Pair Confesses To 18 Killings

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two prisoners have claimed responsibility for killing 18 teen-age girls, and police said the statements were being investigated for links to the Green River killings in Washington and Oregon, a newspaper reported today.

In an interview with the San Francisco Chronicle, Robert Matthias, 25, was quoted as saying he killed "16 and possibly more" women. In a separate interview, inmate Richard Carbone, 32, said he killed two women alone and helped Matthias kill nine others.

Matthias described his victims as street "hustlers" and said he suspected that his mother had worked as a prostitute while he was a child.

The victims "were the type of people I hated the most," he said. "They could have stolen your wallet if you turned your back on them. They had a way of mocking people."

Bob Keppel of the Green River

Task Force refused to comment on the investigation into the men's assertions. But he said King County, Wash., police Detective Paul Smith was being sent to San Francisco to interview the inmates today.

"We'll see what these guys say," he said.

King County Sheriff Vern Thomas called the news "surprising" and added, "We'll just have to check out their story."

San Francisco police also said they would question the men about the statements today.

Carbone is in the city jail on rape and robbery charges. Matthias was arrested on robbery and burglary charges.

Carbone, who telephoned the Chronicle to ask for the interview, said they decided to talk because a friend already had told police everything they were willing to reveal to the newspaper.

For Waste Container Site

County Board OKs Purchase of Tract

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners Monday approved the purchase of an 18.5-acre tract of land on the new Farmville East thoroughfare for use as a solid waste container site.

The cost of the property, owned by Myrtle Tucker of Farmville, was $22,300.

The new site will replace the present Farmville container site which will be used by the state as part of the right-of-way for the new U.S. 264 between Greenville and Wilson.

Although the county does not own the land on which the present container site is located, the county has received just over $44,000 from the Department of Transportation for improvements made to the site.

Commissioners also gave their approval to an $80 million budget for Pitt County Memorial Hospital for fiscal year 1984-1985.

Jack Richardson, PCMH president, told the board that no increase in the number of patient days is projected for the coming year.

However, Richardson explained that part of the 9 percent to 12 percent increase in total revenues expected in the coming year comes from a 5 percent increase in room rates — from $160 a day to $168 a day. "That's the basic change we're making in the budget this year," he said.

Richardson also told the board that a helicopter service is scheduled to begin at PCMH as part of the new budget. Although the helicopter service is not expected to totally support itself the first year, he said the program should be self-supporting during its second year of operation.

"We feel like this plan (budget) is sound and we'll be able to meet our financial obligations for the coming year," Richardson said.

Commissioners took no action on a request by Alert Cable TV, which serves the Farmville area, for a $1.50 a month rate hike — from $7.50 a month to $9 for basic cable service, or on recommendations made by Roger Scott, vice president of Municipal Advisers of Virginia Beach, Va., on a new classification and pay plan for the county.

Scott, reporting on a classification and pay plan study, recommended that commissioners adopt a new pay scale 7½ percent higher than the present scale, and adopt 99 new job descriptions and assign employees to a pay grade as outlined in the study.

Scott pointed out that commissioners have already approved a 7½ percent pay increase to employees for 1984-1985, another of the study's recommendations.

Scott said the total package as recommended — the 7½ percent pay hike, and reclassification of several employees — would cost $225,700, or 9.8 percent more than the $2.3 million payroll for fiscal year 1983-

1984. (The 1984-85 budget adopted by commissioners last month includes 10 percent for salary adjustments, including the 7½ percent across-the-board pay hike and 2½ percent for changes in classification.)

Scott told the board that the recommendations were based in part on a survey of salaries paid by five other counties, three cities and four local industries.

"We found the county generally competitive," Scott said, except in the areas of finance, law enforcement and labor and trades. He suggested that the 7½ percent pay increase was recommended "to keep the county competitive."

Scott also told commissioners, "I think you've done a very good job for your ... employees."

At a luncheon meeting commissioners were told by J.P. Davenport, chairman of the county ABC

Board, that "profit-wise, Pitt County is number six from the top" in the state.

A breakdown of 1983-1984 sales given commissioners showed that the $5.48 million in sales in 1983-84 was up $107,175 from sales in 1982-1983.

The largest volume of sales was at the ABC store on Memorial Drive, which accounted for $1.90 million last year, an increase of $186,258 over 1982-83; while the next highest volume was at the Arlington Boulevard store, which sold $1.31 million worth of liquor ($124,749 more than the previous year).

Third in line was the Cotanche Street store, which had sales totaling $750,481 in 1983-84. But that total was $33,689 less than sales in 1982-83.

The Grifton store was fourth in sales with $446,446 for the year, an increase of $145,142 over 1982-83.

Arrests Followed Undercover Probe

Officials of the Ayden and Greenville police departments this morning released details on the weekend raids of five Pitt County establishments which resulted in 12 people being charged with alcohol sale and drug violations.

Arrests in the Greenville area were limited to alcohol violations, while four people were charged with drug violations in the Ayden area. Two Ayden-area residents were charged with alcohol violations.

According to Ayden Police Chief Tommy Burney, the arrests of George Burney of South Lee Street, Savoy Allen of 1303 Queen St., Danny Garris of Belvedere Court and Curtis Bright, no address listed, on drug charges and Betty Jean Little, also of Ayden, on alcohol charges Friday were the culmination of an Ayden-ALE undercover investigation that was begun in March. Officers of the Greenville Police Department helped with the undercover operation.

George Burney was arrested for prior felonious possession and sale of (Please turn to page 8)

Housing Authority Expects Record Year

By all indications, fiscal 1983-84 should be the Greenville Housing Authority's first "million dollar year." GHA Assistant Director Ken Noland told board members Monday night.

In addition to the projected $1 million in revenues from rentals, Noland reported that the authority is working well within budgetary limitations on all other matters.

Authority Director Joe Laney said that the $1 million operating income figure is 10 percent higher than was estimated at the beginning of the fiscal year. "With operating income projected at $1 million and with operating expenses being held in line, we should finish the fiscal year with a healthy surplus," he added. The authority's fiscal year ends Sept. 30.

In other business, Sallye Streeter, director of resident affairs, reported that the average rent for the authority's six housing projects was $103.16 — rent at Meadowbrook was $108; Kearny Park, $109.28; Moyewood I, $102.61; Moyewood II, $114.50; Hopkins Park, $104.80, and Newtown, $120.86.

She said two units were vacated in July and that those vacancies have already been filled.

Laney told the board that work at the authority's new project (West Meadowbrook) has been held up by inclement weather. "We're 60 to 62 percent complete at this point," he said. "We had projected that 75 percent of the work would be done by now, but the rain really hampered progress on masonry and roofing work."

Physicians Cautious With New Therapy

By CAROL BLACKLEY TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Accutane is a breakthrough, an oral medication that is often a cure for severe cystic acne. It's also risky business, because there are side effects of which users and their doctors need to be fully aware.

Two Greenville dermatologists interviewed say they are prescribing it, but only with close monitoring and only for their most seriously affected patients.

Dr. John Hendrix, a dermatologist in private practice, said he's excited about the possibilities that isotretinoin (Accutane's the brand name used by the Roche Co., which did the research and currently has exclusive selling rights) therapy can offer his patients whose acne is so severe that cysts exist and who have not favorably responded to any other treatment. Even when the acne patient asks that Accutane be tried first, however, he refuses because of the likelihood of such side effects as extreme dryness of body tissues, increased blood lipid count, and danger of damage to the fetus should pregnancy occur in a female patient. He and his partner in medical practice, Dr. Cameron Smith, usually try extensive antibiotic therapy first. About 20 of their patients are now taking Accutane or have taken it and Dr. Hendrix said the results have been very satisfyingly successful.

Dr. Billy Jones, a dermatologist associated with the East Carolina University School of Medicine, said he uses Accutane only as a rigid last resort, and has been favorably impressed with its efficacy when he has prescribed it.

The doctors said they use the therapy only if the patient fully understands the risks and agrees to be closely monitored throughout the treatment which usually lasts 16 to 20 weeks. Female patients must give evidence of taking adequate birth control measures and must agree to, continue birth control for at least two months after the treatment is discontinued.

Accutane is a derivative of Vitamin A, long known to have therapeutic effects on acne but limited in its usefulness because of its toxicity at high doses. It seems to abate the secretions of the sebaceous oil glands.

At intervals throughout treatment, the patient is given periodic blood lipid tests to be sure his or her triglyceride count does not rise and is encouraged to follow a low-fat diet to keep this count down.

A less drastic, yet annoying, effect that often occurs is dryness of the skin, nose and mouth, eye irritation, and peeling of palms of the hands and soles of the feet and cracking of lips. There is sometimes greater than usual susceptibility to sunburn and the excessive sun exposure should be avoided.

Accutane is a relatively expensive treatment because it does require close monitoring, thus many doctors' visits. Dr. Hendrix said the cost of the medication itself is usually about $3 a day. Usually health insurance will cover a portion of the physician's fee, but often the cost of medication will not be covered.

Most of his acne patients range in age, he said, from 14 to 20 years of age. He said it has always been a difficult condition to treat, probably because it is, in his opinion, so multifactorial. He said he believes heredity, hormones, sun exposure, environmental factors, and emotions all have a bearing, but he feels that one eats does not play a part. He said he encourages patients whose acne is not extreme enough to be a candidate for Accutane treatment to keep the skin as clean and free of oil as possible and to get plenty of exercise and rest.

In The Area

Money Taken

Greenville police are investigating the theft of $50 from a house at 1107 Forbes St., reported about 6:09 p.m. Monday.

Officer C.M. Crfledle said the cash was taken from a wallet in a bedroom dresser.

Monday Wrecks

Damages estimated at $1,600 resulted from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Monday afternoon.

Officers said an estimated $500 damage occurred to each of two cars involved in a 3:06 p.m. collision at the intersection of Tenth and Clark streets.

Drivers of the vehicles were identified as Ellis Tyrone Branch of 200 Vance St. and Sheila Faye Matthews of 1400C Hooker Road.

Police charged Branch with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

A truck driven by Robert L. Smith of Clarksville, Ind., collided with a parked car owned by Gregory Leon Brown of 608 Clark St. about 3:33 p.m. on Third Street, 25 feet east of the Washington Street intersection.

Officers set damages at $400 to the car and $200 damage to the truck.

Larceny Charge

Greenville police arrested David Wayne Lancaster, 16, of Route 4, Greenville, on a larceny charge early Monday in connection with the theft of a golf cart from Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

Officer T.V. Woolard said Lancaster was taken into custody about 2:50 a.m. at the intersection of Fifth Street and Moyewood Drive.

In addition to the larceny charge, Lancaster was charged with driving while impaired.

Meeting Cancelled

The August meeting of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission, originally scheduled for Wednesday, has been cancelled. The next meeting will be held on Sept. 12.

Purchase Approved

The City Council unanimously approved the purchase of a tandem asphalt roller during a special call meeting Monday night.

Citing the time element involved, the council elected to award the final bid on the machine to North Carolina Equipment Co. of Greenville. The board received three bids on the roller — $23,974 from North Carolina Equipment Co., $26,978.40 from Arrow Equipment Co. of Greensboro and $23,618 from Interstate Equipment Co. of Raleigh.

The Greenville firm had promised delivery in seven days, Arrow in 90 days and Interstate 90-120 days. The roller will be used in the city's current street resurfacing and patching program.

Pitt GOP Meeting

The Pitt County Republican Party will meet tonight at 8 in the Planters National Bank building, corner of Third and Washington streets.

Class Scheduled

A pesticides recertification class will be held at 4 p.m. Monday on an agricultural extension test plot on the farm of Don Lee, located at the intersection of state roads 1523 and 1529 north of Greenville.

The workshop will cover Granville wilt, local agricultural officials said. For information call Mitch Smith at 752-2934.

VFW Certificates

Louis "Hop" Tyson, local VFW Post commander, recently presented outstanding community service awards to the Greenville Police and Fire-Rescue departments. Accepting the framed certificates were Police Lt. John Ennis and Fire-Rescue Assistant Chief Don Mills.

The activities are part of the VFW's Americanism and Community Service program to recognize outstanding community service organizations and individuals.

Services Planned

Services will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday at First Timothy Free Will Baptist Church, 1104 Douglas Ave.

Bible study will be held at 7 p.m. Friday with Elder Joe Dixon in charge.

A concert featuring the Warren Chapel Gospel Choir will be held at 4 p.m. Sunday with Rodger Ingram as the special guest.

Tax Collections

Budget Cuts Cited For Delays In Weather Services Forecasts

RALEIGH (AP) — Officials of the National Weather Service say budget cuts in Washington, not local failures at Raleigh-Durham Airport, were responsible for weaknesses in the statewide warning system before devastating tornadoes ripped through North Carolina March 28.

Members of a National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration survey team that evaluated the National Weather Service response to the tornadoes agreed that budget cuts led to equipment and personnel weaknesses.

The tornadoes killed 59 people and injured about 1,300 people in North Carolina and South Carolina.

The NOAA report released last weekend said a more sophisticated radar unit would have detected tornadoes that were not picked up on radar at RDU. The report also criticized the lack of a full-time "warning-preparedness meteorologist" at RDU who could work with state and local agencies to set up a storm and flood warning system.

But officials said Monday that the better radar gear would not be available at RDU or other weather service stations nationwide before the end of the decade. Staffing shortages, too, were blamed on budget constraints.

"The idea of having one of those (preparedness meteorologist) positions in each of the forecasting stations would be the ideal," said Richard Augulus, director of the 16-state Eastern regional office of the National Weather Service in Garden City, N.Y.

"When the concept of those preparedness meteorologists was introduced back in the 1970s, it would have been ideal to put one in every office," he said. "But the budgetary process wouldn't allow this."

"From my personal experience, I think it's very important that (weather service) offices be able to have that (preparedness) liaison with the state, the media and the federal government," said James Campbell, an emergency warning meteorologist in Silver Spring, Md., who served on the NOAA survey team.

During the tornadoes, weather service staff members "performed their duties in an excellent manner, no question about that," Campbell said. But he said offices in North Carolina and South Carolina were understaffed when the storms hit.

H&R BLOCK TO OFFER TAX SCHOOL IN GREENVILLE

Thousands of people are saving money at tax time and earning money in their spare time as income tax preparers.

H&R Block, the world's largest income tax preparation service, is offering a basic income tax course starting September 6 with morning, afternoon and evening classes available.

During the 14 week course, experienced Block personnel will teach students all phases of income tax preparation including actual experience in preparing individual returns.

Instruction topics include current tax laws and tax theory and their application as practiced in Block offices nationwide. There is classroom lecture and practice problems on each subject. Courses are programmed to teach students increasingly complex tax problems as study progresses. Students will find the course both practical and challenging and will also be able to use their new skills directly to save money on their own tax returns.

Anyone may enroll. There are no restrictions or qualifications. Courses are ideally suited for housewives, retired persons, teachers, persons wanting to increase their tax knowledge or anyone who files a tax return.

Qualified course graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with Block. However, Block is under no obligation to offer employment, nor are graduates under any obligation to accept employment with H&R Block.

The modest course fee includes all textbooks, supplies and tax forms necessary for completion of the school. Certificates and 7.5 continuing education units will be awarded upon successful completion of the course.

Registration forms and a brochure for the income tax course may be obtained by contacting the H&R Block office at Greenville Square, telephone 756-9365.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

Add cloud-soft fluffiness to a traditional Danish sweater design by knitting it with a brushed acrylic yarn. With a five-stitch-per-inch gauge, however, you can easily substitute knitting worsted-weight yarn if you prefer a heavier sweater. Easy-to-follow directions are for small, medium and large sizes.

This Pat Trexler Original is worked from the neck down on circular needles eliminating most seaming.

To obtain directions for making the Danish Delight Pullover, send your request for Leaflet No. KL-1666 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, The Daily Reflector, P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29597.

Or you may order Kit No. K-1666 by sending a check or money order for $9.50 to Pat Trexler at the same address. The kit price includes shipping charges, brushed acrylic yarn and full instructions. Please specify your choice of one of the following for the main color: ivory, pastel green, tan, yellow, or blue. Coordinating yoke colors are furnished.

Dear Pat: in a recent column, a lady wrote about the attitude of some of her friends concerning the use of synthetic yarns. While not an "old-timer" myself, I have seen the quality of synthetic yarns improve over the years. There are pluses and minuses to everything and yarns are no exception, as you aptly pointed out.

However, you didn't mention allergies. I am allergic to certain dyes regardless of the fiber content, but I know people who are allergic to wool others to synthetics.

I made an Aran afghan for someone dear to me with a synthetic yarn and no one objected to it and have made quite a few other items with wool and no one has yet raved about the material used. Most people don't know or don't care about the difference.

Now, for the real reason for this letter. My main gripe with your column is that, like so many pattern books, you deal only with women's garments. Yeah, I am a guy. So how come we get left out?

Someone I know says that the reason there is so much for women and so little for men is because the vast majority of knitters and crocheters are women.

My suggestion: Why don't you write a book of patterns for men? I enjoy wearing a pullover that I knitted. You wouldn't believe how many times I was told to compliment the "girlfriend, sister, mother, cousin or aunt" who had made it.

I have seen some books with men's apparel in them, but most are still for women. Your writing style and way of clarifying directions is easy for the general reader, and so interesting and informative that I think you would do a great job writing a book for men. At the least, give us a special column once in a while. Please? Thanks for your time and just sign me — A Fan.

Flattery with get you everywhere — but not too quickly in this case. It has been a long time since I have featured any men's patterns, primarily because the response was so low when I did. The reason I can't comply immediately, even with a single pattern, is that it takes a fair amount of time to create a design, photograph it and then write the directions, but I'll try to get something in the works soon.

Good Manners Shown In Note Of Apology

DEAR ABBY: What would you think if someone whom you knew only slightly had sent you a note of apology and signed it "Your obedient servant"?

This person is employed by my husband, and wrote to apologize for having caused a small problem involving me.

CURIOUS IN BUFFALO

DEAR CURIOUS: I would think that person showed good manners to write a note of apology.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing about my long and painful experience as the "wife" of a Filipino immigrant. I met this charming man, fell in love with him, and was courted by him for over a year before he married me in a church wedding.

Now I find out that my "husband" is married to a Filipino woman who is the mother of many children by him. She and her entire family knew that he had entered into a marriage with me, but they kept his secret so his wife in the Philippines could continue to get the money he sends her for their children's education. He promised to support her forever in return for her silence.

After learning that I had been used by this man, whom I sincerely loved and believed that he loved me, I discovered that this happens every day to American women! I am not saying that every foreign man is playing this game, but I want to say to all American women: Do not marry a foreigner until he has taken you back to his country to meet his friends and family. Even if he has a green card and a job that pays good money, he could still have a "real" wife back home.

CALL ME USED

DEAR USED: Thank you for telling your sad story. Too bad you and I will never know how many women will be saved from a similar fate because you cared enough to write.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are expecting our first child soon, and we're constantly "teasing" my father about how we expect him to do some baby-sitting.

He says, jokingly, that he has sat

all the babies he is going to sit. (He already has several teen-age grandchildren.)

Abby, have you any words of wisdom on the responsibilities of grandparents?

WAITING IN LYNCHBURG, VA.

DEAR WAITING: No. But I have a few words of wisdom for you. Although some grandparents consider it a privilege to baby-sit their grandchildren, all the responsibilities of child care belong to the parents.

So quit "teasing" your father about how you expect him to baby-sit and he won't have to tell you "jokingly" not to count on him.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were married recently. We had both been married to former spouses for over 40 years, owned our own homes and had accumulated a lot of household goods. We both sold our large homes, got rid of most of our stuff and moved into a small apartment.

We invited friends and relatives to our wedding to help us celebrate our joy. We requested "no gifts" because we didn't want anything, didn't need anything, and have no room for more "things" in our apartment.

Everyone gave us a gift! Most of the things had to be given away. We received our wedding invitation reproduced in different ways from eight guests. We received three wedding samplers done in needlework, 11 religious engravings and lots of ornamental bric-a-brac we have no room for. It really spoiled our day.

Abby, please tell people that when "no gifts" is stated, to please respect the wishes of the guests of honor, as they have good reason for that request. Thank you.

OLDER BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: People who give gifts out of the goodness of their hearts cannot—and should not—be dissuaded. Quietly dispose of whatever you don't want. One woman's trash is another woman's treasure.

Double Ring Ceremony Takes Place Saturday

Kathleen Mary Knapp and James Edward Bowman II, both of Portales, N.M., were united in marriage Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in St. Boniface of Mainz Episcopal Church in a double ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. William Knapp of Lyndenhurst, Long Island, N.Y. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. James F. Bowman and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Exum, all of Greenville, N.C.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Lessons were read by Mr. and Mrs. David J. Bowman of Wilmington, Del., brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

Denise Balan of Deer Park, N.Y., was honor attendant and the best man was the father of the bridegroom.

Ushers were Stuart S. Bowman and Eric E. Bowman, both of Greenville, and Daniel P. Bowman of Venice, Calif., brothers of the bridegroom.

The couple will live in Portales, N.M., after a wedding trip to Harbour Bay Island, Bahamas.

The bride graduated from the University of New York at Stony Brook and the bridegroom graduated from East Carolina University. Both are master's candidates at Eastern New Mexico University.

A reception was given by the bride's parents and a rehearsal party was given by parents of the bridegroom.

Personal

The Rev. Milton Worthington and family of Madison Heights, Mich., and Jeannette W. Davis of Charlotte and family have returned to their homes after spending their vacations at Peaceful Acres near Ayden visiting their parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Worthington.

DATE: August 11, 1984
BREAKFAST: 9:30 (Buffet, $4.00)
MEETING: 10:00 a.m.
PLACE: Western Sizzlin on 10th Street

AUGUST IS OUR MINISTERING UNTO THE LORD MONTH!

One of the purposes of Women's Aglow Fellowship is to worship, praise, and glorify God in all areas of our lives. This month, we will have some special music, and we will dedicate the bulk of our time to ministering unto the Lord through scriptural praise and worship. We will also give our guest speaker ample time to bring forth the message. God gives us an opportunity to minister unto Him. This month will be set aside for expressing thanksgiving, and talking out love and admiration for our Lord. The Women's Aglow Fellowship is a supernatural spiritual exchange between God and man as they minister with Him through Bible praise and worship. Come and experience this exchange as we offer up to Him, this meeting, with LOVE!

Reprinted by Request: Whatever else history may say about this generation, it will be duly recorded they had great teeth.

I can just see historians digging through the ruins and observing, "Good grief, Professor Harkins, there isn't one overbite... one chipped tooth... a single overlap... What do you suppose that means?"

What they may never know is that behind every successful smile stood a self-sacrificing mother who devoted her life to her child's teeth.

Braces became the status symbol of the '60s and even today outrank cruise control and colored sheets as luxury items. I dedicated myself to love and serve my son's mouth back in the late '60s when a dentist suggested to me that we see an orthodontist.

"Do you like the way your son's mouth looks?" asked the orthodontist.

I shrugged. "It's a little drafty sometimes from being open so much but other than that..."

"Look at it!" he chided. "Do you actually think he can approach adulthood with those teeth?"

"What's the matter with them?"

"Nothing, if he's going to go through life biting necks."

"Sitting in his office week after week reading the Bleeding Gums Journal while my son was being fitted into braces, I heard stories from the other women in the Tooth Cult."

"This is only the beginning," said one. "You'll make so many trips to this office your car will come here automatically."

"You'll have to remind your son to brush morning, noon and night."

"You'll buy 50 toothbrushes in a month which he will lose."

"Wait until he gets into retainers. He'll procrastinate, complain, and lose them every time you turn around."

"You'll find his retainer in lockers, public restrooms, clothes hamper, library books, school buses, bleacher seats, sleeping bags, stuck in taffy..."

One woman said her daughter left her retainer on the plate and it melted with a pastrami sandwich in a microwave oven.

"The worst is when you've gone through eight or nine years of straightening his teeth and he enters into a mixed marriage with a girl with an overbite!"

"Someday," said a woman who never seemed to do anything but write checks and shake her head, "You'll laugh at all this."

"When?" I asked.

She looked at me with tears in her eyes. "Don't pin me down."

Opportunity

We're strongly inclined to the idea of increasing U.S. foreign trade (especially in agricultural products) with China. That field (agriculture) is one of the very few in which this country shows a favorable balance and, as such, it should be promoted. Tobacco falls within that category.

Our views were backed up in recent days by the U.S. agriculture secretary, the tobacco affairs chief for the N.C. Department of Agriculture and further supported by the executive vice president of the Leaf Tobacco Exporters Association ... all of them knowledgeable in the business of agriculture products and their foreign trade value.

Sen. Jesse Helms ridicules the idea and brands Chinese tobacco as a threat to domestic growers.

On the other hand, state tobacco affairs chief John Cyrus (who should know) says flue-cured tobacco the Chinese raise wouldn't even be recognized as tobacco in this country. "It's pitiful," is his description.

American trade with China last year came to a little bit more than $2 billion and agricultural products accounted for 25 percent. Tobacco represented only a small fraction of the whole.

The potential for a much larger tobacco export market to China ... with its huge population ... is very real; and the potential for expansion should multiply with R.J. Reynolds Tobacco International plans to produce cigarettes in China.

It is an opportunity not to be overlooked.

Endorsement

The N.C. Association of Educators' explanation for the deferred endorsement of Gov. Jim Hunt in his U.S. Senate bid rings true. That is, his position on state education needs would be meeting its final test during the short legislative session which saw critical education actions taken by the governor and by the General Assembly. He passed the "test."

Hunt says his recommendations to legislators were consistent with his long-term interest in public schools and were made regardless of any political considerations. The record supports that.

The Legislature added to the 1984-85 budget some $250 million for public schools to give teachers pay raises, cut classroom sizes in grades 4-6, upgrade equipment and materials in science and math labs and spend more on textbooks.

The NCAE's president also called attention to the governor's continued backing of the organization's belief that tuition tax credits would jeopardize "the very existence" of public education.

Of course, there can be no off-the-cuff prejudgment of just what the NCAE endorsement means to the Hunt political campaign. One thing for sure: it will not be negative.

Ferraro Takes Independent Role

CLEVELAND — When Walter Mondale's high command wanted to add a quick campaign stop in Lisa Square's "Little Italy" between LaGuardia Airport and Queens City Hall in New York last week, it got a fast veto from Geraldine Ferraro.

What was surprising was not her aversion to being paraded as the Democratic Party's pet ethnic, but rather the alacrity with which Mondale's buttoned-down operatives genuflected. The Lisa Square rally in the Corona district of Queens was quietly canceled with nobody the wiser, and the Mondale-Ferraro ticket swept directly to City Hall.

That incident contrasted sharply with the relationship between the two nominees in San Francisco less than two weeks earlier. It also confirmed a high-risk tactic by Mondale in seeking to exploit his running mate.

Since being carefully tutored — indeed, shackled — by anxious Mondalites for her first national appearance in accepting the nomination, Gerry Ferraro has broken all the rules. She is shaping a new mold for conduct by a vice-presidential nominee that is likely to have a profound, perhaps decisive effect Nov. 6.

Whatever doubts his top operatives may harbor, Fritz Mondale himself seems happy, with no evidence of worry over being the first presidential nominee every eclipsed by his running mate. He is not by nature jealous or apprehensive and in Ferraro he sees the access for his own entry into the White House. Seeking to cash in on the excitement aroused by Rep. Ferraro, Mondale contemplates joint appearances throughout the campaign — a break with all precedent.

Her gender drives Ferraro's ascent from Throttlebottom nonentity to the glittering target of public and news media focus, but there is more than gender here. What Queens Borough President Donald Manes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dean Rusk, secretary of state through the turbulent Kennedy-Johnson years, came to Capitol Hill to dispense some unconventional wisdom about the conduct of foreign policy.

There is a lot less disagreement between the two major parties about foreign policy than election-year rhetoric would seem to indicate, Rusk told a Senate Governmental Affairs Committee hearing.

The University of Georgia international law professor, now 75, also said government leaks are a lot less harmful than most officials say they are, and only one really got to him during his eight years in office.

Rusk, the 54th secretary of state, served under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson during the Cuban missile crisis and Vietnam War years of 1961 to 1969.

As the campaign season gets going, and the rhetoric over Central America and nuclear arms heats up to the level of a four-alarm fire, Rusk said the two parties basically are not that different.

"If a president goes over on the soft shoulders of the road," he said, "The American people and Congress have a way of nudging them back onto the main highway."

As for splits between the Republican and Democratic parties, Rusk said: "There may be differences in tone, style and emphasis from time to time, but the central interests of the United States do not vary significantly when one party or the other occupies the White House or has a majority in Congress."

He said in his hundreds of meetings with congressional committees and subcommittees, "not once have I ever seen differences of view turn on party lines."

Tensions between Congress and the White House are inevitable, but can be muted by regular meetings, Rusk said. He recommended the president sit down once a month with the bipartisan leadership in Congress to "build up a consensus of understanding," not necessarily to reach decisions.

Rusk said it can be confusing for other nations to hear a "cacophony" of voices from Washington. But he said even when differences are magnified during an election campaign — which he described alternately as "a grand inquest of the nation" and "our quadrennial silly season" — the damage is not usually too great.

"Candidates of both parties will probably say some very foolish things and create a certain amount of confusion at home and abroad," Rusk said. "One could hope that candidates on the campaign trail would be a bit careful about foreign policy matters, but complete prudence would be asking too much."

"Fortunately, when the elections are over, we are inclined to put these partisan debates behind us and follow the policies which are set for our nation as a whole," he added.

On the matter of leaks and secrets, Rusk said he would not like laws restricting disclosure.

"Secrets are not as important as people think," he said. "One of the phoniest arguments in the world is the argument that, 'If you only knew what I knew you'd agree with me.' That's phony."

He said only one leak bothered him during his eight years in office. It is perhaps the remark for which he is best known.

After the Russians backed down during the 1962 Cuban missile crisis and agreed to remove their weapons, Rusk was quoted as saying, "We were standing eyeball to eyeball with the other fellow and I think he just blinked."

He has said on other occasions that the remark leaked during a dangerous crisis where considerations of "face" or prestige could be important, and whoever leaked the remark had no business doing so.

To the editor: My son, Mike Capps, was transferred to Greenville about six weeks ago to manage "Athletic World" at Carolina East Mall. On July 24 he was hit by a truck while jogging.

We have now returned to our small town of Salemburg for him to recuperate. We have brought some very special memories of Greenville with us. From the emergency room personnel at Pitt County Memorial Hospital the night of July 24 (I must mention Dr. Bo Sherwood, who worked on my son until 4 a.m.) who encouraged us and made us feel at ease, to the staff of 105 West, I can't say enough good.

We had visits from people we had barely met, offers of places to stay and many other offers of hospitality.

Greenville is made up of some great people. Thank you so much for making our stay there so much better by being so nice.

To the editor: Forty-two years ago on Aug. 7, 1942, Claude Manning of Greenville, North Carolina, who had just turned 21 on Aug. 2, was in the first wave that stormed ashore at Guadalcanal in the Solomon Islands. He was in Company B, First Battalion, of the 1st Marine Division. This was a long and bloody battle. The Marines were well-trained, but poorly equipped because, at that time, the United States was not prepared to go to war. They fought with World War I-type rifles and had World War I-type helmets. ... The Japanese had the elite and had the control of the sea and the air and they would bomb and strafe the Marine positions nightly. Eventually, Guadalcanal was conquered by the joint efforts of the Marines and the Army.

Manning was also in three other invasions in the South Pacific. They were: New Guinea, New Britain, and his last invasion was Palau Islands. We needed these islands desperately for an airfield. This was another terrible battle. Manning's company of men got caught in a crossfire and were surrounded. Only two men in the company survived this horrible battle — Manning was one of them. When Manning returned to headquarters, he was so exhausted that he passed out. The next morning when he awoke, he was on the battleship North Carolina. He was examined by the doctors who reported that he had had all the battles one man could have. He was transferred to Paris Island, S.C., to train Marine recruits. He was decorated many times for his valor in action, including the Silver Star and his unit received three presidential citations.

To the editor: Three important gifts to share with your children are these: 1. The first gift is that of a happy home and the underlined word here is happy. Homes should be a haven to which children gladly return, rather than a prison from which they yearn to escape. Parents are 98 percent responsible for creating that happiness. ... Out of these ingredients comes a happy home. ...

2. The second gift comes right out of this. It is your gift to your child of self esteem. You raise that child in such a way that he believes he is of value. You speak to her and share with her in such a way that she believes down deep that she is lovable and capable — a child of God with God's spirit in her!

3. And the third gift: Personal example. You can take all of your words about what you think is important, all your rules, all your instructions and guidelines and scoldings and put them on one side of a scale and the whole collection is far outweighed by one act the child sees you doing. Personal example is the bottom line of parental strategy. The toughest problems some children face are those of learning good manners without ever seeing any, learning to be good citizens, good church men and women, good husbands and wives, without the benefit of personal example from mom and dad.

Congress Can Be Attractive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the attractive side benefits of serving in Congress is that after several years on Capitol Hill, legislators qualify for comfortable lifetime pensions.

A study released recently by the National Taxpayers Union showed just how comfortable those pensions can be. In fact, last year congressional pensions cost taxpayers $13 million. That compares to a congressional payroll of $36.8 million.

The group says 374 former members of Congress get benefits. The study didn't even include benefits paid to survivors of congressmen, who also qualify.

Because of the way the pensions are structured, five men, including former Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore Sr. and former Mississippi Sen. James Eastland, are making more per year than they would if they were still serving in Congress.

"A pension system that allows someone to make more money not working than working is fundamentally flawed," said NTU chairman Jim Davidson. "The taxpayer would not knowingly support such a system."

A score of former Southern lawmakers are collecting more than $50,000 a year from Uncle Sam. And five, including Gore and former Alabama Sen. Lister Hill, have collected more than $500,000 in pension funds since leaving Congress.

Gore, father of current Tennessee Rep. Albert Gore Jr., a senatorial candidate, served in Congress for 32 years, which accounts for his high pension benefits because the longer one serves, the higher the pension. He's made $649,932 in pensions since leaving Washington, the study said.

Hill who left Congress in 1938 and has had a lot of years to collect pensions, is close behind with $647,637 lifetime. Former Mississippi Rep. Thomas Abernethy, a 30-year congressional veteran who left Washington in 1973, has collected $572,127.

Others who have made more than $500,000 include former Florida Sen. George Smathers ($535,656) and former North Carolina Rep. Charles Jonas ($517,192).

calls her "warmth and energy" and her "feisty political feel" dictates quick political reactions that grab headlines. By giving her full reign, Mondale risks a serious mistake that could sink the ticket. But he is committed to a high-risk strategy as the only way to beat Ronald Reagan.

Risky or not, Mondale has unbound Ms. Ferraro from many of the conventional restraints imposed on vice-presidential nominees. When a proposed Ferraro campaign schedule was forwarded a week ago from Minnesota, Ms. Ferraro and her new top aide, versatile Democratic politician Anne Wexler, ignored it. The implication: She is not about to accept scheduling orders from the Mondale camp without full and prior consultation.

Before their joint campaign swing began, the fine political feel praised by Ms. Ferraro's old Democratic pals in Queens was displayed when she rebuked the Rev. Jesse Jackson without a word of warning to Mondale's fishing camp in Minnesota. That seemed to be gambling with the black vote, but it fit the mood of party leaders — black and white — who have come to the end of the tether with Jackson. "I wish we had said that," a key Mondale aide told us on the Mondale-Ferraro campaign plane Tuesday. "It was what the doctor ordered."

Late that day the vice-presidential nominee privately displayed another side of Ferraro unbound. Following lethargic set speeches to the Urban League's national convention here, Mondale and Ms. Ferraro went to Public Square in downtown Cleveland for a voter registration rally. Gov. Richard Celeste informed Ms. Ferraro that he would be introducing her. She said thanks, but no thanks. Rep. Ferraro wanted her congressional sister, Cleveland's Rep. Mary Rose Oaker.

After Rep. Oaker indeed introduced her, the candidate did a little dance to rock music as she approached the microphone. The crowd loved it. This was authentic Ferraro, emerging from the Mondalite cocoon at San Francisco that dictated the slow-motion delivery of her acceptance speech. In urban, ethnic Cleveland, at least, the spontaneity of a couple of dance steps stole the show.

With the traditional Labor Day kick-off start moved up to late July, organization for a campaign to exploit Ms. Ferraro's charms is lacking and may never be fully achieved. What is different about the campaign thus far is not disorganization but the many new opportunities to take the spotlight away from the old Hollywood trouper in the White House. Giving Ms. Ferraro her head, with all its risks, is Mondale's most important and so far most successful tactical decision.

Strength For Today

"The highbrows are wrecking civilization."

A prominent evangelist made this statement recently. He was speaking particularly about educators. Pointing out the alarming fact that a boy or girl can go through school or college today and hear practically nothing about the relationship of the Creator to his created universe, he declared that in our mad rush to uncover scientific truth we often miss spiritual truth which is even more important.

We demand to know the truth about everything, and then stubbornly refuse truth concerning spiritual matters because it does not fit into our scientific modes of thought.

Religion is based on revealed truth. Some of this is amenable to scientific approach, but most of it is not. It has to be taken on faith. Its soundness is demonstrated in its use — practically, not abstractly. In the scientific realm, seeing is believing; in the religious, believing is seeing.

Tonkin Gulf

Twenty years ago today, the U.S. Congress gave President Lyndon Johnson authority to "take all necessary measures" to repel armed attacks against U.S. forces in Vietnam. The measure was called the Tonkin Gulf Resolution since it was a response to a North Vietnamese attack on a U.S. destroyer in the Gulf of Tonkin off the coast of North Vietnam. Soon after this incident, America's rapid military build-up in Vietnam began. By 1967, troop levels reached 475,000.

DO YOU KNOW — In what year did South Vietnam finally surrender to North Vietnam?

Supertanker Hit By Iraqi Missile

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Iraq said its warplanes attacked a "big naval target" south of Iran's Kharg Island oil terminal today, and shipping sources confirmed that a supertanker was hit in the northern sector of the Persian Gulf.

The missile attack broke a four-week lull in the so-called "tanker war" waged on neutral shipping in the gulf by war rivals Iran and Iraq.

A Dutch salvage company identified the tanker as the Greek-owned Friendship L. Henk Drenth, a spokesman for the Smit International salvage firm, said the Liberian-registered tanker was hit about 24 miles south of Kharg Island as it was heading away with a full load of oil. It was the first confirmed attack on a commercial ship in the Persian Gulf since July 9.

Shipping sources in the region said the distress signals picked up from the tanker did not indicate the extent of damage the vessel sustained. Salvage tugs were dispatched from Bahrain to help the tanker, but a spokesman at Lloyds of London said a fire aboard the 122,945-ton vessel was under control and the ship was continuing under its own power.

In a shore-to-ship telephone conversation with authorities in Bahrain, the second mate of the tanker said the crew of nine Pakistanis and 15 Greeks were "all right." He said the wife of the captain was aboard and also was uninjured. The tanker was sailing under its own power to the United Arab Emirates for repairs, the mate said.

The Bahrain-based Gulf News Agency quoted an Iraqi military spokesman as saying the target was hit in late morning and sustained "direct and effective" damage.

All Iraqi planes returned safely to base after "achieving their duty with extreme success," the spokesman said.

Iraq has been bombing shipping going to and from Kharg Island in an attempt to cripple Iran's oil-based economy. Iraq's shipping access to the gulf was cut off shortly after the war broke out in September 1980.

Today's attack came less than 24 hours after Iraq's deputy prime minister, Taha Yassin Ramadan, vowed to tighten the blockade on Kharg Island to undermine Iran's war effort.

North Korea Picks Leader

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea's official radio station has confirmed for the first time that Kim Jong Il will succeed his 72-year-old father, Kim Il Sung, as president.

In a broadcast monitored Monday night by Japan's Radio Press monitoring agency, Radio Pyongyang said the father-to-son power transfer — the first of its kind in a communist country — "has been internationally acknowledged." It did not say when the change would occur.

Kim Il Sung has ruled North Korea since 1945, when the peninsula was freed from 35 years of Japanese rule but was divided along the 38th parallel to facilitate the disarming of Japanese forces at the end of World War II.

Little is known outside North Korea about the younger Kim, who was first appointed to the powerful 13-member Communist Party Central Committee in 1973.

He now is a member of the Presidium of the Politburo, a member of the Military Committee, and secretary of the Central Committee.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Daniel Ortega, leader of the Sandinista junta, says the leftist government will relax press censorship, restore the right to strike and allow people to petition the courts for release from jail.

His announcement, during a speech Monday night, came the same day that the opposition newspaper La Prensa did not publish because government censors rejected stories about political violence and other events related to the Nov. 4 presidential election.

Picture a computer under $1000 that runs over 1000 of the best programs written for the IBM PC.

Now picture this.

There's a lot that's new about PCjr and it's all good news for you.

PCjr now has a lower price. A new typewriter-style keyboard. A new option that can give user memory a dramatic boost.

And new business and personal programs to add to its fast-growing library of up-to-date programs.

All of which can make PCjr the most useful computer a little money can buy.

It comes standard with 128KB of user memory — twice the memory of its most popular competitor. An advanced 16-bit processor. And a double-sided diskette drive that can store over twice as much information as most single-sided drives.

With all these features, PCjr can run over a thousand of the most popular programs written for the IBM PC. And with the new optional 128KB Memory Expansion Attachment, it can run over a thousand more.

PCjr also runs a growing number of powerful cartridge programs. They work faster than diskettes, and don't take up a bit of user memory.

The three newest examples being Lotus 1-2-3™, the fascinating PCjr ColorPaint and Managing Your Money™ by financial expert Andrew Tobias.

As its library of software keeps growing, PCjr keeps growing, too. By leaps and bounds. Because IBM designed it with I3 ports for add-on options. And a modular construction that will accept new capabilities down the road. Even those that haven't been invented yet.

All this in a computer that weighs a mere 10 pounds.*

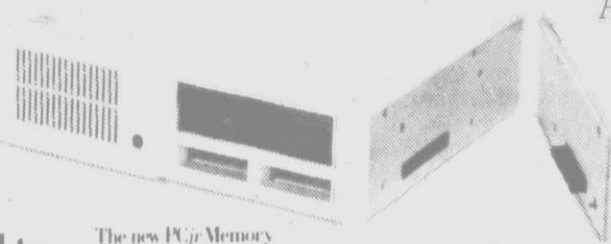

More computer for your money.

The new PCjr Memory Expansion Attachment can give memory a quick lift to 256KB. Or, along with a PCjr Power Expansion Attachment, all the way to a whopping 512KB.

PCjr runs diskettes and cartridges, giving you access to many of the newest and most popular programs.

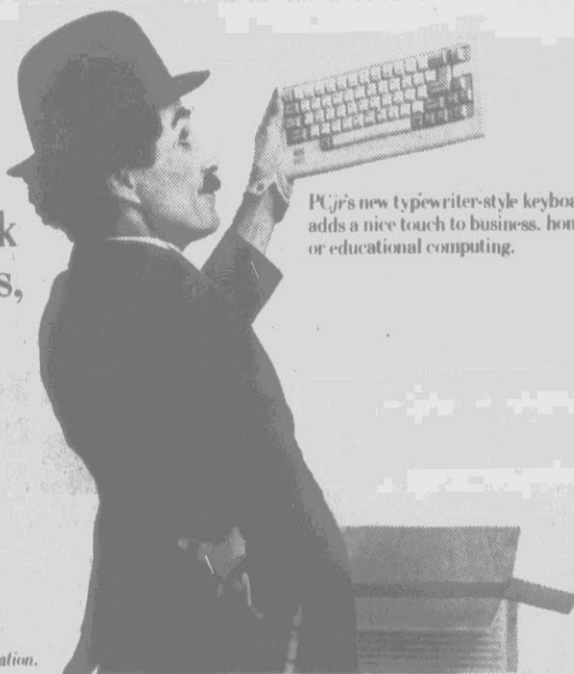

With its standard 128KB memory, PCjr can run the sophisticated and powerful Lotus 1-2-3™ in its new cartridge form (available this fall).

Managing Your Money™ by Andrew Tobias, new on cartridge for PCjr, is a comprehensive personal financial advisor and manager.

Turn your screen into a canvas. The new cartridge program, PCjr ColorPaint, lets you create with the added dimension of color.

PCjr's new typewriter-style keyboard adds a nice touch to business, home or educational computing.

Sows: (500 pounds up) Wilson 44.00; Fayetteville 44.00; Whiteville 44.00; Wallace 44.00; Spivey's Corner 44.50, Rowland 44.00.

BROILERS: The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 49.00 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pound birds. The final weighted average is 49.32 cents f.o.b dock or equivalent. The market is generally steady and the live supply is moderate for a moderate demand. Average weights desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Tuesday was 1,765,000, compared to 1,846,000 last Tuesday.

HENS: Market higher. Supply light to moderate. Demand good. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds at farm for Monday and Tuesday slaughter was 17 cents.

GRAIN: No. 2 yellow shelled corn slightly higher at mostly 3.42-3.59 in East and mostly 3.59-3.73 in the Piedmont; No. 1 yellow soybeans slightly higher at mostly 6.28-6.66 in the east and mostly 6.30-6.35 in the Piedmont; wheat mostly 3.33-3.57; (new crop corn 2.75-3.05; soybeans 5.97-6.26).

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market lapsed into a broad decline today, giving up some of its recent dramatic gains.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 8.39 to 1,194.57 in the first half hour.

Losers took a 3-1 lead over gainers in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said an upturn in interest rates this week took a lot of the momentum out of the market's recent rally.

Rates on bonds and short-term money market investments, which have fallen over the past several weeks, headed higher Monday and edged up a bit further in early activity today.

Brokers also noted that concern over the prospective longevity of the rally in stock prices increased Monday, when the market fell back after a strong early advance.

Average for day was up $8.06. Some bids are (I) incomplete, preliminary and subject to revision.

Panelists Challenge 'Sting' Advantages

CHICAGO (AP) — The government's reliance on large cash bribes and unscrupulous informers in some "sting" operations "would cause even normally law-abiding citizens to commit a crime," panelists told an American Bar Association workshop.

"The monetary inducements being made to the targets of these investigations is becoming greater and greater," said Michael Monaco, a Chicago criminal defense lawyer who was one of five panelists at the ABA workshop on Monday.

"And the efforts are not to see if the target will commit a crime, but to get him to commit a crime," he said. "An informant's monetary success is limited or his success as an informant is limited if he fails and he knows that."

Former Watergate special prosecutor James F. Neal concurred, saying that the "quality and quantity of police work" should be a factor in determining a defendant's innocence or guilt in cases resulting from undercover operations.

"If you've seen any of the videotapes (resulting from such investigations), the room is always dark and everybody looks sinister," said Neal, who also served as counsel for the Senate Select Committee reviewing the government's Abcam prosecutions.

"And the proof that the defendant was pre-disposed to some criminal act now seems to be nothing more than the fact that he took the bait," Neal said.

"We need more protection for the defendants in these cases," he said. "And one of the (defenses) available to them should be a determination whether these efforts would cause even normally law-abiding citizens to commit a crime."

In one of the best known cases resulting from an undercover "sting," automaker John De Lorean was charged with conspiring to distribute $24 million of cocaine.

The defense in De Lorean's trial has challenged the government's techniques and motives in the sting. Defense attorney Donald Re said Monday during closing arguments that De Lorean was "manipulated ... conned" by federal narcotics agents. Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Perry, however, called the investigation "creative narcotics enforcement, nothing else."

Neal said the Justice Department guidelines for how law enforcement agencies should conduct such matters are "merely recommendations" that are often disregarded by law enforcement officials. He said legislation similar to that drawn up by the select committee is needed to curb abuses.

But U.S. Attorney Dan Webb, who is serving as chief prosecutor in cases arising from the government's Operation Greylord investigation of corruption in the Cook County courts, disagreed that further controls were needed.

"We spent 18 months planning this thing and we emphasized two points in those guidelines — a great deal of thought and planning, and absolute control (over the investigators)," he said.

"No undercover agents did anything except breathe without first meeting with our attorneys. ... It has been a learning process," he added. "But let time march on a little bit."

Undercover operations, Webb said, "are a tool that tends to enable law enforcement agencies to keep up with the times."

Of the 17 people indicted in Operation Greylord, two have been convicted after trials, two have pleaded guilty and three others planned to plead guilty, Webb said. A judge was found innocent of all charges in the probe Monday.

Economist Contends Deficit Won't Slow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress' chief economist says the booming economy will not grow quickly enough to wipe out the record federal deficit without spending cuts, more tax increases or a combination of the two.

"I can't say it's impossible but I can say it's improbable," Rudolph Penner, director of the Congressional Budget Office, said Monday of the argument by some conservatives that Congress should do nothing about the deficits except step back and let the economy grow.

CBO expects this year's deficit to total $172 billion, down from last year's $195 billion, but predicts that by 1989 the red ink will hit $263 billion in the absence of additional spending reductions, tax increases or both. Without significant action to cut the deficit, CBO says, interest rates will remain unusually high.

There was some good news in the report: CBO looks for inflation to remain low for the next 18 months and for unemployment in 1985 to average less than this year.

Over the next 18 months, Penner said, CBO expects the economy to continue "quite outstanding" growth. He added: "But it is very unlikely the growth rate would be big enough to bring the deficit to satisfactory levels. ... It will take significant legislative actions to have a big change" in the deficit.

Penner said the deficit poses a less ominous problem for the economy than it did in February — when CBO issued its last forecast — but only because in the meantime Congress has approved a package of tax increases and spending.

The report forecast a budget deficit totaling $126 trillion from 1984 through 1989, compared with $1.43 trillion in the CBO estimate made last February. The reduction is due chiefly to Congress' actions, CBO said.

The Reagan administration's Office of Management and Budget will issue its own revised forecasts later this week. White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Monday the OMB "will project much lower deficits," mainly because "the CBO, as usual, assumes lower growth rates than we are assuming."

Volume Up In Farmville

FARMVILLE — With two sets of buyers on the Farmville Tobacco Market, volume of sales was heavy Monday, according to Georgia Willoughby, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

She said market conditions showed an improvement over the close of sales on Thursday and prices on most grades were generally higher than those paid last week. Stabilization receipts were up only slightly from the first two days of sales, but are running considerably lower than early in the 1983 season.

The top bid of the day was $2.05, with most grades ranging between $1.55 and $1.75. The Farmville market sold 738,023 pounds of tobacco Monday for $1,238,056.41, for an average of $167.75 per hundred. To date, the market has sold 1,670,802 pounds for $2,682,408.51 for a season average of $160.55.

The season average for the same day last year was $154.68, Mrs. Willoughby said.

Fans Angered By Lewis' Passes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carl Lewis said he was sore. He wasn't half as sore as a lot of folks in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum who paid premium prices, hoping to see a world record.

When Lewis stepped up to receive his second gold medal of the Summer Olympics Monday night, he was loudly cheered and mildly booed. He responded by gently applauding his triumph, a 28-foot, 1/4-inch leap on his first — and only legal — long jump.

It was far different earlier in the evening when boos outweighed the cheers in intensity, washing over him as he strode from the field.

His victory was intact. But so was Bob Beamon's record, the incredible 29-2 1/2 set in the rarefied atmosphere of Mexico City 16 years ago.

Lewis said he had no intention of jumping any more than necessary — a decision with which Beamon wholly agreed — because he was hurting, the result of a long day during which he also qualified for the 200-meter semifinals.

Monday ended with the United States owning 101 medals, 46 of them gold. Romania and West Germany were tied for second in total medals with 33 apiece, Romania the runner-up in gold with 16.

Gold went to Canada's Silvio Bernier, who defeated silver winner Kelly McCormick of Columbus, Ohio, and bronze medalist Christina Seufert of Ann Arbor, Mich., in the women's springboard diving.

It also went to West German weightlifter Rolf Miller, to Finnish hammer thrower Juha Tiainen, to Alberto Cova of Italy in the 10,000 meters, to Doina Melinte of Romania in the women's 800 meters and to Byeong-Keun Ahn of South Korea in lightweight judo.

Track and field took today off with major attention turning to Greg Louganis of Mission Viejo, Calif., in the men's springboard diving preliminaries, the U.S. women's gold-medal games in basketball against South Korea and volleyball against China and the U.S. men's non-medal championship baseball game against Japan.

There were those in the Coliseum crowd who paid double or even triple the $45 face value for a track and field ticket, expecting to see records fall. Five did — all Olympic records, none a world mark.

And none the one they wanted. — In the 110-meter hurdles, Roger Kingdom of Pittsburgh was clocked in 13.20 seconds to lead a 1-2 U.S. finish, upsetting world record-holder Greg Foster of Los Angeles, who for years had run in the shadow of Renaldo Nehemiah.

— In the women's 400 meters, Valerie Brisco-Hooks of Los Angeles set a mark of 48.43, also leading a 1-2 American finish as Chandra Cheeseborough of Jacksonville, Fla., won the silver. It was the first U.S. women's medal ever in the event.

— In the men's 800, Joaquim Cruz of Brazil was timed in 1 minute, 43 seconds, beating Briton Sebastian Coe and Earl Jones of Inkster, Mich.

Steve Ovett, also of England, the event's defending champion, was last in the final and was hospitalized with a form of bronchitis.

— In the semifinals of the women's 400 hurdles, Sweden's Anne Louise Skoglund broke her own mark, set in an earlier heat, with a time of 55.17.

— In the women's javelin, Tessa Sanderson of Great Britain won with a record toss of 228-2.

In effect, Lewis won his second gold on his first try, matching the winning jump by East Germany's Lutz Dombrowski at the American-boycotted 1980 Moscow Games.

Lewis fouled on his second attempt. As one competitor after another tried in vain to match his footprints in the sand, Lewis sat or strolled impassively nearby, passing on one round after another, four in all. Gary Honey of Austria was second and Giovanni Evangelista of Italy third, each jumping 27-0 1/2 with Honey getting the silver based on a better second-best jump.

"If someone had jumped farther," Lewis said later in a statement released by Olympic officials, "I would not have come back. I was sore after the second jump. That was it. ... Today has been very, very hard because of the 200s in the morning."

Beamon watched Lewis on television. "He was smart. ... Six jumps take a lot out of a man physically," he said after Lewis passed for the last time. "Carl is right in conserving his energy for his final two events. ... It's more important for him to win four gold medals and match Jesse Owens' record than risk an injury going all out for a world record."

Lewis, of Willingboro, N.J., who won the 100-meter gold last Saturday and will anchor the 400 relay next Saturday, didn't have to go anywhere near all out to get into Wednesday's 200 semifinals. He hoped home in 21.02 seconds in the qualifying heat and eased to a 20.48 in the quarterfinal. Kirk Baptiste of Beaumont, Texas, and Thomas Jefferson of Cleveland also won in the quarters.

The U.S. men's basketball team moved into Wednesday's semifinals against Canada by beating West Germany 78-67, guard Steve Alford scoring 17 points and Michael Jordan 14.

The United States also moved closer to gold in water polo, defeating the Netherlands 8-7; Oddibe McDowell's two-run homer and Cory Snyder's two-run double led the United States' 5-2 semifinal baseball victory over South Korea; Spain edged the United States 17-16 in men's team handball; Australia defeated the American men's field hockey team 2-1, and Brazil swept the U.S. men's volleyball team 15-10, 15-11, 15-2.

In boxing, light middleweight Frank Tate of Detroit and welterweight Mark Breland of Brooklyn, N.Y., scored unanimous decisions and heavyweight Henry Tillman of Los Angeles stopped Kalig Singh of India in the first round.

Synchronized swimming, sort of like melted ice dancing, made its Olympic debut and tennis, a demonstration sport this year, its return after a 60-year absence.

The U.S. synchronized swimming duet — Tracie Ruiz of Bothell, Wash., and Candie Costie of Seattle — took the lead over Canada and Japan.

Kathy Horvath of Chicago, the top women's tennis seed, swept past Petra Huber of Austria. Jimmy Arias of Buffalo, N.Y., the No. 1 men's seed, plays today. Horvath and Arias are pros but, under rules instituted for these Games only, are allowed to participate since they are under 21. Tennis will become a medal sport in the 1988 Olympics.

McCormick had hoped to duplicate the gold-medal performance her mother, Patty, achieved in 1952 and again four years later. Instead, Bernier gave Canada its first women's springboard gold ever, amassing 530.70 points to McCormick's 527.46.

The turning point, literally, was the eighth of the 10 dives, a reverse 2 1/2 somersault in the tuck position. Bernier scored 60.48 points to McCormick's 51.24. "I kicked too high on the dive and did a Hawaii Five-0," she said. "That's a washout."

Kingdom got the jump on Foster at the starting gun and never lost the edge. "Greg came over and congratulated me and said, 'This is a once-in-a-lifetime dream,'" Kingdom said. "He told me he was happy for me."

Brisco-Hooks culminated a two-year comeback that began following the birth of her child. "Going across the line was the ultimate," she said. "It was like all the work had finally paid off."

Valkyries Set Physicals, Tryouts

HOLLYWOOD — Physicals for volleyball and other girls' sports at D.H. Conley High School will be held Thursday at 6 p.m.

The athletes are requested to meet at that time in the gym lobby.

Tryouts for volleyball will be held Wednesday, August 15 at 6 p.m. in the Viking gym, according to Coach Martha McCaskill.

Lewis' Gamble Defended

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Track and field rules say you get six chances in the long jump. They also say you don't have to take them all. And Carl Lewis knows the rules.

So, Lewis decided to play a high-stakes game of Olympic poker with the world's best jumpers and made it pay off with another gold medal.

His reward was a razzing.

Chasing a four gold-medal dream at the 1984 Games, Lewis took his chances in a dangerous test of nerves and survived when no one could match his first jump Monday night. He had sailed 28 feet, 1/4 inch on that attempt, and after fouling on his second try, decided to let the field try to catch him if it could.

If you want the gold, Lewis was telling the others, there it is. Take it if you can.

It was a dangerous gamble as Lewis decided to pass on three jumps, preferring to jog easily at the side of the track and let the others go sailing into the pit.

"I was sore after the second jump," he said on a tape recording played by the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee for the press. "Regardless of what happened — if someone had jumped farther than I, I wouldn't have come back."

So there was the dream of four golds, dangling delicately in the balance. But, for four rounds, none of the other jumpers came close. Lewis seemed impassive, almost disinterested, as time after time, the others dashed down the track and tried.

Three times, Lewis passed on jumps, and through each round, his lead stood. Finally, the competition came down to two last jumpers — Lewis and teammate Larry Myricks would complete the event.

Again, Lewis chose to pass.

It was the ultimate challenge: The medal was Myricks' for the taking. His personal best of 28-1 would have delivered it and the 28-year-old from Chino, Calif., knew it. "I thought of that," he said. "It crossed my mind on the last jump."

Myricks took a deep breath and charged down the track. He did not foul, but that was about the only thing right with his attempt. It was 20-7 1/4, well short of Lewis. The gold belonged to King Carl.

But there was no gleeful exultation for Lewis this time, no joyous jog around the track, no flag waving. Instead, the fans booed him. Winning, it seems, is not enough for Lewis. He must win dramatically, impressively, with record-challenging efforts, or else, it just won't do.

Many fans thought Lewis would take a shot at Bob Beamon's awesome Olympic and world record of 29-2 1/2 set in the 1968 Games at Mexico City. He has, after all, twice reached 28-1 1/4, well within hailing distance of Beamon's incredible accomplishment. And what better showcase for it than the Olympic Games?

Myricks offered some insight on Lewis and the record book.

"I think if he kept jumping, he wouldn't have surpassed the record anyway," he said. "I really don't blame him for not jumping anymore. He's run a lot of races already. Just from looking at him, he really doesn't look like he does when he's jumping 28-10."

So Lewis settled for a mortal 28-1 1/4, merely tying the second best long jump in Olympic history. That is hardly a jump that ought to be booed.

Some of the reaction may have come from fans who interpreted Lewis' passing as a slap in the face for the field. Did Myricks think it was insulting? "Not to me," he said.

So, the crowd response hardly seemed justified. Lewis was using a little strategy, taking his chances, gambling with gold. Records are not guaranteed when he steps on the track. His achievements may have spoiled the fans, who now seem to want more than just routine wins from him.

Mahler Shuts Out Dodgers

By The Associated Press

The Atlanta Braves, who have missed Phil Niekro all season long, finally got him back — just when they didn't need him.

The 45-year-old knuckleballer returned to Atlanta Monday for Phil Niekro Night at Fulton County Stadium. After the ceremonies, Rick Mahler went out and twirled a shutout, beating the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-0.

The comparatively youthful Mahler, who celebrated his 31st birthday on Sunday, not only did his best to upstage the man of the hour, he lowered his ERA to 2.58 to move past Phil's brother Joe into the National League's top five.

"I felt pretty good when we got that second run," said Mahler, 8-6, whose teammates have given him a total of only seven runs in the six games he has lost.

The Dodgers touched Mahler for eight singles and a double, but couldn't push a run across.

"That's not the best way to pitch, having men on base all the time," Mahler said. "But when I had to make the pitch to get the man out, I did."

Center fielder Dale Murphy chipped in with a crucial pitch of his own, nailing Ed Amelung at the plate after the Dodgers' third first-inning hit.

The Braves scored their runs while Claudell Washington was grounding into a double play and a forceout.

Rafael Ramirez single and scored in the first as Washington bounced into a double play. Mahler scored the second after singling in the fifth. Ramirez and Randy Johnson singled him to third and he scored on Washington's grounder.

"I am a Braves fan and always will be," said Niekro, whose number 35 was retired in the pregame ceremony.

Padres 1, Reds 0

Kevin McReynolds doubled with two out in the top of the ninth and scored on Luis Salazar's single, sending the Padres to their third straight victory and 11th in 13 games.

Salazar's single was the seventh hit off Reds starter Joe Price, 5-8, as Cincinnati lost 1-0 for the fifth time this season and third time in nine games.

Thurmond struck out nobody in seven innings, while Gossage whiffed five of six batters.

"It's the difference between 85 mph and 95 mph," Thurmond said. "I'm throwing 85 or 86 mph, and I heard Goose was throwing 97 mph last week. It's a whole different ballgame."

"We probably complement each other. They see one guy who hits the corners, then another guy who blows them away. I wouldn't want to hit against him."

Astros 8, Giants 0

Knepper scattered six hits for his third shutout of the season and third straight victory while capping Houston's six-run sixth inning with a two-run double.

"It has been a long time," said Knepper, 10-3, who hadn't won 10 games since 1978. "Tonight, I had the best rhythm I've had in a long, long time."

Knepper's double followed a run-scoring double by Craig Reynolds, a run-producing single by Denny Walling, and Enos Cabell's two-run homer to left off losing pitcher Bill Laskey, 6-10.

Cubs 9, Mets 3

Jody Davis drove in four runs with a homer, a double and a sacrifice fly as Chicago won its third straight and ninth in 11 games and opened a 1 1/2-game lead over the second-place Mets in the NL East.

"These are the guys we're going to have to pull away from — I think everybody gets pumped up a little," said Davis.

Dwight Gooden, 9-8, struck out six in the four innings he worked to take the NL lead with 171, but he was rapped for eight hits, including six for extra bases.

"He's got such good stuff that you can't look for one pitch and hit another," said Davis, whose homer came on a curveball. "He made me look bad on some curve balls in New York last week so I was expecting to see some curves from him today."

Phillies 4, Expos 2

Juan Samuel and Von Hayes stroked run-scoring singles in a three-run eighth inning. Two wild pitches by Expos starter Charlie Lea, 14-7, also contributed to the three-run rally that made a winner of Steve Carlton, 10-5, who allowed six hits, struck out four and walked nobody. Lea lost his third straight start.

Gary Carter tied it 1-1 in the bottom of the seventh with his 22nd homer of the season. The game was delayed by rain after the first inning for an hour and 43 minutes.

Pirates 3, Cardinals 2

The Pirates scored their first victory in 10 tries this season against the Cardinals as Johnny Ray's eighth-inning double scored Marvell Wynne from second.

Ray also helped the Pirates knot the contest at 2-2 in the sixth inning. Following his single, Jason Thompson blasted his 12th home run.

Larry McWilliams, 7-8, outdueled Joaquin Andujar with ninth-inning help from Kent Tekulve, who earned his ninth save.

Canada Tops Italy, Aims At U.S.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Canadian basketball players, cherishing their 78-72 upset of 1980 silver medalist Italy, now go after bigger Olympic game — the unbeaten United States.

The Canadians think they can pull off another stunner. And, they could be right, if the Americans play as they did in a 78-67 triumph over West Germany in another quarterfinal Monday night.

"This was just not a good performance for us. We had a lack of concentration on what we were doing," said U.S. Coach Bobby Knight after watching the Americans struggle through their closest game here.

But before Knight's squad takes to the court again, the U.S. women make their bid for the team's first-ever gold medal. They meet South Korea, which they beat by 37 points last week, tonight at the Forum in the title game.

Depth has been the biggest factor for the U.S. women's team in the Olympic tournament. The Americans have ripped five preliminary-round opponents by an average margin of 33 points with their merry-go-round substitutions.

South Korea is 4-1, and Coach Seung-Young Cho suggested his players did not try so hard in their loss to the Americans.

"To be honest with you, we didn't want to use all our strength. We'll do our best in the gold medal-game and show how good we are," he said.

But Don McCrae, coach of the Canadian women's team that will play China for the bronze, predicted the South Koreans would have no chance.

"There are an awful lot of all-stars on the American women's team," McCrae said.

In the tuneup for the men's semifinals Wednesday, West Germany used a 2-3 zone to shut off the Americans' potent inside game. The U.S. fast break practically was non-existent. And Michael Jordan, the team's principal scorer, put up a 4-for-14 shooting performance for 14 points.

"We had a lack of concentration on what we were doing," Knight said. "I'm not sure the West German zone created problems. Our own lack of movement created problems. When we moved, we got the shots."

Steve Alford saved the night for Knight.

The 6-foot-1 guard, who plays for Knight at Indiana, sank seven of 12 outside shots and led the Americans with 17 points. Ralph Klein, the West German coach, was surprised. Knight, of course, wasn't.

"He (Alford) was really a big surprise. I never saw him shooting like this in a tournament," Klein said.

Said Knight: "Alford, by far and away, was the most effective player in the game."

Neither coach cared for the officiating by a team from Argentina and Yugoslavia that hit the United States with 30 fouls and the Germans with 27.

Knight suggested Olympic leaders have officials attend daily seminars instead of resting in their hotel rooms. "The officiating was incredibly bad for both teams," he said. "It's a travesty at this level."

The Americans jumped their record to 6-0, the same as Yugoslavia. But they were outscored in a half and were rebounded for the first time in these Games. The United States now has a 75-1 record in 10 Olympiads.

In the other semifinal game Wednesday, Yugoslavia's 1980 gold medalists will play Spain before the Canada-U.S. contest.

Yugoslavia thumped Uruguay 110-82 and Spain staved off Australia 101-93 in other quarterfinals Monday.

Jack Donohue, the Canadian coach, said, "We're the only team that has a chance against the United States because we believe we can beat them. No other country does."

That positive thinking fizzled in the countries' first meeting last week. The Americans forged an 89-68 rout.

Still, the Canadians will be pumped up with what high-scoring Jay Triano calls their biggest victory. "We've established ourselves. People in Italy and all around the world are looking at Canada as a basketball team now," said Triano, who hit 25 points.

Alessandro Gamba, Italy's coach, gives the Canadians little chance of a second straight upset. "You can't play with a gun in your pocket against the Americans," he said.

Gamba did offer Donohue a coaching tip: use a zone defense. "Play a very close zone and let them shoot from the outside. If they have a bad night, you can stay close."

Canada stopped Italy by shooting 60 percent and limiting the Europeans' main scorers, Dino Meneghin and Antonello Riva, to a combined 17 points.

Yugoslavia put four players in double figures, led by Drazen Dalipagic's 24 points, and handled

Uruguay with 61 percent shooting. Horacio Lopez had 27 points for Uruguay.

Spain was another hot-shooting team. The Spaniards, beaten only by the United States 101-68 last week, exhibited the most accurate floor shooting — 63 percent — of any of the quarterfinalists. Fernando Martin and Juan San Epifanio matched 25 point totals for Spain. Ian Davis' 20 led Australia.

Official Expects Change Concerning Examinations

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An Olympic medical official says he expects a change in a rule disqualifying marathon runners if they are examined by doctors during a race.

Dr. Tony Daly, vice president of health services from the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee, said Monday the committee would ask the International Amateur Athletic Federation to change the rule.

He spoke at a news conference one day after Gabriela Andersen-Schiess staggered through the final lap of the first Olympic women's marathon and limped across the finish line where she collapsed in attendants' arms.

"The IAAF are reasonable people. I'm sure they will change the rule but certainly not by the men's marathon," scheduled for Sunday, the last day of the Summer Games, Daly said. "There should be a way to evaluate an athlete to determine whether she should continue."

"That would be one of the ideal situations — if you could have a medical doctor take a look and decide if they'd let you continue or not without disqualification," Andersen-Schiess said at another news conference Monday.

Andersen-Schiess, an experienced marathoner who has been running for 14 of her 39 years, was 37th among 44 finishers and was treated for heat prostration. She said she felt fine Monday.

Doctors in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, where the last 500 meters of the race were run, looked at her on the track but did not treat her or remove her from the marathon.

"She was never in shock," said Dr. Richard Greenspun, the chief medical officer for track and field who attended Andersen-Schiess. "She was mildly hypotensive (suffering from low blood pressure) but not in any danger at any time as far as we know."

"If we had to do the same thing tomorrow, we'd do it exactly the same way." While she ran in the stadium, Dr. Gene Osher, the marathon's senior medical officer, said he looked closely at her.

Local Fighters Set For ESPN

Two Greenville kick boxers, Bill Morrison and Curtis Crandall, will appear on ESPN's Wednesday night Pro Karate show at 9:30 p.m. in matches that were taped July 27 at Merrillville, Ind.

Morrison, a 210-pound heavyweight, challenged United States super-heavyweight champion Big John Jackson, who has held the title for eight years and is best known for his fights against Randall "Tex" Cobb and Ross Scott. Jackson defeated Cobb, also a noted boxer, on nationwide TV.

Also on the card, Curtis "Cowboy" Crandall challenges Paul Ford, the PKA's number three ranked middleweight, in a seven-round bout.

Morrison and Crandall both train at the Bill McDonald Karate School in Greenville.

NFL Squads Search For QB

By HANK LOWENKRON
AP Sports Writer

Who's on top and who's number two? That's the question in several National Football League preseason training camps.

The Pittsburgh Steelers have three contenders for the job left open by the retirement of Terry Bradshaw, while veteran quarterback Danny White will be on the bench when his Dallas Cowboys take on the San Diego Chargers in a preseason game Saturday.

And while veteran Ken Anderson retains the top job with the Cincinnati Bengals, veteran Turk Schonert and rookie Norman "Boomer" Esiason are battling for the backup job.

David Woodley and Mark Malone got in their shots for Bradshaw's job as the Steelers beat the Cleveland Browns, 31-14, on Saturday. But, Coach Chuck Noll says rookie Scott Campbell is also in the running.

In his first two quarters as a Steeler, Woodley completed seven of nine passes for 129 yards and two touchdowns. Malone completed six of 12 passes for 83 yards, no touchdowns and one interception.

"All three are throwing well," Noll said and indicated Woodley may have helped himself the most Saturday.

"Overall I would say this one tough outing doesn't mean that much, but Woodley's play was excellent. His actions spoke for him very well out there tonight," Noll said.

Woodley, the former Miami Dolphin who took over from Malone when the second half opened, also scored on a 1-yard plunge as he led the Steelers back from a 14-3 deficit.

"This is kind of tough when you're competing for a job," Malone said of his first half of play. "But if you look at the individual job, I threw the ball well and made the right reads."

Nothing was a snap for Malone in the first half. His center, Mike Webster, was twice penalized for holding. Malone also had problems gripping the football, fumbling two snaps. The problems prevented Malone from sustaining a drive against the Browns' first-team defense.

Woodley pointed out he had an advantage in watching the first half. "It helped a lot," Woodley said. "You see what defense they're playing on first down and on second and long."

Dallas Coach Tom Landry said Gary Hogeboom will start and White will come off the bench against San Diego.

Landry said the move will give him a chance to see how "players do starting rather than coming in second."

Landry has yet to announce who will be the starting quarterback for the regular season other than to say that, for now, White is in the top spot.

In the 31-17 victory over the Packers last Saturday, White started. Hogeboom entered in the second half and matched White's statistics.

Esiason came out on top over Schonert Saturday as the Bengals opened their exhibition season by defeating the New York Jets 21-15. Schonert was sacked three times and had to scramble twice to recover fumbles on snaps from center.

But, Esiason played principally behind veterans on the offensive line and was afforded strong protection. Schonert played mostly behind the second-string line.

Esiason, the former University of Maryland star, completed nine of 10 passes for 133 yards and the two touchdowns. Schonert completed four of seven passes for 25 yards.

Both quarterbacks saw action after Ken Anderson, Cincinnati's 14-year veteran, opened the game as the playcaller. Rookie Coach Sam Wyche has said he considers Anderson his No. 1 quarterback.

Wyche left no doubt, however, that Esiason's performance impressed him.

"Boomer became a professional quarterback tonight," Wyche said after the game. "The one thing I wanted him to work on was his consistency, and he was just that — consistent."

Several clubs made roster cuts Monday. The teams have until Aug. 14 to cut to 70 players and until Aug. 21 to cut to 60. The squads must be reduced to 49 by Aug. 27.

The New Orleans Saints waived rookies Byron Nelson, Chris Bourne and Anthony Brigham.

The Denver Broncos waived 12 players, including second-year safety Myron Dupree, bringing their roster to 88.

Cincinnati put rookies Steve McKeaver and Ron Mackey on waivers, reaching the maximum of 70 allowed by the Aug. 14 deadline.

Pittsburgh placed running back Tim Harris on waivers, reducing their training camp roster to 85.

The New York Giants announced that wide receiver Floyd Eddings, a three-year veteran that has been hampered by injuries, was cut because "he didn't fit" into the team's plans. Rookies Braxton Williams, a running back, and Ed Rhone, a linebacker, were also cut from the squad, reducing the Giants roster to 74.

Houston said left guard Mike Munchak will undergo arthroscopic surgery on his left knee Tuesday, but should be ready for the season opener against the Los Angeles Raiders on Sept. 2.

Munchak, considered the Oilers' best offensive lineman, complained of soreness in his left knee about two weeks ago and hasn't worked out since July 26.

The Los Angeles Rams also have one of their key players headed for arthroscopic surgery today. Veteran tight end Mike Barber, who led the Rams in receptions last season with 55, injured his left knee in practice Monday and was to undergo arthroscopic surgery today, a spokesman for club said.

Lawless Orioles Pitching Staff

By The Associated Press
The Baltimore Orioles have barely stirred up a mild zephyr since the All-Star break with a 13-12 record, but imagine where they'd be without Storm Davis.

The 22-year-old right-hander has accounted for six of those 13 victories, including Monday night's 4-2 triumph over the Cleveland Indians. He upped his record to 12-4 with a tidy six-hitter, bringing his major-league log to a glittering 33-15.

"If you want to see improvement in a young player, the second half is the proving ground for that," said Manager Joe Altobelli. "He's done remarkably well since the All-Star break."

In other American League games, Detroit shaded Boston 9-7 but dropped the second half of the double-header 10-2, Minnesota defeated Oakland 7-4, California trimmed Seattle 8-4, Chicago downed Milwaukee 5-3 and Texas nipped Toronto 5-4. Kansas City and

New York were not scheduled.

Davis blanked the Indians until Jerry Willard hit his seventh home run in the eighth inning. It was only the third homer allowed by Davis in 168 innings this season, the best ratio in the major leagues.

Loser Steve Farr yielded all four Baltimore runs in the first four innings. Wayne Gross gave the Orioles a 1-0 lead in the second inning with his 15th home run and Baltimore added three runs in the fourth. Eddie Murray lead off with a bloop single and Gross walked. Gary Roenicke doubled off third baseman Brook Jacoby's glove, scoring Murray, and Mike Young and Rich Dauer delivered sacrifice flies. That was more than enough for Davis.

"I feel stronger," he said. "I'm grateful for the strength the Lord is giving me. After the guys got me a few runs early tonight, I just tried to get ahead of the hitters with my fastball."

"I probably threw more fastballs tonight than I have the last few games. They're a good fastball-hitting club so you have to spot the fastball well. But I hit them on the fists with it or on the outside corner. In the seventh, eighth and ninth I was getting up with my curveball. Maybe I was getting tired. Willard hit a curveball, a bad pitch, but you have to give him credit for hitting a bad pitch."

Tigers 9-2, Red Sox 7-10

Wade Boggs drilled two homers, a double and a single, scored four runs and drove in three in support of rookie Roger Clemens' strong eight innings to earn Boston a split in the nightcap. The Tigers snapped a four-game losing streak in the opener as Lance Parrish, Chet Lemon and Tom Brookens homered and reliever Aurelio Lopez upped his record to 8-0.

"This was a good time to win a ballgame," said Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson. "I've used Lopic quite a bit, but he was ready. When he got into trouble, I brought in Hernandez (for the fifth time in six days this month). If I'm going to lose the game, I want him in there. I want to lose with my best man."

Twins 7, Athletics 4

Gary Gaetti's three-run homer in the sixth inning wiped out a 2-1

Oakland lead and paced a 16-hit Minnesota attack. Winner Mike Smithson allowed eight hits in 7 2-3 innings as the Twins remained one-half game ahead of California in the AL West.

Gaetti's homer came off Bill Krueger after Tom Brunansky walked and Dave Engle singled to open the sixth. Dave Kingman hit his 29th homer — but his first in 14 games — for Oakland in the bottom of the sixth. Brunansky singled home a run in the Minnesota seventh and Mickey Hatcher delivered a two-run triple in the eighth, his fourth hit of the game.

Angels 8, Mariners 4

Reggie Jackson drove in three runs with a homer and a two-run single and Brian Downing cracked two solo homers. Downing and Jackson hit consecutive home runs in the third inning for a 5-0 lead. Jackson drilled a two-out, bases-loaded single in the sixth and Downing hit his second home run leading off the eighth. Winner Tommy John blanked Seattle until the seventh.

Reagan, Bush Split Over Taxes

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan and Vice President George Bush, who normally speak with one voice, are disagreeing publicly over whether a post-election tax hike is possible — or at least over whether to admit it.

Bush, who has earned the respect of the White House staff for his loyalty and low profile, seemed embarrassed and uncomfortable about the division when he met with reporters here Monday following a lunch with Reagan.

In a campaign appearance Sunday, the vice president acknowledged the administration may have to raise revenues next year in an effort to cope with the federal deficit, approaching $200 billion a year.

That put him at odds with Reagan's repeated declaration that he has no secret plan to raise taxes, as Democratic challenger Walter F. Mondale has been asserting.

When pressed on the contradiction between the two positions, Bush got flustered.

"What was it I said?" he asked during the press briefing. "Refresh my ... Well, let me try again to do it the way I'd like it to come out."

Then, sidestepping the question, he said: "I would like any questions from now on here, on taxes, to be referred to Mr. Mondale. They are the ones that are the experts in it. They demonstrated a tremendous ability in knowing how to raise taxes."

Bush's confusion may stem from Reagan's repeated strong disavowals of any intention to raise taxes, while at the same time refusing to flatly rule out a tax increase of any kind.

Reagan promised Saturday to veto an increase in income taxes but has not made a similar pledge on other taxes.

When asked whether that didn't amount to keeping his options open, Bush said: "Listen, any president would keep options open. Conditions can dramatically change one way or the other."

Since Reagan's press conference two weeks ago, Reagan has maintained repeatedly that he does not intend to raise taxes except if federal spending is ever cut to the bare bones and the huge deficit persists.

On another topic, Bush refused to commit himself to a debate with the Democratic vice presidential nominee, Rep. Geraldine A. Ferraro, D-N.Y. "I'm perfectly willing to debate her and no final decision has been made," he said.

have no plan for, nor will I allow plans for a tax increase."
 Earlier, Reagan had said only there was no plan to raise income taxes.
 Bush, who lunched with Reagan on Monday, stepped into the middle of the debate when he said Sunday in Seattle that Reagan might have to consider "raising revenues" if the deficits persist.
 Mondale "thinks that Bush is probably telling the truth," said Mondale spokeswoman Maxine Isaacs.
 Bush, who has remained in line with Reagan's thinking on most issues, appeared uncomfortable with the apparent division Monday when he met reporters in California after his lunch with the president. The vice president sidestepped questions on the contradiction between his statement and Reagan's declarations that he has no plans to raise taxes.

Mondale Says New Tax Levels Needed

NORTH OAKS, Minn. (AP) — Walter F. Mondale thinks Vice President George Bush is right to differ with President Reagan over the need for new tax revenues to reduce federal budget deficits.

Mondale and Reagan sniped at each other anew Monday about possible tax hikes in 1985, the hottest issue of the early days of the fall campaign for the White House.

The Democratic presidential nominee said new taxes are needed to cut the "appalling and obscene" deficit. But Reagan accused Mondale of not telling the truth and broadened his own pledge not raise taxes, while Bush insisted the president was keeping his options open about future taxes.

Mondale planned to continue to talk about deficits and their effect on U.S. trade on a three-day campaign trip starting today through Ohio, Pennsylvania and the South.

"This deficit is appalling and obscene ... It is a very severe problem that threatens our future," Mondale said, citing new figures from the Congressional Budget Office that projected continuing high deficits.

Reagan, in Santa Barbara, Calif., took another shot at Mondale, repeating that there is no secret GOP plan to raise taxes, as the Democratic nominee contends.

"Walter Mondale is not telling the truth," Reagan said at his ranch. "I said it before and I will say it again — and no matter how many of you try to put in a hedging line — we have no plan for, nor will I allow plans for a tax increase."

 Earlier, Reagan had said only there was no plan to raise income taxes.

Jacksons To Appear

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Promoters of the Jackson brothers' "Victory" tour briefly postponed three concerts in the wake of threats against the group, then decided to go ahead with the shows with increased security.

"We unequivocally will be playing Knoxville on the 10th, 11th and 12th," Howard Bloom, a spokesman for the tour, said in New York Monday night.

Typewritten letters containing racial slurs and death threats against the Jacksons were received or obtained Monday by the Knoxville Journal and the Knoxville News-Sentinel.

"I met with our security people and they went through them and reached the conclusion that both were hoaxes," Chuck Sullivan, president of Stadium Management Corp., the tour's national promoter, said of the letters.

"If we can play metro New York for five dates without an incident I know we can play three dates in Knoxville," Sullivan said.

Grower's Plan To Clear Out Leaf Storage Gains Support

RALEIGH (AP) — A Guilford County tobacco farmer's plan to empty out warehouses of old leaf in three years but raise growers' quotas at the same time has won support from growers at market openings in five states, a tobacco official says.

T. Carlton Blalock, executive vice president of the Tobacco Growers Association of North Carolina, said after more reaction and suggestions are gathered, the proposal could be given to Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and Rep. Charles G. Rose III, D-N.C., to guide its passage through Congress.

But Fred Bond, general manager of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corp., said the plan "needs to be looked at very carefully."

"The critical point is if you increase the quota beyond the normal purchases in a given year, then you could have the effect of simply replacing inventories," Bond said Monday. "You could just be moving out old tobacco and bringing in new tobacco."

The state Tobacco Growers Association has endorsed David R. Hopkins Jr.'s idea, which would work like this:

- Starting next year, tobacco growers would be allowed to buy a certain amount of the 750 million pounds of tobacco now held under government loan by Stabilization.
- The co-op would destroy the tobacco bought by growers.
- In return, growers would be issued a pound of base quota for each pound they bought from Stabilization.
- Price supports would be reduced to a level that would assure an increase in the volume of sales. About $1.50 a pound has been suggested.

"We'd clean out Stabilization, save producers from going bankrupt, give warehouses more quota to sell, stabilize (quota) lease prices and produce tobacco and a worldwide competitive price," said Hopkins.

But Bond was skeptical. "In the most extreme example, if all present inventory were purchased under the plan, that would make 750 million pounds available for planting. That would be in addition to the normal quota, which is now around 800 million pounds. We could have considerably more tobacco than the trade could absorb in a year."

Blalock said he and the Tobacco Growers Association's directors solicited more opinions and have developed a modified proposal.

It calls for reducing the current price-support level of almost $1.70 a pound to about $1.50 a pound for the 1985-87 crops. Over the three-year period, growers could buy a prorata share of the quota offered — about 200 million pounds — at a cost that would be the same throughout the five states.

The price per pound of quota would be based on Stabilization's investment of tobacco offered to growers that year.

"The price of $1.70 to $1.81 a pound represents Stabilization's cost in some of its lowest priced tobacco, at farm weight," Blalock said. "The grower buying the quota this way could pay Stabilization back over a five-year period."

Power Bills Could Soon Level Off

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina consumers should get some relief from increasing electric bills in a couple of years and may even see some savings, says the chairman of the North Carolina Utilities Commission.

"We can now see the light at the end of the tunnel in terms of approaching some electric rate stability in North Carolina," said Robert Koger. "In fact, it is possible that in real terms the cost of electricity may decrease in North Carolina after 1986 for the rest of the 1980s."

Koger said Duke Power Co. and Carolina Power & Light Co. are nearing the end of expensive construction programs, the costs of which are passed on to consumers, and the companies have dropped some construction plans. Also, consumers are helping to keep electricity demand from rising as quickly as it had been.

Customers agreeing to confine major electrical usage to times when demand for electricity is lowest receive peak-load or time-of-day reductions in their bills. "I myself have saved several hundred dollars by opting for a time-of-day rate three years ago," said Koger, who is served by CP&L in Raleigh, which sells 14 percent of its total kilowatts under time-of-day pricing, compared to Duke's 6 percent.

Fewer than 10,000 customers participated in conservation programs offered by Duke and CP&L in 1979, compared to 213,000 today, Koger said.

Textile Earnings Below Estimates

CHARLOTTE (AP) — North Carolina and South Carolina textile officials have had their high hopes swept away by reports of decreased earnings, increased losses and plummeting stock prices.

"For most of the textile group, earnings have been below estimates, but not below last year's earnings," said Thad Faison, an analyst for the trust department of First Union National Bank in Charlotte.

Last month Greensboro-based Burlington Industries Inc. reported an unexpected 24 percent decline in its third-quarter earnings, sending its stock price falling 12 percent to 23 1/2 per share on the New York Stock Exchange.

Another Greensboro firm, Textile Industries Inc., reported a second-quarter loss of $1.8 million, compared with a profit of $187,000 a year ago.

Fieldcrest Mills in Eden reported a loss of $563,000 for the second quarter, compared with a profit of $1.5 million a year ago, while Riegel Textile Corp. in Greenville, S.C., reported second-quarter earnings dropped 29 percent to $1.5 million from $2.1 million in 1983.

"I'm sure there must be some bright spots in the industry, but I swear I don't know where they are," said Ellison McKissick, first vice president of the American Textile Manufacturers Institute and president of Alice Manufacturing Co. in Easley, S.C.

Some financial analysts are redoing their 1984 forecasts of textile companies' earnings.

Pam Singleton of Merrill Lynch, for example, said, "I've taken just about everybody down." She has cut her prediction for Burlington's 1984 earnings to between $3.25 and $3.35 per share from $5.35 per share in January.

Med School Official Faces Charge Of Selling Corpses

By F. ALAN BOYCE
Associated Press Writer
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Allegations that 11 bodies bequeathed to the University of North Carolina Medical School for research were illegally sold may discourage anatomical gifts, even though such sales are "unheard of," a UNC spokesman says.

"To my knowledge, in 14 years' involvement with medicine, this is the first I've ever heard of a body being sold," said John Stokes, public affairs director for the school, after a former UNC anatomical curator was charged Monday with stealing 11 cadavers and selling them to a Florida mortuary. "It's just unheard of."

Lester S. Sandlin was indicted by an Orange County grand jury on 11 counts of embezzling state property, said District Attorney Wade Barber. Sandlin could not be reached by telephone at his home.

Sandlin, 42, of Durham, surrendered at the Durham County magistrate's office Monday and was released on $5,000 secured bond.

In a letter to university officials explaining his actions, Sandlin said he had done nothing improper in making "the decision to allow surplus cadavers to go to the Medical School of Martinique." Ann F. Loflin, his Durham attorney, released the letter, saying Sandlin had received no payment for the bodies other than money from Florida mortuary to cover transportation costs to Miami.

In the letter to Department of Anatomy Chairman Dr. Charles Hackenbrock, dated Aug. 3, Sandlin wrote that he and Dr. O.W. Henson Jr., professor of anatomy, reviewed cadavers "as a matter of routine procedure" and determined that 11 cadavers that had been stored for 12 to 18 months were surplus.

Stokes said Sandlin was suspended from his job July 20 after the State Bureau of Investigation told school officials they had reason to believe cadavers from UNC had been sold to Florida Mortuary Services of Miami and later were shipped to a medical school in the West Indies.

LESTER S. SANDLIN

Barber said neither the mortuary nor the school were suspected of wrongdoing. He declined to say how the cadavers were allegedly stolen or transported or how much money Sandlin allegedly received for them.

However, Fred Richardt, owner of Florida Mortuary, denied buying any cadavers and said he had cooperated with Barber in the investigation for the past three months.

"I did not purchase them," he said Monday. "We pick up off the airlines because it is against the law for airlines to keep the cadaver overnight. We take them to the appropriate shipping line the next day."

Stokes said since the suspension UNC has established a system that requires two signatures "so that one person can't do this kind of thing." But he added that damage to UNC's reputation may already have been done.

"Our concern is that this incident could really hurt anatomical gifts to science," he said. "I'd be disappointed, but I suspect this will have that effect."

Cadavers bequeathed to one medical school often end up at another when necessary, "but we never sell them," Stokes said.

"We need 50 to 60 cadavers a year. Presently we're getting 80 to 90 cadavers a year," he said. "There is a pretty good network among anatomy departments and people know which universities are likely to have a surplus."

Sandlin's job, for which he was paid about $20,000 a year, included signing for anatomical gifts and arranging for the use of cadavers, Stokes said.

"He could make decisions about transferring remains and he could make decisions about when we were finished with a cadaver," he said. "Routinely, there would be transfers of bodies to funeral homes all the time."

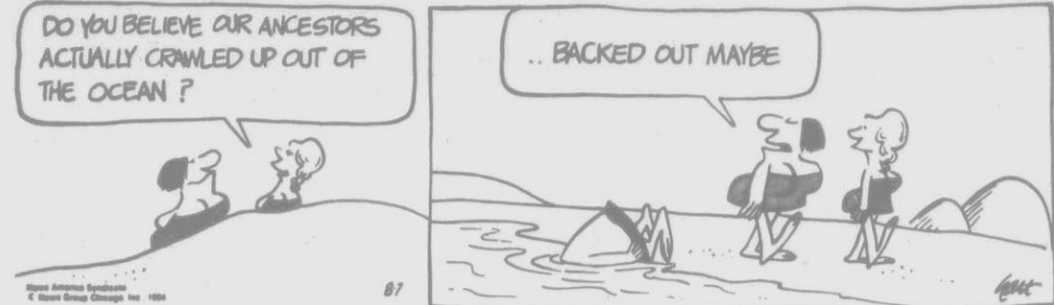

Three of the bodies were allegedly stolen in September 1983 and eight were allegedly stolen in March 1984, said Barber. On May 23, Barber requested the investigation by the State Bureau of Investigation and the university police after an anonymous tip.

Barber said Sandlin is scheduled for arraignment in Orange County Superior Court next Monday and could face a sentence of 20 years in prison for each count if convicted.

YOUR DAILY
 Horoscope
 from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until shortly after noon you are able to do whatever will be of service to you in building up your goodwill in the public eye as well as with those of prominence.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can expand present interests quite a good deal today, but tonight take it easy and rest up. Be happy.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study your practical affairs from a new angle and you can make greater progress in whatever is important to you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you study your newspaper well, you get fine ideas for improving your practical affairs and gaining more security.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Talk with partners who are serious and businesslike and find out how you can be more like them.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Go to the finest expert in your field of endeavor and get the backing and data you need the most. Make sure your car works.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make it a point to get in touch with your friends and plan the recreations you mutually like. Don't forget to pay important bills.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan what should be done to get family matters more as you would like them to be and consult with kin.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study messages from others well and then you can decide exactly how best to handle them. Be clever.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ideal mid-week day to seize an opportunity to get your financial affairs greatly improved. Try to conserve energy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Good day to take health treatments you may need and to make yourself look more charming. Be active and happy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Stop dashing hither and yon and quietly plan a course of action that will gain you your most cherished wishes.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) State your aims to good friends who can assist you in gaining them. Be sure to dress in fine style.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will automatically know how to please people, so slant the education along lines where such qualities are the prerequisites. Teach to deal fairly and squarely with playmates so that no enmity is incurred, and then the life can become successful when reaching adulthood.

College Costs Upset Parents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most parents who would like to send their children to a private college or university think it beyond their reach and expect them to wind up at a state campus instead, according to a poll conducted for a private school group.

Leaders of the National Institute of Independent Colleges and Universities today expressed alarm at the findings of the Roper Organization poll of parents with children of pre-college age.

The institute said it will launch a campaign to encourage parents and students to save for higher education, and also will seek to promote tax breaks for education savings accounts.

President Reagan has said he favors deferring taxes on the interest parents might earn on such accounts, but Congress has not adopted the proposal.

The institute said its survey found that 77 percent of the parents expected one or more of their children to attend college. Thirty-seven percent said they would prefer a private college or university.

But only 40 percent of that group felt they would be able to afford a private school.

The College Board says the average cost of attending a private institution was $9,570 last year compared to $4,900 at public schools; both figures are expected to climb 8 percent this fall.

Julianne Still Thrift, executive director of the private school institute, said many families have "inadequate or out-of-date information" about what help is available. "They are excluding their first-choice college from consideration long before they have an opportunity to talk with financial aid directors and others on campus who may be able to help them," she said.

The poll found most parents surveyed felt they had the primary responsibility to pay for their children's education.

Only a little more than a third said the students themselves had the primary responsibility; half said the federal government had no responsibility for making college affordable.

Train Crash Kills Youths

COLUMBIA FALLS, Mont. (AP) — An Amtrak train slammed into a car that ignored flashing lights and lowered gates at a railroad crossing, killing the two teen-age boys in the automobile, authorities said.

No one on the train was hurt. The Empire Builder was en route from Chicago to Seattle, said Corky Derby, a spokeswoman for the Flathead County Sheriff's Office.

The names of the victims were being withheld until relatives could be notified.

The collision occurred at 9:49 p.m. Monday in the Vetville area on the west side of this northwestern Montana community of 3,100 people.

According to Ms. Derby, three witnesses saw the gates lowered at the railroad crossing and the warning lights flashing, but the car went around the gates and was struck by the train.

Flathead County Sheriff-Coroner Chuck Rhodes said the car was pushed about 100 feet. The train was traveling 45 to 50 mph, "which is an acceptable speed," he said.

Ms. Derby said the train resumed its trip at 11:10 p.m.

Iran Says Radicals Mined Sea

By The Associated Press
 Iran's state-run Tehran Radio today praised the recent mine attacks on Red Sea shipping and said they were carried out by the same radical Islamic group that claimed responsibility for the devastating truck-bombing of the U.S. Marine post in Beirut last fall.

In Washington, the Pentagon today said the United States will send minesweeping helicopters to the Gulf of Suez region to help Egypt try to clear heavily traveled Red Sea shipping lanes of the explosives, which reportedly have damaged 13 ships in recent weeks.

Western and Arab governments have not said who they think is responsible for the explosions, but Tehran Radio said a mine-laying operation had been conducted by the Islamic Jihad, or Holy War. Anonymous telephone callers to news agencies in London last week had claimed that the organization, about which little is known, had laid 190 mines in the Red Sea.

Tehran Radio hailed the terrorist organization, saying its mine-laying operation "added to the series of failures experienced by the arrogant powers in our Islamic region since the blow dealt by the Islamic Jihad organization in Beirut."

That was a reference to the suicide bombing at the U.S. Marine base in Beirut on Oct. 23 in which 241 American servicemen were killed.

Sakharov Ends Hunger Strike

MOSCOW (AP) — Dissident Andrei Sakharov has ended his fast but is being held in a hospital in Gorky, according to friends who said they learned of the scientist's condition in a brief communication with his wife.

Sakharov's wife, Yelena Bonner, has been formally charged with anti-Soviet slander, punishable by up to three years at hard labor, the sources said Monday.

They said they based their information on a brief exchange Sunday with Mrs. Bonner, who had not been heard from since mid-May when she reported by telegram that Sakharov was taken from their home by authorities and put in a hospital.

The sources, friends of the Sakharovs who spoke on condition they not be identified, said Sakharov had ended a hunger strike begun May 2 in an effort to get permission for his wife to go to the West for medical treatment. They did not know when he called off the fast.

Sakharov, a leading human rights advocate and 1975 Nobel Peace Prize winner, "is well" and is being held in a hospital in Gorky, a city 240 miles east of Moscow that is closed to foreigners, the sources said.

The sources did not want their method of communication with Mrs. Bonner revealed.
