Warm Weather: It's Contagious

BY MARY C. SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

Clouds and the threat of rain today dampened the spirit of spring sparked by three days of unseasonably warm weather in eastern North Carolina but temperatures continued summery despite the drizzle.

A weekend of sunshine and temperatures that topped 80 degrees officially brought spring fever — more contagious than the flu virus — to Pitt County. Area residents donned shorts, lit charcoal grills and opened windows, getting a break from two months of cold.

Greenville Utilities recorded a high temperature of 81 degrees Sunday, a reading that officials say was not a record high but close to it. The above-80 reading, according to GUC records, was the highest temperature recorded on Feb. 23 since 1982 when the mercury reached 82 degrees. Sunday's low dipped only to 55 degrees and at 8 a.m. today the temperature was 68

Governors Back Defense Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee told the nation's governors today that the Pentagon must be included in any budget freeze proposal.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon said the budget offered by President Reagan "does not deal with the problem."

Hatfield met with the governors shortly before the state executives were scheduled to meet with Reagan at the White House.

"We have to look at what happens if we exempt the military from this kind of freeze," said Hatfield. "We aren't going to come close" to the savings that are needed to substantially reduce record budget deficits.

Hatfield had a largely sympathetic audience. The executive committee of the National Governors Association voted Sunday to endorse a budget freeze that would include military spending.

The same resolution also contained a victory for Reagan as the governors voted for the first time to support a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution.

In the nation's capital for their annual three-day winter meeting, the governors' agenda today included a White House session with the president.

In advance of today's meeting, Reagan hosted a formal White House dinner for the governors Sunday night and told them: "Today the people no longer look to Washington as the Emerald City with magic solutions to every problem."

"I can tell you, it's more like the Twilight Zone than the Land of Oz," Reagan said.

Gov. John Carlin, a Kansas Democrat who is chairman of the National Governors Association, told reporters he doubted defense spending would be discussed during the White House meeting.

The executive committee of the governors association approved on Sunday a proposal to support a constitutional amendment that would require a balanced federal budget and that also would give the president authority to veto individual items in appropriations bills.

The same resolution that supported the balanced budget amendment also called for a spending freeze during the next fiscal year in which the Pentagon would be restricted the same as most domestic programs.

Included in the freeze would be cost of living adjustments for federal programs including Social Security.

Radisson Partner Files Suit Asking Recovery Of Funds

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

James D. Carter, a partner in the Radisson Inn, has been charged in a civil suit filed by the other partner in the project, Dr. Howard Satterfield, with spending "large amounts" of money belonging to the Radisson project for "totally unrelated" purposes.

The suit was filed after Carter Development Co. (owned by Carter) of 202 Arlington Center, purchased the Ramada Inn from Westbrook Hotel Investors of Irvine, Texas, for $3.3 million, according to a deed filed Feb. 1.

However, the suit does not allege that Radisson project funds were used in connection with the Ramada Inn purchase.

Carter and Satterfield — as partners in Leisure Development Inc. — are involved in construction of the new six-story Radisson Inn at 207 W. Greenville Blvd., which began in mid-1984.

The suit filed with the clerk of Superior Court earlier this month by Satterfield, naming Carter, his wife Sandra Carter, Carter Development, Leisure Marble Products, Leisure Development and Sanjay Inc., charges that "large amounts of money" belonging to the partnership "have been expended" by Carter "for purposes totally unrelated" to the Radisson project.

The civil suit asks that Satterfield be given "an immediate accounting and full access to records" in connection with Radisson project funds; that he recover all damages caused by Carter's alleged "conversion of property" belonging to the partnership; that Satterfield be granted a lien against Carter's interest in the partnership; that he "recover all damages caused by

Students Learn Firsthand How To Avoid Bad Teeth

By MELANIE PHILLIPS
Reflector Staff Writer

There was a discrepancy on just how often you should visit the dentist, but representatives from the kindergarten through fifth grades at Belvoir Elementary school all agreed on one thing: if you don't take care of your teeth you'll get those mean old cavities.

February is national Children's Dental Health Month (CDHM), and, as Gov. Jim Martin proclaimed, North Carolina Children's Dental Health Month as well. In schools everywhere children are learning about the importance of good dental health to overall physical well-being.

Donna Hatcher, Pitt County public health dental hygienist, is the coordinator of the program in area schools. According to Mrs. Hatcher, CDHM, since its start in 1974, has been so successful in effectively reducing tooth decay that the N.C. Legislature appropriated extra money and expanded this year's program.

Locally, Pitt County and Greenville schools have observed CDHM in various activities. The Dental Health Month contest gives incentive to administrators, teachers, and students to follow and promote good dental habits. Each teacher, principal and superintendent is given a list of activities from which points can be earned. Eight-hundred points results in local recognition of the school for their participation in CDHM. District level recognition is awarded to schools earning 1,000-1,199 points, and state recognition to schools earning 1,200 or more points. Mrs. Hatcher added that all schools that showed interest and excitement about the program will get recognition. Winners of the Dental Health Month contest will be announced at

TOO WET TO PLOW — The logged area shown above, wetlands which border a stream, is too soggy to convert to productive cropland, say area forestry officials. The site would be more suitable for reforestation, a program that foresters say provides financial, tax and aesthetic benefits to landowners who cut timber. (Reflector Photo By Mary C. Schulken)

Landowners Have Choice On How Loggers Will Cut Or Leave Forests

Second of a three-part series

By MARY C. SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

When it's time to cut timber, many landowners think they don't have much choice about when or how their forest is cut. That's simply not true, local forestry officials say.

A stand of timber can be cut to the landowner's exact specifications, according to Jim Kea, area forester for the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service. The stand can be clear cut or cut to preserve wildlife habitat. The logging can be done with as much or as little environmental impact as possible. And after the timber is cut, the land can either be left in an aesthetically displeasing state or cleaned, seeded for erosion control and prepared for reforestation.

In short, Kea said, the landowner selling timber generally gets what he asks for if he specifies in a logging contract exactly what he wants. "To get what he wants, a landowner has to be informed about what he has," Kea said. "He's got to know what areas are wildlife habitats and what areas will be crucial to erosion control." A timber survey can provide insight into a forest's resources, he said, but it is not a substitute for having first-hand knowledge about the tract.

The extension service offers free information to homeowners about selling timber, according to Kea. "First, know what you have, and know its value," he said. "Next, know the market and know when timber prices are high in your area." Timber prices usually run on a four-year price cycle, he said. "In other words, approximately every four years prices are high. It's crucial to know when to hit the cycle right and market," Kea added.

The timber market "does follow housing starts very closely," he said, and "the housing market indicates what's happening in the timber market." Landowners should research prices, Kea noted, and if they are unacceptable, postpone a timber sale "unless the money from a sale is crucial."

"After all, timber can be stored on the stumps relatively free of disease and safe from fire," he said. The extension service has a timber price reporting service on its toll-free Teletip, Kea said. Teletip is a telephone service that provides pre-recorded information on agricultural items. Timber prices are available for each region, he said, and are updated monthly.

Another important factor in a successful timber sale, he said, is "to get as many competitive bids (from loggers) as possible." Once a logging company is selected, the terms should be clearly stated in a written contract and the logging should be supervised to see that the agreement is honored, Kea said. Another option is to have a private forestry consultant handle the sale and logging process, Kea said. A landowner should "still be informed about market prices and know what he wants well enough to communicate this to a forestry consultant."

"In short, if a landowner knows enough, he can negotiate" to get what he wants from a timber sale, Kea said.

Many landowners do not know a forest can be logged and still maintain its wildlife populations, according to David Harrison, former soil conservationist for Pitt County. Wildlife habitats in the forest, such as hollow trees that house nesting birds, meadows that provide food for rabbits and streams that provide a source of water, must be identified in the logger's contract in order to be preserved.

"A logger or woods operator does not like to waste time cutting down trees that he cannot sell or handle efficiently," Harrison said. "Some of" (Please turn to page 7)

Winners

Students from E.B. Aycock Junior High this weekend captured first place in area Mathcounts competition. The E.B. Aycock team also took top honors in 1984 competition.

Mathcounts, a contest for seventh and eighth grade students initiated by the National Society of Professional Engineers, is designed to help prepare students in such areas as probability, statistics, linear algebra and polynomials. Thirty-seven teams from area schools attended the competition held at J.H. Rose High School Saturday.

Members of the winning E.B. Aycock team included Neosha Hough, Julie Garrison, Won Kim, Tom Irons and J.J. Powell. Won Kim also won first place in individual Mathcounts competition. The team is coached by Vann Latham, an E.B. Aycock mathematics instructor.

The team and Won Kim will now advance to regional competition in Raleigh.

Break-In

Officer G.W. Williams said police are investigating a break-in at an apartment at 2603 E. 10th St. that was reported early this morning.

Williams said thieves took a quantity of men's clothing, a stereo, a television, Scuba diving equipment and other items from the residence.

Collisions

An estimated $5,400 damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Friday.

Police said a 7:16 a.m. collision Friday on Red Banks Road west of the Sherwood Drive intersection, involved vehicle driven by Sak Fong Chan of 1312 Red Banks Road and Robert Bradford Lamm of Wilson.

Damage was estimated at $2,000 to the Chan car and $2,000 to the Lamm truck.

Amy Nanette Edwards of 222 Cherrywood Drive was charged with failing to stop for a stop light following investigation of an 8:28 p.m. collision at the intersection of 10th Street and College Hill Drive.

Officers said the Edwards car collided with a car driven by Theda Gayle Ballard of Statesville, causing $400 damage to the Edwards car and $1,000 damage to the Ballard vehicle.

Forestry Meeting

The Tuesday meeting of the Pitt County Forestry Association will be held at the old Davenport Store in Pictolus, not at the Pitt County Office Building as was reported in Sunday's Daily Reflector.

The meeting will begin at 7:15 p.m. and is open to landowners and others interested in forestry.

Pedestrians Hit

Two pedestrians were injured in separate traffic mishaps over the weekend, according to Greenville police.

Officers said Michele Phobe Crabtree, 24, of 210 N. Ash St. was injured when she crossed into the path of a car driven by Gary David Wood of Route 2, Ayden, about 10:42 p.m. Saturday on Reade Street at the Fifth Street intersection.

Police said the second incident occurred about 1:10 a.m. Sunday at the intersection of Mumford Road and Pitt Street, where Johnny Junior Atterwhite, 20, of 201 Mumford Road received a bruised leg when he ran into the path of a N.C. Highway Patrol car driven by Trooper Dennis Wayne Taylor of 212 Woodhaven Road.

Conference

Five Pitt County residents will represent the area at a conference in Raleigh for citizens who serve as advisers to the local Agricultural Extension Service.

According to Leroy James, Pitt extension chairman, the conference will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at North Carolina State University. Scheduled to attend from the county are Carol Ann Tucker, Johnnie Cates, Rubelle Goin, Nancy Allen

March Slated

The American Agriculture Movement Inc. is calling for a Farmer's Parity March on Washington, D.C., March 4-8.

According to J.C. Galloway, local member of the movement, all farmers, the march will be open to all ranchers, consumers, businessmen and others interested in saving the family farm system.

Galloway said the march will begin at noon March 4 with a rally on the steps of the Jefferson Memorial, followed by a march to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Tuesday through Friday will be lobby days, he said. Farmers are expected to bring tractors, trucks, etc., that are being foreclosed on, Galloway said.

For further information call 202-544-5750.

Potash Advised

With the arrival of February, many local wheat producers have begun evaluation of their fertility programs, according to Mitch Smith, Pitt extension agent.

The application of potash, Smith said, is "still considered to be a good investment" despite recent questions on the practice.

"Prior to this time, the wheat plant has taken up limited amounts of potassium," Smith said. "For fields that have not received a fall application, a total of 40-50 pounds per acre is recommended." A single application, he said, should be sufficient for soybeans that follow.

Bloodmobile

Red Cross officials reported that 81 pints of blood were collected at a recent Bloodmobile at Ayden-Grifton High School.

The school reported 93 donations from faculty, staff and students. The collections will be used to replenish the Tidewater Blood Region's supply, officials said.

'Green Book' Is Must In N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — If you want to find out who to see in this city for permission to set up a still up or take one down, "to operate a snake farm for the production of antivenom" or "take fur bearing animals in traps," you want "The Green Book."

The book, first printed in 1918, is the city's directory of which bureau, agency, board, office, administration, division, council, unit, commission, authority, department or field you need deal with.

"The Green Book" has names, dates, addresses, phone numbers, titles and salaries for more than 900 government units, including such obscurities as the Division of Bingo, the Loft Board, the state Board for Massage, the Office of Single Room Occupancy and the Office of Risk Management.

The 1984-85 edition, the 59th, has sold almost all of the more than 27,000 copies printed. It costs $6 at bookstores and $7.50 by mail, which is how it reaches out-of-town readers from South Berwick, Maine, to Badger, Calif.

Until this edition, when the publisher finally acknowledged the obvious, the little paperback volume everyone called "the green book" was formally the Official Directory of the City of New York.

"The Green Book" tells you what sort of license you need for a block party, a horseshoe pitching contest or "bowling on the lawn."

It tells who to see for permission to set up a still or take one down; "to operate a snake farm for the production of antivenom;" "take fur bearing animals in traps" and to produce vinegar using "the vaporizing process."

If you want to erect a tent, a reviewing stand or a shanty, see the city Buildings Department. To erect the shanty on a roadway, however, you would see the Highways Department.

There are licenses, permits or certificates for smoke houses, smoke ovens and smoke pots. "Smoking" itself is the fire department's province, unless it occurs on a pier — domain of the Department of Ports and Terminals.

"The Green Book" tells where to find the city's pitch 'n putt and 18-hole golf courses, its public beaches, tennis courts and swimming pools, and where to complain about potholes, rats, jet noise and obscene mail.

The book is local but not provincial, with listings for the U.S. Arms Control & Disarmament Agency, the International Monetary Fund, the U.S. Court for the Trial of Impeachments, the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the National Security Council and National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Domestic Violence

by Laurie Barham, SAFE Coordinator

According to statistics 50% of all American families have been touched by domestic violence issues. Physical and verbal abuse occurs at every socio-economic level. Violence cannot be attributed to any one group.

Unfortunately, though the desire may be to forget a single violent episode with the assumption that it will never happen again, violence is a cycle that repeats itself. The violence tends to escalate with each incident. Those caught in abusive relationships may begin to feel trapped and hopeless.

Some couples who have attended the new Spouse Abuse & Family Education (SAFE) program are seeing that there is hope. Change is possible. SAFE is a 9-month-old program at the

KNOWING WHEN YOU NEED IT

No one has to tell you when you're hungry. You know it soon enough when the hunger pangs start. The same goes for other biological needs. You don't tell them. They tell you.

Protecting your dental health is different. You don't always know when you need help. Cavities can go unnoticed before they start causing serious trouble. You can have gum disease and not even know it until you're in danger of losing your teeth.

These are some of the things that make regular dental checkups important. Often a good teeth cleaning is all you may need to get the harmful plaque or tartar build-up off your teeth. But if there's the beginning of a more serious problem, it is much more easily solved when caught early.

Sometimes other health problems can cause tooth decay or gum disease. Your dentist is aware of these, too. But first you have to give him a chance to examine your teeth and mouth. There's no better way to protect your dental health than through regular dental check-ups.

PRISON TOUR...Dottie Martin, wife of Gov. Jim Martin, toured Central Prison and the Correctional Center for Women last week. She says the role of first lady gives her a unique chance to make a statement. She says she plans to stress children's issues during her husband's first term.

N.C. First Lady Wants To Learn About State Government

By ROBIN P. TEATER
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Dottie Martin's recent first-hand looks at the Correctional Center for Women and Central Prison were just the beginning of her efforts to familiarize herself with her husband's domain. "I just want to learn about state government," said Mrs. Martin, who visited the two prisons, along with Department of Correction offices last week. "These people issued me an invitation and I was eager to accept."

The 47-year-old first lady wants to put her knowledge to work while her husband is in the Governor's Office during the next four years.

"I think it would be a waste if you had this opportunity and didn't do anything with it," said Mrs. Martin, a former real estate agent. "I want to make a difference ... make a statement."

A mother of three, Mrs. Martin plans to focus on programs for youth, such as child safety, missing children and drug and alcohol abuse programs.

She had some experience along those lines last year.

Mrs. Martin took time out from campaign appearances across the state to promote a child safety program, co-sponsored by the Federation of Republican Women, that involved the fingerprinting of children.

She'd like to expand on those efforts and said children's programs were the only ones she plans to pursue over the next four years.

"I don't think it would be smart to spread myself too thin," the governor's wife said.

She wouldn't hesitate, however, to bring other issues to her husband's attention.

"I'm a pretty good lobbyist," Mrs. Martin said. "At least I have his ear."

There's more time for discussions between husband and wife now, compared to the 12 years Jim Martin served in Congress, commuting from their Alexandria, Va., home to Washington.

"He's two blocks away from home. He comes home for lunch ... so that's been our real special time," she said. "He's a workaholic — he works at night. But he's home."

For the past several months, the Martins haven't had a place to call home. The family stayed at the Raleigh Hilton during the campaign, then lived in the Bailey-Tucker house for more than a month after the inauguration while the Executive Mansion was getting a fresh coat of paint.

Two weeks ago, the Martins and Ben, 13, the youngest of their three children, moved into the official residence.

"I have a few boxes left unpacked," said Mrs. Martin. "I've had pretty busy days since the 5th of January."

Mrs. Martin said she was looking forward to being a hostess at the mansion.

"I think we'll probably do quite a bit of (entertaining)," she said. But "we are going to make a big effort to keep our weekends family oriented."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

President Reagan Sends His Dollars

DEAR ABBY: Although I've enjoyed your column for many years and consider myself a fan, I haven't often had the occasion to sit down and pen a "Dear Abby" letter of my own. But like most of your readers, I have some hope I'll see my message in print anyway.

As a result of your plea in a recent column, I received an avalanche of birthday greetings. I deeply appreciate this outpouring of friendship and good will. The response by your readers to your request was truly heartwarming, and I hope they'll understand why I cannot possibly thank them all individually for helping make this Feb. 6 especially memorable. Please pass on to your readers my gratitude for their many cards and kind words.

I am also grateful to you for taking the opportunity to encourage public support for the important work of the March of Dimes. As you know, January 1985 was March of Dimes Birth Defects Prevention Month. In honor of this observance, I urged all Americans to support the efforts of this organization in the battle against birth defects. The response to this call—especially as shown by the mail we received at the White House—has been truly outstanding.

Although we cannot acknowledge the many writers who sent contributions to the White House for the March of Dimes, I want you and them to know that we have turned over their donations to the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation for use in its research program.

Your readers can best help the March of Dimes in the future by sending donations directly to: March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation, P.O. Box 2000, White Plains, N.Y. 10602. This will alleviate any delay in those contributions reaching the March of Dimes, and it will also solve the tremendous logistical problems that arise when monetary items of any kind are sent to my attention at the White House. Your readers' cooperation in this request will make my staff much happier, and it will also allow the March of Dimes to get to work immediately on the vital activities your readers are supporting. Thanks again for all the birthday greetings, and God bless you and your many readers.

Sincerely,
RONALD REAGAN

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT: Thank you for your gracious letter. The March of Dimes is profoundly grateful to you for making this year's March of Dimes the most successful since its goal has been the prevention of birth defects—our nation's No. 1 child health problem.

DEAR ABBY: I feel great! I sent a check to the president for the March of Dimes. I didn't send a dollar, I sent five—one for me, and four more for others who can't afford to.

PAULA K., ODESSA, TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: After reading how the March of Dimes began, I sat down and wrote a check for $3 ($1 for each of my healthy sons), and I was amazed at the feeling it gave me. Thanks for helping a wonderful cause.

ELAINE, PHOENIX

DEAR ABBY: I'm 82 now, but I remember when Eddie Cantor asked people to send a dime to President Franklin Roosevelt for the March of Dimes in honor of his birthday. I sent my dime—in those days all it took was a 2-cent postage stamp.

I sent a dollar to President Reagan for his birthday as you suggested.

GRETA IN LONG BEACH

DEAR ABBY: I sent a dollar to President Reagan for his birthday in honor of the March of Dimes. Did you?

JUNE IN BURNHAM, MAINE

DEAR JUNE: No, but thanks for reminding me.

(Getting married? Send for Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 (this includes postage) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Putting Teeth Into The Law

Close Relationship

The visit of Great Britain's prime minister underlines anew the close relationship between our two countries. Margaret Thatcher brought a strong personal note of support of what the United States is trying to do in the world at large as well as efforts in its own behalf.

There is a notable contrast between the prime minister's warm words for an old ally and the aloof ... almost ponderous ... highly formalized statements and addresses by other heads of state who have visited our shores. The made-in-Britain aura of warmth has been apparent in the past; even among members of the royal family who have on occasion been gracious guests. That warmth seems to epitomize a special atmosphere surrounding encounters between old friends with ties that are almost familial.

Compare that, if you will, with the cautiously worded phrases by high ranking visitors from other lands whose statements were almost reluctant and reserved expressions of recognition of shared aspirations, problems, obstacles and responsibilities. They give us words, but they are words phrased in the jargon of careful diplomacy and applicable to friend or foe, casual acquaintance or a stranger on the street.

Those who remember the Churchillian visits recall the statesman as "at home" in his American surroundings and among American people. His speeches as well as informal words reflected not only a sense of history for the times and occasions but his own feeling of sharing the same "constituency" with his American audiences. Mrs. Thatcher reflects that attitude, too.

Her country has big domestic problems. (So do we.) She is at the point of a probable political test wherein her personal career may be at stake, as well as that of philosophies in government she represents. (We too are aware that "new directions" are being charted in the role of our domestic government.)

Mrs. Thatcher is preoccupied (as are we) with seeking stability in a world of instability. Her government and ours have hard roads to travel in achieving those shared goals. Each needs whatever encouragement can be found in each other.

The stilted, formalized language of diplomacy is recognizably "safe," and a means toward that end; but there's a lot to be said for spontaneous warmth and mutual trust, too.

RALEIGH — If your town council or county commission wants to rezone a parcel of land across the street from your house and does it without letting you know, it can, despite the state's Open Meetings Law. It can hold a secret meeting and rezone the land. When you find out what's happened, you have no recourse through the courts to get the situation changed, nor can you have the board members prosecuted for breaking the law.

The state law which guarantees the public's right to know when its governmental bodies are conducting public business is wimpy. It has no teeth. The North Carolina Press Association is once again trying to put some teeth into that law and initial indications are that NCPA could be successful this year.

The leadership of both houses of the Legislature, both Democratic and Republican, and Gov. Jim Martin have told NCPA that they support in concept the changes NCPA wants to make to the open meetings law. NCPA lobbyist Hugh Stevens of Raleigh says he's preparing a bill which will be introduced soon.

"What we're proposing is more of a preventive measure than a punitive measure," Stevens said in an interview. "Our goal is not so much to catch people (holding secret meetings) as to discourage them from doing it."

NCPA wants the Legislature to give state judges the authority to declare null and void any official action taken in a closed meeting. If the town council had rezoned the property next to your house in an illegally closed meeting, then you could ask a judge to declare that action null and void.

Stevens says that the only recourse the public and press currently have is a slow and tedious process. Anyone seeking to keep a board from meeting illegally can ask a judge for an injunction against future closed meetings. But, says Stevens, that is a slow and arduous process where the plaintiff must show a pattern of illegal meetings on the board's part.

Despite the support of the leadership, the proposal is certain to run into opposition. The N.C. League of Municipalities, for example, doesn't think any change in the open meetings law is needed.

"We feel the present law is adequate," said Leigh Wilson, executive director of the league. The present law is a bit vague as to what can be done behind closed doors. Board members acting in good faith can make honest mistakes and take an action which a judge would later say should have been done in the open. With that kind of uncertainty, Wilson said, the NCPA proposal "goes beyond what is needed."

But Stevens says the mistakes are often something other than honest.

Most boards have attorneys who can tell them whether or not an action must be taken in public. "We feel that another benefit of this proposal is that it will encourage bodies to consult with their attorneys. We find far fewer breaches of the Open Meetings Law and Public Records Law when boards consult with their attorneys and follow their advice."

But sometimes they don't ask and I suspect it is because they're afraid that if they ask, they'll be told "no, you can't do that."

Other states have tried to put even sharper teeth into their open meeting laws.

A Vigilante At Heart

The vigilante movement is really catching on in the United States. I had read about vigilantes on the subways and vigilantes in the streets, but I didn't realize they had also taken to their automobiles.

Bart Urp, an unusually mild-mannered man, revealed to me as we drove to work that he carries a gun just in case another driver tries to cut him off or take his parking place.

"You wouldn't use the gun?" I asked him.

"Of course I would. If another car attacks me, what choice do I have?"

"But you're taking the law in your own hands."

Bart said, "So be it. The police aren't interested in protecting innocent drivers from the criminals, so we have to do it ourselves. Look at that taxi driver over there. He's trying to get into my lane."

"There's construction work going on in his lane."

"Tough luck for him. One more move and he's going to get it right between the eyes."

"You've read him all wrong," I protested. "He has his signal on, and all he is asking to do is get in your lane."

"Three weeks ago a dame tried to cut in front of me, and I rammed into her back bumper. She skidded on ice for half a block. You should have seen the look of terror on her face that somebody finally decided to fight back. She'll never mess with a law-abiding citizen again."

"I can't believe you, Bart. You've turned into an animal."

"You'd turn into one, too, if you had to drive to work during rush hour. It isn't safe to be on the streets. Where are the cops to protect us?"

"From what?" I asked.

"That school bus over there, for one. The driver's looking at me funny."

"He's looking at you funny because you still have your gun in your hand. I know our traffic system isn't perfect, but you're never going to make it better by shooting a school bus driver."

"I may not shoot him," Bart said, "but I can scare the hell out of him."

A car shot out from a side street and Bart put everything he had into his horn. "Did you see what he did? He went through a stop sign."

I shouted, "It's not your problem, Bart!"

"If not mine, then whose; if not now, then when?" he cried. "I'll give him one shot across his hood. If he doesn't stop, the next bullet blows up the gas tank."

I grabbed the gun. "Not while I'm in his car."

Bart looked at me. "So you're one of them?"

"Them?"

"The bleeding hearts who don't care about all the drivers out in the streets ready to kill, rape and pillage the community."

"Vigilantes are not going to save us from bad drivers," I said. "Everyone thinks the person behind the wheel of another car doesn't know how to drive and we all have fantasies about knocking them off. But if we were able to fulfill those death wishes we would wipe out half the population in America."

"You can save that drivel for your column," Bart said. "Once people know you're not going to let them pass you without a fight, they'll think twice about giving you the horn."

"Unless they also have a gun in their car," I said. "When will all the killing end?"

Bart said, "When the cops start protecting us from people on the road who shouldn't be there. There isn't a driver in American who isn't a vigilante in his heart."

Public Forum

To the editor:
My anger and sadness are activated each time I drive down West Fifth Street past the old telephone office. There, where once stood a beautiful building that empowered and sustained me, is a tear in the land, a wound, and if the bleeding from that wound is figurative, the pain and constriction in my chest are real. I want my anger to be more useful than an attack would be. So instead I ask myself: How can private interests have been served by this demolition?

I love this country in a way that only someone who has lived in an absolute state can. I love the freedom it allows its people to pursue their own individual interest. However, we as a community have been lessened by the disappearance of this church whose vacation was sad enough. And if I could point to some tangible value that befell us or someone ... but I see none.

Years ago I read a novel by Robert Ruark whose title he claimed to have taken from a Swahili saying: "Before you give something up, make sure it is for something of value."

Twice this year I have had the pleasure of hearing the South Greenville Elementary Orchestra at school functions. The children performed magnificently. It was a joy to listen to them. Citizens of Greenville have reason to be proud of such accomplishments among our youth.

Thanks are due to Joanne Moore for her dedication and leadership. Thanks are due to the Greenville school board, teachers, principals and parents for making this opportunity available to enrich each child and our community.

—Elisha Douglas— Strength For Today

More than three-quarters of a million people die each year of heart trouble. More than 50 percent of all deaths are due to the ravages of this disease. Apparently there is more of it today than in the past. Probably modern life, the pace at which we live, has something to do with this surge of fatality.

The body and mind must have rest. The peaceful mind is less liable to contribute to disagreeable heart situations than is the fretting, angry, blustering, hating mind. Science has not been able to put its finger on any one factor and call this decisive in the surge of heart disease. But emotions under control, diligent effort followed by rest, careful eating habits, and a life motivated by religious faith and characterized by an eager sense of human helpfulness goes a long way toward producing health in the human heart.

Avoiding the troubled heart goes a long way toward avoiding heart trouble.

JA Offers Honors

Participants in the Pitt County Junior Achievement program were honored at the organization's annual banquet last week.

We wish to add our congratulations to all of them. The organization is designed to teach principles of free enterprise to high school-aged students. The teen-agers form companies sponsored by local industries and issue shares of stock in the companies. Then the youth learn to purchase raw materials, manufacture and market products. Profits are distributed and the company is liquidated.

These are outstanding goals that teach the young people how the free enterprise system works. It is a lesson which adults, too, need to relearn.

Bush Passes Up Anti-Abortion Film

WASHINGTON — Although President Reagan had watched his own copy of "The Silent Scream," Vice President George Bush and presidential Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan both turned down invitations to a recent White House screening of the anti-abortion video.

Bush saw a few minutes over television of the film's depiction of a fetus being aborted and, according to an aide, "it even further strengthened the vice president's opposition to abortion." But he declined to see the video in its full 30 minutes, and has no plans to do so.

Don Regan's absence reflected the senior staff's irritation with Faith Whittlesey, assistant public liaison, in scheduling the screening. White House counsel Fred Fielding stopped Ms. Whittlesey's plans to distribute copies of the video to all members of Congress on grounds that would be illegal government promotion of a private venture.

The unnoticed departure from Washington of William P. Clark, a Reagan favorite for two decades, followed the president's failure to mention him in White House swearing-in formalities for Donald Hodel, his successor as interior secretary. Clark was present, watching silently from the back of the room.

White House insiders believe that Clark's hasty resignation, at a moment when he was very much enjoying his job, was the result of something Nancy Reagan said or did during New Year's festivities at Walter Annenberg's Palm Springs estate. Although routinely invited to the party, Clark confided to friends he did not think he would be all that welcome.

Mrs. Reagan, strongly influenced by Deputy Chief of Staff Michael Deaver, turned against Clark months ago on grounds that his anti-Soviet hard line was hurting the re-election campaign. Right after the Palm Springs party, Clark astonished friends with his decision to return to California, but never explained why.

Linda Chavez, conservative candidate to replace Faith Whittlesey as White House aide for public liaison, has struck out with Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan for two reasons: She has come on too hard for the job, and is still a Democrat.

Ms. Chavez, now staff director for the Civil Rights Commission, also has been attacked by business lobbyists because of her labor union background. The new front-runner for the top female job in the White House is being pushed by Deputy Chief of Staff Michael K. Deaver: Sandy Smoley, a moderate Republican county supervisor from Sacramento, Calif., who just finished a hitch as president of the National Association of County Officials.

A footnote: John Davis Lodge, 81-year-old ambassador to Switzerland, is fighting plans to replace him with Ms. Whittlesey and claims he is supported by Secretary of State George Shultz. Ms. Whittlesey's enemies in the White House would like to set her adrift. But the president himself has decided to send her back to a second hitch in Switzerland and is not likely to reverse himself.

Senate Minority Leader Robert Byrd was so severely wounded by the 11th-hour attempt of Sen. Lawton Chiles to replace him, even though it fell short, that Senate Democrats are increasingly certain they will elect a new leader in the next session.

Byrd did not help himself with his participation in the widely criticized Democratic response to President Reagan's State of the Union message. According to grumbling from the Senate Democratic cloakroom, individual favors for colleagues by which Byrd has maintained his power are no longer adequate to overcome worries about his image that were focused by the Chiles challenge.

Chiles himself is given little chance to beat Byrd next time. The runaway favorite is Sen. Dan Inouye of Hawaii, third-ranking Senate Democrat as their secretary.

Martin Seeks Review Of Aide's Conduct In Drug Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Jim Martin says he has ordered an inquiry into allegations that his minority affairs adviser, Thomas

Stith III, should have been prosecuted in a Durham drug case. "The Stith situation is one I want to clear up as quick as I can,"

Martin said in an interview after his arrival at the winter meeting of the National Governors' Association.

Martin said he had asked his special counsel, James Trotter, to review State Bureau of Investigation files in the case.

"I asked Trotter to look at that file and discuss it with anybody he needs to discuss it with," he said.

Jack Hawke, Martin's special assistant for policy, has said he investigated Stith's involvement in a federal-state drug arrest in October that led to three convictions, including that of Stith's brother-in-law, Hollis Vines.

Last Friday, Hawke issued a statement calling Stith an "innocent bystander" in the incident.

Asked why he sought the inquiry, Martin said it was "to see if there is anything more in the files than we have told."

"There is always the possibility that some of the law enforcement investigators might not have told Jack everything," Martin said.

"I am still satisfied that he (Stith) was not involved in the (drug) transaction, that he was not a party," he said.

Stith was questioned and released in Durham Oct. 16 when drug agents found 3 ounces of heroin in a car that Stith had been driving. The car also was occupied by Vines, who was convicted and sentenced to eight years in prison. Two other men were sentenced in the case.

The arrests were part of an undercover drug operation involving Durham police, SBI and the federal Drug Enforcement Administration.

U.S. Attorney Kenneth McAllister, whose office handled the case, said

Friday that there had not been enough evidence to charge Stith, who has said he knew nothing about the heroin.

McAllister also has said the DEA agent in charge of the investigation, John Gartland, agreed that Stith should not have been charged. Hawke, who at the time of the arrests was manager of Martin's campaign, first learned of Stith's detention in the drug case shortly after the incident from what Hawke has said was an anonymous tip.

IN THE STATE

New Trial Sought

RALEIGH (AP) — A Robersonville man convicted of armed robbery two years ago is asking for a new trial based on statements of two co-defendants he says clears him of the crime.

James Edward Thompson, 32, was sentenced to 18 years in prison for the robbery of an ABC store at Oak City. Three witnesses identified him as the gunman.

Roosevelt Howell and James Ivory Stanley are serving 14-year sentences for their convictions in the same robbery.

J. Melvin Bowen of Williamston, Stanley's court-appointed lawyer, and his partner, James R. Batchelor Jr. said that Stanley told them during the March 1983 trial that another man, not Thompson, had been involved in the holdup.

"The only way that could come out (at the trial) to help Thompson was if Stanley testified," Batchelor said. The two attorneys said they advised Stanley not to take the stand.

"It's a kind of a balancing act," Bowen said. "You want to do what's right, but you're appointed to represent the guy you're appointed to represent."

Thompson filed a request for a new trial last summer, but a hearing on his motion has been postponed three times. It is now scheduled for Wednesday in Martin County Superior Court.

Transition

GREENSBORO (AP) — Former Democratic Congressman Ike Andrews has returned to Washington, but his job as legal counsel to a congressional committee may not replace his political aspirations.

"I still don't feel that I'm a full-time employee," Andrews said. "I'm just working on certain projects assigned by the committee director (Ed Welch). I'm in a transitory period. This is not the total answer to what I'll be doing in the future."

Andrews, who served 12 years in the House, was defeated last November by Chapel Hill Republican Bill Cobey. Since January, Andrews has been doing research for the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, a committee chaired by long-time friend Rep. Walter Jones, D-N.C.

Man Shot

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — A Winston-Salem man was shot to death, then his body was stabbed and put in a car that was set on fire, a medical examiner said.

The death Sunday of Ronald Stephen Cardwell, 29, is under investigation as a homicide, said Dr. Kimball Johnson of Forsyth Memorial Hospital.

Police detectives investigating the case were unavailable for comment. Johnson said a complete autopsy would be done Monday, but "preliminarily, he was shot, and it was several times, probably five."

"Current suspicion is that drugs are involved," Johnson said.

According to a Winston-Salem police report, Cardwell was killed early Sunday. The body was found in his car behind a shopping center.

Body Found

KINSTON, N.C. (AP) — The nude body of a 27-year-old Kinston convenience store clerk reported missing early Saturday morning has been found in a wooded area, police said.

Kinston Police Deputy Chief E.A. Brooks said Benta Green Murphy of Kinston was found by a man hunting for rabbits. He told police he found the body in a wooded area off a state road.

Police said customers called police when they could not find a clerk at the convenience store early Saturday morning. The cash register was found open and $50 was reported missing.

Ms. Murphy's car was in the parking lot of the store and police said there was no sign of a struggle.

Brooks said an autopsy was being conducted to determine the exact cause and time of death.

Mining To Start

ROXBORO, N.C. (AP) — Mining is expected to begin this summer on a 100-acre tract near the Virginia border, where John Dawes has found significant traces of gold and plans to open the state's only active gold mine.

An Arizona mining company that has confirmed his gold strike has applied for permits to build a refinery on the land and start digging out the ore.

"It looks like this guy walked out and stumbled on a gold mine," Dawes said. "But that's not the way it worked."

He said the discovery began 15 years ago when he paid $10,000 for almost 100 acres that had been timbered by a lumber company. While walking the land, Dawes, 49, noticed several unusual outcroppings of rock which turned out to be jade and jasper.

The deposits helped fuel a gemstones study, which led to books on gold refining and an interest in amateur chemistry.

Dawes set up makeshift laboratories in sheds near his house, where he tested soil collected from his land and transported in his burlap bags.

After about 18 months of testing, Dawes said he became convinced that he had marketable deposits of gold on his property. "I was pleased, to say the least," he said.

Ballast Blamed

RALEIGH (AP) — A Federal Aviation Administration inspector says weightlifting barbells could have led to the fatal crash of a home-built plane Friday in Umstead State Park.

"Looks like we had a weight-and-balance problem," said Charles W. Holly, principal aviation safety inspector with the FAA at Raleigh-Durham Airport. "Someone put ballast on this airplane after we certified it. They used barbells like a weightlifter uses."

Gerald A. Grote, 48, of Liberty, Mo., a pilot for TWA for 22 years, died after losing control of the plane on its maiden flight. The plane was built by Grote's son, McClellan J. Grote of Cary.

Three Dead

SANFORD, N.C. (AP) — Three Lee County residents were found shot to death in their home about seven miles west of Sanford after neighbors became worried and notified sheriff's deputies, authorities said.

The bodies of Earl E. Harrison, 44, his wife, Shirley Vick Harrison, 42, and her mother Lucille Vick, 66, were found in a bedroom of Mrs. Vick's home about 8:30 p.m. Saturday, said Capt. Rick Dawkins of the Lee County Sheriff's Department.

Dawkins said he and deputy found the bodies after neighbors called and said they were worried because they had not seen Mrs. Vick or the couple.

Education Issues Reach Committees

RALEIGH (AP) — Much of the debate over legislation calling for fundamental changes in education in North Carolina will center on the degree to which the General Assembly should set specific policies and standards, lawmakers say.

Some legislators think they should be involved heavily, while others say the Legislature should set broad guidelines but leave the specifics — such as curriculum — to the state and local education boards.

"I lean toward ... a clearly defined program, no matter how many pages of law it takes," said Rep. Joe Mavretic, D-Edgecombe. Taxpayers probably will demand such a system to ensure they're getting their money's worth, he said.

This week legislative committees will tackle bills that would make essential changes in education governance, curricula, personnel and finance issues.

"We're facing some fundamental issues; we're at a crossroads," Mavretic said. "We may end up talking a lot and doing little. But if we are to turn things around, we must start this session."

C.D. Spangler, chairman of the State Board of Education, and Superintendent of Public Instruction Craig Phillips will address a joint meeting of the House and Senate education committees Tuesday. The panels will meet separately later in the week.

Bills to be considered propose: — A basic education plan designed to guarantee all elementary and secondary school students the same opportunities to learn, regardless of whether they live in rural areas or more affluent, urban counties.

— A five-step "career ladder" program for teachers that would reward superior performance with promotion and higher pay.

— Enlarging the education board from 13 to 21 members, including eight appointed by the governor and 11 elected by the Legislature, plus the lieutenant governor and the state treasurer.

Also, under a bill sponsored by Sen. Bob Warren, D-Johnston, the board would appoint the public instruction superintendent, who now is an elected member of the Council of State.

— Committing the state to pay for all costs of operating schools and teaching pupils, while insisting that counties pay for school facilities and maintenance.

— Requiring the state to relieve local governments of paying for vocational education in secondary schools.

The basic education program will be considered first by House and Senate committees, say their chairmen, Sen. Dennis Winner, D-Buncombe, and Rep. Jo Graham Foster, D-Mecklenburg.

Winner said he would introduce a version of the plan this week. Ms. Foster has introduced a "dummy bill" that contains no plan but authorizes the House to develop one, said Mavretic, chairman of a subcommittee that will do the work.

A version of the plan proposed by the education board would cost $627.6 million. When fully implemented by the 1992-93 academic year, the plan would create an additional 31,575 jobs for teachers and other school employees.

The success of the plan, Mavretic says, will depend largely on the Legislature's — and taxpayers' — willingness to fund it.

"The issue boils down to this: Should a child's place of birth in North Carolina determine his opportunity for quality elementary and secondary education?" said Mavretic. "You and I know the answer is no. ... But there is simply no way the basic education program can be implemented statewide without additional revenues."

He acknowledged, however, that talk of more money flies in the face of the current mood — personified by Gov. Jim Martin — in favor of lower taxes.

Martin is expected to outline his plan to repeal the intangibles and inventory taxes and the sales tax on food and non-prescription medicines Thursday at noon, when he delivers his State of the State address to a joint legislative session.

Martin also is expected to propose creation of an anti-drug program and abolition of the state abortion fund.

Khadafy Urges New Black State

CHICAGO (AP) — Oppression of U.S. blacks leaves them with no choice but to form an army to destroy the country and create an independent state, Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy told a Nation of Islam convention.

"This country must be destroyed," Khadafy said Sunday in a speech broadcast live via satellite from Libya to the Nation of Islam's 1985 International Savior's Day Convention. "They (whites) refuse to accept you as American citizens. This means you are obliged to create a separate and independent state. The whites force you to do this by refusing you in political and social life."

"We are ready to give you arms because your cause is a just cause," Khadafy said in the 40-minute speech to the enthusiastic, overwhelmingly black audience estimated by a Nation of Islam spokesman at 12,000.

"It would be an act of mercy to end the white man's world because your world is killing you and us and all of humanity," said the Rev. Louis Farrakhan, whose 10,000 followers are one faction of the Black Muslim movement in the United States.

"A new nation is growing up in the West," he said. "I represent that power and that nation."

The "new nation" would include blacks and "whites of good will who care to join us," said Farrakhan, who calls Islam his religion and preaches black supremacy and separatism.

Farrakhan, who supported the 1984 presidential campaign of the Rev. Jesse Jackson, founder of Operation PUSH, insisted that he is "not trying to overthrow America."

He told the crowd that the news media have made Khadafy into "a living monster" by distorting the Libyan leader's views. Khadafy is "a fellow struggler in the cause of liberation" of blacks, he said.

Farrakhan urged blacks to become more self-sufficient in providing food, clothing and health care for the black community.

He also praised the president, saying "Thank God for Ronald Reagan," and criticized black leaders for expecting the federal government to provide social programs.

The crowd at a South Side armory — which included black activist Dick Gregory and the Rev. Willie Barrow, acting director of Operation PUSH — stood and applauded Khadafy and Farrakhan several times.

Union Carbide To Fight Suits 'To The End'

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Union Carbide Corp. will "fight right to the end" any legal attempts to prove the company negligent in the Bhopal, India, disaster that left more than 2,000 people dead, the chairman says.

A negotiated settlement would avoid years of tangled court proceedings, and the chemical giant has no intention of ducking responsibility to the victims, said company chairman Warren Anderson.

U.S. lawyers have filed billions of dollars in lawsuits against Union Carbide on behalf of victims of the Dec. 3 methyl isocyanate leak in Bhopal, many of them claiming the company was negligent.

"We've said right from the start that the proper answer for the people if you have any compassion for them at all is not to go through a litigation of liability," Anderson said in an interview published in the Charleston Sunday Gazette-Mail.

"I'll accept my responsibility," he said. "I don't know of any tort kind of issue, class-action issue, that wasn't solved by compensation arrived at through a compromise, sooner or later. So why wait for later?"

Anderson said Union Carbide will not brook an attempt to make it appear that it was negligent.

"We will fight right to the end. When somebody tries to say we sent over less than the best technology we have, we will fight for the competence of Indians," he said. "They've demonstrated competence. They're in the space age. They're in the nuclear age. They're very capable people."

Some of the suits contend that Union Carbide installed inferior equipment at the Bhopal plant in comparison with technology used at Institute.

Anderson, who was in Charleston last week to address his company's Kanawha Valley employees, also said he doesn't believe the cases should be handled in U.S. courts at all. Many have been consolidated in federal court in New York.

"That accident happened in India, the people were in India, the plant was built in India, the company that ran the operation was an Indian company," Anderson said. "Why shouldn't it be solved in India?"

Javits Fair In Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Sen. Jacob K. Javits, who has an incurable nerve disease, was in fair condition today with a possible lung infection after being rushed to a hospital following difficulties breathing, a hospital spokesman said.

Javits was taken by ambulance from his Manhattan apartment Sunday to New York Hospital where he was admitted to the intensive care unit, hospital spokesman Jed Golden said.

The 80-year-old liberal Republican who represented New York in the U.S. Senate for 24 years was treated with intravenous antibiotics to improve his breathing, Golden said. Doctors determined that Javits had a possible lung infection, Golden said.

"He is conscious, alert and in good spirits," Golden said, "and hopefully that will continue."

Javits, who was visited by Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., was feeling well enough "to twinkle at the nurses," his wife Marion said.

Louis Cafiero, a spokesman for the city's Emergency Medical Service, said paramedics called to Javits' midtown residence found the former senator stricken with pulmonary edema, in which the lungs fill with liquid.

Explosion Kills 2 In French Mine

FORBACH, France (AP) — An explosion more than a half-mile underground rocked a coal mine at Forbach in the Lorraine region of eastern France today, company officials said. At least two miners were killed, 16 were missing and 12 were injured.

It was not immediately known how many miners were working at the Houilleres du Bassin de Lorraine mine when the explosion occurred at about 7:30 a.m.

August Lionell, an official of the miners' union, said: "There are at least two dead."

Company officials confirmed the figure of two dead and said that 16 more had not been accounted for.

"We are without news of 16 people that we are looking for," said a company spokesman reached by telephone.

Reports indicated five injured miners were taken to the nearby St. Barbe Hospital and seven others were treated at the mine's infirmary.

Adjoining pits were being evacuated, and two lanes of a nearby superhighway were closed to aid the evacuation, a company spokesman said.

The cause of the blast at Forbach, on the West German border about 38 miles east of Metz, was not immediately known.

Mubarak Proposes Peace Talk Hosted By Reagan

NEW YORK (AP) — Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak has asked the Reagan administration to act as host in direct peace talks between Israel and members of a Jordanian-Palestinian delegation. The New York Times reported today.

Mubarak said Egypt would also be willing to act as host for such a meeting of the two sides, or would be willing to attend one "anywhere" that is agreeable to all concerned.

"Why not?" he said. "We are ready to help."

Mubarak said he is more optimistic about the chances for a peace following the pullout of Israeli troops from Lebanon and the formulation of a joint Mideast peace plan signed Feb. 11 by Jordan's King Hussein and Yasir Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

But while saying he is "very encouraged" by the withdrawal and the Jordanian-Palestinian agreement, he stressed that more is needed from both sides.

"We can't reach a solution in one hop," Mubarak said.

The Egyptian leader urged Israel to accept direct talks with a Jordanian-Palestinian delegation, and said such a delegation would not have to include known members of the PLO, with whom Israel has refused to meet.

"The PLO has lots of people who are pro-PLO on the West Bank," he said. "Let's be practical. Do you know who is or who is not a member of the PLO?"

"How can you confirm this?" Mubarak said he feels the PLO would "coordinate with King Hussein to select moderate figures if they want to reach a solution."

Although the Jordanian-Palestinian accord calls for negotiations at an international peace conference to include the Soviet Union, Mubarak said it would be preferable for the Israelis to meet first with the Jordanian-Palestinian delegation.

"An international conference could be the last stage . . . as a blessing of the solution," he said.

The language of the agreement calls for a peace based on "the United Nations and Security Council resolutions," which Mubarak said means that the PLO has accepted

U.N. Resolution 242, which calls for Israel's return of occupied territories in exchange for peace.

The PLO's refusal to embrace the resolution in the past has kept the United States and Israel from recognizing the group as a legitimate representative of the Palestinian people.

Mubarak called on the United States not to listen to conflicting statements by various PLO officials about the key U.N. resolution.

"Let's concentrate on the agreement and not what is mentioned by various factions," he said.

Desert Kingdom

The recent visit to Washington by King Fahd has renewed interest in the desert nation of Saudi Arabia, the birthplace of Islam. The country is three times as large as the state of Texas. Most parts of Saudi Arabia get an average of about 4 inches of rain per year. The humps of young camels are considered a great delicacy, but roaming Bedouins like to eat raw or roasted locusts. Slavery was legal in Saudia Arabia until 1962.

You're looking at the best reasons for using Vernam® in peanuts.

Nutsedge. It's your biggest weed problem. If you treat only yellow nutsedge, you could be overlooking another problem weed: purple nutsedge. But there is one herbicide that can control both varieties. Only one. Vernam.

And Vernam has a lot going for it besides nutsedge.

Like sicklepod, morningglory, pigweed, lambsquarters, Florida purslane, and 15 other grass and broadleaf weeds. In a tank mix with Balan*, it gets tough buffalo grass as well. Also, since Vernam is applied preplant incorporated, you get reliable coverage in wet or dry weather. With Vernam, you don't have to rely on precisely the right amount of rain to do the job.

You know nutsedge is a problem in your peanuts. And you know Vernam can get the job done. Peanut farmers like you have gotten year-in, year-out reliable weed control with Vernam since 1968. Trees ...

these undesirable trees, such as hollow trees, are also good for wildlife and can be saved for wildlife." But these trees must be tagged, he added, and marked clearly in the contract.

"The decision to cut or save rests with you, the landowner," Harrison said. "Do not wholly surrender to any single interest. Seek technical advice and assistance and design a timber contract that will achieve your forest management objectives." He also recommended that landowners work directly with loggers if they are physically able.

Wildlife considerations Harrison suggested include a stream buffer — a corridor of trees left along both sides of a water source to shade the water and provide habitat — and a log-loading site covered with grasses or legumes to prevent erosion and sedimentation from haul roads. These openings, he said, attract many kinds of wildlife.

A successful timber sale requires cooperation between all the parties involved — the landowner, the forester, the logger and the timber company, Kea said. "No one facet can do it by themselves. All facets must work together to keep each other informed."

Timber is big business in Pitt County, Kea said. He estimated that income in the county from timber harvests averages $4 million each year, and that in 1984, it went as high as $5 million to $6 million. In addition, forest industries in Pitt pay about $10 million each year in wages.

Kea also suggested the growth of the timber industry could pose a problem in the future if more timber tracts are not reforested rather than converted to agricultural or residential use.

"A lot of people have cut timber, cleared the land and are trying to grow crops on it when in many instances the soil is better suited to growing trees," Kea said. "Landowners should have the soil tested and check the soil survey to see if trees would be more beneficial than crops because of soil type."

The Pitt County Soil Survey is available at the Soil Conservation Office in Greenville.

Teeth ...

an awards dinner in March. Some of the activities that earn points are creating and wearing "Let's Get Dental" buttons, hosting tasting parties, and putting together scrapbooks of the month's activities.

Mrs. Griffin, along with Joan Hunnicutt, who also visits schools to teach good oral health, stressed that there is a right way to brush and floss teeth and that parents should not only encourage this, but actually assist their children in brushing and flossing. According to Mrs. Griffin, research shows that children often do not have the manual dexterity necessary for a competent brushing. Mrs. Hunnicutt added that she stresses that sweets aren't so harmful to teeth if eaten during a regular meal. Sweets as snacks are the real cavity-causers.

Onte Taft, a first-grader at Belvoir Elementary School, related what he had learned from the dental health educator who visited his classroom. "She told us to brush our teeth every day and after every meal and to brush our gums and our tongue." Yolanda Stevenson, a fifth-grader at the same school, added that they learned "not to eat much sweets. Sweets and sugar make plaque that eat your teeth and make you have cavities." On this note, second-grader Ricky Sutton explained that "sugar and stuff get together to make acid and hurt your teeth."

Fourth-grader Paige Smith explained one of the activities that her classroom participated in: "We counted all our teeth and put it down on a sheet of paper and we gave it to the teacher and she put the amount of teeth on the board. We had 556 teeth. Then we guessed how many teeth were in the whole school."

The cafeteria workers served no sweets for two weeks in observance of CDHM and several classes held "tasting parties" to discover just how delicious foods that are good for teeth can be. Crystal Wright, a kindergartener, said that her class "tasted pimento cheese, and crackers, and tuna fish, and some apples so we can learn to take care of our teeth. Sugar will make your teeth rot."

Not all the children agreed on how often you should see your dentist. Answers varied from "when your teeth hurt," "every two weeks," "every two months," to "every once a year." Someone finally blurted out the correct answer — twice a year.

Children's Dental Health Month is sponsored locally by East Central Dental Society and on the state level by the N.C. Dental Society, N.C. Department of Public Instruction and the N.C. Department of Human Resources.

Economists Foresee Recession

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy is likely to suffer a recession beginning sometime next year, brought on by soaring federal budget deficits, high interest rates and further deterioration in foreign trade, economists for major corporations predicted today.

The National Association of Business Economists said a survey of its members found basic agreement that the economy will move ahead at a moderately good clip this year with inflation remaining under control.

But the economists predicted that things would turn sour next year. A majority, 52 percent, expect the next recession will begin in 1986, with only 17 percent of those surveyed predicting that the current growth will last into 1987 or beyond.

These expectations were a good deal more pessimistic than the Reagan administration, which in its forecasts has predicted steady growth through 1990.

Huge federal budget deficits are cited most often by the economists as the main reason they believe the current recovery will be shorter than the average of 46 months.

Other problems the economists believed would short-circuit the recovery were high interest rates and the country's record trade deficits.

"It is clear that the basic problem is the budget deficit. That is the thing we have to change in order to improve the outlook for interest rates and the trade deficit," said Ben Laden, president of the association and chief economist at the investment firm of T. Rowe Price Associates.

The economists forecast the budget deficit this year would hit a record $210 billion, declining only slightly to $200 billion in the 1986 fiscal year, which begins Oct. 1.

"To fight the deficit, 63 percent of those polled support the concept of a freeze on government expenditures, but more than half doubt that it will be enacted," Laden said.

A smaller majority, 54 percent, voiced support for a tax increase to help trim the deficit, something

President Reagan has vowed to oppose.

The business economists expressed support for the Reagan administration's proposal to simplify the tax code by eliminating various deductions while lowering tax rates.

A majority, 57 percent, said they favored the concept, but support dwindled when the economists were asked to endorse separately the various business and individual tax deductions that would be affected by the plan.

Only about one-fourth of the economists favored eliminating the investment tax credit and accelerated depreciation allowances, two big business tax breaks. About the same number supported doing away with personal deductions for state and local taxes and limiting charitable deductions. Limiting deductions for interest payments drew the most support — 49 percent.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly today, weighed down by interest-rate worries.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down 6.18 points last week, dropped another 5.74 to 1,270.10 in the first half hour today.

Losers opened up a 5-2 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The market's early-1985 rally has run out of steam lately as interest rates have rebounded after a long decline.

One evident reason for the reversal in the direction of rates has been that the Federal Reserve has stopped easing credit and is proceeding "a bit more cautiously," as Paul Volcker, the Fed's chairman, told a Senate committee last week.

Volcker is due to testify again Tuesday, this time before a subcommittee of the House of Representatives.

Another force pushing rates higher has been evidence that economic growth seems to be proceeding at a stronger-than-expected pace. Some analysts believe this could spur borrowing in the weeks ahead, applying more upward pressure on rates.

In the credit markets this morning, interest rates on short-term Treasury bills were mixed, while rates on long-term government bonds rose slightly.

Public Service Electric & Gas led the active list in early trading, up 1/8 at 26 3/4. A 250,000-share block of the stock changed hands at that price.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 3.20 to 1,275.84.

Declines outpaced advances by about 5 to 3 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 93.68 million shares, against 104.02 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks fell 50 to 104.01. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down 2.07 at 226.10.

degrees. On Saturday a high of 74 degrees was recorded by GUC, along with a low of 41 degrees.

A slow moving cold front located over parts of Virginia, Tennessee and Mississippi this morning will press through North Carolina by tonight, making rain likely, say National Weather Service forecasters.

The forecast calls for rain tonight, mostly over northern areas. The rain will diminish to scattered showers with some sunshine Tuesday. Lows tonight will be mostly in the 40s and highs Tuesday will be in the 50s in the north to the low and mid 60s in the south.

The weekend warm also brought plans for family gardens off the back burner as residents ventured outside, according to local agricultural officials. "The phones have really been ringing this morning," Sam Uzzell, Pitt extension agent, said today. "Lots of people got out into the yard and garden this weekend and have got questions about what they saw."

Most back yard gardens are currently in the planning phase, Uzzell said, but the mild weather has speeded up interest in planting. "Folks have been asking about varieties mostly," he said. "There's a lot of planning and soil sampling going on out there."

In addition, farmers "are doing a little field preparation," Uzzell said. "There are a few tobacco plant beds in preparation and farmers are beginning to topdress nitrogen and potash on wheat."

Around the yard, most bulbs surfacing are ones that are normally up by late February — tulips and daffodils — according to Uzzell. These bulbs "will do fairly well if the cold returns," he said, but other such as crocuses, and many flowering shrubs, may be hurt.

Carter Development's breach of contract," and that a "constructive trust" be placed on assets belonging to Carter and his wife, as well as Carter Development, Leisure Development, Leisure Marble and Sanjay, firms which the suit charges are controlled by Carter. "to the extent assets were acquired with partnership funds."

According to the suit, Sanjay Inc. is listed as the general contractor for the Radisson project but alleges that "Carter Development is performing all acts as general contractor" and that "Carter Development has not been licensed by the State Licensing Board of General Contractors."

Satterfield's suit also alleges that "large amounts of money," drawn from a $5.5 million construction loan to be used "solely for construction of the hotel ... have been expended for purposes totally unrelated to the partnership business."

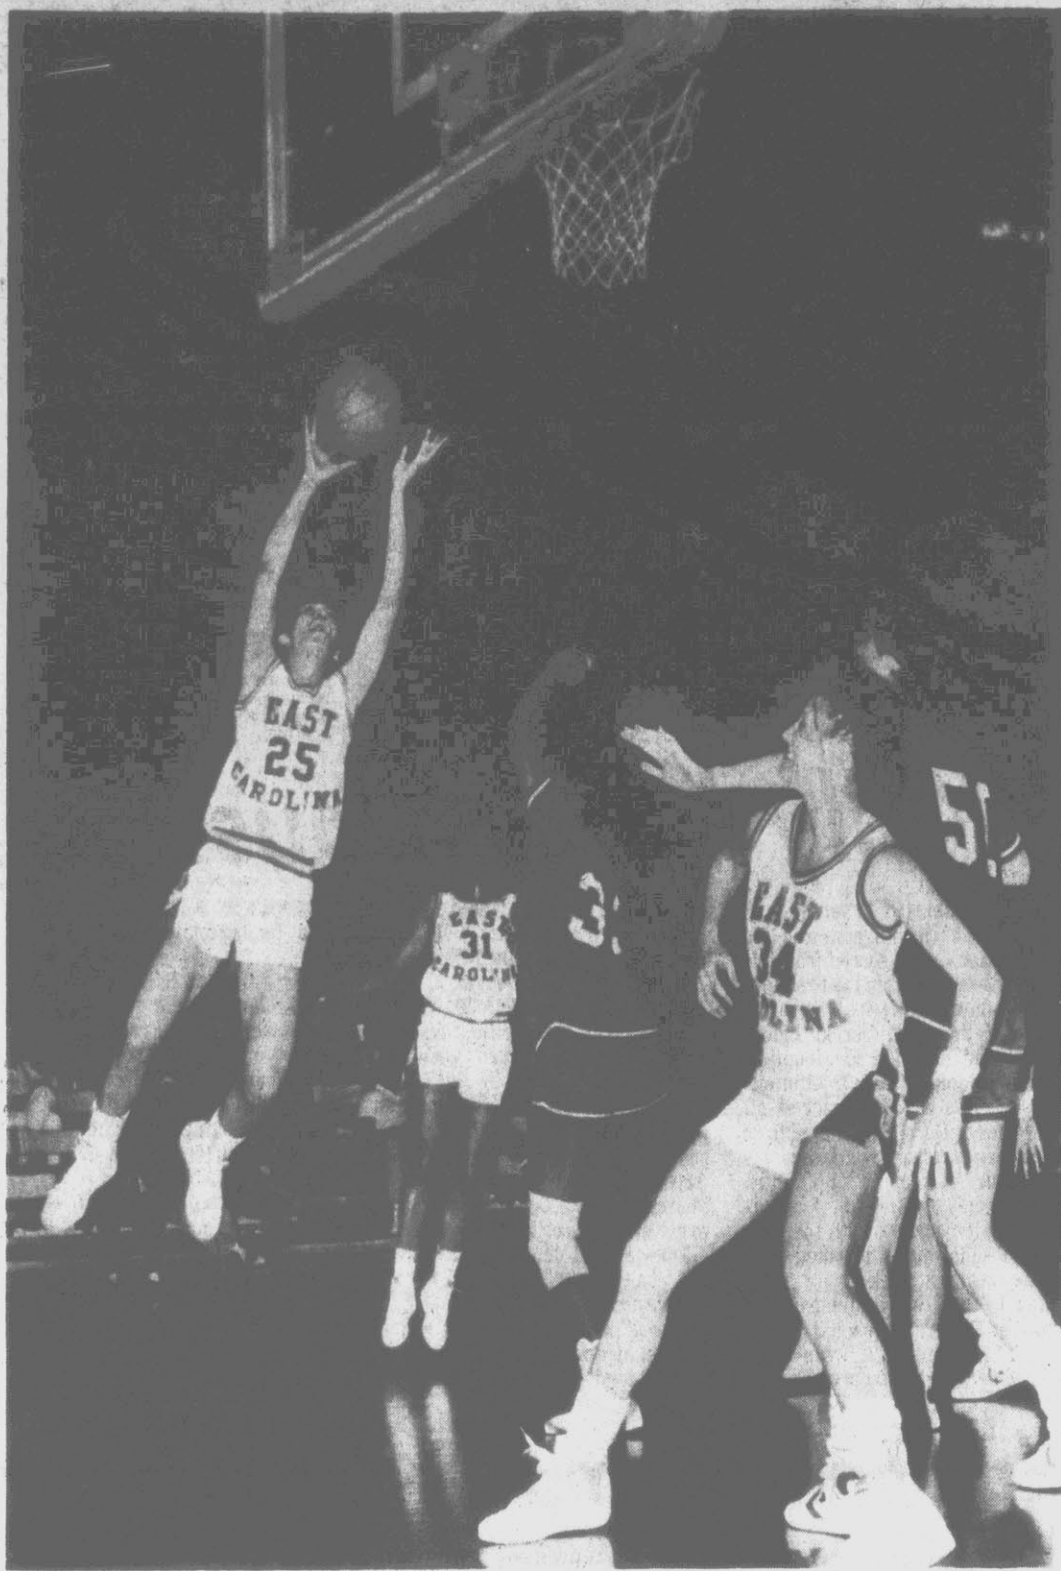

According to the suit, Carter allegedly has used partnership funds: "to purchase assets of Leisure Marble;" to make monthly payments on a $250,000 Mitsubishi MUJ airplane in Carter Development's name; to pay off a $20,000 "personal loan" made to Carter by a Florida bank, and to repay another $35,952 Carter loan at another Florida bank.

It is also alleged in the suit that Carter "converted ... to his own use" a $32,050 franchise refund from Hilton Hotels; fired one hotel management firm and hired "Plaza

Hotel Management ... controlled by Carter" to manage the new Radisson; "endangered hotel construction by failing to ensure that subcontractors are timely paid and adequately supervised," purchased a crane and backhoe in Carter Development's name; placed "$88,000 in an individual bank account, and is drawing $10,000 a month as project supervisor, which the suit alleges is "excessive."

Carter has not filled an answer with the clerk of court.

In a related matter, Earl Wilson, a former partner in Leisure Development, according to suits filed with the clerk of court, is seeking to collect $100,000 from Carter, Leisure Development and Satterfield

Johnson's Homers Power Pirates' Opening Victory

By JIMMY DuPREE
Reflector Sports Writer

Winfred Johnson cracked a pair of two-run homers while Mike Christopher and Jim Peterson combined for a two-hitter as the Pirates of East Carolina opened the 1985 baseball season with a 5-0 victory over Atlantic Christian College Sunday at Harrington Field.

"That was on his first swing of the bat," first-year ECU Coach Gary Overton said. "It looks like he's picking up right where he left off."

Johnson batted .471 with three homers including a grand slam in last season's NCAA South Regional Tournament at Tallahassee, Fla. The homers against Atlantic Christian lifted Johnson's career total to 31, tops on the ECU list.

Christopher, who threw just 61 pitches in six innings, pitched three perfect innings before yielding a hit to Rick Olivere leading off the fourth inning. The Bulldogs managed just one more hit, that an infield single by Gary Kendall in the sixth.

Christopher struck out five batters and gave up two walks, and Peterson picked up the save along with two strikeouts in three innings.

"I thought our pitching was outstanding," Overton said. "Both (Christopher and Peterson) threw well; both mixed their pitches and set up the hitters well."

"Defensively, we played sound today; we made the plays well. I was especially pleased with the win when you play well like that in an opening game."

Mark Shank drew a base on balls to open the game for the Pirates, but he was out at second on a fielder's choice by Greg Hardison. After Chris Bradberry popped out to the second baseman, Johnson watched two pitches before sending a shot over the fence in right-center for a 2-0 Pirate lead.

East Carolina picked up another run in second, as freshman right fielder Jay McGraw doubled to center and later scored on a throwing error to the plate on a single by Jim Riley.

Hardison singled to open the third but was thrown out at the plate attempting to score from first on a double by Bradberry. ECU's base coach attempted to stop Hardison at third, but the junior shortstop missed the signal.

"A couple of times we had a chance to put the game away but made some little mistakes," Overton said. "We were aggressive on the bases, so that's the kind of mistake you can tolerate a little more. Early in the season, base running mistakes have a tendency to be the type you make."

Johnson followed Bradberry's double with his second homer of the day, this one over the right field fence, to give the Pirates their final margin.

The Pirates had three other scoring opportunities with less than two outs but stranded the runners. In the fourth, Riley and Robert Langston each singled after one out, but Shank followed with a fielder's choice and Hardison grounded out to end the threat.

Then in the fifth, Bradberry and Johnson singled and each advanced a base on a grounder by Mont Carter. But Mike Sullivan grounded out to the first baseman and McGraw drove a long out to right field to end the inning.

Johnson grounded into a double play in the seventh after Hardison had walked and Bradberry singled. Sullivan grounded out to the shortstop to close the inning.

Johnson finished with three hits in four trips to the plate and four runs batted in, while Bradberry also went 3-4. Riley recorded two hits in four at-bats.

The Pirates travel to William & Mary to open ECAC-South competition with a double-header March 2, then return home March 5 for a twinbill with St. Augustine.

Lady Pirates Clinch Title With Win Over Spiders

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina's Lady Pirates, trailing by one point at the half, stormed past Richmond in the second half for an 84-67 win to clinch the regular season ECAC-South women's championship Sunday afternoon.

After a so-so performance in the first half, the Lady Pirates began to catch fire in the second. Then when Richmond point guard Jackie Isreal went down with a knee injury and leading scorer Karen Elsner went to the bench with four fouls, the game turned into a rout.

"The key to the game was our switching to man-to-man defense at the half," Coach Emily Manwaring said. "We had been in a zone in the first half, and our press hadn't created much. But when we went to the man-to-man, we got some steals and were able to pull away."

The Pirates also hit on 20 of 26 shots from the floor in the period, a blazing 76.9 percent.

"We decided to try the man and see what developed. If we had trouble, we'd go to something else," Manwaring said. "But we never had to switch. Our guards are too quick once they get a chance (to run the break)."

Manwaring said that in the second half they were able to get the ball to the baseline and pass inside from there, getting the ball underneath for high percentage shots.

If there was a problem it was in the inability of the Pirates to stop Richmond's Diana Cannon, who scored a team high 19 points. "I can't believe how good she played for them," Manwaring said. "She really came through for them. They got the ball inside early, and although I thought we did a good job on Elsner, (Cannon) came through for them."

At one point in the first half, it looked like the Spiders might hand the Lady Pirates their second straight defeat, moving out by as much as nine points.

After an initial 6-2 lead by the Pirates, Richmond came back and took a 7-6 lead on a free throw by Cannon. Isreal followed with a layup and Dawn Pappas followed with a jumper. Isreal then hit a layup to give the Lady Spiders a 13-6 lead.

After a couple of exchanges, Elsner hit to run the lead to 17-8 with 14:14 remaining in the half.

But Bragg led the Lady Pirates back, getting help from Lisa Squirewell and Loraine Foster, finally regaining the lead at 26-25. Nevertheless, Richmond pushed back out and swapped baskets with the Pirates to the end of the half, which ended with Pappas hitting a jumper with 12 seconds to go to give Richmond a 31-30 edge at intermission.

Bragg put the Lady Pirates up early in the second half and Squirewell made two free throws and Annette Phillips hit on a jumper for a 36-31 lead. After Elsner went to the bench with four at the 16:07 mark, ECU stretched the lead to nine, 42-33. Then, when Isreal injured her knee at the 15:19 mark, the Lady Pirates began to pull away.

Squirewell made a three-point play and Bragg and Foster hit fast break layups to run the lead to 49-35. Richmond rallied, however, cutting the lead to as little as six, 56-50, but Anderson, who scored 12 straight points for the Pirates, helped them pull back out to as much as an 18 point lead in the closing minutes of the game.

Bragg finished the game with 24 points while Squirewell hit 20 and Anderson had 16. In addition to Cannon's 19 for Richmond, Elsner, Isreal and Pappas each had 12.

Lori Governor and Cannon each had 11 rebounds as the Spiders held a 39-35 edge in that department. Anderson had one and Squirewell, eight, for the Pirates.

"We needed the win," Manwaring said, "to get back our confidence after losing to Wilmington. We didn't play with much aggressiveness down there and we didn't play with much in the first half. I didn't think our subs came in and did much in the first half either. But the starters really clicked in the second half."

The Lady Pirates honored their two seniors, Anderson and Phillips, prior to the start of the game.

East Carolina closes out the regular season with an 11-1 ECAC-South record, 18-9 overall.

The ECAC-South tournament begins Friday afternoon in Richmond's Robins Center with three games. East Carolina, as the regular season winner, has a first-round bye and will face the winner of the game between the fourth and fifth place finishers — likely George Mason and Richmond — at 2 p.m. Saturday. The finals will be played Sunday afternoon. East Carolina is the defending tournament champion.

Correction

The report in the Friday edition of The Daily Reflector concerning the Eastern Carolina Conference tournament stated that Farmville Central's Joy "Peaden further antagonized the Greene Central cheering section with an obscene gesture as she left the court."

It has since been determined that Peaden simply pointed to the crowd as she left the court after fouling out.

The sports staff regrets the implication and apologizes to the parties concerned.

McCumber Quiets Rumor, Wins Doral-Eastern Open

MIAMI (AP) — A palm tree, a couple of rumors, a lost ball that wasn't lost and some moments of sheer panic all had roles in the bizarre wind-up of Mark McCumber's victory in the Doral-Eastern Open golf tournament.

"I was in a state of shock. I lost control," McCumber said of a few frantic moments Sunday when it appeared, or was rumored, that his tee shot on the 18th hole had lodged in a palm tree.

"It was a very scary moment. I didn't want the tournament to get away from me on some freaky thing," McCumber said after he had outlasted Jack Nicklaus, Tom Kite — and the rumors — for a one-shot decision in one of the more unusual finishes the PGA Tour has produced in recent years.

This was the situation: Seven players, Nicklaus, Kite and McCumber among them, had led or shared the lead over the final round. One by one they fell back until, going to the tee on the 18th — some say the most difficult finishing hole on the Tour — McCumber held a 2-stroke lead over Kite and three over Nicklaus.

The stocky little man, who previously won this title in 1979, purposely played his tee shot far to the right, he said "totally eliminate the water (a lake on the left) from the hole."

He hit the ball precisely where he was aiming.

Moments later, however, McCumber said, "a CBS cameraman told me my ball was stuck in the top of a palm tree." The information also was relayed over the national telecast of the tournament.

Pack Chasing Bigger Prize In ACC

By TOM FOREMAN JR.
AP Sports Writer

North Carolina State knocked off Virginia to claim a share of first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference, but Wolfpack basketball coach Jim Valvano admits that he's after bigger prizes.

Lorenzo Charles' two free throws with four seconds left gave the Wolfpack a 57-55 victory over the Cavaliers — its sixth straight triumph. Combined with North Carolina's 84-60 victory over Clemson, the two teams are deadlocked at 8-4 with two conference battles left.

Meanwhile, Valvano is dreaming of life after Atlanta, site of the ACC tournament.

"I don't think too much about winning the regular season ACC," Valvano said. "Right now, the name of the game is getting a bid to the NCAA. That's our major goal and then you backtrack from there.

There is no regular-season champion in the ACC. Conference officials consider the tournament winner as league champ.

No. 8 Georgia Tech started the weekend in first place, but its 67-62 loss to sixth-ranked Duke pushed the Yellow Jackets back to third place and helped the Blue Devils gain fourth place as ACC competition enters the final week.

Maryland held off Wake Forest 69-66 as the Terrapins hit six straight free throws in the final 91 seconds.

Charles, held scoreless in the first half and limited to eight points, got his chance when he was fouled by Tom Sheehy. Anthony "Spud"

Webb had penetrated the Virginia defense and dished off to the 6-foot-7, 255-pound Charles, who went for the dunk.

Virginia called timeout after Charles converted his free throws. When play resumed, Dan Merrifield got the ball in play at halfcourt to Tom Calloway, who fired a 30-foot shot that rimmed out as the buzzer sounded.

"Lorenzo did not play exceptionally well," Valvano said. "They did an excellent defensive job on him. Given the kind of year he's been having, it's fitting that he hit those two free throws at the end."

Reserve Terry Gannon paced N.C. State with 13 points while Ernie Myers scored 11 and Webb contributed 10. Jim Miller was the only Virginia player to finish in double figures with 14.

"It goes without saying that this was a tremendously disappointing loss for us," Cavalier coach Terry Holland said. "We played extremely well during the first 23 minutes of the game and then we either played not to lose or the heat and humidity was a factor and we were tired."

Clemson appeared ready to spoil the last-game celebration for Carmichael Auditorium as well as end its own winless streak of 12 games in the 10,000-seat arena. The Tar Heels nixed that idea when they outscored the Tigers 25-4 in the last 10 minutes of the first half for a 40-19 halftime edge that was never challenged.

"I can't think of a better way to go out," Tar Heel senior Buzz Peterson said. "Everybody was having fun. It was just like out on a playground."

Alcott Takes Tucson Open

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — While Amy Alcott isn't in the habit of chewing nails, the thought of it spurred her toward a 22nd career LPGA victory.

Alcott got off to a sluggish start in Sunday's final round of the $175,000 LPGA Circle K Tucson Open golf tournament. By the sixth hole she began talking to herself.

"I told myself, 'Get tough. Let's eat nails. Go!'" Alcott said. "Sometimes you live up that, and sometimes you don't. I figure you only come this way once, so let's rip it. Go for it."

The 10-year pro proceeded to birdie the seventh, eighth and ninth holes and then sink a 12-foot eagle putt on the last hole to beat out Betsy King by a single stroke.

Alcott, who celebrated her 29th birthday Friday, tied the tournament's low round with a 5-under-67 and a 9-under-par 279 total on the par 72, 6,212-yard Randolph Golf Course.

King, the tournament's 54-hole leader, just missed an eagle putt herself on the final hole and settled for a round of 69 and a 280 total.

Hollis Stacy, who missed the cut here last year, and Pat Bradley finished at 283 — four shots back. Both Stacy and Bradley posted 2-under 70s Sunday.

Nancy Lopez and Ayako Okamoto, both previous winners here, finished at 284, five strokes off the pace.

Defending champion Chris Johnson shot an even-par 72, her best round of the tournament, and wound up 12-over at 300.

Alcott and King were tied at 7-under-par and both on the par 5, 458-yard, 18th hole in two. King putted first and watched her ball disappear and then pop out of the hole. Alcott's 12-foot putt rolled up to the cup, peeked in, and just barely dropped in.

"After I made my birdie putt, I was honestly thinking playoff," said King, last year's leading money winner. "I didn't think Amy would make it. The chances of her making that are about 20 to 30 percent. The odds weren't good."

Alcott said her lone thought while standing over her winning putt was, "not to hit it 4 feet by. I just wanted to feed that putt to the hole."

King, who was seeking her fourth career win, left birdie putts short on the 16th and 17th holes.

"Putting is the weakest part of my game," said King, who had 33 putts Sunday. "If something is going to go, it is my putting. It has improved, but if I had a lot of other players putting for me, I think they would win eight or nine times a year."

The leaderboard juggled around among five players, including Stacy, Bradley and Jane Lock.

Stacy dropped out of contention with bogeys on 12 and 17, while Bradley hurt her chances with a double bogey 6 on the ninth hole. Lock's name appeared momentarily early in the day when she birdied the third hole.

The victory was worth $26,250 to Alcott while King won $16,187.

Flutie Struggles, Kelly Leads Houston

By The Associated Press

All the pre-game hype and hoopla was directed at the rookie quarterback with the million-dollar contract, a Heisman Trophy winner with virtually no preparation. While Doug Flutie was struggling in his professional debut, the United States Football League's resident star passer was picking up where he left off last season.

Jim Kelly, the USFL's Most Valuable Player in 1984 when he threw for 44 touchdowns, began the '85 campaign in style Sunday with five scoring tosses and an American professional record 574 yards passing in leading the Houston Gamblers to a stunning 34-33 comeback victory over the Los Angeles Express before a crowd of 18,828. The Gamblers trailed 33-13 in the final quarter.

"I've been in some comebacks before but never anything like that," said Kelly, "ulling out that win was the best feeling I ever had in my life."

Kelly completed 35 of 54 passes and threw for three touchdowns in the last 10 minutes. He hit Ricky Sanders with a 39-yard TD pass with 1:18 remaining and Toni Fritsch's conversion was decisive.

Elsewhere on opening day of the USFL's third season, Flutie got off to a horrible start and his late recovery wasn't enough as the Birmingham Stallions beat the New Jersey Generals 38-28 before 34,785. The Oakland Invaders downed the Denver Gold 31-10, the Jacksonville Bulls surprised the Baltimore Stars — who won the title while playing in Philadelphia last year — 22-14 and the Arizona Outlaws took the Portland Breakers 9-7.

On Saturday, the Tampa Bay Bandits routed the Orlando Renegades 35-7 before 45,045 in Tampa. Tonight, Memphis is at San Antonio.

Kelly wasn't taking all the credit for Houston's rally, which also included a 52-yard pass to Richard Johnson and a 20-yarder to Vince Courville.

"My offensive linemen gave me protection that was unbelievable," he said. "Our receivers did a heck of a job; they held onto the ball well and ran some great patterns."

But Kelly had to get them the ball and he did so in record-breaking fashion. His 574 yards passing surpassed Norm Van Brocklin's 554 set with the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League in 1951. Kelly was 12 yards shy of the pro record of 586 by Sam Etcheverry of the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League in 1954.

"He's a great quarterback; that's a great offense," said Express signal-caller Steve Young, who helped bring LA back from a 13-0 hole.

Tony Zendejas kicked four field goals for the Express.

Stallions 38, Generals 28

Flutie, fresh from Boston College, where he set NCAA passing marks, looked anything but ready for the pro ranks as he misfired on his first nine passes, with two being intercepted. It wasn't until late in the third quarter that the $7 million QB collected his first completion, a 6-yard pass to Clarence Collins.

By then, Birmingham had built a 31-7 lead behind quarterback Cliff Stoudt, who finished hitting 21-for-33 for 220 yards and three scores. He also ran nine times for 65 yards.

The game at Birmingham was tied 7-7 when Joe Cribbs scored from the 2 with 19 seconds left in the first half. The Stallions scored 17 straight points in the third period before Flutie found his stride. He wound up with 12 completions in 27 attempts for 189 yards and was picked off three times. He did hurl a pair of fourth-quarter touchdown passes.

"I think I'm ready," said Flutie, who had only two weeks of steady practice after signing with the Generals. "I didn't prove it today, but I believe I will next week."

Stoudt felt the Stallions were helped by Flutie's presence.

"The team and I were very relaxed because all the pressure was on Doug and not on us," said Stoudt, who spent seven years with the Pittsburgh Steelers of the NFL.

Invaders 31, Gold 10

At Oakland, before 23,622, Bobby Hebert — who came to the Invaders when the team merged with the Michigan Panthers — hit four touchdown passes. Hebert connected with Anthony Carter on a 50-yard TD pass on the first play of the fourth quarter to snap a 10-10 tie. A pair of interceptions by Derrick Martin led to two more scores.

The Oakland defense held Denver QB Vince Evans to 14-for-45 for 150 yards and stole three passes.

"I was pressing a little bit with a new team and in a new situation," Hebert said of his slow start. "I guess we were a little greedy early, trying for big plays. We finally got them."

Bulls 22, Stars 14

Host Jacksonville was led by placekicker Brian Franco's USFL record-tying five field goals — including 51 and 50-yarders — in beating the '84 USFL titlists. The Bulls lost starting QB Brian Sipe in the first quarter with a shoulder separation.

Baltimore moved within eight points with a minute to go as Tim Riordan hit Herbert Harris with a 3-yard scoring toss and connected with Willie Collier for a 2-point conversion. The Stars then recovered an onside kick but could not move the ball.

Earnhardt Bumps By Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — "That's just racing," said Dale Earnhardt of the two bumps he gave Tim Richmond in assuming the lead for good in the $264,000 Miller High Life 400 NASCAR Grand National stock car race.

"I had to make something happen because he wasn't going to let me by," said Earnhardt, who averaged 67.945 mph in Sunday's race. "He (Richmond) would have done the same thing if he was in my position."

Earnhardt, who collected $33,625 for the win over the Richmond Fairgrounds .542-mile oval, broke past Richmond on a re-start after a caution on lap 380 of the 400-lap event and outran Geoff Bodine and Darrell Waltrip for the victory.

"I got good traction on the re-start," said Earnhardt. "He (Richmond) wanted the low groove and I wanted the low groove, but I got there a little faster."

Earnhardt, who started fourth in a collected $22,165.

Richmond faded, later pitting briefly for a flat tire, and finished ninth.

Waltrip, who set a track record of 95.216 Friday in grabbing the pole, ended up third. In fourth place was Ron Bouchard, followed by Harry Gant, Terry Labonte, Kyle Petty, Dave Marcis, Richmond and Lake Speed.

It was apparent early in the race that Waltrip and Earnhardt had two of the fastest cars on the track.

"Me and Darrell were going to be the ones to beat," Earnhardt said. "I felt we could have lapped the field if we kept on going that way."

Dixon Named Top Rookie

Freshman point guard Herb Dixon of East Carolina was named the ECAC-South rookie of the week Monday for the second time of the 1984-85 season.

The 6-3 Dixon totaled 30 points and 20 assists in losses to Navy and American and the victory over UNC-Wilmington — the Pirates first conference triumph of the year.

 NEW YORK (AP) — "Do you want to be a Playboy Bunny with all your heart and soul?"

Some answered yes to the Playboy Bunny pledge in the belief it provided passage to the upper class and the first step to Hollywood; some said yes because it fed the family and was the best job available, and others just didn't know any better.

Gloria Steinem had her own reasons, and her experiences as an undercover writer posing as a Bunny in 1963 provided a story for Show magazine, an article that two decades later inspired tonight's ABC movie, "A Bunny's Tale."

Kirstie Alley ("Star Trek II") accurately captures the intelligence and dignity of Ms. Steinem, now a well-known feminist lecturer, writer and editor. Miss Alley also is credible enough as a lookalike.

Although one wishes "A Bunny's Tale" had more humor, the film is a sensible, non-sensational depiction of the cocktail waitresses at Hugh Hefner's Playboy Clubs who, with their pointy ears, puffy tails and tight, skimpy costumes, came to personify degradation of woman.

"All women are Bunnies, but it doesn't have to be that way," says Gloria at the end of the movie, also referring to the parallel story of her personal life and how her relationships were changed and attitudes radicalized by her masquerade.

"A Bunny's Tale" begins with a disclaimer that this is a dramatization, told from Ms. Steinem's perspective. That probably means some dramatic license was taken with the real story and that Hefner's point of view was not solicited.

Ms. Steinem had script approval and has said she was essentially pleased with the production, with the major exception being the title.

The film never takes a leering point of view. There are very few ogling scenes and the camera angles don't gratuitously pander. This undoubtedly stems from the women in key roles on the production.

Karen Arthur directed "A Bunny's Tale" from a screenplay by Deena Goldstone, who impressed Ms. Steinem with her work on ABC's film about acquaintance rape, "When She Says No."

Joan Marks was the co-producer, along with Stan Margulies ("Roots,"

"The Thorn Birds"). It was Ms. Marks who ran across the original Show magazine story while researching a script about Playboy Bunnies for the sitcom "Laverne & Shirley."

The story is set in New York (but filmed in Hollywood). Gloria is a struggling free-lance writer who initially balks when an editor suggests going undercover to do a funny piece on Playboy's walking symbols. She fears the assignment would prevent her from getting future serious assignments.

In a narrative at the end of the film, Gloria says she did lose some serious stories, even though the article turned into a more significant piece than her editor wanted.

Once inside the men's club, Gloria discovers the callous working conditions, including costumes that are so tight they rip the skin, and the humiliating experience of serving drinks to lecherous, uncivilized customers.

Thankfully all the men in the film aren't depicted as goons. Gloria's boyfriend (Cotter Smith) is a decent man, perhaps a bit egocentric, but he would certainly qualify as enlightened and sensitive for the 1960s.

Ms. Steinem's portrait of the hard-working Bunnies is sympathetic, although they're presented as a mite too heroic. But, through their lockerroom-type bonding and support, the major message hits home: self-respect comes from within, not through somebody else.

Secretive Prince In Line For Five Grammy Awards

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — He was named after his father's jazz group. His mom called him Skipper, while members of his band know him as The Kid. He's short, but a good basketball player. And his favorite color is purple.

That's most of what's known about Prince, the Minneapolis-born rock superstar who has kept his private life a secret while rocketing to fame as a top-selling and flamboyant musician known for his sexually explicit lyrics.

Born Prince Roger Nelson, the 26-year-old singer stopped giving interviews about two years ago and his friends and family are reluctant to discuss the reclusive star, who lives in a purple ranch-style house in suburban Chanhassen.

"Prince even keeps his activities secret from us," said a spokesman for the rock star, who spoke on condition his name not be used.

In fact, it's not guaranteed that Prince will appear at Tuesday's Grammy Awards ceremony in Los Angeles. He is nominated for five Grammys, including album of the year, best rock group performance, best film score recording, producer of the year and best rhythm-and-blues song.

Despite the secrecy, Prince and his band, the Revolution, have become one of the hottest acts on the rock circuit. His movie debut, "Purple Rain," was an instant smash last summer, the soundtrack album was the biggest-selling record of 1984 with nearly 12 million in sales worldwide, and his current concert tour has sold out virtually every stop.

"My feeling is that the success of this album ... is just the prelude to whatever's going to come next," the spokesman said.

Prince's first album, "For You," with Prince playing all the instruments, was released in 1978 when he was 20. Subsequent albums — "Dirty Mind," "Controversy" and "1999" — won critical acclaim.

"I think his music has been changing," the spokesman said. "His main concern is being true to his own emotions, being honest with his audience. As he's grown, the music has changed.

"In 'Dirty Mind,' he was concerned with sexuality and sexual oppression, which he was very opposed to. And 'Purple Rain' seemed to be a film about resolving problems with your parents.

"I don't think it involved a toning-down."

His earlier albums were marked by sexually explicit lyrics, which caused some religious leaders to complain after Gov. Rudy Perpich declared "Prince Days" last Christmas week during five shows at the St. Paul Civic Center, where concertgoers donated 50,000 pounds of canned food for the needy.

'Gimme a Break' Makes Live Telecast

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Broadway veterans Nell Carter and Dolph Sweet put that experience to good use as they and the cast and crew of "Gimme a Break" performed the first live TV situation comedy in nearly 30 years.

"We did it!" Miss Carter yelled at the end of the show Saturday night. An audience packed with friends, relatives and NBC executives applauded the cast and crew for several minutes.

The half-hour comedy, which is usually taped on Tuesday nights, went live across most of the country and was taped for broadcast three hours later on the West Coast.

"NBC called and asked us if we'd do it," said Rod Parker, the show's co-executive producer with director Hal Cooper. "We said, 'Yeah, it'd be fun.' Not every week, thank you."

It's not that producers were worried the actors would flub their lines.

Mostly, they were hoping the audience wouldn't find the gags too funny — or not amusing at all.

"The audience laughter usually takes up about two to three minutes of air time," Parker said. "But if the audience really thinks it's funny, it can go for as much as four minutes."

"Going live with a sitcom isn't the same as doing a variety show live. You can't add or take out a number or a scene to make it come out on time. You've got to tell the story."

But the performances — by audience and actors — were flawless.

The show's producer, Arthur Julian, worked on one of the last live comedies, "Meet Millie," which went off the air in 1956.

Files Kept

LONDON (AP) — A former British intelligence officer has been quoted as saying security authorities kept files on thousands of anti-nuclear activists to satisfy politicians' demands for information on Britain's peace movement.

Cathy Massiter was quoted by The Observer newspaper as saying the British counterespionage agency M15 regularly broke its own rules on domestic surveillance.

The agency's undercover work, she reportedly told the weekly, "expanded hugely in the 1970s to take in new 'soft' targets, including solicitors, barristers, journalists and pressure groups."

DEA Claims Police Help Pot Grower

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mexican police aided the escape of an alleged marijuana grower believed to have been involved in the kidnapping of a U.S. drug agent, the head of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration charges.

DEA Administrator Francis M. Mullen Jr. said Sunday that Rafael Caro-Quintero, "one of those whom we suspect, one of those traffickers involved in the kidnapping," boarded a plane in Guadalajara late Saturday despite attempts by Mexican judicial police to detain him with a warrant.

"We have now learned he had as protection members of the (Mexican) Department of Federal Security," Mullen said, referring to the Mexican equivalent of the FBI. "We have an ... element of the police letting this individual go..."

Mullen, appearing on ABC-TV's "This Week With David Brinkley," said Caro-Quintero, who was believed to have left Mexico, was "responsible for the plantation where 3,500 tons of marijuana were located in Mexico. This concerns us, and we wonder why he was allowed to leave."

Caro-Quintero was wanted for questioning regarding Enrique Camarena Salazar, a DEA agent abducted at gunpoint Feb. 7 in Guadalajara. The lack of arrests in the case has caused friction between U.S. and Mexican officials.

In a case similar to Caro-Quintero, DEA agents lost track of alleged cocaine kingpin Juan Matta Ballesteros this month in Mexico City when a Mexican police official delayed his arrest, Newsweek reported Sunday.

The DEA notified Mexican officials of the whereabouts of Ballesteros on Feb. 14, but two days later, Manuel Ibarra Herrera, head of the Mexican Federal Judicial Police, personally delayed the raid for nearly a day, the magazine said.

By the time the police arrived, Matta had vanished, Newsweek said.

A DEA spokesman, Robert Feldkamp, could not be reached immediately for comment on the Newsweek report. Telephone calls to Feldkamp's home went unanswered Sunday evening.

Mullen continued his criticism of Mexican law enforcement officials for their response to the kidnapping of Camarena, whose fate remains unknown.

"I believe they're actively searching for him now," Mullen said. "I do not believe that they were doing so at the outset. ... It's my belief that this case should have been solved and should be solved."

Mullen said the slow start of the investigation by Mexican authorities gave major suspects "adequate time to depart the area." He also criticized a Mexican judicial order that barred police from questioning about 25 drug kingpins.

Asked whether he thought there was a coverup in the case, he replied: "I won't go so far as to say coverup, but there may be some complicity at the lower levels of law enforcement."

Crews Continue Track Cleanup

JACKSON, S.C. (AP) — Railroad workers continued cleaning a site in rural Aiken County where 28 cars derailed Saturday, spilling a chemical and starting fires that caused the area to be briefly evacuated.

The derailed Seaboard System Railroad cars were moved aside and the tracks were repaired and reopened shortly before 6 p.m. Sunday, said company spokesman Ray Bullard. He said the derailed cars that are sitting beside the tracks should be moved by late today.

A faulty undercarriage in one of the train's 148 cars is being blamed for the 7 a.m. derailment, said Seaboard trainmaster Thomas L. Huffman. The car left the tracks near a crossing and pulled eight tankers and 11 other cars from the rails, he said.

A second derailment of eight cars was caused by "a jack-knifing effect," Huffman said.

The tankers were carrying the chemical cyclohexane from Savannah, Ga., to the Columbia Nitrogen Co. in Augusta, Ga.

The chemical that's used to make lacquers, paint and varnish removers, can burn and irritate the skin and eyes in its liquid form and cause dizziness and nausea when the vapor is inhaled, said Ron Kinney of the state Department of Health and Environmental Control's emergency response team.

About 20 homes were evacuated, but the residents were allowed to return home about two hours later. No injuries were reported.

"We were lucky. This is about the most isolated place this could have happened," said Jackson Mayor Hoyt Dunsieath. "Also, the wind was blowing away from the town, so the vapor never came near us."

Chernenko Makes Public Appearance

MOSCOW (AP) — President Konstantin U. Chernenko has appeared in public after being out of sight for two months, but his faltering manner and the way Soviet television managed his appearance did little to dispel doubts about his health.

Carefully edited television footage less than two minutes in length was aired Sunday on Soviet television. It showed Chernenko, 73, sitting, standing and murmuring a few words as he voted in an election for the Parliament of the Russian Republic.

Western diplomats said they doubted Chernenko voted at a regular polling place.

In contrast, Mikhail S. Gorbachev, said to be the second-leading figure in the ruling Politburo, appeared smiling and confident as he and his family voted at a polling place crowded with Western reporters.

Gorbachev turned to the cameras several times during his visit to the polling place, and posed with his granddaughter as she stuffed his ballot into the box.

Soviet newspapers today carried photographs showing Chernenko and Premier Nikolai A. Tikhonov, close-up, dropping their ballots into boxes. The newspapers noted Chernenko's election address had said the elections to the "organs of Soviet power are a direct and visual expression of the political will of the people."

In his television appearance, Chernenko, dressed in a blue suit, was first shown sitting at a desk with an election official handing him his ballot papers and Politburo member and Moscow Communist Party chief Viktor V. Grishin among a handful of officials looking on. Chernenko was not shown signing a register or marking his ballots.

The camera then panned to a cluster of Soviet photographers across the small room, which was adorned with a large bust of Lenin surrounded by potted plants.

The next shot of Chernenko showed him standing behind a ballot box. He dropped in his vote, then received three bunches of flowers from Grishin and two officials and could be heard saying "thank you" and wishing the bystanders "happy holiday."

The film ended with Chernenko declaring "good" as he waved weakly at the photographers.

Diplomat Charged As Spy In Norway

OSLO, Norway (AP) — A former Foreign Ministry spokesman was accused in court today of providing the Soviet Union with a staggering array of secrets, including NATO nuclear strategies.

Arne Treholt was accused of giving Soviet agents details of Norwegian and NATO air defense and warning systems, as well as reports on the defense of Norway's remote border with the Soviet Union.

He also was accused of revealing Western intelligence on the Middle East and Afghanistan to Iraq and the Soviets, and disclosing contents of talks with Henry Kissinger, Helmut Schmidt and other ranking Western officials in a 10-year espionage career.

The charges, made public for the first time today, were included in a 15-page list read at the opening of Treholt's trial in Oslo.

The personable and polished Treholt, 42, once considered one of the country's fastest rising diplomats, denied the charges. "I never revealed anything referring to the security of the country in the points referred to in the indictment," he said, standing calmly at an oaken witness dock, holding the court microphone in one hand.

His denial constituted a plea of innocent to the charges.

The former diplomat stood calmly for 30 minutes while the charges against him were read. While he waited, he swayed back and forth, crossing his arms or putting his hands in the pockets of his three-piece gray suit.

Treholt has been in custody since his arrest at Oslo's airport on Jan. 20, 1984. Police said he was preparing to leave Norway with 66 NATO and other documents he planned to give Soviet agents in Vienna.

Treholt was charged with violations of both civilian and military security laws which could bring up him up to 20 years in prison.

Police charged that Treholt had been in contact with Soviet intelligence officers since 1974 and had passed secrets to them both in Europe and the United States.

ANSWERS TO WEEKLY BRIDGE QUIZ

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠74 ♥AQ982 ♦93 ♣Q1065

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♥	2 ♦
2 ♥	Pass	?	?

What action do you take?

A.—In terms of high cards, you do not have much more than a minimum. However, your double fit gives your hand great trick-taking possibilities. You do not have enough to bid game on your own, but you should certainly issue an invitation by raising to three hearts.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠A73 ♥AQJ106 ♦AJ5 ♣84

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
?	?	?	?

What do you bid now?

A.—This is one of those hands where you simply have no good rebid. A jump to three spade with only three-card support is too aggressive, and a jump to three hearts on a five-card suit could result in your getting to game in the wrong major suit. Since a change of suit by opener could suggest extra values, we would opt for two diamonds. Partner's next bid should leave you excellently placed to plot the rest of the auction.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠8763 ♥A85 ♦Q762 ♣K5

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Dble	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	2 ♠	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—By first doubling and then raising your suit, partner is showing a hand worth 16-18 points in support of spades. Were it not for the fact that your king of clubs is under the opening bidder, your hand would warrant going to game. It still merits one effort, and the logical bid is two no trump.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♥QJ6 ♦A53 ♠AKQJ873

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	3 NT	Pass
?	?	?	?

What action do you take?

A.—We would not fault you if you chose to bid five clubs — those honors are not to be sneered at and you should be a favorite for 11 tricks. However, at no trump you will be delivering to partner eight sure tricks and he surely can make one trick before the enemy collects five. We would pass.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠K7632 ♥Q85 ♦KQ1092

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
?	?	?	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Even though you are a passed hand and partner has opened in third seat, your hand offers slam possibilities. To convey that message, make a jump shift of three diamonds — by a passed hand a jump shift is a one-round force. A jump to four spades is woefully inadequate.

Q.6—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠542 ♥863 ♦J109754 ♣9

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Dble	Pass	1 ♦
2 ♠	Dble	Pass	?

A.—First, you must realize that, since you have already taken a bid, partner's double of two clubs is for penalties. Then you must see that your hand is totally unsuited to defense no matter what the vulnerability — you do not have the vestige of a defensive trick. Bid two diamonds.
