Male Nurses Indicted In Infant's Death

By CAROL TYER and STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writers
Two men have been indicted by the Pitt County Grand Jury for murder of an infant in the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit of Pitt County Memorial Hospital.
The Grand Jury returned true bills early this afternoon alleging that Michael Edward Grant, 31, and Robert Andrew Jonas, 36, manually compressed the chest of Darlene Clara Peszko and caused her death.

The child of Steven H. Peszko and Wendy G. Peszko, she had been born at Pitt Memorial at 10:56 p.m. on July 23, 1983. The death apparently occurred on July 24 about six hours after the infant's birth.

The infant was reportedly an anencephalic child, born with the upper portion of her brain missing. This condition is reported to always result in natural death.
Jonas, then a registered nurse in the Neonatal Unit, is reportedly now employed by Moses Cone Hospital in Greensboro. Grant, a delivery room technician, now a registered nurse, is suspended from his job at PCMH, according to Jack Richardson, hospital president.

District Attorney Tom Haigwood said warrants for the two would be issued today.

Haigwood said it was his understanding that the death was originally considered a natural one. He said he called for an investigation by the State Bureau of Investigation after James Cheatham, a PCMH attorney, and Dr. Ed Monroe, senior associate dean of the East Carolina University School of Medicine, provided him on Feb. 20, 1985, with information which he believed warranted the investigation.

The parents of the child lived in Greenville at the time of her birth, but have since moved to Georgia.

Shuttle Off For Week Of Research In Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space shuttle Challenger, carrying seven astronauts, two squirrel monkeys and 24 rats, blasted off today only 10 days after the end of the last shuttle mission for a week of round-the-clock research in a billion-dollar Spacelab.

The most extensive space research project ever undertaken began at 12:02 p.m. EDT as the space plane thundered to life and darted quickly out over the Atlantic Ocean on twin towers of fire and a big trail of smoke. Skies were cloudless and the 106-ton ship was clearly visible as it climbed on a northeast heading.

The launch team early today completed filling the shuttle's fuel tanks with half a million gallons of liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen, and at 9:30 a.m. the astronauts began boarding their spaceship.

The launching is the second scheduled here in just 17 days, the shortest interval between flights in the shuttle program, cutting in half the old mark of 34 days. Sister ship Discovery was launched on April 12 and returned to Earth just 10 days ago.

During a week in orbit, the crew, which includes two physicians, two physicists and a chemical engineer, will test new processes for growing electronic crystals and processing exotic materials and they will probe the sun, the stars, the atmosphere and their own bodies.

The astronauts are split into teams — Gold and Silver — and they will work in two 12-hour shifts in Spacelab, which was built by the

Gunmen Escape With 'Millions'

NEW YORK (AP) — Four armed men broke through a wall and overpowered employees at a Wells Fargo terminal early today, then fled in an armored truck with millions of dollars in cash, police said.

First reports estimated the haul at $25 million to $50 million, but Chief of Detectives Richard Nicastro said later "it's nowhere near that."

"Nobody really knows how much was taken," said Lazaro Rodriguez of Wells Fargo, adding the money was still being tallied.

FBI spokesman Joseph Valiquette said no total for the robbery was expected until late in the day, "but certainly we're talking in the multimillions."

The previous record for a cash robbery in the United States is $11 million, also from an armored car company.

The four men, armed with handguns, stole the truck from the company's garage in lower Manhattan at about 1:30 a.m., said police spokesman Sgt. Ed LeSchack.

"It's the largest robbery that I've ever heard of," LeSchack said.
The thieves ordered four employees at gunpoint to open a vault where the money was held, then handcuffed the men to a hand truck and loaded the cash onto the van, according to Chief Robert Johnston, chief of operations for the Police Department.

The employees "were told they

Violinist Joanne Bath Gets First Cultural Arts Award

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Nearly 20 years have passed since musician Joanne McMath Bath came to Greenville in 1966 with her husband, Charles Bath. In addition to her family, she brought with her an affection for her favorite musical instrument, the violin.

On Saturday night, at the home of East Carolina University Chancellor and Mrs. John Howell, Mrs. Bath was presented the first Pitt-Greenville Outstanding Cultural Arts Educator Award for exceptional service to the community as an educator in the field of cultural arts.

Plans are to give this award each year in the future to an outstanding cultural arts educator.

Mamie Dixon, chairperson of the fifth annual Eastern Carolina Arts Festival, presented the award as a highlight event culminating the week-long arts festival that began April 21.

Five persons served on the selection committee to consider nominees for the award. Nelson Crisp is the committee chairperson. Other members are Reid Hooper, Dr. Richard C. Todd, Charles Ross and Dr. Eddie West.

A native of Portland, Ore., Mrs. Bath remembers that when she first came to Greenville, from what she

Americans Evenly Divided On Teacher Striking Pupils

By LAWRENCE KILMAN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly half of adult Americans were struck by teachers when they were in school, but their children are apparently being spanked much less frequently, a Media General-Associated Press poll indicates.

The nationwide survey of 1,532 adults also found that Americans were evenly divided on whether teachers should be allowed to hit students, and it found that people who had been struck by teachers were more likely to support corporal punishment than those who had not.

Seven in 10 blacks reported that teachers had hit them, compared with slightly less than half of the whites. Black children today are also being hit more often than whites, according to the responses. Teachers were also more likely to hit boys than girls, the poll indicated.

Overall, 49 percent of the respondents said teachers should be allowed to strike students, while 46 percent said teachers should be restrained. The 49 percent who supported corporal punishment fell into two groups: 19 percent said teachers should be free to strike students whenever they decide it is justified, while 30 percent said the practice should be allowed only in certain circumstances.

The most frequently cited circumstances were "if a student repeatedly threatened a teacher" and "if a student repeatedly struck another student."

Forty-eight percent of the respondents reported being struck by a teacher or school administrator when they were in school. But only 15 percent said their children had been hit by teachers. Fifty-four percent said their children had not been struck, and 27 percent had no children in school. Four percent weren't sure if their children had been hit or not.

When broken down by race, the responses indicated 21 percent of the blacks' children had been hit by teachers, while only 14 percent of the whites' children had been hit.

Six out of 10 adults who had been hit by teachers when they were children supported corporal punishment, while only four out of 10 of those who were not hit supported it.

Public schoolteachers are not allowed to hit students in Hawaii, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Vermont, and New York will join the list Sept. 1. Many cities have also banned the practice.

caterpillars such as that along Islands Road.

Another spokesman, Jim Kea, area forestry extension agent, said the worms pose no health problems. "It's just a fuzzy nuisance. They shouldn't last too much longer." He predicted most would be gone in a week because of their short life cycle. They will soon begin spinning their cocoons.

"There are two things people can do," Kea commented. "They can ignore them and suffer — they will soon be gone — or they can try and control them by means of pesticide."

A number of residents who have been subjected to the fuzzy crawlers readily gave their viewpoints on how the worms are affecting them. "The worms are troubling me so much that I am having trouble sleeping at night," said Joseph Smith. "They seem to appear from nowhere. I saw five or six when I was cutting grass. By the next morning there were 25 to 30, and when I got back from work,

PROTECTING PRIMARY TEETH

You may not be overconcerned about your child's primary teeth because these "baby teeth" will eventually be replaced by permanent teeth. But you should be. The health and care of your child's teeth will have a direct effect on the condition of his permanent teeth when they're ready to make their appearance.

For example, any decay can be hazardous. Left untreated, the affected tooth may break or be lost before its time. This may cause the permanent teeth to become crowded or crooked. Decayed or lost primary teeth may also cause speech difficulties and affect the child's personality and his appetite. He may find cold, hot, or hard foods difficult to eat. Decayed and infected teeth can also cause other health problems when left untreated.

It's never too early for you to have your child's teeth examined by your dentist. In fact, the earlier the better so any existing problems can be treated and his dental health protected.

Couple Marries On Sunday In Double Ring Ceremony

The marriage of Peggy Louise Strickland and Donnie Gene Smith took place Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Friendship Free Will Baptist Church in Farmville. The candlelight, double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Walter Reynolds, minister of the bride.

A program of wedding music was provided by Mr. and Mrs. John Forlines of Greenville, who sang "Wedding Song," "Two Candles" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Serving as maid of honor was Tammy Strickland of Greenville, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Jackie Strickland, sister of the bride, and Vicky Yakim, sister of the bridegroom, both of Greenville, Brenda Sutton of Bell Arthur, cousin of the bride, Sandy Brann and Michelle Miller, both of Farmville, and Iris Wilkes of Rocky Mount. Honorary bridesmaid was Karen Adams of Greenville. Kathy Rouse of Greenville, cousin of the bride, attended the register.

The flower girl was Leanne Cherry of Greenville. Attending to rice bags was JoEllen Vernon of Greenville.

Serving as best man was Robert Tripp of Vanceboro, uncle of the bridegroom. Ushers were Ronnie Strickland of Greenville, brother of the bride, Brian Smith of Ayden, brother of the bridegroom, Andy Yakim of Greenville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Bentley Rouse and George Bateman, both of Greenville, and Phillip Stallings of Vanceboro. Ring bearer was Jeffrey Sarvey of Greenville.

Gladys Oakley of Farmville directed the wedding.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Earl Strickland of Greenville, was given in marriage by her parents. She wore a full length gown of organza and alencon and Venise lace designed with a lace covered bodice, see-through neckline, ring lace collar, puffed organza sleeves with flounced lace border. A full A-line skirt was designed with center lace ruffle and multiple rows of alencon lace which flowed into a chapel length train. Her veil was a lace covered Juliet capulet accented with scattered seed pearls and sequins attached to double tiers of lace bordered fingertip nylon illusion. She carried a bouquet of pink silk sweetheart roses with ivy and pink and white streamers.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Zeb B. Smith of Ayden.

Each of the attendants wore a formal gown of rosette taffeta with net overlay and ruffles from the waist. They wore baby's breath in their hair and carried nosegays of mums and daisies. Honorary bridesmaid wore a blue gown of polyester and cotton voile and carried a pink silk rose.

The mother of the bride wore an aqua magic knit gown styled with a V-neckline. The mother of the bridegroom selected a formal gown of suede rose with a chiffon bodice. Each wore a cmybidium orchid and carried a long-stemmed red rose.

MRS. SMITH

The bride is a graduate of Farmville Central High School and attended Pitt Community College. She is employed by Greenville Eye Clinic. The bridegroom graduated from Rose High School, Pitt Community College and Cape Fear Institute Technical. He is employed by Bevo Inc. of Greenville.

After a wedding trip to Breckinridge, Utah, and California, the couple will live near Greenville.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church and was given by the parents of the bride. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Sutton of Greenville, aunt and uncle of the bride.

Assisting in serving were Peggy Brann, Pam Keel, Kim Smith and Nancy Phelps. Lorie Branch served cake and punch was poured by Becky Wood.

A bridal breakfast was given for the couple and their parents at Shoney's Restaurant Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Sutton, aunt and uncle of the bride, Kathy Rouse and Brenda Sutton, cousins of the bride. The bridal party was honored at a rehearsal buffet dinner Saturday at the Sheraton Greenville given by the mother of the bridegroom and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grohman, sister and brother-in-law of the bridegroom of Novato, Calif.

Several showers and a dinner were held for the couple prior to their wedding.

Braswell-Ward Wedding Vows Performed Sunday Afternoon

The wedding ceremony of Vera Theresa Ward and Frederick Kyle Braswell took place Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. Performing the double ring ceremony in the First Presbyterian Church was the Rev. Gerald Anders.

Parents of the couple are Virginia G. Ward and Charles Joseph Ward of Jacksonville and Mrs. William Frederick Braswell of Ayden and the late Mr. Braswell.

E. Robert Irwin was organist and Susan Boykin was soloist.

Mrs. Bill Norris was the honor attendant and Bill Norris was best man. Both are from Ayden. Ushers included Rick Merrill of Raleigh and Jim Reid of Southern Pines.

The bride wore an ivory tea length gown of point d'espirit and crochet lace over satin. The fitted bodice featured a beau lace scalloped neckline, short lace sleeves and natural waist. A satin cummerbund encircled the waist and accented the back with a bow. The gown had a scalloped lace hemline. She wore an ivory satin low crown bridal hat encircled with encrusted rows of seed pearls accented with ivory bridal satin pouf and streamers. The bride carried a colonial nosegay of silk beige rosebuds, baby blue forget-me-nots, beige baby's breath accented with beige lace and streamers.

The honor attendant wore a tea length pink chiffon over taffeta dress fashioned with a fitted bodice with a draped V-neckline and tucked short sleeves accented with gathered shoulders. A chiffon rosette accented the waist of the gown. The gown skirt was gathered and flared. She carried a colonial nosegay of pink silk miniature carnations, white daisies, baby's breath with lace trim.

A reception followed the ceremony and was held at the church.

The couple will live in Greenville after a wedding trip to Louisville, Ky., to the Kentucky Derby.

The bride and bridegroom are graduates of East Carolina University. She teaches at D.H. Conley High School and he is a branch manager for Branch Banking and Trust in Greenville.

Victoria Helena Holanek Marries W.H. Williams III

Victoria Helena Holanek and William Howard Williams III were married Sunday at 3 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church in Hertford by the Rev. Henry Bizzell.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Holanek of Casablanca, Morocco, are parents of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. William Howard Williams III of Hertford are parents of the bridegroom.

The organist for the double ring ceremony was Rick Prouto and Caroline Wright was vocalist. Both are from Hertford.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Ronald M. Holanek of Raleigh, wore a white bridal satin gown fashioned with appliques of alencon lace. The gown had a Victorian collar and train. She wore a fingertip crown veil and carried a cascade of pink and white roses with baby's breath.

Michelle Ann Owen of Elizabethtown, sister of the bride, was honor attendant. She wore a long pink satin dress styled off-shoulder and carried a nosegay of pink and white roses.

Holly Winslow of Hertford, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl and wore a long pink satin dress with a Victorian collar. She carried a nosegay of pink and white roses.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers included Lloyd Evans Jr. of Wilmington, Kelly Copeland, Caryle Sawyer Jr., Mark Winslow, Clifford Prichard Towe Jr. and Gary Winslow, all of Hertford.

Friends of the bridal couple entertained at a reception in the church social hall.

MRS. WILLIAMS

The couple will live in Hertford after a wedding trip to New York.

The bride and bridegroom are graduates of East Carolina University. He is Perquiman's County Parks and Recreation director.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren
1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I got a good laugh from the letter about the family who had their ex-son-in-law airbrushed out of a family portrait. I found it particularly funny because I am a photo retouch artist who has given many people "the brush." I remove not only wrinkles and zits, but entire people. I once turned a handsomely tuxedoed groom into some grass and shrubbery—leaving his bride visible.

On another occasion I removed two ex-husbands from a family wedding portrait. The parents of these divorced daughters became annoyed every time they looked at the picture, so they hired me to remove the offending parties.

My talent for making people "disappear" in photographs comes in handy. When I want to keep my husband in line, I just tell him if he doesn't behave, I will turn him into a tree!

KIM COUSINEAU, BUFFALO

DEAR KIM: I'm reminded of some unsolicited advice I heard many years ago from a political figure who never missed an opportunity to get his picture in the newspaper. "Honey," he said, "when you're posing with three or more people, never stand on the end; they might cut you off."

HERITAGE QUILT — Some students at Farmville's Bundy Primary School pose before a quilt they made to illustrate elements of North Carolina's heritage. A member of each of the 20 classes in the school crayed one of the squares and teachers assembled the quilt which will be a permanent wall hanging in a main hall of the school. The students participated last week in four days of heritage activities, including demonstrations by community volunteers of various old-fashioned skills, chalking by the students of North Carolina symbols on the sidewalks around to the school, trivia quizzes, visits to a "museum" set up at the school and other activities coordinated by school librarian Faye Dozier. Above, left to right, are Patrick Pitt, Sarah Lewis, Michael Hall and Mary Lane Brown. (Photo By Barry Gaskins)

North Carolina will hold the dinner at the Radisson Plaza Hotel. A reception will begin at 7 p.m.; the dinner at 8 p.m. Reservations may be made through the MHA-NC office in Raleigh, 828-8145.

Rep. Walter B. Jones Sr., D-N.C., is an honorary committee member for the event.

Among Top 50

Mary Ellen Lyons and Ray Luis of D.H. Conley High School have been recognized as students among the top 50 of more than 1.1 million participants in the 1986 National Merit Program.

The scores of these two will be identified by the Merit Program to two colleges of the students' choice.

Will Attend Schools

Two D.H. Conley students have been selected to attend Girl's/Boys State, school officials have announced.

Mary Ellen Lyons will attend Girl's State at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and Carl Dunn will attend Boy's State at Wake Forest University.

Girl's/Boy's State is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Heritage Week

Ayden-Grifton High School celebrated North Carolina Heritage Week with demonstrations of crafts and special visitors.

Betsy Reid, art teacher at the school, demonstrated throwing pottery on a potter's wheel. S.D. Mitchell, the school's music teacher, along with three students, presented a program of Barbershop Quartet music titled "Music of Yesteryear." In addition, Mrs. Glennie Oglesby of Grifton demonstrated stenciling and Mrs. Judy Thorne demonstrated spinning. Owen Kingsbury of East Carolina University illustrated the art of glassblowing.

Clerks Week

Municipal Clerks' Week will be held across North Carolina May 12-18.

In conjunction with the celebration, the Greenville municipal clerk's office at City Hall will be open to visitors who would like to drop by and talk with Lois Worthington and members of her staff. Mrs. Worthington is the city's municipal clerk.

Heritage Week

Students at G.R. Whitfield School celebrated North Carolina Heritage Week by dressing in costumes of the 1800s and early 1900s.

Another highlight of the week was a program by Mark Mathis, an archeologist with the North Carolina Department of Human Resources. In addition, a North Carolina lunch was served for parents and students during the week.

Pactolus Activities

"Bloom Where You Are Planted" was the theme for Pactolus Elementary's celebration of North Carolina Heritage Week.

Activities included daily information on the intercom about native plants and flowers, a slide presentation by Mr. and Mrs. Herchel Williams on the flowers of eastern North Carolina and a guitar program by Millie Tripp. Students also viewed a video cassette titled "North Carolina, Land of Splendor" narrated by Charles Kuralt.

In addition, students dressed in old-fashioned clothes one day and bag lunches were prepared by the cafeteria for a picnic. Each grade planted a dogwood tree, North Carolina's state tree, during the picnic. The week concluded with a folk dance program in the gym.

Robinson Celebration

W.H. Robinson School celebrated North Carolina Heritage Week and National Library Week with a variety of activities, including reading, classroom visitors and special bulletin boards.

Emphasis was placed on reading Caldecott Medal Books during the week and discussions were held in the library on the books. Students were encouraged to read as many of the books as possible and a bulletin board of "Caldecott Medal Readers" was displayed in the hallway.

A picture display of "North Carolina — Past and Present" was placed in the school's hallway. Special guests for the week included Highway Patrolman Donnie Taylor and Chuck Davis from the American Dance Company.

Bicycle Safety

Highway Patrol Trooper Donnie Taylor presented a program on bicycle safety to students at G.R. Whitfield School recently.

The program included the films "I'm No Fool" and "The Day the Bicycle Disappeared."

Donation

Brownie Troop No. 453 of Greenville has donated $25 to the Ronald McDonald House. The donation was made during a meeting at which Kathy Brown of the Ronald McDonald House staff was the speaker.

You may not be overconcerned about your child's primary teeth because these "baby teeth" will eventually be replaced by permanent teeth. But you should be. The health and care of your child's teeth will have a direct effect on the condition of his permanent teeth when they're ready to make their appearance.
For example, any decay can be hazardous. Left untreated, the affected tooth may break or be lost before its time. This may cause the permanent teeth to become crowded or crooked. Decayed or lost primary teeth may also cause speech difficulties and affect the child's personality and his appetite. He may find cold, hot, or hard foods difficult to eat. Decayed and infected teeth can also cause other health problems when left untreated.
It's never too early for you to have your child's teeth examined by your dentist. In fact, the earlier the better so any existing problems can be treated and his dental health protected.

Couple Marries On Sunday In Double Ring Ceremony

The marriage of Peggy Louise Strickland and Donnie Gene Smith took place Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Friendship Free Will Baptist Church in Farmville. The candlelight, double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Walter Reynolds, minister of the bride.

A program of wedding music was provided by Mr. and Mrs. John Forlines of Greenville, who sang "Wedding Song," "Two Candles" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Serving as maid of honor was Tammy Strickland of Greenville, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Jackie Strickland, sister of the bride, and Vicky Yakim, sister of the bridegroom, both of Greenville, Brenda Sutton of Bell Arthur, cousin of the bride, Sandy Brann and Michelle Miller, both of Farmville, and Iris Wilkes of Rocky Mount. Honorary bridesmaid was Karen Adams of Greenville. Kathy Rouse of Greenville, cousin of the bride, attended the register.

The flower girl was Leanne Cherry of Greenville. Attending to rice bags was JoEllen Vernon of Greenville.

Serving as best man was Robert Tripp of Vanceboro, uncle of the bridegroom. Ushers were Ronnie Strickland of Greenville, brother of the bride, Brian Smith of Ayden, brother of the bridegroom, Andy Yakim of Greenville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Bentley Rouse and George Bateman, both of Greenville, and Phillip Stallings of Vanceboro. Ring bearer was Jeffrey Sarvey of Greenville.

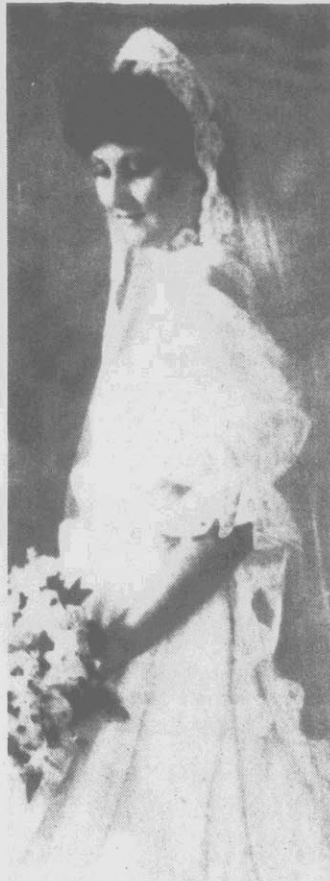

Gladys Oakley of Farmville directed the wedding.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Earl Strickland of Greenville, was given in marriage by her parents. She wore a full length gown of organza and alencon and Venise lace designed with a lace covered bodice, see-through neckline, ring lace collar, puffed organza sleeves with flounced lace border. A full A-line skirt was designed with center lace ruffle and multiple rows of alencon lace which flowed into a chapel length train. Her veil was a lace covered Juliet capulet accented with scattered seed pearls and sequins attached to double tiers of lace bordered fingertip nylon illusion. She carried a bouquet of pink silk sweetheart roses with ivy and pink and white streamers.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Zeb B. Smith of Ayden.

Each of the attendants wore a formal gown of rosette taffeta with net overlay and ruffles from the waist. They wore baby's breath in their hair and carried nosegays of mums and daisies. Honorary bridesmaid wore a blue gown of polyester and cotton voile and carried a pink silk rose.

The mother of the bride wore an aqua magic knit gown styled with a V-neckline. The mother of the bridegroom selected a formal gown of suede rose with a chiffon bodice. Each wore a cmybidium orchid and carried a long-stemmed red rose.

MRS. SMITH

The bride is a graduate of Farmville Central High School and attended Pitt Community College. She is employed by Greenville Eye Clinic. The bridegroom graduated from Rose High School, Pitt Community College and Cape Fear Institute Technical. He is employed by Bevo Inc. of Greenville.

After a wedding trip to Breckinridge, Utah, and California, the couple will live near Greenville.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church and was given by the parents of the bride. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Sutton of Greenville, aunt and uncle of the bride.

Assisting in serving were Peggy Brann, Pam Keel, Kim Smith and Nancy Phelps. Lorie Branch served cake and punch was poured by Becky Wood.

A bridal breakfast was given for the couple and their parents at Shoney's Restaurant Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Sutton, aunt and uncle of the bride, Kathy Rouse and Brenda Sutton, cousins of the bride. The bridal party was honored at a rehearsal buffet dinner Saturday at the Sheraton Greenville given by the mother of the bridegroom and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grohman, sister and brother-in-law of the bridegroom of Novato, Calif.

Several showers and a dinner were held for the couple prior to their wedding.

Braswell-Ward Wedding Vows Performed Sunday Afternoon

The wedding ceremony of Vera Theresa Ward and Frederick Kyle Braswell took place Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. Performing the double ring ceremony in the First Presbyterian Church was the Rev. Gerald Anders.

Parents of the couple are Virginia G. Ward and Charles Joseph Ward of Jacksonville and Mrs. William Frederick Braswell of Ayden and the late Mr. Braswell.

E. Robert Irwin was organist and Susan Boykin was soloist.

Mrs. Bill Norris was the honor attendant and Bill Norris was best man. Both are from Ayden. Ushers included Rick Merrill of Raleigh and Jim Reid of Southern Pines.

The bride wore an ivory tea length gown of point d'espirit and crochet lace over satin. The fitted bodice featured a beau lace scalloped neckline, short lace sleeves and natural waist. A satin cummerbund encircled the waist and accented the back with a bow. The gown had a scalloped lace hemline. She wore an ivory satin low crown bridal hat encircled with encrusted rows of seed pearls accented with ivory bridal satin pouf and streamers. The bride carried a colonial nosegay of silk beige rosebuds, baby blue forget-me-nots, beige baby's breath accented with beige lace and streamers.

The honor attendant wore a tea length pink chiffon over taffeta dress fashioned with a fitted bodice with a draped V-neckline and tucked short sleeves accented with gathered shoulders. A chiffon rosette accented the waist of the gown. The gown skirt was gathered and flared. She carried a colonial nosegay of pink silk miniature carnations, white daisies, baby's breath with lace trim.

A reception followed the ceremony and was held at the church.

The couple will live in Greenville after a wedding trip to Louisville, Ky., to the Kentucky Derby.

The bride and bridegroom are graduates of East Carolina University. She teaches at D.H. Conley High School and he is a branch manager for Branch Banking and Trust in Greenville.

Untold Story

Obviously one cannot fully grasp the extent of United States' law enforcement roles in Mexico. Information reaching the news media comes from varying sources: Mexican law enforcers, agencies, elected officials, diplomatic sources, newsmen and witnesses. We also get stories from similar U.S. sources, and from the Drug Enforcement Administration as well ... an agency which has, or had, a task force inside Mexico.

This last is a puzzler. It is clouded by secrecy which is part of its undercover work. We wonder at the far-flung assignments of DEA teams. Presumably they are welcomed by a number of Latin American countries; otherwise their presence would constitute an insulting infringement of national rights.

In Mexico the DEA lost its confidentiality status with the murder of a U.S. agent ... possibly by corrupted elements of an enforcement body. The Mexican investigation appears to have been augmented by another, a DEA probe.

You would have expected that to be grounds for the harshest kind of protest at the highest levels of government in Mexico City. No such thing. There has been friction, no doubt of that, but not at the "highest levels".

We suspect a great untold story is lurking under several layers of secrecy over the U.S. war on drugs and the Mexican government's war against corruptive influences as well as drugs. It sounds like a hand-in-hand arrangement. In our memory nothing like it has happened before.

Rumors

There has never been a more vicious and unfounded attack than that carried on against Procter & Gamble's moon and stars logo.

The rumor mill has from time to time linked the logo to Satanism. P&G carried on a campaign to refute the rumors enlisting the aid of Billy Graham, Jerry Falwell and the Roman Catholic archbishop of Chicago. It investigated the sources of the stories, which were properly labeled "outrageous, vicious lies" by a company spokesman. The company brought suits where it could. Still the Big Lie continued to crop up and thousands of letters and calls continued to come in.

Finally the company concluded it would be best to drop the logo from its products, although it will continue to be used on stationary and other ways.

It is disgusting that such a move by this respected company becomes necessary in today's United States. It is but another indication that mean spirited and downright evil people are still with us, hell bent on destroying others. Probably they always will be.

News Behind The Takeover

The move by Ted Turner to take over the CBS company has unleashed a series of other attempts by entrepreneurs to go after communications companies.

A week ago P.T. Raider, who owns an FM radio station in Zero Degrees, Wyo., announced he was declaring war on the multibillion-dollar Starfish Broadcasting Company.

At a press conference in New York, P.T. said he always desired to own a network, and he felt he could do a much better job than Starfish in serving the public.

Although he refused to say how he would manage the company, he did vow to fire the entire news staff and replace them with "American citizens who believe in God and Jesse Helms."

Asked how much cash he was willing to put up for Starfish stock, Raider said he was offering something better than money. "I will swap one share of Raider Communications stock for one share of Starfish Broadcasting."

When it was pointed out that Starfish was worth $3 billion dollars and the sole Raider property, FM station UYK, was only worth $1,200, P.T. said, "I might sweeten the pot by throwing in a dead cat with each junk bond."

Asked where he would get the money to pay for the dead cats, Raider said once he got control he would sell off the Starfish publishing company, the Starfish record division and the Starfish motion picture studios. "While all these companies

CAROLINA BEACH — I played hooky last Friday. Instead of walking the halls of the Legislative Building, I rode the fairways of a golf course that had more wind, water and sand than my woods and irons could command.

It was either a guilty conscience or the mind-consumption involved in covering the Legislature on a daily basis that drove me, as I played, to begin drawing comparisons between the legislative process and my golf game.

No matter how bad my last golf game, I always approach the first tee with optimism. I remember the groove I hit on the back nine the last time and figure it'll carry over today. It's just like last February when the session opened and I was optimistic that the Legislature would move quickly, pass some good bills and go home in time for me to take a summer vacation. I should have known better.

At the Legislature, you've got to look out for those "little bills that don't really do much." Maybe they're a page long and they change only one sentence in a law. Maybe that new sentence makes jaywalking a capital offense.

On the golf course, I look out for those "little holes" called Par 3s. They're the short ones for which you don't need a driver. You take a nice easy swing with an iron and the ball ends up in a pond, stream, sand trap, tropical rain forest or a bird's nest. I played the course's four par 3s in 24 strokes.

I play much better on the par 4 holes. In fact, I parred the very first hole. That's my warning that things are about to go sour. As my playing partner noted, "The wheels can fall off fast."

Just ask Rep. Joe Hackney, D-Orange, about the wheels falling off in the Legislature. It was everybody's guess that the Hardison Amendment would finally be repealed this year. The repeal bill roared out of committee, looking like a tee shot heading for the green. It hit a tree limb known as the House floor and died. Just like most of my tee shots.

As a bill moves through the Legislature, it can fall victim to all kinds of traps. It can be sent to a hostile committee, it can be amended to death, it can be tabled by the Democrats.

As my golf ball moves away from the tee, it is almost certain to fall victim to the traps. On the par 4 fourth hole, for example, I spent time in all four sand traps. On the fifth, I put my second shot in the lake.

That prompted my playing partner (a newspaperman who was also skipping work) to note that I had really wanted to play hooky at the beach and now I'd gotten my wish.

Probably the most frustrating element of the game is the good shot, like the good legislative bill, which disappears. On the 13th, I hit a great three-iron over the hill. We never found it. That's like that bill to throw lying politicians out of office. It's just disappeared, too.

We let a fast-moving threesome pass us on the seventh. One big hitter improved the lie of his ball in the fairway. That's something I see often in the legislature — politicians improving their lies.

So you've read the whole column and you think I've stretched the comparison and you think my editors have been cheated out of a day's work from me. Maybe you're right.

But as I stood on the 18th tee, feeling guilty that I'd missed the day's legislative action, I remembered those stories about absenteeism on Fridays.

I don't know how legislators justify being on the golf course on Friday, but if anybody asks me, I'm going to say I was looking for the Senate Natural Resources Committee.

Public Forum

To the editor:

Among the 2,000 graves at Bitberg Cemetery are 47 belonging to Waffen SS soldiers. The SS consisted of those soldiers who actually ran the concentration camps. They were also implicated in the massacre of 19,000 American soldiers during the Battle of the Bulge in Malmedy, Belgium, in December 1944. At the Nuremberg International Tribunal the SS was also found guilty of the wanton murder and torture of civilians in unoccupied territories and of the general practice of shooting unarmed prisoners of war. Honoring the graves of such criminals makes a mockery of the deaths of all their victims and pays homage to a fascist, totalitarian regime.

At a memorial service at the Bergen-Belsen concentration camp, West German Chancellor Kohl acknowledged Germany's historical responsibility for Nazi crimes against humanity saying, "nor shall we ever forget the atrocities committed under the Hitler regime, the mockery and destruction of all moral precepts, the systematic inhumanity of the Nazi dictatorship. A nation that forsakes its history forsakes itself."

The holocaust was an event unique in the magnitude of its horror. Its history speaks to all of us about the potential for evil and depravity which resides within humans to this day. Those few thousand people who survived the "final solution" have a special responsibility: to serve as witnesses to all of humankind so that future generations will be spared the horrors and tragedy of their experience. The rest of us must keep its history in our consciousness in order to prevent its recurrence.

As a Jew and the child of a Holocaust survivor, I am appalled and angered at President Reagan's plans to visit Bitberg. And as an American, I am ashamed.

Strength For Today

Many people have had their religious faith destroyed by discovering that some man or woman prominent in religious work was a hypocrite.

That a discovery of this sort is shocking, no one can deny, but why should it in any way affect one's faith in the religious gospel or turn one from the Christian way of life? The Christian gospel stands on its own two feet. The Christian way of life has been demonstrated by experience to be the bet- way in which men can walk. And all this is true though every professing Christian were a hypocrite.

We do ourselves great wrong when we fail to differentiate between persons and the truth they profess to follow. The fact that they are not following the truth does not mean that this truth is not sound. It means that certain people and their characters are not sound.

Finding The Right Track

WASHINGTON — You can admire President Reagan for his ability to sell a story. But some scripts are too incredible for even the Great Communicator. That's the lesson we're learning from watching the president attempt to win congressional funding for the contras.

The other night, at Communications Director Patrick Buchanan's request, the president delivered a speech at a $500-a-plate fund-raiser honoring refugees who'd fled post-revolutionary Nicaragua.

"I truly believe that to do nothing in Central America is to give the first communist stronghold on the North American continent a green light to spread its poison through this free and increasingly democratic hemisphere," the president told the black-tie crowd.

Yet, most members of the 700-plus audience had never set foot in Nicaragua. That fact was underscored when Reagan was introduced to 8-year-old Patricia Guerra, a supposed Nicaraguan refugee, who has lived in Arlington, Va., all her life.

Nor could Reagan simply place blame for Nicaragua's refugee exodus on the Sandinista's shoulders, as he did in his speech. In four years, he has approved the mining of Nicaragua's harbors, an aerial attack on Managua's airport and supersonic overflights that have broken windows in many Nicaraguan cities. He has also dispatched U.S. warships to waters off Nicaragua's coastline, drilled American GIs on its borders, and subsidized the contras in efforts to overthrow the Sandinistas.

Economic measures have comprised a more insidious side to the president's long-term effort to topple the Sandinistas. The United States has coerced international lending institutions that once freely loaned money to Nicaragua into closing the spigot. This policy of money diplomacy has paralyzed Nicaragua's economy and promoted vast shortages of goods.

Specifically, the Reagan administration has terminated all U.S. bilateral assistance to Nicaragua; reduced U.S. imports of Nicaraguan goods; blocked loans by international funding institutions such as the World Bank and the Inter-American Development Bank (IDB) and lobbied against investments by private U.S. corporations and banks in Nicaragua as well.

"These loans are critical to us," Joaquin Cuadra Chamorro, president of Nicaragua's Central Bank, told us in an interview, "because they support the scheme of development that our government has chosen to pursue."

On no less than 15 occasions, the Reagan administration has opposed assistance by international lending institutions to Nicaragua. For example, it stopped a $2.2 million IDB loan to complete Nicaragua's road system as well as a $500,000 make money, I will not saddle Starfish with more debt than it can handle."

A Wall Street Journal reporter asked Raider if it wasn't true that the only reason Starfish would be in such heavy debt was because of his hostile takeover bid.

P.T. told the reporter if he didn't retract the question Raider Communications would buy the Journal as well.

A year ago Raider would have been laughed at for trying pull off such a deal. But with the recent mergers in which takeover barons have been getting rich by highflying tactics, no one on Wall Street is laughing at anybody anymore.

An analyst for Strong & Hairy, the brokerage firm, said, "Raider has a good chance of taking over Starfish. The dead cat strategy has been used very successfully in a lot of merger deals this year. As long as there are people out there who would rather have a dead cat than a live company, P.T. is a threat."

Belton Lewish, who follows the entertainment business for Goose & Gander, though Starfish could fight off Raider. "But," he warned, "it won't be cheap. The big boys who invest for the institutions don't care what happens to Starfish as long as they make money out of it. If they can get in and out of the stock before the company goes belly up, they couldn't care if the Ayatollah Khomeini takes over the company."

Dalton Dunkirk, chairman of Starfish Broadcasting, told Louis Rukeyser on PBS that he didn't mind Raider's attempt to take over Starfish as much as he did having to put P.T. on his network news every night.

10-nation European Space Agency. The flight is the second for the well-equipped laboratory, which is 23 feet long and 13 feet in diameter. It is mounted in Challenger's cargo bay, where it remains throughout the flight. The spacemen enter the lab from the shuttle cabin through a connecting tunnel and work there in shirtsleeves.

Commanding the flight is Robert Overmyer, veteran of an earlier shuttle trip. The others are pilot Fred Gregory; Drs. William Thornton and Norman Thagard, both physicians; Don Lind and Taylor Wang, both physicists; and Lodewijk van den Berg, a chemical engineer.

Overmyer, Thornton, Lind and Wang comprise the Gold Team, Gregory, Thagard and van den Berg, the Silver.

Thornton and Thagard will perform medical experiments and will observe how the squirrel monkeys and rats behave in weightlessness. No experiments are planned on the animals because the doctors primarily want to see how they adapt to new cages designed for Spacelab.

The rats will be dissected and their internal organs examined within hours after Challenger returns to Earth. Animal experiments are planned on future missions.

The van was found empty and abandoned several hours later underneath the Brooklyn Bridge, a few miles away, LeSchack said.

Johnston said the four guards were surprised after they arrived at the garage at 1:20 a.m. In accordance with standard procedures, they made a search of the building, then went to open the vault.

At that point, the four men jumped them and ordered them to open it, Johnston said.

One of the captives was close enough to a pay phone to call police at 1:49 a.m., after the robbers left, said LeSchack.

Johnston there normally are no guards on duty at the terminal on Sunday night. The four thieves had been in the garage a total of about 20 to 30 minutes, he said, and had apparently been waiting for the employees to arrive.

The robbers got into the Wells Fargo area by breaking through a cinderblock wall on the second floor of an adjoining building, he said.

could determine, "at that time there was less than a dozen violinists. Now there are over 200."

It was in 1964, shortly before coming to Greenville, that Mrs. Bath first encountered the now world-famous method of teaching violin to children, the Suzuki Method which originated in Japan. She became one of the first teachers in America of the Suzuki method, and for the past 20 years has been successful in expanding interest in this program where children and parents work together as a child progresses in learning to play the violin.

"I'm now teaching 70 students ranging in age from 2 to 18," Mrs. Bath commented. "Eight of my students are teaching 40 more children. We have also added four more adult violin teachers and three adult Suzuki piano teachers."

As the years have passed, students from outside the Greenville area have joined the list of area Suzuki violin students — they now come from Kinston, Farmville, Wilmington, Tarboro and Winston-Salem.

In 1981, Mrs. Bath founded the Suzuki Violinists of Eastern North Carolina as a performing organization. This group has toured England twice, and has played extensively, including an appearance at the state Capitol in Raleigh. Last year, she and Robert Hause, conductor of the East Carolina University Symphony Orchestra, co-founded the North Carolina Suzuki Association, the only organization that sponsors a week-long Suzuki Institute in North Carolina. Teachers from the U.S. and England attended the institute.

A graduate of Denison University, Granville, Ohio, Mrs. Bath earned the masters in music from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. She has also studied in Fontainebleau, France, and with a number of noted violinists including Yehudi Menuhin and Elaine Richey. For the past three summers she has taught at the American Suzuki Institute at Stevens Point, Wis.

She and her husband, ECU faculty pianist Dr. Charles Bath, have appeared jointly in recitals and concerts, both in Greenville and in many other places.

Since her arrival in Greenville in 1966, she has been a consistent performer with the ECU Symphony, has played for 12 years in the ECU Summer Theater Orchestra, as well as performing in Sunday in the Park events, at civic clubs, festivals and in television performances.

A member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, she has taught Sunday School there and assisted in the church's music program.

The Baths are the parents of four children — Pamela, Patricia, Stephen and Andrea, all of whom are fond of music and who have, like their mother, garnered awards in music.

Throughout the years Mrs. Bath says her aims have always been the same: "Foremost among my goals is a desire to teach students the art of self-fulfillment. Through teaching parents and children to work together, this approach has helped young people to discover special abilities they may possess.

"There are many ways of approaching music," she adds, "much of it is a matter of taste. But what is important, and what I try to instill in my pupils is that music is a means of enriching our lives."

Israeli Troops Leave Last Big City Held In Lebanon

TYRE, Lebanon (AP) — Israel withdrew from the last major city it held in Lebanon today, a day after Lebanese Moslem and Druse warriors routed Christians from other areas evacuated by the Israelis.

Thousands of men, women and children danced in Tyre's dusty streets when International Red Cross officials confirmed the last Israeli soldier had gone. They showered each other with rice and rose petals. They hugged, kissed and wept.

"Life under the Israelis turned Tyre into a big jail," said one man, tears welling in his dark eyes. "It was a big prison. But now God it's over, it's over."

The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv confirmed the withdrawal from the port 50 miles south of Beirut and nearby Shiite villages that had been a center of attacks against the occupiers. On Sunday, the military command had denied reports a pullout was imminent.

As the Israelis left Tyre, they hurled smoke grenades from jeeps and armored vehicles. At the Qasmiyeh bridge north of the city, they fired tank cannons and machine guns, apparently to warn residents to stay away.

The pullback was the latest in a series designed to get Israeli forces out of Lebanon before June 6, the third anniversary of Israel's invasion of its northern neighbor.

Today's withdrawal left Israeli troops in a strip three to 12 miles wide stretching north of the Israeli-Lebanese border. This belt coincides with the expected dimensions of the "security zone" Israel wants to leave in the hands of Israeli-backed Lebanese militiamen.

Israel still occupies about 330 square miles of Lebanon, or about one-twelfth of the country. At the height of the 1982 invasion, one-third Lebanon was under Israeli occupation.

As Israeli convoys rumbled out of the city, Tyre residents hoisted the Lebanese flag and the banners of the Shiite Moslem Amal militia. Amal guerrillas threatened to hunt down Lebanese who had collaborated with the Israelis.

Israel said it invaded its northern neighbor to crush Palestinian guerrilla strongholds, but its forces in Lebanon have been increasingly harassed by Moslem guerrillas.

The sectarian warfare that has followed the phased Israeli pullout has heightened fears of a final partition of the country into Moslem and Christian zones, after a decade of bloodshed in which the government says 100,000 people have died.

Lebanese police said at least 65 people were killed and 75 wounded in Sunday's civil war fighting in the south, which had been widely predicted in the wake of Israel's withdrawal from the region.

In Beirut today, fighting resumed between the Moslem-Druse coalition and Christian militia units across the Green Line that divides the city into mostly Moslem and Christian sectors. The Moslems and Druse reportedly drove the Christians back 200 yards from the line on Sunday.

Moslems and Druse claimed they killed or wounded at least 20 Christian fighters in Beirut and witnesses said bodies were heaped on a sidewalk.

There were claims of massacres and abductions from both Moslems and Christians in the south, but there was no independent confirmation of the reports. Lebanese reporters in the battle area, however, said they saw at least 18 bodies dumped by the roadsides.

Moslem radios proclaimed the "liberation" of Christian-held territory. The Christian Voice of Lebanon radio reported thousands of Christians fleeing in trucks, buses and cars towards Jezzine, 15 miles east of Sidon.

Court Will Study N.C. House Lines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to consider reinstating the way 30 members of the North Carolina General Assembly were chosen up until last year.

The justices said they will review the ruling of a three-judge federal court in North Carolina that the invalidated system illegally diluted black voters' political clout.

The Reagan administration urged the high court to use the North Carolina dispute to limit the power of federal judges to insist on district lines that will assure "safe" seats for black candidates.

The apportionment plan created by the General Assembly in 1981 was quickly challenged by a group of black voters.

The three-judge court last year ruled that multimember state House districts in Mecklenburg, Forsyth, Durham, Wake, Wilson, Nash and Edgecombe counties — involving the election of 26 members — should be redrawn as single-member districts.

The lower court also ruled that a multimember district covering the elections of four state senators from Mecklenburg and Cabarrus also blunted black voting power in violation of the federal Voting Rights Act of 1965.

And it ordered the state legislators to redraw a single-member Senate district spanning nine counties in a way that would give black candidates a better chance of being elected.

The General Assembly since has redrawn the invalidated district lines, but state lawyers last June filed a Supreme Court appeal challenging the three-judge court's ruling.

Among other things, the appeal said the black voters' suit should have been precluded by the Justice Department's pre-clearance of the challenged district lines.

Asked by the court for its views on the issue, the Justice Department said it believes the three-judge court was right in invalidating the boundary lines for House District 8 and Senate District 2.

But government lawyers questioned whether the lower court was correct to find that racially polarized voting existed in the other districts involved.

Reagan Anguished But Firm On Trip To West Germany

By DAVID GOELLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, preparing for the first European trip of his second administration, is said by his top aide to be deeply troubled by the controversy caused by his planned visit to a German military cemetery.

"Anguish, I believe, is a good choice of words to describe his mental condition," White House Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan says, adding that the president is standing firm about going to the graveyard near Bitburg, West Germany next Sunday as part of his 10-day trip.

Reagan departs Tuesday evening. "He is wounded by this internally," Regan said. "In his heart, he will be hurt at what has been said about him and his insensitivity when he's a very sensitive person."

Appearing Sunday on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation," Regan said Reagan is simply "carrying out his word" to West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl to visit the cemetery as a way of demonstrating reconciliation 40 years after the end of World War II.

The cemetery contains the graves of 2,000 soldiers, including 49 members of the Nazi SS, the elite corps blamed for the attempted extermination of Jews and other minorities and massacres of other European civilians and Allied soldiers.

The New York Times said in its Sunday editions that some of the SS dead buried there were from the 2nd Waffen SS Panzer Division, which was held responsible for murdering 920 Soviet Jews in 1941 and the 1944 massacre of 642 civilians in Oradour-Sur-Glane, France.

The stop has drawn fire from Jewish leaders and U.S. veterans groups. Last Friday, 82 senators approved a resolution urging Reagan to reassess the cemetery visit. A day earlier, 257 House members wrote Kohl urging him to withdraw the invitation.

Regan said that because of the criticism, "the president has been quite upset, as he's been a staunch friend of Israel. ... The president feels that being a friend as he is to Jews everywhere — to have this now overshadow a state visit is distressing."

Regan said the president would spend "10 or 15 minutes" at the Bitburg cemetery. By contrast, he said, Reagan would spend "over an hour or even longer" at the Bergen-Belsen death camp — a stop added to his itinerary after controversy developed over the cemetery visit.

He said that West Germans "are overwhelmingly in favor of this and they want it to go on."

Regan's determination, meanwhile, has won support from former President Richard M. Nixon. The Washington Post reported.

Nixon, whose views were solicited by White House officials, last week privately urged Reagan not to back down because it would be a sign of weakness and undermine the president's standing with Western European countries, the Post reported in today's editions, quoting unidentified sources. Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger also supported the visit, the newspaper said.

The former president was quoted as urging Reagan to use his appearances at the cemetery and at the site of the Bergen-Belsen concentration camp to "frame the visit in his terms," and deliver a dramatic and emotional address.

Nixon also said a reversal of the plan would harm U.S. ability to negotiate with the Soviets and in the Middle East, the Post reported. It quoted Nixon as saying "the credibility of future negotiations is at stake."

RECEIVES SAFETY AWARD — Peg Rosett, right, of the N.C. Department of Human Resources regional office in Greenville, receives a safety award from N.C. Safety Council President Joe Gregory at the council's recent awards luncheon in Raleigh. The government agency received its award for its seat belt safety campaign. Before the campaign, about 16 percent of the Greenville employees were wearing seat belts when they came to work. Following the campaign, about 43 percent were buckling up.

Farm Scene

By PHILLIP ROWAN
Agricultural Extension Agent

Hot weather has come early this year in North Carolina. As with each summer, livestock producers need to take certain management practices to keep their livestock in the comfort zone during hot months.

Hot weather reduces swine performance resulting in significant economic loss to the pork producer. Hot weather does not usually result in swine death losses, but it can cause conception problems and reductions in feed intake that result in significant drops in production.

Larger swine begin to feel the effects of heat stress at about 70 degrees Fahrenheit. If temperatures remain over 85 degrees for more than a short period of time, losses in performance and in reproductive efficiency can result unless some means of cooling is provided. Swine dissipate heat by radiation, conduction, convection and evaporation.

There are a number of methods pork producers can use to cool their swine. The cooling method used must fit the type of facilities the producer has. The use of shades in pastures and outside lots is an effective way of keeping livestock cool. Means of cooling swine include ventilation cooling, water cooling, evaporative cooling, zone cooling and refrigerated air systems.

Ventilation systems require rapid air movement over the animal by fans. Ventilation rates for a sow and litter during hot weather are 500 cubic feet per minute in the southeast United States.

The most common water cooling system is the use of sprinklers. Sprinklers can be set up on thermostat-controlled timers that wet the animals and allow them to dry. Recent studies have shown that dripping water onto the necks and shoulders of sows in farrowing crates produced good results. Evaporative coolers use the heat of water vaporization to cool ventilation air. Incoming ventilation air is passed through a moist pad, where heat in the air evaporates moisture into the air. One approach to cooling confined swine is to zone cool the area around the animal's head. This system can be used to cool a sow in a farrowing crate, yet allow her pigs to remain at higher temperatures.

It looks like a long, hot summer could be ahead for eastern North Carolina. Livestock producers wanting more information on livestock cooling systems can call the Pitt County Extension Office at 752-2934.

Greenville's hazardous chemical squad was called in to shut off an ammonia leak at Carolina Dairies this weekend.

The leak, reported by a Carolina Dairies employee about 6:10 p.m. Saturday, was "not really that serious," Fire/Rescue Chief Jenness Allen said this morning.

The compressor leak was controlled in approximately 30 minutes. No residents had to be evacuated.

Building Value Rises

Greenville ranked eighth in the value of construction authorized during the month of January among the state's 44 largest cities, according to a N.C. Department of Labor report.

The report on building activity said construction in January in the state's largest cities gained 5.7 percent with an 18.1 percent jump in estimated value, when compared to January 1984. Multifamily dwelling units jumped 81.1 percent while non-residential construction increased 17 percent. But the report said single family homes dropped 24.2 percent and additions and alterations decreased 2.6 percent.

Raleigh led the reporting cities in value of construction authorized, with a total of $38.16 million, followed by Charlotte ($18.89 million), Wilmington ($13.18 million), Winston-Salem ($12.75 million), Greensboro ($12.37 million), Cary ($9.44 million), Durham ($8.66 million) and Greenville ($5.73 million). Jacksonville, Burlington and Hickory reported more than $4 million each.

The figures for Greenville included 10 single family units ($647,275), six multifamily units ($206,000), nine non-residential units ($4.42 million), and 28 additions and alterations ($462,383), for a total of 53 units valued at $5,739,317.

Total Pitt County figures for January included 53 single family units ($1.08 million), 28 multifamily units ($406,000), 13 non-residential ($4.5 million), and 36 additions and alterations ($561,482) for a total of 130 units valued at $6,552,280.

Mental Health Perspectives

MENTAL ILLNESS

BY: Marsha Mills, Communications Specialist

Mental illness, a disturbance of the mind, may interfere with normal behavior and make daily life difficult. When a member of the family is mentally ill, the whole family may be affected. Family members may experience feelings such as denial, guilt, fear, hostility, anger, financial strain and social pressure.

Usually a person becomes ill slowly, therefore it's often not easy to tell if someone is mentally ill. Some signs, however, to be aware of are poor work performance, paranoia, anxiety over imagined problems, hallucinations, tension-caused physical problems, prolonged depression, and sudden mood changes. As with many other illnesses, a single symptom or isolated event isn't necessarily a sign of mental illness. When a continuing pattern of unusual or extreme behavior develops consult your physician, psychologist or mental health professional. There are many sources of help available in your community. If someone in your family is mentally ill, accept the problem, be open and caring, learn the facts, and get professional help.

Rader Elected District Leader

MOREHEAD CITY — Some 300 Republicans attended the GOP's 1st Congressional District convention at the Crystal Coast civic center here Saturday, and elected Steven Rader of Washington as district chairman.

Rader replaces Patric Dorsey of New Bern, who was appointed by Gov. Jim Martin as secretary of cultural resources.

Two Pitt County residents, Harold Zallen and Andy Andrews, were among 15 people elected members of the state Republican Executive Committee at the convention. Joann Long of Beaufort County was elected vice-chairman.

Rape Arrest

Greenville police Friday arrested Bobby Ray Moore, 18, of 701B Bradley St. on second degree rape charges.

Detective K.P. Fuller said Moore, a Rose High School student, allegedly raped another 18-year-old Rose High student in an empty masonry classroom during school hours on April 22.

The incident was reported to police by school officials about 7:36 a.m. April 23, Fuller said.

Yesterday, frogs of all descriptions took part in the annual Jumping Frog Jamboree at Del Mar, California. An African frog set the record for three consecutive leaps, 33 feet, 5-1/2 inches, in 1977. But in 1975, a California frog made a single leap of 17 feet, 6-3/4 inches. Most American frogs jump less than three feet. Frogs, as well as toads, often given off a poison from their skins. The poison of a toad can sometimes make a dog unconscious.

France Leads Drive For Reforms To Protect Against U.S. Dollar

PARIS (AP) — Days before a Western economic summit, President Francois Mitterrand has announced France will refuse to discuss new international trade agreements without parallel talks on a new world monetary system.

Mitterrand's statement reflected widespread concern over the beating that European currencies have taken in recent months against the dollar, which has been buoyed by high U.S. interest rates.

"It is not possible for us to accept negotiations on commercial affairs if on the other hand there is a refusal to engage in conversations on currency," Mitterrand said in a live TV interview Sunday.

President Reagan departs Tuesday for the West German capital Bonn, where the summit will be held Friday and Saturday. Also participating are the leaders of Canada, Japan, West Germany, Britain and Italy.

The seven nations, the world's largest industrial democracies, are currently enjoying the third year of an economic upturn, but their concerns about the future, and their strategies, vary.

Mitterrand's statement was in line with general French economic strategy — a strategy generally opposed by Washington — but this was the first time he had publicly and explicitly linked trade and monetary talks.

On the world economic front, France is pressing for a radical revision in the way international currencies are valued against each other. The French essentially want to create three monetary zones — the dollar, the yen and the major West European currencies — with built-in mechanisms to prevent wide fluctuations between those zones.

That would replace the system of floating exchange rates.

The United States, as it made clear at a recent meeting of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development in Paris, is only willing to consider looking at some studies which would alter, but not dramatically change, the current exchange system.

Instead, Washington has indicated it will press its partners at the Bonn summit for a specific date early next year to expand and modify the current General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), a series of guidelines for world trade.

The Americans want to roll back current protectionist measures, postpone others now planned and bring trade in high technology under the GATT guidelines.

The French, who see themselves as the champions of the developing nations in these matters, say the developed world should first abandon protectionist measures against Third World exports if it is serious about dismantling barriers to free trade.

They also say that the current, volatile international monetary system hurts the world's poorest nations the most, adding to their massive debt burdens and preventing any attempts at long-range economic planning.

The complexity of the issues assures that a mere two days of talks among the seven leaders will produce no solutions, but it will be another step on the way toward agreement among the heads of state that the economic problems facing each separate country are a shared problem of all the countries.

Japanese Trading Gains Likely Topic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thunderclouds of resentment toward Japan's savvy exploitation of the international trading system will be hanging over the seven-nation economic summit that convenes in Bonn, West Germany, this week.

Just as Arab countries absorbed money from an oil-starved world in the 1970s, Japan is ringing up huge trade surpluses by flooding the world with exports while maintaining bureaucratic and cultural barriers to Westerners trying to do business there.

The situation will be a major topic for the leaders of the United States, Japan, West Germany, France, Britain, Italy and Canada at their annual meeting beginning Thursday.

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs estimates that the combination of Japan's trade and current accounts surplus is still expanding and this year may match or exceed the biggest-ever surplus set for a single country — Saudi Arabia's $41.4 billion current account surplus of 1980.

In addition to staggering surpluses, Japan enjoys a robust economy that is expected to grow 4 percent this year. Last year, inflation in Japan was 2.2 percent and the unemployment rate also was 2.2 percent.

Other nations say that prosperity is the result of unfair practices. The Japanese reply that such charges are untrue and that they are making a series of concessions to shrink the imbalance.

In advance of the summit, Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone has tried to quell some of the criticism — especially from the U.S. Congress — by announcing a series of measures aimed at opening Japanese markets to foreign goods and urging the Japanese public and business to buy foreign products.

"It's a long-standing Japanese pattern to bring presents with them," said Robert Putnam, a Harvard University government professor. "And the Japanese heads of government ... always bring little presents with them in the form of trade concessions."

But there have been complaints that the Japanese still have not gone far enough.

"I think Mr. Nakasone will come in being a little more nervous than any other leader at the summit mainly because of the intense period of Japan bashing that has gone on in the U.S. Congress over the past three months," said George R. Packard, dean of the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies.

The House and Senate have each overwhelmingly passed non-binding resolutions calling on President Reagan to impose sanctions against Japan. Binding versions of the legislation are pending.

ANSWERS TO WEEKLY BRIDGE QUIZ

Q.1—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦K952 ♥QJ1093 ♦Q73 ♠5
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ Pass
2 ♣ Dble Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Partner's double is not for takeout—it is for penalties. Had he wanted to hear from you, he would have doubled one club! With your overall values, you should be more than happy to accept his decision. Pass.

Q.2—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦AQ ♥KQJ63 ♦A987 ♠65
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ 2 ♣ 2 NT Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Since your hand is slightly unbalanced, you should try to play at a suit contract, if possible. Partner could easily have three hearts for his bid, in which case four hearts might be a better contract. Bid three diamonds to tell partner you are two-suited. If he rebids three hearts, however, your next bid should be three no trump to describe a 2-5-4-2 distribution. He should now know where to place the contract.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦6 ♥AK1052 ♦KJ8 ♠KQ53
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ Pass 1 NT Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—You have a very good hand, but not enough to insist on game. Therefore, you cannot jump shift. Again, it is your duty to tell partner that you have a distributional hand. Bid two clubs—unless partner can act again voluntarily, you won't have sufficient values for game.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦Q853 ♥K72 ♠AKJ763
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♣ ?
What do you bid now?
A.—With the ace of hearts confirmed in partner's hand by his cuebid, it is simply a matter of whether to bid six spades or seven. Blackwood won't help—you need the Grand Slam Force. Bid five no trump. That asks partner to bid a grand slam if he holds two of the top three trump honors, or settle for a small slam with only one. If he has none, he should not have made a jump shift in that suit.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦A5 ♥AKQJ73 ♦1092 ♠K5
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♣ ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Partner did not have enough to bid freely after the overcall, but that doesn't mean that he is completely broke. A few strategically placed cards in his hand could give you play for game. However, we do feel that nine tricks will be easier to make than ten, so we suggest you make your intentions known to partner by bidding two no trump now.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦QJ3 ♥984 ♦A85 ♠K1092
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♦ Pass
1 NT Pass Pass Dble ?
What action do you take?
A.—You could not possibly have more for your response, and partner should be told of that. The way to do so is to redouble. East was hoping that his partner held your hand—now you must make him pay for his temerity in reopening the bidding.

Haiwood said. Commenting on the indictments this morning, hospital President Jack Richardson said, "As soon as we were made aware of the situation we turned it over to (the) SBI and to the district attorney's office for investigation. Since that time we have fully cooperated with them to be sure all the facts were made available to them that we had access to."

The hospital's administration, nursing staff and medical staff "cooperated fully," he added. Richardson said that Grant, who was an operating room nurse at the time the incident came to light, was "terminated" on March 26, 1985.

Jonas, Richardson said, "did not work here" when hospital officials were made aware of the case. He "left previous" to the discovery of the incident.

Alcohol Abuse

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — Actor Jason Robards, a recovering alcoholic, says television could be a "tremendously effective weapon" against alcohol abuse but instead glamorizes it on prime time.

Robards, writing in the May 4 issue of TV Guide, said he's never watched a complete episode of "Dynasty," adding, "I've noticed, just before I switch channels, how frequently sex and drinking are mixed together in that show."

13 Attend Rescue College From Pitt

Thirteen Pitt County residents were among 285 people attending the second session of the 24th annual North Carolina Rescue College, sponsored by the N.C. Department of Insurance's Fire and Rescue Service Division, at the Durham Public Safety Training Academy Saturday and Sunday.

The annual school, attended by a total of 693 students during the two weekend sessions this year, was started in Greenville in 1961 by the Department of Insurance and the Greenville Rescue Squad, and is one of the few schools of its type in the United States.

Twenty one Pitt residents, representing Ayden, Farmville, Bethel and Eastern Pines rescue units, attended the first session of the rescue college April 20 and 21.

Those enrolled in classes over the past weekend included: Eastern Pines Rescue Squad members Woodie Wilson, Marilyn Leonard, Stephanie Deal and Brent Stocks; Ayden Rescue Squad members John Taylor, Penny Skinner, Rozanne

Why burial insurance through Pilot-Wilkerson is better than insurance buried in other policies.

S.G. Wilkerson & Sons offers insurance programs to families in our area through its association with Pilot-Wilkerson Mutual Burial Association and United Family Life Insurance Company.

Burial insurance purchased through our funeral home offers advantages over insurance structured into some other life programs. First, it can be made to completely cover specific needs, arranged beforehand. Secondly, it is designed to cover the costs of burial, and does not prey on the funds generated by other insurance policies. And third, because it can be bought in conjunction with your consultation with professional funeral directors it is therefore more likely to cover all your needs. In other words — no surprises.

Call us to arrange a consultation with any of our three staff insurance professionals to learn more about Pilot-Wilkerson and United Family Life Insurance.

Billy's Back, Yogi Out At 'Bronx Zoo'

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Billy Martin is back. Yogi Berra is gone. The Bronx Zoo is back in business. "I'm very happy. I never did leave the Yankees," Martin said Sunday night, hours after he was named the New York Yankees manager for the fourth different time in his career. Yankees principal owner George Steinbrenner fired Berra after the team lost 4-3 Sunday in Chicago to the White Sox. During spring training, Steinbrenner promised that Berra's job would be intact in 1985. "Yogi will be the manager this year. A bad start will not affect Yogi's status," Steinbrenner said. That all changed Sunday — after just 16 games. The loss was the team's third straight and 10th of season. "The action was taken by the Yankees and we felt it was in the best interests of the club," Steinbrenner said in a statement. Ironically, Martin was in Arlington, where the Yankees open a three-game series against the Rangers tonight, when Steinbrenner telephoned Sunday afternoon. "He called me and said he wanted me to take over the club, and here I am," Martin said. "I never had any hard feelings with George. I have no problems with George." Martin, who twice was fired by Steinbrenner and once resigned under heavy pressure from the owner, was working as a consultant and scout for the Yankees since being replaced by Berra after the 1983 season. That job, though, did not offer the excitement that Martin coveted. "Anybody who tells you retirement is a lot of fun, they're crazy," Martin said Sunday night. "How many times can you water the garden? And I'm tired of playing golf." Berra said he did not know whether he would take another job with the team, if Steinbrenner presented one. "He hasn't asked me yet," Berra said. "Right now, I'm just going to go home and play golf." The Yankee players, whose bumpy flight to Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport symbolized an already bumpy season, were visibly upset when they arrived at their hotel.

"Back off! Back off!" several of them shouted at reporters and photographers who had gathered in the hotel. Phil Rizzuto, who played with both Martin and Berra with the Yankees and now is a broadcaster with the team, stopped for a minute. Asked whether the rough ride had affected the team, Rizzuto said: "No, they are all upset because Yogi was let go." Among the players who declined comment was veteran Don Baylor, considered one of the team's emotional leaders, who had once vowed he would not play again for Martin. Martin, who said he did not "feel any pressure at all" working again as Steinbrenner's manager, said one of his first tasks with the Yankees would be to get the players "in the proper frame of mind." The New York clubhouse was gloomy following Sunday's loss, which occurred when starting pitcher Joe Cawley walked home the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning. "Shame, shame, shame," said All-Star outfielder Rickey Henderson, who played under Martin with the Oakland A's before being traded to New York during the off-season. "Yogi showed he had a lot of confidence in me. He made me a better pitcher," Cawley said. "I'm going to miss him. Shame, isn't it?" Dale Berra, Yogi's son, met with his father behind closed doors after the dismissal was announced. The Yankees had traded with Pittsburgh for Dale, an infielder, before the season began, and the reunion of father and son had been a cause for happiness in the Yankee family. Early Sunday, it was announced that Dale had suffered a hairline finger fracture during Saturday's game. Then came the news that his father had been fired. Dale Berra emerged from the meeting with his father with tears in his eyes. "I don't want to say anything," he said. "That's just baseball. That's the way the game is today." "Yogi is my best friend," Martin said. "They showed their love for Yogi. If they had played harder, they would have been in first place and Yogi would have been here. "I have known Dale since he was a baby. I have been like an uncle to him. He's a professional, just like his dad." Clyde King, the Yankees general manager, said Steinbrenner called him during the seventh inning of Sunday's game and read the statement. "I didn't know where he was calling from and I didn't ask him," King said. "I don't think these three games had anything to do with it at all. George even said he hoped Yogi would go out with a winner." King added that Steinbrenner had said he "would rather fire 25 players than to fire Yogi, but we all know that would be impossible." Berra's firing was not a total surprise, even with Steinbrenner's pre-season guarantees. Rumors of Berra's dismissal first surfaced when the Yankees were shelled in Boston by the Red Sox in their first three games of the season. The rumors again aired early last week, when only a handful of players showed up for what was billed as an optional workout. Steinbrenner said he thought there was a lack of discipline on the team, and that the practice should have been mandatory. And the speculation intensified prior to Thursday night's game against Boston, after two more losses, when it was rumored that Berra would be fired if the club did not win. The Yankees beat Boston 5-1 Thursday night. "I had an inkling when you hear it every day," Berra said. Berra said he did not think the three losses in Chicago contributed to his dismissal. "This weekend? I don't think it had anything to do with it. What can you do when you lose three one-run games? This is a good ballclub. They'll get it together. They'll be all right. Did I have a chance? He [Steinbrenner] must have thought so." The firing marks the 12th managerial shift by Steinbrenner in his 11 years as principal owner. Berra, a Hall of Fame player, had previously been fired by the Yankees, before Steinbrenner's era, after losing the World Series to St. Louis in 1964. Martin had four years left on a five-year, $2 million contract when he was last fired by Steinbrenner. It marked the sixth time Martin had been fired as a major-league manager. In addition to his stints with the Yankees, Martin managed the Minnesota Twins, Texas Rangers, Oakland A's and Detroit Tigers.

Jazz Trims Rockets' Trees 104-97

By The Associated Press
The Utah Jazz came back from a two-tower deficit to eliminate the Houston Rockets. Utah lost 7-foot-4 defensive ace Mark Eaton shortly before halftime with a hyperextended knee Sunday, forcing the Jazz to go with 36-year-old Billy Paultz and veteran Rich Kelley against Houston's strong and youthful "Twin Towers," 7-4 Ralph Sampson and 7-0 Akeem Olujuwon. But with Thurl Bailey scoring 15 of his 20 points in the fourth period, the Jazz outscored the Rockets 37-21 in the final 12 minutes to win 104-97 in the fifth and deciding game of their National Basketball Association first-round playoff series. The Rockets had finished the regular season seven games ahead of the Jazz in the standings. "I thought we'd already won when we went up 10 points and the big guy (Eaton) was gone," said Olujuwon, who finished with 32 points and 14 rebounds. "I still don't believe we lost the game. I think we took them for granted because the big guy wasn't there." "We came back from the dead without our key player, on the road and pulled off the sweet upset," Utah Coach Frank Layden said. "We had to win two games in here and that made it even sweeter." In other games Sunday, Denver beat San Antonio 126-99 to win its first-round series 3-2, and Boston routed Detroit 133-99 and Philadelphia ripped Milwaukee 127-105 in the openers of their second-round series. On Saturday, the Los Angeles Lakers took a 1-0 lead in their second-round series against Portland with a 125-101 decision. On Tuesday, Detroit is at Boston, Philadelphia at Milwaukee and Portland at Los Angeles for the second games of those best-of-7 series, while Utah is at Denver for Game 1. In the finale against Houston, Utah trailed 76-67 going into the fourth quarter, but Layden went with a lineup of Bailey and four substitutes — Paultz, Kelley, Fred Roberts and John Stockton — to overcome the Rockets. Adrian Dantley finished with 25 points to lead the Jazz, but he played little in the fourth period. Sampson had 23 points and 13 rebounds for Houston. Bailey's 18-foot jumper with 3:38 to play put the Jazz ahead for good. But it was a confrontation between Paultz and Olujuwon moments earlier that spurred the Jazz to victory. Olujuwon punched Paultz in an exchange that went unnoticed by the referees, but the Jazz players reacted strongly. "After that happened, our big guys seemed to get every big shot and every big rebound," Stockton said. Paultz said he did not retaliate because "there was no reason to get a technical. The object is to win the game." "He punched me and I tried to get the referees' attention, and I couldn't, so I punched him back," Olujuwon said. "I didn't know if it fired them up, but he had already punched me in the stomach about four times." Dantley, who was 13-for-13 from the free-throw line for the game, hit six free throws in the final 16 seconds to secure the triumph. Nuggets 126, Spurs 99 Alex English had 33 points and Denver held San Antonio to 39.2 percent shooting from the field to coast to victory. English had 29 points after three quarters as Denver cruised to a 97-69 lead entering the final period. The Spurs came into the game shooting 56 percent from the floor for the series — a playoff-record pace — but they hit only 31 for 79 in the final game. In the first half, the Nuggets outscored San Antonio 23-6 over the last six minutes for a 65-45 margin at halftime. Artis Gilmore led the Spurs with 19 points, while Calvin Natt had 20 points and 10 rebounds for Denver. 76ers 127, Bucks 105 Moses Malone scored 27 points and smothered Milwaukee's three-man center rotation to lead Philadelphia over the Bucks.

Gant's Car Holds Together For Sovran Bank 500 Win

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Midway through the Sovran Bank 500, Harry Gant didn't think he could finish the NASCAR Grand National race. He gave even less thought to winning it. "I was almost sure it wouldn't hold up for the rest of the race," Gant said of his shaking transmission, victimized by a broken oil seal on lap 220 of the 500-lap event at Martinsville Speedway. "I could put my hand on the gear shift and it was vibrating just like riding down a rocky road. So I figured I'd just go as hard as I could until it fell out." It never did fall out, and Gant went on to post his first victory on the 1985 Winston Cup circuit in Sunday's $279,410 event, billed as the richest short track race in history. Gant, of Taylorsville, N.C., collected $38,525 for the win. "There were a lot of good, fast cars running and we just ran a little faster and a little better than they did," said Gant, who took the lead for good in his Chevrolet on the 432nd lap, and steadily built his margin over Ricky Rudd to four seconds. But with four laps remaining on the .526-mile oval, Eddie Bierschwale spun out and hit the second turn wall, and the drivers finished the race under the caution flag. Rudd earned $22,450 for second place. "When Harry was right, he was right. He could really go," Rudd said of Gant, who won his first Grand National race here at the same event in 1982. "I think the best we could do all day was a close second. I think I was the only one who could keep Harry halfway in sight." The high humidity and temperatures hovering near 90 degrees took their toll on Bill Elliott and Geoff Bodine, both of whom had to receive treatment for heat exhaustion after the race.

"I don't know what happened," said Bodine, who finished third. "I just got hotter and hotter in there. We have both headers blowing out the driver's side of the car, and we are going to have to change that for the short tracks. It just cooked me. I was running pretty hard except for the cautions, and that heated things up, too." Bodine's finish put him atop the Winston Cup standings with 1,213 points, followed by Terry Labonte with 1,204 and Neil Bonnett with 1,189.

Guillen's Walk Signals End For Berra

By The Associated Press

Ozzie Guillen and Yogi Berra both took a hike — but Guillen's was a happy 90-foot trot to first base while Berra walked the plank.

Owner George Steinbrenner of the New York Yankees was on the firing line again Sunday. Sixteen games into the season, Steinbrenner recanted his promise earlier this year that Berra's job was safe for 1985, win or lose.

Shortly after the Yankees lost for the third time in a row and 10th in 16 games this young season — the Chicago White Sox beat them 4-3 when Joe Cowley walked Guillen with the bases loaded and two out in the bottom of the ninth inning to force in the winning run — the hard-to-please owner fired Berra and replaced him with — who else? — Billy Martin.

"He's the boss," said Berra, who had been hearing rumors of his dismissal all week. "I had an inkling when you hear it every day. This weekend? I don't think it had anything to do with it. What can you do when you lose three one-run games? This is a good ballclub. They'll get it together."

It was the 12th managerial change since Steinbrenner purchased the Yankees in 1973 and Martin's fourth term — provided he lasts until tonight's game in Texas.

The move overshadowed Tommy John's first victory since last August as California handed Seattle its eighth straight setback 2-1, Walt Terrell's first American League shutout as Detroit downed Milwaukee 5-0 and Minnesota's eighth consecutive victory, a 10-1 pounding of Oakland. Elsewhere, Baltimore edged Cleveland 8-7, Toronto beat Texas 6-3 and Kansas City defeated Boston 5-2.

Greg Walker opened the Chicago ninth with a single and Carlton Fisk, who homered in the second inning, sacrificed. Oscar Gamble, who hit a game-tying two-run homer in the seventh, was walked intentionally and Daryl Boston flied out, but pinch-hitter Jerry Hairston walked to fill the bases before Cowley walked Guillen on four pitches.

"I don't think I've ever walked on four pitches in my life," said Guillen. "I'm only a little guy at 150 pounds and most of the time the pitchers throw strikes and say, 'Hit it.' That's why I'm always swinging. I said to myself I wouldn't swing until he got two strikes on me. The first pitch was a ball. The next one was close, but when he called it a ball I decided to wait. The last two were not close."

Cowley expressed the players' feeling about the managerial change.

"Yogi showed he had a lot of confidence in me. He made me a better pitcher," Cowley said. "I'm going to miss him. Shame, isn't it?"

Angels 2, Mariners 1
Tommy John allowed seven hits in 5 2-3 innings for his first victory since last Aug. 6, leaving the game when he strained an abdominal muscle. Gary Pettis opened the California first with a triple and, after Rod Carew walked, they worked a double steal for the first run. In the second, Bobby Grich walked, took second on a groundout, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Donnie Scott's passed ball. Seattle scored in the fifth on Phil Bradley's homer.

"I've always pitched well in this ballpark (the Kingdome) and against the Mariners," said the 41-year-old John, who snapped a personal five-game losing streak.

Tigers 5, Brewers 0
Terrell, who entered the game with a 5.68 earned run average, hurled a four-hitter while Alan Trammell and Lance Parrish cracked eighth-inning home runs off loser Teddy Higuera. It was the third straight victory for the Tigers after a brief slump in which they dropped six of eight.

Terrell is 2-0 in the AL, both victories coming against Milwaukee, which hasn't managed an earned run against him in 15 2-3 innings. Against the rest of the league, Terrell has given up 12 earned runs in 12 2-3 innings.

"There is no book on any team because the book can always change," he said. "You can't pattern-pitch them because they are too good of hitters. They'll adjust. They hit the pitches I wanted them to hit," Terrell said. "They hit 'em and we caught 'em."

Twins 10, A's 1
Mickey Hatcher went 4-for-5, extending his consecutive hit streak to nine at-bats before flying out in the seventh inning. Hatcher, who went 5-for-5 Saturday, scored twice and capped the Twins' five-run sixth inning with a two-run single. He tied Tony Oliva's team record of nine straight hits and came within three of the major-league record of 12, set by Mike "Pinky" Higgins of Boston in 1938 and equaled by Walt Drogo of Detroit in 1952. Hatcher also tied several players for the AL record of nine hits in two consecutive nine-inning games. Mike Smithson allowed seven hits and extended his string of shutout innings to 16 2-3 before surrendering an eighth-inning run.

"Sometimes I get lucky, and I think I got a two-game lucky streak," Hatcher said. "I'm feeling comfortable at the plate and seeing the ball well. Just a couple of games ago I was struggling and didn't feel comfortable, so I watched films of myself when I was going good and realized I didn't have the plate covered. I just moved up on the plate."

Orioles 8, Indians 7
A two-run double by Eddie Murray tied the score and the winning run scored on pinch-hitter John Lowenstein's sacrifice fly as Baltimore came from behind with three runs in the eighth inning.

Floyd Ends String, Wins At Houston

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) — After three weeks of frustration, Raymond Floyd was beginning to doubt himself.

"The last three tournaments I've gone to bed on Saturday night with the lead," said the 23-year veteran after shooting a 69 Sunday to win the $500,000 Houston Open by one stroke over Tour rookies David Frost and Bob Lohr. "It was important to my career to take advantage of leading and not let another one slip away."

He didn't. After blowing third-round leads at Greensboro, N.C. and in The Masters, Floyd charged onto the new 7,042-yard Tournament Players Course at The Woodlands on Sunday with birdies on the first two holes and never looked back en route to an 11-under-par 277 total. It was Tour victory No. 19 for Floyd, and it was important.

Even at No. 18, with Payne Stewart making a charge and Lohr and Frost in the clubhouse just two strokes back, he intentionally aimed his approach shot beyond the water-guarded green, hoping for the rough or a bunker and settling for the bleachers.

"I was not going to lose the tournament," Floyd said. "The only way to blow the tournament was to put it in the water."

That's where Stewart wound up for the second time in the final round, effectively killing his chances.

"I'm a little depressed. I guess, that I didn't win," Stewart said. "But I was never leading and hit the water too many times. I should have known better."

Stewart's watery demise opened the door for Lohr and Frost to cash in their biggest paychecks ever, each earning $44,000.

"One way or another, it was a thrill," said Lohr, 24. Floyd was overcome with emotion, his voice wavering as he spoke with reporters.

"It's been a long time coming," he said of the 2½-year victory drought. "No matter how well you play, there's still the doubt."

Floyd, whose last win came in the 1982 PGA, played nearly flawless golf, breaking out of the pack and holding a two-stroke edge throughout most of the day until the bogey on No. 18.

Stewart finished at 279, tied with Bob Murphy. Russ Cochran and Keith Fergus. Floyd, Stewart and Fergus had shared the lead after the third round.

Lohr, who had a 67 Sunday, went into the Houston event 127th on the PGA money list with just $12,550 in winnings and had missed the cut in four of his last five outings.

South Africa's Frost, also making his best showing on the Tour, started play one back of the leaders, and combined four birdies with a single bogey to post a final-round 69.

Calvin Peete and Phil Blackmar finished three shots back at 280.

Masters champion Bernhard Langer, trying to become the first golfer since 1978 to win three consecutive tournaments, finished with a 71 for a four-round total of 287, 10 strokes off the pace.

Taking A Shot

New York Mets catcher Gary Carter tosses Doug Frobel of the Pittsburgh Pirates in the air as he tags him out in the 14th inning Sunday at Shea Stadium. It

Mets Survive With 18th-Inning Win

By The Associated Press

The longer the game lasted, the stranger it got.

The Pittsburgh Pirates used a nine-man infield. Pirates pitcher Rick Rhoden pinch hit for outfielder Doug Frobel.

The New York Mets used Rusty Staub in the outfield for the first time since June 1983. He kept switching positions depending on who was batting — and wound up making a game-saving catch.

Finally, in the bottom of the 18th inning, Clint Hurdle hit a hard grounder that went through the legs of Pittsburgh first baseman Jason Thompson for an error Sunday that gave the Mets a 5-4 victory over the Pirates.

"It took 17 innings to score a run," said winning pitcher Tom Gorman. "When you go that long, you want to win."

The game lasted 5 hours and 21 minutes. It was the longest game, in terms of innings and time, since Los Angeles beat Chicago 2-1 in 22 innings in a 6 hour, 10-minute affair that began on Aug. 17, 1982, and ended the next afternoon.

In other games Sunday, Montreal beat St. Louis 5-3, Philadelphia nipped Chicago 3-2, San Diego edged Los Angeles 1-0, Houston tipped Atlanta 3-2 and San Francisco defeated Cincinnati 2-1 in 11 innings.

The Mets got a first-inning grand slam from Darryl Strawberry off Mike Bielecki. But Strawberry's sixth home run of the season and first career slam was the last hit New York got until Rafael Santana singled to lead off the 12th.

Pittsburgh tied it on George

Hendrick's solo homer in the second and an RBI double by Thompson and a two-run homer by Tony Pena in the sixth.

Then, things got interesting. The Pirates loaded the bases with no outs in the ninth. Reliever Jesse Orsoco got two outs before throwing a pitch in the dirt that skipped away from catcher Gary Carter. But Carter tracked the ball down and threw to Orsoco, who tagged out Rafael Belliard at the plate.

In the 10th, Hendrick tried to score from second on a two-out single and was cut down by Hurdle in left field.

In the 12th, with runners on second and third and good-bunting Wally Backman up, Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner guarded against a squeeze play by putting all nine players in the infield. Backman eventually walked, but the Pirates got out of the jam without anyone scoring.

And in the 14th, Frobel tried to score from third on a grounder to third baseman Ray Knight and was thrown out at home.

Meanwhile, Gorman and Staub were doing their best.

Gorman, who had a 6.75 ERA, entered the game to start the 12th and wound up working seven innings, equaling the longest stint of his career.

"I was tired," said Gorman, 2-1. Staub came into the game as part of a double switch in the 12th. Mets Manager Dave Johnson kept alternating Staub between left field and right field, with Staub playing each batter the opposite way.

The move "was kind of a joke at the start, but it got a little tedious toward the end," said Hurdle, who was switching with Staub.

Then, in the top of the 18th, with a runner on second and two out, Tanner sent right-handed Rhoden, a career .240 hitter, to hit for Frobel, a lefty. But Rhoden sliced a drive toward right, where Staub was playing.

Staub wound up snaring the ball near his shoetops.

"I know you can't call what I do a sprint, but I ran as fast as I could," Staub said.

Said Gorman: "I was praying it would go foul. It could have gone foul. Rusty had a long way to go, and he had been going back and forth all day anyway, so I thought he might be tired, too."

Pittman Sparks SWE

JAMESVILLE — Mark Pittman singled in a pair of runs in the top of the ninth as SouthWest Edgecombe held off 1-A Jamesville 8-7 Saturday in high school baseball.

Billy Braswell went 3-5 and Mike Guiley 3-4 to lead the Cougars at the plate, while Mike Owens was 2-4.

Greg Bell paced the Bullets with a 3-5 effort at the plate, while Tony Hale went 2-4.

Jamesville held a 5-2 lead after three innings, but SouthWest posted two in the fourth and a pair in the seventh to even the score. After two out in the seventh, Pittman and Braswell singled to open the rally, and Guiley followed with an RBI hit. Braswell scored on a wild pitch to send the game to extra innings. In the ninth, Varnell singled, Tony Nichols reached first on an error, and both runners scored when Pittman singled and there was an error on the play.

Jamesville posted a run in the bottom of the ninth after loading the bases with no outs. Earl Bowen walked, Hale and Eric Spruill singled and Kevin Perry lofted a sacrifice fly for the final tally.

Jamesville, now 11-3 overall and 9-0 in the Tobacco Belt, hosts Bear Grass Tuesday.

Padres 1, Dodgers 0
Again, Fernando Valenzuela pitched a superb game. Again, his record fell — to 2-3 — this time because of Tony Gwynn.

Gwynn homered with one out in the top of the ninth inning for the game's only run. It was the second and last hit of the game for visiting San Diego.

The home run accounted for the first earned run off Valenzuela in 41 1-3 innings. That streak broke the major-league record for most consecutive innings without an earned run at the start of a season, a mark previously held by Hooks Wilson of the 1912 New York Giants at 40 2-3 innings.

Phillies 3, Cubs 2

Rick Sutcliffe will not go through this season with a 16-1 record, which he did last year for Chicago in winning the 1984 Cy Young Award.

Two errors by the Cubs and a good effort by surprise starter Kevin Gross of Philadelphia pinned the loss on Sutcliffe, who is now 3-2.

USFL To Decide Future

TEANECK, N.J. (AP) — Its fans deserting it, its television network asking for rebates and its owners bitterly divided, the United States Football League meets here today to try to decide when it will play next season — if it plays at all.

The main item on the agenda is whether to reaffirm the USFL's decision of last August to switch to the fall next season or remain in the spring, and it's a bitterly divisive one. John Bassett of the Tampa Bay Bandits, leader of the pro-spring forces, has suggested he might form his own league if the vote doesn't go his way.

But there may be even more pressing matters for the 3-year-old league that lost more than $100 million in its first two seasons and could lose another $50 million this year.

One is the future of the Los Angeles Express, which signed Steve Young and a half-dozen other high-priced players a year ago, but has never been able to make an impact on the Southern California market.

Unable to find an owner, the team is being run by the league, which may either fold it or sell off some of that expensive talent. Team and league officials say there's a 75 percent chance the team will be dissolved.

But the future of the league may also be at stake.

Attendance is plummeting. Through nine weeks, the league was down 6 percent over last year, and will be down a lot more after this weekend. Denver, which averaged 44,000 per game in 1983 and 33,000 last year, had its lowest attendance in history Friday night.

Williams, Waugh Lead ASU

BOONE — Two former Rose High School athletes, Harry Williams and William Waugh, placed for Appalachian State as the Mountaineers won their second straight Southern Conference track and field championship.

Williams placed second in the 3000-meter steeplechase with a time of 9:28.5 and fifth in the 1500-meter run in 3:56.34.

Waugh placed fifth in the shot put with a throw of 46-5½.

Appalachian State won with 151½ points, while Western Carolina followed with 125 points. Virginia Military tallied 100 points, The Citadel 76, East Tennessee State 70, Marshall 47, Furman 28 and Davidson 18.

Rampants Run In Colonial

NEW BERN — Rose High School posted five points Saturday in the Colonial Classic Track Meet.

Rose took fourth in the shuttle hurdle relay with a time of 1:10.3, then sixth in the 400 relay in 43.5.

Bulls Surprise Stallions with Rozier's TD Run

By The Associated Press
The football fans in Florida turned out in force to see Jacksonville and Tampa Bay win. If the fans in Los Angeles followed the Express in the same fashion, the United States Football League's owners might not be meeting today.
The Birmingham Stallions were in Jacksonville. They figured to beat the Bulls on Sunday. They were wrong — and an announced crowd of 41,298 was on hand to see Ed Luther's TD pass and Mike Rozier's scoring run help the Bulls win 27-17.
In Tampa, an announced crowd of 41,226 paid its way in to see John Reeves' third-quarter touchdown bombs of 47 yards to Larry Brodsky and 57 yards to Jerry Price propel the Tampa Bay Bandits past Baltimore 28-14 and into a first-place tie with Birmingham in the Eastern Conference.
Also Sunday, before 9,723 fans in San Antonio, Jim Kelly threw four scoring strikes, two apiece to Gerald McNeil and Richard Johnson, as Houston shot down the Gunslingers 38-29 and stayed one-half game ahead of Oakland atop the West.
The Express' attendance, which has been declining steadily all season, rose slightly Saturday — just slightly — to 7,188. Los Angeles beat Portland 17-12 as Steve Young and Frank Seurer each threw for a TD.
Also Saturday, Oakland defeated Arizona 27-11. On Friday, Showboats beat Denver 33-17 before the smallest crowd in the history of the Gold.
Denver, once among the strongest

USFL franchises, attracted only 8,207 fans.
"When I was here they had good crowds, 30,000 or more," said Harry Sydney, who led the Gold in rushing the past two seasons but was traded to Memphis last December. "It felt odd playing before so few fans."
Sydney scored the Showboats' decisive TD on a 12-yard run midway in the fourth period, breaking a 17-17 tie.
Tonight, Orlando visits the New Jersey Generals. Just down the road from East Rutherford, N.J., in Teaneck, the owners of the league — all of whom own a share of the LA franchise, which doesn't have an owner of its own — will be meeting to decide the future of the league and possibly the fate of the franchise.
There is speculation that Saturday night's game may have been LA's last.
"Give our kids a tremendous amount of credit and character for this one," Coach John Hadl said. "I'm happy for them. What's going to happen Monday we'll all find out together."
And running back Kevin Nelson added: "I hope we can be here to play next week, but we'll just have to wait and see what happens."
Bulls 27, Stallions 17
Luther hooked up with Perry Kemp on a 15-yard TD pass and 11 of Rozier's 79 yards went for a score as Jacksonville evened its record at 5-5 and dropped Birmingham's to 7-3.
Cliff Stoudt passed for Birmingham's two TDs, 26 yards to Robin Earl and 25 to Joey Jones.

TV Public Service Spot On Auto Safety Is Subject Of Debate

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A televised public service announcement, making its point without blood and guts but with a shattered windshield and an unbuckled seat belt, has produced disagreement about the effectiveness of automobile safety-through-scare messages.

The rift has the look of traffic going in opposite directions, and it underscores the conflict between insurance companies favoring air bags or some other form of automatic restraint system vs. the automobile manufacturers who prefer mandatory seat belt legislation.

Even the federal government is involved. Last year, Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole ordered that new cars be outfitted with air bags or automatic seat belts by a certain date, although the edict would be rescinded if states with two-thirds of the population enacted laws requiring seat belt usage by mid-1989.

Many insurance companies, concerned that the issue has become an either-or situation, want both bags and belt laws to best save lives. And some insurance officials say buckle-up announcements might actually be counterproductive over the long run.

"The evidence is that PSAs don't make any difference. They don't influence behavior," said Brian O'Neill, executive vice president of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety. "We've been exhorting people to use seat belts for years, and there's only 14 percent usage."

O'Neill says attention-getting campaigns have been waged around the world, including one in Sweden showing a nude woman, but "voluntary approaches have been a total failure every time."

"Nobody pays any attention to them," said Ron Arnold, an assistant vice president at the State Farm Insurance Co. "We need to go the step beyond voluntary campaigns."

State Farm has filed a lawsuit against Mrs. Dole. "We don't oppose seat belt laws. We just don't want them to the exclusion of other technologies," said Arnold. "If mandatory seat belt use is enough, then the automobile manufacturers will be off the hook and not have to improve."

Many car manufacturers are resistant to automatic restraints that will raise prices. They favor mandatory seat belt legislation and applaud any seat belt awareness campaign.

"We're all for that PSA," said Al Rothenberg, spokesman for the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers. "Air bags only work under certain conditions (head-on crashes, for people in the front seat), so why not use what we have now and try to save lives?"

Thomas H. Hanna, president of Traffic Safety Now, said: "We think PSAs are effective in conjunction with mandatory use laws. They can raise the public consciousness on this issue."

Joseph Vogt, the filmmaker behind the PSA, is used to controversy. He produced the American Cancer Society's cigarette-smoking fetus spot that was rejected by CBS and NBC but broadcast by ABC.

Country Music Falls As Urban Cowboy Fades

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The urban cowboy who donned western hat and Levis to ride mechanical bulls with buckskin bravado has traded his boots for a pair of Guccis and an evening of white wine and brie.

The cowboy, it seems, has been lassoed by the yuppie.

Left behind is a trail of unpurchased country music records, as the rougher edges of honky-tonk that captivated a generation of rebellious city kids have given way to more refined tastes.

"It's been displaced by the yuppie thing as something people want to be," says Dr. Richard A. Peterson of Vanderbilt University, just a brief ride in a pickup truck from this city's famed recording studios.

"It's the preppies five or 10 years later. It means dressing more expensively, going to fancier restaurants, urbane things, not country things," said Peterson, who is chairman of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology.

The so-called "urban cowboy" movement was inspired by the 1980 John Travolta movie of the same name about a young Texas man who hangs out in Gilley's — an uproarious Houston honky-tonk — and learns how to ride a mechanical bull.

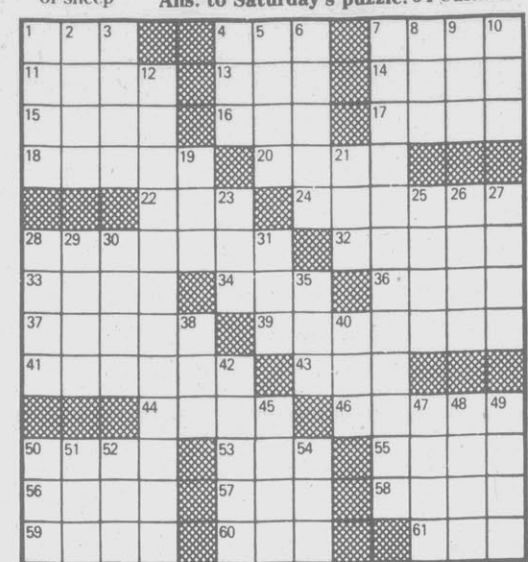

The movie ignited an upsurge in country music popularity and a fashion trend that had young adults dressing in cowboy hats and western shirts and skirts. Nightclubs switched from rock 'n' roll to country and installed menacing mechanical bulls — an apparatus that simulated a ride on a rodeo bull.

Now, five years later, urban cowboy apparently has seen the last roundup.

Analyst Expects Gasoline Prices To Keep Rising

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Retail gasoline prices, which have already risen more than 8 cents a gallon in two months, will probably go up another 3 cents as dealers try to keep pace with wholesale prices, an industry analyst says.

The biggest increase likely will be for unleaded gasoline because of tight supplies, analyst Dan Lundberg said Sunday.

In a nationwide survey of 17,500 gasoline stations compiled Saturday, the overall price of all grades of gasoline was $1.22, an increase of 8.4 cents per gallon from two months ago, the publisher of the oil-oriented Lundberg Letter said.

Wholesale prices have risen 11.4 cents a gallon in the same period, cutting dealers' operating margins, he said. Retail prices will probably go up at least another 3 cents overall to cover that spread, he said.

In Lundberg's most recent survey, regular leaded gasoline averaged $1.10 per gallon, regular unleaded averaged $1.18 and premium unleaded was $1.30. All prices are for self-serve.

Only 54 stations nationwide were selling gasoline for under a dollar, compared to the 50,000 to 60,000 stations that were offering such prices when the Feb. 8 survey, Lundberg said.

Wholesale price increases stem from OPEC's decision to hold maximum production to 16 million barrels a day, in contrast to worldwide demand for 16.5 million barrels daily, Lundberg said. Oil-producing nations outside of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries are cooperating and are also refraining from over-production, he said.

Unleaded gasoline is in short supply as oil companies try to build up inventories in anticipation of the July 1 federal crackdown on the lead content in gasoline, he said.

An Environmental Protection Agency law goes into effect on that date, mandating that the lead content in gas be reduced from the current maximum of 1.1 grams per gallon to 0.5 grams.

"Even now there are some regional shortages of unleaded supplies at the refinery level," Lundberg said. "It's not causing any marketplace disruption, but it certainly is exerting an increasing price pressure on unleaded sales."

The price of a gallon of regular unleaded could reach $1.26 in May, Lundberg has said.

The growing discrepancy between leaded and unleaded prices could also mean an increase in the number of "gas switchers" — motorists who should use unleaded gas in their new-model cars but who buy leaded because it is cheaper, Lundberg said.

The government now estimates that 16 percent of motorists are using the wrong fuel, he said. Using leaded gasoline in cars designed for unleaded eventually destroys catalytic converters designed to reduce polluting emissions.

UPI Formally Seeks Financial Reorganization

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Press International, saying it has 1,500 creditors and potential liabilities of $45 million, has filed for protection under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy code while it seeks to restructure its finances.

Francis DiCello, a Washington attorney who filed the papers Sunday evening in U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the District of Columbia, was quoted in a UPI story as saying, "Basically, what happens in a Chapter 11 is the filing of a petition allows some breathing space for the corporation to restructure its affairs."

The filing would stop creditors "from taking any enforced collection action pending further order of the bankruptcy court," DiCello said.

The story was made available by UPI to The Associated Press and further information was provided by UPI spokesman David Wickenden.

Wickenden said that effective Sunday, UPI raised rates for its clients by 9.9 percent, a move he said was aimed at generating several million dollars in revenues.

UPI's four-member board of directors authorized the filing Friday after the agency was unable to cover its April 26 payroll. "Once you make the decision, you might as well go ahead," Wickenden said of the weekend filing to U.S. Bankruptcy Judge George Bason.

Wickenden said UPI was asking Bason to grant permission for the wire service to cover the paychecks for nearly 2,000 employees, who were advised Thursday night that their checks would bounce if deposited.

He also said UPI wants authority to pay four weeks worth of salaries to 80 employees laid off in an economy drive.

In addition, UPI was seeking permission to enter a financial agreement with Foothill Capital Corp. of Los Angeles, its principal lender, to provide funds where needed during the reorganization period, Wickenden said.

UPI's story said that in filing the Chapter 11 petition, "attorneys for the 78-year-old wire service froze its creditors from collecting on liabilities of up to $45 million, more than double UPI's estimated $20 million in assets."

Wickenden said UPI owed between $8 million and $10 million to secured creditors, mostly to Foothill, and that the company may have up to $35 million in other liabilities.

In addition to between $17 million and $20 million in unsecured debts, the $35 million includes such possible liabilities as pension and severance payments.

He said the totals were based on a "preliminary overview" and that detailed schedules of assets and liabilities would be filed with the court within two weeks.

DiCello was quoted in the UPI story as saying the company would then have four months to propose a complete plan of reorganization.

UPI President Ray Wechsler was quoted as saying, "We've basically been looking at this option for a long time," and he predicted the Chapter 11 proceedings "will not be very lengthy." He described the petition as "terrific for the company" as it moves to reorganize.

The largest liabilities listed by UPI were $6.1 million to AT&T Communications Co. for news and photo transmissions and newsgathering, $2.1 million to Equatorial Communications Co., which provides satellite dishes to UPI clients, and $1.3 million to American Express Co., which provided credit cards for employees.

UPI Chairman Luis Nogales, one of the four directors, has been meeting with creditors "in an attempt to informally reach an agreement that would clear the company's short-term debts of more than $20 million while providing vendors with some payment or stock in the company," UPI said.

The Wire Service Guild, representing about half UPI's employees, voted in September to accept a 25 percent wage cut. The UPI dispatch Sunday said company spokesmen and attorneys declined to speculate on whether UPI could seek court approval to abrogate or modify its labor contract.

William Morrissey, president of the guild and a member of the UPI board, said he was aware of the Chapter 11 filing and "we've recommended that the members of the guild continue to report to work until the pay situation has been clarified."

The UPI employees dismissed in this most recent round of layoffs would be equally divided between editorial and non-editorial staff, and are spread nationwide and in Europe, UPI said.

THE Rook Look AT GARMENT CARE

Packing For Air Travel

A Cleaner World, your local fabric care expert, offers the following tips on packing your luggage for air travel.

Keep the weight in your case evenly distributed. This will make your luggage easier to carry, and will also help to save the life of your suitcases.

When possible, fold garments on natural creases or along body lines. Button all shirts, jackets and zip dresses, skirts and pants. Be sure to pack shirts with the collars up. These three tips will help to minimize wrinkles in your clothes.

Sleepwear, underwear, lingerie and swimwear can all be rolled, rather than folded, to take up less space in your luggage. Shoes should be placed in fabric shoe mitts and socks and hosiery can be placed in each shoe to conserve space. The shoe mitts will protect the inside of a suitcase and the garments in it.

Do not roll belts; instead, place them around the inside edge of the case. Rolled belts can shift in air travel and wrinkle the garments around it.

When packing cosmetics, be sure to transfer liquids and creams to plastic containers for travel. Squeeze some air out of the bottle to allow for changes in air pressure and expand tightly.

A Cleaner World offers these tips to help you care for your garments the professional way. Bon voyage!

IN THE STATE

Hunt Regains Democratic Spotlight While Party Awaits His Decisions

A News Analysis

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Jim Hunt, who dominated the state Democratic Party for 12 years before losing to Sen. Jesse Helms last November, captured the spotlight again during the weekend's Jefferson-Jackson festivities.

The former lieutenant governor and two-term governor has kept a low profile since leaving office in January. But the time is fast approaching when he must decide whether to challenge Republican Sen. John East, who's up for re-election next year.

As Hunt worked the crowds and delivered two vigorous speeches during Saturday's fundraiser, party faithful watched closely for a signal of his intentions.

They didn't get one; Hunt would say only that he will make a decision by early fall. But nothing happened to discourage the widely held belief that he will seek the Democratic nomination.

"A great, great majority of us are encouraging Jim Hunt to run and expect him to run," said Tom Gilmore, chairman of last year's Democratic Unity Campaign.

Speculation that Hunt would face East began immediately after his heartbreaking loss to Helms in the costliest Senate race ever. And despite his insistence that nothing had been decided, Hunt carefully positioned himself to launch another campaign.

He refused to run for national Democratic chairman and quickly squelched rumors that he might be interested in the presidency of the University of North Carolina system. Instead, he joined the Raleigh law firm of his longtime friend and political adviser, Phil Carlton. Key members of Hunt's team took public relations or consulting posts they could abandon on a moment's notice.

His supporters say Hunt should stay out of the limelight as long as possible. Name recognition is no problem; indeed, he may have been overexposed during the seemingly interminable battle with Helms.

On the other hand, many party leaders would like an early announcement from Hunt. The sooner he declares, they say, the less likely other Democrats would be to run against him. They urgently want to avoid a repeat of the bitter 1984 gubernatorial primary that left the party so divided that many Democrats defected to the GOP candidate and eventual winner, Jim Martin.

One possible Hunt rival, former Commerce Secretary D.M. "Lauch" Faircloth, insists he's not waiting for a signal from his old boss and will make his plans known immediately after the Legislature adjourns — probably around mid-July.

State Sen. Marshall Rauch, a wealthy Gastonia businessman, says he is interested in the U.S. Senate race but will not run against Hunt. Other Democrats mentioned as possible candidates are former Gov. Terry Sanford, U.S. Rep. Charles Rose and former Insurance Commissioner John Ingram.

Hunt is regarded as the strongest potential candidate, with his experience, an enviable organization at least partially intact, and over $700,000 in unused funds from last year.

But he isn't without liabilities. His image took a beating during the recent campaign, as Helms' organization began airing critical television commercials months before the primary and didn't let up until Election Day.

The ads, which depicted Hunt as wishy-washy and a closet liberal, generally are seen as the major factor in the erosion of what polls indicated was a big lead over Helms early in the campaign.

East, a Helms protege, was a little-known political science professor at East Carolina University before upsetting former Sen. Robert Morgan in 1980 on the strength of TV commercials paid for by the National Congressional Club — the same political action committee that engineered Helms' victory last year.

It's likely, therefore, that should Hunt face East, the same ads that helped beat Hunt last year would flood the airwaves again.

Nevertheless, Joe Grimsley, who managed Hunt's 1984 campaign, says East would not be as formidable a candidate as Helms. "He has no image," Grimsley says of East. "He just hasn't been personally defined in people's minds the way Jesse is."

East, a polio victim who is confined to a wheelchair, underwent surgery last week for a urinary tract ailment. His health problems have led Republicans to speculate that he might not seek re-election, but he has authorized creation of an exploratory campaign committee and supporters say he'll run.

Retirement Pay

RALEIGH (AP) — A state official says North Carolina judges' retirement benefits are at least twice as lucrative as those of other state employees, but a judge says those in his profession can't be compared with other workers.

Edwin T. Barnes, who oversees the retirement programs managed by the state treasurer's office, said the retirement systems for judges, district attorneys and clerks, which were merged Jan. 1 into the Consolidated Judicial Retirement System, are two or three times better than that of other state employees.

For example, a member of the Teachers and State Employees Retirement System who retires after 30 years would get 47.1 percent of the average of his highest four years of salary — or about 42 percent of his final salary, Barnes said.

But a District Court judge can retire after 25 years service and draw 75 percent of his final salary, as can district attorneys and clerk of courts, Barnes said. And judges on higher courts do even better.

Judges say the better retirement benefits are necessary to attract and retain good people for the courts.

"In my particular case," said Joseph Branch, chief justice of the N.C. Supreme Court, "I never would have come on this court without the prospect of a good retirement."

The state last year contributed $14,995 toward the retirement of the 237 active members of the Uniform Judicial Retirement System, while spending only $1,668 for each of the 192,851 active members belonging to the Teachers and State Employees Retirement System.

Roanoke Film

RALEIGH (AP) — A motion picture commemorating the 400th anniversary of the English attempt to colonize America premiered Sunday at the opening session of the governor's conference on travel and tourism, officials say.

The 16mm color film "Genesis of Nationhood" depicts Sir Walter Raleigh's efforts to gain approval for his Roanoke expeditions, the exploration of North Carolina's coast by Philip Amada and Arthur Barlowe and two efforts to set up colonies on Roanoke Island.

The film was shot on the Outer Banks, Roanoke Island and other locations in North Carolina and was produced by Grady Jefferys and Take One Productions of Raleigh.

Heart Transplants

DURHAM (AP) — Thomas Hairr, the state's second heart transplant patient, remained in stable condition after doctors removed surgical tubes from his body, a spokeswoman for Duke University Medical Center said.

Meanwhile, Thomas Harrison, 55, of Durham, the first person to undergo heart transplant surgery in the state, was in excellent condition Sunday, said hospital spokeswoman Edith Roberts.

Harrison, a plumber, underwent surgery Monday night, while Hairr, 41, of Clinton, received his new heart Friday.

Hairr was a maintenance supervisor for the N.C. Department of Correction until becoming disabled by heart disease in December 1984.

Press Women

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Rose Post of the Salisbury Post was elected president of the North Carolina Press Women's Association Sunday during the group's 42 annual spring institute.

Nell Perry of the Winston-Salem Journal was elected first vice president and institute chairman, and Dawn Kane of the Greensboro News & Record was elected second vice president and contest chairman.

Elizabeth G. Cook of the Salisbury Post was elected secretary, and Tommie Morrison of the High Point Enterprise will be the group's treasurer.

Ultralight Deputies

WADESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Anson County will soon take to the skies with a new crime fighting machine — an ultralight plane which sheriff's department officials say can do the work of six patrol cars.

"We have had calls from Louisiana, California and a number of North Carolina towns and counties wanting to know about the plane," said Anson County Sheriff's Deputy Steve Ritzheimer, the pilot of Air 1. "It is an affordable tool for law enforcement being used a lot out west."

The $6,000 Phantom ultralight was donated to Anson County and Wadesboro for police work by Harold Brown of Mount Airy through Randy Pinkston and Bobby Hancock, owners of J-3 Kitten Sales of Wadesboro. The city and county each gave $1,500 to equip the plane with a parachute, police radio and other gear.

Powered by a 35 horsepower Kawasaki engine, the plane has a maximum speed of about 75 mph, but can fly as slowly as 25 mph, Ritzheimer said.

Body Recovered

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The body of North Carolina truck driver James Childers, 43, has been recovered from the White River four days after he was thrown from his tractor-trailer rig in an accident on Interstate 465.

The body of Childers, of Shelby, was recovered Sunday near Banta Road about two miles downstream from where his rig crased into a guardrail about 7 a.m. Wednesday.

Building. A total of 54 students were slated to attend the battle of minds in the math and science fields. (Reflector Photo By Tommy Forrest)

Forest Fires Contained

CAPE CARTERET, N.C. (AP) — Light, spotty rain wasn't enough to extinguish a fire in eastern North Carolina and crews continued this morning to hold an 18-mile containment line around the blaze, officials said.

"There's a possibility that we'll start sending some crews home later today."

The blaze, which began Thursday, has burned 5,700 acres. Officials said all but 150 acres were in the 149,000-acre Croatan National Forest, which stretches across Carteret, Craven and Jones counties. The rest of the land is privately owned.

"The fire is contained, but not controlled," Laura Lipe of the U.S. Forest Service said early today.

"There's still a way for the small farmer to succeed."

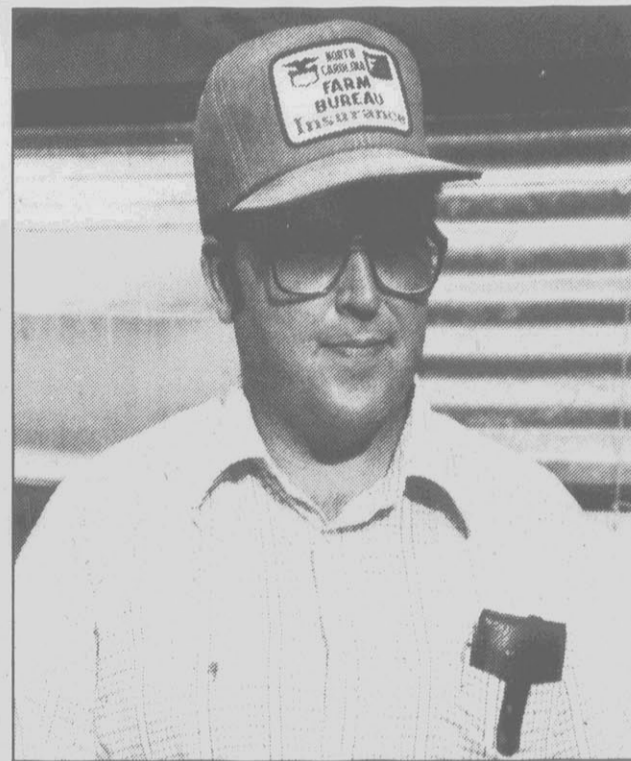

"I've been on the farm all my life, and I wanted to stay here. But with the problems we're having now in the tobacco program, I had to find something else to keep me here or face losing the farm.

"A Perdue broiler operation has been a good solution for me. The income is why I was attracted to Perdue. You don't get rich overnight, of course, but it's a good living.

"The only problem was that I didn't know much about growing chickens. As it turned out, though, that wasn't a problem at all because my Perdue serviceman gave me all the help and advice I needed.

"Another thing I especially like about Perdue is their system for paying new growers. For the first six years, you just can't lose. And after that — well, anybody ought to be able to succeed."

A Perdue poultry operation provides good cash flow and steady income the year round. It doesn't even require much land. To learn more about Perdue, mail in the coupon or call us collect at (919) 795-4151.
