Consolidated Board To Expand

By MARY C. SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

The Consolidated Board of Education will add three minority members to its roster to satisfy U.S. Department of Justice mandates on minority representation, board members voted Monday.

After a month of negotiations between attorneys for the county school board, the Concerned Citizens for Justice minority group and the Justice Department, the board approved an amendment to the local legislation passed in February that consolidates the Pitt and Greenville school systems in July 1986. The changes proposed by the amendment include:

•Three additional at-large minority members, one from Greenville and two from Pitt County, will be appointed to serve on the Consolidated Board until 1992. This adjustment would give the board 15 members. Currently, the Consolidated Board is a 12-member body composed of eight members of the Pitt Board of Education and four members of the Greenville Board of Education.

•In 1992, the Consolidated Board of Education will devise a combination at-large/single member district system of election, with nine members elected by district and three elected at large.

•The three additional members will be selected by a screening committee composed of current Consolidated Board members Erma (Please turn to page 8)

Privilege License Rates Changed

By SUE HINSON
Reflector Staff Writer

The City Council in call session Monday unanimously voted to revise Greenville's privilege license fee schedule and authorized application for a DWI highway safety project grant.

According to city Finance Director Ron Kimble, revision of the privilege license fee schedule was undertaken to eliminate inequities created by the city's old method of assigning fees to businesses.

Under the old method, businesses were charged according to goods and services offered, a system Council members agreed was inequitable because businesses selling a variety of items were often charged more than those marketing a more limited selection of goods. "It was a system without regard to size of business whatsoever," Kimble said.

Under the new method, a fee schedule based upon percentage of gross sales or business income will be charged to all businesses in addition to charges levied in state mandated categories. "What we end up with is a system that takes in to account variety of goods sold and the size of businesses," Kimble explained, adding that similar criteria were part of the old system, but only in regard to merchandizing and manufacturing categories. "The new system takes these criteria into account across the board," he said.

Implementation of the revised schedule July 1 will mean a slight decline in fees for some businesses, while others will experience a sharp increase. The gross fee schedule will be capped at $500, however. More specifically, businesses with annual gross sales or income not exceeding $25,000 will be charged $25. Each additional $1,000 of gross sales or business income will be subject to a 50-cent fee, with the maximum tax (outside of state-mandated fees) for each separate business location being $500.

City officials predict the fee schedule change will bring the city an additional $5,000 to $6,000 a year in revenues after an initial adjustment period. "But the justification for this change was equitability rather than looking at it as an additional revenue source," Kimble said.

In other business, the Council approved a resolution authorizing application for approximately $45,000 in state funds for continued operation of the Greenville Police Department's DWI program.

If approved, the grant would be the second of its type utilized by the police department, and would be used to pay officers for evening overtime hours spent controlling the drunken driving problem. "Also included under the funding would be the DWI roadblocks we do periodically," Chief Ted Holmes said.

Using state funds made available in 1984, the police department in October stepped up its anti-DWI program by holding regular road blocks and increasing the number of officers staffing the evening shift. That move, Holmes said, "significantly increased" the number of drunken drivers officers were able to apprehend.

Since the new DWI law went into effect October 1983, and up until Jan. 31, 1984, approximately 481 people have been convicted for drunken driving in the Greenville area.

Guaranty S&L Buys 90 Percent Of North State

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Guaranty Savings & Loan of Fayetteville has acquired 90.1 percent of North State Financial Corp. of Greenville — the parent firm of North State Savings & Loan.

John C. Livingston, president of Guaranty Savings who announced the acquisition Monday afternoon, said "with this acquisition our company becomes one of the major financial institutions in the east."

North State and Guaranty will be known as Guaranty North State, and "our combined assets will enable us to better serve depositors and other customers of North State and Guaranty," Livingston said.

Guaranty, a small savings and loan bought last year by a group of private investors under the name of NCS&L Holding, paid $13 million for the North State Financial stock.

Livingston said this morning that he did not know the exact number of shares of North State stock Guaranty acquired. But a reliable source associated with North State said new shares were issued to Guaranty, leaving the 440,000 outstanding shares of North State stock accounting for the 9.9 percent interest not acquired by Guaranty.

As part of the acquisition plan, Guaranty North State has applied for federal deposit insurance. Currently, both North State and Guaranty are insured by a private company — Raleigh-based Financial Institutions Assurance Corp., which, according to George C. King, savings and loan administrator for the N.C. Department of Commerce, "is recognized nationally as the strongest private insurer in the country."

The major difference between the private FICA insurance and Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. insurance is that Congress has said the U.S. Treasury and the taxing authority of the federal government stand behind the federal program. Both the private and federal insurance programs protect depositors from losses up to $100,000 per account.

Max Ray Joyner, chairman of North State Financial's board, said "with its combined assets, Guaranty North State will be a cornerstone for building economic progress in our region of the state."

North State, with assets of $274 million, has branches in 15 eastern North Carolina towns and cities, including Greenville, New Bern, Raleigh, Cary, Southern Pines, Wilmington, Ahsokie, Windsor, Bayboro, Wilson, Tarboro, Albemarle, Rockingham, Fayetteville and Clinton. Guaranty, with $47 million in assets, has offices in Fayetteville, Hope Mills, St. Pauls and Fairmont. (Please turn to page 5)

60 Houses Burn In Philadelphia

Police Bomb Sets Off Fire

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A bomb dropped from a police helicopter onto the headquarters of the radical group MOVE touched off a fire that destroyed up to 60 houses in a middle-income neighborhood, and officers today searched for armed members who fled the siege.

A published report today said at least three bodies had been spotted in the house. Authorities did not immediately return phone calls seeking comment on the report.

The neighborhood, which dates to the turn of the century, was "like a war zone" at the climax of the siege Monday and the one of the worst fires in Philadelphia history. Residents who watched the flames chanted "assassins" and "murderers" at officers.

One MOVE member was captured Monday, and at least one child were carried from the scene, officials said. But others eluded the more than 150 officers who had surrounded the fortified western Philadelphia house.

"We still have police in the area looking for them. We have the area surrounded and are watching for them," said police Detective Thomas McCormick.

The Philadelphia Daily News, quoting unidentified firefighters, said officials had sighted the bodies of three adult MOVE members who died in a gun battle with police Monday. Another report from police sources said the bodies of children were in the rubble.

Mayor W. Wilson Goode said he accepted responsibility for the "devastating" fire. He said police would not have dropped the bomb if they could have foreseen the result, and added he believed officers showed "tremendous restraint" during the siege.

Goode, interviewed on ABC-TV today, said he did not think there were any deaths, but added, "We're still assessing that."

The violent confrontation with members of the back-to-nature group came after police tried to evict MOVE members from their building, which was equipped with a steel-plated rooftop bunker complete with gunslots.

Residents had complained of assaults, robberies and a stench at the house. Police had obtained warrants for four MOVE members charging them with harassment, criminal conspiracy, possession of explosives, disorderly conduct and rioting, said police Lt. Al Lewis.

Police surrounded the MOVE house Sunday and evacuated about 200 homes in the area. On Monday morning, the group refused to leave, demanding instead that nine members imprisoned for a 1978 shootout that left a police officer dead be released from prison.

A 90-minute gunbattle erupted after MOVE's refusal, and police used tear gas and water cannon in an attempt to flush the members from the building. The front of the building was torn open under the pressure of the deluge.

The row house remained under siege with periodic exchanges of gunfire until 5:27 p.m. Monday, when a state police helicopter dropped a bomb on the rooftop bunker. Minutes later, a plume of smoke began rising from the roof. Soon flames were raging across the top of the house.

The bomb was not an incendiary device but an explosive designed to blow a hole in the reinforced house to give police a larger target for tear-gas canisters, police said.

Police Commissioner Gregore Sambor said he authorized the dropping of the bomb.

Firefighters did not immediately try to put out the fire but waited for the flames to destroy the bunker.

DIRECTORIES FOR PLAZA ENTRANCES
Is The Plaza Shopping Mall going to have directories of the store locations at each of the entrances? If so, when? A.P.

"Yes, we are," Chuck Milian, The Plaza marketing manager, said. "We expect to have them erected this summer after several more stores have opened. However, if our customers feel there is a need for temporary directories at each of the entrances soon, we'll go ahead with these. We'll judge this decision on the response our office gets to this Hotline item. So anyone who feels we do need temporary directories, please call us at 756-1748 and leave a brief message."

Project Payment

The state of North Carolina has presented the final cost-share payment for the Swift Creek Watershed project to Pitt County Drainage District No. 3.

In a ceremony Monday, regional manager Howard Moyer of the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development presented a check for $51,198 to B. Alton Gardner, drainage district chairman. The payment brings the total amount paid by the state to $780,000.

The Swift Creek Watershed project, done under the Soil and Conservation Service's Public Law 566 program, is designed to provide flood protection and farm drainage and to insure future supplies of food and fiber through water management. Maintenance costs are paid by landowners within the project area.

The Swift Creek project was completed in November 1983, and represents 135 miles of channel improvement.

Mother Of Year

Mrs. Rosa Ward of 401 Pittman Drive was named Mother of the Year Saturday by the Pitt County NAACP.

Mrs. Ward, working as a representative of St. Mary's Missionary Baptist Church, earned the title by raising the most money to benefit civil rights matters.

The mother of three and wife of James A. Ward, she also received the President's Award in recognition of her fund raising ability. She is a checkers operator at Burroughs Wellcome where she has been employed for eight years.

Other area mothers recognized at the weekend banquet included Philippi Missionary Baptist Church representative Mrs. Joyful Gardner, first runner-up, and York Memorial AME Zion Church representative Mrs. Martha G. Dawson, second runner-up. Mrs. Willie Mae Carney of Bethel received the NAACP President's Award for raising the most money for her region.

The graduates are Margaret Wheeler Cherry, Karen Lynn Green, Lori Renee Little, Katherine Mills and Karen Morris.

WCU Graduates

Four area students received degrees from Western Carolina University Sunday during the annual spring commencement exercises.

Pitt County students receiving degrees were Timothy Lloyd Holland of Ayden, and Patricia Ann Cutler and Scott A. Jarman, both of Farmville. Also graduating was Kimberly Dawn Dickerson of Martin County.

Group To Meet

The Parkinson's Support Group will meet at 1 p.m. Thursday at Pitt County Memorial Hospital's physical therapy building.

The program will be presented by Richard Worsley.

Winterville Will Seek New Grant

A new Community Block Grant will be applied for by the town of Winterville for 1985, it was announced Monday night at the Town Board's regular meeting.

Officials said the $750,000 grant would cover the rehabilitation of housing only on the following streets: Jones, Hammond, Gardner, parts of North Railroad, West Main, Cross, West Blount and South Mill. Town Clerk Elwood Nobles said the town would be notified in July if the grant had been approved.

In further business, Town Engineer Linwood Stroud suggested to the board a holding pond be constructed for the North Winterville project. Stroud also reported that progress was being held up on the Railroad Street project because final permission had not been obtained from the Seaboard System Railroad to use property necessary to widen the street.

The board also gave tentative approval for the final plat for the Clewood Subdivision on the east side of the Tar Road. The board approved the plat with conditions provided and approved by the Planning and Zoning Board.

The planning and zoning board has scheduled a public hearing June 10 to delete the health department certification of the water supply and sewage system from the plats. Also, provisions for the installation of streets and utilities will be discussed and changed.

Eastern Lumber requested two trash pick-ups each week and the board approved the motion.

As an annual item of business, Stroud was hired to prepare maps needed to make the town eligible for Powell Bill street funds.

The Winterville Recreation Commission reported total disbursements for the period of April 1984 through March 1985 of $42,193, with receipts for the same period totaling $42,178, ending with a balance as of March 31, 1985, of $3,476. The report also said 685 players participated in sports for the 1984 season. Dedication ceremonies will be held May 28 at 7 p.m. for playground equipment donated by the Winterville Jay-C-Ettes.

The board also approved the budget meeting schedule as follows: Thursday, May 20, department heads, fire, police; a meeting with the town clerk set for Thursday, May 30; budget public hearing with General Revenue Sharing, Tuesday, June 18, and final budget approval set for a meeting Thursday, June 27. All meetings will begin at 7 p.m.

H.L. Joyner, superintendent of the Winterville Electric department, presented to the board two plaques for safety awards for the 1984 safety awards from Electricities of North Carolina and one from American Public Power Association for a perfect record system that worked for less than 24,999 man hours during 1984.

The fire department reported a four-wheel drive truck had been purchased to replace the department's brush truck that was destroyed during an accident last year. Cost of the truck was slated at $6,500 with another $5,500 to get the truck in operation. The truck will be used in the rural areas combatting brush fires.

each time because we thought seven miles was too far for them to ride their bikes.

After reading that article, I decided that the next time one of our kids gets thrown off the bus, he will have to ride his bike or walk. We'll follow in the car to be sure he's OK, but he's not getting any more chauffeur service from Mom and Pop.

14-Mile Walk Adds Up To Child Abuse In His Book

DEAR ABBY: I cannot work until I react to the letter in your column about the two brothers, 9 and 11, who had to walk 14 miles a day for five days because they were suspended for creating a disturbance on the school bus. That means they had to walk seven miles each way, and would have to walk two hours while their father comfortably drove his car behind them.

They had to spend approximately 10 hours each day walking and learning. There is no way that those children could pay attention in school after walking at least two hours before school started.

Please contact a sports physician and an educator and learn if walking that distance is not only child abuse, but brutal mistreatment. Suggest to their father that he walk 14 miles for one day while trying to do his work. He was teaching his children that he was a heartless creature who preserved his personal comfort in the car while they built up blisters on their feet if they did not have top-quality shoes and socks.

SADDENED PSYCHOLOGIST, EVANSTON, ILL.

DEAR ABBY: The letter accusing the parents of child abuse because they made their kids walk 14 miles forces me to comment. I am the father of four boys, now 18 to 24. At various times their mother and I have:

1. Had the police find and bring home—at 3 a.m.—one boy who had exceeded his curfew. (His keys were confiscated on the spot.)

2. Grounded another for a month, including the Christmas holidays, for "conduct unbecoming a gentleman." This required him to find his own way to and from school and work. (Twelve miles—no car.)

3. Forced another to live elsewhere until he agreed to comply with our household rules.

4. Physically decked another for insolent language.

The net result of such "child abuse": All four are and were merit scholarship college students, three are National Merit Scholarship winners, one is a summa cum laude college graduate, and another is a Ph.D. graduate student.

Each boy has worked since the age of 14. And all have come to me at one time or another and said, "Dad, I'm glad you drew the line and held it when I was off base."

FIRM DAD IN NEW MEXICO

DEAR PSYCHOLOGIST: Granted, the punishment was harsh, but to repeat my comment: "As long as the boys were in no danger, I think the punishment fits the crime. I see no child abuse here. In my book, those parents cared enough about their children to discipline them."

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

To add a lot of Pizzazz to your summer separates, knit a quick and easy shell with exciting yarns. Wear it as shown or layer it over your favorite blouse.

Worked entirely in stockinette stitch with ribbed edgings, this striking pullover is designed to be made in a cotton/acrylic linen-look yarn with narrow stripes of ribbon in a contrasting color to add a touch of class. Easy-to-follow directions are for sizes 8 through 18 and any yarns that will knit to a 5-stitch-per-inch gauge may be substituted.

To obtain directions for making the Linen-Look Shell, send your request for Leaflet No. KL-0512 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler Crafts, The Daily Reflector, P.O. Box 15922, Lenexa, Kan. 66215.

Or you may order Kit No. K-0512 from the same address by sending a check or money order for $34 for sizes 8-10 or $38 for the larger sizes. The kit price includes shipping charges, full instructions, Panache yarn and silky soft ribbon. Please specify your choice of colors: woods (natural with highlights of brown and beige) or beach (natural with highlights of apricot and light blue).

Dear Pat: I once read somewhere that knitting should always be done in the front of all stitches unless the instructions specifically call for knitting in the back of the stitches. I have a male friend who knits in the back of every stitch and does beautiful work. He claims that I imagined this taboo on knitting in the back or that it is just an old wives' tale. Who's right, Pat? P Puzzled in Omaha

Like most so-called rules in needlecraft, this isn't so much a matter of who's right and who's wrong, it's really just a matter of choice. Knitting in the front of the stitches is the most widely used method and is usually the only one illustrated in how-to books.

If you knit in the back of all knit stitches and purl in the front of all purl stitches, you create an effect known as "twisted stockinette." Now there is nothing wrong with that, it just has a slightly different appearance.

If you still prefer to knit in the back of the knit stitches and want to achieve true stockinette stitch, you have to do one of two things: either purl in the back also, or wrap your yarn in the opposite direction on the purl rows.

People who knit in the Continental style, where the yarn is carried in the left hand and the stitches are "picked through," often find it easier to do the purl stitches in a way that twists the stitch. They, then, knit in back of the knit stitches to achieve true stockinette. If you don't knit in this way, you might find this paragraph confusing, but that minority of people who do knit in this way will understand exactly what I mean. Many feel, by the way, that Continental knitting is faster, and I personally use it more often than not.

For all except experienced Continental style knitters, however, I recommend knitting in the front of all stitches for one reason: All patterns written in this country assume you will knit in the front of all stitches. Thus, when it is required as part of the pattern stitch that you knit in the back, Continental-style knitters have to reverse the directions at that point and may not come up with the exact effect planned by the designer.

I would never try to change anyone's method of working as long as it is satisfactory. My advice applies to the average knitter who normally knits with the yarn held in the right hand, working in the fronts of all stitches.

But just to prove that there can be exceptions to every rule, I might suggest that you try "twisted ribbing," which is achieved by knitting in the back of all knit stitches and purling as usual all purl stitches. The ribbing thus achieved seems to have more elasticity than the better known way.

Wilson Rogers Gives Talk

The Patient Circle of the International Order of the King's Daughters and Sons meeting was held at the home of Mrs. R.C. Henry. Wilson Rogers was guest speaker.

Rogers is a student pastor and spoke on "The Christian in Today's World." He was introduced by Dr. Lois Staton.

It was recommended the club sponsor Lea Rodrigues of Santiago, Chili, as a student nurse.

Various reports were given by Dr. Staton, Mrs. Henry and Mrs. Dail.

New members of the group are Ramona Tucker, Mary Dell Seymour, Olivera Gabriela, Katherine Howard, Margaret Barnhill, Elaine Berryhill, Laura Bruce Hadley Nichols and the Rev. Malloy Owen III.

Bridal Policy

A black and white glossy five by seven photograph is requested for engagement announcements in the Daily Reflector. For publication in a Sunday edition, the information must be submitted by 12 noon on the preceding Wednesday. Engagement pictures must be released at least three weeks prior to the wedding date. After three weeks, only an announcement will be printed.

Wedding write-ups will be printed through the first week with a one column picture. During the second week, a one column picture will be used with a write-up giving less description and after the second week, just as an announcement.

Wedding forms and pictures should be returned to The Daily Reflector one week prior to the date of the wedding. All information should be typed or written neatly.

It was announced new officers will be installed May 27.

Bridal Luncheon Held Saturday

A bridal luncheon was given Saturday for Elaine Brown Smith of Columbia, S.C., June 2 bride-elect. The luncheon was held at the home of Esther S. Jackson of Winterville, aunt of the bride.

It was given by aunts of the bride-elect, Rubelle S. Pollard, Esther S. Jackson, Hazel S. Dixon, Ruth S. Watson and Bobbie Ann Johnston.

The honoree was given a corsage of pink and white dionthias and remembered with gifts.

Club Has Meet On Friday

The Greenville Woman's Club held a covered-dish luncheon for members and guests Friday at the clubhouse. Barbara Hall, president, gave the welcome.

Meeting hostesses were Polly Dail and Dorothy Edwards.

Open House Set At Humber House

The Pitt County Historical Society will sponsor an open house, from 3-5 p.m., Sunday at the Robert Lee Humber House. Mrs. Robert H. Wright's oil paintings will be on display.

At 4 p.m., Dr. William E. Stephenson of East Carolina University's English department will show slides of Sallie Southall Cotten. An exhibit of Mrs. Cotten's evening dress and other memorabilia will be shown.

A social hour will be held.

Withla Council Meet Planned

Withla Council No. 42, Degree of Pocahontas will meet tonight starting at eight o'clock in the Rotary Club. The meetings are held the second and fourth Tuesdays.

DEAR ABBY: You advised "Fuming in Burlington, Iowa" to remember that "the pen is not only mightier than the sword, it can be equally dangerous."

That caused me to recall something written by Harry Wayne Addison in his book, "Write That Down for Me, Daddy" (Pelican Publishing Co. Inc., 1978):

"The pen is only mightier than the sword in the hands of sane men."

Slow To Act

Stranger things have come down the pike than a solution to overcrowded prisons via an inmate lawsuit against the state. No doubt it could happen only in North Carolina.

Settlement of the suit calls for the state to spend more than $10 million on prison units in the southern Piedmont area. We are told the tentative agreement would not require building more prisons but construction of additional dormitories would be in order.

An assistant state attorney general says nothing can be signed unless and until the General Assembly appropriates the requested money.

All this came about in the wake of a handwritten complaint filed in 1979 by four inmates that grew into a class action on behalf of other inmates. The original complaint is described as "having everything to do with life in a prison — from overcrowding to medical care — food, clothing, educational programs, visitations, etc." Overcrowding became the prime issue.

Inmates were (back in '79) fed up with three-tiered bunking ... the practice of stacking bunk beds three-high in dorm-like facilities. Normally they would be two-high.

In the intervening years we'd assume conditions worsened.

The first three months of this year saw state prisons gain 1,200 more inmates than usual, and a prison spokesman says there seems to be longer sentences involved.

Inmate population in North Carolina reached 17,699 people in April, which is 1,324 above capacity for the system's 85 prison units. As of a week ago, the system's population was 17,471. We hang right around the brink.

Officials link the influx to the state Fair Sentencing Act, enacted in 1979 and which took effect in 1981.

For a prisoners' complaint that saw its beginnings in 1979, we've sure come a short way toward a solution in the intervening years. Isn't it nice their complaints did not include calling attention to a fire that was getting out of hand in one of the cellblocks?

Name Change

News reports say that a bill which would change the name of the Tar River for 1.8 miles in Beaufort County is making little progress in a Senate committee.

The bill was introduced by Rep. Howard B. Chapin of Beaufort County, who wants to set the Pitt-Beaufort County line as the end of the Tar and beginning of the Pamlico. The Tar now goes to the highway bridge at Washington. Thus, a part of the city of Washington is on the Tar while the remainder is on the Pamlico. Sen. James E. Ezzell Jr. of Nash County, chairman of the Senate Local Government and Regional Affairs Committee, said he had received eight to 10 letters against the name change and none for.

Count us among those who see no need to change the name of this historic river. It would serve no purpose and it would only cause confusion for those who consider the Tar as stretching to its present end. There could be legal problems with documents drawn up which cite the Tar.

The Pamlico is a mighty river and sound and can stand on its own reputation. Let's leave alone what there is of the Tar.

Equalizing The Generations

WASHINGTON — In the early 1980s, during the debate over how to rescue the Social Security system, Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kans., and others warned against salvaging the system on the backs of younger workers. By and large, those workers already were pessimistic about the system's financial future. They would tolerate increased Social Security taxes only up to a point.

Most politicians sensed, however, a hollowness in these warnings. After all, younger workers weren't organized in the politically awesome fashion that had made senior citizens' groups one of the most potent single interests in the country.

Younger workers now might have their lobby: Americans for Generational Equity. While the new group may not tip the scales against America's senior citizens, it could begin to mobilize untapped ferment over payroll taxes and thereby shift the Social Security debate.

Americans for Generational Equity is the brainchild of Paul Hewitt, 32, a native Californian who until last month was staff director of the Senate Subcommittee on Intergovernmental Relations. In that position, Hewitt oversaw research on a soon-to-be-published report on Washington's second oldest profession: lobbying.

That project enlightened Hewitt about whose interests were represented in Washington, and whose weren't. "It occurred to me that one-third of the U.S. population — people under 31 — had nobody to speak up for it," he told us. So, last summer, Hewitt informed his boss, Sen. Dave Durenberger, R-Minn., of his interest in filling that void on issues related to federal spending.

"Our sense is that if we speak out about the budget deficits, we'll get older and middle-generation Americans to exercise more responsibility," Hewitt said.

Americans for Generational Equity, which received tax-exempt status last March, includes among its advisers Durenberger, former Carter adviser Harrison Wellford, and executives from Metropolitan Life, Hospital Corporation of America and the U.S. League of Savings Associations (not surprisingly, companies with a pecuniary interest in matters of income security and the elderly). Hewitt himself appeared on two CBS programs, "Face the Nation" and "Late Night America." The group plans to spend about $200,000 this year to spread its gospel among its intended constituency, though it aspires to win converts of all ages.

As Hewitt sees it, the problem is self-evident: a federal deficit for which future generations are due to receive the bill. The question is what steps to take to bring the bill within manageable proportions.

For Hewitt and his colleagues, Social Security presents a worthy target. Hewitt throws water on President Reagan's claim that Social Security is irrelevant to the deficit, charging, among other things, that payroll deductions for FICA, currently 7.05 percent, preempt our ability to raise the taxes needed for "other purposes," namely deficit reduction.

"To say that Social Security exists in a vacuum," said Hewitt, "is to play with mirrors."

Americans increasingly agree with Hewitt's viewpoint, members of Congress have found in their trips home. Younger workers, they've also discovered, have grown openly frustrated by the bite that Social Security taxes have taken out of their paychecks.

As Hewitt points out, FICA, which now applies to the first $39,600 in income, hits younger workers especially hard. During the last decade, this tax has contributed to a 19 percent decline in real income for workers between the ages of 25 and 34.

Hewitt ideally would like to shift the burden for Social Security from payroll taxes to a levy on consumption. In the meantime, he simply wants to prevent the tax bite from growing to as large as 45 percent, as even the Social Security system's trustees recently said may be necessary in the next century if economic growth follows pessimistic scenarios.

That prospect, if effectively articulated, could make Americans for Generational Equity a focal point of a new mass movement and turn the present system upside down.

From Cold To Hot

WASHINGTON — Bill Bennett spent more than three years basking in an intellectual hot tub. He was chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities. On Feb. 7 he took his oath of office as secretary of education. He's been in a cold shower ever since.

Bennett began by defending the president's proposed reductions in student aid. He said that if college students would only give up their stereo sets and their holidays in Fort Lauderdale, they could pay more of their own way. This was heresy, and Bennett suffered horribly for having pronounced it.

The secretary then named Lawrence Uzzell and Eileen Gardner as policy advisers. It transpired that these advisers had embraced some impolitic policies. In a barrage of flak they resigned. When press spokesman Tom Moore attempted to defend the departing advisers, Moore too was shown to the door. He took his assistant with him.

At the three-month pole in his run around the track, Bennett seems to be surviving these stumbles. He has met with Al Shanker, head of the American Federation of Teachers, with whom he has a pleasant relationship. He also has met with Mary Futrell, president of the National Education Association, with whom he has a relationship. Ms. Futrell came to their meeting with two memoranda. Her short memorandum covered points of agreement. Her other memorandum was longer. Much longer.

Bennett is 41, a big broad-shouldered fellow with the ruffled air of a man just awakened from a snooze on the couch. His cold-shower introduction to the big leagues left him temporarily in shock, but he has recovered. One of the uses of a doctorate in philosophy is that one learns to be philosophical. After all, Bennett observes, should one expect tranquility in an office that deals with such non-controversial matters as racial desegregation, prayer in classrooms, the place of bilingual education, and the role of the federal government in the teaching of our young?

The rookie secretary has some novel ideas. He is about to establish within the Department of Education an Office of Educational Philosophy. It will be composed of four or five "really fine minds" — he mentions the names of William Kristol and Chester Finn — whose sole obligation will be to think. Now, it is not unusual around our town for the private sector to hire thinkers; the Brookings Institution, the American Enterprise Institute and the Heritage Foundation are overrun with heavy thinkers. But it is almost unheard of for the government to hire one thinker, let alone four or five. The Washington Post already has rapped Bennett's knuckles for so radical a proposal. He expects criticism from other quarters, but he persists in believing that thought is a good thing. It's a possibility not often considered.

Bennett has other ideas. He believes that good teachers should be rewarded and that incompetent teachers should be dumped. This is not an idea that goes down well with the NEA. As a general proposition, he holds that college teachers are overpaid (he used to be one), and that elementary and secondary teachers are underpaid. In recent years most colleges have imposed stunning increases in their tuition fees; Bennett finds these increases indefensible. One of his most radical ideas is that not all high school graduates should go to college. The notion that the federal government should subsidize a universal opportunity for Harvard, Yale and Stanford is a notion he cannot support.

As he settles into his shell hole, Bennett expects to promote a new policy that would reduce compulsory racial busing to a minimum. Busing has caused "great dissatisfaction" in both black and white communities, and he sees no evidence that busing has done much to improve education anywhere. In September he will feel his way into the thickets of bilingual education with a policy pronouncement that will draw artillery fire. Meanwhile he will do what he can to preserve what remains of the Reagan budget.

Bennett is only the third person, after Shirley Hufstедler and Terrel Bell, to hold the title of secretary of education. His predecessors made scarcely a ripple. Big Bill Bennett promises to make waves.

To the editor:

Over the course of my last year of confinement, I have received hundreds of letters from family, friends and people I've never even met. The vast majority of these letters have been supportive, but from time-to-time I receive a letter with a sentence similar to this one:

"In my opinion, the gains (accomplished by your actions) were much too small for your big loss (prison and loss of credibility)," wrote a friend who recently graduated from ECU.

The word "effectiveness" is a buzz word for those who disagree with my actions. In the case of the above quote "small gains" equates to "ineffectiveness." I am told how much more effective I would have been had I avoided civil disobedience and prison, opting instead to continue my journalism work and leading the masses to the one-hour peace demonstrations at the 10th Street Post Office.

This is one of the problems one experiences when taking up the battle cry for what seems a futile effort. All of the efforts of the liberal, radical anti-nuke peaceniks combined seem small and ineffective when compared to the maddening momentum of the military industrial complex. Nukes everywhere. Total destruction only a heartbeat away. How can anyone accurately gauge the effectiveness of one course of action over another? Clearly, the Pentagon has cornered the market on effectiveness with regard to the war option.

So what options do we peacenik underdogs have?

THE TRUTH!

While the war planners look for the most "effective" way to incinerate the earth, we who oppose their madness must comfort them with this truth: Nuclear weapons are immoral and blasphemous. They have no right to exist.

I didn't write the book on effectiveness, but the truth is clear to me. I can only hope and pray that I have communicated this truth "effectively."

To the editor:

Some helpful suggestions on creating a strong sense of self worth in your children:

1. Assure them of God's love.
2. Make realistic demands. Expecting more of the child than he could ever live up to causes constant feelings of failure and frustration. Be reasonable, but not too easy, in your expectations.
3. Spend time with your children.
4. Make assignments. Give them regular responsibilities that are not beyond them and expect them to be completed. Nothing improves a person's self concept like doing a job successfully, especially if it's fairly difficult.
5. Show interest in what your children are doing. Ask them about the events of the day. And then listen carefully when they tell you. If they are giving a recital or play on the school basketball team, make sure you are among the spectators.
6. Say no when necessary. Your youngster may be upset if you deny him something he wants to do, but he'll know you really are concerned about his welfare. And he'll be grateful in the long run.
7. Don't play counterspy. If you treat your children with suspicion, it will only drive their self concepts even lower. A youngster who is trusted is one who feels he has worth.
8. Pray for your children in their presence. This will show them that you think they're important enough to talk to God about.

As Christian parents, we need to give our youngsters a high concept of themselves. The more they respect themselves, the more they will want to live godly productive lives and the happier they'll be. These suggestions will help you build in your children a healthy self concept.

Ayden Board Authorizes Sale, Purchase Of Tracts

By JANE WELBORN
Reflector Staff Writer

Ayden Commissioners Monday night agreed that the town will purchase a plot of land which measures 73 feet by 150 feet adjacent to the town garage from Mable Hobbs for $2,000. In a related move, the commissioners called for a lot on High Street to be sold to pay for the new property.

The board approved the placement of an additional dumpster at Harris Supermarket and at the elementary school at no charge, rather than have the garbage truck make an additional pickup each week. The present charge for two containers and two pickups is $30 per month, and the cost of a dumpster is $500.

The members of the board concurred that the town dump should be closed except for in-town residents that want to dump tree limbs only, saying that all other materials can be disposed of at the landfill or transfer site. The commissioners ordered that controls for the dump be established by the Police Department and the Public Works Department.

In other business, the board approved an amendment for an additional $2,000 to be paid to Talbert and Cox consulting service for additional work on the Community Development Block Grant program.

Elmer Kornegay, a 28-year employee of the town of Ayden and the current water and sewer foreman, was presented a resolution for distinguished service to the town. He has announced his retirement effective May 31.

The commissioners accepted a bid of $10,625 from Keith Lilley for the rehabilitation of the Samuel Holton residence. The project will be completed when sufficient funds are received from loan income, probably in three years.

Appointed to the Municipal Elections Board were Steve Noble, Burt Tripp and Mrs. J.R. Lowry. The three new members will serve a two-year term.

The commissioners discussed the possible sale of its electrical load management equipment to the town of Enfield. Ayden has been accepted into the load management system provided by Greenville Utilities, and as soon as Ayden can purchase the switches for the system, Greenville could automatically place Ayden in load management. Enfield has expressed interest in the system, and representatives of the town were to visit Ayden to view the system today.

Other business included:

•The approval of an appraisal report of the Matthew Carr and Ruth Austin Lewis property in connection with improvements on Garris Street. The appraisal found that the lots have as much value before the improvements as after them.

•The approval of the payment of $5,211.27 for attorney fees for work in reference to the Stroud Wholesale taxes. The fee is the accumulation of five years of work for the town.

•The decision not to accept a proposal for the three-year audit contract of town records and to negotiate for a better proposal.

•The acceptance of the water and sewer system improvements in the Carmichael Trailer Park for future operation and maintenance. The improvements have been inspected and found to be acceptable.

•The appointment of Melinda Lail as labor standards officer of the Community Development project to replace John Robertson. She has replaced Robertson as Community Development administrator in Ayden.

Pierce Club Fellowship Scheduled

The John Pierce Fellowship Club will hold its 63rd annual meeting Wednesday at Camp Contentment on the banks of Contentnea Creek between Ayden and Grifton.

The "meeting" will begin at 10:30 a.m., which lunch served at 1 p.m.

The fellowship club had it's beginning on April 4, 1922, when a group of 19 men met at Peele's Beach on the Pamlico River in Beaufort County to celebrate the 48th birthday of John B. Pierce of Ayden — a respected merchant and cotton broker.

The group so enjoyed the outing that they decided to celebrate again the following year.

The first meetings were known as "J.B.'s Birthday Party," then later as the "John Pierce Birthday Party." In 1942, the year Pierce died, the name was officially changed to the "John Pierce Fellowship Club," and the first president was elected.

George Saleeby of Grifton is the current president, while Charles McGlohorn of Route 1, Winterville, is vice-president.

Combined, the total capital of the two companies is in excess of $15 million and Guaranty North State will have 22 branches in 18 eastern North Carolina municipalities.

Livingston, who will be chief executive officer of Guaranty North State, is a North Carolina State University graduate and has a law degree from Georgetown University.

He said this morning that "we hope to add some capabilities to help serve customers." Other than that, Livingston said, there are "no plans to make sweeping changes" at North State.

However, Livingston said Lawrence Bowers, who became president of North State Financial after coming out of retirement as chairman and chief executive officer of United Carolina Bankshares Corp. last November, "will not remain a full employee" but will serve on a consulting basis.

Livingston declined to identify the major investors in Guaranty, saying "that's one of the benefits" of being a private firm.

North State, which began operations in Greenville in August 1979, expanded rapidly through mergers and acquisitions to a regional firm with offices in 15 cities. But because of the rapid expansion, North State lost money and terminated a number of employees in 1984 in an effort to cut expenses.

In December of last year, as North State reported a pre-tax unaudited operating loss of $2.9 million for the nine-month period ending Sept. 30, 1984, Bowers said "we have taken a hard look at where we are, where we are trying to go, and where we have been. We are beginning to explore all options that will make us a more viable financial institution."

Initially, North State stock sold for $11 per share. Guaranty, in acquiring the 90 percent interest, apparently paid about $3.28 cents per share for the estimated 3.96 million new shares issued.

Borrowing Power.

Borrowing power: sometimes it's there, and you don't even know it. But when you bank with us, you get all kinds of ways to put wallop in your wallet.

What's more, we know that people today handle credit better than ever, so we developed several services that feature one-time-only applications.

With Cash Reserve, you can get a line of credit up to $5,000 that's as easy to use as your checking account.

Then, when a special bargain, an emergency or maybe a chance to make an investment comes up, you can write yourself a loan like you write a check.

If you want more muscle, you can use your good name or your credit record to qualify for a line of credit up to $50,000 with LineOne.

Or you can use the equity in your home to qualify for up to $100,000 with LineOne Equity.

Either way, with LineOne or with LineOne Equity, you pay a lower rate than with other forms of credit because the rate's based on NCNB Prime.*

So come in and let's talk it over soon. All the borrowing power you will ever need is right here in your neighborhood. NCNB

Authorities Say No Suspects So Far In Deaths Of Mother, Two Children

FAYETTEVILLE (AP) — The wife of an Air Force captain and two of their three children died from multiple stab wounds and slit throats, an autopsy says.

Harold Little, spokesman for the Cumberland County Sheriff's Department, said Monday the cause of death was determined in autopsies by the state medical examiner's office at N.C. Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill.

Little said no further information from the autopsies had been made available.

Authorities still had determined no motive or suspect in the slayings, which were discovered Sunday after neighbors reported the cries of a baby left alone with the victims for three days.

The bodies of Catherine Eastburn, 32, and daughters Kara, 5, and Erin, 3, were found by a deputy sheriff who climbed through a window after finding locked doors at the home near Fort Bragg. Eighteen-month-old Jana, whose cries alerted neighbors, was found unharmed in her crib.

The victims were the wife and children of Capt. Gary Eastburn, chief of air traffic control at Pope Air Force Base, adjacent to Fort Bragg. He had been attending an eight-week training course at Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Ala. Neighbors said he had been attending the course for four or five weeks.

"Unfortunately, we do not have a motive and we do not have a suspect," Little said. He said investigators thought the three had been dead since Thursday.

A seven-member team from the State Bureau of Investigation, including two chemists, was on the scene Monday, Little said.

Sheriff Ottis Jones said Eastburn was flown back to Fayetteville Sunday night and was to be questioned by detectives.

The bodies of the mother and her 3-year-old daughter were found in the master bedroom and Mrs. Eastburn's body was nude, the Fayetteville Observer reported. The second slain daughter was found in a crib in a third bedroom. The children were fully clothed.

Little said there were signs of a struggle in the living room, "but it wasn't in disarray."

Robert Seefeldt, a next-door neighbor whose wife alerted authorities, said there was no sign of forced entry to the home.

Seefeldt said he talked briefly with Eastburn Monday. "He's holding up all right, but he's taking it pretty hard," Seefeldt said.

Julie Czerniak, 15, the Eastburns' baby sitter, said Mrs. Eastburn had been getting a "bunch of crank phone calls since her husband left for Alabama."

"She said, 'It really kind of worries me because he (the caller) says really obscene things,'" Miss Czerniak said. "A man called and asked, 'How is the most gorgeous girl on Summerhill Road?'"

Neighbors said the Eastburns were a quiet and friendly couple who took excellent care of their three daughters but kept pretty much to themselves.

Eastburn called the Cumberland County Sheriff's Department from Alabama Saturday to ask for assistance in contacting his wife. Little said Eastburn had been unable to reach his wife by telephone.

A deputy went to the home Saturday night and reported she did not get an answer when she knocked on the door. She left a note, asking Mrs. Eastburn to call her husband in Alabama.

When a deputy returned Sunday after being alerted by neighbors that a baby had been heard crying, he climbed through a window and found the bodies.

Fort Bragg was the scene in 1970 of the slayings of the wife and two children of former Green Beret physician Jeffrey MacDonald, who was convicted of murder despite his claims that a band of drug-crazed hippies killed his family and wounded him.

"We're certainly not doing anything to lend any credibility" to comparisons between the cases, Little said. "We're treating it like a separate case."

Miss Czerniak, a ninth-grade student at Ashley School, said Monday that she has corresponded with MacDonald for a year after doing a book report on him for a school project.

Trooper Charged In Wreck

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — A State Highway Patrol trooper was charged Monday with misdemeanor death by motor vehicle in connection with a March 16 traffic accident that killed the daughter of the former Havelock mayor.

A Craven County grand jury charged Teddy Glenn Pollard after hearing evidence presented by District Attorney W. David McFadyen Jr.

Pollard, who is on leave while recuperating from broken bones and cuts suffered in the accident, was expected to report to the Craven County jail and post bond Monday night, McFadyen said.

Margaret Elizabeth Smith, 16, daughter of former Havelock Mayor Eugene P. Smith, died when the car she was driving collided with Pollard's cruiser as Miss Smith was leaving a convenience store on U.S. 70 east of Havelock, investigators say.

Pollard's trial date was scheduled for next week and he faces a maximum penalty of two years in prison and a $500 fine, McFadyen said.

Last month, Pollard filed a $300,000 suit against Smith, the administrator of his daughter's estate, charging that the trooper's injuries caused "physical pain and mental suffering" and that medical treatment will be needed in the future.

SISTERS — This is a family photo of Erin Eastburn, 3, and her sister Jana, 18 months, daughters of Air Force Capt. Gary Eastburn of Pope Air Force Base. Erin was found dead in her home Sunday along with her mother and 5-year-old sister Kara. Jana, who had not been harmed, was found in a bedroom. Her cries alerted neighbors to the slayings. State S&Ls Seeking Federal Insurance

RALEIGH (AP) — Customer concerns that North Carolina savings and loans institutions could suffer the same problems as those in Ohio have led the state's 55 privately insured S&Ls and credit unions to apply for federal insurance, officials say.

"Events outside of the state have caused a lot of talk, and there is an underlying preference for federal insurance," said George S. Currin, president of Southeastern Savings and Loan Association in Charlotte.

The private insurance companies in Ohio have no connection with North Carolina, but the privately insured institutions in North Carolina fear their customers may not understand the distinction, said George C. King, savings and loan administrator in the state Department of Commerce.

"FIAC is recognized nationally as the strongest private insurer in the country," King said.

Rescuer Saves Two Children

RALEIGH (AP) — A Raleigh man climbed a stepladder and broke two window with his bare hand to rescue two toddlers trapped in second-story bedrooms as fire raged in the kitchen below, authorities said.

Wesley Outland, 1, and Danielle Outland, 3, were unharmed. Rescuer Carmichael Crisp, 24, suffered only a cut finger.

Crisp said the rescue was his "deed for the day."

Westward, Ho!

Explorer William Clark drew this fish in his journal during his expedition with Meriwether Lewis. The expedition was the first to reach the Pacific by crossing the Rockies. It left St. Louis on May 14, 1804. The group had to survive the summer and fall of 1805 by eating dried salmon, boiled roots and stewed dog. Indians in Oregon called Lewis and Clark "damned rascals" — basing their judgment on previous visits by British sailors.

Burger Proposes Changes In Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger today asked the legal profession to consider making drastic changes in American law.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the American Law Institute, an organization of lawyers and judges, Burger said, "We need a study of how the litigation process is conducted to answer the question: Is there a better way?"

The nation's highest ranking judge urged the group to study, for example, the possibilities of eliminating personal and property damage lawsuits, juries in complex cases and trials in "multiple disaster" cases.

"Has not the time come for a careful, thoughtful, objective examination of the whole litigation process under the common law?" Burger asked.

"One question could well be whether the traditional lawsuit is the fairest and most efficient means of dealing with personal and property damage cases," he said.

Burger said another focal point could be "our traditional 'cross section' jury of lay persons" in complex antitrust or securities fraud cases.

"Should we take a close look at the so-called English Rule that when a case is too complex for an average jury of lay persons to grasp the case should be tried ... by a judge?" he asked.

He also questioned whether traditional jury trials are the best way to handle multiple disaster claims, such as airplane crashes.

"Are we addicted to litigation because it is exciting?" Burger asked. "Because it is fascinating? Because it is dramatic? Because it gives the advocates' egos full rein?"

Leather-Jacketed Youths Jeer Pontiff

MAASTRICHT, Netherlands (AP) — Pope John Paul II got an enthusiastic welcome in the Roman Catholic heartland of the Netherlands today, but also was subjected to heckling and obscene gestures en route to the only outdoor Mass of his Dutch tour.

Police said they detained three people "preventively," including one carrying a box of tomatoes he apparently was planning to hurl at the pontiff.

A day after defending in the Protestant north his refusal to let women become priests, John Paul was driven from the Hague to Maastricht, on the southern border with Belgium. Bad weather prevented a planned helicopter trip over the nation's southern farmlands.

Police spokesman Jan Rouvroye estimated 30,000 people jammed the narrow, medieval streets of Maastricht in intermittent drizzle to see the pope ride past in his bullet-proof "popemobile" to visit two churches.

Emerging from the vehicle in front of the Church of St. Servatius, built over the grave of the 4th-century saint who founded the Dutch church, John Paul was jeered by about 100 leather-jacketed youths who made obscene gestures and shook their fists at him.

The pontiff smiled, blessed the youths, then went inside the church.

As the pope left the church, another youth was seen to climb onto a fountain and drop his pants. Police seized the youth. It was not known if the pope actually saw the incident.

Rouvroye said 1,000 police were deployed in Maastricht and an equal number at nearby Beek airport, where organizers were expecting up to 150,000 people at the outdoor Mass.

It was the only scheduled open-air Mass of the five-day visit, which is the first ever by a pope to the Netherlands. On most of his previous 25 overseas tours, John Paul has held more than one outdoor Mass.

Crowds in Maastricht were smaller than expected but warm.

"It's a very special occasion, and I'm glad the Holy Father is getting what seems to be a warm welcome here," said Maria Schuurmans, 57, one of many Maastricht shopowners who gave their employees the day off.

Mrs. Schuurmans said she thought the security precautions were "overdone."

Supreme Court To Study Racial Bias In Jury Choices

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A condemned Virginia murderer's appeal is sparking the Supreme Court's first look at the racial prejudices of jurors in capital punishment cases.

The justices Monday agreed to study the case of Willie Lloyd Turner, sentenced to death for the 1978 killing of a jewelry store owner.

The court will not hear arguments in Turner's case until next fall, and probably will not announce a decision until 1986. It must decide whether Turner's trial judge erred in denying a request that potential jurors be questioned about their racial prejudices.

It is unclear how broad an impact the court's eventual ruling will have on the more than 1,500 men and women on death rows nationwide.

"We have not asked the court to rule on any broad, global issue," said Turner's lawyer, J. Lloyd Snook III of Charlottesville, Va., after learning of Monday's court action.

"We have presented a narrow question as to whether in this case the jurors should have been questioned about racial prejudice," Snook said. "We want the court to make sure that bias and prejudice don't creep in" to jury deliberations in capital punishment cases.

Turner, who is black, was convicted of gunning down W. Jack Smith, the white owner of a Franklin, Va., jewelry store during a robbery seven years ago.

At the outset of the 1979 trial, which because of pretrial publicity was moved to rural Northampton County on Virginia's eastern shore, Turner's lawyer asked that the presiding judge ask potential jurors about racial prejudices to weed out obviously bigoted people.

The judge refused to ask such questions.

The Virginia Supreme Court, a federal trial judge and the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld

Turner's conviction, but the 4th Circuit court blocked his scheduled execution earlier this month until the Supreme Court acted in his case.

Monday's action, at the very least, means Turner will not be executed soon.

In other matters, the court:

—Ruled by a 6-2 vote in a Chicago case, with Justice Lewis F. Powell taking no part, that individuals may not be convicted of purchasing food stamps illegally if it is not proved they knew they were breaking the law.

—Ruled, 8-0 with Powell out, in an Omaha, Neb., case that the government has complete discretion to deport aliens who manage to stay in the United States illegally for seven years.

—Said by a 6-3 vote in a case from San Diego that police do not need a court warrant to search a motor home they reasonably suspect is the scene of some crime.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market kept its recent rally going with another advance today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 4.85 to 1,282.35 in the first half hour.

Gainers took a 5-4 lead over losers in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Before the market opened, the Commerce Department reported that retail sales rose 0.9 percent last month. At the same time, it revised the drop originally reported for March from 1.9 percent to 0.7 percent.

Analysts said those figures were taken as evidence that consumer spending was continuing to grow at a moderate and apparently sustainable pace.

The market also has been helped lately by hopes for progress toward shrinking the federal budget deficit, and predictions that the Federal Reserve will soon lower the discount rate — the charge it sets on loans to private financial institutions.

Some observers said the retail sales figures, upbeat as they were, did not look strong enough to deter the Fed from considering moves such as a discount rate reduction to relax its credit policy.

Among today's early volume leaders, Merrill Lynch rose 1/8 to 32 3/8; General Motors gained 3/8 to 67 3/8; Federal National Mortgage was unchanged at 17 3/8, and Ameritech slipped 1/4 to 86 1/4.

In Monday's trading the Dow Jones industrial average rose 3.32 to 1,277.50, on top of last week's 26.94-point gain.

Advances outpaced declines by nearly 4 to 3 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 85.83 million shares, against 140.26 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks gained .21 to 106.85. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .22 at 228.39.

KINSTON — Dr. Lewis Lincoln Bock, 63, died Monday in Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

His funeral will be conducted at 2 p.m. Thursday at Kinston First Presbyterian Church by the Revs. Ray Hodge and David Horner.

Mr. Bock was a resident of 1909 Cambridge Drive and was staff physician at Caswell Center in Kinston.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ruth Smith Bock of the home; a son, Jonathan Lewis Bock of Kinston; two daughters, Miss Jennifer Ruth Bock of Greenville and Miss Heather Lynn Bock of the home; two brothers, Emmitt Bock of Wenatchee, Wash., and Murl Bock of Salt Lake City, and two sisters, Mrs. Pearl Overturf of Lynnwood, Wash., and Mrs. Marion Patterson of Concord, Calif.

The family will be at Edwards Funeral Home in Kinston from 7-8 p.m. Wednesday. Memorials may be made to Assist, 1909 Cambridge Drive, Kinston, N.C., 28501.

Lee
Mr. Lazarus Lee, 79, of Fleming Street died Friday at Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

from the Justice Department when adjustments are made in the number of members on a board or the manner board members are elected to office.

Changes made to the two school boards in 1965, 1971, 1977 and 1979 did not have the required pre-clearance, the letter states. Therefore, according to the letter, the boards have been functioning illegally since that time.

The Concerned Citizens for Justice, a group that appeared before the Consolidated Board in March to request more minority representation on the board and a revision of the election system, hired an attorney who pointed out the violations of the Voting Rights Act to the Justice Department.

Although no lawsuit or court order was issued ordering the school systems to shut down, Pitt school officials say they acknowledged the possibility and opted to negotiate instead. West said earlier this week "it has become obvious from communications with the Justice Department that a change to the (Consolidated) board will be required."

The Consolidated Board, created by the Greenville and Pitt school boards, in April also voted to cease operations until the issue of alleged illegal operation was settled. Members of the Consolidated Board said they feared that if the two original school boards were operating illegally, the Consolidated Board would also be functioning without authority if it continued to meet.

Ernest Brown, a spokesman for the Concerned Citizens for Justice, said today the group is "waiting to hear the entire proposal" before commenting and that members "have not dropped the matter of pre-clearance."

"We are happy with the fact that we can add blacks to the board," Brown said, "but we are not entirely happy with the selection method." He said the group felt it had the right to "disagree with the final selection of nominees" to the board.

"We will look at the legislative changes, the board nominees and study the final outcome, then we will make our decision," Brown said. One problem with the proposal, he added, is that it "did not deal with district lines that will have to be redrawn."

The negotiations included two trips to Washington, D.C., by West, Pitt School Board Chairman Mark Owens and board attorney Bill Brewer. The trio first met with two attorneys with the Department of Justice and again with a senior legal counsel for the Senate Justice Department Committee and a representative from Sen. John East's office. The negotiations left the group "very frustrated," West said.

The school boards' negotiating goals were to "effectuate consolidation of the Pitt County and Greenville city schools," and "to meet Department of Justice pre-clearance requirements," according to a statement West read at Monday's meeting.

The amendment to the consolidation legislation was cleared by the Pitt and Greenville school boards in meetings before the Consolidated Board met Monday.

Surviving are four sisters, Mrs. Gussie Dixon McLawhon and Mrs. Sallie Dixon Smith, both of Goldsboro, Mrs. Josephine D. Gaines of Boone, and Mrs. Allie D.

His funeral will be conducted at 3 p.m. Wednesday at Mitchell's Funeral Home in Winterville by Elder W.J. Best. Burial will be in the Brownhill Cemetery.

Mr. Lee was a native of Pitt County and attended the county schools. He was a member of Warren's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church.

Surviving are two brothers, Willie Lee and Joe R. Lee, both of Kinston, and a sister, Mrs. Rosa Wooten of Scataway, N.J.

The family will receive friends today from 8-9 p.m. at Mitchell's Funeral Home.

Maynard
GRIFTON — Mrs. Beatrice (Sis) Elizabeth Maynard, 83, died Monday.

Her funeral will be conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Farmer Funeral Chapel in Ayden by the Rev. Lloyd Edge. Burial will be in the Grifton Cemetery.

Mrs. Maynard was a member of the Grifton United Methodist Church.

Surviving are four sisters, Mrs. Gussie Dixon McLawhon and Mrs. Sallie Dixon Smith, both of Goldsboro, Mrs. Josephine D. Gaines of Boone, and Mrs. Allie D.

His funeral will be conducted at 3 p.m. Wednesday at Mitchell's Funeral Home in Winterville by Elder W.J. Best. Burial will be in the Brownhill Cemetery.

Mr. Lee was a native of Pitt County and attended the county schools. He was a member of Warren's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church.

Surviving are two brothers, Willie Lee and Joe R. Lee, both of Kinston, and a sister, Mrs. Rosa Wooten of Scataway, N.J.

The family will receive friends today from 8-9 p.m. at Mitchell's Funeral Home.

McCoy
Mr. Elbert Lee McCoy, 70, died Tuesday in Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

His funeral will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. at the graveside in Pinewood Memorial Park by the Rev. Ralph Brown.

Mr. McCoy had been a resident of Pitt County most of his life and was a veteran of World War II.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Cora Stocks McCoy of the home; two sons, Sammy McCoy of Fayetteville and Steve McCoy of Belvoir; a daughter, Mrs. Alice Gerard of Lakeworth, Fla.; a foster sister, Mrs. Hazel Squires Rhodes of Chesapeake, Va., and two grandchildren.

The family will receive friends at the Wilkerson Funeral Home Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Parker
The time of the funeral of Mrs. Alberta Parker, to be held in Willow Chapel Baptist Church at Gold Point, has been changed from 2 p.m. to 1:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Speight
FOUNTAIN — Mrs. Alberta Lamm Speight, 84, of Fountain died Monday.

Her funeral will be conducted Wednesday at 11 a.m. in the Fountain Baptist Church by the Revs. Robert White and Vernon Wall. Interment will be in the Queen Anne Cemetery, Fountain.

Mrs. Speight, formerly of Lucama, was a member of the Fountain Baptist Church, where she was a former deacon. A public schools teacher for 20 years, she was a member of the Fountain Woman's Club and the Home Demonstration Club.

Surviving are a stepdaughter, Mrs. Jacquelyn Horton of Virginia Beach, Va.; a sister, Miss Eleanor Bridges Lamm of Lucama and two step-grandchildren.

The family will receive friends Tuesday at the home in Fountain.

Those desiring to make memorial gifts may consider the Fountain Baptist Church.

Yelverton
FOUNTAIN — Mrs. Thelma Brothers Yelverton, 86, of Fountain died at her home this morning.

Her funeral will be conducted at 3 p.m. Wednesday in the Fountain Baptist Church by the Rev. Robert White. Interment will be in the Queen Anne Cemetery, Fountain.

Mrs. Yelverton, a lifelong resident of Fountain, was a member of the Fountain Baptist Church.

Surviving are four daughters, Miss Lucille Yelverton of the home, Mrs. Nina Garvy of Knightdale, Mrs. Carol Henry of Chapel Hill and Mrs. Doris Mercer of Walstonburg; a son, Wiley Yelverton of the home; nine grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren.

The family will receive friends today from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Farmville Funeral Home.

In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to the Fountain Baptist Church or the church or charity of one's choice.

Carr and Jim Black, Consolidated Board Chairman Mark Owens, and Greenville City Councilman Ed Carter. A public notice requesting applications for the positions will be placed in area newspapers and the screening committee will recommend a minimum of six candidates that will be interviewed by the Consolidated Board. The board will then select three names for nomination to the General Assembly for inclusion in the amended consolidation legislation.

According to a tentative timetable, the nominees will be selected by June 3.

Although the Department of Justice says it will not formally approve an adjustment in a governmental board until the change is ratified by a legislative body, Pitt Superintendent Eddie West said attorneys for the department had indicated to the schools' attorney the proposed changes were acceptable.

The negotiations began in early April after attorneys for both the Greenville and Pitt boards of education received a letter from the Department of Justice stating that changes made to board membership in the 1960s and 1970s under previous administrations were illegal.

According to the letter, the two boards were in violation of the Voting Rights Act of 1965 when they made the adjustments in membership. The Voting Rights Act of 1965 requires governmental bodies get "pre-clearance," or approval

Double Play

Braves Snap String Of 37 Scoreless Innings

By The Associated Press
The way the Atlanta Braves have been hitting of late, one run in a game would seem like a lot. As it turned out, it was enough to beat the New York Mets.

"We were bound to score a run before the season was over," said a facetious Bruce Sutter, who hurled the final two innings for his fifth save as the Braves beat the Mets 1-0 Monday night.

Until breaking through, the Braves had been shut out four straight games, going 37 innings without scoring. It was 11 innings shy of the major-league record, held jointly by the 1906 Philadelphia Athletics and 1968 Chicago Cubs.

The Braves finally broke the spell with a run in the second inning on an RBI single by Glenn Hubbard.

"It's tough to make a one-run lead stand up inning after inning," said Len Barker, 1-3, who won for the first time in seven starts and became the only Atlanta starter other than Rick Mahler (7-1) to post a victory.

In the other National League games, the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 7-3 and the Houston Astros nipped the Montreal Expos 3-2 in 10 innings.

Barker yielded just four hits in seven innings before Sutter finished up. Barker didn't allow a runner past first base until Rafael Santana doubled with two out in the fifth inning. The right-hander struck out three and walked none in recording his first victory since July 20 of last year.

Dale Murphy led off the Atlanta second with an infield hit on a disputed call at first. After Mookie Wilson made a running, over-the-shoulder catch of Bob Horner's drive to deep right-center, Murphy went to second on Gerald Perry's grounder. Following a walk by Rick Cerone, Hubbard's slow dribbler scored Murphy.

"Everybody gets down on the team when we don't score, but look at the way the guys have been hitting the ball," Barker said. "They've been hitting it hard, but it hasn't been falling in. As long as they continue to swing the bat that way, we'll be all right."

Reds 7, Phillies 3

Tony Perez' pinch-hit, grand-slam home run off reliever Dave Rucker in the sixth inning boosted Cincinnati over Philadelphia, dealing the Phillies their seventh consecutive loss.

Perez, who turns 43 today, drilled a 3-2 pitch from Rucker over the left-field wall at Riverfront Stadium to snap a 3-3 tie. It was his first homer of the season and sixth career grand slam.

Perez came into the game with just nine at-bats this season, low among Cincinnati hitters. He played in a pair of exhibition games last week against the Detroit Tigers to sharpen his stroke, and player-manager Pete Rose didn't hesitate to call on him with the game on the line Monday night.

"He's a good clutch man," said Rose, who at age 44 is the only Reds player older than Perez. "He likes for the game to be on the line when he's up there."

Cincinnati starter John Stuper, 4-2, scattered six hits over the first six innings. John Franco and Ted Power finished up.

Astros 3, Expos 2
Pinch-hitter Jerry Mumphrey singled home the winning run in the 10th inning to lift Houston over Montreal.

Terry Puhl singled and stole second to start the Astros' rally in the 10th. Then Mumphrey, pinch-hitting for Mark Bailey, singled off Jeff Reardon, 1-1, to drive in Puhl with the winning run.

Committee Calls For Player Salary Freeze

NEW YORK (AP) — Projecting that major-league players' salaries would double by 1988 under the current system, the Player Relations Committee has called for a freeze in player benefits, salaries and pensions at 1985 levels.

The proposal came Monday in a PRC proposal to the Major League Players Association as the two sides continued their negotiations for a new baseball contract.

Bob Fishel, a spokesman for the PRC, said management informed the players association that it would present "a new comprehensive proposal addressing the economic distress of the industry as well as the concerns of the players," at their next negotiating session on May 20.

"A variety of subjects were discussed, mainly dealing with economic problems and how baseball got from its break-even point in 1978-79 to its present losing position," Fishel said.

One union source, who refused to be named, described the management proposal as "pathetic."

"At first blush, I can't think of a player who would be very interested in the goal they have," said Don Fehr, acting executive director of the union.

Fehr said the PRC negotiating team projected that, under the current system, salaries would double by 1988.

"What they did was give us preliminaries leading to some goals they have," he said. "Next week, they'll try to flush it out with a concept."

It was the first bargaining session since April 17. Since then, the players association has been reviewing financial figures supplied by the clubs.

Monday's meeting also included a discussion of Commissioner Peter Ueberroth's drug program, which calls for mandatory testing for all baseball personnel except major-league players. Major-league players are bound by a less stringent drug code contained in the current contract, but Ueberroth said he wants mandatory testing of major leaguers included in a new pact.

Coaches Confined To Seats

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Second of two parts

While there are several rules changes for the 1985-86 high school basketball season that will affect the way the game is played, one of the most controversial affects the way the game is coached.

New rules passed by the National High School Federation require that a coach remain seated throughout the game except for five spelled out reasons. Otherwise, the officials will hit them with a technical foul.

And preliminary reaction from the 10 Pitt County high school coaches would tend to find them pretty upset about the rule.

As explained by Dick Knox of the North Carolina High School Athletic Association these are the five reasons for a coach rising to his feet:

- To attend to an injured player when requested to come on the floor by an official.
- During a charged time out.

- To confer with the scorer's table about a correctable error.
- To talk with and insert a substitute.
- To spontaneously react to a good play by a member of his own team only.

According to Knox, the reasoning behind the rule is to cut down on a coach's inciting the crowd against the officials and their calls. "It's going to be interesting to see how they (the coaches) react to it," he said. "I think it has gotten to be a problem in the last year or two. It's hard to tell when they're coaching, reacting or criticizing."

How they react may not be very positive. Of the 10 coaches at the five schools in the county, only two said they would tend to favor it, Ayden-Grifton girls' coach Kathy Frazier and Rose boys' coach Jim Brewington.

"It's not going to effect the way I coach," Frazier said, "but I can see how it will be rough on some of the other coaches."

Brewington, who has been on his feet a lot over the past seasons, said he could see where it is needed. "I'd go along with it. I just hope they stick with it and not enforce it haphazardly."

But there, the favorable comments cease. Not one among the remaining eight coaches likes the rule.

"I think it's ridiculous," Ayden-Grifton boys' coach Bob Murphrey said. "Most of the good officials can control the game and the coach anyway. To say that there are only certain circumstances where a coach can stand up...well, I don't think the good officials are going to enforce it in a practical situation. I don't think it's necessary. It seems like the more rules you make, the more problems you create."

Conley girls' coach Joy Riddick was even more emphatic. "It won't be enforced, I guarantee it," she said. "I don't like it. I don't ever sit down. I coach a lot standing up and it will hinder me. I guess I'll have to (sit down) but I won't like it."

Claybrook boys' coach Walter Claybrook echoed those thoughts. "I've always heard from (the state officials) that they want the coaches to coach. As long as you're not directing comments to the officials, I can't see why the rule was put in. If you're coaching, you should be able to get up anytime. I understand trying to cut down on the hitting on officials, but it's going to be interesting to see how they enforce it."

One of the most active coaches along the bench has been North Pitt boys' coach Cobby Deans, and he wants no part of the rule either. "I can see why they passed it, but I'm opposed to it." Not being able to get up will hurt his on-court coaching, he added. "I feel that as long as you're not talking to the officials, you should be able to talk to your players. If they'd put an 'X' on the floor and say 'Stand here' that would be okay, too. I just guess I'll have to learn to live with it."

Celts, 76ers Make Adjustments

BOSTON (AP) — It's a battle of big men with awesome physical talents. But the struggle between Boston and Philadelphia for the Eastern Conference title is as much a thinking man's game.

"It's going to be a series of adjustments for a while until we find out what works for each team," Celtic forward Kevin McHale said Monday.

The defending National Basketball Association champions take a 1-0 lead over the 76ers into tonight's second game of their best-of-seven conference final.

Rose Earns State Berth

JACKSONVILLE — Rose High School's golf team tied with Jacksonville High School for sectional honors and earned a trip to the state tournament, to be played in Chapel Hill next Monday and Tuesday.

The Rampants and Cardinals both finished the day with 314 scores, three shots better than third place Whiteville which finished at 317. Eastern Wayne was fourth at 318 while Farmville Central finished fifth with a 320. Richlands was next at 322, followed by Hoggard at 323, New Hanover at 328 and Topsail at 332.

Only the top two teams and top four other individuals qualified for the state tournament.

David Lee led Rose with a 77, while Tee Davies had a 78, Simon Moye had a 79 and Mike Herrin shot an 80.

Philadelphia probably will try to get downcourt on defense faster and double-team Boston's big men, who excelled in Sunday's 108-93 first-game victory. The Celtics probably will stick with their sagging defense and dare the 76ers to shoot from the perimeter.

"I think that they'll continue to play that way," said Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham. "They held us to 93 points. They can't be too upset about what they did on the defensive end of the court."

So now it's the 76ers' turn to adjust. After tonight, Boston could be in that position despite its first-game domination. Games 3 and 4 will be in Philadelphia Saturday and Sunday.

"If we played a one-game series like the Super Bowl, we'd be happy as heck right now, but it's not," said McHale, who topped Boston with a career playoff high 28 points in the opener. "The two previous times we played the Sixers (in the playoffs) since I've been here we've always gone into Philadelphia tied 1-1."

In 1981, the 76ers went up 3-1 but Boston won the series and went on to the NBA title. In 1982, Philadelphia lost the first game by 40 points but won the second.

This year, Boston came into the series after struggling to playoff victories over Cleveland and Detroit. Philadelphia breezed by Washington and Milwaukee in its first two series.

"When you get to this stage, it's not really a matter of whether a team is hot or cold," Philadelphia forward Bobby Jones said Monday. "Both of these teams seek to control tempo and the pace of the game and that really dictates what's going to happen. I think Boston was very successful yesterday at controlling the tempo."

"We didn't play well at all" in beating Cleveland 3-1 and Detroit 4-2, said Celtic forward Cedric Maxwell. "I think we did kind of think all along that we were going to be here and that we were going to meet the Sixers."

"We've been improving ever since the playoffs started," said Boston guard Danny Ainge.

The 76ers hope to change that by controlling Boston's big men — McHale, Robert Parish and Larry Bird — and getting more offensive production from its own frontcourt, which was outscored 87-44 Sunday.

Philadelphia has a smaller front line, but forward Julius Erving said, "I don't know if size was as much of a factor."

Emory's Deposition Delayed One Week

Former East Carolina Coach Ed Emory was back in town yesterday, on an abortive trip to make a deposition to state attorneys.

Emory was supposed to give a deposition to the state's attorneys in his $1.2 million suit against East Carolina University over his firing last December in a session today. At the same time, Emory's attorneys were to take depositions from Dr. John M. Howell, chancellor of the university, and Dr. Ken Karr, director of athletics, the two individuals named in Emory's suit along with the university.

However, according to Emory attorney Marvin Blount, one of the defendants was unable to be present today, so the meetings were postponed until sometime next week, when Emory will return to Greenville. Emory is currently working as an assistant coach with the Memphis Showboats of the USFL.

and is expected to return to Memphis today.

Meanwhile, Blount said that a motion by the state to dismiss the suit would be heard in Pitt County Superior Court on June 7. The state has moved that Emory has no basis for his suit and it should be dismissed. If the ruling goes against the state, it will have 20 days in which to file an answer to the suit, after which, it can be placed on the docket for trial.

Mattingly's Homer Boosts Yankees

By The Associated Press
Minnesota Twins Manager Billy Gardner kept it short and to the point.
"There's no question about it," he said. "Our bullpen is the problem."
And so are game-winning home runs in the bottom of the ninth inning.

Don Mattingly lined a three-run homer with two outs in the bottom of ninth Monday night to rally the New York Yankees past the Twins 9-8. The home run off reliever Ron Davis capped New York's comeback from an early 8-0 deficit.

The blow also came after a gut-wrenching weekend for the Twins in Baltimore that began Friday night when Fred Lynn clubbed a solo home run off Davis in the bottom of the ninth that gave the Orioles a 2-1 victory. The next night, with Minnesota clinging to a 2-1 lead, Davis allowed the first two runners to reach base in the last of the ninth before Curt Wardle gave up another game-winning homer by Lynn.

"I hit a fastball somewhere out over the plate," Mattingly said. "He missed with a curve on the first pitch. I was hitting dead-red on the second pitch, and I got it."

In other AL games, Detroit beat Texas 7-4, Chicago blanked Cleveland 8-0 and Kansas City downed Baltimore 5-2.

The Twins were leading 8-6 when Davis, now 1-4 with a 6.23 ERA in 12 appearances, was summoned in the seventh with runners on second and third. Davis struck out Dave Winfield to get out of trouble, and then pitched a 1-2-3 eighth.

But in the ninth, he walked pinch-hitter Ron Hassey to start the inning. Hassey moved to second on a groundout, and Davis walked Ken Griffey with two outs. Mattingly then unloaded his second home run of the season.

"The home run was bad enough, but that wasn't the worst part of it," Gardner said. "It was the walk to Griffey. I wouldn't have cared if Griffey hit a two-run homer. It's a tie game. But when you walk Griffey and have to pitch to a hitter like Mattingly ... well, you see what happened."

The Twins started out well enough, scoring twice in the first inning and knocking out Ed Whitson during a six-run second. Randy Bush, who hit a grand-slam homer Sunday, clubbed a three-run home run to cap the big inning.

Mike Smithson held the Yankees hitless until Mattingly doubled with two out in the fourth. Winfield singled home Mattingly to start the comeback.

In the sixth, New York scored five runs on five hits, including a three-run homer by Butch Wynegar.

While the Yankees were scoring, reliever Joe Cowley was keeping Minnesota off the scoreboard. Cowley, demoted to the bullpen after getting shelled by the Twins last week, pitched seven innings of shutout relief to get the victory.

Cowley, 1-2, gave up five hits and struck out six.

"I didn't throw the ball very well in Minnesota (Wednesday), but I battled," Cowley said, "and that's what I tried to do today. I had good location, and I felt comfortable. I'm just glad to be able to contribute to a victory."

White Sox 8, Indians 0

Britt Burns provided the pitching, Ozzie Guillen provided the hitting and Carlton Fisk provided the baserunning that led host, Chicago over Cleveland.

Burns, 5-2, threw a four-hitter and struck out 10. He did not walk a batter in pitching his third complete game of the season.

Guillen had three hits, along with a suicide-squeeze bunt, and scored twice.

Fisk stole third base during a four-run uprising in the second inning against Neal Heaton, 2-3. The stolen base was the 100th of Fisk's career, making him only the fifth catcher in major-league history to reach that mark.

Fisk joined Roger Bresnahan, who set the all-time mark for catchers with 212 steals, Ray Schalk, Johnny Kling and Wally Schang as the only other catchers to reach the 100 plateau.

Tigers 7, Rangers 4

Kirk Gibson, Lance Parrish and Lou Whitaker hit home runs to lead Detroit past Texas in a homer duel.

While Gibson and Parrish are considered Detroit's sluggers, it was Whitaker's leadoff home run that had everyone buzzing. Whitaker hit a drive over the roof in right field at Tiger Stadium — only the 20th time a ball has been hit completely out of that ballpark since it was rebuilt along its present lines in 1938.

Dan Petry, 6-2, got the victory despite allowing home runs to Cliff Johnson, Toby Harrah and Buddy Bell. Willie Hernandez went 1 1-3 innings for his eighth save in eight save situations this season.

Burt Hooton, 0-1, making the first AL start of his career, took the loss.

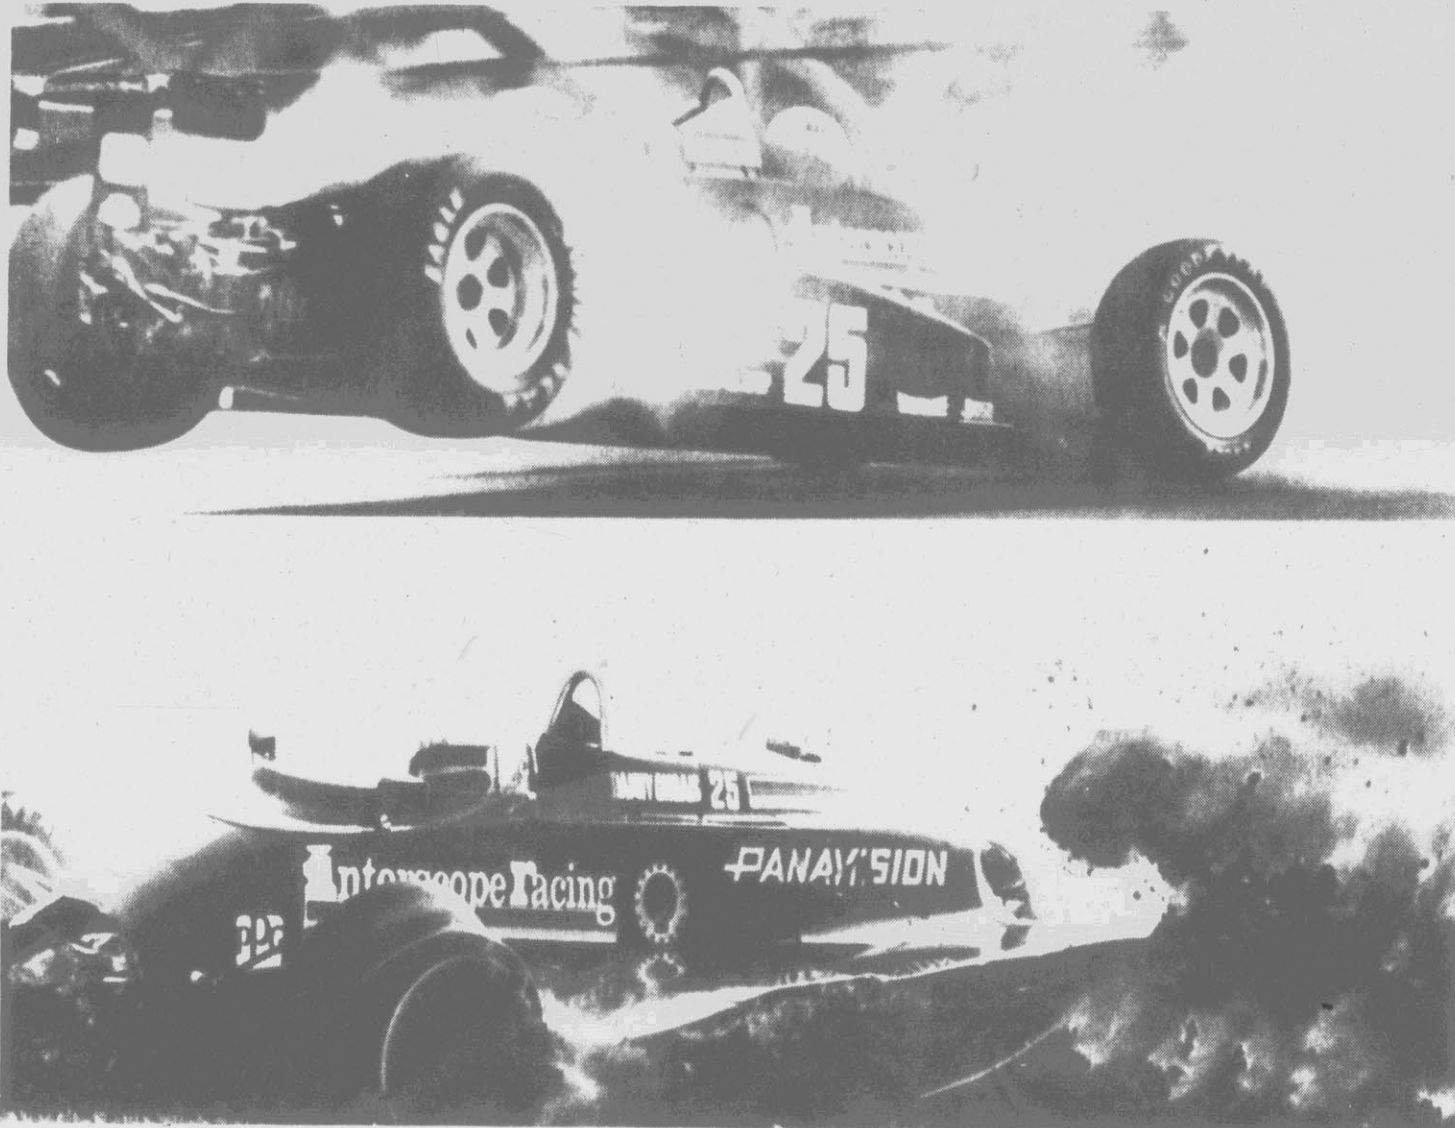

Royals 5, Orioles 2

In Baltimore, designated-hitter Jorge Orta drove in four of Kansas City's runs and scored the fifth run.

Orta belted a three-run double in the sixth inning to give the Royals a 3-0 lead. He walked and scored on a single by Frank White in the eighth, and then had an RBI single in the ninth.

Loser Storm Davis, 1-1, took a one-hitter into the sixth before Kansas City went ahead.

Dan Jackson, 2-1, went six innings for the victory. He allowed Gary Roenicke's two-run homer in the sixth.

Nuggets Look For Comeback In L.A.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The Denver Nuggets, routed in their playoff opener against the Los Angeles Lakers, are in a familiar position heading into tonight's second game of the National Basketball Association playoff series.

"We have responded before, and we will come back and come after them," said Denver Coach Doug Moe, whose club suffered a 139-122 setback in Saturday's first game of the best-of-seven Western Conference finals.

"We need a little better effort ... and them a little less."

"I look at it like this; it happened to us during the season and we came back," Moe said.

"We just didn't play our game," forward Alex English said of the opener. English led the Nuggets with 30 points.

"We've worked too hard to get to this point and not play our game," he added.

"I think we have to come out and do a better job of running our offense," said Nugget center Dan Issel said. "It seemed like the Lakers were coming down and scoring every time — and they were, but it was more because we did a poor job of running our offense than because of our lack of defense."

The Lakers, 8-1 in three playoff rounds, aren't taking anything for granted in this series, the final stepping stone to the NBA finals.

"We played a great game," said Lakers Coach Pat Riley. "(But) we must keep it in perspective. Denver is a good club and has proven it against us in the past."

"I'm pleased, but we still have a way to go," said Laker center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. "One game does not a series make. Last year, we won some games big, then we came out flat. This year we can't do that."

Although the Nuggets previously had played well at the Forum, they were quickly out of the playoff opener. They fell behind 11-0, then were virtually through by halftime, trailing 80-52.

Everette's..... 13
Coca-Cola..... 2

John Bolen and Andy Everette each banged out two hits and Paul Powers threw a four-hitter as Everette's Pest Control romped to a 13-2 Babe Ruth League victory over Coca-Cola last night.

Everette's got all it needed in the first inning, scoring seven times. Brian Pierce walked and Bolen doubled him in. Jay Surles singled and a passed ball scored Bolen. Another passed ball put Surles on third. Powers walked and stole second. A balk scored Surley and put Powers on third. Robert Jenkins and Carlos Harris both walked, loading the bases. Everette singled in Powers and Bobby Weisenberger walked, forcing in Jenkins. Pierce singled, scoring both Harris and Everette with the final runs.

Everette's went on to score four more in the second, and one each in the third and fourth. Coke got both of its runs in the fourth inning.

Jeff Mahoney had two of the four hits picked up by Coca-Cola.

Little League

Wellcome..... 15
First Federal..... 12

Scott Byrd hit two homers and Jason Adams added another as Wellcome outlasted First Federal, 15-12, in Tar Heel Little League action yesterday.

Wellcome took the lead with four runs in the first inning, two off Byrd's first homer. First Federal came back with two in its half of the inning. Wellcome got three more in the third as Byrd hit a solo shot and Adams hit a two-run homer. First Federal scored once to trail, 7-3.

In the fourth, First Federal rallied for three as Drew Johnson hit a two-run homer, pulling within 7-6.

Wellcome added two in the fifth while First Federal charged ahead, 11-9, with two in the bottom of the fifth. Wellcome tied it up with two in the top of the sixth.

In the seventh, Wellcome scored four times to win it. Frank Alford led off with a walk and Jason Tetterton also walked. Another walk, to Joe Norris, loaded the bases. Byrd walked to force in Alford, but Josh Potter's grounder got Tetterton at home. Norris stole home and Byrd scored on a passed ball while Potter scored on a wild pitch.

Byrd, Potter and Adams each had two hits to lead Wellcome.

First Federal was led by Johnson with four, while Malcolm Joyner and Rives Mann each had three and Keith Corbett had two.

Sportsworld..... 10
Jaycees..... 0

Ledwick Johnson fired a one-hitter and recorded 11 strikeouts to lead Sportsworld to a 10-0 victory over the Jaycees Monday in North State Little League baseball.

Jason Wing and Kelvin Yarrell had two hits each for Sportsworld.

Sportsworld took the lead in the second inning when Russell Oats was hit by a pitch, moved to third on a pair of wild pitches and scored on a single by Steven Anthony. Sportsworld added two more runs in the third and seven in the fifth to put the game out of reach.

Rose Jayvees Claim Crown

The Rose Rampant junior varsity pounded out 22 hits to take a 21-2 victory over Wilson Hunt for the Big East jayvee baseball championship.

Curtis Perkins, Tim Clark, Robbie McDonald and Lee Lewis each went 3-4 at the plate to lead the Rampants, while Greg Jones went 3-5.

McDonald struck out five to claim the victory on the mound.

Rose plated 12 runs in the third to take control.

The Rampants, now 12-1 in the league, close the season hosting Northeastern Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. at Guy Smith Stadium.

Preakness Stalls Filled

BALTIMORE (AP) — Spend a Buck won't be coming to Saturday's Preakness Stakes, but the Pimlico Race Course stall usually assigned to the Kentucky Derby winner will be occupied this week after all.

Chief's Crown, the beaten favorite in the Derby, was assigned stall No. 40 when he arrived at the track Monday afternoon after a van trip from New York's Belmont Park.

Chick Lang, Pimlico's general manager, said he offered the stall to trainer Roger Laurin because it had been used by his father, Lucien Laurin, when the latter saddled Triple Crown winner Secretariat for the 1973 Preakness.

The move came after trainer Butch Lenzi asked for, and was given permission, to house Eternal Prince in stall No. 22, the same one he used when he sent Aloma's Ruler out to win the 1982 Preakness.

"There's a lot of sentimentality and superstitions in racing," Lang said. "Butch asked for the same stall because it was lucky for him the last time and I offered No. 40 to Roger because I'm especially fond of the Laurin family."

"Roger didn't request it, but he was pleased," Lang said of the stall which is identified by a marker listing some of its well-known previous occupants.

Chief's Crown is expected to face nine or 10 opponents, including three of the Derby foes he bettered while finishing third at Churchill Downs, and is likely to go off as the betting favorite in the 1 1/2-mile Preakness.

With the owners of two prospective starters required to ante $20,000 supplementary entry fees for colts who were not nominated, the 110th Preakness will offer a record purse. If all 11 of the current possible starters are officially entered Thursday morning, the purse would gross $525,700, with $403,200 going to the winner.

Supplementary fees must be paid for California Derby winner Hajji's Treasure and for Tajawa, the latest addition to the field.

Tajawa, winner of the Ocala

Breeders Stakes but sixth in his last start, the Derby Trial, is a grandson of 1955 Preakness winner Nashua.

Besides Chief's Crown, other Derby competitors expected to start in the second race of the Triple Crown series include Tank's Prospect, Eternal Prince and I Am The Game.

The remainder of the possible field includes Cutlass Reality, Skip Trial, Sparrowson and Southern Sultan, with Roo Art rated a possibility.

Roo Art was slightly injured during a rough trip while finishing second in last Saturday's Preakness Prep, and trainer Barclay Tagg delayed a decision on a Preakness start until Wednesday.

Southern Sultan, who will enter the Preakness still looking for his first victory, is not expected to reach Pimlico from Delaware Park until Saturday.

"I like shipping him late," trainer Ross Pearce said of his nervous colt. "It loosens him up. We'll either van down to Pimlico at 6 a.m. Saturday morning, or after the traffic dies down at 2 p.m."

Farmville Tops Cox

FARMVILLE — Eddie Little struck out six and recorded a two-hitter as Farmville Middle School blanked A.G. Cox 10-0 Monday in junior high baseball.

George Burnette and Monte King had two hits each for Farmville.

Farmville improved its record to 3-4 on the season, while Cox slipped to 6-1. Farmville travels to Chicco Wednesday.

Padres Filling Stands

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Once upon a time there was a favorite story about how plentiful seats were for San Diego Padres games.

The caller to the stadium ticket office: "What time does the game start?"

The reply: "What time can you get here?"

The story is not heard much anymore in San Diego, and for good reason. Through 14 home dates this season, the Padres, in first place in the National League West, have drawn 514,021 fans for an average of 36,715 per game. For 14 games in 1984 — when the team's on-field record was 18-12 versus the current 17-12 — the per-game average was 23,077.

During last weekend's three-game series with the Chicago Cubs, the Padres pulled in more than 144,000 people, selling out Saturday's and Sunday's games. It was the Cubs' first visit to San Diego since they lost three straight to the Padres in the National League Championship Series last October. The Cubs are close to edging the Dodgers as the team Padres fans most love to hate.

"You just can't beat it when you're in first place and averaging 36,000 a game," said Elten Schiller, vice president of baseball operations for the National League champions.

Before the first pitch was thrown this season, the Padres had sold more than 1.2 million tickets through season-ticket packages and advance single-game sales. On a given day, the team is guaranteed a paid gate of 11,339 and 14,456 based on those sales alone.

"I think the people just fell in love with the Padres last October," Schiller said.

The Padres capitalized on that infatuation early, offering guaranteed NLCS and World Series tickets to those willing to put down $100 toward a 1985 season-ticket package.

Last August, the team signed up 5,200 new season-ticket plans when it signed purchasers to mini-season ticket packages and promised them first dibs on post-season tickets.

"We had a tremendous response. Other clubs had tried similar things and I don't think they met with the success that we had," Schiller said.

Of course, the Padres are new to both on-field and turnstile success. Last season was the Padres' first playoff and series appearance in the team's 16-year history.

New Prep Rules...

Farmville Central boys' coach Mike Terrell feels that the rule is going to put even more pressure on the officials. "They'll have to make a decision as to whether a coach had the right to get up. I can live with the rule, but all of us like to get up from time to time. I like to walk down to the other end of the bench and sit there for a while during a game, but I guess that would be against the rules now."

Farmville girls' coach Hilda Worthington says she too likes to get up and coach on her feet at times. "It's going to be hard on some of us. And I think it's going to be enforced by some officials and ignored by others."

North Pitt girls' coach Randy Avery said he thought he could learn to live with the rule, but it would be hard. "I'm an up-and-down type person. I pace the sidelines a lot; but if it's going to cost a 'T', I'll just have to adjust."

Adjusting may be the biggest problem for Rose girls' coach Bill Kuykendall. "I'm always up," he said. "I like to be able to talk to my players while they're on the court. Where we sit at home (in the end zone), makes it hard to communicate with them without standing. I hope they won't enforce it, because if they do, I just might be gone in the second quarter (with an excess amount of technicals). Either that, or I'll need a restraining belt."

And how do the officials feel?

Charlie Vincent, who officiates on all four high school levels, has talked with other officials about the rules, but hasn't seen anything official.

"I'm personally not in favor of any more restrictions on the coaches. Where there are problems, the officials have lost control of the situation. I'm going to keep the game under control. In our area, I don't have a problem with it."

"I don't want to try and interpret how it will be enforced, but I would anticipate a liberal interpretation," Vincent said.

Springsteen Unnoticed By Locals

LAKE OSWEGO, Ore. (AP) — Bruce Springsteen may be rock's working-class hero, but the clientele at a blue-collar tavern didn't bat an eye when "The Boss" played pool and sang to his own records on the jukebox there.

Springsteen, 35, who married 25-year-old actress Julianne Phillips early Monday in a clandestine ceremony in a darkened church, had been hiding in her parents' home in this well-to-do Portland suburb since Thursday, relatives revealed.

On Friday, Springsteen, Miss Phillips' brothers and father sneaked out a back door, eluding reporters, photographers and fans, and drove to the Firestone Inn, a beer bar and pool hall along a busy suburban Portland highway.

"We ... played pool for two hours with all my brothers, my dad and Bruce," said David Phillips, one of the bride's five brothers. "Playing all his music on the jukebox and we were all singing and playing pool and no one knew it was him."

Warren Langland, a bartender at the Firestone, said Monday that neither the two bartenders who were working Friday night nor any of the customers recalled seeing Springsteen Friday night.

"We were totally unaware of it," Langland said. "That's probably why he came to a place like this."

Springsteen is a popular selection on the tavern jukebox, Langland said, adding that it has "almost every one he's ever done."

"They're all kind of sorry that they missed him," Langland said. "But it's usually busy in here — we get a good crowd on Friday."

If keeping the tavern visit a secret was easy, the wedding was a real piece of cake.

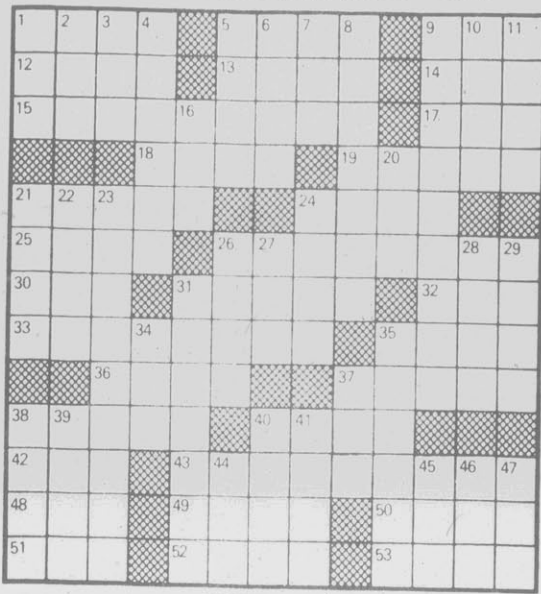

John Phillips, another brother of the bride, said their father took out the trash late Sunday night and "made a lot of noise" to draw the attention of the group staking out his home.

Today's Cryptoquip clue equals W
 The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Texas Beauty Wins Miss U.S.A.

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Laura Elena Herring, a statuesque, 21-year-old brunette from Texas, says she is both the first Mexican-American and the first naturalized citizen ever to win the Miss USA title.

Miss Herring was crowned Monday night after edging out 50 other contestants for $175,000 in cash and prizes including a mink coat, a sports car, a speed boat and use of a luxury apartment in New York.

"The people in the United States have no limitations. We put limitations on ourselves. I thank God I became a naturalized citizen," Miss Herring told reporters.

Pageant spokesman Les Schecter said he believed Miss Herring was correct in saying she was the first Mexican-American and first naturalized citizen to win the pageant.

Miss Herring said she will begin to collect some of those prizes today, including $110,000 cash which she intends to eventually invest in the stock market, silver or other commodities.

"I'm still in a dream. It will probably be a week before I believe it," Miss Herring said, wearing a pink sequined gown, clutching a bouquet of roses and crowned by a sparkling tiara.

She was born in the city of Los Mochis in northern Mexico, one of six daughters of Raymond Herring, who owns a large farm in Mexico, and Maria Martinez, a psychotherapist in El Paso, Texas.

Miss Herring moved to the United States 11 years ago and became a U.S. citizen when she was 14 years old, she said.

Bilingual in Spanish and English all her life, Miss Herring added French while in high school at Aiglon College in Switzerland and became fluent in the language while traveling across Europe, she said.

After backpacking in the Himalayas and doing manual labor as a social worker in India during the summer of 1982, Miss Herring returned to the United States for two weeks.

Then she and one of her sisters returned to Europe and spent the next year and a half traveling there and in Asia, the Middle East and the Philippines, she said.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 15, 1985

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Despite cyclic changes now taking place, by using charm and showing interest in others' standpoints, you can make these new arrangements work very much to your advantage.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are wisely focusing on financial and property matters today and can add to personal assets. Relieve tensions by being ethical.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Others may oppose your personal aims but be diplomatic. Outsiders could give you trouble, but your mate can make you happy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan how to replace difficult newcomers to gain more tranquility and avoid any schemes being perpetrated on you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Get busy at whatever is of a practical nature and forget emotional desires that could bring you trouble. Be charming.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Changes may take place where your career is concerned, but this will be for the best. Look for more fascinating interests.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Some long-time partner could take leave of you, but other associates soon come into your life for greater progress.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Charming an important person in the outside world is wise now, but avoid problematical affairs of a practical nature.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try not to have an altercation with one who does not agree with ideas you have, and then co-workers will be cooperative.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Rid yourself of antiquated ideas and systems and get your existence on a more streamlined basis.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Steer clear of that extravagance where entertainment is concerned and be happy within your family circle.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Doing something that others will not like at home could bring trouble for you. Do some visiting of friends and neighbors.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Much care in motion and in speech should be exercised today. Look about you tonight, and see how you can improve your home.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have magnetic personality and can get anything he or she wishes by a mere smile, yet will be very thoughtful and kind with others. Provide a good education so that your progeny can be a big success in life and can extend many favors to others as well.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

have to be very dramatic. To prove our point, look at this hand from the Spring North American Championships, held in Montreal.

The auction was brief in terms of the number of bids, but the level was quickly in the stratosphere. South opened a perfectly normal one heart and West bid what he hoped he could make — five clubs. North raised to five hearts with some trepidation, because he felt his side might be missing a slam.

It did not take Bob Ebenstein of Winnipeg long to come up with his opening lead — he led the six of spades! East's queen was captured by the king, and declarer thought he knew the lie of the land. West's lead was apparently a singleton and East was falsecarding with the Q. J. Since he had two probable losers in the minor suits, he could not afford to lose a spade as well.

To declarer, the road to success seemed obvious. He drew two rounds of trumps, ending in dummy, but he paid no attention to the fact that West was void in trumps. Next, he ran the ten of spades, and that was that. West won the jack, cashed the ace of clubs and exited with a diamond. The defenders sat back to wait for their diamond trick — down one.

We congratulate West for his touch of high life, but we don't think that declarer should have fallen for West's deceptive opening lead. The clue to the spade distribution was West's void in trumps. Declarer should have asked himself why would West lead a singleton when he didn't have a trump with which to ruff! If he had a singleton spade, why would he risk exposing his partner's holding in the suit? The only rational answer to either query is that West could have a singleton spade.

Norris Film Leads Box Office

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Code of Silence," the Chuck Norris action film, was the box office leader after a lackluster weekend that was more notable for the staying power of "Beverly Hills Cop" than the debuts of the latest spring releases.

"Code of Silence" grossed $3.6 million at 1,800 screens over the weekend compared to the $5.5 million registered the previous week.

"Rustlers' Rhapsody," a new release from Paramount, grossed $2.4 million at 1,480 theaters.

Universal's "Gotcha" remained No. 3 with a take of $2 million.

The weekend's other debut, Cannon's "Rappin'" brought in $1.8 million to claim fourth place.

Warner Bros.' "Police Academy 2" slipped one step to fifth with a gross of $1.7 million, and Columbia's "Just One of the Guys" tumbled from No. 2 to No. 6 on a gross of $1.5 million.

After 22 weeks, Paramount's "Beverly Hills Cop" was still kicking, bringing in $1.4 million at 734 theaters. Universal's "Mask" also had $1.4 million, at 794 houses.
