Gromyko Calls For 'Concrete' U.S. Action

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — On the eve of his meeting with President Reagan, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today called on the United States to demonstrate with deeds and not just words its intentions to improve relations with Moscow.

Although Gromyko's 70-minute speech to the U.N. General Assembly was sharply critical of the United States, he held open the prospect of improved ties, saying, "Every American, every American family should know that the Soviet Union wants peace and only peace with the U.S."

In a message clearly addressed to the White House, the 75-year-old foreign minister said "it is precisely concrete deeds rather than verbal assurances that can lead to normalizing the situation in our relations with the U.S. The U.S.S.R. will not be found wanting."

Gromyko spoke to the 159-member world body three days after Reagan delivered a conciliatory speech in the same forum. Reagan avoided direct criticism of the Kremlin and called for "concrete negotiations" on disarmament.

Gromyko's address to the same body today was seen in part as a response to the president, and the foreign minister made clear that Moscow is not convinced there has been much of a change in the Reagan administration's feelings. "No attempt to substitute modifications in form for the substance of a policy and for the need to move away from militarism toward a policy of peace can be meaningful," he said. "This is just like a vessel with nothing inside."

He added: "The Soviet Union believes that it is precisely concrete deeds rather than verbal assurances that can lead to normalizing the situation in our relations with the United States."

Secretary of State George Shultz was in the audience for Gromyko's address. The two met for three hours Wednesday in what a senior administration official called a "good start" at efforts to improve U.S.-Soviet relations.

Later today, Gromyko was meeting here with Walter F. Mondale, the Democratic presidential nominee.

In his speech, Gromyko declared that the Soviet Union is ready to negotiate arms control agreements with the United States, but insisted once again that the administration will have to withdraw the missiles it installed in Europe last year.

Prime Rate Falls

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaders in the banking industry, responding to generally lower interest rates in the market place, today lowered their prime lending rates to blue-chip borrowers.

Citibank, the nation's 2nd largest, No. 3 Chase Manhattan Bank, No. 4 Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. and No. 6 Chemical Bank, all lowered their prime lending rates to 12.75 percent from 13 percent.

Wednesday, San Francisco-based Wells Fargo Bank, the nation's 11th largest bank, reduced its prime lending rate by one-half percent to 12.5 percent effective today.

Last Friday, Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York decreased its prime rate to 12.75 percent from 13 percent.

Only a few other banks around the country have followed suit so far.

The prime rate historically was what banks gave to their most credit-worthy customers for short term business loans. In fact, many such loans are made below prime and others above.

A growing number of banking organizations have taken to calling it their "reference" rate, suggesting it is an interest-rate level around which other rates — higher and lower — are computed.

The prime rate in the rest of the banking industry has prevailed at 13 percent since June; in the late winter and spring it rose in four half-point increments to 13 percent from 11 percent from the beginning of the year, reflecting increases in other short-term rates.

But recently such rates have declined, as the Federal Reserve has relieved some pressure on bank reserves.

The federal funds rate — a negotiated level of interest on short-term borrowing and lending of reserves between banks — has fallen as low as 9 percent this week from a near-12 percent level all summer.

However, except for Morgan and Wells Fargo and some regional banks, most banks have been reluctant to lower their prime lending rates — in part to maximize earnings in the third fiscal quarter when they will face stiffer reporting requirements on their earnings reports dealing with problem loans to developing countries.

Egyptians Seek U.S. Peace Bid

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egypt is consulting with the United States at the highest level about the possible renewal of a U.S. peacemaking role in the Arab-Israeli conflict, the state-run Middle East News Agency said today.

The state-run agency said Foreign Minister Esmat Abdel-Meguid would meet with President Reagan in Washington today to deliver a message from President Hosni Mubarak.

It said the message "deals with the latest developments in the Middle East, particularly a reactivation of the peace process and active participation of the United States."

The Cairo newspaper Al Ahran said Mubarak telephoned Abdel-Meguid on Wednesday to give him "directives" regarding the meeting with Reagan. Abdel-Meguid has been in New York since last week for the current session of the U.N. General Assembly.

The Egyptian-U.S. consultations come two days after Jordan decided to resume diplomatic relations with Egypt following a 5½-year break that stemmed from Egypt's 1979 peace treaty with Israel.

Mubarak was dispatching his chief political adviser, Osama el-Baz, to the Jordanian capital of Amman today for high-level talks, Foreign Ministry sources said. The sources, who spoke on condition that they not be identified, said el-Baz would carry a message from Mubarak to King Hussein.

Top Egyptian officials — including Abdel-Meguid, Prime Minister Kamal Hassan Aly and State Minister for Foreign Affairs Butros Ghali — said Wednesday that Jordan's move would boost chances of renewed Arab-Israeli peace talks.

Egypt has welcomed last Sunday's remarks by U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz in New York saying Washington was prepared to launch a new Middle East peace effort.

Jordan and most other Arab countries broke relations with Egypt to protest its 1979 U.S.-brokered peace treaty with Israel, the only one so far between an Arab government and the Jewish state.

Pro-Soviet Syria and Libya have condemned Jordan's action and threatened to seek an Arab boycott of Jordan in retaliation for the move.

Pitt Fair To Open Monday And Run Through Oct. 8

Sam Winchester's at it again, putting together another Pitt County American Legion Agricultural Fair.

"This will be the biggest and best one ever," Winchester, the manager retained by three American Legion posts in the county who sponsor the fair, said of the fair which opens Monday and runs through Oct. 8. "Some of the carnival people are already here getting set up and they tell me this is going to be the biggest midway we've ever had."

Winchester has been directing the fair for the past 15 years of the fair's 65-year history. He is assisted by Elvy Forrest, assistant manager and treasurer. The Pitt County Extension Service and the schools of Pitt County and Greenville take an active part, providing educational displays and holding competitions on everything from hog-raising to jam-making. Businesses can, for a fee, display and demonstrate their wares, too.

Regular adult admission is $3. School children are admitted free Monday through Friday until 7 p.m. with a school pass. Children under 12 are admitted for $1.50 at all other times. Wednesday is Senior Citizens Day, with free admission to all senior citizens from 1 to 3 p.m. Thursday is handicapped children's day with handicapped children admitted free from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Friday is preschool day with children 4 and 5 years old admitted free from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

An important part of the fair is the W. Conner Eagles Village of Yesteryear, which features real structures that depict a farm and a farming village of the early 1900's.

Winchester asked that the public take note that the Fantasy on Wheels Hell Drivers exhibition announced earlier to be held Friday and Saturday, will actually be performed Monday and Tuesday beginning at 5:30 p.m. The show will be free, sponsored by the American Legion Posts which sponsor the fair.

Hal Oakley Narrates And Directs Americana Show Benefits Here

By ROSALIE TROTMAN
Reflector Lifestyle Editor
Hal Oakley was back in Greenville to narrate the Americana fashion show featuring costumes from Broadway musicals held today at lunchtime and again tonight at the Greenville County Club, sponsored by the ladies of the club and Belk-Tyler. He is director of special promotional events for Ultima II, which funds the show for benefit purposes. At rehearsals Wednesday afternoon Oakley was overheard saying, "Where can I hide the mike cord? Tomorrow I'll have on tight pants. Is anyone unhappy about their costume? If so, you won't give a good show!"

And when explaining what he expected for "The King and I," he said, "I warned you, I didn't promise you a rose garden. In the bow to the king, get it down there, honey."

During lunch break, Oakley was interviewed. "The excitement of this show is obvious when you sit in the audience because everybody is chauvinistic about this country. The American musical was born here — we created it and because of that, it has changed the face of the musical around the world."

"It is a salute to America, a tribute to American musical theater — all that the writers, producers, costumers, directors and all the people involved and what they contributed — that is basically what this show is all about," said Oakley.

In describing some of the costumes in the show collection, he said, "The ones from 'Mame' and 'Hello Dolly,' are the flash and lights of Broadway while the 'King and I' are the quality and history, the lavender satin hoop skirt."

The showing in Greenville was the first for the Carolinas. Next week it will be shown in Clearwater, Fla., for the benefit of abused children. "I don't have children, but I have nieces and nephews and it is incomprehensible to me that anyone can abuse a child. People who do this are sick. The more money raised to fund other homes for abused children and provide hospital care, etc., is necessary," he added.

In making future fashion predictions, Oakley said, "I see much more return to the '40s elegance. Women being more feminine — women dressing elegantly for men and men appreciating them."

"Now there is more mixing of fabrics — flat fabrics mixed with knits, layered looks and ankle lengths. There will be more oversized, wrap trench coats and sweaters, big plaids and checks. The chemise is back as well as the no waist-waist. I even see the return of the shirtwaist."

"A lot of fashion is evolving in San Francisco. The young designers are very vibrant. Women on the West Coast are dressing more — in hats and gloves. New Yorkers have evolved in to a new creature — the California look, more relaxed," he said.

COSTUME SELECTIONS...were made by Americana fashion show, held Wednesday Hal Oakley, director and narrator of the prior to rehearsals.

Check Carefully Before Buying Home Furnishings

CHICAGO (AP) — Indulge your own taste when it comes to style in wood furniture. But regardless of the style you select, check carefully to make sure of quality before you buy.

The American Furniture Manufacturers Association offers some clues that can help you make a wise choice.

Examine all furniture with the hand as well as the eye. Inspect the finish for overall smoothness with no rough areas suggesting inadequate sanding. Look for a clear, deep and rich finish and for uniformity of color and similar grain patterns with expert matching of veneers.

Operate all moving parts to be sure they function satisfactorily. This includes table leaves, drop lids, flip tops, adjustable shelves, trays, doors and drawers. Make sure that glass panels, grillwork, decorative trim and lights are carefully installed and that lights are convenient to switch on and off.

Check interior storage areas to make sure they are satisfactory. The back panel should be inset and screwed into place instead of nailed or stapled. Check to see if tall pieces such as china cabinets and wall units have levelers to compensate for uneven floors.

Drawers should fit snugly in their frames. Open and close them to see if they move effortlessly. Remove a drawer and examine it as well as the interior of the piece. The best drawers have wood sides and back panels about a half-inch thick, joined by sturdy close fitting joints, preferably dovetailed. Smooth finished drawer interiors help prevent fabric snags.

Drawer bottoms should be rigid. Hardware should have no rough edges and be bolted onto the piece from the inside. Beware of drawers that seem unusually small, lightweight or that are nailed or stapled together and have poorly secured hardware.

The interior of the furniture should reveal good materials and workmanship with smooth sanded surfaces. Excess glue should be removed; corner blocks should be glued and screwed into place. Dust panels between the drawers are a sign of quality and so are double dowel or mortise and tenon joints.

Hangtags and price tags reveal much about construction and quality. In traditional furniture, signs of quality include extensive use of solid wood, intricate carving, heavily shaped moldings, exotic veneer inlays and deep patina finishes. These steps require more expertise, handwork and additional steps that add dollars to the final cost.

Furniture without these extras can also be well-made and provide good wear at a lower price. The type of wood or veneer is another factor in price, but not necessarily in quality. Imported mahogany and olive ash burl veneers, for example, cost more than domestic pecan.

National DAR President Speaks

Samuel Walston Huddleston II, a senior at East Carolina University, was speaker at the September meeting of the Susanna Coutanch Evans Chapter DAR.

He is national president of the National Society Children of the American Revolution. He spoke on the CAR and its role in patriotism. He accompanied Marie Perkins of Dayton, Ohio, national organizing secretary CAR, who congratulated the chapter for sponsoring a CAR Society. Renetta Smith, senior society organizing president, introduced the guests.

Mrs. Donald C. McLane Jr., Mrs. Lee Williams and Dr. Mildred Southwick attended the District VIII meeting held in Rocky Mount. Mrs. G.M. Waters, scholarship chairman, announced the chapter was responsible for a third student receiving a student loan and scholarship. He is Linwood Hall, a graduate of Ayden-Grifton High School. Constitution Week was observed by a proclamation signed by Mayor Janice Buck and announcements in church bulletins.

Good citizen winners from Rose and D.H. Conley High schools will attend a district luncheon in Farmville Oct. 27 and will be in competition for a $1,000 scholarship.

Jacqueline Wilson, chapter regent of Hawkinsville, Ga., and Mrs. James Rees were guests for the meeting.

Hospital's X-Rays Separate Halloween Tricks From Treats

DEAR ABBY: It's a little early to be thinking about Halloween, but I know you prepare your column several weeks in advance so I'm writing you now.

For several years, we at Mercy Hospital in Charlotte, N.C., have watched the fun of Halloween being replaced by fear and dread among parents as more incidents of candy tampering are reported in the news media.

We don't want to see this tradition of Halloween come to an end, so we hope hospitals around the country will pick up on our idea in an effort to make Halloween safer for children and more enjoyable for parents.

This year, for the 10th consecutive year, Mercy Hospital in Charlotte and the Mercy Urgent Care Center in Pineville, N.C., will offer free X-rays of candy for children in our area.

Over the years, hundreds of families have taken advantage of this offer. X-rays, as you probably know, will detect only metal or solid objects in candy or fruit. X-rays will not detect poisons or drugs, however, so parents should still check their children's candy for signs of tampering: discoloration, or torn or punctured wrappers.

I'm happy to say we have never found anything in any of the candy or fruit that has been checked at Mercy. We have, however, heard of reports of candy tampering in this area of North Carolina.

We hope other hospitals across America will join us in this project at Halloween.

Yes, it costs the hospital some money for the X-ray equipment and film. But our staff donate their time, and our hospital volunteers help coordinate it. Last year, Eastern Airlines donated baggage tags that we used to make sure each child got the right bag of candy returned. (There were several hundred people coming to our emergency department in just a few hours, so you can imagine the opportunity for chaos.)

The local police departments from Charlotte and Mecklenburg County also made these suggestions, which we pass on to the public at Halloween:

— Parents or an older sibling should accompany young children as they make their rounds at Halloween.

— Trick-or-treaters should stay in familiar neighborhoods.

— Children should avoid masks that could impair their vision, and cumbersome shoes that could cause them to trip.

— Children should eat nothing until the "treats" are inspected.

— Children should dress in bright-colored clothing, or wear reflective costumes so they can be seen at dusk by drivers.

— Each child should carry a flashlight, but avoid shining it in the eyes of motorists. Never allow children to carry candles, because they could set their costumes on fire.

— Children should not approach a house that doesn't have outside lights on.

— Observe basic safety precautions: Use sidewalks and crosswalks; don't cut through yards or vacant lots.

— Observe one of the most important rules of all: Never go inside the house of someone the child doesn't know well.

I'm sorry for the length of this letter, but I know many, many parents read your column, and they are the ones who have to look out for the safety of their children.

If other hospitals want more information about how to organize their own Halloween safety project, they can write me at Mercy Hospital, 2001 Vail Ave., Charlotte, N.C. 28207.

Thank you, Abby. With a little luck, we can make Halloween safe for all children everywhere.

Reasonable

For local people who try to stretch out their monthly budgets it might be difficult to believe that Greenville is a low cost-of-living town — but there are the figures. The American Chamber of Commerce Researchers Association issued its cost of living survey for the second quarter and Greenville and Asheville were lowest for North Carolina.

The survey showed Asheville with a cost of living index of 93.3 and Greenville with 93.4. On the high side were Raleigh at 101.6, Chapel Hill at 101.9 and Greensboro at 100.

Information for the survey was provided by the local chamber of commerce and included health costs, car prices, clothing and other items. It was interesting that Greenville was low in utilities, rated at 83.5 percent, and housing was the city's lowest rating.

A low cost of living rating doesn't always reflect in the personal budget, depending on what proportion of individual spending is in specific areas. We can assume, however, that the figures tell us that while Pitt County is an exciting place to live, it is also a reasonable living costs area.

Slow Wheels

Instances of our drawn-out judicial processes should cause some public concern. Decision this week that CBS must stand trial in a libel suit filed by Gen. William C. Westmoreland over a report he distorted enemy troop figures during the Vietnam war is one more example. The charges resulted from a Jan. 23, 1982, network documentary.

That's getting close to three years ago, and the trial date is not set ... only that it "must be held." The nature of the case assures a prolonged trial if and when it reaches that stage.

We are sure in our mind that even longer delays are on record; just as we are sure that many more trials are regularly held within a more reasonable time-frame.

It is true our courts at all levels complain of being overburdened. Even the chief justice of the United States has complained he and his colleagues on the Supreme Court are suffering from an almost unmanageable caseload.

It is not beyond the scope of imagination to visualize instances when justice is sought that some plaintiffs will have departed the earthly scene before attaining satisfaction they sought in their lifetimes.

That's hardly our concept of what justice should be all about.

—James Kilpatrick—

Talking About Issues

WASHINGTON — Geraldine Ferraro wants to talk about issues. Splendid: Let us therefore talk today about issues in the field of national defense, and for this purpose let me turn to the scorecard compiled at the end of every Congress by the respected American Security Council.

For the record it should be said that the council was formed in 1955 by a group of business leaders who were deeply concerned by the spread of socialism around the world. Today the council numbers more than 300,000 members who are dedicated to the proposition that communist aggression must steadfastly be opposed by superior intelligence and superior arms. If the council had a motto, it might be drawn from the policy that Gibbon credited to the Antonines: Peace is best preserved by constant preparation for war.

The council annually polls its own members on security issues. In determining a consensus on these issues, it also draws upon the findings of such pollsters as Gallup and Harris. The council then tabulates the yeas and nays on 10 key votes in each Congress. Since Rep. Ferraro came to the House in 1979, 30 key roll calls have been conducted. She was present and voting on 28 of the 30. In the council's view she was right seven times and wrong 21.

These are among the votes Rep. Ferraro has cast:

In 1979 she voted in favor of developing the MX missile, in favor of building a nuclear aircraft carrier, and in favor of barring foreign aid to Laos, Vietnam and Cambodia. The council saw these votes as consistent with wise national policy. But in this same period she voted against a continuing commitment to the defense of Taiwan. She voted against an effort to increase the defense budget for 1981 by $10 billion. She voted against a five-year program of civil defense. She voted, in effect, for unconditional aid to the Sandinista government of Nicaragua.

In the summer of 1981, during the 97th Congress, Rep. Ferraro again cast three votes that won the council's approval. She again supported the MX; she voted to continue research on neutron weapons; and she voted against a motion to halt work on the F-18 fighter. But she went on to vote against an effort to RALEIGH — Ever wonder what the politicians think of the electorate? Some of them must think the voters are pretty stupid.

They won't come right out and say it — not, at least, until the reporter they're chatting with agrees to talk "off the record." That means the reporter will use the information given but not the identity of the source.

These polls are of the opinion that the voters don't have any information about the people running for office and they are constantly searching for that secret ingredient in the booth that makes a voter cast a ballot one way or the other.

Since there are no slick TV ads playing in the voting booth and no 81-page position papers on juvenile law reform, the polls figure that voters must decide on the basis of last names, first names, pretty names and TV characters.

One poll running for office this year told me he was really upbeat because the main character in a major soap opera has the same last name as his. That, he figured, would help him on election day.

For years Wake County Democratic officials have been worrying that Raleigh lawyer Tom McNamara, a Republican, would win a seat in the Legislature. McNamara's qualifications don't worry them. They're concerned that people who watch PM Magazine on the local TV station will confuse him with another Tom McNamara, the pleasant young fellow who jumps up and down, giggles and takes poor kids on roller coaster rides as co-host of the show.

In the ninth congressional district this year, D.G. Martin is running for Congress as a Democrat. He hopes to succeed the area's popular Republican congressman, Jim Martin, who is running for governor. Don't think some Republicans aren't worried — and that some Democrats aren't optimistic — about possible voter confusion. The confused voter would pull D.G. Martin's lever — this theory goes, thinking he or she was reelecting Jim Martin.

Charlotte area voters are too sophisticated for that kind of foul-up.

right? No says one worried Republican. Look at the Republican primary for lieutenant governor, he says, where little known Frank Jordan won the county by a big margin. Jordan would say it was due to the effective communication of his political message, even though he really didn't have one and he only spent pocket change on his campaign. The polls say it was voter confusion. People thought they were voting for Bob Jordan, the Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, who spent a fortune in his bid to win that nomination.

Then there's all the teeth gnashing over the ballot and how names are lined up on it. One Raleigh legislator frets more about the alphabetical placement of his last name than on any controversial vote he may have made in the assembly. He's convinced that anyone more than three or four names down on the ballot cannot win.

One high-ranking Republican was predicting a big GOP sweep the other day. His rationale: "People are going to vote for Reagan and Helms and they're not going to want to switch back and forth all across the ballot looking for names. So, they'll just vote a straight ticket." He made it sound like you had to drive to Los Angeles to pull a Democratic lever and back to New Bern to pull one for the GOP.

No doubt, some people get confused in the voting booth and pull and incorrect lever. But, if the voters are as easy to confuse as these polls would have us believe, then maybe George Bernard Shaw was right when he said, "Democracy substitutes election by the incompetent many for appointment by the corrupt few."

Gaining The Advantage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential candidates can propose summit meetings but only presidents can hold them, a reality that leaves a frustrated Walter F. Mondale to complain about Ronald Reagan's "deathbed conversion" on U.S.-Soviet relations.

"He's talking like Walter Mondale," commented the Democratic candidate, who's been saying that if he were president he'd hold annual summits with Soviet leaders.

Reagan didn't go quite that far. Instead, he called for regular Cabinet-level meetings on "the whole agenda of issues before us."

The administration denied the president's initiative outlined in a speech on Monday to the U.N. General Assembly was political. Mondale insisted it was.

The fact is that U.S.-Soviet relations and arms control are major concerns in the American electorate and can't be ignored in the presidential campaign.

What is going on this week is an intense effort by both candidates to gain political advantage from the public's desire for an easing of tensions in both areas.

Mondale made those issues a major part of his campaign in the belief that voters are disturbed by some of Reagan's anti-Soviet rhetoric, the president's reference to the communist superpower as an "evil empire" and his recent remark in front of an open microphone in which he referred to bombing the Soviet Union.

That decision may prove correct. But it carried a political risk. A president has enormous power to make things happen in foreign policy, or, at least, to make it appear that a great deal is happening.

So, for a year, Mondale has traveled around the country saying he'd hold annual summits with the Soviets and berating Reagan as "the first president since Hoover" not to meet with his Soviet counterpart.

Now, with six weeks to Election Day, Reagan went before the United Nations and talked about the need for arms negotiations and greater communication between the superpowers. Gone was the "evil empire" rhetoric or references to Soviet plans to rule the world.

"Why this change 42 days before the election?" asked Mondale. "Has he been born again, a new Reagan?"

On Friday, Reagan will welcome Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to the White House. Not exactly a summit, but close.

Mondale also will meet with Gromyko. They will sit down in New York on Thursday, an unusual meeting between a top Soviet official and an opposition candidate for president.

But Mondale knew when the session was arranged that his role had to be severely limited. He can't negotiate or pretend to do so. When he announced that he would meet with Gromyko, the Democratic nominee said his primary purpose would be to make it clear he was supporting Reagan's efforts to reduce tensions.

Mondale said he would tell Gromyko that "the Soviet Union has nothing to gain from delay. I will drive a tough bargain."

The Democratic candidate also said he would make the point that the nation is united in its desire for peace and that Reagan would be speaking for all Americans.

He plans to tell the Soviet official — and on this issue no one knows better than Mondale — that "America has only one president at a time."

Strength For Today

The way of the transgressor is hard.

Hard first of all on the transgressor himself. No one works harder, or sacrifices more, or takes more risks and worries more than the criminal in pursuit of ill-gotten gains. Even worse than the suffering which evil brings upon the evil doer is the suffering it brings upon innocent persons.

The transgressions of most of us fall short of criminality, but we all practice enough evil so that we know, or ought to know, its futility and excessive cost. Jealousy, for example, is certainly a sin. The Bible describes it as a vehement flame. Envy can eat out the last vestiges of one's happiness. Selfishness and lack of compassion eventually leave us isolated and unhappy.

Righteousness leads people into ways of peace. Evil leads them into a sea of suffering — hard, hard, hard.

Public Forum

To the editor:

I was raised Christian. But some Christians are making me nervous. They are the "Christians" being embraced by Ronald Reagan and Jesse Helms. "Christians" like Rev. Jimmy Swaggart, a White House regular, who asserts that all Jews, Catholics, and other non-"born-again" Christians are damned.

"Christians" like Carolyn Sundseth, the president's liaison for religious affairs, who, at this year's meeting of the National Religious Broadcasters, call for all "saved Christians" to pray that her fellow White House staffers "get saved or get out" of government.

"Christians" like former Republican Congressman John Conlan who, at that same meeting, called for a united campaign to defeat all non-"born-again" Christians running for public office.

"Christians" like Rev. Falwell who has said, "The idea that religion and politics don't mix was invented by the devil to keep Christians from running their own country." (This is not the Christians' own country, Rev. This country belongs to its citizens, Christian or not. And it was not the Devil who said, "Render, therefore, unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's.")

It is a Presbyterian's privilege to vote for someone who has chuckled his way into becoming Evangelist-in-Chief; a Methodist's privilege to vote for a senator who has cornered the Righteousness market. But if those twinsies win, Religion had better duck for cover. Or.

Episcopalians might have to send money regularly to Rev. Whittington. Jews might have to doff their kippot to Rev. Mooneyham. Muslims might have to shift their Mecca to Lynchburg, Virginia. Catholics might have to hide Sister Theresa. All under the twinkling beatitudinous smile of the one, and the sarcastic pietistic grin of the other, Big Brother.

Can't we stop this stuff? While religious freedom is still with us?

John G. Clark Jr.
Greenville

To the editor:

Please do not try to tell me we are not better off than we were four years ago. We have more people employed than at any other time in our history. The inflation rate is down more than a half and holding. Our interest rates are down.

President Reagan has more women in high places than any president in our history. Namely: In the Cabinet of the United States — Secretary Dole, Secretary Heckler, and Ambassador Kirkpatrick. He has appointed more than 1,200 women in executive positions throughout the government. I am proud to mention, he appointed the first woman to the Supreme Court.

The United States is held in higher regard around the world. We have no hostages held in captivity. The spirits of our people are very high and comfortable under President Reagan.

All the polls show President Reagan far ahead. It looks like Walter Mondale might carry Minnesota and the District of Columbia; I suggest Walter Mondale throw in the towel and let Ronald Reagan have it, take all their surplus money and give it to charities.

Tennessee Inmate Seeks Seat In U.S. Senate

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Daniel Gray is running for the U.S. Senate, and he says his prison reform platform should interest all voters, not just his fellow inmates at Tennessee State Prison.

Gray, serving a 210-year sentence for armed robbery, is running as an independent candidate for the Senate seat being given up by Majority Leader Howard Baker.

Gray's Muslim name, Khalil-Ullah Al-Muhaymin, will appear on the November ballot.

He is spending much of his time inside the Nashville prison trying to register voters and convince other prisoners their ballots count.

"The only way you can really change anything in the Department of Correction or anywhere in the country is through the political process — the right to vote," said Gray, 37, who was once a Republican precinct worker in his hometown of Indianapolis.

Gray's candidacy for federal office as an imprisoned felon is not unheard of — Socialist Eugene V. Debs ran for president from the Atlanta federal prison in 1920 and received 919,799 votes.

But it is unusual, and Gray offers this explanation:

"Everybody in Tennessee should want prisoners to aspire to be congressmen. All this is saying (is) well, I agree with the process that a person should work and should be the best person he possibly can be, irregardless of where he's at."

Gray, who wears a white Muslim prayer cap, or kufi, was convicted of three armed robberies and assault with intent to commit murder 10 years ago in Memphis. He has no chance for parole until the year 2003. Authorities say he was arrested during a shootout with police and tried twice to escape while in the Shelby County jail.

Now he said he has become a "public servant" inside prison — a "go-between" for inmates with problems and prison officials.

Tennessee is one of many states where a hodgepodge of laws give voting rights to certain incarcerated felons, depending on their crime and conviction date.

At the main prison in Nashville, where Gray is housed, 960 of the prison's 1,188 inmates have registered to vote. Gray received about 250 write-in absentee votes from inmates there in the August primary, he said.

Gray filed a lawsuit to force state Election Coordinator David Collins to place his Muslim name on the Nov. 6 ballot along with Republican Victor Ashe, Democrat Albert Gore Jr., and independent Ed McAteer.

Collins had refused to certify a felon on the ballot, but a judge ruled that the U.S. Constitution requires only that Senate candidates be 30 years old, U.S. citizens for nine years and residents of the state — and says nothing about felony convictions.

Gray's campaign platform concerns only prison reform.

"It's going to affect everybody in Tennessee because we need some corrections in Corrections," he said.

He has proposed that Tennessee repeal a law requiring inmates convicted of certain crimes to serve a minimum of 40 percent of their sentence with no time off for good behavior; make parole eligibility mandatory after 10 years; provide alternative sentencing and restitution programs for non-violent crimes; initiate conjugal visitation; and make sentencing uniform statewide.

Patrick McManus, appointed special master by a federal judge who in 1982 declared that conditions in Tennessee's prisons amount to unconstitutional cruel and unusual punishment, said Gray's proposals are in line with current prison reform ideas.

"As described to me, the proposals sound very similar to suggestions made by some of the leading corrections authorities around the country," McManus said.

Congress Sends Reagan Bill To Put Stronger Warnings On Cigarettes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is being noncommittal about whether President Reagan will sign legislation to put sharper health warnings on cigarette packages, but a chief sponsor predicts the measure will become law.

"The administration took no position on the bill throughout the debate and now that it's passed will have to review the legislation before Reagan decides whether to sign it," Marlin Fitzwater, deputy White House press secretary, said Wednesday after Congress completed final action on the measure.

But a leading House sponsor of the bill predicts the president will sign it.

"I'm certain the president will sign the bill because it is a victory for both sides," said Rep. Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn.

"The industry has demonstrated a progressive and courageous attitude and he public health groups have achieved their major objective — that of getting better and more up-to-date information to the American public about the extreme health risks associated with smoking," he said.

The bill, approved by voice vote in both chambers with little discussion, would replace the current general health warning with a rotating series of four warnings.

Each of the new warnings would state, following "Surgeon General's Warning," that:

- "Smoking causes lung cancer, heart disease, emphysema and may complicate pregnancy."
- "Quitting smoking now greatly reduces serious risks to your health."
- "Smoking by pregnant women may result in fetal injury, premature birth and low birth weight."
- "Cigarette smoke contains carbon monoxide."

The current warning: "The surgeon general has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health."

Approval came after adoption of an amendment agreed to by all segments of the tobacco industry — growers, distributors, warehousemen and retailers — and by a coalition of health groups, said Sen. Wendell H. Ford, D-Ky.

Under the amendment, a section of the bill was removed that listed certain findings of the U.S. surgeon general with regard to smoking dangers. They included such statements as "cigarette smoking is the largest preventable cause of illness and premature death in the United States, and is associated with the unnecessary deaths of over 300,000 Americans annually."

Study Urges Protection For Non-Smokers

BOSTON (AP) — A new study of passive smoking recommends that more steps be taken to protect non-smokers from the potentially hazardous effects of breathing other people's cigarette fumes.

Researchers found that the most passive smoking occurs in homes where family members puff more than 40 cigarettes a day. There a non-smoker would inhale the equivalent of one or two cigarettes.

"We conclude that the deleterious effects of passive smoking may occur in proportion to the exposure of non-smokers to smokers in the home, the workplace and the community," the researchers wrote.

The study, directed by Dr. Shigeru Matsukura at Kyoto University School of Medicine in Japan, was published in the New England

Journal of Medicine.

It used a urine test to estimate the amount of smoke inhaled by non-smokers on the job and at home.

Essentially, the experiment showed that the more smokers that a non-smoker comes in contact with, the more smoke he or she inhales. Although this finding had long been assumed, there has been little research until now to show how much passive smoking actually occurs.

The health effects of passive smoking are still controversial, although some experts believe that inhaling other people's smoke irritates the lungs and aggravates angina, among other things.

To help "mitigate the deleterious effects, if any, of passive smoking," the researchers recommended:

- Family members shouldn't smoke at home in the presence of children or other non-smokers.
  - At work, smoking should be discouraged in the same room with non-smokers.
  - Smoking should be restricted in such public places as hospitals, restaurants, meeting rooms, transportation vehicles and even sidewalks.
- To estimate the amount of tobacco smoke inhaled by non-smokers, the researchers took urine samples from 472 people and analyzed the amount of cotinine they contained. Cotinine is left when nicotine is broken down in the body, and experts believe it provides an accurate estimate of how much smoke has been consumed.

Movie Studio

GREENSBORO (AP) — Canada's largest independent movie producer — Magder Studios of Toronto — may locate a motion picture studio in Caswell County, according to a Greensboro newspaper.

"We may have something to say in a few weeks," said Zale Magder, the company owner. "We haven't made any firm decisions yet."

Magder told The Greensboro Daily News & Record no decision had been reached on the size of the proposed project. He said officials from North Carolina were in Toronto on Tuesday to discuss the potential move. He declined to say who the officials were.

Magder and other company officials were in Caswell County on Sept. 10-13 to look the area over, the newspaper said.

If the Canadian movie producer comes to North Carolina, it would be the third studio producing full-length motion pictures to locate in the state. The others are Earl Owensby Studios of Shelby and the North Carolinal Film Corp. in Wilmington.

Pentagon Finds Cost Abuse Widespread

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon, stung by suggestions it is indifferent to waste and fraud, says it has uncovered 17,000 cases of contractor abuses in 2½ years, but its chief investigator says he still finds more under "every rock I turn over."

"We know we're very vulnerable," Inspector General Joseph Sherick, who has been involved in Pentagon procurement for 34 years, told a news conference Wednesday at which he defended the Pentagon's own efforts to uncover abuses.

"We know that we have control problems," he said. "And we're doing a tremendous amount of work on improving our internal controls." But at the same time, Sherick said, "I keep turning over rocks and every rock I turn over I find new things."

Sherick's appearance came a week after a Senate subcommittee heard about the $7,622 the Air Force paid for a 10-cup coffeemaker for the C-5A cargo plane and about arm rests for that airplane that cost $670.06 apiece.

The inspector general said he hadn't known about those cases before they came to light in the Senate hearing.

But he asserted that many contractor abuses that get in the newspapers are recycled horror stories uncovered by his own 1,500 investigators.

"Most of these people are living off our own audits," he said of the investigators in Congress and elsewhere who call attention to bloated prices paid by the Pentagon for everyday items.

Sherick said he could not say how much money is lost to fraud and waste in a defense establishment that buys weapons and equipment at the rate of $600 million a day.

He said overcharging the government is the exception, not the rule among the 160,000 contractors and subcontractors who supply the military.

The military has "a lot of good contractors and a lot of honest contractors," he said. "But ... this is a big operation. You're not running a hot dog stand."

One problem, he said, is that the government cannot simply to decide to stop dealing with some contractors.

"Who do you get to build aircraft carriers or submarines or whatever if they have that unique capability?" he asked.

Over the last 2½ years, he said, the Defense Department's criminal investigative units have referred about 17,000 cases for prosecution or administrative action and won more than 1,300 convictions.

In addition, he said, Defense Department audits have resulted in savings of $2.8 billion while audits by the General Accounting Office, an arm of Congress that looks into big defense contracts, have saved $3.6 billion.

One cause of abuses, he said, may be the Defense Department's willingness to take the contractors' word for it that what they manufacture is up to par.

Years ago, he said, the Pentagon had its own arsenals and shipyards and military people who had worked in those places served as inspectors in the plants and shipyards of contractors.

About 15 or 20 years ago, he said, the Pentagon withdrew its own inspectors and started to accept the manufacturers' own certifications of quality.

"And what we're seeing is the breakdown of those internal quality assurance programs," he said. The solution, he said, is to go back to the old system of stationing Pentagon inspectors on the production lines.

Sherick said he tries to win convictions of fraudulent contractors, but federal prosecutors are often reluctant to undertake a complicated trial that could take weeks to win a single conviction. He said he's been appealing to prosecutors' sense of patriotism to get them to take defense contracting cases.

"I think we're doing better," he said. "I've gone out and talked to a lot of them. I've tried to appeal to their patriotism, their concern for the taxpayers' money and I think we're getting a lot of good support."

"But it's been a missionary job. After all, we're competing. When we take a young U.S. attorney and hand him a six-week trial on a cost mischarging (case) with thousands of documents, you know all he gets out of that is one conviction, whereas he can run three bank robbers to jail in one day."

"And besides that he's got to convince some jury that this contractor who is sitting over there with his preacher behind him and 87 character witnesses, that this man sold us substandard armor plate. That's tough."

Bush To Release Data For Income

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Vice President George Bush, trying to avoid prolonged questioning about his finances such as Geraldine Ferraro faced, is preparing to disclose "essential information" of his tax returns for the past three years.

In an abrupt reversal after steadfastly refusing to release his taxes, Bush directed his attorney Wednesday to begin preparing the information for release — probably sometime next week.

Bush, who puts his net worth at $2.1 million, is the only major candidate for president or vice president who has not released his taxes.

Ms. Ferraro, the Democratic candidate for vice president, released her tax returns and those of her husband after weeks of controversy about their finances engulfed her campaign.

Bush, on a campaign trip to the Midwest, said he decided to look into releasing his tax information "just to end the questioning."

His press secretary, Peter Teeley, said, "We would like to get on with the campaign and not answer questions about taxes every day."

Teeley said the "essential information" likely would include Bush's income, tax deductions and the amount of taxes paid.

It will not include details on the sources of Bush's income and assets, which are supposed to be kept secret from the vice president under terms of a blind trust he established when taking office to guard against conflict of interest, Teeley said.

He said Bush's attorney would begin gathering the material Friday and that it might be ready by the beginning of next week "at the earliest."

Violent Protests Hit NATO Maneuvers

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Police fired tear gas to disperse 200 demonstrators who cut through the fence of a munitions depot and made close to 100 arrests nationwide as violent protests continued to plague NATO's fall maneuvers.

Government and military officials say the protests have included an increasingly violent series of attacks on soldiers, as well as costly vandalism and acts of sabotage.

On Wednesday, hundreds of demonstrators tried to break into munitions depots, damage military equipment and blockade bases to protest the Autumn Forge exercises, which involve about 250,000 troops from seven NATO countries.

At least 96 arrests were made during the day in scattered incidents in the strategic Fulda Gap region near the East German border. No serious injuries were reported.

Leaders of the West German peace movement have disassociated themselves from the violence against soldiers, and Carl-Dieter Spranger, an Interior Ministry official, said members of West Germany's "terrorist fringe" were to blame for most of the trouble.

Spranger provided sketchy details of about half a dozen "life-threatening actions against exercising troops." He said unknown assailants had thrown incendiary devices at military vehicles, sabotaged railroad tracks, planted spikes in roads used by convoys and slashed tires.

In the worst incident Wednesday, police fired tear gas to disperse about 200 protesters who had cut through a fence at a munitions depot in Grebenhain, 30 miles northeast of Frankfurt. Fulda police said 55 protesters were arrested during the hour-long clash at the site, where the demonstrators claim chemical weapons are stored.

Walter Nebgen, spokesman for the Frankfurt-based U.S. Army 5th Corps, told The Associated Press by telephone that demonstrators have damaged property and equipment "almost daily" at bases in Wildflecken, Hanau and Fulda.

The 5th Corps is not participating in the Autumn Forge maneuvers, but 42 demonstrations have been staged at its base since last weekend and 21 "involved criminal destruction of property," according to Lt. Col. Arnold Laidig, chief corps spokesman.

"These wrongful acts include numerous incidents of painting signs and military equipment, cutting holes in fences, damaging other property and equipment, and wrongful entry into restricted areas," he said in a statement.

"These incidents, directed mainly against the U.S. military, have caused significant damage to equipment and property," Laidig said. "There have been no disruptions to normal activities."

Nebgen said no exact figures were available but that fewer than 20 military vehicles had been spray-painted.

Demonstrators cut through fences Wednesday at a U.S. Army barracks, two American and one NATO munitions depots, according to a Fulda police spokesman who, in keeping with West German custom, asked not to be identified.

Protesters also tried to blockade U.S. military facilities in Bimbach and Greisfeld, where tree boughs were put in front of the main gate, hesaid.

At Bimbach, about 150 demonstrators cut through a fence but fled when police arrived, the spokesman told The AP by telephone.

Three British soldiers participating in the maneuvers were hospitalized Saturday after being shot with a pellet gun while on leave in Hanover. But authorities described it as a street fight unrelated to the protests.

Panel OKs S. Security Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee has approved President Reagan's election year request to guarantee Social Security recipients a cost-of-living increase Jan. 1 even if 1984 inflation doesn't exceed 3 percent.

On a voice vote, the House Ways and Means Committee voted Wednesday to waive the requirement that the Consumer Price Index go up 3 percent to trigger a cost-of-living increase.

The action was taken despite predictions that inflation would exceed the 3 percent figure by year's end.

"Right now it looks like the trigger will be reached," Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, told fellow committee members before the vote. He said the latest Consumer Price Index figures indicate the cost-of-living increase will be around 3.6 percent. A committee estimate ranged from 3.3 percent to 3.6 percent.

But not enacting the Senate-passed bill would entail a risk, Pickle said. Congress will be in recess when figures for the third quarter of 1984 are released late next month and the numbers could show a sharp decline in inflation, he said.

"This is the best course for us to take," Pickle said.

The Senate voted to waive the 3 percent trigger after Reagan announced in July that he favored the move.

On Friday, when the latest inflation figures indicated the trigger would be reached, Pickle said, "It should be clear to everyone now that President Reagan acted hastily and for political reasons when he asked two months ago that Congress tinker with Social Security benefits."

Before the vote Wednesday, Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., said he advised the White House in July that the trigger might not be reached and "it would be difficult to explain to the American people, in particular senior citizens, that they might not get a COLA" right before the elections.

Sailor's Frozen Body May Give Clue To Old Mystery

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — The body of a sailor, almost perfectly preserved in the permanently frozen soil of the Arctic for more than 130 years, might help solve the mystery of how an 1845 British expedition perished to the last man.

Owen Beattie, an anthropologist at the University of Alberta, and two colleagues, hope tissue samples taken from the body of Petty Officer John Torrington will indicate if the more than 100 men in the expedition died of sickness, food poisoning or scurvy.

"We know a fair amount of the peripheral information about the Franklin expedition...but what we wanted to do was to...look at the remains of the sailors," Beattie told a reporter on Wednesday.

"What we're looking for...is to find out what were the stresses, dietary, environmental or whatever stresses on the individual."

Beattie, pathologist Dr. Roger Amy and Eric Damkjar, an Arctic archeologist, spent three weeks last summer on Beechey Island, a rocky crag linked to King William Island in the central Arctic.

They exhumed the body of Torrington, 20, who died in the spring of 1846. The body was almost perfectly preserved in the permafrost, and the scientists took small tissue samples from it last summer.

Two other men who died at about the same time lie in nearby graves and, Beattie said, at least one of them is equally well preserved.

Beattie said tissue tests and information from skeletal remains found elsewhere will offer clues to explain the cause of death of the seamen and scientists on the data-gathering expedition led by Sir John Franklin. Possible causes include scurvy, which is caused by a lack of Vitamin C, other dietary deficiencies or food poisoning.

The Franklin expedition left Britain in 1845 to sail the Northwest Passage and collect scientific data. That winter their ships became locked in ice near Beechey. The ice cleared in the late summer of 1846 and they continued south of King William Island. There they became trapped by ice again that winter.

Franklin died in June 1847. In April 1848, the 105 survivors of the original 129-man crew abandoned their ships and began walking south.

They left behind a note that said they had taken the ships' life boats with them and were making for the mouth of the Back River on the mainland.

"They left the ship...either to await rescue, perhaps at the mouth of the Back River, or perhaps even to row upriver into mainland Canada to a Hudson's Bay post," said Beattie.

In 1879, an American expedition under Lt. Frederick Schwatka found the skeletons of the Franklin crew who fell on the march across King William Island. The last of the skeletons were on a desolate stretch of the mainland, which Schwatka named Starvation Cove.

"It's been well documented...where they walked and where they, literally, dropped," Beattie said.

The scientist said there are many theories about why the men left their ships — which have never been found.

Beattie said he and his colleagues found symptoms of scurvy in many of the bones of the crew. There may have been discipline problems after two years of ice-locked idleness, or there may have been food shortages.

Laboratory Bombed

TARRYTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — An explosion that shattered 100 windows at a research laboratory has been claimed by an anti-apartheid terrorist group linked to 12 other bombings in the past 22 months, including a blast at a South African consulate just 21 hours earlier.

The 25 to 50 pounds of dynamite detonated outside Union Carbide's four-story Silicones Building research lab Wednesday night punched a 20-by-20 foot in an exterior wall, but caused no injuries, officials said.

The United Freedom Front claimed responsibility for the blast in calls to police and two newspapers, said Greenburgh police Sgt. Robert Rohs.

The FBI earlier had linked the group to the bombing of the South African Consulate on Park Avenue in New York City early Wednesday morning.

The organization is suspected in 12 bombings over the past 22 months in the New York metropolitan area and Washington, D.C., including a November 1983 bomb explosion in the U.S. Capitol, authorities said.

The latest bombing occurred at Union Carbide's campus-like laboratory for research in chemistry and plastics in Tarrytown, 20 miles north of New York City, a spokesman said.

An anonymous caller phoned a bomb threat to police around 8:50 p.m., said Rohs. Warnings were also received by the New York Daily News and Gannett Westchester Rockland Newspapers, he said.

Pitt Schools Win Governor's Award For 'Gifted' Program

A Pitt County program called "Project Exodus" designed to mesh school and community experiences to provide more educational opportunities for gifted students won a Governor's Programs of Excellence award Wednesday.

Innovative programs such as dance program in Brunswick County for handicapped elementary students and a bilingual program in Forsyth County brought awards for 14 North Carolina school systems.

Gov. Jim Hunt presented the awards Wednesday to the school systems during a ceremony at the McKimmon Center in Raleigh.

"These educators are truly our Olympians, and today all of North Carolina is proud of the innovation and the excellence that is represented here," Hunt said.

"These programs represent someone's imagination put into practice," Hunt said before presenting the awards. "They represent the risk-taking and hard thinking of educational entrepreneurs. At their best, these programs are the margin of excellence that can propel North Carolina's public schools to even greater heights."

The Programs of Excellence project was begun in 1983.

The winning systems are their projects were:

— Brunswick County: A developmental dance program for handicapped elementary school students. The program integrates physical fitness with language, perceptual, academic and motor skills to help the students learn through movement.

— Buncombe County: An extracurricular organization called "Extra Special People Club" that led to the interaction of autistic, trainable and multi-handicapped students with their non-handicapped peers.

— Burlington City: A performance appraisal project to calibrate principals' ratings of teachers performance and to improve their ability to write and execute professional growth plans.

— Camden County: A program called "Monitoring Objective Mastery Through Technology" designed to help teachers become more objective-oriented by using a computer to minimize their paper work and record-keeping.

— Columbus County: A systemwide discipline program in which school employees, parents and law enforcement officers worked together to tackle discipline problems in junior high schools.

— Currituck County: The use of mobile science centers for such subjects as life science, physical science, space and weather.

— Durham County: A project called "Mecca: Program for K-4 Accelerated Learners" in which teachers and library coordinators worked together to select resources for accelerated learners.

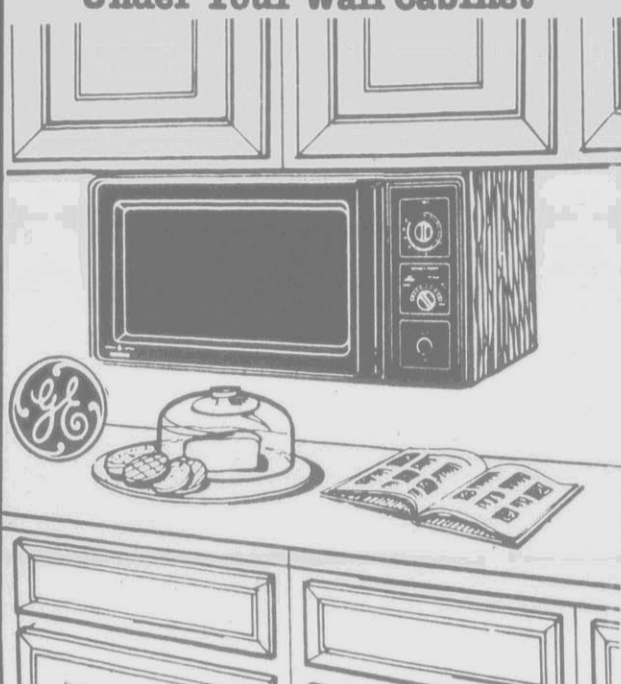

— Winston-Salem/Forsyth County: A program in bilingual education to meet the linguistic, cultural, educational and emotional needs of students with limited proficiency in English.

— Haywood County: A program called "Systems Approach to Performance Appraisal and Improvement" that provided scientifically developed set of procedures for an appraisal system.

Holmes said warrants for the other two persons charged in connection with the investigation will be served over the next few days.

Conner said the three were accused of taking tote bags, knapsacks and duffle bags, valued at at least $350, while working for the firm.

British Facing New Coal Strike

LONDON (AP) — Britain's domestic news agency reported today that mine foremen have voted to authorize a strike that would shut down the one-third of the nation's coal mines not already idled by a six-month-old miners' walkout.

Press Association, citing unofficial reports, said 80 percent of the foremen in Scotland and Nottinghamshire voted for a strike, while the vote in the traditionally moderate Midlands was nearly as overwhelming.

Official results in the voting, which ended Wednesday, are due Friday. Two-thirds of the 17,000 foremen must agree for a strike to be authorized. The mines cannot legally operate without the foremen on duty to supervise health and safety.

"Things are certainly moving in our direction," declared Arthur Scargill, leader of the 183,000-strong National Union of Mineworkers. He called his union out on strike without a membership vote on March 12 to protest a plan by the state-owned National Coal Board to close unprofitable mines.

"There can be no compromise as far as this union is concerned on the question of closure of pits," Scargill said.

The voting by the foremen was completed as Ian MacGregor, chairman of the coal board, submitted a peace formula to union leaders at a five-hour meeting late Wednesday. The details were not disclosed.

Leaders of the foremen's union, the National Association of Colliery Overmen, Deputies and Shotfirers, said they would await the result of the strike vote before responding to the board's proposal.

The foremen decided to take a strike vote after the coal board refused to pay 3,000 foremen who refused to cross miners' picket lines.

The miners' union called its strike in a bid to foil coal board plans to close 20 money-losing mines and cut 20,000 jobs through attrition. The union says no mine, regardless of profitability, should but shut if it has coal that can be safely mined.

The stoppage has shut two-thirds of Britain's 175 mines. Those still operating have been the scene of violent clashes as pickets attempt to prevent fellow miners from entering the collieries.

North Carolina has 421 small general stores - variety stores with less than 25 employees, according to 1982 figures from the U.S. Census Bureau.

Isidore Slogs Across Florida

BOCA RATON, Fla. (UPI) — Tropical storm Isidore, "big, broad and sloppy," churned ashore today with winds up to 50 mph, torrential rain and three-foot tides, but residents found it just another thunderstorm.

Forecasters warned the worst of the storm was still to reach land at midmorning, but said it was still "no cause for alarm." Residents and businesses made only minimal preparations.

Forecaster Bob Case of the National Hurricane Center in Miami said the center of the storm began moving ashore between Boca Raton and Boynton Beach, north of Fort Lauderdale, at 8:45 a.m. EDT.

The greatest concern was voiced by agriculture officials, who feared the storm's winds and rain might spread a highly contagious canker disease plaguing Florida's billion-dollar citrus industry.

Authorities in the area reported little rain and only light winds as the center of the storm arrived. In Miami, a steady rain complicated morning rush hour traffic.

"We're having occasional rain with a few heavy squalls and gusty winds of about 22-25 mph," said Carole Doyle, a civil defense worker at Pompano Beach. "When I came to work this morning there was no water standing on the roads. It was like your usual Florida thunderstorm."

The season's ninth tropical storm was over the coast at latitude 26.3 north, longitude 79.9 west, or about 15 miles northeast of Fort Lauderdale.

"Isidore is moving on a west northwest to northwest course at 10 mph and is expected to continue this motion today," the hurricane center said.

"A portion of the eye is over the coast right now, but you've got to remember that that eye is big, broad and sloppy," Case said. "It has a diameter of 30 or 40 miles."

Gales extended 100 miles from the center of the minimal storm, which lashed the Bahamas with gales and flooding rains Wednesday.

Neil Frank, director of the hurricane center, said Isidore was a minimal storm that posed no great threat in its present state.

"There is no cause for alarm," Frank said. "There never has been except for the possibility of some strengthening."

The 2 million residents from Palm Beach to Miami had braced for the storm Wednesday but forecasters said the main threat would come from 5 to 10 inches of rain and tides of 1 to 2 feet above normal.

Jobs Program

PARIS (AP) — The French government says it will wage "a real war" on youth unemployment with special training and make-work civic programs to help 800,000 jobless people under 25.

Of France's current 2.36 million unemployed, 500,000, or 21 percent, are under age 21. The country's total unemployment rate is 9.5 percent, and a U.N. report Tuesday said France should expect it to rise to 11 percent by next year.

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt on Wednesday announced that he has proclaimed the week of Sept. 30-Oct. 6 as High Tech Week in North Carolina, and a number of events are scheduled during that week.

Cobbless-Rose Opens League Play

By WOODY PEELE

Rose High School football coach Chip Williams has been looking around this week, trying to find a running back.

Oh, you thought he had one in sophomore Anthony Cobb? Cobb, who raced 21 times for 252 yards and three touchdowns last week against Eastern Wayne? Cobb, who has recorded 433 of the 462 yards rushed for by the Rampants in the first three games?

Well, think again. In the first quarter against the Warriors, Cobb took a shot to the knee. Forget that he rushed for over 200 yards after taking the hit. He did sustain an injury — a stretched ligament in the knee — and as long as he kept moving, the injury caused no problem. Obviously, Cobb kept moving the rest of the night. But once he stopped, the knee began to tighten up on him, and by Friday morning, it was obvious that it would be a problem.

"He'll be out of action for two to three weeks," Williams said with regret. "Hopefully, he'll be able to play after that." Right now, Cobb's leg is encased in a cast running from the top of the thigh to the ankle.

The injury thus sidelines the top two running backs Williams had in his stable. Tom Moore suffered a broken leg just above the ankle in the opening game against Jacksonville, and is expected to miss six or more weeks. He had opened in the fullback spot while Cobb was a tailback.

Over the two weeks since Moore's injury, Williams has been searching for help in the backfield, and now the search has been extended.

He hopes that he's found the answer — at least part of it. Late in the game last week, he moved second unit quarterback Ervin Best into Cobb's spot and the results were good if not outstanding. "He looked good and he's looked good in practice this week," Williams said. "We've looked at others but they haven't done the job. Both William Ward and Mo Matthews have also looked good at fullback this week. I think it would be safe to say that two of the three will definitely be in the starting lineup this weekend."

The problems for the Rampants become more important when it is noted that the opponent for Friday night is Northern Nash — the first of seven straight Big East Conference opponents.

"We're going to have to try and be more effective with our passing game," Williams said. "I wasn't really pleased with it in the Eastern Wayne game, but we're going to try to be more balanced (in the attack) against Northern Nash. With a back like Cobb we can be more ground oriented, but without him we have to open it up more to help both games."

"As a coach, I try to keep things close so that we will have a chance to win. And we're going out to win Friday night."

Last Thursday night's 28-13 victory over Eastern Wayne again met with mixed reviews from Williams.

"I thought that Churchill Thomas did a good job in filling in for L.C.

Atkinson after he got banged up against Eastern at defensive tackle. Steve Wall continues to improve every week at offensive guard. But we're still not where we want to be in the offensive line," Williams said.

"We seem to go in stages. We play good for a while and then we don't play so good. We have yet to put together a good third quarter."

"I've also been pleased with the way Clay Young has played at wingback."

While Williams said that he was generally pleased with the defense against Eastern, there were a few plays that disappointed him — the coverage of two middle screens and a pass over the middle. One of the screens and the pass over the middle went for touchdowns. "On the first we had several missed tackles, and we had a man out of position on the second. We've got to be more careful from here on. The way our situation is now (on offense) we may need to hold our opponents scoreless to have a chance to win."

"And I was disappointed in the intensity shown in the third quarter. Too, we can't have big losses like we had because of penalties. We lost 51 yards on the clipping penalty on our first play of the game." On that, Cobb ran for 36 yards, only to have it called back and 15 yards marched off from the line of scrimmage — a total difference of 51 yards in field

Player Has 2nd Surgery

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Critically injured University of Colorado football player Ed Reinhardt has had to undergo a second operation to reduce swelling in his brain and he remains comatose in a Eugene hospital.

Tom Lawry, a spokesman for Sacred Heart General Hospital, said that doctors made the decision to operate after there was evidence of new swelling during a 48 hour period.

He said Reinhardt underwent surgery late Tuesday and the increased swelling was confirmed by doctors. A monitor was installed during surgery to detect increased pressure in Reinhardt's skull.

"This does represent a setback in his recovery," Lawry said, "although he is stable and remains in critical condition."

A hospital nursing supervisor said that Reinhardt's condition was unchanged early today.

Reinhardt, a 19-year-old sophomore who was a standout tight end on the Colorado team, was injured when he was tackled by two University of Oregon football players in the fourth quarter of a game here Sept. 15.

He walked to the sidelines but collapsed and has been in a coma since. Doctors have said Reinhardt probably would not have survived had it not been for an injection he received at the stadium to reduce brain swelling.

Reinhardt underwent surgery shortly after his arrival at the hospital for removal of a blood clot.

"The staff of the intensive care unit continues to closely monitor his condition," Lawry said, "and the family requests prayers and support for Ed's recovery."

position. "We can't have things like this happen and hope to play well."

Northern Nash, which hosts Rose Friday night at 8 p.m., is "an improved team," Williams says. The Knights come into the game with a 2-1 record. They downed Warren County, 21-12, in the opener, then lost to highly ranked Vance County, 16-14, in their second game. Last week, they topped Southern Nash, 38-0.

"They played Vance a very good game, and had a chance to beat them. They outplayed them the entire game but lost it on the scoreboard."

"Their quarterback, Sam Vines, does a good job of controlling the team and he passes and run the ball well. They have two good running backs in Reggie Ricks and Julius Jones."

Williams said he feels wingback Gerald Sumler is perhaps the most dangerous man on the team. "He has outstanding speed," the coach said. "They like to give him the ball on reverses and they like to pass deep to him. He's a threat every time he gets his hands on the ball."

On defense, the Knights show a lot of 50's and have been consistent. "Their nose guard, Jeff Weston, appears to be a real good player,"

Williams noted.

Can Rose pass against the Knights? "I certainly hope so," Williams said. "I think we'll have a fair running game, but we have to be consistent. I don't know if we can break one, maybe we can. But we have to control the ball and grind it out."

"It's a real challenge for the kids and I think they'll be ready."

Reed Expecting Tough Contest

Tom Reed, coach of the N.C. State Wolfpack, is looking for some heavy hitting Saturday night in Carter-Finley Stadium.

His Wolfpack will be playing host to East Carolina's Pirates in a 7 p.m. contest that is expected to draw in excess of 50,000 people again.

"The game against East Carolina will be our more physical to date," Reed said as his club tries to snap a two-game losing skein in the contest. "That, of course, is because of the intensity of the rivalry."

"(East Carolina is) a good football team, one that hasn't quite jelled yet. They're explosive on offense, and on defense, they're very aggressive. They also have an outstanding kicking game. They're just waiting to put everything together," Reed said.

"From our point of view, we've got to have a strong week of practice. We've got to learn from the Wake Forest game, but we must also put it in the past and prepare ourselves for a hard-nosed football game against East Carolina."

Reed, in his baptismal game as the Wolfpack skipper, well remembers last year's collision with the Pirates.

A record crowd (at the time) of 57,700 turned out for the battle, and it was rewarded with an exciting, hard-hitting contest that saw ECU rebound from a 16-7 deficit in the final quarter to capture a 22-16 decision after a last-second State effort came up short.

The victory gave the Pirates their fourth win in the series, which has seen the Pack emerge triumphant ten times.

Reed has spent the week, too, trying to fill some gaps caused by injuries. In the 24-15 loss to the Deacons, the Wolfpack lost nose guard Dillard Jones with a knee injury, while cornerback Jeff Byrd and outside linebacker Frank Bush were also hurt. Byrd suffered a concussion and Bush, an ankle injury. Jones is not expected to play Saturday and the other two are questionable.

IT'S A BETTER WAY!

Angels Win, Keep Race Going On

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

It was an odd mixture of reactions. Kansas City Royals Manager Dick Howser took it in stride. Minnesota Twins Manager Billy Gardner was looking on the bright side. And California Angels Manager John McNamara was relieved just to win again.

When the evening had ended, baseball's only undecided race — the American League West — had gotten a little closer. The California Angels beat Kansas City 2-0 behind Ron Romanick's seven-hitter, and Minnesota lost 9-3 to the Chicago White Sox.

That left the Twins 1½ games behind K.C. with the Angels 3½ back. The only hope left for the Angels is that they win all four of their remaining games while the Royals lose all three of theirs, and that would only earn the Angels a tie.

"They're still hanging in there, aren't they," Howser said after he saw Romanick outduel his own Bud Black, who pitched a four-hitter. "Our pitcher pitched well, but theirs was even better."

The Royals finish with three in Oakland after a day off today. Minnesota has four at Cleveland, and California plays four in Texas, both series starting tonight.

Gardner, whose Twins lost in Chicago for the second straight night, said, "We didn't lose anything. Tomorrow is a big game for us. Kansas City doesn't play."

McNamara was grateful that his club had finally ended a five-game losing streak.

"It feels good to win one," he said. "I knew I'd remember what that feeling was like before the season was over. We have to win as much as we can and we'll see what happens."

Brian Downing and Doug DeCinces drove in California's only runs, both in the sixth inning. With one out, Dick Schofield singled and Black walked Fred Lynn. Downing drove in the first run with a single off the glove of third baseman George Brett, and DeCinces' single scored the second run.

Elsewhere in the AL, Milwaukee defeated Detroit 7-5, New York beat Baltimore 3-1, Toronto downed Boston 8-4. Cleveland shut out Seattle 1-0 and Oakland defeated Texas 7-5.

White Sox 9, Twins 3

Chicago scored five runs in the third inning off Ken Schrom, capped by Greg Walker's three-run homer, as the White Sox spoiled Minnesota's chance to gain ground. Richard Dotson broke a personal five-game losing streak by going the distance for the 14th time this season, scattering eight hits.

Marc Hill and Tom Paciorek also homered for the White Sox. Randy Bush drove in two runs for Minnesota with a double in the first inning.

Brewers 7, Tigers 5

Milwaukee rallied with four runs in the eighth inning to stop the Tigers. Ben Oglivie's two-run double tied the score 5-5, and Robin Yount hit an RBI single that put the Brewers ahead by a run.

Chet Lemon, Nelson Simmons and Dwight Lowry each had a pair of RBI for the Tigers, who scored three runs in the sixth inning to break a 1-1 tie and led 5-3 after seven innings.

Brewer right-hander Don Sutton, who did not figure in the decision, gave up five runs on 10 hits, two walks and had a season-high nine strikeouts before leaving after the seventh.

Yankees 3, Orioles 1

John Montefusco threw five hitless innings, and Don Baylor hit his 27th home run of the season as the Yankees beat Storm Davis and the Orioles. Davis held the Yankees to one hit through five innings before New York broke a scoreless tie in the sixth on singles by Andre Robertson, Willie Randolph and Ken Griffey.

Montefusco retired the first nine Baltimore batters and didn't give up a hit until Rich Dauer led off the sixth with a single. Montefusco left after seven innings, having given up only two hits, when he developed a blister on his pitching hand.

Blue Jays 8, Red Sox 4

Toronto scored four runs in the third inning, capped by Ernie Whitt's two-run homer, and Doyle Alexander pitched a seven-hitter to stop the Red Sox. George Bell also homered for the Blue Jays, and Mike Easler hit one for Boston.

Alexander struck out seven and walked just one batter.

The Red Sox led 4-1 after two innings, but Toronto scored the four runs in the third, then added one each in the sixth, seventh and ninth innings. Rance Mulliniks drove in three runs for Toronto.

Indians 1, Mariners 0

Bert Blyleven pitched his fourth shutout of the season with a seven-hitter to outduel Seattle's Jim Beattie, who pitched a six-hitter. The Indians scored the only run of the game on Jerry Willard's sacrifice fly in the fourth inning.

Blyleven struck out six and walked one as he lowered his ERA to 2.81 with his 12th complete game. With an 18-7 record, Blyleven has the most victories since he won 20 with the Twins in 1973.

A's 7, Rangers 5

Dwayne Murphy hit a three-run homer as Oakland scored all of its runs in the second inning off Danny Darwin. Mike Davis had a two-run single in the inning.

The Rangers scored all their runs in the fifth. Mickey Rivers' two-run double, Buddy Bell's RBI single and George Wright's two-run triple accounted for the scoring.

Faquin Captures Seniors Tourney

Mary Clay Faquin of Asheville fired a 78 yesterday and took a six-stroke victory in the 17th annual North Carolina Senior Women's Golf Association championship tournament which wound up at Brook Valley Country Club.

Faquin combined her 78 with a first round 80 from Tuesday's play for a 158 total to easily capture the championship flight of the tournament, which drew 106 women from across the state.

Annie Jones of Cary and Buena Haile of Hendersonville tied for second place in the championship flight with 164 totals.

In the first flight, Ruth Carr of Morganton took first place with a 180, while Elma Kean of Asheville and Carolyn Slight of Hickory tied for second at 186. The second flight went to Roz Harris of Charlotte with a 182. Tying for second place were Laura May Ray of Waynesville, Janice McConnell of Pinehurst and Evelyn Ward of Brook Valley. All three had a 189.

The third flight was won by Kitty Myers of Gastonia with a 190, followed by Lea Burgess of Marion with a 191.

Jane Snowden of Tryon won the fourth flight with a 197, with Barbara Masters of Cary second at 205. Adie Kirby of Tryon won the fifth flight with a 204, while Betty Smith of Pinehurst finished second with a 206. Carol Carr of Swansboro was the sixth flight winner at 220, while Johnnie Sue Knight of Greensboro and Marie Pearson of Tryon tied for second with 229's.

Bon Gore of Greensboro won the low net category with a 142. Other flight winners were: First, Nell Crumley of Morehead City, 149; Second, Helen Wayant of Morehead City, 145; Third, Ann Ditto of Greensboro, 144; Fourth, Ellen McDonald of Raleigh, Bea Vernelson of Swansboro and Lil McLawhorn of Whispering Pines, tied at 150; Fifth, Barbara Stripp of Hendersonville, 149; and Sixth, Virginia Jefferies of Raleigh, 160.

Lady Rams Take Pair

WILSON — Greene Central High School took a pair of volleyball victories yesterday in a tri-meet with Goldsboro and the hosting Eastern N.C. School for the Deaf.

The Lady Rams downed Goldsboro, 15-10, 15-5, in two straight games in the first match. Sharon Croom served up 10 points in the match, while Angie Wilkes had three spikes and three blocks.

ENCSD proved a little tougher, taking one game from the Rams. Greene Central won the opening game, 15-7, but lost the second, 15-13. The Lady Rams then won the clincher, 15-5, to gain the sweep.

Croom led service points with 21 while Cynthia Corbett added 15. Melody Bowen had four hits and three blocks in the match.

The wins move Greene Central's record to 7-1 on the season. The Lady Rams return to action on Tuesday, when Greene Central and Farmville Central both visit Ayden-Grifton in the first Eastern Carolina Conference action for the three teams.

Chocowinity..... 1-1
Belhaven..... 1-0
Aurora..... 0-1

CHOCOWINITY — Chocowinity High School split a pair of Tobacco Belt Conference volleyball matches yesterday, defeating Aurora and losing to Belhaven.

In the first match of the tri-match, Chocowinity downed Aurora, 16-14 and 15-5. The Lady Indians were led by Christie Machado in the second game, when she served up seven straight points. Christy Bradley added five more and Zena Warren served up the other three.

But Belhaven came back to take a 15-12, 15-5 win over Chocowinity in the second match.

The results left Belhaven with a 3-1 record in league play, while Chocowinity is 2-2 and Aurora is 1-3.

Next Wednesday, Belhaven and Aurora will meet Eastern North Carolina School for the Deaf at Chocowinity, with the Indians taking an off-week. The Tribe returns to action on October 10, traveling to School for the Deaf.

NCAA Investigation Nets Cage Probation For Akron

MISSION, Kan. (AP) — The University of Akron has been placed on probation for a two-year period as a result of violations in its men's basketball program, the NCAA announced today.

The violations cited by the NCAA included academic irregularities, ethical conduct, out-of-season practices and tryouts, extra benefits and improper inducements from 1980 to 1983.

The team will be prohibited from any post-season play during the 1984-85 season, according to the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Committee on Infractions. The university remains eligible for television appearances.

The university also will not be allowed to award athletically related financial aid to more than three new basketball players during the 1985-86 academic year, the NCAA said.

It is understood that no more than 13 members of the Akron team may receive athletically related financial aid during that year, according to an NCAA news release.

Under the terms of the probation and sanctions, the university is required to disassociate two representatives of its athletics interests from involvement in any activities related to the recruitment of prospective student-athletes. The two were not named in the news release.

Akron Coach Bob Rupert, who compiled a 37-71 record at Akron over four years, retired in March. Published reports said the NCAA began investigating the basketball program in April to check allegations of practice sessions before the specified starting date last season and violations in recruiting.

Senior standout Joe Jakubick, who led the nation in scoring with a 30.1 average, criticized the program last season, saying the school failed to spend money at a Division I level.

Jakubick's allegations were denied by Gordon Larson, who resigned two weeks ago as Akron athletic director. The resignation will take effect Jan. 1.

At the time of his resignation, Larson said it had nothing to do with the NCAA investigation. He said he was leaving to allow new university President William V. Muse to "bring in his own man."

The NCAA found the violations by former Akron basketball staff members "to be quite serious," according to Frank J. Remington, infractions committee chairman.

Several instances of free automobile transportation given to student-athletes and prospects and other violations of NCAA legislation were cited.

Larry Holmes Takes Aim At Unifying H'wt Titles

NEW YORK (AP) — Larry Holmes stood on a chair and proclaimed, "I am the king of the hill."

A short time later, he struck a fighting pose, and said to James "Bonecrusher" Smith, "I can do this (as he bobbed and weaved) and make you miss every punch."

Holmes, who will be 35 on Nov. 3, officially never has been complete king of the heavyweight division, although he has been a champion since June 9, 1978, when he out-pointed Ken Norton in 15 rounds at Las Vegas, Nev.

Smith, "You have to have goals if you're going to stay in the game."

"My goal is to pass Rocky Marciano's record. There is nothing else to fight for. I want to go down in immortality. I want people to remember me."

"People were saying to me, 'You're one of the greatest fighters of all time, but you probably couldn't have beaten (Sonny) Liston, (Muhammad) Ali, (Rocky) Marciano, (Joe) Louis, or fighters like that.' They were in their time. This is my time."

If he does become champion, it would mark one of the biggest upsets in boxing history. Smith, who earned his colorful nickname in the Army, "because I was busting guys up — I do hit hard," is expected to go into the ring as a decided underdog.

The apparent mismatch already has drawn criticism, and HBO, the cable network which will televise the fight, took time before the Holmes-Smith news conference, to explain why it took the fight.

That fight made Holmes only the World Boxing Council titleholder in the fractured heavyweight class. Now, having given up the WBC crown after stopping Scott Frank in five rounds at Atlantic City, N.J. Sept. 10, 1983, following "a misunderstanding" with promoter Don King, the unbeaten Holmes has become the heavyweight champion of the fledgling International Boxing Federation.

In Holmes' time, he has had 18 title fights, winning 13 by knockouts. Overall, he has stopped 32 opponents.

Smith earned the title shot by rallying to stop Frank Bruno of Britain in the final round of a 10-rounder at London May 13.

Despite the victory, Smith showed that he was very vulnerable to a jab — a punch at which Holmes excels.

Seth Abraham, HBO's senior vice president of sports, said that among the reasons for showing the bout were the unpredictability of any fight, the attractiveness of a heavyweight title bout no matter the participants, the competition with the commercial networks and the presence of Holmes in the ring.

Having cleared up his differences with King, Holmes will make the first defense of his IBF title Nov. 9 at the Riviera Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas against the unheralded Smith, a 29-year-old Army veteran who has won 14 fights since losing his professional debut, a fourth-round knockout against James Broad Nov. 4, 1981 at Atlantic City.

Unifying the heavyweight division, which now has Gerrie Coetzee of South Africa as the WBC champion and Pinklon Thomas as the World Boxing Association titleholder, is one of Holmes' major aspirations.

"I don't want any more initial (i.e., IBF, WBA, WBC) champions," he said. "I want one champion."

Holmes said he now has given up the idea of meeting Coetzee.

"I'm going to let that fight die," he said. "I think it would be hopeless to start that back up because of the racial problems (in South Africa, a country that is racially separated)."

Another goal is surpassing the undefeated record of the late heavyweight champion, Rocky Marciano, who was 49-0. Holmes has a 45-0 record, so five more victories would enable him to become the all-time unbeaten heavyweight champion.

"That's a goal," Holmes said Wednesday at a news conference announcing the date and the site of the scheduled 15-round bout against

Smith. "You have to have goals if you're going to stay in the game."

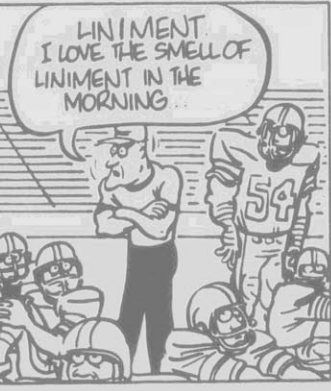

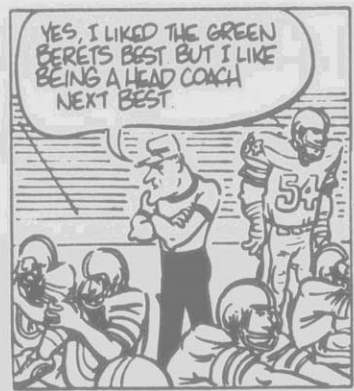

"My goal is to pass Rocky Marciano's record. There is nothing else to fight for. I want to go down in immortality. I want people to remember me."

"People were saying to me, 'You're one of the greatest fighters of all time, but you probably couldn't have beaten (Sonny) Liston, (Muhammad) Ali, (Rocky) Marciano, (Joe) Louis, or fighters like that.' They were in their time. This is my time."

If he does become champion, it would mark one of the biggest upsets in boxing history. Smith, who earned his colorful nickname in the Army, "because I was busting guys up — I do hit hard," is expected to go into the ring as a decided underdog.

The apparent mismatch already has drawn criticism, and HBO, the cable network which will televise the fight, took time before the Holmes-Smith news conference, to explain why it took the fight.

Tongue Slip Embarrasses Williams

By BEN WALKER
AP Sports Writer

Eric Show's next scheduled start will come Tuesday in the first game of the National League Championship Series against the Chicago Cubs — or will it?
"We picked him quite a while ago to start the playoff opener for us," San Diego Manager Dick Williams said after Show pitched three-hit ball over seven innings Wednesday as the Padres beat the San Francisco Giants 4-0. "He's had good success against Detroit."

Wait a second. The Detroit Tigers are the winners of the American League East? Wouldn't that come in the World Series?

"Oh, I'm looking ahead, aren't I?" said Williams, a bit embarrassed. In other NL games, Chicago beat Pittsburgh 5-2, St. Louis blanked Montreal 5-0, Cincinnati defeated Atlanta 6-3, New York topped Philadelphia 7-1 and Houston downed Los Angeles 3-1.

Show, 15-9, won his first game in a month — "I haven't been worried about Show's pitching," Williams said — with relievers Rich Gossage and Andy Hawkins each working a hitless inning.

The good-hitting Show also provided the blow that broke the game open, a two-out, two-run double that capped a three-run seventh inning and made it 4-0.

The hit came off Giants starter Bill Laskey, 9-14.

"He was only down 2-0 when he gave Show a fastball down the pipe," San Francisco Manager Danny Ozark said.

But Laskey offered a different version, and some criticism.

"The pitch was low and outside," he said. "Everyone has asked me about that pitch, but how come no one's asking the others guys (Giants) why they didn't score any runs?"

"That's the sixth time this season we've been shut out when I pitched. I pitched six real good innings and got nothing to show for it. That's pretty much been the story of my whole season."

San Diego will travel from San Francisco to Atlanta to close out its regular season.

Williams, however, will not be with the team for its final three games. He's going to Chicago to scout the Cubs' games with St. Louis, and will rejoin the Padres in Chicago for the playoffs.

Cubs 5, Pirates 2
Chicago, which captured the NL East title Monday night in Pittsburgh and gave its starters the day off during Tuesday's loss to the Pirates, returned to its winning ways — helped by some reserves.

Steve Lake belted a three-run homer in the sixth inning following a single by Ron Hassey and a walk to Gary Woods. The blast, Lake's second of the season, pinned the loss on Lee Tunnell, 1-7.

The Cubs used five pitchers. Starter Dick Ruthven, 6-10, went five innings before Warren Brusstar, George Frazier and Tim Stoddard paraded to the mound. Lee Smith worked the ninth and gave up a bases-loaded sacrifice fly to Joe Orsulak.

Only 3,365 fans watched Pittsburgh's final home game of the season as the Pirates finished the year with an attendance of 773,500, their lowest total since 1969, their last full year at Forbes Field.

Cardinals 5, Expos 0

Rookie pitcher Kurt Kepshire finished his season in fine style, tossing his second straight shutout.

Kepshire, 6-5, allowed seven hits and walked seven batters, but struck out eight to help keep out of trouble.

David Green belted a three-run homer in the sixth inning to spark St. Louis. Ozzie Smith walked four times and stole three bases for the Cardinals.

The temperature fell to near the freezing mark in the final innings of the game in Montreal.

Mets 7, Phillies 1

Rafael Santana hit his first major-league home run and Mookie Wilson belted his 10th of the season as New York completed its first three-game sweep of Philadelphia since 1972.

The victory was the sixth straight for the Mets, while the Phillies lost for the sixth consecutive time.

Santana, Wilson and rookie John Christensen each knocked in two runs for New York. Philadelphia's Juan Samuel stole his 72nd base of the year, breaking the major-league rookie record of 71 set by Montreal's Tim Lincecum in 1981.

It was the final game at home for the Mets, and the paid crowd of 5,251 raised the season total to 1,829,482, an increase of 725,344 over last season.

Reds 6, Braves 3

Mario Soto raised his record to 17-7 and helped himself by singling twice and driving in a run.

Soto, who prides himself on pitching complete games, took himself out after the seventh inning — saying he could use the extra rest before pitching Cincinnati's final game on Sunday. The right-hander tied his season-high victory total with the triumph in Cincinnati.

Dave Concepcion drove in three runs with a double and a single to help a 16-hit attack. Pascual Perez, 13-8, took the loss.

Atlanta's Milt Thompson led off the game with a home run.

Astros 3, Dodgers 1

Fernando Valenzuela, making his final start of the season, again got tagged with a hard-luck loss as he fell to 12-17.

The left-hander, who struck out 12, had allowed just four hits through eight innings before pinch-hitter Mike Richardt ripped a two-out, two-run double to break a 1-1 tie in Los Angeles.

Reliever Bill Dawley, 10-4, went the final two innings for the victory.

Valenzuela helped give the Dodgers a 1-0 lead in the third inning when he led off with a single. Singles by Bill Russell and Pedro Guerrero drove in the run.

Jose Cruz smacked his 12th homer in the sixth to tie it.

Penn State Picked To Upset Number Two Texas

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Texas will be wearing its burnt orange uniforms when it meets Penn State on Saturday, but Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, N.J., will be anything but home sweet home for the Longhorns.

Yes, Texas will be the "home" team for this second meeting between two of college football's traditional powers, even though the Longhorns have sold 9,500 tickets to Penn State's 28,000.

"As I recall," says Penn State Coach Joe Paterno, "Texas was talking to (former athletic director) Ed Czekaj about a home-and-home series. We didn't have anything available until the late 1980s and they didn't, either. But they had an open date and so did we, so we got the Meadowlands into the act."

Penn State will visit Texas in 1989 and the Longhorns return the favor in 1990. This contest was tacked onto the series as a "neutral site" showcase game. And even though Texas won a coin flip to be the "home" team, Coach Fred Akers says he's "not sure how neutral it is considering its location. 'I would have preferred Amarillo.'"

The second-ranked Longhorns are a 2½-point favorite over the fourth-rated Nittany Lions, who are 3-0 and have improved each week. Texas has played only once, beating Auburn 35-27, and, says Akers, "I wonder where we are." The pick is . . . Penn State 20-17.

Last week's record was 45 right, nine wrong and one tie for a percentage of .833; for the season, it's 136-41-3—768. Against the spread, last week was only 14-15-1—483; on the year, 42-43-1—494.

No. 1 Nebraska (favored by 24) at Syracuse: Dick MacPherson, coach of the Orangemen, thinks this game will be "fun" even though the Cornhuskers manhandled them 63-7 last year. "We're looking forward to it," he says. So is . . . Nebraska 31-14.

No. 3 Ohio State (by 27) at Minnesota: The Buckeyes are the early-season class of the Big Ten. . . . Ohio State 35-14.

Miami of Ohio at No. 6 Washington (no line): Miami lost to Houston 30-17. Houston lost to Washington 35-7. No contest . . . Washington 38-10.

Kansas State at No. 7 Oklahoma (by 27): Jim Dickey used to be on the other side of the fence as a Sooner assistant. . . . Oklahoma 42-14.

Temple at No. 9 Florida State (by 21): Coach Bruce Arians says Temple can play with anyone in the country, but the Seminoles aren't just anyone. . . . Florida State 34-14.

No. 10 Oklahoma State (by 5½) at Tulsa: Don't be surprised if the Cowboys are looking ahead to Nebraska. . . . Oklahoma State 24-14.

Texas Christian at No. 11 Southern Methodist (by 13): In 1935, the winner of this game (SMU) went to the Rose Bowl. Saturday's victor will be more than happy to settle for the Cotton Bowl. . . . SMU 28-21.

No. 12 Georgia (by 4½) at South Carolina: If Georgia's schedule has a valley, this is it between Clemson and Alabama. Upset Special of the Week. . . . South Carolina 21-20.

No. 13 Clemson (by 7) at No. 18 Georgia Tech: The Tigers can't win the Atlantic Coast Conference title — probation, you know — but they can still beat up on ACC teams. . . . Clemson 27-17.

No. 14 Michigan (by 20½) at Indiana: The Hoosiers have Coach Bill Mallory but his two sons (linebacker Mike and strong safety Doug) start for. . . . Michigan 34-14.

LSU at No. 15 Southern Cal (by 1): This loomed as a passing duel between LSU's Jeff Wickersham and USC's Sean Salisbury, but the latter is out with a knee injury. . . .

Southern Cal 21-17.

Rice at No. 16 Miami, Fla. (by 31): Jimmy Johnson was approached about the Rice job before he became Miami's new coach. This is one reason he didn't take it. . . . Miami 35-14.

No. 17 UCLA (by 11) at Colorado: Another Big Eight foe for the Bruins, but Colorado ain't Nebraska. . . . UCLA 24-14.

No. 19 Notre Dame (by 3½) at Missouri: Gerry Faust called Notre Dame's return to the Associated Press Top Twenty "a nice lift." Enjoy, Gerry. . . . Missouri 24-20.

Tennessee at No. 20 Auburn (by 10): Was Tennessee looking ahead when the Vols got tied by Army's Wishbone last week? Auburn also is a Wishbone team but Coach Pat Dye says that "Army runs it better than we do." The winner will begin casting envious looks toward the Sugar Bowl. . . . Auburn 28-17.

Other games:

East — Army (by 3) 24, Duke 17; Pitt (by 3½) 24, West Virginia 14; Rutgers (by 18) 24, Cincinnati 14.

South — Alabama (by 7) 27, Vanderbilt 17; Florida (14½) 21, Mississippi State 14; Maryland (by 7½) 21, Wake Forest 17; Mississippi (by 11) 24, Tulane 21; North Carolina (by 13½) 35, Kansas 21; North Carolina State (by 6) 24, East Carolina 17; Southern Mississippi (by 3) 24, Memphis State 14; Virginia Tech 24 (by 7½), Virginia 16.

Midwest — Bowling Green 42, Eastern Michigan 7; Iowa (by 4) 31, Illinois 24; Iowa State 28, West Texas State 14; Central Michigan 34, Kent State 14; Purdue 27, Michigan State (by 2) 21; Northern Illinois 21, Ball State 14; Toledo 28, Ohio U. 17; Western Michigan 24, Marshall 17.

Reagan, Ferraro Schedule N.C. Trips

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer
President Ronald Reagan is expected to campaign in North Carolina in October, while Democratic vice presidential candidate Geraldine A. Ferraro is scheduled to be in Raleigh next week.

Ms. Ferraro is scheduled for a rally on Fayetteville Street Mall at 4:30 p.m. on Monday. Ms. Ferraro will fly into Raleigh from Greensboro, where she will hold a rally at the Governmental Plaza, campaign officials said.

"We hope the public will come out and hear her and hear why the rest of the nation is excited about the Democratic ticket," said Joseph Berryhill, spokesman for the Mondale-Ferraro campaign in North Carolina.

Meanwhile, President Reagan is tentatively scheduled to visit Charlotte on Oct. 8 for his first North Carolina stop of the year, according to Karen Johnston of Greensboro, spokeswoman for the Reagan-Bush campaign in the state. However, a final decision has not been made, she said.

In the U.S. Senate race, a senior aide to Democratic Gov. Jim Hunt lashed out at Sen. Jesse Helms as a "reverse Robin Hood" Wednesday, while Helms' spokesman said Hunt would be a labor union stooge if elected senator.

Gary Pearce, co-chairman of Hunt's campaign to unseat Helms, said in a news conference that the incumbent Republican had received "generous" contributions from mining, chemical and telephone companies and utilities after voting in 1981 to give them tax breaks totaling $95 billion.

Meanwhile, he said, Helms voted to reduce federal spending on education, the environment, medical care for veterans and the elderly.

Calling "big oil" Helms' "favorite special interest," Pearce said the senator had voted in 1979 against the Windfall Profits Tax in an effort to save oil companies $227 billion.

"While posing as the taxpayer's friend, Senator Helms actually has been giving away the store," said Pearce. "His tax giveaways have drained the U.S. Treasury, causing the deficit to swell and shifting the burden from profitable corporations to middle-class taxpayers."

Claude Allen, spokesman for the Helms for Senate Committee, said Helms' 1979 votes were for tax cuts President Reagan recommended as part of his economic recovery program.

"The governor is saying he's opposed to the president's program that has brought us a stimulated economy, seven million more jobs ... and (lower) inflation," said Allen. "He's criticizing Senator Helms for voting for that."

Allen repeated Helms' argument during Sunday's debate that "you can't tax a corporation because they will simply pass it along to the consumer in the form of higher prices for gas and home heating oil." He said Hunt "favors a return to the policies of the Carter-Mondale administration, where we had gas shortages, gas lines and a generally depressed economy."

Pearce said Helms had a "you scratch my back, I'll scratch yours" relationship with corporations. The Helms committee and the National Congressional Club, a conservative political action committee that supports him, "have together raked in nearly $300,000 from oil and chemical interests," he said.

"Senator Helms' reverse Robin Hood record raises the question of who he is fighting for in Washington," said Pearce. "The people of North Carolina have a right to ask what kind of obligations is Senator Helms taking on by accepting such huge contributions from the big oil and chemical interests."

Allen said complaints about Helms' fund-raising success — he has raised over $8 million while Hunt has topped $5 million — are "the fox and sour grapes story all over again."

"I'm sure that by now Hunt has received as much from labor unions as the senator has gotten from (corporations)," said Allen.

"Senator Helms supports tax relief for everyone, but Hunt rigged the nomination for (Walter) Mondale, the union candidate. North Carolina has ... one of the lowest union rates in the nation, so you have to ask why the unions are so interested in his candidacy."

Hunt campaigned in Fayetteville Wednesday, and said in a news conference that the nation "must ensure" that military veterans receive benefits they deserve.

Hunt said Helms had proposed in April a 10 percent across the board budget cut for almost all government programs, "including those offered by the Veterans Administration."

That "would have forced the VA to make drastic budget cuts in its medical programs at a time when millions of World War II and Korean War veterans are becoming eligible for the health care they so richly deserve," said Hunt.

During Sunday's debate, Helms defended his votes, saying veterans cared more about a stable economy and responsible government than benefits.

In the governor's race, Democratic Attorney General Rufus Edmisten and U.S. Rep. Jim Martin, R-N.C., told black business owners Wednesday that they would increase minority participation if elected governor.

Edmisten unveiled a 10-point plan for government action from the Cabinet level down, while Martin pledged to enhance opportunities for blacks, with monitoring to ensure the success of the program.

The gubernatorial candidates appeared separately before about 15 representatives of the North Carolina Association of Minority Businesses in Raleigh.

Edmisten said he would guarantee a better role for blacks in government, in Cabinet and sub-Cabinet posts, on all state boards and commissions, in judgeships and in state contracts for private businesses.

Martin said he would use the influence of the governor's office to stimulate black representation. He said he would increase the number of black purchasing agents employed by the state and set goals in administrative departments for letting of contracts to minority-owned businesses, then enforce monitoring to guarantee that the goals were met.

Meanwhile, the Helms campaign announced that Sen. Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala., and James E. Johnson will stump on Helms' behalf this weekend in Raleigh, Fayetteville and Goldsboro.

Johnson is a black former vice chairman of the U.S. Civil Service Commission and assistant secretary of the Navy.

Martin's campaign released a list of "prominent Democrats" in five Sandhills counties supporting his candidacy for governor. They include several city council members, a former county commissioner and a former school superintendent.

Solons Ask Import Ban

RALEIGH (AP) — A group of North Carolina legislators Wednesday urged state officials to increase pressure on the federal government to stem the tide of textile imports.

Some 40 members of the North Carolina General Assembly met in Raleigh and heard a series of industry and government spokesman discuss the plight of the state's textile industry.

The legislators were told that during the first seven months of this year textile and apparel imports grew 44 percent over the same period a year ago.

Co-chairman Rep. David W. Bumgardner Jr., D-Gaston, said he expected a group of Southeastern legislators to meet with the campaign staffs of the presidential candidates to urge action.

IN THE STATE

Single-Digit Jobless Rate Spreads

RALEIGH (AP) — Eighty-six of North Carolina's 100 counties had single-digit unemployment rates in August, compared with 78 counties in July, the state Employment Security Commission reported today.

"Lower unemployment is even more significant in relation to our all-time high of more than 2.8 million persons employed in August and our civilian labor force which has grown to 3,077,700," said Glenn Jernigan, ESC chairman.

North Carolina's statewide unemployment rate for August was 6.1 percent, compared with a national rate of 7.3 percent and tying the state with New Jersey with the third lowest rate among 11 large states.

Dare County had the lowest jobless rate at 2.4 percent, followed by Currituck County at 3.1 percent, Wake at 3.3 percent and Orange and Durham counties at 3.4 percent. All five were among the 71 counties in which unemployment declined since July.

Counties with the highest unemployment were McDowell, 13.1 percent; Brunswick, 11.9 percent; Bladen, 11.3 percent; Northampton and Graham, 11.1 percent and Cherokee, 10.9 percent.

Unemployment declined in eight Standard Metropolitan Areas from July to August, as Raleigh-Durham went from 3.5 percent to 3.3 percent, Charlotte-Gastonia fell from 5.2 percent to 4.9 percent, Hickory dropped from 5.8 percent to 5 percent, Salisbury-Concord moved from 6 percent to 5.7 percent,

CP&L Rate Hike Will Raise Average Monthly Electric Bill By Nearly $8

RALEIGH (AP) — Carolina Power & Light has notified the state Utilities Commission that it put into effect a rate increase on electricity used on and after Sept. 22 that will increase the bill of a typical customer by $7.85.

CP&L notified the commission Wednesday of the increase, which it is putting into effect under a state law that allows companies to up rates if the commission doesn't issue a final order within seven months after a company has submitted a request for a rate increase.

Under the law, the company must refund to customers at 10 percent interest any portion of the rates that are not eventually approved by the commission.

On Feb. 21, CP&L submitted a request for a $151.6 million increase. The rate increase, which will affect electricity used on and after Sept. 22, will boost the power bill of the typical customer $7.85 a month — a 10.9 percent increase — in July through October and $3.85 a month — 5.5 percent — from November to June.

The monthly bill of the typical customer who uses 1,000 kilowatt-hours a month will jump to $79.83 from $71.98 in the summer and to $73.83 from $69.98 in the winter.

Robert P. Gruber, executive director of the commission's Public Staff, which represents consumers before the commission, said the state was powerless to block the immediate increase.

But he said that the Public Staff would "oppose CP&L's request for higher rates that will be made to the full commission...."

A three-member panel of the commission Friday recommended a $64.3 million rate increase for CP&L that would boost the bill of the typical customer by $6.05 a month — 8 percent — in the summer and $2.44 — 3.5 percent — in the winter.

But two of the panel's three members dissented from parts of the order. Because the decision was not unanimous, the order was not final and CP&L has the right to appeal to the full commission.

In effect, the rate increase amounts to $94.3 million — the $64.3 million approved by the commission and an additional $30 million added by the company — not the total $151.6 million initially requested.

Norris L. Edge, CP&L's vice president for rates and service practices, said in a written statement Wednesday that the higher rates were "based on the recommended order and do not represent the amount we believe to be justified."

Edge said the company would appeal the panel's recommendations and ask the full commission to grant the full increase initially requested by the company. Appeals will be heard by the seven-member commission in late October or early November, with a final decision no later than Dec. 17.

Army Retiree Is Devoting His Life To Effort To Free Imprisoned Son

HAZELWOOD, N.C. (AP) — Ephrim S. Little, 77, a handicapped retired Army captain who lives on a military pension and Social Security, has made a second career out of trying to get his son set free.

His son, Lawrence R. Little, was convicted of bombing a black-owned weekly newspaper, the Wilmington Journal, in 1973. He was 18, fresh out of the Marine Corps, and the self-proclaimed propaganda minister of the Rights of White People organization.

He received a life sentence for the bombing, and has been in prison 10 years. He is now an inmate at the North Carolina Department of Correction's Hazelwood minimum-security unit.

The elder Little, who moved to Hazelwood last year from Long Island, N.Y., has bought advertisements in area newspapers as he can afford them. In them, he asks people to write government officials to intervene on his son's behalf and help him get a pardon from Gov. Jim Hunt.

He said Wednesday his son deserves the same treatment as the Wilmington 10. The Wilmington 10, nine blacks and a white woman, were imprisoned for firebombing a white-owned grocery in Wilmington in 1971. Gov. Jim Hunt reduced their sentences after they served 2½ years in prison.

Linda Stott, Hunt's deputy legal counsel, said the difference in Little's case and the Wilmington 10 was that there was an occupied apartment over the newspaper office. The grocery store the Wilmington 10 was charged with bombing was a place of business and nothing else, she said.

Ms. Stott said there were no petitions in Hunt's office in behalf of Little. But the elder Little said he sent a petition with 2,000 names to Hunt this year, asking him to pardon his son.

Attempts to have Little's sentence commuted were denied on April 7, 1981, and Jan. 6, 1982, Ms. Stott said. She said Hunt would have no comment on Little's case now that Little is close to parole.

Department of Correction spokeswoman Patty McQuillan said Little would be eligible for parole referral on Jan. 2, 1985. She said it is possible he could be released in 1985, although his sentence runs to Oct. 22, 2000.

Little has become a martyr for several right-wing extremist groups who call him the "Wilmington One."

Glenn Miller of Angier, leader of the Carolina Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, said his group worked two years ago to help free Little and wrote Hunt's office in his behalf.

"The fact is, he (Little) never hurt anybody," Miller said.

The Klan is no longer actively involved in trying to get Little released, Miller said.

Little said Wednesday at the prison that he doesn't want any help from extremist groups, and that the past 10 years in prison have given him time to do a lot of "reading, meditating and praying."

He said of extremist groups: "To them it's a game. To me it meant a life sentence in prison. It's not a game. I'd been in those right-wing organizations for a long time. To me, they're shot. I'd rather deal through veterans groups and good solid citizens. I think that would be more effective."

Little said he joined the Marines when he was 17 because he was disillusioned with life in his native New York.

"There was a lot of left-wing politics there," he said. "People burned the (American) flag and carried the Viet Cong flag. I just rebelled against that."

Fund-Raiser

DURHAM (AP) — A $150,000 fund-raising campaign in under way to assist with the expansion of the Duke Homestead State Historic Site and Tobacco Museum in Durham, officials said.

The Tobacco History Corp., the museum's non-profit support organization, is spearheading the fund-raising drive.

The North Carolina General Assembly has appropriated $250,000 to add about 3,000-square-feet of exhibition and office space to the tobacco museum. The Tobacco History Corp. hopes to raise its $150,000 before Jan. 1 to add still another 3,000-square-feet of storage space.

Carson Launching Year With Two-Hour Collection

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — When Johnny Carson joined "The Tonight Show" in 1962, his hair was black and plentiful, he was married to his first wife and his sidekick was Ed McMahon.

As he celebrates his 22nd anniversary as host of the NBC late-night show, only McMahon is still around.

"I followed Jack Paar as host, which was dangerous in a sense," said Carson, his hair now silver and thinning, his third marriage coming to an end. "Paar was such a mercurial personality. Everyone wants to make comparisons. You have to find your own format, your own style, and whatever comparisons there are will go away after a while."

"I remember one newspaper critic said I was no Jack Paar. I said he was no Westbrook Pegler, either. I didn't start out to be Jack Paar."

Lucky for us, Johnny Carson is an American original, at 58 the country's most visible humorist. His four-times-a-week appearances on "The Tonight Show" give him more exposure than any other comedian.

Carson handles that exposure adroitly. His monologues are funny not because the jokes are great; they aren't. But Carson is faster on his feet than Muhammad Ali at his peak, and his recovery from a deflated gag is a delight.

Once again, Carson will celebrate his anniversary with a two-hour prime-time collection of memorable moments from the past. It will be shown Monday.

"The retrospective will have at least 45 minutes of stuff from the past year," he said. "The problem is always what to put in and what to leave out. Everyone has a piece they like. So, we'll have a few old classics, but we wanted to show some new things."

For the last six weeks, Carson has been working with editors.

"The only thing live will be the monologue, which you can never do ahead," he said in an interview.

his NBC office. He sat at his usual workplace, a couch. On the coffee table before him was the material for that night's show.

He recalled that on the 10th anniversary show, Ronald Reagan, then governor of California, showed up to read a telegram of congratulations from President Richard Nixon. "I have a feeling we won't be getting a telegram from Nixon this year," he said.

Carson's Nixon impression was once a "Tonight Show" fixture, as his Reagan impression is now.

"I never did Nixon very well," Carson said. "I do Carter and Reagan very well. I guess for me it's the rhythm of their speech. Reagan's accent is easier for me. The way things are going it looks like I'll be doing Reagan for another four years. Walter Mondale would be very hard to do. There's nothing to grab hold of."

Since his last anniversary, Carson has handily dispatched the latest competition, "Thicke of the Night," starring Alan Thicke. "I think they ballyhooed the show too much," he said. "They should have just sneaked it on and let it find its own audience. There is a danger in promising more than you can deliver."

At every anniversary the question comes up about how long Carson will stay with the show.

"I know I'll eventually be replaced," Carson said. "I think NBC will keep 'The Tonight Show' on whether I do it or not, and they should. There aren't many shows left that are live and spontaneous. Whoever leaves me will have to make his own transition."

He said he had "no idea" whether David Letterman or Joan Rivers, his permanent substitute host, or anyone else, was being groomed to be his successor.

"I have another year on my contract," he said. "I haven't made up my mind yet whether I'll continue. As I've said before, I will continue only as long as it's fun and we're first in the ratings. I wouldn't

Town To Sponsor 2nd TV Turnoff

FARMINGTON, Conn. (AP) — The television sets in this small town are being targeted for another monthlong shutdown, but local officials are hoping to avoid the hoopla that surrounded this year's event.

The Farmington Library Council, which sponsored January's "TV-Turnoff," decided on Monday to go ahead with a second attempt in January 1985.

"We're not really hoping for a media event this time, although that helped in some ways the last time," said Nancy DeSalvo, children's librarian at the town's library who proposed the idea.

Hope Still Favorite

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope is still America's favorite funnyman after decades of entertaining troops overseas and presidents at home, according to a soon-to-be-released Louis Harris poll.

Richard Pryor, Eddie Murphy, Bill Cosby and Red Skelton rounded out the top five in the poll, which was conducted for a new syndicated television series called "America's Choice." Wylleen May, the series' producer, said Wednesday.

Hope, 81, is preparing to launch his 35th year on TV on Sept. 28, when NBC is scheduled to air "Bob Hope Presents the Hilarious Unrehearsed Antics of the Stars."

Some of the stars, who will appear with Hope live and on tape, are Bing Crosby, Lee Marvin, Dean Martin, John Wayne and Tom Selleck.

USO Awards

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because of their work with charities, movie star Elizabeth Taylor and Sarah Brady, wife of White House press secretary James Brady, have won the "Women of the Year" award of the United Service Organizations.

"I remember going to hospitals when I was a child and talking with the wounded boys and watching the glamorous (USO) entertainers" during World War II, Miss Taylor said Wednesday at an award luncheon.

"I learned a lot about life, death from my visits," she said. The actress was cited for her aid to the Israeli War Victims Fund and to Variety Clubs International.

She shared the award with Mrs. Brady, whose husband is recuperating from head wounds suffered during the assassination attempt against President Reagan in March 1981.

Jackson Selects Three Charities

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After sifting through the requests that poured in after he promised to donate his "Victory Tour" proceeds to charity, Michael Jackson has settled on three groups to get gifts.

An unspecified but "very substantial" sum will be split among the United Negro College Fund, the T.J. Martell Foundation for Leukemia and Cancer Research and Camp Good Times, a Malibu summer resort for children suffering from cancer, said Jackson's manager, Frank Dileo.

"We were besieged with countless requests from worthwhile causes," Dileo said Wednesday. "Because so many merited consideration, Michael chose to endow three."

ON THE WALK — Singer Paul Anka shows off his star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame after being inducted with the walk's 1,788th memorial Wednesday. His star is next to the one honoring actress Jane Russell. Anka also was given the American Federal of Police Award, the Grand Knight of the Order of St. Michael the Archangel, for subduing a mugger in New York in 1983. (AP Laserphoto)

Jolson Claims Unable To Pay

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Al Jolson Jr., the adopted son of late jazz singer Al Jolson, says cash demands from his music business make him unable to pay $5,100 a month in support payments his estranged wife is seeking.

Victoria Robertson Jolson, 37, and Jolson, disabled in a 1969 car accident, were the only witnesses at a hearing Wednesday on Mrs. Jolson's request for payments for her and the couple's infant daughter.

Mrs. Jolson's lawyer, Marvin Mitchelson, cited the $125,000 yearly income Jolson, 36, receives from a trust fund set up by his father, who died in 1950. Mitchelson also cited a $1 million stock portfolio and royalties from Al Jolson Sr.'s songs.

Jolson said he must infuse Al Jolson Jr. Enterprises — a recording studio, cassette copying and song publishing business — with $7,000 a month to keep it afloat and has costly, ongoing medical expenses. Circuit Judge Muriel Robinson took the case under advisement.

Author Begins Movie Company

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Best-selling Australian author Morris West, saying part of the estates of Agatha Christie, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and Ian Fleming were managed the same way, is launching a movie company to produce his own works.

West, best known for "The Devil's Advocate" and "The Shoes of a Fisherman," said at Tuesday's launching of Melaluka Productions that it plans five films in 1985, all based on his plays and novels.

West, 68, said the aim of the company is "to make good films, make money and to guarantee my estate."

He said productions planned for next year include a film of his current best-seller "The World is Made of Glass."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Paul Anka sang a special version of "My Way" before more than 500 fans and onlookers as he was given a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

Anka, who has written more than 400 songs, received the 1,788th star handed out by the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce at a ceremony Wednesday on Hollywood Boulevard near Mann's Chinese Theater.

Vice President George Bush and Gov. George Deukmejian sent telegrams and comedian Rich Little sent a congratulatory tape to the ceremony, attended by Mayor Tom Bradley, said Anka spokesman Michael Levine.

At the same time, Anka, 43, was awarded a citation from the American Federation of Police for helping subdue a mugger on a New York City street in May.

Anka's hits include "You Are My Destiny," "Puppy Love," "Lonely Boy" and "Put Your Head on My Shoulder."

In 1968, he bought the rights to a French ballad, "My Way," which Frank Sinatra made into a top-selling hit in 1969. Anka performed a version Wednesday written for the occasion.

Block Expects Majority Support For Grain Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary John Block says he expects at least half of all feed grain producers to sign up for next year's price support program, despite complaints from Corn Belt congressmen that it is inadequate.

But Block's optimism for corn does not extend to wheat and other crops, whose price prospects for next year remain dim because of huge inventories.

"There haven't been any good solutions for wheat," Block said, noting that efforts to curb production have been largely thwarted by the planting of new wheat acreage in the South and by increased efficiency and per-acre yields of hybrids.

Overall, Block told the House Agriculture Committee Wednesday, next year's price outlook for wheat, rice and cotton "doesn't look as good as I would like for it."

He said he had no plans to change any of the programs, which include payments to farmers for idling some of their cropland in wheat, rice and cotton — but not in corn.

"These programs have been well received by producers," Block told the panel, adding that he expected 70 percent participation in the programs with paid land-idling features, and 50 percent in corn and feed grains — "a relatively high level for feed grain producers who historically have not participated in acreage programs at such high levels."

Rep. Berkley Bedell, D-Iowa, attacked the corn price support program, saying "farmers need better prices to get out from under their debt burden."

He asked Block what he could tell corn farmers who are getting 54 cents a bushel less for their crops now than they did three years ago.

"You can tell them they are lucky they are raising corn instead of some of the other commodities" because corn stockpiles are low enough to make it possible for prices to rise, Block replied.

"I wouldn't blame them a heck of a lot if they wanted to string me up" for making such a comment, Bedell shot back.

Block defended the feed grains program, saying the low carryover stocks — about 1 billion bushels — did not justify paying farmers to take more acreage out of production.

Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan., pointed to expected wheat surpluses of 1.3 billion bushels at the beginning of the 1985 crop program, rising to more than 1.6 billion bushels by the end of the year.

"That surplus seems so gigantic that it looks like you're dreaming if you think you're going to see a $3.30 (per bushel) market price," Glickman said, asking whether Block had any contingency plans for shoring up prices. "This looks like a blueprint for disaster."

Block conceded the surpluses are high and said while stricter acreage controls could be imposed in the future, or market forces could be left to weed out weaker growers, "Frankly none (of the alternatives) are very appetizing."

He added: "We're going to live with this and I have nothing (planned) beyond this."

Rep. Timothy Penny, D-Minn., said without prospects for price relief farmers now stretched to the breaking point will be failing in greater numbers. "My fear is that there is going to be a tremendously high number of failures by next spring unless farmers and lenders can see some light at the end of the tunnel," he said.

Block said he had no new figures on anticipated farm failures, repeating the figure of 3 percent to 4 percent nationwide that the department has been projecting.

"I'm not so sure the farm programs could be managed ... in a way that would be a salvation to them," Block said.

"I don't think all of our solutions lie in a farm program. They are in the area of interest rates, the strength of the dollar ... The farm program is just to help us get through while some of these other things get straightened out."

Farmer Continues Protest

CHICAGO (AP) — A farmer who gained national attention when he removed his grain from a bankrupt elevator and was acquitted of theft charges says he is taking his campaign for a floor on grain prices to the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wayne Cryts expected more than 100 farmers to join him today in a "rolling blockade" of cars and pickup trucks circling the CBOT, the nation's largest futures exchange, where the price of commodities such as grain is determined.

Cryts, a Missouri farmer, claims speculators who buy and sell the commodities play a key role in keeping prices below acceptable levels.

He said he would ask the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, the federal agency that regulates the futures industry, to set a minimum price for grains.

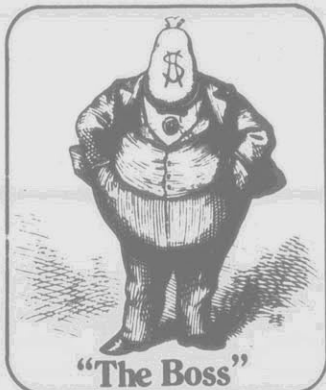

"There's absolutely no excuse for prices being where they are," said Cryts, whose legal tangle after he removed his grain from the bankrupt elevator in 1981 led to legislation protecting farmers from losing their grain when storage facilities go bankrupt.

A representative of a major farm organization said Cryts' criticism is misdirected.

"I think they need to be directing their criticism at the true culprit, which is the high value of the U.S. dollar overseas," said Ralph Weems, president of the American Soybean Association.

A highly valued dollar makes it difficult to sell American goods overseas, because it takes more of a local currency to buy goods, such as grain, that are priced in dollars.

Gust Flips Schooner, Dumps 23 In Ocean

BROOKSVILLE, Maine (AP) — A pleasure cruise off the Maine coast became a journey into the "Twilight Zone" when a gust of wind flipped a schooner a mile from shore, sending 23 people scrambling for anything that would float in chilly seas.

Helicopters and a flotilla of government and private boats, alerted by witnesses on shore, rushed to the rescue Wednesday, and all 19 passengers and the four crew members were saved.

Five people were hospitalized for exposure and two were held overnight, authorities said.

"They're lucky, lucky people," said one of the rescue workers who helped pluck the shipgoers from the waters of Eggemoggin Reach.

"I'm just glad to be here," said Becky Burkey of Texas, a passenger on the commercial cruise. "Glad that everybody got back."

Burkey said that she was on deck when the 64-foot Isaac H. Evans, a 98-year-old schooner, turned over at about 11:30 a.m.

"It seemed like the wind and the water had died down," she said. "They (the crew) were changing the canvas.

Study Panel Says Doctors Using Too Many Transfusions

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are no proven medical reasons for giving blood plasma transfusions to most patients who receive the increasingly popular treatment, says a National Institutes of Health study group.

The panel said Wednesday that blood plasma is used unnecessarily about 90 percent of the time and urged doctors to consider alternative transfusion substances and methods that pose less risk of transmitting disease.

The group convened by NIH for three days to reach a consensus on plasma transfusions said the use of so-called fresh frozen plasma has increased tenfold over the last decade although there is little medical evidence to justify the rise.

Dr. Bruce A. Reitz, a cardiac surgeon at Johns Hopkins University Medical School, said that the panel did not know the single greatest cause of overuse, but felt that cardiac surgery was responsible for a large part of it.

"We think methods can be developed to conserve more of the patient's blood (during heart surgery) and use less plasma," Reitz said.

Another example, panelists said, is using plasma to prevent shock from blood volume loss because of injuries. Salt solutions and other liquids with less potential for carrying infection could be used instead, they said.

The panel said plasma should be used in a few, very specific cases. These include patients with certain deficiencies in their immune systems and some with blood clotting problems.

Dr. James L. Tullis of Harvard Medical School, chairman of the panel, said many patients who get plasma could be treated with alternative therapies that carry less of a risk of hepatitis and other infectious diseases.

Risks of infection go up as a patient gets blood products taken from many donors. Decreasing the use of plasma — which cannot be sterilized — would cut the sources of possible infection, Tullis told a news briefing.

"Any effort that can be used to cut down on the number of donor sources would be preferable," Tullis said.

While each unit of plasma usually comes from a single donor, each patient typically gets more than one unit, Tullis said. And in many cases, other blood components — such as separated blood cells or clotting factors — are used with plasma, he added, increasing exposure to multiple donors.

About 13 million units of blood are collected each year and 3.5 million people receive blood or blood products annually. Experts estimate that about one-fifth of these transfusion patients get approximately 2 million units of plasma yearly.

Although there are no good figures, they said, an estimated 3 percent to 10 percent of these patients get hepatitis as a result of taking blood products.

There also is a small potential risk of getting acquired immune deficiency syndrome, or AIDS, through transfusions, the panel said. Of the 6,000 cases of AIDS reported so far in this country, 82 are transfusion related, it said.

Fresh frozen plasma (FFP) is the clear, fluid part of blood that remains after the cells are removed. The plasma is frozen within 6 hours of blood collection and thawed for use in patients up to a year later. Although plasma does not have to be frozen, this is now the common practice for preservation, Tullis said.

Plasma contains chemicals that aid blood clotting, as well as proteins, minerals, fats and other substances. Many of these components are removed, concentrated and used separately for treating certain illnesses. Two-thirds of the plasma collected is used to make components.

Stress Hormone Linked To Death

BOSTON (AP) — Measuring levels of a hormone in the blood of people with congestive heart failure appears to give doctors "a simple and remarkably effective guide" to their risk of dying, a study today concludes.

The researchers found that these people are more likely to die if they have high amounts of the hormone norepinephrine, which serves as a better indicator than any other routinely measured signs, such as heart rate or blood sodium levels.

The researchers said they have already used the measurement to help decide which patients need more aggressive medical therapy or heart transplants.

The study, directed by Dr. Jay N. Cohn, was conducted at the University of Minnesota Medical School and published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

In congestive heart failure, the victim's heart does not beat strongly enough. To compensate for this, the body's sympathetic nervous system is activated to boost the sluggish pump.

In healthy people, this system works primarily in times of high stress to help them handle emergencies. But in those with heart failure, the sympathetic nervous system is turned on continuously to make the heart work harder.

Measuring norepinephrine gives doctors a gauge to assess how fully this emergency system is activated. It's unclear, however, whether this activation actually hastens death or simply reflects the severity of the victim's heart failure.

The latest study was conducted on 83 men and 23 women with severe congestive heart failure who were followed for periods ranging from one to 62 months. During this time, 60 of the patients died, all but three of them of heart disease.

Of all the signs that were monitored during the study, only high norepinephrine levels were closely linked to an increased likelihood of death.

Genetic Analysis Pinpoints Flaws

BOSTON (AP) — Doctors believe they can read the future of leukemia victims in their flawed genes, predict the destructive power of the disease and tailor treatments to combat it, researchers reported today.

Delving into the human genetic code may someday become a routine first step to effective cancer treatment, the researchers said.

Dr. Jorge J. Yunis, who developed a test known as the high resolution chromosome analysis, said it should prove useful in mapping therapy for victims of leukemia, lymphoma and possibly other cancers.

"Most leukemias and non-Hodgkin's lymphomas have a specific chromosome defect," Yunis said, "and that dictates the prognosis and how the patient should be treated."

Doctors have long noticed that not everyone responds the same way to leukemia treatment. Some patients have lengthy remissions while others die quickly, but no one knew how they differed.

"Now we know the reason is that leukemia is very complex," Yunis said in an interview. "There are many diseases that happen to be chromosomal, and depending on the chromosome defect, they have a different severity."

The chromosome analysis, he said, may "become an essential routine test in leukemia."

A report on the research was published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

The research shows that seemingly identical forms of cancer may actually result from different genetic malfunctions, and a person's outlook can vary depending on the specific flaw involved. Yunis and colleagues from the University of Minnesota Medical School used the test on victims of acute nonlymphocytic leukemia. They identified 17 different genetic defects and found that three of these are closely linked with how long the patients will live.

Almost all of these leukemia victims had breaks, rearrangements and other defects in the chromosomes of their bone marrow cells. Each cell in the body has 23 pairs of chromosomes — long strings of genes that carry all the information of human inheritance.

The study successfully analyzed the chromosomes of 99 leukemia victims and found defects in 92 of them.

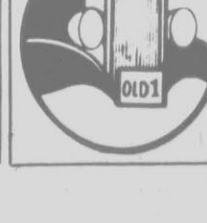

The people with the best outlook had a defect called inversion 16. In this abnormality, a section of the 16th chromosome breaks free, flips end for end, and then rejoins the chromosome.

Nine percent of the victims had an inversion 16. They had complete remissions ranging from 12 to 45 months, and their median survival was 25 months.

In contrast, the 14 percent who had four or more different chromosomal defects had a very poor prognosis. Their median survival was 2½ months.

Between these two extremes were 11 percent of the patients who had trisomy 8, an extra eighth chromosome. Their median survival was 10 months.

The largest group was people with a single miscellaneous defect, and there were wide variations in how long these people lived.

Opening lead: Queen of ♥.

What sets the expert apart from the average player is his ability to combine more than one line of play to achieve the optimum result. How many lines can you spot on this deal?

North-South have reached an excellent contract, and are strong favorites even though the opening lead has knocked out the only entry to dummy's clubs. You win the ace of hearts, cash the king of clubs and cross to the queen as West shows out. The 4-1 club break has put your contract in jeopardy.

You cash the ace of clubs and try the spade finesse. West wins the king of spades and forces out your remaining heart stopper, and you end up with only eight tricks.

You have had abominable luck in the black suits. By combining the possibility of running the clubs with the spade finesse, you have given yourself an almost 90 percent chance to make the contract. But you could have done even better. Have you spotted the additional chance?

At trick two you should cash the ace-king of diamonds and lead a diamond toward the nine. If the suit breaks 3-3, or if East started with two honors doubleton as is the case here, you have set up the nine of diamonds in dummy. If the diamonds don't behave, you have given up nothing. You can still go after the clubs and if they don't break, try the spade finesse. But as the cards lie, you will get home with one spade trick, two hearts and three tricks in each minor suit.

You have given yourself about a 4 percent additional chance for your contract. That does not sound like much, but bear in mind that casinos make millions every year with less of an edge.

Filipinos March On Palace

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Hundreds of riot police fired water cannon and tear gas at a crowd of 3,000 demonstrators preparing to march on President Ferdinand E. Marcos' palace today. The protesters fought back with rocks, and some threw shrapnel bombs and tear gas grenades into the police ranks.

At least eight people, including six policemen, were taken to a nearby hospital with apparent shrapnel wounds in the arms and legs from homemade bombs.

Radio reports said at least one person, a civilian, was hit by a bullet as police marched toward the crowd, firing their guns in the air.

Yellow and white smoke, accompanied by several loud explosions, gunshots and screaming, filled a major intersection on the boundary between Manila and the suburb of Quezon City. Several miles away soldiers and police chased away students who had already gathered outside Marcos' palace.

Police Gen. Alfredo Yson gave the order to attack after the protesters ignored a 10-minute ultimatum to disperse and a five-minute extension.

The demonstration was led by 86-year-old former Sen. Lorenzo Tanada and Agapito Aquino, brother of assassinated opposition leader Benigno Aquino.

"Our decision is to stay," Aquino told a radio station broadcasting the event live. Then, addressing his followers through a police megaphone, Aquino said, "If we are dispersed, stay in place but don't stone the police."

However when the police opened up with blasts of water from at least eight firetrucks, rocks began flying from the crowd. The radio station said the first rain of stones, pieces of steel and other projectiles apparently had come from hundreds of onlookers.
