Court Rules Judges May Override Jury

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judges have the power to impose death sentences for convicted murderers after juries recommend life in prison as the appropriate punishment, the Supreme Court ruled today.

The court, by a 6-3 vote, upheld the death sentence of Florida death row inmate Joseph Spaziano, convicted of the 1973 murder of a woman whose mutilated body was left in a city dump.

"There is no constitutional imperative that a jury have the responsibility of deciding whether the death penalty should be imposed," Justice Harry A. Blackmun wrote for the court.

"If a judge may be vested with the sole responsibility for imposing the death penalty (as in five states) then there is nothing constitutionally wrong with the judge's exercising that responsibility after receiving the advice of the jury," Blackmun said.

A jury voted to keep Spaziano behind bars for the rest of his life, but the trial judge disregarded the jury's recommendation and imposed a death sentence.

Florida's death penalty law, like those in Alabama and Indiana, allows a trial judge to override a jury's recommended sentence in capital cases. In Florida alone, 82 of the some 200 men and women on death row were sentenced to die by judges after juries recommended life sentences.

In five states, judges — not juries — do the sentencing in all capital cases. They are Arizona, Idaho, Montana, Nebraska and Oregon, according to papers submitted in Spaziano's case.

Spaziano's lawyer, public defender Craig Bernard of West Palm Beach, Fla., had told the justices that juries must participate in capital punishment decisions.

Justices Strike Editorial Barrier

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public radio and television stations receiving federal aid may not be barred from airing editorials, the Supreme Court said today.

By a 5-4 vote, the court said a federal law imposing such a ban violates freedom of expression protected by the Constitution's First Amendment.

The court rejected Reagan administration arguments that the law is a permissible restriction on government-funded broadcast outlets. The administration had maintained that courts should not judge attempted government restrictions on broadcasters as stringently as attempted restrictions on publications.

Today's case stemmed from a challenge in 1979 by the Pacifica Foundation, which owns several non-commercial stations. The foundation was supported by the League of Women Voters of California and Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif.

The Public Broadcasting Act of 1967 banned all public — or non-commercial — television and radio stations from airing editorials. In 1981, Congress narrowed the law's scope so it applied only to those public stations receiving federal money.

ECU Trustees Re-Elect Kinsey Board Chairman

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

BEAUFORT — The East Carolina University Board of Trustees met at the Duke Marine Laboratory in Beaufort Sunday for a regular business meeting, then took an orientation cruise aboard the research vessel Cape Hatteras.

The ship is operated by a consortium of schools including ECU, Duke University, N.C. State University, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and UNC-Wilmington.

Ralph Kinsey Jr. of Charlotte was re-elected chairman of the board at the meeting, as were Vice Chairman James H. Maynard of Raleigh, and Secretary Roy D. Flood of Murfreesboro.

In a report to the board, Chancellor John Howell said ECU has fared well in the amount of new money appropriated by the General Assembly in current short session, which is expected to end this week.

Howell reported that unless unexpected changes are made, ECU will receive $720,700 for roof repairs to academic buildings and a fire protection system for the university's computer center, $1.62 million to complete renovation of Wright Building, $250,000 to purchase property on 10th Street, $14.6 million for a new classroom building, a 10 percent pay raise for faculty and staff, $600,000 to restore operating funds for the medical school which were cut by legislative action last year, and $1.8 for a nuclear magnetic resonance device for the school of medicine.

"All in all, I think we have done very well. It's a nice bit of money and we feel very good about it," Howell said.

Dr. William Laupus, vice chancellor and dean of the medical school, said the NMR device will be used for diagnostic and research purposes. He said the device produces a "large magnetic field" which allows diagnostic studies of "diseases of the nurvous system" and high water content organs such as the heart and liver.

Laupus said the medical school will provide the estimated $1 million needed to fund a building to house the NMR device.

Dr. Stan Riggs, a member of the geology department faculty, briefed the trustees before the orientation cruise.

Riggs said ECU "is an equal partner" in the "major consortium" that operates the $4.5 million research ship, which is owned by the National Science Foundation.

The Hatteras, built in 1981, is one of more than 30 research ships owned by the NSF and is "one of the

Factory Orders Reverse Declines

WASHINGTON (AP) — Orders to U.S. factories rose 1.9 percent in May, rebounding from a sharp decline the month before, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said new orders increased $3.5 billion to a total of $193.2 billion, following a 3.4 percent decline in April.

The May improvement was a result of strong gains in orders for durable goods — products expected to last three or more years. Orders for nondurable manufactured goods suffered a slight decline.

Orders for durable goods increased 3.8 percent in May, the department said. This was an upward revision from a preliminary report that put the increase at 3.3 percent.

The 3.8 percent jump was the largest gain since a 7.4 percent rise in June 1983.

College Must Wait For Gift

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Tougaloo College, a private liberal arts school, is waiting to find out whether its latest donation will help it win, place or show in its race for financing.

Tougaloo has been promised 10 percent of the winnings of a horse of the same name owned by Landon Knight of Akron, Ohio, whose family has long been benefactors of the college.

"We are hoping for big things for the horse because it means big things for Tougaloo College," said John Williams, the school's director of development. "We've never had a gift of this nature."

The 1-year-old horse will begin racing in the fall. The school's earnings will begin in 1986, when Tougaloo turns 3.

Wreck Kills Two Children, Injures Five Other People

Two children died in a two-car collision Sunday about 5.8 miles north of Greenville on N.C. 11, and their mother and sister were critically injured.

The Highway Patrol said Collissa Revonda Brown, 14, and Lamont Christopher Brown, 12, died when cars driven by their mother, Mary Alice Grimes Brown, 39, of Colonial Trailer Park, and Jesse Clarence Palmer, 31, of Route 1, Bethel, collided about 12:15 a.m. Their sister, Shanna Brown, 7, was critically injured, as was Mrs. Brown. All four were reportedly in the front seat.

A kitten found in the car survived.

Investigators said the Brown car, headed south, skidded in a curve during a rain and was struck in the side by the northbound Palmer vehicle.

Two passengers in the Palmer car, Roy Lee Andrews of Route 1, Bethel, and Ernest Lee Pratt, and Palmer himself were reported injured in the collision which demolished both vehicles. Palmer and Andrews were hospitalized, but Pratt, who was in the back seat, was not.

Officials said the two dead children were trapped in the front seat of the Brown car and members of the Greenville Fire-Rescue Department had to use power tools to free them.

Trooper Spencer Padgett, the investigating officer, said he was told that Mrs. Brown and her children were returning home after visiting an aunt in Bethel when the accident occurred.

Investigation is continuing, Padgett said.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

If you have always envied your friends who knit or crochet beautiful afghans, but you have neither the skills nor the time to do the same, here's your chance to be the talk of the town with this stunning Swedish Weave afghan! If you can thread a needle, you can quickly learn the simple skills needed to create this exciting home accessory.

All you need is 2 yards of monk's cloth, a tapestry needle, a simple design chart and five skeins of variegated Wintuk yarn.

To obtain directions for making the Swedish Weave afghan, send your request for Leaflet No. WL-0701 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler (The Daily Reflector), P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29597.

Or you may order Kit No. W-0701 by sending a check or money order for $27 to Pat Trexler at the same address. Each kit contains instructions and all necessary materials for making the afghan, with shipping charges included. The designer's choice of Mexican fiesta colors will be sent unless you prefer blue tones or autumn leaf tones.

If you can thread a needle and follow a simple design chart, you can quickly learn Swedish weaving, which is also known as Swedish darning or huck weaving. In fact, you may remember having worked this type of design as a child on a fabric known as huck toweling.

Huck toweling is a cotton or cotton blend fabric with raised vertical threads called floats. On huck fabric, you do the weaving with embroidery floss. On the more loosely woven monk's cloth, which is used for the afghan featured today, knitting yarns are used.

If you plan to order the leaflet or kit offered with today's column, you will receive all of the necessary instructions. If not, I suggest you clip and save this column so you can later try a Swedish weaving project on your own.

To prepare the fabric, particularly the loosely woven monk's cloth, turn under and hem any cut edges to prevent raveling. If you are making a garment, it is probably a good idea to wash the fabric before starting to weave in case it has not been preshrunk.

Whenever possible, it is preferable to cut your yarn long enough to complete a full row at one time. The amount of yarn needed for a row will vary according to the type of design. If your instructions do not give you this information, you will have to experiment to determine the necessary length. As a general rule, your yarn will need to be 1 1/2 to 2 times the width of your fabric.

The first row of your pattern should be started in the center of the fabric. Thread a tapestry needle with your yarn and pass the needle under the center float. Pull the yarn up so that half of it is to the left of the float and the other half is to the right of it.

Follow the design chart and weave the needle under the floats, working from right to left. Try to keep a smooth, even tension; do not pull the yarn tight or your work will pucker.

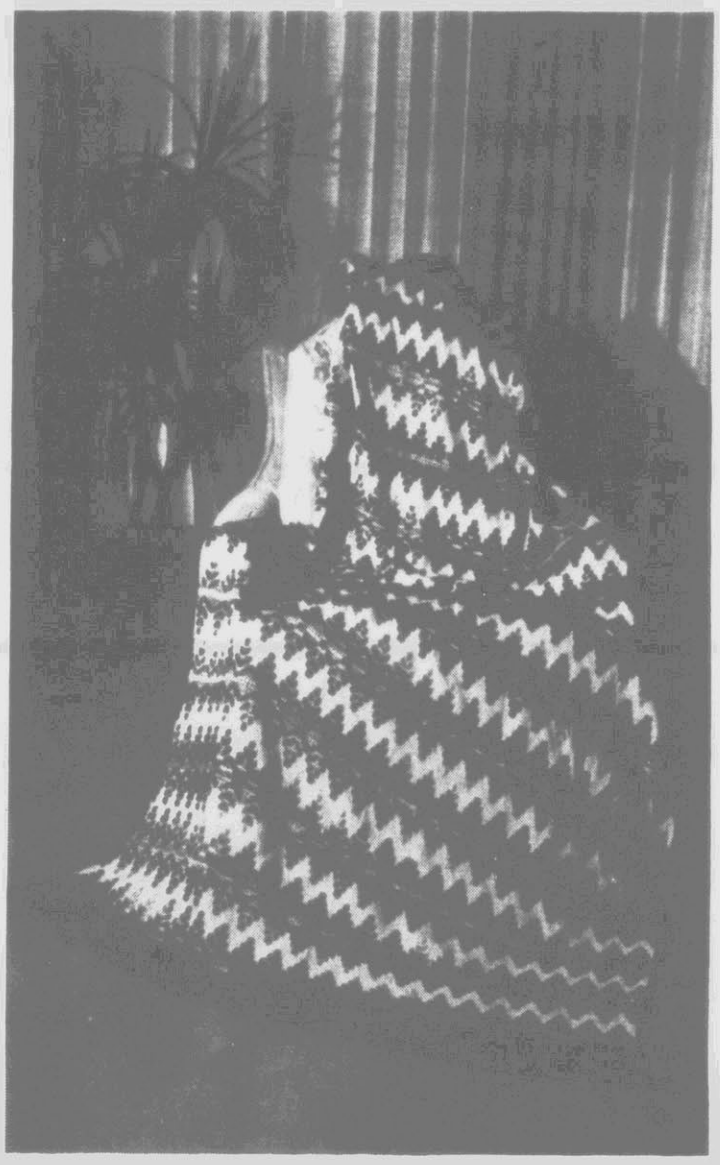

At the end of the row, pull the needle off the yarn and thread it again with the other end of the yarn strand, which you left at the center of your work. Turn your work around and again work from right to left, thus completing the row.

Subsequent rows may be started at the right edge if you are working on a small project. On a wide piece, such as an afghan, however, you probably will find the yarn length more manageable when you start every row in the center.

If you can manage to use just one long strand all across a row, the loose ends can be secured under the hem you will make on the side edges when the piece is completed. Or, if the item is to be lined, loose ends can be woven under floats on the wrong side. If neither of these methods is suitable for your project, you can carefully weave in the loose ends at the beginning and end of rows on the right side of the fabric.

("Pat's Pointers: The Needlepoint Handbook" by Pat Trexler has organized needlework instructions for easy crafting for beginners and veterans alike with a host of patterns to please every needlework enthusiast. To order this 200-page book, send $8.95 plus $1 postage and handling to "Pat's Pointers Needlepoint Handbook," in care of this newspaper, 4400 Johnson Drive, Fairway, Kan. 66205. Please make checks payable to Universal Press Syndicate.)

Double Ring Ceremony Takes Place

Trillis Holloway Hair and William Taylor Baker Jr. were married in a double ring ceremony Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Piney Grove Free Will Baptist Church in Greenville.

The Rev. Allan Sterbin officiated at the private ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Franklin Holloway of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor Baker Sr. of Farmville.

The bride wore a white street-length dress. The sleeveless dress had a blouson bodice with a gathered waist and flared skirt. She wore a white silk floral headpiece complemented with white satin ribbon streamers.

Terry Peaden Carraway of Grimesland was honor attendant. The father of the bridegroom was best man.

Wendy Ann Worthington of Greenville was pianist.

A reception was given by the bride's parents in the church fellowship hall.

Debra Elaine Kirkman of Greenville poured punch and Shelly Elaine Butler of Stokes served cake.

The bride is a graduate of D.H. Conley High School and the bridegroom is a graduate of Farmville Central High School. He is employed by Collins and Aikman in Farmville.

After a wedding trip the couple will live in Greenville.

Bridge winners

Mrs. Sibyl Basart and Mrs. Charles Mitchell were first place winners in the Wednesday morning game played at Planters Bank. Their percentage was .671.

Others placing were Mrs. Stuart Page and Mrs. Sidney Skinner, second; Mrs. J.W.H. Roberts and Mrs. George Martin, third; Mrs. Jeanette Callahan and Mrs. John McConney, fourth.

North-South first place winners Wednesday morning were Mrs. Beulah Eagles and Emma B. Warren, with .571 percent; Mrs. J.S. Rhodes Jr. and Mrs. Roger Critcher Jr., second; Mrs. J.M. Horton and Ray Neeland, third.

East-West: Mrs. Robert Barnhill and Mrs. Joyce Lamm, first with .598 percent; Mrs. George Martin and Frank Goins, second; Mrs. Ray Gunderson and Mrs. El Bass, third.

A charity club championship game for the benefit of the Mental Health Association of Pitt County was played Saturday afternoon. Winners included: Mrs. Ed Bass and Mrs. Chris Langley, first with .519 percent; Mrs. Harold Forbes and Mrs. Effie Williams, second; Dr. and Mrs. Charles Duffy, third; Mrs. J.W.H. Roberts and Dave Proctor, fourth; Mrs. Stuart Page and Mrs. Sidney Skinner, fifth; Mrs. B.B. Tayloe and Mrs. Clifton Toler, sixth.

Games will be played Wednesday morning and afternoon, July 4.

Bridal Policy

A black and white glossy five by seven photograph is requested for engagement announcements in The Daily Reflector. For publication in a Sunday edition, the information must be submitted by 12 noon on the preceding Wednesday. Engagement pictures must be released at least three weeks prior to the wedding date. After three weeks, only an announcement will be printed.

Wedding write-ups will be printed through the first week with a one column picture. During the second week, a one column picture will be used with a write-up giving less description and after the second week, just as an announcement.

Wedding forms and pictures should be returned to The Daily Reflector one week prior to the date of the wedding. All information should be typed or written neatly.

Secretaries Hear Guest Speaker

The Greenville Chapter of Professional Secretaries International held its meeting last week at Western Sizzlin. Carol-Ann Tucker was guest speaker.

She is associate director of the East Carolina Regional Training Center and spoke on stress management.

President Jo Gillan conducted the meeting which included the adoption of the 1984-85 budget. Committee assignments have been made and plans are under way for the chapter sponsored workshop, Future Secretaries Association meetings at Pitt Community College and other education programs.

Renee Brown was named winner of the chapter's $300 scholarship.

Attending from the Kinston chapter were Charlotte Howell, Angela Simmons and Janet Brown. Local guests were Lisa Green and Brenda Mills.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

Other Children Should Help Enforce Decision

DEAR ABBY: I might sound like a 16-year-old girl, but I'm a 64-year-old widow. I lost my husband of 40 years two years ago. He had been in a wheelchair for years. I had to feed and change him like you would a baby, but I didn't mind. He was a good man and I loved him.

Last year I met "Henry," who is also in a wheelchair. His wife had been dead for six years, and Henry had been in a wheelchair for nearly 30 years. He can't move anything but his hands and arms, but he does more work than a man who hasn't got anything wrong with him. Henry repairs electrical appliances, does gardening, housework, etc. He's kind and sweet and we fell in love.

Henry has four children. The three oldest are married; the youngest, "Billy," is not. Billy is as sorry a boy as they come. When he works, all his money goes for beer and dope. When nobody's around, he bullies his daddy and curses him like he was a dog. Henry gives Billy money when he demands it because he's afraid of him.

Henry wants to marry me, but I just can't, feeling like I do about that boy of his. His other kids are nice as they can be, and they love me like I was their mother.

What should I do?

MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: You don't say whether Billy lives at home, but if he does, he should be put out and warned not to come around. Henry's older children should help enforce this. If they can't handle it, don't hesitate to call the law.

DEAR ABBY: I live around Dallas, and there's a club where male dancers "dance" with nothing on but itty-bitty G-strings. They're all very sexy-looking, well-built guys. This club is so popular with women (no men are allowed), if you don't get there an hour before the doors are opened, you can't get in.

I was there with a bunch of girls from the office and I'm no goody-two-shoes, but I was shocked. The men do a lot of very suggestive dancing and then they go out in the audience. If a woman tips them, she gets a big French kiss! I saw this with my own eyes.

Can a girl catch a disease from one of these male dancers if she kisses him? They must kiss a hundred girls in one evening.

Is there a weekly health inspection on these male dancers to ensure someone who is only out with the girls to have a good time that she won't catch something and take it home to her husband?

SCARED TO PLAY, AFRAID TO PAY

DEAR SCARED: I can't answer the question about a "weekly health inspection," but if the men kiss "about a hundred" women a night, they would need a daily health inspection to be positively certain they were healthy. Both the kisser and the kissee are at risk. Foolish, all.

DEAR ABBY: Here's the situation in a nutshell: Last evening I had dinner (alone) at a first-class restaurant. The food was fine, but the service was terrible.

Instead of tipping the waiter the usual 15 percent, I tipped him only 10 percent. He handed it back to me, saying, "Here, you need this more than I do."

What should I have said?

J.D. IN BUFFALO

DEAR J.D.: To the waiter you should have said, "Thank you." And to the manager, you should have said, "The service was poor and my waiter was insolent."

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I've never written before, but after reading the letter from "Needs Your Help"—the mother who returned her adopted baby because she wasn't meant to be a mom—I had to thank you for telling that woman that she was not a failure, she should be applauded for her courage and integrity.

How many kids do we see on the streets today who were unwanted and neglected by uncaring parents? None of us asked to be born; who needs resentful, hostile parents to boot?

Please tell "Needs Your Help" that if she had kept her baby, she would have been a failure. Her uncomfortable, angry feelings would have been transferred to her child and her husband in the years to come, warping her marriage and any sense of family.

Unfortunately, I speak from experience. I was an adopted child who wishes I had been left in the orphanage. After many years of counseling, group therapy and psychotherapy, plus thousands of dollars for same, I learned that the confusion and bad feelings I had came from a mother who did not want to be a mother. My adoption was not a "blessing," and the only tie I have to my adoptive family is a legal document.

I wish there were more people like "Needs Your Help." After my experience, I have no intentions of becoming a parent. I had a vasectomy at age 35 just to make sure.

Unions And Management Work On Details Of Returning To Work

By KARREN MILLS
Associated Press Writer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Negotiators for 6,000 nurses and 16 hospitals prepared to discuss procedures for strikers to return to their jobs after a tentative settlement was reached in the biggest strike by registered nurses in the nation's history.

The agreement covering nurses at 15 of the hospitals came at 3 a.m. Sunday after a 17-hour bargaining session. A tentative settlement with the 16th hospital, which was negotiating separately, was reached Sunday afternoon.

Full details were not disclosed, but officials said the agreement includes strengthening job security by shielding nurses from cuts in their work hours, and by not allowing senior nurses to bump junior nurses holding jobs that require different skills.

Job security was the key issue in the strike which began June 1.

The pact will not be made public until a ratification vote, which could come as early as Tuesday, said Vicki Besemer, a spokeswoman for the Minnesota Nurses Association. Meanwhile, nurses will continue to walk the picket lines.

But the two sides planned talks today on procedures for the strikers to return to work.

"We made progress on the main issue in the strike, which was the layoff clause, and it took us five days to do that. Then the rest of the agreement fell together fairly quickly," said Alice Pepin, a spokeswoman for Health Employers Inc., which represented the hospitals.

The strike affected about half the hospitals in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area. Hospitals unaffected by the walkout added staff and expanded services, while struck hospitals used supervisors, postponed elective surgery and curtailed services.

The nurses demanded that when a hospital consolidates or closes a special unit or department, the specialized nurses be retrained on the basis of seniority to work in other areas of the hospital.

Both nurses and hospital officials said they were pleased it appeared the strikes would soon end, and expressed optimism that nurses would return to the job.

"I think it looks pretty positive, but I want to wait and see what the settlement says before I get really excited," said Donna Loughry, a striker from North Memorial Medical Center.

Linda Rifenberick, a striking nurse from Abbott-Northwestern Hospital, said all the nurses she knows are looking forward to returning to work.

"I love that hospital. ... I would much rather be there working than not be there," she said.

However, many nurses are apprehensive "because we've heard a lot of stories about feelings of animosity" against strikers, Ms. Rifenberick added.

Kaye Foley, vice president of patient care services at North Memorial, said word of a possible end to the strike had resulted in "euphoria, almost, amongst the nurses who are working now."

Supervisory nurses at North Memorial have been working shifts of 12 hours on and 12 hours off since the strike began, she said.

Jackie Arnold Gives Talk

Jackie Arnold, assistant vice president of First State Bank, was guest speaker for Greenville Credit Women-International meeting held Tuesday night at the Three Steers.

Her topic was "Credit for Singles and Divorced Applicants" and "Interviewing Skills: A Practical Guide."

She was introduced by Jean McLawhorn.

Janie Hudson said the annual picnic will be held at Cherry Oaks Club House June 24 starting at 7 p.m.

Dianne Worthington was a guest for the meeting which was conducted by President Pat West.

Cooking Is Fun

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Irish potato pancakes, called Boxty, are different from those I've come across in other cuisines. The difference lies in the addition of both cooked mashed potato and shredded raw potato to the batter. They are interesting and delicious.

You may enjoy serving them, as I do, for breakfast with eggs and bacon. Have lots of good strong hot tea on hand, the way the Irish would make it. These pancakes are also delicious for a light lunch or with meat, poultry or fish for dinner. The last time we made them we had some left over. Next day we cut them in about ½-inch strips and fried them in butter. I relished them this way as much as the first time round.

IRISH PANCAKES

1 cup all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 pound potatoes
2 large eggs, slightly beaten
¼ cup butter, melted
4 tablespoons (about) milk
Extra butter

Stir together flour, baking powder and salt.

Peel ½ pound of the potatoes and steam or boil until tender; mash fine — there should be 1 firmly packed cup.

Peel the remaining potatoes and finely shred; press out liquid — there should be 1 lightly packed cup.

Add mashed potatoes, shredded potatoes, and eggs to flour mixture; mix well; stir in butter. Gradually stir in enough milk to make a soft batter.

Melt a generous amount of extra butter in a large heavy skillet; add heaping tablespoons of the batter, well apart; fry over moderate heat, turning as necessary, until cooked through and browned on both sides. Keep warm in a low oven. Fry remaining batter the same way. Serve hot with butter.

Makes 14.

Easy Going

Bermudians have an easy-going attitude about time. They keep the clock at the ferry terminal in Hamilton five minutes slow, so passengers won't miss the boat.

Horseradish roots can be stored up to three months in the freezer before they become bitter. However, fresh roots are more potent than dried or frozen horseradish.

Special Negotiator

The Rev. Jesse Jackson apparently lost his bid for elective office, but is building himself a job in future administrations as special negotiator for release of Americans being held prisoner by foreign governments.

Jackson's actions couldn't be based on dreams of steady employment, because at present there are only about 1,800 other Americans imprisoned abroad. However, the 22 U.S. citizens recently released from Cuba might be just an indicator of what Jackson could do.

More than 90 countries still are holding American prisoners; the largest numbers being in Mexico, Canada, West Germany, Britain and Saudi Arabia. We're afraid most of those in foreign jails are held on more than technicalities; the Cuba "coup" is said to include some lawbreakers who we suspect would have wound up in U.S. prisons if they had been similarly captured, tried and convicted in their homeland.

That was of little concern to the Rev. Mr. Jackson. In his eyes, it was wrong for Americans to be held in foreign jails; and he was willing to open a propaganda door to Fidel Castro (if it took that) to bring them home.

Looking ahead, forging a career in the field of bringing Americans home from foreign jails is not going to be easy. It requires an administration in Washington that is throughly disliked by governments with whom Jackson would have to deal. It would require the negotiator to be outside the pale of officialdom; and finally, there should not be an "exchange treaty" to let Americans serve the remainder of their sentences in U.S. prisons.

That scenario limits opportunities for advancement.

Whale Intrusion

Experts in the fine art of whale-watching are divided over the effect (as well as good taste) of gawkers who have been taking to the sea in excursion boats to invade the privacy of our world's largest mammals.

Some believe the practice disrupts the whale's feeding and mating. Others are convinced the whales enjoy all the attention: but nobody really knows.

Others think they have sound evidence the whales are reproducing faster than ever. On the other hand, it could be a matter of more accurate counting by the increasing number of watchers.

We think it's admirable to be concerned over the effects of whale-watching. It's not easy for our authorities on whales to reach conclusions on to-watch or not-to-watch. A whale is a weighty responsibility for humans; but if whales are as sensitive to intrusions into their privacy as people apparently are, the tourist boats will have to go.

Teachers Lose To Get Ahead

RALEIGH — North Carolina public school teachers have just won a well-earned 15 percent pay raise from the Legislature. But even with that large a raise, there is some discontent among teachers over the way the raise will be instituted. The raise does not put the teachers' annual increment program back into place and some teachers are complaining that they're not to be rewarded for gaining experience.

A little background is needed. In 1980, the Legislature instituted Gov. Jim Hunt's 10-step pay program under which teachers were scheduled for a 5 percent pay raise in each of their first 10 years of teaching. After 10 years, they'd be at the top of the scale.

In the recession which followed, however, the 10-step program was implemented only once; teachers got that 5 percent pay raise only one year. Beginning with the 1982-83 fiscal year, the program was suspended. Teachers gained experience but they didn't get raises for that experience. The 15 percent package for the next school year does not lift that suspension. The result is that a teacher going into his or her third year of teaching next September will earn the wage prescribed for beginners. During debate on the pay raise, several legislators complained about this situation. They said that teachers back home felt they weren't being rewarded for their experience.

These legislators suggested reducing the across-the-board pay raise to 10 percent and activating the experience steps program. The result would be the same as the raise the Legislature eventually passed: Teachers would get a total raise of 15 percent.

Maybe the biggest surprise to veteran Legislature watchers was that the N.C. Association of Educators did not support such a move. It liked the package teachers got. The package has two parts. On the overall state pay scale, it raises the pay classification for teachers from grade 68 to 69. That means a 5 percent raise. Then, it gives pay grade 69 — now including teachers — the 10 percent raise all state employees will receive. It adds up to 15 percent.

"Sure we'd like to have both," Wilson said of the experience steps program and the pay scale reclassification. "But if we can only have one, this is the one we want."

By not re-activating the experience steps program this year, Wilson figures, the Legislature created an extra step for teachers. They get their 15 percent this year without using up one of their 10 steps. For example, a third-year teacher who is still on the first step has the potential for nine more steps in future years. Had the 15 percent raise been implemented with the experience steps program activated, then that same teacher would be eligible for only eight more steps.

But will that teacher ever get any steps? Rep. Dave Diamont, D-Surry, the only active teacher in the assembly, says maybe not. "I'm not sure the scale will ever be put back in," Diamont said after the raise was approved.

Diamont says the "career ladder" approach to teacher pay raises is the wave of the future. He expects such a ladder to replace the current program. Wilson says that next year, the teachers will be back, looking to have their experience program re-activated and looking for some compensation for the missed steps. The question is whether anyone will remember that a steps program ever existed.

Summit Could Be A Torpedo

WASHINGTON — Melancholy is deepening among embattled Reaganauts in the State and Defense departments who see President Reagan's sudden yearning to meet Konstantin Chernenko as no limited gambit but part of a quiet takeover of national security policy by White House political aides for the duration of the election campaign.

The president's switch to support for an unprepared summit corresponds to unobtrusive across-the-board softening of U.S. positions from arms control to Central America. It follows the leadership of James A. Baker III, the White House chief of staff. But Reagan himself, eyes wide open in seeking a peace posture for the campaign, has turned his cheek to Soviet beastliness.

The result is deep-seated apprehension among national security policy-makers who have prided themselves on building a tough, consistent policy since the 1980 election. Their fears: at least, failure to take election-year advantage of a principled, eminently defensible record; at worst, a hastily convened Reagan-Chernenko summit, threatening political catastrophe for the president.

The political aides and the Reaganauts observe 1984 politics through different lenses. Whereas the poll-readers worry about Reagan's lingering warmonger image, the hard-liners fear the Kremlin's intervention in American presidential politics with an "October surprise."

The fact that the president invariably sides with the politicians is at least partially attributable to procedural control. "Jim Baker is in absolute control of everything — the campaign, domestic policy and foreign policy," one senior official told us.

National Security Council meetings are now thoroughly stage-managed. Not since William Clark quit as NSC director to become secretary of the interior has the president heard full debate. Robert McFarlane, who as Clark's successor at NSC has been a non-trouble-making team player, has discreetly complained of late about White House staff interference in his domain.

Even when an issue gets to the president's desk, the outcome is preordained — as in recent U.S. acceptance of an Australian initiative for discussion by the Geneva multinational disarmament group of possible future Comprehensive Test Ban negotiations. Since Reagan administration policy considers CTB unverifiable, the Australian proposal was opposed at both State and Defense.

Nevertheless, it was approved routinely by the White House, with the stipulation that it could be appealed to the president. The Joint Chiefs of Staff did appeal. The Australian proposal came back approved by Reagan.

Since Geneva CTB discussions are apt to be cosmetic, it can be argued that the president gave away nothing while assuming a more peaceful posture. But in recent weeks the roll of decisions representing abrupt changes in policy has mounted: agreeing to discuss an unverifiable ban on anti-satellite weapons; embarking on negotiations with Nicaragua that undercut Reagan's "freedom fighters;" the desire for an unstructured summit — a change called "demeaning and degrading" by one senior official.

The responsibility for the summit switch cannot be delegated to staffers. Like 3o many of his predecessors, Reagan has come to believe something actually can be accomplished by personally meeting his Soviet counterpart. What's more, he is sensitive to the argument that resistance to such high-risk diplomacy suggests lack of self-confidence.

In the opinion of the Reaganauts, the president and his men have come to think of a possible Soviet summit as similar to the annual summit of industrial democracies, where the Great Communicator and his master advance man, Michael K. Deaver, are virtuosos. When the White House confuses deadly adversaries with occasionally fractious friends, the national security experts shudder.

Political insiders in the Reagan administration assert that Jim Baker is too shrewd to expose the president to severe political risk and pushed for a Soviet summit only after the busy 1984 schedule precluded calling one. But it is not merely the "demeaning and degrading" nature of Reagan's refusal to take no for a Kremlin answer that bothers Reaganauts. They believe a tactical reversal by Moscow leading to a summit would surely be accompanied by a surprised Washington, schedule problems or not.

While President Nixon's Moscow summit clinching his 1972 re-election is the White House model, memories in certain offices at State and the Pentagon go back to 1960 when Nikita Khrushchev wrecked President Eisenhower's summit and perhaps guaranteed John F. Kennedy's election. That is why Reaganauts are haunted by the president's well-meaning advisers handing Khrushchev's successors the ingredients for an October surprise: the chance to torpedo another summit.

Nixon's 'Back In The Arena'

WASHINGTON (AP) — News of Richard Nixon, drip by drip by drip for a decade, has become a flood.

His journey from disgrace to exile to a still evolving attempt at resurrection was a story waiting to be told. And now, as Nixon and the nation approach the 10th anniversary of his resignation, a writer has done just that.

Since leaving the White House in August 1974, Nixon has popped into the public consciousness in fits and starts — his illnesses, TV interviews, visits to China and Europe; his struggles to find a place to live, a place for his papers, a place in history.

Periodically, there is a swirl of activity. A speech in backwoods Kentucky, a fund-raiser in Ohio for Republicans brave enough to have him. An occasional funeral for a world leader. A few, a very few, visits to the White House.

And, of course, Nixon's endless battles in the courts as others challenge the presidential privacy that he cites in maintaining control of his papers and the infamous Oval Office tapes.

Now resurrection is on in earnest: This spring's classic performance before an influential gathering of newspaper editors; the frequent commentary on the 1984 campaign; his observations, for a TV special, on television and the presidency; last January's meeting with the visiting Chinese vice premier.

Robert Sam Anson, in his aptly titled book, "Exile. The Unquiet Oblivion of Richard M. Nixon," tells of Nixon's last 10 years. Anson finds no point where it can be said, "Nixon is back;" rather, the re-emergence of the 37th president has been gradual. So gradual that it's hard to remember that a decade ago Nixon was the focus of a political firestorm; that he became the first man to resign the presidency.

Anson begins where Woodward and Bernstein's "The Final Days" leaves off: with Nixon's tortured farewell on Aug. 9, 1974, and the flight to San Clemente — half of it as president, half as private citizen. It ends on his 70th birthday in 1983 with Nixon increasing his activity and visibility.

Except for the first year of his exile when he was sick, Nixon's credo always was "never look back."

"Let me make just one thing clear," he told students at Oxford in 1979. "I'm not just going to fade away and live the good life in San Clemente, listening to the waves and playing golf."

He told a reporter: "Going through fire makes what is soft iron into steel."

He told another: "People who reach the highest levels in public life don't become obsessed with themselves, and thinking, 'Oh, my God, what are people going to be thinking of me,' and all that sort of thing. If they do, they're never going to be great leaders."

Nixon obviously thought of himself as one of the great leaders. He chafed in San Clemente and longed to move to New York, which he called "the fast track." Once there, he held carefully planned, high-powered "issues" dinners, always stag, off-the-record. He began showing up in the best restaurants; he traveled extensively, seeking out world leaders in China, then to Europe, and Africa.

His search seemed always for acceptance as a statesman. Once he complained to a friend that Jimmy Carter failed to grasp "the big picture in world affairs, and asked who the real strategic thinkers were. "Well, there's you," said the friend and Nixon responded, "Of course, but who else?"

Although Nixon was shunned by the Republicans at their 1976 convention, by 1980 he was giving advice to Ronald Reagan's campaign, some of it unwanted. He was offering guidance, much as he used to give presidential advice on strategy to football coaches.

Like it or not, Nixon was always news — even in events as innocuous as a visit with his grandchildren to Disney World. In a decade, he's gone from down, out and hated, to being a listened-to commentator on the world scene and a pundit on domestic politics.

It is, as Sam Anson says, that Nixon has come out of the desert and is "back in the arena again."

Public Forum

To the editor:

Justice is done. We can all go to sleep tonight and know that justice has been done. Harvey Lee Green received justice, just as a young man named Parker received justice. Both men had something in common. They committed murder and robbery and both were convicted. Justice is done, because both were convicted.

But there is something different about Green and Parker, the verdict. One man received the death penalty and one life imprisonment. There is no question that justice is done. Can we also say that each man received Equal Justice? There is not only justice and injustice. There is Equal Justice.

StrengthFor Today

Here are a few rules for getting out of a depressed state of mind:

Never make an important decision when you are mentally at low ebb. Decide upon policies when you are in a normal state of mind, never when you are in the depths.

Suggest to yourself that a depressed state of mind is a temporary matter. Things will look differently a few hours hence.

Above all remember that most of our troubles arise from our state of mind and not from the circumstances which surround us. We generally have some cavaties in our minds into which we can easily slip such as self-pity and the conviction that the world is against us.

Abraham Lincoln once said that people are about as happy as they make up their minds to be. Plant this seed in your mind and give it every opportunity to grow and bear fruit.

Panel Calls For Study Of Ocean Floor

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Lewis and Clark expedition is needed to explore the largest territorial acquisition in the history of the United States, the expansion of ocean jurisdiction to 200 miles, a government advisory panel says.

This added area may be more important than the Louisiana Purchase, and a 10-year "expedition of research, exploration and survey" is being urged by the National Advisory Committee on Oceans and Atmosphere.

President Reagan's proclamation of the 200-mile Exclusive Economic Zone on March 10, 1983, more than doubled the territory of the United States, said the 18-member citizen committee which advises the government on questions affecting the air and oceans.

"The significance of the (economic zone) to the future of our country may well be greater than the 1803 Louisiana Purchase acquisition — considering the rate of depletion of the Earth's natural resources on land and the potential that the oceans are believed to have for addition to our resource base," the committee said.

But, this acquisition is somewhat like acquiring a sealed trunk, said the committee in calling for the program of exploration and research.

After the Louisiana Purchase, President Jefferson sent out Meriwether Lewis and William Clark to explore the new land.

"Who's Lewis and who's Clark today?," asked Don Walsh, president of International Maritime Inc., of San Pedro, Calif., head of the advisory subcommittee on the economic zone.

"We've got to find out what's out there of value and how can we use it for the welfare of our country," Walsh said in a telephone interview.

"It's not a place we're going to live in the near term, but it does have significant resource value," he added.

Steven N. Anastasion, executive director of the committee, said discussions of possible research work have been under way at meetings this week with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and the U.S. Geological Survey.

But he said it is also necessary to involve other agencies, such as the Environmental Protection Agency, Department of Energy, Navy, National Science Foundation and others.

While the Louisiana purchase nearly doubled the size of the then-young United States by extending its borders west to the Rocky Mountains, the proclamation of the offshore Exclusive Economic Zone added 3.9 billion acres of territory to the U.S. land area of 2.3 billion acres.

Dallas Peck, director of the U.S. Geological Survey, has pointed out that "the EEZ provides the United States with a vast new frontier to study and understand, and an immense new region with potential resources of enormous economic importance to explore and develop."

This added territory is beneath hundreds — sometimes thousands — of feet of water, which complicates its exploration. But preliminary investigations have indicated the potential for oil, geothermal energy and major mineral finds as well as use of the fish and other marine resources in the new territory.

"Beyond the scientific, technical and engineering obstacles, there remains the certainty that meeting the challenge successfully will require a national commitment: the supportive and combined talents of industry, universities and government," Peck stated.

About 3 percent of the U.S. continental shelf has been explored and "lately, we have come to realize that the solid minerals of the ocean floor may be as important to our future as the fisheries, oil and gas resources have become," the advisory report said.

However, efforts to cooperate with other nations where their interests and those of the United States overlap may result in conflict over ocean jurisdiction.

The panel suggested that while this country does not recognize the international Law of the Sea Convention, it would be wise to develop future policies with that proposed international treaty in mind.

Then, if that international agreement takes force after receiving approval of 60 nations, U.S. policies would be consistent with it, even if the United States does not ratify the agreement itself.

Meanwhile, a massive effort to chart the new territory is scheduled to begin this year, combining the resources of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and the Geological Survey.

According to the Geological Survey, oil and gas finds are considered likely along the Gulf and Atlantic coasts, particularly in such areas as Georges Bank, Baltimore Canyon, Carolina Trough, Southeast Georgia Embayment and Blake Plateau Basin.

Petroleum is also considered likely in the Gulf of Mexico, where oil and gas is already under production in coastal areas.

Monterey Canyon in the Pacific now produces oil and gas and the Juan de Fuca ridge is rich in deposits of sulfides, cadmium and silver.

The giant oil fields off Alaska are well known and minerals of economic interest — including gold — are also deposited by glaciers in that state.

The zone also extends around Puerto Rico, Hawaii and many Pacific island territories where scientists say they may find cobalt, manganese and other minerals.

Inmates Smash Prison

WALPOLE, Mass. (AP) — Nearly 400 inmates on a rampage at Walpole State Prison set fires and smashed furniture for two hours before guards using dogs and tear gas were able to subdue them, authorities said today.

No officers or prison staff members were hurt in the disturbance Sunday night, although one prisoner injured his foot when he stepped on a piece of glass, Correction Department spokesman Joe Landolfi said.

Inmates were back in their cells by 10 p.m. and the entire maximum security prison was locked down as officials assessed the damage and investigators tried to find a cause for the riot at the 670-inmate facility 15 miles southwest of Boston, Landolfi said early today.

"We have no idea what sparked" the outburst, he said. "It erupted spontaneously almost."

It was the second lockdown at Walpole in less than a week, Landolfi said. Prisoners also had been confined to cells Thursday night after a fight between two inmates.

The uprising began at 7 p.m. Sunday when inmates gathered for an evening recreational activity in the auditorium, Landolfi said.

An Associated Press photographer who toured the prison after the disturbance saw a half-dozen seats ripped out of the auditorium floor and a small glass window shattered.

Officials said prisoners ran from the auditorium into the staff dining room, where they destroyed 22 wooden tables and dozens of chairs and then tore down a cinder block wall leading into a large storage room.

There inmates tore apart boxes of food and clothing and apparently found a box of paring knives. The knives were scattered across the floor of the dining room. A water pipe was ripped down, flooding the room.

The inmates seemed to be looking for weapons "or anything they could turn into weapons," said Deputy Superintendent John Ober.

The prisoners set several fires, but guards were able to put them out without outside assistance.

A group of officers who specialize in prison disturbances was called in to put down the uprising.

"The correctional institutional tactical team, officers trained to deal with this type of situation, using tear gas and canines, secured the auditorium after about two hours and the inmates were returned to cellblocks," Landolfi said.

Wrecks Reported

An estimated $3,000 damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Saturday.

Officers said cars driven by Johnnie Leo Sutton of 610 Griffin St. and Lindburg Pinks of 308 Rundtree Drive collided about 4:02 p.m. at the intersection of Forbes and 12th streets, causing $1,500 damage to the Sutton car and $700 damage to the Pinks auto. Sutton was charged by investigators with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Margaret Dobson Snyder of Route 1, La Grange, was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 9:54 p.m. collision at the intersection of Reade Circle and Cotanche Street.

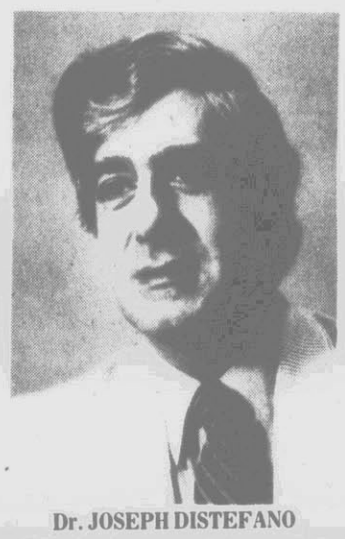

Police said the Snyder car collided with a car driven by April Janell Weatherington of Route 3, Washington, causing an estimated $500 damage to the Snyder car and $300 damage to the Weatherington vehicle.

Elected

Dr. Joseph Distefano, professor and chairman of the basic studies department for the East Carolina University School of Music, was elected president-elect for the Mid-Atlantic Chapter of the College Music Society. Prior to his election, he served as secretary-treasurer.

Dr. JOSEPH DISTEFANO

Distefano composed the music for the outdoor dramas "Blackbeard: Knight of the Black Flag" and "First for Freedom." Most recently he has composed the music for ECU's public service announcements which are now being aired on various radio and television stations throughout North Carolina.

Distefano has served as music director and conductor for the ECU Playhouse and many of the ECU Summer Theater productions.

Bethel Chosen

The town of Bethel has been selected for the third consecutive year as a recipient of the Governor's Award for Excellence.

Mayor Frank Hemingway was recently notified of the selection. Presentation of the awards to selected towns and communities will be made in Raleigh in September.

Landfill Fire

Late this morning four Pitt County Fire Departments and landfill workers were trying to extinguish or contain a fire at the Pitt County Landfill.

County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner said the fire apparently started about 5 p.m. Sunday and had created smoky conditions in the area west of Greenville off the Allen and Stantonsburg roads. He said dirt was being bulldozed into the smoldering area. Fire departments participating were Red Oak, Eastern Pines, Bell Arthur and Staton House.

Radio Guests

Guests on the city's radio progra, City Hall Notes, during the week of July 2 will be Lt. Randy M. Nichols and Patrolwoman Janice Harris of the Greenville Police Department. Nichols will discuss the city's emergency management planning program and Officer Harris will discuss basic police training programs.

City Hall Notes is aired on WOOW Radio each Tuesday and Thursday at 10:25 a.m.

Registrants Sought

Registrations are still being accepted for the canoe and kayak competition on the Fourth of July being sponsored by the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department.

Beginning time is 10 a.m. for kayaks, 10:30 a.m. for canoes. Starting point is at the Falkland Wildlife Access point, with the finish line at the Town Common in Greenville.

Interested persons are to contact the Recreation and Parks Department at 752-4137, extension 200, for complete details.

Man Stabbed

A 22-year old Williamston man, Timothy Rodney Rodgers, was stabbed in the neck early Saturday morning at an apartment in Jamesville. Deputy Sheriff Jerry Beach said Rodgers was wounded during an argument with Geraldine Marie James in her apartment.

Rodgers was reported in stable condition today at Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

Hunt Gets Edge In Latest Poll

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Aides to Gov. Jim Hunt say television advertising is responsible for a slight lead over incumbent Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., that showed up in the latest Carolinas Poll taken by The Charlotte Observer.

The poll showed Hunt, the state's Democratic governor since 1977, leading Helms 47 percent to 42 percent in a statewide telephone sample of 595 registered state voters taken June 7-15.

"It reinforces our view that Jesse Helms can't withstand a good, hard look at his Senate record," Hunt spokesman Will Marshall said after being told of the results.

Helms campaign spokesman Claude Allen agreed advertising had an impact, but said Hunt has been distorting Helms' record.

"You can attribute his (Hunt's) slight lead to the fact that he's come out with a negative ad campaign," Allen said. "The governor has been very good at trying to distort Sen. Helms's record."

About 8 of the respondents answered "don't know" when asked: "If the general election for the U.S. Senate were held today, would you vote for Republican Jesse Helms or Democrat Jim Hunt?"

Carolinas Polls of a year ago indicated Hunt might be headed for a landslide victory in his bid to oust Helms. But non-stop television advertising by the senator beginning late last year helped Helms close the gap.

In the June 1983 Carolinas Poll, Hunt led Helms 50 percent to 31 percent. By February, an Observer Poll showed Helms had cut Hunt's margin to 46 percent to 42 percent.

Since the May 8 primary votes, Hunt has broadcast a series of ads critical of Helms. The ads acknowledge Helms's reputation as a crusader but portray his crusades as contrary to the interests of North Carolina.

The Observer Carolinas Poll was conducted by the marketing research division of Knight Publishing Co., publisher of The Observer and The Charlotte News.

The poll's margin of error is plus or minus 4.1 percentage points at a 95 percent confidence level. That means the results would vary no more than 4.1 percentage points higher or lower in 19 of 20 surveys.

Warning Period Ends

The Child Restraint Systems Law warning period ended midnight June 30 and violators now may be subject to a fine of $10.

The warning provision in the law which has been in effect since June 1, 1982, has been quiet effective, according to the North Caolina Department of Crime Control and Public Safety. Voluntary usage rates for children under two years of age have increased from 30 percent to 46 percent during the first year.

Some safety officials, however, are hopeful the current usage rate of 50 percent will increase substantially when violators are subject to a fine.

According to Department of Crime Control and Public Safety Secretary Heman R. Clark, the law only covers children under two years of age riding with their parents in the family vehicle.

Clark encourages parents to avoid a possible court appearance by voluntarily complying with the Child Restraint Law.

Fireworks Should Be Used Safely

By MARION L. JOHNSON

(The author represents the North Carolina affiliate of the National Society to Prevent Blindness.)

Mention July 4 and people will think of family outings, parades and "bombs bursting in the air" at public fireworks displays.

However, not all bombs burst in air, and an estimated 8,277 Americans found out last year when they were treated in hospital emergency rooms for injuries caused by fireworks.

According to the National Society to Prevent Blindness — North Carolina Affiliate, an estimated 1,232 of those people suffered some type of eye injury. The materials most often causing them were firecrackers, cherry bombs, M-80s, salutes, roman candles and fountains.

"Fireworks are not toys, although some people may think they are," said Susan Deyton, public infomation chairman of the society. "Not suprisingly, last year an overwhelming 72 percent of fireworks injury vicitims were between the ages of 5 and 24 years old."

According to the society, even 'safe' fireworks, such as sparklers, pose high risks to unprotected eyes. Sparklers burn at more than 1,800 degrees Fahrenheit. This is almost the same temperature it takes to melt gold. Upon contact with an eye, sparklers could cause severe burns.

Despite the continued high incidence of fireworks-related injuries, some states have eased fireworks controls over the past few years. However, that trend now seems to be reversing itself.

Grocery Tab Keeps On Inching Upward

By COTTEN TIMBERLAKE
AP Business Writer

Grocery prices rose 0.65 percent during June, primarily because of a rise in the cost of detergent and sugar, and prices for the first six months of the year have risen 1.6 percent, according to a monthly Associated Press marketbasket survey.

Milk also was more expensive in June. Egg prices continued their decline, but less dramatically.

Economists said the June increase indicated moderate inflation.

The marketbasket bill rose in five cities an average of 5.3 percent. It decreased in seven cities an average of 2.15 percent. The bill in New York City remained unchanged.

In the first six months of the year, the tab rose 0.14 percent, if New York is included. That city's bill fell 13.25 percent since January, primarily because of a switch in April to a cheaper store.

Discounting New York, the average bill so far this year has risen 1.6 percent.

The year-to-date tab rose in eight cities an average of 3.2 percent and fell in five cities an average of 3.8 percent.

"The 0.65 percent increase is an indication that inflation rates remain moderate," said David A. Wyss, an economist with Data Resources Inc. in Lexington, Mass. "It is somewhat higher than the inflation rates we were seeing a few months ago but that is to be expected since we no longer have the advantages of falling meat prices that we had at the end of the year."

Michael K. Evans, an economist who heads his own forecasting firm in Washington, D.C., said, "It looks like the 0.65 increase is just about the mirror increase of the 0.8 decline in May so it would appear that food price inflation is still under control."

He added, "It appears that the overall inflation is stabilizing and will remain in the 4 to 5 percent range for the rest of the year."

In 1984, he said, food prices probably will accelerate modestly, hand-in-hand with the rate if inflation.

The price of detergent, which had been steady, climbed an average 3.5 percent.

Jack L. Salzman, a cosmetics and household products analyst for the investment firm Smith Barney, Harris Upham and Co., and Hugh Zurkuhlen, an analyst at Salomon Brothers Inc., said detergent producers had not increased prices or decreased promotions and they had no ready explanation for the jump.

Sugar turned upward an average of 1.6 percent.

Pamela Rockley, an analyst with Pershing Futures in New York, attributed the rise to a smaller harvest and to import curbs.

The price of milk tended upward, too. The Agriculture Department said last month that milk prices may increase this summer as a result of a rise in comsumer demand and a decline in overall production.

Eggs, meanwhile, fell an average of 2.95 percent, after dropping 16 percent in May. "I think it's a further wind-down we had with the problem of avian flu," Evans said. Flocks that were killed have been replaced and production is back up.

A look at the overall number of items in the AP survey showed more items rose than fell during June. Here are the percentages of increases and decreases:

	May	June
Up	21.4	27
Down	23.1	22
Unchanged	51.65	47
Unavailable	3.85	4

The Associated Press drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and non-food items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973, and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. One item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped from the list because the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. If the requested size and brand was not available on March 1, 1973, a comparable substitute was selected. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the over-all total.

The AP did not try to compare actual prices from city to city — to say, for example, that eggs cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease — saying a particular item went up 10 percent in one city and 6 percent in another.

The USDA marketbasket issued each month is based on a complex set of statistics. It is used to keep track of changes in the proportion of the food dollar received by the farmer, wholesaler and retailer and does not correspond to actual family spending.

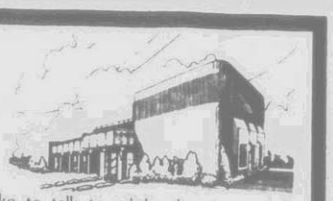

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk, frankfurters and granulated sugar.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

WHAT CAN I DO ABOUT DRUGS AND MY CHILDREN?

by
PORTER SHAW
SUBSTANCE ABUSE PROGRAM DIRECTOR

What can I do to prevent or stop my child from using drugs is one of the most frequently asked questions received in our Substance Abuse Program--the response to this question is not an easy one. Most often parents are encouraged to seek out information on drugs and the current drug scene in order to be a credible source of information for their children. Communities have substance abuse programs that provide literature and counseling. Discuss the drug situation in an open topic of conversation but do not depend upon your children as the only source of information. Ask questions of other parents, teachers, counselors and neighbors. Talk with the children and their friends; they will often welcome the chance to talk with someone other than their own parents. Adolescents like to talk to adults--the more, the better.

Be alert for signs of drug use. There are no sure proofs except finding drugs on the child or discovering when he is high or out of the way. Look for symptoms of drug use, changes in habits such as school work, eating, dress and frequent changes of mood. If your child demonstrates some of these behavorial symptoms, do not accuse them of using drugs. Instead spend more time with your son or daughter.

Adopt a firm and clear understanding that you will not allow the use of drugs in your household and be willing to set a clear and a consistent set of behavioral rules, be willing to enforce them. Don't be afraid to be a strong parent. For more information contact the Pitt County Mental Health, Mental Retardation and Substance Abuse Center.

More Bank Failures Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the good economic times, bank regulators are projecting that the number of bank failures this year almost certainly will surpass the 48 recorded in all of last year, which was the most since 1939.

Still, the regulators are expecting the failure rate — 43 so far this year — to ease somewhat in the remainder of the year.

"There should be some improvement in the numbers in the second half of the year, but I really don't know how dramatic it will be," said William Isaac, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which insures deposits to $100,000 in about 14,800 banks.

In a recent telephone interview, he declined to predict how many banks would fail this year, saying only that agency officials expected the number to surpass 55.

Looking ahead, he said, "our early forecast calls for failures to still be significant next year — less than this year but more than we have been used to in recent decades by a good measure."

There were 42 failures in 1982, well ahead of the 10 reported in each of the previous three years.

Isaac doesn't expect that "anytime soon" the failure rate will slide down to the earlier level.

Even at the higher rate, he noted that failed banks represent only a small proportion of the total banks guaranteed by the $16 billion insurance fund.

"The FDIC is able to cope with them and has coped with them very well, I think," he said. "They have been handled in an orderly way with a minimum of disruption."

No depositor has ever lost money in an account at a bank or savings and loan association that was backed by one of the federal insurance agencies.

Jackson Leads Peace March Into Mexico

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — Marching at the head of what he described as "a moral offensive for peace," the Rev. Jesse Jackson led more than 2,000 Hispanic, black and white supporters across the international border to Mexico to demonstrate for a "war-free zone" in the western hemisphere.

"All signs say war is on the horizon, but peace is possible," Jackson said in the Sunday march.

Jackson said his "hands-across-the-border" march was only the first of a many that would continue beyond his Democratic presidential campaign until the threat of war in the hemisphere is over.

Jackson's followers marched 90 minutes from the San Diego suburb of San Ysidro across the international border, where they were met by several hundred peace activists from Mexico and other Central American nations, who had marched from downtown Tijuana.

Story Says Hart Has Spiritualist

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic presidential hopeful Sen. Gary Hart has had a spiritual adviser who gave him a prayer robe that hangs in his Senate office and sent him a note that suggested, "Hug a tree," according to an article in Vanity Fair magazine.

Marilyn Youngbird, described as a former aide to New Mexico Republican Sen. Pete Domenici, gave Hart spiritual advice during the 1984 Democratic primary season, according to an article in the magazine's July issue by author Gail Sheehy.

Kathy Bushkin, press secretary to Hart, contacted Sunday, said, "We think the article has some inaccuracies in it and is a disservice to the senator and to the Indian culture."

She said Ms. Youngbird was an unpaid volunteer adviser to the senator on Indian issues.

June is the month that many tomato disease problems appear and cause a great deal of aggrevation to North Carolina gardeners. June is also the month when tomatoes do most of their growing and show tremendous promise for summer harvesting.

Three of the most common diseases affecting tomatoes locally are blossom-end rot, bacterial wilt and southern stem rot. There are other diseases that are prevalent occasionally but these three diseases are by far the most common, damaging problems.

Blossom-end rot of tomato is a very common problem and is not caused by an infectious, living organism. It is a physiological condition caused by lack of calcium in the root zone and is made worse by dry weather or fluctuating periods of wet and dry conditions. This season is a good one to bring on many wet and dry conditions. This season is a good one to bring on many blossom-end rot problems to eastern North Carolina gardeners. It has been both extremely wet and extremely dry.

BLOSSOM-END ROT ... Blossom-end rot, shown above, in tomatoes is correctable. The disease causes a sunken, leathery, circular area on the blossom ends, which then rot.

Blossom-end rot is the failure of the developing tomato fruit to transport calcium. A sunken, leathery area usually circular in nature forms on the blossom end. In many cases the spot will begin to rot as insects and bacteria invade the disrupted tissue. Blossom-end rot is easily prevented and is somewhat correctable. The addition of quickly soluble calcium to the plant and root zone plus one inch of irrigation or rainfall each week will generally be sufficient to correct the problem.

Sources of calcium are landplaster (calcium sulfate), calcium chloride and agricultural lime. A well-limed garden plus sufficient moisture should ensure a better tomato crop. If either landplaster or calcium chloride is applied to the plant and given sufficient water, then later-developing tomato fruits will be less affected.

A disease that is not correctable and is very discouraging is bacterial wilt. Not only is this disease fatal to the tomato plant, but it will affect tomatoes planted in the spot for many years. Bacterial wilt is the same disease that the tobacco farmer knows as Granville wilt. If tomatoes were planted in a field that had a history of Granville wilt, they would be affected sooner or later.

Symptoms of Granville wilt are sudden wilting while the plant is green, usually in mid-June or later in eastern North Carolina. Normally, the tomato will have exhibited good to excellent growth prior to wilting.

The tomato plant or plants will wilt due to the fact that the bacterial cells clog the water-conducting tissue of the plant. If the stem of an affected tomato is cut, a discoloration of the pith and vascular system is evident. Often if the stem is pressed where it is cut, a brownish sap is expressed. One can be sure that the bacterial wilt organism is present when a wilted stem is placed in a transparent glass of water and in a short while a strand of viscous liquid issues from the cut surface and is suspended vertically from the stem.

The third disease is a fungus called Southern stem rot. It is easily identified by the presence of a cottony Mycelial growth, white in color and often with tan or brown, round bodies in the fungal strands at the base of the affected plant.

The disease is more common in July and August when night temperatures are hot, above 82 degrees Fahrenheit. Symptoms of Southern stem rot are wilting that recovers at night and reoccurs during the day. After a few days the plant wilts permanently dies.

These disease problems can be minimized by cultural practices that favor good tomato growth. Planting in an area of the garden where tomatoes have not been planted for several years is helpful in reducing diseases of all types.

It is further beneficial to plant tomatoes in a garden that has been limed and fertilized according to a soil test. It is also helpful to supply a continual amount of fertilizer through the season and at least one inch precipitation per week. A mulch of organic material such as pine straw, well-rotted sawdust, pine bark, grass clippings, etc., may be used. The mulch should not be placed against the stem of the tomato plant because this may predispose the tomato plant to Southern stem rot.

So, a common sense appraoch and a sufficient supply of water and care will make gardening in general and tomato-growing in particular, somewhat easier.

Bolivia Continues Arrests In Bungled Coup

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The government reportedly has arrested more than 100 army officers, policemen and paramilitary gunmen as suspects in the attempt to stage a military coup by kidnapping President Hernan Siles Zuazo.

"We have detained various officers and will continue these arrests until we dismantle the entire coup-plotting apparatus of this country," Gustavo Sanchez, undersecretary of interior, said Sunday.

He declined to say how many were in custody or identify them, but Presencia, a leading newspaper, reported today that more than 100 people had been arrested in connection with Saturday's attempt to topple the elected government.

The drama began before dawn Saturday, when Siles Zuazo awoke to the sound of footsteps and squinted into a flashlight held by one of the abductors. By late that afternoon, the 70-year-old president was free, addressing thousands of cheering supporters, while his abductors took refuge in two embassies or went into hiding.

Sanchez on Sunday accused army Col. Rolando Saravia, an advisor to two former military presidents, of being one of the masterminds of the plot. He said Saravia recruited presidential guards, narcotics policemen, paramilitary units and a vice presidential aide.

There was no word on the whereabouts of Saravia, who was cashiered for trying to kidnap President Hugo Banzer in 1974. Reinstated by the army in 1978, he came under suspicion last year for alleged plotting against Siles Zuazo and was relieved of a regimental command.

The outcome of Saturday's events indicated the government has maintained the loyalty of top armed forces commanders and restive labor unions, despite complaints by each group that the administration lacks the political leadership to overcome Bolivia's deep recession.

According to government officials, witnesses and newspaper accounts, here is the story of what was intended to be the 190th military coup in this Andean nation's 154 years of independence:

About 60 men in army and police uniforms arrived at the president's one-story home, claiming to have orders to reinforce the 27-man military police unit already on guard.

Beirut Shelling Kills 16

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christian and Moslem gunners pounded residential neighborhoods through the night and before dawn today, killing at least 16 people, despite agreement by the warring militias to let the army take control of Beirut.

Police said 16 civilians were killed and 52 wounded in what they described as the worst artillery attacks in and around Beirut in two weeks.

The shelling erupted at dusk Sunday, subsided briefly before midnight and then intensified until a daybreak cease-fire was arranged, police said.

Police had no word on who started the bombardment. All principal militia commands issued statements claiming their forces were not responsible.

The flareup followed agreement by militias on both sides to turn over control of the capital to units of the Lebanese army by midweek.

BODY LANGUAGE & DENTURES

Wouldn't it be wonderful if we could be sweet sixteen for life. Unfortunately as age rolls on, our bodies (including our gums) do change. What this means to the denture-wearer is that-no matter how perfect your dentures fit when you walk out of the office-eventually, they will have to be adjusted to harmonize with the changes in the gums and bony ridges which provide its support.

It's not hard to determine that a denture no longer fits properly. It feels loose, moves when it shouldn't, is uncomfortable and may interfere with speaking and eating ability. This is the time for action. Poorly-fitting dentures can harm your mouth. Constant irritation over a long period of time can contribute to the development of sores or tumors. This is also not the time to adjust or repair them yourself. Improper home repair can cause serious harm.

See your dentist for any problems with your denture. Normally an adjustment for irritation or a relining for looseness may be the answer to your discomfort. Let's face it. We all change and our gums are no exception. If you're looking for someone to blame, try Mother Nature.

Legislators Expect Shorter Session In '85

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Republicans and Democrats agree that a new law delaying the start of the 1985 General Assembly by three weeks will give them a good chance to shorten the next legislative session.

The one-year experiment was launched by Rep. Jack Hunt, D-Cleveland. He said he was afraid that the longer legislators stayed in Raleigh, the more they would "lose touch with what we really are, representatives of the people."

The House and Senate clashed over methods for shortening the session last year but the matter was resolved easily this month when the Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, Sen. Bob Jordan, D-Montgomery, got behind Hunt's idea.

The Senate last year backed a complex plan to include a 100-day limit on sessions in odd-numbered years and permission for committees to conduct hearings and lawmakers to file bills between sessions.

Jordan predicts the 1985 session could be six weeks shorter than the 1983 session with Hunt's bill enacted and possible changes in rules.

In 1983, the General Assembly set a new record with 138 days of meetings for the House and 137 days for the Senate. The cost of the session was estimated at $6 million, or $44,000 per day.

The previous record for longest session was set in 1971, when the General Assembly met for 136 days. That year lawmakers stayed in town fretting over congressional and legislative redistricting, a once every 10 years chore.

Jordan said he would like to change legislative rules to make it more difficult to introduce bills late in the session. Traditionally the House and Senate have set deadlines for introducing bills but rules have been broken by winning a majority of votes.

"If I'm here I'll try to get the speaker and members of the Senate to agree to take suspending the rules more seriously," Jordan said. "The two things together could very well shorten the session. Hopefully we'll get out just as early or earlier."

Another advantage to starting the 1985 session about three weeks later is that the new governor and lieutenant governor will have more time to develop programs and get bills ready to introduce. The governor will take office at the beginning of the year and the Legislature usually starts the second week in January.

"Why have us here when they haven't gotten organized," said Sen. Don Kincaid, R-Caldwell.

There is widespread agreement that the first three months of the session have been wasted in the past.

"We do absolutely nothing on the first side," said Sen. Joe Johnson, D-Wake. "All we did was go to receptions at night. The only productive thing was hearing the prayer (before session) each day."

Republicans, who have led the fight to shorten sessions in the past, agree.

"Everybody recognizes that the first month down here we don't do anything but socialize," said Sen. Cass Ballenger, R-Catawba. "This might make the freshmen learn a little faster."

IN THE STATE

Letter Writers Urge Clemency

RALEIGH (AP) — More and more letters are pouring into Gov. Jim Hunt's office about the impending execution of Velma Margie Barfield, with sentiment running about 4-to-1 in favor of commuting the sentence, a governor's aide says.

"We had been receiving a letter now and then," said Jim Scarborough of the governor's Office of Citizen Affairs late last week. "But suddenly we began to see the mail was much heavier, and we began keeping closer tabs."

Mrs. Barfield, the only woman on North Carolina's death row, is scheduled to be executed Aug. 31 for the 1978 poisoning of her fiance, Stuart Taylor, a St. Pauls farmer. She has appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court for a stay of execution, and her attorneys plan to ask the governor to commute her death sentence to life in prison.

Scarborough said in the first three weeks of June, 77 letters had been received, 17 of them calling for Mrs. Barfield's execution and 60 opposing it. Of those, 31 came from North Carolina residents in 14 counties, with only three coming from her home county of Robeson. Wake County was highest with 11 letters.

The 46 letters from outside North Carolina came from 17 other states, the District of Columbia and Canada, he said.

In the first three days of last week, 22 letters came in — four for the execution and 18 against, making a total of 99 in the first 27 days of June. The latest batch included two from Germany — the first correspondence Hunt has received from overseas regarding the Barfield case, Scarborough said.

He said most of the letters are short and to the point.

"Basically, what they're saying is, 'We agree with the sentence and feel you should go ahead with the execution,' or 'We feel you should not (go ahead with the execution).'"

Dr. Charles Petty, executive director of the Governor's Office of Citizen Affairs, said the mail will go into a clemency file and remain confidential until Hunt has completed his review "because of the seriousness of the matter and to protect the privacy of the writers."

CROWNED — Francesca Adler, representing Fayetteville, receives her crown as the new Miss North Carolina. She was chosen over 10 other finalists at a pageant held in Raleigh and will represent the state in the Miss America competition later this year. (AP Laserphoto)

Miss N.C. Relaxes With Video Games

RALEIGH (AP) — The 1984 Miss North Carolina will be spending the next few months preparing for the Miss America pageant in September.

But she might also be found at a video game parlor. Francesca Margot Adler, 22, of Fayetteville, said she played video games as therapy and a way to get away from all the pageant preparations.

Miss Adler, representing Fayetteville, was crowned Saturday night in Raleigh. By Sunday morning, she had already started her official duties with a news conference. She may appear before the General Assembly today before heading to Southport for a July 4th celebration and to Miss Aberdeen and Miss Lumbee pageants.

"You have to be able to enjoy this lifestyle (to be a beauty queen)," she said. "Because this will be my lifestyle for the next year."

And it's a lifestyle that she seems to be looking forward to.

"I told the judges in my interview that I would make it my goal to be the best Miss North Carolina," she said.

She said she wasn't certain that she would be the best Miss North Carolina. "But if you strive for excellence, then you always give it everything you've got," she said.

The 5-foot-8, 118-pound green-eyed blonde won Friday's preliminary swimsuit competition. She said she wasn't uncomfortable about being judged on her appearance in a swimsuit because she thought the competition had kept up with the changing times.

"I wasn't uncomfortable at all," she said. Miss Adler said she thought the judges used the swimsuit competition to choose someone with a "well-toned, healthy, fit look."

She said she worked out with Nautilus equipment to get in good shape for the pageant.

For her talent competition, she sang "Home" from the Broadway musical "The Wiz."

Although she was born in Germany, Miss Adler has spent most of life in Fayetteville and calls it home. She said she wanted to get a masters in business administration and eventually start her own business in Fayetteville.

Study Disputes Cause of Deaths

RALEIGH (AP) — Unsafe conditions at Oregon Inlet often blamed for eight deaths actually were not the primary cause in any fatalities, according to a Washington, D.C.-based researcher.

Eric C. Olson, in a report prepared for the Wilderness Society, said his study of U.S. Coast Guard reports and news accounts shows shifting shoals between Bodie and Pea islands were not primarily responsible for the deaths in the past 15 years.

"A captain's unfamiliarity with the channel, the absence of a searchlight, a boat with a history of engine and radio problems, a Christmas Eve joyride and a captain who was found guilty of negligence and misconduct while operating his vessel all played major roles in the incidents that claimed the eight lives in question," he said.

Olson said last week that he prepared the report in anticipation of a U.S. House debate soon on legislation that would allow the U.S. Corps of Engineers to use 150 acres of land to anchor stone jetties for Oregon Inlet.

Jellyfish Attacks Abating

ATLANTIC BEACH, N.C. (AP) — The wave of stinging Portuguese man-of-war jellyfish that hit Atlantic Beach over the weekend was expected to abate today, officials said.

By Sunday afternoon, the winds that brought about 1,000 jellyfish ashore had changed direction, said Police Chief Wade Pelletier.

On Saturday, more than 30 swimmers were stung and Pelletier said he considered banning swimming at the southeastern North Carolina resort. Pelletier estimated 80 beachgoers may have been stung over the weekend.

Two of the victims attacked on Bogue Banks were being treated at Carteret County General Hospital for "toxic shock," according to medical personnel at the Atlantic Beach Med Center, a private emergency treatment clinic.

Pelletier said he used a 50-50 mixture of ammonia and distilled water to clean the wounds, which are then covered with a commercial meat tenderizer and a light bandage.

"We've been using that since I've been here," he said, "and I've been here a long time. It brings the poisonous acid out. I told everybody it was a weird remedy, but it works."

Males Say 'OK'

VADUZ, Liechtenstein (AP) — Male voters in the tiny constitutional monarchy of Liechtenstein narrowly approved a measure granting women the right to vote in national elections.

The referendum outcome made Liechtenstein the last European country to grant its women the right to vote on national issues.

But voters in the villages of Triesen, Triesenberg, Balzers and Mauren balked at granting women the right to vote on local issues, limiting women suffrage to federal issues.

With about 85 percent of the electorate voting, 2,370 men, or 51.3 percent voted in favor of granting women the right to vote in federal elections, while 2,251, or 48.7 percent, voted against the proposal.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined slightly today, still plagued by concern over the interest-rate outlook.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials slipped .88 to 1,131.52 in the first half hour.

Losers took a 5-4 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the latest economic news provided no particular encouragement for hopes of relief from the recent rise of interest rates.

The government reported this morning that factory orders rose 1.9 percent in May.

A survey of corporate purchasing managers, the results of which were released over the weekend, found respondents reporting continued strong expansion of the economy in June.

Continental Group climbed 3¼ to 55. The company has agreed to a $58.50-a-share takeover offer from a group of private investors.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average gained 5.85 to 1,132.40, giving it a gain for the week of 1.33.

Advances led declines by about 4 to 3 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume increased to 90.77 million shares from 77.66 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index rose .19 to 88.38. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .66 at 200.08.

Exclusion Of Blacks Allowed

Court Upholds Hobby Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The systematic exclusion of blacks as foremen of federal grand juries cannot be grounds for throwing out a criminal conviction, the Supreme Court ruled today.

By a 6-3 vote the justices upheld the conviction of Wilbur Hobby, former head of the AFL-CIO in North Carolina, on federal charges of defrauding a job-training program.

Although Hobby is white, he contended that his indictment should have been invalidated because historically blacks had not been picked by federal judges in the eastern district of North Carolina to serve as grand jury foremen.

Without deciding whether Hobby's allegations of systematic exclusions of blacks are true, the high court rejected his argument aimed at overturning his conviction.

"Discrimination in the selection of grand jury foremen — as distinguished from discrimination in the selection of the grand jury itself — does not in any sense threaten the interests of the defendant protected by the (Constitution)," Chief Justice Warren E. Burger wrote.

"The impact of a federal grand jury foreman upon the criminal justice system and the rights of persons charged with crime is minimal and incidental at best," Burger said. "The role of the foreman of a federal grand jury is not so significant to the administration of justice that discrimination in the appointment of that office (undermines) the integrity of the indictment."

Burger was joined by Justices Byron R. White, Harry A. Blackmun, Lewis F. Powell, William H. Rehnquist and Sandra Day O'Connor.

Justices Thurgood Marshall, William J. Brennan and John Paul Stevens dissented.

Hobby had contended that from 1974 through 1981 federal judges in eastern North Carolina appointed white males to be foremen of all 15 federal grand juries convened during that period.

The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled last year that although those statistics may be accurate the exclusion of blacks as foremen would have little bearing on who was indicted.

Today, the Supreme Court agreed.

The appeals court had noted that Hobby never charged that the composition of the grand jury itself was biased against blacks — a charge past Supreme Court rulings have established could be grounds for throwing out an indictment or conviction.

Hobby, 58, was sentenced in December 1981, to 18 months in prison and was fined $40,000. He has been free on appeal and has been working for the American Tobacco Co. in Durham, N.C., cutting stamps for cigarette packages.

Hobby was convicted of fraudulently obtaining and misapplying a $129,000 federal grand under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

In 1979, Hobby was the owner of Precision Graphics Inc., a printing company in Raleigh, N.C., located across the street from AFL-CIO headquarters. Federal prosecutors said that $28,000 of the federal grant was to be used to transport students to work at Precision Graphics but that no such service was provided.

Hobby also was accused of using the CETA funds to buy a computer for the union's use.

NEA President Blasts Reagan

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The National Education Association, preparing to welcome Democratic presidential candidate Walter Mondale, opened its four-day annual meeting with a blistering attack on the education policies of President Reagan.

NEA President Mary Hatwood Futrell, in a keynote address Sunday before 7,018 union delegates, urged teachers to work actively for Mondale's candidacy. She said that Reagan, if re-elected, would take steps that would "undermine public schools."

"He has already said, if he is re-elected, he will resume his efforts to slash education funding, eliminate the Education Department, and try to pass tuition tax credits, vouchers, and other measures that would undermine the public schools." Ms. Futrell said.

"We've been fighting this attack for four years," she said. "Now we say, 'enough!'"

Under Reagan, she said, the nation's budget deficit has grown and military spending has increased.

"What has happened to the fight for universal literacy, the battle to wipe out hunger and disease and the concern for the preservation of life?" Ms. Futrell asked.

Mondale was to address the NEA today. His speech was expected to deal with a broad range of issues, including peace, economic growth and social justice.

The NEA was the first national organization to support Mondale's candidacy last September. Ms. Futrell, who is a Mondale delegate, said the NEA will be sending 270 delegates to the Democratic National Convention in San Francisco — and 220 are pledged to Mondale.

At a news conference following Ms. Futrell's address, the union released a poll of 2,000 kindergarten-through-12th grade NEA-affiliated teachers which indicated that 85 percent believe their schools are safe and orderly — an apparent contradiction of the view expressed by Reagan that school discipline has worsened.

It also found 70 percent opposed to merit pay using current performance evaluation criteria, and 71 percent rejected the idea of using standardized tests to grant teachers recertification.

Those findings seemed to conflict with a Louis Harris poll of nearly 2,000 teachers released last week that found 57 percent believed periodic competency testing of practicing teachers would boost the quality of teaching in America's classrooms.

NEA spokesman Howard Carroll attributed the discrepancy partly to differences in the wording of the poll, plus the fact that the Harris poll included both union and non-union teachers.

most successful," Riggs said.

The geologist, credited with finding immense deposits of commercially valuable phosphate underlying hundreds of square miles of ocean floor 60 miles off the North Carolina coast, told trustees the 20 to 30 knot winds and 4-feet to 5-feet seas Sunday, which made the 131-foot Hatteras pitch and roll during its trip to a point about 15 miles off shore, were "a normal working day on the water."

During the cruise, board members toured the Hatteras and saw demonstrations of methods used to sample the ocean bottom, with the methods bringing up sand samples, baby flounder and shrimp, hermit crabs, and star fish, among other things.

Riggs, one of the the world's authorities on the origins and distribution of phosphates and a leader in the development of ECU's coastal studies and marine science program, is a co-author of the book "From Currituck to Calabash: Living with North Carolina's Barrier Islands," which describes the effects of development on the dynamic and fragile coastal environments.

British Protest

CHILWELL, England (AP) — Anti-nuclear campaigners ripped down fences and invaded a British army depot to protest its partial lease to the U.S. Army.

The Ministry of Defense said 125 people were detained and three British military personnel received slight injuries, including one officer who was bitten on the arm by a demonstrator.

Britain's Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament said 1,000 of an estimated 3,500 demonstrators got through the perimeter fence and into playing fields surrounding the base in Nottinghamshire. Police put the turnout at 2,000.

The family will receive friends tonight from 8-9 p.m. at Mitchell's Funeral Home in Winterville.

Acuff Enters Hospital

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Grand Ole Opry star Roy Acuff was resting well today after being hospitalized because of chest and stomach pains, hospital officials say.

Acuff, 80, "the king of country music," was scheduled to perform at the Opry on Sunday, but at midafternoon he said he wasn't feeling well and drove to Edgefield Hospital, said Opry public relations director Jerry Strobel.

"We're going to take some X-rays of his stomach and chest to find out what the trouble is," said his physician, Dr. Clarence Woodcock. "We'll probably keep Roy here a couple of days until we examine the X-rays."

Acuff, famous for songs such as "The Wabash Cannonball" and "The Great Speckled Bird," has sung and played his fiddle on the Opry's live country music radio show since 1938.

Acuff, also a regular on the syndicated television show "Hee Haw," suffered a heart attack in 1976.

He instructed hospital staffers: "If anybody wants to know what's wrong with me, tell 'em I just drank too much of my favorite beverage — cranberry juice."

Your Social Security Disability Benefits

BENEFITS DENIED?

Have you been denied benefits under Social Security's disability benefits programs? Do not be discouraged. That happens to most people who apply the first time.

Have you asked for reconsideration of your disability claim and been turned down a second time? Again, don't be discouraged or give up. That's the way the disability system works today.

Take your case one step further and go before a Social Security Administrative Law Judge for a hearing with a qualified representative to present your case. Then the chances of your winning benefits are somewhere between 70% and 80%. The Judge will see you and hear your personal description of your physical or mental illness, and your representative will present your case as it applies to the complex rules of the Social Security Act.

If you have a hearing requested or scheduled before an Administrative Law Judge, call now for an immediate conference. There is no fee for an initial conference to discuss your eligibility for disability.

Under Pressure

Tampa Bay quarterback John Reaves (7) gets off a pass under pressure from Joe Cugliari (95) and Taft Sales (58) of the Birmingham Stallions in the first quarter of the Eastern Conference Southern Division playoff game in Birmingham Sunday. Reaves completed the pass for a first down, but the Stallions eliminated the Bandits. (AP Laserphoto)

Birmingham Ousts Tampa Bay, 36-17

By The Associated Press

Rollie Dotsch may have set a precedent of sorts by giving his Birmingham Stallions a day off to cool off before meeting the Tampa Bay Bandits in the United States Football League playoffs.

"I gave them a Saturday off to give them an edge," Dotsch said after the Stallions advanced Sunday to the Eastern Conference championship game with a 36-17 victory.

"There was a little scuffling all week because the practices were so intense," said Dotsch. "I could feel it in my bones. We were ready."

Indeed they were.

Joe Cribbs, the league's leading rusher, gained 112 yards, Danny Miller kicked five field goals and the Birmingham defense set up two touchdowns to advance to the confernce final next Sunday in Philadelphia.

George Allen's Arizona Wranglers overcame a 16-3 deficit in the final period of Sunday's other USFL game to pull out a 17-16 victory over Houston. The Wranglers will host the Los Angeles Express next Sunday for the Western Conference crown.

The Express ousted defending champion Michigan on Saturday, winning the longest game in professional football history, 27-21 in three overtimes.

Philadelphia crushed New Jersey 28-7 in Saturday's other game.

The winners of next weekend's games meet for the league championship July 15 in Tampa, Fla.

"Miller was probably the difference," said Bandits Coach Steve Spurrier. "Everytime I thought, 'if he misses this kick, we could come back.' But he just kept hitting them."

Miller booted field goals of 42, 49, 35, 42 and 32 yards.

Cribbs, with 1,467 yards in the regular season, scored on a 3-yard run in the third period to give the Stallions a 27-11 lead.

Cribbs also caught three passes for 55 yards. One was a 29-yarder to the Tampa Bay 1 in the first period

Baird Named East Coach Of The Year

Former East Carolina University head baseball coach Hal Baird was named the NCAA's Division I East Region Coach of the Year.

Baird, who left the Pirates on May 31 to assume the same duties at Auburn University, compiled a 145-66-1 record during his five-year reign as a head coach for a .686 winning percentage. The Petersburg, Va., native guided East Carolina to a 34-13 record, an ECAC-South championship and a spot in the NCAA playoffs in 1984.

The 34 victories tied a school record, set by Baird's 1982 club, while the ECAC-South title was Baird's second since becoming eligible for the championship in 1982. The Pirates placed third in the six-team NCAA South I Regional, their best showing in post-season play.

Baird coached ECU to three NCAA playoff appearances (1980-82-84) before accepting the position at Auburn. Prior to assuming the head coaching responsibilities at ECU, Baird served as assistant coach in charge of pitching under Monte Little from 1977 to 1979.

Baird played his college baseball at ECU (1970-71) after transferring from Ferrum (Va.) Junior COllege and was with the Kansas City Royals organization for seven years.

Wimbledon Women Celebrate 100 Years

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — It was a century ago that women in layered summer skirts first walked daintily onto the grass at the All-England Lawn Tennis and Croquet Club to play in the annual tennis tournament.

Today, the Wimbledon championships were to pay homage to 100 years of women's champions in a ceremony on Centre Court.

But rain threatened both the ceremony and the hectic day of singles play due to follow.

An intermittent downpour started at mid-day, and the forecast was for showers to continue.

Seventeen of the game's legends stood by for the ceremony, in honor of the day, Wednesday, July 16, 1884, that 13 women players --one later withdrew -- gathered for the first Wimbledon women's tourney.

On hand today were women stars from Kitty Godfree, the 1924 and 1926 champion, to Martina Navratilova, the defending champion and top seed. Otahers included Althea Gibson, 1957, 1958; Maria Bueno, 1959, 1960, 1964; Margaret Smith Court, 1963, 1965, 1970, and Billie Jean King, 1966, 1967, 1968, 1972, 1973, 1975.

Navratilova, a four-time champion, was to continue her title defense against Elizabeth Sayers of Australia while three-time champion Chris Evert Lloyd, seeded second behind Navratilova, challenged 14th seed Claudia Kohde of West Germany.

With both halves of the men's and women's draw due for action, top seed John McEnroe was to grapple with 14th seed Bill Scanlon in a notorious grudge match. The No. 2 seed, Ivan Lendl, was to follow the women's champions on Centre Court with a contest against Scott Davis, and Jimmy Connors, seeded third, had a match with 16th seed Tim Mayotte next door on No. 1 court.

The Scanlon-McEnroe clash had McEnroe watchers eager with anticipation. McEnroe ousted the hard-serving Texan last year en route to the title, but Scanlon upset the New Yorker at the U.S. Open later in the year. Neither player makes any secret about his dislike of the other.

"I expect a hard match, but I expect to win," McEnroe said. So far, to the delight of tournament officials — and the chagrin of the British tabloids — the fiery 25-year-old has kept his temper well in check on court, limiting his few questions on calls to pointed but brief objections.

"Mac the Knight keeps his cool," was a headline in the London Sunday Mirror. The only players to run afoul of the officials have been one-time tennis "bad boy" Connors, fined $500 for obscenity after a tape of his Friday match with Marty Davis was reviewed, and Australian Mark Edmonson, debited $750 for abuse of a linesman.

With no "McEnrows" to write about, the press instead has been digging deep into the players' private lives, reporting about alleged new loves for McEnroe, Jimmy Arias and others and a new "companion," a Texas mother of two, for Navratilova.

Officials of the All-England club warned they were considering getting tough on the press prying. In an extraordinary statement Sunday, the club said it is "seriously concerned" about "intrusive questioning" of the players in post-match interviews and "harassment" elsewhere. It said it was planning a full-scale review of credential qualifications and procedures for the championships.

The incidents served to emphasize the changes at Wimbledon since the days when Kitty Godfree played. In an interview last month, the venerable British champ was asked whether she ever felt like giving a linesman what for. "Of course," she said. "But we never would have dreamed of saying anything. If there was a bad call, we usually depended on our opponent to see it put right."

In the course of a century, it's not just the hemlines that have changed.

Olympians Top NBA

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Enough experimenting. Enough evaluating. With the Summer Olympics less than a month away, U.S. basketball Coach Bobby Knight is ready to get down to business.

Knight let all 12 of his Olympians play between 14 and 18 minutes Sunday in a nationally televised 94-90 triumph over a pick-up team of National Basketball Association stars. A crowd of 19,038 was on hand for the first-ever basketball game at the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome.

"But that's the last game we'll do that," Knight said. "From now on we will play our five starters and substitute them only when they're in foul trouble or get tired."

Knight wouldn't say who his starters will be for the next Olympic-NBA game July 8 in Iowa City, or for the team's first Olympic game July 29 against China.

But he hinted that North Carolina's Michael Jordan and Indiana's Steve Alford, two accurate long-range bombers, will be called upon to pick apart the zone defenses Knight expects to see in Los Angeles.

When the pros came out in the second half in a 3-2 zone defense Sunday, the Olympians hit only 31 percent from the floor and blew a 12-point halftime lead.

Knight's troops needed four free throws from Georgetown's Pat Ewing in the final minute to regain the lead.

"Winning or losing was not our objective," Knight said. "Were it, we would have completely changed our lineup. Alford and Jordan weren't in there. It wasn't our zone offense."

Although Sunday's game was the first close one in three clashes with NBA stars, Knight thought his defense showed improvement.

"They worked like hell to create a lot of problems," Knight said. "After we score, our defense is pretty good. But if we don't score, we just aren't ready to play defense.

"It's safe to say we won't play against this type of talent in the Olympics, but when we get to Los Angeles, we'll be playing against a team-oriented concept."

He said the NBA squad — which included Los Angeles' Magic Johnson, Dallas' Mark Aguirre, Boston's Kevin McHale and Detroit's Isiah Thomas — boasted some of the best players in the world.

"It hit me early, seeing the NBA stars," Jordan said. "We let them intimidate us with their status. Every once in a while, I dreamed about playing against these guys, but right now I have to concentrate on the Olympics."

Sam Perkins, who paced the Olympians with 16 points, said he was concerned by a "slippage between practice and the games."

"We have to keep things constant," Perkins said. "Maybe we need a loss to wake us up."

Perkins said most Americans assume their team will win the gold medal, "but we have to realize the other teams are getting better and they're out to beat us."

Other leading Olympic scorers included Jordan, Ewing and St. John's Chris Mullin, each with 12 points.

"I don't think they have a ton of weaknesses," said McHale, who led the pros with 18 points, including 12 in the second half. "Once they get a little more accustomed to playing together, they'll be all that much better."

Russo Leads Snow Hill Past Pitt County In Legion Finale

SNOW HILL — Anthony Russo slapped three hits and drove in two runs as Snow Hill downed Pitt County 4-2 Sunday in American Legion baseball action.

Snow Hill starter Jerry Butler scattered six hits and three walks in six innings to earn the victory on the mound, while Billy Braswell held Pitt County hitless in the final three frames for a save.

Nat Norris, Joey Steppe and Michael Warren had two hits each for Snow Hill.

Traye Fuqua led Pitt County with three hits and drove in both runs.

Steppe singled to open the bottom of the second and moved to second on a sacrifice by Todd Grant. After a walk by Kevin Langston and a single to left by Warren, an error allowed Steppe to score the winning run. Norris drew a base on balls, and Russo followed with an RBI single to plate Langston.

Pitt County trimmed the margin with a run in the fourth, as Billy Michel singled, went to second on a sacrifice by Mike Kinley and scored on a single by Fuqua.

Pitt evened the score in the top of the sixth with its final run. Michel walked, and Kinley executed the sacrifice again to move the runner to second. Fuqua singled in Michel for a 2-2 knot.

But Snow Hill took control in the bottom of the frame. Warren reached first on an error, stole second, went to third on a sacrifice by Norris and scored on a single by Russo.

In the eighth, Norris singled, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on a single by Randy Daniels.

Pitt County, which finished second behind Wayne County in the league race, dropped to 13-5 and hosts Edenton in the opening round of the tournament. Snow Hill, now 10-8, entertains Wilson in the tourney.

In the All-Star Game Saturday at Smithfield, Russo knotted the contest with a two-run homer in the top of the ninth but then made a costly error as the West rallied past the East 7-6.

Randy Leathers walked, and Don Gullue rolled a sacrifice toward Russo at third base. Russo's throw to first sailed up the line in right field allowing Leathers to circle the bases with the game-winning run.

Paul Quinn and Doug Phillips had two hits each for the West. Norris led the East with a hit and two runs scored, while Doug Coley drove in two runs with a single in the fifth.

Cubs Hold Off Dodgers For Victory

By The Associated Press

It was difficult and it was bizarre, yet it was a victory for the Chicago Cubs — maybe.

The Cubs breezed into the ninth inning of Sunday's game in Los Angeles with a 4-1 lead. By the time it was over, Chicago had held on for a 4-3 triumph and the Dodgers had lodged a protest.

In other National League games, New York swept a double-header from Atlanta, 2-1 and 3-2, Houston trounced Philadelphia 13-1, Cincinnati tripped Montreal 4-1, San Francisco beat Pittsburgh 7-4 and San Diego downed St. Louis 3-1.

After Dennis Eckersley allowed only four Los Angeles hits over eight innings, ace Cubs reliever Lee Smith took over to start the ninth. With one out, Mike Marshall and Mike Scioscia singled.

Greg Brock then hit a grounder to second baseman Ryne Sandberg, who flipped the ball to shortstop Dave Owen for a forceout, but Owen's throw back to first was wild for an error, allowing Marshall to score and making it 4-2.

With pinch hitter R.J. Reynolds coming to the plate and representing the tying run, Cubs first baseman Keith Moreland went to the Chicago dugout, and then went to talk with Smith.

Smith threw one ball to Reynolds and then Dodgers Manager Tommy Lasorda emerged from his dugout. He said that since Chicago Manager Jim Frey had visited the mound once before in the inning, Moreland's trip should count as a second visit, meaning the Cubs had to replace their pitcher.

The umpires agreed, and Frey fetched Warren Brusstar from the bullpen while Lasorda announced that the Dodgers were playing the game under protest.

Reynolds promptly cracked an RBI single, making it 4-3. Bill Russell also singled and Steve Sax walked, loading the bases. Brusstar then ran the count to 3-2 before striking out a swinging Ken Landreaux.

"The protest is based on the fact he (the umpire) was supposed to take the pitcher out and he didn't," said Lasorda, who claimed that Brusstar got extra time to warm up while Smith pitched to Reynolds.

Lee Weyer, the plate umpire and crew chief, took a dim view toward Lasorda's contention.

"There's no way in the world he can win that protest," Weyer said.

Among those who felt uncomfortable during the ninth inning was Eckersley, 2-5.

"I thought it would be nice and easy, being ahead in the ninth like that and Lee out there," Eckersley said. "But I about got sick when I heard they had the bases loaded and were only down a run."

Jody Davis belted a two-run triple and had two singles to pin the loss on Fernando Valenzuela, 8-9.

Mets 2-3, Braves 1-2

The seventh inning was lucky for the New York Mets — twice.

In the first game, Darryl Strawberry singled with the bases loaded and two outs in the seventh to break a scoreless pitcher's duel between Ron Darling of the Mets and Atlanta's Rick Mahler.

Strawberry had grounded out with the bases loaded to end the fifth inning.

Darling gave up two hits over seven innings and Jesse Orosco went the final two innings for his 14th save. It was Darling's sixth straight victory, the first Met pitcher to do that since Tom Seaver in 1975.

In the misty nightcap in New York, the Mets tied it 2-2 in the fourth on George Foster's solo home run, his 11th and the 300th of his career, and then won it in the seventh when Jeff Dedmon threw a wild pitch with two outs, allowing pinch runner Jose Oquendo to score.

"Well, it may not have been pretty, but at least nobody will write that the Mets are going down the tubes," said New York Manager Davey Johnson.

Astros 13, Phillies 1

Houston entered the game with just 28 home runs this season, the lowest total in the major leagues. But Jerry Mumphrey homered twice and drove in six runs while Denny Walling also homered, making it the first time this season the Astros have hit three home runs in one game.

Houston has now hit 11 homers in its last 11 games and the Astros are averaging seven runs per game in their last 12.

Mumphrey's second two-run homer, his sixth of the year, put Houston ahead 11-0 in the sixth inning.

Joe Niekro, 8-7, pitched a six-hitter for his sixth straight victory.

Giants 7, Pirates 4

Atlee Hammaker, making his second start this season since coming back from a sore shoulder, came through with his second strong performance as San Francisco won its fifth straight game.

Hammaker pitched six innings and gave up three hits in recording the victory, his first since last July 10.

Bob Brenly singled and doubled twice, once with the bases loaded to drive in three runs.

The Giants sent the visiting Pirates to their sixth straight loss. This is the third six-game losing streak for Pittsburgh this season.

Reds 4, Expos 1

Jeff Russell pitched a nifty four-hitter to halt the Expos in Cincinnati. Russell, 4-8, struck out six and did not walk a batter.

Montreal's run came when Andre Dawson led off the fifth inning with his fourth home run of the season.

Cincinnati went ahead in the sixth against Steve Rogers, 3-7. The Reds loaded the bases with one out and Nick Esasky hit a grounder to second baseman Doug Flynn, who threw to shortstop Argenis Salazar for a forceout. But Salazar threw wildly back to first, allowing two runs to score.

Brad Gulden, who had two earlier hits, belted a two-run homer in the eighth off Jeff Reardon.

Padres 3, Cardinals 1

Ed Whitson continued his strong efforts on the mound for San Diego, with help from Rich Gossage.

Whitson raised his record to 9-4 by pitching 6 2-3 innings and allowing six hits. He left the game with two runners on base and Gossage gave up Steve Braun's pinch-RBI single before getting his 14th save.

The game in San Diego was scoreless through five innings. St. Louis starter Dave LaPoint, 6-8, left in the sixth after walking Steve Garvey and Carmelo Martinez.

Reliever Jeff Lahti fumbled Kevin McReynolds' bunt for an error that loaded the bases, and Garry Templeton hit a one-out sacrifice fly before Bruce Bochy lined a run-scoring single.

Barfield Rips Two Homers For Toronto

By The Associated Press

For Toronto's Jesse Barfield and California's Brian Downing, lightning did strike twice.

Both players hit two home runs Sunday, including three-run shots in the seventh inning that powered their teams to key victories.

Barfield, who hit a solo homer off Curt Young in the fourth inning, unloaded on Oakland reliever Keith Atherton with two teammates aboard in the seventh, erasing a 6-4 deficit and giving the Blue Jays a 7-6 triumph over the Athletics.

"I got a good pitch to hit and I capitalized," Barfield said of his game-winning blast. "I was trying to be selective, but aggressive at the same time. I didn't want to swing at any bad pitches. I got two strikes on me and I was just looking for something I could use my hands on and drive without trying to swing too hard."

Meanwhile, Downing hit a three-run homer off Bob McClure in the first inning to help the Angels build a 4-0 lead. But he had to do it again with a tie-breaking smash off Pete Ladd in the seventh and this time the Angels held on to defeat the Milwaukee Brewers 7-6.

"The first homer was on a fastball on a 3-2 count," Downing said. "It was up and in, the same as Ladd's. He (Ladd) gives me a lot of trouble and I just decided to wait for one pitch and I got it on the first pitch."

In other American League games, Minnesota blanked Detroit Tigers 9-0, Baltimore whipped Chicago 8-3, Seattle nipped Boston 1-0, Kansas City trounced New York 8-0 and Cleveland clobbered Texas 13-5.

Dwayne Murphy's solo homer and Dave Kingman's two-run shot, his 21st, helped Oakland to a 6-3 lead over Toronto. But Lloyd Moseby started the Blue Jays' seventh with a single off Atherton and scored on a double by George Bell. Cliff Johnson singled Bell to third and Barfield, who also had a single and double, followed with his seventh homer of the season.

"With the type of ballclub we have, we can always come back. We believe we can do that," Barfield said. "You have to capitalize on other teams' mistakes. That was the key — when they made mistakes, we took it to them."

Angels 7, Brewers 6

With the score tied 4-4, Ladd relieved McClure, after Mike Brown singled with two out in the seventh. Ladd walked Doug DeCinces before serving up the decisive home run pitch to Downing. Ben Oglivie homered for Milwaukee in the bottom of the seventh and the Brewers scored another run in the eighth. But with the bases loaded and one out, left fielder Juan Beniquez caught Jim Gantner's shallow fly and nailed Ed Romero at the plate as he tried to score the tying run.

Twins 9, Tigers 0

Kent Hrbek drove in four runs with a double and homer to back the four-hit pitching of Frank Viola.It was the first victory over the Tigers in five career tries for Viola, who has won his last four starts. He struck out three and walked one.

Juan Berenguer, the only Detroit pitcher with a losing record, surrendered six runs in five innings, including Hrbek's two-run homer in the fifth. Hrbek also had a two-run double off Sid Monge in the ninth while Houston Jimenez drove in two runs with a single and double.

"I thought I'd never get one against them," Viola said. "The first two times I faced them (this season), I got in trouble early with home runs. This makes me feel good. It shows I can pitch against them. In the past, I think I was trying to be too careful. Just go right at them, that seems to be the best way to go after Detroit. Challenge them, quit pussyfooting around."

"What offense would have helped us today?" Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson wondered. "We could have had Joe DiMaggio, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig — there was nothing they could have done."

Orioles 8, White Sox 3

Eddie Murray and Wayne Gross homered and Mike Young's triple keyed a four-run seventh inning while Mike Boddicker held Chicago to six hits.Murray's 15th homer came on an 0-2 pitch in the fourth inning off loser LaMarr Hoyt after Cal Ripken Jr. singled and gave the Orioles a 2-0 lead. Doubles by Rick Dempsey and Al Bumbry added a run in the fifth before the Orioles wrapped it up with four in the seventh, which featured doubles by Gross and Gary Roenicke in addition to Young's triple.Gross homered in the eighth.

Mariners 1, Red Sox 0

Dave Henderson broke up a pitching duel for the second straight day by leading off the ninth inning with his seventh home run and rookie Mark Langston pitched a three-hitter for his second consecutive shutout. Henderson, who broke up another pitching duel Saturday with a seventh-inning homer for a 2-1 Seattle victory.

Stallions Win...

to set up the first of two short scoring runs by quarterback Cliff Stoudt.

An interception by Chuck Clanton and a fumble recovery by Buddy Aydelette put Birmingham in position for two of its touchdowns.

Wranglers 17, Gamblers 16

Houston, on the strength of quarterback Jim Kelly's 14-yard touchdown run and three field goals by Toni Fritsch, seemed in control with 13:37 to play.But Gambler punter Dale Walters suffered 15-and 13-yard punts to set up the late Arizona scoring drives.

Tim Spencer pulled the Wranglers to within six points with 6:11 remaining on a 20-yard touchdown run following the first short punt. Then Greg Landry tossed an 11-yard scoring pass to Doug Dennison, and Frank Corral, whose 38-yard field goal accounted for the lone Arizona scoring in the first half, won the game with an extra point with 1:49 remaining.

"The key to winning the game was poise and playing together," Allen said. "Don't take chances. Every play could be the game in the last six minutes."

Express 27, Panthers 21

"I've never been through anything like that in my life," said Los Angeles Coach John Hadl — and neither had anyone else.

The teams played 93 minutes, 33 seconds, breaking the old mark of 82:40 set by the Miami Dolphins and Kansas City Chiefs in a 1971 National Football League playoff game. Just 8,753 fans witnessed the struggle in the 90,000-seat Los Angeles Coliseum.

Ironically, the player who broke up the game, tailback Mel Gray, broke his left arm as he crashed into the end zone on a 24-yard touchdown run at 3:33 of the third overtime.

Kevin Nelson scored his second touchdown of the game on a 1-yard run to bring the Express to within 21-19 with 52 seconds left in regulation time.Quarterback Steve Young followed with a dash around left end for the two-point conversion to set up the overtime.

Michigan had two chances to win, but Novo Bojovic missed a 37-yard field goal attempt with 10:13 left in the first overtime period and a 36-yarder with 36 seconds left in the second.

Stars 28, Generals 7

Philadelphia, scored 21 unanswered points in the second period to avenge its only two losses of the season, both to New Jersey.

The "Doghouse" defense, which limited New Jersey's Herschel Walker to 50 yards rushing, got started early when Scott Woerner intercepted a Brian Sipe pass to kill the first drive by the Generals. John Bunting recovered a Sipe fumble following a sack by Pete Kugler to set up the first of Kelvin Bryant's three touchdowns, a 10-yard run early in the second period.

Bryant also scored one a 1-yard run and on an 11-yard pass from Chuck Fusina. Garcia Lane returned a punt 70 yards for the other Philadelphia touchdown.

"When you fall behind a defensive team like that, it's all uphill," said Sipe.

Norman Takes Canadian

OAKVILLE, Ontario (AP) — Greg Norman is on a roll, doing what he wants to do, and doing it so very well.

"It's a great feeling," Norman said after he had bested Jack Nicklaus in a head-to-head duel and scored a two-shot victory in the Canadian Open Golf Championship Sunday.

"I wake up in the morning and all I want to do is go out there and play golf. It's fun. It's exciting.

"When I wake up and I don't want to go play golf, then it's time to take a couple of weeks off."

But the time is not yet.

"I'm looking forward to the British Open," Norman said. "I know St. Andrews well, all the humps and hollows. I'm looking forward to it.

"But I'm also looking forward to the Western Open, going on to Chicago next week and trying to win that golf tournament. Who knows? Maybe I will."

Norman, 29, one of the longest hitters in the game, already has won four times this season: two in Australia at the start of the season, the Kemper Open in Bethesda, Md., early last month and now the Canadian national championship.

That does not, however, ease the memories of his playoff loss to Fuzzy Zoeller in the U.S. Open.

"Not in the least," Norman said. "That will be there, that will be in my mind, until I do win the U.S. Open," he said.

Norman, a white-haired man who is known as the "Great White Shark," and Nicklaus each came from four shots back and were tied for the lead after 13 holes of the final round.

But Nicklaus lost three shots to Norman over the next two holes and the Australian brought it home, shooting a final round 67 and a 278 total, 10 shots under par on the Glen Abbey Golf Club course that Nicklaus designed as a permanent home for this national championship.

Norman thus joined Tom Watson, Tom Kite and Gary Koch as two-time winners on the PGA Tour this season and confirmed his position in the front-rank of the game's leading players.

Old Timers Gather For Classic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major League baseball's all-time greats, from pitching masters Sandy Koufax, Bob Feller and Warren Spahn, to sluggers Hank Aaron, Harmon Killebrew and Joe DiMaggio, will dust off their spikes and gloves Monday night, rekindling diamond days of glories past in the Cracker Jack Old Timers Classic.

Some 30,000-plus fans are expected to watch the third renewal of the five-inning exhibition at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium. The game will be taped for showing nationwide by the ESPN cable network on July 9.

One player who won't be there is Willie Mays. The former star outfielder was accorded with the warmest welcome by the crowd in pre-game introductions but left in a huff after he was not inserted in the starting lineup.

Asked to come again, Mays has declined the invitation.

"We would hope in the future Willie will be back," said Dick Cecil, the game's director.

The American League won the first game in 1982, 7-2, with then 75-year-old Luke Appling's 280-foot home run off National League starter Spahn. Both players again will play Monday night but Appling is not looking forward to another round-tripper.

"I'm going to single to right from now on," Appling says with a smile. "Otherwise, it's too far to run."

American League Manager Bill Rigney's team includes a mound corp that includes 300-game winner Early Wynn, Feller, Whitey Ford, Ed Lopat, Claude Osteen and Camilo Pascual and Mel Parnell.

Killebrew, who will be installed in Baseball's Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., later this summer, will share third base with Brooks Robinson. Others taking a turn in the AL infield will be Appling, George Kell, Al Rosen, Mickey Vernon, Boog Powell, Bobby Brown and Jerry Coleman, Bobby Doerr and Ray Boone.

DiMaggio, Rocky Colavito and Al Kaline will provide a starting outfield that combined for 1,100 homers overall.

The National League, which won 5-3 last year to even the series, will be managed by Bob Scheffing.

The senior circuit squad will be led on the mound by Koufax, making his first appearance in this game, Spahn, Juan Marichal, Robin Roberts, Vinegar Bend Mizell, Lew Burdette and Billy O'Dell.

Behind the plate will be Johnny Bench.

The NL infield, moving from first to third, includes Ted Kluszewski and Wes Parker, Dick Groat and Bill Mazeroski, Ernie Banks and Johnny Logan, and Ron Santo and Ted Sizemore.

The outfield finds Aaron, baseball's all-time homerun hitter with 755, Billy Williams, Ralph Kiner, Lou Brock, Ron Fairly, Wally Moon, Enos Slaughter and Bobby Thomson.

Proceeds for the game will go to the Association of Professional Baseball Players of America, which helps care for former players and coaches who have fallen on hard times.

Ipock-Taft Win Event

The team of Bobby Ipock and Ray Taft aced the final hole of the 54-hole event to take first place in the Sunday Night Best Ball Tournament at Putt-Putt Golf and Games.

Ipock and Taft combined for rounds of 29, 27 and 24, while Robert Beacham and Gator Knox finished second with rounds of 29, 26 and 26.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JULY 3, 1983

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Early morning upset, where some quick action of considerable importance is concerned, can be followed by an ability to get conditions about you, of a detailed and specific nature, in good shape for the days ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can receive a disappointing message in the morning, but later can get much done at whatever work you are interested in.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't argue with one in business over a bill and plan some entertainment that you like and is within your budget.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Some disagreement with an associate should not bother you in the morning, and later you can get a good deal accomplished.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You find it difficult sledding at work in the morning, but later all eases up and a good friend is helpful to you.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) The morning may be a little difficult but later you can get into a monetary plan that will inspire you. Don't pressure a friend.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Some annoying situation at home should be avoided, so get out early and gain those personal goals that mean much to you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Some private aim is difficult to get, so forget about it. Any terse remarks could bring trouble.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A financial affair with a pal could cause trouble, so use discretion and gain your aims. Some obstacle could upset you if you permit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You may find it difficult to solve a career affair, but later a bigwig comes to your assistance if you render a favor.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are perplexed about how to gain some new aim early but you get an excellent idea and can accomplish much.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get busy at vocational duties early. Keep any promises you have made, and then you can see your friends later.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't argue with an associate and then you can get much done and come to a fine agreement with this person.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be capable of getting at the heart of whatever situation faces him or her and solve the matter properly once the tendency to use force is conquered. Teach to become more cooperative with others and not so independent.

President Sworn

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Former West Berlin Mayor Richard von Weizsaecker has been sworn in as West Germany's sixth president.

Weizsaecker, a 64-year-old Christian Democrat, was elected to a five-year term May 23 by the Federal Convention, an assembly that meets every five years to name a president.

He replaced Karl Carstens, 69, also a conservative, who is retiring from active politics after one term in the largely ceremonial post.

'Summer Sunday' Lacks Flexibility

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's first installment of "Summer Sunday, USA" was live television on the edge. It didn't exactly fly, but it didn't fall off, either.

NBC News' first multipart venture into prime time since the cancellation of "First Camera" existed somewhere between meaningful and meaningless Sunday night.

For regular newspaper readers or evening news viewers, there was no new news, unless you count the previously unreported fact that the Rev. Jesse Jackson was the tallest Democratic presidential hopeful.

This piece of news trivia, which came in a pre- and post-commercial question-and-answer spot, suggested that the experimental "Summer Sunday" was a TV news show that was less news and more TV show.

And it was. But that isn't necessarily all bad, provided the broadcast can be lively and interesting, and, for the most part, "Summer Sunday" was all that live TV is supposed to be.

There were plenty of technical and editorial kinks, but the program showed the potential to be daring, provocative and alive, which is more than you can say for most TV.

It achieved its objective to be different, and it won't be confused with timeslot competitor "60 Minutes." It also won't be confused with follow-up program, "Knight Rider." The clash of ideas on "Summer Sunday" is preferable to the crash of cars.

Andrea Mitchell and Linda Ellerbee, billed as prime time's first female co-anchors, seemed uncomfortable as they sat under umbrellas on the rain-soaked Washington Mall and conducted live interviews to points all over the globe.

Most of the link-ups worked well enough, satisfying executive producer Steve Friedman's vision of a "Wide World of News." The one major exception was the interview with Hu Na, the tennis star who defected from China. She was on camera, squirming, unable to hear Miss Mitchell's questions.

Back in Washington, Miss Mitchell then had a technically safer, face-to-face conversation with another expatriate, this one from El Salvador.

It wasn't exactly face to face, though. "Rosa Maria," an illegal alien, was wearing a big hat that covered half her face to protect her identity. As an opponent of the American-backed government in El Salvador, she served as a counterpoint to Hu Na. She said she was unsafe in her homeland and unwelcome here.

"Summer Sunday" was at its best when it found people with different situations and stances, successfully examining them in between promotions for NBC's other news shows and its own correspondents.

The best segment was "Trading Places," in which Sen. Gary Hart got to throw hardballs at three reporters who covered his presidential campaign. But, just when the significant issue of news judgment was raised, Miss Mitchell cut in to ask Hart whether he would accept the vice presidency.

His answer was the same one he's been giving for weeks. He intends to be the party's presidential nominee.

Another promising segment was "Face-Off," in which former presidential candidate George McGovern and former Secretary of the Interior James Watt disagreed on American political philosophy in a live debate.

Cameras showed alternating close-ups of the two men, giving the feel of two boxers in a clinch, but, just as they started to mix it up, Miss Ellerbee came in to ring the bell.

That was one of the major weaknesses of "Summer Sunday," which has eight more weeks to run. The format wasn't flexible enough to expand the good segments and kill the lame ones.

On Sunday night, nobody would have missed a superficial poll that was too broad and unscientific to be taken seriously. In one question, 90 percent of the respondents said that America was still the greatest country.

There also was a highly self-serving spot that merely gave prime-time visibility to Ken Bode and Connie Chung, two of NBC's floor correspondents at the political conventions. Bode gave odds on the Democratic vice presidential possibilities without adequately explaining his touting.

But NBC, with its promotions for the "Today" show, "Nightly News" and its convention correspondents, didn't do the only on-air advertising.

Tiny Utility Serves 18 Customers

OGDEN, Ind. (AP) — When gas customers in the tiny town of Ogden have a problem, they go right to the top — they call the president of the gas company.

"I have to be available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year," says Don Miller, president, sole shareholder and only full-time employee of Snow and Ogden Gas Co. Inc. "When people need heat, I'm responsible for giving them all the heat they want."

Miller's company serves 18 residential customers in Ogden, about 40 miles east of Indianapolis.It has two gas wells, one drilled in 1880 and another in 1940, and three miles of pipeline.

"To the best of my knowledge, it's the smallest public utility in the United States," said Miller, 50, a plumber who bought the company in 1973.

Don Engerer, a member of the Indiana Public Service Commission's engineering staff, says Snow and Ogden "is the only small utility drawing gas in the state of Indiana." The only smaller operations are private gas wells used by farmers in some parts of the state, he said.

"I'm governed by the same rules and regulations as Indiana Gas," Miller said last week from his company's offices in Cadiz, 16 miles north of Ogden.

That means that when he applied for a rate increase, which he received earlier this year, he had to buy legal advertising in newspapers to announce the rate request. Then the PSC sent representatives from its accounting and engineering departments to inspect Miller's books and operation, said Greg Crider, a New Castle attorney who represents Miller.

"He has all the problems and headaches of a major utility," said Engerer. "But he's keeping his system in good shape."

Miller does the maintenance, meter reading and most of the bookkeeping for the utility. But at times keeping the system running requires unusual efforts.

Last Christmas Eve, "when the wind chill was 60 to 80 below zero," Miller spent 12 hours thawing out the regulators that control the flow of gas from his wells.

On Christmas Day, he had to replace a frozen gas meter.

"I don't take days off during the winter," said Miller.

Still, he says he enjoys the work, in part because he's his own boss.

"I'm just a plain old country boy," said Miller."I've gotta be outside where I can see what's going on — the snow, rain and wind — but it took me until I was 40 to realize that."

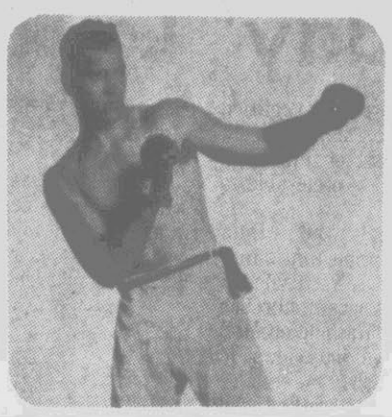

Miller worked for years as a welding instructor at Westinghouse Corp. in Muncie. He later worked as a maintenance foreman at Chrysler Corp. in New Castle until 1980.

Now he has two businesses, the gas company, which was founded by a man named David Snow, and a plumbing business started by Miller's father.

"You don't own the business, the business owns you," said Miller. But he says he likes the "variety of work," and he's happy that for the past two years he's finally been making money on the utility.

Even though Snow and Ogden is showing a profit, its rates remain low. It charges $5.20 on the first 1,000 cubic feet of gas and $5 per 1,000 cubic feet after that.

To the Victor, the Spoils

The first prize fight to gross more than $1 million pitted Jack Dempsey against Frenchman Georges Carpentier on this day in 1921. The match was so well-attended that a baseball double-header between Newark and Jersey City was called off when no fans OR players showed up. Europe cheered the next day when a Swiss newspaper announced a stunning Carpentier victory. But the story was a hoax. The truth hurt when Europeans learned that Dempsey had won.

Iraqi Planes Attack Korean Ship

By The Associated Press

Iraqi jets rocketed and destroyed a South Korean cargo ship, forcing 23 crew members to abandon the vessel near the Iranian port of Bandar Khomeini, South Korea said today. Iraq reported destroying five naval targets and downing an Iranian plane.

South Korea's Foreign Ministry in Seoul said in a statement that two missiles struck the 10,205-ton cargo ship Wonjin-ho on Sunday, injuring four crew members. It said all of those aboard were picked up by Iranian rescuers.

The ministry said the ship was carrying 9,000 tons of steel from Japan to Iran when it was hit in the engine room and set ablaze.

An unidentified Iraqi military spokesman, speaking Sunday over Baghdad Radio, claimed that Iraq's navy had destroyed five "r.val targets" in the Khor Moussa Canal leading from the Persian Gulf to Bandar Khomeini.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE
OF REAL ESTATE
UNDER AND BY VIRTUE

OF the power and authority contained in that certain Deed of Trust executed and delivered by John C. Noble and Susan J. Noble, dated July 25, 1983, and recorded in Book A52 at page 319 in the office of the Register of Deeds for Pitt County, North Carolina, and because of default in the payment of the indebtedness thereby secured and failure to carry out and perform the stipulations and agreements therein contained and, pursuant to demand of the owner and holder of the indebtedness secured by said Deed of Trust, the undersigned Substitute Trustee will expose for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash at the usual place of sale in the County Courthouse of Pitt County, in the City of Greenville, North Carolina, at 3:00 p.m. on Monday July 16, 1984, all that certain lot or parcel of land situate, lying and being in Ayden Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and more particularly designated and described as follows:

Type of property and location: Residence and lot located at 404 New Circle Drive, Ayden, North Carolina.

Legal description:

BEGINNING at a stake at the northwest corner of the Jesse W. Barfield lot; thence with the Barfield line S. 67-16 E. 120 feet to a ditch (the dividing line between the former B.F. Stokes property and West Haven Terrace); thence with said ditch and West Haven Terrace property, N. 22-44 E. 80 feet to a stake, cornering; thence N. 67-16 W. 120 feet to the eastern edge of an unnamed street; thence with the eastern edge of said street S. 22-44 W. 80 feet to the beginning, and being the northern one-half of the lot conveyed by Burnice Stokes and wife, Edna M. Stokes, to Earl Hardee by Deed dated October 10, 1958, of record in Book N-30, Page 305, and being the identical property conveyed to Horace Lee Speight and wife, Martha M. Speight, by Deed of record in Book Q-30, Page 419, Pitt County Public Registry.

Record owners of property: John C. Noble and Susan J. Noble.

The sale will be made subject to all unpaid taxes and assessments and will remain open ten days for upset bid as required by law. The Substitute Trustee will require a cash deposit of five per cent of the amount of the bid from the successful bidder at the sale.

Helms Blocking Meat Law Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unless there is a change of view on the part of Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., an Agriculture Department proposal to put more teeth into federal meat inspection enforcement will probably die of neglect.

Helms, who is chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, says he is opposed to USDA's legislative proposal on grounds it is not needed. The department, he says, has enough existing authority to enforce the rules without asking for harsher alternatives.

The department wants the law changed to give officials the power to deal quickly with chronically dirty plants that produce the nation's meat and poultry. Only a few of the 8,000 plants fit that category, but those frequently cause long, drawn-out problems for USDA authorities.

Donald L. Houston, administrator of the department's Food Safety and Inspection Service, formally unveiled the plan on May 17 at a meeting of the House Agriculture subcommittee on livestock, dairy and poultry, headed by Rep. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa.

Under present regulations, the agency can withdraw federal inspection from a plant — tantamount to shutting it down, in most cases — if the company or its officials are convicted of one felony or two misdemeanor charges. However, this cannot be done until the company completes an administrative and appeals procedure, which can take several years. Meanwhile, the plant's operations can continue.

ANSWERS TO

WEEKLY BRIDGE QUIZ

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ762 ♡AKJ95 ◇6 ♣Q3
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass

What action do you take?
A.—After partner's support, your hand revalues to 18 points, so even if he has a minimum raise your combined values are on the fringe of game. Since your hand has great trick-taking possibilities, we would go straight to four spades without revealing anything about our distribution.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠983 ♡KQJ9 ◇954 ♣1096
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 ♡	Pass	3 ◇	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	4 ♡	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♡	Pass

What action do you take?
A.—You know there is no way the opponents are going to make this so, naturally you . . . pass! Why? Because you have the opponents where you want them and if you double, you might chase them to six no trump—a slam that might be unbeatable.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠109852 ♡93 ◇A87 ♣AQ5
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
4 ♡	Pass	5 ◇	Pass
5 ♡	Pass	6 ♡	Pass
Pass	?

What action do you take?
A.—If you elected to double, you show scant respect for both money and the auction. You won't get rich doubling slams holding two aces, especially when, as here, one of the opponents has cue-bid a suit in which you hold an ace, thereby promising a void. Pass. You might beat this contract anyway, because you have a chance to collect two club tricks.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠83 ♡73 ◇92 ♣KQJ8763
Partner opens the bidding with one no trump. What do you respond?
A.—Your chances of making 11 tricks at a club contract range from slim to zero. However, your hand rates to produce six or seven tricks at a no trump contract — partner must have either the ace of clubs or some length in the suit. We would gamble out three no trump.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AK9 ♡AKJ87 ◇8 ♣10632
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Dble	2 ♠	Pass
Pass	2 ♡	3 ♠	3 ♡
Pass	?

What action do you take?
A.—Partner might not have much in the way of high cards, but what he does have is three or four trumps and a singleton club at most. Since that is all you need to give your side a good shot at four hearts, bid it.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q7 ♡K10763 ◇983 ♣752
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 NT	Dble	Pass	?

A.—Whether or not you can make two hearts is not the issue here. Partner has stated that he expects to defeat one no trump (all doubles of no trump are for penalties), and you have no reason to overrule him. Indeed, your smattering of values might be exactly what he needs to make the penalty substantial. Pass.

Saturday's Cryptoquip — VIVACIOUS OLD AUTOCRAT LIKES TO TAKE DRIVES.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: C equals A

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Bishop Doesn't Accept Miracles

LONDON (AP) — Did Jesus Christ walk on water? Was he born of a virgin? Do you have to believe he was both God and man to be a Christian?

No, says the Rev. David Jenkins, the Church of England's newest bishop-designate. His appointment as the fourth most senior Anglican cleric in the land has thrust the church into one of its fiercest controversies in decades.

Appalled traditionalists say the scholarly 59-year-old Jenkins, theology professor at Leeds University in northern England, "denies the very fundamentals of Christianity."

To add to conservative dismay, a poll has revealed that more than half the bishops in the Church of England share Jenkins' view that Christians are not obliged to believe Jesus Christ was divine.

"If a man who takes pride in peddling dangerous and foolish heresy can became a senior leader of the church, we have forfeited the right to be called a Christian denomination," thundered the Church of England Newspaper, a weekly with a circulation of 13,000..

Jenkins was chosen as bishop of the ancient north England diocese of Durham by a church commission headed by the archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. Robert Runcie, leader of the 65-million member worldwide Anglican communion.

ONLY $4.00 PER MONTH

FOR HOME DELIVERY

(within our circulation area)

Here's just a few reasons why YOU need home delivery of 'The Daily Reflector':

1) home delivery of 'The Daily Reflector' is a sure bet for up-to-the minute coverage of local, state, national and international news and sports, advertising messages from local and national retailers, insightful commentaries and so much more.

2) home delivery eliminates the need to make a trip to 'The Daily Reflector' newspaper rack each evening, saving you gas, money and time. Buying the paper regularly from a rack costs you almost $8 per month. For only $4.00 a month you can have it delivered to your front door.

3) the Sunday morning edition of 'The Daily Reflector' features a weekly television guide with cable listings, color comics, 'Family Weekly' magazine and an expanded sports section. Not to mention a variety of interesting features about people and places both near and far.

4) a subscription to 'The Daily Reflector' can save you money on your ever increasing grocery bill. The weekly coupon savings can add up to dollars in your pocket, not someone else's. The cost of the subscription is more than offset by the savings you'll realize.
