Reagan: 'We Can Give Meaning To The Past'

By BARRY JAMES
UPI Senior Editor

BITBURG, West Germany (UPI) — Defying worldwide protests and pleas, President Reagan laid a wreath of reconciliation in a German war cemetery containing 49 Nazi SS graves, saying he mourned "the human wreckage of totalitarianism."

"We can give meaning to the past by learning its lessons and making a better future," Reagan said minutes after his 10-minute visit to the Bitburg military cemetery Sunday.

In a symbolic gesture of reconciliation with West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl, Reagan laid floral wreaths at the cemetery that contains the graves of 2,000 German soldiers and 49 Waffen SS troops.

Earlier in the day, Reagan made a further attempt to silence critics of his Bitburg gesture by staging a surprise visit at Rhodorf, near Bonn, to honor the gravesite of anti-Nazi and postwar Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Kohl and Reagan rode with their wives in a motorcade through the streets of Bitburg, which were lined 10 and 12 deep with supporters and protesters.

The crowd of about 10,000 people mostly cheered and waved German and American flags. But pleas to halt the ceremony were shouted at the passing limousines by about 1,000 protesters.

"Never again," chanted some demonstrators.

"Why, Mr. President?" one banner read.

"Don't do it — they killed my family," screamed one man from the crowd.

Many Jews among the protesters wore yellow Stars of David similar to the symbols Jews were forced to wear in Nazi Germany.

Some pushing and shoving between police and demonstrators was reported, but police said there were no arrests.

Thousands more throughout America and Europe protested the visit.

In the United States, the head of the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Commission, death camp survivor and author Elie Wiesel, said: "His presence at Bitburg will remain to me a source of much anguish. I felt rejected, humiliated. It is wrong for the president."

But, postwar reconciliation was Reagan's theme.

"We do not believe in collective guilt," Reagan said in a speech at the U.S. Air Force base in Bitburg shortly after the cemetery ceremony. "Only God can look into a heart."

"Our duty today is to mourn the human wreckage of totalitarianism and today, in Bitburg cemetery, we commemorated the potential good and humanity that was consumed back then, 40 years ago," Reagan said.

Earlier, the president, accompanied throughout the day by his wife, Nancy, stood in homage before the memorial to 100,000 Nazi victims who died in the Bergen-Belsen concentration camp, northeast of Hanover.

The visit to the death camp was added to the president's itinerary only after a worldwide outcry over his planned trip to Bitburg.

Reagan, standing in a place once hemmed in by barbed wire and guard towers and visibly moved by the experience, spoke of "the hell suffered by people who were brought here for no other purpose but to suffer and die."

"Out of this tragic and nightmarish time — beyond the anguish, the pain and the suffering and for all time, we can and must pledge, 'Never again,'" Reagan said in an emotional speech at the death camp.

Protests Precede Reagan In Spain

By CLIFF HAAS
Associated Press Writer

MADRID, Spain (AP) — President Reagan, leaving behind a difficult economic summit and controversy over a Nazi gravesite visit, arrived today facing a new challenge from Spanish leaders who are under pressure to close U.S. military bases and withdraw from the NATO alliance.

The president flew here for a two-day visit after urging West German youths in a farewell speech to "create a new Europe" and help end the threat of nuclear war. His 10-day European tour ends Friday, after visits to France and Portugal.

Spain's King Juan Carlos and Queen Sofia greeted Reagan and his wife, Nancy, and Secretary of State George Shultz when the presidential plane, Air Force One, landed at Madrid's Barajas Airport in late afternoon.

An estimated 200,000 anti-American demonstrators marched in several Spanish cities Sunday, and police intervened to stop them from burning U.S. flags that had been mounted throughout Madrid to mark Reagan's visit.

The protesters demanded that the four U.S.-leased air and naval bases in this country be shut down and that Spain pull out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which it joined in May 1982.

Socialist Prime Minister Felipe

Gonzalez has promised to call a referendum by next spring on whether Spain should remain in NATO. Gonzalez says he favors a reduction in the U.S. presence in Spain to generate public support for his pro-NATO policy.

Demonstrations in Spain are permitted only on weekends, so protest organizers have asked Madrid's residents to demonstrate against Reagan by turning out their lights at 10 o'clock tonight and banging on pots and pans.

The so-called saucapan protest would coincide with an intimate dinner that the Spanish royal couple are giving for the president and Mrs. Reagan at that hour in Zarzuela Palace.

Reagan is to confer with Gonzalez on Tuesday. White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan will deliver a "very important" speech Wednesday before the European Parliament in Strasbourg, France, that will make "some definite proposals regarding the Soviets."

Speakes said these would include suggestions for U.S.-Soviet military contacts intended to avoid such incidents as the March 24 shooting death of Maj. Arthur D. Nicholson Jr., a U.S. observer, at a Soviet military installation in East Germany, and the Sept. 1, 1983, downing of a Korean Air Lines passenger plane by Soviet jet fighters, killing 269 people.

Shuttle Returns To Land

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Challenger's seven astronauts and their mini-zoo swooped to a landing on a California desert today with enough research data to fill 50,000 books with knowledge about stars, cosmic rays, space manufacturing and the human body.

The 107-ton space plane settled onto the hard-packed sand of a dry lake bed at 12:11 p.m. EDT to end a seven-day science expedition that covered 2.9 million miles and peered deep into the solar system.

The landing came three hours after the astronauts received a false alarm that their cargo bay doors might not have closed properly and an hour after commander Robert Overmyer and pilot Fred Gregory fired braking rockets to start Challenger on a dive through the atmosphere on a course over the Indian and Pacific Oceans, across the California coast at Long Beach and into the Mojave Desert.

Challenger landed on the lake bed instead of its home base in Florida because brakes locked and a tire ruptured on sister ship Discovery when it landed at Cape Canaveral on April 18.

U.S. Copter Hits Ocean

TOKYO (AP) — A U.S. military helicopter with 17 people on board plunged into the ocean off southern Japan today, and searching ships and planes failed to find survivors, a U.S. military official said.

Captain Dan Trout, spokesman at the U.S. Kadena Air Base in Okinawa, said it was believed that all 17 aboard the CH-53D helicopter were U.S. Marines.

The downed copter was returning to the Marine base at Futemma, Okinawa, from Iwakuni, another Marine installation in southwest Japan, Trout said.

The Japanese Maritime Safety Agency reported that the helicopter, traveling from the Marine base at Iwakuni, about 431 miles southwest of Tokyo, to the base at Futemma in Okinawa, crashed at 12:50 p.m. local time today (11:50 p.m. Sunday EDT).

Japanese reports had said 19 people were aboard.

Expo Labeled A 'Success'

Greenville's first trade fair was a "big success," and the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce already is making plans for next year's Expo, according to chamber President Ed Walker.

A total of 17,287 people attended Expo '85 during its three-day run last week. People visited the trade fair from 83 cities outside of Pitt County, Walker said, including residents of Virginia, Wisconsin, New York, Maryland, South Carolina and all areas of North Carolina. The chamber had anticipated 15,000 to 20,000 people to attend the fair.

Walker said the staff of the chamber already is planning next year's fair because of the positive comments they have received about Expo '85.

"We sent out a critique sheet and many exhibitors said it was the most successful trade fair they had ever been in," Walker said. "Exhibitors said they did a lot of business.

"I think it was very educational because people in the county did not realize all the county has to offer," he added.

"The trade fair will be larger next year," Walker said. "Many exhibitors have already pre-committed for next year and have said they want a larger booth space. A lot of people who were not involved this year have already asked to be a part of it next year."

Wife Abuse Is Major Concern

By MELANIE PHILLIPS
Reflector Staff Writer

The FBI estimates that every 18 seconds a woman is beaten in the United States. Violence occurs in one out of every four relationships and one out of every 10 married women is regularly and severely beaten.

The statistics go on. Fifty percent of all marriages involve at least one episode of violence between spouses. Fifteen to 28 million women are repeatedly abused, many with serious physical harm. About 10 percent of all incidents involve lethal weapons.

Domestic violence is a serious and dangerous problem and Pitt County is not immune to it. From 1980 to 1984 Pitt County reported 261 persons convicted and placed on probation parole for assault on female charges involving husband-wife relationships. Of these, 93 occurred in 1983.

This figure does not include cases that were dismissed by the courts or dropped by the victim of the abuse, nor the number of abuse incidents that were never reported to police.

The Pitt County Family Violence Program, established in September 1984 by concerned members of the community, recognizes and deals with any type of family violence — husbands against wives, parents against children, children against parents, and siblings against siblings. Funded by the North Carolina Council on the Status of Women, the organization is headed by Executive Director Cynthia Perry.

Studies show that the most prevalent and most dangerous form of domestic violence is the abuse of women by men. When a woman appears in the emergency room because she has been beaten by her husband, the incident is only reported to the police if a weapon, such as a gun or knife was used. If an abused woman wishes to press charges against the abuser, the odds of her case reaching a courtroom are no better than 100 to one, according to "The Family Secret: Domestic Violence in America."

This is only one of the reasons that domestic violence is a major problem for women. Another is that violence, especially husband against wife, is often considered the norm and victims are hesitant to seek help.

According to Mary Louis, board president and clinical social worker in the Department of Family Medicine of the East Carolina University School of Medicine, social attitudes discourage women from seeking assistance and protection. "Women are socialized to believe that they are supposed to take everything, or that if they are victims of violence, it

U.S. Bid For Trade Talks Dead

BOXX, West Germany AP—President Reagan faces the prospect of intensified protectionist pressure from Congress following his failure at the seven-nation economic summit to reach an agreement on opening a new round of international trade talks.

French President Francois Mitterrand ignored pressure from Reagan to endorse language calling for a new trade round to begin next year.

Mitterrand told the other leaders repeatedly during the summit that concluded Saturday that beginning such talks without a firm agenda might threaten the 10-nation European Common Market's system of farm subsidies.

However, the Reagan administration has said it wants agriculture and a variety of other items to be included in the talks, which would be conducted under the auspices of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, an organization of 90 countries.

Moreover, the administration has been concerned that the mounting U.S. trade deficit — $123 billion last year and growing — will prompt protectionist actions that officials fear could spark a trade war.

In addition, protectionist sentiment in Congress has been rising again this year, with both the House and Senate overwhelmingly endorsing non-binding resolutions calling on the president to impose sanctions and quotas on countries that restrict their markets to U.S. goods.

Now, without a summit agreement, it is unclear how the administration might hold off further moves along those lines.

"We don't have to speculate about the protectionist threat in the United States, it is real, it is current, it is substantial," said a senior administration official who attended the summit.

"So we have to do everything we can to seek to prevent that and this seeking new trade talks is just one of the things," said the official. He assessed the summit on condition he would not be quoted by name.

Resolving the impasse will not be easy.

French Foreign Minister Roland Dumas said Sunday that in spite of differences among European countries at the Bonn economic summit, Europeans will recognize that they need to be "strong, united and coordinated" in the face of the United States and Japan.

Japan, under pressure because of its growing trade surplus, was also seeking a new trade round to relieve protectionist pressure that might be aimed at the Japanese.

In an interview on French television, Dumas said, "In the face of this enormous industrial and economic power represented by the United States and, at the other end, Japan, Europe must exist."

Dear Abby — By Abigail Van Buren

Small Point Is Big Deal To Fans of Harry Truman

DEAR ABBY: Every time I see Harry S. Truman's name spelled Harry S. Truman—with a period after the "S"—I am annoyed because I know it doesn't belong there. Concerning Truman, the following appears in the Encyclopedia Americana, volume 27, page 174 (copyright 1973):

"...His birthplace was south of the west-central Missouri area into which his grandparents had moved from Kentucky four years earlier. The middle letter 'S' in his name is not an abbreviation; it reflects the family's reluctance to choose between his grandfathers—Anderson Shippe Truman and Solomon Young—in selecting his name."

Practically every news source I have ever read about President Truman has made this mistake. Worse yet, I recently came across an advertisement for a gold coin being minted to commemorate the 100th birthday of President Truman, and on the face of it, this glaring error appears!

I am writing to you because your column appears in just about every important newspaper in the United States, and I hope your readers as well as your editors will see this, and quit perpetuating this mistake.

DAVID LOOMIS, NACOGDOCHES, TEXAS

DEAR DAVID LOOMIS: I, too, had heard that there should be no period after the "S" in Harry Truman's name, but I noticed there was one on the jacket of the book titled "Harry S. Truman," written by his daughter, Margaret, so I wrote to Margaret and asked: (a) What the "S" in her father's name stood for; and (b) should there be a period after the "S"?

Margaret replied: "The 'S' in Dad's name stands for nothing. There was a family argument about what his middle name should be, so to keep peace in the family, he was baptized Harry S."

Margaret further stated: "My father always put a dot after the letter 'S'; that's why it appears on the cover of the biography I wrote about him."

So, dear readers, even though the "S" in Harry Truman's name stands for nothing and is not an abbreviation for anything, because Harry himself always put a dot after the letter "S," I would say that it belongs there. Period.

DEAR ABBY: About two years ago, I read your column in the Peru (Ind.) Daily Tribune in which you asked your readers to write to a serviceperson overseas, so thinking it might be fun, I did just that. Several weeks later I received a letter from an officer in the U.S. Air Force, stationed in Korea.

We corresponded for over a year, never expecting to meet. Then I moved to another city about the same time he was sent to the United States. We soon learned that we were only a few hours apart, and decided somewhat hesitantly to meet.

It seems that fate was at work for us, for we met, and it was love at first sight for the both of us. We are being married in May.

Thank you, Abby, for had it not been for you, we never would have met.

IN LOVE IN INDIANA

DEAR IN LOVE: Congratulations and best wishes. Thanks for writing. Your letter made my day.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Exhausted," the 46-year-old woman children be aware of their feelings and try to maintain their emotional health. Be honest with yourself, share your thoughts with people you trust, and express anger through physical exercise or other constructive means.

Although divorce is an unpleasant situation, it can be a time of growth for everybody in the family. There are many people who can help you work through the problems caused by divorce. Don't neglect these sources of help.

Shedrick said that there is a pattern to abuse, but that each man is an individual case. "Our sessions are relaxed. It's not therapy. Our main focus is to simply stop the violence; then we can dwell on problems beyond that." He added that the men do most of the talking while he initiates discussion and keeps the focus of the discussions in perspective.

He said that the No. 1 priority of the abuser support groups is to protect the women and to stop violence. The second goal is to control the abuser and help him to understand physical and psychological effects of abuse on his family.

Ms. Perry said that the need for a shelter for victims of abuse is "critical in Pitt County. The best our program can offer now is one night lodging in a motel. We cannot expect a woman who is leaving her husband because of a domestic violence crisis — many times in the middle of the night with nothing but the clothes on her back, her children in tow — to get her life together in one night. We must stop and consider the multiplicity of the issue."

The woman who leaves an abusive husband must work to get over the trauma of the assault and leaving her husband. She needs to gain a perspective on her position and talk to an objective person in order to find options and community resources available to her for help. "A shelter can provide ongoing support for the family right on the premises," Ms. Perry said.

But abusers seldom get help for themselves voluntarily, nor do they easily admit that they are abusers and have a problem, according to Tony Shedrick, probation/parole officer for Pitt County and member of the Task Force for Domestic Violence.

Dr. Robert Cargill, a professional dentist, is available for consultations. He can also choose to get help because he is an abuser.

Mental Health Perspectives

Divorce
by Marsha L. Mills, Communications Specialist

Divorce is the legal breakup of husband and wife. More than one-third of all marriages in the United States today end in divorce, and more than half of these divorces involve children.

Divorce disrupts the family cycle requiring an adjustment to changes in your life. Divorce also triggers many strong feelings and emotions such as anger, confusion, depression and relief. Children of divorced couples may feel they are the cause of their parents' breakup. It is important that the parents and Resolving the impasse will not be easy.

French Foreign Minister Roland Dumas said Sunday that in spite of differences among European countries at the Bonn economic summit, Europeans will recognize that they need to be "strong, united is because they are not being 'a good little girl,'" Ms. Louis said. This attitude dates back to the time when women, wives and daughters, were considered property.

"This still exists," Ms. Louis said. "As a society, we do not condemn violence. Even children are spanked in school."

Ms. Louis related the results of a poll taken of 1,000 men and women who had never attended college. Twenty percent of those questioned approved of wife beating. Twenty-four percent of 1,000 men and women polled who had attended college approved of wife beating. "So much for education," Ms. Louis said.

"People have the value that violence is OK. Some of these values exist because the abuser was once the abuser or witnessed abuse of one or more family members."

Ms. Louis gave an example of the cyclical nature of domestic violence. If a woman is abused, Ms. Louis said, and doesn't do anything about it — call the police or leave the husband — "the child will see that Mommy thinks the abuse is OK and will grow up thinking that violence is OK. Sure, the child will be scared if he is taken up by his mother and moved away from his father, but if the mother does not do this, she is teaching him to accept violence."

Drinking is involved in 40 percent to 95 percent of wife beatings and is an excuse for violence, according to Ms. Louis. "Alcoholics have lots of violence in their background. Also, studies are now showing that an alcoholic often has a presence of abuse in his past. Abuse used to be called a result of alcoholism, but studies are showing that abuse may be a contributing factor in alcoholism," she said.

"All people can be violent. The potential is there," according to Ms. Louis, but it is "acting on these feelings that is bad. Violence is a choice." The abuser chooses to act out his anger, insecurity, and dominance. He can also choose to get help because he is an abuser.

But abusers seldom get help for themselves voluntarily, nor do they easily admit that they are abusers and have a problem, according to Tony Shedrick, probation/parole officer for Pitt County and member of the Task Force for Domestic Violence.

The matron of honor and bridesmaids each wore a light blue satin gown with puffed sleeves and sweetheart necklines. Each carried a single white rose with blue and white ribbon streamers.

FACTORY OUTLET SALES RISING

NEW YORK (AP) — Factory outlet sales of men's and boy's wear is expected to reach the $9 billion mark this year, up from $7.5 billion in 1984.

"The reason for this rise," says Marvin A. Blumenfeld, president of April-Marcus Inc., a merchandising consulting firm, "is that today people are more interested than ever in getting their money's worth, and there is good economy at these outlet stores."

Outlet stores are no-frill clothing stores than can charge less than regular stores.

The Police Department has initiated a "Citizen Ride Along" Program for Greenville residents who are interested in seeing how police operate while on patrol. If interested, call 752-3342 for details.

Bonner-Culbreth Wedding Vows Solemnized

The wedding ceremony of Karen Elaine Culbreth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Culbreth of Greenville, and Kemp Plummer Battle Bonner III, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Jobey of Lynnwood, Wash., took place Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Garber Methodist Church in New Bern.

The best man was Eddie Adams of New Bern. Ushers were Grady Dickerson II of Kinston, Paul and Gene Lockhart Jr., both of Havelock City, and Paul Morris of Havelock.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown with a chapel train of organza with chantilly lace over taffeta. FIRST SIGN OF A FUTURE CAVITY
You want to be able to keep your teeth free of decay and maximize the number of fillings and other restorations. But this problem is difficult to solve without professional help. For example, if you could detect the first sign of a future cavity you'd be ahead of the game.
The first noticeable sign is a white spot on the unbroken surface of a tooth. The outer enamel of a tooth is much denser than the inside, which is composed of a tooth mineral rich in calcium. Once the acid that causes decay breaks the outer barrier, however, and a cavity begins to form, the tooth must be restored and protected with a filling. Even before the white spot appears, considerable mineral within the tooth may have been lost to decay.
That's one reason why regular dental checkups are recommended. Under the professional eyes of your dentist, problems can be discovered in their early stages when they are much easier and much less costly to treat.
Left untreated, dental decay can cause havoc. It can and will only get worse. Dentistry is one area of medicine where potential problems can be "seen" before they get out of hand.

The IRS

This past April provided American taxpayers a view of the other side in collecting income taxes.

Over innumerable years the image of income tax-filing time has been that of the payer laboring late into the haggard hours. The humor corresponded: pretty basic stuff, with the IRS being mailed emaciated wallets, the shirt-off-my-back routine, and on and on.

The 1985 filing season took off on a routine flight and normalcy prevailed until an IRS spokesman reported a computer problem had arisen and the agency's processing pace had been dealt a setback. The annual flood of returns was undiminished, and paperwork was said to be piling up on overworked employees in the regional service centers.

It gave rise to rumors some desperate workers shredded returns or otherwise disposed of them. A quick investigation proved a rumor is a rumor ... that was that. The deadline for receiving tax returns brought the usual late rush. The dikes were strained, but held.

New IRS figures show 19.9 million couples and individuals waited until the last week of the season to file their returns. That was almost 1.5 million more than last year and the figure has been rising for several years. There is no explanation. Not all the last-minute filers owed taxes — some were due a refund.

When you get right down to it, it is amazing the Internal Revenue Service can process so many millions of returns over a period of just a relatively few weeks. It is made easier, we suspect, by general recognition the income tax is the principal revenue source for operating the government, and a good grade for honesty among taxpayers at large. There's more.

Workers for the IRS must be presumed to have a high esprit. And we know, too, they are very much like the people they serve: same dreams, problems, good days and bad days. They fill out their Form 1040, too.

All hands at the IRS have been racing the clock to avoid paying interest on overdue tax refunds. About $200 million in interest was paid for late refunds in each of the last two years and we're told it will be in that range again this year. The backlog of unprocessed returns has not been overcome, but reduced to within levels of coping. The agency's achievements have been remarkable.

The Stun

The stun gun appears to have found another home in North Carolina. Police officers in Hickory have been testing the device and are pleased with their findings.

The police chief observes that safety factors and effectiveness are involved. The nightstick, black-jack, flashlights and fists can do serious injury in subduing an individual resisting arrest. On the other hand, the stun gun is supposed to cause no lasting harm and provides prompt and effective control over an unruly person. It is no substitute for firearms but it does reduce dependence upon those more violent instruments of persuasion.

News reports of torture allegations in New York City, with stun guns, presumably gave most readers a sense of familiarity with the new device as well as some misgivings. They should relax. Someone is waiting in the wings to ease their concerns with a consoling "stun guns don't torture people; but there are possibly people with stun guns who would torture people."

In time they will probably find their way to the market.

Life used to be so much more simple.

Building A Presidential Image

"Gentlemen, I have been brought in by the President to find out what has gone wrong with his well-oiled public relations machine. Let's start with Nicaragua. Can anyone explain the foul-up with the Nicaraguan refugee kid who gave the President flowers at the dinner in Washington?"

"We couldn't find a Nicaraguan kid, so we dug up an American one. The chairman of the dinner is hard of hearing, so he introduced the kid to the President as a Nicaraguan refugee. How did we know the Prez would kiss her, and the press would find out she was born in the U.S.?"

"You'll admit the photo opportunity couldn't have come at a worse time. It made it appear the White House staff doesn't do its homework. Which brings me to my next question. Who told the President the Pope supported the United States policy in Nicaragua?"

"You can't lay that one on us. The President got a personal cable from the Vatican wishing him a 'Happy Easter,' and thought it was a signal that His Holiness would join our covert operations in Central America."

"Even if the President thought it, how did you people allow it to get on his cue cards?"

"The President ad-libbed that one on his own. He does it every once in awhile just to keep in practice. If the Pope hadn't denied it, no one would have ever known."

"I'll take your word the President dropped the ball on the Pope. Let's get the little old lady from the Navajo tribe whom the President honored at a White House Rose Garden ceremony."

"That was a darn good photo opportunity."

"It was until the woman told the President she couldn't live on what she was getting in Social Security."

"How did we know that she would say that? No one in the White House speaks Navajo."

"Correct me if I'm wrong. But didn't the lady bring some Indian gifts for the President?"

"Yeah. She brought a woven blanket and a sand painting."

"According to the newspaper reports, after she made her remarks about Social Security, a White House aide came up to her and bawled her out publicly for not following the script. They also said the aide told her to take her gifts and beat it."

"You would have done the same thing if a Navajo Indian screwed up your photo opportunity."

"Do you believe a scene such as that helped the President's image?"

"Well, it did send a strong message to anyone who was thinking of giving the President trouble on our budget cuts in Social Security."

"All right. Can we now get in Bitburg? Who was the brain who thought it would be a good idea for the President to visit a German cemetery?"

"That wasn't our baby. Chancellor Kohl's PR people thought up that photo opportunity."

"You can't blame the Germans for suggesting it. Who in the White House agreed to go along with it?"

"The Prez. He didn't tell any of us. We were in the dark as much as anybody. Kohl and the President cooked the cemetery stop up in the Oval Office, when the Chancellor started to cry and the President didn't know how to stop him. By the time the trip hit the fan, the President had his feet in cement and we couldn't budge him from Bitburg. We were lucky to talk him into visiting a concentration camp to give the other side an equal photo opportunity."

"Well, what do you propose to do now since the President has had the worst press month in his life?"

"We have to come up with a photo opportunity which will make everyone forget Bitburg."

"Such as?"

"We're building a ramp and we're going to get Mike Deaver to drive his BMW over the Berlin Wall."

A Dispute Over The Haggling

CHAPEL HILL — Gov. Jim Martin and Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan have spent the past four months in one disagreement after another. It shouldn't be surprising to hear, then, that the two can't even agree on how well they're getting along.

Both came before the annual N.C. Editorial Writers Conference at the Carolina Inn. Both were asked to characterize the general state of relations between the governor and the Legislature. Martin said things were pretty good. Jordan said things were pretty bad.

After lunch, one editor facetiously asked Martin if he'd like to declare the Legislative Building a hazardous waste site. The governor responded, "No, no," and then proceeded to characterize his publicized spats with Jordan, House Speaker Liston Ramsey and the Democratic Legislature as a form of media hype.

"On most issues, we've had a good, constructive, bipartisan debate," Martin said. He listed day care, state personnel reform, illegal drug fighting initiatives and the merit selection of judges as areas where there are honest and positive disagreements over policy.

Even on the issue of cutting taxes, Martin sounded conciliatory. "The Senate, I suppose, will come forth with a (tax cut) package that is somewhere between what I have proposed and what the House has passed and, if we do, then I think it will be a pretty good compromise."

In the press, partisan wrangling has overshadowed these positive debates, Martin said, because haggling makes better news copy.

A lot of media hype? Not so, says Jordan. Asked the same question at breakfast the next day, Jordan was conciliatory to the extent that he didn't put all the blame for the wrangling on Martin's shoulders. He said the Senate's decision to postpone Martin's State of the State address on the first day of the session "got us off on a rough footing."

But Jordan was critical of the governor. He said Martin was listening to aides who advise him to take "what is the best political stand" rather than try to work with the Legislature. For example, on Martin's criticism of the Basic Education Plan, Jordan said Martin was playing to his political base, ultra-conservative Christian fundamentalists, rather than working to help the state. "That's a political decision he's making, certainly not a statesman's position," Jordan said.

Even before the question was asked, Jordan had criticized the firings of several career state employees who were non-political. He said Martin's administration didn't have a central clearinghouse for making administrative decisions. The result was the firing of a career state employee involved in day care regulation at just the time the administration and the Legislature were trying to compromise on new day care laws. That employee had been very involved in the process, Jordan said.

Jordan said things have improved lately. He credited Ramsey, also a Democrat, with making important gestures to Martin. But Jordan predicted that things will never get very good. "I sense we're moving a little closer together but I don't think we'll have a close working relationship because of the scars that are already there."

There's a tired old plot used in many TV comedies. Two folks get into a squabble, stay angry at each other for most of the show and then make up. In the last minute, the two try to laugh off their fight but actually start it up again.

Martin and Jordan may close their comedy hour arguing about the argument they're not having.

Summit Talk Diminishes

WASHINGTON — Under prodding by senior White House aides, President Reagan has abandoned plans for a full-fledged summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev this year. Reagan instead forseees a brief meeting, probably at the United Nations this fall, with little prospect for concrete results.

National security adviser Robert McFarlane has taken the lead role in backing the president away from summit talk. Originally the strongest summit supporter next to Reagan himself, McFarlane has become alarmed by Gorbachev's hard line and has come to fear overly high expectations about a meeting between the two leaders.

A footnote: Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige's scheduled trade mission to Moscow next month has been drastically curtailed. That's mainly because the Soviets reneged on their promise to prevent a repetition of the killing of Maj. Arthur Nicholson.

Freshmen Democratic Sens. Tom Harkin of Iowa and John Kerry of Massachusetts not only ignored the American Embassy while conferring with Daniel Ortega, Nicaragua's Marxist president, but kept the top U.S. diplomat in Managua on hold through the night.

Although the two senators did not check in with the embassy, U.S. Charge D'Affaires Stephen Gibson informed them he would be available all night to confer with them after their session with Ortega. They never called. Furthermore, U.S. diplomats had trouble extricating from the senators the substance of Ortega's "peace" proposal.

State Department officials were mortified when Harkin and Kerry were included on the Senate Democratic team sent to negotiate with the White House on aid to the anti-communist guerrillas. Both were anti-Vietnam activists and have been working closely with the leftist Institute for Policy Studies in fighting Reagan's Central American program.

Jeanne Kirkpatrick can still make things happen even though she is no longer ambassador to the United Nations, as embattled foreign aid administrator M. Peter McPherson found out.

Ms. Kirkpatrick returned from a quick trip to Central America as a private citizen furious that McPherson's Agency for International Development (AID) was holding up appropriated funds for refugee camps in Honduras along the Nicaraguan border. A little pressure on McPherson quickly released some money.

A footnote: With conservative Republicans in Congress hot after McPherson's scalp, he has turned to a longtime friend to try to save it: White House Communications Director Pat Buchanan. So far, Buchanan has shown no sign of helping his former colleague in the American Council of Young Political Leaders.

Texas Republicans are privately warning ex-Rep. Kent Hance, the Boll Weevil Democrat who co-sponsored the 1981 Reagan tax cut, that if he delays his conversion to Republicanism much longer he cannot count on an unimpeded path to the party's nomination for governor next year.

Hance could have had the nomination for the asking last month (when he conferred with Sen. Phil Gramm, who successfully made the Boll Weevil-to-Republican switch). But former Gov. William Clements and Rep. Tom Loeffler both are showing interest in making the race against Democratic Gov. Mark White and are testing sentiment.

While Hance has made no secret of his interest in running for governor, he has not clearly specified whether it would be as a Republican or Democrat. He was narrowly defeated in last year's Democratic primary for the Senate.

In the unlikely confines of the American ambassador's residence in East Berlin, conservative activist Ed Feulner threw down the gauntlet against Secretary of State George Shultz's campaign for career Foreign Service officers in policymaking posts.

Feulner, head of the Heritage Foundation and an intimate of Attorney General Edwin Meese, warned Ambassador Rozanne Ridgway that conservatives would block her nomination as assistant secretary of state for Europe. During a two-hour visit to her residence, he said the key policy post must be filled by a "political" (non-career) appointment.

Shultz previously overrode objections from White House personnel chief Robert Tuttle in persuading President Reagan to appoint Ms. Ridgway, who had been named to the Berlin post by President Jimmy Carter. Shultz has no intention of backing away from her. He contends the fact she would be the first woman to run a State Department regional bureau would help overcome opposition in the Senate.

Strength For Today

We live in an age characterized by speed. Two hundred years ago people traveled as their ancestors had done for centuries. One hundred and fifty years ago the steam locomotive was coming into widespread use.

It had been prophesied that the day would come when people could travel as rapidly as 40 miles an hour. To this claim a great English authority made the rejoinder: "This could never be; man under such circumstances could not breathe."

We have speed, but do we have direction? It is significant that the first use man often makes of a new discovery is a bad use. Our scientific discoveries today all too often seem to point in the direction of racial suicide.

We all know how reckless the adolescent is who has just learned to drive an automobile. Unfortunately, in the use of our new discoveries our generation often has the characteristics of an adolescent.

Farm Scene

By MITCH SMITH
Agricultural Extension Agent

Drought-stricken tobacco places tobacco growers under the usual anxiety of having to decide whether or not to reset that crop which has been previously transplanted. This decision is a painful one due to the fact that the next effort might prove less successful than the first. Prior to the decision to start over, growers should ask themselves some important questions.

Based on the observation of tobacco that has been transplanted across the county, most has looked surprisingly good. This depends upon the time when a particular crop was set out. Fertilizer application method has strongly affected this. Tobacco which received its fertilizer through a broadcast procedure has experienced the most problems due to increased pressure from fertilizer salts. Farmers who are considering resetting should consider the investment already made in the fertilizer application.

Accessibility of tobacco transplants is also a consideration to be dealt with. Many growers have obtained transplants from out of state due to a lack of plants in the area. The results of these plants are mixed with the tendency of area-grown plants to out-perform imported plants. Growers who are limited in their ability to obtain extra transplants should refrain from destroying a stand that has already been established.

Probably the most important criterion to consider in making the decision to reset an entire field area is what percentage of the plants already present are expected to live. The only way to determine this is through a field count.

If the stand established has less than 90 percent of the plants alive, then the decision should be made to reset. Upcoming rainfall could also greatly influence what the percentage would be. Plants with only the bud exhibiting a green color would be counted as a living plant due to the fact that this area of the plant needs only a small amount of water to continue its life cycle.

The plants which were clipped across the county have been holding up better than normal plants due to a smaller leaf area and thus less water being lost from the plant itself. One of the benefits of clipping is that it reduces the amount of leaf area and causes the plant to emphasize root development. Growers who have questions concerning which plants are going to survive can perform a small test by flagging those plants which are questionable and observing their progress during the drought period.

Lebanese Holding Top-Level Session

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Amin Gemayel met the army's Higher Military Council in a crisis session today as Moslem-Christian fighting raged for the ninth day in Beirut. Shells hit the capital's airport and a hospital.

Police said five civilians were killed and 41 people, including 10 fighters, wounded in night-long battles that sputtered on after dawn.

Mortar shells and salvos of flaming rockets criss-crossed the sky over Beirut as militia gunners slugged it out by the light of parachute flares during the night.

By police count, 34 people have been killed and 228 wounded since sectarian fighting broke out on April 28.

Police said the two-story, mid-city headquarters of Beirut's military tribunal was destroyed early this morning by incendiary shells.

Soviet Generals Killed

MOSCOW (AP) — An undisclosed number of Soviet air force officers, including a regional commander, his deputy and another general, have been killed in the line of duty, the armed forces newspaper reported today.

The newspaper, Krasnaya Zvezda (Red Star), did not say how the men died, but the wording of the announcement indicated their deaths came in an accident, possibly an air crash.

The newspaper did not say how many officers were killed or where the accident took place.

"On May 3, 1985, in the course of their military duties, a group of generals and officers of the Carpathian military district air force were tragically killed," the report said.

The Carpathian district borders Czechoslovakia, Poland and Romania.

The use of the phrase "tragically killed" and the fact that the air force officers were on duty indicated they may have been killed in an air crash.

The Soviet Union is secretive about such accidents, and it was not likely that further details would be released.

Home Preferred

LONDON (AP) - The British just don't go to the movies much any more, preferring to stay home to watch the telly. And movie makers would like to change that.

"It's nicer to see films in a cinema than at home," said Tom Conti, star of "Reuben, Reuben." "Merry Christmas, Mr. Lawrence," and "American Dreamer," as he and other British stars kicked off a year-long push Thursday to persuade people to go out to the movies more often.

Industry officials say the British cinema industry, which sold 1.6 billion tickets in 1984, sold only 66 million in 1983.

Almost 30 percent of British homes have video recorders, believed to be a larger percentage than in any other nation. Tape rental shops have mushroomed in recent years.

Fund Cuts Highlight Breakfast

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Severe federal cutbacks, a restricted state budget for human services, a governor asking for tax cuts, and strained local funds were the focus of a legislative breakfast held this morning by the Mental Health Association and the Association for Retarded Citizens in Pitt County.

State Reps. Ed Warren and Walter Jones Jr. and state Sens. Tom Taft and Bob Martin told those present they will do what they can to see that mental health and mental retardation programs are maintained. "We are not going along with the governor on his tax cuts, because there are so many unmet human needs among the citizens of this state," Taft told the group.

Dr. William Martin, a member of the boards of director of both the Mental Health Association and the Association for Retarded Citizens, told the group that the needs of mental health and mental retardation clients are likely to be seriously hampered by the U.S. Treasury Department's proposed reform of charitable deductions. Both individuals and corporate citizens have to be aware of their tax situations when they give to the less fortunate, he said, and giving through non-profit organizations will likely be cut billions of dollars nationwide if the proposals now being considered for the 1985 tax year are carried out.

Dr. Steve Creech, interviewed after the program, said huge cuts in the Pitt County Mental Center program are anticipated for the coming fiscal year, with nine staff positions and eight consulting positions expected to be lost as of July 1. He said the cuts will be across all programs so that programs now underway will have to be eliminated.

Hospitals Face Rating By Patrons

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal regulation going into effect this month will enable consumers to judge for themselves how well their local hospitals are doing their jobs.

Beginning May 17, the public will get access to comparative data about hospitals, including such things as rates of death and post-surgical infection, that have been gathered by Peer Review Organizations.

PROs, created by Congress in 1982 and fully operational only last November, are private companies that contract with the government to oversee hospital operations to police the quality of care provided Medicare patients.

Made up of health professionals, they are under orders to reduce unnecessary surgery, avoidable deaths and complications resulting from treatment while increasing the use of cheaper alternative services, such as outpatient care.

Their contracts with the government establish specific annual goals for Medicare patients. For example, California Medical Review Inc., the PRO for California, has goals including a 20 percent reduction in breast biopsies and a 40 percent reduction in cataract surgeries.

In the process of achieving its goals, a PRO peeks into every corner of a hospital's operations, looking for unnecessary admissions, premature discharges, inappropriate procedures or substandard care.

If they find such problems, they can bar admission of Medicare patients, refuse payment for unnecessary service or even impose fines on hospitals.

The Health and Human Services Department published final regulations April 17, ordering public disclosure of the hospital data — but not that on individual doctors — that had been gathered by the PROs.

Under the regulations, the hospital must be given 30 days notice of the impending release, and can include any explanatory data it wishes.

Many in the hospital industry fear the information to be released will be inaccurate, unfair or misunderstood, damaging worthy institutions.

"Very often, the determination of the PROs are only initial determinations that are subject to an appeals process," said Peter Aronson, a Los Angeles lawyer who specializes in health care issues and who is counsel for the Federation of American Hospitals. "If they make that public, they may be putting out a whole lot of stuff that isn't true."

"What happens if it turns out that the PRO is wrong?" he asked. "How do you unring that bell?"

But consumer advocates say the regulations offer consumer groups, businesses, unions and journalists an opportunity to begin public debate on important health issues — and the chance to make hospitals more answerable to the public.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed ahead today, extending Friday's modest rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose .77 to 1,248.01 in the first half hour.

Gainers took a 6-5 lead over losers in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

One news item that caught the eye of many Wall Streeters was a statement by Preston Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, that the Fed plans to reduce stock margin requirements — the minimum down payment set for investors who buy stock using borrowed money.

For more than a decade, the Fed has kept the margin limit at 50 percent of a stock's purchase price.

A relaxation of the margin rules would logically stand to make stocks more attractive to investors willing to take significant risks in the hope of realizing large profits.

Analysts' enthusiasm was restrained a bit, however, by the impending sale of $20.5 billion in bonds and notes by the Treasury this week. Wall Streeters will be closely watching the response the offering gets for clues to the future direction of interest rates.

Among today's early volume leaders, American Telephone & Telegraph rose 1/8 to 21 1/4; Chrysler gained 1/8 to 35; PepsiCo slipped 1/4 to 53, and Merrill Lynch was unchanged at 29 1/2.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average climbed 4.97 to 1,247.24, cutting its loss for the week to 27.94 points.

Advances outpaced declines by about 5 to 3 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 94.87 million shares, against 107.74 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .56 to 104.18. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .26 to 225.60.

Canadian Jury Convicts American

MONTREAL (AP) — A Rochester, N.Y., man has been sentenced to life in prison after a jury found him guilty of planting a bomb that killed three people and injured 47 at Montreal's main railway station last September.

Thomas Brigham, 65, was convicted Saturday on three charges of first-degree murder. He will not be eligible for parole for 25 years.

Defence lawyer Pierre Poupart said he planned to appeal the conviction.

Brigham told the jurors they had made a mistake, that he "wouldn't hurt a squirrel."

In a rambling, 30-minute speech following the verdict, Brigham explained he was "only an advance man" for cosmic forces and that he "wouldn't even set off fire crackers."

Brigham was arrested hours after a powerful pipe bomb hidden in a locker exploded in Central Station on Sept. 3, killing French tourists Marcelle Leblond, Eric Nicolas, and Michel Dubois.

During the trial that began on April 15, crown prosecutor Claude Parent called 20 witnesses and presented as evidence several notes written by Brigham that threatened a bombing.

Elliott Returns For Winston 500 Win

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Black smoke was spewing from beneath his car and Bill Elliott, so comfortable and confident only moments before, had a sinking feeling in the pit of his stomach.

"I didn't have any idea what was the matter, but I just felt terrible," Elliott said Sunday after an exciting come-from-behind victory in the Winston 500 Grand National stock car race.

"I figured it was time to start thinking about the next race," he added.

Instead, Elliott's crew, headed by his brother, Ernie, quickly replaced a broken fitting on an oil line and sent their driver back into the fray and on to the fastest 500-mile auto race of all time.

He averaged 186.288 mph in the blazing fast race, which was slowed only by two late caution flags for a total of eight laps. The average speed buried the previous 500-mile race mark of 177.620, set in the 1980 Daytona 500 by Buddy Baker.

MONDAY AFTERNOON, MAY 6, 1985

The fastest 500-mile Indy-car race of all-time — third on the overall list — was the 163.612 by Rick Mears in winning the 1984 Indianapolis 500.

Elliott, driving a Ford Thunderbird that sat on the pole for Sunday's race with a qualifying lap of 209.385 mph on the 2.66-mile tri-oval at Alabama International Motor Speedway, lost nearly two full laps during his 1-minute, 9-second pit stop.

After coming back onto the track on lap 49 of the 188-lap event, running just ahead of the leaders, he quickly served notice that he was not about to give up a thing by starting to turn laps of up to 205 mph, most of them while running alone on the huge track.

"The car worked pretty well and I wasn't consistently that quick," Elliott noted. "But whenever I was catching cars, catching their draft, I was running a little quicker."

Elliott's Coors-sponsored car steadily gained on the cars ahead of him. He was back on the lead lap to stay when he passed Cale Yarborough's leading Ford on lap 125. And the 29-year-old from Dawsonville, Ga., charged past Yarborough on lap 145 to regain the lead he had held several times early in the race.

And he made up all that ground without benefit of a caution period. In fact, the first caution flag did not wave until lap 159 when Geoff Bodine bounced off the fourth-turn wall.

Bodine was not injured and was able to drive his car into the pits.

The leaders pitted and Yarborough beat Elliott onto the track. The green flag came back out on lap 164 and Elliott took the lead for good five laps later, roaring past Yarborough and pulling away.

Eddie Bierschwale, who also escaped injury, hit the wall in the fourth turn on lap 173, bringing the leaders back into the pits for fuel and tires, but this time Elliott got out first and Kyle Petty, in another Thunderbird, slipped past Yarborough into second.

The green fell for the final time on lap 178 and, while Petty and Yarborough battled for second, Elliott simply ran easily to his fourth victory of the season and eighth of his career.

"I'll tell you what, I worked my tail off (after falling behind)," Elliott said. "I kept digging and the old car just held together."

"I think that (the comeback) says a lot for the car, the crew — the whole combination."

He became the first driver since David Pearson in 1976 to win four races in one year on superspeedways — tracks one mile or more in length. And Elliott now has won six of the last nine superspeedway events, as well as finishing second twice and fourth in the other.

Luther, Brown Power Bulls Past Generals

By The Associated Press
In the "Battle of the Heismans," the heroes were Ed Luther and Norris Brown.

Of course, neither player has won the coveted trophy as college football's best player, but they stole the show Sunday in the United States Football League game between New Jersey and Jacksonville that featured three Heisman winners.

In the Bulls' 30-20 victory over the Generals, Luther, the Jacksonville quarterback, hit 20 of 31 passes for 200 yards, while Brown ran a fourth-quarter kickoff back 82 yards for a touchdown that gave the Bulls a 23-20 lead.

"Jacksonville is a much improved team," New Jersey Coach Walt Michaels said. "In Luther, I think Lindy (Bulls' Coach Lindy Infante) has found the man to do the job."

Luther has led Jacksonville to a 5-3 record, including four straight victories, since joining the team March 4 from the San Diego Chargers. He was intercepted 14 times in his first six outings, but has not suffered another pass theft in the last two games.

In other USFL games Sunday, Baltimore edged Arizona 24-19, Denver bounced San Antonio 35-9 and Oakland beat Orlando 21-7. Tonight, Houston is at Portland.

On Friday night, Memphis downed Birmingham 38-24. On Saturday night, Tampa Bay topped Los Angeles 24-14.

A crowd of 60,100, largest in the USFL this year, saw 1982 Heisman winner Herschel Walker run for 169 yards on 29 carries, his fifth consecutive 100-yard game for the Generals. But Jacksonville held New Jersey quarterback Doug Flutie, the 1984 Heisman holder, to no yards on three carries and nine completions in 17 passing attempts for 148 yards.

The 1983 Heisman winner, Mike Rozier, had 87 yards and two touchdowns on 22 carries for the Bulls, now 6-5 for the season.

Rozier's longest run of the season, a 23-yard scamper up the middle with 1:51 remaining in the first quarter, pulled Jacksonville to within three points after New Jersey had jumped to a 10-0 lead with a field goal and Flutie's 30-yard touchdown pass to Sam Bowers.

Three field goals by Brian Franco helped the Bulls take a 16-13 lead in the third period, but the Generals, 7-4, regained the advantage on Maurice Carthon's 10-yard TD with 10:45 left in the game.

That's when Brown, a tight end who was waived by the Generals and picked up by Jacksonville on Feb. 18, took the spotlight.

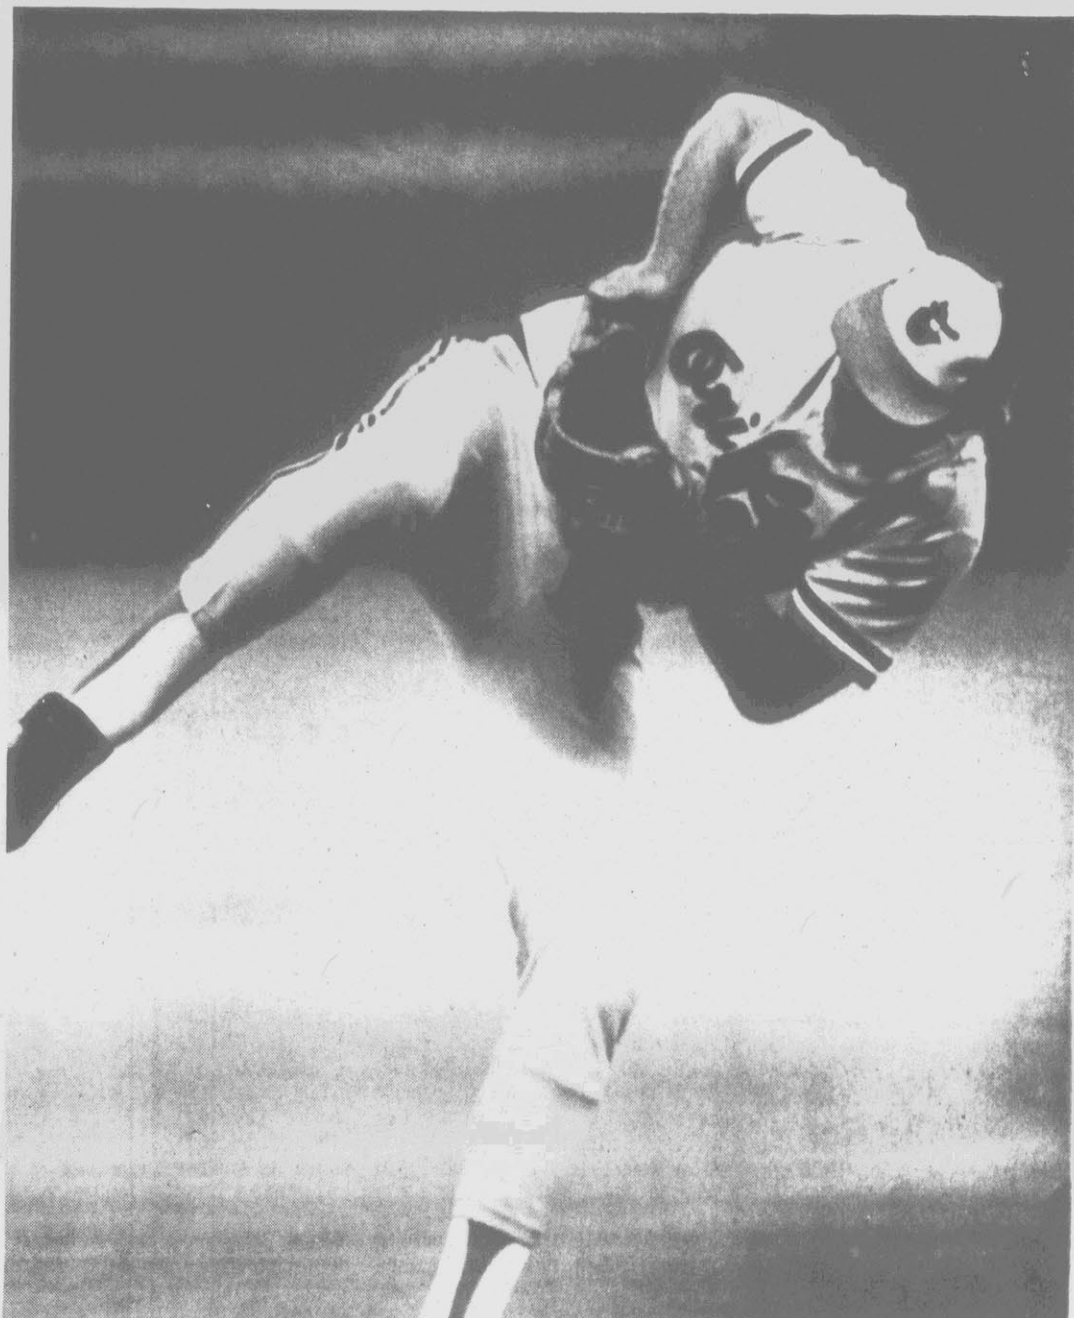

Brown took the ball at the 18 and scampered 82 yards down the right side. "I returned a ball like that in college," Brown said. "Surprisingly it was the same, but that time the kicker got me. I was so wide open this time that I thought I was going to pull a muscle or something."

Overton Wins Lakeland Event

LAKELAND, Fla. — Kristi Overton won first place in trick skiing Lakeland Three-Round Record Capability Trick Tournament held this weekend.

Overton, who posted a score of 7,140 points to win the event, also received an invitation to compete in the K.P. Masters to be held in England June 7-8. The K.P. Masters is widely considered the most prestigious tournament in England.

Overton, a freshman at E.B. Aycock Junior High School, is the current girls national overall champion.

Kite Takes Golf Title

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Going into the Masters at Augusta, Ga., Tom Kite "expected to win the golf tournament, or at least play well."

But he missed the cut. "It was the low point of one of the rare slumps the gritty little man has had in a 14-year PGA Tour career."

He came into the MONY Tournament of Champions expecting very, very little — improvement, perhaps, but nothing dramatic.

He won. He won by an impressive 6-stroke margin after leading all the way against an elite field composed only of the winners of Tour titles from the last 12 months.

"To have such a quick turnaround in my game is quite a surprise. I didn't expect to play great golf. I was just hoping to improve a little each week," Kite said after his solid, 3-under-par 69 in the final round had slammed the door on any would-be challengers.

He acquired a $72,000 check and the eighth title of his career with a 275 total, 13 shots under par on the La Costa Country Club course. He was over par on only three holes all week, took the lead with a tournament record-tying 64 in the first round and was never headed.

"I had a few missed shots, but that is to be expected with the changes I'm trying to make in my game," said Kite, who recently rearranged his playing schedule to spend some time with his teacher, Peter Kostis. And Kite, long regarded as one of the game's most consistent players, said the practice sessions, built around an attempt to more fully extend his swing, helped enormously.

"It's not 100 percent ingrained in my swing. It's still a conscious thought."

"But it's got me back to playing the way Tom Kite is supposed to play," he said.

Yankee Stadium Hex Continues

By The Associated Press

Ever since the infamous "Pine Tar Game", the Kansas City Royals can't seem to get unstuck at Yankee Stadium.

"I don't know about any hexes, but I do know we can't seem to hit and score runs here," said Royals third baseman George Brett after the New York Yankees defeated Kansas City 6-2 Sunday. It was New York's ninth straight victory over the Royals at Yankee Stadium.

The last time the Royals won at Yankee Stadium was Aug. 18, 1983, when the so-called "Pine Tar Game" came to a conclusion. Almost a month before, Brett had a game-winning home run nullified because he had too much pine tar on his bat. The homer was later allowed to stand and the teams were ordered to play the balance of the game.

"I can't add anything to what I said all weekend," said Kansas City Manager Dick Howser, whose Royals managed only five runs while being swept by the Yankees in the three-game series. "We're not hitting, and we can't win games if we don't hit."

In other American League games Sunday, it was Detroit 4, Chicago 3; Texas 7, Cleveland 2; Baltimore 10, Minnesota 5; California 5, Milwaukee 1; Oakland 6, Boston 3; and Seattle 4, Toronto 1.

Consecutive homers by Rickey Henderson and Don Mattingly in the fifth inning keyed the Yankee victory.

Henderson's two-run shot snapped a 1-1 tie. Mattingly then hit his first homer of the year, giving right-hander Phil Niekro, 42, all the runs he needed.

Niekro pitched 7 1/3 innings, giving up four hits, striking out four and walking six before leaving with a cramp in his upper right forearm. Dave Righetti finished up to record his seventh save.

Tigers 4, White Sox 3

Darrell Evans hit a two-run homer and three Detroit pitchers combined on a four-hitter as the Tigers earned a comeback victory over Chicago.

With the White Sox leading 3-1, Lou Whitaker started the Detroit lead with a single, took third on Alan Trammell's single and scored as Kirk Gibson's grounder forced Trammell. Then, with two out, Evans hit a pitch from Rich Dotson, 0-1, into the upper right field seats at Tiger Stadium for his second home run to give Detroit the lead.

Juan Berenguer, 1-1, wound up the winner despite falling behind 3-0 in the third. He worked the first six innings, giving up four hits, walking three and striking out three. Aurelio Lopez pitched the seventh and Willie Hernandez finished up, notching his fifth save for the Tigers.

Rangers 7, Indians 2

Buddy Bell singled and doubled to start a pair of two-run rallies and

Charlie Hough limited Cleveland to one earned run in five innings as Texas ended a three-game losing streak.

Hough, 2-1, allowed five hits, struck out three and walked two. Burt Hooton pitched one inning of one-hit relief and Greg Harris earned his first save with three scoreless innings, striking out five.

Don Schulze, 3-1, was the loser as the Indians had a three-game winning streak snapped.

Orioles 10, Twins 5

Cal Ripken went 5-for-6 and knocked in four runs and Jim Dwyer smashed a two-run homer during Baltimore's five-run fourth inning, leading the Orioles over Minnesota.

The Twins, who lost for only the second time in the last 13 games, took a 2-1 lead in the third inning on Mickey Hatcher's two-run double off Mike Boddicker, 4-1. But the Orioles went ahead to stay with their big fourth inning, scoring all the runs with two outs off Twins loser John Butcher, 3-2.

Baltimore, 9-2 in its last 11 games, belted eight doubles, tying a club single-game record. Ripken stroked two of the doubles and also added

RBI singles in the sixth, seventh and ninth innings. He had 10 hits in 15 at-bats in the three-game series.

Angels 5, Brewers 1

Reggie Jackson knocked in three runs with a double and homer and Doug DeCinces belted a two-run homer to spark California over Milwaukee for the Angels' ninth win in 11 games.

Right-hander Mike Witt, 2-3, scattered seven hits over seven innings, walking three and striking out four for his second straight win. Donnie Moore pitched the last two innings for his sixth save.

Detroit Reserves Pound Celts

By The Associated Press

The Detroit Pistons are even in their best-of-7 playoff with the Boston Celtics because they have a few good men...in reserve.

Backup guard Vinnie Johnson almost singlehandedly crushed Boston Sunday with 22 of 34 points in the fourth quarter as the Pistons outscored the Celtics 26-12 in the final 12 minutes for a 102-99 victory. The two teams are now tied 2-2 in their National Basketball Association Eastern Conference playoff series.

"Our bench is starting to play well," said Johnson, who scored the first 12 points of the fourth quarter to wipe out an 87-76 Boston lead. "We're starting to get into our rhythm like last year, when we were the A Team."

"You have to have depth in the playoffs," added reserve forward Terry Tyler, who had 18 points Sunday after pitching in 16 in the fourth quarter of Thursday night's Detroit triumph. "You've got to come through when you're called upon."

Detroit's bench, now known as the "Elite Second Fleet," outscored Celtic reserves 58-13 on Sunday.

In other NBA playoff games, Philadelphia tripped Milwaukee 121-112 to complete a 4-0 sweep. Portland defeated Los Angeles 115-107 to trim the Lakers' advantage to 3-1 and Denver downed Utah 125-118 to up its series margin to 3-1.

On Tuesday night, Utah is at Denver and Portland is at Los Angeles, while Detroit is at Boston on Wednesday.

Tyler and Johnson might be contributing as much on defense as on offense against the Celtics. They helped the Pistons hold superstar Larry Bird to 9-for-23 field-goal shooting and guard Dennis Johnson to 5-for-13.

"It's just a matter of concentrating on defense," Tyler said. "We got turnovers when we had to have them."

But Celtics' center Robert Parish said Detroit's 49-45 rebounding advantage was as important as Boston's scoring slump.

"Lack of rebounding, not lack of scoring hurt us," Parish said. "Momentum has definitely swung their way. We're going to have a dogfight on Wednesday."

Kevin McHale, who led Boston with 24 points, tossed in a 17-foot shot and Bird nailed a three-point goal in the final 37 seconds of the third period to give the Celtics its nine-point lead going into the fourth quarter.

But a five-minute scoring drought spelled doom for the Celtics.

"It's nothing complicated...their shots went in and ours didn't," Boston Coach K.C. Jones said.

76ers 121, Bucks 112

Philadelphia, which finished one game behind Milwaukee in the regular-season Eastern Conference standings, completed a surprising sweep of the Bucks. Moses Malone had 31 points and 13 rebounds and Andrew Toney 23 points and 11 assists to lead the 76ers, who rallied from an eight-point deficit in the third quarter to overcome the Bucks.

"We didn't dominate them," Malone said. "They were four tough games. All three of their centers showed that they could play when things were really physical under there."

Philadelphia, which reached the second round by eliminating the Washington Bullets, outscored the Bucks 20-6 for an 83-77 lead at the end of the third period.

"Philadelphia is a sleeping giant right now," Bucks Coach Don Nelson said. "They woke up somewhere along the line in the Washington series and they really came to life."

Milwaukee, which got 25 points apiece from Paul Pressey and Sidney Moncrief, never got closer than five points in the fourth quarter, the last time at 113-108 with 1:41 left. Toney, who hit 11 of 14 shots from the field in the game, was 6-for-6 in the final period.

Trail Blazers 115, Lakers 107

Mychal Thompson scored six of his 17 points in the final 30 seconds, including four straight foul shots, to help Portland avoid a sweep and hand Los Angeles its first loss after six straight playoff victories.

Clyde Drexler had 15 points, 10 assists and seven rebounds for the Blazers and also keyed a trapping defense that forced Los Angeles into 28 turnovers.

"If the guys wanted to go home, this was the perfect opportunity," Drexler said. "But this team has a lot of character. I just hope we can carry it over down there (in Los Angeles)."

The Lakers led 30-23 after one period, but the Trail Blazers outscored Los Angeles 36-19 in the second quarter for a 59-49 halftime lead.

Portland stretched the margin to as many as 16 points in the third period before the Lakers rallied, cutting the deficit to 108-105 with 1:13 left. Thompson started his late run of points with a dunk after a steal by Drexler.

Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 31 points and 13 assists for the Lakers, while Kareem Abdul-Jabbar added 21 points.

Nuggets 125, Jazz 118

Denver led 62-38 in the second period, then had to hold on as Utah cut the deficit to one in the final minute of the game.

Alex English hit 14 of 19 field-goal attempts and scored 42 points for the Nuggets, while Adrian Dantley had 33 points and Darrell Griffith 28 for the Jazz.

Thurl Bailey, who had 21 points for Utah, hit a layup to make it 119-118 with 45 seconds left. After Dan Issel hit a long jumper for Denver, Dantley was fouled and had a chance to cut the deficit to one again, but he missed both free throws and Denver got two free throws and another basket by Issel in the final seconds.

Anderson Pleased By Closing Bleachers

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson, for one, isn't sorry to see the bleacher sections closed in Tiger Stadium.

Anderson praised club President Jim Campbell's decision to close the bleachers indefinitely because of rowdy fan behavior.

"You don't hear anything like that in any other major league city," Anderson said Sunday. "In San Francisco, they used to get on Pete Rose a little, but it was nothing like this stuff."

Campbell announced his decision Saturday night. He said the action was triggered by bleacher fans chanting profanities.

Anderson said his players are embarrassed when they hear the obscene chants.

"If I had my son out there and that chanting happened, I'd be gone — and I'd never come back," he said. "I think he did the right thing. If that don't stop them, they might have to shut it down forever. That's an embarrassment to the ballclub."

Campbell said the bleachers will remain closed indefinitely — including tonight's exhibition game against the Cincinnati Reds.

"Some people will be angry, but so what," Campbell said. "I'm not going to put up with that type of behavior. The fans out there are going to have to govern themselves and discourage some of that behavior."

Some workers at the ballpark were quite happy by the decision.

"I used to work out there in center field, but I asked to be transferred," said veteran stadium usher Rudy Balla. "They're just animals."

Many fans, although upset, seemed to understand the reason for the closing.

"It's good, you've got to stop that," said Mike Butler of suburban Center Line. "I'm here to laugh, chuckle, have a few beers and watch the pretty girls walk around. But, you don't need that stuff (profanity)."

The chant began in the third inning Saturday night and the public address announcer called for a halt. When the chant started again in the seventh inning, the announcer read the same notice, but concluded by saying "more drastic measures will be taken."

The Tigers closed the bleachers for one game in 1980 because too many beach balls were falling from the stands onto the field, interrupting play.

Mahler Still Hottest Pitcher

By The Associated Press

No one expected Rick Mahler to rival Dwight Gooden this year. So far, he hasn't — he's three wins better.

While Gooden, last year's National League rookie of the year, was improving his record to 4-1 Sunday as the New York Mets edged Cincinnati 3-2, Mahler won his seventh decision without a loss as the Atlanta Braves beat Montreal 6-1. San Diego's Andy Hawkins is 5-0 and no one else in the majors has more than four wins.

Mahler has been a 500 pitcher for most of his six major-league years. He was 13-10 last season and entered 1985 with a career mark of 30-25.

"There were times when I thought my opportunity would be with another organization," he said Sunday.

"The difference is that I'm a lot more confident now. I'm not beating myself as before with walks. I don't think I have any better stuff than I did a couple of years ago. I just know how to use it better."

In other National League games, it was San Francisco 5, St. Louis 0; Pittsburgh 3, Los Angeles 2; and Houston 4, Philadelphia 1.

The game between Chicago and San Diego was suspended by darkness in the seventh after being delayed by rain three times. It will be resumed July 31 with the Cubs leading 4-2.

"I hope it doesn't stop and I hate to think it might," Mahler said of his winning streak.

He scattered eight hits in eight innings and Terry Harper knocked in three runs as the Braves salvaged the third game of their series with the Expos. Mahler was more tantalizing than overpowering.

"I've never seen a change up that slow," said Montreal second baseman U.L. Washington.

A throwing error by Expos third baseman Tim Lincecum and a run-scoring single by Harper gave the Braves a 2-0 lead in the first against Bill Gallickson. 32 Dan Driessen's fourth homer in the second did Montreal's only damage.

Rafael Ramirez doubled home a run in the third. Harper doubled home two more in the fifth and Glenn Hubbard scored on Claudell Washington's groundout in the eighth.

Mets 3, Reds 2

Gooden struck out nine in seven innings, then Jesse Grosco came in to shut down the Reds over the final two and pick up his third save.

Rookies John Christensen and Lenny Dykstra, replacing the injured George Foster and Mookie Wilson, each singled in a run for the Mets. Dave Van Gorder doubled home both the Reds' runs.

Still, the 20-year-old Gooden was almost apologetic.

"I'd started getting into my rhythm pretty good, but I didn't have my best stuff," he said. "It was kind of off and on."

Don't tell that to the Reds.

"The phenomenal thing about him is his control," said player-manager Pete Rose, who had three hits in five trips to move within 74 hits of Ty Cobb's all-time mark. "Of course, we helped him a little bit by swinging at high fastballs. But that's what guys like (Sandy) Koufax and (Bob) Gibson did."

Astros 1, Phillies 3

Jose Cruz, who has nine hits in his last 16 at bats, had a two-run homer and a double for Houston to raise his average to .355 then said, "I don't feel too comfortable at the plate yet. Maybe I'll get comfortable when I get to 350."

Joe Niekro, 23, was the winner, going seven innings and scattering seven hits. Bill Dawley and Frank DiPino finished up. Niekro also had an RBI double in the second.

But it was Cruz who did the major damage with his two-run first-inning homer that gave the Astros a lead they never lost.

"People don't recognize how good he is," said Manager Bob Lillis. "He keeps putting the numbers on the board year after year."

Giants 5, Cards 0

Dave LaPoint, traded by St. Louis to San Francisco in the off-season deal involving Jack Clark, won his first game after four losses for the Giants and snapped his team's four-game losing streak in the process.

LaPoint, who has a 1.73 ERA despite his 1-4 record, limited the Cards to six hits and said he may have been helped by facing his former teammates.

"It wasn't very comfortable. I'll tell you that," he said. "Those are guys I'd shared jokes with for three or four years. But I guess in a way it worked out better that way. I had to put it all out of my mind. It helped me to concentrate."

LaPoint also chimed in with a double, the first of his major league career. The Giants were helped by two errors on pickoff plays by Joaquin Andujar, who lost his first decision after four wins.

Pirates 3, Dodgers 2

The Pirates fell behind 2-1 in the top of the eighth on Al Oliver's RBI double, then won it in the bottom of the inning when Joe Orsulak and Johnny Ray drew bases-loaded walks to force in the tying and winning runs.

"I don't think it was any kind of a great comeback but it's a win and that's a plus for us," said Pittsburgh's Bill Madlock, who started the winning rally with a single.

Tom Niedenfuer, 1-1, came on to strike out George Hendrick, but Jason Thompson sent Madlock to third with a single. Tony Pena struck out, but Niedenfuer walked pinch-hitter Steve Kemp to load the

Gioni To Sign At N.C. State

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Mike Gioni, dismissed from Indiana's basketball team in January, will transfer to North Carolina State, where he'll be eligible to play starting in the 1986-87 season, according to a published report.

A story in The Newark Sunday Advocate said Gioni would make a trip to the North Carolina State campus to sign a letter of intent within the next two weeks.

It said Gioni did not want to talk about the move before the North Carolina State coaching staff made a statement.

North Carolina State Coach Jim Valvano, contacted by the newspaper at his Raleigh, N.C., office, said NCAA rules prevent him from commenting on any possible transfer until it is official.

Gioni, who will be a junior academically this year, will have to sit out the 1985-86 season and will have one year of collegiate eligibility remaining.

CBS Holding TV Reunion Of 'Murrow's Boys' Team

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — CBS News correspondent Douglas Edwards remembers V-E Day of 40 years ago for the spontaneous celebrations down London's Regent Street and for his on-air blooper when he called the historic occasion "V-D Day."

Edwards recalled how his boss and mentor, the legendary Edward R. Murrow, reacted: "He was laughing uncontrollably under the table. He really enjoyed my flub."

Another memory of that day was riding past St. Paul's Cathedral and seeing its dome glistening in the sun. "There was an expression back then — so long as St. Paul's survives, London survives — and it did," Edwards said.

Edwards and several colleagues, nicknamed "Murrow's Boys" for their wartime reporting under Murrow's direction, were in London this weekend for a reunion to mark the 40th anniversary of V-E Day.

The "CBS Morning News" assembled some of them Sunday for a roundtable discussion, anchored by Dan Rather, from London's Cafe Royal, a wartime journalistic hangout. Their war stories are being broadcast on the "Morning News" today, Tuesday and Wednesday, V-E Day.

Other Murrow team members on hand will be: Richard C. Hottelet, Eric Sevareid, Charles Collingwood, Winston Burdett and William L. Shirer, who went on to write "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich." Walter Cronkite, who covered the war for United Press, and "60 Minutes" pundit Andy Rooney; then a reporter for Stars and Stripes, the Army newspaper, also will participate.

Edwards covered the original victory celebrations with reports from Buckingham Palace and several pubs, where the suds and drinking songs were flowing freely. Then he joined Murrow for a gleeful, early-morning romp down Regent Street and some off-key singing of their own.

Meanwhile, Hottelet was not celebrating; he didn't even know the war was over. "I was the unwilling guest of the Soviet army," he said by telephone from London. On assignment, Hottelet had strayed to the Russian side of the Elbe River in Germany and was detained there for a day and a half.

"It was only when we crossed over to our side did we realize the war was over."

Hottelet, CBS' United Nations correspondent for the past 25 years, noted that, to this day, the Soviets celebrate V-E Day on May 9, when the official surrender ceremony was held in Berlin.

Journalism was much simpler back then, he added. "The war was right against wrong. It had to be fought and it had to be won. Everybody felt that way. Our reports were wanted, welcomed and appreciated. There were no doubts, as compared to today when journalism is sometimes held in low repute."

In those days, Murrow, famous for his reports from London's rooftops, set the standard for broadcast journalism. The correspondents he influenced still feel a debt.

Doctor Says Research Shows Link Between TV, Obesity In Children

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
AP Science Writer
BOSTON (AP) — A doctor has some advice for parents of chubby children: Turn off the television set.

His research shows that heavy doses of TV make children fat. Youngsters who spend a lot of time in front of the television in their pre-teen years often turn out to be obese adolescents.

"If there is a problem of obesity in the family or if their child is becoming overweight, they should consider reducing the amount of television time as a way of treating that problem," said Dr. William H. Dietz Jr. of New England Medical Center.

He suspects that devoted TV viewers are fatter than other youngsters because they eat more and exercise less.

Deitz's study, conducted with Dr. Steven L. Gortmaker of Harvard School of Public Health, was published in the May issue of the journal, Pediatrics.

"What was striking to us was that compared to many of the variables that have been associated with obesity in the past — such as social class, family structure and birth order — television was just about the best predictor of obesity," Gortmaker said.

The research showed that normal-size youngsters who watched a lot of television in their pre-teen years were more likely than moderate viewers to be overweight by the time they became teenagers.

Among these adolescents, the incidence of obesity increased by about 2 percent for each additional hour that they averaged in front of the television each day.

The study found that 10 percent of the teen-agers who watched an hour or less of TV a day were obese, compared with 20 percent of those who watched more than five hours daily.

FOCUS

Dirigible Disaster

On this day in 1937, the German airship Hindenburg burst into flames and crashed as it was landing in Lakehurst, New Jersey. The crash killed 36 of the 97 persons aboard. The Hindenburg was 812 feet long and had a volume of 7 million cubic feet. Airships were once called dirigibles, which comes from the Latin word dirigere, meaning "to steer." Certain small, nonrigid airships, called blimps, are probably the only airships in use today.

DO YOU KNOW — What tire and rubber company operates a fleet of blimps?

Medical Society Splits On Tobacco

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Medical Society has voted to go further than in the past in opposing the use of tobacco, but approved resolutions did not go as far as some delegates wanted.

The House of Delegates — the society's governing body — voted Saturday to "seek and support legislation that will restrict advertising of smokeless tobacco."

But they declined to adopt more extensive measures proposed by the Catawba County Medical Society. The more than 200 delegates, representing 70 county medical societies, declined to seek laws protecting non-smokers from tobacco smoke in public places; a state tax on tobacco products to "cover medical and social costs of the consequences of tobacco use;" or a state tax to fund agricultural and manufacturing alternatives to tobacco.

tee, which reviews county resolutions for state delegate action, decided that "enactment of the proposed taxation would be unlikely and would not accomplish the desired result."

Dr. James Gaither, who represented Catawba County's Medical Society, said the proposal was an attempt to get doctors and state officials to deal with the realities of tobacco.

"Not everybody uses tobacco, but everybody pays for the costs," he said. "I think they are scared by the status of tobacco in this state, but we think it is on the way down."

The medical society also threw its support behind seat belt legislation pending in the General Assembly, urging legislators to include children up to 10 years old in the Child Restraint law by 1990.

The delegates watered down or rejected other controversial proposals.

State Oil Plant Still Up For Sale

RALEIGH (AP) — The state's defunct oil recycling plant, which lost $1.1 million in the 30 months it operated, is still for sale, officials say.

The Hunt administration closed the $1.4 million plant in August 1983, and Department of Administration officials predicted that the plant would be sold in 60 to 90 days.

"There's no market for it, period," said Alan V. Pugh, the Department of Administration's deputy secretary for governmental operations.

The asking price for the plant, its related facilities and the 7.8-acre plant sit on U.S. 70 near Garner was $2 million. Pugh did not say what the state would take for plant.

ANSWERS TO WEEKLY BRIDGE QUIZ

Q.1 — Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦A105 ♠A9842 ♣73 ♣952

The bidding has proceeded:
 West North East South
 1 ♠ Dble 2 ♣ ?

What do you bid now?
 A. — If you bid two hearts, you have made a gross underbid. That is simply competitive. Any hand with two aces and a five-card suit opposite a takeout double offers game possibilities and partner should be advised thereof. Jump to three hearts.

Q.2 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦J6 ♠AQ1032 ♣K95 ♣AJ6

The bidding has proceeded:
 East South West North
 1 ♠ Dble Pass 1 NT

What action do you take?
 A. — Beware, West almost surely has a heart stack. East has shown at least ten cards in the black suits and partner has denied four hearts. If you bid two hearts now, you could be in trouble. Pass — partner might want to double the opponents.

Q.3 — As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♦63 ♠AKQ ♣A955 ♣KQ102

The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1 ♣ Pass 1 Pass

What do you bid now?
 A. — You are going to have to break some bidding rules on this hand. Your hand is too strong not to jump, but you don't want to jump shift on two four-card suits, and you "promise" four trumps for a jump raise. If we have to compromise one of these positions, it is the latter. Bid three hearts — no one can complain about the quality of your three-card support!

Q.4 — As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♦93 ♣K65 ♣AK1063 ♣Q62

The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♣ 3 ♣

What do you bid now?
 A. — For his free bid at the three-level, your partner must have a good hand and at least a fine six-card suit. Under the circumstances, we would raise to four spades. Our club stopper is too tenuous to venture three no trump.

Q.5 — As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♦AK72 ♣Q6 ♣AQJ3 ♣876

The bidding has proceeded:
 West North East South
 1 ♠ 1 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A. — Since partner should have a reasonable hand for his vulnerable overcall, you must not settle for less than game. We suggest a cue-bid of two trumps. If partner rebids two no trump, we would prefer the niterick game. Should partner simply rebid hearts, we would raise to four hearts.

Q.6 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦QJ952 ♣AJ7 ♣Q95 ♣6

The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 Pass 1 ♣ Pass Pass

What action do you take?
 A. — Certainly you should contest the auction, even though there is the possibility that West might have a powerful minor two-suiter. However, it's more likely that North has a good hand but couldn't take immediate action because of a flawed spade holding. We suggest you reopen the bidding by jumping to two spades. Since you are a passed hand, partner won't play you for more than you have. The trouble with a takeout double is that you have the wrong shape. And a balancing bid of one spade could win you a "Conservative of the Year" award.

Guard Says Drill Successful

DOG TAG CHECK — Julia Moye of the North Carolina National Guard checks her dog tags during a three-day mobilization exercise at Fort Bragg during the weekend. FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — As North Carolina National Guard troops return to their regular professions today, officials say a mock alert thought to be the largest peacetime drill of its kind in the nation was a success.

"I was worried Friday that there was going to be trouble," Brig. Gen. A.D. McArthur said Sunday as 13,000 troops were being sent home. "We were moving convoys on slick roads."

"But everyone did their job, and when I heard men at 2300 hours (11 p.m.) marching down to their barracks in the rain, still singing cadence, I knew something was going right," McArthur said.

Guardsmen arrived at Fort Bragg on Friday to take part in "Hickory Response '85," a three-day exercise designed to evaluate the guard's ability to mobilize units and move men and equipment to assigned stations.

The exercise, which ended Sunday morning, also was designed to evaluate the State Army Command's ability to coordinate with Fort Bragg officials.

Maj. Charles Heatherly said while it's too early to have a definitive evaluation of the exercise, "there had been no major problems that were not anticipated."

"It appears from everything I've heard that it was an extremely good exercise," he said. "But you never know until everybody gets their critique in. It was one of the most closely watched exercises we've ever participated in."

Sixteen states and U.S. territorial possessions had units at Fort Bragg to observe the exercise, officials said.

Heatherly said the exercises were reassuring for Guard troops.

"It's very comforting for (guardsmen) to have gone through the process. He's been told about (being mobilized) ever since he's been in the guard and now to have gone through it and prevailed is comforting," he said. "So, if it's necessary to take the additional step to be mobilized for real, you know you can do the job."

Heatherly said officials will be evaluating the exercise in terms of the "stress of moving nearly 13,000 soldiers from their homes to Fort Bragg. ... We will also be evaluating how do you feed these folks. To just dump 13,000 people (in one area) is quite a challenge from a logistical point of view."

The mobilization involved 135 units from 101 armories in the state, said Lt. Col. David Jeanette, the state mobilization officer.

As Guard troops rolled out of the base Sunday, they prepared for the transition back into the civilian world.

Linda Holified, a sophomore at C. State University, had a final exam scheduled for this morning. Her commanding officer, Capt. Michael Poole, would go back to being Dr. Michael Poole at the University of North Carolina Medical Center in Chapel Hill. And Staff Sgt. Montague would become assistant manager of the Raleigh chapter of the American Red Cross.

Gardner Awards

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — A University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill psychologist and a North Carolina State University engineer have been chosen as the 1985 recipients of the O. Max Gardner Award, the only statewide honor given by the UNC Board of Governors.

Eric Schopler, professor of psychology at UNC-Chapel Hill, and M. Necati Ozisik, professor of mechanical and aerospace engineering at N.C. State, will receive the award at the Board of Governor's meeting on Friday.

Schopler's work established a biological basis for autism, officials said in a news release. Schopler also heads the state's educational and treatment center for autism and other communication diseases.

Ozisik is an international authority on thermal science whose research laid much of the groundwork in the field of heat transfer, according to officials.

The award was established in 1949 by the late Oliver Max Gardner, former governor of North Carolina, and is given annually to faculty members from the 16-campus UNC system for contributions to the welfare of the human race.

tended to a year in prison after being found guilty of felony death by vehicle and driving while impaired.

A jury of eight men and four women in Davidson Superior Court deliberated for three hours before convicting Linda Lanning Richardson, 36, of Lexington.

Mrs. Richardson had been charged with driving while impaired and voluntary manslaughter, which carries a maximum sentence of 10 years. Judge James M. Long sentenced Mrs. Richardson to half of the presumptive sentence for felony death by vehicle.

The charges stem from a traffic accident on April 20, 1984, in which her daughter, Tammy Lynn Morris, died.

Student Ailments

RALEIGH (AP) — An outbreak of an intestinal sickness that sent about 170 Meredith College students to the college infirmary last week is puzzling health officials.

"We can't tie it in with anything at the moment. The symptoms could be food-related or viral-related," A.K. Glover, director of environmental health, said during the weekend.

Health department officials have tested samples of food from the cafeteria for bacteria that cause food poisoning, but results will not be in until this week, Glover said.

About 170 students were treated for nausea and diarrhea at Meredith's infirmary Tuesday through Thursday, said Dr. Marie M. Mason, director of health services.

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A Davidson County woman whose 16-year-old daughter died in a traffic accident last spring has been sen-nominees before they can take office July 1.

Hospital Prices

DURHAM (AP) — Duke Hospital will reduce its prices for routine outpatient laboratory services by 30 percent during the coming year and won't change most room rates, the Duke Board of Trustees said.

The board also announced there will be no change in the prices paid for patient services.

"Prices may tweek up here and there, but overall there will be no price increases," said Dr. Andrew Wallace, vice chancellor for health affairs and chief executive officer of the hospital.

Rates for most rooms were reduced 6.4 percent in November 1984 to $248 a day and will be held at that, Wallace said. That rate applies to about 85 percent of Duke's rooms. Duke last raised its overall prices — by 4.7 percent — in July 1982.

Marijuana Seized

STATESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — An Iredell Couple has turned themselves in nine days after authorities seized nearly 11,000 marijuana plants — with an estimated street value of $13 million — in and around their mobile home.

George Huie Brown, 45, and his wife, Nancy Elizabeth, 38, were arrested on Saturday after turning themselves in at the Iredell County Jail, Sgt. Harold Miller of the Iredell County Sheriff's Department said.

The couple had been at-large since the April 25 raid during which 10,744 marijuana plants and seedlings at their trailer just east of Interstate 77 and about 15 miles north of Statesville, Miller said.

Each was charged with possession with intent to sell or deliver marijuana, felonious possession of marijuana and possession with intent to manufacture in excess of 10,000 marijuana plants, Miller said.

The couple was released on $15,000 bond apiece.

Today's Comforts, Jobs Can Be Hazardous To Life

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Modern life can be hazardous to your health — just ask Dr. John Felts, a professor at Bowman Gray School of Medicine.

Felts, in a recent article in the N.C. Medical Journal, says such ailments as "Honda hip" and chicken packer's hands have become health problems.

Less turned out to be more for an unfortunate consumer interested in buying an economical car, Felts wrote.

"A patient of mine, enticed by Japanese design and the promise of more economical maintenance, traded in his car for a new Honda Civic," Felts said. "His build, however, was such and his left front seat such that they didn't fit, and he developed right hip pain and stiffness after driving short distances."

Felts said "highly touted non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs provided little relief." The patient traded the Civic for something bigger.

"Cure of his Honda hip was economic but at some financial loss in trading his new Honda for a car his size," Felts wrote.

Felts gave less time to the subject of jogger's nipple. The condition of inflammation at the mammillae occurs when friction is created between the runner's garment and his chest. He said the best way to avoid jogger's nipple would be to remove the offending apparel or to cover the skin and prevent the problem. Then again, Felts, suggested, giving up jogging would be a sure-fire remedy.

Chicken packer's hands is more serious since the people it affects must do it to make their living. It is also serious because much of North Carolina's agricultural economy relies on the chicken. The condition, characterized by pain and stiffness, was discovered by Felts when a middle-aged woman came to him complaining of those symptoms.

His examination ruled out arthritis and Raynaud's phenomenon, a circulatory problem that mainly afflicts women, leaving them with cold, painful hands.

"A careful occupational history told the tale," Felts wrote. "She was a chicken packinghouse worker who supervised a conveyor system transporting carcasses for a last washing before packing. A few weeks before her symptoms began, a new system, which fed water from above as well as below, had been installed."

"The water was cold, her hands stayed cold and wet and she had hand angina (pain) from vasoconstriction and ischemia (reduced blood flow)," Felts continued. "When she was transferred to a dry job, her symptoms disappeared."
