Poll Gives Helms Edge, Reagan A 2-To-1 Lead

By The Associated Press

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., owes his slight lead over Democratic opponent Gov. Jim Hunt to his greater appeal to men, according to a new Gallup poll that shows Helms holding a 4 percentage point lead over Hunt.

The survey found that there was a "gender gap" between the candidates, with Helms' appeal stronger among men and Hunt generally gaining more support from women.

"Helms owes his present lead primarily to his considerably greater appeal to men, among whom he is favored over Hunt by a 55 percent to 39 percent margin," said the Gallup organization. "Among women, Hunt garners 50 percent of the vote to 43 percent for Helms."

Among 1,187 voters interviewed randomly by telephone, 48.5 percent favored Helms compared with 44.5 for Hunt, and 7 percent were undecided. There is a three percent margin of error.

The Gallup poll was conducted Sept. 10-13 for four North Carolina newspapers and two television stations.

A second Gallup poll released today shows that President Reagan enjoys an almost 2-to-1 lead in voter preference over Democratic presidential nominee Walter Mondale in North Carolina.

In the survey, Reagan had a 62 percent to 34 percent lead over Mondale, with 4 percent undecided. The poll has a margin of error of plus or minus three percentage points.

The Republican ticket of Reagan and Vice President George Bush led among all major population groups, except blacks.

"The Reagan-Bush appeal is so strong that the race is a standoff (49 percent for Mondale to 47 percent for Reagan) among those claiming to be registered Democrats," the Gallup organization said in a summary of the poll.

"The almost 2-to-1 'trial heat' victory of the Reagan ticket over the Mondale slate is so broad that it may contribute importantly to Helms' popularity in the state," the summary said.

"We sort of have the momentum," said former U.S. Rep. Eugene

Johnston of Greensboro, chairman of the state Reagan-Bush campaign. "We have a good story to tell."

"There is no question but Reagan is leading, and there is no question but we have our work cut out for us," said former U.S. Sen. Robert Morgan, chairman of the state Mondale campaign.

Among whites, Reagan led Mondale by a 72 percent to 25 percent margin. Among blacks, Mondale led Reagan by an 80 percent to 12 percent margin. Reagan was stronger among men, leading 67 percent to 29 percent, while women gave him a 57 percent to 38 percent edge.

The survey also found Reagan's backers more deeply committed to their candidate than Mondale's supporters were. Among Reagan's backers, 41 percent said they strongly supported Reagan, while only 19 percent of Mondale's backers said they strongly supported him.

In the Gallup poll taken in May in the U.S. Senate race, Helms had a 50 to 46 percent lead over Hunt with a four percent margin of error.

Sailors 'Safe' In Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — Five American sailors taken into custody by Soviet authorities Sept. 12 are "safe and well" in eastern Siberia, but there has been no official explanation for their detention, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said today.

Spokesman Mark Smith said a member of the embassy's consulate staff spoke by telephone with one of the crew members and learned they were in the town of Ureliki on the Bay of Providence.

The crew members are "safe and well" and their vessel, Frieda-K, "is apparently undamaged," Smith said.

"The embassy is now attempting to secure the release of the five crewmen and their safe passage home," Smith added.

The ship had failed to return to Nome, Alaska, on Wednesday as scheduled after a supply run up the western Alaska coast on a route that would have taken it past the Seward peninsula, about 25 miles from Siberian territory.

In Washington, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said that based on the reports available, "As near as we can determine at the moment, there was no hostility. It was an inadvertent straying of the vessel."

State Department spokesman Joseph Reap said Saturday that "I assume the Russians believe they strayed into their waters," but added, "we don't know if that's the case."

Smith, at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow, said he could not immediately reveal their names.

But in the United States, the crewmen were identified as Tab and Tate Thoms, Mark Halpin, Robert Miller and Charles Burrall.

Embassy officials said this evening that the matter had been taken up with the Soviet Foreign Ministry over the weekend and today, but that no explanation of the incident had so far been obtained.

An official with the Foreign Ministry's press department was asked to comment on reports that five Americans had been detained in the Siberian far east and said only, "we have no such information."

Negotiators Take A Break

By EDWARD MILLER

AP Auto Writer
DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers pickets walked lines at plant gates today as strikes took hold at a dozen General Motors Corp. facilities, and negotiators who had bargained for 19 hours recessed contract talks this morning for a one-day break.

The union reported progress but said "significant differences" remain.

The job action by 12 UAW locals, 11 of them at final-assembly plants, continued over local issues. GM officials feared the strikes would leave parts plants with nowhere to ship their products.

The union issued a statement at 5 a.m. saying "significant differences remain between the parties on the principal issues." Chief among those are job security and wages.

The local strikes put 62,000 workers on the street in nine states at midnight Friday. That number fell to 58,000 Sunday when a California plant settled its strike.

The lengthy bargaining session — which began about 10 a.m. Sunday and ran through the night with only a few breaks for meals — suggested the two sides were making progress toward a tentative agreement covering 350,000 UAW workers at GM.

The union statement, issued by UAW President Owen Bieber and chief bargainer Donald Ephlin, said, "We made some progress during that period."

A source close to the negotiations said much still was unresolved on job security — the UAW's demand that its workers jobs be protected from GM moves to shift production of components and cars to non-union or foreign shops.

A tentative national agreement would go to union members for ratification after approval by the UAW's 300-member GM Council. The national contract would replace one that expired Friday.

The UAW has agreed to keep working without a contract during negotiations, except for strikes over local issues.

The union says any national settlement at GM would serve as a model in negotiations with Ford Motor Co., whose 115,000 UAW workers' contract also expired Friday.

New Queen Says 'No Skeletons In Closet'

By KATHLEEN BIRD

Associated Press Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Miss America Sharlene Wells, a Sunday school teacher who stands "straighter" when she sees the flag, says the pageant's scandal-battered image has been restored as she begins her year of interviews, commercials and celebrity appearances.

The 20-year-old daughter of a Mormon church leader in Salt Lake City made her first official appearance as Miss America on Sunday at the groundbreaking for a condominium. She received the crown Saturday night.

Today, her schedule called for interviews on the morning network news programs and then a meeting with reporters in New York City. In the days ahead, she will crisscross the United States, probably visiting the White House and earning more than $100,000 in personal appearance fees in addition to her $25,000 pageant scholarship.

The selection of Miss Wells, who doesn't smoke, drink, gamble or believe in premarital sex, marked the end of the most turbulent period in the pageant's 63-year history.

In July, Vanessa Williams, 21, of Millwood, N.Y., the first black woman to wear the crown, became the first Miss America to step down after nude photographs of her in intimate scenes with another woman were published in Penthouse magazine.

Now, Penthouse Publisher Bob Guccione says he has 350 color slides of one of this year's contestants.

Miss Wells said it is not her, that she has no "skeletons in the closet" and she can't think of anything in her life of which she is ashamed.

"I guess they were looking for somebody like me," she said of the eight judges who picked her from a field representing the 50 states and the District of Columbia.

"We have redefined what Miss America stands for," said Miss Wells. "We now know and we've always known what Miss America is. She's always been a role model."

The 5-foot-8, 120-pound, aqua-eyed strawberry blonde, an enthusiastic backer of President Reagan who thinks the Equal Rights Amendment is unnecessary, said she has lived

Couple Marries On Sunday Afternoon

BELVOIR — The wedding of Lori Ann Brown of Route 4, Greenville, and Jeffrey Teel Harris of Route 6, Greenville, took place Sunday afternoon in the Gum Swamp Free Will Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Ivy Brown of Route 4, Greenville, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Teel Harris of Route 6, Greenville.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Ray

Williamson. A program of wedding music was presented by organist Jasa Allen of Route 4, Greenville, and soloist Chris Harris. Selections included "We've Only Just Begun," "The Wedding Song" and "The Wedding Prayer." Bobby Harris sang "My Tribute."

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a floor length gown with a cathedral train of organza and chantilly lace over taffeta. The fitted torso chantilly lace bodice featured a yoke neckline with lego-mutton sleeves. Scalloped chantilly lace motifs outlined the neckline. Clusters of seed pearls accented the bodice. The floor length skirt extended to a cathedral train. A deep chantilly lace flounce in a scalloped design bordered the hemline of the gown. She wore a cathedral length mantilla of bridal illusion edged with scalloped chantilly lace flowing from a chantilly lace caplet etched with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white butterfly roses, pink sweetheart roses and lavender and white daisies interspersed with baby's breath and springerii greenery and centered with a lavender hybrid orchid. The bouquet was tied with white lace and satin ribbon with showers of lavender picot ribbon.

Maid of honor was Gina Brown of Route 4, Greenville, sister of the bride. She wore a huckleberry-colored dress of taffeta with a sheer overlay. The gown featured a fitted bodice, puffed sleeves, sweetheart neckline and a double ruffle at the hemline with a bustle in the back.

Bridesmaids were Glenda Brown, Paula Brown and Cynthia Harris, all of Route 4, Greenville, and Cathy Brown of Burgaw, all sisters-in-law of the bride; Linda McMillan of Route 4, Greenville, cousin of the bride, and Cathy Thomas, cousin of the bridegroom, and Teresa Jordan, both of Greenville. Each bridesmaid wore a gown like that of the honor attendant.

Flower girl was Sarah Brown of Route 4, Greenville, niece of the bride. She wore a gown made by the mother of the bride which was fashioned after the bridesmaid's dresses. Ringbearer was Al Barnhill of Route 6, Greenville.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man. Ushers were Gary Brown of Burgaw; and Ronnie Brown, Kent Brown and Rickey Brown, all Greenville, brothers of the bride; Rodney Harris and Chris Harris, both brothers of the bridegroom from Greenville, and Darrell Harris of Greenville, cousin of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride wore a long mauve matte taffeta gown with matching chantilly lace on the bodice. The mother of the bridegroom wore a dusty rose georgette crepe chemise coat-dress with a high jeweled collar.

A reception immediately followed the ceremony. Cake was served by Dora Ann Nixon and punch was poured by Dot Brown, aunts of the bride. Assisting were Donna Simpkins, Marie Carraway, Nadine Forbes, Linda Wallace and Eva Harris. Viola McMillan and Elizabeth Hubard, aunts of the bride, greeted guests. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Little said goodbyes.

Before the rehearsal, the wedding party was entertained with a dinner given by the parents of the bridegroom. Nuptial parties included a pig picking, a luncheon and several showers.

The bride and the bridegroom both graduated from Greenville Christian Academy. The bride graduated from Pitt Community College with a degree in electronic data processing. Both are employed at Fountain Powerboats of Washington; the bridegroom is sales manager and the bride is a computer operator.

After a cruise to the Bahamas, the couple will reside at Route 6, Greenville.

Good Deed Philanthropy Turns Into Misanthropy

DEAR ABBY: The letter about finding a suitcase with no identification in the middle of the road reminded me of something I will never forget.

Several years ago, my husband, a cross-country truck driver, saw a small suitcase in the middle of the highway, so he pulled off and got it before it was run over. It had no identification, but it contained some pictures of a beautiful little boy, from the time of his birth until approximately 6 years old. On some large colored pictures was the name of a photographer's studio in a small Wyoming town, so we called the studio (we live in Oklahoma) and described the pictures. We were told the pictures belonged to the John Brown family (made-up name), and they gave us the family's address and phone number in Wyoming.

We called their home and were told the little boy and his parents had gone to visit the grandparents in Colorado, and they gave us their number. I called the grandparents and told them about the suitcase. They thanked me nicely, said the Browns had not arrived yet and asked me to please send the suitcase to them in Colorado.

I packed up the suitcase, insured it and sent it to Colorado with my name and address.

I heard nothing for three months. Then a letter from Mrs. Brown came, accusing me of finding a second suitcase that was lost at the same time! She said it contained some expensive jewelry, and she practically called me a thief! That ungrateful woman never even thanked me for shipping the suitcase with those precious pictures. Nor did she offer to reimburse me for the phone calls and postage.

That sure taught me a lesson!
MARY C., OKLAHOMA CITY

DEAR MARY: And what was the "lesson"? I hope it didn't sour you on the whole human race. Don't stop doing good deeds for strangers; for every lemon like Mrs. Brown, there are 100 peaches like you, Mary C.

DEAR ABBY: Since when, and who gave you permission to change God's law? A woman is still supposed to be pure at marriage, and a white wedding gown is, was and always will be a symbol of that purity.

When you say that a woman has the right to wear a white wedding gown if it is her first wedding, are you saying that she can have two or three kids, shack up or sleep around, but she is still entitled to a church wedding in a white gown?

If that's true, why should a woman want to save her virginity for marriage?

To have a church wedding is a mockery, and I dare you to print this to see how many out there will agree with me.

CELESTE, TEXAS

DEAR CELESTE: No one can change God's law. True, a woman is supposed to be a virgin until she marries. But nowhere in the Bible does it state that only virgins may wear white and be married in church.

DEAR ABBY: I've seen many references in your column concerning how doctors, dentists and their nurses should address elderly patients. (Many resent being called by their first names.)

I am a physician, and in 20 years of primarily a geriatric practice (urology), I have never called a patient by his first name unless requested to do so.

My patients, in turn, are welcome to call me "Doctor Pat" if they wish, but call me "Doc" and my blood boils at this uncouth familiarity. Wyatt Earp is dead!

Police, who set damage at $1,400 to the Peel car and $1,800 to the Udergraft vehicle, charged Ms. Udergraft with a stop light violation.

Investigators said a truck driven by John Anthony Trotman of 204 N. Warren St., collided with a utility pole in the 200 block on S. Warren Street, about 8:32 a.m., causing $2,000 damage to the truck and $100 damage to the pole.

Greenville police Saturday night arrested bingo parlor operator Louis John Hallow, 50, of 107 Christenbury Drive, on bingo law violation charges following an undercover investigation at the bingo parlor on W. Tenth St.

Chief Ted Holmes said the violation with which Hallow was charged, involved the paying of a $500 jackpot for one game.

Holmes explained that the law governing beach bingo, which is played at the Tenth Street parlor, limits winnings to $10 a game.

Congressman Jim Martin will speak at the meeting of the Eastern North Carolina Development Association Friday at the Beaufort House Restaurant in Beaufort.

Martin, Republican candidate for governor, will address the economic development needs of eastern North Carolina in his 10:30 a.m. speech. Dr. Howard Stafford of Cincinnati, a specialist in economic geography and location analysis, will make a presentation on "What Rural Areas Can Do to Attract Local Industry."

Registration for the meeting has been set at $15 for members and $20 for non-members; the fee includes coffee and donuts and a seafood platter luncheon.

Regular membership in the association is limited to the 39 counties east of Interstate 95 and to those persons and organizations working to promote and develop eastern North Carolina. For seat reservations, call (919) 537-9146.

Exchange Program

According to Myra Cain of the ECU Office of Academic Affairs, East Carolina University's new membership in the International Student Exchange program will make it much easier for students to engage in studies at foreign campuses.

Ms. Cain also noted that a recently-announced foreign exchange scholarship program established by Greenville engineer Thomas W. Rivers and his family "will fit very nicely" into plans to broaden foreign studies by ECU students and studies by foreign students at ECU. The Rivers Foreign Exchange Endowment Fund provides up to $2,500 for tuition, travel and lodging for ECU and foreign exchange students studying abroad.

Dr. Robert J. Hursey of the ECU mathematics faculty will be in charge of ECU's participation in the program, Cain said.

Hurricane Claims

Insurance Commissioner John Ingram has advised victims of Hurricane Diana to report claims promptly to an insurance agent and give a brief description of damages.

In a statement from his office, Ingram advised that an inventory of personal property damaged or destroyed should be prepared and photographs should be taken of the damage.

He said the reasonable expenses of protecting property from further damage are part of the loss and will be reimbursed by the insurance company. He advises the victim to keep receipts and have permanent repairs made only after the property has been inspected and an agreement has been reached on the cost of the repairs.

"If you think the estimate of the insurance company is too low, you may wish to obtain an estimate from your own contractor," the insurance commissioner said.

For more information, call the Consumer Insurance Information Division of the Insurance Commissioner's Office, 1-800-662-7777.

Mural Classes

A class on mural development will begin from 10 a.m.-12 noon Tuesday at the Greenville Museum of art.

The course, sponsored by Pitt Community College, will be taught by Bob Daniel and will emphasize "starting from scratch" on a mural. Students will begin with slide and study projection enlarging and make their own pattern, then develop their own large-size painting on panels.

Registration is $19 plus materials. For further information call 756-3130, extension 225.

Your Social Security Disability Benefits

BENEFITS DENIED?

Have you been denied benefits under Social Security's disability benefits programs? Do not be discouraged. That happens to most people who apply the first time.

Have you asked for reconsideration of your disability claim and been turned down a second time? Again, don't be discouraged or give up. That's the way the disability system works today.

Take your case one step further and go before a Social Security Administrative Law Judge for a hearing with a qualified representative to present your case. Then the chances of your winning benefits are somewhere between 70% and 80%. The Judge will see you and hear your personal description of your physical or mental illness, and your representative will present your case as it applies to the complex rules of the Social Security Act.

If you have a hearing requested or scheduled before an Administrative Law Judge, call now for an immediate conference. There is no fee for an initial conference to discuss your eligibility for disability.

Firsthand

The second Hunt-Helms debate is history, and in those closing minutes both candidates were showing the wear and tear of going over old ground and trying to raise more smoke and noise over comparative credibility.

Senator Helms obviously continues unhappy over the debate format. "I had hoped the governor and I could sit down ... man to man, and discuss the issues without this kind of dog and pony show," Helms said. (Actually, the debate guidelines may have been the biggest factor in maintaining a safe law-and-order atmosphere when the exchanges began to heat up.)

There was little warmth displayed toward one another by the rivals, and repeated clashes told television viewers something about their personalities.

Conflicting points of view were raised over the Environmental Protection Agency's superfund, how many new jobs were actually created in North Carolina during the Hunt administrations; congressional education programs (and the Helms' role) was another point of many disagreements; tax fairness votes had some lively moments, and differing stances on the King Holiday were raised by the senator (though we saw no advantage gained by the ploy), and they still had to talk about campaign finances.

We were disappointed that so much of what they had to say was duplicative of their advertising campaigns.

That line "There you go again, Jim" was repeated as though the speaker had discovered a new toy, but Jesse is no actor (nor ex-actor), so it betrayed a contrived aura to what originally may have been a good ad lib. We'd rather not have to listen to it again.

The two debate again in a regional TV show Sept. 23 in Charlotte; and a second statewide telecast is scheduled for Oct. 13. It is an opportunity North Carolina voters should not neglect. It's a first-class education in who poses the better choice for the Senate ... and we say this despite a rather cool assessment of what has been offered so far.

Mere words cannot convey emotions betrayed by facial expressions, "body language," the stress in speech patterns. One has to see it, to hear it, to appreciate the unspoken reactions in sometimes emotional verbal combat by the two top choices for an important seat in Congress.

Void Remains

In an interesting turn of events the Eastern Carolina Vocational Center and the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department have called off efforts to develop a facilities operating agreement.

Boyd Lee, executive director of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department, announced this at a meeting of the commission last week. Lee said EVCC had asked the department to consider taking over the operation of the recreation part of the center. After thorough study, he said, the center has concluded that it can handle the program alone. Lee said that was agreeable with the Recreation and Parks Department.

As we recall there was the possibility that some use of the facilities, particularly the indoor swimming pool, might have been offered to the general public under the proposed arrangement. It remains to be seen what might occur concerning this.

It appears however, that Greenville is still a city without an indoor pool for public use. The indoor pools on the university campus are necessarily restricted to university programs.

For a community as large as ours there is a recreational void to be filled. Perhaps it will fall to a private health club or a YMCA to provide an indoor pool for year around recreational use.

There Also Are Other Races

RALEIGH — Lost behind the political hullabaloo created by highly contested races for president, senator and governor are a pack of statewide races that are extremely important — the contests for the Council of State.

But the obscurity under which these races are being run is nothing new. Every four years, the Council of State races have to compete for attention with the top federal and state offices and every four years, the Council of State falls short in terms of publicity.

The Council of State is made up of governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general, state auditor, state treasurer, superintendent of public instruction and the commissioners of insurance, labor and agriculture.

No doubt, the lack of interest in these races stems partly from the lack of suspense over who is going to win. No Republican has won a Council of State seat — other than Jim Holshouser's 1972 gubernatorial victory — in this century and in 1984, the Republicans do not appear capable of making a serious challenge to any position below lieutenant governor.

"I'm not going to try to fool you," says state GOP chairman Dave Flaherty, "we're not going to win the Council of State unless we just have a tremendous sweep of this state, by something like 10 or more points. It all depends on Jim Martin (GOP gubernatorial candidate) because our Council of State candidates always run three or four points behind our candidate for governor."

David Price, chairman of the state Democratic Party, says he has very little concern over the Republican Party's chances of winning any seat below lieutenant governor. "They don't appear to be competitive at this point. All of our candidates are

The issue of the separation of church and state has reared its head in the 1984 presidential campaign. It may not be good for the state but it's not bad for television preachers.

My favorite, the Right Reverend Rolls Royce, devoted his entire hour to this subject the other morning. He said:

"I'm going to speak to you today about God, sin and the American election. The secular humanists would have you believe that religion must not play a part in government — that we should not mix religion when it comes to electing the greatest president on this good green globe.

"Well, my friends, the Bible has something to say about this. What does the Bible say about state and religion? You can find out by sending $50 for this velvet-bound illustrated edition, which we have printed at cost, to guide you in making what could be the greatest decision of your life. For those of you who can't afford this beautiful gold-trimmed book, we are offering a paperback edition for $15, so no one can say that he or she wasn't informed on the issues.

"Do religion and government mix? Well, I'm going to tell you a story. A man came to me last month and said he didn't think he was better off today than he was four years ago. He had lost his job, his benefits were running out and he could hardly feed his family on the food stamps that he was receiving. He told me because of his precarious situation he was confused and didn't know whom to vote for in November.

"I told him when he goes into the voting booth, he must not think of his own petty problems. He must decide which party's platform supports God and which party's platform supports Satan. I gave him copies of both parties' platforms. Do you know what this man did after reading them? He gave me his last $5 for a Reagan bumper sticker.

"The aggressive humanists would have us believe that the fathers of the Constitution deliberately set out to keep state and religion separate.

Well, I'm holding a copy of the Constitution in my hand, the most beautiful political document ever devised by man. This document can be yours free, if you send $10 for postage costs and handling. It is printed on parchment with the First Amendment to bold red type.

Whenever a humanist cites the Supreme Court on keeping religion out of the government you can show him this document to prove the Supreme Court justices are wrong.

"My friends, too many of us take it for granted how blessed we are to live in a country under God. We're afraid to show our true feelings. But we have to shout to the world that we're the greatest so it can be heard all the way to the Kremlin. You may be asking how you can do this. You can do it by displaying this American flag. For just $100, you can hang one of these flags in your window. I have personally blessed each of them, so you're not just buying an American flag, but one that was touched by God's hand.

"Don't just sit there and let the secular humanists turn this country into a Communist state. Go to your phones now and call this toll-free number. I God didn't want to have this flag he wouldn't have let me accept your American Express MasterCard or Visa cards.

"I want to conclude this broadcast by telling you about the wonderful prayer breakfast I attended in Dallas: where I heard the inspirational words of our great president. After the breakfast I went up to our Commander in Chief on earth to bless him. I would like to share that moving moment with you. My wife Lulubelle took an Instamatic photograph of the president shaking my hand. If you will send just $20 we will mail you a framed copy of that picture which you can hang in your living room to show your friends. It is something you will cherish for the rest of your life. This is a collector's item and the only picture in existence of Ronald Reagan and myself. The offer is limited to the first 50,000 people who send in their checks. After that we will burn the negative and no one will be able to reproduce this miracle photograph again."

Religion And Politics Meet On TV

LAST MINUTE FRANTIC STRUGGLE!

—Rowland Evans and Robert Novak—

Percy Faces Tough Fight

CHICAGO — Whether Sen. Charles H. Percy — for two decades the Midwest exemplar of liberal Republicanism — can convince Illinois conservatives that he is a born-again Reaganite will decide his survival in his fourth and toughest campaign for the Senate.

Early reluctance to move rightward has vanished. He spares no adjective in lavishing praise on Ronald Reagan, whose 1976 presidential candidacy was greeted by Percy as "the beginning of the end for our party." He sounds as anti-tax as Jack Kemp, as anti-communist as Jesse Helms. He fires an unrelieved barrage on liberal positions of his opponent, Rep. Paul Simon.

Nothing could testify more clearly to the polarization of American politics and the death of liberal Republicanism. Chuck Percy, who emerged nationally a generation ago as Nelson Rockefeller's cohort, at age 65 has ended hostilities with the Republican Right.

But the Right is not yet reciprocating. "We just do not consider Chuck trustworthy," a prominent Illinois conservative told us. He and his associates believe that Percy, once elected to possibly his last six-year term, will revert to liberal form. Such conservatives talk of throwing votes to the Libertarian Party nominee if Republican control of the Senate seems assured as the election nears (with Sen. Helms succeeding Percy as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee).

What makes even fragmentary defections dangerous is Percy's loss of his old base. Jewish support left him long ago because of his courageous, evenhanded Mideast posture. Blacks and labor leaders have abandoned Percy, facing his first liberal Democratic challenger.

Moreover, 20 years in elective politics have not softened Percy's image as the quintessential North Shore millionaire. If Percy is a difficult man to love, Paul Simon is one of the state's most likeable political figures. A southern Illinoisan, he threatens the normal Republican downstate vote.

Accompanying Percy last week on a campaign swing into northwestern Illinois, we encountered less enthusiasm than complaints about his Senate office's constituency service. Applause as he marched in Monmouth's annual parade was meager.

A few days earlier, Libertarian candidate Steve Givot had been cheered while marching in the conservative Chicago suburb of Schaumburg.

Percy's response is to grab tightly onto President Reagan's coattails, personal and ideological. At a fund-raiser at the Monmouth Country Club, he opposed tax increases because "the best way to get new revenue is the economic recovery." He defended the B-1 bomber instead of waiting for a Stealth bomber, asking: "Are the Russians going to wait that long? Maybe not."

Asked about the new supply-side, anti-Soviet Percy, a skeptical Monmouth party regular told us: "It's a matter of geography" — that is, trying to please that conservative corner of rural Illinois. But in Chicago two days later at the Sun-Times debate with Simon, he sang precisely the same song.

Strength For Today

An elderly woman much respected by all who know her tells how years ago her next door neighbor had been very unfriendly. Try as she would, she could not get a pleasant word out of this neighbor. After several years, a mutual friend revealed the reason.

Because she went out on the porch to bring in the morning paper in nightgown and negligee, and did not dress until later, her neighbor, peeping through the curtains, considered her an abandoned woman.

We may laugh at such a judgment based on such slight evidence. But are not most of us guilty of similarly uncharitable opinions very often?

How much grief would be avoided if we always tried to think the best of others, and not the worst. When we assume the best of people, we generally find our assumptions fulfilled. When we give them friendliness and trust, we usually get friendliness and trust in return.

Purchase Is Delayed

WILLIAMSTON — The Williamston Board of Commissioners at their September meeting delayed action to purchase and install a flow meter and automatic monitoring equipment. The equipment is needed to measure the discharge of First Carolina Industries into the town's sewer system.

As a result of the delayed action, commissioners asked the town's attorney, Dan Manning, to write the industry a letter requesting a reply to the town concerning their intentions of dealing with the discharges into the sewer system. Town administrator J. B. Godwin reported that a letter of August 13 to the industry had not been answered.

In its August meeting, the town board agreed to either have the industry install its own flow meter and automatic sampling equipment or have the town install the equipment and recoup the cost through surcharges. On several occasions board members have expressed concern for the level of discharge coming from First Carolina Industries into the town's system.

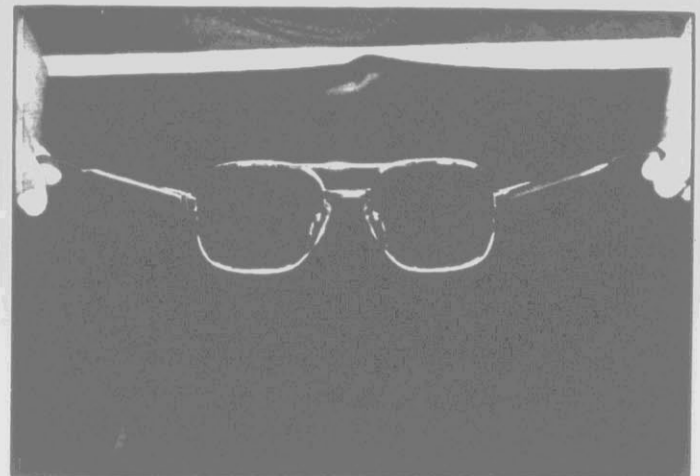

Mark Garner of Rivers and Associates of Greenville told the board that the cost of installing the equipment would be about $16,000-17,000 with about half this recoupable if the device is moved to another location.

First Carolina Industries is located outside the town limits and pays the higher rate for water and sewer services assessed to out-of-town locations.

The board approved a low bid of $7,784 submitted by Mark Chesson and Sons for a tractor and mower, and heard a report from the tax collector that as of August 31 tax collections stood at 27 percent.

Farm Scene

By PHILLIP ROWAN
Agricultural Extension Agent

The new corn crop continues to be harvested in our area. Much of this corn crop will be used in swine and poultry feeds. Also, corn silage, hay and other foodstuffs will be utilized by cattle through the winter. It is important to farmers to know the nutrient contents of these feeds if they are to be fed properly to livestock. The value of a feed is its nutrient content.

Most importantly, feed rations can't be balanced and the most economic benefits can't be derived from a foodstuff or forage unless the nutrient composition is known. The nutritional value of a feed varies considerably due to species, variety, climate, stage of maturity, soil condition and other factors. The value of a given lot of feed can only be determined by laboratory analysis.

The North Carolina Department of Agriculture offers a farm feed testing service for only $5. This test provides results for percentages of dry matter, crude protein, unavailable protein, adjusted crude protein, crude fat, acid detergent fiber, total digestible nutrients and net energy of lactation. The analysis will also test for minerals and nitrates and aflatoxin levels.

A feed laboratory analysis is essential in five ways: to evaluate the quality of feeds, to improve the quality of feeds through better management practices such as fertilization and stage of harvest, to utilize feeds efficiently in a sound feeding program, to maximize animal production and profit by using nutritionally balanced rations, and to formulate or purchase the proper grains, protein or mineral supplement to supply all nutrient requirements at the lowest cost.

Proper sampling of feeds to be analyzed is very important also. Sample bags, sampling instructions and assistance in evaluating results and balancing rations is available from the county extension office.

Piedmont Will Test New Warning System

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Piedmont Airlines will be the first commercial airline to use a warning system designed to prevent midair collisions by giving pilots the locations of approaching aircraft and providing directions for flying away from danger, company officials say. Piedmont Airlines worked several years ago with the Federal Aviation Administration, which developed the system, on an earlier version of this equipment.

"What makes this evaluation at Piedmont very significant is that this will be the first time an airliner anywhere in the world will have a collision avoidance system available to an in-service crew," said Dr. Clyde Miller, the FAA program manager for the Traffic Alert Collision Avoidance System or TCAS. "Pilots with displays have used the information in test environments," he said.

Study Indicates Energy Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new study says the Soviet Union, the world's largest oil producer, is approaching an energy crisis likely to strain a major foundation of its political, economic and military power.

While its vast oil, natural gas and coal reserves will enable the Soviets to remain net energy exporters well into the 1990s, Moscow will be unable to keep up the growth fueled by its once-cheap energy without major sacrifices, said the study by Ed A. Hewett of the Brookings Institution, a Washington research center.

The Soviets have used oil as a major foreign policy link, selling it at subsidized prices to their Eastern European allies. Sales to western nations have accounted for nearly 70 percent of their total foreign currency earnings.

"In effect, the Soviets are borrowing against future collective consumption," Hewett said. "But they're not going to be able to do it much longer."

Views On Dental Health

Kenneth T. Perkins, D.D.S.P.A.

DON'T IGNORE "PINK" TOOTHBRUSH

If your toothbrush turns pink after brushing, you have a dental problem - one that should not go unattended. You are experiencing bleeding gums, a likely indicator of gingivitis (or inflamed gums).

Gingivitis is the first stage of periodontal disease which accounts for the greatest tooth loss in adults. But if you catch it early, you can reverse it with the help of your dentist and a proper home brushing and flossing regimen.

There are other symptoms of gingivitis, such as soft or swollen gums. Rather than go into all the details, take this advice. Go straight to your dentist and let him examine your gums and evaluate your situation. With a little looking and painless probing, and perhaps an x-ray check, he'll immediately know how far advanced it is and what can be done to save you a lot of future problems.

If left untreated, it will only get worse. If you do nothing about improving your home care along with proper professional care, the disease may eventually destroy the tissue and bone supporting the affected teeth. This could likely result in the loosening and eventual loss of teeth which could have been kept healthy.

Smoke, No Fire

BOSTON (AP) — Officials found smoke but no fire on a passenger jet that made an unscheduled landing after signal lights indicated a fire on board as the plane was en route to New York from West Germany.

A signal light indicator proved faulty, and Pan Am Flight 73 took off after nearly five hours on the ground Wednesday night to complete its journey to New York, said Ann Whyte, a Pan American World Airways spokeswoman.

The lights had indicated a fire in the cargo area, where officials said they saw some smoke.

Balloon Floats Toward France

BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Joe W. Kittinger neared the French coast today in his quest to be the first man to cross the Atlantic alone in a balloon, and spokesmen said he might take advantage of good weather to "head on down" to the Mediterranean.

The 56-year-old decorated Vietnam War pilot was floating about 380 miles from the coast of France at about 35 mph at 5:30 a.m. today, said Jim Serna, a weatherman at the backup team's headquarters at Weather Services Corp. here.

"He's about 380 miles northwest of Bordeaux (France)," Serna said, estimating it would take the helium-filled Rosie O'Grady Balloon of Peace eight or nine more hours to reach France.

Earlier today, the tracking team had reported the 10-story balloon was only 100 miles from Brest, France, but Serna said some of the navigational equipment on the balloon had not been working properly.

"A lot of the signals we got were no good. Apparently the cold air at nighttime affects that piece of equipment," he said.

The position 380 miles at sea was confirmed by airplanes, Serna said.

"He's in good shape. He talked to the pilots of the aircraft," Serna said.

The backup team said Kittinger might continue on after he reaches the coast.

"There's no sense in landing if you've got a nice pattern to fly in and good weather," said Serna.

"This is not your ordinary balloonist. He's got a mind of his own," said Jim Mitchell, another backup team member. If the weather is good and the terrain suitable, "he might want to head on down (toward) the Mediterranean."

"It's going to be a great adventure," Kittinger said just before Friday's takeoff. "The next glass of champagne will be in Europe, wherever that may be."

The transatlantic flight was launched in a high-speed wind system that appeared to be capable of getting him across the ocean in 100 hours, but it appeared Kittinger might make it in less, said Mitchell.

The property is located on the south side of NCSR 1708, west of Evans Trailer Park and the NC Forest Service Tower.

Park-Revised, located on the south side of Stantonsburg Highway directly across from Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

The commission will also consider a request to change the name of Hearths Side Drive to Hearths Drive.

Planning and Zoning holds its regular monthly meeting in the third floor council chambers of City Hall. City Hall is located at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets.

Charity Expensive

BOSTON (AP) — From the first day water started cascading down the 60-foot "water sculpture" in Boston's new Copley Place complex, people have been tossing coins in the fountain.

Visitors can't seem to resist making a wish and tossing a coin in pools at the base of the 80-ton waterfall inspired by the fountains of Rome, says Frank Lazorchak, vice president-general manager.

"Copley Place officials thought it only proper to donate the money recovered from the pools to worthy causes of groups from the surrounding neighborhoods," he says.

Then came something of a shock, Lazorchak adds. The cost of removing and donating the coins — $2,000 worth in the first four months — appears to at least equal and possibly exceed the value of the coins.

Martin Board OKs New Tax Schedule

WILLIAMSTON — Martin County Commissioners at their September meeting adopted a resolution of the revaluation schedule and standards for all real property in the county.

The schedule, developed by the Martin County Tax Supervisors Office with the assistance of Southern Appraisal, Inc., is open for examination by the public at the Tax Supervisor's Office for a ten-day period, with filing of appeals within a 30-day period.

County officials noted that real estate is basically taxed on a fair market system, although the schedule, officials admitted, is complicated. The schedule calls for a base assessment on homes and other structures with add-ons for various features.

Two schedules were adopted for farmland and woodland. A market approach schedule and a use value schedule are both included in the basic schedule.

Bobby Beach, county tax supervisor, says the use value schedule has qualification requirements and farmers and others who may benefit from this schedule must apply for it.

Major requirements for use value assessment are that the land be privately owned, that the property consist of at least 10 acres of cultivated land or 20 acres of woodland, and on cultivated land, an average income must have been achieved over the past three years.

Value for farm and woodland have been assigned on a basis of excellent, good, fair and poor. The schedule varies from $1,500 per acre down to $300 per acre.

Appeal Planned

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The chief negotiator for 13 unions that have struck the Phelps Dodge Corp. for 14 months says the unions will appeal a ruling that copper workers hired to replace strikers are permanent employees.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined slightly today, giving up some of last week's gains. Trading was brisk.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials slipped 1.76 to 1,235.76 in the first half hour.

Losers took a 5-3 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said there was no predominant event in the economic news to depress the market.

Rather, they said traders appeared content to cash in on some of the recent rise in stock prices.

They also noted that interest rates turned upward in the credit markets Friday, taking some of the steam out of the stock market's rally. Rates were mixed in early activity today.

Today's early prices included Data General, down 5 1/2 at 53 1/2; Boeing, down 1/2 at 55 1/2; Teledyne, down 1/2, 287 1/2; and McDonald's, off 1/4 at 77.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 9.27 to 1,237.52, bringing its gain for the week to 30.14 points.

Advances outpaced declines by more than 2 to 1 on the NYSE.

The NYSE's composite index gained 57 to 97. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 2.25 at 21.

Jones To Perform

DECATUR, Ala. (AP) — Actor Dean Jones, best known for his roles in Walt Disney films, plans to return to his hometown here to open a one-man religious play, "St. John in Exile."

While Jones is in town for the Oct. 18-20 run of the play, which features the 86-year-old apostle reflecting on his life, a camera crew will tape a television special showing the actor kicking around his home turf.

Poll ...

The survey found the most of the respondents had watched at least one of the televised debates between the candidates, but did not perceive either as the winner. But the poll did include questions on the candidates' stands on six issues which were among the topics discussed during the debates.

Hunt was favored 53 percent to 29 percent on the ability to get more jobs and contracts for North Carolina. He was also the choice for his ability to keep the United States out of a war in Central America by a 40 percent to 32 percent margin. Hunt also led 45 to 38 percent on the question of which candidate would move North Carolina ahead, but got only a slim 41 percent to 40 percent edge on the issue of Social Security.

Helms was picked by 46 percent of those surveyed for his stand on the balanced budget, while Hunt received 37 percent. Helms was also perceived as more supportive off a nuclear arms treaty, getting 44 percent to Hunt's 35 percent.

The poll found several shifts in voter attitude since the May poll including a move toward Helms among persons in the age 34-49 category, a group that Hunt had led in May by a 50 percent to 46 percent margin. Now Helms leads 53 to 43 percent.

Helms extended his lead in one educational category — persons with some college education but no degree. He held a 51 percent to 44 percent lead in May, and now holds a 54 percent to 37 percent lead.

Blacks appeared to move more solidly into Hunt's camp. In May, Hunt garnered a 79 percent to 15 percent lead, but that has grown to 88 percent to 6 percent.

Hunt also took a lead among older voters. Helms had led among persons 50 or older by a 55 percent to 41 percent margin in May, but Hunt was preferred by the group in the latest poll by 47 percent to 44 percent.

Pot Thriving

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Marijuana growers in northern California are preparing for what may be a record harvest during the next few weeks, despite government efforts to stop the thriving industry.

Conservative estimates place the street value of last year's California marijuana harvest at $2 billion, The San Francisco Chronicle reported. The newspaper said today that this year's harvest is expected to be the biggest ever.

"Marijuana is the only agricultural commodity in the country produced and sold in a truly free market," said a grower the Chronicle identified only as Mendocino Max. "There are no government regulations, taxes, import quotas, subsidies. We're actually doing what they tried to teach us in college about free enterprise."

Max is a wholesale dealer and distributor who is selling several pounds of pot expected to fetch as much as $2,400 a pound. Mendocino County, north of San Francisco along the coast, is a center of marijuana farming in northern California.

Pell Fired After NCAA Investigation

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Less than 24 hours after telling reporters he planned to finish the season as Florida's head football coach, Charley Pell was relieved of his coaching duties by University President Marshall Criser.

The announcement Sunday came five days after the National Collegiate Athletic Association informed the university of 107 violations turned up in a 21-month investigation of the Gator football program.

Criser, saying "the program must rid itself of its manifest imperfections," dismissed Pell and named Offensive Coordinator Galen Hall as the interim head coach until the end of the season.

Pell, 43, whose Gators beat Tulane 63-21 Saturday, had offered his resignation Aug. 26, but asked that he be allowed to remain as head coach through the end of the season.

"I fully intend to be here (for the rest of the season)," Pell said after the game Saturday. "I have made a commitment to the players."

Pell said the firing came as "kind of a surprise," though he said was not surprised that Hall was named his successor. "He does an outstanding job," said Pell.

As for his plans, Pell said, "I don't know. Things have happened so fast since 3 o'clock when I met with the president."

Criser said Pell will be placed on administrative leave until at least December 1, which was the date he offered to resign.

"I have carefully reviewed all the NCAA charges. Based upon these reviews, I have come to certain conclusions. After a thorough discussion of these conclusions with Coach Pell, I am relieving him of his responsibilities as head football coach as of 6 p.m. (EDT) tonight," Criser said in the statement.

When he offered his resignation in August, Pell said he wanted to minimize damage to the school and to the football program. At that time, Criser agreed to allow the embattled coach to remain, but he decided Sunday to end Pell's six-year career with the Gators.

"While he and I had both hoped at an earlier time that he would be able to complete the regular season, I have concluded that such cannot be the case," Criser said.

Criser, who took over as school president this month, said he is convinced the athletic department can and will be successful within the rules.

"No one wants to win (a Southeastern Conference) championship, or a national chamampionship, more than I, but if and when that day comes it will be won on and off the field with dignity, integrity and honor."

Despite the problems, Criser praised Pell, who has taken "the Gators to four straight bowl games and a 33-26-3 record in five-plus seasons."

"Let me say that since August 26, Coach Pell has performed valiantly under the most difficult circumstances imaginable. Coach Pell's successor will inherit a strong program and excellent facilities which certainly was not the case when Coach Pell arrived here," Criser said.

Hall, 44, who joined the Gator staff this summer after 18 years at Oklahoma University, takes over a 1-1-1 team which lost to defending national champion Miami and tied Louisiana State. The Gators have the week off before meeting Mississippi State in Gainesville Sept. 29.

"Obviously, this comes as a tremendous shock to me," Hall said Sunday. "What we are concerned about right now is doing what is best for our players. They're the No. 1 priority in every thought."

Woody Peele

After three games, East Carolina has still failed to come up with a victory. In at least two games they were favored to win at the start of the season.

Coach Ed Emory explained it last week as a basic weakness in the offensive line — and a number of injuries that has plagued that group of players. He made some changes last week, and against Central Michigan, a team favored to win the Mid-American Conference this year, the Pirates did appear to be improved.

Their pass protection was much, much better, and they were able to run the option and pitchout more on running plays.

Still, it wasn't quite enough. After taking the lead early against Central, the Pirates were bogged down most of the rest of the first half as the Chippewas rallied to score a field goal, and then a touchdown for a 10-7 halftime margin.

In the second half, the Pirates were able to take command of the game between the 20's at least. They drove down but failed to get anything as a Jeff Heath field goal went wide. A short time later, however, the specialty team came up with a big play as Calvin Adams blocked a Central punt, giving the Pirates outstanding field position. They were able to come up with a field goal from this, tying the score at 10-10.

However, Central came back behind the passing of Bob DeMarco to score the winning touchdown near the midpoint of the final period.

East Carolina again rallied, this time behind the play of Darrell Speed, to have a shot at a chance to win, but lost the ball on downs in the shadow of the goalposts.

But while Emory can take some consolation in the fact that he could definitely see some improvement in the Pirate attack, there still remain problems.

Two players were lost by injury in the game. Defensive tackle Joe Grinage went out with a shoulder separation and may miss several weeks.

More telling, however, could be the blow to quarterback Robbie Bartlett, who suffered a knee injury late in the game. His injury is likely to sideline him for the rest of the season. If so, the Pirates can take consolation in that it was in the third game of the year and he would be given an additional hardship year if he does not play again.

That leaves the Pirates with only Speed and freshman Ron Jones — who did not play at all against the Chippewas.

Central also took some blows, losing quarterback Ron Fillmore just seconds before the end of the first half. He, too, appears gone for the year and that could have a disastrous effect on the title hopes of the Chippewas. DeMarco, who came on to lead the victory in the final quarter, was — back when the teams met two years ago — the starting quarterback. He appears to have regained that spot now.

Perhaps the biggest factor in the upcoming game Saturday against Georgia Southern could be the mental one. East Carolina, 0-3, needs a win. If the Pirates are busy questioning themselves and their program, there is a good possibility that they could end up 0-4 after Saturday.

Georgia Southern, a Division I-AA power, is only in its third year of football after a 40-year absence from the sport. They are 3-0 and have been mowing down teams of lesser prestige than ECU. The Pirates represent the apex of their schedule this year and it would definitely be a feather in their cap should they pull off the upset. There is no question that the Eagles will fly into Ficklen sky-high.

The only question is whether the Pirates will be able to pluck their feathers to soften their own nests.

Winslow Back To Form

By The Associated Press
After a six-day "retirement," Kellen Winslow returned in extraordinary style, while Week Three of the National Football League season found surprising stars coming off the bench and two high-priced running backs still looking for daylight.

Winslow caught 10 passes for 146 yards to help lead the San Diego Chargers to a 31-14 victory over Houston, handing the Oilers an NFL record 19th consecutive road defeat.

"It felt good out there today; one week isn't a long time to be away," said Winslow, who returned to the team last week after renegotiating an extension of his contract that reportedly will pay him $3.5 million through 1988.

The Chargers also found a surprise in Earnest Jackson, who filled in for Chuck Muncie and ran for three touchdowns.

Redskins 30, Giants 14
Seeking their third consecutive Super Bowl berth, the Washington Redskins shook up their lineup after opening the season with two straight losses. It apparently worked.

Steelers 24, Rams 14
Pittsburgh's defense, looking like the "Steel Curtain" of old, shut down Los Angeles' powerful running game and David Woodley passed for two touchdowns to lead the Steeler victory.

Raiders 22, Chiefs 20
A 19-yard field goal by Chris Bahr with one minute left lifted the Los Angeles Raiders over Kansas City in a battle of unbeaten teams.

The Chiefs led 20-19 when Herman Heard scored from the five. But the Raiders, who overcame 132 yards in penalties, went 73 yards in 13 plays, sparked by Malcolm Barnwell's 42-yard reception to the Chiefs' six-yard line, before Bahr kicked his winning three-pointer.

49ers 30, Saints 20
San Francisco intercepted five passes and quarterback Matt Cavanaugh came off the bench to replace the injured Joe Montana to give the undefeated 49ers a come-from-behind victory over New Orleans.

Bucs 21, Lions 17
Reserve quarterback Steve DeBerg came off the bench to pass for 195 yards and two touchdowns, rallying Tampa Bay from a 14-point deficit as the Bucs defeated Detroit.

Cowboys 23, Eagles 17
Flanker Mike Renfro teamed up with wide receiver Doug Donley on his first NFL pass — a 49-yard "flea-flicker" touchdown in the third quarter that gave Dallas the victory.

Jets 43, Bengals 23
Pat Leahy kicked a career-high five field goals and Freeman McNeil scored two touchdowns as the New York Jets stopped Cincinnati with a 30-point second-half blitz.

Bears 9, Packers 7
Three field goals by Bob Thomas and a staunch defense lifted Chicago over Green Bay.

Chicago's Walter Payton rushed for 110 yards on 27 carries, closing to within 337 yards of Jim Brown's NFL career rushing record of 12,312. Payton is 34 yards behind Seattle's Franco Harris.

Cardinals 34, Colts 33
Quarterback Neil Lomax hurled fourth-quarter TD passes of 46 and 56 yards to Roy Green and Neil O'Donoghue kicked a 46-yard field goal with seven seconds remaining to lift St. Louis past Indianapolis.

Patriots 38, Seahawks 23
Tony Eason, replacing an ineffective Steve Grogan at quarterback, threw for two touchdowns and ran for another as New England halted Seattle. Mose Tatupu scored twice for the Patriots, who came back from a 23-0 deficit.

Vikings 27, Falcons 20
Rookie running back Alfred Anderson threw a 43-yard touchdown pass, highlighting a 21-point third quarter, and 41-year-old Jan Stenerud kicked a team-record 54-yard field goal as Minnesota defeated Atlanta.

It was the Vikings' first victory in three games under new Coach Les Steckel.

Broncos 24, Browns 14
John Elway threw touchdown passes to Clint Sampson and Butch Johnson and Rich Karlis kicked a field goal as Denver scored 17 points in the final five minutes of the first half of a night game in Cleveland.

Gant Wins Delaware 500, Gains On Terry Labonte

DOVER, Del. (AP) - Harry Gant is gaining on frontrunner Terry Labonte in the NASCAR Winston Cup points chase after winning the Delaware 500 Grand National Stock Car Race.

Sunday's victory at Dover Downs International Speedway moved Gant into second place in the Winston Cup point chase, 81 points behind Labonte.

Gant, averaged 111.896 mph in his Skoal Bandit Chevrolet, winning under the 10th caution flag of the day at Dover Downs.

Gant was off the pace only once during the race that was run in 4 hours 28 minutes 12 seconds. That came shortly after the midway point, when he took on a bad set of tires.

"I knew something was really wrong 10 laps after that pit stop," Gant said. "I knew it was the tires. I just hoped they wouldn't blow before they had a chance to fix them."

Gant had a half-lap advantage over Labonte before Doug Heveron spun his car in the first turn to bring out the final caution flag with two laps to go. A crowd of 44,000 watched Gant to go on to win the $40,005 purse.

Labonte was the only other driver still on the lead lap as Gant survived this 500-mile test that often seemed like a demolition derby.

Tigers Cruise In East

By The Associated Press

While the Tigers can switch on the cruise control, the race continues in earnest for the Twins, Royals and Angels.

Detroit all but eliminated Toronto with an 8-3 victory Sunday, reducing their magic number to two. Any combination of Tiger victories and Blue Jays defeats adding to two will clinch the East for Detroit.

Meanwhile, Minnesota and Kansas City stayed deadlocked in the West.

Frank Viola and Ron Davis put the brakes on the Texas Rangers as the Twins registered their second straight shutout, 2-0. Steve Balboni and Frank White stroked two-run doubles for the Royals as they beat the Seattle Mariners 4-2.

California remained a half-game back and tied in the loss column by downing the Chicago White Sox 4-2.

On Saturday, Mike Smothern pitched a six-hit, 1-0 victory for Minnesota.

"We have had two super-pitched games back-to-back," Twins Manager Billy Gardner said. "We haven't been hitting the ball but the pitching has been outstanding. Smithson and Viola were outstanding."

Had Viola, 17-12, finished with his shutout, it would have been his fifth, tying him for the league lead in that department, and his 11th complete game, tying him for fourth.

Angels 4, White Sox 2

Bobby Grich, batting .720 against the White Sox this year, lashed a double and a pair of singles and Daryl Sconiers had a homer and two RBI as the Angels took their fourth straight victory.

Grich walked in the eighth inning to reach base for the 11th straight plate appearance, setting a club record.

Tigers 8, Blue Jays 3

Doubles by Lou Whitaker, Kirk Gibson and Chet Lemon keyed a four-run Detroit first inning. It was the second victory in the three-game series for the Tigers, who swept a similar showdown in Toronto last weekend.

Four Detroit pitchers combined on a five-hitter, and Marty Castillo, Larry Herndon and Tom Brookens homered for Detroit.

Red Sox 5, Yankees 3

Jim Rice drove in four runs with his 27th homer, a two-run shot in the first inning, and a two-run triple in the fifth to back the seven-hit pitching of Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd. Boyd, 11-10, struck out seven and walked three in his ninth complete game and sixth victory in eight decisions.

Orioles 11, Brewers 8

Wayne Gross hit his 21st homer, doubled and drove in four runs and the Orioles scored four runs in the sixth inning while unleashing a 15-hit attack.

Storm Davis, 14-7, won and Don Sutton, 13-12, lost.

Indians 8, A's 4

George Vukovich homered in the sixth to tie the game, then Brett Butler tripled and scored on a wild pitch in the seventh as Cleveland completed a three-game weekend sweep.

L.A. Edges Reds, 7-5

By The Associated Press

It may not have been the wildest game the Los Angeles Dodgers have played this year, but shortstop Dave Anderson says it was close.

"We've had some wild ones," Anderson said, "but in this one, we came out in front."

The Dodgers lost the lead twice and finally beat Cincinnati 7-5 in the 10th inning Sunday as Anderson and Steve Sax each drove in runs. Los Angeles has won five in a row.

The Reds tied the score 5-5 in the bottom of the ninth on an error by Ken Landreaux that prompted Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda to lament: "Now, I've seen it all."

With Duane Walker on second, Reds shortstop Tom Foley flied out to Landreaux in right. Landreaux's throw got past the cutoff man and went into shallow left field where third baseman German Rivera and left fielder Candy Maldonado collided. As both Dodgers laid on the turf in a daze, Walker raced home.

"I saw those two guys collide and all I could think was, 'Get up, get up,'" Lasorda said. "I was wondering why they couldn't get up."

Astros 10, Padres 9

Mark Bailey hit a pair of home runs in the Astrodome, and rookie Glenn Davis' sacrifice fly capped a two-run rally in the eighth inning that boosted Houston over first-place combined with Ed Lynch on a five-hitter as the Mets won for the first time this season at Wrigley Field. The Cubs lead the Mets in the NL East by 8 1/2 games.

Expos 8, Phillies 4

Montreal scored five runs in the eighth inning to erase a 4-2 Philadelphia lead. Max Venable drove in two of the runs with a bases-loaded pinch double.

The Phillies had built their lead with the help of a two-run homer by Juan Samuel in the third inning and a solo homer by Von Hayes in the seventh.

Cards 8, Pirates 7

St. Louis trailed four times before rallying with two runs in the bottom of the 10th inning on David Green's bloop single to beat the Pirates. The Cardinals already had tied the score twice - 1-1 and 2-2 - before Pittsburgh took a 6-2 lead with four runs in the seventh inning.

Diana Stirred March Memories

WILMINGTON (AP) — When Hurricane Diana formed off the coast of Florida, she stirred memories of nature's destructive power created in late March as tornadoes ripped through eastern North Carolina.

But many had forgotten or never known the waiting that is unique to hurricanes. They charted Diana's march up the coast for days with the aid of emergency bulletins that interrupted radio and television programs.

For almost a night and a day, the hurricane wobbled within striking distance of New Hanover and Brunswick counties. Diana wavered for days before deciding where to crash on land and irrationally selecting what to destroy.

Many believe that for those reasons, Diana will stand alongside Hurricane Hazel as a yardstick by which future storms are measured. Hazel struck North Carolina and South Carolina on Oct. 15, 1954, causing more than $125 million worth of property damage and killing 22 people in the two states.

"I've seen a lot of things in my lifetime ... but this is the most horrifying," said Wilma Hollar, whose Carolina Beach motel roof blew across the street onto another house.

Three deaths were indirectly related to Diana and damage assessments were estimated Saturday to be $65.5 million and growing. One man died of a heart attack while trying to secure his Wrightsville Beach house, a social services worker died in a traffic accident while heading to work and a Sampson County motorist died in a traffic accident blamed on rain-slick highways.

At the height of the storm, 13,000 people were housed in shelters and 42,000 were without electricity.

Russ Edmonston, spokesman for the N.C. Department of Crime Control and Public Safety, said Saturday that assessing the hurricane damage was different from determining the destruction caused by the tornadoes.

"The damage in the (March) tornadoes was obvious," Edmonston said. "But with this storm, the real damage is not easily visible. We have to go into homes and check for structural damage."

Diana's winds blew up to 135 mph and the hurricane stood at the doorstep of Carolina Beach, 15 miles south of Wilmington, until a stream of high atmospheric pressure pushed it back out to sea early Wednesday morning.

But the near-hit was enough to flood low-lying roads and send more than thousands of residents in coastal counties fleeing to inland hotels and shelters in schools and churches. Firemen on trucks with lights flashing and sirens calling attention used bullhorns to urge residents to flee.

The light of Wednesday morning revealed little damage and officials allowed residents back on Carolina Beach.

"There's not enough even to try to put a money figure on it," said Andy Atkinson, New Hanover County public information officer, before the hurricane returned to strike another blow.

There were 200 to 300 people who were too slow or too stubborn to escape the Barrier Island on Wednesday night when Diana made a definite move toward the coast about 10 p.m.

By that time, the hurricane's winds had dwindled to 110 mph, still dangerous but not as ominous as 135 mph the day earlier. Sheriff's deputies were called off the streets while transformers popped and trees snapped.

It hit land at Fort Fisher about 1:15 a.m. Thursday, delivering perhaps the hardest punches at Long Beach in Brunswick County.

The winds dropped to about 50 mph as the hurricane crept inland to Bladen and Columbus counties before heading back out to sea for good. Meanwhile, National Guardsmen mobilized to protect against looters and restore order while Carolina Power & Light crews worked around the clock to restore power.

Gov. Jim Hunt toured the area to collect information for requests to the federal government for disaster aid.

"We've been lucky thus far," Hunt said. "We've been badly hurt and badly damaged."

But many people returned home to find things in better shape than when they left.

"We were expecting the worst but then to come out and see we're still in business — it's a great feeling," said Ken Lindsey, manager of a motel on north end of Wrightsville Beach.

That beach suffered little more damage than it would during a heavy winter storm, said officials.

"It was mild to some we have had like Hazel," said Patricia Richardson who reopened her convenience store Friday in Wrightsville Beach. "It was the most erratic one I've seen. She didn't know what she wanted to do."

But the opinion of Diana was different at Carolina Beach, where there was considerably more damage. Most said Diana brought less water than Hazel, which hit at the time of highest tides.

"It (Diana) was a bigger, stronger storm and lasted much longer," said Cliff Smith Jr., who owns a small store on the beachfront at Carolina Beach.

Newspaper's Poll Still Gives Edmisten Lead Over Martin

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Democratic Attorney General Rufus Edmisten still leads the race for governor, although Republican Rep. Jim Martin has made up ground, according to a poll by The Charlotte Observer published today.

Edmisten received 51 percent to 39 percent for Martin with 9 percent undecided. A comparable Observer Poll taken in June showed Edmisten led Martin 60 percent to 23 percent with about 14 percent undecided.

The latest Observer poll, which has a margin of error of 3.5 percentage points, was taken Sept.

5-11 by the research marketing division of Knight Publishing Co., publisher of the newspaper. Respondents were asked, "If the election for governor were held today, would you vote for Democrat Rufus Edmisten (or) Republican Jim Martin?" The names of the candidates were read in alternating order.

Dan Hoover, Edmisten's press secretary, disputed Martin's 16-point advance.

"That is so out of whack with everything we have seen elsewhere," Hoover said. "Other polls we've had access to have shown him (Martin) with more like 20. This was commissioned by The Observer and The Observer's been cheerleading for Charlotte candidates all along, first Eddie Knox and now Jim Martin."

Edmisten, campaigning in Linville on Friday, said a 12-point lead was "very fine" but added that it was "too early to tell. Polls simply don't mean much to me at this early stage."

"My greatest challenge will be to get out my vote," Edmisten said. "I don't have to convince one other person to change their vote, just get to the polls what I have."

Jack Hawke, a Martin campaign spokesman, called Martin's advance "terrific."

"We didn't even begin our TV ads until Sept. 5, so your poll caught them before much of our three-week ad campaign," he said.

Martin, who flew to Washington on Friday to film TV ads with President Reagan, said the poll showed "things are working the way we want it to. I'm glad the election wasn't a week ago, but this shows that we have to get known. We started out behind and we knew it. But he's going down and we're going up."

Martin said the ads with Reagan are designed to enhance his chances of riding a Republican wave into the governor's office, since the latest polls show Reagan with a 2-to-1 margin over Democratic presidential nominee Walter Mondale.

"We will be showing that I have a good relationship with the president and that I have been in the House Republican leadership," Martin said. "A lot of those people (Reagan supporters) who are not choosing me don't know who I am."

Edmisten, however, said Martin's attempt to grab Reagan's coattails would be futile.

"The people in this state know there's a difference between running for president and running for governor," he said. "I don't think it will do my opponent any good to wrap himself in that national race."

The poll also showed: — Martin's support among Democrats jumped from 13 percent in June to 22 percent while he received 78 percent of Republican votes. Edmisten got 68 percent of the Democrats, compared with 71 percent in June, and 13 percent of Republicans. Martin led among unaffiliated voters, 68 percent to 20 percent.

— Edmisten led 61 percent to 28 percent in eastern counties and 53 percent to 38 percent in the mountains while Martin led 48 percent to 43 percent in the Piedmont.

— Martin led 48 percent to 44 percent among men surveyed while Edmisten led 59 percent to 29 percent among women.

— Blacks chose Edmisten 78 percent to Martin's 5 percent with about 16 percent undecided.

— Martin was favored 51 percent to 41 percent among white-collar workers while Edmisten led 54 percent to 37 percent among blue-collar workers.

— Those with high school degrees favored Edmisten 57 percent to 33 percent, while college graduates backed Martin 51 percent to 43 percent.

— Edmisten led 65 percent to 24 percent among those earning $20,000 or less, while Martin was ahead 58 percent to 38 percent among those earning $30,000 or more.

Barfield Asks Hunt To Grant Clemency

RALEIGH (AP) — Velma Margie Barfield, the confessed killer of four people, has submitted a petition asking Gov. Jim Hunt to grant her executive clemency and keep her out of the state's death chamber Nov. 2.

Mrs. Barfield's attorney, Jimmy Little, handed the clemency petition Saturday to Jack Cozort, Hunt's legal counsel, said Sister Mary Teresa Floyd of Raleigh.

coordinator of a group that has been working on Mrs. Barfield's behalf.

Hunt is scheduled to meet Tuesday and Wednesday with opponents and supporters of clemency for Mrs. Barfield. He has said he will decide quickly whether to spare Mrs. Barfield the death chamber.

Family members of Mrs. Barfield's victims, meanwhile, say they will present letters opposing clemency at 11 a.m. Monday.

Mrs. Barfield was convicted in 1978 of poisoning her boyfriend, St. Pauls farmer Stuart Taylor. While testifying, she also admitted poisoning her mother and two elderly Robeson County residents who employed her as a nurse and cook.

The Bladen County jury that convicted her also recommended she be put to death.

Cataract Mysteries Studied

RALEIGH (AP) — Preliminary studies have already shown cadmium administered to rabbits accumulates in the eye and lens, but it is too early to tell what the finding means in cataract research, says a North Carolina State University professor.

"Is it possible that the eye would accumulate enough cadmium over the period of a lifetime to cause cataracts? We don't know," said Dr. Peter J. Bentley, professor of pharmacology at the N.C. State School of Veterinary Medicine. "This is kind of a fishing expedition. Everyone collects data and you hope that eventually you'll come up with some answers."

Bentley is studying the effects of mercury, cadmium, lead, aluminum, copper and gold on the eyes of rabbits. The rare metals were chosen because all can be found in small quantities in the human body.

Cadmium accumulates in the kidneys of cigarette smokers and aluminum may build up through the use of cooking utensils, he said. Mercury can enter the food chain through fish in polluted water, while gold salts are in some arthritis treatments, lead is in paint and copper is an essential trace element in many foods.

Cataracts, clouds on the lens of the eye, are believed to result from "some sort of toxic exposure of the eye," Bentley said. Cataracts appearing in childhood are known to be inherited, and some late-appearing cataracts have been linked with diseases, drugs and radiation — even sunlight.

Those factors do not explain old-age cataracts, which the National Eye Institute says hit 80 percent of people over age 65. These cataracts cause 4,500 cases of blindness each year.

The only treatment for cataracts is to surgically remove the lens of the eye, a procedure that costs about $2,500 for each eye and leaves patients permanently dependent on glasses or contact lenses for vision. The institute estimates cataracts cost $1 billion a year, including some 500,000 operations to remove lenses.

A healthy lens holds potassium in and pumps sodium into surrounding fluids, Bentley said.

The change in chemical balance can disrupt the tightly packed cells of the lens.

'Hot Pursuit' May Be Best Of New Fall Threesome

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Three new series, all about co-ed teams of do-gooders, each searching for an elusive somebody or something, prove again that Hollywood's idea of creativity is stretching old ideas into new plastic packages.

NBC's "Hot Pursuit," ABC's "Finder of Lost Loves" and CBS' "Cover Up" all begin Saturday night.

The best of this thin lot is "Hot Pursuit," a bit excessive but a sometimes tense and involving weekly cliff-hanger that puts a twist on David Janssen's old "Fugitive." A wife is framed, then convicted for a murder she didn't commit. After her husband helps her escape, they live on the lam, running from the authorities and the conspirators who want to silence them.

They certainly don't lay low or play it safe. In their effort to find the one woman who can exonerate them, they go from city to city risking their obscurity by sticking their pretty noses into other people's business.

Kerrie Keane stars as Kate Wyler and Eric Pierpoint (son of CBS correspondent Robert Pierpoint) plays her husband, Jim. They're a very caring couple, partial to frolics in the meadow and romantic notions of ceilings that glow with the moon and the stars. Both leads are appealing.

In one of this season's several reversals of male-female sex-role stereotypes, she's the engineer, driving fast test cars to their limit, while he's the softer study, a veterinarian.

Kate is pursued by the head of the car company (Bradford Dillman). Although his advances are rebuffed, the executive's wife becomes jealous and constructs a scheme to kill her philandering husband and implicate Kate. Dina Merrill plays the nasty Estelle to a snarling turn.

Their idyllic existence shattered, Kate and Jim take odd jobs in strange places, running into odder and stranger characters. On Saturday, she's a waitress and he's a bartender in a disco, and they get involved with a dancer who's about to give birth to a child whom her seedy boyfriend plans to sell.

That type of storyline may be too soiled for the more pristine "Finder of Lost Loves," which travels to the glamorous parts of town and boasts the champion good Samaritan-butinsky of all-time.

Having lost his wife early in their marriage, Cary Maxwell (Tony Franciosa) has dedicated himself to playing Cupid, reuniting couples who have drifted apart. He and his assistant (Deborah Adair) are hired by lovers still carrying Olympic-size torches.

One client, a billionaire pining for his high school sweetheart of 30 years ago, was asked by Cary why he came to him rather than a detective agency: "You're more discreet and you care."

Boy, does he care. Franciosa practically glistens while he works. Cary can also dispense lessons about love, such as when the billionaire can't pry the old flame loose from her devoted husband who happens to be blind. "I knew a blind man would open your eyes," Cary tells him.

When ABC's exclusive producer Aaron Spelling had his "Fantasy Island" canceled last season, he didn't miss a beat substituting a similar hearts-and-flowers program for the lovelorn on Saturday night.

"Finder of Lost Loves" does have an earnestness, but it is far too smarmy and superficial for anyone with more than a True Confessions view of life.

"Cover Up" is the most offensive of the three shows. It's a pretentious, trumped-up adventure yarn looking to combine "The A-Team" and "Scarecrow & Mrs. King" — but without the cheeky charm of either.

Mac Harper (Jon-Erik Hexum) and Danielle Reynolds (Jennifer O'Neill) are undercover agents for the government who jet around to exotic locales trying to discover why Dani's spy-husband was murdered.

She hires Mac, a rugged Vietnam veteran, for his knowledge of weapons, not for his sex appeal. So she says.

"Will you take your clothes off please?" she commands in an all-business tone.

"I have a thing about clothes," he responds. "I decide when they come off."

He evidently makes that decision a lot. Posing as a model gives him the opportunity to bare his chest several times a week. But it's not all beefcake.

Academy Honors Technical Achievements In Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "A Streetcar Named Desire," an ABC Theater Presentation, won four Emmy Awards and ABC topped the networks with 11 awards as the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences honored technical achievements in television.

"A Streetcar Named Desire" and its producers swept the awards Sunday in the categories of art direction, film editing, film sound mixing and cinematography as plaudits were handed out at the 36th annual technical Emmy Awards banquet at the Century Plaza Hotel.

"A Streetcar Named Desire," televised March 4, was the only limited series to gain four honors, although four other shows won two technical Emmys, including ABC's highly acclaimed "The Day After," NBC's "The Duck Factory," and two Public Broadcasting System presentations, "A Walk Through The 20th Century With Bill Moyers" and "A Song For Dead Warriors."

Academy President Diana Muldaur presented a special award for Outstanding Achievement in Engineering to Corporate Communications Consultants, which developed a device that improves the quality of broadcast film.

Hosted by John Ritter, star of the "Three's Company" series, the Emmy Awards banquet featured the theme "Past and Present," and the evening's ceremonies proceeded with thematic music from 37 past and present hit shows, from "Leave It To Beaver," "The Patty Duke Show" and "Ben Casey" to "Remington Steele" and "Falcon's Crest."

Among the special guests who presented the awards were Olympic gold medalist skier Bill Johnson and performers Vince Edwards, Cliff Robertson, Gavin McLeod, Barbara Billingsley, Stephanie Zimbalist and Patty Duke Astin.

CBS won nine awards and NBC picked up eight honors.

Sunday's honorees will be acknowledged Sept. 23 when the Academy of Arts & Sciences presents the 36th annual Emmy Awards for on-screen and production performances.

"A Walk Through The 20th Century With Bill Moyers," produced by Merton Y. Yoplin, was named the year's outstanding informational series and Moyers was cited for outstanding individual achievement.

"The Day After," the dramatic portrayal of the aftermath of a nuclear strike, was honored for outstanding special visual effects and for excellence in film-sound editing.

NBC's "The Duck Factory" won in the categories of outstanding art direction and graphic design.

Four syndicated programs, "America Remembers John F. Kennedy," "Fame," "On Stage America" and "Solid Gold" received awards.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Waylon Jennings, Willie Nelson and Hank Williams Jr. will join a host of country music stars in a television special commemorating a woman who housed and fed aspiring musicians.

The special, to be taped Oct. 10-11 at the Grand Ole Opry House and to air in 1985, will honor Sue Brewer, who helped musicians, including Jennings and Kris Kristofferson, before she died of cancer in 1981.

Proceeds from the concert, titled "The Door is Always Open," will establish a fund to help new songwriters.

Football originated in a 5,000-year-old Egyptian fertility ceremony. But it wasn't until this day in 1920, that the first professional football association was formed. Only 15 years earlier, football's very existence had been in doubt. In 1905, 18 players were killed during football games. Responding to a public outcry, President Roosevelt brought representatives from Harvard, Yale, and Princeton to the White House in order to make the game safe for America.

Experts Urge U.S., Japanese To Work Jointly On Weapons

By BARTON REPPERT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Warning of a dangerous buildup of Soviet forces in Northeast Asia and of Japanese defenses that "fall short," a panel of prominent Japanese and American advisers today urged their governments to start developing high-tech weapons together.

The U.S.-Japan Advisory Commission, ending a 16-month study ordered by the leaders of both countries, cited Soviet missile strength that is expected to increase dramatically matched against "inadequate" Japanese defenses, in its recommendations to President Reagan and Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone.

The group also urged Japan to devise a more positive, long-term strategy for easing U.S.-Japanese economic tensions.

"An unacceptable level of friction is eroding good will and mutual trust between the two countries," the commission said in a 109-page report being presented to Reagan and Cabinet officials at the White House.

The 15-member commission, formed after a 1983 Reagan-Nakasone summit meeting in Washington, was headed by David Packard, chairman of Hewlett-Packard Inc., a leading computer firm, and Nobuhiko Ushiba, former Japanese state minister for external economic affairs.

Their report said that "in an era when technology can make decisive contributions to the development of new defense systems, Japan and the United States — as the world's two technological leaders — should vigorously pursue research and development collaboration."

"It makes sense to combine such Japanese strengths as state-of-the-art electronics, telecommunications, and maintenance and production techniques with such American skills as systems engineering and (computer) software," the report said.

It said, "Soviet air, naval and ground forces in East Asia have been modernized; 135 late-model SS-20 intermediate-range missiles (expected to increase dramatically by 1990) have been deployed; and over 70 Backfire bombers and a new generation of fighters are stationed in the Asian theater."

The Soviet Pacific fleet, it said, has become the largest unit in the Soviet navy, totalling more than 800 ships — including 89 major surface combatants and at least 125 submarines, about 30 of them armed with ballistic missiles.

In the face of this potential threat, "Japanese capabilities fall short of the missions it has undertaken" in protecting Japan's territory and airspace as well as defense of Western Pacific sea lanes.

"Major deficiencies of the Japanese Self-Defense Forces encompass such areas as command and control, communications, integrated air defense, groundwork for triservice operations, obsolete equipment and logistical reserves," it said.

On the other hand, the report said "the extent of present Japanese defense efforts and support for U.S. forces in Japan is insufficiently appreciated by Americans." Japanese support for U.S. facilities in Japan, it said, now totals more than $1 billion a year.

On economic issues, the advisory commission found that although Japan has made unilateral trade concessions in recent years, the difficulties that American firms still find in marketing goods in Japan, "call into question Japan's commitment to free or fair trade."

"Japan needs to develop stronger mechanisms to ensure that once (trade) commitments are given, they are implemented fully and on schedule."

The report added that in the past, Japan has paid periodic attention to accumulated problems, "a reactive approach, which has become increasingly less effective."

Dollar Hits New High; Gold Down

LONDON (AP) — The dollar took off on another record-breaking march today, hitting new all-time highs against the British pound, French franc and Italian lire, and rising against all other major currencies. Gold prices eased.

Shrugging off Friday's expectations of lower U.S. interest rates, the dollar also notched up a seven-year high against the Swiss franc and a 13-year high against the Dutch guilder.

Dealers noted the U.S. currency was unaffected by Friday's announcement of an unexpectedly large $2.1 billion drop in the basic U.S. money supply. That had aroused some expectations of lower U.S. rates, which reduce yields on dollar-denominated investments.

In London, the battered pound plunged to a new all-time trading low of $1.2527, cheaper than Friday's record closing low of $1.2655 and a trading low of $1.2640 earlier Friday.

Since falling below $1.30 on Sept. 4, the pound has tumbled with only intermittent and short-lived recoveries.

The dollar hit a record 9.3845 French francs, beating Friday's previous record closing high of 9.3000.

The U.S. currency was at a record 1,877.60 Italian lira, up from 1,859.00 late Friday — the previous record.

Early dollar rates against other key currencies compared with late rates Friday:

—3.0627 West German marks, up from 3.0260.

—2.5210 Swiss francs, a seven-year high and up from 2.5030.

—3.4452 Dutch guilders, a 13-year high and up from 3.4120.

—1.3141 Canadian dollars, up from 1.3140.

In Tokyo, where trading ends before it begins in Europe, the dollar rose to close at 246.33 Japanese yen, compared with Friday's late rate of 245.30. The dollar was quoted later in Europe at 246.60.

Gold opened in London at $339.60 bid a troy ounce, down from $341.25 bid late Friday, and fell further in later trading. London's five major bullion houses set the midmorning "fixing" at $338.

In Zurich, bullion was also hit by the attraction to investors of the strong dollar. It opened at $338.10 bid, down from Friday's late $341.50, and was later quoted around a dollar lower.

Silver traded in London at $7.150 bid an ounce, down from $7.255 late Friday.

Earlier in Hong Kong, gold dropped $1.93 an ounce to close at $340.05 bid, compared with Saturday's $341.98.

Reagan Challenges Tenet Of Voluntary Tax Compliance

An AP News Analysis
By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, departing from his prepared text at a recent political rally, appeared to challenge a fundamental tenet of the U.S. income tax system: the requirement that people calculate their own taxes and pay what they say is due.

The voluntary nature of the income tax assessment system has been its hallmark, celebrated by Internal Revenue Service commissioners for years as an ongoing miracle, a credit to American citizenship.

Indeed, the force behind the present drive by both Democrats and Republicans to simplify the tax code is the concern that growing numbers of people are losing confidence in the fairness of the present system and may stop assessing themselves honestly.

Yet Reagan, at a hotel rally in Dallas last month, told his supporters: "The government has the nerve to tell the people of this country, 'You figure out how much you owe us — and we can't help you because our people don't understand it either — and if you make a mistake, we'll make you pay a penalty for making the mistake."

"We think we ought to be able to send you a bill and tell you what you owe, not the other way around," the president said.

The little-noticed remark was quickly eclipsed by the fast-moving events surrounding Reagan's nomination the next day at the Republican National Convention and his controversial remarks about the relationship between politics and religion.

But the prospect of the federal government sending people a tax bill for their annual income tax strikes some experts as far-fetched and others as an absurdly expensive proposition, impossible to administer.

"It's an idea the government has talked about for years," presidential press secretary Larry Speakes remarked when asked about Reagan's suggestion.

But James Wetzler, the chief economist of Congress' bipartisan Joint Committee on Taxation, said he had never heard such a proposal for the United States.

"There's no mechanism to collect the tax" if people fail to figure their own bills and mail in what they owe, Wetzler said.

And Tom Field, a Washington tax analyst and publisher of the newsletter Tax Notes, said: "Just in personnel it would be enormously costly. It's an absurd proposal. The cost to implement it would be on the magnitude of the Pentagon budget."

Field acknowledged that the system of property tax assessment using local assessors is quite common but said that involves the relatively simple task of examining public records and perhaps visiting the neighborhood to have a look at the property.

"Imagine what it would mean if an income tax assessor came to your door and asked for every check you had written during the year, who takes care of your kids, how much you spend your money, how much you give away and to whom, the most intimate details of your life," Field said. "I question whether the president has thought through the proposal he's making. If he really thought about it, he would recoil at the suggestion."

Neither Speakes nor Marlin Fitzwater, the White House spokesman who deals primarily with economic and financial issues, would explain what Reagan meant by his remark. Officials speaking on condition they would not be named said they knew of no effort within the administration to flesh out the idea.

As for his contention that the government won't help people figure out how much they owe, the Internal Revenue Service operates an extensive program to answer taxpayers' questions about their taxes and to help particular groups, including the elderly, who may be unable to complete their own returns.

Spending for IRS taxpayer services has been cut 27 percent since Reagan took office. He had sought to reduce its budget by as much as 40 percent, but Congress refused to give him all the cuts he requested.

Nine Dead After Crash In Southwestern Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A sightseeing plane crashed seconds after takeoff in the southwestern Polish city of Opole, killing nine people and injuring 17, a local official said today.

The plane, a single-engine AN-2, crashed Sunday after rising about 60 feet shortly after taking off from an air sports club airfield on a sightseeing flight over the city, the official Polish news agency PAP said.

The cause of the crash was undetermined, official reports said, but Warsaw radio said today that the plane may have been overloaded. Tadeusz Szramuk, a local district official, said there were 26 people on board. The radio said one wing of the plane dipped sharply before the crash.

An official at the airfield in Opole, reached by telephone, said the AN-2 normally seats a maximum of 14 people.

An official at the office of the president of the Polish Aero Club said in a telephone interview that a team of investigators had been dispatched to Opole to look into the cause of the crash.

PAP said five people were killed in the crash and that a sixth person died after being taken to a local hospital. Warsaw Radio reported later that a seventh person had died from his injuries.

Ten of the injured were reported in serious condition, PAP said.

Opole is located about 170 miles southwest of Warsaw.

The AN-2 is a large, single-engined biplane, according to Jane's All the World's Aircraft. It is no longer made in the Soviet Union but several versions of the AN-2 are still made under license in Poland, according to the reference book.

Remarks Disliked

ROME (AP) — Premier Bettino Craxi has moved to smooth over a diplomatic row caused by his foreign minister's remarks about separate Germanies, telling West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl that the friendship between the two nations was solid.

On Saturday, a spokesman for Kohl in Bonn said the chancellor was "extraordinarily displeased" by Foreign Minister Giulio Andreotti's remarks last week that "there are two German states and there must remain two German states."

In Bonn on Sunday, West Germany's foreign minister, Hans-Dietrich Genscher called Andreotti's remarks a "serious insult."

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, SEPT., 18, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when it would be wise for you to be alert for problems that require care and thought in solving where some nervous tension and strain are concerned.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be sure to keep any promises made, and be careful in motion in the morning. The evening can present a problem at home.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A monetary affair may seem hard for you to handle in the morning, but it is not the case. Use care in driving.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You may be irritated in the morning, but try to maintain your equilibrium. Don't take any chances with finances later.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) A private anxiety could keep you from progressing as you had planned, if you permit.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Don't be forceful with others in trying to gain a goal that means much to you; then handle duties well and be efficient.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make sure you handle outside duties exactly and then do likewise in going after personal desires.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't go off on any tangents and be sure you handle practical affairs very wisely now. Listen to what a new contact has to say.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be conscientious in handling some obligation and don't argue over it. Someone gives you an idea that is puzzling to you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A rather silly pal could irritate you today, if you permit, and tonight your mate may be moody.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Although your labors may seem boring in the morning, get them done just the same.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A day to settle small issues at work, so do so. Forget social pleasure for the day and evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If something does not suit you at home, be silent and take care later you do not over-spend for anything.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be quite nervous and irritated and should get a good deal of rest in early childhood if the life is to become successful. A practical kind of education is best here, and the field of selling is ideal for your progeny. Be certain diet is right.
