Pitt Voters Give Primary Edge To Gore, Bush

By GREG LAUDICK
Reflector Staff Writer
Sen. Albert Gore Jr. edged the Rev. Jesse Jackson and Vice President George Bush scored a narrow victory over Sen. Robert J. Dole in Pitt County Tuesday as approximately 16,000 voters voiced their presidential preferences at 25 area precincts.
Gore and Jackson, who both made appearances in Greenville as part of their campaign strategies, dominated area Democratic voting.

With all votes being unofficial, Gore received 4,918 votes in Pitt County compared to the 4,668 votes received by Jackson. Massachusetts Gov. Michael S. Dukakis ran a distant third, receiving 1,675 votes. Rounding out the Democratic field were Richard Gephardt with 869 votes; Gary Hart, 253 votes; Paul Simon, 116 votes, and Bruce Babbitt, with 24 votes.
Meanwhile in the Republican race, Bush recorded a narrow victory in Pitt County, receiving 1,241 votes compared to Dole's 1,077. Marion G. "Pat" Robertson finished third in the Republican Pitt County tally, receiving 527 votes. Following up in the GOP race were Rep. Jack F. Kemp, Former Delaware Gov. Pierre du Pont, and Al Haig, with 138, 19, and 7 votes received, respectively.

Jackson, who campaigned in Greenville at the Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church on Jan. 27, received the most votes in 10 out of the 25 voting precincts. At Greenville Precinct 3, Jackson received an overwhelming majority of votes, 459 compared to a combined total of 27 for the remainder of the Democratic candidates. Jackson also received a vast majority of votes in Greenville Precincts 1, 4 and 5.

Gore, who also campaigned in Greenville at a pig-pickin' rally held at a local farm, won in 15 of the 25 precincts.
Bush, following in form of his landslide "Super Tuesday" performance on a state and national level, won a significant majority of the precincts in Pitt County, but only by a marginal number of votes. Bush recorded the most votes in 20 Pitt County precincts, while Dole scored highest in only five.

According to Margaret Hardee, supervisor at the Pitt County Board of Elections, unofficial results will be tallied, checked and double-checked for accuracy and the official results will be available Thursday.

Mrs. Hardee reported that of the 45,224 Pitt County eligible voters, approximately 35 percent participated in Tuesday's election.
"The turnout was less than hoped for but was just about what was expected on the low side," she said.
Mrs. Hardee said the voting went off with few problems.

Democrats Get 'Three-Man Race' South Gives Bush Major Boost

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer
Vice President George Bush stood within reach of the Republican presidential nomination today after a sweep of Super Tuesday primaries. Democrats Michael Dukakis and Jesse Jackson split a rich harvest of delegates with Albert Gore Jr., who declared today "it's a three-man race" after thrashing Richard Gephardt in the South.
"It exceeded my fondest expectations," exulted Bush as he surveyed his 16-0 primary shutout Tuesday and looked ahead to an Illinois showdown next Tuesday, where another victory over Kansas Sen. Bob Dole would give his nomination an aura of inevitability.

Super Tuesday spelled disaster for Dole, fellow Republican Pat Robertson, and Gephardt, all three teetering on the verge of elimination after rejection in state after state. Robertson did win the party's caucuses in Washington state on Tuesday.
Almost certain to pack it in was Republican Jack Kemp, who was meeting with advisers to see if there was any point in continuing. Kemp, who got no better than 7 percent of the vote in any of Tuesday's primaries, scheduled no announcement today about his plans, but a spokeswoman said he would have a news conference Thursday.

Many of the candidates made television appearances early today, celebrating good results or trying to put the best face on Tuesday's losses:
"It's a three-man race, no question about it," Gore said, dismissing the chances of Gephardt surviving much longer, in an interview on NBC-TV. The Tennessee senator, who won his own state and four other Southern primaries, said "all three of us are going all the way to California and probably to the convention."
Massachusetts Gov. Dukakis, who won the two biggest Southern states, Florida and Texas, made television appearances from Chicago, where he was already campaigning. He said he expected a winner just before the convention.
"I've always felt that ... this will go right down to the last primaries in California and New Jersey," he said on CBS-TV.
Jackson, who won in five Southern states, said it was a kind of "poetic justice" to win where blacks have been kept down so long. He called on his fellow Democrats to stop attacking each other, saying such tactics had caused the party to self-destruct in recent presidential elections.
Robertson, on ABC-TV, looked to the future, saying, "I'm in it for the long haul, for this time, for 1990, the congressional races, and who knows what will happen in 1992." He had hoped to do well in the South but won only the Washington caucuses, which represent an early stage in that state's delegate selection.

Tuesday night, Dole acknowledged he took a whipping but looked ahead to Illinois. "This is going to be Bob Dole's recovery state," he said. "It's going to be the turnaround state."
The delegate total dramatically spelled out how Bush dominated the day.
With 712 Republican convention delegates at stake, Bush won 578, giving him 705 when combined with the delegates he won in earlier contests. Dole had 98, for a total of 163. Robertson gained 9 delegates for a total of 17. Kemp picked up four for a total of 39. The remainder will be apportioned as the final few votes are counted.
It takes 1,139 to gain the Republican nomination at the party convention in New Orleans in August.
On the Democratic side, with 1,307 national convention delegates at stake in 21 contests, the race looked like this:
Dukakis won 386 for a total of 455.5; Jackson picked up 366, giving him a total of 393.55; and Gore took 326 for a total of 347.8. Gephardt picked up 93 delegates for a total of 143, while Gary Hart failed to pick up a delegate.
It takes 2,082 to gain the Democratic nomination at the party convention in Atlanta this summer.

Moore Refiles For Pitt Board

Farney M. Moore Jr. of Greenville has refiled as a candidate for the Pitt County Board of Commissioners from District 1, which includes Greenville Township.
Moore refiled with the county Board of Elections following court approval of a new system of electing county commissioners.
"I believe that the citizens of Pitt County deserve the very best representation possible," Moore said. "This is a new day for all people and it is imperative we emphasize unity, strength and progress. I believe that my service record indicates my profound interest in and concern for all citizens. I will continue to try to enhance that record."

Moore is a Beaufort County native.

Army Helicopters Collide, Killing 17

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — Two military helicopters collided during a night training mission and crashed 250 feet to the ground, spewing flaming wreckage across a wooded area and killing up to 17 servicemen, the Army said today.
The U-H 60 Blackhawk helicopters collided about 9:45 p.m. CST Tuesday 6 miles from the Fort Campbell Army Air Field, said Maj. Randy Schoel, Fort Campbell public information officer.

The Blackhawk is the military's newest helicopter, but has been plagued by design flaws. Last summer, officials said that about 40 people had been killed in crashes of the helicopter since 1978.
Schoel said the crash occurred during a "routine night mission," and that all aboard were killed. He said initial indications were that 17 were aboard.

Maj. Randy Morger, a Pentagon spokesman, said 15 servicemen were aboard.
The helicopters were flying at 92 mph when they collided, crashed and burned, spewing wreckage over an area of 330 to 550 yards, Schoel said.

The aircraft were flying at 800 feet above sea level, which put them 250 above the ground.
"One aircraft is located in the trees. One aircraft is right on the edge of a clearing," Schoel said. "We are still looking throughout the area to see if they can locate any other bodies."

Soviets Say Hijack Attempt Foiled

MOSCOW (AP) — The Tass news agency reported today that armed criminals tried to hijack an Aeroflot passenger jet and flee the country but were stopped by Soviet authorities.
"Measures were taken to render the criminals harmless," Tass said.

It added, "There are casualties as a result of this terrorist act."
The official news agency did not say whether the casualties included deaths or give the number of passengers or hijackers involved.
The dispatch didn't make it clear how the hijacking was stopped or say where it occurred. The fate of the hijackers also was unclear from the report, which said an investigation had been launched.

Injured passengers were given medical aid "on the spot," Tass said.
The agency said the TU-154, which is capable of carrying up to 168 passengers, was en route from Irkutsk to Leningrad with a stop in the Ural Mountains city of Kurgan.

The hijacking attempt occurred Tuesday, which was a national holiday here in observance of International Women's Day.

Tourism Session To Attract 400

By JOHN BARE
Reflector Staff Writer
The 1988 Governor's Conference on Travel and Tourism will bring more than 400 travel industry officials to Greenville April 10-12, according to Al Nichols, executive director of the Pitt-Greenville Convention and Visitors Authority.
"The governor's conference itself will bring a lot of people here," Nichols said at a Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce news conference today. "The significant factor though, in addition to the business, will be the publicity we will get ... we will be saying in a very real sense across the state, 'Look, we've arrived.'"

The conference will allow the chamber and the Convention and Visitors Authority to publicize the area as a regional meeting center, and it will also bring in revenue. Each person at the conference will spend approximately $120 a day, said Ed Walker, chamber president.
The tourism industry is also unique, said Walker, because it does not add burdens to the community like some industries. "It's probably the cleanest, purest no-cost money you get," he said.

There is a rippling effect from the revenue, Nichols said, and the entire community benefits. "When a dollar is spent by a convention delegate at a hotel, that dollar is turned over a number of times," he said. "This is basic economics, too. This is money from the outside of the community coming in."
Travel and tourism is the state's third-largest industry, said Nichols, and it is expected to be the top industry by the year 2000.
The industry is also growing locally. "We have over 4,000 people employed in the hospitality industry right now," Walker said. "It's the fastest growing industry we have in Greenville other than the medical industry."

While the area cannot offer lots of tourist attractions, East Carolina University is a special resource, said Phil Dixon, chairman of the chamber's board of directors. There are many activities around which a meeting may be held, he said.

In The Area

No Evidence Found

Greenville police say there is no evidence to substantiate the report that shots were fired at South Greenville School Friday afternoon. It was suspected earlier that shots were fired from a van into a mobile classroom at the school about 1:36 p.m. "We have concluded that the van backfired several times" and created sounds similar to that of a gun," Detective G.W. Williams said Tuesday. Williams said no weapons were found in a search of a van and two houses.

Golf Clubs Taken

Two thefts were reported to Greenville police Tuesday. Investigators said golf clubs valued at $1,669 were taken from a car parked at the Greenville Country Club in an incident reported at 9:07 a.m. Police said a purse containing a gold bracelet valued at $650 and an amethyst necklace valued at $225 was taken from a vehicle parked at the Exxon Service Station at the intersection of Third Street and Memorial Drive in an incident reported at 8:20 p.m.

Three Arrested

Jackson, Bush Lead In Martin

WILLIAMSTON — Super Tuesday voters in Martin County showed that the rural county remains a deeply entrenched bastion of Democrats, with Democrats numbering more than 10 times the number of Republican voters going to the polls.

The turnout of Democratic voters from the county's 13 precincts was 3,483; the Republican turnout was 310. A total of 100 voters — 92 Democrats and eight Republicans — expressed no preference.

Democratic candidate Jesse Jackson was the biggest votegetter, with 1,477 votes, followed by Al Gore, who received 1,378 votes.

On the Republican ballot, George Bush topped the list with 137 votes, followed by Bob Dole with 119 votes.

Of the 13 candidates, Republican Alexander Haig Jr. was the only one not to receive a single vote.

Democrats: Bruce Babbitt, 32; Michael Dukakis, 292; Richard Gephardt, 186; Gary Hart, 92, and Paul Simon, 26.

Republicans: Pete du Pont, 1; Jack Kemp, 14, and Pat Robertson, 39.

Earl Murchison, 34, of 908 Imperial St. was arrested about 7:45 a.m. on charges of possessing a stolen gun and assault.

Kepler said the charges stemmed from the theft of a .22-caliber pistol from 1022B W. Fifth St. on Saturday.

Officer M.R. Benton said Graham Kay Stokes of Route 3, Greenville, was charged with larceny in connection with the theft of a $35 cordless drill from Nichols Discount City on Greenville Boulevard about 3:17 p.m.

Benton said James Ray Evans of 105 Stantons Drive was charged with aiding and abetting in connection with the case.

Break-In Charge

Samuel Levon Bradley, 33, of 405 Darden Drive was arrested on breaking and entering charges by Greenville police early today.

Officer B.W. Lewis said Bradley was charged with damaging real property and personal property as well as with breaking and entering after a window at S&E Imports at the Buyers Market, West End Circle, was broken out about 12:46 a.m.

Damage to the window was estimated at $450, Lewis said.

Girl Scout Week

Mayor Ed Carter has proclaimed the seven-day period through Sunday as Girl Scout Week in Greenville.

"Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. is the largest voluntary organization for girls in the world and draws upon a large resource of positive adult role models," Carter said in his proclamation.

He said, "The Girl Scout movement continues to emphasize leadership and personal and career development for girls."

Carter said the "community and world will be the direct beneficiaries of the skilled young women who are Girl Scouts."

EAC Meeting Set

The Greenville Environmental Advisory Commission will meet Thursday at 5:30 p.m. in the third floor conference room of the Community Building located on the corner of Fourth and Greene Streets.

Registration Set

South Greenville School, which will become a kindergarten through fifth-grade school beginning in the 1988-89 school year, will have kindergarten registration March 18 from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the school media center.

Kindergarten students must be 5 years old on or before Oct. 16. To register, a certified copy of the child's birth certificate, a completed immunization record from the child's doctor and the child's Social Security number must be presented to school officials.

Jarvis Is Finalist For Scholars Award

Terri Lynette Jarvis of Greenville is one of 12 finalists selected for competition in the 1987 University Scholars Awards offered by East Carolina University.

A student at J.H. Rose High School, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin E. Jarvis.

Seven of the 12 finalists will be offered the four-year renewable, full tuition and fees scholarships this year. ECU officials said the remaining five finalists in this year's competition also will be offered academic scholarships to attend ECU.

The 1987 University Scholars Award winners will be chosen on the basis of campus interviews scheduled March 19, according to Charles F. Seeley, director of admissions.

Now in its fourth year, the University Scholars program at ECU is privately financed and each award is named for a donor or donor family. With the seven awards this year, there will be more than 30 University Scholars on campus in the fall.

Reunion Planning

The 1968 graduating class of Winterville High School is beginning to make plans for its 20th-year reunion. Contact Frances Walter, 756-5804, Linwood Lawson, 756-1966, or Tony Moore, 756-7457, for more information.

Optometry Session

Dr. R. Ted Watson, a Greenville optometrist, and members of his staff recently attended the 65th annual Southern Educational Congress of Optometry in Atlanta.

Watson and his staff did continuing education work in eye care.

Beaufort Rejects Liquor Proposal

WASHINGTON, N.C. — A referendum on liquor by the drink for Beaufort County was defeated Tuesday by 102 votes, with 4,643 votes cast against the issue and 4,541 votes in favor, according to the unofficial tabulation.

The 9,814 voter turnout Tuesday represents about 45 percent of the county's 21,114 registered voters, a fairly heavy turnout. Normally, about 6,000 voters go to the polls.

Advocates favoring liquor by the drink carried the county's four incorporated towns — Washington, Washington Park, Aurora and Belhaven, with voters in rural precincts defeating the referendum.

A county spokesman said the Washington Chamber of Commerce has announced plans to ask the Washington City Council to place the issue on the ballot for the May 3 primary. The spokesman added indications are that Aurora, Belhaven and Washington Park may also seek action to place the issue on the ballot for the May 3 primary.

State law requires a two-year wait for a new referendum on an issue once it has been defeated in a countywide vote, but incorporated towns within a county can ask for a new referendum at any date following a county vote of defeat.

Information Machine

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department has activated an information machine with recordings to answer general questions concerning the department. The number to call is 830-4570.

Registration for summer programs is May 10 and May 11. Summer brochures will be available in mid-April.

NAACP Meeting

The Pitt County branch of the NAACP will have its mass meeting Sunday at 7 p.m. in Mount Shiloh Church, Winterville.

REFLECTOR HOTLINE

Hotline gets things done. Write and tell us about the problem or issue into which you'd like for Hotline to look. Enclose photostatic copies of any pertinent information. Our address is The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27835. Because of the large numbers received, Hotline cannot answer or publish every item we receive, but we deal with all of those for which we have staff time. Names must be given, but only initials will be published.

MORE NEEDED

A recent Hotline appeal from the Pitt County Council on Aging did not yield a sufficient number of volunteers to add a route to the Council's Meals on Wheels program. More volunteers are needed. Anyone who can spare an hour of any day of the week to help deliver meals to elderly disabled people is asked to call 752-1717.

Load Management Savings Recognized

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Greenville Utilities Commission board members were told Tuesday night that $172,804 in demand charges were saved due to load management operations during the month of February.

Roger Jones, GUC's director of electric systems, said the demand charges were saved because the load management program was in full operation between 7 a.m. and 8 a.m. on Feb. 22, the time of Carolina Power & Light Company's system peak.

Some $89,528 of the savings was attributed to operation on radio-controlled switches on water heaters throughout GUC's system, while $78,101 in savings was attributed to voltage reductions during the same period. Some $2,742 was saved through operation of generators at GUC's water plant while another $2,433 was saved because generators at the Procter and Gamble Paper Products plant were in operation.

At the end of February, a total of 17,704 of the radio-controlled switches — which allow the utility to shut off the units — were in service, including 8,696 on water heaters and 9,008 on central air conditioning units.

Since January 1985, the load management program has saved more than $5 million in wholesale power costs.

Action was taken by the board to apply for a state loan under the North Carolina clean water loan program to finance improvements in pressure throughout GUC's water distribution system.

Malcolm Green said the improvements — including replacing existing high service pumps at the water treatment plant, the construction of a new 1.5 million gallon elevated storage tank, the raising of two existing half-million gallon elevated storage tanks 20 feet higher and the abandonment of several 50-year-old .3 million gallon elevated storage tanks — could cost as much as $2.8 million to $2.9 million.

"Voting went very smoothly throughout the day. The weather was beautiful and most people were in a really good mood," she said.

She said approximately 125 precinct workers were involved in the day's voting activities.

"The paperwork for this year's election has increased both in quantity and complexity but on the whole, precinct workers did a good job and survived the long hours and we hope will be ready again for the regular primary on May 3rd," she commented.

Mrs. Hardee also reported minor malfunctions occurred with a small number of the vote tabulating machines, but no major problems in tabulations arose due to the light voter turnout.

GREENSBORO (AP) — The roof of a burning house caved in as a 23-year-old woman was trying to save her two small daughters and all three perished early Tuesday, family and friends said.

Zoning Requests On Agenda

Two separate requests to extend the extraterritorial planning and zoning jurisdiction south of SR 1708 and totaling over 340 acres will be considered by Greenville City Council Thursday at its regular monthly action meeting at 7:30 p.m. in Council Chambers of City Hall.

The first ETJ extension request involves a 70-acre tract owned by Geneva Jackson, located south of White Road, west of SR 1709, and east of the Wilton Evans property. The Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission recommended the request by a 5-1 vote.

The southernmost 50 acres of the tract is recommended to enter the ETJ zoned R15S (single family), the 18 acres on the northwest section of the tract is recommended R-6 (multifamily), and the northeastern two acres, situated on the corner of SR 1709 and SR 1708, is recommended to be zoned CN (neighborhood commercial).

The second ETJ request involves approximately 275 acres located east of SR 1725 and west of N.C. 43 (Bells Fork).

The Planning and Zoning Commission unanimously approved the request which involves four separate land uses.

The southernmost tract of the property, 70.2 acres where the Windsor Subdivision is located, is recommended to enter the ETJ zoned R-9S (single family), the northern 187.5 acres is recommended to enter RA-20 (residential-agricultural), a 14.1 acre tract along White Road is recommended to enter the ETJ zoned IU (unoffensive industry), and a 1.2 acre tract at the intersection of White Road and Bells Fork is recommended to enter the ETJ zoned CS (shopping center).

Council will also consider a request by Gladys P. Tice to rezone into two separate zoning classifications, 9.92 acres which was the former drive-in movie theater on N.C. 11 just north of Pitt Community College.

A section of land situated along SR 1147 and consisting of 1.8 acres has been requested to be rezoned from RA-20 to O&I. The remaining 8.1 acres has been requested to be rezoned from RA-20 to CS. The Planning and Zoning Commission unanimously recommended zoning as requested. A protest petition has been filed on the matter.

Other items to be addressed Thursday include a request by the Methodist Retirement Homes to close an unopened, 925-foot portion of Third Street, and consideration of appropriating approximately $11,000 for a supplemental air conditioning unit for the data processing room to alleviate additional heat problems created by equipment.

Recycling Project Deserves Support

The kick-off of Pitt County's pilot trash recycling project marks the start of an attempt to address the important issue of solid waste disposal.

The project should, however, be only one aspect of a comprehensive effort by the county to avert a future crisis.

The recycling project is significant since its effectiveness will determine how well alternatives to land-filling waste work. It is an opportunity to lay the groundwork for the time when landfilling will not be feasible as the county's primary waste solution. From this initial project, the county should be able to learn what about recycling will or won't work, and whether the expense makes it a satisfactory endeavor.

Solid waste disposal is a public responsibility increasing in volume and significance. The problems created by society's trash are becoming more visible, and solutions to these pressures are becoming increasingly complex. Concurrently, the impact of solid waste disposal methods on the environment and revenues will continue to escalate.

In Pitt County, that reality translates to a landfill that will reach capacity in five years and state regulations that, by 1993, will make landfilling trash economically impractical. Add to that a garbage output that has doubled in the past nine years — a trend which is likely to escalate in an increasingly urban community. These facts show the need for experimentation with alternative disposal methods like recycling.

Projects like recycling can also help stabilize the cost of trash disposal — which is also expected to boom as waste increases. Pitt's cost, currently at $840,000 annually, because of environmental regulations could go as high as $12.2 million a year if changes are not made. Recycling could help keep this cost to $2 million annually.

Clearly, the burgeoning of waste cannot be overlooked and cannot be feasibly handled by traditional means of disposal. Funding steps and disposal alternatives must be investigated now so a plan for waste can be implemented before a crisis arises. Recycling will become a necessary tool.

Pitt County is correct to experiment with recycling, but its approach to future waste disposal should encompass other alternatives like compaction and incineration also. In addition to developing these technologies, the county must be equally prepared to bear the financial responsibility for sound waste disposal measures.

The County Commission should continue to prioritize waste disposal and advocate feasible, progressive solutions. It should also prepare to meet the cost of these solutions.

The recycling project is an important beginning for addressing an inescapable public health issue. Its operation should be supported by the community and its impact evaluated thoroughly.

Neither Rain, Snow Nor Potholes ...

Potholes in the Post Office parking lot?

Complaints from 10th Street Post Office patrons brought a photographer and reporters to the lot. Indeed it is full of potholes.

Why aren't they repaired?

Well the postmaster said a report on the lot's condition was filed with the Postal Service Management Sectional Center in Raleigh.

Postal center spokesmen said the potholes are a problem and the 10th Street Post Office parking lot is a top priority for repairs.

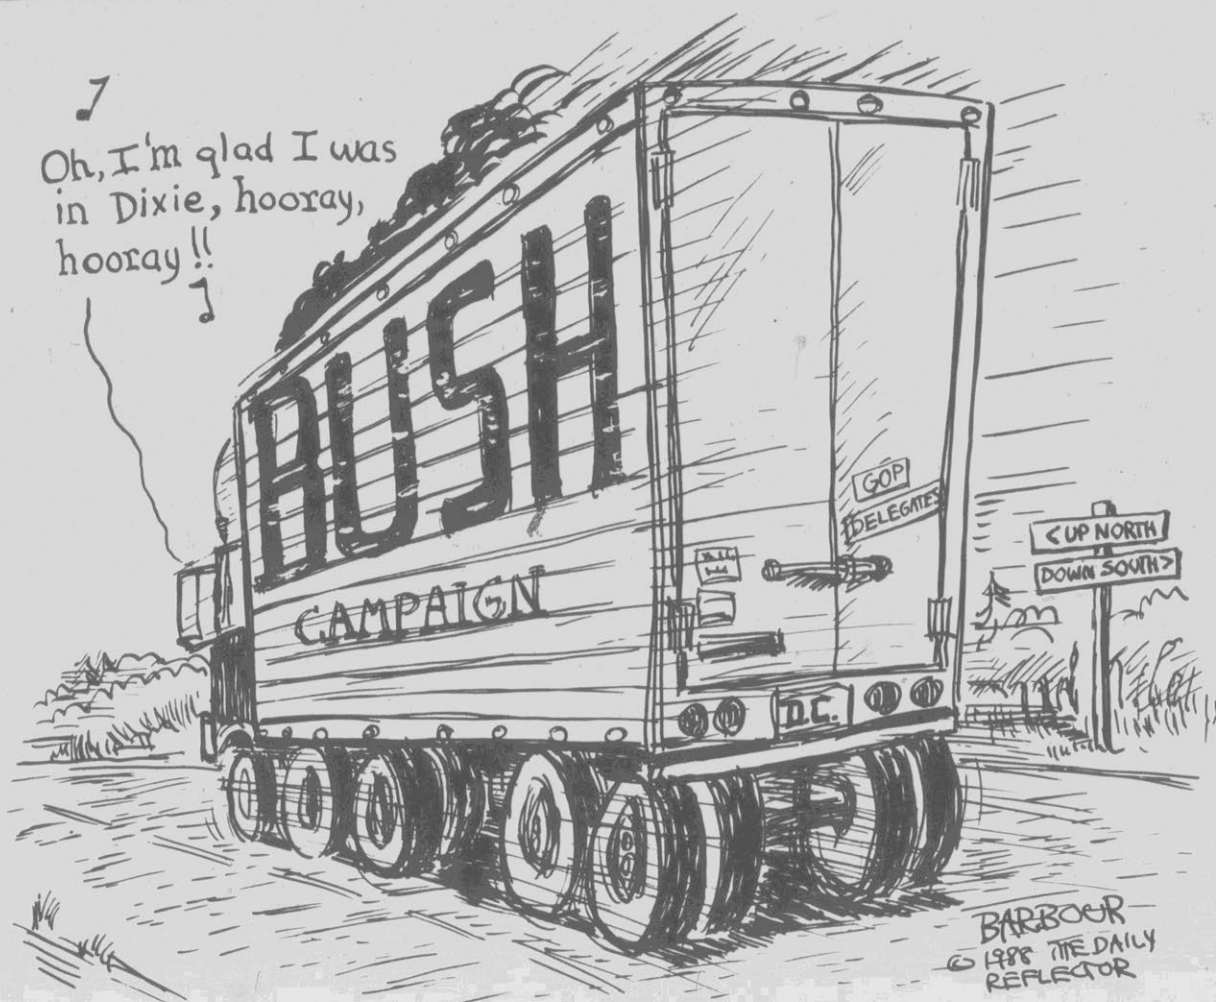

Repairs were scheduled for this month but congressional actions concerning postal financing meant that some repair expense projects had to be postponed.

Couldn't something as simple and as essential as parking lot repairs be handled by the local postmaster? That's a good question. It seems there would be some recognition that postal patrons who have to maneuver around potholes in the parking lot might decide that it isn't feasible to use the post office at all. That is particularly true when the patron these days can't be certain what afternoons the windows will be open. Service has been reduced there, too.

One shudders to think what would happen if the roof of the 10th Street station leaked and water dripped on all the mail. Or what if the back door fell off its hinges? Would officials wait around until approval to repair came from some far off office?

The Postal Service seems determined to alienate all the business that it can. If the service windows aren't closed then potholes should deter those brave enough to visit the post office.

There must be a more efficient way.

To the editor:

I agree with Patrick Nelson that forcing people to pay for other people's indulgences and indolence reeks of communism. Unfortunately, our welfare system robs some poor people of ambition simply because it's more financially profitable to receive aid than to work and be taxed into poverty.

Consider the fate of many young people working for minimum wages. If they're fortunate enough to be allowed to work 40 hours per week, they'll receive a grand total of $134 before the "snatching away" of taxes (as one poor soul called it). After the "snatching away," the sum dwindles to around a paltry $100. Most apartments around here rent for at least $200. That leaves $200 for buying food, gas, clothes, making utility and car payments, etc., etc. Who but the strongest wouldn't succumb to the temptation to stay home and eat sumptuously of food bought with Food Stamps?

Now consider the fate of others who make less than minimum wages, with only part-time hours, usually. I refer to waiters and waitresses who now must report to the IRS their earnings from tips. Here's a group we can help keep more of their hard-earned money. Just leave a brief note with your tip expressing your appreciation for their service and, most importantly, let them know that you are leaving a gift — not a payment for work done. Leave your name, address and phone number so this can be confirmed by their employer if necessary. This isn't illegal and should prove helpful to the employer, also, as it relieves him of the burden of added paperwork.

To the editor:

Recently a lot of attention has been focused on the problem of stray dogs in the city. No course of action on the part of the city has yet been agreed upon, but it is safe to assume that the action taken will be something along the line of stepping up efforts to capture these strays and have them euthanized at the animal shelter.

This stepping up of animal control measures will likely be an effective, although costly, short-term solution to the problem. It will not, however, solve the problem because it ignores the underlying cause, which is the overpopulation of dogs. Until this underlying problem is dealt with, the problem of strays will continue to reoccur.

Over 1500 dogs are put to death annually at the animal shelter in Greenville. This means that there are at least 1500 more dogs than there are homes for dogs in Greenville. People who irresponsibly adopt dogs and then decide they can't keep them find it too difficult to find homes for them. Since the option of euthanasia is unacceptable to many, the animals are left to fend for themselves on the streets.

What the city needs to do is to encourage people to spay and neuter their dogs. Literature could be given out to people who have dogs (This could be done when they pay the tax on their dogs.) describing the benefits of spaying and neutering and, perhaps more importantly, all the problems, both personal and societal, of not having their dogs spayed or neutered. Also, tax incentives could be offered for sterilized dogs — or better yet, taxes could be raised for non-sterilized dogs.

Stray dogs will continue to bother the citizens of Greenville and cost the city money until the problem of dog overpopulation is taken care of.

To the editor:

Recent news on tv evangelists helps draw a parallel from Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar." Caesar received the shouted warning "Beware The Ides of March" from a soothsayer in the crowd. On the Ides or the 15th of March, a celebration and games honoring the dictator were scheduled as well as his plotted assassination by jealous and ambitious associates in the Roman government. Caesar received this warning from the soothsayer; another warning from his pleading apprehensive wife, Calpurnia, who had seen him murdered in a dream. The soothsayer warned him a second time as he entered the Senate that morning and, Artemadorus handed him a written warning at the same time. Caesar's feelings of control of self, government, invulnerability and invincibility which prompted him to ignore the repeated warnings. This was his undoing. The unsuspecting Caesar received dagger thrusts from the hands of 20 trusted associates, most of whom had been convinced they were acting in the best interest of Rome and her people.

Is it possible that when we feel most secure, self-sufficient and self-satisfied, we could be most vulnerable? Can we be our own worst enemy? Will a personal code of ethics based on Biblical and religious teachings give us better guidance? Are we personally responsible for our own destiny? Can it be better achieved with God's help?

Do we contract AIDS from someone we don't know. Cancer of the lungs? Alcoholism? Drug addiction? We have received repeated warnings. Do we, as Caesar, choose to ignore them, to our own peril? Have we found the enemy? And is he us?

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons), teaches individual responsibility — to self, family, God, church, country, and others, with anxiously sought help from God. We should beware our own Ides of March!

Dole Succumbs, Endorsements Boost Gore

RALEIGH (AP) — Albert Gore Jr.'s "Southern strategy" propelled him to victory in North Carolina's presidential primary — with lots of help from well-placed Democratic friends.

Robert Dole's "secret weapon" — his wife, Salisbury native Elizabeth Dole — helped prevent George Bush from scoring a knockout punch as in most other Southern states. But the vice president's ties to President Reagan were too much for Dole to overcome in the state he hoped would save him from a Super Tuesday landslide.

North Carolina was crucial in the battle for the South and was must-win territory for Gore and Dole. Victories in North Carolina and five other states momentarily sustain Gore, although the Tennessee now must prove he can win outside Dixie. Dole's failure could make next week's Illinois primary a make-or-break contest for the Kansas senator.

"Super Tuesday pretty much guarantees a protracted struggle for the Democrats," said Merle Black, political science professor at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. None of the Democrats is showing the kind of strength the nominee would need to defeat Bush, according to Black.

Meanwhile, the regional primary — a Democratic invention — has made the Republican picture much clearer, Black says.

"The great Republican fear was that Pat Robertson would emerge as a strong, divisive force. That possibility has pretty well dissipated."

Gore seemed in trouble in North Carolina only two weeks ago, when polls showed him in fourth place and going nowhere. But things fell into place at the right time, fueling a late surge that produced a neck-and-neck contest between him and Jackson.

'Victories in North Carolina and five other states momentarily sustain Gore, although the Tennessee now must prove he can win outside Dixie. Dole's failure could make next week's Illinois primary a make-or-break contest for the Kansas senator.'

Gore's decision not to invest heavily in the early primaries enabled him to flood the North Carolina airwaves with commercials down the stretch, when a sizable number of voters apparently made up their minds.

"We felt the undecided voters shifting to Gore in the last week, as late as Saturday," said Tom Hendrickson, the Tennessee senator's state campaign manager.

Gore's fortunes improved in North Carolina and elsewhere after he fine-tuned his message late last month, sounding an increasingly populist tone with calls for "returning the White House to working men and women."

Also helpful were feverish, eleventh-hour campaigning by Hunt and Sanford and several well-timed visits by the candidate.

Jackson fell just short in North Carolina but will reap almost as many convention delegates as Gore. Jackson's black supporters came through and he apparently made limited inroads among liberal whites.

Bush repeatedly referred to the South as a "fire wall" that would cushion any blows he received in earlier contests. Dole conceded the vice president was stronger in the region but hoped for one or two victories and strong second-place finishes elsewhere.

Dole recruited an impressive slate of supporters, including his North Carolina co-chairman Rhoda Billings, a former state Supreme Court chief justice. After resigning as U.S. transportation secretary last September, Mrs. Dole opened the campaign's Southern headquarters in Charlotte and stumped for her husband across the region.

Strength For Today

In the discussion of moral problems, one often hears the statement that we should approach the solution of such problems only from the positive standpoint, not from the negative. Instead of stating flatly that certain things are wrong, we are urged to point out the advantages which accrue to goodness rather than evil.

There is some truth to this viewpoint, but if the approach to moral problems is to be realistic, it must contain both the negative and positive elements. Evil must be designated as evil in non uncertain terms, just as good must be designated as good. A continually negative approach ends in legalism, but a continually positive approach ends in sentimentality. The best analysis of moral problems involves both positive and negative elements.

"Most people in North Carolina are very, very pleased with the way Ronald Reagan has served as president," said Larry Cobb, a state senator and Bush's state chairman.

"Bush isn't the incumbent but as vice president he's able to campaign with a kind of claim on the job," Black said. "Dole had to give people a reason not to vote for (Bush) while at the same time seeming presidential himself. ... He ended up reinforcing his image as a mean campaigner."

Sound morality involves both law and love.

'Super Tuesday' Numbers Add Up For Bush And Dukakis

Suddenly, maneuver and momentum, strategic ploys and comeback vows count for little in the campaign for the Republican presidential nomination. It is a contest of plain numbers now, and they add up to Vice President George Bush.

It isn't over, but it isn't open, and won't be unless a weakened, shrinking field finds a way to stop Bush.

After his Super Tuesday primary election sweep, on the biggest election day of a political lifetime, Bush needs little more than one-third of the Republican national convention delegates yet to be chosen in order to gain a nominating majority.

To prevent it, Sen. Bob Dole would have to score a succession of shutouts and capture more than three-quarters of the delegates left to be won. Dole says he will storm back in the Illinois primary next week. But even if Dole does win there, Bush surely will add significantly to his delegate count.

And just now, the shutout belongs to Bush: 16 victories, only two of them even close, and both of those on the borders of Dole's Kansas home.

Among Democrats, Sen. Albert Gore Jr. has proven himself a strong regional candidate in the South, and now must prove that's not what he is. Gore waged his campaign on a southern strategy that defied conventional campaign guideposts, and made it work.

Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis won big, too, at home and away. Jesse Jackson was a winner as well.

The Democrats' big three divided 15 states evenly among them. Dukakis won his home state, and captured two of the biggest prizes in the south, Texas and Florida. That translated into more than 350 delegates for Dukakis, with Jackson and Gore close behind.

Rep. Richard Gephardt managed to win only in his Missouri home, losing in regional competition he once thought was structured to his advantage.

Gore bypassed the Iowa and New Hampshire contests after early forays showed his chances there were negligible. While Gephardt and Dukakis were splitting those contests, Gore concentrated his time and, more important, his money on his southern base.

It worked, and he won front-rank status for the next set of contests. Now he must compete in the industrial north, beginning next week in Illinois. That will be a difficult test.

The political terrain there is promising for the liberal Dukakis. Jackson's black vote is solid and his base is Chicago. Illinois Sen. Paul Simon returns to the campaign, at least for a week, as a favorite son. And while Gephardt is battered, he isn't finished.

Gore boasts of his caucus showings in some states outside the South as evidence that he's more than a regional figure. But he says realistically that he must prove himself in places like Illinois, Michigan and Ohio.

Add New York and Pennsylvania to that lineup, and the schedule seems made to order for Dukakis.

While the Massachusetts governor is the Democrat to beat, Bush's GOP rivals will have to become political magicians to find a way to stop him.

Bush's triumph came exactly one month after the Iowa caucuses in which he ran an embarrassing third, behind Dole and Pat Robertson, the former television evangelist. Bush then won the New Hampshire primary, and said that reports of his death had been greatly exaggerated.

Dole and Robertson were left to try to fend off the obituaries this time. Rep. Jack Kemp wasn't even trying that. Kemp, who once saw the South as a prime target for his conservative campaign, ran far behind the field, effectively ending his quest.

Walter R. Mears, veteran political reporter for The Associated Press, is now executive editor.

HOUSTON (AP) — Jesse Jackson described himself today as inspired by his Super Tuesday victories and spoke of "a kind of poetic justice" that Southern blacks who once picked cotton and couldn't vote had helped him to the top tier of Democratic presidential candidates.

On the day after his second-place finish in the Democratic Super Tuesday delegate count, Jackson was asked if he were discouraged by polls that suggest America is still not ready to elect a black as president. He replied, "It's a challenge to me," and he said he plans to be the Democratic nominee in November.

He was also asked, in an interview on NBC-TV, whether his vote totals said more about the changing nature of Jesse Jackson or changes in the United States.

"It's a combination because I'm a part of that changing United States and I want to lead it in a different direction," he said. "I'm in the thick of a race for my party's nomination. America has gotten much better."

"Our campaign is winning," Jackson told jubilant supporters Tuesday night. "Our message is winning. We have the poorest campaign, the richest message."

Today he was flying to Chicago, his home base, to begin campaigning for that state's March 15 election.

He said he will place increased emphasis during his campaign on the AIDS crisis and the need to interdict drugs coming into the United States. In recent days he has put the drug crisis at the top of his list of campaign issues, calling it the No. 1 threat to national security.

Jackson won big in Virginia and also won in the Deep South states of Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama.

He also came in second in the home states of his three main rivals, Massachusetts, Tennessee and Missouri, home of Rep. Richard Gephardt.

"We're right where we wanted to be, and now it's on to North Carolina and Illinois," said campaign manager Gerald Austin. "Tonight Jesse Jackson became a valid candidate for president, with an organization and with a message, and he just happens to be black."

Jackson has vigorously courted sectors of the white population in his campaign, principally the economically hard-pressed, the unemployed, students, gays and lesbians.

On Tuesday night, Jackson recalled the Selma, Ala., civil rights march 23 years ago that was violently turned back at the bridge into town by state troopers.

North Carolina Gives Big Boost To Bush, Narrow Edge To Gore

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — George Bush took advantage of his ties to President Reagan to score a decisive victory in North Carolina, while endorsements from key Democratic figures helped Albert Gore Jr. squeeze past Jesse Jackson.
"A Republican candidate has to carry the South," Jack Hawke, state GOP chairman, said as returns rolled in from the "Super Tuesday" presidential primary. "What George Bush has shown is that he is strong in the South. ... People are associating him with the president."
Former Gov. Jim Hunt, who with Sen. Terry Sanford endorsed Gore in January, said the Tennessee senator's victory showed voters

"trusted him on defense, believed he was committed to jobs and economic growth, and they trusted him to be fiscally responsible."
With 2,374 or 99 percent of 2,387 precincts reporting unofficial returns, Bush had 123,781 votes or 45 percent to 109,678 votes or 40 percent for Robert Dole. Pat Robertson had 26,583 votes or 10 percent and Jack Kemp 11,348 votes or 4 percent.
With 2,373 precincts reporting, Gore had 234,595 votes or 35 percent while Jackson had 222,494 votes or 33 percent. Michael Dukakis was a distant third with 136,459 votes or 20 percent.
Other candidates were far behind — Richard Gephardt with 37,854 votes or 6 percent, Gary Hart with 16,506 votes or 2 percent, and Paul Simon with 8,423 votes or 1 percent.

Eighty-two delegates to the Democratic national convention and 54 GOP convention delegates were up for grabs in the third-largest of 14 Southern and border states holding primaries or caucuses.
Tuesday's results appeared to award Bush with 29 delegates, Dole 25 and Robertson and Kemp none. Gore appeared to win 31 convention delegates, Jackson 31, Dukakis 17 and the others none.
Bush held off a late surge by Dole, who targeted North Carolina in his effort to avoid a Southern shutout. During an all-day swing across the state Saturday, Bush said he was worried because polls had indicated the contest was neck-and-neck.
Bush apparently benefited from his lopsided victory in South Carolina three days before Super Tuesday, said Merle Black, political science professor at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. It "might have created a perception among Republicans that the race had been decided," Black said.
The popularity of Dole's wife, former transportation secretary Elizabeth Dole, in her native state was not enough, observers said. "You have to remember that Mrs.

Dole is not on the ticket," said Joan Shaffer, co-chairman of Bush's Wake County organization.
Bush routed Dole in the East and won most of the mountain counties as well. Dole won in only 19 of 100 counties and did best in urban centers such as Mecklenburg County, where he received 13,742 votes to 12,149 for Bush, and traditional GOP strongholds in the Piedmont: Cabarrus, Caldwell, Catawba, Davidson and Davie counties.
Dole's best showing came in his wife's home county of Rowan, which gave the Kansas senator 4,503 votes to 1,762 for Bush.
Gore's narrow victory failed to establish him as a "consensus candidate" in a state where he campaigned extensively, Black said.
"Essentially you've got for the Democrats a group of three weak front-runners, none of whom has demonstrated a broad kind of appeal they would need to carry the South in the general election," Black said.
Noting that Gore and Dukakis carried six Southern states apiece and Jackson won in four, Black said: "It shows there are many Souths — no solid South. It's too diverse."

Robeson Approves Merger Of Schools

By The Associated Press
While the presidential primaries got the lion's share of attention, voters across the state also decided local issues ranging from school system mergers to liquor-by-the-drink and bond issues.
Robeson County voters narrowly approved a referendum Tuesday to merge the county's five public school systems, with unofficial returns showing the measure passed by 267 votes with 22,205 votes cast.
The unofficial tally was 11,236 for and 10,969 against, with about 45 percent of the county's 49,458 voters casting ballots.
"It really didn't surprise me," said Joy Johnson, president of Concerned Citizens for Better Government. "The pros have been saying all along that it would be real close, and that if we could get 40 percent or more turnout, we would win."
In addition to a county school system, city school systems operate in Lumberton, St. Pauls, Red Springs and Fairmont.
A 15-member interim school board will begin work April 1, and merger of the five systems is targeted for July 1, 1989.
Voter opposition was strongest among voters living in city school districts, while the county's rural voters favored merger.
Purnell Swett, Robeson County schools superintendent, was pleased with the result, which he said was "long overdue."
"I think the children of Robeson County were the winners," Swett said.
"A few years down the road" people will realize that the five system setup was "antiquated" and should have been replaced long ago, Swett said. A merged school system will give all of the county's school children an equal educational opportunity, he said.
Those who campaigned for the merger said that the five separate systems — denied Robeson's black and Indian students equal educational opportunities. Opponents said a consolidated system would lead to a lower overall standard of education, large tax increases and forced busing.

Beyond the school merger, black and Indian leaders said the referendum Tuesday would determine whether the two groups were willing to form a coalition that could affect the outcome of county primaries and elections this year.

Robeson County is tri-racial, its population of 106,000 divided almost with 37 percent white, 27 percent Indian and 26 percent black. Although the five school systems are not strictly segregated, Indians make up 60 percent of the school populations in the county and whites make up 50 percent in the Lumberton system.

Child Dies

HIGH POINT (AP) — A 9-month-old girl who was severely burned in hot water last month has died and police are awaiting autopsy results to determine whether the scalding caused her death, officials said.
Setaria Commander, the baby, died at 3 p.m. Monday at the N.C. Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem. The girl had been hospitalized since Feb. 9, when her family had sought help after the infant suffered burns over 20 percent of her body from being lowered into hot bath water.
The incident happened at the apartment where the baby lived with her mother, Sheila McInnis, 19. On Feb. 10, police charged Ms. McInnis' boyfriend, Tony Randolph "Smoky" Rubin, with felonious child abuse in connection with the incident. Rubin, 19, is free on $10,000 bond.

postponed in Durham County Superior Court until the week of March 21 so that probation officers can prepare a report on the couple. They could receive up to 40 years in prison on each count.
Evidence presented by Assistant District Attorney Michael Nifong indicated the Blakes solicited an undercover police officer, whom they believed was a member of the Ku Klux Klan, to kill four people they thought had been involved in the deaths of their two sons.
One of the sons, Crawford James Blake Jr., was shot and killed as he entered his Hillsborough mobile home on Sept. 5, 1985. The other, Larry Riley, was found shot to death in Harnett County in 1981.

Medical Bid

JEFFERSON, N.C. (AP) — Ashe County commissioners set aside $50,000 Monday to help lure an obstetrician to the area.
The money would be channeled through the Appalachian Regional Health Department, said its director Dr. Carl Tuttle. Ashe Memorial Hospital asked for the money to offer to a prospective obstetrician as a supplement for the doctor's income or for liability insurance rates.
Ashe will be without an obstetrician in May when Dr. John G. Allen retires.

Budget

RALEIGH (AP) — The state officials who are looking for a place to dispose of radioactive waste want to spend more than $7.2 million in 1988-89, according to a preliminary budget adopted Tuesday.
The budget includes $6 million to do detailed studies on three potential sites for a radioactive waste landfill or warehouse.
The cost of finding those three sites will come out of the group's current budget.
The N.C. Low-Level Radioactive Waste Management Authority, which was created by the N.C. General Assembly last summer, was given a budget of $400,000 for its first year.

Teague Trial

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The government has rested its case in the embezzlement trial of former Kure Beach Postmaster Faye Teague.
Mrs. Teague, who was fired in August after an audit revealed a $12,000 shortage at the tiny post office, is charged in a four-count federal indictment with embezzlement and making false entries in government records.
Government witnesses testified Mrs. Teague told postal inspectors during the audit Aug. 26 she frequently borrowed $10 to $20 for lunch but didn't always repay the money.
"She said sometimes she repaid the money," said Charles Wehner, one of two postal inspectors who talked with Mrs. Teague after the audit. "She said she never stole any money, just borrowed it. She admitted that she probably borrowed the $12,000 and didn't return it."

Nurses Call For Radical Changes In Health Care To Curtail Losses

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. (AP) — Radical changes are needed to overhaul a health care system that is losing more hospital nurses at a time when only the sickest patients are being hospitalized, state nursing leaders have been told.

"Where is the passion to begin to fix this problem?" Katherine Vestal, vice president of nursing at Northwestern Memorial Hospital in Chicago, asked 150 nursing administrators, educators, and public health officials attending a two-day conference sponsored by the school of nursing of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

"You have to be on fire before you suffer burnout," Ms. Vestal said Tuesday. "We must take great risks with nursing. You must get out on the edge. You must get out on a limb."

A recent American Hospital Association survey showed that 13.6 percent of the hospital registered nurse jobs across the country are vacant, the Greensboro News & Record reported. The National League of Nursing reported that between 1983 and 1986, enrollments in undergraduate nursing programs dropped 12 percent, and several major universities already have dropped undergraduate nursing schools.

Tuesday's proposals for recruiting, keeping and enhancing the image of nurses included:

- Taxing every nurse in the nation $5 to build a fund for nursing school scholarships and low-interest loans.
- Making hospital accreditation dependent upon having a nurse sit on the hospital's board of trustees.
- Seeing that every hospital decision-making committee or board has one nurse for every doctor on it.
- Encouraging hospitals to provide 24-hour day care for employees' children.
- Aiming nurse recruiting efforts at military bases, factory closings and — for long-range purposes — fifth-grade students.
- Developing videotapes and television programming touting the rewards and responsibilities of nursing.

- Lobbying state lawmakers to subsidize nursing education programs.
- Setting up nurse recruiting offices similar to those used by the armed forces.
- Implementing a nine-month work year similar to that used by teachers.
- Offering back-to-school sabbaticals as a reward.

— Restructuring the education process to allow work-study programs.

Hurdis Griffith, a registered nurse and an associate professor at George Mason University, warned that many hospital administrators are too focused on short-term solutions — recruiting nurses from outside the United States or creating a new class of pseudo-nursing assistant — that could jeopardize patient care.

State Says Food Shopping Cheaper

RALEIGH (AP) — The state Department of Human Resources says it can buy food cheaper on the open market than it can from state farms and a state law requiring the agency to use food from state farms ought to be changed.

John Parker of Colerain, chairman of the State Farm Operations Commission, Tuesday appointed a committee to study the impact of the DHR proposal and said afterward that he favored a change in the law when the General Assembly convenes in June.

"Looking at the bottom line right now, it looks to me like it would be better to sell (state farm products) on the open market and turn the money over to the Department of Human Resources and let them buy on the open market," Parker said.

Allen Gambill, DHR's representative on the commission, said DHR could have saved about $291,438 to $373,311 last year on food if it had been permitted to shop around.

State law requires DHR to use products from farms managed by the Department of Agriculture and says the farms must be managed to meet "the institutional needs of the state."

Products from the farms are fed to patients at state mental hospitals and to people at some other state facilities.

DHR Secretary David T. Flaherty, in a letter given to commission members, said: "As noted in a recent newspaper article, we are, in fact, grinding steaks into hamburger."

He referred to a Jan. 31 article in which The News and Observer of Raleigh and The Raleigh Times reported that DHR must buy whole carcasses, including cuts of steaks that patients cannot eat. Those steaks are ground into hamburger.

The state farms have lost money nine of the last 10 years, but are valuable to N.C. State University for teaching and research. In an interview after the meeting, Parker said the commission, which sets policy for thousands of acres of farmland around the state, probably would take a position on the DHR proposal before the legislature convenes in June.

"With the figures that have been presented to us it looks feasible to do this," Parker said. "It makes sense to me, what I'm seeing right now."

Deaf Students Gaining Support In Protest Of Hearing President

By RICHARD KEIL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Gallaudet University officials are standing behind their appointment of a hearing woman as president of the nation's only liberal arts college for the deaf despite growing support for the student protest against the choice.

The latest pressure is coming from members of Congress, which provides three-quarters of Gallaudet's $76 million annual budget. And the protest over the selection of Elisabeth Ann Zinser could lead two faculty groups who are meeting today to suspend classes.

Support is also coming from graduates and representatives of national groups for the deaf.

"The alumni sympathize with and support the students," Gerald Bursstein, president of the school's alumni organization, said at a campus rally Tuesday. "We — unlike hearing members on the board — know fully what it is like to be deaf."

Gallaudet board of trustees chairwoman Jane Bassett Spilman said on Tuesday, however, that the decision to hire Zinser will stand.

Spilman said the selection of Dr. Zinser, an administrator at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, "was a vote cast in the best interests of the university."

Dr. Zinser, who prevailed by a 10-4 margin over two deaf finalists, "was selected for one and only one reason — she was the best person qualified," Spilman said.

When students learned that Dr. Zinser, who doesn't know sign language, would be their new president, they marched on the Capitol, forced the closing of the campus on Monday and boycotted classes on Tuesday. Effigies of both Dr. Zinser and Spilman were hung and burned during student protests on Tuesday.

The students claim that by picking Dr. Zinser, the board of trustees has shown it has no understanding of the importance deaf students place on having a deaf leader.

"I'm behind the students 100 percent," said Prof. Herbert Maples, chairman of Gallaudet's math department, who is deaf. "Something has to be done about this situation."

Psychology professor Neil Reynolds, who chairs two faculty groups, said he has witnessed a growth in support of the student's demands for a deaf leader.

"There has been in the past week an escalation of overt support from faculty members for a deaf president," said Reynolds, who chairs the school's 21-member faculty senate and a group that includes the entire faculty. "This is definitely a change."

Thirty percent of Gallaudet's faculty and 22 percent of the school's 1,300-member support staff are deaf, according to university publicist Barbara Dennis.

Rep. David Bonior, D-Mich., and a member of the Gallaudet board, said he feared the controversy over Dr. Zinser could hurt future federal funding of the university.

Bonior, who favored hiring a hearing-impaired president, said Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., and House Majority Whip Tony Coelho, D-Calif., strongly sympathize with the students.

Bonior, who is participating in private meetings to resolve the dispute, said he intends to impress on Dr. Zinser the problems she faces if she takes the job.

"Pressure is mounting on Capitol Hill," acknowledged Spilman.

Reynolds said the two groups he chairs would meet today to discuss the controversy surrounding Dr. Zinser's selection, and could vote to suspend classes.

Money Goes Up For Grabs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — At least $1.7 million fell into the street from an armored truck, and when a crowd gathered up the cash at least three people made off with $500,000, police said.

Two unidentified men and a woman disappeared Tuesday afternoon with cash-stuffed money bags scattered from a crate that fell out of the moving Loomis Armored Inc. truck in the city's Mission District.

"(They) decided they were going to take advantage of what happened, threw the bags into their cars and left," said police officer Harry Soulette.

Soulette said he was flagged down by the Loomis truck driver, who was unaware of the loss until a motorist honked his horn and told him the door of the truck was ajar, Soulette said.

Two blocks back, a crowd gathered around the crate, which postal worker Daniel Higginbotham moved to the sidewalk. Some people helped him gather the bags, recovering about $1.2 million, police said. Some didn't.

"There was a gentleman from the Post Office grabbing bags of money out of people's hands and putting them back in the (crate)," Soulette said. "At least three people looked at him and told him what he could do with his suggestion." Others may have taken a few bags and fled on foot, police said.

It's not a case of finders keepers, Soulette said. If caught, the money-grubbers face grand theft charges.

Firefighters Upset Over Plan To Require Commercial Licenses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's firefighters are incensed by a federal law that could require them to obtain commercial licenses if they want to continue to drive their equipment.

The Commercial Vehicle Safety Act of 1986, which is being phased in starting this year, will require commercial licenses of anyone who operates a vehicle that weighs 26,000 pounds or more, carries 15 or more people or transports hazardous materials.

But associations representing many of the nation's 225,000 paid and 900,000 volunteer firefighters say the law was meant to foster safety in the commercial trucking business, not impose costly new rules on their members.

Tim Butters, a spokesman for the International Association of Fire Chiefs, said Tuesday, "The burden on the fire service is going to be very significant when this law goes through because of the road test that they're going to have to go through, the (written) examination, and I think there's going to be a lot of cost factors."

Stanley Hamilton of the Federal Highway Administration said the licensing regulations won't be ready until July 15, and they will be phased in through 1992. The law also will affect farmers who drive heavy equipment, and Hamilton said his agency has been inundated with protest mail from farm communities.

Under the law, the secretary of transportation may issue waivers "with respect to class of persons or class of vehicles," but Hamilton said requests for exemptions would not be considered until the regulations are written.

Rep. Sherwood Boehlert, R-N.Y., wrote to Transportation Secretary James Burnley last week to ask that firefighters be exempted from the commercial license requirement.

people to spend about $400 to get a commercial license ... when there's no evidence whatsoever that firefighters are creating any safety problems on our nation's highways."

RESOLUTION NO. 1066
RESOLUTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GREENVILLE DECLARING ITS INTENT TO CLOSE A PORTION OF EAST THIRD STREET

WHEREAS, the City Council has received a petition that a portion of Third Street be closed; and

WHEREAS, the City Council intends to close the portion of East Third Street in accordance with the provisions of G.S. 160A-299;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CITY COUNCIL that it is the intent of the City Council to close the following described portion of East Third Street a distance of 925 feet, said portion being more particularly described as follows:

TRACT 1
A portion of East Third Street
LOCATION: Lying and being in the City of Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina. Bounded on the north and south by the Methodist Retirement Homes, Inc.; on the east by Hickory Street; and on the west by proposed Brownlea Drive.

Beginning at a point found at the southwest corner of the right-of-way intersection of Hickory Street and Third Street; thence running with the southern right-of-way line of Third Street N 87°35'28" W - 621.31 feet to the proposed eastern right-of-way line of Brownlea Drive; thence running with the eastern right-of-way line of Brownlea Drive along a curve deflecting to the left said curve having a radius of 746.20 feet, running with said curve a chord of N 02°29'14" W - 50.18 feet to a point in the northern right-of-way line of Third Street; thence with the northern right-of-way line of Third Street S 87°35'28" E - 642.28 feet to a point in the western right-of-way line of Hickory Street; thence with the western right-of-way line of Hickory Street S 20°52'20" W - 52.71 feet to the point of beginning and containing 0.7248 ± acres.

A portion of East Third Street
LOCATION: Lying and being in the City of Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina. Bounded on the north and south by the Methodist Retirement Homes, Inc.; on the east by Brownlea Drive; and on the west by a portion of Third Street to remain dedicated.

BEGINNING at a point in the northern right-of-way line of Third Street, said point being the southwest corner of The Methodist Retirement Homes, Inc. Property; thence from said point of beginning, and with the northern right-of-way line of Third Street S 87°35'28" E - 277.99 feet to a point found in the western right-of-way line of proposed Brownlea Drive; thence with the right-of-way line of Brownlea Drive along a curve deflecting to the right, said curve having a radius of 686.20 feet, and running with said curve a chord of S 02°55'01" E - 50.21 feet to a point on the southern right-of-way line of Third Street; thence with the southern right-of-way line of Third Street N 87°35'28" W - 282.65 feet to a point; thence perpendicular to the right-of-way line of Third Street N 02°24'32" E - 50.00 feet to the point of beginning and containing 0.3221 ± acres.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a public hearing will be held in the Council Chamber, Municipal Building, Greenville, North Carolina, on March 10, 1988 at 7:30 p.m., to consider the advisability of closing the aforesaid portion of East Third Street. At such public hearing, all objections and suggestions will be duly considered.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a copy of this resolution be published once a week for four (4) successive weeks in The Daily Reflector; that a copy of this resolution be sent by certified mail to the owners of property adjoining the aforesaid portion of East Third Street as shown on the County tax records; and that a copy of this resolution be prominently posted in at least two (2) places along the aforesaid portion of East Third Street.

Duly adopted this 11th day of February, 1988.

Contras Pull Out Of Talks

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Daniel Ortega accused the White House of being behind the Contras' pullout from cease-fire talks that had been set for today, saying the rebels and their sponsors "fear negotiations."

He said President Reagan should be held responsible for continued bloodshed caused by the Contras, whom he branded as U.S. "mercenaries," and called for rescheduling the talks, which were to have been the first in Nicaragua and without a mediator.

Ortega's comments came after the Contras on Tuesday pulled out of the talks that were to be held at a post bordering Costa Rica. The rebels said preliminary meetings should first work out details.

He suggested the talks be held during the third week of March and have an open agenda. His leftist Sandinista government had made preparations for the talks to be held at Sapoa, 90 miles south of Managua.

Noriega Troops Grow Active As Street Protests Continue

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Riot police fired birdshot and tear gas to disperse demonstrators who blocked streets with hundreds of trash fires to protest the country's military rule and its tottering economy.

The demonstrations Tuesday were the largest since President Eric Arturo Delvalle was deposed Feb. 26, just hours after he tried to fire Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega.

Noriega, chief of Panama's 15,000-member Defense Forces, is considered the real power behind the country's civilian government.

Reporters saw at least eight protesters captured, beaten with rubber truncheons and fists and driven away in military vehicles.

A photographer for the Mexico City newspaper Excelsior was slightly injured by birdshot fired by police.

The National Civic Crusade, which has organized demonstrations calling for Noriega's ouster since last June, said at least 23 people were detained. By late Tuesday, all but two had been released.

"It was another black day for Panama," said Aurelio Barria, president of the Panama Chamber of Commerce, Industry and Agriculture. "When the people of Panama go into the streets, they get repressed," he told reporters Tuesday night.

"We are in the hands of armed terrorists," Barria added, referring to the Noriega regime.

Barria is a director of the Crusade, a broad coalition of business, professional, labor, student and political organizations opposed to Noriega.

Ex-Chancellor Kiesinger Dies

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Former Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger, who overcame the taint of a Nazi past to head West Germany for three years in the 1960s, died today at age 83.

Kiesinger had been a member of the Nazi party from 1933 to 1945, but was never charged with war crimes or atrocities. The Christian Democratic politician died in the Tuebingen University hospital of heart failure, his office in Bonn said in a statement released to the news media.

Kiesinger, serving as West Germany's third chancellor, grouped the conservative Christian Democrats and their Bavarian counterparts with the leftist-leaning Social Democrats to form what was called the "Grand Coalition."

Robinson Activities

W.H. Robinson School's triad enrichment students have been involved with creative writing and kindergarten students made a booklet for their collection of stories.

First-graders studied fairy tales, while second-graders studied folk tales and third-graders studied poetry. First-, second- and third-graders wrote books and were honored at an author's tea in the media center where the books were displayed.

Three Robinson students were honored in Winston-Salem for their writings in a N.C. International Reading Association book. Cited were Lea Ware, kindergarten student in Ellen Avery's class; Cindy Dalton, second-grader in Kathy Harrell's class, and Emily Privette, second-grader in Susan Moore's class.

Contest Winner

Meleah Barnhill, an eighth-grader at Bethel Elementary School, was named a District 2A winner in the recent National Wildlife Week essay contest sponsored for eighth-graders by Telephone Pioneers of America and the N.C. Wildlife Federation.

A district representative of the NCWF will present the district award certificate and a $100 U.S. Savings Bond to Miss Barnhill. Debbie Avery, the sponsoring teacher, will receive a certificate of appreciation.

Bethel Elementary will receive subscriptions to two wildlife magazines for use in the school library.

Christian Singles

The Greenville Christian Singles will meet March 26 at 7 p.m. in Fosdicks Seafood Restaurant in Greenville.

For more information call 355-2940 after 5 p.m.

School Registration

Bethel Elementary School will register preschool children for kindergarten for the 1988-89 school year March 18 from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. To be eligible to register, the child must be 5 years old on or before Oct. 16.

Parents should notify the school of their intentions to register a child by Thursday at 825-3801 or 825-2961 or visit the school. Preschool registration forms will be sent to parents for the March 18 registration.

Parents will need to present a copy of the child's birth certificate, Social Security number and guardianship papers if the child does not live with the parents. Immunization records also need to be presented.

Bible Study

The Overcoming Faith Church of Christ at 820 East Ave. in Ayden will have Bible study Monday nights at 7 p.m.

A service will be held Friday night at 7:30 p.m.

A guest speaker will lead a service Sunday at 5 p.m. at the church. Dinner will be at 4 p.m.

Education Board

The Pitt County Board of Education will meet Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the third floor conference room of the Pitt County office building.

The board will discuss attendance lines and the long-range capital outlay plan and their implications.

Booster Club Project

A barbecue pork dinner, sponsored by the D.H. Conley Viking Booster Club, will be held Friday from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the A.G. Cox School cafeteria. Orders of 10 or more will be delivered.

Hart-Yoakam Vows Said On Saturday

MRS. HART

Barbara Ann Yoakam and Ronald Gaylord Hart, both of Greenville, were united in marriage at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in Grace Church, Greenville. The Rev. Ed Walker conducted the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Lawrence V. Yoakam of Centerburg, Ohio, and Vance Hart Jr. of Plymouth and Gail Hart of Scottsdale, Ariz.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Donald L. Yoakam. Her sister, Penny J. Yoakam of Greenville, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Debra Privott of Greenville, Bonnie Yoakam of Akron, Ohio, sister-in-law of the bride, Teresa Snelling of Johnstown, Ohio, and Donna Gilbird of Elizabeth City. Kelly Yoakam of Akron, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

The best man was father of the bridegroom. Ushers were Michael Hart of Granite Falls, and Larry Yoakam of Mount Vernon, Ohio, brothers of the bride, Lloyd Jordan Jr. of Greenville and Gary Norris of Raleigh. Christopher Yoakam of Akron, Ohio, and Danny Hamilton of Centerburg, Ohio, nephews of the bride, were junior ushers.

John and Susan Forlines were vocalists and she was also organist. Ken Kearney, Stacy Pugh and Todd Harris played trumpets.

The bride wore a Venise lace and satin gown styled with a lace-trimmed Queen Anne neckline, fitted bodice and basque waistline. The full skirt was designed with tiers of chantilly-type lace ruffles which extended to the chapel train. Her cap was covered with lace and the two-tiered veil was accented with lace. She carries a bouquet of lavender, pink and yellow flowers.

The honor attendant wore a pleated skirt with a raised waistline in royal crepe satin material. The gown had shirred sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. Rainbow colors of blue, green, yellow and lavender were worn by the bridal attendants. The flower girl wore a white crepe back satin gown with royal blue trim. Each bridesmaid carried a crystal candlestick and votive cup with a white candle and rainbow ribbon.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

After a cruise to the Bahamas, the couple will live in Greenville.

The bride is a graduate of Centerburg High School in Ohio and the bridegroom is a graduate of Plymouth High School. He attended East Carolina University. She is employed by Procter and Gamble; he, by ECU.

She Caters To The Stars

By KATHY PARTIN

Spartanburg Herald-Journal
 FORK SHOALS, S.C. (AP) — Nancy Spencer wraps her arms around one of two plump geese strolling around her Fork Shoals home and strokes its belly with her fingers.

"Have you ever petted one?" she asks. "They are s-o-o-o soft!"

With ducks in the back yard and several dozen chickens scattered everywhere else, the long-haired, blue-jean clad woman could pass for a contented country girl. But only for a couple of weeks at a time, her father will tell you.

Then she's more than ready to resume her adventures with birds of quite a different feather, trading in the symphony of roaring rivers and clucking chicks for the music of rock and roll.

Ms. Spencer, 24, works for singer John Cougar Mellencamp and the rock group Bon Jovi. Her title is wardrobe, but the job involves much more than shopping, mending and daily trips to the laundry.

She's the one who buys the toothpaste and deodorant. She's the one who makes sure caterers get the food orders right.

She hangs the curtains and arranges the furniture so that sterile stadium locker rooms are converted into cozy dressing rooms. She passes around the giant sized bottle of vitamin C tablets that the health-conscious musicians gulp down.

She makes sure there are plenty of snacks, cigarettes and drinks backstage, and supplies water, towels and even different guitars as they are needed on stage.

She keeps a sharp eye on the performers during the show to make sure everyone is feeling well. If an excited singer hyperventilates — it happens — she hands over the oxygen tank.

"Basically, you're a mother," she said, warming herself by the kerosene stove in her family's Greenville County country store. "I have nine children at the moment."

The story of how she landed her current job sounds like the plot to a grade B movie. Five years ago, Ms. Spencer was a waitress in a Myrtle Beach bar. Her only claim to fame was a best dressed title from Woodmont High School.

One Fourth of July, Mellencamp and his band walked in. The boss told her to work their table.

Ms. Spencer was a Mellencamp fan, but she kept her cool. She answered their questions about how to find the best restaurants in town, and told them how to gain admittance to the area's private clubs. She used her connection (a brother-in-law) with the local military base to get them beer and wine on Sunday, and even ended up helping Mellencamp pick out T-shirts for his children.

The next year, they came back and she proved to be just as helpful. It wasn't long after that she was invited to be part of the band's 1985-86 Scarecrow tour.

She almost called it quits a week into the job.

"I didn't know anything about the road. I was green," she said. "I was tired and I didn't want it."

Then Mellencamp's bodyguard threatened her. "He said if I left, he'd find me. I decided if there was one person who thought I could do it, I'd stick around."

She learned the job well enough that other music groups came knocking.

First was Bon Jovi, which records on the same record label as Mellencamp. "Can you be in Tucson in two days?" she was asked.

She was there, but only after her family helped her search through music magazines to find out who they were. "They had just starting headlining," she explained. "The more we kept going, the bigger they got."

The latest to call was Sting, but she turned him down. "I want to finish this tour with John," she said.

Living on the road nine months of the year with 25 to 35 people is like being in the military, Ms. Spencer said. "You're not a civilian any more. You're part of something else."

She often works 22-hour days, has one day off a week when she usually just sleeps in, "then it's get up and do it all over again."

She loves the travel, however. She recently returned from Europe, and before she comes home again at Easter she will have taken in Canada to Texas.

Ms. Spencer had never been backstage at a concert until she started working wardrobe. So a recent night out at a Kiss concert in Greenville proved to be a relaxing diversion as she watched others worked at her normally frantic pace.

"It was nice to watch someone else sweating a load," she said.

Protection Can Help A Family

DEAR ABBY: This concerns your reply to "Worried Grandma," whose teen-aged unwed daughter had left her baby alone. You were right to suggest that the child should be removed from the young mother's care. It would be a kindness for all concerned.

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

Abby, please tell your readers that there is help for parents who are having difficulty caring for their children. Child protective service agencies exist in every state, but, unfortunately, many who could use our help do not call us out of fear that their children will be taken away. Neighbors and relatives, as well, often allow a child to continue to suffer or to remain at risk for the same reason.

In most cases, children are neglected or abused because of a problem in the home that is correctable, such as a young, inexperienced parent who shows poor judgment, or a family under financial stress with no friends or relatives nearby to help. Punishing people does not make them better parents. We look for the source of the problem and provide a wide variety of services to correct it, including counseling, parenting education, respite day care and many others. Only in drastic cases do we immediately seek custody of children, and even then we try to reunite the family as soon as the child's safety can be assured.

Early intervention on our part can keep many homes intact, but we depend on the community to contact us. — MELINDA PAYNE, PROTECTIVE SERVICE WORKER, W. VA. DEPT. OF HUMAN SERVICES

DEAR MS. PAYNE: Your helpful letter explaining what the child protective agencies do — and do not do — will make it easier for many more people who need your services to contact you. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ABBY: Recently you published a letter from a woman who said that while she was contemporary in her thinking and happily married, she was concerned about the fact that sex therapists recommend fantasizing to add spice to a long marriage suffering from creeping boredom — and yet, "somewhere in the Bible it says that thinking lustful thoughts is as great a sin as actually committing the sin." She signed herself, "Afraid to Fantasize."

Abby, the point that some religions try to make about sexuality in marriage is not that it is fulfilled by perfect people who are lustless. Rather, the point is that two fallible people with enough mutual forgiveness and humor can discover enough grace from God to be lovingly sexual with each other for a lifetime. Certainly, fantasy as well as lust will be present, and, hopefully, be handled creatively for the oneness of the couple. Instead of demanding an instant answer from Matthew 5, I would encourage the lady to talk with her ordained minister about the spirit and the letter of Scriptures' moral injunction, and talk with her sex therapist as well as a marriage counselor. And she might even talk to her husband. — THE REV. WILLIAM E. SWING, BISHOP, EPISCOPAL DIOCESE OF CALIF.

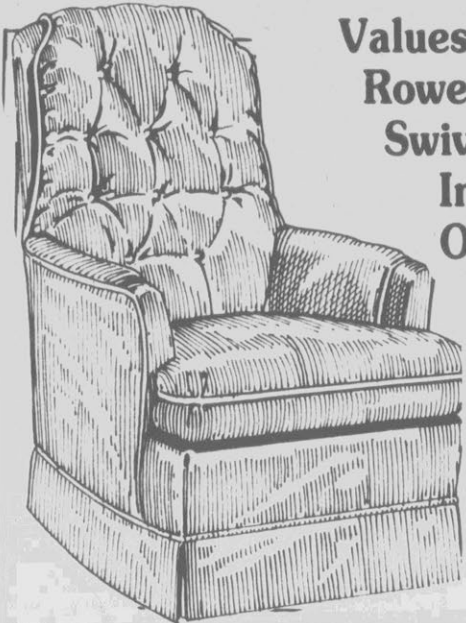

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, how to prevent unwanted pregnancy and how to handle the pain of growing up. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send your name and address, clearly printed, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($1 in Canada) to: Dear Abby's Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 417, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054 (postage and handling included).

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned in an indecisive showing today, hesitating after Tuesday's rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks slipped 2.49 to 2,078.58 in the first half hour of trading.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about 3 to 2 in the overall tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, with 684 up, 447 down and 497 unchanged.

Volume on the Big Board came to 36.65 million shares as of 10 a.m. on Wall Street.

Confidence has continued to spread lately on Wall Street that the economy remains healthy nearly five months after Black Monday on Oct. 19.

Japanese stocks were mostly higher following an up day in the Tokyo market. Matsushita Electrical climbed 4 1/4 to 200 and Honda Motor gained 2 1/2 to 129 5/8.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .07 to 151.69. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 1.25 at 279.29.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 24.70 to 2,081.07, a new closing high since the October crash.

Gaining issues outnumbered losers by about 2 to 1 on the NYSE, with 1,072 up, 535 down and 404 unchanged. Volume on the Big Board totaled 237.68 million shares, against 152.98 million in the previous session.

cities and the coast is another plus, said Dixon. "We think there is a particular niche available for Greenville and Pitt County."

Nichols said the governor's conference should boost efforts to make Greenville the "hospitality center of eastern North Carolina."

"I believe that this opportunity is so good for us," said Nichols. "We are becoming the administrative and entertainment center for this region."

All hotels in Greenville will be involved in the governor's conference, according to Paul Komanecy, chairman of the chamber's Convention and Visitors Committee. The headquarters will be at the Hilton and the Sheraton and there will be a gathering Sunday night at the Holiday Inn.

Mike Gunn, senior vice president of American Airlines, and Wally Schirra, astronaut and representative for the Burroughs Wellcome Co., will be guest speakers. Gov. Jim Martin will attend a meeting at the conference Monday night.

Outstanding Senior

The science education department at East Carolina University has named Kathryn J. McBurney as its outstanding senior for 1988.

The award is presented each spring based on academic excellence, leadership and dedication to the profession.

Miss McBurney was also named the recipient of the Gravely Foundation Scholarship by the science education department faculty. The scholarship covers tuition and fees for one semester.

The daughter of Henry and Susan McBurney of Hampton, Va., she is student teaching at Tarboro High School and plans to graduate in May with a bachelor's degree in science education with a concentration in biology.

Miss McBurney is a member of Gamma Beta Phi and Phi Kappa Phi honor societies. She was selected for membership in Outstanding College Students of America and received the Scholastic All-American Collegiate Award.

Super Tuesday was designed by Southern Democrats hoping for a more conservative candidate that they believed could avoid the disasters which have befallen the Democrats in four of the last five presidential elections.

But the massive schedule — 20 Democratic and 17 Republican contests — appeared to offer an advantage to the best financed candidates or, in the case of Jackson, the one who had the most solid base in the region.

While Jackson was far outspent by his rivals, he received more than 90 percent of the black vote in the South, according to exit polls, which said he won as much as 10 percent of the white vote — more than twice as much as his 1984 showing among whites.

McGraw Drives In Six As Pirates Complete Sweep Over Fairfield By 23-6

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina baseball coach was afraid that Fairfield University would find its bats in the third game of the series between the two teams Tuesday afternoon.

They did, but it didn't make a lot of difference.

Led by a six runs batted in performance by Jay McGraw and four more knocked in by Dom DiGirolamo, the Pirates scored in double digits for the fourth straight game and romped to a 23-6 win over the staggering Stags.

McGraw went four for five at the plate, including a trio of doubles while DiGirolamo had a triple. Overall, the Pirates banged out 18 hits, including nine doubles and the three-bagger.

Fairfield collected 10 hits and twice led during the game but could not hold off the Pirates.

"These were three wins we needed," Overton said of the series sweep by the Pirates. The wins gave them eight in a row and boosted their record to 9-2 on the season. Fairfield slips to 0-3.

"The wins seemed to get us on the right track, but we've got some very tough games coming up. Coastal Carolina (which the Pirates play on the road today) is very strong at home and Virginia Commonwealth (one of two teams the Pirates face on Friday at Harrington Field) is expecting its best team ever.

"We had the chance to see what our pitchers could do (in the series). I was pleased with the performance of Tim Langdon." Langdon went the final five and a third innings, allowing four hits, no runs while walking two and fanning three.

"We're getting a little bit better with the bats as a team," Overton added.

Fairfield jumped on top early, scoring three times in the top of the first. Dan Buchanan walked as did Matt McLaughlin. Joe Salimine followed with a hit that loaded the bases. Mike Svab followed with a drive into left, bringing all three runners in, but he was thrown out trying to advance to third.

The Pirates came back with five runs in the second to take the lead. Steve Godin walked and John Adams doubled to right. David Ritchie also walked, loading the bases. Walks to Tommy Boswell and DiGirolamo brought in two runs and another to Chris Cauble scored a third. McGraw followed that up with a two-run double to give the Pirates a 5-3 lead.

Fairfield closed the gap to 5-4 with a run in the third. McLaughlin walked as did Chris Cook. Svab then singled in McLaughlin.

The Stags got two more in the fourth to regain the lead, 6-5. Buchanan reached on a two-out error and McLaughlin singled to right. Buchanan, who had taken second on his error, tried to come from there home on the play but Godin's throw was right on target and in time but DiGirolamo was knocked loose from the ball as Buchanan slid safely in.

McLaughlin moved to second on the play and scored on a hit by Cook.

But the Stags got no more — and the Pirates did.

East Carolina pushed over six in the fourth to take an 11-6 lead. DiGirolamo opened by getting hit by a pitch. John Thomas walked and both runners were sacrificed up. McGraw's sacrifice fly brought in courtesy runner Tommy Yarborough with the tying run. Calvin Brown then followed with a single, scoring Thomas. Godin reached on an error and Adams was hit by a pitch, loading the bases. Ritchie then hit a three-run double to left center, and he scored on a hit by Boswell.

East Carolina added five more in the sixth. With one away, Adams singled and Ritchie doubled. Boswell walked and a sacrifice fly by DiGirolamo brought in Adams. Walks to Thomas and Cauble brought in Ritchie and a double by McGraw accounted for the final three.

ECU scored three in the seventh, two of them on DiGirolamo's triple, with the other scoring on a double by Thomas.

The final four came in the eighth. McGraw opened with a double, scoring on Yarborough's single. Two more scored later on a double by Eric Gupton and the final run crossed on a bases-loaded walk to Thomas.

Adams, Thomas, Ritchie and Riggs each had two hits to go along with McGraw's four.

Lady Pirates Open Tourney Play Against George Mason

East Carolina's Lady Pirates open play in the Colonial Athletic Association Women's Basketball Tournament Thursday at American University in Washington, D.C.

East Carolina will go up against George Mason at 5 p.m. in the opening game of the first round. Mason is the third seed in the tournament while the Lady Pirates are in the unaccustomed position of being sixth.

Number four American will face number five UNC-Wilmington in the 7 p.m. game, while number two Richmond takes on number seven William & Mary at 9 p.m.

James Madison, the league's regular season champion, has a first round bye.

The semifinals will be played at 7 and 9 p.m. on Friday with the championship game at 7 p.m. on Saturday.

The tournament winner receives an automatic berth in the NCAA women's tournament.

East Carolina takes an 8-19 overall and 2-10 Colonial record into the tournament while George Mason is 19-8, 7-5.

East Carolina lost its last eight games in a row as it posted the worst record in its history as far as the number of losses is concerned.

East Carolina, however, leads the series between the two teams, 10-4, but Mason has won the last three meetings, including both of them this year.

The Lady Patriots took a 61-53 win in the first game and a 68-66 victory in the second.

The Pirates are expected to start 6-0 senior forward Alma Bethea, 5-10 junior forward Chris O'Connor, 6-2 junior center Gretta O'Neal Savage, 5-8 junior guard Pam Williams and 5-3 sophomore guard Irish Hamilton. Bethea is the leading scorer for the Pirates at 13.3 points a game and the top rebounder at 8.7. Savage is the only other Pirate in double figures at 10.6. She is the second leading rebounder at 5.6 per game.

George Mason is led by 5-11 junior guard Cindy Baruch, averaging 16.9 points per game. She is the only Patriot in double figures.

The other starters include 5-9 freshman forward Antonette Battle, 6-1 freshman forward Jerolyn Weathersby, 6-0 senior Beverly McLaughlin, and 5-6 senior guard Susie Walton.

McLaughlin is scoring a 9.8 per game, followed by Battle at 7.6 and Weathersby at 7.1. Walton has a 2.4 average.

Jags Win Sectional Opener

FARMVILLE — After a disappointing loss to North Pitt in the Eastern Plains Conference basketball tournament last Wednesday, Farmville coach Mike Terrell wasn't quite sure what to expect from his team when they matched up against Williamston in the first round of the district tournament Tuesday.

But the Jaguars came through strong for him, rallying past the Tigers late in the second quarter and early in the third period to roll to a 84-63 win in the opening round of the state high school 2-A district basketball tournament.

"I didn't know what to expect," Terrell said. "We didn't play bad (against North Pitt), but it's hard to erase a disappointing loss out of your mind."

Williamston took its only lead of the game midway through the second quarter, going ahead 24-20 at one point, but Farmville outscored the Tigers 13-4 from there to take a 33-28 lead into halftime. The Jaguars then scored the first six points of the third quarter to take firm control of the game with a 39-28 lead.

"It may have been at the end of the second quarter," Terrell said. "George (Burnette) was wide open and made a shot. Henry (Reid) made a shot. I think our defense picked up a lot in the second half. I think we got a lot of easy baskets (off of it)."

"That was the turning point. (Then) We were able to take control and get six points (to open the second half). It looked like they just ran out of steam."

After falling behind 24-20, the Jaguars came alive in the final five minutes of the first half.

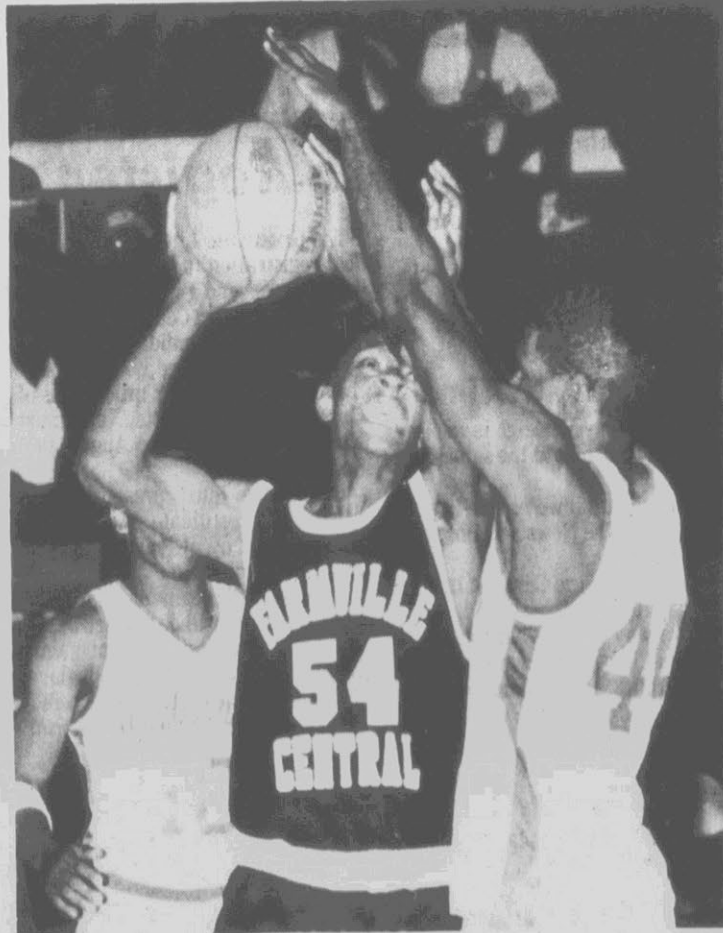

Tyrone Joyner started things off with a basket inside to cut the lead to 24-22, but Felix Purvis countered for Williamston to make it 26-22.

Jarvis Lang, who led the Jaguars with 25 points, then started a 11-2 scoring run with a basket inside to make it 36-34. Williamston then turned it over and Burnette hit a wide-open 3-pointer at the other end to make it 37-26.

Williamston turned the ball over again and Farmville again turned it into two points as Alexander Daniels scored on a baseline drive.

Michael York scored on a jumper for Williamston with 36 seconds left in the second quarter to pull the Tigers back within one at 29-28, but Lang hit two free throws with 26 seconds to go and then Henry Reid came off the bench to score on a strong inside move just before the buzzer to make it 33-28.

Farmville then carried its success into the third quarter as Daniels opened the second half with a short jumper to make it 35-28. Guy Spruill missed at the other end for the Tigers. Daniels then rebounded for the Jaguars, who quickly moved downcourt to score on a dunk by Reggie Barrett for a 37-28 lead.

Lang then added two more free throws for a 39-28 advantage and Farmville was firmly in control from there.

"It seems like all year, the third quarter has been our weakest," said Williamston coach Ronnie Horton. "I told them at halftime that the last two minutes of the second quarter, that was when they got back up. I told them if we could hold down our turnovers, it was going to be a good ballgame."

"We got the shots, we just couldn't put them in. They got long rebounds and just took off with them."

The Tigers never really regrouped after that. The closest they pulled was 39-33 on a short jumper by Vincent Speller with 5:52 to go in the third quarter, but Farmville then scored six straight points for a 46-36 lead.

The Jaguars then got their transition game rolling in the final period as Williamston tried unsuccessfully to get back into the game via the 3-point basket.

Shawn Reid pulled Williamston within 68-56 on a 3-point basket with 3:49 remaining and the Tigers then had a chance to narrow the gap to 10 but Daniels came up with a steal and fed Joyner for a breakaway layup.

Williamston then turned the ball over again and Joyner raced past the pack for a dunk to make it 72-56.

York missed a jumper at the other end and Lang scored on a junk for a 74-56 lead. After another turnover by Williamston, Joyner scored on another fast-break dunk and Farmville went up 76-56 and never looked back.

"This is the best transition game we've played in a long time," Terrell said. "We like to run under control. I think they made mistakes on offense and we were just wide open. We had a lot of two on ones, three on ones. We were able to take advantage."

"It's good to win a ballgame where you feel like you dominated. This is the first time in a long time that we've gone out, dominated and scored a lot of points."

Farmville moves to 20-4 and plays EPC conference foe Ayden-Grifton in the second round of the regionals tonight at Williamston. The Tigers close out their season at 9-14.

Spruill led Williamston with 22 points, including six 3-pointers. Fred Huff added 10 while Ricky Griffin had 13.

Lady Jags Defeated

PLYMOUTH — Plymouth High School used a strong second quarter to gain a lead over Farmville Central and gained a 49-42 win in the 2-A girls' basketball sectional tournament Tuesday night.

Plymouth led by only 12-11 after the first eight minutes of the game. But the Valkyries outscored the Lady Jaguars, 14-8, in the second period to push out to a 26-19 halftime lead.

Plymouth added a point to the lead in the third period, 13-12, and held a 39-31 lead as the final quarter got underway. In that, Farmville managed an 11-10 margin, but it wasn't enough.

Paula Owens led Plymouth with 14 while Joann Ransome added 13. Brenda Reid led Farmville with 19 while Kim Harrison had 12.

Farmville closes out the season at 13-13. Plymouth will face North Pitt tonight in the second round at Williamston High School.

Surging Tigers Set For ACC Tournament

RALEIGH (AP) — The Clemson Tigers have spent the season near the basement of the Atlantic Coast Conference, but a pair of victories over Top 20 teams last week has given them a surge of confidence going into the league tournament.

"I guess we're playing as well as we've played throughout the year," Clemson Coach Cliff Ellis said Tuesday during a teleconference of ACC coaches. "Anytime you win a big game ... it prepares you to feel better about yourself."

After being drubbed by No. 9 North Carolina 88-52, the Tigers last week defeated No. 8 Duke 79-77 and No. 13 Georgia Tech 97-94 in double overtime. Clemson finished the regular season at 14-13 overall and 4-10 in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"They are one of the hottest teams in the tournament," said N.C. State Coach Jim Valvano, whose team drew the seventh-seeded Tigers in the opening round of the tournament Friday. "They feel pretty good about their basketball team coming into the tournament. We're going to have to play well to beat Clemson for a third time."

Ellis said his team, which has only seven players remaining on scholarship, now has some much-needed confidence.

"It (the two victories) makes our players feel better about themselves ... feeling that they can do some things," Ellis said. "This league can beat you down, but our guys showed a lot of character in the way they came back."

After the two victories, Ellis said team practices have been spirited. No so a few weeks ago when Ellis went to a reward system to find his starting lineup.

"We've been at the brink of winning," Ellis said. "There's been some guys giving it and some guys not. It's unfair to treat equals unequal. We started to go to a praise and reward system. If your name wasn't called you just weren't getting the job done."

Ellis said junior forward Jerry Pryor and freshman forward Dale Davis led the Tigers' newfound roar.

"We rewarded them with less team duties," Ellis said of Pryor and Davis. "The other guys saw they were kind of out in left field."

"The bottom line is winning though," Ellis said.

The Wolfpack, 23-6 and 10-4 in the ACC, won't be easy prey for the Tigers, Ellis said.

"They have an arsenal from every direction," Ellis said. "They can score inside and outside. When you have two guys on first-team all-conference ... it puts it into perspective. We'll have to play extremely well. They haven't lost to many lately."

Kerr Doesn't Want Any Fan Retaliation

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona guard Steve Kerr has asked fans not to retaliate against Arizona State's basketball team for vicious taunts aimed at the Wildcat star by a few ASU supporters before a game last week.

"I would like all U of A fans to realize that it would be a shame to subject the ASU team to any type retaliatory harassment," Kerr said Tuesday in an open letter to Arizona fans. ASU comes to town this week for the Pacific-10 Conference post-season tournament.

Before the Feb. 27 Arizona-Arizona State game at Tempe, a few ASU backers taunted Kerr about his late father, Malcolm Kerr, the president of American University in Beirut, Lebanon, who was assassinated by Arab terrorists in 1984.

Kerr responded to the harassment by scoring 20 points in the first half, including 18 on 3-point shots, then called his detractors "the scum of the earth."

The incident brought Arizona State a wave of negative national publicity and also prompted letters of apology from ASU President J. Russell Nelson and Athletic Director Charles Harris.

Kerr wrote that he has had "a lot of time to think about the ordeal."

"The select few students who participated in the sick act are far outnumbered by the ASU fans, students and administrators who have since written letters of apology. I realize those ignorant few in no way represent Arizona State University."

Puleo Not Fighting For A Spot This Time

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — For the first time in his professional baseball career, Charlie Puleo is not fighting for a roster spot in spring training. But the Atlanta Braves' right-hander is battling for a starting job.

Puleo, a 33-year-old journeyman, earned the 10th and last spot on the pitching staff during the spring last year and wound up with a 6-8 record and 4.23 earned run average, starting 16 games and being used as a long reliever 19 other times.

In Monday night's 7-0 exhibition victory over the New York Yankees, he pitched three perfect innings and struck out three.

Puleo's work has virtually assured him a place on the staff, but he refuses to take it for granted.

"In this game you never know," said Puleo, although he admitted "this is a better situation than last year."

"I've been around long enough not to take anything for granted. When a team struggles, no one has a sure spot," he said. "I think I showed them that I can pitch and I'd like to be a starter and earn a spot in the rotation."

Puleo pitched previously in the majors with the New York Mets and Cincinnati Reds before injuring a knee in 1983.

Bulls Owner Says Raleigh Wasting Its Time

RALEIGH (AP) — The owner of the Durham Bulls says Raleigh is wasting its time pursuing a Triple A minor league baseball franchise at the same time he is trying to land a team in Durham.

"It would make no sense for Raleigh to build a ballpark if we're able to get a Triple A facility here," Bulls' owner Miles Wolff told The News and Observer of Raleigh.

Wolff Monday rejected a meeting with the president of the Carolina League and Raleigh officials who want baseball in the capital city.

The proposed meeting was aimed at finding a way to get Wolff to grant a waiver to the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues' 35-mile rule. The rule says that no team may relocate within 35 miles of another team without the permission of that team's owner.

Pierre Pleads Innocent To Charges

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — A former Virginia Tech basketball player pleaded innocent Tuesday to charges of filing false documents to obtain federal low-income housing while he was a student.

U.S. District Judge James Turk allowed Russell Pierre, 22, to go free on $15,000 personal recognizance bond pending trial. No trial date was set.

Although federal prosecutors had wanted Pierre arrested and jailed last month when he failed to show up for an earlier scheduled arraignment, Assistant U.S. Attorney Tom King told Turk he had no problem with allowing Pierre free without having to put up any cash.

"He's never been in any criminal trouble as far as we know," King told Turk. "I think he will" show up for court when he's supposed to.

Pierre is living with his father in New Babylon, N.Y. They arrived in Roanoke by bus for the arraignment.

His father said Pierre didn't make it to Roanoke last month when his arraignment originally was scheduled because he didn't have money to make a quick trip and because he was unfamiliar with court procedures.

Pierre, a 6-foot-8 forward, has given up on a basketball career, his father said, "unless he gets called by the Knicks or something."

Conley Eases Past Bertie

HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley's Vikings, winners of the regular season championship in the Coastal 3-A Conference, slipped past Bertie, 61-54, of the Tar Roanoke conference, in the first round of the state 3-A playoffs Tuesday night. The Vikings saw their lead shrink to only a point in the third period before a couple of baskets by Phil Medlin allowed them to pull away for good.

Conley jumped off to an early lead in the game, outscoring the Falcons, 16-10, in the opening quarter of competition. Bertie, however, outthit the Vikings, 20-19, in the second period and trimmed the Conley lead back to 35-30 at intermission. Conley got the point back during the third period, 11-10, and carried a 46-40 lead into the final quarter. But Bertie scored the first five points of the last period and cut the Conley lead to only 46-45 before Medlin dumped in a couple of baskets to open up a 50-45 lead and Bertie got no closer after that.

Jonathan Bonner led Conley's scoring with 23 points while Medlin added 19. Jimmy Thompson led Bertie with 16 while Pedro Cherry had 13.

Conley, now 19-7, and the defending state champion, will entertain East Wake, a 52-51 winner over Southern Nash, in the second round. That game will be played on Thursday at Conley at 8:30 p.m.

Dixon Leads AG Chargers To Victory Over Edenton

EDENTON — Ayden-Grifton, led by Leon Dixon, used a big first-quarter to jump on top of Edenton Holmes and roll to a 84-61 win over Edenton Holmes in the first round of the state high school basketball district 2-A tournament Tuesday.

The Chargers, who were minus guards Eric Blount and Darryl Moye due to injuries, went to a bigger lineup than usual and outscored Edenton 20-8 in the first quarter. Dixon had six points, reserve Eric Nobles five and guard Ronnell Peterson had four during the first quarter.

Dixon, who led the Chargers with 31 points, followed that up with 10 points in the second quarter as Ayden-Grifton took a 41-25 lead into the lockerroom at halftime.

Edenton never really challenged from there as the Chargers moved to 17-7 on the year.

Peterson added 19 points while Aaron Harper had 13.

Robert Rankins led Edenton with 20 points while Deronne and Derrick Felton added 10 apiece. Ayden-Grifton returns to action tonight against Farmville Central at 8 p.m. at Williamston High School in the second round of the district tournament.

Chocowinity Bests West Rams Down

GATESVILLE — Curtis Myers keyed a third-quarter run by Chocowinity that carried the Tribe to a 67-58 win over Northampton West in the opening round of the State 1-A District High School basketball tournament Tuesday night.

Chocowinity trailed by as many as nine points in the second quarter before rallying to narrow the gap to one at the half at 26-25.

The Tribe then outscored Northampton West 23-15 over the third quarter, keyed by 11 points from Myers, including two 3-pointers, as Chocowinity took a 48-41 lead into the final period.

Myers led the Tribe, 19-5, with 23 points while Marti Abdullah added 16.

Kelvin Boone led Northampton West with 15 points.

Rams Down Foe, 62-52

SNOW HILL — Greene Central, the tournament champion of the Eastern Plains Conference, ran past Northampton East of the Northeastern Conference, 62-52, in 2-A Sectional basketball play Tuesday night.

The two teams — both the Rams — finished the first period deadlocked at 12-12. But in the second quarter, the Greene Central Rams pulled away, outscoring Northampton, 19-12. That gave Greene Central a 31-24 halftime lead.

In the third period, the Northampton Rams made a run, outscoring Greene Central, 16-12. That trimmed it back to 43-40. But in the final quarter, Greene Central outscored Northampton, 19-12, to wrap it up.

Northampton never got closer than three after the first period.

Tyrone Hardy led Greene Central with 16 points while Anthony Jones had 11 and Shay Beaman had 10. Northampton East was paced by Quinton Newsome with 18, Jeff Ramsey with 13 and Terry Williams with 11.

Greene Central, now 15-11, will face Ahoskie on Thursday at 8 p.m. at Williamston High School.

Strawberry Rips His Teammates

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets, the team baseball loves to hate, are being ripped again, but this time by teammate Darryl Strawberry.

Strawberry blasted manager Davey Johnson for last season's second-place finish in the NL East, accused teammates Gary Carter and Keith Hernandez of quitting in the middle of the pennant race with St. Louis, and derided the abilities of teammates Wally Backman and Lenny Dykstra.

In an interview in the April issue of Esquire magazine, Strawberry also implied that the Mets would be better off if Whitey Herzog of St. Louis was their manager.

Strawberry has been the center of turmoil in the New York clubhouse for more than a year. He was fined a total of $1,250 for lateness last season and was fined $100 last week for being late for a workout and missing the team photo.

He also was late for a game at Wrigley Field early last June when he overslept and was fined $250 and benched by Johnson.

Strawberry went on to lead the team with 39 home runs and 104 RBI in 1987.

"Our veterans didn't bring the leadership they should have," Strawberry said. "Kid (Carter) for one. He just quit. I'm speaking like it was, his attitude was 'Oh well, I'm having a bad year, guess I'll feel bad.' Now I expect Kid to come back and have a great year this season, but that doesn't help us now."

After Strawberry was fined last season for showing up late, Carter accused him of keeping late hours.

"I get up in the morning because I go to bed at night," Carter said.

Strawberry had his own reasons as to why Hernandez struggled last season.

"And Mex (Hernandez), I know he was going through a divorce and all, but who the hell knows where his head was half the time last season?" Strawberry said. "Sometimes I wanted to say to those guys, 'C'mon Mex. C'mon Kid. ... We're in a pennant race.'"

Strawberry blamed Johnson for many of the club's problems.

"Nobody could figure out some of the stuff he was doing. We never could figure out why this guy was playing, why this pitcher was coming out, why that pitcher was staying in.

We just used to watch Davey and shake our heads. He'd talk about strategy and double switches and we wouldn't know what the hell he was talking about ..."

"I'll tell you something else about Davey," Strawberry added. "He seems to have one set of rules for me and Ronnie (Darling) and another for the rest of the guys. No matter what Ronnie and I do, Davey always seems to be looking to bury us. But on the other hand, Mex and Doc (Gooden) can do no wrong."

"I miss a game because I'm sick as a dog, and it's headlines all over the place. Keith does the same thing in September and Davey's attitude is like, 'I hope Keith drinks plenty of fluids and gets plenty of rest.'"

"Man, I wonder all the time how many games this team would win if Whitey were managing it."

Backman, who ripped Strawberry for missing two June games against St. Louis with a virus, was next in line for criticism.

"Nobody I know gets sick 25 times a year," Backman said last year and Strawberry responded by saying then he would, "Bust that little redneck."

"I get ticked off when guys criticize me when they don't have any right," Strawberry said in the Esquire interview. "Like Wally. Here's a guy having a lousy season getting on my case. I mean, what's that all about?"

"I could have stooped to his level but I didn't. I could've said Wally's not doing (expletive) for this team this season, so who cares what he thinks. I could have said a kid (Keith Miller) came out of the minors and played harder and better than Wally. But I didn't say that either."

"Wally spends too much time trying to act like Keith (Hernandez). But he doesn't have the game to back it up."

After being criticized by Backman last season Strawberry said: "I feel like I want to get out of here. I'm not asking to be traded because I know they won't trade me, but I'm leaving when my contract is up. I don't want to play with a bunch of backstabbers."

Strawberry's five-year, $5.4 million contract expires at the end of the 1989 season and the Mets have the option on retaining him in 1990 for $1.8 million.

"Lenny's the same way. He wants to be Keith, too," Strawberry said of Dykstra. Neither of them understand they can't wear his uniform. They're not on his level. Keith is the only one who gets to be Keith."

"Lenny was one of the guys on this team playing for himself last season instead of for the team. As long as he got his hits, he was happy, you know, strutting around."

Dykstra saw an advance copy of the article Tuesday and confronted Strawberry, according to the New York Daily News.

"You buried me," Dykstra told him. "I can't believe it."

Carter defended himself from the critique.

"I had a bad year and at times I just didn't feel good," Carter said. "But I didn't quit. In fact, I never worked as hard as I did last year."

Washington Falls To Cougars, 64-61

PINETOPS — Washington missed two 3-point basket attempts in the final seconds and SouthWest Edgecombe escaped with a 64-61 win in the first round of the 3-A boys' basketball sectional tournament Tuesday night.

The Pam Pack led much of the game but SouthWest rallied in the final quarter to pull out the victory.

The Pack took a 19-14 lead in the opening period of the game and extended that in the second period. The Pack outscored SouthWest, 11-7, in the second quarter and took a 30-21 lead into the dressing rooms.

Washington again outscored the Cougars, 16-15, in the third period, and held a 46-36 edge going into the final period. But SouthWest, led by Kim Pippen, rallied. Pippen hit four 3-point baskets as the third quarter ended and the four began to spark the Cougars and get them going. SouthWest charged past the Pack and two 3-point attempts in the final eight seconds, in the attempt to tie the game, failed.

Pippen led SouthWest with 16 points while Bobby Wooten and David Johnson each had 14. Washington was led by Ryan Dixon and Nico Hines, each with 23.

The Pam Pack closes out the season with a 15-9 record.

South Lenoir Tops Roanoke

ROBERSONVILLE — South Lenoir edged past Roanoke, 80-73, in double overtime, Tuesday in the first-round of the state high school district 2-A girls basketball tournament.

Sonya King led the way for South Lenoir with 26 points while Joanna Grant added 19 and Michelle Hardison and Kelly Thompson had 11 and 10 points, respectively.

The scored was tied 62-62 at the end of regulation and at 70-70 at the end of the first overtime.

But South Lenoir outscored the Lady Redskins, 10-3, over the final extra period to take the win. Hardison scored four points over the final frame to key the win.

South Lenoir takes on C.B. Aycock Thursday at Williamston at 6 p.m.

Roanoke, which closes out the year at 17-6, was led by 24 points by Joyce Outlaw. Vicky Teele added 19 while Michelle Hoggard added 12 and Robbie Harris had 10.

Holley Leads Pack To Win

WASHINGTON — Tonya Holley, playing her best game of the year, led Washington High School's girls' basketball team to a 63-42 win over Bertie in the first round of the 3-A sectional tournament Tuesday night.

Holley hit on 12 of 15 shots from the floor and finished with 29 points while pulling 20 rebounds off the boards.

Washington jumped off early and powered out to a 20-4 lead in the opening quarter and was never headed. The Lady Pam Pack allowed Bertie a 19-12 rally in the second quarter, but was still up 32-23 at the half.

In the third period, Washington inched back out to a 45-35 lead, then blitzed Bertie, 18-7, in the final quarter.

The 63 point total matched the Washington high for the season — which ironically — came against Bertie in a regular season game.

Bertie's scoring was led by Georgia Coefield with 21 and Banda Wilson with 10.

Washington, now 20-4, travels to Burlington Cummings tonight where it will face Southern Durham, a 58-51 winner over Southern Alamance.

NFL Might Be Changing Thinking On Hardship

NEW YORK (AP) — The NFL, the only professional sports league that does not draft underclassmen with college eligibility remaining, might be ready to change that policy.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle has asked the league's rule-making committee to look into regulations that could allow underclassmen to enter the college player draft.

The NFL has been under increasing pressure to take underclassmen, particularly in the last two years, when players lost their eligibility after they had signed with agents.

One of those players, Cris Carter of Ohio State, was declared ineligible for his final year and, after a dispute that seemed headed to court, was selected by Philadelphia in the fourth round of a special supplemental draft. When the league announced the draft would take place, it was roundly denounced by college officials.

its shy of receiving his degree and was on target to graduate in December.

If the league makes him eligible, he is expected to be a high first-round choice.

"I expect Ironhead's name will come up in Phoenix," Browne said.

Among the other items on the agenda will be the proposed move of the St. Louis Cardinals to Phoenix; the financial troubles of the Sullivan family, owners of the New England Patriots; and the continuation of instant replay, which was barely extended last year for a second season.

Both Rozelle and Tex Schramm of the Dallas Cowboys, chairman of the Competition Committee, strongly favor its continuation, but there is considerable sentiment against it.

Browne also said the committee is studying a proposal that would allow a team that recovers a fumble or intercepts a pass on an extra point or blocks the kick to return it for a point of its own. That is, if a bungled extra-point attempt is returned by the defensive team for what would normally be a touchdown, it will get one point, leaving open the possibility that for the first time, a team could score only one point in a game.

Herzog Doesn't Want Clark's House

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Whitey Herzog was sorry to see Jack Clark go. But not sorry enough to buy his ex-first baseman's house.

According to the St. Louis Cardinals manager, Clark asked him if he would like to make an offer on his estate in suburban St. Louis soon after spurning the National League champions and signing a free-agent deal with the New York Yankees in January.

"You know what he does?" Herzog said from the Cardinals' spring training complex. "Calls me up after he signs with the Yankees, and wants me to buy his home in St. Louis. Here he is, my best player, and he leaves me, he breaks my heart, and now he wants me to buy his house."

"First of all, I couldn't afford his house," Herzog added. "And with Jack gone, I will not be able to afford the one I've already got."

Clark's query, while badly timed, wasn't totally out of line from a business standpoint. Herzog, who lives in Independence, Mo., near Kansas City, is in the market for a second home, and is contemplating building in south St. Louis County.

An avid fisherman, Herzog has joked that his ideal home would have one bedroom and five garages.

"I need a place," said Herzog, where I can put everything away at the same time."

In any case, Clark's house, which carried an estimated $500,000 price tag, didn't fit the bill.

Redden Is Dead

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — A deputy coroner says a heart attack "most likely" killed Don Redden, the former Louisiana State University basketball star who died at the age of 24.

"The most likely thing is a cardiac-related death. Either he died in his sleep or got up and collapsed," said Chuck Smith, deputy coroner of East Baton Rouge Parish.

Authorities said Redden was taken to the hospital from his girlfriend's apartment by ambulance after she found he wasn't breathing Tuesday morning. Redden was dead on arrival at 7:57 a.m. hospital officials said.

Peaking Bradley Wins MVC Tourney

By The Associated Press
When you lead the nation in scoring, you can feel invincible about your game. Hersey Hawkins does. When your team is peaking heading into the NCAA tournament, you can feel just as unbeatable. Hersey Hawkins does.

Hawkins, Bradley's sharpshooter, scored 29 points Tuesday night as the 12th-ranked Braves beat archrival Illinois State 83-59. That gave Bradley the Missouri Valley tournament championship after winning the regular season title. The Braves, 26-4, also avenged their only home loss this season, to the Redbirds in the opening conference game.

"We were determined to win this game, against our biggest rival," Hawkins said. "We dedicated the game to the seniors on the team. We wanted it bad."

They got it with a 9-0 start and a relentless trapping defense. "It was a special night," Hawkins said. "We knew we had to win the game to get a better seed in the NAAs. This was our game and we weren't going to lose it."

In the only other conference final Tuesday, it was Lehigh over Towson State 84-78 for the East Coast crown. Top-ranked Temple advanced to the final of the Atlantic 10 tournament with a 79-67 decision over St. Joseph's.

Tournament Finals

Bradley received a scare and lost some of its early momentum when Hawkins collided with a defender and crumpled on the floor at 16:45. But he soon limped off the court and returned to action after a short breather.

Hawkins says the Braves won't be allowing any breathers as they go after the national title.

"When the NAAs come around, we'll be ready," he said. "We feel we can play with anyone in the country. We want to let teams worry about us. They'll probably focus on stopping me and then we can really hurt them. We have a lot of other weapons."

"It doesn't matter where we go or who we play."

At Towson, Md., Lehigh made the NCAA festival for the second time in three years. The last time the Engineers went, they were 12-18 but won the ECC playoffs.

This time, they are 21-9 and more comfortable with their standing.

"It's a much better feeling going into the tournament with 21 wins," said Mike Polaha, who scored 83 points in three games and was named the tournament's most valuable player. He won the same award in 1985.

Daren Queenan, who scored 37 points Tuesday and 79 in the three games, increased his career total to 2,682 points, 12th on the NCAA Division I career scoring list.

Other Tournaments

Temple won its 14th consecutive game as Howard Evans and freshman Mark Macon led a 28-6 run during the first 11 minutes of the second half. That erased a 34-30 lead St. Joseph's held at halftime and helped give Temple its 27th victory in 28 games.

The Owls were behind at halftime for just the sixth game this season. But they never lost their focus.

"I keep telling them, 'Stay in touch. Stay in touch,'" Coach John Chaney said. "If you stay in communication for a long period of time, it's like getting a student to have a longer span of attention for his teacher."

The Owls meet Rhode Island, 26-5, in Wednesday's title game. Rhode Island defeated host West Virginia 65-63 on Kenny Green's dunk with 1:42 left.

Carlton Owens had 25 points for the Rams, who approached the partisan West Virginia crowd and taunted them with yells and raised arms after the game. The student section responded by tossing cups, ice and paper at the squad and Rhode Island Coach Tom Penders was led off the floor by three state troopers.

"When we came down here last year and got beat pretty bad in the playoffs, they had a chant going, 'U-R-I, N-I-T,' saying that we weren't good enough to go to the NCAA tour-ament," Tom Garrick said. "Well, we came down and watched a tape of last year's game, and you could hear that chant. It was very evident in the background."

"So after the game, we went over to our fans and chanted, 'W-V-U, N-I-T.'"

In the MAC, second-place Central Michigan, No. 3 Ohio and sixth-seeded Western Michigan won opening-round games.

Junior center Steve Riikonen hit the first 3-point basket of his career as Western Michigan surprised Ball State 80-79. Western Michigan opposes regular-season champion Eastern Michigan on Friday at Toledo.

Rick Hall's 15-foot jumper gave Ball State a 79-77 lead with five seconds remaining. Western Michigan appeared to squander its last chance when the inbounds pass went out of bounds.

Ball State, however, returned the favor, giving Western Michigan possession at midcourt.

Riikonen, who scored 22 points, took the inbounds pass on the right side and heaved a desperation shot that won it.

Dan Majerle's 25 points paced Central Michigan, which next plays Ohio. The Bobcats got 23 points by Dave Jamerson and all 20 of Snoopy Graham's points in the second half as they took Bowling Green 79-73.

Ohio took the lead for good with 7:09 remaining in the game after Dennis Whitaker hit a 3-pointer and Marty Lehmann scored on a slam dunk.

In the ECAC North Atlantic tourney at Hartford, Conn., top-seeded Siena was stunned by New Hampshire 70-63. Derek Counts scored 26 points for New Hampshire, which lost by 17 and 29 points to the Indians this season.

Anthony Moyer got 21 of his 23 points in the second half as Hartford defeated Maine 73-61. Jeff Timberlake scored a career-high 22 points to lead Boston University to a 64-55 victory over Canisius. Juan Neal came off the bench to score 24 points and help Niagara to a 70-57 victory over Northeastern.

Wilkins Gets Help, Hawks Get A Win

By JOHN KREISER
AP Sports Writer
Dominique Wilkins is just as happy not being a one-man offense for the Atlanta Hawks.

Wilkins, the NBA's No. 2 scorer, scored 41 points Tuesday night, but five other Hawks also scored in double figures as Atlanta snapped a three-game losing streak, all at home, with a 143-113 victory over the Phoenix Suns.

Wilkins, who has been critical of his teammates for not sharing the scoring load, said the game showed what the Hawks are capable of when they are playing well.

"If we can win the next three games, I think we can say we are back," Wilkins said. "Everybody played well tonight."

Wilkins has been carrying the scoring load by himself over the last few weeks, averaging nearly 40 points a game, but the Hawks have been slumping. They're 7-10 in their last 17 games and have dropped behind Detroit in the Central Division race.

Coach Mike Fratello said the runaway victory was just what his team needed.

"The first win is important to get started and get out of a slump," Fratello said after his club's best offensive night of the season. "I thought you saw a great performance by 11 people tonight. Everybody contributed."

In other NBA action, it was Indiana 117, Detroit 104; Portland 112, Dallas 110; Milwaukee 119, San Antonio 101; Houston 113, Denver 103 and Seattle 121, Golden State 116 in overtime.

Wilkins scored the last three of his 23 first-half points on a mid-court bomb at the buzzer, then then sank another 3-pointer to open the second half as the Hawks took a 78-64 lead.

Phoenix cut the deficit to 102-95 with 51 seconds left in the third period after Jeff Hornacek hit four free throws. But Atlanta's Cliff Levingston hit two free throws and Spud Webb converted a three-point play to start the Hawks on an 11-0 run that put the game away.

Glenn Rivers had 19 assists for Atlanta, including a club-record 16 in the first half. Randy Wittman added 18 points for Atlanta and Kevin Willis had 16.

Pacers 117, Pistons 104
Vern Fleming did it all for Indiana, which ended a four-game losing streak by beating the Central Division-leading Pistons, scoring 18 points, dishing out 13 assists and grabbing 10 rebounds.

Fleming's triple-double was his third this season and fourth of his career, the most by any Pacer since the team entered the NBA in 1976.

"I just tried to help out the big guys and slip around people when they box out," he said. "We knew that if we kept working hard and shooting well, we would win one soon."

The Pacers put the game away with a 19-7 fourth-quarter run that sent Detroit to its second loss in nine games and shaved the Pistons' lead over Atlanta to two games.

Bucks 119, Spurs 101

Terry Cummings scored 27 points and Randy Breuer added 23 as Milwaukee won for the ninth time in 12 games and continued San Antonio's road miseries.

San Antonio lost its fifth consecutive road game. The Spurs are 4-22 away from home this season.

Paul Pressey scored 18 points and Ricky Pierce 17 for Milwaukee, which started slowly before overtaking the Spurs in the second half.

The Bucks, who trailed by three points at halftime, broke a 63-63 tie midway through the third quarter when Breuer scored six points in 21 seconds, the last four coming on a dunk and two free throws following a breakaway foul call.

Trail Blazers 112, Mavericks 110

Jerome Kersey scored 33 points and Clyde Drexler had 31, but Portland had to hold off a late surge by the Mavericks to win their sixth consecutive game.

The Mavericks had a chance to send the game into overtime but Rolando Blackman missed on a driving layup with two seconds remaining.

Portland, which has won four straight on the road, missed three of four free throws in the final 17 seconds after Mark Aguirre's 3-pointer made it 111-110.

Aguirre led Dallas with 21 points and Sam Perkins, Blackman and Derek Harper each had 20 for the Mavericks.

Portland has won nine of its last 11 games, while the Mavericks lost for only the third time in 15 games.

Rockets 113, Nuggets 103

Sleepy Floyd scored on a follow with seven minutes remaining to break an 89-89 tie and begin a 9-1 spurt that led the Rockets over the travel-weary Nuggets.

Floyd's basket and a three-point play by Rodney McCray gave Houston a 94-89 lead. After a Denver free throw, Cedric Maxwell hit a layup and Short connected on a 14-footer and the Rockets never looked back.

'Piggy' Mural Hams Up Gaudy Landscape

By DAVID FERRELL
L.A. Times-Washington Post
News Service

VERNON, Calif. — In St. Louis, it's the Gateway Arch. In Seattle, it's the Space Needle. In San Francisco, it's the Golden Gate Bridge.

But in the city of Vernon, Calif., (population 86), a tiny industrial hamlet bordering East Los Angeles, the reigning monument to Western culture is splashed across the sides of the Farmer John pork-packing plant on Vernon Avenue.

It is a mural of pigs — maybe the biggest, gaudiest landscape ever painted on the walls of a slaughterhouse.

"Sometimes people drive around the block just to see all of it," said Luis Rivas, 36, a butcher who has worked four years against its backdrop of roaming pigs and green fields. "Everybody who comes by looks at it."

Indeed, the gigantic mural dominates a city block, wrapping around the huge slaughterhouse on every side. The porcine panorama contains more than 200 pigs, emblazoned across 30-foot-high block walls, across a truck-loading dock, across the walls of the employee parking lot, across the reception counter inside the business office, even across a rear wall of the plant that forms one side of the Los Angeles River channel.

In a neighborhood of corrugated buildings, power lines and chain-link fences, the mural is like an unexpected bit of Hog Heaven — a touch of American Gothic, Vernon-style.

"It's an impressive thing if you've never seen it," said Farmer John sales manager Tom Clougherty, a member of the Clougherty family that founded the company in 1931.

Soon, however, what is now merely huge will be getting bigger. The plant, which butchers, cleans and packs 5,000 pigs a day, has just opened a new, 93,000-square-foot product distribution center, Clougherty said. That means all the more wall space for the sprawling artwork.

"We're definitely going to maintain and expand it as we grow," Clougherty said.

The task of painting the addition will soon fall to Arno Jordan, 53, an Austrian-born muralist who has been enlarging and retouching the pastoral scenery since the death of the original artist, Leslie Allen Grimes, in 1968.

Jordan, who has done smaller Farmer John landscapes in Phoenix, Tucson and Fresno, describes the Vernon project as his life's crowning achievement — "the biggest mural I've ever seen anywhere," he said.

Magazines and travel books have featured the mural, which Grimes begun in 1957. It has made the pages of Sunset magazine, the New York Times and the Times of London, which flew a reporter to America 10 years ago, Jordan said. He talks proudly of walking into a bookstore and finding the mural and his name in a book about street art.

At the same time, Jordan is modest about the mural's artistic quality. It's not the kind of thing one would paint on the Louvre.

"I'd put it into the primitive school, maybe Grandma Moses' style, he said. "It's meant see there really isn't much detail."

Jordan admits that the sky, in parts, is painted with rollers; the grass is done with another rudimentary technique, the paint being flung on a la Jackson Pollack. "I don't even touch the wall with the brush," he said.

Butchers and machine operators at the plant seem to spend little time assessing the cultural merits of the enormous painting.

'PIGGY' MURAL — Workers at the Farmer John packing plant in Vernon, Calif., rest on break alongside several walls painted with gigantic 'piggy' landscape murals. The original artist has died, but the murals are being maintained and expanded with the backing of the family that owns the slaughterhouse. (L.A. Times-Washington Post Photo)

Native American Photographs Exhibited

WILMINGTON — "Scattered Feathers: Photographs of Native Americans in North Carolina," an exhibition of contemporary Indian photographs by Roger Manley, opens Sunday at the New Hanover County Museum of the Lower Cape Fear, 814 Market St. Manley is a folklorist/photographer who has extensively photographed North Carolina Indians.

At 2:30 p.m., following the 2 p.m. opening, Stanley Knick, director of the Native American Resource Center at Pembroke State University, Pembroke, will give a slide-lecture presentation titled "Scattered Feathers: Spiritual and Commonplace are One."

The reception, lecture and the exhibition, which will continue on view, are free and open to the public.

'Mama I Want To Sing' Concert Scheduled

ROCKY MOUNT — "Mama I Want To Sing," a story in concert, will be presented in the auditorium of the Rocky Mount Senior High School, 308 S. Tillery St., on Sunday with performances at 3:30 p.m. and at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets are available by calling 757-6611 or 756-5046, both Greenville numbers.

The entertainment is a concert based on the story of a young gospel singer who wants to move on to more secular singing despite the strong objections of her deeply religious mother. The story is presented through music played and sung by an ensemble of singer-performers.

Lyrics for the show are by Vy Higginsen and Ken Wydro, with original music by Rudolph V. Hawkins, Pat Holley, Steven Taylor and Doris Troy.

The cast consists of original performers from the New York area. "Mama I Want To Sing" has had more than 1,500 performances in schools and theaters ranging from the New York City area, along the East Coast and in several foreign countries over the past decade.

Free Panel Discussion At Reynolda House

WINSTON-SALEM — An art panel discussion, free and open to the public, on "Prints and Other Art of the '30s and '40s," will take place at 10 a.m. Saturday at Reynolda House, Reynolda Road, Winston-Salem. The discussion panel will include Metropolitan Museum curator David Kiehl, Reynolda gallery director Mary Ryan and art historian Marlene Parks.

Composers Symposium Scheduled

WINSTON-SALEM — Two days of contemporary music will highlight the 12th annual North Carolina Composers Symposium to be held Friday and Saturday at the Salem College School of Music.

Some of the most distinguished composers in the state will perform in two evening concerts. An additional feature of the symposium is the presentation of works by composition students from colleges and universities throughout the state.

The North Carolina Composers Symposium is sponsored by the Salem College School of Music and funded in part by a grant from Meet the Composer Fund.

The symposium will be held in Shirley Recital Hall of the Salem Fine Arts Center. Evening performances begin at 8 p.m. An afternoon concert of works by emerging North Carolina composers will be held Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

All performances are open to the public free of charge. For more information call the Salem College School of Music at (919) 721-2636.

British Colony Has U.S. Ties

ROAD TOWN, British Virgin Islands — "Our postage stamps are most unusual. That's why they are so popular with stamp collectors from all over the world," said Janice Barry, 22, secretary at the main post office in this tiny capital.

Barry stood outside the post office in Road Town on Tortola Island holding a sheet of 35-cent British Virgin Island stamps featuring a painting of a dove, part of a series of 19 colorful denominations of local and migratory birds.

The unique distinction about B.V.I.

stamps is in the top left-hand corner where the price of the stamp is indicated by "US CY" (currency) and in the top right-hand corner is printed "ER" and a crown, Queen Elizabeth's insignia.

Because of the novelty of stamps from a British colony in U.S. currency, sales to collectors provide a major source of income for this tiny British colony of 36 islands, 59 square miles in area, with a population of 12,000.

"Our stamps are in U.S. currency because the American dollar is legal tender in this British outpost," ex-

Wopat Switching His Image On TV

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Former "Dukes of Hazzard" star Tom Wopat is battling his spirited "good ole boy" image with love songs and a new TV show about modern family issues.

Wopat is starring in the new CBS-TV drama, "Blue Skies," and is maintaining a singing career with country music-oriented songs that have a more romantic feel than driving souped-up cars as the adventurous Luke Duke.

"Blue Skies" is scheduled to begin this spring and the action involves coping with contemporary issues such as aging and alcoholism rather than rural escapades with his blond buddy John Schneider.

"It was a golden opportunity to be involved with fine persons and escape the 'good ole boy' stereotype," the 36-year-old Wopat said. "I'm a totally different character. In 'Dukes,' everything was fantasy. In 'Blue Skies,' it's straightforward and as near to life as possible.

"I feel it's the type of show the public is looking for as shown by the success of 'Our House,'" he said. "It's about three generations of family and the problems of the parents and their families."

Wopat and Schneider, and their high powered car, the General Lee, co-starred in "Dukes of Hazzard" for seven seasons beginning in 1978. Since then, both have gone on to country music careers and remained in acting.

He and Schneider just reunited in a holiday special, "Christmas Comes to Willow Creek," which did well in the ratings. He sees Schneider six to 10 times a year.

"I love him dearly," he said. "He's like a brother. We shared so much and we were in so many scenes together. We genuinely liked each other and had the same interests."

"We decided from the beginning it was going to be fun and we'd enjoy it and I think this came across on the screen. It's not common to have two leading men who got along as we did."

Looking back on the highly rated "Dukes," Wopat said it was popular because it was different.

"Until then, urban half-hour comedies were on. We were a new rural show that was action oriented with some violence and exciting stunts. It was a calculated approach: a dark-haired boy, a light-haired boy, a mean old man, a nice old man, a comical old man, a pretty girl.

CNN Is Gaining Respect As Fourth News Network

By KATHRYN BAKER
AP Television Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The week before Mikhail Gorbachev arrived in the United States for the December arms summit, President Reagan granted a rare interview to the four major networks' anchors.

That's right, four: Peter Jennings of ABC, Dan Rather of CBS, Tom Brokaw of NBC, and Bernard Shaw, Washington anchor for CNN.

Although he had already interviewed Reagan in October, Shaw agreed that the prime-time news special in which he questioned Reagan along with the three other anchors was a high-profile symbol of CNN's hard-earned respectability.

"That conversation the week before the summit was a turning point, I suppose you would have to say," said Shaw in an interview at his anchor desk at the CNN bureau. "I went back and asked (White House Chief of Staff) Howard Baker about that, and he said, 'We regard you as the fourth network, and that's why we included you in the interview.'"

The Reagan interview turned a lot of unsought attention on the low-key Shaw, a former correspondent for ABC, CBS and Westinghouse Broadcasting, who recalls idolizing Edward R. Murrow as a child in Chicago and at 13 declaring, "I want to be a CBS News correspondent."

After stints with Westinghouse and CBS, then covering Latin America for ABC, Shaw joined CNN in 1980. He wanted to be an anchor, and "there was no room at the inn at ABC, a lot of other talented people standing in line." Plus, he was encouraged to join the then-fledgling 24-hour news network by friends Daniel Schorr and George Watson, the Washington bureau chief.

The next year, John Hinckley shot President Reagan outside a Washington hotel where Reagan had just delivered a speech.

Shaw had finished his news update summarizing the speech and switched back to CNN headquarters in Atlanta when a staffer told him someone had fired shots at the president's motorcade.

"I screamed to the control room to tell Atlanta to come back to us right away," Shaw said. Shaw filled viewers in with the sketchy information he had, then switched back to Atlanta, but Reese Schoenfeld, then president of CNN, ordered Atlanta to go back to Washington and stay there.

"And they did, and there we were," said Shaw. He was on the air for 10 hours.

"I was pretty conscious that day of my demeanor, tone of voice and facial expressions," he said, "because that camera magnifies everything, and I was determined to be as low-key as possible, as factual as possible and as dispassionate as possible. A story like that requires no heat."

Low-key is the operative word in describing Shaw's style. He considers the celebrity aspects of his job "corruptive" and prefers to spend his free time with his wife, Linda, and their two children. Besides "doing better" in his job at CNN, Shaw, 47, says his only ambition is to write books, fiction and non-fiction.

He's a perfectionist who constantly worries about improving his performance and the network's. He said that when he left the air after the Iowa and New Hampshire primaries, he lay awake for hours "replaying in my head what we did — what we did right, what we did wrong, what I could have done better."

"He does his homework every time and worries over it like it's his first time, and calls afterwards to be critiqued on it," said CNN Executive Vice President Ed Turner. "I don't know anybody as good as he is, in my 30 years in the business, at his specialty, which was a job once done brilliantly by (Walter) Cronkite, before him by (Robert) Trout, people who can sit with a breaking story for hours on end and never lose the various threads that you have to keep hold of."

If it's grueling to be on the air for hours on end, it's also fulfilling.

While his colleagues at the other networks struggle to get even an hour or two of prime-time coverage for the primaries, Shaw, who anchors CNN's political coverage, gets the whole night.

"There was a magical moment, or hour, between 9 and 10 o'clock in Manchester (N.H.)," he recalled, "and it seemed like every candidate was coming down to the ballroom to make statements. And it just looked like a visual ballet, where we went from Kemp to Gephardt to Bush to Dole, or what have you. And I looked up on the monitors, and we were the only ones on the air. And I felt good."

Paintings Damaged

MILAN, Italy (AP) — A malfunctioning heater and a broken humidifier at a museum damaged about 20 Renaissance paintings, including works by Piero della Francesca, Italian media reported.

The heater malfunction at the Brera Gallery allowed the temperatures in recent days to rise to 75 degrees, well above the normal 55-57 degrees, news agencies and newspapers reported over the weekend.

The museum said in addition to works by della Francesca were "The Redeemer" by Giovanni Bellini, "Madonna With Child" by Giulio Campi and "Mother and Child" by Carlo Carra.

Brambilla Barcion, an art restorer, said the works on wood such as those by della Francesca suffer from every minimal change in climatic conditions. The heat causes the paint to peel away from the wood in some places, he said.

Israel Schedules Extravaganza For 40th Anniversary

By JAMES T. YENCKEL
L.A. Times-Washington Post
News Service

Israel has planned an extravaganza this spring to celebrate the 40th anniversary of its independence, and the festivities — some of them arranged to draw foreign tourists — are scheduled to go on despite the recent violent civil clashes in the occupied West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

The yearlong calendar of commemorative events includes a special $11.5-million staging of Giuseppe Verdi's opera "Nabucco" in a vast amphitheater alongside the historic walls of ancient Jerusalem. The unusual production is being billed as 1988's most important artistic event anywhere, and presumably the largest and "the most costly opera ever mounted in all of operatic history."

Tourism officials hope to attract as many as 70,000 tourists, a great many of them Americans, to the 12 performances scheduled from May 15 to 29 in the 7,800-seat outdoor theater called the Sultan's Pool. A historic site, the 3,000-year-old Sultan's Pool appropriately is one of the actual settings for the plot of the opera. "Nabucco" tells the story of Babylonian King Nebuchadnezzar's (Nabucco) conquest of Jerusalem in 587 B.C., the exile of its residents and, as an opera brochure puts it, "the ultimate triumph of the Jewish people's faith and spirit over the military power of the Babylonians."

As a tale of struggle for self-determination, "Nabucco" is considered by Israelis to be still politically relevant today. Its great chorus, "Va, pensiero," is sung by the opera's exiled Jews longing for their homeland.

The opera naturally lends itself to a staging spectacular. The highlight of the independence celebration, it will feature a starring cast and chorus of some 250 singers, as many as 800 other nonsinging performers and the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra of London. The price for a single ticket, depending on location, ranges from $260 to $700 — except on opening night when the range is $400 to $1,000 per ticket.

"It will be a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity," says executive producer Michael W. Ecker, who got his start in music as a Vienna choirboy. Ecker is president of OOS-Opera on Original Sites Inc., a new Swiss-based company formed to present operas on the actual sites used in the story line.

The harrowing events of recent weeks — the continuing clashes between armed Israeli troops and stone-throwing Palestinian Arab protesters in the occupied territories — undoubtedly have raised questions about the safety of visitors heading to Israel for the big celebration. The government has moved with force to quell the disturbances, firing on the demonstrators and using clubs, and the death toll now numbers more than four dozen. Obviously, the violence is of great concern to travelers: Is a sightseeing trip to Israel safe?

The Israelis say yes, arguing that the disturbances so far have mostly been limited to areas not normally visited by tourists. In addition, travelers can expect to see heavier security forces in evidence at tourist sites.

Press coverage of the violence "is not flattering to Israel," says Joseph Shoval, the embassy attache in Washington for tourism affairs, "and it's embarrassing. But it has nothing to say about the safety of the people living in the country or the 1.5 million tourists who come every year... Safety and security are guaranteed."

For example, much of the rioting has occurred in Gaza, Shoval says, which has little attraction for tourists. "We say Gaza is not a place where Jesus visited, where Moses visited. It's not a holy place and never has been." However, a brief Arab demonstration did occur one day in January in the Old City of Jerusalem, a popular tourist site. Shoval sees it as no reason to be dissuaded from a visit.

As of last week, the State Department, which issues travel advisories or warnings about the world's trouble spots, had not changed an indefinite advisory it first distributed in 1982. The advisory cautions that conditions in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip affecting the safety of travelers "can change with little warning." Any U.S. visitor leaving Jerusalem for the West Bank should contact the U.S. consulate-general's office in Jerusalem. Those headed for the Gaza Strip should check with the U.S. Embassy in Tel Aviv.

The disturbances appear to be having some adverse effect on travel to Israel this year, but just how badly is not easy to determine. There have been cancellations, and some tour organizers say they are not getting the advance bookings they might expect at this time of year. It is thought the dropoff stems from safety fears and are not protests against Israeli actions. Israeli tourism officials, however, discount the impact of the clashes.

Avi Kenet, vice president of Galilee Tours of New York, says, "It's quite obvious that it (the situation in Israel) has an influence. It's quite significant." The problem has not been so much cancellations as it has been a slowdown in bookings, principally from first-time travelers to Israel.

"Our future bookings are slow now," Kenet says, adding that "a distinction must be made between people who have been to Israel before and those people who have never been there. The only image they get is very unpleasant." Galilee Tours sends about 4,000 Americans to Israel annually, about 60 percent of them non-Jewish tourists. "They are more sensitive," he says, to the reports of trouble.

John McCommons, president of Western World Tours of Santa Barbara, which specializes in tours for religious groups, is having a somewhat different experience. In business for 27 years, his firm has a Holy Land tour organized for 200 American Protestants in April, and to date only a handful have canceled because of safety concerns. However, he says, he got word from a travel agent that a tour for 40 Jewish travelers for Passover in Israel was being canceled because too many people had dropped out.

On the plus side, Shoval points out that Israel is an especially good travel bargain this year. This is because the exchange rate between the U.S. dollar and the new shekel generally has remained stable, while the dollar has plummeted in relation to several West European currencies. Typically, a room in one of Israel's finest hotels with a full breakfast can be found for $70 to $120 a night for two people. This compares with $150 or much more for similar deluxe lodgings in London, Paris, Venice and Rome.

Meanwhile El Al, the Israeli airline, has announced plans to add flights to Israel from North America because of the "Nabucco" production, and tourism officials expect TWA to do the same. In anticipation of increasing tourism, Israel has built 7,000 new hotel rooms in the past three years, including a new 525-room Hyatt Regency in Jerusalem. The Hyatt's rate for a room for two is $120 a night.

A number of tour operators and other organizations, including the Metropolitan Opera Guild of New York, are offering group tours to Israel that include a performance of Verdi's opera. Tours also are available that take in performances of the Israel Festival, an annual month-long performing arts festival.

plained B.V.I.'s chief minister, H. Lavity Stoutt, 59.

"We gave up using the British pound, shelling and pence in 1958 because our ties to America are so strong. These are British islands yet we use miles instead of kilometers. We use ounces and pounds for measurements."

In 1958, when the British West Indies Federation was established, the British Virgin Islands declined to join the political alignment in order to retain close economic and cultural ties with the American Virgin Islands.

"We speak with British accents, but our mannerisms are very American," noted B.V.I.'s deputy chief minister, Omar Hodge, 46.

The U.S. and British Virgin Islands — roughly 100 small islands — stretch 60 miles west to east in the Caribbean, 60 miles east of Puerto Rico, with only a half mile of water separating the closest American and British islands. Road Town, capital of the British Virgins, is 22 miles — 45 minutes by ferryboat — from Charlotte Amalie, capital of the U.S. islands.

Hodge said he and Alexander A. Farrelly, governor of the American Virgin Islands, see each other often and talk by phone regularly. The area code for B.V.I. and U.S.V.I. is the same — 809.

"Gov. Farrelly and I try to resolve mutual problems on a local level rather than referring everything to London and Washington," explained Stoutt, who earns $30,000 a year as chief minister, the highest official in the British islands.

Officials from both island groups celebrate Friendship Day every October, alternating each year in Charlotte Amalie and Road Town.

"It's a big holiday with speeches, eating and drinking. When they come here we feast on local dishes like conch soup, corn pork, goat stew and guavaberry wine," Hodge said. "When we go over there we eat their local dishes and drink their rum. When they come here they drink our rum. Our rum, of course, is much better."

Pusser's rum, made at a Tortola distillery for years, was the official rum of the British Navy. It was distributed to the crew by the ship's purser, which, with the vagaries of pronunciation, became "pusser."

Residents of the British and American Virgin Islands are 85 percent black. Citizens of the British Virgins are called Belongers. They carry British passports.

In the past 25 years, thousands of islanders from throughout the Caribbean have emigrated legally and illegally to the U.S. Virgin Islands. It is estimated that 40,000 of the U.S.V.I.'s 100,000 population are outer-islanders who moved there because of job opportunities.

"We have very stringent immigration laws here," chief minister Stoutt said. "We do not want to be inundated with people as is happening in the U.S. Virgin Islands. Here we have a quota. We allow only 20 families a year to settle here from other places."

Queen Elizabeth has visited Tortola (Spanish for turtle dove) and the British Virgin Islands twice, in 1966 and 1977. The most famous native of B.V.I. was Dr. William Thornton, an inventor, doctor, architect and the designer of the U.S. Capitol.

Thornton won a prize of $100 and a city lot in Washington for designing the Capitol. He moved to Washington in 1792 after winning the award and later became an American citizen and the first superintendent of the U.S. Patent Office.

B.V.I. is the home of the world's largest turtles, called leatherbacks — turtles that weigh 1,000 pounds and more, dive to depths of over 1,000 feet and eat jellyfish as a main food source.

Among islands in the B.V.I. group are Fallen Jerusalem, Virgin Gorda (Fat Virgin), Jost Van Dyke, Salt, Peter, Anegada, Mosquito, Great Tobago, Cooper and the Dog Islands.

Like motorists on the U.S. Virgin Islands, people here drive on the left side of the road as they do in England, but here the steering wheel is on the left side of the car, as it is in mainland America.

"Politically we're British subjects, but sentimentally our heart and soul is American," a cab driver said as he drove along the coastal road on rugged mountainous Tortola Island from Sea Cows Bay to Frenchman's Cay.

Horse Pulls Phone Cable

PENNSBORO, W.Va. (AP) — In a blend of high tech and old-fashioned horsepower, a draft horse named Cindy has stretched a state-of-the-art telephone cable across the rugged hills and hollows of West Virginia where trucks, helicopters and even mules fear to tread.

"She's good to work with, the only way to go in this terrain," said Paul Bowman, a C&P Telephone Co. line-man as he trotted up a steep, rocky incline behind the 1,500-pound horse.

"You can't get a truck in here and she makes it a lot easier, especially on us."

Cindy has replaced a crew of a half-dozen workers who normally would have been used to pull the fragile, fiber optic cable between the nearly 80 miles of poles laid from Clarksburg to Parkersburg.

Tommy Beach, 15, a student at J.H. Rose High School wins this week's drawing contest.

Farmhouse

By Phyllis Gailene Love

Rabbits on the ceiling,
Lions on the wall,
Cats on the floor,
Dogs at the door,

Cows at the windowpane,
Horses in the hall,
Now what do you have?
A farmhouse for all.

Phyllis Gailene Love, 9, a student at St. Peter's School wins this week's writing contest.

Eskimo Facts

By Jason Cutrell

The Eskimos real name is Inuit. Inuit means people. They hunt for food, they eat raw meat. They rub noses as a way of a kiss.

It stays cold all year round. Summer is very short.

Mothers hold babies on their back.

In the summer they live in tents made of deerskin. They hunt fish, seals, walrus, white whales, rabbits and fox.

They wear parkas and mukluks to keep warm. Eskimo women carry their babies on their back. Eskimos are very happy people. Eskimos share almost everything that they have.

Eskimos are very peaceful people to be around. I think Eskimos will be nice to me if I go. And if they are, I'll be nice to them.

Jason Cutrell, 8, a student at Sadie Saulter School receives special mention.

Snow In Winter

By Destiny Rae Fleming

Snow! Snow! Let it snow!
Around the world and back again
The wind goes swirl-irl-irl and Cars go scre-e-e-ch, Boom!

Trees split and frozen branches fall.
No school! No school! Great!

Destiny Rae Fleming, 9, a student at Falkland Elementary School receives special mention.

Snow Will Never Go

By B.J. Fell

Snowflakes fall gently to the ground,
As they do, their white blanket covers all sound.
I look through the window at its graceful peace,
And I pray it would never cease.

I say out loud, "Where can I go,
Is there a place where it will always snow?"
"There is a place," came a voice from below,

It was a dwarf all covered with snow.
He said, "God made you and me and all this snow,
And when you get to heaven, then you'll know

That there is a place where it will always snow!"

B.J. Fell, 13, a student at West Craven Middle School receives special mention.

The Freshman Experience

By Caitlin Quarters

Holding the title of "high school freshman" myself, I'm an expert on the subject.

Being a freshman is not the worst thing in the world. It just depends on how you look at it. If you think you're dirt, then you are and people will treat you like dirt. But, if you walk with your head held high, like me, no one will ever know. People won't know you're a freshman unless you go around advertising it.

In my opinion, freshmen are seen differently by each of the higher classes. (Remember, there are exceptions to the rule.)

being glad they're not the freshman class anymore, so they spend most of their time snickering like 5 year-olds.

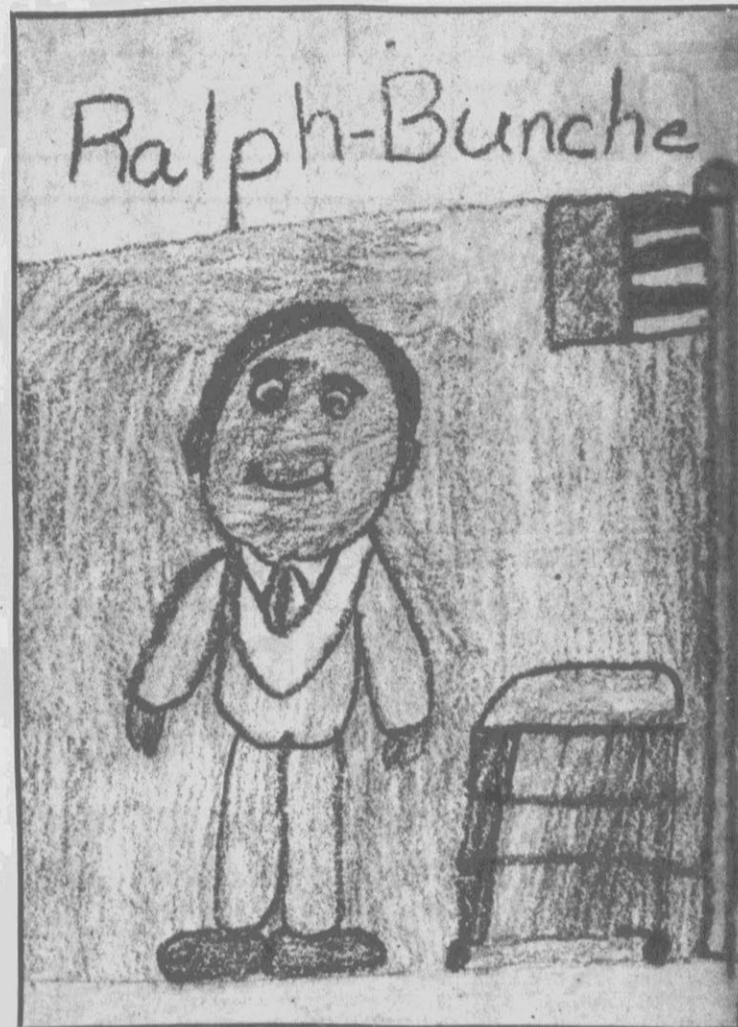

Juniors really don't care about the freshmen because they're too busy worrying about becoming seniors.

And the seniors? Well, they could care less! They're too busy worrying about graduation. They're probably friendlier to the freshmen than the sophomores and the juniors are. (That should tell you who the smart ones are.)

Of course, no matter how you're treated during your freshman year, it will be nine months you'll never forget. The best part of the whole thing is the next year, when someone else will get to see how it feels!

Donta Witherspoon, 10, a student at Pactolus Elementary School receives special mention.

PUZZLE CORNER

This week we celebrate Newspaper In Education Week. Reading the newspaper is a great way to learn about our world, but in our puzzle we want you to find some newspaper terms which are listed below. After you have located all of the terms, with the remaining letters you should be able to spell a business in Pitt County.

Snowman In The Cold

By Loretta Redd

Snowman, snowman, freezing outside. Won't you come in were it's nice and warm? If you don't, I don't blame you. You may melt and won't be here to play. So stay while you can and don't come in, or you will be on the floor in a puddle of water. But, just in case, I'm warning you! I'll see you next winter when it's cold again.

Loretta Redd, 9, a student at Falkland Elementary School receives special mention.

Footprints In The Snow

By Craig Hill

I went walking in the woods on a snowy day. I saw a footprint and I followed the footprint. It was a monkey and it scared me. It was brown and it could swing on trees and do flips on trees, too. I looked at him for a long time and then I went back home.

Craig Hill, 8, a student at Sadie Saulter School receives special mention.

Tar Heel Trivia

Gold

Supposedly the first gold ever found in the United States was discovered in 1799 in Cabarrus County.

Conrad Reed, a thirteen-year-old, while fish hunting with a bow and arrow, broke an arrow on a yellow-gold colored rock. His family used the seventeen pound rock as a doorstep for three years until the boy's father sold it to a jeweler for less than $4 before he knew it was gold. It is said that the father later sued the jeweler for tricking him in the sale and Reed is reported to have won $3,000 in the suit.

After the announcement of the gold discovery in Cabarrus County, people swarmed the area looking for riches. For 60 years, N.C. was called the Golden State, but the high cost of mining and some not-so-honest people brought the decline of N.C. gold mining.

Send In Your Entries To Expressions

The Daily Reflector is looking for elementary, middle and high school students to draw pictures, write stories essays and poems. Each week we will publish the best writing and drawing. The winner of each will receive $2. We will publish stories and art work we feel should receive special mention.

Entries must be original. Drawings must be in ink, crayon, markers or paint on thick colored paper. Please no pencil. Entries will be held for a period of ninety days and will be considered for that period of time. Entries will be returned if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is included.

Parents or teachers who sign the entry form should monitor for good taste and plagiarism.

Fill out the form and attach it to your entry.

The following activities have been prepared by The Daily Reflector's Newspaper In Education Department in celebration of NIE Week March 7-11.

Family Circus will return to this space on Monday, March 14th.

Collect a sports story that is about a person your child really enjoys. Together read the story. Is this a sport that your child would enjoy making a career out of? Now read the story again replacing the name of the person with your child's name. Discuss the content of the story and ask your child to picture himself/herself in the event. Ask your child to draw a picture where he/she is the sports figure. Together write a follow-up story.

The dateline of a newspaper story is usually located at the beginning of the article. The dateline tells where the article originated and if you see (AP) after the location, that tells you that the article came from the Associated Press which is a wire service. Using a map of North Carolina and a colored pen or pencil, mark each town in the state that has a dateline in today's paper.

Horoscope

From The Carroll Righter Institute

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY March 10

- ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Try to be more understanding of opinions which differ from your own. You can greatly improve your position in life with a little research.
- TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Show your mate that you are thoughtful and understanding. A kind word is more valuable than gold at this time.
- GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Listen more carefully to the views of a partner so you can have a meeting of minds. Be sure you know the potential of a new venture.
- MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): If you are more cooperative with co-workers, everyone will get better results. Try to get your wardrobe in better shape.
- LEO (July 22 to August 21): Plan some entertainment with good friends, but count the cost well and stay within your budget. Be careful in any kind of communication.
- VIRGO (August 22 to September 22): Plan some long-needed improvements to your home, and get estimates before making any commitment. Pay special attention to your health.
- LIBRA (September 23 to October 22): Try to get your ideas across to others, but do so in a friendly, non-pushy manner. Use your natural cleverness, and get good results.
- SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21): You will have an opportunity to add to your present assets, and also increase your income so be sure to "sieve the bull by the horns."
- SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21): Stop to think about how you are going to go about attaining a personal goal. Take the time to improve your health this evening.
- CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20): Do something thoughtful for your mate which will ease a tense situation between you. Be sure to stand by any promises you have made.
- AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19): If you go after some special wish, a smile can be your most helpful tool. Be optimistic and friendly and enjoy this wonderful day.
- PISCES (February 20 to March 20): Work hard at performing your daily duties with flair, and you'll be rewarded for your effort. Take time for the social side of life.

Opening lead: Four of ♣

The trouble with a finesse is that it rates to win only half the time. So an expert will go to great lengths to try to avoid relying on fickle fortune for his contract. Here's an example from the Bermuda Regional, held at the end of January at the Southampton Princess.

With a hand that revalued to more than 20 points after support from partner, South, John Bromberg of Dallas, wasted no time in getting to game. Note that North's jack of spades was a useless asset; had he held the jack of either minor instead, the contract would have been a virtual laydown after the opening lead.

Declarer won the spade lead in hand and led the nine of diamonds. West made a good try by rising with the king and shifting to a club. Since the contract was sure to fail if the queen was covered by the king, declarer called for a low club from dummy—if West held the king, the queen would score a trick later. After winning the ace of clubs, declarer crossed to the king of spades, returned to hand with a trump and cashed a second high trump. He was delighted to find that the suit broke evenly. Since the ace of diamonds was almost surely with East, declarer could almost claim his contract.

He led a low diamond, intending to cover any card West played. When West followed with the seven, declarer inserted the eight, losing to East's jack. But East was endplayed. A spade lead would yield a ruff—sluff; a diamond would establish the queen with a trump as the entry; and a club would set up that queen as the game-going trick.

Last Call For Creative Deli Ideas

Although Americans can't take credit for inventing the sandwich, nowhere else in the world are sandwiches taken so seriously or enjoyed in so many different ways.

In a country as vast as the United States, it's no surprise that regional sandwich specialties abound. Philadelphians prize their Philly Steak Sandwich, chock-full of wafer thin roast beef and oozing with melted cheese. Corned beef on rye, a New York institution, is judged on the leanness of the corned beef, the thinness of the slices and the amount of meat squeezed between two slices of seeded rye bread.

A number of regional sandwiches have ethnic roots. The hero sandwich, also known as a submarine, hoagie, torpedo and po' boy, is based on the box lunches which were carried by Italian construction workers. It also happens to be the forerunner of the muffuletta, a whole-meal sandwich created at the turn of the century in New Orleans. A sturdy loaf of French or Italian bread holds the layers of deli ham and salami, provolone cheese and garlicky olive salad.

Whether the sandwich of choice be a muffuletta, Philly steak or turkey burrito, high-quality ingredients are essential. And the supermarket service deli makes shopping for sandwich fixings easier and more convenient than ever before.

Depending upon the sandwich, the deli operator can slice the meat thick or thin in the exact amount you need, so there's never any waste. The wide variety of moist and fresh deli meat and poultry products makes it easy to create new and unusual sandwich combinations like those featured in

Calorie Control Key To Planning Diabetic's Diet

By Jeanette Guldge
Reflector Staff Writer

This year Diabetes Awareness Day, March 15, has been designated Diabetes Alert Day by the American Diabetes Association in effort to identify Americans who may be at risk of developing diabetes or who may be unaware they have the disease.

"Put Your Health to the Test," the 1988 theme, refers to a simple self-test developed by the American Diabetes Association for anyone to take to help identify risk factors.

The test asks if participants have been experiencing symptoms such as excessive thirst, blurry vision from time to time and extreme fatigue on a regular basis. Among factors the test considers are age, descent and if any relatives have the disease. Each answer is allotted a specific number of points which, when totaled, determine what category the participant is in.

The test is available from the Pitt County chapter of the American Diabetes Association. Two telephone numbers to call on March 15 are also provided according to how the individual scores on the test. The calls will be answered by a celebrity spokesman who will provide the caller with a recording of information on diabetes. The telephone call costs $1 and represents a donation to the American Diabetes Association research and education programs.

Sylvia English, diabetes clinical nurse specialist at Pitt County Memorial Hospital, said there will be approximately 2,236 diabetics in Pitt County by 1990 according to a population projection done by the Center for Health Services and Research Development at East Carolina University School of Medicine.

According to Ms. English and Sue Daughtry, registered dietician and certified diabetic educator, the functioning of an automatic system that provides the body energy from food is not working as it should to maintain a metabolic balance in a diabetic. Therefore, in some cases intervention of some type is necessary in order to maintain that balance, explained Ms. Daughtry, usually in the form of diet, exercise, pills or insulin.

"The main goal of maintaining a metabolic balance for diabetics is to feel good and have the energy to do what they want," said English. "Another goal is to avoid complications," said Ms. Daughtry.

All diets are not weight reduction diets, said Ms. Daughtry. However, she said calorie control is the key to planning a diet and maintaining a metabolic balance.

"The number of calories a diabetic should consume is determined by age, sex, weight and the person's activity level," she said.

"The diet for a diabetic is a well-balanced healthy diet that can be used by anyone. It doesn't require a lot of special or dietetic foods."

New York Chef Shares Pastry Secrets With Class

By CHERIE EVANS
Reflector Staff Writer

Nicholas Malgieri, formerly an executive pastry chef at Windows on the World, was in Greenville recently, creating some of his pastries during cooking classes at the Kitchen Cupboard.

Malgieri is the pastry chef at Peter Kump's New York Cooking School and is a graduate of the Culinary Institute of America. He apprenticed in Switzerland and was subsequently employed at the Reserve de Beaulieu in France.

His recipes have been published in the "New York Times," "the Cincinnati Enquirer," "Family Circle," the "Ladies Home Journal and others." He is the author of "Nicholas Malgieri's Desserts and Pastries" that will be published this spring by Macmillan.

In addition to organizing the pastry program at the cooking school, Malgieri is frequently a guest speaker at other cooking schools in the New York area and throughout the country.

Try the accompanying Malgieri pastry recipes.

TARTELETTE TATIN

This miniature version of the classic apple tart approaches the caramelization of the apples from a different angle. The tart is assembled from a base of baked pastry and cooked apples, then the surface is caramelized under the broiler — giving an easier and less risky finish.

Pastry bases:

Poached apple slices:
5 apples, about 2 1/2 pounds
1 cup granulated sugar
2 cups dry white wine
1 lemon
Finishing:
Butter for the pan
Granulated sugar

Roll the pastry thinly and cut 24 rounds, each 2 inches in diameter, using a round cutter. Transfer the rounds to a paperlined pan and bake them at 325 degrees about 20 minutes, until very light golden. Cool the bases.

Peel, halve and core the apples. Cut each half in half again and slice the apples about 1/4-inch thick. Arrange the sliced apples in a pan just large enough to hold them tightly and sprinkle with the sugar. Pour over the wine and the stripped zest from the lemon as well as the juice. Cover with a piece of parchment paper and weight with another pan. Cook the apples on medium heat, simmering them about 5 minutes. Cool them in the liquid, then drain them.

Arrange the apple slices overlapping on the bases, using the equivalent of 1/4 of an apple for each base. Sprinkle the tartelettes generously with sugar and transfer them to 2 buttered pans. Color the tartelettes under the broiler until the tops are well caramelized. Remove the tartelettes to a rack to cool.

CARRES AU CITRON

These lemony cakes contrast well with sweet marzipan covering.

Pistachio-Lemon Cake:
4 eggs, separated
3/4 cup sugar

1 grated lemon zest
1 cup blanched pistachios
3/4 cup cake flour

1 pinch salt
Kirsch syrup:

Kathy Kolasa

Ph.D., ECU Dept. Family Medicine

Dear Readers: Sylvia English, a certified diabetes instructor at Pitt County Memorial Hospital, called me to make sure we all knew that March 15 is National Diabetes Alert Day. In honor of that occasion, I asked Jo Bartlett, nutrition research technician in family medicine who has been working with diabetics, to give a brief overview of diabetes and how food and nutrition affect the disease.

In our region, people with diabetes often say they have "sugar" or "high sugar." Many people in all shapes, sizes and ages in eastern North Carolina have diabetes and unfortunately, some don't know it. The word Diabetes Mellitus (the whole name) comes from the Greek language and means "honey flows through a siphon," which seems to be an appropriate way to look at diabetes.

The true cause of diabetes is not really known, but there are various theories (too long and many to get into here). What the basic problem boils down to is either 1) a lack of insulin, 2) an impaired amount of insulin, or 3) a tissue sensitivity to insulin. Insulin helps our body use the sugar made during digestion of foods to give us energy. Without the right insulin levels and functioning, the sugar in our blood cannot get into each body cell and be used for energy and growth. Instead, the sugar accumulates in the blood system and creates many problems for the diabetic person.

There are three basic types of diabetes. Type I also is called insulin dependent or childhood onset. Type II also is called non-insulin dependent or adult onset. Gestational diabetes is the third type and is seen only in pregnant women. Type I is seen more often in younger people and must be controlled by insulin injections, dietary treatment and exercise. Type II is often seen in the older person and frequently in people who are overweight. Type II diabetes is treated by dietary changes and weight loss, exercise, and sometimes an oral hypoglycemic medication. Gestational diabetes is controlled by dietary changes and oftentimes, insulin injections.

All diabetics must be aware of their diet. Most of the guidelines for the diabetic diet are the same as any healthy diet. They are to 1) increase fiber foods (cereals, fresh fruits, vegetables, grains); 2) decrease fats (especially saturated fats, which are generally the ones that are hard at room temperature); 3) decrease concentrated sweets like cookies, cakes and soda pop; 4) increase the amount of complex carbohydrate foods like potatoes, rice and pasta, and 5) lose weight if you are overweight. This can give you a well-balanced, nutritious and tasty diet.

All diabetics also need to eat meals and snacks regularly. It is important to eat them at about the same time each day. Eating regularly helps keep the blood sugar at an even keel. This is essential for good blood sugar control and optimum health. By taking care of diabetes, a person can help themselves avoid later problems that come with poorly controlled diabetes. Those are renal impairment or kidney damage, poor healing of wounds and blindness to name a few.

Be smart and help yourself. If you have questions about diabetes, please call your physician, nutritionist, or certified diabetes instructor for more information.

Be Calm At Baby's Feeding Time

By Nina Killham
L.A. Times-Washington Post
News Service

According to Rena Coyle, author of "Baby Let's Eat," the best thing you can do when feeding your child is to calm down.

"Kids eat when they're hungry, so don't torture yourself," says Coyle. "They'll eat a tablespoon of this and that. They're not going to eat a bowlful of food; they're going to eat little bites."

It was a lesson Coyle — a restaurateur, chef and cooking teacher — learned when she had her baby, Catelyn, and became terrified her daughter wasn't eating enough to survive.

Once Coyle realized, however, that her baby was thriving on what seemed very little food, she sat down and wrote "Baby Let's Eat" to alleviate other mothers' fears.

"It's something that answers all the questions I had when I first started feeding my daughter, Catelyn. I couldn't believe what I didn't know about feeding children. Here I was in the cooking business, feeding 100 adults a day, and I realized I couldn't feed one little baby."

"Baby Let's Eat" is organized like other books about babies, divided into six-month chapters up to age 3. Nutritionist Patricia Messing offered expert nutritional advice.

A rule of thumb to follow, says Coyle, is to serve one tablespoon each of meats, fruits, vegetables and grains per meal for each year of life. "It's better to give small portions and let your child ask for more."

She suggested not trying to balance babies' meals daily at a very young age. Over a week, she says, parents will notice that children tend to balance themselves nutritionally if offered a variety of foods, though they may concentrate on one at a time.

Important also for Coyle was the idea of eliminating any extra steps in the preparation of the child's food. "I tried to show how to take food out of your own diet so as not to make one extra step for yourself. There is not an extra process. The book shows how to take leftovers from the night before and make them into lunch the next day; how to freeze so that every time your child wants to eat, you're not starting from scratch.

"For me, cooking was very easy; for a lot of people, cooking is not that simple, and the concept of making baby food seems like an awesome responsibility with hours spent in the kitchen. In reality it's not."

Her recipes include no salt or sugar. And although eliminating salt was not difficult, eliminating sugar was another story. "It's so easy to give them sugar; everything has it. Our adult palates are far more attuned to sugar, but with a child you are trying to develop good habits.

"Your kids don't eat that much, so you want to maximize their calories." Instead of chocolate and sugary snacks for dessert, Coyle suggests brown rice

Calorie Control Seen As The Key To Planning Diet For Diabetic

FRUIT YOGURT SHAKE

1 cup plain lowfat yogurt
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1 packet sweetener
3/4 cup frozen unsweetened fruit
Place yogurt, vanilla and sweetener in blender. Whirl, gradually adding frozen fruit. Serves 2. Serving size is one cup. Per serving there are 95 calories, 15 grams of carbohydrates, five grams of protein, two grams of fat and 63 milligrams of sodium. Exchanges are 1/2 skim milk and 1/2 fruit.

ORANGE SLUSH

1 cup unsweetened orange juice
2 tablespoons plus 1 teaspoon lemon juice
4 packets sweetener
1/3 cup nonfat dry milk powder
1/3 cup ice water
Combine orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and sweetener. Pour into 1-quart ice tray. Freeze until slushy. Beat dry milk powder and ice water in small mixer bowl until soft peaks form. Beat in 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Add orange mixture while beating a low speed. Freeze again in ice tray until almost firm, stirring occasionally. Serve with spoons or short straws. Serves 3. Serving size is a 3/4 cup. Per serving there are 69 calories, 13 grams carbohydrates, 3 grams of protein, a trace of fat and 40 milligrams of sodium. One fruit is the exchange.

PARTY SNACK MIX

1/2 cup margarine
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon garlic salt
4 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
2 cups Rice Chex cereal
2 cups Corn Chex cereal
2 cups Bran Chex cereal
1 cup pretzels
2 cups corn nuts
Heat oven to 250 degrees. Melt margarine in saucepan. Remove from heat, add salt, garlic salt and Worcestershire sauce. Combine cereals. Pour margarine mixture over cereal and toss. Add pretzels and corn nuts; toss until all pieces are coated. Bake for 45 minutes in large shallow baking pan, stirring occasionally. Cool completely and store in an airtight container. (Note: To reduce sodium content, eliminate salt and substitute 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder for the garlic salt.) The recipe yields nine cups and one serving is equal to 1/2 cup. Per serving there are 125 calories, 16 grams of carbohydrates, one gram of protein, 6 grams of fat and 476 milligrams of sodium. Exchanges are one starch or bread or one fat.

DENVER PIZZA SNACKS

1 11-ounce package refrigerated French loaf dough
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 cup diced cooked ham
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped pepper
2 medium tomatoes, diced
1 cup chopped fresh mushrooms

6 ounces shredded part skim mozzarella cheese
2 teaspoons dried oregano
1 teaspoon dried basil
freshly ground black pepper to taste

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Oil bottom of 13x9 inch pan. Fit dough in to bottom of pan, trimming edges as needed. Bake dough 6 to 7 minutes. Remove from oven. Spread with mustard. Layer ham, onion, green peppers, tomatoes, mushrooms, cheese, herbs and ground pepper over bread. Bake until cheese is bubbly, 20 to 25 minutes. Cut into 12 squares. Serve warm. Serving size is one square. Each serving has 140 calories, 14 grams of carbohydrates, 10 grams of protein, 4 grams of fat and 360 milligrams of sodium. One starch or bread, or one medium-fat meat serve as exchanges.

SPICED CHOCOLATE PUDDING

Donated by Karen Gardinier
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons cocoa powder
1/8 teaspoon cinnamon
2 cups skim milk
5 packets Equal
1 teaspoon vanilla
Mix cornstarch, cocoa and cinnamon in medium saucepan. Stir in milk. Cook and stir over medium heat until bubbly. Cook and stir 2 minutes more. Pour into bowl. Stir in Equal and vanilla. Chill. Recipe yields four, 1/2 servings. Each serving is equal to 1/2 milk exchange.

OATMEAL COOKIES

Donated by Karen Gardinier
3/4 cup safflower oil
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1/4 cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
3 cups oats, quick
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Beat shortening, sugars, egg, water and vanilla until smooth. Combine flour, salt, soda and add to creamed mixture. Mix well. Add oats. Drop by teaspoonful on ungreased sheet. Bake 10 to 12 minutes. Recipe yields 60 cookies. Two cookies equal one bread, one fat, or 1/2 fruit.

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

Donated by Steve Reynolds and Family
1 egg
2 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons peanut butter
6 packages of sweet-n-low
1/3 cup flour (self-rising)
Beat egg, shortening, peanut butter and sweet-n-low until creamy. Stir in flour. Drop by teaspoon on greased cookie sheet. Bake approximately 10 minutes at 350 degrees. Recipe yields 18 cookies. Two cookies are equal to one fat or 1/3 meat.

PUMPKIN CUSTARD

Donated by Nancy T. Gray
1 1/2 cups pumpkin puree
2 tablespoons margarine, melted
1/4 cup maple syrup
1/4 cup sugar
3/4 teaspoons cinnamon

1/2 teaspoon mace
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
3/4 cup evaporated skim milk
2 egg yolks
4 egg whites

In a large bowl combine pumpkin, margarine, syrup, sugar, cinnamon, mace, cloves, evaporated milk and egg yolks. Beat well to blend thoroughly. In separate bowl, beat egg whites until stiff. Gently but thoroughly fold into pumpkin mixture. Pour into lightly greased glass baking dish and bake 45 to 55 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Recipe makes 6 servings. Each serving is equal to 1/2 fruit or 1/2 meat exchange.

APPLE RICE PUDDING

Donated by Joanne Bartlett
4 small apples, peeled, cored and finely diced
1 1/2 cups cooked brown rice
1 cup skim milk
8 dates, finely chopped
1 tablespoon of sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
3 eggs, separated

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. In large bowl, stir together all ingredients except egg whites. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into apple-rice mixture. Turn into casserole dish. Set casserole in a large baking pan. Set on oven rack and pour boiling water into the larger pan to a depth of one inch. Bake for 70 minutes. Serve warm or chilled. Recipe makes 8, 1/2 servings. Each serving is equal to one fruit, one fat, or one bread exchange.

DIABETIC CAKE

Donated by Rhonda Rodgers
1 cup water
2 cups raisins
1 cup unsweetened applesauce
2 tablespoons liquid artificial sweetener
3/4 cup cooking oil
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 cups flour
1 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Cook raisins in water until water evaporates. Add applesauce, eggs, sweetener, cooking oil and mix well. Blend in baking soda and flour. Add cinnamon, nutmeg and vanilla to mixture. Mix and pour in greased 8x8 cake pan and bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour or until done. For variety, add one cup pecans, one cup fresh coconut or fresh apples. Recipe yields 12, two inch pieces. Each piece equals one bread, one fat, or 1 fruit exchange.

APPLESAUCE NUT BREAD

Donated by Susan Reynolds
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 cup unsweetened applesauce
1/2 cup vegetable oil
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup raisins
1/2 cup chopped walnuts (or pecans)
1 3/4 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder

1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine first six ingredients and mix well. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and spices together. Mix into applesauce mixture. Pour into 9x5 bread pan sprayed with vegetable Pam spray. Bake for one hour. Cool 10 minutes before removing from pan. Tip: For easier slicing, let bread cool several hours. Recipe yields 16, 1/2 inch servings. Each serving is equal to 1 1/2 bread, one fruit or 2 fat exchanges.

FRENCH QUARTER MUFFLET-TA

1 cup small cauliflowerettes, cooked crisp-tender
2/3 cup red wine and vinegar salad dressing
1/2 cup thinly sliced carrots, cooked crisp-tender
1/2 cup drained pitted ripe olives, coarsely chopped
2 garlic cloves, minced
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano leaves, crushed
6 individual Italian or torpedo rolls (about 6 inches long)
3/4 pound thinly sliced hard salami
1/4 pound thinly sliced provolone cheese
1/4 pound thinly sliced deli ham
Combine cauliflower, dressing, carrots, olives, garlic and oregano in bowl; mix well. Let stand at room temperature several hours, stirring occasionally, or cover and refrigerate overnight. Before using, let stand at room temperature 30 minutes.
To assemble sandwiches, split rolls lengthwise without cutting completely in half. Drizzle cut surfaces with liquid from olive salad. Arrange salami on bottom of each roll, dividing evenly. Cover with olive salad. Arrange cheese over olive salad. Cover cheese slices with ham. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Pizza Bits

L.A. Times-Washington Post News Service

America's fascination with pizza is illustrated by several interesting bits of information.

—Pizza-lovers spend $15 billion a year on pizza.

—Chicago has the highest per-capita consumption — 30 pounds a year. The national average is 22.5 pounds per American.

—At last count, there were more than 38,000 pizza restaurants in America. Eleven percent of all U.S. restaurants specialize in pizza, while 8.5 percent are hamburger outlets.

—Of every 10 pizzas ordered, six are for thin crust, four are for thick

—Americans eat 75 acres of pizza a day — more than 3.3 million square feet — enough to fit inside eight Houston Astrodomes and still have pizza left over.

—The most popular pizza eaten by Americans has three or more toppings. Cheese and pepperoni is second, and cheese alone comes on third.

VANILLA ICE CREAM

1 quart frozen non-dairy creamer, thawed
1 cup sugar
1 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/8 teaspoon salt
Pour non-dairy creamer directly into ice cream can. Add sugar, vanilla, and salt. Stir with wooden spoon or plastic spatula until sugar is dissolved. Process according to directions with ice cream freezer.

Chef Shares His Pastry Secrets

- 1/3 cup water
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons Kirsch
- Lemon Buttercream:
- 1/2 cup egg white
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 1/2 sticks butter
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon Kirsch
- Marzipan:
- 8 ounces almond paste
- 2 cups confectioners sugar
- 3 tablespoons corn syrup
- Yellow color

For the cake layer, beat the yolks with half the sugar and the lemon zest until very light. Grind the pistachios in the food processor and combine with the flour.

Beat the whites with the salt until white and opaque, increase the speed and add the remaining sugar in a stream. Beat the whites until they hold a firm peak. Fold the yolk mixture into the white, then fold in the pistachios and flour in several additions.

Spread the butter on a buttered and paper-lined 12x18-inch pan and bake the layer at 375 degrees about 10 minutes. Remove the layer from the pan immediately and cool it.

For the syrup, combine the sugar and water in a small pan and bring to a boil. Cool and stir in the Kirsch.

For the buttercream, combine the egg whites and sugar in the bowl of an electric mixer and whisk over simmering water until the egg whites are hot and the sugar is dissolved. Whip on medium speed until cold. Beat in the butter and continue beating until the buttercream is smooth. Beat in the lemon juice and the Kirsch very slowly.

Remove the paper from the cake layer and cut it in half, making 2 layers, each 12x9 inches. Place 1 layer on a cardboard and moisten it with half the syrup. Spread the layer with 1/3 the buttercream. Top with the other layer and moisten it with the remaining syrup. Spread the top with another 1/3 of the buttercream, reserving the rest to decorate the cakes later on. Chill the cake to set the buttercream.

Beat the almond paste and sugar with the paddle on low speed. Add the corn syrup a little at a time, then knead the marzipan smooth with the coloring. Cut the cake layer into 1/2-inch strips; roll out the marzipan and cover the strips. Cut strips into 1 1/2-inch squares and decorate with remaining buttercream.

TRUFFES CHAMPAGNES

This classic truffle takes its name from the finest grade of Cognac called "Fine Champagne." Sometimes I use a combination of Cognac and dark rum with equally good results.

- Truffle center:
- 1 cup cream
- 1 pound bittersweet chocolate
- 2 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 2 tablespoons Cognac
- Finishing:
- 1 pound bittersweet chocolate
- 1 cup cocoa powder

Cut the chocolate finely and place in a mixing bowl. Bring the cream to a boil and pour it over the cut chocolate. Allow to stand 1 to 2 minutes and stir smooth. Beat in the softened butter and cool to set. Beat with paddle on medium speed until light. Beat in Cognac.

Using a pastry bag with 1/2-inch plain tube, pipe out small truffles on paper and refrigerate to set. Melt and temper the chocolate for finishing and coat the truffles. Roll them in a pan of sifted cocoa powder, wait until the outsides set and shake off the excess cocoa in a strainer.

TRUFFES IVOIRES

These "ivory" or white truffles have an exquisitely smooth center. Orange liqueur and raspberry Eau de Vie are my favorites for flavoring the centers.

- Truffle center:
- 12 ounces white chocolate
- 4 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 6 tablespoons heavy cream
- 2 tablespoons liqueur
- Finishing:
- 1 pound bittersweet chocolate
- 1 cup confectioners sugar

Cut the white chocolate finely and combine it with the butter in a mixing bowl. Place over pan of hot, but not simmering water to melt, stirring constantly. Beat in cream a little at a time, until smooth. Pour into a non-aluminum pan and press plastic wrap against the surface. Refrigerate to set. Beat with paddle on medium speed until light. Beat in liqueur.

Using a pastry bag with a 1/2-inch plain tube, pipe out small truffles on paper and refrigerate to set. Melt and temper the chocolate for finishing and coat the truffles. Roll them in a pan of sifted confectioners sugar, wait until the outsides set and shake off the excess confectioners sugar in a strainer.

- 2 packages raspberries
  - 1/2 cup sugar
  - 2 tablespoons raspberry liqueur
- For the soufflé batter, bring the milk to a boil in a small saucepan. Meanwhile, rub the batter and flour together to form a paste. Beat the paste in to the boiling milk and continue beating over medium heat until a thick, smooth paste forms. Transfer the paste to a mixing bowl. Stir in the finely cut chocolate into the paste while it is still warm. Stir in the yolks one at a time, then the raspberry liqueur.

Beat the egg whites with the pinch of salt on medium speed until white and opaque. Increase the speed and beat in the sugar in a stream. Beat the egg whites until they hold a soft peak. Stir 1/4 of the egg whites into the batter, then fold in the remaining egg whites. Pour the batter into 6 buttered and sugared 5-ounce ramequins and bake the soufflés about 15 minutes, until well risen, but not dry.

For the raspberry sauce, combine the raspberries and sugar in a saucepan and bring to a boil. Lower heat and simmer about 10 minutes, until slightly thickened. Puree in food processor and strain. Cool and stir in liqueur.

BIJOUX PRALINES

The filling for these "jewels" is made from praline paste with a little chocolate and butter added. The name comes from the faceted molds I use for them. Any molds for filled chocolates can be substituted.

- Praline filling mixture:
- 10 ounces praline paste
- 1 ounce bittersweet or semisweet chocolate, melted
- 2 tablespoons unsalted butter
- Finishing:

- 1 pound bittersweet or semisweet chocolate

Heat the praline paste in a bowl over simmering water. Stir in the melted chocolate and the butter. Cool to room temperature, stirring occasionally. Melt and temper the chocolate for finishing. Select plaques with large round imprints. Spread the chocolate in imprints and shake to settle. Invert plaques and allow excess chocolate to drain out. Scrape tops clean with spatula. Refrigerate to set, about 20 minutes.

Pipe cooled filling into shells to about 7/8 height. Refrigerate again 10 minutes. Spread more tempered chocolate on filling and scrape away excess with spatula. Chill again. Unmold by hitting 1 end of plaque lightly against surface.

PETITE FRITURE

A popular French chocolate, the name means "small fry" and derives from the molds in the shape of different fish and shellfish.

- 1/2 ounce cocoa butter
  - 1/2 ounce chocolate liqueur
  - 1 pound white chocolate
- Cut an equal weight of cocoa butter and chocolate liquor very finely and combine them. Heat over hot water until about 120 degrees.* Remove from water and paint or spray onto fish-shaped molds. Allow the coating to set. Temper white chocolate and fill molds. Tap against surface to settle, then scrape top even with spatula. Refrigerate to set. Tap one side of plaque against surface to release.

*Chocolate temperatures in degrees: 110 to 125 to melt; 90 to 100 to cool. Add unmelted chocolate to seed. Reheat to 87-91 for dark; 84-86 for milk and white.

Coyle, a graduate of the Culinary Institute of America, was pastry chef for Windows of the World and later consulting chef for several of the restaurants in the World Trade Center. Since then she has owned her own catering business (seven years) and written two books, "Glorious American Food" with Christopher Idone, and "My First Cookbook" (Workman, 1985). She is now at work on "My First Baking Book," which will come out this spring.

"Baby Let's Eat" includes a list of what is not safe to serve to children, a chart indicating the seasonal availability of fruits and vegetables and among the more than 90 recipes, such as treats as Pureed Sweet Potatoes with Peaches, Pureed Steamed Butternut Squash with Grapes, Cider House Fish, Cheesey Tuna Casserole, Milk-Free and Vegetable Fettuccine, Brown Rice Pudding.

As for the book's aim, to calm the worried parent, Coyle explains, "It's amazing when a baby grows; you just don't know what to do, but don't worry — it gets there."

And below, for a festive and entertaining dish, is Bowtie Pasta Salad, which requires just oil in your cupboard before you dash through the express lane.

Express-lane List: pasta, peas, carrot, broccoli, tomato, cider vinegar, apple or orange juice concentrate, mint leaves and orange zest.

BOWTIE PASTA SALAD

- (4 servings)
- 2 cups bowtie pasta
- 1/2 cup soft-cooked peas, mashed
- 1 medium carrot, peeled, diced, and cooked
- 1 cup cooked tiny broccoli flowerets
- 1 small tomato, cored and coarsely chopped
- 1/4 cup apple-cider vinegar
- 1 tablespoon frozen apple- or orange-juice concentrate, thawed
- 2 tablespoons safflower oil
- 8 mint leaves, thinly sliced,
- or 1/2 teaspoon dried mint
- Grated zest of 1/2 orange

Bring a large pot of water to a boil. Add the bowtie noodles and cook until just tender, about 10 minutes. Drain; rinse the pasta under cold water; drain again. Put the pasta in a bowl with the vegetables. In a separate bowl, mix together the vinegar, juice concentrate, oil, mint, and orange zest.

Toss the vinaigrette with the pasta and vegetables. Refrigerate 30 minutes before serving.

Caramel And Lemon: An Attraction Of Opposites

By Peggy Katalinich
L.A. Times-Washington Post
News Service

Caramel and lemon, crusty sweet and tart, form an unbeatable flavor combination.

I've been seeing the duo more and more on restaurant dessert carts, the most spectacular rendition an airy lemon soufflé in a spun-sugar cage in a caramel sauce. That, however, is only for the most dedicated dessert crafter — too many steps and too much work for the rest of us.

These recipes are within the realm of do-ability and are nearly as delicious as that artful creation. After experimenting with making the caramel sauce, I prefer to "melt" the sugar directly and not add the water as some books suggest.

Be sure to use a sturdy, deep saucepan for the task, and as soon as the sugar turns brown, remove it from the heat and add the water. It may crack and complain, but stir vigorously, and all will work out. The lemon pie is from La Varenne, the Paris cooking school.

CARAMEL SAUCE

- 1 cup sugar
  - 1/3 cup hot water
  - 1 cup heavy cream, heated
  - 2 tablespoons butter
1. Place sugar in a heavy deep saucepan and cook over medium heat, stirring often, until sugar turns brown and then liquefies. Do not let it burn.
  2. Remove from heat and let cool briefly, then add hot water and stir briskly (sugar will bubble and boil, then subside). Return to heat and cook briefly. Stir in cream and cook briefly. Remove from heat and place butter on top of sauce. To serve, stir in.

LEMON CUSTARD

- 2 whole eggs
  - 3 egg yolks
  - 3 tablespoons lemon juice
  - 2 cups half-and-half,
  - less 3 tablespoons
  - 3/4 cup sugar
1. Beat eggs, yolks and lemon juice together lightly. Heat half-and-half and sugar; when quite warm, stir into eggs. Pour into 6 (4-ounce) custard cups.
  2. Place cups in a baking dish and add hot water to the pan to come up halfway on the cups. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes or until set. Remove and let cool. Unmold onto plates and pour warmed sauce around base. Makes 6 servings.

LEMON PIE

- Sweet pastry dough (consult basic cookbook)
  - 3 eggs
  - 1/2 cup sugar
  - Grated rind and juice of 2 lemons
  - 3/4 cup melted butter
  - 3/4 cup whole blanched almonds, ground
  - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1. Make the pastry and chill 30 minutes. Roll out 1/4 inch thick and line a 10-inch tart pan with removable sides. Chill 30 minutes.
  2. Beat the eggs and sugar until light and lemon-colored. Stir in rind and juice, then add butter, almonds and vanilla. Pour into tart pan and bake 30 to 35 minutes or until filling is golden and set.
  3. Let pie cool to room temperature. Serve slices on top of warm caramel sauce. Makes 8 servings.

Consumers Reacting To Health Warnings

By CAROL DEEGAN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There is increasing concern today about the consumption of fats, and this concern is reflected in two national surveys.

One survey says Americans have reduced their use of margarine, butter and oils in recent years. The other says low-cholesterol entrees are becoming more popular in many U.S. restaurants.

"Butter, Margarine & Oils" is the name of a survey by MRCA Information Services, a marketing information company with offices in Stamford, Conn., Northbrook, Ill., and Austin, Tex.

Overall, according to MRCA, Americans used food fats 17 percent less often in 1986 than in 1981. Consumption of margarine and margarine-type spreads declined 19 percent; liquid oils slipped 16 percent, and butter fell 7 percent.

Edmond Mozes, vice president and general manager of MRCA's Consumption Information Services, says:

"Reacting to health warnings, consumers have been changing their diets, lowering but not eliminating their intake of high-fat additives and beginning to use low-calorie-low fat margarine as well as butter-margarine-oil blends to substitute for higher-fat products."

Mozes says other reasons for the decrease in the consumption of high-fat products include:

— A decline in home preparation and consumption of breads and sandwiches, red meats, potatoes and other vegetables to which butter, margarine and oils are used or added at the table.

— A trend toward more simple meals and less baking at home, combined with the growth of carry-in foods.

"Interestingly," he added, "despite nutritionists' messages, consumers who prefer the taste of 'real' butter appear unwilling to switch to other products."

Substituting low-fat for higher-fat products has also been a factor. According to the survey, low-calorie-low fat margarine has demonstrated broad appeal to dieters and non-dieters alike, with its use increasing 6 percent from 1981 to 1986.

Blends are also showing increased popularity, according to the survey.

The report says: "Though still representing less than 2 percent of the total additive market for fats and oils in 1986, the dramatic growth in blends from relative non-existence five years earlier merits careful attention from producers of butter, margarine and margarine-type spreads."

The findings of the "Butter, Margarine & Oils" study by MRCA are based on two nationally representative samples of 5,500 people in 2,000 U.S. households each.

On a similar note, a survey by Merck Sharp & Dohme, a Pennsylvania pharmaceutical company, says that Americans dining out are ordering less steak and more low-cholesterol entrees.

A survey of 1,200 restaurants listed in "The Best Restaurants in America" (Simon & Schuster, 1985) netted 173 responses, the company said, including those from the Four Seasons and Windows on the World in New York City, Spago in West Hollywood, Calif., and Dominique's in Washington, D.C.

Patrons at nearly 75 percent of the restaurants responding to the survey are ordering less cholesterol-rich red meat, and at 93 percent of the restaurants, customers are ordering fewer dishes with heavy sauces.

Fish and chicken are two of the more popular low-cholesterol entrees, the survey said. More vegetables, salads and pasta dishes are being added to menus, and several restaurants now offer special "heart healthy" selections.

Seventy-three percent of the restaurants surveyed said they had adapted their menus to meet more healthful standards for cholesterol and fat content.

Ruperto Rodriguez, manager of Le Trianon at the Helmsley Palace Hotel in New York City, says, "We run a series of low cholesterol menus which we rotate."

In addition to offering grilled or broiled foods, many restaurants also feature poached or steamed dishes as alternatives to fried foods or dishes with heavy sauces.

Why the change? Wolfgang Puck, of Spago, says, "If nutrition and good health are a lifestyle, they cannot be totally disregarded when dining out."

Jose Romero Jr. of Boston's Casa Romero has a similar opinion. He says, "Fine dining and healthful and nutritious food are not mutually exclusive."

However, Esther Michael of Detroit's Shiek Restaurant has a different view. She says, "Dining out is special. Diets are for the home."

Interestingly, the survey noted that despite preferences for low-cholesterol entrees, customers are not giving up cholesterol-rich desserts. Sixty-five percent of the restaurants surveyed said the richer the dessert, the better it sells.

IT'S FOODLAND'S

Cookbook Loaded With Homey Foods

By MARY MacVEAN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK — Carrie Levin and Ann Nickinson love ketchup — the store-bought kind. And that is a clue to the contents of their cookbook full of homey and comfortable foods, familiar if not old favorites.

"With food you can always go home again," the authors say in the introduction to "Good Enough to Eat" (Simon and Schuster), the name of both their new book and their restaurant in Manhattan.

"It's very kid food, the look of abundance," Nickinson added in a recent interview at the restaurant. Nickinson grew up in Boston, had no formal training in food but went to work cooking and selling food wholesale from her home. Levin grew up in Belgium, cooked often for her family, trained in London and worked at two famous New York City restaurants, The Russian Tea Room and The Four Seasons.

Still, they say, their attitudes about and tastes in food are remarkably similar.

Many of the experiences they write about in their book come from their restaurant, which opened in 1983, in the midst of a nostalgia craze for just the memories of Sunday dinner at Grandma's their food evokes. There are also some treats Mom, if not Grandma, probably would have forbidden, such as chocolate waffles for breakfast.

"We didn't create the trend, but it's time for the cookbook," Nickinson said. "We wouldn't have done it differently five years ago or five years from now. We both have a lot of conviction about what we're doing."

Their book even looks sweet, with line drawings, some in color, by Levin's sister-in-law, of pots and pans, tables brimming with food, and animals. A telltale bottle of ketchup gets star billing in a drawing about leftovers.

The recipes are not all easy, and often they spice up old standards with sophistication (no mushy vegetables, smoked mozzarella in the macaroni and cheese). But many readers and cooks will feel as if they're with old friends, including a meatloaf that uses canned soup and which Levin served at her wedding. There's also beef stew, chicken noodle soup and chicken pot pie, codfish cakes and baked beans, and, of course, "Mom's Apple Pie."

The food is not for strict diets; cream, butter, white sugar and salt appear often. "We are not trying to be all things to all people," Nickinson said. "But everything is fresh and good."

In addition to recipes, the authors get down to basics — how to roast garlic and nuts or boil an egg — and offer homespun advice: sprinkle a little sugar on bacon as it cooks.

"Ann and I have always wanted to teach, so the book is like a lesson book," said Levin, who in college in France wrote a 250-page paper on eggs. "When we say minced garlic we want people to know what we mean."

Evening meals are organized by menu, though many dishes are interchangeable. Special recipes for holiday meals are included, as is a chapter on what to do with leftovers.

Their cookbook worked like their other ventures, said Levin. "All we do is throw ourselves into things. I could be a 100-person wedding cake and no one tells the other she doesn't know how to do it."

The following is a recipe for breakfast potatoes from Nickinson and Levin's "Good Enough to Eat" cookbook:

OUR SPECIAL BREAKFAST POTATOES

- 8 tablespoons clarified butter
- 4 tablespoons chopped onion
- 2 Idaho potatoes, grated
- 1/2 teaspoon kosher salt
- Dash pepper

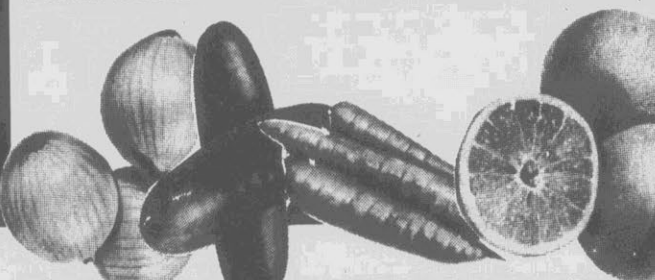

Heat butter in skillet over high heat until butter just begins to smoke. Add the onion and cook 1 minute, stirring occasionally. Add the potatoes, distributing them evenly over the pan; do not flatten. Add salt and pepper. When the edges start to curl and brown, flip the entire pancake with spatula. Turn heat to medium and saute until the pancake is golden on both sides, about 8 minutes.

Keep potatoes warm, uncovered, a 200-degree oven while making additional servings, if needed.

"YOUR ALL-TIME FAVORITE ACADEMY AWARD FILMS"
NATIONAL SWEEPSTAKES

JCPenney National Sweepstakes Official
Rules - No purchase necessary

The Sweepstakes is open to all residents of the U.S. and its territories, 18 years of age or older, except employees and their families of J. C. Penney, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, ProMark Promotions and Marketing, their subsidiaries and advertising agencies. Fill out the official entry blank by printing your name, address and telephone number and checking off your 5 favorite all-time Academy Award winning films appearing on the back of the official entry form. Then deposit your entry at any participating J. C. Penney store during normal hours from March 1 through April 2, 1988. Sweepstakes and entry blanks available in approximately 700 participating larger J. C. Penney stores.

For Ohio residents only: You need not go to a J. C. Penney store to enter. Just write your name, address and phone number and the names of your 5 favorite all-time Academy Award winning films (listed in this advertisement) ment) on a 4 x 6" piece of paper and mail it to: J. C. Penney National Sweepstakes, Box 506, Depew, New York 14043. All mail-in entries must be received by April 2, 1988.

Enter as often as you wish but only one entry per store visit or per envelope.

Five winners will be selected by a random drawing to be held by June 1, 1988. One winner will be chosen from each of J. C. Penney's Marketing Regions. Drawing will be conducted by an independent organization whose determination will be final, and winners will be notified by mail. Winners need not be present to win.

Each of the 5 winners will receive: 2 round trip coach class air fare tickets from the airport nearest the winner's home to Los Angeles via American Airlines; deluxe hotel accommodations for 4 nights, 5 days, at the Bel-Age Hotel; and the use of an Avis rent-a-car for 5 days. All other expenses will be the responsibility of the winners. Approximate value of each prize is $3,000 based on airfare from New York to Los Angeles. (Actual value will depend on city of departure.) All trips must be taken between July 15, 1988 and December 31, 1988. Reservations can be on a space available basis only. All prizes will be awarded.

All taxes are the sole responsibility of winners. All Federal, state and local laws apply. Void where prohibited by law. By entry into the Sweepstakes, winners consent to full commercial use of their names and photographs without further compensation. Winners will be required to execute an affidavit of eligibility and release.

All mutilated, illegible or mechanically reproduced entries will be disqualified. No responsibility is assumed for lost, late or misdirected mail. Incomplete entries will be disqualified. No cash in lieu of prizes. Prizes are not transferable.

For a list of the prize winners, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: J. C. Penney National Sweepstakes, P.O. Box 506, Depew, New York 14043.
