Reagan, Gromyko Meet In Spirit Of 'Hope'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, holding his first in-depth talks ever with a top Soviet leader, met today with Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, declaring the world "must react with hope" that the talks will achieve their purpose of easing tensions between the superpowers.

As they met in the White House Oval Office, Gromyko seemed annoyed at the presence of hundreds of photographers and reporters, admitted in six groups over a period of nearly 20 minutes.

"One could conduct the whole negotiation while (they are) doing this," Gromyko said. Photographers were being given an unusually large number of opportunities to photograph the two leaders, reflecting the potential political importance of the meeting for Reagan in the upcoming election.

Reagan appeared somber when reporters were admitted to the Oval Office to witness the start of the meeting. When asked if he thought the session signaled an easing of tensions, Reagan answered in the affirmative.

Reagan said, "I think that anyone must react with hope." Gromyko had said he too was "hopeful" the meeting would produce results.

The meeting came more than 3½ years into Reagan's presidency and just 39 days before Election Day.

Gromyko, who at age 75 has been foreign minister for 27 years and has met with nearly every American president since World War II, is regarded here as a hard-nosed diplomat who is the chief architect of the Soviet Union's hard-line stance toward Washington.

Reagan, who is 73, has for years delivered sometimes harsh anti-communist rhetoric in discussing the Soviet Union but earlier this week made a conciliatory speech at the United Nations. Aides say Reagan read a number of books about the Soviet Union to prepare for today's Gromyko meeting and had briefings from Henry Kissinger and Richard Nixon, among others.

There was a fire in the fireplace on the cold Washington fall morning as the two leaders sat in the Oval Office in high-back white brocade chairs, with interpreters nearby. Secretary of State George P.

Shultz, Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin and other aides sat on twin white brocade sofas at either side.

Asked about the health of Soviet leader Konstantin Chernenko, Gromyko replied: "Perfectly all right."

As the photographers and camera crews took turns coming into the Oval Office to take pictures, reporters overheard a bit of the small talk between Reagan and Gromyko.

Reagan apparently was telling Gromyko about the role of women in the U.S. military, because he was overheard to say "everything except combat," adding that women were in the Air Force in World War II.

Waters Challenges Speight's Actions

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Monroe Waters of Winterville charged Thursday that Marvin Speight, chairman of the state's Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission, has been campaigning for Rufus Edmisten, the Democratic nominee for governor, on state time.

Speight denied the charges. Waters also charged that his job has been threatened because of his support for Republican Jim Martin.

A casework technician at the Walter B. Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center here, Waters served as a campaign chairman for Eddie Knox in the Democratic gubernatorial primary and endorsed Republican nominee Jim Martin after Knox was defeated by Edmisten in a runoff election.

According to Waters, Speight has called him several times about the governor's race.

Waters alleged that a Speight call on June 27 call was made on state time from the ABC Commission office.

"It's a classic example of the kind of tactics that Rufus' lieutenants are using. Many people have been threatened in the last 60 days," Waters charged.

Waters also said that he received a call from Bob Ramey of Greenville, a Lauch Faircloth supporter in the spring primary, on July 13. Describing Ramey as "one of Edmisten's people now," Waters said Ramey, for a time after the primary worked for Martin.

"He (Ramey) told me that ... 'I've changed my support and am not with Martin anymore. I'm going for Rufus. They carried me to Raleigh ...' and threatened his state retirement," Waters said.

Waters said Ramey continued: (Please turn to page 14)

Velma Barfield

Barfield Says No To Appeals

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Velma Barfield has asked that no further attempt be made to save her life after Gov. Jim Hunt refused to grant executive clemency to the convicted murderer scheduled to be executed Nov. 2, her attorney said.

Mrs. Barfield, the only woman on death row in North Carolina, could become the first female executed in the United States in 22 years and the first in the state since 1944.

Mrs. Barfield took the news of Hunt's decision on Thursday calmly, said defense attorney Jimmy Little, who informed her of it shortly before an announcement.

"Velma feels that the emotional upheaval ... should come to an end," Little said. "She is prepared to accept the governor's decision and would only agree to a stay if (her attorneys) were satisfied that there was a reasonable likelihood of eventual success. ... We do not see any reasonable likelihood of success in any court at this time."

During a crowded news conference in his state Capitol office, Hunt said it was his "sworn duty as governor of this state to uphold the fundamental rule of law."

Hunt, to whom Mrs. Barfield's attorneys turned on Sept. 15 as a last resort after the U.S. Supreme Court rejected her request for a new trial last month, said he had studied the case and had considered arguments on both sides.

"I cannot in good conscience justify making an exception to the law as enacted by our state Legislature, or overruling those 12 jurors who, after hearing the evidence, concluded that Mrs. Barfield should pay the maximum penalty for her brutal actions," Hunt said.

Mrs. Barfield, 51, a Robeson County grandmother, was sentenced to death in 1978 for poisoning her boyfriend, Stuart Taylor of St. Pauls. She confessed on the witness stand that she also poisoned three other people, including her mother, but was not charged in those deaths.

Auto Donated

Pitt County resident Dr. Jon Tingelstad has donated a new 1984 Datsun/Nissan Sentra to the soon-to-be Ronald McDonald House of Greenville for use by House personnel and residents.

Dr. Tingelstad, chairman of the Department of Pediatrics at the East Carolina University School of Medicine, recently won the car.

Ronald McDonald Houses serve as homes away from home for families whose children are undergoing hospital treatment for serious illnesses. Currently there are two Houses in operation in Durham in Winston-Salem. Chapel Hill and Greenville are in the process of developing Houses as well. Work on the Greenville facility is slated to begin in July 1985 and officials are predicting that the structure should be complete within the first weeks of 1986.

Although Ronald McDonald Houses are independently run as non-profit facilities, each receives financial assistance from local McDonald's restaurants and corporate and private benefactors.

PCC Receives State Grant

Pitt Community College has been awarded a $47,000 grant from the N.C. Department of Community Colleges, according to PCC President Dr. Charles Russell.

The grant, Dr. Russell told members of the PCC Board of Trustees at its regular monthly meeting Thursday, will be used to establish a small business center. PCC was one of six institutions in the state chosen to receive a grant of this nature.

In other business, the board formally accepted gifts from Edgemont General Hospital and Burroughs Wellcome, Edgemont General's gift, a blood gas analyzer, will be used in the PCC respiratory therapy department and the 24-foot by 120-foot mobile unit donated by Burroughs Wellcome will be used to enhance PCC's electronic technology program.

Further additions to the PCC electronic curriculum were announced by personnel committee representative Joan Warren, who said that PCC will be bringing in two new instructors — one in electronics technology and the other in data processing.

Building Committee Chairman A.B. Whitley Jr. presented status reports on the progress of PCC's new library/learning center and site/drainage master plan. Whitley said schematic drawings of the learning center have been approved and that work on the drainage master plan is now in the preliminary stage.

Following Whitley's report, the board, upon recommendation of the building committee, approved moving Burroughs Wellcome's gift to the college and preparing a site for the mobile unit at PCC. Board members also approved a new roof for the Vernon White Building.

In final business, the board adopted its unified budget resolution of $7,355,754, and approved local and state budget transfers. Board members also voted to retain Clifton W. Everett Sr. as its chairman for 1984-85 and re-elected Kay Whichard and Mary Langston as vice chairman and secretary, respectively. Sharon Evans, PCC student government association president, was sworn in as an ex-officio member of the Board of Trustees.

Libertarian Wants Change In Views Of Government

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Fritz Prochnow is running for governor and he seeks as the Libertarian candidate to transform the way our state government operates — to change the entire context and purpose North Carolinians see government as having.

A naturalized U.S. citizen who grew up in Germany under Adolph Hitler, Prochnow asserts that he sees many similarities between conditions in this country now and what he saw in Germany prior to World War II. "Only the person, Adolph Hitler, is missing," he said. "He preached to us about the good of the whole, not the rights of the individual, and that's what I see emphasized and in place here now."

Prochnow says that North Carolina voters have no real choice between the two established party candidates. "Both want more government for us," he said. "I would drastically reduce government if I were elected. I would enforce the North Carolina Constitution, something that hasn't been done in a long time."

He says the U.S. and N.C. Constitutions call for full freedom of the individual and that this is not being carried out.

There would be no taxation under Prochnow if he had his way. "The state constitution guarantees in Article 1, Section 1, 'unalienable right to life, liberty, and the enjoyment of the fruits of their own labor,'" he says. Government services would be drastically curtailed and those that would continue would be financed by the users of them, not everyone, Prochnow asserts.

Church and private organizations and families would get back to caring for the indigent. "People are basically good and generous and would give freely if they weren't coerced into giving up so much of their income to the state," he commented.

Law enforcement would be only for crimes in which there are victims, which he defines as "acts which deprives another person of life, liberty or property." The courts would only enforce compensation for crimes to the victims, not useless attempts at punishment. Roads would be financed by tolls and user fees, not taxation of everyone. Education would be paid for by the parents of those to be educated and by private donation, not all of us.

The state would not seek industry. It would be begging to come here because this would be a free enterprise zone like few others in the world.

Federal monies would be rejected and with them would go federal speed limits, federal drinking laws, and other federal controls.

Prochnow is a computer programmer with IBM, the company for which he has worked for the past 28 years. He has been married for 34 years to the woman he met in college when he came here at age 18 as an exchange student after escaping from Communist East Germany. He and his wife have three adult children and two grandchildren. For a time he and his wife were missionaries for the Church of Christ in Germany, but returned to the U.S. in 1953. He became a naturalized citizen in 1956. He has previously run for political office once, as the Libertarian candidate for Congress from the Fourth District of North Carolina in 1982.

"I am running for governor because I feel an obligation towards my adopted country to do my utmost to keep it from slipping into the socialist totalitarian state from which I escaped," he said.

DR. ANDREW J. GORMAN III

Faculty Member

Dr. Andrew J. Gorman III has joined the East Carolina University School of Medicine as an assistant professor in the department of physiology.

A native of San Antonio, Texas, Gorman earned his undergraduate degree in biology and math at Baylor University and his Ph.D. in physiology and pharmacology at the University of Texas Health center at San Antonio.

Prior to joining ECU, Gorman was director of hemodynamic research as an assistant professor of surgery at Northwestern University Medical School in Chicago.

His principal research interest is the investigation of the neural reflex control of the circulation in normal physiological states and alterations which occur in such disease states as hypertension and congestive heart failure.

Briley Retiring

Capt. John Briley, a member of the Greenville police Department since 1955, will retire today, according to Chief Ted Holmes, who said the veteran officer will be honored by his co-workers at a reception this afternoon.

Briley, a Stokes native, served in the U.S. Navy from 1950 to 1954. First assigned to the department's uniformed division, Briley was promoted to corporal in July 1961 and to the rank of sergeant in September 1961. He later served as a detective for six years before being promoted to the rank of lieutenant and returned to the uniformed division as a shift supervisor in 1971.

Briley was transferred back to the detective division in 1978, then promoted to captain in September 1981 to head the uniformed division after serving as acting captain in charge of the detective division for a year. He has been captain in charge of the detective division since January of this year.

Holmes said, "I wish he wouldn't retire. I'm going to miss him. Not only has he given 30 years of outstanding service to the city, he has been a real big help to me in the year that I've been here. I'm going to miss him both professionally and personally," Holmes said.

New Computer Simulation Helps Biological Research

DURHAM (AP) — Computer simulations available nationwide through Duke University Medical Center may allow researchers to reach the "equivalent in biology of going to the moon," a Duke scientist says.

Dr. Madison Spach, a professor of pediatrics and physiology at Duke, said the explosion of basic information made computer simulations possible.

"With the aid of the computer, we may be able to see how it all fits together to control the function of organs," he said. "That's the equivalent in biology of going to the moon."

The National Biomedical Simulation Resource can simulate the actions of several human organs as well as the effects of drugs in the body, said Dr. Michael C. Kohn, education director for the center.

"Nothing will replace animal research," he said. "However, if you can construct a model from animal experiments ... you can predict certain behavior under certain conditions. You can test out any idea that you have. Then if the simulation predicts that maybe nothing interesting is going to happen, you may not have to use those animals to find that out."

Dr. J. Mailen Kootsey, center director, said using simulations in biology is relatively new even though computer simulations are widely used in engineering.

"Until recently, it was widely believed that living things did not work in an orderly fashion that could be described mathematically," he said. "Computers now can simulate any biological or physiological system, including heart, lungs, kidneys and blood."

Kohn said he was studying a protein that binds with the hormone adrenaline, which affects such things as heart rate, blood pressure, urine output and general activity. A simulator quickly gave him an idea of what effect the protein would have without resorting to a full-fledged study.

"This mostly will enable a researcher to understand his results

Associate Professor

Dr. Lawrence M. Moher has joined the East Carolina University School of Medicine as an associate professor in the department of family medicine.

A native of Baltimore, Moher earned his undergraduate and medical degrees from Michigan State University. He completed an internship in medicine at Good Samaritan Hospital in Phoenix, Ariz.

Before joining ECU he was an assistant professor at the University of Arizona. He also spent seven years in public health service, including three on the Hopi Indian Reservation and two in Micronesia.

His main field of interest is community-oriented primary care medicine, which encompasses such areas as public health, preventive medicine, geriatrics, nutrition, and occupational and environmental health.

At ECU, Moher is associated with the Eastern Carolina Family Practice Center.

Research Fellow

Greg Alan Howe of Raleigh, described by one of his professors as "that altogether too rare student," has been selected as the 1984-85 Burroughs Wellcome Research Fellow in Biology at East Carolina University.

The award was made on a competitive basis. Established with a $5,000 gift from Burroughs Wellcome to support ECU's program on molecular biology and biotechnology, it is the only research fellowship presently available in the department.

Howe, 23, received his BS degree in biology last fall and entered the master's program last spring. His thesis concerns yeast genetics and he is working in basic genetics research under Dr. Carlo Bruschi in the microbiology department of the ECU School of Medicine.

Upon completion of his master's degree program, Howe plans to work toward the Ph.D. in molecular biology and to continue to research, probably in an academic environment.

Lancaster-Worsley Vows Solemnized Saturday

Susan Brian Worsley and James Allen Lancaster Jr. were married at three o'clock Saturday in St. James United Methodist Church in Tarboro. The Rev. Caswell Shaw officiated with the Rev. Tom Loftis assisting at the candlelight, double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Braxton McLinden Worsley of Tarboro and the late Mr. Worsley. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Allen Lancaster and grandson of Mrs. J.W. Joyner, all of Farmville.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her brother, Weeks Worsley of Tarboro. The matron of honor was Becky Browning Mitchell of La Grange and the maid of honor was Lynn Browning of Tarboro. Courtney Lancaster of Raleigh, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and groomsmen were McLinden Worsley, nephew of the bride of Fayetteville, Brian Lancaster, brother of the bridegroom of Farmville, and Thomas Hardy, both of Farmville. Michael Worsley, nephew of the bride, was acolyte.

Wedding music was presented by organist Lloyd Owens of Tarboro and Barbara Boney, vocalist, also of Tarboro. Mrs. Joseph Taylor directed the ceremony.

The bride wore an ivory floor length gown with a cathedral train of organza and alencon lace with silk Venise lace and schiffli embroidery over taffeta. The fitted bodice featured an open neckline with Juliet puffed sleeves accented with organza bows and silk rosettes on the shoulders. Seed pearls appliqued the bodice. She wore an ivory cathedral length mantilla of bridal illusion bordered with garlands of silk Venise lace and accented with scattered lace motifs flowing from a Venise lace caplet etched with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of cymbidium orchids.

The bride attended St. Mary's Junior College and graduated from Wayne Community College as a certified dental assistant. She is employed by Family Dentistry in Greenville. The bridegroom graduated from Blue Ridge Academy and attended Louisburg and Elon Colleges. He is associated with his father at Pitt County Insurance Co. in Farmville.

After a wedding trip to Charleston and Kiawah Island, S.C., the couple will live in Greenville.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother in Tarboro.

A rehearsal party and dance was given at the Farmville Country Club by friends. The parents of the bridegroom entertained at an after-rehearsal dinner at the Colonial Inn in Farmville.

Other pre-nuptial parties included a bridesmaids luncheon, patio supper, cocktail party and miscellaneous shower.

Candlelight Ceremony Performed On Sunday

In a candlelight ceremony amid a setting of ferns, candelabra and palms, Sara LuRae Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ray Clark of Snow Hill became the bride of Dempsey Wood Tyndall II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey Wood Tyndall of Pink Hill, Sunday.

The ceremony was performed by the bride's grandfather, the Rev. C.L. Patrick of Winterville in the Bethany Free Will Baptist Church at 3 p.m.

Wesley Letchworth of Snow Hill played the organ and Ricky Harrell of Kinston sang "The Wedding Song," "You Mean More To Me" and "Saviour Like a Shepherd Lead Us."

Escorted by her father and given in marriage by her family, the bride wore a white formal gown of taffeta, re-embroidered lace, chantilly and schiffli embroidery. It was fashioned with a regular waist bordered with lace, sweetheart see-through neckline of French net, lace ring neckband and puffed elbow length sleeves with ribbon bows. The full A-line skirt was bordered with chantilly lace and ruffle back skirt featuring rows of chantilly lace which flowed into a chapel length train. She wore a white bridal hat overlaid in lace etched with pearls and iridescents. It featured a turned up side brim accented with illusion bow which fell to her chapel train. The bride carried a white lace handkerchief which her mother carried on her wedding day and a silk cascade bouquet of shades of orchid and pink cymbidium orchids and roses with white satin.

Christy Jane Clark of Snow Hill, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a formal gown of aubergine designed with a sweetheart neckline, puffed sleeves and fitted bodice. Her full skirt formed a bustle effect in back with satin bow. She carried a silk nosegay of mixed shades of orchid and pink similar to that of the bride.

Wanda Carol Tyndall of Pink Hill, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid and her dress and nosegay were identical to the honor attendant. Kelly Metts of Kinston was flower girl and also wore a dress identical to the honor attendant and carried a basket of silk mixed orchids and pink roses.

The best man was the father of the bridegroom and ushers were Wade and Ward Tyndall and the junior usher was Waylon Tyndall, all of Pink Hill and brothers of the bridegroom.

Heath Patrick of Greensboro, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer and carried a white satin pillow trimmed with lace and made by the bride's grandmother.

Mrs. Clark wore a misty mauve formal gown of celanese fortrell polyester knit styled with an illusion net sweetheart neckline. The mother of the bridegroom selected a rose colored formal gown of qiana polyester styled with a gathered empire waist. Both wore white cymbidium orchids.

Grandmothers of the bridal couple were remembered with white miniature mum corsages.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Whaley of Snow Hill presided at the register. The wedding was directed by Barbara P. Herring of Kinston, aunt of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Greene Central High School and Lenoir Community College. She is presently employed by Cato's at Vernon Park Mall. The bridegroom is a graduate of South Lenoir High School and Lenoir Community College. He is presently employed by Roy Jones Pontiac of Kinston.

After the ceremony the parents and grandparents of the bride entertained at a reception in the church fellowship hall.

The couple will live in Pink Hill after a wedding trip to the coast.

A pig picking was held at the church fellowship hall given by the family of the bridegroom after the rehearsal. A pantry shower, miscellaneous shower and a "get together" honored the couple prior to the ceremony.

Double Ring Ceremony Takes Place Sept. 15

Cynthia M. Bell and Lester Mooring of Greenville were married Sept. 15 at 5 p.m. at the home of the bride. The double ring ceremony took place in the yard and was conducted by the Rev. James Phillips.

Parents of the couple are Shirley Bell and Alexander Bell, both of Greenville, and Mr. and Mrs. Mooring of Stokes.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white taffeta floral gown. The pink and purple design was accented by a pink hat.

Andronette Bell, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Carolyn Streeter and Glenda Latham.

Kenneth Mooring, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers included Jesse Sneed of Greenville and Donald Bell, brother of the bride of New Jersey.

Denisha Bell and Shemika Mooring were flower girls. Mario Bell, son of the bride, was ring bearer.

Music was rendered by Kim Sharpe.

A reception was held after the ceremony. Sheila Latham presided at the bridal register. Cake was served by Mattie Carr and punch was poured by Joan Joyner. Assisting in serving were Barbara Murray and Mattie Eaton.

A bridal shower was given by Barbara Smith, Atheia Owens and Sylvia Mills.

Rachel B. Short was director. After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple lives in Greenville.

Wedding Worries Weigh Heavily On Bride-To-Be

DEAR ABBY: My fiance and I plan to be married next June, and I would like to ask my brother and his wife to be honor attendants. My problem is that they are both quite overweight. It's important for me that everything for my wedding be as perfect as possible. Since there is plenty of time until the wedding, I would like to ask them to go on a diet. I know they can do it because they were both thin a few years ago.

How can I make them understand that I am serious about the weight issue without hurting their feelings?

If they refuse to diet, I plan to ask others in their place.

SLIM SISTER

DEAR SLIM: I recommend that you ask others in their place right now. To invite your brother and his wife to be your "honor attendants" on the condition that they lose weight is no honor—it's an insult. Are overweight people any less loving than underweight people? And since you want everything for your wedding to be "perfect," what do you intend to do about your far-from-perfect values?

DEAR ABBY: Last night my wife and I went to our weekly bingo night with hopes of winning a few dollars to put toward outfitting the nursery for the baby we're expecting in three months.

The woman seated across from us heard our conversation about the baby and asked my wife how far along she was. My wife replied cheerfully, "Five and a half months—well beyond the critical period."

With a broad smile, the woman said, "Don't start planning yet, dear; I gave birth to two dead babies before I had a family!"

Abby, how could anybody be so unthinking? It so happened that my wife's first pregnancy ended in a miscarriage, and this time we felt able to relax and plan for our baby.

When I told a friend about the incident, he said, "The lady was right, you know. Even if your wife makes it to the delivery room, the baby could be either stillborn or deformed, and you must be ready for that."

What should we say to these people?

EXPECTING IN CALGARY

DEAR EXPECTING: Don't waste your energy trying to think of something to say to insensitive and ignorant people. Try silence. It speaks volumes.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 16 years old and my love life stinks. I like this kid who has been coming to my house for a year now. He likes to watch TV, make out and eat. (I make fabulous chocolate chip cookies. He can put away a double batch with two quarts of milk.) But, Abby, there are two things wrong with him: 1) He won't make any kind of commitment; 2) he never takes me anywhere.

I'm nothing to be ashamed of, and I am not boring. So what should I do?

GETTING NOWHERE FAST

DEAR GETTING: If he's going to drink your milk and eat your cookies, tell him he has to take you out occasionally. And you may quote me.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder if the general public knows that the waiter or waitress has to pay the check if the person he or she served walks out without paying?

WILMINGTON, DEL., WAITRESS

DEAR WAITRESS: They do know.

Fodder

How to improve the schools is a question that concerns everyone, parents, students, teachers and all of us as taxpayers.

Pitt County school Superintendent Eddie West discussed the matter with the powerful Advisory Budget Commission during its recent visit here.

The county schools are participating in a school finance project which the Legislature approved two years ago.

West told the commission that by eliminating restrictions on state school funds "I am confident we could have a better program." He noted that budgets come down to local school districts on a line item basis. School districts participating in the study were given a lump sum of money which was used mostly "based on what a basic instructional program should be," West said. It is a slow evolutionary process, but could be phased in over four or five years.

The continuing study has shown that more than one teacher is needed per classroom. It takes 1.12 teachers per classroom for a defined basic program in grades K-5 and perhaps more at the high school level.

West suggested establishment of a state fund to provide matching funds to local school districts for new school buildings. He also foresees a teacher shortage as being the biggest problem in four or five years.

The aim of the basic school program is to provide every child, regardless of where he lives, the same opportunities by providing instructional and staffing equality across schools, regardless of size.

Through participation in the school financing project the Pitt County schools are giving thoughtful consideration as to how our schools of the future should be operated.

Superintendent West offered the Advisory Budget Commission some points to ponder in his briefing.

Captions

It was just one of those innocent-looking news releases from the Postal Service, until one read the caption that said "Postal Service Moves to Automate Postal Windows."

It was a bad way to start a day.

There were immediate visions of stamp dispensers that didn't work, charts and displays that instruct patrons on everything but how to moisten envelope flaps, and computer terminals offering five or more potential answers to any given question — with the final print-out "none of the above."

The most dismal prospect was dehumanizing the helpful element on the other side of the counter.

We read farther.

The service's board of governors had authorized purchase of 5,000 machines called integrated retail terminals, which combine the functions of an electronic scale, a programmable calculator and an information screen. (It was even worse than a vivid imagination pictured.)

Only at the bottom of the release were we advised the terminals literally place mailing information and postage charges at the clerk's fingertips. That meant we would still have clerks!

If there was a lesson involved, it was an oldie. Do not put your trust in captions.

New Points Of Focus For Mondale

WASHINGTON — Now that University of Southern California students have rudely shown Walter Mondale that his election hopes are not necessarily with younger voters, it's time that he refocus on his potentially more reliable constituencies: organized labor and the elderly. Representatives of both groups complain that the Mondale-Ferraro campaign is neglecting them.

"We feel he should be spending a lot more time with us," said a top-level AFL-CIO official, who spoke on a not-for-attribution basis.

"One of the things that's a mystery to us is the real, genuine lack of organizing senior citizens," charged an official with the National Council of Senior Citizens. "There is no real senior operation at the Mondale group."

Among union households, Mondale's rating ranges from mixed to poor, according to recent polls. A Washington Post/ABC News poll taken earlier this month gave the Mondale-Ferraro ticket a mere 49 percent to 48 percent edge among voters from households with one or more union members. The New York Times/CBS News poll put the Reagan-Bush ticket ahead 47 percent to 45 percent, while NBC News said the incumbent ticket's margin was 14 points, 54 percent to 40 percent, with 6 percent undecided.

According to USA Today, Reagan leads Mondale by 4 percent among those over 65.

Nonetheless, among non-union households, Reagan's margin ranges from 21 points (Washington Post/ABC News) to 34 points (NBC News). Voters under 30 give the president the most support of any age group.

Some labor officials say that the Mondale-Ferraro campaign suffers from overall inexperience. They blame logistical mistakes, for example, for the poor turnout for the ticket in New York on Labor Day.

But labor officials, as well as normally pro-Democratic retirees, concede that they've had less access to the upper echelons of the campaign than the public generally assumes. The implication may be that Mondale wants to distance himself from "vested" interests. But those interests sense that the campaign is simply taking them for granted. Such an attitude can only leave them less than enthusiastic about working for the Democratic standard bearer.

A United Nations study group is trying to advance a plan under which industrial nations would pay a "brain-drain" tax for attracting educated people from Third World countries. The group argues that poorer countries pay for the training of their promising young people whom the richer countries then use.

Jamaican Prime Minister Edward Seaga wants multinational corporations operating in the Third World to pay the bulk of such a penalty. He says that between 1977 and 1980, his country lost 60 percent of its newly-graduated skilled workers to North America.

The CIA won't give up. An Agency-produced manual has popped up in Managua, Nicaragua, instructing would-be contras on how to be good urban guerrillas. Some advice in the CIA handbook includes how to stop up toilets.

Any public official who opposes the nuclear power industry risks its fury at election time. Rep. Edward Markey (D-Mass.) may know that as well as anyone. In his recent primary battle, the victorious Markey faced an opponent, State Sen. Samuel Rotondi, who had received about $20,000 during the last month of his campaign from nuclear and utility industry executives.

In fact, the list of Rotondi's contributors read like a Who's Who of the American utility business. Some of his contributors included: Duke Power, Chairman William Lee; Southern Company President

Edward Addison; Mississippi Power and Light President D.C. Lutkin, and Floyd Lewis, chairman of Middle South Utilities.

Of course, the nuclear industry had good reason to support Markey's opponent. Markey has railed against nuclear power from the chairman's seat of the House Energy and Commerce's Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations. Next year, because of retirements, he is scheduled to assume leadership of an even more powerful subcommittee, Energy Conservation and Power.

"Invest in El Salvador" was the message Luis Andreu, president of the Port Authority of El Salvador, took to a group of businessmen in New Orleans earlier this month. Andreu told a conference on business opportunities in Central America that El Salvador offers one of the best highway systems on the isthmus and excellent railroad links to the country's two major Pacific Coast ports. He also said El Salvador has the best telecommunications network in Central America, and an abundant supply of electrical power. Although Salvador lost 40 percent of its U.S. investments in the early 1980s, he said, the firms that remained have earned record profits.

Tough Guidelines For Rare Meeting

WASHINGTON — Presiding over an enlarged National Security Council session Sept. 18, President Reagan laid down tough guidelines for this week's talk with Andrei Gromyko focusing not on arms control but on unacceptable Soviet conduct in all its manifestations, a decision certain to alarm the arms-control bloc. Reagan's guidelines move the U.S. away from the obsessive preoccupation with arms control that has motivated previous administrations. Arms control, the president made clear to his top policy aides, is not the centerpiece of American-Soviet relations. The U.S., he said, must be more concerned about general Soviet misconduct — particularly intervention in Afghanistan and Central America — than about the troubled course of arms control. Contributing to these Reagan guidelines on how to deal with Foreign Minister Gromyko's visit are new intelligence reports that have alarmed Reagan and his top advisers.

The lesson in the correct U.S. policy toward the Soviets that Reagan recited behind closed doors suggests a cool presidential approach to the Gromyko meeting not encumbered with the election-year peace imagery urged by some of his advisers.

For months, the president has been buffeted by conflicts between his own convictions and the pleadings of a few aides, notably deputy chief of staff Michael Deaver. They want Reagan to enhance his peace image with offers to Moscow that would lead to quick resumption of arms control talks.

But Reagan was on a different tack in the 90-minute White House session. As described by one insider, he took a "simple and uncluttered" view of the disrupted talks: The Soviets walked out, not the U.S.; therefore it is up to the Soviets to return, not the U.S. to beg for their return.

That seemed to doom proposals of State Department officials that the U.S. should offer concessions to induce Moscow to return to arms control negotiations, possibly before the election. One proposal: That the U.S. agree to delay the crucial late-fall test of a new anti-satellite weapon. Although Secretary of State George Shultz did not formally broach that idea Sept. 18, Reagan was prepared for it. "He would have said no," a key aide told us, not only on principle but because intelligence reports now moving onto his desk are asking hard questions about hostile Soviet acts at home and around the globe.

The most ominous of these reports from the CIA raises suspicion of an imminent Soviet move from Afghanistan into the northern tip of Pakistan. Moscow has repeatedly warned that it will not tolerate continued Pakistani aid for Afghan freedom fighters in their struggle against the Soviet invasion. Reagan has been informed that a new buildup of Soviet arms and men in northern Afghanistan points to a spillover of the war into Pakistan itself. If that occurred before Nov. 6, Reagan's course would be excruciatingly difficult.

Another Soviet move now alarming the White House is the most intensive effort ever recorded to conceal tests of its new missiles.

Strength For Today

One of the noblest passages in the scripture is this: "Have this in mind in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: who existing in the form of God counted not the being on an equality with God a thing to be grasped, but emptied himself taking the form of a servant ... becoming obedient even unto death, yea the death on the cross" (Philippians, 2:5-8).

There is not a single one of us who does not have some advantage in life — personality, position, good fortune, radiant health, intellect, sound judgment. These are gifts from God. We contribute to the development or dissipation of these gifts. They are not to be grasped and used primarily for our personal advantage, but primarily under the stewardship we owe to God.

When we so use our opportunities, we experience in some small measure the exaltation Christ experienced.

SO MUCH TO THINK ABOUT!

Life Of The Party

A recent state supreme court ruling in New Jersey has been making life very difficult for people who are giving parties. The court ruled that the party givers could be held responsible if one of their guests left the premises in an inebriated state and hurt someone in an accident.

The burden on the host and hostess is more than most Jersey residents can stand.

I attended the 25th wedding anniversary of the Richard Faheys in their home in East Orange, N.J., last weekend.

There were mountains of delicious food, an anniversary cake, and a bar off in the corner.

"Well, Fahey," I said, "this is really a great occasion. I think I'll have a drink."

He looked at me sharply. "How many have you had already?"

"Just one," I said.

He took out his notebook and wrote something in it.

"What are you doing?"

"I'm keeping track of all the guests. Your limit is three," he replied.

"Why three?"

"We checked out all our guests before the party. Reports from Washington indicate three drinks are all you can handle."

"But I'm not driving. I came with Mike Clark."

Fahey looked in his book. "I'm glad you told me. Clark is only good for four glasses of wine before he goes blotto. Excuse me. I just saw Dale Denton over there take his second glass of champagne. What kind of party does he think we're throwing?"

I walked over to Jonah Shacknai. "How's it going?" I asked him.

"Okay, I'm leaving."

"So early? We haven't had dinner yet."

"I had two Scotch and waters and Fahey told the bartender to cut me off. I don't intend to suck ice cubes for the rest of the night."

"It must be tough going to a party in New Jersey," I said.

"We had better ones before the state supreme court ruling. You see that beautiful girl over there. I'm told she goes crazy when she has vodka tonics."

"Well, you're a bachelor. Why don't you get to know her?"

"Fahey won't let her have more than three, so I'd just be wasting my time."

"Mrs. Fahey came by. 'Is everyone having a good time?'"

"Sort of," I said.

She looked in her notebook and then said, "Can I freshen your drink?"

"I'd rather wait for my last one after dinner," I said.

"That's a good idea. There is no reason to peak too early."

I happened to pass the bar and found Fahey in an agitated state. He was checking all the bottles.

"What's going on?" I asked him.

"My bar inventory doesn't jibe with my records. People have been lying to me on how many drinks they've consumed."

"Relax, Fahey. It's your 25th anniversary."

"That's easy for you to say. You don't have to worry about being sued."

Finally dinner was served. Instead of wine we toasted the happy couple with Perrier. I took my final drink for the road and got my coat to leave. In the hallway I noted several guests sitting in a row of chairs.

"What are they waiting for?" I asked Fahey.

He said in disgust, "They couldn't pass the breathalyzer tests so they're going to have to sit there all night."

Former Diplomat Bunker Dies At 90

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. (AP) — Ellsworth Bunker, a diplomat under seven presidents who was ambassador to South Vietnam during the height of the war in Southeast Asia and oversaw the "Vietnamization" of the conflict, has died at age 90.

The veteran statesman had been hospitalized at Brattleboro Memorial Hospital since Sept. 13 and died Thursday evening of complications of a viral infection with his wife and daughter at his side, said family spokesman Alan Carter.

The 6-foot-2-inch Bunker, who stood ramrod straight with a full head of white hair and wire-rimmed glasses, was the image of a diplomat.

In 1962 he served as a special negotiator and helped avert war between the Netherlands and Indonesia over Dutch New Guinea. Bunker was a peacemaker again in Dominican Republic in 1965. And before his retirement in 1978, he was chief U.S. negotiator for a new Panama Canal Treaty.

But it was in South Vietnam that he played his most prominent foreign policy and diplomatic role. Appointed ambassador by President Lyndon B. Johnson in April 1967, Bunker was a major symbol of American military involvement during the war's bloodiest and most divisive years.

Born in Yonkers, N.Y., on May 11, 1894, Bunker graduated from Yale in 1916 with a bachelor's degree in history and economics. He started out unloading sugar for the National Sugar Refining Company, which his father had helped to found. By 1940 he had risen to president of the company, and became its chairman of the board in 1948.

Bunker entered public service in 1951 when President Truman appointed him to serve as ambassador to Argentina during a low point in relations with that country.

He later served as ambassador to Italy, India and Nepal and was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom in 1963 and 1968.

He was a delegate to the United

ELLSWORTH BUNKER

Nations General Assembly in 1956, and in 1962, served on the U.S. National Commission for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

That same year, he helped avert war between the Netherlands and Indonesia over Dutch New Guinea, now called West Irian. Bunker again played peacemaker in 1965, serving as chief mediator between warring factions in the Dominican Republic.

As ambassador to South Vietnam from 1967 until May 1973, Bunker presided over the "Vietnamization" of the conflict and the withdrawal of hundreds of thousands of American troops, who were replaced by South Vietnamese.

By May 1973, when Bunker left the war-ravaged nation, a peace agreement had been reached in Paris by the United States, South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

BEACH AWASH — Waves break over onto highway A1A at Fort Lauderdale Beach, Fla., Thursday as tropical storm Isidore moved in and out of the Florida mainland. The storm brought heavy rain, but only moderate winds, to South Florida, leaving behind the threat of some heavy flooding. (AP Laserphoto)

Isidore Threatens Stronger Sweep In Central Florida

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Tropical storm Isidore, sprawling over 300 miles, straddled Florida's Gulf coast today, flailing wide areas with rain and wind gusts up to 70 mph and forecasters said it could turn inland and cross Florida again.

The center of the storm was about 70 miles north of Tampa at 6 a.m. EDT and moving toward the north northwest around 12 mph.

"(It) is expected to continue this motion for the next few hours, turning toward a more northerly track later today," the National Hurricane Center in Miami said in its advisory.

Such a course would turn the storm toward north Florida and southeast Georgia.

"The center itself is over land, but we've got some good, strong convective areas over water on both coasts," said forecaster Bob Sheets. "It's 300 miles across. It's a big circulation."

Sheets said forecasters expected the storm to turn north later today and then northeast late tonight, and "It could eventually turn northeast and go back into the Atlantic."

Gale warnings were ordered on the Atlantic coast from Jupiter Inlet to Savannah, Ga., with gale warnings remaining in effect along the Gulf coast from Venice, Fla., to Apalachicola, Fla.

"Highest sustained winds are near 50 mph with higher gusts in squalls," the advisory said. "A large portion of the circulation remains over water and the storm is expected to maintain its present strength today."

Early this morning, St. Augustine Beach on Florida's Atlantic coast reported sustained winds of 40 mph with gusts to 70 mph in a squall.

The advisory warned of some severe thunderstorms over the northern third of Florida today, spreading into southeast Georgia later today.

Outside of gale warnings, the advisory said, small craft along the South Carolina and North Carolina coasts should not venture far from port.

The fringe of the storm dumped rain on the Gulf at midnight as it sloshed across central Florida, pounding the state's disease-ravaged citrus crop with flooding rains.

Additional rainfall amounts of 3 to 5 inches were forecast for portions of central and northern Florida during the morning.

Abandoned Bank Deposit Boxes Help State Treasury

RALEIGH (AP) — The unclaimed contents of abandoned safe deposit boxes — sold by the state after all efforts to locate the owners are exhausted — provide more than $2.4 million for student loans each year, officials say.

Terry Allen, assistant director for administrative services in the state Department of Treasury, said auctions like the one being held today at the North Carolina State Fairgrounds are held whenever enough property piles up to make it profitable.

"This time we'll probably have 315 items," he said, adding that most of the property is coins and paper currency.

Allen said this is expected to be the biggest auction since the state started the process in 1971 — some $28 million ago. Last year, the state collected close to $28,000, but only the interest from the sales can be spent.

"We keep the principle, but we invest that money," he said. "Then the earnings go to the state Education Assistance Authority, which makes loans available to students."

State law requires that funds gathered by selling unclaimed property be held indefinitely in case the rightful owner or an heir shows up,

Allen said. Even with that safeguard, there is a lot of paperwork to go through before the state can claim property.

If a person fails to pay rent on a safe deposit box for a year, the bank is required to try to contact the owner. Then the contents of the box are placed in a holding area for two more years. If all further attempts to contact the owners fail, the contents of value to the state are forwarded to Raleigh.

Even then, treasury officials must advertise in newspapers to find the owners and descriptions of the property must be filed with county clerks, Allen said.

Lately, more property has been entering the system.

"It's just that we've started to develop a more stringent audit program, going into state and national banks," Allen said.

Occasionally, unusual items surface.

"Last year, we received two large boxes of sterling silver, tilting teapots, candlesticks, the works," Allen said. "It came from a bank in Hendersonville and the boxes had the name of a Tampa, Fla., warehouse. All the items were wrapped in newspaper date 1937. They even had accounts of the Hindenberg disaster."

Cleanup Begins At Crash Site

KERNERSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Officials have begun cleaning up the area around a water tower where two people were killed trying to retrieve the body of a construction worker pinned to the top of the tower.

WFMV-TV helicopter pilot Tom Haroski and Forsyth County rescue worker Steve Richey were killed in an attempt to remove the body of Charles Thompkins, 19, a demolition worker, from a Kernersville water tower Tuesday.

The helicopter was removed Wednesday afternoon, lifted by crane from the top of an apartment building where it crashed after the blades of the helicopter struck the tower.

Kernersville Town Manager Kelly Almond planned to meet Thursday with insurance adjusters for Westbrook Iron Co. of Lumberton, which began dismantling the tower last week.

Thompkins died after his legs were crushed by a section of the water tower support he had cut away about 6:10 p.m. Tuesday.

Almond said he wanted to get the rest of the tower taken down as soon as possible.

"I don't want to be disrespectful, but I don't want it to stand there as a monument to this disaster for a couple of weeks," he said.

Meanwhile, investigators say it could be six to eight months before they determine the cause of the crash.

The National Transportation Safety Board and Federal Aviation Administration investigators will listen to tapes of conversations between the pilot and rescue workers, according to John Drake, an air safety investigator with the safety board in Atlanta.

Investigators spent most of Wednesday afternoon examining the crash site at the old water tower, taking photographs and examining the wreckage of the helicopter.

The funeral for Richey will be held today in Winston-Salem, and a service for Haroski is to be held in Clemmons, also today.

I-85 Schedule

GREENSBORO (AP) — Officials say construction to widen Interstate 85 from Greensboro to the Durham County line will begin within a year barring political intervention.

Widening and interchange expansions for the 41-mile stretch, first set for 1989, have been pushed up to 1986 because the 5-cent federal gas tax boost imposed by Congress in 1983 made more money available, said Sanders Dallas Jr., the area's representative on the state Board of Transportation.

Opponents Invoke Biblical Tenets On Law's Change

RALEIGH (AP) — Both religious fundamentalists and backers of homosexual rights invoked the Bible as they spoke before a legislative study committee considering whether North Carolina's crime-against-nature statute should be repealed.

Both groups appeared before the Criminal Code Revision Study Committee Thursday, with the religious fundamentalists asking that the law be left intact to promote traditional morality.

But advocates for gay and lesbian rights countered that the statute should be abandoned because private sexual acts between consenting adults should not be a concern of the state.

The crime-against-nature statute is a felony that includes oral and anal sex between humans and animals, and it is punishable by fine or imprisonment.

Larry Griswold, who said he was an ordained minister from Roanoke Rapids, said the law should be left on the books to discourage the spread of homosexual behavior.

"When the law of God is perverted, crime will prevail," he said. The Rev. Coy C. Privette, executive director of the Christian Action League, a statewide conservative religious lobbying group, said changing the statute would "open the doors of our state to deviant behavior."

But the Rev. June Norris of St. John's Metropolitan Community Church in Charlotte said she worked in outreach programs for homosexuals and resents "the efforts of those who would impose their moral standards on others."

"I remember the words of Jesus, who said, 'Let those without sin cast the first stone,'" she said.

David Jolly of Durham, a member of the steering committee for the N.C. Lesbian and Gay Health Project, told the committee that homosexuals often don't seek proper health care because they fear that their physicians will ask about their sexual practices — which are illegal in North Carolina.

"At present for gay people, it means admitting we are committing a crime each time we make love," he said.

Jolly called the statute "an archaic law that violates the principle of individual liberty."

About 20 speakers appeared before the committee, which was expected to continue work on its review of the criminal code today.

Rep. Daniel T. Blue Jr., D-Wake, co-chairman of the committee, said that the crime-against-nature statute was left out of recommendations for a revised criminal code that emerged from a commission created in 1969 to review all criminal laws in the state.

Political Ads Are Source Of Debate In Major Races

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer

Political advertisements have become a source of controversy in recent days in both the U.S. Senate and governor's races, with opponents accusing each other of running ads that are inaccurate, misleading or unfair.

In the senate race, Gov. Jim Hunt's campaign began airing its newest television commercial Thursday. It begins, "They don't allow news cameras in the Senate and Jesse Helms must be glad of that. So this is an actual artist's drawing of Jesse Helms voting to..."

Helms is then depicted in six different poses, supposedly voting to cut Social Security and veterans' benefits and to give tax breaks to the oil industry.

The 30-second commercial concludes with a drawing of Helms "just a few days ago, voting to make sure they never let TV cameras in the U.S. Senate. Now remember, this is an actual artist's drawing and Jesse Helms is going to be sorry you ever saw it."

The ad is designed to spoof a Helms' commercial, said Will Marshall, a campaign spokesman for the Democratic governor.

The Helms' commercial says it shows "actual TV news footage in slow motion" of "Hunt voting to raise your taxes" at a February meeting of the National Governors' Association.

"They say it's attempted humor, but I think it's in poor taste," said Helms campaign spokesman Claude Allen at a news conference Thursday. "They want to score some points through humor on votes which they do take out of context."

"The Hunt committee, lacking documentation of the charges they have aimed at Senator Helms, had an artist artificially manufacture drawings of Senator Helms that were not accurate in any way, shape or form."

But Marshall said "Senator Helms voted not to let television cameras into the Senate so that his votes to cut Social Security and veterans' benefits wouldn't be recorded for posterity."

In the governor's race, the campaigns of Attorney General Rufus Edmisten and U.S. Rep. Jim Martin accused each other Thursday of sponsoring misleading and unfair political advertisements.

Meanwhile, Edmisten's campaign committee paid the state Department of Justice $925 Thursday for the use of state-owned cars to make 78 political trips dating back to June 1983.

Martin issued a statement saying Edmisten's television commercial criticizing him on a hazardous waste disposal vote ignored the fact that all nine of the state's Democratic congressmen had voted the same way.

Edmisten's campaign spokesman, Dan Hoover, angrily denounced a Martin "man on the street" radio ad in which people who aren't identified question Edmisten's competence and qualifications.

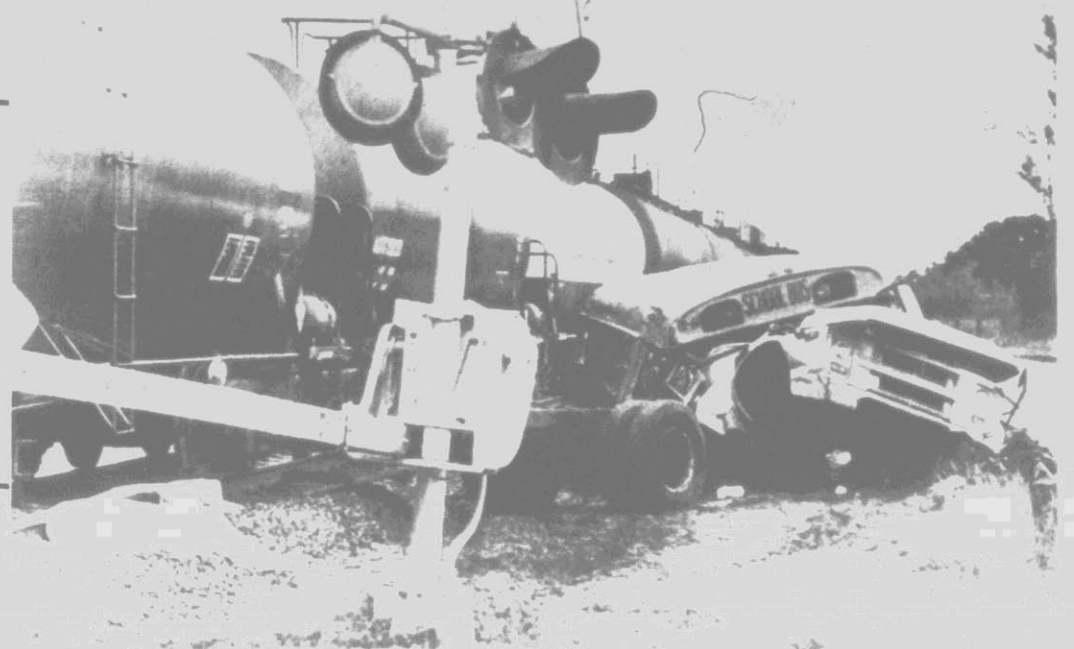

One of the speakers in the radio ad, which is airing statewide, says Edmisten is more interested in advancing his career than in helping the state. Another says he is "incompetent" and "doesn't know anything about the law and little about state government."

A third speaker says Martin, as a four-term congressman and former college professor, is more qualified than Edmisten to be governor. Another accuses Edmisten of falsely claiming that the state's drug and crime problems improved during his tenure as attorney general.

Hoover said the ad flies in the face of Martin's pledge not to make personal attacks.

Did Politics Enter Hunt Decision? Hunt Aide Says No, Others Say Yes

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt's campaign to unseat Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., did not enter into his refusal of executive clemency for convicted murderer Velma Barfield, one of the governor's closest advisers says.

But others, including George Gardner, the executive director of the North Carolina Civil Liberties Union, disagreed.

Gardner said Thursday he regretted Hunt made the decision "at a time when political pressures were paramount."

"I know there had to be considerations other than the evils of the death penalty in the governor's decision," Gardner said in a telephone interview from Greensboro.

J. Phil Carlton, a former state Supreme Court justice and an adviser to Hunt, said Hunt "did what he would have done if this had not been a political season. But this is a political season and I'm sure some will read politics into it. There is not much you can do about that."

Hunt announced late Thursday afternoon he had rejected Mrs. Barfield's request that her death sentence be commuted to life imprisonment. She is scheduled to be executed Nov. 2.

Political insiders have said that Hunt's challenge of Helms might be harmed by whatever decision he made — especially since her execution is scheduled for four days prior to the Nov. 6 election.

Hunt resolutely denied that politics had influenced his decision.

"That does not make any difference whatsoever," Hunt said. "That has no place in the consideration of a matter of this kind, and it has had none here."

When asked whether he agreed, Mrs. Barfield's attorney, Jimmy Little, declined to comment.

E.M. Adams, a professor of philosophy at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill who had urged Hunt to postpone his decision until after the election, said he did not think the decision was a political one.

have no doubt that if he had postponed the decision until after the election, he would have made the same decision," Adams said. "I would rather have seen it made in a calmer atmosphere."

Mrs. Barfield took the news calmly and asked that no further attempt be made to save her life, said Little, who informed her of Hunt's decision shortly before it was announced.

"Velma feels that the emotional upheaval ... should come to an end," Little said.

He added that he had filed a motion in Wake County Superior Court around 5 p.m. Thursday, asking that no request for a stay be considered unless filed by him or another of Mrs. Barfield's attorneys.

Joe Freeman Britt, the Robeson County district attorney who prosecuted Mrs. Barfield, said there was "no rational basis on which he (Hunt) could have granted clemency in the case. We have here clearly a series of cold-blooded atrocious killings for which there was no appropriate punishment other than the death penalty."

Alice Taylor Storms, daughter of Stuart Taylor, for whose murder Mrs. Barfield received the death sentence in 1978, said she was "very satisfied" with Hunt's ruling.

"We felt all along that if he did his homework ... there was no other decision to make," said Mrs. Storms in a telephone interview from her Lumberton home. "I really think he feels deep down that she is a dangerous woman who should not be back in society."

Mrs. Storms' husband, William, said his family believed "in our Bible. The Bible tells us that the murderers should be executed and we strongly believe in the death penalty."

Sylvia Andrews, daughter of John Henry Lee, whom Mrs. Barfield confessed to poisoning, said: "You can be conned part of the time, but you can't con all the people all the time."

"All we want is for justice to be done. It won't bring back the dead. But it will ensure that no one else is hurt by Velma Barfield as we have been hurt."

A tearful Kim Norton, Mrs. Barfield's daughter, said in telephone interview from Lumberton that she was "going to need some time."

"I have to talk to Stacie (Mrs. Norton's 8-year-old daughter) about it before she can hear it on television," she said.

Mrs. Barfield's supporters had worked for years to convince the public — and Hunt — that she committed the murders while addicted to prescription drugs that impaired her reasoning. They said she had undergone a religious conversion while in prison and had benefited society by counseling scores of female inmates.

But the victims' families said her drug problem had been exaggerated and that her rehabilitation was faked. Mrs. Storms called her a "serial killer" who enjoyed watching people suffer.

Hunt, in a news conference at which he announced his decision, said it was the weight of all the evidence against Mrs. Barfield that convinced him, rather than any single factor.

He said there was "no question as to her guilt" and that she had received a fair trial.

"Death by arsenic poisoning is slow and agonizing," Hunt said. "Victims are literally tortured to death."

Hunt spent all day Thursday reviewing the case with his legal adviser, Jack Cozort, said press secretary Brent Hackney. He made his decision about 4 p.m. Thursday.

"I think it would have been better for the decision not to have been made in a political atmosphere, but I

Vanore declined comment on a senior judge's statement that an SBI investigation of Riley had been requested recently in a letter from Wake Superior Court Judge Edwin S. Preston Jr.

Superior Court Judge James H. Pou Bailey said Thursday that Preston had asked the SBI to investigate Riley's office.

Hearing Delayed On Hunt Planes

RALEIGH (AP) — A hearing on a Republican lawsuit charging Gov. Jim Hunt with illegally using state aircraft for his personal business was postponed Thursday until mid-November by a Wake Superior Court judge.

The postponement will place the hearing sometime after the Nov. 6 election in which Hunt, a Democrat, is seeking to unseat Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

Bailey's decision the hearing overruled arguments from Flaherty's lawyers that the issue should be resolved soon because further misuse could occur without a court order preventing it.

SBI Says No DA Under Investigation

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Bureau of Investigation is not looking into the professional conduct of Wake District Attorney J. Randolph Riley, nor is it planning to, a senior deputy attorney general says.

Andrew Vanore Jr., senior deputy attorney general, said Thursday that the SBI is not investigating any district attorney in North Carolina and has no plans to.

River Probe Yields 19th Century Tools

Underwater archaeologists Lee Cox and Wes Hall have discovered the wreck of an early 19th-century sailing vessel in the Delaware River near the Philadelphia Navy Yard. Cox, director of a two-year archaeological project for the Philadelphia Maritime Museum, and Hall, an archaeological assistant for ECU's maritime research program, located the 50-foot-long, two-masted schooner beneath 25 feet of water on the second day of their project on the Delaware Aug. 4-5.

The two, also master's candidates of the ECU graduate program in maritime history and underwater research, were conducting a follow-up investigation of an earlier project when they located the wrecked schooner. Schooners were economical and, therefore, were popular commercial vessels during the age of sail. With two or more fore- and aft-rigged masts, schooners possessed fast sailing characteristics. Fewer seamen were also needed to operate schooners because their sails could be operated from the decks.

Cox and Hall toughed two-knot currents and used underwater lights to pierce the river's dark depths during their brief study of the wreck. They recovered, sketched and photographed an assortment of artifacts from the site, including an anchor, a cast-iron tea kettle, a pair of coal tongs, and an iron spike.

"We only recovered artifacts which we believed would help us more accurately date the site," Cox said. "Those artifacts, except for the anchor which we returned to the site, are now undergoing conservation at the Philadelphia Maritime Museum."

According to Gordon Watts, director of underwater research for the ECU program, the anchor is English and dates to the first quarter of the 19th century. The type of kettle recovered was also prevalent during the beginning of the 19th century.

Cox said the wreck is divided into two sections which lie on the hard-mud river bottom. Although the remains appear to have been disturbed by dredging activities, Cox added that the wreck's surviving wood structure and associated iron artifacts remain in relatively good condition.

Earlier in May, Cox and Hall had joined other graduate students and professors from ECU's maritime program to investigate various sections of the Delaware River. That archaeological team used a proton procession magnetometer (to locate targets) and a fathometer (depth recorder) to conduct a remote sensing survey of areas thought most likely to contain submerged cultural resource material.

After targets were discovered, students and professors alike took turns donning equipment to visually search for the material generating the magnetic signals. "But during the May project," Cox said, "we only found modern debris, such as two-inch diameter wire cable, and dredging material which was strewn all over the river bottom."

Cox and Hall returned to the area in August because they received reports that divers had discovered an 18th century vessel in the 1970s near the area under investigation. What the two archaeologists found, however, was a different wreck in approximately the same area.

The current investigation of Pennsylvania's waterways is the first effort to formulate guidelines for the protection and preservation of historically significant artifacts in the state of Pennsylvania.

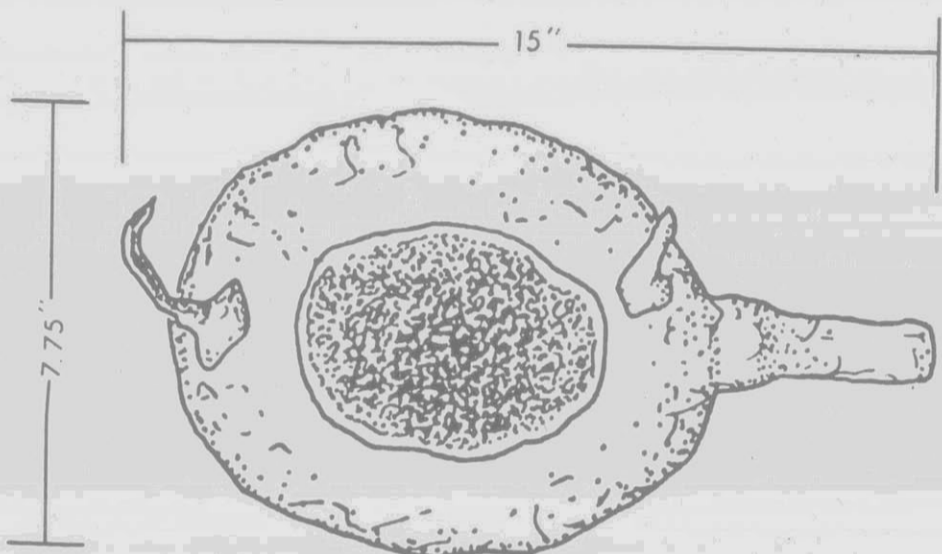

"The data we have collected this summer during our work on the Delaware River, including drawings of artifacts and site maps," Cox said, "will be included in a site report and forwarded to the Pennsylvania State Bureau for Historic Preservation."

The project, now in its second year, is being funded by the Pennsylvania Historical Commission, Bureau for Historic Preservation utilizing grant-in-aids funds from the National Park Service, U.S. Department of the Interior, the Philadelphia Maritime Museum, and ECU's Maritime History and Underwater Research Program.

IRON ARTIFACTS — A cast iron tea kettle, shown to the left and in the scale drawing above, was one of several artifacts recovered from the Delaware River wreck site. Also retrieved from the river's depths were a pair of coal tongs and a spike, shown to the right. The kettle, tongs and rod were not returned to the river bed. Instead, they are undergoing conservation at the Philadelphia Maritime Museum.

Polish Restoration Tradition Born Of Necessity

By Matthew C. Vita
Associated Press Writer

KRAKOW, Poland (AP) — The statue lies on tables inside Krakow's Academy of Fine Arts, bandaged and wrapped in gauze like so many victims of the wars that have ravaged Poland's history.

Their physicians are students at the academy's School of Restoration, one of the finest of its kind in the country. They treat the figures by soaking them with calcium to strengthen the stone that has become weakened by exposure to airborne pollutants.

By declaring war against the deterioration of its monuments, Poland has expanded the role of its restoration industry, which was born in the wake of World War II with the decision to restore the country's bombed-out cities.

Forty years after the war, its cities rebuilt, Poland is focusing its attention on preserving its artistic and architectural heritage and turning its eyes on an expanding world market for the country's restoration skills.

More than 1,000 Polish restorationists are involved in projects in North America, Europe and the Middle East this year, according to officials of the state-run conservation enterprise PKZ.

Among the overseas projects are the restoration of a 14th century citadel in Algiers, a temple in Egypt, a 10th century castle in Yugoslavia and the Bruehl Palace, the West German government residence for visiting dignitaries outside of Bonn.

Restoration is one of Poland's most profitable export industries, earning the country more than $10 million a year in hard currency, according to Tadeusz Polak, managing director of PKZ.

Restoration is a talent born from Poland's past and nurtured by its spirit.

"We know how to restore because Poland was so badly destroyed during the war," said Jerzy Madeyski, a Krakow art historian, who added that Poles also have "a lack of confidence in modernity."

"You must remember that modernity has taken not very favorable stands in our history," he said.

The work done on the figures at the Academy of Fine Arts is one of more than 16,000 historical conservation projects underway in Poland this year, ranging from the restoration of paintings in Krakow museums to the completion of a 13-year reconstruction of the Royal Castle in Warsaw which had been razed to the ground by Nazi troops in 1944.

PKZ craftsmen are currently restoring 800 buildings, 160 castles, 80 churches and a variety of town centers, palaces and homes, Polak said.

Among the 9,000 people employed by in Poland by PKZ are 3,500 graduates of university conservation programs and 900 architects, in addition to chemists, painters, woodworkers, historians and construction engineers, Polak said. There are more than 400 privately employed conservationists as well.

Polish restorationists say the destruction of World War II led to the development of a uniquely Polish school of restoration that centers around carefully documented preliminary historical research to ensure the restoration is historically correct.

"The research on buildings was initiated by the bombs that exploded," Madeyski said. "It revealed the layers that were underneath. You could see the houses and churches as if they were revealed by X-ray pictures."

The emphasis on historical accuracy enabled the country to rebuild the old towns in many of its major cities, including Warsaw, Gdansk, Torun and Poznan, to the point where they have been completely restored to their pre-war condition.

"We were lucky because in the place of those old towns we would now have modern, terrible blocks of flats," Polak said.

Poland trains craftsmen skilled in traditional methods of restoration at three leading conservation schools: the Academy of Fine Arts in Krakow, the Academy of Fine Arts in Warsaw and the University of Torun. The schools, which attract students from many countries including the United States, graduate 50 restorationists a year, according to Polak.

At the Krakow academy, students undergo a rigorous program that includes four years of classwork in such disciplines as history, architecture, chemistry and microbiology, and a year of field training.

One of this year's graduates, Krzysztof Syrek, 24, said he was drawn to the program primarily out of his love for art and good prospects for employment, but added he was also lured by Poland's history in conservation work.

"Talking among ourselves, we have to think first that the Polish school is a world leader," said Syrek, a specialist in sculpture. "If that is so, then we would like to continue in the tradition."

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

BIBLICAL JUSTICE FOR THE FALSELY ACCUSED

PUNISHMENTS FOR THE SINNERS AND THE CRIMINALS WERE VERY SEVERE IN BIBLICAL TIMES. THE EXECUTION OF A MURDERER CERTAINLY DID NOT AIM AT THE MURDERER'S REFORMATION! AND PUNISHMENT BY PUBLIC WHIPPING ALSO WAS NOT INTENDED TO REFORM THE OFFENDER! BUT THE LAW WAS UPHELD TO THE LETTER. HOWEVER, WHEN A MAN WAS FALSELY ACCUSED AND THIS FACT REVEALED, THE FALSE WITNESS INCURRED THE PENALTY OF THE CRIME FOR WHICH THE ACCUSED MAN WAS ON TRIAL. (DEUT. 19:16,19) THE BIBLICAL PEOPLE, THEMSELVES, FELT A SENSE OF TRIUMPH WHEN ONE OF THESE WAS FINALLY VICTORIOUS OVER THEIR TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS! SUCH AS THE FALSELY ACCUSED JOSEPH WHEN HE WAS JAILED AFTER THE ACCUSATIONS MADE BY POTIPHAR'S WIFE, TO FINALLY TRIUMPHANTLY RISE TO THE SECOND HIGHEST POWER IN THE KINGDOM OF EGYPT. (GEN. 39:4)

AND HOW THE YOUNG HEARTS OF BIBLICAL YOUTH MUST HAVE SWELLED ON HEARING THE STORY OF THE MUCH MALIGNED MORDECAI WHO BY THE KING'S ORDER WAS LED THROUGH THE STREETS ON THE KING'S OWN HORSE AS AN ACT OF HONOR BY THE VILLAINOUS HAMAN WHO HAD TO PUBLICLY PROCLAIM THROUGHOUT THE CITY'S STREETS THE FACT THAT HIS BITTER ENEMY HAD FOUND FAVOR WITH THE KING! (ESTHER 6)

Graham Says He Raised Key Issues With Soviets

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Besides preaching in crowded churches across the Soviet Union, evangelist Billy Graham says he raised a key issue of U.S.-Soviet relations with top Soviet officials — the cause of human rights and religious liberty.

He says he feels those private talks might accomplish some good. He says he pointed out that issues of religious freedom and imprisonment of unregistered believers are of high concern to American Christians and Jews and are "serious barriers to closer relations" with the Soviets.

He says he emphasized that this is "perhaps the No. 1 cause" of the problem. "I pointed out that it brings a psychological and philosophical difference in how American people feel."

Back this week from his 12-day Soviet trip, Graham says he had extended meetings with several Soviet leaders, including two hours with Politburo member Boris Ponomarev, secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party.

Discussions also were held with Valdimir Kuoyedov, head of the Council for Religious Affairs, and Georgi Arbotov, director of Soviet analysis of U.S. and Canadian attitudes, Graham recounts.

He says he "tried to listen with respect" to those he met, and also tried to help them "understand the concerns many people in the United States and elsewhere have about human rights and religious liberty."

As customary, Graham declines to go into details about those private conversations with political leaders. But from his own observations and talks with church people, he says there seems to be a gradual easing of restraints on religion. "Restrictions are lessening," he told a New York news conference on his return Tuesday.

He said there "seems to be far less oppression now" than in period before the late Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, who died in 1982, and "that trend has continued. The Soviet government has begun to recognize that believers are the hardest workers and most dutiful citizens."

He says "there may be more difficulties for Jews than for Christians," noting that Jewish emigration from the Soviet Union has decreased. He says he talked with Soviet officials about the possibilities of more Jews doing so. Graham, who delivered more than 50 sermons and other talks in four Soviet cities, said he was surprised at the Soviet coverage of his tour on Soviet television, radio and in the press.

"One archbishop said he did not recall anything like it in his lifetime," Graham said. He said he himself had "total freedom" in his preaching, but that Soviet law restricted religious services to church property.

"Many churches and cathedrals were filled to overflowing, and in some situations loudspeakers were used so groups standing in church courtyards or in other church facilities could hear."

He said "many more young people are attending than I anticipated," as high as 50 percent of the congregations in some cases.

Asked about KGB plainclothesmen being on hand, Graham said he assumed such surveillance, and recalled his remark about it after a previous brief Soviet trip in 1982: "These are the kind of people I'm trying to reach with the Gospel."

An aide said the Western press failed to report Graham's public appeal to Soviet leaders to permit "more churches and more Bibles," and his call for all nations to observe the Helsinki accords on human rights.

Graham says he was surprised to find nine of his own books in print in Russian in the Soviet Union. "How they got there I don't know."

Asked about taking Bibles into the Soviet Union, he said that if travelers are open about it, and say they have a suitcase full of Bibles, "they'll probably get in. But if they try to smuggle, they're in trouble."

Graham, criticized after his 1982 trip for saying there was "a measure of religious freedom" in the Soviet, said his longer tour confirmed that statement.

"Many churches are open and active," he says, and are allowed to carry out their work on church premises so long as they are registered, as the law requires.

"At the same time, the Soviet Union does not allow churches to be a rallying point for what it considers anti-Soviet activities," he says, and congregations refusing to register "run into difficulties" and "may face definite opposition from their government."

He says he met several believers in this category, and expressed his concern for their situation in private meetings with officials.

Publisher Halts Sales Of Book

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Yielding to protests from anti-abortion forces, an evangelical publisher has halted further sales of a book on biomedical ethics that says therapeutic abortion sometimes may be justified as a "least tragic" last resort.

The book, "Brave New People," was written by a medical biologist, D. Gareth Jones, an evangelical himself, and published by Intervarsity Press, publishing arm of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, a widespread campus ministry.

James McLeish, president of the organization, said the book was withdrawn because "it has caused confusion." He said it was not intended to support abortion "in any way but it is being perceived by the Christian public that way."

It was the first time the 43-year-old organization has withdrawn a book from the market because of protests.

Jewish Leaders See Concern Over Laws

NEW YORK (AP) — On the observance of Rosh Hashana, the Jewish new year, lasting until sunset today, Jewish leaders voiced keen concern about what they saw as a tendency to mix state affairs with religion.

"Among our many prayers ... is a prayer about prayer," said Kenneth J. Bialkin, national chairman of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. He said Jews prayed for an end of "divisive" efforts to legislate prayer in public schools.

He said "legally mandated" prayer would be a step toward a "state religion," contrary to the Constitution.

Similar concerns were expressed by Rabbi Mordecai Waxman, president of the Synagogue Council of America, and Rabbi Alexander M. Shapiro, president of Conservative Judaism's Rabbinical Assembly.

Christian fundamentalists to breach constitutional barriers, calling it "one of the gravest dangers facing Jews and other minorities in this nation."

Matador Gored

CORDOBA, Spain (AP) — A leading Spanish matador was gored during a bullfight — the last one on his schedule this season — and died on the way to a hospital.

Francisco Rivera, 37, was gored during his second fight of the day in the village of Pozoblanco and died en route to a hospital in Cordoba. Medical authorities said he suffered three wounds, including a six-inch gash in the right thigh near the groin.

Rivera became a full-fledged matador in Barcelona in 1966. He and his wife had a child a few months ago.

In holiday messages, they saw mounting pressures of right-wing

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

BIBLICAL JUSTICE FOR THE FALSELY ACCUSED

PUNISHMENTS FOR THE SINNERS AND THE CRIMINALS WERE VERY SEVERE IN BIBLICAL TIMES. THE EXECUTION OF A MURDERER CERTAINLY DID NOT AIM AT THE MURDERER'S REFORMATION! AND PUNISHMENT BY PUBLIC WHIPPING ALSO WAS NOT INTENDED TO REFORM THE OFFENDER! BUT THE LAW WAS UPHELD TO THE LETTER. HOWEVER, WHEN A MAN WAS FALSELY ACCUSED AND THIS FACT REVEALED, THE FALSE WITNESS INCURRED THE PENALTY OF THE CRIME FOR WHICH THE ACCUSED MAN WAS ON TRIAL. (DEUT. 19:16,19) THE BIBLICAL PEOPLE, THEMSELVES, FELT A SENSE OF TRIUMPH WHEN ONE OF THESE WAS FINALLY VICTORIOUS OVER THEIR TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS! SUCH AS THE FALSELY ACCUSED JOSEPH WHEN HE WAS JAILED AFTER THE ACCUSATIONS MADE BY POTIPHAR'S WIFE, TO FINALLY TRIUMPHANTLY RISE TO THE SECOND HIGHEST POWER IN THE KINGDOM OF EGYPT. (GEN. 39:41)

AND HOW THE YOUNG HEARTS OF BIBLICAL YOUTH MUST HAVE SWELLED ON HEARING THE STORY OF THE MUCH MALIGNED MORDECAI WHO BY THE KING'S ORDER WAS LED THROUGH THE STREETS ON THE KING'S OWN HORSE AS AN ACT OF HONOR BY THE VILLAINOUS HAMAN WHO HAD TO PUBLICLY PROCLAIM THROUGHOUT THE CITY'S STREETS THE FACT THAT HIS BITTER ENEMY HAD FOUND FAVOR WITH THE KING! (ESTHER 6)

Graham Says He Raised Key Issues With Soviets

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Besides preaching in crowded churches across the Soviet Union, evangelist Billy Graham says he raised a key issue of U.S.-Soviet relations with top Soviet officials - the cause of human rights and religious liberty.

He says he feels those private talks might accomplish some good.

He says he pointed out that issues of religious freedom and imprisonment of unregistered believers are of high concern to American Christians and Jews and are "serious barriers to closer relations" with the Soviets.

He says he emphasized that this is "perhaps the No. 1 cause" of the problem. "I pointed out that it brings a psychological and philosophical difference in how American people feel."

Back this week from his 12-day Soviet trip, Graham says he had extended meetings with several Soviet leaders, including two hours with Politburo member Boris Ponomarev, secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party.

Discussions also were held with Valdimir Kuoyedov, head of the Council for Religious Affairs, and Georgi Arbotov, director of Soviet analysis of U.S. and Canadian attitudes, Graham recounts.

He says he "tried to listen with respect" to those he met, and also tried to help them "understand the concerns many people in the United States and elsewhere have about human rights and religious liberty."

As customary, Graham declines to go into details about those private conversations with political leaders.

But from his own observations and talks with church people, he says there seems to be a gradual easing of restraints on religion. "Restrictions are lessening," he told a New York news conference on his return Tuesday.

He said there "seems to be far less oppression now" than in period before the late Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, who died in 1982, and "that trend has continued. The Soviet government has begun to recognize that believers are the hardest workers and most dutiful citizens."

He says "there may be more difficulties for Jews than for Christians," noting that Jewish emigration from the Soviet Union has decreased. He says he talked with Soviet officials about the possibilities of more Jews doing so.

Graham, who delivered more than 50 sermons and other talks in four Soviet cities, said he was surprised at the Soviet coverage of his tour on Soviet television, radio and in the press.

"One archbishop said he did not recall anything like it in his lifetime," Graham said. He said he himself had "total freedom" in his preaching, but that Soviet law restricted religious services to church property.

"Many churches and cathedrals were filled to overflowing, and in some situations loudspeakers were used so groups standing in church courtyards or in other church facilities could hear."

He said "many more young people are attending than I anticipated," as high as 50 percent of the congregations in some cases.

Asked about KGB plainclothesmen being on hand, Graham said he assumed such surveillance, and recalled his remark about it after a previous brief Soviet trip in 1982: "These are the kind of people I'm trying to reach with the Gospel."

An aide said the Western press failed to report Graham's public appeal to Soviet leaders to permit "more churches and more Bibles," and his call for all nations to observe the Helsinki accords on human rights.

Graham says he was surprised to find nine of his own books in print in Russian in the Soviet Union. "How they got there I don't know."

Asked about taking Bibles into the Soviet Union, he said that if travelers are open about it, and say they have a suitcase full of Bibles, "they'll probably get in. But if they try to smuggle, they're in trouble."

Graham, criticized after his 1982 trip for saying there was "a measure of religious freedom" in the Soviet, said his longer tour confirmed that statement.

"Many churches are open and active," he says, and are allowed to carry out their work on church premises so long as they are registered, as the law requires.

"At the same time, the Soviet Union does not allow churches to be a rallying point for what it considers anti-Soviet activities," he says, and congregations refusing to register "run into difficulties" and "may face definite opposition from their government."

He says he met several believers in this category, and expressed his concern for their situation in private meetings with officials.

Publisher Halts Sales Of Book

MADISON, Wis. (AP) - Yielding to protests from anti-abortion forces, an evangelical publisher has halted further sales of a book on biomedical ethics that says therapeutic abortion sometimes may be justified as a "least tragic" last resort.

The book, "Brave New People," was written by a medical biologist, D. Gareth Jones, an evangelical himself, and published by Intervarsity Press, publishing arm of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, a widespread campus ministry.

James McLeish, president of the organization, said the book was withdrawn because "it has caused confusion." He said it was not intended to support abortion "in any way but it is being perceived by the Christian public that way."

It was the first time the 43-year-old organization has withdrawn a book from the market because of protests.

Jewish Leaders See Concern Over Laws

NEW YORK (AP) - On the observance of Rosh Hashana, the Jewish new year, lasting until sunset today, Jewish leaders voiced keen concern about what they saw as a tendency to mix state affairs with religion.

"Among our many prayers... is a prayer about prayer," said Kenneth J. Bialkin, national chairman of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. He said Jews prayed for an end of "divisive" efforts to legislate prayer in public schools.

He said "legally mandated" prayer would be a step toward a "state religion," contrary to the Constitution.

Similar concerns were expressed by Rabbi Mordecai Waxman, president of the Synagogue Council of America, and Rabbi Alexander M. Shapiro, president of Conservative Judaism's Rabbinical Assembly.

Christian fundamentalists to breach constitutional barriers, calling it "one of the gravest dangers facing Jews and other minorities in this nation."

Matador Gored

CORDOBA, Spain (AP) - A leading Spanish matador was gored during a bullfight - the last one on his schedule this season - and died on the way to a hospital.

Francisco Rivera, 37, was gored during his second fight of the day in the village of Pozoblanco and died en route to a hospital in Cordoba. Medical authorities said he suffered three wounds, including a six-inch gash in the right thigh near the river.

Rivera became a full-fledged matador in Barcelona in 1966. He and his wife had a child a few months ago.

Campus Fire

MANILA, Philippines (AP) - Police are investigating a fire that gutted the administration building of the University of the Philippines, destroying the president's office.

Investigators said they not determined the cause of Wednesday's fire but were not ruling out the possibility of arson.

Visas Eliminated

FEZ, Morocco (AP) - Morocco and Libya have signed an agreement doing away with visas for travel between the two North African nations.

The accord, effective in October, will permit citizens of either country to enter the other's territory for work or tourism without a visa, although officials said some type of documentation still would be required.

The two nations recently concluded a treaty of union, linking them socially, economically and in matters of security.

Released

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) - Police say President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier has ordered the release of an opposition leader and a human rights advocate who were put under house arrest more than two months ago.

Authorities said the two men, Hubert Deronceray and Gregoire Eugene, were released Sunday.

Sows: (500 pounds up) Wilson 41.00; Fayetteville 42.00; Whiteville unreported; Wallace 43.00; Spivey's Corner unreported; Rowland 42.00.

BROILERS: The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 45.25 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pound birds. 38 percent of the loads offered have been confirmed for a preliminary weighted average is 46.54 cents f.o.b. dock or equivalent. The market is generally steady and the live supply is moderate for a moderate demand. Average weights desirable to heavy. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Friday was 2,063,000, compared to 1,762,000 last Friday.

HENS: Market steady. Supply moderate. Demand moderate. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds at farm for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter was 18 cents.

GRAIN: No. 2 yellow shelled corn steady at mostly 2.76-2.81 in East and mostly 2.91-3.05 in the Piedmont; No. 1 yellow soybeans higher at mostly 6.11-6.31 in the east and mostly 5.80-6.22 in the Piedmont; wheat mostly 3.26-3.30; (new crop soybeans 5.81-6.02).

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined slightly today, giving up some of its recent gains.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 15.02 points in the last four sessions, slipped back 3.75 to 1,213.01 in the first half hour this morning.

Losers took a narrow lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Before the market opened, the government reported that the index of leading economic indicators rose 0.5 percent in August.

That better-than-expected showing marked a rebound from two consecutive monthly declines in the index, which is designed to detect future economic trends.

Analysts said many investors were preoccupied, however, with last-minute maneuvering before the end of the third quarter of 1984, after the close today.

Southern California Edison led the active list, down 1/4 at 22 1/2. A 693,700-share block traded at that price.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 4.64 to 1,216.76. Gainers led losers 3 to 2 on the New York Stock Exchange, whose composite index gained 0.37 to 96.19.

Waters ...

"If you go with Rufus, I will protect you. I know Sen. Monk Harrington personally. If you don't go with Rufus, I cannot save you."

"I didn't know I lived in a state where I needed protection," Waters said. "I'm a free man (and) endorse who I choose. I don't work for the governor or the Democratic Party. I work for the State of North Carolina."

Waters continued, "I'm sick and tired of state employees being used as a political strong-arm to work for any candidate or any party."

"I should be left alone to do my job," Waters said. "If something is not done, it's going to get worse."

Speight, who acknowledges he is one of the top money-raisers for Edmisten's campaign, said of Waters Thursday "I just can't believe him. Check my record. Anything I've campaigned, it's been charged out to vacation. And I've never threatened anybody," Speight emphasized.

"The truth is not in him. I have not opened my mouth ... nobody has ever mentioned to him that he was going to be fired," Speight said.

Ramey, contacted Friday, said, "I don't understand what this man (Waters) is trying to get at. I don't have any state retirement. I've been on the Democratic team win, lose or draw."

According to Ramey, "I've talked to him (Waters) only once or twice in my life ... only seen him a few times. To be honest with you, he (Waters) don't sound like he's right. There's certainly no truth in what he says. He's way out in left field."

Ramey continued, "I wish I did have retirement with the state of North Carolina. I don't have any state retirement. This is just a bunch of crap."

"I've been a tobacco buyer since 1948 ... been with (A.C.) Monk (in Farmville) 22 years."

"I don't understand," Ramey said.

ECU, NCS Clash In Key Contest

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Both East Carolina's Ed Emory and N.C. State's Tom Reed agree: Saturday's 7 p.m. meeting of the two teams in Raleigh's Carter-Finley Stadium is pivotal for both.

East Carolina comes into the game with a 1-3 record, having recorded its first victory of the season last Saturday with a 34-27 win over Division I-AA Georgia Southern. Meanwhile, N.C. State is riding a two-game losing streak and comes in with a 1-2 mark. The Wolfpack, after an opening game win over Ohio, 43-6, has bowed to both Division I-AA Furman, 34-30, and to ACC rival Wake Forest, 24-15.

This will be the fourth straight home contest for the Wolfpack, which plays seven contests on its own turf this season.

"Either team could turn its season around with a win," Emory said.

The Pirates will still be without the services of Tim Dumas, their big offensive tackle, sidelined for some time now with a pulled hamstring. Brad Henson, another ailing member of the offensive line is questionable, according to Emory.

"Henson has been working this week and we hope he'll be ready to play. When we get both of them back, I think we have a chance to be a good football team," Emory added.

But — the coach said — the Pirates must play much better both on offense and defense than they did against Georgia Southern to have a chance to win. The Eagles, in bowing, rolled up 403 yards passing and over 600 in total offense against the Pirates in their losing effort. Such a day by N.C. State could turn into a tragedy for the Pirates, Emory feels.

"We have to get better and better. Our offensive line isn't dominating play like they did a year ago. We have some of the same problems State is going through too. Both of us need more mental toughness. That doesn't have anything to do with effort or ability. It comes over a period of time from learning to do what you don't want to do."

Emory says much of the problem is that North Carolina high school football players don't learn much mental toughness because of their limited season as compared to states to the south which allow spring practice and exhibition games.

Emory pointed out that State returns 19 of 22 offensive players off its two-deep chart from last year's game.

"If they jell they can be a potent team because they have experience. They're a very veteran team," Emory said. "On defense, they have 14 of 22 back from last year."

"And you can throw away anything that happened in the Furman and Wake Forest games. They'll be pumped up for this one, you can be sure. They are expecting 57,000 for this game after having around 35,000 at the last two. That shows you what people think of this game."

Emory said State will be the best they've been for the game, and the Pirates must be the best they've been this year to have a chance to win. "They've got very talented people. They've got eight defensive starters that we recruited, so you can see they're good people. I just think it's going to be one heck of a football game."

Emory says the Pirates must put up a better pass rush against quarterback Tim Esposito. "And we expect (Joe) McIntosh to play." McIntosh has been sidelined with a hamstring injury and is listed as doubtful for the game. "And even if he doesn't they have a bunch of good running backs. They've also got one of the biggest offensive lines that we're going to see. Esposito is an excellent passer and this really concerns us."

"The worst thing that could have happened for us is for Wake to have won. It's just made them mad and hungry."

While McIntosh is the top returning career runner in the country coming into the season, he's only the number two rusher for State now — because of the injury. He's rushed 28 times for 171 yards, a 6.1 average. Joe Greene, however, has the same number of carries, but has 178 yards and a 6.4 yard average. Vince Evans, slated to start this week, has carried 41 times for 168 yards and a 4.1 average.

Esposito has connected on 36 of 71 passes for 393 yards and three touchdowns. He's had four picked off, however, all again. Wake Forest, which pulled in six during last week's game.

Tight end Jeff Brown is the leading receiver with 10 catches for 59 yards. However, Evans has caught nine for 73 yards and split end Haywood Jefferies has seven for 112 yards, leading the team in the latter category.

East Carolina's rushing is led by fullback Reggie Branch with 46 carries for 194 yards, a 4.2 average, while Jimmy Walden has 41 lugs for 159 yards. Tony Baker has 28 for 125.

Quarterback Darrell Speed has connected on 18 of 31 passes for 238 yards and two touchdowns. He's had one picked off.

Stefon Adams has been his leading target with 11 catches for 172 yards. Henry Williams had seven for 70 and Ricky Nichols had six for 125 to lead the team in yardage.

Perhaps one of the key factors in the game will be the kicking. ECU's Jeff Heath leads the ECU scoring with 19 points, hitting on all seven PATs and four of five field goals. State's Mike Cofer leads the Wolfpack with 25 points, hitting seven of eight PATs and all six of his field goal tries.

In the punting department, ECU's Jeff Bolch has a 42.2 yard average, while State kicker Craig Salmon is hitting the ball for a 36.5 mark. Both teams have had one blocked.

Both teams take to the road next week, ECU visiting Pittsburgh, while N.C. State goes to Georgia Tech for a televised ACC contest.

Cubs Rally To Top Nash

Rose High School's junior varsity football team rallied to take a 26-14 victory over Northern Nash yesterday after trailing 14-0 at the half.

Northern scored once each in the first two periods to push out into the lead, but the Rampant Cubs dominated play in the second half.

Rose scored its first touchdown on the opening play of the half as Rodney Harris returned the kickoff 76 yards. Not long afterwards, Harris scored again, recovering a fumble when Nash, back to punt, couldn't handle the snap. The ball bounced into the end zone where Harris recovered to cut the lead to 14-12.

In the final period, John Lyles hit William Smith on a 42-yard touchdown pass and Robbie McDonald added the PAT kick for a 19-14 lead. Then, in the closing seconds, Lyles went eight yards on a quarterback sneak for the score and McDonald again kicked.

"Our offensive line blocked extremely well in the second half," Coach James Rankins said. "They were led by Burwyn Swindell, Steve Peele and Greg Hallow. The defense also did a good job, not allowing a first down in the second half. They were led by Lee Rogers, Lee Smith and William Smith, who had two interceptions."

Lyles completed five of seven passes and Harris rushed for 92 yards in the game.

Rose is now 2-2 overall and 1-0 in conference play. The Rampant Cubs travel to Rocky Mount next Thursday.

Speed-y Relief

Tech Tests Clemson Ability

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
AP Sports Writer

Clemson's 26-23 loss to Georgia last Saturday dropped the Tigers from second to 13th-place nationally, leaving Coach Danny Ford concerned that another seven-turnover performance against Georgia Tech could be even more damaging.

The Tigers will meet Georgia Tech, which climbed into 18th place in this week's Associated Press Top 20 poll, as Atlantic Coast Conference football swings into its second full week of action. The Yellow Jackets crushed The Citadel 48-3 last week, soothing coach Bill Curry's fears that the team might not concentrate on a Division I-AA team after downing Alabama.

In other games, Wake Forest goes to Maryland in search of its second straight conference victory. Non-conference action has North Carolina trying to snap a two-game losing streak at home against Kansas and a battered Duke team going to Army. East Carolina is at North Carolina State and Virginia meets Virginia Tech.

Ford said Clemson can't keep coughing the ball up as it did against

Georgia and expect to win in Grant Field Saturday.

"Their offensive team is basically the one that was with them last year," Ford said. "They have a great group of young people over there. And their defense is playing with a lot of enthusiasm."

Curry said he hoped his team realized that the Tigers are a big step above last week's opponent. In the latest NCAA statistics, Georgia Tech is tops in scoring defense at 4.5 per game and best in total defense among Division I-A schools.

"It will be more like Alabama," Curry said, "but Clemson has more people with speed."

In two previous meetings, Wake Forest and Maryland have benefited from the passing efforts of Gary Schofield and Boomer Esiason, respectively. This season, the Demon Deacons have emphasized their running game and the Terrapins have struggled to recover from massive graduation losses.

"You have to remember that in the last two games between Maryland and Wake Forest, each school set passing records," Wake Forest coach Al Groh said. "But neither one of those quarterbacks will be playing Saturday, which probably indicates that the game will take on a slightly different look."

The Tar Heels were drilled by Boston College last week to go 0-2 for the first time in 15 years. Kansas won its opener but has lost its last two.

"I look for this to be a ball game that there will be a lot of scoring in it," North Carolina coach Dick Crum said.

Kevin Anthony will be the starting quarterback for the Tar Heels and is expected to go the distance as Mark Maye continues to nurse a sore shoulder.

Army earned a 24-24 tie with Tennessee last weekend, while Duke suffered a 21-0 shutout at the hands of South Carolina. Along with the loss, the Blue Devils lost tailback Julius Grantham and backup Mike Atkinson, five wide receivers and a linebacker. With all those woes, coach Steve Sloan has found some reasons to smile.

"From a defensive standpoint, we are pretty much making the progress we had hoped to make," he said. "In our first two games, I think our defense is improved over last year. I'm encouraged by the play of those people."

The Pirates and the Wolfpack went in opposite directions last Saturday. While East Carolina took a 34-27 triumph over Georgia Southern for its first victory in four tries, N.C. State quarterbacks threw six interceptions in a 24-15 loss to the Demon Deacons. Wolfpack coach Tom Reed said his team lacks football maturity.

"(Good football teams) don't need the excitement of an opening day ... to provide their momentum," said Reed, whose debut as Wolfpack coach resulted in a loss to the Pirates last season. "Our kids don't have that yet."

Virginia Tech hung a 48-0 shutout on the Cavaliers last year, but coach George Welsh said it will take more than the revenge factor to help his team overcome the Hokies.

"If they're better than we are, and if they play well, they're going to win, no matter how emotional the team is or how big a game it is," he said. "I've been around 200 football games and that's the way it usually is."

Joe Ruttman Out, Ottinger Gets Ride

HARRISBURG (AP) — Joe Ruttman was replaced Thursday on the NASCAR Ron Benfield Levi Garrett racing team by L.D. Ottinger, a former two-time national late model sportsman champion.

Harold Fagan, crew chief for the team, said the split with Ruttman "was just a matter of a disagreement on things. It was mutual agreement."

Margaret Stutts, office manager for the Benfield Racing Team, said Ottinger would begin practicing with the team Friday in Wilkesboro. She said she did not know what Ruttman's plans were.

Ruttman enjoyed his best year on the NASCAR circuit in 1983, surpassing the $200,000 mark in winnings for the first time in his career.

Quirk Aids Ex-Teammates By Helping Beat Twins

By FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writer
Call it a Quirk of fate.
The Minnesota Twins' chances of winning the American League West title have been ruined by a sudden twist named Jamie Quirk, who although he wears the uniform of the Cleveland Indians, no doubt bleeds Kansas City Royal blue.
Quirk, who played seven years with the Royals and still has several close personal friends on the club, hit a home run in the ninth inning Thursday night to give the Indians a 4-3 victory over the Twins.
The loss dropped Minnesota two games behind first place Kansas City in the AL West with only three games left to play in the season.
Quirk's homer, off reliever Ron

Davis, 7-10, came in his first at-bat for the Indians after being purchased from the Chicago White Sox Triple A affiliate at Denver last Monday.

Rose Splits With Nash

RED OAK — Rose High School rallied to pull out a 1-1 split in a pair of volleyball matches held yesterday at Northern Nash High School.
The Lady Knights won the opening match, 16-14, 8-15, 15-3, but Rose came back to take the second match, 6-15, 15-5, 15-12.
"They just wanted the first one more than we did," Rose Coach Kim Gruber said. "We made a lot of mental errors. Now, we're going to have to win the rest of them if we expect to have a chance to go anywhere in the playoffs."
The split leaves Rose with an 8-2 record. They travel to Northeastern on Tuesday.

DHC-Havelock-N. Lenoir

HOLLYWOOD — Michelle Waters scored nine service points in the opening game as D.H. Conley swept a tri-meet against North Lenoir and Havelock in prep volleyball action Thursday.
The Valkyries defeated North Lenoir 15-0, 15-2, as Rhonda Jackson had seven hits including six effective. Lisa Mills and Debbie Patrick had five hits each for Conley.
Mills and Waters scored seven points on serve to lead Conley over Havelock 15-3, 15-4. Mills and Patrick had five hits, and Jackson four for the Valkyries.
Conley, now 14-0 overall and 4-0 in the conference, travels to North Lenoir Tuesday for a tri-match against the Lady Hawks and West Carteret.

"I'm just up here trying to get a foot in the door for spring training next year," said Quirk. "After I hit the ball, I really was in shock for a moment. I thought, 'This is happening to me!'"

Minnesota has three games remaining with the Indians and Kansas City three with Oakland.

"I guess we have to win the next three and pray Kansas City loses two of three," said Twins manager Billy Gardner. "It's extremely disappointing."

"I suppose you know that Quirk played seven years with Kansas City? Figures an ex-Royal would help puncture our balloon."

What made Gardner feel even worse was the fact the Twins blew a 3-0 lead in the eighth inning, courtesy of a throwing error by second baseman Tim Teufel which allowed the tying run to score.

"I feel like a magician who puts his hand into a hat, only to discover that the rabbit is gone. Somebody just told me that one and one may not equal two after all," said Gardner.

At least the Twins are still mathematically alive, which is more than can be said for the California Angels. The Angels were knocked out of the pennant race by the Texas Rangers, 2-1.

Ned Yost officially ended the Angels' pennant hopes by driving in two runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly to pace the Rangers' victory.

"First place is over, it's gone," said Angels manager John McNamara. "Going in (the start of the season), I honestly felt we could pull it out, even though nobody thought we could. But in the end we never put our hitting and pitching together."

Yost drove in a fourth-inning run with a sacrifice fly and broke a 1-1 tie in the sixth with his sixth home run to support the combined six-hit pitching of Rickey Wright and Dickie Noles.

Reggie Jackson accounted for the Angels' run with his 25th homer of the season.

Elsewhere in the AL, Boston edged Baltimore 4-3, New York nipped Detroit 2-1 and Seattle downed Chicago 7-2.

In National League games, Montreal downed St. Louis 6-3 and Cincinnati edged Atlanta 2-1.

Red Sox 4, Orioles 3
At Boston, Mike Easler singled home Tony Armas from second base with two outs in the eighth inning to give the Red Sox their victory. Armas doubled with two outs off reliever Sammy Stewart, 7-4, and Easler singled to left to make a winner of reliever Mark Clear, 8-3. Cal Ripken homered for Baltimore.

Yankees 2, Tigers 1
At New York, Don Baylor's two-out eighth-inning pinch hit single drove home Bobby Meacham from third base with the run that gave the Yankees their victory. Bob Shirley, 3-3, went eight innings for the victory with Dave Righetti pitching the ninth inning for his 31st save. Lance Parrish homered for Detroit.

Mariners 7, White Sox 2
At Seattle, Dave Valle's first major-league homer, a three-run shot, highlighted a seven-run sixth inning that led the Mariners to victory. Matt Young, 6-8, scattered six hits and struck out six over eight innings to pick up the victory. Tom Paciorek homered for Chicago.

Expos 6, Cardinals 3
At Montreal, Jim Wohlford's two-run pinch hit double highlighted a six-run fourth inning that led the Expos to a victory before a crowd of only 2,803, the smallest Expos' home crowd since the team moved to Olympic Stadium in 1977. David Palmer, 7-3, went 8 2-3 innings for the victory.

Reds 2, Braves 1
At Cincinnati, Dave Parker's double off the glove of first baseman Chris Chambliss with one out in the bottom of the 10th inning scored Tom Foley from first base and gave the Reds their victory. John Franco, 6-2, was the winner and Gene Garber, 3-6, took the loss.

Things are beginning to spread out now, as Tom Baines has vaulted into the lead in our weekly pickin's and Joe Jenkins has settled into his usual position at the rear.

We will be trying to do something about the former, but little about the latter in the weeks to come.

Baines, with a fine 8-3 week last time out, has moved past Jimmy DuPree into the lead with a 30-17 record. DuPree is second with a 29-18 mark, and then there is a gap back to Vickie Spivey, third with a 26-21 mark.

Our guests follow with a 25-22 record, followed by this writer at 24-23 and Jenkins with a 23-24 mark.

Our guest of last week was D.H. Conley's new coach Donnie Bunn, who turned in a 6-6 mark. Among the coaches so far, that's the best, but our guest of this week, Ayden-Grifton's new mentor Dwight Tart, is hoping for better things. Among the guests, ECU Sports Information Assistant Rob Wilson is still tops at 8-4.

We don't find too many differences this week, but maybe there'll be a few to switch things about a bit.

Turning to our high school picks, we find a very pleasing 7-0 record last week, bringing our seasonal record to 27-10. This week, another perfect mark would please us even more.

Ayden-Grifton opens its Eastern Carolina Conference schedule against Southern Nash, a team still searching for identity. The Chargers are unbeaten in three starts and Friday night should not change things. Ayden-Grifton to win, 28-0.

Farmville Central has a non-conference date with West Craven. This will tell one thing for sure — which team is for real. The Eagles come in unbeaten in four outings, while Farmville has lost once in three starts. This is a tough one to call, but we'll give Farmville the edge in this one, close, 8-6.

Rounding out the Pitt County games, Greene Central entertains North Pitt. The Panthers are still seeking their first, and the Rams are reeling from last week's 41-0 licking by Northampton West. How much good did the off-week do North Pitt? Not enough, we feel. Greene Central by 14-7.

In other games, it'll be Columbia over Chocowinity, Jamesville over Creswell, Plymouth over Roanoke, Washington over Edenton and Bertie over Williamston.

Rose High School — without the help of running back Anthony Cobb — visits Northern Nash in the first Big East game for the two teams. The Knights have looked good, and the big question is how much offense can the Rampants generate without Cobb. The panel is split, but gives Northern a 4-2 edge. Our own prediction is Northern by 21-7.

East Carolina travels to N.C. State for "the" game of the year in Carter-Finley. Some 50,000 fans are expected to watch the contest, and it should be a no-holds-barred affair. Again, it's a 4-2 split for the panel, with State getting the nod. Our own pick — and we hope we're wrong — is State, 26-17.

Our other consensus picks: Clemson over Georgia Tech; Wake Forest and Maryland, a toss-up; Virginia Tech over Virginia; Southern California over Louisiana State; Alabama over Vanderbilt; Army over Duke; North Carolina over Kansas; Notre Dame over Missouri; Southern Methodist over Texas Christian; and Pittsburgh and West Virginia, a toss-up.

Black, Upper Tied For Lead

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Ronnie Black and rookie Brett Upper both spoke of experience, of the maturing process necessary on the PGA Tour, after they moved into a tie for the first-round lead in the $350,000 LaJet Golf Classic.

"I have gained immeasurable experience in the last two years," said Black, now in his third season on the tour and a two-time winner.

"It's just experience. My game has matured. I'm a better driver, a better putter, I hit the ball better," Black said Thursday after his 6-under-par 66 had given him a tie for the lead with Upper and Jodie Mudd.

"The first half of the year I was just getting adjusted to the tour. It has been a learning experience for me. As the year went on, the more I learned, the more confidence I got, the better I played," said Upper, who has had a couple of eighth-place finishes in the last two months.

But Tom Watson, trying to nail down a record sixth Player of the Year title, spoke of a problem that has nothing to do with experience — a reluctant putter.

"It's just putting — just like it was at Milwaukee," said Watson, who made a last-minute entry in this event in an effort to protect his two-point lead on the Player of the Year standings.

"I made a couple of no-brainers (a 35-footer for birdie and a 45-footer for eagle-3), but the putts I needed to make, I either mis-hit or misread," Watson said after his 70 in the chilly, cloudy weather.

PGA champion Lee Trevino had the same total on the 7,166-yard Fairway Oaks Golf Club course that was robbed of its natural defenses by the absence of wind.

A single stroke off the pace at 67 were Curt Byrum, Howard Twitty, Canadian Dan Hallderson, Mark Brooks, Dan Forsman, Jim Simons and Vance Heafner.

Upper finished off his effort with birdies on the last two holes. Black, a winner in the Anheuser-Busch earlier this year, rebounded from a tee shot into the water on the 10th with birdies on the 11th and 12th.

And Mudd, attempting to gain the 125th spot on the money-winning list and an exemption for next year, missed only one fairway, hit 16 greens and was in the fringe on the other two. He didn't even come close to making a bogey.

"A very simple round — the kind I'd like to play every day," he said.

Smith Paces Rose Rally To Defeat Kinston, 3-2

KINSTON - Jordy Smith led Rose High School back from behind twice and paced the Rampants to a 3-2 soccer victory over Kinston yesterday in Big East competition.

Smith scored all three goals for the Rampants as he took a total of 17 shots on goal himself.

Kinston scored first in the contest as Curtis Baker hit 5:39 into the game on an assist by John Oxford. Smith matched that at the 14:51 mark, assisted by Travis King, tying it at 1-1.

Rick Rogers then hit at the 27 minute mark to put Kinston back into the lead, 2-1.

But Rose took control in the second half and tied it up on Smith's second goal, six minutes into the half. Richard Haselrig assisted on the play. Smith followed that at the 55 minute mark, putting Rose ahead for good. King also had an assist on the winning goal.

"Smith played a phenomenal game, and I'm sure that his number of shots is a school record," Coach Will Wiberg said. "We played a very aggressive match, and coming back like that from behind twice. Our second half performance was the best of the season."

"Kinston outshot us 13-11 in the first half, but we outshot them 24-6 in the second. Goalie Gregg Ward had 14 saves and played a very good game."

Wiberg cited David Ely, Burt Aycock, Lewis Robbins, Carl Wille and Jim Carter for their play.

Now 3-0 in the league and 6-1 overall, Rose plays host to Fike on Tuesday at 4 p.m.

White Oak Tops Conley

HOLLYWOOD - Vanessa Marrow took first place for Conley in a girls' cross-country match yesterday, but White Oak took the team event, winning 23-35.

Morrow was the first runner across, finishing in 23:00, but White Oak took the next three places and six of the first ten to beat out the Valkyries.

White Oak's Jennie Goodfred was second in 23:33, followed by Wendy Haddow-Green in 23:41 and Lisa Leister in 24:00.

Conley's Angela Hicks finished fifth in 24:06, but White Oak's Dawn Flynn finished sixth in 24:07. Conley's Priscilla Barnhill took seventh in 25:19, but White Oak took the next two places. Suzette McCabe in 26:12 and Marty Broadway in 26:51. Conley's Lucretia West rounded out the top ten in 27:58.

Other Conley finishers were Rhonda Dale, 12th in 34:11, and Leslie Stevens, 13th in 35:13.

Conley is now 6-2 and travels to Rose on Tuesday.

No Pomp As Bowie Kuhn Takes Leave From Office

NEW YORK (AP) - There was no brass band playing "Hail to the Chief." There were no bandoliered bodyguards wearing tall fur hats. No coaches and white horses. No twenty-one gun salutes.

No pomp. Only circumstance.

The circumstance was Bowie Kuhn was moving out. There was a changing of the guard, of sorts.

"You know this day is coming, but it's still sort of a shock when it arrives," Kuhn said, standing among the boxes of papers and books that were the accumulation of 15 1/2 years as commissioner of baseball.

Although he officially rules the game until Monday, Oct. 1, he physically moved out of his office Thursday night to make room for the new man, Peter Ueberroth.

"I had a few years to think about it, so, presumably, it should not come as a monumental thing," he said. "But it still is."

Few were there to usher him out, although he did receive several telegrams and phone calls from, among others, Milwaukee Brewers owner Bud Selig and New York Yankees boss George Steinbrenner.

Kuhn's daughter Alix helped him pack a few things - enough to fill more than 20 boxes sitting in the hallways outside his office - but she tried to stay out of the pictures that chronicled her father's exit.

Kuhn, in shirtsleeves and suspenders, stood behind his desk. His favorite autographed LeRoy Neiman print of Willie Stargell no longer hung there; it was standing in the hallway alongside the boxes. Some shopping bags, stuffed to overflowing, sat on a chair by the window at 350 Park Avenue in midtown Manhattan.

"Do you think we're finally putting to rest those stories that say I'm not really leaving," he said, smiling, always smiling.

"Now here's a poignant note, isn't it?" he said, autographing a baseball. "I'm signing my last baseball."

Besides giving Ueberroth plenty of time to unpack, Kuhn left the office a little early to accept an invitation to fly to Korea for that country's World Series, which begins Sunday. He also will participate in a ceremony opening the stadium in Seoul that will be the site of the 1988 Olympics.

Kuhn, who turns 58 next month, said he would return to the United States in time for the real World Series, but he would not attend. He might not even be at home in Ridgewood, N.J.

"I haven't made up my mind," he said.

Lady Pirates Top Camels

BUIES CREEK - East Carolina's women's tennis team rolled up a 9-0 victory over Campbell University yesterday.

The Lady Pirates did not lose a set in the match and were contested only twice, once having to go to a tie-breaker and one other time going to an extra game.

The ECU women are now 3-0 on the year and play host to UNC-Wilmington on Wednesday in Greenville.

Foyt Entering Charlotte Run

HARRISBURG (AP) - A.J. Foyt, the only four-time winner of the Indianapolis 500, has entered the Oct. 7 Miller High Life 500 Winston Cup race at the Charlotte Motor Speedway, race officials announced Thursday.

Foyt, the winner of seven career Grand National racing victories, will make his 13th start at Charlotte Motor Speedway. His first came in 1972 and his last victory on the Winston Cup circuit was also in 1972, in the Los Angeles Times 500 in Ontario, Calif.

Foyt was drive his own car in the Miller 500 with Dick Hutcherson preparing the Oldsmobile.

Foyt's best finish at the Charlotte Motor Speedway was fourth in the 1972 fall race.

Farmville C.....1

FARMVILLE — Kathi Messer defeated Dawn Whitley in the top singles match, but that was the only victory Farmville Central managed as C.B. Aycock thrashed the Lady Jaguars 8-1 Thursday in Eastern Carolina 3-A high school tennis.

Messer won the number one singles flight 6-3, 7-6, but Farmville won just seven more games in the match.

Farmville, now 0-3 overall and 0-2

THREE CHAMPIONSHIPS

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "Bullet Bill" Dudley, who only weighed 176 pounds, used every last ounce of his talent for the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1946 when he became one of only two men to lead the National Football League in three individual departments in the same season.

Dudley topped all other NFL running backs in '46 with 604 yards, the punt returners with a 14.2 average and interceptions with 10. They were still playing on both offense and defense in 1946.

Despite his brilliant season, Dudley, who couldn't get along with the Steeler coach, Jock Sutherland, asked to be traded and was — to the Detroit Lions in 1947.

in the conference, hosts Rosewood Tuesday. C.B. Aycock improved its record to 7-2 overall and 2-0 in the league.

ECU Women Take Win

East Carolina University's women's volleyball team won its second match of the season last night, defeating Methodist College winning three out of five games.

East Carolina won the opening game 15-10 before losing the second 15-8. East Carolina then won 15-5 only to see Methodist tie it again with a 15-10 win. The Lady Pirates then wrapped it up with a 15-13 victory in the deciding match.

The win boosts the Lady Pirates to 2-4 on the season, while Methodist falls to 8-7. East Carolina plays host to Duke on Tuesday at 7 p.m.

All ECU volleyball matches are free to the public.

EBA Wins On Safety

NASHVILLE — Huger Mayfield tackled a Nash Central player in the end zone during the third quarter to lead E.B. Aycock to a 2-0 victory Thursday in junior high football action.

Aycock rolled up 305 yards total offense en route to extending its win streak to 18 games.

Coach Wilson McDowell cited Shelton Northern, Barry Murray, Tim Hines, Steve Ward, Tim Jones and Maurice Johnson for defensive play, while praising Jay Mattox, Tim Hines, Jeff Ward, Ray Gaylord, Nelson Galloway, Tom Baker, Mike Penland, Tom Moye, Stacy Best, David Daniels, Adrian Barnhill and Axel Smith on offense.

E.B. Aycock, now 1-0, hosts Rocky Mount next Thursday.

PBS Scans TV 'Violence Factor' Tonight

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Is violence on television dangerous to your family's health?

Public TV addresses that question, and others like it, tonight in "The Violence Factor," a provocative examination of TV violence, which has become another 20th century environmental issue. Like toxic waste and smog, TV violence is a man-made problem.

Edwin Newman, the show's host, reports that by age 18, today's youth will have seen 18,000 murders on TV and countless acts of aggression, in some cases some 40 hostile acts per program.

And, with cable and its R-rated movies reaching more homes, violence on free TV undoubtedly will increase as the commercial networks fight for defecting audiences.

While public TV intelligently discusses violence, the networks will be showing it tonight on CBS' "The Dukes of Hazzard," NBC's "Hunter" and "Miami Vice," and ABC's "Hawaiian Heat" and "Matt Houston."

"The Dukes of Hazzard," designed for younger audiences, exhibits cartoon-type violence in the form of good-of-boy hijinks. It's bloodless, and nobody gets hurt. "Hunter," "Hawaiian Heat" and "Matt Houston" are more typical thrills-and-spills cop shows.

"Miami Vice," in the mode of "Hill Street Blues," treat violence more realistically — both in its occurrence and emotional consequence.

Regardless of how sensitively and authentically TV treats the reality of violent crime and violent punishment, the fact is that Hollywood producers and the networks overuse violence. Some 20 shows this season substitute heavy action for hard thinking in their approach to problem-solving.

"I've never been able to understand how the American car industry went into decline with the amount of car crashes on TV,"

Newman said in an interview. Violence isn't restricted to police shows. Many parents have objected to music videos shown on MTV, which exhibit explicit and subtle themes of mayhem, sadism and sexism.

Newman said the financial realities of TV dictated that violence would disappear faster than a speeding bullet — if the public didn't tolerate it or the advertisers didn't want it.

In the 1960s, NBC experimented with two seasons of highbrow concerts from the Tanglewood music center. "Not a minute of programs was ever sold," Newman said. "NBC even had the '1812 Overture' with fireworks."

Critics of TV's steady diet of violence say it distorts children's senses of reality and leads to fear, anxiety, desensitization and emulation. The program cites several studies supporting that view.

In one, Dr. Leonard Eron, professor of psychology at the University of Illinois, studied the habits of 400 viewers for 22 years. His conclusion: "People who had watched the most violent TV between birth and age 8 had committed the most serious crimes by age 30."

The most well-known study, released by the National Institute of Mental Health in 1982, said, "The causal relationship between televised violence and anti-social behavior is sufficient to warrant appropriate and immediate remedial action."

The network reaction, as it had been to previous studies, was a knee-jerk denial. The networks attacked the methodology as flawed and rebutted it with their own in-house studies.

"None of the groups that we examined showed any kind of consistent, significant relationship between television and aggression," said Dr. Horst Stipp, NBC's director of social research.

In essence, TV is saying that TV doesn't influence behavior. Yet, the whole rationale for TV commercials is to influence behavior.

One man interviewed by "The Violence Factor" said he saw a couple on "Police Story" get away with shoplifting. "I said, well, if they can do it, so can I. I tried it and got caught."

In trying to establish responsibility, the program has a section called "Circle of Blame," with everybody blaming somebody else: networks, viewers, producers and advertisers.

Asked if he believed a federal agency, such as the Federal Communications Commission, should censor the networks and tone down violence, Newman thought for some 20 seconds before saying no, "because of the difficulty of measuring the degree and amount of violence."

He prefers letting an informed public regulate. Programs like this, he said, will help "stir up interest and get people thinking about this issue of overpowering importance."

"If you want to do something about it," Newman says in his concluding comments tonight, "don't underestimate the power of our representative form of government, or the weight of a simple call or letter, or public meeting. Think about it. Will you become involved in programming television — or will you sit back and let television program you?"

Series On Congress May Change Image

NEW YORK (UPI) — Veteran broadcast correspondent and author Edwin Newman, host of PBS's 13-part series "Congress, We the People," believes anybody who watches the program besides experts and members of Congress will learn from it.

The series, one of first five programs produced for PBS as part of the 15-year, $150 million Annenberg-CPB project, covers as thoroughly as possible the stuff that makes up one of the three branches of the federal government.

"There is not a sufficient understanding in the country of the place of Congress in government," Newman said. "There is a preoccupation with the presidency."

"The press has done that to a certain extent, but not without help," he said.

"From our point of view it is easier to concentrate on one person than on 435 people in the House and 100 in the Senate."

The series, taped at the Capitol and in Congressional members' districts, features interviews with scores of Congress members, including Speaker Tip O'Neill, D-Mass., Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., and Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex.

The segments look at a typical day in the lives of elected legislators, lobbying, committee work and relationships with constituents, the president, the bureaucracy, the courts and the media.

"The power to impeach, power over the federal budget, Congressional ethics and the Congressional establishment are among other topics covered in the 13 hour-long programs that air Saturdays at 6 p.m. EDT (consult local listings).

Newman, who spent a number of his 32 years as an NBC News correspondent covering Washington and politics, said the program had surprises for even him.

Ministers Schedule Meeting

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) — European foreign ministers join their Central American counterparts today for unprecedented talks on economics and peace that the Latin Americans hope will bring more aid to the region.

Experts, however, say the foreign ministers from the 10 European Economic Community countries, plus Spain and Portugal, will come with more promises than aid for strife-torn Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras and Nicaragua.

The meetings today and Saturday also will be attended by foreign ministers of Colombia, Mexico, Panama and Venezuela — members of the so-called Contadora Group that has drawn up a 21-point peace plan for Central America.

Missing from the meeting is the United States, whose presence overshadows just about all decision making in Central America.

"It will be a type of party to show support for the Contadora (peace) initiative," said a Latin American diplomat involved in regional economic planning.

The Europeans "want to take part in the party but don't want to pitch in much money," said the diplomat, who asked not to be named.

Deputy Economics Minister Cesar Soto Rodas of Guatemala said "the aid, if it is obtained, will be destined to the ... economic reactivation of our countries."

A Western diplomat said the meeting probably will issue a communique in which the main principles of the Contadora peace plan "must be enshrined."

"There will be no surprises in that area," said the diplomat, who asked to remain unnamed.

Carter Angrily Defends Record

By ELIZABETH WHARTON WASHINGTON (UPI) — Top Democrats roared their disagreement with President Reagan's suggestion that Carter administration personnel cuts had weakened the CIA and led to the truck-bomb tragedy in Beirut, Lebanon.

Former President Jimmy Carter, who has maintained a low profile since leaving Washington in January 1981, reacted angrily Thursday to what he called the "personally insulting and ... gross" remark.

He was joined by Democratic presidential nominee Walter Mondale, his vice president; former CIA Director Stansfield Turner; Senate and House Democratic leaders and scores of other Democrats.

Even Reagan's vice president, George Bush, asked about his boss's remark, said: "No, I don't believe that. I don't think anyone can say that. But I do believe there were cuts made in the intelligence business that were inappropriate."

"He has politicized it. He has ruined its reputation," Turner said. "Under Carter, we did not reduce even one operative overseas. What we did do was reduce some bureaucratic overhead in Washington, based on recommendations from a report of professionals in the CIA."

Reagan and his spokesmen said the remark had been taken out of context and the dispatches about it were a "distortion" of what he said. At least one aide confirmed Wednesday that the president was referring to the Carter administration, which shifted emphasis from cloak-and-dagger spies to high-tech intelligence gathering, but deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said that was not Reagan's specific intent.

Here is the official White House transcript of the president's words:

"The real protection, and where we're feeling the effect today of the near destruction of our intelligence capability in recent years, before we came here — the effort that somehow to say, well, spying is somehow dishonest and let's get rid of our intelligence agents. And we did that to a large extent. Your biggest protection is to — and we're trying — to rebuild our intelligence to where you'll find out and know in advance what the target might be and be prepared for it."

"His claim yesterday that his predecessors are responsible for the repeated terrorist bombings of Americans is personally insulting and too gross in its implications to ignore. ... Mr. Reagan should apologize for these misleading statements," Carter said.

He challenged Reagan to stop "trying to pass the buck and instead realize that the buck stops with you, Mr. President."

Coal Miners OK Contract

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first time in 20 years, members of the United Mine Workers have approved a contract without a strike and the union president says the vote proves coal miners are "the shock troops" of American labor.

A triumphant Richard Trumka, who won the union presidency in 1978 by promising a better deal from the coal industry, said late Thursday night the UMW's 160,000 members overwhelmingly approved a new 40-month contract with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association.

Standing under a portrait of John L. Lewis, a patriarch of the American labor movement and the UMW's president from 1920 to 1960, at the union's Washington headquarters, Trumka told reporters, "The membership drew the line in the sand — no backward steps, no take-away contracts."

With 484 of the UMW's 800 locals reporting, 56,057 voted in favor and 10,833 voted against the contract. Vote counting will resume today.

B.R. Brown, BCOA chairman and chief negotiator, said the agreement pointed the way toward greater competitiveness for BCOA coal.

The contract ratification marked the first time since 1964 the miners have not struck the BCOA, which represents 32 companies that produce most of the nation's coal.

However, Trumka said the union still could employ selective strikes against major independent coal companies, which have not reached a settlement with the union. That contract expires Oct. 1.

If such strikes are necessary, Trumka said he would demand more from recalcitrant independents to settle.

UMW field officials and rank-and-file union members indicated hard times and widespread layoffs in the coal industry prompted many miners to ratify the contract quickly.

"They wanted to ratify it and get back to work," said Hobert Honaker, a spokesman at District 29 in Beckley, W.Va. "Most people were hoping they would just keep what they had. When we got gains, it made it that much better."

Under the tentative pact, wages would increase by $1.40 an hour, giving a top-scale miner $124.52 a day by the end of the contract — about a 10 percent raise. The pay hike is relatively modest compared to past contract agreements.

But miners got new job security provisions to protect miners from losing their jobs because of sub-leasing arrangements or in the event a mine is sold to a new owner.

But not all union members were happy with the agreement. Frank Thurman, once director of the UMW's political arm and now a dockman at a mine near Charleston, W.Va., objected to the pact because he says it does not speak about unemployment.

Thurman said he was going to vote for the contract. "But then I considered the fact, after reading it thoroughly, it did absolutely zero to help unemployed miners, and that was a major campaign promise by this administration."

Embassy Attacked In Peru Capital

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Gunmen dressed like police raked the U.S. Embassy in downtown Lima with automatic weapons fire today, shattering windows but causing no injuries, authorities said.

A U.S. Embassy official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, described damage as "limited" in the attack that began one minute after midnight. He said the attackers fled after Peruvian guards at the embassy opened fire on them.

The spokesman gave no reason for the attack, but police said it might have been connected with President Fernando Belaunde Terry's visit to the United States. Belaunde met Thursday at the White House with President Reagan.

Police said an off-duty officer leaving a movie theater near the embassy reported seeing three gunmen in berets and olive green uniforms — much like what police normally wear — open fire from a park in front of the embassy.

The guards around the embassy held their fire momentarily because of pedestrians in the area, officials said, but they began shooting back within 10 seconds and the gunmen ran from the park into a waiting car and fled.

The embassy said U.S. Marine guards inside the embassy did not leave the building. The spokesman said the embassy was awaiting a ballistics report and that windows had been broken on all four floors of the embassy.

Miners Being Laid Off

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp. surprised its southern West Virginia coal miners as they voted on a new union contract by confirming that 1,500 employees would be laid off today and 450 more on Sunday.

U.S. Steel spokesman Gus Tremer, contacted at the company's Pittsburgh headquarters Thursday, said operations would be suspended indefinitely today at seven mines in McDowell and Wyoming counties, two coal preparation plants and the company's Gary District maintenance facility.

"Fifteen hundred employees will be affected," Tremer said.

In addition, Frank Coffman, president of United Mine Workers Local 2236, said employees at U.S. Steel's Morton mine and preparation plant at Winifrede in Kanawha County were told that they also would be laid off.

U.S. Steel spokesman Bill Hoffman confirmed today that 450 employees would be affected by the shutdowns that would take effect Sunday in the company's Dakota District, covering Kanawha and Boone counties.

"It's the same problem at Dakota as at the others, a lack of sales expected in the foreseeable future," Hoffman said. "Everybody was worried about a coal strike, so people stockpiled."

"It is unfortunate that we have to do this, but on the other hand, if there's no business out there, if there's no demand, there's no need for supply," he said.

U.S. Steel miners learned of the layoffs as they joined United Mine Workers union members nationwide in voting on a new contract with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, which includes U.S. Steel.

The UMW pact, which union leaders said was approved, contained no concessions from the union, something U.S. Steel won from its steelworkers last year. The company reportedly pushed for similar concessions from the UMW, but Tremer said he had no indication that the layoffs were timed to coincide with the coal contract vote.

Tremer said the company is not pulling out of Gary, where two years ago U.S. Steel mine layoffs pushed the local unemployment rate to 90 percent.

Adding Color to the Game

"Going... going... gone! It's another Ballantine Blast!" On this day in 1955, millions heard this familiar refrain from the "Voice of the Yankees." Mel Allen, as the Bronx Bombers met the Brooklyn Dodgers in the World Series. And for the first time, some fans watched the broadcast in color. Of course, not many could have taken advantage of this development. Even as late as 1962, only about one million color sets were in use. By 1970, the number was up to 37 million.

DO YOU KNOW — Who won the 1955 World Series?
THURSDAY'S ANSWER — Thomas Nast accompanied Garibaldi on his march through Italy in 1860.

Mystery Boat Strikes Beirut Shore Before Army Gunfire Drives It Off

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An "enemy boat" shelled the Beirut shoreline today and set a fishing boat afire before army troops chased it away with gunfire, the command of the army's all-Moslem 6th Brigade said.

An army communique said the boat, which it did not identify, approached the coast of mostly Moslem west Beirut at dawn and opened fire on fishing boats in the area, setting one ablaze.

The boat also fired a shell that hit the shore near the seaside Rauche Boulevard, prompting the 6th Brigade command to dispatch a patrol that fired at the boat and "forced it to flee," said the communique broadcast by the state radio.

A similar shootout between a boat and a 6th brigade patrol occurred at dusk Thursday in the same neighborhood. The brigade command said there were no casualties in either incident.

Israeli gunboats patrol Lebanon's coast frequently, and boats of the Lebanese Forces — a Christian militia — also regularly cruise along the Beirut shore to supply a garrison south of the capital.

Lebanon's president, Amin Gemayel, was scheduled to meet today with U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Richard Murphy, who has met with leaders in Syria, Jordan, Egypt, Israel and Lebanon over the past week.

The independent Beirut newspaper An-Nahar reported today that Murphy's visits were "very important" but that he had no particular Middle East peace initiative in hand. The paper said he was "trying to freeze the situation" in Lebanon until after the U.S. presidential elections.

An-Nahar quoted diplomatic sources as saying Murphy's trips were being made because of a "real fear of a sudden Israeli withdrawal" from south Lebanon which might spark renewed fighting between local forces there. An Israeli withdrawal from the central mountains last September touched off a war between Christian and Druse militiamen into which the Lebanese army was dragged.

Murphy and Syrian Vice President Abdul Halim Khaddim conferred in Damascus on Thursday on problems of the Middle East, particularly the Israeli withdrawal from southern Lebanon, the official Syrian Arab News Agency reported.

Murphy earlier headed a State Department inquiry into last week's bombing of the U.S. Embassy annex in an east Beirut suburb.

In the first Syrian comment on the bombing, the government-controlled daily Tishrin said Thursday that the attack "has come to make the Americans feel that it is useless for them to continue plotting and siding with the Zionist enemy (Israel). ... Depending on American support will not produce any result since the Americans themselves did not escape punishment."

Lebanese Interior Minister Joseph Skaff met Thursday with British Ambassador David Miers, who was injured in the bombing. State radio said Skaff informed Miers about new measures taken by Lebanon to protect diplomats in Beirut.

Also Thursday, Jordan's information minister, Leila Sharaf, told reporters in Amman that Jordan hopes its renewed diplomatic ties with Egypt will break a stalemate that has divided radical and moderate Arab states.

By resuming ties with Egypt, Jordan broke the front of 17 Arab nations that severed relations with Cairo in 1979 after Egypt signed a peace treaty with Israel. Mrs. Sharaf said she expects other countries to restore ties with Egypt soon but would not speculate which ones.

Jordan opposes the 1978 Camp David accords that resulted in the Israeli-Egypt peace pact, but Mrs. Sharaf said Jordan recognized that the accord cannot be abrogated.

In Syrian-controlled north Lebanon, three Lebanese soldiers were killed in the crossfire of Christian and Moslem families locked in a vendetta battle, police reported today.

Marcos Foes Plan Protests

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The National Assembly, which is dominated by President Ferdinand E. Marcos' party, leveled unprecedented criticism at police for routing an anti-Marcos protest and today began investigating the violent clash.

The assembly unanimously passed a resolution Thursday night expressing "grave concern and grief" over the violence in downtown Manila earlier in the day, saying people have the right to assemble "without forcible interference." At least 34 people, including seven policemen, were hospitalized.

Marcos' New Society Movement holds a two-thirds majority in the assembly, which had never before passed an opposition measure implying criticism of the government.

The assembly's Committee on Justice and Human Rights was asked to begin an investigation today and issue a report in a week.

The police attacked 3,000 demonstrators when they gathered for a protest march Thursday on Marcos' palace several miles away. Police ordered the crowd to disperse, then fired water cannons and tear gas. The demonstrators responded with homemade shrapnel bombs and rocks. Twelve people received gunshot wounds.

It was the second time in a week that police had broken up a large demonstration. Many previous marches and rallies against Marcos had been unhindered and ended peacefully.

Agapito Aquino, brother of assassinated opposition leader Benigno Aquino, said he would meet with other anti-government figures today to plan "new strategies" to end Marcos' 19-year rule and eliminate U.S. involvement in the Philippines.

He said demonstrators would not stick to protest rallies "where they can disperse us like animals."

As police broke up the march toward his palace Thursday, Marcos met with 50 newspaper publishers, editors and columnists, appealing for help in achieving economic recovery for the nation.

Prime Minister-Finance Minister Cesar Virata and Central Bank Gov. Jose Fernandez were in the United States negotiating for a $630 million credit from the International Monetary Fund and other loans. The country has been unable to make payments for nearly a year on its $26 billion foreign debt.

Meanwhile, it appeared that a report from an investigating board probing the Aug. 21, 1983 assassination of Benigno Aquino would be delayed again. Board officials had been saying it would be released before the end of the month, but deputy counsel Francisco Villa said Thursday it may not come until next week.

Armed Forces Chief of Staff Gen. Fabian C. Ver, in an interview published today, denied there was any military conspiracy in the Aquino assassination. But he promised to court-martial anyone accused by the panel.

Ver said he believes an "unseen being" may have had some role in the assassination of Marcos' chief rival.

Ver said he had "six or seven" things to talk about after the board releases its findings, including the fact that Aquino's Catholic rosary beads broke while he was on the plane returning from his self-exile in the United States, that lightning struck a tree during his funeral procession, and that Aquino said on the plane he could be shot in the back of the head.

"There must be something ... some unseen being," Ver was quoted as saying. "I mean, even his coming home could have been induced by some people. ... He must have been influenced by unseen ... That is how I see it."

Another Sunken Barrel Salvaged

OSTEND, Belgium (AP) — Workers today salvaged the 18th container of radioactive material from the torn hull of a French freighter, almost five weeks after the ship sank off the Belgian coast.

Officials said 12 barrels with uranium hexafluoride remained inside the 4,210-ton Mont Louis, which sank Aug. 25 after colliding with a North Sea passenger ferry. Workers retrieved 17 full and 16 empty containers two weeks ago and took them to Dunkirk, France.

Since then, bad weather made it impossible to lift the remaining containers to the surface.

"We restarted retrieval this morning and we have good hopes that salvagers will be able to continue during the weekend," said

Marc Renson of the Environment Ministry.

Small holes were blown in the hull Thursday night and a floating crane ripped a 50-by-15-foot hole in its side above the containers, Renson said.

The full barrels retrieved to date were undamaged and no radioactive cargo had leaked, officials said.

The water inside and near the Mont Louis continued to be checked for radioactive and chemical pollution, Renson said, but none has been found since the ship went down.

The Mont Louis sank 12 miles off the Belgian coast in 46 feet of water. It had been en route to the Soviet port of Riga, where its radioactive cargo was to be enriched for use in several West European power plants.

Composer Dies

CLINTON, N.C. (AP) — Mary Burke Kerr Robertson, who composed the music for North Carolina's "The State Toast," has died at the age of 89.

The music was copyrighted in 1932 and became the official state toast in 1957. Mrs. Robertson continued teaching voice and piano until she was 82. She died quietly at a Clinton nursing home on Tuesday.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — QUERULOUS OLD SQUIRE
DISLIKED HIS STRONG, SILENT KNIGHT.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Y equals F

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

FORECAST FOR SAT. SEPTEMBER 29, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Startling and dramatic conditions can exist to take you away from some investigation in which you are engaging, so be prepared for and expect them.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study your responsibilities and handle them well, even though you may have interruptions. Forget any depressing conditions.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be on the alert for some unexpected event to occur and handle the matter well. You may have to revise some plan you have made.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take a little time from your work and when you return to it, you have more vigor and can handle it better.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) While making plans for new outlets and pleasures, be sure you do so in a more modern vein.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) A good day to buy something new for your home and to make your family happy. Invite only those persons into your house who are cheerful.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Read over your correspondence so that you will know exactly how to respond and get the right results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be more modern in the handling of money and don't get so bogged down with work ahead of you that you fail to count the profit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get out of that rut and into something more interesting and profitable as well. Also make new friends who can be very stimulating.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You may have to handle secret matters today that require time and thought, so use new methods and all is well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do some personal angling that can gain you a cherished wish. Some group affair could be rather dull, but you can gain needed data.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be more ingenious in handling in civic affairs and get the right results. Save time and effort by making some changes in careers.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study into new outlets that can better bring you your finest aims and get ahead very fast.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will use much tenacity at whatever project he or she is interested in. Teach early that new inventions and improvements are constantly going on and to be sure to learn about them before tackling some job. Teach also to be more flexible in views.

Rented Mothers

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Surrogate motherhood is a system of "mothers for rent" and produces babies who are not "the fruit of biological and spiritual parenthood," according to the Vatican newspaper.

The commentary in L'Osservatore Romano was signed by the Rev. Gino Conetti, a theologian who regularly contributes to the newspaper.

per. "Transmission of life to a new human being must take place in the context of a marriage validly celebrated between legitimate spouses," he said.

Surrogate motherhood provides for a woman to be artificially inseminated with the father's sperm, carry a baby to term and then give it up to the father and his mate.

It is all very well to know the best way to play a particular suit combination. Unless you consider the hand as a whole, however, you may be applying your knowledge at an inappropriate time. Where did South go wrong on this hand?

As soon as North learned about his partner's club support, he set out for slam. He decided against a grand slam when South could not show second-round spade control.

Declarer ruffed the opening lead and drew trumps in two rounds. With nine clubs in the combined hand, declarer knew that there was a 52 percent chance of dropping the queen. He cashed the ace-king but the lady failed to appear.

Eventually declarer fell back on the spade finesse. Unfortunately that failed, and the contract was down one.

Declarer's mistake was that he took the wrong finesse — he should have taken the club finesse! True, the chances of the drop in clubs were better than the finesse, but the contract was assured even if, after West followed to the second club, the finesse of the jack of clubs lost to the queen.

East would now be out of clubs, and he would have to return either a diamond or a spade. A spade would give declarer a free finesse; a diamond would permit him to ruff in dummy and discard a spade from his hand. In either case, the table's fifth club would take care of declarer's remaining spade loser, and the slam would be home.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge," will teach you the tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. Critical Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — No matter who is elected president in November, 1985 looms as "perhaps the most critical year of the decade for the poor," says a coalition of Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish organizations.

The coalition issued a 41-page report saying the number of Americans living below the poverty line climbed 35 percent between 1979 and 1983, and a seventh of Americans now are poor.

The coalition, Interfaith Action for Economic Justice, citing data from various government agencies, also said that the income gap between the nation's poorest and richest citizens has reached record levels.

Arthur S. Flemming, a United Methodist who formerly was secretary of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, head of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission and member of four Republican administrations, said the report shows "the government has been moving backward instead of forward in aid to the poor and those who suffer."

China Visit

NEW YORK (AP) — Cardinal Jaime Sin, Roman Catholic archbishop of Manila, says he plans to visit China in October to "promote harmony and understanding."

The cardinal, leader of 40 million Catholics in the Philippines, said the trip could help build bridges between the church and communist China. The Catholic church in China broke relations with the Vatican in 1957, refusing to accept the authority of the pope.

Sin, who received an honorary degree from Manhattan College, says "In our Christian beliefs, we should love communists though hate communism."
