Index Shows Economic Dip

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's forecasting gauge for national economic health dropped a sharp 0.9 percent in June, the first decline in nearly two years, the Commerce Department reported today.

The dropoff, if not subsequently revised upward, would snap the longest string of advances for the Index of Leading Economic Indicators since the end of World War II.

In two recent months, however, the government has initially reported declines in the index only to revise those estimates upward after more complete data became available.

A 1.1 percent drop reported in March was revised to show a 0.3 percent increase.

Last month, the government reported the May index was down 0.1 percent. In today's report, however, that was revised to a 0.4 percent increase.

Information on business and consumer borrowing, which was not available originally, led to the upward revision in the May calculation, the department said.

Even if the June decline does hold, economists have said it would not signal the beginning of another recession. Instead, they believe the decline would confirm that the economy is slowing from the torrid pace set earlier in the year. Economic growth, as measured by the gross national product, slowed to 7.5 percent in the second quarter, still robust but down from the 10.1

percent pace of the first three months of the year.

The last decline in the index was a slight 0.1 percent drop in August 1982, just before the economy hit the bottom of the 1981-82 recession. Since that time, the index has registered 21 straight months of increases.

Hijackers Die In Raid By Officers

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao (AP) — Security officers stormed a hijacked Venezuelan jetliner early today, killing the two hijackers and rescuing the 79 people aboard who had been held hostage for 36 hours, officials said.

Details of the lightning-fast attack, carried out at 1:50 a.m. EDT, were sketchy and witnesses, and government officials offered conflicting information. Several passengers suffered minor injuries in scrambling from the Venezuelan Aeropostal DC-9, which was hijacked Sunday after leaving Venezuela.

The hijackers had threatened to blow up the plane unless they received an escape helicopter, millions in cash and if possible, weapons.

Venezuelan and U.S. anti-terrorist specialists assisted in the operation. But a Pentagon spokesman in Washington, Navy Lt. Tom Yeager, said that although U.S. "technical advisers" were sent to help deal with the hijacking, no Americans participated directly in the assault.

Witnesses said the rescue force moved in from the front and rear end of the plane. The hijackers apparently allowed the plane's left front door to be opened after the wife of one of the gunmen appealed to her husband over a radio to free a woman passenger who reportedly suffered a miscarriage. When the door opened, the security men charged in.

Government authorities said that one woman passenger suffered a back injury in a fall and that she was one of several passengers taken to (Please turn to page 10)

Leaf Sales Begin Tomorrow

By MARY SCHULKEN

Greenville's tobacco warehouses, sitting silent since November, bustled with life today as farmers placed their crops and their hopes on the floors preparing for the first tobacco sale of the season.

On Wednesday tobacco farmers will get a glimpse of what their hours in the field will earn them as the 1984 Greenville tobacco market opens for the season.

Local agriculture officials are optimistic that sales will go well and say the 1984 crop that's hitting the warehouse floors looks good.

"Of the tobacco that's come out of the barns and is on the floor today, we have some very good tobacco,"

according to Mitch Smith, Pitt extension agent. "It looks like we have some nice leaf to sell this year."

Smith said he's checked tobacco already on the floor at local warehouses and "it looked very good." "I am optimistic," he said. "From what I've seen, the crop has (Please turn to page 10)

Early Bids Running Low

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Tobacco growers turned their tickets on thousands of pounds of tobacco in Lumberton's opening sales, rejecting bids by companies they said were too low.

Glenn Fields, who raises 16 acres of tobacco in eastern Columbus County, rejected bids today of $1.52 per pound on nearly 6,600 pounds of his tobacco, joining other farmers in Lumberton who said they would hold their tobacco to sell another day.

"You always take a chance selling early," Fields said. "I'll just stack it on the side of the warehouse and try to sell it again in a week or so. I didn't take a price that low last year, and I'm not going to do it this year."

Fields, like other farmers who turned their tickets, also complained that their leaf received a lower grade from federal graders than it deserved.

Earlier in Fairmont, at the opening sale of the South Carolina-border

North Carolina belt, prices ranged from $1.15 to a few piles at $1.80.

The gloom of gray skies and pouring rain outside the warehouses matched the atmosphere inside, as farmers shook their heads and grumbled about the prices.

While a large share of the leaf offered in Fairmont and Lumberton was bought by tobacco companies or warehouses, prices paid for that leaf were generally one cent over federal support prices.

REFLECTOR HOTLINE

Hotline gets things done. Write and tell us about the problem or issue into which you'd like for Hotline to look. Enclose photostatic copies of any pertinent information. Our address is The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C., 27835. Because of the large numbers received, Hotline cannot answer or publish every item we receive, but we deal with all of those for which we have staff time. Names must be given, but only initials will be published.

HOLE IN ROAD

I live in an apartment complex that has an entrance road with a huge hole in it. I have checked with someone who works for the state and he says it's on private property. Then I checked with the apartment owner and he said it was on state right of way. I don't know. I only know a lot of people are getting their cars out of alignment running through it. I even put up a stick with a red rag on it myself to try to warn people, but children in the neighborhood took it down. I don't know what else to do.

Hotline is contacting the owner with information obtained from the state that the "drop-in" hole, as the state employee who inspected it at our request called it, is on his property, according to maps maintained by the state. We've been told by the county planner that the property is in the city of Greenville's extraterritorial area and by city officials that having the hole repaired, even to protect the public which uses the entrance road, cannot be enforced by any governmental entity. The city and county planners and engineers enforce having property up to certain standards when it's constructed, but do not enforce any maintenance standards, we were told. It's the prerogative of the owner to allow it to stay as it is or worsen, though he may be leaving himself open to liability for the damage of others' property or their personal injury.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The last U.S. combat Marines serving in Lebanon were airlifted out of Beirut today to American warships offshore.

The airlift began at 8:32 a.m. when a CH-47 Chinook helicopter took off from the seafont boulevard in front of the old U.S. Embassy compound with a load of 15 Marines.

Thirty seconds later, another helicopter lifted off with 15 more Marines as the withdrawal operation moved into high gear on a rainy, hazy day.

The departing unit, left over from the multinational peacekeeping force that pulled out of Beirut last February, consists of about 90 to 100 Marines who had been guarding the U.S. Embassy compound.

A Marine combat unit from each Marine amphibious unit serving in Lebanon has been guarding the embassy in the west Beirut neighborhood of Ein Mreisseh since April 1983, when a car bomb attack killed 63 people, including 17 Americans, at the original embassy 100 yards away from the current compound.

The embassy has been moved out of the seafont area to a less conspicuous compound a few hundred yards to the west in Ein Mreisseh. The new chancery was officially opened today, and an annex in east Beirut, where embassy personnel will live, is to open Wednesday.

The U.S. Embassy has hired an extra guard force drawn from local militias to supplement the regular 15-man Marine security unit in protecting the new embassy premises.

The Marines leaving today were in full field gear, with helmets, flak jackets, rifles and heavily loaded packs. They ran across the boulevard, scrambling aboard the helicopters in seconds.

Shortly after the first two CH-47s took off, another pair landed. No warships were visible from the shore because of the haze.

The fifth helicopter was a larger CH-53, which loaded barrels and boxes of equipment. Light anti-tank rockets could be seen among the gear. Meanwhile, a Marine dismantled spotlights that had been put up on the small roads either side of the embassy.

U.S. Ambassador Reginald Bartholomew arrived during the operation, but left within a few minutes escorted by two cars full of bodyguards.

No disturbances were reported during the Marine pullout either in Beirut or the central mountains overlooking the capital.

LAST DETAIL — U.S. Marines board a CH-46 helicopter in heavy rain today as the last American combat unit in Lebanon pulled out. The Marine unit, with 90 to 100 men, has been guarding the U.S. Embassy on Beirut's waterfront. The embassy has moved to a less conspicuous area. (AP Laserphoto)

Alison Paige Draughton Is Bride Of Michael A. Hartley

Alison Paige Draughton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Pascal Draughton of Route 2, Dunn, and Michael Alan Hartley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hartley of Cary, were married July 21.

The ceremony was performed in the Divine Street United Methodist Church in Dunn by the Rev. Jack Manley Hunter. Johnnie Earl Draughton, USN, of Little Creek, Va., was vocalist, and the organist was Ronald Edward Wiseman of Dunn. Special music was presented by the church handbell choir, directed by Mary Lemuel Blalock.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal Friscilla of Boston designer gown of candlelight satin. An elongated bodice had a sheer point d'esprit yoke and Victorian collar. Re-embroidered alencon lace embellished with seed pearls and iridescent sequins, overlaid the collar and bodice. Long fitted traditional sleeves of sheer point d'esprit were appliqued with lace motifs. The full skirt had a cut-work border of scalloped lace that was etched in pearls. The skirt extended into a cathedral train that had an overlay of point d'esprit appliqued with embellished motifs. She wore a cathedral veil of English illusion attached to a wreath of silk flowers, satin bows and pearls. She wore pearl earrings, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a cascade of white cattleya orchids, phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and yellow California roses with ficus ben-jamina foliage.

The honor attendant was Sandra Ann Slusser of Greenville. Bridesmaids included Laurie Lisa Bynum, Carolyn Elizabeth Newton and Susan Lyn Jackson, all of Dunn, Amanda Leigh Watson, cousin of the bride of Raleigh, Melissa Hartley Schams, sister of the bridegroom of Columbus, Ohio, and Nancy Thornton of Littleton.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were David Louis Hartley of Milwaukee, Wis., and John Kevin Hartley of Atlanta, Ga., brothers of the bridegroom, Stephen Pascal Draughton of Dunn, brother of the bride, and Michael Joseph Galvin of Greenville, Kevin Brown of Cary and Rick Thornton of Littleton.

The couple lives in Dunn after a wedding trip to Kiawah Island and Charleston, S.C.

The bride and bridegroom are graduates of East Carolina University.

A lawn reception was held at the home of the bride after the ceremony. Guests were greeted by

MRS. HARTLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Roy V. Tew and Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Bynum. Mr. and Mrs. Delmon Williamston invited guests to register and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Butler presided at the register. Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lee Tart Jr.

Serving cake were Peggy S. Watson, Mrs. Oliver Draughton and Mrs. Roy Tew, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Glendale Tart. Punch was poured by Mrs. Robert S. Griffith III. Music was provided by the Massengale Orchestra of Greensboro.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained the wedding party and guests at a rehearsal dinner at the Chicora Country Club in Dunn. A wedding breakfast honored the bridal couple and was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lee Tart in Dunn.

North-South winners in the afternoon game were: Mrs. Ray Gunderson and Mrs. Dot McKemie, first with .589 percent; Mrs. Bertha Jones and Mrs. Fred Sorensen, second; Mrs. C.F. Galloway and Mrs. C.D. Elks, third.

East-West: Mrs. Harold Forbes and Mrs. Effie Williams, first with .562 percent; Mrs. Penny Blenk and Mrs. Loretta Harp, second; Frank Goins and George Martin, third.

Saturday afternoon club championship winners were: Mrs. Ray Gunderson and Mrs. Dot McKemie, first with .638 percent; Mrs. Elizabeth Roque and Mrs. Barbara Wright, second; Dr. and Mrs. Charles Duffy, third; Mrs. Beulah Eagles and Mrs. Robert Barnhill, fourth; Mrs. El Bass and Eugene Mauney, fifth; Mrs. George Martin and John Sullivan, sixth; Mrs. Sara Bradbury and Ken Baxter, seventh; Mrs. Dottie Hadden and Mrs. Zeb Cummings, eighth.

Pat's Pointers By Pat Trexler

Chottie's plaid stitch on plastic canvas creates a stunning tote you'll proudly carry all through the fall and winter. This stitch is so much fun, you'll want to make several for gifts, too. The handy tote, measuring approximately 9 inches by 11 inches, is made from 7-mesh canvas.

To obtain directions for making the Plaid Needlepoint Tote Bag, send your request for Leaflet No. NL-7922 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler (The Daily Reflector), P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29587.

Or you may order Kit No. N-7922 by sending a check or money order for $14 to Pat Trexler at the same address. The kit price includes shipping charges, full instructions, canvas, yarn, lining and needle. Please specify your choice of the following plaids: brown/rust, blue/green or black/scarlet.

I first saw a pillow worked in Chottie's plaid stitch, I admired it but wasn't so sure I wanted to get involved in a project with so many color changes — I thought it would be too tedious.

Imagine my surprise when I was told that one works all the way across a row with a single color, just skipping every other hole in the canvas. How in the world would a plaid evolve from such a simple process?

I immediately asked for a set of instructions and could hardly wait to try it. Sure enough, it was truly easy, but endlessly fascinating. You first work horizontal rows, following a definite color sequence. At this point, you have a striped effect. Then, when you start to work the vertical rows, filling in the holes that are skipped on the horizontal rows, the plaid begins to develop.

I must warn you, though, if you are an evening stitcher, as I am, this is a real sleep-robbing. When you start the vertical rows, you will want to keep on working "just one more row" to see the plaid develop.

Once I learned the technique, I went mad on plaid — making phone book covers, pillows, eyeglass cases, totes and more. My husband remarked, "I'm glad you can't make needlepoint underwear, because it would be plaid, too!"

The more I worked with it, the more intrigued I became. How did the creator of this stitch, Chottie Alderson of Running Springs, Calif., ever conceive of the idea? My curiosity was such that I picked up the phone and made a cross-country call to Chottie, whom I had not met.

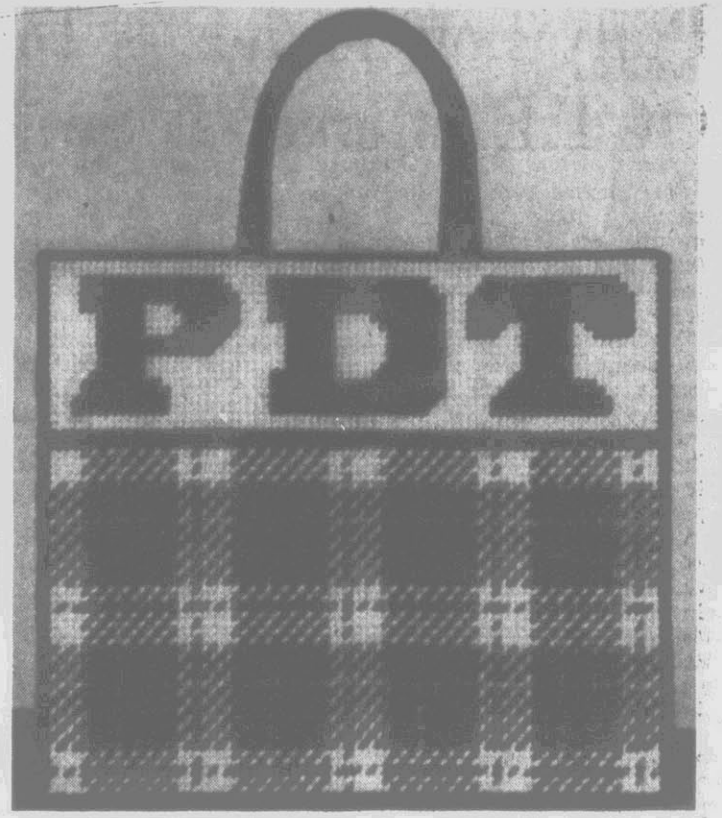

I ran up a whopping long-distance bill because Chottie and I quickly became telephone friends, talking endlessly about that stitch and others. I asked this talented designer and teacher how she worked out his amazing plaid stitch.

"By mistake!" she replied, in typical honesty. It seems that she was experimenting with yarn and canvas and had a totally different idea in mind when the plaid suddenly began to emerge.

The leaflet offered today includes four separate diagrams and much more complete explanation than I have space for here. I'll just whet your appetite, though, with a few more comments on working the stitch.

Color progression, the regular sequence of colors, is one of the keys. The plaid shown is a four-color plaid. If you work with just two colors, alternating four rows of each, you will create a perfect houndstooth check. Three colors can form a gingham effect.

I once worked a rainbow plaid, also created by Chottie, using 25 shades of Persian yarn. I made it to be used as an insert for a pocketbook with a window opening for a needlepoint piece. I have worn out several of these purses, but the needlepoint plaid insert is just as pretty as ever and I use it almost daily in the summer, because it matches almost everything.

By Erma Bombeck

Reprinted by Request:
For years I have been trying to convert my husband to "punctuality." It is my life's work.

What I'm dealing with is an 11-month baby who has never seen the first ten minutes of anything. He's never seen a curtain go up, never heard an overture, never seen a race start, never entered a bus that was standing still, and has never gotten a parking place close to the door.

Just once I'd like to get to a buffet table where there wasn't a gaping hole in the tuna mold or a salad with all the tomatoes gone.

Just once I'd like to go to a movie when the lights are on and I can see to find my seat.

Being late is habit-forming. I know there is something Freudian about it, but I don't know what. My best guess would be that wherever he's going, he doesn't want to go in the first place.

The thing about people who are always late is there is no way to reach them. I've tried deception, where you lie about the time you're supposed to be somewhere. His body rejects the adjustment.

Humiliation has been tried. Like the night we arrived at a party and we heard a voice say, "Good grief, the Bombecks have arrived. I didn't know it was so late. Roy, we've got to go."

Enticement never worked. One night I talked him into going to a football game on time. When the band struck up a tune he said, "What is that?"

"It's the Star-Spangled Banner. They play it before every sports event."

"What for?"

"Everyone sings it and it sets a tone."

"No one is singing it," he said, "and for this I came without socks." The conversion of a confirmed dawdler is the dream of a lot of people. We got lucky the other night, en route to a sports event. Made every traffic light, found a parking spot near the entrance, and encountered no crowds. Inside, we made a discovery. The event wasn't until the next night.

As my husband sat down in the bleachers he said, "This early enough for you? I don't know what you see in being here on time. It's boring."

THEFTS DOWN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Construction industry contractors lost less equipment and materials to theft and vandalism last year than at any time since records were begun.

The Associated General Contractors of America said contractors had suffered losses of $404.3 million in 1983. The industry organization said the figure represented a drop of 36 percent in equipment theft and a decline of 32 percent in theft, vandalism and sabotage of other material compared to 1982.

TOKYO (AP) — A chemical called ferrite can make bridges disappear from radar screens.

Because it absorbs significant amounts of microwaves and radar, ferrite was used in Japan to paint five bridges spanning heavily traveled seaways. The bridges don't show up on radar, and that allows cargo ships to have unobstructed views of each other on the screens.

Patty Lou Joyner Is Bride Of T.E. Mercer II Sunday

The double ring wedding ceremony of Patty Lou Joyner of Greenville and Theodore Edward Mercer II of Richlands took place Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the Red Oak Christian Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edgar Joyner Jr. of Route 8, Greenville, was given in marriage by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Edward Mercer of Richlands. The father of the bridegroom served as best man.

Matron of honor was Kay Ferrell, sister of the bride, and maid of honor was Penny Joyner, both of Greenville. Bridesmaids were Lisa Moye of Greenville and Sharon McCauley of Jacksonville. Flower girl was Elizabeth Allen of Greenville.

Honorary bridesmaids were Mary Hodges, Marci Gallinato, Dawn Gaither, Jeri Bohon, Glenn Nelson, Teena Joyner, Gloria Baker, Glenda Mercer, Robin Muzarelli, Kim Mitchell, Dianne Sutton, Susan Jones, Marjorie Nobles and Ann Marie Trotta. They each carried a single white rose.

Ushers were Bill and John Mercer, both brothers of the bridegroom, and Donnie Mohn, all of Richlands.

The bride wore a formal gown of white chantilly lace over peau de soie. The gown was fashioned with a portrait neckline, natural waist and long full sleeves. Bridal pearls and iridescents trimmed the bodice. Tiers of scalloped ruffles formed the skirt and cathedral train. Her picture hat of rosepoint lace was centered with pearls and iridescents. Imported silk illusion enhanced the crown and fell in streamers to her waist. She carried an arm bouquet of roses and daisies.

The honor attendants and bridesmaids each wore a tea length gown of aqua taffeta. The sleeveless gown featured ruffled straps and a sweet-heart neckline. The fitted bodice was enhanced at the waistline with a tie sash. Each carried an arm bouquet of aqua colored daisies and sonya roses.

The flower girl wore a formal gown of white lace. The empire waist was accented by an aqua sash. She carried a white wicker basket filled with rose petals.

A program of wedding music was presented by organist Eloise Jackson. Emerson Hobgood and Kay Humphrey sang "More," "The Lord's Prayer" and "Endless Love."

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Jasper Lewis Sr., aunt of the bridegroom. Gloria Baker and Ricky Nicholson presided at the guest register.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given in the church fellowship hall.

An after-rehearsal dinner was given at the Three Steers Restaurant by the parents of the bridegroom. A bridesmaids luncheon was given by Lila Maye, Louise Langston, Lois Jean Averette, Lisa Moye and Terri Averette. A bridal shower was given at the home of Mrs. J.T. Manning Jr. by members of the Red Oak Christian Church.

The bride graduated from East Carolina University with a B.S. degree in early childhood education. She is presently employed by the Onslow County school system. The bridegroom attended East Carolina University and is presently employed by Ralston Purina in Trenton.

The couple will reside in Richlands.

Wedding Vows Said In Jacksonville

New River Baptist Church in Jacksonville was the setting July 21 when Carol Ann Meeks and George Shepard, both of Jacksonville, were married in a double ring ceremony. The Rev. Fred High performed the ceremony at 2 p.m.

Melissa High was soloist and Lora High was pianist and also sang a song.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Durward Meeks and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Shepard, all of Jacksonville.

The bridegroom's father was best man and ushers included Bobby Shepard, brother of the bridegroom of Jacksonville, Victor Webster of Wilmington and Danny Wood of Sneads Ferry.

The maid of honor was Cathy Meeks, sister of the bride of Jacksonville. Bridesmaids were Gayle Stroud of Maysville and Cindy Shepard, sister of the bridegroom of Jacksonville.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She wore a gown of white chiffon over taffeta styled with a Victorian neckline accented with schiffli lace and seed pearls. The Diane effect sleeves ended in a band of re-embroidered lace. The flowing skirt was edged in chantilly lace which extended to a chapel length train. She wore a bridal hat accented with chantilly lace and seed pearls enhanced with a ring of silk flowers. The turned up back had a bow of bridal illusion. She carried a cascade of lavender and white silk roses with baby's breath. The bouquet was trimmed in white silk ribbons.

Lynn Chase and Lora High were directors of the wedding.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church after the ceremony and the director was Mary Ann Sheriff. Jeanette James, aunt of the bride, cut the cake and Melba Jones, aunt of the bride, poured punch. Jean Knox and Grace Smith, aunts of the bride, assisted. Cindy Pittman presided at the guest register. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith, uncle and aunt of the bride, said goodbyes and distributed white and lavender satin rice roses.

A pig picking was given by the parents of the bride couple for the rehearsal dinner.

After a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina the couple will live in Jacksonville.

The bride graduated from White Oak High School and East Carolina University. She is currently employed at Peebles Department Store. The bridegroom graduated from White Oak High School and is employed at Carolina Meat Processors, Inc. of Holly Ridge.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kinsey Smith of Greenville and the late Mr. and Mrs. Lester M. Meeks.

Cooking Is Fun

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Want to take part in a new trend we've watched our neighbors establish this summer? Serve a fast-food main course and end with an old-fashioned dessert.

For example, while Dad and the kids assemble a salad and grill franks or burgers on an outdoor grill, Mom whips up an old-time Peach Cobbler from scratch. If the ingredients needed for the Cobbler are on hand and ready for use, the going is easy.

PEACH COBBLER

1 cup unbleached all-purpose flour

3/4 cup sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter
1 large egg
1/2 cup milk
2 1/2 pounds peaches
4 teaspoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
Topping: vanilla ice cream

In a medium bowl stir together the flour, 2 tablespoons of the sugar, the baking powder and salt. With a pastry blender cut in the butter until it is in fine particles. Beat together the egg and milk until blended; add to flour mixture; stir only until dry ingredients are moistened and a dough forms.

Peel, pit and slice peaches — there should be 5 cups. In a medium saucepan stir together the remaining sugar, the cornstarch and cinnamon; add the peaches. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until peaches are tender and syrup is clear, thickened and boiling — 5 to 7 minutes. Pour into a shallow 2-quart baking dish. Drop dough by heaping tablespoonfuls, in 6 portions, over the hot peach mixture. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until topping is golden — 20 minutes. Serve warm with vanilla ice cream. Makes 6 large servings — the biscuit topping is home-style rather than rich.

Bridal Policy

A black and white glossy five by seven photograph is requested for engagement announcements in The Daily Reflector. For publication in a Sunday edition, the information must be submitted by 12 noon on the preceding Wednesday. Engagement pictures must be released at least three weeks prior to the wedding date. After three weeks, only an announcement will be printed.

Wedding write-ups will be printed through the first week with a one column picture. During the second week, a one column picture will be used with a write-up giving less description and after the second week, just as an announcement.

Wedding forms and pictures should be returned to The Daily Reflector one week prior to the date of the wedding. All information should be typed or written neatly.

Salvation Army Helps Locate Lost Brother

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing to thank you for your column in the Ventura (Calif.) Free Press about six months ago. You had recommended writing to the Salvation Army to locate a long lost relative who had dropped out of sight for many years. That gave me an idea, so I contacted the Salvation Army and asked if it could find my brother whom I had not seen or heard from since I left England 30 years ago.

Two nights ago I received a call from the Salvation Army telling me that my brother had been located in Australia! (I am still shaking even as I write this.)

Abby, I have no words to tell you how I feel. I telephoned my brother, who was as thrilled as I was. I am now making plans to visit him and his family in Australia.

God bless you, Abby, for what you did for me.

OLGA KNIGHT,
VENTURA, CALIF.

DEAR OLGA: Glad I could help. That's what I'm here for. To others who are interested in locating long lost relatives, the Salvation Army operates a Missing Persons Locator Service in 86 countries. It is available to the public. Some basic guidelines:

1. The inquirer should be searching for a near relative.
2. The inquirer must be able to provide essential information about the missing person.
3. The Salvation Army reserves the right to accept or reject any request for services based upon considerations of reasonableness, feasibility or motive.
4. The inquirer is asked to pay a $5 non-refundable fee.
5. The inquirer may secure information and/or a missing persons inquiry form by contacting the nearest Salvation Army office in his area or by contacting the nearest Territorial Headquarters: 860 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. 60610; 120 W. 14th St., New York, N.Y. 10011; 1424 Northeast Expressway, Atlanta, Ga. 30329; 30840 Hawthorne Blvd., Rancho Palos Verdes, Calif. 90274.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a policeman who works on cars in his spare time. He works the afternoon shift (3 p.m. to 11 p.m.). We never get to bed before midnight, but he's always up at 7 and working in the garage by 8 a.m.

I am furious. A man just called at 9:30 a.m. and said, "Is Ron still asleep?" I am burned up to have someone imply that Ron is lazy because Ron is one of the most industrious people I know. He never wastes a minute.

So what do I say to these people who assume my husband is still in bed in the middle of the morning?

RON'S SHIRLEY

DEAR SHIRLEY: Say, "No, Ron is not asleep. Ron is always up at 7 a.m."

Shirley, I appreciate your loyalty, but I think you're over-reacting. If it's not broke, don't fix it.

DEAR ABBY: I found a badly damaged, unlocked suitcase on the highway near Pine Bluff, Ark. Heaven knows where the owner is by now.

I have no way of returning it, since there was no identification either on the outside of the suitcase or inside among the contents.

The suitcase obviously belonged to an elderly man of modest means and will be sorely missed.

Abby, please remind your readers once more to enclose some identification inside their luggage in case it gets lost.

MRS. C. McG.

DEAR MRS. McG.: Thanks for a valuable reminder.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CAN FORGIVE BUT CANNOT FORGET IN MANHATTAN": What you are saying is that you cannot truly forgive. Heed the words of George Herbert, 17th-century English poet and philosopher: "He who cannot forgive others destroys the bridge over which he himself must pass."

Day Of Reckoning

Opening of the 1984 tobacco selling season is more than just a day of selling tobacco. It is also an event which is bringing out a flock of agricultural officials and office holders.

Not only is Secretary of Agriculture John Block going to be in Greenville, but the ASCS will be represented by U.S. Director George Dunlop and state Director John Cooper.

A U.S. senator will be on hand; and a number of candidates for office will take advantage of the opportunity for exposure.

Opening of the belt's tobacco markets has always been an occasion in lives of eastern North Carolina growers, but this year the significance and interest in the tobacco crop has approached a record high.

For Georgia growers, their opening day was dampened by a "wait-and-see" attitude by the buyers. The low cost of imported tobacco, high price supports, the large amount of leaf held by the Tobacco Stabilization Corp. all combined to cast a shadow.

Eastern North Carolina market observers are going to be closely watching Wednesday's sales and what they see could shape the future of the tobacco industry.

Of course, opening day cannot and will not tell the whole story; but those observers can read the signs that point to what the future holds. When they see them, it's "back to the drawing board".

Nature's Might

No one has to tell Pitt County residents about the awesomeness of storms. Some have braved the hurricanes of 25 years ago and more recently many faced the terror of a nighttime tornado.

Other storms which often are little noted, however, are capable of packing great power. Last week a violent thunderstorm raced across the county and one of the victims was a 150 year old oak tree, which had withstood hurricanes and even the recent tornado. The massive tree was sent crashing to the ground in the yard of the Bright home near Winterville. The tree, perhaps five feet across at its base, had seen generations of humans come and go.

As solid as we perceive an oak tree to be even this giant of the forest has a determinable life span. Sooner, or later the mightiest of oaks can be brought to the ground by the forces of nature.

Tax Pledge Produces A Crisis

WASHINGTON — Walter F. Mondale's audacious tax gamble for now has called Ronald Reagan's bluff, but also has triggered intense Republican debate — spurred by the Democratic surge in national polls — over whether to flatly pledge no higher taxes.

As hoped for by Mondale, his promise of higher taxes and challenge that President Reagan do the same was met at the White House by outward equivocation — and inward disarray. "Everybody is running around in a total panic over there (at the White House)," a senior campaign operative told us.

But prevailing sentiment last week at a drafting session by the Platform Committee's executive committee advocated challenging Mondale with a flat promise of no tax increases, thereby setting the campaign's dominant issue. Veteran operatives in the Reagan campaign believe time is short — not much more than two weeks — to escape a tax trap.

The Republican mood changed from complacency to crisis in entering a world the White House never imagined. Instead of disorderly chaos in San Francisco, a dull ticket and a huge lead, the GOP faces post-convention Democratic unity, Geraldine Ferraro and a 2-percent-point deficit as measured by the Gallop Poll. Reagan's managers, expecting their lead would not drop to 7 or 8 points until mid-September, planned leisurely disclosure of campaign proposals after Labor Day.

That pace was jolted by Mondale charging out of San Francisco with his unexpected tax challenge. While practical politicians at the Democratic Convention shuddered, Mondale's strategists calculated the caution of James A. Baker III, Reagan's chief of staff.

Rather than defy the conventional wisdom of Wall Street and Capitol Hill by pledging no tax increases, the White House formulated this response, voiced by spokesman Larry Speakes and recommended for the president's Tuesday night press conference: Reagan wants spending cuts, not tax increases, and certainly has no secret tax plans; but he cannot guarantee the future, and his plans won't be revealed until after the election.

From that, Democrats could claim Reagan was harboring a tax hike surprise. The accusation seemed validated on NBC's "Meet the Press" when the Republican chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Sen. Bob Dole, virtually PINEHURST — What good is a law if it carried no penalties for those who break it?

Not much good, say North Carolina editors who are getting fed up with the state's toothless Open Meetings Law.

The law was revamped and improved in many ways by the 1977 General Assembly. But the assembly didn't want to get too tough on fellow politicians who might find some need to conduct public business in private. So first they wrote in all kinds of exemptions to the law — meetings which need not be open — and they then made sure that anyone who broke even this weak law didn't suffer any consequences.

"There is a clear, almost universal, consensus that everything from school boards, to boards of county commissioners, to city councils are thumbing their noses at this law when it suits them to do so," says Hugh Stevens, general counsel to the N.C. Press Association. "Some are most arrogant about it, too."

When the NCPA held its summer meeting in Pinehurst in July, many editors said it's time to fix the law. The question is likely to be the top priority on NCPA's legislative agenda when the 1985 General Assembly convenes next February.

"There's certainly a lot of sentiment among our members that something has to be done to put some teeth into this law," Stevens said.

There are several ways "teeth" could be added to the law. The most obvious is to add criminal penalties for violators. If a public official took part in a meeting that violated the Open Meetings Act, he could be fined. Repeated infractions would bring increasingly higher fines and possibly a jail sentence.

A second possible course, Stevens suggested, wouldn't put people in jail. It would get them out of office if they repeatedly conducted secret meetings. "If you can't obey the law, you're not fit to serve in public office," he argues.

Finally, there's the approach that Stevens thinks would be most effective. If action is taken in an illegal meeting, then that action would be null and void. "If public officials know that what they did in the dark was subject to being rendered null and void, they would have more incentive to abide by the law," he says.

In a speech to NCPA, Bill Lassiter, outgoing general counsel, urged the group to make criminal penalties for open meetings violations their top priority in 1985 and to put forth the idea in a bill all of its own. In 1977, a criminal penalties provision was compromised out of the bill that eventually passed.

NCPA's directors probably won't decide how hard they'll push on this issue until October but already they're getting a bit of help from the Republican candidate for governor, Rep. Jim Martin, who has made a stronger act one of his leading campaign issues. Martin was quick to tell the editors that his opponent, Attorney General Rufus Edmisten, opposes criminal penalties. Edmisten also opposes the option of invalidating any actions taken in an illegal meeting but says he could support efforts to remove from office anyone who knowingly broke the law by having a secret meeting.

In the race for lieutenant governor, Republican John Carrington says he agrees with Martin and that the law needs to be toughened. Democrat Bob Jordan is uncertain. He says he'd prefer to see a concerted effort made to enforce the current law but admits that it's hard to do that when the law has no teeth. He bails out on the issue by saying he'd be willing to study the possibility of criminal penalties.

Democrats' World Class Team

SAN FRANCISCO — A week after the Democrats went home, memories linger of their 1984 convention. It was a good and constructive convention from the party's point of view, but for the most part it was a terrible insult to the intelligence of the American people.

Those of us who cover these quadrennial exercises in fatuity are accustomed to hogwash. This was my 16th convention. I cannot remember a convention in which the level of demagoguery was higher, but the mind blurs and recollections run together. Maybe some other convention surpassed the blather inflicted upon the nation by Mario Cuomo, Edward Kennedy, George McGovern and Walter Mondale, but I doubt it. Those gentlemen constitute a world-class team of four.

By way of example, let me cite the matter of nuclear arms control. One of the iterated and reiterated themes of the Democratic convention was that the Reagan administration has done nothing in this direction. Cuomo, for one, denounced the president's "macho intransigence that refuses to make intelligent attempts to discuss the possibility of nuclear holocaust with our enemy." McGovern inquired why in God's name Reagan was demanding more and more engines of death. Kennedy said in a slippery phrase that every president since Hoover has "negotiated" with Soviet leaders, but not Ronald Reagan. Mondale, for his part, charged that "every other president has talked with the Soviets and negotiated arms control, but not this one."

This sort of oratory has been known since the days of Cicero as the phonus bolonus. To untutored listeners, their minds numbed by four days of incessant noise, it was bound to appear that the Reagan administration has been wholly indifferent to the transcendent issue of nuclear arms. That carefully cultivated impression is nonsense.

Reagan took office on Jan. 20, 1981. On Feb. 18, in a message to Congress, he specifically renewed his commitment "to the goal of arms limitation through negotiation." On Feb. 24, at a press conference, he spoke of his willingness to seek "verifiable reductions" in nuclear weapons. On March 3, in an interview with Walter Cronkite, he plowed the same ground. In April, as he was recovering from the assassination attempt, he wrote Leonid Brezhnev suggesting that they seek means for eliminating the obstacles that prevent Russians and Americans from rearing their families in peace. In November, he wrote Brezhnev again, and thus initiated START — the Strategic Arms Reduction Talks.

In the summer of 1981, our negotiators met Soviet negotiators in Geneva to talk of intermediate nuclear forces. In June of 1982, START negotiations began. In the spring of 1983, after three rounds of unproductive talks, Reagan instructed our negotiators to make three significant modifications in our proposals; the Soviets then made two modifications in their proposals. Things seemed to be moving. But in November 1983, after we began to emplace Pershing missiles in Europe, the Soviets abruptly walked out of their sessions on intermediate weapons. The following month the Soviets refused to resume talks on strategic arms. There the matter rests.

Presidents do not engage directly and personally in "negotiations." The drafting of complex provisions of an arms agreement necessarily must be left to such professionals as Edward L. Rowny and Paul Nitze. It is only when accord has been reached at the level of the bargaining table that one begins to speak of summits.

A dozen of the Democratic orators demanded that Reagan immediately achieve a "verifiable freeze" on nuclear arms. If the voters will give them a chance, said the Democrats, that is exactly what Mondale will produce. But months of tedious negotiation would be needed to decide on what arms would be "frozen" and how this would be "verified," and a question arises: Wouldn't it be better, as Reagan repeatedly has urged, to expend the same time and energy in pursuit not of a freeze, but of a reduction?

Curiously, none of the Democratic spokesmen recalled that the Democratic administration of Jimmy Carter was not able to get its SALT treaty through a Democratically controlled Senate. None of these gentlemen mentioned that Reagan's request for 100 MX missiles is half what Carter proposed. Nothing was said of a Soviet nuclear buildup that has been adding one SS-20 a week to the Soviet arsenal. No, what we heard in the convention hall was bombast, fustian and demagoguery. If orators could be prosecuted under the Truth in Packaging Act, all four of these birds would be in jail.

Strength For Today

A certain Ralph Barton, who lived many years ago, was acknowledged to be the most brilliant caricaturist of his day. In his private life he was a cynical, pleasure-seeking debauchee and at the height of his fame committed suicide.

He left a note, part of which read as follows: "I have had an especially glamorous life, as life goes. I have had my share of affection and appreciation. I have run from wife to wife, from house to house, and from country to country, in a ridiculous effort to escape from myself. I am committing suicide because I am fed up with inventing devices for getting through 24 hours a day."

God has appointed a destiny for each man and woman on this earth, and there can be no happiness for any person unless he or she sees that destiny and follows it. "Thou hast fashioned us for thyself, O God, and our souls are restless till they find their rest in thee."

Pravda Says Soviets Testing Long-Range Cruise Missiles

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union is testing long-range cruise missiles to counter new rockets being installed by NATO in Western Europe, the Communist Party newspaper Pravda said in an editorial today.

Pravda said Moscow will never allow the United States to gain the upper hand militarily and U.S. officials are "naive to assume that their massive deployment will remain unanswered."

"Washington's cruise-missile enthusiasts ought to wake up to the fact that given the present correlation of military forces, which is characterized by a rough equilibrium between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S., the striving to infringe upon the other side's security inevitably leads to damage to one's own security," Pravda said.

"Since the U.S. has refused to renounce the new type of weapons, long-range cruise missiles are already being tested in the U.S.S.R. as well," said the editorial, which was also carried by the official Soviet news agency Tass.

A Western diplomat in Moscow said the Kremlin warning delivered by the newspaper "confirms something that Western experts have been considering for a long time," that the Soviets are developing long-range cruise missiles.

He said the weapon reportedly being tested "would be a better version than what they have now," but added, "I wouldn't say this is a new threat."

The diplomat, who spoke on condition that he not be identified, said the United States already has air-, sea- and ground-based strategic cruise missiles deployed. The Soviet Union has bombers equipped with the long-range missiles, but Western analysts aren't sure the Soviet cruise missiles carried by submarines and stationed on the ground would be considered long-range, he said.

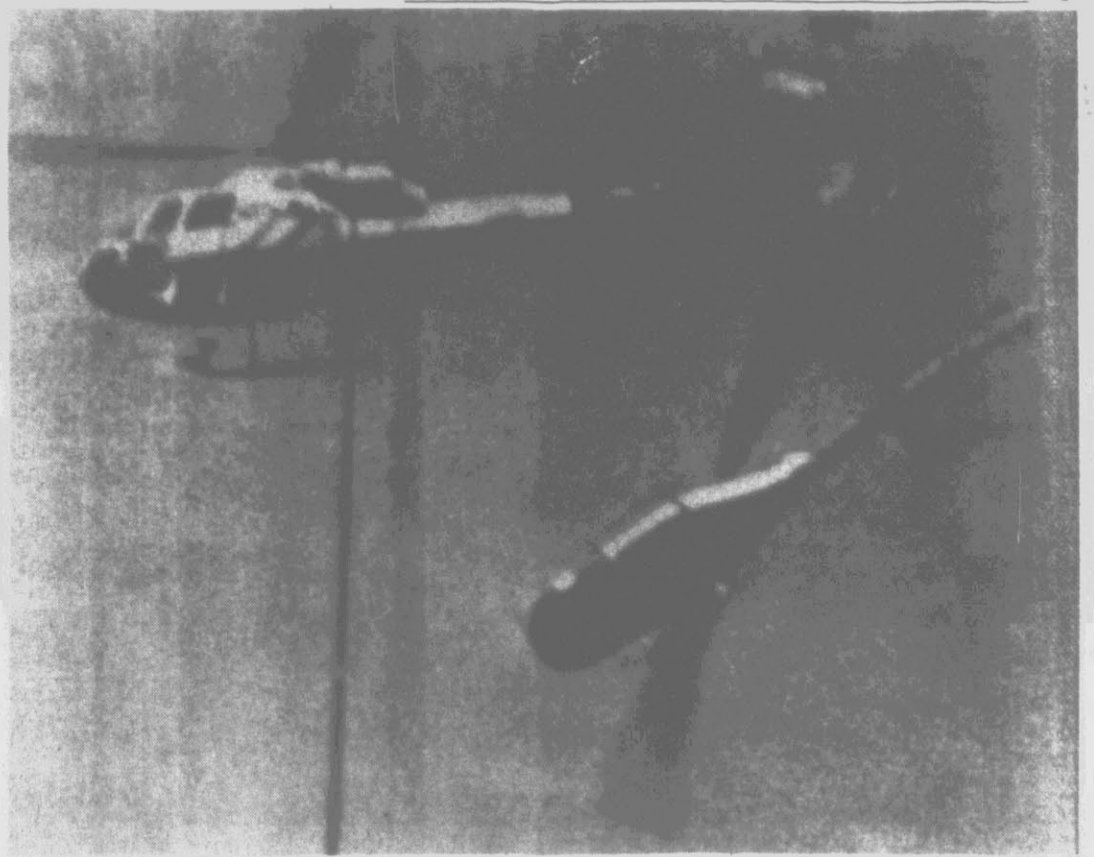

Pravda said Washington's deployment of long-range cruise missiles "is tell-tale evidence of the U.S. administration's definitely negative attitude to any limitation and reduction of nuclear weapons, which they are now trying to camouflage with ostentatious declarations of a readiness for talks and histrionic assurances of a wish to 'ban nuclear weapons from the face of the Earth.'"

"Cruise missiles are something that cuts both ways: it is naive to assume that their massive deployment will remain unanswered," the newspaper warned.

Pravda said the United States is "grossly mistaken about the main thing: its plans to gain the upper hand of the Soviet Union, including in the field of long-range cruise missiles, are not only dangerous, but also are illusory."

The United States, together with its allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, began deployment of 572 new cruise and Pershing 2 missiles in Western Europe in November. Soviet negotiators walked out of medium-range and strategic arms limitation talks in Geneva to protest the deployments, and they refuse to restart the negotiations until NATO removes the new rockets.

Train Hits Cow, Kills 13 People

POLMONT, Scotland (AP) — Transport Ministry officials opened an inquiry today into a rail accident in which 13 passengers died and 44 were injured after a crowded Edinburgh-to-Glasgow commuter train hit a straying cow.

Another 13 passengers on a train coming the other way on a parallel track were hurt moments later when they were thrown out of their seats as the engineer slammed on his brakes to avoid the wreckage of the first train.

The accident happened Monday evening cut near this central Scottish village 20 miles northwest of the city of Glasgow. It was the worst mainline railroad accident in Britain in 17 years.

As British Rail, the agency that runs the nation's state-owned network, brought in cranes today to begin clearing wreckage from the track, police released the names of five of the dead and promised more later after next of kin were informed. All five were British.

Police who coordinated rescue work initially issued an overall figure of 44 for those injured aboard the two trains, but subsequently amended this to 44 on the first train and 13 on the second, making a total of 57 injured.

Tom White, assistant administrator at the Falkirk and District Royal Infirmary, said some of the injured had serious head wounds but most had broken limbs and severe bruises.

Rail services on the busy route between Glasgow, Scotland's biggest city, and the Scottish capital, Edinburgh, were being detoured. The two cities are 35 miles apart in a straight line but the rail link between them follows a curved route.

Vivian Chadwick, British Rail's regional operations manager, said the ill-fated train, the 5.30 p.m. from Edinburgh to Glasgow, was one of Scotland's busiest commuter trains.

The train, with six passenger cars, makes only three stops between the two cities and had begun slowing down for the stop at Falkirk three miles west of Polmont. Shortly before, it had been traveling at up to 80 miles an hour.

Chadwick said the engineer began braking hard in an apparent bid to avoid hitting a cow straying on the track. The mangled remains of the cow were found afterwards beside the line.

Survivors said that as the engineer slammed on the brakes, cars began swaying violently from side to side and then swung off the track.

Rescuers found one car facing the wrong way and another one telescoped into the locomotive. Chadwick said nearly all the dead and injured were in the first two cars.

Survivors described windows smashing and luggage flying through the air as the cars left the track. People were trapped in the wreckage afterward.

One of the survivors, Martin Hadlington, said: "The train braked quite hard two or three times and then it rolled from side to side, and all I remember then was a great big crash."

Ms. Chadwick said the accident could have been even worse if the second train had been unable to stop in time. "They normally pass at about this point. But the (train) from Glasgow to Edinburgh was perhaps a minute, a minute and half late. It saw the wreckage and stopped."

The accident was the worst mainline rail accident in Britain since 1967, when a passenger train left the tracks in the southeast London district of Hither Green, killing 49 people and injuring 78. Last year, three track workers were killed near Polmont when a train hit them.

Salvadoran Rebels Kill 66 In Farm Raid

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftist rebels attacked civil guards at a cluster of farms, reportedly killing 66 people in one of their bloodiest offensives in western El Salvador since the civil war began in 1979.

Civilian sources said the death toll from Monday's attacks included 63 civil defense guards at the farms. The civil guards are farmers armed and trained by the regular army to defend their cooperatives from rebel incursions.

A military spokesman put the death toll at 40, including an unarmed mother and daughter riding with other peasants in a truck ambushed by guerrillas during coordinated attacks in La Libertad province. He said four peasants in the truck were wounded.

Other casualties, mostly civil guards, occurred when rebels attacked guardposts at El Jocote, Las Flores and Ranchos Quemados, three land reform cooperatives 22 miles northwest of San Salvador, said military sources in San Juan Opico, near the fighting.

Rafting Deputies Raid Tubers

HUDSON, Wis. (AP) — Fifteen deputy sheriffs took to the Apple River aboard inner tubes and arrested 41 people in a crackdown on drunken misbehavior and marijuana smoking among tubers, authorities said.

The river, within an hour's drive of St. Paul, Minn., attracts an estimated 20,000 people during summer weekends to ride inflated inner tubes downstream from Somerset.

The St. Croix County sheriff's office said Monday that the waterborne investigation led to nine arrests Wednesday for possession of marijuana and 32 more on Saturday.

Baby's Cry Brings Tears Of Joy Over 'Miracle Of Life'

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. (AP) — When a baby girl that doctors said would be stillborn cried with life in the delivery room it set off tears of joy among nurses and doctors, said the jubilant father of 4-day-old "Ami" — A Miracle Infant.

Tammy and Bill Zilembo entered the delivery room at Framingham Union Hospital on Friday after having already discussed the infant's autopsy and making plans for a funeral. Doctors said that tests had shown no sign of life in the child that was 27 days overdue.

"We went in there knowing there was nothing there," Zilembo, 30, said Monday.

"We prepared for the worst. We made arrangements for the burial of the child. We wanted to hold the baby, have pictures of it."

Instead of mourning a stillborn child, the Zilembos now are parents of Ami Frances.

Mrs. Zilembo, 24, had suffered a miscarriage in August and doctors were pessimistic about her second pregnancy. An attempt to locate a heartbeat of the infant in her womb failed Friday morning, three days after an attempt to induce labor was also unsuccessful.

The doctors decided to operate.

"We went into the operating room about 11:45 a.m. Friday," said Zilembo, a parking enforcement officer. "Dr. Gerald Cohen opened my wife up, took out the baby by the head, and all of sudden, the baby started to regurgitate, cry and scream."

"We have life here!" said Dr. Sidney Ginsberg, another attending physician, according to Zilembo.

"Everybody in the operating room started crying, the nurses, the doctors," said the new father in an interview.

"The doctors embraced each other. For three or four minutes, we just wallowed in the jubilation. As far as we are concerned, she is a miracle baby."

"I was the first one to take the baby. The nurses had to pry her away from me. My wife was awake during the whole thing. She had wanted to hold the baby in spite of it dying."

Ami Frances has been thriving. Zilembo said doctors told him that on a health scale of 10, she was nine.

"We're not sure what happened," said Zilembo. "I don't think anyone will ever know. We wanted to believe it was a malfunction of the test machinery, but there were so many machines and so many people testing. It was something in God's hands."

Cohen said he had given Mrs. Zilembo a "stress test" July 24 and tried to start labor with a stimulant designed to induce contractions, a procedure he discontinued after six hours because there were no signs of the membranes being ready to rupture.

He said Friday morning he ordered a "non-stress" test during which the mother is stretched out on a table, and a nurse uses a monitor to determine the infant heartbeat.

"The nurse reported she couldn't find the heartbeat or hear the placenta," he said. He then ordered the delivery.

"I think it was a mechanical error," Cohen said. "The machine just didn't pick up the heartbeat. Tammy is a large woman, 250 pounds. Maybe she was placed in such a way that the heartbeat could not be heard."

The couple was married three years ago. Zilembo also has two daughters by a previous marriage.

Stranded Tanker Spills Oil

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — Pollution fighters gathered to begin a cleanup as crude oil from a grounded tanker spread into the Gulf of Mexico today, and a state official said they would try to contain the spill before it reached two nearby wildlife preserves.

The 690-foot British tanker Alvenus, with a cargo of 14.7 million gallons of oil, was en route from Venezuela to Lake Charles when it ran aground along a dredged ship channel Monday and became stuck in about 30 feet of water, the Coast Guard said.

The impact opened a 115-foot-long seam up one side of the ship, across its deck and down the other side from which oil was seeping, said Lt. Kathleen Donohoe, a Coast Guard spokeswoman. The crack did not appear to go below the waterline, she said.

Coast Guard spokesman Mark Kennedy said there was potential for environmental disaster and officials were "treating it as if it is a spill of the highest magnitude."

But Alan Ensminger, chief of the refuge division of the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries, said, "If we have to have a spill, it couldn't happen in a better place."

The ship was about 10 miles offshore from Calcasieu Pass, and about 40 miles south of Lake Charles, where it was heading when the accident occurred. The Calcasieu Pass connects the Gulf of Mexico with Lake Charles, a major petroleum refining port.

BABY LIVES — Tammy Zilembo, 24, holds her 3-day-old baby daughter, Ami, at a hospital in Framingham, Mass., on Monday. The child had been expected to be stillborn after its heartbeat was lost, but was delivered surgically Friday and was found to be alive. (AP Laserphoto)

Family Earnings Outrun Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — In families with two or more breadwinners, weekly earnings averaged $652 in the second quarter of this year, up $29 from the comparable period in 1983, according to government figures.

In a survey of the earnings of individual workers and families, the Bureau of Labor Statistics found that worker earnings rose sufficiently between July 1, 1983, and June 30, 1984, to keep the wage-earners well ahead of the pace of inflation.

Between the end of the second quarter last year through this June 30, according to the report released Monday, average earnings of families rose 7.1 percent while average earnings of individuals increased 5.4 percent.

In both cases, these gains outstripped the pace of increase in consumer prices, which rose at an annual rate of 4.3 percent during the 12-month period.

The report also documented continuing disparities between the money earned by whites, compared with blacks and Hispanics and between men and women.

The discrepancy was most pronounced between the sexes.

The report said, for instance, that "usual weekly earnings" reported by men from the second quarter of 1983 through the second quarter of this year averaged $399, compared to $258 for women. Average weekly earnings among families with at least one member unemployed totaled $338.

Among married-couple families, weekly earnings averaged $206 in instances where the husband was laid off or unemployed and where the wife was the lone wage-earner. When the husband was the only worker, and the wife was officially categorized as unemployed, weekly earnings averaged $346.

The average weekly earnings of married-couple families, at $545, continued to be roughly twice as high as those of families headed by women, at $279.

Navy Halting Plane Delivery

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy says it will not accept delivery of any more new F-18 fighter planes until their maker, McDonnell Douglas Corp., fixes a design flaw that has caused cracks in a key tail fitting.

The move followed the imposition last week of flight restrictions on the aircraft, the Navy's newest and most versatile fighter.

Navy Secretary John Lehman also has told the giant St. Louis-based defense contractor that the company will be expected to bear the cost of making repairs, estimated at thousands of dollars per plane. The Navy plans to buy 1,366 F-18s at a projected price of just under $40 billion, making the F-18 program — including a bomber variant called the A-18 — the country's most expensive.

Presidential Politics Cutting Into Governors' Unity Move

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — As the nation's governors grapple with ways to cut the federal deficit, Democratic Gov. Mario Cuomo of New York is charging President Reagan with ducking "the truth" of a tax hike next year.

Democratic and Republican governors talked of bipartisan solutions to the estimated $170 billion annual flood of federal red ink at the National Governors' Association meeting, but presidential politics made agreement difficult for the final session today.

A draft resolution calling on Reagan to announce his deficit-cutting plan before the election circulated among the Democratic state executives.

"The resolution concentrates on asking both presidential candidates to be clear and specific on their plans and to make them known in time for the American people to make a judgment," said Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton.

One draft of the resolution — which might go only to the Democratic governors and not the full group — complimented Democratic presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale on his announced policies and said Reagan is "unwilling or unable to put America's financial house in order."

Republican governors talked of a deficit resolution, but reached no consensus Monday.

Reagan was to speak to the governors briefly at lunchtime, talking by telephone hookup from his ranch in California. Mondale will not be attending the meeting, although there was a brief flurry of activity late Monday as the governors tried to entice him here one more time.

The governors were scheduled to adopt a number of policy statements today, including one supporting comparable worth and a comprehensive jobs plank.

But it was taxes and the federal deficit that held the governors' attention.

Republican Gov. Richard Snelling of Vermont pushed his "Proposition 1" group, a bipartisan effort to get a balanced budget by 1989.

"Both parties have contributed to the deficit," he said. "I'm disappointed in both candidates so far."

Cuomo, here only briefly on Monday, attacked Reagan and the Republicans.

He said Mondale is right in saying a tax increase will come next year, whoever is in the White House.

"I think there's no question that all the responsible Republicans agree that there needs to be a tax increase," said Cuomo.

Study Says States Improving Schools

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Nearly every state has taken "a tremendous stride forward" in the effort to improve public education, according to a study prepared for the nation's governors. But an architect of the report says "we have miles to go."

The study, "Action in the States," issued just a year after a flood of reports warned of problems in American classrooms, said 46 states are working on comprehensive plans to improve public schools. Twenty-seven initiated such plans in the last year alone.

"More than 250 state task forces have sprung up to study every aspect of education and to recommend changes," the report said. Gov. Pierre du Pont IV of Delaware, who headed the Task Force on Education and Economic Growth, said its study found "an amazing and wonderful group of actions in all 50 states...All the states have stepped forward to address the problem."

"You can see what a tremendous stride forward has been made," said Gov. James Hunt of North Carolina, who set up the original task force.

But a lot remains to be done.

"The first steps have been taken,"

said du Pont. "Now comes the hard part."

Holding his thumb and forefinger about an inch apart, du Pont said: "This is about that much progress and we have miles to go."

This task force is made up of governors, legislators, educators and business leaders. The report was released Monday at the summer meeting of the National Governors' Association here.

Satellite Dish Changes Viewing Habits In Rural Areas

By ELLIOTT MINOR
Associated Press Writer
ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Satellite dishes are sprouting up throughout rural Georgia in a high-tech invasion that is bringing news, sports and entertainment from around the globe to isolated farm families.

Nationwide sales of the satellite systems, which cost an average of $3,000 each, jumped from 20,000 in 1981 to 60,000 in 1982 and about 180,000 in 1983, according to Peter Dalton, president of the Society for Private and Commercial Earth Stations, an industry group.

Dalton estimated 560,000 systems would be installed this year, with sales of at least $1.4 billion.

"For people who are out in the boonies, where cable will never be, they don't have any alternative," said Ken Rodd Jr., whose family owns an electronics firm here that installs the systems.

Industry estimates show there are about 37 million homes in the United States that are not hooked up to cable systems, many in the rural South. However, with a dish and related components, these households can receive signals from more than 30 communications satellites located 22,300 miles above the Earth.

The major television networks and cable TV companies, such as Home Box Office, Cinemax and Showtime, beam their signals up to the satellites for distribution to affiliates in far-flung areas.

By tuning in the satellite signals, dish owners gain access to 60 to 100 channels with a wide choice of programming, ranging from movies and sporting events to news and educational shows.

Some cable companies objected to the use of dishes because viewers could receive their signals free of charge, but "right now, anything in the air is fair game," according to Rodd.

This policy was adopted officially in 1983, when the Federal Communications Commission ruled that local and state governments cannot regulate television programming distributed by satellites to private dwellings.

Rodd said the systems are popular with people in remote areas who are not likely to be linked to cable systems.

"We have a lot of people who are interested in sports and there's no way they're going to get it without a dish," Rodd said. "They have unlimited things to watch ..." with the satellite dish.

Bobby Smith, 52, who lives in a rural area 9 miles east of Albany, purchased a dish about five months ago and said it has greatly expanded his family's television viewing options.

"It opened up a whole new field for us as far as TV was concerned," said Smith, who went on long-term disability about 2½ years ago because of heart problems.

Smith said initially he had to stay inside much of the time because of his heart condition, and couldn't find programs he liked on the three major networks.

"It didn't leave you a big variety. I get a big kick out of watching old movies and I love sports," Smith said. "Now I switch from one channel to another to one satellite to another to get what I want."

Smith said he and his wife, Barbara, enjoy the convenience their dish affords.

"After working all day, we didn't feel like getting dressed and going to the movies," he explained.

With a dish, he said, "you don't have to worry about standing in lines. You can kick your shoes off and get a glass of tea and relax."

Some Say TV's Olympics Coverage Is Too Extensive

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — More of the revisionist viewer's guide to the Summer Olympics:

You're seeing too much coverage. Multi-hour cycling races are a bit much. ABC's total of 180 hours has been programmed by the accountants, to offset the $225 million rights fee, not by ABC Sports.

Roone Arledge, president of ABC News and Sports, wouldn't be pinned down on the right amount of coverage, but he said "probably half the hours would have been appropriate for Sarajevo (in 1984)," while "we probably should have covered more (for the 1980 Winter Games in Lake Placid)."

positions. They had already paid for the facilities.

Five boycotting Soviet-bloc nations are televising the Games back home: East Germany, Hungary, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Poland. "Some of the East Germans will be watching the West German coverage," said Barnathan. "They prefer it."

Soviet TV can pick up coverage, either by tapping into these bloc broadcasts or through its membership in the European Broadcast Union, a kind of Common Market for European broadcasters.

You're not seeing commercials for any official Olympic junk food. But that's what comes to mind during those Snickers commercials, which call the candy bar the official "snack food" of the Summer Games.

You're not seeing — hopefully — terrorist activities. ABC's own broadcast center and the International Broadcast Center would seem likely targets for attacks. ABC's executives were asked if they feared terrorists attempting to take over the TV facilities.

You're not seeing as much Olympic TV as the Australians, who are getting about 250 hours, the most of any nation. "You can't even go to the john," said Julie Barnathan, president of ABC Broadcast Operations and Engineering.

You're seeing an Olympics that will be profitable to ABC. The network has an insurance policy that is recoverable only on a loss. But ABC won't be making the kind of money that the Soviets think.

"The Russians know so little about us," said Arledge. He said one comrade from the Soviet Union multiplied $100,000 for advertising revenue for every minute ABC is on the air "and came up with a trillion dollars in profits."

Jurors Convict Actor Danza

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Tony Danza, best known for his role as the ex-cab driver on the television series "Taxi," says he was stunned after his conviction for assault and criminal mischief stemming from a fight with a restaurant security guard.

"It was a shock," Danza, 33, said Monday after a jury found him guilty. "I didn't expect it. I was not guilty."

Also convicted was Danza's friend, Albert Sinacori, 29, of Malverne. Both were allowed to remain free on their own recognizance pending sentencing Sept. 17. The charges carry a top penalty of a year in prison.

Danza and Sinacori were charged with beating William Sawyer, 35, a guard at the Mayflower Hotel, in the hotel's ground-floor restaurant on Feb. 3.

Sawyer said the men, loud and boisterous, attacked him when he asked them to quiet down as they were drinking in the restaurant's bar.

Sinacori and Danza, a former professional boxer, said that Sawyer had approached them without identifying himself and told them he had a gun. They said they attacked him when he reached under his coat.

Michael Caine Fears 'Failure'

LONDON (AP) — British actor Michael Caine says being poor wouldn't bother him as much as what he would have to go through to get there.

"I could handle the poverty. At least I think I could. I've done it before," he was quoted as saying Monday in Woman's Own magazine.

"But what I couldn't cope with is the event that would make me poor," said the 51-year-old star of such films as "Deathtrap" and "Educating Rita."

"You see money isn't only money, he said. "Money represents success. If the money were to go, it would be because I'm not communicating."

Passenger Hurt

Cars driven by Ramon Monnie Hedges Jr. of 123 Pineview Drive and Joy Rene Daugherty of 117E Lakeview Terrace collided about 2:45 p.m. Monday at the intersection of Tenth and Evans streets.

Police, who said a passenger in the Hedges car was injured, estimated damage at $600 to the Hedges car and $1,200 to the Daugherty vehicle.

Officers charged Ms. Daugherty with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety and driving without a license following investigation.

Natural Causes

A man who collapsed in a tobacco field near Ayden Monday apparently died of natural causes, probably a heart attack, according to Dr. Paul Biddinger, regional pathologist.

William McCotter, 56, apparently died while priming tobacco.

Lottery Arrests

Officers assigned to the Greenville Police Department's special investigations unit arrested five people on charges of dealing in lotteries following an incident Thursday at a house at 306 S. Memorial Drive.

Police identified those arrested as: Raymond Thomas Hyman, 38, of Maryland; James Williams, 66, of 410 Darden Drive; Teddy Burnett Hyman, 30, of 1902 W. Arlington Blvd.; Wayne Ray Taylor, 26, of 508B Contentnea St., and Charles Russell Jenkins, 30, of B2 Glendale Court.

Investigators said a number of items dealing with lotteries were confiscated.

TV College Courses Set

WASHINGTON, N.C. — The North Carolina Department of Community Colleges, along with several of the individual colleges and the UNC Center for Public Television, has announced the schedule of college credit courses for the fall quarter.

Starting Aug. 25, the nine transmitters of WUNC-TV will begin a series of Saturday morning telecourses for which college credit will be offered by the participating colleges. In this area the programs will be seen on Channel 2, Columbia, and Channel 25, Greenville.

The courses to be broadcast and the colleges in this area participating in them are as follows:

9-10 a.m., Sept. 8-Dec. 1: The New Literacy (Lenoir Community College, Kinston, 527-6223; Roanoke-Chowan Technical College, Ahoskie, 332-5921).

10-11 a.m., Aug. 25-Dec. 1: The Write Course: English 101 Composition (Beaufort County Community College, Washington, 946-6194; Coastal Carolina Community College, Jacksonville, 455-1221).

11 a.m. - noon, Aug. 25-Nov. 17: The Business of Management: Business 235, Business Management (Beaufort County Community College; Coastal Carolina Community College; Roanoke-Chowan Technical College; College of the Albemarle, Elizabeth City, 335-0821).

Noon-1 p.m., Aug. 25-Dec. 1: Understanding Human Behavior (Roanoke-Chowan Technical College).

Each of these courses require the student to enroll in the institution, pay appropriate tuition (usually $10-$15), buy textbooks and workbooks and attend at least one session on the college campus. Interested parties should contact the college nearest them for more details.

ported Monday.

Officer W.R. McLawhorn said an electric typewriter and a copy machine were stolen from Innovative Screen Print at 234 W. Dudley St. in a break-in reported at 8:10 a.m.

Officer W.A. Moore said 15 tires valued at $600 were taken from a warehouse at Home and Auto Supply on Dickinson Avenue in an incident reported at 8:15 a.m.

A floor fan valued at $150 was reported taken from a storage warehouse at the intersection of 14th Street and Myrtle Avenue, according to Officer B.D. Dobbs. The break-in was reported at 5:35 p.m.

Suicide Ruled

The death of a Winterville woman Monday was apparently a suicide, according to Dr. Paul Biddinger, regional pathologist.

Mrs. Madeleine Delores Cannon, 44, died at her home, 308 Circle Drive, Winterville, of a gunshot wound to the head, Biddinger said.

Military Tuition

The General Assembly recently passed legislation authorizing military personnel and their dependents to attend North Carolina colleges, universities, community colleges and technical institutes at in-state tuition rates.

The legislation will permit service personnel and their dependents to attend private colleges in the state as though they were North Carolina residents.

The state subsidizes part of the tuition expense of each legal resident who attends a private college in the state. The subsidy has been increased from $750 a year to $850.

St. Jude Benefit

Rocky Mount Jaycee women and WFMA-FM Radio will raise funds for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital during a marathon broadcast Friday and Saturday.

During the two-day event, listeners will hear from children who have cancer. Families, physicians and celebrities will also be featured.

Marla Hinton is volunteer chairman of the second annual WFMA-St. Jude Radiothon.

ESC Dedication

The state Employment Security Commission will host an open house for the public from 10 a.m. until noon Wednesday in Raleigh.

The activities will be at 700 Wade Ave., former site of Rex Hospital which will be rededicated in the name of Col. Henry E. Kendall, former ESC chairman who served the agency from 1946 until 1973.

After the workshop a business meeting to elect a steering committee for the group will be held.

Seven reasons why this could be the last loan you'll ever need.

Commercial Credit's Home Equity Management Account proves that all lines of credit are not the same. Ours is better. Why? You can get up to $10,000, $20,000 or more. The Home Equity Management Account is based on the equity in your home. So it can make a substantial amount of cash available to you any time you need it.

Affordable Interest. Our interest rate is just 2% over the prime rate for lines of $20,000 or more. * On July 1, 1984 the prime rate was 13.00%, making an annual percentage rate of 15.00%.

No Application Fees.

Compared to other institutions, our Home Equity Management Account could save you hundreds of dollars. That's because there are no points, no application fees, and no annual fees.

Payment Protection.

Interest rate increases will not change the amount of your monthly payment.

It's Easy.

Once your account is open, getting a loan is as easy as writing a check.

10 Minute Application.

Take ten minutes to apply for your Home Equity Management Account. Call us. We'll take your application over the phone or we can send you an application. Or stop by Commercial Credit today.

One Day Credit Approval.

In most cases, we offer approvals in 24 hours, subject to verification and appraisal.

The Home Equity Management Account...it could be the last loan you'll ever need.

Commercial Credit. From first and second mortgages to personal loans and more, we've got as many financial solutions as there are financial needs.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices spurred in early trading today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials jumped 4.75 to 1,114.73 in the first half hour.

Advances outpaced declines by a slim margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

In today's economic news, the Commerce Department reported that its forecasting gauge for national economic health dropped a sharp 0.9 per cent in June, the first decline in nearly two years.

The dropoff, if not subsequently revised upward, would snap the longest string of advances for the Index of Leading Economic Indicators since the end of World War II.

In addition, the Labor Department reported that U.S. business productivity advanced at an annual rate of 3.3 percent in the second quarter, the best showing since the same three-month period in 1983.

And sales of new single-family homes rose 0.6 percent in June, improving slightly after three straight months of declines, reported the Commerce Department and the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

On Monday, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 4.64 to 1,109.98. Losers outpaced gainers by about 4-3 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume fell to 72.3 million shares from 101.35 million shares in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index fell 0.50 to 86.51. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell 0.70 to 188.86.

East Urges U.S. To Ignore Treaty

By The Associated Press
Sens. John P. East, R-N.C., and Steven D. Symms, R-Idaho, have written two letters to President Reagan this month urging him to ignore a 1979 strategic arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union. Reagan has been an opponent of the unratified SALT II treaty, but East and Symms said they believe the State Department has entered into a secret agreement with the Soviets to honor terms of the treaty.

CAB OKs Controls On Reservation Lists

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board has given final approval to regulations that will for the first time put controls on the way airlines operate their computer reservation systems.

The new rules, expected to go into effect in the fall, require the owners of reservation systems to list flights without a bias toward any particular airline.

The CAB tentatively approved the regulations earlier this month but held off a final vote until Monday so that details in the language of the regulations could be worked out.

Two airlines, United and American, own the largest computer reservation systems and connect to the terminals used by more than 80 percent of the travel agents around the country.

Other airlines have complained that United and American give preference in the way their systems display their own flights to the disadvantage of competing carriers.

The new rules will require that flight information be displayed in the systems only on the basis of service criteria and not based on the airline providing the flight.

Under the new rules, owners of the systems also must have a fair pricing system that does discriminate against some carriers seeking to have their flights listed.

good color and body."

Smith said he didn't know what to expect in terms of prices for the 1984 leaf. "The quality is comparable to previous years so I'm looking for it to go real good," he said.

County Extension Chairman Leroy James said it is "hard to say" what kind of prices farmers will get Wednesday. "I hope we'll get better than support but there's no way to know," he said. "Border Belt prices have been a bit lower this year but I hope ours will be higher. We need the extra."

James noted farmers should "do a good job in the packhouse" before bringing their crop to market. "I would encourage farmers to be sure the tobacco is ripe and graded carefully. This is of extreme importance this year," he said. "The buyers are looking for a certain grade, and that's all they're buying. A good job in the packhouse will give them what they want."

James cautioned farmers not to get tobacco out of the field too early. "Let it get ripe before it's pulled," he said. "I know it's hard because of all the water but one-two days more in the field might make a 20 cents per pound price difference."

The official opening ceremony will be held at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday at Raynor, Forbes and Clark Warehouse on Dickinson Avenue, with U.S. Secretary of Agriculture John Block scheduled to attend. Other dignitaries scheduled to attend include Sens. Jesse Helms and John East, Reps. Walter B. Jones and Jim Martin, state Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham and N.C. Attorney General Rufus Edmisten.

Hijack ...

St. Elizabeth Hospital for treatment. None of the 74 passengers and five crew members was seriously injured, they said.

A local policeman who participated in the assault injured his hand. Government officials at first said he was shot, then that he was hurt falling.

The plane had been hijacked Sunday afternoon after it left Caracas, the Venezuelan capital, for a flight to Curacao, but the gunmen forced it to land on two other Caribbean islands — Trinidad and Aruba — before it arrived here Monday morning. They had threatened to blow up the plane if their demands for millions of dollars and an escape helicopter were not met.

Most of the passengers were from Curacao. Four of those aboard were American — Nancy and Marcel Perret-Gentil of Manhattan, Kan., and their two sons, Michael and Marcel Jr.

Officials said the hijackers were a former Haitian army captain opposed to Haiti's President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier and a man with a passport from the Dominican Republic. It was the wife of the Haitian exile, Hilertaut Dominique, who made the appeal that preceded the rescue.

Animal Research May Help Diabetes Victims

BOSTON (AP) — Research that has produced a way to prevent diabetes in lab animals may help narrow the search for a process that will "prevent or reverse" the disease in humans, scientists say.

The study at the University of Massachusetts Medical Center shows that the diabetes culprit in rats is a particular form of lymphocyte, or white blood cell, called a T cell.

These animals, known as BB rats, inherit a form of the disease that is very similar to juvenile diabetes that strikes children and young adults. The goal of the research is to find ways to ward off this disease before it destroys the body's ability to make insulin.

"Our data suggests that the defect is in a T cell, and it also suggests that we can reverse it by administering this T cell," said Dr. Aldo A. Rossini, who directed the study.

Unlike those who get diabetes in middle age and beyond, victims of juvenile diabetes must take insulin injections. Even with this treatment, the disease is a major cause of blindness and also results in heart attacks, kidney failure and loss of limbs.

McCotter
GREENVILLE, S.C. — Mrs. Bethene McCotter, 74, died Saturday morning at her home. Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 3 p.m. at Hardee's Funeral Chapel by the Rev. J.A. Bradford. Burial will follow in the Willowhby Cemetery on Stantonsburg Road

Hayes Nips German 'Albatross'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michael Gross reached out and grabbed a second swimming gold medal for West Germany, but American Bruce Hayes had the winning hand at the end of one of the most dramatic relay races in Olympic history. Gross, the 6-foot-7 "Albatross" with the 7-4 wingspan, added a victory in the 100-meter butterfly Monday to his triumph Sunday in the 200 freestyle — but as the anchor in the 800 freestyle relay he came up literally one hand short.

It was Hayes who held, relinquished, then regained the lead in the final leg of the race that gave the United States its second swimming gold of the day. Earlier, Mary Wayte led a 1-2 finish in the women's 200 freestyle.

Those golds, coupled with a victory by Ed Etzel of Morgantown, W. Va., in men's English match small-bore rifle competition, gave the United States nine in the first two days of these Summer Games. West Germany, Canada and China have three golds apiece and West Germany, with seven total medals, is second to America's 15.

In the two other golds awarded Monday, Wu Shude of China hoisted 589½ total pounds, 5½ more than countryman Lai Running, in the 123-pound weightlift, and Fredy Schmidtke of West Germany won the 1,000-meter time trial in cycling in 1 minute, 6.10 seconds. The top American finished eighth in each event, Albert Hood of Los Angeles in the weightlifting, Rory O'Reilly of Costa Mesa, Calif., in the cycling.

In another cycling event, though, Steve Hegg of Dana Point, Calif., recorded the fastest outdoor Olympic time ever in a qualifying round of the 4,000-meter individual pursuit. But his time of 4 minutes, 35.57 seconds, although under the world best of 4:40.23 set five years ago by Hans-Henrik Oersted of Denmark, won't count as a record because Hegg overtook Pedro Omar Caino to Argentina.

U.S. boxers Paul Gonzales of East Los Angeles, Virgil Hill of Williston, N.D., and Evander Holyfield of Atlanta joined Sunday winner Mark Breland in scoring first-fight victories.

Gonzales outpointed Kwang-Sun Kim of South Korea in a 106-pound bout, Hill stopped Edward Neblett of Barbados in the second round of a 165-pound match and Holyfield stopped Taju Akay of Ghana in the third round at 178 pounds.

The U.S. women's basketball team, fresh from Monday's 83-55 pounding of Yugoslavia, takes on Austria and the American men, who routed China in their first game, played Canada today.

In volleyball, the U.S. women began play by sweeping West Germany 17-15, 15-8, 15-10 Monday. The American men, four-set winners on Sunday against Argentina, play Tunisia today.

The American men's field hockey team, a 5-1 loser to defending champion India on Sunday, played West Germany today.

And in today's Olympic debut of the national pastime, the United States plays Taiwan in baseball, a demonstration sport in these Games.

Five more swimming medals are up for grabs late today. And the American men's gymnastics team holds the lead over heavily favored China going into tonight's finals. The U.S. women gymnasts are second to Romania following Monday's compulsory. Their team finals are set for Wednesday night.

Hayes, from Dallas, was part of the 800-meter freestyle relay team that set a world record of 7 minutes, 18.87 seconds in Monday morning's preliminaries. Then, in the afternoon, Mike Heath, also of Dallas, David Larson of Jacksonville, Fla., Jeff Float of Sacramento, Calif., and Hayes went out and bettered their own record with a clocking of 7:15.69. Five new world swimming records are in books, all set by men.

When Hayes hit the water for his 200 meters, he owned a one-length lead over Gross. By the time they got to the other end of the 50-meter pool, they were dead-even. They stayed that way for the next two laps, Gross inched ahead early in the final 50 meters, then Hayes, with his faster strokes, regained the lead literally in the final inches.

"I was surprised I won after he caught me so fast," Hayes said. "I didn't know if I could hold on after that. ... In the last lap, I just put my head down and started kicking." Gross finished .04 of a second back of Hayes.

Earlier, he finished .15 of a second

Anne Ottenbrite gave Canada its second gold of the day and the third of these Games, winning the women's 200 breaststroke in 2:30.38. Susan Rapp of Eden Prairie, Minn., won the silver in 2:31.15.

Wayte, of Mercer Island, Wash., trailed Cynthia Woodhead of Riverside, Calif., through most of the women's 200 freestyle before grabbing the gold in the closing strokes. "I've been waiting all my life for this," Wayte exulted.

Cheryl Miller of Southern Cal was devastating with and without the ball as the women's basketball team began its quest for a first gold. The 6-3 forward-guard scored 23 points and had eight rebounds, five assists and five steals in the romp against Yugoslavia, another team considered a solid medal contender after winning the bronze at the 1980 Moscow Games boycotted by the United States.

Ecaterina Szabo, succeeding Nadia Comaneci as Romania's hot gymnast, scored a perfect 10 in the floor exercises to lead her country into the lead after the compulsories with 196.15 points to 194.15 for the United States.

Szabo and teammate Lavinia Agache share the all-around lead with Americans Mary Lou Retton and Juliana McNamara third and fourth, respectively.

The start of the track and field competition at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum is still three days away, but some of the competitors warmed up Monday at a track meet in San Diego. The biggest surprise was the disappointing fourth-place finish by Steve Scott in the 800 meters.

Britain's Peter Elliott won the race in 1:47.49. Scott, the American record-holder in the mile, was second at the head of the final straightaway, faded badly and clocked 1:48.95. "I thought Steve Scott would have been up there at the finish," Elliott said. "I expected a kick finish with Scott over the last 100 meters, but he wasn't there."

American winners in the San Diego competition included Diane Williams of Los Angeles in the 100 meters in 11.15 seconds, Angela Thacker of St. Louis in the women's long jump at 22 feet, 3½ inches, and Carol Cady of Los Alamos, N.M., in the women's shot put at 53-1¼.

Terry Long Hospitalized

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Steelers rookie offensive guard Terry Long is undergoing tests at Divine Providence Hospital after complaining of chest pains, said club spokesman Joe Gordon.

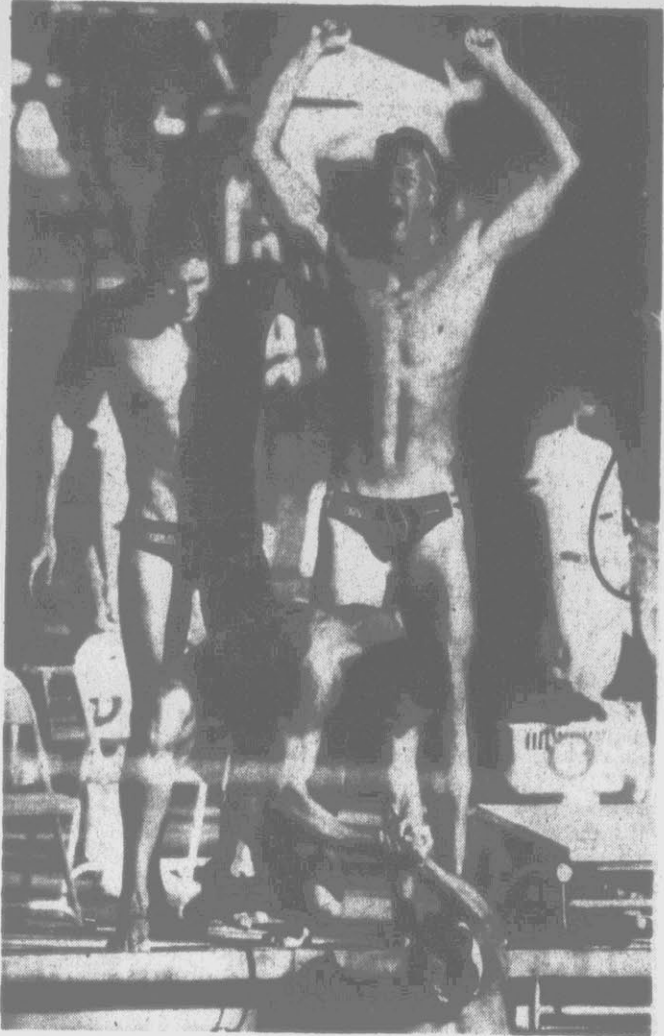

The 5-foot-11, 272-pound Long, from East Carolina, was one of the Steelers' two fourth-round draft choices this year after being selected to The Associated Press' All-American team in 1983.

Long had been impressive in the first two weeks of training camp, according to club vice president Art Rooney Jr. and assistant coach Jon Kolb.

Long is a former North Carolina powerlifting champion and was billed by East Carolina as "the strongest man in college football." He can dead lift more than 800 pounds and bench press more than 500 pounds.

After reporting the pains Monday, Long was taken from the Steelers' St. Vincent College training camp in Latrobe, Pa., to the hospital, where he is expected to remain for four to five days, Gordon said.

Long did not take part in the Steelers' two practices Monday.

Gomez Convincing In Tennis Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Andres Gomez took the punch out of young Aaron Krickstein's tennis game and wiped the asterisk off their earlier meeting with a convincing victory in the finals of the $200,000 D.C. National Bank Tennis Classic.

The 24-year-old captain of the Ecuadorian Davis Cup team needed just 58 minutes Monday night to register a 6-2, 6-2 decision over the 16-year-old Krickstein, of Grosse Point, Mich.

Two months ago, Gomez had beaten Krickstein in four sets to capture the Italian Open.

"They said the weather (a strong wind) was very bad and I had won only because I was more experienced," said Gomez. "Everybody talked about how great he was. The first 16-year-old to reach the semifinals, the first 16-year-old to play in the finals. I won the tournament and he got all the advertisements."

That victory was very much on Gomez' mind when he took to the clay court on Monday.

"I felt I had something to prove to everyone," said the world's sixth-ranked player.

The players each held service for the first four games of the opening set before Gomez broke Krickstein in the fifth game to take control of the match.

"I felt I was playing well to that point," said Krickstein.

"I started a little slowly but once I picked up my serve I had no problem with him," said Gomez, who had seven aces in the match.

Krickstein, his serve deserting him, allowed Gomez to continually reach the net midway through the first set. Moving Krickstein wide, Gomez quickly took control.

"I think he only made two mistakes in the whole match," said Krickstein. "If I had played better, I still would have had a hard time beating him."

"He tried to play aggressive ... conservative ... he tried everything, but I played too good for him," said Gomez.

"Not just on his serve but on his returns, he can hurt me where other guys can't," Krickstein grudgingly concurred.

The victory, Gomez' third clay-court title of the season, was worth $34,000 and 200 Grand Prix points. He stands fourth in points.

Krickstein, who won the U.S. Pro title last week, leaped over both Jimmy Arias and Yannick Noah into eighth place in the Grand Prix standings, earning 120 points for his second-place finish here. Krickstein, who will celebrate his 17th birthday on Thursday, picked up $17,000 for his second-place finish. He has won $51,000 in the past two weeks on the pro tour.

In the doubles, Ferdi Taygan and Czechoslovakia's Pavel Slozil defeated Blaine Willenborg and Drew Gitlin 7-6 (7-5) 6-1.

Earnhardt Opens His NASCAR Lead

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Dale Earnhardt expanded his lead in the NASCAR Winston Cup Grand National after Sunday's victory in the Talladega 500 stock car race.

After 19 races, Earnhardt holds a 65-point advantage over Terry Labonte, 2,843-2,778. Bill Elliot is 79 points behind in third place.

Two-time Winston Cup champion Darrell Waltrip is in fourth place with 2,734 points and Harry Gant is in fifth with 2,703 points.

Rounding out the top 10 are: defending Winston Cup champion Bobby Allison, 2,619; Neil Bonnett, 2,456; Geoff Bodine, 2,426; Ricky Rudd, 2,425, and Ron Bouchard, 2,392.

Cowboy Players Support Randy White's Holdout

By HANK LOWENKRON AP Sports Writer

The Dallas Cowboys, already hit by the retirement of key players such as Drew Pearson, Billy Joe Dupree and Harvey Martin, also are training for the new National Football League season without veteran tackle Randy White.

The chant "Where's Randy?, Where's Randy?" greeted club president Tex Schramm when he attended a team meeting to introduce the team's 25th anniversary highlight film Sunday.

"I don't know," Schramm said. "You guys tell me where Randy is." Running back Ron Springs didn't know the answer but he told Schramm, "Seven figures will find him."

White, 31, is embroiled in a contract dispute. Friends say he has left the negotiating to his agent, Howard Slusher, and has gone fishing.

Cowboy players are supporting White's holdout.

One day, defensive linemen wore armbands with White's number, 54, on them. Friday, most veterans went to practice with "Where's 54?" written on a piece of tape on their helmets.

"Randy is not the kind of guy to miss training camp so he doesn't have to work. He's one guy that wants to be here," tackle Jim Cooper said Monday. "At this stage in his career, he has to go for all he's worth. And Randy is probably the best defensive lineman in the league."

"Almost everybody is in support of him. I haven't seen any negatives," Cooper said. "Everybody on the team has a lot to gain by this, too. This can escalate the salary scale."

White, going into his option year at $330,000, is believed to want at least $800,000 a year, matching the contract of Mark Gastineau of the New York Jets.

Schramm and other Cowboys officials have said they will not comment on White's contract negotiations.

Meanwhile, first-round draft choice Pete Koch signed with the Cincinnati Bengals and the Maryland lineman immediately joined the club in Wilmington, Ohio.

The 6-foot-2, 270-pound defensive end reportedly signed a three-year contract with an option for a fourth year, worth $1.1 million to $1.3 million. The Bengals announced Koch's signing but refused to disclose any of the contract terms.

His signing leaves the Bengals with only one of their three first-round draft picks unsigned. The club's No. 1 choice, Arizona linebacker Ricky Hunley, is unsigned.

In Hempstead, N.Y., Coach Joe Walton named Ken O'Brien as the No. 1 quarterback for his New York Jets. He said the second-year pro will play extensively in preseason games this month to gain much-needed experience before the club's Sept. 2 regular season opener at Indianapolis.

O'Brien, the Jets' first-round draft choice out of Cal-Davis a year ago, appeared in two exhibition games as a rookie — completing 18 of 28 passes for 167 yards — but didn't see any action during the 1983 season.

An off-season trade that sent Richard Todd to the New Orleans Saints left Walton with a pair of candidates for the No. 1 job — O'Brien and Pat Ryan — who never have started an NFL game.

Ryan, beginning his seventh season, completed 21 of 40 passes for 259 yards and two touchdowns in 1983 and Walton described him as a "good competitor" who also has the ability to step in as a starter.

In other training camp developments Monday:

—The Buffalo Bills cut four players, including running back Curtis Brown, a member of the team since 1977.

—The Pittsburgh Steelers traded veteran Steve Courson to Tampa Bay in exchange for offensive lineman Ray Snell. Courson has been a starter at right guard for the past five seasons.

—Pittsburgh rookie offensive guard Terry Long was hospitalized after complaining of chest pains, said club spokesman Joe Gordon.

The 5-11, 272-pound Long, from East Carolina, was one of the Steelers' two fourth-round draft choices this year after being selected to The Associated Press' All-American team in 1983. Long was taken to Divine Providence Hospital in Pittsburgh for tests. He is expected to be sidelined for four to five days, Gordon said.

—The Kansas City Chiefs waived nine players and put two others on the injured reserved list, leaving the team with 98 players in camp.

—Wide receiver Bobby Duckworth rejoined the San Diego Chargers after a two-day unauthorized absence. Duckworth, who caught 20 passes for 422 yards and five touchdowns last season, left camp Friday. He had awakened Thursday night in a cold sweat, roommate Wes Chandler said.

—Wide receiver Earnest Gray, who shared the National Football Conference lead for pass receptions last season, left the New York Giants training camp in an apparent contract dispute.

Seaver Rebounds After Slow Start

By The Associated Press
 At the age of 39, it's not easy keeping your fastball up and your earned run average down. But Tom Seaver is doing all right for himself these days.
 After struggling at the start of the season, Seaver has turned things around. On Monday night, he posted his fourth victory in July and third shutout of the year in leading the Chicago White Sox to a 7-0 decision over the Boston Red Sox.
 Seaver allowed but three hits, striking out four and walking none, in bringing his record up to 10-6 and his ERA down below the 4.00 mark.
 "My fastball was moving down well tonight, and it was rising when I needed it," said Seaver, who also fielded well, starting a double play in the first inning and throwing out three other runners at first base.

 White Sox Manager Tony LaRussa said Seaver's strenuous daily pepper games have developed his eye-hand coordination and aided his fielding.
 In other American League action, it was Kansas City 7, Toronto 4; Texas 5, Baltimore 1; New York 4, Milwaukee 3; Minnesota 9, Seattle 5 and California 5, Oakland 4 in 12 innings.
 Seaver faced only 29 batters — two over the minimum. The shutout was the 59th of Seaver's career, tops among active pitchers. He has 283 lifetime wins, second among active pitchers to Steve Carlton's 309.
 The veteran right-hander got all the support he needed with six runs in the first inning. With one out, Greg Luzinski smashed his 10th homer of the season and 304th of his career to give the White Sox a 3-0 lead. Vance Law later hit a three-run shot with two outs, his 13th.

 Seaver said the big early lead didn't change the way he pitched to the Red Sox.
 I learned a long time ago from Gil Hodges that you don't gauge your efforts on what the score is," Seaver said. The seven runs didn't effect how I pitched."
Royals 7, Blue Jays 4
 Steve Balboni keyed a four-run first inning with a three-run homer and John Wathan added a solo shot in the sixth to power Kansas City over Toronto.
 Balboni, who injured his left heel in the fourth inning running to third and was replaced by Wathan, hit his 18th homer of the season, off Jim Clancy, 7-11. Wathan slugged his second homer, off reliever Bryan Clark.

Kansas City's Charlie Leibrandt, 5-4, was touched for seven hits in 6 2-3 innings before being relieved by Dan Quisenberry.
Rangers 5, Orioles 1
 Frank Tanana allowed four hits while hurling Texas over Baltimore with home run support from Ned Yost and Larry Parrish.
 Tanana, 10-10, retired 14 of the first 15 batters he faced, walking Cal Ripken Jr. in the first, before Mike Young singled with two outs in the fifth.
 While Tanana's mini no-hit bid was still intact, Billy Sample raced into the corner to snare a drive by Dan Ford high off the left field wall. Sample was credited with nine putouts, two shy of the major league record for a left fielder.
 "It's always nice to get runs early," said Tanana, who was staked to a 4-0 lead after three innings on the homers by Yost and Parrish. "It never fails. Get three or four runs early and it takes a little something out of the other ballclub."
Yankees 4, Brewers 3
 Rookie Dennis Rasmussen won his fourth straight game, combining with Dave Righetti on a seven-hitter as New York downed Milwaukee.
Rasmussen, 5-3, gave up six hits, struck out five and walked three before needing relief help in the eighth from Righetti, who recorded his 16th save. Mike Caldwell, 4-9, suffered his eighth straight loss.
 The Yankees scored their eventual winning run with two out in the sixth inning on an RBI single by Brian Dayett and Vic Mata's run-scoring bunt single. "Right now I'm just trying to go right at them and throw strikes," said Rasmussen. "I'm not throwing many 2-1 curveballs."

Twins 9, Mariners 5
 Minnesota's Gary Gaetti hit his first home run in two months to highlight a 13-hit attack and power the Twins past Seattle.
 With Minnesota ahead 4-2 in the bottom of the fifth, Gaetti ended his home run drought by launching a 407-foot, three-run shot with Randy Bush and Tom Brunansky on base, to chase Jim Beattie, 9-11.
 Gaetti, who had 25 home runs in 1982 and 21 in 1983, hadn't homered since May 26 and it was only his third round-tripper of the season.
Winner Pete Filson, 6-2, scattered seven hits and three runs over 6 2-3 innings.
 "It was the best ball I hit all year," said Gaetti. "It felt good coming off the bat, it didn't sting at all."
TEXAS BALTIMORE

Angels 5, A's 4
 Juan Beniquez hit a home run off Oakland relief ace Bill Caudill with one out in the 12th inning, boosting California over Oakland.
 The homer, Beniquez's sixth, was only the second hit off Caudill, 8-4, who pitched 4 1-3 innings. California reliever Doug Corbett, 3-1, got the victory and Luis Sanchez pitched the bottom of the 12th to earn his 10th save.
 The A's had tied the score 4-4 on Mike Davis' two-out single in the ninth. The hit off Corbett scored Donnie Hill, who got a lead-off double and went to third on a wild pitch.

Miller Remains Active On And Off Cage Court

By STEVE WILSTEIN
AP Sports Writer
INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — On or off the basketball court, Cheryl Miller can't stay still. Her fingers drum the table or chair while she's sitting. Her eyes roll. Her head bobs as if she's listening to jazz.
 "Resting" on the side, she's a non-stop cheerleader, so loud she can be heard across the Los Angeles Forum over the noise from thousands of spectators. She calls out to her U.S. Olympic teammates, congratulating them on passes or shots, slapping their hands as they race by.
 When Coach Pat Head Summitt sends her into the game, Miller moves slowly at first, a creaking, jerky walk toward midcourt, her knees and legs not quite in synch yet, like Julius "Dr. J" Erving, or the player she's so often compared with, Earvin "Magic" Johnson.
 There is deception in that walk.
 Tossing off the towel and stepping onto the court, she becomes, again like Erving and Johnson, transformed. The walk gives way to a smooth, oiled movement, the exuberant gait of a young thoroughbred, gliding over the hardwood floor, arms raised, fingers outstretched, in anticipation of a pass or a steal.
 Cheryl Miller, the leader of the University of Southern California's 1983 and 1984 NCAA championship teams, dominates a talented Olympic squad that everyone assumes will win the first gold medal by American women in the sport.
 "We're seen as the Goliath right now," says teammate Lynette Woodard, a former standout at the University of Kansas.
 An Olympic gold, even without the powerful Soviet Union team present, is more important to Miller than the NCAA title or anything else she's ever won, including college Player of the Year.
 "There's no comparison," she says.
 Miller, 20, has been accused many times of "hot-dogging," making motions that some people felt "rubbed it in" against lesser opponents. But there's nothing phony or cruel about her gestures. She is, in a word, a natural — and a heck of a lot more fun to watch than some of the stilted, stoic athletes who value virtue less than control.
 "She's not a hot dog," says center Pam McGee, Miller's good friend and teammate on the USC championship team. "She's just herself."
 "That's always been part of my game, although it's gotten me in trouble sometimes," Miller says. "It seems like I might be pushing it in somebody's face, but I don't look at it like that."
 At 6-foot-3 and 150 pounds, Miller is lean, quick and able to outjump most taller players. She can shoot from the outside, drive the middle and dribble with either hand in any direction.
 In an 83-55 romp Monday against Yugoslavia, one of the best women's teams in the world, Miller showed it all, scoring 23 points, handing off five assists, making five steals and grabbing eight rebounds in 26 minutes.

 The key, though, was her offensive rebounding, a subtle talent that few players master. When she started hitting the boards after a sluggish start, she sparked a 23-6 surge that gave the Americans a 43-29 halftime lead. Yugoslavia, led by former University of Maryland star Jasmina Perazic's 18 points in the first half and 24 overall, never came close again.
 "If you watch Cheryl, you can see she really explodes to the offensive boards," said Summitt. "That's the strength of her game."
 Summitt and Miller make a curious contrast.
 "I am very intense, very aggressive and very competitive — those three words best describe me as a coach," Summitt said. She also is disciplined. She demands efficiency and control. Even down to her makeup and her hair, nothing is out of place.
 Miller is a bit looser. Summitt respects the difference, but says she wouldn't hesitate to bench her most talented player under certain circumstances.

 "If her personality interferes with her play, yes," Summitt said. "If it becomes detrimental to the team, she'd get a front row seat."
 But that has not been the case, and Summitt says she gets along just fine with Miller. She also knocked down a suggestion that Miller might not be "disciplined" enough to work well with her Olympic teammates.
 "I think she's very disciplined," Summitt said.
 Miller agrees, and offers as proof her ability to adjust to playing at 9 a.m., as the team did Monday, going to sleep early, and sharing a room with four other players.
 "Hey, there are five people to a room, one bathroom and Pam McGee," she said. "At 5:30 (a.m.), Pam flips on the lights and we all get up. I've learned something about control."
 Then, with mock seriousness and a roll of her eyes at Summitt, she adds: "I am a morning person and I'll continue to get up at five in the morning. I love doing this."

Ford Thinks ACC Made Up Probation Rules For Tigers

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
AP Sports Writer
FOXFIRE VILLAGE (AP) — There won't be an Atlantic Coast Conference football title for Clemson this season, but that doesn't mean coach Danny Ford won't have his Tigers razor-sharp on opening day.
 A three-year probation slapped on Clemson by the ACC for recruiting violations on top of a two-year NCAA penalty means no bowl games and no league crown. Speaking at the ACC's annual kickoff meeting, Ford remained undaunted.
 "We have a chance to be a pretty good football team," he said. "We're going to have to have success moving the football to make up for some of our shortcomings."
 Ford also showed some of the bitterness held inside for the past year because of the probation. He charged the ACC with hindering Clemson's efforts to have its probation reduced.

 "I think the conference made up the rules as they went on how they treated Clemson," Ford said. "I wasn't very impressed with them."
 Ford would not cite specific instances when pressed to show examples of what changes ACC officials might have made along the way.
 In the last three years, Ford has led the Tigers to a 30-2-2 record and much of the personnel that earned that mark return for 1984. Leading the way is quarterback Mike Eppley and massive nose guard William Perry, listed in the press guide at 305 pounds.
 Clemson is looking for someone to replace Kevin Mack at fullback. Sophomore Kenny Flowers is listed as a replacement, although Ford says "we don't have a Mack-type there."

 Six first-team defenders are gone and Ford expects to get a lot of time from a lot of people.
 "All our defensive linemen are going to have to be good players," Ford said. "We've got 18 guys we think can help us."
 Clemson is rare in that its starting quarterback from last season will return. North Carolina State will have Tim Esposito calling signals again and Georgia Tech has John Dewberry.
 Duke is trying to replace NCAA all-time record holder Ben Bennett. Ron Sally, with whom Bennett shared time two seasons ago, and senior Drew Walston will fight it out

Padres Return Favor With 12-0 Win

By The Associated Press
It was like day and night for the Dodgers.
Sunday afternoon, the Dodgers' Orel Hershiser threw 7 2-3 perfect innings and finished with a two-hitter as Los Angeles beat the Cincinnati Reds 1-0.
Monday night, the Padres' Dave Dravecky threw 6 1-3 no-hit innings and finished with a one-hitter as San Diego destroyed the Dodgers 12-0.
The constant throughout was the Dodgers' weak hitting. Despite winning two of its last four games, by 1-0 scores, Los Angeles has not scored an earned run in 42 innings.
After being shut out on two hits Friday, the Dodgers broke loose for seven Saturday, but were held to four Sunday.
"We're not hitting the ball. It's as simple as that," said Dodger Manager Tommy Lasorda. "Tonight they just kicked our rear ends."
"We've had tough times. Tough times never last but tough people do."
Bill Russell's seventh-inning double and four walks were all Dravecky allowed in his bid to become the first pitcher in the history of the San Diego franchise to hurl a no-hitter.

"I was really doing nothing different," said Dravecky. "I was trying to hit the spots again. There was a little luck involved. I had good control. I was mixing it up, I was concentrating a lot."
After suffering an arm injury at the end of last year, Dravecky started the 1984 season in the bullpen and made 32 relief appearances. Monday's game was his seventh start since his return to the rotation. He's 4-2 in those starts.
Dravecky had no regrets about his pitch to Russell.
"He hit a good pitch," said Dravecky, 8-5. "It was a slider down and in. I made the pitch I wanted to make and he got the hit he wanted."
The shutout was the third in a row for the Padres staff, which has not allowed a run in 30 2-3 innings.
Elsewhere in the National League, Montreal downed Pittsburgh 3-1, Chicago beat Philadelphia 3-2, St. Louis topped New York 3-1 in 10 innings, and Houston edged Atlanta 4-3.
Dravecky was supported by a three-run homer by Kevin McReynolds and a solo shot by Terry Kennedy.
San Diego scored four first-inning runs off Dodger starter Fernando Valenzuela, 9-12. Steve Garvey's ball single scored one run and McReynolds unloaded his 14th homer for a 4-0 lead.
The Padres erupted for four more runs in the fifth to chase Valenzuela. Tony Gwynn's single, Candy Maldonado's two-run error on McReynolds' deep fly and Luis Salazar's single made it 8-0.
Kennedy's homer in the seventh gave the Padres their ninth run. Martinez's double, Kennedy's grounder and catcher Steve Yeager's passed ball in the eighth brought in the final three Padre runs.
The victory increased the Padres' lead in the NL West to 8 1/2 games over the Atlanta Braves, their largest margin of the year.

mistake and it's killing us."
Pirate starter Rick Rhoden, 9-8, brought a four-hit shutout into the ninth. But Tim Lincecum doubled to lead off the inning and Pete Rose followed with a single to tie the score at 1-1. After Tekulve got Andre Dawson to ground out, Carter belted his 21st homer of the season on a 1-2 pitch.
Bob James, 4-4, worked the final two innings for the victory after last-minute starter Dan Schatzeder held the Pirates to one run and four hits over seven innings.
Cubs 3, Phillies 2
Jody Davis' tie-breaking double in the sixth inning powered the surging Cubs to their fourth straight victory and sixth in eight.
"I feel good, we're in the race, and I'm playing as well as I can play," said Davis, forced to catch nearly every day of late because of injuries to his two backups. "There are a lot of games and I'll get my rest later."
The Cubs added a run in the seventh on a pinch-single by Thad Bosley and Ryne Sandberg's 16th triple of the year. The visitors pulled within 3-2 in the eighth with a two-out triple by Len Matuszek and a single by Ozzie Virgil.
Von Hayes hit his 10th homer and third in two days in the fifth inning.
Cardinals 3, Mets 1
Mets magic took another day off. Tito Landrum's two-run homer in the bottom of the 10th inning handed the New Yorkers their fourth straight loss and first this season in extra innings. Sunday, the Mets failed to win a double-header for the first time this year, dropping two to Chicago.
Landrum's homer came off Jesse Orozco, 8-3, who took over for starter Sid Fernandez at the start of the ninth. Jeff Lahti, 3-1, picked up the decision in relief.
Shut out on four hits through seven innings, the Cards gained a 1-1 tie on McGee's triple and Terry Pendleton's sacrifice fly in the eighth.
The first-place Mets saw their advantage over the Chicago Cubs fall to one-half game in the NL East.
Astros 4, Braves 3
Pinch-hitter Phil Garner's two-out single in the bottom of the ninth scored Jerry Mumphy from second and made a winner of Dave Smith, 1-2, who pitched two innings of perfect relief.

Donnie Moore, 1-2, took the loss.
Fifteen walks were handed out by the game's seven pitchers; Atlanta starter Craig McMurtry was high man with six. Twenty-five men overall were left on base.

this year. Walston is at a disadvantage, however, because he underwent shoulder surgery July 1.
Maryland lost flamboyant quarterback Boomer Esiason, as well as the rest of its starting backfield from the Florida Citrus Bowl team. In fact, coach Bobby Ross is looking for a lot of help in a lot of areas.
"We lost a lot of key people. We lost our whole offensive backfield. That's our starting point," Ross said. "This will be the most inexperienced team that I've had since I've been at Maryland."
Frank Reich, who served as a backup to Esiason, is expected to start for Ross.
Wake Forest lost Gary Schofield and has two candidates to replace him. Senior Foy White and transfer Jamie Harris are looking to guide the Demon Deacons offense and what coach Al Groh considers an ACC-caliber club.
"We're a lot bigger and stronger," Groh said. "We're very good at the positions where coaches like to build teams."
North Carolina, chosen in the pre-season poll of sportswriters and broadcasters to win the ACC title, also is looking for a new quarterback to replace Scott Stankavage. Sophomores Mark Maye and Kevin Anthony are the hopeful heirs, but coach Dick Crum says neither has pulled ahead.
"Maye and Anthony are dead even," Crum said. "We did not come out of the spring game with a clear cut answer with the quarterback situation."

THE BELLAMY MANSION . . . on Market Street in Wilmington, constructed 125 years ago, ranks as one of the finest examples of the classical revival style of architect anywhere in the South. The interior of the spacious 19th century house was rather extensively damaged by fire ten years ago — fortunately, plans are now underway for the restoration of this architectural gem in the downtown area of Wilmington.

Architectural Gems Of Eastern North Carolina

Wherever one travels in eastern North Carolina — from Knotts Island to Olyptic, from Whalebone to Micro, there are literally dozens of architectural treasures from the past to see and enjoy.

Architectural glories of past years span the full gamut of living and workplace structures — fine old homes, huge brick warehouses, wonderfully proportioned small churches, log tobacco barns, practical and attractive farm outbuildings, sturdy general merchandise stores, and handsome school houses.

Through the foresight of a number of persons dedicated to preserving eastern North Carolina's architectural heritage, a number of outstanding structures have been saved for posterity.

In older towns such as Murfreesboro, Tarboro, Edenton, Halifax, Washington, Bath, Wilmington, New Bern, Kenansville and Beaufort, a significant representation of older buildings have been preserved or authentically restored.

And the fortunate record of salvage and restoration continues, with the good news that places such as the Bellamy Mansion in Wilmington, the Captain Outlaw home near Grabtown in Bertie County, and the Governor Elias Carr home in Edgecombe County are now being restored.

As North Carolina (and America) celebrates the 400th anniversary of the first English attempts to colonize the New World in what is now eastern North Carolina, it's reassuring to know that some of the places that tie us to the past are still very much a part of the present, and hopefully, the future.

THE RUINS . . . of a former network of piers in a quiet backwater of the Trent River in a commercial area of New Bern is an interesting reminder of river architecture of past years in coastal North Carolina. An old-timer who recalls the structure before deterioration called it "a pretty place that everybody loved."

Eastern N. C. architectural gems span the gamut of home and work structures

A CORNER VIEW . . . of the Governor Elias Carr home in rural Edgecombe County, a short distance north of Falkland in Pitt County, reveals the beauty of decorative woodwork on a two-level side porch. The historic house, home of North Carolina's governor from 1893-97, set in a grove of splendid old oak trees, is now being restored by a private owner.

range, are typical examples of utilitarian architecture of past years to be found throughout eastern North Carolina. The arrangement of barns surrounding a family burial plot makes this an unusual concept.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — CANNY POOL PLAYER-TURNED-ACTOR NEEDED A CUE.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: K equals O

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Siamese Twins Are Divided

TORONTO (AP) — Doctors who separated 2½-year-old Siamese twins decided to keep "the more active, aggressive" one as a boy and turn the other child into a girl, according to the surgeon who led the successful, complex operation.

Dr. Robert M. Filler, chief of surgery at the Hospital for Sick Children, headed the team of 43 doctors and nurses who separated Lin and Win Htut of Burma last weekend.

He told a news conference Monday that both children were recovering "as well as we could expect. They're not out of the woods."

Filler, who twice before separated Siamese twins, said he believed the operation on Lin and Win was the most complicated ever performed because the surgeons had to separate so many organs.

He said he was not aware of any other separation in which one twin's sex was changed but wasn't certain the Htut twins were the first case.

Both children have male chromosomes. They were born with one set of genitals "exactly in the middle," Filler said.

The surgeons could have made both children into girls, but the parents wanted at least one boy, Filler said.

"Lin was the more active, aggressive infant," Filler said, and "seemed to be the more appropriate child to leave as a boy."

The two children, who had lived their entire lives in a hospital in Rangoon, Burma, before coming here, were joined below the diaphragm, almost side-by-side, roughly in the shape of a "Y" and only one of the twins could sit up at a time.

Although Win was just as able physically, Lin, the smaller child, dominated his twin and was usually the one sitting up, said Dr. Geoffrey Barker, director of the hospital's intensive care unit.

Doctors cut them apart at the pelvis, divided what had been two joined livers, separated their intestines, made bladders and urethras for the twins and construct a vagina for Win, who will be given hormone treatment to develop as a woman.

Win will be unable to have children, but Lin should be capable of fathering children, doctors said.

After the twins were separated, tissue from a useless third leg that doctors amputated was used to cover Lin's abdominal wall. A sheet of plastic is serving as an abdominal wall for Win until her natural tissue grows to replace it. Each child will be fitted with artificial legs.

Win had to be rushed back into surgery Sunday afternoon to repair a broken blood vessel.

Barker told reporters Lin was awake and alert on Monday and being weaned from a ventilator. Win remained under heavy sedation Monday and a ventilator controlled her breathing.

The children were in a room together but had not recognized each other, he said.

Filler said the children, although lively and intelligent, were too young to understand before the operation what was about to happen to them. He said hospital psychologists will try to help the children adjust to their new lives. The twins are expected to stay in Toronto for about three months before returning to Burma.

The twins' parents could not afford to make the trip from Burma to Canada. Barker said he telephoned to tell them the operation was a success and they "expressed great delight."

Siamese twins develop from a single fertilized egg that has divided imperfectly.

Infant Gets New Heart

LONDON (AP) — Eleven-day-old Hollie Roffey was improving and "waving her arms and legs" today after becoming the world's youngest heart-transplant patient, a hospital official said.

The infant's vigor pleased doctors at London's National Heart Hospital a day after the delicate operation Monday.

"She's sort of moving around, waving her arms and legs this morning," said Paul Haigh, deputy administrator of the hospital. "She's doing very well. She's improving, that's the official word."

Tom Cosgrove, chief administrator at the hospital, had said Monday: "It will be several days before the operation can be judged a success." Early today, Hollie had been reported in stable condition.

The baby's parents, 26-year-old turf salesman Anthony Roffey and his 24-year-old wife, Janet, were reported staying at a secret address near the hospital seeking to avoid reporters.

Hollie was born with the left side of her heart missing. She was placed under intensive care in an infection-free "plastic bubble" after being given the heart of a three-day-old Dutch baby who had died of brain damage.

Just because a hand looks impressive, don't be in a hurry to wave the white flag. You never know when a fortunate lie of the cards will come to your rescue.

West made a noble effort, at favorable vulnerability, to preempt his opponents out of the auction. But South had too many spades and assorted high cards for that to happen. Nevertheless, it looked to the world as if four spades was a trick too high.

It would have been had West led a minor suit, but on the auction a heart lead looked most attractive. East could not finesse the 10 lest declarer held a singleton, so he rose with the ace and returned the suit. Declarer won and learned the bad news about trumps when he crossed to dummy with the king. It looked as if he would have to lose two trump tricks and a club, for down one.

Declarer ruffed a heart, and there was a ray of hope when the queen dropped. The diamond finesse was a possibility, but East's two doubles meant the king was almost surely wrong. Declarer found a better line.

He crossed to the ace of diamonds, sluffed a club on the jack of hearts, cashed the ace of trumps and then put East on lead with a trump. East could cash his other trump winner, but he would then be forced to lead away from one of his minor-suit kings. If he led a low card in the minor suit, the queen of that suit would be the fulfilling trick. If he tried the king of clubs, declarer's loser in that suit would vanish. And the king of diamonds would be ruffed, whereafter declarer would cross to the ace of clubs and sluff his club loser on the queen of diamonds.

Actress Follows Route Of Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Arlene Dahl, whose television appearances have included "The Love Boat," was married to businessman Marc Rosen aboard a cruise ship at a time set by an astrologer, a publicist for Ms. Dahl said.

The wedding ceremony was performed Monday by Capt. Arne Svendsen aboard the Sea Goddess, which was bound for Monaco from Marbella, Spain. Ms. Dahl and Rosen were married at 11:48 a.m. — the time set by an astrologer, according to Gustavus Ober, a publicist for the actress.

Ms. Dahl appears currently in the television soap opera "One Life To Live" and has made guest appearances on "The Love Boat," the television show about romantic life aboard a cruise ship.

It was her fifth marriage, Ober said.

Bomb Explodes

ROME (AP) — A small bomb exploded early Saturday outside a naval supply store, and the same group that said it bombed an Italian official's home hours earlier claimed responsibility, officials said.

The blast Saturday shattered a door of the Selenia-Elsag Naval Systems Consortium, and broke windows in the area, but injured no one, police said.

Women's Colleges Say Times Are Good

By The Associated Press
Women's colleges, trying to distinguish themselves from coeducational institutions, will continue to resist coed takeover attempts during the 1980s, says an official of an all-female school.

"There is a place for the women's college to take a young woman and give her some sense of identity," said John Rice, president of St. Mary's College in Raleigh, adding that most coed colleges do not offer women that chance.

"There is an increasing determination of women to seek self-esteem in the company of other women," said Thomas V. Litzenburg, president of Salem College, founded in 1772 and now the nation's oldest women's college.

Despite moves by all-male colleges to admit women, officials at Peace, Meredith and St. Mary's in Raleigh, Bennett in Greensboro, Salem in Winston-Salem and Queen's in Charlotte say there are no pressures or desires to become coeducational.

Only two all-male private colleges remain in the country after Virginia's Washington & Lee University voted July 14 to enroll women as full-time undergraduates for the first time in the school's 235-year history.

Some officials say the schools — Hampden-Sydney in Virginia and Wabash in Indiana — may soon be pushed into admitting women as students.

The presidents of North Carolina's women's colleges give various reasons for the trend.

Unlike many all-male colleges, the quality of Salem's applicants in the last two years is better than at any other time in the school's 200-year history, Litzenburg said. Of the school's 650 students, 480 live on campus.

But even with the strength of all-female schools, there has been a sharp reduction in their numbers in recent years. In 1966, there were 236 all-female institutions of higher education, compared to 112 today.

Of 124 colleges that either closed or turned coed since 1966, only three were premier women's colleges — Vassar, Skidmore and Connecticut College. Roman Catholic schools, which folded into companion institutions, accounted for most of the decline since 1966.

With more women attending college now than men, college officials foresee a healthy pool of applicants to women's colleges in coming years.

"Women just don't get a fair shake in the coed classroom," Wabash President Lewis Salter said. He said turning coed can lead to "the deterioration of educational opportunities for women" because all the leadership positions are grabbed by men, and women defer to men in most classroom situations.

Future Phones May Do It All

TOM MINEHART
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE (AP) — Telephones of the future may call you automatically and give directions in an emergency, read your electric meter or even tell cable television companies what you're watching.

"We're looking at it. It's technically feasible," said Bob Freedman, Charlotte district manager for Southern Bell. "We're not ready but if someone came forward and wanted to work with us, we'd be very interested."

No such emergency notification system — a "911 number in reverse" — now exists or is under development anywhere, Freedman said.

But during hearings last spring over emergency planning for Duke Power Co.'s Catawba nuclear plant, Southern Bell told local government and Duke officials that it could be done. Reactor No. 1 is scheduled to fire up this fall 19 miles southwest of downtown Charlotte.

The officials were told it would take at least $5 million and two years to put a telephone emergency warning system into operation, said Southern Bell account executive Eugene McKinney, who represented the phone company at the hearings.

"The technology is there," he said in an interview. "We addressed two separate technologies that would and could address this (problem of notification)."

In the first type of system, called "switched technology," a computer at the phone company's central office could make 1,700 calls a minute with prerecorded messages aimed at specific areas. The computer could be owned jointly by local government, the power company, emergency planning departments or any interested group.

"If there was a meltdown or whatever ... you could warn any segment of the population with any message," McKinney said.

In the second type of system, called "derived channel," a sub-channel of existing phone lines would enter a "black box" in each home. Power, water, gas and cable TV companies and emergency, fire and other agencies could share the costs of access to the box.

Emergency management agencies could use the box to send a signal telling people to turn to the emergency broadcast system or to transmit prerecorded messages to a speaker in each home.

"It'd be able to warn, for example, southeast Charlotte if there was a chemical spill or a train wreck with nuclear material on it ... and a need for evacuation," he said. "It could pinpoint an area and notify everybody in it."

"There are so many different possibilities with an information pipe like this," McKinney said. "It works two ways — information comes back from the black box to a central point, and information flows the other way from an interested party back to a preset group of people."

Companies could keep hourly tabs on how much power, water or cable TV is being consumed and whether a meter is being tampered with. Receiving and transmitting devices for electronic mail — which computer owners already have — could be built into the system.

"It sounds a lot like 'Star Wars,' but the technology is here today," said McKinney.

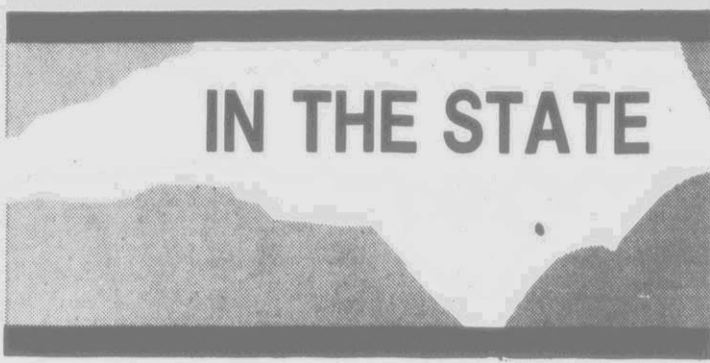

Asked whether it could also begin to sound like "1984" — George Orwell's novel about a future society under constant surveillance — McKinney said no.

U.S. Has Edge On China Sales

By The Associated Press
China, the world's leading producer of flue-cured tobacco, spends more to buy U.S. leaf than it earns on tobacco exported to the United States and probably will buy even more in the future, a spokesman for tobacco interests said Monday.

Dr. Hugh C. Kiger, executive vice president of the Leaf Tobacco Exporters Association, said China last year sent 132,000 pounds of burley tobacco and 70,000 pounds of stem and scrap wastes — no flue-cured leaf — with a total value of $169,000 to the United States.

U.S. tobacco exports to China added up to 70,000 pounds of smoking leaf — about half burley and half flue-cured — worth $274,000.

Wright Anniversary

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — Stepping down from an Army Blackhawk helicopter after retracing Orville Wright's historic flight for the military, Ivonette Wright Miller said she just can't believe her uncle flew his airplane that high.

"I can't imagine anybody being that brave to go to that height at that time, in 1909," said the 88-year-old Mrs. Miller, of Kettering, Ohio.

As part of Monday's ceremonies marking the 75th anniversary of U.S. military flight, Mrs. Miller and other officials boarded the helicopter at Fort Myer, Va., and retraced the flight path that Orville Wright used July 30, 1909, in speed-testing his aircraft. The Wright Military Flyer later became the U.S. Army's first airplane.

The Wright brothers made the world's first flight in a power-driven, heavier-than-air machine on Dec. 17, 1903, at Kitty Hawk, N.C.

During his flight for the armed forces — from Fort Myer to Alexandria, Va., and back — Orville officially met the specifications of a contract with the Army.

Growers, Grace Discuss Damage

RALEIGH (AP) — Several Moore County tobacco farmers said they were told by W.R. Grace officials that they would not lose money on tobacco damaged by the firm's contaminated fertilizer.

Frank Bryant, spokesman for 90 Moore County farmers who claim their tobacco has been damaged by the fertilizer, said, "I really believe that the Grace representatives intend to make this a fair settlement."

Grace voluntarily removed three fertilizers from the market June 13 when 836 tobacco farmers reported curling leaves and premature yellowing of their crops.

Hardest hit was Moore County, where farmers said 1,300 acres of tobacco were affected.

Grace spokesmen have estimated that between 5,000 and 10,000 acres are affected in 20 North Carolina counties.

Four Moore County Farmers met Monday with Grace Co. officials and representatives of Continental National American, the company handling the claims.

Both Bryant and C.D. McWilliams, vice president for marketing at Grace, said after Monday's meeting that the settlement will come after the tobacco is marketed and will be based on the damage suffered in individual cases.

McWilliams said Grace is still trying to determine what caused the contamination. "We've run in excess of 300 chemical analyses on raw materials in our facilities and we haven't found the source yet," he said.

He said the company is not convinced that the premature yellowing of tobacco leaves is related to contaminated fertilizer.

Boaters Rescued

PITTSBORO (AP) — Two Burlington men were rescued Monday after being stranded in the Haw River for more than 24 hours after their canoe capsized.

Rescuers used ropes to pull Kemp M. Loy Jr. and Mike Newsome from the river about 5 p.m.
