WET, WINDY AND COLD — The weather took a turn for the worse today as temperatures dropped into the 40s and overcast skies brought rain. While most people huddled under umbrellas, ECU transfer students Cathrine Himberg and Petter Norstrand seemed to take it all in stride. In their native Norway, "athrine estimated that it rains 300 days out of the year. She said recent temperatures were "just like summer in Norway." (Reflector photo by Chris Bennett)

Goodbye Spring, Hello Winter

Wednesday night's change of weather would confuse even Rip Van Winkle. It was like going to sleep in summertime and waking up in winter. A peak out the window this morning convinced skeptics — those assured that summer would never end — that winter has arrived. Instead of the sunny skies and mild temperatures that turned December into June, rain, wind and clouds greeted early-risers today. Overcast skies, cold wind and chilly temperatures replaced blue skies and warm, southern breezes overnight. According to Greenville Utilities, the mercury stood at a brisk 44 degrees at 8 a.m. today, down from a high temperature of 77 degrees Wednesday. GUC recorded .03 inch of rain by 7 a.m. today, the first precipitation of 1985.

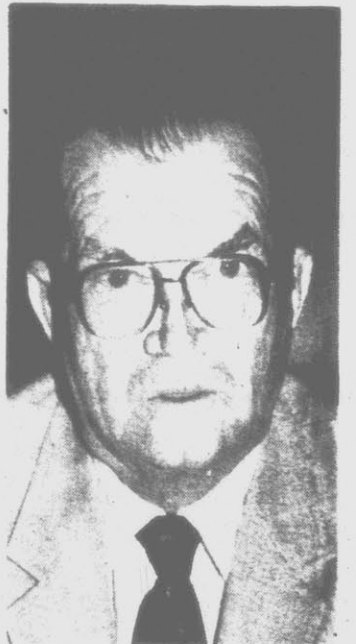

Although record highs were reached Wednesday across the state, temperatures today were expected to only reach into the 40s and 50s. In the west, ski resort operators perked up after weather forecasters predicted a chance of freezing rain today and snow flurries Friday. In the east, the forecast calls for rain tonight tapering off to scattered showers Friday. Lows will range from near 30 in the northwest to around 50 near the coast. Highs Friday will remain in the 40s in the east with some 50s near the coast. Rainfall amounts varied considerably, with most of the state receiving from one-half to 1½ inches by late morning.

Lloyd Mills Retires

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
Greenville Postmaster Lloyd Mills retired today with 40 years and seven months of government service — 38 of them in the Greenville Post Office. He's only 60 years old and he's energetic and in good health, so he anticipates lots of years of golfing, community volunteer work and working around the house and yard. He and Mrs. Mills, married since 1947, share household duties, she said. She is credit manager at Brody's women's apparel. He also hopes they can see more of their children — Harold of Wilson, Carolyn of Goldsboro and Sammy of Louisburg, and of their grandson. One of his major continuing endeavors will be yard work — he's chief yard man for himself and his wife, his mother-in-law and a neighbor who's in the nursing home. Mills was born on a farm that would now be inside the city limits of Greenville. Then it was two miles out in the country — at the intersection of Red Banks Road and Charles Street. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II, then came home and began work as a special delivery messenger for the Postal Service. From that he rose through the ranks until he was appointed postmaster 13 years ago when he succeeded Joe Dudley, under whom he'd served as assistant postmaster. "When I started work here there were 20 postal employees," he said. At the time of his retirement, he and three supervisors were managing about 100 people and were responsible for the administration of $4 million worth of postage — 35 million pieces of mail a year. The Postal Service in Greenville is going to continue to grow, he predicts. "It's growing every year," he said. "This past year alone we added 2,000 deliveries. Every time you see a new apartment complex, just think that every one of those apartments that's occupied gets mail deliveries and you'll see how our work grows." He was formally retired at noon today and Officer-in-Charge Nancy Wood will take over and remain here from three to four months acting as postmaster until his successor is named. Applications will be received from the 11-state Southern region.

Chamber's New Leader Says Road, Air Transportation To Be Stressed

Ray Boleman, an executive for Planters National Bank, will take the reigns of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce for 1985, organization officials announced today. Boleman has been elected chairman of the board of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce, the largest chamber of commerce east of Raleigh, according to officials.

The new chairman announced today that business and commercial economic development and industrial development will be the major goals of the chamber for 1985. The chamber will give "undivided attention to improved transportation by highway and air," Boleman stated. In addition, he said agriculture concerns are "major to our economy" and that the chamber would "expend much effort in helping to bring about a more solid base."

Boleman indicated a civic center for Pitt County would also be a major goal and said the chamber would "work very closely with Chancellor John Howell of East Carolina University for the accomplishment of this center with a regional purpose."

The chamber's proposed plan of work for 1985 will require a budget of $296,025, eight staff members and over 600 volunteers, Boleman said.

The vice chairman who will work with Boleman include John McConney, executive vice chairman; Bill Clark, vice chairman of budget and finance; Frank Wooten, vice chairman of legal counsel; Mavis Butts, vice chairperson of community development; Phil Dixon, vice chairman of economic and industrial development; Ed Kirby, vice chairman of organization and membership, and Chris McCoy, vice chairman of public and governmental affairs.

Ed Walker, president of the chamber, announced the following staff positions for 1985: Pat Burnette, administrative assistant and manager of organization and membership; Frances Faust, manager of community development and communications; Joan Giordano, manager of public and governmental affairs and special projects; Becky Bell, executive secretary; Barbara Woods, receptionist and manager of research; Betty Shinn, account executive, and Clara Carr, bookkeeper.

Deficits Top The Agenda As 99th Congress Convenes

WASHINGTON (AP) — As lawmakers gathered on Capitol Hill for today's start of the 99th Congress, a key House Democrat predicted that President Reagan's second legislative honeymoon will be a short one.

"I think the honeymoon is going to be over by February," said Rep. William H. Gray III, D-Pa., expected to be named later this week as chairman of the House Budget Committee.

The panel will be a key battleground in the fight over ways to cut the nation's $200 billion deficit, a problem that tops the agenda of both chambers.

"You already see Republican members of the House and Senate backing away from his budget proposals at 1,000 miles per hour. And you see total indecision in the White House," Gray said in an interview Wednesday.

Both the Republican-controlled Senate and the Democratic-led House were meeting at noon today, but Congress is not expected to engage in serious work until Jan. 22 — the day after Reagan is sworn in for a second term.

Reagan has not offered a specific plan to cut deficits, but has said he wants to do so without either raising taxes or making major cuts in defense spending. His stance has been met with skepticism even from congressional GOP leaders.

First order of business for the 435-member House of Representatives was election of a speaker for the next two years, a race that the incumbent for the past eight years, Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., already had wrapped up.

The House leadership vote — the first House vote of any Congress — always breaks down along party lines. And Democrats, while losing 14 seats in the November elections, enjoy a comfortable 252-183 margin in the House.

The Senate, where Republicans lost two seats in November but still control the chamber, now by a 53-47 margin, were to meet today, with little substance on the agenda.

The return of Congress today marked the first day on the job for the Senate's new majority leader, Robert Dole of Kansas.

Dole beat four challengers last fall in the race to succeed Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., who retired to practice law and prepare for an anticipated bid for the presidency in 1988. As a party position, Dole's selection does not require a vote by the full Senate.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., is continuing as minority leader.

The House faced the prospect of serving as referee in an election challenge over an Indiana House seat. Both incumbent Democrat Frank McCloskey and GOP challenger Richard D. McIntyre have claimed victory in the close race and both said they were planning to appear in the floor today to be sworn in.

Recounts in the election — which in preliminary rounds have variously shown each candidate ahead — are still going on.

McIntyre has been certified as the "winner" by Indiana's secretary of state, but Democrats have claimed the official, a Republican, acted on purely partisan grounds, contending the election remains too close to call.

Major skirmishes are anticipated in the 99th Congress over the budget as well as over Reagan's program for the MX missile and his support of anti-government forces in Nicaragua.

Efforts at tax simplification also are expected to be given considerable attention in the new session.

Gray's election as chairman of the Budget Committee by the House Democratic Caucus on Friday seemed assured. His last challenger for the post — Rep. Martin Frost, D-Texas — dropped his candidacy over the Christmas holidays.

Gray will succeed Rep. Jim Jones, D-Okla., who was barred by House rules from seeking the post again.

Gray said he plans to forge a bipartisan consensus on the budget and claimed the White House has not offered a politically viable budget plan.

NCDA Says Equine Feed Checks Still Needed

By SUE HINSON
Reflector Staff Writer

Although the number of equine deaths from corn carrying a toxin-producing mold has tapered off, agriculture officials are urging horse owners and caretakers to continue monitoring feed makeup.

According to Dr. T.B. Ryan of the N.C. Department of Agriculture, only six more cases have been confirmed since he reported the death of 24 horses in 12 eastern North Carolina counties Dec. 17. Counties where incidences of corn poisoning have been verified include Bladen, Columbus, Craven, Cumberland, Duplin, Durham, Johnston, Nash, New Hanover, Robeson, Sampson, Wake and Wayne. Deaths have been limited to one or two in most counties; however, Ryan reported that five horses located in Wake County have died from the toxin in past months.

Not all cases are referred to the Department of Agriculture, though, according to Ryan. "I'm sure there are a number of cases that we still don't know about ... we can't investigate every one," he said.

Ryan and Greenville veterinarian Michael J. House attributed the decline in deaths on state and local levels in part to efforts to eliminate corn from horses' daily rations. Despite the drop-off, both recommended that corn not be fed for the duration of the winter.

In a recent interview, Dr. House said he had been called in on six cases within a 15- to 20-mile radius of Greenville where symptoms indicated corn poisoning. According to House, consumption of the contaminated corn by horses creates a condition known as Equine Leucoencephalomalacia (ELEM). ELEM is considered incurable and is indicated by loss of appetite, visual problems, walking or running into fences or walls and agitation or drowsiness.

"The problem is," House said, "there's not a test for this toxin. You can't examine the feed to see if it's safe so the person with a valuable horse they love is in a kind of quandary."

"It's no small wonder then that people were getting upset about the situation," he added. "When you start talking about something you can't detect in feeds, that promotes quite a bit of anxiety."

According to the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service, steps horse owners and caretakers can take to avoid corn poisoning other than removing feed from their horses' diets include the following:

- Feed forages at a rate of 50 percent of total diet (unless horses are in a high production situation).
 - Avoid purchasing excessive amounts of grain mixes at one time.
 - Keep feed troughs clean.
 - Check feed storage for abnormal moisture levels.
- If your animals do begin to show signs of ELEM, agriculture officials say to discontinue use of feed, change to a ration of oats plus high-quality hay and contact your veterinarian immediately.
- For more information on ELEM and alternative feeding rations, contact the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service at 752-2934.

Property Taken

Greenville police are investigating three thefts reported to the department Wednesday.

Officer P.W. Worthington said a pair of shoes valued at $70, a .22 caliber pistol valued at $25, and a flashlight valued at $5 were taken from a vehicle parked at Tom's Restaurant on Maxwell Street in an incident reported at 7:42 p.m.

Officer T.G. Shane said three pairs of jeans were taken from a clothesline at 1300 Dunn Ave. in an incident reported at 7:44 p.m.

Officer L.E. White said $80 in cash was taken from 411A Hudson St., according to a complaint filed at 9:50 p.m.

Drivers Injured

Two persons were injured and an estimated $3,800 in damages resulted from a 3:50 p.m. collision at the intersection of Howell and Pitt streets Thursday.

Police identified the drivers of the cars involved as Levolia Allsbrook Garrett of 604 Norris St. and Charles Hugh McGowan Jr. of 1407 E. Fourth St. Damages were set at $2,000 to the Garrett car and $1,800 to the McGowan vehicle.

Officers, who said both drivers were injured in the mishap, charged McGowan with failing to stop for a stop sign and charged Ms. Garrett with driving without a license.

Representatives from the state Department of Revenue, Employment Security Commission, Vocational Rehabilitation and the Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) will speak. Participants should bring a pocket calculator.

City Taxes Due

Floyd Little, the city's collector of revenue, reminded taxpayers that 1984 city taxes are due and must be paid no later than Jan. 7 to avoid interest and collection enforcement proceedings. A 2 percent interest charge will be added to taxes which are not paid prior to Monday.

Questions concerning city taxes should be directed to the tax department, 752-4137.

Benefits Seminar

A seminar on the taxability of Social Security benefits, which will be held jointly by the Internal Revenue Service and the Social Security Administration, is scheduled for Jan. 17 at 9 a.m. in room 209 of the Hunter Building at Pitt Community College. The IRS had previously announced that the seminar would begin at 10 a.m.

Slide Show Given

Former Greenville area resident Kerri Nolan presented a slide show of her experiences in Nicaragua at a special meeting Tuesday of the ECU-Greenville Peace Committee.

An East Carolina University graduate working on a degree in Latin American studies at the University of Florida, Ms. Nolan went to Nicaragua last summer to do research on the Misquito Indians. She traveled to Nicaragua on a 108-foot sailing ship, built prior to 1910, which was taking donated supplies to the people there. She plans to return in May.

Students Returning To Classrooms Here

Students returned to classrooms after Christmas holidays this week in the Greenville and Pitt County schools and at Pitt Community College, while some East Carolina University students prepared for the spring semester with registration and drop-add.

The Pitt County school system resumed its regular schedule Wednesday. The last day of classes before Christmas was Dec. 20 in the county. Greenville schools began classes today, after a vacation which began Dec. 14.

At Pitt Community College, classes began again Wednesday; Christmas holidays for PCC students began Dec. 19.

East Carolina University students who preregistered and do not have to go through drop-add to get the schedule they want for the spring semester are still enjoying their holiday, said Bill Shires of the ECU News Bureau. Classes at the university resume Monday.

"Today is registration day and tomorrow is for drop-add and late registration, which will continue through Jan. 8," Shires said. "Most of the students preregistered, and those students will be returning to campus this weekend."

Shires said 12,500 students are expected to be enrolled in the university for the spring semester.

Clowning Duo Tackle Today's Issues On TV

By SUE CROSS
Associated Press Writer

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — To a generation of Toledo children, Beve Schwind and Sue Donner are just kids who never grew up — silly, slapstick television clowns who taught their table manners, egg carton crafts and the Golden Rule.

The duo's floppy wigs and painted faces have changed little in the 14 years they have played "Patches and Pockets," on Toledo television — but their humor today might have shocked parents of preschoolers who tuned in a decade ago.

Now Patches and Pockets turn their laughter loose on topics like child abuse and alcoholism, topics that were taboo when Mrs. Donner and Mrs. Schwind began clowning nearly 20 years ago. Now, they say, these are the most important aspect of their show.

"It's not easy to write about child abuse, but something's got to be done," said Mrs. Donner, a 50-year-old mother of two grown children. "Parents are now seeing this and are teaching their children different things, like don't even talk to anyone. I think it's a little frightening for them (the children) — but I'd rather have them that way than not have them at all."

For Mrs. Schwind, it is far easier to put on the crazy-quit dress and yellow braids that transform her into Patches each week than it is to put a mask of cheerfulness on topics such as death and divorce.

"There's a lot more boldness now than when we started on television. For us to talk about sex abuse the way we did, it was difficult at first. We had to change our thinking," said Mrs. Schwind, a 48-year-old nurse.

"Fourteen years ago, there was a different kind of language — you didn't even talk about things like that," she said. "It's upsetting to think that we have to ... you would like to have kids go through their childhood thinking everyone is kind and good.

"We're speaking on some of those issues because they say half the kids nowadays in a classroom are from a one-parent home, so you can't really talk about mom and dad."

Mrs. Donner, who turns back her years to the childlike character of Pockets, a comical little boy with orange yarn hair and pockets full of surprises, said the two found ways to use comical words and actions to keep life's less-funny lessons from disturbing the children.

Patches and Pockets are taking their more serious messages beyond northwest Ohio through videotapes to be distributed to schools by the American Legion.

The series of 16 tapes — four each on child abuse, drugs, alcohol and using automobile seat belts — was produced by Register Cable News, Sandusky, Ohio, which sold distribution rights to the local American Legion chapter.

The tapes feature "Deputy Judy," in real life Ottawa County Sheriff's Deputy Judy Crosser, a friend for children to turn to if they are touched in ways they don't like by adults, if a friend is being abused or if they see drugs used at school.

The tapes are a new beginning for the women, who started performing as volunteers in local churches.

"We use to receive for payment for a while jars of jelly and aprons," Mrs. Donner recalled of their first performances 17 years ago. "Somebody offered us a job one time to pay us and we couldn't believe it."

The first few paid performances grew into frequent invitations to appear at shopping malls. Three years after they started, Patches and Pockets beat out 39 other acts for a four-days-a-week spot on local television.

"We're two housewives and we decided we like to make children laugh," said Mrs. Donner. "How many mothers can put on a costume and have children run up and say, 'I love you!'"

Mrs. Martin To Wear Red Gown

North Carolina designer Dennis Toney has designed and made Mrs. James G. Martin's gown for the Inaugural Ball scheduled for Friday in Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh.

Toney, who lives in Rutherfordton, also designed and made Mrs. James Holshouser's inaugural ball gown in 1972. He works for Doncaster Tanner, a manufacturer of women's apparel.

According to Toney, Mrs. Martin's gown is crafted of carnelian red Thai silk and is tyled with a fitted bodice and has an off-shoulder neckline. The neckline is encircled with a garland of organza puffs. The skirt is bell shape with a front panel effect.

Toney said he also designed and made a matching full length coat which is flared, cape style with the front edged in trapunto stitching.

Mrs. Schwind said children today might be less innocent, but otherwise were no different from their counterparts of a decade ago.

"I feel they are still the same. They still love to be loved and want you to like them and want you to hug them," she said. "They still yell the same things; they still laugh at the same things."

At Wits End

By Erma Bombeck

Now that the holidays are over, it's safe for the serious shoppers to go in to the aisles again.

I'm not bragging or anything, but I am a born to shop. At birth, my eyes could spot "SALE" through a brick building. My arms were not only retractable but were capable of stretching over three counters to grab a sweater at half price. My right hand was perfect 2 1/4-by-3 3/4-inch cup . . . the exact size of a charge card.

Amateur shoppers drive me crazy. It takes them 15 minutes to read a price tag, they take one garment at a time into the fitting room and after 8 or 10 hours . . . they run out of gas.

Deliver me from the "You get what you pay for" shoppers. They clutter the aisles comparing seams and measuring the jacket to see if it comes out even when you button it. Meanwhile, all the good stuff is gone.

My best friend is an "If I see something I need, I'll buy it" type. She's about as much fun as a snake coming up through the shower drain. I tromped around with her one day for five hours and she ended up with a spool of black thread that was on sale. If that's all I needed, I would have phoned it in.

For a while, I thought she was going to buy a blouse. She picked it up, examined it, and deliberated on it for what seemed like days. Finally, I said, "What is the most important thing in your life?"

She said, "My children."
"How long did it take you to make up your mind to conceive them?"

"Two years."

"And look how they turned out, so buy the blouse!"

A few years ago, my husband and I met a couple on a cruise and became friends. When we hit port, she asked innocently, "I wonder where the gift shops are." My husband simply put a postcard under my nose to sniff. Picking up the scent, I took them right to the door. It's a gift. Why not use it?

As a professional shopper I have developed an attitude: Buy in haste, repent in leisure. What will it matter to the universe in a few years whether you got stuck with a jumpsuit you can't drink liquids in or sale sheets for twin beds when you have doubles?

A husband who has forbidden his wife to go shopping with me again said to my husband, "What do you think Erma would do if you made $250,000 a year?"

"Easy," he said. "She'd spend $350,000."

It's lonely at the top of your profession.

Special Laboratory Can Aid Alzheimer's Disease Studies

Researchers at Duke University Medical Center say that brain tissue from victims of Alzheimer's disease, retrieved and frozen very soon after death, could provide crucial insight into the causes of the mysterious degenerative brain disorder.

A brain bank for such frozen tissue is being developed at Duke thanks to a $250,000 gift from Greensboro businessman Joseph M. Bryan, made in memory of his wife, Kathleen Price Bryan.

According to Dr. Allen D. Rosses, Duke professor and chief of neurology, the special laboratory could prove invaluable in studying the molecular foundations of Alzheimer's disease, whose cause and cure are unknown.

We're working with victims of Alzheimer's disease and their families to arrange well in advance for the retrieval of tissue as soon as possible after death," Rosses said. "This is crucial to study of the disease because the biochemistry of the brain deteriorates very rapidly after death."

Before it kills them, Alzheimer's disease slowly robs its victims of their memory and reason, making them increasingly helpless and dependent. Though it affects older people primarily, it can occur in middle age. As many as 3 million Americans may have the disease, by some estimates.

"Recently laboratory technology, particularly in molecular genetics, has given us the means of finding needles in haystacks," Rosses said, "but one of the major obstacles to Alzheimer's disease research has been a very human one."

To retrieve brain tissue rapidly, the patient must be in or near the hospital at the time of death, he explained. "That means building a special relationship with the family, perhaps over the course of several years," Rosses said. "They have to learn to trust us and have the desire to help us find the answers. This is a devastating disease, one that takes a severe toll emotionally on the families of the victims. Working through Duke's family support network, we've found that many of them are willing to help us."

The support network, a chapter of the Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association Inc., provides aid and comfort to thousands of Alzheimer's victims and their families in North and South Carolina. For more information about the network and its services call 919-684-2328.

Roses said the brain bank will be available to researchers at other institutions. Initial research projects at Duke will explore the prevalence of a number of nucleic acids in enzymes in normal and diseased brain to determine the chemical abnormalities of Alzheimer's disease. "No one has been able to properly measure this biochemical activity before," Rosses said, "and it could have implications for treatment."

Abby Says: 'There Are No Dumb Questions'

DEAR ABBY: What I am about to ask you may sound dumb, but I have to ask it regardless.

Recently I went to a chiropractor because of some back trouble. The first thing the doctor did was take a lot of X-rays. I never liked X-rays; I'm afraid of the radiation. Anyhow, he X-rayed right through my blue jeans, shirt and underclothes.

My question: Are these clothes safe to wear? I'm afraid they may be contaminated or radioactive because they were X-rayed through. If these clothes are contaminated, I won't hesitate to throw them away. I haven't worn them since I was X-rayed.

DUMB QUESTION

DEAR QUESTION: There are no "dumb" questions, just uninformed people who never learn because they're afraid of appearing "dumb."

The clothes you wore while you were X-rayed are safe to wear. The rays from an X-ray do not remain in the clothing.

DEAR ABBY: I was a happy, respectable wife for 40 years, and now I'm a lonely, respectable widow. I work, join women's clubs, do good works and spend a lot of quiet evenings watching television.

Do you know what I would like better than anything on earth? I'd like for my phone to ring right now, and hear a male voice say, "I'll be by in 15 minutes to take you to dinner and a movie—then we'll go to my place and spend the night."

In other words, at this late date, I'm plain boy crazy—more boy crazy than I ever was at 15.

Please tell me, Dear Abby, do other widows have this problem?

Very often when I see a nice-looking older man on the street, I wonder what it would be like to go out with him. And more.

My imagination just goes wild. I'm really ashamed of myself. Please tell me, am I normal? What's wrong with me? Do other widows have this problem?

YOUNG AT HEART

DEAR YOUNG: Nothing is "wrong" with you. You're normal, and you need not be ashamed of yourself. You're longing for some romance in your life, and you're fantasizing.

Other widows have the same problem, and so do some divorcees and married women.

And lest you think this problem is for women only, I assure you that men also hunger for romance.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Mrs. L. in Old Bridge, N.J." and thousands of others who think beer is harmless. My wife had surgery for a gall-bladder problem. Immediately after the operation, the surgeon summoned me by intercom to the operating room. He asked, "Why didn't you tell me your wife is an alcoholic?"

I replied, "I didn't know she was. Although she consumed four or five six-packs a week, I've never seen her intoxicated."

The doctor said, "Beer is as alcoholic as hard liquor if one consumes enough of it. Your wife's liver is so bad, had I known, I wouldn't have performed the surgery. She has only a few months more—at best."

Ten days later she died. I learned too late how "harmless" beer is. No name, please. I don't want our friends to know.

Second Thoughts

Americans tend to display a very gung-ho attitude about problem-solving to help their people. An idea or discovery emerges, a banner-bearer seizes it and whips up some enthusiasm. Good things are accomplished before impracticalities assert themselves and big-scale dreams dwindle.

"Cost effectiveness" has become a scare term that undercuts good intentions.

The Environmental Protection Agency has become trapped by the term. Everyone is in agreement that preservation of a clean and healthy environment is absolutely desirable and necessary; but at the same time it becomes evident there are limits (money-wise) as to what is essential and practical. Cost limitations vs. resulting benefits have become a point of argument in the industrial field involving just about every segment we can conceive. Court cases covering all kinds of EPA fields of interest are building across the country.

We're moving into the realm of cost-effectiveness in the field of human lives, and it's scary.

Some will remember when persons with end-stage renal disease were made Medicare beneficiaries regardless of their age or ability to pay. It seemed cheap and reasonable. In the early 1970s there were estimates of annual costs at about $100 million.

Those estimates proved far off base. By 1983 Medicare was spending more than $2 billion a year providing dialysis and transportation to some 70,000 kidney patients.

Now suppose implants of artificial hearts become a federally paid life-extending public benefit. The cost would dwarf the dialysis outlay sums by many billions of dollars ... raising questions of a "right" to such life-saving aid.

Coupled with that, there are any number of corrective treatments on the horizon for other life-threatening and crippling conditions whose complexities assure high-cost correction. Do they too become a "right" for everyone?

The thought runs head-on into conflict over priorities in allocating available sums. Government already has long-standing priorities which are competing among themselves for necessary funds. The present budget deficits tell us there hasn't been enough to go around. Taxpayers are not happy.

More than money questions lie ahead; there are ethical and maybe a whole re-defining of governmental responsibilities. Maybe we should take our second-thoughts now, instead of after it becomes too late.

Fleeting Warmth

Warm weather has been a joy to those who like to get outside and those who pay the heating bills. For North Carolina and eastern ski resorts it has created dismal conditions.

With no snow and temperatures too moderate even for manmade snow, obviously there is no joy in the ski business.

People go somewhere, however, and thousands headed for the beaches. Although the water might still be cold the air temperatures were perfect for walking on the sand and one could dream of summer.

It won't last, of course, and we will still face some bitter cold before spring finally arrives.

During the cold days of January, February and March there will be some who can recall fondly the carefree days at the beach. Only this time they will only have to remember the warm days of December.

Burger Makes Point For Expansion

WASHINGTON — In his year-end report, Chief Justice Warren Burger renewed appeals he has made before: federal judges are overburdened and underpaid, and he wants Congress to give them relief. He makes a convincing case.

In 1969, when Burger became chief justice, a federal district judge had a salary of $40,000. Today that salary is $76,000, but the increase is an illusion. Inflation has reduced the value of the 1969 salary to only $26,800. Over the 15-year period, 43 judges have resigned, "most of them because of inadequate compensation." Burger urges Congress to approve a substantial raise when all executive, legislative and judicial salaries come up for adjustment next year.

In Burger's view, the judicial corps is demonstrably earning its pay. Fifteen years ago a district judge, on the average, disposed of 311 cases. The average per judge in 1984 was 517 cases. Circuit courts have become even more productive. In 1969 appellate panels terminated 279 cases; last year these panels averaged 709 cases.

The problem is the problem that vexed old King Canute: The waves keep rolling in. In 1969 the district courts received 112,600 filings; last year they received nearly 300,000 filings. The number of appeals taken to the circuit courts has tripled in this same period. At the level of the Supreme Court, cases roll in at the rate of 100 a week. The nine justices "must now work beyond any sound maximum limits."

"Absolutely no room remains for additional cases. More important, the precious time for reflection so necessary to a court that decides cases with far-reaching consequences has been reduced to, and possibly below, an absolute minimum."

Burger renews two recommendations he has made before. Under existing law, the Supreme Court must review certain cases brought on appeal. In the 1983-84 term, the court had to accept 26 such cases, and many of them clearly did not justify the court's consideration. Burger would abolish this mandatory appellate jurisdiction and give the high court complete discretion over its docket. Last year the House approved a bill for this purpose, but the Senate never acted. To provide this relief is the least that Congress could do.

Congress could do something

RALEIGH — That was some surprise Gov. Jim Hunt sprung on everybody the day he released his 1985-86 budget. Hunt announced that his administration was transferring 355 acres of the prime real estate in Raleigh from the Department of Human Resources to N.C. State University. No hint of the transfer had appeared in public, nor even in the unofficial rumor winds which swirl around the Capitol.

The land transfer — which NCSU Chancellor Bruce Poulton called a "benefaction" — immediately raised howls from several members of the Council of State who felt they should have been consulted. They had a good case, as does the public, in arguing the need for consultation. The unilateral move showed the arrogance of power that can come at the end of an administration.

It's hard to argue with the decision to transfer the land from Dorothea Dix Hospital to the university. As Hunt said when he signed the land over to NCSU, "That campus has been filling up ... it is pretty much hemmed in ... we ought to take advantage of this land to give the university some growing space."

Dix doesn't need the land and other uses such as a farmer's market, industrial park and residential subdivision had been discussed for the site. They're all good ideas but considering the proximity of the land to NCSU, the transfer may be a farsighted investment capable of paying dividends as rich as the initial investment which got the university started in 1887.

While it's hard to argue with the decision, it is not difficult to find fault with how the decision was made. It appears that this is the best use for the land but who can be sure when the public was never afforded the right to have all the options researched and then discussed in public?

Questions can be raised. Is N.C. State currently making the best use of the land it already owns? There are NCSU farm animals grazing in fields closer to the center of campus than the land Hunt has transferred. Is prime Western Boulevard real estate best suited to grazing or should that be done someplace out of town, or on other farmland NCSU owns? Is there a need for this much new land for the university? Is there land available on campus that would suit future growth?

What is Hunt's justification for excluding the public and its representatives from taking part in this decision? Politics.

John A. Williams Jr., state budget officer, says it had to be kept quiet — so quiet not even the mayor of Raleigh could be told. For one year, NCSU studied how it could best use the land and kept its study quiet, Williams said, because Hunt was afraid the issue would get wrapped up with his campaign for the U.S. Senate.

Hunt "did not want this to become a political issue ... so he kept it very hush, hush and quiet." Williams said. Did Williams really think this was the kind of thing Jesse Helms would make an issue of? "Everything was a political issue. Every time the governor made an appointment, it was a political issue," he said.

Williams denied that Hunt was gun shy about the Dix property because the hospital's future has raised so much controversy in the past few years.

Hunt wants a total of more than 1,000 acres to go to N.C. State but has been advised that he had the authority to transfer only 355 acres. About 750 adjacent acres can only be transferred with legislative approval. Maybe when the Legislature gets together, there'll be public discussion with plenty of questions and answers.

Public Forum

To the editor:

Once again Americans are advised to behold the mote that is in their brother's eye and not the beam that is in their own. I'm referring to Mr. Kittrell's letter in Sunday's paper. It noted criticism of U.S. violations of Nicaraguan sovereignty and asked "Where is the 'hue and cry' on behalf of the Afghan people?"

As one of the "others" who are guilty of "criticizing our country's foreign policy," let me repeat: We condemn the aggression of the Soviet Union in Afghanistan; we feel for the Poles and the Czechs — and the Soviet people, too. But I get a little tired of the call to bleed for Islamic freedom fighters. In a conservative Islamic society, what freedom does a woman have?

Strength For Today

God will not tolerate a divided allegiance. He must have the whole of our heart's devotion if he is to have fellowship with us.

We all recognize the hideous character of such sins as lying, stealing, committing adultery, or indulging in violence. Yet strangely enough, the Bible and the outstanding teachings of the church have always held that pride, avarice, jealousy, selfishness, and the like are really sins which devastate the soul with equal force. We can in a measure avoid the gross sins because everyone understands their evil nature. But pride can creep in on us, avarice can devastate our souls, jealousy can make us unhappy and separate us from God — and all without our knowing it.

Let us ask ourselves before we utter our prayers whether or not we are really putting God first. Is he Lord of all? — because if he is not, then we can be sure that he is not Lord at all.

HOPING THE DOMINO THEORY DOESN'T WORK!

Celebrating The New Year

LOS ANGELES — A great injustice has been committed here. We weren't invited to Hugh Hefner's annual New Year's Eve party.

Perhaps the Postal Service lost our invitation to the Playboy magnate's bash in the Christmas mail. But we suspect that old Hugh intentionally excluded us. What a lousy way to start 1985.

After all, an invitation to the "right" New Year's Eve party is what so many of us crave. To be seen at a conventional extravaganza isn't worth the effort of getting there. That's why Hugh's party seemed so enticing; it's different.

From those who've clinked glasses at the Playboy mansion at the stroke of midnight, we've heard wonderful descriptions of Hugh's originality. For starters, every guest — no fewer than several hundred of Hugh's closest pals — is asked to wear pajamas. The more outlandish the bedtime wear, we've heard, the better.

Then there's the 45-minute wait to clear security at the mansion gate.

Even the Jacksons couldn't match that during their recent Victory Tour.

Once inside Hugh's house, friends say, a guest quickly forgets the lengthy delay. There are mountains of hors d'oeuvres, oceans of booze and the indoor grotto, into which packs of comely individuals (of both sexes) have already dipped. No one ever worries about becoming too friendly with any one of the affable Playboy bunnies in attendance; beefy security guards stand ready to prevent one's primal instincts from getting the best of him.

Some party poopers might insist that Hugh's way of bringing in the new year is tacky and overblown.

But let's be honest. Many of us grew up watching Guy Lombardo's orchestra on television live from New York on New Year's Eve. The sight of all those reveling New Yorkers was enough to hook us at an early age.

more. It could take a flier on Burger's second recommendation. Once again he urges creation of a temporary panel of circuit judges who would sit in Washington for perhaps four weeks a year. Their function would be to settle conflicts among the 13 circuit courts of appeal. The panel's decisions, unless modified by the high court itself, would be binding on all federal judges.

The proposition makes sense. It would cost the taxpayers virtually nothing, for the circuit judges who would compose the court already are on the federal payroll. The administrative expenses would amount to no more than nickels and dimes, but the investment would enable the Supreme Court to turn its attention to larger matters.

In the present term of court, three of the five cases thus far decided have involved intercourt conflicts. One case dealt with a Tennessee drug dealer who had been convicted of a narcotics offense in 1974; the question was whether, if the defendant testified, evidence of the prior conviction could be used to impeach his credibility. A second case involved a San Diego woman indicted for possession of cocaine with intent to sell it; a jury acquitted her on that count, but found her guilty of using a telephone as part of a drug conspiracy. The question was whether these inconsistent verdicts could stand. The third conflict stemmed from the conviction of an alleged counterfeiter for attempting to rob a Secret Service agent. The statute punishes the robbery of any custodian of "mail matter, or of any money or other property" of the United States. The question was whether the law was intended to apply only to thefts of mail, or whether it could be applied generally.

None of the three cases amounted to a row of beans. The high court disposed of two of them without a dissenting opinion. In the robbery case, Justices Stevens, Marshall and Brennan took the view that the old postal statute was so clearly intended to apply only to mail carriers that it could not be interpreted broadly. The six other justices concluded that the disjunctive phrase, "or of any money or other property," was clear on its face. Burger's point is that the high court has better things to do with its limited time, and Burger is right. The intercourt panel deserves a try. Copyright 1985 Universal Press Syndicate

Forsyth Man Holds Off Police

PFALFTOWN, N.C. (AP) — An area of a Forsyth County town became a neighborhood under siege as police spent seven hours convincing a man accused of shooting a nearby resident to give himself up.

Forsyth County sheriff's deputies and State Highway Patrol officers set up roadblocks on all roads for about 1 1/2 miles around the house where the suspect was holed up.

V. Garnett Wooten, 34, of Pfaltown held police at bay for seven hours before surrendering without resistance at about 10:20 p.m. Wednesday, according to a spokeswoman with the Forsyth County Sheriff's Department.

No one was injured during the standoff, said Capt. George L. Sweat of the Winston-Salem Police Department.

A spokesman for the sheriff's department identified the wounded man as Wesley G. Morris, 71. Wooten and Morris live on the same street just outside the Winston-Salem city limits, Sweat said.

Wooten was charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill inflicting serious injury to Morris. The warrant said that Wooten shot Morris with a rifle in the left back, resulting in a bullet wound requiring hospitalization and surgery.

Court Says Equal Split Mandatory

RALEIGH (AP) — Property acquired during a marriage should be split down the middle when a couple divorces — even if much of the property came from relatives of one of the spouses, the North Carolina Court of Appeals ruled.

The decision came Wednesday in the case of an Orange County couple. Ben and Anne Loeb, who had been married 21 years when they divorced in 1982. The couple had been given 232 acres of Tennessee land from Mrs. Loeb's mother during their marriage.

Mrs. Loeb contended that property distribution should be weighted in her favor because the land had come from her mother and because her income was much lower than her husband's.

But the court, citing the state's 1981 Equitable Distribution Act, said marriage was "a partnership, a shared enterprise to which both spouses make valuable contributions, albeit in different ways."

The court said it disagreed with Mrs. Loeb's contention that the jointly held Tennessee tracts were her "separate property."

The Equitable Distribution Act provides that property acquired during a marriage will be divided fairly — usually in a 50-50 split — when a couple divorces.

At the time of the divorce, Loeb earned an annual income of $50,000 while Mrs. Loeb had a part-time job earning $7,000 a year. The Tennessee land given by Mrs. Loeb's mother — including a 196-acre farm and a 36-acre farm — was listed under a joint title to both husband and wife.

The court said that under the Equitable Distribution Act, property acquired by either spouse during the marriage is presumed to be joint marital property unless evidence clearly shows otherwise.

Hunt Opposing Atkinson Parole

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt has joined other state officials in opposing parole consideration for convicted drug smuggler Leslie "Ike" Atkinson.

"Ike Atkinson has been engaged in a continuing criminal enterprise for years," Hunt wrote in a letter to the commissioner of the U.S. Parole Commission, dated Dec. 31. "His conduct should not be rewarded with parole at an early date."

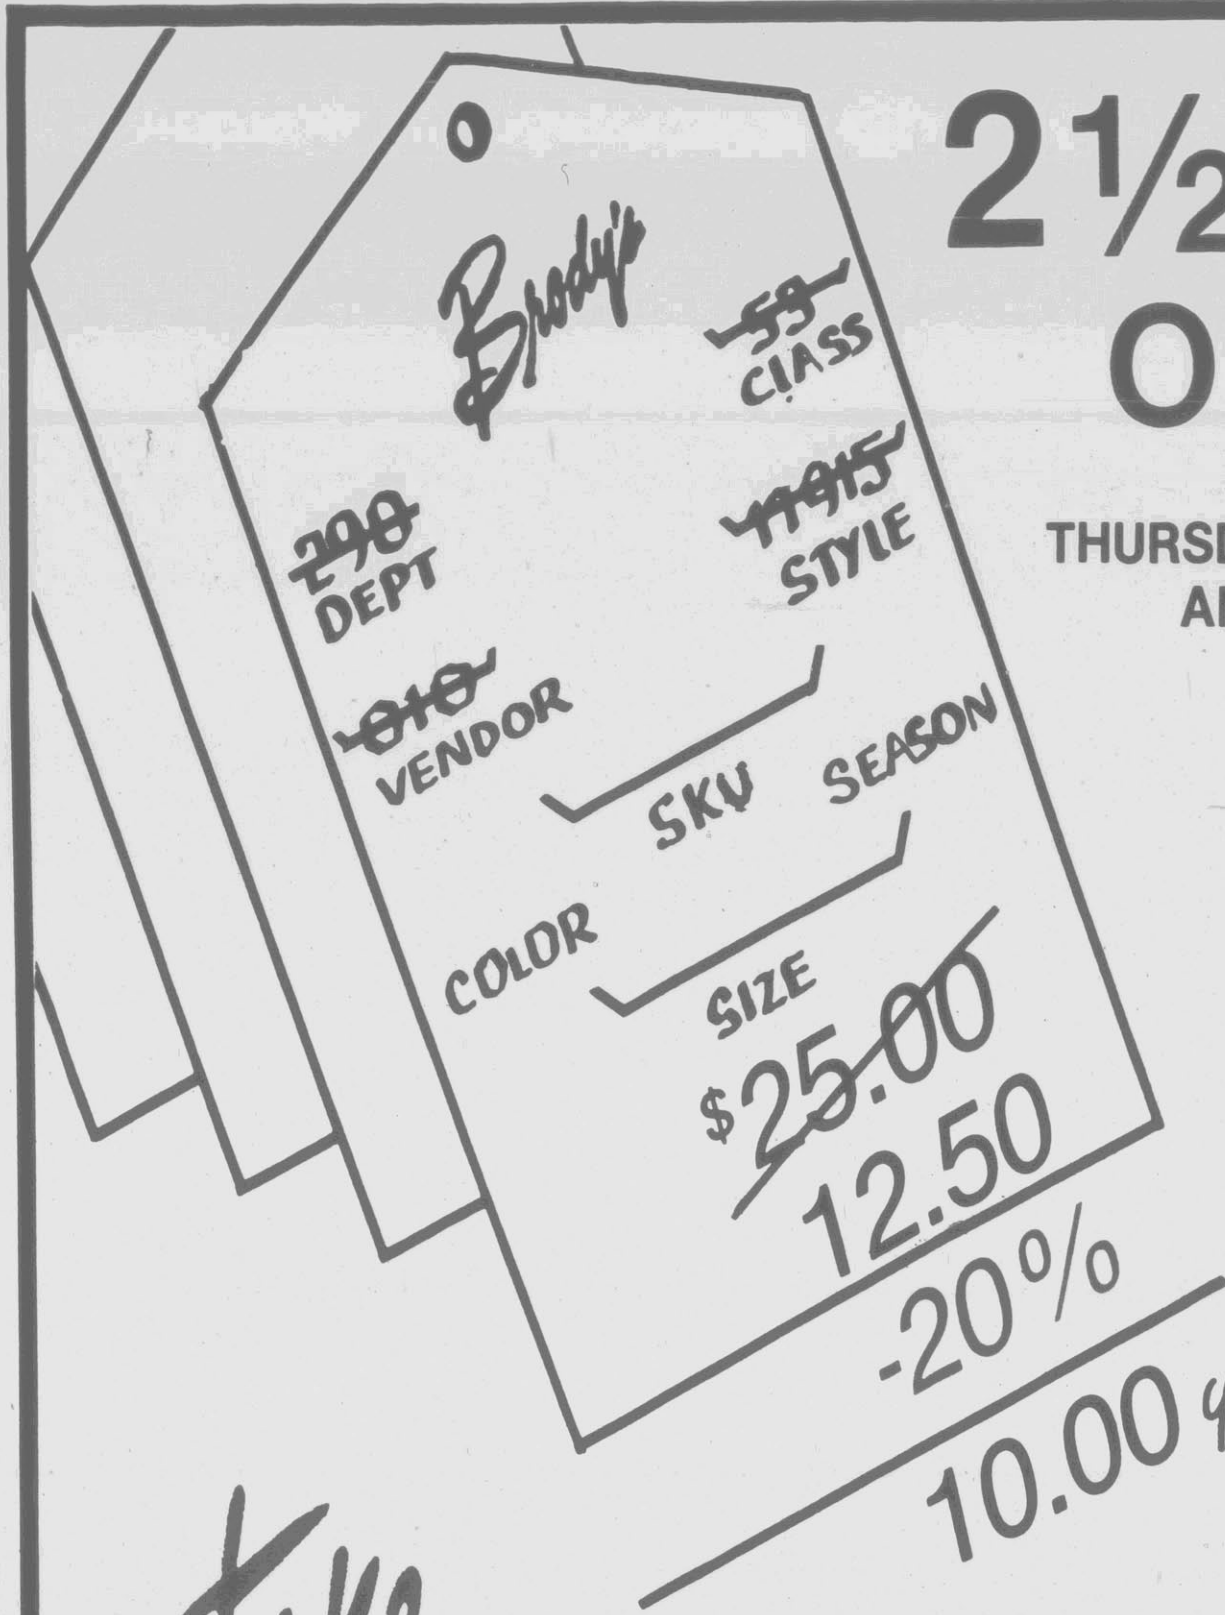

Other state officials have already said they will fight the scheduled parole of Atkinson.

A former Army master sergeant, Atkinson became legend in the 1970s when his band of non-commissioned officers smuggled an estimated ton of pure heroin annually into the nation. The ring was dubbed "The Thai Connection" after the drug's country of origin.

Atkinson was arrested and convicted in 1975 to 19 years in prison on heroin charges. He was charged again in 1976 with continuing the drug ring from a federal penitentiary in Atlanta and sentenced to 25 years in prison.

According to prison records, the earliest date Atkinson could have been paroled was Oct. 28, 1983. The parole was set in motion on Jan. 27, 1984, with a release target date of one year.

"It took law enforcement agencies over ten years to break up Atkinson's drug trafficking ring," Hunt said. "It took a cooperative effort from state, local and federal officials covering several states."

HBO To Show 1968 Elvis Tape To Mark Presley's Birthday

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The year was 1968. Elvis Presley, "The King" of rock 'n' roll, the living legend, had long ago gone Hollywood — putting aside TV and records for unexceptional but lucrative movies. At 33, he was facing a TV comeback.

"I sensed a great fear in Elvis of going on TV and failing," recalls Steve Binder, who became Elvis' producer for his important "comeback special."

"He had not been on the record charts for a couple of years, and the movies were just about over," says Binder. "He told me the people had made him. He hadn't been on TV in 10 years and he was unsure whether they would accept him again."

Accept him they did, but the NBC special that audiences saw then was just a fraction of what had been taped. The rest, it was believed, had been thrown away.

Now, 16 years later, an extra hour of Elvis, rediscovered in a vault at NBC, is being aired for the first time in its entirety as a Home Box Office special to mark what would have been Elvis' 50th birthday.

"It's like discovering a bank account you didn't know you had opened," says Binder. "Here is one hour of the man, with no frills, showing why he was so special. ... It's the greatest tribute that could be paid to him."

The HBO special, "Elvis: One Night With You," which will be shown seven times beginning Jan. 5 and including his birthday of Jan. 8, is an invaluable addition to the Presley legend.

It is essentially an improvisation, a jam session on a bare stage with Elvis and his faithful backup men singing the songs they loved best.

The result is electrifying, an intimate glimpse of Elvis at ease, lean and handsome in a black leather suit, cracking jokes, talking music and, most of all, singing in a voice at the peak of its power only nine years before his death.

There are renditions of, "That's All Right Mama," "Heartbreak Hotel," "Lawdy Miss Clawdy," "Trying to Get to You" and one never recorded by Elvis, "Going Up, Going Down," that capture the gutsy rhythm 'n' blues origins of Elvis' sound.

Binder, who was 23 in 1968 and who has since become an Emmy winning producer of multiple TV specials with top stars, clearly treasures his brief time with Elvis.

The improvisation, he recalls, was "an afterthought," added to the more traditional, big-production special.

"Elvis lived at NBC for a week when we were taping," Binder recalls. "Every night after the show, Elvis would get in the dressing room with the musicians and they would start singing old R 'n B songs. I thought, 'If only I had a hidden camera in there. That was the germ of the idea.'"

After much coaxing, Elvis and his manager, Col. Tom Parker, agreed to tape an informal jam session. But Elvis almost backed out.

"Five minutes before we were to go on, I got a panicked message that Elvis wanted to see me," Binder remembers. "He said, 'I think we made a mistake. I can't think of anything to say or sing. What if I walk out and nothing happens?'" Binder convinced him to go on.

"Once he went out there and began singing, it was wonderful to watch the confidence ooze back into him," Binder says.

Although the producer fought to include the jam session in the 1968 special, NBC vetoed it due to time constraints. A few minutes of the tape were shown after Elvis' death in 1977, but this is the first airing of the entire segment which also will be marketed as an RCA video.

As Binder points out, the show has added value now, capturing for posterity — "the indefinable magic, the reason why there's an Elvis Presley only once in a lifetime."

Marshals

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Singers Wayne Newton and Melissa Manchester will serve as marshals when the Krewe of Endymion rolls Feb. 16 in festivities and a parade leading up to Mardi Gras.

Newton, who was an Endymion marshal in 1978, and Miss Manchester will join Fats Domino and his orchestra for the traditional big party in the Louisiana Superdome after the Saturday night parade, officials said Wednesday.

Endymion was a handsome, young shepherd who, according to Greek mythology, was loved by Selene, the goddess of the moon.

'Beverly Hills Cop' Sets Ticket Record

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Moviegoers spent $26.6 million to see "Beverly Hills Cop" last week, a record amount for a non-summer film, Paramount Pictures officials said.

"It's remarkable," Barry London, the studio's president of domestic distribution said Wednesday. "The film in 28 days of release has averaged $3,004,000 a day — which is incredible. It means more than 26 million people saw this film in a four-week period."

The $26.6 million for the week ending Jan. 1 represented a 44 percent increase over the previous week even though both weeks included five-day holiday weekends, London said in a telephone interview from New York.

The Eddie Murphy smash broke the old non-summer record of $22.2 million, which it set itself in its first week, London said.

Released a month ago, "Beverly Hills Cop" has hauled in $84.1 million, the fifth highest four-week total in film history. Only "The Return of the Jedi," "Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom" and "E.T. The Extra-Terrestrial" and "Ghostbusters" — all summer releases — did better, London said.

The Disney re-release of "Pinocchio" came in second, MGM-UA's "2010" moved up a notch into third with $6.6 million at 1,213 screens; Goldie Hawn's "Protocol" displaced Warner Brothers stablemate "City Heat" at No. 4, and "Dune" — last week's second-highest grossing film — slipped to No. 8.

"Micki & Maude," the Columbia comedy starring Dudley Moore, moved into sixth place in its second week. "The Flamingo Kid" edged into 10th place with $4.4 million.

N.Y. Sets Aside Day For Presley

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Mario Cuomo, admitting he's not the "most committed fan" of "The King," has proclaimed Tuesday to be Elvis Presley Memorial Day, marking the 50th anniversary of the singer's birth.

In fact, neither the governor nor any of his staff noticed that the proclamation issued Wednesday incorrectly listed Presley's age as 32 at the time of his death in 1977. He was 42.

"We'll have to put out another proclamation," said aide Madeline Lewis.

Reagan, Nakasone Agree On Trade Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, after getting support from Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone for upcoming U.S.-Soviet arms talks, is back in the White House preparing to battle Congress over taxes and the budget.

After a six-day California vacation, Reagan met with Nakasone in Los Angeles for three hours Wednesday. They agreed to try to cut America's $34 billion trade deficit with Japan and make "serious efforts" to open that nation's markets to U.S. goods.

Few concrete results were announced after the session, but a senior administration official termed it "very satisfactory." He spoke on condition that he not be identified.

Although Congress formally convenes today, lawmakers are not expected to gear up fully until after the Jan. 21 inauguration.

Reagan pronounced his fifth meeting with Nakasone an "immense personal pleasure" and said it strengthened ties between the two nations.

The president said the trade issue — America's massive foreign exchange deficit with Japan and its lack of access to that nation's markets — was on the "top of the agenda."

"We discussed very candidly those areas where we have problems," Reagan said. "We agreed to work strenuously in the months ahead to open our markets fully and to resist protectionist pressures in both countries."

"I believe that we both agree that there is an urgent need to work together to resolve the problems in our trade relationship," he added.

Nakasone said his nation is determined to make a serious effort to ease tension over trade. He pledged that Japan "will promote economic policies that will enhance growth led by domestic private demand and will make further market-opening efforts."

The two leaders said Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Japanese Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe would oversee cooperative action on the economic front.

The president noted that he and Nakasone gave special attention to the Geneva talks between Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, scheduled for next Monday and Tuesday.

"I informed the prime minister of my intention to pursue effective arms reduction agreements with the Soviets seriously and zealously, while pointing out that we believe that some hard bargaining lies ahead," Reagan said.

He said the United States would keep in mind the interests of its allies and friends.

"I told Prime Minister Nakasone that if the Soviets are prepared to cooperate, then we will make progress. I'm grateful that the prime minister supported our approach to these negotiations," Reagan said.

Nakasone said he "fully supports" the initiation of arms control talks.

The official who briefed reporters after the session said Nakasone was also informed about the president's "Star Wars" anti-missile research program, known formally as the Strategic Defense Initiative.

The official said Nakasone expressed his "full understanding of the plan but acknowledged that the prime minister — echoing a stance taken by many U.S. allies in Western Europe — was less than enthusiastic."

"Full understanding is a shade short of full endorsement," he said. But he added that Nakasone voiced no "objection" or "disagreement" with the defense initiative.

U.S. Prices For Oil Futures Tumble

NEW YORK (AP) — American oil traders doubt that OPEC can keep cartel members from cheating on production and pricing, analysts said after crude oil and refined petroleum prices tumbled to five-year lows in futures trading.

West Texas intermediate crude oil, the major U.S. grade of oil, closed at $25.92 a barrel Wednesday, its lowest level since 1979.

The drop came in the first day of trading since the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries decided at its divisive yearend meeting to keep its benchmark grade of oil at $29 a barrel.

"The market doesn't believe that what OPEC did in Geneva will have any effect and I agree with the market," said William Randol, an oil industry analyst at the New York securities firm First Boston Corp.

"All the dominoes in the pricing system have already fallen," Randol said. "The benchmark at $29 looks kind of silly."

At one point Wednesday on the New York Mercantile Exchange, West Texas intermediate slid as low as $25.86 a barrel in contracts for February delivery. The close of $25.92 was down 49 cents from Friday, the last session before the New Year's break, and was the lowest level for crude oil since late 1979, said exchange spokeswoman Mary Ann Matlock.

In other contracts for February delivery, heating oil fell 2.18 cents to close at 71.14 cents a gallon, regular gasoline dropped 1.53 cents to 64.38 cents a gallon, and regular unleaded gasoline fell 1.9 cents to 66.20 cents a gallon — all the lowest levels since mid-1979.

"Most people in the oil industry are quite disappointed in the lack of progress by OPEC in stabilizing the market," said Edward Dellamonte, an oil analyst at the New York investment firm Prudential-Bache Securities Inc.

The drop in oil prices, and expectations of further declines, also helped boost the dollar to new heights, sent the British pound slipping to an all-time low of $1.145 and knocked the price of gold bullion to a 2½-year low of $302 a troy ounce.

Falling oil prices improve the prospect of controlling inflation, which makes the current high returns on dollar-denominated investments more attractive and reduces further the glitter of gold, a traditional hedge against inflation. The pound, meantime, suffers when oil prices fall because of Britain's reliance on revenue from its huge North Sea oil holdings.

Meeting in Geneva, Switzerland, last week, OPEC attempted to restore its credibility in world oil markets and to adjust its often-ignored pricing system by agreeing to hire outside auditors to keep track of member output and prices.

But the meeting adjourned without completing details of the plan and without deciding what, if any, penalties would be imposed on cheaters.

The meeting ended Saturday with Nigeria and Algeria refusing to go along with their 11 colleagues, which intensified doubts about OPEC's ability to re-exert control over oil prices.

California Ends Tent City Siege

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fourteen people tied themselves together with rags and chanted "We Shall Overcome" in a protest of welfare rules after state officials ordered a tent city for the homeless dismantled and forced hundreds of transients back on the streets.

Police arrested 13 of the demonstrators Wednesday night for investigation of trespassing in the protest at the County Hall of Administration.

About 1,000 people sought shelter in the tents set up Dec. 18 by a group of social workers called the Homeless Organizing Team, said spokesman John Malpede. There was space for about 300 people a night. City officials estimate as many as 50,000 people live on Los Angeles' streets.

The tent city was set up on state-owned land under a permit that expired the day after Christmas, when a one-week extension was granted.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market opened lower today, extending Wednesday's broad decline, amid mixed signals on the economy's course.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 4.52 points to 1,194.35 in the first half hour of trading.

More than four issues fell in price for every three that rose in the early going on the New York Stock Exchange.

On Wednesday, rising interest rates contributed to a slide in stock prices in the first trading session of 1985.

Many analysts have said it is likely that interest rates will rise further as credit markets are asked to absorb a flood of federal borrowing to meet huge budget deficits at a time when renewed economic strength is expected.

But interest rates retreated in bond and money markets in the early going today and economic indicators provided mixed signals.

The Commerce Department said sales of new single-family homes fell 10.6 percent in November, the biggest monthly slide since January 1982. In a separate report, however, the Commerce Department said that factory orders rose 4.3 percent in November, the strongest growth since June 1983.

Reflecting market uncertainties, eight of the 15 most active issues on the NYSE were unchanged in the opening minutes of trading.

Meanwhile, with oil prices at five-year lows in the open market and precious metals prices at 2 1/2-year lows, energy and mining issues were under pressure.

Mobil fell 1/4 to 26 1/2 and Inco was off 1/4 at 12.

On Wednesday, the Dow Jones industrials fell 12.70 points to 1,198.37.

Declines outpaced advances by about 3 to 2 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume slipped to 67.82 million shares from 80.26 million on Monday. Financial markets were closed Tuesday in observance of New Year's Day.

The NYSE's composite index fell .95 to 95.43. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .25 at 204.01.

Safe Containing $20,000 Stolen

Pitt County deputies are investigating the theft of a safe containing $20,000 to $24,000 in cash from a rural residence Wednesday evening, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

He said that Lyman Earl Harris of Route 1, Winterville, reported that someone entered his home a mile east of Venter's Crossroads while he was away and removed his iron safe. Harris told deputies the cash theft involved $100 bills.

Tyson said the safe, weighing approximately 1,000 pounds, was apparently rolled through the living room to the front steps and loaded into a vehicle. Entrance to the house was gained by forcing open a side door, Tyson said.

Pirates Host Boston University

East Carolina University's Pirates return to Minges Coliseum tonight, seeking a bit of revenge in a meeting with Boston University.

The Pirates and Terriers will be meeting for only the second time. Last year, the two battled most of the way before BU managed to slip to a 58-47 victory in Boston.

Thursday night, tipoff is set for 7:30 p.m. in Minges in the return match.

East Carolina comes into the game with a 4-4 record — having already equalled the entire victory output of last season. Boston University features a 4-5 mark, having won two of its last three games — including one over Drexel University, a team that beat the Pirates earlier in the season.

That game is perhaps the one that sticks the hardest in the craw of the Pirates so far this season. Coach Charlie Harrison admits that it was one of the poorer games played by the Bucs, and one he feels that they should have won. That could have brought the Pirates to this point with a 5-3 record.

The meeting between the Terriers and Drexel came in the consolation round of the Orange Bowl Basketball Tournament last weekend when BU claimed a 62-59 victory. For those who compare scores, ECU lost to Drexel, 80-73.

Boston had lost to Florida International, 59-54, in the tournament's first round, after having beaten Hartford, 90-66, earlier in the week in a warmup for the tourney.

East Carolina comes into the contest following a third place finish in the First Tulsa Classic. The Pirates fell, 86-63, to Tulsa, then downed North Texas State, 70-65. In the former game, Harrison felt the Pirates played an overall better game in defeat than they did in the latter game's victory.

Area fans will be familiar with one facet of the BU game, if not others. The Terriers are coached by former UNC star John Kuester, now in his second season as head coach at BU.

All five starters return from last year's team, which recorded a 16-13 record.

In the latest statistics available, the Terriers were led by 6-5 junior forward Paul Hendricks, who held a 16.5 average. Earlier this year, Hendricks earned All-Tournament honors in the Amana/Hawkeye Classic, and was also named the ECAC-North Atlantic Player of the Week that same week. He scored 44 points and pulled 20 rebounds in three games that week.

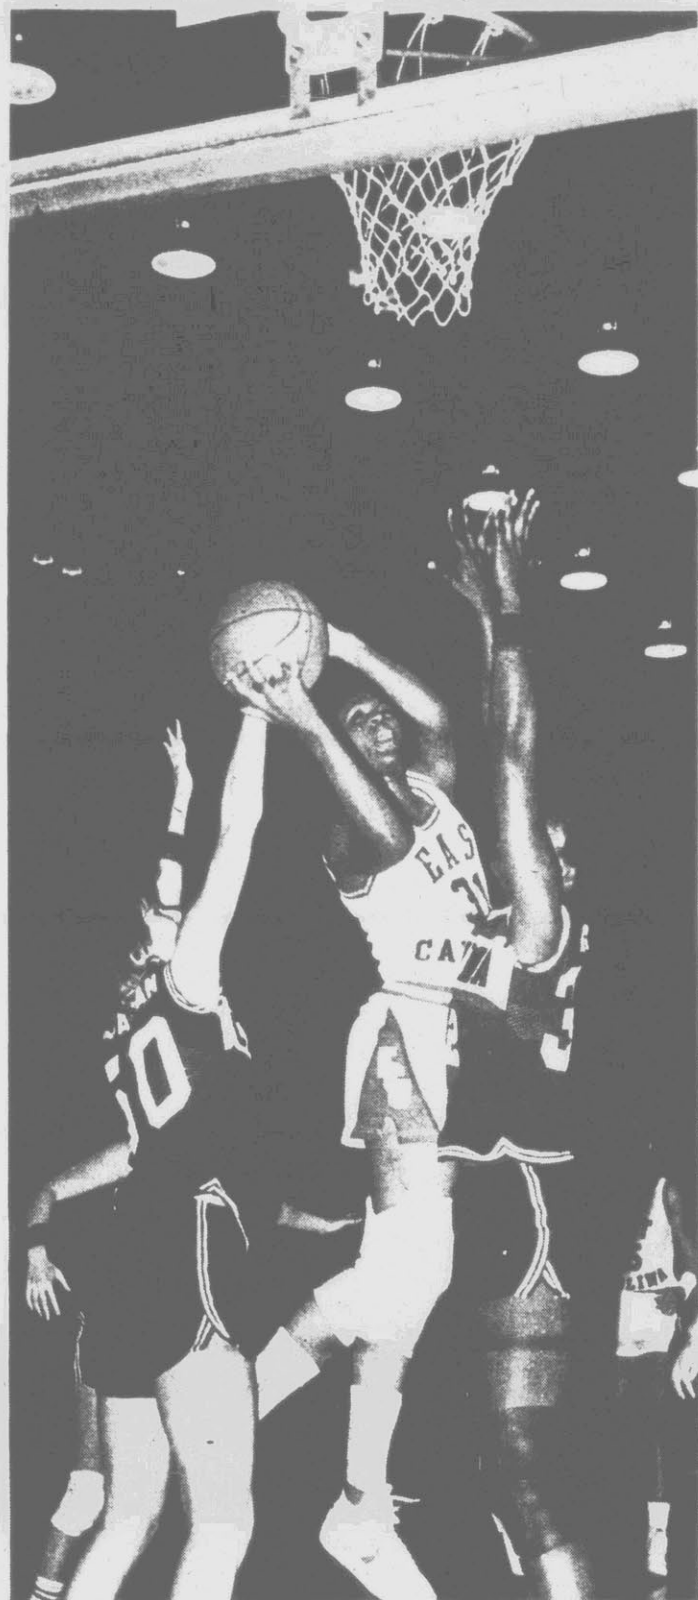

Also in double figures is 6-2 guard Shawn Teague, hitting 12.2 points a game, and 6-5 junior forward Mike Alexander, at 10.5. Alexander earlier this year became the 13th BU player in history to score over 1,000 points.

Other starters are expected to be 6-1 junior guard Dwayne Vinson, and 6-8 junior center Tom Ivey.

The contest is the last for the Pirates before they begin to move into their ECAC-South schedule. Their next game, Monday in Minges, will bring in George Mason, one of the league's pre-season favorites to win the league title this year.

Of 18 games left on the slate, 14 are within the conference.

Try For Two

Lady Gamecocks Top ECU

South Carolina outshot East Carolina's Lady Pirates, 11-2, in the first four minutes of the second half last night in Minges Coliseum and broke open a close basketball game, rolling to an 83-61 victory.

Both teams had battled through the first half on almost even terms with the Lady Gamecocks taking a 37-33 lead at the half. But after East Carolina's Monique Pompili cut it back to two on the opening basket of the half, South Carolina went on an 11-point tear over the next four minutes, running out to a 48-35 lead. East Carolina never recovered after that and South Carolina continued to pull away throughout the rest of the evening, leading by as many as 25 late in the contest.

South Carolina displayed more quickness in getting to the ball, but ECU Coach Emily Manwaring didn't feel that was the key to the game. "I expect us to play defense," she said. "We tried to work our zone defense and work people around. But it seemed like every time, we'd have someone who wouldn't come out and cover her man. Right now, we're not playing very smart. The game is played above the shoulders and we're lacking right now."

South Carolina was able to get open for more shots in the second half, hitting on 19 of 33 for the period — 57.6 percent. That after a cool 40.0 in the first half.

East Carolina, which has been having shooting problems, continued to have them, making only 31.6 percent for the game, including an icy 28.6 percent in the second half.

East Carolina did stay close in the rebounding, as South Carolina held a slim 51-50 edge in that department, led by Brantley Souther's 10 and Renee Najarian's nine. However, ECU's Lisa Squirewell led all with 13 while Anita Anderson added nine.

South Carolina, however, was credited with 23 assists as compared to just ten by the Lady Pirates — an indication of what was going on on the floor.

"What's frustrating is that it's not the whole team," Manwaring said. "We got great play from Anderson, who's playing hurt. And (Annette) Phillips played some good defense."

"But we tried to play better defense. We'd have one trying to cover two and they played cat and mouse with her until someone got open and the other defender didn't come out to cover. We're not the quickest team, but I don't place it on that."

Manwaring was also disappointed in the continued poor shooting percentage. "We practice and hit them okay. But practice isn't a game. We're not as good a team now as I thought we were going to be and we have to get better. But game after game, we've played a good first half and then fallen apart."

And that's the way it was last night.

South Carolina took the opening lead, but over the first 20 minutes, the game was tied seven times and there were four lead changes. East Carolina led after taking a 6-4 lead, and continued to hold South Carolina off until Gwen Lynch hit a 20-footer with 11:25 left for a 16-15 lead. The Lady Gamecocks moved out by three after that, but ECU rallied and regained the lead on a basket by Sylvia Bragg with 7:05 to go, 23-22. Phillips added a layup for a three-point edge for ECU and they held on until Sharon Gilmore hit to put the Lady Gamecocks back up, 28-27, with 4:12 left.

BYU Atop Final Polls; Huskies Finish Second

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Washington will have to wait until Sept. 14 before they can do something about Brigham Young, which ouppled the Huskies for the national football championship in the closest race since postbowl voting started in 1968.

On the second Saturday of the 1985 season, the two teams that finished a controversial 1-2 Wednesday in The Associated Press college football poll meet in Provo, Utah.

"It makes a good buildup," BYU Coach LaVell Edwards said after learning that his No. 1-ranked Cougars had overcome more than a month of almost constant criticism about the difficulty of his team's schedule and captured the first national championship in the history of the country's largest privately owned university.

"I'm sure both teams will be fired up," said Washington's Don James, who will have absolutely no trouble getting his players ready for that one. "I'll assume there'll be some sparks flying."

In the meantime, words of criticism continued to fly after BYU, the only unbeaten major-college team, received 38 of 60 first-place votes and 1,160 of a possible 1,200 points from The AP's nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters. The Cougars were ranked No. 1 for the final three weeks of the regular season.

"The relative merits and strengths of the leagues (Pac-10 and Western Athletic Conference) had been discussed for six straight weeks — that was the only hope we had," James said. "Week in and week out our players had to go against better athletes than BYU, not necessarily better teams. And Oklahoma played a tougher schedule than we did. We'll put up two fingers (instead of one) if we have to. In my opinion, we went through the season with the most difficult schedule with the best record. I'm disappointed we can't claim the national championship, but I'm not going to jump off the roof."

Washington, which ended the regular season ranked No. 4, defeated No. 2 Oklahoma 28-17 in the Orange Bowl for an 11-1 record — the most victories in its history — and finished behind BYU with 16 first-place votes and 1,140 points. On Dec. 21, Brigham Young defeated Michigan 24-17 and became only the second major-college team in the last 80 years — Nebraska's 1971 national champs was the other — to go 13-0.

BYU's margin of victory was the smallest since The AP went to a postbowl poll in 1968. Alabama won the 1979 national championship by 28 points over Southern California. The closest finish since The AP poll began in 1936 was Alabama's 16-point triumph over Ohio State in 1961 when the national championship was decided on the basis of regular-season play.

"That's incredible," was Edwards' reaction when informed in Palo Alto, Calif., where he will coach in Saturday's East-West Shrine Game, that BYU had convinced enough skeptics. "The way the whole thing is structured, it doesn't make sense that something like that could happen — but it did."

"No one in our part of the country has ever won it before. The fact that it requires a vote from people all over the country and an awareness of BYU is just really satisfying. There's no question that all the controversy added to our identity. I

Florida No. 1 On Computer

If there are any questions about Brigham Young's strength of schedule, the answers may be found in the final version of the Daily Reflector's Computer Rankings for 1984.

Brigham Young, which won the title on the Associated Press' and United Press International's poll, finished only fifth on the Computer Rankings.

The number one team for the 1984 season — Florida — which didn't get to play in the bowls because of being placed on probation by the Southeastern Conference. The Gators won the title, but were not made eligible to attend the Sugar Bowl.

The 9-1-1 Gators finished the year with a total of 853 points, 52 ahead of the second place team, Boston College. The 10-2 Eagles piled up 802 points on the year to finish second.

Third place went to Washington, which finished with an 11-1 record and 760 points, while Maryland (9-3) took fourth place with 750.

Brigham Young, 13-0, finished the season with 746 points.

The second five teams were Southern California, Texas, Southern Methodist, Louisiana State, and Nebraska.

The second ten consisted of Auburn, West Virginia, Penn State, Oklahoma, Iowa, Miami of Florida, South Carolina, UCLA, Virginia and Georgia.

Other area teams rankings included: Georgia Tech, 35th; Clemson, tied for 40th; Virginia Tech, 48th; North Carolina, 52nd; Wake Forest, 68th; N.C. State, 82nd; East Carolina, 96th; and Duke, 99th.

Only one team, Indiana, failed to win a game all year among the 105 Division I-A schools.

The computer rankings are programmed and run by Barry Adams of Greenville.

The final top 20:

1. Florida (9-1-1).....853
2. Boston College (10-2).....802

Jaguars Ease By Conley, 51-47

By JIMMY DUPREE
Reflector Sports Writer

FARMVILLE — Bernard Taylor fired in 18 points including 10 in the fourth quarter as the Farmville Central Jaguars held off D.H. Conley 51-47 Wednesday in 3-A non-conference high school basketball action.

In the girls game, Stephanie Newton had 14 points while Joy Peaden and Debra Joyner had 10 each to lead the Farmville to a 45-37 win over the Valkyries. Conley managed just eight field goals in the contest and connected on 21 of 47 attempts from the free throw line.

Joel Cox and Jeff Wright had 14 points each for D.H. Conley, while Fred Bryant chipped in 11. Andre Vines added 12 points for Farmville.

Conley held a 23-17 halftime advantage after the teams played to an 8-8 tie in the opening period. But the Jaguars slowly trimmed away the deficit and finally took the lead with a 14-footer by Taylor with 5:29 left in the game.

"I thought we started out with a lot of zip and just didn't score when we had the chance," Farmville Coach Mike Terrell said. "We got some good inside shots, but we got deflated by poor ball handling. I don't think either team played its best game."

"Then we got down the stretch and the kids got excited. I'm pleased with the way we played the second half. Our defense helped change some things.

"Taylor has got a lot of ability, but he hasn't quite got it all together yet. He has flashes, though; he can play the game well."

Andre Vines connected from 16 feet out and Taylor added a 15-footer to give the Jags their biggest lead at 41-35 with 3:45 on the clock.

Wright sank a turnaround inside for the Vikings, but Taylor responded with another bucket to maintain a six-point Farmville edge.

Conley was forced to foul the Jaguars in the final minute, and Taylor sank a pair of free throws with 39 seconds left for a 47-41 lead. Wright scored inside again for the Vikes, but Taylor took a steal in for a layup with 37 seconds on the clock.

Fred Bryant drove inside to trim the margin to 49-45 with 11 seconds remaining, but Bobby Evans swished two from the charity stripe for the Farmville total. Conley's Ricky Farrow hit a follow-shot at the buzzer for the final tally.

"Physically, we gave it a good effort, but the mental aspect of the game killed us," Conley Coach Walter Claybrook said. "We rushed ourselves at the end of the third quarter and let them catch up. At the end, they hit the shots and we didn't.

"The difference in the game comes down to we've got to play four quarters and put it all together. As far as lack of experience, they've played 10 ballgames; you can't keep using that as an excuse.

"I guess the brightest aspect of the game for us is the play of Joel Cox inside. We weren't satisfied with what we've been getting from him at guard, so we moved him down inside and he responded well."

Farmville Central, now 4-6 overall and 1-0 in the Eastern Carolina, 3-A Conference, hosts SouthWest Edgecombe Friday night. Conley, 1-9 overall, entertains Washington Saturday.

LADY JAGS 45, VALKYRIES 37

The Farmville Central girls used a pressure defense and an ironic twist at the free throw line in the second quarter to outscore the Valkyries 16-6 and take control of the game. Conley held a 15-12 advantage after the first period.

The Valkyries found themselves at the free throw line throughout the game, as Farmville was whistled for 15 fouls in the first half and 16 in the second. But Conley was unable to master the charity stripe, missing 26 attempts.

Conley shot 15 free throws in the second quarter, but managed to sink only six for its entire point production in the period.

The 28-21 advantage Farmville Central took into the third quarter expanded quickly, as Kim Smith, Peaden and Joyner connected on 12 footers and Kim Payton drove inside to give the Lady Jags a 36-21 edge.

But Conley scrambled back with six unanswered points to trim the margin before Joyner popped a 17-foot field goal with four seconds on the clock for a 38-27 Farmville lead after three periods.

Lisa Mills and Angela Smith had a free throw each as Conley cut the gap to 38-29 with 6:50 left in the game, but Joyner responded with a field goal for the Lady Jags at the 6:35 mark. The score remained unchanged until Peaden sank two free throws with 5:04 left for a 42-29 Farmville lead.

The Valkyries scored the next seven points to trim the margin to 42-36 with 2:12 left, but Farmville held on for the victory.

Chargers Hold Off SouthWest

PINETOPS — Ayden-Gritton held off a SouthWest Edgecombe rally in the final period to claim a 61-57 Eastern Carolina Conference basketball victory last night.

SouthWest's Lady Cougars rolled up a 69-31 win over the Lady Chargers in their game.

SouthWest held a slim 17-16 lead after one period of the boys' game, but Ayden-Gritton took charge in the second frame. They outscored the Cougars, 19-6, and built up a 35-23 margin to take into the dressing rooms.

The Cougars again rallied in the third period, 12-7, cutting the lead to 42-35, and outscored the Chargers, 22-19, in the final quarter, but couldn't pull it out.

"We did what we had to do," Coach Bob Murphrey said. "We showed a little poise under pressure and we knew that they'd make a run at us. Mike Dixon was a key down the stretch hitting seven of eight free throws in the last four minutes."

Marvin Smith led Ayden-Gritton with 26 points while Dixon added 14 and Danny West had 12. Columbus Sharpe led SouthWest with 18, while Tim Walker had 16.

SouthWest's girls had little trouble with the Lady Chargers, forging a 19-5 lead in the first period. That was stretched to 40-13 at the half and to 57-17 after three periods.

Terri Condery led the Cougars with 18 points while Veronica Lawrence had 10. Karen Edmonds led Ayden-Gritton with 15.

The Chargers travel to C.B. Aycock on Friday.

North Pitt Rips Aycock, 60-34

BETHEL — Clifton Williams scored 16 points and led North Pitt High School to a 60-34 Eastern Carolina Conference victory over Charles B. Aycock last night.

Aycock's girls downed the North Pitt Pant-HERS, 41-28, in their meeting. Aycock threatened to pull off an upset in the first period, taking a 13-11 lead. But the Panthers came to life in the second quarter, outscoring the Falcons, 22-2, to forge a 33-15 halftime advantage.

Aycock rallied in the third quarter, 16-10, and cut the Panther lead back to 43-31. North Pitt, however, outscored the Falcons once more, 17-3, in the final period to win going away.

In addition to Williams' points, Paul Streeter and Levon Shaw each scored 14 for the Panthers. Trey Aycock led the Falcons with 13 points.

Aycock's girls built up a 6-2 lead in the first period of their game, and added a 14-6 margin in the second quarter for a 20-8 halftime lead.

North Pitt rallied in the third period, 15-8, but still trailed 28-23. Aycock then outscored the Panthers, 13-5, in the last quarter to take the win.

Kelly Malpass led Aycock with 14 points, while Toni Coley added 13. Regina Cox led North Pitt with 19.

The Panthers travel to Southern Nash on Friday.

Bear Grass Nips Mattamuskeet

SWANQUARTER — Bear Grass High School squeezed out a pair of Tobacco Belt Conference basketball wins over hosting Mattamuskeet last night. The Bears came away with a 36-34 win while the Lady Bears took a 41-39 victory.

In the boys' game, the score was knotted at 8-8 after one quarter, but the Lakers pushed out into a 16-12 lead at halftime. In the third period, Bear Grass cut it to 26-23, and then outscored the Lakers, 12-8, to the wire to pull out the victory.

Lawrence Watson led Bear Grass with 14 points while Otis Shaw had 18 and Jerry Shelton had 10 for the Lakers.

The Lady Bears and Lakers were also tied after one period, 7-7, but Bear Grass managed a 19-17 lead after the second quarter. Mattamuskeet came back with an 18-9 margin in the third period, taking a 35-28 lead, but Bear Grass held them to just four points, while scoring 13 to take the win in the final period.

Amy Lilly led Bear Grass with 12 points while Mary Rogerson added 10. Nadine Whitfield had 13 for Mattamuskeet.

Gators Seek N.C. Voters

By The Associated Press

All three of North Carolina's voters in the Associated Press' final college football poll, said they received letters from Florida, which is on probation, arguing their case to be named No. 1, but only one of the votes went to the Gators.

The other two votes from North Carolina went to national champion Brigham Young.

Larry Keech of the Greensboro News & Record and Bill Kirby of The Fayetteville Times chose the Cougars, who dined Michigan in the Holiday Bowl last month to complete an unbeaten and untied season.

Stan Pamfilis of WLOS-TV in Asheville chose Florida, which did not get a bowl bid because it was placed on probation by the Southeastern Conference.

The three said the letters from Florida argued that the Gators played the toughest schedule of the three teams fighting for the national title.

Brigham Young beat out Washington by 20 points to win the first national championship in the school's history.

The Lady Jags were without the services of leading scorer and rebounder Lisa Lang, who was reportedly sick.

"I thought the girls did real well, but we missed Lisa inside," Lady Jaguar Coach Hilda Worthington said. "Conley's got some good young players. I felt like we relaxed and played a little better as the game went on.

"I thought we did real well considering the fouls."

The Lady Jaguars improved their record to 10-1 overall while 0-1 in the Eastern Carolina Conference. Conley's Valkyries dropped to 3-7 on the season.

Tigers Rally To Slip Past Rams

SNOW HILL — Williamston High School rallied in the final quarter, overcoming a five-point deficit to take a 57-49 victory over Greene Central last night.

Greene Central's girls romped to a 70-38 win in their clash with the Lady Tigers.

Williamston's boys pushed into a 14-9 lead in the first period, but the Rams came roaring back in the second quarter with a 20-8 margin to move ahead, 29-22, at intermission. Williamston cut two off that in the third quarter and trailed, 41-36, going into the last period.

In that, the Tigers outscored the Rams, 21-8, to take the win. "A lot of that is my fault," Coach Greg Ashorn said. "We were rusty from the holidays and our young kids were not executing as well as we were before the break and I think we've regressed a little. We didn't come out an meet the pass on the press and that hurt us."

Tony Doughty led Williamston with 19 points while Mike Griffin added 14. Greene Central was led by O.J. Sheppard with 12 and Harvey Dupree with 11.

Greene Central's girls zoomed away to a 22-12 lead in the first period and were never in trouble against Williamston. They ran the lead out to 34-20 by halftime and held a 52-26 lead going into the final quarter. In that, Greene Central outscored the Tigers, 18-12.

Cynthia Jones led Greene Central with 16, while Cyndi Hicks and Melody Bowen each had 14. Sonya Purvis had 12 and Chan Miller had 10 for Williamston.

The Rams return to action on Friday, hosting North Lenoir, while Williamston returns to Northeastern Conference play at Roanoke Rapids.

Jamesville Tops Belhaven, 65-51

JAMESVILLE — Tracy Peele fired in 22 points while Robbie Harris and Richie Ange chipped in 14 to lead the Jamesville Bullets to a 65-51 victory over Belhaven in Tobacco Belt 1-A high school basketball Wednesday.

In the girls game, Kelly Cotton pumped in 18 points to lead Belhaven past Jamesville 55-37. Cindy Getchell led the Lady Bullets with 17 points.

Wayne Moore paced Belhaven with 17 points, and Ed Burroughs added 10.

"Basically, those three (Peele, Harris and Ange) will have to carry the load for us," Jamesville Coach Bill Johnson said. "The two games we played over the holidays helped us out a lot. We needed experience playing together."

"We had a good team effort tonight — they looked for the open man and found him most of the time."

The Bullets held a 31-19 advantage at halftime, but Belhaven trimmed the margin to 38-31 going into the final period. Jamesville outscored Belhaven 27-18 in the fourth quarter to insure the win.

Jamesville, now 1-3 overall and 1-1 in the Tobacco Belt, travels to Bear Grass Friday. The Lady Bullets are now 0-2 in the league and 0-4 overall.

Maryland Nips Wolfpack, 58-56

By The Associated Press
Only four Atlantic Coast Conference teams could win and four did, as Wake Forest, Clemson and Virginia claimed victories and Maryland downed North Carolina State.

A last-ditch 25-footer from Terry Gannon bounced off the rim just before time expired to give the 19th-ranked Terrapins a 58-56 victory over the 17th-ranked Wolfpack Wednesday night in College Park, Md.

In other ACC action Wednesday night, Virginia defeated Virginia Tech 67-59 in Norfolk, Wake Forest dumped William & Mary 64-47 in Winston-Salem, N.C., and Appalachian State fell to Clemson, 84-77, on the Tigers' home court.

After being beaten on a driving baseline shot by Georgia Tech in the finals of the Rainbow Classic last Friday, Driesell had the Terps work on a zone trap in practice and it didn't take long to try it in a game.

With Maryland nursing a two-point lead Wednesday night, Driesell called for the defense after N.C. State called time with 26 seconds left.

"I didn't want to get beat one-on-one, like we did against Georgia Tech," Driesell said of the defense which kept State from penetrating. "Luckily, he missed," Driesell said, referring to Gannon's last shot.

Coach Jim Valvano of State said he wanted Lorenzo Charles to get open in a seam of the zone. Failing that, the Wolfpack was to take "the first good shot available."

"We had two, and didn't take them," Valvano said. "We kept passing the ball, and the one we took was not a good shot."

"I can live with that," Valvano said, "but not with those two calls."

Valvano was highly critical of charging fouls called against Nate McMillan and Russell Pierre in the final two minutes.

"I'm anxious to see the films," Valvano said, contending the two charging calls looked like shooting fouls to him.

Len Bias led the Terrapins and Russell Pierre led the Wolfpack as each grabbed 17 points.

In Norfolk, Va., Cavaliers coach Terry Holland liked what he saw, but just the opposite was true for Charlie Moir and the Hokies of Virginia Tech.

"I thought it was about as well as we can play at this point of the year," Holland said after the Cavaliers' seventh victory in 11 outings.

"That's not a very good way to start the new year," said Moir, whose team lost its second straight after being ranked 16th in the nation just last week.

Dan Merrifield's layup with 2:55 gave Virginia the lead for good and the Cavaliers, who made 25 of 37 field goal attempts, shut down Virginia Tech the rest of the way for the victory.

"We had our opportunities, but just didn't take advantage of them," said Moir. "We missed crucial free throws and never could seem to get the upper hand in the second half."

Sophomore center Olden Polynice was the game's high scorer with 21 points for the Cavaliers. Polynice converted nine of 10 field attempts and grabbed a team-high six rebounds.

Dell Curry had 20 points for the 8-3 Hokies.

William & Mary coach Barry Parkhill saw his Indians fall victim to a strong Wake Forest defense in the second half at Winston-Salem, N.C.

Parkhill said the Indians "came into this game with nothing to lose and everything to gain."

"But I am disappointed because we can play with this team," he said. "I came in expecting to win. We've got to put 40 minutes together — we can't play in spurts."

In the second half, Wake Forest forced William & Mary into 14 turnovers and held the Indians scoreless for over five minutes midway through the half to break the game open.

The victory raised Wake Forest's record to 7-4, while William & Mary dropped to 4-4.

Kenny Green, who scored eight of the Demon Deacons first 10 points, hit 11 of 17 shots from the floor and had a game-high eight rebounds.

Mark Cline added 12 points for the Demon Deacons, who also got 24 points from their reserves.

The Indians were led by Ken Richardson's 14 points, while Matt Brooks added 10.

Wake Forest coach Carl Tacy credited his defense with leading the Demon Deacons to the victory.

"I think our defense in the second half got us going," he said. "The full court press really made a difference. The tempo that we were able to set and keep in control was much better tonight."

Clemson coach Cliff Ellis says the Tigers' defeat of ASU is important because it gives the team a six-game winning streak going into conference play.

The victory gave the Tigers an 8-2 record and left the Mountaineers of the Southern Conference with a 5-3 mark.

Creswell Tops Chocowinity

CRESWELL — Creswell High School pulled away in the final period to take a 60-41 Tobacco Belt Conference basketball victory over Chocowinity last night.

In the girls' game, Chocowinity rolled up a 56-26 victory.

Creswell's boys built up a 17-6 lead in the first period, but Chocowinity refused to wilt in the second frame, cutting the lead to 29-19 by halftime. The Tribe cut two more off that in the third period and trailed, 41-33, going into the final period.

But in the last eight minutes, Creswell outscored the Indians, 19-8, to win going away.

Danny Moore led Creswell with 27 points while Darrin Waters had 17 and Daryl Moore had 10 for Chocowinity.

In the girls' game, Chocowinity rushed out to a 12-2 lead in the first quarter and extended that to 26-11 at the end of the half. The Lady Tribe continued to pull away in the third period, running the lead out to 37-20. They polished off Creswell, 19-6, in the final period.

Twanda Gerald led Chocowinity with 18 points while Zina Warren added 17. Sidney Leigh led Creswell with 13.

Chocowinity travels to Columbia on Friday.

JV Game: Creswell 45, Chocowinity 39.

'You Can Only Beat Who You Play'

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Voters in the The Associated Press' college football poll have rejected notions that Brigham Young played too weak a schedule or that the Cougars had not been impressive enough in the Holiday Bowl as they picked BYU for its first national championship.

The Washington Huskies, despite a 28-17 victory over Oklahoma on New Year's Day in the more traditional Orange Bowl, finished second to BYU in balloting released Wednesday.

"I'm a believer in you can beat only who you play," said Gene Collier of the Pittsburgh Press, among 38 of the nationwide panel of 60 sports writers and broadcasters who voted Brigham Young No. 1.

It was obvious, as the votes were cast after the New Year's Day bowls, that while Brigham Young was the clear choice of the panel, it was not a landslide.

"I don't believe that we truly know who the best team in the country is," said Carl Arky of KUTV in Salt Lake City, Utah, who voted for Brigham Young. "No one is head and shoulders above anyone else, and because no one is head and shoulders above everyone else, I have to respect the record."

Brigham Young finished its season by beating Michigan 24-17 in the Holiday Bowl on Dec. 21, despite quarterback Robbie Bosco being severely limited in his movement by leg injuries. That gave the Cougars a 13-0 mark, the only undefeated record among major-college schools.

Washington, which finished 11-1, received 16 first-place votes, including that of Billy Reed, sports editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Nothing against Brigham Young, but I don't believe the Cougars could have won any of the five bowl games (on New Year's Day)," Reed said.

He said he decided to vote for the winner of the Orange Bowl, and when the Huskies won, "I was convinced that, finally, the team that truly deserves to be ranked No. 1 had revealed itself."

Brigham Young plays in the Western Athletic Conference and has been maligned for its weak schedule. To cap its season, the Cougars struggled to beat Michigan, a Big Ten team that finished its season at 6-6.

"I had made up my mind after watching the BYU bowl game that probably the winner of the Orange Bowl would be my choice," said Tim May of the Columbus Dispatch, who voted for Washington. "Brigham Young beat basically a mediocre Big Ten team in the Holiday Bowl."

Some of BYU's supporters agreed the Cougars had played a weak schedule, but without a postseason playoff to match the top-ranked teams systematically, there was no choice but to go with the best record.

"They passed, as a team, every test put before them," said Skip Miller of Newport News, Va. "They did everything they had to do."

Washington, which lost to Southern Cal during the regular season, suffered from some of the same skepticism, perhaps, that faced Brigham Young. Some voters admitted they may have picked Oklahoma No. 1 if the Sooners had beaten Washington.

"I did not consider Washington at all, no matter the outcome of the Orange Bowl game," said Bill Kwon of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin. "I would have picked Oklahoma only if it had defeated Washington by two touchdowns."

A sampling of some pro-Brigham Young sentiment:

—Mike Conklin, Chicago Tribune: "If BYU can beat Michigan with their quarterback on one leg, think what they could do against anyone else if he had two."

—Rick Bonnell, Syracuse Herald-American: "I felt that the burden of proof was on the winner of the Orange Bowl, rather than vice versa. I don't think either one of those teams played so spectacularly that they erased a 13-0 season for the Cougars.

—Ted Langford, Greenville, S.C., News: "Over the course of the season, BYU showed the most consistency of any team in the country. Despite all the talk of their schedule, it turns out they played a much better schedule than everybody thought they did. There's something to be said for playing good week in and week out, despite how good or bad the opponent is."

Some pro-Washington sentiment:

—Harold Bechar, Salina, Kan., Journal: "I thought they (the Huskies) were the most impressive team on New Year's Day. I picked them No. 1 and Nebraska No. 2 because they were the two most impressive teams. I thought they were both better teams than BYU."

—Roger Carlson, Costa Mesa, Calif., Daily Pilot: "I don't like BYU's schedule. I'd like to ask people voting BYU No. 1 one thing. If they're voting BYU first because they're unbeaten, where were they in the ninth week when Fullerton State was 9-0?"

—Steve Crump, Twins Falls Times-News: "I voted for Washington just on the strength of their respective schedules. Washington had quite a bit stronger schedule than BYU and they looked pretty good in the Orange Bowl."

don't think we'll have a problem with that any more.

"When you figure all the great teams and all the great coaches and one way or another it (the national championship) has eluded them ... it hasn't really sunk in, but it's starting to now a little bit."

Edwards, who was raised in Orem, Utah, just a few miles from the BYU campus, said that "even by local standards BYU was not very much for so many years. Even as a kid growing up five or 10 minutes from the stadium BYU was never anything in football."

There are those who say BYU still isn't very much. Even after Oklahoma was beaten, Coach Barry Switzer refused to acknowledge that BYU might have a legitimate claim to be No. 1.

"Washington is the best team we played and they deserve to be No. 1," he said. "They're a better football team than Brigham Young. I guarantee you."

In addition to its 38 first-place ballots, BYU received 11 seconds, six thirds, three fourths and two fifths. Washington had 16 firsts, 29 seconds, 14 thirds and one fourth.

The Huskies had been No. 1 four times during the regular season before suffering their only loss, 16-7, to Southern Cal on Nov. 10.

The other six first-place votes went to Florida, which held onto third place with 1,092 points. The Gators, 9-1-1, won the Southeastern Conference championship but were barred from playing in a bowl game because of an NCAA and conference sanctions.

Coach Galen Hall expressed disappointment that Florida did not finish higher in the AP poll.

"The way we ended up playing the last game of the season and from what I saw on TV (in the bowls), we were the best team," Hall said. "I had hoped people would remember the type of football team we were, but obviously a month away from exposure didn't allow that to happen. It's very difficult for a team to be ranked No. 1 without bowl exposure."

Nebraska, which defeated LSU 28-10 in the Sugar Bowl, moved up from fifth place to fourth with 1,017 points. The Cornhuskers finished third in 1982 and second a year ago.

Boston College jumped from eighth to fifth with 932 points after downing Houston 45-28 in the Cotton Bowl. Oklahoma slipped from second to sixth with 883 points, while Ohio State, sixth in the final regular-season poll, fell to 13th after losing to Southern Cal 20-17 in the Rose Bowl.

Oklahoma State, a 21-14 winner over South Carolina in the Gator Bowl, climbed from ninth and replaced the Gamecocks in seventh place with 864 points.

Southern Methodist defeated Notre Dame 27-20 in the Aloha Bowl and rose from 10th to eighth with 761 points. UCLA, which managed a 39-37 victory over defending national champion Miami in the Fiesta Bowl, shot from 14th to ninth with 613 points while Miami skidded from 13th to 18th.

Rounding out the Top Ten is Southern Cal with 596 points.

The Second Ten consists of South Carolina, Maryland, Ohio State, Auburn — the preseason No. 1 pick — LSU, Iowa, Florida State, Miami, Kentucky and Virginia.

The final regular-season Second Ten consisted of LSU, Maryland, Miami, UCLA, Florida State, Auburn, Notre Dame, Southern Cal, Texas and Wisconsin.

Brigham Young began the season unranked. The Cougars jumped to No. 13 after opening with a 20-14 upset of third-rated Pitt and cracked the Top Ten the following week by routing Baylor 47-13.

The Cougars remained anywhere from sixth to third until reaching the No. 1 position with a 24-14 triumph over Utah on Nov. 17.

Records Fall In 142-140 Overtime Win By UNLV

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — With six of his 11 players fouled out, Nevada-Las Vegas Coach Jerry Tarkanian was gasping after his Rebels came back from a six-point deficit in the third overtime period for a record-setting 142-140 college basketball victory over Utah State.

"We had no ball handlers, we had no shooters, we had guys out of position. How we ever came back to win just amazes me," Tarkanian said after the victory Wednesday night before a screaming crowd of 8,450 at Spectrum.

The combined total of 282 points was the highest-scoring game in NCAA history, bettering the NCAA mark of 275 set in 1976 when Nevada-Las Vegas defeated Hawaii-Hilo 164-111.

The game was the Pacific Coast Athletic Association season opener for both teams. UNLV, the PCAA defending champion, improved to 7-2 overall while Utah State fell to 7-3.

With six players fouled out near the end, the rest of UNLV's team was on the floor, and one of those had four fouls and another three.

"I was scared. The next guy might have been you," Tarkanian said, pointing to a sports writer. "I've never been through a game like this."

"It's hard to describe. The game was won and lost so many times by both teams," said USU Coach Rod Tueller, whose Aggies had led 59-49 at halftime.

"Obviously, we didn't handle the lead very well. In some cases we were our own worst enemies," he said. "There were 100 places where we could have won it. It was just incredible."

Utah State held a 140-134 lead with 3:42 left in the third overtime but was outscored by UNLV 8-0 down the stretch.

After cutting the margin to 140-138, Armon Gilliam scored and was fouled. He missed the free throw but Richard Robinson, slipped inside and grabbed the rebound. His tip-in with 41 seconds left provided the winning basket as the Aggies missed three free throws and Vince Washington had two shots blocked.

Two three-point baskets by UNLV's Fred Banks in the last 30 seconds of regulation wiped out a USU lead and forced the first overtime with a 116-116 tie.

It was Banks who also forced the second overtime with a short jumper from the lane that tied the score at 126.

It was Utah State that rallied in the second overtime, coming from a 133-130 deficit in the final 22 seconds. Jerome Johnson's eight-foot shot with six seconds left sent it into a third overtime with the score knotted at 134.

Richie Adams led UNLV with 37 points. Banks had 31 and Gilliam scored 27.

Utah State was led by Jeff J. Anderson with a career-high 37 points. Washington had 36 and Greg Grant scored 31.

Including his 212 victories as a junior college coach, and six wins taken away from him by the NCAA when he was at Cal State-Long Beach, Tarkanian notched his 600th victory. Junior college games are not included in the NCAA official tally.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: THE GOLFER'S ESSENTIAL TALENT: "FORE SIGHT?"
 Today's Cryptoquip clue: Z equals F

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JAN. 4, 1985

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a day when startling and dramatic events can occur, particularly where communications is concerned. So be prepared to make whatever changes may be necessary to take advantage of these surprise opportunities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good day to get some new plan working that fits your finest talents and allow for varying results.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Your ideas for advancement may be good, but don't close yourself to suggestions from others, since these could be helpful to you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your partners may have a different stance which is puzzling to you, but study it well since it may have merit.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) A personal affair which may seem insoluble is not helped by worry, so think it out calmly and objectively.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Being with clever friends and showing you will go along with their ideas can bring fine results. Add to your wardrobe.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Bigwigs and those in public office may have different standpoints now, so be prepared to go along with them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Some new angle where your present philosophy is concerned can bring you far greater success in the days ahead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You may feel restless in your dealings with others, but don't let this disturb your mate or you could later regret it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If sudden changes occur in associations, you had better go along with it, since it will be for the best.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be clever in adding extra touches to any work you may be doing and gain more benefits from them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try new methods that will increase creativity, and make revisions to old plans if needed.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get conditions at home handled well and as quickly as you can. Then get your business affairs in fine order.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will always do things quite differently from the norm, but don't try to change this since the greatest success can come from this particular trait. This should be a most interesting and varied life that will stamp your progeny as a unique person.

The surprise team of the 1984 World Team Olympiad in Seattle was undoubtedly Austria. They defeated the United States in the quarterfinals and, with one board to play, were leading Poland, the eventual winners, by 3 International Match Points in the semifinals. Then disaster struck.

Earlier in the event, one of the Austrian players had collapsed at the table. That put tremendous strain on the other two partnerships, and they had begun to show signs of fatigue. This was the calamitous final board.

In the other room, Poland had reached four hearts doubled on the North-South cards and had been defeated one trick. The Austrian North's two diamond opening showed a hand with five spades and four hearts. South's response was forcing, and North's rebid showed a diamond fragment and, therefore, a club singleton. In view of South's club holding, he should have tried three no trump rather than four hearts. That contract would have been unbeatable.

Against four hearts doubled West led a club. East won the ace, cashed the ace of spades and continued with a low spade. Declarer made the "unsafety" play of ruffing with a high trump—surely unnecessary, for West would have led a singleton spade at trick one.

However, all was not yet lost. Declarer led a trump to the nine and the king, and East continued with a spade. Declarer would still have tied the board had he elected to discard, but again he ruffed high. That was one high ruff too many. Declarer continued with a trump, but it made no difference whether he went up with the jack or ducked in dummy. When East won the ace of trumps, another spade would ensure that West's eight of trumps became the second undertrick. Down two; -500.

Austria lost 7 IMPs on the deal, and a 3 IMP victory had been turned into a 4 IMP defeat.

Textiles List Big Deficit

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The textile-apparel trade deficit topped $15 billion in the first 11 months of 1984, accounting for 13 percent of the nation's merchandise trade deficit, the U.S. Department of Commerce reports.

"What's sad is that it doesn't appear the Reagan administration is particularly concerned about the deficit," Jim Conner, executive vice president of the American Yarn Spinners Association in Gastonia, said Wednesday.

"It doesn't speak well for the future of this industry," added Conner. "I don't know what the government thinks we are going to do with all the unemployed textile workers we are headed for."

Textile officials, citing the record trade deficit, are urging the federal government to curb textile and apparel imports to save American jobs. More than 10,000 North Carolina textile jobs have been eliminated in the past year because of imports, Conner said.

Charlotte by U.S. Customs agents in August 1983. They were en route to CMI Inc., a Charlotte-based firm that buys and resells clothes in bulk to retailers.

Poe said Wednesday he has received requests for the jeans from five charitable organizations — including the Salvation Army.

Counterfeit Designer Jeans Going To Charity

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Salvation Army or another charitable organization may soon own 20,000 pairs of counterfeit designer jeans — courtesy of Uncle Sam.

U.S. District Judge James McMillan Wednesday ordered that the jeans, bearing the Jordache label, be forfeited to the federal government. They have been stored in a Charlotte warehouse for more than a year.

After reviewing McMillan's 13-page order, Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Poe said the Mexican-made jeans, valued at more than $306,000, probably will be given to one or more local charitable organizations. The jeans were confiscated in
