Council Endorses Brook Valley Annexation

By DON REUTER
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville City Council has approved a resolution of intent to annex 583 acres, including Brook Valley subdivision, and set a public hearing on the annexation for Nov. 23.

At their monthly meeting Thursday night, council members also accepted a draft Brook Valley report establishing target dates for annexation proceedings.

The effective date of annexation is scheduled for Dec. 31, 1988, according to the schedule. The timetable also targets Oct. 20 through Oct. 23 as dates for first notification to all property owners to be postmarked and mailed. An annexation report, annexation map and property owners list would be put on file in the City Clerk's office at that time.

In conjunction with Brook Valley annexation efforts, council members approved a contract document between the city and Eastern Pines Volunteer Fire Department.

According to the contract, the city will pay the fire department a lump sum of $27,299 in the event of the annexation.

The compensation is designed to cover a proportionate share of payments due on debt in existence at the time of the resolution of intent to annex on facilities and equipment for rural fire protection.

"In lieu of a stream of payments to be made by the city in annual installments on the proportionate share of payments due, Eastern Pines has elected a lump sum payment equal to the net present value of the stream of payments using a discount factor of 6 percent," the contract said.

The agreement is subject to approval by the Local Government Commission.

Meanwhile, the panel unanimously approved the annexation of Bedford subdivision, sections II and III, which will add approximately 49 acres to the city's jurisdiction with total estimated annual revenues of $82,071 at full development.

The annexation will require $9,078 in total estimated annual expenses, according to Bobby Roberson, director of planning and community development.

Council members voted 4-2 in favor of an ordinance extending the city's extraterritorial jurisdiction to encompass an area to the south and west of the existing extraterritorial boundary, behind Carolina East Mall.

Prior to the vote, Rebecca Davenport, an affected property owner, said she needed clarification on the impact of the extension.

Greenville City Attorney Mac Carley said Mrs. Davenport would be required to meet the city's zoning and subdivision requirements in accordance with the extension.

Council members Bill Hadden, Inez Fridley, Ed Carter and Nancy Jenkins voted in favor of the extension. Council members Janice Buck and Lorraine Shinn dissented, saying the vote should be taken after Mrs. Davenport was better informed about the consequences.

The council approved, by a 4-2 margin, a request to rezone the Greenville Utilities Commission (See COUNCIL, A-8)

Report Cites UNC Athletes' Progress

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
Associated Press Writer

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Student-athletes in the University of North Carolina system continue to make academic progress, especially in preparation for college and graduation rates, according to a UNC report released Thursday.

One criticism in the report focused on graduation rates over a five-year period for the football team at East Carolina University, reported at 5 percent as opposed to a 23 percent rate for the previous entering freshman class.

East Carolina also was cited for the percentage of entering freshmen for football and men's basketball who scored below 700 on the combined Scholastic Aptitude Test. In the fall of 1985, ECU reported 48 percent of freshman scored below 700, while the rate at North Carolina State was 42 percent and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill recorded a 41 percent rate.

The report showed that 21 percent of ECU's entering freshmen for football and men's basketball this fall scored below 700 on the SAT. All freshmen football and men's basketball players at both N.C. State and UNC-CH scored above 700.

Pam Penland, ECU assistant athletic director for academic affairs, said the report does not reflect changes which have been made to improve the record for student-athletes.

"What was happening at that point and what is happening today is two different things," Ms. Penland said in a telephone interview. "There are

U.S. KOs Iranian Gunboats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said today that U.S. forces in the Persian Gulf acted correctly when they knocked out three Iranian boats after being fired on, in what the Pentagon said was the first direct attack by Iran on American forces.

"Our men are not required to be hit before they respond," Weinberger told an international conference sponsored by the U.S. Information Agency.

No Americans were injured or killed in the Thursday night fighting, which began when a group of four Iranian gunboats opened fire without warning on a U.S. observation helicopter that Weinberger said was "on normal patrol" in the northern gulf.

The confrontation ended when Army attack helicopter strafed and disabled three of the Iranian boats, sinking one. The Navy rescued six Iranian crewmen from the gulf's waters, but two of them subsequently died. One of the survivors suffered serious injuries, Weinberger said.

The Pentagon initially said three boats were sunk, but Weinberger said at daylight, it was discovered that two were dead in the water, but still afloat.

"The visual sighting last night, to the extent that it could be done, indicated that three had been sunk... This morning we found the two... totally disabled and took them in tow, and have them under control. And we'll be examining them fairly closely," Weinberger said.

The confrontation marked the first time Iranian military forces had opened fire on a U.S. ship or aircraft. An American helicopter gunship on Sept. 21 disabled the minelayer Iran Ajr that later was scuttled by U.S. authorities. But that vessel was attacked after it was detected laying mines and it never fired at U.S. aircraft.

Weinberger denied assertions by Iran that U.S. forces had fired first in the latest incident, but acknowledged the United States could not prove that.

"We don't have the absolutely conclusive evidence that we did when (Iranian crew) men were seen pushing mines into the sea," he said, referring to mines found aboard the Iran Ajr and in nearby waters, and to testimony from crewmen.

In a separate incident, Weinberger said another U.S. military helicopter flying in the southern gulf on Thursday reported gunshots being fired from an Iranian oil rig. In that case, however, he said it was unclear whether the Iranians were firing at the Americans and the helicopter left the area without returning fire.

Meanwhile, the Pentagon today denied an Iranian claim that its forces had shot down an American helicopter and damaged a Navy ship.

"We have no warships damaged and we have no helicopters missing," said Lt. Cmdr. Chris Baumann, a Pentagon spokesman.

Thursday's fighting left the Reagan administration bracing itself for new demands by Congress that it invoke the War Powers Act, a law that would allow Congress to decide whether the U.S. military presence in the gulf should be reduced.

"I think the president is making a very, very bad mistake by not bringing this thing up," Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., a member of the House Armed Services Committee.

"He would clearly get the vote in both houses of Congress to keep the forces there. I think it would strengthen his hand. I think it would send the right signal to Iran," Aspin said in an interview on NBC's "Today" show.

Weinberger said the administration still saw no need to invoke the act.

Pentagon spokesman Fred Hoffman, appearing at a Pentagon briefing, said Thursday's encounter occurred at 9:50 p.m. local time or 2:50 p.m. EDT. It began when a lone U.S. observation helicopter approached the Iranian patrol boats in the northern gulf, about 15 miles southwest of the Iranian-controlled island of Farsi.

SIGNING A BALL — Former major league pitcher Gaylord Perry autographs a baseball at the annual Gaylord Perry Appreciation Day luncheon at the home of W.M. "Booger" Scales Thursday. Perry is the only man to win the coveted Cy Young Award in both the American and National leagues as baseball's top pitcher.

Exploration Crew Tests East N.C.

By TONY BROWN

A Texas oil and gas exploration firm has completed preliminary research in the Greenville area and is now checking potential sites between New Bern and Kinston.

But Tony Boling of McAlester, Okla., a spokesman for the Digicon crew, cautioned eastern North Carolina not to expect quick riches from the exploration work.

"This is strictly research and we don't drill wells," Boling said. "At most in the near future the oil company might put down a couple of test holes. Any deposits found in this area would almost surely be relatively small and would probably be considered as strictly reserves."

Although Boling said he had no idea whether the research would prove fruitful, he noted that Pennsylvania was once the scene of extensive oil fields, saying, "I don't see why there couldn't be some oil or gas here."

Brian Gay, a geologist with Carolina Benchmark Inc. of Greenville, was dubious about the odds of finding oil nearby, however.

"It's not very likely that oil would be found here," he said. "If they found anything, it would be gas."

Boling said the Digicon crew, working out of Houston, is under contract to a "major oil firm" to get readings from eastern North Carolina.

He said the workmen — known as "doodle-buggers" — have already completed exploration projects in

Perry Feted At Annual Luncheon

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan and N.C. Attorney General Lacy Thornburg headed the list of guests for the annual Gaylord Perry Appreciation Day luncheon staged at the home of W.M. "Booger" Scales on Pinecrest Drive Thursday.

The event was billed as the 14th Perry Day celebration. But Scales admitted to reporters that the luncheon was actually the 13th annual event honoring Perry, the only man to win the coveted Cy Young Award in both the American and National leagues as baseball's top pitcher. "I'm so superstitious," Scales said.

Perry, who graduated from high school in Williamston and who began his major league pitching career in 1962 with the San Francisco Giants, retired — after stints with Cleveland, Texas, San Diego, the New York Yankees, Atlanta, Seattle and the Kansas City Royals — at the end of

Study Pinpoints Run-Down Areas

By DON REUTER
Reflector Staff Writer

Three west Greenville neighborhoods have an inordinate number of run-down houses and need revitalization grants, according to a Community Development Needs Study presented to the City Council Thursday night.

"Three areas in west Greenville have concentrated needs along with significant numbers of severely deteriorated units, and thus have potential for competing for Community Development Block Grant Funds," the report prepared by Talbert, Cox & Associates Inc. said.

The study identified the Pitt Street area surrounding West Third Street as Area A, and gave it top priority in the pursuit of CDBG funds. The Bonners Lane and Clark Street section in the Pitt Street neighborhood was identified as Area B.

The Higgs neighborhood section containing Chestnut Street and Columbia and Pennsylvania avenues was identified as Area C.

The report also classified the dwellings into four categories, including minor/non-need, moderately deteriorated, severely deteriorated and dilapidated.

Minor/non-need structures require very little improvement, such as storm windows, storm doors or ordinary maintenance and are otherwise standard.

Moderately deteriorated structures are "basically sound but contain structural or standards violations which can be corrected without major structural rehabilitation. Examples of such problems include needing weatherization, loose siding or cured shingles."

The study defines severely deteriorated as "structures which contain major structural and major standards violations. These could include obvious defects to

A one-hour presentation on geology was given to the school's five third grade classes. The presentation consisted of a demonstration of the various rock groups of the earth, fossils from eastern North Carolina, minerals and how they react to light, and a chalkboard talk on the origin of rocks and the recent earthquake in California.

The students, who represented the Earth Science Honor Society of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, were Mark Ouimette, Keith Marsil, Jeff Johnson and David Clark.

Road Sign Grant

A grant of $46,900 from the Governor's Highway Safety Program will be used to buy road name signs for secondary roads in Pitt County, a spokesman said.

The funds will pay for white-on-green signs bearing the number and road name which should make it easier to identify county roads, the spokesman said.

The funding represents 70 percent of the cost of the signs, with the county providing the remaining 30 percent.

The GHSP has funded similar road signing programs in 43 counties since the program began in 1980.

DOT Funds Project

The N.C. Department of Transportation today approved the allocation of $38,000 in access and public service road funds for improvements on a section of state road 1110 in southern Pitt County.

The funding, which will be used to construct turn lanes and strengthen and resurface the road from N.C. 11 to the proposed new Weyerhaeuser Co. plant between Ayden and Grifton, was approved at monthly meeting of the NCDOT.

"This was done in conjunction with the location of the new facility," NCDOT board member Randy Doub said. "We're pleased to be able to allocate these funds in order to help with the location of this new industry for Pitt County."

The school's office of student teaching and field experiences said most of the selected student teachers reported to classrooms Oct. 1.

The student teaching assignment process began with a Sept. 8 meeting of all fall semester student teachers. A student teaching seminar was conducted prior to reporting to the classrooms.

While in the public schools, student teachers will observe the public school calendar, ECU officials said. The final day of the fall semester is Dec. 16.

Hannan said the figure represents the best employment rate Pitt County has enjoyed in the past 15 months, with a further seasonal increase expected for September and October.

The spokesman said the state rate increased from 95.3 percent to 95.8 percent during the period, while the federal rate rose from 94 percent to 94.2 percent.

Hannan said the input of the figures is greater than the fractional percentages considering that the labor force in Pitt County has increased steadily for the past ten

Highway Politics

The question mark surrounding the fate of Greenville's Evans Street and Arlington Boulevard transportation projects smacks of political battling between a Republican executive branch and a Democratic legislature.

If that is the case, these projects — and other important ones across the state that appear in jeopardy — should not be used as bait for partisan squabbling. The Department of Transportation should rethink its position on these projects.

The Republican-controlled DOT would have the public believe a remote clause in the 1987 Highway Bill — passed by a Democrat-dominated General Assembly — forced it to shelve $50 million in road improvements, including the $7.2 million earmarked for Greenville. But in fact, it is DOT's interpretation of this clause that canceled the funding. A DOT policy set criteria for complying with the legislation and on funding. The evaluation of current and proposed projects — and the subsequent rejection of some projects — was based on these in-house guidelines.

The issue is one of urban versus rural highway needs. The legislation was passed to keep large metropolitan areas from procuring the lion's share of highway funding. It was also likely proposed to break a Republican executive branch's agenda for increased roadbuilding in the state's large metropolitan areas.

Before, municipalities could speed projects and draw funds to larger metro areas by securing right of way acquisition for major projects. This trend drew money away from smaller urban areas like Greenville or rural areas with equally pressing transportation needs. The exclusion of cities from participating in right of way funding was an effort to curb this practice.

Some type of stop gap measure was needed until long-term highway funding priorities can be established by an independent task force scheduled to convene this fall. The highway bill clause effectively accomplished this. It is doubtful, however, the legislation was meant to squelch those projects currently in progress or those already designated for funding.

The DOT should re-examine its unfair policy interpretation of the highway bill clause and fund those projects in process and on the drawing board. Evans Street and Arlington Boulevard are vital thoroughfares for Greenville. They provide critical links with downtown, East Carolina University and the regional Eastern Carolina Medical Park.

The two, and other, projects across the state should not be threatened by faulty interpretation of a bill meant only to equalize the distribution of road funds. Neither should they be the victims of party line fighting by either Democrats or Republicans.

Heavy Dollars

Put heavy duty linings in your pockets, folks ... the one dollar coin may soon be back.

Silver dollars were once a mainstay of American currency. That, however, was in a time when a dollar bought something. Gradually the dollar coin faded as Americans found it took more and more dollars to purchase anything. The folding kind of dollar made more sense. Four paper dollars can be passed to the cashier easier than the metallic kind.

In 1979 the Susan B. Anthony dollar coin was introduced with much fanfare. It bombed. The public simply didn't see the need for a dollar coin except in areas such as Las Vegas where the coins are needed to operate slot machines.

Coin operated machines, however, may be the thing that brings back the dollar coin. As cost of things dispensed by vending machines inches up it is not difficult to foresee the time when a dollar will be required to operate the machines. Thus the need for the coins.

At any rate, a bill has been introduced in Congress to mint a new coin to be gold in color but made of 90 percent copper. Proponents are attempting to sell the idea of a dollar coin with the savings it would bring about. They say paper dollars only last 18 months in circulation, while the coins will last 20 years. The savings to the government was placed at $50 million annually. Proponents also say the coins are more readily identified by the visually handicapped.

Canada has a new dollar coin introduced in July. Australia, England, Norway and Japan have coins equivalent to our dollar.

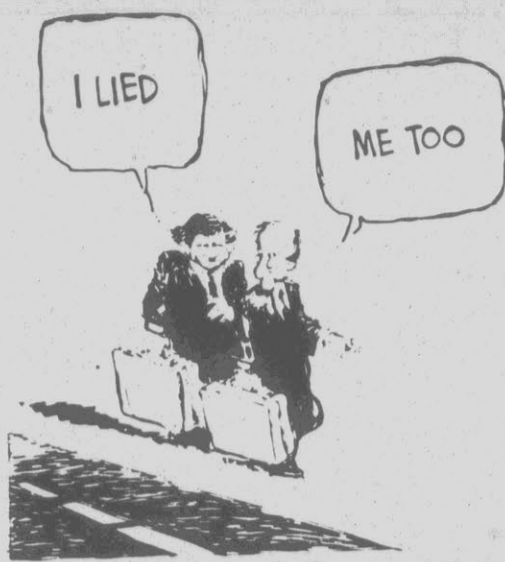

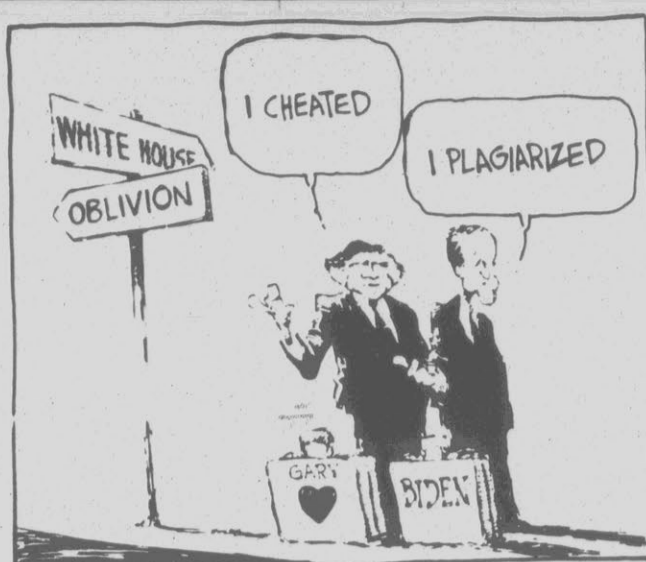

There are still 500 million Anthony coins stored in vaults around the country. One of the reasons they failed is that they looked too much like a quarter.

The new coin, in addition to having a distinctive color, would bear the likeness of Christopher Columbus.

There should be no more boondoggles like the Anthony dollar coin. Americans face more change in a year now than their ancestors faced in a lifetime. Thus they cling to some things which remain the same. Certainly one is their money.

A dollar coin may be necessary in this era of coin operated vending. The foremost task will be convincing the public to use it.

Media Madness Is Not The Disease

WASHINGTON — With the sudden and unexpected demise of the Gary Hart and Joe Biden presidential campaigns, the role of the press in the election process once again is thrust front and center as an issue.

The candidates' supporters protest that they've seen media portrayals of their candidates that have little resemblance to the men they know. Others decry the attention to the candidates' past and private lives as opposed to their positions on the issues. Some question by what right the media set themselves up as judges of the candidates: "Who elected you?" they ask.

As if that weren't enough, Everette Dennis, executive director of the Gannett Center for Media Studies, has weighed in with an article titled "The Press as Moral Teacher," in which he states that "the media are, in fact, monitoring and enforcing American values." Now, there's a charge that will make your average reporter or editor shiver and reach for the gin bottle. Most newspapers don't want to be players in the drama, although we know that the media are as much a part of the political system as the polling places. The problem is that the media often can't just be neutral purveyors of information. Either we're charged with going too far or we have self-doubts that we did enough.

If Hart and Biden want to identify the real villains of their public immolations, they don't have to look any farther than the factors that have contributed to the weakening of the political parties. These include the New Deal, which federalized welfare programs that many urban machines had provided; television, which made it possible for candidates to bypass the party machinery; and the Democratic Party reformers who, after the 1968 convention, were determined to take the system away from the bosses in the smoke-filled rooms and open it to everyone — the young, minorities, women, the poor.

The result is that the candidate-screening process has become public, often conducted on nationwide network television. And when the screening is perceived to be on character and morality, a red flag goes up in a lot of minds about the screening institution — the press.

Many people misunderstood the Hart and Biden cases because they don't understand their context. Hart's womanizing and Biden's tendency to shoot from the hip were well known in political and press circles, which thus weren't as surprised as the public when the cases blew up so suddenly and dramatically. In the old days, these matters of inner knowledge used to be worked out behind closed doors. Now it's done in public, like the hangings in London in days gone by. It's far more brutal, and in many instances the results aren't nearly as satisfactory.

John Sears, who was a leading strategist for Richard Nixon in 1968 and for Ronald Reagan in 1976 and 1980, has had some experience in these matters.

"Twenty or 25 years ago when we didn't have so many primaries, the press didn't have to play as active a role as it does today because a lot of people who might think of running for president were really screened out by the party leaders and we never knew the exact reasons," he told reporters recently. This process worked to screen out Sen. Estes Kefauver, another noted womanizer, in 1952, Sears contended.

He said that those same Democratic Party leaders whose support John F. Kennedy needed in 1959 and 1960 had probably gone over the stories of his womanizing with him and "at least gained his verbal assurance or something that he'd toe the line a lot better, and if he'd show that he was single-minded about the office and that he knew this was serious business they agreed to go ahead and support him. ... Now nobody has the power to make such a conversation meaningful."

The party leaders also can often interrogate the candidates more effectively on issues. Sears recalls accompanying Nixon in 1968 to seek the support of Billy Meehan, the Republican boss of Philadelphia.

"Meehan says, 'Hey, Dick, what are you going to do about this Vietnam War?'" Sears recalled. "Nixon started to say the same thing he'd said in public, and Meehan says, 'No, no, no. I don't mean that s---! I mean, what are you going to do?' And Nixon says, well, when he got in he was going to try to get the troop commitment down, begin to pull the troops out and make the Air Force and Navy carry more of the load so he could make a settlement. I never heard him ever say that in public, but that's what he did. You couldn't lie to Billy Meehan because he knew enough about the game to know what was baloney."

Bork: The Battle Of Interest Groups

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sidestream issue in the debate about seating Robert H. Bork on the Supreme Court centers on the role special interest groups play in such cases.

It makes one wonder whether the Founding Fathers considered precisely just how people would band together to talk directly to their government.

Why didn't the drafters of the Constitution consider the notion of making the Declaration of Independence guarantee "the ability to be heard" along with "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness"? Or was all that implicit anyhow?

Such mind-wrenching over people's intentions is, in fact, a part of the argument about how Bork would interpret the Constitution.

A question of far less sophistication is whether, for the purpose of clarity in debate, the White House should have spelled out how it defines "special interest groups," as opposed to "grass-roots organizations."

Take these slices of White House rhetoric in recent weeks, and consider for yourself:

Sept. 25 — White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said "liberal special interest groups are producing slick, shrill advertising campaigns that not only purposely distort the judge's record, they play on people's emotions as only propaganda campaigns can."

Sept. 25 — President Reagan took exception to talk by "certain interest groups" to the effect that Bork would undermine people's civil liberties.

Sept. 28 — Fitzwater accused members of the Senate Judiciary Committee of "appealing to special interests" and allowing them to sponsor "a special interest-led public referendum on this issue."

Later in the same briefing, Fitzwater talked of advertising campaigns run by "public interest groups" who make "all sorts of wild and unsubstantiated charges."

Sept. 30 — Fitzwater, describing the make-up of an audience gathered to hear Reagan talk up the Bork nomination, listed such organizations as the Conservative Alliance, Cuban-American Women's Foundation and the Christian Action Council.

"I would describe these as grass roots supporters," he said, "These are for the most part citizen action groups."

Sept. 30 — Reagan, appearing before the "grass-roots" supporters, talked of endorsements for Bork by the American Farm Bureau Federation, Concerned Women of America and law enforcement organizations representing over 400,000 officers.

But he also said, "I do not believe the United States will succumb to allowing the special interests to choose Supreme Court members," as if the only influence senators were experiencing was coming from Bork's opponents.

Oct. 3 — In his weekly radio address, Reagan maintained that "liberal special interest groups seek to politicize the court system."

If Bork has suffered in the high-strung debate of recent weeks, then, so has the English language.

Strength For Today

A fable has come down to us explaining how the birds got their wings. It seems that at first God gave the birds wings as burdens, and told the birds to carry them as such. And they obeyed and carried them at their sides. But behold, the time came when the burdens were changed to wings. What had formerly held them down to earth now lifted them to heaven.

This fanciful story sets forth a great truth. If we bear our burdens patiently they become wings. When at first they were laid upon the heart, they seemed so heavy that they would break the person who was compelled to carry them. At last, to the surprise of the bearers, the burdens became pinions and took them soaring to ethereal heights.

Misfortunes, sorrow, losses — we think of them as burdens. God often means them to be regarded as wings.

Conflict Charges Denied

Environmentalists Say Rules Relaxed On Coastal Waters

RALEIGH (AP) — The state Environmental Management Commission says new rules for curbing coastal runoff will reduce water pollution, but environmentalists say the new regulations are a step backward.

"We're not happy, to say the least," Todd Miller, director of the N.C. Coastal Federation, said after the meeting Thursday. "It's really an across-the-board lowering of the protection for coastal waters."

Commission officials on Thursday also denied vigorously claims that some commission members had potential conflicts of interest in the issue.

S. Thomas Rhodes, secretary of the N.C. Department of Natural Resources and Community Development, said the Coastal Federation had sunk to a "new low" and had spread lies and innuendos in raising the conflict-of-interest issue.

Although the new rules will be less stringent than existing controls in some areas, commission members said the changes would reduce water pollution overall by expanding storm runoff controls to all lands in 20 coastal counties.

The rules, which take effect Jan. 1, regulate large developments that can increase runoff by preventing water from soaking into the ground. Storm-water runoff can flush sediments, bacteria and other pollutants into nearby waters.

"These recommendations are technically defensible," commission member Virgil McBride said at the meeting in Southern Pines. This will at least give us a very good start in storm-water regulation. This is not to say the case is closed."

The Coastal Federation had urged four commission members to abstain from voting on the issue because of potential conflicts of interest. Three of those members voted in favor of the new rules and one abstained.

"There's no conflict of interest on this commission," Rhodes said after the meeting. "It was obvious that instead of just talking about the issue, they decided to attack the commission. . . . I think that was just a subterfuge to keep us from dealing with the real issues."

Miller said: "I don't know of any lies. I think we raised the issue. We're not attacking them personally, but asking whether it's appropriate for them to be involved in these issues."

Larry D. Fitzpatrick, a member of the Onslow County Board of Commissioners, was the only commissioner to abstain from voting. He cited his ownership of a development near Sneads Ferry as the reason for not voting.

The other three commission members in question defended their decisions to vote on the issue.

"I did vote, because I was in favor of it," said Terry Turner, a contractor from Wrightsville Beach. I believe that if I didn't vote on this one, I would have had to lay down on a lot of other issues that will come up."

Robert W. Griffith Jr., a marine contractor and developer from Morehead City, said he was not involved with any projects that would need storm-runoff permits. Although he owns part of an Atlantic Beach condominium complex, he said that development already had all necessary permits.

"I searched my soul long and hard as to how there might be any conflict of interest on my part," Griffith said. "I found none. . . . There's no way I'm going to derive benefits from these storm-water regulations."

IN THE STATE

Infant Deaths

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's infant death rate edged lower again last year, continuing a long-term improvement still marred by high rates of death among black babies, statistics showed.

The overall death rate for the state's babies declined from 12 to 11.6 per thousand live births. Among black babies the rate also declined — from 17.5 to 16.6 deaths per thousand — but still was almost double the 1986 rate of 9.3 for whites.

North Carolina's improvement still leaves the state with an infant death rate significantly worse than the national average, which was 10.4 deaths per thousand in 1986. The 1985 national rate had been slightly higher at 10.6 per thousand.

Illumination

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The Old Well at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill will be illuminated permanently through a gift by the school's class of 1988, officials announced Thursday.

The ceremonial lighting of the campus landmark will be held University Day, Monday, at 9 p.m. during an official dedication. The lighting system, designed and installed by the UNC-CH Physical Plant in cooperation with the gift committee, will be light-activated, illuminating the Old Well daily at nightfall.

UNC Speaker

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Terry Sanford, D-N.C., will be the featured speaker on Monday at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill's University Day, school officials said Thursday.

The event commemorates UNC-CH's 194th birthday and the laying of the cornerstone of Old East dormitory on the same date in 1793.

Containers

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina State University has proposed a new center for research on food-processing techniques and containers that are cheaper, take less energy to produce and require less room in landfills.

Kenneth Swartzel, NCSU associate professor of food science and prospective director of the center, predicted Wednesday its studies would develop ways of processing and packaging foods that would make them safer and more economical.

"The food industry is the biggest industry in our country, any way you want to measure it, and it's under a state of flux right now as far as the use of new technologies," he said.

Satellite Jail

FOUR OAKS, N.C. (AP) — A Superior Court judge has ruled that Johnston County can open a temporary jail in Four Oaks despite community opposition.

"We've done all we could do," Four Oaks Mayor Jack P. Austin said Thursday, referring to the town's unsuccessful legal battle to prevent the opening of the satellite jail in a refurbished gymnasium. "What else could we do?"

Town officials had sought an injunction in Harnett County Superior Court to halt the jail's opening. The town also had filed a lawsuit charging that the county had no right to turn the gymnasium into a jail because it lacked a town permit for renovations and because the area is not zoned for prison use.

Warehouse Files Suit Over Losses

By The Associated Press
Owners of a Wilson tobacco warehouse that was destroyed last year in a fire have charged in a lawsuit that their insurance companies have illegally refused to pay for fire losses.

The cause of fire remains under investigation.

The suit, filed by the owners of the Liberty Warehouse, says that insurers have denied them a fair settlement even though no evidence of intentional burning was found in connection with the fire.

Filed last month in Pitt County Superior Court, the suit accuses the N.C. Joint Underwriting Association of breaching a contract, acting in bad faith and engaging in unfair trade practices.

The suit seeks $810,000 in damages and asks for a ruling that would triple that amount.

Marvin P. Wilson Jr., association manager, declined to comment on the suit.

Liberty Warehouse, a five-acre building on U.S. 301 that had been Wilson's largest tobacco warehouse, was leveled in a fire Oct. 3, 1986. The operation was later moved to another building in Wilson.

Power Agency To Buy In S.C.

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Eastern Municipal Power Agency will buy extra power for its members from a South Carolina power company at a lower rate than it now pays, officials say.

The move, approved by the agency's board of directors at a special meeting Wednesday, reduces the amount of power it purchases from Carolina Power & Light Co.

The agency has purchased 15 megawatts of electricity from the S.C. Public Service Authority for the period beginning Dec. 1 and lasting through 1990. Another 77 megawatts has been bought for 1991-93.

The purchase will provide about 1 1/2 percent of agency members' power needs through 1990 and about 6 1/2 percent through 1993, said Bill Wemhoff, director of engineering for ElectricCities, the administrative arm of NCEMPA.

He said the new purchase is expected to save the agency $16 million, which with interest could reach $23.2 million.

But the savings will not reduce power rates, Wilson City Manager Cyrus Brooks said. Instead, the savings will be put into a rate stabilization fund to keep the agency's rates competitive with CP&L's when the agency's debt service payments rise dramatically, said Rebecca Wilkie, ElectricCities rates administrator.

Air Force Plane Crashes In Dare

STUMPY POINT, N.C. (AP) — An Air Force jet with two crewmen on board crashed at the Dare County bombing range, and the fate of the two crewmen was unknown this morning, Air Force officials said.

The F-4E Phantom II was on a night-training mission Thursday when it crashed about 7:45 p.m., said John Stricklin of Seymour Johnson Air Base in Goldsboro, where the plane was based.

Airman 1st Class Andrew Gates said today there was no additional word on the crewmen and that the cause of the crash was unknown.

Lt. Peter Virok of the Fifth District Coast Guard Office in Portsmouth, Va., said a Coast Guard helicopter crew spotted a burned area 200 to 300 yards long in a swamp near the Alligator River after the crash.

UNC Researcher Gets $750,000 Grant

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The National Institute of Drug Abuse has awarded $750,000 to a University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill researcher who is trying to learn how various combinations of alcohol and illicit drugs affect humans, school officials announced Thursday.

Dr. Mario Perez-Reyes, professor of psychiatry at the UNC School of Medicine, received the five-year grant to conduct a series of experiments in which volunteers will take drugs under careful medical supervision and then will be tested for changes in coordination and alertness.

Besides alcohol, drugs will include marijuana, cocaine and amphetamines.

In the experiments, paid volunteers will take tests that are similar to video games while under the influence of the combinations of drugs.

The scientists also will monitor each subject's heart rate and blood pressure and measure the concentration of drugs in the subject's blood plasma, Perez-Reyes said.

Mother Is Released

BOSTON (AP) — A woman jailed for six months for refusing to divulge the whereabouts of her 8-year-old daughter has won her demand for an investigation of her claim that her ex-husband sexually abused the girl, a judge says.

Virginia LaLonde, 41, was released Thursday after her daughter, Nicole, was returned from North Carolina by the authorities.

The child was found in Durham, N.C., last week after a baby sitter notified authorities. She had been hidden by an underground network of women who protect children they believe have been abused, police said.

Mrs. LaLonde had no comment as she left prison in Framingham, but gave interviews to reporters later.

"I want to see my child very much or talk to her, but I'll leave it in the hands of the therapist for now," she said. "I'm still very scared about Stephen," referring to her former husband, Stephen LaLonde.

Her attorney, Beth Herr, said she considered the woman a "heroine" who "has served more time in jail than most sexual offenders."

Probate Judge Haskell Freedman in Cambridge said the child was taken by police to a hospital "somewhere in Massachusetts" Thursday and would be examined for evidence of sexual abuse.

"The investigation will start, and when the investigators file their report, there will be a custody hearing," Freedman said. "We're giving (Mrs. LaLonde) what she wants."

Bakkers Are Ready To Return

FORT MILL, S.C. (AP) — PTL founders Jim and Tammy Bakker say they would welcome an invitation to return and "restore our baby," the evangelical empire, now that the Rev. Jerry Falwell has quit as chairman and taken his board of directors with him.

"I think if a child had a need, I would call the father and mother to help with that need," Bakker said Thursday.

Falwell, who took over PTL after Bakker's downfall in a sex and hush-money scandal, announced Thursday that he and the nine other board members could not stay as long as there was a chance Bakker might return and make the TV ministry "what it was — the greatest scab and cancer on the face of Christianity in 2,000 years."

The resignations were prompted by a bankruptcy court ruling Wednesday allowing PTL creditors and contributors to file a competing plan for reorganizing the ministry, which is more than $60 million in debt, Falwell said.

That ruling, it was felt, left the door open to a comeback by Bakker.

Falwell predicted after his resignation that within six months, "barring a miracle of God," Bakker would be back in control of the empire he founded and lost.

Bakker said during a news conference with his wife at their mountaintop retreat near Gatlinburg, Tenn., that he would return if invited by PTL's creditors. "We want to help in any way to restore our baby," he said.

Bakker said he thought Falwell was resigning to avoid testifying under oath in bankruptcy court.

"If they tell the truth they they will have to reveal that they plotted to steal PTL," said Bakker, who contends he gave Falwell only temporary safekeeping of PTL in March after admitting a 1980 sexual encounter with church secretary Jessica Hahn.

Falwell, who in resigning called the PTL scandal "the Watergate of evangelical Christianity," asked PTL's 1,200 employees to stay on and said its main TV program, the "PTL Club," will remain on the air at least three weeks.

Later, he said he will meet with creditors' attorneys or his successor to allow an orderly transition, but he ruled out any return, saying he and the board, in resigning, weren't "issuing any ultimatum or putting on dramatics."

The resignations are subject to the approval of U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Rufus Reynolds, who has overseen the reorganization since June. Falwell said the resignations will be submitted to Reynolds as soon as possible.

Reynolds on Thursday would not say what would happen next in the PTL case, but noted that a trustee could be appointed to oversee the ministry.

The board's last act, Falwell said, was to return a clause to the ministry's bylaws giving the Assemblies of God church the authority to name a new board. The measure is subject to approval from Reynolds.

Falwell said the board wanted to avoid having the religious organization put in the hands of a layman trustee.

In Springfield, Mo., Assemblies of God spokeswoman Juleen Turnage said the church had no idea the board was going to propose giving the church such authority.

"We don't know what we'd do," she said. "We're just very surprised and shocked at all of the developments of today. At this point it's just up in the air as to what would be done and what will be done by the judge."

New York Probes Price Structure For AZT

NEW YORK (AP) — The high cost of AZT, the only federally approved drug for treating AIDS, has been defended by its manufacturer after a hearing in which warnings were voiced about the potential for price-gouging.

AZT, or azidothymidine, was the subject of a legislative committee hearing Thursday that included strong words from Richard Kessel, executive director of the state Consumer Protection Board.

"If AZT is improperly priced, the state is being ripped off as well as the United States," Kessel said. "New York state is prepared to do something about this."

Kessel said he "would not have any reticence in going after either the manufacturer or retailer" if price-gouging is found.

But Kathy Bartlett, a spokesman for the manufacturer, Burroughs Wellcome Co., said the cost of the drug, marketed as Retrovir, "is based upon the extraordinarily high cost of producing it." The drug is produced at Burroughs Wellcome's plant in Greenville, N.C.

The company, based in Research Triangle, N.C., did not send a representative to the hearing because, she said, previous testimony before Congress covered the areas in question.

"We indicated to (the committee) that about one fifth of research and development are related to Retrovir. We have committed more than $80 million for plant expansion and for raw material costs," she said.

The federal government granted the company a more than 70 percent tax credit because AZT is considered an orphan drug, or one that few companies would attempt to develop, said Kessel and Jerrold Nadler, chairman of the Assembly's Committee on Consumer Affairs and Protection, who co-chaired the hearing.

The consumer board's latest survey, taken in September, found that pharmacists were charging $700 to $1,300 for a month's supply: 360 pills.

They estimated, as did the president of St. Clare's Hospital and Health Center which treats AIDS patients, that AZT costs each patient $8,000 to $10,000 a year.

Nadler said the company has agreed to discuss how it arrives at its price with him and board members in a few weeks.

"Unless I get some definite answers directly from Burroughs Wellcome," Kessel said in an interview, "I must assume the price is inappropriate."

Kessel said it was possible the state could pursue the cost issue under current price-gouging laws that make it illegal to take advantage of an emergency situation, such as the AIDS epidemic.

Other options would be to question whether Medicaid should pay AZT claims or to amend current legislation and have pharmacies display the cost of AZT so that consumers could do comparison shopping easily.

Pharmacists testifying at the hearing said one reason prices rise between factory and consumer is that druggists don't get paid promptly by some insurance companies.

Richard Yezzo, the president of St. Clare's, which operates the Spellman Center for HIV-Related (or AIDS-related) Disease, complained in his testimony that because Medicaid had said in April that it would pay for AZT, it "was effectively sanctioning the actions of the Burroughs Wellcome Co. in establishing the cost of the drug."

"There is little or no incentive for Burroughs Wellcome, or any other company, to consider making these drugs available at a more reasonable cost, even if that means less profit for the company," Yezzo said.

Rice Can Be Used In Crafts For Children

By ROSALIE TROTMAN
Reflector Lifestyle Editor

A different approach to using rice — as a craft idea for children was suggested by Amy Lloyd, a home economist with the Rice Council of America in Houston, Texas.

"Simply dye the rice using food coloring and water and spread on cookie sheets to dry. It can then be glued on construction paper to make pictures. Pages in a coloring book can be filled with the colored rice grains. For younger children, rice bags can be made much like bean bags," she said.

"For a wedding idea, dye and perfume the rice grains before putting them into bags or roses to be distributed to wedding guests," she said.

"I have also heard that you can clean your pearls with rice; however, I haven't tried it because I haven't received a strand of precious pearls yet," said Ms. Lloyd.

"Some different uses of rice people might not be accustomed to are using it in fruit salads, in appetizers and in desserts in addition to rice pudding. The secret for a creamy rice pudding is to use medium or short grain rice," she said.

"Rice has been in the United States for 300 years. It is a staple for over two-thirds of the world's population. In this country, the consumption of rice is at an all-time high of 17½ pounds per capita. There are five reasons we attribute to the rise in popularity: food trends the U.S. are going through including Cajun, Tex-Mex and Oriental; nutritional awareness people are experiencing; economy; versatility, and convenience," said Ms. Lloyd.

"A lot of consumers don't realize that 99 percent of the rice consumed in this country is grown within our borders. Rice is grown in seven states, Arkansas, California, Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, Missouri and Florida," she said.

Rice can be classified into three types and four forms. The types are short, medium and long grain. The differences between the types are the cooking characteristics. Short grain rice is sticky while long grain is separate. The forms of rice are brown, parboiled, regular milled and precooked. "There are four ways of cooking rice, on top of the stove, in the oven, in the microwave or rice cookers," she said.

"Rice was started in South Carolina in 1690. It was loaded aboard a ship traveling from Madagascar to England and the ship was blown off course in a hurricane. The ship landed in Charleston, S.C., where the captain put in for repairs. The colonists living in Charleston helped him with repairs and in gratitude, he gave them some of the rice on board. Within 50 years, the rice, known as Carolina gold, became a major export for the colony," said Ms. Lloyd.

"I've always wanted to teach, but I also love to cook, so it is only natural I combine my two interests and show people how to cook with one of the world's most versatile foods, rice," she said.

Animal Control Officer Cares

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A few years ago, you had a letter in your column that began: "I am your animal control officer ..." Please run it again with your answer. It would be a timely reminder about the proper love and care of animals entrusted to our care. — MILTON BENOIT, TIMBERVILLE, VA.

DEAR MILTON: That letter went up on the bulletin boards of many schools. Thanks for asking. Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: I am your animal control officer. I am not the dreaded "dogcatcher" or the "murderer" you call me.

It is not I who allows your pet to roam the streets, to contract diseases from other free-roaming animals, to be hit by passing motorists or poisoned by rotting garbage. I am the one who must look into those sick, pain-glazed eyes, try to remove the animal without causing it further pain, and then humanely "put it to sleep" to put an end to its suffering.

It is not I who allows your pets to breed, then dumps the unwanted puppies and kittens on roadsides and in shelters. I'm the one who must find the tiny animals before they die of starvation, exposure or disease, and as an act of mercy, exterminate them. It hurts me to be forced to kill hundreds of thousands of animals each year, but because of your irresponsibility, I have no choice.

It is not I who abandons unwanted animals on farm roads, telling myself some friendly farmer will surely take them in and give them a good home. But I am the one who must pick up the frightened animal who waits in vain for its beloved master, wondering why it has been abandoned. I am the one who must help that friendly farmer trap, tranquilize or kill that animal because it has begun to roam in packs with other abandoned hungry animals, killing livestock, fowl and game.

I am not the one who breeds and fights dogs in the name of "sport." But I'm the one who fights the breeders and participants, and must pick up the dead and dying animals that have been left behind.

It is not I who keeps a pet confined in an area too small — without food, water, shelter or exercise. But I must deal with the irresponsible owner who does.

It is not I who refuses to spend the time and money to keep up regular inoculations that all pets require. But I am the one who must pick up the sick animal that is dying of a preventable disease.

So remember, the next time your child is bitten by a stray dog, your trash is dumped and scattered, your pet is lost, stolen, poisoned or hit by a car, it is the animal control officer you call — not the "dogcatcher." The next time your pet is picked up, or you are cited for neglecting or abusing it, remember, I am only trying to get you to fulfill your responsibility to your pet, your neighbor and yourself.

Do not scorn me. Respect me, for I am the product of your irresponsibility. I love animals, and I care. — ANIMAL CONTROL OFFICER

DEAR OFFICER: Thank you for a powerful message that needs to be repeated often.

No pet should be allowed to breed indiscriminately. Please, please have your pet spayed or neutered. And if you have a dollar or two to spare, please send it to your local S.P.C.A. so it can feed and care for all those kittens and puppies a little longer — instead of exterminating them immediately for lack of funds. I love animals, and I care, too.

Career Excites New Teacher

By CINDY WOJDYLA
Joliet Herald News

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — "You always hear teachers tell you never to smile until Thanksgiving."

Doug Cherry tried to follow that advice when classes started recently at Joliet Central High School. It was his first day as a full-fledged teacher.

He called the roll and got his 21 math students seated. And to show he meant business, he launched into the rules and regulations.

"A big part of the class is homework," he said.

He described the quizzes, grading scale and penalties for cheating and tardiness.

"Anything that disrupts the class — I'm not going to put up with it," he said.

Cherry is one of eight instructors with no prior experience hired this year by Joliet Township High Schools District, which employs 310 teachers.

The district doesn't go looking for teachers with no experience, nor does it exclude them, said Harold Miller, assistant superintendent for education.

During the hustle and bustle of the first full school day, Cherry chatted about being on the threshold of his career.

"I'm a little nervous the first day, yeah," the 22-year-old Sterling native said. "I feel older than them (the students). But I feel young compared to a lot of these teachers here."

Cherry said all the "crisis in education" stories that had been surfacing in recent years didn't affect his career choice.

"It's what I want to do and it's something I enjoy and it's something I think I can be good at," he said. "I think there is more attention being given to the educational system than ever before. I think there are a lot of improvements being made in salaries and in programs. And I'm excited to be a part of that."

Cherry student-taught in Brazil for 10 weeks. The college he was graduated from had connections with a school in Brazil for the children of missionaries.

But his debut in Joliet was different.

"It's the first time that I've actually had total control with nobody to step in and help me out. It's a little scary but I feel ready."

Cherry plans to try to keep his distance from his teen-age charges.

"I think there's a danger with that ... it's important for me to establish my authority and establish respect. I want to get to work right away and get right into math. It's not going to be a fun time. It's not going to be a hard-working situation."

Veteran teacher Mary Gaydos offered counsel.

"The best advice I ever got when I started was to be tough for the first two weeks," she said. "Because otherwise they'll think they can walk all over you."

What about Cherry's vow not to smile until Thanksgiving?

Well, about 20 minutes into his very first class, he couldn't help but crack a smile as he mispronounced a student's name.

He admitted he'd probably break the no-smile rule a lot in the weeks ahead.

Couple Marries In Garden Ceremony

Kimberly Darlene Moye and Darwin Clemons were united in marriage Sept. 26 at 4 p.m. in a garden ceremony. Elder Ronnie McNair conducted the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moye Jr. and the bridegroom is the son of Alice Clemons, all of Greenville, and the late Mack Clemons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silkened organza over taffeta styled with an open portrait neckline encircled with appliques of floral silk Venise lace, pouf sleeves and chapel train accented by a candy box bow.

She carried a bouquet of red and white carnations and baby's breath tied with red and white streamers.

The matron of honor was Angela Waller of Greenville, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Sandra Spencer, Sandra Mills and Shelia Weaver, all of Greenville.

The best man was Anthony Shepard and ushers included James Brewington, Michel Purvis and Joseph Briggs.

The flower girl was Nonika Moye, daughter of the bride. Alexkxis Waller, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

A program of music was presented by Doris Paige, Calvin Jones, Margaret Barns and Sylvia Teel, vocalists.

Mary Sneed directed the ceremony.

A pig-picking was given for the couple by her parents after the wedding.

The couple resides in Farmville.

The bride and bridegroom are employed at Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

A shower was given for the couple before their wedding.

Author Says Problems Of Caring For Disabled Needs More Focus

ECU News Bureau
Judith Oliver knows how difficult it can be to provide care to someone who is severely disabled.

The former British social worker, now a liaison person between an organization of social workers and the British government, has been a caretaker for her husband, a quadriplegic, for the past 11 years.

Her personal experience and her research with others who are in similar situations have led her to believe that there must be a better way of caring for the handicapped, disabled and elderly.

"The present system (in England and the U.S.) doesn't work," she told a rehabilitation counseling class at East Carolina University.

She said the experiences of caring for the disabled are marked by financial loss and by physical and emotional stress. Often a caretaker, or "carer" as Ms. Oliver prefers to call those who care for disabled relatives, must deal with feelings of isolation, resentment and guilt. Support or help outside the immediate family doesn't exist or is difficult to obtain.

Ms. Oliver, a liaison officer in the British Parliament for the British Association of Social Workers, is the author of a book about caring for the disabled. She was visiting the U.S. to speak to the North Carolina Rehabilitation Association conference meeting in New Bern.

She was in Greenville earlier this week as the guest of Dr. Paul Austin, an ECU rehabilitation counseling professor. Austin has worked with Ms. Oliver on a joint research project on the stresses of taking care of the handicapped.

"I haven't been to the cinema in over five years," said Ms. Oliver, an attractive woman in her early 40s who smiles and jokes as she discusses the barriers faced by people with handicaps. Her British accent, however, is tinged with anger.

"British cinemas don't allow wheelchairs," she explained.

She said that in England a person in a wheelchair must be accompanied in public by an able-bodied person. "There is a law that requires this," she said.

"It costs more than $7,000 to care for a handicapped or disabled person in the home," she said. And the average benefit provided by the government is only about $48 a week. Those doing the caring have little income themselves and are often reduced to poverty.

In many cases children are the primary caregivers in families, she said. It is not unusual for children, as young as 11 years old, to give daily injections of medications.

When professional nurses are required most will only do the neutral things such as change dressings. Family members are the ones who must take the person to the bathroom and bathe the person.

Families of handicapped or disabled individuals also must be the host for family social gatherings which is another expense. And in many cases the carers themselves must neglect their personal health to care for the needs of others.

"I know of at least one case where a woman had to put off treatment for cancer because she had to take care of her invalid mother," she said.

It's no wonder, she explained, that 68 percent of the people providing care to disabled individuals also consider themselves ill.

"Something must be done to help the carers," she said. She said most receive little or no outside help. And the more disabled a person is the harder it is to find help.

Ms. Oliver said she was able to come to the U.S. because of a "carer" group in which she belongs. Members of the group are helping her husband while she is away.

Her husband, who has his doctorate in sociology, was injured in a diving accident in 1962. They were married 11 years ago.

She said her relationship with her husband has been a good one because she has been able to hold her caretaking duties to a minimum. "The less caretaking that goes on in a relationship the better," she said.

Ms. Oliver said that people who are disabled themselves are more satisfied when the caretakers are not members of their family. "They don't want to cramp the lifestyle of their family members," she said.

But the majority of the people who care for the disabled can't afford and receive no outside help and support.

She says more attention must be focused on these problems.

"Most western countries now have a policy of not institutionalizing people with disabilities and the elderly. That's fine as far as it goes," she said. "But I haven't met a country yet that is putting money into keeping these people in the community."

"What's happening is that families are having to look after their own disabled which sounds great until you realize the physical, mental and financial cost of this," she said.

She said some improvements have been made in the support system for families in England. She said the U.S. may be only two or three years behind England in making similar improvements.

Ms. Oliver's book, "Caring — Experiences of Looking After Disabled Relatives," gives an in-depth look at some of the problems. The book is available in the United States.

Knees Have It For Spring Collection

By NINA HYDE

L.A. Times-Washington Post News Service

MILAN, Italy — Those who hoped designers had gotten over short skirts by now better think again. Here in Milan, where Round 1 of the spring fashion shows began earlier this week, skirts are, if anything, getting shorter.

If you were looking for long skirts this week you would have to go to the showrooms of the fashion avant-garde. Short skirts are mainstream. Long skirts are being shown primarily by designers such as Romeo Gigli and Dolce and Gabbana, whose monastical style appeals to a rather small group of women.

It is no surprise that designers here think briefer is better. They need only walk outside their offices on the Via della Spiga or the Via Montenapoleone where the chic women stroll and shop. Many Milanese women are wearing above-the-knee-length skirts. While some of the young wear them scarcely longer than a bandage, mothers and daughters, often walking together, show hems an inch or two above the knee, as do the hundreds of worldwide fashion journalists who have come to cover the six or eight shows being staged each day.

In boutiques like the Fendi shop here and in Rome, the short tent coat, for example, is far outselling the longer styles. "We were surprised," admitted Carla Fendi. "We were sure the long coat would sell better."

The signals for the short skirt are good in the States, too, according to the American buyers and merchandisers. Dawn Mello, president of Bergdorf Goodman, says that short skirts are selling over long more than two to one. At Saks Fifth Avenue, short outsells long three to two, according to a representative. And at Bloomingdale's it's short over long, three to one — even in Washington. A pretty convincing picture.

The Krizia collection, with some of the prettiest and most agreeable ways to wear the briefer length, includes a rounded, oval-shape skirt as an alternative to the short straight skirt. It also shows many Bermuda-length shorts, meant to be worn with tailored jackets for the office. "I've been proposing them for a long time," says Mandelli. She has seen them on the streets in New York. With coordinated hose and flat shoes, she finds, they are an appropriately modest look for business.

Most other designers agree. Giorgio Armani obviously expects young women to go the office in shorts. In his lower-priced line called Emporio, Armani created the newest definition of the success suit: gray striped shorts, rolled several times at the hem, worn with a short navy double-breasted jacket, a blouse with scalloped collar, gloves, hose and flat shoes.

Gianni Versace, whose suits were the shortest and the most influential last season — copies of his tiered, pleated and bow-tied skirts are in all the stores here now — has come up with new variations on the short skirt. Some are wonderful, like the prints or the pleats. Others are silly, like full bloomers under short coats and jackets, or bicycle pants coordinated to miniskirts.

Carla Fendi, who leads the five Fendi sisters at the Fendi house in Rome, remembers the mini in its last incarnation and is not surprised by its return. "Women today are struggling to present themselves in a feminine way," she said before the Fendi show Monday. For a long time women in business were confined to styles that "suffocated femininity" with mannish cuts and oversized clothes that disguised the figure. "Now that women have achieved important positions in business and professions, they are rediscovering how good it feels to look feminine again."

Fendi doesn't think short skirts are just for the young. "Women used to think that in their 'third life,' what I call women over 55, they needed clothes that would change the look of their figures. Now women are looking after their bodies—having some intelligent surgery like removing double chins but leaving in character lines. Fashion in a revealing way used to be just for the young. But no more."

SELLING YOUR FIRM

NEW YORK (AP) — People thinking of selling their business should understand the value of the business and its growth potential, says Jay Cooke, an investment banker.

Cooke, president of First New York Capital, says other points to take into consideration are: Sell at the right time; take advantage of tax savings; understand the buyer's motivation; sell to the right buyer; compile proper documentation, and have a proper business profile.

"In addition," Cooke says, "when seeking a buyer the search should not be limited to the first one, a competitor, or confined to a local area."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated again today, faced with continuing interest-rate worries.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial, down 124.35 points over the week's first four sessions, dropped 12.56 to 2,504.08 in the first half hour of trading.

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than 2 to 1 in the overall tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, with 346 up, 735 down and 452 unchanged.

Recent increases in interest rates, particularly in the short-term money markets, have prompted talk that the Federal Reserve might soon raise its discount rate again.

Pirates Hosting Cincy, McCoin

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

A year ago, East Carolina's Pirates helped ease some of the frustration of their third straight 2-9 football season with a 32-19 victory over the University of Cincinnati.

Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m., East Carolina hosts the Bearcats once more, hoping to turn in a Homecoming victory and win their third game of the 1987 season.

But, Coach Art Baker admits, it won't be something that will come easy.

The Pirates are coming off their worst defeat — scorewise — in the Baker era, a 49-0 spanking by West Virginia University. It was a game in which the Pirates were able to move the ball, but couldn't get it into the end zone — or over the crossbars.

"It wasn't our worst defeat," Baker said. "I thought our loss to Auburn (45-0) last year was worst. We were not able to do anything in that game. At least we did move the ball in this one."

Cincinnati, meanwhile, comes into the game after an off-week, giving the Bearcats twice as long to prepare. The Bearcats also come in off a come-from-behind victory over Miami of Ohio, 31-26, in their last outing.

In that game, Cincinnati quarterback Danny McCoin, whom the school is billing as a Heisman Trophy candidate, passed for 399 yards, hitting on 27 of 36 attempts. McCoin already holds a number of career and seasonal records at the school.

However, McCoin did undergo arthroscopic surgery during the week off to remove bone chips in his knee. He is expected to be ready to play by Saturday.

Cincinnati coach Dave Currey scouted East Carolina in person last week, watching the Pirates play West Virginia — another upcoming Cincinnati foe.

Homecoming has been especially good for the Pirates. They have won 15 of their last 16 games during the celebrations, losing only to Miami (Fla.) in 1985 by a 27-15 score. Overall, the Pirates are 21-6 in Homecoming games in Ficklen Stadium.

At least two Pirates will be going for milestones during the contest. Fullback Anthony Simpson has rushed for 1,722 yards in his three-plus seasons with the Pirates. He is just 67 yards shy of surpassing Tom Michel, who played from 1961-63, as the #10 career rusher. Michel, who garnered 1,788 yards, is the father of Pirate offensive lineman Billy Michel.

Meanwhile, quarterback Travis Hunter, who moved into the top 10 in career pass completions with 75 and is only one behind 1963-65's George Richardson, who completed 76. Hunter also has 896 career passing yards and can surpass Bill Bailey (1962-66), who had 929, with 34 more yards, taking over 10th place.

There also could be a little confusion on the field when the ball goes to a running back. Cincinnati's attack features Al McKinney, who has 309 yards on 85 carries and 12 pass receptions for 93 yards. East Carolina uses Reggie McKinney as a slotback. ECU's McKinney has rushed for 142 yards on 22 carries, but averages 12.2 yards a try in all-purpose running (kick returns, receiving, rushing).

The game will also be Homecoming of a sort for one member of the Cincinnati staff. Cary Godette, who coaches the defensive line, was an AP all-American while playing for East Carolina from 1973-76. The Havelock native served on the Pirate staff under Pat Dye, moved on with him to Wyoming in 1980 and remained there until joining the Cincinnati staff in 1983.

"They've had a week off to prepare for us and to get their quarterback over his surgery," Baker said. "They have a good team and they've played a schedule similar to ours." Two two, the only ones to have played both National Champion Penn State and runner-up Miami last year, both face Miami, West Virginia and Virginia Tech this season.

"They have about the same talent level, but the big thing is that they have a quarterback who has thrown for about 800 yards already this year," Baker added. McCoin had hit on 68 of 105 for the year for 781 yards and three touchdowns.

In comparison, East Carolina's Hunter has completed 33 of 70 for 381 yards. East Carolina has yet to throw a touchdown pass this season. Hunter did turn in a fine 11 of 18 performance, for 157 yards, last week against West Virginia.

Simpson is the Pirates' leading rusher with 358 yards on 78 carries. He's also the Pirates' leading scorer with 24 points.

Hunter has 157 yards rushing while McKinney had 142 and Jarrod Moody has 103.

The Pirates take to the road again next weekend, traveling for its first meeting with Virginia Tech since 1966, when ECU was an NIAA member. In that game, Tech romped to a 37-2 victory.

Berenguer's Long Wait Pays Off As He Makes Sparkey Eat His Words

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Juan Berenguer, after a three-year wait, finally put the shoe on Sparky Anderson's foot and the Detroit manager didn't like the fit.

Berenguer, a former Detroit pitcher, felt Anderson embarrassed him in 1984 when, after winning 11 games for the Tigers, Anderson didn't use him in any playoff or World Series games.

The proud right-hander from Panama, who now pitches for the Minnesota Twins, vowed revenge before the American League playoffs began.

His wish came true Thursday night as he pitched the final 1 2-3 innings against the Tigers, striking out the side in the ninth to lock up the Twins' 6-3 victory and give them a sweep of the first two games of the best-of-seven series.

Berenguer was animated, waving his arms on the mound and thrusting his glove in the air after each pitch. Anderson got the point, and got angry.

"Juan was awful good," Anderson said. "In all my years in baseball, I've never said a word from the dug-out to an opposing player."

"I learned a long time ago, when you have a sleeping dog down, don't embarrass him. Whatever this stuff is with his glove and his arm ... someday that dog is going to wake up and bite him."

Berenguer, who was 8-1 with four saves during the regular season, doesn't speak to reporters immediately after a game, but several of his teammates defended his enthusiasm.

"Juan's a battler, a competitor," said Twins right fielder Tom Brunansky, who had a key double in the three-run second inning. "He didn't like the way he was used when he was pitching for Detroit. And he wanted these games."

"He threw hard. That's why we call him 'Smokey.'"

Twins shortstop Greg Gagne said "that was pretty funny to watch. But, you could see he wanted the ball. He was pumped up and he got us pumped up." Berenguer, working in relief of starter Bert Blyleven, earned a save.

"You've got to get excited about this game," Detroit first baseman Darrell Evans said. "But, maybe Juan got a little carried away. Hopefully it'll come back to haunt him."

It clearly was a game that would haunt Detroit right-hander Jack Morris. The St. Paul native had not lost in 11 previous starts in the Twin Cities and was 8-0 in the Metrodome before Thursday night.

"When you got Jack on the mound, you think things are looking good," Detroit's Kirk Gibson said. "But, it's a long and funny game."

Morris, who was 12-3 on July 4, has gone 6-9 since then. The Twins tagged him for six hits, including a homer by Kent Hrbek. He also yielded three costly walks.

Pendleton May Be Out

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, already limping without slugger Jack Clark in their lineup, may also be minus a second cog for Game 3 of the National League's playoffs.

Third baseman Terry Pendleton sprained his left ankle while working out Thursday at Candlestick Park. X-rays were taken at a hospital, and Pendleton's availability for today's game against the San Francisco Giants was in doubt.

Almost morose than with Clark, particularly on defense, the injury dealt St. Louis a crippling blow.

The 27-year-old Pendleton, a switch-hitter, started 156 of the Cardinals' first 159 games. He batted .286 with 12 home runs and a career-high 96 runs batted in. Jose Oquendo was St. Louis' only other starter at third until the Cardinals clinched the NL East title.

Manager Whitey Herzog announced earlier Thursday that right-hander Danny Cox would be unable to pitch Game 3 as previously scheduled.

"He hasn't pitched since last Thursday," Herzog said of Cox, 11-9, who is recovering from a stiff neck. Cox originally was to have pitched Game 1. His place will be taken today by Joe Magrane, 9-7, a rookie left-hander.

In the continued absence of Clark, who hit 35 home runs and totaled 106 RBI before sidelining a month ago by an ankle injury, Jim Lindeman and Tony Pena are St. Louis' only everyday players who bat from the right side.

Pendleton is one of six St. Louis switch-hitters. Pena, the team's regular catcher, also played some at first base. If Pena shifts there and Lindeman moves from first to right field, the switch-hitting Oquendo would be at third and Steve Lake, a right-handed hitter, would spell Pena as catcher.

Herzog, before being hit by the latest in a season-long siege of Cardinals injuries, expressed guarded optimism.

"I don't think this park's that tough," he said of Candlestick, where St. Louis was swept by San Francisco in a four-game July series. "We've played good here at times; we've played bad here at times."

Herzog had been seraping for productive hitting from the right side to face left-hander Atlee Hammaker, 10-10, the Giants' Game 3 starter.

"Every day he gets a little bit better, but that's still not good enough," Herzog said of Clark, who has been undergoing daily treatment for his ankle injury. "I could use him to pinch hit. That's as far as I'd go with him."

Wilson, Shepherd, Foyt Top Second-Day Leaders

CONCORD (AP) — Rick Wilson, Morgan Shepherd and A.J. Foyt topped the list of second-day qualifiers for the Oakwood Homes 500 NASCAR race at Charlotte Motor Speedway on Sunday.

Wilson's Oldsmobile clocked at 170.503 mph Thursday to qualify for the 21st position in Sunday's race.

Bobby Allison won the pole Wednesday by averaging 171.636 mph for two laps at the 1.58-mile tri-oval. He will start on the front row on Sunday next to Benny Parsons.

Shepherd turned in a time of 170.256 mph Thursday in his Buick and Foyt, driving an Oldsmobile, hit 169.779 mph.

Lake Speed, Greg Sacks, Buddy Baker and Ricky Rudd all topped the 169 mph mark to qualify for Sunday's race.

NASCAR all-time winner Richard Petty missed the cutoff but will enter the race as a provisional starter along with Steve Christian.

Petty wrecked his car during pre-qualifying practice on Wednesday and had to bring in a new car for the second day of qualifying. He just missed the 40-car field by clocking at 167.038 on Thursday.

Meanwhile, Harry Gant captured the pole for Saturday's All Pro 300 race in the NASCAR Busch Series sportsman division.

Gant's Buick clocked at 168.940 mph on Thursday to edge out Brett Bodine, who finished at 167.978 and Dale Earnhardt at 167.723.

"A lot of these cars are real close," Gant said. "There's about 10 cars in which there's very little difference. It's going to be a tight race."

Allison qualified fourth with a speed of 167.639, followed by Ed Berrier at 167.266, Geoff Bodine at 167.245, Darrell Waltrip at 167.007, Rick Mast at 166.868, Larry Pearson at 166.744 and Glenn Jarrett at 166.523.

Mahaffey May Finally Win

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — John Mahaffey has finished second in two of the last three Pensacola Opens and his putter has started him on his way to the winner's circle this year. Mahaffey said Bill Kratzert, who beat him here in 1984, gave him some putting lessons in April that paid off Thursday on the greens of the Perdido Bay Resort's 7,154-yard, par-71 course as the Houston native made four putts 20 feet or longer.

"He just gave me a couple of keys and it helped me," Mahaffey said after shooting a 5-under-par 66 in the opening round of the $300,000 tournament.

He added with a smile that he had better give Kratzert credit or he may not get any more help. Kratzert, however, may be asking Mahaffey for some pointers as he finished the first round back in the pack with a 72.

Mahaffey, a 16-year veteran of the PGA Tour, birdied seven holes, including his last two by sinking putts of 30 and 20 feet.

"I don't recall ever making this many long putts in one round," Mahaffey said.

He held a one-stroke lead over Bobby Cole, Jeff Sluman, Phil Blackmar, Trevor Dodds and Danny Edwards, who defeated Mahaffey for the 1985 Pensacola Open title.

Morris Back In Front, Baines 2nd

Woody Peele

Tom Morris has moved back to the top of the heap after last week's picks.

Morris currently holds the top with a 45-13 record. Tom Baines is in second place at 44-14, while Vickie Spivey has dropped back into a tie for third with Don Reuter at 42-16. Joe Jenkins, who posted the best picks of the week, going 10-2, pulled into a tie for fifth with this writer. Both of us are 40-18.

There is not a great deal of disagreement this week, but enough to possibly move a few places around.

Our high school picks last week were a disaster. Upsets were the mark of the week and we finished only 4-4. That brings us to 29-15 on the year.

There are some good games scheduled this week, and the panel will look at Greene Central-North Pitt.

Meanwhile Farmville Central, atop the Eastern Plains Conference standings, plays host to Pamlico County in another league game. The Hurricanes have been up and down this year. Farmville Central appears to have finally put it all together after their letdown against Conley. We have to go with the Jaguars to win this one, 20-6.

D.H. Conley's Vikings are at home to North Lenoir. The Hawks have had a good deal of problems this year, not having won since their opening game. Conley, meanwhile, has already improved on its record of last year and is hopeful of a shot at the playoffs. The game means a lot to both teams' post-season hopes, but the home field may prove the difference. We go with Conley, 15-13.

Rounding out the Pitt County games, Rose High School plays host to Wilson Beddingfield. The Bruins have struggled, but have posted a pair of wins. Rose is running among the best in the state, but has to guard against a mental letdown that could allow the Bruins to pull this one out.

Nope, sorry Bruins, the Rampants have too much speed and quickness. Rose to win this one, 35-6.

In other area games, it's Jamesville over Matamuskeet, Edenton over Williamston, Roanoke over Roanoke Rapids and Washington over West Carteret.

In the other prep game of the week, North Pitt, after finding new life in the return of Calvin Hunter at quarterback, travels to Greene Central. The Rams, with a 1-1 league record, can't really afford to lose many more if they hope to make it to the playoffs. North Pitt, of course, will seek to defend its league championship — as predicted. The panel is going with the Panthers, by a 5-1 margin. Only Tom Baines goes with the Rams. Our pick: North Pitt by 15-8.

East Carolina's Pirates play host to Cincinnati at Homecoming. The Bearcats have an outstanding passing attack and will be after revenge for last year. The Pirates, meanwhile, will be trying to vent some of its frustrations from last week on the Bearcats.

East Carolina, too, can win its third game, something it hasn't done since 1984, with a victory. The panel is going with the Pirates to do it — again by a 5-1 margin. Reuter is picking the Bearcats. Our choice here is the Pirates, 24-21.

Our other consensus picks: North Carolina over Wake Forest; Miami over Maryland; Oklahoma State over Colorado; Louisiana State over Georgia; Michigan over Michigan State; Clemson over Virginia; Georgia Tech over Indiana State; Arkansas over Texas Tech; Southern California over Oregon; and Brigham Young over Wyoming.

Jaguars, Vikes and Rose Post Wins In JV Action

BAYBORO — Farmville Central's junior varsity romped to a 28-8 football victory over Pamlico County Thursday night.

Farmville scored once in every period. Jeff Tyson got the opening touchdown early in the contest, scoring on an 18-yard run. Tyson also added the PAT run for an 8-0 lead.

Pamlico came back before the period ended to tie it up as Michael Curtis went in from 15 yards out and the PAT knotted it at 8-8.

In the second period, however, Farmville moved ahead for good. Daryl Wilkes scored on a 3-yard run, giving the Jaguars a 16-8 advantage.

Farmville then added two second half touchdowns. Melvin Vines scored on a 26-yard run in the third period and Lavonzell Payton returned an interception 24 yards for a score in the fourth.

Farmville C..... 28 8 6 6-28
Pamlico..... 8 0 0 0-8

Rose..... 48
Beddingfield..... 6

Dwain Williams scored three touchdowns to lead the Rose JV football team to a 48-6 win over Wilson Beddingfield Thursday.

Williams scored his first two touchdowns on runs of 59 and 15 yards, respectively. His final score came on a 75-yard kickoff return.

Eric Gollete scored on a 5-yard run in the first quarter. Tyrone Seymour scored on a 15-yard run in the second quarter. Todd Ficklen also scored on a 15-yard run in the third quarter.

Joel Daughtry scored on a 3-yard interception return in the final quarter.

Rose moves to 4-2 overall and 2-1 in the conference with its next game Thursday at Kinston.

Rose..... 21 7 7 13-48
Beddingfield..... 0 0 0 0-6

D.H. Conley..... 40
North Lenoir..... 0

Fred Streeter scored two touchdowns to lead D.H. Conley to a 40-0 win over North Lenoir in Coastal Conference JV football action Thursday.

Streeter's first score came on a 18-yard run. The second score came on a 50-yard interception return.

Also scoring for Conley were Hal Conger, who caught a 25-yard touchdown pass from Tim Allen, Stuart Roach, who had a 34-yard scoring run, Junior Farrow, who had a 9-yard scoring run, and Lamont Forbes, who had a 14-yard touchdown run. Bill Jenkins kicked two extra points and Shonta Wilkes scored on a two-point conversion pass from Allen.

Conley improves to 6-0 overall and 3-0 in the conference with its next game Thursday at home against West Craven.

Noting The EPC

The hunt is on in the Eastern Plains Conference as teams wade deeper into conference schedule in search of playoff spots.

The conference looks quite even this season, no one team has taken charge. At the beginning of the year, it looked like Ayden-Grifton and North Pitt on top, with every one else fighting for the last playoff spot.

It hasn't quite worked out that way. Farmville and C.B. Aycock have been much improved and made it a log-jam at the top of the conference. The next few weeks should help clear things up.

Rating The Conference

• Farmville: The Jaguars have returned to prominence in the EPC and look to continue their success against the Hurricanes. Gary Moore has run for 570 yards on the year and has gotten good support from backfield mates Elvis McFee and Billy Hardison.

• North Pitt: The Panthers are back in business after a slow start and now sport a 2-2-1 mark overall. The return of quarterback Calvin Hunter from a foot injury has gotten the offense back in gear and with a win over cross-county rival, Ayden-Grifton, the Panthers have taken a big-step in their efforts to repeat as conference champs. The next two weeks could tell the tale as North Pitt faces Greene Central and Farmville Central to complete the roughest part of their schedule.

• C.B. Aycock: Despite a loss to Farmville last week, the Falcons (4-2, 1-1) are still very much in the hunt. Teams continue to have trouble defending the single-wing offense. Corey Dickerson has run for 732 yards and 10 touchdowns and passed for 415 more along with two more scores. Aycock should even its conference mark this week against South Lenoir.

• Ayden-Grifton: The Chargers (4-2, 1-1) lost a heart-breaker to North Pitt last Friday but they have an open week to get ready for Greene Central. Despite the loss, the Chargers are still one of the top teams in the league. Eric Blount (507 yards) Tony Reeves (327 yards) and Aaron Harper (207 yards) form the best backfield in the EPC. As quarterback Darryl Moye continues to develop, the Chargers should become even more potent.

• Greene Central: The Rams (2-3, 1-1) have upset on their mind this week as they get set to take on North Pitt. If quarterback Kris Radford continues to throw like he did last Friday when he totaled 214 yards in a 30-14 win over Pamlico, the Rams might very likely pull it off.

• South Lenoir: The Blue Devils (1-4, 0-1) look for the first conference win of the season against Aycock tonight. In order to do that, the South Lenoir defense is going to have to figure out a way to corral Corey Dickerson — no easy task.

• Pamlico: The Hurricanes (2-4, 0-2) have fallen on hard times so far this season. Running back Terrance Tatum leads the EPC in rushing with 768 yards and eight touchdowns but Pamlico has taken it on the chin in both of their conference games this season. A win over Farmville could help them regain some lost confidence.

Union Officials Positive, Management Remains Cold

TYSONS CORNER, Va. (AP) — As talks designed to end the NFL strike continued for the fourth straight day, union officials painted an optimistic picture while management remained cautiously unenthusiastic.

Union chief Gene Upshaw and management head Jack Donlan were to resume negotiations today, Day 18 of the strike, after a lengthy session that began Thursday morning and ended early today. Neither side would say how long the session lasted.

During the marathon meeting Donlan and Upshaw touched upon many of the major issues, including free agency, guaranteed contracts, pension and severance pay.

The only issues that the sides could agree upon, however, were minor ones such as club discipline, player security and the retention of player benefits.

Not since the negotiations began had the two sides met for four straight days, a fact that left the NFL Players Association hopeful that a settlement could soon be reached.

"Gene thinks the talks have been fruitful and productive," NFLPA assistant director Doug Allen said. "Both sides have demonstrated the flexibility to discuss the concerns of the other... Gene remains encouraged by the pace of the negotiations."

But Management Council spokesman John Jones conveyed a different, more stoic message.

"A difference of opinion remains on many major issues," he said. "This is not an overnight process, and the characterization of it as such not only misleads the players but the public as well."

"We're trying to be realistic," Jones said. "The process is not moving as rapidly as some members of the union say it is."

If Upshaw and Donlan had their disagreements, Jones and Allen were no different. They couldn't even agree on how many topics had been solved — Allen said five and Jones said four.

On the critical subject of free agency, Jones claimed the union was standing by its demand for total freedom for a player sometime in his career, a demand management has insisted it will not grant.

Allen would not categorize the talks on free agency. But he did say Upshaw has not deviated from his promise, made to the union's player reps Tuesday morning, that he would not let one issue stand in the way of an agreement.

Two other issues have popped up since the beginning of the strike, and both could prove to be major obstacles.

The players want the games featuring replacement players to be dropped from the standings.

Owners want the new contract to run at least six years.

"We don't want these games to count," Allen said. "We have the structure of the playoffs and playoff compensation contained in the collective bargaining agreement and these (strike) games have an impact on that agreement."

The owners have insisted that the games, which almost certainly will be held this Sunday and Monday for a second week, will count in the standings.

Jones said management would no longer be content with a three-year contract, which had been informally agreed upon weeks ago. He said the owners did not want to go through the anguish of another strike so soon.

Allen said the union was annoyed that the owners would back off on what they had agreed to in principle. He pointed out that on Wednesday, management said it wanted a contract that would last a minimum of five years.

"Yesterday it was five years, today it's six," Allen said. "We'd better get this thing settled soon or we'll have a 15-year agreement."

Allen, in fact, was optimistic that a settlement would soon be reached, as was Dick Berthelsen, general counsel for the NFLPA.

Berthelsen, recalling the 57-day strike of 1982, compared the atmosphere of the current talks with that of the negotiations in the latter stages of the previous walkout.

"In 1982 it really only took us 48 hours to reach a settlement once both sides were at the point they were willing to make compromises," Berthelsen said. "I see us now at the same point, about two or three days before settlement. All it takes is the willingness of both sides to make a deal."

Rose, Roanoke Post Victories

RED OAK — Rose High School's girls' tennis team continued to roll along Thursday, scoring a 9-0 win over Northern Nash.

The victory brought the Rose record to 11-0 overall and to 10-0 in Big East action.

Rose was pressed only once, in the number one singles, where Wendy Simpson captured a three-set victory over Teuneeke Gavaert.

Rose plays host to Rocky Mount on Tuesday.

Summary:

Wendy Simpson (R) d. Teuneeke Gavaert, 2-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Gina Parrott (R) d. Christie Robertson, 6-1, 6-4.

McGill To Play Against Tar Heels

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Wake Forest football coach Bill Dooley says senior tailback Darryl McGill will be able to play in Saturday's game against North Carolina.

McGill injured his ankle against N.C. State Sept. 19. He missed the following game against Appalachian State and carried only three times against Army last week.

"Darryl is still not at full speed," Dooley said Thursday. "Hopefully he will be close to that point by Saturday. He has been practicing most of the week."

Two other Wake Forest players are questionable for Saturday's games. Mark Young, who started in place of McGill, suffered an ankle injury in the Deacons' 17-13 win over Army last Saturday, as did starting strong safety Joe Walker.

"Mark Young is still questionable, as is Joe Walker," Dooley said. "We will certainly be fortunate if either of those young men can play this week."

Redshirt freshman Torly Rogers, who gained 60 yards on 16 carries against Army, may start against the Tar Heels, Dooley said.

The Deacons carry a 4-0 record into the contest, while North Carolina is 3-2.

"The thing is, they've got to play in Detroit now," Morris said. "We're not quitting. But, we've got to win at home first."

The next three games of the series are scheduled to begin Saturday in Detroit. The AL West champion Twins could end it sooner, however, by winning the next two.

And, make no mistake, the Twins are smelling a sweep.

"I thought all along we were competitive," said catcher Tim Lardner, a .191 hitter during the regular season who drove in two runs with a double in the Minnesota second.

1986 BOJANGLES OF AMERICA

Business Expects Moderate Growth, No Recession

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
Associated Press Writer
HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — The nation will achieve moderate economic growth next year, with no threat of a recession, even though inflation and interest rates will be headed higher, top business leaders predicted today.

The Business Council, composed of 65 executives from America's largest corporations, forecast the economy will be spurred by the first improvement in the country's foreign trade deficit this decade.

Despite the fact that the stock market suffered a record one-day decline earlier in the week on investor fears about inflation and rising interest rates, the business executives said those concerns were being overblown.

"The overall view is that we will have relatively predictable and stable growth in 1987 and 1988," said John S. Reed, chairman of Citicorp.

The business executives forecast that the economy, as measured by the gross national product, will expand 3 percent this year and at the same rate in 1988, compared with growth of just 2.2 percent in 1986.

The 1987 forecast is very close to the Reagan administration, which is predicting growth of 3.2 percent this year, when measured from the fourth quarter of 1986.

On inflation, the business executives saw consumer prices rising by 3.7 percent for all of 1987, more than three times the rate last year. For 1988, the executives forecast even higher inflation of 4.5 percent.

The Business Council's economic report reflects a consensus of views held by the council's consultants, who are chief economists for the member corporations.

Reed said the consultants believed there was less than a one-in-three chance the country would be gripped by severe inflation, which they defined as price increases of 6 percent or more.

Fears in financial markets that the Federal Reserve will have to tighten up on credit to dampen inflation have helped push interest rates up sharply in recent weeks.

The nation's major banks raised their prime rate, a benchmark rate for many business and consumer loans, to 9.25 percent on Wednesday, the fifth increase this year.

The Business Council said recent developments had forced a revision in their interest rate predictions as well, with a minority of the consultants warning that rates could climb by as much as 2 percentage points over the next year because of Federal Reserve tightening moves.

The economic outlook was issued at the beginning of a three-day conference at this mountain-top resort where the executives will be briefed by Reagan administration officials including Attorney General Edwin Meese III; Health and Human Services Secretary Otis R. Bowen; and Labor Secretary William E. Brock.

The focus of the council's fall meeting is on the problem of drug abuse and AIDS.

Robert D. Kilpatrick, chairman of CIGNA Corp., the large insurance company, said AIDS, which already has killed 24,000 Americans and is expected to claim 155,000 more lives in the next four years, was "containable at this point, in a financial sense."

But he said officials were still trying to come to grips with the problem, and "every time you see a new set of figures (on estimated cases) they are worse than the last set."

In other economic predictions, the business executives said:

—The unemployment rate, which fell below 6 percent in September for the first time this decade, will remain around 6 percent for the rest of this year and 1988.

—The federal budget deficit improved to around $160 billion in the budget year just ended, down from a record $221 billion deficit in 1986. However, the deficit was forecast to rise again to $167 billion in 1988.

—While the U.S. trade deficit has been shrinking on a volume basis because of rising sales of American exports, this has not been reflected yet in dollar terms because of rising import prices.

The executives forecast a trade deficit in dollar terms of $165 billion in 1987, surpassing last year's record $157 billion deficit. In 1988, they forecast the trade deficit would shrink for the first time this decade to around $149 billion.

Ruben Mettler, chairman of TRW Inc., said his company's export sales of auto parts has benefited considerably from the lower value of the dollar against other currencies.

"We are now shipping parts into Germany, into Japan and even into Korea from the United States. That is a big, big change," he said.

Republicans Skip Tax Discussion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats who control the two tax-writing committees in Congress are vowing to write a $12 billion deficit-reduction tax increase that will appeal to both parties, even though Republicans are boycotting the process and President Reagan is promising a veto.

"I'm not interested in a political statement ... (or) campaign fodder," Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said Thursday after a committee meeting attended only by its 23 Democrats. "I'm interested in doing something about the deficit."

"I want this to be bipartisan," said Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, whose Finance Committee on Thursday temporarily suspended efforts to write a $23 billion deficit-reduction package including the tax increase.

Minutes after Bentsen spoke, Sen. Bob Packwood of Oregon, senior Republican on the panel, announced that his fellow GOP members were not interested in writing a tax increase until it becomes more clear later this month whether one will be needed.

Packwood added that he had talked earlier in the day with Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III, who made it clear that "the president will veto any new taxes — period."

"When we joined this committee we didn't take a vow to raise taxes," said Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., pointing to the proposed sale of government property and higher user fees for government services as "attractive alternatives to raising people's taxes."

Bentsen recessed the committee, probably until Tuesday.

Rostenkowski, who had seen the 13 GOP members of his committee walk away from the tax-increase bill a week earlier, met with the other 22 Democratic members and continued looking for relatively small tax proposals that could win a majority vote.

The Democrats agreed on none of those Thursday. However, they did reject two dozen provisions that the Reagan administration had proposed in 1984, including repeal of the deduction for personal-property taxes and taxing a portion of employer-financed health insurance.

GM, Union Agree On Tentative Pack

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers and General Motors Corp. officials say their tentative contract agreement achieves union goals of protecting job security and company goals of cutting costs.

Neither union nor management, however, was releasing details of the pact.

The agreement must be approved at a meeting Sunday of the 23-member UAW executive board and a meeting Monday of the 300-worker GM bargaining council before it can be ratified by the 335,000 active UAW workers at GM.

Union officials announced the settlement late Thursday.

The UAW's contract with the nation's largest automaker will be a basis for agreements for 31,000 additional GM hourly workers represented by other unions and will influence contracts throughout U.S. manufacturing.

"UAW members at General Motors have unfortunately become demoralized because of the layoffs and cutbacks here," said union President Owen Bieber. "The new agreement that we've reached here will help to turn that around by providing a stronger basis for job security and a stronger sense of attachment to this corporation and its future."

GM's chief negotiator, Alfred Warren, also touted the contract's "unprecedented job security" but at the same time he said it will help the company cut its costs. GM officials had said they needed flexibility in a new contract to trim the work force and buy more parts from outside the company.

Pilot Indicted In Reagan Near-Miss

L.A. Times-Washington Post
LOS ANGELES — The pilot of a light plane that allegedly nearly collided with President Reagan's helicopter was indicted by a federal grand jury Thursday on two counts of lying to government agents who questioned him after the incident.

U.S. Attorney Robert C. Bonner charged that the pilot, Ralph W. Myers, 33, an Army private at Ft. Lewis, Wash., produced "totally false and concocted" stories about why he violated prohibited airspace over Reagan's Rancho del Cielo hideaway near Santa Barbara, Calif.

Bonner told a news conference that he would not speculate why the Aug. 13 incident took place, except to say that "there is no evidence Myers intended to do harm to the president."

Myers, a resident of Lake Oswego, Ore., could not be reached for comment at the army base.

Show Spawns New Festival

HELENA, Ark. (AP) — "Pass the biscuits," announcer John "Sunshine Sonny" Payne intones at 12:15 p.m. each weekday over radio station KFFA, "cause it's King Biscuit Time."

Payne doesn't need a script to issue his greeting. Thursday's broadcast was the 10,256th King Biscuit Time and the 62-year-old Payne has been at the microphone for 8,105 of them. Both are still going strong.

The show is an institution in blues music, and has helped make the bittersweet twang of guitars and the soulful cry of harmonicas familiar sounds in the fertile Mississippi River Delta.

George Hays, KFFA's 30-year-old general manager and chairman of the festival, said the popularity of the blues awed him when he moved to Helena in 1982. "We see blues enthusiasts from across the nation and even overseas that put Helena on their U.S. tours," he said Wednesday.

The program has lent its name to the King Biscuit Blues Festival, which opens Friday night and runs through Saturday night in Helena with artists including Levon Helm and Robert Jr. Lockwood.

Payne was KFFA's 15-year-old errand boy when King Biscuit Time premiered 46 years ago, 18 days before the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. Featured performers were Sonny Boy Williamson on harmonica and Pinetop Perkins on piano.

Williamson died in 1965. Perkins is to attend this weekend's show.

Live music was aired from KFFA's studio until the 1970s, Payne said, and performers still drop in occasionally.

Raquel Welch Gets New Image In Dramatic Role

By KATHRYN BAKER
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Raquel Welch sheds her glamorous image Monday night for a tough, dramatic role in the NBC movie "Right to Die."

Ms. Welch plays Emily Bauer, a vibrant, independent psychologist with a loving husband and two young daughters who is losing her life to degenerative, paralyzing Lou Gehrig's disease, amyotrophic lateral sclerosis. Michael Gross of "Family Ties" plays her husband, Bob.

The story is basically the same as "Whose Life Is It Anyway?" the play and movie about a quadriplegic who sues his doctors for the right to be taken off life-support systems.

In "Right to Die," the Bauers receive legal permission to remove Emily from her respirator after she has become completely paralyzed. It is up to Bob to make the arrangements, selecting the day of her death and the doctor to do the job, and getting advice on how to explain it to the children.

Phil Penningroth's script is competent, but lacks the poignancy and conflict of William Hanley's excellent "When the Time Comes," the TV movie of last season that starred Bonnie Bedelia as a housewife with terminal cancer who enlists a childhood friend (Brad Davis) to help her commit suicide.

The conflict in "Right to Die" is somewhat contrived. A few characters — Emily's doctor, her God-fearing nurse (Bonnie Bartlett), and at first, her husband — oppose her decision, but they are easily overcome.

Ms. Welch's portrayal brings to mind Farrah Fawcett's success at shedding her pinup image by gambling on difficult roles — the play and movie "Extremities" and the TV movie "The Burning Bed," in which she played an abused wife.

Ms. Welch has already established herself on the stage, winning raves as Lauren Bacall's replacement in "Woman of the Year," and in her comic screen role in "The Four Musketeers," but this is her most demanding dramatic role.

In the flashbacks, when she has to play a regular person, she's overdoes it with her breathy, perfectly enunciated delivery, overshadowing the rest of the cast like a superstar come to stay with a typical American family.

But she's excellent in the later scenes that require her to use only her eyes to express panic as death presents itself unexpectedly and to give her final OK in the long and drawn-out but still effective concluding scenes when Emily's wish is finally granted.

Gross, an underrated comic actor who also exhibits seemingly limitless dramatic talents, is superb as anguished, ambivalent Bob.

Role Is 'Empty Shell'

NEW YORK (AP) — Farrah Fawcett, who plays heiress Barbara Hutton in a new TV miniseries, says she initially "couldn't relate to this empty shell of a woman" but soon "eased into her glamour so quickly it was scary."

"I could immediately tell which diamonds were real," Miss Fawcett told Vanity Fair in the magazine's November issue.

Singer Freed

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Pop singer El DeBarge got out of jail on $1,000 bail two days after being locked up for not fulfilling a community-service sentence he received on his plea of no-contest to creating a disturbance.

The former "Charlie's Angels" star said she "cried and cried" during early rehearsals of NBC's "Poor Little Rich Girl: The Barbara Hutton Story."

Hutton inherited $50 million at the height of the Depression, married seven of the world's most eligible men, including Cary Grant and members of royalty, and died penniless in 1979.

"She could have called all the shots," said Miss Fawcett. "I couldn't understand why she didn't take control of her vast wealth — invest, donate, explore — to gain her own independence."

"Even with her own puppet court, wearing her priceless tiaras, she was a cripple and had to buy friends."

The First Dunce

If you've ever been called a dunce, you should be flattered. The word comes from the name of one of the great academicians of the Middle Ages — John Duns Scotus. Duns Scotus wrote great treatises on logic, metaphysics and theology. In heated political battles between the Church and the state, Duns Scotus supported the pope. Two hundred years later, Reformation leaders ridiculed Duns Scotus' teachings. Any follower of these teachings was labeled "Duns man" or a "Dunce."

DO YOU KNOW — In what century did the Reformation begin?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER — Getty's empire is based on oil.

Horoscope From The Carroll Righter Institute

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY Oct. 10

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This morning is an excellent time for dealing with repairs and other problems which can't be done during the week. Social affairs this evening can bring you many benefits if you are alert.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): If a newcomer comes into your life, be prepared to listen to new ideas, but reject those which you don't feel are plausible or desirable.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): See some old friends today during your spare time, but don't neglect your urgent duties. Try to be more efficient in your routines.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Be helpful and affectionate to your mate, and watch your budget carefully. Take it easy and get plenty of rest tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Handle all of your practical affairs during the day, but reserve the evening for your loved one. Be sure to drive carefully.

LEO (July 22 to August 21): Handle civic matters this morning, and the evening will be fine for more intimate matters. Watch your financial situation carefully.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 22): See an important person who can give you the assistance you need—both monetary and moral—to get a new project underway.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22): Try to be pleasing to your mate this morning. Contact an old friend you haven't seen for some time this evening. Drive carefully.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21): A usually stubborn associate will see things your way for a change. Tonight is a perfect time for romance with your mate.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21): This morning is a fine time for running errands and handling correspondence. Spend the evening socializing with friends.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20): You can get much accomplished with an associate for the coming week. Plan a recreation for your close friends and yourself.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19): Work on getting your home in order this morning. Tonight talk over future plans with your family and entertain some guests.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20): You can communicate well with others this morning and will have an easy time getting your desk cleared. Be cautious in making investments.

Opening lead: Queen of ♣

Here is a relatively simple hand for you to play. How would you tackle six no trump at rubber bridge after the lead of the queen of clubs? Would you play the same way at duplicate?

At either form of competition, you can congratulate yourself on having chosen the higher-scoring no trump slam rather than the suit. (You might be disappointed in being too low, but a grand slam was very difficult to bid.) You have seven tricks outside the diamond suit, so you need only five tricks from diamonds, not six. There is no problem if that suit breaks 3-2 or 4-1 but what if the split is 5-0?

You can weather even that evil a break with a modicum of care. At rubber bridge, win the first trick in hand and lead a low diamond to the ten. If West has the jack and plays low, the ten wins and you set up a long diamond as your fifth trick in the suit; or if he rises with the jack, your ten is a winner and you have five tricks by force.

What if West shows out on the first diamond? Dummy's ten forces the jack, and you can later take the marked finesse for East's nine to make your five tricks.

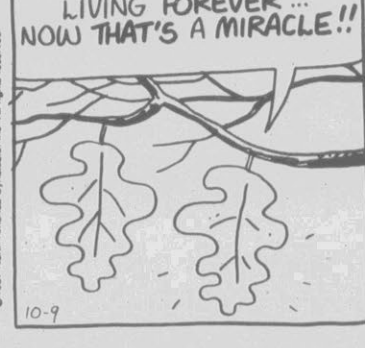

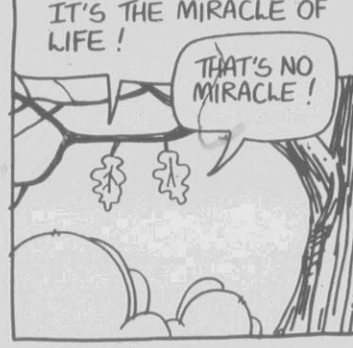

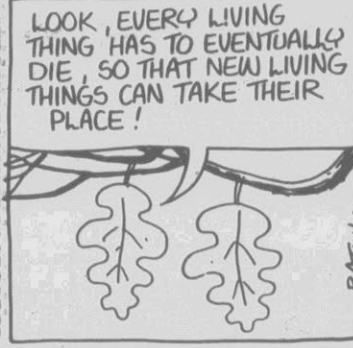

Well then, should you play the same way in a duplicate pair game? Only if you enjoy losing. The odds of a 5-0 break are only about 4 percent. Thus, if you take the safety play at duplicate you can expect a top score on four hands out of 100, when everybody else is going down.

On another 26 hands when the break is 4-1 and the jack isn't singleton, you will achieve an average score for making the same 12 tricks everybody else is. But on 70 hands you will get a bottom when you collect only 12 tricks and everyone else makes 13 as diamonds divide 3-2 or the singleton jack falls. So in a tournament game it is correct to cash a top diamond and go down as the cards lie.
