ON THE MOVE — Troops from the 1st Battalion of the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg board an Air Force C-141 transport at Pope Air Force Base this morning for their flight to Honduras for "deployment in an emergency readiness exercise." President Reagan ordered American soldiers into Honduras Wednesday night after reporting that Nicaraguan troops had crossed the border separating the two Central American countries. (AP Laserphoto)

Bragg Troopers Go To Honduras

By The Associated Press

Troops in combat gear kissed their wives and girlfriends goodbye today as the United States sent 3,200 soldiers to Honduras as part of a "measured response" to Nicaragua's incursion into that Central American nation.

About 1,500 soldiers, or two battalions of the 7th Light Infantry Division at Fort Ord, Calif., would join two battalions from the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N.C., and support units, the White House said Wednesday.

The first of 26 C-141 transport planes left Pope Air Force Base in Fayetteville, N.C., at 7:30 a.m. EST, carrying troops to Palmerola air base in Honduras, a three-hour flight. The planes would leave 30 minutes apart, said Lt. Gen. John W. Foss.

"The soldiers are well-trained and prepared for this mission," said Foss, commander of the 18th Airborne Corps at Fort Bragg. "They're excited but I would not say they are nervous."

Dozens of trucks carrying troops and supplies from Fort Ord arrived shortly after 7 a.m. EST at Travis Air Force Base. Several wives were told by their husbands that the battalions would be flown to Florida, then to Honduras. Travis officials said they could not confirm that arrangement.

The White House on Wednesday ordered troops to Honduras in "an emergency deployment readiness exercise" triggered by what it called the invasion of Honduras by 1,500 to 2,000 Nicaraguan forces pursuing Contra rebels.

Military intelligence sources in Honduras said late Wednesday that about 2,000 Sandinista troops were surrounded three miles inside Honduras. Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega said troops had chased Contra rebels into Honduran territory, but would not say whether the soldiers had crossed the border.

All 11,400 members of Fort Ord's Rapid Deployment Force were engaged in a deployment readiness exercise when word came that two battalions, between 1,100 and 1,200 soldiers, would go to Honduras, officials said.

At Fort Bragg, soldiers kissed their wives goodbye at marshaling points on the sprawling base.

"It was really exciting," Pfc. Eugene Rice, 21, told The Charlotte (N.C.) Observer. "It was like, something's really going to happen. We're finally going to get a chance to use our training."

Another soldier told the News and Observer of Raleigh. "They told us to get our stuff together. They're rigging trucks that they've never rigged before. People don't know what to think. They don't know whether we're going to war or just doing a little peace-keeping. They're on ends right now."

"If we're going to do it, let's do it," Sgt. John Jones of Atlanta said as he waited to board a plane.

Lt. Jim Cooper was in a class when he got his orders, so he didn't get a chance to say good-bye to his wife. "We are not allowed to do that," he said. "But she understands."

As he spoke, Cooper put camouflage paint on the face of Lt. Steve Swinley. "It's like a job," Swinley explained. "We train to do our job."

The men said morale was soaring. "It's the best I've ever seen," said Cooper. "We're 100 percent ready."

Ortega Puts Nation On Alert

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Daniel Ortega said Sandinista troops had forced 2,000 Contras into Honduran territory, and he warned the nation that U.S. forces may invade Nicaragua to save the rebels.

"The United States, disrespectful of international law and disrespectful of the principles of the American constitution, is threatening today (Wednesday) to directly employ its military forces to save the mercenaries," Ortega said, referring to the U.S.-supported Contra rebels.

Ortega was reacting to an initial report by the White House that the United States was considering "everything ... short of invasion" after President Jose Azcona Hoyo of Honduras accused Nicaragua of sending troops across the border into his country and asked President Reagan for help.

Late Wednesday, the White House announced about 3,200 U.S. troops would be sent to Honduras today, but would not be deployed "to any area of ongoing hostilities," namely the Honduras-Nicaragua border, where fighting raged Wednesday between Nicaraguan soldiers and the Contras.

There was no official reaction Wednesday night from the leftist Sandinista government to the announced deployment of U.S. troops.

However, soon after the announcement was made, the government took control of all radio stations and broadcast that Nicaraguan troops were being mobilized throughout the country.

The stations also broadcast revolutionary music.

Ortega told reporters: "We are calling on the Nicaraguan public to be alert, to be in combat readiness, ready to repel, resist, defeat whatever aggression from the United States."

Presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater in Washington said the U.S. soldiers were to carry out training exercises and be "a signal to the governments and the people of Central America."

County Planners Vote To Curb Roadway Signs

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Planning Board, following a public hearing Wednesday night, gave its approval to a proposed ordinance designed to regulate outdoor advertising signs along highways throughout the county.

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners, which must adopt the ordinance before it becomes law, has scheduled a public hearing on the proposed regulations for April 5.

As approved by the planning board, the proposal would allow billboards to be placed within 500 feet of the principal structure of commercial or industrial facilities that have both frontage and access to a roadway. But the proposed ordinance would require outdoor advertising signs to be placed at least 1,000 feet apart.

The proposed ordinance would also restrict signs to 400 square feet — a maximum of 20 vertical feet and 40 horizontal feet, with a maximum height of 35 feet.

And as recommended by the planning board, signs would have to be 50 feet from the highway right-of-way and would have to be at least 500 feet from a lot containing an existing residence, church, school or public institution.

The proposal also requires all existing signs to be registered with the county and places administration of the ordinance in the hands of the county's inspections department.

The proposed sign ordinance resulted from action by the Board of Commissioners in February which placed a 90-day ban on billboards along the U.S. 264 corridor in Pitt County to give the planning board time to draft a plan to regulate signs along that roadway. But rather than look only at the U.S. 264 freeway, the planning board decided to draft regulations covering all highways in the county.

At the public hearing, Charles Coble of Greenville voiced support for the proposed ordinance, but urged "a total ban" on billboards along the U.S. 264 freeway. And he asked that the Pitt Board of Commissioners contact county boards in Nash, Wilson and Greene counties asking for similar action.

Steve Blades and Ruth Leggett, both members of the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission, also voiced support for controlling outdoor advertising signs, but asked the county planning body to adopt even stricter regulations.

"I would hate to see U.S. 264 turn out like Greenville Boulevard," Blades said. "To do what we've done to Greenville Boulevard is a crime."

He then urged the county planning body to consider regulating not only billboards but on-premises signs as well.

Chris McCoy, chairman-elect of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce, urged the adoption of the proposed ordinance, "as is."

The only opposition to the ordinance was voiced by Frank Everett, a representative of Carolina Postage — a company that handles 72-square-foot signs — and Johnny Smith, a land-owner who has signed an agreement with a company to locate two billboards on his property.

Everett asked that the board consider separate regulations for smaller signs, suggesting that a 50-foot setback would be too great for a 72-square-foot sign, while Smith said the proposed ordinance would "eliminate businesses" along the U.S. 264 corridor and hurt landowners who would lease land to sign companies.

During a discussion among board members following the hearing, Jack Tyson and Ed Hemingway said they would like to see a more stringent ordinance. "Ban signs on U.S. 264 and elsewhere," Tyson suggested.

But Archie Rogers, Milton Spain and John McConney expressed the belief that the ordinance is "as fair as it can be (and) covers very well what this county needs at this time," in Spain's words.

Asked by McConney what effect the ordinance would have on signs along the U.S. 264 freeway, County

Jury Indicts North, Poindexter

By RONALD J. OSTROW
L.A.S. Times-Washington Post
News Service

WASHINGTON — A federal grand jury Wednesday indicted Lt. Col. Oliver L. North, retired Rear Adm. John M. Poindexter and two others for conspiracy to defraud the United States and theft of government property in the Iran-Contra scandal.

Poindexter, President Reagan's former national security adviser, and North, a White House aide on Poindexter's staff, were accused of secretly supporting Nicaragua's Contras with profits from U.S. arms sales to Iran.

North, who could be sentenced to 85 years in prison if convicted on all counts, and Poindexter, who faces a potential 40 years' imprisonment, were also charged with obstructing Congress and making false statements to cover up their alleged conspiracy.

The sweeping 23-count indictment also accused retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard V. Secord and his business colleague, Albert A. Hakim, of taking part in the alleged conspiracy. Secord and Hakim were charged with exploiting the Iran arms sales for purposes of helping to secretly support the Nicaraguan rebels and personally enriching themselves.

The conspirators obstructed lawful government functions "by deceitfully and without legal authorization organizing, directing and concealing" a program to finance Contra military and paramilitary operations during a period when Congress had restricted such covert actions, the indictment said.

Lawrence E. Walsh, the independent counsel who has been overseeing the Iran-Contra investigation for 15 months, said the indictment constituted "an interim report" by the grand jury, which has "not finished" and will return to work Monday.

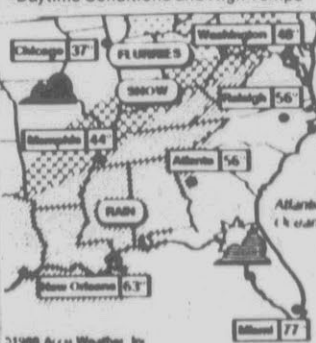

Although Walsh refused to say whether additional persons are likely to be charged, the indictment cited "others known and unknown to the grand jury" as having taken part in the alleged conspiracy.

Hours before the indictments,

FDIC Issues $1 Billion Bailout

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. today advanced $1 billion to banks owned by First RepublicBank Corp., a Dallas holding company, in a rescue package that could ultimately rival the government's largest bank bailout.

FDIC Chairman L. William Seidman called the assistance "an interim step" to provide needed stability to First Republic's subsidiaries and depositors.

Seidman said his agency, which insures deposits at commercial banks, would guarantee all of the subsidiary banks' deposits as well as money owed to general creditors of the banks. Creditors of the holding company are not protected by this arrangement, he said.

The action goes beyond the minimum the agency would normally be expected to back up, which is deposits of $100,000 and less.

First RepublicBank is the 13th largest in the nation, with $33.2 billion in assets and 73 subsidiary banks. The holding company reported a loss of $656 million last year.

First RepublicBank acknowledged

Tuesday it had been forced to seek federal aid because of a deteriorating loan portfolio and difficulty in raising deposits.

A First RepublicBank spokesman said Wednesday the bank had experienced a runoff of deposits the day before, but that the situation apparently had stabilized. An earlier drain of deposits and customer defections had forced it to begin preliminary discussions with the FDIC, the spokesman said.

Seidman said the FDIC was seeking a long-term solution to the holding company's problems and was talking to private investors who may want to participate in a restructuring of the company.

He declined to be more specific, but in past transactions the agency has provided insurance money in conjunction with an infusion of funds from private investment groups.

The largest-ever bank rescue was the $4.5 billion rescue in 1984 of Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust of Chicago. The FDIC expects to recoup much of its initial outlay in that bailout, and expects its ultimate cost to be about $1.7 billion.

Workshop Scheduled On Crisis Training

A workshop to instruct police and social workers on how to help people in times of crisis will be conducted March 23-25 by the East Carolina University School of Social Work.

The three-day workshop at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Greenville will deal with a variety of issues affecting families such as sudden death, AIDS and other serious illnesses, loss of job, a runaway child, suicide, divorce, and victims of violent crime. Greenville police and social workers from the Pitt County Department of Social Services will attend the workshop.

"Crisis is too often seen as someone else's problem," said Dr. John Y. Powell, an ECU assistant professor who teaches crisis intervention. He said almost every family is touched at some time or other by a devastating event and often the event seems to throw life out of control.

"We are seeking to train police and social workers to help our citizens to grow positively from crisis events as opposed to becoming psychological cripples," Powell said.

The idea for the workshop came as a suggestion from Denise Voncannon of the Greenville Police Department. Ms. Voncannon had asked if the ECU School of Social Work could develop a specialized training program in crisis intervention.

"We decided that the community would benefit most if police officers and social workers could spend several days grappling with the varied crises that citizens face," Powell said.

Members of the ECU Social Work faculty volunteered to lead discussions in their area of expertise involving social work and criminal justice. In addition, the Pitt County Mental Health Center, Pitt County Memorial Hospital, Family Violence Center, REAL Crisis Intervention Center, the ECU Counseling Center, the School of Medicine, Department of Social Services and Greenville Police Department agreed to assist and participate.

Possession Charge

Clarence Bernard Harris, 34, of 1308B Colonial Ave. was arrested by Greenville police Wednesday on a charge of possession with intent to sell and deliver cocaine.

Officer T.E. Evans said Harris was taken into custody about 5 p.m. at the intersection of Sixth and 14th streets. A bicycle, $433 in cash and four vials of crack — a form of cocaine — were confiscated when Harris was arrested, Evans said.

Theft-Drug Counts

Greenville police have arrested Denise Lynn Stancil, 19, of Rocky Mount on larceny and possession of marijuana charges.

Sgt. T.V. Woolard said Ms. Stancil was charged in connection with the theft of $45 worth of fishing gear from Nichols Discount City on Greenville Boulevard on Friday.

Permits Issued

The Greenville Police Department has issued solicitation permits to three Greenville agencies.

Permits were authorized for: Red Oak Volunteer Fire Department to raise money by selling family portraits in the Red Oak Fire District through March 31; the Junior Woman's Club of Winterville to conduct a solicitation at Carolina East Mall and The Plaza from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. through April 30, and the Wishing Well of Eastern North Carolina to raise money at Green Springs Park from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on April 2 for children with life threatening diseases.

Improvements Needed For Growth

Eastern North Carolina is often probed and studied for signs of economic health.

The statistics are usually not reassuring, although it is a mistake to measure the area by figures alone. It is well known there are large rural areas where growth has been non-existent. Indeed, population losses are often the rule for areas where tobacco is declining, the railroad tracks are being taken up and there is little of economic value coming in.

On the other hand there are also growth areas with Pitt County being a prime example. Wilson, Nash and Edgecombe Counties are among those which have been able to attract industry and show growth. There are other counties such as Wayne, Craven, Onslow, Lenoir, Beaufort and Martin which are having success in economic improvement.

In addition the coastal areas of Eastern North Carolina are riding the unprecedented crest of recreational development which is rapidly making North Carolina's beaches the playground of the east coast. That is a unique source of growth that nature has given us.

Morehead City and Wilmington have the advantages of deep water ports which offer unlimited potential for improved economics.

Other areas will need help if we are to improve the quality of life. Northeastern North Carolina, for instance, is situated virtually a stone's throw from one of the major population areas of the nation in Tidewater Virginia. The northeast, however, has never had the needed roads to connect it to this rich market. Because the area is off in a corner of the state, its needs are not readily seen by the politicians in Raleigh. Yet, a good system of dual laned highways could involve the area in a populous market. The road system should extend as far as Greenville to give the northeast population ready access to the high level of medical care that is available here, and to improve commerce throughout eastern North Carolina.

If less advantaged areas of our state are going to advance creative planning will have to be done, not only by local planners but by the state. This may mean biting the bullet to provide proper highways and other facilities, but it should be done because we should all share in North Carolina's economic good fortune.

Public Deserves To Know Truth

Former national security adviser Robert C. McFarlane attempted to put an end to his involvement in the Iran-Contra affair by pleading guilty to four misdemeanor charges of withholding information from Congress on administration activities.

McFarlane pled guilty to keeping from Congress activities by the Reagan administration to assist Nicaraguan Contra rebels while military aid was banned.

McFarlane admitted to Judge Aubrey E. Robinson, Jr. that information he withheld involved activities of Lt. Col. Oliver L. North and other National Security Council staff members.

He also said he withheld information from the House Foreign Affairs Committee in telling the committee he was not aware of efforts to solicit donations for the Contras from another nation.

Following the court appearance McFarlane told reporters, "My actions were motivated by what I believed to be in the foreign policy interest of the United States."

McFarlane was told he could receive the maximum of four years in prison on each charge.

McFarlane may be sacrificing himself in this matter, but efforts should not cease to find the full truth. The questions remain as to how much the president knew. And, since Vice President George Bush is a high flying candidate for the GOP presidential nomination our nation should know the extent of his involvement in this matter.

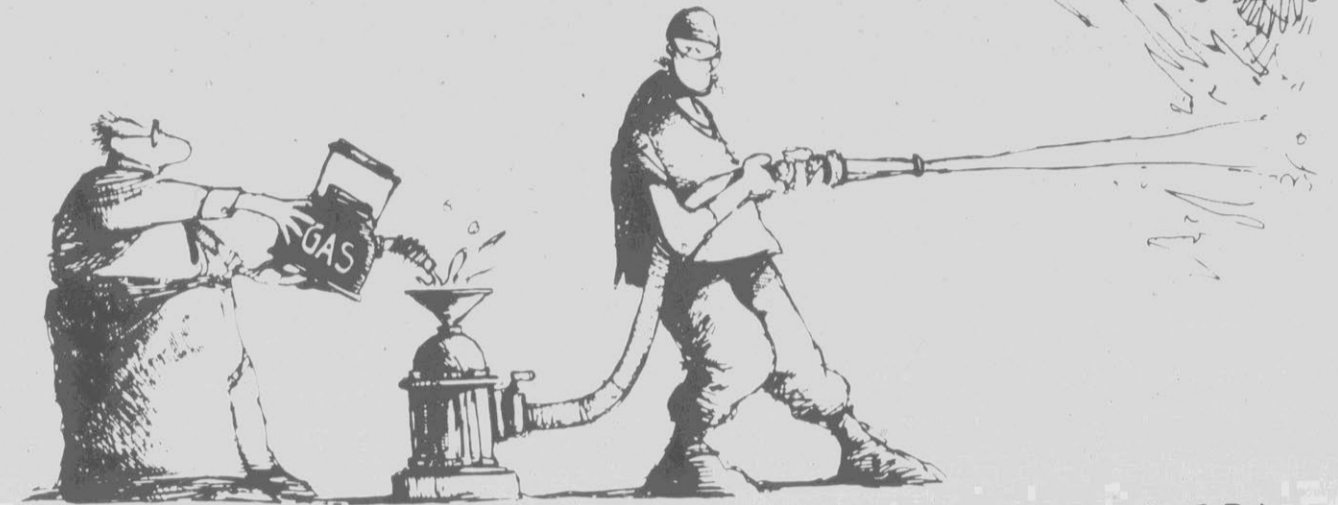

Bush bristles at the questions and his exchange with CBS anchor Dan Rather is now famous. Nevertheless the questions should not be skirted, most particularly since the vice president could become the president next year.

The Iran-Contra affair was a sordid one for United States' foreign affairs. It is clear that Congress was deceived and the administration was either a part of it or it was deceived, too.

We are a long way from the full truth in this matter and public should know just what went on in the White House.

To the editor:

On Wednesday, March 2, Congress passed HR 1214 which is entitled, "Civil Rights Restoration Act." The Senate had already passed a similar act. Before becoming law, it must be signed by President Reagan, who is expected to veto the bill. It would then go back to Congress where there are much support and powerful lobbies to override the veto.

Congress has shown in recent months great desire to oppose anything President Reagan does; for example, the refusal to confirm the nomination of Judge Bork and the denial of aid to the Contras. This anti-Reagan disposition, together with extensive Congressional favor for homosexuals and with powerful and vigorous lobbying makes it probable that Congress may override the veto and HR 1214 will become the law of the land.

HR 1214 is a large bill having many parts, some quite desirable. But some parts are disastrous. The bill qualifies active homosexuals, alcoholics, drug addicts and transvestites as handicapped people. Thus, these people become beneficiaries of other laws for the handicapped and/or minorities.

Businesses, schools and other employers, perhaps including churches, by law, would be required to employ these persons. These people would also acquire certain social and housing rights. Of the five contestants for Democratic Presidential nomination, four are endorsed by and cater to homosexuals.

Write to Congressman Walter Jones and Senator Terry Sanford and ask them why they voted for HR1214 or the Senate version. Perhaps they had not studied the bill. Then will they vote to sustain the veto? Note that, to override the veto, the bill must get a two-thirds vote in both houses on the intact bill, no changes, with the outrageous qualifying of active homosexuals, alcoholics, drug addicts and transvestites as handicapped and, therefore, privileged.

To the editor:

The roadsides of the new sections of U.S. 264 between Wilson and Greenville are disgraceful because of litter. I drove over these sections Saturday and was ashamed. There are hundreds, even thousands, of bottles and tons of paper and trash of all types on these roadsides. I have never seen so much unsightly litter.

Two things are necessary: One, strict enforcement of litter laws and punishment of the perpetrators. Second, clean-up. I wonder if a volunteer effort could be organized. If volunteers would go out and clean up a half-mile or quarter-mile, it would take only 100 or so for a few hours. I believe the Highway Patrol would provide safety for those who would volunteer to clean up these otherwise beautiful roads. Such an effort, if successful, might be extended to other stretches of highway during the spring.

Suggestion Meets With Healthy Skepticism

WASHINGTON — Democratic National Committee Chairman Paul G. Kirk Jr.'s call for a political summit conference in June to rally support behind the front-runner has been met with a mix of modest support and healthy skepticism from some of its likely attendees.

Kirk, who floated the proposal in a luncheon with journalists, said he wanted to avert a "multiballot struggle" and "an intensely interesting media week" at the party's national convention in Atlanta, July 18 to 21.

But his desire for a tidy renomination bartering and healing process — in the increasingly likely event that none of the candidates comes close to winning the nomination during the primary and caucus season — flies in the face of the political dynamics that could well be operating at that stage, several political experts said Tuesday.

"The problem with the Kirk scenario is that every candidate is going to have some kind of convention strategy," said Elaine Kamarck, a political science professor who helped craft many of the party's rules. "You look to shape your fights in the credentials or the rules or the platform committees. You try for a test vote. And no one is going to want to get in a room beforehand as long as the candidates are pursuing their own convention strategies."

Kamarck's assessment points to the single most salient feature of any bargaining council: Its key players would have to be the candidates themselves, the people who have accumulated delegates. Other party leaders would be included, but their role primarily would be counsel and persuade, not to control blocs of delegates in the manner, say, of the late Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley. Party reforms have written such local chieftains out of the process.

On top of that, the candidates themselves would not have full control over their delegates. Under rules adopted after the 1980 Democratic convention, "committed" delegates are free to vote for whomever they please, on the first and all ensuing ballots.

Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., who got back into the delegate hunt this week with his big win in Illinois, pointed out on NBC's "Today Show" Wednesday morning that "the problem with a meeting like that is none of us speak for our delegates."

Simon does not have a chance of winning a first-ballot nomination. He is one of the candidates who seems likely to try to hold his delegates into the convention, where he would hope that he could emerge in a deadlock because he has more "second choice" support than anyone else in the five-man field.

Simon's reprieve this week in Illinois — and the attempt by Rep. Richard A. Gephardt, D-Mo., to pull the same feat March 26 in Michigan — point out another complication. Never in modern history has the Democratic field remained so large so deep into the process. "We've had a real failure to die this year," noted Kamarck, who worked until last month for one of the few obliging corpses of 1988 — former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt. "It's a real problem."

After the Illinois primary, Associated Press delegate totals show Massachusetts Gov. Michael S. Dukakis in the lead with 465 national convention delegates, Jesse L. Jackson close behind at 461, Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore Jr. at 355, Simon at 172 and Gephardt at 145, with 273 uncommitted. It takes 2,082 for nomination. No candidate is a quarter of the way to that goal, and nearly half the delegates already have been selected.

Kirk, New York Gov. Mario Cuomo and other party leaders have suggested this week that whoever has the most convention delegates after the June 7 primaries in California and New Jersey should quickly be annointed the consensus nominee — perhaps in a ticket with another candidate who has also accumulated a large bloc of delegates.

But if the vote fragmentation of the first 29 state caucuses and primaries persists, it is possible that the frontrunner won't have even 40 percent of the delegates at the end of the primary season. The effort by party elders to annoint him the nominee is not likely to sit well with the others. "They won't be looking for party peace," said Peter G. Kelly, a former finance chairman of the DNC and now a leading Gore supporter. "They will be looking to come out a winner."

In this situation, the votes of 645 "super-delegates" — members of the DNC, governors, and 80 percent of all Democratic members of Congress — would become critical. Jackson has already started down what could be a collision course with party leaders over the rules that created them.

This group — 15.5 percent of the total of 4,162 convention delegates — was created prior to the 1984 convention by supporters of Walter F. Mondale. In theory, their independence was supposed to offer "ballast" against the interest groups and ideological excesses that had seized control of party conventions of the recent past. In real-politic, they were created to pave the way for Mondale's nomination.

According to rough estimates from various camps, Dukakis has public commitments from about 75 superdelegates, Gephardt from about 90, Jackson about 30 and Simon about 25. Some, but not all, of these commitments are reflected in the Associated Press delegate tally.

Jackson has already begun to argue that the apportionment of the 645 should reflect the popular votes won in the primaries — even though the rules expressly give the group refuge from the proportionality that controls all other delegates.

"We're pretty confident that when all the primaries are over, we'll have the most popular votes," Jackson campaign manager Gerald Austin said Wednesday. "If we don't wind up with the majority of the delegates, or with the nomination, it will be the first time in history that the nominee will be someone who didn't win the most votes from the people. That raises a lot of interesting questions."

Austin hinted that Jackson would go outside the process and make a public appeal to fairness. Kamarck said she doubted it would work. "(Massachusetts Sen. Edward M.) Kennedy tried that in 1980, when he tried to get rid of the 'faithful delegate rule,'" she recalled. "But taking your case public doesn't matter. The only thing that matters in a convention are the delegates."

They matter so much they are already being courted and stroked. "It's totally retail politics," said Susan Brophy, Dukakis' chief tracker for superdelegates. "We know who they are, what they do for a living, what their dogs and cats are named. We send them speeches, hold receptions. And the governor usually talks to at least 10 of them on the phone every day."

Wednesday, Dukakis added three new names to his list. In this persuasion process, his campaign is the one that sounds most like Kirk, always arguing the merits of tidiness.

"Those who advocate brokering and bickering will give George Bush a four-month headstart on the election," said Dukakis Communication Director Leslie Dach. "We don't think delegates are going to want to do that."

Strength For Today

Greek mythology gives us the story of Herakles cleansing the stables of Augeas. These stables, having housed thousands of oxen, had not been cleaned for thirty years. Herakles was commanded to clean them in one day. His own efforts would have been quite unravailing for such a task, but Herakles accomplished it by causing the river Alpheus to run through the stables.

If people depended solely on their own efforts and resources to cleanse their lives, they could never do so. They can accomplish this objective only by turning to some resource above and apart from their lives.

All the agonizing and effort which we can bring to bear on our problems will bring only limited results. But when the Spirit of God runs through a human, vile and basing evil is swept away.

Job Placements

During February, 10,616 North Carolinians found jobs through the 78 Job Service Centers and six branch offices operated by the Employment Security Commission of North Carolina, the agency announced.

Raleigh had the greatest number of placements with 524, followed by Winston-Salem with 447, Charlotte with 357, Chapel Hill with 322, and Gastonia with 293.

In the category of placement of individuals in jobs paying more than $15,000 a year, Greensboro had the highest number, 94, followed by Raleigh with 92, Charlotte with 81, Winston-Salem with 71, and Salisbury, 49.

The February figure is an increase over the same month in 1987 when 9,089 individuals were placed in jobs through ESC offices, according to the agency.

IN SHOCK — Donna Jones Arnold is carried from the Sampson County Courthouse on a stretcher Wednesday after apparently going into shock after she was convicted of charges growing out of the stabbing of her husband.

Minister's Wife Convicted Of Murder In His Death

CLINTON, N.C. (AP) — Donna Jones Arnold went into shock and was carried from the Sampson County Courthouse on a stretcher after being convicted of second-degree murder and conspiracy to commit murder in the stabbing death of her husband.

Sheriff William Fann said Mrs. Arnold would not talk to anyone, even family members, after being escorted out of the courtroom Wednesday afternoon.

"It looked like she just went into a state of shock," Fann said.

Mrs. Arnold was treated at Sampson County Memorial Hospital before being transported to Women's Prison in Raleigh.

Judge Henry L. Stevens sentenced Mrs. Arnold to 15 years in prison for the second-degree murder charge, and 10 years — to run consecutively — on the conspiracy charge.

Stevens, in imposing the maximum sentence for conspiracy, said Mrs. Arnold had taken advantage of a "position of trust" in plotting to kill her husband, Dan, a music minister at Immanuel Baptist Church in Clinton.

Mrs. Arnold was free during the trial on $300,000 bond, but Stevens denied bond pending an appeal.

A six-man, six-woman jury deliberated for a little more than three hours before returning the verdict.

Dozens of family and friends, many of whom had come from Virginia to watch the proceedings, were visibly upset.

"The family's taking it very hard," said Osborne Wade, a family friend from Salemburg. "I just asked them to hold onto her. I told them it wasn't over yet."

Mrs. Arnold, 35, of Weyers Cave, Va., had been charged with first-degree murder and conspiracy to commit murder in Arnold's slaying. His body was found outside the church on July 18, 1984. His throat had been cut and he had been stabbed eight times.

Throughout the five-week trial in Sampson County Superior Court, prosecutors have sought to prove Mrs. Arnold conspired with Carl Stufel to murder her husband. Stufel, who earlier pleaded guilty to second-degree murder in exchange for his testimony against Mrs. Arnold, was scheduled to be sentenced today.

Prosecutors had painted Mrs. Arnold as a scheming woman who deceived both her husband and Stufel. Stufel testified he had a homosexual affair with Arnold, but conspired with Mrs. Arnold to kill her husband because he had fallen in love with her.

Defense attorneys, however, said Stufel was the deceitful one, who plotted to frame Mrs. Arnold after admitting his own guilt.

GOP Hopeful Backs Veto Power For N.C. Governor

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Republican Jim Gardner says polls have repeatedly shown that the public favors veto power for the governor and it is time the legislature gives voters a chance to speak on the issue.

"I am prepared in the short session of the Legislature to lead a citizens' march on the Legislature to prove to these people that we mean business this time," said Gardner, a candidate for lieutenant governor. "We want to put as much pressure as we possibly can on the short session to quit talking and put up or shut up."

He said Wednesday the veto issue "transcends whether you have a Republican governor or a Democrat governor. It's a sense of balance between your legislative and your executive branches of government."

Gardner said his pro-veto initiative was not a publicity stunt to benefit his campaign and invited his Democratic rivals to join in pushing legislative "power brokers" to act.

"We're the only state that the governor doesn't have veto power," Gardner said. "This is absolutely ridiculous, and it's time that we quit talking about it and it's time that we put it up to a vote of the people. If the people don't want it they'll vote it down."

Meanwhile, a Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor strongly endorsed statewide implementation of the career ladder program for teachers by 1990.

Former state Rep. Parks Helms acknowledged his stand was similar to that of Republican Gov. Jim Martin. But Helms said he had supported the career ladder while Martin was in Congress.

"We should not make any apology for insisting that ... classroom teachers be qualified by their training, by their skills, by their energy, to provide the very best education possible," Helms said. "And that is the underlying purpose of the career ladder program."

At their separate news conferences, Gardner and Helms attempted to portray themselves as championing the wishes and welfare of the majority of North Carolina's citizens against entrenched politicians and special-interest groups.

Helms, who also has endorsed the gubernatorial veto, dismissed Gardner's planned march as "gimmicks and showmanship" that would do the cause more harm than good.

A Charlotte attorney who served 10 years in the state House, Helms said legislators are "men and women who have the capacity to do a lot of good things, but they have to be led. And you don't threaten or intimidate them by marching."

He said if elected lieutenant governor, he would use his influence as Senate president to work for approval of a veto amendment.

Identified

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — Authorities say a body found in a car at the bottom of High Rock Lake has been identified as a High Point man who has been missing since December.

The body was found in a car hoisted from the water Friday. Sheriff's Capt. Jim Johnson said Wednesday that a medical examiner compared X-rays with bones from the badly decomposed body Tuesday and identified the victim as Leon Prince.

The Legislature in 1984 approved experimental career ladder programs in 16 school systems. The "pilot programs" are continuing but Martin last year called for moving up the timetable for statewide implementation — a move lawmakers rejected.

The career ladder envisions rewarding teachers for meritorious service and such achievements as earning graduate degrees and taking on additional duties.

It is unpopular with the North Carolina Association of Educators, which has endorsed Democratic state Sen. Tony Rand of Fayetteville for lieutenant governor.

In endorsing implementation by 1990, Helms acknowledged the pilots had exposed shortcomings in the career ladder program. Most involve evaluation of teacher performance, he said.

But he said those problems could be worked out and did not justify scrapping the program — which he warned would happen unless the Legislature firmly stated its intention to implement it.

Candidates for lieutenant governor should consider the views of the NCAE "but we do not need to be unduly influenced by that special interest lobby," Helms said. "We need to make our decisions based on what is best for the children of North Carolina."

In another political development, Dan Bell, a candidate for secretary of state, challenged rival Democrat Rufus Edmisten to debate.

Bell accused Edmisten, a former state attorney general, of trying to coast into office on his resume without outlining what he would do as successor to retiring Secretary of State Thad Eure.

Industry Speakers Praise Interstate Banking Laws

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Bankers and state officials say interstate banking has been good for business and good for consumers, but a lobbyist for low-income people says larger banks are less concerned with rural areas and less well-off customers.

Thomas P. Rideout, vice chairman of First Union National Bank and president-elect of the American Bankers Association, told the Legislative Research Commission's Interstate Banking Committee Wednesday that regional interstate banking had been a "resounding success."

The 1984 law allowing interstate banking arrangements "has made North Carolina the regional banking center for the Southeast and a growing financial power," Rideout said. It also has increased competition in North Carolina banking and helped the state's community banks compete successfully, he said.

Without the law, he said, Atlanta or Florida might have taken the lead and North Carolina "could only have provided a picking ground for out-of-state leaders."

The committee is studying whether adjustments are needed in the law, which allows reciprocal interstate banking arrangements with other Southern states.

Two bills introduced in 1987 are pending. One would add Texas to the Southern states with which North Carolina permits its banks to deal, and another would make several regulatory changes including deletion of a requirement that a North Carolina bank must have existed at least five years before being acquired by an out-of-state holding company.

State Banking Commissioner William T. Graham said it was difficult to gauge all the effects of interstate banking. He noted that no North Carolina banks have been bought by banks in other states although several North Carolina banks have made out-of-state acquisitions.

However, Graham said the system was giving rise to greater competition that would help the North Carolina industry.

The 1984 law "has done an excellent job of protecting North Carolina banks long enough to allow them to be major players in the interstate banking market," Graham said in prepared testimony delivered by his deputy, Hal Lingerfeld.

He urged the legislative panel to seek removal of many of the restrictions in the 1984 law — including the five-year requirement.

Interstate banking has given rise to bigger banks in North Carolina but has not reduced the number of banks in the state, Rideout said. In 1984, there were 63 banks in the state and at the end of 1987 the number stood at 68.

Employment in North Carolina banking has risen from 30,627 at the end of 1983 to 37,289 in 1987 — a 22 percent increase.

Aside from strengthening competition in North Carolina's banking marketplace, interstate banking also has fostered development of new services such as "lifeline banking," which allows a low-cost alternative to consumers who otherwise couldn't afford checking accounts, Rideout said.

It also has brought to the state investment banking products formerly available only to Fortune 500 companies through Wall Street, he said.

Margot Roten, consumer attorney for the North Carolina Legal Services Resource Center Inc., said low-income people's problems with the banking system appear to have worsened since interstate banking was allowed.

The reason, she said, may be that as banks cover larger areas they become less concerned with the needs of small communities and less wealthy customers.

"The abilities of interstate banks to meet the needs of small, rural and less affluent portions of North Carolina become more questionable as North Carolina's become larger," Ms. Roten said.

New Report Cites Plight Of Children

RALEIGH (AP) — An "all-out assault" on the high-school dropout problem is a key to solving the problems of poverty that haunt North Carolina's children, Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan says.

"During the next four years ... if we don't do something different, one out of every four children entering the ninth grade right now will not get a high school diploma," Jordan said Wednesday during a meeting of the North Carolina Child Advocacy Institute. "We must take drastic action."

A report issued during the group's annual meeting said poverty and broken homes are the major reasons behind substance abuse, pregnancy and suicide among the state's children.

The report, a compilation of statistics from a wide range of sources, says many children's problems stem from poverty and that about 350,000 of the state's children are poor.

One in five families in North Carolina is headed by a single parent and almost half of those are poor, it says.

There are approximately 67,000 North Carolina families receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children, and only two-thirds of the recipients are children, the report says. But it says the welfare benefits reach only one in three poor children.

Nearly 100,000 children live in inadequate housing, the report says. The unemployment rate for black youths ages 16 to 19 is three times as high as for their white peers.

Fifty-one North Carolina children under age 20 committed suicide in 1986, while 1,300 runaway children were arrested last year, 76 percent of whom were age 15 or younger.

The report notes that the state is pumping millions of dollars into improvements in its schools and says the state's dropout rate has declined slightly from the 7 percent it reached in 1984-85.

Jordan, however, said there were danger signs on the horizon. If predictions that one out of four children will drop out in the next four years prove accurate, it will mean 100,000 young people will "be out on the streets" by the end of the next governor's term, he said.

"Those young people will earn during their lifetime $350 per month less than their classmates who graduate from school ...," Jordan said. Their lost income, plus that of the 1.5 million dropouts already in the state, he said, will add up to $6.4 billion in income lost annually.

"The cost to those students and to North Carolina's economic future is enormous," he said. "The cost is even higher to society. Dropouts mean more unemployment, more crime, more welfare, more drug and alcohol abuse, more violence, more taxes for the rest of us."

The Legislature also must study strengthening day care standards in North Carolina, along with better child immunization, pre-natal, nutrition and early intervention programs, he said.

Legislator Shifts View

GREENSBORO (AP) — An influential legislator who helped win support for the superconducting super collider in the General Assembly says he has changed his mind about the $4.4 billion project.

Rep. Billy Watkins, D-Granville, the chairman of the state House base budget committee, said Wednesday he no longer supports North Carolina's bid to win the giant atom-smasher because of opposition in his district.

Watkins told the Greensboro News & Record that state plans to use 8,000 acres for the project has sparked growing opposition from residents of Granville, Person and Durham counties. He said the opposition has cast doubt on whether the project is worth the turmoil.

"They're taking more land than they ever said they would," said Watkins, whose district includes Granville and Person counties. "It wouldn't be good if it's going to cause the disruption it's causing now, which, in the beginning, they said it wouldn't."

Watkins was instrumental in securing $1.25 million for North Carolina to put together its bid. As part of the proposal, the state has pledged $537 million, including $25 million to buy land if the site is chosen, but that money has not been appropriated.

Watkins' comments come amid growing opposition to the project. On Monday, the Durham County Board of Commissioners voted not to support the state's collider bid because of insufficient information about it.

Local residents say the project would threaten drinking water and other resources in the area and would cause rapid urban growth that would be difficult to manage. They also say state officials have not provided enough information about the project.

About 105 property owners would be forced to move if the U.S. Energy Department chooses the site 12 miles north of Durham.

Commando Group Trains Police, Civilians

By PAUL NOWELL
Associated Press Writer

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A Fayetteville company credited with snatching a 7-year-old girl off a school bus in Jordan for her American mother is well known among law enforcement agencies for its anti-terrorist training, officers say.

Fayetteville Police Chief Ron Hansen said Corporate Training Unlimited approached him last year and offered to train some of his officers in such areas as building searches, response techniques and hostage negotiations.

"It was excellent training," Hansen said Wednesday. "I checked them out and found out they were very reputable and knowledgeable in their areas (of expertise)."

Hansen said he recommended the company to other law enforcement agencies in North Carolina. "Our men spoke very highly of them," he said.

"They are extremely competent and detailed in what they do," said Hansen, whose 12-man emergency response team was trained by CTU specialists at no cost.

CTU's brochure touts the company as an "International Security Consulting and Training Firm specializing in both anti- and counter-terrorist tactics and techniques."

"Our staff is comprised entirely of Delta Force and Special Operations qualified personnel, each with many years experience in this field," it reads. "These personnel have passed a rigorous screening and selective process, participating in years of specialized training and have proven themselves under fire."

Oscar Adkins, a CTU employee, is currently teaching a course on specialized weapons and tactics at Wilson County Technical College in Wilson, N.C., according to a school spokeswoman.

"It's a 40-hour course going on this week," said Mary Lou Smith, the school's public information officer. Most of the students enrolled in the course are employees of the N.C. Department of Correction, she said.

"Representatives from the agency have also taught other courses in the past," she said. "They came highly recommended from other law enforcement agencies."

Although CTU officials have denied any involvement in the Jordan rescue mission, the company reportedly was paid as much as $200,000 by Cathy Phelps Mahone to recover her daughter, Lauren Bayan, from Jerash, north of Amman, in late January. Ms. Mahone, who is said to be in hiding in a town outside of Dallas, claims her ex-husband, Jordanian-born Mohammed Ali Bayan, failed to return her daughter after a visit last October. A Dallas judge had given Ms. Mahone custody after the couple's 1980 divorce, but Bayan reportedly claims custody under Jordanian law.

The rescue operation was planned and executed Jan. 28 by CTU, the Philadelphia Inquirer reported over the weekend, quoting anonymous sources.

CTU President Donald Feeney has denied involvement.

State Department spokesman Charles Redman said earlier this week an American embassy officer in Amman has been recalled to Washington to answer questions about his knowledge of the kidnapping incident.

IN THE STATE

Founder Dies

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Charles Fred Lovette, who followed his parents into the egg and poultry business and later founded Holly Farms, died Wednesday at Charlotte Memorial Hospital. He was 63.

Lovette became president of Holly Farms at the age of 29. In 1961, he helped put together 16 smaller companies into Holly Farms Poultry Industries and then helped nurture its growth into the nation's largest marketer of fresh chickens, producing 6.5 million chickens a week.

Lovette, who stepped down as chairman and chief executive officer in 1981, played a key role in making the operation fully integrated — with Holly Farms controlling all aspects from the farm to the supermarket.

Among other innovations, he originated prepackaged chicken for supermarkets, the first nationally marketed chicken brand and chicken products such as nuggets and strips.

Merger Appeal

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — An anti-school merger group in Robeson County has appealed to the state Board of Elections in its effort to get a recount in last week's referendum in which voters approved merging the five county school systems into a single unit.

State elections officials said the group Save Our Schools had appealed after the county Board of Elections denied the group's request for a recount. The state board will consider the appeal Friday, officials said.

The official returns approved by the county board showed the referendum passing 11,253 to 10,888, a 365-vote margin.

Swift Action

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina Secretary of Natural Resources and Community Development Secretary Tommy Rhodes has asked for speedy action on a permit for a coastal development project proposed by a political ally of Gov. Jim Martin, a Greensboro newspaper says.

Rhodes phoned David Owens, director of the Division of Coastal Management, to encourage action on a permit for Broad Reach, a 278-acre marina and residential development proposed for the western shore of Bogue Sound in Carteret County, the Greensboro News & Record reported.

One of the principal developers of Broad Reach is Steve Stroud, president of Carolantic Realty in Raleigh and a strong financial backer of Martin. Stroud has given $4,750 to Martin's campaign since 1984 and was appointed by Martin to seats on the N.C. Economic Development Board and the N.C. Railroad Co.

Deep River

GREENSBORO (AP) — A new state report showing great improvement in water quality in the Deep River is good news, officials say, but environmentalists say celebration should be tempered with caution.

The five-year study by the N.C. Department of Natural Resources and Community Development used chemical and biological tests to analyze river water. In 1983, tests showed it contained alarming levels of contaminants.

Water from the Deep River will be used to fill Lake Randleman, a reservoir to provide drinking water for Greensboro, High Point, Randolph County and the towns of Randleman, Archdale and Jamestown.

It also supplies drinking water to Sanford in Lee County and the Gulf community in Chatham County.

Problems found in the stream when it was last studied included fecal contamination, low levels of dissolved oxygen, unacceptably high levels of heavy metals and excessive chlorine.

Zoo Funding

GREENSBORO (AP) — Just weeks away from the deadline in its campaign to raise $6 million for a planned North America region expansion, the state Zoological Society is still nearly $100,000 short of its goal, officials say.

When the campaign began Oct. 9, 1986, zoo officials envisioned having the money in hand by this spring so lawmakers would include zoo funding in the state budget.

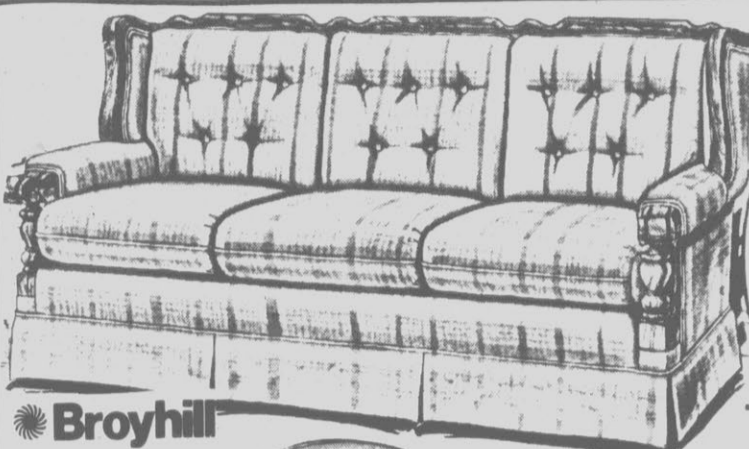

On the campaign's first day, the society already had $2.61 million — almost 44 percent of the goal. A month later, the campaign was more than half way done.

But there's been no single donation of $100,000 since September 1987, and not in six months has the society collected $100,000 in a single month. Over the past six months, the campaign's monthly average has been about half of that.

The 200-acre North America region, expected to be completed by 1991, will house 95 species of animals in 40 exhibits, and will nearly double the zoo's size and number of exhibits.

After 36 Years, She Loses Hiccups

BOSTON (AP) — A 75-year-old woman finally found relief after 36 years of hiccupping, according to a report published today. Her hiccupping stopped after doctors gave her a drug to treat her newly diagnosed Parkinson's disease.

Until then, "the patient's hiccup bouts were almost continuous, with rare remissions lasting a maximum of six to eight weeks," the doctors wrote. "Even during the periods of remission, sporadic hiccups were observed. She had been hospitalized several times and had undergone a great many tests."

The hiccups immediately stopped when she got the drug amantadine for Parkinson's disease. The doctors theorize that the disease was somehow responsible for the hiccups.

The treatment was reported by Dr. J.J.M. Askenasy of Tel Aviv University and colleagues from Hasharon Hospital in a letter in the New England Journal of Medicine.

In a separate letter, Drs. Izidore S. Lossos and Raphael Breuer of Hadassah Hospital in Jerusalem described another odd case of hiccupping, this one involving a 19-year-old woman.

She complained of a two-hour bout of hiccups along with an unpleasant itching sensation in her left ear. The doctors found that both problems were caused by an ant that had crawled into her ear.

Report Says Vets Falsifying Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. veterans are cheating the government out of tens of millions of dollars each year by lying about their incomes and collecting excessive benefits as a result, a congressional report says.

The report by the General Accounting Office, the investigative wing of Congress, compared Veterans Administration income forms filled out by pensioners with Internal Revenue Service data.

Sen. Frank Murkowski, R-Alaska, released the report Wednesday and said Congress should move to halt the abuses by giving the VA access to same tax information so it can verify what veterans tell it about income from jobs and investments. Murkowski is the senior Republican on the Veterans Affairs Committee.

The IRS information is compiled from reports supplied by employers and other income sources such as banks and stockbrokers.

The GAO's findings were based on an examination of such information from a single year. It said pensioners who understated their incomes to the VA may have potentially collected $182.5 million more in pension payments than they deserved in 1984.

Under the law, the size of a VA pension — which went to 1.4 million people in 1984 — is determined principally by a recipient's total income from all sources.

The GAO report said congressional investigators found that 549,000 pensioners failed to tell the VA about $947 million in income.

The report said that more than 26,000 veterans told the VA they had no earned income in 1984 but each actually made at least $1,000 through employment.

"Some cases had reported no earnings over several years, although tax data showed significant earnings in those years," GAO said.

Some 60 percent of the pensioners who understated their incomes to the VA failed to report that they received money through interest and dividends, according to GAO.

The report said it could not estimate the exact amount of pension overpayments by the VA, but it estimated that potential overpayments of $182.5 million went to 149,000 pensioners whose VA and IRS records had a difference of $100 or more.

Murkowski said the figures may be low because GAO made several conservative decisions in compiling its data, including ignoring all unreported income below $100.

Murkowski and GAO urged the VA to overhaul its income verification system and said Congress should give the agency the legal ability to use IRS data to cross-check the income veterans report to the VA.

Reagan Vetoes Civil Rights Bill

L.A. Times-Washington Post

WASHINGTON — President Reagan Wednesday vetoed major legislation aimed at expanding civil rights protections and sent Congress a substitute bill that he said would guarantee "equality of opportunity for all Americans" while protecting them from too much "government interference and control."

Civil rights advocates immediately attacked Reagan's veto as "shameful" and called his substitute bill "a sham." House and Senate leaders planned quick action starting today to try to override the veto, which would require a two-thirds vote of Congress.

Although some congressional experts said that the vote could be close, depending on how many Republican legislators who supported the bill switch their votes out of loyalty to Reagan, it was widely believed that the override effort would succeed.

The landmark legislation, called the Civil Rights Restoration Act, passed the Senate and House by wide margins, and many Republicans were expected to remain committed to the far-reaching bill with an eye toward minority votes in an election year.

The bill has been a top priority of civil rights groups since 1984, when the Supreme Court ruled that federal anti-discrimination protections at Grove City College, a small Pennsylvania institution, applied only to programs that received federal aid. Programs not receiving such aid, the court said, could follow discriminatory procedures.

The legislation, drafted in response to the court's restrictive ruling, would apply federal civil rights protections to entire institutions even if only parts of those institutions received federal aid.

Reagan, in his veto message, said that the legislation that reached his desk earlier this month "would vastly and unjustifiably expand the power of the federal government over the decisions and affairs of private organizations, such as churches and synagogues, farms, businesses and state and local governments."

The bill "would seriously impinge upon religious liberty because of its unprecedented and pervasive coverage of churches and synagogues based on receipt of even a small amount of federal aid for just one activity," Reagan said.

But an undeterred Senate will consider an override vote Thursday, congressional aides said. If it succeeds, the House would probably consider a vote of its own Friday. If Congress overrides the veto, Reagan's substitute bill would not even be taken up, they said.

The measure passed the House two weeks ago by a vote of 315-98. The Senate had approved identical legislation by 75-14 last month, with 27 Republicans joining 48 Democrats to support it. All 14 "no" votes in the Senate were cast by Republicans.

Ralph Neas, executive director of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, and its chairman, Benjamin J. Hooks, said in a joint statement that Reagan's veto was "shameful and unconscionable" for a bill that resulted from four years of bipartisan congressional effort.

Neas said that Reagan's substitute bill would scale back the institution-wide coverage provided in the legislation approved by Congress and "would virtually gut Title IX" by allowing thousands of private colleges and secondary schools to escape federal restrictions on discrimination based on race, religion or sex.

Three Killed In Chemical Plant Fire

BERKELEY HEIGHTS, N.J. (AP) — An explosion rocked a testing laboratory today, sparking a fire that forced the evacuation of industrial plants a half-mile away. Authorities said three people were killed and one injured.

Among the hazardous materials used at Gollob Analytical Services are radioactive hydrogen and krypton, and the solvents xylene and benzene, said Department of Environmental Protection spokesman Jim Staples. Light industrial buildings within a half-mile downwind were evacuated as a precaution, and employees heading to work at neighboring buildings were sent home.

Volunteer firefighters, working upwind of the one-story lab, thought they had extinguished the blaze by 6:30 a.m., nearly 4½ hours after it began, but it flared up again a half-hour later, officials said.

The identities of the victims were not known, said police Chief Ralph M. Del Duca. A 30-year-old man was in critical condition in surgery today at University Hospital in Newark, said nursing supervisor Mary Kwasek.

Police at first reported two dead in the fire, but officials said later at a news conference that three bodies had been recovered.

"I have no information as to why they were in there. The company does not have a night time operation.

But it is not unusual for employees to work on special projects overnight," said Philip Solomon, Union County emergency management coordinator.

State inspectors will check a nearby brook that runs into the Passaic River for contamination, and a township crew built a sandbag dam around the plant to contain runoff water from the firefighting, Staples said. The air around the plant also will be checked for chemicals and radiation, he said.

Gap Between Taxes Due, Paid Growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The gap between federal income taxes owed and paid is likely to increase by another $29 billion within four years after tripling since 1973, even though the new tax law has reduced opportunities for cheating, the Internal Revenue Service said today.

"The estimated growth of the tax gap is due in large part to ... real expansion of the economy and through inflation," the IRS said in a report to the House Ways and Means oversight subcommittee. The agency predicted voluntary compliance by individuals and corporations will continue rising slightly but will remain below the 85-percent level.

The 1987 tax gap was estimated at $85 billion — down 26 percent from the $115 billion forecast in 1983. The re-estimate reflects the fewer deductions and lower tax rates under the new law; evidence of less cheating than had been anticipated on capital gains and tips; and improved methods of data collection.

The biggest single cause of the tax gap is the underreporting of income by individuals who file returns. That cost the treasury more than $48 billion last year, or almost 57 percent of the gap. Almost $17 billion of that income was from non-farm businesses conducted as sole proprietorships. Another $7.7 billion was attributed to such "informal suppliers" as moonlighting carpenters and roadside vendors.

Individuals accounted for more than $63 billion of the gap; corporations, the other $21.4 billion. Companies with assets of $10 million or more accounted for three-fourths of the corporate gap.

Noriega's Troops Take Control Of Public Services

By REID G. MILLER
Associated Press Writer
PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — The beleaguered government of Panama announced today it was taking over all public services a day after a failed coup attempt by rebel officers sparked rioting by thousands of people.
Soldiers loyal to military strongman Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega patrolled the streets after Wednesday's rampage by people fed up with military rule and the nation's financial crisis. The disturbances were the largest since civilian opponents began staging demonstrations calling for Noriega's ouster last summer.

The coup attempt Wednesday was led by Panama's police chief, but was quickly crushed.
The civilian government installed by the Noriega forces is under increasing economic and political pressure from the United States for Noriega to step down as military leader and leave the country.
The decree covered electric service, communications, ports, water services, airports, hospitals and the farm and dairy products marketing institute.
The decree said Defense Forces were instructed to "cooperate" with the government agencies and insure that public order is maintained.

Electric power shut off by striking workers Wednesday was restored early today.
Wednesday's protests erupted spontaneously throughout the capital and in the country's second largest city, Colon, 50 miles to the north.
Security guards fired into crowds that ransacked stores and lit barricades of trash on fire in Panama City, but no deaths were reported.
By midafternoon, the demonstrators were dispersed, buses and taxis stopped running and the city was virtually deserted, except for patrolling soldiers.

The attempted coup was the first indication of opposition to Noriega within the Panama Defense Forces, the 15,000-member military and police unit from which the general derives his power.
The coup attempt began an hour after dawn with the crackle of light arms fire inside the walled Defense Forces headquarters in the capital.
After eight hours of official silence, the Defense Forces finally acknowledged at midafternoon that a coup attempt had taken place, blaming a handful of officers led by Panama's police chief, Col. Leonidas Macias.

"This morning an attempt by some officers to take and control the headquarters of our institution, in an isolated action, was firmly quelled by the officers, non-commissioned officers and soldiers of the installation," said an official communique.
The statement from the Defense Forces' press office said Macias, three majors and a captain were arrested and that the revolt was put down "without bloodshed."
But Maj. Edgardo Lopez, head of the military press office, told reporters that "eight or 10 officers" were involved in the aborted coup.

He did not explain the discrepancy.
An hour after the shooting began, Noriega appeared at the top of a stairway outside the headquarters building, dressed in civilian clothes and accompanied by members of his high command.
To shouted questions from reporters about what had happened, the general replied: "What has happened is that you are visiting us here today."
Asked about the shots, he replied: "They were kisses."

S. African Judge Stays Hangings

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — A Supreme Court judge today granted a four-week stay of execution for the "Sharpeville Six," blacks whose scheduled hangings Friday prompted a massive international clemency campaign.
Shortly before the court hearing began, a car bomb exploded outside a courthouse and police station 25 miles away in Krugersdorp. The blast killed three black men, one of them a policeman, and injured 16 people.
Black leaders had warned the hangings might provoke violence, although there was no immediate evidence linking the blast to the Sharpeville case.
Justice W.J. Human, who sentenced the five men and one woman to death three years ago, said there was evidence that a key prosecution witness had perjured himself during the trial.
Scores of people in the courtroom, almost all black, burst into applause when Human announced his decision. Several hundred more people on the steps outside cheered, raised clenched fists and sang freedom songs when they heard the news.
The six were convicted of complicity in the 1984 mob murder of a black town councillor during anti-apartheid riots, even though there was no direct evidence they directly contributed to the victim's death. Government leaders, churches and human rights groups around the world appealed for clemency.
The judge based his decision on a defense application questioning the reliability of testimony by prosecution witness Joseph Manete. Human cited a May 11, 1985 statement in which Manete said he had been forced by police to identify two of the accused as having been at the scene.
Human said he was never made aware of that statement and, therefore, did not allow the defense to cross-examine Manete on that point.
"If Manete's statement had been available I would have allowed cross-examination," Human said.
He granted the defense until April 18 to prepare an application for a retrial for all six defendants.
President P.W. Botha told black Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu in a meeting Wednesday night he would not intervene in the case.

RUN FOR COVER — Mourners run for cover as a bomb explodes during funeral services Wednesday for three IRA members in Belfast, Northern Ireland. ## Slain IRA Guerrilla Buried BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Mourners wearing shamrocks and green armbands today streamed through the streets of Belfast in a funeral procession for a slain IRA guerrilla, who was saluted in a volley of gunfire and buried.

The Irish Republican Army appealed for calm during the funeral for 33-year Kevin McCracken, who was buried a day after gunmen killed three people and wounded 68 at another IRA funeral.
McCracken was shot to death Monday by a British army patrol that he fired upon.
Mourners followed the coffin through West Belfast to the Roman Catholic Milltown cemetery, the scene of Wednesday's attack by Protestant gunmen.

IRA gunmen, in their traditional salute to their movement's dead, fired three volleys of gunfire in a side street near McCracken's home. They lined up on a sidewalk next to a photograph of McCracken, which was surrounded by wreaths.
The group said it hoped McCracken's funeral would pass with "dignity" and said police should stay away. The outlawed organization indicated its gunmen would not fire more volleys at the graveside.
"The IRA has paid its final tribute," the Republican Press Center, the IRA's mouthpiece, said in a statement in Belfast.
During the night, rioters enraged by Wednesday's cemetery attack firebombed five houses in Protestant North Belfast and burned buses. On woman was treated for smoke inhalation, but there were no other injuries reported.

The attack occurred during a funeral for three IRA guerrillas who were shot by British commandos in Gibraltar on March 6. They were unarmed and allegedly planning a bombing attack.
Police said they were holding a Protestant, Michael Stone, who allegedly mounted the cemetery attack, and an accomplice.

Four Israeli Soldiers Face Brutality Trial

JERUSALEM (AP) — Four Israeli soldiers went on trial today on charges of brutality against Palestinians in the first such cases to reach court since violence erupted in the occupied territories more than three months ago.
Two soldiers pleaded guilty to reduced charges in the burying alive of four Palestinians in the occupied West Bank, and two others pleaded innocent in the televised beating of two Palestinians.
Also today, Israeli warplanes raided PLO bases in the Chouf Mountains south of Beirut, and the army said all targets were destroyed. One guerrilla was reported killed and two people were injured.
Israeli newspapers said Secretary of State George P. Shultz might return to the Middle East in late March or early April to continue his mission to reach an accord between Israel and the Arabs for starting peace talks.
Senior military officials said Israel imposed new restrictions against Palestinians, ruling for the first time that any Arab wishing to bring $1,000 or more into Israeli-held territories from Jordan must receive permission.
The measure was intended to curb Palestine Liberation Organization-provided funding for the current unrest. The money has helped shopkeepers on strike and aided Arab families whose homes were destroyed by the Israeli army.
In addition, dairy and produce deliveries were not permitted to enter the cities of Nablus, Tulkarm and Jericho, Arab reports said. The army said it was checking the report.

In a military court in Jaffa, Pvt. Yair Nissimi and Dror Segen-Cohen were accused of assault and abuse for helping bury alive four Palestinians with a bulldozer after a Feb. 5 demonstration in the West Bank village of Kfar Salem.
A third soldier, Sgt. Mjr. Charlie Danino, was being tried separately on the same charges, as well as unbecoming conduct.
Nissimi and Segen-Cohen accepted a reduced charge of shameful conduct under a plea bargain placed before a panel of three military judges.

Troops Deployed

The Rapid Deployment Force is trained to respond quickly to assignments around the world. The daylong exercise involved recalling troops to the base to check of weapons, vehicles and other equipment, spokesman Paul Boyce said.

There are 21,000 soldiers at Fort Ord, 80 miles south of San Francisco. "We're just hoping and praying nothing serious comes from this," said Karen Brylewski, a civilian base worker, who said her husband told her that his unit was scheduled to fly to Florida from Travis this morning.

Fort Bragg is home to the paratroopers of the 82nd Airborne and the Green Berets and has sent troops to trouble spots around the world, including Grenada during the the October 1983 U.S. invasion and to Sinai for peacekeeping.

Eight hundred paratroopers will be dropped about five miles from the Honduras base, said Maj. Gen. Carl Stiner, commander of the 82nd Airborne. They will land in "an area that's been cleared for drops. Once they land, they will move to Palmerola air force base. They then will establish liaison with the Honduran military and begin conducting combined training exercises."

Lt. Col David Kiernan, a base spokesman, said the troops were joining Joint Task Force Bravo, which includes about 1,200 soldiers from Fort Bragg and other units already in Honduras.

Kiernan called the action an "off-post training exercise" and said that troops would not take part in hostilities.

The Army also loaded a C-5 transport plane with equipment, including three light observation helicopters, four Cobra gunship helicopters, one Blackhawk UH-60 helicopter, a command vehicle and ammunition, Stiner said.

He said a battalion rigged for combat would remain at Pope on alert status. In Durham, N.C., about 50 people attended a candlelight vigil Wednesday night to protest the deployment of troops, said Mandy Carter, director of the War Resisters League, which sponsored the vigil with Witness for Peace.

Members Of Congress Skeptical Of Threat Posed By Sandinistas

By JIM DRINKARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress expressed skepticism today about whether the reported Nicaraguan military incursion into neighboring Honduras is as large or as threatening as the Reagan administration claims.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd called President Reagan's decision to send 3,200 U.S. troops to Honduras an "overreaction," and a number of other legislators said they were still waiting for hard evidence from the White House to back up its claims.

"We've heard the administration cry, 'wolf, wolf,' before," Byrd, D-W.Va., told reporters. "I don't know when they're crying wolf." Byrd said that even by mid-morning today, he had neither been briefed nor contacted by the administration about the troop movement.

"I hope it does not prove to be counterproductive (and) does not derail the peace process," Byrd said.

Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., generally a supporter of the administration's Central America policies, said he was skeptical about the need for sending troops.

He said the Sandinista incursion into Honduras represented "a cynical abandonment of the peace process," but added that it does not pose any serious threat to the United States, and therefore did not clearly call for the sending of military forces.

"I think it's a move the president may come to regret because the spectacle of American troops moving into Central America in convoy, flying down there, I think is going to remind the American people of why they don't want this," said Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass., interviewed on NBC television.

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the incident highlighted the need for new aid for the rebels, which has been twice rejected by Congress this year. He said only renewed aid will keep a regional peace process going.

"The ... plan only works if the Contras have some assistance and therefore there is some reason for the Sandinistas to deal with them," Lugar said in an interview on ABC. "I think it's very important that things get back to the table and I hope our policies will lead to that."

House Majority Whip Tony Coelho, D-Calif., said: "I think you have to ask the question of whether 1,200 Nicaraguans going across the Honduran border is a threat to U.S. national security," as Secretary of State George P. Shultz had argued in a briefing Wednesday for congressional leaders.

In announcing Reagan's decision late Wednesday night, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said thousands of Sandinista troops had entered Honduras and the Honduran government had appealed for help. He said that for the time being, the U.S. troops would remain about 125 miles from the area of hostilities.

Some lawmakers noted that Reagan is making a renewed push for Contra aid and recalled a similar situation two years ago, when Nicaraguan troops went into border areas of Honduras two days after a House vote against aid to the Contras and just before a Senate vote.

"They have cried wolf so many times ... even supporters of Contra aid are somewhat skeptical," said Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt. "It is apparently a major raid on a Contra camp in the jungles. Now, that does not pose a threat to Honduras or its capital."

In the 1986 episode, President Reagan claimed that 1,500 troops had gone across the border and used his emergency power to give Honduras $20 million in military aid. Other U.S. officials later put the number of troops at closer to 800, and it appeared that Honduras had to be pressed to accept the "emergency" aid.

"This is not the first time the president has made use of his military authority after he lost a vote on the Contras," Rep. Edward J. Markey, D-Mass., said Wednesday night. "President Reagan's decision to send the 82nd Airborne to Honduras has more to do with politics than with American security."

But Assistant Secretary of State Elliott Abrams, appearing on ABC-TV's "Nightline" program, held to the administration position that the Sandinistas were trying to deliver a "death blow" to the Contras, who use Honduras as a haven. He said the administration would document the seriousness of the Sandinista threat in material submitted to Congress today.

Some Republicans needed no convincing. Rep. Jack Fields, R-Texas, said, "I don't think the president really had an alternative" to sending in U.S. forces.

"The purpose is for them to demonstrate our commitment to regional peace and stability," Fields said. But Byrd said the administration was going too far.

"It's an overreaction," he said. "The Sandinistas have crossed over the border before and gone back."

And Jason Isaacson, a spokesman for Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., said the senator saw the administration action as an effort "to divert attention from the Iran-Contra indictments and to turn up the heat on Congress for more aid to the Contras."

Congressional leaders briefed Wednesday by top administration officials on the cross-border fighting had said the White House offered no proof that U.S. interests were threatened or that the Contras were on the verge of being wiped out.

President Wields Power To Pardon Former Aides

By SUSANNE M. SCHAFER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's virtually absolute power to grant pardons raises the question of whether his former top aides indicted in the Iran-Contra affair will ever go to trial.

Reagan has never criticized his aides for lying to Congress, shredding documents or participating in a cover-up. And while he has steadfastly refused to discuss the possibility of pardons, he has been equally careful not to rule them out.

Lt. Col. Oliver North, former national security adviser John Poindexter and two arms dealers were indicted Wednesday on conspiracy charges in the diversion of Iranian arms sales profits to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

Reagan had no comment on the latest development in the scandal that has haunted his second term, according to presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater.

But several presidential and constitutional scholars said that if he decides to pardon any of the Iran-Contra defendants, Reagan probably will wait until after the November election to prevent the issue from hurting Republican candidates.

Reagan is well aware of the example of his Republican predecessor, Gerald Ford, whose Watergate pardon of Richard Nixon on Sept. 8, 1974, sent Ford's popularity ratings tumbling and helped put a Democrat into the White House in the next election.

In the case at hand, Reagan has made it clear — particularly in his description of North as an "American hero" — that he is giving the former national security council aide the benefit of the doubt.

After Congress completed its Iran-Contra investigation, Reagan went on national television to say he thought North and Poindexter "believed they were doing what I would've wanted done."

And when he was questioned at one point about the law barring direct or indirect military aid to the Contras, Reagan responded: "I don't think that the law was broken."

If Reagan chooses to grant pardons to anyone connected with the affair, he would not even have to list a specific crime that is being pardoned.

Such sweeping power amounts to a legal grant of absolutism, enshrined in the Constitution. The Founding Fathers borrowed the concept from English common law.

The Constitution allows a president virtually unlimited authority to pardon involving "offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment."

"He's really very free," said C. Thomas Dienes, a professor of constitutional law at George Washington University.

A president is able to grant a pardon involving a federal crime solely on his own initiative — he need not consult anyone nor even wait for an indictment or conviction before taking action, Dienes said.

Dienes said the principal cost of a Reagan pardon "would be political." He said the president would have to make a case for the pardon by arguing that he believed his subordinates had acted in the cause of the national security, or that he wanted to spare the country a national trauma.

"I'm sure he'd catch a lot of political flak, and he wants to go down as a popular president — but since North was perceived by some as a popular hero, I'm not certain there'd be such negative reaction," Dienes said.

North Indicted

Reagan, asked if he still believed no laws had been broken in the Iran-Contra affair, said: "I have no knowledge of anything that was broken. ... From all of the investigation and everything else, we don't know where that money came from and we don't know who had it and we don't know where it went."

North, reacting to the indictment at the office of his lawyer, Brendan V. Sullivan Jr., called the grand jury's action "sad for our country."

Denying that he had committed any crime, North said he faces enormous personal and financial costs. But he added: "I will never give up; we will win, I just cannot tell you how soon."

Poindexter's lawyer, Richard W. Beckler, said: "Obviously my client will be vigorously asserting a plea of not guilty. I feel confident he will be vindicated down the line."

Hakim's lawyer, N. Richard Janis, said that he expects "lengthy legal proceedings" and that his client will plead not guilty to the "unfair and unwarranted charges."

Secord and his lawyers could not be reached for comment.

The grand jurors charged that the conspiracy began in late spring or early summer of 1985 and extended at least to December 1986. During most of that time, U.S. agencies involved in intelligence work were barred by Congress from providing military supplies to the Contras and from helping plan or execute their military operations.

North, as deputy director for political-military affairs of the National Security Council, was depicted by the indictment as the central player in the conspiracy, using such aliases as William Goode and Mr. Green.

The four conspirators were accused of depriving the government "of the honest and faithful services of employees free from conflicts of interest, corruption and self-dealing by deceitfully using the influence and position" of Poindexter and North to generate funds for Secord and Hakim.

They allegedly did so with the understanding that Secord and Hakim, top officers of a company called Stanford Technology Trading Group International, would evade government accountability and place the funds at the disposal of Poindexter and North for projects they designated, including the military support of the Contras.

From January to June of 1985, Secord and Hakim sold the Contras assorted military equipment, deriving substantial profits that they concealed by establishing foreign corporations with Swiss bank accounts, the grand jurors alleged.

By mid-1985, North, Secord, Hakim

and others began an "Enterprise" to support military and paramilitary operations by the Contras and to conduct various other covert actions, according to the indictment.

Hakim, in coordination with North and Secord, allegedly provided a clandestine financial infrastructure for the "Enterprise" by using the foreign corporations and Swiss bank accounts already under his control, supplemented by additional bank accounts.

By late 1985, North had devised Poindexter's then Reagan's deputy national security adviser, of "aspects of the Enterprise's operation," according to the indictment.

Among other things, the indictment alleged that the Enterprise had purchased aircraft and recruited pilots and crews to airlift supplies to the Contras, and that it had arranged that a military airfield and warehouse in El Salvador, described in the indictment only as "Country A," be available for the Contras' use.

In 1985 and 1986, North and others assisted the Contras in opening a southern front in the guerrilla war against the Nicaraguan government by secretly obtaining the assistance of a CIA official stationed in Costa Rica, the indictment alleged. Land was acquired and an airstrip built to deliver military weapons to the southern front.

Signs

Planner Jeff Ulma said that the proposal will effectively prohibit billboards between Greenville and Farmville, except at two intersections along the roadway.

The planning board also endorsed the concept of establishing a "dividing line" between the city of Greenville and the town of Winterville for planning purposes.

The boundary, based on utility considerations, would allow the two municipalities to plan more effectively and efficiently for development.

The Board of Commissioners is expected to discuss the concept, which would permit extension of Greenville's extraterritorial jurisdiction in the area, at a meeting Monday.

The proposal, recommended by a joint planning board subcommittee composed of three representatives from Winterville, three from Greenville and three representing the county, has been endorsed — in executive sessions — by the Winterville Town Board, the Greenville City Council and the Greenville Utilities Commission.

S. African Blast Kills Three Blacks

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Three blacks, including a policeman, were killed and 20 people injured today when a powerful car bomb exploded outside the courthouse and police station in Krugersdorp, police reported.

Law and Order Minister Adriaan Vlok said police believed the bomb was planted by Heinrich Grosskopf, a white who allegedly belongs to the mostly black African National Congress.

Vlok described Grosskopf as a "trained terrorist" and blamed him for another car bombing last July outside army headquarters in Johannesburg that injured 68 people. A $25,000 reward for Grosskopf's arrest was announced.

Authorities said those killed in Krugersdorp were a police warrant officer, a mortuary worker, and an unidentified man. The injured included 17 whites, among them a 15-month-old baby, and three blacks.

The blast occurred a day before the scheduled hangings of six blacks, known as the "Sharpeville Six," who were convicted of complicity in a 1984 mob killing during anti-apartheid riots. Less than seven hours after the explosion, a judge in Pretoria granted a four-week stay of execution.

The six were detained in Krugersdorp for a brief period between their arrest in 1984 and the start of their trial in 1985.

Capt. Reg Crewe, a police spokesman, said the explosion at 8:30 a.m. destroyed three cars parked outside the court building. He said the blast was caused by a 55-pound explosive device placed in the trunk of one of the cars.

Later, police said they found two limpet mines in a toilet of the courthouse and removed them safely.

Tracie Ebron Phillips, a member of Community Christian Church, Winterville, will perform in a benefit concert at 4 p.m. Sunday at Progressive Free Will Baptist Church, corner of Cotanche and 13th streets.

Proceeds from a free will offering will go to the Progressive Church building fund.

Nurses' Day Set

In recognition of the contributions of registered nurses in the delivery of quality health care for the nation's citizens, Greenville Mayor Ed Carter proclaimed his support of the American Nurses' Association in declaring May 6 as "National Nurses' Day 1988."

"Registered nurses are knowledgeable health care professionals who are leaders in the management and delivery of health care services," Carter said.

"Registered nurses are striving to meet the challenges of an ever-evolving health care system while continuing to provide safe, dependable, conscientious care for each of us at affordable rates," he said.

The mayor said, "The demand for nursing services is escalating in light of changes in the financing of health care services, the settings where services are delivered. The supply of nurses is not keeping pace with the demand and there is an urgent need not only to recruit well-qualified candidates into the profession but to retain nurses in the workplace."

Saturday Service

The Rev. J.W. Randolph, along with the choir, ushers and members of the Bethel Chapel Free Will Baptist Church, will deliver the 7 p.m. service Saturday at St. Matthew Baptist Church in Donby. A bus will leave Bethel Chapel Church at 6 p.m. Saturday.

They Get Taste Of Law School Sex Education Is A Certainty

By SUZANNE BOYLE
Belleville, Ill.
News Democrat

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The problem was a cow.

And students sitting in David Becker's law class were giving it serious consideration.

You see, there was a hole in the fence and four farmers were laying claim to her calf.

One farmer owned a pasture where the cow had grazed through the fence, another owned the bull that impregnated the cow, a third was the cow's owner and the fourth owned the land where the calf had been born.

Who owned the calf and how could you prove it?

Becker was looking for an answer from prospective students who had come to the all-day event called Law Day to get a taste of what life is like for students at Washington University School of Law.

If you've ever toyed with the idea of going to law school, consider this information from the St. Louis school.

— Cost can be high, up to $25,000 a year to survive. Tuition per year is $10,500, books $1,000; and living costs for nine months about $13,000.

— Most lawyers start their careers well in debt. "Sixty to 70 percent of our students receive some sort of aid," said Annette Pederson, assistant dean.

— For every hour spent in class, expect to spend three out of class studying.

— Your grade point average must be high — well above 3.0 (equivalent to a B on a 4.0 scale), and so must your score on the Law School Aptitude Test, known as the LSAT.

— Competition is tough. "The pool of applicants is up 20 percent here, 16 percent nationally," said Ron Van Fleet, director of admissions.

But those numbers didn't dampen the enthusiasm of Karen Burr, who had come from Nashville to attend Law Day.

"I've had people tell me I looked like a lawyer," said Burr, 33, "but that's not important."

"I like to argue, take a position," added Burr, a 1981 graduate of St. Louis University with a degree in medical records administration. "This is something I have always wanted to do."

Her husband, a radiologist, is willing to relocate if the school she chooses is too far for her to commute.

Along with other prospective students, she learned that salaries from the 1986 Washington University law class ranged from $20,000 for a clerkship to $65,000 for a job in a New York law firm with a minimum of 100 attorneys.

Education costs can be considerably less at a state school than at Washington, Burr said. "At SIU (Carbondale), tuition is $3,000. It's also easier to get in; the standards aren't as high."

Van Fleet said law schools were looking for students who had been out in the workforce for a while.

"We want a diversity in the class," Van Fleet said.

Marcia Montgomery, now a second-year law student, had been out of college 16 years, taught high school and raised three children before she entered law school. She was determined to do well among her younger classmates.

"They could think of me as an old lady, but not as a dumb old lady," she told a group of hopefuls.

"We educate problem-solvers, communicators and leaders here," said professor E. Thomas Sullivan.

"We look at who wins and who loses and why... You have to have a gift of speech and enjoy it. You have to learn to partake of the give and take."

And what about the wayward calf? Well, one student tentatively suggested, the calf and the cow should be tested to see if they matched genetically. Becker discarded the idea as taking too much time and asked the class to come up with a fair "cow rule."

After several proposals and a roller-coaster ride through legal logic, a young lady who owned a farm came up with a simple answer. Prove ownership through the mother, she suggested. Tests weren't needed, nor lassos.

"Follow the calf, and if it goes to its mother — which it naturally will do to nurse — then the calf belongs to the cow. And whoever owns the cow owns the calf."

Becker smiled.

Researchers Look At Auditory Causes

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — A study by the Central Auditory Disorders Research Center in Colorado State University's applied human sciences college has been carried out on the effects of auditory perception disorders on children.

The researchers looked at 100 children with the disorders and found that a high percentage have to repeat grades in school, become easily frustrated, have difficulty reading, are forgetful and experience chronic headaches.

About 78 percent had problems following directions, while 50 percent had difficulty completing assignments at home and school.

The study, funded by the Royal Arch Masons Int., was done by two pioneers in the field, Jack A. Willeford, the center's director, and Joan M. Burleigh, assistant director.

"Children often turn into juvenile delinquents because of their disorders," said Willeford. "These problems are costly for the school system, the courts and social service agencies, not to mention the children."

It is believed that 5 percent to 25 percent of the nation's children may be afflicted with some sort of auditory perception disorder, Willeford said.

Traditionally, children with such problems have exhibited behavioral and learning problems often inaccurately blamed on bad personalities or poor parenting.

But research, especially in the last decade, has shown many problems stem from an inability, perhaps due to a genetic or medical fault, to process information correctly. Generally, children are normal except for this inability.

More research is needed, Willeford and Burleigh say, including on the cost for additional education of children who repeat grades or need special programs. Another concern is loss of potential income.

"The disorders may limit their economic potential when they become adults," Burleigh said. "They are capable of working in adulthood, but their job opportunities may be restricted."

The two note, however, that some people with the disorders have become successful with proper management and guidance.

Willeford and Burleigh have established ways to help children cope with the problem. Recommended, for example, is speaking slowly to them or in quiet, calm environments where minimal competition exists for their attention.

At Wits End
Erma Bombeck

Life is literally land-mined with choices.

Consider the dilemma of a group of 11- and 12-year-olds in our city who were asked to decide on whether they wanted to take a week's course in sex education or select one of the alternatives: Burglary Prevention, Self-Protection, First-Aid Skills or Desert Survival. That's a toughie.

They have to ask themselves which will better prepare them for life. Learning about the male and female reproductive systems? Or how to treat frostbite? Knowing about the union of the egg and the sperm? Or knowing how to make glass patio doors secure?

As a mature adult, I can only tell you what I would have done at that age. I would have sprung for the course on desert survival. The odds of being stranded in the desert of Ohio and using a broken headlight to chop up a cactus and distill water from it to stave off dehydration were a hundred times better than my having a date at age 12.

Needless to say, times have changed. The alternative to sex education when I was in school was health. That figured. It was also an approach to the body, how it worked, how it matured and how it reproduced. Today, the compatible alternatives to sex education can be categorized as "techniques for surviving."

Is that what sex has become? Another test to survive? Pass puberty and beware of molestation... draw a wild card and risk pregnancy... change partners and bet on sexually transmitted diseases... pass go and lose innocence forever.

I can't remember when sex got to be a game of wits. One day we were watching a Disney film showing butterflies and the next day a "Dallas" rerun showing J.R. playing musical beds. And somewhere in all that the word "love" was dropped from sex education. You all remember "love." It was something no one could explain, but everyone knew how it made you feel. "Love" was patient and gentle. "Love" could get romance out of a simple conversation. "Love" was a good friend. "Love" didn't make you prove anything to anyone. "Love" carried with it responsibility and respect. "Love" made you feel fulfilled... not empty and wanting.

If sex is to be lumped with all the other survival skills, I hope they mention the differences.

Unlike Desert Survival, love isn't life threatening.

Unlike First Aid, love doesn't require that you act quickly.

Unlike Self-Protection and Burglary Prevention, you're not vulnerable to someone else's actions. You're in charge.

Oh, and another thing. Sex education isn't an option... it's a certainty.

NEW BERN — Julia Elizabeth Barnhill and Ogden Lloyd Wiggins were united in marriage March 5 in the Temple Baptist Church. The Rev. William Voorhes conducted the double-ring ceremony at 7 p.m.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barnhill of New Bern and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wiggins of Route 2, Ayden.

Organist Mrs. Kenneth Lewis and vocalist the Rev. Buford Lewis conducted a program of wedding music.

Kathy Barnhill Ipoek of New Bern was honor attendant for her sister, Amber Nicole Ipoek of New Bern, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Kevin Cherry of Greensboro, cousin of the bridegroom, Joey Dixon of Vanceboro, Kelly Wall of Greenville, and Ken Worthington of Ayden. The ring bearer was Jon Ashley Mercer of New Bern, cousin of the bride.

MRS. WIGGINS

Carol Hawkins Gives Program

Carol Hawkins of Wilson presented a program of music at the March meeting of the Benjamin May chapter, DAR. She is a student at East Carolina University.

She was presented by her voice teacher, Gladys White. She performed an aria from Sampson and Delilah. She was accompanied by Mark Gansor of Greenville.

Capt. David Kopanski, of the AF ROTC Detachment 600 at ECU, spoke on "Women Free to Aid in National Defense."

Officers named were Regent, Pat Carr; Vice Regent, Charlotte Betts; Chaplain, Harriet Bass; Treasurer, Juanita Williams; Recording Secretary, Mary Irma Moore; Corresponding Secretary, Rosalind Britt; Historian, Joyce Williams; Regisrar, Ima Mewborn, and Librarian, Lottie Lewis.

Plans for the district meeting to be hosted by the chapter were discussed.

Cleo Smith, Prince Barnette and Karen Moye were meeting hostesses.

The bride wore a gown of bridal taffeta fashioned with a sabrina necklace accented with alencon lace, seed pearls and sequins. The Victorian sleeves were enhanced with motifs of alencon lace, seed pearls and sequins which ended in a point. The flowing skirt had motifs of alencon lace and seed pearls and extended into a semi-cathedral length train. Her walking veil was attached to a cap of alencon lace, seed pearls and sequins. She carried a nosegay of white and peach roses, seed pearls and ribbon streamers.

A reception, given by the parents of the bride, was held in the fellowship hall of the church. Assisting in serving were Lila T. Lewis and Jean H. Hemphill.

The couple is living near Ayden after a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, S.C.

The bride is a graduate of New Bern Senior High School and East Carolina University with a degree in accounting. She is office manager for Orkin Exterminating in New Bern. The bridegroom attended D.H. Conley High School and Pitt Community College. He is engaged in farming.

Several miscellaneous showers were given for the couple prior to their wedding ceremony.

Every quarter cup of brown or white sugar adds close to 200 calories to the finished product.

TREE PLANTING — Kindergarten students at Elmhurst School recently planted a white dogwood tree at the school in recognition of Arbor Day. Marino Caro holds the shovel while Larry Staton sets the tree, which was presented by the Greenville Garden Club in honor of Jessamine Calhoun who is retiring as a kindergarten teacher at the school. Each child wrote his name and inserted it in a time capsule planted with the tree. (Photo by Barry Gaskins).

Should Dentist Be Trusted?

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Well, I thought I'd heard everything until I went to a dentist in a new town and needed to have a tooth pulled. Would you believe that dentist doesn't pull teeth? He sent me to an oral surgeon. I found it hard to believe that a dentist couldn't—or wouldn't—pull a tooth, so I asked the receptionist at the oral surgeon's office why my dentist wouldn't pull my tooth. She said my dentist wanted to make sure it was extracted correctly, as if there was an incorrect way to pull a tooth.

When I went in to see the oral surgeon, he told me that my dentist and he were lifelong friends. Then he assured me that my dentist was a very fine dentist. (If he was such a fine dentist, how come he doesn't know how to pull a tooth correctly?)

It cost me a lot more to have the tooth pulled by an oral surgeon than if a dentist had done the job.

Abby, I find it hard to trust a dentist who can't do a basic procedure like pulling a tooth, but sends me to a lifelong buddy down the road who just happens to be an oral surgeon. I personally think they have a nice little racket going. What do you think?

—DISGUSTED IN VIRGINIA
DEAR DISGUSTED: You've

heard the expression, "... hard as pulling teeth." It's true. Pulling teeth is a specialty, and while every dentist knows how to pull teeth, an oral surgeon has the special expertise and equipment — not to mention the experience — to handle any possible complication or adverse reaction. (It's not usual, but some dental patients have died during an extraction.)

Rather than assume that the dentist and oral surgeon had a "nice little racket going," be grateful that you had the best tooth extraction available in that little Virginia town, by gum. (Forgive me. I could have said, "The yanks are coming," but I resisted it.)

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell women who depend on other women for rides to church, shopping or anywhere else women hitch rides to, to please shut up for at least two minutes?

I realize that most of these women who live alone need to talk, but if they don't come up for air once in a while, they will be looking for another means of transportation.

The minute the car door is open, they start to tell you everything they have done from the time they got up. Sometimes I have something important to say before I drive off, and I actually have to shout to keep them quiet. I no longer pick up some women for that reason.

Please print this, Abby. The talkers know who they are. — THE DRIVER (DRIVEN NUTS)

DEAR DRIVER: All right, so now that the talkers who "know who they are" have seen this, please review your own perceptive observation: "These women who live alone need to talk."

Indeed they do. So, please, be just a wee more patient.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of able-bodied people who park in places that are clearly marked "For Handicapped Only"? — SUSAN IN RICHMOND, VA.

DEAR SUSAN: I think they're lazy, insensitive and uncaring. Furthermore, they're dishonest to take something that doesn't rightfully belong to them. But lest we judge too quickly, not every "handicap" is visible. There are people with heart trouble, emphysema and numerous other health problems who cannot walk a block without resting.

DEAR ABBY: If I'd known you were printing a cookbooklet, I'd have sent you my "Recipe for Boiling Water" sooner.

You'd better publish it before someone else who saw it in our local paper sends it to you and says she wrote it:

RECIPE FOR BOILING WATER
By Grace Knipper
INGREDIENTS: 1 cup water (can be any temperature under 212 degrees)

Pour water into 1 quart pan. Cover with lid. Place on stove burner. Wait patiently.

(If patience grows thin, check to see if burner is lit.)

Do not watch closely, as a watched pot never boils.

White Breakfast Held

KINSTON — The Greenville, Kinston, Washington chapter Bennett College Alumnae held its second annual White Breakfast Saturday.

Dr. Dorothy Harris, vice president for student affairs, Bennett College, was guest speaker. She gave an update about activities and achievements since January 1987.

Algia Dawkins and Imogene Dupree were ceremony illuminators and ceremony leaders included Louise A. Warren and Virginia M. Payton.

Other participants were Elaine Tyson, Margaret Malloy, Rose W. Lofton, E. Ellen Berry and Jackie Garner. Beulah Mebane gave the history of White Breakfast.

Betty Boyd accompanied the Bennett Belles, who presented a medley of Bennett songs.

The meeting was conducted by Gail Dove-Stevens, president.

Club Welcomes New Members

Sarah Pierce and Miriam Linsmier are new members of the Lakewood Pines Garden Club.

Members were encouraged to participate in the art show at Arlington Hall during Arts Festival Week. The arrangements must be completed by April 11.

Co-hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. J.H. Calder and Mrs. Frank Rabey.

Club Recognized Julia A. Parks

Julia Anne Parks were recognized by the Greenville Woman's Club as recipient of the Sallie Southall Cotten Scholarship winner.

She is also alternate representing District 15 in N.C. Federation of Women's Club.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.B. Parks.

Exchange rates for P.I.K. certificates were steady to .05 percent higher and ranged from 101 to 103 percent of face value.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices rose in active trading early today, reflecting an initially favorable investor response to the government's report of a lower-than-expected January trade deficit.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 3.98 points to 2,068.30 by 10 a.m. on Wall Street.

Advancing issues outnumbered losers by about a 3-to-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange, with 618 up, 390 down and 464 unchanged. Volume on the Big Board came to 27.18 million shares after the first half hour.

Although the trade deficit widened slightly in January to $12.4 billion from $12.2 billion in December, market economists had expected an even greater gap. The news therefore provided an optimistic tone to stock trading.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose 0.17 to 151.45. The American Stock Exchange's market value index rose 0.29 to 297.80.

Stowaway
WILMINGTON (AP) — A Jamaican stowaway, who apparently survived for six days on garbage in a Panamanian freighter, was turned over to immigration officials in Wilmington Wednesday.

Errol Lynch, 19, was released into the custody of the Coast Guard at Wrightsville Beach on Tuesday after an engineer on the tug Pegasus II found him crouched behind a motor in the engine room. "He was bruised and all banged up," said Fred Tinkle, the tug's captain. "He appeared to be dehydrated and hungry."

Lynch was held in the New Hanover County Jail until Wednesday morning, when he was released to immigration officials.

Plea Entered
 Sanuel Nathan Garvanne, 67, of 1303 S. Greene St., on trial for murder in Pitt County Superior Court, pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter Wednesday and was sentenced to 18 months jail.

Garvanne was arrested by Greenville police on murder charges following the shooting death of Alfred J. Bennett, 41, of 901 W. Fifth St. on the street in the 100 block of Ficklen Street on Aug. 1, 1987.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 16.91 to 2,064.32.

Advancing issues outnumbered declines by more than 5 to 3 on the NYSE, with 945 up, 540 down and 481 unchanged. Big Board volume totaled 153.59 million shares, against 133.17 million in the previous session.

WE'RE GLAD YOU ASKED

 Jim Simpkins
 Director/ Manager

CAN PRE-PLANNING BE DONE IN THE HOME?

We sometimes are asked this question by folks who are just a little unsure of how to go about arranging in advance for funeral services. Generally, it's better if you have the opportunity to stop by and discuss the many small decisions that go into these important arrangements. With all the information about our services close at hand, you'll find pre-planning easy and convenient.

We recognize, though, that disability or a lack of transportation can sometimes be a problem. So we're old-fashioned about pre-planning: When it serves you better, we're glad to make house calls.

It's also possible, if you prefer, for you to take information about our services and think it over in the privacy of your own home. We will gladly provide such information should you wish to discuss these arrangements with your family or your clergyman. As professional funeral directors, we recognize that such vital matters take time to sort through.

What is most important is that you take the first step by calling or stopping by our funeral home. The peace of mind that you'll enjoy is well worth a few minutes of your time. And once your final wishes are recorded, you'll feel better knowing that your family won't have to make those decisions in a time of stress. We look forward to your call.

Police Chief Leaves Office

LENOIR, N.C. (AP) — Terry Crisp has resigned as Lenoir's police chief following allegations of misconduct, a month-long suspension from duty and an independent investigation of his actions.

The city manager told the city council he had accepted Crisp's resignation, effective Thursday. The manager quoted a letter from Crisp as saying his resignation was "due to recent publicity which has had a detrimental effect upon my public trust and confidence and also an erosion of support from within the police department."

Carter Sparks Ohio State To 86-73 Victory Over ODU In NIT First Round

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Perry Carter was just another promising big man in the Big Ten. But, in the first round of the National Invitation Tournament on Wednesday night and away from the Purdues and Indianas of the world, the 6-foot-8 Ohio State freshman stepped into the spotlight.

Carter scored a career-high 25 points and had 10 rebounds as the Buckeyes rolled to an 86-73 victory over Old Dominion.

"The Big Ten is a tougher conference. What's the name of their conference? The Sun Belt?" Carter asked.

Old Dominion Coach Tom Young said Ohio State — led by Carter — simply pushed his team around.

"They played us more physical than (NCAA teams) Maryland or DePaul did," Young said. "They manhandled us."

Ohio State outrebounded the Monarchs 38-25, including a 20-10 upper hand in the second half.

"I think it's helped me playing in the Big Ten," said Carter, who came into the game averaging 9.3 points a game. "There wasn't a lot of banging going on like there is in the regular season. It's hard to get any boards in the Big Ten, with all that goes on."

Carter was 12 for 18 from the field. Nine of his 10 rebounds came on offense.

"I think that who Perry Carter played against the last two months had a lot to do with the way he played tonight. I really think he's improved his offensive play. That's where he's made the most improvement... He's a much better player than he was in October," Ohio State Coach Gary Williams said.

The victory, before a St. John Arena crowd of 10,009, improved Ohio State to 17-12.

sprint to take a 24-14 lead with 10:32 left in the first half.

But Ohio State held the Monarchs scoreless for the next 6:09 and outscored ODU 15-0 to take a 29-24 lead. Jerry Francis scored the first seven points in the streak and Carter the final four. Carter went on to score the last 11 Ohio State points in the half as the Buckeyes took a 36-34 lead.

Ohio State then took control of the game by scoring the first 12 points of the second half, with Carter adding four more.

The Monarchs never got closer than 11 points again.

"We were playing seven guys, and you don't want to play Ohio State, on the road, playing catch-up ball, with seven guys," Young said. "We were in deep trouble from the 18-minute mark on."

Old Dominion, which finished third in the Sun Belt, had six turnovers in the first three minutes of the second half.

Jay Burson added 18 points for the Buckeyes, with Grady Mateen adding 11 and Curtis Wilson 10. Wilson also had 10 assists.

Ohio State hit 37 of 69 shots from the field for 54 percent and had 12 turnovers.

Old Dominion placed five players in double figures: Garrick Davis with 17, Steve Trax with 14, Bernard Royster with 12, Anthony Carver with 11 and Frank Smith with 10.

The Monarchs were 31 of 60 from the field for 52 percent, and had 19 turnovers. Eleven of the Monarchs turnovers came in the second half.

Ohio State, now 12-3 at home, won the NIT in 1986.

Williams was already looking ahead to the second round.

"Every team in America that has a chance to go to the NCAA is disappointed, but I was excited when we got invited to the NIT to have a chance to play again... Hey, it's great to be in the NIT. We won a game, we're really happy and we're looking forward to playing another one," he said.

Old Dominion's Smith had seven assists to finish his career third on the all-time NCAA list with 883.

The tournament gets into full swing tonight with eight games.

Pepperdine is at New Mexico, Georgia Southern at Georgia, Connecticut at West Virginia, Utah at Evansville, Louisiana Tech at Arkansas-Little Rock, Siena at Boston College, Fordham at Houston, and Santa Clara at Oregon.

On Friday night, it's Illinois State at Cleveland State, Tennessee at Middle Tennessee State, Long Beach State at Stanford, Virginia Commonwealth at Marshall, Northeast Louisiana at Arkansas State, Clemson at Southern Mississippi and New Orleans at Colorado State.

Second-round games also will be at campus sites next week, as will the quarterfinals. The semifinals and final will be at Madison Square Garden in New York on March 29 and 30.

The Pepperdine-New Mexico matchup is special for Lobos Coach Gary Colson. He guided the Waves before moving to Albuquerque eight years ago.

It's also special for Hunter Greene, New Mexico's only senior starter. Greene is the school's all-time leading scorer, but he had an off year after leading the WAC in scoring as a junior. The NIT is a chance for Greene to impress the pros.

Pepperdine is led by its forward combination of sophomore Tom Lewis and senior Levy Middlebrooks. Lewis, a transfer from Southern Cal, averaged 22.7 points a game, while the 6-foot-7, 240-pound Middlebrooks averaged 20 points and just under 11 rebounds a game.

Sloan Sends Aaron Back; Suspension Is Permanent

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Florida Coach Norm Sloan could use a minivan to bring his team to the arena for tonight's first-round game against St. John's in the NCAA West Regional.

The Florida roster, already depleted by Sloan's suspension of starting point guard Ronnie Montgomery, was cut again on Wednesday when reserve Patrick Aaron was sent home.

Montgomery was penalized for his role in a fight last weekend in Florida's 72-70 loss to Georgia in the semifinals of the Southeastern Conference basketball tournament. Sloan wouldn't say why Aaron was banished, but emphasized it was permanent.

"He was sent home for disciplinary reasons," Sloan said. "There is no chance of him coming back. Period, at all, forever."

That leaves Florida with just eight uniforms filled and only seven players. Reserve Bill Gurley hasn't played a second all year.

"It just takes five players to play the game," Gators forward Livingston Chatman said. "We can make it if we keep doing well. I think we can make it to the Final 16 teams at least."

"I think we will still go out and play a good game," Sloan said. "These eight players that will be dressed are the ones that have played the most anyway."

"They're going to show up and they're going to play. That's it," said St. John's Coach Lou Carnesecca, who has limited bench resources of his own.

Florida, 22-11, and St. John's, 17-11, meet in one of the four first-round games scheduled here today. The four winners advance to the second round on Saturday, with the two survivors on that day moving to Seattle for the West Region semifinals.

In other games, No. 10 Michigan, 24-7, plays Boise State, 24-5, No. 13 Wyoming, 26-5, meets No. 15 Loyola Marymount, 27-3, and No. 7 North Carolina, 24-6, plays North Texas State, 17-12.

Sloan said the Gators might change a few things for this game.

"The thing that will be different is normally we go out there and... use full-court pressure," Sloan said. "You won't see us doing that. Maybe later on in the game if the situation dictates, we'll have to go out and start picking up."

"We'll be looking more at a half-court game than normally we do," he said.

A key to which team wins the half-court game will be the battle involving forward Shelton Jones and center Jayson Williams of St. John's and Florida's Dwayne Schintzius and Chatman. Jones, a senior, averages just under 19 points and nine rebounds a game while Williams averages 10 points and five rebounds.

The sophomore Schintzius averages 14.5 points and 6.5 rebounds while Chatman contributes a bit under 13 and seven, respectively.

St. John's, which has lost eight of its last 11 games, gets a lift with the return of Williams, who sat out the Redmen's Big East tournament loss to Villanova as the first victim of the league's no-fighting rule. Williams punched a Providence player during a 90-81 loss to the Friars in the final game of the regular season.

Florida will play a more deliberate game out of necessity, but Boise State uses the tactic by design. And that could mean trouble, Michigan Coach Bill Freider said.

"It's going to be an interesting ballgame just because of the way Boise State plays," Frieder said. "Boise State likes to wear you down, so we'll have to be patient on defense."

Boise State has been in every game it played, with its biggest defeat a 56-50 loss to Wyoming at Laramie. The Broncos also gave the Cowboys fits before dropping a 59-55 decision at Boise.

Michigan, looking to a fresh start after dropping two of its last three regular-season games, will depend heavily on All-American guard Gary Grant, a tenacious defender who also averages 22 points a game.

"We are a young team this year, but we have grown up a lot," Grant said. "If we're patient as a team, we'll do all right."

Old Dominion went on an early 20-8

Duke Recalls Mississippi Valley On Eve Of Tourney

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Mississippi Valley State had an 8-20 record this season and is absent from the NCAA post-season basketball tournament.

And yet, the Southwestern Conference school has been repeatedly referred to in questions asked of Duke Coach Mike Krzyzewski.

Two years ago, Duke met a lightly regarded Mississippi Valley State and trailed until late in the second half before finally prevailing.

This year, the fifth-ranked Blue Devils open their NCAA tournament against a lightly regarded Boston University and comparisons have been made to Duke's struggle two years ago.

"That team was a veteran team and I think it took (Mississippi Valley State) lightly. They tried to ease into the tournament," Krzyzewski said before Duke's final pre-tournament practice Wednesday. "This team is a young team. It thinks it can lose to anybody, and it can."

"Two years ago, I don't think they thought they could lose to anybody."

I'll be very disappointed if we don't play well (against Boston University).

Duke will meet Boston University in the last of four games scheduled today at the Dean Smith Center.

The afternoon session began with Rhode Island against Missouri. Ninth-ranked Syracuse played North Carolina A&T in the second game. In the opening game of the night session, Southern Methodist plays Notre Dame.

Duke forward Billy King said the Blue Devils will be better prepared because of the Mississippi Valley State game in 1986.

Pirate Club Starts 1988 Fund Drive

The Pitt County Chapter of the Pirate Club kicked off its 1988 drive with a $50,000 gift by Jack and Rachel Edwards at a meeting at the Sheraton Wednesday evening.

A check for $10,000, the first installment of the $50,000 gift, which will go into an endowment fund was presented at the meeting. The gift is the third of its kind to be received by the Pirate Club, which funds scholarships for the athletic program at East Carolina University.

The 1988 drive for membership will last through April 23, the date of this year's annual spring football game. The Pitt County chapter, the largest of the Pirate Club, has a goal of $380,000 this year while the overall goal this year is $1.5 million, according to athletic director Dave Hart.

Last year, the club raised $1.3 million, an increase of $200,000 over the previous year. "Right now we are fully funding football and men's and women's basketball with scholarships," Hart said. "Our eventual goal is to fund the total number of grants allowed by the NCAA in the sports that we sponsor."

Hart added that that would take some $1.65 to 1.7 million each year — above and beyond expenses, which he said would run to about 17 percent of this year's total.

Hart said that the Pirate Club is attempting to reach a $1 million goal in endowments, and were close to the half-way point. Further, a $1 million reserve fund is also being sought. "That would take some of the year-to-year pressure off us in case we did have a bad year," Hart said. "We'd have something to fall back on."

"We have to generate X number of gifts and X number of dollars at the gate to keep it going. That's why the endowment fund is so important."

Hart said he hoped the endowment fund would reach the $1 million mark in about two to three years.

The overall Pirate Club goal in membership this year is 4,500, with 380 new members in Pitt County.

Jack Edwards is currently the executive director of the Pirate Club and has been active in ECU athletics for a number of years.

Bolen Helps Rose Top New Bern

NEW BERN — John Bolen drove in three runs to help lift Rose High School to an 11-3 baseball victory over New Bern Wednesday in the opening game of the 1988 season.

David Leisten and Axel Smith also picked up two hits each for the Rampants, who breezed to the easy victory.

Tom Moyer opened on the mound for the Rampants, going the first six innings while Billy Carr came on in relief in the final inning. Moyer gave up but five hits, allowed the three runs, only one of them earned. He struck out 10 and walked one. Carr, in one inning, fanned two and did not allow a baserunner.

Rose jumped on New Bern in the first inning for all the runs it would need, scoring four times.

David Leisten led off with a single and Tim Moore got a hit. Axel Smith followed with a third-straight single, driving in Leisten. David Daniels was hit by a pitch and Moyer walked, forcing in Moore. Jamie Brewington sacrificed in Smith, and Daniels scored on a hit by Bolen.

Rose added two more in the second. Moore walked and moved up on a passed ball. Smith then tripled him in. Daniels walked and Moyer's grounder got him at second, but scored Smith.

The seventh Rose run crossed in the fourth. Leisten singled, moved up on a wild pitch and came around on a pair of errors on the relay.

Rose added one more in the fifth. Brewington singled, moved to third on an error and scored on Bolen's sacrifice fly.

The final three came over in the seventh. Jeff Mahoney walked with two away and Bolen doubled him in. Dallas McPherson walked and Chris Fuqua doubled in Bolen. An error allowed McPherson to score.

New Bern got two in the second. Mike Hermann reached on a fielder's choice and took second and third on passed balls. He scored on David French's hit. Eric Daniels doubled and Kevin Hill reached on an error, allowing French to score.

The other run came in the third. Kenny Johnson singled, moved up on a passed ball and a walk pitch and scored on Jim Alexander's hit.

The Rampants travel to Eastern

Wayne today for their second outing of the season.

BETHEL — North Pitt took a 20-0 win over Chocowinity in a baseball game that was called after four innings because of darkness Wednesday.

North Pitt pushed across three runs in the first inning, nine in the second and eight more in the third to take the win.

In the first, with two outs, Johnny Sherrod walked. Chuck Whitehurst followed with a reach off an error and Roosevelt Hines homered to make it 3-0.

In the second inning, Reggie Daniels had a single and a double and drove in two runs to key a nine-run frame for the Panthers.

Robertson, Daniels and Willoughby each had two hits apiece for North Pitt.

Randy House got the win, giving up one hit over three innning and struck out the side in the second innning with two outs. For the game, he recorded four strikeouts.

North Pitt, 1-0, returns to action Saturday at home against West Craven.

St. John's Getting Ready For Matchup With Cavs

By The Associated Press
With Fairfield out of the way, the St. John's women's basketball team is turning its attention toward 10th-ranked Virginia, hoping for a better fate than a year ago when the Lady Cavaliers beat the Express by 35 points.

St. John's, getting 20 points from Sabrina Johnson, beat Fairfield 83-70 Wednesday night in the opening round of the NCAA women's basketball tournament East Regional.

"I'm still very confident about that game," Johnson said of Virginia. "We can match with anyone as long as we take our time, play our own game and stay under control."

St. John's, 22-9, plays Virginia on Saturday, and Dolores Dixon, who scored 15 points against Fairfield, says the Express will see a Virginia team that has less depth than a year ago.

"That was a different club," she said of the 1987 Virginia team. "I don't think they're as deep as they were last year."

Dana Pellegrino had 21 points for Fairfield, 19-10. Tricia Sacca added 17 points, 13 in the first half.

In other playoff games, it was

Wake Forest 53, Villanova 51 in the East; Penn State 86, No. 20 La Salle 85 and St. Joseph's 68, Bowling Green 66 in the Midwest; South Carolina 77, Alabama 63 and Kansas 81, Middle Tennessee State 75 in the Midwest; No. 19 Stephen F. Austin 84, Louisiana State 62 and Colorado 78, Eastern Illinois 72 in the West.

Wake Forest 53, Villanova 51
Jenny Mitchell's layup with two seconds remaining decided the issue. Lisa Dodd led Wake Forest, 23-7, which advanced to a meeting Saturday with top-ranked Tennessee, with 15 points. Lisa Angelotti led Villanova, 20-9, with 18 points.

Penn State 86, No. 20 La Salle 85
Bethany Collins, who finished with 21 points, hit six of seven free throws in the final two minutes to lead the Lady Lions, 20-12, to a meeting with No. 3 Auburn on Sunday. Suzie McConnell scored 29 points for Penn State. Tracey Sneed scored 32 points and grabbed 12 rebounds for La Salle, which dropped to 25-5.

St. Joseph's 68, Bowling Green 66
Kim Foley scored 17 of her 21 points in the second half to lead the Hawks, who play No. 9 Maryland on Saturday. Dale Hodges scored 17 points and pulled down 13 rebounds for St. Joseph's, 24-7. Angie Bonner scored 18 points for Bowling Green, which fell to 24-6.

South Carolina 77, Alabama 63
Freshman Karen Middleton scored 21 points for the Lady Gamecocks, 23-10, who will meet No. 4 Texas on Sunday. Alabama, 18-10, got 22 points from Laura Vaughn.

Kansas 81, Middle Tennessee St. 75
Lisa Baker scored a career-high 28 points to lead Kansas, 22-9. The Lady Jayhawks will meet No. 5 Louisiana Tech on Saturday. Sandy Brown led Middle Tennessee, 22-8, with 23 points.

No. 19 S.F. Austin 84, Louisiana St. 62
Mozell Brooks scored a career-high 32 points to lead the Ladyjacks, 29-4, into a meeting with No. 2 Iowa on Sunday. Dana Chapman led LSU, 18-11, with 17 points.

Colorado 78, Eastern Illinois 72
Crystal Ford and Tracy Tripp scored 20 points apiece to lead the Lady Buffaloes, 21-10, to the second round, where they will play No. 7 Long Beach State on Saturday. Barb Perks led Eastern Illinois, 22-8, with 20 points.

Unknowns Are Just Happy To Be At The NCAA Party

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Eastern Michigan's Ben Braun and Murray State's Steve Newton are tickled to be in the NCAA Midwest Regional, although they are quick to add they don't plan on being doormats for their high-powered foes in Friday's first round.

Eastern Michigan, 22-7, faces eighth-ranked Pittsburgh, 23-6 and the second seed in the Midwest Regional, to open the tournament in the Bob Devaney Sports Center at 12:07 p.m. CST. Murray State, 21-8, opens against third-seeded North Carolina State, 24-7, at 7:07 p.m.

In the other first-round games, Vanderbilt, 18-10, meets Utah State, 21-9, at 2:37 p.m.; and Kansas, 21-11, faces 26-3 and 18th-ranked Xavier, Ohio, at 9:37 p.m.

Eastern Michigan Coach Ben Braun and senior forward Grant Long say Pitt presents a tremendous challenge because of the depth and talent their team is not used to seeing in an opponent.

"To play them, you have to worry about guarding all five of their players," said Long, an All-Mid-American Conference selection. "When you play a MAC team you can concentrate on stopping one or two guys and you can win. But with Pittsburgh, all five of their guys can score."

"I've seen them (Pitt) play this year," Braun said. "They're awfully talented, but they can be beat. They're big, strong and fast. They're pretty darned good."

"It's going to be tough," Long said. "You hear a lot about those guys — they're tough. But I don't look at us as a Cinderella team; some people might. I guess. They'll be suprised."

How his players match up with Pitt standouts such as Charles Smith and Demetreus Gore is not the major concern of Braun coming into Lincoln, he said.

"I don't worry about the matchups. I'm concerned about how we play and how we prepare," Braun said. "Our team has won 17 of our last 19 games. It's nice to go into the tournament with that type of momentum.

It's good for us to be coming in winning. That was our goal and we did it."

Pitt apparently must overcome an internal problem between Coach Paul Evans and forward Jerome Lane. The two have been feuding in the media and Lane twice went to the bench for what the coach called mental lapses in Saturday's Big East Tournament loss to Villanova. Lane still scored 20 points and had 10 rebounds.

Pitt has lost three of its last six games, a fact that hasn't been lost on Eastern Michigan.

"You don't know much about the caliber of a team you're playing until you actually play them," junior guard Howard Chambers said. "I don't get excited about something like this. I get excited about winning."

"Our goal is to win an opening-round game," Braun said. "I think we'll be prepared to play. We're not going in there to lose, I can promise you that."

Murray State's Newton is at a loss on the particulars of facing North Carolina State, although he knows Wolfpack Coach Jim Valvano will bring a talented team to Lincoln.

"I don't know a lot about them other than they're very talented," Newton said. "It's an awesome challenge. But we're going to go out and try to play the best basketball we can play. We've got nothing to lose and everything to gain."

The two teams have not met before.

Murray State, which has won 10 games in a row to improve to 21-8, last went to the NCAA tourney in 1969, when it lost to Marquette 82-62 in the first round.

"It's a dream come true for this bunch and it's well-deserved on their part," Newton said. "We weren't given much of a chance, but this group overachieves and now they're in the big dance."

The Racers won both the regular-season and postseason Ohio Valley Conference titles behind the 26-point average of 6-foot-7 junior forward Jeff Martin and nearly 18 points per game from 5-8 guard Don Mann.

Murray State has no player taller than 6-8 starting center Carl Sias, while North Carolina State is led by 6-10 center Charles Shackelford's 16.7 points and 9.5 rebounds per game. Shackelford was an All-Atlantic Coast Conference first-team pick.

The Wolfpack also has 6-8 forward Chucky Brown with a 16.6 average, and 6-5 guard Vinny Del Negro averaging nearly 16 points per game.

Duke Recalls Foe...

"Two years ago, it was a first-round game and we struggled in the first half," King said. "That does wake us up a little that any opponent is capable of beating you."

Boston University, 23-7, earned its bid by winning the ECAC North Atlantic Conference Tournament. Led by guard Drederick Irving, who averaged 20.3 points per game during the regular season, the Terriers are making their first NCAA appearance since 1983.

Guard Larry Jones added 18.1 points per game to Boston University's three-guard offense.

"We obviously don't have the ammunition that Duke has, so we could go out and play a great game and not come out on top," Boston University Coach Mike Jarvis said. "We are going to learn a lot here."

When asked about Duke's main weapon, junior Danny Ferry, Jarvis said, "Ten years from now, I'm going to tell my grandchildren that I coached against Danny Ferry. That's how good I think he is."

Another coach hoping the past will help his team in this year's 64-team tournament is Syracuse Coach Jim Boeheim.

Boeheim, whose club finished second in the Big East and then won the conference tournament, guided the Orangemen into the championship finals last year only to lose 74-73 to Indiana.

"I thought when this team reached the tournament that last year's experience would be really beneficial," Boeheim said before Syracuse's final pre-tournament practice. "We'll have to wait and find out."

Boeheim has not been satisfied with the level of the Orangemen's play this year. Syracuse finished the season with a 23-6 record.

"We've been pretty consistent this year," Boeheim said. "I don't think we've played to the level I thought we could."

North Carolina A&T, 26-2, makes its seventh consecutive NCAA appearance after having lost first-round games six years in a row and figures to extend its losing streak. The Aggies, winners of 16 in a row, are led by 6-7 senior Claude Williams, who averaged 16 points and 7.8 rebounds during the regular season.

Southern Methodist, 27-6, is a good outside shooting team, making 50.5 of its shots, 40.7 percent on three-pointers. The Southwest Conference champions were led by Carlton McKinney (16.1 points per game) and 5-11 Kato Armstrong (15.8).

The Mustangs will have to contain Notre Dame's David Rivers, who averaged 22.4 points per game this year. "When you think about SMU you think jump shooters. When you think about Notre Dame, you think about David Rivers," Mustang Coach Dave Bliss said.

"We feel we can pressure him and get him tired and cause him to make some mistakes and work it to our advantage," McKinney said. "We are going to concentrate mainly on him."

The Fighting Irish, 20-8, reached the regional finals a year ago before losing to North Carolina.

In today's opener, Rhode Island, the Atlantic 10 Conference's under-study to Temple, goes into a game that pits the Rams' backcourt against a bigger Missouri lineup.

The Rams, led by their backcourt combination of Carlton Owens and Tom Garrick, will employ full-court, man-to-man pressure defense.

Missouri, 19-10, has lost in the first round in its last three NCAA post-season appearances. Derrick Chievous, a 7-senior who averaged 23 points and 8.7 rebounds, leads a Tiger offense that shot 51.7 percent.

Aggies' Williams Set For Orange

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — North Carolina and New York are a long way apart, but N.C. A&T forward Claude Williams said today's opening round game against Syracuse in the NCAA Tournament was like a cross-town rivalry for him.

"Syracuse is only an hour and a half from where I grew up so I've seen them a lot," said Williams, a native of Rochester, N.Y. "It will be like home away from home, liking going for bragging rights. It will be a big challenge for me and the team."

The Aggies faced ninth-ranked Syracuse today to open the East Regional at the Dean E. Smith Student Activities Center.

Williams, a 6-foot-7 senior, averaged 16.5 points and eight rebounds this season for the Aggies.

North Carolina A&T went 16-0 in Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference play and Williams was the conference's Player of the Year.

"Claude has been our most consistent inside player," Aggie Coach Don Corbett said. "He plays a forward for us, but he also goes to the block. I'm very proud at the way he's progressed."

"He's an upstate New York kid. He grew up with Syracuse in front of him. It's going to be interesting to see how he fares against his home-state rival."

Williams will find himself going inside against 6-11 Rony Seikaly and 6-9 Derrick Coleman. On defense, he will be guarding Seikaly. The 6-8 Kenny Cox will try to handle Coleman.

"They are the two best big men in the country," Williams said of Seikaly and Coleman. "I will have to try and get position on the boards on Coleman. Hopefully we can get them in foul trouble early. We hope to just take it right at them and do that."

Williams was recruited by Syracuse when he was a junior at Charlotte High School in Rochester, N.Y., and even attended some Orangemen games.

"I thought about it," Williams said of going to Syracuse. "Fortunately, it didn't work out."

Williams said Syracuse's interest in him waned when he chose to go to summer school instead of attend a basketball camp after his junior year.

The Aggies will use a patient, half-court offense to try to slow down Syracuse's transition game.

Evidence Growing That Norman Is Back On Track

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — There's a growing body of evidence to indicate that Greg Norman has regained the form and flair that made him the outstanding figure in golf in 1986. "I'm excited to get going. I'm excited about playing again, more excited than I've been in a year or so," said Norman, who tees off today in the first round of the $750,000 Bay Hill Classic.

about is 1988. I'm looking forward to it. I'm excited about it." There's good reason to be, it seems. "I'm swinging better than I have in a long time," Norman said. And he has the results to show for it. In his only previous American start this season, he missed a playoff by one stroke at Pebble Beach. In four appearances in his native Australia, he won three times and missed a playoff by one stroke. Norman, who is opening the heavy part of his American tour in this event, faces some familiar international stars in the chase for a $135,000 first prize. Chief among them are Sandy Lyle of Scotland, the winner at Phoenix earlier this season and runner-up in last week's Honda Classic, and Ian Woosnam of Wales. Woosnam, who collected about $1.8 million in winning eight international titles last year, is opening a four-tournament American swing. Other major figures in the field include defending champion Payne Stewart, Mize, Ray Floyd, 1988 leading money-winner Jay Haas, Mark McCumber, Ben Crenshaw, 1987 money leader Curtis Strange, Fuzzy Zoeller and Joey Sindelar, the winner last week. Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by NBC.

Gooden Gets Shellshocked Again

By The Associated Press
Dwight Gooden feels a lot better than he has looked in spring training so far. But he says that's par for the course.
"I don't know what it is, but I don't like spring training games so much and never did," Gooden said Wednesday after giving up 10 hits and six runs in an 8-7 loss to the Philadelphia Phillies.
For the ace of the Mets' staff, it continued a typical run of bad spring training performances. He has started three times in exhibition games in the last two weeks and given up 19 hits and 11 runs in 11 innings. He is 0-1 with a 9.00 ERA so far.
"There's a different attitude once the season starts," Gooden said. "My overall earned-run average in the spring is probably 10, anyway. I don't know why, but I just don't get into it."
Gooden, however, said he was "right on schedule" with his spring training work.

"Game by game, it's coming along," Gooden said. "In my first game, I tried to overthrow the entire game. In the second game, I was overthrowing only some of the time. Now, I'm trying to get out of the habit. Today, I had my best curveball in a long time."
Rick Schu's ninth-inning sacrifice fly scored Bob Dernier to give the Phillies the win after they blew an early 6-0 lead.
Angels 7, Athletics 6, 14 innings
Stewart Cliburn is making the most of his second time around with the California Angels.
Given a new life with his old team, Cliburn enhanced his chances of landing a bullpen job with the Angels by holding Oakland hitless in three innings Wednesday as California pulled out a 14-inning victory.
Cliburn, a non-roster pitcher invited to camp on a minor-league contract, held the Angels scoreless in the 10th through 12th innings. He has allowed five hits and two runs in 8 1-3 innings over four games.

"I know I have to earn the job. I still feel like that," said Cliburn, who was released by California following the 1987 season, his second consecutive year marred by arm injuries.
White Sox 13, Orioles 0
Greg Walker paced Chicago's 15-hit attack with a home run and five RBI to lead the White Sox to a 13-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.
The White Sox scored eight runs in the first three innings off Orioles starter Jay Tibbs. Mark Salas went 3-for-5 with a home run and three RBI for Chicago, while Jerry Hairston went 2-for-2 with and scored two runs.

The Orioles managed just four hits in the game.
Yankees 11, Rangers 0
Three New York pitchers limited Texas to four singles as the Yankees routed the Rangers.
Starter Rick Rhoden allowed four hits in six innings. Lee Guetterman followed with two innings and Tim Stoddard one as the Yankees extended their shutout string to 21 innings.
Joel Skinner had two hits and drove in three runs. Bobby Meacham also had two hits and scored three times, and Don Mattingly hit his first spring homer.

Tigers 10, Pirates 4 (ss)
Detroit snapped an eight-game losing streak by beating Pittsburgh, as Darrell Evans drove in three runs and Eric King allowed one hit in five innings.
Evans had an RBI grounder during a three-run third and singled in two runs during a three-run fourth.
Pittsburgh starter Mike Bielecki was pounded for six runs on nine hits in four innings.
Blue Jays 9, Pirates 8 (ss)
Ceil Fielder had three hits and drove in five runs, including three with a homer, leading Toronto to its victory over a Pittsburgh split squad.
Toronto overcame a 4-3 deficit with five runs in the seventh off Vicente Palacios. Geronimo Berroa's solo homer tied the score 4-4.
After a single by Ernie Whitt and a walk to Fred McGriff, Fielder hit his decisive homer.
Red Sox 5, Twins 4
Pat Dodson's run-scoring single with two out in the ninth lifted Boston to its victory over Minnesota. Dodson's hit came after Angel Gonzalez tied the score with a two-run single.
The Twins had gone ahead 4-2 in the top of the ninth on Brian Harper's RBI single and Randy Bush's two-run double.

Young scored on Hatcher's triple and Hatcher scored on a grounder by Rafael Ramirez.
The Astros added a run in the second when Chuck Jackson singled and scored on an error by Kansas City left fielder Bo Jackson. A double by Chuck Jackson and Young's second triple of the game accounted for the Astros' final run in the seventh.
Danny Tartabull had a two-run homer for the Royals.
Royals (ss) 10, Dodgers 2
Frank White drove in three runs as the Royals' split squad routed the Dodgers.
The Royals broke open a 2-1 game with six runs in the seventh, all off rookie Shawn Illegas, and added two more in the eighth.
Bret Saberhagen pitched five innings, allowing six hits, for the win.
Padres 11, Cubs 0
Jimmy Jones, Greg Booker and Lance McCullers combined for a four-hitter and catcher Benito Santiago hit his first home run of the spring for San Diego.
Jones allowed three hits in six innings.
Santiago homered, doubled and drove in three runs as part of San Diego's 15-hit attack.
Giants (ss) 11, Indians 3
Harry Spilman had four hits and three RBI to lead San Francisco's 22-hit attack.
San Francisco erupted for six runs in the fifth inning off Tony Gelfi to break open a 3-1 game.
Joel Youngblood and Brett Butler added a pair of RBI singles for the Giants, who got five strong innings from starter Altee Hammaker.
Brewers 13, Giants (ss) 6
Shortstop Dale Sveum hit a two-run double, singled and scored twice in Milwaukee's eight-run seventh inning, and the Brewers pounded the San Francisco Giants to end an eight-game Cactus League losing streak.
The Brewers totaled 19 hits, including four apiece by B.J. Surhoff and Jim Adduci.

Purdue Feeling Little Pressure

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Some teams show up just happy to be here, others come in feeling a great desire to prove something to the basketball world.
Ironically, it's the third-ranked Purdue squad, the top seed in the Midwest Regional of the NCAA basketball tournament and a team snake-bitten in recent tourney history, that entered today's first-round action feeling no need to prove its greatness. Or so says Coach Gene Keady.
But 13th-seeded La Salle, in the NCAA field for the first time in five years after winning the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference tournament, saw a clear goal in its matchup against Kansas State, ranked 20th in the nation and seeded fourth in the regional.
"I think we gained a lot of respect last year going to the NIT finals," said senior guard Tim Legler. "If we can beat a team of that caliber, it'll make people recognize where our program is headed."
The winner of tonight's game faces the victor of the DePaul-Wichita State game on Saturday. The other second-round game at South Bend will pit the winners of the Purdue-Fairleigh Dickinson and Baylor-Memphis State games. The remaining eight teams in the Midwest Regional compete at Lincoln, Neb., beginning Friday.
LaSalle, 24-9 and riding a 15-game winning streak, saw its season end last year with an 84-80 loss to Southern Mississippi in the championship game of the National Invitation Tournament. The Explorers depend this year on the 23.4 points and 11.4 rebounds per game of sophomore forward Lionel Simmons, the MAAC player of the year, and Legler's 16.9 points.
Kansas State, which lost to Nevada-Las Vegas in the second round last year, earned its high seed after a 22-8 season. Senior swing man Mitch Richmond leads the Wildcats with 22.7 points per game.
"It's my second year around and I'm more calm and I have better control of my nerves," said Richmond.
"The fourth seed is a real honor," Coach Lon Kruger said. "But I told them it doesn't mean anything now."
DePaul Coach Joey Meyer echoed the warning against overconfidence.
"This is a one-game elimination, and it really doesn't matter what you've done before as it matters what you do (tonight)," said Meyer.
The Blue Demons, one of only two independent squads to make the 64-team field (Notre Dame was the other), finished regular-season play 21-7 and led by the backcourt of Rod Strickland and Kevin Edwards, averaging 20.1 and 18.6 points.

The Blue Demons are making their 10th NCAA appearance in 11 years and 20-9 Wichita State its third in four years. Shockers Coach Eddie Fogler says any team coming into the field will be playing at the top of its game but the basketball sometimes takes funny bounces.
"I can't believe anybody's going to self-destruct when you get this far," Fogler said, but added: "Fairleigh Dickinson might beat Purdue. You never know. It's a crazy game."
Keady, whose Purdue teams have experienced only bitter disappointment in the NCAA tourney the past five years, downplayed the pressure on the highly regarded Boiler-makers.
"It's not going to ruin my summer if we get beat," he said. "We want to win the national championship in the worst way, but if we get beat we're going to walk out with our heads high, knowing we tried our best."
Purdue, which hasn't advanced past the second round under Keady, won the Big Ten title behind powerful play led by seniors Troy Lewis, Todd Mitchell and Everette Stephens. Lewis and Stephens averaged 17.7 and 13 points in the backcourt, while forward Mitchell scored 15.8.
Fairleigh Dickinson Coach Tom Green didn't relish the prospect of facing Purdue in the opening game this afternoon. The 23-6 Knights won the ECAC Metro Conference tournament for the automatic bid and were rewarded with the last seed in the 16-team regional field.
"It's a heckuva lot better than 17th or 18th," Green said. "When it's all said and done, I'm just glad to be here."
Memphis State Coach Larry Finch also is happy to be in South Bend after watching the Tigers, 19-11 and an at-large bid, lose top players Sylvester Gray and Marvin Alexander two weeks into the season because of improper dealings with a sports agent. Senior guard Dwight Boyd's 14.9 average paced the Tigers.

Red Sox 5, Twins 4
Pat Dodson's run-scoring single with two out in the ninth lifted Boston to its victory over Minnesota. Dodson's hit came after Angel Gonzalez tied the score with a two-run single.
The Twins had gone ahead 4-2 in the top of the ninth on Brian Harper's RBI single and Randy Bush's two-run double.
Reds 2, Cardinals 1
Rookie Chris Sabo's tie-breaking homer leading off the seventh gave Cincinnati a victory over St. Louis.
Sabo, who had three hits, connected for his second spring homer off Scott Terry.
Nick Esasky doubled in the Reds first run, while the Cardinals scored on consecutive doubles by Willie McGee and Mike Fitzgerald.
Cincinnati starter Tom Browning pitched five scoreless innings, allowing only three hits.
Astros 7 (ss), Braves 5
Pat Keedy's two-run double in the sixth capped a six-run rally as Houston handed Atlanta its seventh loss in a row.
Houston's big inning came on five hits and two errors as the Astros overcame a 5-0 Atlanta lead.
Mark Bailey and Dale Berra each had three hits for Houston.
Astros (ss) 4, Royals (ss) 3
Gerald Young and Billy Hatcher each tripled and scored in the first inning, sparking Houston to its split-squad triumph over Kansas City.

Roanoke, Williamston Have Two All-NEAC

Roanoke and Williamston each landed two girls on the first and second teams of the Northeastern All-Conference basketball team.

Williamston's Dana Hardison, a junior, and Joyce Outlaw, a Roanoke junior, were picked to the NEAC's first-team. Chosen to the second team were Kim Hawkins of Williamston and Vicky Teele of Roanoke, both sophomores.

Other first team members were Lynn Elliott of Edenton, Susan Hockaday of Roanoke Rapids, Jennifer Ramsey of Northampton East and Paula Owens of Plymouth.

Second team members also included Stephanie Harris of Northampton East, Tracy Hyman of Plymouth, and Helen Valentine of Ahoskie. Given honorable mention were Cheryl Bogues of Edenton, Anada Long of Northampton East and Allyson Matta of Roanoke Rapids.

Jaguars Top Conley In Net Match

Farmville Central opened its 1988 tennis season with a 7-2 victory over D.H. Conley's Wednesday afternoon.

Farmville took five of the six singles matches to ensure the victory, then added two more wins in the doubles.

Conley's wins came in the number three singles and number two doubles, both of which featured Barry Furlough.

Conley drops to 0-2 with the loss while Farmville is now 1-0. The Vikings return to action on Friday at Kinston, while Farmville plays at home against Southern Nash.

Summary:

Al Hedgepeth (FC) d. Derrick Harrell, 6-0, 6-4.	Wes Craft (FC) d. Garth Archer, 6-1, 6-4.

Northern Nash Wins Girls' Track

RED OAK — Northern Nash swept the relays and went on to record an 81-53 victory over the Rose High School girls' track team Wednesday in its opening meet of the season.

"We have a young team this year and we made some mental mistakes that you cannot afford to make," Coach Dennis Gibson said. "We should do better after we get some experience."

Rose won only four events, the shot put, the long jump, the discus and the 400 meters. Shawn Sutton took both the shot and discus for the Rampettes.

Lisa Gilreath won the high jump and both of the hurdle events for Nash, while Sue Bell took the 800-meter and 1,600-meter runs and Lamm won the 200 and 100.

Rose returns to action on Monday at Rocky Mount.

Summary:

High jump: 1) Gilreath (NN) 4-6; 2) T. Crowell (R) 4-6. Shot put: 1) Sutton (R) 23-2 1/2; 2) Spell (R) 22-2 1/2; 3) Phillips (R) 21-10. Long jump: 1) Mills (R) 14-9; 3) Sherrod (R) 14-1. ## Farmville JV's Crush North Edgecombe

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central's JV baseball team took a 20-0 win over North Edgecombe Wednesday.

Darrell Wilks was the winning pitcher with 13 strikeouts and three walks. Hollis Harper, Johnny Phillips and Jeff Smith all collected one hit apiece for the Jaguars, who were playing their first game of the season.

UNC-Greensboro Downs Lady Pirates

East Carolina's Lady Pirate tennis team fell to UNC-Greensboro, 5-4, Wednesday.

The Lady Pirates split the singles matches with the Spartans, but could take only one of the three doubles matches, giving UNCG the victory.

The Lady Pirates are now 10-5 on the year while UNCG boosts its record to 6-3.

East Carolina returns to action next Wednesday at Meredith.

Summary:

Kelly McGillicuddy (G) d. Susan Matlocks, 6-1, 6-3.	Joey Millard (EC) d. Luane Saudberg, 6-1, 6-3.

Shrine Bowl Says No To Date Change

NEWELL (AP) — The executive committee of the Shrine Bowl Board of Governors says moving the annual all-star game to the third week of December would create too many scheduling problems for athletes and band members.

The committee Wednesday rejected a proposal by the North Carolina High School Athletic Association that the game be set one week later to let N.C. all-stars involved in high school championships an opportunity to play.

"If the Shrine Bowl game were moved to the third week in December, it could occur as late as December 21," said Thurman Council, general chairman of the Shrine Bowl. "The Shrine Bowl Board of Governors felt that such a revised date would provide too many scheduling conflicts with the hundreds of student athletes and band members who would be away from school on Christmas break."

Tests Show Dodd Has Lung Cancer

ATLANTA (AP) — Bobby Dodd, the most successful football coach in Georgia Tech history, has been diagnosed with lung cancer.

Medical tests run Wednesday on a tumor in Dodd's lung measuring about 2 inches showed that the growth, which did not show up on a December X-ray, was malignant, said Dodd's internist, Dr. Crawford Barnett.

"We went over the December X-ray with all the radiologists, and there was not even a hint of it in that area," Barnett said. "It has exploded to that size that rapidly."

Dodd, 79, vowed to overcome the disease, said John Carter, the vice president and executive director of the Georgia Tech Alumni Association.

Carter said Dodd sent him a message to "tell all my friends and admirers that ol' Coach is in good spirits and he's going to beat that thing."

Dodd survived prostate cancer 13 years ago, Carter said.

Dodd coached Tech from 1945 through 1966, compiling a 165-64-8 record. He took the Yellow Jackets to 13 bowl games.

LONDON (AP) — Zola Budd stands at the crossroads in her four-year career as a British athlete.

As her teammates left today for the world cross-country championships in New Zealand, Budd stayed behind, again thwarted by political opposition in her efforts to compete for her adopted country on an international stage.

This time, she said, she had had enough.

The South African-born runner withdrew Wednesday from the March 26 championships at Auckland, staving off a widespread political boycott and pre-empting a showdown between British track authorities and the sport's international governing body.

But she fiercely refuted allegations by some African states that she was involved in a track meet in her homeland nine months ago, and said she wanted her name cleared once and for all, especially with the Seoul Olympics fast approaching.

"I trust the authorities will have the courage and dignity to publicly declare that I have broken no rules," Budd said. "I also hope that they will ensure that no such political interference and pressure is put on me in the future."

The International Amateur Athletic Federation said it would examine the whole question of Budd's eligibility.

Noting that her withdrawal from the cross-country event had "avoided a major disruption," the organization said the athlete's career would be discussed at its meeting here April 15-16.

"An item on the agenda ... will be to examine the eligibility of Zola Budd in the light of her stay in South Africa at various times in 1987," the IAAF said.

Budd, who won the cross-country title in 1985 and 1986, withdrew from the Auckland meet just as the IAAF was pondering whether to order her exclusion.

She acted after the British Amateur Athletic Board, which had earlier declined a request to pull her out, indicated it would prefer to withdraw the entire British squad on a matter of principle rather than leave Budd behind.

"I must ... put my country and teammates first," Budd said. "For the sake of saving this event for them, I must now withdraw myself from the British team."

She said, however, "with sadness and regret."

Budd's announcement followed weeks of pressure by the New Zealand organizers, who said she would not be welcome in Auckland, which is also staging the boycott-threatened 1990 Commonwealth Games.

Kenya, Ethiopia and Zimbabwe had announced plans to stay away from the cross-country championships if Budd competed. Each cited unconfirmed reports that she was involved in a meet at Brakpan, Transvaal, last June, while back in her homeland visiting relatives and receiving treatment for an injury.

South Africa is barred from international athletic competition because of its apartheid policies.

Budd said the allegations were totally unfounded.

"I am sure that when they are fully investigated, I will be found completely innocent ... and I am sure that, when the IAAF find there is no substance to these accusations, they will set the record straight," Budd said in a statement.

Praising Budd's "courageous action," the BAAB said her withdrawal would have no bearing on eligibility for the Seoul Olympics in September.

"If she qualifies, she will be selected," BAAB spokesman Tony Ward said. "She is, after all, a British citizen, and in our opinion has done nothing wrong."

"We don't want Zola banned from Seoul. They will have to construct a rule to stop her competing and that will be very difficult."

Ward said the IAAF was now "duty bound" to study the case against Budd.

"It is an important milestone in her career," he said. "Our understanding is that the so-called evidence is mostly from unreliable newspaper reports. We hope the IAAF will come up with a judgment that will clear Zola to run in the future."

Budd, a farmer's daughter from Bloemfontein, South Africa, emigrated to Britain in 1984.

Her hastily acquired passport, granted by virtue of her paternal grandfather's British citizenship, enabled her to compete in the Los Angeles Olympics.

Jackson To Go On

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The illness that forced Michael Jackson to cancel a performance in St. Louis is not expected to affect his weekend concerts here, spokesmen said.

"It's just laryngitis," Jackson's press agent, Sherrie Levy, said Wednesday. "All he needs is time to recover. I'm confident he'll be in great shape for the shows in Indianapolis."

"We expect that the Friday night show will go as planned," said publicist Maureen O'Connor. "He is under a doctor's care, but he is feeling better. They are proceeding to put up the stage and take care of other tour matters."

Officials at Market Square Arena, where Jackson is scheduled to perform Friday and Saturday as part of a 13-city tour, said the shows are mostly sold out.

Jackson was treated by doctors at St. John's Mercy Medical Center in suburban St. Louis after illness forced him to postpone a concert last Saturday night.

Jackson performed Sunday night as scheduled before about 19,000 people despite suffering from a cold. But it progressed Monday to laryngitis and he had to cancel that night's makeup concert, St. Louis Arena manager Roger Dixon said.

Severinsen Likes Albums

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Trumpet-playing bandleader Doc Severinsen says that having his television orchestra do albums seemed like a crazy idea, but it brought concert bookings and Grammy awards.

"Maybe there's life for big-band records, after all," Severinsen said in a recent interview.

Though his Tonight Show Band gets nationwide exposure on Johnny Carson's show, albeit for 30 seconds at a time, Severinsen said the idea of an album didn't arise until 1986 when Lenny Silverman of tiny Amherst Records proposed it.

"I replied, 'You've got to be crazy; what to you want to do that for?'" Severinsen recalled.

"It turned out so well that we immediately went in and did 'Volume Two,'" followed by a sold-out concert tour, Severinsen said.

The Tonight Show Band's "Volume One" made an impressive crossover jump to the pop charts and won a Grammy last year for best big-band album. "Volume Two" won a Grammy for Bill Holman's arrangement of the jazz classic, "Take the A Train."

Waterton-Glacier International Peace Park spans the Canada-U.S. border. It is a wilderness containing some 60 kinds of mammals and 250 kinds of birds.

Celebrities Bus Tables For Charity

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Actress Brooke Shields and other celebrities bussed tables and hawked their wares to raise money for Dreammakers Inc., an organization that grants the wishes of terminally ill children.

Country musicians Lynn Anderson, Lee Greenwood and Charlie Daniels joined local television news anchors and Shields to raise an estimated $52,000 for the charity Wednesday.

Gov. Ned McWherter and Mayor Bill Boner also joined in the Fifth Annual Celebrity Waiters Luncheon.

"My dad would never let me wait tables when I was a teen-ager, because he said it wasn't a good job for a lady," said Demetria Kalidimos, an anchor at WSMV-TV.

"But, I think the money's pretty good."

About 80 celebrities offered caps, posters and T-shirts decorated with the Dreammakers logo to their fellows. Members of the country music band Sawyer Brown bought Shields' apron for $500, outbidding Davidson County Sheriff Fate Thomas and musician Chet Atkins.

The organization was created by Nancy West, who was presented with the annual Dreammakers Award.

Adults Will Identify Their Past In TV 'Wonder Years'

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Remember 20 years ago? Black-and-white television, the Vietnam War, the assassinations of Martin Luther King Jr. and Robert Kennedy, campus unrest, sexual revolution, hippies, flower children?

Other events shook the earth, too. Growing up, for instance.

In ABC's "The Wonder Years," Kevin Arnold is 12 years old in 1968. He has to be careful of the neighborhood bully, namely his older brother. His father is a distant figure who shows up now and then to straighten him out. The offstage narrator is Kevin as a grownup, looking back and remembering. Of course, remembering it in his own fashion.

"The Wonder Years," simply put, is wonderful. Every adult out there who has ever grown up will identify with this awkward age.

Fred Savage stars as Kevin, Jason Hervey is his older brother, Wayne, and Olivia D'Abo is his sister, Karen. The midseason replacement series being given a Tuesday night spot between "Who's The Boss" and "Moonlighting."

"1968 was a year when a lot of amazing things took place," said Carol Black, creator and executive producer with her husband, Neal Marlens. Marlens also created ABC's "Growing Pains."

"We were about that age that year. There were a lot of really disruptive events in the background of a kid's life."

Marlens said, "It's different when you're 12. You know things are happening, but you're not quite sure about them. It struck us as an interesting time. There were already retrospectives about people who were a little older, like 'The Big Chill.'"

"When you're young you don't have a context in which to place things," Black added. "It's just part of the world. It's a time when you get your first impression of life."

It's also a time when a self-conscious 12-year-old is more interested in figuring out how he fits in. You can put it into context later. At 12 you just want to blend in.

Black admits "The Wonder Years" is not really about the 1960s. "It's the problems a kid has with his older brother, his father, his girlfriend," she said. "The period is more of a backdrop than the essence of the show."

Black and Marlens share common backgrounds. Both were raised in the suburbs, he outside New York City and she outside Washington, D.C. Both had older brothers. They met while students at Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania.

They started writing together about 6 years ago. He was working as a newspaper reporter in Massachusetts and she was a graduate student.

"We wrote a spec script for 'Barney Miller,' which had just gone off the air," said Marlens. "We felt it was better to write for a show that wasn't on the air. It got good response."

Marlens wrote for "Oh Madeline" and "Newhart." Then he created "Growing Pains" while Black wrote the movie "Soul Man." Actually, they worked together on both projects, but thought it best to separate the credit.

They also stress that "The Wonder Years" is not autobiographical. "I was never a 12-year-old boy," said Black. "And Neal was never this particular 12-year-old boy."

"We make up the specifics," said Marlens, "but we do use incidents from our lives and those of our friends. It's the story of a family, but it's seen from the viewpoint of the boy."

"We didn't set out to do anything deep. 'Leave It To Beaver' in its day was well thought out. But I think audiences today want to be challenged by something more substantial. We grew up in a controversial period and we're more prone to writing that way. But there are some things about growing up that never change. Things that happened to the Cleavers could happen to the Arnolds, too."

Mystery Debuts At Film Festival

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The premiere of a film featuring John Hurt, Sarah Miles and Geraldine Chaplain is among highlights of North America's oldest film festival, which opens here today.

"White Mischief" from Columbia Pictures is a murder mystery set against a backdrop of the British aristocracy in Kenya's Happy Valley during the 1940s. The movie, based on the book by James Fox and directed by Michael Radford, also stars Charles Dance, Greta Scacchi and the late Trevor Howard.

The 31st San Francisco International Film Festival will continue through March 27th, offering 86 feature films, from Argentina, India, Greece, Egypt, the Soviet Union, China, Denmark, Australia and 24 other countries.

French filmmaker Robert Bresson has been named winner of the 1988 Akira Kurosawa Lifetime Achievement Award and a series of his films will be shown, including the American premiere of the comic short, "Les Affaires Publiques" (1936). The film, Bresson's first, was believed lost for nearly half a century.

Ringo, Too

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ringo Starr, formerly of the Beatles, is doing a pilot for NBC called "Flip Side."

He plays a rock star who has spent most of his life on the road. He is forced to return home to take care of his three estranged children when his wife leaves.

Don Johnson of "Miami Vice" is executive producer in association with Universal Television.

Horoscope

From The Carroll Righter Institute

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY March 18

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): A friend is too busy with his own affairs to be of help to you, but don't take this personally. Don't take any risks on the highway.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Don't try to push your opinions on anyone today, or you will end up in trouble. This is not the best time to begin any new projects.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): A financially well-off friend can give you some financial support, but make sure of your facts before you ask this person for help.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Avoid any tense confrontations with officials today, or you'll get into big trouble. Be cheerful and optimistic at home tonight.
LEO (July 22 to August 21): A situation which you find unpleasant may have to be accepted for now, but only for a short time. Ask questions and clear up your confusion.
VIRGO (August 22 to September 22): Don't do anything which could cause friction at home, thereby spoiling your family's harmony. Try to save more money.
LIBRA (September 23 to October 22): If a co-worker is in a bad mood, be gentle and diplomatic to this person. Avoid any confrontations which could have unfortunate results.
SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21): You have several ideas for becoming more successful, but they need further study before you can put them into operation.
SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21): Even if you don't really agree, go along with your mate today and avoid any trouble. Be sure to drive carefully this evening.
CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20): You understand how to improve the conditions at home, but your family may not be willing to go along with your ideas at this time.
AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19): Avoid any acquaintance who will only waste your time and money this evening. Instead, stay at home and catch up on your reading.
PISCES (February 20 to March 20): Don't rely so much on others to help you progress. Plan to make some repairs to your home which will improve its value.

 We have a natural tendency not to spend more than is necessary to win a trick. But false economy can prove wasteful, as this hand from the European Cup Women's Championship proves.

 North's bid of two hearts showed extra values and at least a five-card heart suit. When South persisted with no trump, North felt that his queen of spades and trick-taking potential merited going to game.
 The fourth-best spade was the usual lead. Most declarers won the trick with dummy's queen, came to hand with the king of clubs and took a successful heart finesse. Since they had no way to return to hand, they cashed the ace of hearts, and were doomed when that suit broke 4-1.
 One of the very few declarers to bring home her contract was Elizabeth Hugon of France, who finished third in the event. Since the bidding virtually marked West for the king of hearts, she elected to protect against a bad heart split at a very small price—at trick one, she won in hand by overtaking dummy's queen with her ace!

Now she was able to take an immediate heart finesse, then later return to hand with the king of clubs to repeat the heart finesse. As a result, she had to surrender only one heart trick to set up the suit, and West had no damaging return when in with the king of hearts. In all, declarer collected one spade, five hearts, one diamond and two clubs. Available for a limited time as a special offer is a two-for-one package of DOUBLES booklets. For your copies send $3 to "GOREN DOUBLES," care this newspaper, P.O. Box 4426, Orlando, Fla. 32802-4426. Make checks payable to "Newspaperbooks."

Cassette Change Flips Bus, Kills 90

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — At least 90 members of a Moslem wedding party died when their bus overturned and caught fire after the driver lost control while changing a cassette in the tape player, the United News of India said today.

Most of the victims in Wednesday night's crash in central India were women and children.

The news agency said the bus was carrying about 105 people when the accident happened near Simga village in Madhya Pradesh state, 560 miles southeast of the Indian capital.

About 15 people, including the driver and the bridegroom, escaped by breaking the windshield, UNI said. Blacksmiths from Simga were trying to cut through the wreck today to recover bodies, it added.

The agency quoted "reports received in New Delhi" as saying the driver lost control of the bus while changing a cassette in a tape recorder.

Korean Opposition Leader Quits

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Opposition leader Kim Dae-jung stepped down today in a last-ditch attempt to reunite South Korea's bitterly divided opposition parties before legislative elections next month.

In a separate development, President Roh Tae-woo ordered the military to stay out of politics and concentrate on defending the nation. The former army general, who was elected president last December, said the military's role should be in keeping with democratic reforms under way in South Korea.

Kim resigned as leader of the Party for Peace and Democracy and appealed to the rival Democratic Reunification Party to agree to an immediate merger.

"I have made up my mind to resign in the belief that everything must be done to ensure we do not miss the last chance for the merger which is our supreme task," the veteran leader said in a statement.

Kim Dae-jung and his supporters seceded from the Democratic Reunification Party after the two Kim's both insisted on running in the Dec. 16 presidential election.

They split the opposition vote and lost to government candidate Roh, who took power Feb. 25.

Kim's resignation was announced at a news conference by party officials and he was reported to be in seclusion. The Party for Peace and Democracy said Kim was not feeling well.

It was not clear if his resignation would clear the way for reunification. The rival Democratic Reunification Party discussed the resignation at a meeting and announced plans for a second meeting Friday to consider merging with the Party for Peace and Democracy.

But some Democratic Reunification Party officials privately expressed distrust and said they feared the resignation was a trick. Some political observers were reluctant to accept Kim was bowing out of politics.

"We are skeptical in view of Kim Dae-jung's duplicity in the past," said a Democratic Reunification Party official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Park Young-sook, a Party for Peace and Democracy vice president who read Kim's statement, became acting party president. She declined to answer questions about what would happen if the opposition merger fails. She expressed hope the opposition would unite by Sunday.

Kim has been a major figure in politics for 30 years.
