Peace Moves Growing In Middle East

By ROBERT H. REID
Associated Press Writer

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Jordan's decision to restore diplomatic relations with Egypt is part of a complicated series of maneuvers apparently aimed at launching talks to settle the decades-old Arab-Israeli conflict, diplomats say.

Renewal of high-level contacts between Egypt and Israel and signals that Israel is prepared to withdraw its troops from Lebanon preceded Jordan's move, which was announced Tuesday.

There also have been several meetings this week involving senior statesmen from key Middle East nations, the United States and the Soviet Union.

Cairo-based diplomats, who spoke on condition they not be identified by name or nationality, said the restoration of Egyptian-Jordanian relations, severed after Cairo's 1979 peace treaty with Israel, will enhance Egypt's prospects for establishing a so-called moderate Arab axis including Yasser Arafat's wing of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Together, the Egyptians, Jordanians and moderate Palestinians could then represent the Arabs in talks with Israel on the future of the 1.4 million Palestinians on the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza strip, the sources said.

Arafat was in Jordan today for talks with King Hussein and other Jordanian officials. Also in Jordan for consultations was U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Richard Murphy, who has visited Lebanon, Syria, Israel and Egypt in the past five days.

Israel's new prime minister, Shimon Peres, has offered to enter talks with Hussein. Diplomats said Hussein's position in such talks would be strengthened by the participation of Egypt, the largest Arab country and the only one to have made peace with Israel.

Peres, in a series of newspaper interviews published in Israel today, said he has had "indirect hints" from Arab leaders signaling a willingness to talk peace with Israel. He also said the new government would make a decision in the next few weeks about its plans to withdraw from Lebanon, suggesting it might reach "local agreements" with Syria for security guarantees permitting an Israeli pullout.

Syria in April 1983 torpedoed efforts by Hussein and Arafat to form a Jordanian-PLO negotiating team on Middle East peace. Syria strongly advocates continuing Egypt's diplomatic isolation in the Arab world.

On Tuesday, an official source in Syria said renewal of Jordanian-Egyptian relations would "create a new situation on the Arab scene that will make it more complicated and dangerous."

Following Hussein's announcement, Egyptian and Jordanian officials alluded to the prospect of joint peace efforts. Jordan's acting foreign minister, Taher Hekmat, said restoration of relations will "help consolidate the joint Arab action at this stage."

Egypt's minister of state for foreign affairs, Butros Ghali, said the restored relations "will achieve the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people."

Hortense Out, New Storm In

MIAMI (AP) — Hortense, the second hurricane in the Atlantic this season, weakened overnight and was downgraded today to a tropical storm, while a depression picked up strength, was upgraded and named Isidore, forecasters said.

Tropical storm Hortense, a hurricane for less than 24 hours, blew maximum sustained winds of 65 mph, said the National Hurricane Center in a 6 a.m. statement. Hortense's center was near latitude 31.0 north and longitude 61.1 west, or about 230 miles east southeast of Bermuda, the weather service said.

"The storm is moving toward the north at 6 mph and should continue this direction during the next 12 to 24 hours," the statement said.

Gale force winds extended 125 miles to the north of the center and 100 miles to the south, the weather service said, adding that little change in strength was expected today.

Meanwhile, Isidore, the hurricane season's ninth tropical storm, was born overnight and its center was near latitude 24.7 north and longitude 76.2 west, or about 75 miles east southeast of Nassau, the weather service said in another 6 a.m. statement.

Isidore's highest sustained winds were near 45 mph with gusts up to 55 mph in squalls, the weather service said.

Jordan Facing Arab Pressure Over Decision

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Jordan's decision to break ranks with 16 other Arab nations and restore diplomatic ties with Egypt after a 5 1/2-year gap was denounced today by Syria and Libya, which threatened to "punish" Jordan with an Arab boycott.

Jordan was one of 17 Arab countries that severed relations with Egypt shortly after the late President Anwar Sadat and former Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin signed a peace treaty March 26, 1979.

None of the other Arab countries have restored formal ties with Egypt, and one of them — Syria — denounced Jordan's action Tuesday as "dangerous."

Today, Syria's government-controlled daily Al-Thawra said in a front-page editorial that Syria "will not tolerate Jordan becoming the center of espionage and aggression against Syria. We will confront this new situation."

"Deterrent measures must be adopted against Jordan, including the application of Arab boycott measures..." Al-Thawra said.

The official Libyan news agency, JANA also called for a boycott and called the Jordanian decision "a treacherous stab in the back to the Arab world" and "reflects a shameful Jordanian desire to end the isolation of the Egyptian regime and to give the Zionist enemy (Israel) a pretext to liquidate the Palestinian cause."

The Persian Gulf sultanate of Oman, one of the few Arab nations to maintain ties with Egypt, expressed "pleasure and satisfaction" at Jordan's action. In Jerusalem, a senior official in Prime Minister Shimon Peres' office said his own first reaction was "one of delight" and expressed the hope that other Arab moderates would follow Jordan's lead.

An Israeli Foreign Ministry statement said, "We would like to see this as a positive development in our region which will give a boost to the idea of Camp David and the peace process."

But Israel has no evidence that the resumption of relations meant Jordan was moving closer to opening peace talks, said a ministry spokesman who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Jordan's Foreign Ministry said the decision to resume relations with Egypt was made at a Cabinet meeting and was based on Egypt's "current role, and the support it gives to the Palestinian, Iraqi and Lebanese causes."

The decision was seen as a diplomatic triumph for Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, who had insisted he would not give up the peace with Israel as the price for a return to Arab diplomatic ranks.

By restoring relations with Egypt, they said, Hussein could count on the support.

ABC Tours Local Facilities

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County school Superintendent Eddie West told members of the Advisory Budget Commission this morning that, "if you could eliminate the restrictions" on state school funds, "I am confident we could provide a better program."

Members of the commission — which draws up the budget to be presented to the General Assembly — were in Greenville as part of their tour of state-funded facilities and programs in eastern North Carolina.

Commission members toured the East Carolina University campus and attended a reception and dinner at ECU Chancellor John Howell's home Tuesday.

This morning, they met with West for a briefing on the county schools' participation in a school finance project approved by the General Assembly two years ago.

West, who said Pitt is one of eight pilot districts in the state, reminded the ABC members that the purpose of the project is to "define the state's basic (education) program and cost it out."

The basic school program, West said, is one that will insure that "every child, regardless of where he lives," has the same opportunities, by providing instructional and staffing equality across schools, regardless of size.

The first step in establishing a basic program, according to West, was a survey of the "range of time" spent on various subjects at each grade level. From that, he said, "we came up with proposed minimum time allocations," that will provide "a basic program that will have a minimum amount of time" for each subject area.

"We used this to project staffing formulas," as well as course content for "a uniform curriculum in every subject area" in grades K-12.

As a result, West said "students, both in terms of time and content, (will) have access to the same education," no matter where they live.

From the staffing formulas, West said school officials "can project the amount of staffing you will need. If every child is entitled to this (basic program) we can project the number of teachers that are needed."

West reminded the commission members that "the way budgets come down now" to local school districts is on a line item basis. But districts participating in the study this year have been given "a lump sum of money" for the most part and used it "based on what a basic instructional program should be."

Although "it is a slow, evolutionary process," West said, a basic program could be "phased in ... in four or five years."

West emphasized, "the key thing is defining what it takes for a child to have a basic education," and said the study has shown "the basic program is more than one teacher per classroom."

Although the project is continuing, West said the study has shown that it takes 1.12 teachers per classroom to provide the defined basic program in grades K-5, and possibly more at the high school level.

Saying that "part of a basic program is a sound facility" West suggested that consideration should be given to the establishment of a reserve fund for school construction at the state level, which would match local money used to build new school buildings.

West also predicted that "four to five years from now we will have a teacher shortage. A teacher shortage ... will be your next big problem."

Sen. Kenneth Royal, chairman of the budget group said following the presentation that the results of the project in Pitt County have been "outstanding," adding "that's the type of thing you need to hear" in order to make budget decisions.

"That's a real problem we have ... to give every child an equal education."

A HOTLINE TRIBUTE

John D. Riggs has asked Hotline to pay tribute to Patricia Hudson, a woman he credits with saving his life. Riggs was involved in a wreck on N.C. 11 between Winterville and Ayden Friday and suffered a gash to the jaw. A licensed practical nurse employed by the Pitt County Health Department, Ms. Hudson was the first person on the scene to assist him. He said she applied a compress to stem the bleeding and kept talking to him, stopping him from "drifting off." He said he is also appreciative of the highway construction workers present who showed concern and kept him engaged in conversation and conscious till rescue workers arrived.

Greenville Ties Asheville For Least Expensive Living

Greenville and Asheville were rated as the least expensive North Carolina cities to live in during the second quarter of this year, according to a report recently published by the American Chamber of Commerce Researchers Association.

On an overall index of goods and services, Greenville was the second lowest of 11 North Carolina cities with a cost of living index of 93.4, Asheville was rated first at 93.3.

The survey measured relative price levels for consumer goods and services in 226 cities across the United States. Six components — housing, grocery items, utilities, transportation, health care and miscellaneous items — were weighed on a scale of 100 to reflect the latest government survey data.

Information pertaining to Greenville used in the survey was provided to the ACCRA through the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce by Research Director Barbara Woods, who said her statistics were based on a series of "shopping sprees" to locate items that families use on a regular basis.

Among the items she priced were meats, dairy products, produce, and housing and apartment costs. "The list goes on," she said, "to include health costs, car prices, and clothing — men's shirts, jeans, underwear.

You name it and we priced it, just about anything anybody could want, we checked," she said.

Mrs. Woods' findings and those of the ACCRA, showed that grocery items were Greenville's highest priced commodity; however, that rating of 100.9 was still lower than the majority of cities in the United States. Utilities were also low, rated at 83.5, and were on par with Asheville's rating. But Greenville's lowest rating was in housing. That rating, Mrs. Woods said, was lower than Asheville received and was the lowest in the state.

"I think that that comparison between Greenville and the 226 cities across the United States that were in the report says out loud that we have done a good job of keeping prices down," PGCC President Ed Walker commented. He added that the expected growth of Greenville should not interfere with the favorable living conditions pointed out by the study. "We have a very competitive market that yields good, comparable prices and I don't think that that's going to change in the future," he said.

The most expensive North Carolina cities were Raleigh and Chapel Hill. Raleigh was the highest with a cost-of-living index of 101.6. Chapel Hill was second at 110.9 and was followed by Greensboro at 100.

In Reader's Name Game, Jack Has To Be Jack-Of-All-Trades

DEAR ABBY: Poor Chuck wrote to bemoan the abuse of his name—chuck-a-luck, woodchuck, upchuck, etc.

How would he like to be a "Jack"? We have mountains, rivers, valleys, trees, fish, and even a cheese named after us. What does a person use to elevate a deflated tire? A jack. There's also the jackknife, the jack-rabbit and the jackass. And how about the pumpkin with the grinning face carved in it? (It's not a "chuck-o'-lantern.")

What do they call stealing an airplane? Hijacking, of course. They even put jacks in the box. And after all that, we're expected to be nimble and quick enough to jump over a candlestick.

Then we end up with broken crowns at the bottom of a hill with a Jill who comes tumbling after.

JACK SHEEHAN, MINDEN, NEV.

DEAR JACK: Let us not forget the most important Jack—since you live in Nevada, have you never hit a jackpot?

DEAR ABBY: I was astonished to read in USA Today that the Dear Abby column is censored in a small daily newspaper in Atlantic, Iowa. I quote from USA Today's Aug. 29 article:

"Frankly, we cut out whole sections of Dear Abby once in a while because it's a little too rough. Her advice to unwed mothers... outside-the-home sexual relations and all that," says F.H. Simpson, president and publisher of the Atlantic News-Telegraph in Atlantic, Iowa.

"Atlantic (pop. 7,800) has a lot of churches," Simpson says. "We cut out 'damn.' I guess we leave 'hell' in."

Dear Abby, whatever happened to the freedom of the press Americans were promised in the First Amendment?

And how do you feel about being censored?

ASTONISHED IN IOWA

DEAR ASTONISHED: Freedom of the press is still alive and well in America. However, all newspaper editors reserve the right to omit from their newspapers material that they consider unfit for their readers.

How do I feel about it? If a reader's letter and my reply are omitted, I have no objection. But if a reader's letter and/or my reply is altered, I protest vehemently.

DEAR ABBY: I just had to write in response to "Half Pint," who is convinced that all her problems stem from her short stature.

My problem was the opposite. I've been 5 foot 10 since I was 15. Many adults told me I should be a model because I was very pretty and had long legs. But did I have dates? Not until I was 20.

Like "Half Pint," I blamed my lack of popularity on my height, until one day my eyes were opened. I had a friend in high school who never lacked for a date or a party to attend. People flocked around her like flies to honey. She was 5 foot 2, overweight and rather homely. Why was she popular? And why wasn't I? Then came the revelation: She always had a smile on her face. I rarely did. (People used to ask me who I was mad at.) She reached out to others and made them feel important. I expected others to make the first move. She laughed at herself. I never laughed—I was too busy picking up the "chip" that was knocked off my shoulder.

Needless to say, I needed an attitude change, not a physical one. After I changed my attitude I had a flood of friends and a bevy of beaux.

Incidentally, I'm happily married now to a man who's 5 foot 10. He was chosen for his height in character—not physique.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I prefer big women. I can't tell you why, but I've always found big women very appealing. I am 22, outgoing and athletic. I'm 5 feet 9 inches tall, with curly black hair and blue eyes, and women consider me attractive.

I've been secretly dating big, beautiful women for about three years now. I always take them to out-of-the-way places because I'm afraid if my friends saw me with them, they'd probably think I was "sick" or some kind of weirdo.

Are there others like me? Or do you think I'm sick?

V. IN WEST NYACK, N.Y.

DEAR V.: I wouldn't call you "sick"; immature would be a more appropriate description.

Mature people realize that tastes vary, and they are not in the least concerned about what their friends think. And yes, many men prefer voluptuous women and are proud to be seen with them.

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure this letter won't be printed, but so what? At least I will have let off some steam. It concerns the letter about the truck driver who wants to get married. The stupid, selfish idiot! There isn't a man worth his salt who would marry a woman and then go trucking.

My husband and I are a truck-driving team, and we did not become that until we were in our 50s. We've been married for many years, and this is a present to ourselves. We've always wanted to drive an 18-wheeler. Truck driving is no job for a man who can't take his wife along.

As for "Lady Trucker from Michigan," who suggests a man trucker should team up with a woman trucker to keep from getting too lonesome—she doesn't give a tinker's damn if she walks on the heart of a trucker's wife. Tramps like her are a dime a dozen. I hope she gets kicked in the head by some of her joy-boy drivers. Maybe that will knock some sense into her. Sign this...

Overdue

Changes in the Social Security disability benefits law are long overdue. Guidelines for eligibility in the original law have proven so generalized that in many instances an individual who might qualify under one panel's reasoning, would not qualify under the scrutiny of others.

The situation invited differences of opinion and perhaps even laxity, resulting in just indignation over what appeared to be "cheating" by some, and "unfairness" toward other applicants. Small wonder the system was a favorite target of criticism.

Some months ago critics who saw the swelling rolls of recipients and depletion of available funds focused on the disability law and ordered wholesale cutoffs of benefits. Tragically, many who heavily depended on benefits they were receiving for their very real disabilities were affected. To them it was a disaster of the first magnitude.

When the shock of realizing the impact of their drastic action soaked in, the involved agency began remedial steps. The Health and Human Services Department ordered case-by-case reviews, but the process was so slow and handicapped by old uncertainties the process was suspended.

The proposed changes in the law include setting actual guidelines by which cases are to be judged.

Inasmuch as hundreds of thousands of cases are involved, the re-evaluation will take time. On the whole, though, better judgments as to entitlement will result.

We can visualize (from available reports) no problem in adoption of the changes by both houses of Congress.

Surprise

Parents and educators shared a pleasant surprise last week.

Average mathematics results on the Scholastic Aptitude Test showed their best gains in at least two decades in 1983-84.

For the record, SAT scores have changed only slightly during the last five years, following 20 years of nearly uninterrupted declines. The gain in math scores is the first significant move upward in recent years.

The three-point gain last year remains a far cry from the average in 1963 when scores began their downward trend.

Statistics do not tell us everything. For instance, they do not explain the how and why of the turnabout. If that were known, there would be a good handle on what was responsible for the unexpected improvement. Educators could then apply a directed emphasis on those factors with accompanying favorable results.

As it is, they must continue their efforts pretty much in the dark;

And hope,
And hope.

Political Projections

RALEIGH — The day before the 1982 congressional elections, Dave Flaherty, state GOP chairman, predicted, "It will either be six to five for us or nine and two for the Democrats. It all depends on how things go nationally."

Flaherty was right. The voters chose nine Democrats and two Republicans to fill the state's 11 congressional seats and Flaherty blamed the loss of two GOP seats on the national swing — 1982 was a Democratic year.

Now it looks like 1984 will be a Republican year, and North Carolina politicians are asking, "How far can Ronald Reagan's coattails extend?" In 1984, is it possible that Reagan will sweep down and carry new Republican congressmen into office with him?

"Either the trend is with you or against you," Flaherty said this month. "In my opinion, this is our year, just like 1972 but even stronger."

Randolph Cloud, Democrat

director of grassroots organizing, disagrees saying the congressional races stand pretty much apart from other races and that 1984 will be good to his party. "I'll bet the mortgage. The Democrats will keep all the ones we've got and we're going to win the ninth," he says.

Talk to the pols privately and they'll admit that four of the 11 congressional races will be pretty unexciting. Democratic incumbents appear safe in the first, second and third districts. Republican Rep. Jim Broyhill appears unbeatable in the tenth.

But things start to get exciting after that. In the fifth, seventh and eighth districts, Republican challengers pose an outside threat to Democratic incumbents. In the fourth, sixth, ninth and eleventh districts, the races are considered genuinely close.

Cloud says the most hotly contested race will be in the sixth district around Greensboro where first term Rep. Robin Britt is trying to hold off Republican challenger Howard Coble, a veteran state legislator and former N.C. secretary of revenue.

Another freshman Democrat, Jamie Clarke in the 11th district, also faces a tough challenge. Bill Hendon, whom Clarke defeated for the seat in 1982, is back seeking revenge.

"It's easiest to beat a concasions it delivers its package to somebody who doesn't even like children.

The stupid stork never thinks that an unwanted baby can grow up to an unwanted adult, lacking in love and mad at the whole damn world. The bird doesn't hesitate to leave one at a door where there is no father, and the mother is forced to raise it all alone.

Years ago women got angry at the stork making so many mistakes. They demanded "stork control" and protection from unwelcome bundles on their steps. Bowing to pressure, American industry developed an entire array of anti-stork devices to scare the bird away. While not completely stork-proof, the devices did cut down on the number of indiscriminate deliveries the stork had been making.

Since the anti-stork mechanism did no harm to the bird, they were sold in drugstores and were even made available free to those who couldn't afford them.

You would think that everyone would be happy to have devices on the market that could keep a stork from depositing an unwelcome baby on a doorstep.

But this doesn't seem to be the case. There are well meaning people in the country who fervently believe that storks should be permitted to deliver babies anywhere they please, no matter how much havoc it will cause in the future.

They are angry with anyone interfering in the stork delivery program. While no one challenges their belief that storks should be permitted to drop babies willy-nilly all over the place, many people are disturbed that they want to impose their views on others who feel differently about the matter.

The pro-storkers accuse people who don't want babies of being stork killers, and they demand all anti-stork remedies be taken off the market.

They want to close down any private or government agency that advises women on how to keep the stork away from their door. They refuse to accept the fact that while their teachings have made the stork infallible, other people in the world may have some reservations about the bird swooping down unannounced on a stoop or tenement apartment.

The stork issue has become the most emotional one in the American political campaign. The pro-stork and anti-stork factions are splitting the country. Those politicians who advocate "stork control" have been put on hit lists and attacked from the pulpit.

At the moment, the law of the land is that if you want to keep a stork from dropping a baby on you, you can legally do so. But the pro-storkers are working feverishly to change this, so you have to take delivery whether you want to or not.

The majority of women in the country insist they should decide for themselves whether they want a bundle of joy from the big bird or not.

The majority of men couldn't care less because when they're out to have a good time the last thing they think about is a stork.

Reader Questions Drainage Assessment

To the editor:

Big Brother is getting too close for comfort. Less than a year ago, I bought bullets for a .22 rifle with no questions asked. I bought bullets the other night and I had to give my life's history. Next, Big Brother will make me a criminal for owning my rifle.

The Constitution says that the citizens have a right to keep and bear arms and when power-hungry bureaucrats start infringing on that right, I say it's time for concerned citizens to wake up and start letting our representatives know we're sick and tired of having our rights trampled on! If guns are outlawed, people will still be murdered, but it will be a lot easier to squash a revolution, and fear of revolution is behind the push for more control.

Aubrey L. Harrison

To the editor:

As a taxpayer and an assessment payer in Switt Creek drainage project, I feel that these figures should be brought to the attention of other taxpayers.

On Aug. 24, 1984, I went into Mr. Frank Wooten's office to pay off the flat sum that all farmers in the district were assessed; this was money used to really open up Switt Creek. If it were not paid, bonds were sold and the farmer paid the yearly assessment plus interest each year.

Mr. Wooten's office did the billing each year. This year (1984) it was turned over to the Pitt County Tax Office to bill, along with taxes, and collect. On the 24th of August, my 1984 assessment came to $981.94. It was paid along with the 1981 (which I had reserved No bill, plus $167.22 interest). These had to be paid before Wooten's office would take the original flat assessment.

My tax notice came after the taxes were raised 20 percent. The drainage assessment totaled $1,664.62, thus adding $672.63 to drainage. Do you farmers realize how much money is going into the pot at the foot of the rainbow?

The March 28th tornado did $29,555 worth of damage. The federal government picked up 80 percent of the tab, $18,794 was used to mow the banks of canals. This should come out of yearly assessment. Why add $672.63 to mine and your yearly assessment proportionately?

One farmer has a tax of $608.64 and $516.41 drainage assessment. Something is wrong — very wrong.

Anne G. Lee

To the editor:

How does Rufus Edmisten react to a proposal to eliminate the state sales tax on food and medicine for people over 65?

Here's what he says: "You'd have nice little grandmothers all over the state going and buying groceries for everybody. I can't imagine any way in the world that you could administer something like that." I have a nice little grandmother and she would never think of doing anything criminal. It dismays me to think that anyone with such low regard for our citizens would want to be governor of North Carolina.

Congressman Jim Martin's plan for eliminating the state sales and food tax for persons over 65 makes sense. It would offer an added measure of security for "nice little grandmothers" and grandfathers in their retirement years.

Jim Martin cares about people. Obviously Rufus Edmisten cares about the inconvenience a needed tax reform would cause his fellow bureaucrats.

Strength For Today

Do you hate to make decisions? If you do, you are standing alongside about 99 percent of your contemporaries. So often we feel that if we could just have those decisions made for us by a higher power, we would be happy.

Yet this, of course, is not true. We may not like the necessity which compels us to make decisions, but we grow by making them. None of the experiences of life which involve doubt, waiting and patience are ever very pleasant while we are going through them. Yet if we could look at our souls at the end of a lifetime of decision-making, we would see that they have grown in a gratifying manner. We would behold strength where weakness once existed. We would wonder even at the prevalence of peace in our hearts.

Then we would speak of the struggle as having been hard yet worth all that it cost in patience, energy and sacrifice.

Four Shot In Domestic Fight

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — A man sprayed a house with gunfire in a domestic dispute, shooting a woman and her daughter to death and wounding two other people, police said.

The shooting began after the man got into an argument with his ex-girlfriend and chased her to her Winston-Salem house Tuesday night, said police Lt. Jerry K. Raker.

The man circled the house from the outside, firing a pump 12-gauge shotgun into the porch, bedroom and bathroom. Raker said. The gunman then entered the house and fired another shot before fleeing in a white vehicle.

Killed were Jean Carol Roberts, 38, and her daughter, Bridgette Vanessa Lyles, 24. Their bodies were taken to Forsyth Memorial Hospital where autopsies were to be performed today.

Toni Renee Roberts, 22, and Reginald Flynt, 23, were admitted to Baptist Hospital shortly after the 10:25 p.m. shooting and were reported in satisfactory condition this morning.

College Presidents See Powers Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — A blue-ribbon panel says most American colleges and universities have "unnecessarily and unwisely" diminished the power of their presidents over the past 20 years.

"The American college and university presidency is in trouble," the Commission on Strengthening Presidential Leadership concluded after a three-year study.

It called for steps to bolster the hand of the presidents of the more than 3,200 U.S. colleges and universities.

The 18-member panel, headed by former University of California President Clark Kerr, conducted the study at the behest of the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges, a trustees' group. It released a copy of the report Tuesday.

The panel said it is more difficult to get highly qualified persons to serve as presidents than it was in the early 1960s. It cited a survey of top academic officers — the largest source of new presidents — that found only half aspired to moving up to preside over a college.

"We believe that many unnecessary burdens are placed upon presidents in the conduct of their duties," according to the report, titled "Presidents Make a Difference." The trend, it said, has been to put "more barbed wire around smaller corals."

"The central role of the presidency to ensure the overall and long-term welfare of institutions of higher education has often unnecessarily and unwisely been diminished," the report said.

The encroachments have come in different guises from increased federal and state control to more faculty unionization to more bureaucratization of staff, it said.

It said the typical president serves seven years; about 30 percent of the presidents "are in some stage of leaving or thinking of leaving, voluntarily or involuntarily, during any two-year period."

Its work included confidential interviews with more than 800 current and past college presidents, board members, people who turned down presidencies, executive search consultants and others.

Helms Pledges Abortion Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-passed language allowing Medicaid to pay for abortions in cases of rape and incest will be fought when it is considered by House and Senate conferees, says Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

"The bill has to go to conference and the House is absolutely not going to let the Senate have its way on the abortion language, Helms told reporters Tuesday. The abortion provision is contained in a $95 billion appropriations bill to run the Departments of Labor, Education and Health and Human Services, Helms told reporters Tuesday.

But Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., said he thought there was a good chance the language would be retained in conference. "I don't think anyone wants to stand up in an election year and say a woman has to have a baby when that baby is the result of rape or incest," Weicker said.

Currently, Medicaid funds may pay for abortions only in cases in which the life of the mother is threatened by a full-term pregnancy. The prohibition against funding of other abortions has been in effect since 1979.

Medicaid is the federal-state health insurance program for the poor and handicapped.

The huge appropriations bill was passed 71-20 after the abortion provision and a watered-down provision on school prayer were accepted by voice vote.

Helms agreed to modify his school prayer amendment after Weicker said it might scuttle the entire bill.

The original Helms' amendment said no funds in the bill could be used "to prevent the implementation of programs of voluntary prayer and meditation in the public schools."

Helms said that language has been in every appropriations bill for the departments since 1980. But Weicker said the word "programs" implied organized prayer in the public schools.

Saying he had no desire to delay the work of the Senate, Helms agreed to change his amendment to say no funds could be used to prevent individual voluntary prayer and meditation in the public schools. That version was accepted by voice vote.

A Helms aide, Tom Ashcraft, said the senator received assurances that House supporters of school prayer would seek to retain his original language, which the House version includes, in the final legislation that comes out of a House-Senate conference.

"How unfortunate that, having lost a freestanding debate (on a constitutional amendment permitting organized school prayer in public schools), we now have to piggyback it on the backs of the sick, elderly and the young," Weicker said.

But Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, said the amendment sought only to restore language that had been in similar bills since 1980. He called it "a harmless amendment" in which "everybody's rights are protected."

The appropriations bill included hefty increases over President Reagan's budget for student aid, biomedical research and fuel assistance for the poor as well as money for community action and work incentive programs the administration sought to eliminate.

About two-thirds of the money in the bill goes to non-discretionary entitlement programs such as Social Security and Medicare.

Senate Ethics Panel Votes To Call Off Hatfield Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., has been cleared of conflict of interest by the Senate Ethics Committee, but the Justice Department continues to investigate his dealings with a Greek businessman.

The six-member panel, saying it had found "no credible information" against Hatfield, voted unanimously Tuesday to end the informal review it began early last month at Hatfield's request.

"There was no information available to us to justify opening a formal inquiry," said Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, chairman of the committee that is composed equally of Democrats and Republicans.

The committee voted to end its review following a closed-door briefing by the Associate Attorney General Lowell Jensen, the No. 3 official of the Justice Department.

Stevens said the Justice probe is reaching beyond Hatfield's relations with financier Basil Tsakos to include people in this country and abroad. The chairman added, however, that the broadening does not involve any member of Congress.

Hatfield has acknowledged that his wife, Antoinette, received $55,000 in four installments from Tsakos in 1982 and 1983 while the senator was promoting a $10 billion oil pipeline Tsakos wants to build across Africa.

The senator and Mrs. Hatfield, a real estate agent, said the money had nothing to do with Hatfield introducing Tsakos to officials in Washington and writing a letter boosting the project as a means of countering cutoffs in waterborne shipments of Middle East oil.

The Hatfields said the payments were for real estate advice she gave Tsakos and for her assistance in redecorating the businessman's apartment in the luxurious Watergate complex in Washington.

The committee said in a prepared statement that it "found no credible information sufficient to cause the committee to initiate a 'preliminary inquiry'" — the panel's term for a formal investigation.

"The committee feels that the information in its possession is sufficient and complete enough to reach this conclusion," the panel said. "Consequently, the committee's review of this matter is terminated."

The committee added, however, that Tuesday's vote would not prevent a reopening of the Hatfield matter if, as a result of the Justice probe, it receives new information.

The statement said the staff review included obtaining sworn testimony from material witnesses, including the Hatfields, and interviews experts about real estate business practices in the Washington area.

Hatfield said in a prepared statement that he was "extremely pleased.... Once again, I regret any appearance of impropriety stemming from the unfortunate circumstances of such support (for the pipeline), as well as the pain experienced by my family during this difficult time."

He said he hoped the "publicity surrounding this situation" does not jeopardize the proposed pipeline — "a concept which may hold the potential to make the world a far less dangerous place."

Stevens said the committee requested the Justice briefing to learn about the status of the department's investigation.

Congress Speeds Up Adjournment Process

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, with just over a week left until adjournment, has opened its express checkout line for senators and representatives scurrying to pick up last-minute legislative trophies to display for the voters back home.

After a sluggish year, the House and Senate began to resemble the bargain basement of a popular department store Tuesday as Congress moved quickly on a $292.9 billion compromise military budget, more than 300 public works projects, a broad anti-crime package President Reagan wants, a multibillion-dollar foreign aid measure and money for most of the government's domestic programs.

And all of that is in just one bill, an emergency measure called a continuing resolution that is supposed to keep major government departments operating after the new fiscal year begins Oct. 1. Only four of the 13 necessary money bills the federal government needs have been signed into law.

The House passed the omnibus measure 316-91 Tuesday and sent it to the Senate.

Across the Capitol, the Senate Appropriations Committee drafted a version of the stopgap legislation that is just as heavily laden as the House measure.

Most individual bills that provide money for the government along with Congress' work on a budget blueprint bogged down in early June over a military spending impasse between the House and Senate. But the stalemate was broken last week when House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., and Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., reached a preliminary agreement on the outlines of a defense authorization bill.

House and Senate negotiators settled Tuesday on the specifics of the authorization bill that resolves 1,200 disputes between the chambers, ranging from weapons systems to education benefits and pay.

If separate defense bills cannot be enacted by the scheduled congressional adjournment at the end of next week, those items will be folded into the stopgap bill.

The defense deal also cleared the way for other congressional negotiators to reach final agreement Tuesday on a target budget for fiscal 1985 that calls for spending $932 billion, compared with $845.6 billion this year, and anticipates a $181-billion deficit.

The budget plan will require that the government's borrowing authority — the national debt — now $1.573 trillion, be raised to $1.823 trillion. Treasury Department officials have said they expect the current borrowing limit to be reached by the end of the week.

The rush to finish work on a lot of legislation just before adjourning for the year has become a familiar exercise on Capitol Hill, along with the need for regular stopgap legislation to keep the government operating.

But a combination of fierce election-year politics and the long delay on money bills caused by the military spending dispute has increased the magnitude of the measures Congress is trying to lump together.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., who chairs the Senate Appropriations Committee, said the basic stopgap measure encompasses spending authority of nearly $500 billion.

Last week, the House Rules Committee was rebuffed in an attempt to limit the string of amendments that could be attached to the pending stopgap bill.

So on Tuesday, the House loaded it up.

The most unexpected move was the decision to tack the bulk of the Reagan administration's anti-crime package to the emergency bill.

Democrats first won a 218-174 procedural vote blocking a GOP attempt to include the anti-crime package in the emergency legislation. But just before giving final passage to the bill, the House voted 243-166 to include the anti-crime measure.

Meanwhile, by a 336-64 vote, the House attached to the stopgap measure a massive authorization bill for more than 300 water projects. In June, the House had approved the same water projects but the Senate has not acted on the measure.

"This resolution is the only game in town, so I'll have to vote for it," said Rep. Silvio O. Conte of Massachusetts, the senior Republican on the Appropriations Committee.

But he warned that "if a lot of this extraneous matter which will be adopted today is not stripped from the bill then I will recommend to the president that he veto the bill and we'll all be here this weekend."

Having said that, Conte then attached an amendment that would provide authorization for $159 million for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. That authorization had been part of separate legislation President Reagan has vetoed.

Reagan Seeking Counsel

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, who once condemned the results of detente with the Soviet Union, has sought out the expert advice of detente's foremost architects — Richard M. Nixon and Henry A. Kissinger — to help him prepare this week's meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Kissinger says he believes that Reagan, having moved away in the last year from a position of hostility towards Moscow, now seeks "a negotiated co-existence" with the Soviet Union, a condition that Kissinger said, "is what I used to call detente."

The former secretary of state says he believes Reagan would pursue that aim in a second term because "after the election he's running for history, and not for any other office."

As for the Soviets, Kissinger said: "I believe that in a crab-like manner they are going to move toward negotiations with us ... I cannot imagine that Gromyko would come here and have absolutely nothing to say."

The president is to meet Gromyko at the White House on Friday. Secretary of State George Shultz was meeting Gromyko in New York today.

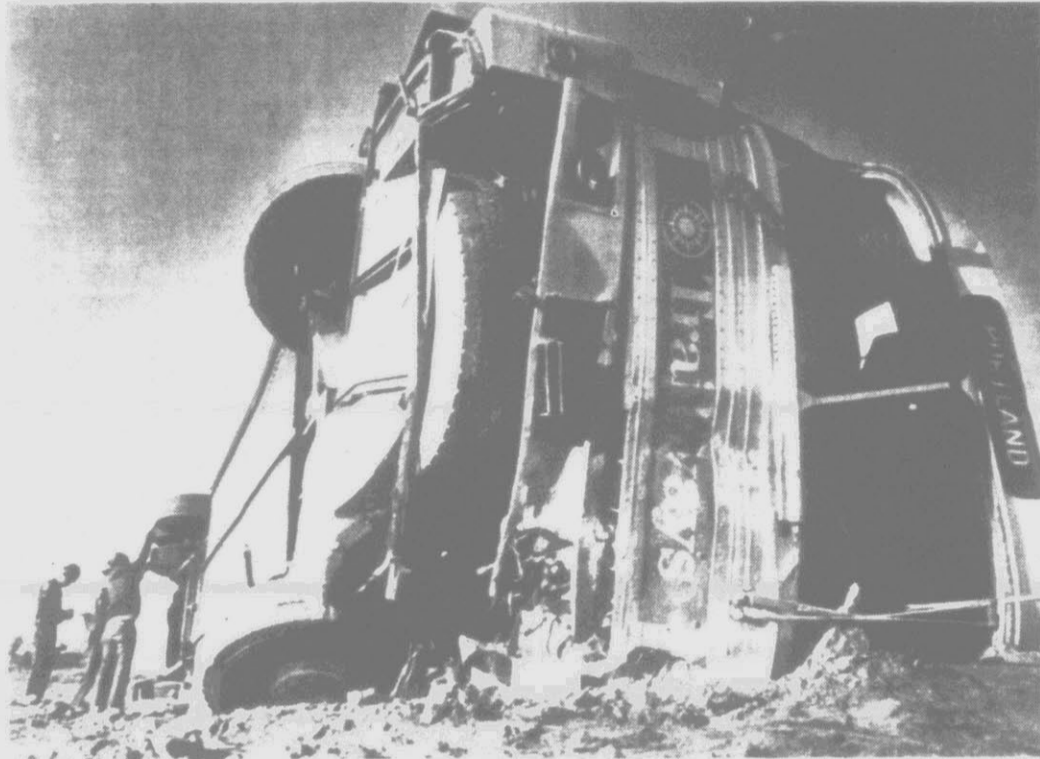

Preparing himself for that encounter, Reagan discussed Gromyko's tough negotiating style on Monday with former President Nixon in New York City, shortly after using a speech to the United Nations General Assembly to strike his most conciliatory tone yet toward Moscow.

Nixon was not seen by reporters and the meeting was not disclosed until midday Tuesday.

Kissinger, who met with Reagan at the White House for 30 minutes Tuesday, declined to say what specific advice he gave the president on dealing with Soviet Union's top diplomat.

But the former secretary of state described Gromyko to reporters as very careful, deliberate, precise, well informed and "tough."

Kissinger said it is his personal opinion that the meeting between Gromyko and Reagan could result in "the beginning of an agreement on a possible agenda, and of ways of talking, and a change in the atmosphere of unrelenting hostility between the Soviet Union and the United States."

AFTERMATH — A Trailways charter bus lies on its side after colliding with a car in southwestern Oregon Tuesday. A passenger in the car died and about 30 of the men on the bus were injured. Authorities said the men were on their way to Rajneeshpuram in central Oregon. (AP Laserphoto)

Negotiators Settle On Defense Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sparked by President Reagan's retreat on MX missile production, Congress appears ready to enact a compromise defense budget of $292.9 billion, more than $21 billion under his original request.

House and Senate negotiators, after working nearly round the clock, settled Tuesday on a defense authorization bill that resolved 1,200 disputes between the chambers, ranging from weapons systems to education benefits and pay. A companion appropriations bill is now being readied to complete the package.

Regardless of what happens in those future votes, the legislation would limit 1985 production money for the MX to $1.5 billion, enough for 21 missiles, according to Senate estimates, but only 15 according to the Congressional Budget Office. Reagan originally wanted 40.

Shultz, Gromyko Open U.S.-Soviet Talks Today

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz, told "a little of the ice has broken" in U.S.-Soviet relations, was meeting today with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to explore new ideas for reducing superpower tensions and making progress on arms control.

The meeting at the U.S. mission of the United Nations was to be the first between top leaders of the two nations since Shultz and Gromyko met at Stockholm in January.

Gromyko will meet with President Reagan at the White House on Friday, Shultz will go to Washington Thursday to brief the president on his talks here.

A State Department official said Shultz and Gromyko could meet through lunch, if necessary, and he held out the possibility of another meeting between them on the weekend, after Gromyko visits the White House.

Shultz said in advance of the meeting that he would discuss a wide range of issues with Gromyko, including Reagan's proposals, spelled out in a speech to the United Nations Monday, for contacts with Moscow at all levels to help reduce tensions.

Reaction to that speech from Moscow has been publicly harsh, but privately encouraging, according to officials here.

In Washington, Reagan brushed off a critical statement by the Soviet news agency Tass on Tuesday, which dismissed his speech as "camouflage" and an appeal for American votes. Said Reagan, a former movie actor, "I never get good reviews from Tass."

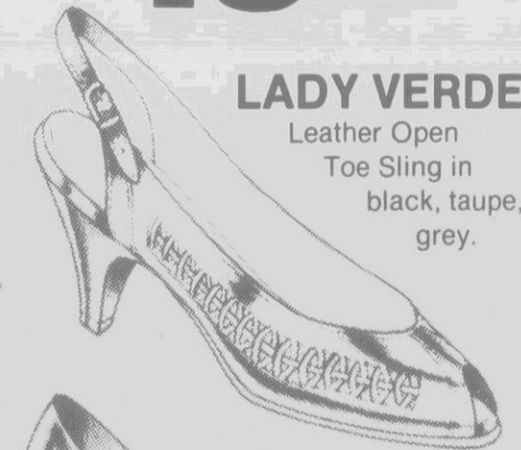

To prepare for the meeting with Gromyko, Reagan was briefed at the White House by former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger on Tuesday. The president also revealed that he discussed the upcoming meeting with Gromyko when met in New York on Monday with former President Richard Nixon.

Officials said Reagan would meet for two hours with Gromyko in the Oval Office, and that a working lunch would follow. It will be Reagan's first meeting as president with a top Soviet leader.

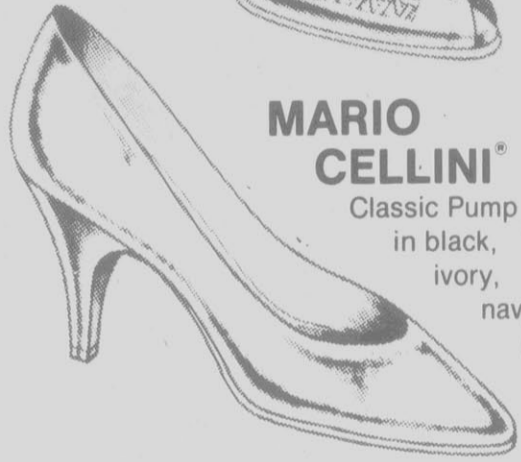

Soviet President Konstantin Chernenko said in a speech in Moscow Tuesday that he didn't think the United States understood that the threat of nuclear conflict was "regrettably great" and chided

Reagan for trying to "turn it into a joke."

Lockheed Offers To Drop Price Of Transports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lockheed Corp. has proposed a way to cut the cost of its C-5B transport planes by $9 million each following a report it would reap excess profits on its $7.8 billion Air Force contract.

"Lockheed initiated and submitted a plan to the Air Force that would, if current inflation rates hold, result in a total contract price reduction of well over $400 million," Lockheed President Lawrence O. Kitchen said Tuesday. "This would equate to a savings of approximately $9 million for each C-5B."

Kitchen's statement came after The Washington Post reported that a confidential Air Force memo had expressed concern about Lockheed profits from the C-5B contract.

In the memorandum, Auditor General Jerome H. Stolarow noted that Lockheed is projecting a 29 percent profit on the first five planes, "nearly twice the 15 percent profit rate negotiated at the time the contract was awarded" last December.

He estimated that the "excess profit" for Lockheed would amount to $162 million for fiscal 1985 and another $315 million during fiscal 1986 and 1987.

Kitchen said the newspaper report was "based on a preliminary extrapolation of data and is not based on a full audit conclusion."

Because inflation rates have not been as high as anticipated when the contract was negotiated, Lockheed and the Air Force began a review of the contract several weeks ago, he said.

"Lockheed has willingly worked with the Air Force over the last several weeks to review the C-5B costs and projections..." he added. "We are working in a cooperative and non-adversarial relationship as we are both interested in a good product for a fair and reasonable price."

Kitchen said allegations of excess profits are "as preposterous" as an Air Force report which surfaced in April 1983 predicting C-5B cost overruns of $556 million.

"We do not now, nor have we ever expected the Air Force to pay other than a fair and reasonable price for the C-5B aircraft," Kitchen said.

The C-5A cargo plane, which Lockheed manufactured for the Air Force in the 1960s and 1970s, resulted in cost overruns of nearly $2 billion.

Congressional opponents of the C-5B cited the C-5A overruns in their arguments in 1982 against the new cargo plane.

Some C-5B opponents preferred buying C-17 planes from McDonnell-Douglas; others preferred buying Boeing 747 planes and re-equipping them for long-haul cargo use by the military.

After intense lobbying by Lockheed, however, Congress and the Reagan administration decided the new fleet of cargo planes would be C-5Bs.

50 Million-Year-Old Fossils Found in Wyoming

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The complete skull of the earliest known horse has been found in Wyoming's Wind River Basin, part of a treasure trove of fossils which scientists compared to finding an unknown

Rembrandt.

The site includes remains of animals never before known to science and will shed light on the dawn of modern-day creatures, the discoverers said.

"It's the best 50 million-year-old gold mine of fossils in the world. Nothing else compares. Absolutely nothing," Leonard Krishtalka of the Carnegie Museum of Natural History said Tuesday.

Manson Injured In Prison Fire

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Imprisoned murderer Charles Manson, serving a life term for the 1969 cult slayings of nine people, was badly burned by another convicted killer who doused him with paint thinner and set him ablaze.

Authorities said Jan Holmstrom attacked Manson Tuesday in the hobby shop of the California Medical Facility at Vacaville, about 50 miles northeast of San Francisco, where the state keeps psychiatric prisoners.

Corrections Department spokesman Bob Gore said Holmstrom, "a psychiatric case in remission," told officers that Manson had threatened him for his professed Hare Krishna beliefs.

Manson, 48, serving life for the cult slayings of actress Sharon Tate and eight other people, was listed in good condition in the prison hospital with second- and third-degree burns over 18 percent of his body, mostly face, scalp and hands.

Gore said Holmstrom, 36, was serving a life sentence for second-degree murder.

Holmstrom has also been convicted during his prison term of assault with a deadly weapon and assault on a peace officer.

Gore said paint thinner is available in the hobby shop, and many inmates carry matches for cigarette smoking.

Manson, whose murders were described in the book "Helter Skelter," written by former Los Angeles County prosecutor Vincent Bugliosi, has repeatedly been denied parole by the state Board of Prison Terms.

Later in Washington, D.C., Richard Graveley, spokesman for the Hare Krishna Movement, said of Holmstrom, "According to our records, this person has no affiliation with the Hare Krishna Movement. This individual is not a member of the Hare Krishna Movement, he was barred from visiting our temples over a decade ago because of his irrational behavior."

On the hot summer night of Aug. 9, 1969, the Manson clan invaded the Beverly Hills mansion of actress Sharon Tate, who was eight months pregnant, and stabbed her to death. They also murdered her house guests, Abigail Folger, Voityck Frykowski and Jay Sebring as well as a caretaker's friend, Stephen Parent.

The following night, as news of the celebrity murders spread, the Manson followers killed two more strangers - wealthy grocery owners Leno and Rosemary La Bianca - who were found butchered in their Los Feliz area home.

Testimony at the Manson trial showed that the cult leader, a habitual criminal who had spent most of his life in prison, had ordered his disciples to murder at random. Although Manson himself did not kill any of the victims, he was found guilty along with Susan Atkins, Patricia Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten. Manson also was later convicted in the slayings of musician Gary Hinman and ranch hand Donald "Shorty" Shea.

Kansas Escapees Are Recaptured

LANSING, Kan. (AP) — Two convicted murderers who sawed their way out of Kansas State Penitentiary were captured by a deputy sheriff early today as they walked along a road just six miles from the prison. Three other escapees were apprehended hours earlier.

"Well, I'm just glad that they're back in the penitentiary and everybody can go to bed at night and sleep without worrying," said Wyandotte County Sheriff's Department Sgt. John Holt after he picked up James Allen Purdy, 33, and Thanh Van Pham, 20, both of Wichita.

Caught in Kansas City on Tuesday were Thaddeus Jones, 28, of Wichita; Lawrence E. Lane, 33, of St. Louis; and Arzo Tucker Jr., 28, of Wichita.

The five escaped from the Lansing prison 30 miles northwest of Kansas City early Monday after shimmying alongside an air duct, then crawling through the duct and cutting through a steel bar on a window with hacksaw blades, said Herb Maschner, prison director.

The capture today of the final two fugitives came after Holt was tipped off at about 1 a.m. by a man fixing his car that two people were walking along state highway 73. Holt radioed for a backup, then went to the area the motorist described.

"I pulled up and lit them up with a spotlight and had my shotgun. I had the subjects lay down on the roadway," Holt said. He said he waited the few minutes for a backup to arrive without touching the prisoners because one of them is a martial arts expert.

"As long as I had them down on the ground at gun point, that was good enough until I got help there,"

Study Shows Fat Babies Rarely Grow Up Plump

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fat infants rarely become fat children, say researchers who monitored 450 babies through age 9 and found that overweight babies slim down through a natural growth process.

Studies at the University of California at Berkeley did not, however, determine why some babies are fat and whether fat children are destined to be fat adults, the researchers said.

Contrary to popular belief and earlier studies, "the obese infant is not predestined to become an obese child," the research team of nutritionist Leona R. Shapiro wrote in this month's issue of the American Journal of Public Health.

In a telephone interview Tuesday, Ms. Shapiro said the study prompts her to advise mothers of fat babies: "Don't be alarmed. ... The fat ones thin down by themselves without any particular kind of intervention. It's just the normal growth process with them."

However, Ms. Shapiro's study also found that fat 9-year-olds usually displayed sudden weight gains beginning at age 6, although in some cases as early as age 2 for girls and age 3 for boys.

"For the mother who has a child who all of sudden around age 6 makes a rapid weight gain, if the child is doing a lot of extra snacking on so-called junk foods, I would suggest that mother try to ... keep the child's interest away from all this snacking," Ms. Shapiro said. "I would try to encourage increased activity."

She said her findings contradict earlier studies that suggested fat babies become fat children, but that her ongoing study has yet to address the question of whether fat children become fat adults.

The researchers started their study nearly 15 years ago, when they selected 450 6-month-old infants in the Berkeley area. Their "fatness" — based on measurements of skin fold thickness, weight and other factors — was measured regularly until they were 9 years old.

For purposes of the study, the most obese 15 percent of the 6-month-old children were considered fat, the least obese 15 percent were considered lean and the remaining 70 percent were called "non-obese."

"We found that the children who had been obese 6-month-olds or 1-year-olds were most likely not to be obese at 9 years," Ms. Shapiro said. "All (but one) of the fat children thinned down. ... The other thing we found was that all of the children who were obese at age 9 had not been obese as infants."

If the researchers can procure additional funding from the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development, they hope to continue studying the children — who are now 15 years old — to determine if those who were fat 9-year-olds are obese when they reach adulthood.

Ms. Shapiro said her study didn't address the questions of why some infants are fat and what causes them to become thinner as they grow older.

The study did find that increased exercise was associated, although weakly, with decreased obesity. Yet the study was unable to confirm that children who eat more are more likely to become fat.

S. Africa, Britain See Diplomatic Strain

LONDON (AP) — British newspapers sharply attacked the South African government today, charging it broke a promise to return four businessmen to Britain to face arms smuggling charges in order to avoid national embarrassment.

The Times of London said South Africa's decision Monday not to force the four men to face British justice triggered the "worst crisis in relations since the riots in Soweto in 1976."

In South Africa, the Cape Times went further, saying relations between the two countries haven't been so bad since the Boer War at the turn of the century.

South Africa said the businessmen would not be sent back to Britain even though a member of the South African Embassy had posted bail for them and pledged the word of his government that they would return for trial.

British newspapers today condemned the Pretoria government's about-face, and alleged that it was done to spare South Africa the embarrassment of a trial on the politically sensitive charges of smuggling arms components. The businessmen are believed to have worked for a state-run South African arms manufacturing company.

The United Nations has banned any arms shipments to South Africa because of its system of apartheid, or separation of races.

Botha's decision not to return the businessmen also was viewed as retaliation for London's refusal to hand over to South African police six political dissidents who have been holed up in the British consulate in Durban, South Africa, since they led an attempt to boycott parliamentary elections in August.

"The British case is a straightforward matter of judicial proceedings," the Cape Times said in criticizing the Pretoria government's actions. In contrast, the six men hiding out in the consulate "face no charges."

Black Students In South Africa Boycotting Schools

SOWETO, South Africa (AP) — Scattered violence was reported today, resulting in the death of a black youth, as tens of thousands of black students resumed a boycott when black schools reopened after a vacation, officials said.

The vacation began a week early because of widespread boycotts and rioting.

The youth was struck by a bus and killed as the driver sped away from a crowd of youths throwing rocks in Soweto. Lt. Tom Jefferson said at police headquarters in Pretoria. He said that when police arrived, about 300 blacks asked them for protection from stone-throwers and were escorted home.

Jefferson said there also were scattered incidents of stone-throwing at buses and cars in other black townships east and west of Johannesburg.

A group of youths stoned cars and a building in Wattville, east of Johannesburg, Jefferson said, and another group stoned and set afire a delivery truck in the township. Both groups dispersed before police arrived.

Students "did not turn up" when schools reopened in black townships of the Vaal area, 40 miles south of Johannesburg, said Job Schoeman of the Department of Education and Training in Pretoria.

The Vaal area was worst-hit by rioting in black townships surrounding Johannesburg this month in which at least 60 blacks were killed, according to police and church figures. Black schools in the Vaal townships, which include Sharpeville and Sebokeng, have about 93,000 students, but Schoeman said it was unclear whether some did attend classes.

He said most other black schools opened normally. Principals in Soweto, the huge township near Johannesburg, were told they could close early so pupils could attend a funeral of a slain student leader, and most did so, Schoeman added.

About 1,000 people gathered for the funeral of Bongani Khumalo, and many mourners wore T-shirts of the Congress of South African Students, of which Khumalo was Soweto secretary.

The congress and other anti-apartheid organizations and community groups had appealed to mourners to keep the funeral and burial peaceful.

Police maintained a low-key presence, pulling two armored riot vehicles out of sight of the Regina Mundi Church, where the funeral took place.

During the weekend, police arrested about 900 blacks who attended banned funerals for riot victims in the Vaal area, about 40 miles south of Johannesburg, where the worst rioting broke out Sept. 3. Most of the 900 arrested were held in custody and ordered to appear in court later today.

Khumalo's funeral had been banned on Saturday, but was rescheduled.

Schoeman said all black urban schools in the country were reopening except for six high schools in Atteridgeville, near Pretoria. Those six schools, with about 6,000 students, were shut in June for the rest of the year after continued boycotts.

Explosion Damages Consulate

NEW YORK (AP) — The South African Consulate was heavily damaged early today when a powerful explosion in a stairwell of a Manhattan office building knocked out two walls and left rubble strewn over five floors of the 33-story structure, authorities said.

About 20 workers were in the building at the time of the blast, but no one was injured, police said.

The explosion occurred at 12:23 a.m. on the 12th floor, where the South African Consulate has offices, police Sgt. Eddie LeSchack said.

The Associated Press received a taped message at 12:35 a.m. in which an accented male voice said: "We bombed the South African Consulate in New York City in solidarity with resistance to South African human rights violations. Down with apartheid. Victory to the freedom fighters. Defeat U.S. imperialism. Guerrilla resistance."

Lt. Kevin Hallinan of the Terrorist Task Force said the device appeared to be a bomb.

A building maintenance worker, Miloslan Hojer, said he received an anonymous telephoned bomb threat at about 12:07 a.m.

"They just say you have a bomb in your building. You have 10 minutes to evacuate the people," Hojer said.

Seven or eight minutes later, after Hojer had called police, the blast ripped through the building, he said. The male caller had a soft-spoken, Hispanic voice, but no group has claimed responsibility for the blast, according to Officer Tony Vallelong.

Sgt. Jack Burton said the explosion occurred "inside a stairwell that caused extensive damage from the 10th to 14th floors."

The consulate itself suffered "extensive damage," Vallelong said. "Cabinets — everything is in disarray in there," he said. "Two concrete walls were completely dismembered. The debris is all over the place. The office is in such disarray you wouldn't know one office from another."

South Africa's consular general in New York, Abe Hoppenstein, told reporters before going to survey the damage. "I can only condemn this act."

Hoppenstein said it was the first attack on a South African diplomatic mission in the United States "as far as I am aware."

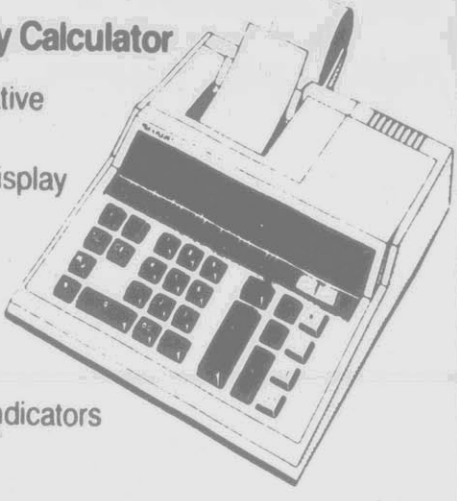

In past the two weeks, Prime Minister P.W. Botha has been sworn in as South Africa's first executive state president, a post under the nation's new constitution which, for the first time, enfranchises Asians and mixed race people but leaves the 22 million blacks in the nation of 30 million people outside the political process.

On Dec. 16, 1982, a bomb damaged the South African Airline building in Elmont on Long Island. In that blast, the targets had received telephoned warnings about half an hour before the explosion and no one was injured.

China, Britain Sign Hong Kong Pact

PEKING (AP) — China and Britain today initiated a historic agreement that will put Hong Kong, the world's third largest financial center and Asia's busiest port, under Communist China's control on July 1, 1997.

The end of a century and a half of British colonial rule of the thriving capitalist port of 5.5 million people was signaled by a formal half-hour ceremony in the Great Hall of the People at Peking's Tiananmen Square.

Britain's chief negotiator termed it a "solemn" event, while his Chinese counterpart said it was "worth celebrating."

The agreement follows two years of hard bargaining in which Britain at first refused to concede sovereignty, and then sought a residual administrative role after the expiration of its 99-year lease on the so-called New Territories — 92 percent of the colony.

After 22 rounds of negotiations in Peking, Britain agreed to hand over all of the colony to China, including Hong Kong Island and Kowloon peninsula, which were ceded to Britain under the Opium War treaties of 1842 and 1860.

In exchange, Britain obtained assurances that Hong Kong would remain largely self-governing and retain its traditional freedoms and socio-economic system for 50 years after 1997.

Chinese leader Deng Xiaoping has boasted that no nation in history has so generously adopted a "one country, two systems" policy within its borders, a plan it also offers the Nationalist Chinese on Taiwan.

In Taiwan, the Foreign Ministry said the Nationalist government would refuse to recognize the draft agreement. The Nationalists, who retreated to Taiwan from the Chinese mainland in 1949 after their defeat by the Communists, maintain that they are China's legitimate government and that Hong Kong's future should have been negotiated between them and Britain.

Under a 12-lamp chandelier at the Great Hall of the People, Chinese Vice Foreign Minister Zhou Nan and British Ambassador Sir Richard Evans initiated a "joint declaration" on the change of sovereignty, three annexes and a memorandum. The texts of the documents were to be released tonight, simultaneously in Hong Kong, Peking and London.

The official Chinese news agency Xinhua said the three annexes dealt with China's basic policies on Hong Kong, the establishment of a Sino-British liaison group to monitor implementation of the pact, and a commission to deal with land leases.

The agreement requires the approval of the British Parliament and China's National People's Congress and will be officially signed before the end of the year, both sides said.

Report Cites Political Prisoners In China

LONDON (AP) — Amnesty International says China has executed thousands of people during a nationwide anti-crime crackdown and is holding thousands of political prisoners in jails and labor camps.

Amnesty, which won the 1977 Nobel Peace Prize for championing human rights, on Tuesday issued its first major report on Communist China since 1978.

The London-based organization said that during the first three months of the drive that began in August 1983 against common criminals "tens of thousands of arrests and several thousand executions are believed to have been carried out."

Amnesty, which opposes the death penalty, said prisoners were executed for offenses ranging from murder to molesting women and embezzlement.

In a 132-page report, Amnesty said that since 1981, China had nearly doubled — to 44 — the number of crimes carrying the death penalty.

Amnesty said it urged the Chinese government early this year to give defendants fair trials, end the death penalty and release political prisoners. It said the government was given a copy of the report and did not respond to its appeals.

An Amnesty spokesman, David Laulich, told The Associated Press there were 24 people about whom Amnesty had "enough information to be quite sure they were imprisoned only for exercising a basic human right such as speaking their minds or writing something."

Amnesty named the 24 Chinese, who included 10 Roman Catholic priests, and termed them "prisoners of conscience" — people who have neither used nor advocated violence. Laulich said Amnesty was working to secure their release.

The report said the 24 were a small fraction of the political prisoners. Some of the prisoners — sometimes manacled — reportedly have been held in solitary confinement for weeks or months, it said.

It quoted foreign press reports as estimating 5,000 executions were carried out in the nation of 1 billion people in the first three months.

CLINTON, N.C. (AP) — Butty and Skip better look out and be "chilly" because high school students are declaring that preppy is definitely out.

Button-down collar shirts in pastel colors, blue and green outfits, monogrammed purses, shirts and sweaters and add-a-bead necklaces don't turn heads like in the past. Instead, parachute pants and vests, crop pants and gasoline pants are the hottest items on the block along with dozens of accessories that almost include the kitchen sink.

And the language is changing along with the dress.

"What's happening," "hey baby," "be cool," "far out" and "that's unreal" are also as archaic as penny loafers and khaki pants.

"You say things that just come out of your mouth," said Susan Moore, a cheerleader at Lakewood High School between Roseboro and Salemburg.

"Chill out, take a chill pill" and "be chilly" are the things to say. Others are "that's really wild," "zilch, oh no," "what's up girl?" and "yodude."

Ms. Moore's comrades declare preppy is not the way to go and punk is just a little too chilly. Instead they label their new style "your own personality."

"You use everything you can find," said Michelle Mason, also a cheerleader at Lakewood.

Michele sits back at her desk dressed in her own personality of striped denim, crop jeans topped with a wide, bright, red belt fastened by a large, gold buckle. Untwisted twist beads hang down on her dad's white sweater which gives focus to her red, knit tie around the uplifted collar of a dark, gray shirt.

Her ears sparkle with big, red and white round earrings accented by French earrings dangling from the upper part of the ear. Wavy, bangle bracelets clink together on her right arm matching her upper body colors and her fingernails beam with a bright, red polish. Her own style even reaches to her toes as white, high-top, "Candies" name brand tennis shoes touch the bottom of her crop jeans.

Hair styles are short on both top and sides and long in back for girls and guys, with the cuts going high above the ears for girls. One thing's for certain, wild punk cuts in different colors aren't popular, especially in Eastern North Carolina.

At Clinton High School, styles aren't quite as wild.

Rescue Helicopter Crashes On Building, Killing Two

KERNERSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A helicopter on a night mission to retrieve the body of a construction worker pinned atop a water tower hit the tower and crashed onto a building, killing two people.

The WFMV-TV news helicopter was called in as a last resort nearly four hours after Charles Glenwood Tompkins Jr., 19, was trapped around 6 p.m. Tuesday. He bled to death 20 minutes before the chopper arrived, said Dr. Lew W. Stringer, Forsyth County medical examiner, who organized the rescue.

If the helicopter had been obtained earlier, rescuers might have been able to save Tompkins, Stringer said, adding that it took two hours to get the aircraft.

Earlier, authorities tried to free Tompkins using a 75-foot aerial ladder, a 90-foot cherry picker and ropes handled by rescuers who scaled the 140-foot tower.

Tompkins, a construction worker from Lumberton, was working to dismantle the tower when a girder he cut fell the wrong way, crushing his legs and pinning him to the structure, officials said.

As the helicopter approached the tower, it struck a protruding piece of steel and crashed on top of a nearby building, rupturing gas lines and setting the structure afire as 350 horrified onlookers watched.

Mayor Roger Swisher said the helicopter turned over like it was in "a giant somersault, and everybody started hollering 'Oh my God, Oh my God.'"

The crash killed the pilot, Thomas J. Haroski, 39, of Clemmons, and Steve Richey, 25, of Winston-Salem, a member of the Forsyth Rescue Squad, Stringer said. Haroski was the executive vice president of Triad Helicopters Inc., which owned the helicopter that crashed.

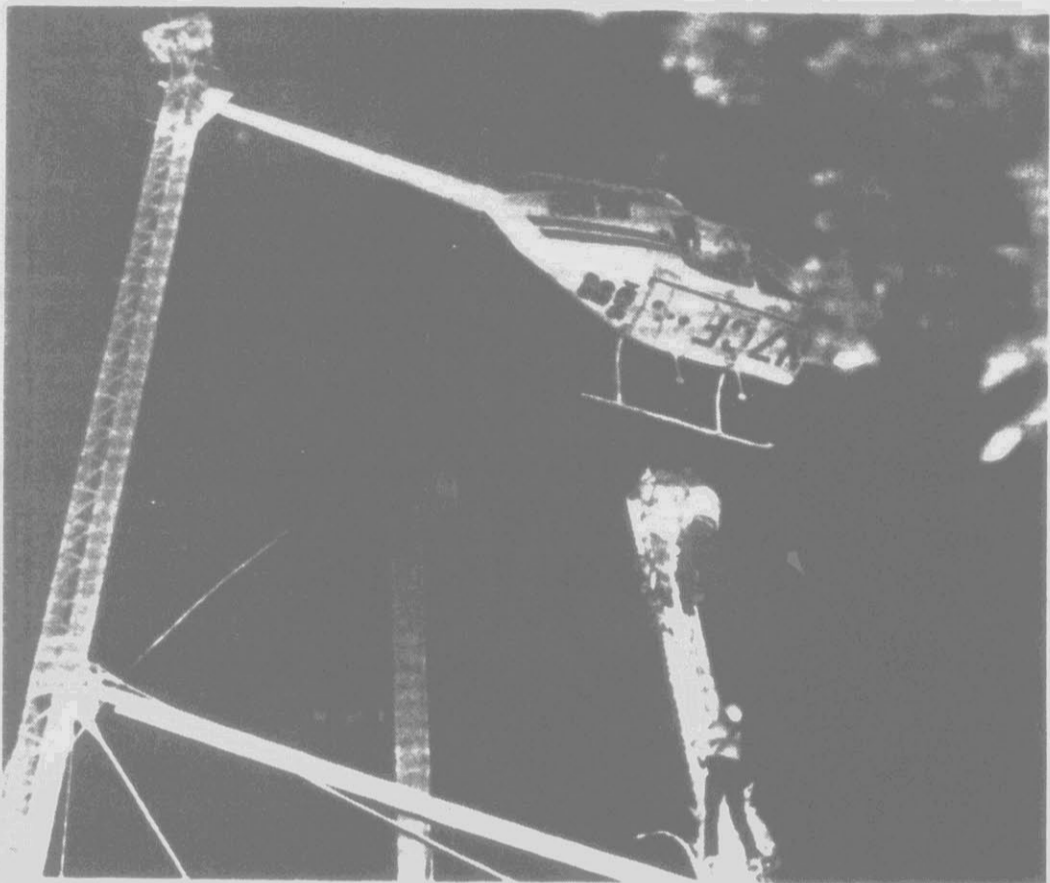

"I'd do the same thing again. ... I'm sure we'll think of ways we could have done it differently ...." Stringer said of his decision to use the helicopter.

Workers were able to remove the pilot's body late Tuesday night, but Richey's body remained in the helicopter for hours until firefighters doused the flames. A crane lowered Tompkins' body around 3:30 a.m. today.

Haroski had cooperated with law enforcement agencies in the past. Jim Collins, WFMV news director, said, "That helicopter and he were one and the same. ... He helped people, which is what he was trying to do tonight."

Safety inspectors from the Federal Aviation Administration's Winston-Salem office were to investigate the accident today, said inspector Paul Justus. The helicopter remained perched on the tower.

Tompkins was trapped when the 20-foot section he was cutting from the top of one of the tower's four legs fell in the wrong direction, crushing his legs, Stringer said.

Educator Predicts New Crisis

CHARLOTTE (AP) — North Carolina is in the first stages of a shortage of qualified teachers that could get worse if steps are not taken to increase educators' salaries and reduce their non-instructional duties, an education leader says.

"There is a time bomb ticking away within our public schools," Cecil Banks, president of the N.C. Association of Educators said Tuesday. "If it should explode, a million North Carolina children would suffer. The bomb is called retirement and turnover."

Banks said the shortage is a "crisis in our schools" that could get much worse.

"Right now, there are 6,000 teachers with 30 years or more of service in North Carolina who are eligible for immediate retirement. If they all decide to retire in the same year, we won't have enough teachers to replace them," he said.

The NCAE, the state's largest education lobby with 42,500 members, held news conferences in Charlotte, Greensboro and Raleigh to focus attention on the problem.

Banks criticized North Carolina's political and educational leaders for failing to face the issue as they try to reform public schools.

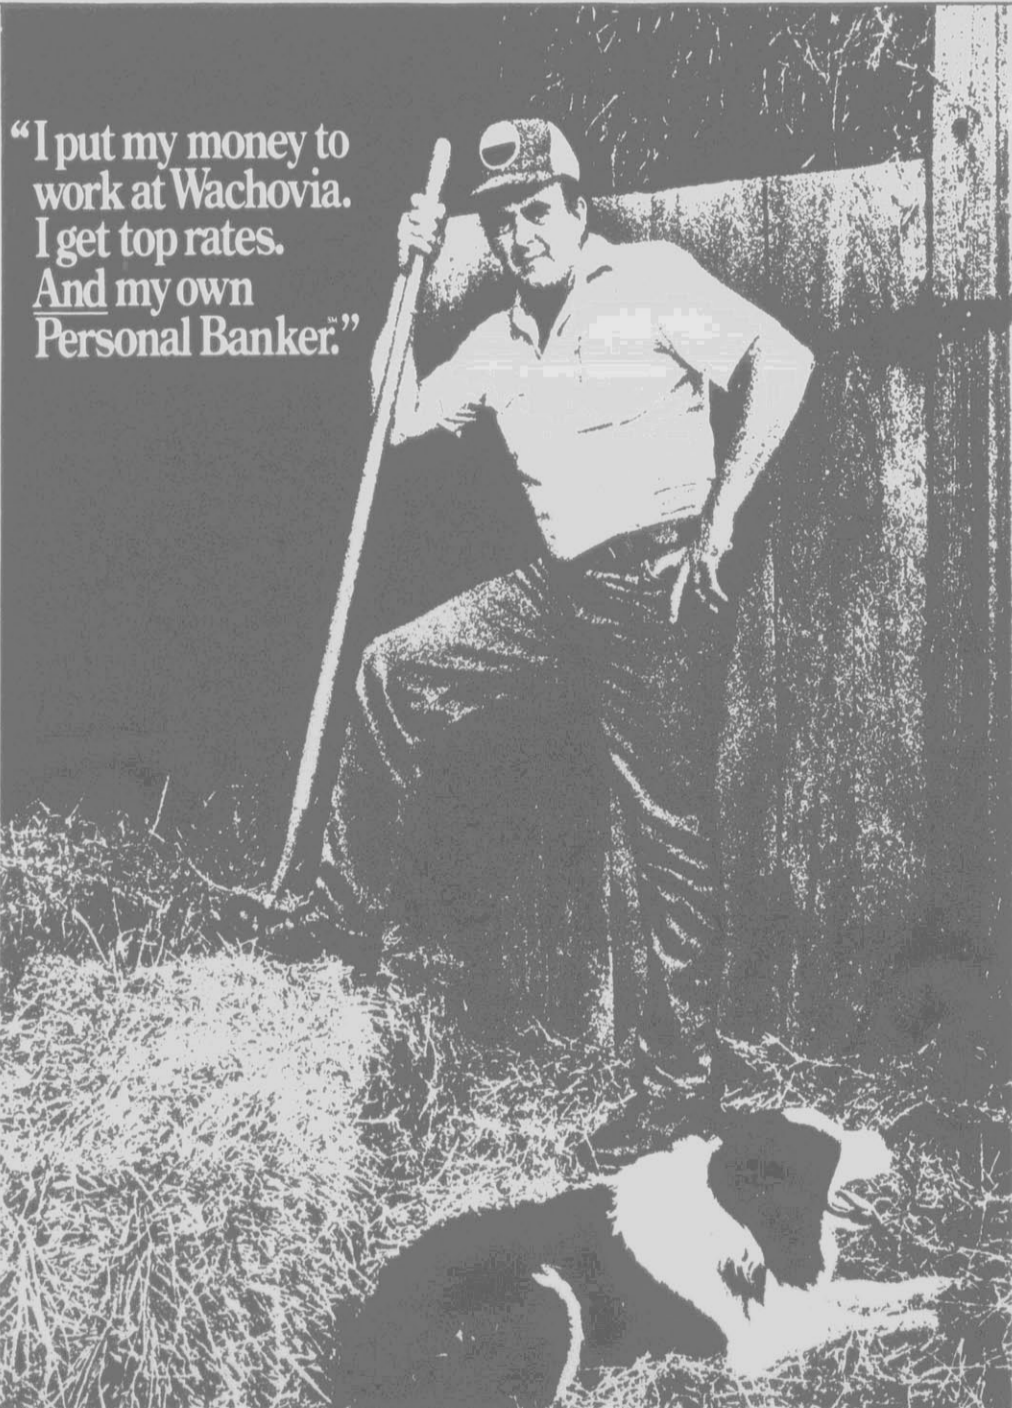

"Most folks are aware of the fact that we have a teacher shortage in certain areas like math and science," he said. But an aging classroom workforce combined with a decline in new teachers, Banks said, "means the shortages will increase in all other areas."

He gave these warning signs: — Since the 1979-80 school year, the number of students graduating from teacher education programs in North Carolina colleges and universities declined 22 percent. In 1980, 3,862 students earned bachelor's degrees in education, compared with 3,010 in 1983.

— While there were 852 fewer new teacher graduates last year, demand for teachers grew as the state's 142 school districts replaced those who retired or resigned for more lucrative private industry jobs. In 1983-84, the state hired 1,479 new teachers — an increase of 304, or 26 percent, over 1981-82, Banks said. This year, the state needed an additional 1,265 new teachers to reduce average class size in grades four to six from 30 students to 26.

— Charlotte-Mecklenburg, the state's largest school system, felt the crunch acutely. It hired 426 new teachers this summer, compared with 316 the year before.

Coastal Farmers Favor New Curb On Incorporating

By The Associated Press

A majority of farmers in five coastal counties said in survey by the North Carolina Coastal Federation that they favored legislation to curb the growth of corporate farms.

The non-profit, public-interest group reported Monday that 61 percent of the 226 farmers who answered a mail questionnaire agreed or strongly agreed on the need for a law to prevent corporations from buying farmland in North Carolina.

The 226 respondents were among 359 farmers from Beaufort, Carteret, Hyde, Tyrrell and Washington counties — whose names were taken from lists of Farmers Home Administration borrowers — to whom the questionnaires were sent.

"We have known for a long time that fishermen have their problems with corporate farmers," said Todd L. Miller, executive director of the coastal federation. "But this shows that farmers may be in the same boat."

The Farmers Home Administration lends money to first-time farmers and established operators who cannot get credit elsewhere. The Center for Research in Journalism and Mass Communication at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill conducted the survey for the federation.

About 50 percent agreed or strongly agreed that corporate farms are causing overproduction of farm products, while 11 percent agreed or strongly agreed that "corporate farms have made it easier for me to make money."

About 53 percent of the respondents also agreed or strongly agreed that "big drainage and land clearing projects of corporate farms cause most of the environmental problems blamed on agriculture in this country."

Sixty-eight percent agreed that "farmers have been given a bad name because of the land clearing practices of a few major landowners."

Corporate "farm-swallowing" has not occurred on a large scale in North Carolina, the coastal federation said in a report accompanying its findings. The report says that's because the state's corporate farms largely have brought new land into production instead of buying up existing farms.

Corporate farms in a county such as Tyrrell — where more than half the cleared cropland is in corporate ownership and harvested cropland nearly tripled from 1962 to 1982 — have helped farmers by leasing out extra land, bringing in new jobs, and increasing the tax base, the report

Seaman Eulogized

ROCKY HOCK, N.C. (AP) — Michael Ray Wagner began the journey to his final resting place among America's war dead after clergymen assured grieving relatives and friends that the terrorists who took his life didn't defeat him.

"Unselfish service to others can turn even the utmost tragedy into victory," the Rev. Alfred Snipes said Tuesday during a funeral for Wagner, 30, a Naval petty officer 1st class. He and Army Chief Warrant Officer Kenneth V. Welch, 33, of Grand Rapids, Mich., were among at least nine people killed last Thursday when terrorists exploded a truck bomb outside the U.S. Embassy annex near Beirut.

More than 600 mourners crowded into rural Rocky Hock Baptist Church near Edenton where Wagner's father, the Rev. Donald Wagner, is pastor. Michael Wagner lived in Zebulon, 25 miles east of Raleigh.

Naval Master Chief Jack Henderson, who accompanied Wagner's body from Dover Air Force Base in Delaware, said a military graveside service and burial would take place today in Arlington National Cemetery near Washington, D.C.

Coltrane Faces Disbarment Bid

GREENSBORO (AP) — An Asheboro lawyer who was Randolph County Republican Party chairman for 19 years and is currently a member of the University of North Carolina Board of Governors has been ordered disbarred.

The order for disbarment of T. Worth Coltrane followed an investigation in charges that he engaged in unethical trust fund practices, said L. Thomas Lunsford II, trial attorney for the North Carolina State Bar.

Coltrane, reached at his Greensboro home Tuesday night, declined to comment on the disbarment proceedings or whether he will file a notice of appeal with the state bar.

TRIAL LAWYER — Howard Twiggs, a Raleigh attorney and member of the N.C. Academy of Trial Lawyers, said Tuesday clemency in capital punishment cases is not unusual. Twiggs made the comment during a discussion of efforts to have the death sentence commuted for Velma Barfield. (AP Laserphoto)

Trial Lawyer Says Clemency Not Unusual In N.C. History

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt should not be accused of second-guessing the judiciary if he decides to grant clemency to convicted killer Velma Barfield, a spokesman for a group of trial lawyers says.

"Despite perceptions to the contrary, clemency has often been exercised by North Carolina's governors and is a legitimate and proper responsibility of the state's chief executive," said Howard Twiggs, a Raleigh attorney and a member of the state Academy of Trial Lawyers, at a Tuesday news conference.

Twiggs said that 40 percent of the death sentences imposed since the turn of the century have been commuted by North Carolina governors.

Gov. Jim Hunt is considering a request from Mrs. Barfield's attorneys to block her scheduled Nov. 2 execution and allow her to live the rest of her life in prison. Alan Briggs, executive director of the academy, said his group is not taking a position on Mrs. Barfield's request but is trying to inform the public about clemency. He said his group is on record as opposing the death penalty.

Briggs said Hunt was given a memorandum from the Office of the Appellate Defender on clemency decisions by past governors. That report shows that North Carolina governors have granted clemency more often than the national average.

National statistics show commutations occurred in 20 percent to 25 percent of the cases where the death penalty was imposed compared to 40 percent of the time in North Carolina.

Twiggs quoted the report which showed that between 1909 and 1930, 49 percent of those sentenced to death in North Carolina had their sentences commuted to life in prison.

That number dwindled until there were an equal number of commutations and executions between 1944 and 1970.

Twiggs said clemency is meant to supercede laws written by legislators and legal interpretations by courts. He said the process for considering clemency is left to the governor, who also may set any conditions if he lifts the death sentence.

"Clemency by definition is meant to include compassion, humanity and mercy," Twiggs said.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices opened mixed today as the market continued to show a lack of direction.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials slipped 1.88 to 1,205.28 in the opening half-hour, nearly erasing its moderate gain on Tuesday.

Advances and declines were nearly even on the New York Stock Exchange.

The market's recent mixed showing reflects investors' uncertainty as to how much the economy's expansion is slowing, and hence the outlook for interest rates, corporate earnings and stock prices, some brokers said.

The result has been what Wall Streeters describe as "choppy trading," where the confusion precludes a broad-based market move in either direction.

Dana Stewart, an analyst for Bear Stearns & Co., said Tuesday that the market was "milling around in a holding position as it works off the excesses of the rally that started in late July."

Active NYSE-listed issues today included General Motors, down 1/4 to 78 1/4; Beatrice, up 1/8 to 26 3/4; PepsiCo, up 1/4 to 43 1/4, and Standard of Indiana, up 1/4 to 59 1/4.

On Tuesday, the Dow Jones industrials rose 2.10 to 1,207.16.

Declines led advances 4 to 3 on the NYSE, whose composite index inched up 0.09 to 95.47.

Big Board volume totaled 86.25 million shares, up from 76.38 million in the previous session.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index slipped 0.58 to 214.20.

IBM Attempts Big Expansion

NEW YORK (AP) — IBM Corp. said today it agreed to purchase Rolm Corp., a leading maker of telephone switching equipment, in an exchange of $1.27 billion in securities.

The purchase is subject to approval by Rolm stockholders and clearance of federal antitrust laws.

"This is a major shocker," George Elling of the investment firm Oppenheimer & Co. said Tuesday, after International Business Machines confirmed it was engaged in merger talks with Rolm. "IBM is telling us that as a $40 billion-plus company, they now want to be a major factor in almost all facets of the technology industry."

The merger would give IBM, the world's largest computer maker, a major boost in the industrywide drive toward combining the transmission of voice and data into a single system.

Two Men Held In 3 Break-Ins

Pitt County Sheriff's Department deputies arrested two men early today on breaking and entering charges in connection with three break-ins, Sheriff Ralph Tyson said.

Tyson said Herbert Isaac Williams, 25, of 24 Play Meadows, and Fredrick Carl Wilson, 24, of Ayden, were taken into custody about 3:15 a.m. by officers who found them under the Belvoir Elementary School, where they set off an alarm after entering a window.

In addition to the school break-in, Tyson said the two were charged with breaking into Carolina Model Homes, where a number of checks were taken, and the Child Care Center, where $40 in cash was stolen. The Child Care Center and Carolina Model Homes are both on N.C. 11 north, at the Greenville city limits.

Tyson, who said Williams and Wilson were placed under $3,000 bond each, said the property taken in the break-ins was recovered.

Missile Plea

GREIFSWALD, East Germany (AP) — East German Protestant churchmen have criticized the deployment of Soviet missiles in Eastern Europe and are urging Communist authorities to find other ways to defend the Soviet bloc.

In a statement issued at the end of the five-day annual East German Protestant synod, the churchmen said they could "simply not settle for" the Warsaw Pact's deployment of more missiles in response to NATO's stationing of U.S.-built medium-range missiles in Western Europe.

Grandma Knew It All The Time ...

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Grandma was right when she prescribed hot chicken soup for the common cold, according to the Mayo Clinic.

The Mayo Clinic Health Letter on Tuesday gave a strong endorsement to the traditional remedy, saying the soup should be homemade with spices, noodles and other ingredients.

"Many physicians continue to regard the reputed healing effects as either a hoax or, at best, an unproven remedy," but "we believe chicken soup can be an excellent treatment for uncomplicated head colds and other viral respiratory infections," said the letter.

"Although the pharmaceutical industry makes huge profits from (many different) cold remedies ... aspirin and hot beverages seem most effective in reducing symptoms. ... Among hot beverages, we know of nothing better than leisurely sipping a bowl of steaming chicken soup."

The Mayo Clinic Health Letter specifically recommends "the homemade variety with chicken parts, vegetables, herbs, spices and noodles."

The letter advises that chicken soup is inexpensive, widely available and "side effects are few, with the notable exception of weight gain if it is used excessively."

Peace ...

Last week, Egypt's foreign minister, Esmat Abdel-Meguid, said Egypt would soon launch an initiative that "aims at crystallizing new ideas that would have the approval of all parties and on the basis of which they would participate in the negotiations."

He discussed such prospects this week in New York with Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir. It was the highest level contact between the two nations in more than two years, and coincided with meetings in Tel Aviv between Peres and Egypt's acting ambassador to Israel.

Other top level meetings this week included these: —The series of talks involving Murphy, who met with Syrian President Hafez Assad, Peres and Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin of Israel, and President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt, discussing — among other topics — arrangements for an Israeli troop withdrawal from south Lebanon.

—A meeting Tuesday in New York between Shamir and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, the first such session in three years.

An Israeli spokeswoman said Gromyko renewed a Soviet proposal for an international conference, involving the superpowers and the PLO, on the Middle East. Both the United States and Israel have rejected a similar idea for a U.N.-sponsored forum. But the spokeswoman, Judith Varnai-Dranger, called Tuesday's meeting significant, saying it represented resumed dialogue between the Soviet Union and Israel, which do not have formal diplomatic relations.

Western and Egyptian sources said Tuesday that Mubarak's government hopes Israel will set a date for withdrawing its troops from south Lebanon, enabling Egypt's ambassador to return to his post in Tel Aviv, which he left after the 1982 Israeli invasion of Lebanon.

The sources said Mubarak hopes the Reagan administration, eager for diplomatic success in the Middle East, will put pressure on any elements in Israel's coalition government which might be reluctant to bargain away occupied territory in return for peace.

Diplomatic sources believe Jordan, Egypt and some elements in the PLO are anxious to reach an agreement with the Israelis before expanded Jewish settlements in occupied territory kill the chance for regaining a portion of the West Bank for the Arabs.

Syria has opposed any bid by Hussein to negotiate with Israel and last year spearheaded a revolt against Arafat by more radical PLO members.

Sentences Cut

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — An appeals court reduced the sentences of two Swissair pilots convicted of manslaughter in a fatal jetliner fire and gave the defendants the option of paying fines instead of serving time.

The court ruled that Capt. Fritz Schmutz, 48, could pay off his four-year sentence by paying a fine equivalent to $10,000, and co-pilot Martin Deuringer, 38, could substitute a fine worth $5,000 for his two-year sentence.

Panthers Hope Week Off Helpful

By JIMMY DuPREE
Reflector Sports Writer

For a young North Pitt football team with a new head coach, an open date three games into the season may have been just the prescription for improvement on an 0-3 mark.

"I believe it helped us a lot," Panther Coach Larry Bolger said. "I like it right here; we still had a lot to put in as far as our offensive and defensive systems are concerned. At least we've got our package in there now; we'll reemphasize it again this week."

"Our whole philosophy during the first three games was to get ready for the conference schedule."

The Panthers open their Eastern Carolina 3-A Conference slate this Friday at Greene Central. Ayden-Grifton opens its Eastern Carolina pursuit when it hosts Southern Nash, while Farmville Central entertains West Craven in a non-conference matchup.

In other area games, Chocowinity hosts Columbia, Jamesville entertains Creswell, Roanoke travels to Plymouth, Washington is at Edenton and Williamston visits Bertie.

North Pitt has been shut out twice in its three outings, but Bolger thinks inserting the remainder of the offensive schemes will help the Panthers.

"They all look a lot sharper," Bolger said. "We've finished putting in the passing game and hope to complete the running game this week."

"We've had people out of position on various plays; we're all learning together. We gave them last Friday off, but they were in full gear all (last week). They're enthusiastic, and I think things will begin to happen."

"I believe we'll be able to move the ball more. We've moved it in the past — we just haven't put the ball in the end zone."

Greene Central has posted a 1-3 record thus far, but the Rams were hampered by the loss of running back Anthony Thompson who transferred to Wilson Fike. Bolger said the Rams will be a tough test for a still shaky defense.

"Their offense fits right into our defensive philosophy," Bolger said. "The run a split-back veer, and I hope (our players) realize what's forming around them. We've got to stop their give and the option play. Our defensive secondary is still questionable against the pass."

"Defensively, we picked up on a couple of things that appeared fairly obvious. We'll have to work against their weaknesses."

AYDEN-GRIFTON

The Chargers enjoyed a 26-6 victory over North Lenoir of the Coastal 3-A Conference last Friday, but Ayden-Grifton opens its Eastern Carolina Conference schedule this week hosting Southern Nash.

"North Lenoir beat up on us a little," Charger Coach Dwight Tart said. "Shannon Peede has an ankle injury, and Maurice Berry got a chipped bone in his elbow. We did a lot of play shuffling, so they were both very important as far as our gameplan."

"I hope some of the guys will rise to the occasion to take up the slack."

Nonetheless, Tart was impressed with the way the Chargers dominated North Lenoir.

"I thought North Lenoir had a pretty respectable football team," Tart said. "They certainly were not as weak as I was lead to believe."

"The way our line blocked was probably the best of the year. Our defense rose to the occasion after the first couple of series (by North Lenoir). We had some quick turnovers that put them on the field in a hurry."

"I feel like when we get inside the 20, we've should be able to score. We haven't turned the ball over much, but we fumbled the opening kickoff against North Lenoir."

"I feel like Southern Nash is going to be a real test for us. We won't be able to make mistakes."

The Charger backfield is led by Kelvin Harris, but Mike Dixon rolled up 149 yards on 14 carries against North Lenoir. Southern Nash will use a "33" defense to try to stop the Ayden-Grifton ground game, according to Tart.

"Mike Dixon showed he can be a threat up the middle, and that will help Kelvin even more than his blocking has," Tart said. "They can't key on Kelvin, so we're hoping that will open things up."

"Offensively, Southern Nash will be wide open; they'll do what it takes to win."

"We'll try to run the football, but we'll throw when we have a chance. We didn't throw much at all last week because the running game worked so well."

FARMVILLE CENTRAL

"Conley played a very hard-fought ballgame," Farmville Coach Dixon Sauls said of his Jaguars' 16-0 victory over the Vikings. "We had a breakdown in execution; their success at the end of the game (worried me). They had receivers open against our prevent defense. I'd like to see us execute that better."

"We've stopped ourselves more than anything else. We still need to improve execution of the passing game. If we would be mentally alert and execute, we'd have a balanced attack."

The Jaguars close out their non-conference schedule this week against West Craven of the Coastal Conference. The Eagles are 4-0 after whipping Pamlico 30-0.

"They have excellent size throughout their lineup," Sauls said. "They run the wishbone, power offense. They prefer not to pass, but they have the ability to pass if you give it to them."

"I expect another aggressive football game. They'll outweigh us, and we're not a small football team. I think we will be very even; maybe a mistake will decide the game."

The Eagles are led by junior tight end Maurice Jones (6-6, 238), running back Jessie Campbell (5-10, 190) and fullback-middle linebacker Paul Moore.

"We've shut out every opponent — at least our first team defense has," Sauls said. "We've started to develop a sense of pride on defense; that's certainly the center of our strength."

The Jaguars will have to do without the services of reserve running back Gary Moore who will be out up to two weeks with an injury suffered against Conley. Jackie Hardy will move up to the third back slot to fill the vacancy.

"The only reason (Moore) wasn't playing more is because Jeff Vail is playing so well," Sauls said. "We still need to be more consistent on offense and develop a passing attack if we're going to be a championship caliber football team."

D.H. CONLEY

The Vikings have a week away from the gridiron after their first loss of the season, but Coach Donnie Bunn said it will be anything but a vacation.

"I think it's good for us; we've been working them pretty hard," Bunn said. "We need to get our injuries healed; there's nothing major, just bumps and bruises."

The Vikings practiced Monday but were off Tuesday before returning for two more days of workouts. The coaches will use Friday to scout future opponents.

"We felt like we needed to get everyone in Monday to go over game film and other things," Bunn said.

"They're not really leg weary, but mentally I think they needed some time off. I was impressed by our conditioning against Farmville Central."

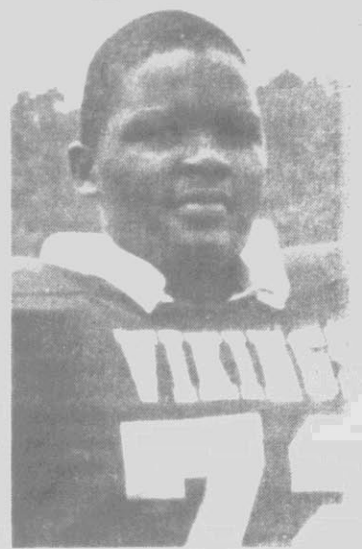

"Being that we played two games last week, now we have a week off before playing Ayden-Grifton and heading into the conference schedule."

The Jaguars had shut out their first three opponents before losing to Farmville Central. Conley moved the ball late in the game but was forced to punt from deep inside Viking territory most of the night.

"I was hoping we could make more things happen in terms of our offensive line," Bunn said. "We didn't pick up our blocking assignments in the first half. We made adjustments, but we didn't take advantage of the gap they were giving us until late in the game."

"You've got to give our kids credit; they never gave up until time ran out."

"I wish we had had more opportunity to pass to open things up. We'll work on fundamentals this week; work on pass plays. We've got some good receivers, we just have to get them the ball."

Emory: Victory Important To 1984 Pirate Gridders

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Ed Emory celebrated his East Carolina Pirates' victory over Georgia Southern last Saturday afternoon in Ficken Stadium, calling it an important victory for the school at his regular Tuesday press luncheon.

"It was a very important win for us. It gives us a chance to grow and improve. It was an important game and this Saturday's is just as important."

The Pirates travel to Raleigh this Saturday night to face N.C. State in Carter-Finley Stadium at 7 p.m.

"The people at Georgia Southern have done a great job," Emory continued. "(Tracy) Ham is as good a quarterback as any I've played against on that given day. And although he's done it in the past, we didn't think they'd pass as much against us Saturday."

Ham put the ball into the air 52 times, completing 26 for 403 yards.

"We shut their running game down and they passed and finally opened up the running game some because of (the passing). There's no way you can cover the entire field even with seven or eight defenders dropping off. (Georgia Southern) did a great job."

Emory said he was disappointed in the way his team put pressure on Ham. Although they did break containment on several occasions, they were never able to get to the scrambling quarterback. "Then, we got involved in pass defense and that helped open up the running game. What amazed me was that they threw the ball 52 times and didn't have a single holding penalty."

The coach did feel that his Pirates grew on defense through the experience. "Playing 103 snaps (on defense) is like playing two games. And I think the ending (with ECU having to hang on to win) will help us more than a blowout would have. Of course, I would have like to have had a few more scores."

Emory said he thought Calvin Adams played one of his best games in the defensive backfield, and that the entire secondary didn't do that bad. "The defensive ends didn't do that great a job, and too, some of it was due to Ham's abilities," Emory added that the nose guard was held out of the rush on Ham to protect against his outstanding abilities on the quarterback draw.

"Georgia Southern is the type team that would make a good, good Southern Conference team," Emory said. "They have a bunch of good kids who played hard."

Emory was greatly pleased with the quick start the Pirates got off to, scoring on three of their first four possessions behind the leadership of quarterback Darrell Speed. Speed was the third quarterback to start in four games for the Pirates, and led the team to three quick scores, passing for nearly 200 yards himself.

"He's improved a great deal, but he still has a great deal of improving to do," the coach said. "I'm also disappointed that we didn't get Ron Jones into the game. We need to get him playing time."

Emory added that Speed will again start against N.C. State.

"It was good to see (Tony) Baker run again," Emory said of the senior back who collected 59 yards on nine carries. "Reggie (Branch) ran hard too," he added. Baker was the leading rusher with 16 carries for 77 yards.

"We had better movement by the offensive line, but we still have a ways to go."

Emory was also pleased with the passing game, and is hopeful that it too will improve. "We have great receivers in (Ricky) Nichols, Henry Williams and Stefan Adams."

Still in all, Emory admitted, the Pirates must get better if they expect to be in the game with N.C. State on Saturday. "We'll have to play our best to win," Emory said.

Pair Tied In Senior Play

Cary's Anne Jones and Hendersonville's Buena Haile shared the lead in the North Carolina Seniors Women's Golf Association tournament, now underway at Brook Valley.

The 36-hole tournament got underway yesterday at Brook Valley and will conclude today.

Jones and Haile each carded a 79 on the first day's round to hold a one-shot lead over Mary Clay Faquin of Charlotte, who had an 80. Greenville's Jeanette Thomas had an 81 to be in fourth place after the first day's play.

A total of 110 golfers from across the state are participating in the tournament.

Royals Not Resting On Lead

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Kansas City Manager Dick Howser isn't expecting his sleep to improve, even though the Royals now lead the American League West by 1½ games over Minnesota.

"If you look at it realistically, we have a one-game lead," says Howser, whose team is one game ahead in the loss column with four to play. "We're planning on having to win every game. We'd like to get some help from somebody, but you can't count on it."

"Some funny things happen in this game."

The Royals defeated California 6-5 in 12 innings Tuesday night, making it three in a row over the Angels and five straight overall. That gave the Royals an additional game over Minnesota, which lost 8-4 in Chicago, and dropped the Angels 4½ back.

"I'll sleep tonight just like I did last night," Howser said. "fitfully."

Twins Manager Billy Gardner probably wasn't going to sleep any better, but he wasn't too dismayed by the loss.

"If Kansas City loses, we're in good shape, and if they don't, we're still in good shape," Gardner said before learning the outcome of the extra-inning contest in Kansas City.

The Royals came back to tie the score 5-5 in the ninth on an RBI hit by pinch-hitter Dane Iorg, who started the winning rally with a double off Curt Kaufman.

After the double, George Brett was walked intentionally, and two outs later, Balboni hit a rocket over the head of Angel left fielder Juan Beniquez. Balboni stopped at first with a single as he watched U.L. Washington, running for Iorg, score the winning run.

The Angels scored all five of their runs in the fifth inning.

Dan Quisenberry, 6-3, pitched four innings in his longest outing of the season for the victory.

Elsewhere in the AL, Detroit defeated Milwaukee 9-1, New York beat Baltimore 6-5, Boston clobbered Toronto 14-6, Oakland defeated Texas 17-5 and Cleveland beat Seattle

White Sox 8, Twins 4

Harold Baines hit a two-run homer in Chicago's seven-run second inning, and Tom Seaver, 15-10, worked 8 2-3 innings for his 288th career victory. The White Sox's big inning was at the expense of John Butcher.

"Anytime you give Seaver seven runs, he's going to be tough to beat," Butcher said. "But we got 10 hits and four runs off him."

Randy Bush's homer in the fourth inning cut Chicago's lead to 7-4, but Marc Hill homered for the White Sox in the fifth inning. Baines' homer was his 29th of the season.

Tigers 9, Brewers 1

Howard Johnson hit a grand slam homer as Detroit dealt Milwaukee the loss that clinched last place in the AL East for the Brewers. The Tigers, who already had clinched first place in the division, won their 102nd game behind the pitching of Randy O'Neal, who combined with four relievers on a six-hitter.

Johnson's homer was his 12th of the year and the first slam of his career. Lance Parrish, with No. 31, also homered for Detroit.

The Brewers had not finished last in the division since 1976.

Yankees 6, Orioles 5

Dave Winfield and Don Mattingly continued their race for the AL batting title as New York ended a four-game losing streak by beating the Orioles. Winfield went 2-for-4, scoring a pair of runs, to up his average one point to .342. Mattingly, who was 1-for-3, remained at .344.

The Yankees scored four runs in the fourth inning to tie the score 4-4, then went ahead in the fifth. Winfield walked, stole second and scored the tie-breaking run on a single by Toby Harrah.

Eddie Murray homered for the Orioles.

Red Sox 14, Blue Jays 6

Mike Easler homered and drove in five runs, and Jim Rice had four hits in an 18-hit attack that helped Boston bury Toronto. The Blue Jays hit three home runs — by George Bell, Cliff Johnson and Kelly Gruber.

Boston, still recovering from Manager Ralph Houk's announcement earlier in the day that he would retire at the end of the season, went behind 3-0 before scoring six runs in the fifth inning to beat Dave Stieb.

Wade Boggs had two hits in Boston's big inning, scoring once and driving in a run.

Rich Gedman homered for Boston in the second inning, and Easler's homer came in the eighth.

A's 7, Rangers 5

Oakland scored seven runs in the first two innings off Texas knuckleballer Charlie Hough, and Curt Young limited the Rangers to five hits over seven innings.

The A's scored four runs in the first on a walk and stolen base by Rickey Henderson, and singles by Dwayne Murphy, Bruce Bochte, Mike Davis, Mickey Tettleton and Donnie Hill. Dave Kingman drove in his 118th run of the season with a double in the Oakland's three-run second.

Dave Hostetler hit a three-run double for Texas in the eighth inning.

Indians 13, Mariners 5

Pat Tabler hit a grand slam home run and drove in six runs to pace Cleveland's 17-hit attack. Seattle rookie left-hander Mark Langston had a personal seven-game winning streak stopped, while the Indians ended a six-game losing string.

Tabler also drove in two runs with a bases-loaded double in the second inning, then hit his grand slam in the fifth as Cleveland took an 11-2 lead.

Rose Runners Bow To Bruins

STANTONSBURG — Rose High School's boys' cross-country team fell for the third straight time yesterday, bowing to Wilson Beddingfield, 29-28.

Jimmy Bryant led all the runners with a first place time of 19:45. He was followed by James Ormond in third place, John Evans in sixth, Gil Gardner in seventh and Clay Deanhardt in 11th.

Rose returns home on Tuesday to host Manteo, Washington and D.H. Conley in a meet at River Park North at 4 p.m.

Conley Wins; Rose Loses First

BETHEL — Patty Keeter rattled off 15 service points in the second game of the second match to lead D.H. Conley to a sweep over North Pitt Tuesday in high school volleyball action.

Conley won the first match 15-4, 15-0, as Darby Fulford had 11 points on serve and Trellany Boyd nine. The Vikings rolled in the second match to a 15-2, 15-0 victory.

Lisa Mills led the Valkyries with eight hits including five effective, while Rhonda Jackson had four.

The loss drops North Pitt to 3-5 on the season, while the Pant-HERS host SouthWest Edgecombe and Southern Nash Tuesday.

Wilson Fike.....1

WILSON — Rose High School's girls' volleyball team split a pair of matches with Wilson Fike yesterday. The loss was the first for the Rampettes in eight matches this fall.

Rose took the opening match, 15-5, 12-15, 15-5. Suzanne Tadlock had seven straight points on serve for the Rampettes in the match. Fike led by six points in the second game of the match, then held off Rose after the Rampettes closed to within three.

In the second match, Fike won the first game, 15-6, but Rose came back to even things with a 15-8 win. Fike, however, won the final match, 15-3, to take the win.

Tadlock again had six straight points on serve, while Michelle Clark had three spikes and Karla Turner had two.

"This was the first time we've come up against competition as good as we were," Coach Kim Gruber said. "We never gave up but their enthusiasm was just a little too much for us."

Rose, now 7-1, travels to Northern Nash on Thursday.

Gr. Christian.....1

Falls Road won the first match 15-10, 15-7 to improve its record to 4-1.

Greenville Christian, now 1-5 on the season, hosts Friendship Academy Friday.

Czaja Wins Golf Event

RALEIGH — East Carolina's Chris Czaja fired a 54-hole total of 219 to capture the individual championship of the Wolfpack Invitational Golf Tournament yesterday.

The tournament, held at the Wake Forest Country Club, was won by Campbell with a 901 team total.

Czaja began the final day one stroke off the pace, but had a two-over-par 74 to finish three shot ahead of five others tied for second place. Mike Bradley was ECU's next highest finished with a 227, good for 20th place.

East Carolina finished fourth in the team standings with a 914 total. Old Dominion took second with a 906, followed by N.C. State's Red team at 912. Guilford tied East Carolina with a 914.

EC Volleyball Falls To VCU

RICHMOND — The East Carolina women's volleyball team dropped a dual match to Virginia Commonwealth last night.

The Lady Rams won the contest, 15-5, 15-6, as the Lady Pirates dropped their record to 1-4 on the season.

East Carolina takes on Methodist College on Thursday at 7 p.m. in Minges Coliseum in Greenville. All ECU volleyball matches are free to the public.

Rose Girls Rip Bruins

STANTONSBURG — Rose High School's girls' cross-country team remained unbeaten yesterday with a 20-43 victory over Wilson Beddingfield.

Kristin Michel led the Rose girls with a second place finish in a time of 23:55 over the 3.2 mile course. Rose took the next 12 places to limit Beddingfield to only the top spot in the top 14 places.

Sonja Anderson won the event with a time of 23:17. Anderson had transferred from Fike earlier this week.

Becky Thompson finished third for Rose in 24:59, followed by Lisa Pagel in fourth at 25:30, Kelly Jones, fifth in 25:40; Layne King, sixth in 26:15; Debbie Morrison, seventh in 26:41; Kristin Lane, eighth in 26:43; Gloria Gutterrez, ninth in 27:37; Leigh Caldwell, tenth in 27:45; Catherine Spencer, 11th in 29:15; Sarah Jones, 12th in 30:27; Michele Hunt, 13th in 33:31; and Becky Kirkland, 14th in 38:01.

Rose plays hot to Manteo, Washington and Conley on Tuesday.

ECU Kickers Fall To ODU

NORFOLK, Va. — East Carolina University's soccer team bowed to Old Dominion, 4-0, in a match played last night on the Monarch field.

The loss was the fifth straight for the winless Pirates, who travel to Methodist College on Saturday for a 2 p.m. match.

Details of the match were unavailable.

Rampant Kickers Record Fifth Win

STANTONSBURG — Rose High School's soccer team won its second straight Big East Conference match yesterday, downing Wilson Beddingfield, 3-1.

The Rampants pushed ahead in the first period when Jordy Smith scored his fifth goal of the year off an assist by Lewis Robbins. The score came at the ten minute mark and was the lone score of the half.

Rose came back six minutes into the second half to score what proved the winning goal as Jim Benedict scored off a corner kick.

Beddingfield got its lone goal off a penalty kick midway the half by Chris Hendricks.

The final Rose score came ten minutes later as Robbins connected from the corner, assisted by David Ely.

"We dominated play, but we didn't finish the play," Coach Will Wiberg said. "We outshot them 38-6, had one goal called back and six or seven hit the post. Their goalie, Kurt Jernigan had 23 saves, an outstanding effort."

Wiberg played 29 in the game, most of the team, and singled out the efforts of Hutton Cobb, Steve Childers and Scott Davis.

Rose returns to action on Thursday at Kinston. The Rampants are now 5-1 overall and 2-0 in league play.

Gr. Christian.....6
Falls Road.....5

ROCKY MOUNT — Derrick Leupen scored three goals and added an assist, but it took a shootout goal by Dan Andrews to lift Greenville Christian Academy to a 6-5 victory over Falls Road Tuesday in high school soccer action.

Leupen scored in the first period on assists by Paul Hollingsworth and Robin House, then Hollingsworth scored on an assist by Leupen.

Dan Griffin got Falls Road on the board before House rounded out the first half with a goal to put GCA ahead 4-1.

Griffin scored two more goals in the second half, and Sammy Cherry evened the score 4-4 late in regulation play.

Cherry scored first in the shootout, but Leupen evened the score 5-5 with his third goal before Andrews game-winning goal.

Greenville Christian, now 2-2, hosts Ridgecroft Thursday. Falls Road slipped to 1-3 with the loss.

Watson Worries About Watson

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Tom Watson stood in the locker room at the Fairway Oaks Country Club, intently studying the PGA Tour's money-winning list posted on the bulletin board.

"Everybody went by Tom (Kite), didn't they?" he mused.

"Now, I've got to worry about Denis Watson. He's, what, two points behind?" Tom Watson asked.

Two points it is. The Denis Watson, the on-rushing South African, who has won three times — including last week's rich Panasonic Las Vegas Invitational — suddenly trails his more famous and unrelated namesake by just two points on the complicated points list that determines the PGA Player of the Year.

And it was Denis Watson's sudden emergence as a challenger that prompted Tom Watson to make a last-minute entry into the $350,000 LaJet Classic which begins Thursday.

"I was in a wait-and-see situation. Now, it's play it by ear, week by week. Just see what it takes," said Tom Watson, like Denis Watson a three-time winner on the American Tour this season. With the season winding down to a close — only four official events remain after this week — Tom Watson has a total 60 points in the Player of the Year standings, including 20 for his position as the year's leading money-winner with $471,185.

"I really want to win it (Player of the Year) again," Tom Watson, who has achieved that designation five times and this season has a chance to become the first man to win the title six times, said. "I'll play what I need to in order to win it."

Denis Watson moved into second place in both the Player of the Year race (with 58 points) and on the money-winning list (with $405,924) after his big victory last week.

Denis Watson, who says he has had unpleasant allergy reactions in previous trips to Texas, is not playing either the LaJet or next week's Texas Open in San Antonio.

Kite, who, until last week, was second in the Player of the Year standings, also is skipping this event, which, historically, he has not played well. Kite, in second place on the money-winning list most of the season, dropped back to fifth. Calvin Peete and Craig Stadler, Kite's principal competitors in the Vardon Trophy standings for low stroke average, had foreign commitments this week and also are among the missing.

Pirates Top Camels, 7-2

The East Carolina men's tennis team rolled to a 7-2 victory over Campbell University in match played at the Minges Coliseum courts Tuesday.

The Pirates won every match except the top singles and doubles events to record their first victory of the season in four outings.

The ECU doubles tandem of David Turner and Greg Willis combined for their fourth consecutive win.

Staub's Homer Caps Mets' Rally

By BEN WALKER
AP Sports Writer

Rusty Staub, facing a big meeting with New York Mets Manager Dave Johnson and General Manager Frank Cashen, made the best possible preparation.

The 40-year-old Staub belted a two-run homer to cap a four-run rally in the bottom of the ninth inning Tuesday night to rally the Mets past the Philadelphia Phillies 6-4.

Today, Staub was to meet with Johnson and Cashen to discuss what he will be doing next season — and whether he will be back with the Mets.

"As much as I want him for next year, these things have to be worked out," Johnson said. "I have some young players to protect and Rusty understands it."

Added Johnson, "the meeting couldn't come at a better time as far as Rusty is concerned."

Staub, who has said he would like to return to the Mets, has been used almost exclusively as a pinch-hitter this year. He joined Ty Cobb as the only players in major-league history to hit home runs before their 20th birthday and after their 40th.

In other National League games, Pittsburgh downed Chicago 7-1, Houston blasted Los Angeles 12-6, San Francisco beat San Diego 4-3, St. Louis stopped Montreal 6-4, Atlanta defeated Cincinnati 4-2.

The Mets trailed 4-2 going into the ninth inning. But Hubie Brooks led off with a double and pinch-hitter Mookie Wilson followed with a triple to chase Tug McGraw, who was trying for his first save since 1982. Reliever Larry Andersen struck out pinch-hitter George Foster before Ron Hodges singled past a drawn-in infield.

"I don't know how he got it through," said Philadelphia Manager Paul Owens. "How'd he do it?"

Staub then belted his home run to right.

"I wasn't thinking about a homer, only an extra-base hit," Staub said. "I've learned through years of practice that if you try to lift the ball, you're dead."

Pirates 7, Cubs 1
Chicago Manager Jim Frey, whose team captured the NL East crown in Pittsburgh Monday night, gave his regulars a rest as none of the starters who played in the division-winning game appeared Tuesday night.

Pittsburgh's Jose DeLeon broke his nine-game losing slide by tossing a four-hitter. It was his first victory since July 12, a span of 13 starts.

DeLeon, 7-13, added an RBI-single while Jim Morrison and Doug Fobel hit two-run homers. Fobel, who entered the game with a .196 batting average, went 3-for-4.

Ron Hassey, batting cleanup for the Cubs, had three hits, including his second home run of the season.

Astros 12, Dodgers 6
Jose Cruz and Alan Ashby homered to send Los Angeles to its 82nd loss, giving the Dodgers their first sub-.500 season since 1979. It will be just their second losing since

Houston belted Orel Hershiser for five runs in the top of the second inning before the Dodgers' rat Pat Zachry, 5-6.

Kevin Bass had three doubles and Phil Garner went 4-for-5 to spark a 15-hit attack against six pitchers.

The Dodgers almost avoided the bruising when the start of the game was held up by rain for 25 minutes. Los Angeles went over the three-million mark in attendance despite drawing its smallest crowd of the season of 20,540.

Cardinals 6, Expos 4
Steve Braun reached a milestone while St. Louis teammate Bruce Sutter moved closer to another one.

Braun cracked a two-run, pinch-triple to spark a four-run rally in the fifth inning. It was the 100th career pinch-hit for Braun, who leads active major leaguers in that department.

Sutter relieved after Gary Carter's solo homer, his 26th, pulled host Montreal within 6-4 in the eighth. Sutter went on to record his 44th save and is one behind the major-league record set by Kansas City's Dan Quisenberry last year.

Braves 1, Reds 2
The score was tied 2-2 when Cincinnati starter Ron Robinson pulled a muscle in his right ribcage and had to leave the game with one out in the eighth.

The first batter Carl Willis faced was Brad Komminsk, who hit a line drive that skipped past center fielder Eddie Milner and rolled to the wall for an inside-the-park home run.

Chris Chambliss hit a sacrifice fly in the top of the ninth, and the game was then halted because of rain with visiting Atlanta still batting. One hour, 17 minutes later, the game was called.

Reds player-manager Pete Rose went 2-for-4 and now needs 100 hits to pass Ty Cobb as baseball's all-time hit leader.

Giants 4, Padres 3
Fran Mullins hit his second home run of the season, a two-run shot during a three-run sixth inning, to lead San Francisco. The third run of the inning scored when winning pitcher Mike Krukow bounced into a double play.

Krukow, 11-12, got relief help from Greg Minton, who earned his 19th save. Tim Lollar, 11-13, took the loss.

Bulldogs' Rally 'Typical'

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

It was, you might say, a typical Vince Dooley game.

With five minutes left in the first half against Clemson, the Bulldogs had turned the ball over three times on interceptions; had started their first seven possessions with poor field position at their 20-, 20-, 14-, 30-, 10-, 34- and 12-yard lines; interfered with a fair catch of a punt that gave Clemson the ball at the Georgia 27 and missed a chip-shot 26-yard field ... yet trailed only 10-6.

And although the Bulldogs did fall behind 20-6 at halftime, they rallied to defeat second-ranked Clemson 26-23 on Kevin Butler's 60-yard field goal with 11 seconds remaining.

The "experts" said Georgia would fall apart last year after Herschel Walker jumped ship, but the Dawgs went 10-1-1 in '83. And the victory over Clemson gave them a 2-0 record and moved them up to 12th in this week's Associated Press poll, a team which most observers consigned to a second-division finish in the Southeastern Conference and which even the Georgia media guide said suffered graduation losses "so severe, Georgia coaches are ... just hoping Vince Dooley's most challenging rebuilding job can turn out a competitive unit by September."

Dooley has become something like Bear Bryant, his predecessor as dean of SEC coaches, in winning games no one expects him to win and in crying the blues about what next week's opponent might do to his Dawgs. You don't have to go back beyond January's 10-9 upset of second-ranked Texas in the Cotton Bowl. Two Georgia drives stalled in the fourth quarter but the Bulldogs got the break Dooley was looking for when Texas, leading 9-3, tumbled a punt at its 23-yard line. John Lastinger's 17-yard run and Butler's conversion enabled them to pull it out.

In the 1983 season alone, Georgia held on to defeat UCLA 19-8 when Charlie Dean raced 65 yards with an interception with 18 seconds left. The Dawgs rallied for 10 points in the final nine minutes to tie Clemson 16-16. Terry Hoage broke up a pass in the end zone with just seconds remaining to preserve a 20-13 triumph over Vanderbilt.

Houk Retires From Bosox

BOSTON (AP) — Haywood Sullivan says it was "the best decision I made since I've been here" when he hired Ralph Houk to manage Boston. Now the Red Sox' co-owner is faced with another big decision: choosing a replacement for Houk.

Houk, baseball's oldest manager at age 65, announced Tuesday he will retire at the end of this season "to try to enjoy myself and have my wife enjoy herself a little bit while you're still able to do it."

Houk, who began his baseball career 45 years ago as a catcher in the New York Yankees' organization and has managed the Yankees and Detroit Tigers, said that he enjoyed his four years in Boston and that it was very difficult for him to retire.

The Red Sox are locked in a battle with New York and Baltimore for third place in the American League East and the temptation to stay with a team that figures to be a pennant contender next season was great, he said. But, he added, it didn't outweigh family considerations.

Sullivan, a Red Sox owner since 1978, said he tried "every way possible" to change Houk's mind but "you have to respect him and frankly, at times, just give up."

Now Sullivan must try to find the 36th manager in the history of one of the American League's original franchises.

Speculation has included such names as managers John McNamara of California and Bobby Cox of Toronto, former Baltimore manager Earl Weaver and Carl Yastrzemski, who retired from the Red Sox after last season. McNamara is a friend of Sullivan's. Cox's contract expires at the end of the season but said before Tuesday night's game with Boston that he hoped to re-sign soon with the Blue Jays.

Sullivan declined to name possible candidates.

"We'll look for someone who can win and who has the qualities Ralph has," Sullivan said. "You start grabbing books. You start grabbing your reports. You start thinking of your friends. You start thinking of people who have been fired."

He said he had no deadline for selecting a new manager.

"It's going to be very difficult to find somebody who can do better," Sullivan said.

During the winter before Houk's first season here, the team lost Carlton Fisk, Fred Lynn and Rick Burleson to free agency or in trades. Houk set about rebuilding the club which, today, is made up of fewer than half the players who were on it when he arrived.

He managed Detroit for five years, leaving in 1978 after the Tigers were on the way up with talented young players such as Lou Whitaker and Alan Trammell. He leaves Boston with a power-packed lineup and a strong, youthful pitching staff that includes Roger Clemens, Dennis Boyd, Al Nipper, Bruce Hurst and Bobby Ojeda.

"I think we have the best ballclub since I've been here and think it has a chance to go all the way next year," Houk said.

"It's getting tougher every year to travel and pack up and leave. It's getting harder on my family. I also think it's time for some younger fellow to take over and give the town the type of club it deserves," he added.

"I hope the next manager has the

Grandson Of Buffalo Bill To Visit Site Of WWII Surrender

By EARLEEN F. TATRO
Associated Press Writer

CODY, Wyoming (AP) — William Cody, the grandson of Buffalo Bill, is heading to Europe to try to find the German army officer who accepted his surrender of 9,000 American soldiers at the Battle of the Bulge 40 years ago.

Cody, now 71, plans to retrace his journey as a prisoner of war from Saint Vith in the Ardennes Forest of Belgium to the Bavarian villages where the Nazis sent captured Allied soldiers.

"I want to go back to the battlefield. I just want to look at it from the standpoint of not having to worry about a bullet flying around," Cody said. "I want to show my grandkids where I surrendered."

The surrender is a memory that nags at Cody, for it was the second largest surrender in the history of the U.S. Army. Only at Corregidor, a World War II battle zone half a world away, did more U.S. troops surrender.

Tall, thin and sporting a white mustache and a tuft of beard in the same style worn by his legendary grandfather, Cody is a dead ringer for the old Wild West army scout, buffalo hunter and international showman. Like Buffalo Bill, he is a story teller in the grand fashion.

Stretched out on a rock beside Name-It Creek, his horse nibbling at the grass around the bend, William Garlow Cody reminisced about the radio station he founded and ran until he got bored with it, his years on the road in boots and buckskins as a huckster for children's B-B guns, the past 14 years of running a dude ranch with his wife, Barbara, outside the town founded and named by his grandfather — and the young German lieutenant.

"He spoke perfect English, absolutely perfect English. More than that, he was an officer and a gentleman, all the way through," Cody recalled. "His senior officer was a major, but it was the lieutenant who accepted the surrender because his English was better. I was the executive officer of the 2nd Battalion, and about 12 of us were sent out on a patrol to negotiate the surrender."

The surrender came on Dec. 16, 1944, a foggy day when the German army took advantage of the weather and total surprise to push deep into Belgium, denting the Allies' line in a sort of bulge. This counterattack by the Germans at the Ardennes Forest would go down in American history books as "The Battle of the Bulge."

"There were two regiments, the 422nd and the 423rd, caught behind German lines between Saint Vith (Belgium) and Auv (a few miles to the east in Germany)," Cody said. "So we were sent out to the Germans to negotiate a surrender. There were about 50-60 Germans at this artillery base, and the forest was full of American soldiers who were cut off about 9,000 of them. I don't think the Germans had any idea how many of us were trapped there, and if they'd known and fired into that forest, well..."

Cody never learned the name of the German lieutenant who accepted the young American major's surrender, but he remembers his face and is convinced he would still recognize the man despite the passage of four decades.

"He was blond. He had blue eyes," Cody said. "He was in his early to mid 20s, about 5-foot-9. His English was flawless. He told me he'd been educated in England. He was regular army, not SS. There has to be someone who will know. How many lieutenants who spoke perfect English could have been in that place at that time?"

Mrs. Cody, who helps her husband run the Bill Cody Western Ranch Resort 25 miles east of Yellowstone National Park, has written to West German veterans' organizations in an effort to find the lieutenant, but no clues have surfaced.

"His name was never mentioned in dispatches," said Mrs. Cody. "We have found out that they were from the Wehrmacht's 62nd Division and the 18th Volksgrenadier, but apparently this 18th Volksgrenadier was formed from various other units and soon dissolved after the German surrender and no one seems to know how to find anyone who belonged to it."

If the German lieutenant is still alive, he probably has no idea the man who surrendered to him is Buffalo Bill's grandson.

In those days, Bill Cody was William Cody Garlow, Harvard Law School graduate, son of Buffalo Bill's daughter, Irma Cody Garlow. After the war, Bill Garlow changed his last name to Cody to perpetuate the name, for Buffalo Bill had no sons who lived past childhood.

Bill and Barbara Cody plan to arrive in Saint Vith on Oct. 4 to start retracing Bill's journey as a POW.

Church Festival Planned Sunday

The East Carolina University chapter of The American Choral Directors Association will sponsor a Church Music Festival at 7 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 30, at Immanuel Baptist Church, 1101 S. Elm Street. The festival is free and open to the public.

More than 100 musicians from Greenville and surrounding area churches will take part. Guest clinician will be Jerry Cribbs, choral director at Hoggard High School, Wilmington. He has conducted church choirs for the past 15 years in several communities, including the First Baptist Church in Winterville.

A three hour Sunday afternoon rehearsal will be held to acquaint the singers with three choral pieces to be presented in the 7 p.m. concert.

Host minister for the service will be Rev. Hugh Burlington of Immanuel Baptist Church. The guest liturgist will be Rev. John Price, rector of St. Timothy's Episcopal Church.

In addition, several instrumentalists from the East Carolina University School of Music will perform in the festival, and Patricia Peralton of the ECU Department of Dance has choreographed a liturgical dance which will be accompanied by players of flutes, organ and percussion.

The Adult Choir from Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, under the direction of Jerry Jolley, will present an introit during the service. Special music will also be provided by The Sanctuary Bells, the advanced handbell choir of Gordon Street Christian Church of Kinston, under the direction of Mrs. Joanne Heath.

Hospitality House

WASHINGTON, N.C. — Hospitality House, WITN-TV's variety show, takes a step back in time when hostess Kay Currie talks to Roy Taylor of Wilson, author of a new regional book.

The weekly TV show, for most of the year aired at noon Sundays, is currently being broadcast on Saturday afternoons. This Saturday Hospitality House will be seen over channel 7 from 2 to 2:30 p.m.

Taylor, early in life a sharecropper, later a newspaper editor, talks about his recently published book, "Sharecroppers: The Way We Really Were," which reflects life on eastern North Carolina farms in the 1920s and 1930s. The book is a compilation of 106 "Looking Backwards" column that appeared over a number of years in The Wilson Daily Times newspaper.

Other guests on Saturday's show will be Dr. Keith Seaforth, chairman of the Kinston Street Fair and Vanessa Lee, coordinator of the event whose theme is "Heritage Rediscovered," sponsored by the Kinston Arts Council.

How They Voted

WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Sept. 13-19.

HOUSE

INSANITY — By a vote of 225 for and 171 against, the House failed to achieve the two-thirds majority needed to pass a bill to limit the use of the insanity defense in federal criminal trials.

A key feature of the measure (HR 3336) was to shift the burden of proof to defendants. Presently, the prosecution must prove the accused is legally sane.

Following John Hinckley's acquittal on insanity grounds after he shot President Reagan, there has been overwhelming congressional sentiment for narrowing or abolishing the defense.

However, this vote reflected election-year posturing more than it did genuine concern about the issue.

It was another example of Congress letting excessive partisan bickering impede problem-solving.

A two thirds majority was required because the Democratic leadership arranged for the bill to be debated under a short-cut procedure that prohibited floor amendments.

This prompted many conservatives who favored reform to oppose the bill. They complained they were denied a chance to offer amendments to further restrict or abolish the insanity defense.

The Democratic leadership said they had to resort to the short-cut procedure because of the lateness of the congressional session. But Republicans noted the bill had cleared the Judiciary Committee as early as November, 1983.

Members voting no generally wanted open floor debate on re-

North Carolina representatives voting yes were Walter Jones, D-1; Charles Britt, D-6; Charles Rose, D-7; W.G. Hefner, D-8, and James Clarke, D-11.

Those voting no were Tim Valentine, D-2; Charles Whitley, D-3; Ike Andrews, D-4; Stephen Neal, D-5, and James Broyhill, R-10.

James Martin, R-9, did not vote.

PAIN — The House rejected, 55 for and 355 against, a bill (HR 5290) to legalize heroin for terminal cancer patients suffering excruciating pain.

Under a four-year trial program, the Department of Health and Human Services was to have supervised manufacture and distribution of the pain-killer. England has a similar program.

Supporter Henry Waxman, D-Calif., said "some patients ... are not being relieved of their agony by the drugs that are now available."

Opponent Benjamin Gilman, R-N.Y., said heroin has "no significant advantage" over other pain-killers, and he warned that some heroin produced for cancer patients would be diverted to illegal use.

Those voting no were Walter Jones, Valentine, Whitley, Ike Andrews, Neal, Britt, Rose, Hefner, James Martin, Broyhill and Clarke.

SHARE — By a vote of 312 for and 94 against, the House approved the conference report on a bill (S 2463) to give states a four percent share of federal revenue from offshore oil and gas drilling leases.

If the Senate and President Reagan go along, some 30 coastal states will divide $300 million annually in Outer Continental Shelf revenues. Presently, states get a share only of federal revenue from drilling on their land. That split is 50-50.

Supporter Gerry Studds, D-Md., said the revenue-sharing will help states handle "ever-increasing environmental and economic demands on their coastal resources."

Members voting yes favored sharing federal offshore drilling royalties with coastal states.

North Carolina representatives voting yes were Walter Jones, Valentine, Whitley, Ike Andrews, Neal, Britt, Hefner and Clarke.

SENATE

BANKING — By a vote of 38 for and 56 against, the Senate rejected an amendment whose effect was to permit bank holding companies to market insurance within a given state.

The vote preserved language prohibiting state-chartered banks that are affiliated with bank holding companies from selling insurance either intrastate or nationwide.

It was a major victory for the insurance industry and a defeat for large banking operations such as Citicorp, which through a South Dakota affiliate has entered the insurance business.

The vote occurred during debate on a major banking deregulation bill (S 2851), later passed, that permits banks to sell a wide range of securities. A companion bill awaits floor action in the House.

Amendment supporter Jake Garn, R-Utah, said Congress lacks authority to restrict state-chartered banks.

North Carolina senators John East, R, and Jesse Helms, R, both voted yes.

TRADE — By a vote of 61 for and 36 against, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment to give steel and other American industries another weapon against foreign competition.

The amendment, opposed by the Administration, provided antitrust relief in federal court against foreign products that are "dumped" in the U.S. or manufactured under excessive subsidy.

Presently the major source of protection for U.S. industries is through administration remedies, such as convincing the International Trade Commission (a U.S. agency) and the president to go along with an unfair trade complaint.

The vote came during debate on an omnibus tariff bill (HR 3398) that was headed for final passage and conference with the House.

John Danforth, R-Mo., who voted to kill the amendment, said the judicial remedy would invite foreign governments to take similar action against U.S. exporters.

Arlen Specter, R-Pa., said Congress should disregard "foreign policy considerations" and recognize that "the courts are where we go for justice in this country ..."

Senators voting no wanted federal courts to protect U.S. industries against foreign competition proven to be unfair.

Anti-Crime Bills Put On Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A parliamentary "coup" by House Republicans that revived most of President Reagan's anti-crime package confronted Democrats with a vote that was "very, very difficult to dodge."

The anti-crime measures were added to an omnibus money bill by a 243-166 vote Tuesday night, on a GOP motion that left shocked Democrats with two choices: support Reagan or oppose crime bills with an election approaching.

Only hours before, Democratic leaders had won a 218-174 procedural vote that kept the crime provisions out of the catchall money bill — and appeared to doom them for the year.

The overall bill passed 316-91 and went to the Senate.

The anti-crime provisions were identical to a 46-part bill that passed the Senate 91-1 in February. But House Democratic leaders including Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. and Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr. ignored major parts of the package and substituted their own program.

The Reagan measures would eliminate parole in federal cases and allow the imprisonment of dangerous defendants awaiting trial in federal court. They would provide for more uniform sentences and place the burden in insanity defense cases on the defense. Drug dealers would face stiffer fines and loss of their assets.

Rep. Dan Lungren, R-Calif., who offered the motion to include the Reagan package in the money bill, said the turnaround was possible because the second attempt was "a straight up or down vote" on the crime measures — not a procedural vote.

"Members couldn't have explained" a vote against crime legislation to their constituents, Lungren said. "They would find it very, very difficult to dodge."

Reagan and Attorney General William French Smith have criticized the Democratic leadership for not voting on his program.

Democratic "members were running for cover, it's a political season," said Rep. William J. Hughes, D-N.J., chairman of the crime subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee.

"There's no question it's a coup for Republicans," he said. "Members were taking a lot of heat over the crime issue. It was an opportunity to register a vote on crime."

Ties Challenged

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — The United States has broken the foundations of its military alliance with New Zealand and Australia by pushing Japan to rearm, a top New Zealand official says.

Sir Wallace Rowling, a former prime minister who will be New Zealand's new ambassador to Washington, said the ANZUS alliance was formed after World War II as a defense against possible Japanese rearmament. But the United States in recent years has been urging Japan to expand its military forces, he said.

"If ever there was a denial of ANZUS, that's it," Rowling said.

Democrats Skeptical Of Reagan Farm Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A skeptical House panel, reacting to President Reagan's farm credit relief announcement, says farmers could have had help a year ago — if the administration had not turned down congressional initiatives.

"That the administration chose to announce a new credit program weeks before an election strikes me as a bit cynical," said Rep. Ed Jones, D-Tenn., chairman of the Agriculture credit subcommittee.

"I have been particularly displeased with the administration's opposition to emergency credit legislation ... passed by the previous Congress and the current one by overwhelming bipartisan margins."

Jones referred to two bills that would have provided for rescheduling of government farm loans to producers in financial difficulty, similar to a provision in the credit relief package Reagan offered last week.

"Had either of these bills been enacted in a timely fashion, thousands of farmers would still be in business who have now been liquidated," Jones told Agriculture Undersecretary Frank Naylor and Farmers Home Administration chief Charles Shuman.

Rep. Richard Durbin, D-Ill., questioned Naylor about how many farmers actually would get help under the announced program, which also includes $630 million to help guarantee existing commercial farm loans. Naylor said it will be a small fraction of the 20,000 or so farmers now in serious financial trouble, but said he could not be more specific.

"How do we know, Mr. Naylor, that this isn't symbolic or token?" he asked, reflecting the skepticism of the Democrats who dominate the panel.

Naylor replied that the credit package was "the most extensively developed program I've ever participated in" and was drafted by the best minds in the banking and farm sectors.

Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan., called the package similar to "a lot of things this committee tried to plead and cajole you to do these past couple of years. It looks like you've done a 360-degree turnaround."

But Naylor defended the timing of Reagan's announcement, saying credit help was only recently made necessary because of drought conditions this summer that will deal a blow to heavily leveraged farmers. And he said the Reagan program goes beyond earlier congressional proposals because it includes the guarantees for commercial loans, not just relief for those with FmHA loans.

Others on the panel used the appearance by Naylor and Shuman to press them on the propriety of a $400,000 emergency loan made by FmHA this year to John W. Curry of Galesburg, Ill., a land speculator and business partner of Agriculture Secretary John Block.

The loan came as smaller farmers were complaining that they were being denied loans of one-tenth that size because of lack of collateral. Curry had only to pledge his 1984 soybean and corn crop as security for the loan.

"The loan was properly made, he was eligible and the collateral and repayment were there," said Shuman.

He reiterated the department's contention that there could have been no favoritism shown Curry, who has 13 farms in Iowa, Missouri and Illinois and who has joined with Block in ventures in Illinois and Minnesota.

"Secretary Block had no knowledge of that loan. We expect that the loan will be paid in full. The loan was appropriate," Shuman said under sometimes sharp questioning.

But Rep. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, pointed out that Curry's was the only disaster loan of its size made in Illinois this year at subsidized interest rates: 5 percent for the first $100,000 and 8 percent for the balance.

And he said that one bank which had denied Curry a loan — FmHA borrowers must prove they cannot get credit through commercial sources — turned around and loaned him money after the government loan had been approved.

Shuman did concede that "there is some confusion in our regulations" about how much collateral is required for FmHA loans and said he understood how the Illinois situation could make farmers denied loans angry.

"The policy varies from state to state ... it does have some inconsistencies in it, and we're working to eliminate those inconsistencies," Shuman said.

Bridge Dynamited

HUANCAYO, Peru (AP) — Maoist guerrillas of the Shining Path rebel movement dynamited a railroad bridge near this central state capital, cutting train service to Lima, police report.

Police said there were no injuries in the attack on the bridge across the river Yacus about 25 miles north of Huancayo. A spokesman for the state railroad monopoly said service on the line would be out for at least four days.

Hazardous Waste Bill Nears OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — An estimated 130,000 small businesses — ranging from the neighborhood dry cleaners to the corner gas station — could be covered by new federal hazardous waste regulations under a bill moving toward final approval in Congress.

A House-Senate conference committee on Tuesday agreed to the small business regulation provision, a key element in the legislation designed to close loopholes that allow millions of tons of hazardous waste to escape regulation each year.

Work on the bill, a rewrite of the nation's principal toxic waste disposal law, was continuing today and was expected to extend into Thursday.

The Environmental Protection Agency now does not regulate hazardous wastes until a business generates 2,200 pounds per month, an amount one firm in the field estimates to be about the equivalent of five 55-gallon drums full of waste.

The amount that escapes regulation is not known for certain. But the Senate Environment Committee has estimated it could be more than 15 million tons a year.

And most small businesses make no attempt to properly dispose of their hazardous waste, the committee said. It cited a U.S. Chamber of Commerce study which found that in one unnamed industry, 85 percent of the firms surveyed simply mixed hazardous waste with their ordinary trash, putting both out together for routine garbage pickup.

"As a direct result, there have been a series of serious accidents injuring unsuspecting trash collectors, destroying their vehicles and jeopardizing the integrity of the sanitary landfills which receive these wastes," the committee said.

When trash collectors are not told they are receiving hazardous wastes, the committee said, the dangerous substances are likely to be buried in a landfill, where they can leak into and pollute underground drinking water supplies.

Under the revised terms approved Tuesday, a business would come under EPA jurisdiction if it generates 220 pounds per month, or enough to fill about half of a 55-gallon drum.

The waste generated does not have to be PCBs or other deadly chemicals. The term "hazardous" covers chemicals that are flammable, corrosive, reactive — capable of chemical reactions — or toxic. That includes such ordinary substances as dry cleaning fluids, industrial solvents and paint thinners.

Under the provisions agreed to Tuesday, EPA would have until March 31, 1986, to devise regulations for small businesses generating hazardous waste. The regulations would not have to be as strict as those for large waste generators, but would have to be sufficient to protect human health and the environment.

The provision also requires small businesses generating more than 220 pounds per month to begin issuing manifests to identify their hazardous wastes within six months of the bill's passage, including the name of the licensed facility that is designated to dispose of it.

The provision also allows EPA to regulate businesses generating less than 220 pounds per month if the agency finds it is necessary.

Both the House and the Senate have passed bills reauthorizing the act. The conference committee now is resolving the differences between those two bills. The compromise version will be subject to final approval by the two chambers.

Alabama Voters Elects Black

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Dallas County, where Martin Luther King Jr. launched his voting rights struggle, has narrowly elected its first black official in more than a century.

Complete but unofficial returns from Tuesday's Democratic runoff election for county tax collector showed Jackie Walker with 4,900 votes to 4,852 for Tommy Powell, a white. Mrs. Walker, a 35-year-old mother of two making her first race for public office, has no opposition in the Nov. 6 general election.

She is the first black elected to a Dallas County office since Benjamin Turner was elected tax collector in 1868 and went on to become Alabama's first black congressman.

Mrs. Walker, director of the Selma civic group Mothers of Many — MOMS — is the first black woman ever elected to a Dallas County office.

"This race is tremendously important for several reasons," said Mrs. Walker's campaign manager, state Sen. Hank Sanders. "It shows that women can play a larger role in politics. This is good for the county."

Dallas County, located in west-central Alabama, is about equally divided racially, and returns from voting precincts broke down along racial lines.

Cosby Returns To TV Series With A Bang

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — After eight years Bill Cosby is back on television, and what a welcome. His new comedy series was the highest-rated show, helping NBC to a solid second-place showing in the Nielsen ratings.

Even Cosby's victory and taking five of the first six spots in the Top 10 wasn't enough to put NBC over the top for the week ended Sept. 23. ABC edged it out for the top spot, with CBS lagging behind in third.

"The Cosby Show" marks the comedian's first regular series since his short-lived variety series in 1976. His first series, "I Spy," in the 1960s, made him a star. Later, he did "The Bill Cosby Show" in 1969-71 and "The New Bill Cosby Show" the next year.

Cosby plays a doctor in his new show, which is centered on his home life with his attorney wife and four children.

The next ratings week will be the first of the new fall season, which officially began Monday. But, as usual, the networks have been staging sneak previews of their new shows.

ABC was first in the A.C. Nielsen Co. survey with a network average of 15.3. NBC was second with 14.8 and CBS was third with 14.2. The networks say this means that in an average prime-time minute 15.3 percent of the TV homes were tuned to ABC.

NBC's five shows in the Top 10 included the premieres of three new shows: "The Cosby Show," in first; "Highway to Heaven," third; and "Hunter," fourth. The season premiere of NBC's "The A-Team" was fifth and the NBC movie "The Enforcer," was sixth.

Two new ABC series, "Paper Dolls" and "Jessie," also made the Top 10. "Paper Dolls" was seventh and "Jessie" was 10th.

Here is the Top 10: "The Cosby Show," NBC, first; "60 Minutes," CBS, second; "Highway to Heaven," NBC, third; "Hunter," NBC, fourth; "The A-Team," NBC, fifth; "The Enforcer," NBC movie, sixth; "Paper Dolls," ABC, seventh; "Af-terMASH," CBS, eighth; "Three's Company," ABC, ninth; "Jessie," ABC, tenth.

CBS' telecast of the 36th annual Emmy Awards was in 13th place. ABC counter-programmed with the premiere of "Paper Dolls."

The next highest-rated new fall show was CBS' "Cover Up," in 33rd place. NBC's "Partners in Crime"

Here are the week's top 20 shows:

1. "The Cosby Show," NBC, a rating of 21.6 or 18.3 million households.
2. "60 Minutes," CBS, 20.7 or 17.5 million.
3. "Highway to Heaven," NBC, 20.6 or 17.4 million.
4. "Hunter," NBC, 20.4 or 17.3 million.
5. "The A-Team," NBC, 19.0 or 16.1 million.
6. Movie: "The Enforcer," NBC, 18.5 or 15.7 million.
7. "Paper Dolls," ABC, 18.4 or 15.6 million.
8. "AfterMASH," CBS, 18.2 or 15.4 million.
9. "Three's Company," ABC, 17.9 or 15.1 million.
10. "Jessie," ABC, 17.7 or 15.0 million.
11. "Family Ties," NBC, 17.5 or 14.8 million.
12. "20-20," ABC, 17.3 or 14.6 million.
13. "The Emmy Awards," CBS, 17.1 or 14.5 million.
14. "Hawaiian Heat," ABC, 16.9 or 14.3 million.
15. "Simon & Simon," CBS, 16.7 or 14.2 million.
16. "Webster," ABC, 16.6 or 14.1 million.
17. Tie—"TV's Bloopers & Practical Jokes," NBC, 16.5 or 14.0 million.
17. Tie—Movie: "Burning Rage," CBS, 16.5 or 14.0 million.
17. Tie—"NBC All-Star Happy Hour," NBC, 16.5 or 14.0 million.

was 36th, ABC's "Who's the Boss?" was 39th, ABC's "Finders of Lost Loves" was 40th, NBC's "Hot Pursuit" was 50th, and ABC's "People Do the Craziest Things" was 55th.

The lowest-rated show of the week was the NBC movie "The Border." Here are the bottom five shows in descending order: CBS' "London & Davis in New York," ABC's "People Do the Craziest Things," NBC's "Dean Martin Celebrity Roast."

NBC's "Silver Spoons" and the ABC movie "The Border." CBS kept its lead among the evening news shows. ABC was second and NBC was third. The ratings: CBS 10.8, ABC 9.9, NBC 8.2.

Walter Pidgeon Dies Of Age 87

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Walter Pidgeon, the dignified romantic actor whose films included the classics "Mrs. Miniver" and "How Green Was My Valley," was mourned by his leading lady Greer Garson as a perfect partner who loved a funny story just before a serious scene.

Pidgeon, who made more than 100 films, died Tuesday, two days after his 87th birthday, said St. John's Hospital and Health Center spokeswoman Terri DeLange. The actor had been in the hospital since Sept. 19.

His attending physician, William Skinner, said a series of strokes before and after Pidgeon entered the hospital caused his death.

Pidgeon's stage, screen and television career spanned six decades and was highlighted by two Academy Award nominations in films opposite Miss Garson — "Mrs. Miniver" in 1942 and "Madam Curie" in 1943.

"I've beaten all the odds," he said in an interview six years ago. "I escaped from a bank career, a brokerage career, some roles that would have poisoned a Borgia ... and from regret. How many men can say as much?"

The Canadian-born Pidgeon started out doing musical comedy in the 1920s and made his first film in 1926. But he didn't achieve stardom until the late 1930s when he was cast opposite the British-born Miss Garson in eight films.

"It's a sad, sad thing," Miss Garson said of Pidgeon's death from her home in Dallas. "What can I say — that we had a most wonderful, happy friendship and a perfect partnership."

"We got along so well," she added. "Somebody said we were like ham and eggs. I sent him a telegram asking him what to make of it, and signed it 'Eggs.'"

Garner Has Starring Role As Heart Attack Victim

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Heartsounds," ABC's Sunday night movie, is an up movie about about a down subject: death.

That's no easy feat. Special credit should go to the caring filmmakers, headed by executive producer Norman Lear, whose cousin, Dr. Harold Lear, is the subject of this movie, and James Garner, previously known for light comic-adventure roles, who is devastating as Dr. Lear, the heart-attack patient who laughs and loves while living for months on death's doorstep.

"There's no one as bad as he is who's stayed alive this long," the heart surgeon, in part admiration and part exhaustion, tells Lear's wife. The medical community gave up on Lear long ago, a point of view the film reflects with frequent examples of callous, arrogant and insensitive treatment.

Based on the best-selling 1980 book, "Heartsounds," written by Lear's widow, Martha, the 2½-hour film will never earn the endorsement of the American Medical Association. Mary Tyler Moore plays Martha.

The Lear's strong, supportive marriage sheds light on the movie's darkness. Even in their worst moments, Lear never loses his spirit or sense of humor. At times, their loving, adult relationship resembles a very funny, very realistic sitcom that has somehow turned into Shakespearean tragedy.

After Lear's first heart attack, Martha has to learn to be a patient's wife. She spends one night watching him sleep, and he catches her in her vigil. "What are you worried about?" he asks. "Crib death?"

The movie depicts Martha's pain as well, often through close-ups of her brown eyes. She tries her utmost to keep her strength, particularly when he's losing his. Along with the two debilitating heart attacks, Lear also suffered brain damage.

Martha battles a medical establishment short on compassion but long on clinical mediocrity and mechanics. Lear, who probably knows too much medicine for his own good, learns that on the other side of the chart the patient is quite powerless.

For eight tortuous hours in the emergency room, as his wife pleads for help, Lear faces lazy and inhumane doctors and nurses.

"Heartsounds" debunks doctors as perfect "Trapper John"-type gods, seeing them as flawed professionals whose assembly line just happens to be life.

Foreign Finance Ministers Question Reagan Outlook

By SALLY JACOBSEN
AP Economics Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the "bright and hopeful" picture of growing world prosperity painted by President Reagan, some foreign finance ministers are saying uncertainty is clouding the future course of economic recovery.

These foreign leaders worry that the high level of U.S. interest rates could weaken world economic recovery.

Argentina's Bernard Grinspun, who announced Tuesday that his country had negotiated a $1.6 billion aid package with the staff of the International Monetary Fund, said "the future outlook contains a high degree of uncertainty regarding the possibility of maintaining the recovery of the industrial countries."

Italy's Giovanni Goria, meanwhile, predicted that a "modest, and normal, recession could occur in 1986."

Reagan, speaking Tuesday to delegates at the annual meetings of the IMF and the World Bank, said he was convinced the U.S. economy would continue to lead the world rebound.

Recalling his words to the United Nations General Assembly on Monday, he said, "We can speak again, and we should, of a future that is bright and hopeful: a future of prosperity that I believe is far nearer than most of us would ever dare to hope."

But foreign leaders attending this week's discussions have repeatedly called on the United States to reduce its federal budget deficits to bring down interest rates and sap some of the dollar's strength.

The combination of the two, Grinspun complained, means "an enormous burden on the indebted developing countries, a burden that has the additional disadvantage of being of indefinite duration."

"This situation is not only unfair; it is also unsustainable over time and thus perilous unless concerted action is taken to correct it," he said. "It is simply unjust," he went on, "that one group should bear the entire cost of correcting a situation for which all parties are jointly responsible."

Grinspun drew applause when he announced Argentina's agreement with the IMF staff on the 15-month aid package worth $1.6 billion. The agreement must still be approved by the fund's executive board, in late November or early December.

But with the staff's blessing, Grinspun was heading to New York today to start debt talks with commercial banks.

Grinspun said the agreement would clear the way to $20 billion needed to cover debts, dating back to 1982 and extending into 1985.

Argentina's newly democratic government owes some $44.4 billion in foreign loans, mostly to commercial banks. It had been trying to reach agreement on a rescue package since last December.

In its negotiations, Argentina resisted the strict changes in the country's economy that the IMF requires for aid. Those measures usually include reducing budget deficits, slashing inflation rates and curbing imports.

Grinspun said no target had been set to reduce Argentina's inflation rate, running at 650 percent annually. And he reiterated the government would fulfill its promise of wage hikes of 6 percent to 8 percent.

The text of the accord was being released today.

In addition to final IMF approval, fund spokesman Azizali Mohammed said the agreement "is subject as usual to the availability of external financing" from commercial banks and other governments.

During his speech earlier in the day, Reagan acknowledged that high interest rates hurt the indebted countries by driving up their payments.

But he also said not enough attention has been paid to the surge in export earnings flowing to the developing countries from the United States.

Imports from the developing countries that don't export oil jumped $12 billion in the first seven months of the year above their year-ago level. Such a spurt more than offset the rise in debt costs from higher interest rates, he said.

But Grinspun disputed the president's contention.

Without mentioning Reagan by name, he said that the greater volume of developing countries' exports has been overshadowed by declines in commodity prices and hurt by trade barriers to their products.

"Our payment capacity has not been able to expand as rapidly as the real pace of increase in interest rates," he said.

Treaty Protest

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Iraq is accusing the International Atomic Energy Agency of scientific cooperation with Israel in violation of a 1983 resolution.

Iraqi chief delegate Rahim A. al-Kital said the agency, a specialized arm of the United Nations created in 1957, would not survive if it ignores such events as South African refusal to place its nuclear facilities under agency safeguards and Israel's 1981 bombing of an Iraqi reactor.

The Campaign

Bush Launches Counterattack

CHICAGO (AP) — Launching a counterattack, Vice President George Bush says Walter Mondale is "dealing in hindsight" by criticizing security at the embassy annex in Beirut where two Americans were killed in a terrorist bombing.

Addressing students at a Jewish school Tuesday, Bush accused the Democratic presidential nominee of trying to "get political gain out of a tragedy where people lost their lives."

The students sharply questioned Bush on the administration's policy in the Middle East and made clear they were unhappy about the sale of AWACS surveillance planes to Saudi Arabia and the U.S. refusal to move its embassy in Israel from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem.

One teen-ager questioned whether the administration was trying to have good ties with Israel merely because this is an election year. "Obviously you want the Jewish vote," the student said. "That's why you're here today."

Bush agreed he wanted Jewish votes, and added that U.S. relations with Israel "are in very good shape but it's not just for an election."

Speaking to guests at a fund-raising dinner for Republican Sen. Charles Percy, Bush sharply criticized Mondale and his running mate, Geraldine Ferraro.

"I never saw such a negative campaign as that being waged by the Mondale-Ferraro ticket. All they do is try to tear down Ronald Reagan. They spend each week on a new subject going out there blasting the president..."

At a news conference and again in his meeting with Jewish students at the Ida Crown Academy, the vice president responded to Mondale's accusation that Reagan was letting terrorists in Lebanon "humiliate us and push us around and kill our people."

Accusing Mondale of acting out of desperation, Bush said, "I think he's dealing in hindsight, trying to capitalize on a very tragic incident."

Ferraro Cites Responsibility

NEW YORK (AP) — Three weeks into the general election campaign, Geraldine Ferraro concedes the Democratic ticket is having difficulty persuading voters that President Reagan "is responsible for his policies."

"Every time there is something that goes wrong he stands up and says, 'I take responsibility,' and then walks away from it two weeks later, and people just don't recognize that he is the one that's already claimed responsibility," Ms. Ferraro said Tuesday.

"They're not associating the president with his policies," she complained while campaigning in the economically hard-hit industrial Midwest before joining presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale for a party fund-raising dinner in Washington.

At the dinner, she zinged Reagan and Vice President George Bush with one-liners.

Mondale Seeks Youth Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter F. Mondale, trying to loosen President Reagan's grip on baby boom voters, says he would rather lose fighting for "forgotten Americans" than win by appealing to self-interest and greed.

Mondale was heading today to Cleveland to address the fiercely anti-Reagan Steelworkers' convention, then to New York to prepare for his meeting Thursday with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

The Democratic presidential candidate, appearing before large, friendly campus crowds at a black college in Houston on Monday and in Washington Tuesday, has intensified his appeal for votes from young Americans, whom polls show favoring Reagan by lopsided margins.

He also was the guest of honor Tuesday night at a $1,000-a-head Democratic "Victory Gala" that raised $2.1 million for the party — the most successful event in the Democrats' history, but less than half as much as President Reagan and the Republicans pulled in at a similar fete in the spring.

Mondale told an overflow crowd of 2,000 supporters at George Washington University a few blocks from the White House that, "Your generation will decide this race."

He charged the Reagan administration has crafted a campaign around the premise that young Americans are "self-content, materialistic and devoid of social commitment."

"Believing you to be selfish, they would pander to your greed," he said.

Mondale told the students: "I won't permit this crowd to steal the future from our children. I won't let them put ice on our soul without a fight. They may ask for your vote, but I'll be damned if they'll steal our conscience."

Acknowledging he is the underdog, Mondale said, "I have been counseled to cut loose from my history, to desert the forgotten Americans that I have fought for all my life."

"My answer is no. I would rather lose a race about decency than to win one about self-interest. I would rather fight for the heart and soul of America than to fight for the bonuses of the Fortune 500."

Reagan Rejoins Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, under attack by Democrats for running a "happy-talk" campaign, was taking a break from foreign policy today for political appearances before students, steelworkers and ethnic voters in two Midwest states.

On a one-day campaign trip, Reagan was addressing students at Bowling Green State University in Ohio, then visiting a steel plant at Akron, Ohio, before flying to Wisconsin for a rally in Milwaukee.

Ohio and Wisconsin are two of the states targeted by Walter F. Mondale. Reagan carried both against Jimmy Carter in 1980, but the Democrat was the winner in each four years earlier when he defeated President Gerald Ford.

Wisconsin is one of the states where Mondale political aides say the Democratic challenger, a native of neighboring Minnesota, should do well in November, although they concede he is currently behind in the polls.

Reagan campaign spokesman James Lake said a poll taken for the president's re-election campaign on Sept. 1, said he was 20 points ahead of Mondale in Wisconsin. Mondale aides say their polls put the margin at about eight points.

U.S.-Soviet relations have been at the top of Reagan's agenda most of this week.

Continuing the emphasis on foreign policy, Reagan met Tuesday with Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, who took office just eight days earlier.

flower and ripening okra pods in a garden, photographed against the background of a nearby tobacco barn whose tar paper siding is all tattered and torn. (Reflector Photo by Jerry Raynor)

Alabama Family Produces Coin-Operated Telescopes

FAIRHOPE, Ala. (AP) — Geoff Cain's favorite cartoon shows three mountain climbers scaling a snowy peak. When they reach the top, they find a coin-operated telescope.

The punch line is: "Anybody got a quarter?"

In Cain's mind, his See Coast Manufacturing Co. Inc. installed the telescope. His small firm in coastal Alabama has built coin-operated telescopes and binoculars that are scattered around the world.

Cain said the business, operated out of the basement of his home for many years, had been started in 1960 by his father, Kenneth R. Cain, a former restaurant operator in Fairhope.

"Dad was very frugal," said Cain, who now runs the company with his wife and six employees. "This was not done on borrowed money."

For a one-minute, 20-second view of a distant place, tourists deposit a quarter in the slot of the telescopes that are familiar to most travelers.

"The World's Fair at New Orleans has been very profitable, but it's short term," said Cain, glancing at a map of the world that covers a wall in his office.

Cain, who manufactures, leases and sells the viewers, shares the market with Towers W. Hamilton of Norwalk, Conn., who has built and leased the viewers since 1934.

Hamilton has instruments on the Empire State Building; Cain has the World Trade Center, both in New York City.

Hamilton, 72, won't say how much he earns from the Empire State Building viewers. But in a telephone interview he allowed that his most profitable instruments are at Niagara Falls.

Hamilton, who has avoided the international market for the most part, says he and Cain have "friendly competition" over the best views of this country.

Cain's equipment offers views from many Six Flags parks, atop the Sears Tower in Chicago and many points of interest in Canada.

"The 27 telescopes on the Sears Tower earn $145,000 a year," said Cain. "We have equipment in 14 states and 10 foreign countries."

Cain, 43, already has an eye on the space needles being built in South Korea for the 1988 Olympics, and a tall building planned for Seoul where tourists could see across the demilitarized zone.

Mayors Cite Rise In Poverty Levels

WASHINGTON (AP) — City officials say that poverty has been increasing since 1982 despite the nation's economic recovery, the United States Conference of Mayors reports.

Increases in poverty were reported by more than four out of five cities surveyed for the study "The Urban Poor and the Economic Recovery," issued by the mayors and the United States Conference of City Human Services Officials.

"The economic recovery has been selective in terms of the people benefiting from it; overall, conditions for the poor have not improved and in many cases have worsened," the report said.

The study of 83 cities across the nation reported improvements in the employment situation in the 61 percent of communities, but more than half also said the recovery has not benefited the poor in their localities.

Many of the poor have become part of a chronic unemployment problem in the cities, exhausting their benefit programs and living month to month as "invisible poor." For this group any unusual expense, such as a car breakdown, can push them into bankruptcy, the report said.

These people feel "isolated, hopeless and angry," the report quoted officials of an unnamed California city as stating.

Many unemployed workers have turned to low-paying dead end jobs, not equal to those they had before, the report said, and "there is a growing sense of hopelessness among those who have been unemployed for a long time...."

More than seven out of 10 cities responding to the survey said the poor are faced with severe housing problems, and 80 percent of the cities reported increases in requests for energy assistance in each of the last three years.

Cousins Say Castro Wants To Return To Native Area

SARRIA, Spain (AP) — Here in the rocky, rolling hills of Galicia are the roots of Fidel Castro — and three first cousins who say he wants to come back to find them.

"When we visit Fidel in Cuba, all he talks about is Galicia," said Estrelita Lopez Castro, 60, one of the Cuban president's three surviving first cousins in this picturesque but impoverished corner of northwest Spain.

Castro's father, Angel Maria Castro Argiz, was the maternal uncle of Estrelita, her 68-year-old brother Salustiano and her 50-year-old sister Victoria. Angel went first to Cuba as a Spanish soldier and returned there later to become a successful sugar planter.

Victoria said Fidel, who is 57, is so intrigued by Galician tradition that he had a replica of a Galician kitchen in his Cuban home.

If the Cuban leader does make it to Galicia, he would find Salustiano and his wife, Maria, living in a 200-year-old granite house in the nearby village of Arrea de Arriba, growing wheat and corn and raising cattle and chickens.

Salustiano is known in the area for the bread he bakes in a homemade oven from home-grown and home-ground wheat.

Estrelita is married to a hog farmer and lives in an apartment in Sarria.

Victoria, the youngest cousin, emigrated to Switzerland and worked there for 19 years before returning to live with Salustiano and his wife.

She also was in Cuba in 1983. "Cuba is a marvel," she said. "I spent a year there, and it is a joy to see how positive and hopeful the people are. Everyone there works, and with confidence in the future."

Antonio Pena Diaz, a Sarria banker and family friend, said: "People around here have divergent views about Castro but think his cousins are good people who have never presumed to be anything but regular folks."

The cousins say being related to Fidel has helped them with medical problems:

—When Estrelita developed serious eye trouble, she contacted Fidel through the Cuban Embassy in Madrid. She was taken immediately to Barcelona for surgery, which she claims saved her eyesight. The embassy picked up the bill.

—When Victoria was suffering from a respiratory illness in Switzerland several years ago, Fidel arranged medical treatment for her through the Cuban Embassy in Bern.

—Salustiano says he is grateful for the periodic visits of a Cuban doctor who treats crews of Cuban ships that visit the port of Vigo, 124 miles to the southwest.

The closest Fidel Castro has come to Galicia was a stopover in Madrid on his return to Havana from Soviet leader Yuri Andropov's funeral in Moscow last February.

The stopover turned into a five-hour lunch with Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez, a Socialist.

FORECAST FOR THURS., SEPTEMBER 27, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is no day or evening to be outspoken and blunt with anyone about what they will do to aid your progress or help you to obtain knowledge and information you desire.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Good day to investigate whatever is confusing to you and get right answers, but do so quietly and cleverly.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A partner could prove to be as opinionated as you and little could be accomplished. Learn to compromise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get your work nicely arranged so that you can get much done and be more objective than heretofore.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You may be disappointed by a friend who has another commitment and cannot accompany you in some entertainment.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) A family tie is not willing to let go of his, or her view, though you do not agree with it, so drop the subject for the time being.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Seek information you need from your newspaper and periodicals, and then use it wisely. Handle personal correspondence.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are tempted to invest too heavily in something today, which would not be wise. At least study every angle of the matter first.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show that you are ingenious in handling any monetary affairs and don't let others fool you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Know what your practical aims are and go after them in a positive way, but don't tread on the toes of others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Sit in the quiet of your study for awhile and know what your true ambitions are. Then find a better way of having harmony.

The bidding:
 South West North East
 1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
 1 ♣ Pass 3 ♣ Pass
 4 ♣ Pass Pass Pass
 Opening lead: King of ♣.

It is natural to try to save your assets. But don't deposit them in an institution that could fold.

By partnership agreement, North's jump raise was a limit bid, not forcing to game. However, South had a host of prime values and readily accepted his partner's invitation.

West led the king of clubs, and it was obvious that declarer would have to crossruff the hand to come to 10 tricks. He won the ace of clubs, cashed the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart low. There followed the ace of diamonds and a diamond ruff, and another heart was ruffed with the nine of trumps. Unfortunately, West overruffed with the 10 and returned a trump, and declarer could come to no more than nine tricks — six trumps and three aces.

Once South had scored a ruff in each hand with a low trump, the contract was unbeatable. All declarer had to do was continue with a high crossruff! This would be the position after nine tricks, all won by declarer:

The lead is in dummy. Declarer simply leads the last heart and ruffs it. If West does not overruff, declarer has his 10th trick. If West does overruff, the eight of trumps is promoted to the fulfilling trick.

Rocket Damaged

LORCH, West Germany (AP) — A U.S. Army tractor-trailer carrying an unarmed Pershing 2 nuclear missile overturned during a training exercise, damaging the rocket but causing no injuries, military officials said.

It was the first reported accident involving a Pershing 2 since NATO began deploying the new medium-range nuclear weapons in West Germany 10 months ago. Army spokesmen said a dirt road gave way beneath the missile transport and there were no signs that faulty equipment was to blame.

Church Report

GREIFSWALD, East Germany (AP) — East German Protestant churchmen are urging Communist authorities to ease curbs on travel to the West and end discrimination against Christians in state-run schools.

A church report at the annual East German Protestant synod also expressed "deep dismay" at the deployment of medium-range U.S. and Soviet nuclear missiles in Central Europe.

East German churches have previously lent support to unofficial groups critical of both NATO and the Warsaw Pact for stationing new missiles in Europe.

Church Theater

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The director of an avant-garde theater says repressive government policies have forced the creation of an alternative theater circuit in Roman Catholic churches because some groups have nowhere else to perform.

Lech Raczak, director of the Theater of the Eighth Day, said the Communist government's cultural policies have all but forced liquidation of his 20-year-old company.

Piedmont Leads Top N.C. Firms In Sales

By TOM MINEHART
 Associated Press Writer
 CHARLOTTE (AP) — Piedmont Airlines officials say 1984 could be the best year yet for the Winston-Salem-based company, which led North Carolina's top 10 companies with a whopping 400 percent increase in second-quarter profits.

"We're forecasting a good year," said spokesman Don McGuire. "Unless there's something unforeseeable, this could be the best year we've ever had." Piedmont's profits for the three months ended June 30 were nearly $22.5 million, more than five times the $4.5 million of the second quarter of 1983. Sales were $296 million, up nearly 42 percent from a year earlier.

The top 10 companies in sales were announced in Jenks Southeastern Business Letter from Atlanta, and included Burlington Industries, Blue Bell Inc., R.J. Reynolds Industries

Inc. and Duke Power Co. McGuire said Piedmont's growth resulted largely from its new hubs in Charlotte, Dayton and Baltimore and from the airline's new transcontinental service, which were added in the previous 18 months.

"Those services really began reaching financial fruition in that period," he said. "Profits also were escalated by the fact that a year earlier, the industry was mired in a deep discounting fare war. The fares righted themselves and our routes matured at the same time."

Other major North Carolina companies also showed good second-quarter profit increases. Two Greensboro-based textile companies — Burlington Industries Inc. and Blue Bell Inc. — were the only firms among North Carolina's top 10 with lower profits. Burlington's earnings dropped 23.8 percent to $22.9 million, while Blue Bell's dropped 12.5 percent to $13.3 million.

Meanwhile, R.J. Reynolds Industries Inc. of Winston-Salem reported profits of $241 million, up 8.1 percent from last year. Duke Power Co. of Charlotte saw profits increase 5.7 percent to $85.8 million.

Another utility, Carolina Power & Light Co., had a 15.4 percent increase as second-quarter profits rose to $38 million. Lowe's Companies Inc. of North Wilkesboro reported a 12.5 percent increase to $20.5 million.

Senator John F. Kennedy and Vice President Richard Nixon met for the first of their four debates on this day in 1960. A television audience of more than 70 million looked on. In that first TV debate, Mr. Kennedy looked confident, tanned and fit. But Mr. Nixon, who had been sick for two weeks, looked grim and pale. And his "5 o'clock shadow" showed because he refused to wear any makeup. After the debates, Kennedy went on to defeat Richard Nixon by a slim 118,550 vote margin.

American Ambassador To Panama Was Born Into Diplomatic Service

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — When U.S. Ambassador Everett Ellis Briggs speaks about diplomatic life, he can go all the way back to his infancy.

Briggs was born in 1934 in Havana, Cuba, where his father, Ellis O. Briggs, had been posted on his third overseas assignment as a U.S. diplomat. In the late 1950s, his father was one of five Americans named career ambassadors, as opposed to political appointees. His ambassadorial assignments included Czechoslovakia, Greece and Brazil. He died in 1976.

As he nears his second anniversary as the U.S. ambassador to Panama — a career diplomat himself — Everett Briggs says he held no thoughts in his younger days of following in his father's footsteps, but having done so. "I haven't identified a profession or an occupation which would be as interesting for me as what I'm doing."

But he adds that the job has its drawbacks. "It is not always an easy profession. ... The remuneration in comparison to the private sector is frankly miserable."

Briggs has been working for the U.S. State Department for the last 28 years, and Panama is his first assignment as ambassador. He describes a posting as ambassador as "the ultimate career goal" for all foreign service employees.

He spent most of his first 11 years in Havana, although his boyhood also included extended visits to Washington, Chile and the Dominican Republic.

Most "foreign service children," Briggs said in an interview, "find that the last thing in the world they want to do is to join a foreign service or to live abroad."

But by the time he was a senior at Dartmouth College in Hanover, N.H., Briggs said, his father's influence, and his own keen interest in international relations, led him to apply for the U.S. diplomatic corps.

Briggs' start with the State Department came soon after college in 1956 when he was appointed to an economic post in the Bureau of Inter-American Affairs.

From there, he was assigned to the U.S. delegation to the Organization of American States and the State Department's Central American affairs office.

His first overseas assignment was to Bolivia in 1958, as a "very, very junior political officer."

The long list of assignments after Bolivia includes a period in Berlin, a 4½-year stint in Portugal and a return to Washington for duty at the State Department.

In 1972, he was transferred to Angola for a two-year assignment as consul general. He left that African nation, he said, "about on the eve of the outbreak of real trouble." It became independent from Portugal in 1974 after a long guerrilla war that continues in a different form.

After Angola he served as deputy chief of mission (an embassy's No. 2 position) in Paraguay and Colombia before being summoned back to Washington and named to head the State Department's Mexican affairs office.

At the outset of the Reagan administration, Briggs was named deputy assistant secretary for inter-American affairs.

In that position Briggs had a hand in shaping some of the Reagan administration's policies toward Central America, policies which he says he supports strongly and feels "privileged to be involved in helping to formulate."

Briggs took over as ambassador to Panama in October 1982.

Although he said "it's awkward to make invidious comparisons" between one assignment and another, Briggs indicated he has felt the best about his work when it was most challenging and difficult.

He called his assignment to Portugal "intriguing" because he was chiefly responsible for monitoring Portuguese-African issues and the United States was being "battered on both sides" for its policy in the region.

He preferred, however, not to comment on the controversy that surrounded his early months in Panama, when Gen. Ruben Dario Paredes, then commander of the national guard, suggested that Briggs was using his "diplomatic garb" as a cover for spying and interfering in this country's internal affairs.

A father of five children, all over 21, Briggs said he stays fit by playing tennis and other racket games, swimming, walking and above all else, keeping busy.

Colombia Plans To Spray Marijuana, Cocaine Crops

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A presidential council has approved a plan to douse thousands of acres with herbicide in an ambitious effort to kill marijuana fields and strip coca trees of leaves used to make cocaine.

A high-ranking police official said the U.S. government was sending helicopters to help with the spraying. An estimated $2 billion worth of cocaine and marijuana from Colombia arrives each year to the United States.

President Belisario Betancur and his Cabinet have yet to approve the aerial spraying program, which could be the most effective blow in his declared all-out war against those making fortunes from Colombian drugs.

But an aide to the president told The Associated Press that Betancur is expected to approve the plan soon. The aide spoke on condition of anonymity, saying his remarks had not been cleared with Betancur.

The National Drug Council, named by Betancur, last week approved the aerial spraying with glyphosate of an estimated 110,000 acres of marijuana and an estimated 66,000 acres of coca trees, council member Nazly Lozano told the AP.

The national police, on orders from the council, sprayed four acres of marijuana in northern Colombia last month to see if glyphosate endangered humans or livestock.

Scientists at the University of California at Davis tested glyphosate and found "it is one of the safest herbicides that there is available," Art Craighill, a toxicology professor at the university, told the AP in a telephone interview.

But he said he was not sure what would happen if someone smoked marijuana that was sprayed with glyphosate. "It is very unlikely that it would be a problem if there were residues," Craighill said. "Mammalian toxicity is extremely low."

Craighill said glyphosate is absorbed by the plant.

In the past, the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration used Paraquat to kill marijuana plants. But the Colombian council rejected using the compound for spraying because inhaling Paraquat-sprayed marijuana can seriously harm people, Mrs. Lozano said.

Regarding the prospect of soil contamination, Craighill said glyphosate loses its toxicity over a period of about a month and does not accumulate.

The United States has supplied $40 million worth of equipment and training to Colombia to battle drug trafficking in the last 11 years.

Betancur ordered an extensive war against drug manufacturers and dealers after two assassins-for-hire killed Justice Minister Rodrigo Lara on April 30. Betancur said he was certain that drug traffickers had ordered the slaying.

Until recently, the army had the task of cutting down by hand a few acres of marijuana. A U.S. congressional delegation visited Colombia last year in an attempt to persuade Betancur to order spraying. The delegates said cutting marijuana by hand was like "trying to clean the U.S. Capitol with a toothbrush."

The United States already has given five helicopters to the Colombian National Police's anti-narcotics unit for use in the aerial spraying and is rushing in five more, a high-ranking police officer told the AP. The source spoke on condition of anonymity.

States with drug trafficking.

He has reversed his position on extradition, and the United States has asked for the detention of 70 Colombians wanted on drug trafficking charges.

A request for extradition is the first step in extradition. Seventeen of the 70 are in Colombian jails, and Betancur is expected to begin deciding on extradition in the next two weeks.

Most of Colombia's major drug traffickers are believed to have fled to Panama and other countries, a source with the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration told The Associated Press.

LEAF FALLING DEBUT — As the autumn season gets under way, one of the early tokens of the autumn's arrival is that of fallen leaves floating on the surface of streams. The first brown or gold colored leaves to break away from trees presage a later time when dark water streams such as this one in Martin County will be carpeted with a colorful array of fallen leaves. ## Mosquitoes Infesting Texas Area

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Health officials are asking for the public's help as they battle mosquitoes breeding in thousands of acres of standing water left after parts of south Texas were drenched with almost 20 inches of rain last week.

As more than 500 Rio Grande Valley families are repairing damage to homes, sanitation crews were working almost around the clock to stave off a massive mosquito invasion, Cameron County Health Department spokesman Ray Rodriguez said.

Flooding in some parts of the county was the worst since Hurricane Beulah blew through in 1967, he said.

Crews are in the field spraying by 4 a.m., he said, and stay on the job as late as midnight. During the heat of the day, the crews stay busy spreading larvicides in the worst breeding grounds.

But without help from the public, the state and probably the federal government, Rodriguez said it may be impossible to keep the mosquito problem under control. Public cooperation in getting rid of standing water around the home is vital, he said.

Los Fresnos City Administrator Mary Townsend and San Benito City Manager Domingo Ramirez are asking residents to empty any containers that are full of water because they are prime breeding grounds for mosquitoes.

Mosquito spraying operations in the 6-mile-long town limits of South Padre Island began Friday.

Meanwhile, disaster centers remained open for people who need to apply for aid, Red Cross spokeswoman Helen Foechner said.

Many shelters opened after the flooding, however, have begun to close, and the Red Cross has had to put up eight families — who had been staying at a church shelter — in hotels, Ms. Foechner said.

Some other families displaced by the rains were having trouble finding places to stay because many places have no-children policies, Ms. Foechner said.

Cubic Zirconia is the finest diamond reproduction that man has made. It is renowned throughout the jewelry world as the best diamond substitute ever. Only experts with special equipment can tell the difference. It has almost the clarity and hardness of a real diamond.

Each Cubic Zirconia piece comes in its own Velour Jewel Box. The Serpentine and Rope chains come in a jeweler's pouch.

Pendants Available in famous diamond shapes.
