'All I Wanted Was One More Shot'

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Ed Emory, his eyes misty at times, said he wished East Carolina University the best of luck as he met the media this morning less than 24 hours after he had been informed he would not be retained as the school's football coach.

Emory said he still had no idea why he had been fired after five years at the helm of the Pirate program. He said he had been informed shortly after 3 p.m. Monday in the office of Athletic Director Ken Karr.

"I had an earlier meeting with Dr. Karr, but he called and postponed it until 3:10," Emory said. "When I got there Dr. (John) Howell (chancellor) was there with him and they said they had made the decision to change coaches."

"When I asked why, who initiated it, I got no answer."

"Three times I asked Dr. Karr if he had instigated it, and he only said he had supported the action. They gave me no other answer."

Emory, reading from a prepared statement before answering questions, said he felt he had done a good job in heading the program and was leaving it in better shape than he found it.

"We have the most quality players that we have ever had," Emory said. "I think that the constant improvement, the total commitment I have had to academics and recruiting, was the foundation of this program. You still win with people and I think East Carolina has fine people."

Emory said he thought the Pirates were on the verge of a great recruiting year and that things could only have been on the way up again.

"Sunday night I felt the best I have ever felt about our program," he said. "All I wanted was one more shot at it. If we had had the same kind of year we had this year, no one would have had to ask me to step down."

Emory said that, perhaps, he tried too hard.

"I don't understand it; I worked hard — that wasn't the answer. Not having total dedication is not the answer."

Emory said there were reports that he was unable to handle the players or his staff, and he vehemently denied this.

"We have 140 kids in the off-season weight program, and they haven't missed a day," Emory said. "We have the best dorm discipline we have ever had."

"I think it's strictly a personality conflict, and if I had the whos and whys, I could handle it better. You can be a failure on the job or a failure as a person. I don't think I've been a failure at either."

Emory said he had not considered the future.

"I haven't absorbed this yet," he said. "But I wish East Carolina all the luck in the world."

Flye Will Head Medical District Panel

Greenville resident Dick Flye was appointed to serve as chairman of the city's newly chartered Medical District Land Use Committee Monday in a special call session of the City Council.

Flye, manager of Carolina Telephone and Telegraph, will head up the nine-member committee that has been charged with researching, analyzing and formulating a proposal over a four- to six-month period for the orderly development of the 1,790-acre medical district surrounding Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

Serving with Flye on the committee will be Wayne Adams, local E.F. Hutton broker; Tom Baines, Daily Reflector staff writer; Charley Berkey and Dick McKee, both of Procter and Gamble; Janice Faulkner, director of the East Carolina University Regional Development Institute; Wes Hankins, of the ECU Geography Department; Dan Worthington of Norcott and Company Funeral Home, and Phil Dixon, local attorney.

According to city officials, members of the committee were selected from the community-at-large and represent a crosssection of Greenville's population who are dedicated to the planned and orderly growth of the city.

In researching and developing the Medical District Land Use Plan, the committee will address the following topics:

- Definition of the medical area, its reason for existence and boundaries of the area
- Current zoning, permitted uses, and objectional and desirable uses allowed within each zone
- The need for more or less medical arts zoning
- Missing uses within the district that would complement a regional medical center operation
- Current regulations for setback, maximum lot coverage and drive-ways
- How extension of U.S. 264 from Wilson to Greenville, construction of a northwestern loop of U.S. 264

bypassing the medical area and extension of Arlington Boulevard will affect the development of the area

- Existing utility services and identification of areas (if any) not already serviced that would be difficult to reach

- Storm drainage, extraterritorial boundaries and feasibility of conditional use permits for medical arts.

Committee members will also consider the history of current uses within the district, trends of development and anticipated district growth during the study.

The city of Greenville will provide staff assistance to the committee through the city manager, assistant city attorney, director of planning and community development, and director of engineering and inspections. Representatives from Pitt County Memorial Hospital, the ECU School of Medicine and district property owners will be utilized as resources.

Once the study is complete, committee recommendations will be passed on for review by the Greenville Planning Department and Commission before going to the City Council for final consideration.

FUEL ASSISTANCE

I understand that the Crisis Intervention Funds distributed by the Pitt County Department of Social Services to people who need assistance to keep warm this winter have been used up. Is this true and what's being done about it? L.W.

DSS Director Ed Garrison said the Crisis Intervention Funds — about $94,000 allocated in July — have almost been eliminated. A new application for additional ones has been made and notification should be received some time next week as to whether they'll be received.

Retired Professor Will Mark His 100th Birthday Tomorrow

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

East Carolina University Professor Emeritus Dr. E.L. Henderson will celebrate his 100th birthday Wednesday.

"I expect a few friends to celebrate with me," he said. "but it will be calm and quiet," he said. "It has to be because my wife, Sula, is very sick."

Dr. Henderson's health is good and he's preparing bedrooms for overnight visitors and greeting those who call or go by to wish him a happy birthday. He's recovering rapidly from a broken leg he sustained a couple of months ago when he was out selling tickets for the Shriners Fish Fry and is walking with a cane. He and round-the-clock caregivers, Bea Ennis and Lizzie O'Neal, tend to Mrs. Henderson, 97, who has been seriously ill for about four months.

He says he's a Texas farm boy who found academics more appealing than growing cotton as his extended family around Hillsboro, Texas, had done. He went to West Texas State Normal College and obtained a teacher's certificate, taught for a while, then went to the University of Texas at Austin where he obtained a B.A. degree. He and Mrs. Henderson, also an educator, met while in college. After they were married, he and the family journeyed to New York, where he obtained a master's degree and a doctorate at Columbia University.

School Board Says No Trip

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

A decision not to send anyone to the National School Boards Convention in San Francisco next spring was made by members of the Greenville Board of Education at its only December meeting Monday night.

The consensus of members was that, although it would be desirable to have two board members attend, funds in the budget are too limited to justify the expense, which is in the neighborhood of nearly $3,000.

The motion by member Jack Walls was not to send members to the convention, with member Frank Grooms asking for an amendment to have the motion include the reallocation of funds that would have been used for sending delegates to the national convention to be earmarked for staff development projects. Member Sue Zadeits pointed out that the annual school board convention in North Carolina provides very worthwhile sessions and was far less expensive. She suggested that any school board member who had never attended a state convention should think in terms of going to the next one.

Member Wilson Rhodes mentioned also the possibility of a couple of members attending a special one-day session to be held in Washington, D.C. on Jan. 11, 1985, which would entail only transportation costs by the board.

In a report on the results of the fall

1984 competency test given to first-time juniors and retests to seniors who failed the test as juniors. Director of Secondary Education Rebecca Oats informed the board that students at Rose High School have shown considerable improvement in test scores achieved in the span of five years.

In the category of reading, Rose juniors achieved a 95.2 percent in passing this year, identical to the statewide passing percentage and slightly higher than the 94.1 percent result for students in Region I which consists of eastern and northeastern North Carolina counties.

In previous years, the passing percentages in reading at Rose are: 1980, 92.2; 1981, 92; 1982, 91.9; and 1983, 91.3. In the math competency tests, the performance of Rose High juniors was even more impressive. This year, they scored a 95.2 passing percentage, which compares to a 93.8 percent statewide and 93.7 for Region I. This year's scoring also represents a significant upswing from 1983's 85.8 passing percentage. The results in math competency tests at Rose High in past years are: 1980, 89.6; 1981, 89; and 1982, 87.

The results of seniors who failed the two categories of testing last year and who took the tests a second time this year are: reading, 50 percent; and math 55.2 percent.

School Leaders Foresee Bright Future

By MARY C. SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

The year of 1984 was a time of intense self-examination for local school systems, educators say.

The proposed consolidation of the Pitt County and Greenville school systems heightened the process of self-examination by thrusting the core of each system into the spotlight for the public to scrutinize. It also caused those within the schools to take a hard look at both problems and programs.

Quality control, another influential educational concept in 1984, emerged in ideas like Pitt County's basic program of instruction and Greenville's Project Basic, both aimed at setting educational standards and maintaining them.

The discoveries that were made throughout the year will affect the way education functions in 1985, local educators say.

In a self-examination of the state of the art of education in their two school systems, Superintendent Delma Blinson of Greenville and Superintendent Eddie West of Pitt County said that, although successes and frustrations are abundant, they see a future brimming with potential.

Blinson says if county officials "can continue doing what we're doing — putting issues on the table to face them and find good solutions, a consolidated school system (in Pitt County) would be the best in the state."

"We are both good school systems," he said, "but each of us has weaknesses that need to be worked on. The potential here is as great as any (school system) in the state."

West said consolidation has been accepted in principle by both county and city school boards dependent on "initial allocation of monies for school construction and assurance by the County Commissioners that funds will be provided until school construction needs are met."

"It is a continuing issue which must be addressed until complete consolidation occurs," he said.

West sees the implementation of a basic program of instruction as Pitt County's crowning success in 1984, along with the system's participation in a school finance project that he says "will improve budgeting procedures in coming years."

Local funding was another success in 1984, he said. "The response of the (Pitt County) Commissioners to meet the capital outlay needs so that overcrowding and use of trailers in the Winterville and North Pitt areas could be eliminated I see as a big success," West said. There are still many funding needs in the county, though, he added.

Pitt County schools received $5,910,122 in current expense funds from the Pitt County Commissioners for 1984-85. The system also got $3,920,000 in capital outlay funds and another $3 million was placed in reserve for construction of a new elementary school under the terms of the proposed consolidation.

This is the final segment of a three-part series on the Pitt County and Greenville school systems.

In The Area

Thefts Reported

Greenville police are investigating four thefts reported to the department Monday.

According to Officer J.E. Fleming, an estimated $50 in change was taken from a coin operated machine at the Heritage Inn at 2710 S. Memorial Drive in an incident reported at 8 a.m. Officer J.G. Bridges said $40 in cash and eight wine glasses were taken from 206 Pineview Drive in a break-in reported at 3:10 p.m.

Officer D.W. Nichols said a purse containing $15 in cash was reported taken from 107 Pearl Drive at 9:42 p.m., while Officer C.A. Sharp said stereo equipment valued at $700, a television valued at $600 and other items were taken from 114A Ridge Place in a break-in reported at 9:43 p.m.

Drug Charges

Greenville police said three people have been arrested on charges of trafficking in cocaine by officers assigned to the department's special investigations section.

Investigators said Timothy Mark Jackson, 24, of Evans Trailer Park, and Ronnie Carson Evans, 30, of 30 Taylor Estates, were taken into custody Sunday night.

Sylvia Gay Stevenson, 24, of 602D Hooker Road, was arrested early Monday morning.

EAC Meeting

The Environmental Advisory Commission will meet at 5:30 p.m. Thursday in the first floor conference room of City Hall, corner of Fifth and Washington streets.

Christmas Program

Twenty young pianists, students of Mrs. Everett Pittman, will present a Christmas program Sunday at 1:30 p.m. at Cha-Rich Music Co.

Each student will play a classical selection and several will add Christmas songs.

Court Of Honor

Scout Troop No. 340 held its second Court of Honor of the year recently at St. James Methodist Church.

Leaders presented 13 skill awards and 12 merit badges. Scoutmaster Grady Mullis welcomed two new scouts, who were inducted into the troop. Upcoming trips were discussed.

REALTOR OF THE YEAR — Blanche Forbes, immediate past-president of the Greenville-Pitt County Board of Realtors, poses with Doris Mills, co-owner of Estate Realty Co., winner of the Realtor of the Year award presented at the board's annual Christmas dinner and officer installation program. Mrs. Forbes, a Realtor since 1969, was given the award in recognition of her "service, dedication and contributions" to the real estate profession and to the local board. Mrs. Mills is a member of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce, past secretary of the Board of Realtors, and past secretary of the local Women's Council of Realtors.

D.C. Trip Planned

Two students from Greenville Christian Academy will attend activities of the 50th presidential inauguration in Washington, D.C., as part of the Election '84 Youth Inaugural Conference.

Melissa Grace Quinn and Deborah Jo Williams will be among 400 young leaders attending the conference Jan. 17-18.

Woman Of The Year

Jean Hopper, president of the Women's Council of Realtors of the Greenville-Pitt County Board of Realtors, has been named "Woman of the Year" by the local organization.

Mrs. Hopper has been a member of WCR for six years and has held posts as 1983 treasurer and 1984 president. She will be president of the local chapter for 1985 in addition to serving as secretary of the state

JEAN HOPPER

Pastor Anniversary

Pastor anniversary services for the Rev. Elmer Jackson Jr. will be held Wednesday through Sunday at Sweet Hope Free Will Baptist Church.

Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., the sermon will be delivered by Bishop Stephen Jones, accompanied by his choir, ushers and congregation of Haddocks Chapel FWB Church.

On Thursday at 7:30 p.m., the Rev. Robert Phillips will preach, accompanied by his choir, ushers and congregation of Christ Chapel FWB Church.

The Friday sermon at 7:30 p.m. will be delivered by the Rev. Charles Parker and his choir, ushers and congregation of Cherry Lane FWB Church.

Sunday at 3 p.m., the Rev. Hue Walston will preach, accompanied by the choir, ushers and congregation of St. Peter FWB Church.

Meeting Canceled

The regular meeting of the Humane Society set for Wednesday has been canceled. The society will have a Christmas party Dec. 20 at 7 p.m. at the home of Bobbie and Tom Parsons for all active members and other interested persons.

Cox School Guests

Tom Trolley of Century 21-Bass Realty spoke recently to the eighth grade occupation classes at A.G. Cox School about his job as a real estate agent.

Mrs. Janice Killingsworth of Greenville Flower Shop recently gave a demonstration of Christmas arrangements and told the classes about a career as a florist.

Party Held

Approximately 110 kidney and dialysis patients and their guests attended a party sponsored by the Eastern Carolina chapter of the N.C. Kidney Foundation Sunday at the Gaskins-Leslie Building at Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

Linda Peele, chapter president, said patients from eight counties — Pitt, Lenoir, Craven, Beaufort, Edgecombe, Nash, Martin and Green — attended the annual affair and were entertained with music by The Wallace Family and Christmas records.

Each of the patients was given a gift by the chapter, and patients exchanged gifts among themselves, Mrs. Peele said.

She said the chapter has given each drivers license division office in the eight-county area a poinsettia in recognition of efforts by license examiners to encourage people to participate in the organ donor program.

Vigil Held

Approximately 25 people attended a vigil organized by the East Carolina University and Greenville Peace committees Monday to remember Catholic women slain in El Salvador four years ago.

Those attending lit candles, sang Christmas carols and observed a moment of silence in remembrance of the four women and to recognize the deaths of more than 40,000 Salvadorans who have been killed in Central America since 1979.

Uninformed Dentists Force Patients To Pay High Price

DEAR READERS: If you have dentures, skip this column. But if you still have your own teeth and want to keep them, you may be glad you read it:

DEAR ABBY: I am sitting here after work, emotionally drained and physically exhausted, but I must write this letter because so many people need to be educated. I am a dental hygienist who is currently seeing a flock of new patients because two elderly dentists in this community are no longer practicing. (One retired and the other one died.)

These patients had complete faith in their dentists only to come to us and find that it was in vain. They are victims of dentists who did not keep up with current dentistry.

Most of these patients saw their dentist regularly—twice a year for checkups and cleaning—some for 20 to 30 years! They loved their dentists and they can't believe it when they learn that they now have advanced periodontal (gum) disease! They can't understand why they were never told this before. I could tell them, but I don't want to be blackballed in this community should they decide to take legal action. So I will tell Dear Abby, and hope that you tell them:

These dentists were trained in an era of dentistry that did not understand periodontal disease, and they haven't learned anything since.

Dentures were something that were expected by most older people in the 1920s through the 1950s.

Today we know that gum disease is a bacterial infection caused by plaque—the same bacteria that cause decay. The plaque hardens into calculus (tartar) if it is not removed. The usual place of calculus formation is at the gum line, and it eventually extends beneath the gum, if not removed. It is beneath the gum that calculus does the most damage, for here it attacks the bone that supports the teeth. The bone slowly "dissolves" itself to get away from the irritating calculus. It takes years before the teeth will loosen—and eventually be lost.

More often than not, the patients I see have no calculus visible when looking in their mouths. Their former dentist removed what he could see, but left the calculus under the gums, allowing the disease to continue. He either was unaware that it was there because he failed to keep up with modern dental education, or he was unwilling to change and felt that curing periodontal disease is "modern hogwash." Consequently, the majority of his patients are suffering from advanced gum disease.

Periodontal disease is usually not painful until the final stages. However, there are warning signs. There are several stages—and all are curable until one reaches the most advanced stage.

Only a competent dentist is able to tell you what stage you are in and what treatment is needed. Usually all that is needed in the beginning stages is a thorough cleaning and a good home-care program.

The symptoms to look for are: red and swollen gums; bleeding when one brushes (healthy gums never bleed); a bad taste or odor from the mouth.

In the advanced stages, the bleeding stops because the gums have formed a type of scar tissue around the tooth. (If you've had bleeding for years, and then it stops, it doesn't necessarily mean the problem has gone away.)

Abby, I know this is very long, but the public needs to know the whole story. Let me say that not all older dentists are uninformed, but the vast majority have not kept up with the times, and their unsuspecting patients pay a terrible price.

I hope you deem this important enough to print. I'm signing my name if you want to check me out, but I prefer to remain anonymous for obvious reasons.

Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 (this includes postage) to: Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

DEAR ABBY: We were childhood sweethearts for six years. Many efforts were made by our parents to split up the Lutheran minister's daughter and her Catholic boyfriend, but we fought against it. I was drafted in 1951. Absence did not make the heart grow fonder. In 1953 she married someone else, and so did I. We both left our hometown and lost track of each other.

Thirty-two years later we met at a class reunion. Both of us were unescorted. We took one look at each other and knew the flame of love was still burning. The problem: We both have been married (happily) for over 30 years and have families, but we can't deny these super strong feelings we have for each other. At first we thought it was only "curiosity" because we had never had sex during our six-year courtship. But now that we have, it's serious, and is threatening our respective marriages.

We live a thousand miles apart and could see each other only once or twice a year. What has happened to us? And what are we going to do about it?

REKINDLED THE FLAME

DEAR REKINDLED: What has happened to you has happened to many others. Fate presented the perfect opportunity to consummate an unfertilized romance and you yielded.

You say that you are both happily married with families,

TIME CHANGE

The meeting of Withla Council Degree of Pochantas will start tonight at 7:30.

Homes Tour Set For Sunday In Washington

WASHINGTON, N.C. — The fourth annual Old House Christmas Tour will be held Sunday from 1-5 p.m. Five historic houses will be highlighted by the East Main Street Neighborhood Association.

The tour will begin at the Jarvis House, 712 E. Main St., an early 20th century townhouse and will include an 1892 Victorian home, the McKeel House, the Diamond House, completed in 1902, and the Griffin House, one of the five remaining Federal houses in Washington.

The 1890 Frank A. Moss House will be opened where refreshments will be served.

The East Main Street Neighborhood is listed in the National Register of Historic Places. Tickets for the tour are $2 per person and may be purchased at the first house on the day of the tour.

Officers To Be Installed Jan. 16

New officers of the Pitt County Republican Women's Club will be installed Jan. 16.

Named were: Laura Brown, president; Gabriela Olivera, vice president; Lib Phillips, treasurer; and Sallie Keel, secretary.

Visitors for the recent meeting were Lisa Engelhard, Betty Berryhill, Helen Froatz, Peggy Cox and Bobbie Ware.

Visitors are welcome to attend the luncheon/meetings. For information contact Ms. Keel at 757-0179.

Sorority Has Recent Auction

The Alpha Nu Chapter of North Carolina Alpha Delta Kappa held its meeting recently at the Ramada Inn. An auction was held to help with altruistic projects.

President Faye Fempsey welcomed members' husbands as special guests. Lee Brickhouse gave the devotional. Entertainment was provided by Vickie Dixon accompanied by Shirley Hardee.

Bridge Winners

Mrs. J.W.H. Roberts and Mrs. Lacy Harrell were first place winners in the Wednesday afternoon game played at Planters Bank. Their percentage was 610.

Others placing were Mrs. Eli Bloom and Mrs. M.H. Bynum, second; and Mrs. J.S. Rhodes Jr. and Mrs. Roger Critcher Jr., third.

East-West: Mrs. Wiley Corbett and Charlie Brown, first with .587 percent; Mrs. Robert Barnhill and Mrs. E.J. Poindexter, second; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Webb, third.

Saturday afternoon winners, North-South were: Sara Bradbury and Dr. Charles Duffy, first with .622 percent; Mrs. W.R. Harris and Mrs. J.M. Horton, second; Mrs. Chris Langley and Ed Yauck, third; Mrs. Lacy Harrell and Mrs. J.W.H. Roberts, fourth.

East-West: Mrs. William McConnell and Dave Proctor, first with .587 percent; Effie Williams Mrs. Harold Forbes, second; Joyce Lamm and Mrs. Robert Barnhill, third; Mrs. Clifton Toler and Ethel Linton, fourth.

Bridal Policy

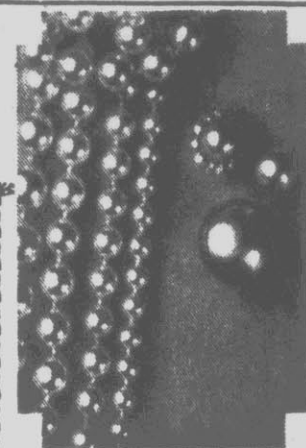

A black and white glossy five by seven photograph is requested for engagement announcements in The Daily Reflector. For publication in a Sunday edition, the information must be submitted by 12 noon on the preceding Wednesday. Engagement pictures must be released at least three weeks prior to the wedding date. After three weeks, only an announcement will be printed.

Wedding write-ups will be printed through the first week with a one column picture. During the second week, a one column picture will be used with a write-up giving less description and after the second week, just as an announcement.

Wedding forms and pictures should be returned to The Daily Reflector one week prior to the date of the wedding. All information should be typed or written neatly.

The Ancients claimed that the god Vishnu searched the depths of the sea for a pearl to adorn his daughter on her wedding day. Since pearls were considered carriers of love, happiness and good fortune, this was indeed an appropriate gift.

Of course, even without magical powers, pearls are an excellent choice for a bride. On this special day she wants to look her best, and nothing is as flattering as the pearl's unique glow.

Forgotten

Buried gasoline and fuel tanks are becoming something of a menace across the country at large and in North Carolina in particular.

There are thousands of them in our state alone and as many as 5 million tanks, we're told, may be in the ground countrywide. Nobody knows the actual number.

Gas stations are credited with putting in a larger share of the storage tanks underground; collectively, more were buried by small oil companies, delivery firms, convenience stores and individual homeowners.

In North Carolina the Scotland County area has already experienced more reported contamination from those tanks than most ... 44 wells since March 1983. Contamination of ground water supplies comes from leaks developing in a corroded tank or connection. The scenario is devastating.

Once a quantity of gasoline gets into the groundwater it can linger for years and cleanup is said next to impossible. The contamination is a nationwide process.

The state Department of Natural Resources and Community Development tells us in many cases the source of fuel leakage could be traced to an underground tank or leaking pipe at a service station or convenience store. They say New York state found service station owners often let up to 25 gallons a day leak before replacing a tank ... which means thousands of gallons of gas a year from one tank.

In North Carolina, the N.C. Service Station Association says there were 114,690 full-service gas stations in the country in 1982. A year later, 9,120 had closed. There's not much evidence their underground tanks were removed ... just forgotten. Perhaps some gasoline was not retrieved.

One can see how across the country gasoline seepage from abandoned tanks could be a very large threat to purity of our groundwater; and there are presumably many thousands of "forgotten" buried tanks in our state alone.

We have no answers to the problem. We know it exists.

People placed them in selected sites and we are reasonably sure there are agencies responsible for safeguarding our natural resources. Somehow they must get their acts together. They have a lot of catching-up to do.

Control

The Pentagon says it is making an effort to stop the purchasing of what is called "gold plated items" such as $435 hammers and $7,600 coffeemakers.

To prove it, there is now an assistant secretary of defense for spares program management. Maurice Shriber, who holds the post, says it is his job to show Congress and the public that "we do have a plan and we know what we're doing."

If the assistant secretary makes any progress in the war against wasteful military purchasing we will be the first to sing his praises. He should be forewarned that he faces an age-old problem. From the days of World War II stories about military waste and wanton abandonment of military parts. Stories have developed through the years about gross overpayment for parts and supplies. So far no one seems to have been able to get it under control, but certainly it should be. Maybe the post of assistant secretary of defense for spares program management will be the answer.

One Lamp To Guide Your Feet

WASHINGTON — We read so much about the plight of our elementary and secondary schools — notably, this week, in Chicago — that it comes almost as a novelty to read a report on our colleges and universities instead. But it was a most disturbing novelty that came a few days ago from William J. Bennett, director of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

This was the thrust of his report: College students, for the most part, are not learning the humanities properly; and this is partly because our colleges are teaching the humanities so poorly. As a consequence, many of our best and brightest young minds are setting forth on their careers with no understanding of where Western civilization has been. How can they know where to go?

By the humanities, we mean the study of history, literature, philosophy, ethics and languages. Bennett's study group, on whom he relied for his report, was not concerned with mathematics or with the sciences. Members of the group did not minimize the importance of these other disciplines; a well-educated person of course would have at least a nodding acquaintance with the physical and natural sciences.

The group's interest was confined strictly to what used to be termed "the liberal arts." Members found a condition approaching disaster.

Many of our institutions of higher learning, said Bennett, have lost a clear sense of the importance of the humanities. The courses that once constituted the very core of a college curriculum now tend to be assigned to second-rate professors or to inexperienced instructors. In roughly three out of four American universities, a student can obtain a bachelor's degree without ever having studied European history, American history or American literature. In 1966 nearly 90 percent of the institutions required some study of a foreign language; fewer than half of them have such a requirement today.

Why has this happened? Many college presidents and provosts have suffered "a failure of nerve and faith." They have no clear vision of the purpose of education, which is not merely to prepare students for a job but to prepare them for the total business of living in the Western world. The purpose is to prepare men and women to grapple with life's enduring, fundamental questions:

"What is justice? What should be loved? What deserves to be defended? What is courage? What is noble? What is base? Why do civilizations flourish? Why do they decline?"

One who teaches at the university level must have an advanced degree. Too often, says Bennett, our graduate schools produce narrow specialists whose teaching is "lifeless, stilted and pedestrian." Professors are more interested in doing research and publishing their papers than in teaching undergraduates. Unless graduate schools re-examine their priorities, "much of our teaching will remain mediocre and our students indifferent."

It is not surprising that the back-of-the-hand treatment of humanities in our colleges has slapped our high schools as well. Bennett met recently with 70 high school student leaders, all of them excellent students, coming from all over the country. "When I asked how many had HEARD of the long supported the repeal of the food tax recently asked this reporter, "Why's he want to repeal the food tax first. It doesn't make any sense."

Confused as all these people may be about Martin's plans, one thing became clear from a recent one hour interview with the next governor: Martin is serious about repealing the food tax.

"I made a political commitment to repeal the food tax which I will not take lightly," Martin said. "I'm serious about it and that's why I proposed it."

In addition to the food tax, Martin also wants to phase out the intangibles tax — a tax on property such as bank accounts, stocks and bonds — and the inventory tax. Repeal of those two taxes has long been championed by Martin's conservative supporters.

But in Martin's schedule of tax repeals, the food tax would go first. He hopes the tax could be dropped on January 1, 1986. Why the food tax first?

"I'm convinced that we can afford to do it. If we don't we'll have to spend that money and it might get built into the budget so we can't afford to repeal it later," Martin said.

"Repeal of the food tax is part of a balanced package, as I see it," he continued. "Originally, the only concept of the inventory and intangibles taxes was that of a business package, although now people are seeing those as anti-jobs taxes. But I still think it is in the business and jobs area and it doesn't help people who already have jobs."

"Adding the food tax repeal helps to balance the package for people who are not looking for jobs, for senior citizens and for low income people," he said. Given that he wants to repeal all three taxes, he says the food tax is the easiest to stop collecting from an administrative point of view.

Martin has encountered some opposition from legislators who feel the food tax is the one tax that the poor pay. To keep the poor contributing to government, the tax should be continued, they say.

Martin disputes this. "The poor pay other sales taxes and, indirectly, they pay property tax through their rent."

Martin thinks he's got an excellent chance of winning food tax repeal. "I think it will be very difficult for the Democratic Party leadership to drop one of their age old initiatives and let the Republicans pick it up." As for members of his own party, he says they're waiting to see how he's going to balance the budget with all these tax cuts.

"I'm very pleased that the leaders of the General Assembly ... and members of the Republican Party are taking a wait and see attitude. They want to see how I'm going to do it."

Martin comes to office with a political goal in mind also. He wants to build the GOP in North Carolina. For years, Republicans have been trying to convince the poor that they'll fare better under the GOP's low tax, small government policies. If Jim Martin can lead the fight for food tax repeal, he'll have one good example of that argument to present to the voters come next Election Day.

A Head-Scratching Proposition

Behind The Scenes Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unusual behind-the-scenes battle is shaping up in the Senate between Democrats George J. Mitchell of Maine and J. Bennett Johnston of Louisiana to succeed Lloyd Bentsen of Texas as chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee.

The committee is charged with helping Democratic Senate candidates, incumbents as well as challengers, get elected. It raises money and provides various other forms of campaign assistance.

The post is a crucial one, because Democrats have a good shot at regaining the Senate in 1986. Not only do parties out of power pick up seats in mid-term elections, but Republicans will have 22 seats to defend in the next election, compared to 12 Democratic seats. Republicans now command a slim 53-47 seat majority.

Bentsen, who has had the job for two years, has indicated he does not want to do it again.

What makes the fight different from most races is that the post is not elective, but appointive, and Senate Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., indicated that he plans to appoint Mitchell to the post.

However, now Byrd himself is being challenged for his No. 1 party job by Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., opening up the whole process. Johnston has hinted that he may seek a vote at a closed caucus of Senate Democrats on Wednesday on whether he or Mitchell should get the post.

Meanwhile, Byrd says he has no intentions to back off his pledge to give the job to Mitchell. "I told Sen. Mitchell I would appoint him. I told Sen. Johnston I would stick to my commitment," Byrd said.

Since party caucuses are almost always held behind closed doors, reporters are forced to wait outside and interview members as they emerge to get a picture of what happened inside.

But members don't always have accurate recollections of what transpired, and multiple accounts of the same meeting are commonplace.

Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., is one House member who doesn't exhibit much reluctance to talk to reporters after such sessions. But the information he supplies isn't always useful.

For instance, at last week's House Democratic Caucus, Frank was asked whether Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, who hours before had withdrawn a short-lived challenge to Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. for the job of House speaker, had spoken.

He had, Frank confirmed, "but I wouldn't want to exaggerate my attention span."

The next day, Rep. Geraldine Ferraro, D-N.Y., who gave up her House seat to run for vice president, addressed the caucus in what other members described as an emotional farewell. What did she say? "I really wasn't listening closely," Frank said.

Meanwhile, Chiles said one reason he is mounting a challenge for the Senate Democratic leadership is so that Democrats will have someone who can hold his own against the newly chosen Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan.

Chiles said that Dole is a strong speaker, an aggressive leader and one who can serve as an effective public spokesman for his party.

"If he had a sense of humor, the guy would be very, very strong," Chiles added.

Retiring Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., says whether he runs for president or not in 1988, there's one job he's always wanted but never had.

"I've always wanted to be a professional photographer," he told a gathering in his honor thrown by photographers who cover the nation's capital.

A veteran photographer who has covered Washington for decades, George Tames of The New York Times, responded: "I've always wanted to run for public office and someday become a U.S. senator."

"Well, George, you're not too old to start," Baker said.

Strength For Today

Some people regard religion strictly as their own personal possession. They gather it into their hearts, lock the door, and praise the Lord for the fine understanding which exists between Him and themselves. For them, religion is a personal matter.

But religion concerns our neighbors as well as ourselves. We are to love God, but we are also to love our neighbor as ourselves.

This latter responsibility has sometimes been termed social service. Christianity starts with the individual. It takes in the family, the community, the nation and finally the world. The person who thinks of his religion only in connection with his own salvation and earthly benefit is not a Christian in the truest sense of the word. His thoughts must go out to others.

There is more to Christianity than social service; but there is no religion without social service.

Ayden Board OKs Fee For Refuse Pickup

By MARY C. SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer
AYDEN — The Town Board of Commissioners has approved a refuse container ordinance that requires each business being served by the town to pay at least $3 for sanitation service per week.

At its monthly meeting Monday, the board adopted the following weekly fee schedule for garbage service for the town's merchants: one refuse container and one garbage pickup per week, $8; one container and two pickups per week, $16; two containers and two pickups, $30. The schedule also requires that each merchant sharing the cost of a container pay at least $3 per week for service.

The town is purchasing a number of dumpster containers and installing them in business areas, say town officials, to keep the town cleaner and to provide more efficient handling of refuse.

The ordinance also set the following prices for roll-out container service: one container and one pickup per week, $3; one container and two pickups per week, $5; two containers and two pickups per week, $6, and two containers and three pickups per week, $9. The ordinance also mandates that concrete pads for the dumpster containers be constructed with the merchants paying the cost of concrete and the town providing the labor cost.

Recreation Commission Chairman Joey Pollack, in a year-end summary report to the commissioners on the Recreation Department's activities for the year, said the department's programs impacted on 30,000 participants throughout the year. "This figure includes each person that attended each event, each practice, etc., and reflects duplication of persons, obviously," Pollack said. "We think this impact figure is a significant one, though, and we think our record is an impressive one."

Pollack said the year-end summary was prompted by negative comments about the commission and the department's functions. The report, Pollack said, "illustrates that our community has and continues to enjoy a recreation program second to none and superior to those of many communities of equivalent size or larger."

Highlights of the year, according to the report, include:

•Basketball: a six-team men's adult basketball league, a six-team pee wee league basketball league, a six-team boys' and girls' midget basketball league and a women's free play program, a four-team boys' and a one-team girls' junior basketball league.

•Soccer: 16 sessions of youth soccer in the spring and a midget soccer team in the fall.

•Baseball: bambino league featuring four teams; junior Babe Ruth team that participated in the county's eight-team league; senior Babe Ruth, one team that participated in a six-team league southern division; May-Day-In-The-Park.

•Football: four local teams; cheerleading, one squad for each youth football team.

•Arts and Crafts: morning and afternoon sessions open to preschool children and children entering grades 1-4; movies shown Tuesdays in conjunction with Ayden Library; skating Thursdays at Sportsworld.

•Gymnasium activities: morning, afternoon and special sessions for youths and adult session.

•In addition, Pollack said the Recreation Department sponsored groups such as the Ayden-Grifton Theater Workshop and activities such as the local St. Jude's and Kiwanis leukemia bike-a-thons.

Pollack said the department has had programs and classes, particularly for adults, canceled during the year due to lack of participation. "Classes that we co-sponsor with Pitt Community College we have to have eight individuals sign up for and we have not always had enough," he said. "We will be working on this in the future."

Hotline

In the meantime, the DSS is referring those showing up with utilities cut-off notices, overdue oil bills and the like to the Salvation Army, Church Ministries United, Pandora's Box, and other churches and individuals who have shown willingness to help the poor in crisis.

Another fund that will soon become available for administration through the DSS is the Emergency Food and Shelter Fund being administered through the Pitt County United Fund, as mandated by the federal funding bill which brought the fund into existence. The United Fund has a board which has administered this fund and allocated $11,785 to be distributed through Pitt County Social Services and the remainder through the local Salvation Army and St. Gabriel's Church Soup Kitchen.

Those wishing to assist personally should contact Church Ministries United, 758-7161, or other organizations which undertake fuel assistance.

Garrison acknowledged the spirit of cooperation that exists among agencies in this community as they all band together to help those who need help.

Schools ...

The regional and statewide recognition of many of Pitt's personnel "is a shining star" of 1984," West said. "This speaks to their character and skills."

Blinson said "the biggest shining success of the year is that the kids are doing well any way you want to cut it."

"Test scores are up, graduates are going to work and kids are going on to college," he said. "That indicates success to me annually."

Greenville's superintendent said he feels another success for 1984 is that "some of the critical issues (in education) that need attention are getting faced." Because of this, he sees increased involvement at both the school and community levels.

Another success, Blinson said, is the trend toward improved salaries for teachers. "We're beginning to take a look at what good teaching is and realized that teachers can be rewarded for being good teachers," he said.

West said Pitt County's problems with overcrowding in the Winterville and Belvoir areas have been a continuing frustration in 1984. "The additional growth in student population in areas that are already overcrowded is a concern," he said. "Pressure from increasing student population can impede delivery of services to children if steps are not taken." West said at least three new areas of development in the Winterville district are currently concerning school officials.

"These attendance areas will continue to be overcrowded until the initial phases of school construction related to consolidation are complete," West said.

Another frustration in 1984, Pitt's superintendent noted, is the need for leadership opportunities for the system's students. "We need some programs that can provide secondary attributes and skills that will allow students to compete successfully after high school," he said. "They need to be able to better compete for scholarships, jobs, etc."

A task force is currently working on a plan for expanded guidance services, he noted, and will present its recommendations in February 1985. The result, West suggested, will likely be a master guidance plan for the county.

For the city school system, 1984 was another year fraught with funding frustrations, Blinson said. The year's financial doubts, he said, were part of a continuing trend not a unique frustration. "The (Pitt County) Commissioners have done everything that could be done in terms of funding," he said, "but the way the system is operating in terms of the way the schools are financed has created handicaps they (commissioners) couldn't overcome."

The inflation of a few years ago has not released its grip on schools, Blinson said. "Demands and expectations have grown dramatically in terms of services and revenues have increased but not in proportion," he said. "Schools have been hurt as costs went up and when inflation went down revenues shrunk." This trend continued in 1984, he said.

Greenville received $2,653,613 in current expense and $172,795 in capital outlay funds for 1984-85. These monies, according to the county manager's office, represent an increment of 64 percent of each tax dollar. In other words, 64 cents of each taxpayer's dollar goes toward the public school systems in the county.

The dilemma of funding public education, locally and statewide, Blinson said, "is on a collision course." "Public education will not survive another 20 years without reforms in funding," he said. "The question of just what we (school systems) are responsible for and where the dollars are going to come from must be re-examined." The trend to shift funding responsibility from state to local agencies has been hard on financiers and schools, Blinson said.

Another frustration in 1984, according to Greenville's superintendent, is that "we've still got some kids slipping through the cracks."

"We have not done as much as we should be doing for some kids who have special needs," he said. Dropouts are an example, he noted.

"We know the cracks are there, he know how we can close them but because of time and money we can't."

ECU Offers Italian Plan

Program of summer study in Italy will be offered by East Carolina University from May 12-June 18, 1985, through a cooperative arrangement with the Università degli Studi di Ferrara. The program, based in Ferrara, will include brief periods in Milan, Florence, Rome and Venice.

Two courses, each carrying three credit hours will be taught, one focusing on fine arts and one on social sciences. Instructors will be Geraldine Laudati of the ECU music faculty and Dr. Ennis Chestang of the ECU geography faculty. Program directors and professors from the University of Ferrara and other universities. Students will also take daily classes in conversational Italian.

Cost of the program, including lodging, daily main meal, language instruction, field trip fees and travel within Italy is $500. Also charged will be regular tuition and fee costs for an ECU summer session ($162 for North Carolina residents and $730 for non-residents). Students will also be expected to pay costs of air fare to and from Italy, passports, personal expenses and light meals.

Enrollment in the program is limited and applicants will be interviewed by Ms. Laudati and Chestang. Although sponsored by ECU's College of Arts and Sciences, the program is not limited to ECU students only; however, applicants from other institutions must apply for visiting student status.

MERRY CHRISTMAS — Santa Claus waves to people watching the Christmas parade in Bethel Monday afternoon. The parade, first scheduled for last week, said. "I never took a course I didn't like. Well maybe there was one — I had a German course one time with an instructor who didn't know her German. I didn't enjoy that very much."

"My wife loved learning, too. We have a good library and enjoyed it. Now, though, I can't read. My vision's been too bad now for about 15 years."

"My wife was a marvelous teacher. She didn't teach after we came to Greenville, except one summer when she filled in a student teacher program, but the little children in Texas used to love her so and learn so much from her. She could tell the best stories — just hold those children spellbound."

"I can honestly say my wife and I never had a quarrel. We always discussed every decision about everything from money to raising children. We took some marvelous trips together. When she was 90 years old, she drove us out to Texas for a visit."

The Hendersons had two children — Kenneth Lane Henderson and Dorothy Nell Westfall Kenneth, who aspired to be a medical doctor, was killed in the Normandy Invasion. Mrs. Westfall lives in Harrisville, W. Va. There are four grandchildren in four distant places and two great-grandchildren, including a great granddaughter born just a week or so ago.

Besides their son's death, probably the most trying experience of the Hendersons' life was Dr. Henderson's dismissal from the East Carolina faculty 13 days before he was due to retire. He was accused of "disloyalty to the administration." The dismissal came shortly before the college president, Dr. Leon Meadows, was indicted and later convicted and imprisoned on embezzlement charges. Henderson and his supporters believe that Meadows must have thought that Henderson knew about his illegal activities, but he maintains that he did not, that he liked and believed in the man.

Only in 1981 did someone on campus remember him. Someone researching the history of the college reviewed the Meadows situation, saw what looked like the unjust dismissal of Dr. Henderson and called it to the attention of Chancellor John Howell and others in the administration. Dr. Howell and Education Dean Charles Coble made a special visit to Dr. Henderson's house to present him a certificate as professor emeritus and acknowledgement of his contribution to the university he served well 21 years.

Tomorrow morning friends in the ECU School of Education will hold a birthday party at his home. And tomorrow night at the S.J. Waters home, a reception will be held in his honor. "These people are wonderful friends," Dr. Henderson said. "I've had good hunting and fishing buddies, good friends all through the years. Some of them dropped away when I fell into disgrace, but I guess they either weren't friends after all or they just couldn't be expected to know the whole truth. A lot stood by me, though, and I'm thankful for them, and thankful for the ones who've changed their minds and written to me or came here to tell me so. Some did that after that presentation a couple of years ago. Time heals a lot of pain and that presentation meant more to me and Mrs. Henderson than the presenters will ever know."

No Smoking

LONDON (AP) — London Transport says it will ban cigarette smoking in its subway stations early next year, partly as a result of a fire at one of its underground stations.

The move followed its ban on smoking in subway trains July 9. No exact date for the new ban was given.

Achievements Listed

The Pitt Soil and Water Conservation District has announced statewide districts' achievements during the past year. Following the theme "Soil and Water '84 — Yours for Life," North Carolina's Soil and Water Conservation districts sponsored a number of events throughout the year on the importance of soil and water conservation.

In January, Gov. James B. Hunt proclaimed 1984 the "Year of Soil and Water Conservation in North Carolina" at the annual meeting of the N.C. Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts held in Charlotte.

After that meeting, district supervisors developed ideas that would result in a successful information program. Bumper stickers, conservation tours, public service announcements, educational programs and speakers for local organizations were used to inform the public about the benefits that come from conservation of our soil and water.

According to the local district, one of the most successful projects sponsored by the state association was a Soil and Water Coastal Exposition and Field Day held in Kinston on Sept. 13. Exhibits were featured on the most innovative techniques in soil conservation and erosion control, water, waste and forestry management.

The highlight of "Soil and Water '84" was Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham's announcement that the theme of the 1984 State Fair would be "Conservation — Our Agricultural Heritage."

In addition, Graham donated the use of the large geodesic dome located at the state fairground for use as an exhibit by the state association.

Two budget amendments were approved. Amendment No. 4 to the current expense fund represents an increase of $45,302 from the following sources: East Carolina University, $42,280; Pitt Community College, $4,752; fund balance appropriation, $3,394; and State high school textbooks, $2,286. One decrease is included in the amendment, a minus $7,412 figure from the Pitt County schools in the math science program.

Budget amendment No. 2 in the School Food Service is for an increase of $9,675 in business support, a USDA regular grant for the purchase of equipment for fire suppression systems.

School policy J.H.A. Noncurriculum-Related Student Groups, was approved on a second reading. The policy outlines rules applicable to such groups, and includes stipulations that no public funds may be used on behalf of student groups covered by the policy other than the incidental cost of providing space for meetings; approval from the principal for students seeking to establish a voluntary noncurricular group; and meetings of such groups shall not interfere with educational activities of the school and shall be open to all students.

The policy is designed to apply to high schools only.

Approval was given to adding Northwestern Security Life to the list of companies authorized to enter into tax sheltered annuity contracts for school employees.

Two proposed field trips for students at J.H. Rose High School were approved. One is the annual trip by Spanish students to Europe — this school year for about 12 students and two teachers for a trip beginning April 4 and ending April 13 with visits to London and Madrid. Authorization was also given for two days of school to be missed for those taking part. The second trip is a three-day, two-night trip planned by about 20 students to travel to New York during the Easter vacation week to attend a fashion and merchandising show, with no school days to be missed.

In executive session, the board approved the election of two teachers, the resignation of four, maternity leave for one, and the reassignment of one.

Family Farm Group Proposes Leaf Changes

By TOM MINEHART
Associated Press Writer

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The federal tobacco program should be replaced with a program that helps farmers switch to other crops, says a Pittsboro-based group dedicated to preserving the family farm.

But a state tobacco expert says he doesn't think the plan would work and that it might even be unconstitutional.

"Uncertain Harvest," which was to be released by the private, non-profit Rural Advancement Fund at a Raleigh news conference today, also blames the accelerating loss of North Carolina family farms on public policies that favor large corporate farms.

"So often what you hear is that family farmers are going out of business because they are not efficient," said co-author Hope Shand, the organization's research director. "One of the main purposes of the report is to show that very powerful forces ... are working to put family farmers out of business."

Ms. Shand said federal tax policies enable corporate farmers to keep operating even when they lose money, while family farmers fail despite studies showing small, fully mechanized farms can be more efficient.

The report, which also focuses on poultry, hogs and dairy farms, concludes that lawmakers must help the tobacco farmer diversify.

"The handwriting is on the wall," it says. "The federal tobacco program is on the verge of collapse, and the small tobacco farmer is going down first. ... Neither blind allegiance to tobacco nor ill-conceived attacks on tobacco will do anything to support the intended beneficiaries of the tobacco program — the small family farmer."

The report calls for the creation of a new federal-state "Commodity Transition Program" that would buy non-producers' quotas and redistribute them to growers. Farmers could not sell their quota to each other, but some quota would be set aside for beginning farmers. A ceiling would be set on the number of pounds of tobacco each farmer could sell at auction.

"The system would be designed to guarantee a fair price for the farmers' leaf and to keep tobacco production in the hands of small and medium size producers," the report says. "This system would also encourage farmers to diversify because tobacco income — though stable — would be limited."

The size of the national tobacco crop would be predetermined on the basis of contracts with tobacco manufacturers, who would be required to use a certain percentage of domestic leaf. The program could be funded through additional taxes on cigarettes.

The transition program would also encourage crop diversity through tax credits, low-interest loans and research funding.

"It doesn't sound like anything that would be workable," said John Cyrus, chief of tobacco affairs for the state Department of Agriculture. "There really is no basis to require that allotment holders sell. That's a long way from our free enterprise type of government. ... It might be a conflict with the Constitution to require them to sell. They can sell on a volunteer basis now."

Cyrus said he also opposed increasing cigarette taxes to fund the program. But he agreed that the current tobacco program is in trouble.

"Farmers are not going to be able to bear the cost of the no-net-cost program," he said. "Unless changes are made early next year and we see a rollback in the price support, you can kiss the tobacco program goodbye."

Here's what the RAF said about other major commodities in North Carolina:

— Poultry: The report says there are virtually no more independent poultry farmers in North Carolina and that producers "have reduced the real status of contract growers to something less than company employees."

Under the contract, the state's 2,300 broiler growers provide the labor, land, buildings and equipment and agree to let the "integrator" make all the decisions and set the price they will receive, the RAF says.

The report calls for representation of growers — not just integrators — on the state Board of Agriculture, and for laws to ensure the corporations pay the growers promptly.

— Hogs: The report says North Carolina has lost 43 percent of its hog farmers over the past five years, largely because federal tax policies favor large hog farms as tax shelters. The RAF calls for restricting such tax breaks.

— Dairy: The RAF says the state has lost 75 percent of its dairy farms in the last 30 years as one giant regional cooperative, aided by tax breaks and unhampered by anti-trust laws, has come to dominate the milk market. The report calls for a stronger state Milk Commission to regulate the industry and for a fresh look at anti-trust exemptions for co-ops.

"We hope the report will stimulate dialogue and create more interest in the problems confronting family farmers in North Carolina among consumers and also among public policymakers and elected officials," said Ms. Shand.

The report, funded by a $25,000 grant from the Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation, took about a year to research and prepare, she said.

EARLY ARRIVAL — A police officer checks out the scene inside the W.H. Smith store in the Kingsway section of London early Monday after this auto left the street and crashed into the store. A passenger and a girl in the shop were taken to a hospital for treatment of cuts, but officials said there were no serious injuries. The driver, perhaps following the lead of the sign over the car to "please pay here," was scheduled for a court appearance. (AP Laserphoto)

Space Business Entering Boom Era

WASHINGTON (AP) — Space travel is still rare and exotic, but the business of making space vehicles and equipment has grown sharply in the United States, figures compiled by the Census Bureau show.

A series of bureau reports disclosed that 99,600 Americans are employed by firms making guided missiles and space vehicles; 25,200 work for space propulsion unit manufacturers, and makers of space vehicle equipment employ 20,500.

The studies are part of the 1982 Census of Manufactures, results of which are being issued periodically over a period of months.

In the guided missile and space vehicle category, civilian spending has surpassed that of the military, at least in some areas, the report showed.

Production of complete space vehicles, including booster stages, was valued at $2.01 billion in 1982, up from $822 million five years earlier. That's an increase of 144 percent over five years. Inflation, measured by the Consumer Price Index, rose 59.3 percent during the same period.

Of the just over $2 billion spent on this equipment, the report said, $1.36 billion was spent by civilian customers and $652 million by the military. In 1977, the space vehicle manufacturing category saw civilian spending of $96 million while the military invested $726 million.

The military was more involved in research than the civilian market, though.

Research and development on complete space vehicles required $987.2 million in 1982, up from $918 million in 1977, the Census study showed. The 1982 research was $664 million military and $323 million civilian.

And the military also spent $1.6 billion on research into complete missile systems.

Overall, services for missiles and space vehicles cost $1.4 billion in 1982, up from $550 million five years earlier, the report showed.

Spending totaled $2.1 billion on space propulsion units and parts, up from $930 million in 1977. That broke down to $960 million for complete engines, $694.8 million for research and development, $301.5 million for parts and $238 million for other services.

Finally, spending on space vehicle equipment climbed from $882 million in 1977 to $2.75 billion in 1982. That includes component parts and assemblies for a variety of space equipment.

The census counted 29 companies in the guided missile and space vehicle business in 1982. Their 99,600 workers were an increase of 5,000 over 1977 employment.

Sixteen of the establishments were in California and four were located in Florida. Other states represented included Alabama, Arizona, Georgia, Missouri, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Tutu Urges Diversion Of Arms Money To Fight Hunger

OSLO, Norway (AP) — South African Bishop Desmond M. Tutu, winner of the 1984 Nobel Peace Prize, appealed to the world today in his Nobel lecture to divert money "expended so obscenely" on weapons to the fight against hunger.

The black Anglican prelate said that international turmoil has meant that "nations are engaged in a mad arms race, spending billions of dollars wastefully on instruments of destruction, when millions are starving."

"And yet, just a fraction of what is expended so obscenely on defense budgets would make the difference in enabling God's children to fill their stomachs, be educated and given the chance to lead fulfilled and happy lives."

Tutu delivered the traditional lecture in the Aula Reception Hall of Oslo University, the stately marble building where a day earlier he accepted his prize in a ceremony delayed by a telephoned bomb threat.

Security was tight. More than a dozen police guarded the hall as spectators arrived for the lecture. Shopping bags and handbags were checked. Before the lecture began, an officer checked out the hall with an explosives-sniffing dog.

Tutu's 3,000-word lecture marked the first time since he came to Oslo for the award ceremony that he dwelt on specific world problems besides those of South Africa's 22 million blacks.

Even so, the 53-year-old churchman used most of the lecture to pillory South Africa's white minority government and its policy of apartheid, or enforced racial separation. He charged that the government in Pretoria exercises its authority in a way that is harmful to the blacks through "a phalanx of iniquitous laws" and violence.

"In short," he said, "this land, richly endowed in so many ways, is sadly lacking in justice."

Tutu deviated from his prepared text only once, when he mentioned anti-apartheid demonstrations at the South African Embassy in Washington and elsewhere in the United States.

"There are demonstrations across the United States protesting apartheid and that government's collaboration with it," he said. The comment came just after he said Western news media coverage might indicate that the West cares more about oppression against white people than against blacks.

Then Tutu said many of South Africa's problems are common to other lands.

"I have spoken extensively about South Africa, first because it is the land I know best, but because it is also a microcosm of the world and an example of what is to be found in other lands in differing degree," he said.

"When there is injustice, invariably peace is a casualty."

He compared South Africa to Latin American countries where "repressive regimes ... have aroused opposition."

"Fellow citizens are pitting against one another, sometimes attracting the unhelpful attention and interest of outside powers, who want to extend their spheres of influence. We see this in the Middle East, in Korea, in the Philippines, in Kampuchea (Cambodia), in Vietnam, in Ulster (Northern Ireland), in Afghanistan, in Mozambique, in Angola, in Zimbabwe, behind the Iron Curtain."

He then talked of how money spent on the arms race could ease world hunger.

He referred to the news photos and television coverage of the famine in Ethiopia and elsewhere, showing

"the spectacle of the gaunt dregs of humanity shuffling along in endless queues, with bowls to collect what the charity of the world has provided, too little, too late."

"When will we learn, when will the people of the world get up and say, 'Enough is enough'? ... When will we learn that an escalated arms race merely escalates global insecurity?"

Space Plans

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — An Indonesian astronaut plans to go into orbit on a U.S. space shuttle flight in June 1986, says Indonesia's minister for post, telecommunications and tourism, Ahmad Tahir.

The offer, made by U.S. Ambassador John Holdridge on Sept. 20, was accepted after Cabinet members conferred with President Suharto, Tahir said. Officials from Indonesia and the United States will soon meet to discuss what field of expertise the Indonesian will contribute to the mission.

Ambassadors Set To Get New Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan plans to transfer the U.S. ambassador to El Salvador, Thomas Pickering, as part of a personnel shakeup involving a number of American embassies in Latin America, administration officials say.

The prospective transfer of Pickering is related in part to the strain the veteran envoy has been under as a result of repeated death threats he has received during the 16 months he has served in El Salvador, the officials said.

It is expected that Pickering, 53, will be rewarded with an important assignment based on what the administration regards as his effective performance in El Salvador, said the officials, who spoke on condition they not be identified.

The sources said that other ambassadors who will be transferred or replaced include John Negroponete in Honduras, Curtin Winsor in Costa Rica, Lewis Tamba in Colombia and James Theberge in Chile. The officials said the shakeup may affect the American ambassadors in Panama, Bolivia, Paraguay and Uruguay as well.

Gears Don't Fit Engines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The main gears of the Navy's first two modern minesweepers don't mesh properly with the engines that drive the vessels, and embarrassed Pentagon officials are trying to figure out what to do.

"We made a mistake, and it's our fault," said a Navy official Monday who spoke on condition he not be identified. "It looks like a naval architect screwed up."

The Navy also confirmed Monday that it has grounded about 60 A-6, EA-6 and A-4 attack bombers because of a defective rivets that could snap under high stress, causing engine failure.

The problem with the ship gears was discovered in the first two Avenger-class minesweepers, Navy officials said. In drawing up plans, the so-called Main Reduction Gears "were incorrectly designed to rotate in opposite directions," the Navy said.

The gears were designed to accept shafts from the engines rotating in a counter-clockwise direction, but the diesels that were in stock rotate in a clockwise direction, the Navy said.

The engines and Main Reduction Gears must be compatible in order for the gears to properly deliver power to the propellers and turn the "screws" in the right direction.

A Navy spokesman, who spoke on condition he would not be identified by name, said the problem affects only the first two Avenger vessels and can be corrected without jeopardizing the ships' delivery schedules.

By now, most people know about the tax advantages of an IRA. But you may not know about the big difference it can make when you're making all your IRA

For example, if you deposit $2000 in an IRA in early January instead of waiting until you file your tax return the next year, and keep doing that for the next 20 years, you'll come out with over $16,000* more interest. For all the details, come see us. The time to start is now. The place is right in your neighborhood. NCRB

Shultz Says U.S. Must Be Ready To Strike Terrorists

MILDENHALL, England (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz said today that terrorists "seem anxious" to attack Americans and the United States must defend itself, even if it means striking first in some cases.

Speaking to reporters on a flight to Britain, Shultz dismissed arguments that U.S. retaliation risked provoking more terrorism, as well as accidentally hitting innocent people.

"They don't seem to need additional excuses to try to hit us," he said. "They seem anxious to do what damage they can."

Shultz was speaking two days after the ending of a six-day hijack of a Kuwaiti airliner during which two American passengers were killed and two others beaten.

The plane carrying Shultz on a week-long trip to Western Europe was diverted to Mildenhall, a U.S. Air Force base in east England, for refueling after fog prevented landing at Gatwick Airport, 27 miles south of London.

Shultz planned to fly to Gatwick later today when the fog lifted to meet the British foreign secretary, Sir Geoffrey Howe.

He was due to spend the night at Howe's country estate, Chevening, and leave Wednesday for Brussels, Belgium, to attend a three-day meeting of NATO foreign ministers.

Shultz is expected to confer with the allies in preparation for next month's resumption of U.S.-Soviet arms control talks in Geneva. He is to make a brief stop in Frankfurt on Saturday to confer with West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl before returning to Washington.

A senior State Department official said consultations with the allies are very important to the Reagan administration in devising its negotiating strategy.

"Nearly every important arms control initiative that we have taken has been taken not only with the knowledge, but also the views and recommendations of our key allies, and I expect that to continue," he told reporters at a briefing on the NATO meeting Monday.

The official spoke only on condition he not be identified.

Shultz was accompanied today by Paul H. Nitze, who has been named by Reagan as Shultz's special adviser for the Geneva meeting and who is playing a key role in devising the U.S. negotiating strategy.

Shultz will meet in Geneva on Jan. 7-8 with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to set the stage for detailed follow-up negotiations aimed at controlling strategic and intermediate nuclear arms and space-based weapons.

Also on the agenda in Brussels will be discussion of plans for strengthening NATO's non-nuclear defenses.

Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger and other NATO defense chiefs last week approved a six-year $7.8 billion program to improve conventional defenses in Europe. The separate meetings of defense and foreign ministers are held annually at the NATO headquarters in Brussels.

Shultz also is expected will to raise the issue of international terrorism and press for improved coordination of anti-terrorist efforts, as well as an understanding on "how to attack the situation collectively," as one senior State Department official put it.

Shultz has been increasingly vocal about his frustration over terrorist attacks and the failure of the Western nations to prevent them. The latest example was the hijacking incident in Iran, in which two U.S. government officials were murdered.

Shultz has advocated a greater willingness by the United States to use military force against terrorists.

NATO Reports Explosions At Pipelines In Belgium

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Four explosions damaged NATO fuel pipelines in three different parts of Belgium early today, Belgian and NATO officials said. No injuries were reported, and an extreme left-wing group claimed responsibility for the blasts.

The explosions, at least two of which were caused by dynamite, came a day before the scheduled arrival in Brussels of the U.S. secretary of state, George P. Shultz, who is to attend a three-day meeting of NATO foreign ministers. Shultz arrived in Britain today for talks with British leaders.

The responsibility claim was made in a letter to the Brussels daily La Cite by a group calling itself Cellules Communistes Combattantes, or Fighting Communist Cells.

The group has claimed responsibility for six bomb attacks against Western defense contractors, Belgian political party offices and military transmission lines in recent months.

Gabrielle Lefevre, an editor at La Cite, said the group's letter charged NATO has made "war the principal focus" of its actions. He said the letter claimed five explosions were set off along the underground pipeline.

Dig Isha, a spokesman for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, said a 5:25 a.m. explosion near Tubize, 15.5 miles south of Brussels, ripped open a NATO fuel pipeline and caused a fire that lasted about four hours.

Fifty minutes later an explosion hit a NATO aviation fuel pipeline near Verviers, 62 miles east of Brussels, Isha said. There was no fire. Two explosions then damaged another pipeline in Glons, 43 miles east of Brussels, said Henri Hermans, fire chief of Tongeren.

The latter two explosions were caused by dynamite, Hermans said. "Both were dynamited and one caught fire," he told the Associated Press. Pipeline pumps were spilling aviation fuel, he said.

An assessment of the damage was not immediately available, and no one claimed responsibility, Isha said.

The four explosions occurred in locations where the pipelines run through open fields.

President Meets Mrs. Kirkpatrick

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.N. Ambassador Jeane J. Kirkpatrick was meeting today with President Reagan at the White House amid uncertainty about whether she will continue to have a role in the administration after she leaves the United Nations.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick, a conservative Democrat, is stepping down after the end of the current U.N. General Assembly session. She has said repeatedly she intends to resume her old job of teaching government at Georgetown University in Washington, and is not seeking a new administration post.

"I both enjoy and miss the pleasures of private life," Mrs. Kirkpatrick, 57, told reporters last month. "I am absolutely not coy about it."

Deputy White House spokesman Bob Sims said Monday that Reagan wants "to hear her views on her future. It's very clear that if there's any way he could retain her services in the administration, he wants to do it."

In an interview last month with the Washington Times, Reagan said he admired Mrs. Kirkpatrick's abilities and understood why she might like to leave the hectic and sometimes frustrating U.N. job, but added that he did not have in his administration a foreign policy opening "that would be worthy of her."

Mrs. Kirkpatrick canceled a meeting with Reagan that had been scheduled for the day after the interview appeared, but said the cancellation was not related to Reagan's comments.

Despite her denials, there have been persistent reports that Mrs. Kirkpatrick is interested in another administration job, perhaps national security adviser, a post now held by Robert C. McFarlane.

Giant New Planet Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronomers have evidence that an enormous planet is orbiting a faint star trillions of miles from the Earth, a finding that could represent the first planet observed outside of the solar system.

The researchers said Monday that this is the first claim of a planet orbiting a nearby star that is supported by direct observational evidence and not indirect measurements.

The newly discovered planet orbits a dim star 21 light-years from the Earth, and also represents the first example of a giant variety of planets called "brown dwarfs" previously theorized by scientists, they said.

A light-year is the distance light travels in a year at 186,000 miles per second — about six trillion miles.

The giant planet is believed to be a huge ball of gases similar to the outer planets of our solar system, but much larger. It is estimated to be 30 to 80 times more massive than Jupiter, the biggest planet in our solar system.

The discovery was announced jointly by the University of Arizona, the National Optical Astronomy Observatories (NOAO) and the National Science Foundation, which sponsored the work.

Drs. Donald W. McCarthy and Frank J. Low of the University of Arizona, and Dr. Ronald G. Probst of NOAO, said this is the first time a planetary companion to a star actually has been "seen."

No Reasons Given

ECU Fires Ed Emory

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

In a stunning move, East Carolina University fired Ed Emory as head football coach at the school yesterday afternoon.

Emory, who had just completed his fifth season with his alma mater, compiled a 26-29 record over the period, and had been given a contract extension through the 1987 season after 1983 when his team posted an 8-3 record and received Top Twenty recognition, finishing in the number 20 spot on the final Associated Press poll.

This year, however, the Pirates dipped to a 2-9 mark, but university officials emphasized that the record was not the sole reason for the termination of his contract.

Emory, meanwhile, was quoted by the Associated Press, as saying he was "stunned" by the firing. Emory was unavailable for further comments last night and this morning. His wife said he was not in Greenville.

(Emory's office announced later this morning that he would hold an 11 a.m. press conference at Scales Fieldhouse.)

The move came yesterday afternoon at about 3:30 p.m. when Emory was called to the office of ECU chancellor Dr. John Howell where he was told that he was being relieved of his duties.

Dr. Howell then issued a brief statement: "After considering the current status of our football program and contemplating the future of that program, we have decided to make a personnel change in the head football coaching position. Consequently we have met with Coach Ed Emory and terminated his services as Head Football Coach. We have thanked Coach Emory for his services and discussed with him the financial considerations provided for in our contract with him."

Dr. Howell later said that there was a termination clause in Emory's contract, which provides an annual salary of $50,000. "We have made him an alternative offer to that provision," Howell told The Daily Reflector. He would not discuss the terms of either offer, nor would he say whether either of those offers could cover the full $150,000 remaining on the contract. He added that it was up to Emory to decide which of these offers to accept.

The chancellor emphasized that the firing of Emory in no way would affect the school's desire to build a top-flight NCAA Division I-A football program.

The decision to fire Emory apparently came from the athletic committee of the board of trustees. Riley Roberson III of Washington, one of the members of the committee, said this morning that that group had recommended Emory's dismissal "a couple of weeks ago" to Howell. He could not, however, pinpoint when the committee began its deliberations on Emory.

"I'm confident that our decision was right," Roberson said. "We appreciate what Ed has done, but we felt that a change had to be made. The 2-9 record had no part in it."

There had been charges from some Emory supporters, including some members of the football team, that a conflict between Emory and athletic director Dr. Ken Karr was the primary reason for the dismissal, but Roberson denied it. "It had nothing to do with it," he said. "That whole thing has been exaggerated. I don't think it's unusual for a coach and an athletic director not to see eye-to-eye on everything."

Roberson would not go into the specific reasons for the dismissal, however, nor would Dr. Howell.

The athletic committee of the trustees is made up of Tom Bennett of Greenville, who serves as chairman, Roberson, Jack Minges of Greenville, Sam Wornom of Sanford, Harvey Beech of Kinston. Dr. Karr, as athletic director, sits with the committee, but is not a voting member of it.

Bennett, also contacted this morning, said he would not add to what Roberson had said, and also would not give any reason for Emory's firing.

The Associated Press quoted Emory as saying he was not given any reason for the firing. "I didn't get any reasons. I could live with anything if I knew why and who. If it's better for ECU and somebody can explain it to be, I can live with that. They took the most cherished thing away from me."

The coach added that he had not given any thought to the future and was "numbed" by it all.

"ECU, that's all I wanted to do. They won't find somebody who will work as hard as I did, who will recruit as hard as I did."

Emory added that he had turned down three job offers in the past year, plus another this year. "It's like losing someone you love. It will get tougher every day."

Emory came to East Carolina in December of 1979 following the resignation of Pat Dye, who had held the position for six years. Dye is now the head coach and athletic director at Auburn. A graduate of East Carolina, Emory had been a successful high school coach before moving into the college ranks as an assistant. He served as an assistant coach at Wake Forest, Clemson, Duke and was at Georgia Tech just prior to coming to East Carolina.

In his first season at ECU, he recorded a 4-7 record, improving that the next three years to 5-6, 7-4 and 8-3 before slipping to 2-9 this past season.

Howell said that a committee, which would mainly be members of the athletic committee of the board of trustees, would be in charge of finding a replacement for Emory. He said he hoped that a new coach could be named by January 1.

There was immediate speculation that Art Baker, former head coach at Furman and The Citadel, and who had served as offensive coordinator during the 8-3 season, was the leading candidate.

An ECU source, who asked not to be named, intimated that contact with a potential head coach — possibly Baker — had already been instigated. "I think a lot of people in Greenville are going to be happy before Christmas," he said. "Certain obligations have to be taken care of by bowl teams first."

Players Are Angry, Upset

By JIMMY DuPREE
Reflector Sports Writer

It was like there had been a death in the family.

That was the atmosphere around many of the East Carolina football players following the firing of head football Coach Ed Emory Monday.

The offense was scheduled to meet at 4:30 p.m., but the gathering was changed to a full team meeting at the last minute.

"Coach Emory read a Christmas card he's sending to all the players," said Tim Mitchell, a fifth-year center recently named to the All-South Independent squad. "He told us that he loves us all and our individual families. Then he told us his contract had been terminated. I looked around and there wasn't a person in the room without glassy eyes."

"I'll never forget that look on his face."

Emory's emotions were reflected on faces of his players as they wandered around the dormitories after a gathering designed to show support for the man who recruited most of them.

"If it weren't for him, a lot of players would have never come here," according to Henry Williams, who led the nation in kickoff return yardage in 1983. "I'm one of those; I had never heard of East Carolina till I met Coach Emory."

The Pirates posted an 8-3 mark just a year ago and finished in the Top 20 of The Associated Press college football poll. Emory, who played at East Carolina in the late 1950s, had often said the Pirate coaching position was his goal in coaching — but the dream ended following a disappointing 2-9 1984 campaign.

"We had heard there would probably be changes of some of the assistant coaches, but we had no idea this was coming," kicker Jeff Heath said. "I don't understand; it's really frustrating."

Rumors abound concerning the reasons for the dismissal, but none have been officially announced.

That is what has most of the players upset — and many angry.

"I have the original copy of a petition that over 100 football players signed," Mitchell said. "All we want is for Coach Emory to have his reasons. We're just looking for an answer."

"Politics played a big part in the 1983 season in why we didn't go to a bowl game, and I'm almost positive politics played a big part in this."

Emory came to East Carolina in 1979 following the sudden resignation of Pat Dye, who went on to Wyoming and presently is coach and athletic director at Auburn. The transition season produced a 4-7 mark in 1980, and the Pirates' record was 5-6 the following year.

"When he came here, none of the players were his," running back Bubba Bunn said. "But after five years, every player here is his. To have to give that up is hard for him, as well as for us."

"I felt like I lost a father, a man who taught me a lot about life. I didn't always agree with him. But when Bubba Bunn faced adversity, Coach Emory revived me. We understand what he's feeling and hope he can fight adversity."

Another reality of the situation is that the Pirate football program must go through another transition period. Emory's successor is expected to be announced by the end of December, but for now ECU players wonder where they stand.

"They're scared; they don't want what's going to happen," Mitchell said. "They don't know if the whole system will change or what. I'm glad I don't have to go through that."

Several of the Pirate underclassmen also expressed concern.

Hoyas Near Unanimous For 1st

By The Associated Press
Georgetown, which made its national television debut for this season with an 82-46 thrashing of Nevada-Las Vegas, remains atop the Associated Press' college basketball today.

The Hoyas, 5-0, started defense of their national championship this season with four games against non-Division I foes. Nevada-Las Vegas, which was ranked 20th last week, fell easily Saturday at the hands of Georgetown, which received 63 of 64 first-place votes and 1,279 points from a national panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

DePaul, which ventures to Landover, Md. on Saturday to face Georgetown, remains second with 1,188 points, including the other first-place vote.

Duke and St. John's switched places from last week. The third-ranked Blue Devils, 5-0, who opened Atlantic Coast Conference play last weekend defeating Virginia 78-65, received 1,059 points, 14 more than St. John's. The No. 4 Redmen, 4-0, followed a pair of one-point victories over St. Bonaventure and Fordham with a 77-61 triumph over Rutgers on Sunday.

Memphis State, 4-0, defeated UCLA 86-70 Saturday and remained fifth with 987 points. Illinois, 9-1, received 960 points and moved up one notch from last week's poll as did Southern Methodist, 4-0, Washington, 4-0, and North Carolina State, 5-0. Syracuse, 4-0 and 12th in last week's poll, completed the Top Ten.

Southern Methodist finished with 865 points, Washington 790, North Carolina State 779 and Syracuse 605. Louisville, which lost starting guard Milt Wagner to a fractured foot on Dec. 1, lost their game of the season this week, a 73-64 defeat at the hands of Louisiana Tech in last Friday's opening round of the Wendy's Classic. The loss dropped the Cardinals from sixth to 14th.

Indiana, which defeated Kentucky 81-68 on national television Saturday, but lost to Notre Dame 74-63 during the week, fell from 11th to 16th and Nevada-Las Vegas, 1-2, which fell to Georgetown, dropped from the Top Twenty and was replaced by Michigan, 5-0. The Wolverines won last year's National Invitation Tournament and are faring well despite the loss of forward Tim McCormick and guard Eric Turner, both of whom opted for the National Basketball Association draft with eligibility remaining.

The Second Ten is Virginia Tech, Georgia Tech, North Carolina, Louisville, Oklahoma, Indiana, Alabama-Birmingham, Kansas, Louisiana State and Michigan.

Last week it was Indiana, Syracuse, Louisiana State, Virginia Tech, Georgia Tech, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Alabama-Birmingham, Kansas and Nevada-Las Vegas.

Pitt Rallies Past Methodist

FAYETTEVILLE — Pitt Community College rallied from 16 points down, then held off a rally by the Methodist College junior varsity for an 82-80 basketball victory last night.

The game was close throughout the first half, which ended with Methodist up by one, 29-28. In the early going in the second half, Methodist pulled away, taking a 16-point lead, 58-42.

Andrews Lifts GCA

GOLDSBORO — Dan Andrews fired in 26 points and Darrell Harris added 16 as Greenville Christian pounded Goldsboro Christian 82-61 Monday in high school basketball action.

Kerry House chipped in 11 points for the Knights. Russell Lanning paced Goldsboro with 20 points, while Jimmy Boyd contributed 15.

Greenville Christian held a five-point edge at the end of the first half, but the Knights expanded the lead to eight in the third quarter and outscored Goldsboro 27-14 in the final period.

"We're fortunate it wasn't a close game where our free throws had to count," GCA Coach Dale Thatcher said after his team connected on just 12 out of 27 attempts. "Most of the game was pretty close until the third quarter when the guys put together a couple of back-to-back goals."

Greenville Christian, now 3-4 on the season, hosts Friendship Academy Friday.

the source said. Florida State, where Baker is currently employed, is playing in the Citrus Bowl, December 22, against Georgia. The source would not confirm he was talking about the Citrus Bowl or Florida State or Baker.

Roberson, asked if this report was true, said "it could very well be true," but would not elaborate.

The source also told The Daily Reflector that several members of Dye's present Auburn staff had made preliminary contacts with East Carolina since the announcement of Emory's firing yesterday.

Another possible candidate mentioned is former ECU offensive coordinator Larry Beckish, now at the University of Minnesota in a similar position. Beckish was quoted by the AP as saying he had no comment on the situation.

Also mentioned is currently defensive coordinator Tom Throckmorton, who is also reported to be among the leading candidates for the VMI head coaching job. Throckmorton was defensive coordinator at VMI prior to coming to ECU.

"Every week we've gotten a little better," Flores said. "I was a little concerned because we were assured of a playoff spot and I wasn't sure how well our players would respond."

however, that turned the game around. Montgomery was given the return job only two weeks ago when Flores became frustrated with Greg Pruitt's repeated fumbles.

The Raiders only led 10-3 before the dazzling runback by Montgomery who weaved his way up the field, using his blockers skillfully before turning on the afterburners about 15 yards from the goal line.

"That was sort of a Raider trademark," Flores noted. "We always look for the big play and we got it with the runback with the punt and then the touchdown pass from Plunkett to Marcus Allen."

The bedraggled Lions, who dropped to 4-10-1 in the NFC Central, put up a good battle on defense but their offense — No. 5 in the NFL going into the game — was no match for the Raiders. A 48-yard field goal by Eddie Murray in the second quarter accounted for Detroit's lone score.

The Lions' defense yielded 347 net yards, recording three sacks. The Raiders fumbled the ball seven times, but the Lions' failed to recover any of them.

"When I look at the Raiders and their tradition and winning ways, I hope I can last long enough to have that same thing here in Detroit," said Lions' defensive tackle Doug English.

Detroit quarterback Gary Danielson completed six of 10 passes for 119 yards and one interception before leaving the game late in the second quarter with a sprained toe. John Witkowski, a rookie out of Columbia University, played most of the remainder of the game, but completed only seven of 19 for 91 yards. Mike Machurek finished for Detroit.

"I felt some pressure going in with the game still on the line, but I've got to produce when I'm out there," Witkowski said. "It was a learning experience tonight. I just wish I could have helped the team out a little more."

With only one more regular-season game before playoff action begins, Flores was elated by the way his team is responding.

"Every week we've gotten a little better," Flores said. "I was a little concerned because we were assured of a playoff spot and I wasn't sure how well our players would respond."

Raiders Put On Playoff Faces In 24-3 Runaway

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Just when the rest of the National Football League thought it was safe to venture into the street, the Los Angeles Raiders came swaggering back to town wearing their playoff faces.

The defending Super Bowl champions used an awesome defense, led by Bill Pickel, and big offensive plays — a Raider trademark — by Marc Wilson, Cle Montgomery and Jim Plunkett to crush the Detroit Lions 24-3 Monday night.

The Raiders, given up for dead after losing some key players through injuries and dropping three straight games last month, now are riding a four-game winning streak and their 11-4 record in the AFC West assures them a wildcard spot in the playoffs.

And, lest you scoff, remember that the Raiders rode a wildcard berth to the championship over Philadelphia in Super Bowl XV.

Pickel, who had 3 1/2 of the Raiders' eight sacks, led a defense that shut the Lions down at every turn. Detroit finished with only 10 first downs, 257 total yards and had two passes intercepted.

"It was a good win because we played hard," Raiders' Coach Tom Flores said. "The defense played well all night. We wanted to play well, win and stay healthy. Going into the playoffs, our biggest concern is to stay healthy."

Wilson, who completed 11 of 19 for 194 yards with two interceptions before leaving the game with back spasms in the fourth quarter, tossed a 12-yard TD pass to tight end Todd Christensen in the second quarter and had a 72-yard bomb to Dokie Williams that set up a 37-yard Chris Bahr field goal in the third quarter.

"I've never had these spasms and I don't know what to expect," Wilson said. "It's real tight now."

Ironically, it was an injury to Plunkett that gave Wilson a chance to start in the first place. Plunkett, who hit 3 of 4 for 102 yards — most of it on a 73-yard TD strike to Marcus Allen late in the fourth quarter — was seeing his first action since suffering pulled abdominal muscles Oct. 7.

"I felt a little more comfortable late in the game," Plunkett said. "I felt very apprehensive going in."

One of Plunkett's passes also went to Cliff Branch who hung on for his only catch of the game, but it was the 500th of his career.

"You don't know if you'll ever get a chance to achieve that and I'm glad I'm a part of it," Plunkett said.

It was Montgomery's 69-yard punt return early in the fourth quarter.

Knight, Frieder Reprimanded

SCHAUMBURG, Ill. (AP) — Big Ten Conference basketball Coaches Bobby Knight of Indiana and Bill Frieder of Michigan have been reprimanded for failing to appear at two league functions, officials say.

The reprimands were contained in letters sent to both coaches, the conference said in a statement released from league headquarters Monday. The league also said it has formally asked Knight to provide information to the conference office about his recent remarks questioning the recruiting practices of other member institutions.

However, Big Ten officials declined to elaborate on what the reprimands might mean to the respective coaches or comment on any other matter contained in the statement.

The letters to the two coaches were sent after the conference's faculty representatives and athletic directors held regular meetings last week.

Both Frieder and Knight were absent from the basketball coaches' officiating clinic Oct. 7 and Knight also was absent from the Big Ten's annual basketball press day and coaches' meeting Nov. 18.

Paul W. Gikas, conference chairman and professor at the University of Michigan, and Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke noted in the letters that the coaches' absences constituted a violation of conference rules calling it "the professional responsibility of all conference personnel to attend meetings scheduled by their group."

Kit Klingelhoffer, Indiana sports information director, said Monday that Knight had indicated previously he would not comment on the matter.

Klingelhoffer said he doesn't know if Knight has been notified of the reprimand, since he and the team were in Ames, Iowa, on Monday night to prepare for tonight's game against Iowa State.

Frieder did not immediately return telephone messages left Monday night at his home.

A second letter to Knight from Dean Robert A. Stein of the University of Minnesota Law School, chairman of the Conference Compliance Committee, urged Knight "to provide the committee with any information which you may have about any possible rule violations by personnel at any conference university."

"It is essential to public confidence in the integrity of our conference programs that we vigorously investigate your concerns."

The Stein letter further urged Knight "to meet as soon as possible with representatives of the conference and the NCAA enforcement staff to discuss the concerns which you have about rule compliance."

Tisdale, Sooners Romp To 126-76 Cage Victory

By The Associated Press
Billy Tubbs has a very simple basketball philosophy — win by a bunch. And in Wayman Tisdale, he has just the fellow to lead the assault.

With Tisdale, a member of the gold medal-winning U.S. Olympic team, exploding for 55 points Monday night, the 15th-ranked Sooners demolished Southwestern University of Texas 126-76.

"This is a perfect example of us taking no prisoners," Tubbs said after Oklahoma improved to 5-2. "If I did take prisoners, it would be Southwestern," where Tubbs coached for two years.

"I have a lot of friends there and I know how they feel," Tubbs said. "I've been there before. But I don't mislead anyone. I'll try to beat you by 100 if I can."

In other games involving Top Twenty clubs, No. 18 Kansas ripped South Carolina State 81-54 and Michigan, newly elevated to the No. 20 position, beat Western Michigan 83-59.

Tisdale scored 36 points in leading Oklahoma to a 60-35 halftime advantage over Southwestern, and finished only six points shy of his single-game school scoring record of 61. Tisdale also collected 13 rebounds.

"He got the hot hand early," said Tubbs. "We didn't plan for him to score that many, but I'm not surprised at anything he does."

Tim McCalister added 20 points for Oklahoma while Bobby Deaton had 27 points and 10 rebounds for Southwestern.

Kansas Coach Larry Brown said he "had fun" watching the Jayhawks, 6-1, run past South Carolina State.

"We got everyone to play and I like to see everyone play," Brown said. "The opportunity to play is what the players look forward to."

Ron Kellogg scored 16 points and Greg Dreiling 15 for Kansas, which romped to a 46-27 halftime advantage. The Jayhawks built their biggest margin at 73-45 with 5:40 to play.

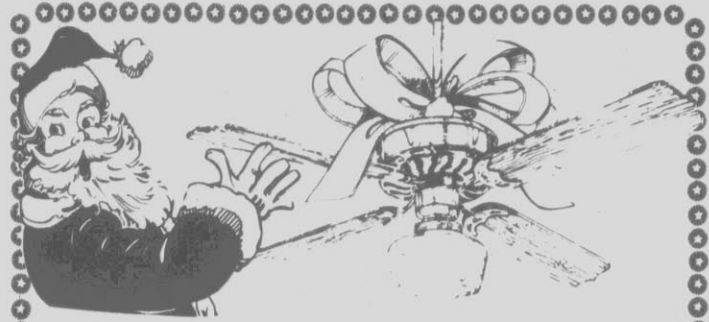

Ralph Miller had 16 points to pace South Carolina State, which is winless in eight games.

Michigan, unbeaten in five games, got 21 points from Roy Tarpley, including 15 during a second-half explosion. Michigan led only 36-31 at intermission, but used a 12-4 run to quickly settle the issue at the start of the second half. Another 14-2 tear made it 65-45 and cleared the way for subs to mop up.

Don Petties scored 19 points for Western Michigan, now 3-3.

Despite Record, Pacers No Pushover Says Fratello

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — It sounds strange, says Atlanta Coach Mike Fratello, but despite Indiana's third-worst record in the National Basketball Association, the Pacers are no pushovers.

The Hawks, now four games ahead of the Pacers in the Central Division of the NBA's Eastern Conference, built a 14-point lead but had to struggle in the closing seconds to hold on for a 104-98 victory.

"It was the only game in the league Monday night. Coming off a loss like that (128-127 to Boston on Sunday), this is one of the teams you don't want to play because they just keep coming after you," Fratello said of the Pacers.

"Other teams don't attack as hard, but Indiana is hungry and aggressive, and they keep putting the pressure on you," he said.

The Pacer pressure, plus 20 second-half points by forward Herb Williams, brought Indiana within two points of Atlanta twice in the second half. The first time, the Hawks repelled the rally with the hot shooting of reserve guard Mike Glenn. The final time, a jumper by Glenn Rivers iced the game with a minute to go.

"This was really a good win for us. We were happy just to hang on," said Fratello, whose Hawks improved to 9-13 for the season.

The key, he said, was the clutch shooting by Glenn, who hit eight of 11 from the field and finished with a season-high 17 points — 12 in the second half.

"We were going through a stretch where we were having trouble scoring," Fratello said. "A coach, if he's a good coach, knows who to go to and when to go to them."

"When he (Glenn) was on the floor, we opened things up. We were struggling, and he was a big plus for us."

"Since he's come into the league, he's one of the players who has improved the most," Fratello said of the seven-year veteran out of Southern Illinois.

Indiana Coach George Irvine said the Pacers "did a very poor job on Mike Glenn. They continually ran him off screens and he was able to get open jump shots."

"We have to find a way to stop the off guards," Irvine said.

Poor shooting throughout the game hurt the Pacers, who hit only 41 percent from the field despite a 49-47 edge in rebounding and 13 more shots than the Hawks.

"We got a lot of good shots early, but we just didn't knock them down," said Irvine. "We compounded the problem by shooting the ball quickly instead of trying to get the ball inside. We are better shooters than this, but right now we are not shooting well."

Atlanta was led in scoring by Dominique Wilkins with 27 points, 17 in the first half. Williams topped Indiana with 24 points and 15 rebounds.

The loss extended the Pacers' losing streak to six straight games, the longest current slide in the NBA, and dropped their season record to 5-17. Only Kansas City's 4-15 record and Cleveland's 2-17 mark are worse.

The Hawks, snapping a five-game road losing string of their own, had two big scoring spurts in the first half and built a 55-46 lead at the intermission. They stretched the lead to 10 points before Williams hit six straight baskets to help the Pacers within two points late in the third quarter.

CBS Holds Ratings Lead With TV Schedule That's Always In Style

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — You can count on CBS, the button-down collar, pinstriped network that, year after year, never goes out of style.

CBS won't be accused of being trendy, flashy or particularly innovative. But it has no peer at defining and then refining the public's TV tastes.

CBS was late getting into the miniseries business, but this year, with long-form broadcasts so attractive, CBS has a record 46 hours of special-event programming.

CBS was not the first network to try prime-time soap operas, but this season "Dallas," "Falcon Crest" and "Knots Landing" are among the 15 highest-rated programs.

And this season, when CBS saw signs of age in its long-standing Sunday programming, the network initiated a cautious, two-step rescue plan to repair a leaky lineup well before it reached the wash-out stage.

First, "Murder, She Wrote," introduced in September, proved it could hold the sophisticated "60 Minutes" audience. Then CBS decided it could replace its long-running comedies, "The Jeffersons" and "Alice," with "Crazy Like a Fox." CBS' best-testing new series, which was waiting in the wings for an opening, "Crazy Like a Fox" starts Dec. 30.

"The reason we got to a position of strength is that we took some risks, some prudent risks," said Harvey Shephard, senior vice president of CBS Entertainment. He and CBS Entertainment President Bud Grant have been the management team since 1980, what amounts to a generation for this industry.

"CBS is basically doing what CBS has always been doing well," said Bob Igel, senior vice president of the NW Ayer advertising agency.

"The CBS shows that seem to work well are cast in the CBS mold." The new Sunday strategy marked a switch from middle-brow comedy

EDITOR'S NOTE — CBS has been dubbed "The Tiffany Network" because of the class of its shows and its consistent ratings success. Although CBS' series and movies have slipped a bit this season, the network is still leading and appears headed for its sixth consecutive prime-time victory. This, the first story in a three-part series on the 1984-85 season, explains why.

to drama geared for the "suburban, more sophisticated, upper socioeconomic audiences," said Dave Poltrack, CBS' vice president for research. That audience had been watching "60 Minutes," then tuning out the comedies. "Murder, She Wrote" stopped some of the defection at 8 o'clock, and CBS hopes "Crazy Like a Fox" will stop more at 9.

CBS, dubbed the "Tiffany Network" by an appreciative industry, is clearly headed for its sixth consecutive first-place finish in the TV season's prime-time rankings. CBS leads in total households and has the largest adult audience, although the network's viewers skew heavily toward the 50-plus age group.

Older audiences are more habitual in their viewing patterns, and some advertisers complain that the grayer consumers are less susceptible to commercial pitches and, thus, less likely to change their product loyalty.

"We still feel we offer the advertiser more," said Poltrack. "We have more women between the ages of 35 and 49, and they're the biggest consumers."

As the season approaches the halfway point, CBS' series are several ratings points ahead of the competition and appears to be in a strong position with these miniseries set for 1985 broadcast: "Robert Kennedy and His Times" in January, the "Atlanta Child Murders" in February, "Space" in April and "Christopher Columbus" in May.

With fewer holes to fill, CBS introduced only five new programs this fall and has prospered even though just one of them, "Murder, She Wrote," became a hit. "Dreams" was canceled, "E.R." and "Charles in Charge" are surviving weakly, and "Cover Up" is a moderate success on Saturday night.

CBS still has problems with some 8 o'clock series. "AfterMASH," which was canceled, and "Charles in Charge" didn't provide springboards for the Tuesday and Wednesday movies, respectively. "Structurally, CBS' movies were not weaker; they were just on tougher nights," said Igel.

CBS remains strong on four nights (Sunday, Monday, Thursday and Friday), affirming Shephard's strategy of building nights targeted to CBS strengths and the competition's weaknesses.

Heston Will Head Program Citing Endowment Birthday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Actor Charlton Heston will head a committee of prominent artists, patrons and administrators that will plan a nationwide observance of the 20th anniversary next year of the National Endowment for the Arts, the independent federal agency that finances cultural projects with taxpayers' money.

Heston, said in a statement Monday that a highlight of the year-long celebration of American arts, its creators, patrons and audiences "around the country will be the award of the first National Medal of Arts by President Reagan next spring at a Washington gala.

The arts medal, commissioned by Congress, will honor people who have made outstanding contributions to the "excellence, growth, support and availability of the arts in the United States."

Communities across the country will be encouraged to plan special events next Sept. 29, the 20th anniversary of the date in 1965 when President Johnson signed legislation creating the arts endowment.

In fiscal 1966, its first year of operation, the endowment dispensed $2.5 million to artists and arts institutions in tax-paid matching grants and fellowships. This year, its $163.6 million in spending is expected to generate about $900 million in private contributions to the arts.

Heston's planning committee includes such figures as actress Helen Hayes, artist James Wyeth, opera director Beverly Sills, author Eudora Welty and Roger L. Stevens, chairman of the Kennedy Center.

Nelson Pays Up Beef

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — When then-struggling songwriter Willie Nelson borrowed $500 from country singer Faron Young 20 years ago, he promised to pay him back by raising a calf and giving Young the beef.

Nelson has finally paid his debt.

Last week, the now-famous songwriter and performer had a 3,000-pound, pure-bred bull delivered to Young's office.

Young, who has had such hits as the Nelson-penned "Hello Walls," "It's Four In The Morning" and "This Little Girl of Mine," said he did not know what to think about the gift.

"I could have killed him," Young told The Associated Press Monday. "I didn't have any place to put a bull like that."

But fellow country performer Jimmy C. Newman agreed to keep the $50,000 bull on his farm near Nashville. Young said he made Newman a part owner, and they plan to breed the animal.

College Benefit

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Lou Rawls will headline a national telethon Dec. 29 to benefit 42 colleges and universities, including Fisk University, which had its heat turned off last year because it had not paid its gas bill.

President Reagan has appointed an advisory board to help Fisk, which is about $1 million in debt.

The 12-hour telethon, which will raise funds for members of the United Negro College Fund, will originate from the Coconut Grove in Hollywood, Calif.

Martin Names Three Cabinet Members

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — The man named by Gov.-elect Jim Martin to head the Department of Correction says he will focus on rehabilitating prisoners while the man selected as secretary of the transportation department says his top priority will be completion of Interstate 40.

NEW SECRETARY — The Rev. Aaron Johnson of Fayetteville, shown in front of Fayetteville's City Hall, has been named secretary of corrections in the incoming administration of Gov.-elect Jim Martin. Johnson and two other members of the cabinet were announced Monday by Martin. (AP Laserphoto)

Martin named three department secretaries Monday — Fayetteville City Councilman Aaron Johnson in Correction and Cary developer James Harrington in Transportation and Grace Rohrer of Chapel Hill in Administration.

Two of the three have held Cabinet-level positions before. Mrs. Rohrer was secretary of Cultural Resources and Harrington as secretary of Natural and Economic Resources. Both served under former Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser.

Mrs. Rohrer couldn't be reached immediately for comment. But Johnson said one of his personal interests is developing a better rehabilitation program in the prisons.

"I think the primary goal of the prisons is to rehabilitate," Johnson said. "If you rehabilitate at least one person it is a success."

Johnson, 51, Fayetteville mayor pro-tem and minister at Mount Sinai Baptist Church, also has been working on Martin's transition team. He would replace James Woodard as head of the department that supervises inmates in the state's more than 80 prisons.

A former civil rights activist who marched with the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., Johnson surprised many of his peers when he switched his registration to the Republican Party in 1971.

He has been criticized by some black leaders because of his outspoken support for conservative Republicans such as Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and President Ronald Reagan. He was chairman of the Minority Affairs Committee for the Jim Martin for Governor campaign.

Johnson has argued repeatedly that the future for America's blacks is in the Republican Party, saying that blacks are hurting themselves by being aligned solely with the Democratic Party.

"The Republican Party has certainly been vindicated by this appointment," Johnson said. "I think it will open a door. It also says something about the Martin administration. He intends to have an administration that will be open to all people."

He has won three elections to the Fayetteville City Council and he became mayor pro-tem in 1983 after capturing the highest number of votes of any of the six councilmen up for election.

He is a former member of the N.C. Human Relations Commission, originally appointed in 1968 by then Gov. Dan Moore when the committee was known as the N.C. Good Neighborhood committee.

While on the commission, Johnson conducted training sessions for Correction personnel.

Harrington, a 56-year-old Cary developer, also has played a key role in the Martin transition. He will replace William Roberson in the department that manages transportation programs and related boards and commissions.

In a telephone interview, Harrington said his first priority will be completion of Interstate 40 to Wilmington. But he said he was unsure about how he can speed completion of the highway as Transportation secretary.

Martin made the road one of his main campaign themes. "The issue really is how to reconcile the insatiable demand of the system fairly and equitably with the resources available," Harrington said. "It is a balancing act myself and the Board of Transportation will have."

The New Hampshire native is a former Moore County Republican Party chairman and former secretary of the state GOP.

He is president of Cambridge Properties and general manager of Bald Head Island. Harrington, a retired lieutenant colonel with the N.C. National Guard, also is on the board of trustees of the North Carolina Nature Conservancy.

Harrington recently sold some of his business interests, including his share of the Kildaire Farms development in Cary.

Mrs. Rohrer will replace Administration Secretary Jane Patterson, who was appointed by Democratic Gov. Jim Hunt. The department is the management agency for state government. It also develops policy for the governor and serves as an advocate for special public interest groups.

A 60-year-old Chicago native, Mrs. Rohrer is director of development and public relations for the Center for Public Television in Chapel Hill and has been on the faculty of Salem College since 1978.

An unsuccessful candidate for secretary of state in 1972, she served as vice chairman of the state Republican Party. She has been helping Martin's transition team on administration matters.

Martin already has announced three Cabinet appointments — Democrat C.C. Cameron, chairman of First Union Corp., as assistant for budget and management; Phil Kirk, former administrative assistant to Rep. Jim Broyhill, R-N.C., as Human Resources secretary, and Patric Dorsey of New Bern, unsuccessful candidate for secretary of state, as Cultural Resources secretary.

State Eyes Speedup Of I-40 Project

RALEIGH (AP) — The Benson-to-Wilmington link of Interstate 40 could be completed years ahead of schedule because of changes in restrictions on federal highway funds, state highway officials said.

But the increased funding would come at the expense of repairs to other interstate highways in North Carolina, they said Monday.

Plans call for the 91-mile, $100 million construction project to be completed in 1994. But the project could be completed as much as four years earlier if money that once was earmarked for repairing highways is devoted to it, said William D. Jones Jr., a spokesman for the North Carolina Department of Transportation.

Mortician Is Indicted Over Bodies

HILLSBOROUGH, N.C. (AP) — A former University of North Carolina mortician faces up to 20 years in prison for each of 25 indictments of embezzling cadavers returned by an Orange County grand jury if he's found guilty.

The grand jury Monday also charged Lester S. Sandlin, 42, with seven counts of obtaining money by false pretenses from the medical school and 18 counts of fraud of the Veterans Administration. He is also charged with 272 counts of self-dealing.

Sandlin, who already faces charges of embezzling 11 medical school cadavers, could receive up to 10 years in prison for each fraud charge and two years for each self-dealing charge if found guilty.

"Some of the cadavers that Sandlin was indicted for this time went to plastic surgeons in private practice, and some went to hospitals," Orange District Attorney Wade Barber Jr. said. He would not elaborate, except to say that no criminal charges would be brought against those who received the cadavers.

Sandlin was indicted Aug. 6 on charges of embezzling 11 bodies, which allegedly were shipped to a medical school on the Caribbean island of Martinique, but officials say there is no such school there.

The previous indictments and the current charges stem from Sandlin's use of his employment as curator of anatomical materials at UNC to obtain money for himself doing business as Professional Mortuary Services in Durham.

"The university police and the FBI have been doing an intensive investigation the last six months," Barber said. "The indictments in August generated many sources of information that led to the fraud charges and the self-dealing charges."

The names of the cadavers were not listed on Monday's indictments as they were on earlier indictments. Barber said he regretted listing the names of the first group of cadavers and did not do so this time "out of consideration for the feelings of the families."

Discipline

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Discipline and individual effort are needed to strengthen Argentina's democracy and cure its economic ills, President Raul Alfonsin said on the first anniversary of the return to elected civilian rule.

"Argentines are now more democratic, but we still are a little lacking," said Alfonsin. His inauguration on Dec. 10, 1983, ended nearly eight years of military rule.

Alfonsin's references to discipline and individual effort were an apparent exhortation to labor, which has aggravated the economic crisis with periodic strikes for wage increases.

Trial Set In Wilson Porn Ring

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — The trial for one of three men implicated in a child pornography ring that allegedly operated out of a farmhouse near Lucama for three decades will begin next year.

A Wilson County grand jury Monday returned 25 indictments against the three men.

The trial date for Doral Ray Mason, 49, of Lucama, who pleaded innocent, was set for Jan. 14. Also indicted were James W. Ward, 59, of Lucama and Harold Robert Hoover, 55, of Wilson. Incomplete arraignments delayed scheduling a trial date for Ward and Hoover.

Mason, who was transferred to Dorothea Dix Hospital in Raleigh for a pretrial psychiatric exam, was accused in five counts of taking indecent liberties and six counts of crime against nature.

Hoover was charged with one count of sexual activity as a substitute parent, two counts of crime against nature and one count of taking indecent liberties. Hoover waived arraignment before Superior Court Judge Frank R. Brown of Tarboro, delaying scheduling of a trial date.

Ward was charged with five counts of taking indecent liberties and five counts of crime against nature. Ward asked for a court-appointed attorney, also delaying scheduling of a trial date, according to his original attorney, Robert A. Farris Jr. of Wilson.

Edward Pritchette, 69, of Wilson, also was indicted on child sex charges Monday, but Wilson County Sheriff Wayne V. Gay said the case was not connected with the pornography ring that allegedly operated out of Ward's farmhouse.

Pritchette was indicted on two counts of crime against nature and one count of taking indecent liberties after authorities spoke with some of Pritchette's young relatives. Pritchette pleaded innocent to the charges and his trial was set for Feb. 4.

Two Bragg GIs Killed

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — Two Fort Bragg soldiers died Sunday afternoon when the five-ton fuel truck they were riding in overturned during a training exercise, a post spokesman said Monday.

The two were identified as the driver, Sgt. Michael Wayne Barber, 28, of Decatur, Ga., and a passenger, 2nd Lt. Jackson Cui Brocka, 31. Both were assigned to the 3rd Battalion, 73rd Armor, 82nd Airborne Division, the spokesman said.

Barber and Brocka were pronounced dead at Womack Army Community Hospital at 4 p.m.

Spokesman Steve Moore of the Fort Bragg Public Affairs Office said the one-vehicle accident was under investigation by post authorities. He said a small amount of fuel spilled in the accident, but the spillage was contained by post engineers. No other details were available.

Brocka, a cavalry unit officer, entered the Army in March 1983 and was assigned to Fort Bragg in December 1983. He is survived by his wife, Leona S. Brocka of Fort Bragg.

Barber, a tank crewman, entered the Army in January 1982, and was assigned to Fort Bragg in July 1982. He is survived by his parents, William T. and Carolyn J. Barber of Decatur, Ga.

Griffith Plans Move To N.C.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television actor and North Carolina native Andy Griffith plans to move his main residence from North Hollywood to Manteo, N.C., as soon as he can sell his home, his agent confirmed Monday.

Griffith and his wife, Cindi, who were married last year, put their 7,000-square-foot Toluca Lake home on the market six months ago, agent Richard O. Linke said in a telephone interview from Los Angeles. They plan to maintain a townhouse in California and spend more time at their 60-acre 40-year-old home on Croatan Sound in Manteo.

"There's no need for two huge homes like that," Linke said. "You can get on an airplane and be out here in five hours."

Griffith recently finished major roles in the television movie "Fatal Vision" and the series "Hotel."

Parton Pose

SEVIERVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Freida Parton, younger sister of entertainer Dolly Parton, says her family was surprised but not upset when they saw her picture in the January edition of Playboy.

"Daddy just grinned and started looking at the other pictures," said Ms. Parton, a 27-year-old rock 'n' roll singer and the 10th of 12 Parton children.

Ms. Parton posed in a dress she said reveals mostly leg and some cleavage.

Sometimes it is easy to spot a line that will give you additional chances. More often you will have to dig hard to increase your odds. North had extra values, so he had no hesitation about introducing his spade suit freely. When South jump rebid his diamond suit, North began to like his hand. His heart cue-bid agreed to diamonds as trumps and South's cue-bid in spades was all the urging North needed to try for slam.

West led the top of his heart sequence and, when dummy came down, it seemed as if the club finesse represented declarer's only legitimate chance for his contract. However, an even money proposition did not thrill our intrepid declarer, and he set about seeing what he could do to improve the odds.

Declarer won the opening lead in dummy and came to hand with the ace of spades, noting with interest the fact that East contributed the ten. Declarer overtook his queen of trumps with the king, and the six from West meant dummy's five was now an entry. Another spade was led from the table, and when East followed with the jack, declarer ruffed and the contract became a sure thing.

The four of trumps to the five provided an entry to the table while drawing the last trump. Now declarer led the queen of spades. Had East covered with the king, declarer would have ruffed and used dummy's nine of spades as a parking spot for one of his losers. When East showed out, declarer discarded his losing heart. West won the king and shifted to a club, but it was too late. Declarer rose with the board's ace and shed his remaining club loser on the nine of spades. So declarer lost only a spade trick. We know you guessed it all along.

Computers School Use Is Limited

RALEIGH (AP) — Most North Carolina students who use computers in school are doing little more than learning how the machines work, but state and local education officials say it's just a matter of time before the machines are used in other subjects.

"You've got to have the computer literacy and the awareness before you can integrate (computers) into the content," said Elsie L. Brumback, assistant superintendent for educational media and technology services.

"The goal behind putting computers in classrooms is to make learning more interesting for students, but the process is slow," said L. Jerry McDowell, director of technology for the Wake County school system.

"I don't believe that most systems can afford (to have) a strong computer-assisted instruction program as well as do a strong computer literacy program," McDowell said. "In order for it to be an effective program you need at least a 3-to-1 ratio of students to computers — maybe even a 1-to-1 ratio."

Mrs. Brumback said the current ratio is not even close to that.

"The money that the Legislature gave us this year was for grades seven through 12 to give us at least one computer for 100 students," she said. "Next year's budget is supposed to pick up the kindergarten through sixth grade."

CRYPTOQUIP 12-11

KXIM YIWPLR, KTHVFA AISHF
TR UFZYPZWFA TS RLUFZ-WIZVFM R? MXF HIS HIS.

Yesterday's Cryptogram — THE WAN, OVERTIRED CAB DRIVER OBSERVES, "I KNOW I CAN'T HACK IT!"
Today's Cryptogram clue: S equals N

The Cryptogram is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Juniors Showing Test Improvement

RALEIGH (AP) — State high school juniors improved this fall on reading and math portions of the North Carolina Competency Test compared with 1983, according to figures released Monday.

Statewide, 95.2 percent of the juniors taking the reading test passed, compared with 92.8 percent last year. On the math test, 93.8 percent of the juniors passed, compared with 89.9 percent last year.

William J. Brown Jr., director of research for the state Department of Public Instruction, called it the first significant increase in the scores in four years. Brown said the tests are different each year but are standardized to ensure that they are the same level of difficulty.

"This is not an easier test," Brown said. "I can attest to that."

First administered in 1978, the competency test covers basic skills in reading and math that educators say students need to function in society. The 1984 results are for tests administered in October.

Students must pass the test to graduate from high school. There are 120 questions on each section and to pass, a student must correctly answer 72 percent of the reading questions and 64 percent of the math questions. They can take one or both sections over if they fail on the first attempt.

Public Notices

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS
Sealed proposals, so marked, will be received in the office of the Director of Support Services, Greenville Utilities Commission, Greenville Utilities Building, 200 West Fifth Street, Greenville, North Carolina, until 11:00 a.m. (EST), on December 21, 1984, and immediately thereafter publicly opened and read for the furnishing of 115 KV Power Transformer, Fault Interrupter, 15 KV Power Circuit Breaker, Structure and Equipment, Relay and Control Switchboard.

Instructions for submitting bids and complete specifications for the equipment or materials to be provided will be available in the office of the Director of Electric Systems, Greenville Utilities Building, 200 West Fifth Street, Greenville, North Carolina, during regular office hours.

Greenville Utilities Commission reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive informalities.

GREENVILLE UTILITIES COMMISSION
December 11, 1984

NOTICE
NORTH CAROLINA COUNTY OF PITT
Under and by virtue of those certain orders dated September 4, 1984, October 24, 1984, and December 4, 1984, entered in that certain Special Proceeding entitled "Galloway Thompson and wife, Clara H. Thompson, Petitioners vs. Ahoskie Thompson and wife, Lala H. Thompson, et al., Respondents," same bearing File No. 84 SP 65, in the office of the Clerk of Superior Court of Pitt County, the undersigned Commissioners will on Friday, the 21st day of December, 1984, at twelve o'clock noon, at the door of the Pitt County Courthouse, Greenville, North Carolina, offer for sale to the highest bidder(s), for cash, upon an opening bid of $32,180.00, that tract or parcel of land described as follows:

Lying and being situate in Grimesland Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and being Lot No. 27 near the town of Grimesland on a plat of the property formerly owned by C. Mumford and known as the Avon Farm, as surveyed and plotted by Hardy and Rivers, C.E., which said plat or map is recorded in Map Book 1 on page 224 of the Public Registry of Pitt County, reference to said map is hereby made for a more perfect description. Said Lot No. 27 contains 87.4 acres.

The above described tract or parcel of land contains 33.1 acres, more or less, of cropland and has 1984 crop allotments as follows: Tobacco 3.18 acres with a poundage of 5,358. Said tract comprises a portion of the farm No. G-1446, Pitt County, ASCS Office.

The sale of the above described tract or parcel of land will be made subject to any highway, railroad or roadway right-of-way, easements, liens or encumbrances of record in the Pitt County Registry, ad valorem taxes subsequent to the year 1984.

The highest bidder(s) at the sale will be required to make an immediate cash deposit of ten percent of the amount of the bid to show good faith and the sale is subject to confirmation or rejection by the Court.

This the 4th day of December, 1984.

PITT COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION
REQUEST FOR PROPOSAL
This is a request for Proposal to provide Architect Engineer services in connection with the submission of a Technical Assistance Report for Energy Conservation Measures application to be submitted to the State Government for energy conservation funding (provided by U.S. Department of Energy). Technical Assistance Report, to be used in Energy Conservation Measure Application, must be completed and submitted to the Office of the Superintendent Pitt County Schools no later than February 15, 1985. You are invited to submit qualifications no later than December 17, 1984, at the Superintendent's Office.

The Pitt County School System will enter into a contract with the Architect Engineer Firm whose qualifications are considered to be the most advantageous to the School System. Significant evaluation factors in the order of relative importance are as follows: 1) Specialized experience in energy conservation measures projects; 2) Past experience with respect to energy conservation projects; 3) Ability to complete project by U.S. Department of Energy deadlines and those deadlines stipulated by the Pitt County School system. If your firm is interested in being considered for selection, submit your qualifications to:

Mr. Thomas Craft
Pitt County Board of Education
1717 West Fifth Street
Greenville, NC 27834

You will be notified should your firm be selected for consideration. Your submission must be received no later than December 17, 1984.
