Joblessness Hits Four-Year Low

By MERRILL HARTSON
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civilian unemployment tumbled to 7.1 percent in June, the lowest in more than four years, as 460,000 Americans found jobs, the government reported today.

The 0.4 percentage point drop in the seasonally adjusted rate, the steepest plunge since unemployment fell from 8.8 percent to 8.4 percent from October to November last year, took this key economic indicator to its lowest ebb since April 1980.

At that time, unemployment stood at 6.9 percent.

Last month's good news from the Labor Department was spread across all population groups, with black Americans, whose unemployment has been more severe than that of whites, enjoying the strongest improvement.

An alternative unemployment rate, which combines the 113.8-million member civilian labor force with the 1.7 million members of the armed forces stationed in the United States, fell by a commensurate amount to 7.0 percent.

The total number of the civilian employed — 105,748,000 — was an all-time high. In June, the roster of those categorized as unemployed shrunk by 384,000 to 8,130,000.

Since November 1982, when unemployment reached a post-Depression peak of 10.7 percent with more than 12 million out of work, the economic recovery has generated more than 6.5 million jobs, the Bureau of Labor Statistics figures show.

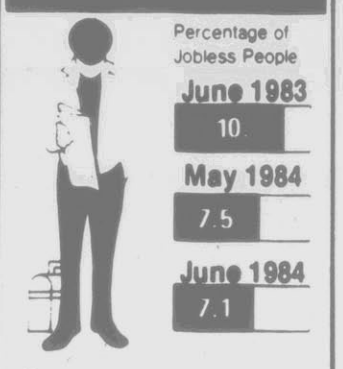

At the same time, the unemployment rate has plummeted 3.6 percentage points in the speediest post-recession labor market rally since the early 1950s.

In one negative note, the bureau reported that the ranks of the so-called "discouraged workers" remained unchanged at 1.3 million in the year's second quarter. Analysts noted, however, that this total was 500,000 below that recorded at the peak of the recession in the fourth quarter of 1982.

These "discouraged workers" are people shown by government surveys to have abandoned efforts to find jobs because they feel they cannot get work. This pocket of hard-core unemployed is not included in the monthly unemployment rate computation because they are not actively seeking jobs.

Despite the overall up-beat employment report, the Labor Department was picketed by several dozen people protesting that for some Americans things are not so bright.

Frank Slobig, of the Roosevelt Centennial Youth Project, a liberal-oriented group, said that the bad news about about discouraged workers "is going to get buried in the rhetoric of Reagan euphoria about the rising tide carrying the boats. But a lot of people have not yet found the boat."

Pitt's Vote Counts Should Be Tallied Earlier This Fall

By SUE HINSON
Reflector Staff Writer

In past elections, long after most Pitt County voters were stationed in front of televisions awaiting totals, tabulators sat in darkening rooms counting and recounting ballots until their vision blurred. That won't be the case in the upcoming Nov. 4 election, according to Clifton Everett Jr.

Everett, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Elections, said the County Board of Commissioners recent action authorizing the purchase of 27 electronic vote tabulators at a cost of $88,965 will ensure that voting officials get home at a decent hour and that Pitt will no longer be one of the state's last counties to turn in vote tallies.

"We're real pleased that the commissioners decided to let us have them (the tabulators). With these new machines, we'll have the election results in 30 to 40 minutes as opposed to several hours, sometimes past midnight, as was the case in some past elections," Everett said.

The tabulators, manufacutred by Airmac, a Florida firm, will be installed in all of the county's 24 precincts by the final November election. Two of the counters will be used at the Board of Elections for absentee and transfer ballots; the remaining tabulator will be used as a back-up should a problem arise.

The addition of tabulators to the Pitt election organization will not appreciably alter the voting process, according to Everett. "The voter will still cast his vote on a paper ballot and place it in a central box. But the depository will be a tabulator insead of a ballot box at the November election. The votes will be counted right then (as soon as the ballot is inserted into the box), and when the polls close, an election official will turn a key and the results will come out," Everett explained.

To ensure that everyone will feel comfortable with the machines, the Board of Elections is planning two education programs — one for the public and one for personnel who will be operating the tabulators.

Precinct officers will receive instructions July 11 at the Willis Building; plans for public instruction are under way but have not been completed, according to elections Supervisor Margaret Hardee.

"If reports from other counties are any indication, we won't have any problems. At least we don't expect any. November's election should be smooth sailing," Mrs. Hardee said.

Carteret County election Supervisor Teresa Willis said tabulators were used for the first time in her county's May primary and that the counters made a "priceless difference."

"The whole process was much quicker and easier for everyone, especially the elderly," she said. "By the second election, we had the process down pat and were through an hour after the polls closed at 6:30 p.m."

Pitt precincts close at 7:30 p.m. and open at 6:30 a.m.

VOTE COUNTER — The Pitt County Board of Commissioners last week approved the purchase of 27 Airmac vote tabulators like the machine shown above. The tabulators will be available for the November election.

Exile Kidnapped

Nigerians Force British Airliner To Make Landing

LONDON (AP) — Nigerian authorities forced a British airliner to land in Nigeria today after a prominent Nigerian exile wanted by his government on corruption charges was kidnapped and found drugged in a crate at a London airport, British officials said.

The 222 passengers and 22 crew members on the British Caledonian flight were reported safe at Lagos Airport, an airline spokesman said in London. Nigeria's military government said the move was for "security reasons," but did not elaborate.

Two men found in a second crate at the London airport Thursday awaiting shipment to the Nigerian capital were Israeli citizens working as mercenaries, according to Press Association, Britain's domestic news agency.

Home Secretary Leon Brittan said one crate, containing former Nigerian Transport Minister Umeru Dikko in a drug-induced stupor, was addressed to the Nigerian Foreign Ministry in Lagos from the Nigerian embassy in London.

Dikko, who had vowed to launch a holy war against Nigeria's military government, has been described as Nigeria's "most wanted man." Nigeria has denied it was responsible for the abduction of Dikko.

The crates did not have the papers and escort needed to give them diplomatic immunity and they were opened by customs officials at Stansted Airport outside London, Brittan told Parliament.

Brittan said 17 people, including the two in the second crate and another man found in the box containing Dikko, were being questioned.

Dikko, 47, was in "satisfactory condition" at Herts and Essex Hospital outside London, a hospital spokesman said, and doctors were trying to find out which drug was used. The hospital was heavily guarded.

British Caledoninan spokesman Tony Cochrane said that the Boeing 747 was ordered to return to Lagos Airport by Nigerian air traffic control after it had taken off late Thursday night. The aircraft arrived back at the airport at about 11 p.m. (6 p.m. EDT).

"We have had no official explanation whatsoever," Cochrane said. "The passengers are being treated courteously. Apart from the fact that they are being held, we have no fears for their safety."

Dikko was a close adviser to former President Shehu Shagari and the Sunday Observer newspaper reported in January that his wealth was estimated at $1.4 billion.

Tass Says Soviets Willing To Talk Only About Space

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union said today its offer to the United States to hold talks this fall on space weapons was limited only to that subject. It said talks cannot convene until the United States agrees.

The announcement was made in an official statement issued by Tass news agency. Tass said the Reagan administration had given a "negative" reply to the Soviet offer by saying it was willing to discuss weapons in space in Vienna this fall but would also raise the issue of nuclear arms.

"Tass is authorized to declare that the Soviet government confirms its offer to the government of the United States to open formal talks on preventing the militarization of outer space," the Soviet statement said. "It is these, and not some other talks, that it is urging the U.S. government to start, and it is awaiting a positive response from the latter."

Tass added: "In Washington they are now trying to conceal this position of theirs with statements on their readiness to arrive for the talks in Vienna. But what the American representatives will be talking on there is, ostensibly, not so important. No, it is important. And before the delegations of both sides get together, agreement must be reached on the subject of the talks."

Spokesmen for the U.S. State Department and the White House have said the United States has accepted the Soviet offer to go to Vienna, that preparations for the talks were "on track" and that the U.S. delegation would bring up the issue of nuclear weapons.

Frozen Embryo Birth Reported

ROTTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — A Dutch doctor today announced the birth of an 8-pound, 14-ounce boy produced from a frozen embryo, the second such birth in the world.

The baby was born Thursday night at the Dijkzigt University Hospital, said Dr. A. Alberda, a gynecologist who was a member of the medical team that oversaw the procedure.

The infant was in "excellent condition," Alberda said.

The doctor refused to identify the parents, but said the mother had been treated for infertility for 10 years. Her Fallopian tubes are blocked, he said, and she could not conceive normally.

The first birth from a frozen embryo occurred earlier this year in Australia.

Museum Is Home To Variety Of Costumes

By GEORGE W. WILBUR
Associated Press Writer

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Few places in the world could throw a costume party like this city's famed Valentine Museum.

But it would be a static gathering of lifeless mannequins, since the more than 20,000 costumes in the museum's priceless textile collection no longer grace the human form.

"While they're not as fragile as one might think considering their age, we wouldn't dream of letting anyone wear them," said Grace Wells, curator of textiles.

The textile collection, which also includes exquisite laces, embroideries, quilts, upholstery, rugs, drapery and the tools to make them, is certainly not all there is to the unique Valentine Museum.But it is a focal point that has attracted international acclaim.

"Ours is one of the largest and most important textile collections in the nation," said John Zehmer, the museum's director.

Mrs. Wells said the costume collection was the second largest in the United States and ranked No. 1 in American clothing.

"People come from all over the world to see it. It's worth untold millions," she said.

Zehmer noted that when the Metropolitan Museum in New York wanted to establish an "American Room," it came to the Valentine Museum to do the research and borrow costumes for display.

Mrs. Wells reigns over a large temperature-controlled room in which the costumes are individually encased in pastic bags hanging from two-tiered oval racks that rotate electrically like those in a dry cleaning shop.

The costumes, dating from the late 1600s to the present, offer a dazzling array of fabrics and unbelievably detailed needlework.

"Before the mid-1800s, everything was handmade. It sometimes took a year to make one dress for a wealthy patron," Mrs. Wells said.

The collection includes many historically notable costumes such as the crimson velvet and ermine coronation robes of Lady Nancy Astor, the "great coat" of King Stanislaus II of Poland, a brocade dress worn by Mary Ball Washington, the president's mother, suits worn by Patrick Henry and Robert E. Lee, Revolutionary and Civil War uniforms and the inaugural gowns of Virginia governors' wives.

There are wedding gowns and mourning dresses, "Little Lord Fauntleroy" suits, buckskin frontiersmen's outfits and lace-trimmed morning coats worn by the foppish dandies of the 18th century.

In endless rows of drawers and boxes are accessories such as wigs, tiaras, hatpins, fans, shawls, shoes, underclothes and headgear.

Only a few of the costumes are ever seen by the public when the museum elects to use mannequins in its displays.

A broader sampling is reserved for those who take advantage of the museum's Textile Resource and Research Center, established in 1970 for students of textiles, needle arts, costume design and related fields.

A one-week annual seminar on fine needlework attracts some 250 people from throughout the nation.

Valentine Museum, opened to the public in 1898, was established by the terms of the will of Mann S. Valentine II, a Richmond merchant and noted collector of the arts.

At first it embraced only the Wickham-Valentine House, a handsome neoclassical structure built in 1812. The museum has since expanded to take in most of the mid-19th-century houses along one side of a tree-shaded street over which towers the sprawling Medical College of Virginia complex.

While it gets some city and state funds, the museum retains its independence and operates largely through private donations.

Its key permanent exhibit chronicles through artifacts, drawings, photographs and text the life of Richmond and its people. It is a three-dimensional walk-through textbook of the city's history.

Zehmer said the next major venture of the museum would be the December opening of a "Children's Gallery," featuring selections from its more than 2,000 19th-century toys and dolls.

The museum's 19th-century photographic collection is considered one of the nation's finest. It includes 10,000 glass-plate negatives.

Other notable exhibits feature Virginia silver, household implements, decorative arts, glass, firearms, period furniture and more than 1,400 paintings.

Woman Figures She's A Simple Math Dummy

DEAR ABBY: So you think you've heard it all? Well, please don't make a face or roll your eyes up into your head when you find out what I want. First off, I am no dummy, but there are times when I think I am. There may be others who suffer from the same problem. If so, you may print this, but for heaven's sake don't use my name.

I am a 22-year-old married woman who is absolutely stupid when it comes to math! I can count money, and if I take my time I can figure out how much to tip, but if I'm in a big hurry I draw a complete blank! Recently I went to a sale where all merchandise was marked 25 percent off, and I felt like a fool because I couldn't figure how much I'd have to pay for a dress marked $110.

I know they offer classes for people who are illiterate, but how about people who need to learn math from the bottom up? I'm ashamed to admit I need that kind of help. (Nobody would believe it.)

PENNSYLVANIA DUMMY

DEAR PENNSYLVANIA: I wouldn't call anyone a "dummy" who recognizes a problem and seeks to solve it. Call your county department of public education and explain your need to learn math "from the bottom up." Inquire about adult education classes and private tutoring, and your problem should be as simple to solve as adding 2 and 2. (It figures.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I've followed your Fat Fannie Panty Hose comments with amusement and feel it is my duty to share with you one more use for old panty hose—Fat Fannie or otherwise.

I cut the leg portion into three pieces, and use them to tie up my tomato plants. The stretchy material doesn't "bite" into the stem as the plant continues to grow.

IRENE IN COLUMBUS

DEAR IRENE: Thanks for an idea tomato growers will dig. Panty hose were created for "tomatoes" in the first place.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: "Animal Lover's" letter suggesting caution in giving dogs to new owners by way of want ads brought to mind a story I heard.

There was this sicko who collected kittens—he answered ads reading "Free to good home." Upon investigation, it was found that he collected kittens to feed to his pet boa constrictor!

How can we protect these helpless creatures?

ANOTHER ANIMAL LOVER

DEAR LOVER: Never give more than one pet to a person. And before giving the "helpless creature" away, be sure to tell the prospective owner that you will be dropping by from time to time to see how the little fellow is getting along.

CONFIDENTIAL TO OLD-TIMER IN PASADENA: Before you put down the youth of today, read this: "Our youth now love luxury. They have bad manners, contempt for authority; they show disrespect for their elders, and love chatter in places of exercise. They no longer rise when elders enter the room. They contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble up their food and tyrannize their teachers."

Socrates wrote that in the fifth century B.C.

State Awards Won By Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars received five awards for outstanding service at the state convention held in Charlotte recently.

The awards were in cancer aid and research, Buddy Poppy sales, support of the Statue of Liberty renovation, and contributions to the state scholarship program.

Dorothy Armistead, president, and Margie Tyson, delegate gave the report at the meeting. Nancy Moore was welcomed as a new member. Margie Tyson said $148.30 was realized from the cake sales.

Meeting hostesses were Margaret Hudson, Reba Cannon, Estelle Stinner and Mildred Skinner.

Children Need To Roll Backward

By STEVE SANDERS
Written for UPI

By age 6, most children have the physical ability to do a forward roll, but many school children have difficulty performing a backward roll simply because they have never been exposed to the movement.

A backward roll is an important skill for children to develop. Besides the skill itself, mastering the backward roll helps children develop flexibility and body control, and the ability to know where one is when in an upside-down position.

There are two different activities parents can take their children through in developing skill in rolling backward. Both exercises can begin when the child is about 6 months of age.

The focus on the first exercise is to teach the young child he has the ability to right himself when he is upside-down. For this exercise, the parent needs a foam block or a stack of pillows 16-to-20 inches high.

The child should be sat on the top of the foam and gently turned upside-down, so his head sits on the floor and his back is against the foam with his feet in the air.

Parents should rest a hand on the child's chest so as to lift most of the child's weight off his head and neck. With the other hand, the parent gently pushes the child's feet so they flip down to the floor.

After a short time, children will automatically tuck their knees and flip their feet to the floor every time they are placed upside-down.

Three or four flips per day are plenty of practice for this age. After mastering this exercise, parents should feel confident their young gymnast is able to right himself anytime he is placed in an upside-down position.

The second method of working on backward rolls requires a foam wedge 3 feet in length with a height at one end of 20 inches that gradually slants to the floor at the other end.

The child should lay on the wedge with his head at the low end and his feet up high. Parents should then instruct the child to bring his knees to his nose, letting the momentum carry the child over.

Parents may need to help by lifting the child's feet over his head the first time or two.

Three or four rolls per day is enough practice. Remember the child's muscles are not fully developed yet and they need to be worked gradually to strengthen and develop.

When older, the child will be able to perform the skill without the help of momentum from the wedge. Children who develop skills of rolling, both forward and backward, will be able to participate comfortably and safely in activities that involve the risk of being off-balance and falling.

ECU Fares Well

Financially it won't be a bad year for East Carolina University.

The recently approved state budget makes it likely the university will receive many millions of dollars for capital improvements and program enrichment.

There will be funds for pay increases for faculty and staff personnel in line with general raises granted for state workers and teachers in the supplemental budget which a special session of the General Assembly has approved.

The legislative action also restored $600,000 to the school of medicine operating funds. The medical school will also receive $1.8 million for a nuclear magnetic resonance device which allows for sophisticated diagnostic work.

Other projects appear to be ahead. A $14.6 million classroom building is among the funds appropriated by the General Assembly. There is also $720,700 for roof repairs to academic buildings and a fire protection system for the university computer center. There is also an item of $1.62 million to complete the renovation of Wright Building. Wright has recently been rebuilt and developed into a large theater type auditorium. Some $250,000 is included for purchase of property.

Dr. John Howell, chancellor, said, "All in all, I think we have done very well. It's a nice bit of money and we feel very good about it."

East Carolina University has some pressing capital improvement needs on its main campus and, with the outlook for an extensive building program in the next year, it has, indeed, done very well.

Rededication

Nothing symbolizes liberty in the United States more than the Statue of Liberty in the New York harbor.

A gift of the French people to the United States nearly a hundred years ago, the statue was the first glimpse of America that immigrants from Europe saw.

And nothing has dramatized our liberty more than the torch which the statue lady held high.

The statue is now undergoing extensive renovation and this week the corroded torch came down after 98 years aloft. It will be replaced by a gold torch which will reflect in the sunlight during the day and be lighted by spotlights at night.

The changing of the torch is fitting for our nation. Our liberties have been protected by government, the courts and even in war during the nearly 100 years that the Statue of Liberty has stood at our shores. Now it will be renewed, and all Americans should renew their faith in freedom. We should be inspired to protect our freedoms at all cost.

Jimmy Green Plans To Tell It All

RALEIGH — Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green, about to retire after eight years in the state's second highest office and a total of 24 years in the Legislature, plans to begin writing his memoirs this summer.

In an interview, Green said a major national publishing firm may be interested in the book and that a state-based printing company has expressed interest in the project, also.

Green, 63, said he thinks he has an interesting story to tell, from his days growing up in Virginia, to his combat experiences in the South Pacific in World War II, to his years in Bladen County government and state politics. Asked if the book would focus on his recent trial and acquittal on state fraud and bribery charges, he said, "Oh, it will have a whole lot on that."

"I will answer some things in that book with facts and figures that I have refrained from releasing. Professional journalists have asked me some questions which I have not answered. You've tried your best but I'll have those answers in my book," he said.

Green said he has several reasons for writing the book. He said that he's always wanted to write about his combat experiences on Iwo Jima but just never got around to it. He'd like to preserve for his family the story of his days in government, and, finally, he just thinks he's got an interesting story to tell.

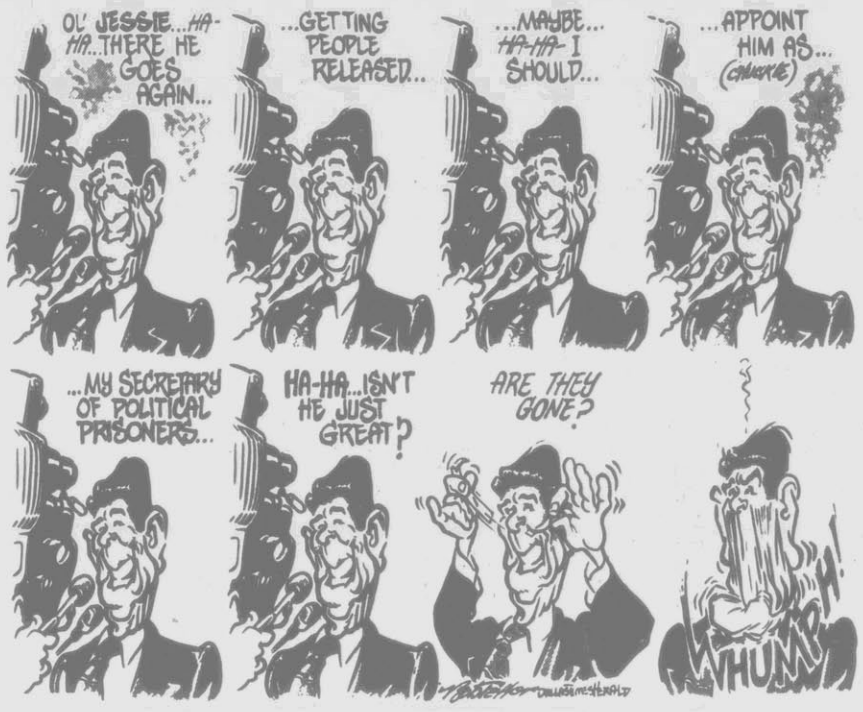

The lieutenant governor conceded that he's also got his campaign debts to consider. His trial put him in the hole to the tune of $100,000 and then he borrowed another $375,000 to wage his ill-fated campaign for governor. (He finished fifth in a field of 10 Democrats seeking the nomination.)

Several newspapers "contacted me wanting to write a story about my experiences now that my 24 years here are coming to an end. President (Bill) Friday (of UNC) told me he'd like to have me on his program on ... (public TV), so I think there's some interest." Instead of giving his story away for free, Green said, he decided he'd try to sell it and pay off those debts.

Green expects to write the book with the help of a professional writer but says it will be his book, not something somebody hands him to put his name on. (Most likely, the writer will be veteran Wilson newspaperman Vernon Morton who is now Green's press secretary.) Green has already begun research, looking through his files, talking with old friends, trying to reconstruct conversations. He says he's contacted a number of former legislators and lobbyists seeking permission to report on private meetings they were part of. "I wish I had kept a journal, but I've never been the kind who could. I would have started it one day and forgot about it the next."

While news of some of the Legislature's inside deals — of which Green has been a party to many — may be interesting, the hottest part of the book should be Green's thoughts about his trial on charges stemming from the Colcor investigtion in Bladen and Columbus counties. Green supporters say Attorney General Rufus Edmisten engineered Green's troubles for political purposes. (Edmisten won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.) Green has always skirted those allegations, refusing to just come right out and blame Edmisten. Natural speculation is that in his book he'll blast Edmisten.

"I just decided that I was treated so wrong at the courthouse and I ended up with a $100,000 lawyer's bill. I just decided that with the book, I'd let people know what happened to me," Green said.

A Matter Of Cuisine

WASHINGTON — What can you say about a segment of the population that spends increasing amounts of time discussing the differences between American curry mustard and savory sesame mustard?

Plenty, when you realize that specialty goods are as likely to pop up in conversations among Yuppies these days as Walter Mondale's prospective running mates, the cost of condominiums or the durability of the latest running shoe. Not only are meat and potatoes neanderthalic, but the gourmet has also become something of an idol of the McDonald's generation.

Take a look around you at the supermarket or on your way home from work: Speciality food is a big business. At deli counters or freezer shelves, hordes of Yuppies will inevitably be ascertaining the ripeness of the new, "mini" Brie or the bouyancy of mousse of veal interlaced with carrots, green beans and mushrooms. You might hear debates over the benefits of vermicelli versus stuffed pasta or questions like "do you Wok, too?" Such are the issues of a new generation of food buyers.

Consider, too, the soaring circulation of traditional culinary magazines such as Bon Appetit, whose readership has expanded from 300,000 to 1.3 million in the last eight years. Or Cuisine, which jumped from 602,000 to 750,000 in the same period (43-year-old Gourmet's circulation has risen only 16,000, or 3 percent, since 1976, but has done so without promotion.) Their success has, in turn, given rise to new, more focused competitors like Chocolatier and All About Beer.

What began a decade ago as a simple desire among college- to middle-aged adults for better ice cream and chocolate cookies has evolved into a demand for all kinds of good stuff, both fresh and prepackaged. The American palate is growing accustomed to pricy tastes in a grab for high life that is often otherwise elusive.

No one, of course, knows the promise of this trend better than America's food producers, who have anxiously sought ways to make more money off a static market. The specialty food industry — an amalgam of everything from mom-and-pop pate shops to Stouffer's — is growing at a 20 percent annual rate. According to one industry analyst, yearly retail sales by 1990 may have risen from their current $3.5 billion to $6 billion.

For example, Haagen-Dazs, the Brooklyn ice cream maker, saw its sales rise from $24 million in 1976 to $150 million last year. Meanwhile, for processors of frozen foods, sales topped $300 million in 1983 with the help of such product lines as Swanson's "Le Menu," Armour's "Dinner Classics" and Stouffer's "Lean Cuisine."

Now there is talk in the specialty food industry of expanding, yes, the fast-food end of the business.

In explaining the expanded hunger for upscale cuisine, nearly every analyst points to consumer characteristics. Almost invariably, customers are well-educated, well-traveled, too busy to cook but also too self-satisfied to waste time with mere hamburger or generic-brand pasta.

Suzanne Reifers, who runs a gourmet shop in Washington, says half of her customers are young professionals. "Every day," Reifers says, "it seems one of them says to me, 'I'm glad you're here.'"

What's more, the consumer usually has enough disposable income in her or his pocket to splurge after a hard day at the office. He or she probably has not yet reached the affluence needed for a family or an Abercrombie's lifestyle. As one of life's little pleasures, food offers something for the in-between crowd, the folks caught in the middle-management glut. As Morris Kushner, president of the National Association for the Specialty Food Trade, says, "Eating gourmet foods is the only way most people can feel rich in a minute."

So let's hand it to the gourmet food industry. It's made a lot of money exploiting favorable demographics and taste trends.

But it's also given a growing segment of America a vehicle for enjoying some of the traditional perks of success without being a Rockefeller. While the benefits of this mustard versus that may ultimately lose this group's interest, the issue is now cuisine. Other table talk is bound to be hard-pressed to compete.

Computer Blues Strike Again

The most frightening words in the English language are, "Our computer is down." You hear it more and more as you go about trying to conduct your business.

The other day I was at the airport attempting to buy a ticket to Washington and the attendant said, "I'm sorry, I can't sell you a ticket. Our computer is down."

"What do you mean your computer is down? Is it depressed."

"No it can't be depressed. That's why it's down."

"So if your computer is down just write me out a ticket."

"I can't write you out a ticket. The computer is the only one allowed to issue tickets on the plane." I looked down the counter and every passenger agent was just standing there drinking coffee and staring into a blank screen.

"What do all you people do?"

"We give the computer the information about your trip, and then it tells us whether you can fly with us or not."

"So when it goes down, you go down with it."

"That's very good, sir. I haven't heard it put that way before."

"How long will the computer be down?" I wanted to know.

"I have no idea. Sometimes it's down for 10 minutes, sometimes for two hours. There is no way we can find out without asking the computer, and since it's down it won't answer us."

"Don't you have backup computer, when the main computer goes down?"

"I doubt it. Do you know what one of these things costs?"

"Let's forget the computer. What about your planes? They're still flying, aren't they?"

"I couldn't tell without asking the computer, and as I told you...."

"I know, it's down. Maybe I could just go to the gate and ask the pilot if he's flying to Washington," I suggested.

"I wouldn't know what gate to send you to."

"I'll try them all," I said.

"Even if the pilot was going to Washington, he couldn't take you if you didn't have a ticket."

"Why don't I give you the money and you could give me a receipt and I could show that to the pilot as proof that I paid?"

"We wouldn't know what to charge you. The computer is the only one who keeps track of air fares because they change every hour."

"How about my credit card?"

"That's even worse. When our computer is down it can't notify the credit card computer to charge the fare to your account."

"Is there any other airline flying to Washington within the next few hours?"

"I wouldn't know," he said, pointing at the dark screen. "Only 'IT' knows."

"And at the moment 'IT' don't know nothing."

"'IT' knows it," he said defensively, "'IT' just can't tell me."

By this time there were quite a few people standing in lines. The word soon spread to other travelers that "the computer was down." Nobody knew exactly what this meant, but some people went white, some people started to cry, and still others kicked their luggage.

A man in a red blazer came out. "Please don't get excited. Wichita has been notified."

"What's Wichita got to do with it?" I asked.

"That's where our main computer went down. But as soon as it gets over its glitch, it's going to buy everyone who missed his plane a free drink."

Strength For Today

It has often been said that there are two sides to the religious life — the believing side and the behaving side.

In the past, men have stressed, to an incredible degree, the importance of the believing side. Witness the religious wars. Presecution has almost always arisen over matters of belief.

Today we tend to give our primary attention to the behaving side of religious faith. But there is reason to believe that we have gone too far in that direction also. We are accustomed today to say that it makes no difference what a person believes provided that he does the right thing; which is, of course, nonsense because every act is the fruit of conviction and we will either not begin to do the right things or we will not long continue doing them until we have the right beliefs.

Believing and behaving — correlative and equally important.

—Chet Currier—

Taxes

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1984 tax law now awaiting official enactment carries with it a mixed bag of positives and negatives for savers and investors.

The big plus that has received the most attention so far is the reduction in the capital gains holding period, from a year to six months, that qualifies an investment for favorable long-term tax treatment. Sixty cents of every dollar of long-term gains is exempt from federal income tax.

But if that measure is designed to encourage investment, other provisions of the bill seem to work in the opposite direction.

For one thing, it calls for repeal of a tax break on interest income that was scheduled to take effect next year. People who received more interest than they paid were to have been allowed to exclude 15 percent of the difference from taxes.

That deduction now is slated to be erased from the books before it ever took effect. In their efforts to raise tax revenues to close the budget deficit, the lawmakers evidently found it easiest politically to take away something a lot of people didn't know they were supposed to get.

On the subject of individual retirement accounts, the bill is most remarkable for what it doesn't contain.

Amid much fanfare last January, President Reagan called for an increase in the amount of annual tax-deductible contributions that one-income couples could make to their IRAs.

The president proposed that the limit for such households be raised from $2,250 to $4,000, equal to the maximum for families in which both spouses earn at least $2,000 a year.

In its version of what was to become the Tax Reform Act of 1984, the House would have allowed IRA savers to make additional, non-deductible contributions of up to $1,750 each year. This would have significantly increased the amounts people could put to work, growing free from current taxes, in their IRAs.

Both IRA sweeteners were dropped in the House-Senate conference that reached agreement on the final form of the bill late last month.

They did take some action on IRAs, declaring that alimony received counts as income in determining how much people can contribute to their accounts. This takes effect, notes the accounting firm of Coopers & Lybrand, for divorce decrees that become final after 1984.

In addition, the bill specifies that the deadline for IRA contributions for any given year will be the due date of the return for that year, whether or not a taxpayer obtains an extension for filing.

"Those who obtain or have obtained filing extensions (to Aug. 15, 1984 or later) of the deadline for filing their 1983 returns will still be allowed to make their 1983 IRA contributions as late as the extended due date for filing the return," Coopers & Lybrand notes. But in the future this tactic won't be permitted.

The general treatment IRAs got in the new law represents a notable shift in a legislative trend that has been in force for some years. More and more, Congress had been moving toward creating tax incentives for long-term saving.

Retail Sales Show Restrained Growth

By The Associated Press

Sales continued strongly at the nation's major retailers in June, but the post-recession momentum has slowed to a more leisurely pace.

Earlier in the year sales increases over the comparable month in 1982 were mostly in double digits, often more than 20 percent, but the latest month saw more restrained gains.

Among the top five retailers reporting Thursday, June sales were up 7.5 percent at Sears, Roebuck & Co., 6.3 percent at K mart Corp., 17 percent at J.C. Penney Co., 11.7 percent at Federated Department Stores Inc. and 14.6 percent at Dayton-Hudson Corp.

Robert Christian, chief economist with Provident National Corp. in Philadelphia, noted the more dramatic earlier sales increases were comparisons with "the pits of the recession." He called the June figures much more "reasonable."

Jeffrey Feiner, retail store analyst with the Wall Street firm Merrill Lynch & Co., said his company expected similar increases to June's figures through the second half of the year.

Sears, the world's largest retailer, said its merchandise sales for June were 7.5 percent higher than in June 1983, which was a particularly strong month compared to the depressed sales of June 1982.

Sears said its sales last month, with major gains in appliances and home entertainment merchandise, were a record $2.52 billion, up from $2.35 billion in June 1983. For the retailing fiscal year, which begins with February, Sears' sales were a record $10.26 billion, up 6.8 percent from $9.61 billion.

K mart, the No. 2 retailer, said it had a 6.3 percent increase in June, citing particular gains on seasonal goods such as fans and air conditioners. Sales totaled $1.96 billion, up from $1.84 billion. For the fiscal year, sales were $7.75 billion, up 6.9 percent from $7.24 billion.

Penney, ranked third by 1983 sales, said store and catalog sale soared 17 percent in June to $1.11 billion from $945 million a year ago. For the year, sales were up 17.6 percent to $4.48 billion from $3.81 billion.

President Campaigns In Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Reagan, campaigning in one of the key battlegrounds of the 1984 presidential race, today accused liberal Democrats of trying to block his administration's policies but said, "Here's a flash from the Gipper — they're not going to win."

Opening a new assault against Democrats controlling the House of Representatives, Reagan said, "This is the same liberal leadership that has done nothing but stand in the way of initiatives the American people want and need."

In a speech billed by the White House as non-political but steeped in partisan rhetoric, Reagan addressed the Texas Bar Association convention in the hometown of Mayor Henry Cisneros, one of the half-dozen people interviewed by Walter Mondale, the likely Democratic presidential nominee, as a potential running mate.

Reagan accused House Democrats of blocking action on a long-stalled package of anti-crime legislation, constitutional amendments requiring a balanced federal budget and allowing voluntary prayer in public schools, tuition tax credits and other economic programs.

"The liberals in the House can stand in the way again if they want to, just as they did when they opposed spending cuts and tax cuts, rebuilding our military strength or helping El Salvador and other nations resist totalitarian rule," Reagan said in his prepared text.

"But they didn't win then — and here's a flash from the Gipper — they're not going to win now."

It was a rare public mention by the president of a nickname he earned in his Hollywood days in the film "Knute Rockne All American" when, as a dying Notre Dame football player named George Gipp, he voiced a rallying cry for the team to someday "win one for the Gipper."

Reagan's political strategists are nervous about Texas, a key state that carries 27 electoral votes, one-tenth of the 270 needed to win the White House. Although Reagan won Texas easily in 1980, his advisers refuse to predict a repeat performance.

Town Loses Four Officers In Wreck

DE QUEEN, Ark. (AP) — Flags flew at half-staff today in this town of 4,500 people after four of its seven police officers were killed by an out-of-control truck that slammed into their car as they drove to the funeral of a state policeman.

"This is the greatest tragedy I'm aware of that has happened to our community," Mayor Eddie Pulliam said Thursday. "I can't say how shocked we are."

The four were killed Thursday on U.S. Highway 71 about 3½ miles south of Ashdown. They were part of a procession of police from Arkansas and Oklahoma traveling to Texarkana for the funeral of state trooper Louis Bryant, who was gunned downed Saturday during a routine traffic stop.

Capt. Bill Mills, 33, Sgt. Roy Brewer, 27, and patrolmen Bill Gilham, 25, and Herman Jones, 38, were killed when the car in which they were riding was struck by a gravel truck that jackknifed on the wet highway.

The driver of the truck, George McCoy, 46, of Sibley was hospitalized in stable condition.

"Right now, we're trying to pull ourselves together," Pulliam said. "In times of tragedy, our community tends to come together."

The town's board of trustees met late Thursday and accepted an offer from area police agencies for help until the town can replace its department, Pulliam said.

Bryant was stationed in De Queen, knew the town's police officers and some of its residents. Richard Wayne Snell, 54, of Muse, Okla., is charged with capital felony murder in Bryant's death. Investigators say they have no motive for the killing.

Snell was reported to be a survivalist and Oklahoma authorities said they found guns and hand grenades in his car.

"It's just unbelieveable that it could happen so fast," Municipal Judge Harry C. Morris said. "We all feel the general sense of shock. When you live in a small town, you know everybody or their family."

"I just lost four close friends," said Jim Smith, Sevier County's chief deputy.

The National Transportation Safety Board began an investigation into the accident today, said spokesman Ira Furman. Investigators were called in at the request of Gov. Bill Clinton.

"It was a tragic day all around," Clinton said Thursday after returning from Bryant's funeral.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JULY 7, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Except for the very early morning, today you would be wise to use conscious self control not to become aggressive or demanding and to make a point to sidestep all arguments.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can receive a benefit in the morning, but later it is important that you treat your mate with kid gloves. Drive with utmost care.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although conditions seem fine with partners early, later they may erupt into a royal battle so be tactful and don't provoke.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle those services you owe others, otherwise, later, you may have interruptions. Do whatever will relieve tension with a coworker.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) After breakfast, all seems serene, but later things change and your patience may be tested. Be stoic.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) All seems fine at home in the morning and then a big quarrel could arise if you are not tactful with kin. Entertain only close friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be careful not to daydream while driving, and avoid a possible accident. Not a good day to handle important correspondence.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Forget whatever is of a practical nature and concentrate on the spiritual and cultural today. Don't get into a depressive mood.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Early you can see how to gain some cherished goals but later can become frustrated, so raise your level of consciousness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Some private worry has you confused about how to handle it, but don't let it depress you and you soon can overcome it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Even though all seems fine in the morning, you find that friends can later be disappointing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Attending some philosophical mass meeting is wise in the morning since it can lighten your spirit. Don't ask for favors.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) New ventures look appealing but could actually keep you from finishing others that are important to your welfare.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will seem overly conscientious at one time and then overly demanding at another so teach to be more evenly balanced and dependable. One who can get so immersed in a project that it can become an obsession.

Dog Day Afternoons

The Northern Hemisphere's hottest days — "Dog Days" — stretch from July 3 through August 15. These days were once thought to be a cursed time when "the sea boiled, wine turned sour and dogs grew mean," according to an 1813 account. This period of time was originally named for the Dog Star, Sirius. Ancient peoples sacrificed a brown dog at the onset of Dog Days to cool the wrath of Sirius, whom they blamed for the sweltering weather.

Jackson Tour Opens Tonight

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Michael Jackson fever hits the boiling point tonight as the sequined singer and his brothers kick off their long awaited, controversy-shrouded Victory Tour, one day after the superstar promised to give his share of the take to charity.

What's expected to be a thriller of a show gets under way at 9 p.m. when a sellout crowd of 45,000 people jam into Arrowhead Stadium, a football arena that for 2½ hours will become the capital of glitter rock.

Devoted fans and the just plain curious got a preview of the Jackson phenomena Thursday when the pop star — flanked by brothers Tito, Randy and Marlon — sought to defuse criticism about how the tour has been set up.

"I want you to know that when I first agreed to tour, I decided to donate all the money I make from our performances to charity," Jackson said in a statement he read at a hotel news conference while hundreds of fans shrieked outside.

Jackson also said he was asking promoters to revamp a controversial mail-order system for obtaining tickets.

Neither Jackson nor his manager, Frank DiLeo, said how much money might be given away or exactly where it would go. There have been published reports that Jackson and his brothers are guaranteed as much as $40 million.

Promoters also added 10 cities to the tour, which now includes 13 stops and 37 concerts. Added Thursday were New York City; Knoxville, Tenn.; Indianapolis; Detroit; Los Angeles; Buffalo, N.Y.; Philadelphia; Pittsburgh; Cleveland; and Anaheim, Calif.

Hundreds of fans jockeyed for position outside the news conference Thursday, hoping to get a glimpse of the man who this year copped a record eight Grammy awards.

"At the stadium you aren't going to be able to see him as close as we saw him today," said Rhonda Burns, a 15-year-old fan from Kansas City, Kan.

Jackson, dressed in his familiar sunglasses, sparkling outfit and single white glove, told reporters he was asking for over-the-counter sale of single tickets rather than the required $120 mail order for a block of four.

"There has also been a lot of talk about the promoter holding money for tickets that didn't sell," he said. "I've asked our promoter to end the mail order ticket system as soon as possible so that no one will pay money unless they get a ticket."

Jackson said he felt "great concern" that many youngsters who wanted to see him and his brothers in concert were having trouble getting tickets or couldn't afford the $120 block order.

Tour promoter Chuck W. Sullivan said the new ticket system would go into effect with the group's appearance in Jacksonville, Fla., later this month.

Earlier Thursday, Mayor Richard Berkley and Randy Jackson distributed the first of 1,500 free tickets for this weekend's three concerts to disadvantaged and handicapped youths,

PCAIW Speaker

Linda Asbell of Health Services of Pitt County was the guest speaker at the recent meeting of the Pitt County Association of Insurance Women. Her topic was motivation.

The next PCAIW meeting will be held July 25 at 6:30 p.m. at the Ramada Inn. For information call 752-2540.

All-American

Beth Parham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Parham of Greenville, was recently named an Academic All-American by the National Secondary Education Council.

All-American scholars must earn at least a 3.3 grade point average and be selected by a teacher, counselor or other qualified sponsor.

Shelter Plans

Persons attending a recent meeting at the planned picnic shelter site at Tom Foreman Park on West Fifth Street discussed efforts to raise additional funds and the need for work commitments for the project.

The shelter, which has been approved by the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department, is under the auspices of the Concerned Citizens Group and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

For information contact Shirley Sheppard at 900 Ward St., Greenville, or call her at 752-3615 between 8 and 9 p.m.

Seminary Opening

The Evangelical Theological Seminary of Goldsboro, the graduate division of William Carter College, will open for its 26th academic year on Aug. 28.

Persons interested in studies beyond the bachelor level may enroll for the master's in religion degree. The master's requires 30 semester hours beyond the bachelor's degree and can be taken in residency study in one or two years.

For information, write the admissions office, 2400 E. Ash St., Goldsboro, or call 735-0831.

UOA Meeting

The Greenville Chapter of UOA meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Gaskins-Leslie Center, room 124. Dr. Stefano Murcuard will be guest speaker.

Television Taken

Greenville police are investigating a break-in at a mobile home at Riverview Trailer Park reported Thursday at 12:58 p.m.

Officer J.E. Fleming said a television set was taken from the dwelling at lot 74.

Robbery Reported

Greenville police are investigating a strong-arm robbery that occurred about 12:22 a.m. today at the intersection of Fifth and Davis streets.

Officer J.E. Harris said a wallet containing $30 in cash was taken from Joseph Walter Raburn, 28, of Route 5, Greenville, by two men who beat Raburn and his brother John, 36.

The officer said the Raburns were walking along Fifth Street when four men got out of a van, separated the brothers, beat them and took the money.

Airline Funds

MIAMI (AP) — Air Florida, grounded when it filed for bankruptcy protection, has been granted use of $6 million to pay the salaries of laid-off employees. But a judge still must decide whether to allow the airline access to $27 million so it can return to the skies.

The Federal Aviation Administration, which is owed $56 million by the Miami-based carrier, could dispute Air Florida's request for the money at a hearing scheduled for Monday.

The money would come from Air Florida's accounts receivable. All of the company's accounts receivable are subject to liens held by the FAA since Air Florida defaulted on several government-guaranteed loans.

U.S. District Judge William Hoeveler on Thursday permitted the airline to use up to $6 million from those accounts to pay salaries and expenses.

UMTA Grant

Greenville has received a $149,774 grant from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA) for operating expenses for its public transportation system.

UMTA approved federal assistance in the form of a $4,235,268 grant to the N.C. Department of Transportation for public transit projects in non-urbanized areas of the state. Federal funds were also given to public transportation systems in Kinston, Rocky Mount and Wilson, among other North Carolina cities.

Family Reunion

The Tyson family reunion committee said family members who plan to participate in the activities today through Sunday should call 355-2752 or 355-2572.

Navy Rejects Flawed Missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has halted acceptance of an advanced Phoenix air combat missile because of flaws discovered in a technical inspection, the service said today.

Lt. Cmdr. Mark Neuhart, a Navy spokesman, said there may be some delay in the combat readiness of the missile as a result of a review.

"The review was initiated as a result of missile disassembly and inspection, which indicated marginal workmanship and possible questionable quality control procedures which might need strengthening," the Navy said in response to inquiries.

One of the possible courses of action being considered is selection of a second firm to produce the Phoenix AIM 54 C, which has been produced solely by Hughes Aircraft Co.

The Navy spokesman stressed that the problem with the advanced version of the Phoenix does not leave the Navy without supplies of earlier models of the air-to-air missile, designed to be fired from F-14 fighter planes.

"There are adequate supplies of Phoenix missiles in the fleet," Neuhart said, referring to the A model of the weapon that first became operation 10 years ago.

Hughes h+ach other with wooden planks and rocks in a street brawl during union elections in Sao Paulo, police said today.

Sixty-five people were injured in the melee Thursday, and three were hospitalized with serious head injuries, Sao Paulo police said.

A police riot squad with 120 armed troopers arrived after the street fight started, but did not intervene. There were no arrests.

Political groups, including the outlawed Communist Party, traditionally jockey for influence in the powerful union.

Results of the voting were expected during the weekend. About 48,000 union members were registered to vote.

The metalworkers union is active in many of Brazil's largest factories, some of them subsidiaries of foreign multinational corporations.

Ground Is Broken For Cricket Inn

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held today for the Cricket Inn, a 114 room luxury-budget motel to be located on Memorial Drive.

Room charges are expected to range from $24 to $28 and the Cricket Inn will feature an exercise track, pool, continental breakfast and suite. A restaurant is not planned at present but an area in front of the motel has been reserved for a future family-style restaurant.

Bill Turner, a Greenville native, is vice president of the multistate chain headquartered in Winston-Salem with a majority of its motel facilities located in North and South Carolina. Charles Gaskins is the president of Quality Oil Company of Greenville Inc., which will be the owner-operator of the motel.

Construction of the $2 million facility is scheduled to begin within 30 days, and the motel will be ready for operation in February, 1985.

Participating in the ceremony with Graham Bennett of Winston-Salem, a principal in the development group, were U.S. Rep. Walter B. Jones and the Rev. John Price. Others in attendance included officials of the chamber of commerce, Pitt County Memorial Hospital, the city of Greenville, Pitt County, East Carolina University, the Pitt County Development Commission and area legislators.

BROILERS: The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 58.75 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2½ to 3 pound birds, 55 percent of the loads offered have been confirmed with a preliminary weighted average of 58.92 cents f.o.b dock or equivalent. The market is generally steady and the live supply is moderate for a good demand. Average weights mostly desireable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Friday was 1,574,000, compared to 2,240,000 last Friday.

HENS: Market steady. Supply heavy. Demand light. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds at farm for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter was nine cents.

GRAIN: No. 2 yellow shelled corn lower at 3.76-3.89 in East and 3.86-3.95 in the Piedmont; No. 1 yellow soybeans sharply lower at 6.72-6.69 in the east and mostly 6.50-6.80 in the Piedmont; wheat 3.29-3.35; (new crop corn 2.84-3.18; soybeans 6.14-6.39).

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly today amid new fears of higher interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 4.75 to 1,119.80 in the first half hour.

Losers outpaced gainers by more than 2-1 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Before the market opened, the Labor Department reported that the civilian unemployment rate took an unexpectedly large drop to 7.1 percent in June from 7.5 percent the month before.

While that was positive news for many individuals, analysts said, it exacerbated concern among investors that continued strong growth of the economy would exert further upward pressure on interest rates.

Before the employment report was issued, there was already speculation on Wall Street that the Federal Reserve might soon tighten credit conditions in order to try to stave off a resurgence of inflation.

Public Service of Colorado led the active list in the early going, down ⅛ at 17½. A 439,200-share block traded at that price.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 9.72 to 1,124.56.

Declines outpaced advances by about 8 to 5 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 66.10 million shares, against 69.96 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .45 to 88.17. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down 1.12 at 198.07.

Pitt Items Included In Budget

(Related story on page 20)

RALEIGH — Rep. Ed Warren said late this morning that several projects are included in the state's 1984-85 budget for Pitt County, although final approval may not come until Saturday.

Warren said "I feel pretty good" that $250,000 for capital construction at Pitt Community College will remain in the budget, as well as $50,000 to continue the rural education program at East Carolina Unsiversity, $75,000 for a genetics program at the ECU medical school, and $45,000 to begin an applied technology program at the university.

Warren also said $69,800 "is in the major appropriations bill" to continue funding the operation of the archives and history office in the Humber House in Greenville.

The legislator said other money may come to Pitt County but "we're still working on that," Warren said.

Trailer Runs Off Bridge

VIRGINIA BEACH (AP) — A tractor-trailer tumbled over the side of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel today and plunged into the water, apparently after colliding with a car, authorities say.

No details of the accident were immediately available. Teams of divers from the Navy and Virginia Beach were trying to locate the driver of the rig, bridge police said.

The accident occurred about 9:45 a.m. on the east side of the bridge at the 14-mile post, said Lorraine Smith, a spokeswoman for bridge police.

The bridge-tunnel connects Virginia Beach with Virginia's Eastern Shore.

Pitt Finally Wins In 15th By 4-3

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Steve Mills raced all the way from second base to score in the 15th inning last night on Steve Wall's errored infield grounder, allowing Pitt County's American Legion baseball team to escape with a 4-3 win over Edenton.

The contest was the first of the best-of-three series as the Area I East teams began playoff action. The series will continue tonight at 8 p.m. at Edenton. A Pitt win would clinch the series for Post 39, while an Edenton win would mean a third and decisive game back at Greenville on Saturday night at 8 p.m.

The game was a struggle for Pitt County all night long, and it wasn't until the ninth inning that Post 39 pushed over the tying run to force those extra innings.

Even then, both teams — but especially Edenton — had the chance to bring it to an end earlier and they failed.

Edenton's starting pitcher Brian Bunch went the first 11 innings before finally retiring. Taking a note from Edenton pitching coach, former major league great Jim "Catfish" Hunter, he used control pitching and threw only slightly over 100 pitches in those 11 innings of work and he kept Pitt off balance most of the way, giving up only five hits.

And for Edenton, which won only one of 18 starts in the regular season, it was a tour-de-force. "They've played well the last couple of games in the regular season," Pitt Coach Bruce Rhodes said. "But I thought every one of the pitchers for both teams did a great job tonight."

Rhodes shook off suggestions that Pitt may have taken Edenton a little for granted as the playoffs opened. "You can't afford to take anyone for granted. We've got to be ready tomorrow (Friday). Everyone is going to be tired after to night, and we've just got to be ready."

Darryl Edwards opened the contest for Pitt, going the first ten innings before giving way to a pinch-hitter. He walked five and struck out ten while scattering seven hits.

Paul Hill then came on for the next three, with Billy Michel taking the final two and claiming his fourth win on the year.

Lem Capehart, who came on in relief of Bunch in the 12th, took the loss.

Edenton pushed ahead in the top of the first, scoring once. Doug White led off with an infield hit and stole second. With two away, Rich Thatch singled to center, scoring White.

Post 40 added two more runs in the third. White again beat out an infield hit and with two away, Bunch helped his own cause with a homer to right, giving Edenton a 3-0 lead.

After that, Pitt held Edenton in check — despite a number of threats. Post 40 left a man on second in the fourth, and on third in the sixth and ninth.

Pitt got only one baserunner — and had him thrown out stealing — in the first three innings. Finally in the fourth, Post 39 struck for a run. With one away, Toby Fischer walked and Doug Coley singled. Michel followed with a hit that scored Fischer. Coley, rounding third, fell, however, and was thrown out scrambling back to the base.

The second Pitt run came in the sixth. With two away, Coley walked and Michel reached on an error. Mike Kinley singled, scoring Coley.

The ninth saw Pitt tie it up. Michel opened with a double to center and was sacrificed to third. Traye Fuqua laid down a perfect squeeze bunt to score Michel to knot the game, sending it into extra innings.

Edenton threatened in the 12th. Roy Charlton walked and moved to second on a balk, taking third on a passed ball. White also walked and stole second. Hill, however, got the next two on short pop-ups, and then intentionally walked Thatch before Jackie Conway came up with a fine defensive play to just throw out Scott Dizon on a bouncing grounder.

In the 15th, Thatch opened with a single and Dizon also got a hit. Both were then sacrificed up, but Michel fanned the next batter and then hit Scott Evans to load the bases before striking out Charlton to end the frame.

Pitt, meanwhile, was again struggling. Only one runner reached second between the ninth and 15th. Hill had singled to open the 13th and was replaced on base by Marc Nover, who moved up on a sacrifice only to die there.

In the 15th, however, Pitt finally got the winning run. With one away, Mills walked and stole second. Wall hit a sharp grounder back to third that the defender got a glove on, but couldn't control. The ball went into foul territory and Mills raced home just ahead of the throw to score the game-ender.

Michel led the Pitt hitting with three and was the only Post 39 player with more than one. Thatch had three for Edenton, while White and Capehart each added two.

Elsewhere in the league, Snow Hill topped Wilson, 3-0, while Rocky Mount defeated Kinston, 7-2. The best-of-three series continue tonight.

Martina, Chris In Finals

LONDON (AP) — Kathy Jordan doesn't think Chris Evert Lloyd is in Martina Navratilova's league.

Despite Lloyd's thrashing of third seed Hana Mandlikova in the semifinals of the All England Lawn Tennis tournament, Jordan doesn't "give Chris much of a chance" in Saturday's final between the three-time Wimbledon champion and Navratilova, a four-time and defending Wimbledon champ and Grand Slam titlist.

"I hope she gives Martina a good match, but I have seen the past results, and it hasn't been that close," Jordan said after being ousted by Navratilova 6-3, 6-4 in Thursday's other semifinal.

In three previous title clashes on Wimbledon's Centre Court, Lloyd has yet to prevail over Navratilova.

On that historic turf today, John McEnroe, bidding to become the first American since Don Budge in 1938 to repeat as singles champion, faced an unexpected semifinal challenge from unseeded Pat Cash. The 19-year-old Australian right-hander gained the last four by ousting sixth seed Andres Gomez of Mexico in the quarterfinals.

The other men's semifinal featured No. 3 seed Jimmy Connors — playing in Wimbledon's semis for his eighth time — and No. 2 Ivan Lendl, the Czechoslovak ace who upended McEnroe in the finals of the French Open on clay four weeks ago.

Connors has the edge in his career series with Lendl, 11-5. But Lendl has won most of their recent meetings, including this year's Volvo Masters indoor tournament and the WCT Tournament of Champions at Forest Hills in New York on clay. In the latter, Lendl demolished Connors 6-0, 6-0, the only time in his pro career that Connors has been shut out.

Lloyd, who dominated women's tennis for a decade and took singles titles here in 1974, 76 and 81, has been overshadowed on the women's circuit by the seemingly invincible Navratilova, who already has beaten Lloyd four times this year.

After Lloyd's loss two weeks ago to Jordan in the semifinals of the Eastbourne, England, grass court tournament, tennis pundits began asking if she's got what it takes to stay in the top echelon of the women's game.

When Lloyd struggled to victories against Betsy Nagelsen in the second round and Annabel Croft in the third here, some of the other players — including Jordan, Mandlikova and fourth seed Pam Shriver — began saying Lloyd wasn't showing the stuff of which Wimbledon finalists are made. "This is not the Chris of old," declared Shriver.

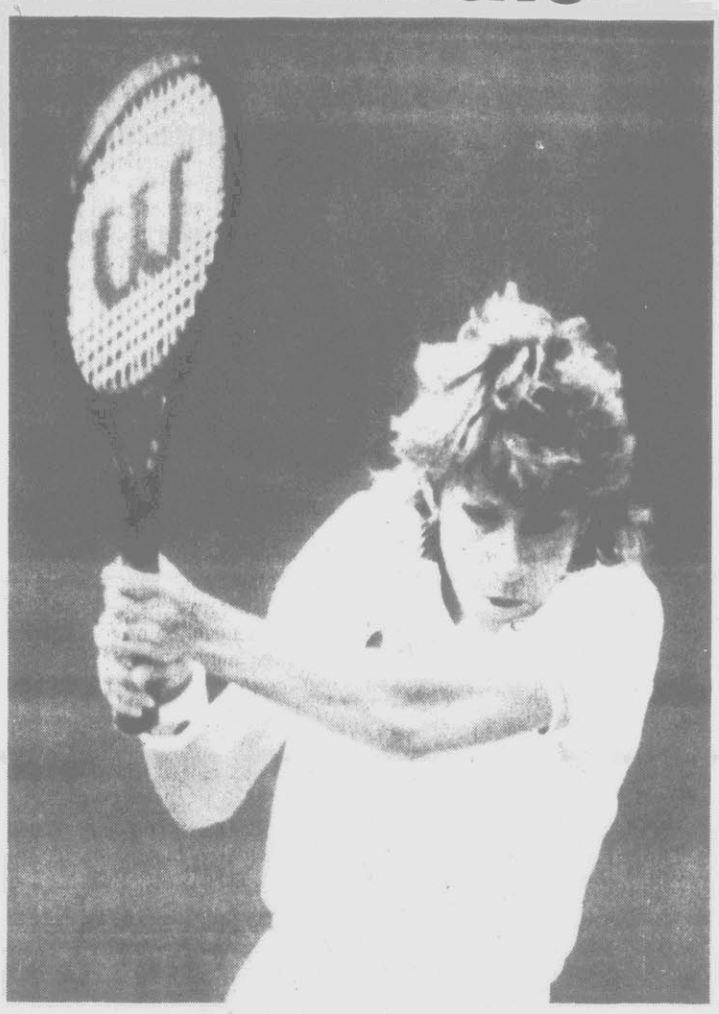

Lloyd heard those comments, bit her tongue and, in her words, "just let (my) tennis do the talking."

Her 6-1, 6-2 trouncing of Mandlikova left the Czechoslovak so disgusted that she stalked off the court without waiting for Lloyd, without curtsying to the Royal Box and without giving the obligatory postmatch interview, an omission that probably will cost her a $500 fine.

Unimpressed by Lloyd's performance, Jordan said, "If it had been another day, Hana could have beaten Chris."

"I'd like to see someone beat Martina. (But) I don't give Chris much of a chance," Jordan added.

Mainly, Jordan said, Lloyd's baseline play is too vulnerable to Navratilova's serve-and-volley attack.

Moves Into Finals

Godley Paces Snow Hill Win

SNOW HILL — Billy Godley held Wilson to four scattered hits as Snow Hill's American Legion baseball team gained a 3-0 victory last night in the opening game of their best-of-three series in the Area I East playoffs.

The series moves to Wilson tonight for game two. If a third game is needed, it would be played Saturday night at Snow Hill.

The winner of the series advances to play the Pitt-Edenton winner. Pitt holds a 1-0 lead in that series.

Godley struck out 11 batters along the way and walked but two. Losing pitcher Greg Lamb also had an outstanding game, giving up five hits, walking one and striking out six.

Snow Hill got the winning run in the third, scoring once. Rick Radford reached on an error and was sacrificed up. He then scored on Anthony Russo's single.

In the fifth, Snow Hill added two insurance runs. Michael Warren reached on an error and came all the way around when Nat Norris' sacrifice bunt was thrown away at first. Norris ended up on third, scoring on Russo's ground out.

Wilson had only one big threat in the game, loading the bases in the ninth inning with but one out. Snow Hill however, killed the rally to preserve the shutout.

No one on either team had more than one hit.

Gooden Astounded By Leap

NEW YORK (AP) — Strikeout specialist Dwight Gooden of the New York Mets is astounded at his leap — from Class A ball last year to the National League All-Star team this year.

The 19-year-old rookie, who leads the National League with 125 strikeouts to go with a 7-5 record and an earned run average of 2.83, spent last year at Lynchburg of the Carolina League. He became the youngest player ever named to an All-Star team Thursday.

Twelve first-time all-stars — including two rookies, Juan Samuel of Philadelphia and Al Davis of the Seattle Mariners — were named reserves today as the league rosters were completed.

One of the oldest, 45-year-old Phil Niekro of the New York Yankees, who notched his 3,000th career strikeout Wednesday, was also among the 16 pitchers named to take part in Tuesday's All-Star Game in San Francisco.

"It's been an unbelievable year," said Gooden.

The other starters named by National League Manager Paul Owens of the Philadelphia Phillies are Joaquin Andujar of the St. Louis Cardinals, Charlie Lea of the Montreal Expos, and Mario Soto of the Cincinnati Reds.

Andujar, who is tied with Lea for the NL lead in victories with 13, has been favoring a slightly pulled hamstring in his right leg, but promised to play.

"I will be all right for the All Star Game," he said. "My leg doesn't hurt me that much. It is a great thing to have a good year and be selected to the team. I will be there pitching."

They are joined by four relievers, Bruce Sutter of the Cardinals, Jesse Orosco of the Mets, Al Holland of the Phillies, and Rich Gossage of the San Diego Padres.

"Being selected is a great honor. It's something you always look forward to and you never get tired of it," said Sutter, now a six-time All-Star, who leads the NL in saves with 21. "There are a lot of great pitchers in the National League. To be counted among them is a great feeling."

The knuckleballing Niekro, who was named to four National League All-Star teams while with the Atlanta Braves, has an 11-4 record with a 1.84 ERA in his first American League season.

He is the second-oldest player named — only Satchel Paige, a member of the 1953 American League team at the age of 47, was older.

The other AL pitchers chosen by Manager Joe Altobelli of the Baltimore Orioles were Jack Morris of the Detroit Tigers, Mike Boddicker of Baltimore, Richard Dotson of the Chicago White Sox, and Dave Stieb of the Toronto Blue Jays.

Altobelli also selected relievers Dan Quisenberry of the Kansas City Royals, who leads the majors with 22 saves, Bill Caudill of the Oakland A's, and Willie Hernandez of the Tigers. Hernandez is the AL's only left-hander.

In addition to Gooden, Lea and Holland will be making their first All-Star appearances. Gossage, will be on his eighth All-Star squad, six of them in the American League; Andujar and Soto on their third; and Orosco on his second.

Gossage, who has 14 saves this season, was surprised to learn of his selection. "It's always an honor and a privilege because the manager picks the pitchers. I'm impressed that he (Paul Owens) picked me.

"There are so many great relievers in this league and there are so many who deserve it, I wouldn't have been disappointed (not making it)," Gossage added.

Orosco, who has saved 16 games this year as the Mets have fought for first place in the NL East, said: "What makes it so exciting this year is that we're (the Mets) doing so well as a team and that makes my selection even more meaningful."

In the American League, the selections were the first for Boddicker, Dotson, Caudill and Hernandez. It will be the fourth appearance for Stieb, third for Quisenberry and second for Morris.

CAN HIT AND KICK

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — When you talk about athletes talented in two sports, add the name of Bob Paulling of Clemson.

Paulling, a star first baseman for the Tigers in Atlantic Coast Conference competition, was also a sure-shot place-kicker for their football team.

Bob set a school record during his career at Clemson by kicking 70 consecutive extra points. For his full career, he made 107 conversions in 109 attempts.

Rose Gridders Set Workouts

Pre-season conditioning workouts will be held each Monday, Wednesday and Thursday for Rose High School football players, Coach Chip Williams has announced.

The workouts will begin on Monday, July 9, at 6 p.m.

"Everyone who wants to play should attend," Coach Williams said. "If there are any problems, players should contact me at 758-3778."

Players are requested to meet at the Rose High School field house for the workouts.

Sr. Babe Ruth Playoffs Set

WINTERVILLE — The champions of the Northern and Southern Divisions of the Coastal Plain Senior Babe Ruth League will meet in a best-of-three series for the overall league championship starting tonight.

Winterville Machine, which won the Southern Division, takes on Williamston, the Northern Division winner, in the series. The first game will be played tonight at 8 p.m. in Tarboro.

Game two will be played at D.H. Conley High School on Saturday at 8 p.m., with a third game, if needed, to be played Sunday at 2 p.m. at Williamston.

ECU's Rash In Deaf Olympics

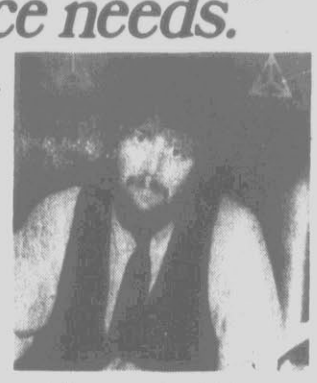

Steve Rash, a junior at East Carolina University, has qualified for the United States track squad for the Deaf Olympics to be held next summer in Los Angeles.

In the trials held last weekend at the University of Texas, Rash took first place in the 110 high hurdles with a time of 14.85. He qualified in second place in the 400 intermediate hurdles in 55.3.

Rash was a silver medalist in the high hurdles at the World Games for the Deaf in Cologne, West Germany and broke the national record for the deaf in that event.

Cards' Hurlers Baffle Dodgers

By The Associated Press

Joaquin Andujar and Bruce Sutter are All-Stars. If you ask the Los Angeles Dodgers, Neil Allen probably belongs in that category too.

At least he looked like it Thursday night, as did his fellow St. Louis pitchers as they combined on a three-hitter to lead the Cardinals to a 3-0 victory over Los Angeles, the second time in three games the Dodgers have been blanked.

Andujar went the first four, giving up one hit before leaving with a slight hamstring pull in his right leg, the same injury which has cut short his stints in his last three outings. He fell short of becoming the major league's first 14-game winner.

Allen, 4-2, blanked the Dodgers on one hit over the next four innings, then Sutter pitched a scoreless ninth, allowing one hit, to register his 21st save.

"I'm not disappointed, but I'm happy," said Andujar. "We're all teammates and winning the game is what counts. My leg doesn't hurt because we won."

"They have some very good pitchers and they pitched like All-Stars tonight," said Los Angeles Manager Tommy Lasorda. "But we didn't score any runs either, and you can't win that way."

St. Louis got two runs in the seventh. George Hendrick homered deep into the left-field seats. One out later, David Green beat out an infield single to short and scored on Ozzie Smith's triple down the right-field line.

Green's RBI-single in the ninth finished the scoring.

Andujar's injury was not expected to keep him out of the All-Star Game, scheduled for next Tuesday in San Francisco.

Elsewhere on a night filled with pitching stars, Charles Hudson went the distance in a game shortened by rain to seven innings, throwing a four-hitter as Philadelphia edged Atlanta 1-0. Mike LaCoss allowed only three hits in eight innings in Houston's 2-1 victory over Montreal.

Also, it was New York 4, Cincinnati 3 in a game called after 8 1-3 innings because of rain; Chicago 9, San Francisco 3, and San Diego 2, Pittsburgh 1.

Phillies 1, Braves 0

Hudson, 8-6, struck out six and walked two in earning his first major-league shutout. Atlanta's Rick Mahler, 6-4, pitched just as well, holding the Phillies to three hits and registering a career-high eight strikeouts.

The Phillies scored the game's only run in the second. Ozzie Virgil opened with a double, Von Hayes walked and Glenn Wilson singled to load the bases. Virgil scored on an infield out by Kiko Garcia.

"That's the Charles Hudson we know. It was the way he pitched last year. He used the fastball and kept his pitches low," said Manager Paul Owens.

"He was more aggressive tonight," Virgil said of Hudson. "He moved the ball around, established his fastball. He didn't get fancy. He went with his best stuff."

Astros 2, Expos 1

At Montreal, Jerry Mumphrey doubled home a pair of first-inning runs, all the offense Mike LaCoss and Bill Dawley would need. LaCoss gave up three hits through eight innings, then Dawley surrendered one in the ninth to pick up his first save of the season; he had 14 last year.

"It's always hardest to get the first one," Dawley said of the save. "I wish I had 20 of them."

Mets 4, Reds 3

Darryl Strawberry belted a two-run homer in the first inning as the Mets jumped ahead 3-0. But visiting Cincinnati chipped away to tie the game 3-3.

Then Reds catcher Brad Gulden's wild throw on an attempted pickoff of Ron Gardenhire at first base in the seventh inning allowed Mike Fitzgerald to score from second with the winning run.

"I'd probably make that play again," said Gulden. "A good throw would have had him. But that's the way things are sometimes. You make the aggressive play and it screws up for you."

Cubs 9, Giants 3

Ron Cey belted a pair of homers, giving him 38 in his career against San Francisco and four of his overall total of 12 this year. Scott Sanderson came off the disabled list and pitched five shutout innings. Sanderson, who hadn't pitched since May 29 because of a back problem, stopped the Giants on three hits through the first five innings, striking out five.

Dave Owen followed Cey's homer in the third with the first of his major-league career.

"I guess when they boo you on the road, it's a form of respect," Cey said. "I don't try to analyze my success against the Giants. It really doesn't mean that much. It's not going to change world history."

Tony Gwynn doubled in a run in the first, then got his seventh game-winning RBI of the season when Pittsburgh reliever Rod Scurry walked him with the bases loaded in the ninth. Scurry, working his second inning in relief of starter Jose DeLeon, struck out Kevin McReynolds to open the ninth, then walked Carmelo Martinez. Martinez went to second on a wild pitch and, after Garry Templeton struck out, Scurry walked pinch hitter Kurt Bevacqua and Alan Wiggins to load the bases. Then he walked Gwynn on a 3-2 delivery.

Kiwanis.....10
Union Carbide.....1

The Kiwanis, the fifth place finisher in the regular season in the North State Little League, upset number four Union Carbide, 10-1 yesterday in the first game of the league playoffs.

The Kiwanis will now meet regular season champ Sportsworld at 4 p.m. today at Elm Street Park for the right to go to the league finals.

The Kiwanis got all they needed in the first inning scoring two runs. With one away, Jamie Hale singled and Pat Joyner reached on an errored fielder's choice that let both runners take an extra base. Monte Smith grounded out, scoring Hale, and a wile pitch scored Joyner for a 2-0 lead.

The Kiwanis added six more in t;he third, and two more in the fourth.

The lone Union Carbide run came in the sixth, as Joyner held UC to only three hits on the day.

Hale led the Kiwanis hitting with two, while Andra Hopkins had two hits for Union Carbide.

Lions.....3
Optimists.....0

Kirk Welch hurled a three hitter at the Optimists as the sixth place Lions gained a 3-0 upset victory over the regular season third place winner yesterday in the North State Little League tournament.

The Lions will now meet regular season runner-up Coca-Cola in today's second round game at 6 p.m. at Elm Street Park. The winner advances to the league championship game.

The first inning produced the winning run for the Lions. Mike Harris walked and moved up on a wild pitch. He took third on an out and scored on Matt Aldridge's double.

The Lions added a second run in the third and one more in the fourth.

The Lions got only two hits off Heath Clark, but it proved enough as Welch kept the Optimists scoreless.

No one on either team got more than one hit.

Coca-Cola.....11
Jaycees.....1

Coca-Cola, which finished in second place in the North State League's regular season, had little trouble in disposing of number seven Jaycees yesterday in the league's post-season tournament, 11-1.

Walter Gatlin hurled the win, allowing but one hit, that coming in the fifth inning.

Coke pushed over four runs in the first inning to put the game away. Derrick Clark doubled and came around on two wild pitches. Hines doubled and Edwin Manning reached on an error. A wild pitch scored Hines and Bill Gorham walked. Both moved up on a wild pitch and Jimmy Lee sigled in both Manning and Gorham.

Coke picked up three more in the second, three in t;he fifth and one in the fifth.

The lone Jaycee run came in the second.

Clark and Lee each had two hits to lead the Coke batting.

First Federal.....11
Wellcome.....2

Stephen Meeks hit two homers, one a grand-slam as First Federal upset Wellcome in the first round of the Tar Heel Little League playoffs yesterday, 11-2. Wellcome was fourth seeded in the field, while First Federal was the fifth place team in the regular season standings.

First Federal now takes on regular season champ True Value Hardware today at 4 p.m. at Guy Smith Field.

Wellcome took the lead in the first, scoring twice, but First Federal matched that in the second on a two-run homer by Stephen Meeks.

In the third, First Federal moved ahead, scoring five times. Michael Cox reached on a fielder's choice and advanced on a wild pitch. Drew Johnson walked and Lee Watson singled in Cox. Michael Hollis walked, loading the bases and Meeks followed with his grand-slam, making it 6-2.

First Federal added three in the fourth and one in the fifth.

Keith Cobett led the First Federal hitting with four while Meeks had three. John Uhlman had two hits to pace Wellcome.

Moose.....4
Exchange.....2

Maurice Battle had a two-run homer but the sixth-ranked Moose upset number three Exchange, 4-2, in the Tar Heel Little League post-season tournament yesterday.

Moose will now meet Carroll & Associates today at 6 p.m. at Guy Smith Stadium in round two.

Battle's homer in the first gave the Exchange a 2-0 lead, but it wasn't to last as Chris Christopher held Exchange scoreless after that.

The Moose came up with three in the third to take the lead. Jonathan Foley singled and moved up on a wild pitch. Al DeBias walked and with one away, Christopher doubled in Foley. A wild pitch scored DeBias, and an error let Christopher score.

The other Moose run crossed int he fifth.

Christopher had two hits to lead the Moose while Battle had two for Exchange.

Michael Sutton hurled a shutout at Pepsi-Cola as Carroll & Associates advanced in the Tar Heel Little League tournament yesterday, 10-0.

Carroll & Associates will now face the Moose in round two of the tournament, today at 6 p.m. at Guy Smith Field.

C&A got the winning run in the second inning. Toure Claiborne walked and moved up on a wild pitch. Hank Thompson walked and Michael Sutton sacficed them up. Jason Smith then singled in Claiborne.

C&A added four in the fourth and five in the sixth, including a three-run homer by Joel Daughtry.

Thompson had two hits to lead C&A at the plate. Bill Blizzard had three hits while Shonte Moye and Greg Hunt each had two for Pepsi.

Dailey Hopes To Shake First-Day Tourney Jinx

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Dianne Dailey, unfortunately, knows from experience. The first-day lead in an LPGA tournament means little.

Dailey has led at least three LPGA events in her five-year professional career and yet is still searching for her first triumph. She shared a lead again Thursday with Lauri Peterson at 4-under-par 68 after the first round of the Jamie Farr Toledo Classic.

"The lead doesn't mean anything until the last day," she said. "Amy Alcott proved that just last week. She came from six shots back in the last round to win."

Dailey, a 24-year-old out of Salem (W.Va.) College, has never finished higher than third. She tied for her 12th in the LPGA Championship for her best 1984 finish.

"I feel good about the way I'm playing," she said. "I want to trust my swing, not think about my score and not watch the leader board."

Peterson, matching Dailey's five-birdie, one-bogey performance over the 6,240-yard Glengarry Country Club layout, won at Springfield, Ill., in her rookie season last year and said, "I'm ready to win again. I'm playing a lot better, more consistent this year."

Peterson, 24 today, admits she had to change her attitude earlier this season. "After 1½ years out here, I was considering it a job. I'm having fun again. Hey, if I'm not having fun, I don't want to stay out here," said the Arizona State University graduate.

Peterson needed birdie putts on the 17th and 18th holes to earn a share of the lead. She sank a breaking, downhill 15-footer at 18. "Those aren't the kind you go for," she said.

One shot behind at 69 were Marlene Hagge, 50, chasing her 26th career triumph; Alice Miller and three non-winners, Muffin Spencer Devlin, Colleen Walker and Myra Van Hoose.

Patty Sheehan, this year's leading money-winner; Hollis Stacy, a two-time U.S. Open winner; Juli Inkster, the game's record money earner as a rookie; Jan Stephenson and Cheryl Stacy, one of two amateurs in the field, were in a logjam at 70.

Stacy, the Ohio Women's Amateur champion and an Ohio State University junior, is playing in her first professional golf tournament.

Alcott, with a 71, was among 25 golfers who broke par during the opening round that was delayed 75 minutes by an electrical storm.

The pros are chasing a total purse of $175,000, with $26,250 going to Sunday's champion.

Rice Slams Bosox Over Oakland

By The Associated Press

The opposing teams were different. The strategy was the same. The batters were different. The result was the same. On consecutive nights, the Boston Red Sox rode grand slam home runs to slugfest victories.

Boston's Jim Rice was the hero Wednesday night when his 10th-inning bases-loaded homer beat the Oakland Athletics 13-9. On Thursday night, Dwight Evans became the man of the hour when he homered with three aboard as the Red Sox downed the California Angels 12-7.

"It came my turn, and I'm happy about that," Evans, who was walked intentionally Wednesday to load the bases for Rice, said. "Yesterday they walked me and Jimmy got it."

On Thursday, with Boston ahead 7-2 and runners on second and third and two out in the fifth inning, the Angels decided to walk Wade Boggs intentionally and pitch to Evans.

The Boston right fielder drilled reliever Bruce Kison's first pitch into the center-field bleachers for his second career grand slam.

"My other was against Joe Decker of Minnesota in 1975, the year we won the pennant, but I barely remember it," Evans, who drove in six runs in the game, said.

In other American League games Thursday, Toronto slugged Seattle 10-8; Chicago edged Cleveland 7-6; Milwaukee downed Oakland 7-5; Detroit rallied past Texas 7-4; Minnesota beat New York 5-4; and Kansas City at Baltimore was rained out.

California Manager John McNamara might have wished he used the intentional walk strategy in the first inning when his team led 2-0. With runners on second and third and none out, the Angels elected to pitch to Rice. The Boston left fielder delivered a pitch from Geoff Zahn over the screen in left center for his 68th, 69th and 70th RBIs — tops in the major leagues.

"This was a hitter's night with the wind blowing out," Evans said. "It was fun. It was a hitter's dream to go up there. On the homer, I really didn't hit the ball good, but it went far enough."

Evans defended the California strategy in walking Boggs.

"I would have done the same thing because Kison has been extremely tough on me since coming into our league," Evans said. "It was good baseball. I went up there just looking for something good to hit. He got a fastball up and in and I got it up into the wind."

Tony Armas extended his hitting streak to a career-high 18 games with an RBI-single and Bill Buckner had four hits for the Red Sox.

Right-hander Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, 6-3, allowed California two quick runs on singles by Gary Pettis and Rod Carew and a triple by Fred Lynn. However, he settled down until he was shelled in the sixth when Doug DeCinces hit a three-run homer and Bobby Grich added a solo shot. Bob Stanley earned his 14th save by holding California to one run over the final 3 1-3 innings.

Blue Jays 10, Mariners 8

Willie Upshaw snapped out of a hitting slump as he drove in four runs with two hits to pace Toronto. Upshaw, who entered the game with three hits in his last 42 at-bats and an 11-game streak without an RBI, singled in a run in Toronto's four-run first inning, then capped a four-run second with a bases-loaded triple.

Toronto starter Doyle Alexander, 7-4, held the Mariners to two runs on seven hits through six innings before Seattle erupted for four runs in the top of the seventh, three on Ken Phelps' 12th home run of the season.

White Sox 7, Indians 6

Greg Walker homered with two outs in the bottom of the ninth off Neal Heaton, 5-8, who was making his first relief appearance of the season. The White Sox had four other homers in the game — two by Carlton Fisk, who was reactivated only hours before the game from the disabled list; Greg Luzinski's sixth of the season and 300th of his career and Scott Fletcher's second of the season.

The Indians had scored five times in the fourth inning to erase a 2-0 Chicago lead. Brook Jacoby, who had stroked a two-run double, stole home in the inning.

Brewers 7, Athletics 5

Jim Gantner and Robin Yount drove in two runs each and Ben Oglivie had three hits to lead Milwaukee to its season-high fifth straight victory.

Rollie Fingers, the third Milwaukee pitcher, registered his 18th save as he worked out of a one-out, bases-loaded jam in the top of the seventh. Carney Lansford drove in two runs for Oakland.

Tigers 7, Rangers 4

Kirk Gibson's three-run homer highlighted a six-run ninth inning as the Tigers snapped a four-game losing streak. Texas starter Charlie Hough, 8-7, entered the ninth inning with a 4-1 lead, having allowed five hits. With one out, Chet Lemon and Larry Herndon singled and, one out later, pinch hitter Johnny Grubb walked to load the bases.

Lou Whitaker singled to score two runs and Alan Trammell singled to tie the score. Gibson then followed with his 12th home run of the year to snap Hough's personal six-game winning streak and the Tigers' longest losing streak of the season.

Aurelio Lopez, 7-0, the third Tiger pitcher, was the winner, while Willie Hernandez got the last out in the bottom of the ninth for his 15th save. Gary Ward drove in three of the Texas runs with a single and a two-run double.

Twins 5, Yankees 4

Ron Washington's two-run triple was the first of five consecutive hits in the sixth inning as Minnesota rallied to raise its record to 41-40. New York starter Ron Guidry, 6-7, breezed along with a two-hitter through five innings before running into trouble in the bottom of the sixth.

Dave Meier followed Washington's hit with a ground-rule double and Houston Jimenez, Kirby Puckett and Mickey Hatcher followed with singles, the last off reliever Jay Howell. Ron Davis got the game's final two outs for his 16th save in support of starter Ken Schrom, 2-3.

Dave Winfield, who figured in three of New York's runs, went 3-for-4 to raise his league-leading batting average to .377.

Home Fans Cheer Petty

LEVEL CROSS, N.C. (AP) — President Ronald Reagan was on hand to congratulate Richard Petty for his 200th racing victory, but to hometown fans the victory was another jewel in the NASCAR king's crown.

"I'm tickled to death," said Mike Morris of Greensboro, who runs the Level Cross Farmer's Market. "When I heard he'd won, I went crazy. He's always been my No. 1 man. Everybody I've talked to about it is real proud of him, too."

News of Petty's victory Wednesday at the Firecracker 400 swept through the town where Petty Enterprises and Petty's trophies and mementos reside. But it's Petty's son, Kyle, who works there now that his father has started racing for the Kannapolis-based Curb Racing Associates.

The 200th title prompted the early opening of an exhibit and souvenir shop called "The Racing Connection," said assistant manager Anne Fogleman.

"We're all just thrilled for him. He's really a super person. He's done a lot for this community and this area," Ms. Fogleman said.

By early afternoon Thursday, dozens of fans had visted the shop — some from as far away as New York and Texas traveling through on vacations.

"I think it was the proper time and the proper place for it," George Vernon said of Petty's July 4th win in the Firecracker 400. A former Level Cross resident, Vernon drove down from Hickory to show a friend the Petty complex.

Winterville 3
Ayden 1

TARBORO — Brian Smith fired a three-hitter and drove in the winning run with a double in the first inning as Winterville downed Ayden 3-1 Thursday in the Bambino League District baseball tournament.

Smith struck out six and walked one to claim the victory on the mound.

Ron Wilder and Fred Streeter walked before Smith ripped a two-run double in the first.

Ayden trimmed the margin with a run in the second, but Winterville scored again in the fifth for the final margin. Streeter reached first on an error and scored on a sacrifice fly by Clifton Bryant.

Winterville plays Saturday at 6 p.m. against the winner of Friday night's Nashville-Williamston game.

• •

In other games, Southern Pitt and Winterville advanced into the winners' bracket.

Southern Pitt beat Tarboro, 6-1, behind the combined no-hit pitching of Mike Chapman and Teel.

Farmville, however, was defeated by Nashville, 9-5, while Greene County downed Nash County's Tri-Community, 8-0, on a no-hitter by Reggie Hill, who struck out 13.

Play in the double elimination event continues through Tuesday.

HOME RUN KINER

NEW YORK (AP) — Hall of Famer Ralph Kiner, one of the spokesmen for the Gillette All-Star election for the 1984 game in San Francisco, owns one of the more outstanding records in the mid-summer classic.

Kiner was the only player to hit a home run in three straight All-Star Games, connecting in 1949-50-51.

For his full major-league career, Kiner, now a broadcaster for the New York Mets, hit 369 homers in 10 seasons, averaging almost 37 a year. He played for the Pittsburgh Pirates, Chicago Cubs and Cleveland Indians.

Williams Wins Putt Event

Bob Williams shot a solid four-under-par 68 to win the Thursday Night Amateur Tournament at Greenville Putt-Putt and Games last night.

John Jolley finished one stroke back after leading the first round. Lanny Morris came in third with a one-over-par 73. Fourth place went to Jerry Jolley at 74 while Steve Taylor was fifth with a 77.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — THOSE CLEVER CAR SALESMEN MANAGED TO DRIVE A BIG HARD BARGAIN.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: P equals T

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

A MATTER OF CONTROL

Both vulnerable. South deals.

NORTH
♠ Q J

◇ 10 4 3
♣ A J 9 4

WEST
♠ 7
♡ K 7 6 3
◇ A K J 9 5 2

SOUTH
♠ A K 10 9 3
♡ A Q 10 5
◇ 8 7
♣ K 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ◇	Dble	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	4 ♡	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ◇.

Don't lose control at the bridge table — either of your self or of the hand. Cover the East-West cards with your thumbs and decide how you would play four hearts after West cashes the king-ace of diamonds, felling his partner's queen, and continues with the jack, which you ruff as East sluffs a spade.

North's double of two diamonds was "negative" — i.e., for takeout. South's jump to three hearts was not forcing, but it did show a better than minimum opening bid, and North had an easy raise to game.

Obviously, the hand presents no problem if trumps are 3-2, but what if they split 4-1? If you cross to the queen of spades and take a trump finesse, it wins. You go back to the ace of clubs to repeat the finesse, but now East shows out and, as the cards lie, you cannot recover — down one. Try it.

The winning line after ruffing the third diamond is to play the queen of trumps! If this wins, continue with the 10 of trumps. If the defenders don't take the king, cash the ace and start running the spades. The king of trumps is the third and last trick for the defense.

Best defense is for West to win the second round of trumps and lead another diamond. But you counter by ruffing in hand with the ace, and can then cross to the board with the ace of clubs to draw the last two trumps. Now your hand is high.

You keep control by refusing to release the ace of hearts. If you play that card too soon, the defenders can defeat you either by ruffing a spade, or by setting up a low trump by forcing dummy with a fourth diamond.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge," will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. Mine Fields Slow Beirut Unity Push BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Mine-clearing sweeps slowed an army operation to reunite Beirut's Moslem and Christian sectors today, but the government voiced confidence that its plan to end Lebanon's nine-year civil war was working.

Government officials said the delays were due to public safety concerns and shortage of equipment, and they stressed there were no disputes among the principal civil war factions over the normalization process.

"Not a single shot has been fired on Beirut's fronts for two days and President (Amin) Gemayel sees this as evidence that the main militia commands were genuinely cooperating with the army," said one official, who spoke on condition he not be identified.

But the only open crossing between the two sides of the city was closed for at least three hours today when the families of civil war kidnap victims set car tires afire and barricaded the Moslem end of the crossing with stones, the state radio reported.

A delegation representing the demonstrators met with a security committee made up of Lebanon's principal civil war antagonists to discuss the fate of the kidnapped.

The International Red Cross said more than 100 people have disappeared since last September.

Hijackers Free 250 On Plane

LAHORE, Pakistan (AP) — More than 250 people held hostage in a hijacked Indian Airlines plane were freed unharmed today when Sikh militants surrendered unconditionally to Pakistani authorities.

The government said eight hijackers, who had threatened to blow up the plane and everyone on board, were taken into custody. A reporter aboard the plane said he counted nine hijackers.

The airline said there were 255 passengers listed for the domestic Indian flight, presumably including the hijackers, in addition to a crew of nine. All of those freed were taken to an airport lounge, and Pakistan said it would provide a plane to return them to India today.

The leader of the group said during a conversation on board the plane that the hijackers had no explosives. They were armed with two pistols, knives and two axes, and also carried a roll of toilet paper with a string attached, apparently to serve as a decoy bomb.

The hijackers fired shots through the cockpit door when they took over the plane Thursday, hitting in the flight engineer in the back as he tried to resists. Details of his injury were not known.

A Pakistani military source said the Sikh would be put on trial in Pakistan on charges of air piracy. The source, who requested anonymity, said the hijackers were in custody at a Lahore police station.

Lahore is about 180 miles southeast of Islamabad near the Indian-Pakistani border.

Editorial Writer Freed In Illinois

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — An editorial writer freed from jail after the sources whose identities he had steadfastly refused to reveal stepped forward voluntarily has vowed to "fight to change this law from a typewriter and sleep at home each night."

Richard Hargraves, 34, was ordered released from St. Clair County Jail by Circuit Judge Roger Scrivner on Thursday after attorneys reached an agreement in the case. He was the first journalist jailed in a civil libel suit in 26 years.

Hargraves was jailed Tuesday for refusing to identify two sources he consulted before writing a 1981 editorial for the Belleville News-Democrat critical of Jerry Costello, chairman of the St. Clair County Board of Supervisors.

Costello sued Hargraves for libel over the editorial that accused the county board chairman of lying and breaking campaign promises to oppose new taxes not first approved by the voters.

The judge ordered Hargraves released after Cueto said he would not object because he now knew the sources' names.

Demos Urge End To Long Veep Search

NORTH OAKS, Minn. (AP) — Walter F. Mondale's parade of vice presidential prospects lengthens today, even as New York Gov. Mario Cuomo publicly advises the apparent Democratic presidential nominee to bring the procession to a halt and pick his running mate.

With a morning session, Kentucky Gov. Martha Layne Collins becomes the seventh person — and the third woman — that Mondale has interviewed at his Minnesota home. The others include two black men, a Hispanic man and one white man.

Mondale aides said no other interviews are scheduled. But Mondale has left the door open to name someone, such as presidential rival Gary Hart, who has not come to Minnesota for an interview.

Cuomo said Thursday that the well-publicized search for a vice presidential candidate and the resulting pressures from various interest groups is distracting the Democratic Party at a time when it should be uniting for the fall campaign against President Reagan.

Meanwhile, Hart said in an interview in today's editions of The Denver Post that Mondale's meetings reminded him of a movie with "one of everything in a lifeboat, including a kid who played the harmonica."

"The tradition has been ... to do this more behind closed doors," the Colorado senator said. He said former President Jimmy Carter broke that tradition to symbolize his role as an outsider and that Mondale "has followed the example without the reason."

"Being an insider, he didn't need to demonstrate his independence from the political establishment," Hart said in the copyright interview with the newspaper's reporters and editors. He said Mondale's meetings have had "two down sides."

"One, it looks a little like pandering ... The second, it does raise expectations on the part of minority groups and women."

Hart stressed he does not seek the vice presidential nomination but said it would be "very difficult" to say no if it were offered. He said he would not want to be a "traditional vice president."

"I would want to play a significant role in some policy-making area, probably arms control ... that is the area that I'm most interested in and it's the most overwhelming issue of our time."

Cuomo delivered his opinion in person in a meeting with Mondale in Boston.

"My instinct and judgement is that it would be best to make an early commitment to a vice presidential selection before the convention," Cuomo said as Mondale looked on after the two emerged from a more than one-hour closed meeting at Logan Airport.

Mondale had flown east for the day to attend a fund-raiser which brought his campaign $225,000.

Jackson Refuses To Call Off Trip

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson says he still plans to visit the Soviet Union to discuss freeing dissidents if he can get permission to enter the country and the United States government does not interfere.

"We intend to go to the Soviet Union and we intend to go to Southern Africa as well," Jackson told a news conference Thursday. He said such a trip before the November election was "a real possibility."

"If our government will not interfere with my visa, with my passport, and the Soviet Union will not stop me by disallowing a visa, I expect to lead a peace mission to the Soviet Union," he said.

President Reagan, touring a General Motors plant near Detroit, said Thursday that Jackson should consult the State Department first. On Wednesday, he discouraged the Democratic presidential hopeful from going at all.

In Washington, State Department spokesman John Hughes said the department "would not stand in the way" of such a trip but added that prospects for freeing dissident physicist Andrei Sakharov and his wife might be dim.

Study Discounts Link For Estrogen, Cancer

BOSTON (AP) — Brittle bones, a major problem of aging that afflicts up to one-quarter of women over 60, probably can be treated with the hormone estrogen without increasing the patients' risk of breast cancer, a study published today suggests.

The research comes eight years after a federal study indicated that women who use the medicine after menopause are more likely to get breast cancer.

The new study is the latest of four major reviews to find there is no evidence of a link. Taken together, the researcher concluded, "there is now strong evidence to suggest that these drugs do not increase the overall risk of the disease."

Even while breast cancer apparently is not a significant hazard of estrogen use after menopause, however; the pills do appear to heighten the risk of uterine cancer. Yet experts say the benefits of estrogen still probably outweigh its dangers.

In May, the Food and Drug Administration approved the use of estrogens to counter osteoporosis, the brittle bone condition that accounts for many of the fractures suffered by older women.

The latest study, published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, was based on a survey of 1,610 women with breast cancer and 1,606 with other conditions. It was conducted by researchers at the Boston University Drug Epidemiology Unit, the University of Pennsylvania and Memorial-Sloan Kettering Cancer Center.

Brittle bones are a major problem of aging, especially among white women. According to one estimate, about a quarter of all women in their 60s have moderate to severe osteoporosis.

Last April, a panel convened by the National Institutes of Health recommended estrogen pills for white women after menopause.

Amendments Set For Tax Reform Bill

RALEIGH (AP) — Intangibles tax opponents hoped to push some form of repeal through the state House today, but one lawmaker warned that a bill scheduled for a final vote might be "amended to death."

The House voted 68-37 Thursday to delay until today a vote on a bill that would repeal the tax on bank and insurance deposits but leave intact the levy on stocks and bonds.

That proposal — a heavily rewritten version of a Senate bill that would phase out the entire intangibles tax over five years — won tentative approval Tuesday.

Rep. Billy Watkins, D-Granville, suggested the delay. "The main reason was there are just a lot of ideas floating around and they haven't had time to jell," he said.

But other lawmakers saw the postponement as an attempt to scuttle the bill.

"I think that what's going to happen is we are going to amend this bill to death," said Rep. Joe Mavretic, D-Edgecombe.

Rep. Al Adams, D-Wake, who opposes intangibles tax reform, said he would offer several amendments — including one tongue-in-cheek proposal to repeal the property tax on houses valued at more than $200,000 and reimburse local governments for their losses with money raised through the sales tax on bread and milk.

"That way, the rich people would give the poor bread and milk to raise more sales tax revenues," deadpanned Adams in an interview.

Adams said he'd also propose:

— A constitutional amendment allowing individual counties to repeal the intangibles tax;

— A proposal that the threshold for taxing savings accounts be raised from $1,000 to $1,500; and — A different phaseout schedule, which would begin in 1988 and end in 1991.

Sen. Craig Lawing, D-Mecklenburg, sponsor of the original bill, said it had been changed so much that he hardly recognized it.

"That's not my bill any more," he said. "I couldn't care less what happens to it."

The intangibles tax is 10 cents per $100 on savings accounts over $1,000 and 25 cents per $100 on stocks and bonds. The state collects the money, but returns most of it to local governments.

Lawing's bill called for a five-year phaseout and partial state reimbursement of cities and counties. The bill was amended on the Senate floor to require total reimbursement.

Joint Transplants Prove Successful

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Frozen joints from cadavers offer an alternative to artificial knees, hips and elbows without the constant replacements needed with metal joints, researchers at Duke University Medical Center say.

"So far we've transplanted joints into 10 patients, and seven of them are free of pain, have a useful range of elbow motion and use an elbow brace only with strenuous activity," said Dr. James R. Urbaniak, an orthopedic surgeon at Duke. "These patients constitute the largest series of total elbow grafts performed thus far in this country that have been followed for at least a year after surgery."

Urbaniak said metal joints commonly used when joints are removed because of injury, severe arthritis or bone cancer often become loose and soften, requiring replacement every seven to 10 years.

"Patients in their 20s and 30s therefore would require several operations during their lifetime," he said. "And the procedure becomes more difficult each time because of progressive bone loss around the attachment sites."

The natural joints used at Duke come from the University of Miami Bone Bank, where they are frozen to kill bone marrow, cells and tissue that might otherwise be rejected by the host, Urbaniak said.

"The nonviable bone matrix that remains is much less likely to stimulate rejection of the graft, but still maintains much of the strength of living bone," he said. "In addition, storing grafts at low temperatures help prevent destruction of bone enzymes and infection by bacteria and other microorganisms."

To obtain the correct size for bone grafts, Urbaniak sends X-rays of the patient's elbow to Dr. Theodore Malinin, director of the Miami Bone Bank, who compares the pictures with file X-rays of available grafts.

The grafts, held in place by long metal plates, take about four hours of surgery. After wearing plaster casts for about 10 days, patients progress to wearing protective elbow braces for a year. Meanwhile, the patients' own bone cells unite with the graft and the metal plates can be removed.

"Although this type of implant is not for everyone, it can be useful in younger patients or in those who have lost too much bone to support a conventional artificial joint," Urbaniak said.

Pork Barrel Projects Readied

RALEIGH (AP) — Legislative budget committees are working to compile a more than $10 million "wish list" to fund museums, festivals, fire departments and libraries back home.

A list of statewide projects was approved in separate meetings by the House and Senate Appropriations Committees. In addition, the Senate panel approved money for local projects and subjects for study by interim legislative committees.

The "pork barrel" packages were expected to reach the House and Senate floors quickly, as legislators pushed to adjourn.

When a package of additions to the $7.1 billion 1984-85 state budget were passed earlier in the session, budget leaders said there would be about $10 million to divide among lawmakers' pet projects.

But the list of statewide projects released Thursday totaled $8.7 million and the list of local Senate projects was worth approximately $4.1 million for a combined total of $12.8 million. The list of House projects had not been released.

Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman Sen. Harold Hardison, D-Lenoir, said House members got about $40,000 each and Senate members got about $80,000 in pork barrel money for their districts.

But Sen. Don Kincaid, R-Caldwell, said it seemed like the amount of pork barrel money gets larger each session. He charged that budget leaders hold the bill until the last days of the session to encourage other lawmakers to vote certain ways on other bills.

Senate Panel Stalls Phosphates Proposal

RALEIGH (AP) — Members of a state Senate committee have shelved a bill to limit the amount of phosphorus in laundry detergents in North Carolina groceries, apparently putting the measure out of supporters' reach this session.

Supporters could not bring the bill to a vote Thursday in the Senate Special Ways and Means Committee, leaving the measure alive although tied in parliamentary maneuvers that could be difficult to undo.

The House passed the bill by an almost 2-to-1 margin. It has been considered by the Senate committee on at least three days and been the subject of a public hearing.

The measure, which won the support of Gov. Jim Hunt and the N.C. League of Municipalities, would limit phosphorus to 0.05 percent of the detergent by weight. It was opposed by the Soap and Detergent Association, grocers and some industries.

Sen. Cecil Jenkins, D-Cabarrus, moved that the Special Ways and Means Committee approve the bill. Committee Chairman Bob Swain, D-Buncombe, asked for a second to the motion and none of the other five committee members spoke.

Swain declared the motion dead for lack of a second although Senate rules dictate that only three motions — to adjourn, to table and to cut off debate — require a second.

After the meeting, Swain said supporters should have questioned his decision if it was not in line with Senate rules.

Swain adjourned the committee before anyone moved to kill the bill, a maneuver opening the way for a minority report signed by at least three committee members.

Supporters, who said 26 of the 50 senators were on their side, could have used a minority report to force the full Senate to vote on the bill.

Supporters still could try to suspend the rules to get the bill out of the Special Ways and Means Committee and up for a vote by the full Senate but that would be more difficult, requiring 34 votes.

In the meantime, the bill remains alive in committee.

RJR To Buy More Leaf

By The Associated Press

R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. plans to increase its purchase of domestic flue-cured tobacco this year, a congressman and a company spokesman said Thursday.

Rep. Charlie Rose, D-N.C., announced the decision after meeting with company officials in Winston-Salem Thursday.

Rose left the meeting with a letter from Gerald H. Long, president and chief executive officer of the tobacco company. In the letter released by Rose, Long assured Rose that the company planned "to substantially increase" its domestic purchases of flue-cured tobacco this year compared with last year.

But Long also said that the "exact quantity" of the purchase "depends on price, quality and consumer demand."

G. Nat Walker, a spokesman for the company, confirmed the plans expressed in the letter but said the company would not reveal how much tobacco it bought last year compared with what it might buy this year.

Walker also said the buying plans for the year were made at the end of 1983.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and Rose have been trying to convince cigarette companies to reduce the amount of imported tobacco they buy and buy domestic tobacco to reduce the amount of leaf swelling government surpluses under the federal tobacco program.

Helms has made promises from tobacco companies a condition for him to support compromise legislation on cigarette health warnings.

Taylorsville Hit By Heavy Winds

TAYLORSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Heavy winds, rain and lightning littered the streets of Taylorsville with live power lines and trees, prompting officials to ask residents to stay in their homes until the cleanup was completed.

"We just don't want people there who don't need to be on the streets," said Mayor Guy Barringer on Thursday. "We don't know how many live power lines are down. When it first happened, curiosity seekers were coming into the streets to see what happened and we don't need people blocking the streets."

Barringer said there was no electricity in the city and that it might be two days before power was completely restored. He said he did not know of any injuries or of any residents who left their homes because of damage.

Barringer said the storm hit about 5:30 p.m., damaging homes and businesses, including a downtown carwash that was almost destroyed.

"The whole town is in the dark and on emergency generators," Barringer said. "I haven't seen a light — other than a flashlight — since it happened."
