State Board OKS Twin Spans For Tar River

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The replacement of the Greene Street Bridge across the Tar River with twin spans, and an earlier construction date for a portion of the Evans Street widening project, are among several Pitt County highway projects included in a new state Transportation Improvement Program adopted by the Board of Transportation in Raleigh today.

Randy Doub of Greenville, a member of the board representing Highway Division II, said the replacement of the Greene Street bridge across the Tar River with two spans — one on Greene Street and one on Pitt Street — was included in the TIP for fiscal year 1996 at a cost of $4.7 million.

Although the updated nine-year TIP did not mention any plans to improve Pitt Street, Doub and Rick Shirley, Division II highway engineer, said a feasibility study suggests making Pitt and Greene streets a "one-way pair." Shirley suggested that work on Pitt Street could "improve the width that's there" without the necessity to do extensive widening.

The major portion of the Evans Street widening project — from Howell Street to Greenville Boulevard — has been advanced one year, for right-of-way acquisition in fiscal year 1988 and construction in fiscal 1989, Doub said, with a total cost estimated at $2.25 million. "A contract hopefully will be let within the next 18 months," he said.

The project to widen Evans Street from 10th to Howell Street "remains under evaluation" by the Transportation Department, Doub said, in light of House Bill 1211 which was passed by the General Assembly this year, "which restricts right-of-way participation by municipalities." But Doub said the DOT and the city of Greenville "are working together and looking at several alternatives to reduce the cost of right-of-way in this section."

Doub said last month that, as first proposed, the right-of-way for the portion between 10th and 14th streets will cost $2 million, and suggested that "it may turn into a small urban project to allow the city to participate."

Since the major portion of U.S. 264 between Wilson and Washington is complete or nearing completion — the section between Greenville and Farmville may be opened to traffic Monday afternoon, a DOT official said today — Doub said, "Our full attention will be on the work on the Farmville and northwest Greenville bypasses," which are still included in the TIP.

According to Doub, the first contract on the Farmville bypass — $10.2 million has been set aside for

Project Funded

The Board of Transportation, at a meeting in Raleigh today, approved $50,000 in statewide discretionary monies for use on a project to widen 14th Street from Greenville Boulevard to Red Banks Road in Greenville.

Transportation board member Randy Doub said the total cost of the project has been estimated at $242,890.

"The city of Greenville has already allocated $50,000 to the project. With the money approved today, we are getting closer to full funding of this project," Doub said.

Doub, who said Reps. Walter B. Jones Jr. and Ed Warren "were very helpful in helping obtain this $50,000 in discretionary funds," said he hopes the Department of Transportation will be able to "let a contract on this project next spring."

Pitt-Greene Co-Op Turns 50

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE — Probably the largest gathering of people in Pitt County Thursday night was in Farmville. Blue lights flashed on U.S. 264 as law enforcement officers from six counties assisted people in parking and entering Worthington's Tobacco Auction Warehouse for the Pitt and Greene Electric Membership Corporation's 50th anniversary annual meeting.

Pitt and Greene holds an annual meeting every year and always has a good turnout. But this year was special — a celebration of a half-century of electrification service to portions of Pitt, Greene, Wilson, Edgecombe, Wayne and Lenoir counties.

It took a warehouse to hold all the members who indicated they would participate. The number attending was estimated at 2,500.

A barbecue meal was served. Entertainment all the way from Nashville, Tenn. — The Osborne Brothers — was provided. An election of officers was held. And Bob Jordan, lieutenant governor of North Carolina, spoke.

The musicians performed on a flower-decked stage at one end of the warehouse. The head table with Jordan and other dignitaries and officers of the co-op was at the other. Rows and rows of tables holding barbecue plates waited in between as members arrived about 6:30 p.m.

Jordan complimented Pitt and Greene on being one of the most efficiently operated rural electrification cooperatives in the nation. He likened the courage of the people who undertook in the mid-1930s to start an electrical cooperative in eastern North Carolina to the vision of the founding fathers in writing the Constitution. He extolled the freedom that Americans enjoy during this bicentennial of the Constitution and he encouraged holding to the values which created this freedom so as not to lose it.

It was noted that Pitt and Greene was the 14th electrical co-op in the United States. Its formation began in 1937 and its first homes were energized on March 8, 1938.

In a balloting by members during the gathering, incumbent directors were re-elected: Lloyd Gay in District 1; Anna Belle Morris in District 5 and John R. Pridgen in District 6.

FDA Clears Dramatic Heart Drug

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration announced approval today of a new clot-dissolving drug that could save the lives of thousands of heart attack patients each year.

FDA Commissioner Frank E. Young termed approval of the genetically engineered drug — widely known as TPA — "a major advance in the management of coronary heart disease."

It is an emergency treatment most effective when administered within the first minutes or hours after a patient has suffered a heart attack. The official labeling will call for its use "as soon as possible after the onset of symptoms."

Officials of Genentech, Inc., the California company that developed the drug, said initial distribution will be to hospitals and that it should be available nationwide within two or three weeks.

While not the first drug developed through biotechnology, TPA is regarded as the first destined to have a dramatic and widespread impact and is expected to prove a financial bonanza for Genetech.

Company officials said the cost for U.S. doses has not been determined, but added that it likely will be in the $2,000-per-dose range established in other countries.

TPA, or tissue plasminogen activator, is a substance occurring naturally in the human body, but not in the concentrated volume that will be administered to heart attack victims.

Nursing Graduates' Passing Rate Drops

Graduates of East Carolina University's School of Nursing posted a 75.5 percent passing rate on the state licensing exam this year, plunging sharply from 1986 when 91 percent of the ECU graduates earned their licenses.

The downward trend echoed losses posted by nursing graduates in other branches of the University of North Carolina, where the overall passing rate for this year fell to 79 percent. In 1986, 88 percent of the graduates from UNC system nursing schools passed the state exam.

In addition to ECU, significant declines were recorded this year for graduates of UNC-Greensboro, N.C. Central and N.C. A&T University, Raymond Dawson, UNC's senior vice president, reported to a Board of Governors committee in Chapel Hill on Thursday.

Dr. Emilie D. Henning, dean of the ECU School of Nursing, was out of town and could not br reached for comment today.

East Carolina had 88 nursing students who took the test this year. It is scheuled to have about 120 students eligible for the exam in 1988.

Dawson said UNCG had a pass rate of 73.6 percent, the school's worst performance since 1973 — the period for which statistics were available.Its pass rate last year was 84.1 percent, a drop of 10½ percentage points.

At A&T, the pass rate was 50 percent, the worst since 1982, when only 41 percent passed. Five of 10 A&T

Market Cools In New York As Foreign Stocks Advance

By RICK GLADSTONE
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A post-crash stock rally inspired by the narrowing U.S. trade deficit cooled a bit today on Wall Street, despite two new government reports suggesting inflation is subdued and consumer buying remains strong.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which jumped 61.01 points Thursday to 1,960.21 on the trade news, was off about 5 points in the first hour of business. Broader market measurements rose slightly.

The market opened shortly after the federal government reported that producer prices fell 0.2 percent last month and retail sales dropped a lower-than-expected 0.1 percent, mostly because of a drop in auto sales.

The retail sales report indicated consumers weren't overly discouraged by the Oct. 19 stock market dive.

On Thursday, the government said the U.S. trade deficit fell to $14.1 billion in September from $15.7 billion in August. Besides rousing Wall Street, the report strengthened the dollar and sent stocks soaring today in Asia.

On the Tokyo stock exchange, the 225-stock Nikkei average registered a 901.75-point surge today to close at 22,448.25. The dollar, meanwhile, broke the 136-yen level for the first time this week to finish the day's trading at 136.05 yen, and sustained that gain in early New York trading today.

Stock prices also closed sharply higher on the Hong Kong stock exchange, with the blue-chip Hang Seng index rising 75.87 points to close at 2,226.74.

But stock prices were lower today on the London stock exchange. The Financial Times-Stock Exchange 100-share index was down 26.2 points to 1,676.3 by early afternoon.

Thursday's rise in the Dow Jones industrial average, which was shaken by the record 508-point plunge of Oct. 19, was the seventh-largest point gain ever in the index of 30 blue-chip stocks and the strongest post-crash rebound since a 91.51-point rise Oct. 29.

Analysts, while impressed by the improvement in the trade picture, said they believe that without more significant efforts at cutting the twin deficits, the anxieties that unraveled the markets in October could resurface.

Talks are under way between legislative leaders and the White House in an effort to cut the budget deficit.

Retail Sales Rise As Prices Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government, in two largely positive reports on the economy, said today that wholesale prices last month posted their first drop since July 1986 while retail sales, discounting the expected drop in new-car purchases, rose at their speediest clip since February.

Prices fell 0.2 percent, almost entirely a reflection of declines in food and energy costs, to nearly erase the 0.3 percent gain of September.

The Labor Department report provided dramatic evidence that inflation remains tame.

Retail sales overall were down 0.1 percent, but that was less of a drop than many analysts had expected.

Removing the decline in new-car purchases, forecast following the end of summer rebates, retail sales rose 0.3 percent. Indeed, nearly all of the overall sales weakness came from a 3.1 percent decline in auto sales after a 3.8 percent drop in the preceding month.

The Oct. 19 stock market crash, according to the sales figures, apparently had little immediate effect on consumer confidence. Today's report reflected sales activity throughout the month.

As for wholesale prices,

Med District Area Is Rezoned

By GREG LAUDICK
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville City Council Thursday unanimously approved a request to rezone 124.11 acres of land in the Pitt-Greenville Medical District for future development.

The land, comprised of three tracts, is located off Stantonsburg Road, south of State Road 1296 and north of the Pitt County landfill.

Tract 1, 17.02 acres, was rezoned from MD-7 (low density residential-agricultural) to MD-3 (office); Tract 2, 100.97 acres, from MD-7 to PUD (planned unit development); Tract 3, 6.12 acres, from MD-7 to MD-4 (commercial).

The rezoning request was made by Greenville Properties and marks the first time Greenville has ever approved a property for PUD zoning — a special use zoning district in which developers submit long-term plans to the city for approval.

Tim Newell, representative for Greenville Properties, said "we have worked very closely with (the city) staff on developing the zoning patterns (and) we've got some exciting plans for that area. It's a great opportunity for the medical district and we appreciate the cooperation we've had with the city in developing this plan."

According to preliminary plans in the Greene Property Rezoning Request, the developer's goal is a planned community with business, commercial, and residential areas that meet the needs of those who work and live in the medical district.

Council member Inez Fridley was absent from the session.

The council also unanimously approved the annexation of 58.94 acres located south of Bedford Place in the Winterville Township and 2.71 acres located off the western right-of-way of Evans Street extension and north of Sara Lane.

In other action, the council approved applications for Emergency Shelter Grant Program funds on behalf of the Pitt County Family Violence Program and the Greenville Community Shelter.

The council also approved a request by First Federal Savings and Loan to rezone a .59-acre tract of land located off the southern right-of-way of Greenville Boulevard and east of Granville Drive.

The property was rezoned from R-

Teacher's 2nd Trial Under Way

The trial of Madeline Jordan Taylor, arrested by Greenville police in June on charges of assisting in obtaining academic credit by fradudulent means, began in Pitt County Superior Court Thursday and continued this morning.

Mrs. Taylor, suspended after the incident, was an English teacher at J.H. Rose High School when a student said she offered to raise his grade in exchange for a video cassette recorder.

Tried on the charge in District Court in August, Mrs. Taylor was given a six-month sentence, suspended on condition she pay a $500 fine, court costs and $288 restitution to the Greenville Police Department. She was also placed on unsupervised probation for two years.

But she appealed to Superior Court.

In the District Court trial, Rose student Andre Love, 20, testified that Mrs. Taylor told him "she had always wanted a VCR and if I gave her a VCR I could pass" her English class.

Love said he went to the Greenville Police Department with the information and Detective Steve Pass purchased a VCR for Loge to give the teacher.

Pass testified that he waited outside Mrs. Taylor's home and watched Love take the VCR inside and leave without it.

But when a warrant was obtained to search the home, the VCR was not located, and Pass said that Mrs. Taylor told him she didn't know anything about a VCR.

Struyk Is Acquitted

Curis Struyk, a former East Carolina University football player on trial this week for assaulting a woman in downtown Greenville in October 1986, was found not guilty by a Superior Court jury Thursday.

Struyk, of Beaufort, had been charged with the misdemeanor assault of Clara Strickland Vann of Greenville, who said Struyk pushed her and that another player, Richard Autry of Covington, Ga., knocked her to the ground in the early morning hours of Oct. 12 as she walked along a sidewalk after going to her beauty shop to pick up a calculator.

Struyk and Autry were convicted of assault charges in District Court in November of last year and both appealed to Superior Court after being ordered to spend 29 days in jail and pay $1,500 restitution each.

Autry pleaded guilty in Superior Court in March and was given a six-month jail term, which was suspended on condition he spend nine weekends in jail.

But Thursday, after 2½ hours of deliberation, a jury of eight men and four women found Struyk innocent of the assault charge.

"TIMER MADE DIFFERENCE" FEEDBACK

Scott Jones, energy service officer with Greenville Utilities, questions the validity of a homeowner's experience shared in a recent Hotline column of having saved $24 on his electric bill as a result of having installed a water heater timer. Jones said, "Installation of a water heater timer will not always save the user money or energy. Individual lifestyles determine whether or not a water heater timer can be effective. Each appliation should be evaluated on an individual basis. Furthermore, the reduction in energy consumption for the October bill could be attributed to reduced use of air conditioning or any number of other factors."

Jones suggested that anyone with water heating or other energy questions contact him at GUCO, 752-7166, Ext. 279.

UNC Vice President Named Fayetteville State Chancellor

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Lloyd V. Hackley, who has been the University of North Carolina's vice president for student services and special programs since 1985, was named chancellor of Fayetteville State University today by the UNC Board of Governors.

Hackley, who will assume his new post Jan. 1, replaces Chancellor Charles A. Lyons Jr., who announced his plans to resign last March. Lyons was named president of Fayetteville State in 1969 and became its first chancellor when the university was brought into the University of North Carolina system in 1972.

Hackley, who holds a Ph.D. in political science from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, has been a vocal propoent of improved student preparation. He served for four years as chancellor of the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff, and was an associate vice president for academic affairs for the UNC system prior to that.

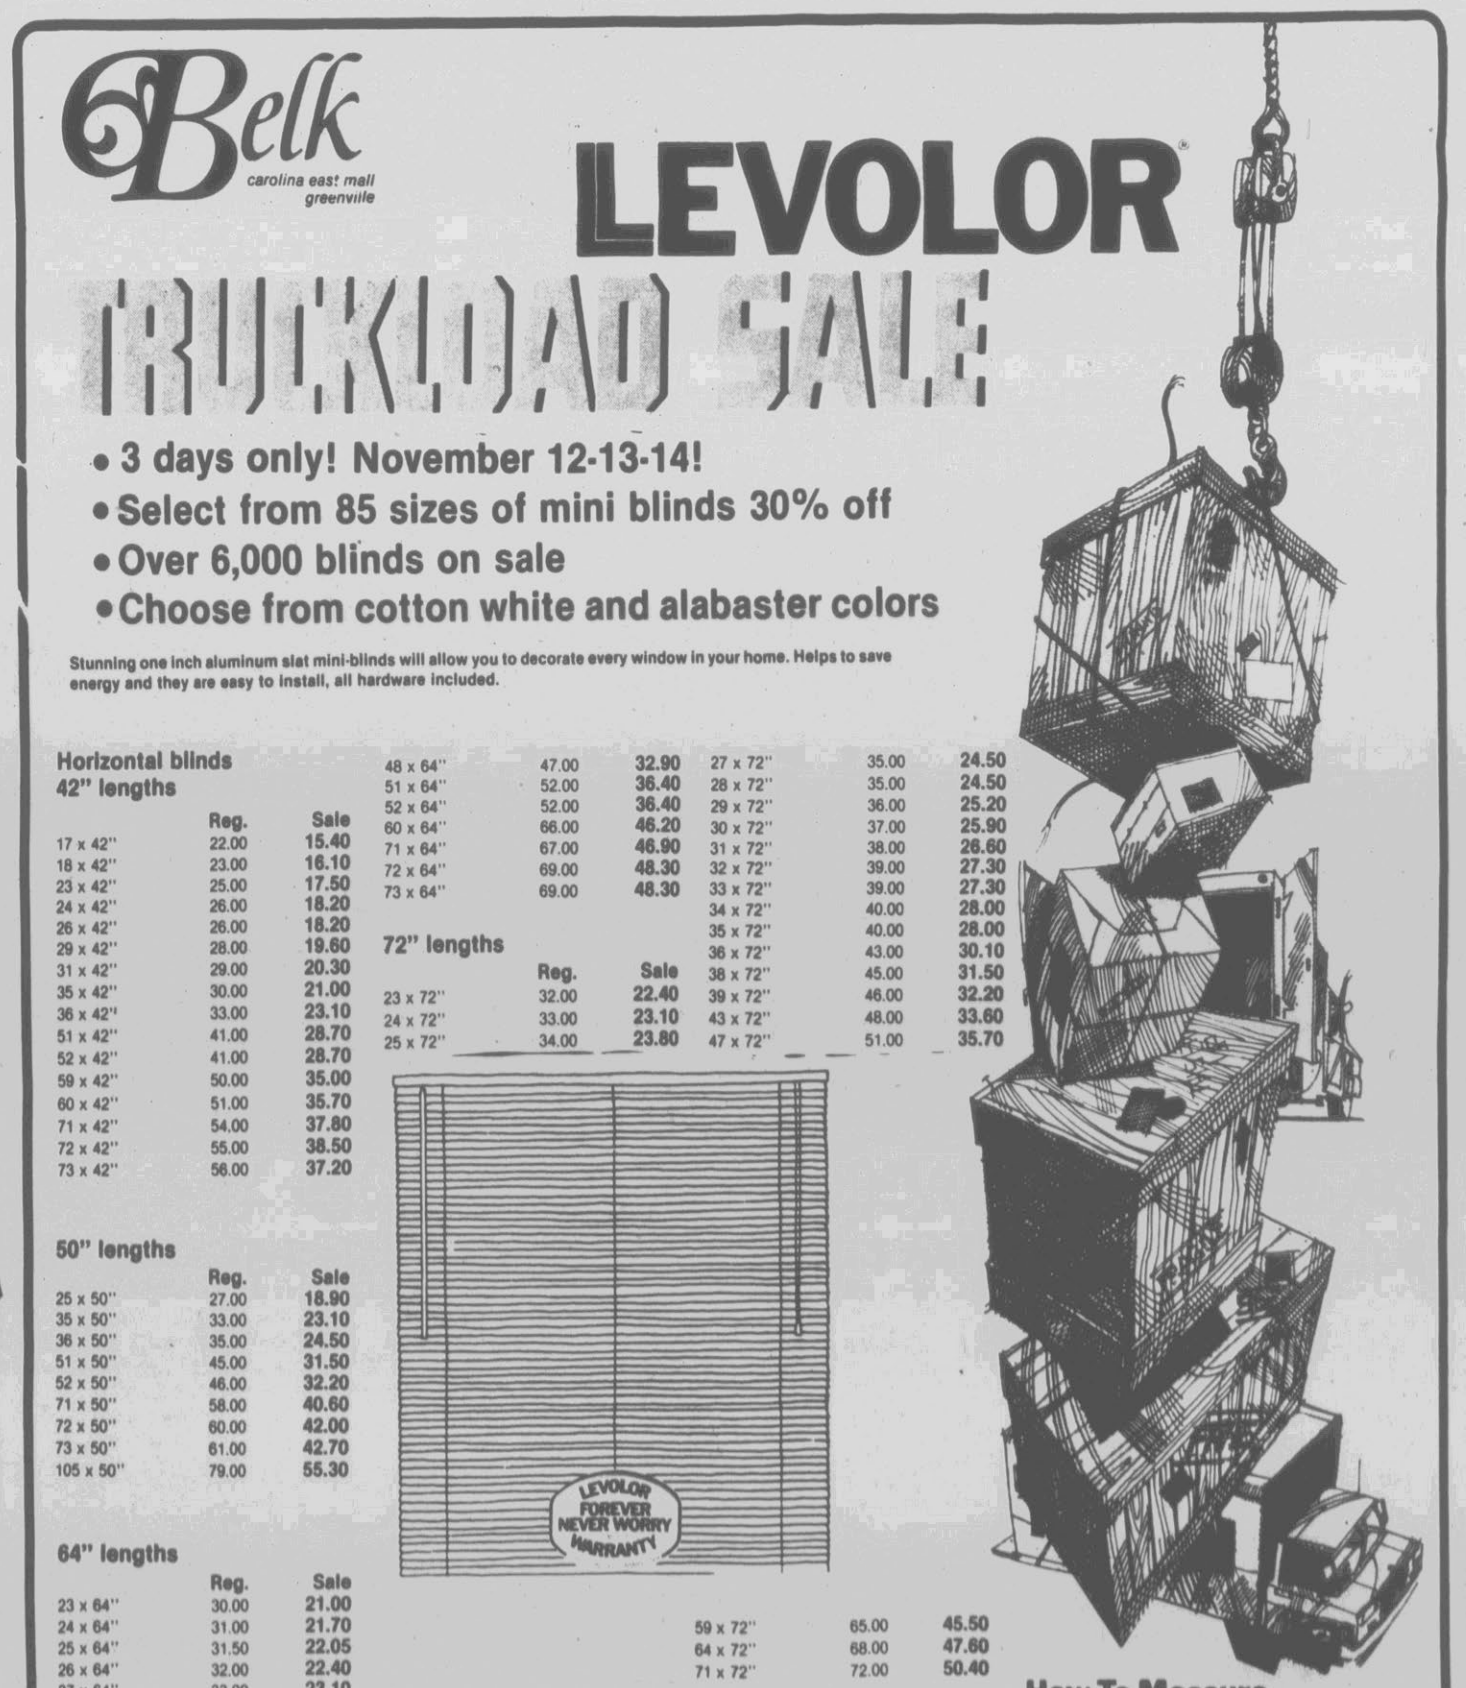

"The Board of Trustees is extremely pleased with the election of Dr. Hackley," said Maxine O'Kelley, chairman of the Fayetteville State Board of Trustees.

'Truth In Preference To Fiction'

Preventive Tool

Screening potential employees for substance abuse is a preventive tool capable of helping Greenville prioritize safety and efficiency of services.

The practice has become a standard among larger businesses and industries. It is reasonable for municipalities to adopt the same methods for keeping drugs out of the work place as business organizations. The City Council and Greenville Utilities Commission were correct to approve the policy.

The approach selected by the two boards is a fair, non-invasive one. The screening will be done as part of the pre-employment physical, conducted in the final stages of the hiring process.

Administering a screening policy in this manner is entirely different from random testing. When an employment policy clearly states a new hire will be tested and potential workers know that fact, the issue of invasion of privacy is not involved. A substance abuse screening policy is simply a position statement on a drug-free work place.

In addition, the policy is cost effective. The $50-$100 per employee testing expense is minimal compared with the problems a drug-impaired individual creates in the workplace.

Safety is an important consideration in implementing a drug screening policy. City workers operate heavy equipment. Public works employees, for example, run street equipment and garbage trucks. Fire and rescue personnel are responsible for manning sophisticated, expensive tools and machinery. Significant hazards exist for technicians and electrical workers who deal with high voltage electrical transmission. All these applications require dexterity unclouded by drug or alcohol use. There is no place for murky judgement or dulled reflexes when fighting a fire, for example, or running a front end loader.

Ethics is another sound reason for a drug screening policy. Law enforcement must be free of substance abuse. For their position to be effective, police officers should abide by the laws they enforce. An incidence of substance abuse on a police force can injure the department's credibility. That damage is unfair to the image and career of officers who do not abuse drugs or alcohol. Neither do a city's or a utility's administrative and clerical workers need the stigma of substance abuse.

Integrity is an important component of city government. A municipality's citizens expect and require quality reasoning from its decision-makers. Again, there is no room for drug abuse.

Substance abuse screening for potential city employees is a timely policy that can protect the safety and integrity of current workers. The City Council and GUC acted properly to institute that move.

East-West Relations Come First

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mikhail Gorbachev hasn't set foot in America yet, but a veteran American negotiator already is looking beyond the Dec. 7 summit meeting with President Reagan to a larger arms control treaty and general improvement in East-West relations.

However, the official, Edward L. Rowny, is strongly against abandoning the U.S. Strategic Defense Initiative, known popularly as "Star Wars," even if there were no U.S. and Soviet missiles left on earth.

Rowny, who negotiated over strategic weapons in Geneva and now is a senior adviser to Reagan and Secretary of State George P. Shultz, said Thursday that "even if we and the Soviets were to reduce to zero, we would still want an SDI program."

One reason, he said, is that other countries would be in a position to consider a nuclear attack if the United States were unable to defend itself against ballistic missiles. Also, Rowny said, the Soviets still would have the capability of suddenly breaking out of the treaty.

The centerpiece of the Reagan-Gorbachev summit is to be a treaty to ban intermediate-range nuclear missiles. Over three years, 364 U.S. and 683 Soviet missiles would be destroyed. Nuclear arsenals would be reduced an estimated 4 percent to 6 percent overall.

But U.S. and Soviet negotiators in Geneva are still grappling with measures to guard against cheating. The chief U.S. negotiator, Max M. Kampleman, is being rushed to the Swiss city for talks Sunday night and Monday with Yuli M. Vorontsov, a deputy Soviet foreign minister who plays a leading role in arms control decisions.

Shultz may have to go to Geneva for a pre-Thanksgiving meeting with Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze if knotty issues remain, though Charles E. Redman, the State Department spokesman, said Thursday there were no plans for such a trip.

According to Rowny and other U.S. officials, the Soviets have not provided enough detail about missiles they may have in reserve, and they also are resisting a U.S. demand for inspection of SS-25 installations.

The SS-25 is an intercontinental ballistic missile, which would not be restricted by the treaty. But Rowny and Redman said the SS-25 in its first stage of construction looks exactly like the SS-20, which would be banned.

As a result, the United States wants to send American inspectors to SS-25 sites to make sure the missile is not being modified to replace the SS-20.

In Moscow, the Soviet foreign ministry spokesman, Gennady Gerasimov, accused the United States of making unacceptable "last-minute, final-curtain proposals."

Rowny denied that the U.S. side was "trying to get into the ICBM problem."

But, he said, since the missiles look alike "we have to see them. It's something that has to be resolved."

Even with these problems, Rowny finds it unlikely the treaty will not be ready by the time Gorbachev arrives.

"I think that Gorbachev deciding he's going to come here seems to me to mean they are not going to take the risk of upsetting this thing," Rowny said.

He then launched into the long-range U.S.-Soviet arms control agenda. It is to carry out the understanding Reagan and Gorbachev reached last year in Reykjavik to scrap 50 percent of U.S. and Soviet intercontinental nuclear weapons.

Rowny has campaigned for a long time for START, a strategic arms reduction treaty, and he said he welcomed the Soviets' interest.

"But the thing that worries me," he said, "is that while the Soviets are sort of muting their tone about the linkage to SDI it nevertheless is still there."

But as much as Rowny believes a 50 percent cutback would be in the interest of both sides, he would not compromise on Star Wars research or testing.

In fact, Rowny said, "if push came to shove, if you had a stark choice between a 50 percent reduction and compromising away SDI, or would you rather have SDI and take your chances on START, I'd be for keeping SDI."

And, curiously, for a man who has concentrated on arms control for many years, Rowny insists it should be kept in the larger perspective of East-West relations.

He wishes the headlines at the Reykjavik summit and leading up to the Washington summit were not all about arms control.

Reagan in a U.N. speech in 1985 referred to four pillars in U.S.-Soviet diplomacy. Arms control was one. The others were human rights, regional conflicts and relations between the two superpowers.

Rowny wishes the three others received more attention from the news media.

"The horse is East-West relations and the cart is arms control," he said. "If the horse pulls the cart along and you improve East-West relations, the two can go together.

"But if you only push that cart on arms control you just make the horse lame."

Cash Crop

Tobacco is discussed and maligned as no other farm crop in America, but in North Carolina it is still a huge cash crop for the growers.

State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham reported gross income from flue-cured tobacco sales in the state will exceed $700 million in 1987.

"Growers have a right to be more optimistic in 1987 than in recent years," Graham said Tuesday. "For the second consecutive year, the net price per pound has increased, and the amount going into Stabilization has decreased."

Graham noted that growers were confronted with a cold, wet spring, a hot, dry early summer and a cold October.

The cold October affected Old Belt growers the most, reducing the quality of their crop.

Graham said the average price this year is over 6 cents above the 1986 price at a comparable time. It is also important that only 3.2 percent of the tobacco has gone to Stabilization in 1987. That compares to 7.4 percent in 1986 and 15 percent in 1985.

Growing and marketing tobacco is not the easiest profession in the world. The crop requires far more labor and personal attention than the basic crops such as corn and wheat. Timing is of the utmost importance. The leaf must be harvested when it is mature, not green or overripe.

In addition, dry or wet weather can quickly reduce yields and quality. Hail can ruin the crop and disease and insects are always a threat. Many of these diseases and insects can overwinter in a field and therefore are perenniel threats.

When things are right, tobacco can produce a profit for the growers, however. It only comes after a year long process which includes the soon-to-begin preparation of plant beds, seeding the beds, transplanting, harvesting and curing of tobacco, grading and finally selling it on the warehouse floors.

The result this year was $700 million in revenues which benefits farmers and the state's economy. That's no small change.

What If The Dollar Overshoots?

'America is living beyond its means. As long as foreigners were prepared to lend massive sums to the United States, there was no problem. But the supply of willing private lenders has dried up.'

James Baker has signaled his desire "to hold down interest rates and let the dollar fall," according to The Post. Distinguished economists call for only small cuts in the budget deficit; anything larger could "topple the economy into recession." Martin Feldstein, writing in The Wall Street Journal, says that America should "explicitly but amicably abandon the policy of international policy coordination." Taken together, this advice is a recipe for disaster.

Why? America is living beyond its means. As long as foreigners were prepared to lend massive sums to the United States, there was no problem. But the supply of willing private lenders has dried up. The world's central banks have stepped in to buy up the excess of dollars, effectively printing money to finance the U.S. trade deficit. This cannot continue indefinitely.

But the trade deficit cannot be eliminated overnight. Somebody will have to be induced to lend the United States $10 billion to $15 billion a month for many months to come. The only question is at what price — in other words, how far the dollar will have to fall and U.S. interest rates will have to rise to rekindle enthusiasm for lending to America.

Many American economists see a simple solution. Let the dollar fall quickly to the "right" level. Then, since foreigners will know that it is at the "right" level, they will start lending to America again.

They are wrong. First, until we know how long it will be before decisive action is taken to cut the budget deficit, nobody knows what is the "right" level for the dollar. If American spending rolls on unchecked, higher inflation will offset the competitive gains from a lower dollar, pushing the "right level" for the dollar farther and farther down.

On the other hand, if American spending is cut back quickly, either by budget cuts or by a recession, then the dollar will not have to go much farther down.

Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan has inherited an impossible situation. Investors are losing confidence, both at home and abroad, and they are looking to the Fed for diametrically opposite signals. American investors want it to pump money into the economy to stave off recession. Foreign investors want it to let U.S. interest rates rise to defend the dollar and protect the value of their investments.

So far the Fed has steered a fairly skillful course between Scylla and Charybdis. The Sept. 5 discount rate hike helped reassure foreign investors. Aggressive provision of liquidity since Black Monday has helped reassure domestic investors. But now the foreign exchange markets are waiting to see how far the dollar will be allowed to fall before the Fed will let U.S. interest rates rise again — which could set off another slide on Wall Street.

Baker is an astute politician who is reputed to be a good poker player. He has been playing for time. Trying to prop up the dollar at an unsustainable level gained about six months. Unfortunately, letting it go may not gain more than a few weeks.

His hand lacked one key card — decisive action to cut the budget deficit.

The arithmetic is simple. Both the country as a whole and the federal government are spending roughly $150 billion a year more than they are earning. If America is to stop going into debt for a while, as it should, then the only way to bring spending down in line with income in a controlled and manageable way is to cut the budget deficit to around zero.

This need not be done overnight, but should be done over, say, the next three years.

Would this tip the economy into recession — as argued by many American economists from both ends of the political spectrum? They fail to realize that once the inflow of foreign savings dried up, a recession, or at least a sharp slowdown, became inevitable. They have also not learned a lesson from Europe: when you lose the confidence of the financial markets, Lord Keynes has to be turned upside down.

What this means is that if decisive action were taken to cut the budget deficit quickly, the boost to the economy from improved confidence, lower interest rates and a dollar stabilized at a somewhat lower level would, in a matter of months, outweigh the negative impact of higher taxes and lower federal spending.

There is an important lesson here. After the stock market crash in October 1929, governments almost everywhere tried to cut budget deficits, and the Fed pursued a restrictive monetary policy. This, together with Smoot-Hawley and competitive devaluation, led to the Great Depression.

History need not repeat itself. First, the United States should cut its budget deficit so that the Fed can pursue a relatively easy monetary policy, without setting off a free fall in the dollar. Second, other countries with trade surpluses should increase, not cut, their budget deficits.

Strength For Today

Someone has said that there is only one thing worse than discontent, and that is contentment.

At first sight this statement might seem to be an insane denial of common sense but actually it has a great deal of truth. If contentment arises from a complete satisfaction with the world as it is, then it is evil. If a person's contentment is pure animal contentment, then every power of the soul atrophies under such a condiditon.

But where contentment arises from great faith, deep love for one's fellows and an undefiled conscience, then it is a blessing. The world's great souls have seldom had time to be contented because of the constant efforts they exerted to improve the world among them.

For most of us, whether our contentment is a blessing or a curse depends upon where it comes from.

State Proposes Highway Corridor Network

By MARTHA WAGGONER
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Transportation Secretary James Harrington has unveiled a $3.2 billion highway package that focuses on linking regions of the state through a strategic highway corridor network and cutting traffic congestion in urban areas.

Harrington told the state Board of Transportation Thursday the $373 million annual program falls far short of meeting the state's highway needs, but sets realistic priorities.

"We are trying to put the bucks in or near the cities to relieve traffic congestion as fast as possible and to extend four-lane or multilane arteries to the most people," Harrington said.

Terry Hutchins, a board member from Fayetteville, said the plan would be disappointing to many counties because it doesn't call for many new projects.

Nonetheless, he said the plan was good because all of the projects could be built.

"It doesn't include all the highway projects, but we can build all of them," Hutchins said after the meeting. "But there's no question that there are a lot of projects that are left out down east and other places."

The Transportation Improvement Plan is a nine-year plan for the state's roads that is updated each year. The full Board of Transportation was scheduled to vote on the plan today.

Not all of the highways marked as strategic corridors are included in this year's Transportation Improvement Plan, Harrington said. "But we're going to hang it on the wall and say this is the purpose," Harrington said.

Interstate 40 from Raleigh to Wilmington is identified as the state's top highway priority. It will connect Raleigh, Benson, Mount Olive, Clinton and Wilmington and will provide a link between I-85, I-95 and U.S. 17.

The plan said the highway is under contract with final completion set for 1990.

Other highways on the list of strategic corridors and a description provided by the transportation department are:

-- U.S. 23 and U.S. 441, which provide a north-south route through southwestern North Carolina connecting to Tennessee and Georgia, linking Franklin, Sylva and Cherokee. More than half of the corridor is already four lanes and the TIP calls for four-laning the remainder.

— U.S. 19 and 64 from the Tennessee line to Interstate 40 in Haywood County. They go from the state line and end near Waynesville, linking Murphy, Bryson City, Sylva and Waynesville. A majority of the highway is already four lanes. The TIP calls for construction in one of the two remaining segments.

— U.S. 23 from Asheville to Tennessee, in combination with I-26, would provide the Asheville area and central mountain region with a north-south corridor. A portion of the route is already a four-lane highway and the TIP calls for right-of-way acquisition in other sections in 1995.

— U.S. 421 from Winston-Salem to Tennessee, the main highway link between the Piedmont and the northwest section of the state, serving Winston-Salem, Yadkinville, Wilkesboro, North Wilkesboro and Boone. The plan calls for four-laning all but two of the remaining segments of the highway with starting dates ranging from 1989 to 1995.

— U.S. 74 and I-85, Charlotte to I-26 in Polk County, the western section of the U.S. 74 corridor connecting I-26, I-85 and I-77, linking Shelby, Kings Mountain, Gastonia and Charlotte. The major portion of the corridor is now four lane. Construction of improvements to the remainder of it have begun and include some six- and eight-lane widening in the Charlotte and Gastonia areas.

— U.S. 74, Charlotte to Wilmington, which connects the state's largest city to its largest port, carrying a significant volume of commercial traffic. It connects Charlotte, Monroe, Wadesboro, Rockingham, Laurinburg, Lumberton, Whiteville and Wilmington; it also connects I-85 and I-95. Five of the 10 sections are already four lane and another four-lane segment is under construction. The TIP includes plans for construction of one other segment.

— U.S. 321 and N.C. 16 Gastonia and Charlotte to Boone. This forms the principal north-south connection in the western Piedmont, linking Charlotte to Gastonia, Lincolnton, Hickory, Lenoir, Blowing Rock and Boone in the northwest mountains. Part of the route is already four-lane and construction is under way in one segment with proposed construction beginning in 1989 for another of the eight segments.

— U.S. 52, Mount Airy to Lexington. This connects I-77, I-40 and I-85, serving Mount Airy, Winston-Salem and Lexington. Much of the segment is already four lane, another section is under construction with construction on the remaining segment scheduled for 1994.

— U.S. 220 and U.S. 74 in Richmond County to Virginia line. This provides a north-south route through the central portion of the state, linking U.S. 74, U.S. 64, I-40 and I-85. Communities served by the corridor include Rockingham, Asheboro, Greensboro and Madison-Mayodan. Three of the eight segments are already four lane and the TIP proposes construction for two other segments to begin in 1989 and 1992.

— U.S. 64 from Lexington to Raleigh. The route connects Lexington, Asheboro, Pittsboro and Raleigh. Two of the eight segments are already four lane with construction under way in one section and proposed construction for two other segments in 1996.

— I-40 and I-85 from Winston-Salem to Raleigh. This interstate corridor connects the Piedmont to the Research Triangle Park area. Several projects are under way, and the TIP calls for six-laning the route from Durham to Greensboro.

— U.S. 421 and N.C. 87 from Greensboro to Wilmington. The corridor is an I-85, I-40 and I-95 connector serving Greensboro, Siler City, Sanford, Fayetteville, Elizabethtown and Wilmington. The highway is largely unimproved, with four-laning in four of the corridor's 12 segments. Construction is under way in one section and is planned in two other segments during the period covered by the TIP.

— U.S. 1 from Raleigh to Henderson. This serves as a north-south connector between I-85 and I-40, connecting Henderson, Franklinton, Wake Forest and Raleigh. The TIP calls for construction improvements for the entire corridor.

— U.S. 70 from Raleigh to Morehead City, which provides access to the Morehead City port. It connects Raleigh, Smithfield, Goldsboro, Kinston, New Bern, Havelock, Cherry Point Marine Air Station and Morehead City. U.S. 70 also serves as a link between I-40, I-95 and U.S. 17. Most of the route is already four lanes, with construction beginning on the Smithfield Bypass, the major two-lane section.

— U.S. 64 and U.S. 17 from Raleigh to the Virginia line, which serves the northeast region of the state, connecting Raleigh, Rocky Mount, Tarboro, Williamston, Edenton, Elizabeth City, Plymouth and Norfolk, Va. Two of the seven sections are already four lanes. Construction on four other sections is to begin by 1996.

Panel OKs Draft On UNC Drug Plan

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — A committee of the University of North Carolina Board of Governors has approved a draft drug policy that calls for expelling students who sell cocaine, heroine or other hard drugs on UNC campuses.

The policy calls for minimum penalties for the use or sale of drugs by students, faculty, staff and administrators.

Committee Chairman David J. Whichard II of Greenville said the draft as reworked Thursday had the right balance.

"I think that it's a tough policy, but I think it's a fair policy that will hold the university in good stead," Whichard said.

Final action on the guidelines could come at a meeting Dec. 3. After that, the draft will be submitted to the full board of governors for review. Final action should come in January.

For a first offense sale of drugs like marijuana, LSD or barbiturates tobarbital, the draft calls for suspension from enrollment or employment for at least one semester. A second offense would result in expulsion or discharge.

For a first offense involving possession of drugs like cocaine or heroin, the penalty would be a suspension for at least one semester. A subsequent offense would result in discharge or expulsion.

A first offense possession of marijuana, LSD and a similar category of drugs will result in probation of a length to be determined on a case-by-case basis.

The offender would also be required to undergo a drug education and counseling program and consent to regular drug testing.

The committee steered clear of any policy that would require that parents be notified of drug infractions by their children.

RTP Leader Resigns

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. (AP) — Archie K. Davis, whose leadership and fund-raising ability helped turn acres of scrub pine into the internationally known Research Triangle Park, resigned Thursday as chairman of the Research Triangle Foundation's board of directors.

Davis, 76, was foundation president from 1958 until 1981, when he became chairman. The foundation oversees park development.

Davis, of Winston-Salem, served 18 years as chairman of the board of Wachovia Bank and Trust before retiring in 1974.

Davis said he had left the foundation because it was time to step aside for others. He said he plans to spend his time researching and writing on North Carolina history.

The foundation's 30-member board of directors elected Louis C. Stephens of Greensboro, retired president of Jefferson Pilot Insurance Co., to succeed Davis.

IN THE STATE

Charge Filed

DOBSON, N.C. (AP) — A Surry County man who was wounded in a shootout with law enforcement officers has been charged with murder in the death of his estranged wife.

Sheriff W.R. "Bill" Hall said Thursday a warrant has been issued for the arrest of Jonie E. Brendle, 39, of Lowgap on a charge of first-degree murder in the death of Janet Lynn Dowell Brendle, 41.

The warrant had not been served Thursday on Brendle, who is in Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem recovering from a gunshot wound to the back. A hospital spokesman said Brendle's condition was upgraded from critical to serious Thursday.

Hall said that he has asked the State Bureau of Investigation to investigate the shooting because one of his deputies shot Brendle. Hall said he does not know which officer shot Brendle.

Investigators said a gunman Wednesday fired at officers who responded to a reported shooting and fire at the home where Brendle's estranged wife and Jonathan, their 14-year-old son, lived.

Duke Grant

DURHAM (AP) — The National Institutes of Health has awarded $3 million to Duke University Medical Center to create a Specialized Center of Arthritis Research.

"Our goal is to investigate in a very focused and intense way the cause of rheumatoid arthritis and develop therapy for this common disease," said center director Dr. Barton F. Haynes, a Duke professor of medicine and the chief of rheumatology and immunology.

Medical scientists know what happens in rheumatoid arthritis, but they don't know why it happens or how to stop it.

Dismissal

FAYETTEVILLE (AP)— A Cumberland County Superior Court judge has dismissed charges against a former Westover Junior High School teacher who appealed his District Court conviction of punching a seventh-grader in the mouth.

In addition, a related civil lawsuit filed by the youth's parents, which sought more than $10,000 in compensatory and punitive damages from former teacher Roxy Stotler and the Cumberland County Board of Education, has been settled out of court, Stotler's lawyer, James Nance Jr., said. The terms of the settlement were not disclosed.

Stotler, then 55, of Sanford was convicted of misdemeanor assault inflicting serious injury in a March trial before Cumberland County District Court Judge Sol Cherry, stemming from an incident involving Andreas Gaylord, then 12.

The case was dismissed at the request of the prosecuting witnesses, said Assistant District Attorney Robert Stiehl III.

Stotler said he was trying to reach for Gaylord's left shoulder to restrain him, when his knuckle struck the student's face. Gaylord lost a tooth in the incident. Stotler was initially suspended by school officials and subsequently resigned.

Fake Bomb

Bomb squads with the U.S. Army and Charlotte Police Department discovered about 3:45 p.m. that a package left on a bank teller's counter was simply blocks of green clay with wires. Police said they thought that the package might contain plastic explosives.

Authorities said that they are searching for a man who robbed the Security Federal Savings & Loan and left the 9-inch by 12-inch by 3-inch package on teller Christine Lawrence's counter.

Divesture

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The University of North Carolina has followed through on its September promise to divest itself of its investments in companies doing business in South Africa. The divestment is now complete, Wayne Jones, vice chancellor for finance, reported Thursday.

Arson Arrest

RALEIGH (AP) — Rosemarie Roberts Toney, 52, of Morganton, was arrested Thursday on charges of setting a fire near the Lenoir-Morganton airport in Burke County on Nov. 7, state officials said. She was released from the Burke County Jail after posing a $500 bond.

Ms. Toney is scheduled to appear in Burke County District Court on Dec. 15.

The fire burned less than one acre of land.

The arrest was made by the North Carolina Division of Forest Resources and the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission.

Coastal Runoff Rules Confirmed

RALEIGH (AP) — Despite appeals from environmentalists and shellfishermen, the Environmental Management Commission has approved for the second time new stormwater regulations for the North Carolina coast.

The guidelines approved on a 9-6 vote Thursday were the same rules overwhelmingly adopted on Oct. 8.

Gov. Jim Martin called for a new vote after some commissioners complained that Martin's 10 appointees had met with state officials the night before the October meeting to discuss the issue. The Attorney General's Office issued an opinion that the private meeting had violated the state Open Meetings Law.

The current rule requires developers to control runoff from storms up to 4.5 inches of rain in some counties. The new rule applies to all coastal counties and would drop that requirement to 1.5 inches within 575 feet of shellfishing waters, meaning developers would not have to contain as much rainwater before letting it flow from roofs, parking lots and construction sites into coastal waters.

Onslow County shellfisherman Lena Ritter said the lowered runoff limits would have an adverse impact on shellfishing waters.

"We're desperate," Ms. Ritter said of fishermen. "We're being forced out almost every day."

Even people who buy coastal property expect clean water, she said.

"I hope you people realize if you go this inch and a half that you are making a terrible mistake, not only for coastal properties but for all the people of North Carolina because that water belongs to all of us."

Commission member Jim Wallace of Chapel Hill proposed that the commission delay its vote until its December meeting.

"I fear that taking action upon this set of regulations at this meeting today is not going to serve to amend the error," he said. "And the public impression of haste on our part is going to serve to compound the commission's difficulty insofar as the public perception of this commission is concerned."

But commission member Virgil McBride of Winston-Salem said that delaying a vote "just so that we seem like nice guys is wrong and in the final analysis is detrimental to the environment of North Carolina."

U.S. Tobacco Firms Actively Recruiting Foreign Smokers

By FRED HIATT
L.A. Times-Washington Post News Service

TOKYO — U.S. tobacco companies, dismayed by a shrinking market at home, are rapidly recruiting new smokers in Asia and the developing world, often with the aid of the U.S. government, delegates to an anti-smoking conference here said Thursday.

The percentage of people who smoke in the industrialized world has decreased steadily in recent years, health experts here said, but the proportion of smokers in developing countries is rising. Tobacco companies have particularly targeted young people and women, who traditionally have not smoked in many Asian countries, they said.

"The industry plan is to create demand among Oriental females," said Gregory N. Connolly, an adviser to the World Health Organization. "If you have one billion Oriental females who don't smoke as a market, that would more than replace the quitters in western Europe and North America. ...And death and disease will follow."

Only 14 percent of Japanese women smoke. But more young women are smoking since U.S. pressure forced Japan to import U.S. brands, triggering a television advertising war between U.S. and Japanese manufacturers, according to Tadao Shimao, former director of the Japan Anti-Tuberculosis Foundation and an organizer of the conference.

After the conference, Donald Harris, a spokesman for Philip Morris International, denied that his company has targeted nonsmokers in the Third World. "We're trying to increase our business every place, whether it's Washington, D.C., or Tokyo or any place we do business," Donald Harris said.

Asked about the health consequences of increasing sales, Harris said, "That's not at issue. The science, we've been through that before, and we're comfortable about that. ...It's a statistical matter, not a direct causal connection."

But Roberto Masironi of the World Health Organization said the rise in smoking in the developing world will lead to "a real epidemic of lung cancer." Worldwide, 600,000 new cases of lung cancer are reported each year, he said; by the year 2000, the number will rise to two million, nearly half of them in China.

Several delegates said that U.S. officials, in their zeal to open Asian markets to U.S. tobacco firms, also have interfered with local government efforts to implement health measures. Among the cases they cited:

Last year, Hong Kong announced that it would become the first Asian country to ban "smokeless tobacco," meaning snuff and chewing tobacco. Elaine L. Chung, deputy secretary for health and welfare, said that the U.S. Tobacco Co., maker of Skol and other chewing tobaccos, lobbied hard against the ban and that a trade official of the U.S. consulate called her to complain.

"My reply was that it was a health issue, not a trade issue," Chung recalled Thursday. "We are very proud of having lowered our infant mortality rate, and we would not want all that effort to bring up our precious children wasted when they become teen-agers, to die some horrible death from oral cancer."

In Taiwan, when the U.S. government pressured Taipei to allow imports of U.S. cigarettes, officials also wanted Taiwan to end its ban on cigarette advertising, arguing that new entries in the market need to advertise.

The Ukraine, a republic of the U.S.S.R., has its own seat in the United Nations.

Hundreds Attend Abused Girl's Burial

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 1,000 people mourned Elizabeth Steinberg, a 6-year-old girl who died allegedly at the hands of her adoptive parents, and prayed that their grief and outrage could help save other little lives.

"The world is getting crueler and crueler," said John deBernardi, who wept Thursday as he placed a small bunch of flowers atop the casket. "It's one red rose for every year of her life."

The mourners included the girl's biological mother, Michelle Launders, who won a court fight to bury the daughter she said she had seen for only 20 seconds before giving her up for adoption.

Most of the mourners were unacquainted with the girl until the death made national headlines and her adoptive parents were charged with murder.

Elizabeth, known to family and friends as Lisa, died following three days on life-support systems after police found her Nov. 2, comatose in the Greenwich Village apartment of her adoptive father, lawyer Joel Steinberg.

"We want to believe that Lisa's death is an isolated case, a freak of nature, but yet we know that it is not," said Rabbi Dennis Math, who conducted the service with the Rev. Kevin O'Brien, a Catholic priest.

"We must risk being wrong, embarrassed, or even evoking a neighbor's anger when we feel a child is being harmed," he said.

Steinberg and his live-in lover of 17 years, Hedda Nussbaum, are Jewish; Ms. Launders is Catholic.

"Somehow in the face of innocence subject to suffering we are given a very special pain," O'Brien said. "There is a particular pain in the death of Lisa, because somehow innocence and suffering should not go together."

Ms. Launders was given custody of the body after an all-night court during which she testified, "It's not right to have my child buried by the people who killed her." A funeral home donated its services, and the Archdiocese of New York paid for the burial.

Cardinal John J. O'Connor was among the more than 1,000 visitors to the casket, surrounded by small bouquets and larger floral arrangements. Cards and letters from mourners were left beneath or atop the casket.

"To Lisa, God bless you," read a card with flowers drawn in crayon from 9-year-old Padre Smith. "I hope the angels watch over you."

O'Connor knelt for five minutes amid the cards and flowers, reading one of the letters as he bowed his head.

The mourners, many weeping, visited the white steel casket with gold ornamentation in a steady stream Thursday morning. From there, the body was taken to a cemetery in the suburb of Valhalla, where it was buried at Ms. Launders' family plot.

At Ms. Launders' request, the child was identified on her death certificate as "Baby Girl Launders, also known as Lisa."

The funeral had been delayed while Steinberg and Ms. Launders fought for the right to bury her.

Surrogate Court Judge Marie Lambert had ruled there was no evidence that Steinberg and Ms. Nussbaum had ever legally adopted the child or been given custody.

Decision Postponed On City Bufferyards

Consideration of a proposal that would toughen bufferyard requirements within the city was put off Thursday after members of the Greenville City Council could not come to a consensus regarding placement of vegetation between commercial properties.

Council members Ed Carter and Janice Buck opposed passage, saying that a portion of the proposed requirements were too stringent and were not in keeping with standards employed by other North Carolina cities.

Carter and Buck asked that the proposal be amended, replacing shrubs and trees with ground cover, grass or rock in some commerical uses.

Council members Bill Hadden and Nancy Jenkins said they favored keeping the proposal as it appeared.

The council elected to approve a motion by Council member Lorraine Shinn, who requested that consideration of the matter be delayed until December.

According to city planners, bufferyards are a combination of land and physical barriers which establish separation between land uses and help reduce negative effects when incompatible land uses adjoin one another, city planners.

Study Shows Organized Religion Regains Confidence Of The Public

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Organized religion, which slipped in public esteem last year, is getting back more trust in the eyes of Americans, despite the recent TV evangelism scandals.

But it still hasn't regained the top level of confidence among various institutions that religion held for many years. It now stands even with the military in first rank.

This is the finding of the Princeton, N.J., Religion Research Center, an affiliate of the Gallup organization, based on interviews with a scientifically representative 1,607 adults.

Currently, both organized religion and the military were found to head the field in the degree of people's confidence, 61 percent of them considering those institutions dependable.

Last year, the military had edged ahead, with 63 percent confident in it compared with 57 percent in organized religion, after seven years in which religion had been rated ahead of all the rest.

This time, religion moved back to the top rung but shared it with the military, despite the distrust found to have hit TV ministries because of ex-PTL evangelist Jim Bakker's downfall and other TV preaching excesses.

Standing below religion and the military, in public regard, were these institutions in this order, along with percentages confident in them:

U.S. Supreme Court, 52 percent; banks, 51 percent; public schools, 50 percent; newspapers, 31 percent; television, 28 percent, and organized labor, 26 percent.

As in past surveys, Protestants, women, blacks, older Americans and the less well-educated expressed the greatest confidence in the church, but increased trust in religion showed up in all population groups this time.

New surveys among teen-agers, however, find that faith has edged downward in their estimate, only 44 percent of them considering it very important, compared with 51 percent in 1984.

Fewer of them also believe hard work is very important, down from 82 percent to 70 percent.

Bishops Tackling Domestic Problems

NEW YORK (AP) — Capping a strenuous autumn season, U.S. Roman Catholic bishops convene next week to review accumulated results, and try to tie up some loose ends both on theology and politics.

Their annual meeting in Washington Nov. 16-19 comes after their exertions in organizing the pope's visit in September and the month-long synod of bishops in Rome through October.

Now they're tackling the 53-milion-member church's home agenda.

It deals with, among other things, one of the touchy points they discussed with the pope in Los Angeles — the parameters of theological dissent in the church.

This has been a volatile issue, with Pope John Paul II calling dissent unacceptable, and the Vatican intervening in some notable cases with its own disciplinary measures.

In the bishops' proposed policy statement, they avoid use of the word, "dissent," but they uphold rights of "freedom of inquiry and expression of scholarly opinion."

But the draft, aiming at providing guidelines for resolving disputes between bishops and theologians, stresses the theologians' responsibilities to the church.

Their role is described as one of "critical fidelity".

Discouraging resort to disciplinary actions in event of a dispute, the proposed document recommends dialogue between the theologian and his bishop and various non-disciplinary procedures to resolve differences.

THE PEACEFUL ONE!

SOLOMON WAS KING DAVID'S YOUNGEST SON, THE CHILD OF DAVID'S OLD AGE. THE YEARNINGS OF THIS WARLIKE KING FOR FUTURE YEARS OF PEACE WERE EXPRESSED IN THE NAME THAT DAVID BESTOWED UPON THIS NEWBORN INFANT—SOLOMON=THE PEACEFUL ONE! AND NATHAN, THE HIGH PRIEST, WENT DAVID ONE BETTER, CALLING THE INFANT SOLOMON, JEDIDIAH=DARLING OF THE LORD! (II SAM. 12:24,25) SOLOMON, BY THE WAY, WAS PLACED UNDER NATHAN'S CARE FROM HIS EARLIEST INFANCY. AT THIS TIME THERE WAS NO INTENT ON DAVID'S PART TO MAKE SOLOMON HIS HEIR—AFTER ALL, ABSALOM WAS KING DAVID'S FAVORITE SON AND LOOKED ON BY THE PEOPLE AS THE DESTINED SUCCESSOR (II SAM. 15:1-6) BUT ON THE DEATH OF ABSALOM, WHEN SOLOMON WAS 10 YEARS OLD, DAVID PLEDGED HIS WORD, IN SECRET TO BATH-SHEBA, HIS MOTHER, THAT SOLOMON, AND NO OTHER, SHOULD BE THE HEIR TO THE THRONE (I KINGS 1:13) AND TRULY, SOLOMON WAS THE ONLY KING TO REIGN FOR FORTY YEARS IN UTTER, PEACEFUL PROSPERITY!

Baptists Avoid Women's Roles

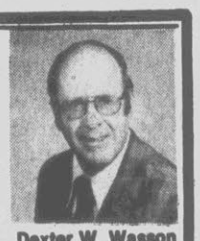

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Tennessee Baptist Association's decision not to take up the controversial issue of women's ordination affirms the autonomy of the local church, says the state's first woman pastor of a Southern Baptist congregation.

The Rev. Nancy Sehested said the association's decision Thursday not to consider a resolution to expel her church, Prescott Memorial Baptist Church of Memphis, affirms the Baptist principle of "autonomy of the local church and the priesthood of all believers."

"I hope this is a sign that Tennessee Baptists will do all they can to open doors to women who are called by God to Christian service," said Mrs. Sehested.

Although she was pleased that no negative action was taken, Mrs. Sehested said she would have preferred a statement of affirmation for her church.

Farm-City Observance Breakfast Held Today

By ROSALIE TROTMAN
Reflector Lifestyle Editor

"Nearly 50 percent of our people live in rural communities and small rural towns", Ned Champion, director of broadcast services for the N.C. Farm Bureau Federation, told the Pitt County Farm Bureau Womens' Committee which began the local observance of Farm-City Month this morning at a breakfast.

"We recognize the importance of the relationship between city and county. Our nation, state and county were founded on farming. They were self-sufficient. A lot of changes have taken place over the past 200 years. In colonial N.C., it was tobacco in the northeast and cattle and swine in the lower regions that drove the economy of the time," he said.

"It was through the bounty of our farms that we were able to build schools, to build roads and to build towns. Our state today — even with our great centers of learning, our industrial parks and research centers — is still largely rural." he said.

"Our farms have bequeathed much more to us than mere institutions. A treasured part of our legacy are those intrinsic, eternal values that have given us identity as a people. Values such as a reverence for family and tradition; a concern for thrift; a belief in hard work; a love of the land, and a feeling for our fellowman. It is not surprising that we have developed a profound emotional attachment to our land and identify ourselves with those who till the soil. Yet, I suggest to you today that we must guard ourselves against letting our sentiments and sense of nostalgia cloud our understanding of American agriculture," he said.

"It's okay to treasure that tattered old picture of grandpa behind his plow, as long as we also have a clear vision of today's farmer as he sits on his $50,000 tractor. American agriculture in 1987 is a dynamic part of our total economy," Champion said.

"Farm-city activities such as this meeting today give us a chance to get together to talk, to plan, to dream, and work," he said. Champion paid tribute to the womens' committee for their activities including public relations and auction sale which benefited the R. Flake Shaw Scholarship Fund.

Janice Bliss, coordinator of womens' programs for the N.C. Farm Bureau Federation, said, "Even though times are tough for farmers, Pitt County Farm Bureau Women are working diligently to tell the true story of agriculture and encourage farmers to stay on the farm."

The theme of Farm-City Month is "Partners in Progress." Mrs. Wilbur Worthington was chairman of the breakfast. Mrs. Atlas Wooten is chairman of the local Womens Committee. Mrs. Worthington recognized Farm Bureau women present, who introduced their guests.

"The purpose of the breakfast was to give farm women the opportunity to inform their non-farm friends the importance of agriculture in Pitt County," said Mrs. Worthington.

Little People Get Boost

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I saw a letter in your column advertising Tall Clubs International, so I hope you will do as much for short people. Our club, the Billy Barty Foundation for Little People, is a non-profit organization founded by Billy Barty in 1957 for anyone 4 foot 10 and under.

The foundation fights for little people's rights. It also acts as a resource center, giving information about available jobs, special clothing, shoes, health care, independent living and emotional support as well as social interaction. We welcome people of all ages, races and religions. For information about the club nearest you, write to: Billy Barty Foundation for Little People, 10954 Moorpark St., North Hollywood, Calif. 91602. Please enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope, and be patient because we rely on volunteers to staff our office. — SHARON ALBERTS

DEAR SHARON: Here's hoping this gives "little people" a big boost.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter has a 10-month-old son, and I can't believe some of the advice she's been receiving from some friends and relatives regarding disciplining her child. For example: "Never remove articles that you don't want the baby to touch. Each time he touches or grabs something he shouldn't, say NO firmly, then slap his hand. He has to learn!"

Please print your opinion. — CHICAGO GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: I go along with letting a child know what he may and may not touch, but children are smart and often test their limits. So, mothers, remove your highly prized pieces, or the one who will learn the lesson will be you.

DEAR ABBY: This concerns the safety of our four young children (three girls ages 8, 7 and 6, and a son almost 4). The other day we were shopping in a mall department store. While I was shopping in one part of the store, my wife took the four children to another area of the store. When I went to join her, I found the children alone in the toy section. She had left them there while she went to the catalog department, which was in another section of the building — out of sight and sound of the toy area.

I was very upset and don't feel that they should be left alone yet. She says that they can take care of themselves. Abby, the two younger ones are a handful for us, and I can't see how they can be controlled by an 8-year-old. Kidnapping, although very unlikely, is a fear of mine. Also they could get hurt, or damage something. Am I wrong? Also, at what age can the oldest be left alone at home to baby-sit the others? — OVER-PROTECTIVE FATHER?

DEAR FATHER: "Overprotective"? Not in my book. Three children 7 and under should not be left in the care of an 8-year-old. Furthermore, children under 12 should not be left unsupervised in a toy department — or any other department, for that matter. Unattended children have been known to "disappear" from shopping malls and other public places.

The age at which a child is competent to look after younger siblings would depend on the level of maturity of the child. In my view, the average 8-year-old lacks four or five years to qualify.

(For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (30 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.)

Greenville Garden Club Gets Awards

TARBORO — Several awards were presented to the Greenville Garden Club at the District 12 meeting held in Tarboro last week.

The local club received a blue ribbon for its 1987-88 yearbook and a first prize and blue ribbon for an anti-litter exhibit, a Tomorrow's Legacy Certificate and an honor certificate.

Club members are participating in environmental concerns including recycling glass and paper. A recent exhibit was included in the Pitt County Agriculture Fair on "What Can be Done With Pine Cones and Pods." It included wreaths, baskets, swags, Halloween centerpieces, bird feeders and a Christmas tree. Each of the itmes were things which could be made from local materials. The club's anti-litter campaign was part of the fair exhibit.

The district report was given by Mrs. R.M. Helms, president of the club.

Bridal Policy

A black and white glossy five by seven photograph is requested for engagement announcements in The Daily Reflector. For publication in a Sunday edition, the information must be submitted by 12 noon on the preceding Wednesday. Engagement pictures must be released at least three weeks prior to the wedding date. After three weeks, only an announcement will be printed.

Wedding write-ups will be printed through the first week with a one column picture. During the second week, a one column picture will be used with a write-up giving less description and after the second week, just as an announcement.

Wedding forms and pictures should be returned to The Daily Reflector one week prior to the date of the wedding. All information should be typed or written neatly.

Garden Club Has Speaker

Wood Jarvis was speaker at the meeting of the Lakewood Pines Garden Club held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Norwin Pierce.

"The Future Widening of Evans Street" was Jarvis' program topic. He is employed by the Department of Transportation, landscape division.

Fran Williams and Ruth Moscop were welcomed as new members by President Mrs. Jerry Angevine.

Mrs. Eugene Brunelle was assisting hostess. A luncheon followed the meeting and guests included members' husbands and area neighbors.

Dr. Rosenfeld Is Forum Speaker

Dr. Vila M. Rosenfeld, of the East Carolina University School of Education, was a forum speaker at the 70th annual meeting of the N.C. Home Economics Association held in Asheville.

The convention theme was "Crossroads to the 21st Century." New technology in food and housing, single parenthood, planning ahead for elderly care and teenage pregnancy were some of the areas presented during the seminars, workshops and research reports.

Sorority To Give Funds To UCP Center

A $525 contribution will be made to the United Cerebral Palsy Center by Xi Gamma Xi chapter of Beta Sigma Sorority as a service project.

A program on fire safety in the home was given by Capt. Mike Branch, fire prevention coordinator for the city's fire-rescue department. He stressed the importance of having a fire evacuation plan for the home. "Every home should have a smoke detector that is tested periodically for workability. Smoke detectors will be installed at no cost for any individual living in the city by calling the city fire department," he said.

Linda Schadler was welcomed as a transferee member from Charlotte.

Sharon Smith reviewed the Book of Beta Sigma Phi.

A sorority trip to Williamsburg will be held Saturday. The group's Christmas dinner party will be held Dec. 5 at the Colonial Inn.

Retail Sails Rise

economists have suggested that the stock market collapse could bring about a slowdown in overall economic activity, further reducing price pressures in the months to come. But rising import prices due to the weak U.S. dollar could show up as slightly higher inflation next year, analysts suggested.

Today's reports, said Dirk Van Dongen, president of the National Association of Wholesalers-Distributors, were "good news. There's no other way to interpret it."

Economist Sandra Shaber of the Futures Group, a consulting firm, commented, "Every tea leaf that I can find shows that the impact of the stock market crash has been small on consumers, at least thus far."

More cautiously, Lawrence Chimerine, president of Wharton Econometric Forecasting Associates, said he feels the new retail sales figures don't give much of an indication about consumer confidence.

"If there's going to be any reaction, it's going to take several months," he said.

The Producer Price Index for finished goods, which measures price activity one stop short of the retail level, showed energy prices falling. But the 1.0 percent decline was not as steep as the 3.7 percent drop in September.

Gasoline prices, which had tumbled 6.4 percent in September, fell 0.6 percent. Fuel oil prices were up 2.2 percent, after a huge 11.4 percent drop. Natural gas prices fell 2.7 percent.

Food prices, up a sharp 1.1 percent in September, fell 0.1 percent in October, reflecting in large part a bountiful fall harvest.

Passing Rate Falls

graduates taking the test for the first time this year failed. In 1986, A&T had a pass rate of 80 percent.

N.C. Central's passing rate was 45.8 percent.

Dawson said he does not know what to make of the declines.

"It may just have been a bad year," Dawson said. "Those things happen."

For a school to be in compliance with standards of the N.C. State Board of Nursing, the pass rates of its graduates taking the licensing exam for the first time must be at least 60 percent in any given year and 70 percent over any three-year period. Two institutions, A&T and N.C. Central, are not in compliance with this standard and are subject to further review by the state board, Dawson said in his report.

Only two of the nine nursing programs in the UNC system showed an increase in passing rates this year — UNC-Wilmington, with a passing rate of 100 percent, and UNC-Charlotte, where 87 percent passed.

At UNC-Chapel Hill, Western Carolina University and Winston-Salem State University, the numbers dropped, but only slightly. Passing rates at those schools were 87 percent, 88 percent and 75 percent, respectively.

Dawson's report also showed there was a significant drop in the number of graduates taking the test for the first time — 534 in 1986 compared with 456 this year.

Zoning

15S (single family residential) to O&I II (office and institutional), to allow First Federal to enlarge its parking lot.

Consideration of a request by Clyde Simmons to amend the city zoning ordinance to allow a floral shop to operate as a permitted use in the MD-2 medical zoning district was continued.

Meanwhile, the council passed a budget amendment appropriating $22,700 to be used for office renovations at City Hall, implementation of a police seniority equalization pay program, and to support various organizational changes.

In blanket action, council members approved consent-agenda items, establishing a 25 mph speed limit on Kent Road and a no parking zone on Anderson Street between 10th and 11th streets. Also approved was the sale of 6,100 square feet of city-owned property in the South Evans Community Development Project for $28,500 and the appointment of City Planner Bobby Roberson as a council representative to the Mid-East Commission. In final action, the council approved endorsement of Council member Nancy M. Jenkins as a candidate for the board of directors of the N.C. League of Municipalities.

Tar River Bridges In New TIP

grading, drainage and structures — "is now scheduled for letting next month, with board approval scheduled for January 1988." And paving for the project, estimated to be some $4.6 million, is scheduled for fiscal 1990 and 1991.

Doub said the northwest Greenville bypass remains on schedule in the TIP, at a total cost of $38.17 million. He said $7.5 million has been programmed for fiscal year 1988 and 1989 for right-of-way acquisition, while $24.9 million is included in the TIP for grading and structures in fiscal years 1990 and 1991 and an additional $5.5 million is set up for paving in fiscal years 1992, 1993 and 1994.

And Arlington Boulevard, from the new U.S. 264 to Memorial Drive, is still included in the road improvement program for right-of-way acquisition in fiscal 1995, with construction in fiscal 1996. But again, because of House Bill 1211, the project is subject to DOT review.

However, Doub said the Transportation Department "is pursuing other alternatives for construction of Arlington Boulevard ahead of schedule, such as right-of-way donation and developer participation."

The rehabilitation of N.C. 903, from U.S. 13 to the Martin County line, is scheduled for construction in fiscal year 1989, while the Greenville southwest bypass (from the intersection of U.S. 264 and the proposed northwest bypass to N.C. 11 at the intersection of Secondary Road 1707, the Cannons Crossroads Road just south of Pitt Community College), widening of N.C. 43 south from Greenville to Bells Fork, and the widening of N.C. 33 east from Greenville to SR 1726 (just east of Pinewood Memorial Park) remain in the transportation plan for feasibility study and right-of-way protection.

Doub said one TIP project of interest to Greenville area residents, although not in Pitt County, is the addition of full funding for the four-laning of N.C. 11 south of Kinston to I-40 and Wilmington.

Saying the project "will have a significant impact" on Pitt County and eastern North Carolina, Doub said right-of-way acquisition for the section from Jackson's Store to Pink Hill is scheduled for fiscal 1992 and construction in 1993 and 1994, at a cost of $23.4 million.

Right-of-way acquisition on N.C. 11 from Pink Hill to Keanansville is scheduled to begin in fiscal 1994 and construction in fiscal 1996 at a total cost of $36.4 million, while the section from Keanansville — a $24 million project on a new location — is scheduled for right-of-way acquisition in fiscal 1991 and 1993, with construction in fiscal 1992, 1994 and 1996.

In addition to the projects included in the new TIP, Doub said the transportation board approved a $2.1 million contract with Barrus Construction Co. of Kinston for widening, resurfacing and milling 98.6 miles of .10 primary and 29 sections of secondary roads in Pitt and Beaufort Counties.

Among projects in Pitt County included in the package, Doub said, are the widening and resurfacing of 8.45 miles of SR 1200, the Stantonsburg Road, from N.C. 121 north of Farmville, to Greenville, and resurfacing 15.75 miles of N.C. 43 from south of Greenville to the Craven County line.

The resurfacing of sections of U.S. 264 alternate near Farmville are also among the Pitt County projects.

Photos Mailed

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Division of Motor Vehicles is sending millions of photos of Gov. Jim Martin and his highway safety message in renewal notices for license plates and driver's licenses, and the move is getting criticism from Democrats.

In October, the department began sending out the first batch of fliers, transportation officials said. About 380,000 will be sent out each month.

Ken Eudy, executive director of the state Democratic Party, called the fliers an "outrageous" example of using taxpayers' money for political gains.

But Jim Sughrue, spokesman for the N.C. Department of Transportation, said there was nothing political about the statement, "unless you want to run out and find somebody that's opposed to highway safety."

ECU Goes For Winning Season

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

The 1987 football season comes to an end Saturday afternoon in Hattiesburg, Miss., for East Carolina's Pirates and the question of whether the Pirates can go out with a winning record is on the line.

Not since 1983 has a Pirate team posted a winning record, but they have the opportunity against hosting Southern Mississippi in the 2 p.m. (EST) game.

East Carolina comes into the game with a 5-5 record after its 31-26 victory over Temple last Saturday. Southern Mississippi saw a three-game winning streak snapped by Division I-AA power Northeastern Louisiana last Saturday, 34-24.

The game is a double-edged vehicle for the Pirates. Not only to they want to win to earn themselves a winning season, but they want to enact a certain measure of revenge on the Golden Eagles.

Last year, the Pirates, behind freshman quarterback Charlie Libretto, mounted an 80-yard drive that culminated in a 20-yard pass from Libretto to Walter Wilson that closed the gap from 20-13 to 20-19. ECU went for two and were successful when Jarrod Moody caught another Libretto pass, giving the Pirates a 21-20 lead with just eight seconds left.

But a "Hail, Mary" pass from USM quarterback Andrew Anderson connected with Lyneal Alston, who caught the ball in a crowd, coming out dragging defensive back Robert Martin. Martin was unable to drag Alston down until he reached the 10, where the ball carrier pitched forward to another teammate who went into the end zone.

What the officials had missed — confirmed by films — was that Alston was down prior to making the pitch, and the play should have ended there. However, they ruled the pitch an illegal play and offered ECU the option.

In this case, it was the Tiger or the Tiger — the touchdown, or a five-yard penalty from the 10 and a sure field goal. The Pirates had no choice but to elect for the field goal attempt, which was good on the untimed down, giving Southern Mississippi the 23-21 victory.

The supervisor of officials for the Southern Independents came to Greenville and viewed various game film and television shots of the play and admitted that the officials did, indeed, blow the play — and the game.

But it was of little consolation, since there was nothing else that could be done. The loss was official — despite it being the wrong.

"We all remember last year," Coach Art Baker said, "and I still think we won the game, but I guess it goes down in their book as a win. I'm sure that last year's game will be an incentive to us, but we have to concentrate on the winning season as our best motivation."

Baker pointed out that the loss to Northeastern was somewhat of a surprise to the Eagles and they may want to take out their frustrations on the Pirates. "But that win can be deceptive. (Northeastern) beat Georgia Southern as bad as they have been beaten this year." ECU earlier knocked off Georgia Southern, 16-13.

And Baker also said he didn't feel that the loss to Northeastern would be of any help to the Pirates.

"Southern Mississippi has a good team with a young quarterback. Their defense is the same as last year's, and we had trouble against it. Still, I'll be very surprised if we're not ready to play this one," Baker said.

East Carolina, unlike last week when Temple went with the wishbone nearly the whole game in a surprise move, should be better prepared this week. "Southern Mississippi probably won't do anything that we haven't seen them to. They are an option team and they do a very good job with it."

Quarterback Brett Favre, a freshman, has completed 46 of 135 passes for 737 yards and 10 touchdowns. He's had nine picked off.

The leading rusher, tailback Shelton Gandy, has rushed for 967 yards and will be seeking to become only the seventh Golden Eagle to collect 1,000 in a single season. He's scored six touchdowns.

The Golden Eagles have given up nearly 200 yards a game through the air this year, but that is a deceptive figure. They've intercepted 19 of the opponents' aerials, returning them 132 yards. East Carolina, in contrast, has only 11 interceptions in one more game.

The Pirates have rushed for 215.7 yards a game, while holding opponents to 192.3. That's in contrast with the Eagles, who have picked up 192.2 on the ground and given up 203.4.

Through the air, the Pirates have allowed 216.0 while picking up 122.8. Southern has allowed 182.9 while passing for 102.8.

Anthony Simpson is the leading Pirate rusher with 612 yards on 139 carries. Reggie McKinney, who carried but once last week, had 478 yards while quarterback Travis Hunter has rushed for 359 yards.

Hunter has completed 71 of 139 passes for 1,050 yards, two touchdowns and five interceptions. He has surpassed 200 yards passing on several occasions this fall.

The key may be which team can slow down the other's option offense.

Southern Mississippi has one game remaining after the contest, a Nov. 28 meeting at Southwestern Louisiana.

By then, the Pirates will be planning a new season. They are just hoping that a 6-5 finish for 1987 will make working for 1988 a little happier.

Hoosiers, Spartans Battle For Roses

By The Associated Press

The Spartans will be at home to Indiana, ranked No. 16 in this week's Associated Press poll. Last year, with the same scenario, Indiana came away with a 17-14 victory.

Michigan State Coach George Perles won't even show the Spartans the films of that game.

"I want to keep things positive this week," Perles said.

In last year's game, the Hoosiers committed just one turnover to Michigan State's five while rolling up 153 yards on the ground and 147 through the air. The passing yards all came from backup quarterback Dave Kramme, who came in when starter Dave Schnell suffered a shoulder separation.

Kramme will be the starter this week while Schnell recovers from an appendectomy that kept him out of last week's game against Illinois.

"Dave Kramme is a very good quarterback, and he really moves the team," Michigan State defensive tackle Mark Nichols said. "I'm not sure Schnell was their best guy, anyway."

A Michigan State victory will give the Spartans the Big Ten Conference title and a trip to the Rose Bowl. If Indiana wins, the Hoosiers must also beat Purdue the following week in order to represent the conference against the Pac-10 winner on New Year's Day.

"Our team knows what's riding on this ballgame," Indiana Coach Bill Mallory said. "They know where they are and what's at stake."

Indiana is 5-1 in the conference and 7-2 overall. Michigan State is 5-0-1 and 6-2-1.

"I don't think you can call us a team of destiny," Mallory said. "When you look at us, we've done what we've had to do to win. We're a football team.

"I'm not saying we've got a lot of strengths, but we're not too shabby, either. We're not the fanciest bunch, but our kids will hang in and battle you."

In Saturday games involving The Assocaited Press Top Ten, it will be No. 1-ranked Oklahoma at home against Missouri, No. 3 Miami of Florida playing host to Virginia Tech, No. 4 Florida State at home against Furman, No. 5 UCLA at home against against Washington, No. 6 Syracuse at home against Boston College, No. 7 Notre Dame playing host to No. 11 Alabama, No. 8 Georgia at home against No. 12 Auburn, No. 9 Clemson against invading Maryland and No. 10 Louisiana State at home against Mississippi State. No. 2 Nebraska is idle.

In the Second Ten, No. 14 South Carolina is at Wake Forest, No. 15 Penn State is at Pittsburgh, No. 17 Oklahoma State is at Kansas, No. 18 Tennessee is at home to Mississippi and No. 19 Texas A&M is at home against No. 20 Arkansas.

Only one school — San Jose State — has clinched a postseason bowl berth. The Spartans will meet the Mid-American Conference champion — Eastern Michigan has earned at least a tie for that title — in the California Bowl on Dec. 12.

UCLA can clinch the Pac-10 crown and a Rose Bowl berth if its beats Washington and Southern Cal ties or loses to Arizona. Arkansas can earn at least a share of the Southwest Conference title and a Cotton Bowl bid by defeating Texas A&M.

If Georgia defeats Auburn, the Bulldogs can do no worse than tie for the title in the Southeastern Conference, whose champion goes to the Sugar Bowl.

The Orange Bowl, looking at the possibility of staging a national championship game on Jan. 1, will have to wait another week to get the Big Eight champion, which will be determined when Oklahoma meets Nebraska in a battle of 9-0 teams. By then it will have to decide between Miami, 7-0, or Syracuse, 9-0, the only other undefeated teams in the Top Twenty.

The Miami Hurricanes have four games left, and that creates a problem for the Orange Bowl committee — especially since two of those late opponents are Notre Dame and South Carolina.

"It's really too soon for anybody to be talking about actual bids going out," University of Miami spokesman Larry Wahl said. "We're talking with several bowls, but no decision will be made until the Nov. 21 pick 'em day."

Syracuse is going for its 11th consecutive victory, dating back to last year, against Boston College. It was the Eagles who handed Syracuse its last defeat, 27-9 in the 10th game of 1986.

Boston College is playing its third ranked team in as many weeks. The Eagles, 5-5, beat Tennessee 20-18 and last week dropped a 32-25 decision when Notre Dame rallied from a 13-point deficit.

Eastern Michigan has clinched a share of its first-ever Mid-American Conference title, and a victory over Bowling Green on Saturday would give the Hurons the title outright. That's quite a turnaround for a school that won just seven games from 1979 to 1984 and was almost kicked out of the conference three years ago because of poor home attendance.

"Surprise isn't the word for it," Eastern Michigan Coach Jim Harkema said. "Proud is more like it, I guess. Our guys have found a way to overcome a lot of adversity."

Court Rules For Group

DANBURY (AP) — A Stokes Superior Court judge has ruled in favor of a decision by the North Carolina High School Athletic Association which declared an Elkin High School football player ineligible because he didn't meet association requirements.

The decision by Judge James M. Long clears the way for tonight's 1-A football playoffs to begin with three Blue Ridge Conference teams.

Attorneys representing Tim Hodges had attempted to overturn the decision by the NCHSAA, which would have sent Elkin to the playoff and eliminated Beaver Creek.

"Obviously, we're very pleased that this case is out of the courts and back on the football field," NCHSAA executive director Charles Adams said in a telephone interview. "We feel badly for the teams that were held up, but it's somewhat of an equitable situation in that they're paired against each other."

Seahawks Enter Life Without Brian Rowsom

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

UNC-Wilmington basketball coach Robert McPherson might look to Navy's Pete Herrmann for a shoulder to cry on this year as the two teams prepare to open the 1987-88 season.

Both teams lost superstars, and both are hoping to recover from that loss.

Herrmann, of course, lost David Robinson, who was the National Player of the Year. And while McPherson can't quite claim the same thing, he can claim that his Seahawks lost the man who would have been Player of the Year in the Colonial Athletic Association were it not for Robinson's presence — Brian Rowsom.

Rowsom concluded an outstanding career at UNC-Wilmington, Rowsom ended his career at Wilmington with a 21.8 point per game senior year, with 11.5 rebounds. Also gone from the team is Sandy Anderson, who averaged 10.9 points a game.

So, McPherson spend the off-season hitting the recruiting trail. As a result, he's brought in four new junior college transfers and a trio of freshmen. How quickly they jell together with his returning players is the question.

If that chemistry works early, the Seahawks could project themselves into the heat of the conference race. If not, UNCW will be banging around in the lower division.

"We have the quickness to be a good basketball team," McPherson said. "But we don't have the experience. I think we'll be able to do the job on the perimeter, but I don't know how well we'll be able to rebound."

McPherson's junior college people bring in some healthy statistics to begin with. Larry Houzer, a 6-8, 185-pound center, averaged 17.8 points and 9.1 rebounds at Jefferson Junior College. Antonio Howard, a 6-3 guard, pumped in 12.9 points while playing for Emanuel Junior College. Willie Williams, a 6-0 guard, scored 18.4 points a game at Faulkner while Tim Brewer, a 6-7 forward, hit 11.0 points and pulled 7.0 rebounds at Westark.

But they'll have to blend in with several key returning players, tops among them, 6-6 junior forward Greg Bender, who averaged 8.1 points and 5.3 rebounds. Also returning is Mark Gary, a 6-3 junior guard, who averaged 7.1 points a game and Ricky Griffin, a 6-3 guard/forward. All three are projected as starters for the Seahawks this fall.

The other guard may be Adam Porter, a 6-1 junior who sat out last year with a knee injury.

Chief among the freshmen are Brannon Lancaster, a 6-0 guard who averaged 21.66 points as a high school senior, and Scott Tierney, a 6-6 forward with a 14.0 scoring and 10.0 rebounding average.

"It's impossible to replace Brian Rowsom," McPherson said. "Instead of depending on one player, we'll be spreading the scoring out between more players. We won't be as big at the center spot, but we'll have better jumpers and more quickness."

McPherson said that Bender will be one of those he will rely on. "He'll have to increase his point production to double figures. He's one of the fiercest competitiors on the ball club and a lot of our forward success depednds on how well he improves his game."

McPherson also feels that the Seahawks will be stronger at the guard positions, with more quality depth.

McPherson says that despite the number of new players, half the team knows him now instead of none of them like last year. "I'm much more comfortable but we have a lot of work to do. You don't lose two players like Brian Rowsom and Sandy Anderson and not miss them.

"We have better speed and more quickness than last season, but this ball club is an inexperienced one. We're probably a year away from being a real fine basketball team," McPherson said.

"I think they key to this team is not how good or big we are. It's how quickly we come together and establish a team chemistry. If we can establish that, this team has some possibilities."

Ferry Leads Duke By Italians

DURHAM (AP) — Danny Ferry scored 24 points and John Smith added 22 to lead Duke to a 98-79 victory over the Italian National Team in exhibition basketball at Cameron Indoor Stadium Thursday.

Ferry scored five points in a 12-2 spurt as the Blue Devils broke open a 59-53 game with 14:56 remaining.

On Duke's next possession, Ferry was fouled by Stefano Rusconi and converted a free throw. After a Duke steal, Ferry connected on a jumper to give Duke a 64-55 lead.

Robert Brickey followed with two jump shots to widen the Blue Devils lead to 68-55.

The Italians kept the game close in the first half, which ended with Duke on top 44-43 as Smith scored 12 points.

The Italians took the lead 45-44 early in the final half when Antonello Riva scored on a follow shot.

Smith and Billy King followed with baskets for Duke as the Blue Devils took the lead for good.

Brickey finished with 15 points for Duke.

Newman Memoralizes Longtime Friend

CLEMMONS (AP) — Race car driver Jim Fitzgerald brought as much to living as he brought to racing, actor Paul Newman says.

Newman, who saw his longtime friend and mentor killed in St. Petersburg's Grand Prix this week, spoke Thursday at Fitzgerald's funeral. He recalled a trip he made to Florida with Fitzgerald.

"I complained bitterly that the architecture had no shape, no definition," Newman said. "One of the men said to me, 'Mr. Newman, people have been coming to Florida for 100 years and none have brought anything with them.'

"Jim laughed as hard at that as anything he'd ever heard. It seems a lot of people go through life and don't bring anything with them. But he left a big imprint," Newman said. "And I just know wherever he is, he's got a helluva good ride. He's hustling around in corners and he's cleaning up."

Newman was among hundreds of mourners for the winningest driver in Sports Car Club of America history.

Fitzgerald, a Clemmons resident, died Sunday when the Nissan ZX Turbo he was driving spun out of control and slammed into a concrete barrier during the 100-mile Florida road race. He was 65.

Fitzgerald, who taught Newman the art of road racing in 1972 during the racing film "Winning," joined the Newman-Bob Sharp Racing team out of Danbury, Conn., three years ago.

Sharp recalled Fitzgerald's "joyfulness" and the fact that he had "more friends then anyone else."

"The wonderful spirit he brought to race car driving as an ambassador to our sport is something that few other people could have done," Sharp said.

Andy Bean Holds 3-Shot Lead

KAPALUA, Hawaii (AP) — Andy Bean knew he had a problem.

"Often, the hardest thing in the world to do is put together good rounds back to back," he said.

And, at the start of Thursday's play in the $600,000 Kapalua International Golf Tournament, it appeared Bean wouldn't able to follow an opening 66 with a decent second-round score.

He failed to birdie the par-5 opening hole — "like giving away a shot," the long-hitting Bean said — then missed the green on No. 3 and faced an 18-foot putt for par.

He made the par putt.

"That turned it all around," Bean said. "I felt great. I felt like, 'We're off. Let's go. Let's see what we can do.' "

Bean romped through the final 15 holes, trimming seven strokes off par to finish with a 65. His two-round total of 131 gave him a three-shot lead at the midway point.

Bean, the defending champion of this unofficial but PGA Tour-sanctioned event, completed 36 holes without making a bogey. He set a tournament record with his 13-under-par score after two tours of the 6,761-yard Bay course at the Kapalua resort.

"I feel like it's January and we're just starting the season," said Bean, who missed most of the 1987 season with an elbow injury.

"That's the best I've played in a long time, the best in at least two years," said Bean, who had a gaudy collection of nine 3s on his card.

Lanny Wadkins and Sandy Lyle of Scotland each staged a rally to gain a tie for second at 134. Wadkins came back from a double bogey on No. 2 to score seven birdies — giving him 15 for two days — and a 67. Lyle also had to overcome a front-side double bogey, as well as some stomach problems, to salvage a 69.

Payne Stewart, who had a 69, was at 136, five shots off the pace. It was two strokes further back to Ben Crenshaw and Ian Woosnam of Wales. Crenshaw had a 66, Woosnam a 70.

Jack Nicklaus improved with a 70 on Thursday, but was well back at 143.

Jeff Dunn Not Acting Like Redshirt

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — The program says Alabama quarterback Jeff Dunn is a redshirt freshman, but he sure doesn't act like one.

"All the guys in the huddle are looking up at the quarterback," he said. "I don't think these guys look at me a freshman. Maybe at first, but not anymore."

Dunn got his initial start against Tennessee Oct. 17 under the worst of circumstances — Top 10 opponent, national television audience, and Alabama coming off one of its worst games in years, a 13-10 loss to Memphis State.

All he did was complete 10 of 17 passes for 229 yards, including a 90-yard touchdown to Pierre Goode, in leading Alabama to a 41-22 victory. The 11th-ranked Crimson Tide hasn't lost since and stands at 7-2 heading into Saturday's game against No. 7 Notre Dame.

"I didn't get nervous," Dunn said of his first start. "I was nervous when I ran out on the field for the first play, but after that everything went pretty good.

"I wasn't worried about national TV. I don't worry about if we're on TV or off TV. I don't worry if there's a big crowd. ... I'm just going out there and trying to do my best and trying to be consistent and be a leader."

Is there anything that bothers the Dunn on the football field? "No," he replied.

Dunn, who has completed 29 of 60 passes for 429 yards and three touchdowns, was handed the starting job after injuries knocked out Alabama's top two quarterbacks, David Smith and Vince Sutton.

Smith, who is recovering from a broken collarbone, has been a "tremendous help," Dunn said in an interview. "David has a great idea of what's going on on the football field."

At 6-foot-2, 200 pounds, Dunn has the size that coaches dream about in a quarterback. But he didn't get a chance to play the position until his senior year of high school at Greensboro, N.C.

Todd Ellis, who now stars at South Carolina, held the job at Page High School while Dunn played defensive back his sophomore and junior seasons. When Ellis graduated, Dunn moved to the other side of the line and led his team to a 15-0 record and a Class 4A state championship. He threw for 2,500 yards and 19 touchdowns.

Dunn decided to come to Alabama last year even though the Tide was already loaded with quarterbacks — Mike Shula (who has graduated), Smith and Sutton — and another highly recruited prep signal-caller, Billy Ray, also was signing with the Tide.

"When I came here, I knew I was most likely to be redshirted," Dunn said. "But after that, I knew it would be a very competitive situation with David and Vince and Billy. That's what you come to places like this for — to win the starting job. Competitive situations make you better. ... I've never shied away from a competitive situation."

One thing he has avoided is losses. Dunn's team has never lost a game in which he was the starting quarterback, a streak of 18 games counting his prep career and three starts this season.

Different Styles For Rivals

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Both teams are shooting for their first Rose Bowl trip in 20 years, but the atmosphere around the Michigan State campus is markedly different than at Indiana.

Victory on Saturday in Spartan Stadium will virtually assure one of the teams the Big Ten title and a trip to Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's Day.

However, at Indiana, where basketball is king, there was practically no indication of euphoria or anticipation of the coming football battle.

As the Hoosiers prepared for the Spartans, in fact, thousands of Indiana students stood in line for more than an hour for tickets assignments for six of the school's basketball games.

But that's understandable. The Hoosiers have won five NCAA basketball titles, and are the current defending champions. The last time Indiana won the Big Ten football title was 1967 when Johnny Pont's team tied for the championship.

Football at Michigan State, on the other hand, has been a major attraction for a long time, even when Magic Johnson was guiding the Spartans to the 1979 NCAA basketball title.

The Spartans, although sometimes relegated to the shadows by the University of Michigan, are regular suppliers of behemoths to the NFL.

And, don't forget the 1966 version of the Game of the Century, the 10-10 tie with Notre Dame, was played in Spartan Stadium.

Talk in East Lansing and nearby Lansing, the state capital, has centered all week around the game and the Rose Bowl trip.

"I just got back from our booster club meeting and it was packed, easily our biggest crowd of the year," said Nick Vista, who will retire after this year as Michigan State's sports information director. "The fever is really starting to build."

The players feel it, too.

"My girlfriend was saying the other day, 'If you guys win, I'm going to go out there to Pasadena with you,' " offensive tackle David Houle said. "I told here to stop talking about it. I don't want anything to jinx this thing."

The Spartans last played in the Rose Bowl in 1966. Michigan State also tied for the Big Ten championship in 1978, but was unable to go to the Rose Bowl because it was on probation.

All six home games in 76,000-seat Spartan Stadium this season have been sellouts. That includes the opener against Southern Cal on Labor Day, three weeks before students reported to campus for the fall semester.

The Michigan State hockey team has sold out the last 50 games or so, and basketball regularly sells out, but both play in relatively small arenas.

In six home football games this year, Michigan State's attendance of 462,815 is 141,890 more than the five-game total in 1982, the year before Coach George Perles was hired. At $16 a ticket, that's an extra $1.2 million in net revenue.

Saturday's game also is attracting the kind of media attention generally directed some 90 miles up the road at Ann Arbor at this time of year.

"It's a big game, but in our situation the last six weeks have all been big games," Perles said. "This is healthy for our program and for Michigan State Univesity to see us playing Indiana for all the marbles. This state is used to having showdowns for the championship at the end of the year (between Michigan and Ohio State).

"This year, it comes a week early. This year, instead of it being in Ann Arbor, it's in East Lansing."

Tech Star Ineligible

ATLANTA (AP) — Football and baseball standout Riccardo Ingram of Georgia Tech will be declared ineligible for the remainder of his senior year because he has accepted at least $4,000 from two sports agents, according to a published report.

The Atlanta Constitution said in a copyright story in today's editions that Ingram admitted to school officials that he received the money from Atlanta-based agents Jim Abernethy and Gary Wilson, and that he signed a representation contract with them. This is in violation of National Collegiate Athletic Association rules.

The newspaper said the NCAA today would receive a signed statement by Ingram in which he details his dealings with the agents dating back to July. The paper quoted sources in the Tech athletic department as saying the school would then announce that Ingram is ineligible for two remaining football games against Wake Forest and Georgia and for the 1988 baseball season.

Tech will not appeal to the NCAA to restore Ingram's eligibility, the Constitution said.

"There are a lot of things that I can't talk about right now, but I eventually will," the paper quoted Ingram as saying Thursday night in his dormitory room. "You know very well that I'm sorry about it. I hope they (his teammates) understand. I hope to explain the situation to them at a later date when I get a chance. I want to do that because they are important to me."

Informed Thursday night of Ingram's admission, Abernethy confirmed that he provided money to the player and signed him to a contract, the paper said.

Abernethy said he paid Ingram because "we had to stay competitive in the business. Every major athlete at every major school is signed by an agent."

Football Coach Bobby Ross informed the team Thursday night that Ingram will be dismissed from the athletic program, the paper said.

Ingram, a native of Douglas, Ga., was a star in both baseball and football for Tech. He was a defensive back in football.

Tech began an investigation Wednesday night based on information it received that Ingram may have been involved with Abernethy and Wilson, the paper said.

"As soon as we became aware of the possible situation, I confronted Riccardo, and he confirmed it," Ross said.

Asked if he has paid other college athletes, Abernethy said, "I'm going to have no comment on that right now, but we had to stay competitive. A couple of other Tech players and friends of Riccardo's approached me wanting handouts, but I didn't do it. I have an angry feeling toward players. They try to hold you up."

Pack Spreads Out Behind Tom Morris

Woody Peele

The 1987 football season is rapidly drawing to a close, and if the rest of us hope to draw back on Tom Morris, now is the time for the gap to begin closing.

Only a few more games remain before the bowls — when it all goes on the line.

Morris continues to lead the way with an 86-32 record. Vickie Spivey has pushed into second place at 82-36, while Tom Baines has taken over third, 80-38.

Joe Jenkins has moved into fourth at 79-39, while we follow at 77-41. Don Reuter — who has left the Reflector staff — turns over last place to his successor, part-timer Clay Deanhart — the only one foolish enough to take over a last place record. Reuter/Deanhart stands at 76-41.

Our high school record last week was a perfect 8-0, which brings us to 63-19 for the regular season.

Of our 11 area football teams, eight are still in action in the playoffs. Our panel will look at the Rose-New Bern matchup.

North Pitt plays host to Zebulon. The Panthers were the favorites last year against Fuquay-Varina but lost out on a late score, knocking them out of the running. Zebulon knocked off top-seeded Clayton this year, but missed a first-place tie (three-way) when it lost to both Fuquay-Varina and Franklinton. The Cougars carry a four-game winning streak into the playoffs and may prove tougher than expected. North Pitt has the home field advantage and that may prove the difference. We'll stick with the Panthers, 22-16.

Ayden-Grifton plays host to Ahoskie, the same team that knocked them out of the playoffs last year. For the second straight year, the Chargers tied for the Eastern Plains title while for the second straight year, Ahoskie fell to Edenton and settled for number two. Ahoskie went all the way to the state finals last year, however. They might repeat this year if they get past the Chargers. It should be quite a game, but we must go with the Cougars, 19-13.

Rounding out the Pitt 2-A ranks, Farmville Central travels to face unbeaten Edenton. The Aces fell to Greene Central in the same situation last year and found themselves sitting out the rest of the playoffs, and their coaching staff is sure to remind them of that. Farmville could still pull off the upset, but it will come hard. Our choice is Edenton, 28-14.

D.H. Conley's Vikings weren't supposed to be there when the season was over, but surprised everyone by finishing third in the Coastal. However, that won them a shot at strong Tarboro in the playoffs. The big question is how long can Cinderella stay at the ball. "We set our goal as going to the ball," Vike coach Steve Craft said. "Now we'll see how long we can dance."

Our guess is that it will be a short dance. Tarboro is the pick here, 25-16.

In the other games, it will be Clayton over Williamston, Northampton West over Jamesville, and Chocowinity over Gates.

Our panel looks at the Rose-New Bern contest.

The Bears come into the game as the number three representative of the Mideastern Conference, but with impressive statistics. They have two runners who surpassed or just missed 1,000 yards. Their quarterback, too, passed for over 1,000 yards. Rose's forte has been the defense, so whichever succeeds the best will be the winner, it would seem.

The panel is stick with the Rampants, giving them a 6-0 vote. Out pick is the Rampants, 21-13.

East Carolina travels to Southern Mississippi with a dual purpose in mind. First, and foremost, the Pirates can, with a win, earn a winning season for the first time since 1983. They can also gain a small measure of revenge for the loss handed them by the Golden Eagles in last year's controversial game.

Both teams use the option offense quite well, and it may be a battle on points rather than defense before it's over. If the Pirates can hang onto the ball, they could pull it out.

The panel is divided in its opinion calling this one for the Pirates, 4-2. Our own pick is East Carolina, pulling out a 35-28 victory.

Our other consensus picks: Clemson over Maryland, North Carolina over Virginia, Georgia and Auburn, a toss-up; Penn State over Pittsburgh; Arkansas and Texas A&M, a toss-up; Duke and N.C. State, a toss-up; South Carolina over Wake Forest, Notre Dame over Alabama, UCLA over Washington, and Texas at Texas Christian.

Lakers Have Midseason Look; Unfortunately, So Do Clippers

By The Associated Press

The NBA champion Los Angeles Lakers already look in midseason form. So do the Los Angeles Clippers, especially when the play the Lakers.

James Worthy scored 20 points Thursday night as the Lakers won 111-82 for the 18th straight time against the Clippers at the Forum.

The Lakers remained the only unbeaten team in the Western Conference at 4-0. They won three more games in last season's playoffs than their cross-town competition won during the entire regular season, when the Clippers went 12-70 for the second-worst record in NBA history.

This season, the Clippers have added rookies Reggie Williams, Joe Wolf and Ken Norman, but the team is just 1-3.

"They're going to need time to play with one another, with all the new faces they have," said the Lakers' Magic Johnson, who played only three quarters and scored nine points. "They're going to be a better team because they have more talented rookies helping them out."

Clippers Coach Gene Shue knows it.

"We're not in the Lakers' class," he said. "My optimism is still there. Everything I've said about us will happen, but it will take time. This team will look like a cohesive team about a month down the line."

In other NBA games, Houston rallied past Sacramento 116-114, Denver downed Portland 126-113 and San Antonio stopped Seattle 123-118.

The Lakers led by 18 points midway through the second quarter and coasted to their seventh straight victory over the Clippers and 17th victory in the last 19 meetings. The Lakers can equal the best start in team history by winning Saturday night at Golden State.

"We're just getting out of the blocks, playing basketball and getting ready every night," Coach Pat Riley said.

Worthy scored 16 points in the first half and Johnson had nine of his 11 assists. Michael Cooper had a long jumper, a three-point play and two assists during an 11-0 run that made it 43-25.

The Clippers made only 15 of 44 shots in the first half. Quintin Dailey scored a team-high 17 points in a reserve role.

Rockets 116, Kings 114

World B. Free scored 19 of his 37 points in the fourth quarter and Richard Anderson made two foul shots with 10 seconds left, rallying Houston over Sacramento.

The Rockets, who trailed 88-70 with 2:01 left in the third quarter, went ahead 115-114 on Anderson's free throws. Reggie Theus missed a 15-foot jump shot and Houston's Andre Turner made a foul shot with one second remaining.

Ralph Sampson scored 31 points for the visiting Rockets. Theus led the Kings with 34 and Otis Thorpe had 29.

Spurs 123, SuperSonics 118

Johnny Dawkins scored 28 points, Walter Berry 23 and Alvin Robertson 20 as San Antonio held off visiting Seattle.

Xavier McDaniel scored 23 points and Tom Chambers 21 for the SuperSonics. Dale Ellis added 19, including two 3-pointers.

Nuggets 126, Trail Blazers 113

Alex English scored 14 of his 24 points during a decisive third quarter that sent Denver past visiting Portland.

The Nuggets broke away away from a 59-59 halftime tie by outscoring Portland 20-8 to start the third period. Denver did it without Coach Doug Moe, who missed the final two quarters because of the flu. Assistant Allan Bristow took over.

Calvin Natt and Lafayette Lever, both traded from Portland to Denver in 1984, each scored 26 points for the Nuggets.

Kiki Vandeweghe, for whom Natt and Lever were traded, had 25 for the Trail Blazers. Clyde Drexler had 26 points and Steve Johnson added 23 for Portland.

Portland has not won at McNichols Arena since Dec. 16, 1983.

Graf Has A Frightening Message: She's Improved

NEW YORK (AP) — Steffi Graf has a frightening message for women's tennis: She's getting better.

"I'm coming to the net more," she said Thursday. "When I played Hana Mandlikova in the finals at Zurich (Nov. 1), I came in on the important points and I always won. That gave me more confidence."

Not that she needed it.

Graf has won 10 tournaments and 71 of 73 matches in 1987. Regardless of how she does at next week's Virginia Slims Championships in New York, the 18-year-old West German will finish the year ranked as the No. 1 female player in the world.

"It makes it easier knowing that even if I lose, I will still be No. 1," she said. "That takes away a lot of the pressure."

The $1 million Slims tournament, which begins Monday at Madison Square Garden, features the top 16 singles players and top eight doubles teams in single-elimination competition.

Graf, the top seed, plays unseeded Zina Garrison in the first round Wednesday. No. 3 Chris Evert, No. 5 Mandlikova and No. 7 Helena Sukova are also in Graf's half of the draw.

Second-seeded Martina Navratilova, who is seeking her fifth straight Virginia Slims title, opens Tuesday against unseeded Catarina Lindqvist. Other seeds in that half of the draw are No. 4 Pam Shriver, No. 6 Gabriela Sabatini and No. 8 Manuela Maleeva.

Navratilova's road to the final appears easier than Graf's, but that doesn't bother the teen-ager with the booming forehand.

"It's the best 16 players, so every match is a tough one," she said.

Graf's only two losses of the year were to Navratilova, in the finals of Wimbledon and the U.S. Open. She beat Navratilova in their other two 1987 matches, the French Open final and the semifinals of the Lipton International.

Navratilova, who values Grand Slam events above all others, says she would not trade her year for Graf's even though her young rival won seven more tournaments.

The feeling is mutual.

"The most important thing for me is to be consistent and always play my best," Graf said. "I won 10 tournaments this year, so I'm very happy. I wouldn't trade that for anything."

Graf, who lost to Navratilova in last November's Virginia Slims final, has great respect for the woman she replaced as No. 1.

"Playing Martina is special," she said. "She's the closest rival to me, and I like playing her. Tough competition is the fun of the game."

Top Heisman Candidates Add To Irish-Bama Battle

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame and Alabama, two of the glamour names in college football, will offer an added attraction Saturday — two of the most dangerous performers in the nation, both of whom are expected to finish high in next month's Heisman Trophy voting.

Senior Tim Brown, Notre Dame's explosive kick returner-wide receiver-halfback, is second nationally in all-purpose yardage, averaging 176.9 yards a game. He is coming off a career-high 294-yard effort against Boston College last week.

"It's scary to think of the number of ways Tim Brown can affect a game," Notre Dame Coach Lou Holtz said. "You see all kinds of defenses against him. That's what makes it a little difficult to prepare, not knowing what the other team is going to do with him.

"If I was blind, I could still tell when Tim Brown has the football. You can sense it; there's a feeling in the air."

Junior tailback Bobby Humphrey, ths most prolific runner in Alabama history, is 11th nationally in rushing with 119.7 yards a game and fifth in all-purpose yardage at 162.8 after rushing for 177 yards in last week's 22-10 upset of LSU. He holds the school career rushing record of 3,051 yards.

"He's one of the great running backs in the United States," LSU Coach Mike Archer says.

There are similarities in the teams, as well.

Notre Dame is No. 7 in the latest Associated Press poll, Alabama is 10th.

The Irish, 7-1, have won 658 games in their history, second to Michigan among major colleges. Alabama, 7-2, is fourth with 632 victories.

Over the past 65 years, Alabama ranks first with 511 victories, Notre Dame second with 479.

And both teams have brutal November schedules. Notre Dame beat Boston College 32-25 and visits Penn State next week and Miami, Fla. on Nov. 28. Alabama winds up against Auburn on Nov. 27.

And one believe-it-or-not similarity.

"Alabama has gone through the same thing we have in terms of having their starting quarterback break his collarbone, but they've closed ranks and played well the last few weeks," Holtz said. "I don't think Alabama will be intimidated coming into our stadium after going to Penn State and winning and going to LSU and winning.

"They've got a shot at going to the Sugar Bowl now, and they know their performance against us could have a bearing."

As a result of the season-ending injuries to quarterbacks Terry Andrysiak and David Smith, both teams have turned to rookie quarterbacks — Tony Rice for Notre Dame and Jeff Dunn for Alabama. Both will be making their fourth starts.

"Dunn seems to get better every week and Humphrey has been spectacular," Holtz said. "They like to run the football, and Humphrey makes that decision an easy one. Like so many of the SEC teams you see, Alabama has tremendous team speed."

Alabama Coach Bill Curry describes the Irish as "loaded with talent. We're a Southeastern Conference team that has been hammering at our players to think about the SEC, and we've got to go into their stadium on national TV with a freshman quarterback and we're beat to smithereens from Saturday night.

"But it's exciting to go to this great place. I do think that we've got to make the team realize what we're fixing to get ourselves into and the challenge will be the toughest we've had yet. What I'm saying is, we've got a problem, and it's Notre Dame."

Notre Dame and Alabama first met in the Sugar Bowl on Dec. 31, 1973. Both were unbeaten, with Alabama, coached by Bear Bryant, ranked No. 1 and Ara Parseghian's Notre Dame team ranked No. 3. The Irish won a 24-23 classic in which the lead changed hands six times, and captured the national championship.

The following season, Alabama again was 11-0 and ranked No. 2 behind Oklahoma. Notre Dame was 9-2 and No. 10, but again the Irish denied the Crimson Tide the national championship with a 13-11 triumph in the Orange Bowl.

Notre Dame won regular-season games 21-18 in 1976 — Alabama's only previous visit to South Bend — and 7-0 in 1980. Alabama's lone victory came last year in Birmingham by a 28-10 score.

"This team beat us worse than any other team did last season," said Holtz, whose club lost five other games by a total of 14 points. "They made the big plays against us that really hurt, and you've got to be able to stop that if you want to have a chance against a team of this caliber."

TRACK AWARDS

MISSION, Kan. (AP) — Harry (Butch) Reynolds of Ohio State and Gwen Torrence of the University of Georgia won this year's Jumbo Elliott Awards. The trophies are presented to the most outstanding athletes in both men's and women's track and field.

In a span of 10 weeks in 1987 Reynolds ran the three fastest low-altitude 400-meter races in history. Torrence won four NCAA individual championships during her career at Georgia in sprints. Three of her individual titles came in 1987.

AFC East Teams Showing Parity

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

Every team in the AFC East can smile because all are tied for first place. And they can frown as well, because all are tied for last.

That will change on Sunday, with at least one team claiming last place for itself. The Indianapolis Colts are at Miami in the only intradivision game in that deadlocked division.

The other 4-4 teams are New England, which is at home against Dallas, the New York Jets, who are at Kansas City, and Buffalo, which visits Cleveland.

"We're in first place and that's the way we have to look at it," Jerry Holmes of the Jets said. "Sure, we're tied with four other teams, but we're right in there. The team that gets hot will win it and that means we have to get hot."

"We're very fortunate to be in first place," New England's Raymond Clayborn said. "We haven't played very well the last few weeks."

The Colts and Patriots led the division before losing last week. When Miami, Buffalo and the Jets each won, it created the first five-way divisional tie so late in a season.

"It's been a strange season, so why not?" the Jets' Al Toon reasoned.

Elsewhere Sunday, the three-way tie atop the AFC Central will be broken because Houston is at Pittsburgh. The Oilers, Steelers and Cleveland Browns are 5-3.

Also on Sunday, it's Detroit at Washington, the Los Angeles Rams at St. Louis, Tampa Bay at Minnesota, Cincinnati at Atlanta, Green Bay at Seattle, New Orleans at San Francisco, the New York Giants at Philadelphia, and the Los Angeles Raiders at San Diego.

On Monday night, it's Chicago at Denver.

Seeing the Bills at the bottom of the AFC East is no surprise; seeing them at the top is a shock.

Buffalo got there with a convincing defensive effort last week against Denver, the defending AFC champion. The stars of that game were rookie linebackers Shane Conlan and Cornelius Bennett, both first-round draftees. Bennett was making his debut with the Bills after being acquired from the Colts, with whom he could not reach a contract agreement.

"He played with just two or three days practice and he played very well, considering," Bills Coach Marv Levy said. "He brought a lot of pressure on them. He had good pursuit. He's got outstanding physical tools.

"Despite the fact that he hasn't done anything for 10 months, it's a remarkable thing for a player who hasn't even lined up in an NFL training camp to play as capably as he played last week."

The Colts are the other real surprise. They were 3-13 last season, losing their first 13 before Ron Meyer was hired as coach. Meyer will have his regular quarterback, Gary Hogeboom, back from a rib injury.

"The only reason I'm going to go with Gary is that I feel he's physically able to go, because he was the starter before he was injured — and because I feel he's the best quarterback we have," Meyer said.

The Patriots begin a rare three-game homestand and their regulars are 2-0 at Foxboro, Mass.

"I expected to be more out ahead right now than 4-4," Coach Raymond Berry said. "But we're getting ready for Dallas. It doesn't make a difference if we're 4-4 or 8-0 or 0-8."

The Jets come off a solid 30-14 victory over Seattle last Monday night. The Jets beat the Chiefs in the AFC wild-card playoff game last season.

"That has no bearing, really," Holmes said. "Some of their personnel is the same, but they've got new runners (rookies Christian Okoye and Paul Palmer) and a new coach."

The coach, Frank Gansz, has gotten off to a 1-7 start, the only victory coming in the season opener against San Diego, which hasn't lost since. Gansz likes what he has seen of New York.

"Seattle destroyed us and was destroyed by the Jets," Gansz said. "If you saw the way the Jets handled Seattle, they have to be a candidate for the Super Bowl. They look like one of the better teams I've seen."

Some Athletes Blithely Ignore The Number 13

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Isolated, they seem quite innocent, a slender "1" and a more rounded "3." Put them together, though, and they create a dreaded digit. If you suffer from triskaidekaphobia, fear of the number 13, you know enough to avoid it, particularly today, Friday the 13th.

And yet, there are athletes who routinely ignore the incantations of superstition every day, blithely slipping into uniforms with 13 on the back, and never giving it a second thought. Some of them, in fact, even ask for the nasty number.

Toronto Blue Jay pitcher Jeff Musselman wore No. 35 in his rookie season and was doing quite well with it, thank you, when the Jays acquired Phil Niekro in August. Niekro had always worn No. 35 so, out of deference to the 300-game winner and almost certain future Hall of Famer, Musselman offered to surrender the number.

Since he literally was giving up the shirt off his back, the young pitcher was asked what number he would like in exchange. "Thirteen would be fine," Musselman said. His explanation was simple. He had worn No. 13 in college. It was like welcoming back an old friend.

That's the same reason hockey player Bob Brooke of the Minnesota North Stars wears it. When he was a kid, playing high school baseball, his favorite number was 3. An upperclassman was already wearing that jersey so Brooke took the nearest 3 he could get. He just ignored the 1 that accompanied it and he's been a 13 ever since.

Boston's Ken Linesman is hockey's only other active No. 13. Baseball's other 13s include Dave Concepcion, Lance Parrish, Mike Pagliarulo, Lee Mazzilli and Ozzie Guillen.

Musselman, Harvard '85, and Brooke, Yale '83, represent the intellectual 13s with their Ivy League backgrounds. But the number has Hall of Fame connections as well.

There are only three active 13s in the NBA — rookie Mark Jackson of the New York Knicks, Andre Turner of the Houston Rockets and Golden State's Larry Smith. Before them, however, Wilt Chamberlain wore it, first in college at Kansas and then with Philadelphia and Los Angeles in the pros, as one of the sport's most dominating players.

Seattle linebacker Brian Bosworth, forced to switch from his comfortable collegiate No. 44 to an alien 55 in the pros, will tell you that the NFL is very touchy about who wears what numbers. Thirteen is reserved for kickers and quarterbacks and is currently worn by just three NFL players, the most prominent being Miami passer Dan Marino.

Those restrictions weren't always in place, though. Before Marino, safety Jake Scott wore 13 with distinction for the Dolphins and won a Super Bowl MVP award in it. And four of the five members of the Pro Football Hall of Fame who wore No. 13 — end Guy Chamberlin, tackle Pete Henry, tackle Joe Stydahar and center George Trafton — were offensive linemen.

The fifth Hall of Fame 13 is wide receiver Don Maynard of the New York Jets, who was inducted this summer. When Maynard was honored, he unintentionally caused the community of brave souls who ignore triskaidekaphobia to be reduced by one.

Throughout his career, punter Dave Jennings had worn No. 13 and he flourished with it, setting an NFL record for most career punts. When Maynard moved into the Hall of Fame, though, the Jets thought it only appropriate to retire the number.

Would Jennings give up his favorite number to honor Maynard? Why certainly, the kicker said. And as a replacement, he requested No. 4.

Why No. 4?

"Because," Jennings explained, "that's what you get when you add 1 and 3."

Gompert Upsets Mandlikova

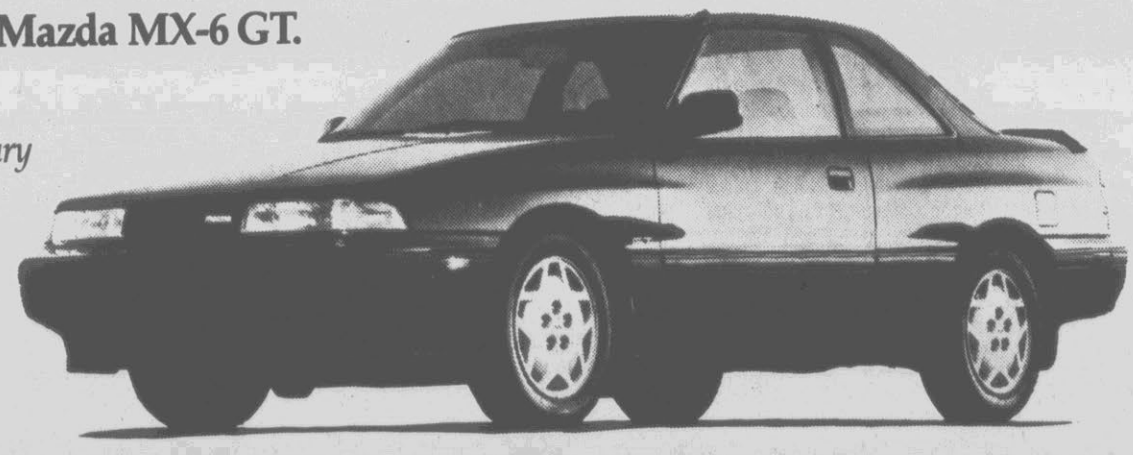

CHICAGO (AP) — Unseeded Kate Gompert, never a winner of a major tennis tournament, is making a move in that direction thanks to her stunning upset of second-seeded Hana Mandlikova at the Virginia Slims of Chicago.

Ranked 25th in the world, Gompert a 6-2, 7-6 victor over the Czechoslovak to advance to the quarterfinals of the $150,000 tournament, today will face 16-year-old Natalie Zvereva of the Soviet Union.

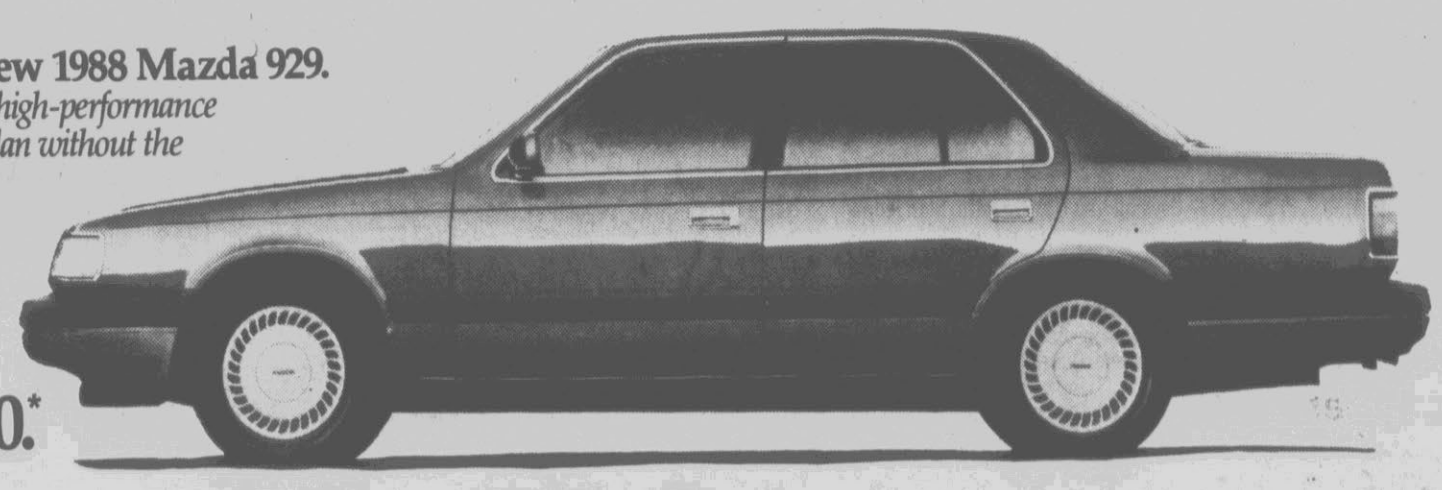

"I have no illusions about Zvereva," Gompert said Thusrday. "I know she's tough and I'll have to be exceptionally sharp and on my toes to win."

French Inmates Free 12 Hostages Amid Negotiations For Surrender

CHATEAUROUX, France (AP) — Rioting inmates at the St. Maur Prison in central France released all 12 of their hostages today, including the warden, and most of the mutineers surrendered, officials said.

At midmorning, authorities said about 60 holdouts remained in the main building and were negotiating their surrender with Security Minister Robert Pandraud, who had taken command of the operations since Thursday night.

About 375 inmates were involved when the riot began at 5:30 p.m. Thursday.

None of the hostages was harmed during 15 hours of detention, which ended about 8:30 a.m., officials said. But an undetermined number of inmates suffered injuries during fights among themselves overnight, officials said.

Besides Warden Jean-Charles Toulouze, the hostages included two teachers and nine guards who were not immediately identified by name.

The prison chaplain, the Rev. Bernard Stehr, was in the prison when the rioting broke out. He stayed inside, without being taken hostage, for several hours trying to negotiate with the inmates.

About 20 percent of the 440 prisoners in the modern, maximum security facility are serving life terms, including convicted terrorist Georges Ibrahim Abdallah, alleged leader of the Lebanese Armed Revolutionary Factions.

Abdallah, however, was not among the rioters and remained in the isolation section which stayed under control of prison guards.

About 500 policemen surrounded the double-walled prison, preparing for an assault, if necessary.

The takeover began when about 15 prisoners grabbed the keys of a guard, who called for help. The warden and several guards who rushed to the area became the first hostages. The prisoners headed for the kitchen, setting it on fire and helping themselves to food and drink. Other buildings were set on fire, but most of the fires had gone out by this morning.

Officials said the prisoners apparently tried to put out the flames themselves to avoid asphyxiation.

The riots started as officials were walking through a reconstruction of an escape Wednesday by three inmates using a garbage truck.

During the night, several injured prisoners were evacuated and small numbers of other inmates surrendered.

Negotiations went on all night between the leaders of the rebellion and French authorities, through the mediation of the prison chaplain.

Stehr told reporters outside the prison the inmates wanted to talk about their detention, which they said was "becoming oppressive." Essentially, the inmates wanted better conditions in the prison and more paroles, he said.

The inmates demanded that a television crew be allowed in the prison to hear their complaints, but the demand was rejected, officials said.

Last month, about 150 prisoners wrote to Justice Minister Albin Chalandon, according to the Prison-Repression Committee, which is made up of former prisoners. The committee made public the contents of the letters. The Justice Ministry acknowledged receiving them.

In the letters, the prisoners threatened to take violent action if changes were not made in policies involving what they called repressive measures.

The St. Maur prison, about two miles south of Chateauroux, was built in 1969. It is surrounded by two 23-foot-high walls about 100 feet apart.

Salvadorans Held In Slayings Freed

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — The government has ordered the release of three men charged in the 1985 slayings of six Americans, including four U.S. Marines. U.S. officials said the suspects should be prosecuted.

Military Judge Jorge Alberto Serrano on Thursday ruled the suspects must be freed under an amnesty program called for by the Central American peace plan.

Since Nov. 6, the government has authorized the release of 473 political prisoners under the amnesty program.

It was not immediately clear when the three suspects ordered freed Thursday would be released from prison. Under Salvadoran law, it is not uncommon for suspects to be held for long periods of time without being brought to trial.

The U.S. Embassy said in a statement, "As a matter of policy, we believe that those responsible on both the right and left for terrorist acts or crimes against U.S. citizens should not be allowed to escape justice."

In Washington, State Department spokesman Charles Redman said the United States believes the suspects should be prosecuted, but understands the desire of President Jose Napoleon Duarte to offer the broadest possible amnesty.

How They Voted

WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending Nov. 6.

HOUSE:

LIE DETECTOR TESTS: By a vote of 254 for and 158 against, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill (HR 1212) outlawing lie detector tests on employees and job applicants in most areas of the private sector.

The bill exempts firms doing intelligence work for the government as well as companies employing security guards and pharmaceutical workers. It does not restrict the use of polygraphs by federal, state and local governments.

Labor and civil libertarian lobbyists generally supported the bill, while the Administration and most business groups opposed it.

Supporter Jim Jeffords, R-Vt., said (we do not need polygraphs in a free society like ours."

Opponent George Darden, D-Ga., called the polygraph "a legitimate investigative tool for all private industry."

Members voting yes supported the bill.

North Carolina Voting Yes: Martin Lancaster, D-3, David Price, D-4, Stephen Neal, D-5, Charles Rose, D-7, James Clarke, D-11.

Voting No: Tim Valentine, D-2, Howard Coble, R-6, W.G. Hefner, D-8, Alex Mcmillan, R-9, Cass Ballenger, R-10. Not voting: Walter Jones, D-1.

EXEMPTING BANKS: By a vote of 184 for and 237 against, the House rejected an amendment to exempt federally regulated financial institutions such as banks from the legislation (above) prohibiting lie detector tests in most of the private sector.

Amendment supporter Chalmers Wylie, R-Ohio, said polygraph testing is needed "to protect the integrity of savings, lending and trading institutions that are at the heart of our economy."

Opponent Pat Williams, D-Mont., said "this outdated, timeworn, unscientific device called a lie detector" will not further honesty in financial institutions.

Members voting yes wanted financial institutions to be able to use lie detector tests on workers.

North Carolina Voting Yes: Walter Jones, Valentine, Lancaster, Coble, Rose, McMillan, Ballenger.

Voting No: David Price, Neal, Hefner, Clarke.

Not Voting: None.

TO ARREST MEMBERS: By a vote of 65 yes and 130 against, with 238 members absent, the House rejected a motion "that the Sergeant at Arms be directed to arrest the absent members" during the session of Monday, Nov. 2.

The motion was sponsored by Rep. James Sensenbrenner, R-Wis., as part of a GOP protest against the leadership tactics of Speaker Jim Wright, D-Tex. Wright the week before had used what critics said were autocratic stalling and arm-twisting tactics to gain passage by one vote of a $14.5 billion deficit-reduction bill.

A yes vote was in support of dispatching federal marshals to arrest absent House Members.

North Carolina Voting Yes: Ballenger.

Voting No: Walter Jones, Valentine, Coble, Rose, McMillan.

Not Voting: Lancaster, David Price, Neal, Hefner, Clarke.

SENATE

INDEPENDENT COUNSELS: By a vote of 85 for and 10 against, the Senate passed a bill (S 1293) extending for five years the law providing for the appointment of special prosecutors who are essentially independent of the Justice Department.

The purpose of the Watergate-era law is to steer around conflicts of interest that arise when an Administration investigates itself.

Under the law, a U.S. appellate court panel can upon the recommendation of the attorney general appoint an independent counsel to probe alleged wrongdoing by high executive branch officials.

The bill, which was sent to conference with the House, also limits the attorney general's ability to recommend against appointment of an independent counsel.

Senators voting yes supported the bill.

Terry Sanford, D, voted yes. Jesse Helms, R, voted no.

TO PROBE LAWMAKERS: By a vote of 49 for and 46 against, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment to enable independent counsels to probe members of Congress along with high executive branch officials. The ammendment was offered to S 1293 (above).

Carl Levin, D-Mich. voted to table the amendment, terming it unnecessary because historically "there has been no reluctance" by attorneys general to prosecute members of Congress.

Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., said members of Congress "must be willing to be subject to the same scrutiny as we demand of our executive leadership."

Senators voting yes wanted to exempy members of Congress from the jurisdiction of special prosecutors.

Sanford voted yes. Helms voted no.

Listed Soldiers Are Still Alive

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least two of the men listed among the dead on the Vietnam Veterans Memorial are actually among the living. But the names, etched in stone, can't be removed.

The Army said Thursday it may have mistakenly recorded a third soldier as killed in action and is investigating.

Lt. Col. Keith Schneider, an Army spokesman, said the service concluded that "a coding error somewhere down the line" caused military records to incorrectly list the date two Army privates were injured as the dates they died.

Listed erroneously, Schneider said, were former soldiers Robert Bedker and Willard D. Craig. Both are from Virginia, with no hometown listed on military records, he said.

A third case arose this week when Darrall E. Lausch, 41, of Baroda, Mich., saw his name on a list of Michigan men killed in the war that appeared in the Detroit News last Sunday, in advance of Veterans Day. The name appears on the memorial with a slightly different spelling, "Darrell."

"It don't bother me," Lausch said in a telephone interview. "Naturally, I think a little about it. ... If they want to leave it, it don't matter."

Lausch, a grain farmer and asphalt plant worker, was wounded twice while in Vietnam.

NBC's Hutton Mini-Series Will Star Farrah Fawcett

By KATHRYN BAKER
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Poor Little Rich Girl" is based on C. David Heymann's best-selling biography of Barbara Hutton, a story of how money couldn't buy happiness.

But even as the TV version broods about the uselessness of riches when all you need is love, it's money all right that puts on a whale of a show — lifestyles of the rich and famous, even if they are filing for emotional bankruptcy.

The two-part miniseries, beginning Monday on NBC, stars Farrah Fawcett, who shed her bimbo image with tough roles like the play and film "Extremities" and the television movie "The Burning Bed" and apparently felt confident enough to take on a glamorous part again.

This time, though, she's no grinning "Charlie's Angel," but a complicated, sometimes vulnerable, sometimes bad-tempered multimillionairess whose emotionally deprived childhood haunts her for the rest of her life.

Fawcett plays the part with elegant ease. She not only carries the five hours, appearing in almost every scene, she goes convincingly from age 18 to about 65 as well.

James Read is excellent as Cary Grant, the one among her four husbands who loves her for herself, even after she drives him from the marriage. At one point just as things are going sour, she complains about being a Hollywood tourist attraction, and he complains about her friends — "deposed monarchs or runaway aristocrats with little to do and less to say."

Bruce Davison turns in a touching performance as Hutton's homosexual cousin Jimmy, her globe-trotting sidekick and closest friend.

The story is told in one continuous flashback beginning with young Barbara's upheaval after the suicide of her mother. The tot is left to her womanizing father, Franklin Hutton (Kevin McCarthy), who is less interested in parenthood than sparring with his magnate father-in-law, F.W. Woolworth (Burl Ives).

At 21, Barbara inherits the then-incomprehensible fortune of $42 million. (Times have changed. In 1987, that amount would barely have made the movie "Ishtar.")

After bouncing around several continents with a lot of amusing but ultimately tiresome nobility and hangers-on, Hutton winds up on her deathbed in 1979 with less than $3,000 in the bank, four failed marriages behind her and without the only person she ever really loved, her son, Lance.

Charles Jarrott directed from Dennis Turner's screenplay. Portions of the miniseries were shot on location in London, Paris and Tangiers.

Hall Of Fame Inductions Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Television Academy Hall of Fame will induct Johnny Carson, Bob Hope, Jacques-Yves Cousteau, television executive Leonard Goldenson, Jim Henson, comedian Ernie Kovacs and Eric Sevareid on Sunday.

The ceremonies will be taped for presentation on the Fox Broadcasting network Nov. 30.

The two-hour show will feature film from the careers of the inductees, with tributes from such people as Lucille Ball, Walter Cronkite, Phyllis Diller, Jack Lemmon and David Wolper.

The six living inductees will attend with Edie Adams, who will accept for her late husband, Kovacs.

The Hall of Fame, established in 1984 by the Television Academy of Arts & Sciences, has inducted 21 people.

Back In Court

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Dynasty" star Joan Collins and her former husband, Peter Holm, are in court again, this time over a house they maintained in France.

Holm's attorney, Frank Steinshriber, said Thursday the house, which is worth about $350,000, should be sold and the proceeds divided between Holm and Miss Collins.

Superior Court Judge Kenneth Black said the matter will have to be resolved Jan. 22 when the couple's property-division dispute goes to trial.

Miss Collins, 54, and Holm, 40, separated 13 months after their 1984 marriage. Holm had claimed he was entitled to a share of Miss Collins' wealth, but she won a ruling upholding their prenuptial agreement.

Liddy Developing His Own TV Show

"I will fight fairly any bona fide adversary who disagrees with me," Liddy said in a statement Thursday.

Singer 'Grateful' For Drug Conviction

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rock singer David Crosby says he's grateful for his drug and weapons convictions, which cost him five months in prison before they were thrown out by an appeals court.

"Even though they put me in the penitentiary on a case they shouldn't have, I feel gratitude because it may have saved my life," Crosby said after a Texas appeals court ruled Thursday he was caught in an illegal search.

"I hope other people will learn from my experience and avoid drugs. I've been clean for nearly two years now and I have the state of Texas to thank for it," he said.

Crosby, who became famous with The Byrds and later with Crosby, Stills and Nash, was arrested in 1982 in his dressing room at a night club in Dallas. He was convicted on cocaine and handgun possession charges.

"Because I'm no longer a convicted felon that means that I get my vote, which is very, very valuable to me. I care a great deal about it," he said. "It also gives me my right to travel and means I'm off parole and that's nice."

Actor Sheen Pleads Innocent To Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Actor Martin Sheen, after an overnight stay in jail, has pleaded innocent to charges stemming from his protest at a subway station where transit officials have fenced out homeless people.

Sheen went to jail Thursday on an unlawful entry charge with activist Mitch Snyder, whom the actor portrayed in a TV movie last year.

Snyder began leading a demonstration at a subway stop after the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority erected a fence to keep homeless people from sleeping at the entrance after the subway closes at midnight.

Opening lead: Ten of ♡

The average player tends to pay attention to the high honors and not much else. The expert watches every card, and makes the spots work for him.

North-South bid well to their spade slam. South started with an artificial game force of two clubs and revealed his suit on the second round (an opening two-spade bid would have been weak in his pair's methods). When a cue-bidding sequence revealed that North had heart strength and nothing in diamonds, South was content with a small slam.

West led a heart and declarer's first good play was to ruff away East's ace with his jack of spades. South gazed longingly at two good tricks in dummy, with apparently no way to get there to cash them unless trumps broke evenly or the ten dropped singleton. On the ace of trumps West followed with the eight, and most of the players we know would bash out the king and hope for the best.

However, our declarer now noted that there was only one trump outstanding that was higher than either of dummy's two—the ten. So at trick three declarer led the seven of trumps from hand and overtook with dummy's nine. East won a cheap trick with the ten, but the defense was dead as a doornail. East tried valiantly by shifting to a diamond, but declarer rose with the ace and crossed to dummy by overtaking the three of trumps with the six, in the process drawing the last outstanding trump. Two high hearts were the source of discards for declarer's losing diamonds, and the slam was home.

Now tell us honestly: When you first looked at the hand, did you imagine that declarer's only loser would be a trump?
