Khomeini Pledges Revenge For Riot Deaths

By SAMIR F. GHATTAS
Associated Press Writer

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini today pledged revenge against the United States, holding it responsible for the killing of hundreds of Iranian pilgrims in Mecca during clashes with Saudi police.

An Iranian official today claimed the toll from Friday's clashes rose to at least 600 Iranians dead, 4,500 wounded. The Saudis say 402 people, 275 of them Iranian, were killed and 649 hurt when an Iranian anti-American demonstration grew violent Friday, the eve of the annual Moslem pilgrimage to Mecca.

The United States has denied any role in the clashes. Khomeini's statement coincided with an announcement that the Iranian navy had begun maneuvers in the Strait of Hormuz. The military warned all ships and aircraft to stay clear of Iran's territorial waters for three days as of Monday midnight (4:30 p.m. EDT). A U.S.-flag Kuwaiti gas tanker escorted by U.S. warships was steaming toward the strait on a return journey through the Persian Gulf. The convoy's exact location was not known.

Tehran radio, monitored in Nicosia, said the maneuvers — codenamed "Martyrdom" — were to prepare Iranian forces against possible U.S. aggression and in honor of the slain pilgrims.

Khomeini, Iran's 87-year-old revolutionary and spiritual leader, did not say how Iran would respond against "arch-Satan" America, but said revenge would come "in an opportune time."

His remarks came in a message to Hojatoleslam Mahdi Karrubi, head of the estimated 155,000-strong Iranian pilgrims to the holy city of Mecca in Saudi Arabia, Tehran radio reported.

Iran's President Ali Khamenei told a group of navymen that America yields only to force and would be addressed that way, Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, also monitored in Nicosia, reported today.

The Iranian president said the Mecca killings will not go unanswered, and the Iranian navy commander vowed revenge soon.

"We will deal them the fatal blow," IRNA quoted him as telling graduates at the navy command college in Tehran Sunday.

"They are very vulnerable in the Persian Gulf. The U.S. was also defeated in the Persian Gulf and was humiliated politically and militarily."

And today Khomeini said: "We hold America responsible for all these crimes (at Mecca). God willing, in an opportune time we shall deal with her ...

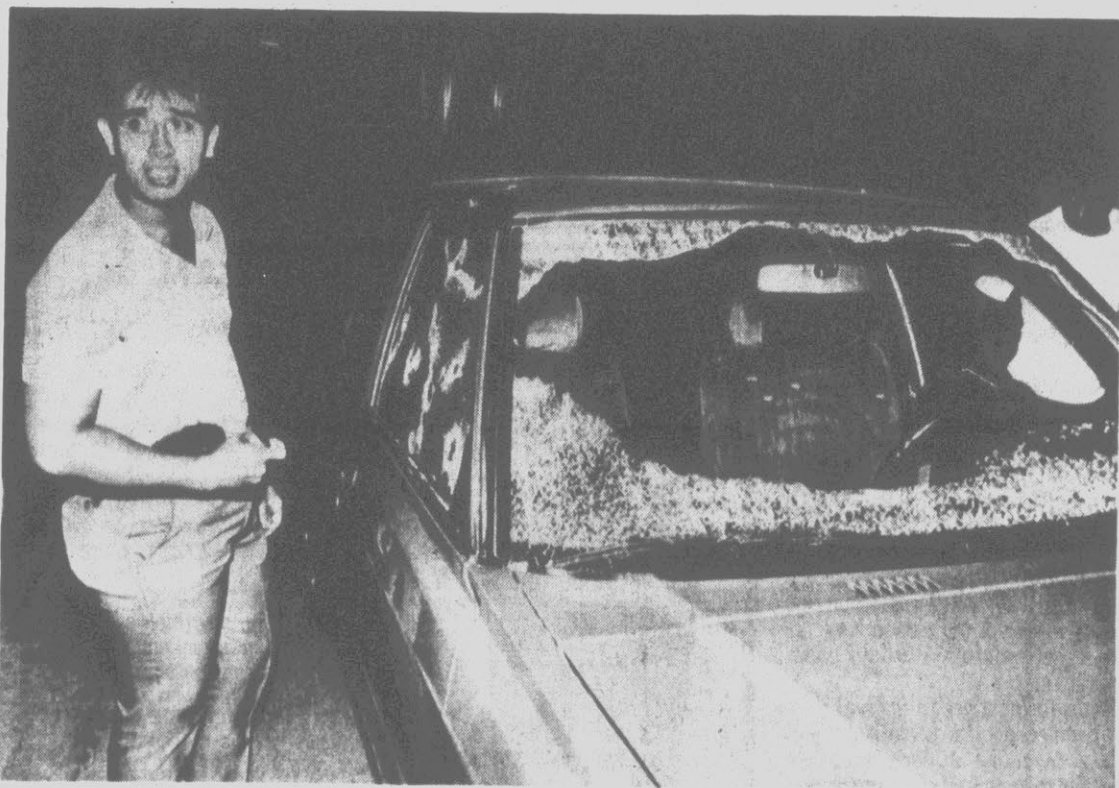

"The blood which flowed ... the future nations and generations will satisfy their thirst from it and the oppressors shall drown and die in it."

"It is not surprising to see the contaminated hands of America and Israel emerging through the sleeves of the devious people, the ringleaders of Saudi Arabia and the traitors to the two holy shrines and then target the heads of the best Moslems," Khomeini said.

Today's developments came as the tanker Gas Prince, escorted by two U.S. warships, headed toward Hormuz after loading volatile cargo from Kuwait, a shipping source in Kuwait said.

Tanker Steams Into Strait As Iran Issues Warning

By JOHN RICE
Associated Press Writer

KUWAIT (AP) — Iran said today it was starting naval maneuvers in the Strait of Hormuz and warned ships and aircraft to stay clear of its territorial waters as a U.S.-flag Kuwaiti tanker under U.S. Navy escort steamed into the strait.

Tehran radio said preliminary operations of the maneuvers have begun in the Persian Gulf, and the military warned ships and planes to avoid Iranian territorial waters for three days as of Monday midnight (4:30 p.m. Monday EDT).

Pentagon sources in Washington said at the U.S.-escorted tanker Gas Prince was inside the Strait of Hormuz itself as of this morning. Iran has deployed Silkorm anti-ship missiles at the strait.

Another convoy including U.S. warships is scheduled to sail north through the strait and into the gulf on Thursday.

The strait is the Persian Gulf's only outlet. It connects the gulf with the Gulf of Oman and Arabian Sea to the south.

The missile destroyer Kidd and missile frigate Crommelin accompanied the 46,732-ton Gas Prince, which left Kuwait on Saturday for Imari, Japan, carrying liquefied petroleum gas. The 550-mile journey through the gulf takes 2½ days.

The guided missile cruiser USS Fox sailed nearby on Sunday.

Iran said its maneuvers, codenamed "Martyrdom," were to prepare Iranian forces against possible U.S. aggression and in honor of hundreds of Iranian pilgrims killed in clashes with Saudi police on Friday in Mecca, Saudi Arabia, Islam's holiest city. The fanatical Revolutionary Guards were conducting the naval exercises.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Iran's revolutionary and spiritual leader, today vowed revenge against America, holding it responsible for the Mecca deaths, Tehran Radio reported in a broadcast monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus.

The United States earlier denied any involvement in the Mecca incident.

Iran claimed today that the casualty toll from the Mecca clashes had risen to at least 600 Iranians dead and about 4,500 wounded. The Saudis say 402 people, 275 of them Iranian, were killed and 649 injured.

A communique issued today by Iran's military command said it "has issued a serious request to all shipping centers and military and civilian aircraft to halt all their air and sea traffic in ... (Iran's) regional waters ... in the Persian Gulf and Oman Sea for three days starting from 2400 hours tonight," Tehran radio reported.

A Kuwaiti shipping source meanwhile said that the Bridgeton, another U.S.-flag Kuwaiti tanker holed by a mine while escorted with the Gas Prince by U.S. Navy ships July 24, loaded 230,000 tons of oil, moved away from the Sea Island loading terminal and was at anchor. The source demanded anonymity.

The Pentagon said it suspected Iran planted the mine.

The Bridgeton might wait several more days before heading south on the return journey through the gulf, shipping sources said.

U.S. Rear Adm. Harold J. Bernsen said Sunday there had been "no alarms" and "no unusual incidents" connected with the Gas convoy.

On Saturday, the convoy passed without incident through gulf waters

Official Assassinated

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Police set up roadblocks and searched hospitals today after the first assassination of a Cabinet member in the Philippines.

Witnesses told police three to five gunmen riddled Local Governments Secretary Jaime Ferrer's car with automatic weapons fire Sunday evening about a block from his home in suburban Paranaque. One gunman may have been wounded.

Ferrer, 70, a staunch anti-Communist, and his driver died of multiple gunshot wounds. No group immediately claimed responsibility for the killings.

Ferrer's brother, Wally, said the secretary had been receiving death threats but refused a military offer of bodyguards. Ferrer, a guerrilla fighter against the Japanese in World War II, had boasted to reporters that he never traveled with bodyguards and that his enemies "know where to find me."

President Corazon Aquino met with a Cabinet crisis committee today to discuss the assassination. Her spokesman, Teodoro Benigno, reported several measures were reviewed but he refused to elaborate, saying: "There are many angles, and very confidential in nature."

He said it was the first assassination of a Cabinet minister in Philippine history.

The assassination of the two men was the most spectacular in a wave

Decision Damaging?

By JIM DRINKARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger told congressional investigators today that "the interests of the United States were damaged overall" by President Reagan's decision to sell arms secretly to Iran.

"The way to avoid that is not to embark on a policy of this kind," he said as the 11-week-old Iran-Contra hearings neared an end.

Testifying for the second day, Weinberger said he hopes Congress will allow presidents continued leeway on when to notify Congress that a covert operation has been authorized.

"A rigid time or an inflexible time is not a very good thing," he said. Weinberger said he generally favors an existing legal requirement for notification of Congress in a "timely fashion."

Weinberger was the 29th and last witness to be interrogated in public session at the nationally televised hearings on the secret U.S. sale of arms to Iran and diversion of profits to benefit the Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

Leaders of the House and Senate investigating panels hoped to wrap up Weinberger's testimony by early afternoon before adjourning for the final time.

The panels intend to question several CIA officials privately later this week, and then spend the month of August writing a formal report on the affair that has dealt major political damage to President Reagan.

Wooles In Race For Council Seat

Dr. Wallace Wooles, chairman of the pharmacology department at the East Carolina University School of Medicine, filed today as a candidate for the at-large seat on the Greenville City Council in the Nov. 3 municipal elections.

Wooles, who has served on the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission for three years, was recently elected chairman by panel members.

He also served on the Mayor's Advisory Committee in 1983.

A 17-year resident of Greenville, Wooles and his wife, Dorothy F., reside at 2002 Forest Hills Dr. They have five children.

Wooles received his bachelor's and master's degrees in medical science from Boston College. He received a Ph.D. in medical science from the University of Tennessee in 1963.

In filing as a candidate, Wooles said he would like to have City Council members work together for Greenville.

"The first thing I want to do is eliminate the divisiveness that exists on the present City Council and to work toward getting the City Council to function as a cohesive unit looking out for the good of all of the city," he said.

"Secondly, I'm interested in continuing the orderly planned expansion of the city, particularly of the Medical District. Finally, I'm for fiscal responsibility and insuring that we get maximum use out of taxpayers' dollars."

Festival Roundup

The Winterville Watermelon Festival is improving each year, said Randy Avery, president of the Winterville Jaycees.

"I think it was much better than last year," he said. "Everyone really seemed to enjoy themselves."

The festival, held Friday-Sunday, drew a crowd of more than 2,500 for the street dance Saturday night, Avery said.

Dates for next year's festival have not been scheduled, he said. "We're trying to make a decision as to whether to keep it at the same time" or to move it back to early August.

At the current schedule, bands for the parade are difficult to attract, and it is early for the ripest watermelon, Avery said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Exercise helps older adults suffering from problems such as depression, anxiety, low self-concept and a feeling of loss of control, according to the Reebok Aerobic Information Bureau.

It says researchers studied 42 people between the ages of 60 and 79. One group took part in aerobic dance and walking-running. The other group did not exercise. The aerobic exercisers improved in all areas, it says, while the non-exercisers showed no changes.

BW Exposition Encourages Energy Conservation Ideas

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Burroughs Wellcome Company is asking employees of the Greenville manufacturing component to become energy conservers for the company.

To launch them into the mode of thinking conservation, both at work and at home, they're being offered an Energy Exposition in the lobby of the plant today through Thursday.

George Horn, the company's manager of engineering facilities and utilities, and Mitchell Manning, its Quality Circles and Ideas for Improvement coordinator, have put the fair together.

"It's incredible, the amount of assistance that's out there for people interested in energy saving," Manning said. "We will be offering every employee who wishes one a packet of material that will give them help on everything from saving water at home to creating ideas for ways we here at the plant can make a difference in energy consumption."

Burroughs Wellcome is one of Greenville Utilities largest customers in four areas: electricity, gas, water and sewer usage. It also uses enormous amounts of heating oil. "We use about enough electricity each year to run 1,400 1800-square foot homes for that length of time," Horn said. "We use enough natural gas to heat 2,700 homes. We use 250,000 gallons of water a year, and, of course, have about that much to go into the sewer system."

"We pretreat the water before it's released back to GUC, he said.

Horn said that constant improvement of its energy conservation activity has long been important at Burroughs Wellcome. Now, officials decided energy conservation should no longer be confined to engineering projects. Measures like installing computerized controls for the plant's heating and air conditioning systems and for combustion control of its three boilers have saved thousands. But it's believed that's there's a human factor that hasn't been tapped, Horn said.

Once the expo is over, the company employees will be encouraged to look for ways to save energy during the work day. This could be something as simple as turning off a light when one leaves a room or closing a door to protect an air-conditioned space. Or it could be an observation about a work process that could be changed to create energy savings, Manning said.

"We believe," Horn said, "that innovation works best when it isn't imposed from above, but is based on ideas from the people most closely involved in doing the work."

"We're expecting significant savings as a result of the increased involvement of our people in energy conservation."

For information about public tours of lobby displays call 830-2041.

Weekend Thefts Probed

Investigators said eight thefts were reported to Greenville police over the weekend, including an armed robbery at the Fast Fare on Hooker Road Sunday night.

Officer J.A. Bartlett said a man armed with a pistol took an estimated $40 from the Fast Fare on Hooker Road in an armed robbery reported at 11:40 p.m., while Officer W.S. Heath said $5,500 worth of electronic items and jewelry were taken from 102 Singletree Drive in a break-in reported at 11:49 p.m.

Officer J.K. McCarthy said cash was taken from James Earl Stevenson of 406 W. Third St. after Stevenson was hit in the face at the intersection of Third and Pitt streets about 5:33 p.m. Saturday, while Officer

E.E. Laughinghouse said a license was taken from a car parked at 510 W. 14th St. in an incident reported at 11:59 a.m. Sunday.

Officer M.J. Nobles said a radar detector was taken from a car parked at 18 Scott St. in an incident reported at 4:29 p.m., while Officer M.T. Scheid said a bicycle was taken from 702A W. 14th St. in an incident reported at 7:09 p.m.

Sgt. N.L. Garrish said a bicycle was taken from Westhaven Park in the Club Pines area in an incident reported at 7:40 p.m., while Officer K.D. Lingerfelt said $7.98 in cash, seven tapes, an equalizer and a pair of headphones were taken from a car parked at 1210 Dickinson Ave. in an incident reported at 9:11 p.m.

According to Officer C.J. Melvin, Brown was standing at the intersection of Albemarle and Atlantic avenues about 4:10 a.m. when a man approached him from the rear and stabbed him three times.

Melvin, who said investigation of the case is continuing, said the stabbing apparently resulted from an argument Brown had with another man several days before.

Shooting

Greenville police are investigating a Sunday night shooting which left a 44-year-old man hospitalized with critical chest wounds.

Officer B.W. Nichols said Landis Blow Jr. of Route 3, Box 93, Greenville, was shot twice in the chest in an incident at 406 Blount St. reported to police at 7:32 p.m. Sunday.

Blow was listed in critical condition at Pitt County Memorial Hospital today.

Nichols said an investigation of the shooting is continuing.

Mavretic Lobbying For Statewide Liquor Tax

By F. ALAN BOYCE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Rep. Joe Mavretic says local governments pushing for a local sales tax on liquor should welcome his amendment to make the tax statewide because it would ensure they would have enough money to pay for law officer pensions.
“Yet the Association of County Commissioners and the League of Municipalities have been dunning members saying, ‘Kill this provision. We don’t want it.’” Mavretic said.

While local governments say they dislike interference with their taxation authority, Mavretic said the truth is they are not using the authority they have to levy local taxes.
“On the average, local governments are only using 40 percent of their authorized levy,” he said. “We should just let local governments do what they can do best — provide the priorities for spending and we’ll provide the money. ... I’m trying to force that debate.”

Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan, discussing budget roadblocks, made passing reference to a tax on insurance premiums and to the liquor levy bottled up by Mavretic in his Pensions and Retirement Committee. Jordan said both must be approved before adjournment.
The premium tax bill was sent to a House Finance subcommittee amid claims it could cause a $19 million shortfall in state funds in 1988-89. But resolving that matter appeared less difficult than dissuading Mavretic, D-Edgecombe, from turning local sales taxes into a statewide tax.

Mavretic said he had bided his time since introducing a bill to replace local sales taxes with a statewide tax, knowing that, sooner or later, he’d get his chance.
“Ever since we agreed to increase pensions for local law enforcement in 1986, I’ve expected some movement to offset those benefits,” he said.
The bill to put an additional 5 percent sales tax on liquor would bring local governments $10.8 million that could be used for that purpose. It also would shift funding for the Alcohol Law Enforcement Division from the ABC Commission to the general fund.
Mavretic’s committee added the statewide sales tax provision to the liquor bill and approved the combination. But Mavretic has not reported it to the House.
“We’re just looking at some technical things,” he said with a wink on Friday.

Mavretic admitted that holding the important bill late in the legislative session could provide leverage for some of his other interests, including getting North Carolina out of an eight-state compact for handling low-level radioactive waste. Jordan has expressed opposition to that idea, which is embodied in a bill still to be considered by the House.
But Mavretic, who supports replacing all property taxes with a combination of sales and use taxes, said he was really more concerned with the taxation measure.
“We could pick up $12 million to $20 million that literally falls through the cracks in the administration of this sales tax,” he said.
Under the current system, there are disputes over whether the tax should go to a county where something is purchased or to the county where it is delivered, he said.

Mavretic said if budget leaders are concerned about money issues in the premium tax, he has another idea — remove the $300 cap on the sales tax for automobiles, boats and airplanes. Only North Carolina and South Carolina have such a cap.
“This is a classic case of North Carolina’s fouled-up system,” he said, noting that the law calls for a tax of 2 percent or $300, whichever is higher. The result is that everyone who buys a car worth more than $15,000 pays $300 and everyone else pays almost that much, Mavretic said.
“Every time you pass a Mercedes or similar priced car you’re seeing somebody driving a tax break,” he said. “We’ve sat still for it for years because that lobby (for car dealers) is willing to pay a lot to keep it.”

IN THE STATE

Highway Fatalities

By The Associated Press
Seven people were killed on state roads this weekend, including a man who lost control of his vehicle while trying to pass another car, ran off the road and overturned, the North Carolina Highway Patrol said Monday.
William Howard Lichtenberg, 21, of Franklinville, was killed at 4 p.m. Sunday on U.S. 64 in Randolph County, 3 miles west of Ramseur, troopers said.
Kenneth Arnold Rose, 32, of Goldsboro, was killed at 3:35 p.m. Sunday on N.C. 111 in Wayne County, 4.4 miles south of Goldsboro. Troopers said the accident occurred when one car turned in front of another. Rose was the operator of one of the vehicles, but the report did not say which one, troopers said. Four people were injured in that accident.
Linwood Norris, 49, of Raleigh, was killed at 9:05 p.m. Friday on N.C. 54 in Wake County, 1 mile west of Raleigh.
Althonso Sharpe Jr., 32, of Ahoskie, died about 4 p.m. Saturday, when he was struck by a car on U.S. 13, less than a mile south of Powellsville, troopers said.
Michael Purdie, 34, of Elizabethtown, was killed about 4 a.m. Sunday when he was hit by a vehicle on a rural Columbus County road.
Russell Vernon Rice, 16, of White Oak, was killed at 7:30 p.m. Friday on a rural road in Bladen County, about 12 miles west of Elizabethtown. He was a passenger in a car that struck a tree, troopers said.
Michael Allen Thomas, 23, of Franklin, was killed about 1 a.m. Saturday when his car ran off U.S. 19, about 9 miles east of Sylva, and he was thrown from the vehicle.
The North Carolina highway death toll now stands at 831. Last year at this time, troopers said 955 people had been killed on state roads.

Snakebite Capital

GREENSBORO (AP) — State records of deaths attributed to snakebites show that only eight people were bitten fatally in North Carolina between 1858 and 1985, but officials say the Tar Heel state is still the snakebite capital of the world.
When national experts cite North Carolina, most are using figures gathered in a 1964 study. That survey, the last comprehensive count, suggested that roughly 19 of every 100,000 Tar Heels are bitten annually by poisonous snakes. Figures from the American Red Cross also recognize North Carolina as a snake haven.
The figures on fatal snakebites came from Kathy Blue of the State Center for Health Statistics, who acknowledges that no program keeps track of nonfatal snakebites.
Accounts of snakes in the most unusual locations are common — copperheads in the attic, cottonmouths in the creek and rattlers in the woodpile — according to William Palmer at the N.C. Museum of Natural History.
“There are 45,000 snakebite incidents each year in United States,” says Wendy Routh of the American Red Cross office in Greensboro.
Bites from poisonous snakes account for 20 percent. More than half occur in Texas, North Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana and Arkansas.

Horse Chase

FAYETTEVILLE (AP) — Bob and Phyllis Lundwall spent some frantic hours Sunday searching for their horse, and the couple aided police in tracking down the animal and a suspect.
The day began with a 6 a.m. telephone call from the man who cares for Sherry, a registered quarter horse, Lundwall said. Sometime during the night, Sherry was stolen from the stable where the Lundwalls board the horse.
“She’s my wife’s horse, but that’s not just her horse, that’s her buddy,” Lundwall said.
By 6:30 a.m., the Lundwalls were at the stable and found their horse’s fresh hoof prints in the rain-softened earth, he said. The sheriff’s department was called and the Lundwalls joined forces with another couple at the stable, setting out on foot in search of Sherry.
“Another couple, my wife and I started tracking her and tracked her for four hours,” Lundwall said. “We tracked her from Morganton Road where she was stabled, behind Market Place Mall, down (U.S.) 401 By-Pass, behind Sanford grain, down the railroad tracks, clear out to Raeford Road through a subdivision.
“We all spread out. We’d lose the tracks then find them again,” he said. “When we got to Raeford Road, I called the sheriff’s department again and told them we knew somebody was riding the horse ... there were no human footprints.” Sgt. Maynard Bathke of the sheriff’s department joined the search, Lundwall said.
“He’d stick right with us. Then he would go out ahead of us when we lost the tracks and find them again,” Lundwall said. “He’s the one that finally found her tied to a tree down in the woods behind Cumberland Road.”
Bathke said some good tracking and an eyewitness report told him that at some points during the search, they were just an hour behind the horse.

Bakkers Back In Mountains

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP) — Jim and Tammy Bakker are back in this resort city where an associate says the fallen evangelists will park their white convertible Cadillac for a few days while they set up their new house.
A moving van of furnishings from the Bakkers’ Palm Springs, Calif., residence pulled in Sunday afternoon, one day after the couple finished their cross-country drive, and will keep the Bakkers busy behind the iron-and-stone wall, Dan Kern said.
Kern, a construction foreman who is supervising $300,000 in renovations to the $148,000 home, said the deposed PTL founders were resting from their three-day drive and will be helping unload boxes at least until Tuesday.
“That’s all they plan to do today (Sunday) and tomorrow,” Kern said from in front of the Bakkers’ home, which has been deemed to a PTL creditor.
Kern said he expected the Bakkers to resume the reclusive lifestyle they have adopted since retreating to Gatlinburg during the “holy war” over PTL.
Gatlinburg, which is a getaway destination for country music stars among many others, swells to at least twice its 3,000 population on summer weekends when visitors jam the narrow streets of the Alpine-motif village.
Curious tourists still drive up the winding road to see the Bakker home, which is almost entirely obscured from the street by thick woods which block a view of the new deck and swimming pool.
At the edge of the street is the Bakkers’ iron-and-stone fence which locals have dubbed “The Great Wall of Gatlinburg.”
The Bakkers have made only one public appearance in town, although Mrs. Bakker has been seen frequently at malls and other stores.
During an outing to sign a replica of the U.S. Constitution on June 30, Bakker refused to answer questions about his infidelity with former church secretary Jessica Hahn or reports of bisexuality.

'Truth In Preference To Fiction'

Increased Risk

When the new 65 mph speed limit arrives on North Carolina's interstate highways in August, an increased risk of accident and injury to drivers and passengers follows.

The rise in speed limit means drivers must take an additional responsibility for safety as they travel the key sections of I-40, I-95, I-77, I-85 and I-26 where the higher speed will be allowed. It also puts pressure on law enforcement resources, both patrol and safety programs, to minimize the dangers the new speed allows.

The increase to 65 mph was a whim tagged onto important highway legislation without thought to impact. It would have been preferable if the concept had died before it became law, for both safety and economic reasons.

Many drivers cheat on the current speed limit by going a few miles per hour over 55, reasoning they won't draw the attention of traffic officers. These same drivers will also exceed the 65 mph speed limit.

It's not, however, just a question of legality. It's also a matter of safety. Lowering the speed limit to 55 proved effective for reducing traffic fatalities on the nation's highways. Logically, it follows that raising it to 65 again will reverse this progress toward saving lives.

Further, driving 55 also saves fuel — a proven fact. Right now, gas is plentiful and relatively cheap. Anyone with an eye on the future can predict petroleum shortages. The effect of a 65 mph speed limit will expedite these potential shortfalls and put new pressure on an already-flawed national energy policy.

Lawmakers would have been wise to spurn this counterproductive measure rather than vote it into law. With the 65 mph speed limit soon to be in place in North Carolina, however, travelers must approach the added risk it brings with appropriate concern.

Long Or Short?

No doubt about it, some aspects of life are easier for males of the human species. If there's any doubt, a quick glance at the rising tide of articles about raising hemlines to the miniskirt level will clarify the whole issue.

Trade publications have been having a field day and such routinely objective sources as the news services are straying from mayhem, inquiries, economics and armaments to report reaction over possible return of the miniskirt.

The fashion world appears to have firmed its ranks in the attempt to turn back the clock 20 years or so. Reactions have been rife from such diverse sources as The Wall Street Journal, People magazine, Vanity Fair and daily newspapers across the country.

Let it be said there were some mothers and grandmothers on whom the mini looked good when it made its debut. Some within their ranks can still wear the mini with flair and aplomb. It follows there are others, too, who cannot, will not, or should not.

The Wall Street Journal reported some women are having plastic surgery to remove surface blood vessels from their legs so they can wear the shorter skirts. Erma Bombeck, a mini-hater, advises others of her persuasion to close ranks and hang tough.

Gloria Steinem, on the other hand, wore the short skirt back in the 1960s and is still a believer. "I think the added choice is good", she is quoted as saying. "If you're told to either cover up your body or uncover your body, it's offensive. You ought to be free to dress the way you want to. (There are times when the lady sounds opinionated.)

Seventh Avenue designers unveiled their fall collections in April. The show included a few of the higher hemlines and they provided a ready target of broad attention and speculation. The fashion world began to buzz. Women's Wear Daily ... whose editor is male ... threw its weight behind short skirts.

Who speaks for eastern North Carolina?

Males? Some of them are only recent converts from bib overalls to jeans but shun public exposure in shorts even as they endure July's sultry heat. It is unseemly to have bugles sounding the call to advance in different directions.

More than merely being a la mode is at stake here.

Today's Thought

With all the harvesters, tractors and trucks loaded with leaf scurrying to get ready for Wednesday's tobacco market opening, any road in Pitt County could be aptly renamed "Tobacco Road."

U.S. Loses Track Of Interests In Gulf

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — The United States is in the Persian Gulf now because Kuwait wants us there — and had us cornered. Are Kuwait's geopolitical objectives the same as ours?

Kuwait is a city-state of a little more than 1.5 million people, 60 percent of whom are not Kuwaitis. It was established by the Sabah family, as a fort, in 1756 and has been owned and operated by them ever since. It is a monarchy, with a Sabah as king, a Sabah as prime minister, another as foreign minister, another as minister of defense. In Kuwait, what the Sabahs want, the Sabahs get.

Kuwait's foreign policy is the Sabahs' foreign policy. Like other monarchies, its cardinal objective is to keep Sabahs in power. It has not been easy. When Ibn Saud was conquering and incorporating the various principalities of the Arabian peninsula at the beginning of the century, the Sabahs, then a British protectorate, managed to hold the fort by establishing good ties with the Saud family. When they became independent in 1961, Iraq claimed the territory. The British had moved west of Suez, so the Sabahs used others to parry Baghdad: the Shah of Iran, a traditional opponent of Iraq; the United States, which was moving into the Gulf to fill the power vacuum, and U.N. membership. Then, as before, they cultivated ties with the various Iraqi governments.

To date the greatest threat to the Sabahs has been the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's Islamic revolution. Khomeini does not want to annex Kuwait, but he has fired up the Shias and Sunnis as well. About 20 percent of Kuwait's population is Shia; an Islamic government in Kuwait would mean that the Sabahs must go.

Kuwait's request for reflagging and escorts is much more than an effort to shift to the United States the security costs of shipping. Kuwait is far from a bona fide neutral state in the gulf war. From the beginning, it supported Iraq financially and, when necessary, permitted transshipment of military materiel through its ports and territory. And for cogent political reasons: If Iran prevails in the war, the Sabah family will have to face the ayatollah's ire. Even if the war is settled, the Sabahs will continue to watch an Islamic revolutionary government in Tehran most uneasily. Kuwait, as an entity, will survive an Iranian victory. The Sabahs are a much poorer bet.

What the Sabahs need is a resounding defeat of Iran. Even with Soviet weapons, Arab financial support and anything else money can buy, Iraq cannot deliver victory. The Soviets, already mired in Afghanistan, will not intervene directly. But they have their eyes on Iran, the big prize in the region; and as they demonstrated in the Somali-Ethiopian war, they can switch sides quickly if the price is right.

As the balance in the war began tipping toward Iran and the Iranian arms-sales disclosures indicated that even the United States was trying to reposition itself with Tehran, the Sabahs, with great political cunning, turned to the United States and the Soviet Union with a request for naval escorts for Kuwaiti tankers. The idea that this was inspired by Iranian attacks on tankers is false. The tanker war has been an Iraqi war, initiated to counter Iran's advances on the ground. Iraq has sunk more foreign ships than Iran. And the tanker war had not seriously impeded Kuwaiti sales nor affected the world oil price.

The notion that Kuwait turned to America because of horror at our arms sales is a morality play gloss. Kuwaitis have been superlative traders for centuries. They know virtually everyone has been trading with Iran, including Egypt, the Soviet Union and Saudi Arabia.

The Sabahs' problem was neither oil shipments nor arms trades. It was the realization that both superpowers had concluded that Iran could prevail in the gulf war and were positioning themselves for deals with Tehran. The question was how to stop this. If Iraq had failed, the only alternative was a knockout by a superpower.

The invitation to Moscow was a stroke of genius, for it put tremendous pressure on the United States to get involved. Of course, Moscow promptly agreed. This was a bargain opportunity to increase its naval presence in a formerly Western sphere, in a non-belligerent and even virtuous way. The Soviet Union was gallantly providing security for oil shipments to the West. Moscow did not reflag Kuwaiti vessels. It leased its own, crew and all, to Kuwait. As a result, there was now a real and not a fictitious Soviet naval presence in the gulf. But the Soviets moved carefully and discreetly; even when a Soviet tanker was struck, they did not protest overtly. They have not lost sight of their real objective.

Matter Of Economics, Not Heartlessness

RALEIGH — North Carolina's publicly-owned hospitals are back before the General Assembly once again seeking authority to garnish the wages of former patients who refuse to pay their bills.

In 1985, a state House committee soundly rejected a similar proposal from the N.C. Hospital Association. This year, the association says it has drastically scaled back its proposal. "We've bent over backwards to exempt everyone we thought could get caught in a garnishment procedure who could not pay. This bill is aimed at deadbeats, not at people who cannot pay," said Steve Morrisette, NCHA senior vice-president and lobbyist.

The 1985 garnishment bill was received very unfavorably by legislators who felt the hospitals were being heartless. House members asked how the hospitals could expect people who were down on their health and who had probably been without paychecks for a time to survive if the hospitals were skimming off a piece of their salaries. The association tried to amend the bill to calm those fears, but the committee never came around.

Hospitals say it is a matter of economics, not heartlessness, that drives them to seek this legislation. Bill Pully, another NCHA lobbyist, told the House Judiciary II Committee that public hospitals in North Carolina lost $242 million in unpaid bills. That is money that must be made up elsewhere, either through higher hospital rates for paying patients or through increased government support for the hospitals.

Senate Bill 661, which has already passed the Senate, limits those whose wages can be garnished. Most importantly, the poor are exempted. No garnishment order can be filed unless a debtor's income is more than double the federal government's official poverty line. For example, a family of four would have to have an income greater than $22,000 a year before wages for anyone in that family could be garnished.

The same family's income could be even higher because allowances are made in the bill to exclude a family's "reasonable on-going medical needs."

The garnishment order also cannot be entered until 120 days have passed since the bill was sent to the patient, and until the hospital has made a reasonable effort to collect from the patient's insurer.

For those who do have their wages garnished, there is a limit on the bite the hospital can take. No garnishment can be for more than 10 percent of an individual's take-home pay, nor can it run for more than 60 months.

Five hospitals in North Carolina currently have garnishment authority due to local legislation that has passed the assembly in previous years. This bill would repeal those bills and bring those five hospitals under the statewide act. For-profit hospitals would not be covered by the act.

Pully came under fire during the committee meeting. Rep. Alex Hall, D-New Hanover, noted that garnishment is now allowed only for payment of back taxes and child support. "Why is the hospital so much more special than the bill that someone owes me? I can guarantee you that it hurts me when someone doesn't pay me."

Pully responded that public hospitals provide care for all who walk in the door. Businesses can refuse to provide a service if they don't think they'll get paid. Public hospitals don't have that luxury.

Rep. Anne Barnes, D-Orange, was miffed by provisions which would allow the hospitals to figure in the income of an entire family when trying to determine if the wages of one former patient should be garnished.

The bill was sent to a subcommittee and was expected out this week.

Strength For Today

It is a paradox that many of the people who have made great contributions to civilization have been given little notice by their contemporaries, while others whose contribution has been mainly destructive have been munificently rewarded.

For example, Johann Sebastian Bach, who has done so much to inspire the soul of many by his music, was so little known and appreciated by his own generation that the exact location of his grave is today unknown.

But on the other hand, everyone who visits Napoleon's tomb in Paris today is impressed by the enthusiasm with which men build monuments to great destroyers. Millions of Frenchmen lie in nameless graves because of Napoleon, yet a grateful nation erected a magnificent monument to his memory.

To the editor:

Reagan did well to nominate Bork for the Supreme Court. Bork is qualified and capable; ideology should not be a factor in deciding his confirmation. Example: when Carter nominated Mikva to the D.C. Court of Appeals, liberals (e.g., Biden) strenuously argued that Mikva's ideological record — which "happened" to be far-leftist — should not be a factor in confirming him. We conservatives ask that Bork receive the same fair treatment that a liberal in same position would receive — not the kind of hypocritical treatment Scalia, Manion and Rehnquist suffered recently at the hands of liberals. Concurrently, I believe conservatives should welcome an ideological battle over Bork because it will spotlight the inconsistencies of the liberals when they try to prevent his nomination on the very grounds they have so readily denounced in the past.

Some say that a conservative court would threaten our hard-earned rights. I, as a conservative and an American citizen, strongly disagree. Consider some of the social outcomes bestowed upon us by liberal jurisprudence, conceivably reversible by a conservative court: decisions freeing dangerous criminals on technicalities, an attempted abolition of the death penalty, a decision to legalize murder (abortion), and in leashing a floodtide of pornography on society. Such "accomplishments" result from judicial activism — interpreting the Constitution in whatever fashion is needed to impose tenets of leftward social engineering on the nation. In Bork's view, the job of the judiciary is to seek out the intended meaning of the laws and Constitution, rather than twisting that meaning about to achieve the leftist social agenda. He, being opposed to this orgy of judicial activism, would help bring a sense of restraint and order to the court. I, along with millions of Americans, would agree that it is about time.

Raft Accident Kills Five American Executives

ALEXIS CREEK, British Columbia (AP) — Five American advertising executives were killed when their inflatable raft pitched sideways in fast-moving rapids in the Chilko River, police and company officials said.

Among the dead was Richard T. O'Reilly, president of the advertising firm that handled President Reagan's 1980 campaign.

Sgt. Ken Williamson, a spokesman for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, said the raft "turned sideways in fast water" Saturday, throwing 11 of the 12 occupants into the churning water about 35 miles west of Alexis Creek.

One person clung to the raft and was rescued, while six others made it out of the river alive, police said. Two had to be hospitalized.

The accident, in southwestern British Columbia near Lava Canyon, was the second such fatal rafting accident in the western province in a month.

Among the survivors were Michael Miles, president and chief executive officer of Kraft Inc. in Glenview, Ill., and Al Wolfe of Lake Forest, president of the U.S. division of the advertising agency DDB Needham Worldwide. Needham said.

Another survivor, according to the advertising agency, was Jack Collins, president of Clorox Co. in Oakland, Calif.

Police identified two of the dead as Robert V. Goldstein, 50, of Cincinnati, who was vice president of advertising for Procter and Gamble Co., and James Fasules, 63, of Glen Ellyn, Ill., a former senior vice president of Needham.

Goldstein had been with the Cincinnati-based company for at least two decades, company spokesman Robert Norrish said Sunday.

Also killed were O'Reilly, 65, director of the New York-based Media Advertising Partnership for a Drug-Free America Inc.; and Stuart Sharpe, 37, and Gene Yovetich, 41, both Chicago residents and senior vice presidents of account management at DDB Needham, the company said.

O'Reilly also was president of a Greenwich, Conn.-based advertising firm that bears his name.

"I don't think anybody considered this risky. It was just a group of friends. They got together from different parts of the country and met to have a good time," said Joel Hochberg, president of DDB Needham's Chicago office, in a telephone interview.

Gerald Gendell, a spokesman for Procter & Gamble, said he talked to some of the survivors.

"They had stopped, apparently for lunch, relaunched the raft, hit a rapid part of the river, lost control of the raft, hit a rock, turning over and throwing all but one of the men out of the raft," he said.

The cause of the deaths will be determined in autopsies, police said. Police said 11 Americans and a Canadian guide were traveling on the raft, which was rented by Ron Thompson Guiding of Riske River.

Searchers recovered three of the bodies soon after the midday accident and found two others after the search resumed Sunday. One body had drifted into the Chilcotin River, which joins the Chilko west of Lava Canyon.

A police helicopter from Victoria and six officers took part in the search, along with several civilians who piloted kayaks along riverbanks.

Two of the survivors were taken to the hospital at Williams Lake, 85 miles east of Lava Canyon. One was released Saturday night, the other on Sunday. The remaining rafters were not seriously injured.

On July 1, an Australian and four British Columbians died when two rafts crashed into a log jam, dumping 18 rafters into the Elaho River near Squamish. The river's glacier-fed waters, swollen by snowmelt from the towering Coast Mountains, were at a seasonal high.

Highway Shootings Continue

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police said there were four more reports of gunfire on Southern California's highways after a man driving a red Corvette was seen firing a semiautomatic weapon in the air and three motorists said they had been shot at.

The incidents, which occurred early today and Sunday evening and resulted in no injuries, did little to spur optimism that the gunslinging trend was abating, authorities said.

Earlier Sunday, California Highway Patrol officials had reported that motorists were driving more defensively and expressed hope the shooting spree, which has left four people dead and about a dozen wounded, was coming to an end.

The latest victim in the violence was identified Sunday as a Hollywood stuntman.

Henry Kingi, ex-husband of actress Lindsay Wagner and a stuntman on TV's "The Dukes of Hazzard" and "The A Team," was among 7 people injured in traffic disputes on Saturday, including four in a chain-reaction car wreck that started when an angry motorist rammed another vehicle.

Kingi, 43, was shot in the arm and side after arguing with a Jeep full of teen-agers Saturday. He was in stable condition at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center today, said hospital spokesman Ron Wise.

Police sought a teen-ager in the shooting, which took place after an argument at a traffic light in Studio City.

In the most recent incident, a tanker truck was hit by gunfire on the Interstate 5 in San Valley early today, said California Highway Patrol dispatcher Bob Neely.

There were no injuries, Neely said. Another motorist reported being fired on a short time earlier from the same vehicle, a green Chevrolet panel van, Neely said.

In two incidents reported earlier to a CHP hot line, there were neither injuries nor evidence shots actually were fired.

On Sunday night, the driver of a red Corvette fired a semiautomatic weapon into the air while driving on Interstate 5 north of downtown, according to a caller. CHP Officer Diane Lowery said the accuracy of the report hadn't been confirmed.

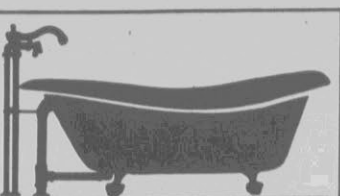

Earlier Sunday night, a woman reported seeing a flash of gunfire from the window of a rust-colored van on I-5 in San Fernando, police said.

There were no incidents during the daytime Sunday, authorities said.

Among the incidents Saturday: — In La Mirada on Saturday evening, four people were hurt in chain-reaction automobile crash that started when a car was rammed after a dispute on a highway.

Kevin Larnihan, 31, of La Mirada was being held today at the Norwalk sheriff's station for investigation of attempted murder in connection with the incident.

Doreen Delgadillo, 25, of Whittier, a passenger in one of the rammed cars, was in critical condition today, and three others were injured in the crash, police said.

PALAIS WILSON GUTTED — A firefighter sprays water on a wing of Palais Wilson in Geneva, Switzerland, Sunday as fire destroyed part of the historic landmark which was once used as the original seat of the League of

Fire Damages Landmark

GENEVA (AP) — A fire on Sunday struck a section of the historic Palais Wilson, the original seat of the League of Nations, burning artwork and causing about $30 million in damage, officials said.

The blaze destroyed the Disarmament Pavillon, site of the first international disarmament conference in 1927.

Other wings of the Palais suffered water and smoke damage during the 90 minutes it took firefighters to bring the blaze under control, authorities said.

The cause of the fire was under investigation, they added.

The Palais Wilson was built in 1875 on the Lake Geneva shore. Originally a luxury hotel, it became the headquarters of the League of Nations upon the international body's formation in 1919.

Another fire of undetermined origin caused minor damage to the Palais in February 1985.

FSLIC, Gramm-Rudman Law Top Congressional Agenda

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress this week will try to agree on a multibillion-dollar bailout for the embattled federal agency that insures deposits at savings and loan associations.

The House begins action today on legislation to pump $10.85 billion into the bankrupt Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp., which is more than $6 billion in the red.

With the congressional summer recess due to begin Friday, the House and Senate also will begin negotiations on a plan to restore strength to the Gramm-Rudman budget balancing law.

The law has been toothless since the Supreme Court ruled last year that its enforcement mechanism, automatic spending cuts, was flawed. The Senate last week passed a new version that supporters say will pass court muster.

But House Democratic leaders say the new plan, largely Republican drawn, gives too much power to the White House. And because it softens the law's deficit goals, particularly in the next two years, they say it lets President Reagan avoid facing up to the need for a tax increase.

Attached to the Gramm-Rudman legislation is an increase in the national debt limit. Congress must OK more credit for the Treasury before the recess or the government will face default.

While those talks occur, the Senate is scheduled to take up its version of catastrophic health insurance.

President Reagan has attacked the House-passed version as too costly. The expense and scope of the program, and how to finance it, are key issues for the Senate.

The House and Senate are expected to act quickly on the comprehensive banking bill containing the FSLIC bailout. They are considering a compromise with the White House.

Reagan dropped his threat of a veto in exchange for an increase in the money the bill would generate for the insolvent FSLIC, from the $8.5 billion Congress had been offering to $10.85 billion. The administration had requested $15 billion and, in negotiations last week, sought $12 billion.

In a highly unusual move, a House-Senate conference committee reconvened last Wednesday, four weeks to the day after tentatively approving the measure, and made the changes agreed to in weeklong negotiations among Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III and the chairmen of the two congressional banking committees, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Rep. Fernand J. St Germain, D-R.I.

The legislation allows the FSLIC to raise the $10.85 billion by selling long-term bonds. The conferees also agreed to end after three years provisions in the bill that direct the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to ease its regulation of ailing thrifts and to add a provision allowing securities firms to buy failing savings and loan institutions with assets of more than $500 million.

The lawmakers earlier had agreed to extend the current prohibition on securities firms' ownership of banks to also include thrifts.

The proposal doesn't include substantial changes the administration had sought in other parts of the bill. The conferees flatly rejected the administration's request that the measure's ban on new limited-service banks be made temporary. Also unchanged is the temporary prohibition on regulators' authority to give banking companies new power to deal in securities, real estate or insurance.

Storms Provide Little Relief From Heat Wave

By The Associated Press
The heat wave blamed for at least 72 deaths entered its 17th day today with no relief in sight until at least Tuesday in Kansas and Missouri, where almost 400 fans were overcome at a baseball game, and not for several days in Alabama, where the health department issued an alert warning people to take it easy.

"We're not seeing any drastic changes," Bill Herrmann, a meteorologist with the National Weather Service in Birmingham, Ala., said Sunday. "We do have a little weak front approaching Tuesday night or Wednesday that might increase shower activity. But it won't have much effect on temperatures."

"It's like living in the tropics — it's getting to be a way of life," said police dispatcher Nancy Bolyard in Moline, Ill., where the best thing to be said about the 101-degree high Sunday was that it was cooler than the 103 degrees Saturday.

Thunderstorms spawned as cool air from the north continued to clash with the hot, humid air that has been hanging over the Midwest and Plains.

More than 1½ inches of rain in an hour flooded streets and basements in northern Ohio, downed trees and cut off electricity to thousands of homes. There were unofficial reports of funnel clouds or tornado touchdowns in seven counties. Lightning seriously injured a Cleveland-area man taking shelter under a tree at a golf course.

Thunderstorms also crashed through Michigan's southeastern Lower Peninsula, knocking out power to at least 12,000 homes and businesses. A man who dived into Lake St. Clair to retrieve curtains that blew off his boat was missing and presumed drowned, according to a sheriff's officer.

Alabama's Department of Public Health issued a heat alert warning people to take it easy after the weather service said the heat index, a measure of the combined effect of temperature and humidity, would hit between 105 and 110 degrees.

Weather service meteorologist Greg Dyer said the heat index hit 111 in St. Louis at 3:40 p.m. Sunday. More of the same was predicted for today before possible moderation Tuesday. The index topped out at 105 in Topeka, Kan., but temperatures were forecast to drop to the mid-80s to mid-90s Tuesday.

Record highs were set or tied Sunday in 16 cities, including Cocordia, Kan., with 106; downtown Kansas City, 105; Columbia, Mo., 104; Moline, Ill., 101; Paducah, Ky., 100; and Sacramento, Calif., 108. Beckley, W.Va., set a record with an 89 degree reading, the 10th day of record highs in just two weeks.

A 96-degree day in Chicago was the 29th above-90 day this year.

In St. Louis, where the high reached 103, almost 400 fans attending a baseball game between the Cardinals and the Pittsburgh Pirates were treated for heat-related illnesses.

Missouri officials were investigating whether heat should be blamed for four weekend deaths, including two elderly people, a woman on heavy medication and a man who collapsed in a wooded area.

In Omaha, Neb., a 65-year-old woman died after suffering heat stroke in her un-air-conditioned home. Rita Pacaj's body temperature had topped 109 degrees and could not be recorded on a thermometer, her doctor said Sunday.

Eleven musicians were treated for heat exhaustion in Decatur, Ga., as temperatures reached the mid-90s during the 11th Annual Drums Across America Competition, which attracted teams from the United States, Canada and Japan.

Seven parade-goers in Jasper, Ind., were overcome by heat, and in New Orleans, mule-drawn carriages that cart people through the French Quarter were ordered off the streets after a mule collapsed in record-setting 96-degree heat.

There were widespread reports of record-power and water consumption as people tried to beat the heat with air conditioning and extra showers and baths.

Sprinklers provided relief for children in urban playgrounds and for farm animals.

Allen Barker, a dairy farmer in Dunlap, Tenn., said his cows, whose milk production has dropped about 500 pounds a day because of the heat, are spending "80 to 90 percent of their time under the sprinkler."

Farmers who raise beef cattle are suffering too because the animals lose their appetites when temperatures reach the upper 80s and 90s, said Joe Hawkins, president of the Tennessee Farm Bureau.

Demjanjuk Testifies

JERUSALEM (AP) — John Demjanjuk testified in his Nazi war crimes trial today that he couldn't have been the brutal death camp guard "Ivan the Terrible" because, unlike Ivan, he didn't know how to drive a truck.

Demjanjuk also sought to explain contradictions between his testimony in the United States and in this trial by saying that in previous proceedings he "answered like a little child. Whatever came to my head, I said."

Demjanjuk took the stand for the fifth day, answering calmly in his native Ukrainian. He has been under cross-examination for four days.

When Demjanjuk entered the courtroom, he blew a kiss to his daughter, Lydia Maday, 37, of Philadelphia, who was sitting in the front row.

Demjanjuk, 67, is charged with being the guard "Ivan the Terrible" at the Treblinka death camp in Nazi-occupied Poland. About 850,000 Jews were killed in the camp in 1942 and 1943.

The Ukrainian-born Demjanjuk maintains he is a victim of mistaken identity. He has said he spent most of World War II in German prisoner-of-war camps and was never at Treblinka.

Prosecutor Michael Shaked today cited testimony by Otto Horn, an SS officer at Treblinka, who told U.S. courts that "Ivan the Terrible" drove a truck at the camp.

Demjanjuk said he knew how to drive a tractor during the war but did not learn to drive cars and trucks until 1947 when he began to work for the U.S. Army in West Germany.

Shaked quoted Fyodor Fedorenko, a Ukrainian guard at Treblinka, as testifying the Germans selected prisoners from the Chelm POW camp for the SS training camp in Trawniki if they were technicians or knew how to drive.

Fedorenko was executed last month after being convicted of war crimes in a court in the Soviet Union.

"You were in a very difficult plight at Chelm," interjected presiding Judge Dov Levine. "You were being starved, weren't you? Did you not see people being taking from the camp because they could drive? It must have been quite a temptation to get out of such a situation."

Levine asked whether Demjanjuk had volunteered to become a driver. The defendant said: "I wasn't fully qualified. I couldn't have pulled it off."

Edmonton Begins Cleanup Activities

By RORY MARSHALL
Associated Press Writer
EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — Wearing garbage bags to shield themselves from a cold drizzle, survivors of a tornado that killed 26 people picked through mountains of rubble in a wrecked trailer park hunting for possessions.

About 200 people were injured in Friday's tornado, the deadliest to hit Canada in 75 years.

The Red Cross provided hotel rooms for about one-quarter of the 400 families left homeless by the twister. The tornado, which left a 19-mile trail of destruction, caused at least $75 million damage, according to Alan Wood, regional vice president of the Insurance Bureau of Canada.

The tornado also severely damaged an industrial park south of the city, reducing factories to piles of rubble and twisting tractor-trailers into heaps.

The injured included four infants, among them 3-month-old Tyler Chrisp. He was found Friday critically injured on a road near the Evergreen Mobile Home Park nearly eight hours after a twister touched down. The baby and his mother, 23-year-old Wendy Chrisp, were hospitalized in critical condition.

Earlier Friday, a policeman picking his way through the park pulled a week-old baby from the rubble of a mobile home. Police spokesman Lance Beswick said the infant was found when an officer heard a cry at his feet.

"He looked down, pulled aside some of the rubble by his feet and underneath that was a young baby," Beswick said. "The baby was cut and bruised but is in satisfactory condition in hospital and will be fine."

Up to 200 of the 720 closely-spaced homes in the trailer park in north-eastern Edmonton were smashed by Friday's tornado. Two people whose homes were apparently ruined were arrested Sunday for allegedly stealing items from other wrecked homes, said city police spokeswoman Joy-Lynn Dorash.

The 32-year-old man and 23-year-old woman "decided that since they lost everything, they would take it from somebody else," she said. Police said they had set up an accreditation system at the park to protect against looting. The couple were not identified.

Several funnel clouds were sighted when the two block-wide vortex skipped around the eastern edge of the city of 530,000 and into adjacent Strathcona County.

Under gray skies and in occasional rain, Mike Bourdage and his brother picked Sunday through the wreckage of their parents' trailer home, which was reduced to a heap of wood and metal.

"I got almost all the photo albums," Mike Bourdage said. "I think that's the most important thing." He said his parents remained hospitalized with injuries suffered in the twister.

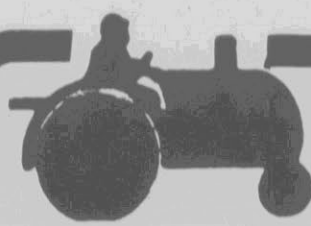

By the end of the weekend, the Edmonton Tornado Relief Fund had collected $60,000 in donations.

Emergency Relief Services, a volunteer agency, received tons of clothing, blankets, canned foods and other goods, and even asked for a temporary halt to donations Saturday afternoon to allow workers to process nearly five warehouses full.

"There's an overwhelming number of people just calling us and saying, 'Look, I've got a truck, can you use it?'" said Bonnie Kulak, public relations officer at the city emergency center.

PROTECTING ENAMEL

Enamel is the hard, translucent substance that covers the crown of the tooth (the part that extends above the jawbone). It is the part of the tooth that you show when you smile, or snarl. It can be white, healthy and attractive, or it can be stained, pitted with cavities and ugly.

There is good news and bad news when it comes to enamel. The good news is that it is incredibly hard. Only seven natural substances, including diamonds and carborundum, are harder than tooth enamel, and you are not likely to chew them. It is the hardest tissue that the body develops. It is made up almost entirely of calcium, phosphorus, and a few other minerals.

The bad news is that once the enamel has been formed, it loses all capability of self-repair. Since—unlike dentin and pulp—it is on the outside of the tooth, it has no repair cells and is no longer in contact with the supply of nutrition from the blood. It resists decay, but once decayed it cannot fix itself.

If you have any teeth that are stained, decayed, or unattractive, call our office for an appointment. We will be happy to discuss treatment with you.

Note: We invite all participants of the Blue Cross/Blue Shield personal care plan to come by our office. We are a member of Cost Care.

Miss Manning Weds Mr. Holster At Piney Grove Church Sunday

MRS. HOLSTER

The wedding uniting Joy Lynn Manning and Stephen James Holster in marriage was conducted at Piney Grove Baptist Church at 3 p.m. Sunday.

The Rev. James Drake officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen E. Manning of Route 1, Williamston. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Holster of Ormond Beach, Fla.

A program of wedding music was presented by organist Danny Griffin, pianist Zack Gurkin and soloists Donna Bryant and Rob Manning.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white chapel-length gown of satin and Venise lace. The bodice was trimmed with three-dimensional lace medallions, cameos and satin flowers. The short puff sleeves were worn off the shoulder. Accents of Venise lace enhanced the basque waistline and the A-line skirt was trimmed in lace. Her headpiece was a halo of lace, satin flowers and pearls extending to cathedral length. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis accented with pearls and satin streamers.

The matron of honor was Susan C. Manning, sister-in-law of the bride. Bridesmaids were Hazel Jo Walker and Courtney Holster, daughter of the bridegroom. Claire and Caroline Mazingo, nieces of the bride, were flower girls.

All the attendants wore tea-length dresses of sky blue tissue taffeta featuring off-shoulder puff sleeves and a basque waistline with a sash tied in a bow at the back. They carried white wicker baskets filled with pink sweetheart roses, white daisies and baby's breath and wore halos of flowers and baby's breath in their hair.

Honorary bridesmaids were Vikki P. Hardison of Williamston, Susie White of Greenville, Carla Faw of Raleigh, Dell H. McKinney of Reidsville, Carol C. Rooks of Lake Waccamaw and Joan Kuhnle and Kim N. Husky, both of Raleigh.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Mike Walker of Greenville, Mike Smith of Snow Hill and Rob Manning of Lenoir, brother of the bride.

Mary Jo Manning and Mary Anne Taylor, cousins of the bride, presided at the register. Programs were distributed by Kristy Ellis and Sherry Ellis, nieces of the bridegroom.

The parents of the bride entertained at a reception on the lawn of their country home. Aunts and uncles of the bride assisted in serving.

The bridegroom and his parents entertained at an after-rehearsal party at the Sheraton Greenville. A floating brunch was given by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Walker at the Johnson home.

Several showers and parties were held in honor of the couple.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will live in Greenville.

She is employed by East Carolina University and he is employed by Firestone Tire Company in Wilson.

Ms. Gurganus Is Married

WILLIAMSTON — Maryann Louise Gurganus of Greenville became the bride of Lee Burton Jenkins III of Williamston Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Community Christian Church.

Mike Turner conducted the double-ring ceremony. The organist was Gladys Turner. Vocalists were Shannon McGee and Ray Reniece Roberson.

The bride is the daughter of Patricia Ward of Spring Hill, Fla., and Kenneth Gurganus of Greenville. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Lee Burton Jenkins.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a princess gown of white slipper satin embellished with pearls and crystals. The gown featured a high neckline of illusion, a sweetheart shaped bodice and puffed sleeves of satin extending into sheer sleeves embellished with lace, pearls and crystals. The full skirt flowed into a chapel train. She wore a profile headpiece of miniature silk rosebuds, pearls and crystals to which was attached a fingertip veil of illusion with a pouf at the back. She carried a spray of white sweetheart roses accented with stephanotis and baby's breath.

Kimberly Price of Rocky Mount was maid of honor. She wore a teal satin gown with a sweetheart neckline, puffed sleeves, a full flowing skirt and a deep V back ending in a double bow. She wore a teal satin bow in her hair and carried a single yellow rose accented with baby's breath, greenery and yellow ribbons.

The bridesmaids, who were attired like the maid of honor, were Patricia Gurganus of Spring Hill, Fla., sister of the bride, Angela Ward of Stokes and Shannon McGee.

Flower girl Kristy Brown of Williamston wore a white satin gown with a two-tiered full skirt. The top tier of the skirt was scalloped with teal ribbon and a teal ribbon accented the waistline. She wore teal bows in her hair and carried a white basket of yellow sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. The ushers, all from Williamston, were Jerry Rawls, uncle of the bridegroom, Norman Lilley, cousin of the bridegroom, and Stephen Bowen. The ring bearer was Stephen Neubauer of Friendswood, Texas, cousin of the bride.

A reception was given in the fellowship hall of the church by the parents of the bride.

A pig-picking was given by the parents of the bridegroom Saturday following the rehearsal.

The bride and bridegroom both attend East Carolina University. After a wedding trip to Boone, they will live in Greenville.

MRS. JENKINS

Heather Denise Cannon Is Wed In Ayden Saturday Afternoon

AYDEN — Heather Denise Cannon and Billy Earl Elks Jr. were united in marriage in the Ayden Free Will Baptist Church Saturday at 4 p.m. The ceremony was directed and performed by the Rev. J.B. Narron.

The bride is the daughter of Barbara Hall Robinson of Ayden and Rodney Earl Cannon of Grimesland. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Earl Elks Sr. of Black Jack.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory satin Victorian styled gown with ruffled leg o'mutton sleeves and a wedding band Venise lace collar with a lace V-bodice. The floor length pick-up skirt was trimmed with lace and had a lace peplum. She wore a fingertip veil of illusion with ivory satin trim attached to a headband with antique lace and pearls. She carried a mixed spring bouquet of ivory and pink silk flowers.

The maid of honor, Lisa Hardee of Ayden, and bridesmaids Kassie Wetherington of Ayden and Rita Mize of Greenville wore silk floor length gowns of pink with a white floral design. The gowns had a V-neckline and puffed sleeves and were accented at the waist with a silk rose. Each attendant carried a mixed bouquet of pink and ivory silk flowers.

Flower girl Ashley Shirley wore an ivory satin floor length gown similar to that of the bride and carried a basket of mixed silk flowers.

The best man was William Wetherington of Ayden. Ushers were Chris Heath of Grifton, cousin of the bride, and Carlton Scott of Greenville. The ring bearer was Stephen Cannon of Ayden, brother of the bride.

Music was performed by soloist Sherry Forrest and organist Ralph Bowen. The register was attended by Gayle Dennis of Grifton, aunt of the bride.

A reception was given by friends and family of the bride in the church fellowship hall. Mary M. Norris served cake and Dorothy Frizzell poured punch. Phyllis Dunn assisted in serving.

Showers were given by family and friends and a rehearsal dinner was held Friday.

The couple will reside in Grimesland after a wedding trip.

Abby's In-laws Made Religion, Respect Their Marriage Cornerstone for 70 Years

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR READERS: Today is a very special day. It marks the 70th — yes, 70th — wedding anniversary of a couple who are very dear to me: my in-laws, Rose and Jay Phillips of Minneapolis.

Their marriage was not just a marriage, it was a merger — a blending of beauty, brains, character, talent, ambition, generosity, hard work and mutual love, tempered with a sense of humor.

Their cornerstone: a devotion to their religion and respect for the rights of others.

Over the years, Rose and Jay Phillips have handled their good fortune with gratitude and humility, and accepted their misfortunes with grace and dignity. They are a credit to their community, a joy to their friends, and a shining example of love and generosity to their family.

Congratulations and God bless you, Mother and Dad. Love, ABBY AND MORT

DEAR ABBY: I have a rather touchy problem. Last Mother's Day my husband and I had our 6-month-old daughter christened. Several relatives were present and, much to my surprise, they all brought gifts. While opening the gifts, my great uncle — a very wealthy man who has no children — told me he was going to open a "college fund" for our daughter. Then he started explaining the terms of the fund — how much interest it would draw, etc.

After waiting for six months and hearing nothing more about the "college fund," I asked my uncle about it, and he said he was going to go through a large bank in Nashville. (We live in a very small town in Tennessee.)

Abby, it's been over a year, and we still haven't received any information about the gift. My uncle is a very responsible man, and we would like very much for our daughter to have this gift to assure her college education. How should I handle it? — BLUE IN GRAY, TENN.

DEAR BLUE: Being "blue" will not accomplish anything — neither will procrastinating. Remind your uncle of the "college fund" he promised to establish for your daughter. And don't be shy. He offered it.

DEAR READERS: Rollan Melton, who writes a column in the Reno Gazette, was so taken with a sermon delivered by one V. James Jeffery, rector of the Trinity Episcopal Church in Reno, he shared that message with his readers. I've since discovered that the message in the sermon originally came from Robert Fulghum, a retired Unitarian minister in Edmonds, Wash. Here it is (in part):

"Most of what I really need to know about how to live, and what to do, and how to be, I learned in kindergarten. Wisdom was not at the top of the graduate school mountain, but there in the sandbox at nursery school.

"These are the things I learned: Share everything. Play fair. Don't hit people. Put things back where you found them. Clean up your own mess. Don't take things that aren't yours.

Say you're sorry when you hurt somebody. Wash your hands before you eat. Flush. Warm cookies and cold milk are good for you.

"... When you go out into the world, watch for traffic, hold hands and stick together."

"... And it is still true, no matter how old you are, when you go out into the world, it's best to hold hands and stick together."

Thanks, Rector Jeffery and Robert Fulghum. I couldn't have said it better myself. And thanks to Edna Brigham for introducing me to Rollan Melton.

(For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.)

BROILERS: The North Carolina fob dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 43.25 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pounds birds. 96 percent of the loads offered have been confirmed with a final weighted average of 42.46 cents. The market is about steady and the live supply is barely adequate for a good demand. Average weights desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Monday was 1,994,000, compared to 1,914,000 last Monday.

GRAIN: No. 2 yellow shelled corn steady to 1 cent higher at mostly 1.70-1.84 in East and mostly 1.88-2.04 in the Piedmont; No. 1 yellow soybeans steady to 5 cents higher at mostly 5.31-5.51 in East and mostly 5.32-5.33 in the Piedmont; wheat 2.31-2.45; new crop corn 1.43-1.84; new crop soybeans 4.86-5.23. Exchange rates for P.I.K. certificates were steady and ranged from 101 to 107 percent of face value.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices declined in opening trading today.

At 10 a.m., the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped 14.51 to 2,557.56.

Losers outpaced gainers by about 5 to 2 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, with 355 issues up, 887 down and 366 unchanged.

Big Board volume totaled 38.56 million shares.

Among actively traded blue-chips, IBM declined 1 1/2 to 159 3/4, General Electric fell 1/2 to 58 1/2 and American Express was off 1/2 to 36 1/4.

Heightened tensions in the Persian Gulf pushed oil stocks sharply higher. On the Big Board's most-active list Amoco rose 1 1/2 to 86 1/4, Chevron was up 1 1/2 to 61 1/2 and Mobil gained 1/2 to 53 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks stood at 177.96, down 0.68.

The American Stock Exchange market value index was up 0.68 at 358.71.

Rezoning Denied

The Williamston Planning Board, in what has been termed a surprise move, voted late last week to reject a request from John and Bud Roberson to rezone 87.3 acres of land off U.S. 64 west from residential to mixed manufacturing (M-1).

No discussion was made nor reason offered for the board's action. Earlier, the board indicated that members would approved the rezoning request.

However, the Williamston Board of Commissioners, which has ultimate authority in the matter, has scheduled a public hearing tonight on the issue.

Jones' Bill Ratified

The N.C. General Assembly has ratified legislation that mandates disciplinary action against any person who knowingly falsifies an application for state employment.

According to the legislation, any person who knowingly and willfully discloses false or misleading information or who fails to disclose requested information on a state application will be subjected to disciplinary action up to and including immediate dismissal.

"North Carolina state employees have earned a reputation for honesty and hard work through the years," said Walter B. Jones Jr., D-Pitt, sponsor of the bill.

Break-In Arrests

Pitt County deputies have arrested two men in connection with a break-in at the Convenient World, Route 4, Box 264, Greenville, Sunday, Sheriff Ralph Tyson said today.

Tyson said Michael Wade Copeland, 22, of Route 2, Box 100, Williamston, and Jimmy Leo Jackson, 23, of 222 Beth St., Cherry Oaks, Greenville, have been charged with breaking and entering and larceny in connection with the incident.

Tyson said Pitt County deputies Tom Stanley, Mac Manning and Glenn Ferrell, made the arrests after discovering the suspects at the scene.

"We do not need persons on our state payroll who would falsify their qualifications in order to obtain employment. While the problem is not widespread, there has been an increasing problem of the use of false credentials by job applicants."

Jones said the new legislation will require that application forms for state employment include a statement informing applicants of the penalties of fraudulent disclosure of lack of disclosure.

Jones, in his third term in the House of Representatives, is a member of the State Personnel Committee.

Revenge Is Pledged

through the gulf, which is a battle area in the nearly seven-year-old war between Iran and Iraq.

Iranian news media reported earlier that more than 1 million people demonstrated in Tehran Sunday, chanting "Revenge!" Iran's sympathizers in Lebanon also protested Sunday and attacked the empty Saudi Embassy. The pro-Iranian Islamic Jihad, releasing a picture of U.S. hostage Terry Anderson, threatened to punish the Saudi government and the United States.

Several Arab and Moslem countries meanwhile expressed support for Saudi Arabia's King Fahd following the riots in Islam's holiest city.

Saudi authorities said the deaths Friday were caused by trampling and rioting, and police did not fire a shot.

Iran claimed Saudi police fired. Iran's deputy foreign minister, Ali Mohammad Besharati, hinted during the weekend that the pilgrims' deaths could cause a break in relations between Khomeini's radical government and the conservative Saudi monarchy.

Saudi television charged Sunday that Iranians last year handed bags of explosives to pilgrims bound for Mecca, telling the travelers the packages contained gifts.

Arab diplomatic sources said efforts were continuing to gain the freedom of four Saudi diplomats who reportedly were detained when a mob in Tehran ransacked the Saudi Embassy in response to the news of killings.

of killings that have rocked Manila since Mrs. Aquino took office in February 1986. Legislators warned the slayings were symptomatic of a grave law-and-order crisis facing the Aquino government.

"There can be no economic recovery under the present state," said Rep. Antonio Cuenco, speaker pro tempore of the House of Representatives. "This is the number one problem of the country today."

Sen. Joey Lina, former Manila acting governor, called the killing "a desperation move on the part of those who see the present government is succeeding."

Officials blame Communist assassins, known as "sparrows" for the swiftness of their attacks, for killing many of the more than 50 police and soldiers slain in Manila this year.

Leads Kansas City Past Boston, 13-5

Seitzer Has Royal Day

By The Associated Press
Rookie Kevin Seitzer had a royal feeling after going 6-for-6, hitting two homers, driving in seven runs and scoring four times.

"I'll probably never have a feeling like I had today," said Seitzer, who tied or broke several team records Sunday in leading host Kansas City over Boston 13-5. "Everything was just perfect today. I caught every break I could possibly catch."

Seitzer's play this season has allowed the Royals to shift perennial All-Star George Brett to first base. Seitzer, selected in the 11th round of the 1983 June free agent draft, hit .319 in 129 games for Class AAA Omaha last season.

Seitzer hit his eighth homer leading off the third inning against starter Bob Stanley, 3-11. He had an RBI single in the fourth, a three-run homer in the fifth, giving the Royals an 8-3 lead, and added a two-run double in the eighth.

"I was telling my wife last night that things have gone so well and I haven't had a four-hit game in the big leagues. I've had three and couldn't go any further," Seitzer said. "Today, when I got that fourth one, that was the perfect day right there, especially after I had just talked to her about this last night."

His 13 total bases tied a team record set by Brett, and the seven RBI also matched the club record. Seitzer is now batting .324 with 55 runs batted in, both tops on the team.

Elsewhere in the American League, New York beat Detroit 8-5; Toronto outlasted Cleveland 11-5; Chicago beat Milwaukee 7-3; Seattle edged California 5-4; Oakland defeated Minnesota 6-5 in 11 innings; and Texas beat Baltimore 5-2.

Seitzer is only the second Kansas City player to have six hits in a game. Bob Oliver, also a rookie, had six hits on May 4, 1969, against California.

He's the first player to have six hits this season and the eighth to drive in seven runs in one game. The last player to go 6-for-6 was Cleveland's Jorge Orta on June 15, 1980. Rennie Stennett of Pittsburgh set the modern major-league record for a nine-inning game when he had seven hits on Sept. 16, 1975.

"I wanted to have a perfect day and I thought if I got that sixth at-bat, maybe it wouldn't happen for me," Seitzer said. Up to now, I had brutal Sundays. I hate playing Sundays because I never seem to do any good. I guess today kind of turned it around."

Seitzer played with tape around his left wrist due to an injury sustained during the Royals' visit to New York earlier in the week.

"The hand's all right. I don't think I could hit without the tape support, but I don't think I'm going to try the rest of my career, either," Seitzer said. "It just needs support so I don't roll my wrist. Maybe it's the best thing that ever happened to me at the plate so I don't try to pull the ball, just let everything happen naturally."

Mark Gubicza, 9-10, allowed eight hits, including Dwight Evans' 21st and 22nd homers, in 8 1-3 innings. Jerry Don Gleaton got the final two outs.

Yankees 8, Tigers 5

Before 46,212 at Yankee Stadium, Dan Pasqua singled three times and drove in two runs and Mike Pagliarulo hit a two-run homer, leading New York over Detroit.

The Yankees won twice in the three-game series and increased their AL East lead to three games over the Tigers.

Don Mattingly, and Dave Winfield also had three hits in a 17-hit attack as New York won for the sixth time in seven games.

Rick Rhoden, 14-6, allowed five runs on 12 hits in eight-plus innings and Dave Righetti got his 20th save.

Mariners 5, Angels 4

John Moses scored Dave Valle in the ninth inning with a suicide squeeze bunt to lift visiting Seattle over California.

Valle led off the inning with a single against reliever Greg Minton, 3-2. He advanced on a chopper by Domingo Ramos, and moved to third when third baseman Doug DeCinces' late throw to second sailed into right field for an error. One out later, Moses laid down a bunt up the first-base line and Minton's only play was to first, allowing Moses to score.

Mike Kingery gave Seattle the early lead with a grand slam in the first inning.

Blue Jays 11, Indians 5

Ernie Whitt drove in four runs with a homer and a bases-loaded triple and Lloyd Moseby drove in three runs to lead host Toronto over Cleveland. The start of the game was delayed three hours, 45 minutes by rain.

Toronto got off to a fast start with homers by Moseby and Whitt in the first inning off Darrell Akerfelds, 0-2.

Jesse Barfield singled to open the second and Rance Mulliniks followed with a walk. Willie Upshaw singled, scoring Barfield for a 3-0 lead, and two outs later, Moseby walked to load the bases.

Whitt then lined a triple that skidded under the glove of right fielder Cory Snyder for a 6-0 lead.

Athletics 6, Twins 5

Jose Canseco singled to score the winning run with two out in the 11th inning as Oakland edged Minnesota.

Oakland's second consecutive victory in the three-game series moved the Athletics into second place, a half-game ahead of California and a game behind the AL West-leading Twins.

Canseco's hit off reliever Jeff Reardon, 5-6, scored Luis Polonia, who had singled and taken second on a throw home that nailed Alfredo Griffin at the plate. Griffin had opened the inning by reaching on an error by second baseman Al Newman, then stole second.

Rangers 5, Orioles 2

Bobby Witt pitched five-hit ball for 8 1-3 innings and tied a major-league record by striking out four batters in one inning as Texas beat visiting Baltimore.

Witt, 5-5, struck out a season-high 11 batters and was backed by home runs by Geno Petralli and Pete Incaviglia.

Witt became the 18th pitcher in major-league history to strike out four batters in an inning when he fanned Ray Knight, Terry Kennedy, Mike Young and Gerhart in the second. The last pitcher to strike out four in an inning was Houston's Mike Scott last Sept. 3.

White Sox 7, Brewers 3

Bill Long and Bobby Thigpen combined on a five-hitter and Steve Lyons hit a two-run homer as Chicago took 3-of-4 at Milwaukee.

Long, 6-6, limited Milwaukee to five hits over 6 2-3 innings and Thigpen finished up for third save.

Milwaukee's Paul Molitor hit his eighth homer, extending his hitting streak to 17 games.

Davis' Home Run Allows Him To Enter 30-30 Club

By HERSHELL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The door to baseball's elite 30-30 club must be located in the upper left field stands at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium because that's where Eric Davis knocked out enter.

The 25-year-old outfielder became only the seventh player in history to hit 30 home runs and steal 30 bases in the same season when he knocked a towering drive off the facade of the upper deck leading off the bottom of the 11th inning Sunday.

Davis' 30th homer — he also stole his 38th and 39th bases — gave the Cincinnati Reds a 5-4 victory over San Francisco that stretched their National League West lead over the second-place Giants to three games.

Davis said he wasn't really concerned about joining Willie Mays (1956, 1957), Hank Aaron (1963), Bobby Bonds (1969, 1973, 1975, 1977, 1978), Dale Murphy (1983), Tommy Harper (1970) and Ken Williams (1922) as the only players in the 30-30 club.

"I was just looking to hit the ball somewhere and get on and score a run," Davis said. "I knew he (reliever Jeff Robinson) was going to give me a pitch to hit."

With two months left in the season, Davis has a solid chance to become the first player with 40 homers and 40 stolen bases in a single season.

Meanwhile, St. Louis beat Pittsburgh 9-1 for its third victory in a row after a seven-game losing streak and upped its lead in the NL East to six games over Montreal, which lost to New York 7-4. Elsewhere, it was Houston 6, San Diego 0; Chicago 3, Philadelphia 2 in 10 innings; and Atlanta 10, Los Angeles 5.

The Giants were six outs away from trimming Cincinnati's lead to one game after taking a 4-3 lead in the top of the eighth against John Franco on Joel Youngblood's pinch homer and Jeffrey Leonard's sacrifice fly. But the Reds tied it in the bottom of the eighth when Tracy Jones singled off Craig Lefferts, stole second and scored on Terry McGriff's single off Scott Garrelts.

Three innings later, Davis, who singled in the first inning and scored on Bo Diaz's two-run single, ended it.

"We have a certain way to pitch him — up and in, then try to get him to chase breaking pitches," Giants Manager Roger Craig said. "We didn't do it."

Dave Concepcion's first homer of the season had given the Reds a 3-2 lead in the sixth. The Giants took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on Chili Davis' two-run homer.

Cardinals 9, Pirates 1

Joe Magrane pitched an 11-hit complete game in 103-degree St. Louis heat and Terry Pendleton drove in four runs with a homer and double. The Cardinals, who had lost seven straight before the Pirates came to town, swept three games from Pittsburgh, which has dropped seven in a row.

Magrane also hit one of St. Louis' four doubles, triggering a two-run third inning. Vince Coleman doubled Magrane home and scored on Tom Herr's single before the Cardinals made it 3-0 in the fourth on Jim Lindeman's fourth homer, all against Pittsburgh.

Pendleton hit a two-run homer, his ninth, in the fifth inning and doubled two more runs across in the eighth. Herr and Coleman had RBI singles in the sixth and seventh.

"I just went into the game telling myself I wanted to go nine innings," Magrane said. "I come from the University of Arizona, where it's hot, too — in fact, it's scorching. It's not quite like it was out there today, but it's not like I'd never pitched when it's hot before, either."

Mets 7, Expos 4

Ron Darling and Roger McDowell combined on a four-hitter and Keith Hernandez drove in New York's first three runs with a pair of doubles and a grounder as the Mets climbed within one-half game of the second-place Expos in the NL East.

Darling gave up two singles in 6 2-3 innings but walked eight. McDowell allowed a two-run single to Tim Wallach in the seventh after Darling walked the bases loaded before earning his 16th save.

Hernandez hit RBI doubles in the first and fifth innings off Bob Sebra and had a run-scoring grounder in the third. Kevin McReynolds had a two-run single in the fifth.

"This hasn't been a great RBI or clutch-hit year for me, but I've been swinging the bat better lately and I hope I can keep on doing it," said Hernandez, who has 49 RBI. "August and September have usually been my months anyway."

Astros 6, Padres 0

Mike Scott pitched a three-hitter over eight innings and Alan Ashby homered, doubled and singled and drove in three runs. Scott, 12-7, who has won all of his nine decisions against San Diego in Houston, held the Padres hitless until Tony Gwynn singled with two outs in the fifth.

The Astros took a 3-0 lead off Mark Grant in the first inning. Gerald Young led off with a single and went to third on Grant's wild pickoff throw. Billy Hatcher walked and when Grant again threw the ball away on a pickoff attempt, Young scored and Hatcher took third. One out later, Ashby hit his 10th home run.

Johnson Wins Battle Of Nerves

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. (AP) — For once, Chris Johnson was not her own worst enemy.

Johnson won a battle with her nerves Sunday to shoot a 2-under-par 70 and record her fourth LPGA career victory by winning the $250,000 Columbia Savings National Pro-Am. Her 72-hole score of 11-under-par 277 left her five shots ahead of Shirley Furlong, who also had a 70 and finished at 282.

But it was an emotional struggle all the way for Johnson, who said she struggled until the 13th hole.

"It might have looked easy but it wasn't, and it wasn't pretty," Johnson said. "I felt quite a bit more settled after the 13th."

"I felt as if I were laying it up on nine, 10 and 11, because they were all short. But the 12th hole was good, and at 13 I came in pin high."

Johnson had three birdies and two bogeys on the front nine, then began the back nine with three straight pars.

But on the 380-yard par-4 13th hole, she put a sand wedge within eight feet of the cup, then tapped in a putt for a birdie.

She followed with another birdie on the 512-yard par-5 14th, when she put her tee shot in a bunker, used a 3-iron to get out, and again rolled in a putt, this time from about five feet out.

After that, her biggest problem was the weather. Thunder distracted her on the 16th hole and a light rain began to fall on the final two holes.

"I was worrying about the lightning," she said. "I heard it rumbling out there, but then thought 'They'll tell us if we should get off the course.'"

Despite the distractions, Johnson parred the last three holes and walked away with the $37,500 first prize.

"I think there was some nervousness about losing the lead," she said, "but I knew I had to play smart."

In third at 283 was Sara Ann Timms, who shook off the effects of recent wrist surgery that sidelined her for six weeks and finished with a 69.

Jan Stephenson and Sherri Turner tied for fourth at 284 and six golfers were clustered for sixth.

Johnson said she was not puzzled by the fall-off of Sally Quinlan, who was only one stroke behind starting Sunday's round, but ballooned to an 8-over 79 and finished at 287.

"I've done the same thing," Johnson said. "I don't know what Sally was thinking."

Littler Erratic, But Still Wins

SCARBOROUGH-ON-HUDSON, N.Y. (AP) — Gene Littler was not up to par, but that didn't stop him from winning the $250,000 Commemorative seniors golf tournament.

"Surely, no one ever went 11 holes (without par) and still won a tournament," Littler said Sunday after his victory at the Sleepy Hollow Country Club.

The 57-year-old Littler shot an erratic 5-under-par 65 Sunday en route to a 54-hole total of 10-under-par 200 and his first Senior Tour victory this year. Over the last 11 holes, Littler recorded six birdies and five bogeys to hold off Dale Douglass.

Douglass finished at 201 after a third consecutive 67 on the par-70, 6,545-yard course.

The 5-9½, 160-pound Littler collected a first-place check of $31,500 that boosted his earnings this year to $103,178.

Miller Barber, one of two millionaires on the tour — Don January is the other — also had a 67 to claim third place at 202.

"It was the best putting round I've ever had," Littler said. "It's not my style to win like this."

Style or not, Little, who had 29 victories — including the 1961 U.S. Open — in 27 years on the PGA tour, three-putted only once.

On the par-3, 437-yard 12th hole, Littler had a birdie, thanks to a 25-foot chip shot.

"That's the first time since I broke my arm (February, 1984) that I chipped in," he explained. "It came at the right time after that bogey on the 11th."

Littler, who has a steel plate in his left arm after a freak accident at home and who was operated on in 1972 for cancer of the lymph glands, was referring to the par-4, 385-yard 11th hole, where he wound up in the trees.

"It was a terrible shot," he said. "I could still be out there. The ball was lost and was found just as time was running out."

"I had to hit through the branches. Fortunately it was only a bogey, when you consider the other possibilities. It just proves that you have to be lucky sometimes to win."

Douglass, who had to settle for his fifth second-place finish this year, smiled.

"All I've got to say is that I was robbed," he said. "Can you imagine anyone making 10 birdies? Gene kept putting the ball in position in order to make birdies. Every putt he hit looked like it was going in ... even the ones that didn't."

Two Take Ski Wins

PADUCAH, Ky. — Kristi Overton won four events in the 1987 Southern Regional Water Ski Tournament this weekend while Jackie Rollins, who also skis out of Greenville, captured a first in the event also.

Overton, competing in the girls' division, took first place in the slalom, tracks, jumping and overall categories in the meet. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Parker Overton of Greenville, she is a rising senior at Rose High School.

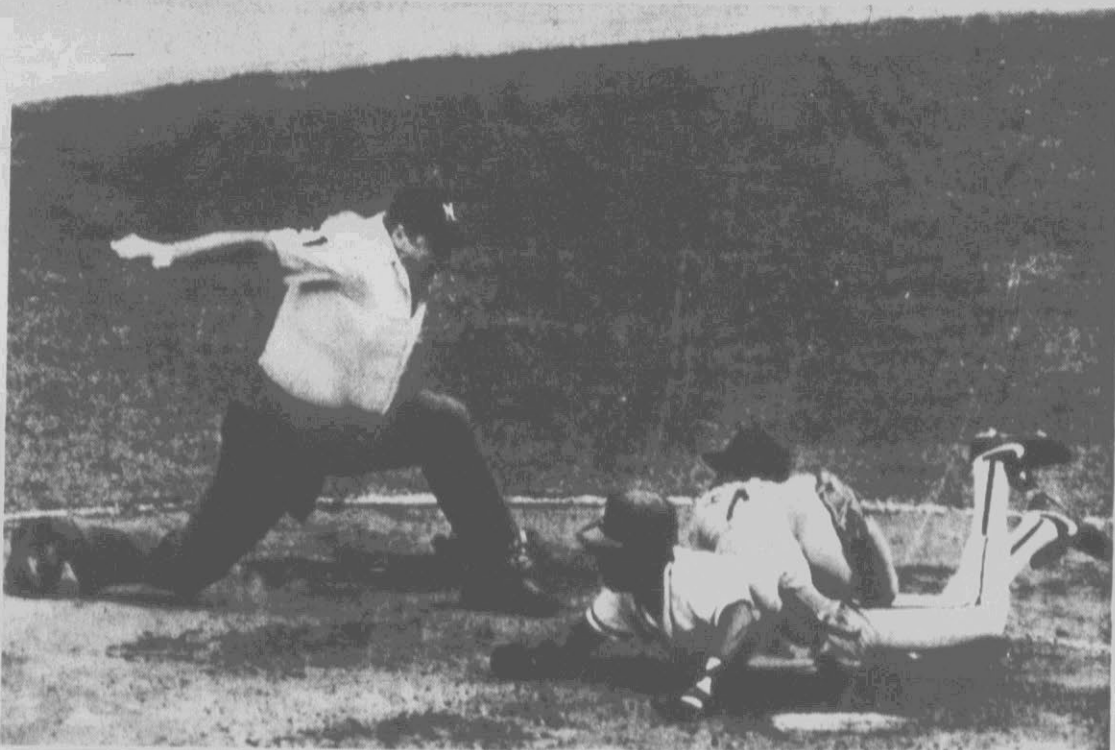

Rollins, competing in the women's I division, placed first in the tricks event and took third place in the slalom event. She is an incoming freshman at East Carolina University this fall.

Both women will be competing in the U.S. Nationals later this month in West Palm Beach, Fla.

Definitely Safe

Umpire Harry Wendelstedt leaves no doubt Sunday that Atlanta Brave Dion James is safe at home despite having Los Angeles Dodger pitcher Ken Howell on his back.

Howell covered home plate after his pitch to Dave Murphy got away from catcher Alex Trevino in the first inning. (AP Laserphoto)

Spinks Still Claims He's Best

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Super promoter Don King had a simple reaction. "Hallelujah."

After 16 months, 10 fights and a bellyful of bickering, HBO's heavyweight title unification series is over, with all three championship belts around the waist of 21-year-old Mike Tyson.

Not since 1978, when Leon Spinks beat Muhammad Ali, has there been just one heavyweight champion.

Problem is, there still are those who feel Tyson has company at the top of the division, and this could affect the heavyweight picture over the next year.

Michael Spinks, who was stripped of his International Boxing Federation version of the heavyweight title, calls himself the people's champion, and his promoter, Butch Lewis, feels Spinks' victory over Gerry Cooney last June 15 has made him more popular than Tyson.

"He won the title and all," Spinks said of Tyson. "I mean, he's got all the belts, but he hasn't beat me. He's a champion because he's got the belts."

Tyson, who already held the World Boxing Council and World Boxing Association titles, captured the third belt Saturday night with a unanimous 12-round decision over IBF champion Tony Tucker.

Spinks was stripped for refusing to fight Tucker as part of the HBO series. Now Spinks would like to fight Tyson.

Spinks was among the 7,800 spectators at the Las Vegas Hilton for the Tyson-Tucker fight. He sat in the very last row, the cheap seats. Nothing could have been more appropriate. He feels shunted aside by Tyson.

"I want to get the fight signed," Spinks said. And Lewis added: "It could be the biggest box office in our industry's history."

Such a fight, however, is not expected to take place until the fall of 1988, at the earliest, after Tyson fulfills several commitments. Tyson, 31-0 with 27 knockouts, is scheduled to face Olympic champion Tyrell Biggs on Oct. 16, perhaps in Atlantic City.

After that fight, plans call for Tyson to meet undetermined opponents, the first in December or January, the other at Tokyo on March 21. After that, he is supposed to fight in June or July at London, perhaps against British heavyweight Frank Bruno.

"He's not the champion," Tyson has said of Spinks. "I'm the champion. He's not running the show. He used the excuse that he didn't lose the title in the ring. That's a bunch of baloney. How can you call yourself champion when you give it up?"

Biggs, ranked as the No. 1 contender by all three governing bodies, tuned up for the October fight by stopping journeyman Lorenzo Boyd in the third round last Friday night at Corpus Christi, Texas. The victory gave Biggs a record of 15-0 since turning professional after the 1984 Los Angeles Olympics.

Biggs, considered by some a legitimate threat to Tyson, looked a little sluggish against Boyd, although he knocked Boyd down four times before the fight was stopped. Biggs admitted he wasn't in the kind of shape he would like to be in against Tyson.

"I may have looked slow, but I'm weighing 235 pounds right now," Biggs said. "That's not my fighting weight."

Spinks' refusal to fight Tucker was not the only hitch in the $22 million HBO series.

Trevor Berbick, who held the WBC title when the series began, threatened to pull out and fight Cooney because he wasn't getting enough money. Tyson took the WBC title by beating Berbick on Nov. 22, 1986.

Last December, Tony Tubbs, the WBA title-holder, said he hurt his shoulder, delaying a fight with James "Bonecrusher" Smith. King, who promotes Tyson, accused Tubbs of holding out for more money; and litigation followed. Smith replaced Tubbs in the series and knocked out Tim Witherspoon in one round for the WBA title. Tyson took that belt away with a 12-round unanimous decision over Smith last March 7.

With all this and the Tyson-Tucker fight finally out of the way, there still was a faint whistling in the wind. It seems everyone wants a piece of Mike Tyson now.

"I think I have taken some of his indestructibility away," Tucker said of Tyson after the fight. Tucker had said before the bout that a loss to Tyson would probably force him into retirement. Afterwards, he hinted he might try to reverse those plans.

"I hope to get to fight him again before anyone else gets to him," Tucker said.

Another hat in the ring.

Birdie Lets Strange Win

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — With the PGA Championship starting on Thursday, Curtis Strange can't spare himself the luxury of enjoying his victory in the $742,043 St. Jude Classic golf tournament.

"What I'm going to have to do is get myself ready. I have never played particularly well after winning a tournament," Strange said after Sunday's one-stroke victory over Russ Cochran, Tom Kite, Denis Watson and Mike Donald.

"Rest is probably the key," said Strange, an 11-time winner since joining the PGA Tour in 1977. "This tournament (played in 98-degree temperatures) takes a lot out of you."

Strange's second title of the year wasn't assured until the 72nd hole. He came to final hole tied with five players at 12 under par, and figured he'd need a birdie to earn a spot in a playoff.

When he learned that both Russ Cochran and Mike Donald, playing in the group immediately ahead of him, had parred the par-5 548-yard finishing hole, Strange knew he had the tournament in his grasp.

"It just kind of gave me a shot in the arm," he said. "I wouldn't want to be in the scorer's tent waiting for Curtis Strange to come to the last hole with 80 yards to go. That sounds a little rough and usually I don't say things like that, but I felt very confident today."

"The 18th is a hole where you're going to make a four half the time. You ought to be able to get it up and down from 80 yards."

Strange, in fact, got it up and down from 93 yards, sinking a six-foot birdie putt to cap a round of 69 for a four-day score of 275 over the 7,282-yard, par-72 Colonial Country Club course.

"That's the way I play," Strange said. "Accuracy is my game, and not distance and full-throttle and stuff like that. Kind of putting it around the golf course is my game."

"I took two weeks off and probably the most surprising thing of the week is that I won after taking two weeks off. Normally you're rusty and it takes a week or so to really get back sharp."

"I guess what's on my mind right now is having the opportunity on the last hole and coming through. That probably means as much to me right now as anything else."

In collecting a winner's check for $130,328, Strange moved into second place on the money-winning list with $530,885. There were checks of $47,787 for the players who shared second at 276. Watson closed with a 66, Kite shot 67 and Donald and Cochran had 69s.

Cochran had a one-stroke lead with two holes to play in search of his first PGA Tour victory. But the left-hander from Paducah, Ky., came back to the field when he bogied the par-4, 433-yard 17th. He hooked a fairway iron into the deep rough behind the green and, after an excellent recovery to within four feet, missed a par putt.

"Two years ago I was a shot out of the lead here and bogeyed No. 17," Cochran said. "I was still thinking about that when I went to 18."

With his concentration interrupted, Cochran put his tee shot into the water alongside the 18th fairway. But he scrambled to save par and a share of second.

Fuzzy Zoeller had a 70 on Sunday to finish alone at 277 and Bob Tway, the defending PGA champion, was at 278 after a 69.

Willie Wood and Gil Morgan each had 66s to finish at 279, a figure achieved by Curt Byrum and Ronnie Black after 67s.

Andy Dillard, who shared the 54-hole lead with Strange, was in the title chase until he double-bogeyed the 12th and 16th holes. He finished at 280 after a 74.

Winston-Salem (AP) — Officials of the Freedom Bowl have reached an agreement with Wake Forest University and the city of Winston-Salem to hold the 1987 all-star football game at Groves Stadium.

The post-season game, an annual contest which matches all-star seniors from the nation's predominantly black colleges and universities, is scheduled for Dec. 12 at 1:30 p.m.

In late July, Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference commissioner Ken Free said two other stadiums, Alumni Stadium at North Carolina A&T in Greensboro, N.C., and Bowman-Gray Stadium, the home of Winston-Salem State, were also under consideration.

The first three Freedom Bowl football games were played in Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. Last season's game was played in RFK Stadium in Washington.

Preps Open Grid Drills

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — More than 300 North Carolina High School Athletic Association member schools who field football teams began practice across the state on Saturday.

Each of the four classifications will once again feature 32-team draws for postseason play, with the first round of each of the playoffs scheduled to begin on Nov. 13. State championship games in all four classes are set for Dec. 11, said NCHSAA executive director Charlie Adams.

NCHSAA rules stipulate that the first six days of high school football practice be used for physical conditioning. Practices are limited to one-a-days during this period — not to exceed two hours in length — and during the first three days athletes will work out in just headgear, T-shirts, shorts and football shoes, Adams said. On the fourth, fifth and sixth days, players are allowed to wear uniforms but no body-to-body contact is permitted.

Fayetteville 71st is the defending 4-A champion, breaking Greensboro Page's three-year hold on the title. Shelby won the 3-A crown, while Lexington captured the 2-A championship for the second season in a row and Murphy took the 1-A title.

The first varsity games for about half of the 322 schools begins Aug. 28.

then drove in two runs, including the game-winner with a single over a pulled-in outfield in the 10th inning.

After the Cubs tied the score with single runs in the eighth and ninth innings off Philadelphia relief ace Steve Bedrosian — Manny Trillo homered with two out in the ninth — Leon Durham drew a walk off Jeff Calhoun to open the 10th and was sacrificed to second.

Luis Quinones also walked and the fourth ball was a wild pitch. Durham took third and scored when Sandberg singled over the right fielder's head.

It was only the fifth time this season that Bedrosian, who leads the majors with 30 saves, had failed in a save situation.

Bedrosian relieved Shane Rawley to start the eighth after the Phillies scored twice off Rick Sutcliffe in the top of the inning on Milt Thompson's homer and Glenn Wilson's RBI single.

With two out in the Phillies' third and Steve Jeltz on second, Thompson singled through the box. Sandberg gloved the ball and caught Jeltz in a rundown between home and third.

Braves 10, Dodgers 5

Paul Runge's second major-league homer ignited a six-run fourth inning that also included a three-run double by Ted Simmons. Winner Zane Smith pitched shutout ball for six innings before the Dodgers scored all their runs in the seventh.

With Atlanta leading 2-0, Runge hit a pitch from Ken Howell over the center field fence to open the fourth inning. Gerald Perry singled home the second run of the inning and, after the Braves loaded the bases, Simmons cleared them with his double off Brad Havens. Simmons scored on a single by Ken Oberkfell. James drove in Atlanta's final two runs with a grounder and his eighth homer.

Tensions Heating Up

The tanker Bridgeton, the first reflagged Kuwaiti vessel to be escorted by U.S. warships, hit an underwater mine a few days ago while heading up the Persian Gulf to Kuwait. Kuwait is about the size of New Jersey. It may be oil-rich and fabulously wealthy, but it's a bust when it comes to agriculture. Only one percent of the land is arable. Average daily temperature is 91° F, but on hot days it gets up to about 125° F. Annual rainfall is less than 7 inches.

DO YOU KNOW — What two nations border Kuwait?
FRIDAY'S ANSWER — Gas masks were invented and first used during World War I.

Horoscope

From The Carroll Righter Institute

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY Aug. 4

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Make it your mission today to make as many new contacts and acquaintances as possible. If you can, sidestep a legal matter which could have adverse effects.
ARIES (March 21 to April 19): A meeting with an outside business contact to work out deals, etc., will be a great boon to your future success.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Try to use your creative side to lighten up your daily routines. If you wish, you can delight an important co-worker.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Buy a fine gift for your mate, and make time to visit relatives together, preferably in the afternoon.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): This is a banner evening for entertaining interesting persons at your home and showing your skill as a host.
LEO (July 22 to August 21): Let your allies know how much you appreciate them, but be short and succinct. Attend a group affair this evening.
VIRGO (August 22 to September 22): Have a private discussion with your kin and find out what's expected of you. Use your social skills more effectively.
LIBRA (September 23 to October 22): Avoid a person who has an eye on your assets and could cause trouble—possibly a broker of some kind.
SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21): Contact the most influential and highly principled person you know for help with one of your private interests.
SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21): Let yourself go! It's time to get out of that rut you've been in for so long and unwind—get a new lease on life.
CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20): You have been angry with your mate for some time. Quietly discuss it tonight and restore harmony.
AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19): Look to the experience of older friends to make your group amusements much more enjoyable.
PISCES (February 20 to March 20): Look around your house for an easy project which will not only beautify it, but add to the value as well.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he, or she, will have tremendous beauty, so be careful not to spoil him or her. While still young, teach your progeny that "beauty is only skin deep," and the importance of being useful and self-sufficient. Your child may have that restless, star-struck tendency.

ANSWERS TO WEEKLY BRIDGE QUIZ

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AQ1076 ♥7 ♦AJ83 ♣762
Partner opens the bidding with one no trump. What do you respond?
A.—Three spades. That shows a hand with game-going values and at least five spades. Should partner rebid either three no trump or four spades, pass. If he cue-bids four clubs, you can afford one slam try with four diamonds.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KQJ872 ♥K73 ♦8 ♣AK6
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♣ Pass 1 NT Pass
? What do you bid now?
A.—With a five-loser hand, you don't have quite enough to contract for game unilaterally, especially since partner might have a singleton spade. A jump to three spades, strongly invitational, describes your hand nicely and leaves open three no trump as a possible contract.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠952 ♥AK6 ♦AQJ3 ♣763
Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What do you respond?
A.—If you made some noise in hearts, you have overlooked a basic principle of jump raising partner's suit—you promise four-card support. Correct is to make a temporizing bid of two diamonds, then raise hearts vigorously at your next turn.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KQ6 ♥A106 ♦KJ87 ♣QJ8
Partner opens the bidding with one no trump. What do you respond?
A.—This is simply a matter of mathematics. With partner showing a balanced 16-18 points, you are a whisker short of slam if he has a minimum, but have just enough if he is maximum. Jump to four no trump. That's an invitational raise asking him to bid slam if he is at the top of his range, not ace-asking.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♥AQ85 ♦AJ10632 ♣JQ6
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♣ Pass 2 ♦ Pass
2 ♣ Pass 3 ♥ Pass
3 NT Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Your excellent hand has slowly gone to pot. This is a classic misfit, so be happy that you are in a contract that should prove makable. Pass.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AK83 ♥AQ92 ♦AJ763

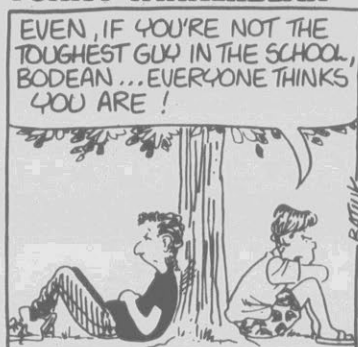

Partner opens the bidding with one club. What do you respond?

A.—In terms of point count you might be thinking slam; in reality you don't even know where your best spot is. Therefore, don't crowd the auction. This is not the time for a jump shift. Just respond one diamond to make it as easy as possible for partner to make his most descriptive rebid.

Real-Life Dramas Become Scripts

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Like most of the nation, film producers, writers and agents have been fascinated by the televised testimony of Lt. Col. Oliver North during the Iran-Contra hearings.

However, their concern is not one of national affairs. They want to know if this real-life drama can be translated into a movie project and who would play North — Treat Williams, Kris Kristofferson, Mel Gibson?

Converting today's headlines into tomorrow's movies and TV miniseries has become a Hollywood subindustry. Production companies subscribe to dozens of newspapers and magazines which are scoured for another "Saturday Night Fever," which originated as an article about a discotheque in New York magazine.

"I tape the television news every night," says David R. Ginsburg, president of Alliance Entertainment. "When I see something that might produce a film property, I file it for future reference."

Ginsburg's alertness has resulted in acquiring dramatic rights to a pair of news figures: Marla Hanson, the New York model-actress whose career was threatened by a revenge slashing of her face (optioned by NBC); Michael Caruso, Jr., the 10-year-old who talked himself out of a hostage situation at the Dallas-Ft. Worth airport (optioned by Disney).

"Sometimes the news story mentions a lawyer and we communicate with him," Ginsburg said. "Sometimes we can get right through to the figure in the news. In the Caruso case, we saw that the family had moved to Phoenix. We got the number of the phone book and sent our in-house lawyer to acquire the rights."

No news story in recent times has attracted as much Hollywood interest as the Emporia, Kan., church murder. Thomas Bird, a minister, was convicted of murdering his wife, Sandra, so he could marry his secretary and mistress, Lorna Anderson. They also were convicted of an abortive plot to murder her husband.

The story had everything: religion, sex and murder in mid-America. Henry Winkler, Dick Clark and Zev Braun signed various members of the case, and other producers and agents sought rights from reporters and other sources.

The winner was Zev Braun. His four-hour movie, "Murder Ordained," starring Keith Carradine and JoBeth Williams, appeared on CBS on May 3 and 5.

"I think 36 producers, networks and agents went after the story," Braun said. "I was intrigued by the figure of John Rule, the state trooper who investigated the wife's murder. I decided: Let's tell the story from the point of view of Gary Cooper, the upright man fighting evil in a small town. So I made a contract with Rule and moved ahead. Now the others have dropped out because we got there first."

Getting there first is all-important in the real-life movie trade. No one knows that better than producer David Permut.

"My approach to securing rights is: I make one phone call and then I'm on a plane," said Permut, 33, who started his business career when he was a 15-year-old selling maps to the movie stars' homes on the curb of his parents' Bel-Air home.

His projects have included: "Changing Habits," a TV movie in which a San Francisco madam was sentenced by a judge to spend time in a convent; "Fighting Back," a feature with Tom Skerritt as a New Jersey deli owner who runs into trouble when he organizes anti-crime vigilantes; "Palm Beach," a future Disney movie with Bette Midler as the Florida socialite who found a Venezuelan freighter in her swimming pool.

"There are some subjects that don't appeal to me. Like 'The Billionaire Boys Club.' I had talked with a couple of members, but my real problem with the story was how to deal with a bunch of spoiled rich kids breaking the law," he said.

The Billionaire Boys Club, whose leader Joe Hunt was sentenced to life in prison earlier this month for murder, will be portrayed in a four-hour NBC movie produced by Donald March. Judd Nelson has been cast as Hunt.

Singer Considers Special Olympians Role Models

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — This is not an Olympic year, but 4,700 athletes from 70 countries are gathering to run, jump and throw in another compelling sports contest. It's the Special Olympics for the mentally disadvantaged, and the two-hour opening ceremonies will be televised tonight at 9 p.m. EDT on ABC-TV.

Entertainer Barbara Mandrell will be host of the show, joined by Frank Gifford of "ABC Monday Night Football," actor Arnold Schwarzenegger, actress Susan Saint James and talk show host-actress Oprah Winfrey.

"We'll be in the presence of angels here on Earth," Miss Mandrell said in Nashville before leaving for the activities at Notre Dame Stadium in South Bend, Ind. "If they were not with us, they would be in heaven. That's how wonderful, true, genuine and loving they are."

Miss Mandrell has been an active volunteer in the Special Olympics for several years.

"This show is going to be something," she said. "It will be loving, emotional and creatively and gigantically produced."

Other performers scheduled to appear include pop star Whitney Houston, conductor Marvin Hamlisch and the Chinese Acrobats of Beijing.

Former Olympic stars slated to appear include Rafer Johnson, Mary Lou Retton, Bart Conner, Julianne McNamara and Tracee Talavera. Also appearing will be actors John Ritter, Christopher Reeve and Jane Fonda.

The show will include the grand parade featuring the Special Olympics athletes, features on some of them and the "charge to the athletes" by Eunice Kennedy Shriver, chairman and founder of the Special Olympics.

The special will also feature a torch run from Chicago's Soldier Field, where the first games were held, to Notre Dame Stadium. Police officers from each of the 50 states will relay the torch until five Special Olympians finish the run and light the torch.

U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., will then officially declare the games open. The foundation named for his brother, Joseph P. Kennedy, oversees the Special Olympics.

The televised special, taped a day earlier, ends with a fireworks display. A crowd of 60,000 is expected for the opening ceremonies.

Special Olympics is a year-round international sports training program for those with mental retardation. It began in 1968 in Chicago where the first international summer games were held.

Competition begins Aug. 3 and ends Aug. 8.

Miss Mandrell, who starred in her own TV variety show seven years ago, says the special should make for inspiring entertainment.

"They are role models to me," she said about the participants. "It's marvelously inspiring to watch people who have obstacles to overcome. You deal with what you've got and give it your all. It takes courage and bravery and dedication. I'm inspired by people with that kind of guts."

She recalled her participation a few years ago in competition with Special Olympics athletes at an event in Nashville. One contestant showed Abby Mann is an old hand at creating drama from real events, dating back to his Oscar-winning "Judgment at Nuremberg" 25 years ago. Among his other scripts are "The Atlanta Child Murders" and "The Marcus-Nelson Murders," from which the "Kojak" TV series originated.

Although no deal has been cut for an Oliver North story, Mann already has some ideas of how the project should go.

"I see it as a black comedy, something that Stanley Kubrick ('Dr. Strangelove') could do beautifully," he said. "Look, you've got a lawyer who has failed bar exams ... and a beautiful woman who claims she didn't know what was going on but seems to know all the names and numbers. It's great stuff. The best casting I can think of for Ollie North is Jack Nicholson."

Mann's latest project is the McMartin Pre-School child molestation case, now being tried in a Los Angeles courtroom.

Mann and his wife, Myra, did extensive research with many of the case figures, especially former prosecutor Glen Stevens.

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — Oscar-winning director John Huston is recovering after collapsing from emphysema and suffering an attack of pneumonia, his doctors say.

"While he is still seriously ill, his condition overall appears improved," his doctors at Charlton Memorial Hospital and family members said in a statement Sunday.
