Marijuana Found

State Bureau of Investigation agents and Pitt County Sheriff's Department deputies, flying in North Carolina National Guard helicopters, discovered 325 marijuana plants in a first-of-its-kind search Saturday.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said a total of 325 marijuana plants were found growing at five sites during the operation, which began at 10:30 a.m. and ended about 4 p.m.

Tyson said 138 plants were found at a site near Stokestown, while 86 were found at a site near Penny Hill. A Belvoir site contained 56 marijuana plants, while a site at Stokes contained 38 plants, and a site off the Stantonsburg Road contained seven plants.

Tyson said three helicopters were used in the search.

The air search was part of a special project which included searches in eight other counties in addition to Pitt.

In all, 752 marijuana plants were found and destroyed in Pitt, Haywood, Madison and Stokes counties. Value of the plants was estimated at $1,000 each.

Tyson said no arrests were made in Pitt County.

Greenville Police Hold Man After Chase Car In Wayne Robbery Found

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

A man driving a car taken in an armed robbery, kidnapping and rape case in Mount Olive early Saturday was taken into custody this morning by Greenville police after he wrecked the car while trying to elude arrest.

Officer T.V. Woolard said David Leroy Wise, 30, of Wrightsville Beach was taken to Pitt County Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries following the collision.

Mount Olive Police Chief John Hodges said four employees of the McDonald's Restaurant in Mount Olive were closing about 2:30 a.m. Saturday when a man wearing a stocking mask jumped out from under a table and forced them to crawl to the rear of the restaurant and lay on their stomachs in a storage area.

After forcing the manager to open the safe, the robber took the money, then forced the employees into a refrigerator, Hodges said.

The intruder then took a 16-year-old employee and drove away in her 1980 Ford Mustang. Hodges said the robber drove the teen-ager to an area off U.S. 70 and raped her, then taped her eyes and put her in the trunk of the car.

Hodges said the girl told officers the kidnapper then drove around for a while before meeting another man who was armed with a pistol. She told police the second man bought the car from the first man for $1,500, then he, too, raped the girl, before letting her out of the vehicle in the Jason community of Greene County, about 7 a.m.

Hodges said the girl walked to a nearby residence and called police.

Woolard said Greenville police found the car parked at the Ramada Inn on Greenville Boulevard be-

Soviets Say U.S. Tries To Turn Red Sea Into 'American Lake'

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Iran and the Soviet Union today accused the United States of exploiting the recent explosions in the Red Sea to expand its regional military presence. One Soviet commentator said the Pentagon wants to turn the sea into an "American lake."

Britain's embassy in Cairo, meanwhile, said four British minesweepers will go through the Suez Canal on Tuesday and the next day begin combing the waters for mines. At least 13 ships plying the Red Sea have been damaged by explosions in the past month.

At Egypt's request, Britain, the United States and France have minesweeping equipment en route to the sea and its northwestern fork, the Gulf of Suez, to join the Egyptian navy in detecting and destroying mines and securing passage of navigation.

The sea is the shortest water route between the Middle East oil fields and the Western world.

The four British ships will arrive Wednesday at the Egyptian naval base of Atiba, six miles southeast of Suez City at the southern end of the 100 mile-long canal, said the embassy official, who spoke on condition he not be named.

"We expect our hunters to operate at the head of the Gulf of Suez, and the Egyptian and Americans to operate toward the southern end and in the Red Sea," he said.

Diplomatic sources said no mines had been recovered as of early today.

"Some ships which have been damaged have been inspected, but the evidence has been inconclusive," the British diplomat said. "The damage definitely was caused by an underwater explosion, but we can't say what kind."

In Moscow, commentator Vladimir Nakaryakov of the No. 2 Soviet government news agency Novosti said, "it would be extreme naive to believe that Washington has planned a humane act" in dispatching its minesweepers.

Nakaryakov referred to that he said was "the quite recent mining of Nicaragua's ports" by the CIA, but did not accuse the U.S. intelligence agency outright of mining the Red Sea.

However, Nakaryakov said the Pentagon orchestrated the Red Sea mining in order to bolster U.S. military power in the region.

"It was quite recently that the last American serviceman left Lebanon but the Pentagon is already rushing to the Red Sea. The U.S.A. is now tempted by the idea of turning the Red Sea into an American lake under the pretext of the continued Iranian-Iraqi conflict," he said.

Poles Free Last Dissident

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Henryk Wujec, a leader of the disbanded workers' group KOR and a Solidarity union adviser, was freed from prison today under the Communist government's general amnesty, a family member said.

His release means authorities have freed all seven key Solidarity leaders and four KOR leaders whose detention after the imposition of martial law drew the attention of church and human rights groups in the West.

Wujec, a 43-year-old physicist, was among hundreds of Solidarity activists arrested during the Dec. 13, 1981 military crackdown. He had been imprisoned for 32 months.

He was released from Rakowiecka

Prison in Warsaw this morning and driven by security officials to his home in the capital, according to a relative who answered the telephone at Wujec's home.

The relative, who refused to give his name, said Wujec would not be immediately available for comment.

Wujec joined KOR in 1977. He became a key Solidarity adviser during the August 1980 strikes that led to the birth of the trade union, once the only independent union in the Soviet bloc.

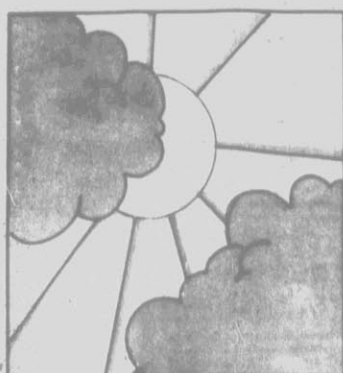

KOR — the Committee for Social Self Defense — was disbanded by its members in the fall of 1981 at Solidarity's first and only national congress, saying the union could assume the committee's work.

Runoff

Voters in six Pitt County and one Martin County precincts will go to the polls Tuesday to elect a state senator from the state's 6th Senatorial District.

The Pitt precincts are Arthur, Belvoir, Bethel, Falkland, Farmville and Fountain. The Martin county precinct is Robersonville.

This is a runoff election requested by Edgecombe County candidate Shelly Winningham against Pitt County's R.L. "Bob" Martin. Martin received the top number of votes in the July 17 primary.

Election officials at the seven precincts are asked to call The Daily Reflector news room Tuesday evening as soon as the vote count has been determined.

Holey Hose Mystery Solved

By TOM MINEHART
Associated Press Writer

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Air pollution from car exhaust may be hazardous to women's pantyhose.

Sid Smith, president of the Charlotte-based National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers, said heat and humidity act with the sulfur in exhaust and other air pollution to create sulfuric acid. The acid eats right through the petroleum-based nylon filaments, leaving pantyhose that resembles swiss cheese.

"It happens only when you have just the right environmental conditions as were in evidence during late June in the Baltimore-Washington area," he said.

"It has occurred historically before in isolated situations and places," said Smith. "We've only heard of a few individual cases. In every case ... the ladies were in the street or in traffic-congested areas." The lady gets perplexed and doesn't know what's going on," he said. "Some thought it was the fault of the garment, but it is not. ... All in all, the product is good and sturdy."

Association officials appeared on a Baltimore radio talk show to answer questions about the phenomenon. They also disputed the myths that freezing or baking nylon pantyhose will extend the life of the garment, saying such techniques produce only cold or hot pantyhose.

Association officials also answered telephone calls, including one from a woman who said it looked like cigarettes had caused holes in her hose, but that she had not been near any smokers.

"The combination of high humidity, high temperature and air pollution form a kind of acid mist which really impacts on everything around it," Smith said. "You don't notice it on large things except for the sheer nature of nylon pantyhose. The acid literally weakens the fabric and filaments to where they will break and the pantyhose get holes in them."

Registration Urged

Pitt County school officials are urging students eligible to attend kindergarten in the county schools in the 1984-85 school year to register at the appropriate school as soon as possible.

Officials also say students who have moved into the county or changed school districts must register within their new school district.

To register for kindergarten, a child's immunization records and birth certificate must be present. To be eligible for kindergarten a child must be 5 years old on or before Oct. 16, 1984.

For further information call 752-6106, extension 232.

Board To Meet

The Pitt County Board of Education will meet at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the third floor conference room of the Pitt County Office Building.

Items on the agenda include personnel recommendations, consideration of school lunch prices and tuition fees for students exceeding the maximum age for state-mandated educational service.

For further information contact the office of the superintendent at 752-6106, extension 200.

Man Charged

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said this morning that Antonio Gutierrez, 34, of El Paso, Texas, has been charged in connection with two break-ins last week.

Tyson said Gutierrez was arrested Friday on breaking and entering charges in connection with an 11:10 a.m. break-in at the Route 5, Greenville, home of Gilbert Lewis.

Tyson said Lewis returned home, found his home had been broken into, and saw a man run into a wooded area near-by.

Gutierrez was arrested by officers about a mile from the scene of the break-in.

Tyson said Gutierrez was also charged with breaking, entering and larceny in connection with a break-in at the home of Minnie King, Route 1, Winterville, which was reported at 10:32 p.m. Thursday, where $20 in cash was taken.

City Hall Notes

Guests this week on "City Hall Notes," Greenville's radio program, will be Don Fleming, assistant collector of revenue for the city, and Bill Twine of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department.

Fleming will discuss recent changes in penalties for parking violations and Twine will discuss volunteerism in recreation programs.

Amnesty

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The government today announced a special amnesty for 1,730 people, including 714 former political prisoners whose civil rights were reinstated by the measure.

It becomes effective Tuesday, the eve of the 36th anniversary of the establishment of the republic. It was the 17th amnesty decreed by President Chun Doo-hwan since he became president in August 1980.

Of the total to be released, 1,016 are common criminals who will be paroled Tuesday. The political prisoners had already been released.

Ordered To Pay

WILLIAMSTON — A Hobgood man convicted of misdemeanor food stamp fraud has been ordered to pay $7,222 restitution to the Martin County Department of Social Services.

Albert Silver of Route 1, Hobgood, was ordered by Judge Hallet S. Ward of Washington in Martin County District Court to pay the restitution. Silver was given a 12-month suspended sentence and five years probation with the stipulation he make restitution and pay court costs and $250 for his court-appointed lawyer.

Grants Awarded

WILLIAMSTON — Two Martin County municipalities, Williamston and Hamilton, have been awarded Community Development Block Grants from the state of North Carolina for 1984.

Both Williamston and Hamilton will receive $750,000, state officials have announced. The funds are earmarked for projects in the latest cycle of block grants efforts.

In Williamston, the grant will fund rehabilitation of a target area in the northern part of town, including the North End section. Water and sewer projects are also included.

The Hamilton program is designated for rehabilitation of housing in the South Street vicinity, construction of a deep well and street work.

Meeting Set

The Greenville Board of Education will meet at 8 p.m. today at Aycock Junior High School.

Items on the agenda include consideration of the following: 1984-85 budget resolution, bids on dairy and bakery products, school lunch prices, a resolution in support of the Pitt County Commissioners, and a report from the science advisory committee.

Additionally, a number of other topics are on the agenda for discussion.

Soliciting Charges

Greenville police vice squad officers arrested two men Saturday night on charges of soliciting to commit a crime against nature.

Chief Ted Holmes identified the two as William Evans and Grover Lee Tyson, both of 112 N. Church St., Winterville.

Holmes said the two were taken into custody on Chestnut Street following an undercover investigation into transvestite activities in the area.

Evans' arrest Saturday was the second time in three months he has been charged with soliciting to commit a felony.

Holmes said Evans was arrested on May 11, and was given a 30 day jail term when convicted in District Court on the charge on June 13.

Plays Scheduled

Two plays, collective efforts by children in the Youth Creative Writing Forum of the Playwrights'

Fund of North Carolina, will be presented at noon Wednesday in the Best Lunch Theater Ever at the Greenville Museum of Art, 802 South Evans Street.

There is no admission and a bag lunch is recommended. Refreshments will be provided by the museum staff.

"Bubblegum Timewarp" is the story of Tootsie, a 10-year old girl, her big brother, AJ, and characters named Gigi, Prunella, Princess Caravella, and a pet caterpillar.

"The Secrets of the Magic Doll," is about a princess, her sisters, parents, a handicapped brother, a poor girl and her father and a moonlighting garbage man.

Restaurant Thanks Donors To Victims Of Massacre

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Joan Kroc, widow of McDonald's Corp. founder Ray Kroc, took out full-page ads in two newspapers this weekend to thank people who contributed to a fund for survivors of the July 18 McDonald's shooting spree.

Mrs. Kroc established the fund the day after James Oliver Huberty killed 21 people and injured 19 in a crowded McDonald's restaurant in neighboring San Ysidro. Huberty was slain by a police marksman.

The fund now stands at about $1.3 million, including a $100,000 contribution from Mrs. Kroc and a $1 million donation by McDonald's Corp. The fund is also expected to receive about $200,000 from a tennis benefit last week in San Diego which featured Jimmy Connors and Ivan Lendl.

Mrs. Kroc's letter appeared Sunday in The San Diego Union and the San Diego County edition of the Los Angeles Times.

It read, in part, "Your outpouring of generosity and caring for the innocent victims of the San Ysidro tragedy has demonstrated that our community has responded in the true spirit of brotherhood.

"I believe that the people of San Ysidro whose lives have been shattered can, with their strength, and our help and prayers, begin to restore and rebuild their lives. I am proud to be a San Diegan."

Meanwhile, tourists wanting a glimpse of the site of the worst one-day mass killing by a gunman in the nation's history are visiting the abandoned McDonald's restaurant by the thousands.

"You should see this place on weekends. There must be thousands coming by here," said H. Collier, one of the security guards hired by McDonald's Corp. to protect the building in the border community 20 miles south of San Diego.

"We made a special trip to come here," said Nena DePeralta of Washington, D.C., as she stood outside with her sister, Tessie Remonte, of London, England.

"This is the first place I wanted to see after I got here," said Ms. Remonte. "I just had to see it for myself because I'd read so much about it and I saw it on TV."

McDonald's initially intended to reopen the establishment but changed its mind because of vigorous opposition in the community.

Crews hired by the company have removed all corporate logos and trademarks from the building, but no decision has been made about what to do with the property or the building on it. A brick and steel fence around it has been adorned with placards and flowers in memory of the victims.

A loose-knit group of community activists is waging a petition drive in hopes of convincing McDonald's to turn the site into a memorial park.

About 30,000 signatures have been collected on the petitions, including those of visitors from all over the United States and from Ireland, Germany, Canada and France, said Tom Arena, a volunteer in the petition drive.

Not all residents in this predominantly Hispanic community favor a memorial park.

"A park would be nothing but a memorial to a crazy man who killed everybody," said Roberto Aguirre, who lives across the street from the building.

Aguirre, and his wife, Elvia, are also troubled by the constant procession of camera-carrying tourists.

"I'm tempted to put a sign up: 'Greatest Show on Earth.' It's such a freak show over there," Mrs. Aguirre said. "I'm terribly sorry about what happened — it was an atrocious tragedy — but people are so morbid over there taking pictures. They try to park in our driveway and they walk on our lawn to take family portraits in front of the place to take family portraits. It's disgusting."

Nude Bathers Chase Egyptian Soldiers

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egyptian soldiers guarding a disputed border in the Sinai have pulled back because of nude bathers at a hotel on the Israeli side, a Foreign Ministry spokesman says.

But the spokesman on Sunday denied a report in an opposition newspaper that the Egyptians had, in effect, given part of the disputed area at Taba to Israel by putting up a new fence about 100 yards behind their former positions.

The report was carried in Al Wafd, the newspaper of the right-of-center New Wafd Party, which said the guards had been distracted by nude bathers.

Both Israel and Egypt claim sovereignty over Taba, an area of less than one-half square mile at the northern tip of the Gulf of Aqaba. According to an April 1982 agreement, the dispute should be resolved through conciliation or arbitration, because U.S.-mediated negotiations have failed.

Views On Dental Health

Kenneth T. Perkins, D.D.S.P.A

CHEEKBITING

Without a doubt many of us have had the experience of unconsciously biting the inner side of our cheek. If you are tense, or have generalized anxiety, this may manifest itself when you are sleeping, or even when you are awake. One of the ways you may express tension is by clenching or grinding your teeth. This is called bruxing. Many people do it at night when they sleep. This may include biting your cheek or lip unconsciously. Normally, it will heal in a few days if you don't keep chewing on that area.

If you have a continuing problem, your dentist can check the relationship of your bite to see if there are any irregularities on the teeth surfaces that are contributing to your bruxing habit. If there are, they can easily be eliminated. He may also find a sharp cusp, or an incorrect relationship of teeth in the cheek area. Again, he can correct this easily. Lastly, he may suggest you wear a Hawley-type night guard appliance, or a bite guard to help break the habit and permit him to check your bite even more precisely.

Double Ring Vows Performed Sunday

Georgiana Rachel Cushwa and James David Tolliver were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at 3:30 in the United Memorial Methodist Church in Thomasville. Dr. James Westmoreland performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. George Joseph Cushwa Jr. and the late Mr. Cushwa. The bridegroom's parents are Dr. and Mrs. James Bert Tolliver, all of Thomasville.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Michael Cushwa, wore a gown of satin and chantilly lace. It was designed with a Victorian neckline featuring inlays of embroidered daisies and styled with an empire waistline edged in satin ribbon and chantilly lace. The sheer Victorian styled sleeves ended in lace cuffs. Her veil of illusion was attached to a band of flowers entwined with baby's breath. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and miniature carnations, white dendrobium orchid sprays and baby's breath.

Ann Franklin of Memphis, Tenn., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Kaaren Cushwa of High Point, niece of the bride, Jennifer Agee of Greenville and Kelly Poe of Raleigh were bridesmaids.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers included Bryan and Michael Tolliver, brothers of the bridegroom, Jeff Boswell and Carl Hunnicutt, all of Thomasville.

Tina Cahill of Winston-Salem provided organ music for the ceremony. Shelton Styers of Thomasville was the vocalist.

The couple will live in Greenville after a wedding trip to Cape Cod, Mass.

The bride is a graduate of Thomasville Senior High School and graduated cum laude from the East Carolina University School of Nursing. She is presently employed at Pitt County Memorial Hospital. The bridegroom is a graduate of Thomasville Senior High School and received his B.A. from ECU, where he is currently in graduate school.

A reception was given by the bride's mother at the Colonial Country Club and guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Faulkner.

The refreshment table was covered in white taffeta and pink linen overlaid in white bridal lace. Centering the table was a five branched silver antique epergne filled with gerber daisies, snapdragons, dendrobium orchids, miniature carnations, baby's breath, pink roses and other flowers flanked by silver candelabra holding lighted pink tapers. The cake table was skirted in white taffeta and overlaid in white lace.

Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Slate.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained at a rehearsal dinner at the Colonial Country Club Saturday evening.

Tips Aren't Treats For Waitresses, But Survival

DEAR ABBY: I'm a waitress who just returned home after putting in 10 hours at a restaurant. I started to relax with the newspaper when I read the letter in your column from a man signed, "Loves to Travel in Oak Park, Ill." He says he and "the wife" eat out a lot, and instead of leaving a tip, he leaves an inspirational religious tract! He says he and his wife have taken some lovely trips with the money saved on tips! Abby, I've been a waitress for 13 years. My salary right now is $1.65 an hour. I am divorced and have three children to support, and I couldn't make it on my salary alone. I need my tips to live. I love to travel, too, but I haven't had a vacation in 13 years.

STEAMED IN RICHMOND, VA.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a waitress and single parent in Seattle, raising four children on the money I earn from tips. In this state, restaurants are not required to pay minimum wages—and an employer can get away with paying as low as half the minimum wage. Many of the better restaurants here start their waitresses at $2.30 an hour, and if the establishment serves cocktails, I have to split my tips with the bartender, the captain and the busboy. After the federal government takes 8 percent for assumed tips, there's not a heck of a lot left to take home.

If we could keep 100 percent of our tips, we would be overjoyed. But if we got religious tracts instead of money, we wouldn't even break even.

SUE IN SEATTLE

DEAR ABBY: That Oak Park, Ill., chiseler who leaves "inspirational spiritual messages" instead of tips—but saves his tip money for a vacation—blew my mind!

I work 10 hours a day, no health insurance, no profit sharing, no paid vacations. My average paycheck for 40 hours is around $30 after taxes. I'd like to see somebody live on that for a week.

Believe me, no Christian feelings come from being "stuffed" when you depend on tips for a living.

I have a message for "Loves to Travel": If you can't afford to tip, stay home. We aren't working our butts off for inspiration!

MAD IN MICHIGAN

DEAR ABBY: I am doing a slow burn. I'm a waitress in Philadelphia, and my salary is $1.85 an hour before taxes. My tips put the food on my table and the shoes on my children's feet.

If anybody left a religious tract for me instead of a tip, first I would tell him my name. Then I'd inform him that if he ever came back, he had better not sit in the station I serve because he would sit there until the second coming of Christ before I'd wait on him.

The guts of that cheapskate—using the word of the Lord as an excuse to get out of paying for service!

HATES HYPOCRITES

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Loves to Travel": Will you please tell my husband where he can turn your religious tracts in for cash? Our kids aren't goats—they don't eat paper.

My husband is a cab driver, and he takes home a third of what the meter reads—plus his tips. So if he doesn't get a tip, he is working for nothing.

Do me a favor, next time you need a cab: Take a bus!

CABBIE'S WIFE IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR ABBY: I've been a waiter in Las Vegas most of my adult life, and you are the only person who has ever come out and said that a tip is not a nice little "something extra" for the waiter or waitress, it's their bread and butter. Our salaries are peanuts. Don't blame the employers. If they did away with tipping and charged the customer what they had to in order to stay in business, the prices would be at least double—and probably more.

Jay-C-Ettes To Participate In Bazaar

The Greenville Jay-C-Ettes are making plans for participating in the bazaar at Carolina East Mall Oct. 27. Workshops on stenciling, lamp shades and grapevine wreaths will be held.

President Jane Harrison welcomed Simone Pate, Susan Reynolds and Christy Trull as new members at the group's meeting Wednesday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church fellowship hall. Guests included Carol Ann Frey and Katie Potter.

A letter of appreciation for support given to the Jaycee Little League ball team was shared. A family social was held recently at the home of Ken and Ludie Smith. Plans were made for an upcoming couples social and a membership party in September.

A birthday cake was provided for a child at REAP during August and a monetary birthday gift was sent to a child at Boys Home in Lake Waccamaw. Gifts were provided for the prenatal clinic at the Pitt County Health Department. Plans were made for a project to benefit the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Volunteers were solicited to help the Jaycees with a Muscular Dystrophy roadblock Aug. 25 and with the upcoming Cystic Fibrosis telethon. A donation will be given the Greenville All-Stars Little League team for play-offs.

Ginger Barber and Linda Asbell are co-chairing a barbecue chicken supper the group will be sponsoring Sept. 7. Proceeds will be given to the Ronald McDonald House of Eastern North Carolina. Tickets are available from any Greenville Jay-C-Ette for $3.25 each—with pick-up points being parking lots at Farm Fresh and Harris Supermarket on Memorial Drive.

Thanks for educating the public, Abby.

Spouse Abuse and Family Education
by: Catherine Radecki, Ph.D.

Pitt County Mental Health Center has begun an educational program for abusers and their spouses. This course is an eight week series of classes whose primary goal is the elimination of physical abuse between male and female adults. Couples are taught to recognize their own "cues" and "triggers" for violence. Cues are signals that the tension which often leads to violence is building. Triggers are the actual words or acts which set off the violence.

There are good reasons for eliminating violence between partners. Violence often increases in intensity and frequency leading to more serious injury and even murder. Secondly, children who witness violence between their parents are likely to be abused or abusive with their spouses when they marry.

The course also teaches skills for resolving conflict without violence. Since conflict will always be present, couples are taught to express their emotions and to examine how they entangle themselves by their own "self talk."

Referrals are accepted upon request or through the courts if an individual is convicted of assaulting his/her spouse. Ask for the SAFE program.

MARIE WALLACE

is pleased to announce the affiliation of

Ann Carol Stocks-Janet Swain Cox-and Su-Su Aycok Corbitt

who will be on faculty at the

Marie Wallace School of Dance

this 1984-85 year

Ann Carol Stocks

Ann Carol Stocks has been dancing for over fifteen years. She began at the age of eight under Libby Allen in Elizabeth City, N.C. Upon moving to Greenville, she continued her dance training under Marie Wallace where she has studied for the past ten years. "Miss Ann", as her students call her, has been teaching part-time for the Marie Wallace School of Dance for the past four years. She has also attended workshops like Dansorama-By-The-Sea at Wrightsville Beach, N.C. to study under noted performers and teaches such as Julia Mayer, Bruce Lea, Bo Wagner, and Carol Storm.

Janet Swain Cox

Janet Swain Cox has been a student of Marie Wallace since age 7 and continued her education at ECU School of Dance. She has assisted Marie Wallace in all types of dance for the last two years and also has studied all types of dancing at national workshops under noted teachers such as Bo Wagner, Carol Storm, Bruce Lea and many others. Janet has performed in such ECU productions as "Twelve Dancing Princesses" and performed the role of "Baby June" in "Gypsy". Janet is the winner of over 600 trophies and 150 medals in baton twirling, holding such state titles as "Miss Majorette of N.C. 1975, 1976 & 1979 and such National Titles as "Little Majorette Princess of America" 1970 and "Miss Majorette of the Year" 1974. Janet was also featured twirler with the ECU marching Pirates in 1977, '78 & '79.

Su-Su A. Corbitt

Su-Su has been involved with dance since the age of 3, either participating in lessons or performing. In college at St. Mary's College and UNC-CH, she was a member of these universities dance groups, performing state wide and on public television. After returning to Greenville, she taught dance with the Marie Wallace School of Dance and the Greenville Museum of Art. In addition to the ECU Summer Theatre, she performed with the ECU Dance Theatre and a recently formed improvisational group.

Picture Clears

Now that the Environmental Protection Agency's superfund increase has been given approval by the House, we'll breathe easier.

No question about it, the extended superfund measure was essential. For one thing, costs of toxic waste cleanup have proven larger than anticipated at individual sites. Then there has been the uncovering of additional waste sites from the forgotten past; as well as new finds (such as leakage from buried storage tanks ... much of it gasoline at service stations.)

The bill boosts the program's funds sixfold, as well as imposing standards and deadlines for the EPA (requiring at least 150 site-cleanups each year); and permits people to sue the EPA if the agency fails to follow the superfund law.

The latter is almost as important as the extra money.

We recall too well how the EPA's image was tarnished in its early administration. With William Ruckelshaus at the helm our misgivings have given way to a wait-and-see attitude. There is no question but that he inherited a number of problems within the agency, but the Ruckelshaus record is one of a problem-solver.

It is important we all remember public awareness of preserving a good and safe environment is of almost recent origins. Adopting a governmental cleanup policy is even more recent. Industry, government and even individual citizens for many years abused the land, the water, and the very air we breathe. When awareness did finally become rampant, the scope of the problem was not fully appreciated. The picture is clearer today.

Though the 1984 multibillion-dollar measure is far-reaching, it is by no means certain all the past neglect and present problems will be undone. Further action may well prove necessary.

Sage Advice

Count one more small blessing for the consumer: wholesale prices for July rose a modest 0.3 percent in July — a figure which saw the first increase in food costs since March. Perhaps that means farmers are getting a break, too.

Gasoline prices actually fell during the month, another sign that inflation is remaining at modest levels despite the economy's strength.

Actually, the favorable economic news we've been getting for the past several months is almost too good to be true. The one thorn in what might be called a bed of roses has been posed by an increase in interest rates. Even that has not proven as difficult to live with as one might have feared.

By year's end — barring the unexpected — this should have been one of the better national economic periods in almost a decade. It poses some sort of a problem for November's election-winners. They will be facing some old and sage advice that applies in almost every field:

If it ain't broke, don't fix it.

Presidential Jawboning Upsets Labor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's apparent effort to jawbone the United Auto Workers union into accepting wage moderation has labor leaders gnashing their teeth.

Reagan's request that auto workers use "some restraint" in bargaining with General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. was mild compared to the jawboning of presidents Harry S. Truman, John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson and, to a lesser extent, Richard M. Nixon and Jimmy Carter.

What made Reagan's statement startling is that this president has carefully practiced a hands-off policy on labor disputes in private business, notwithstanding his wholesale firing of some 11,400 illegally striking government air traffic controllers three years ago.

Truman got after the United Mine Workers after World War II, but his jawboning failed to avert a strike that shut down coal mines. Kennedy jumped on the United Steel Workers of America. And Johnson called the machinists on the carpet in what then-IAM President Ed Smith mocked as the lecture of "a Dutch uncle."

Party Rule Causes Concern

RALEIGH (AP) — Some Southern Democratic leaders are upset about a party rule calling on state organizations to recruit gays, but North Carolina party chairman David Price predicts the rule won't bring big changes to the state.

The rule calls on state groups to recruit "ethnics, youth, persons over 65 years of age, lesbians and gay men."

For a long time the party has had a rule prohibiting discrimination against minority groups, including gays. But this year gays also were included in the list of groups the party will make a special effort to inform because they may have been underrepresented.

Price, who as a member of the rules committee, said he voted against the new rule.

He said he interpreted the rule as being designed to make sure parties do like the North Carolina party, inform all kinds of groups about their activities and make the process open to them.

"We do that even for groups not on that list," Price said. "It (the rule) will really not change our practice at all. We already have a policy of informing any caucuses within the party and also any outside groups that express an interest."

He said the rule, adopted without debate at the party's convention in San Francisco, is not a big issue in the state.

But Tennessee party chairman Richard Lodge said he will ignore the rule, a move that could jeopardize that state's delegates credentials at the next national convention.

Lodge said the rule is "an example of the national party making it more difficult for us in the more traditional part of the country to be successful."

Price agrees that such rules make it unnecessarily difficult for Democrats in conservative areas.

"Singling out gays is not necessary in terms of opening up the party and it is an issue that might cause problems," he said.

"We're all opposed to discrimination. It's appropriate for the party to prohibit discrimination to make certain everyone has a fair chance. But the additional step of singling out gays for party outreach is unnecessary," Price said.

Political Honeymoon Goes On

WASHINGTON (AP) — The best Republican political brains in America are trying, you can be sure, to figure out how to deal with Geraldine A. Ferraro.

For the moment, she's got something all politicians want. She's got glamour. She's a national celebrity. This goes beyond mere charisma, which is rare enough.

And — gnash, gnash, go Republican teeth — the Democrats' vice presidential candidate seems to have that quality that makes her immune to criticism, at least for the moment.

An estimated 6 million more women than men are expected to vote in November. President Reagan commands stronger support among men than women. The Republicans are sensitive about doing anything that could irritate women voters, whose empathy for a member of their own sex may prove to be stronger than other considerations.

There's irony at work here, because heretofore it was the Democrats who threw their arms in the air and said that Ronald Reagan's warmth allowed him to get away with political murder.

Maybe Ms. Ferraro is still enjoying the honeymoon, still glowing in the surprised approval that seemed to sum up the country's reaction to a woman being named to the national ticket of a major political party.

Or maybe she hasn't had enough opportunities yet to make many mistakes. The campaign still has 12 weeks to go.

But it could be, too, that the glow will not wear off and that Ms. Ferraro — with a flair for spontaneity and with what comes across as a lack of political guile — may escape the kind of critical scrutiny that exposes the mere mortality of most politicians.

John V. Lindsay ran successfully for election as mayor of New York City on the slogan, "He is fresh and everyone else is tired." Ms. Ferraro could make the slogan apply to herself.

Challenged by Jim Buck Ross, the 70-year-old commissioner of agriculture in the state of Mississippi, "Can you cook a blueberry muffin?", Ms. Ferraro shoots back: "Yes. Can you?"

Does Jim Buck Ross stiffen and take umbrage?

He does not. He laughs. Ms. Ferraro laughs. Everyone laughs. A good time is had by all.

Conservatives hold a news conference to charge that Ms. Ferraro is violating the law by not disclosing her husband's financial holdings. Twenty minutes later, Ms. Ferraro stands in the doorway of her office and replies. She says she has not violated the law. She recalls she had predicted a dirty campaign and calls the conservatives' complaint as just an example of that.

So far, the issue lacks sizzle. Meantime, Republicans have learned that attempts to belittle Ms. Ferraro can backfire.

Even Ronald Reagan found that out. He told a group of Republican women on July 13 that there was "no tokenism or cynical symbolism" at play when Margaret Thatcher was chosen as head of Britain's Conservative Party "not because she was a woman but because she was the best person for the job."

Reagan didn't even mention Geraldine Ferraro, who at the time was in Walter Mondale's hometown of Elmore, Minn., challenging George Bush to debates because "I'd like to let the people of America see if I can keep up with George Bush."

Nonetheless, Reagan was called on the carpet by some women's leaders who read in his remarks the suggestion that Ms. Ferraro's selection as Mondale's running mate amounted to "tokenism or cynical symbolism."

And at his news conference 12 days later, Reagan had to explain himself and say something nice about Ms. Ferraro. He called her nomination "just another step forward in the recognition of the new place of women that has been long overdue. I think it is significant."

Tough Edward Rollins, Reagan's campaign director, had to apologize for the suggested sexual innuendo in dismissing the Ferraro nomination as potentially "the biggest bust politically in recent history."

Strength For Today

We appear at the present time to be living in an age of worldwide turmoil. Revolutions are widespread. Tyranny is rife in many lands. Freedom is struggling with despotism. What does it all mean?

There are some who believe that this state of affairs presages the end of the world and the second coming of Christ. Others see the present upset conditions as just one more example of the many periods of confusion recorded in history.

We know nothing about human destiny, save that the world and its creatures are in the hands of a loving God. Whether we suffer or prosper, one thing we do know is that God is preparing his children not for destruction but for glory. The God who made us is a God of love. The ends he has set for us are those of delight. "Eye hath not seen nor ear heard ... the things which God hath prepared for them that love him."

—Art Buchwald—

From The Files Of The CIA

Many stories have come out about the CIA, but this is one that is still buried secretly in the archives. It has to do with an agent named Greensleeves. He was young, energetic, and imaginative. The CIA decided to set him up in a souvenir shop across the street from the palace of a Central American dictator, where he could keep tabs on the comings and goings of government officials.

They gave him enough money to buy the shop and the souvenirs so the operation would be legitimate. This exchange of cables, after they were decoded, tells the story.

"CIA Headquarters, Langley: Business excellent. Have sold $16,000 worth of souvenirs thanks to Dictator Tacos' three-day anniversary celebration in front of palace. Please tell our people in Taiwan I need more Tacos ashtrays, paperweights, and letter openers. If all right with you, am planning a sale on Tacos music boxes that play 'South of the Border.' — Greensleeves."

"Greensleeves: Glad to hear you are doing well businesswise, but what the hell is going on at the palace? We hear Tacos may be overthrown by right-wing colonels. Please advise at once. — Frogmaster."

"CIA Headquarters, Langley: Sorry I have been too busy taking inventory to pay much attention to palace, but have good news. Discovered a factory outside Siesta that makes cuckoo clocks and hand-painted scarves. Have bought three gross at half-price. Expect sales figures in June up 20 percent over May. Had to pay off customs to get cigarette lighters into country, but will add bribe to price to item. — Greensleeves."

"Greensleeves: Why no word from you on Tacos assassination attempt and his exile from country? Who is now in charge of Paella? Urgently need list of junta and whether it's pro- or anti-American. — Frogmaster."

"CIA Headquarters, Langley: Agency has nothing to hear from Tacos overthrow. I got wind of it two weeks ago and had Tacos Birthday Sale on Saturday, where I marked down all Dictator Tacos items 50 percent. The bronze busts moved especially well. We also unloaded 4,000 plates with portraits of Mrs. Tacos. Only item that didn't sell as well as expected was night-light of Tacos standing well to Virgin Mary. Tell our Hong Kong people that I am sending them photograph of Colonel Chili which I would like them to have framed with sea shells. Also need 3,000 beer mugs commemorating the junta's revolution of July 5. — Greensleeves."

"Greensleeves: What information do you have concerning naval attack on Paella by neighboring Country of Enchilada? Understand shelling destroyed half of downtown as well as Soviet, British, French, and Chinese embassies. — Frogmaster."

"CIA Headquarters, Langley: Your information correct. I heard about it 10 days ago from Enchilada defector and moved all breakable items to the basement. Also boarded up windows. You'll be happy to know we had the only souvenir shop in Paella that opened for business the next day. — Greensleeves."

"Greensleeves, Paella, Central America: What has happened to U.S. Ambassador? Is he being held hostage by revolutionary urban guerrillas as reported by AP, UPI, Reuters, and Agence France Presse?"

"CIA Headquarters, Langley: U.S. Ambassador was kidnapped three days ago. One of my salespeople has a brother who told her about kidnapping plans last week. I immediately took steps to check Ambassador's charge account. He owed us $89. I managed to get his check before he was grabbed. We haven't lost a dime on him. Any chance of shipping Fidel Castro baseball caps? They're expected 15,000 armed Cuban tourists, and it could be hottest item this summer."

Freed Chinese Hijackers Expelled By South Korea

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Six Chinese who hijacked a Chinese commercial airliner to South Korea last year arrived in Taiwan today after the South Korean government freed them from jail and expelled them.

Taiwan's vice foreign minister, Ding Mou-shih, said the five men and one woman arrived at a military air base in central Taiwan this afternoon aboard a plane which was sent to pick them up in Seoul, the South Korean capital.

The hijackers had said they commandeered the Chinese airliner in May 1983 in an attempt to flee mainland China and seek asylum in Taiwan.

The case was a sensitive one for South Korea, which has close ties with the Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan but also has been trying to improve relations with the Communist government in mainland China.

There are no diplomatic relations between Seoul and Peking, but the hijacking case brought the first officially acknowledged contacts between the two governments when a Chinese delegation came to retrieve the hijacked airplane.

In an official announcement today, South Korea said: "Assuming the six have fully repented during their more than one-year imprisonment and in consideration of appeals from various sectors for their release, it has been decided that their sentences will be suspended and they will be forcibly expelled from the country because their entry was not legitimate."

"On the basis of humanitarianism, they will be allowed to choose their destination by their own free will," the statement said.

The six were convicted of hijacking a Chinese domestic flight, carrying 105 passengers and crewmen, to South Korea on May 5, 1983. Two crewmen on the British-built Trident were wounded in a shooting that broke out when the hijackers seized the aircraft.

They six were charged with violating South Korean laws on aircraft safety, immigration control, fire arms control and aircraft navigation.

They were tried by the Seoul District Court in August 1983, and the court's findings were later upheld by the Seoul Appellate Court and South Korea's Supreme Court.

Zhuo Chang-ren, 36, the leader of the group, was sentenced to six years in prison, two others to five years, and three to four years.

Troops Burn Sri Lankan Town

JAFFNA, Sri Lanka (AP) — Army troops set fire to the Tamil-dominated town of Mannar in retaliation for a guerrilla ambush of a military convoy, official sources said today.

The sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said more than 3,000 families lost their homes in the army action Sunday in the town 50 miles south of Jaffna on the Gulf of Mannar. "Only four to five buildings have been left standing in Mannar," one source said.

The national security minister confirmed that houses were set afire in Mannar and said an inquiry was under way to determine who was responsible. The Roman Catholic bishop of Mannar said soldiers rampaged through the streets of the town in retaliation for a rebel attack.

"A police investigation is on to find out whether a mob that set fire to houses in Mannar comprised members of the Sri Lanka army," National Security Minister Lalith Athulathmudali told a news conference in the capital of Colombo. "If the army was involved, they would be dealt with severely under military law."

The minister said the government was awaiting details of the devastation, but that the mob "had arrived in a government transport bus."

The Rev. Thomas Sundanayam, the Roman Catholic bishop of Mannar, said soldiers rampaged through the streets Sunday in reprisal for a rebel attack on a military convoy a day earlier.

"It is like an army of invasion flattening everything in its path," he told The Associated Press. Official sources said the action was in apparent retaliation for a rebel attack Saturday on a military convoy.

Reliable government sources said eight to 10 soldiers were killed when a remote-controlled bomb exploded on a highway north of Mannar on Saturday. The government had said there were only six deaths.

Meanwhile, Tamil rebels bombed the Kayts police station 10 miles outside Jaffna early today. Officials said the dawn attack was repulsed and five guerrillas were slain. There were no police casualties, officials said.

Athulathmudali reported 15 "Tamil terrorists" were slain in a gun battle with security forces Saturday shortly after an explosion destroyed a police station near Jaffna and killed at least 19 Tamils. Most of the victims were reported to have been imprisoned inside.

The blast occurred at Chunnakam, nine miles outside Jaffna, the main city in Tamil-dominated northern province.

Chunnakam residents interviewed Monday blamed security forces for handcuffing and gagging Tamil prisoners and then planting a booby-trapped bomb at the police station.

Witnesses said about 200 army and police troops evacuated the station Saturday but left the prisoners behind. Residents tried to free the guerrillas but the bomb exploded when the back door of the building was opened, they said.

Athulathmudali said Tamil separatists planned to blow up the police station after the withdrawal of security personnel but that they "mistimed the detonation of the explosive device and killed themselves."

Chunnakam residents said many victims were found gagged with their hands tied behind their backs. Residents said more bodies may be buried under the debris of the police station.

Warsaw, Poland (AP) — Solidarity activists and the Roman Catholic Church are calling on Poles to quit drinking vodka this month in an action that, if successful, would strike at the heart of Poland's most profitable industry.

A sobriety pledge has been taken by thousands of worshippers at Masses throughout the country and distributed by more than 15 underground Solidarity organizations in workshops in at least seven cities.

The church appeal is couched in religious terms and stresses the moral and health dilemmas of alcohol abuse, but church figures and Solidarity acknowledge there are political motives behind the boycott.

They view it as a form of protest against an unpopular government, reasoning that Poles' taste for vodka saps their will and makes them easier to suppress.

Government officials deny allegations they have not done enough to combat the problem, noting that Polish leader Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski has listed reduction of alcoholism one of his top social goals.

Alcoholism is widely regarded as Poland's leading social problem. A recent public opinion survey published in the weekly Communist Party newspaper Polityka indicated that Poles feel more endangered by the threat of alcoholism than by another world war.

Solidarity, Church Pledging Sobriety

The government news agency reported last month that during the first quarter of the year, more than 75 percent of all murders, rapes and assaults were committed by people under the influence of alcohol, and that drunks were responsible for one of every four crimes.

Per capita consumption is estimated at more than 18 pints of pure alcohol a year, one of the highest levels in the world.

Anti-alcohol groups estimate that one-third of the average Polish family's yearly food budget goes toward alcohol and that 4.5 million people drink enough to be considered alcohol abusers.

ABC's 'Call To Glory' Debuts Tonight With Program That Lives Up To Billing

By FRED ROTHENBERG
 AP Television Writer
 NEW YORK (AP) — It was 1962 — before the Beatles, before men on the moon, before cable TV. John Kennedy was in the White House and Ronald Reagan was in Hollywood. America was proud being America, and it didn't need to show it with flag pins waving in its lapels.

Life may or may not have been better, but the recalled perception was that it was less complicated. It was easier to separate heroes from villains. The military was mostly right, and strong family values existed without being worn so openly on political sleeves.

That's the spirit and setting behind ABC's "Call to Glory," the heavily promoted series that, for once, lives up to network hype. It starts tonight.

But if you've been watching ABC's Summer Olympics, you know that, having seen promotional snippets the past two weeks that add up to more time than the two-hour opener.

Stated simply, this episode of "Call to Glory" is the best series program ABC has done in recent memory. The show about a test pilot and his family in the 1960s is not about the military; it's about humanity with a military backdrop.

Tonight's storyline believably integrates the real Cuban missile crisis of 1962. Col. Raynor Sarnac (Craig T. Nelson) commands a squadron of pilots who fly reconnaissance missions over Cuba to take detailed pictures of suspected Soviet-built offensive missiles there.

The show is packed with realistic tension, breathtaking aerial footage (most of it real Air Force flying), and it explores all facets of the emotional rollercoaster experienced by an always ready-to-air flyboy's family.

The series will have five more episodes this summer, then return with seven more as a replacement for one of ABC's inevitable cancellations.

It's precisely because this series, created by filmmakers Jon Avnet and Steve Tisch ("Risky Business"), is so unlike ABC's standard fare of glitter, car chases and fantasy that the network is working hard to interest its regular audience by placing "Call to Glory" against rerun competition right after the extraordinary promotional exposure of the Olympics.

"ABC is letting us go on the air preserving the spirit and heart of the pilot (first episode)," said Tisch. "They haven't asked us to give them a jeep crash or plane crash every 20 minutes."

Nelson will remind viewers of Gary Cooper: strong, solid and stoic. He's a character worthy of respect for his beliefs and values, not because he can fly a plane at daredevil speeds. Nelson remembers being "anti-everything" in the 60s. "I was a drama major," he said.

Sarnac's family includes wife Vanessa (Cindy Pickett), a strong-minded and supportive woman, and three children.

Sixteen-year-old Jackie (Elisabeth Shue) is in that limbo period between silly adolescent and serious teen-ager. She wants her grandfather (Keenan Wynn) to teach her to fly, but her mother forbids it.

Wesley (David Hollander) is 12, a bit bratty and very interested in G-I-R-L-S. Eight-year-old R.H. has stopped talking, apparently because he's seen pilots go down and fears for his father's life. Also, paranoia was in the air. School air-raid drills were big back then.

Events of the '60s, supported by newsreel footage like tonight's speeches by Kennedy on Cuba and U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson's famous "hell freezes over" remark to the Soviets, will provide emotional and historical context.

Tisch said some future stories will involve reactions to Kennedy's assassination, the impact of Martin Luther King and even how the Beatles' appearance on "The Ed Sullivan Show" changes Jackie's life.

Music plays an important role here, with songs such as "I Know Something About Love," "Surfin' Safari" and "There's a Summer Place" helping define the time period. The producers pored over old Life magazines to reproduce the era's clothing and hairstyles.

Two shows with a military setting, NBC's "For Love and Honor" and CBS' "Emerald Point, N.A.S." failed last season, but "Call to Glory" has much more going for it. Human beings actually are underneath those uniforms.

The only "military" show that succeeded recently was "M-A-S-H," which, of course, lambasted the army's macho mentality from the safe perspective of the pre-Vietnam '50s.

Is the nation ready for another military series, especially one that treats the military seriously, sensitively and, so far, sympathetically?

Yes — as long as "Call to Glory" continues to manifest warmth, credibility and compelling drama, while its military portrayal is realistic, human and not too heavy on hardware and a gung-ho, damn-the-consequences mindset.

Washington Opera At Edinburgh Show

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — The Washington Opera and George Washington's crab-tree walking stick have arrived in Edinburgh for this year's 38th International Arts Festival.

So have about about 5,000 performers in drama, dance, music and cabaret, as well as a host of exhibitions that are expected to attract 1 million visitors to Scotland's capital to the annual festival over the next three weeks.

The Washington Opera, on its first trip abroad, opened the festival at the King's Theater Sunday night to an ovation for its double bill "The Telephone" and "The Medium" by Gian Carlo Menotti. The Italian-born composer, who lives near Edinburgh, took a curtain call with the cast.

The official Festival, 207 commissioned performances of mostly highbrow entertainment, coexists with the unofficial Festival Fringe of 8,000 performances by amateurs and professionals who paid their own way.

"It's the world's biggest self-promoted event," says Fringe administrator Michael Dale.

The walking stick of the first American president, bequeathed to him by Benjamin Franklin, is at the Royal Scottish Museum in the largest traveling exhibition ever mounted by the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. There are fossils from Arizona, an 1890 buckboard beside a lunar rover moon buggy, an Appalachian dulcimer and a 20-dollar gold coin of 1907.

The exhibition celebrates the 200th anniversary of a visit to Scotland by

Vanessa Williams Does Pilot

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Vanessa Williams, the first Miss America to step down in the pageant's 63-year history, starts work on a TV pilot this week and is getting over the Penthouse controversy, her lawyer says.

Miss Williams, 21, has received a number of job offers despite the controversy surrounding the publication of nude photographs of her that forced her to give up her crown three weeks ago, said Dennis Dowdell, an attorney and friend of the Williams family.

"I think she is doing the right thing by saying, 'I'm going to work in order to prove I have talent,'" said Dowdell. "... I think personally that work is best therapy."

Miss Williams is to work on the pilot in San Francisco with Lonnie Anderson and Linda Carter, who star in the Carson Productions show to be called "Partners In Crime," Dowdell said.

AMC, Chrysler Set To Raise Prices

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. are planning to raise prices on the 1985 models of some of their hottest-selling cars, an industry publication said today.

AMC will raise prices on its 1985-model Renaults and Jeeps an average 4.1 percent, and Chrysler plans to boost prices of its minivans by 5 percent, according to Ward's Automotive Reports.

AMC expects to raise the price of its basic Encore hatchback by 3.5 percent, or $204, to $5,959, Ward's said. Some standard equipment also will be dropped from the basic Encore, Ward's said.

The base price of AMC's Eagle will increase 7.9 percent, or $762, to $10,457, Ward's said. However, the four-wheel-drive vehicle will feature additional standard equipment, the trade journal said.

Base prices on the Renault Fuego and Sportwagon models will not change, Ward's said.

AMC also plans to boost prices of its CJ-model Jeeps by 4.1 percent and will drop the least-expensive version of the vehicle, Ward's said. Wagoneer prices will rise 5.2 percent, or $661, to $13,255, but the compact model will include additional standard equipment, the publication said.

Base prices for Chrysler's Caravan and Voyager will rise $478 to $9,147, including additional standard equipment valued at $130, Ward's said. Chrysler is expected to increase prices for its 1985 cars less than 4.1 percent, the publication said.

Discrimination Test Leaves Lasting Effect On Students

RICEVILLE, Iowa (AP) — An exercise based on eye-color that taught white third-graders the humiliation of discrimination 14 years ago was so successful that the participants say it has made them more tolerant as adults and affects the way they raise their children.

"It gave us an open mind on the world," said Sheila Schaefer Flaherty, 23. "If we can pass it on to our kids, and they can pass it on to their kids, then hopefully in a few generations, nasty discrimination will die out."

Eleven of the 16 children who took part in the exercise in 1970 gathered Saturday for a reunion with their teacher, Jane Elliott, who devised the lesson to help her all-white class at the rural Riceville Community Elementary School learn about slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr.

She divided the class into two groups, the brown eyes and the blue eyes.

"I told them that brown-eyed people are better than blue-eyed people — they are smarter and cleaner. And within 15 minutes after the exercise started, the brown-eyed children became viciously cruel, condescending, elitist," she said.

At the same time, Mrs. Elliott said, the blue-eyed students "became unclean, belligent, angry, frustrated, defeated. They couldn't read, they dropped their pencils. They did all the things that are supposed to be limited to minority groups."

The next day, the exercise was reversed, and the blue eyes were on top. Mrs. Elliott said she got similar results, except the blue eyes were slightly kinder to the brown eyes than the brown eyes had been to them.

"The (blue-eyed) kids said afterwards, 'I didn't want to make my friends feel the way I felt when I was on the bottom.' And that's very valuable learning," she said.

On the third day, Mrs. Elliott explained there is no real difference between blue and brown eyes.

"After they hear that, they get back together, they hug, they cry, you get the feeling what society could be like if it was non-judgmental. You create instant cousins," Mrs. Elliott said.

Sue Ginder Rolland, 23, said the exercise is never far from her mind now that she is raising three children of her own.

"Prejudice has to be worked out young or it will be with you all your life," she said. "Sometimes I catch myself (discriminating), stop myself, think back to the third-grade, and remember what it was like to be put down."

"The exercise was more valuable, more lasting, than I ever expected it to be," said Mrs. Elliott, 50, who first used the exercise in 1968. "What they are doing with their children is going to make a difference with another generation."

Ferraro Husband Says No

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Geraldine Ferraro has reversed herself on release of her husband's income tax returns, saying she won't make them public as part of her promised full financial disclosure.

The Democratic vice presidential nominee said Sunday that she tried unsuccessfully to convince her husband John Zaccaro to file his tax return with the family's financial disclosure form next Monday.

Her husband, she said, is afraid release would hurt his real estate business.

"His reaction was, 'I won't tell you how to run the country and don't tell me how to run my business,'" she said Sunday in Washington before taking off on a five-day tour through California, Oregon and Washington state, her first solo campaign swing as vice presidential nominee.

Then, she quipped: "So you people married to Italian men, you know what it's like."

As the Democratic vice presidential candidate, Ms. Ferraro is required by law to file a financial disclosure form with the Federal Election Commission within 30 days of her nomination. She has said that disclosure will be made Aug. 20, next Monday.

Although it is not required, Ms. Ferraro said last month that she also would release her tax returns as well as her husband's for the last several years.

Republicans Plan Fast-Paced Meet

DALLAS (AP) — Republican leaders, pledging to keep the public "informed and entertained" during next week's convention, are offering a streamlined program that will eliminate many traditional speeches and renominate President Reagan and Vice President George Bush in a single roll call of the states.

An unintended consequence of such a roll call could be to give added prominence to any defections from Bush by conservative supporters of the president.

While party planners disclosed the program, seven subcommittees were meeting today to work on the party platform, the only area that could produce some controversy — particularly on the question of taxes.

Auto Rams Cable Car

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A motorist waited for a tourist-filled cable car, then gunned his engine, crossed a double-yellow line and rammed it at 60 mph, killing himself and sending passengers hurtling through the air, injuring 26 people, authorities said.

"I've never seen one like this, a head-on collision, apparently deliberately, at speed," said Art Curtis, San Francisco Municipal Railway operations manager.

The San Francisco County Coroner's Office has identified the driver of the automobile as in his mid-30s, but withheld his name pending notification of relatives.

Police estimated the automobile was traveling at 60 mph when it hit the cable car. Investigators found no skid marks, indicating the driver did not try to stop.

PASSING THROUGH — Actress Elizabeth Taylor, wearing a blonde wig, walks through London's Heathrow Airport Sunday, en route to Switzerland. She arrived on a flight from Los Angeles under an assumed name and continued her journey on a private aircraft. She visited the grave today of actor Richard Burton, her former husband. # Elizabeth Taylor Visits Burton Grave CELIGNY, Switzerland (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor paid an emotional visit today to the grave of Richard Burton, the Welsh-born actor who married her twice and once said he would always love her.

Miss Taylor spent about 10 minutes in front of the tree-shaded grave site where Burton was buried last Thursday. He died Aug. 5 of a brain hemorrhage.

The actress appeared at the village cemetery as gray, hazy day was dawning over this small Lake Geneva village. At her side, arm-in-arm, was a young woman who pleaded with waiting reporters for "decency, decency, let her be alone in peace."

Four men accompanying them used large umbrellas to shield Miss Taylor from a few photographers waiting at the gravesite, according to witnesses.

A witness said Miss Taylor knelt down and bowed in front of the grave, putting her head in her hands and appearing to pray. When she stood up, she was seen sobbing, and two escorts helped her back over the path to a parking lot.

Wearing dark glasses, a jacket and slacks, Miss Taylor did not speak to reporters. The young woman with her said Miss Taylor was "too distressed" to meet the press.

When the party walked back to a chauffeured Mercedes that had brought her, the escorts scooped up dirt and rock and threw it at the press, several witnesses said. One British reporter said he was hit.

One German photographer showed a broken umbrella with which he said he was hit on the back by one of the men accompanying Miss Taylor.

Her party then drove off. Unconfirmed reports said she planned to stay for a couple of days at her luxurious chalet at Gstaad, an Alpine resort about two hours' drive from this village.

Burton had divorced his first wife, Sybil Williams, to marry Miss Taylor in 1964 after they co-starred in the film "Cleopatra." They were divorced in 1974, remarried a year later in a bush village in the African state of Botswana, and divorced again in 1976.

Town May Lift Overnight Curfew

LAWRENCE, Mass. (AP) — Authorities considered lifting a curfew that produced three nights of calm among whites and Hispanics in the tense Tower Hill section, but said extra police will continue to patrol the neighborhood.

Alderman Raymond H. Johnson, the public safety director, said the 50 or so city police on the streets Sunday night arrested only two people on curfew violations, and state police units were pulled off alert.

He said he would recommend lifting the curfew at a meeting today, although a "fairly heavy police presence will continue the next several nights" whether or not the curfew is lifted.

The dawn-to-dusk restriction, imposed Friday, followed firebomb rampages and confrontations between whites and Hispanics on Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Fifteen people were injured and more than 50 arrested during the unrest.

The streets of Lawrence were quiet early today, and no violence was reported during the night.

Archbishop Bernard F. Law, leader of two million Roman Catholics in the Boston archdiocese, appealed for community unity at a Mass conducted in three languages Sunday.

"We are Christians. Let's prove it to ourselves," said Law, who addressed church-goers in English, French and Spanish.

Law's 90-minute sermon at St. Mary's Catholic Church was interrupted by frequent applause.

"I think this is what we needed," said Tower Hill resident Eva Duffen. "We need to feel friendly with Puerto Ricans, to get to know them...and realize we're all brothers and sisters."

Mayor John Buckley, in his first year in office, said Sunday he was not aware that the Justice Department had warned the city for three years about tensions building in the city of 63,000 located 30 miles north of Boston.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices declined broadly today as interest rates headed higher.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 4.97 to 1,213.12 in the first half hour.

Losers outnumbered gainers by almost 2 to 1 in the early count of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said many traders appeared to believe that the stock market had come too far too fast in its rally of the past two weeks.

That belief was reinforced by the market's showing Friday, when it rose sharply in early trading but then fell back to finish mixed.

Another drag on stock prices as a new trading week began was a rise in open-market interest rates. Prices of long-term government bonds, which move in the opposite direction from interest rates, fell more than $5 for every $1,000 in face value.

Today's early volume leaders included American Telephone & Telegraph, down 3/4 at 18 1/2; International Business Machines, down 3/8 at 120 3/8; Hewlett-Packard, down 1/2 at 41 3/4, and General Motors, off 1/2 at 73 1/4.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 5.96 to 1,218.09, reducing its gain for the week to 16.01 points. The average had been up more than 20 points in early trading.

Advances outpaced declines by about 2 to 1 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 171.03 million shares, the fourth largest total on record, against 131.19 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index rose .11 to 95.08. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 1.40 at 208.37.

Dollar Soaring To New Records

LONDON (AP) — The American dollar, boosted by higher U.S. interest rates took off on a new record-shattering march in early European trading today. Gold prices tumbled some five dollars an ounce.

The dollar, surging against every currency, hit a new record high against the Italian lire, bettered its previous closing record against the French franc, and reached an 11-year high against the West German mark and a 10-year high against the Dutch guilder.

The dollar hit 1,795.00 Italian lire, compared with Friday's late rate of 1,779.00 and the previous record of 1,788.92, also recorded at the close on Aug. 7.

The dollar traded at 8.9565 French francs, up from late Friday's late 8.9100 and bettering the previous record of 8.9495 at the close on Aug. 7, but below its trading record of 8.9730.

In Tokyo, where trading ends before it begins in Europe, the dollar rose nearly two Japanese yen to close at 243.90 yen, compared with 242.15 on Friday. The yen was quoted in later European trading at 243.72 yen.

In London, the dollar rose against the pound which cost $1.3063 in early trading, cheaper than Friday's late rate of $1.3115.

Early dollar rates against other key currencies compared with late rates Friday:

—2.9195 West German marks, an 11-year high and up from 2.9070.

—2.4580 Swiss francs, up from 2.4430.

—3.2898 Dutch guilders, a 10-year high and up from 3.2705.

—1.3100 Canadian dollars, up from 1.3083.

Gold, depressed by the renewed attraction of the dollar, opened in London at $342.70 bid a troy ounce, down from Friday's late bid of $347.50. It edged up in later trading and London's five major bullion houses set the midmorning "fixing" at $343.

In Zurich, Europe's biggest bullion market, gold opened at $342.50 bid, down from $348.50 Friday.

Silver was quoted in London at $7.58 bid an ounce, down from $7.75 late Friday.

In Hong Kong, gold closed at $344.68 bid, down $1.18 from Saturday's closing bid price of $345.86.

Woolard said that, when police attempted to stop the vehicle, Wise fled.

Police chased the car along Greenville Boulevard and the Tar Road past Winterville, then collided with a police car near the intersection of the Tar Road and Secondary Road 1723. The chase continued onto Secondary Road 1723 and across N.C. 102, west of Ayden, until Wise lost control of the vehicle and wrecked at the intersection of SR 1723 and 1723.

Celebration Marks End Of Spectacle

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Summer Olympics ended as they began — as a celebration by Americans, a celebration of America and the world.

Sixteen days after welcoming the world to its shores, the United States bid farewell on Sunday night to 139 of its neighbors on this globe, distributing a fair share of gold to the departing guests but keeping most of it right at home.

The Soviet Union and its closest friends might well have carted off a healthy chunk of bullion. But they chose to stay away, just as the United States and some of its allies boycotted the 1980 Moscow Games.

Without the challenge of the Soviets, the East Germans, the Cubans and other boycotting nations, the United States won 174 medals, including 83 gold that surpassed the

MONDAY AFTERNOON, AUGUST 13, 1984

Olympic record of 80 set four years ago by the Soviets.

The East Germans were the runners-up in the medal count four years ago. Perhaps fittingly, the West Germans were second this time with 59.

And the Romanians, often applauded by the crowd in appreciation of their refusal to join the Soviet boycott, were rewarded with a second-best 20 gold medals. China, an Olympic absentee since 1952, swept back into the world's athletic community by winning 32 medals, 15 of them gold.

With the last of the blood, sweat and tears shed by the athletes of the XXIII Olympiad, it was time to party.

It was a party for the world's most physically fit men and women. So Los Angeles in general and Hollywood in particular — which spawned Jane Fonda and Richard Simmons — celebrated the athletes' prowess with a spectacle which rivaled the pageantry that opened the Summer Games on July 28.

After thousands of athletes mingled with each other and cavorted around the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum track, the Olympic flag was turned over to Mayor of Bo-Hyun Yum of Seoul, South Korea, host of the 1988 Summer Games. The 1984 Games were declared closed.

And then Hollywood producer David Wolper's show really swung into high gear — a Close Encounter with a spaceship, a laser-light star war, a fireworks salute to all Olympic cities and a rock concert, a futuristic celebration of the past.

Olympics of the future will be measured, as always, against Olympians of the past. The next generation has its work cut out for it.

Track star Carl Lewis, welterweight boxer Mark Breland and gymnast Mary Lou Retton are candidates to become among the most gilded American athletes of the future as contracts and endorsement offers pour in. But for the moment, Li Ning is clearly the most gilded athlete of the present.

The gymnast from China won six medals, the most of any athlete here. Three were gold, two silver and one bronze. The gold champions, with four apiece, were Lewis, the track star whose name will almost certainly be inexorably linked with that of Jesse Owens, and Ecaterina Szabo, the heir to Nadia Comaneci's crown as Romania's super gymnast.

There is the possibility, of course, that Li, Lewis and Szabo may compete again four years hence. Maybe not. The flame extinguished Sunday night in Los Angeles is scheduled to be ignited on Saturday, Sept. 17, 1988, in Seoul. But the Soviet Union has already raised the issue of whether it will attend the 1988 Games if the political climate remains unchanged.

More remarkable than most of the athletes' performances the past two weeks was the fact that Los Angeles' climate remained unchanged. The city that made words like "smog" and "gridlock" part of the American lexicon experienced virtually non of either. The dire predictions of choking air and choked streets never materialized.

Neither, for that matter, did the financial bonanza envisioned by local merchants — unless they were dealing in Olympic pins. There were hundreds of different kinds of na-

Braves 'Outslug' Padres, 5-3

By The Associated Press

The game was intimidation and revenge, and in trying to gain the upper hand, the Braves and Padres let the game get out of hand.

San Diego Manager Dick Williams, Atlanta Manager Joe Torre, four pitchers, five other players and two replacement managers were ejected in a series of brushback pitches and consequent brawls as the Braves took an ugly 5-3 victory over the Padres Sunday.

As the Padres were returning to their dugout after the final brawl, a fan hit San Diego's Kurt Bevacqua in the head with a mug of beer. Bevacqua jumped onto the top of the dugout and charged toward the fan but was restrained by security guards.

Atlanta police later confirmed that five should-be spectators were charged with "disorderly while intoxicated" conduct and one had the added charge of simple battery and resisting arrest.

Atlanta starter Pascual Perez was the central figure in the fights. He allowed only five hits over eight innings, but his sixth "hit" set the tone for the game. Perez struck San Diego's Alan Wiggins with the first pitch of the contest — and the baseball soon became secondary.

"We know who started what, and we were going to finish it," said Williams. "We will not be intimidated."

"The guy who caused it all was Dick Williams," said Torre. "It was gutless. It stinks. It was Hitler-like action. I think he (Williams) should be suspended for the rest of the year."

For the rest of the day, every time Perez stepped to the plate, Padres pitchers threw inside. Ed Whitson did it twice and was warned the first time and ejected the second. Benches cleared, put no punches were thrown.

Greg Booker followed suit in the fifth and was also booted as a full-scale brawl broke out. In the eighth, Craig Lefferts' first pitch hit Perez on the arm and fights again broke out as Lefferts was ejected.

Perez left the game after being hit and his replacement, Donnie Moore, hit the leadoff batter in the ninth, Graig Nettles. He thereby earned his dismissal and the teams fought a third round.

Umpire crew chief John McSherry then banished all non-participating players from the dugouts and bullpens. "We started worrying about crowd control," McSherry said. "That's why we cleared the bench. We were considering forfeiting the game."

Each time a pitcher was tossed, a manager went with him. Williams left with Whitson, Ozzie Virgil with Booker, Jack Krol with Lefferts and Torre with Moore.

Bobby Brown and Champ Summers of the Padres and Rick Mahler, Steve Bedrosian and Gerald Perry of the Braves were ejected in the brawls. Summers even charged the Braves dugout looking for Perez but was halted by Bob Horner, who currently is on the disabled list.

As the game's final out was recorded, bullpen coach Harry Dunlop was managing the Padres, policemen were on top of both dugouts and the benches were cleared by order of the umpires.

"That wasn't the way I would like for it to end," Perez said. While dodging pitches, he raised his record to 11-4 and dropped Whitson's to 12-6.

"There was a danger of a riot once the fans got involved. This is scary," Torre said. "It was getting to where pretty shortly it would have been San Diego and us against the fans."

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago beat Montreal 7-3, New York downed Pittsburgh 6-3, Houston topped Cincinnati 6-1 and

Los Angeles edged San Francisco 5-4 in 10 innings. St. Louis and Philadelphia were rained out.

Cubs 7, Expos 3

Rick Sutcliffe, 10-1, won his eighth consecutive decision, striking out 12, walking none and picking up an RBI on a ninth-inning double. Ron Cey broke a 3-3 tie in the sixth with a two-run homer, his 18th of the season. It came off Steve Rogers, 3-12, who lost his seventh game in as many decisions.

Three Montreal miscues helped the Cubs to a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Shortstop Mike Ramsey and catcher Gary Carter committed throwing errors, and right-fielder Mike Stenhouse turned Keith Moreland's fly ball into a triple. Rogers chipped in with a run-scoring wild pitch.

Stenhouse and Dan Driessen homered in the third to tie the game.

Sheehan Tops Henredon Field

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.

AP Sports Writer

HIGH POINT — Patty Sheehan didn't let a double bogey stop her from winning a second straight Henredon Classic LPGA title, and runner-up JoAnne Carner made sure of that.

The 27-year-old Sheehan recovered from a watery shot at the 17th hole to sink an 8-foot birdie putt at 18 and claim the $27,000 first prize. Sheehan fired a 4-under-par 68 in a fourth round delayed by rain. Her 277 total resulted in her fourth victory this year and third since taking a self-imposed layoff last spring.

Because Carner saved Sheehan from likely disqualification, the LPGA Hall of famer finished in second-place tie with Dot Germain, whose Greensboro home is a half hour away from the Willow Creek Golf Course. Both players finished at 278 with Germain shooting a 67 and Carner a 71 on the 6,191-yard course.

Sheehan, playing in front of her father, Bo Bo, for the first time, held a two-shot edge before meeting her watery fate on the rain-soaked 17th fairway. Forced to take a drop because of an unplayable lie, Sheehan was about to make a mistake, but Carner stopped her.

"She was taking the point where the ball crossed over, which would have put her eight yards further up," Carner said. "All I did was say that you have to put the tee down where it crossed and then keep the tee in line with the pin. I just didn't want her to make an illegal drop."

The final round was almost a carbon copy of 1983, when Sheehan joined with Carner and Kathy Whitworth. Sheehan cried when she won the title last year. This time she thrust a victorious fist into the air and hugged her caddy.

"It was a struggle out there," Sheehan said. "I was still tied for the lead after that double bogey. I knew I still had a chance to win."

Carner's approach shot at 18 was within eight feet of the cup, while Sheehan left her's about one foot closer. Carner's chance for victory died when the putt missed by inches. Sheehan's putt rolled straight into the cup, and the LPGA's leading money winner was home free.

"I think I was inspired a little bit by the Olympics," Sheehan said of her unusual display of emotion. "You see those guys and how they react. It's neat to see somebody really enjoying it instead of saying 'Thanks a lot. See you later.'"

Germain's effort was the continuation of a hot streak. She has been in the top 10 in her last three tournaments, and challenging the leaders at Willow Creek gave her an adrenalin surge.

"I guess I was caught up in the fun of it," Germain said. "I never felt like I wanted to back down to them." Alone in fourth place was Vicki Alvarez whose 67 gave her a 279 total. Bonnie Lauer shot a 68 and finished next at 282.

Next were Beverly Davis at 283 and Julie Pyne at 284.

Five golfers were tied at 3-under par 285, including Juli Inkster, whose professional career began at Willow Creek one year ago.

Promotion Correction

The announcement in Sunday's edition of The Daily Reflector about the East Carolina University promotion at Carolina East Mall should have stated: "Featured will be the 1984 Oldsmobile Firenza donated by a local dealer which will be given away at the first home sellout of the 1984 season. The car will be filled with balloons, and the public will have an opportunity to guess the number of balloons in the car. The winner will receive an autographed football and a set of season tickets to the ECU home football games."

The Daily Reflector regrets the error and any inconvenience it caused.

Pravda Condemns Games As American 'Chauvinism'

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party daily Pravda condemned Monday the Los Angeles Olympics as Games dominated by American chauvinism, aggressiveness and intimidation of foreign athletes.

"The Los Angeles Olympics Games were held to the roar of such jingoistic cannonade that one could think that those were not international competitions but a protracted celebration of the day of independence by America," Pravda said.

It said the Americans "should have promoted restraint and modesty" in assessing their medals triumph, since these were gained partly because the Soviet Union and other Soviet bloc nations stayed away from the Games.

Instead, Pravda said, "the new gold rush" that swept California and spread over to the whole of the country raised waves of chauvinistic euphoria.

"The intensity of jingoistic passions emanating from TV screens and newspaper pages communicated to people watching the competitions," Pravda said. "They raised great noise supporting their sportsmen, shouted when a referee took a decision they did not like, ran out onto the field flourishing the stars and stripes.

"The constant psychological pressure told on foreign sportsmen and on the conduct of referees," the newspaper charged, without citing examples.

"Sportsmanship and respect for the opponent — these qualities of true Olympians — were not in view at the Los Angeles Games. The spirit of aggressiveness, intimidation of the opponent and disregard for him prevailed," Pravda said.

It added a charge that these were "the most inconvenient and most ideologized" Olympic Games and revived previous Soviet criticisms that the Olympiad was thoroughly commercialized.

Western press reports characterized the 1980 Olympics in Moscow, where the Soviet Union won the lion's share of the medals in the absence of the United States and other western nations, as nationalistic in tone.

Soviet and East German media gave heavy media coverage to the triumphs of their athletes.

Since deciding in May to boycott the Los Angeles Games, the Soviet media have repeatedly characterized the Summer Olympics as commercial and charged that Soviet Bloc athletes would not have been adequately protected from attacks allegedly planned by anti-communist groups.

Tigers Complete Sweep Of Royals

By The Associated Press
Everything's up to date in Kansas City — for the Detroit Tigers.
The Tigers staggered into Kansas City with 12 losses in their previous 18 games and their lead over Toronto in the American League East having shrunk from 12½ to eight games in less than a week. But Darrell Evans, Ruppert Jones and Alan Trammell each drove in two runs Sunday as Detroit defeated the Royals 8-4 to sweep a three-game weekend series. Coupled with Toronto's 5-4 loss to Baltimore, the Tigers headed home with a nine-game bulge.
"We've been the best team in baseball all year long," said Evans, whose two-run triple in the first inning got the Tigers started and was followed by Jones' ninth homer. "I think we got spoiled, the press got spoiled and the fans got spoiled. We know we're not going to win every game, but we know we've got a good team. If we play well from here on out we're going to win it."

In the AL West, Minnesota remained 1½ games ahead of California with a 3-0 victory over Seattle while the Angels outlasted Oakland 10-9. Elsewhere, Cleveland ended New York's domination with a 6-0 triumph. Milwaukee trounced Chicago 8-1 and Boston edged Texas 3-2 in 11 innings.
Kansas City's Bret Saberhagen, the only pitcher to beat the Tigers three times this season, was the victim of Detroit's four-run first inning. The Tigers made it 5-0 in the sixth off Larry Gura on pinch-hitter Barbro Garbey's bases-loaded ground.
Detroit's Milt Wilcox took a one-hit shutout into the seventh but was knocked out in a four-run rally.

However, Detroit put the game away with a three-run eighth off Royals relief ace Dan Quisenberry, capped by Alan Trammell's two-run double.
Detroit had played doubleheaders last Sunday, Monday and Tuesday and Manager Sparky Anderson said the stretch of six games in three days "pushed (Detroit) into a real corner. We were sending people out (to the minors) just to make room for 11 pitchers. It was an emotional thing for us. To be honest with you, I don't think they even knew they were playing Kansas City."
"They proved one thing to me — they are going to play as hard as they can all year long. That's all I can ask. I'm never assured they're going to win. I am assured they're going to give their best effort. I can go home and rest easy knowing that, because if you do that and lose, then you're just not good enough."

The Tigers won all six games in Royals Stadium, the first time Kansas City has been swept at home since the park opened in 1973.
Orioles 5, Blue Jays 4
After Dave Stieb blanked the Orioles on four hits for seven innings, he left with a blister on his pitching hand and they jumped on Roy Lee Jackson and Jimmy Key for five runs in the eighth. A throwing error by Toronto shortstop Alfredo Griffin and singles by Dan Ford and Cal Ripken Jr. loaded the bases. Eddie Murray tripled to tie the score and one out later Young belted his ninth home run.
Tippy Martinez pitched out of a jam in the bottom of the eighth by retiring Dave Collins and Griffin with runners at first and third, enabling Scott McGregor to snap a personal four-game losing streak.

Angels 10, Athletics 9
Gary Pettis tripled home two runs to tie the score in the eighth and scored on Rob Wilfong's bad-hop single as California won a seven-homer slugfest and snapped a four-game losing streak. Juan Beniquez singled with one out for his fourth hit and Keith Atherton relieved Lary Sorensen. One out later, Atherton walked Mike Brown. That brought on Oakland relief ace Bill Caudill, but Pettis tripled to score Beniquez and Brown and scored the winning run when Wilfong's grounder hopped over second baseman Tony Phillips' head.
Beniquez went 4-for-4, including a pair of homers, and drove in four runs, while Reggie Jackson hit his 497th career homer for the Angels. Dwayne Murphy homered twice for Oakland, while Tony Phillips and Mike Davis each hit one.

his first career grand slam an inning later after singles by Brook Jacoby, Mike Fischlin and Butler.
"This is the big leagues. We're competitive with each other. To be shut out for a whole year by one team would definitely have an effect on us," Carter said.
Brewers 8, White Sox 1
Ben Oglivie had a homer and two singles and drove in two runs and Bob McClure checked Chicago on three hits in eight innings to complete Milwaukee's sweep of a three-game series. The Brewers had dropped four games to the White Sox in Milwaukee last weekend. Loser LaMarr Hoyt was shelled for eight hits and six runs and failed to last five innings. Bill Schroeder's two-run double starting the scoring in the second. Oglivie homered in the fourth and singled a run across in the fifth.
Red Sox 3, Rangers 2
Dwight Evans' sacrifice fly drove in an unearned run in the top of the 11th after Jackie Gutierrez singled, stole second and continued to third on catcher Marv Foley's throwing error. Home runs by Gary Ward and Billy Sample gave Texas a 2-0 lead, but the Red Sox, blanked for seven innings by Dickie Noles, tied it in the eighth on RBI singles by Mike Easler and Bill Buckner.
Texas outfielder George Wright tied an AL record set in 1907 by stranding 11 baserunners. The Rangers left 18 runners on base, two short of the major-league record for an 11-inning game.

Missing Lewis' Record Live Set Low Mark For ABC-TV

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Sports Writer
When ABC was asked why it showed on tape nearly 20 minutes late the benchmark event of the XXIII Olympiad — the victory of the U.S. 400-meter relay team that gave Carl Lewis his fourth gold medal — the network issued a statement:
"While we don't consider it a vital issue, in retrospect we had the ability to cover it live and we should have covered it live."
That statement says all that has to be known about ABC's coverage of the Olympics. The word "vital" is the key.
If a short delay would not spoil it for most viewers, showing it live was vital in a journalistic sense — any real journalist would want to be there live when history was made. Moreover, ABC added that there were so many things going on that it had to make a choice. But what other choice could there be but Lewis?
In fact, and this was calculated, ABC's coverage of the Olympics wasn't really journalism and it wasn't really about sports — it was entertainment designed to get the highest prime-time ratings. It was designed to create ratings for shows like "Call to Glory," the subject of endless promotional efforts during the Games.

confess that he might have been wrong to attribute Mary Decker's fall to Zola Budd.
*Al Michaels and Jim Lampley, who as usual did their homework and refrained as much as possible from cheerleading.
*Al Trautwig, a little-known pro consigned to little-known sports.
*Volleyball analyst Kurt Kilgour, a fine objective contrast to mikesmate Bob Beattie's euphoria.
*Arthur Ashe, relegated to modern pentathlon and fencing.
*Kurt Thomas, who tried to remain cool in analyzing gymnastics.
*Plus Russ Hellickson on wrestling; O.J. Simpson, who roothead too much but who did a fine job explaining the subtleties of relay baton passing, and Cynthia Potter, Thomas' diving counterpart.
*And even Howard Cosell. Sure, he went a bit overboard in describing the worthiness of foreign opponents. But he was also a man who knew his sport, boxing, and a man unafraid to say to heavyweight gold medalist Henry Tillman: "I thought you lost."
But, unfortunately, they were overshadowed — make it under-undershadowed — by the judgment of the people who were deciding who and what was to grace our living rooms.

soccer or baseball scores, let alone team handball. In other words, forget the news, this is show biz.
It was also packaging, not spontaneity, culminating in the taped Lewis gold. That attitude is born of ABC's "Wide World of Sports," which has survived for two decades by showing events weeks, even months, after they occurred, the Olympic audience can wait 20 minutes.
A lot of money was involved. Assuming it can keep the ratings at the 25 it approached during the first week, ABC — which paid $225 million for the Games — stands to make $100 million in profit from the Olympics.
So all those commercials, less the house promos, went for close to half a million dollars. And there were plenty of them — one count Saturday night showed that in the 39 minutes between ABC's showing of the women's 400-meter and its taped presentation of Lewis and the men's, there were 16 minutes of commercials and promos.

Twins 3, Mariners 0
Frank Viola scattered six hits and struck out four in hurling his fourth shutout of the season. Minnesota took a 1-0 lead against Mike Moore in the first inning when Andre David doubled, continued to third on right fielder Al Cowens' throwing error and scored on Kent Hrbek's grounder. The Twins added a run in the second when Gary Gaetti walked, moved to second as Tim Teufel grounded out and score on Tim Laudner's single. Tom Brunansky and Gaetti hit consecutive one-out doubles in the sixth for Minnesota's third run.

Indians 6, Yankees 0
Rookie Joe Carter drove in six runs with homers in consecutive innings — a two-run shot and a grand slam off Ron Guidry — and Bert Blyleven fired a five-hitter as Cleveland beat New York for the first time in 12 games this season. Blyleven struck out five, hit a batter and did not walk anyone in recording his third shutout of the year and 45th of his career. The Yankees did not get a runner beyond first base until the ninth inning.
Carter started the scoring with his first homer in the fifth following a two-out walk to Brett Butler. He hit pursue, but Johnson changed his plan.

"Junior told me to hold off and save my tires and car to race Terry Labonte," Waltrip said. "Junior must have known Elliott didn't have enough gas to finish."
That proved to be the case when Elliott made a pit stop with eight laps to go, allowing Waltrip to charge his Chevrolet into the lead. He beat the fast-charging Labonte, by 1.2 seconds to win with a new MIS record average speed for a 400-mile stock car race. Elliott finished third.
"I didn't know why he pulled into the pits at that time," Waltrip said. "I thought he had a flat tire."
"I feel sorry for his bad luck, but I've lost races the same way," Waltrip said. "I've been beaten a number of times like that when our team had the same problems."
"If a caution flag would have come out any time within the last 100 miles, he would have been OK," Waltrip said. "It definitely would have made a difference."
Waltrip completed the $347,000 race's 200-laps in two hours, 35 minutes and 59 seconds — an average speed of 153.863 mph.
It was the second race in MIS history run without a caution. The

There were, to be sure, numerous high points in the telecasts.
There were the Olympics themselves, champions like Lewis, Greg Louganis, Michael Gross, Valerie Brisco-Hooks; the spontaneity of celebrating athletes like Brisco-Hooks, Pernel Whitaker, Alexi Grewal, Nelson Vails, Jeff Blatnick, Evelyn Ashford, Daley Thompson, Sebastian Coe; courageous non-champions like Mary Decker, Steve Ovett, Gabriela Andersen-Schiess, Evander Holyfield, Bert Cameron, and the engaging 11th place finisher in Sunday night's marathon, American Peter Pfitzinger.
There were also outstanding performances by some of ABC's people. Among them:
*Marty Liquori, a man unafraid to

So we got precious little basketball (too one-sided), hardly any baseball and soccer, and boxing marred by pre-announcement of the results.
But we got a lot of synchronized swimming and rhythmic gymnastics — or, if you please, water ballet and juggling. Plus diving and gymnastics, legitimate competitions whose beauty anyone can appreciate.
Moreover, ABC treated anything it didn't show as a non-event. There were no wrapups — it would have been simple at midnight EDT to summarize the day's events, with tape.
But when ABC declined, after advertising them, to show us the men's discus or shot or the 5,000-meter run (because Americans hadn't won the gold?), it also ignored the results. It rarely gave national and commercial pins, all being traded, some selling for more than $1,000.

The first truly commercial Games, subsidized almost entirely by corporate America, may have turned a profit. But many stores, vendors, restaurants and amusement parks suffered losses as the regular clientele, chased out of town by the pre-Games scare stories, never were replaced by free-spending tourists.
Perhaps the biggest scare story was one of terrorists somehow disrupting the Olympics. But that, too, never happened.
The fear was dissipated by the light-heartedness of the city and its inhabitants, by the Olympic villages and their inhabitants and — unlike the gun-metal memories of Montreal — by the official colors of the Games, a shower of pastels.
And red, white and blue, too. The Olympics quickly became known as "America's Games," not only because of the profusion of American medal winners but because of ABC's television coverage. The network was accused, here and abroad, of being America's Cheerleader, giving short shrift to any competitor who didn't represent the Stars and Stripes. Eventually, ABC appeared to pay more attention to foreign athletes.
There was Li and his Chinese teammates, middle-distance runner Maricica Puica and Szabo and their Romanian teammates, two-time decathlon gold medalist Daley Thompson of Britain, all-around men's gymnastics champion Koji Gushiken of Japan and West German swimmer Michael Gross.
But for the most part, ABC was right. These were America's Games.
There was Lewis fulfilling his dream of four golds.
And sprinter Valerie Brisco-Hooks winning three.
And Greg Louganis displaying unmatched perfection in both springboard and platform diving.

Brooklyn, Mich. (AP) — Darrall Waltrip may have lost track of the competition near the end of the Champion Spark Plug 400 stock car race at Michigan International Speedway, but that didn't keep him from winning.
Some timely advice from car owner Junior Johnson helped him gain the victory in the NASCAR Grand National race Sunday, Waltrip said.
With Bill Elliott leading by about 10 car lengths near the end of the race, Waltrip said he was about to Waltrip, of Franklin, Tenn., made his last pit stop with 48 laps to go, assuring enough fuel to complete the race. Elliott, however, pitted his Ford with 56 laps remaining, gambling on a short refueling stop and hoping for a caution to conserve fuel.

"I was praying for a yellow (flag) with about 15 laps to go, but nobody was listening today," said Elliott, who qualified in a course-record speed of 162.217 mph.
Elliott was forced to stop under the green and lost his chance to win his second race at MIS this season. He won the Miller 400 in June.

Jake Loftin, who played as his own partner because of an odd number of players in the field, fired a 54-hole score of 80 to finish second. Loftin had rounds of 28, 26 and 26 to finish one stroke back.

helped Ron Darling to his first victory since the All-Star break. Darling, 11-5, had failed in six previous attempts for his 11th victory. Foster's 17th homer followed a two-out walk to Keith Hernandez in the fifth inning and gave the Mets a 4-1 lead.
The Mets added insurance runs in the eighth on Ron Hodges' one-out, two-run double.
Wes Gardner pitched 2 1-3 innings for his first major league save.
Astros 6, Reds 1
Nolan Ryan and Fran: DiPino combined on a five-hitter in Cincinnati. Ryan, 10-7, struck out 11 to tie his season high and put him in double figures for the 154th time in his career. He allowed four hits and walked four batters.
A blister on his right hand forced Ryan to leave the game with two outs in the seventh inning. DiPino pitched one-hit relief, striking out two.

A three-run homer by Jose Cruz and a two-run shot by Terry Puhl supplied the power for Houston.
Dodgers 5, Giants 4
Candy Maldonado, who entered the game as a defensive replacement in the ninth inning, won the game for Los Angeles with a two-out homer in the 10th.
Maldonado's fourth home run of the season came off Mark Davis, 3-13, the Giants' fourth pitcher. Alejandro Pena, 12-6, pitched his eighth complete game, although he allowed the Giants to tie the score with two runs in the bottom of the ninth.
Mike Scioscia's three-run homer in the fourth inning erased a two-run San Francisco lead and Pedro Guerrero hit a solo shot in the eighth.

"Wall of Shame"

On this day in 1961, early in the morning, the East German government closed the border between East and West Berlin. Between 1945 and 1961 some 3,000,000 refugees crossed into West Berlin from the east. A wall of concrete and barbed wire 29 miles long was constructed to halt this increasing stream of defectors. The East German government also wanted to prevent East Berliners from commuting to jobs in West Berlin, thus decreasing the labor supply in the east.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You may have a deceptive condition to puzzle and confuse you, but during the day you are able to think out and arrange a campaign of action that can bring you the greatest success.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A confidential talk with allies in business can get you fine results as to how to get ahead faster. Decide what you want from your mate.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can rely on friends to give you a boost with outsiders who can assist you with plans you have in mind.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Look to a co-worker for cooperation so that you can impress a bigwig favorably. Ask for advice you may need.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Talk to a partner about some trip you plan on taking and get the right advice about it.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Plan how to have greater romantic happiness with the one you love, but make no overtures in the evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Showing more affection for your mate brings good results today. Drive with utmost care and be safe.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you do your work well today, you can have much added income. Show that you are an expert at it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) While entertainment is on your mind, the daytime is best for this, since tonight it could be most expensive and even dangerous.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get everything in fine order early if you are expecting guests and then entertain them with poise and charm.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be willing to give good advice to friends if they ask for it and make them happy. Don't do anything of a risky nature.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) There is a good chance for you to get ahead financially in the morning so be sure to seize it.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) There are several ways for you to gain your personal desires so study them and make use of the best ones.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be able to comprehend the highest principles and put them in operation to his or her benefit as well as that of others. Permit to get an early start in the career since the talents work best during youth and after that hobbies and philanthropy are the big interests.

Vets Who Trained With Patton Sought

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — The government is looking for World War II veterans who trained under Gen. George S. Patton in the Mojave and Colorado deserts.

Officials want to compile a history of Patton's yearlong stay at what later became known as the Desert Training Center, where soldiers trained for action against Nazi forces led by Field Marshal Erwin Rommel.

Patton used the center to prepare troops, to see how well supplies could be shipped over long distances, to determine how much water was needed for human survival in the desert and to test clothing, tents and other equipment.

Between 1942 and 1945, an estimated 300,000 soldiers participated in tank and infantry maneuvers over more than 20,000 square miles in San Bernardino and Riverside counties, sometimes venturing into western Arizona and southern Nevada.

The Bureau of Land Management, which looks after the desert, may place historical markers at some of the sites of the many training camps if enough information can be amassed. A museum or monument in Patton's name also is being considered.

Everell Hayes, the bureau's Needles Resource Area manager, said the bureau is trying to preserve remnants of camps and other traces of the desert maneuvers. The sites were abandoned after the war.

Some residents of Needles, a Colorado River desert community on the Arizona border some 210 miles from Los Angeles, still remember the days of the desert training camps. Hayes said he has been told that up to 200 soldiers used to form lines outside a drugstore, waiting to buy ice cream cones.

Man Treads Water For 90 Minutes

MIAMI (AP) — A fisherman treaded dark Atlantic waters for 1½ hours after falling overboard without a life jacket, but a Coast Guard helicopter equipped with a powerful spotlight finally found him and lifted him to safety.

"I feel fine now," Wilfredo Dominguez of Hialeah said Sunday. "I woke up this morning with a little chill, a little cold, but I'm feeling surprisingly well."

The angler fell off the rear of the 28-foot cabin cruiser Vicmar shortly after 11 p.m. Saturday between Cape Florida and Soldier's Key when the captain decided to head back after hitting a small squall.

Dominguez said he had stood up on the rear deck when the boat lurched. "I've got a trick knee so I tried to grab the railing, but it wasn't there," he said.

He screamed, but engine noise kept anyone from hearing.

The cruiser's captain, Victor Faoro, later noticed Dominguez was missing and began a search.

ANSWERS TO WEEKLY BRIDGE QUIZ

Q.1 — As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠K87 ♥KQ983 ♦A83 ♣K2
Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What do you respond?

A. — An awkward hand. You are too strong for a jump raise but do not have quite enough for a jump shift. Nevertheless, you must choose between these two options—any attempt to be "clever" could land you in trouble. In view of your tremendous trump support and prime values, we suggest the more aggressive course of a jump shift to three diamonds. Thereafter, you intend doing no more than quietly supporting hearts at every opportunity.

Q.2 — Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AJ94 ♥AK865 ♦7 ♣KQJ

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♣ Pass

What do you bid now?

A. — In support of spades, your hand revalues to 21 points. Even if partner has a minimum of 6-7, you want to be in game. The way to guarantee that is to jump to four spades—anything else is an underbid. Obviously, if you use splinter bids, then four diamonds (showing a singleton in that suit) would get the nod.

Q.3 — As South, vulnerable, with 90 on score, you hold:

♠KJ1076 ♥853 ♦72 ♣953

Partner opens the bidding with one diamond. What action do you take?
A. — Only because of the partial, we would venture a one spade response. That is partly to keep the opponents out of the auction, if possible, and partly an effort to improve the contract. No great harm can befall us, since we intend passing anything other than a jump shift from partner.

Q.4 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠73 ♥A95 ♦K107 ♣AK94

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♣ 1 ♣ 1 NT Pass

What action do you take?

A. — This is a test of whether you understand the meaning of partner's one no trump response after the overcall. It is not a weak bid. Rather, it shows a hand of some 9-11 points with a stopper in the opponents' suit. Since you have 16 and a fine five-card suit, you should not settle for less than three no trump.

Q.5 — Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠65 ♥AK765 ♦A93 ♣AKJ

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♥ Pass 1 ♣ Pass

What do you bid now?

A. — Any heart rebid by you now would show a six-card suit. That leaves you with the option of a waiting bid of two clubs or a jump to two no trump. We feel the jump in no trump describes your shape and strength accurately, so that would be our choice.

Q.6 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠Q3 ♥J5 ♦AQ104 ♣J9542

The bidding:
North East South West
1 ♣ Pass 1 ♦ Pass
1 ♣ Pass 2 ♣ Pass
2 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A. — Despite the fact that you have really shown very little, partner is striving to reach game. Actually, you have a useful hand—five-card support for partner's clubs and honors in every suit. The least you could do is cooperate by bidding game in no trump.

Family Found Nude On Road

VANDALIA, Ill. (AP) — Four members of a family were found standing nude in the middle of an interstate highway as their injured 6-month-old baby lay unconscious nearby, authorities said.

The mother, Josie Mills, 37, had told her family that their clothes were cursed, said state trooper Harold Brooks. Mrs. Mills was taken to the Anna Mental Health and Development Center about 30 miles north of Cairo, he said.

The father, Roosevelt Mills, 43, was charged with endangering the lives and health of a child, Brooks said. Mills posted a $100 cash bond and was released, the officer said.

The baby boy was listed in serious condition Sunday at St. John's Hospital in Springfield, hospital spokeswoman Aggie Hayner said.

Joking President Caught In Another Pre-Broadcast Slip

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — White House officials maintained a stony silence toward widespread reports that President Reagan had joked into a microphone Saturday that the United States would bomb the Soviet Union "in five minutes."

Gannett News Service, CBS radio and other news outlets all reported that Reagan made the joke while testing a microphone in preparation for his regular weekly radio address, which on Saturday dealt with criticism of the House Democratic leadership.

Reagan was quoted in the CBS report as saying in a clearly joking tone: "My fellow Americans, I am pleased to announce I just signed legislation that will outlaw Russia forever. We begin bombing in five minutes."

It was known that CBS and the Cable News Network recorded Reagan's comment at the time it was made, although neither played the president's words on the air Sunday, when the incident was first reported.

Larry Speakes, the White House spokesman, had told an Associated Press reporter who learned of the joke on Saturday that anything the president said before his radio address was "off the record."

Speakes declined to disclose or confirm what was said.

Speakes declined again to comment Sunday night but another press spokesman, Anson Franklin, echoed Speakes' earlier comment, saying, "Any comment the president would make in advance of his radio address would be off the record and we do not discuss it."

However, it was unlikely the matter would be quickly forgotten since the low state of relations between Moscow and Washington has become an issue in the presidential election campaign.

Reagan's past harsh comments about the Soviet Union, including his now famous "evil empire" speech, have led critics to accuse him of being overly confrontational toward Moscow.

It wasn't the first time that Reagan has made joking comments into the microphone while testing it for his Saturday broadcasts.

Prior to a radio address on Oct. 9, 1982, Reagan joked that the leaders of Poland were "a bunch of no-good lousy bums."

That slip resulted in an agreement between the White House and the major broadcast networks to treat all comments that Reagan makes during microphone tests as off the record and therefore unusable in news accounts.

The print media were not a party to that agreement, and the story was first reported Sunday by the Gannett News Service.

Reagan's joke on Saturday was not overheard by reporters, who were not present, but was recorded during a microphone check by technicians for at least two networks, CBS and Cable News Network. Both networks decided that the remark should be treated as off the record and that the recording should not be aired.

Ed Turner, executive vice president of Cable News Network, said his network's reporter at Santa Barbara, James Allen Miklaszewski, telephoned network headquarters in Atlanta to find out how to handle the story.

Turner said CNN President Burt Reinhardt decided the network was bound by the agreement with the White House to treat such material as off the record. Justifying that agreement, Turner said "in the environment of a person sitting, chatting with technicians, that seems to me to be an environment that is informal and off the record."

The first such incident occurred nearly two years ago, on Oct. 9, 1982, when Reagan was at his ranch preparing for his weekly address. He tested the microphone by saying: "The Polish leadership, a bunch of no good lousy bums." The on-the-air remarks that followed also criticized the Polish government, but in more temperate language.

The next month, Reagan was more lighthearted in his warm-up remarks. Preparing for his weekly address from the White House, Reagan spoke into the microphone: "Call the city desk. I've got a story that will crack this city wide open." He went on the air to announce he was lifting economic sanctions against the Soviet Union.

And a week later, Reagan was at Camp David making a sound test in advance of his weekly broadcast when he said he wanted to talk with his fellow Americans about the economy. "And I am prepared to tell you, it's a hell of a mess."

Latest On Tax: Never Say Never

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In another attempt to clarify his stand on a tax increase, President Reagan says he should "never say never" to a tax hike.

Reagan's statement, issued Sunday in Santa Barbara, tries to reconcile divergent views within his administration, but could leave him vulnerable to continuing charges by Walter Mondale. The Democratic presidential nominee maintains Reagan has a "secret plan" to raise taxes in a new term.

Reagan again ruled out an increase in personal income taxes "of working Americans." But he said he agreed with Vice President George Bush that he should keep his options open on raising taxes as "a last resort" to reduce the massive federal budget deficit.

"A president of the United States should never say never, but a tax increase has always been for me a last resort," Reagan said. "I will first want to do everything I can to reduce the deficit by keeping our economy growing and reducing wasteful federal spending."

Dayton Duncan, a spokesman for Mondale, called Reagan's statement "the latest in the round of contradictory statements from the Reagan administration, but it confirms what Mr. Mondale has been saying," that taxes will increase.

Reagan arrived in Los Angeles Sunday following a two-week vacation at his ranch near Santa Barbara. He planned to meet later today with American medal winners in the Olympic Games, which concluded Sunday in the city.

Reagan had told the American athletes prior to the opening of the Games they should "win one for the Gipper," a reference to himself.

Reagan Says He's Ready For Summit

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — President Reagan has told a Nobel Peace Prize winner that he would consider meeting Soviet leader Konstantin Chernenko under certain conditions to discuss nuclear disarmament, but Chernenko says he sees no change in the U.S. administration's attitude.

Despite the reservations expressed by the Soviet and U.S. presidents, Sean MacBride said on Sunday he was encouraged by their responses to letters he had written to convey his concern about nuclear arms development and tense relations between Washington and Moscow.

MacBride, 80, won the Nobel award in 1974 and has received the Soviets' Lenin Peace Prize. He is president of the International Peace Bureau, a pro-disarmament organization based in Geneva, Switzerland.

He said he will ask the leaders of the superpowers to meet at I.L.N.-sponsored talks to discuss eliminating all nuclear weapons.

Reagan's reply was published Sunday in the Dublin newspaper Sunday Tribune. He told MacBride that he and his administration were seeking ways to stabilize and improve U.S.-Soviet relations.

"I would as well be pleased to meet Mr. Chernenko if the meeting is properly prepared and could contribute to progress in our relations," Reagan wrote.

"There are profound differences between the political systems and values of the Soviet Union and the United States that cannot be ignored," Reagan wrote. "Nonetheless, I am convinced that our two countries do share a common interest in the avoidance of war and the reduction of both current tensions and existing levels of armaments."

MacBride said he wrote the letters after Reagan talked about the world situation during a visit to the Irish Republic in June.

Chernenko's reply to MacBride's letter was carried Saturday by Tass, the official Soviet news agency.

Chernenko wrote that MacBride seemed to think Reagan's recent statements about "the senselessness of nuclear war and about the need to rid the Earth of nuclear weapons ostensibly open up an opportunity for serious negotiations."

"However, all practical actions by the U.S. administration are at variance with the proclaimed striving for talks, for improvement of relations. It is clear that this by no means signified a change of the present U.S. stand," said Chernenko, who is also Soviet Communist Party chief.

Chernenko's reply said in part: "We, for our part, have stated more than once that we would like to have good relations with the United States. But an appropriate will on both sides should be displayed in this question."

Jaycees Say No Female Members

HIGH POINT (AP) — A vote by the North Carolina Jaycees to recommend that their national organization not admit female members was "a refusal to recognize women as colleagues," said the president of a local NOW chapter.

"It's perpetuating the old-boy network," said Robin Davis, president of the Raleigh chapter of the National Organization for women.

During a quarterly meeting attended by about 200 members, the state Jaycees Sunday passed a resolution recommending that President Randall Essick of Clemmons, "as our chief delegate to (Thursday's national Jaycees) meeting, vote against the proposed bylaw changes relating to open membership and the dissolution of Jaycee Women."

Mrs. Davis said Jaycee membership has been a means for men to establish themselves and rise in their communities and that the vote showed a reluctance on the part of the N.C. Jaycees to accept women as leaders.

"In the civic and business community, Jaycee membership is sometimes essential, and to bar that is to cut them off from the mainstream of society," Mrs. David said in a telephone interview.

The U.S. Jaycees will hold a special national convention Thursday in Tulsa, Okla., in response to a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that enabled states to force the Jaycees into allowing women members. The decision upheld the use of a Minnesota public accommodations law that bans sex discrimination in civic groups.

IN THE STATE

The state resolution won about two-thirds of the nearly 100 votes cast, Essick said in an interview.

Noting the desire of the North Carolina Jaycee Women to remain a separate organization, the resolution points out that the state group "will abide by and will follow any decision by our courts and by the United States Jaycees."

"If the bylaw passes, we will admit women as of Aug. 17," Essick said.

The Jaycees now give full membership only to men between ages 18 and 36. Women may be associate members without the right to vote, hold office or participate in some training programs.

Jaycee Women is a separate, affiliated organization for women, formerly called the Jayettes.

Nationally, the Jaycees has 275,000 members in 7,400 chapters. In North Carolina, there are 7,700 members in 218 chapters, Essick said.

Elderly Couple Survive Abduction

TAR HEEL, N.C. (AP) — Sheriff's officials are looking for two men who put an elderly Bladen County couple through a night of fear when they kidnapped the couple at gunpoint and drove for several hours until their car wrecked.

"I'm surprised we didn't have two bodies there..." Bladen County Sheriff Earl Storms said, adding that at least one of the suspects "is real dangerous."

Billy McNair, 69, and Marie McNair, 62, were treated and released from Good Hope Hospital in Erwin, officials said.

The couple's daughter, Nan Marie Gentry of Lumberton, said the incident began about 7:30 p.m. Saturday when a man stopped at the McNairs' mobile home and asked to use the phone because his car had wrecked.

McNair told the man the phone was out of order because he didn't want to let them in, she said.

But about 15 minutes later, the same man returned and asked for water. When McNair tried to hand the man the glass through the screen door, the man stuck a gun in his face, Mrs. Gentry said.

After McNair hit the man over the head with the glass, a second man arrived and they forced their way into the house, taking three guns and $400 in cash, she said.

Mrs. Gentry said the men fired some shots while in the house, apparently as a threat because they thought there would be more money in the house.

The men then forced the couple into their car and drove around for several hours until the car crashed on State Road 1412 near Duncan in Harnett County between 10 p.m. and 11:30 p.m.

The kidnapers then left the McNairs in their car and escaped, officials said.

During the drive, Mrs. McNair was in the back seat with one of the kidnapers and McNair was in the front seat with the other, Mrs. Gentry said.

Griffith, Ford Campaign For Hunt

By The Associated Press

Actor Andy Griffith, joined by Houston Rockets basketball star Phil Ford at a fund-raiser for Gov. Jim Hunt, told a crowd of about 1,000 that the Democratic governor is the best man for U.S. Senate.

"A good North Carolina Democrat will sometimes vote Democratic and sometimes vote Republican, but he'll always vote for the best man," Griffith told people attending the $50-a-ticket event Sunday at the Edgecombe County home of former state Supreme Court Justice J. Phil Carlton, who is Hunt's campaign counsel.

To boost Hunt's response to Republican opponent Sen. Jesse Helms in their television advertisement war, Griffith said he would appear in three TV spots and "a bunch of radio commercials" that will begin airing in the next few weeks.

Ford, of Rocky Mount, who formerly played for the University of North Carolina, said eight years ago he got a telegram from Hunt — then lieutenant governor — "thanking me and the U.S. Olympic team for winning a gold medal."

"I'm always in your corner, Governor," Ford said.

Hunt urged the partisan crowd to beef up their campaign efforts on his behalf so that "you will be proud of your representative in Washington, D.C."

Meanwhile, the North Carolina Council on the Status of Women on Saturday adopted a policy statement urging Hunt to take action to counter the "feminization of poverty."

The council called for appointment of "a high-level state task force ... to develop an action plan for reversing those trends" of rising poverty among North Carolinians — especially women.

Statistics from the state's Office of Economic Opportunity show that the poverty population in the state has grown by 63 percent since 1975. Nearly two-thirds of the state's poverty-level households are headed by women. And women generally earn 53 percent to 60 percent of what men do for comparable work.

Hospital Evacuation

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — The intensive care unit and nursery of Forsyth Memorial Hospital were evacuated Sunday after smoke filled the basement and first floor of the hospital.

The problem apparently developed when lightning struck, according to hospital spokesman Ronald Hoy.

Security Officer A.E. Eidson said when went to the generator room in the basement when he became aware of smoke and found the sprinkler system activated. The smoke also worked into the elevator shafts and other sections.

No injuries were reported from the incident, and the hospital is operating on emergency power. Hoy said he didn't know when the hospital will return to regular operation.

Shade Leaf Finds Help In England

CANTON, Conn. (AP) — British smokers who prefer top-grade cigars are giving a boost to the economically hard-pressed U.S. shade tobacco industry in western Massachusetts and Connecticut, authorities say.

The acreage planted in tobacco in the fertile Connecticut River Valley has plunged by 60 percent since 1972, but the situation appears to have stabilized currently — thanks largely to the tastes of British cigar fanciers.

They are "willing to pay a little more for a cigar with a natural leaf wrapper," said Joep van Huystee, a tobacco broker based in Canton.

Great Britain imports the top grades and receives about half the annual U.S. shade tobacco crop, all of which is grown in the Connecticut River Valley of western Massachusetts and Connecticut.

The specialty crop of tobacco leaves is used for the final, outer wrapping of cigars, but has been hurt in recent years by introduction of the "homogenized" cigar wrapper, made of cheaper grades of tobacco.

Shade tobacco farmers welcome that forecast — a contrast with the experience of the past quarter century, when production dropped from 13 million pounds in 1960 to 2 million pounds last year, according to a study by the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The shade tobacco industries in Georgia and Florida were wiped out over those years, but the U.S. shade tobacco appears to be holding its own on the market at a time when it sells for about $12.65 per pound while lower quality shade tobacco in Central America, Ecuador and the Dominican Republic sells for about $5 per pound.

Mayor Visits N.C. Homeland

WELDON, N.C. (AP) — Philadelphia Mayor Wilson Goode told people in northeastern North Carolina Saturday that they were responsible for instilling in him values that have led to his success.

Goode's family lived on a tenant farm near Seaboard in Northhampton County until he was 15. In November, he became the first black mayor of Philadelphia. He was honored at a $20-a-ticket fundraising banquet sponsored by Frontiers International, a service organization seeking money to establish a community center.

About 175 people came to Weldon High School to hear Goode speak.

Goode said he learned the meaning of hard work, strong family ties and faith while growing up in North Carolina.

He told the predominantly black audience that when he left the state, he "left a place very much (racially) divided." Recent visits have shown him that things have changed, Goode said.

"When the mayor of Philadelphia can break bread with the mayor of Weldon, N.C., that's progress," Goode said. Goode sat at the head table with Weldon Mayor S.W. Oakley.

Goode said he campaigned some for Democrat gubernatorial candidate Rufus Edmisten during his visit and said he would return in October to campaign for Gov. Jim Hunt, who is running for the U.S. Senate.

Scientifically Designed to Make You a Lot of Money

The Perdue Breeder Program:

To put superior chickens in the grocery store, Perdue starts with a superior program.

We've spent years developing the high-powered hens and vigorous roosters whose eggs hatch the bigger, meatier chickens that consumers flock to. The breeder house we build today has been designed to keep the hens comfortable and productive the year round.

All of which means that you, as a hatching egg producer, will have a secure operation that earns good money. A Perdue breeder operation provides weekly paychecks that add up to a handsome income. Perdue needs 20 new breeder houses now. If you have some land, that may be all you need to get started. So mail in the coupon, or call us collect at (919) 795-4151, and get all the details.

I'd like to know more about starting my own Perdue breeder operation.
