Agency Says Nuclear Report Based On Rumor

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Sweden's national news agency reported today that an accident apparently had occurred at a nuclear power plant in the Soviet Union. But the agency later said the report was based on rumors.

The dipatch by Tidnigarnas Telegrambyra prompted a denial by the Swedish Radiation Protection Agency. The International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna said it had no official report of an accident.

In its original report, TT said, "The Radiation Protection Agency reported this afternoon that an atomic power plant accident apparently occurred in the Soviet Union."

Gunmar Bengtsson, director general of the radiation agency, said his organization was checking into "the rumor of the accident," but could not confirm it had taken place.

"I don't have anything to tell you. Call back," he told The Associated Press.

When told that TT was quoting his agency, he said "that must definitely be wrong."

In Moscow, a Foreign Ministry official refused to confirm or deny the report.

"At the moment, we cannot make any commentaries," Alexander

Nikolaev, aide to ministry spokesman Gennady I. Gerasimov, told the AP by telephone.

In Vienna, a spokesman for the International Atomic Energy Agency said the agency also had heard the rumors, but there was no official report.

The spokesman, James Daghish, said the agency had telephoned the Soviet mission in Vienna, but the Soviets told the agency they were not aware of such an accident.

"No raised levels of radiation have been reported from anywhere in Sweden, not from Forsmark or Barseback (nuclear plants)," said Jack Valentin, a department head at the radiation agency.

He said radiation levels were recording at normal levels. "If any accident occurred today, with the prevailing winds, it would take at least 24 hours before any increased level could be measured," he said by telephone.

"This is only rumors so far, so my advice to the public is 'just disregard it,'" Valentin said.

TT later attributed its original report to rumor.

"Rumors of a Soviet nuclear plant accident began circulating on Tuesday afternoon in financial circles in London," the agency said in a later dispatch.

"Currency trading was affected there by the reports, which, however, have not been confirmed by official sources in the Soviet Union."

In a dispatch still later, the agency reported that "rumors in Finland" were behind the report.

There were also rumors of a chemical accident in the Soviet Union on Monday, and "maybe somebody got confused," said Gunilla Ericsson, a radiation protection officer at the radiation agency.

Tass reported Tuesday that a train derailed northeast of Moscow, spilling a toxic chemical that caused the temporary evacuation of 3,000 people. The agency said 34 were hospitalized with signs of slight poisoning.

Sweden was the first country to report high radiation levels that led to the discovery of the 1986 nuclear accident at the Chernobyl nuclear reactor in the Soviet Union.

Under conventions signed under the agency auspices following the Chernobyl accident, nations are obligated to report any nuclear accident if there is the danger of it having trans-boundary effects. They also are required to contact the agency if they need assistance in dealing with local effects of the accidents.

Senators Confirm Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anthony M. Kennedy, President Reagan's third choice to fill out the Supreme Court, was confirmed unanimously by the Senate today.

Liberals and conservatives alike praised Kennedy as a conservative judicial craftsman without a rigid ideology. He was approved on a vote of 97-0.

The 51-year-old appellate judge from California will become the 104th justice to sit on the nation's highest court.

Kennedy will be sworn in Feb. 18, in an investiture ceremony to be held in the ornate Supreme Court courtroom, said court spokeswoman Toni House.

Setting the tone during an hour of low-key floor statements that preceded the Senate vote, liberal Sen. Edward Kennedy said the nominee "has demonstrated integrity, intelligence, courage and craftsmanship — and a judicial philosophy that places him within the mainstream of constitutional interpretation."

The Massachusetts senator said Kennedy does not consider the Constitution "a fossil frozen in the past."

And he called the nominee a "brilliant pioneer" in writing an opinion that struck down the so-called legislative veto, which gave each house of Congress power by itself to override actions by executive agencies. The Supreme Court upheld Kennedy's ruling.

Conservative Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., called Kennedy "one of the most eminently qualified individuals to be nominated" to the court.

"Judge Kennedy has vast judicial experience, participating in over 1,400 decisions and authoring over 400 published opinions," Thurmond said.

And liberal Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, said while Kennedy's civil rights record was weaker than he would have liked, the nominee "respects precedent," had an "open mind" and a "capacity for growth."

Once Kennedy takes his seat, court watchers can only guess how he would vote on such key issues as abortion, affirmative action, and separation of church and state.

That vagueness won Kennedy the praise of senators, who described him as a "case-by-case" judge.

Alabama School Takes Day Off To Rest Up After Hostage Crisis

By HOYT HARWELL
Associated Press Writer
TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — The headmaster of a church school said today he doesn't think any of his school's children suffered lasting emotional scars while being held hostage by a gunman protesting treatment of the nation's homeless.

Tuesday's 12-hour siege ended with relatives' cries of "Thank the Lord!" and the release of 26 children and a teacher when police wrestled the gunman to the ground.

"I think the kids held up better than some of the parents that were around here," said West End Christian School headmaster Don Carden in an interview on CBS' "This Morning." Carden said there would be no school today, however.

The gunman surrendered after he was told that Gov. Guy Hunt had granted him a pardon and he could hold a news conference to speak out about the needy, Mayor Al DuPont said.

"I've done everything you've asked," the gunman, identified by Police Chief Jerry Fuller as James L. Harvey, in his early 40s, said as he emerged Tuesday night from West End Christian School. "Look what they're doing to me. I trusted everybody."

Fuller said Harvey and his companion at the outset of the siege, James Rhodes Jr., 42, of Tuscaloosa, would be charged with kidnapping.

Eighty children, four teachers and an aide were taken hostage at the school, founded by a Baptist congregation, after classes began Tuesday morning. Nearly 60 hostages were released during the day.

No shots were fired and none of the victims were injured, police said.

Carden said teachers would be at the school today to discuss the incident.

"We're going to talk about security; maybe there was something we could have done better," he said. He said he didn't know why Harvey chose his school to make a stand.

"It's one of those things about life," he said. "He just walked in, out of the blue."

The teacher who was freed last, Mary Alice Blanton, said she was preparing her class for prayers, when the hostage-takers arrived, carrying guns and wearing ski masks.

She said she tried to strike Harvey with a large Bible study book that she was holding but he knocked it from her hand. She said she screamed and resisted, and he later kept her tied with duct tape for part of the day.

DuPont said Harvey, after nearly 12 hours in the school, was shown a videotape in which the governor promised to grant the gunman immunity and a pardon. Harvey then honored his part of an agreement, turning over his two pistols and rifle and leading the child hostages outside.

Just the previous day, two hostage-takers in Lumberton, N.C., had released 17 captives at a newspaper office after negotiations that led to North Carolina Gov. Jim Martin agreeing to investigate grievances involving local law enforcement officials.

The children, all in the lower elementary grades, walked out of the school in single file a short time later and were reunited amid tears and hugs with family members who had endured the ordeal in a nearby gymnasium.

The children, who appeared in good spirits, kept repeating "We're all right! We're all right!" as parents and grandparents cried "Thank the Lord! Thank the Lord!"

One of the hostages, 9-year-old Kelly Griffin, said Harvey "never talked ugly to the children."

Flights Reduced

American Eagle Resumes Flying

American Eagle, the commuter airline providing service from Pitt-Greenville Airport to the American Airlines' hub at Raleigh-Durham Airport, resumed scaled-down service today.

AVAir Inc., which operates American Eagle under contract with American Airlines, suspended flights and filed for reorganization in U.S. Bankruptcy Court on Jan. 15.

Prior to suspending operations last month, the commuter operated 55 flights out of Raleigh-Durham, including six flights to and from Greenville each day. But service was resumed today with 35 flights out of RDU.

Service to Pitt-Greenville Airport apparently has been cut, too.

Attempts to contact officials at AVAir's Raleigh headquarters and the American Eagle ticket counter at Pitt-Greenville Airport for information this morning were unsuccessful.

But an American Airlines' reservations clerk in Raleigh said this morning that the schedule shows only three American Eagle flights to and from Greenville — one arriving at 9:32 a.m., another at 1:47 p.m. and the third at 7:52 p.m.

American Eagle began service to the Greenville airport on June 15, 1987, and from July 1 through Dec. 31, the commuter boarded 4,207 passengers.

By comparison, Piedmont Commuter, operated by CCAIR of Charlotte, which has 10 flights a day out of Pitt-Greenville, boarded a total of 18,143 passengers in Greenville during the same period.

Piedmont Commuter officials said boardings at Greenville in January — 2,674 — were down because of the bad weather.

Father Gets Custody

New Jersey Court Throws Out 'Baby M.' Contract

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — New Jersey's highest court today awarded custody of the child once known as Baby M to her father and adoptive mother, but also held that the surrogate parenting contract under which she was born was invalid.

The court also said that Mary Beth Whitehead-Gould, who gave birth to the child under the contract, could continue to be permitted to visit her daughter.

Whitehead-Gould, formerly known as Mary Beth Whitehead, and William and Elizabeth Stern has spanned a worldwide debate over surrogate motherhood and new reproductive technologies.

In today's landmark decision, the state's highest court said surrogacy for pay is illegal under New Jersey law, but said that the child's father and his wife are best suited to raise her.

Melissa Elizabeth Stern, lives with the Sterns and will turn 2 on March 27.

Last March 31, Judge Harvey Sorkow upheld the $10,000 contract under which Mrs. Whitehead-Gould bore the child. He also severed Mrs. Whitehead-Gould's parental rights and granted custody to the Sterns.

The Sterns' lawyer, Gary N. Skoloff, said Tuesday he did not think his clients would appeal if the ruling were not in their favor because "the Sterns want it to end."

Pitt Jobs Rate Up

RALEIGH (AP) — Unemployment rates showed a slight increase in 64 of the state's 100 counties in December, the North Carolina Employment Security Commission says.

Unemployment rates for December in Greene and Pitt Counties fell from 3.6 percent to 3.3 percent. Martin County, however, was among those with an increase, from 4.7 percent to 5.2 percent.

Four counties showed unemployment rates of more than 10 percent for the month. Graham was at 20.9 percent, up from 16.6 percent in November; Tyrrell at 16.2 percent from 11.4 percent; Swain at 14.8 percent from 11.4 percent; and Hyde at 14.5 percent from 12.8 percent.

Unemployment rates in three of the state's nine metropolitan statistical areas also rose slightly. The December MSAs were: Asheville at 3.8 percent from 3.9 percent in December; Burlington at 3.6 percent from 3.4 percent; Charlotte-Gastonia, N.C.-Rock Hill, S.C., unchanged at 3.3 percent; Fayetteville at 5.0 percent from 4.9 percent; Greensboro-Winston-Salem-High Point at 3.3 percent from 3.4 percent; Hickory at 3.3 percent from 3.2 percent; Jacksonville at 3.4 percent from 3.6 percent; Raleigh-Durham at 2.9 percent from 3.0 percent; and Wilmington unchanged at 5.7 percent.

The state's seasonally unadjusted rate of unemployment increased slightly to 4.2 percent from 4.0 percent. The December figures also show the state's labor force at 3,298,200 with 3,161,300 employed and 136,900 unemployed.

Panel Member

Rae Nobles from D.H. Conley High School has been appointed to the Regional Screening Committee of the North Carolina Teaching Fellows Scholarship Program by the North Carolina Center for the Advancement of Teaching.

The General Assembly has funded 400 scholarship/loans amounting to $5,000 per year for four years for high school seniors who will agree to pursue a career in teaching in North Carolina public schools.

A center spokesman said that 617 applicants have been selected as regional finalists. Each finalist will go before a regional screening panel in the home economics building at East Carolina University on Feb. 20.

Accountants Met

The Coastal Plains chapter of the N.C. Association of Certified Public Accountants held its regular meeting recently in Rocky Mount.

The meeting included a seminar in which updated regulations concerning federal and state income taxes were discussed.

Featured speakers were Larry Rogers, Robert Pulley and Bernice Thomas of the N.C. Department of Revenue and Manny Ruschieski of the Internal Revenue Service.

Month Proclaimed

Mayor Ed Carter has proclaimed February to be Afro-American (Black) History Month in Greenville.

"The state of North Carolina and the city of Greenville appropriately boast a rich and progressive history which included numerous significant contributions made by black citizens who clearly had in mind and demonstrated the laudible purpose of making our city a better place in which each person can live and develop," Carter said in his proclamation.

Preschool Program

The preschool education program, operated by the child development and family relations department at East Carolina University, is accepting applications for fall enrollment.

The full-day facility is open to all 3- and 4-year-olds and to children who will be 2 years old by Aug. 15.

Program hours are from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The program is designed to provide a variety of enrichment experiences to enhance the social, emotional, physical and intellectual development of a child. Prospective parents are encouraged to observe classroom participation.

Application forms may be obtained in Room 113-A of the home economics building. For more information call Kathy Shepard at 757-6926.

Students Gather

An estimated 110 high school students from the Greenville area will gather Wednesday and Feb. 11 to discuss local issues with area mayors and county officials.

The two-day program is being sponsored by the Close Up Foundation of Washington, D.C., with grants from RJR Nabisco Inc.

Scheduled events include several group discussions with area mayors, commissioners and U.S. Rep. Walter Jones, a tour of the Pitt County courthouse and an afternoon spent with a county agency.

Students from D.H. Conley, Farmville Central, North Pitt, Ayden Grifton, J.H. Rose and E.B. Aycock schools will attend the sessions, which will be held at the Willis Building, St. James United Methodist Church, and the courthouse.

program in the Marks Hall auditorium on the college campus Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The topic of his speech will be "Economics — Why Take It?"

Pitt Fraud Cases

During 1987, Pitt County reported 20 fraud cases connected with unemployment benefits, with a 100 percent conviction record of those charged, according to Jim Hannan, manager of the local Employment Security Commission office.

Hannan said fraud is usually discovered in one of two ways — by research or individual reports from people. He said that "strict anonymity" is maintained where individual reports are investigated, and if applicable, lead to charges.

Statewide, the fraud investigation unit of the commission recovered $1,200,137 involving 856 individuals charged with fraud, with 854 convictions.

For more details on fraud detection, call the Greenville ESC office at 756-2686.

Correction

Michael Karachun of Greenville is running at-large for the 9th House District seat. Tuesday's Daily Reflector incorrectly reported Karachun was opposing Rep. Walter B. Jones Jr. The two top voter-getters in the race are elected to the two 9th District seats.

Karachun also was incorrectly identified as a member of the Vietnam Veterans of America. He is an associate member.

ECU Attorney Retires After 17 Years

ECU News Bureau
Having to deal with "a deluge of federal regulations" affecting higher education has been the most difficult part of his job, says the retiring university attorney of East Carolina University.

Since he became the university's first full-time attorney in the 1970s, there have been at least 10 "major pieces of federal legislation" dealing with higher education, Dr. David B. Stevens explained in an interview.

"This has been no easy task," he said. "I've been involved in helping interpret these regulations and guidelines and in implementing them throughout the university."

Stevens is ending 17 years of service to East Carolina University as an administrative officer, beginning as equal opportunity program director, university attorney-adviser and later university attorney, and also as a faculty member in the School of Business and in correctional science.

Stevens and his wife, Willa, "followed our son to college," and settled in Greenville in 1970. Stevens retired after 21 years of active duty in the Air Force and accepted appointment to a faculty post at ECU.

In the intervening years, he has served under four ECU chancellors and became ECU's first university attorney. The amount of legal work involved in administration of a growing institution demanded it, he says.

"Now, we're going to make Greenville our home — permanently, 'til death do us part," Stevens said. "We have lived in many places but there is no place better than Greenville to call home. We feel very much that way."

In the community, Stevens plans to continue active involvement in the Kiwanis Club, which he has served as president and as a district official, the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce and as a director of the N.C. Aeronautical Museum which he helped originate.

Stevens said he and his wife will take "several weeks" of leisurely vacation in the Florida Keys. "It will be the first time I've ever been anywhere that I didn't feel hurried," he said.

Stevens' successor as university attorney, former associate state attorney general Ben Gibson Irons of Raleigh, assumed his duties at ECU Jan. 25.

Mental Health Unit Installs President

The Mental Health Association in Pitt County has installed Dr. C.G. Kledaras as president.

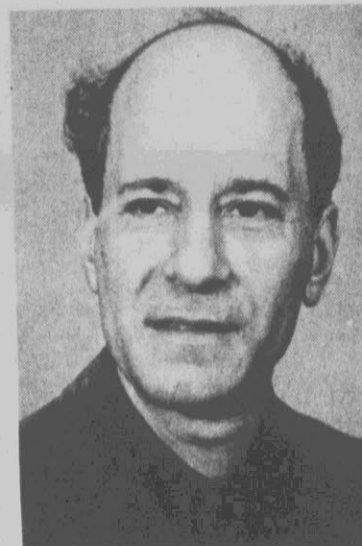

Other officers are Dr. Bill Martin, president-elect; Dr. Ruth Boxberger, secretary; Janis Holland, treasurer; Dot D. Dail, assistant treasurer; Bernard Haselrig, chapter delegate, and John Anema, alternate delegate. Myree Hayes is past president.

New board members installed are Annie Laurie Askew, Muffy Bowman, Beatrice Chauncey, Judy Christopher, Mamie Dews, Joyce Jones, Dr. Barbara Memory, Sue Noble, Irene Prewett, Vernon Snyder III and Dr. Judith Yongue.

Kledaras is associate dean of graduate studies in the East Carolina University School of Social Work. He is a longtime Mental Health Association volunteer.

During a recent MHA awards banquet, Anema and Sandra Johnson were named Volunteers of the Year. Five students from ECU and Pitt Community College were presented scholarships honoring their "outstanding achievement in their chosen mental health field."

Banquet speaker was Jack J. Williams, assistant director of the Rural Church Division of the Duke Endowment. He urged mental health advocates to join together to achieve the mission of the Mental Health Association.

How They Voted

Here's how area senators voted on major issues during the opening week of the second session of the 100th Congress. There were no House votes.

By a vote of 75 for and 14 against, the Senate passed and sent to the House a civil rights bill (S 557) outlawing all forms of discrimination in all operations of colleges and universities that receive federal aid.

This would undo a 1984 Supreme Court ruling, in a case involving Grove City College in Pennsylvania, that the federal law banning sex discrimination applies only to the specific campus program receiving federal aid, not to the entire institution. Supporter John Kerry, D-Mass., said "let us reaffirm our commitment to civil rights in 1988."

Opponent Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, said the bill "authorizes a dramatic, radical increase in the jurisdiction of the federal government."

Sen. Terry Sanford, D-NC, voted in favor of the bill and Sen. Jesse Helms, R-NC, voted against the bill.

By a vote of 60 for and 30 against, the Senate cabled an amendment in behalf of Rupert Murdoch's bid to continue owning both newspaper and television properties in New York and Boston.

The amendment to S 557 sought to preserve Murdoch's exemption from the Federal Communications Commission ban on "cross-ownership" of broadcast operations and newspapers in the same market. He owns the New York Post and WNYW in New York and the Boston Herald and WFXT in Boston.

The FCC waiver applies only to Murdoch and would end under a 1987 law now being temporarily stayed by a federal court. Murdoch says that if the law stands he will put the New York Post up for sale and probably also divest himself of WFXT.

Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., who voted to cable the amendment, said he does not want the FCC "to buckle before the onslaught of a powerful special interest named Rupert Murdoch."

Murdoch supporter Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., said ending the FCC waiver "will suppress ... robust, wide-open debate in the Boston and New York media markets."

Sanford voted against the pro-Murdoch amendment and Helms did not vote.

By a vote of 56 for and 39 against, the Senate attached anti-abortion language to the bill (S 557) extending the reach of federal anti-discrimination laws.

Under the language, the new civil rights legislation could not be used to require colleges and universities to perform or pay for abortions.

Sanford voted against the anti-abortion amendment and Helms voted in favor of it.

'Truth In Preference To Fiction'

Action Should Follow Concern

While the Pitt County commissioners' expression of concern over the design of U.S. 264 is commendable, it should be followed up with a resolution declaring that the county needs a U.S. 264 corridor which is fully controlled and with no grade crossings.

Public criticism mounting over the roadway's design from Greenville to Wilson focused the commissioners' attention over the grade crossing intersections' safety and prompted the board to suggest interchanges replace the crossings.

Now, commissioners should put their words into action with a formal statement of support for the improvements. A resolution to that effect should be filed with the Department of Transportation. It goes without saying that such a resolution would be highly popular with the overwhelming majority of their constituents.

In addition, the action would make clear to the N.C. Department of Transportation and present and future administrations that Pitt County needs a fully controlled highway.

In Wilson County the county commissioners have formally expressed concern about the grade crossings in the Saratoga area. Interchanges were once planned at the intersections but they were eliminated before the projects were put out for bids. The right-of-way is there for construction of interchanges, however.

In Pitt County the portion of the highway already constructed, from Greenville to Farmville, has one grade crossing. There will be additional grade crossings in the Farmville segment which is soon to be placed under contract.

The final product will be a highway which does not meet the long range needs of Pitt County. The county is now one of the population centers of North Carolina. Its growth potential is enormous, as is its ability to be the influential economic center of eastern North Carolina. Without the proper highway design for the corridor to the west, the area will be severely hampered as Pitt County faces the 21st century. The county is clearly at a disadvantage to eastern cities — such as Wilmington, Rocky Mount and Wilson — which have such corridors.

Certainly the addition of interchanges should not delay presently scheduled projects such as the Farmville link of U.S. 264 and the northwest Greenville bypass. It must be recognized, however, that, while changes in the new U.S. 264 will not be made overnight, they have to be included in the long range transportation plan if they are to be completed at all. A growing Pitt County must have such a highway.

Spread The Word To Fellow Voters

Programs to involve the nation's citizens in campaign debate are intensely needed but they are of little value unless the small number of people they directly touch spread the word.

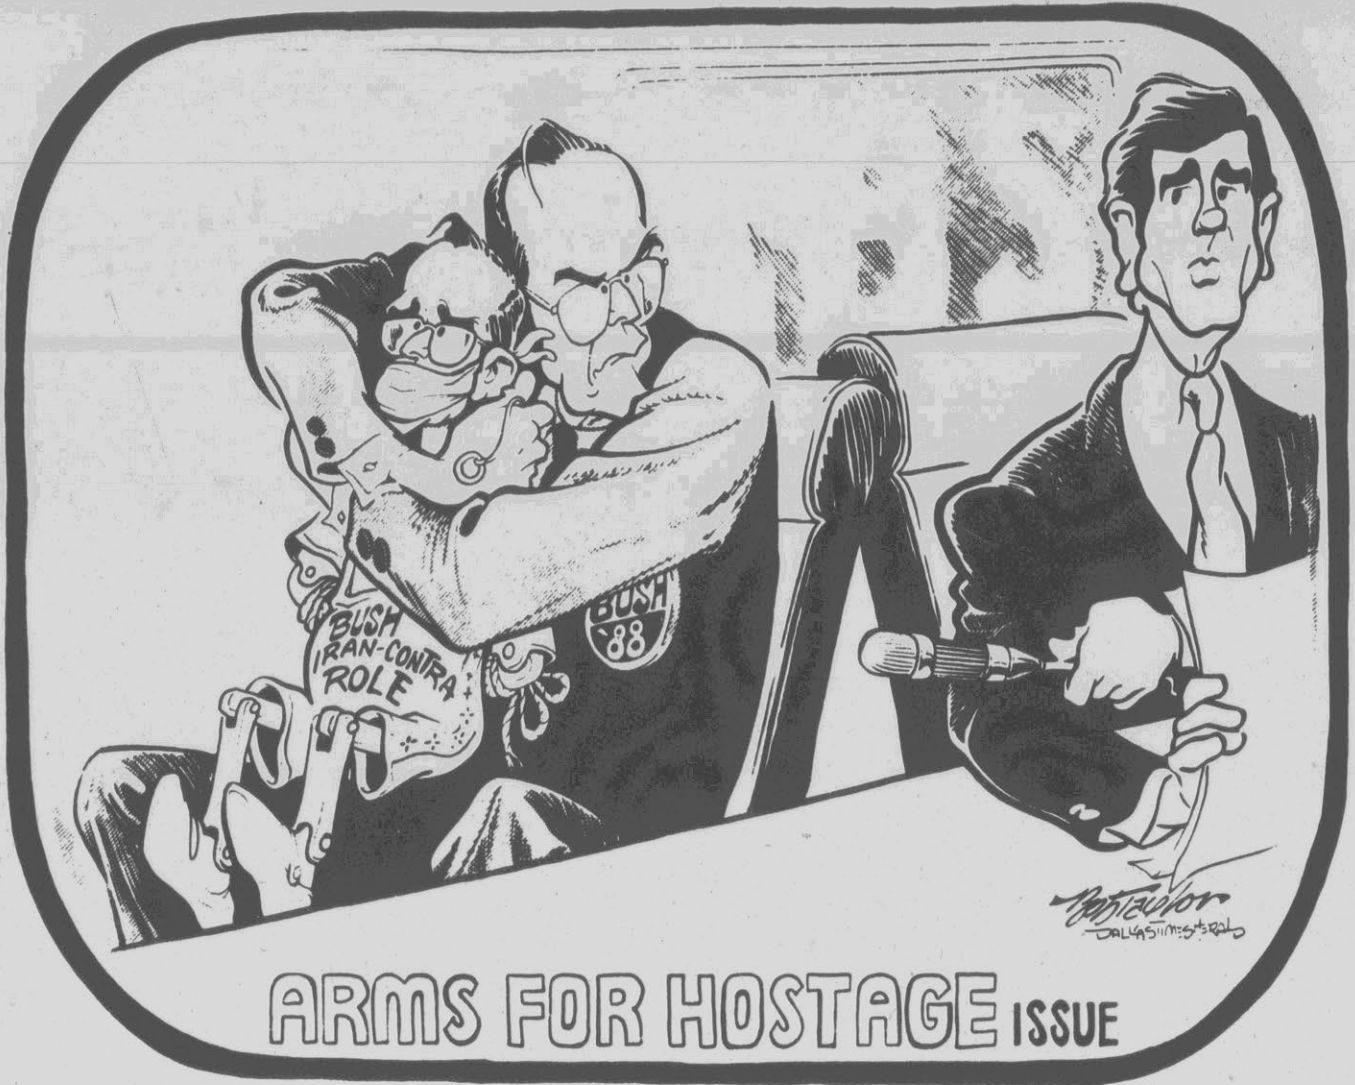

A project like "US 88: A Road To The Future" is of immeasurable value. In Pitt County, as in five other sites across the state, interested citizens brainstormed Saturday to devise pertinent questions for presidential candidates. These questions dealt with tough issues, from working families to nuclear proliferation.

Small groups struggled to choose questions focusing on the significant aspects of issues, not just queries that lend themselves to pretty rhetoric. It was a process that required teamwork and compromise. Differing perspectives had to blend. The groups had to reach a consensus on questions to be successful. The debate was vigorous. Decisions were tough. But from this process — strikingly similar to the way the nation's laws are devised, came questions that project sponsors say address the true issues of 1988.

These questions, however, and the stimulation their articulation prompted, will be of little use unless the participants take them back to their peers. Of course, these questions will be distributed to the press, and will be given to the presidential candidates. The participants may even get an opportunity in February to ask the candidates a few of the inquiries they spent a day devising.

But the participants must share the discussion with families, friends, co-workers, churches and civic groups if the project is to succeed in shifting the focus of the 1988 campaign debate to issues of concern to citizens. They must energetically discuss the views expressed at the forum and share the insight into issues that prompted awareness of concerns.

Only through this proliferation of information and ideas can projects like "US 88" succeed. The participants completed half their requirements Saturday. Now, they must continue to contribute by fulfilling their roles as active, inquiring citizens and sharing this perspective with fellow voters.

To the editor:

Contrary to the headline in Sunday's paper, Pat Robertson did not "blast" tobacco during his recent visit to Greenville. He knows — as we all know — that tobacco is being phased out. That is simply a fact. Robertson said that he would recommend that the tobacco allotments gradually be bought up by the government so that tobacco farmers would have the funds to reinvest and diversify.

What's wrong with that? At least Robertson is honest enough to face us with the truth. Do you remember the Senate race when the farmers were so excited about Terry Sanford when he told them he would look after them when he got to Washington? When he told them he would be their friend?

Actually, when Sanford did get to Washington and was offered a seat on the Senate Agricultural Committee, he said he would not touch it with a 10-foot pole. Nor did he.

Now whom do you prefer? Someone who tells the truth up front and is willing to bear the consequences, or someone who says one thing but fully intends to do just the opposite? It seems to me we have elected too few men like Robertson and too many hypocrites like Sanford: look at the mess we're in today as a result.

To the editor:

Headlines of the report on Pat Robertson's visit to Greenville read, "Robertson Blasts Tobacco In Campaign Visit." What a poor choice of words, it is not true, and in no way describes what Pat Robertson said.

Robertson's message was, it is a fact that smoking is becoming more unpopular, and the banning of same is on the increase, because of evidence that it is killing people. Robertson spoke with compassion and understanding for the plight of the tobacco growers. He is the only candidate who has a plan to help the farmers get out of a market which is headed down, and invest in a product where they will have a future.

The response from the crowd indicated that Robertson's suggestion on rescuing the tobacco farmers was equally received as other topics mentioned. I don't find it hard to trust a man who started with $70 in his pocket to build a broadcasting network and a university.

The tobacco farmers have a friend in Pat Robertson.

To the editor:

Your readers have the right to know the truth about Nicaragua; therefore, I would like to comment on Mike Hamer's letter to the editor.

1. The Sandinistas have militarized the farm cooperatives whether the farmers like it or not.

2. Mr. Hamer tells us about some 5,900 people kidnaped by the Contras, and I ask, where are they? How much ransom was demanded? Where are these people? In a concentration camp? a Contra jail? The Sandinistas do have more political prisoners.

3. Now let us inform our readers about Edgard Chamorro whose interview Mr. Hamer mentioned in his letter. Chamorro is a former Jesuit priest who used to be a professor at the Central American University in Managua. I met him when I was a student at the university. He became a Sandinista and collaborated with them, then he left the Sandinistas and became a Contra, now he left the Contras and is talking of going back to the Sandinistas.

If we are going to ask our Congressmen to vote in favor of Contra aid or against it, do not be misled by a set of statistics pulled from who knows where, and interviews given by individuals who cannot be trusted.

The Sandinistas are taking advantage of our free press to impress the democratic vote because they are aware that the majority of the American people do not know the realities of Nicaragua and some of our Congressmen running for office will use any opportunity to be on camera to gain votes.

If Congress votes against any type of aid to the Contras, it will be the green light for the domino effect and we better reinforce our borders because the exodus of people from Central America will be a massive one. We will not have one, but five, countries under Marxist dominance.

If the readers need more information on the subject before they write their Congressmen on the issue, I will be glad to provide it.

Gulf War Is Guessing Game

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iran's hesitation in launching a new offensive against Iraq is keeping the Iraqis guessing and fueling speculation that Tehran is stalling while it makes diplomatic moves to split Iraq's Arab supporters.

The absence of the long-anticipated offensive also has heightened the belief that, despite reports that Iran has massed up to 250,000 men on the southern front, Tehran is having difficulties mobilizing.

Western military analysts, Iranian dissidents and diplomats estimate that Tehran has mobilized only 100,000 fighters since November.

They say that means it is unlikely Iran will launch a major thrust against the battered port city of Basra, where the Iraqis have been reinforcing their defenses since an Iranian offensive a year ago involving more than 250,000 men.

A recent Iranian thrust into the northern Kurdistan mountains is widely seen as a diversionary, morale-boosting move while Tehran seeks a cease-fire in the so-called "tanker war" in the Persian Gulf.

Iraqi air strikes on Iranian oil facilities and tankers off Iran apparently are seriously biting into Iran's oil exports, its main source of revenue.

Iran has been seeking to split Iraq's Arab allies in the six-nation Gulf Cooperation Council by dangling the prospect of a dialogue that the Arabs hope will lead to a halt to the shipping war.

The United Arab Emirates and Oman, favor talks, but Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, which Tehran charges aid Iraq, want tougher measures.

Syria, Iran's main Arab ally, is trying to mediate between Tehran and the council. But Iraq, Syria's longtime rival, has made it clear it does not want to see Damascus making political capital with the oil-rich gulf states while not achieving an overall gulf war settlement.

The Iraqis have tried to keep the pot boiling by attacking Iranian tankers, forcing Iran into retaliating against neutral gulf shipping.

But it is on land that the Iraqis, who outnumber the Iraqis 3-to-1 in manpower, have the edge and which, most analysts believe, they have to exploit if they want to make major military impact.

Because of this, analysts see Iran's failure to launch an offensive, as it has done every winter since 1984, as a sign that Tehran is having problems.

"It seems the Iraqis are having a lot of trouble recruiting," said one diplomat, speaking on condition of anonymity. "The numbers just don't seem to be there as they were last year."

He and other analysts cited other factors inhibiting Tehran:

•Parliamentary elections scheduled for April 8.

"After the failure to take Basra last year, no one wants another defeat on their hands right now," one analyst noted. That could mean no significant military move until late spring, well into the winter campaign season when bad weather neutralizes Iraq's air and tank superiority.

•Reports that Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, 87, is ailing. Analysts believe this is causing decision-making problems in Tehran.

•Concern that the U.N. Security Council will impose an arms embargo on Iran for its failure to comply with a July 20 cease-fire resolution.

Strength For Today

St. Augustine, one of the most influential Christians the world has produced, was converted to Christianity after a youth spent in gross indulgence. A few days after his conversion, he saw one of his former companions approaching him on the street. Turning quickly, Augustine walked hurriedly in the opposite direction. The friend ran after him and cried, "Augustine, Augustine, wait a moment. It is I." But Augustine only quickened his pace and called back over his shoulder, "This is not Augustine. Augustine is dead."

When people decide sincerely on a new course in life, they die to what has gone before. The person who is wise knows he or she cannot live in two worlds. This is the time to call back over the shoulder to pursuing temptation, "This is not the person you are seeking, that person is dead."

Pipeline Affair Stirs Memories In Israel Of Iran-Contra

Analysis

The pipeline controversy, nevertheless, illustrates several important themes here.

The fact that Israel was prepared to give guarantees that it would not sabotage the $1 billion project indicates anew the deep ambivalence with which the Israelis regard both sides in the Persian Gulf war. At the same time they were giving the go-ahead to Iraq, Israeli officials were tacitly approving the sale of arms and military spare parts to Iran.

The project also makes clear that even countries supposedly in a state of war with Israel — in this case Iraq and Jordan, through which the pipeline would have run — consider it vital to get Israeli approval for major projects that might affect the delicate balance of power in the Middle East.

But most intriguing, the affair illustrates anew the almost fatal attraction between the enterprising swashbucklers who have been drawn to the Reagan administration and the plucky, can-do Israelis led by Shimon Peres, a man who, as one associate puts it, "never likes to say no."

Peres was prime minister in 1985 when the Reagan administration approached him about the pipeline and now is foreign minister. He and the Reagan administration are a match made in heaven, some observers here, including diplomats and journalists, contend.

Administration officials have always admired Peres' defense background — his air of realpolitik, his penchant for intelligence operations and his ability to keep a secret. To them he is the epitome of the tough, security-minded Israeli who cuts through red tape and likes to gamble.

Peres in turn has felt deeply obligated to the Reagan administration for the financial aid it has provided Israel and for its general diplomatic support. Peres has described Israel's role in the Iran affair as "doing a favor for a friend," and the same could be said to apply to the pipeline proposal.

When it comes to helping the United States, Peres appears to ask few questions. When then-national security adviser Robert McFarlane told him that the arms-for-hostages exchange with Iran had President Reagan's approval in 1985, Peres never raised the matter with Secretary of State George P. Shultz, the man in charge of foreign policy.

Similarly, when Meese contacted Peres about the pipeline that same year, Peres presumed that Meese, as "a competent official of the United States government," was representing the government and acted accordingly, according to informed sources here.

At first glance, it might appear contradictory that Israel would give the green light for the Iraqi project while tilting toward Iran in their war, but analysts here say differently.

Israel's goal was to maintain the balance between the two countries because it saw a continuation of the war as being in its best interests, according to David Menashri, a Tel Aviv University historian and expert on the conflict. Peres reportedly had a second goal: aiding Jordan's King Hussein, a moderate Arab leader who stood to benefit economically from the vast project and strategically from having a potential new lever over his militarily powerful neighbor in Baghdad. "There was nothing here that was out of line with basic Israeli policy," says Menashri.

The pipeline affair again raises the question in the Israeli press and among diplomats of whether Israel under Peres has been too willing to act as an American agent. In the Iran arms affair, critics contend, Israel served as a clandestine arm of the U.S. government, one not subject to U.S. legal constraints and therefore free to conduct an operation the Pentagon and CIA felt uneasy about.

This time Israel appeared prepared to give secret guarantees it would not sabotage the pipeline project. Again Israeli middlemen with suspected ties to the Mossad spy agency were playing key roles.

Many Israelis say they do not like playing the role of America's secret agent, but few see much choice. Israel, they say, is a small power in a tough neighborhood and has to rely on an alliance with a superpower such as the United States to survive.

Indian Hostage-Takers Could Face Life Sentence

By PAUL NOWELL
Associated Press Writer
LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Two American Indians charged with taking a newspaper staff hostage could face life in prison if they are convicted under an anti-terrorism law that has been used only rarely since its 1984 enactment.

"Gratefully, we don't have that many hostage situations," Assistant U.S. Attorney Kiean Shanahan said Tuesday after Eddie Hatcher 30, and Timothy Jacobs, 19, were formally charged at a hearing before U.S. Magistrate Wallace Dixon.

While Hatcher and Jacobs were making their court appearance, the staff of The Robesonian scrambled to put out a Tuesday edition under the glare of television lights and a stream of questions from reporters.

Hatcher and Jacobs entered the federal courtroom in Raleigh at 3:50 p.m. Both wore faded blue jeans and Hatcher wore a shirt with an Indian emblem and tassels on the front. Both had shoulder-length, black hair.

Hatcher twice turned to reporters seated behind him and mouthed that he wanted to make a statement "but they won't let me."

The defendants did not ask to be released on bail, which Shanahan said he would have opposed because Jacobs and Hatcher "pose a clear and present danger to the community."

No bond was set, and both were taken to the Federal Corrections Center in Butner. Each could receive a maximum sentence of life in prison for hostage-taking, and 20 years and $500,000 fine for the two weapons charges, Dixon said.

Dixon scheduled a probable cause hearing for Feb. 12 in case a grand jury does not hand down an indictment beforehand. Shanahan said a grand jury would be convened next Tuesday, probably in Fayetteville.

After missing its Monday edition, The Robesonian was about two hours late Tuesday as reporters and editors worked around other reporters asking questions.

"The frustrating thing is getting beat on our own story," said Bob Horne, the newspaper's editor and one of the last hostages to be released Monday night after the 10-hour siege.

"We were getting phone calls from the entire world. ... We were sitting on the biggest story of our lives and we couldn't cover it because we were the story."

The ordeal began about 10 a.m. Monday when two Tuscarora Indians, a faction of the local Lumbee tribe, burst into the newspaper office near the Robeson County Courthouse. They said they were protesting the death of a black jail inmate and wanted to speak to Gov. Jim Martin before surrendering to state or federal agents.

Conflicting reports said that from 17 to 21 people originally were locked inside the building. Hostages were released throughout the day until 8 p.m., when Hatcher and Jacobs released the last seven and surrendered to FBI agents.

Earlier, Martin's chief of staff, Phil Kirk, signed an agreement with Hatcher and Jacobs that calls for a task force to investigate allegations of corruption in local law enforcement agencies.

Hatcher's attorney, Bruce Cunningham, said Tuesday he and Hatcher would hold their first meeting with the task force either Friday or Monday. Martin's press secretary Jim Sughrie said no date or location had been set for the meeting.

"We're very serious about following through on this," Kirk told reporters earlier.

A bomb threat was telephoned to the newspaper at 4 p.m. Tuesday, but authorities said no explosives could be found. It was not immediately known how many people were in the building when the call came in.

The Concerned Citizens for Better Government coalition Tuesday held a news conference to discuss problems that led to Monday's confrontation.

"This was the act of young men who are desperate, frustrated and fearful," said the Rev. Joy Johnson, the group's chairman and one of the hostage negotiators. "It is only symptomatic of the ills facing our county."

Johnson and other coalition spokesmen said the county suffers from a growing drug problem as well as high unemployment and poverty.

"There's only one race that's sometimes represented in our county," said John Godwin, who founded the coalition. Hatcher had been an officer of the coalition.

The Rev. Mac Legerton said Robeson County is unique because of high populations of the three races — white, black and Indian.

"We're not seeking to unite the people of two major races, but three," he said. "We bring hope in the midst of pain."

Newspaper employees said it was difficult to forget the fear they felt during the 10-hour ordeal.

"It was terrible," said Mebla Carr, who works in the accounting department. "I've never been so frightened in all my life."

Managing Editor Donna Pipes said she had no choice but to try to forget the events of Monday and concentrate on putting out a newspaper.

"It's impossible because of all the media," she said with a laugh. "I can't believe I'd ever say this, but it's kind of a circus."

The work of the staff was interrupted frequently by phone calls from friends and national news media. Flowers arrived from local well-wishers.

Horne said the mood inside the building was calm most of the time.

"To be honest, I think it was worse outside than inside," he said. "They weren't going to hurt anyone. They never waved a gun in anyone's face and they were polite."

IN THE STATE

Evacuation

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Fumes at a warehouse overcame 21 workers on Monday and forced the evacuation of the building, authorities said.

Charles Elledge, the captain of the Wilkes County Rescue Squad, said that carbon monoxide probably caused the workers at the warehouse owned by Lowe's Companies Inc. to experience nausea, vomiting and difficulty breathing.

The incident occurred about 2:50 p.m., officials said.

Cliff Oxford, a spokesman for Lowe's Companies Inc. said that exhaust fumes from forklifts used in the building could have caused the problem.

An investigation into the incident continued, authorities said.

cab of a fire engine, other vehicles and equipment Tuesday at a Durham fire station, authorities said.

Preston Burgess, deputy fire chief of the Bethesda Volunteer Fire Department, said he was getting ready for work about 6:30 a.m. when his beeper went off and gave a message that there was a fire at the station.

Three firefighters were sleeping at the station, Burgess said, but they didn't know about the fire until a Durham city water employee driving by the station noticed it was filled with smoke and stopped to alert them.

Besides destroying the fire engine cab, the fire caused smoke damage to other vehicles and to the station and damaged a motor used to raise and lower a garage door in front of the fire engine, Burgess said.

Crop Values Rise Slightly In State

By The Associated Press

The value of the North Carolina tobacco crop increased 8 percent in 1987, from $682 million in 1986 to $738.4 million in 1987, officials say.

Principal crop values in 1987 totaled $1.5 billion, according to figures released Tuesday by the N.C. Department of Agriculture. Flue-cured tobacco values made up $714.8 million of the total tobacco value, with the other $23.6 million was the value of burley varieties.

The total figure compares to $1.4 billion in 1986 and $1.9 billion in 1985.

Tobacco's production values and cash receipts are usually close because tobacco is usually sold the same year it is produced, Carl Cross of the department's Agricultural Statistics Division said. In 1986, cash receipts from tobacco were $699 million.

Production values are figured by multiplying the average seasonal price of a commodity with the amount grown. The values do not necessarily represent farmers' income during the year, because some commodities, such as corn and soybeans, may be stored and sold later.

The production value of corn fell from $167 million in 1986 to $138 million last year. The drop is attributed to farmers enrolling more acres in a federal grain program and drought. In 1986, growers harvested 1.36 million acres compared to a record low of 1.15 million last year.

A penny separated the average market price of peanuts in the last two years, but the crop's value dropped from $131.3 million in 1986 to $113 million last year. About 3 percent more acres were planted in 1987, but yields were down about 430 pounds per acre from 1986.

Red Tide May Be Leaving N.C. Coast

WILMINGTON (AP) — The toxic red tide is losing its grip on North Carolina's coastal waters, but state officials say it is still too early to tell if the costly plague has departed permanently.

William Hogarth, director of the state Division of Marine Fisheries, predicted Tuesday that the tide could fall below levels considered toxic — 5,000 organisms per liter of water — by Sunday.

"Just looking at what's going on you have to be encouraged," Hogarth said. "The counts inside are definitely declining all the time."

"Hopefully in the next week or so all the counts will be down below the level we're concerned with," he said. "I'm betting on Sunday to be the day."

Steady north winds, until this weekend, apparently pushed the tide south. For the past two weeks the tide has ebbed in the northern reaches of a 200-mile area closed to shellfishing, said George Gilbert, assistant supervisor of the N.C. Shellfish Sanitation Division.

Late last week, tests showed the algae was gone from the northern limit at Avon on Hatteras Island, to Atlantic on Core Sound, a distance of 45 miles. Despite south winds that have blown since Friday, driving temperatures into the 70s, the tide did not move back north, Gilbert said.

"We were kind of holding our breaths on that," Gilbert said. "I don't want to say anything and miss again, but we are optimistic that at last a trend has been established. Right now we're in pretty good shape."

Although the northern waters are clear of the algae, it will take a month to six weeks before oysters purge themselves of toxins, Gilbert said.

Study Finds Housing Supply Ample For Most Buyers Despite Incomes

CHICAGO (AP) — Home-buying "baby boomers" are older and have a smaller household but want more room than their counterparts of a decade ago, and they'll pay more than twice as much for it, a study released today says.

"If there is any one highlight, it would be our finding that there is no housing affordability crisis. There is ample housing available for a wide range of incomes," said Mike Wilson, associate director of research for the Chicago-based U.S. League of Savings Institutions.

The national median price of a home in 1987 was $95,000, more than double the $44,000 of a decade ago, according to the study.

The San Francisco-Oakland-San Jose area, the most expensive of 15 metropolitan locales surveyed by the league in 1977, retained that distinction in 1987. The median cost of a home there last year was $169,347, up from $72,000 a decade ago.

During the period, the largest increase in the cost of a house was recorded in the New York-New Jersey-Long Island area, where a 194 percent increase drove the median price to $142,400 from $48,500.

At $71,500, Pittsburgh provided the lowest 1987 median price of the 15 metropolitan areas surveyed. Houston showed the lowest rate of appreciation among the areas, climbing 56 percent from $46,900 in 1977 to $73,000 last year.

"The national median (price) was $95,000, but that means that 50 percent of the houses sold for below that," Wilson said. "That means that people, to some degree, must be willing to move into what they can afford."

A typical home buyer in 1977 — when the league conducted its first study — was 32.4 years old, married, and part of a household that included three or more people, but depended only on a single wage-earner.

By 1987, that same home buyer was older (37) and less likely to be married (74 percent vs. 83 percent in 1977), and more likely to be single (26 percent vs. 17 percent in 1977).

And for the first time, the majority came from a one- or two-person household (53.6 percent vs. 45.8 percent in 1977) and depended on a second wage-earner (54.5 percent vs. 47.2 percent).

The second source of income helped boost the 1987 home buyer's median income to $46,000, more than twice the $22,700 the 1977 counterpart would have earned.

But the 1987 buyer paid more than double the 1977 median price, and his monthly costs skyrocketed accordingly — to $822 to cover the mortgage payment, real-estate taxes, utilities and insurance. The 1977 costs were $400.

The 1987 home buyer caught a break in the amount of income required to cover those costs.

Mars To Swing Toward Earth

MIAMI (AP) — This year, Mars makes its approach to Earth in a generation, and astronomers say the red planet's appearance in the night sky may be the astronomical event of 1988.

When Mars is at its closest on Sept. 21 — just over 36 million miles away — it will rival Jupiter as the brightest object in the sky after the Moon and Venus. It will not be that close again until 2003.

Unlike the comets Halley and Kohoutek, Mars will not disappoint viewers, because its brightness is more predictable and the planet will be easily visible from almost everywhere.

Although Earth passes Mars every two years, it is only every 15 to 17 years that the orbits of the third and fourth planets bring them as close together as in 1988. The year began with Earth and Mars separated by 200 million miles.

The close encounter comes four years before a scheduled Mars probe by the Soviet Union.

Black Lawmakers Arrested Trying To Remove Rebel Flag

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A legislator who heads the Alabama NAACP, state head of the Alabama NAACP, is halted by state officers as he attempted to climb the fence at the state capitol grounds in Montgomery, Ala., on Tuesday. Reed and other black lawmakers were arrested as they went to rip down the banner.

The group led by Rep. Thomas Reed, state head of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, was arrested Tuesday afternoon as they attempted to climb an 8-foot chain-link fence surrounding the building, which is closed for renovation.

said later while leaving the county jail. "We will not stop until the Confederate flag comes down."

Reed and other civil rights leaders say the flag, often displayed by white supremacists, represents slavery and racial oppression.

Gov. Guy Hunt, who says many people view the flag as a historical symbol free of racial implications, sent state police to meet the protesters as they marched to a padlocked Capitol gate.

The police pulled the black lawmakers away from the fence, and took them by bus to the county jail, where they were charged with trespassing, and released on $300 bond each. A trial date was set for March 11, with the maximum penalty being a $500 fine and three months in prison.

Hundreds watched the confrontation. A Ku Klux Klan leader dressed in a dark suit held a red-and-white Klan banner, and many battle flags like the one over the Capitol waved above the mostly white crowd.

As a small group of blacks began singing "We Shall Overcome," the hymn of the civil rights movement, some of the whites drowned them out with a rendition of "Dixie."

Voting-Age America Approaches 97 Million

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 97 million Americans will go to the polls to choose the next president in November if turnout is the same as four years ago, the Census Bureau estimates.
The nation's voting-age population will be nearly 183 million by November, the Bureau said Tuesday. The number in 1984 was nearly 170 million, Census data show.
And if turnout this year repeats the 53.1 percent rate in 1984, participation in the electoral process will climb from 93 million to nearly 97 million, the Bureau said.

Overall, women make up 52 percent of all eligible voters, the study found, while 11 percent are blacks and 7 percent are Hispanic.
"The growth in the voting-age population continues to be concentrated in the 25-to-44 age group," which has added 17 million to its numbers since 1980, the Bureau said.
"This group has increased its already dominant share of the voting-age population from 38.5 percent in 1980 to 43.5 percent in 1988," the study said.

This age group constitutes the main years of the post-World War II Baby Boom generation, while the shrinking numbers of voters aged 18 to 24 represent the smaller generation of youths born at the end of the boom.
Political clout, of course, depends on more than sheer numbers, and political experts say turnout tends to increase among people as they age and acquire property and families.

Even so, rarely do many more than half of eligible voters cast their ballots.
The 53.1 percent turnout last time was up from 52.6 percent in 1980, but well below the all-time turnout record, set at 62.8 percent in 1960.
While the share of voters in the 25-to-44 age group has been swelling in recent years, the elderly also have been making numerical progress.
Elderly voters — who go the polls in large numbers — have increased by 5.1 million since 1980 to total 30.6 million, or 16.8 percent of eligible voters.

And the future of this group as a voting bloc looks strong, with no less than 46.1 million voters, 25.2 percent of the current total, in the 45-to-64 age group, heading into the elderly category in the next few years.
At the younger end of the scale, voters aged 18-to-24 have declined to 26.5 million, or 14.5 percent of all voters.

The report anticipates 20.4 million blacks of voting age, about 11 percent of the total. Blacks make up 17 percent of voters in the South, 10 percent in the Northeast, 9 percent in the Midwest and 5 percent in the West.
In addition, Hispanics are expected to make up 7 percent of eligible voters, at 13 million.
They predominate in the West, where Hispanics are 16 percent of all voters, followed by 6 percent in the South and Northeast and 2 percent in the Midwest.

SECURITY CONCERN — Vice President George Bush holds a .22-caliber, five-shot pistol Tuesday night during a presidential candidates' forum sponsored by the gun owners of New Hampshire in Concord, N.H. Bush used the pistol to illustrate his point that the right to bear arms must be balanced against the public good. He said the tiny gun could not be detected if it were to pass through an airport's security system. (AP Laserphoto)

Bush Uses Pistol To Express Fear Over Airport Security

By LAURA KING
Associated Press Writer
George Bush pulled a pistol before an audience of gun buffs to dramatize his concern about security-eluding weapons, as Republican rival Bob Dole drew a bead on the vice president's record and demanded that Bush "name one thing" he has done during the Reagan administration.
The Democrats, for their part, turned their fire on the $36 million Contra aid measure up for a vote in the House today. "Not one more dollar!" said Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis.
Republican Pat Robertson, meanwhile, told abortion foes in New Hampshire that the long-range goal of the birth-control advocacy group Planned Parenthood is the creation of a "master race." Planned Parenthood president Faye Wattleton called the former television evangelist's contention "unfounded and, frankly, ridiculous."
A poll pointed to a tight race among front-rank Democrats in the final five days before Iowa precinct caucuses.
The Gallup survey of likely caucus-goers indicated Dukakis and rival Rep. Richard Gephardt were neck-and-neck, with Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois lagging. The poll put Dole far ahead of Bush in Iowa.

Bush and the other Republican contenders went before the Gun Owners of New Hampshire on Tuesday night, telling the group what it wanted to hear — that they all oppose gun control.
But Bush urged the gun enthusiasts to try work out differences with law enforcement groups over high-technology weapons such as plastic guns, which are difficult for airport security to detect. As he spoke, he suddenly drew a small five-shot pistol.
"This weapon can kill the pilot of an airplane," he said, brandishing the 5½-ounce metal gun. Aides said the pistol was provided to Bush by Treasury Department officials.
Bush was the target Tuesday of a blast from Dole, the Senate Republican leader. The vice president has been criticizing Congress all week, and that set Dole off.
"Name one thing, George, you did in the Reagan administration — one thing," Dole said in an interview with The Associated Press in Concord, N.H. "Good ol' George Bush can't point to anything, so what does he do? He attacks Congress."

FBI Chief Says Surveillance Program Improperly Directed

By PHYLLIS MESSINGER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI is under increasing attack for its surveillance of Americans opposed to the Reagan administration's Central American policies, and even bureau director William Sessions says the probe was not always "properly directed."
But Sessions denied at a news conference Tuesday that the FBI had conducted a "massive" domestic spying campaign. He said it focused on just one group, although there were "limited" follow-up investigations on others.
Sessions also testified behind closed doors to the Senate Intelligence Committee, and members indicated that the FBI director faced tough questioning about the probe and the reasons for it.
"We make no prejudgment of the FBI actions in this matter, but we do intend to take as much time as is necessary to determine if funds and resources of the bureau were improperly used to hinder the activities of legitimate, politically active groups in this country," said the panel's chairman, Sen. David Boren, D-Okla.
Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., said he told Sessions that "the FBI lost all credibility in the 1970s, and it is losing credibility again as a result of these reports in the press, which, if true, are utterly outrageous, unacceptable and reprehensible."
At his news conference, Sessions denied that the FBI's initial investigation into the Committee in Solidarity with the People of El Salvador, or CISPES, was broadened to include other organizations.

on the scope of activities and influence of CISPES," he said.
It was Sessions' first in-depth discussion of the FBI investigation, details of which came to light last week when a New York-based civil liberties group, the Center for Constitutional Rights, released FBI documents it obtained through the Freedom of Information Act.
The center contended at the time, and reiterated the claim Tuesday, that the FBI investigation "covered hundreds of groups and individuals who were engaged in activities protected and encouraged by the U.S. Constitution."
The FBI has maintained that it was investigating alleged criminal activity, although no criminal charges were ever brought against CISPES or its members.
Sessions, a former federal judge who became FBI director last Nov. 2, was asked at the news conference about a November 1983 memo from the New Orleans FBI field office that said in part, "It is imperative ... to formulate some plan of attack against" CISPES.
He said the New Orleans memo wasn't known to top FBI officials who were directing the probe from Washington, although the memo it was directed to the then-FBI director, William H. Webster. Had top officials known of it, "I would hope that it would have been directed differently," he said.

"I would say it was not out of control, but as to that particular facet it was not properly directed," Sessions said.

Iranian Frigate, Speedboats Fire On Norwegian Oil Tanker In Gulf

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — An Iranian frigate today attacked a Norwegian oil tanker in the Persian Gulf, then two Iranian speedboats fired on the stricken vessel when it radioed for help, shipping executives said.

The gulf-based executives, who spoke on condition of anonymity, quoted the captain of the 33,000-ton Petrobulk Ruler as saying several small fires broke out aboard his ship but were extinguished by his 25-member Filipino crew.

He reported "extensive damage" to the crew quarters, the officers' deck and radio room. He said he and the chief officer suffered only "minor injuries from flying glass" shards, the executives said.

"I am not surprised, only a little shocked," the Filipino captain, Florenzo Diga, was quoted as saying by radio to a company called Osco Shipping in Manila. "But, I am OK," he added.

The attack was the second in two days by the Iranians in the so-called "tanker war" and came in apparent retaliation for a string of Iraqi raids on Iranian oil tanker routes over the past days.

On Tuesday an Iranian jet fighter, believed to be a U.S.-built Phantom F-4, fired two missiles at the Dutch-operated tanker Petrobulk Pilot in the same area of the southern gulf, but they landed in the water and only one exploded.

The 39,000-ton Petrobulk Pilot, which flies the Liberian flag, was sailing out of the gulf with a load of Kuwaiti petroleum products when it was attacked.

It was the first time in two years that the Iranian air force has gone into action against tankers in the waterway, and the shipping executives said they believed rough winter seas prompted the Iranians to resort to an aerial strike.

The Iranians, whose air force consists mainly of aging Phantoms and other U.S.-built aircraft from the days of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, have depended primarily on speedboats to raid neutral commercial shipping in the gulf for 1½ years. For some time before that, they used helicopters operating from make-shift bases, some on offshore oil platforms.

Iran and Iraq have been at war since September 1980.

The Petrobulk Ruler was sailing into the gulf when it was attacked. Its destination was not immediately known, the shipping executives said.

Speaking by radio to a helicopter-borne American television crew, Diga said that before the attack he "saw an object about two miles away, but it was too dark to make out what it was."

He told the ABC-TV team that "when they started shooting at us, I called at once SOS and then more, more, they shoot us more."

At first, the executives reported only one Iranian craft involved in the attack. They later established the tanker was attacked first by a frigate, then by two speedboats. They said cannon fire, rocket-propelled grenades and machine guns were used in the raid.

Associated Press photographer Greg English, who later flew over the anchored tanker, said machine-gun fire destroyed all windows on the bridge. He counted six large shell holes, including one each on the deck and bridge and the rest along the hull.

English also saw 10 golf-ball-size holes, apparently caused by machine gun fire, in the bow on the starboard with oil leaking from that area, leaving a mile-long slick.

The vessel was anchored 10 miles off the southern gulf port of Sharjah, a gulf emirate, and salvage tugboats were trying to plug the holes.

The distress signal of the Norwegian tanker was picked up by the radio monitors of marine salvage executives at 6:15 a.m. local time when the vessel was off Sharjah. Radio contact then ceased.

Salvage tugboats which rushed out to scout for the vessel found the Petrobulk Ruler dead in the water, according to the sources.

Britain's Nurses Launching Strike

LONDON (AP) — Hospitals canceled routine surgery scheduled for today as nurses launched the most widespread strike to hit Britain's government-run health care system since 1982.

Nurses' unions organized the 24-hour "Day of Action" for today to demand higher pay and more government money for the beleaguered National Health Service, which provides free medical care to the entire British population.

The strike began at 6:30 a.m. local time when two uniformed nurses picketed for one hour in chilly darkness outside the 10 Downing Street office and residence of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

One of the biggest early demonstrations was outside Charing Cross Hospital in west London, where 100 picketing nurses were joined by 200 supporters, including trade unionists and pensioners.

A handful of patients turned out in support of striking nurses outside St. Ann's hospital in north London.

"I just feel strongly that we should help the nurses," said Paul Hudson, leaning on crutches and clad in a blue Terry-cloth bathrobe.

"I can't see how two nurses can look after 26 patients on one ward. I think it's absolutely disgusting. We're just here to support the nurses."

No reliable estimate of the number of nurses involved in the protest was available in advance, but one union said 2,500 nurses would strike at 39 London hospitals. The health service employs 515,000 nurses, about half its work force.

It was the first time nurses agreed to a mass walkout in the 40-year history of the health service, intensifying pressure on the government for radical action to deal with what the medical profession considers a crisis in the health service.

The last major strike to hit the service was an eight-month pay dispute by non-professional health workers that ended in December 1982.

Other one-day strikes this week that disrupted ferry service and coal production prompted concern over a possible upsurge in labor militancy after years of relative calm.

A Health Department spokeswoman said she had no information on how hospitals planned to cope with the strike, but added that elective surgery would be canceled where there were not enough nurses.

Diamond Displayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A mysterious red diamond, one of only five known in the world, is sparkling under the bright lights of its bullet-proof glass case at the National Museum of Natural History after years in the shadows of obscurity.

A gift to the nation from the late Boston gem dealer S. Sydney DeYoung, the round-cut, unmounted, 5.03-carat diamond is probably worth several million dollars.

But museum curator John Sampson White was shocked last October when the diamond landed on his desk in a small cardboard box. It had been sent by registered mail — uninsured — from DeYoung's estate in Boston.

The box carried $11.58 in postage and contained a yellow invoice listing the contents simply as "one large red diamond."

DeYoung owned the red diamond for many years and bequeathed it to the Smithsonian Institution before he died in 1986.

Haitians Protest Manigat's Election

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Hours after the new National Assembly elected Leslie Manigat, 10,000 Haitians rallied at a Roman Catholic Church and vowed they would not.

The demonstration Tuesday was the largest public rally since the protests of last summer when Haitians took to the streets to protest an attempt by the military-dominated junta to take control of elections.

"People without weapons can only demonstrate and shout and sing peacefully. That's what we're doing here," businessman Charles Millery said at the rally. "This is a demonstration of opposition to the fraudulent election of Manigat. People are saying, 'No. We don't want him.'"

Manigat was elected Jan. 17 in junta-run balloting that many potential candidates boycotted and most Haitians ignored.

The vote was to choose a government to replace the junta, which has ruled since Jean-Claude Duvalier fled to exile two years ago, ending a 29-year family dictatorship begun by his father, Francois Duvalier.

Manigat, a 57-year-old university professor and former exile, is to take the oath of office Sunday.

The 94 senators and deputies elected so far were sworn in Tuesday.

After A Decade

'Forgotten Widows' Still Fight With Government

By D.W. PAGE
Associated Press Writer
PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — They call themselves the "forgotten widows," the wives of reserve military men who died from 1972 to 1978 before turning 60, and they believe the government their husbands fought to defend owes them something.

Iva Ciccotti's husband was a gunnery sergeant in the Marine Corps. He saw combat in World War II. As a member of the active reserves, he was recalled to duty and fought in the Korean War. He retired from the reserves in 1972 after more than 22 years of service.

Evelyn Miller's husband won the Bronze Star for heroism in World War II. He spent 3 1/2 years in uniform before retiring from the Virginia National Guard in 1975 as a lieutenant colonel.

Eunice Moore's husband saw combat in World War II; so did the husbands of Sue Collins and Shirley Glazer. Francis Weekley's husband spent a year as a prisoner of war.

Because of an oversight by Congress, the women, now all in their 60s, are denied the percentage of their husbands' pensions that every other widow of a reservist gets.

And after a decade of petitioning Congress, writing letters and trying to publicize what they believe to be an injustice, they are no closer to winning those pensions than they were when they first discovered the government had excluded them.

"Maybe the problem is that there are not enough of us. Maybe the problem is we don't have enough money to hire a lawyer. Maybe we just have not talked to the right people ... whatever. But we're not quitting," Mrs. Ciccotti said.

In 1972, Congress created the Survivors Benefit Plan as a complement to Social Security for retired military personnel. Those retiring on or after Sept. 21, 1972, were automatically qualified. Under the plan, widows would receive up to 55 percent of the retirement pay. The plan was funded by monthly premiums withheld from the retiree's check.

To qualify, a person has to have 20 years in the service and be 60. If he dies before reaching 60 — before starting to receive benefit checks — the widow receives nothing.

To correct that, Congress passed legislation to provide survivor benefits if the husband died before his 60th birthday. That law went into effect Sept. 30, 1978 — but was not retroactive.

Retired Gunnery Sgt. Ascanio Ciccotti died Sept. 2, 1978, just 28 days short of qualifying his widow for pension benefits.

Since the day she found she was not entitled to those benefits, Mrs. Ciccotti has been fighting Washington, D.C.

"My husband — all our husbands — earned those pensions. They believed we would be taken care of. We are not giving up. It is something that our government owes our husbands," she said.

The government disagrees. The Department of Defense was required to study the problem as part of its 1986 funding bill. In that study, the department concluded:

"The issue of cost cannot be avoided. There is no possible way to establish retroactive coverage ... and still meet the previous congressional intent that ... coverage be met at no cost to the Government. By providing such a Government-funded benefit ... in the case of the pre-1978 Reserve Widows, the original intent would be reversed and the Federal deficit would be increased."

The Defense Department estimated 5,421 women would qualify for the benefits.

The study, however, did not use that figure to compute the estimated cost of the benefit. According to the department, the cost of full entitlement would be nearly $27 million if additional benefits were paid to more than 12,000 women, a figure which includes the exempted widows as well as those widowed before 1978 who do qualify for pensions.

The women wonder how their group could overburden the federal budget.

"There was enough money in the budget last year for lawmakers to give themselves $12,000 pay raises," said Mrs. Ciccotti.

Mrs. Glazer noted that U.S. taxpayers contribute to the defense of such countries as Japan and West Germany — "but Congress says there is not enough money to pay the benefits our husbands earned in combat ..."

"They (members of Congress) want to wait until we're all dead. They pat us on the head, then they send us home and forget about us," she added.

"The silence," Mrs. Moore said, "has been overwhelming."

But some congressional workers think this will be the year something is done.

"I think they finally have the support that is needed to get something done," said Evelyn Frazier, press secretary for Rep. Norman Sisisky, D-Va. Frazier said legislation was being drafted to "relieve this inequity."

It is not the first time legislation has been drafted or submitted. Mrs. Ciccotti has an inch-thick file of correspondence from senators and representatives.

Rep. Hank Brown, R-Colo., introduced legislation as early as 1983, co-sponsored by Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo. It was Brown's amendment to the 1986 defense authorization bill that forced the study of the situation.

"We tried twice last year to get Rep. Beverly Byron (D-Md.), chairman of the subcommittee on Military Personnel and Compensation, to hold hearings on the matter," said Brown's press secretary, Joel Kassiday. "We were disappointed that there was no time for the hearings ... but we'll try again this year."

Brown, who served in the Navy in Vietnam, believes the country has a responsibility to the women, Kassiday said.

"It was best said by Abraham Lincoln in his second inaugural address when he said it was the responsibility of the people to care for him who shall have borne the battle and for his widow, and for his orphan."

Danish Lace Is Fun To Knit

Everything's up-to-date with this week's knit pullover, done in a buttery soft acrylic sports-weight yarn. The dropped shoulder, perky collar and three-quarter length sleeves give a contemporary look to a timeless classic. This light and airy fashion is done in the fascinating wave lace stitch — fun to knit and loaded with eye appeal.

Worn with pants or skirts, this top will quickly become one of your favorites. It's knitted to a gauge of five stitches to the inch and directions are given for small, medium and large sizes with finished bust measurements of 34 3/4, 40 1/4 and 45 3/4 inches.

To obtain directions for making Danish Lace, send your request for Leaflet No. Z-013188 with $2 and long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler Crafts, The Daily Reflector, P.O. Box 419148, Kansas City, Mo. 64141.

Or you may order Kit No. K-013188 by sending a check or money order for $17.95 for all sizes to Pat Trexler Crafts at the same address. The kit price includes shipping charges, instruction leaflet and acrylic yarn in your choice of peach, dusty rose or turquoise.

Dear Pat: For a long time, I have searched for a straight knit skirt with no luck, and perhaps there are other knitters in the same situation. I would like to make matching skirts for some of my sweaters. Would it be possible to include such a pattern for various waist and hip sizes in your column? — Mrs. M.R.H., Lincoln, Neb.

Dear Mrs. H.: Rather than trying to give separate directions in various sizes and for different weights of yarn, let me tell you how to design your own skirts. Unlike sweater designing, it's easier than you might think.

First make a sample swatch with yarn and needles of your choice. Then, measure at the waistline, hipline and hemline a skirt that fits well and is the correct length from waist to hem. Make note of each measurement.

Now, multiply each of the width measurements by your gauge to determine the number of stitches

Pat's Pointers

that should be on the needle at each of these points.

I will describe a skirt started at the waist and knitted down to the hem in two separated pieces for back and front. However, if you prefer to knit from the bottom up, just reverse the shaping instructions. Also, you may choose to knit the back and front together on circular needles, eliminating the need for seams. In this case, you would double your figures for the back or front.

For example, let's assume a gauge of 4 stitches per inch and these measurements for either skirt piece: waist, 14 inches; hips, 8 1/2 inches; hem width, 24 inches. For skirt back, cast on 56 stitches (14 inches times 4). You will need to increase to 18 1/2 inches or 74 stitches at the hipline, and after that, to 24 inches or 96 stitches at the hemline.

The hip measurement for the average person is taken approximately 7 inches below the waist, so you have a span of 6 to 7 inches in which to make the necessary increases between these two points. In our example, you would be increasing by 18 stitches in this span.

A better fit is achieved by making 1 increase at each side seam and on either side of each of 2 darts, thus increasing 6 stitches on an increase row. Continuing our example, you would work 3 increase rows for the 18 additional stitches needed at the hipline. Work an increase row at 2 inches, 4 inches and 6 inches from the waistline.

To figure the position of the darts, place markers on the needle one-third of the way in from each side seam. Your 56 stitches are not evenly divisible by 3, so I would place markers 19 stitches in from each side edge with 18 stitches in the middle.

The extra 22 increases needed to reach the desired hemline width will be made at only the side edges with the increase rows spaced at gradual intervals between your desired length from hip to hem. As a final example, on a skirt length of 31 inches, you will have a 24-inch span in which to work the needed 11 increase rows, so space them about 2 inches apart.

Remember that the stitch numbers given here are only an example, but if you will follow the same principle of multiplying the desired width by your gauge, you can successfully make a skirt from any yarn to fit any size. Happy knitting!

Pre-nuptial Agreement Leads To Resentment

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letter from "Parents of the Bride," whose daughter had been manipulated into signing a pre-nuptial agreement on her wedding eve.

Some years ago, I married a very wealthy man who asked me to sign a pre-nuptial agreement. He said he "couldn't" marry me unless I signed it. The agreement not only protected his premarital assets, it prevented me from sharing in any income he earned during our marriage, stipulating what I would receive should we be divorced — and guaranteed me only a pittance in his will.

I hated the agreement, but I loved the man, so I signed it — against the advice of an attorney. I was convinced that I was marrying a fair and generous man, and felt confident that after we were married, he would trash the document.

I was wrong. After many years of marriage, he refused to alter or destroy the agreement, all the while proclaiming his great love for me. He gave me a modest allowance for my personal needs. I bought most of my clothes and even my new car with my earnings. (Yes, I continued to work after my marriage — I was afraid to quit because I felt financially insecure.)

When I finally caught him with another woman (I later learned there had been many), I had the choice of putting up with his philandering, or I could leave empty-handed.

Dear Abby

I chose to leave while I was still able to support myself — rather than having him dump me in my old age. I got exactly what the pre-nuptial agreement stated — except that due to inflation, my pittance of alimony barely pays for my birdseed.

My advice to any woman who is asked to sign a pre-nuptial agreement is to run as fast as she can from the stingy bum.

Women, everywhere, should refuse to sign them. A well-known divorce lawyer once said: "Pre-nuptial agreements serve only to deny a woman the rights she has under the law, to property accumulated during her marriage. I have never seen a marriage work that required a pre-nuptial agreement." — SCREWED IN SAN FRANCISCO happened to "equal rights"? Pre-nuptial agreements can benefit (and/or protect) women as well as men. But each party should retain his or her own attorney.

DEAR SCREWED: Whatever

DEAR ABBY: Recently a friend and business associate talked me into buying a $200 health food weight-loss package that we were to divide equally, each paying $100.

I really had no need for this package, but she talked me into it. I made the purchase and sent her half the contents. (She lives in another town.)

When I received no check from her for her half, I telephoned her to find out if she received the package. She said she had, but decided not to use any of the vitamins or anything else in the package.

A month went by and she did not return the package to me. What should I do? If I weren't associated with her in business, I might handle it differently, but I'm afraid to rock the boat.

Now what? — HOLDING THE BAG

DEAR HOLDING: Write this loss off as tuition in the school of experience. And in the future, do not allow yourself to be so easily "talked into" anything.

DEAR ABBY: I work in an office consisting mostly of women. Yesterday the question arose of whether or not panties should be worn with pantyhose.

There are 10 women in the office; five said yes, five said no. Should we or shouldn't we? — SECRET-TERRY

DEAR SECRET: Pantyhose come with "built-in" panties, and are customarily laundered after each wearing, so panties with pantyhose are, in my opinion, redundant and non-essential. Ladies?

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned downward today as Tuesday's modest rally faded.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 9.29 to 1,943.63 in the first half hour of trading.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about 5 to 3 in the overall tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, with 384 up, 656 down and 452 unchanged.

Volume on the Big Board came to 33.09 million shares as of 10 a.m. on Wall Street.

In economic news, factory orders shot up 2.5 percent in December, ending a year in which demand for manufactured goods posted the biggest increase since 1984, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said orders for both durable and non-durable goods totaled a seasonally adjusted $214.77 billion, an increase of $5.14 billion from the November level. Much of the strength came from a big increase in aircraft orders. The 2.5 percent advance was the strongest since a matching 2.5 percent rise last March. It followed a 0.1 percent increase in November.

Among the blue chips, International Business Machines dropped 3/8 to 109 1/2; General Electric 1/2 to 43 3/8; Merck 1 1/8 to 152 3/4, and Eastman Kodak 1/2 to 43 1/4.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks fell .63 to 142.98. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .58 at 269.56.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 8.29 to 1,952.92.

Advancing issues outpaced decliners by a margin of about 8 to 7 among issues listed on the NYSE, with 856 up, 673 down and 459 unchanged. Big Board volume slowed to 164.92 million shares from 210.66 million shares on Monday.

Farmville Board Rejects Request To Rezone Non-Conforming Plot

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE — Farmville commissioners voted 3-2 Tuesday night to turn down W.A. Allen Jr.'s request to rezone his property at 207 Belcher St. from R-5 residential to general business.

Allen had told the board earlier that a person wishing to lease the building wanted to make it a used car sales lot. But at the meeting, his brother, Lewis Allen, said that the person using the building will want it only for mechanical repair work, the same use it served in the past.

The commissioners told the Allens that, if the use is to remain the same, it can be continued, even though it's a non-conforming use, because the zoning law says that non-conforming uses can be continued as long as a building does not remain vacant for 180 days. The Allens said, however, that they still wished to have the zoning changed. Commissioners Marvin Speight and John Turner Walston voted with the Allen's request; Commissioners Oliver Murphey, Joe Kue and Alfred Williams, against it.

Several citizens spoke against letting the lot be rezoned. These included Noel Baucom, Steve Simonds, and Caroline Baucom. All said they wish to see the area be residential in nature.

There was no citizen participation in a public hearing on subdivision ordinance changes. The change is the inclusion of a sedimentation control plan, perk test approval and a drainage system plan for extraterritorial area of Farmville. It would be required that preliminary plats in the extraterritorial area by submitted to the Pitt County Health Department, the N.C. Department of Transportation and the Soil Conservation Service for evaluation and approval before the plats are brought to the town's planning board.

The condemnation of a house owned by William Wahl at 206 W. Jones Street was approved. Wahl spoke on his own behalf, saying he is repairing the house as fast as he has the money and the time to do the work himself. Commissioners said they have no wish to demolish his house and that he has 60 days to bring it into compliance before the town would begin demolition proceedings.

A public hearing was set for the board's March 1 meeting on whether to condemn the Edwards Building at 415-417 S. Main St.

A bid of $8,800 for chlorine for waste water treatment was approved. The low bidder is Suffolk-Glwn Chemical.

Approval was also given for the purchase of 800 electrical load management switches from QEI Inc. There are 200 households on a waiting list for switches, the board was told, and the utilities director Bill Modlin believes the rest will be easy to place.

The board approved a plan to offer the town's 46 old fire alarm boxes and five bells to the volunteer firemen of the town at a reduced price. The board also decided to give one of the boxes to Frances Smith Rector, daughter of the late Haywood Smith.

who served the town many years as fire chief. Mrs. Rector had requested to buy one of the boxes to mount on a plaque and give back to the town for display in its fire station or town hall. It was also agreed to sell one to the daughter of former Fire Chief Curtis Flanagan. The boxes not bought by the firemen will be offered at the town's next auction of surplus property.

There was some discussion of selling the town's administrative office once the new town hall is completed. The sale of the building will be carried out by sealed bid, it was determined.

An administrative proposal to put an island on Park Avenue at its north end to discourage drivers pulling out on U.S. 258 near a blind curve was disapproved by the board. Walston made the motion that the plan be disapproved, saying that all street matters should be brought to the board first. It was then determined that the Public Safety Committee would again look at this intersection. Park Avenue is a one-way street, made so to prevent people from entering 258 at this dangerous intersection, but the town has still noted some near accidents by drivers who have violated this one-way street ordinance.

The meeting was adjourned until today at 1 p.m., when the board planned to meet at the waste water treatment plant to look at siphoning pipe. The board is faced with buying approximately $120,000 worth of stainless steel pipe to replace aluminum pipe which has corroded.

'Poltergeist' Child Star Dies In Surgery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Child star Heather O'Rourke, the angelic little blonde who was sucked into a swirling supernatural vacuum in the terrifying "Poltergeist" movies, died on the operating table during intestinal surgery.

She was 12. The actress, who warned "They're hereeeer!" in "Poltergeist" and "They're baaack!" in the spooky sequel, died Monday shortly after arrival at Children's Hospital of San Diego, her agent David Wardlow said Tuesday.

The cause of death was "septic shock due to congenital stenosis of the intestine," a bowel blockage the girl evidently had from birth, the San Diego County coroner's office said.

Heather, who finished filming "Poltergeist III" last June, was taken to the hospital after complaining of abdominal pain, Wardlow said.

She suffered cardiac arrest and was resuscitated at Valley Medical Hospital before transfer to Children's Hospital for surgery, said Children's Hospital spokesman Terry Merryman. Heather died Monday afternoon during an operation that was complicated when she suffered shock.

"Septic shock is not uncommon in infections," Ms. Merryman said, noting that it involves bacteria getting into the bloodstream.

The adult performers who marveled at Heather's professionalism and early promise mourned her death.

"I am devastated by the news of Heather's death," said actor Craig T. Nelson, who portrayed her character's father. "It's very difficult when a member of your family dies so suddenly. I loved her very much."

Funeral arrangements were incomplete, but a service Friday in Los Angeles was planned. The young actress is survived by her parents, Jim and Kathy O'Rourke of Big Bear Lake.

"I'm deeply saddened and shocked by the news," actress JoBeth Williams said. "Having played Heather's mother twice, I grew to love her and respect her talent. My heart goes out to her mother and her family."

Heather was just 5 years old when Steven Spielberg cast her to play Carol Ann Freeling in "Poltergeist," which featured the youngster lured to a light source coming from a closet and sucked into another world peopled by demons.

She went on to star in all three "Poltergeist" films and appeared in television's "Happy Days," "Webster" and "Still the Beaver."

"She was a professional. She was beautiful. She wanted to be a great actress," said "Happy Days" star Henry Winkler.

Heather "always looked like 'Alice in Wonderland' and could memorize a 60-page script in about an hour," said her manager, Mike Meyer.

Four actors who appeared in the "Poltergeist" movies have died. Heather was the second actress from the ghost film to die unexpectedly. Dominique Dunne, who played a teen-age daughter in the original, was strangled in October 1982.

Contra Aid Faces Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan vetoed his $36.2 million aid package for the Nicaraguan Contra rebels in a last-minute play for votes as it went to an uncertain fate today on the House floor.

In a televised speech Tuesday night, the president pledged to let Congress decide two months from now whether Nicaragua's leftist government is living up to the promises of democratization it made to its neighbors on Jan. 16.

"If Congress adopts such a resolution within 10 days containing this finding, then I will honor this action and withhold deliveries of ammunition in this package," Reagan promised.

It's as inevitable as taxes, but don't ask your CPA about it.

The two inevitabilities. When it comes to questions about taxes most people don't hesitate to make plans and arrangements with their accountant. But when it comes to the other inevitability, it's amazing how few people make any arrangements at all.

And that's a mystery, considering the benefits to family and friends that funeral prearrangement offers. It makes things simple. It offers peace of mind. Reassurance to loved ones. And it takes very little time.

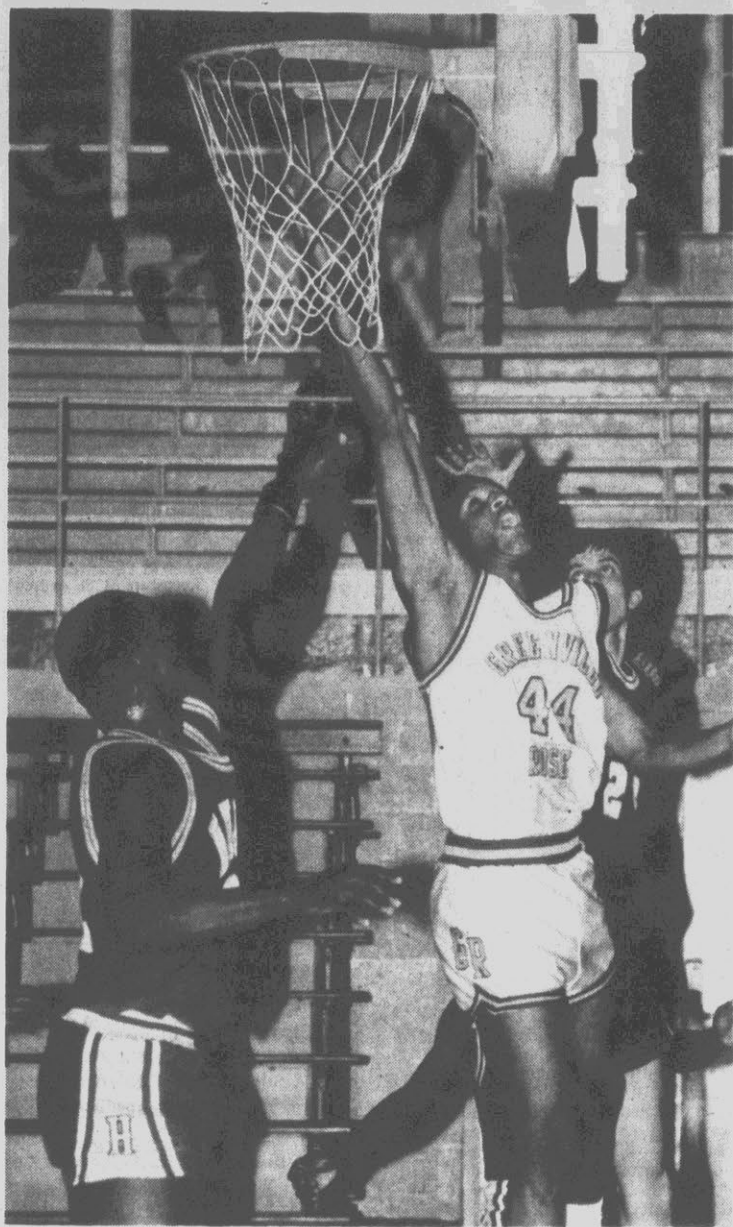

So if you're tax planning, ask your CPA or tax lawyer. The other inevitability? Ask us.

Ennis Named New NPHS Grid Coach

By TOM MORRIS
Reflector Sports Writer

Stuart Ennis has been named as the new head football coach at North Pitt High School, replacing Larry Bolger who resigned Jan. 14, school officials announced Tuesday.

For the past four years, Ennis has been the offensive coordinator under Bolger for the Panthers, who advanced to the playoffs in each of the last three seasons.

"He had done a good job as offensive coordinator," said North Pitt principal Josh Potter. "He has real good rapport with the students. He's paid his dues. He deserves the opportunity. I think he'll do an outstanding job."

Bolger resigned after citing a difference in philosophy with school administrators. Despite the controversy over that, Ennis said he feels comfortable with the situation.

"I feel that our program is going to continue to rise," he said. "I hope that it will. If I didn't feel positive about it, I would probably be leaving with Larry," Ennis said. "I think as long as everybody keeps an open line of communication, it will be a big plus."

"I would definitely say that a head coaching job was something that I wanted. I had been offered several head coaching jobs, several before I came to North Pitt. But the situation was never right."

Potter said he feels that hiring from within will enable the program to keep a sense of continuity, and Ennis agrees.

"I think that over the last four years, we have instilled in the kids a knowledge of how to win," Ennis said. "They know it is going to take hard work and dedication to football. They have to work in the off-season."

"There is no doubt that one thing that I feel is in my favor is going into a new situation, the first thing a new coach has to do is sell himself to the players. I don't feel that is going to have to happen with me. I feel like the kids are going to believe in (the program)."

Ennis began coaching with Bolger eight years ago at Lakewood High School in Sampson County.

"I think Larry and I had a pretty mutual understanding towards each other," Ennis said. "For the last eight years, I did the offensive phase of preparing, calling all the plays. Likewise, Larry handled the defense."

As for the future, Ennis was guardedly optimistic.

"We've got some mighty fine young men," he said. "(But) we've lost a couple to graduation. No matter who is coaching next year, losing individuals like Calvin Hunter, Ashley Sheppard, Collier Mullins and Jesse Frank, that is going to hurt anybody's program."

North Pitt was the Eastern Plains Conference co-champions the last two seasons and advanced to the Eastern 2-A semifinals this past year before bowing to cross-county rival Ayden-Grifton, 14-6. The Panthers finished the year 8-4-1.

Rose Rips Hunt By 74-49

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Rose High School held Wilson Hunt to only two free throws in the third quarter of the basketball game as the Rampants overpowered the Warriors, 74-49, Tuesday night.

Rose's girls also came away winners, taking a 51-43 decision that was not as close as the score would indicate.

In the boys' game, the Rampants broke open a close game late in the first period, scoring seven straight points to go from a 10-9 deficit to a 16-10 lead. After that, Rose steadily pulled away to as much as a 29-point lead in the early minutes of the final period.

"We needed a game of this type to get our young kids some playing time," Coach Jim Brewington said. "But I was worried about this one coming in."

"(Hunt) was ahead of Northern Nash by 10 points late in the game and Northern had to score 12 straight to beat them. And they almost beat Kingston, so I was worried about it all weekend."

Brewington said he thought that the Rose 1-3-1 defense somewhat confused the Warriors. "Overall, we played pretty good defense. And on offense we were patient and got pretty good shots for the first three periods. After that we got a little sloppy."

"But we needed a win like this to take into Northern Nash (Friday)," he added.

In the first 5:40 of the game, the contest was close with one tie and seven lead changes before Errol Wooten hit a baseline jumper with 2:49 remaining for an 11-10 Rose lead. The Rampants never trailed again.

Brian Wille followed with two free throws and Paul Powers made the second of a two-shot foul and Wooten again hit from the baseline to make it 16-10 with 52 seconds to go in the period.

Hunt, however, scored two quick baskets to pull it back to 16-14.

Rose came right back to open the second quarter with five quick points to run the lead out to seven, 21-14. Wooten and Kevin Cobb both scored baskets and Cobb added a free throw in the string.

Rose then scored six more around a driving layup by Danny Allen to open the lead to nine, 27-18, with 3:33 left in the period. After four straight Warrior points trimmed it to 27-22, Rose scored the final eight points of the half to run the lead to 35-22.

Wooten started it with a 3-point basket and Keyford Langley added a 3-point play. Wooten then hit from the baseline once more to close out the half.

The third-quarter was the clincher. Rose scored the first 11 points of the period to run out to a 46-22 lead. Then, after Rex Vick made two free throws, Rose finished it off with five more points to make it 51-24.

Hunt failed to connect on seven shots from the floor in the period and turned the ball over eight times.

Carlester Crumpler scored the opening basket of the final period to make it 53-24, a 29-point spread, and Rose went to its bench after that to run out the rest of the game.

Rose shot 46.6 percent from the floor while holding the Warriors to only 40.0 percent. The Rampants also outrebounded their opponent, 44-28, including a 37-17 advantage the final three periods.

Wooten paced the Rose scoring with 21 points while Langley had 13 and Cobb scored 10. Hunt was led by Vick with 18 while Nique Stewart had 16.

Rose's girls scored the first 11 points of their game and were never out of the lead. Lisa Leisten scored eight of those 11 to lead the way.

The Ramettes continued to pull away, running out to as much as a

Lady Wolfpack Tops ECU, 72-64

RALEIGH — N.C. State built up a 14-point lead midway through the second half and held off East Carolina's Lady Pirates to claim a 72-64 basketball victory Tuesday night.

State held East Carolina's Monique Pompili scoreless in the game and used the absence of her scoring to help them along.

The Lady Wolfpack jumped out to an early lead, taking an 11-6 lead on a basket by Gerri Manning with 13:47 to play. From there, State eased out to a six-point lead with 5:41 showing at 23-17.

East Carolina rallied behind a 2-point and a 3-point basket by Chris O'Connor, however, and cut the lead to 25-24. The Pirates, however, were unable to take the lead, and after trailing 28-27, saw State go on a 10-4 streak in the final 1:52 of the half. That put the Wolfpack into a 38-31 halftime edge.

In the second half, Sandee Smith came off the bench to score 10 points and lead the Wolfpack effort. Behind her performance, State built up a 53-39 lead at the 11:57 mark. East Carolina was unable to put together a sufficient rally after that, closing only to the final eight-point margin.

State outrebounded the Lady Pirates, 41-34, led by Manning. East Carolina's board effort was paced by Alma Bethea with eight.

Betha also led the ECU scoring with 21 points while Rose Miller, who scored 10 off the bench in the second period, and O'Connor each had 12.

State's scoring was led by Manning with 16, while Smith had 14 and Krista Kilburn had 11.

"We still didn't shoot the ball very well," ECU coach Pat Pierson said.

Vikes Nip West Carteret

Reflector Sports Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Even though Conley coach Walter Claybrook felt his team played right into the hands of West Carteret, he was thankful his team was able to squeeze by the Patriots for a 44-42 Coastal Conference basketball win Tuesday night.

The Vikings blew a 10-point lead in the final quarter but regained their composure in the end, thanks to six points in the final two minutes by Sherwood Wilder, to hold on for the victory.

"It was a win, that's all it was," Claybrook said. "They (West Carteret) have a tendency to frustrate the other team. They have a tendency to make you change your strategy. But you have to be happy. It's a conference win. You can't afford to lose one at home."

West Carteret made it tough on the Vikings, though, rallying from a 10-point deficit in the final six minutes to pull within one at 38-37 with 3:37.

The Patriots even missed a chance to take the lead when Eric Lewis stripped Conley's Emerson Merritt of the ball with two and half minutes to go but then missed his layup attempt.

Wilder then hit two free throws to make it 40-37 with just under two minutes to go.

Lewis canned a pair of free throws with 1:12 left to pull the Patriots back within one at 40-39 but Wilder hit a short jumper and two free throws in the final minute to give Conley a 44-39 edge.

David Bennett nailed a 3-point shot with three seconds remaining to pull the Patriots within two, but that was as close as they would get.

The much-shorter Patriots played Conley tough all night, using a tightly-packed zone defense along with a sticky press that finally came through in the second half.

"The first half we pressured some," said West Carteret coach Billy Widgeon. "But in the second we did a much better job. In the second half, we scored better. I think we played well. We scrapped."

The Patriots led 13-12 after the first quarter but Conley got going in the second quarter and forged a 26-17 halftime lead as Phil Medlin scored nine of his team-high 13 points in the opening half.

But West Carteret stayed with the favored Vikings throughout the third quarter and made its move early in the final period.

After Paul Merritt scored off an inside feed from Medlin at the 5:28 mark of the final period to make it 48-38, West Carteret began its rally.

Bennett, who led all scorers with 15 points, started things off with a follow shot. After a Conley turnover, Lee Greene nailed a 3-pointer to make it 38-33.

Another Viking turnover led to a basket by William Hill and Bennett scored again after picking up a loose ball to make it 38-37.

Conley then tried to run time off the clock and pull the Patriots out of their zone. Lewis followed with his steal off Merritt but his missed layup was the only chance the Patriots would have to take the lead in the second half.

"They had the lead and they were expected to win the game," Widgeon said. "If you can (take) the lead, they tend to get tight."

Claybrook said the Vikings may have taken the 3-11 Patriots lightly.

"I've gone and seen them play," he said. "They play like that every game. We played right into their hands. They did a good job making us do what they wanted us to do."

Medlin was the only double-figure scorer for the Vikings, who outrebounded the Patriots 24-13.

Conley moves to 11-5 overall and 5-1 in the Coastal and travels to Washington Friday.

In the girl's game, West Carteret used a big third-quarter spurt to roll to a 43-24 win.

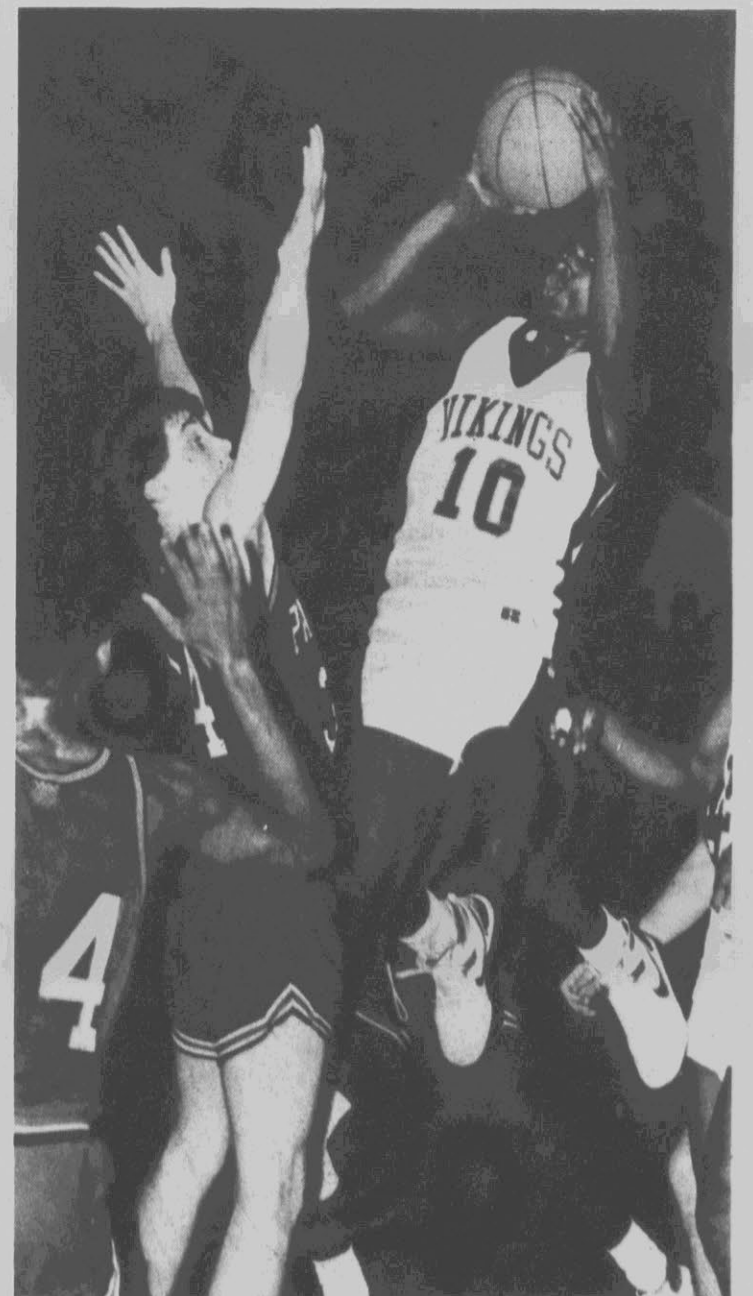

The Lady Patriots led 16-14 at the half but outscored Conley 23-2 in the third period to open up a 37-16 lead.

Wendi Nelson had five points and Staci Kyle had four to key the run by West Carteret.

The Valkyries narrowed the gap back to within 37-23 on the final quarter as they scored the first six points of the period but that was as close as the score would get.

Nikki Adams led Conley with 10 points while Nelson led West Carteret with 11. Kyle and Nicole Manner added 10 apiece.

Conley falls to 6-10 overall and 1-5 in the Coastal Conference.

Kelly Doubtful For George Mason Game

East Carolina junior guard Jeff Kelly is out of action temporarily after suffering a shoulder injury when he collided with a Campbell University player late in the second half of Monday night's game, school officials have announced.

A spokesman for the sports medicine department at ECU said that Kelly sustained a sprain to his left shoulder with a significant bruise.

Kelly, 5-9, is listed as doubtful for Saturday night's game against Colonial Athletic Association foe George Mason. That leaves the Pirates with only two healthy point guards in starter Jimmy Hinton and backup David Simmons, a walk-on from Fayetteville.

Cox Rolls Over West Craven, 65-18

NEW BERN — A.G. Cox Middle School rolled up a 65-18 wrestling victory over West Craven Tuesday.

Cox won 11 weight classes, taking seven of them by pins. They added three forfeits and one decision.

Winning pins were John Smith, K.D. Anderson, Ronnie Barnhill, Emmitt Lang, Terry Turnage, Jamie Mitchell and Steven Daugherty. Daugherty, Lang and Turnage are undefeated on the season.

Cox is now 10-1 and entertains P.S. Jones on Thursday.

Ellis Excited About Groh Hiring

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — South Carolina quarterback Todd Ellis says he's happy that former Wake Forest coach Al Groh has been named offensive coordinator for the Gamecocks and calls the former Atlanta Falcons assistant coach a "take-charge guy."

Ellis said Groh's selection didn't surprise him and that he also doesn't expect any surprises come March when the Gamecocks begin their first spring practice under Groh.

Coach Joe Morrison announced the hiring of Groh on Monday. Groh, who was head coach at Wake Forest until joining the Falcons this past season, replaces Frank Sadler, who was fired last month.

"Coach Groh recruited me out of high school when he was at Wake Forest," said Ellis, a rising junior from Greensboro, N.C. "I've always respected him a great deal, ever since the recruiting experience."

"When I originally heard the rumors about him coming, I was excited," Ellis said. "He's a take-charge guy. I'm happy with the selection."

Groh says he expects to install a pro set offense that will at least partly replace the run-and-shoot the Gamecocks have used the past two seasons. A major criticism of the run-and-shoot was its apparent inability to score near the goal line, a problem Morrison tried to solve this year by going to the I-formation at mid-season.

"I teach what I know best," Groh said. "I understand this particular type of offense. We want to be able to throw the ball. But you've also got to have the confidence you can knock people down and bloody their noses."

Ellis said he liked that philosophy.

"I love the run-and-shoot, and I hope we don't scrap it. I think it's too good a weapon for us," Ellis said. "But the pro set will give me more of an opportunity to drop back."

South Carolina finished 8-4 this past season, ending the year with a 30-13 loss to Louisiana State in the Gator Bowl.

NCAA To Experiment With Graphite Bat

TULLAHOMA, Tenn. (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association has approved the use of Worth Sports Company's graphite composite baseball bat on an experimental basis, company officials announced Tuesday.

The Worth graphite bat, model TRX-1, is the first graphite composite bat approved for use by NCAA members.

In order for the bat to be used in an official NCAA game, coaches must notify umpires during the pregame meeting that they have mutually agreed to allow players on either team to use the graphite bat.

"We feel that NCAA approval of the graphite bat ushers in a new era in baseball, as did the NCAA approval of the aluminum bat in 1974," Jess Heald, president of Worth, said. "The graphite composite bat is the result of more than four years of highly technical product development."

A statement issued by the NCAA says the graphite bat combines the best features of wood and aluminum.

"Based on results from a manufacturer's study and an ongoing independent testing agency study, the NCAA Baseball Committee feels this bat more closely performs and sounds like the traditional wood bat. We feel the bat will be as durable and popular as the aluminum bat," Bill Thurston, secretary-rules editor of the committee and Amherst College coach, said in the NCAA statement.

Since its development in 1985, models of Worth's graphite bat have been successfully introduced in softball, youth league, high school and college competition.

Worth Sports Co., a division of Lannom Manufacturing Co., is the world's largest producer of bats and balls.

Packers Awaiting Infante's Reply

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay vice president Tom Braatz offered the Packers' coaching position to Cleveland Browns offensive coordinator Lindy Infante on Tuesday and said he wanted a reply by Wednesday.

"There are no major hurdles left. It's a matter of timing at this point," Braatz said Tuesday as the Packers search for a new coach dragged into its third week.

Infante is in Honolulu, Hawaii where the Browns' staff will coach the American Football Conference in Sunday's Pro Bowl.

Earlier on Tuesday Braatz said, "He has a situation he has to think about strongly."

"He's got something he's thinking about. It's personal."

But later Braatz said Infante's personal matter was simply discussing a move from Cleveland to Green Bay with his family.

Braatz said the Packers needed to name their new coach this week so they could begin scouting and preparing for April's college draft.

"Time is of the essence," he said, noting that the contracts of all but one Packers assistants expired Monday. Another assistant, George Sefcik, has become the offensive coordinator of the Kansas City Chiefs.

Browns owner Art Modell told the Green Bay Press-Gazette he thought Infante would be offered the job.

Walters, Aide Indicted In Alabama

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Norby Walters and an associate have become the latest pro sports agents indicted by an Alabama grand jury for dealing with college athletes, a prosecutor says.

Alabama Attorney General Don Siegelman said Tuesday a Tuscaloosa County grand jury had returned a three-count indictment against Walters, president of World Sports and Entertainment Inc., the company and Lloyd Bloom, the vice president.

Siegelman said the indictments stem from Walters' and Bloom's dealings with former Alabama basketball star Derrick McKey, who now plays with the NBA's Seattle SuperSonics.

Pant-Hers Take Over Top

BETHEL — North Pitt's Pant-Hers moved to the top of the pile in the race for the Eastern Plains Conference girls' basketball championship with a 50-45 upset of South Lenoir Tuesday night.

North Pitt's boys made it a sweep with a 62-43 win over the Blue Devils.

The Pant-Hers matched South Lenoir through the first period of the game, both teams scoring six points. Then, in the second quarter, North Pitt outhit the Lady Devils, 14-8, to push out into a 20-14 halftime lead.

South Lenoir rallied in the third period, 14-13, and cut the lead back to 33-28. The two then matched points through the final quarter. Amy Heath made both ends of a one-and-one with eight seconds left to ensure the victory for North Pitt.

The victory boosted North Pitt's record to 7-7 overall, 4-2 in league play. South Lenoir dropped to 3-2 in the conference.

Keisha Pilgreen led North Pitt with 19 while Gwen Pilgreen hit 10. Sonya King led South Lenoir with 14 while Joanna Grant added 12.

North Pitt's boys zoomed out to a 13-8 lead in the opening quarter of their game and were never in trouble after that. The Panthers outscored South Lenoir, 12-4, in the second quarter, opening up a 25-12 halftime lead.

The Panthers continued to pull away in the third period, 17-10, boosting their lead to 52-22. North Pitt allowed a 21-10 rally by the Blue Devils in the final quarter.

Calvin Hunter led North Pitt with 13 points while Ray Koonce had 11 and Montez Davis had 10 for South Lenoir.

North Pitt's boys are now 6-10 overall, 3-3 in league play.

North Pitt travels to Ayden-Grifton on Friday.

Trinity Takes Two Cage Wins

HOOKEKERTON — Trinity Christian School swept a pair of basketball games from Mt. Calvary Tuesday night. Trinity took the boys' game, 73-54, and won the girls' game by a 32-23 score.

Trinity's boys jumped out to a 25-10 lead in the first period. Mt. Calvary rallied, 15-13, in the second quarter, but still trailed by 38-25 at intermission.

Trinity again pulled away in the third quarter, 18-12, building the lead out to 56-37. Both teams scored 17 points apiece in the final quarter.

Gerard Fulton led the Tigers with 20 points while Kirk Welch had 18, Kreston Welch had 15 and John Griffin hit 12. Paul Jones led Mt. Calvary with 21.

In the girls' game, Trinity held a 9-4 lead after one period but Mt. Calvary came back with an 8-4 margin in the second quarter. That left Trinity in a slim 13-12 halftime lead.

In the third period, however, Trinity outhit Mt. Calvary 12-4, to take a 25-16 lead. Both teams scored seven points each in the final frame.

Jennifer Alexander led Trinity with nine points while Marie Summerlin had nine for Mt. Calvary.

Trinity's boys are now 16-2 while the girls are 5-6. Trinity travels to Fuquay-Varina on Friday to face Hilltop.

Rose ...

12-point spread before Hunt cut it back to 18-10 at the end of the first period.

Rose pulled back out to a 13-point lead in the second quarter at 29-16, but Hunt scored the final five to close it to 29-21 at intermission.

In the third quarter, Rose scored the final three points of the period to up the lead to 40-26, a 14-point margin. The Rampettes scored the first basket of the final quarter to edge out by 16 and Hunt rallied after that, mainly at the foul line, coming back to within seven at one point.

"I thought we played well in the first half," Rose coach Bill Kuykendall said. "In the second half, though, we weren't as intense and we didn't play as hard and I'm sorry to see that.

"Hunt did a good job of shooting from the outside and hitting some that they missed early," he added of the Lady Warriors' second half effort.

"I thought Nicole (Maxon) gave their guards a lot of trouble. Tina Smith rebounded well for us and that helped us. Too, we've shot well the last few games."

Rose was led by Leisten with 12 and Maxon with 11. Angel Coleman led Hunt with 11.

The Rampants are now 11-3 overall and 4-2 in Big East play. Hunt falls to 2-13, 1-6. Rose's girls are 11-1, 5-1, while Hunt drops to 5-10, 2-5.

ECU Graduates Are Honored

Two East Carolina University graduates have been honored by the National Athletic Trainers' Association.

Ronnie Barnes, now head athletic trainer for the New York Giants football team, has been voted the Professional Athletic Trainer of the Year by the NATA, while Kirby E. Patterson, head athletic trainer at West Charlotte High School in Charlotte, has been named as the High School Trainer of the Year.

The awards, now in their 12 year, are voted by the 6,000 members of the association nationwide.

Both will be honored with plaques at ceremonies to be held Feb. 15 in Cincinnati, Ohio. Barnes will also be honored by a $4,000 check donated in his name to the NATA Scholarship Fund. A $1,000 check will be donated in Patterson's name to West Charlotte High School for athletic training equipment.

Barnes, a 1975 graduate of East Carolina, has also done graduate work at East Carolina and received his masters in health administration from Michigan State University. He has been with the Giants since 1975 and has served as head trainer since 1980. In 1984, he instituted an employee assistant program to help prevent drug abuse.

The award is the second for Barnes, who first received it in 1984. Last year, he was appointed to serve on the New Jersey Advisory Committee to the Governor's Council for Physical Fitness. He is a past president of the Michigan State Trainers Association and has served on the Governor's Advisory Commission for Sports Medicine in North Carolina.

Barnes is the son of Mrs. Willie Russel Barnes of Rocky Mount and the late Rev. Barnes.

Patterson earned his bachelor's degree at East Carolina in 1977 and also earned his masters there. He began his training career as a student in high school after deciding he was too small to play football. A certified trainer since 1977, he began his professional teaching and training career at ECU. In 1979, he moved to Richmond Senior High School and came to West Charlotte in 1982 where he teaches physical education, athletic training and weight lifting. He has also served a trainer for a number of special events and was head trainer for the Kinston Eagles, a minor league baseball team.

He has served as president and member of the board of directors of the North Carolina Athletic Trainers Association. Last summer he was voted Athletic Trainer of the Year by the North Carolina trainers. Nationally, he's a member of the Student Trainer Committee.

A 1973 graduate of Northwest Cabarrus High, Patterson lives in Concord with his wife Susan and their sons, Marcus and Christopher. He is the son of Elwood and Roberta Patterson of Concord.

Peterson, Blount Lift Chargers

PIKEVILLE — Ronnell Peterson and Eric Blount scored 17 points apiece to lead Ayden-Grifton to a 64-54 Eastern Plains Conference win over C.B. Aycock Tuesday night in high school basketball action.

The Chargers led 31-24 at the half by scoring four points in the final minute of the first half then expanded their lead with an 11-2 run in the first four minutes of the third quarter that made it 42-28.

Aycock trimmed it to five twice in the final minute and had possession but both times missed 3-point shots.

37 seconds to go on a three-point play by Leon Dixon that made it 62-54. Blount added two more free throws in the final seconds to make it 64-54.

Aaron Harper added 14 points for the Chargers, who move to 10-5 overall and 5-1 in the EPC. Dixon added 11.

Aycock was led by Corey Ruffin's 16 points. Dion Battle chipped in 11 and Corey Dickerson added 10.

In the girls' game, C.B. Aycock began to break it open in the second quarter and never looked back as the Lady Falcons cruised to a 45-33 victory.

Aycock led 8-6 after the first quarter but built the lead to 19-13 by halftime. Ayden-Grifton rallied back to within 29-25 at the end of the third period before Aycock outscored the Lady Chargers 16-8 over the last quarter to provide the final score.

Iris Brown led Ayden-Grifton with nine points while Crystal Kennedy and Connie Lancaster each had 14 points to top C.B. Aycock.

Ayden-Grifton falls to 2-14 overall and 1-4 in the conference. The Chargers return to action tonight at West Carteret

SNOW HILL — Reggie Atkinson scored 16 points to lead four players in double figures as Greene Central took a 76-57 Eastern Plains Conference victory over Pamlico County Tuesday night.

Atkinson was supported by Tyrone Hardy with 13, Anthony Jones with 11 and Moses Streeter with 10. With the win, the Rams move to 6-9 overall and 3-3 in the EPC.

Greene Central took the lead early, going up 14-10 after the first quarter and expanding that to 34-27 by halftime.

The Rams then outscored Pamlico 23-11 in the third period to break the game open.

Pamlico while Chris Warren added 14.

In the girls' game, Carolyn Atkinson scored 15 points and Felicia Albritton added 11 as Greene Central rolled to a 69-33 win.

The Lady Rams move to 8-7 overall and 4-2 in the Eastern Plains Conference. Both teams return to action tonight at Clinton.

Crum Approaching His 400th Career Victory

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Two national championships, six trips to the NCAA Tournament Final Four, 16 consecutive winning seasons. And now comes another milestone for Louisville Coach Denny Crum — his 400th career victory.

Since his first team went to the NCAA Final Four in 1972, Crum's teams have won games with almost numbing regularity. The ledger shows 399 victories against 136 losses, a performance of quality and consistency that ranks Crum with the best coaches in basketball history.

Yet Crum's thoughts are not on No. 400 as he prepares his team for tonight's game against Metro Conference leader South Carolina. To Crum, 400 is just another number. More important to him is a victory over the Gamecocks, which would get Louisville back into the hunt in the conference race.

"South Carolina, obviously, is playing the best of any team in our league right now, so that puts more importance on it," Crum said Tuesday. "But as far as whether it's No. 300 or 800, that's not the important thing."

If Louisville beats South Carolina, it will have taken Crum only 536 games to achieve his 400th win. Only eight coaches have reached that milestone in fewer games. Kentucky's Adolph Rupp was the fastest, needing only 477.

Amazingly, Crum would be the fourth coach from the state of Kentucky to reach 400 with a winning percentage above 70 percent. Rupp was 400-77, 83.9; Western Kentucky's Ed Diddle was 400-134, 74.9, and Peck Hickman of Louisville was 400-162, 71.2.

Looking at it another way, Crum would join St. John's Lou Carnesecca and Nevada-Las Vegas' Jerry Tarkanian in reaching 400 in the fewest seasons. Carnesecca hit 400 in the 19th game of his 17th season, Tarkanian in the 20th game of his 17th campaign.

Carnesecca, Tarkanian and Crum coach in an era when 30-game seasons are commonplace. Rupp, who needed 19-plus seasons to reach 400, had several teams which played 20 or fewer games.

Tarkanian, incidentally, made it in 493 games, second only to Rupp, and Carnesecca in 535.

"I never set any goals as far as how many games I was going to win or how fast I was going to do it," Crum said. "You just try to do the best you can, and whatever happens happens."

Crum has a formula for success. He concentrates on fundamentals from the opening of preseason practice, throws his teams against some of the toughest competition in the country and by the end of the season has a toughened squad that is ready for the rigors of the NCAA Tournament. It is a formula that works.

Louisville is 27-12 in NCAA games under Crum. The only coaches to win more are John Wooden, for whom Crum played and later served as an assistant at UCLA, North Carolina's Dean Smith and Rupp.

Incredibly, all but one four-year player under Crum — forward Larry Williams, 1975-79 — have reached the Final Four during their careers under Crum.

Louisville's 107-99 victory over Virginia Tech on Monday came on the first day of February, a month in which Louisville traditionally begins the stretch run toward postseason play.

Crum's February record is 118-32, a 78.6 winning percentage. The Cardinals are a gaudy 70-4, 94.6, in the friendly confines of Freedom Hall, and that could be a real blessing for Louisville, which plays seven of its last 11 games at home.

But Crum said his team, 11-8 overall and 2-3 in the Metro, will have to be at its best to beat South Carolina.

Terps Surprise Irish By 78-75

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Freshman Brian Williams scored 18 points to help Maryland overcome David Rivers' 27 points Tuesday and hold off a Notre Dame rally with a 78-75 win.

Tony Massenbun scored 16 points off the bench, including a quick four baskets in a first-half run and back-to-back goals that gave Maryland a 15-point lead, their largest, over the Irish, 12-6.

With nine seconds left and the Terrapins leading by four after Rivers' three-point field goal, Maryland's Rudy Archer hit both ends of a one-and-one to stretch the 11-6 Terrapins' lead to 78-72.

Sean Connor hit a 3-pointer with four seconds left for Notre Dame's final points.

The Irish had trailed 36-21 in the first half before pulling within three points, 61-58, with 7:09 remaining.

Maryland led the entire game, jumping off to an early four-point lead, then holding that margin through the first eight minutes, when Massenbun came off the bench.

Massenbun ignited a 10-1 scoring streak, contributing four field goals and giving Maryland a 25-13 lead.

The Irish returned with five unanswered points to pull within seven, but Archer hit five for Maryland, one a free throw on a technical foul against the Notre Dame bench, to erase the Notre Dame comeback.

Maryland led 39-29 at the half.

Cox Captures Wrestling Win

NEW BERN — A.G. Cox Middle School rolled up a 65-18 wrestling victory over West Craven Tuesday.

Cox won 11 weight classes, taking seven of them by pins. They added three forfeits and one decision.

Winning pins were John Smith, K.D. Anderson, Ronnie Barnhill, Emmitt Lang, Terry Turnage, Jamie Mitchell and Steven Daugherty. Daugherty, Lang and Turnage are undefeated on the season.

Cox is now 10-1 and entertains P.S. Jones on Thursday.

Williamston Tops Roanoke

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston took an early lead and gained a 63-47 Northeastern Conference basketball victory over Roanoke Tuesday night.

Roanoke's girls remained unbeaten in league play with a 57-48 win over the Lady Tigers.

Williamston's boys built up an 18-6 lead in the opening eight minutes of their game. They came back with a 14-10 margin in the second quarter. That gave the Tigers a comfortable 32-16 halftime lead.

Roanoke rallied in the third period, 16-10, cutting the lead down to 42-32. But in the final frame, Williamston held them off, 21-15, to take the win.

Guy Spruill led Williamston with 24 points while Sean Reid and Fred Huff both had 11. Richard Moore led Roanoke with 21.

Williamston inched out into a 7-6 lead in the first period of the girls' game. But Roanoke came back, 17-11, in the second quarter to push out to a 23-18 halftime lead.

Roanoke boosted that to 37-30 lead in the third period, then outscored Williamston, 20-18, in the last quarter.

Joyce Outlaw led Roanoke with 24 points while Kim Hawkins had 19, Tepeka Manning had 15 and Dana Hardison had 12 for Williamston.

Roanoke's boys are now 5-9 overall, 1-5 in the NEAC, while Williamston advances to 6-10, 4-2. The Lady Redskins are 11-3 overall, 6-0 in the league, while Williamston is now 3-11, 2-4.

Roanoke plays at home against Roanoke Rapids while Williamston visits Ahsokie on Friday.

Conley Grapplers Rally For Win

MOREHEAD CITY — D.H. Conley's Vikings found themselves down, 23-12, Tuesday night in a Coastal Conference wrestling match at West Carteret, but rallied to take a 38-23 victory.

Conley, after losing six straight weights after winning the first two, rebounded to take the final five in a row to post the win.

Of Conley's seven victories, five came on pins and one on a forfeit. West Carteret won one match by pin and one by forfeit.

Conley is now 18-2, 6-1 in the conference with one match left. That comes Thursday when the Vikings host Washington. A victory would give the regular season title to Conley.

Fenner OK

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Former North Carolina running back Derrick Fenner apparently will not be subject to new mandatory suspension policies at the state's university system, officials said.

Richard Robinson, special assistant to the president of the university system, told the Charlotte Observer that the new guidelines, which would have called for automatic suspension of Fenner, are not yet operative.

The policies call for suspension of any student for at least one semester if he is caught possessing cocaine.

Mackovic To Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — As the new head football coach at the University of Illinois, John Mackovic's first order of business may be hiring two top defensive aides.

Illini defensive coordinator Howard Tippett, who had been a candidate for the head job vacated by Mike White, said Tuesday night that Athletic Director Neale Stoner notified him of the decision to hire Mackovic. The university planned to introduce Mackovic today.

"He said it was a close call, a tough call, but they had offered the job to Mackovic and he had accepted," said Tippett, who indicated he would leave the team.

In addition, a university source who asked not to be identified confirmed that Mackovic would be named to replace White.

Ohio State assistant coach Jim Colletto and former Northwestern Coach Dennis Green also interviewed for the job, the Champaign-Urbana News-Gazette reported.

Mackovic, out of coaching for a year, was fired by Kansas City after the 1986 season despite leading the Chiefs to their only NFL playoff berth in the last 15 years.

Illinois accepted the resignation of White, an eight-year veteran, on Jan. 18 after charges by the NCAA and the university of recruiting violations. The Illini had been placed on probation in 1984 for a long list of infractions.

Asked about the reports of Mackovic's selection, UI Chancellor Morton Weir said Tuesday night he was "making no comment about it whatsoever." Stoner also declined comment.

The Athletic Association board met for about three hours Tuesday night, and a university spokesman said the members had reached a decision but would not announce it until today.

"They have decided who they would like," said Terry Shepard, director of the UI News Bureau.

Harvey Is Canada's Hope For Some Olympic Gold

CALGARY, Alberta (AP) — Pierre Harvey has his eye on Olympic gold and the common cold.

Harvey, Canada's best hope for a gold medal in the Nordic events of the Calgary Winter Olympics, is hoping to avoid illness in his buildup to the Games, which open Feb. 13.

That's one reason Harvey has cut back on his training as the buildup for the Winter Olympics enters its final 10 days. He will compete this weekend, however, in the Western Canadian Cross-Country Championships at Invermere, British Columbia.

"We have two races this weekend. We don't want to get crazy and push too hard," Harvey said Tuesday while working out at the Canmore Nordic Center. "You can catch a cold really easily."

Canmore, to the west of Calgary, will host the Olympic cross-country and biathlon events as well as the skiing portion of the Nordic combined.

Final preparations are well under way, with work crews all over the city hanging banners and flags, putting up billboards and making sure Calgary is ready for the 1.9 million spectators expected to attend the events.

Some of those fans will use tickets they purchased after spending a night in bitter cold weather.

Some 4,000 Calgaryans waited up to 14 hours earlier this week to scoop up leftover tickets for prime events, such as the opening and closing ceremonies, figure skating and medal-round ice hockey matches.

"It was well worth it," said Warren Lavender, who was first in line and bought two tickets to the gold-medal hockey game.

Lavender said he bought the tickets to resell them, "but of course I would never consider selling them for more than the $35 I paid."

Scalping tickets is illegal in Calgary. The classified ad columns of both local newspapers are full of offers to sell tickets, but the papers require that the offer price be no more than the face value of the ticket.

The cold temperatures, which have stayed well below zero since late last week, have been accompanied by gusty winds and snow flurries.

Cougars Making Believers Out Of Most Of Doubters

By The Associated Press
Folks in the Great Plains now know what basketball fans in the Rocky Mountains have known for quite a while — Brigham Young is for real.

"They took a scalpel and cut us to pieces," Tulsa Coach J.D. Barnett said after the unbeaten and third-ranked Cougars beat the Hurricane 72-57 Tuesday night. Center Jim Usevitch scored 21 points and forward Jeff Chatman added 19 as BYU ran its record to 16-0.

Tulsa, 5-13, made a brief second-half run, trimming a 58-39 deficit to 10 points before the Cougars ran off to a safe 65-48 lead.

"That's why they're undefeated," Barnett said. "I hope they stay undefeated. They deserve it."

In the only other game involving a ranked team, No. 12 Syracuse improved to 16-5 by throttling Providence 92-71 in the Big East Conference.

At the other end of the Big East standings, Seton Hall escaped from last place with a 61-59 victory over Connecticut, which dropped into the cellar. Seton Hall, 14-9 overall, is 3-6 in the league, while Connecticut dropped to 2-7 and 9-8.

Maryland, the once-proud program that was shattered by the drug-related death of Len Bias, continues a remarkable resurgence under second-year coach Bob Wade. The Terrapins, 9-17 a year ago, improved to 11-6 this season by winning in one of college basketball's most renowned snafupets, the Joyce Athletic and Convocation Center on the campus of Notre Dame. Freshman Brian Williams scored 18 points as the Terps beat the Irish 78-75.

No. 3 BYU 72, Tulsa 57

At Provo, Utah, BYU grabbed Tulsa by the throat with an 8-0 first-half run sparked by Usevitch's six points. The Cougars led 34-20 at the half.

"I was particularly pleased with the play of Usevitch," BYU Coach Ladell Andersen said. "He played a powerful game."

"It's going to take a powerful inside team to beat them," Barnett said.

Tulsa exhibited patience early, taking leads of 2-0 and 4-2 before

BYU took control. The closest Tulsa got thereafter was a 6-6 tie.

Tracy Moore scored 19 points to lead the Hurricane.

No. 12 Syracuse 92, Providence 71
At Syracuse, Derrick Coleman scored 20 points as the Orangemen, losers of three of their last four games, took out their collective frustrations on Providence. Syracuse, 16-5, used a 15-2 burst to build a 25-13 lead and a 15-4 run to shut off a mild Providence rally and take a 57-40 advantage with 13 minutes left.

The Orangemen are 5-3 in league play, two games behind Pittsburgh.

Pam Pack's 1st Half Keys Win Over EC

WASHINGTON — Washington High School used a strong first half to build a lead, then coasted past East Carteret, 78-65, Tuesday night in Coastal Conference basketball action.

Washington's girls also came away with a victory, downing East Carteret, 30-19.

Washington's boys took an 18-12 lead after eight minutes of play. They extended that with a 27-12 margin in the second quarter. That gave the Pam Pack a comfortable 45-24 lead to take into the dressing room.

The Pam Pack tacked another point to the lead in the third period and moved out to a 57-35 margin. They allowed the Mariners a 30-21 rally in the final period, to no avail.

Washington's balanced scoring attack saw six players in double figures led by Gary Hodges' 13. Ryan Dixon and Nico Hines each had 12, Tyrone Lodge had 11 and Bob Rhodes and Donnell Albritton each had 10. Billy Ellison led East Carteret with 19 while Kevin Jones had 15 and Joe Montford had 11.

Washington's girls scored but two points in the first quarter and trailed, 5-2. But they held East Carteret scoreless in the second frame and scored 10 of their own for a 12-5 halftime lead.

Washington continued to pull away in the third period, 10-4, and held a 22-9 lead going into the final quarter.

No one scored in double figures for either team.

Washington's boys are now 13-3 overall, 4-1 in the league, while the girls are 13-1, 6-0. Washington travels to Conley on Friday.

Belhaven Downs Bullets, 71-60

BELHAVEN — Belhaven High School jumped out to an early lead and went on to down Jamesville, 71-60, in a Tobacco Belt Conference basketball game Tuesday night.

Belhaven also took the girls' game, 60-43.

The Bulldogs pushed out into a 25-8 lead during the first quarter of the boys' game and were never headed. Jamesville did rally, 23-11, in the second period, but still trailed, 36-31, at intermission.

In the third period, Jamesville cut the margin back to 50-46. But Belhaven outthit the Bullets, 21-14, in the race to the wire to pull out the win.

Dwayne Reddick led Belhaven with 18 points while Kelvin O'Neal had 16 and Martin Simmons had 10.

Eric Spruill led Jamesville with 17 while Craig Hagan had 13.

Jamesville is now 6-12 overall, 5-10 against TBC competition.

In the girls' game, Belhaven rolled up a 17-6 lead in the first quarter and was never headed. The Lady Bulldogs ran their lead to 31-9 with a 14-5 margin in the second period.

Belhaven increased its lead to 45-24 in the third quarter and allowed a 19-15 rally by Jamesville in the final period.

Tera Brewington led Belhaven with 27 points. Karen Styons had 16 and Kim Goldberg, 13, to lead Jamesville.

Jamesville's girls are now 1-17 overall, 1-15 in TBC play. Jamesville returns to action on Friday at North Edgemonte.

Man, Machine Joining Forces On High Desert

By BOB SIPCHEN
L.A. Times-Washington Post
News Service

LANCASTER, Calif. — It looked like a sequel to "Revenge of the Nerds." "Faster! Pick it up!" the gawky MIT aeronautical engineering student barked at the panting athlete he had strapped into a computerized exercise contraption. While one grimaced, the other smiled slightly and punched buttons on a calculator.

What looked like like torture, though, was really teamwork. The nerds and the jocks have united in this high desert town, and if all goes well, they'll achieve something neither could do alone.

So far, their goal has only been accomplished in myth — by a Greek architect and sculptor named Daedalus who constructed wings of wax and feathers and escaped the wrath of King Minos by flying from the island of Crete to Sicily.

The modern team, which calls itself the Daedalus project, has constructed its wings — as well as its fuselage, tail section, and other plane parts — from more high tech materials.

With one obvious exception.

According to the rules the team set for itself, the engine must be of the same design that supposedly powered the original Daedalus to freedom: A heart, lungs, muscles and brain — i.e., a human.

The Daedalus project is largely the work of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, but Yale University, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Smithsonian Institution and the National Geographic Society are also participating in the research, and United Technologies and the Shaklee health food corporations are lending financial and technical support.

"Our basic purpose is two-fold, education and research," said project manager John Langford. As a small-scale, hands-on engineering project, Daedalus will provide the same sort of research and development that goes into a major aeronautic project, "but the scale is much more workable. ... It's a lot easier to understand," Langford said.

Part of the educational goal in choosing such a romantic project is to close the perceived gap between the "two cultures" of technology and the rest of society, Langford said. The original Daedalus was a Renaissance man before his time, the da Vinci of his era, Langford said. And the modern Daedalus crew hopes to demonstrate that "art and engineering all stem from the basic human drive to create something."

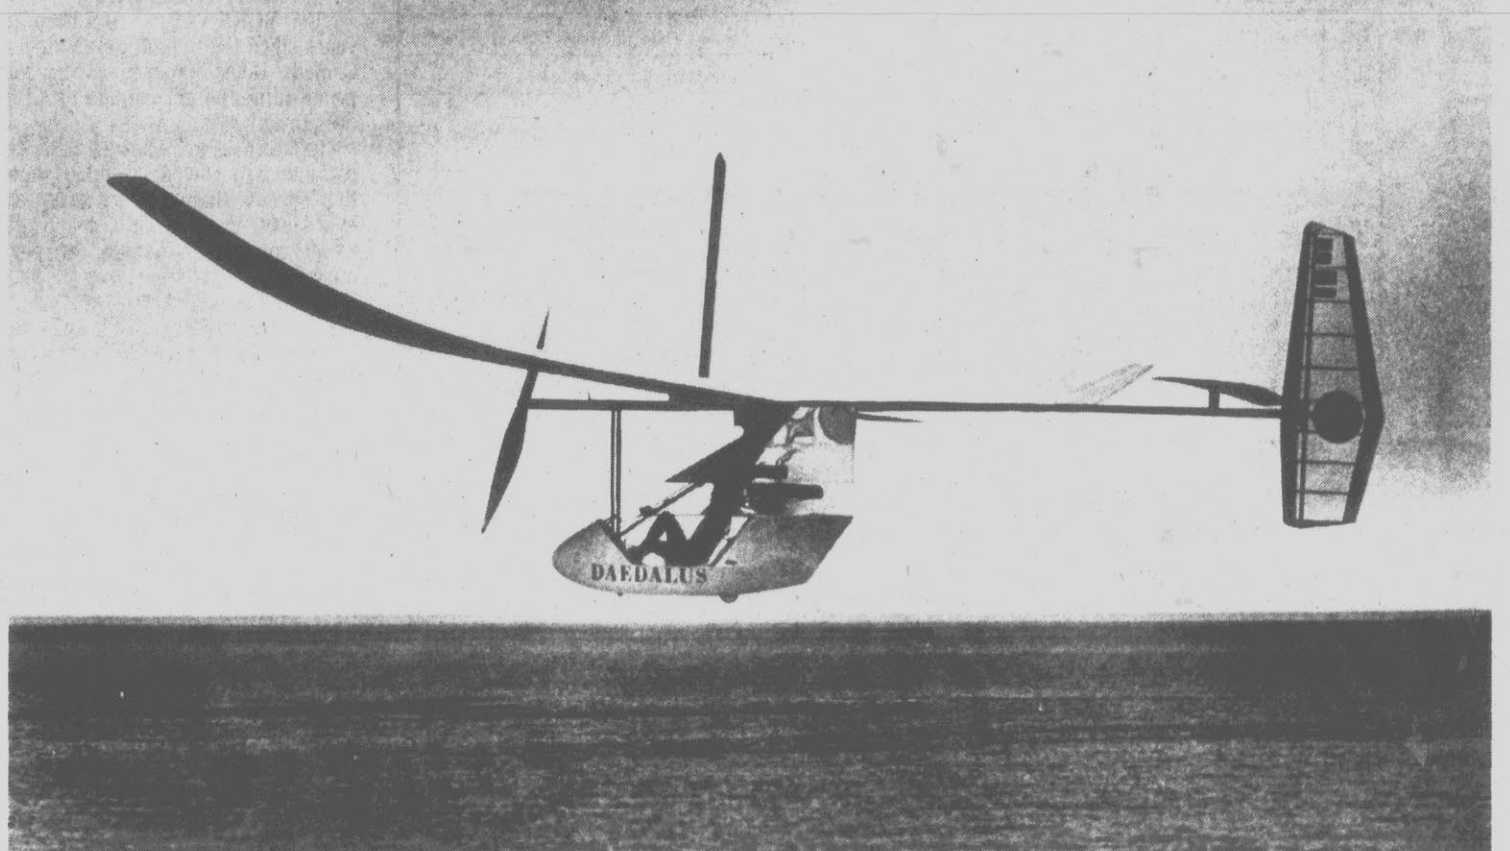

The plan in coming to Lancaster was to provide the project's five-member team of athletes with lots of flight time, first on the Eagle, and then on the lighter, more fragile Daedalus. If all goes well in Lancaster, one of three pilots culled from the five will attempt to pedal 74 miles from Crete to the Greek island of San Torini this spring, more than doubling the existing record for human-powered flight.

Unfortunately, the desert was hardly dry. Storms soaked the lake bed at Edwards Air Force Base on which test flights occur, putting the team behind schedule.

But the athletes, most of whom are top competitive cyclists, kept training, pushing their bicycling regimen up to 400 miles a week in the nearby mountains. The engineers and students, most of whom are from MIT, kept mulling and calculating, modifying the plane and their plans. And they continued tuning up the plane's five human engines.

From the beginning, the team has been running batteries of tests on the athletes, checking such factors as "fuel delivery, heat removal, oxygen consumption," said Steven Bussolari, the MIT professor in charge of turning the athletes into pilots and coordinating the human factors aspects of the program.

"From a physiological standpoint, there's little understanding of ... what happens to human physiology in long endurance events," Bussolari said. The Daedalus research will lend understanding to the problems faced by other types of pilots, by athletes and it will be interesting as basic science.

MODERN DAEDALUS — The ultra-light, human-powered Daedalus craft hovers just a few feet off the ground of a dry lake bed at Edwards Air Force Base in California. The craft is being tested for a 74-mile flight from the island of

Casualties Of North Sea Oil Slicks

Dutch Hospital Carries On Tradition By Treating Migrating Waterfowl

By PAUL VERSCHUUR
Associated Press Writer

HAARLEM, Netherlands (AP) — "Quiet-Hospital," says the sign on the door of a refurbished greenhouse where Thera te Boekhorst and her staff of 35 volunteers are at work saving the lives of hundreds of birds.

The large majority of the patients are migrating waterfowl that have become casualties of oil slicks in the heavily polluted North Sea.

The busy season for the Bird Hospital in Haarlem begins in November when migrating birds like the guillemot leave their breeding grounds on the rocky shores of Scotland, Scandinavia and the northern Soviet Union to seek warmer climates in to the south.

Hundreds of them never make it, ending up so mired in oil slicks that they die. But the 15-year-old Bird Hospital treats as many as 700 bird casualties at a time.

The hospital here is one of a dozen wild waterfowl treatment facilities that have proliferated in the Netherlands as part of Northern Europe's growing environmental movement.

Preserving wildlife is a much older tradition in this densely populated nation whose Calvinist tradition mandates humane treatment for man and beast.

In fact, pets outnumber the Netherlands' 14.6 million people: 7.7 million pet birds, 3.6 million cats and dogs, 9.7 million aquarium fish, 1 million pet rodents and 300,000 horses and ponies, according to the pet food industry.

Although the Bird Hospital has a veterinarian on call to treat other wildlife casualties, such as traffic victims and survivors of cat attacks, oil slick victims are the specialty.

"Not a day passes without some new victims being brought in," Mrs. te Boekhorst told The Associated Press during her most recent emergency, an oil spill that hit the Dutch coast in mid-January.

More than 6,000 dead or dying birds washed up on Dutch beaches as a result of the spill which the Dutch Traffic and Waterways Ministry said came from a Romanian tanker, the Borcea, whose fuel tank had apparently been damaged in an accident.

The oil damages a sea bird's natural protection from the elements by sticking its feathers together in bunches and leaving skin areas unprotected.

During the January emergency, the hospital, which is supported by donations, admitted at least 210 of oil-coated birds, mostly guillemots, a gull-like seabird with a black back and white breast. It weighs about two pounds.

Other oil slick victims recently at the hospital included gulls, scoters and grebes.

Last year, about 75 percent of the oil slick patients admitted to the hospital died within weeks, mostly of pneumonia, Mrs. te Boekhorst said, noting that many birds also poison themselves by trying to peck the oil off their feathers.

After being admitted, the oil slick victims get a week-long regimen of vitamins, antibiotics and sunflower oil, which acts as a laxative.

"Only when they've pulled through all that do we start washing them," Mrs. te Boekhorst said.

After washing with a special detergent, the birds are placed in an electrically heated cage designed by Mrs. te Boekhorst's husband, Frank. When dry, they are set swimming on an indoor pond until their feathers fall naturally back into place.

The winter oil slick victims are kept until the weather warms up in mid-February. Then they are driven to the nearby coastal town of Ijmuiden and released.

Last year, government inspectors registered 539 oil spills on the North Sea, according to the Traffic and Waterways Ministry. Mrs. te Boekhorst contends, however, there are at least 15,000 incidents a year of small or large amounts of oil spilling into the ocean.

Smothers Brothers Come Back Still Sassy As Ever

By KATHRYN BAKER
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It's been 20 years since the "Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour" proved too hip for prime time and got canned by CBS despite high ratings.

The brothers are back on CBS tonight with a 20-year reunion show that reveals them just as sassy as ever, even if there isn't nearly as much novelty in razzing the permissive '80s as there was in protesting the explosive '60s.

Back in 1967-69, CBS was not amused when the Smotherses put on anti-war activist folk singer Pete Seeger and did a sketch that ridiculed the clergy. In 1988, though, Tom and Dick are hard-pressed to come up with anything naughty.

"You have not done one thing since we started the show that's responsible," Dick scolds.

"I'm wearing a condom right now," Tom says defensively.

"It's comments like that that got us kicked off the air in the first place," notes Dick. That was 20 years ago.

But thanks to durable comedic chemistry between the brothers and a healthy dose of nostalgia, the reunion works pretty well. It relies largely on new material, not clips, probably because the brothers are hoping for big ratings that might lead to a new series.

They haven't had much luck in that department. ABC picked up "Comedy Hour" briefly a year after CBS dropped it, and NBC later tried a revival in the mid-1970s, but neither outing attracted the audience the controversial original had.

"Comedy Hour" launched the careers of such big names as comic Steve Martin and director Rob Reiner. Both are billed as guest stars in the special, though Martin makes a disappointingly brief, one-joke appearance, and Reiner is only seen in a group shot along with the rest of the former writers at the conclusion of the show.

Pat Paulsen is still running for president, but he's changed his pitch from dour, low-keyed pleading to hard-driving fist pounding, chiding America for "bitching and moaning" and offering a delightful rage about the current crop of presidential candidates. Samples:

— Dole: "You want a pineapple for president?"

— Dukakis: "Where'd he get that name, off the bottom of an eye chart?"

Elsewhere in the nostalgia department, Glen Campbell sings a medley of his hits, "Wichita Line-man" and "By the Time I Get to Phoenix," and is joined by gray-haired John Hartford for very nice, upbeat rendition of "Gentle on My Mind." Mason Williams plays "Classical Gas." Officer Judy (Bob Einstein) is seen in a clip busting Liberace for playing the Minute Waltz — "Do you know how fast you were playing?"

Still-perky Leigh French, the hippie home helper from the '60s, offers tips on '80s concerns like channeling and "what to do when you're hipper than your kids."

Dyan Cannon Has Chance To Sing In Movie On ABC

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dyan Cannon isn't widely known as a singer, but she gets a chance to show off her talent in a new movie for ABC, "Rock 'n' Roll Mom."

She stars as a supermarket checkout clerk, the mother of two teen-agers, who suddenly emerges as a 27-year-old blonde bombshell and singing sensation named Mystere.

"I've always been a singer," she said. "I sang in 'Honeysuckle Rose' with Willie Nelson and I opened for Sammy Davis Jr. at Caesar's Palace eight or nine years ago. I'm sure one of the reasons people over 30 don't do rock 'n' roll is because it takes so much energy. I've got plenty of that."

"I haven't been known as a singer, but now all my talents are waiting to be revealed. Hopefully, other people will also regard it as talent."

She is also writing a movie for herself and directed a short film at the American Film Institute that was nominated for an Academy Award.

"Rock 'n' Roll Mom" will air on ABC as the Disney Sunday Movie on Sunday, Feb. 7.

"It's a back-door pilot," said Cannon. "I had a series deal that I walked away from because I couldn't find the right writing talent. Then I met a producer, and we were going to do a show about a woman who aspires to be a rock 'n' roll star and has a couple of kids."

"This came along and it's a remarkable coincidence. I sing in the movie and I get to use one of the songs I've written. I've been writing a lot of songs, the lyrics and the music. I hum the tune into a tape recorder and beat out the rhythm on a bongo drum. I know some music because I studied to be a concert pianist."

This is the first film project for Cannon in about 2½ years, and if it becomes a TV series, it would be her first. She was due to leave a few days after the interview for Florida to co-star with Jackie Mason in "Caddysback II." She took golf lessons for the movie.

"I started as an actress doing 'Playhouse 90' and episodic television," she said. "I never really thought about a series until four or five years ago. I've been asked to do them many times, but I'd never considered it until recently."

In the Disney movie, she plays Annie Hackett, a suburban mother who just doesn't have the look of a rock 'n' roll star. But through the magic of makeup, wigs and special costumes, she becomes Mystere. "She's like Tina Turner, with big hair and slim hips," she said.

In the miniseries "Master of the Game," Cannon aged from about 18 to 90.

"It's much harder to get people to look younger," she said. "But in acting it's harder to play older. I've never been 90. But I can play younger because I know what it's like."

Her last TV project was "Jenny's War," a syndicated miniseries. "I got married five months after that and asked myself what I wanted to do," she said. "I wanted to commit myself to my music. I began writing, first lyrics, then lyrics and music. I was looking for songs to sing, but trying to find good songs was as hard as trying to find good scripts."

Cannon said after such "heavy pieces" as "Deathtrap," "Master of the Game" and "Jenny's War," she was looking for something lighter.

She turned down several comedies before accepting the TV movie. She also turned down several opportunities to direct motion pictures. She plans to produce, direct and star in the movie she's writing. She said she already has the financial backing.

"Acting isn't enough anymore," she said. "It's not enough. I've got too much energy, so I'm doing something about it. I'm at a time in my life now when I don't have to prove myself any more. I used to feel that way. It takes so much pressure off. You can just enjoy yourself."

Disney Change

LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC is dropping its "Disney Sunday Movie" because of low ratings, but NBC will pick up a new Disney show next season.

It will include a new version of "Davy Crockett," one of the most popular features on the original Disney show that made its debut on ABC in 1954. It set off a nationwide craze among youngsters for coonskin caps. In 1960, the show switched to NBC and remained there until 1981, when it went to CBS. It left the air in 1983.

Small Trains Play Big Part In Hobbyist's Life

By JOHN PLATERO
Associated Press Writer
KENDALL, Fla. (AP) — For Bob Cherrnay, it began with a four-piece electric train set his parents gave him for Christmas when he was 4 years old.

Fifty years later, Cherrnay still has that $12.95 gift put away in its original box, and he continues to play with trains.

Only now, his train layout is so large it fills a room bigger than many homes, requires six cameras and television monitors to keep track of them and is operated from banks of switches, control panels and gadgetry similar to those used in lifelike rail terminals.

"Model trains are therapy," said Cherrnay, who sheds the pressures of the business world whenever he enters the 55-by-33-foot train room he included when he built his home here in 1970.

Cherrnay's Rolling Hills Railroad is more than O-gauge model trains, however. It's 1,815 square feet of Americana complete with cities, country towns, industrial complexes, farms and ranches, and vehicles — all in quarter-inch scale.

Miniature people are everywhere in his fantasy land — working, playing and doing what real people do.

On the edge of a lake, close to a railroad trestle, an emergency crew works on a half-submerged car that plunged into the water. An ambulance and rescue workers stand by for casualties.

Between two dilapidated, hand-made buildings, a mugging can be seen in a litter-strewn alley. Across town, an elevated train station is filled with waiting passengers, while in the street below police are involved in a shootout with some felons.

Skies and horizons of Cherrnay's miniature world are painted on the walls.

Inside his train room, Cherrnay is no longer the company executive — he heads a multifaceted automatic transmission consulting firm. Shut off from the business world, Cherrnay is an overgrown boy who is proud of his toys.

"Look at that New York Central train. That's what I remember when I was a kid in the Bronx, New York. Did you see that White Castle hamburger place over there?" he asked enthusiastically pointing over a mountain.

"Let me show you an old Amtrak. Now, where is it?" as he scanned the monitors and worked a couple of switches to make the replica come choo-chooing through a tunnel at Kruse Junction and head for Walkers Corner and eventually the South Hills roundhouse.

It took Cherrnay a year just to lay the 5,000 feet of nickel-silver rail which rests on 65,000 wood ties cut to scale. The landscaping consists of 2,000 pounds of plaster, molded and painted on top of 60 sheets of plywood at tabletop level.

"There's probably over 100 locomotives here and several hundred railroad cars," he estimated.

He won't talk about the dollar investment in his hobby. "That's a nuisance detail," he said.

Every train on the Rolling Hills RR is an exact reproduction of an original — down to its number and paint scheme. Diesel, electric and steam, they are the trains that operated the nation's railroads between the 1920s and 1970s.

A library of railroading books on one wall is where Cherrnay does his research.

While it's taken 17 years to develop this train layout, Cherrnay admits he didn't do it alone.

At least once a week, model train enthusiasts and friends who have helped build and maintain this massive display spend an evening here.

"Some like to paint the trains, some like to run them, others like the electrical part, making repairs or working on the switches or landscape," he explained. "Some just like to watch."

Neither Cherrnay's wife nor three grown children share his love for trains.

"My children prefer horses," he said. "They like the flesh horse; I prefer the iron horse."

Florida Key Appealed To Presidents

ADAMS KEY, Fla. (AP) — For those who have little chance of being invited to Camp David, the presidential retreat in Maryland, a possible substitute is a visit to this small island off the South Florida coast, where former presidents relaxed and did some fishing.

Now part of Biscayne National Park and accessible only by small boat, this was where the Cocolobo Club was located — a famed private hideaway built in the World War I era and frequented by the rich and famous.

"Four presidents have been here," said Park Superintendent James Sanders. "Warren Harding, Herbert Hoover, Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon, as well as a lot of department heads."

Edged by thick mangroves and shallow water, the 28-acre island currently serves as home to two park rangers and their wives, an environmental study area for grade school students and a day park for the public.

Like hundreds of visitors who come here each year, Sanders enjoys visiting Adams Key, eight miles south-southeast of the park headquarters nine miles from Homestead.

"I love these waters — blue, turquoise and green," said Sanders as he and Ranger Chris Johnson scooted across pristine waters toward the island on the horizon.

"There's no pollution here because we're blessed with currents flowing north toward the Miami area," he explained. "Our mission is to keep it that way."

There's little left of the Cocolobo Club. Built by Carl Fisher after he purchased the land from Jeremiah Saunders in 1917, the main building was destroyed by fire Dec. 21, 1974.

Built with Dade County pine, the two-story clubhouse contained only 10 small bedrooms, kitchen and dining room, Sanders said.

"It wasn't really a casino," explained Sanders. "It was where they played chess, bridge, checkers and cards."

The "casino" has been repaired and equipped as a laboratory and classrooms for fifth- and sixth-grade students who come here for three-day environmental excursions supervised by park rangers.

The original 70,000-gallon concrete cistern still functions and the caretaker's home is where Johnson and his wife, Barbara, live. A diesel generator provides power and a sewage treatment plant has been built on the island.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY Feb. 4

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Seek out the advice of experts with both old and new points of view. Combine these two opinions and get the best of both worlds.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): You may encounter an opportunity to engage in an old-favorite recreation today. This would brighten your mood considerably.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Work on modernizing and improving the condition of your house, then invite some friends in for an evening of entertainment.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Get your transportation situation better organized now, while you have the time. Try to cut down on your expenses.
LEO (July 22 to August 21): Make some rearrangements at home which will add some cheer and comfort to the place, but make sure you don't spend too much money.
VIRGO (August 22 to September 22): You may feel a bit run down this morning, but spend the day with some good friends. By evening, you should feel quite content.
LIBRA (September 23 to October 22): Make some time to sit down and discuss with your mate how you can get along better in the future. Teamwork can work wonders.
SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21): If you're having some trouble getting your affairs organized, seek out the advice of an expert. Be sure to get plenty of rest tonight.
SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21): Show that you value the opinions of a superior, and you'll get much more support from this person now and in the future.
CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20): A new enterprise could bring you greater success, but be sure you understand all of the liabilities before becoming involved.
AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19): Forget all that socializing today, and concern yourself with more practical matters. Your mate can give you some good advice.
PISCES (February 20 to March 20): Be alert to what is happening around you so that you can take advantage of any opportunities. Make revisions to a recent agreement.

contract, imagine a lie of the cards that will enable you to get home. Then play as if that distribution exists.
 Possession of the master suit confers a tremendous advantage. To outbid you, your opponents must go one level higher. West exploited that advantage, as well as the vulnerability, on this deal. His four-spade preempt caused South no end of distress. The wise course would have been to double, which would have been penalty-oriented. However, partner is allowed to pull with a hand unsuitable for defense. (Four no trump on this auction is unconditionally for takeout.) However, South elected to gamble on five hearts, which looked pretty hopeless even though dummy produced useful values.
 Declarer saw he had no chance losers would be ruffed on the table. And a lead away from the king of clubs also would concede the contract, for declarer would have no option but to run it to his queen. Thus, declarer fulfilled his contract, losing only two spade tricks!

Once there was a dragon named Warlock. He was mean and liked to eat people for fun. He ate so many people, especially boys, that there was only one boy, Lancelot, left in the whole country of England. Lancelot had to get rid of Warlock before he was eaten, too. So he hid and watched the dragon. He discovered that Warlock loved chocolate bars. He put a chocolate bar on a cliff near a deep, deep pit. The dragon jumped after the candy, missed and fell into the pit with a splutt. That was the end of the dragon.

If Friends Were Threads

By Rhonda Mills

Henry Adams once said, "One friend is many, two is much, and three is next to impossible." Friends are those people that know all about you and still like you. My friends are very special to me and we share a very rare friendship. I have several friends, mostly those that I grew up with at church and at Chicod, friends with whom I share a unique relationship. That is why if we were threads we would make a tightly woven, colorful piece of cloth.

I feel "tightly woven" with all of them because we are so close. Even though I do not spend a lot of time with some of them, I have a special bond with each one of them. I feel that I could talk to all of them about anything and they would all listen and help me with my problems. Just as when a piece of cloth is pulled on and it returns to its original shape, when we have problems we all pull together to help each other. Also a piece of cloth has many threads but appears to be one solid mass that is very hard to tear apart. Similarly, my friends and I come together to form one family. We share a love between us that bonds us.

Also in a cloth if one thread is removed the whole cloth would slowly fall apart. If one of my friends would, for some reason, not be friends with us and go astray the whole "cloth" would not be the same. However, my friends and I have a very mature relationship where we do not fight or do things to hurt the others. And even though we are all different in certain ways and make the different colored threads, we fit together perfectly.

I definitely agree that true friends are rare but that I have been truly blessed with several friends who mean the world to me. We make a beautiful cloth! How many other wonderful patterns there must exist throughout the world.

Rhonda Mills, 17, a student at D.H. Conley High School wins this week's writing contest.

Winter

By Keisha Clemmons

Winter is the time of year when most things die, No more pretty flowers and no more birds will fly. The happiness of the children has slowly faded away. As they look to the future for brighter, sunnier days.

Winter is also full of fun and games, Each winter's fun is never the same. The snow brings lots of fun, you know, But fun would disappear without any snow.

The snow is gone and the children, too,

They're in the house with nothing to do. They pray that spring is on its way, So they can go outside to laugh and play.

Now that spring is almost here, I hear the children's silent cheers.

Keisha Clemmons, 14, a student at Bethel Elementary School receives special mention.

Losing Friends

By Shonda Edwards

Losing friends is like losing a life. Then comes the pain that is as sharp as a knife.

thoughts you had And they turn their backs, then you feel bad.

And depending on someone can bring you down. You're like a high bird who's come to ground.

So you hold up your head and walk away And then your conscience begins to say:

Then you turn back to the

"Is it worth it or must I grieve.

Shonda Edwards, 15, a student at D.H. Conley High School receives special mention.

Tar Heel Trivia

N.C. Research Triangle Park

The N.C. Research Triangle Park has grown from an idea of one person to become the largest center for research of its type in the entire world.

Former N.C. Governor Luther H. Hodges dreamed of a complex where research and technology could join together and add to the state and the world.

Three towns and three universities make this triangle. The cities are Raleigh, Durham and Chapel Hill while the three universities are N.C. State University, Duke University and UNC at Chapel Hill. It is from this imaginary triangle formed by the towns and universities that the name Research Triangle Park was conceived. The park is also located in three counties—Wake, Durham and Orange.

Such companies as Burroughs Wellcome, DuPont and IBM are a part of the research park which was founded in 1959.

IN A TWINKLE — Fried chicken, corn, carrot salad and potatoes are among the quick, easy and nutritious recipes found in the cookbook, "In A Twinkle," its creators said. The cookbook was established to help local Suzuki

Recipe Project Helping Fund Violinists' Tour

By CHERIE EVANS
Reflector Staff Writer

Mothers of local Suzuki violinists are providing quick and easy recipes, "In A Twinkle," as a means of earning money for a Suzuki tour through England this summer.

"In A Twinkle" is a cookbook of about 100 quick recipes for busy families. It includes appetizers, main meals, one dish meals, foreign dishes, vegetables, salads, desserts and snacks.

"We were trying to find out ways to earn money for the England trip," Joanne Bath, director of Suzuki Violinists of Eastern North Carolina, said. This will be the third trip to England Ms. Bath has led for local Suzuki violinists, she said.

The cookbook derived from an idea of one of the mothers of the violinists as Betsy Markowski, identifying with the need for nutritious and quick meals, suggested creating a cookbook, she said. "It was her brainstorm ... (and) everyone has very good recipes."

The name of the cookbook has significance because Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star is the first song all the children learn, said Donna Whitley, mother of one of the Suzuki students. The recipes "all prove effective, because they are ones Suzuki mothers contributed" from their cooking experiences.

"A lot of children feel like its their cookbook," Ms. Whitley said. "The kids like these recipes, (and) it's nice

Canned Food Month

To commemorate the importance of the canning industry in North Carolina, Gov. Jim Martin has proclaimed February as Canned Food Month.

In his proclamation, Martin said that canning represents one of the most important forms of food preservation in the United States.

He said there are more than 700 canning plants across the country, including 10 in North Carolina. The canning industry provides more than 1,500 varieties of foods, packs more than 37 billion containers per year and employs over 100,000 workers, including 800 in North Carolina.

Canned foods also account for 12 percent of grocery sales nationwide, according to the proclamation. The 10 top selling canned foods for 1987 were soup, tuna, pasta, corn, pork and beans, green beans, tomatoes, peaches, pineapple, and ham and bulk meats.

The governor said that studies indicate that seafoods and canned vegetables provide nutritional value essentially equal to and in some cases higher than their fresh and frozen counterparts.

Quick And Easy Skillet Meals Boast Lively Far East Flavors

For meals with fabulous Far Eastern Flavors, those with time to spare look to ancient Chinese cooking methods and ingredients. With the proper tools and foods at hand, they create dishes that rival restaurant fare.

Among time-pressed cooks, however, authentic Oriental recipes often take a back burner to streamlined adaptations. These easy innovations team favorite fresh foods with quality convenience products to shortcut preparation, and use readily available ingredients to replace the exotic.

Four convenient starting points for sensational single-skillet meals are new dinner recipes. Each of the restaurant-favorite flavors — Sweet 'n Sour Chicken, Teriyaki Beef, Oriental Chicken Imperial and Pepper Beef Oriental — are ready to serve in just 10 minutes. Combined with the cook's choice of beef, chicken or shrimp and "customized" with a favorite fresh vegetable or two, they streamline the way to single-skillet suppers with authentic Oriental flavors.

Next time you have a yen for Far Eastern flavors, try Garlic-Cashew Chicken Imperial. Boasting the bright color, crunch and full flavors that have made Oriental foods so popular, it is easily prepared with the

GARLIC-CASHEW CHICKEN IMPERIAL

- 3/4 pound boneless, skinless chicken breast
- 1 cup water
- 1 package (9.7 ounces) Dinner Recipes Oriental Chicken Imperial
- 1 clove garlic

- 1/2 cup short, thin red bell pepper strips
- 1/3 cup thinly sliced celery
- 1/3 cup cashew halves

Cut chicken into thin strips. Combine chicken, water, contents of rice and seasoning packets and garlic in 10-inch skillet. Bring to a boil. Cover tightly and simmer 6 minutes. Stir in red pepper and celery. Cover tightly and simmer until all liquid is absorbed, about 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in contents of sauce packet before serving. Sprinkle with cashews. Makes 4 servings.

- TERIYAKI GARDEN BEEF
- 3/4 pound boneless beef sirloin or top round steak

Fondue Is Back

By Nina Killham

L.A. Times-Washington Post News Service

Before you smirk at the flame-powered copper pot and pile of day-old bread, you should be informed: Fondue is back.

Fondue restaurants are opening, and newlyweds are again receiving pots specifically designed to melt cheese. For those who have forgotten how or who never had it right in the first place, here are a few fondue facts.

Rule No. 1, which may save many a relationship, is that lumpy fondue is rarely the fault of the cook; it's the cheese.

According to "The New Doubleday Cookbook" (Doubleday, 1985), if the cheese is poorly aged or not Swiss gruyere or emmentaler, it may never melt smoothly. Gruyere, incidentally, is the one with the small holes and nutty flavor, while emmentaler sports larger holes and a milder bite.

But from Martha Stewart in "Entertaining" (Clarkson N. Potter, 1982) comes this variation: Mix 1 pound grated sharp cheddar with 1 cup beer in a fondue pot or crock pot and heat slowly, stirring frequently, until melted. Add 1 teaspoon paprika, a pinch cayenne, 1 tablespoon mustard, salt and pepper to taste and serve.

Whatever cheese you choose, however, watch the burner. Too intense heat might cause the cheese to string. And use acidic wine if possible, like a Soave, Sauvignon blanc or inexpensive Chardonnay.

Kathy Kolasa

Ph.D., ECU Dept. Family Medicine

Q. I am interested in knowing the cholesterol level of venison meat. How would a serving of venison compare with beef or pork? Mrs. E.H., Greenville.

A. I asked Catherine Schmidt to answer this question for me. It's an interesting question and several folks have asked. There must be lots of successful hunters in our area!

For those of you with deer meat in the freezer, here is some good news. Venison has less cholesterol per serving than beef or pork. Venison has 60 to 70 milligrams of cholesterol per three and one-half-ounce serving. Pork has about 90 milligrams. And, beef a little more than 100 milligrams for the same size serving. The cholesterol content varies some with different cuts so use these amounts as a rule of thumb.

The American Heart Association recommends persons try to keep daily cholesterol intake at or below 300 milligrams daily. Remember that a high intake of saturated fats will also cause cholesterol levels to be high. Most people in eastern North Carolina do have a lot of this fat in their diet. When you use deer, beef or pork, remember to trim all visible fat and don't add fat in cooking the meat or the vegetables. Seasoning meat, lard, butter and meat grease are all sources of saturated fat.

If you are concerned about your cholesterol level, check with your family doctor to have your level tested. Persons with a history of heart disease should have their cholesterol level tested when they are young since heart disease starts early in some families. If your cholesterol level is high, your family doctor and a dietitian can help you make food habit changes.

You may enjoy this recipe from the "Living Heart Diet."

SWISSED VENISON STEAK

- 1 1/2 pounds venison round steak, cut 1 1/2 inches thick, well trimmed
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 cup flour
- 3 tablespoons oil
- 3 onions, sliced
- 1 stalk celery, chopped
- 1 can (8 ounces) tomatoes, undrained
- 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

Season venison with salt and pepper and coat with flour. Brown meat in oil. Remove from pan and place in baking dish. Add other ingredients over meat. Cover and bake at 300 degrees for 90 minutes or until tender. Makes 6 servings.

Microwave Chicken Is Ready In Minutes

Convenience is the key to contemporary cooking and there's no better combination for tasty, hurry-up meals than chicken and a microwave oven.

More than half of all homes are now equipped with a microwave and surveys show that they are no longer used primarily for just heating up left-overs or thawing frozen foods.

According to the National Broiler Council, chicken cooked in a microwave can be just as delicious as that prepared on the stove top or in a conventional oven. Chicken adapts well to microwave cookery, whether plain, seasoned or sauced. And it is even more flavorful when it is marinated prior to cooking.

Garlic and Herb Chicken (below) is one example of a dish that cooks in minutes when all the ingredients have been put together in advance. Those with full-time jobs will find it easy to season the chicken the night before and have it ready to pop in the microwave when they arrive home. Dinner can be on the table in less than 30 minutes.

GARLIC AND HERB CHICKEN

- 8 broiler-fryer chicken thighs
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1 large tomato, chopped
- 1 rib celery, sliced thin
- 2 tablespoons parsley flakes
- 6 cloves garlic, quartered
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon oregano
- 1/4 teaspoon basil
- 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg

In microwave baking dish, mix together olive oil, tomato, celery,

Recipe Project Will Help Raise Funds For Suzuki Tour Of England

to find something that's nutritious and quick and the kids like."

About 40 children ages 5 to 16 will be taking the trip, Ms. Bath said. It will cost each child under 12 about $1,000, while students more than 12 will pay about $1,500.

"It's a big expense," she said. And, "part of trip is to share experiences with parents, so whole families are going."

Suzuki violinists and their mothers will provide samples of some of their talents and cookbook dishes Saturday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. at Jefferson's Florist in Greenville.

The Suzuki teaching method provides a lifelong experience for students, Ms. Bath said. "The children are taught to play the violin very much like they're taught to speak," she said. "They hear sounds, absorb them and reproduce them. The aim has never been just to create a concert violinist, though that happens. It provides an overall enriching, broadening of whole personality of the child. The trip ties in so well as another way of giving children a very fine broadening experience," she said.

"There isn't a lot of moving away. People come here and stay," so "the drop-out rate is almost none" in the program.

Children usually begin at age 3 or 4 and are taught through high school, she said. The parents and children learn to work together as a team. "Six days of the week, the parent is really the teacher" as they attend the classes and help with practice at home.

Local Suzuki students placed second nationally in both the junior high and high school level competitions last year. They also have been selected for All-State orchestras and have participated in school orchestra program.

They attend several workshops and institutes across the country, while the only Suzuki institute in North Carolina is held in Greenville July 10-15, Ms. Bath said. It is one of about 50 in the country.

Ms. Bath said she was introduced to the Suzuki method of teaching in 1964, though she had already attained her bachelor's and master's degrees in violin performance. She is a registered teacher and trainer with the Suzuki Association of the Americas, and has been teaching 21 years in Greenville and three years before that in Kansas.

She said there are eight Suzuki violin teachers in Greenville, six piano teachers and one cello teacher.

The cookbook may be obtained through Suzuki violin students or may be obtained through mail by sending $9 to Mrs. Charles Gaskins, 205 Chowan Drive, Greenville, N.C. 27858. The cost includes the $7 book and $2 postage and handling.

WARM CLAM & MUSHROOM DIP
6-ounce package cream cheese, softened
6-ounce can minced clams with juice
6-ounce can mushroom bits

Fiesta Corn

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens
Food Editor

Give scalloped corn a Tex-Mex twist and your family will call for more.

FIESTA CORN

1/4 cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon margarine or butter
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
One 8 3/4-ounce can cream-style corn

One 8 3/4-ounce can whole kernel corn, drained
1/2 cup coarsely crushed taco-flavored tortilla chips

One 4-ounce can chopped green chili peppers, drained
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1/2 cup broken taco-flavored tortilla chips

In a 1-quart microwave-safe casserole combine onion, margarine and chili powder. Cook, covered, on 100 percent power (high) 2 to 3 minutes or until onion is tender, stirring once. Stir in cream-style corn, whole kernel corn, crushed tortilla chips, chili peppers and pimiento. Mix well. Cook, covered, on high 4 to 6 minutes or until heated through, stirring once. Sprinkle broken tortilla chips around edges of the casserole. Makes 4 servings.

1/2 cup sour cream
1 small minced onion
1/2 small bell pepper, diced finely
Mix all ingredients. Microwave 5 minutes or heat in 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Serve hot. Serves 30.

SHRIMP DIP

1 large package cream cheese
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1 1/2 pound cooked shrimp, cut finely

1 small onion, grated
Juice of 1/2 lemon
Mix together and refrigerate several hours before serving.

BAKED PARMESAN CHICKEN

2 cups breadcrumbs
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 3-ounce can french-fried onions, crushed
4 whole chicken breasts, boned and skinned
1 stick butter

2 garlic cloves
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/3 cup chopped parsley
Combine and mix crumbs, cheese, parsley and onions in shallow baking dish. Melt butter in saucepan over medium heat, add garlic and saute about 1 minute. Remove from heat. Stir in Worcestershire sauce and mustard.

Dip chicken in batter, then roll in breadcrumbs, coating well. Place chicken in baking dish and pour remaining batter over it. Bake at 350 degrees for 50 minutes.

SHERRIED BEEF

3 pounds stew beef
2 cans mushroom soup
3/4 cup sherry
1/2 package onion soup mix
Mix all ingredients well. Bake at 325 degrees in covered baking dish three or more hours.

EASTER EGG CASSEROLE

2 cups potato chips
6 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
1 can mushroom soup
1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons onion, minced
2 tablespoons bell pepper, diced
Put half of chips in greased baking dish. Add eggs. Mix together soup, milk, onion and pepper. Pour over eggs. Top with remaining chips. Bake at 400 degrees for about 20 minutes. Serves 6.

MEXICAN HOT DOGS

Tortillas
Chili powder
Hot dogs
Dust tortillas with chili powder. Roll hot dogs in soft tortillas. Fry in deep fat or on all sides until nicely browned.

HASH BROWN CASSEROLE

1 15 1/2-ounce package frozen hash brown potatoes

1 can mushroom soup
1 can celery soup
1/2 cup sour cream
4 tablespoons onion, chopped
1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons green pepper, chopped
Salt and pepper to taste
1/2 cup cheddar cheese, grated
Blend everything except cheese in 9x13-inch baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes. Add cheese about 10 minutes before removing dish from oven. Serves 8.

GLAZED CARROTS

4 large carrots
3 tablespoons margarine
2/3 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon lemon rind, grated
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Scrape carrots and cut in half lengthwise. Cook until tender. Drain. Heat remaining ingredients and add cooked carrots. Turn carrots to cover all surfaces with glaze. Serve hot.

Oriental Appetizers Start A Meal

By Irene Sax

L.A. Times-Washington Post News Service

In China, appetizers can be truly surprising. Last summer I tasted crunchy jellyfish, smoked eel, tiny sparrows steeped in soy sauce, deep-fried scorpions. ("Take off the stinger before you eat it," warned our guide. Alas, it was too late, but we suffered no ill effects.)

Every Chinese banquet starts with a selection of cold dishes. When there's someone skillful in the kitchen, the food will be arranged to look like a carp, a basket of flowers or a rooster with a tail of jellied pork slices and a comb that's a scarlet radish fan.

More often, the appetizers are put in a compartmented dish, and everyone sits around, deftly wielding chopsticks, picking out a nut or a strand of noodle to eat with plum wine, sherry or beer.

Because the appetizers are prepared ahead and served cold, the cook is free to finish the rest of the meal — a big advantage in planning holiday parties. Think of offering these Oriental snacks at the start of a meal of grilled swordfish marinated in oil and lemon juice with cilantro, served with brown rice and a salad of greens, pea pods and sliced winter pears.

PEPPERY BEAN SPROUTS

- 1/2 pound bean sprouts
- 1 sweet red pepper
- 3 scallions
- 3 tablespoons rice-wine vinegar
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper or chili powder

Trim the sprouts. Cut the pepper and scallions in thin julienne strips, about the size of the sprouts. Mix the vinegar, soy sauce, garlic, pepper and coriander, pour over the vegetables and mix. Marinate at least 2 hours.

RADISH FANS

- 1 pound radishes
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 1 tablespoon sugar
- Trim the ends of the radishes. Put each radish between two chopsticks and cut down to make thin slices, letting the chopsticks stop your knife before it cuts all the way through. Sprinkle with salt and sugar and store in a plastic container overnight. Before serving, spread radishes out into a fan.

SUGARED ALMONDS

- 1/2 pound almonds
  - 2 teaspoons peanut oil
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 2 tablespoons sugar
1. Soak the almonds in boiling water for 15 minutes. Drain, spread on a cookie tin and dry in a 300-degree oven for 30 minutes.
2. In a frypan, heat the oil and toss the nuts over medium heat. Add the salt and sugar, continuing to toss for about 3 minutes, until the sugar melts. Cool before serving.

SESAME NOODLES

- 1/2 pound noodles
  - 1/4 cup peanut butter
  - 1/4 cup soy sauce
  - 1 tablespoon red-wine vinegar
  - 2 tablespoons honey
  - 2 tablespoons sesame oil
  - 1 clove garlic
  - 1/2 teaspoon hot oil
  - 3 sliced scallions for garnish
- Boil the noodles. In a blender, mix all the remaining ingredients but the scallions. Mix into the noodles and chill. Garnish with scallions.

ANISE-SCENTED LIMA BEANS

- 2 cups dried baby lima beans
  - 2 tablespoons oil
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 2 tablespoons sugar
  - 2 tablespoons soy sauce
  - 2 star anise cloves
  - 1 teaspoon sesame oil
1. In a saucepan, cover the beans with 1 quart cold water. Bring to a boil, cook for 2 minutes, then let sit, covered, for one hour. Drain the beans.

2. In a wok or frypan, heat the oil and stir-fry the beans with the salt and sugar. Add the soy, anise cloves and 3 cups of water and cook, covered, until the liquid is absorbed and the beans are cooked through but still crisp. You may have to add more water during the cooking process. Stir in the sesame oil, and cool before serving.

Microwave

parsley flakes, garlic, salt, pepper, oregano, basil and nutmeg. Microwave on HIGH for three minutes, stir; add chicken, covering with mixture. Cover and refrigerate overnight or for at least three hours. When ready to cook, cover baking dish with wax paper and microwave on HIGH for 10 minutes. Turn chicken, cover again with wax paper and microwave on HIGH 10 minutes more. Let stand five minutes. If fork cannot be inserted in chicken with ease, return to microwave for brief additional cooking.

To serve, remove garlic slices and spoon sauce over chicken.

Fondue Is Making A Return, So Follow A Few Basic Guidelines

To avoid dribbling Switzerland's national dish on the tablecloth, some suggest swirling the fondue quickly around the bread on the fork. This catches the drips and helps it cool off.

And according to tradition, if you lose your hunk of bread in the bubbling cheese, you must forfeit something, often a kiss. Of course, with whom you are supping has a lot to do with your finesse.

Below are two recipes for the traditional cheese fondue. The second one, created by Barbara Kafka, offers a new concept in fondue-making: microwaving and reheating.

Express lane: gruyere cheese, emmenthaler cheese, cornstarch, white wine, garlic, kirsch, nutmeg, French or Italian bread, caraway seeds (optional)

FONDUE NEUCHATELOISE

(4 to 6 servings)
1/2 pound imported Swiss gruyere cheese, coarsely grated (about 2 cups)
1/2 pound imported Swiss emmenthaler cheese, coarsely grated (about 2 cups)

1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 cups dry white wine, preferably Neuchatel
1 medium-sized garlic clove, peeled and bruised with the flat of a knife
2 tablespoons imported Kirsch
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg, preferably freshly grated
1/8 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground black pepper
1 large loaf French or Italian bread with the crust left on, cut into 1-inch cubes

In a large bowl, toss together the cheeses and cornstarch until thoroughly combined. Pour the wine into a 2-quart fondue dish (or any 2-quart, flame-proof, enameled casserole), drop in the garlic, and bring to a boil over high heat. Let the wine boil briskly for 1 or 2 minutes. Discard the garlic. Lower the heat so the wine barely simmers. While stirring constantly with a table fork, add the cheese mixture a handful at a time, letting each handful melt before adding another. When the fondue is creamy and smooth, stir in the kirsch, nutmeg, salt and a few grindings of black pepper, and taste for seasoning.

To serve, place the fondue dish or casserole over an alcohol or gas table burner in the center of the dining table, regulating the heat so the fondue barely simmers. Set a basket full of the bread cubes alongside the fondue. Traditionally, each diner spears a cube of bread on a fork (preferably a long-handled fondue fork), swirls the bread about in the fondue until it is thoroughly coated, then eats it immediately.

—From "A Quintet of Cuisines," by Michael and Frances Field (Time-Life Books, 1983)

BARBARA KAFKA'S MICROWAVE FONDUE

(Makes 1 cup to serve 4 as a light meal or first course)
1 cup dry white wine
2 cloves garlic, smashed and peeled
1/2 pound Swiss gruyere or emmenthaler cheese
2 teaspoons Kirsch
1 loaf country-style Swiss, Italian or sourdough bread, cut in 1 1/2-inch cubes, each with some crust Toasted caraway seeds to dip the cheese-covered

Put white wine and garlic in a 1-quart souffle dish. Cook, uncovered, at 100 percent for 5 minutes.
Place cheese in the work bowl of a food processor. Pour in hot wine. Process for 2 minutes.
Return mixture to souffle dish. Cook, uncovered, at 100 percent for 2 minutes; stir; cook for 2 minutes longer.

Put souffle dish on heat source at the table. Stir in kirsch. Serve with bread chunks.

To reheat fondue: Fondue can be made ahead without risk, even a day ahead. The cooled fondue will congeal into a rubbery chunk covered

—From "Microwave Gourmet," by Barbara Kafka (William Morrow and Co. Inc., 1987)

SKILLET MEAL — When dinner demands something special in a hurry, Garlic-Cashew Chicken Imperial will fill the bill. Prepared with chicken, garlic, red pepper and celery, it boasts 10-minute, single-skillet preparation and authentic Oriental flavors. As lively and full-flavored as favorite restaurant specialties, it is ideal for days when time is at a premium.

Skillet Meals Are Easy

1 cup water
1 package (10.6 ounces) Suzi Wan Brand Dinner Recipes Teriyaki Beef
4 ounces fresh pea pods, cut in half diagonally (about 1 cup)
1 can (8 ounces) sliced water chestnuts, drained
2 teaspoon sesame seed

Cut beef into thin strips. Combine beef, water and contents of rice and seasoning packets in 10-inch skillet. Bring to a boil. Cover tightly and simmer 4 minutes. Stir in pea pods and water chestnuts. Cover tightly and continue to simmer until all water is absorbed, about 4 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in contents of sauce packet before serving. Sprinkle with sesame seed. Makes 4 servings.

Tomatoes Are Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fresh, ripe, red, scrumptious tomato is a coveted supermarket find during the cold season when pink, paper-flavored baseball tomatoes are piled high. But good flavor does not have to be so rare, according to tomato researchers.

They are learning exactly what tomato chemicals contribute to that vine-ripened taste and they say their findings explain how consumers may be killing much of the flavor in supermarket tomatoes by storing them improperly.

Dr. Ron Buttery, a research chemist at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Western Regional Research Center in Albany, Calif., has studied the chemical components of tomato plants on and off for 20 years.

"Our research is aiming at coming up with a supermarket tomato that tastes as good as a home-grown tomato you pick yourself," he says.

In a study published in the Washington-based American Chemical Society's "Journal of Agricultural and Food Chemistry," Buttery and colleagues report that a key tomato aroma and flavor chemical is three to 10 times as abundant in sliced, vine-ripened tomatoes as in store-bought tomatoes, which typically are picked when they are green and are ripened off the vine.

The chemical — cis-3-hexenal — is present in minuscule amounts, yet Buttery says it is one of the most potent constituents in tomato aroma and flavor.

"This could explain why supermarket tomatoes lack the flavor of vine-ripened tomatoes," he said. Though aromatic volatile chemicals are crucial for tomato flavor, amounts of sugars like glucose and fructose and of acids such as citric and malic acid are also important, according to Dr. Adel Kader, professor of pomology (the art and science of fruit growing) at the University of California at Davis. Most people think of tomatoes as vegetables, as does the government for legal and regulatory convenience. But tomatoes actually are fruits, or berries, of the plant species Lycopersicon esculentum.

Dom's Mom's Eggplant Sauce With Spaghetti

By Tom Sietsema
L.A. Times-Washington Post
News Service

The way Dom DeLuise sees it, food is not only nourishment, it's a tonic against fatigue, anger, depression and anxiety.

"A bowl of soup not only warms me up, it calms me down — I need a lot of calming down," says the antic comedian turned antic cookbook author.

"Eat This, It'll Make You Feel Better!" (Simon and Schuster, $17.95) seems an apt title for DeLuise's chaty cookbook, a compendium of mostly Italian peasant dishes culled from the memory bank of his mother, Vincenza DeStafano DeLuise, with whom the actor says he spent three years over the phone — and over the stove — discussing his book and testing recipes.

"Eat this, it'll make you feel better," recalls the comedian, is also the advice Vincenza DeLuise offered her family in both good times and bad — together with a plate of whatever food was handy.

If his girth ("330 pounds and maintaining") is an indicator of his appetite, DeLuise professes to more than a nosing acquaintance with food and its preparation. "I use a Cuisinart like some people use a typewriter," boasts DeLuise, who follows the claim with an impressively accurate imitation of dough being kneaded — and then stuck — in a food processor. And his meals at home, he reports, are laced with the herbs and vegetables he raises in his own garden.

This being an Italian cookbook, garlic and tomatoes get a workout. Yet along with such traditional Italian recipes as risotto, gnocchi and lasagna, DeLuise throws in a handful of dishes from the files of fellow celebrities, including Dinah Shore's moussaka, Anne Bancroft's vegetarian chili and beef stew from none other than Burt Reynolds. (The sex symbol, admits DeLuise with a chuckle, is probably "better at other things." Unlike the comedian, Reynolds has "no emotional attachment to the kitchen.")

A cameo appearance is also made by Cajun maestro Paul Prudhomme, whom DeLuise met while visiting the expansive chef's acclaimed K-Paul's restaurant in New Orleans. The comedian showed up at the door wearing chef's whites; so dressed, even the restaurant staff confused the two men — at least until Prudhomme invited DeLuise into his compact kitchen for a stint at the stove, an experience the comedian describes as "whale to whale" cooking.

DOM'S MOM'S EGGPLANT SAUCE WITH SPAGHETTI

- (4 to 6 servings)
- 1 medium eggplant, peeled and cut into 1-inch cubes
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 6 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 onion, chopped
- 2 28-ounce cans crushed tomatoes
- 6-ounce can tomato paste
- 6 leaves fresh basil, chopped
- freshly ground black pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon sugar
- 1 pound spaghetti
- Grated Parmesan cheese for serving

In a large saucepan, heat oil and add eggplant. Brown lightly, stirring frequently. Remove eggplant to absorbent paper to drain.

Place garlic and onion in the saucepan, adding a little more oil if necessary, and cook until lightly browned. Stir in tomatoes, tomato paste, basil, pepper and sugar. Simmer gently, uncovered, for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add eggplant and heat gently, covered, 15 to 20 minutes longer, or until eggplant is fork-tender.

Fiberglass roofing shingles

When purchased installed by Sears authorized installers

Our shingles have a glass fiber mat covered with asphalt, then sprinkled with ceramic granules for a handsome appearance and long life. Each shingle has a sun-activated adhesive strip that seals it to the roof and resists blow-off, even in gale force winds. UL class A fire resistant, won't absorb moisture...won't crack, peel or split. Ask a Sears salesman for details on our 25-year limited pro-rated warranty.
