "one of my own." He has sponsored her for almost a year.

"I hope to see her when I get out in 1986," he says.

In the meantime, she writes him once a month, keeping him posted on her activities. Sometimes she asks for advice.

"I am going to complete the sixth and last grade in grammar school," she wrote in January. "I want to study then (in) junior high school. Do you think it is OK?"

His financial support is something of a windfall to her family. Her natural father occasionally works as a farm hand, but his salary is low. Food is scarce. Realizing this, Mirna's parents sought aid.

Clark uses his pay of $1.05 per hour in the prison furniture factory toward his monthly donation. "God says you have to help someone," he says.

He is one of 309,000 Children's Fund sponsors, supporting 361,000 children in 20 nations. The organization is geared to help children with basic needs like food, clothing, medicine and education.

"Sponsors come from every walk of life and from every economic level," says Don Murray, the fund's public relations manager.

He says Clark is not the only inmate involved in the 46-year-old organization. More specific details are unavailable because the fund prefers to keep personal information confidential.

Clark says his role is as "backbone" for the children. "It gives them an uplift, knowing that other people care about them," he says.

Mirna appreciates his efforts. "I thank you very much because you worry a lot for me," she wrote in April. "I would like to know you very much you."

Clark says he has received similar thanks from his two other "adoptees." His generosity extends beyond the fund's requirements.

In 1973, he and two inmates, who were also sponsors, raised more than $3,000 to bring their children to Atlanta. The kids spent their days with them in prison. He paid for his second child to visit California.

Driver Charged

John David Payton of Route 3, Greenville, was charged with having improper equipment (tires) by Greenville police following investigation of a 2:51 p.m. collision Thursday on Greenville Boulevard, 100 feet west of the David Drive intersection.

Officers said the truck driven by Payton collided with a truck operated by Nancy Rush McQueen of 114E Cherry Court, causing an estimated $1,000 damage to the McQueen vehicle. No damage resulted to the truck operated by Payton, investigators said.

Theft Probed

Greenville police are investigating the theft of a set of tail lights and an AM-FM cassette radio from a car at W.L. Johnson Motors at 3006 S. Memorial Drive.

Officer M.J. Nobles said the theft was reported about 8:57 a.m. Thursday.

Police Promotion

C.B. Landreth, a corporal assigned as a supervisor on one of the police department's uniformed shifts, has been promoted to sergeant, Police Chief Ted Holmes said today.

Holmes, who said the promotion was effective Thursday, said Landreth will continue as a supervisor with the patrol division.

Landreth joined the department in 1972 and was promoted to corporal in 1980. In addition to his service with the patrol division, he has worked with the detective division as a narcotics investigator.

Holmes said Landreth's promotion resulted from competitive examinations given in December.

Assembly Wants To Keep Tabs On Governor

By MARY ANNE RHYNE

Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — The General Assembly is moving closer to adjournment with enactment of guidelines for spending the 1984-85 state budget and approval of plans to spend $4.9 million for operating courts next year.

But it remained uncertain when lawmakers can go home.

The Senate voted 30-17 on Thursday to return to work Monday if it could not complete its business by late today. Legislative staff members agreed to work through the night to speed consideration of $10 million in appropriations for lawmakers' special pet projects — the last remaining budget bill.

House members said it looked like they would remain on the job until Tuesday.

The spending guidelines enacted Thursday include language aimed at keeping the Insurance Department from exceeding its budget and at keeping the Legislature informed of the governor's actions.

Most of the rest of the 143 pages of provisions concern pay raises for state officials, including a 54 percent pay increase that would make North Carolina's next governor the second highest paid in America.

Attorney General Rufus Edmisten, the Democratic nominee for governor, was visiting lawmakers Thursday and said in an interview that he "certainly wouldn't quarrel" with the size of the pay raise.

"It is very apparent that government in the state of North Carolina is the biggest business the state has and its executives should be paid appropriately," Edmisten said.

Among the lengthy directives is a provision which would give the Insurance Department its money on a monthly basis while other agencies continued to receive money on a quarterly basis.

The measure caught the Insurance Department by surprise.

"I don't know where the bill is coming from ... I don't know what their intent is," said Insurance Department spokesman Oscar Smith.

Another provision gives the Legislature access to the governor's records, both on computer and paper. The governor does not get similar access to legislative records.

"This Legislature is expecting a Republican governor," said state Sen. Cass Ballenger, R-Catawba. "They are laying the groundwork for that event."

The budget directives were made law when the House agreed to go along with a Senate amendment.

The Senate removed from the bill House language defining who can be held financially responsible for the cost of cleaning up abandoned hazardous waste dumps.

The House wanted to hold responsible the owners and operators of the abandoned site, owners and operators of the site at the time the waste was dumped and transporters of the waste if they selected the site.

The $4.9 million courts bill contains money for four new Superior Court judges, four more District Court judges, seven magistrates, four assistant district attorneys and 53 deputy clerks.

There also is $85,000 to continue a pilot program in Mecklenburg County to mediate disputes over child custody and visitation and $1.7 million for expanding a computer court information system.

The House voted 102-0 to endorse the bill and the Senate voted 44-2 to approve the bill.

All that remains for the bill to become law is House concurrence in a Senate amendment giving the governor power to appoint the new judges instead of waiting for the local bar to make recommendations.

In other legislative action:

The Senate approved a bill that would require farm operators with 10 or more fulltime farmworkers to contribute to the workers' compensation system. The bill started in the House as an effort to extend workers' compensation to all farmworkers.

But Sen. Bob Swain, D-Buncombe, said the amended version of the bill would affect only the state's largest agribusinesses. He said 100 to 200 people would be covered by the measure and they are not migrant workers.

The Senate gave tentative approval to a bill that would allow utility customers to deduct part of the tax they pay on services from their federal income tax.

Utilities now pay a 6 percent gross receipts tax that is passed on to customers but is not deductible. The bill would declare that 3 percent of the tax is a sales tax on the purchase of utility service, a deductible item on federal income taxes.

A wide-ranging package of educational changes failed to clear the Senate when it was returned to the Appropriations Committee because of its potential cost. The bill won tentative Senate approval Wednesday.

The bill directs the state Board of Education to develop a standard course of study that outlines basic and supplementary textbook needs, prescribes a core curriculum, sets standards for student performance, describes staff ratios, specifies maximum class sizes and calls for a guidance counselor for each elementary school.

Sen. Kenneth Royall, D-Durham, said legislative analysts predict it would cost $4.4 million in 1984-85 to put a guidance counselor in each elementary school. They said they could not calculate many of the other costs associated with the bill.

Sen. Bob Warren, D-Johnston, said he was concerned that the bill went to committee with the push to adjourn in the next few days.

"A bill can easily get lost in a committee," Warren said. "I have high hopes we can work out any problem."

Telephone Firms OK Compromise

RALEIGH (AP) — No legislative opposition is surfacing to a compromise arrangement for competition between American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and other companies providing in-state, long-distance service.

A bill incorporating the agreement reached Wednesday between lobbyists for AT&T and its competitors easily won Senate approval Thursday. The House was expected to concur with the Senate version today, making the bill law.

The Senate Special Ways and Means Committee endorsed the compromise Wednesday. It calls for the Utilities Commission to consider the effect of in-state, long-distance competition on local rates and requires the commission to make sure that all competitive arrangements are in the public interest.

The compromise stops short of requiring that all companies be regulated equally, which AT&T had sought. Instead, it says the commission should consider whether the public would be best served by equal regulation.

Currently, the federal government grants companies offering competitive long-distance service a 55 percent discount over what AT&T Communications pays for local phone line access, since AT&T owns most of the lines and equipment.

AT&T says if there is to be competition, the discount should be abolished. But supporters of the bill said to do so would destroy any semblance of competition since it enables the smaller companies to offer competitive rates.

Both sides stood by their positions during a public hearing Wednesday morning, but later they hammered out the compromise.

Senate Campaign Turns To Veterans

By DENNIS PATTERSON

Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Two veterans groups have squared off in the U.S. Senate race between Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and Gov. Jim Hunt, each saying their candidate offers the best bet for those in the military.

"Unlike his opponent, Jesse Helms is a veteran and, therefore, has a special understanding of the needs and experience of veterans," said retired Gen. Ted Mataxis of Southern Pines at a Raleigh news conference. "We believe he has a little better feel for defense than someone who sat on the sidelines."

"The governor has maintained an open door policy with veterans," countered Steve Carver, former commander of the American Legion and co-chairman of the Veterans for Hunt Committee. "I know of no instance in which he hasn't done what he can to aid the cause of needy veterans."

"I have seen Senator Helms, in an all-out effort to balance the budget, include cuts in the veterans hospitals," Carver added. "I think that, in general, the American public isn't willing to balance the budget on the backs of the veteran."

Mataxis, part of the newly formed Veterans for Helms, said it was "immaterial" that Hunt, 46, was too young for military service in Korea and too old for Vietnam.

"Either you were there or you weren't," Mataxis said. "I'm just saying you feel much closer to men who have been there."

Helms served in World War II as a recruiter for the U.S. Navy in Roanoke Rapids. Claude Allen, a Helms' spokesman, said Mataxis was making the point that Helms had "enlisted and served his country, while Hunt hadn't even enlisted."

Allen said Helms was restricted to non-active duty because of a hearing impairment.

Mataxis, a former assistant division commander with the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, said he was first attracted to Helms when Helms was a broadcast commentator.

"Like him or not, he doesn't need

UP IN SMOKE — State Sen. Harold W. Hardison, D-Deep Run, fills his area of the state Senate chamber with smoke during a legislative session Thursday. The assembly is expected to adjourn early next week. (AP Laserphoto)

a position paper to tell him where he stands on an issue," Mataxis said.

Retired Gen. Andy Gatsis of Rocky Mount, also a member of Veterans for Helms, applauded Helms' support for right-wing leader Roberto d'Aubuisson in El Salvador.

"The simple reason Jesse Helms is for d'Aubuisson is because he's anti-communist," Gatsis said. "The media is trying to paint this up as something ominous, while praising Jesse Jackson for going to Cuba to talk to a communist leader."

Both Mataxis and Gatsis said Helms had taken firm stands for a strong defense.

Knox Withholds Endorsement Of Edmisten

By The Associated Press
Attorney General Rufus Edmisten says former Charlotte Mayor Eddie Knox will endorse his gubernatorial bid despite Knox's announcement that it's too late to call for party unity.

Edmisten, who defeated Knox 52 percent to 48 percent in the June 5 Democratic runoff, said he was disappointed with the announcement and wished "he would wholeheartedly endorse me, and I think it will come."

Knox appeared to be anything but conciliatory in statements on Wednesday and Thursday.

"Many now speak of unity," said Knox. "But let me hasten to tell you that those who cry for unity should have asked themselves the same question during the election."

"I want you to know tonight that I believe in the individual right of every citizen to support the person of their choice," Knox said in prepared remarks at a Wednesday fundraiser. "Never once in the campaign did I tell any of you who to support for office. I will not do so tonight."

In an interview Thursday, Knox said he stood by his remarks, adding that his supporters were "fully capable of thinking for themselves. They should make up their minds and support who they want."

GM Wants To Purchase Computer Firm

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp., the world's largest industrial company, has diversified into the computer business, agreeing to purchase the computer company of Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot for $2.5 billion.

GM Chairman Roger B. Smith announced the pending acquisition Thursday, saying GM and Perot's Electronic Data Systems Corp. would "create the largest and most technologically advanced computer services company in the world."

The automotive giant has been looking for some time for a computer partner to help it handle its 19 billion payroll, 700,000 employees and the marketing, sales and technology that go with its size.

Now into its second consecutive record year of profits, GM has $9 billion cash on hand. It will be the biggest acquisition in the 76-year history of the auto company.

EDS will become an independent subsidiary of GM much like General Motors Acceptance Corp., the automaker's giant financing arm.

Perot will remain as chairman and the company will keep its headquarters in Dallas, Smith said.

Perot and his family own half the EDS stock with an estimated worth of $625 million. Perot also has large holdings in real estate, oil and gas.

"I am excited at the prospect of playing such an integral role in reshaping the information processing aspects of GM's business as well as expanding EDS's traditional business at a rapid rate," Perot said.

Active in conservative politics, Perot in 1979 financed a successful commando raid on an Iranian prison to free two EDS employees held hostage.

GM said that the holder of each share of EDS common stock could exchange the shares for $44 cash or $35.20 in cash plus two-tenths of a share of a new class of GM stock created for the merger, plus a GM promissory note payable in seven years.

If all of EDS' 58 million common shares were exchanged for the cash offer, the deal would be worth $2.552 billion.

In trading Thursday on the New York Stock Exchange, GM climbed $1.25 to $65.25 a share while EDS rose $1 to $41.375.

Although GM will be using EDS to help run its carmaking, marketing and internal operations, analysts expect EDS to keep its rich portfolio of computer contracts that include services for the Pentagon and large businesses such as insurance companies.

Smith said last month that GM, already heavily into computer-aided design and manufacture of cars, and burdened with a huge worldwide accounting, payroll and data processing needs, had found a perfect partner in EDS.

GM made record profits of $3.73 billion last year and is expected to double that this year.

"GM's idea is to get their house organized and these guys (EDS) are used to handling big jobs," said Joseph Phillippi, an automotive industry analyst at Dean Witter Reynolds Inc. in New York.

EDS reported earnings of $58.6 million in 1983 on income of $651.6 million.

The company has an eight-year, $350 million contract with the U.S. Navy for inventory control and a similar $200 million contract with the U.S. Army. An EDS computer services contract lined up with Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Wisconsin is supposed to run 10 years and be worth $15 million.

TUCKER TORPEDO — Alex Tremulis, 70, designer of the Tucker Torpedo, in background, participated in a recent gathering in Ann Arbor, Mich., of Tucker devotees. The 1948 car, dubbed the cyclops because of the center headlight which turned when the steering wheel turned, has a strong following although only 51 vehicles were made. Forty-eight of the cars are still operational. (AP Laserphoto)

Auto Buffs Dream On Over Cyclops Car

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The 1948 Tucker Torpedo may be best known as the car with the roving eye — a center-mounted headlight that turned in tandem with the steering wheel. But attention to that gadget has overshadowed its luxury and safety features, its designer says.

The 51 Torpedos that were made had windshield glass that popped out during a crash, interior safety pads, four disc brakes and independent suspension.

Because the engine was in the rear, the Tucker had no transmission hump and thus a roomy interior and flat floor — like the front-engine, front-wheel drive cars of today.

Interest in the 48 Tuckers that still exist flourishes among a dedicated band of enthusiasts.

The Torpedo was the dream of Preston Tucker, who set up shop in an old aircraft plant in Cicero, Ill.

But production was stopped when the Securities and Exchange Commission took him to court on stock fraud allegations. Tucker was exonerated several years later, but by then the company had folded.

Tucker died of cancer in 1956 at age 53.

The car's designer, Alex Tremulis, 70, was the featured guest at a recent Ann Arbor convention where the first Torpedo to roll off the assembly line was displayed in mint condition to Tucker buffs for the first time.

Two dozen of the 100 conventioners traveled to Flat Rock, Mich., and put 48 red carnations on Tucker's grave to commemorate 1948, the car's model year.

The gathering was organized by Audrey Hodges, who designed the Torpedo's plush interior. Tucker lovers say she may have been the first woman to work full-time as an auto designer.

Tremulis, who went on to work at Ford Motor Co. and as a private consultant, said "a lot of fabulous thinking went into this car."

Detroit's designers today are

"torturing innocent sheet metal," he said.

The Torpedo had aircraft-style doors of a design that later showed up in the Chevrolet Corvette and, most recently, the Ford Tempo.

Its six-cylinder Franklin engine weighed 300 pounds, put out 166 horsepower and would propel the car to 60 mph from a standing start in 10 seconds.

The rear-mounted engine was designed to be easily removed at a garage if it needed repair. The owner could drive off with a loaner engine until his own was fixed.

On the other hand, Tremulis described the Tucker as a 3,600-pound tank, weighing half a ton more than most of today's cars.

"Do you have any idea how much this thing weighs? Have you ever weighed it?" Tremulis asked the owner, car collector John Lemmo of Peninsula, Ohio, who works in the front office of the Cleveland Browns football team.

Lemmo said he had not weighed the maroon car.

Tremulis told the owners how he packed pound after pound of lead and solder into the steel front to fill out the body.

Lemmo found Tucker No. 1 rusting behind a barn in Pennsylvania. Body man Arthur Ulatowski of Mantua, Ohio, spent 12 years restoring it.

Lemmo also owns Tucker No. 20. He won't say how much he paid for the cars.

The Torpedo sold for $2,500 in 1948. Restored models have brought as much as $85,000, and some Tucker buffs estimate a perfectly restored one could bring $150,000.

Film director Francis Ford Coppola owns two Tuckers and Zoetrope Studios in San Francisco owns movie rights to Preston Tucker's life story, but a studio spokeswoman said there were no immediate plans to make the film.

Tucker favored seat belts, Tremulis said, but "it was very unpopular at that time to talk about safety belts," so they were left out.

Teacher Drawing Support For Her Year-End Spankings

SEYMOUR, Tenn. (AP) — An eighth-grade teacher who paddled at least 25 students in a year-end "day of reckoning" will likely keep her job despite some parents' demands that she be fired, a school board official says.

Although a lawyer hired by parents of seven youngsters who were spanked said the group would continue to press for Linda Russell's dismissal, a majority of the 50 people at Thursday's school board meeting supported her decision to spank students at the end of the term rather than throughout the year.

"The only true remedy is for her to no longer teach in the school system," the lawyer, Ed Graves, said at the Sevier County Board of Education meeting.

Lori Bellar, a former student, said she was spanked "and I deserved it."

"I was spanked by the principal, too, and I didn't see him fill out any forms or notify my parents," said Miss Bellar, now a junior.

Ms. Russell, an American history teacher, triggered a storm of controversy in this rural eastern Tennessee community of 5,000 when she paddled students June 5 for offenses committed throughout the year.

Ms. Russell resigned after parents complained that students were spanked the day before graduation for such offenses as returning books late, sitting sideways in their seats and failing to bring pencils to class. She later asked that her resignation be withdrawn.

Unless the school board attorney says otherwise, Ms. Russell has a job at Seymour High School for the 1984-85 school year, said Dan Bradshaw, school board chairman.

Ms. Russell, who taught 180 eighth graders this year, attended the meeting, but was not required to respond to the charges.

Afterward she told The Associated Press she followed school policy as she knew it by having another teacher witness the spankings.

"If I'd known there was something else expected of me I would have done it," she said. "After all, this was my ninth year."

Ms. Russell violated school policy by not filing a written report on each spanking, said Larry Huskey, Seymour principal. But he described her as a "good teacher" who "made an error in judgment."

She said 25 students received one swat with a wooden paddle in the hallway after they turned down an alternative written assignment.

"For nine years, the students learned early at the beginning that this would happen at the end," she said.

Albemarle Sound To Be Upgraded

WASHINGTON — Rep. Walter Jones, D-N.C., said today that a provision of the Water Quality Renewal Act approved by the House of Representatives Wednesday designates Albemarle Sound as one of four estuaries in the nation slated for a stepped up water quality enhancement program.

According to Jones, Albemarle Sound was added to the four-year extension of the Clean Water Act as a result of negotiations with the bill's authors over provisions which came under the jurisdiction of the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, which is chaired by Jones.

"This action recognizes the importance of Albemarle Sound as a protective estuary and will ensure federal-state coordination of a comprehensive program to halt further deterioration and produce a habitat essential to the future of our fisheries," the congressman said.

Under the legislation, Albemarle Sound, Long Island Sound, Buzzards Bay and Delaware Bay are all determined to be estuaries of special importance.

The Environmental Protection Administration is directed to convene management conferences composed of representatives from federal, state, inter-state and local agencies concerned with water quality to develop a comprehensive plan for improving long-term water quality and productivity.

The EPA is also directed to make grants to the states to implement the program. A total of $165 million through fiscal year 1988 is included for this purpose.

"The comprehensive approach envisioned by this bill is necessary to avoid piecemeal solutions to the effects of estuary degradation, otherwise, its impacts could be devastating," Jones said.

The bill must now undergo Senate consideration and approval before it becomes law.

Mondale Renews Ties With Carter

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Walter F. Mondale sounds like he doesn't intend to run away from his association with former president Jimmy Carter if he becomes the Democratic presidential candidate.

In Carter's presence at the start of a three-day Southern swing, Mondale, with a bow toward his former boss, pledged Thursday to be "as good a president — nearly as good a president — as the South has ever had."

Mondale was in pursuit of campaign contributions this time, not votes, as he held fund-raisers in Atlanta and Birmingham on Thursday and planned more in Mississippi and Florida before returning to his home in Minnesota Saturday night.

He offered lavish praise for both Carters — "kinder to Joan and me I think than any president and first lady have ever been" — and for the South in general, where his campaign won a needed boost in this spring's primaries.

"They said I couldn't make it, they said I couldn't win the nomination," said Mondale. "But I came here and asked for your help. You gave it. I confounded the skeptics, I carried Georgia and Alabama and I was on my way, and I am now going to be the nominee of the Democratic Party."

James Quackenbush, Mondale's Southern coordinator, in an interview during another Mondale fund-raiser here, said the Republicans will find they've made a big mistake if they run against Mondale in the South by making an issue of his association with the Carter administration.

"When (John) Glenn tried it, it failed," Quackenbush said. "In October, '83, he tried attacking Carter for a week and it backfired... (Gary) Hart made a mistake in Texas when he made his remarks about the (Iranian) hostage situation."

"The people didn't like that. It had a backlash on both of them."

Quackenbush says Mondale lost only three Southern or border states and carried 10 in the primaries. "I think the Republicans are completely shook about that," he said.

Carter, at a reception in Atlanta's Commerce Club, handed Mondale a check for $1,000, and Mondale used the occasion to employ his self-deprecating humor.

"Someone asked me the other day whether the process I was undertaking to select a running mate was patterned after that that then-Gov. Carter pursued to select his running mate," Mondale said. "I said of course. I said that was so spectacularly successful, the choice was so wonderful, why fail to pursue a process that good?"

Mondale enjoyed a success on another front Thursday. The statement by the Rev. Jesse Jackson disavowing anti-Jewish comments by Louis Farrakhan, the Black Muslim leader, took some pressure off Mondale, who needs the goodwill of both the black and Jewish constituencies if he is to win in November. Jewish leaders had been urging Mondale to break with Jackson unless Jackson renounced Farrakhan.

"I think it is very, very helpful," Mondale told reporters after Jackson issued his statement. "It is clear in the statement that Rev.

Jackson condemns and repudiates the bigoted statements that were made by Rev. Farrakhan."

Mondale said he commended Jackson for condemning Farrakhan's remarks "and for making it clear that Mr. Farrakhan has no part in his campaign."

Mondale on Thursday interviewed another potential vice presidential running mate, W. Wilson Goode, the black mayor of Philadelphia. He praised Goode as "a symbol of the best that our country has."

Goode, interviewed in Washington, was the fourth potential running mate to meet with Mondale.

Mondale will interview Rep. Geraldine Ferraro of New York and Mayor Henry Cisneros of San Antonio at his North Oaks, Minn., home next week.

Previously, he interviewed Mayor Tom Bradley of Los Angeles, who is also black; Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, and Mayor Dianne Feinstein of San Francisco.

Mondale insisted he was serious about considering a woman or a black. He said the fact that people in those categories do not have the experience that white men may have should not be held against them because they've been denied the opportunity to hold high office.

Maureen Reagan Says No Women

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's daughter, Maureen, is warning that Democrat Walter F. Mondale could set back the feminist movement two decades if he selects a woman as his running mate and then loses the November election.

"If they are not successful, then 18 pollsters will come out of the woodwork telling you why it was the vice presidential choice that did it," Ms. Reagan said. "It will take us 20 years to undo the damage."

In an interview Thursday with The Associated Press, Ms. Reagan, an adviser on women's issues to the Republican National Committee, also said women won't be qualified to be vice president or president until they go through the process of establishing national constituencies by running for president or vice president or holding other national office.

"I'm not supportive of putting a woman on the ticket to project tokenism one more step," she said, adding that is exactly what would happen if Mondale, the apparent Democratic presidential nominee, picks a woman.

Only "very rarely and usually not successfully are candidates for vice president chosen who have either not run for president or have not established national credentials," she said.

"I'm not saying that any of these women (Democrats under consideration) are not qualified to establish the national credentials," she added. "What I'm telling you is that they haven't done it. And that's also true of the women on our side of the aisle. But we're at that moment in which it's time to do that."

NOW Says Yes To Female Veep

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Last year, it was but a dream, a feminist fantasy, Ms. Vice President?

Today, feminists gathering here for the 16th annual convention of the National Organization for Women aren't just dreaming.

They are plotting their strategy to push Walter F. Mondale, the Democratic Party's apparent presidential nominee, to put a woman on the ticket as his running mate.

Mondale, who has convinced feminists he is seriously considering the idea of a woman for the No. 2 spot, owes a lot to NOW. Last December the nation's largest feminist organization — with 250,000 members — endorsed his candidacy.

Yet the women appear nervous. Earlier this week, when Mondale held a peace-making meeting with rival Gary Hart in New York, they feared the vice presidency might get away from them. When political push came to shove, Mondale could follow tradition and pick Hart, whom many feel would appeal to Western voters and present a unified Democratic front.

The women called a meeting to decide how best to convince Mondale, in the words of Rep. Barbara Mikulski, "how deep and broad and intense" the feeling is that a woman would enhance the Democrats' chances of beating President Reagan in November.

To convey their message, the women plan to meet with Mondale after he addresses the NOW convention Saturday afternoon to tell him that if he chooses a man as his vice presidential running mate, the delegates at the Democratic National Convention in San Francisco next month may nominate a woman from the floor.

One of those on Mondale's "short list" of possible candidates will be in the room when he speaks. Rep. Geraldine Ferraro of Queens, N.Y., who has served three terms in Congress and will be interviewed next week by Mondale, is considered the woman with the best shot at the job. She will also address the convention.

NBC Debuts Its Latest TV Magazine On Sunday Night

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — NBC has failed with a stack of TV newsmagazines in its effort to copy CBS' top-rated "60 Minutes" in format and success. At least if "Summer Sunday, USA" fails, it will crash on its own terms.

"If you run around end four times and get nailed, you have to go off-tackle or pass the ball," said Steve Friedman, executive producer of the "Today" show who is in charge of NBC News' latest prime-time entry.

"Summer Sunday, USA," with

Linda Ellerbee and Andrea Mitchell as prime time's first female co-anchors, begins its nine-week run Sunday night, competing against reruns of "60 Minutes," which last season averaged four times the audience of NBC's now-canceled "First Camera" newsmagazine.

To Friedman, "newsmagazine" may not be a dirty word, but it's not what he uses to characterize his show.

"Just like Kleenex or Jell-O, '60 Minutes' is the brand name for TV newsmagazines," said Friedman. "Since we're not doing a show with three highly produced, taped segments, calling it a newsmagazine would be misleading. And calling it an imitation is an injustice. We want to be different, and we hope to have some fun."

Different means a live, out-of-studio show, with hook-ups from such varied points as Paris, Tokyo, Detroit and Wrigley Field in Chicago. It also means several quirky segments, expanding the definition of news and entertainment. Friedman himself calls the show a combination of "NBC News Overnight," "Today" and "David Letterman."

One segment, "Trading Places," allows newsmakers to throw question marks at journalists. Scheduled for Sunday on the mall of the Washington Monument is a live confrontation between Gary Hart and three journalists who covered his presidential campaign: Bob Kur of NBC, David Broder of The Washington Post and Mary Leonard of The Detroit News.

Another segment, "Face-Off," will match people with divergent outlooks. In opposing corners Sunday will be former presidential candidate George McGovern and former Secretary of the Interior James Watt, discussing America's greatness after 208 years.

To add to the pre-July 4 mood, the Beach Boys, whose Washington performance Watt once canceled, will make a brief appearance at the end of the show, Friedman said.

Already, "Summer Sunday, USA" has been attacked in print elsewhere by anonymous NBC News veterans who have called it "Sunday Funnies, USA."

"Whether it's a stunt or news is in the eye of the beholder," said Friedman. "This will be a hard program, not a soft program. ... We have to make news and show news you don't know. It's not enough to be entertaining."

One segment will look behind NBC's coverage of major events and another will track how last week's stories might affect next week's events.

Also scheduled are interviews with tennis player Hu Na, who defected from China, and an expatriate from El Salvador. Both will discuss the price of leaving their homelands.

"We're not all fun and games," Friedman said.

Miss Ellerbee, anchor of the canceled "Overnight," calls the program an experiment, a test pilot for a regular news show in prime time sometime in the future. Regardless of how it does in summer stock, NBC says there will be no "Fall Friday, USA" in 1984.

"The things that don't work we'll try to get rid of, things that work we'll try to keep," said Miss Ellerbee.

It also will be a chance to showcase contributing NBC news correspondents who don't have as many story outlets as do the reporters at CBS and ABC. "We're an all-volunteer army," said Miss Ellerbee.

"Summer Sunday, USA" will be the first new program established on the watch of new NBC News President Larry Grossman, and it seems the broadcast signals that NBC is trying to shed its conservative image and begin taking programming risks.

Having two women as anchors is certainly different, and Miss Ellerbee and Miss Mitchell have shown contrasting on-air personalities. Miss Ellerbee is flip, while Miss Mitchell, an NBC White House correspondent, takes a straighter news approach.

"If you do a combination of people, you need opposites," said Friedman. "This might work."

Woodward Settles Lawsuit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An $18 million lawsuit against journalist Bob Woodward, prompted by his use of the word "seedy" in a book to describe the bungalow where comedian John Belushi died, has been settled without cash damages.

At a joint news conference Thursday with an official of the Chateau Marmont hotel, Woodward said seedy referred "to the mess Belushi made just prior to his death, not to the quality of the Chateau itself."

On the dust jacket of Woodward's new book "Wired," he wrote "John Belushi was found dead of a drug overdose March 5, 1982 in a seedy hotel bungalow off Sunset Boulevard in Hollywood."

Proceedings in the hotel's $18 million lawsuit were to have begun

Monday. Woodward's comments came via a telephone hookup from his office at The Washington Post.

Belushi died at a bungalow adjacent to the castle-like main structure of the Chateau Marmont, which has housed such celebrities as Greta Garbo and Mick Jagger.

Jackson Denounces Muslim

WASHINGTON (AP) — After months of controversy over his opinions about Judaism, the Rev. Jesse Jackson has disavowed as "reprehensible and morally indefensible" comments about Jews made by militant Black Muslim leader Louis Farrakhan, an early supporter of Jackson's presidential campaign.

Under increasing public and private pressure from Democratic Party leaders, Jackson said Farrakhan's views "have no place in my own thinking or in this campaign."

"I will not permit Minister Farrakhan's words, wittingly or unwittingly, to divide the Democratic Party," Jackson said in a statement released on his behalf Thursday.

The Senate joined the growing chorus of condemnation Thursday night, voting 95-0 to condemn Farrakhan's remarks about Jews and Israel.

Farrakhan's remarks had posed a particularly delicate problem for the apparent Democratic presidential nominee, Walter F. Mondale, who needs Jackson to campaign among black voters this fall but who also faced pressure from Jewish leaders to break with Jackson if he did not repudiate Farrakhan's remarks.

Raid Aims At Peace Talks

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — A guerrilla leader says the bloody assault on El Salvador's main hydroelectric dam — the biggest rebel operation in six months — was aimed at pressuring the government to accept the leftists' terms for peace talks.

At least 130 people were killed and 40 wounded during eight hours of fighting Thursday when hundreds of rebels overran an army garrison and briefly seized the Cerron Grande Dam, the government said. The dam provides one-third of El Salvador's electricity.

Salvador Samayoa, a leader of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, or FMLN, read a statement about the attack to San Salvador radio station YSU late Thursday.

"We have reaffirmed that the FMLN is winning the war. This (attack) is to make them (the government) aware there is no military solution. It is urgent they take our dialogue proposals seriously," Samayoa said.

Leaders of the FMLN, a coalition of five guerrilla groups, have demanded talks with the government without any prior conditions. They have rejected President Jose Napoleon Duarte's demand that they lay down their weapons before negotiations begin on ending the four-year civil war.

Death Toll Rises To 15

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Rescue operations ended at a small island off the north Lebanon coast, and police said today that Israeli air and sea attacks on a suspected guerrilla base there left 15 people dead, 23 wounded and 11 missing and presumed drowned.

The police report did not say whether the casualty toll included an Israeli prisoner and three guerrilla guards that a radical Palestinian faction claimed were killed in the Israeli raids on Palm Island late Wednesday.

In addition to the air and sea attacks Wednesday, the Israeli military command said an Israeli gunboat destroyed a "terrorist boat" near Palm Island on Thursday when people aboard it fired rifles at the warship and wounded five crewmen.

Shiite Moslem leader Nabih Berri, minister of state for southern Lebanon, told a news conference Thursday he had cabled U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar to protest the Israeli raids, as well as Israeli actions in occupied southern Lebanon.

Berri said he had acted with President Amin Gemayel's approval. He said Lebanon would seek action by the Security Council.

BROILERS: The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 58.50 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pound birds. The preliminary weighted average is 58.46 cents f.o.b. dock or equivalent. The market is generally steady and the live supply is moderate for a good to very good demand. Average weights light to mostly desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Friday was 2,240,000, compared to 1,905,000 last Friday.

HENS: Market steady. Supply heavy. Demand light. Undertone steady. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds at farm for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter was 9 cents.

GRAIN: No. 2 yellow shelled corn slightly lower at 3.87-3.99 in East and 3.96-4.01 in the Piedmont; No. 1 yellow soybeans lower at 7.17-7.23 in the east and mostly 7.17-7.23 in the Piedmont; wheat 3.35-3.43; (new crop corn 2.93-3.27; soybeans 6.70-6.96).

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks opened mostly higher today as the government issued two reports signaling a slowing of the economy. The early upswing extended the market's advance on Thursday, its first in four sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up nearly 10 points the previous day, climbed another 3.64 to 1,130.19 in today's opening half-hour.

Gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Commerce Department said its gauge of future economic activity, the Index of Leading Indicators, slipped 0.1 percent in May — the first decline since August 1982.

Separately, it said sales of new single-family houses dropped 4.4 percent in May.

Investors are hopeful that the slowing economy will reduce the upward pressure on interest rates by curbing business borrowing. Strong private credit demand, together with the Treasury's massive borrowing, are seen as key contributors to the current high level of lending charges.

On the NYSE today, Texaco rose 1/8 to 34, Ford Motor fell 1/8 to 35 3/4, Burroughs rose 1/4 to 52 1/2 and International Paper edged up 1/8 to 48 3/4.

On Thursday, the Dow Jones industrial average rose 9.83 to 1,126.55.

Advances led declines 3 to 2 on the NYSE, whose composite index rose 0.61 to 88.19.

Big Board volume totaled 77.66 million shares, compared with 78.84 million in the previous session.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose 0.50 to 199.42.

Court Says No Sleeping In Parks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in an important ruling on freedom of expression, said today the government may ban the homeless from sleeping in parks near the White House to demonstrate their plight.

The court, by a 7-2 vote, said such "sleep-ins" may be a symbolic form of expression protected by the First Amendment to the Constitution. But the court said the government has a legitimate interest in keeping parks in the heart of the nation's capital attractive and orderly.

The court also said there are alternative forms of protest for the homeless to get their message across.

Justice Byron R. White, in his opinion for the court, said banning sleeping as a form of camping "narrowly focuses on the government's substantial interest in maintaining the parks in the heart of our capital in an attractive and intact condition, readily available to the millions of people who wish to see and enjoy them."

White said that "to permit camping ... would be totally inimical to these purposes."

NCAA May Try Voluntary Plan

CHICAGO (AP) — Can the NCAA offer a voluntary national television plan to fill the vacuum created by Wednesday's U.S. Supreme Court decision?

Yes, say NCAA lawyers.

Maybe, say lawyers for Oklahoma, fresh from winning their three-year legal struggle against the NCAA's centralized control of football television rights.

That uncertainty and a host of others hung in the air today as officials from the nation's top football-playing schools set about trying to agree on a workable television plan for this fall.

More than 200 delegates to the Division I-A legislative meetings spent most of the opening session Thursday talking about the volatile football issue. Most have abandoned hope of reaching an accord before today's scheduled adjournment. Another get-together of the top football schools may be scheduled within two weeks.

As things stand now, every school or conference is free to make any television deal with any telecasting company it wishes. Every big-time football power wants to avert this chaotic situation.

Gene Corrigan, Notre Dame athletic director, warned his colleagues Thursday that disaster awaits if they do not act quickly.

"We were playing games before," Corrigan said. "It's now on top of us. We have to get serious and be honest with each other. We better be in line when we walk out of here."

The two-day meeting was to have dealt with legislation for the next NCAA convention. But television became the only viable issue when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled on Wednesday that the NCAA's control of football television rights was unconstitutional.

The ruling also voided two-year contracts with ABC, CBS and ESPN worth more than $150 million to NCAA schools, saying all schools and conferences are free to sell television rights as they choose. With the opening of the season just two months away, the schools are unanimous in their belief that chaos will reign unless a new plan is put in place.

There may be three choices open to the schools. The 63-member College Football Association, which includes virtually every big-time power except the Big Ten and Pac-10 conferences, has worked out a contingency plan. A second and very similar plan was put together by a coalition of CFA and Big Ten and Pac-10 representatives.

And the NCAA will put forth a voluntary plan if it gets permission from U.S. District Court Judge Juan Burciaga of Albuquerque, N.M. An injunction which Burciaga put in place prohibiting the NCAA from being in the football television business went back into effect when the high court ruled. An appeals court had earlier indicated that Burciaga should review that injunction, and he will probably be asked to do so very quickly.

"We continue to be of the opinion this association can administer national controls in the future compatible to the legal (decision)," said George Gangwere, attorney for the NCAA.

Most observers feel the Big Ten and Pac-10 would probably opt for an NCAA-controlled plan, as would many CFA members.

However, Oklahoma City attorney Clyde Muchmore said there is doubt that Burciaga will provide the schools with that choice.

"They can talk about a plan and tell Burciaga what they have in mind," he said. "What he will do is most difficult to tell."

Prior to the opening of the meeting, Muchmore spent more than an hour briefing CFA members on the court's decision. Considerable dispute remains among lawyers over what kind of restrictions the courts might allow any group to have in a national television plan.

"Don't let anybody tell you we have absolute answers on that, we don't," Muchmore said. "Any kind of agreement is going to have restraints. There is no guarantee the courts are going to approve of them. The Supreme Court said some kind of cooperation is permissible. The degree of uncertainty is something you're going to have to live with from now on."

Evans 'Cycles' Up Boston Win

By The Associated Press

Dwight Evans knew he had won the game. Everyone knew that. It just took him a little longer to realize exactly what he had done.

Evans drilled a three-run homer with two outs in the bottom of the 11th inning Thursday night, giving the Boston Red Sox a 9-6 victory over the Seattle Mariners in a contest that quickly changed from a pitcher's duel to a slugfest at Fenway Park.

The home run came after Evans had doubled in the first inning, tripled in the third and singled in the 10th. On his way back to the winning locker room, it occurred to him that he had hit for the cycle.

"I just didn't give it a thought," Evans said. "It suddenly dawned on me when I was in the runway."

"I had never done it before and I guess it's not very common," said Evans, who became the 15th Boston player to hit for the cycle in the 84-year history of the Red Sox and the first since Fred Lynn in 1980. "But I certainly wasn't thinking home run when I went up there. After all, hitting for the cycle wouldn't have meant much if we had lost."

In other AL games, Toronto beat Oakland 9-6, Baltimore trimmed Chicago 2-0, California cracked Milwaukee 7-3, while Texas and Cleveland split a double-header, Texas winning the opener 10-6 and Cleveland taking the nightcap 7-2.

Evans' home run, his 13th of the season, came on the first pitch from Edwin Nunez, who took over for Paul Mirabella with two outs after a pair of errors helped put runners on second and third.

The Red Sox led 2-1 after seven innings and Boston starter Bruce Hurst, sidelined since June 16 with a sore elbow, had allowed just three hits.

But then:

•Alvin Davis smacked a three-run homer, his 17th, in the eighth to put Seattle ahead 4-2.

•Wade Boggs beat out an RBI single to pull Boston within 4-3 in the bottom of the eighth and the Red Sox went on to leave the bases loaded.

•Mike Easler singled home the tying run with one out in the ninth, and the Red Sox again left the bases loaded.

Both teams scored two runs in the 10th. Seattle went on top 6-4 when pinch hitter Al Chambers walked with the bases loaded and Bob Kearney followed with a suicide squeeze run.

But in the bottom of the 10th, the Red Sox loaded the bases with two outs and Bill Buckner then belted a double off Mirabella. Two runs scampered home on the hit and Mike Easler, who was on first, tried to score the game-winning run, but the throw from right fielder Al Cowens to Kearney easily beat Easler to the plate.

Easler tried to bowl over Kearney, but the Seattle catcher held on to force the game into the 11th.

"I won't know where I hurt until tomorrow," Kearney said.

Jim Rice had two singles and two doubles for Boston, and Cowens hit his seventh homer for Seattle in the four-hour marathon. Bob Stanley, 3-6, got the victory and Mirabella, 1-3, the fifth Mariner pitcher, took the loss.

Angels 7, Brewers 3

Reggie Jackson is known as a slugger; Jerry Narron is not.

Yet they both hit two-run homers in the fourth inning to power California to victory, which ended Milwaukee's four-game winning string.

Doug DeCinces drew a walk from Bob Gibson to open the fourth and Jackson followed with his 12th home run of the season and the 490th of his career. One out later, Bobby Grich singled and Narron followed with his second homer.

The visiting Angels added three runs in the fifth as Grich singled in two runs and Narron delivered an RBI single.

Orioles 2, White Sox 0

Baltimore's Mike Flanagan and Tom Seaver of the White Sox hooked up in a classic pitcher's duel in Chicago.

Each hurler allowed only one hit through seven innings and the game was scoreless after eight.

In the ninth, Seaver walked Cal Ripken and Eddie Murray singled. A sacrifice advanced the runners and Ken Singleton was intentionally walked to load the bases.

Gary Roenicke smashed a ball that hit the third-base bag and caromed into left field for a two-run double.

Flanagan, 8-5, allowed two hits and struck out eight in his eight innings, and relievers Sammy Stewart and Tippy Martinez, who got his 11th save, pitched a hitless ninth.

Seaver, 6-6, went the distance, giving up eight hits.

"I can't throw any better, not at my age I can't," said the 39-year-old Seaver.

Blue Jays 9, A's 6

Toronto scored three times in the fifth inning, keyed by Lloyd Moseby's two-run homer, to tie the game 5-5, and then scored three runs in the sixth to go ahead for good.

The A's grabbed a 4-0 lead in the top of the first as Rickey Henderson tripled and scored on Dwayne Murphy's single. Later in the inning, Carney Lansford and Bruce Bochte added RBI singles.

Toronto broke the sixth-inning tie when Damaso Garcia singled home one run. Moseby hit a sacrifice fly and a 7-0 other run scored when Lansford, the third baseman, dropped a popout.

Cliff Johnson drove in two runs, including a solo homer, for Toronto.

Rangers 10-2, Indians 6-7

Rookie Joe Carter, part of a multi-player deal that sent him from the Chicago Cubs to the Indians, got his first look at Cleveland Stadium and the hometown fans liked what they saw.

Carter hit Frank Tanana's first pitch of the nightcap over the left-field fence for his first major-league homer.

"I've given up many a thrill in my career," Tanana said.

The Indians went on to score three more runs in the first inning, two coming on Andre Thornton's 16th homer. Cleveland's Carmen Castillo cracked a two-run homer in the eighth to ensure the Indians' split.

In the opener, Buddy Bell singled and scored as Texas scored five runs in the first inning. Cleveland rallied to go ahead 6-5 in the third, but the Rangers regained the lead for good by scoring four times in the fourth, an outburst that included Bell's tie-breaking, two-run single.

Pitt Delayed; Wayne Wins

SNOW HILL — The final game of the regular season for both Snow Hill and Pitt County was rained out last night and has been rescheduled for Sunday night.

The contest will be played in Snow Hill at 8 p.m. Sunday to wind up the season for the two teams.

Meanwhile, Wayne County rolled up a 7-1 victory over Edenton last night to clinch first place in the regular season standings. Pitt, regardless of the outcome of Sunday's game, will finish second and will begin playoff action on July 5 against the last place team, Edenton. Pitt will host the first, and (if needed) third games of the series, with the second played at Edenton. The winner than advances to face the survivor of the game between the third and sixth place finishers, still to be determined.

'Polite' McEnroe Wins 2nd Match

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — John McEnroe's behavior is watched as closely as his game at Wimbledon.

He received passing grades in both Thursday as he defeated fellow American Rodney Harmon and moved into the third round in defense of his title at the All England Tennis Championships.

McEnroe, the man the British press has called "Super Brat," politely questioned only two calls en route to his 6-1, 6-3, 7-5 victory, and avoided a series of upsets whose victims included No. 4 seed Mats Wilander of Sweden and the fifth woman seed, American Zina Garrison.

No. 2 women's seed Chris Evert Lloyd and fellow American Betsy Nagelsen had their match postponed until today because of two rain delays.

They were to be followed by Scott Davis against Lloyd's estranged husband, John Lloyd, and a match between Ivan Lendl and Rolf Gehring of West Germany.

Carling Bassett and Anne Hobbs were to play on court No. 1, followed by Marty Davis against Jimmy Connors, the No. 3 seed.

Defending women's champion Martina Navratilova was in the second match on court No. 2 against Iva Budarova of Czechoslovakia.

McEnroe, explaining his third-set problems with Harmon, said, "I felt I was in control, but for some reason I stopped returning. I could have been a little tougher, and he might have got lucky or something."

His only behavior problem came after he had left the court. He had a brief but heated debate with British reporters when they sought his comments on complaints by some school teachers about cursing during matches.

Garrison was the victim of the day's most popular upset with the crowd. Former champion Virginia Wade of England, 38 and playing in her 23rd consecutive Wimbledon, won 3-6, 6-4, 7-5. Sixth-seede Kathy Horvath of the United States was eliminated by Bettina Bunge of West Germany 6-0, 6-4.

Wilander, the reigning Australian champion, was beaten by Australian Pat Cash 6-7, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

Chris Lewis of New Zealand and Ndaka Odizor of Nigeria, the underdogs who set Wimbledon ablaze in 1983, were eliminated by two lesser-known players.

India's Ramesh Krishnan beat Lewis, the 1983 runnerup, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3, while Odizor, a unknown who reached the last 16 last year, retired with a wrist injury when trailing in the third set against West Germany's Boris Becker.

Lewis, 27, stunned the tennis world by reaching last year's singles final unseeded. He lost in straight sets to McEnroe.

The New Zealander, unseeded again, got off to an impressive start on Wednesday with a comfortable win over Roland Stadler of Switzerland.

But against Krishnan, he could not find his touch and the dream of another march to the final was abruptly halted.

"You can't predict how you are going to play. If you could, tennis would be a pretty boring sort of game," Lewis said after his defeat.

Asked whether last year's success had acted against him, he replied: "Your expectations of yourself are a little higher but the positive aspects of getting to a Wimbledon final transcend the negative."

"I have not won many matches this year either. Who knows what might have happened if I'd met Ramesh in the second round last year too."

Owens Rips Phils After Loss

By The Associated Press
The Philadelphia Phillies, defending National League champions and co-leaders of the NL East, have not been nearly good enough lately for their manager, Paul Owens.

After the Houston Astros scored six runs in the last two innings for a 7-6 victory over the Phillies, Owens ripped into his team.

"They're in first place and act like they don't want to be there," Owens said. "Have a team buried and give it right back to them. They can't even catch the ball and throw it."

Owens added, "If they don't want to play I'll find someone who does."

Houston outfielder Kevin Bass slugged a two-run double in the ninth off ace reliever Al Holland to bring the Astros victory. Holland, in turn, ripped into Bass.

"I shouldn't let a guy hitting .230 beat me," said Holland.

In other NL games, Atlanta defeated New York 5-3, San Francisco went 11 innings in downing Pittsburgh 4-3, San Diego outscored St. Louis 7-3 and Chicago topped Los Angeles 5-3.

Bass hit a long foul off a Holland fastball before his game-winning. He said he was out in front of the fastball and "decided to stay back and wait for the pitch to come to me."

"It was a curveball and I got it good," said Bass.

"I got beat with my second-best pitch and you shouldn't get beat with your second-best pitch," raved Holland, 4-4. "It was a good pitch, down."

Owens said the loss "wasn't all the pitchers' fault, but they weren't any gems either."

Houston scored four runs in the eighth off Bill Campbell, who inherited a 6-1 lead from Philadelphia starter Jerry Koosman. Terry Puhl's bases-loaded single and right fielder Sixto Lezcano's error on the play scored three runs.

Holland relieved Campbell and allowed Puhl to score on Jerry Mumphrey's pinch-single.

Reliever Bill Dawley, 5-4, Houston's fourth pitcher, was the winner.

Juan Samuel gave Philadelphia a 1-0 lead in the first inning against Houston starter Vern Rühle when he scored on an error by Houston shortstop Bill Doran. The Astros tied the score in the fourth when Puhl was hit by a Koosman pitch with the bases loaded.

The Phillies regained the lead in the fourth on Samuel's sixth home run of the season.

They boosted it to 3-1 in the fifth on a double by Mike Schmidt and Tim Lincecum's RBI single. Kiko Garcia was running for Schmidt, who re-injured a leg muscle pull on his double.

Philadelphia added three runs in the sixth. Jeff Stone singled in Ivan DeJesus, and Von Hayes singled in Samuel and Stone.

Giants 4, Pirates 3

Steve Nicosia, who had homered earlier in the game, stung his former teammates with a game-winning double in the bottom of the 11th inning.

Pittsburgh tied the score in the top of the ninth on a two-out single by pinch hitter Johnny Ray that drove in Bill Madlock, who had started the inning with a single and taken second on a fly.

Nicosia, who hit only one home run in five years at Pittsburgh before coming to the Giants last year, put San Francisco ahead 2-1 in the sixth when he smacked his second homer of the season.

"I'm starting to make the most of every opportunity I get," said Nicosia, a back-up catcher with a .348 batting average. "Mentally, this is the sharpest I've been in a long time."

Padres 7, Cardinals 3

Steve Garvey smacked three hits and scored three runs and Alan Wiggins added three hits to a 15-hit San Diego attack. Garvey, who now has a 10-game hitting streak over which he is hitting .432, thinks his stroke is back.

"It took a little longer than I thought it would to get my timing back because of the layoff," said Garvey, who sat out the final two months of 1983 with a broken thumb. "I've never had a layoff that long but my timing is finally coming back."

Padres Manager Dick Williams said his recent decision to move Garvey from the cleanup position to the number three spot in the order has also helped.

"It got Garvey going like a house of fire," Williams said.

Mark Thurmond, 5-3, went 6 1-3 innings before needing relief help from Luis DeLeon and Goose Gosage to nail down the victory, the fifth for the home club in six games.

Lonnie Smith accounted for all the Cardinals' runs with a solo homer in the first inning and a two-run double in the seventh off DeLeon.

Braves 5, Mets 3

Craig McMurtry rapped three hits, including an RBI triple, and scored once while raising his record to 6-8.

McMurtry said he was glad to get his confidence going after losing his last two decisions.

"Anytime a pitcher has trouble — and I have been for the last month or so — your confidence gets a little down," McMurtry said. "But I got the win. I threw decent. Maybe I'm through it now."

McMurtry left the game with one out in the ninth and runners on first and third. Jeff Dedmon allowed an RBI single to Wally Backman, but finished up for his fourth save.

Alex Trevino hit his first home run of the season to snap a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning and help hand his former teammates their third straight loss. The game was delayed twice by rain in New York.

Cubs 5, Dodgers 3

At Dodger Stadium, an error by first baseman Mike Marshall led to two unearned Chicago runs and enabled the Cubs to break a 3-3 tie in the sixth inning and post their third straight victory.

Ryne Sandberg led off the Cubs' sixth with his 11th home run. Two outs later, with the bases loaded and the score tied, Chicago starter Steve Trout, 8-3, grounded to shortstop Dave Anderson. Anderson threw to first, but Marshall, attempting a sweeping tag of Trout, lost the ball and two runs scored.

Stars Open USFL Playoffs Against Troublesome Foe

By The Associated Press
The Philadelphia Stars, owners of the best record in the United States Football League regular season, open the playoffs this weekend against the only team that beat them this year.

The Stars, 16-2 and the Atlantic Division champions, play host Saturday to the New Jersey Generals, 14-4, the wild-card entry from the Atlantic.

New Jersey handed the Stars both of their losses this season — 17-14 on March 12 in New Jersey and 16-10 last Sunday in Philadelphia.

Last week's game was a "legitimate preview of the playoffs," said Generals quarterback Brian Sipe.

"Philadelphia showed us everything they had and we showed them everything we had," Sipe said. "We have to play well, there is no question about that. But this is a team that has played well when it's had to all season long."

The other Eastern Division playoff game will be Sunday when Tampa Bay visits Birmingham. In Western Division playoff games, defending champion Michigan is at Los Angeles on Saturday and Arizona plays in Houston on Sunday.

The Western title game will be July 7, the Eastern title game is July 8 and the USFL championship game will be July 15 in Tampa.

Even though Philadelphia has Chuck Fusina, the top-rated quarterback in the USFL, and running back Kelvin Bryant, second in the league with 1,406 yards, and the Generals have Sipe, ranked fourth, and running back Herschel Walker, who gained 1,339 yards, the outcome may center on defense.

The Stars, who reached the USFL title game last season before losing to Michigan, are ranked second overall in defense while the Generals are fourth.

In their game last Sunday before 37,758 fans in Veterans Stadium — the largest home crowd of the season for the Stars — New Jersey led 6-0 after three quarters. Walker then caught a 50-yard touchdown pass from Sipe for the Generals' clinching touchdown.

"It's going to be hard to come up with an answer to the Stars' defense," Walker said. "I don't think there's a psychological advantage for either team because these are the playoffs."

Michigan, 10-8 and a wild-card entry from the Central Division, will be in the Los Angeles Coliseum to take on the Express, 10-8, and their talented rookie quarterback Steve Young.

The Express, the Pacific Division champion, defeated the Panthers 24-17 in May in Los Angeles as Young passed for two touchdowns.

"I can attest to the ability of Steve Young probably better than anybody else because I missed him more times than anybody," said Michigan defensive end John Banaszak, a nine-year pro. "He has a unique, distinctive ability to duck underneath the pass rush. But his best asset, as far as I'm concerned, is his ability to get out of the pocket and run for the first down."

A victory for Los Angeles, however, could present some scheduling problems. In the event Arizona beats Houston and Los Angeles wins, the Express would have the home-field advantage for the Western title game.

But the Coliseum, where Los Angeles plays, along with the Rose Bowl and Anaheim Stadium are all booked for July 7, and the Express might have to play the game in Arizona.

Arizona, 10-8, clinched the wild-card spot in the Pacific by winning its last four games. Houston, 13-5, won the Central and became the only expansion team to make the playoffs.

"I'm so proud of this club," said Arizona Coach George Allen, who has taken teams to the playoffs during nine of his 14 years as a coach with the Los Angeles Rams and Washington Redskins of the National Football League and the Wranglers and last year's Chicago Blitz in the USFL. "We'd been written off and our season was called a disaster. But we bounced back every time."

Houston quarterback Jim Kelly rolled up impressive numbers as a rookie — completing 63 percent of his passes for 5,219 yards and 44 touchdowns. His passing helped the Gamblers rank No. 1 in the USFL in offense.

The Wranglers take the top-rated defense in the USFL into the game at the Astrodome, where Houston beat Arizona 37-24 in April.

Arizona has the top two ground-gainers in the West — Tim Spencer, with 1,212 yards, and Kevin Long, with 1,010.

Tampa Bay and Birmingham met twice this season. Last Sunday, visiting Tampa Bay beat the Stallions 17-16. In March in Tampa, Birmingham beat the Bandits 27-9.

Birmingham and Tampa Bay each finished at 14-4 and the Stallions won the Southern Division while the Bandits got the wild-card spot. Birmingham won the home-field advantage, even though the Stallions were 9-0 on the road this season and just 5-4 at Legion Field.

Local Skaters Take Places

Kristan and Angie Michel of Greenville took placements in the 1984 Southeastern Regional Roller Speed Skating championships held in Lowell Sunday through Thursday.

Kristan, skating for High Point Speed Skating Club, placed second in the sophomore ladies division; first in the sophomore four-mixed relay with partners Cami Bond, Mark Agner and Scott Hiatt; first in the sophomore four-lady relay with Lori Gibson, Tyra Haily and Jenny Tackett; and second in the sophomore two-mixed relay with Hiatt.

Angie, skating for Sportsworld of Clemmons, captured first place in the senior ladies division; first place in the senior four-mixed relay with Linda S. Hilbert, Joel Rogers and Mike Auman; second in senior two-mixed relay with Rogers; and second in senior four-lady relay with Hilbert, Michelle Termotto and Cynthia Bullock.

The Michels will represent the Southeastern Region at the 1984 Roller Speed Staking National Championships in Lincoln, Neb., on August 5-9. They will also travel to Colorado Springs, Colo., in the fall for a week of training at the U.S. Olympic Training Center.

Michael Sutton tossed a two-hitter at Wellcome as Carroll & Associates gained a 5-1 victory in the Tar Heel Little League yesterday.

Carroll & Associates got the winning runs in the fourth inning, scoring twice to break a 0-0 tie. Toure Claibourne reached on a one-out single and stole second. He moved to third on an error and scored on Char Adams' infield out. Hank Thompson walked and moved up on a wild pitch. He scored when Michael Sutton singled.

C&A added three more runs in the fifth while Wellcome got its lone run in the top of the fifth.

Joel Daughtry led the C&A hitting with two. No one else on either team had more than one.

Sportsworld 11
Lions 0

Tim Moore and Kelvin Yarell ripped three-run homers and Tye Fickling added a solo shot to lead Sportsworld to an 11-0 win over Lions in North State Little League baseball action.

Sportsworld clinched the league championship with the victory.

Jamie Brewington started on the mound for Sportsworld and combined with Moore and Jason Wing for a one-hitter.

Moore, Brewington and Fickling went 2-3 at the plate for Sportsworld, while Ledowick Johnson went 2-4.

Moore's homer followed a single by Johnson and a base on balls to Wing in the first inning.

Fickling ripped a leadoff homer in the second, and Yarell drove in Johnson and Brewington after one out.

WHEN KINGS DIFFER!

AMAZIAH KING OF JUDAH (II CHRON. 25) IN THE TWELFTH YEAR OF HIS REIGN, WENT TO WAR WITH THE EDMUTES! NOT SATISFIED WITH HIS OWN ARMY'S STRENGTH, HE HIRED A HUNDRED THOUSAND SOLDIERS FROM THE KINGDOM OF ISRAEL, BUT THEN HE SENT THEM BACK TO THEIR OWN COUNTRY BECAUSE SOME OF THE PEOPLE OF THE NORTHERN KINGDOM (ISRAEL) WERE TAINTED BY IDOLATRY. NOW, WHILE AMAZIAH WAS CONQUERING THE EDMUTES, THESE ISRAELITES, WHO HAD BEEN DISMISSED IN RESENTMENT, PLUNDERED SEVERAL OF THE TOWNS OF JUDAH ON THE HOMEWARD MARCH. THE VICTORY OVER THE EDMUTES ACTUALLY WAS THE RUIN OF AMAZIAH! HAVING JUST WAGED A SUCCESSFUL WAR, AMAZIAH DECIDED TO CHASTISE HIS BROTHERS IN ISRAEL FOR THEIR BEHAVIOR ON THEIR HOMEWARD MARCH!

HE SENT A MESSENGER TO THE KING OF ISRAEL (JOASH) CHALLENGING HIM TO WAR. BUT JOASH CAUTIONED AMAZIAH TO LEAVE WELL ENOUGH ALONE OR A CATASTROPHE MIGHT OCCUR IF HE EVER MET THE ISRAELITE ARMY ON THE FIELD OF BATTLE!!

TELL AMAZIAH... WHY SHOULD YOU SPOIL THE VICTORY OVER THE EDMUTES, AND FALL BEFORE MY ARMY? (174)

Today's Cryptquip clue: I equals M

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

In the semifinals of the trials to select the U.S. representatives for the 1984 World Team Olympiad, the eventual winners, a team led by Malcolm Brachman of Dallas, met a group from the San Francisco area. This was one of their early triumphs.

The San Francisco team arrived at a contract of four no trump after South rejected a slam invitation. West led his fourth-best club, declarer played low from dummy and captured East's 10 with the ace. He cashed the ace-king of diamonds and led the jack of spades.

West won the ace and continued with a low club, and now declarer's nine of clubs came to haunt him. The Rule of Restricted Choice states that, if East held both the jack and 10 of clubs, he could have played either card. When he plays one, he tends to deny possession of the other. Also, declarer was safe no matter which card he played from dummy if West had started with a five-card suit.

After some thought, South played low from the table. East won the 10 of clubs and returned the suit and the defense had netted four tricks — three clubs and a spade. Note that without the nine clubs declarer would have had no option but to take the winning position in clubs.

At the other table, the Brachman team reached six no trump. Had a club been led, declarer would have had only one play from the board — the queen. However, it is usually not sound policy against a slam to lead from a king up to the strong hand, so West chose a heart. That gave declarer all the time he needed to unblock the diamonds and get to dummy with the spade queen to take 12 tricks. The Brachman team gained 17 International Match Points on the deal.

First Miss N.C. Winners Chosen

RALEIGH (AP) — Patricia Ida O'Quinn, Miss Spivey's Corner, and Amanda Leigh Goodwin, Miss Aberdeen, were the first preliminary winners Wednesday in the opening round of the 46th annual Miss North Carolina pageant.

Miss O'Quinn, 23, of Goldsboro, won the talent competition with a classical jazz dance routine. She was third runner-up in the 1983 pageant.

Miss Goodwin, 18, of Southern Pines, won the swimsuit competition.

The 1984 pageant concludes Saturday night with the crowning of Miss North Carolina 1984.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime is best utilized by attending to home and family chores as well as getting your property in better shape for the days ahead, while the evening finds you able to make plans.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get those duties handled at home which can improve conditions there, and tonight find the entertainment you like.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Morning is fine for shopping for whatever is needed, and tonight you can entertain good friends at home.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can handle both small and large financial affairs that are important to your welfare. Keep good records.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Handle personal duties early so that tonight you can be with a monetary expert and get the advice you need.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You can devise a better plan for the days ahead if you get advice from a new source; then tonight be off to the social side of life.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get into those activities impossible to handle during busy work week. State your desires to good friends and gain their assistance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get any civic work done while the Sun shines and you get fine results. Drive wisely. Tonight is fine for personal affairs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Seek some new outlet you can delve into during the day, but tonight go after the recreation you like.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Important you run errands for your mate and maintain harmony. Later, you can get into new outlets.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Although you want to reach a better understanding with a partner, be tactful for best results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Early plan how to handle your tasks better and then be out in public and gain more esteem. Be tactful.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You may find it hard to get entertainment arranged in the morning, but be kind with others. Pay any bills you can today.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have to be taught very early in life to be objective in dealing with others and thereby gain their cooperation, otherwise subjectivity could cause your progeny much loss and pain. A lover of sports here.

NEA Says School Reforms Needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's largest teachers union issued a task force report today urging that public schools be "totally restructured" to meet the needs of tomorrow's students.

The report by the National Education Association's Blue Ribbon Task Force on Educational Excellence established a year ago consisted mainly of a lengthy laundry list of suggested educational reforms, including better teaching conditions and sharply higher starting salaries of $24,000 to attract better people into the profession.

The 18-page report, "An Open Letter to America On Schools, Students, and Tomorrow," was to be released today at a news conference in Minneapolis, two days before the 1.6 million-member teachers union begins a four-day annual meeting on Sunday in that city.

NEA President Mary Hatwood Futrell said in the introduction to the report that "all the many national reports on education released so far have lacked one critically important element: the perspective of the men and women who teach and serve our nation's young people."

The report offers the union's hoped-for vision of schools in a lengthy section, "Education in the Year 2001." Education will start earlier, it said. New technology will enhance learning, but books, discussions, lab experiments, writing and lectures will still play major roles in learning. Adults will return to school and view learning as a lifelong activity.

Teachers themselves will be held "rigorously accountable," and "only the most talented will be allowed to teach."

"Decisions about instruction will be made at the school level and not by bureaucracies in state system central offices or state capitals," the report added.

And, "Education will be a prime national concern...The federal government will become a full partner with states and local communities and contribute its fair share to the funding of public education."

To achieve that optimistic vision of the schoolhouse in the 21st Century, the union's report urged a number of broad steps be taken immediately:

— Teacher salaries should be based on those of comparable professions. Starting salaries should increase to $24,000 — about $10,000 above the current average. The union said it remained opposed to merit pay plans or any other compensation plan that did not include across-the-board teacher salary hikes.

— Ensure teacher competency. "We are tired of excuses from school officials. They must start implementing evaluation programs. No tenure law prevents a school district from evaluating teachers and administrators," said the report. But it said that there is "not enough reliable research" on how best to judge a teacher's competence, and promised the union would study the question further.

— Teacher training should be improved. Teacher colleges must be more selective, and candidates should have to demonstrate strong grounding in liberal arts and a teaching specialty.

Greenville Residents Visit Poland

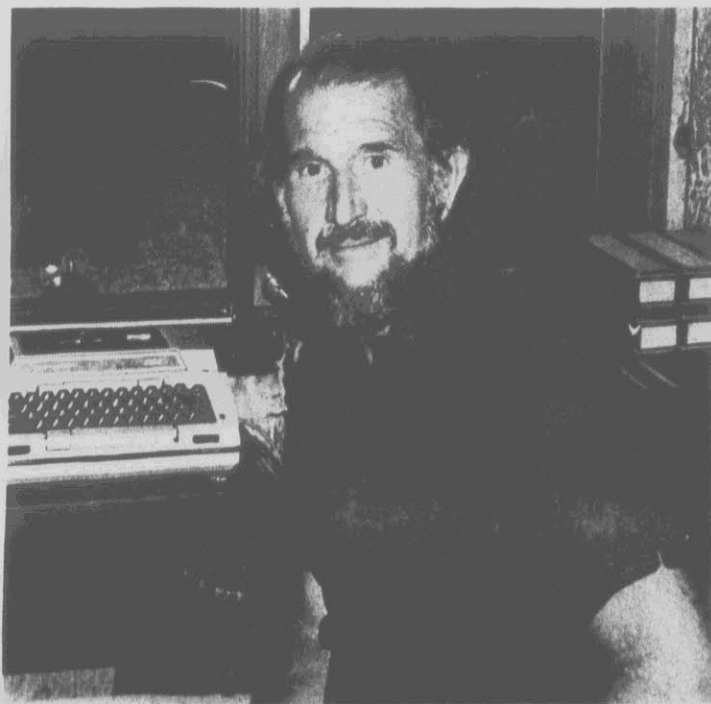

Friendship Ambassadors Gain Insight

FAVORITE SITE ... J.B. and Esther Newman visited many sites in Poland, but the salt mines were a favorite. The two salt crystals below were gifts from a miner.

Friendship Force ambassadors carried identification cards written in Polish so they could introduce themselves to people along the way.

As the saying goes, "seeing is believing," and the five Greenville residents who participated in the Friendship Force's first mission to Poland received a bird's-eye view of a communist country.

A non-profit organization originated by former Presbyterian minister Wayne Smith of Atlanta, the Friendship Force, according to a prepared statement, seeks to "promote peace and mutual understanding" through international citizen ("ambassador") exchanges.

Schedules and plans for each trip are always made months in advance, and the May 14-27 Poland venture was no exception. For example, a two-day workshop which included everything from ethnic films to traditional food was held in April for those selected as ambassadors.

The $1,395 trip fee covered transportation, two daily meals, and hotel and specific tour costs for two days in East and West Berlin, four days each in Warsaw and Krakow, and a day each in Vienna and Munich.

Zdzislaw Pawlik, general secretary of the Polish Ecumenical Council, served as the Friendship Force director in Warsaw, while Sue Yarger, a private English tutor, was the North Carolina exchange director.

Among the 81 North Carolinian ambassadors were J.B. and Esther Newman, Ralph Steele, and Tom and Peg Haigwood. The observations they brought home reveal that, where Poland is concerned, there's more to it than meets the eye.

The trip was a first for the Newmans, who had not previously participated in a Friendship Force mission. According to Mrs. Newman, "After expressing our interest in the exchange, a person from the organization came to interview us. Some of the questions were, 'Are you able to carry your own luggage?' and 'Are you able to walk a couple of miles comfortably?'" Such inquiries alerted potential travelers to the rigors of the trip.

"After J.B. and I arrived in Poland," she said, "we made many curious observations.

"Things are a lot different there," she continued. "We saw people doing manual field labor and farming with outdated plows, not automatic machines or even tractors. Also, so much is rationed, and people have to stand in endless lines to obtain items taken for granted in the United States. For instance, we were told to carry such things as toothpaste, razors and aspirin for gifts."

Ambassadors avoid discussing politics because their purpose is to make friends, not evaluate governments. Mrs. Newman said this "in no way made her feel limited or fearful." There was occasionally that "ears in the walls" feeling, she said, but as her husband reminded: "This is to be expected — Poland is, after all, a communist nation."

The Newmans said they were most surprised at the kindness of the Polish people. "They were open-hearted and very glad to welcome us," Mrs. Newman said. "While Poland is similar to Russia, the Poles are just so much friendlier. They have nice attitudes about ... their way of life, although it is somewhat harsh and inhibited. When you compare Poland and America, we in America have so many more privileges, yet we really aren't as thankful as we need to be."

Steele, asked if his expectations of Poland were realized, said: "I saw what I thought I'd see, but what I didn't expect was the extremes. The Polish are indeed oppressed in many ways, yet their spirit is remarkably high."

One highlight of the trip, Steele said, "was seeing a Polish teen-ager wearing a University of North Carolina sweatshirt, although the shirt was solid red."

"I went up and showed him my Friendship Force card with North Carolina on it and then pointed to his shirt to show the relationship," Steele said, adding, "he was delighted, and we exchanged addresses."

"Despite the differences in culture, people are pretty much the same everywhere, and I enjoy finding similarities," Steele explained. "For example, the people from Warsaw (N.C.) sent a ham to the host families in Warsaw, Poland. The gift was put in a backpack with both the English and Polish words for 'hey,' and the spelling was nearly alike."

Something that is often similar worldwide is children's art work, and Steele was given some paintings done by Polish youngsters. "In Poland, art is seen as a skill rather than a form of expression," Steele said. "The paintings I have were done by the Freinet method, which teaches students to use art as an outlet for feelings ... this type of instruction has now been suppressed."

Steele said his most sobering experience was visiting the concentration camp in Auschwitz where many Poles were killed during World War II. "It was a funny feeling seeing where so many people had been murdered," he said. "Above the gate of the camp were the words 'Through Work We Become Free.' The people were given false hopes ... for a short time. Seeing the camp makes one aware of the evil that can exist in the world."

The Haigwoods had traveled to both China and Russia before going to Poland so they had background for comparison. As the Newmans and Steele pointed out, the friendly people in Poland made the difference. "Our hosts were extremely generous," Haigwood said. "They enjoyed serving meals, for example, that included rationed foods such as meat."

Mrs. Haigwood said the Poles loved to show off their apartments. "They have to wait a long time to get a place to live unless they're privileged," Mrs. Haigwood explained, "so their homes are a great source of pride to them."

Haigwood said that the Polish "are very proud people." He told about having a maid do some laundry for him. "She did a very good job," he said, "and I gave her the equivalent of two dollars. Because she felt she hadn't earned that much money just by washing a pair of pants, she insisted upon scrubbing the bathtub (in the hotel room) in order to deserve her pay."

Money talks, but it apparently speaks many languages. The American dollar, for instance, is more valued in Poland than native currency. Haigwood said "the black market is big business, and illegal exchange rates make American money a prized item." He said people would "come up to you on the street and offer to change your money for you. The openness of it all really surprised us."

Some Poles are able to follow the American political scene through radio programs and other sources. The Haigwoods said they visited a college professor who told them, "If we (Poland) had a president like Reagan, we wouldn't be in so much trouble."

Mrs. Haigwood said despite all the touring and excitement the trip provided, interacting with the host families made the mission extra special for the American participants. "They (the Poles) could hardly believe we had come all that way just to get to know them ... and it was the development of lasting friendships that made it all worthwhile."

POLISH PAINTINGS ... Ralph Steele became friends with a Polish art instructor while touring with the Friendship Force. The instructor presented him some of her students' paintings, which were done using the Freinet technique.

SOUVENIR DOLLS ... Peg and Tom Haigwood have enjoyed collecting travel souvenirs over the years. The dolls below were given to them by Polish friends for the Haigwood's children.
