Economy Sluggish In Third Quarter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. economy went into a more pronounced slump from July through September than previously thought, growing at a sluggish rate of 1.9 percent, the government reported today.

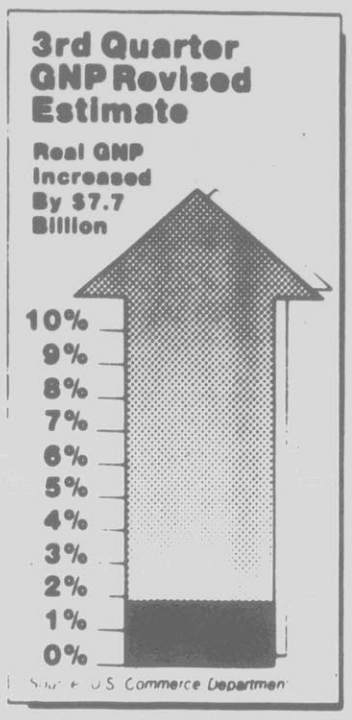

The Commerce Department said the gross national product — the broadest measure of the country's economic health — advanced at the slowest pace since the fourth quarter of 1982, the end of the last recession.

The Reagan administration has described the slowdown as a momentary lull and not the beginning of another recession, but many private economists have said that at the very least the country has entered a growth recession.

In a growth recession, the economy expands at such a low rate that unemployment also rises. In an actual recession, the economy does not grow at all.

The 1.9 percent figure for growth in the third quarter marked the second time the government has revised downward this estimate of economic activity. It first said third quarter growth would come in at 3.6 percent and then last month that was revised to 2.7 percent.

While many economists were expecting another downward revision, few were predicting the rate would fall below 2 percent. That meant the economy expanded at less than one-fourth the pace it had exhibited in the first six months of the year.

Three Others Missing, 11 Injured

Marine Helicopter Falls, Kills 3

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — Military crews resumed the search today for three servicemen missing after a new $22 million Marine helicopter caught fire and hit the ground, killing three other people and injuring 11, officials said.

The CH-53E Super Stallion, the Marines' newest and largest helicopter, hit the ground after the fire broke out as the craft lifted a piece of artillery during a training missing Monday.

Marine officials called the incident a "hard landing," but one spokesman in Washington, D.C., said the helicopter crashed.

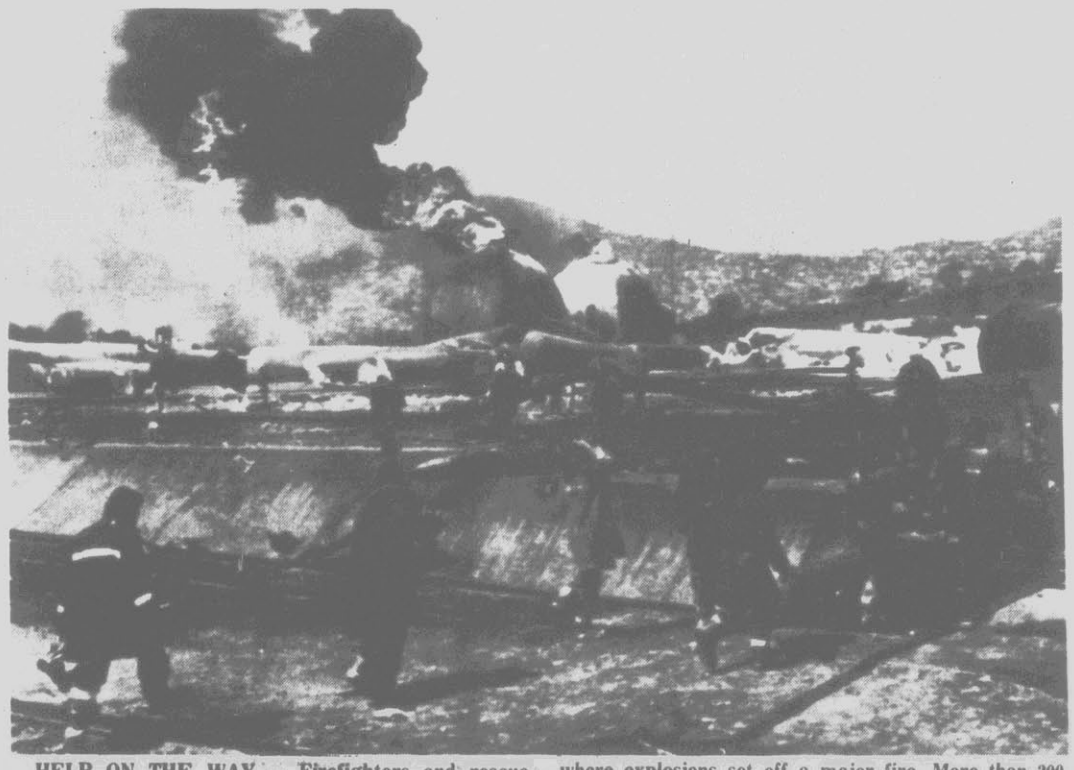

Rescuers combed the area until late Monday for the three missing men, said Capt. Norma Stewart of New River Air Station. Searchers resumed this morning.

Two of the dead were indentified today as Brian R. Jones, 32, of Harlan, Iowa, and Lance Cpl. Scott A. McEneany, 23, of Fairport, N.Y. Jones was a pilot with a Marine helicopter squadron, and McEneany was a crew member with the same squadron, said Capt. Craig Fisher of Camp Lejeune's public affairs office.

Seventeen servicemen — five crewmen and 12 passengers — were aboard the helicopter, said Lt. S.B. Jack of Camp Lejeune.

The injured Marines were taken to the U.S. Naval Hospital on base, Jack said. A spokesman at the

Feds End Largest Manhunt

NEW YORK (AP) — The largest manhunt in U.S. history has led to the capture of more than 3,000 fugitives wanted for crimes ranging from murder and rape to bail jumping and parole violations, according to sources close to the two-month investigation.

More than 100 U.S. Marshals Service inspectors conducted the investigation that rounded up numerous "repeated violent criminals," working alongside local and state police in eight Eastern states.

The FIST operation — the letters stand for Fugitive Investigative Strike Teams — was the seventh conducted by the federal marshals, according to the sources.

The sources, marshals and police officers who worked on the operation, spoke on condition they not be identified until the investigation was revealed officially.

The U.S. Justice Department scheduled a news conference today in Manhattan. Officials said Attorney General William French Smith would announce the results of the probe along with Stanley E. Morris, director of the marshals service.

FIST 7 was coordinated in secrecy from an otherwise abandoned building at Fort Totten in the borough of Queens, which is headquarters for the 77th U.S. Army Reserve Command.

From there, FIST teams swooped down on fugitives throughout New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Maryland, Massachusetts and Connecticut. Sources said the agents also developed evidence that led to arrests in California, Florida and Tennessee.

FIST teams operated in the five boroughs of New York City and upstate in Albany, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo, according to the sources.

Phone Expert Says Pitt Can Cut Costs

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

A Virginia telephone consultant told members of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners Monday that the county could save more than $12,400 a year on long distance calls and trunk line charges by following the firm's recommendations to upgrade telephone equipment at the courthouse, mental health and helth departments and the county office building and using the North Carolina State Telephone Network (STN).

But Henry F. Holloway, president of Telephone Consultants of Virginia, said if the new epuipment his firm recommends is secured under a seven-year lease-purchase plan, the net monthly cost increase for equipment would be $1,285.

According to Holloway, 97 percent of the toll calls from county telephones are to points within the state, and the average cost is about 27.7 cents per minute.

He said new equipment would allow county offices to use the STN — where "your cost per minute will drop to about 12 cents per minute" — through a feature called Least Cost Routing (LCR), which will automatically select the least expensive routing for all calls.

The proposed new equipment, Holloway said, would provide state-of-the-art systems at the county office building, courthouse, and health and mental health departments, with such features as LCR, speed dialing, and call accounting. Call accounting, he said, would allow the county to maintain a record of all outgoing calls by department and extension.

Holloway then recommended that the present system in the county

City Schools Get Additional State Funds, Refund By GUC

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Good news and a note of not so good news figured into the budget picture presented to the city school board at its meeting Monday night.

The good news is that the 1984-85 school budget has been boosted by nearly a quarter million dollars from two sources — additional allotments of $238,708 from the state, and a $7,100 refund from Greenville Utilities to compensate for faulty billing of water costs at Aycock Junior High.

Board members approved State Fund Budget Amendment No. 2 for the additional allocations of $238,708 in state funds. This represents allocations in 10 categories — principally for the regular instructional programs, $76,340; school administrative support services $71,879, and other instructional programs-benefits, $41,581.

Finance Officer Naomi Edwards said the principal reason for the additional state funds is that student enrollment, based on attendance for the first 10 days of the current school year, exceeded 5,000. Projections for student enrollment reflected in the original budget estimate was for less than 5,000 students.

The $7,100 received from Greenville Utilities represents a refund for overcharge of water usage at Aycock Junior High School since February 1984.

Dr. Richard Preston, director of administration for the city schools, said he has "been insisting that something was wrong with the water meter, and the utility people kept insisting nothing was wrong." In a letter on Nov. 9 George Reel, GUC customer assistance supervisor, wrote: "In February 1984, the water meter registers were changed on the meter that services your school. Since that time, we discovered that one of the registers installed was incorrect. The register caused the usage to record approximately 90 percent more than the actual usage which passed through the water. The correct register has now been installed."

The not so good financial news came from Mrs. Edwards, who reported that the drop on interest rates for invested funds will result in less earnings from that source. "The interest rate drop is good news for

Land Use Panel Proposed

BY SUE HINSON
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville City Council in executive session Monday arrived at a consenus on nine members and three alternate members to consider for appointment to the city's newly chartered Medical District Land Use Committee.

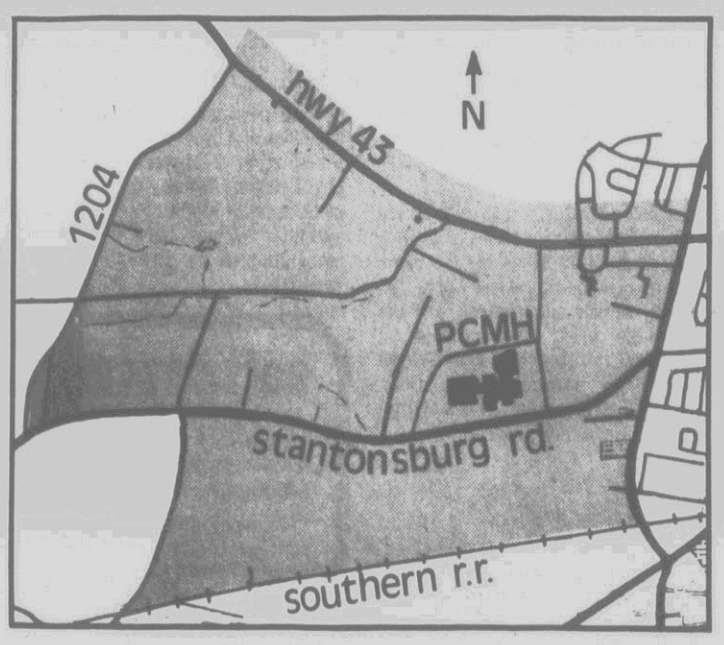

Unanimously passed by council members Nov. 5, the committee charter calls for review of policies governing the 1,790-acre medical district surrounding Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

A list of names of those chosen for consideration will be displayed at City Hall for a minimum of seven days to give the public an opportunity to comment on the council's recommendations. At the end of the display period, council members will consider public comments before making final committee appointments.

Names submitted for consideration include: Wayne Adams, Tom Baines, Charlie Berkey, Bob Browning, Janice Faulkner, Dick Flye, Wes Hankins, Dan Worthington and Phil Dixon. Should any of them decline to serve on the council, people being considered as alternates will be contacted.

Once the committee becomes active, its members will conduct a four-to-six-month study of the medical district addressing such topics as zoning, options for rezoning, and rentention or reduction of the existing area. The current medical district is bounded on the east by Memorial Drive, on the west by SR 1204, on the north and northeast by N.C. 43 and the Tar River and by Norfolk Southern Railroad on the south.

Findings of the committee will be passed on for review by the Greenville Planning and Zoning Department and Commission before going to the City Council for final consideration.

TARGETED STUDY AREA — The existing medical district the Pitt County Memorial Hopsital area (designated above in red) will be studied in coming months by members of a newly chartered Medical District Land Use Committee. Although the list of committe members that will be charged with reviewing current policy governing the medical district has not been completed, the Greenville City Council has reached a consensus on nine potential members and four alternates.

Math Teacher Cited

D.H. Conley High School math teacher Rae G. Nobles won one of 14 regional awards for excellence in teaching during a recognition dinner Monday sponsored by the North Carolina Business Committee for Math/Science Education.

A teacher at Conley for nine years, Ms. Nobles helped write the mathematic curriculum for the Pitt County schools and developed a course of algebra study published by the continuing education division of East Carolina University. She also works with junior high school teachers to improve students' transition from junior to senior high school mathematics.

Gov. Jim Hunt, founder of the business committee, presented the awards at the event, held at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

Daisy Girl Scouts

Girls living in Greenville who are five years old or in kindergarten may now join the new Daisy Girl Scouts program.

The Girl Scout Council of Coastal Carolina has announced the new age level, named for the founder of Girl Scouts, Juliette Gordon Low, whose childhood nickname was Daisy. The establishment of the Daisies represents the first major revision of Girl Scout age levels in 21 years.

The program was announced nationally at the Girl Scouts' 43rd national council session in Detroit. Attending from the Greenville area were Jacque Galke and Edith Davenport.

For more information about the Daisy program or to volunteer as a leader for this area, call Kelly Styons, service unit manager, 758-6319.

Postal Holiday

Greenville post offices will be closed Thursday for Thanksgiving. No residential, business or rural delivery will be provided. No mail will be placed in post office boxes, and no mail will be dispatched from the Greenville office, Postmaster H. Lloyd Mills said.

Savings Bond Sales

Sales of Series EE Savings Bonds in Pitt County during the July through September period totalled $80,769, according to J. Reid Hooper, volunteer county chairman.

Hooper said total sales for the first nine months of 1984 in Pitt amounted to $242,197.

Sales of U.S. Savings Bonds in North Carolina from July through September amounted to $13,689,597, Hooper said. Sales for the first nine months amounted to $41,050,314, up almost 1 percent from a year ago. The figure represents 65.9 percent of the state dollar goal of $62,300,000.

Nationally, sales for the January through September period amounted to $3.07 billion, the highest for the nine-month period since 1980.

Tennis Awards

The Greenville Tennis Association held its seventh annual awards banquet Saturday night, with Dr. Wiley Hines, a local dentist, as guest speaker.

In recognition for tennis achievement, Bobby Short won the men's top awards — for singles, doubles, mixed doubles and for playing the most matches.

Velma Johnson received the top award for women's singles. Other award winners were Ben Johnson, Jim and Karen Akers, Marvin Hardy, Vivian Hines, Graylin Johnson, and Edie Snider.

New Two-Year Term

David J. Whichard II, a member of the University of North Carolina Board of Governors since 1973, has been re-elected to the board's committee on educational planning, policies and programs for a two-year term.

The committee advises the board on periodic revisions of the long-range plan and on new degree programs, as well as the assignment of functions to the 16 institutions in the university system. It also serves as liaison with the state Board of Public Instruction, with the community colleges, and recommends the licensing of non-public educational institutions.

Whichard, president, co-publisher and editor of The Daily Reflector, served for 10 years as a member of the board of trustees of East Carlina University and was a member of the N.C. Board of Higher Education from 1969 to 1971.

His term on the board of governors will expire in 1989.

Roanoke Consistory

The Roanoke Consistory No. 248 will be the guests at Shiloh Baptist Church, Elm Street in Williamston, Wednesday at 7 p.m. for a special Thanksgiving service.

Accountants Meet

Cash management will be the discussion topic during Wednesday's 7 p.m. meeting of the eastern Carolina chapter of the National Association of Accountants at the Greenville Country Club.

Richard D. Richardson, director of cash management with Hardee's Food Systems Inc. of Rocky Mount, will present the program. An employee of Hardee's since 1973, he formed the company's cash management department in 1980 and has been a member of the Carolinas Cash Management Association. He is a director of the National Corporate Cash Management Association.

For information contact Ms. Diane Hurley, 752-4126.

Combined Service

Churches of the Winterville community will meet at Reedy Branch Church, located behind Pitt Community College, for a combined Thanksgiving service Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Annell George, pastor of Winterville Christian Church, will be the speaker. Other pastors involved in the service will be the Revs. Bill Leary, Ed Taylor and Willis Wilson.

Music will be provided by the Reedy Branch Church choir, soloist from Winteryille Baptist Church and a quartet from Winterville Free Will Baptist Church.

Singing Program

The Rock Island Singers, the Golden Jubilees, and the Edwards Singers will appear at Union Grove Free Will Baptist Church, Farmville, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Book Week

Students and staff of W.H. Robinson School participated in several activities in commemoration of American Education/Children's Book Week recently.

Throughout the week, a DEAR (Drop Everything And Read) read-in was held each day for 15 minutes. Book marks were made and placed on a book mark Christmas tree in the library. On Book Day Friday, each group shared stories.

Mrs. Jo E. French's first grade class designed their own book jackets and became "walking books" when they modeled the jackets. Mrs. Anna Thomas' first grade class dressed as their favorite storybook characters. Students also wrote and illustrated their versions of "The Most Marvelous Book in the World."

Check Presented

The Winterville Jaycees recently presented a $250 check to the W.H. Robinson Primary School in Winterville. The money will be used to purchase reading books for students to practice at home.

Making the presentation were Jerry Cox, Jaycee president, and Butch Lewis, treasurer. The Winterville chapter has adopted W.H. Robinson through the Adopt-A-School program sponsored by Pitt Community Schools.

County Extension Staff Top In Area

The Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service staff has been selected as the top staff in the 17-county Northeastern Extension District.

As a result, the county has been presented a County Performance Award by Epsilon Sigma Phi, the honorary fraternity of extension workers. Accepting the award on behalf of the staff was Leroy James, county extension chairman.

The award is based on the total performance of all extension workers in the county. The staff was nominated for the honor by other extension workers in the district and final selection was made by extension supervisors at N.C. State University.

Members of the staff in addition to James are Addie Gore and Evelyn Spangler, home economics extension agents; Dale Panaro, extension agent, 4-H; Phillip Rowan, associate agricultural extension agent; Mitch Smith, assistant agricultural extension agent; Sam Uzzell, agricultural extension agent; Carol Brown, 4-H program assistant; Annie Suggs, Pre-4-H program assistant; Mary Barrett, Lillie Claxton and Zelma Carmon, EFNEP extension program aides, and Carol Ely, Carol Ann Hardee and Susan Ransom, secretaries.

The Agricultural Extension Service is an educational agency that conduets programs in agriculture, home economics, 4-H and community and rural development. It receives support from county governments, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the state's two land-grant universities, N.C. State and A&T State.

The Greenville Recreation & Parks Department provides individualized programs for Special Populations Citizens. Call 752-4137, Ext. 201, for more information.

Six Wrecks Cause $15,100 In Damage

An estimated $15,100 damage resulted from a series of six traffic collisions investigated Monday by Greenville police.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 3:12 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Greene Street and Gum Road, involving cars driven by Joyce Johnson May of 709 Gum Road, David Lee Cobb of Route 3, Washington, and Joyce Dupree Washington of 107 Vance St.

Police, who charged Ms. May with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety, set damage at $3,000 to the May car, $1,000 to the Cobb car and $500 to the Washington vehicle.

Shirley Stocks Suggs of Grifton was charged with failing to stop for a stop light following investigation of a 5:31 p.m. collision on Memorial Drive, 200 feet south of the Mall Drive intersection.

Investigators said the Suggs car collided with a car driven by Burlie Nelson Jr. of Robersonville, resulting in an estimated $1,500 damage to the Suggs car and $2,500 damage to the Nelson car.

A 5:43 p.m. collision at the intersection of Fifth and Greene streets involved cars operated by Dallas Harvey Dudley of 1310 N. Pitt St., and Lisa Geer Stone of 209 Terrace Court.

Damage from the mishap was set at $200 to the Dudley car and $2,000 to the Stone vehicle.

Officers charged Daren Lane Manka of Bland's Trailer Park with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety after the truck he was driving collided with a car operated by Sue Cox Heath of Route 1, Vanceboro, on Greenville Boulevard, 200 feet south of the David Drive intersection about 5:25 p.m.

Police estimated damage from the mishap at $1,500 to the Manka vehicle and $500 to the Heath car.

Cars driven by Phyliss Spain McLawhorn of Route 3, Greenville, Louise Leary Welch of Washington, and Christi Paige Brown of 1006 W. Wright Road, were involved in a 3:40 p.m. collision at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Elm Street.

Police, who charged Ms. McLawhorn with having improper breaks, listed damage at $400 to the McLawhorn car, $500 to the Welch vehicle and $800 to the Brown car.

Vehicles driven by Thomas Ray Ellis of 200 Countryside Drive and Nathan Lee Wiggins of Bethel collided about 4:32 p.m. on Greene Sreet near the Second Street intersection, causing $500 damage to the Ellis car and $200 damage to the Wiggins truck.

Bethel Accepts Two For Waste Project

The town of Bethel has accepted a grant offer from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for $1,745,250 and intends to accept a grant from the North Carolina Clean Water Bond fund for $290,875 to aid in the design and construction of an expanded and upgraded wastewater treatment facility to serve the town. Estimates set the cost of the project at $2.4 million.

An additional 10 percent federal grant has been applied for by the town, which would leave the local share at 7.5 percent of eligible costs.

Preliminary planning for the project began in the mid-1970s with final approval of the preliminary plan and environment concerns issued on Sept. 26, 1984.

Town officials and engineers, working closely with state officials, met the schedule of events required to obtain the maximum funding possible. Deadlines continued to be met with final submittal of the preliminary plan on June 8, 1984.

The mayor and commissioners say the project will take approximately four years to complete. There is a chance for the town to receive an additional 10 percent in federal grants.

office building be upgraded with the latest software and new equipment, including switchboards, being installed at the health and mental health departments and to serve county offices at the courthouse.

Holloway, saying the $1,285-a-month increase in costs is based on a seven-year lease-purchase plan, suggested that if the county were to pay cash for the new equipment "the net monthly cost increase would approach zero."

No action was taken on the recommendations Monday. However, commissioners are expected to consider action to implement the recommendations at the board's Dec. 3 meeting.

In other business, commissioners approved a rate increase of $1.50 a month (from $7:50 to $9) for basic service provided by Alert Cable TV, which serves customers in the Farmville area, and awarded a contract to the Mid-East Commission to administer the Community Development Block Grant tornado assistance program.

Joe Surles, general manager of the cable television firm, told commissioners that Alert Cable lost $33,000 in 1983, $6,000 in 1983, and so far this year has lost $15,000 because of increases in the costs of programing. The $1.50 increase in basic service fees, he said, would bring in about $17,000 a year.

The board also: approved a request by the town of Grimesland to have county building inspectors do inspections in the town; approved a request by the towns of Farmville and Grifton to share services of a dog warden now contracted for by the town of Farmville; and adopted a resolution of appreciation to Empire Brushes, which opened a plant in Greenville in 1964 and moved its executive offices here in 1979, in recognition of the firm's 75th anniversary.

Japanese Aid

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Japan's foreign minister, describing the famine in Ethiopia as worse than those he saw in Cambodia and Afghanistan, says his country will send $50 million more in aid to African nations.

Abe said the $50 million in food and agricultural aid was pledged in addition to $115 million already promised by Japan for Africa in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1985.

Soviet Welcome

LONDON (AP) — Nobel Peace Prize winner Bishop Desmond Tutu says South African blacks who oppose communism would nonetheless welcome a Soviet takeover if it dismantled white-minority rule.

"Anything would be better than apartheid," he said in a lecture at St. Paul's Cathedral. "It is such a vicious system that those who invest in South Africa, whether they like it or not, are helping to maintain it."

The Anglican bishop of Johannesburg was referring to the official racial separation policy of the white-minority government.

Warrants Sought

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Police sought formal arrest warrants today for 19 students and ordered 186 others sent to summary courts on charges of staging a "violent" demonstration at the headquarters of the governing Democratic Justice Party.

An announcement from Seoul police headquarters said 60 students seized during the same incident were being set free.

Carol-Ann Tucker Is Farm City Week Guest Speaker

Carol-Ann Tucker was keynote speaker at the annual Farm City Week breakfast held this morning.

In discussing Farm City Week, Ms. Tucker said, "It's not where you start but where you are when you finish. What you gain in the middle is important. She also told of the advantages and opportunities offered last week at the Farm Show.

Alma Worthington, representing Pitt County Farm Bureau, introduced the speaker, who works at the East Carolina University Training Center. She travels in 17 counties working with teachers in drug and alcohol education.

In telling the purposes of National Farm-City Week, Mrs. Worthington said, "It is to bring about better understanding between rural and urban peoples and to increase the knowledge and appreciation of each for the way of life. National Farm-City Week is observed annually throughout Canda and the United States during the seven-day period ending on Thanksgiving Day in the U.S."

Mrs. Worthington said that Lois Briley has been named Pitt County Agriculture Woman of 1984 and was selected by the advisory council of the Pitt County Extension Service. Her work in the Pitt County Farm Bureau has been outstanding during the past 10 years. She has been chairman of the Women's Advisory Committee for three years and has also been secretary of the Pitt County Farm Bureau.

Pitt County won the safety and publicity awards while Mrs. Briley chaired the committees for Farm Bureau.

Guests at the breakfast included professional and farm women, who were welcomed by Mrs. Worthington.

Dear Abby

Girl's Bully Boyfriend Should Be Told To Beat It

DEAR ABBY: There's this guy I've been going with for nearly three years. Well, the problem is that he hits me. He started last year. He has done it only four or five times, but each time it was worse than the time before. Every time he hit me it was because he thought I was flirting. (I wasn't.)

Last time, he accused me of coming on to a friend of his. First he called me a lot of dirty names, then he punched my face so bad it left me with a black eye and black-and-blue bruises over half my face. It was very noticeable, so I told my folks that the car I was riding in stopped suddenly and my face hit the windshield.

Abby, he's 19 and I'm 17, and already I feel like an old married lady who lets her husband push her around.

I haven't spoken to him since this happened. He keeps begging me to give him one more chance. I think I've given him enough chances. Should I keep avoiding him or what?

BLACK AND BLUE

DEAR BLACK AND BLUE: Avoid him forever. Guys who punch their girlfriends and get away with it become wife beaters. Say goodbye to this bully and make it stick.

DEAR ABBY: A reader signed "Pushing for the Gold" said his wife refused to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary because they had not been married to each other for 50 years. (He had three different wives in 46 years, but she had been married to him for only four years.)

That woman doesn't know what she's missing!

My husband of 13 years came up with this idea six years ago, and it's been copied by many of our friends.

So, 27 years plus 23 years totals 50, doesn't it? You are invited to our 50th Fool's Gold Anniversary celebration!

Abby, over 100 guests helped us celebrate this happy excuse for a party. Two of the "ex's" were invited, but only one could make it.

MAY AND MARSHALL R., VICTORIA, B.C., CANADA

DEAR ABBY: Why did you have to go and put that big headline "Grandma Claims Sex Is the Price Women Pay for Marriage" on top of your column?

My husband doesn't usually read your column, but when he sees a headline like this one, he is determined to read it.

After he read it, he thought he was 22 again. I'm a grandma, too, and I am too old and too tired for sex.

Please, Abby, no more headlines like this. I will stop taking the newspaper if it happens again.

TIRED IN TEXAS

DEAR TIRED: Not guilty as charged. I am responsible only for the content of this column—not the headlines. They are written either by my syndicate editors or by copy editors at this paper.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have a disagreement we think you can settle.

Do women have one more rib than men? Your answer will make one of us one hot fudge sundae richer.

AL C. IN NEWBERG, ORE.

DEAR AL: Men and women have the same number of ribs. (Who is ribbing whom?)

White Shrine To Have Ceremonial

Plans for a December ceremonial were made at the meeting of Greenville Shrine No. 7 Wednesday. Two candidates, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Hufham, will receive the degree of the order.

A special party will be held during the informal hour.

Worthy High Priestess Jean K. Tharp read a poem on Thanksgiving.

Lillie McLawhorn, the group's poet laureate, recited two poems which she had composed "Our Trip" and "Thanksgiving."

Bridal Policy

A black and white glossy five by seven photograph is requested for engagement announcements in The Daily Reflector. For publication in a Sunday edition, the information must be submitted by 12 noon on the preceding Wednesday. Engagement pictures must be released at least three weeks prior to the wedding date. After three weeks, only an announcement will be printed.

Wedding write-ups will be printed through the first week with a one column picture. During the second week, a one column picture will be used with a write-up giving less description and after the second week, just as an announcement.

Wedding forms and pictures should be returned to The Daily Reflector one week prior to the date of the wedding. All information should be typed or written neatly.

Flower Service Offered 24 Hours A Day

IRVING, TEXAS (UPI) — Ordering flowers by phone may not be a new idea, but for one independent delivery service it's blossoming nationwide.

A new company has created a national flowers-by-phone service that enables gift-givers to order floral arrangements 24 hours a day.

The company, 800-FLOWERS, Inc., advertises the motto "simplicity itself." Dialing the company's name connects a customer with a toll-free hotline for sending a gift whenever the urge strikes. Phone orders are processed at a central facility in Dallas, Texas, and then transmitted to one of 6,000 florists across the country who will deliver, says the company, within 48 hours.

The company reports that a field force of representatives calls on local florists "to monitor the quality of the products they deliver, insuring the excellence, variety and freshness of the product."

All flowers come with a guarantee printed on the enclosed gift-card envelope: "The person who sent you these flowers wanted them to be beautiful. If for any reason they are not, please call us within 24 hours. We will replace them."

The minimum charge of $30, including tax and delivery, is billed to a caller's credit card. ——

Leadership

Where now for the Democratic Party?

The Nov. 6 election shows that it is in trouble, although it may not be as serious as it seems.

President Reagan won by a landslide of unprecedented proportions, taking all but one state and the District of Columbia. It had to be ranked as a personal popularity victory, however, since the president was unable to carry with him a Republican House of Representatives or make further gains for his party in the Senate.

The president carried North Carolina by a wide majority and Republican Sen. Jesse Helms was the victor over Democratic Gov. Jim Hunt. Republican Jim Martin defeated Democrat Rufus Edmisten by a comfortable majority. Still the Legislature remains heavily Democratic and the Republicans failed to carry a single Council of State seat.

What does all that mean for the Democratic Party? Well, it was a painful year for the Democrats but still they have not been rejected by the voters. Local politicians summed up well the problem. The national Democratic Party can no longer base its primary appeal to pressure groups. To do so simply alienates the vast middle class of the nation. Often Democratic leaders have catered to the wants and whims of relatively small groups with apparently little thought as to how such actions might affect the large body of silent Democrats. That body might not organize but it certainly resents being ignored.

Interestingly the middle class has not yet left the Democratic Party. Voter registration is overwhelmingly Democratic. Nevertheless, the Democratic leaders cannot afford to see them vote again for Republicans. Sooner or later it will be easy to change registrations.

The Mondale campaign tells us that what has worked for the Democrats for 50 years does not work anymore. The party will need new strategies to offer cleaner, more efficient government at less expense to the taxpayers. Clearly, also, the taxpayers will be demanding no more tax increases. If that is perplexing to old line Democratic leadership, we can take comfort in the knowledge that it can be done. There is enough waste in government which, if eliminated, can finance the legitimate needs of government.

If the two-party system is to survive, the leadership must be somewhere in the Democratic Party to grasp the new problems that government faces.

Choices

We, too, have dreamed of news fare that was all "good".

A writer who explored the idea provides us with some gems: Life expectancy is increasing; the educational system is truly a marvel; the standard of living continues to rise; American values — family, church, the work ethic — are steadfast.

So far as we know, it is all true and cause for rejoicing.

B.J. Wattenberg loves the good-news theme so much he wrote a book about it.

We appreciated learning (from the book report in your daily paper) that in 1982 the number of blacks enrolled in college had increased 117 percent since 1970. And we liked reading that from 1970 to 1980 America added 26 million new jobs. We're sure the book had much more to tell, but enough is enough. Rose-tinted glasses are to be taken in moderation.

Such items as those about firearms fatalities among Americans aged 15 to 34 being second in claiming lives only to traffic accidents, or budget deficit projections; or more arms being shipped to Nicaragua ... all catch our attention.

A lot of people are like that. The dark side of the news poses questions and speculation and calls for solutions; the bright side suggests solutions are being found or have been found. The challenge could very well make the difference in our choice of reading.

Old laurels make poor beds for resting.

Legislators Debate Liability

RALEIGH — Several members of a legislative study committee on tougher liability laws for handlers and transporters of hazardous wastes were getting frustrated. They said they were willing to consider business lobbyists' objections to the bill before them but were finding that while the business people had plenty of negative comments, they had no positive recommendations in return.

Finally, the legislators called on Joe Harwood of the N.C. Citizens for Business and Industry and asked if he'd be willing to recommend a method for confronting liability for hazardous wastes. Harwood was quite brief: "We don't think legislation along these lines is justified at this time."

The bill up for discussion was sponsored by Rep. Joe Hackney, D-Orange. It puts a "strict liability" on the producers and transporters of hazardous wastes. That means that if a person is injured by these wastes he or she can collect damages without having to prove negligence on the part of the producers and transporters. That makes a lawsuit much easier to win.

The bill has a number of provisions which really rankle businessmen. Dennis Julian, lobbyist for the N.C. Textile Manufacturers Association, said the bill makes the producer of the waste liable for actions out of his control. After the hazardous waste is handed over to the transporter who will take it to a dumpsite, the producer should be free of liability, Julian argues. But Hackney's bill makes producers liable until the product is received at the disposal site.

Hackney says that's necessary to encourage all producers to hire the very best transporters. He said he hopes it would encourage most producers — whom he calls very conscientious — to take on the responsibility of transporting the wastes themselves. Julian finds the clause inimical to the basic fairness of law.

Edith Marsh of Westinghouse complained that under Hackney's bill, a company could be sued for damages 30 years after an accident. That's too long, she said. Hackney says that's necessary because the ramifications of a hazardous waste accident often don't become apparent to a person's health for many years.

Ms. Marsh also complained about the paucity of defenses for the producers and transporters. In Hackney's bill, the only defenses are an act of God, act of war, and sabotage either for political or other reasons.

Under the Hackney bill, the state could not be sued for more than $100,000 if hazardous wastes in its control injured someone or their property. Ms. Marsh says the same standard ought to apply to business. There ought to be a cap on the extent of damages which could be awarded.

Hackney says that wouldn't be practical. "You can't anticipate what sort of injury is going to occur.

You might have a spill into Falls Lake and kill 400 people in Raleigh. What kind of sense does it make to limit damages to a very small amount per death?" he asked.

In 1983, Hackney's bill passed the House and died in the Senate. To get it through the House, he had to compromise on several key provisions. He says the bill, in its current state, is watered down. Other members of the committee agreed, one calling it "sanitized."

A businessman who is a committee member said the business lobbyists should come forth with some kind of proposal because it was not responsible to continually say no when the potential for a problem exists.

But Hackney and his supporters aren't very optimistic about such a proposal or the fate of this bill. At lunch after the meeting, they were wondering out loud if an entirely different approach might be needed.

Tough Talk Fails

WASHINGTON — Tough talk by White House aides not responsible for national security raised the issue of MiG-21s for Nicaragua to a premature peak that will make it harder for President Reagan to play the strong hand he must when the Soviet warplanes actually enter the Sandinista arsenal.

That time is estimated by high officials at three to six months from now. By "crying wolf" in a series of background briefings for reporters covering Reagan's vacation at his California ranch, presidential aides jumped the gun. Then they pulled back completely when it could not be proved that the cargo of the Soviet freighter vessel Bakuriani included identifiable crates of Soviet fighters.

That gives the appearance of U.S. approval for whatever military cargo was aboard, inviting salami tactics for Soviet arming of its Central American client state. U.S. intelligence officials now believe backup equipment for Czech L39Z jet trainers constituted a major part of the Bakuriana's cargo. If the Sandinistas can get away with offloading this, they can get away later with deliveries of the trainer itself.

The L39Zs function is to train pilots for advanced jet fighters. The MiGs will follow. "They wouldn't start with MiGs," a Pentagon official told us. "That's where they'd end after conditioning world opinion."

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and CIA Director William Casey wanted to play this first Nicaraguan MiG scare with public silence cloaking secret diplomatic warnings. Instead, following the initial leak from mid-level Pentagon sources as the Bakuriani left the Black Sea on its way to Nicaragua, White House aides opened up the briefing door for hungry reporters.

But the real blunder came when the presence of the MiGs could not be proved. The White House failed to make the vital point that even without MiGs, the Bakuriani's cargo was one more fateful step on the way to a U.S.-Soviet crisis in Central America.

Sandinista preparations for accepting jet fighters more advanced than any aircraft in Central America never have been concealed. Nicaraguan strong man Daniel Ortega told the world last summer that his air force existed for military, not political, reasons. A new airfield near Managua is almost completed — with at least eight and possibly many more revetments built to safeguard parked MiGs.

Soviet helicopters, in the Sandinista inventory for months, recently have been upgraded. About one dozen MI-24 Hind assault gunships landed within the last month on the Caribbean side of Nicaragua. These are capable of spreading "yellow rain" and other chemical poisons against anti-Sandinista guerrilla fighters.

The introduction of these Soviet arms in Central America is the equivalent of introducing gunpowder in the bow-and-arrow age. Yet, official Washington's reaction has been surprisingly restrained, probably out of fear that candidate Reagan would be called a warmonger en route to his landslide.

There is no doubt the next escalation will be the Czech-built L39Z. Nor do U.S. intelligence reports leave any question that the important part of the Bakuriani's cargo was backup equipment for this jet trainer: spare parts, tools, ladders, enginer-starter carts, wheels, tires.

The trainers will soon be flown by Nicaraguan air force pilots who have been training in Bulgaria. U.S. military and intelligence officials are preparing themselves for the MiG-21 itself early in 1985. Actually, intelligence insiders are not yet fully satisfied that the Bakuriani's cargo did not contain the first crates of the L39Z itself, perhaps secretly offloaded at night.

But to judge from the way White House aides have been briefing reporters, that is not an issue between the U.S. and the Sandinistas. The administration has drawn the line only against MiGs. The Czech aircraft is exempted on grounds that it is only a subsonic trainer, and therefore acceptable.

To realists in the Pentagon and the CIA, that argument is sophistry: It sounds plausible, but in fact it is misleading to all concerned — including American citizens. That should be clear when the Czech plane becomes part of the scenery in Nicaragua.

Strength For Today

Someone spoke recently of a woman who puts bells on her pains.

You have seen such a person. Some people have the character and courage to endure the hard situations of life in silence. But others make more fuss over a pin prick than most do over a major accident.

Hard as it is to face the fact, we have to admit that pain is one of God's great factors of mercy. If there were no pain involved, many diastrous diseases would silently advance beyond the possibility of treatment or cure. God gives us the sharp discomfort of pain to call our attention to something which definitely needs our attention.

But when people decorate their pains with bells and run up flags signifying to all and sundry that they are in misery and need sympathy, then that person is really sick — not just sick in body but sick in mind also.

An Organization of Confusion

WASHINGTON — The 98th Congress wound up its work in October in its usual state of disarray. It is a condition that annually approaches total discombobulation. In the final days of a session, members are voting on amendments to amendents to bills they never have seen or even heard about. The session crashes to a dissonant close, and the few members who are left in town take off for the hills.

It always has been this way, and perhaps it always will be this way, but in this lull before the 99th Congress the joint leadership could perform a most useful service by considering a few reforms. Robert H. Michel of Illinois, minority leader in the House, has offered some suggestions that are understandably partisan but are constructive nonetheless. In a "blueprint" widely distributed last week, he talks about the lower chamber. He ought to be listened to.

"There are too many committees," says Michel, "and they cost too much."

He has a point. The House now is organized, so to speak, in a structure that includes 22 standing committees, four select committees and 141 subcommittees. Over the past 10 years we have seen these things divide and multiply like so many amoebae. There is no reason, says Michel, why there should be one subcommittee on postal operations and another subcommittee on postal personnel. Why have one subcommittee on international development and another on international trade? Why, indeed?

One answer is that the subcommittees have proliferated for two reasons. They serve the vanity of House members (Good morning, Mr. Chairman!) and they provide jobs for deserving staff. In the 93rd Congress of 10 years ago, committee staff numbered 1,143. In the Congress that just adjourned, staff numbered 2,014. "It has gotten to the point where on some committees there are three or four staff members for every member of the committee." All this costs a bundle. In 1973 committee funding amounted to $17.4 million. Last year committee funding came to $34.6 million.

Michel's idea is to cut back sharply on the number of subcommittees and the hordes of staff. He also begs for fairness in the apportionment of committee seats and staff positions. In the Congress that assembles in January, Republicans will hold about 42 percent of the seats in the House. Michel wants them to have 42 percent of everything that isn't nailed down, but in this wholesome desire he probably will be sorely disappointed. Speaker O'Neill doesn't play beanbag. In the most recent Congress, the Energy and Commerce Committee had an investigative staff of 109. Of these, 100 were Democrats, nine were Republicans.

Michel has other ideas. He would prohibit proxy voting in committees. He would put House television cameras under the jurisdiction of a small committee from the press gallery. He would institute further reforms of the Congressional Record, toward the end that the Record faithfully reflects only remarks that actually are said on the floor.

Other congressional observers would add to Michel's recommendations. A part of the October discombobulation resulted from wholesale violation of the rule of germaneness. Applying the conjurer's art to parliamentary procedure, members recklessly tacked Amendment A onto unrelated Bill B, which then attracted unrelated measures C, D and E. More stringent rules ought to be established and enforced in the matter of members' "newsletters," mailed at taxpayers' expense, which amount to little more than re-election puffery. The franking privilege will cost more than $100 million this year. It is a lot of money to contribute to FPIH, the Fund for the Preservation of Incumbents' Hides.

Half of me — the efficient half — urges that these reforms be explored. The other half — the cynical half — says wait a minute. Efficiency is a great thing in private business. A natural caution prompts me to wonder if efficiency is all that desirable in governing. If half the House subcommittees were scrapped, so that members could spend their time more productively, would they produce better laws? Or simply more laws? My hope is that adoption of Michel's suggestions would produce more thoughtful and thorough action on the Hill. Come the millennium it may be so.

Several States Join IRS In Waging Attack On Tax Shelter Promotions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Did you pay more than $2,500 in federal income taxes in each of the last three years? Would you like a 100 percent refund?

That's part of the come-on for a tax shelter aimed at attracting low- and middle-income Americans — a plan that has been drawing the attention of the Internal Revenue Service for several months. Now, the states are joining in the battle.

Securities administrators in eight states have announced action against a dozen promoters of these shelters, which require investors to put up a minimum amount of cash — or simply to pledge part of their federal tax refund — to buy a share of a videotape or of an equipment-leasing program.

"This particular promotion is typical of the new breed of shelters preying on unsophisticated investors in the ranks of blue-collar and middle-income taxpayers," Wayne Howell, director of the Georgia Securities Division, told a news conference Monday.

Added Nancy Loftin of the Arizona Corporation Commission: "They are told that this is their chance to get into what the big boys have been doing all along."

Howell offered this advice: "If the deal ... seems too good to be true, it probably is."

Howell said Arizona, California, Indiana, Washington, Iowa, New Mexico, Utah and Alaska took administrative action against promoters of the video tape or leasing shelter or both late last week. Ms. Loftin said those promotions involved more than $10 million of tax benefits and well over 275 investors in 18 states.

The announcement by the state officials — whose members make up the North American Securities Administrators Association — was the latest evidence that abusive tax shelters are no longer confined to the rich.

In its fight against "abusive" shelters — generally those that are designed just to avoid taxes, not to produce a profit — the IRS aims to increase tax collections. Abusive shelters cost the federal government alone more than $3 billion a year.

On the other hand, the state securities officials are trying to protect investors against questionable investments; states move into the fight when they have evidence that a promoter is not fully disclosing what a shelter involves.

The promoters against whom the states are moving are pushing two major types of shelters tailored especially for those who make as little as $25,000 a year.

Under one of the programs, Vitagram Videotape, an investor's money finances perhaps one musical number in an hour-long variety show.

GM Says X-Cars Are Safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — General Motors Corp. says accident statistics placing its 1980 X-cars on a par with other passenger cars provide the "final proof" that the government is wrong to claim the autos are unsafe.

Defense witness testified in U.S. District Court on Monday that when accident rates are analyzed as a measure of safety, 1980 X-cars compare favorably with similar cars built by GM's competitors and with 1980 passenger cars in general.

"There is certainly no evidence ... that the X-car is posing a higher risk to its operators or occupants," said Roger McCarthy, president of Failure Analysis Associates in Palo Alto, Calif.

He said the X-cars slightly outperformed non-GM cars of similar size, weight and price.

McCarthy testified before U.S. District Judge Thomas Penfield Jackson as part of the automaker's effort to disprove government charges that the X-cars are unsafe and unreasonably prone to cause accidents and injury.

Company counsel James Durkin said the figures constitute GM's "final proof" that the 1980 X-cars pose no unusual safety risk to drivers.

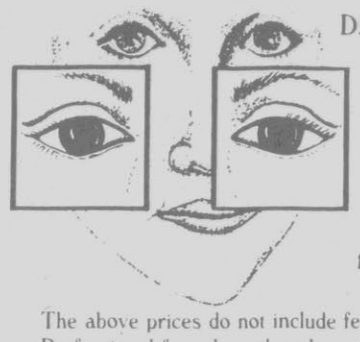

"If they (the government) had analyzed this data before they filed the lawsuit, they would not have filed this lawsuit," Durkin declared. "These charts look awful good."

Justice Department attorney Eugene Beatty, representing the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, declined immediate comment on McCarthy's testimony. He was to cross examine McCarthy today.

NHTSA maintains in its lawsuit that the 1980 X-cars tend to lock their rear wheels too soon during stops, often on slick roads, sometimes causing dangerous skids and swerves.

McCarthy said his firm has the nation's largest collection of auto accident data, most of them derived from federal and state accident records.

Westmoreland Says CBS Interview Like 'Lynching'

NEW YORK (AP) — Retired Gen. William C. Westmoreland says he considered walking out when CBS News correspondent Mike Wallace surprised him with questions about a 14-year-old Vietnam War controversy, but stayed because he feared that would be considered an admission of guilt.

Westmoreland testified on Monday for a third day in his $120 million libel lawsuit against the network, saying being interviewed by Wallace was like "participating in my own lynching."

Westmoreland, who commanded U.S. forces in Vietnam from 1964 to 1968, sued CBS, Wallace and others at the network over the 1982 documentary, "The Uncounted Enemy: A Vietnam Deception."

The broadcast charged Westmoreland deliberately suppressed information in 1967 showing enemy strength was rising. Westmoreland, the broadcast said, wanted to show his forces were winning the war.

As a result, CBS said, President Lyndon B. Johnson and others in Washington may have been taken by surprise when the communists launched the powerful Tet offensive in January 1968.

Westmoreland told the jury that Wallace, who narrated the program, and George Crile, who produced it, persuaded him to come to New York for the 1981 interview by promising the broadcast would be "educational and objective" and not like "60 Minutes," the CBS news magazine that regularly features stories by Wallace.

He was told the topic would be the general role of intelligence and the press in the Vietnam War, particularly around the time of the Tet offensive, he testified. He said he researched those subjects to refresh his memory and prepare for the session.

The interview focused on a dispute in the fall of 1967 between Westmoreland's staff and other analysts over the size of the enemy the U.S. troops were facing.

The broadcast showed Westmoreland contradicting his earlier public statements by saying that throughout the fall of 1967 enemy infiltration of South Vietnam was running at 20,000 troops per month, far more than he had previously acknowledged.

"I was under very bright lights and there were two cameras going," Westmoreland said. "When Mr. Wallace was talking, I didn't know I was on camera. I was wetting my lips, preparing to answer his questions."

Westmoreland's attorney, Dan M. Burt, asked if he became angry during the interview.

"Indeed," Westmoreland replied. "I realized I was not participating in a rational interview. This was an inquisition. I realized I was participating in my own lynching. The problem was, I didn't know what I was being lynched about."

"They wanted to go to my jugular," he added. "I realized that I was being ambushed."

After a long conference with lawyers for both sides, U.S. District Judge Pierre N. Leval ordered the jury to disregard Westmoreland's description of the intentions of Wallace and Crile.

Burt asked Westmoreland whether he had expressed his anger to Wallace and Crile. The general said he told them, "I have been rattlesnaked."

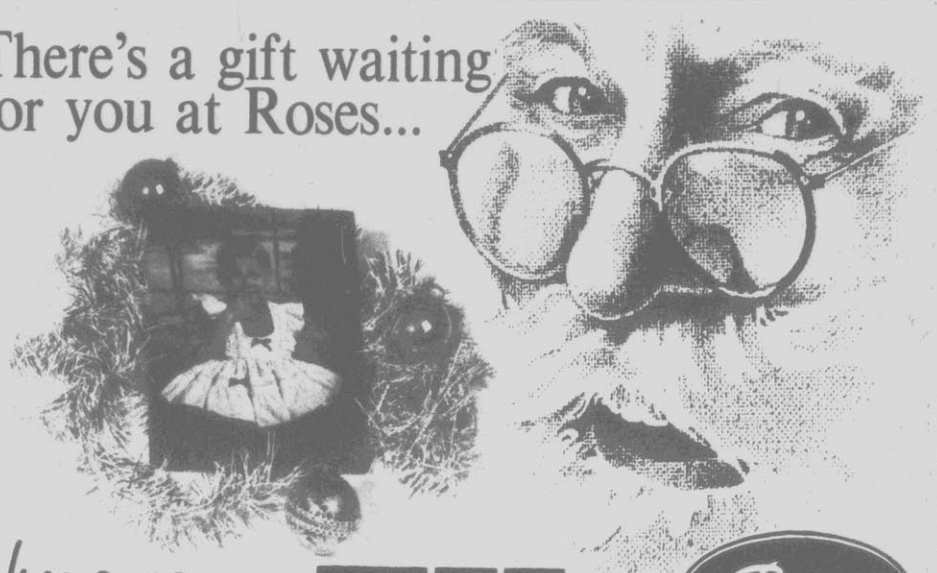

Westmoreland said "yes" when Burt asked whether he felt ending the interview would be "an admission of guilt."

Westmoreland said his staff objected to the higher enemy-strength estimates proposed by CIA analysts because using them "would have meant including old men and women and young boys" in the estimate of enemy soldiers.

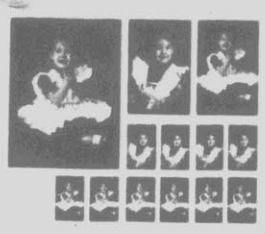

CBS said that because of Westmoreland's position, the official estimate of enemy strength remained below 300,000 when it should have been above 500,000.

Besides the network and Wallace, defefandants in the suit include Crile and Sam Adams, a former CIA analyst who became a consultant for the network.

Gunman Kills 1, Injures 5 In Rapid-Fire Bar Assault

DALLAS (AP) — A disfigured man who according to one witness said he had cancer pulled an M-16 rifle from a paper wrapper and sprayed about 15 bar patrons with bullets, killing one person and wounding five others, then eluded police for five hours before being captured, police said.

The gunman spent part of Monday evening drinking in the Webb Lounge, then left the bar and returned a few minutes later carrying the rapid-firing assault rifle in a brown paper wrapper, police said.

"Apparently he went out to his car and got the gun and walked in with the loaded magazine already in place," said police Lt. David Bonicard, who said he believed the weapon was an M-16. "One witness said the first thing they heard was the gun cocking. Then they started diving for cover."

Witnesses said the shooting took less than a minute.

Three of the victims were in serious condition today. A fourth was in fair condition and the fifth was treated for a gunshot wound to the side and released, officials said.

Police arrested Charles W. "Doc" Morrison, 61, Monday night about five hours after the shooting as he drove on a back road about 30 miles north of Dallas, near his mother's house, said Denton County Sheriff Kenneth George.

"He was arrested on the road out of his car. He put up no resistance," George said. Police said they confiscated a rifle from Morrison they believed was used in the shooting.

Morrison was arraigned on a Dallas County murder warrant and was being held on $200,000 bond, George said.

Police said they didn't know what prompted the shootings. "There were no prior disturbances or arguments that we know of," Bonicard said.

One witness told police the suspect said something about having cancer, "but we don't know the reliability of that statement," Bonicard said.

A police broadcast described the man as having a cancerous growth on one side of his face and a scar on the other.

"He doesn't look all that good. His face looks like it has some type of cancer," George said after the arrest. "Officers said it looks like rash and sores."

Bar patron Clifford Smith, 55, died after being rushed to Parkland Memorial Hospital, according to hospital spokesman Claude McCain. Smith's wife, Michelle, 55, also wounded in the shooting, was listed in fair condition at St. Paul Hospital, said a spokeswoman who would not give her name.

Bernice Crossley, 62, T.L. Long, 65, and George Baumler, 56, were in serious condition at Parkland Hospital early today, McCain said.

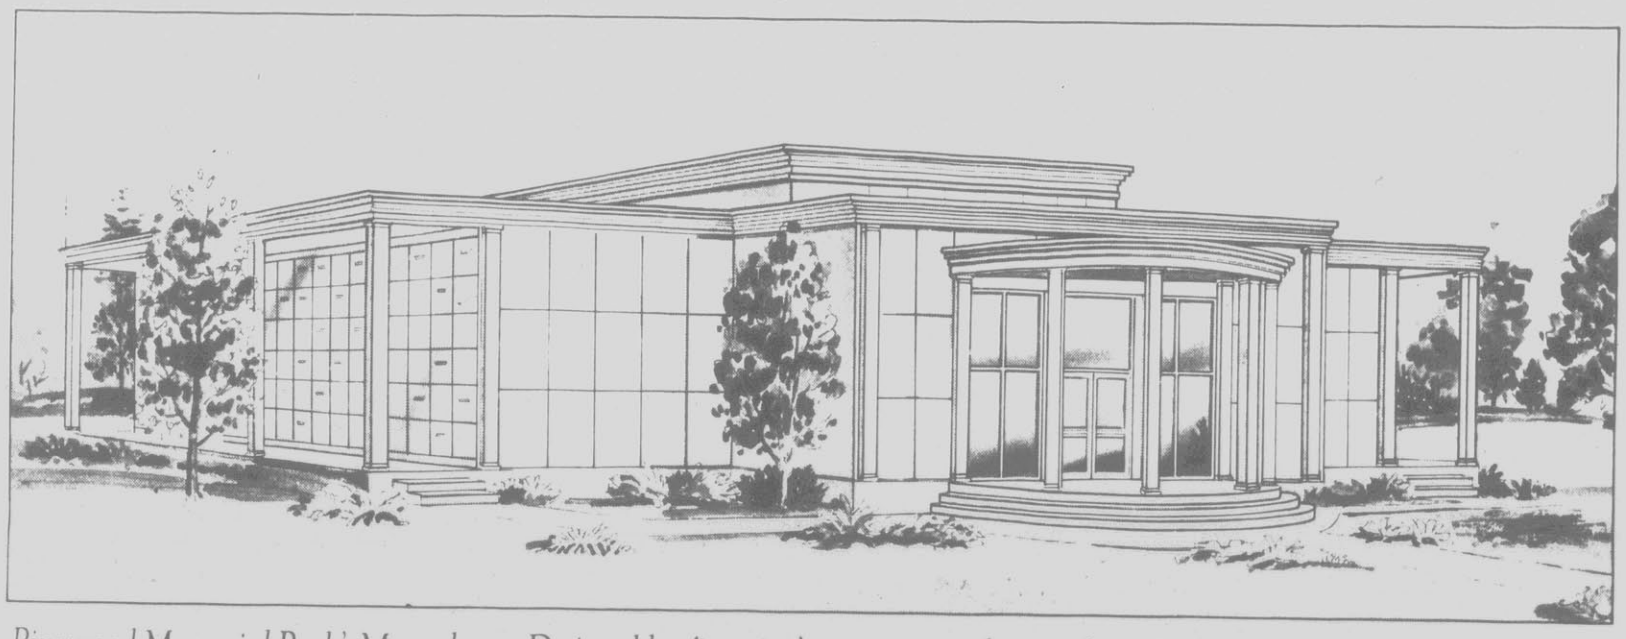

DeWitt Johnson, 47, the bar manager, was treated for a single flesh wound and later released, a St. Paul hospital spokeswoman said.

Mr. Rogers Recognized

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A red cardigan sweater, the symbol of what has made the fatherly Mister Rogers a comfy, cozy guest in children's homes for 30 years, becomes a piece of American folklore as it takes its place in the Smithsonian Institution's permanent collection.

Fred Rogers was to present the zip-up sweater, hand-knit by his late mother, during a ceremony today at the museum in Washington. Officials planned the presentation as part of National Education Week.

"I wear a sweater to make it seem like a comfortable time. It's a symbol of staying a while, of settling down for some quiet time together," said Rogers, who is liked by children because he likes them just the way they are.

After 3 years of careful planning, Pinewood Memorial Park announces plans to construct its mausoleum.

S. G. Wilkerson and Sons, owners of Pinewood Memorial Park; proudly announce plans to begin construction on a prestigious chapel mausoleum on the grounds at Pinewood.

Now, you have the choice of above-ground entombment in a mausoleum designed to last through the ages.

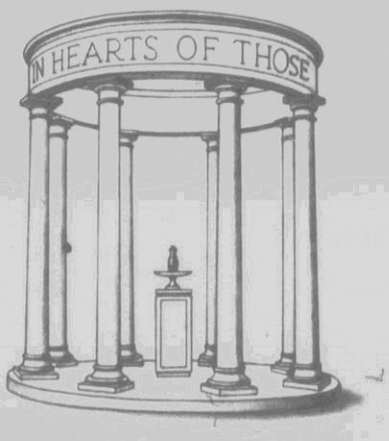

The mausoleum (artist's rendering above) is a McCleskey-designed structure. McCleskey is considered by many in the industry to be the finest available mausoleum designer and builder in America.

The extensive planning that went into this building was necessary to achieve the lasting quality that will result in beauty and permanence.

Italian granite and marble and poured-in-place concrete and steel along with the most respected mausoleum designer in America will result in the kind of mausoleum owners and estate-purchasers will be proud of.

Now, above-ground entombment will be available and affordable from Pinewood Memorial Park. And the costs will be comparable to ground burial.

Our planning has paid off. In design. In beauty. In permanence. And in service you've come to expect from Pinewood Memorial Park.

Poles Jump Ship To Seek Asylum In W. Germany

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Some 192 Poles jumped the cruise ship Stefan Batory during a stop in Hamburg and most have requested political asylum, city officials said today.

The exodus Monday of nearly one-third of the 608 passengers was the largest reported mass defection from the Polish liner. Tourists have left the ship in West Germany, Britain and the Netherlands on previous cruises.

"Every time the ship has come, there was a small exodus. This time it was quite big. Again people voted with their feet," Manfred Sorg, spokesman for the city's alien office, told The Associated Press.

Sorg said 67 Poles had applied for political asylum in Hamburg by midday today and 30 were waiting to submit requests at various police stations around the city.

"The others have certainly gone to other (West German) cities where they have friends," he said.

The 500-foot liner docked Monday morning in Hamburg, its first stop after leaving Gdansk, Poland, on a pleasure cruise, according to Peter-Eckhard Kelch, a government official in Hamburg.

Passengers were allowed to leave the ship for sightseeing trips but were told to be back aboard by the 7 p.m. departure Monday.

When Hamburg water police discovered 192 passengers missing, the ship's departure was delayed for an hour, Kelch said.

None of the tourists appeared, and the liner cast off for Rotterdam, the Netherlands, he said.

Cruises on the Stefan Batory have long been used by Polish tourists to defect from their Communist-ruled country.

A Hamburg newspaper said 34 Poles left the liner last Dec. 21 in Hamburg.

In early 1983, 12 Poles jumped the ship in the Netherlands and 31 left in Britain, the Hamburger Abendblatt said.

Twenty-one Poles left the liner in March 1977, and 64 in January 1974 during stops in Hamburg.

The ship's captain sought asylum in Britain in 1953, the newspaper said.

Mexican Gas Blast Toll Passes 260; More Than 500 Hurt

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Troops on alert for looters sealed off devastated areas of Tlalnepantla and anxious survivors waited today at crowded relief centers for word of relatives missing after one of the worst natural gas explosions on record.

By early today 264 bodies had been recovered. Red Cross and police officials said at least 500 people were seriously injured by the explosions and flames that turned the working-class district into an inferno Monday.

Army troops patrolling the Mexico City suburb arrested 20 looters who were trying to take advantage of the chaos that followed the blasts, which Federal Police deputy spokesman Hector Garcia Vasquez said forced evacuation of more than 100,000 people.

The troops refused to allow evacuees to return to their homes while the search for bodies continued.

Officials said the death count was expected to rise today because the toll did not include people taken to hospitals who may have died later or workers at the liquefied natural gas storage site where the explosions occurred.

Homes on about 20 square blocks were destroyed or badly damaged and Mexico state officials said more than half a square mile was evacuated.

Mexico City Police Chief Ramon Mota Sanchez said the blaze was under control at mid-day Monday, but flames from one tank still lit the night sky as the fire burned itself out.

Witnesses and residents said one tremendous blast shook the crowded suburb at 5:42 a.m. (6:42 a.m. EST), followed by perhaps a dozen more explosions. Balls of fire shot into the air and rained fiery debris on homes and businesses. Plumes of dark smoke rose a mile into the sky as the fire raged out of control for more than seven hours.

A spokesman for the government-run petroleum monopoly PEMEX said a gas truck apparently exploded, touching off subsequent blasts, first at Unigas Co. natural gas holding tanks and then at the adjoining PEMEX natural gas storage and distribution center, built in 1961.

Mota Sanchez said four storage tanks holding more than 3 million gallons of liquefied gas each exploded, and two others burned. Authorities had feared the fire would trigger more explosions at nearby tanks, but none occurred.

British Checking Plot Plan

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — A British diplomat today met with a Briton accused of being the leader of a four-man squad sent to Egypt by Libya to arrange the assassination of a former Libyan prime minister.

A British Embassy spokesman said the meeting came amid allegations that Libya plotted to kill British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

The spokesman, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said a British consular officer conferred with Anthony William Gill, 48. Gill was identified by Egypt as head of a four-man team sent to Egypt by Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy to set up the killing of former Libyan Prime Minister Abdel-Hamid Bakoush.

British diplomats also are expected to meet with the three others, including Briton Godfrey Philip Shiner, 49, the embassy spokesman said. The two other suspects are Maltese, but Britain handles consular affairs in Egypt for Malta.

The embassy spokesman declined to give details of the meeting with Gill, except to say that Britain had no complaints about the four men's treatment since their arrest Saturday.

Egyptian newspapers, citing police sources, have quoted Gill as telling investigators of alleged plots by the Libyans to assassinate various world leaders, including Mrs. Thatcher, Chancellor Helmut Kohl of West Germany and King Fahd of Saudi Arabia.

Mubarak has said Libya also may have been involved in the Oct. 31 assassination of Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

The meeting with Gill marked the first time any of the suspects was known to have spoken with a foreign official since they were arrested and Egyptian officials quoted them as disclosing Libyan plans for worldwide terrorism.

Earthquake Hits Philippine Isle

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A powerful earthquake shook the southern Philippine island of Mindanao today, but there were no immediate reports of damage or casualties.

A bulletin issued by the government's geophysical observatory said the tremor struck at 4:18 p.m. (3:15 a.m. EST).

The U.S. National Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo., said the quake measured 7.2 on the Richter scale. The Central Meteorological Agency of Japan recorded a Richter reading of 7.3 and issued a tidal wave warning along eastern Japan's Pacific coast.

Cenon Dejan, a Philippine government seismologist, said preliminary seismograph readings showed the epicenter of the quake to be 547 miles southeast of Manila. He said the tremor was felt in Cagayan de Oro on the northern coast of Mindanao, in Zamboanga City on the west coast and in Hinatuan on the east coast.

NATO Has Deployed 91 Cruise, Pershing Missiles

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — NATO has deployed 91 of the 572 U.S.-made cruise and Pershing 2 nuclear missiles scheduled to be placed in Western Europe, according to NATO supreme commander Gen. Bernard Rogers.

It was the first disclosure of the number of medium-range nuclear missiles deployed since last December, when NATO said 16 cruise missiles were ready at Greenham Common air base in Britain and nine Pershing 2 missiles had been installed at Mutlangen, West Germany.

Since then reports have indicated that 16 cruise missiles were deployed at Comiso, Italy, last spring. NATO has said it plans to have all 572 missiles deployed by 1988.

Rogers disclosed the number of deployed missiles Monday to a group of British journalists at his office near Mons, Belgium, according to his spokesman, Maj. Robert V. Bryant.

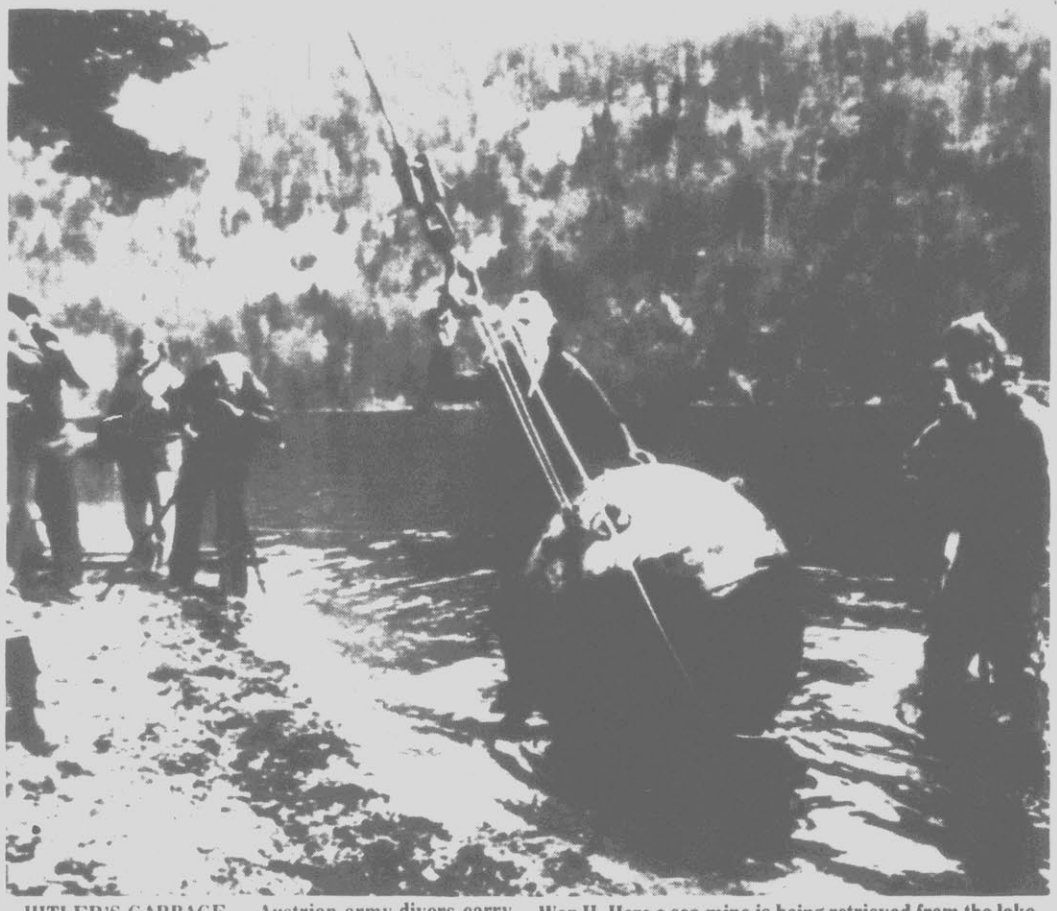

NATO says it is deploying the missiles to counter the threat of Soviet medium-range missiles aimed at Western Europe. The Soviet Union walked out of nuclear arms control talks in Geneva last year because of NATO's decision to deploy the missiles.

In another development Monday, a Dutch Defense Ministry spokesman said defense ministers from all 13 European NATO nations plan to choose two or three weapons systems for joint development when they meet in the Netherlands on Thursday and Friday.

"We really can't disclose the nature of the systems, but they're pretty big, worth billions" of dollars, the spokesman, Sent Van Vliet, told a news conference.

Sources familiar with the plans, who spoke with the condition they not be identified, said a combat helicopter and a standard naval vessel were candidates for joint projects.

The development plan to be launched during the meeting of the Independent European Program Group — IEPG — is considered a major step toward closer cooperation between European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on weapons systems for the mid-1990s. The two other NATO members, the United States and Canada, do not belong to the IEPG, which was founded in 1976.

Second Artificial Heart Is Improved

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The recipient of an improved version of the artificial heart that kept Barney Clark alive for 112 days could live for as long as two years, says the man who designed the plastic device that could be implanted in a second patient in the next few weeks.

The search for the next recipient has narrowed to a "handful or two handfuls of patients," but the exact number is being withheld so as not to get anyone's hopes up, Dr. William DeVries, the surgeon who performed the operation on Clark, said Monday.

Robert Jarvik, the inventor of the device, said doctors searching for the next candidate are "substantially better prepared" than they were with Clark. The Food and Drug Administration in June approved DeVries' request to perform the experimental implants on patients healthier than Clark, who was near death from a degenerative heart disease at the time of the operation. Clark died March 23, 1983, of multiple organ system failure, doctors said.

An improved version of the Jarvik-7 heart and a new power system no larger than a briefcase are now available, Jarvik said at a news conference Monday at Humana Hospital Audubon, where the next artificial heart implant is expected to take place soon.

Once the recipient becomes stable he will be able to use the portable power system for up to three hours a day. The rest of the time the patient will be connected to a refrigerator-sized power system used by Clark, Jarvik said.

"There definitely is the possibility that the patient could live a year or two," Jarvik said. "We're substantially better prepared than we were at the University of Utah," where Clark received an artificial heart on Dec. 2, 1982.

The heart has been made safer with titanium heart valves designed to prevent the valve failure that occurred in Clark's artificial heart on the 13th day after he received it, Jarvik said.

The failure occurred when a Bjork-Shiley valve fractured at a point where its segments had been welded together.The new valve, a Medtronic-Hall model machined from a single piece of titanium, has no welding joints, Jarvik said.

DeVries joined Humana Hospital in August, after being frustrated for more than a year trying to perform a second artificial heart implant at the University of Utah. The university's institutional review board, charged with prior review of human experiments, had not made a decision on whether to allow a second implant, officials said.

Humana Hospital, part of the Humana Inc. chain of profit-making hospitals, lured DeVries to Louisville with a pledge of up to $20 million to finance 100 artificial heart implants.

On Nov. 8, DeVries announced that the U.S. Food and Drug Administration had given him permission to perform another heart transplant. The screening of candidates began immediately.

According to Jarvik, other hospitals that are making plans to begin artificial heart programs include the Hospital Corporation of America, a for-profit chain; Baylor College of Medicine in Houston; The Minneapolis Heart Institute; and the University of Utah, which is retraining doctors to perform the implant.

DeVries has said the candidate for the second permanent artificial heart will have to sign a 17-page consent form outlining potential problems with the device.

Red Cross Talks

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — North and South Korean Red Cross officials today agreed to resume high-level talks on humanitarian issues that were suspended in 1973.

After a two-hour meeting during which laughter could be heard coming from the conference room, the officials agreed to hold the first session in the South Korean capital, Seoul, and then alternate between Seoul and the North Korean capital Pyongyang. No dates were set.

They met in this truce village in the demilitarized zone that has separated the Communist North from the pro-Western South since World War II.

Seven higher-level meetings were held in 1972-73, but then North Korea began a boycott, demanding political reforms in the South.

Last Thursday, delegations from the two nations discussed economic matters and decided to hold a meeting Dec. 5.

South Korea's chief negotiator, Cho Cheol-hwa, told reporters today's meeting "progressed smoothly," but he did not commit himself when asked if he thought a full-dress meeting would be held next month as the South originally proposed.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today as investors were confronted with new evidence of a slowing economy.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 4.53 to 1,189.82 in the first half hour.

But losers took a 7-6 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Before the market opened, the government revised its estimate of economic growth for the third quarter of the year to an annual rate of 1.9 percent, after adjustment for inflation.

Previously, growth of the gross national product for the period had been estimated at 2.7 percent.

The Commerce Department also said housing starts fell 9.8 percent in October to their slowest pace since December 1982.

Figures like that have led economists to expect that GNP growth for the fourth quarter will come in even lower than for the July-September period.

The question still open to debate is whether the current trend represents the early stages of a significant economic slump, or just a pause before brisk economic growth resumes in 1985.

Wall Street analysts say the issue could be decided by the Federal Reserve, if it continues to relax its credit policy, encouraging lower interest rates that would rekindle business activity.

Northeast Utilities led the active list, unchanged at 14. A 530,000-share block traded at that price.

No other issues among the early volume leaders showed changes of more than $\frac{3}{8}$ of a point.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 2.65 to 1,185.29.

Declines outpaced advances by more than 2 to 1 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 69.73 million shares, against 83.14 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index lost .60 to 94.10. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down 1.75 at 207.43.

Dissident Missing

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Soviet dissident Anatoly Shcharansky, serving a 13-year sentence for anti-Soviet activities, has not been heard from for more than two months and his whereabouts are unknown, his wife Avital says.

Mrs. Shcharansky said her husband's family in Moscow had not received a letter from him since Sept. 5, when he wrote that he was to be transferred from Chistopol prison.

Crash ...

hospital refused to comment on their conditions.

"Most are fractured bones, arms and legs," said Capt. Craig Fisher of Camp Lejeune's public affairs office. "People are in serious condition, but the prognosis is good."

Maj. Anthony Rothfork, a Marine spokesman in Washington, said the helicopter crashed. But Lance Cpl. Greg Fedorev of New River Air Station just south of Camp Lejeune, where the craft was based, said he couldn't confirm that.

"There was a fire on board ... but as far as I know it hasn't been confirmed that there was a crash," said Fedorev.

Jack said military officials were calling the accident a "hard landing," but that it was not clear if the helicopter crashed.

The fire broke out around 2:30 p.m. while the craft was over "Landing Zone Penguin" at Camp Lejeune, Fedorev said.

The helicopter was on a routine training mission in support of the 1st Battalion, 10th Marines, Jack said. He said it was lifting a 155mm howitzer, a heavy piece of artillery, when it caught fire.

The occupants of another helicopter flying nearby radioed the air station about the fire, and the helicopter went down shortly afterward, Ms. Stewart said.

Reporters were not allowed near the site.

It was the first accident at Camp Lejeune involving a CH-53E Super Stallion, which is the "largest type in the free world," said Rothfork.

Sgt. Ann Purcell of New River Air Station said the CH-53E, commissioned in 1981, was the Marines' newest and largest helicopter. Its capacity is 55 troops or 32,200 pounds, she said.

It couldn't be determined how severely the craft was damaged, Ms. Purcell said.

Arafat Traveling

LONDON (AP) — Yasser Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization, has applied to visit Britain to help promote a new biography of him, the Foreign Office says.

A Foreign Office spokesman said Arafat's application was being reviewed. Britain permits the PLO to run an information bureau in London but does not recognize it diplomatically.

Arab sources said Arafat proposed coming to Britain on Dec. 22 to help introduce the biography called "Arafat," written by Alan Hart. It is being published by Sidgwick and Jackson.

Faulty Electric Heater Sets Off House Fire, Kills Seven

LAKEWOOD, N.J. (AP) — A fire caused by an electric heater swept through a single-family house today, killing seven people, including five children and an 88-year-old man, police said. Several people were injured and 10 escaped.

"It was an inferno," said Lt. Andrew Glasson. "We knew there were people trapped in there but there was nothing we could do."

The bodies, burned beyond recognition, were found in two bedrooms on the top floor of the two-story house, two hours after the fire started at about 3 a.m., Glasson said.

Investigators determined the fire was caused by an electric space heater placed too close to a couch on the first floor, said Patrolman James Carney.

The children killed ranged in age from 2 to 11, according to authorities in this community near the New Jersey shore about 40 miles south of New York City.

Police would not say if all 18 people lived in the house. One building inspector said officials don't usually control the number of occupants of a private home.

"I don't know what happened," said Willie Reynolds, who said he lived in the house with his sister. "I woke up when there was hollering downstairs. All I know is, when I woke, the house is on fire."

Glasson said two firefighters were treated at the scene for bruised ribs.

The investigation continued this morning even though firefighters believed no more bodies were in the rubble.

many people," Superintendent Delma Blinson commented, "but for us it's not so good."

A request from Principal Kay Whitehurst for a revised system of exam schedules at Aycock Junior High was approved. Under the proposed schedule, examinations this school year will be given Jan. 21-23, with end-of-year exams to be given June 11-13. The major change from past procedures, according to Mrs. Whitehurst, is that the exams at the end of the school year "will be cumulative, that is, will cover material for the whole semester. There will be no exceptions." Prior to this year, she explained, some subjects were covered cumulatively, others were not.

A request for board authorization and submission to the State Department of Public Instruction for further authorization to operate a number of over-size classes in grades kindergarten through grade five was approved. Five of the classrooms have two pupils in excess of the 26 pupil state mandated maximum class size; and 20 classrooms have one pupil in excess of 26. Director of Secondary Education Charles Ross explained that earlier shifting of pupils and hiring of additional teachers had brought the classes' excess down to one and two students.

Two policy papers were acted on. One, file DKA, the policy on vending facilities and activities, received the second reading final approval. The second policy considered, file JHA covering non-curriculum-related student groups and activities in the schools, received a first reading approval. Recommendations were suggested to include wording to ensure that any group using school facilities have proper insurance if applicable. Blinson stated that any student group using faciliities under the provisions of this policy would at all times have an adult school employee present.

A report on the status of the mobile unit containing computer equipment showed that the six-weeks session at Wahl-Coates School has been completed and that the unit is now at Elmhurst Elementary School. Plans are to have the unit rotated to each elementary school on a six-weeks basis during the school year.

Ross presented a report on activities to date in formulating a technology plan for Greenville schools to present to the State Department of Public Instruction. Commenting that it is a complex situation to determine all the requirements for pinpointing the varied needs of elementary students, he said "we expect to have phase one, dealing with computers, ready by the end of the current school year, then go into phase two, which will cover things like video and televisoin, during the next school year."

A sizeable planning committee, comprised of teachers, central office personnel and parents, is working on formulating the technology plan.

No decision was reached on the matter of sending one or possibly two school board members to the March 30-April 2 national school boards meeting to be held in Anaheim, Calif. The estimated cost per member to attend is in the neighborhood of $1,500 plus. Member Frank Grooms expressed an opinion that he would prefer using this money for staff developmental programs which have been listed in a study of staff goals for the schools. Others are of the opinion it would be worthwhile to send a board member to the national meeting.

Pirates Top Irish, 79-68

Rebound!
East Carolina's Peter Dam (with ball) comes away with an offensive rebound last night against teammate Curt Vanderhorst (11) and Irish National player Alvis Rogers, a former Washington High and Wake Forest star. The Pirates rolled up a 79-68 victory in the exhibition game, the first public outing of the ECU team this year. (Reflector Photo by Katie Zernhelt)

Last year, one of the weakest areas for East Carolina University's basketball team was its inside game. But last night against the Irish Nationals, the Pirates showed that they may be making progress into curing those ails.

With Jack Turnbill pushing in 21 points and Derrick Battle adding 12, the Pirates rolled up a 79-68 victory over their exhibition visitors in their first public showing of the year against outside competition.

"Our inside game is very much improved," Pirate Coach Charlie Harrison said. "Jack's gotten better, but I thought Peter (Dam) was nervous. When Leon (Bass) gets back, we'll be even better." Bass, who did not play against the Irish, is recovering from a stress fracture in his leg. Dam, who played 15 minutes and scored two points and pulled four rebounds, was making his American debut in the game.

"We wanted to test the inside game and I thought we had a decent game there," Harrison said.

The Pirates took the initial lead in the game, but fell back by one at 6-5 before taking the lead for good at 12-10. They built up as much as a nine-point spread in the first half and ballooned that out to as much as 18 points with four and a half minutes to go.

"It was an important game for us," Harrison said. "We had only had one scrimmage before this because we didn't have the numbers. Scotty (Hardy) has been hurt, along with Bass, and we haven't had the chance to run up and down."

Not that it was all smiles for Harrison. "I'd give them a 'C-minus' if I were to give a grade on it," Harrison said. "When we got a lead of 18 points, we didn't execute like we should have."

Part of the problem, Harrison felt, was Hardy's conditioning. "Scotty runs a good show, but he got tired. Herb (Dixon) is a freshman, and we don't want to put the kind of pressure on him we put on the freshmen last year, and freshmen have a tendancy to lose their head a little. We've got to get Scotty into better shape."

Harrison said the Pirates had to learn to finish up things. "I knew we could go to the high point and get some good things done. But we're not polished. And I was very disappointed both offensively and defensively in the last eight minutes. Our running game was somewhat successful, but we did miss some. And our rebounding has got to improve."

The Pirates did outrebound their foe, 34-31, with big guard Curt Vanderhorst as the leader with eight. Battle, Turnbill, Dixon and Dam each had four.

Former Wake Forest and Washington High School star Alvis Rogers, playing with the Irish team, was the game's leading rebounder with nine, while Curtis Harkness added seven for the Irish.

"Peter showed that he can do some good things, but we're not going to throw him to the wolves. He's come a mile, but he's got a bunch more miles to go."

The game stayed close throughout the first half. The Irish's only lead came at 6-5 on a jumper by Dan Trant. Turnbill tied it up with a free throw and Hardy hit a 15-footer for an 8-6 lead.

It was tied at 8-8 and 10-10 before Vanderhorst hit a jumper to give the Pirates a 12-10 lead and they never lost it after that.

Over the next few minutes, ECU built the lead out to as much as six points, 24-18, before the Irish put on a rally to cut it back to one, 28-27 on two free throws by Rogers.

But Grady and Vanderhorst each hit and Battle added two free throws to up the Pirate lead to seven again, 34-27, and Turnbill hit two more to run it up 38-29 with 42 seconds left. Trant canned a 20-footer with four seconds left, to cut it to 38-31 at intermission.

In the second half, Vanderhorst scored 11 points to spark the Pirates out to as much as an 18-point lead. The Pirates upped their lead to double figures at 44-33 on a Turnbill basket, but the Irish closed it back to seven before it reached 11 again at 50-39. After again falling to seven, ECU again pushed it into double figures, this time for good, at 54-53 on two Turnbill free throws. Keith Sledge added a ten-footer and Turnbill hit a jumper from the stripe to up the lead to 15, 58-43.

The lead finally hit 18 at 72-54 on a Sledge layup with 4:37 to play, and was still 18 at 76-58 with 3:29 to go on Vanderhorst's short jumper. The Irish outhit the Pirates, 8-3, in the final 3:20 to pull the final margin back to 11.

While Turnbill had 21, his career high, Vanderhorst had 17, Grady had 16 and Battle had 12 to spark the Pirates. Rogers finished with 25 for the Irish while Trant had 21 and Harkness had 18.

"We need to improve on our rebounding," Harrison said. "That, and mental concentration. We just need to clean things up."

The Pirates will open the regular season on Tuesday, Nov. 27, hosting Central Connecticut State, in Minges Coliseum at 7:30 p.m.

SMU To Aloha?

HONOLULU (AP) — Southern Methodist University's participation in the Dec. 29 Aloha Bowl is assured, but it won't become official until bowl bids go out Saturday.

Mackay Yanagisawa, Aloha Bowl executive director, said Monday that SMU will receive a bid, while SMU Athletic Director Bob Hitch said, "We will accept an invitation to the Aloha Bowl if we are invited."

Yanagisawa said the other invitation would go to Notre Dame.

ECU Signs Two To Cage Grants

Forward Manuel Jones and guard Jeff Kelly have signed letters of intent during the NCAA early signing period with East Carolina University, head basketball coach Charlie Harrison announced Monday.

The Pirates, with four scholarships to fill for the 1985-86 basketball season, inked only the second and third recruits in the school's history during the early signing period, which runs from November 14 through November 21. William Grady, a sophomore on this year's Pirate squad, was the first in 1982.

Jones, at 6-5, 198 pounds, fills a need for the Pirates at forward, a position that Harrison and his staff had given top priority during the recruiting season. Jones, who is only 16 years old, is from Washington, D.C., and Spingarn High School, which produced former ECU standout Charles Green and Earl Jones, former All-American at the Univeristy of District of Columbia and first-round draft pick of the Los Angeles Lakers in 1984.

"Manuel comes from a very fine program," Harrison said. "It's a program with a winning tradition and a program that has produced fine players with very good work habits. Manuel exemplifies what his program represents."

Jones has gained 20 pounds and grown two inches since his junior season and Harrison sees him as an excellent rebounder, both offensively and defensively.

Kelly, 5-9, 160 pounds, averaged 8.0 points a game and 10 assists in helping lead Columbia High School (South Orange, N.J.) to a 25-4 record and Group IV Section II championship during his junior season. Kelly, a four-year starter at point guard for Columbia High School, also helped lead his team to the Iron Hills Conference title a year ago.

"At the beginning of the year, guards were not a top priority, but any time you can get one that reeks of leadership like Jeff, you have to welcome somebody like him into your program with open arms," Harrison said. "He plays the game tough. His addition certainly solidifies our backcourt for the next three years."

Kelly comes from a strong basketball background as his father is a former coach at St. Peter's and his brother played college basketball at St. John's.

BYU Takes Over #1 Position

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Brigham Young University has become the first Western Athletic Conference team to ever be ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press college football, as well as the fifth team to hold down the top spot this season.

The Cougars, the nation's only unbeaten major-college team, boosted their record to 11-0 Saturday by defeating Utah 24-14. Today, they vaulted from third place to No. 1 in this week's AP poll, receiving 40 of 58 first-place votes and 1,124 of a possible 1,160 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Oklahoma and Oklahoma State, which meet Saturday for the right to represent the Big Eight in the Orange Bowl, are second and third this week after being sixth and fourth, respectively, last week.

The rankings underwent some wholesale shuffling after Oklahoma knocked off No. 1 Nebraska 17-7, dropping the Cornhuskers to seventh place, and Navy upset second-ranked South Carolina 38-21.

BYU Coach LaVell Edwards called the Cougars' rise to the top "a once-in-a-lifetime thing." He said Monday was a "horrible" day because his telephone rang incessantly, but added, "It was nice, though."

Oklahoma received seven first-place votes and 1,053 points while Oklahoma State, a 16-10 winner over Iowa State, had three first-place ballots and 1,042 points.

Florida, No. 5 last week, clinched its first Southeastern Conference title by defeating Kentucky 25-17 and moved up to fourth with seven first-place votes and 1,015 points. The other first-place ballot went to Washington, which beat Washington State 38-29 and received 874 points in jumping from eighth place to fifth.

Texas shot from 10th to sixth with 830 points by trouncing Texas Christian 44-23 while Nebraska was seventh with 826 points. Southern Cal, which had been seventh, lost to UCLA 29-10 and skidded to 14th.

Ohio State climbed from 11th to eighth with 768 points by downing Michigan 21-6, South Carolina plummeted from second to ninth with 706 points and Boston College rose from 13th to 10th with 611 points by defeating Syracuse 24-16. LSU, which had been ninth, slipped to 16th after losing to Mississippi State 16-14.

The Second Ten consists of Southern Methodist, Miami, Auburn, Southern Cal, Florida State, LSU, TCU, Maryland, UCLA and Georgia.

Last week, it was Ohio State, TCU, Boston College, Miami, Georgia, SMU, Florida State, Auburn, Virginia and Clemson.

Virginia's Top Twenty appearance last week was its first in 32 years but the Cavaliers fell out of the rankings after playing a 24-24 tie against North Carolina. Clemson dropped out by losing to Maryland 41-23.

Maryland's decisive victory pushed the Terrapins into the Top Twenty for the first time this season. UCLA, which had been as high as No. 4 early in the year, returned after a six-week absence.

Auburn was No. 1 in the preseason poll but lost to Miami in the Kickoff Classic and the defending national champions took over the top spot for one week.

Then it was Nebraska for three weeks, Texas for two, Washington for four and Nebraska again for one week. The Cornhuskers are not the first team to be bumped from the top spot twice during a season.

Edwards said BYU's No. 1 ranking "is almost hard to even comprehend, to think about, because it's like coming almost from nowhere to the top. Realistically, you wouldn't think that something like this could happen, but that's what college athletics is all about. I know that's a trite statement, but it's true. Anything is possible."

Chargers Seek Their Fifth Starter

By JIMMY DuPREE
Reflector Sports Writer

While the Chargers of Ayden-Grifton return a pair of front-line veterans from the 1983-84 squad which posted a 7-5 record in the Eastern Carolina 3-A Conference, Coach Bob Murphrey is still waiting for someone to take over the vacant third slot.

Juniors Marvin Smith and Doug Anderson hold down the same center and forward positions as a year ago and Mike Dixon returns at guard along with parttime starter David Wiggins at a swing position, but the final berth remains to be filled.

"As far as rebounding is concerned, Marvin Smith and Doug Anderson can hold their own with anybody," Murphrey said. "Smith is 6-2 and Anderson about 6-1, but they play taller than that. What we really need is that third rebounder; they just can't do it by themselves."

The current front runners at the other forward are senior Kelvin Harris and Danny West, but Murphrey may switch to a three-guard offense to compensate. Dixon is working at point guard, but Maurice Berry is also fighting for playing time.

"I hope Berry can come on at point guard and I could us Dixon at small forward," Murphrey said. "He just needs more time to build confidence; it seems like the season is on us a lot quicker this year.

"The way it stands with Dixon at point guard, I hope Harris can fill the other forward position. He gives us more strength inside. If he doesn't, we may have to go with a short lineup of three guards."

Also up from the junior varsity squad are Steve Hunter, Darrell Durant, James Hilliard and Kevin Suggs.

Ayden-Grifton will utilize zone defense more so than in the past, but Murphrey will stick to man-to-man as the basic Charger defense.

"I think we're going to have a good defensive team; that could be one of our strengths if the players decide they want it to be," Murphrey said. "What bothers me is that we don't seem to know each other too well. They don't see each other on the court.

"We should be better than that with the experience we've got."

Murphrey favors North Pitt as "having the best players" this year in the Eastern Carolina Conference, but added that SouthWest Edgecombe and Farmville Central will contend for the title along with the Chargers.

"North Pitt's got quick players and they play together well," Murphrey said. "Farmville Central lost some experience, but they stack up real well. Farmville Central could be one of the teams to beat later in the season.

"I think on a given night we can beat any team in the league, but we've got to get motivated. The biggest challenge is getting ready every night. It's going to take an all-out effort."

The Charger offense features power inside from Smith and Anderson, along with outside shooting touch by Dixon and Wiggins. Smith averaged 12 points and 6.8 rebounds per game to lead the team in both last season.

"That may be one of our strengths that we can score inside or turn around and shoot outside," Murphrey said. "We've got to avoid turnovers. If we can come down an get a decent shot, we're going to be hard to deal with."

LADY CHARGERS

To say that the Lady Chargers will be young again this season would be an understatement.

Despite having just one senior and one junior on the squad, Ayden-Grifton Coach Kathy Frazier is optimistic the Lady Chargers will improve over last year's 5-18 overall and 3-9 Eastern Carolina Conference finish.

Senior forward Cynthia Hicks returns to the starting lineup along with junior center Stephanie Mort. But the Lady Chargers are certain to miss the offensive production of Cora Faison who finished the 1983-84 season averaging 20.3 points and 10.9 rebounds per game. Ayden-Grifton as a team averaged just 43.6 points an outing.

"In the past, we looked to Cora Faison for most of the scoring," Frazier said. "I feel like we'll be a more evenly balanced team now.

"I'm expecting a lot of leadership from Cynthia Hicks because of her experience."

With Mort the tallest of the Lady Chargers at 5-9 and Karen Edmonds at 5-8, Ayden-Grifton will be giving up the height advantage in most contests. Sophomore point guard Juanita Murphy will direct the offense, with Edmonds and freshman Leigh Burnham battling for the other starting slot.

Freshmen Ondrea Mercer, Deborah Moore, Carole Stokes, Lucy Williams and Christy Carter round out the Lady Charger roster.

"Juanita Murphy did a real good job defensively last year, and Whitfield came off the bench and did a good job rebounding," Frazier said. "Those two will have to lead our defense, but our defense has not shaped up like I wanted it to. It's taken longer to get adjusted to.

"Our offense has improved a great deal; our shooting has come around a whole lot especially in the last week. Hicks is probably the best outside shooter, but I have confidence in all the girls returning."

As if youth wasn't enough of a burden, the Lady Chargers must prepare for a grueling non-conference schedule which features home-and-away matchups with North Lenoir (24-3 last season), D.H. Conley (19-8) and Roanoke (10-12) along with 2-A contender South Lenoir.

"It's a tough schedule up until Christmas," Frazier said. "But I feel like we'll learn a lot early. I'm hoping we can get over some of the mistakes a young team makes.

"SouthWest Edgecombe would definately be the favorite (in the Eastern Carolina Conference). They're supposed to have a 6-0 freshman, but I'm not sure how good she is.

"It's hard to say with a young team where they'll finish, but I don't think we'll finish at the bottom. I look for us to get better as the season progresses and finish around .500."

Five Rampants All-Conference

Rose High School shared top honors with Rocky Mount with each school landing five players on the Big East all-Conference soccer team, selected by the coaches last night.

Three of the Rampants selected to the team made it for the second straight year. They include goalie Gregg Ward, Jordy Smith and David Ely. The other two named to the all-league team were Lewis Robbins and Travis King.

Rocky Mount landed John Merritt, Brent Kirkham, Ricky Parks, Tom Shannon, and Sean Braley.

Four players from Hunt were named to the team. They were Greg Adkins, Richard Fielding, Jay Lassiter and John Kang.

Selected from Fike were Tom Covington, Will Cozart and Pat Marshall, while John Oxford and Rick Rogers were named from Kinston. Beddingfield landed Curt Jernigan and Chris Hendrix, while Eddie Kitchen was named from Northeastern.

Smith paced the Rose scoring this year with 16 goals and five assists. Robbins had four goals and five assists, while King had ten goals and seven assists. Ely scored one goal and had three assists. Ward recorded three shutouts in the goal.

Rose won the Big East championship this year, losing in the first round of the state playoffs to the eventual champion, Raleigh Sanderson.

Saints Break Winless String

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A half-hour after the game, Derland Moore was still in full uniform, sitting at his locker in the clamorous New Orleans Saints dressing room savoring his team's first Monday victory ever.

"I'm afraid to take it off," said the 12-year National Football League veteran. "I'm afraid I'll wake up and find out it's all a dream.

"I've been through more of them that anybody. It was a long time coming."

New Orleans beat the Pittsburgh Steelers 27-24 for the first Monday victory in the 18-year history of the franchise. They were 0-7 in prime time going into the game.

Moore said he knew the Saints were going to win — no question about it.

"It was the darndest feeling I've ever had on the sidelines. We just knew we were going to win," said the veteran nose tackle.

"As the game went on, we just got better and better."

Quarterback Richard Todd, who provided most of the Saints' offense, credited the defense for the victory.

"We had good field good position most of the game," he said. "They kept getting us the ball in good position. We didn't always do anything with it, but they just kept getting us the ball."

Todd threw for 223 yards and two touchdowns, hitting 18 of 31 attempts and getting two picked off by Steeler cornerback Dwayne Woodruff. He was also sacked six times.

His touchdown tosses went for 28 yards to tight end Larry Hardy in the second quarter and 21 yards to tight end Junior Miller in the final period. Morten Andersen kicked field goals of 27 yards and 32 yards in the first half, and linebacker Dennis Winston, who used to play for the Steelers, returned an interception 47 yards for a score in the fourth quarter.

Winston stepped in front of Steeler running back Rich Erenberg on the left sideline, picked off the pass and tightroped into the end zone.

"It was a big thrill in my life, beating the team I used to play for," he said after the game.

"They're a class organization. A lot of guys came over after the game and told me that if anybody had to do it to them, they were glad it was me."

The Steelers scored on a 76-yard punt return by Louis Lipps and a 14-yard pass from Mark Malone to John Stallworth in the second quarter, a 21-yard field goal by Gary Anderson early in the fourth quarter and a 25-yard pass from Scott Campbell to Lipps with 1:17 left in the game.

But the Saints kept coming up with big defensive plays. Linebacker Rickey Jackson forced two fumbles and constantly harried Steeler quarterbacks into throwing early and off balance.

Defensive end Bruce Clark recovered two fumbles and intercepted a pass when Malone tried a screen over the middle.

"I was just in the right place at the right time," Clark said. "On the fumbles, a lot of guys were making big hits to knock the ball loose.

"The interception was pure luck. It was a bad pass rush. I opened my eyes, and the ball was there."

He said he never entertained any notions of running the ball back for more than the three yards he got on his return.

"I was looking to pitch the ball to Rickey, but I couldn't find him. Everybody deserted me," he said.

In the Steeler dressing room, running back Frank Pollard apologized to his teammates, blaming himself for the loss. He fumbled three times, and Clark got two of them for the Saints.

"They were really playing well and I was killing them," he said.

Pollard went over the 2,000-yard mark for his career in the game, the 10th Steeler to hit that plateau.

Stallworth's touchdown reception was the 52nd of his 11-year career, and it eclipsed the Steeler record set by Lynn Swann.

Bowl Picture Remains Clouded

By The Associated Press

Who will be college football's national champion this season? The answer may come more than a week before the big New Year's Day games.

The bowl picture remains scrambled pending a decision today by the Southeastern Conference executive committee on champion Florida.

One thing did appear certain. Army and Virginia, the only so-called major-college teams never to have gone to a bowl, seemed on their way this year. So did 1983 national champion Miami, Fla., now ranked 12th, No. 9 South Carolina and unranked Notre Dame.

No. 1 Brigham Young, the Western Athletic Conference champion, is already locked into the Dec. 21 Holiday Bowl in San Diego and their opponent may not even be ranked in the Top Ten.

Bowl bids cannot officially be offered until Saturday, although speculation has it that BYU's opposition may be No. 13 Auburn or unranked Michigan, which just completed a 6-5 season, its worst in Coach Bo Schembechler's 16 years.

Where Auburn goes may depend on the decision by the SEC executive committee, which was to decide Florida's fate.

Florida won the SEC title even as it was found guilty of 59 rules violations by the NCAA. The NCAA recommended a three-year probation, which would be reduced to two years with good behavior.

The probation would ban any bowl appearances, even though the SEC winner gets an automatic bid to the Sugar Bowl.

Reportedly, a compromise had been worked out to let Florida keep its SEC championship — the first for the Gators in their 52 years in the conference — but deny the team a trip to any bowl.

If Florida does not go to the Sugar Bowl, Auburn could earn a trip to the New Year's Day game in New Orleans by beating Alabama in its season finale. An Alabama victory would send Louisiana State to the Sugar Bowl.

Nebraska also seemed headed to the Sugar Bowl. The Cornhuskers were ranked No. 1 and were ready to go to the Orange Bowl as the Big Eight representative until losing 17-7 to Oklahoma last Saturday.

Nebraska's loss, coupled with then-No. 2 South Carolina's upset loss at Navy, wiped out the Orange Bowl's hope for a national championship game.

Now, No. 2 Oklahoma and No. 3 Oklahoma State play this weekend for the trip to Miami on New Year's Day. Should they tie, Nebraska would back into the Orange Bowl slot.

Fifth-ranked Washington, the runnerup in the Pacific-10 Conference, reportedly has already accepted a bid to be the Orange Bowl visitor.

The only bowl that was certain was the Rose Bowl, in which Big 10 winner Ohio State will meet Pac-10 champion Southern California on New Year's Day in Pasadena, Calif.

The Cotton Bowl said it wants No. 10 Boston College, and No. 6 Texas was in position to be the opponent, providing the Longhorns hold their lead in the Southwest Conference.

There was continued shuffling Monday as teams and bowls courted each other.

The first Cherry Bowl, to be played Dec. 22 in the Silverdome in Pontiac, Mich., says it wants Army and Michigan State.

Army has never gone to a bowl — the Cadets were invited to the Sugar Bowl in 1967 but the Secretary of the Army, Stanley Resor, did not let them accept. This year, Army has gone 6-3-1 and is excited about the prospect of playing a postseason game.

"Should that offer be made, Army's response would be an enthusiastic acceptance," Carl Ullrich, Army's athletic director, said Monday night.

In other bowls:

•Fiesta Bowl (Jan. 1 at Tempe, Ariz.): UCLA, an upset winner over Southern Cal last Saturday, has been invited to play Miami.

•Peach Bowl (Dec. 31 at Atlanta): The matchup may well be Virginia against Purdue.

•Gator Bowl (Dec. 28 at Jacksonville, Fla.): South Carolina's loss to Navy last Saturday sends the Gamecocks to Jacksonville against the loser of the Oklahoma-Oklahoma State game.

•Liberty Bowl (Dec. 27 at Memphis): The SEC's decision on Florida has affected this bowl, too. Arkansas appears set, but the opponent could be either Auburn or LSU, if LSU doesn't go to the Sugar Bowl.

•Freedom Bowl (Dec. 26 at Anaheim, Calif.): Iowa has been invited, but an opponent hasn't been picked. Penn State and Oklahoma have been mentioned.

•Sun Bowl (Dec. 22 at El Paso, Texas): Tennessee has unofficially accepted an invitation and probably will play Maryland.

•Florida Citrus Bowl (Dec. 22 atlando, Fla.): Consensus is it will be Florida State against Georgia.

•Independence Bowl (Dec. 15 at Shreveport, La.): Virginia Tech apparently is one of the teams. The opponent could be Air Force.

Jordan's Work For Naught

CHICAGO (AP) — It isn't very often that two players from the same team combine for 61 points and come out on the short end of the score.

But that was the case Monday night, when Michael Jordan and Orlando Woolridge scored 34 and 27 points, respectively, in a 137-120 National Basketball Association loss Monday night to the Indiana Pacers.

"We could not stop their half-court game and we were killed on the boards," said Bulls Coach Kevin Loughery. "It's a problem that is causing me tremendous anxiety."

The contest was the only one Monday night in the NBA.

The Pacers outrebounded the Bulls 52-37 and used a 6-foot-5 rookie, Vern Fleming, and an array of first-and second-year players in the backcourt to deal the Bulls their third straight loss at home.

Fleming, Indiana's first draft choice last year, scored a career-high 26 points, including 24 in the second half to help Indiana win for the fourth time against eight losses.

"We continued to push the ball up court and took full advantage of the Bulls' defensive plan which tried to trap us," Fleming said.

"First Quintin Dailey and then Jordan tried their best to steal the ball from me by playing me as if I were going to drive on my left, but it didn't work for the simple fact that we were always able to pass to the open man," Fleming said.

"I remember when I played against Jordan two years ago and we (Georgia) knocked North Carolina out of the NCAA playoffs by employing tactics similar to those employed tonight — great penetration to the hole and completely dominating the backboards," he added.

Jordan said he overplayed Fleming "because we thought we could trap him and Jerry Sichting, but they turned the tables on us with some great offensive efforts."

Sichting, Indiana's floor leader, scored a season-high 22 points.

"We knew the Bulls would try to run at us, but we picked them up at half court and would not let them penetrate, making our rebounding strength that much stronger," he said.

Indiana Coach George Irvine said, "Since our offense is a five-man motion game, we don't go to any one man. We simply look for the open man and it worked to perfection tonight."

The Bulls opened up a 79-67 advantage late in the third quarter, but Indiana, behind Fleming and Sichting, outscored Chicago 21-6 in a five-minute span to grab an 88-85 lead.

The Bulls closed the gap to 106-102 early in the fourth quarter, but Fleming hit short jumpers to help his teammates outscore the Bulls 32-14 in the next five minutes to grab an insurmountable 129-116 lead.

Gamecocks Face Tigers

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The South Carolina Gamecocks, who fell from second to ninth in the national rankings after their loss to Navy, face another tough challenge at Clemson this weekend in a game Coach Joe Morrison predicts will be filled with emotion.

"It'll probably be another heck of a ballgame and certainly a very emotional ballgame this Saturday," Morrison said Monday at a news conference. "I recall last year and it was a heck of a game for the full 60 minutes...

"This is one of those college rivalries where you can honestly throw out the records," Morrison added. "Both teams are going to give it everything they have and this will be a doggone good football game."

As for strategy, however, Morrison isn't talking.

"That's something I don't think we want to say on Monday. Maybe on Friday," said Morrison. "Actually, I think there are some things that we're sure we can do."

The Gamecocks, who fell to 9-1 after the 38-21 loss to Navy, let the Midshipmen score more points than any other opponent this season. Clemson, a 41-23 loser to Maryland the same day, found itself in the same boat.

Morrison, whose team bowed 22-13 to Clemson in 1983, predicted the 7-3 Tigers would provide a strong challenge.

"They have a lot of talented people on both sides of the football," said Morrison, singling out quarterback Mike Eppley on offense and middle guard William Perry, a 300-pound All American, on defense.

"He (Eppley) is a fine passer that puts a lot of pressure on your defense," added Morrison, who is 14-7 in two seasons at Carolina. "They are like us in that they have a number of quality backs and a good offensive line.

"On defense, you have to start with the line and William Perry. They are big and physical."

Asked if he had a plan for keeping Perry at bay, Morrison said: "If they let us play an extra lineman, we might do that."

Morrison, who said he had never been in Tiger stadium, said in-state rivalries like the Clemson-South Carolina feud are what "make college football such an exciting and attractive game."

Meanwhile, one sportswriter asked Morrison if the bowl picture was clear, muddled or if that was a "bad question."

Morrison replied: "Well, you're right. Actually, I think that will be decided in the next few days, certainly on the 24th when the bids come out."

Joey Maxim retained his world light-heavyweight title in June, 1952, when challenger Ray Robinson, exhausted by the 104-degree heat in Yankee Stadium, could not come out for the 14th round although far ahead on points.

MacDonald Calls TV Movie 'Garbage'

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Jeffrey MacDonald says a television movie about the brutal slayings of his wife and children is "garbage" that may destroy his chances for acquittal if he receives a new trial, but an attorney who prosecuted MacDonald says the movie won't affect the case.

MacDonald's private investigator also said he didn't think the airing of the movie "Fatal Vision" would affect the former Green Beret physician's chances of receiving a new trial.

The first two-hour segment of "Fatal Vision," based on the best-selling book of the same title, was aired Sunday night and the second part was broadcast Monday night.

MacDonald is serving three life sentences in the Federal Correctional Institute in Bastrop, Texas. In a telephone interview with the Rutland, Vt., Herald and Times Argus published Sunday, he said the movie was causing him "rage, pain and humiliation."

"My life will never be the same after this film," MacDonald said. "I don't know if I'll ever get a fair trial after this."

MacDonald, who has steadfastly maintained that a gang of hippies entered his house at Fort Bragg in 1970 and beat and stabbed his family, has a motion for a retrial pending before U.S. District Judge Franklin Dupree in Raleigh.

In an interview with WTVD in Durham hours before the airing of Monday's second part, MacDonald said the movie would be more powerful than the book.

"With the visual impact of the movie while evidence is still in court, when a new trial is granted how could we possibly ever find a jury that has not had an impact from this overwhelming visual scene of false information? How do we find jurors that can suppress memories of this garbage on TV?" he said.

MacDonald said he was dreading seeing the part of the movie that shows the actor portraying him killing his family. "I saw film clips of commercials and it's an awful miscarriage of justice that NBC could go forward at this time with this false representatiion of what happened that night," he said.

He called the timing of the movie's broadcast "unfortunate" and the portrayal of himself "extremely inaccurate."

MacDonald's attorneys had urged NBC to delay its mini-series, saying it might prejudice jurors in a second trial. The network rejected a delay, but scheduled a panel discussion of the case's legal issues on its "Today" show Tuesday.

Former U.S. Attorney Jim Blackburn, now in private practice in Raleigh, said he was "impressed by the accuracy of at least the dialogue" after watching Sunday's portion of the movie. He said he had read the screenplay beforehand.

"On balance I thought it was good," said Blackburn, who led the team that successfully prosecuted MacDonald in 1979 on murder charges. He said he met with the script writer last spring and "came away convinced he would do a good job."

Blackburn said MacDonald's claim that the movie would jeopardize his continuing legal effort had no validity.

"I don't think so at all, because his basis for getting a new trial according to his own story would be things not included in the movie," said Blackburn. "And everything in the movie is a part of the public record. I don't see how in the world that can prejudice him."

Ray Shedlick, MacDonald's private investigator, watched the movie Sunday in the studios of WTVD in Durham. In a copyright interview afterward, he said there were some omissions and inaccuracies, but said he didn't think it would affect Dupree's ruling on MacDonald's request for a new trial. The judge is scheduled to hear arguments on the motion in January.

MacDonald was convicted through a fiber-and-bloodstain reconstruction of the crime, since there were no witnesses and no definite motive could be established.

Joe McGinniss, author of the book on which the movie is based, theorizes that fatigue and heavy use of diet pills might have triggered a fit of rage that led MacDonald to kill his family.

MacDonald's attorneys base their motion for a new trial on what they claim are incriminating statements made by two people who have since died, along with forensic material and other evidence. Prosecutors say the motion is without merit.

Blackburn said he hoped the publicity generated by the book and movie would clear up questions in some people's minds that newspaper accounts of the trial left unanswered.

Also, he said, the book and movie show "that the government did something very right, pursued a good cause to the end ... sometimes at great cost to themselves.

"This was a time when the government worked and the military worked. People throughout the government and the military were (motivated) by something other than just self-interest," said Blackburn.

MacDonald's attorneys, Wade Smith of Raleigh and Brian O'Neill of Santa Monica, Calif., did not return phone calls Monday.

Mildred Kassab, mother of MacDonald's slain wife, Colette, said last week that she had seen an advance showing of the movie and that it was accurate and "in good taste."

New Films Focus On End Of World

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The year after "The Day After," television remains fascinated with images of a nuclear winter. But two upcoming productions are poles apart in their artistic approaches to the end of the world.

"Testament" makes a powerful emotional point without horrifying depictions of human deformities, while "Threads" should be rated "X" for gratuitous gore.

"Testament," the first motion picture initiated and commissioned by public television's "American Playhouse," will open the fourth season of "Playhouse" next Monday. The $1 million film, starring Jane Alexander, was in the theaters in the fall of 1983 but was overwhelmed by the broadcast, one year ago tonight, of ABC's $7 million "The Day After."

"The airing on ABC killed the release overnight," said Lindsay Law, executive producer of "American Playhouse." "We did a great business for four weeks, then it dropped off by 90 percent. The American appetite for the subject was satiated."

America's stomach for the subject will be severely tested by "Threads," a British Broadcasting Corp. co-production that will premiere in the United States on Ted Turner's WTBS Superstation Jan. 13. It will have two more plays on cable's WTBS in January before it is offered in syndication to non-cable stations.

Also scheduled to run on WTBS about the same time will be a BBC documentary, "On the Eighth Day," and a follow-up panel discussion. Turner will make an opening statement each night.

WTBS, which Turner proclaims as the all-family antidote to the networks' sex-and-violence poison, has lost its wholesomeness credibility with "Threads," an unsanitized portrayal of the short-term and long-range effects of a nuclear attack on Sheffield, England.

It is an obvious attempt to shock and alarm people into anti-nuclear activism. With detailed shots of charred, vomiting bodies and other repulsive footage, "Threads" is overkill and not suitable for anybody under 100.

"Ted feels strongly that it's time to make a statement that nuclear war is a game that nobody wins," said Robert J. Wussler, president of WTBS. "It's a tough, very bold broadcast. We are concerned that kids won't be able to handle it, so we will have the appropriate disclaimers in advance."

SET IN CONCRETE — Actor Anthony Quinn, currently starring in "Zorba the Greek" in Miami Beach, sets his shoe and handprints in concrete. The prints will be placed near the Theater of the Performing Arts in the Florida coastal city. (AP Laserphoto)

N.C. Highway Tolls Worsen As Holiday Nears

By JODY TAYLOR
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Highway Patrol will be out in force this Thanksgiving Day holiday following the state's second-worst weekend for traffic fatalities this year, a patrol spokesman said.

Eighteen people died in accidents on state roads last weekend as a troubling trend of more traffic deaths continued, said Highway Patrol Lt. Arnold Rector.

"This is the second worst weekend of the year," Rector said. "We had 19 killed in the last weekend in April."

Rector said the Highway Patrol would be out in force for the 102-hour Thanksgiving Day holiday which begins at 6 p.m. Wednesday. The N.C. State Motor Club has predicted that 17 people will die in automobile accidents on state roads during the period, which ends at midnight Sunday.

"We're looking for traffic to be at a maximum as far as volume is concerned," Rector said. "All available troopers will be on the road."

"We are concerned about it because the accident trend in recent months has been going upward," Rector said. Patrol officials have "emphasized the importance of troopers patrolling highways regularly looking for the hazardous moving vehicle," he said.

Rector said the majority of the weekend's accidents were caused by excessive speed and that no one who died was wearing a seat belt.

"People are steadily driving more," said Jane Hartsell, a spokeswoman for the North Carolina State Motor Club. "People are letting their speed go higher and higher. When you are speeding, it takes the control out of your hands."

Ms. Hartsell said the accident rate for the state is up 12 percent from last year. According to Highway Patrol statistics, 1,245 people have been killed so far this year, which is higher than the total number of people killed in 1983 — 1,242.

In 1982, there were 1,320 highway deaths.

Rector said, "1983 was the safest year since 1962 when we had 1,226 killed."

Seven of last weekend's accidents involved only one car, and two involved cars running stop signs.

"Acording to reports, we had four accidents that killed nine people and that would hopefully explain why so many people got killed," Rector said. "There were a total of 14 fatal accidents, but nine were killed in just four of them.

"One accident that claimed three lives was the result of failure to stop for a stop sign," Rector said. "A lot of people don't attach too much importance to a stop sign, but this is an example of what could happen when someone fails to stop."

Hunt Says Future Still Uncertain

Gov. Jim Hunt reassured his supporters that he's not "downhearted" about his loss to Republican Sen. Jesse Helms after ruling out two job possibilities but leaving a third option open.

"I have given no thought to that," Hunt said Monday in Raleigh when asked about challenging the re-election of Republican Sen. John East in 1986.

"I have just been through a tough campaign. It was a long and hard one, and we gave it all we had. I am not about to start thinking about politics again," he said. The Hunt-Helms campaign was the expensive Senate campaign in history.

He said, however, that he is not interested in being chairman of the Democratic National Committee or president of the 16-campus University of North Carolina system.

"There are a lot of exciting things to do in the world and I'm going to look at each of them," Hunt said in one of his first interviews since he lost the election with 48 percent of the vote to Helms' 52 percent.

Hunt, who just returned from vacation, resumed official duties Monday and presented 16 Executive Cabinet Awards for Management Excellence.

During the ceremony in the old Capitol, Labor Secretary John Brooks praised Hunt's eight-year record. The governor received a standing ovation from state workers who packed the old House chambers.

In a brief meeting with reporters, Hunt said he has ruled out only two jobs.

"I would definitely not be interested in being chairman of the Democratic National Committee although it is important that the party get a good chairman, a moderate, middle-of-the road (chairman)," he said, adding that the job was "too time consuming."

Committee chairman Charles Manatt called Hunt to discuss the job the day after the election.

Bodies Found In Store Ruins

LAURINBURG, N.C. (AP) — Two Scotland County convenience store operators were each shot in the head before their store was set on fire sometime this past weekend, authorities said.

The badly burned bodies of Dora Breeden and Pat Gentry, co-owners of the P&D Grocery on U.S. 501 north of Laurinburg, were found by firefighters in the store office after the blaze was extinguished, Scotland County Sheriff Alfred White said Monday.

A preliminary autopsy report by the state medical examiner disclosed the gunshot wounds, but White said it is not clear how many times each person was shot or what caliber of weapon was used.

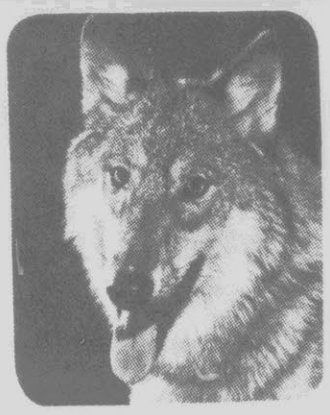

The fire destroyed the grocery store and a small clothing shop near the convenience store leased by Ms. Breeden and Gentry. White said authorities have not been able to determine whether anything was taken from the store.

Crying Wolf

Despite controversy and protests, Alaskan state officials were scheduled to begin aerial hunting of wolves sometime this month. Alaska is the only state where wolves are not considered an endangered species. An estimated 10,000 of them live there. There has never been a documented case of a non-rabid wolf attacking a human. In 1420 and 1438, wolf packs roamed the streets of Paris. Even stranger, Alaska was once home to elephants, lions, and camels.

U.S. Leaf Imports From Brazil Rise

By The Associated Press

More than 30 million pounds of flue-cured tobacco has been imported into the United States during the past 3½ months, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture report released Monday.

The report showed almost half of the tobacco came from Brazil, the major international flue-cured competitor of U.S. farmers.

The report is the result of a new inspection and grading program of leaf imports that started July 13. Because of that, there are no comparable figures from last year.

But Hiedi Pender, a tobacco aide for Rep. Charlie Rose, D-N.C., said the latest report showed a "definite trend of increasing imports" despite some predictions from leaf importers that there would be a leveling off of tobacco imports this year.

Rose, chairman of the House tobacco and peanuts subcommittee, was the chief sponsor of legislation that requires the department to start inspecting and grading the foreign leaf.

Rose and other tobacco-state congressmen hope to use their battle to win restrictions on imports.

The report showed by the end of September the total amount of imported tobacco had risen to 22.8 million pounds and that an additional 7.6 million pounds came in during October. Of that total, 13.6 million pounds came from Brazil, with another 2.24 million pounds coming from South Africa and 2.2 million pounds from Argentina.

Bids High On Burley Marts

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Farm families watched as buyers gave high bids on the opening day of the Asheville Burley Tobacco Market warehouses for a 1984 crop that sometimes brought a penny above the government support price.

Shirley Treadway and Barbara Stone, who produced their crop of tobacco together in Madison County, were smiling after the buyers passed their 2,400 pounds of tobacco on the warehouse floor.

Every pile except one sold for $1.88 to $1.91 a pound, and that one exception — containing green tobacco — brought a surprising $1.70 a pound.

"We worked hard in grading our tobacco carefully, and it paid off," Mrs. Treadway said.

Their tobacco was tied in hands in the old traditional method of presenting burley for sale. Most of the tobacco in the warehouses, however, was in bales, which was selling equally well.

"Growing tobacco is hard work and I'm happy that the buyers appreciate that," Mrs. Treadway said.

Predictions of how much of the burley crop would go under government loan was mixed in several burley states Monday.

In Asheville, buyers were paying a penny above the support price of $1.90 a pound to obtain some of the highest grades of tobacco. Those grades often go to the warehouses of the Burley Stabilization Corporation because of the high price.

"These men obviously came to buy," said Ray Owen of Dixie Big Burley Warehouse that held one of the opening sales Monday.

But in Kentucky, Ed French of the Federal-State Market News Service in the Lexington, Ky., office said early reports indicated 30 percent to 40 percent of the day's offerings went to the industry surplus pool, with better grades of leaf bringing $1 above the price-support level at most.

Bill Myers of the Burley Stabilization Corp. said it's a buyers' market this year. Myers said his group took at least 35 percent of Monday's sales in Tennessee, Virginia and North Carolina.

"We're going to get a lot of the expensive tobacco because the companies don't want to meet that price," Myers said.

Bidding was eager for medium and lower grades of the leaf and it sometimes took a bid 15 cents above the support price to purchase such a pile in Asheville.

The opening day price in Asheville was expected to equal that of last year's opening, or perhaps even exceed it. Last year's first-day sales averaged $1.8457 a pound.

This year's crop at markets in Asheville, West Jefferson and Boone was expected to reach 24 million pounds. The average price last season was $182 per hundredweight.

Fred Jones of Shelton Laurel offered the first basket in the first sale at Day's Warehouse. The basket, tied in the traditional hands and stacked, brought $185 per hundredweight.

Charles Day, president of Day's Warehouse, said before the sale that this year's crop will be a good one. But he said it won't weigh as much because the leaf is very thin.

The North Carolina Tobacco Growers Association has already voted to petition Congress to lower the price supports on flue-cured and burley before next year to make domestic tobacco more competitive with import prices.

In Asheville Monday, 1,145,981 pounds of tobacco sold for $2,102,716.68, averaging $1.8349 a pound. At Boone, farmers received $740,302.60 for 410,002 pounds of weed, an average of $1.8461 a pound. And in West Jefferson sales totaled 390,218 pounds for $706,611.19, or $1.8108 a pound.

Burley tobacco differs from flue-cured leaf in that the entire stalk is cured and dried naturally, while leaves from flue-cured tobacco are stripped in the fields and heat-cured.

The Burley Belt includes Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Ohio, Indiana and Missouri.

Race Cost Jordan More Than Million

RALEIGH (AP) — Campaign spending reports show Lt. Gov.-elect Bob Jordan outspent Republican opponent John Carrington by a 3-to-1 margin, although Carrington was involved in a primary, runoff and a Nov. 6 general election.

The two nominees for lieutenant governor spent more than $1.7 million this year in the race for the state's second highest job, according to the reports.

Jordan defeated Democrat Carl Stewart in the first primary.

In comparison, gubernatorial candidates Jim Martin and Rufus Edmisten spent about $7.1 million. Martin, the Republican governor-elect, spent $2.7 million compared to $4.4 million for Edmisten, the Democrat.

The governor's race cost all candidates, including those who lost in a bitter May primary, at least $11.4 million.

The U.S. Senate race between Republican incumbent Jesse Helms and unsuccessful Democratic challenger Gov. Jim Hunt carried a price tag of at least $21 million. The race broke national campaign spending records.

Helms outspent Hunt by an almost 2-to-1 margin with the Republican spending almost $14 million compared to $7 million for Hunt.

The latest spending reports show that between Oct. 21 and Nov. 9, Jordan received contributions of $134,418.30 and spent $115,531.51.

During the same period, Carrington received $15,381.46 and spent $13,269.96. The candidate contributed $132,759.86 to his own campaign through Nov. 9.

For the year through Nov. 9, Jordan reported contributions of $1,043,065.34, loans of $254,000 and expenditures of $1,311,003.53.

For the entire year, Carrington raised $160,724.85, borrowed $241,657.70 and spent $407,769.45.

Both candidates have spent more than they collected.

Jordan received a number of contributions from political action committees and legislators during the last reporting period.

Among the PAC contributions were $3,000 from the Rural Electric Action Program, $1,810 from Southern Bell, $2,000 from Triangle Conservation and Recycling Committee, $6,025 from First Union, $1,100 from the Independent Insurance Agents of North Carolina and $2,400 from United Carolina Bank.

Legislators contributing included $550 from Sen. Dallas Alford, D-Nash; $375 from Rep. Allen Barbee, D-Nash; $1,500 from Rep. Gerald Anderson, D-Craven; $500 from Sen. Jim Edwards, D-Caldwell; and $1,500 from Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston.

Jordan also reported paying pollster Peter Hart a total of $22,692 for the year.

L&M Guarantees Generic Products

DURHAM (AP) — An unconditional product quality guarantee for generic and store brand cigarettes produced by Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. is the next initiative in a carefully planned strategy for growth in the generic market, a company official said.

The guarantee, which was announced Monday, will be extended to L&M's generic and store-bought cigarettes to ensure that the lower-priced cigarettes are made with the finest tobacco blends, said K.V. Dey, president of the Durham-based company.

Ingram Calls Off Hearings

RALEIGH (AP) — State Insurance Commissioner John Ingram has withdrawn his call for hearings to look into investments by insurance companies and instead will hold "individual informal conferences with the companies," his office said Monday.

Ingram said in a news release the industry had agreed to cooperate with his investigation of company investments.

In notices sent out last week, Ingram directed about 200 companies to show why their licenses to operate in North Carolina should not be revoked and their 1984-85 licenses not renewed.

The three-paragraph notices said the companies had made investments in bonds, common stock or preferred stock of affiliated companies that were "unreasonable, not according to law, contrary to public policy and of doubtful value."

John R. Jordan, a Raleigh attorney who is general counsel for Association of North Carolina Life Insurance Companies, said Monday that he had talked to Ingram on Friday and Monday and told him the industry "is just as interested as you are in having sound insurance companies."

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, NOV., 21, 1984

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is fine for investigating new interests that claim your attention. Later you will get results from studying how to better handle long-time activities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study into those new interests that are appealing, and gain more information about them and then complete any unfinished matters.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Discuss a new contact with an associate in the morning, and then work on a plan to change conditions around you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get started on that new work ahead of you and then discuss with co-workers how best to coordinate efforts.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Early make arrangements for amusements you like and then get into the one awaiting you.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) See what you can do to make utilities function better at home, then enjoy the new. Having well-known guests in later is good.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Morning brings missives that have to be answered quickly, so do just that, and later get right at your other work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can add to your income in a different fashion today, so latch on to this new method. Then handle business as usual.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Find some new ways to go after your aims and you will get better results. Include new friends in any social arrangements.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Go to see an advisor about some matter that is very vital to your happiness and welfare. The evening brings much pleasure.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A dynamic friend will try to get your cooperation for a plan that is important. Add a new friend to your present roster.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Early study better ways of making your interests go more smoothly, then tie up loose ends. A raise may be in the offing.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Some addition to your present mode of income can bring in more revenue in the near future. Avoid careless driving.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have the ability to get at the truth of any situation and will make a fine plan to carry through with any career work he or she likes. Give as fine an education along investigative lines as you can, but teach early not to let prejudice and pride get in the way.

Kinston Woman Charged In Shooting

SMITHFIELD, N.C. (AP) — A Johnston Technical College student was shot to death at the school on Monday morning, and a fellow student was charged with murder, a sheriff's detective said.

The victim, Clifford Taylor of Raleigh, 25, was rushed to Johnston Memorial Hospital where he died around 8:24 a.m., Eatman said.

Imogene Greta Lewis, 27, of Kinston, was charged with murder and was being held in Johnston County Jail, Kenneth Eatman of the Johnston County Sheriff's Department said.

The shooting occurred around 8:05 a.m. as a group of students at the truck-driving school were standing at the back of the building, Eatman said.

We often regret that we did not learn bridge until we were adults. At what age should you learn the game? The Board of Directors of the American Contract Bridge League once thought that if you taught it to high-schoolers, you would tempt them away from their studies. The Europeans have no such qualms, and the European Bridge League is presently planning a Bambino Championship for 1986, limited to players 15 and under.

How well can one expect these fledglings to perform? Better than many of us, if the standard at a recent Bambino tournament between Holland and Belgium is any guide. On this hand the youthful Dutch star, Ralph van der Vlught, all of 14 years old, became declarer at four hearts. He and his partner were using relatively sophisticated bidding methods. North's double was negative—a takeout for the unbid suits. Young Ralph did not hesitate about showing his meager hearts, and his partner optimistically bounced into game.

West led a club, and declarer could see that, since he had three trump losers, he would have to take the club finesse to get rid of his losing spade. So he inserted the queen and, when that won, he led a trump, losing to the king. West shifted to a spade. Declarer took the ace in dummy, cashed the club ace for a spade discard and led another trump. West won and persevered with spades, but declarer was in charge.

He ruffed the spade and started running his diamonds. East could ruff with the master trump any time he felt like doing so, but that would be the third and last trick for the defense.

Ex-Official Sentenced

SYLVA, N.C. (AP) — Former Jackson County commissioner Paul E. Cowan Jr., has been sentenced to six years in prison after pleading guilty to nine counts of embezzlement and 11 counts of obtaining money by false pretense.

Cowan, 38, was charged with embezzling $231,508 in insurance premiums from Jackson County in 1983. Cowan could have been sentenced to a maximum of 200 years in prison on the felony charges.

Cowan's wife, Lynda B. Cowan, 37, pleaded guilty under a plea bargain arrangement to 10 felony counts of obtaining money by false pretense. She was given a five-year suspended sentence, placed on probation for five years and ordered to pay $1,719 in restitution to people from whom she collected automobile insurance premiums.

Mrs. Cowan was charged with collecting the premiums in 1982 and 1983 and failing to turn them in to the insuring companies.

The Cowans were sentenced by Judge William T. Grist of Charlotte in a special Superior Court session convened just for that case.

Grist ordered Cowan to report to prison on Dec. 4.

Now on federal probation, Cowan was found guilty on July 28, 1981, of four felony counts of failing to report income on his federal tax return.

At that time, Cowan was ordered to pay a $20,000 fine along with all back taxes. He was given a five-year suspended sentence and placed on probation for five years.

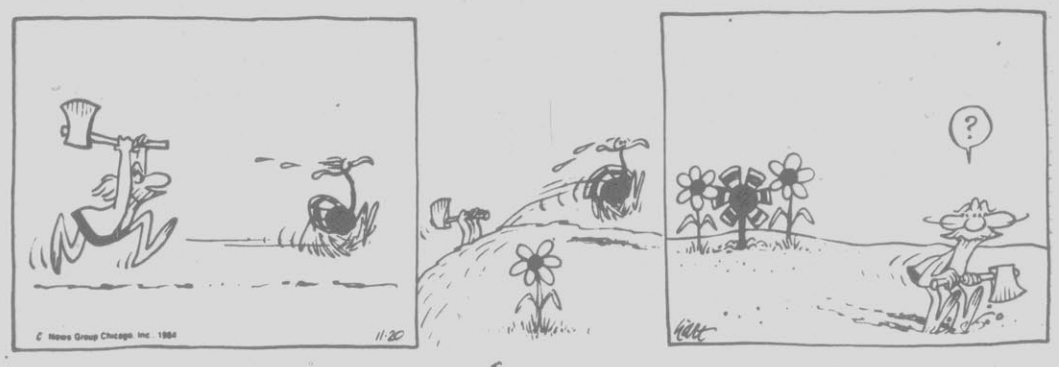

Cowan, the former chairman of the local Democratic Party, resigned from that post in 1983, shortly after commissioners requested an investigation of his insurance business. He lost his bid for re-election to the county commissioners in 1974.
