HAPPY FOR NEW SCHOOL — Ayden Elementary Principal Stuart Tripp told students, teachers and community residents attending the rededication ceremony for the school that Thursday was "a great day because we are alive, we have our health, our children and our school is in good shape." The ceremony marked the anniversary of the March 28, 1984, tornado that roared through Ayden, doing $450,000 damage to Ayden Elementary School. (Barry Gaskins Photo)

'A Great Day ... We Are Alive

Ayden Rededicates School Damaged By '84 Tornado

By MARY C. SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

A banner on the red brick building said: "It took our roof and left us safe children. Thanks for the new school."

The wind roared Thursday across the front lawn of Ayden Elementary School, rocking the flag pole and tousling children's hair. The sky was blue and clear but an occasional head turned toward the southwest, the direction of a similar wind that brought destruction to the community exactly one year ago.

The crowd gathered at the school included students, teachers and community residents that in some way were affected by the devastation of the March 28, 1984, tornado that pounded Ayden. They were there to rededicate Ayden Elementary School, which was severely damaged by the storm, and to share, many said, joy that they were alive.

"This a great day, a great day for all of us because we are alive, we have our health and our children and our school is in good shape," Ayden Elementary Principal Stuart Tripp told the group. "The tornado was a tragedy but out of tragedy has come something beautiful. We have a beautiful new school to replace the one that was destroyed and we have our friends who joined us in tragedy joining us today in joy."

The tornado peeled the roof off a portion of the school's lunchroom, destroyed skylights in the east and west wings and smashed the boiler room. County school officials say they spent $450,000 refurbishing the facility, a project which took over three months.

Ayden Elementary students shared a school with Grifton students for the remainder of the 1983-84 school year — a situation which school officials say created complex busing schedules and spawned a great deal of cooperation between the two communities.

"The whole school lived in boxes," Carolyn Rouse, secretary for Ayden Elementary, said. "We were in somebody else's school, rooms, desks, and the whole school was conscious of that."

The people at Grifton School "were great — we couldn't have gotten along without their help," Mrs. Rouse said. "We were very glad to get back to our school last fall, though."

Mrs. Rouse, who lives in a neighborhood adjacent to the school, was one of the first people to see the school the morning after the storm struck. She says her emotions when she saw the destruction cannot be described. "We (her family) were up all night long anyway because we had a neighbor whose house was damaged," Mrs. Rouse said. "The next morning my children and I

Economic Index Shows Healthy Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's main economic forecasting gauge gained a healthy 0.7 percent in February, leading the Reagan administration and some private forecasters to predict an upturn in economic activity in the months ahead.

The Commerce Department said the February gain in the Index of Leading Indicators followed an even stronger January increase of 1.5 percent, the biggest rise in almost two years.

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said the new report offered encouragement that current slower growth "will be followed by better performances in the period ahead."

Baldrige said he was "particularly encouraged" by a 48 percent rebound in orders for new plant and equipment during February. He said this was a "sin that capital spending this year will again be a driving force in the economic expansion."

Baldrige said increases in the leading index of 0.5 percent a month would be consistent with the administration's forecast of 4 percent economic growth this year. The index has increased only 0.3 percent on average in each of the last six months.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes noted that "some current economic statistics ... indicate a moderation of business activity," but added that "the leading indicators show a path of continuing growth in the months ahead. With the coming of spring, the indicators signal renewed optimism."

Michael Evans, head of Evans Economics, a private forecasting firm, said the two healthy gains in the index could be indicating that the slowdown in activity that started last July may have ended in February.

"When the March numbers (measuring business activity) start coming out, I think we are going to see some major strength across the board," he said. "We won't get a run-away boom, but we are going to see renewed strength."

The index fell 0.5 percent in December, its fourth decline since last June, when it dropped 0.9 percent, breaking a string of 21 consecutive advances as the economy recovered from the steep 1981-82 recession.

Analysts believe the economy should enjoy generally moderate growth this year, but nothing like the 6.8 percent gain in the gross national product recorded in 1984.

While President Reagan repeated his belief Thursday that the economy can achieve the 4 percent growth the administration is forecasting, other analysts doubt that assertion.

Part of the pessimism stems from the fact that the government last week issued a preliminary estimate of economic growth of only 2.1 percent for the first three months of this year — about half what most economists had been expecting.

While many analysts believe the initial GNP estimate will be revised upward in coming months, many are expressing concerns about the economy's vitality, particularly in the face of soaring trade deficits that are robbing domestic manufacturers of sales.

The department said the healthy gain in the leading index came from strength in five of the 10 indicators available when the report was compiled.

The bulk of the increase came from a surge in contracts for new plant and equipment followed by a gain in stock market prices in February.

Other positive influences were a gain in the money supply, new businesses and the performance of vendors in making deliveries.

The biggest negative factor was a drop in the length of the average workweek. Analysts have said they believe this decline stemmed from unusually severe weather during the month that forced plant closings. They predicted the length of the workweek would rise again in March and would be a big positive factor in next month's index.

The four other negative influences were manufacturers' new orders for consumer goods, weekly unemployment claims, a change in the price of sensitive raw materials and the number of building permits issued.

The changes left the index at 167.5 percent of its 1967 base, compared to an index of 166.4 in January.

The change in the January index was originally reported at 1.7 percent but was revised to 1.5 percent in today's report.

Full-Time Students At PCC Decline For Spring Quarter

By JANE WELBORN
Reflector Staff Writer

Spring enrollment of full-time students is down at Pitt Community College, the president of the institution told trustees Thursday.

Of the 2,453 students enrolled in the community college for the spring quarter, 1,059 are full-time students.

This total represents 138 fewer full-time students than were enrolled at PCC last spring. Night school enrollment is 952 for the spring quarter; last spring's night classes had an enrollment of 763.

PCC President Charles Russell said that when the economy is on an upswing, full-time registration usually drops. "When the economy is good, community college enrollment is usually down," Russell said. "When jobs are slow, enrollment will go back up. Right now, working people are coming out at night to continue their education."

The board adopted a revision to the budget resolution, including several new appropriations, a loan to another community college and the realignment of money based on changes in purpose and functions.

Several new allotments were made to the institution's budget by the state and by the County Commissioners. Appropriations include $79,616 from the state for vocational education programs and longevity and $60,177 in unexpended funds carried over from last year, adding $139,793 to the budget of the current operating and plant funds. Also added to the budget was $8,950 which was approved by the Board of Commissioners and was left over from a roof replacement in July. A total of $149,879 has been added in institutional funds and must be budgeted; this allotment was received by PCC from parking, the solar house, library funds and other sources. A total of $285,020 has been amended to the budget this year.

With the permission of the state and the County Commissioners, the budget was also realigned due to changes in purposes and functions. No new money was added; the budget items were reclassified.

PCC also is sending $10,000 to the state as a loan to another community college in need of funds. This money will be repaid in July.

Board member A.B. Whitley informed the trustees that the working plans for the new library/learning center will be complete in another week. He also announced that the drawings of the street drainage improvements will be complete in four weeks.

Five gifts to the university were approved by the board. Included in the gifts was $6,100 from the citizens of Pitt County to the Vernon E. White Scholarship Endowment.

RECEIVES GRANT — Dr. Paul Gemperline (center) has been awarded a $25,400 grant from Burroughs Wellcome Co. to support his research in factor analysis

Burroughs Wellcome Puts Up $25,000 Study Grant

Dr. Paul Gemperline of the chemistry faculty at East Carolina University, has been awarded a $25,400 grant from Burroughs Wellcome Co. to support development of factor analysis computer programs to be used in the testing and study of chemicals such as those used in pharmaceutical products.

The Burroughs Wellcome Co. grant will support the development of factor analysis programs to be applied to liquid chromatography studies. Two benefits are expected to be realized from this work: the capability for detecting contaminants will be improved and the saving of time for the analyst in the step where compounds are separated prior to light absorption.

Dr. Keith Holmes, head of the analytical development labs department, said, "This is the first time Burroughs Wellcome Company and the East Carolina University Department of Chemistry have undertaken a joint research effort which will benefit both areas. We hope this will be the first of many joint ventures."

Dr. John M. Howell, ECU chancellor, added, "This kind of cooperation between industry and the university represents the wisest use of all our resources. We're very proud of Dr. Gemperline's research and very appreciative of Burroughs Wellcome Company's support which will help make the continuation of this work possible."

Trooper Says No Charges Will Be Filed In Van Wreck

No charges will be filed against any of the East Carolina University track members who survived a van crash Sunday that took a sprinter's life, a state Highway Patrol officer said Thursday.

Trooper Ronald G. Melton said District Attorney Howard S. Boney Jr. had failed to find evidence of wrongdoing in the death of Erskine Evans, 21, of Greenville.

Melton was one of the first officials at the scene of the crash, which occurred at 1:50 a.m. Sunday on U.S. 264 in Nash County. The nine team members — preceded by another van holding four other team members, a coach and an assistant — were returning from a track meet in Georgia.

Melton said Kenneth Daughtry, 21, apparently fell asleep at the wheel and lost control of the vehicle.

Evans, who died of head injuries, was buried Thursday at Greenwood Cemetery in Greenville. About 600 people attended the funeral service at Mendenhall Student Center on the ECU campus.

Four of the eight students injured remain in medical care. Wilson Memorial Hospital spokesmen said Daughtry and Julian Anderson, 20, were in stable condition Thursday. Walter B. Southerland, 20, who suffered a fractured spine, had been transferred to the university health center, where a spokesman said he was in "fairly good" condition Thursday.

Spokesmen at Pitt County Memorial Hospital said Jon Thomas Lee, 19, was in fair condition and Christopher Brooks was released Tuesday. Three other students in the van were treated and released Sunday.

program which began in September 1982, will end. About 20 percent of the claims filed by the Employment Security Commission since September 1982 have been under this program, with about 200 persons involved at the present time. At its peak about 500 were involved, Hannan said, with additional payments supplied by the federal government varying from eight to 14 weeks.

Recent surveys place unemployment in Pitt County at 5.7 percent, he said. The peak percentage since the program began was 9.1 percent.

Fire/Rescue Report

Greenville Fire/Rescue Chief Jenness Allen said that department employees responded to 253 calls in February, including 215 rescue responses (189 within the city and 26 in the county) and 38 fire calls.

Allen said the department transported 157 city residents, 38 county residents and 16 non-residents. Mileage traveled on rescue calls amounted to 1,659 miles (1,304 city, 355 county).

Fire/rescue personnel made 169 inspections of 141 commercial buildings, 18 night clubs, three day care centers, five medical centers/hospitals, a foster care home and one residence. Allen said 81 rechecks for failures to meet fire prevention codes were also made.

Capt. Michael Branch, fire prevention coordinator, presented eight public talks and demonstrations, instructed six inspection classes and handled three fire investigations.

Security Surveys

Greenville police officers are available to conduct residential and business security surveys on request.

"Officers will go in on a request basis" to make the survey in an effort to "upgrade security," Sgt. Douglas Jackson said.

Jackson said that although the service has been available for several years, the program has not been widely publicized.

A checklist completed by the inspecting officer, which reflects the opinions and recommendations of the policeman on the security of the building and any steps which could be taken to give the building adequate security, is given to the person requesting the inspection.

Such things as doors, locks, windows, vents, lighting, alarms, and in the case of businesses, employee training, screening, access control and cash deposits, are surveyed.

Officers who will conduct the surveys include Jackson, for commercial establishments, and Officer J.E. Tripp, for security checks of dwellings.

Dance Group Is Beneficial For Retarded

By BILL KACZOR
Associated Press Writer
PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Men in green and white Western shirts and women in frilly skirts to match swing their partners and promenade to fast-stepping fiddle music and a caller's cadence.

Such scenes are played out on a daily basis across the country as square dancers practice and perform.

But the group that swirls around the Bayview Community Center every Monday night is special, from its name to its membership. It's called the Pensacola Special Steppers, and the dancers are mentally retarded.

"The group's purpose is to show members of the community that the mentally retarded are capable of socializing and performing with them," said Frank Cherry, who with his wife, Nancy, founded the Special Steppers.

"The community has accepted them more after seeing what they can do and knowing they can socialize," added Helen Chapman, the group's president.

The Special Steppers have performed for congressmen in Washington, for state officials in Tallahassee, for tourists at the New Orleans World's Fair, for a national television audience on the "PM Magazine" program and for and with 30,000 other dancers at the National Square Dance Convention two years ago in Louisville, Ky.

Cherry knew of only one other square dance club for the mentally retarded — in California — before the Special Steppers were organized. A search for others through ads in a national square dance publication failed get any responses. The Pensacola group, however, since has helped get another club started in Saraland, Ala.

Cherry, who is handicapped coordinator for the Naval Air Research Facility at the Pensacola Naval Air Station, took up square dancing with his wife about 13 years ago for recreation.

"I didn't even know anybody who square danced before we decided to go down and take lessons," said Cherry, 41.

The couple's daughter, Janet, now 20, is mentally retarded and they thought she, too, would enjoy dancing. With 15 other clients from the Escambia County Association for Retarded Citizens, they fashioned an informal group to perform at the association's annual banquet in 1978.

That performance spurred requests for additional appearances. The next year the Special Steppers formally organized with membership in the West Florida Square Dance Council and a helping hand from a local club called the Seaside Squares.

There now are 84 Special Steppers from 16 to 60 years old, grouped according to ability, starting with the Fun Bunch, then the Promenaders and then up to the Exhibition Squares. Each group practices once a week and Cherry does the calling for two of them.

"I just picked up a manual and studied it — 50 basic calls," Cherry said.

Now an expert caller, Cherry at first was so unsure of himself that he said the calls rather than sang them. He also had to adjust to the abilities of the dancers.

"You have to slow the beat of the music because their retention time is not as fast," Cherry said.

Yet, he has been able to teach calls to the highest-level group that most non-handicapped dancers cannot do.

The dancing also has been a catharsis. Cherry said those who once were shy and withdrawn are now more outgoing.

Some of the participants once had been institutionalized at the state's Sunland Center in Marianna. They have gone back there with the

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

Motel's Bath Towels Don't Belong At Home

DEAR ABBY: My 17-year-old son and several of his buddies went on a skiing trip, after which I found two bath towels with the name of a motel on them.

I told him I couldn't believe that he would steal. He said he didn't consider that stealing—the owners of the motel were thieves because of the prices they charged.

I told him that nobody forced him to stay there, and in my eyes he was guilty of stealing.

Please print your opinion, Abby. He reads you faithfully.

OLD-FASHIONED MOM
DEAR MOM: Your son's rationalization for stealing bath towels from a motel doesn't wash.

Don't throw in the towels. Insist that your son send them back with an apology. (That's what my twin and I had to do when our father found some hotel "souvenirs," acquired after a football excursion to Sioux Falls, S.D., circa 1935.)

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 14 years. This is the second marriage for both of us.

My husband lies awake nights yearning for another woman. He actually tells me this! Although he told me that he went to bed with her only once, he won't tell me who she is. He says I know her. My hunch is that it's a woman at our club who boasts that she and her husband have an open marriage. I did not agree to an open marriage when I married this man.

When I found out my first husband was the town stud, I divorced him.

My present husband insists that he wants to keep our marriage intact. He can't have it both ways. What do you think?

NOT WILLING TO SHARE
DEAR NOT WILLING: Your husband really knows how to hurt a woman. Why are you holding still for his abuse? You say he can't have it both ways. I say, apparently he can. And has.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have retired to a wonderful community in a warm climate. We love people and have always been able to get along with our neighbors, but there is one couple who are making our lives miserable. He is very crude, swears, hogs the conversation and is an insufferable braggart! His wife is a non-stop talker and a terrible gossip. We have lied to them in order to get out of going to their house, but we cannot keep them from coming to ours.

When we have company, they see the cars in our driveway and come over to join us and our guests. When they are around, no one can get a word in—he takes over the conversation in a loud voice, bragging about what he has, what he does and what he spends. Everything he has is better than anyone else's, and he gets into noisy arguments with our guests.

We have never met anyone like this couple. What can we do? We hate to insult them, but how else can we get these people out of our lives? They know who they are, but don't mention our name or town.

OUT OF PATIENCE
DEAR OUT: The next time they appear at the door while you're entertaining, say, "I'm sorry I can't invite you in now; we have company." And if they never speak to you again, what have you lost? Two overbearing, intrusive, obnoxious, insensitive neighbors.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago, my watch stopped, so I decided I'd try to fix it myself with a feather and some kerosene. While trying to pry the back open, I dropped the watch. I picked it up and dropped it again. This time all the insides fell out, so I

The Caribbean islands are known for their native dishes, and the island of Jamaica provides a cornucopia of delicacies.

Fresh fruit and seafood abound on this picturesque little island, which I visited for the first time recently.

There is a wide variety of fruit and fish specialties, served by themselves or mixed together in hot dishes, that are superb.

"The most popular shellfish is lobster, which we serve in many ways, including boiled, broiled, newburg and thermidor," said Karl Williams, a banquet manager in the resort of Ocho Rios. "A dish I like is grilled lobster served with melted butter and sprinkled with the tiny limes that grow on the island," he added.

A national favorite is codfish and achee, a yellowish fruit with a pink pod. This is served with butter, onions, scallions and black pepper. Also popular is curried chicken, which Williams made for me and served at brunch. Some of the islanders prefer curried goat, also a popular local meat. The island curries are delicious and somewhat less hot than those of India.

"However, many of our dishes are very spicy, more so than those served on neighboring islands which tend toward Creole cookery," said Williams.

Conch soup is served frequently. It is similar to clam chowder, with the conch replacing the clams.

"We substitute ingredients a lot, because ours is a small island and our types of food are limited," said Heinz Simonitsch, manager of a hotel in Montego Bay. "Good veal is picked up the pieces and put them together again.

Believe it or not, that watch has kept perfect time ever since. How can you explain it?

hard to get here, so we use boneless chicken breast."

Apples are not available either, so chefs make a strudel from mangoes, papaya and pineapple.

Jamaica is famed for its coffee, grown on plantations on the slopes of the Blue Mountain Range and rated among the world's finest.

Here is a recipe for conch chowder:

1 quart conch meat, in pieces
1 carrot, sliced
1 green pepper, diced
2 large onions, diced
2 stalks celery, sliced
1-3rd cup bacon, diced
1 (19-ounce) can tomatoes, coarsely chopped
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
2 cups potato, diced
4 cups water
Salt and pepper to taste
Paprika to taste
Powdered thyme, 1 generous pinch
¼ cup sherry

Force conch, carrot, green pepper, onions and celery through food chopper, using medium blade. Cook bacon until crisp. Blend with conch mixture, tomatoes, tomato paste, potatoes and water. Season with salt, pepper, thyme and paprika.

Bridal Policy

A black and white glossy five by seven photograph is requested for engagement announcements in The Daily Reflector. For publication in a Sunday edition, the information must be submitted by 12 noon on the preceding Wednesday. Engagement pictures must be released at least three weeks prior to the wedding date. After three weeks, only an announcement will be printed.

Wedding write-ups will be printed through the first week with a one column picture. During the second week, a one column picture will be used with a write-up giving less description and after the second week, just as an announcement.

Wedding forms and pictures should be returned to The Daily Reflector one week prior to the date of the wedding. All information should be typed or written neatly.

Bring to boil, cover and simmer 2 hours. Add sherry, and more water if needed. Makes about 3 quarts or 6 to 8 servings.

Waiting

Somebody might have given President Reagan poor advice on approving a verbal repetition of his summit-meeting suggestion last week. Instead of insisting on a summit "scripted for success", the president said it was high time for a superpower meeting (with Mikhail Gorbachev) ... asserting there were many things to be discussed that could clear the air and perhaps reduce tensions.

His written invitation to the new Russian leader for a meeting was presented by Vice President George Bush a couple of weeks ago presumably still holds and is a matter of record. We're sure there was little to be added to that letter. Repeating the proposal through the news media ... which seems to be a favorite means of communicating these days ... implied an image of near-supplication.

Past verbal assurances by President Reagan (again, through the press) of a willingness to meet with a Soviet leader have brought no results. He has gained a position of often being referred to as the first president since Herbert Hoover not to have met with a Soviet leader. No big deal.

Ronald Reagan has rarely bothered to conceal his feelings about the Soviet leadership, the communist system or Russia's foreign and domestic policies. He undiplomatically "sounds off" on occasion in behalf of their victims. Other than that, there is little he can do for them. At any rate, the Russians know his feelings about them.

A few days ago an American Army officer was needlessly shot and killed by a Russian sentry at a Soviet military center in East Germany. There are two versions of the incident, but the fact remains that the shooting was an unnecessary option for the sentry. It tells you something of existing thought patterns among the people with whom we must someday deal.

In time there is a possibility Gorbachev and Reagan will meet; whether it be a social gesture or for substantive discussions. But it will come about only if and when Gorbachev and his advisers are ready. There is no indication the Kremlin is in a hurry.

Reminder

It was pleasing to learn the UNC Center for Public Television surpassed its goal by raising $428,454 in pledges during its annual fund-raising program that ended last Sunday.

It speaks well for North Carolina's television viewers that they not only appreciated the offerings but backed up that appreciation with contributions.

Of course, those contributions were largely pledges, and bursts of enthusiasm can be shortlived or even forgotten.

This is a gentle reminder — not to forget.

Fund-raisers are a big effort; and while causes are usually worthwhile, the solicitation process is painful both to solicitors and solicitees (if there is such a word).

That largely explains the hope and goal of the UNC Center that a new tactic will eliminate the need for constant fund-raisers. We wish them well.

Keeping An Eye On The Soviets

The Soviet Watchers of Washington met recently in the "Darkness at Noon Russian Tea Room" to be briefed on Mikhail Sergeyevich Gorbachev's rise to the top of the U.S.S.R.

Professor Nicholia Dubokowsky, one of the leading Kremlinologists in this country, gave us the work. "Gorbachev may be around for at least 30 years, so you have to watch him very closely."

"What should we watch for?"

"Since he is only 54 years old you should watch the way he stands when he's on the top of the Lenin's Tomb. Remember, he is the first Soviet leader in 10 years who can watch a parade without a Politburo member on each side holding on to his arms so he won't fall down. This has its good and bad implications. The fact that he can stand on his own two feet makes Gorbachev dangerous. At the same time we can expect more credibility from the Kremlin on their leader's health. Now when they announce he has a bad cold, we can all assume he does have a bad cold."

"Why is Gorbachev getting such a good press?"

Because he speaks English and wears nice suits. One of the reasons Americans never trusted the Soviet leaders in the past was that they dressed so tacky. How could you discuss ways of avoiding World War III with people who wore baggy pants and white socks? Gorbachev is a new breed of Russian. His suit coat fits, and his choice of shirts and ties is impeccable. He's the type of person you're not ashamed to be photographed with at a summit conference."

"Does the fact that he's a snappy dresser mean he's a more formidable adversary?"

"He could go either way. Krushchev almost brought us to nuclear destruction by hammering his shoe on the podium at the United Nations. Gorbachev would never do this because he's afraid it would ruin his shine. But you still have to watch him very carefully. The fact that he doesn't drool all over the medals on his chest could be to NATO's disadvantage. With the others you knew they weren't going to be around very long, so the West was willing to put up with their peccadilloes for a year or two. With Gorbachev it will be at least three decades before he winds up in the Kremlin Wall."

"Do you think he will flaunt the fact he is only 54 years old in Reagan's face?"

"He has already. In a hand-delivered letter to President Reagan Gorbachev started by addressing it going. The expansion budget includes new programs and new spending for existing programs.

In recent years, a number of heated debates have been held in the base budget committees. Tight revenues necessitated that the state cut spending if raises were to be given or new programs started. Hardly a dollar was cut without someone squealing.

There hadn't been much excitement this year, however. Hardly anything has been targeted for cutting. In the budget committee reviewing natural and economic resource programs, only about $16 million worth of spending is up for serious discussion. In the committee on education, several minor expenditures for the community colleges are in trouble. The university system has made it though several weeks of scrutiny without a scratch.

Rep. Dave Diamont, D-Surry, was in the mood to do some cutting in the human resources committee last week and got a bit irritated when he thought he'd found some new spending hiding in the base budget.

Summing up the mood of that committee, he said sarcastically, "It doesn't appear that we need to cut a great deal of money this year."

Rep. Marie Colton, D-Buncombe, co-chairman of the economic resources committee, said the pressure to cut which existed in recent years isn't there this year. In the past, "we were instructed to make cuts. So far, we haven't had that. We haven't known that we had to cut."

Gov. Jim Martin didn't make many recommendations on base budget cuts and said at a press conference that he was "surprised that there so far does not appear to be any interest in dealing with the continuation (base) budget."

The base budget malaise will change, says Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan. Speaking before this week's scheduled announcement, Jordan confirmed a major push for new base budget cutting. That effort will come in the area of vacant jobs. As many as 3,000 state jobs are empty and the legislature budgets $60 million annually for them. Other legislative leaders said they plan to make department heads justify each and every one of those jobs or else they'll be cut. As much as $30 million might be saved each year, one said.

Rep. Bobby Etheridge, D-Harnett, House base budget chairman, said subcommittees are also looking at the inflation figures used in formulating the base budget, the use of state automobiles and the rental of office space.

The assembly has been in town for two months and it is only now making this push. Why?

Jordan says the delays arose from Martin's lateness in proposing a budget. Also, a souring economy provides new impetus for cutting. The revenue projections upon which the budget was formulated may have to be cut in light of the weakening of the American dollar, an expected rise in interest rates and a slowing of economic growth, Jordan said.

Public Forum

To the editor:

On March 28, 1984, several communities in our county were devastated by tornadoes. We all remember the damage that was done to lives and property and the great sense of loss and helplessness we all felt. No group of people felt the loss more than the actual victims of this disaster.

On the anniversary of that disaster, I would like to report the efforts that were made to help the victims of the tornado through the Pitt County Disaster Relief Fund.

The people of this county, state and nation contributed a total of $38,469.02. An additional $10,336.23 was added to the fund by the proceeds from the warehouse sale of surplus material donated by others. Interest in the account was $524.57. The total amount available through the fund was $49,329.82.

The Pitt County Department of Social Services was given the responsibility of overseeing this Fund and making payment to tornado victims in an effort to help them re-establish their lives.

The following is a general breakdown of receipts and disbursements: RECEIPTS — churches, $7,692.70; individuals, $9,258.76; schools, $778.49; civic organizations and businesses, $20,739.07; warehouse sales, $10,336.23; interest earned on account, $524.57. Total receipts, $49,329.82.

DISBURSEMENTS — food, $560.69; housing, $1,176.72; medication, doctors, $667.60; telephone service, $525.59; transportation, $200; utilities, $977.85; moving expense, $1,065.24; insurance, sales tax, $890.20; household items, $14,413.41; clothing, $2,273.05; miscellaneous, $19,659.39; service charges (refunded to account) $16.20. Total disbursement, $42,425.94.

The miscellaneous items covered expenditures for such items as automobile repair, replacement of tools and equipment, trailer hook-ups, debris removal, electrical wiring, septic tank, etc.

As of March 26, 1985, there was a balance of $6,942.29 in this account. These funds will be used to meet needs of tornado victims as they become apparent.

I would like to express my deep appreciation to the citizens of this community for their love of their fellow man and their willingness to help those in need.

My staff and I find it a great privilege to serve the people of Pitt County.

Edward L. Garrison, Director
Pitt County Department of Social Services

Strength For Today

"You're asking me?" someone replies. "Poverty is what I have to endure. It's trying to make a weekly wage feed my family and pay the rent. It's trying to stretch a salary check farther than it can be stretched."

Yes, poverty involves all these things and more, and is a dreadful burden. But real poverty is not poverty of pocketbook but poverty of mind, spirit and soul. Some people never read anything or use their heads from one year's end to the other. These people are mentally poor. Others have no religious faith. These are spiritually poor.

Slums and straightened circumstances fill the lives of multitudes with sorrow.

But even beyond this sorrow is the sorrow because of the minds without ideas and the soul without faith or hope.

Exhortations Unappreciated

WASHINGTON — Common Cause wasn't the only lobby to catch flak for heavy-handed tactics during the recent flurry of congressional activity over 21 MX missiles.

The Washington-based public affairs group mustered its grass-roots resources in an effort to block funding for the missiles in the Senate earlier this month. In Pennsylvania, for example, it tapped about 4,000 members to help in the wooing of fence-straddler Arlen Specter, a Republican who ultimately voted for releasing MX money.

But at least one MX contractor, Martin Marietta, exhorted federal employees to lobby their representatives on behalf of the missile. Thomas Pownall, the company's chairman and chief executive officer, suggested that much in a letter sent last month to 4,800 workers at the Oak Ridge National Laboratory, which the company operates, in Tennessee.

Rep. John Dingell (D-Mich.), chairman of the House Energy and Commerce Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations, was none too pleased by Pownall's missive. He wants Energy Secretary John Herrington to investigate.

It remains unclear whether there were any private promises made by the White House in exchange for Senate votes for the MX. Two Republican senators who opposed the missile last year but favored it earlier this month — Charles M. Mathias of Maryland and Arlen Specter of Pennsylvania — may have won White House pledges of support for what are expected to be tough races next year.

While some of their colleagues were fighting for their political lives, in 1984, numerous senators were building war chests for possible bloodbaths in 1986. By the end of last year, the top 10 Senate fund-raisers collectively had more than $6.2 million in the bank; of the 10, eight were Republicans. Sen. Alfonse D'Amato (R-N.Y.) was the top moneyman, with a balance of about $2 million. Until recently, at least, D'Amato seemed destined to face a challenge from Geraldine Ferraro, the former Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Despite its avowed neutrality in the Iran-Iraq war, the United States has been forwarding militarily important information to the Iraqi government, European intelligence sources have told the Sunday Times of London. The United States evidently supplies Iraq every 12 hours with reports concerning Iranian ground activity. Iraq is immediately informed, however, about imminent Iranian air attacks against ships in the Persian Gulf. The United States gathers its data through satellite observation and air reconnaissance; the Saudi Arabian government is said to be the conduit.

Under regulations in effect since 1983, Americans must receive clearance from the U.S. government to work in nuclear power plants overseas. Nonetheless, the Energy Department has found that 38 Americans are working in violation of that restriction in South Africa, which many experts believe to have nuclear-weapons-building ability. The department has not disclosed whether it knows of similar violations elsewhere in the world.

If you want an idea of how Ronald Reagan's young followers think these days, write the Republican National Committee's independent offshoot, the College RNC. The group has produced and mailed to college campuses 5,000 posters that are patterned after an ad for Save the Children but advocate support of the Nicaraguan rebels, a less-than humanitarian cause.

"Only 53 cents a day will support a Nicaraguan freedom fighter," says the headline on the poster, which shows a guerilla armed with a machine gun and wearing a crucifix. At the bottom, block letters plead, "Save the Contras."

The Defense Contract Audit Agency estimates that the federal government foots the bill for at least $140 million of defense contractors' annual public relations costs. But based on a review of 12 arms suppliers, the Government Accounting Office believes that the taxpayers' burden for arms industry P.R. is more like $500 million a year.

'Dear Uncle Ronnie.' That threw the president for a loop. He doesn't even like his grandchildren to call him Grandpa."

"Vice President George Bush watched Gorbachev all during Chernenko's funeral. What was his impression of the man?"

"As you know, Mr. Bush has become an expert at watching Soviet leaders at Moscow funerals. He came back quite impressed. Mr. Bush thinks Gorbachev has the potential to become the first Soviet Yuppie premier. The leader seems to enjoy the good things in life, and one of his priorities is to provide more of the same for his people. The vice president believes if we can get Gorbachev to import more Perrier and buy more BMWs with stereo tape decks in them, the Soviets will lose their appetite for world conquest."

"What about Mrs. Gorbachev? Should we spend much time watching her?"

"You have no choice. The press is now referring to her as another Jackie Kennedy. Mrs. Gorbachev could be a big help to the Soviet leader when he travels around the world. The thing to watch is his first trip to France. If he pulls a John Kennedy and says, 'I am the man who accompanied Raisa Gorbachev to Paris,' and it gets a big hand, we're in a lot more trouble than most people think."

COOKING FOR 25th ANNUAL BARBECUE — Staton House firemen Wilbert Futrell, left, and Jimmy Bell cook a portion of the 62 hogs for the department's 25th annual barbecue held today. According to Chief Darrell Williams, about 16 cords of wood were to be used in cooking the hogs. Proceeds from the sale will be used to help purchase new equipment for the department. Approximately 5,000 plates were sold last year. (Reflector Photo by Chris Bennett) walked over to the school and the feeling we had when we saw the school I can't describe. We wanted to go inside but knew it was dangerous."

Later that day, Mrs. Rouse and Pitt Superintendent Eddie West went through the building together, she said, gathering what materials that could be salvaged and assessing the damage.

"Our first reaction when we entered the building was we were thankful it didn't happen when school was in and the children were here," she said. "If it had (struck during school hours) someone, maybe many children, would have surely been killed."

One image that has haunted Mrs. Rouse since that day, she said, was a damaged classroom where "the teacher's lesson book was on her desk, open and ready for that day's lesson."

"We went in that one classroom, and that open book and the sight of water just pouring in on those little children's desk was pitiful," she added.

Another sight that awed her, she said, were the slabs of tin that the storm pounded against the building and left on the front lawn of the school. "You just can't imagine these huge pieces of tin that were blown and caught and stopped by the building," Mrs. Rouse said. "It was unbelievable to me."

Ayden Elementary students also recalled Thursday their feelings on the destruction. "I felt sad when I saw the damage because I liked the school," Elizabeth Smith, fourth grade student and president of the school's student council, said. "I saw the school and I said 'Wow, it (the tornado) really did something to it.' I went to the cafeteria and it (the damage) scared me."

Third-grader Timothy Bateman said the storm damage "made me down because it destroyed our school. I felt bad about it because I've been here three and one-half years and I really like it here," he said. "I've learned a lot from this school." Timothy said he is "proud of the new school and the money they have put in it."

Jonnelle Davis, also a third grader, said seeing the damaged school made her "scared because I felt like they would never be able to fix it back the way it was again."

The Anchors Quartet will be in concert Sunday at 7 p.m. at the Winterville Free Will Baptist Church.

Musical Program

The Mighty Rock Island Singers of Fountain will present a program at 7 p.m. Sunday at St. John Baptist Church in Stokes.

Program Planned

The Gospel Starlights of Farmville and Minnie Edwards will present an anniversary program at 4 p.m. April 21 at St. James Free Will Baptist Church, Fountain.

The three students agreed they enjoyed attending Grifton School, but that the experience had its drawbacks. "In enjoyed Grifton but not as much as this school," Timothy said. "We had to ride buses and I was not used to the school. We didn't have science class either and that's one of my favorite subjects."

Jonnelle said Grifton "was different because the desks were bigger" and added she was "glad to get back to Ayden."

Elizabeth said "traveling (to Grifton) took a lot more time than coming over here (to Ayden Elementary)" but that the experience "wasn't difficult." "I was glad to get back," she said. "I like this school."

"We were on the road a lot those months," principal Tripp said. "Student behavior was excellent. We could not have survived otherwise."

Mrs. Rouse said she was also "proud of the kids." "Everything was so mixed up and the kids were so good," she said. She also credits cooperation between staff members and the communities of Ayden and Grifton with survival of the difficult period.

"Even though it was bad, things that were good came out of it," Mrs. Rouse said. "People had to work together and make do with what they had."

Police Looking For Bad Checks

Greenville police are looking for a number of checks for an account at NCNB — an account that has been declared fictitious — and the person having the checks.

Detective Pete Lavin said an account was opened Feb. 25 in the name of Rosa Smith Hunter, with the address of 105 Vance St., with a $150 cash deposit. He said from 200 to 400 checks — bearing the account number 213281058 — were ordered.

Lavin said an attempt by the bank to mail the checks to the Vance Street address resulted in the checks being returned to the bank.

A telephone call by bank employees to the number listed on the account — which turned out to be a pay phone in the parking lot of a Dickinson Avenue supermarket — resulted in a man identifying himself to be Ms. Hunter's husband giving instructions to mail the checks to a post office box, which was done, Lavin explained.

Since the checks were sent to the post office box address, Lavin said, some $2,600 worth of worthless checks have been returned to local area merchants.

The account was declared fraudulent and closed on March 2, Lavin said.

Any business holding checks on the account, or anyone having information on the person passing the checks, is asked to call Lavin at the police department.

Minister Awaits Court Decision

DANBURY — The Rev. Jack Mayo of Route 1, Winterville, is scheduled to be sentenced in Stokes County Superior Court next month after pleading guilty to taking indecent liberties with a minor earlier this month.

Mayo, a Free Will Baptist minister for 25 years, pleaded guilty to charges that he fondled a 12-year-old boy at Camp Robert Vaughn at Walnut Cove last July. The camp is sponsored by Serendipity House, a Walnut Cove shelter for abused or neglected children, and Mayo was at the camp as a volunteer.

Stokes County Juvenile Officer Ruby George said Mayo was indicted by a Stokes County grand jury in January, and said sentencing was postponed by Superior Court Judge Russell Walker until Mayo undergoes pre-sentencing evaluation.

Ms. George testified that the incident occurred while Mayo was teaching the youth how to swim. She also said that Mayo had written several letters expressing his love for a 13-year-old boy living at the home.

Mayo, married for 25 years and the father of two children, resigned from the Ormondsville Church where he was pastor for eight years following his arrest.

South Carolina Student Holds Four Youths Hostage In Room

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) — A ninth-grade boy held four students hostage at gunpoint in a high school classroom for about an hour today before police and his ministers talked him into surrendering, school officials said.

No injuries were reported in the incident at Dorman High.

Spartanburg police confirmed that the boy was in custody but said no charges were filed immediately.

According to Floride Martin, the district superintendent, the student had been a behavior problem in class.

"One of our ninth graders came to school drinking, or at least the teacher thought he was drinking," said Ms. Martin. "(The teacher) took him out into the hall to take him down to the principal's office when he broke loose and ran away from her and left the school grounds."

"Sometime later, he returned to the classroom with a pistol in hand and held four of the students in the classroom with him."

She said police "were able to work with him and they brought in his minister. The students were released."

The incident occurred shortly after 9:30 a.m. and the first of the hostages was released about 10:15 a.m., school officials said. The other three were released about 10 minutes later.

Team Uses Pumps To Keep Teen-Ager's Heart Going

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A 16-year-old boy with a degenerative heart disease was in critical condition today while being kept alive by two small pumps assisting his heart, a Jewish Hospital spokesman said.

Michael C. Jones of southern Indiana survived four cardiac arrests in the 24 hours preceding Thursday night's operation and was hours from death without the units, David Fleming said.

Based on research from previous experiments, Jones had a 25 percent to 50 percent chance of surviving with the mechanical ventricular assist devices, Fleming said.

The ventricular assist device is similar to the Jarvik-7 artificial heart, which has been implanted in two men at Humana Hospital Audubon in Louisville. Both devices are driven by puffs of compressed air, but the Jarvik-7 is implanted inside the patient's chest cavity and replaces most of the heart, while the VAD rests atop the abdomen outside the body.

Dr. Laman Gray Jr. attached one device to each of the two upper heart chambers, bypassing the patient's weak ventricles or lower heart chambers. This is only the second or third time that two devices have been used simultaneously on the same patient, Fleming said.

Single ventricular assist devices have been used in about 300 patients to strengthen a deteriorating heart by taking over the pumping function while the natural muscle rests, he said.

"His heart was in such bad shape, Dr. Gray felt one (unit) was not going to be sufficient," Fleming said.

Doctors were considering a human heart transplant until they learned Jones has a viral infection of unknown origin, Fleming said. Since the virus would be likely to attack any new organ, he would be ineligible for a donated heart until the infection is stopped, he said.

The devices were "functioning very well," but Fleming said Jones suffered kidney failure at 2:30 a.m. today and was placed on a dialysis machine.

The VAD is designed to be temporary and federal regulations allow its use for no longer than 15 days.

Jones was admitted to Jewish Hospital at 7 p.m. Thursday, after suffering the cardiac arrests at nearby Kosair Children's Hospital, where he had been admitted Sunday, Fleming said. His family asked doctors to withhold his hometown.

Park supervisor Howard Vainright shows the students trees growing along the pond area in the park. The originator of the project, Jerry Everhart, science education teacher with the Pitt County schools, said this is the first outing of it's kind in the area. Plant Bed Problems

Agricultural Extension Agent Hutch Smith said today farmers should pay careful attention to plant bed maintenance when temperatures reach 75 degree Fahrenheit or above, as they have in the past few days.

"When temperatures reach above this level for two consecutive days, the plastic covers on plant beds should be managed to prevent heat damage," Smith said. "Irrigation may be an alternative in the early season but curtains with limited ventilation may still require complete removal."

Smith said it is as important to replace the curtain at night when temperatures dip below 45 degrees Fahrenheit as it is to remove it during the day.

Jamesville Man Missing In River

JAMESVILLE — A 68-year-old man, Allie Eural Chandler of Chocowinity, apparently drowned in the Roanoke River Wednesday at a point about four miles downstream from Jamesville.

Chandler and a friend, Elmer L. Edwards, were net fishing together. He said that Chanler was pulled underwater as he tried to right their capsized boat by lugging its rope to shore. Edwards, who clung to the overturned boat, was rescued by two mountain men, Allen G. Baker and Russell Allison, about ten minutes after the boat capsized.

The Jamesville Rescue Squad was called to the scene at 9:43 a.m.

Wednesday.

Soon after Chandler was reported missing, several boats converged on the area for dragging operations. Six divers from Plymouth and Edenton also searched for the missing man.

Five boats, but no divers were on the scene Thursday. The search today has expanded to an area larger than the area previously searched.

Martin County Sheriff Willie Rogers this morning said "if we can't locate the body today, I don't know if we'll be able to find him until the body surfaces on its own."

Congress May Restrict MX Fleet To 40

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The four decisive votes that rescued the MX missile system for the White House may mark the high-water level for the long-range nuclear weapon and lead to deployment of a far smaller MX force than President Reagan seeks, lawmakers said.

Less than an hour after the House voted 217-210 on Thursday to cement congressional approval of $1.5 billion to buy a second installment of 21 MX missiles, a band of influential Democratic senators proposed to limit deployed, ready-to-fire MXs to no more than 40.

President Reagan proposes a force of 100 MXs, each armed with 10 warheads and backed by 123 spare and test missiles.

A 40-missile fleet would aim 400 nuclear warheads at Soviet targets, a destructive punch large enough to keep the attention of Soviet negotiators at arms control talks in Geneva, Switzerland, but small enough to avoid setting the nuclear balance on a hair trigger, the senators said.

The size of the force could be adjusted according to progress at the Geneva talks or because of Soviet strategic developments, said Sen. Sam Nunn, leader of a group of Senate Democrats that voted for MX spending when it was approved in two identical 55-45 roll calls last week.

The House voted 219-213 on Tuesday to authorize funds for the 21 MXs. Thursday's vote was to release the money.

The next stage in the controversial 12-year history that has marked MX development will come sometime this summer when Congress decides how to deal with Reagan's request in his military budget for fiscal 1986 for $4 billion to build another 48 MXs.

But many House and Senate leaders said they believe there is no way the total 48 will be approved, especially in a time of high budget deficits.

House Republican Whip Trent Lott of Mississippi said he believes the House "probably will not be prepared at this time to go forward with the full 48."

"I feel very strongly you're not going to get a heck of a lot of money for these MX missiles; they shot their wad today," said Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass., the ranking Republican on the House Armed Services Committee.

"I'm predicting the MX missile is dead after these 42 missiles, that's it," said Rep. Nicholas Mavroules, D-Mass., a leading MX opponent on the Armed Services Committee.

"The proposal we are offering keeps the MX production line open in order to add counterforce punch to our strategic arsenal and to be a useful tool for us in Geneva," said Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia.

He and Nunn said they agree that AX is not nearly as important a weapon as others under development, including the Trident II missile, the advanced cruise missile and the Stealth high-technology bomber.

"To fund the entire 100 MX missiles in vulnerable silos in a low-growth defense budget will inevitably squeeze out these other strategic programs which give us more military strength and more arms control leverage," Nunn said.

"In my view, a total deployment of about 40 MXs in silos, together with an austere number of spares, to be manufactured at about the rate of 12 a year, is optimal," he said.

Lott said he was not sure if Republicans were ready for an "absolute cap" at this point on the number of deployed MX missiles. But he made clear his belief Congress is likely to approve a lesser number than the president has requested.

"I think Republicans and Democrats are looking for some ways to save some money," Lott said.

"The drift is definitely toward less (military budget money) than the president asked for, and I think there are signs of compromise at the present time," he said.

Uncle Sam Paid Each Citizen An Average $1,359

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Direct payments to individuals were the biggest share of federal spending last year, averaging $1,359 for every man, woman and child in the nation, the Census Bureau reports.

Overall, Uncle Sam spent an average $3,022.21 for each American in fiscal 1984, the bureau said. It calculated the figure by dividing expenditures of $724.7 billion by a population of nearly 240 million people.

But in addition to calculating how much was spent per resident, Census officials also looked at where it was spent and for what — detailed in a three-volume publication released Thursday.

Direct payments to individuals was the biggest of the four major categories of spending, followed by $736 per resident for purchases, $453 to pay federal workers and $405 in grants to state and local governments.

Among states, California was scene of the largest total federal spending at $91.7 billion, or 12.7 percent of the federal total.

Per resident, Alaska was tops, with federal spending of $4,642.17 as large federal salary and military expenditures were spread over a small population.

At the other end of the scale, Vermont accounted for the lowest federal expenditure of any state at $1.4 billion, while per resident expenditures were smallest in Iowa at $2,176.18.

In North Carolina, the average spending per person was $2,210.28 — 49th in the nation. Overall, federal government spending climbed to $724.7 billion in 1984, up 4.3 percent from the year before, according to the study, "Federal Expenditures by State for Fiscal Year 1984."

In breaking down the major categories, Social Security retirement payments was the largest single area of spending, averaging $500 per American per year.

Of course, only retired workers received those benefits, but the per capita figures do give an indication of how much each federal program costs each American to operate.

The $3,022 spent for each American broke down into $874.16 for the Defense Department and $2,148.06 for the rest of the government, the study showed.

Social Security retirement payments, that single largest category, are part of the "direct payments to individuals" section of the study.

Also included in the $1,358.93 in direct payments were $173.78 in Medicare hospital benefits; $149.09 in Social Security survivors benefits; $91.86 in federal civilian employee retirement benefits; $80.37 in Medicare supplemental payments; $73.99 for Social Security disability; $68.36 for military retirement programs; $44.58 in food stamps.

Also, $33.37 in veterans disability compensation; $31 for Supplemental Security Income; $26.41 in insurance programs for railroad workers; $12.92 for Pell education grants; $12.16 to subsidize guaranteed student loans and $10.36 for veterans with non-service connected disabilities.

The $735.88 the government spent on purchases included $571.06 spent by Defense Department and $164.82 spent by all other agencies including the Postal Service.

Federal salaries and wages averaged $453.08 per American, including $137.42 for military personnel, $97.10 for Defense Department civilian workers and $218.56 for all other federal employees.

Other than the broad miscellaneous category, the biggest factor in the $405.36 spent on aid to state and local governments was $83.68 in medical assistance.

Other government aid categories included $40.16 from the Highway Trust Fund; $34.49 for Aid to Families with Dependent Children; $24.05 for housing assistance; $19.04 in general revenue sharing; $15.93 in community development assistance.

Also $15.25 for urban mass transit programs; $14.75 for child nutrition programs; $12.59 for compensatory education programs for the disadvantaged; $11.63 in social services block grants; $10.95 in wastewater treatment construction funds and $10.67 for job training programs.

BIG DAY — President Reagan claps his hands over his head as he departs New York's John F. Kennedy International Airport Thursday, celebrating his victory in the House on the MX missile vote and his visit to Wall Street. The president had moments earlier learned of the House vote freeing $1.5 billion for the production of 21 more MX missiles. (AP Laserphoto)

Congress Steps Up Push To Halt Japanese Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sounding the battle cry for a "trade war" with Japan, Congress is stepping up pressure on the Reagan administration to retaliate unless Tokyo opens new markets for American products.

"Unless you get tough, they're not going to respect anything else," Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., said Thursday as the Senate approved 92-0 a non-binding measure urging President Reagan to strike back with tariffs and quotas if Japan doesn't lower trade barriers to U.S. products.

Bentsen said the nation was waging a trade war, "and we're losing."

With the wave of get-tough sentiment spreading to the House, the measure's prospects there appeared good, said Minority Leader Robert H. Michel, R-Ind.

"We've got to move ahead," Michel said, adding that tough measures would prompt the U.S. Embassy in Tokyo to "start communicating that the natives are restless."

The Senate acted as the Tokyo government announced a 25 percent stepup in auto exports to the U.S.

market starting Monday. Industry and labor officials said it could cost 100,000 American jobs and widen Japan's trade surplus over the United States — $37 billion in 1984 — by perhaps $4 billion.

Japan's announcement followed the Reagan Administration's decision not to seek an extension of the voluntary restraints on Japanese auto imports here. The five-year program expires March 31.

The Commerce Department reported Thursday a $11.4 billion overall U.S. trade deficit last month.

Pentagon Bars GE From Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Electric Co., hit with a criminal fraud indictment and asked to refund the government $168 million in "unreasonable profits," has been barred indefinitely from obtaining any new Pentagon contracts.

The suspension order against the nation's fourth largest defense contractor was announced Thursday by Air Force Secretary Verne Orr and applies to "future contracting with any agency in the Department of Defense."

Orr also disclosed he has asked GE to voluntarily refund roughly $168 million in "unreasonable profits" that Pentagon auditors assert were earned on spare parts contracts between 1978 and 1983. Orr said a similar request involving about $38 million had been made of the Pratt & Whitney Division of the United Technologies Corp.

Both GE and United Technologies disputed the auditors' conclusion that they had earned excessive profits. GE, in a prepared statement, also called its suspension from receiving new contracts "highly unusual."

Citing improvements made since the 1980 incidents that gave rise to the indictment, the company added it was confident it could convince Orr to lift the suspension order "promptly, and on that basis, there should be no significant impact on the company's financial results."

GE was charged on Tuesday by a federal grand jury in Philadelphia with defrauding the government of about $800,000 while performing work on a nuclear warhead missile system. The indictment alleges employee time cards were altered and costs shifted improperly between contracts, and that an employee and former employee lied to the grand jury.

The company has denied any criminal wrongdoing while acknowledging that "charging errors" might have occurred.

Goetz Says 'Innocent'

NEW YORK (AP) — Bernhard Goetz's lawyers have 45 days to try to overturn the work of a grand jury that returned attempted murder charges in the shooting of four teen-agers, but one attorney says Goetz is "going to face trial."

Goetz, 37, pleaded innocent Thursday to attempted murder, assault, reckless endangerment and criminal possession of a firearm in the Dec. 22 shootings aboard a subway train.

Barry Slotnick, a member of Goetz's defense team, said his client wants the case resolved as quickly as possible "and not (have) this plague him the rest of his life."

But Slotnick exercised Goetz's right to take 45 days to try to throw out the indictment by the grand jury, which lawyers for the electronics expert say should never have heard the case.

However, Slotnick said Goetz is "an average Joe who's going to face trial and who's going to look at a jury and hopefully that jury will acquit him."

Federal Jury Convicts Puerto Rican Policemen

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — A jury in the U.S. District Court has convicted 10 police officers of conspiring to obstruct justice and of perjury in the investigation of the 1978 slayings of two radical independence advocates.

The case has been at the center of politics on the island for the past seven years, and was a factor in the defeat of Gov. Carlos Romero Barcelo, an advocate of statehood for Puerto Rico, in last November's elections.

The 11-man, one-woman jury delivered its verdict Thursday night, after two days of deliberations and eight weeks of testimony in the U.S. District Court on the island, a U.S. commonwealth.

All of the officers, including a police lieutenant colonel and a captain, also have been charged in local courts with murder, as well as perjury.

The federal charges stemmed from 1983 hearings in the Puerto Rico Senate in which three other officers testified that the two youths were killed by a police firing squad after they had surrendered and dropped to their knees following an initial shootout on July 28, 1978.

Police involved in the case had told investigators that the two youths, Carlos Soto Arrivi, 18, and Arnaldo Dario Rosado, 24, were killed in a shootout after police surprised them as they prepared to blow up a television transmission tower on Cerro Maravilla, a Puerto Rican mountain.

The federal jury found Lt. Col. Angel Luis Perez Casillas, the officer who commanded the police during the shooting, guilty of conspiracy to obstruct justice, of giving a false statement to a federal grand jury and of three counts of perjury.

Capt. Jaime Quiles, the second in command, was found guilty of conspiracy to obstruct justice and of three counts of perjury.

All of the others were found guilty of conspiracy to obstruct justice, and guilty of one to five counts of perjury.

They were Rafael Moreno, Rafael Torres, Luis Reveron, Juan Bruno, Nelson Gonzalez, William Colon Berrios, Jose Rios Polanco and Nazario Mateo Espada.

U.S. Attorney Daniel Lopez Romo said each police officer could be sentenced to five years in jail and fined from $2,000 to $5,000 on each charge. A date for sentencing will be announced later.

The youths were described as members of a terrorist group called Armed Revolutionary Movement that sought independence for Puerto Rico from the United States.

Inquiries by the Commonwealth's Justice Department and the U.S. Department of Justice upheld the police version of the shootings, and in 1978 then-Gov. Romero Barcelo called the police action heroic.

However, the opposition Popular Democratic Party, which controlled the island's legislature, began televised hearings in 1983 in which witnesses testimony revealed holes in the official police version.

The case was a political liability for Romero Barcelo, who in November lost his bid for a third term as governor. His New Progressive Party favors statehood for Puerto Rico, while the Popular Democrats of the election victor, Gov. Rafael Hernandez Colon, support the Commonwealth status that enables the island of 3.2 million U.S. citizens to be largely self-governing.

Freed Briton Tells Of Darkness, Chains

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A British metallurgist freed by kidnappers after two weeks in darkness and chains, said his abductors treated him well, but he has no idea who they were, or whether they were holding anyone else.

Geoffrey Nash, 60, said in an interview Thursday, the day after he was released, that he believed he was taken to a private house after he was kidnapped on March 14, and then to a basement.

He was the first of nine Westerners kidnapped in Lebanon during a two-week period earlier this month. Two groups, Islamic Holy War and a group calling itself the Khaibar Brigades claimed responsibility for kidnapping him.

Among those still missing is Terry A. Anderson, the chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, who was kidnapped in west Beirut on March 16.

Islamic Holy War, believed to be made up of Shiite Moslems loyal to Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, said it also was holding five of the other kidnap victims.

The Khaibar Brigades group said it was holding Nash, another Briton and three French. It predicted Monday, that Nash, the other Briton and a French woman would be released soon.

Nash said he was walking down his street in west Beirut early March 14 when "two gunmen stepped out of the car, one of them put the gun in my face and made me sit on the floor of the back seat."

The kidnappers were well-dressed and were between 25 and 30 years old, he said. "I'm sure they had religious feelings," he said. "They questioned me about two or three times only. 'Are you an American?' they said."

Nash, who works for the Lebanese government, has an office in a building near the closed U.S. Embassy in west Beirut. He said after he was abducted he was driven to what he thought was a private home where he could smell cooking.

Even though he was locked up in chains there, he said he was not mistreated. "When I told the boy 'the chains are tight to my leg,' he loosened them and made sure I was not being hurt," Nash said.

He said he was transferred to another car and taken blindfolded to a basement where a mattress was put on the floor for him.

"The noise of the air conditioning and the water pipes had wiped out everything. I couldn't hear or see anything," he said. "There were no lights in the cell, but I could see the shadows of them through the corridor light."

Nash said he was given three meals a day, and the menu included salads, cheese, hamburgers and soft drinks. He was given blankets and when he asked for medication for a heart condition, it was provided, he said.

Nash said the kidnappers spoke mostly Arabic, with a few words of French and English.

"The days passed, and one day, one of them came to me and sat beside me on the mattress, and gave me breakfast. I think he was the superior. I could tell from his voice, Nash said. "This man told me, 'you want to go home?' ... He said, 'don't worry, we will take you to your home.'"

Nash said they put a hood over his head and put him in the trunk of a car. He was transferred to another car, and released near his home as one of the kidnappers said: "Okay, you're English. We don't want English."

Spain, Portugal To Enter Common Market In 1986

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Spain and Portugal reached an agreement today that clears the way for the two nations to enter the European Economic Community, the world's largest trading bloc, officials said.

"There is a total agreement," said Fernando Schwartz, chief spokesman for the Spanish delegation.

The accord came after nearly 16 hours of continuous bargaining and ended a process that began more than six years ago. Under the agreement, the two Iberian peninsula nations will enter the 10-nation community — also known as the Common Market — on Jan. 1, 1986.

In Lisbon, Portugal, Premier Mario Soares said: "Now we are in Europe and I'm very happy about it." He spoke in an interview with a Lisbon radio station.

Joining the community, he said, will make Portugal "a completely different country within five years." Membership, he said, will modernize the nation's economy.

"A new stage is beginning for Spain and if we succeed in being up to the task ahead of us, we will be able to take a great leap forward," Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez told a news conference.

The agreement means an EEC summit conference opening later today in Brussels will be spared the task of trying to break a deadlock over the nations' membership.

The deal is still subject to a formal signing ceremony, expected in June, and to ratification by the EEC national parliaments and those of Spain and Portugal.

Major sticking points holding up the negotiations have been potential competition from the large Spanish fishing fleet and from the agricultural products of both countries, particularly wine, and the question of access for Iberian workers to jobs in other member countries.

It was unclear how the agreement had dealt with Greece's demands for a substantial package of aid to shield its economy from the effects of the Common Market's enlargement.

At a Common Market summit last December, Greece announced that if its demands were not met, it would veto the membership of Spain and Portugal. It has not withdrawn the threat.

The Greek aid package was supposed to have taken effect this year. But the member countries could not agree how much money it should contain.

The bargainers had said they were close to agreement a week ago, after the longest meeting of foreign ministers in Common Market history, but France blocked a final accord. It demanded tighter limits on Spanish wine production and fishing operations.

Foreign Minister Roland Dumas of France indicated that these problems had been resolved.

"We are, it seems, at the end of our difficulties and our pains," he said. "Indeed, we have this evening reached an agreement among the 10 (member countries) on most of the outstanding questions. There remain a few technical questions which are not of the sort to block the agreement."

Ernani Lopes, the Portuguese finance minister and leader of his nation's negotiating team, told reporters he was "extremely happy" with the agreement. He said the addition of Spain and his country to the EEC would "enrich and strengthen" the community and enhance the political stability of his country.

"We believe in Europe," he said. "We want to participate in democracy."

Fernando Moran, the Spanish foreign minister and chief negotiator for his country, told reporters he felt "great satisfaction" for having brought his nation to the brink of EEC membership.

"Europe has been a great help to us in our striving for democratic values in Spain," he said.

Many Spaniards see EEC membership as a condition for continued participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Spaniards are to vote on membership in the defense group in a national referendum in 1986. Spain joined NATO in 1982, but Gonzalez has frozen Spain's participation and the country has steadily refused to join the integrated military command.

Martin On Jobs Freeze: 'I Refuse To Be Intimidated'

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Martin says he wouldn't be doing his job if he heeded a legislative order not to fill vacant positions without consent of the Joint Base Budget Committee.

"To back off and not carry out that responsibility would be to knuckle under to intimidation," he said Thursday. "I decline to be intimidated."

A freeze on hiring for 3,087 vacant positions was ordered Tuesday by the co-chairmen of the budget committee — Sen. Tony Rand, D-Cumberland, and Rep. Bob Etheridge, D-Harnett.

They said agency and department leaders who want to keep the jobs will have to appear before their committee to justify them. Funding will expire July 1 for any jobs the panel decides aren't needed. If all the positions were eliminated, it would save the state $56.5 million, they said.

Martin applauded the review, saying his independent commission on government efficiency would do the same thing. But he said the freeze order violated the constitutional principle of separation of powers.

"Some of these positions are necessary," he said. "If they're necessary, if they're needed, we're going to try to fill them."

Rand and Etheridge acknowledged their order doesn't have force of law, but warned that if the Martin administration and Council of State members ignore it, they might remove funding of the newly filled jobs from the 1985-86 budget.

"If such a bridge appears on July 1, we'll cross it at that time," said Martin.

He said he knew of no Cabinet secretaries who were planning to quickly fill vacancies, but said that possibility had worried his budget office.

"We're doing what we can to settle that down and continue on a business-as-usual basis," he said.

Legislative Republicans complained that the freeze was politically motivated, which Rand and Etheridge deny. They say they are continuing a process of weeding out obsolete jobs begun in 1981, when 1,700 positions were eliminated.

Martin said he agreed with Rand and Etheridge that state officials should not be allowed to shift lapsed salary funds to other projects without legislative authorization.

On other matters, Martin:

— Said he was satisfied with the performance of his lobbyist, I. Beverly Lake, whom some lawmakers have said doesn't spend enough time at the Legislature. Lake said in an interview Wednesday he had been asked to attend too many meetings and would devote more time to lobbying.

"My view is he has been spending a lot of time (lobbying)," said Martin.

— Said that despite personnel changes, the Division of Emergency Management was as capable as ever of responding to such catastrophes as the spate of tornadoes that struck eastern North Carolina one year ago Thursday.

"Every department that is in our organization has had some changes, and I would say that in none of them have there been any changes that would cripple the mission of that office," said Martin.

Pay Study Plan OK'd

RALEIGH (AP) — A bill that would end a comparable worth study in state government jobs is expected to reach the House floor early next week after clearing a committee on a split vote.

Thursday's vote by the House Judiciary II Committee came less than 24 hours after speakers debated comparable worth in a two-hour public hearing. The study, which started last year, was authorized by a two-paragraph section of an appropriations bill approved in the closing days of the 1984 session.

Rep. Richard Wright, D-Columbus, sponsor of the bill and chairman of the committee, said he believed the public hearing and committee discussion last week were beneficial because they "represented a thousand times more discussion than has been held on this subject by any legislative body."

Rep. Peggy Stamey, a comparable worth supporter whose attempts to be recognized during the committee meeting failed, said the study was a logical follow-up to a 1981 affirmative action study that found white women, black men and black women were discriminated against in state pay.

"It is a question of how North Carolina, as manager of the largest workforce in the state, is going to respond to a study already done which points out discrimination," she said.

ON WAY TO WEDDING — Former North Carolina television personality Evangeline Grant Redding talks with reporters outside the Virginia State Penitentiary in Richmond Thursday prior to her marriage inside the prison to James Briley, who is scheduled for execution next month. Death Row Inmate Weds Writer-Activist In Prison

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — James D. Briley wore a new wedding band today as he awaited a scheduled April 18 execution for the murders of a pregnant Richmond woman and her 5-year-old son.

"He was very happy," said Briley's father, James, after his son was wed Thursday afternoon to Evangeline Grant Redding, a writer, black activist and former television personality in Greenville, N.C.

The double-ring ceremony took place at Briley's basement cell in the State Penitentiary, a dozen paces from the electric chair that took the life of his brother, Linwood, last Oct. 12.

Briley remained in his cell. His bride, attired in a white suit, hat and waist-length white veil, stood outside. She carried a spray of white and red carnations.

"We held hands. I even got a few kisses," Mrs. Briley told reporters.

She said she and Briley's father were both strip-searched before the nuptials.

Prison security was tight. Mrs. Briley said 15 or more guards and prison officials witnessed the ceremony, performed by prison Chaplain Marjorie Bailey.

The wedding, originally scheduled for today, was moved up by prison authorities for what they described as security reasons.

Briley, 28, was given two death sentences for the slayings of Judy Barton, 23, and her son, Harvey, who died with Ms. Barton's common-law husband, Harvey Wilkerson, 26, in their home here on Oct. 19, 1979.

Ms. Barton, who was eight months pregnant at the time, also was raped.

James and Linwood Briley were among six participants in the biggest death-row escape in U.S. history when they overpowered guards, donned their uniforms and used a fake bomb scare to flee the Mecklenburg Correctional Center near Boydton last May 31.

The Brileys were the last to be recaptured. Linwood was executed for the murder of a Richmond disc jockey.

Numerous state and federal courts have turned down James Briley's appeals. The U.S. Supreme Court refused on Monday for the second time to hear his case.

The new Mrs. Briley said she began writing her husband after Linwood's execution and came to love him and believe in his innocence.

"He's a fantastic person. He's gorgeous, charming and intelligent. He lights up my life," she told reporters as she arrived at the penitentiary.

"He's a damn rattlesnake," said D.C. Gery, a retired Richmond detective who assisted in the Briley cases.

Mrs. Briley, a divorced mother of four, said she plans to write a book about Briley, whom she contends was a victim of a police conspiracy because he and his brothers had previous criminal records and could easily be blamed for a 1979 Richmond-area crime spree.

A third Briley brother, Anthony, is serving a life sentence.

It was the first marriage for Briley, the father of an 11-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Briley left the penitentiary chanting, "Here comes the bride."

She said the ceremony, for which they each wrote their own vows, took about 10 minutes and Briley "kept trying to console us that everything was all right."

Asked if she will return to the penitentiary if the April 18 execution is carried out, she said, "I don't even think that way. We're going to free this man because he is innocent."

Winston-Salem Sentinel Closes After 100 Years

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — The Sentinel published its last issue today, 36 days short of the Winston-Salem afternoon newspaper's 100th anniversary.

"It's a very sad situation," said Managing Editor Fred Flagler. "Any time you lose an institution that has served the community well ... it's a sad situation."

But the mood in the Sentinel newsroom was not entirely somber as reporters prepared a final issue devoted to the newspaper's history.

Staffers wore T-shirts proclaiming, "I've Been Bent, Stapled, Wrinkled, Mutilated and Now Folded." A party or "wake" was planned tonight to honor the paper. Balloons were delivered to the newsroom and television cameras filmed the paper's final hours.

"It's a zoo," said Assistant City Editor David Watson.

"The top story of the hour? 'The Sentinel is still dead,'" said reporter Carl Briggs.

The announcement that the Sentinel would close came Feb. 26. The newspaper is published by Piedmont Publishing Co., which also publishes the morning Winston-Salem Journal, and owned by Media General Inc.

The 31,000-circulation Sentinel had been losing readers since it peaked at 50,000 in the early 1970s, said publisher Joe Doster.

Doster said the company could produce the best paper possible for Winston-Salem and northwestern North Carolina by "concentrating our energies and resources on one newspaper."

He said he thought enough of the 14,000 subscribers who receive only The Sentinel would switch to the Journal to boost the morning paper's circulation to more than 90,000 from about 78,000.

Flagler said 37 of the company's 422 full-time and 126 part-time employees were being laid off or taking early retirement. Seven editorial employees are being terminated, eight are retiring and 20 are moving to the Journal.

Flagler said the closing of The Sentinel would allow the Journal, which has had some production problems resulting in delays, to improve production without hiring another press crew.

Afternoon newspapers are more expensive to deliver because it must be done in crowded afternoon streets, he said. But their main problem is declining readership brought on by changes in lifestyle and competition with television.

Flagler said he thought the paper's finest hour came when President Nixon resigned.

Basic Education Plan Clears Panel, Heads For Full Senate

RALEIGH (AP) — The Senate Education Committee has approved a basic education plan that gives the State Board of Education most of the control, but some members questioned how constituents would view the bill.

"We're the ones who are responsible for it," said Sen. John Jordan, D-Alamance, who said the voters "didn't send the Department of Education down to vote for us."

But Education Chairman Dennis Winner, D-Buncombe, on Thursday defended the eight-year, $640 million plan.

"This basically directs the department to implement the program that has been approved within the funding that is provided," he said. "It's going to have to be flexible enough to be able to change in mid-stream."

Sen. Wendell Sawyer, R-Guilford, the only member voting against the plan, said it might "place more power in the hands of the state board and out of the hands of local school boards."

"I believe in a basic education," he added. My problem is who determines what a basic education is."

"We look like we're getting away from the three Rs," said Jordan. "We're talking about art and a second language. It seems like we're drifting to the etcetera."

Winner said there is "a lot of local input" under the bill, which is designed to give every child in North Carolina access to the same basic education. "The state just determines what has to be taught and the competencies that the school must authorize."

Winner said the bill will likely reach the Senate floor Tuesday or Wednesday and faces little opposition.

"Until Senator Sawyer voted, I hadn't heard any opposition to it," he said.

The bill was amended to say it does not create "any rights except to the extent that funds are appropriated by the state and the units of local government to implement the provisions."

Winner said that would "avoid any lawsuits while we're creating this plan. Even if we had the funds, we wouldn't have the necessary teachers to be able to implement it immediately."

The bill speaks in generalities, saying the state board must provide for all students a core curriculum, competencies by grade levels, lists of approved textbooks, standards for performance and promotion, remedial education, class size requirements, equipment and facilities standards and "such other information as the board may deem appropriate and necessary."

Although the board would be required to report progress and proposed revisions to the Legislature, Jordan said there should be more specific in the bill.

Howard Maniloff, special assistant for policy development in the department of public instruction, said there is no requirement that each subject be taught for a certain amount of time but that the basics will not be left out.

"The measurement will be in the annual tests," Maniloff said. "We also put greater emphasis on the basics ... through the promotion standards."

Sen. Helen Marvin, D-Gaston, said reading, writing and arithmetic "take on far more meaning for the students if they are being taught in conjunction with other interests like art, social studies."

Winner said the major problem for the plan will be getting the money, which includes some $90 million this year for reducing class size and setting up remedial summer schools.

Senate Approves Succession Bill

RALEIGH (AP) — Republicans tried to merge veto power with the gubernatorial succession issue, but the veto was killed by a partisan vote second only to the one to pass the succession issue to the voters.

The constitutional amendment, approved 37-11, needs only concurrence in a Senate amendment by the House to set up a statewide referendum in November 1986. But the Senate voted 36-13 — with one Democrat dissenting — to kill a bill that would have given the voters a similar opportunity to vote on veto power for the governor.

"We have so much trust in the people that we want them to make another choice (on succession),"

Senate Minority Leader Bill Redman told the Senate on Thursday. "Yet, in the same breath on the same day we say we don't have the confidence ... to let the people say whether the governor should have veto power."

Redman said succession for the governor and lieutenant governor approved in 1977, lets a governor "stay in office long enough to establish some clout in higher places."

But Sen. Don Kincaid, R-Caldwell, argued that before succession "we were able to use the leadership ability of (more) of the people in the state. The time has come when we need to limit the executive branch of government."

- (2) Television satellite dish antennae exceeding four (4) feet in diameter shall not exceed fifteen (15) feet in height.
- (3) Television satellite dish antennae may not exceed fifteen feet in diameter.
- (4) There shall be no more than one television satellite dish antenna per residential lot."

Section 4. Section 32-95B will be amended by adding the following specific regulations for nonresidential television satellite dish antennae:

"(2) Television satellite dish antennae for non-residential uses shall be subject to the following additional requirements:

- (a) Establishments which sell television satellite dish antennae may display antennae no closer than ten (10) feet to any street right-of-way.
- (b) Where abutting a residential use or residentially zoned property and a buffer is not already established, a buffer shall be required between the television satellite dish antennae and the abutting residential use or residentially zoned property. Required buffers may consist of an earth berm, evergreen vegetation or solid fence or any combination of the three and with the exception of evergreen vegetation, must be a minimum of six (6) feet in height. When evergreen vegetation is used to satisfy these requirements, such vegetation must be planted at an initial height of at least three (3) feet; be of such a variety that a height of at least six (6) feet can be obtained within three (3) years of planting; and be spaced at intervals so that within three (3) years of planting, the television satellite dish antennae will be visually buffered from adjoining property and right-of-way lines to a height of at least six (6) feet."

During this public hearing scheduled for April 11, 1985, objections or suggestions will be duly considered by City Council. All interested persons are requested to be present at the hearing, and they will be afforded an opportunity to be heard.

BIBLICAL ARCHERY!

THE FIRST MENTION OF ARCHERY IN THE BIBLE IS TO BE FOUND IN GENESIS. WE LEARN THAT ISHMAEL, ABRAHAM'S SON BY HAGAR, GREW UP TO BECOME AN ARCHER (GEN. 21:20). ARCHERS, OR BOWMEN, WERE AN IMPORTANT PART OF AN ARMY--LONG BEFORE THE SWORDSMEN COULD MAKE CONTACT WITH THE ENEMY, THE ARCHERS WERE DOING THEIR DAMAGE AT LONG-RANGE WITH THEIR BOWS! IT IS RECORDED IN FIRST CHRONICLES THAT HALF THE TRIBE OF MANASSEH, VALIANT MEN "...ABLE TO BEAR BUCKLER AND SWORD, AND TO SHOOT WITH BOW AND SKILLFUL IN WAR, WERE FOUR AND FORTY THOUSAND..." (1 CHRON. 5:18). IN THE TRIBE OF BENJAMIN, NOTED FOR THEIR SHARP EYES AND THEIR SKILL AT HITTING THE MARK, THERE WERE MANY ARCHERS OF GREAT RENOWN. AT LEAST ONE KING WAS STRUCK DOWN IN BATTLE BY THE ARCHER'S EXPERT USE OF THE BOW--AHAB, KING OF ISRAEL, DIED AS WAS PROPHESED, FROM A SYRIAN ARROW! (1 KINGS 22:34-35). BOTH JOSHUA AND KING DAVID, GREAT GENERALS THAT THEY WERE, ALWAYS MADE PROPER USE OF THEIR BOWMEN TO THEIR ENEMIES' DISMAY AND DISCOMFORT!

...FOR DAVID FIGHTS A SCIENTIFIC WARFARE -HE HAS POSTED HIS BEST ARCHERS ON THE HILL TO KEEP THE ENEMY PINNED DOWN IN THEIR TENTS UNTIL HIS SWORDSMEN CAN REACH THEM AND DO THEIR WORK!

Ohio Snaps Pirate Jinx, Wins 6-5

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

All good things must come to an end, but East Carolina baseball coach Gary Overton didn't think that this was the time.

Over the years, the Pirate baseball team has dominated Ohio University. Coming into this year's three-game series, the Pirates held a 9-0 advantage over the Bobcats and pushed that to 11 straight with a sweep of a doubleheader yesterday.

But that string finally came to an end yesterday as the Bobcats struggled back several times and finally gained a 6-5 victory over the Pirates. It was also their first win in six starts this season and dropped the Pirates to 15-6.

"We just didn't do what it takes to win," Overton said afterwards. "We had several opportunities to put the game away early and we didn't take advantage of them. You're not going to beat a team forever, but this just wasn't the game we should have lost to them. We should have been able to win this one."

Overton said that the Pirates had the chance to close out the game early and let it slip through their fingers. "We let them come back and tie us twice and then let them win."

"I don't think this was a well-played series by either team."

Overton did think he got a good effort from starting pitcher Craig Van Deventer, who went out after five-plus innings with a 4-2 lead. He allowed seven hits, one of them a two-run homer. He walked one and struck out five.

"He didn't pitch that bad, but he got tired," Overton said. "We didn't want to have to use (Daniel) Boone (late relief), but we wanted to try and stop it (their rally)."

"We just can't lose the ones we're expected to win."

East Carolina scored first and that may have been an omen. In the series, the team that scored first lost.

The Pirates got their first run in the bottom of the first. Chris Bradberry doubled with two away and scored on a double by Winfred Johnson.

In the top of the fourth, Ohio took the lead, scoring twice. Mark Abrams walked and Wes Harrington, who hit two homers Wednesday, banged another out in center, making it 2-1.

But the Pirates quickly came back and tied it up in the bottom of the frame. Mike Sullivan singled and Jay McGraw reached on a fielder's choice. With two away, Jim Riley singled to center, scoring Sullivan.

Then, in the fifth, the Pirates added two runs for a 4-2 advantage. Mark Shank led off the frame with a walk and with one away, Chris Bradberry hit his fifth homer of the year, down the left field line.

But the Pirates couldn't hold it. After stopping the Bobcats with the bases loaded in the sixth, they gave up two runs in the seventh that knotted it at 4-4. With one down, Abrams singled and Jeff Doles drew a two-out walk. Mark Echstenkamper and Brian Luce both followed with singles, each driving in a run.

The Pirates got one in the seventh to go back out, 5-4. Bradberry led off with a walk and Winfred Johnson's grounder back to the mound was too late at second to get anyone, leaving both runners safe. Sullivan's attempted sacrifice was errored loading the bases and a sacrifice fly by McGraw scored Bradberry, but the rally ended there.

Still, Ohio came back, tying it once more — and they would have taken the lead but for a fine defensive play by Mark Cockrell. Todd Nuzum led off with a slasher down the third base line. Cockrell made a diving stop of the ball, got back up and just threw Nuzum out at first.

Brian Ritter followed that with a homer to right, making it 5-5.

Then, after holding the go-ahead run for the Pirates on second in the bottom of the frame, Ohio moved back out with a run in the ninth.

Wes Harrington led off with a walk and was sacrificed up. Echstenkamper singled and Luce followed with another hit, scoring Harrington.

The Pirates went down in order in the bottom of the ninth, and Ohio had finally broken the jinx.

Echstenkamper led the Ohio hitting with four, while Ritter, Luce and Andy Reynolds each had two.

Bradberry had two to pace the Pirates.

East Carolina returns to action on Saturday, hosting James Madison in a 1 p.m. ECAC-South doubleheader. The two meet again Sunday at 2 p.m. in a single game.

Ohio Tops Lady Pirates

Ohio University came away with a pair of shutout victories over the East Carolina women's softball team Thursday. The Lady Bobcats won the opener, 1-0 in nine innings and came back with a 2-0 victory in the second game.

Both teams got only four hits in the opening contest, but Ohio was finally able to push a run over in the top of the ninth.

Robin Graves had a double, the only extra base hit by the Lady Pirates.

In the second game, Ohio scored twice in the second frame to account for all the game's action. ECU got only two hits off the 'Cats, one of them a double by Suzanne Martin.

The pair of losses dropped the Lady Pirates to 17-9-1 on the year. They play host to South Carolina on Saturday in a doubleheader.

Irwin Hales Return As He Grabs Lead At TPC Event

PONTE VEDRA, Fla. (AP) — Hale Irwin's playing time and his effectiveness have been sorely limited since June.

That's when he blew a chance in the U.S. Open to win a third American national golf championship. He has played only 12 tournaments since then, missed the cut in five of those and was never in title contention in the others.

What's happened to this dedicated shot-maker who has won 16 titles and more than $2.5 million.

"I took a mental sabbatical," he said. He also took a five-week break to let a nagging groin injury heal.

He signalled his return to the upper levels of the game Thursday when he capped a 5-under-par 67 with a pitch-in birdie on the 18th hole that provided him with the first round lead in the prestigious Tournament Players Championship.

"I don't say I'm going to go out and shoot 67 again tomorrow, hopefully I will, but my mental and physical games are starting to come together," Irwin said.

"My swing is starting to come around. The swing of old. The swing I can trust."

"Instead of searching for a swing, I'm searching for a refinement of that swing," Irwin said.

The search resulted in six birdies and a single bogey on the windblown Players Club at Sawgrass, the touring pros own course and the prototype of the Stadium Golf facilities that are springing up around the nation.

The effort was capped by a 30-foot pitch from the fringe on the 18th that found the cup for a birdie. "I wanted to putt it, but a sprinkler head was in the way," Irwin said.

That shot lifted him out of a tie with Larry Rinker, Morris Hataalsky, D.A. Weibring and West German Bernhard Langer, tied at 68 in the event that offers $900,000 in total prizes with $162,000 to the winner.

The group at 69 included Bobby Wadkins, Ronne Black and rookie Mark Brooks.

PGA titleholder Lee Trevino once held a position among the leaders and was 4-under-par until he took a triple bogey-7 on his 15th hole. He called a penalty shot on himself when his ball moved in the rough. He missed the green with his fourth shot, pitched back and two-putted. He completed the round in 73.

Curtis Strange, who has been first, fourth and first in his last three starts, also was 4-under-par at one point. But he bogeyed his last two holes and finished at 70.

Tom Watson and Jack Nicklaus each had a 71 in the warm, windy weather. Masters titleholder Ben Crenshaw and U.S. Open champ Fuzzy Zoeller matched par 72. Defending TPC champion Fred Couples shot 73. Seve Ballesteros of Spain, the British Open champion, had a 76. And Lanny Wadkins, winner of two titles already this season, took a fat 80.

Irwin traced his recent playing problems to a variety of causes — the injury, the death of his father, "a lot of little things that piled up," he said.

"After the (U.S.) Open, I just couldn't get myself geared back up again."

"With the injury, I couldn't take a full swing. I got into some bad habits."

"At this stage of your career," said the 39-year-old, "when you're playing poorly for an extended period, you have to ask: 'Can I play again?' Only the player himself can answer that."

"I answered, 'yes, I can still play.'"

He said the "mental and physical games are coming together now."

"It's time to start playing again."

"Time to go to work."

Rocky Mount Pounds Rampants

By JIMMY DuPREE
Reflector Sports Writer

Rocky Mount pounded out nine hits and used four Rose errors to post 13 runs in the second inning, and the Gryphons went on to take a 16-6 victory Thursday in Big East high school baseball action. Scott Tulloss ripped three hits including a two-run double and a solo homer to lead the Gryphons. Winning pitcher Donnie Bobbitt, who ripped a two-run homer in the second, recorded six strikeouts and scattered six hits to earn the victory on the mound. Michael Doyle drove in three runs with two hits, and Neil Avent added a pair of hits as Rocky Mount tallied 13 hits off the Rampant staff. "It's not a lack of effort," Rose

Coach Ronald Vincent said. "It just seems like one bad play gets it started. We need to get started early." Hank Jones struck out to lead off the top of the second, but Tulloss singled and Cedric Bullock reached first on an error in right field to open the rally. Bobbitt followed with an RBI single, and Shelton Grant singled to load the bases. Avent ripped the ball past Rose starting pitcher Eric Jarman and off the umpire's leg for an infield single to drive Bullock. Doyle beat out an infield single to score Bobbitt, and an error on a ball hit by Mike Morris allowed Grant to score.

Avent scored on a wild pitch, and Doyle crossed home on a passed ball for a 6-0 lead. Jerry Edwards and Hank Jones walked, and Tulloss doubled in two runs. Jones scored on a single by Bullock, and Tulloss was out for missing the plate.

Bobbitt ripped a two-run homer to center, and Doyle singled in two more runs for the 13-0 tally.

Rose used three pitchers in the inning, with Steve Wall getting Morris to pop up for the final out.

In the third, Hank Jones and Tulloss hit back-to-back solo homers for a 15-0 Gryphon lead.

Rose finally got on the board in the fourth inning, as Wall walked and Alston followed with a two-out double. James Matthews ripped a three-run homer over the fence in center to trim the margin to 15-3.

The Rampants posted three more runs in the fifth. Larke Wetherington swatted the ball over the fence in left, and Tony Taylor later drove in two more runs on a bases-loaded fielder's choice.

Anthony Brown reached first on an error in the top of the sixth. A wild pitch by Jarman, who returned to the mound in the fourth, and a pair of passed balls by Les Turner allowed Brown to circle the bases for the 16-6 tally.

The game was called before the start of the seventh inning because of darkness.

The Rampants dropped to 0-2 in the Big East and 4-3 overall. Rose travels to Wilson Beddingfield Tuesday for another Big East match-up.

Rams Run Past North Pitt

BETHEL — Greene Central spotted North Pitt a 3-0 lead, then stormed to a 13-3 Eastern Carolina Conference baseball victory Thursday.

The Panthers scored three times in the first inning to take the initial lead in the game. With one away, Scott Rawls walked and Neal Everett singled. Thomas Wright walked, loading the bases. Alfred Braxton then doubled, driving in all three runners.

But the Rams quickly came back, striking for four runs in the top of the second to take the lead for good. With one away, Jerome Flowers singled. Then, with two away, Stacy Chase reached on an error and both runners scored on a triple by Barry Ginn. Erwin Collins doubled to score Ginn and Gary Ginn walked. Ken Wade was second on an error, scoring Collins for the 4-3 lead.

The Rams added three in the fifth on a two run homer by James Hill. Six more scored in the seventh on a solo homer by Flowers and a grand slam homer by Gary Ginn.

Ginn, who also had two doubles, and Flowers each had three hits for the Rams. No one had more than one for North Pitt.

The Panthers drop to 2-4 overall and 0-2 in league play. Greene Central is now 2-7-1 overall and 1-1 in the conference. The Panthers play host to Conley on Saturday. Greene Central is back in action on Tuesday, traveling to Ayden-Grifton.

LITTLEFIELD — Southern Nash plated four runs in the top of the fifth, then held off a rally by Ayden-Grifton in the bottom of the seventh to take a 9-8 victory Thursday in Eastern Carolina 3-A high school baseball action.

The Chargers pounded out eight hits, but nine errors in the field gave the Firebirds the opportunity for the win.

"We're just playing inconsistent right now," Ayden-Grifton Coach Chris Ross said. "When you figure the game before this one we only had four hits, and this time we had 11 but didn't put the defense behind it. We're not able to put the defense and offense together right now."

"When we start playing seven innings of defense and offense we'll start winning ballgames."

Jeff Epps led the Firebirds with three hits in four trips to the plate, while Tony Hendricks went 2-4 with a two-run homer in the first inning.

Curt Tucker and Gene Johnson each homered in the fourth for the Chargers. Tucker, Johnson, Jackie Conway and Eddie Brown had two hits each for Ayden-Grifton, now 3-5 overall and 1-2 in the ECC.

Southern Nash held a 3-0 lead going into the fourth, but the Chargers plated five runs to move ahead. Shannon Peede reached first on a fielder's choice and Eddie Brown singled before Johnson ripped a three-run homer. Tony McLawhorn walked, courtesy runner Jesse Hooker stole second and Tucker followed with a two-run homer to put the Chargers in the lead.

Southern Nash trimmed the margin to 5-4 with a run in the fifth.

In the sixth, Todd Bissette walked, went to second on a wild pitch, took third when Jeff Morgan reached first on an error and scored on a single by Brian Marlow to even the score. Lynn Webb reached first on a fielder's choice, and Hendricks doubled in Morgan. Webb scored on a wild pitch by Johnson for an 8-5 Southern Nash lead.

The Chargers battled back with a pair of runs in the bottom of the frame, as Frank Mills slapped a leadoff homer, and Jackie Conway singled in Tucker.

Southern Nash sealed the game with a run in the top of the seventh, but Ayden-Grifton cut the lead with a bases-loaded grounder by Brown.

Ayden-Grifton hosts Greene Central Tuesday.

WILSON — Wilson Christian eased to a 4-2 baseball victory over Greenville Christian Academy yesterday. It was the first game of the year for the Knights.

Greenville scored first, getting a run in the second. Maury Harris led off with a double and moved to third on an error on a pickoff attempt. A passed ball then allowed him to score.

But Wilson came back to tie it up with one in the bottom of the frame. Ken Pruitt walked and was sacrificed up. He stole third and scored on a passed ball.

After taking a 2-1 lead in the fourth, Wilson got what proved to be the winning run in the fifth. Dewey Scott singled, was sacrificed up, and scored on Mike Walston's single.

One more run scored in the sixth, while GCA got its other run in the seventh.

Tim O'Shea had two hits for Greenville, while Linwood Scott had a pair for Wilson.

GCA is now 0-1, and returns to action on Tuesday, traveling to Goldsboro Christian.

CRESWELL — Jamesville battled through 11 innings before finally pulling out a 9-7 baseball victory over Creswell yesterday in Tobacco Belt Conference action.

Doug Clifton hit three homers for Creswell to help keep them in the game, adding a double to go four-for-five on the day. He hit solo homers in the second and sixth and a two-run shot in the fourth.

Creswell took the lead with two single runs in the first two frames, but Jamesville tied it up with two in the third. Creswell went back out with two in the fourth, but Jamesville countered with three in the top of the fifth. Creswell moved back in front, 6-5, with two in the bottom of the inning. Creswell added one in the sixth, but Jamesville rallied to tie it in the seventh, 7-7.

It stayed that way until the 11th inning when the Bullets finally pushed over two to win it. Earl Bowen reached on a hit and Chris Jones singled. Kevin Perry walked, loading the bases and Richie Ange then doubled, scoring Bowen and Jones.

Ange, who went the first nine innings, struck out eight and walked two.

Greg Hardison and Perry each had three hits for Jamesville, while Ange, Terry Perry, Pee Wee Groover and Greg Bell each had two. Hardison and Ange each had doubles and Perry had three runs batted in.

In addition to Clifton's hitting, Stenie Rogers had four for Creswell, including a homer in the first inning.

The win leaves Jamesville at 3-0 in league play, 3-1 overall. Tuesday the Bullets travel to Mattamuskeet.

Redmen, Hoyas Earn Attention

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) - Memphis State and Villanova are rapidly becoming the Forgotten Two of the Final Four.

"Hey, there's two other teams here," Villanova Coach Rollie Massimino blurted out Thursday as most interest by the growing herd of media centered on Saturday's St. John's-Georgetown game.

That one is being talked about as the championship game before the real championship, as though the winner will - as if by divine right - also win the national championship on Monday night.

The experts have said things like that before - for the past two years, in fact. They haven't always been right.

Two years ago in Albuquerque, N.M., the Houston-Louisville semifinal game was all but conceded to be for the title as well. North Carolina State-Georgia? Well, the winner in that one would be sacrificed to the Cougars or the Cardinals two nights hence.

It didn't work out that way. N.C. State, on Lorenzo Charles' oft-replayed last-second dunk, stunned Houston 54-52.

One year ago in Seattle, Houston beat Virginia in the Saturday night semis and was projected as little more than fodder for Georgetown, which demolished Kentucky in the other semifinal.

It did work out that way. The Hoyas took apart the Cougars 84-75.

Now it's Villanova-Memphis State, given second-class status to the game between Coach Lou Carnesecca's Redmen and John Thompson's defending champion Hoyas.

Massimino's Wildcats, the only unranked team to survive the regionals, weren't even supposed to be here. And, with a 23-10 record, they've got two more losses than the three other Final Four entries combined.

Now the experts figure they won't get past the Tigers. But Massimino gave himself the momentary luxury Thursday of looking ahead to the championship game.

"We played Georgetown great twice," he said of the 52-50 and 57-50 losses. "We played St. John's great twice," losing 76-71 and 70-68. "We could beat both of them. ... Thompson and Looie, they're my buddies. I'm happy for them. Looie's my idol and John eventually will become one."

Massimino isn't the only coach who believes the Wildcats are being overlooked.

Syracuse finished third in the Big East Conference, tied with Villanova behind St. John's and Georgetown. And Coach Jim Boeheim of the Orangemen sees the Wildcats as sleepers - if they can win their semifinal.

"It'll be tough for Villanova to get by Memphis State," Boeheim said. "But I'd say Villanova has a better chance than St. John's to beat Georgetown because of their style. Villanova can play a slow tempo."

The Wildcats can dictate a slowdown game because there's no shot clock in the tournament. It's almost certain there'll be one a year from now in Dallas.

The NCAA will meet next week to consider rules changes and the addition of a 45-second shot clock is expected to receive the necessary two-thirds vote.

Edward Steitz, athletic director at Springfield College and longtime editor of the rules committee, told a news conference Thursday that "the likelihood of it failing is almost nil."

A year ago in Seattle, it just missed. But that was before 19 Division I conferences, plus three in Division II and three in Division III, experimented with the clock during the 1984-85 season, and before 62 percent of the NCAA coaches responding to a questionnaire urged adoption of the shot clock for all games in 1985-86.

'All For Love' TV Anthology Called Letdown For PBS Theater Viewers

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "All for Love," beginning Sunday night on public television's "Masterpiece Theatre," consists of five unrelated, though stylistically similar, short-story adaptations built around a heart-shaped theme.

The anthology format is a departure for "Masterpiece Theatre," which normally offers classy miniseries drawn from literature or history. "All for Love," though nicely done, may prove something of a letdown for viewers still caught up in the tense drama of the just-completed "Jewel in the Crown."

The new set, produced by Roy Roberts for Britain's Granada TV, does have generally outstanding performances, by Alec McCowen, Joan Plowright, Frank Finlay, Geraldine McEwan, June Ritchie, Benjamin Withrow and Lionel Jeffries, but especially from Roberts' sharpened sensitivity to the sight and sound of incidental movement.

Seldom before has an hour-long production spent as much time on wadding paper for the fireplace, or setting the table for dinner, as in "Mona," on April 7.

Each piece is about love in one unconventional though entirely acceptable form or another. It's simple enough to dramatize the manifestations of that emotion, but what seems to be missing here is the why, and it is a small but noticeable flaw that might leave the viewer entertained but not particularly moved.

Indeed, loneliness might be considered a common element in the first four programs, but in these unique circumstances, that often does not tell us enough:

—What, for instance, motivates Edith (Miss Plowright) to agree to fake marriage with Mr. Silcox (McCowen), in "A Dedicated Man" Sunday night, so that he can accept a job at a plush hotel?

—Why does 13-year-old Mona (Deborah Stokes) persist in her kindness toward a disabled war veteran (Finlay) though discouraged by her own family and rejected by the man himself?

—Why is Miss Mountford (Miss McEwan), a poorly paid shopgirl who vacations each summer at a fashionable French chateau ("L'Elegance" on April 14), drawn into romance with a drunken chef whom she considers, for most of the hour, entirely disgusting?

—What is there about the gentlemanly but mysterious Amos Curry

(Withrow) that encourages Esme Fanshaw (Miss Ritchie) to resist the memory of her recently deceased, domineering mother (in "A Bit of Singing and Dancing" on April 21)?

The last show in the series, "Letting the Birds Go Free" on April 28, may be the best, or at least the most satisfying.

A farmer, Arthur King (Jeffries), offers to take in a young man caught raiding his henhouse. Their respect for one another deepens, and Arthur protects the young man even after learning he has deserted his army unit rather than return to Ulster. And he does not protest when the young man flees with his daughter, Grace (Carolyn Pickles). But again, why?

Maybe all this is asking too much. The stories in this selection stand as touching, and sometimes heartwarming, diversion, and that's good enough for recommendation.

Vincent Scully, a professor of architecture and art history at Yale, says, "Mine is a democratic, American feeling that everybody has got to experience everything. They'd better or they won't be loved."

'STAR WARS' LOOKALIKES — Merlyn Carlson, left, and Joan Harrison, both dressed as Princess Leia from the movies "Return of the Jedi" and "Star Wars," respectively, stand in line Thursday in Los Angeles to buy tickets to the showing of the "Star Wars" trilogy, a six-hour showing of the two movies above plus "The Empire Strikes Back." The trilogy is being shown in nine theaters in major U.S. and Canadian theaters. (AP Laserphoto)

Jackson Approves His Wax Image

LONDON (AP) — The gleam in his right eye is a light bulb and his trademark white glove holds a strobe. Michael Jackson, looking on the wax effigy of himself at Madame Tussaud's, declared it "fantastic."

And the hordes of screaming teen-agers waiting outside the wax-works Thursday had the same opinion of the real-life rock superstar as they mobbed his limousine, threw themselves on the car and chased it a half-mile.

"I saw his glove and his collar! And she saw half his face!" said Kay Scott, 11, who waited with friends for three hours outside the wax museum in central London.

Several fans fainted and one was knocked down by a passing car.

After 90 dull minutes for the 2,000 breathless admirers, their idol emerged from Madame Tussaud's, jumped onto the roof of the limousine, pirouetted and blew kisses. The fans shrieked "We want Michael!" They blew whistles. They held up photographs of him, and covers of his albums.

Jackson's sculpture, in the museum's Super Star section beside effigies of British singers Boy George and David Bowie, goes on public view today.

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Seeks Treatment

SINGAPORE (AP) — The president of Singapore, C.V. Devan Nair, has resigned to seek treatment for alcoholism, the prime minister announced.

Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew told Parliament the doctors who had examined Nair, 61, had concluded that due to his alcohol dependency, "The president's mental state at present fluctuates between lucidity and mild confusion and disorientation."

In Singapore, the president's power is nominal.

Nair, a former leader of the National Trades Union Congress, was appointed president on Oct. 23, 1981, and his term was to run until Oct. 23 this year.

He was admitted into Singapore's General Hospital on March 16, and was reported suffering from liver problems.

Artist Marc Chagall Succumbs At Age 97

ST. PAUL DE VENCE, France (AP) — Artist Marc Chagall, "the last of the 20th century giants" whose rainbow colors brought life to his dreams, childhood memories and mysticism, died at his home on the French Riviera. He was 97.

"He died naturally as a man worn out. He certainly had been tired for some months, but he was not suffering from any illness," said Jean-Louis Prat, a friend.

Chagall's wife, Valentine Brodsky, said he collapsed late Thursday and died almost immediately.

Prat, director of the Maeght Foundation art center in St. Paul de Vence, said he visited Chagall three days before his death and found him "working in his studio, following his regular habit. He had stopped painting several months ago, but he continued to work on drawings and also watercolors."

Chagall was the son of a Russian shopkeeper, born in the village of Vitebsk in 1887. He worked in oils, watercolors, etching and stained glass, as well as costume design, stage sets, book illustrations and church windows.

His images of entranced people, animals, and Jewish and Christian symbols floating through space in defiance of both gravity and perspective never fit into any formal art movement.

Medicare Gets A Reprieve

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Even though trustees predict Medicare won't run out of money before 1998, Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret M. Heckler says the hospital insurance fund is not out of the woods yet.

A year ago Social Security trustees had said the Medicare fund would be wiped out by 1991, and two years ago they thought it would go bust by 1987.
The five trustees said Thursday that the administration's proposed freeze on hospital payment rates in 1986, coupled with earlier legislative reforms and a slowdown in medical inflation, has bought more time for the Medicare fund.

Mrs. Heckler, one of three Cabinet officers who serve as trustees, said in a statement, "We still have a long way to go, but we are finally taking the right steps, and we are headed in the right direction."

A long-term solution to Medicare's problems will require "good faith and strong medicine in the months and years ahead," she said.

One dose of medicine the Reagan administration wants to give Medicare is a one-year freeze in 1986 on the rates hospitals and physicians are paid to treat various ailments.

Under the so-called prospective payment system adopted in 1983, Medicare pays hospitals set fees to treat various illnesses, regardless of the length of a patient's stay.

Former Social Security Commissioner Robert M. Ball said the new forecast shows that "the handwringers are once again confounded. ... It's very encouraging. It means we have plenty of time to make changes in Medicare without the pressure of some emergency."

The $70 billion Medicare program helps pay hospital bills and other health care costs for 27 million elderly people and nearly 3 million disabled.

Congress last year cut the rate at which those fees can grow each year. The administration contends it has the regulatory power to freeze them entirely in 1986. Some lawmakers disagree.

The other trustees who compiled the report were Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III, the managing trustee; Under Secretary of Labor Ford B. Ford; Mary Falvey Fuller and Suzanne D. Jaffe. In his capacity as acting labor secretary, Ford served as an acting trustee.

The trustees said Social Security should be able to pay all "benefits on time well into the next century" under expected economic conditions.

However, the disability fund could have trouble paying benefits on time by the end of 1987 under adverse economic conditions. The Reagan administration imposed a moratorium on disability cutoffs last April, after some courts had ordered the reviews halted and many governors had refused to carry them out.

Consequently, more people were added to the disability rolls in 1984 than left them for the first time since 1978, and the program paid out $1.2 billion more than it took in.

But the trustees said that even if the economy does falter, the disability fund's problems could be solved by shifting some taxes from the old age and survivors fund.

Report Says Freeze Could Boost Poverty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Freezing Social Security cost-of-living adjustments would save $33.8 billion over five years but push about 400,000 people below the poverty line, according to a Congressional Budget Office study.

"Freezing Social Security and Railroad Retirement benefits would reduce the benefits of 22 million recipient families by an average of $220 for the year, which is 1.2 percent of the annual income of affected families," said a report released Thursday on options for reducing the federal deficit.

"By contrast, taxing a higher proportion of benefits would achieve more than 80 percent as much savings while affecting fewer than one-fourth as many families," the report said. "Reductions in after-tax incomes would be about three times as large, on average."

The Senate Budget Committee has voted to eliminate the cost-of-living increase in fiscal 1986 as part of a deficit-reduction package, but it faces considerable opposition in Congress.

In keeping with budget office policy, the report made no recommendations.

Eight percent of the benefit reductions from canceling the cost-of-living increase would be borne by families under the poverty line, the report said, 39 percent by families with incomes greater than 300 percent of the poverty line and 54 percent by middle-class families between the poverty line and the 300 percent level. (Because the figures were rounded, they total 101 percent).

The poverty line in 1984 for an elderly couple was $6,280.

The cost-of-living increase is based on the Consumer Price Index, which the Congressional Budget Office estimates will increase by 3.7 percent between the third quarter of 1984 and the third quarter of 1985 — the period that would be used as the base for the 1986 adjustment.

Artists on the Edge

About 300 art works created by mentally ill people are now on exhibit at the University of Chicago. Some great artists may have been mentally ill. Vincent Van Gogh cut off one ear and eventually killed himself. Samuel Coleridge's opium addiction may have affected his poetry. Some people think children, as well as the mentally ill, have great artistic insight. Percy Bysshe Shelley once grabbed an infant from its stroller, saying "If I only knew what you know now!"

Congressman Says Profanity Was Used

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Democratic leader says President Reagan turned "angry and profane" during a telephone conversation about the MX missile when the chief executive was asked why he didn't submit balanced budgets to Congress.

"He got angry and profane with me," Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., said Thursday, describing the call he received earlier this week during the president's lobbying campaign for the MX missile.

Alexander refused to say what words Reagan used, except to say the president called his questions "hypocritical."

Peter Roussel, assistant White House press secretary, refused to confirm or deny the use of profane language by the president, saying, "We feel the president's conversations with members of Congress are a private matter."

Alexander, the chief deputy majority whip, first alluded to his sharp exchange with Reagan during the MX debate on Wednesday.

In a speech on the House floor, he said the president's call Tuesday started with Reagan lobbying for approval of $1.5 billion to buy a second batch of 21 MX nuclear missiles.

Alexander said he told the president he would not support him on the MX vote and moved the conversation from missiles to the deficit.

FORECAST FOR SAT. MARCH 30, 1985

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime is certainly not the time to press home, family or property interests. Avoid any sort of friction with anyone of whom you are fond and put off social activities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Avoid outdoor duties as much as you can during day hours, and then tonight you can be happy with your mate.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Keep any promises made, and if an outside matter suddenly arises, take it in your stride. Be with a serious partner in the p.m.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get important duties handled and don't let personal affairs get in the way. Later schedule next week's activities.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Steer clear of an argument between an associate and one in public office, then you can have a delightful time.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) There is work to be done so do it conscientiously and you can have much happiness at home in the evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Avoid that friend who wants you to go out for fun since you have much to do, but tonight you can enjoy the company of friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be more tactful with a crotchety partner and you get along better with this person. Worrying about an outside affair is not wise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You may want to wait before doing some work until you are more in the mood and can do it right.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You want to have a good time even though you have important things to do, but do the latter first.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A good friend will assist you with some problematical affairs, but avoid a family tie who does not understand.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get those outside duties handled and put aside small jobs around the house that could get you frustrated.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study into new interests that are fascinating to you and don't let some scheme dazzle you. Show that you are sensible.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will get at the very core of any project that interests him or her, so slant the education along investigative lines and much success is possible during the lifetime. Early give good religious and ethical training, since it will be of use in later life.

More Elephants

PEKING (AP) — Elephants in the tropical forests of southwest China's Yunnan province are increasing in numbers at a rate of 3 to 5 percent a year, the official Xinhua news agency reported.

At least 230 wild elephants can be found in Xishuangbanna and Hanguhe nature reserves, the report said. Their diet includes bananas and bamboo leaves. Yunnan, which borders Burma and Indochina, is the only part of China with elephants.

Banks Say Some Deposits Unreported

By JERRY ESTILL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Some of the nation's largest banks, taking a second look at their books for possible money laundering, are telling the federal government they failed to report millions of dollars in large cash deposits.

The flurry of updated reports to the Treasury Department in the past few days is part of the continuing fallout from the First National Bank of Boston's legal problems earlier this year.

Two other Boston banks said earlier this month they had failed to report large cash transactions and three big New York banks joined them this week.

By coming forward with updated reports after in-house examinations, the banks apparently hope to head off the public relations and potential legal problems that would flow from having federal examiners uncover errors.

The Bank of Boston paid a $500,000 fine after pleading guilty to a felony charge of failing to report $1.22 billion in foreign cash transactions. The bank also said it handled cash for reputed organized crime figures without filing the necessary reports.

The Bank Secrecy Act was amended in 1980 to require banks to report cash transfers of more than $10,000 between domestic and foreign banks. Since 1972, it has required reports on cash transactions of more than $10,000 with individuals or companies.

The New York firms that admitted violations of the Bank Secrecy Act this week — Chemical Bank, Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. and Irving Trust Co. — all specifically denied the errors were linked to money laundering activity.

Chemical, a part of the nation's sixth largest banking company, said it failed to report a total of $25.9 million in 837 cash transactions over the past five years, all but about $2 million involving purchase or sale of foreign currency to supply its New York branches.

Manufacturers Hanover, the nation's fourth largest bank, said it failed to report $140 million in 1,400 transactions — all of it involving foreign banks. It noted that it had filed 120,000 reports during the nearly five-year period its review covered.

Irving Trust said it failed to report 1,659 transactions with 38 foreign banks, totaling $292 million.

In the wake of the Bank of Boston disclosure, which set off a round of congressional hearings, the American Bankers Association recommended that all its members — virtually every major bank in the nation — review their procedures for complying with the federal law that every cash transaction exceeding $10,000 be reported to the government.

Treasury Department officials have declined to say how many amended reports they have received, and Dan Buser, a spokesman for the ABA, said the banking association is not accumulating data on which banks are filing updated reports.

Buser said the trade group took a "major policy position" not to be involved in any individual member's dealing with federal enforcement agencies after a flap over news reports that the association had inquired about immunity for several banks interested in coming forward voluntarily with amended reports.

ABA officials denied the association sought immunity on behalf of any bank, but did seek guidance from a Treasury official on the procedure for reporting past omissions.

Buser said the ABA decided it "should act as a messenger" to make sure its members understand reporting requirements and, to that end, has "urged all members to look at their systems."

He would not speculate on how many banks might eventually report past violations, but said those that have come forward recently have done so "in the spirit of saying, 'We want to comply with the law, we think we are, we thought we were.'"

Treasury officials have said no decisions have been made on how to deal with the banks that have filed updated reports.

John M. Walker, the assistant Treasury secretary in charge of enforcement and operations, made clear in earlier testimony to Congress that there would be no blanket immunity just because a bank came forward voluntarily to report previous violations. He said each would be handled on a case-by-case basis.

Opening lead: Two of ♥.

Returning partner's lead is not one of the Ten Commandments. More often than not it is right, even if only for reasons of partnership trust. But once in a while the evidence will tell you that it is futile, and you should look for greener pastures.

North's one diamond response followed by a two club preference tends to show a better than minimum responding hand. With a minimum, North would probably raise clubs immediately. Since South was only a point short of a one no trump opening bid, he felt he was worth one effort, and North went on to game on the strength of his strong six-card diamond suit.

West did not like the idea of leading from either of his black suits into the opening bidder, so he hit on a low heart. Declarer played low from dummy and captured East's queen with the ace. A diamond to the king was ducked and East won the next diamond with the jack.

It was obvious to East that declarer had to have the ten of hearts—if he lacked that card, his correct play to the first trick would have been the table's jack as the only way to win two tricks in the suit. Therefore, a heart return would enable declarer to get the diamonds going before the defenders had set up their fifth trick. So East shifted to a spade.

Declarer tried the finesse of the queen. West won and reverted to hearts. East took the king and cleared the suit. Now when East won the ace of diamonds, the defenders could take a heart for the setting trick.
