Federal Jury Indicts Pitt Man In Fire Probe

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Arthur King, 65, of Winterville was indicted Tuesday by a federal grand jury in Raleigh on charges of soliciting another man to burn businesses in Greenville and New Bern and making false statements to a federal grand jury investigating a fire that destroyed a tobacco warehouse in Wilson.

The indictment against King, a farmer, resulted from the grand jury's probe of a number of fires at businesses in eastern North Carolina.

The indictment alleges that King "did solicit, command, induce and otherwise endeavor to persuade" Ronnie Lee Stocks of Black Jack to burn down a Piggly-Wiggly grocery store and other commercial buildings in New Bern and Norcott Funeral Service at 1206 Dickinson Ave. in Greenville.

Stocks, the owner of a small grocery store and restaurant, is a cooperating witness in the investigation, according to Assistant U.S. Attorney Kieran Shanahan, and is in protective custody and has not been charged in any of the fires under investigation.

King appeared as a witness before the grand jury in February when he was asked about an October 1986 fire that destroyed the Liberty Warehouse in Wilson, the indictment said. And King told the grand jury that he knew nothing about the fire even though he knew that the fire was set by Stocks "and others," the indictment charged.

The indictment charged King with having knowledge of a felony in the Liberty Warehouse fire but concealing the information from authorities; two counts of soliciting Stocks to commit a felony, and four counts of making false statements to the grand jury.

The indictment also quoted a federal prosecutor as asking King in a grand jury session whether he had told Stocks that King would burn "the Farmers Warehouse sometime last fall." The indictment, which did not list the location of "Farmers Warehouse," charged that King lied when he answered that question "no."

A source close to the investigation said the Farmers Warehouse referred to in the indictment is on North Greene Street in Greenville.

ECU Goes Dark

The main campus of East Carolina University was without electrical power after 6 p.m. Wednesday, with large portions of the complex dark until about midnight.

John Bell, university assistant vice chancellor for business, said the outage was caused by a fault in an underground distribution cable near the center of campus which tripped Greenville Utilities' service to the campus. He said six campus electrical workers and workers from Greenville Utilities worked the entire time to restore the power.

The outage was made more extreme, he said, because a backfeed distribution cable that normally could have been used to restore some of the power on the main campus was in use to feed the Minges Coliseum area, which had experienced an outage last weekend.

He said he heard of "no real problems" caused by the blackout, adding that he knew there were inconveniences and that some classes and other activities were canceled.

Joe Calder, director of campus security, said ECU police encountered no major problems. He said a few people were trapped in elevators and the elevators had to be manually adjusted and opened to get them out.

Jackson: 'No Conflict' Over Jail

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Manager Kramer Jackson said today that he sees no conflict between the Board of Commissioners' decision earlier this month to hire an architect to design a new jail and work done by Greenville architect James G. Hite in trying to solve space problems at the courthouse.

Hite, in a report to commissioners Monday, proposed a two-phase project which would add up to 100 new jail cells and additional office space for county government and court use in new construction at the courthouse.

Earlier this month, the board, acting on recommendations from a jail study committee, voted to hire an architect "experienced in jail design and construction" to complete a county facilities master plan by July 1 and, starting no later than Sept. 1, to draw plans for a new jail facility.

"The contract with Hite is separate and apart from what the county is moving forward with in regards to seeking an architect experienced in jail construction" to do master planning and jail design, Jackson said. "They are two different things as far as I'm concerned."

Jackson said "I see Mr. Hite's task as exploring ways to solve problems of overcrowding in the courthouse." He said Hite's contract expires in April.

"What the jail study group said, in effect," Jackson said, was that "it would be opened up to a new study of the jail and master plan. If Mr. Hite is interested in the job, he would have to submit a letter of interest along with other architects and he will be considered along with other architects."

The county manager said that, "next Monday, one of the items on the agenda will be to select three architects to interview for the master plan. We're receiving information and proposals from architects this week. The deadline is the 24th (Friday)."

Jackson said, too, that joint city-county facilities are still an option.

"I met with Greg Knowles (Greenville's city manager) and asked him to get together the city's space requirements for the police department to be housed in a jail-law enforcement center if one is built. And we've also discussed continuing to explore a joint office facility."

"When an architect is employed," Jackson said, "part of his instructions will be to include considerations for joint facilities."

"Right now the option (for joint city-county facilities) is open. I haven't seen anything to close that option," Jackson said.

"Residents of the city are residents of the county and the county has to do what's in the best interest of all its citizens. There is no way the county can separate that thought and process," Jackson said.

Jordan Wants State To Tie License To School Status

By JOHN BARE
Reflector Staff Writer

Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan visited Greenville Tuesday and presented an $8 million plan to combat high school dropouts by requiring anyone under 18 to be enrolled in school in order to be eligible for a driver's license, asking employers to advise students to concentrate on school and offering better technical curriculum and counseling services.

A candidate for the 1988 Democratic gubernatorial nomination, Jordan unveiled a proposal he said he would present to the General Assembly in 1989 if he is elected. About 25 teachers gathered outside the Wahl-Coates School for the 3 p.m. press conference, one of several across the state Tuesday.

The state of North Carolina should do what a lot of parents do, said Jordan: When students drop out of school the state should take away their driver's license until they turn 18 or return to school. If students without licenses drop out of school, they would have to wait until turning 18 to be eligible for a license under Jordan's plan.

Local school boards would have the authority to grant a limited number of exceptions in hardship cases, he said.

The state already has the computer technology and manpower to implement the program and there would be no legal problem because a driver's license is a privilege for people under 18, not a right, said Jordan.

"This is not punishment just for the sake of punishment," said Jordan. "It is important that our young people who would be affected understand this. It would be done for the same reasons some parents do it, and that is because we care."

Jordan said he would work through the Governor's Business Advisory Committee to provide volunteer counseling for students who hold jobs. The plan calls for employers to advise students to work a maximum of 15 hours a week and concentrate on school.

If a student has already dropped out of school, employers would guarantee a reduced work schedule and a return to full time work after the employee graduates. The goal is to make the job contingent upon staying in school, said Jordan.

Officials in his home county of Montgomery have had success with a similar program, said Jordan.

The plan includes a new Tech-Prep program which would offer high school students a special curriculum focused on technical occupations.

"Through a blending of academic and vocational courses, Tech-Prep would prepare students for the advanced courses required by two-year technical colleges and community colleges," said Jordan.

Reagan Going To Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan announced today he would go to Moscow for his fourth summit meeting with Soviet General Secretary Mikhail S. Gorbachev May 29 to June 2.

The projected centerpiece of the trip is the signing of a treaty to reduce long-range nuclear weapons on both sides by 30 to 50 percent.

Asked if the treaty would be ready for signing then, Reagan said, "I have no way of answering that." But he said the two superpowers were seeking the cutback.

"There are a number of other subjects we continue to discuss with each other," he said.

Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze was at Reagan's side.

The two then walked from the White House Rose Garden to the Oval Office for a working lunch.

"We have set the date and now we shall take care of good substance, of good content, for the summit," Shevardnadze said.

Asked if the Red Army would withdraw from Afghanistan after an occupation of more than eight years, Shevardnadze simply waved and moved away from the microphones set up under sunny skies.

church out of that crusade. Soon I'll be taking the tent ministry to cities such as Atlanta, Miami, Cleveland, Philadelphia, Detroit, and other cities on a tent city circuit."

The evangelist cited several reasons for his decision to quit television at this time. "In my judgment, what happened to PTL, to (Evangelist Jimmy) Swaggart, had made it wise for me to take religion back to its roots, to the old landmark of religion as we once knew it."

"There's a cycle in life, in religion, that repeats itself. We had reached the point where people take the church for granted. Television evangelism has become competitive with Broadway, Hollywood and Nashville. We preachers should not be entertainment celebrities, we are preachers and must remember that."

Another reason cited by Whittington is the "tremendous change in the television market since the time I first began my television ministry."

"In those early days, free time was given to television ministries. Stations were giving Sunday morning time away. Most church ministers didn't want it, some not caring for this exposure for one or another reason. In fact, we were known as Sunday morning ghettoes, filling up dead time for the stations."

"Then, Sunday morning gradually turned into Sunday prime time. Where once air time was free, later I

State Has Positive Trade Balance

By GREG LAUDICK
Reflector Staff Writer

North Carolina businesses appear to be doing their share in alleviating the problems created by a burgeoning national trade deficit, according to statistics released by a world trade expert.

According to Wayne Cooper, president of the North Carolina World Trade Association, for every dollar's worth of goods the state imported last year, 94 cents worth of goods was exported. Cooper said that, on a national level last year, only 54 cents worth of goods was exported for every dollar imported.

Those statistics were presented by Cooper at the Sheraton Greenville Tuesday as approximately 60 area business representatives attended the monthly meeting and banquet of the Coastal Plains chapter of the NCWTA.

"In addition, we just learned today that in the fourth quarter of last year and the first month of this year, we had a positive trade balance in North Carolina," he said.

Cooper, who is also the president of Arcon Manufacturing Inc., is a firm believer that companies should look beyond national borders to conduct business.

"We've got to get more companies thinking internationally and exporting if we're going to get the trade deficit down," he said.

Cooper's company, which exports grain silos, is an example of a firm doing business abroad. Cooper can count businesses in about 15 countries including several in the Middle East among his customers.

Cooper's trade findings were included in the recently released International Trade Index, a tracking device used to measure import levels versus export levels within the state.

The newly devised index was compiled by members of the the NCWTA in conjunction with North Carolina State University.

Cooper's speech followed an afternoon meeting of the state board of directors for NCWTA.

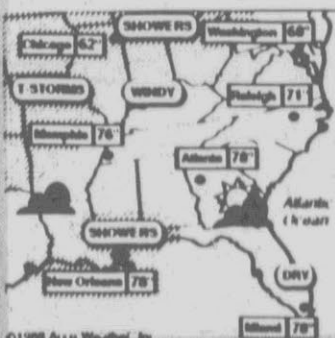

The NCWTA is a trade organization whose purpose is to promote within the state a greater interest in international trade and a better understanding of its advantages from the export, import and investment points of view.

According to Janice Faulkner, president of the Coastal Plains NCWTA chapter, participation in the Thefts Reported

Greenville police said three thefts were reported to the department Tuesday.

Officer S.A. Person said $70 in cash was taken from a car parked at Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. on Washington Street in an incident reported at 10:18 a.m., while Officer M.A. Jordan said a bicycle was taken from 405 Church St. in an incident reported at 4:36 p.m.

According to Officer B.W. Lewis, a purse containing 12 cents in change, a $109 gift certificate from Links Inc. and $100 worth of cosmetics was taken from a shopping cart at the Winn-Dixie store at the Carolina East Center in an incident reported at 6:14 p.m.

Shoplifting Charge

Larry Hardy, 24, of 1612B Hopkins Drive was arrested by Greenville police on a shoplifting charge Tuesday.

Officer M.R. Benton said Hardy was charged in connection with the theft of $134 worth of clothing and electronic items from Rose's at The Plaza mall in an incident reported at 2:35 p.m.

Benton said Hardy was also charged with obstructing and delaying an officer in connection with the incident.

CPR Classes Offered

Pitt County Memorial Hospital is offering free cardiopulmonary resuscitation classes to families and caregivers of patients in the hospital or those recently released.

Beth Bennett, hospital patient education specialist, said the classes train family members in handling life-threatening situations. The program offers certification in infant, child and/or adult CPR.

Discussion Topic

Dr. Leo Waivers will address the topic, "Aids — What is it, What Causes it and How Can we Stop it's Spread," at Straightway Church in Ayden Wednesday at 6 p.m.

AHA Fund-Raiser

The Pitt County chapter of the American Heart Association is sponsoring a "From The Heart Auction" April 19 at 7 p.m. at The Attic nightclub, 209 E. Fifth St.

The more than 100 items to be auctioned will include a "Hilton Head Getaway," home decor items, appliances, antiques, services, dinners and other merchandise.

For information contact Carol Brown, American Heart Association, 752-9989.

Everhart's science-based magic show encourages experimentation and careful observations as students learn how objects relate to each other.

Tour Scheduled

A Chowan College history and geography professor will lead a 15-day tour to the British Isles of Ireland, England, Scotland and Wales July 21 through August 4.

Charles Paul, professor in the social sciences department, said those participating may take the trip as a geography foreign study tour for three hours credit or "for pleasure of the tour."

For more information contact Paul at Chowan College, P.O. Drawer 37, Murfreesboro, N.C., 27855; 919-398-4101.

Committee Chairman

Dr. Harold Kallman of Greenville has been appointed chairman of the Committee on Aging of the American Academy of Family Physicians.

Kallman is a professor of family medicine in the East Carolina University School of Medicine and serves as the director of the geriatrics division of the ECU School of Medicine's Department of Family Medicine.

Winners Announced

Fourth- and fifth-graders participated in the annual Pactolus Elementary School Science Fair recently.

Categories and winners included: (biological sciences) David Bell, first, Jody Mizell, second, and Andrea Moon, third; (physical sciences) Larissa Ormond, first, Christy Turnage, second, and Spencer Potter, third, and (earth science) Crystal Damouth, first, Susan Jackson, second, and Crystal Garden, third.

Students and staff will observe School Spirit Week Monday through April 1. Activities include cleaning the campus and classrooms, writing essays on "What I Like About Pactolus," conducting hat day, funny feet day, T-shirt day and dress-up day. The week will culminate with a school dance.

Showchoir Competes

For the second time in two weeks, "Celebration," Farmville Central High School's showchoir, made the final four on the showchoir competition circuit.

"Celebration" scored second runner-up and received an award for the best show design at the Blue Ridge Showchoir Invitational in Lynchburg, Va., hosted by E.C. Glass High School.

The group recently scored fourth place in the Broughton Showchoir Festival and received a superior rating. It will compete in OpryLand in April and perform for the Farmville Dogwood Festival April 22. The showchoir is directed by Kathryn Sauls and Craig Everett.

Adjustments Panel To Meet Thursday

A request to allow gasoline to be sold at a convenience store on the southwest corner of 10th and Charles streets will be one of the items considered by the Greenville Board of Adjustment at its regular monthly meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. in council chambers of City Hall.

The request, submitted by Lee-Moore Oil Co. and Roy Marshburn Jr., is to obtain a special use permit under Section 32-56(e) of the Zoning Ordinance. The property is zoned CDF (commercial downtown fringe).

The board will also consider a request by Ann Pearce and Ledyard E. Ross to obtain a special use permit to operate a beauty shop at 602 E. 10th St. The property is zoned O&I (office and institutional).

Other items to be considered include:

•A request by Bobby Dixon to obtain a special use permit to construct two multifamily projects under the land use intensity development standards (lot 1: 2.1 acres — 52 units; lot 2: 4.1 acres — 60 units). The properties are located on Shenandoah Circle between Tobacco Road and Rollingwood Cluster Homes and are zoned R-6 (residential high density).

•A request by Alton E. Corey and Donald McGlohn to obtain a special use permit to operate a hair replacement business on the southeast corner of Red Banks Road and Charles Boulevard. The property is zoned O&I.

•A rehearing on a request by W. Ray and Eunice Lassiter denied by the board of adjustment on Feb. 25, for a special use permit to place a mobile home on the north side of SR 1417 approximately .75 miles west of N.C. 11. The property is zoned RA-20 (residential agricultural).

TRNA Slide Program

The Tar River Neighborhood Association will present a slide program titled "Animals that live in the Tar River Neighborhood" Thursday from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the St. Paul's Fellowship Hall.

Discussion by the speaker, John Anema, will include inner city animal life, where they live, what they eat, and how they can be seen. For more information call 758-8955.

Tennis Tournament

The Greenville Tennis Association will host its second annual open tournament during the Easter weekend at River Birch Tennis Center.

The deadline for entry is Thursday. The events are men's and women's open singles, doubles, and mixed doubles, and men's 35 singles and doubles. Entry forms may be picked up at River Birch Tennis Center.

For information about the event call Bobby Short at 830-4544 or 752-0682.

Privacy

Everyone has a right to privacy and groups should feel safe from surveillance, the director of the State Bureau of Investigation told an audience at East Carolina University.

Robert B. Morgan, SBI director and former U.S. senator, said the right to privacy is one of the most important issues of our time.

Speaking as the university's 1988 Distinguished Alumni Lecturer, Morgan said he opposed the use of electronic surveillance to listen in on the lives of private citizens and groups. He said it should never be permitted without a court order and only then when it relates to specific criminal acts or activity.

Morgan graduated from East Carolina in 1947 with a bachelor's degree in math and chemistry.

Top Kite Flyers

First-place winners in the different age divisions of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department's annual kite flying contest were: Matt Grace, 6 years old; Laura Humphrey, 7 years old; Kelly Grace, 8 years old; Brooks Whiteford, 9 years old; Jeff Clinger, 10 years old, and Charles Humphrey, 11 years old.

In the homemade division, first place went to Julie Williams, while Ben Williams and Scott Ray placed second. Third place went to Jonathan Williams.

Project Support

Scott Paper and grocery retailers throughout eastern North Carolina are again taking part in an effort to raise $1 million nationally to support Ronald McDonald Houses throughout the country and Ronald McDonald Children's Charities.

Ronald McDonald Houses are facilities where families can stay while children are receiving treatment for serious illnesses at nearby hospitals.

Last year the cooperative two-month fund-raiser generated $1.4 million in donations nationally. More than $6,000 was raised in eastern North Carolina for the Greenville Ronald McDonald House.

During March and April Scott Paper Products will make a donation to the Ronald McDonald House for every purchase of their products by consumers.

Coastal Bike Trek

The office of the Eastern Region of the American Lung Association has announced that registration for its 1988 Coastal Bike Trek will close April 5.

So far about 450 people have registered for the 100-mile trek along the coast of North Carolina to be held in early May. Total registration is set at 500.

The trek is a 50-mile-per-day route from Wrightsville Beach to Long Beach, with a night on the ocean front and a ferry ride.

HAPPY 16th

Love, Mom & Sherry

Farm Scene

By PHILIP ROWAN

Probably one of the greatest failures in a beef breeding program is inadequate nutrition. The problem most people create in feeding cattle is that they feed them all alike. Bred cows, lactating cows, bulls, developing heifers, etc. all get the same feed or forage on many farms. Is this practical or does it make any sense?

Swine producers don't feed a nursery ration on gestating sows. Poultry producers don't feed a laying ration to broilers. Cattle producers must learn to feed cattle according to their needs. Nutritional requirements differ for different size, age, or class of cattle.

Even the nutrient requirements for a mature cow change tremendously as she goes from one reproductive period to another. For example, a 1100 pound beef cow at postcalving needs two pounds of protein per day. (Her nutrient requirements are highest during this period). However, this same 1100 pound beef cow would only need 0.9 pounds of protein per day during mid-gestation.

We, as cattle producers, must begin to feed cattle the amounts and types of nutrients they need to get satisfactory animal performance. Balancing rations according to animal needs will prevent under feeding or over feeding cattle. This means that cattle producers will need to separate cattle into different pastures or paddocks. Controlled grazing can be used to help meet the animal's nutrient requirements. Cattle having high protein and TDN requirements can be rotated onto young, succulent pastures. Cattle needing only maintenance rations can be placed on pastures with coarser, lower quality forage.

Cattle producers need to learn more about feed requirements for cattle and nutrients in forages. Contact the Agricultural Extension Office to learn more about cattle nutrition.

FITTING CONTACT LENSES IS NOT CHILD'S PLAY

Why do some discounters act like it is? They advertise almost unbelievable prices for contact lenses and eye care.

How do they do it?

One obvious way is to offer low priced, low quality lenses.

Another way to cut costs is to reduce the time spent for proper fitting and thorough patient instruction.

But we don't think you want to be short changed. You have only one pair of eyes.

Our practice is based on individual attention and personal care. We prescribe only quality products. Because where your vision is concerned, only the best will do.

'Truth In Preference To Fiction'

Keep Consulting
At Arm's Length

Good Afternoon, New Ideas Consulting, Inc. May I help you? ... Yes. Yes, Mr. city manager, we have that study ready. We're planning to present it to your board Wednesday ... There's just the matter of payment ... You do understand the final $50,000 installment is required tomorrow?

When responding to the demands of a growing community, Pitt County's governments must adopt a clear and appropriate attitude that keeps consulting at arm's length, using outside expertise only when necessary.

As Pitt County grows more diverse, the problems its public entities face are more complex. Solving them requires increased knowledge, expertise and judgment.

After all, the community is building $10 million water treatment plants, $50 million hospital additions, consolidating its school systems, and changing its election methods from top to bottom.

No small tasks for a Johnny-come-lately to the urban scene.

But consultants — experts that charge for problem-solving — play an expanding role in directing the county's progress and extract a pretty penny for the service. In the past 2½ years, consultants netted more than $1.61 million for plotting Pitt's County's future — including their impact on the projects mentioned above. Pretty large penny.

When that figure is compared to all expenditures, it looks diminutive. But that perspective is deceptive. When the cost of consulting is compared with some very important item-by-item costs, the impact enlarges.

For example, a new school — and the county will need at least one in the next decade — costs around $3 million. Solid waste disposal needs could top $80,000 a year. Manpower needs for public entities run into the $250,000 range. When put in this perspective, funds spent for consulting clearly have an effect on fiscal ability.

This impact sends up caution flags now. But increasing dependence on purchased expertise should be redflagged by Pitt's public officials, and the use of consultants kept to a minimum.

The expertise and strength of public staffs should increase with the complexity of the community. If it does not, taxpayers must ask why public employees are not capable of solving problems and why millions of dollars must be spent on private sector knowledge.

Granted, there are instances when outside assistance is necessary and appropriate. Any entity undertaking technical construction projects would be remiss not to seek the advice of experts on design and function. A board wanting to upgrade its pay scale is wise to ask an outside, objective source to devise a fair salary schedule.

But there are responsible reasons for public entities to adopt a "yard away" relationship with consulting. Consider the fact this advice affects decisions made by elected public officials. Consultants influence the direction of public business, often determining the position a board takes on an issue.

It is easy for a board to hide behind a consultant's advice when making tough decisions. The "we didn't want to spend that money but the study said it was necessary" approach is superficial and all too familiar.

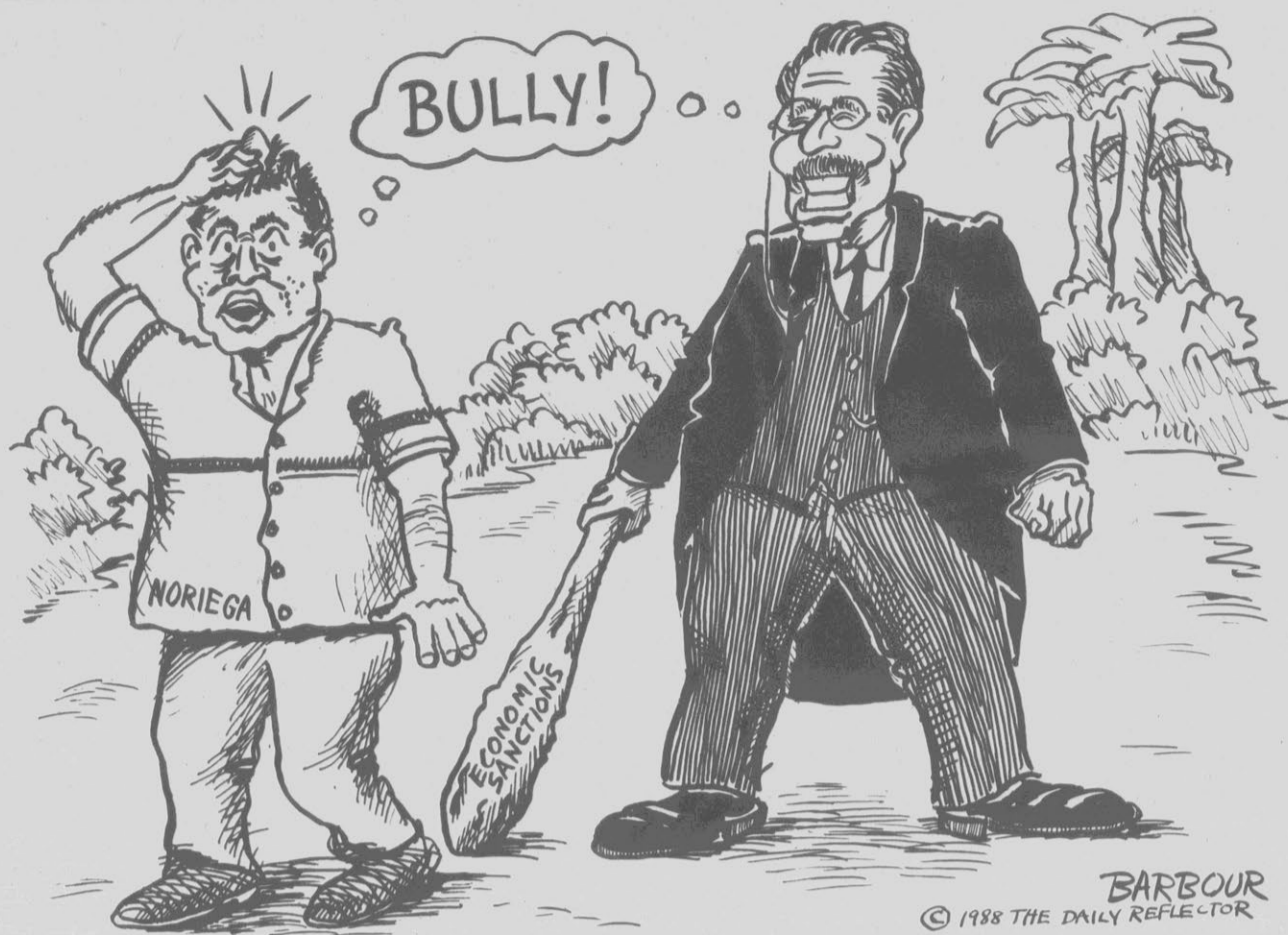

Furthermore, public officials such as city and county managers should resist using contracted services to justify controversial stands on issues. The role of boards, in that relationship, is reduced to puppetry.

Consulting should be considered a means of handling highly technical projects and providing an unbiased look at facts in critical situations. If Pitt's officials adhere to this approach, the amount of public money and business affected by opinion for hire will remain balanced.

Good afternoon. City Hall. No, Mr. city manager won't be meeting with New Ideas Consulting, Inc. Thursday. Our staff is handling the traffic flow issue. Thank you for calling.

To the editor:

The last incident in Nicaragua involving a member of the Witness for Peace group brings back to memory the famous trip down the San Juan River in August 1985 in which some members of that organization claimed to have been captured and held hostage by the Contras.

Researching my files, I found the following information taken from the Sandinista's newspapers Barricada and El Nuevo Diario.

May 26, 1985, Barricada "Operation Sovereignty, a campaign to clean up the entire river was launched.

June 3, 1985, El Nuevo Diario "Total Control of the River from El Castillo to Machuca."

Aug. 3, 1985 — Barricada "Sandinistas occupied Sarapiquí. Total and absolute Control of the River down to Sarapiquí."

In August 1985 a Witness for Peace voyage down the River was organized and applauded by the Sandinista Press. The trip started from El Castillo and they arrived at their destination, the Sandinista army base at La Penca the same day. The return trip began at dawn on Aug. 7, 16 miles upriver at the Machuca rapids they were stopped by a group of armed men on the southern bank of the river.

At noon Aug. 7, the Sandinistas took an aerial photo of the boat which Barricada published the next morning.

The show had a happy ending the next day and we had our usual doses of sensational press coverage. The Witness for Peace office in Managua did its best to dramatize and publicize the hostage-taking of American citizens by U.S.-supported rebels. They deserve an Emmy award. The unity between the Witness for Peace and the Sandinistas is remarkable.

To the editor:

I would like to thank Mayor Ed Carter for stating his belief of "favoritism" playing a role in our medical district zoning. I think favoritism has been going on for many years, in our past and unfortunately will probably continue in our future.

I appreciate and respect your honesty in bringing this up to our council and our community, in which he and the council were elected to represent us fairly. I think if an exception is made for one, then it should be made for all.

The 50-50 zoning rule is what I feel should be repealed. In defining the word "professional," you could allow almost any business in our medical zone. Professional is defined as "a calling requiring specialized knowledge and often long academic preparation."

In response to Councilman Hadden's reply of a definition of the word professional, does not a floral service, shop, or store offer a service? Yes, they do. They, too, are professionals. The required "specialized knowledge" is floral designing.

Again I would like to thank Mayor Carter for doing what he was put into office to do.

Anti-Communist Crusade Real Addiction

The Reagan administration has been more successful than any narcotic in numbing the American public to important questions about drug trafficking. By pointing the finger at certain foreign governments — most recently that of Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega in Panama — the administration diverts attention from the dangerous drug dealings of others in Central America it claims to be allies and, most seriously, the administration's own complicity in these crimes.

Consider three cases:

•Panama. Why was the administration so unconcerned about Noriega until recently — despite long knowledge of his drug and other criminal dealings? Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control, accused the administration of a "full-blown coverup of the facts about Noriega."

In late 1985, for example, Vice Adm. John M. Poindexter, then national security adviser, told Noriega to "cut it out" — alluding to his money laundering and drug activities. But this and other efforts were blocked by the Pentagon and the Central Intelligence Agency, which considered Noriega a valuable asset against the Sandinistas and a source of intelligence on Cuba (even though they knew he was also supplying intelligence on the United States to the Cubans).

•Honduras. The U.S. embassy in Honduras has known for some time

'We don't have to overthrow every leftist regime we don't like to protect our national security. If this addiction could be cured, we could stop sleeping with drug dealers who really do undermine our security.'

that senior Honduran Army officers are setting up major drug operations in Honduras. Newspapers reported that in October the United States identified five key colonels as involved in drug traffic, but the embassy stopped efforts by U.S. drug enforcement officials to investigate the army. A compromise was reportedly reached whereby the colonels would be removed, but today they remain where they were.

The reasons for U.S. inaction are clear: Honduras provides bases for the U.S.-backed Contras and it is the army that dominates the weak civilian government there. Drug trafficking in our "friends" was justified in the struggle against our "enemies."

•Contras. Evidence that the Nicaraguan Contras were involved in drug trafficking, and that CIA and National Security Council officials were knowledgeable or complicit, has been documented by public interest organizations like the Christic Institute, and by the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on terrorism and narcotics. There is evidence, for example, that the CIA helped arm the Contras by shipping guns to secret Costa Rican airstrips where they were exchanged for cocaine from Columbia. Ramon Milian-Rodriguez told the subcommittee, headed by Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass., that he had laundered a contribution ($10 million according to CBS News) from the Colombian cocaine cartel to the Contras at the behest of Felix Rodriguez, a key figure in the White House Contra supply network.

Is drug trafficking justifiable in the cause of ousting or preventing Marxist revolutionary governments? It is not, for three reasons.

First, the effect of drugs on American youth, crime, health and family is a far greater threat to our security than having leftist revolutionary governments in our hemisphere, particularly ones that are basically nationalist.

Second, our own ability to stem the inflow of drugs is undermined by our complicity with the drug dealers: Noriega reputedly bragged about how he played agencies like the CIA off against the Drug Enforcement Administration.

Finally, the covert operations funded by the drug-financed secret teams, CIA affiliates, and off-the-shelf enterprises are unaccountable to Congress and, as in the Iran-Contra affair, can actually undermine U.S. security. If Congress won't approve funds, or can't be told about the operations, they are probably too dangerous, ill conceived or morally degenerate to undertake.

The real drug in Washington is the messianic anti-Communist crusade. We don't have to overthrow every leftist regime we don't like to protect our national security. If this addiction could be cured, we could stop sleeping with drug dealers who really do undermine our security.

Strength For Today

Abraham Lincoln faced adverse circumstances in his life, there is no doubt, but he apparently made up his mind to be happy.

Adverse circumstances, and tragedy of the highest degree, pressed upon him with such stubborn insistence through the years that he might have been forgiven if he had resigned himself to despair and declared to the world that happiness was never meant for him. But evidently he made up his mind early in his life that he would not allow contradiction and sorrow to make him hopeless and sour on life. He had periods of despondency but on the whole he lived a remarkably cheerful life because he had made up his mind to do so.

Willpower has a great deal to do with any human situation and Lincoln proved that. Happiness depends primarily on whether we have the determination to be happy regardless of how life treats us.

IN THE STATE

Chancellor

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — UNC President C.D. Spangler says he is not unhappy with the two candidates recommended for the chancellor's job at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

"They're outstanding people," Spangler said of Jay Oliva, chancellor at New York University, and Paul Hardin, president of Drew University in Madison, N.J. "And I know this both from studying their resumes and from what I've heard about them."

Spangler, who is vacationing in Colorado, said he had met Hardin and Oliva when they visited Chapel Hill to interview with the search committee. He said he had phoned both candidates to schedule his own interviews.

Claims of wrongdoing made against Robeson officials gained national attention when two Pembroke Indians, Eddie Hatcher and Timothy Jacobs, seized The Robesonian newspaper in Lumberton on Feb. 1.

A governor's task force, which was formed as a result of the crisis, has been thwarted in its investigation of Hatcher and Jacobs' allegations by the two Indians' refusal to meet with task force members in recent weeks.

Appointment

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Martin appointed Pembroke resident Gerald Strickland to the state Board of Sanitarian Examiners on Tuesday.

Strickland replaces Edward Wilkins and will serve until Dec. 15, 1991. Strickland, 38, is the environmental health supervisor for the Robeson County Health Department.

The state Board of Sanitarian Examiners licenses sanitarian examiners and regulates sanitarian operations in North Carolina.

Nightclub

WILMINGTON (AP) — The town of Wrightsville Beach filed a civil suit Tuesday that could force a local nightclub charged with noise violations to close.

The suit, filed in New Hanover County Superior Court, asks that the court revoke the conditional use permit which allows the Wall Street nightclub to operate.

The owner of the club, Mohammad Nafissi, could not be reached for comment. Nafissi was cited and arrested Jan. 20 for violating the town's noise ordinance after a neighbor complained about loud music at the club. Former general manager William Carson Jr. also was cited Feb. 20 on the same charges.

Acid Accident

RALEIGH (AP) — Firefighters from Garner and the Wendell fire departments were called to East Garner Middle School Tuesday morning when a one-gallon container of sulfuric acid was broken in a science workroom.

Teacher Dana Pierce had a burn on one finger, but no other injuries were reported. Ms. Pierce was treated at a local hospital and released.

Some children were moved away from the classroom nearest the closet, but there was no general evacuation and school remained in session.

Go-Cart Accident

RALEIGH (AP) — A teen-ager who was legally blind and had been attending a state school for visually impaired students was driving a go-cart involved in a fatal accident near Benson Sunday, officials said Tuesday.

Thomas R. Stanley Jr., 17, of Benson was killed when the go-cart he was driving collided with a pickup truck on a secondary road. Rodney K. Martin, 10, who was riding in Stanley's lap, also was killed.

No charges were filed in the accident.

Raccoon Beating

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — A student at the University of North Carolina law school has been charged with cruelty to animals and violations of wildlife statutes for allegedly beating a raccoon unconscious with a shoe.

Gary Brandon Kivett, 22, is scheduled to appear in court this month to face three counts of cruelty to animals and three violations of wildlife statutes. The charges resulted from an investigation last fall by the Orange County Animal Protection Society, authorities said.

Kivett is accused of beating one or more raccoons Oct. 22 and Oct. 30, 1987, putting a raccoon in a bag and keeping the animal in an inhumane manner, and denying the animal food and water.

Pat Sanford, executive director of the Animal Protection Society, would not disclose any details of the allegations. She said those facts would be made public at Kivett's trial, scheduled for March 31 in Orange County District Court.

Mrs. Sanford said last fall's investigation was prompted by complaints from residents in the apartments.

Lee Grant

SANFORD, N.C. (AP) — Lee County has received a $36,000 non-matching grant to participate in the National Youth Sports Program, which will send 300 low-income youths to a five-week sports camp.

The program will provide instruction in competitive and lifetime sports and enrichment activities for youths aged 10 through 16, said Donna Zimmerman, program co-administrator.

The program is funded by the Office of Community Services through the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Request

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Robeson County Democratic Party Chairman W. Edward Musselwhite Jr. has written Gov. Jim Martin calling on the governor to "stop playing politics with Robeson County and its future" and asking the governor to speed up his investigation into alleged corruption.

Martin Says He's Studying Use Of Inmates To Clean Warehouse

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Martin says he is considering whether it was proper to have prison inmates clean up a Duplin County produce warehouse destroyed by fire after Martin's chief of staff said the move set a bad precedent.

Martin said he was unaware Phil Kirk, his chief of staff, had given permission for prisoners from the Kenansville prison unit to be used March 7, one day after fire destroyed the Southern Produce Distributors warehouse owned by Stewart Precythe, a Democrat who had contributed $1,000 to the Republican governor's re-election campaign.

Martin explained that Kirk told him he thought the request was for inmates to help fight a fire at the Faison warehouse.

"I don't know enough about it yet," the governor said. "I barely have enough to understand the superficial aspects."

Kirk said Tuesday he wasn't sure the action was warranted.

"I think when there's a fire that the local volunteer fire department can't handle, that it is a proper use of prison labor to help put out the fire," he said. "But I think it is a bad precedent to go much beyond that."

Joseph L. Hamilton, state director of prisons, agreed that it was proper to send inmates to help during the fire at Southern Produce warehouse in Faison March 6, but not later.

"I take responsibility that I didn't communicate that very well," Hamilton said. He said, however that using inmates to help clean up was not "inappropriate" because the fire had a significant impact on the community.

Kirk said he authorized inmates to help put out the fire, but did not intend for the prison labor to be used in a cleanup of the warehouse.

"Apparently a decision was made at the local unit to provide the additional help because of the emergency nature of getting it cleaned up and rebuilt in time for the farm season this summer," Kirk said.

"I think the local (prison) superintendent had the best of intentions and felt it would be harmful to the area's economy if they didn't help. I think they operated in good faith. I have no criticism of the local superintendent," Kirk told the News and Observer of Raleigh.

N.C. Correction Department Secretary Aaron Johnson said Monday was the last day inmates worked at the warehouse.

D.C. Weaver, superintendent of the Duplin County prison unit in Kenansville, said prison officials had not specified that the inmates should be sent to the warehouse for only one day.

"We did what they told us we could do," Weaver said. "We were directed to send people out there to render assistance in whatever method we could."

Department of Correction policy states that inmate labor must be "of benefit to the citizens of North Carolina" or to state or local governments and that work projects not be ones that "would normally be performed by private industry or non-inmate labor if inmate labor were not available."

Kirk said it would be up to the Department of Correction to determine if a new policy governing inmate labor was needed.

Both Martin and Kirk said Precythe's campaign contribution did not influence the decision to bring inmates in to help at the warehouse.

"I didn't know anything about that," Martin said. "It did not and it should not have had anything to do with it."

Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan, a Democrat opposing Martin for re-election, said prisoners should not have been used. Jordan added there is no question prisoners should be used to fight fires in emergencies, to aid in natural disasters and, in some circumstances, even for private use.

"Certainly they ought to be made available if they're needed," he said. "But it ought to be paid for."

"I use prison labor in my industry," said Jordan, president of Jordan Lumber Co. in Mount Gilead. "I pay for it."

State Ports Seeking Shipments To Soviets

WILMINGTON (AP) — North Carolina Ports Authority officials are hoping that Wilmington will become the South Atlantic gateway for shipments to the Soviet Union.

Port officials told the SPA's board of directors, meeting Tuesday in Pinehurst, that they have been in contact with Soviet shippers "to let them know we're interested," said William T. Stover Jr., SPA manager of communications.

But any business between North Carolina and the Soviet Union will depend on the outcome of talks now under way that may lift a trade embargo against that nation, Stover said.

The negotiations could take months to complete, he said.

"But for us to become the South Atlantic gateway for Soviet cargo would be a coup for us, especially after getting the Senator Line," Stover said.

The West German Senator Line began making weekly calls at Wilmington last month as part of its round-the-world container service. After its third visit, Stover said, the company called in its larger container vessels "because we're generating more cargo than was anticipated."

Senator Line also is expected to double its calls at Wilmington by the end of the year.

Meanwhile, the SPA is continuing to negotiate with Sea-Land in hopes of recapturing its Mediterranean service, Stover said. Port officials have been invited to make a presentation to the shipping company April 1.

Sea-Land announced earlier this month that it will end ship calls to Wilmington by the end of March. It will maintain its business office in Wilmington and will continue to take cargo, but will send it to other Sea-Land ports by truck or rail.

Collider Opposition Could Affect Choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal energy official says grassroots opposition in North Carolina could affect the U.S. Energy Department's choice of site for the superconducting super collider.

North Carolina is one of seven finalist states for the $4.4 billion federal physics project, but the state's bid is opposed by an alliance of environmentalists and landowners that has gathered strength in recent weeks.

Joseph F. Salgado, the undersecretary of the Energy Department, was asked Tuesday by Rep. Tim Valentine, D-N.C., how the department will react if "people in one area seem more reluctant or scream louder."

"Support is important to any project like this. It will be considered," Salgado replied. But he added that "it's not an overriding concern."

Valentine, whose district includes the proposed N.C. site in Person, Granville and Durham counties, is on record as being in favor of putting the superconducting super collider in North Carolina.

But after the hearing of the House's Science, Space and Technology

Committee, Valentine expressed doubts about the impact of the project on the overall federal science budget and said that he is open to sentiment in his district.

Valentine told The Winston-Salem Journal he took Salgado's response to mean that the Energy Department would reject North Carolina's bid if public opinion in the state strongly opposes the project.

"I think it's a good thing," Valentine said of the project. "But I think there could be enough local opposition to kill it."

He said that he did not mean that opposition is now strong enough to kill North Carolina's bid, but rather that the Energy Department would reject North Carolina as a site if public opposition became strong enough.

Gov. Jim Martin has led the drive for getting the super collider for North Carolina. He has argued that the state that wins the project will reap a rich harvest of spinoffs and will become internationally known.

The coalition opposing the project has said that the project would degrade water resources and uproot families long settled in the area.

State officials say that the environmental and property disruptions compare favorably with other public works projects and that the project's benefits far outweigh its social and economic costs.

Chairman Of Waste Board Exits

RALEIGH (AP) — The chairman of a state panel seeking a site for a low-level radioactive facility says he is resigning because the problems facing the agency are more legal than technical.

"My training, experience and interest are in science, engineering and environmental protection," said Merrill Eisenbud, who has led the North Carolina Low-Level Radioactive Waste Management Authority for only six months. "... The challenges that face the authority are not primarily in the technical area. ... A procedural and legal maze lies ahead."

Eisenbud, who will step down on May 2, said Tuesday he was resigning because "someone better versed in legal issues should tackle the challenge of finding a waste disposal site."

Eisenbud said he has been surprised by the opposition to such a facility.

"It's very hard to develop a dialogue with these people," he said in a telephone interview from his Chapel Hill home. "I think (the facility will be able to open on time), but one can't foresee what the organized resistance will do."

North Carolina is supposed to have a disposal site open by Jan. 1, 1993, to accept waste from eight Southeastern states in a regional compact. The facility will replace a disposal site in Barnwell, S.C., that is scheduled to close in 1992.

Eisenbud suggested that the state spend $5 million — equal to 10 percent of the $50 million that the facility is projected to cost — to educate North Carolina citizens about low-level radioactive waste.

"There seems to be a lack of understanding of the fact that there's a lot of natural radioactivity around, and that what we're dealing with is basically the same thing," said Eisenbud, 73, a scholar in residence at Duke University and an adjunct professor at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Madison Jail Out Of Funds

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Madison County Sheriff Dedrick Brown closed down the county jail today and transferred his three inmates to neighboring Buncombe County after the county commissioners put the brakes on funding for his department.

The jail won't open again at least until July 1, when the county adopts a new budget, Brown said Tuesday.

The county board, made up entirely of Democrats, says Brown has already overspent his budget for this fiscal year and they don't have any more money to give him. Brown, a Republican, blames the action on politics.

"Seems like (commissioners) have hired a lot of extra people in other parts of the county (government) where they've got control and they can tell the people how to vote," Brown said.

States Accuse Insurers Of Liability Conspiracy

By BOB EGELKO
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The nation's largest insurers conspired to fabricate a liability crisis, which crippled businesses and forced nationwide cutbacks in police, child care and other services, according to suits by seven states.

The lawsuits, filed Tuesday in U.S. District Court here, accuse dozens of insurance companies of collaborating in a global boycott of certain types of general liability insurance through secret agreements and internal pressure.

The suits, filed by California, New York, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Massachusetts and Alabama, named 32 insurance companies, underwriters and associations, including Lloyd's of London.

Arizona planned to sue in the same court today, and Texas filed a separate suit in its state court because the state "has one of the toughest, best antitrust laws in the nation," said Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox.

"These defendants have sucked the blood of our nation's economic well-being," Mattox said at a news conference in Austin.

New York State Attorney General Robert Abrams said the case was one of the largest ever tackled by a group of states in a federal court, adding that the states had to take action because the federal government did nothing.

One of the companies, Aetna Life and Casualty Co., condemned the suit as "another political move by political officeholders who have consistently opposed any and all efforts to address the real problems of the nation's liability system."

A spokesman for the Insurance Services Office, a 1,400-member industry trade group also named in the suit, called the allegations unfounded.

The lawsuits claim the companies targeted for elimination coverage for pollution accidents and general liability for damage discovered after the life of a policy, known as "occurrence" coverage.

The companies instead favored more limited policies, covering only losses that were suffered and claimed within the policy term, excluding damage that was discovered later, the suits said.

The lawsuits said four major insurance companies — Hartford Fire Insurance Co., Allstate Insurance

Co., Cigna Corp. and Aetna — started a campaign in 1984 to curtail coverage that was generally available in the industry.

According to the suits, the companies got major U.S. and British reinsurers, including underwriters at Lloyd's of London, to threaten a boycott of any U.S. insurance company that provided the broader coverage.

At the same time, the suits said, major insurers and reinsurers pressured the Insurance Services Office to stop distributing standard forms, so that it would be impractical for individual companies to continue offering that coverage.

As a result, the suits said, property damage insurance for local governments, nonprofit agencies such as child care centers, and various businesses suddenly became unavailable or prohibitively expensive.

"This illegal boycott was a major contributor to the insurance crisis that forced so many cities and businesses up against the wall," California Attorney General John Van de Kamp said.

"It was the public and the consumer who paid the price for this colossal exercise in corporate greed."

In California and elsewhere, local governments cut back or eliminated services, such as parks and police, because of insurance expenses, Van de Kamp said. Many local officials blamed rising damage awards in injury suits and joined the insurance industry in efforts to restrict the right to sue.

Van de Kamp said the attorneys general decided to file together here because he has taken the lead on the issue and California law is favorable to the case and might be cited by the federal court.

Among other things, the plaintiffs seek to restructure the Insurance Services Office by giving non-insurers a majority on its board and making public its data on insurance coverage losses.

Dave Ostwald, the spokesman for the Insurance Services Office in New York City, said rates increased mainly because of "a demonstrable increase in claims losses and a drop in interest rates, slowing down (insurers') investment income."

He said pollution coverage was changed in response to expansive court decisions. Pollution insurance and "occurrence" coverage remained available, with some restrictions, he added.

The Hartford Insurance Group called the lawsuit "totally without substance" and said it is confident that all charges eventually will be dismissed. It said the rates in question are established from judgments that are legal and involve no other insurer or insurance organization.

Congress Overrides Veto On Civil Rights 'Cure' Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of a civil rights bill enacted over President Reagan's veto say it will help cure "an epidemic of discrimination" that followed a 1984 Supreme Court decision limiting federal protection for many groups.

"Discrimination in federally funded institutions is occurring at accelerated rates," Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., said Tuesday as the House joined the Senate in overriding Reagan's veto of the Civil Rights Restoration Act.

Edwards, chairman of the House Judiciary subcommittee on civil rights, said the Education Department closed or suspended hundreds of sex bias cases after the court ruling.

"Heaven knows how many thousands of complaints have not even been filed," he said. "We are facing an epidemic of discrimination."

Both chambers of Congress came up Tuesday with the two-thirds majorities needed to override Reagan's veto — the ninth such rebuff he has suffered since taking office. The votes were 73-24 in the Senate and 292-133 in the House.

Even as the voting occurred, Reagan was calling the bill "a power grab" by the federal government. But the White House later issued a statement acknowledging the override and saying the administration would "work to implement the new law."

Congress was tied in knots for four years over how to handle the high court ruling that only specific programs or activities receiving federal aid had to comply with four major civil rights laws protecting women, minorities, the elderly and the handicapped.

Lawmakers finally settled on a restoration act that bars discrimination by entire institutions, government agencies and some corporations that receive any federal aid. If a college athletic department discriminates, for example, the federal government can cut off aid to the whole school — even if that specific department received no assistance.

Ralph Neas, executive director of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, called the override "a bipartisan reaffirmation of civil rights."

The conference, a 185-member coalition of major religious organizations and groups representing labor, women, minorities and senior citizens, was the moving force behind the bill.

Education Department spokesman Michael Jackson said the department had closed or narrowed more than 200 sex bias cases through 1986 as a result of the court decision.

Postal Rate Affects Other Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The postal rate increase that will push the cost of mailing a first-class letter to 25 cents next month is likely to affect consumers in a host of other areas as well, as businesses pass along their own higher costs.

While first-class rates will be most readily noticed, the charges to businesses for mailing bills and advertising and sending books and magazines to American homes also affect individuals. Prices and subscription rates may well increase, with the postage costs being cited as a factor.

The new rates, for example, would add about $1.15 to the annual cost of mailing a weekly newsmagazine to one home. Utilities, credit card companies and department stores will have to spend about 36 cents more, annually, to bill one customer. The cost of an average book club mailing will rise by about 50 cents.

The increases are needed to avoid deficits for the agency that could reach $5 billion in 1989, postal officials said Tuesday in announcing the April 3 rate hike. The last rate increase was in February 1985, and the Postal Service lost more than $220 million last year.

The new 25-cent letter rate is part of a broad series of rate changes affecting all types of mail.

"These are the first adjustments in general postage rates in more than three years. They reflect the higher costs the Postal Service is experiencing," said John N. Griesemer, chairman of the agency's board of governors.

The Postal Service is required to break even — over time — by the 1970 law that made it an independent federal agency and ended the taxpayer subsidy for the mail.

The new 25-cent first class price means that sending a one-ounce letter will take about the same bite from the average budget as in 1932. Adjusted for inflation, the 3-cent postage rate introduced in 1932 would amount to 25.5 cents today.

Ag Brass Gets Word In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department wants to hire a new editor for its single-sheet publication, Ag AM, which provides up to two dozen or so news blurbs daily for agency brass. Pay: $33,218 a year to start, with a top of $60,683.

So far there have been 41 applicants, including some USDA information specialists who see an opportunity to boost their career prospects.

The Ag AM report is issued five days a week, Monday through Friday, except on federal holidays, of course. Mostly it consists of single paragraphs summarizing stories from newspapers, wire services and news magazines.

Ed Curran, who retired in 1984 after 20 years working for the department's Office of Information, was privy to the inside workings of Ag AM since it began during the Carter Administration.

Now publisher of his own private newsletter, Curran offers a look at the history of the publication and how it grew.

Someone in USDA thought the White House practice of providing President Carter with daily news summaries would be good for then-Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, Curran said in his latest issue.

At first the daily summaries were sent only to the secretary and his office staff. But Bergland, who had read the news blurbs, "began talking about things" in the news that were not known to senior aides, including the deputy secretary and assistant secretaries.

So the press run of Ag AM was increased, and the information office staffer who was responsible for its publication had to begin work earlier, by 6 a.m., for example, instead of the later regular starting time.

"By the time the Reagan administration came upon the scene, Ag AM was a staple at USDA," Curran said. Being on the official list to get one was "sort of like the government equivalent of a key to the executive washroom."

The daily press run was increased to 100 copies, to take care of the demand from all the deputy assistant secretaries, administrators of agencies and staff economists.

Everyone Wants A Ride On The President's Jet

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president, you see, has this big, beautiful airplane, blue and silver with "The United States of America" lettered boldly across each side. A ride is the ultimate status symbol and a lot of Americans want one.

At least it seems that way from looking through files of the Nixon White House that were opened to public view on Tuesday. The same thing probably is repeated with every occupant of the White House.

"Dear Mr. President," one letter began. "My nephew will be leaving shortly to start his three years as a law student at Georgetown School of Law in Washington, D.C."

"With some of his money he purchased quite an expensive stereo with speakers and we are quite reluctant to ship, mail or whatever this item. Is it permissible in any way for this stereo and speakers to be transported on Air Force One when you return to Washington from your sojourn in California?"

No. "Dear President Nixon," began another. "It is my responsibility (as the social chairman of a group) to plan spectacular events between April 1971 and April 1972. For this reason, I am asking for the members of our chapter if we may use Air Force One for a party. You can land on our property, seven secluded acres."

That one got an answer from the president's pilot, Col. Ralph Albertazzie.

"Landing Air Force One on seven acres of ground would certainly be a spectacular event in itself!" he wrote. "I can only say for reasons far too numerous to enumerate: No."

Correspondence and memos about Air Force One — renamed "The Spirit of '76" for a time in the Nixon tenure — fill a half-dozen thick file folders in the National Archives.

A woman wants a ride for her mother, another needs one for her daughter, one has a son-in-law who has to get from here to there. One urges the president to be sure to thank his pilots, because Dwight D. Eisenhower did. A man was concerned about the costs of the flights. Another worried about cargo that might shift.

"I see you are flying to California and I wonder if I can hitch a ride," a young man wrote. "I'm going there to see a girl I haven't seen in 14 months. I'm a small guy and I won't take up much space."

Sorry, but no deal.

If politicians wanted to be seen on Air Force One — and they did, desperately — the White House reciprocated by using rides as a political tool.

"It is a prized thing to ride on Air Force One and we intend to keep it that way," said presidential appointments secretary Dwight Chapin in chewing out political adviser Murray Chotiner for inviting a congressman.

"This is potentially a very embarrassing situation. No one is allowed to place a guest on the president's aircraft without prior approval of the president."

Another time, Chapin complained to Nixon's military aide, Gen. James D. Hughes, that the wife of White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman "was placed in a three-abreast seating area whereas there was a forward compartment with sundry military personnel in two-abreast and more comfortable seating."

Chapin also asked another presidential assistant for a memo "detailing the responsibilities and duties of the hand-holder when he travels on Air Force One." Hand-holders, Chapin explained, are people carried on the plane "for the purpose of massaging VIPs."

The pleasures of riding Air Force One were more image than comfort. A dozen memos complained about lousy food. In one, Chapin groused that meals used to be served with crystal glasses and china and "now, plastic seems to be the in-thing."

He complained to Hughes that the temperature in the plane was too cold and that he got the reply that it felt right to the Secret Service agents aboard. "To hell with the Secret Service area — who do we run this plane for?" Chapin quoted Haldeman as saying.

Another time Haldeman became annoyed because stewards handed cool towels to Secret Service agents after a stop in St. Petersburg, Fla., but not to other passengers. "It's a minor point," wrote Chapin, "but many staff members work hard, do a lot of running and are just as hot as the Secret Service."

Plane Snags Kite, Gives Girl Ride

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Eight-year-old DeAndrea Anrig says she felt like Winnie the Pooh when an airplane snagged her kite line and lofted her on a 100-foot ride.

"I read about how Winnie the Pooh flies in the air on kites, but I never wanted to try it," said DeAndrea, who let go just as the kite carried her toward a tree. "I wasn't thinking anything but how scared I was."

"She said it was just a big jerk that lifted her (10 feet) into the air," said DeAndrea's mother, Debby. "It carried her right over my husband's head. All he saw was a shadow going over his head. I'm just thankful she let go."

DeAndrea escaped from her ride with bruises. Sympathetic neighbors delivered cupcakes Tuesday to her home in Dublin, 30 miles southeast of San Francisco, where she rested on an air mattress surrounded by ice packs and two of her stuffed animals.

DeAndrea and her parents were picnicking Sunday with friends at a park 2 miles from the Palo Alto airport when the accident occurred.

DeAndrea was taking her turn flying the 12-foot, glider-type kite when a twin-engine plane descending toward the airport caught the kite's 200-pound nylon test line.

Mountain View fire marshal Frank Moe said the 70-pound child was carried about 100 feet before letting go.

"There was no way the people in the plane could have known what was happening," said Ken Markowitz, a lawyer for the Reno Flying Service, owner of the Care Flight medical transport plane that tangled with the kite.

Pilot Jack Uranga of Reno, Nev., was flying a vintage to Stanford University Hospital when the propeller snagged the line, Markowitz said.

Despite damage to one propeller blade, Uranga managed to land safely, but the plane is grounded until repairs are made, Markowitz said. Uranga said Tuesday that company regulations prevented him from discussing the accident.

In San Jose, Federal Aviation Administration official Edge Ritter said the plane sustained a 2-inch gouge in one of its two propellers. He was unable to estimate the cost of repair or the height of the plane when it caught the line.

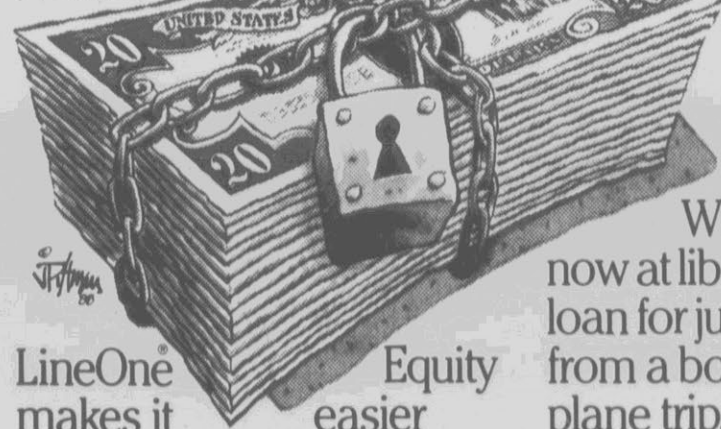

Mountain View authorities said they would post signs at Shoreline park advising that kite flying has been banned there. The Public Utilities Commission prohibits kite flying within 5 miles of an airport.

Ritter said there frequently are kites in the park area, but this was the first such accident.

Now NCNB's LineOne® Equity Overcomes The Inequity In Home Equity Loans.

Until recently, home equity loans simply were not always equitable.

But now, NCNB's

LineOne makes it easier for everyone to unlock the equity in their home.

Thanks to the 1987 Tax Act, you may be able to actually increase the portion of your loan which is fully interest-deductible. In fact, if you qualify under the new rules, you may be able to borrow up to $100,000 and still deduct all the interest.*

What's more, you're now at liberty to use your loan for just about anything, from a boat to a car to a plane trip. All as easily as writing a check.

And our LineOne Equity still gives you all of the important advantages listed in the box.

For more information, call Phone-A-Loan, toll-free, at 1-800-342-9701 (or in Greensboro, 855-NCNB).

You can also visit your neighborhood NCNB to ask about LineOne Equity. It might be our most equitable home equity loan ever.

LineOne Equity Advantages.

- 1) A flexible payment schedule that gives you the option of paying only the monthly interest, if you choose, until the loan matures.
- 2) No fees for unused credit.

Nicaragua Peace Talks Closing With Negotiators Near Accord

By BRYNA BRENNAN
Associated Press Writer
SAPOA, Nicaragua (AP) — Sandinista and Contra rebel negotiators are heading into their final day of cease-fire talks closer than ever to reaching agreement on steps to end Nicaragua's six-year war.

The main stumbling blocks as the two sides prepared for today's third round of talks appeared to center on the mechanics of how the Contras would lay down their arms and be granted amnesty. In Tuesday's session, both sides exchanged proposals that agree on major points.

Defense Minister Humberto Ortega, who heads the government delegation, said afterward that he expected a "concrete agreement" to emerge from the discussions. But sources close to the talks cautioned that they could still stall on final details. One source said the talks could continue beyond today.

"It is like a boxing match," a Sandinista official, who spoke on the condition of anonymity, said Tuesday. "They were tense (Monday) and they had some sparring (Tuesday)." Adolfo Calero, political leader of the U.S.-supported Contras, described the second round of talks as "direct and frank."

"We worked hard during the day," he said. "We clarified (points that coincide) and we are working on differences ... It was a fruitful day and tomorrow could be even better," he said.

The two sides stood far apart at the start of the talks, which opened Monday at this border post 90 miles south of Managua and, which represented the government and rebel leaders' first face-to-face meeting in Nicaragua. A battlefield truce that began Monday appeared to be holding.

In other developments, the U.S. military said American troops will complete emergency training exercises in Honduras despite the truce, and President Reagan asked Congress to approve more funding for the Contras.

The Sandinista proposal, outlined by Deputy Foreign Minister Victor Hugo Tinoco on Tuesday, calls for a truce of up to 90 days during which the Contras would lay down their weapons and join a "national reconciliation dialogue."

For every rebel who stops fighting, the government would release a political prisoner the Sandinistas consider eligible for release. The government is holding an estimated 3,300 political prisoners.

Most prisoners are former members of the National Guard, as the army was called under the late President Anastasio Somoza, who was overthrown by the Sandinista revolution in July 1979.

Contrary to previous Sandinista demands, Tinoco said rebels who put down their arms would be free from prosecution without applying for amnesty and could take part in Nicaraguan political life.

They would be permitted to operate uncensored newspapers, magazines and radio stations.

Food Runs Low Noriega Is Firm Despite Strikers

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — A general strike aimed at ousting Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega closed shops nationwide, but food was running low and Noriega again rejected a U.S. call for him to surrender power and go into exile.

"I am a Panamanian not a gringo," Noriega said after meeting Tuesday with a small group of union supporters. "Let the world know we are fighting the ultimate battle for dignity and against colonialism."

An estimated 90 percent of offices and industries were shut by the strike on Tuesday. Most shops and stores were closed, public transportation was halted and many government employees did not go to work.

By nightfall, the streets of Panama City were nearly deserted. The strike was to enter its third day today.

The United States is using economic pressure against Noriega, withholding payments for use of the Panama Canal and freezing Panamanian accounts in U.S. banks to starve the government of the dollars it uses as its currency.

The government must meet several major payrolls by the end of the month, including that of the 15,000-strong Defense Forces, which Noriega heads.

Between the cash crunch and the strike, the latest in a series of walkouts that began last summer to protest Noriega's alleged corruption, food has grown scarce. Eric Arturo Delvalle, who was removed as president Feb. 26 after trying to fire Noriega, appealed for international food aid Tuesday.

"I am very concerned and fear for the health and lives of many Panamanians," Delvalle said in a videotaped message from hiding. The United States still recognizes him as Panama's president.

Relief officials said on Tuesday that more and more hungry families, some of whom have not eaten in five or six days, were flocking to emergency centers around the country. And port workers said they had run out of food for their union members, but voted to stay on strike.

Opposition leaders scheduled a funeral today for a man who died after being hit with a shotgun blast in violent anti-Noriega protests last week. It was the first fatality of the monthlong crisis that began after U.S. grand juries in Florida indicted Noriega on charges of trafficking in Colombian cocaine.

Opposition leaders say the funeral and the arrival of an exiled opposition leader could provoke confrontations with Noriega's forces. The head of the opposition Christian Democratic Party, Ricardo Arias Calderon was scheduled to arrive from Miami on Thursday with a group of Central American legislators.

Noriega's government refused to let Arias Calderon come home from a trip after the crisis began.

In Washington, President Reagan said Tuesday that "we feel Noriega should leave Panama."

Last week, Noriega turned down a U.S. plan for him to leave Panama and live in Spain.

Americans Will Remain In Honduras For Exercises

PALMEROLA AIR BASE, Honduras (AP) — Although Honduras says its border crisis with Nicaragua is over, American troops sent here for emergency training exercises will stay on to complete the maneuvers.

President Reagan ordered 3,200 American troops to Honduras last week after Nicaraguan soldiers allegedly penetrated Honduran territory in pursuit of U.S.-supported Contra rebels.

On Tuesday, President Jose Azcona Hoyo told The Associated Press that Sandinista troops had retreated and the American military contingent "will leave Honduras very soon."

But U.S. military spokesman Maj. Gary Hovatter on Tuesday said the soldiers first will finish their training exercises.

"Right now the plans are to make it a 10- to 14-day exercise. We have not received any directive as to when to begin redeployment," he said, adding the exercises were taking place Tuesday at four sites.

Foreign Minister Carlos Lopez Contreras on Tuesday said the border tension "has virtually disappeared" after both the Sandinistas and the Contras suspended hostilities and began truce talks in southern Nicaragua.

Some U.S. soldiers expressed frustration on Tuesday that they had not been allowed to join the fighting along the border.

"They get you all hepped up and then there's nothing to do," said Pfc. Jose Pena, 23, of Scottsdale, Ariz., who was rushed in last week as part of what the White House called a "measured response" to the crisis.

"Most of us were hoping to get a little action," he said at Palmerola Air Base, headquarters for U.S. military operations.

One soldier said he came prepared for anything.

"They told us it was a training exercise, but if things got hot and heavy, it was time for our training to kick in," said Spec. 4 Duane McCarthy, a 25-year-old helicopter mechanic from Novi, Mich.

The deployment of the U.S. troops bolstered the American military presence in Honduras to about 6,000 servicemen. The Reagan administration billed it as both a show of support for Azcona and a warning to the Sandinistas against further actions in the border region.

The United States has been carrying out joint exercises with the Honduran military periodically for five years as part of the Reagan administration's policy of isolating the Sandinistas.

Prison Break-In

RALEIGH (AP) — Most fence climbers at Central Prison are trying to get out, but officials say someone tried to go the other way Tuesday night.

Warden Gary Dixon said a man wearing blue jeans, a dark jacket and a white hat first approached the prison fence about 8 p.m. A tower guard warned the man to leave the area.

The man did leave, but returned and was warned again, Dixon said. The man left a second time.

"He returned a third time. He walked over toward the fence, put his hands on the fence (and) started to climb. The officer fired a warning shot and then the individual fled," said Dixon.

Dixon said it was the first time anyone had tried to break into the prison.

organization helps raise awareness of the opportunities for diversification and expansion of the state's economic base. She said the group also helps develop networks of people with similar skills and helps businesses with international products to locate markets.

"It's a form of obtaining information and sharing experience," she said.

Ms. Faulkner said the NCWTA has over 1,000 members representing all aspects of commerce including banking, transportation and shipping.

"We are the largest trade organization of its kind in the nation," she commented.

Each of the state's seven local chapters holds monthly meetings, hosting speakers who provide insightful information on a diverse range of international topics. Each spring an annual conference is held, offering a series of informative seminars on importing, exporting, and transportation.

Cooper said the association will hold its state conference May 3-5 in Charlotte.

"We're bringing in 25 of the world's largest trading companies like Mitsubishi and Westinghouse, the big trading companies, and we're matching them up with 125 manufacturers within a five state region," he said.

"We have one trading company that's coming in here that does $7 billion worth of business with the United States and they handle 6,000 products. These companies are looking very hard for products to export out of the United States," he added.

Cooper also will speak Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at East Carolina University. The speech, "U.S. Trade and Global Market," will be the opening program of the 1988 Great Decisions series at ECU. It will be held in Room 1031 of the General Classroom Building.

"We'll be addressing some of the problems of the exporter, what we see as the role of the United States government in helping or supporting the exporter and policies which are not allowing the U.S. to be as competitive as some other countries are," he said.

Charges Dropped

RALEIGH (AP) — A prosecutor has dropped rape and kidnapping charges against a Wake County school bus driver, saying letters written by the alleged victim indicated she consented to having sex.

Assistant District Attorney Thomas Ford said Tuesday he received the letters from attorneys for the driver, Thomas E. Bennett Jr. of Raleigh. The letters "indicated that the issue of consent would likely be resolved in the favor of the defendant" at trial, Ford said. He added that the girl had moved out of state since the incident.

Bennett, 18, was charged March 7 with one count of second-degree rape and one count of kidnapping. According to a report filed with the Wake sheriff's department, a 17-year-old high school student said she was the last passenger on the bus Feb. 19 when Bennett drove her to a deserted road.

The girl told investigators that Bennett forced her to disrobe and had sex with her on the bus before taking her home. According to Ford, she told a friend two weeks later that she had been raped by Bennett and the friend notified the girl's principal. The principal then notified police, he said.

Expansion

SWEPESONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Honda Power Equipment Manufacturing Inc. has announced plans for a $20 million expansion to begin production of new product lines of riding tractors and riding mowers.

The plant expansion, slated to begin this summer, will double the size of the present Swepsonville facility to 230,000 square feet.

ARMED ROBBERY — These Greenville police officers standing outside the Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburgers restaurant on Memorial Drive were part of a team sent to the business after an armed robbery was reported at 7:48 a.m. today. Investigators said two men armed with a pistol and wearing "some type of mask" took an undetermined amount of cash in the holdup. The robbers, officers said, were last seen in a light green car. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Jordan Campaigns

Jordan also wants to improve counseling services by providing one counselor for every 40 students at risk of dropping out. Targeting high risk groups would provide the assistance needed to get to the root of the problem, he said.

The $8 million needed to fund the plan would not require a tax increase, said Jordan, and it would be a small amount of the total spent on education.

While education in North Carolina is getting better, Jordan said the Democratic party has had to fight Martin and the Republican party to realize the improvements.

"Governor Martin has taken no initiative to solve the most serious problem our schools face today. During his four years as Governor, nearly 100,000 young people — one student in four — will have dropped out before graduating high school," said Jordan. "That is almost 25,000 students per year. If this were a disease we would call it an epidemic."

"We kept our commitment to the Basic Education Program despite Jim Martin's opposition to it in 1985," said Jordan. "We kept our commitment to increased spending for education despite Jim Martin's opposition to it in 1985." The state is also offering Teaching Fellow scholarships to encourage students to become teachers, he said.

"Those progressive steps came in spite of, not because of, Jim Martin," said Jordan.

A high dropout rate goes hand in hand with a high drug rate, a high crime rate and a high welfare rate, said Jordan, and it damages economic growth. "You cannot succeed in today's economy without a high school diploma. Nor can a state succeed in today's global marketplace if it continues to produce 100,000 dropouts every four years."

Tuesday was the first time Jordan had visited Greenville since he told a group of black newspaper publishers in Greensboro that he could not get elected without the black vote, but he also needs the "white neck vote in eastern North Carolina."

The comment has stirred reaction from allies and opponents, but Jordan said he meant nothing negative by the phrase, he just wants to build a broad base of support.

A redneck is a "hardworking eastern North Carolina farmer," said Jordan, who expressed regret the comment was not taken as a compliment.

Pitt Man Indicted

Shanahan said this morning that, with the exception of the Liberty Warehouse in Wilson, none of the businesses mentioned in the indictment have burned, and none of the businesses' owners have been charged.

Shanahan and other sources said an Aug. 11, 1985, fire that damaged the Norcott Funeral Service building in Greenville was not connected with the investigation.

The indictment also mentioned Harvey Bowen of Ayden, who died earlier this month. Shanahan said authorities had obtained a court order in 1986 to "surreptitiously enter" Bowen's office at Harvey Bowen Motors and place a listening device on a telephone.

"All I can say," Shanahan said, is that Bowen "was a target as being a middle man with some of these fires."

Shanahan said today that the indictments against King are only "the forerunner to a major event." He said other indictments are expected as a result of the investigation.

The charges against King carry a maximum penalty of 33 years in prison and fines totaling $1.75 million.

NCSU Gift

TOKYO (AP) — Kobe Steel Ltd., a leading Japanese steel maker, said today it has donated $666,000 to North Carolina State University to establish a $1 million professorship for the development of advanced materials.

Kobe spokesman Gary Tsuchida said the professorship will help the American university develop advanced materials particularly in the field of "novel electronic materials," such as diamond thin films to make semiconductors.

Trustees To Meet

The board of trustees of the North Carolina Center for the Advancement of Teaching will meet April 18 at 9 a.m. in the Catamount Inn, Sylva.

The meeting is being held in conjunction with groundbreaking ceremonies April 17 for construction of a new center to be built adjacent to the Western Carolina University campus.

Committee To Meet

The Bethel Union Alumni Scholarship Committee will meet Thursday at 5:30 p.m. in Ann Speight's office at the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center on N.C. 43.

Solicitation Permit

The Greenville Police Department has issued a solicitation permit for Sharp Point Volunteer Fire Department to raise donations from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. through Saturday in locations throughout the city for a member of the department who has cancer.

Eastern School Patrol

The school patrol at Eastern Elementary School gave awards to student winners for good citizenship and bus safety recently.

Winners were David Broyles, Kimberly Gay, Darshi Jenkins and Robert Shofley.

The patrol consists of third-grade students and is a funded through the migrant "Better Citizens for Better Schools."

Literacy Honors

North Carolina literacy leaders and volunteers, representing top literacy programs in the state, will be honored at the Champion's Gala of the Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament at the Greensboro Coliseum complex Tuesday.

Honorees, selected recently from a group of more than 50 nominations by a panel of judges, will be presented plaques by Gov. Jim Martin.

Project Chairman

David Morton of Farmville has been named 1988 Spring Bike-A-Thon chairman for a Leukemia Society of America, North Carolina Chapter, fund-raiser.

Anyone from the Farmville area wishing to participate may call Morton, a chaplain at Eastern Corrections Center, at 753-5919.

Dinner To Break 3-Day Fast

Peace in Central America Week will be celebrated locally Thursday at 6 p.m. with a potluck dinner at the Methodist Student Center on East Fifth Street.

The dinner will break the fast of about 15 participants in a three-day juice fast sponsored by the Students for Economic Democracy, a campus organization.

The money raised by the fasters and their pledgers will be sent to the Quixote Center in Virginia to buy medical supplies to be sent to Nicaragua. People attending the dinner are asked to bring over-the-counter medications like aspirin and diarrhea medicine to be sent to Nicaragua.

A group of East Carolina University students who participated in an Overseas Development Network visit to Mexico last week will share their experiences following the dinner. On their trip, they were looking at the education system of Mexico and an Overseas Development Network cattle-raising project.

Central America Awareness Week commemorates the killing of Archbishop Romero in 1980. It will be ended by the beginning of a Walk for Peace in Central America starting at six different sites in the state Sunday.

The Greenville group will participate at the New Bern start site Sunday. The walkers will converge in Raleigh on Saturday and conduct an Easter service on Easter Sunday.

Birth Rate Is Declining OES Installs Officers

By FRANCES D'EMILIO
Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — Wheel a baby down any street in Italy and you'll never walk alone.

Fussing over children seems like a national pastime, but if present trends continue Italians will have fewer and fewer toddlers to dote on.

To the concern of politicians and sociologists, the Italian family is steadily shrinking. The latest statistics say each family has an average of 1.27 children, the lowest in Europe.

"Children are still king in Italy. But, these days, one king is enough, not two or three," said Renato Tagliani, a father who has just one little emperor in his household, 11-year-old, chubby-cheeked Gianbatista.

Family is practically a sacred institution in Italy. It's certainly the most enduring one in a country that has seen invaders conquer and crumple and governments rise and fall.

"The value of family as an institution hasn't changed," said Lorella Spinelli, a 30-year-old Roman, who had her first child in the fall. "But to create a world for children these days is very difficult."

Fingers point to the slow but steady changing of women's roles, the difficulty of finding jobs and housing and the irritations of daily life that are particularly Italian and particularly frustrating if you want to have children.

"To have more children signifies being penalized, suffering the lack of services, inadequate salaries," said demographer Antonio Golini, who directs a national center for population research.

What's especially intriguing is that surveys show the practice of birth control is low in Italy compared to other Western European countries.

"Less than 12 percent of women use the pill, more than 60 percent don't use any contraceptive," said Panorama, an Italian news weekly, in a recent issue.

"Are Italians not making love any more? Have they all become sterile?"

Studies are under way here to see if Italians are indeed becoming infertile.

For Laura Spinelli, just starting out as a parent, and Renato Tagliani, with more than a decade of experience, the reluctance of so many Italians to be parents once, let alone more than once, seems understandable.

"Having children once was the goal of an Italian woman's life. You married, had kids, stayed at home," said Mrs. Spinelli.

"Now the role of women is more like men's. You go to university and finish when you're 25 or 26. Then it's usually a year or so before you find a job. Once you find one, you're reluctant to leave it to have a child."

Her husband's success in business allowed her to give up her job after childbirth, but he's on the road a lot.

"I'm lucky to have my mother at home," Mrs. Spinelli said.

Her 67-year-old mother helps with the care of grandson Luca.

"I have a friend whose mother lives on the opposite end of the city," Mrs. Spinelli said. "She leaves her 7-month-old baby with her mother all week because with all the traffic it would take her too long to get there and back."

Such daily trials mean "nonna" (grandmother) is rapidly replacing "mama" as the anchor of the Italian household.

Nonna is in special demand because babysitters are hard to find and can be expensive. Many Italians won't let their teen-agers work because they are obsessed with "brutta figura" — making a bad impression — and neighbors might gossip that your children have to work because you don't earn enough.

With no grandma handy, the Taglianis, a two-career couple with their own business, a media agency, feel the shortage of babysitters daily.

"Italian schools close at 1:30 p.m. So where do you put your child when he gets out?" said Clemencia Tagliani.

In Italy, stores are closed at lunchtime, in the evening and on Sundays and public schools are open Saturday mornings.

"So if you have to buy a pair of shoes for your son you drag him out of school on Saturday, when you're off, and make a mad dash to the store before they pull down their shutters at 1 p.m.," Mrs. Tagliani said.

The Greenville chapter No. 149, Order of Eastern Star installed 1988-89 officers in ceremonies at the Masonic Temple.

Melanie Anne Bunch is the worthy matron and Jerome W. Bostick is worthy patron.

Officers serving with them are Martha G. Andrews, associate matron; Regan Jones, associate patron; Jean K. Tharp, secretary; Margaret C. Gray, treasurer; Florence Adams, conductress; Margaret Schiller, associate conductress; Kenneth Caswell, chaplain; Grace Hill, marshal; Marguerite Cook, organist; Mary Jones Adah; Lucille Hines, Ruth; Camille Rollins, Esther; Agnes S. Bunch, Martha; Mary J. Freeland, Electa; Ruth Forrest, warder, and A.E. Forrest, sentinel.

Conducting the meeting were Forrest, worthy patron and Mary J. Freeland, worthy matron. Special guests included Glenn Whitfield Garner, past grand matron, Mrs. Tharp, grand representative of New York in N.C., and Joyce F. Wheelers, grand representative of Delaware in N.C.

Mrs. Garner, a member of Kinston chapter No. 53, conducted the installation assisted by Mary Lucy Taylor, installing grand marshal; Bryce W. Tharp, installing grand chaplain, and Corabob Turnage, a member of Ayden chapter No. 52, installing grand organist.

Past officer gifts were given to Mrs. Freeland and Forrest. The new worthy matron and worthy patron were entertained by a program given by their offices. Miss Bunch was given a gavel made by her uncle, James B. Smith Jr. She introduced members of her family.

Special music was presented by Nancy Corbett accompanied by Mrs. Turnage.

A reception was held in the Sugg-Whitchard dining room. The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth and decorated with orchid and white flowers. Mabel and Kenneth

JEROME BOSTICK

Caswell greeted guests and Sarah Caprell and Lillie McLawhorn presided at the registration table. Caryn F. Smith and James B. Smith III were pages.

Lucille Hines, refreshment chairman, was assisted by Effie Hathaway, Jo Harper, Eunice Tetterton and Audrey Felton.

Retired Sailor Sends Reply

DEAR ABBY: I just received an advertisement in the mail that infuriated me. It read, in part:

"The national health crisis we're in is real and extreme ... Horrible as all the stories are about AIDS, herpes, influenza (and the list goes on and on), the whole story hasn't yet been told! A frightening report issued to the U.S. Surgeon General says that 1,300 doctors and health professionals from around the world call AIDS 'the biological equivalent of the nuclear bomb,' which is all that is needed to 'render the human race extinct within 50 years.' The AIDS virus may have contaminated the surfaces of everything you and your family come in contact with daily! Public toilet seats, telephones, restaurant tables, silverware and doorknobs.

"We now offer you a brand-new way to protect yourself from AIDS. A disposable, specially treated paper towelette which will destroy the AIDS virus! Use it on your hands, and all surfaces that may be contaminated."

Then the ad goes on to tell you how to obtain this "miracle" product:

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

"Just fill in the form and enclose check or money order," etc.

Abby, I thought people got AIDS only from unprotected intimate sexual contact, sharing needles and syringes, or from a contaminated blood transfusion. Suddenly, I'm getting literature from a "Ph.D." telling me I can get AIDS from a telephone! What do you think? — CONFUSED VIRGINIAN

DEAR CONFUSED: It doesn't take a Ph.D. to figure out that some opportunist has come up with a get-rich-quick scheme by capitalizing on the fear of AIDS, and widespread public ignorance about how AIDS is transmitted.

Before you send for anything as useless as a "specially treated towelette" that promises to destroy the AIDS virus, make a free call to the nearest AIDS hot-line or to your local public health department and ask for some information on the new "miracle" product.

DEAR ABBY: I almost swallowed my false teeth when I read your comment that lieutenant colonels "wore" oak leaves. Abby, Adam and Eve wore fig leaves, but would a lieutenant colonel wear an oak leaf? Never!

I enclose a photocopy of a page from the Washington State University Handbook for Master Gardeners, and for comparison, a copy of my lieutenant colonel's insignia (maple leaf). Note, please, that the oak leaves are pinnately lobed, while maple leaves are palmately lobed. — MARSHALL L. SHELTON, LT. COL. USAF, RET., YACOLT, WASH.

DEAR MARSHALL: Shades of hemlock! I didn't know my pinnately from my palmately, and for that I am totally penitent. You can be sure you're not the only reader who wrote to correct my error. But you were the first, and I thank you.

Bridge Tournament Set For Thursday

A unit tournament will be held at the Senior Center Thursday night starting at 7:30 p.m.

Winners in games played Thursday, North-South, Mrs. Wiley Corbett and Lee Hastings, first with .71 percent; Mrs. M.H. Bynum and Mrs. Stuart Page, second, and Mrs. Clifton Toler and Margo Ainsworth, third.

East-West, Mrs. Harold Forbes and Effie Williams, first with 58 percent; Lib Phillips and W.Z. Morton Jr., second, and Joe Hatch and Dave Proctor, third.

Mrs. W.R. Harris and Mrs. J.M. Horton were first place winners in the North-South game played Saturday. Others winning were Mrs. Lacy Harrell and Mrs. J.W.H. Roberts, second, and Mrs. M.H. Mynum and Mrs. Stuart Page, third.

East-West included Effie Williams and Mrs. George Martin, first with 58 percent; Ida Rowe and Dot Barwick, second, and Mrs. Harold Forbes and Emma Warren, third.

Miss Hemisphere Pageant Has Division Winners

The Mid-East N.C. Hemisphere Pageant was held at the Holiday Inn in Greenville last weekend. Area contestants competed in talent, modeling, beauty and photogenic categories.

Winning the congeniality award was Kim Robinson.

Category winners included talent, Sharon Tyndall, little division, and Marion Barnhill, teen. Modeling winners were Crystal Davis, little, Tammy Hardee, teen, and Sharon Flanagan, miss.

Beauty awards were presented in the following divisions, Kevin McGee, master, and Herbert Worthington, first runner-up; Sonya Edens, winner, peewee; Courtney

Deanna Leonard was winner in the pre-teen division. Wendy Viverette was first runner-up and Kelly Landen was second runner-up. In the teen division, Marion Barnhill was winner with Penny Outlaw, first runner-up, and Tammy Hardee, second runner-up. Winners in the miss division included Sharon Flanagan, winner, Kim Robinson, first runner-up, and Kim Bridges, second runner-up.

The winners will compete in the state pageant during the summer and state winners will take part in the national pageant in Miami Beach, Fla.

Pullover Has Lattice Lace

Any knitter who enjoys the fascination of pattern stitchery will be amazed that such an elegant look can be achieved with so little effort, and so quickly, too. An intriguing lattice-work pattern adorns the yoke of this stunning pullover, and the simple neckline, dropped shoulders and three-quarter sleeves make it a delight to wear.

Two strands of yarn are used: an imaginative combination of a textured novelty yarn and a lightweight acrylic with the feel of silky cotton that knits up as quickly as a bulky yarn, but with a lightweight look and feel. The gauge is only 2 1/2 stitches per inch.

Easy-to-follow directions are given for small, medium, large and extra-large sizes with finished bust measurements of 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches respectively.

To obtain directions for making the Lattice Lace Pullover, send your request for Leaflet No. Z-032088 with $2 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler Crafts, The Daily Reflector, P.O. Box 419148, Kansas City, Mo. 64141.

Or you may order Kit No. K-032088 by sending a check or money order for $17.95 for small or $21.95 for medium, large or extra-large to Pat Trexler Crafts at the same address. The kit price includes shipping charges, full instructions and yarn in your choice of banana, white, ocean blue or dusty pink.

If you don't already have a pattern stitch file, now's the perfect time to start one. I use a loose-leaf binder and clear plastic sheet protectors, keeping the pattern stitch directions and a swatch or two of the stitch in them. Start your file with the lattice lace given on today's leaflet, then add the slightly more intricate one given below.

Pat's Pointers Pat Trexler

Cast on 32 (or any multiple of 10 plus 2) stitches. Rows 1, 2, 5 and 6 are worked by knitting all stitches across the full row. Specific details for those steps in the pattern that may be new to you, such as "triple throws" and "slip clusters," follow the row-by-row instructions.

For Row 3, knit 1, (knit 5, knit a triple throw into the next 5 stitches). Repeat the steps within parentheses across the row and end with knit 1.

On Row 4, knit 1, (slip-cluster next 5 stitches, knit 5). Repeat the steps within parentheses across the row and end with knit 1.

For Row 7, knit 1, (knit a triple throw into the next 5 stitches, knit 5). Repeat the steps within parentheses across the row and end with knit 1.

On Row 8, knit 6, (slip-cluster next 5 stitches, knit 5). Repeat the steps within parentheses across the row and end with knit 1, instead of knit 5.

To knit a triple throw, insert the needle into the next stitch as if to knit, but wrap the yarn three times around the needle — instead of the usual one time — and complete a knit stitch. This will give you 3 loops on the needle for each knit stitch, so, obviously, your stitch count will be different on this row.

The slip cluster is more easily understood if it is broken down into separate steps. Step 1: Bring the yarn forward (to the purl position). Step 2: Insert the tip of the right-hand needle into the front of the first strand of the triple throw stitch that is on the left-hand needle. Step 3: Slip this stitch from left to right needle, thus creating one long slip stitch. Repeat Steps 2 and 3 until the specified number of long slipped stitches (in this pattern, the specified number is 5) are on the right-hand needle.

Step 4: Take yarn to back of work (to the knit position) and slip all 5 long stitches to the left needle. Step 5: Bring yarn forward and slip all 5 long stitches to the right needle. Repeat Steps 4 and 5 once more and return yarn to back of work. A slip cluster is completed.

Repeat all of the above steps each time you are told to "slip cluster the next 5 stitches." On the following row, each of the 5 loops of the cluster is knit separately, creating 5 knit stitches from each cluster.

Try this pattern out on a sample swatch. I think you will find it is easier to work than you might think from just reading the directions.

Lacroix Shows His First Collection

By BETTIETIJANE LEVINE
L.A. Times-Washington Post
News Service

PARIS — Christian Lacroix aimed for greater glory Wednesday night as he showed his first collection of ready-to-wear clothing, which will sell at 130 stores around the world with price tags ranging from about $800 to $2,500 at U.S. outlets.

The big question before the show was whether Lacroix, widely credited with starting the current short-skirt trend in his custom line, would be able to translate his ornate curves and brilliant colors into mass-produced outfits at more affordable prices. Many buyers said after the show that he succeeded.

The high-waisted, paper-doll and trapeze shapes, the sun-drenched south-of-the-border shades, and the thigh-high hemlines for which he is famous were all evident in this 100-piece collection.

Coats in vivid hues of pink, orange, purple and lime were dazzling, short and shapely. Some have wide bands of smocking at the waistline above full skirts; others were narrow with fitted waistlines above hips that puff out at the sides.

Lacroix's way with a suit was often quite subdued and perhaps best illustrated in a black-and-white checked wool with form-fitting jacket that curved down to the hips above a slim skirt. A small puff of fabric graced each shoulder in a miniature leg-of-mutton effect. Buyers have dubbed this the "dimple-shoulder suit," and many said after the show that it was as beautifully structured as anything in his couture collection. Another applauded number was a taupe wool style carved into a bolero that fit snugly over a matching slim dress. It had wide brown beaver cuffs and a matching small cape collar.

Court Says Stamps Can Be Limited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government may limit a family's eligibility for food stamps when a family member is on strike, the Supreme Court ruled today.

Rejecting unions' arguments by a 5-3 vote, the justices ruled that a 1981 federal law imposing such limits does not violate any constitutional rights.

The 1981 law, amendments to the Food Stamp Act, generally bars a family from becoming eligible for food stamps at a time when one of its members is on strike. Those families already receiving food stamps when a family member goes on strike are not dropped from the program, but are barred from receiving additional food stamps despite the loss of income.

"Exercising the right to strike inevitably risks economic hardship, but we are not inclined to hold that the right of association requires the government to minimize that result by qualifying the strikers for food stamps," Justice Byron R. White wrote for the court.

He was joined by Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist and Justices John Paul Stevens, Sandra Day O'Connor and Antonin Scalia.

The court said the 1981 law does not violate strikers' freedom of association or their free-speech rights. And the justices rejected an argument that strikers' equal-protection rights were violated by the 1981 law.

Reflector Ads Win Awards

The Daily Reflector received a first place and two second place awards for advertising at the spring convention of the Mid-Atlantic Newspaper Advertising Marketing Executives Association held recently at Hilton Head, S.C.

In the category of best advertisement or series featuring food, dairy, drug, liquor, or other beverage product, The Daily Reflector finished first for a Christmas greetings advertisement for Mountain Dew, and second place for an advertisement for Pepsi.

In the category of best advertisement or series published by a downtown council, shopping center or communitywide group of merchants, the newspaper won second place for an advertisement of the Carolina East Mall Antiques Show.

The Daily Reflector competed with other papers with a circulation of 15,000 to 40,000.

All ads were designed and executed by staff artist Marty Hardin.

Advertising Director Gerald E. Van Nostrand accepted the awards on behalf of The Daily Reflector.

The Mid-Atlantic Newspaper Advertising Marketing Executives Association is a trade organization consisting of advertising and marketing directors of newspapers throughout a six-state region.

Last-Quarter GNP Tops Previous Expectations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. economy expanded at a 4.8 percent annual rate in the final three months of last year, even faster than previously thought, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said the gross national product, the broadest measure of economic health, grew from October to December at the fastest pace in almost two years as the economy appeared to quickly shake off the Oct. 19 stock market crash.

It was the second upward revision in GNP growth for the fourth quarter. A month ago, the government put GNP growth at 4.5 percent, up from a 4.2 percent original estimate made in January.

Today's revisions showed that consumer spending and business investment, although depressed, fared better than had been thought. Exports rose even faster than had been previously reported.

Economists said the new GNP report was one more indication that the country will enjoy continued economic growth this presidential election year without a recession.

This is a far more positive outlook than many analysts had immediately following the record market collapse. Then, there were fears that worried consumers would topple the country into a new recession.

The upward revision in GNP growth in the fourth quarter pushed growth for the year to a rate of 4 percent, compared to 2.2 percent growth in 1986. It was the biggest annual increase since a 5.1 percent rise in 1984.

This figure measures growth from the fourth quarter to the fourth quarter each year. Averaging growth of all four quarters showed the GNP expanded 2.9 percent in 1987, the same as 1986.

The 4.8 percent GNP growth in the fourth quarter followed growth of 4.3 percent in the July-September quarter and was the fastest quarterly growth rate since an increase of 5.4 percent in the first three months of 1986.

The rapid growth occurred without a pick-up in inflation. A price index tied to the GNP rose at an annual rate of 3.6 percent in the fourth quarter, little changed from a 3.4 percent third quarter increase.

In a second report, the Commerce Department said U.S. corporations' after-tax profits rose 1.6 percent in the fourth quarter, the poorest showing since profits fell 3.7 percent in the first quarter of 1987. Profits were up 5.5 percent in the third quarter.

Ministry Changing

have paid as high as a quarter of a million dollars for time on a single television station. As prices escalated, this fostered a higher, more pressing need for monetary support."

He emphasized that the viewpoint has been reached where "there is a public feeling of guilt by association in being a television evangelist. When the PTL crisis came along, that was the first knockout for ministries. Then when the Swaggart situation happened, that was a second blow to television ministry."

"I am not condemning these two, Bakker or Swaggart," Whittington said. "I have long been a fan, an admirer of Swaggart. But I feel that he preached a gospel so rigid, so straight-laced that it was impossible for anyone to live up to it. So he became a victim of his own harsh judgment. All of us have sinned, none of us are perfect."

Whittington mentioned that the most oft-stated phrase in the Bible is

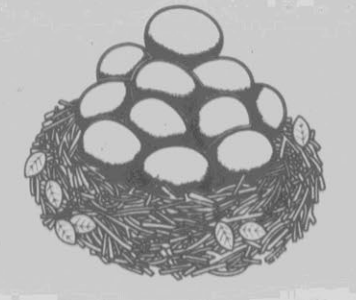

"and it came to pass." That phrase, he said, "in my judgment means that for me personally that when time passes and things change, that I will return to television ministry."

"I have enough wisdom to know that when I do return to television, I will come back stronger than ever. There is a market out there for television ministry. But the dark days are here now. Believe me, however, the sun will shine again."

Whittington is the third of four generations of ministers. "My great-uncle, who is 89, has been in the ministry for 68 years. My father has been a minister for 40 years, and I've been in the ministry for 27 years."

"Now, my daughter April, who is 13, has already recorded her first album. She has exceptional abilities and will minister in a program to young people on drugs and alcohol. Jesus has called her to the ministry, just as he did others in my family."

Eagles Were Defending Champs

VCU Ousts Southern Miss

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

The Golden Eagles won't soar in the NIT this year.

Southern Mississippi, seeking to be the first repeat NIT champion since St. John's defended its title in 1944, was derailed by Virginia Commonwealth 93-89 Tuesday night.

The Rams hit 14 of 16 free throws in the second half, including 8-for-10 by Vince Wilson in the final 4:09.

"The difference in the game was that they hit their free throws down the line," Southern Mississippi Coach M.K. Turk said. "It just wasn't in the cards for us to win tonight."

While Southern Mississippi headed home, VCU joined Connecticut, Colorado State, Arkansas State, New Mexico, Boston College, Ohio State and Middle Tennessee State in the quarterfinals.

Arkansas State edged Stanford 60-59; Ohio State beat Cleveland State 86-80; Middle Tennessee State took Georgia 69-59; Boston College downed Evansville 86-81; Colorado State defeated Houston 71-61, and New Mexico routed Oregon 78-59.

On Monday night, Connecticut beat Louisiana Tech 65-59.

The quarterfinals on Friday night will have Virginia Commonwealth at Connecticut, Ohio State at New Mexico, and Arkansas State at Colorado State.

On Saturday, Boston College is at Middle Tennessee State.

The defending champions entered the game averaging nearly 91 points compared to the Rams' average of just over 79.

"We knew they could really post some numbers," said Virginia Commonwealth's Phil Stinnie, who matched his career high with 34 points. "They scored, but we scored just as well, too, and a little better."

Stinnie scored 21 points in the first half, five in an 18-6 run that gave the Rams a 49-42 edge at halftime. Southern Mississippi rallied and the teams swapped leads 19 times before the Rams went ahead for good 83-82 on a pair of Wilson free throws with 2:30 to play.

"With 1:20 to go, I told our players that this was a foul situation," said VCU Coach Mike Pollio, whose team averages 72.9 percent from the line. "If we were to win, we were going to have to make our free throws down the stretch."

They did, leaving Southern Mississippi, which won only four road games all season and lost nine of its last 13 contests, at 19-11.

Arkansas State 60, Stanford 59
At Stanford, Rhon Johnson's free throw after time expired gave Arkansas State its comeback victory, the first postseason loss ever for Stanford.

The Indians, who trailed by as many as seven points in the second half, held the ball for the final 42 seconds. Johnson took a pass on the right baseline and was fouled by Stanford's Howard Wright with the clock at :00 but before the buzzer sounded.

After Stanford called two timeouts trying to rattle the reserve guard, he calmly sank the first of two shots with a standing-room-only crowd screaming.

"I was just looking down the floor and did not look at anybody — not the crowd, not my teammates, not my coach," Johnson said. "On the bench

(during a timeout), the coach said whether I made the free throws or not, we had had a great year. But I thought, 'Wait a minute, the year's not over yet.'"

It is for Stanford, appearing in its first postseason tournament since winning the NCAAs in 1942.

Ohio State 86, Cleveland State 80
Ohio State, which trailed by 10 points midway through the second half, rallied to take its own 10-point lead with less than four minutes remaining. The Vikings, 22-8, couldn't catch up, despite 32 points from Ken McFadden.

Jay Burson led host Ohio State with 22 points, while Jerry Francis had 21. The Buckeyes, 18-12, won the NIT two years ago.

"It's an in-state game, so it's an emotional situation," Buckeyes Coach Gary Williams said. "Tonight was like another Big Ten game. Cleveland State wants to play Ohio State badly."

Middle Tennessee State 69, Georgia 59

Ty Baynham's 24 points paced host MTSU, an Ohio Valley member which beat an SEC foe for the second straight round. Earlier, the Blue Raiders ousted Tennessee from the tournament.

Baynham not only scored 13 points in the first half, he helped put Georgia star Willie Anderson in deep foul trouble. Anderson was limited to 18 points, but got 16 of them in the second half.

"We knew Baynham was a good player and he proved it tonight. We didn't do a good job on him," Bulldogs Coach Hugh Durham said.

Boston College 86, Evansville 81
At Evansville, Dana Barros, who scored 32 points, hit a 3-point basket as part of a five-point play that broke open the game. Barros made the rally-breaking 3-pointer with 2:52 left to put Evansville within two points. Boston College's Scott Benton then missed a one-and-one foul shot on the same play, but got another chance because of an Evansville lane violation and hit both of them.

The five-point play made it 82-75 and the Eagles, 17-13, never looked back.

Dan Godfread scored 28 points to lead Evansville, 21-8, and Marty Simmons added 27. The loss snapped a 20-game home winning streak for the Aces.

Colorado State 71, Houston 61

Pat Durham scored 25 points and David Turcotte added 21 at Colorado State, where the Rams shot 57 percent. CSU, 20-12, reached 20 victories for only the second time in its history.

Houston, led by center Rolando Ferreira's 21 points, finished the year 18-13.

Houston rallied for a 53-52 lead on Horace Chaney's fifth 3-pointer of the game with 4:53 remaining. But the Rams reclaimed the lead for good less than a minute later. Trent Shippen's steal set up a layup by Turcotte. He was fouled and missed the free throw, but Eric Frieauff tipped it in for a 56-53 lead with 4:06 left.

New Mexico 78, Oregon 59
At Albuquerque, freshman Rob Robbins scored 23 points and New Mexico hit 33 of 47 free throws.

Sutton: Everyone Is Good Now

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Illinois may have unwittingly done Kentucky a favor by losing to upstart Villanova in the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

The Fighting Illini led Villanova by 14 points in the second half and seemingly had the game under control. Yet Villanova came back to beat Illinois 66-63, setting up a Thursday match against Kentucky in the semifinals of the Southeast Regional at Birmingham, Ala.

"I'm sure a lot of people would have counted them dead against Illinois, and yet somehow they won that basketball game," Kentucky Coach Eddie Sutton said. "That's a wonderful quality to have."

"They're an interesting ballclub in that they might not be the most talented team in the field of 16, but I don't believe any team plays any harder or they're any better coached or any smarter than this ballclub," he said. "I guess the one ingredient that is so impressive is that they believe they can win, that they find ways to win."

Villanova, whose 23-12 record is the worst among the survivors of last weekend's double round of games, meets sixth-ranked Kentucky, 27-5, at Birmingham, Ala. Louisville, 24-10, faces No. 4 Oklahoma, 32-3, in the other semifinal, with the survivors meeting Saturday to play for the Southeast Region's berth in the Final Four at Kansas City a week later.

"I don't think it makes any difference whether you're playing the Cinderella team or whether you're playing one of the favorites when you get to this point," Sutton said Tuesday. "They're all good teams. There's not a team left that couldn't win the national title."

Villanova proved that in 1985. Despite losing 10 regular-season games, the Wildcats surged through the NCAA bracket to win the national title, upsetting Georgetown 66-64 in the title game.

This year's run closely resembles the Villanova move of 1985. The Wildcats won two games in Ohio (at Dayton) and two games at Birmingham to reach the Final Four. This year's squad got the first part of it right by winning twice in Ohio (at Cincinnati) to earn a trip to Birmingham.

"I'd like to think it (repeating history) could have some effect on the way we're playing," Villanova Coach Rollie Massimino said via a conference call from Philadelphia. "But everyone is going to have that same emotional ride, I'm sure. 'We're trying to make a couple of comparisons as we go which you try to use in psychological warfare. But we're not playing the same opponents obviously.'"

"I think the big thing is that we execute our offense and make sure we rebound the ball — which is very, very critical — and create some sort of tempo that is conducive to our playing experience."

Sutton says the two teams of Wildcats are similar except that Villanova plays a matchup zone defense while Kentucky relies primarily on the man-to-man.

"They do as good in the matchup zone as any team in college basketball," Sutton said. "Because they are so sound defensively, it's hard to get a lot of points because they take away your running game. Their defense is so sound in a half-court situation. They've won a lot of close ballgames."

As for Kentucky, "We've attained some of the goals our seniors set for themselves," Sutton said. "We still believe there are some hurdles to jump and some mountains to climb. We made one last weekend in Cincinnati and we're hoping we can win two more games this weekend and go to Kansas City."

The Final Four hopes of two other teams of Wildcats — Kansas State and Arizona — depend on how they fare against Big Ten opposition.

Arizona, 33-2 and ranked second nationally, meets No. 17 Iowa, 24-9, in a West Region semifinal at Seattle on Friday. The winner advances to Sunday's region finale against the survivor of the other semifinal matching No. 10 Michigan, 26-7, and No. 7 North Carolina, 26-6.

No. 20 Kansas State, 24-8, faces a

Midwest Region test at Pontiac, Mich., against third-ranked Purdue, 29-3, which is trying for its first trip to the Final Four since 1980, when the Boilermakers finished third. The other Midwest semifinalists are Kansas, 23-11, and Vanderbilt, 20-10, each unranked.

In the East Region at East Rutherford, N.J., top-ranked Temple, 31-1, puts a 17-game winning streak on the line against Richmond, 26-6, and Rhode Island, 28-6, opposes Duke, 26-6.

The Arizona-Iowa game reprises a December matchup at Iowa City between Wildcats Coach Lute Olson's current and former teams. Arizona won that game 66-59 and Iowa Coach Tom Davis figures the Wildcats must

Rose Eases Past New Bern

By TOM MORRIS
Reflector Sports Writer

With its offense faltering, Rose relied on timely pitching and defense to hold off New Bern, 3-2, Tuesday in a non-conference high school baseball game.

The Rampants had handed the Bears an 11-3 shellacking March 16, but the story was much different this time.

"I'm glad to get the win," said Rose coach Ronald Vincent. "Their pitcher did a good job keeping us off balance."

"I thought we'd hit better, but every game is different. We're going to get better as the year goes on."

Rose built up an early 3-0 lead by scoring runs in the first, second and fourth innings.

Jamie Brewington kept the Bears scoreless over the first six innings on the way to the win, but got into trouble after tiring in the seventh.

Brewington had pitched well up to that time, recording 13 strikeouts while allowing only two hits.

But he began to lose his control in the final inning, allowing a leadoff single to Steve Phifer and a walk to pinch-hitter Joey Boucher. He followed that up with a strikeout but then Bill McClay reached on an error on the shortstop to load the bases.

Brewington then walked Keith Johnson to walk in Phifer. He then struck out Mike Herrman for the second out but followed that with another walk to Mark Dilday, which scored Boucher and made it 3-2. That's when Vincent made his move, bringing in Tom Moye to pitch.

The senior righthander didn't disappoint, needing only three pitches to strike out Scott Thompson and end the game.

"Tom did it for us," Vincent said. "Tom did that three or four times last year. (But) I was real impressed with Brewington."

For New Bern, Mark Matthews took the loss, but kept the Rampants from doing any serious damage. He gave up four hits and only two of the runs were earned. But best of all for the Bears, he only gave up only two hits to the top four of the Rampants' order.

"Our pitcher never got in trouble," said New Bern coach Dutch Overton. "He's our ace. My catcher (Dilday) also did a good job of holding people on base."

It was the big inning which had boosted the Rampants to the easy win over the Bears earlier this season, but it never materialized this time.

"We had a bad inning in the first and a bad inning in the end (last time)," Overton said. "We played with them through the middle."

Rose opened the first with David Leisten drawing a walk. He then stole second and went to third on a ground out by Tim Moore. Axel Smith then drove him in with a sacrifice fly for a 1-0 lead.

Rose added to that in the second when Moye opened with a single. Brewington followed with a reach on a fielder's choice which put out Moye. Brian Wille followed with another fielder's choice, this time putting out pinch-runner Chris Fuqua. Heath Clark then reached on an error that moved Wille to second before he came home on a RBI single by Jay Surles.

But New Bern had a chance to turn the tide of the game in the top of the third as it loaded the bases on Brewington, who walked three in a row with only one out. But after a brief discussion with Vincent and catcher Axel Smith, Brewington struck out Jimmy Alexander and got Dilday to fly out for the final out. From there, Brewington had few problems, giving up only one hit over the fourth, fifth and sixth innings.

Rose added to its lead in the fourth when Brewington hit a long shot to deep right that was mishandled by the right fielder, allowing him to reach. Fuqua, running for Brewington, later scored from third on a sacrifice fly by diving over the catcher on the throw home to give Rose a 3-0 lead.

And that extra run changed the complexion of the game for Overton and the Bears.

"When it was 2-0, if we could have gotten someone on, we could have bunted him up, but then they got up 3-0 and we really couldn't do that," Overton said.

The Rampants had a man on in both the fifth and sixth innings but couldn't make anything out of it.

"Later in the game, I wanted to create some things, but we never got any baserunners on," Vincent said. "I (usually) expect my first five or six hitters to make things happen. Then if the bottom part can get on base and set the table we can have a successful season."

Rose moves to 3-0 on the year and returns to action today against Eastern Wayne.

New Bern, meanwhile, drops to 0-4 on the season.

ECU Earns Sweep Over Louisburg College

East Carolina swept a doubleheader from Louisburg College Tuesday in collegiate softball action.

In the second game, ECU took a 1-0 lead in the first when Jeannie Murray walked, moved to second on a sacrifice by Leslie Cramer and then scored on a single by Mona Jackson.

Jeannie Murray had a 3-run homer in the second inning that keyed the Lady Pirates to an early 5-0 lead.

In the first game, ECU took a 2-0 win and then came back to take a 10-2 victory.

Cramer went 2-2 with two doubles to lead ECU's hitting.

In the first game, ECU took the lead for good when Leslie Cramer walked and moved to second on a sacrifice by Mona Jackson.

She then stole third and scored as Louisburg walked three straight Lady Pirate batters.

ECU added to its lead in the fifth with another run to close out its scoring.

ECU moves to 13-3 on the year and returns to action Saturday at North Carolina.

Ayden Country Club Holds Superball Event

AYDEN — The team of Joe Whaley, Charlie Davis, Gayle Wingate, David Woolard and Vernon Warren took first place in the Ayden Country Club's Earlbird Superball Tournament Sunday.

Second place went to Barry Kearney, Harding Suggs, Tommy Jordan, Eddie Stallings and Tom Dickens. Third place was Jeremy Shadle, Larry Lane, Jeff Woolard, Raymond Bullock and Chuck Messeri.

The fourth place team consisted of Glenn Gullledge, Tom Heath, Eddie Jordan, Curtis Worthington and Brenda Williams.

Smith Wants Heels To Focus On Michigan

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Three days after North Carolina's 26-point NCAA victory over Loyola-Marymount, Coach Dean Smith said the Tar Heels must put that game behind them and focus on Friday's test against Michigan.

"Our team has to forget Loyola; we won't ever have that many layups again," Smith told reporters Tuesday afternoon. "When you win a game like that, you have to really guard against complacency or overconfidence. But our players are realistic. They know Michigan is an entirely different matter."

Smith's Tar Heels will take a 26-6 record into Friday night's West Region semifinal contest with Michigan, which is 26-7 following a 108-85 victory over Florida last Saturday.

North Carolina knocked the Wolverines out in the second round of last year's NCAA tournament, with a 109-97 victory in Charlotte.

"They have nice team chemistry right now," Smith said. "The game against Florida was not a contest. That was a surprise to me. Looking beyond Michigan would be a huge mistake."

UNC will head to Seattle relatively healthy, except for point guard Jeff Lebo. Lebo, according to Smith, has a "fatigue fracture" of his left ankle.

The injury, suffered sometime last week, kept the 6-foot-2 junior out of Sunday and Monday practices. Smith said Lebo would participate in "one out of 10 plays" in Tuesday's drills, and then team doctors would re-examine his ankle.

Smith praised the Wolverines' two leading scorers, 6-3 guard Gary Grant and 6-7 forward Glen Rice. Smith said Grant, who is averaging 21.5 points and seven assists per game, "will be the first guard picked in the NBA draft." Rice, the Big 10's leading scorer with 22.2 points per game, "would be a lottery pick if he came out, but he's a junior," said Smith.

As for the pressure on the Tar Heels to end a six-year absence from the Final Four, Smith said, "We may never get back to the Final Four. We would have to be very fortunate to make it there this year. We've exceeded my expectations already. Of course, mine were realistic."

IBF Still Says Tyson Is The Champion

The International Boxing Federation, which threatened to strip Tyson of their version of the heavyweight title, said Tuesday it still recognizes him as champion.

The IBF had said it would remove Tyson's title if he did not wear its belt into the ring in his championship defense Monday in Tokyo against Tony Tubbs. Instead, Tyson — who knocked down Tubbs in the second round — did not wear any belt into the ring.

His aides carried in the belts of the World Boxing Association and World Boxing Council.

"At this point, Mike Tyson is the heavyweight champion for the IBF," international vice president Jim Stevenson said in a telephone interview from Bangkok, Thailand. "He has not been stripped of his IBF title."

Stevenson said the case would be reviewed when IBF president Bob Lee, who was in Tokyo, and other officials return to this country on April 1.

The Japanese Boxing Commission does not recognize the IBF. Tyson said he would not wear the IBF belt because he did not want to embarrass the Japanese.

"We are not concerned about the IBF," Cayton said. "The signs are he will not be stripped."

Tyson also was unconcerned, saying that if he were stripped of the crown, "I'll win it back."

Steelers Decide Not To Sign QB Robinson

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Negotiations between former University of Tennessee quarterback Tony Robinson and the Pittsburgh Steelers have ended, a spokesman for the NFL club said.

Robinson, who was released from the Knox County Penal Farm on Feb. 26 after serving nine months on cocaine-related charges, took the team physical examination March 1 and 2.

"We no longer have an interest," said Steelers spokesman Joe Gordon. "We decided to go in a different direction."

Neal Geisinger, Robinson's agent, said he does not think the drug arrest was the deciding factor for the Steelers, whose starting quarterback, Mark Malone, suffered through a poor 1987 season.

"I'm not part of the Steelers, so I can't say what was in their minds," Geisinger said. "I just think Tony wasn't going to fit into their scheme of things."

"These teams have certain priorities, certain interests, and I can't answer for them. They have their own thoughts, their own philosophies," he said.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — If Arizona has the jitters, as point guard Steve Kerr says is the case, what must befall a team preparing for the second-ranked Wildcats and their seemingly unshakable point guard?

Iowa of the Big Ten is the next obstacle for an Arizona team that manhandled two previous NCAA Tournament opponents by an average of 34.5 points. The Wildcats slaughtered Cornell 90-50 in the first round and then ripped Seton Hall 84-55, overcoming what Kerr called a

Rose Downs Hunt, 2-1

WILSON — Rose, led by two goals from Lisa Leisten, defeated Wilson Hunt 2-1 for the first time in the school's history in high school girls' soccer action Tuesday.

Hunt had taken six straight from the Rampettes but this time Rose outshot the Lady Warriors 27-10 to take the win.

Susan Grimsley had six saves in the goal for Rose while Janine Flowers had nine saves for Hunt.

Hunt scored first on a breakaway by Staci Sharpe at the 10 minute mark of the first half and then 30 seconds later Leisten scored on a breakaway of her own.

In the second half, Leisten scored again at the 47:20 minute mark to take the win.

Rose moves to 1-0 on the year and returns to action Thursday at home against Northeastern.

feel good about winning a rematch on a neutral court.

"I thought Arizona played with a lot of poise at Carver-Hawkeye," Davis said. "They came in and did what you have to do to win on the road. They showed their experience even then."

Iowa, on the other hand, was trying to put together a team after losing four of the players who had helped guide the team to the region finals a year ago. The Hawkeyes looked every bit the experienced team, however, is eliminating Nevada-Las Vegas 104-86 last weekend.

"The thing I'm most pleased about is that from the team that was here in Seattle a year ago, we've lost four of the top eight players," Davis said. "That means some new people are in here doing this thing. To have them back (in the final 16) is a real tribute to our ballclub. You have to give credit to the seniors in particular."

Playing in the cavernous Kingdome shouldn't affect either team, although Iowa has the advantage of having played two NCAA games under the roof last year.

"Sometimes when you go into new arenas, especially one as huge as the Kingdome, the players tend to be looking around a little bit," Davis said.

"But on the other hand, Arizona has got a team that's been around. They're not a young team. They're a very experienced ballclub. I don't expect them to have trouble adjusting to the new surroundings or the officiating or any other changes because they're such a veteran ballclub."

case of nerves at the start of the game.

"We'll be nervous every game from here on out," said Kerr, whose play this season could best be described as nerveless. As the point man for Arizona's attack, Kerr goes head to head with defenses specially rigged to stop him, yet has committed the staggeringly low total of 34 turnovers in 35 games.

Based on Kerr's performance against Iowa last December, the Hawkeyes' pressure defense is in for a tough Friday evening at Seattle in the West Region semifinals. In 40 minutes of action, Kerr committed nary a turnover, and the Wildcats won 66-59 at Iowa City.

"That's how you win 33 games. That's how you get to be No. 1 in the country and so on, is having a good backcourt," Iowa Coach Tom Davis said. "You can't do it without a good backcourt."

Kerr, he said, has had a dozen no-turnover games this season, "and he is handling the ball. He just makes real good decisions with the basketball. The more talented your guard corps, the less you're going to worry about pressure defenses — or defenses of any kind, really."

Kerr thinks Iowa will have a lot of thoughts to sift through while awaiting the tipoff of Friday's game.

"I think we've got to be confident knowing we beat them on their home floor, on a night when we didn't play very well (42 percent shooting)," Kerr said. "I think they'll have the motivational revenge factor, but in the NCAAs there's no greater motivational factor than knowing if you lose you're out."

Arizona, Kerr added, has improved since that December game "because each individual player has improved his game since the beginning of the year."

Reserve center-forward Joe Turner "is rebounding better, (forward) Anthony (Cook) is shooting the turnaround jumper better, I'm shooting off the dribble better. Sean's just doing everything better."

Sean Elliott provides the inside complement to Kerr's outside play. Elliott averages a shade under 19 points and six rebounds a game while hitting 57 percent of his shots. With the All-American forward drawing defensive attention underneath, Kerr works free to bomb from long range, and no one does it better. He has converted 104 of 173 shots from 3-point range, a gaudy 60.1 shooting percentage, to average 12.6 points a game.

"We have to be very confident knowing we beat them and they have to be wondering a little bit," Kerr said, although he noted Iowa has "a lot of weapons" and figures to do better than the 35 percent shooting it managed against the Wildcats in December.

Kerr credits much of Arizona's success to Coach Lute Olson, who left a winning program at Iowa to rebuild one that lost 24 of 28 games in 1982.

"There are only a few that could do the kind of job Coach Olson's done," Kerr said. "It's a comforting feeling to know that we feel like we're going to win every game. It's a combination of good players, being well-prepared and well-coached."

Daniels' 2-Hitter Lifts Jaguars

HOLLYWOOD — Farmville Central's Alexander Daniels limited D.H. Conley to just two hits to help the Jaguars to a 5-2 non-conference high school baseball win Tuesday.

George Burnette led off the first for Farmville with a double and then scored on an error. Farmville then made it 2-0 with a run in the third when Mike Vandiford hit a solo home run.

Conley drew within 2-1 on a homer by Sherwood Wilder in the fourth but the Jaguars struck for another run in the fifth.

Daniels singled and was sacrificed to second by Burnette. Vandiford followed with another single. Monte King then walked to load the bases. Shea Terrell followed with a sacrifice fly which scored Daniels to make it 3-1.

Terrell followed that up with a two-run homer in the seventh that gave the Jaguars a 5-1 lead.

Conley tried to rally in the bottom of the final inning as Travis Clemons reach on an error with two outs and Derrick Credle followed with a walk. Kervin Vines singled to score Clemons and make it 5-2. But that was it as Wilder grounded out to first for the final out.

Farmville is 3-0 and return to action today against Washington at Farmville.

In the JV game, Conley topped Farmville, 3-2. Scott Brock was the winning pitcher for the Vikings in that game, striking out 14.

BETHEL — Roanoke took an early lead over North Pitt and never looked back as the Redskins took a 10-3 win over the Panthers Tuesday in high school baseball action.

Roanoke drew first blood as Bob Harris opened with a walk. Darrin Staton followed with a drive to left field and an error on the play allowed him to reach. Another error, this on the shortstop, allowed Mark Whitaker to reach and let Harris score. Two straight ground outs then drove in Staton for the second run.

North Pitt rallied to score one run in the bottom of the inning as Reggie Daniels walked and moved up on a stolen base. Johnny Sherrrod then doubled to drive in Daniels and make it 2-1.

Roanoke was led by Bob Harris who went 3-3 with a double. Whitaker, Kevin Raynor and Jesse Carlisle had two hits apiece.

Roanoke moves to 1-1 while North Pitt drops to 1-1.

VANCEBORO — Greene Central, trailing 2-0 going into the seventh inning, rallied to take a 7-2 baseball victory over West Craven in non-conference action Tuesday.

The Rams saw West Craven score single runs in the first and third innings.

But then, in the seventh, the Rams used an error to break into the scoring column. T.J. Johnson and Tommy Eason led off with singles and both scored when Cornelius Hill's grounder to short was thrown away. Shay Beaman walked and Ricky Freeman singled to score Hill with the go-ahead run.

Jeff Tyson then followed with a 3-run homer to pad the lead to 6-2. Chris Hooker kept it alive with a double, then scored the final run as Johnson reached on an error.

Johnson, Eason and Freeman each had two hits for Greene Central, while Monty Brown had a pair for the Eagles.

Now 3-0, Greene Central will be host to Rose High School on Friday at Snow Hill.

BEAR GRASS — North Edgecombe scored early and went on to take a 9-3 Tobacco Belt Conference baseball victory over hosting Bear Grass Tuesday afternoon.

The Warriors pushed over three runs in the top of the first to take the lead, but the Bears rallied for two in the bottom of the frame.

Sean Stalls led off the first for the Bears with a walk and Ray Rawls singled. Both stole up and Steve Cowan's grounder scored Stalls. A wild pitch then brought Rawls home.

North Edgecombe came up with three more in the third to put the game away with a 6-2 lead. Edwin Thornton walked and Antonio Williams doubled. Orlando Whitaker walked, loading the bases. Rodney Garrett's ground out scored Thornton and Marco Williams singled to drive in the other two.

Bear Grass scored once in the bottom of the inning, but got no more. North Edgecombe added three more in the fifth inning.

Marco Williams and Antonio Williams each had two hits to lead the Warriors while Donnie Peaks had two for Bear Grass.

The loss makes the Bears 0-1 on the year while North Edgecombe is 1-1 overall and 1-0 in TBC play. The CHOCOWINITY — Jamesville High School romped to a 15-5 baseball victory over Chocowinity Tuesday in Tobacco Belt Conference action.

The Bullets jumped into the lead with four runs in the top of the first. Chocowinity rallied for two in its half of the frame, however.

The Indians led off with Dale Cole drawing a walk. Jonathan Hawley then homered to cut the lead to 4-2.

But in the second inning, Jamesville put the game away with four more runs, taking an 8-2 lead. Ernie Gardner doubled and Jeff Phelps singled him in. Phelps stole second and took third on a passed ball. Craig Dickerson walked and stole up and both runners scored on Kelby Moore's double. Doug Jones then singled to drive in Moore.

Jamesville added one in the third and six in the fourth, including a two-run homer by Michael Cox. Chocowinity picked up two more in the second and one in the fifth.

Phelps led the Jamesville hitting with three while Gardner, Moore, Ernie Coltrain and Jones each had two. Keith Mills had a pair of hits to lead Chocowinity.

Chocowinity, now 0-1, travels to Bear Grass on Thursday.

KINSTON — Kinston pushed across three runs in the top of the seventh and held off Ayden-Grifton over the bottom of the inning to take a 9-6 win in a non-conference high school baseball game Tuesday.

Kinston went ahead 9-2 after pushing across three runs in the top of the final inning, but Ayden-Grifton put together a rally in the bottom of the seventh.

Steven Tucker and Darryl Moye led off the inning with consecutive singles. Billy Miller then struck out. On a double play attempt, Tucker was able to score and Frankie Swindell was able to reach. Ronnell Peterson then walked to load the bases before Gary Eubanks lined to centerfield to score Moye.

Ty Little then reached on an error and later scored on a wild pitch. Wayne Peacock followed with a walk to reload the bases and Peterson then scored on a wild pitch to make it 9-6, but that was as close as the Chargers would get.

Kinston was led by Brian Lang, who went 2-4 with two RBI.

Ayden-Grifton was led by Moye, who went 3-4 with a double. Peterson added two hits, one of them a home run. Eubanks also had two hits for the Chargers.

Kinston moves to 3-0 while Ayden-Grifton falls to 0-3.

NO NEED, SON. FOR ANOTHER $2,000 I'LL RATIONALIZE IT FOR YOU.

Nokes Was Sure Of Himself Even At A Very Young Age

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Young lives are full of milestones: dates, cars, games, graduations. But trying your shoes? What kind of milestone is that?

Well, if you were young Matt Nokes, growing up with two older brothers in San Diego, that was when you knew you'd be a baller.

"I intended to play baseball the whole time. I was good at 5, in my mind," Nokes said while opening fan in the Detroit Tigers clubhouse. "It might have been 4. What age do you learn to tie your shoes?"

"We'd play underhand with a tennis ball on our cul-de-sac and I'd hit home runs that even the bigger kids couldn't do. That was right after I learned to tie my shoes."

Well, sure, he took a brief fling at basketball in high school, but only because a friend asked him.

"I was a good outside shot. I could shoot the eye out of anything because I worked so hard," Nokes said. "I had to work hard because I didn't shoot one-handed until before my sophomore year."

An obvious quick study, Nokes helped Patrick Henry High win the city championship — in basketball and baseball — in his junior year. But baseball was always his game, and everybody knew it, even in elementary school.

"Kids in the school used to call me, 'Matt the Pro.' They'd kind of joke about it," Nokes said. "I saw some of those guys this winter. They'd say, 'Hey, Matt the Pro!'"

His brothers were three and eight years older than he was and there were a lot of older kids in their neighborhood.

"There was a lot of competition," Nokes said. "I always played with them."

His senior year, Nokes hit a school-record .429 and was picked 20th in the June 1981 draft by the San Francisco Giants.

"All I ever hit was singles," said Nokes, who last year hit 32 home runs for the Tigers, the first Detroit rookie to hit 30 since Rudy York in 1937. "I didn't get strong until the year after I graduated."

"I was thin. I only weighed 170 pounds. I was always playing baseball right after basketball season. I wasn't very strong. Every time the scout came down, I didn't do very well."

But Nokes never doubted he would be drafted. After his mother died when he was a ninth-grader, Nokes became a big believer in positive thinking. He was voted "Most Changed Personality" by high school friends who remembered him as shy and quiet in his earlier days.

"I went from quiet to a very, very happy person because of strong religious beliefs I developed after my mother died," Nokes said. "At that point, I became a better baseball player."

He also developed a playful sense of humor and the ability to laugh at himself. He still grins when he recalls some of his misadventures after the Giants called him up late in the 1985 season.

Eric Show's Time For Show, Dawson

By The Associated Press
This time, Eric Show didn't hit Andre Dawson. Andre Dawson didn't hit Eric Show, either.

Dawson, the National League MVP for 1987, batted against Show for the first time Tuesday since the San Diego right-hander hit him in the face with a pitch last July 7.

"That's in the past," Dawson said of the pitch that cut his mouth and triggered a bench-clearing brawl. "The press is the one that keeps it alive. It's over with. It's history. It was buried a long time ago."

have never, ever even thought about it."

The Padres also said that major-league batting champ Tony Gwynn will play Sunday for the first time since undergoing finger surgery March 11.

"He's been hitting and he hasn't had any swelling or anything," Manager Larry Bowa said.

Meanwhile, both the Toronto Blue Jays and New York Yankees denied published reports that they had talked about a trade of George Bell for Dave Winfield.

"There's no truth to the George Bell-Dave Winfield trade talks," Toronto General Manager Pat Gillick said. "We're not going to trade George Bell."

After grounding out, reaching on an error and walking in the Padres' 5-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs, Dawson said batting against Show was "just like any other pitcher."

Show had a fine outing, allowing one run and two hits in six innings, although he walked six.

After hitting Dawson last year, Show said it was an accident. The pitcher describes himself as one of Dawson's biggest fans.

"I've always liked his mannerisms. I've been a fan of his," Show said. "But I'm not going to maintain a pseudo-macho facade about this. I regret that it happened. I wish I had that pitch back."

"I was just trying to throw a strike on the inside part of the plate. In all my years, I've never known anybody who would deliberately throw at somebody, especially in the head. I

Red Sox 10, Tigers 4
Ed Romero had a double and three singles, rookie Jody Reed had a double and two singles and Mike Greenwell had his first spring homer in Boston's 19-hit attack. Bruce Hurst became the first Boston pitcher to go six innings, blanking the Tigers on two hits until he was tagged for three runs in the sixth.

Twins 6, White Sox 0
Steve Carlton pitched four innings of scoreless relief and Kirby Puckett and Gary Gaetti hit consecutive first-inning homers off Dave LaPoint. Carlton allowed four hits, walked three and struck out one.

Rangers 3, Cardinals 1
Bobby Witt pitched six hitless innings and Curtis Wilkerson hit a two-run triple. Witt walked seven and struck out six before Craig McMurry gave up a home run to Mike Liga in the eighth.

Giants 10, Mariners 6
Consecutive bases-loaded walks to Alan Cockrell and Harry Spilman produced two runs and Will Clark singled home two more as San Francisco scored four times in the 10th inning. Joel Youngblood homered for San Francisco and Mike Kingery connected for Seattle.

Mets 4, Astros 2
Lee Mazzilli hit a two-run bloop single off Nolan Ryan and Ron Darling pitched six innings, allowing both Houston runs, including Mark Bailey's solo homer.

Dodgers 3, Reds 2
RBI singles by Mike Devereaux and Pedro Guerrero paced Los Angeles while Tim Leary gave up seven hits and two runs in 5 2-3 innings. Leary has allowed three earned runs in 21 2-3 innings for a 1.25 ERA.

Braves 6, Orioles 5
Dale Murphy drove in a pair of runs with a seventh-inning single and Bruce Sutter picked up the victory with one scoreless inning of relief. Sutter, making his second appearance of the spring after being sidelined for nearly two years because of three operations on his arm, pitched a hitless seventh inning, striking out one and hitting another.

Royals 5, Pirates 3
Third baseman Mackey Sasser's throwing error on Brad Wellman's grounder enabled Bill Pecota to score the winning run in the 10th inning. Kansas City added another run on a pinch single by Ed Hearn. Bo

Indians 2, Brewers 1
Julio Franco doubled home two runs and Greg Swindell pitched six shutout innings, allowing four hits, striking out four and walking three.

Angels 6, Athletics 6
Jack Howell singled home the tying run and scored on Dick Schofield's single in the fifth inning. Chili Davis had three hits and Devon White had two RBIs as the Angels pounded Oakland's Curt Young for 12 hits and eight runs in five-plus innings.

Williamston 14
Washington 1
WILLIAMSTON — Williamston used a seven-run first inning to take early control of its game against Washington en route to a 14-1 victory Tuesday in a high school softball game.

In the first, Valerie Peele, Kristy Barber and Susan Forehand opened the inning with consecutive singles. Myra Brown then drove in Peele. Dana Hardison then hit a grand slam clearing the bases and making it 5-0.

Keisha Moore and Lynn Cowan followed with singles. Kim Hawkins then doubled them in to complete the scoring for the inning.

Hawkins had three hits and drove in three runs for Williamston. Barber, Forehand, Brown, Moore, Cowan, Karen Biggs and Hadison had two hits apiece for the Lady Tigers.

Williamston moves to 2-0 and returns to action Thursday at Ahsokie.

North Pitt 10

BETHEL — Roanoke came from behind to take a 14-10 win over North Pitt in high school softball action Tuesday.

North Pitt moved out to an early 8-1 lead before Roanoke rallied in the fifth and sixth innings to tie the game.

North Pitt jumped on top early. Keisha Pilgreen started things off with a single. Tonya Clemons added another single and then Gwen Pilgreen singled Keisha Pilgreen home to make it 1-0.

Maggie Blount drove in Clemons with a single of her own to make it 2-0. Shenita Witherspoon reached on an error to put runners on the corners. Pam Peller followed reaching on a fielder's choice which put out Pilgreen. Sebrina Baker then singled in Blount to make it 3-0. After another out, Donna Leggett singled to drive in Witherspoon to make it 4-0.

In the second inning, North Pitt added to its lead, scoring four runs to take a 8-1 lead. Keisha Pilgreen keyed the inning with a solo home run.

But the Lady Redskins pushed across one run in the fourth and three more in both the fifth and sixth innings to tie the game at 8-8. They then scored six runs in the top of the seventh to take a 14-8 lead.

North Pitt struck for two runs in the bottom of the seventh but that was as close as the Pant-Hers would get.

Keisha Pilgreen went 5-5 to lead North Pitt. Witherspoon added a 3-4 performance for the Pant-Hers, who fall to 0-2 and return to action Thursday at Rosewood.

Roanoke moves to 3-0 on the year and returns to action Friday at Roanoke Rapids.

Conley 18
Farmville C. 3
HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley used a nine-run first inning to jump on top of Farmville Central early en route to an 18-3 win Tuesday in high school softball action.

Farmville opened the game with three runs in the top of the first but the lead was shortlived for the Lady Jaguars as Conley came right back to take a 9-3 lead.

Conley then added another run in the second, two more in the fourth and three each in both the fifth and the sixth to close out the scoring.

Tabitha Dalton had two hits, including a home run in the fourth inning to key the Valkyries. Miriam Fulford, Nikki Adams, Gail Cash and Lori Powell also each had two hits.

Conley moves to 3-0 and returns to action Friday at Ayden-Grifton.

BEAR GRASS — North Edgecombe High School handed Bear Grass a 13-7 defeat in the opening game of the Tobacco Belt Conference softball season Tuesday.

It was the first game of the year for the Lady Bears.

Bear Grass took the initial lead, scoring three times in the first inning. North Edgecombe came back with one in the third, then scored eight times in the fourth inning to take a 9-3 lead. North Edgecombe banded out seven singles and added four walks during the inning.

The Lady Warriors added three more in the fifth and one in the sixth.

Horoscope

From The Carroll Righter Institute

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY March 24

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Don't let an out-of-town matter keep you from following through with plans you have already made. Enjoy the company of your friends tonight.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Use special care in handling financial and property matters today, and enjoy a relaxing hobby with some of your friends tonight.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Study the position of an associate before making any changes. If reason is used on both sides, the situation could be saved.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Don't try to push a co-worker into making an unnecessarily quick decision. Don't allow any delays to upset you today.
LEO (July 22 to August 21): You may be disappointed by a friend today, but tonight should be a very romantic time for you. Be sure to drive with great care this evening.
VIRGO (August 22 to September 22): Forget your home worries for a while, and be with friends who are cheerful and will lift your spirits. Show more affection for your mate.
LIBRA (September 23 to October 22): Plan your schedule this morning so you will have time to handle both personal and business affairs. Tonight is a good time for entertaining.
SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21): If you expect others to keep their promises to you, be sure to do the same for them. You can make a valuable new friend today.
SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21): Don't allow an acquaintance to deter your progress in business, but be tactful with this person. Have a romantic evening with your mate.
CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20): Your work may seem endless today, but persevere and get it done. A sensitive friend can make your evening happy and constructive.
AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19): This is a good day to give your full attention to your work, so delay that amusement you have planned. Clear up a spat with a co-worker.
PISCES (February 20 to March 20): Get out into the world early today and accomplish a great deal. This will help you to forget about that annoying situation at home for now.

The bidding:
 North East South West
 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♣ 2
 2 ♠ 3 4 ♣ Pass
 Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of diamonds. What's your best chance for your contract?
 The interesting bid in the auction is South's jump to four spades. It was predicated on his secondary fit for his partner's suit, his shortness in the opponents' suit and the fact that a bid of just three spades, in this sequence, could have been construed by his partner as merely an attempt to compete.
 After a diamond lead and continuation, you are faced with two more sure losers—the ace of trumps and at least a club. You have to assume that the heart finesse will succeed, and your problem is to take a second club loser.
 One way to go about the hand is to drive out the ace of trumps, then try to guess whether an opponent has a doubleton club honor. If you think it's West, lead a low club toward dummy, forcing West to win his honor; then finesse East for the other honor. If East, finesse the ten of clubs, then cash the ace to drop East's honor.

 The correct line is to add another string to your bow. Ruff the second diamond, take the heart finesse, cash the ace of hearts and ruff a heart. Now lead a trump. If either defender has a singleton ace of spades, he is endplayed. If West wins, his forced club return (any red suit gives you a ruff-and-sluff) limits your losers in the suit to one automatically. If East wins, simply play low on his club return. West can win the trick, but he is again trapped in the web you have woven. Well done.

Mr. W. W. (Billy) Brown

February 12, 1913 - March 23, 1987

We at Brown and Wood would like to pay tribute to a man who taught us about the automobile business - a man who knew that people had feelings and who also knew how to satisfy their needs. That man was Mr. W.W. (Billy) Brown, and Mr. Brown felt very strongly that customer satisfaction was the single most important aspect of any business, especially his own.

Mr. Brown was in the transportation business for over fifty years and, while no longer with us, he is responsible for Brown and Wood's success today.

We at Brown and Wood want our present and future customers to know that we fully intend to continue to conduct business in the same manner as Mr. Brown; with you, the customer being our main priority.

Brown and Wood has suffered a great loss, but having had Mr. Brown as a teacher, we will continue on. He may no longer be present, but he will always be in our hearts.

Presented in loving memory by the employees and staff of

BROWN & WOOD

Mitterrand To Seek New Term In Office

PARIS (AP) — Ending months of speculation, President Francois Mitterrand announced he will seek a second seven-year term.

The 71-year-old Socialist made the announcement Tuesday, only four weeks before voters go to the polls.

Before he entered the race, opinion polls put Mitterrand in the lead for the two-stage election that begins April 24.

Mitterrand appeared on Tuesday on the nationwide evening newscast of state-owned Antenne 2 television. When asked if he would run, he paused dramatically, clearly relishing the moment, and answered: "Oui."

In reply to follow-up questions, the president said he decided to run because he thinks disunity threatens "to tear the social fabric" of France.

"I saw a risk that the country might fall again into the quarrels and divisions that have hampered it so often. I want France to be united ... not be taken in hand by the spirit of intolerance, by parties who want everything, by clans, by cliques," he said.

As soon as Mitterrand declared, Michel Rocard, until now the Socialist Party's only candidate, withdrew and gave his full support to the incumbent.

The main conservative candidates, Premier Jacques Chirac and former Premier Raymond Barre, had criticized Mitterrand for being coy and cutting short the democratic debate.

Mitterrand justified his silence by saying that with the premier campaigning, it was up to the president to look after the nation's affairs in a non-partisan way.

The conservatives hope to end "cohabitation," which was created when they ousted the Socialists from control of the National Assembly in March 1986 but were left with a Socialist president with two years to go in his term.

The president is chief of state and has major duties in defense and foreign affairs. He appoints a prime minister who must be backed by a majority of the National Assembly. The premier then names his Cabinet and runs the government.

Mitterrand said Tuesday that after watching the campaign, he feared opposing candidates were bringing on France disputes that threatened to damage the country.

"We need social peace," he said. "Someone has to face up to this, and I shall do it."

National polls consistently have placed Mitterrand ahead of Barre and Chirac in a campaign that has been more a contest of styles than policies.

A poll published in the Journal du Dimanche newspaper Sunday indicated 55 percent of the 1,813 people polled were satisfied with Mitterrand. Forty-eight percent were satisfied with Chirac as premier. Another recent poll, however, indicated 30 percent of those queried were undecided.

Mitterrand told the TV audience Tuesday night that he would pursue the programs and policies of the last seven years.

Soviet Union Steps Up Drive On Ethnic Unrest

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has increased official pressure on Armenia and Azerbaijan to halt ethnic unrest that has left at least 32 people dead.

The Tass news agency said the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the Russian federation, the nation's largest republic, and equivalent bodies in the Ukraine, Byelorussia, Georgia and Uzbekistan called on the national parliament to take firm action to end the tension.

The moves came amid increasingly negative coverage in the official press of Armenian demands to annex the predominantly Armenian Nagorno-Karabakh region, which is part of neighboring Azerbaijan and the reported arrest of a leading Armenian nationalist.

Tamara Grigoryants, wife of Armenian-born dissident Sergei Grigoryants, said in an interview that Paryur Arikyan was arrested Tuesday evening by three policemen in central Moscow after meeting with a Western journalist.

She said Arikyan was accused of crossing the street illegally, and that he informed her of his arrest by calling from a pay telephone as the policemen stood by. Arikyan said Saturday he had traveled clandestinely to Moscow after his passport was confiscated in Armenia.

The government newspaper Izvestia on Tuesday criticized Armenian activists who it said gathered almost 4,000 people for a meeting in Yerevan on March 19 to devise strategy to press their demands.

On Monday the Communist Party newspaper Pravda charged the Armenians' campaign has a "clear anti-socialist spirit."

Ethnic rioting broke out in Sumgait, a Azerbaijani city, after Armenians began protesting last month for annexation of Nagorno-Karabakh. Officials say 32 people were killed, but Armenian activists say the death toll was much higher and that most of the dead were Armenians killed by Azerbaijanis.

The Russian federation expressed "concern and alarm" over the ethnic unrest and asked the Presidium of the national Supreme Soviet, the country's nominal parliament, to "adopt resolute measures aimed at ... uniting in all ways the Soviet peoples."

The Soviet constitution says little about the rights of autonomous regions such as Nagorno-Karabakh, but says the territory of a republic such as Azerbaijan or Armenia may not be changed without its consent. That means Azerbaijan would have to approve the annexation of Nagorno-Karabakh to Armenia.

She's Mother To 72 Children

Foster Mom's Brood Include Those With Handicaps, Those Who Erred

By RON COLQUITT
The Mobile Press Register
MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Some had trouble with the law, some were runaways or children with health problems whose parents couldn't cope, but Lorraine Buraige loved them all.
Since 1971, she has cared for 72 foster children in Mobile.
Her day begins at 5:30 a.m.
"First I have to bathe and dress them. All of the handicapped kids wear diapers. My kids and the two that aren't handicapped help," Mrs. Buraige said.

Currently, she has two children of her own and six foster children. Four of the foster children are mentally and physically handicapped. They range in age from 6 to 15.

She feeds two of the children through tubes in the morning. "They have to be fed like that four times a day," she said. "One has trouble swallowing liquids and the other chokes if he tries to swallow food."
After she sends them off to school, she pauses for a cup of coffee.
"I'm tired when it's over. I've had to bathe and dress four of them and just rush, rush, rush."
"I then wash clothes and clean the house. If I have to go to the store, I go to the store. I'm wore out when the day's done, I really am."

Mrs. Buraige's day is never really done.

Her husband died in 1983 after they had been married 19 years.
Her foster children over the last 17 years have ranged in age from three days to 19 years.
Some have come to her from juvenile detention centers or orphanages. "They were children that had gotten in trouble with the law, had run away from home or their parents couldn't control them," she recalled.
Mrs. Buraige, 44, said she's constantly hoping for miracles to save the lives of some of the children she's nurtured. Two with the most severe handicaps appear alert, but they haven't shown progress since they arrived in her home.
"They love to be outside. They laugh and they like for you to hug and kiss them," she said. One has cerebral palsy and is brain damaged, another also has cerebral palsy.

When she takes them outdoors, some people stare, she said. "That gets to me and I cry sometimes. To me they are beautiful. They aren't the most attractive children in the world, but to me they are beautiful."
Four of the children are confined to wheelchairs, and the two requiring tube-feeding take nourishment through a tube in their stomachs.
"I don't know what I would do if I was by myself all day, every day," Mrs. Buraige said. "It gives me something to do and something to look forward to every day — it makes me feel useful, it really does."

LOVES THEM ALL — Lorraine Buraige of Mobile, Ala., talks to one of her handicapped foster children during a stroll in the sun. Since 1971, she has cared for 72 foster children, many of them children with handicaps too great for their parents to cope with, others who have encountered problems with the courts. She has two children of her own. Of the six foster children currently in her care, four are mentally and physically handicapped. (AP Laserphoto)

M*A*S*H Still Ranks At The Top

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nielsen's latest computation of the 50 top-rated TV shows of all time has the 1983 final episode of "M-A-S-H" still No. 1 with its 60.2 rating and 77 share.
The rating is a percentage of all homes with televisions. The share is a percentage of sets in use.
The "Who Shot J.R.?" episode of "Dallas" from 1980 is still second with a rating of 53.3. The only show from this season — the numbers are computed through the first week of March — is January's Super Bowl XXII, ranked 46th.

American Ambassador Finds His Place In West Germany's Media

By KEVIN COSTELLOE
Associated Press Writer
BONN, West Germany (AP) — Richard Burt has been a guest on a hit TV variety show, sung with a West Berlin rock group, sold potato pancakes on Bonn's main square, and gets his name and picture in the papers.

That may not be unusual for a celebrity, but it is for an ambassador.
It's a "fantastic opportunity," says U.S. Ambassador Burt, to reach 20 million ordinary West Germans.
Since taking up his post here in September 1985, Burt has become a regular fixture in West Germany's news media and on television.
News stories about him range from the birth of his son Christopher last year to his constant efforts to present the Reagan administration's message.
"The public affairs dimension of diplomacy is growing more important," the 41-year-old diplomat, a former New York Times reporter, said in an interview with The Associated Press in his Bonn office.
Burt made it clear he feels that reaching out to ordinary West Germans is a major part of his job.
"In a democratic country you have, in a way, two constituencies, one the government which you are accredited to, but secondly you have public opinion which has an impact on the government."
"There's been a certain interest in a younger ambassador," Burt said. "To some extent I think I've taken advantage of that interest to try to project a fun, open-minded, dynamic image of the United States."
At the age of 38, he became the youngest U.S. ambassador in West German history. He took over the post from Arthur Burns, who was then 81 and known for his reserved, formal ways.
Burt said he's made a special effort to "win over" West Germany's young people, tens of thousands of whom took to the streets in 1983 to protest the installation of U.S. missiles in the country.
"They don't remember CARE

Young Diplomat Says It's All Part Of His Job

packages, the Marshall Plan and the Berlin Airlift," Burt said, referring to vital U.S. postwar relief and aid programs. "They remember Vietnam."
Among Burt's most heavily publicized exploits was his singing stint with the West Berlin rock group at a recording studio in January 1986.
Articles and pictures filled West German newspapers afterward.
"That was not sought after," he said. "I was a little bit naive at that point."
This past Nov. 28, Burt appeared on a television stunt and variety show called "Wetten, Dass" (Will You Bet That...).
The superstar moderator, Thomas Gottschalk, asked Burt: "Can you imagine that one day you won't just be called 'your excellence,' but also Mr. President — and I can still call you Rick?"
Speaking in slow, halting German, Burt responded with a smile: "I will be president when you are the federal chancellor (West Germany's leader)."
Asked in the interview about that appearance, Burt replied: "Here's 20 million people who are never going to get a chance to meet an American ambassador." He was, he said, a "fantastic opportunity to project a positive image."
Burt lost his bet on a stunt on the Saturday night show. So, three weeks later, as agreed before the TV audience, he went Bonn's main square and sold potato pancakes in a pouring rain to raise money for charity.
Sometimes, Burt's pronouncements, especially on U.S. foreign policy, have brought criticism from West Germans.
In a full-page guest essay printed in the influential magazine Der is freed from the burden of the stationing of nuclear arms. 'I don't.'

Bahr continued: "The family that lives near the border with the German Democratic Republic (East Germany) during any conflict runs an incomparably bigger risk than a family in Iowa."
During the interview, Burt was asked whether he looked forward to overseeing the removal of the intermediate-range nuclear missiles from West Germany after ratification of the U.S.-Soviet missile accord.
Burt responded with a laugh and said: "It's an interesting question because before coming to Germany, when I was assistant secretary of state for Europe, I worked very, very hard to put them in. So I haven't really focused on taking them out."

LIFE AFTER 'Hee Haw' — After 18 years on the country cornball program "Hee Haw," Jim, left, and Jon Hager have been performing at fairs, rodeos and resorts. They have even performed on ocean cruises and appeared on a made-for-television movie. (AP Laserphoto)

The Hager Twins Live On 2 Years After 'Hee Haw'

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Hager Twins no longer stand in the "Hee Haw" cornfields or get smacked from the rear by a swinging board fence. The brothers, who often gave viewers double vision, are off the cornball program after 18 years. They left the syndicated show two seasons ago, and in their appearances across the country, they still tell jokes in the finest "Hee Haw" tradition.

What do you get when you jump in front of a car? "Tire" d.

What do you get when you jump behind a car? "Exhaust" ed.

Where do you take old melons and cantaloupes? To John Cougar's mellow camp.

Last year they performed for about three months in the Smoky Mountain resort town of Gatlinburg, Tenn., where Jim and Tammy Bakker lived briefly after leaving the PTL ministry. Never one to miss an opportunity, the Hagers came up with some humor about the former evangelists.

Did you hear about Jim and Tammy Bakker's new magazine? RePen-thouse.

"I think we drove them out of town," recalled Jon Hager, the older of the twins by 20 minutes.

The two perform on cruises, at rodeos, benefits, exhibitions and state and county fairs. They frequently appear on The Nashville Network on cable TV, do TV commercials and are now putting songs together for an album.

They appeared in the ABC-TV movie, "Twin Detectives," about 10 years ago. In the works now is a 30-minute situation comedy-variety show tentatively called "Doubles."

"We're different, being twins," Jim Hager said. "We can tell a joke pretty good, I guess."

The two will always be known for their singing and skits on "Hee Haw." They were original cast members, dating back to the first show in 1968.

"America grew up watching us," Jon Hager said in an interview as Jim sat alongside. "We'll always be associated with the show."

The two were born in the Chicago area and adopted at age 3 by a Methodist minister. They've been together all their lives except for 3½ years when Jon left Los Angeles and moved to Nashville. Jim remained on the West Coast, but finally followed.

"We get along; it's more profitable," Jon said.

"To go along, we've got to get along," Jim said.

The two, who are also guitarists and drummers, had worked with country star Buck Owens and used his connection to join "Hee Haw" when Owens signed as the show's co-host with Roy Clark.

"We auditioned and signed a contract that day," Jon recalled.

They remained on the show until two seasons ago when a contract dispute arose and they decided to concentrate on other projects.

"It gave us national exposure and made us a lot of friends," Jon said.

"The pay was not that good but we got $1 million in exposure. It kept us off the street for a long time. The police knew where we were."

"Hee Haw" made country music. It brought country music into city homes," he said.

The Hagers are not the only familiar faces gone from the show. Owens left at the same time they did, saying he wanted to focus on his business interests. Mainstays Junior Samples, Archie Campbell and Kenny Price all have died in recent years.

But the program continues to showcase the major names in country music, from such pioneers as Roy Acuff to emerging stars such as Randy Travis.

And the cornpone humor remains.

"They're not all platinum," Jim Hager said. "The writers count on the person delivering the line to pull it off. It was cornball, no denying it."

He said about the success of the show, "People laughed at themselves. They liked the chemistry on the show and the fast pace."

In their personal appearances, the two perform country hits such as Kenny Rogers' "Daytime Friends," Eddie Rabbitt's "Driving My Life Away" and Charley Pride's "Kiss an Angel Good Morning."

'Heartbeat,' New Prime-Time Soap, Opens On ABC Tonight

By KATHRYN BAKER
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Because shows such as "Dynasty" must tiptoe around sex talk, Aaron Spelling Productions has set its new ABC show "Heartbeat" in a women's clinic, where it can be right out in the open, couched in the glow of healthy openness.

Oh, please, "St. Elsewhere," come back!

Tonight's two-hour premiere features difficult childbirths, artificial insemination and numerous gynecological exams. To start off, there's an emergency birth that requires forceps and incisions.

Oh, honey, bring in the potato chips!

Kate Mulgrew plays hapless, overworked Dr. Joanne Springsteen, who founded the clinic with Dr. Eve Autry (Laura Johnson, who is married to Harry Hamlin of "L.A. Law"). Ben Masters plays Dr. Leo Rosetti, a pediatrician and object of Joanne's lust.

Ray Baker is psychologist Stan Gorshalk, who counsels the hospital's patients in matters psycho-sexual. In tonight's episode, he confides to another doctor that he and his wife haven't had sex in nine weeks. And the cobbler's children have no shoes.

The show wants to offer up-to-date health information, like tonight's debate over mastectomy vs. lumpectomy in cases of breast cancer. Women's fears are unlikely to be assuaged by Gorshalk's argument that patient Wendy (Kathleen Wilhoite) should be encouraged to face the fact that she very well might die. That should have 'em flocking in for mammograms.

Meanwhile, a couple who can't conceive are advised by the leering "fertility specialist" (Darrell Larson) to go for artificial insemination. After the procedure — yes, we get to be there — the nurse practitioner (Gail Strickland) gently suggests orgasm aids in successful implantation, and leaves the woman in a darkened examination room alone.

In between trying to hit the sheets with Leo, Joanne contends with a friend who's pursuing a career and can't be bothered with an "incompetent cervix," meaning the baby will be born prematurely if she walks around too much. Joanne saves the day by borrowing a newborn from the nursery to convince the expectant mom she should stay in bed at least until the baby can be safely delivered after the next commercial.

Meanwhile, Eve confronts Wendy's sexist family doctor, who thinks Wendy ought to have a radical mastectomy instead of a lumpectomy. What good is a breast, anyway, says the doc? It's "just a piece of fat." Huffs glamorous Eve in her spandex dress, "So are some of your body parts. Would you like to chop them off and replace them with silly putty?"

Some bad taste seems unintentional. Dr. Cory Banks (Lynn Whitfield) is in a crisis because her husband is off on a building job in Mexico, causing her to remark, "Sometimes I wish that whole construction project would get swallowed up in an earthquake."

With any luck, "Heartbeat" will get swallowed up by bad ratings.

Glasnost Produces Changes For Soviet Music

By JOSEPH MCLELLAN
L.A. Times-Washington Post
News Service

WASHINGTON — Whatever signs of glasnost may be appearing in the Kremlin, in Afghanistan or in the columns of Pravda, the musical ramifications have been significant and remarkably numerous in the last year.

For an explanation, we may turn to composer Rodion Shchedrin, secretary of the Composers' Union and one of the most powerful musicians in the U.S.S.R.

"It is possible to see results much more quickly in music than in military or economic activities," Shchedrin said during a recent visit to Washington. "Artists are able to adapt more easily to changing conditions — and, of course, we have been hoping for such changes, expecting such changes, for a long time."

Shchedrin's chief business in the United States on this visit is in Boston, where the three-week "Making Music Together" festival of Russian music is in high gear. This festival, which involves 250 Soviet artists and more than 100 American premieres of Soviet musical compositions and ballets.

There have been a few tentative efforts in the last couple of years — tours by the Bolshoi and Kirov ballets, a Leningrad orchestra, even a handful of Soviet comedians — but nothing on the scope of this festival, which involves 250 Soviet artists and more than 100 American premieres of Soviet musical compositions and ballets.

At the opening ceremony Soviet Ambassador Yuri Dubinin hailed the festival as "a new chapter, a new page" in U.S.-Soviet relations.

Much of the festival is devoted to Shchedrin's work and that of his wife, ballerina-choreographer Maya Plisetskaya, though a dozen Soviet composers are involved as well as dancers, singers and instrumentalists, folk music and dance ensembles, actors and mimes.

One of the quietly spectacular surprises of the festival will be seen next Sunday, when Mikhail Baryshnikov dances on the same stage as members of the Bolshoi Ballet in a special "Homage a Plisetskaya" that sold out quickly at ticket prices ranging from $25 to $100.

It is not certain whether Baryshnikov will go to Russia when the festival shifts to Moscow and Leningrad next year, but festival director Sarah Caldwell said it was "not very difficult" to persuade him to participate in the Plisetskaya gala. Anyone who has seen "White Nights" knows how revolutionary that quiet statement is.

During the last year, gestures of glasnost have been particularly visible in Washington — not only because it is the capital of the United States, but because it is the musical headquarters of cellist and conductor Mstislav Rostropovich. With Baryshnikov and Alexander Solzhenitsyn, Rostropovich is one of the more prominent names on the long, distinguished list of Russian artists in exile.

Some of the most significant musical gestures seem aimed at winning Rostropovich's blessing for the new Soviet policies. That blessing has not yet been given, at least not formally and publicly. A cautious "it is too early to say" has been the typical Rostropovich reaction when he is asked for an opinion on the reforms of Mikhail Gorbachev.

He has been even less willing to discuss the persistent rumors that he has been invited to return to the Soviet Union. But it is no secret that one of his ambitions is to return to his homeland on a tour leading his American orchestra. Last year he expressed this aspiration in his own colorful way: "If possible, someday I would like to bring the National Symphony to Moscow and show them how to play Russian music."

It begins to look possible. For his first eight or 10 years as music director of the National Symphony Orchestra, that dream seemed out of the question. Not only had Rostropovich, his wife, soprano Galina Vishnevskaya, and their two daughters been driven out of the Soviet Union; their citizenship had been revoked and their names removed from the reference books.

They had become nonpersons. The Soviet government's vindictiveness was so thorough that Rostropovich's sister Veronika, a violinist with the Moscow Philharmonic, was forbidden to travel with the orchestra for fear that she might visit her brother.

He had seen her in Brussels in 1976 when the Philharmonic played there. His citizenship and her right to travel were both revoked in 1979. That situation changed almost exactly a year ago. When Rostropovich celebrated his 60th birthday — in Washington on March 27 last year — Veronika was here with him.

She was given a visa that allowed her to spend more than two months in the West, and she joined her brother in an intercontinental birthday celebration that globe-trotted through Washington, New York, Paris, Italy and Japan.

For this unusual largess, Rostropovich's thanks to the Soviet Union were polite and formal; to President and Mrs. Reagan, who asked Gorbachev for Veronika's visa, his expressions of gratitude were effusive.

Evidently, in Rostropovich's mind, Gorbachev was on probation. He probably still is, but he seems to be making progress. Rostropovich and Vishnevskaya flew in from Europe last December on an overnight trip to attend the state reception for Gorbachev at the White House.

A second approach to Rostropovich was the event that brought Rodion Shchedrin to Washington before he went on to the festival in Boston. In February, without any advance notice, a new piece of music reached the National Symphony from the Soviet Union. It was Shchedrin's "Stykhir" ("Liturgical Hymn"), a 14-minute orchestral work composed specifically for Rostropovich and the NSO to commemorate "the millennium of the baptism of Russia."

Once he recovered from his surprise (this was the first work composed for him by a major Soviet composer since 1974), Rostropovich quickly revised the NSO's schedule and the world premiere of "Stykhir" was given on March 3. Shchedrin attended a repeat performance on March 8, where he was warmly applauded by the audience and subjected to bone-crushing hugs by Rostropovich.

Backstage after the performance, Shchedrin said that it would have been "very complicated" to write music for Rostropovich a few years ago, but "so many wonderful things have happened in my country in the last two years." Actually, the change has been underway longer than that, though it has accelerated dramatically since Gorbachev came to power.

"Dead Souls," the opera by Shchedrin that had its American premiere at the "Making Music Together" festival, would have been textually and musically unthinkable during the reign of Stalin.

The opera is based on the Gogol novel about a plausible con man and his variously vengeful, greedy, paranoid or eccentric victims, and it takes place in Czarist times. But it presents a picture of Russian society that would not have been allowed under the enforced cheerfulness that Stalin imposed on artists under the name of "socialist realism."

Polly Bergen Leads TV Revenge Plotters

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Polly Bergen says her two most recent roles, as Rhoda in "War and Remembrance" and as Vivian in the ABC movie "Addicted to His Love," represent the extremes of her personality.

She reprises her role as Rhoda in ABC's 30-hour miniseries "War and Remembrance," the sequel to "The Winds of War." It will be broadcast next season on ABC.

"Addicted to His Love," a movie in which a group of women swindled by a romantic con artist seek revenge, will appear on ABC next Monday.

"I loved playing Rhoda," Bergen said. "I loved her in all her weaknesses and shallowness. I understood her and cared about her."

"That's why I like Vivian so much. She's so strong. She sets up the scam to take care of the jerk who ripped them off. The funny thing is that Vivian and Rhoda are the two extremes of me. People see me as having all the strength of Vivian, but I'm really as frightened as Rhoda. But I guess I'm closer to Vivian."

When Bergen signed for the movie it was called "Sisterhood." At one time it was called "Sweet Vengeance." She had a few choice, but unprintable, words about the new title.

"It was a good part but only a moderate script when I signed," she said. "The day I arrived to begin work the script had been drastically improved. As we went along there was more rewriting and it got better and better. That's why I think we got such good people."

The movie also stars Barry Bostwick as the con artist, Erin Gray, Linda Purl and Dee Wallace Stone as his other victims and Colleen Camp as a woman who helps them in their plot. Arthur Allan Seidelman directed from a screenplay by Ronni Simon and Richard Alfieri.

"It's not a comedy, but there's a lot of comedy in it," said Bergen. "My biggest scene is very moving, heartbreaking, but the rest of my appearances are fun. It becomes a game to get him."

"I'm the oldest and wealthiest of the women. I play a widow who's lonely and vulnerable, and she fell for this very slick man. When it's over it very nearly destroys my belief in myself as a woman. So I have an enormous anger and have to make a decision. I have to expose myself and my pride to get this done."

In "War and Remembrance," she returned to her role as the wife of Pug Henry (Robert Mitchum), the naval officer who observes much of the war effort in the books by Herman Wouk. Rhoda has an affair with the scientist played by Peter Graves.

"I had total sympathy for her," Bergen said. "She had built her life around her husband. All she ever wanted was a little appreciation and affection. When she no longer got it from him, she turned elsewhere. She was shallow, but she had always been there for her husband and family."

After four years with the role, playing it, rehearsing it, learning lines, and preparing for it, she was very sad to finally take her leave of Rhoda.

"The last day was very traumatic," she said. "It was like walking away from a part of myself. I had grown very close to her."

Bergen said she is currently considering two theatrical movie scripts and two scripts for TV comedies.

"The trouble is 90 percent of the scripts for the new season have characters whose oldest age is 22," said. "I'm not 22. I've run companies for more than 20 years. I'm a bright woman. I look at TV's highest-rated shows. They're not about kids. I know the demographics of the country. I don't understand why all the scripts are for kids. It's beyond my comprehension."

Bergen, who is married to business entrepreneur Jeffrey Endervelt, has three grown children and lives in New York. Besides her film and TV work, she also runs companies that manufacture shoes, handbags and belts.

Robotized Flutist Joins Corps Of Traveling Musicians

By BEN DOBBIN
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — A flutist with rubber lips, metal fingertips and not much else by way of physique is the latest graduate of the McAndroids laboratory in south London.
Being a robot and brand-new, it doesn't have a name yet, but its first public recitals will be given in September, when it goes on display at Taiwan's new National Museum of Natural Science.

The instruments took three months to build and were sold to the designers of the museum's soundproof "cacophony section" for nearly $87,000.
They demonstrate an individual's musical inventiveness and allow those without any musical skills to play music, according to Glassborow.
Tin Twin is a more readily recognizable android, with long arms that flit across the keyboard in simulating such smash hits of The Thompson Twins as "Doctor Doctor" and "Sister of Mercy."

From a distance, the flashing lights in its eyes and outh give the impression that it is singing along in the chorus.
McAndroids is made up of the 39-year-old Glassborow; Alan Dun, a 37-year-old sculptor; engineer John Barron, 34; and Trevor Piper, a 32-year-old artist. The company has found a niche in a fast-growing European market for special effects.

In 1986, its three robotic "French heads," composed of odd-shaped pieces of steel and glass fiber on top of tall poles, turned real heads at a robot sculpture display in the Georges Pompidou Center in Paris.
Vaguely resembling outer-space creatures, they turn to watch passers-by, stop and stare back, or babble among themselves in jolly jingles. A museum in Glasgow, Scotland, is negotiating for display rights.

Another favorite is a set of nine jack-in-the-box Irish caricatures, including a priest, a bar wag and a politician, who pop up at the push of a button to give speeches on the environment. It was bought for an exhibition center in Northern Ireland's Sperrin Mountains.

The company plans to build an android orchestra, a robotized skeleton riding a bicycle and a mechanical plant that will respond to temperature, light and human activity, such as people quarreling.
"Anyone catching sight of the plant would say, 'I know what it's thinking,'" said Glassborow. "This kind of work is a kind of mirror to human behavior."

The flutist was born in the same cluttered workshop as Tin Twin, the guest keyboard player who thrilled teen-age fans of the Thompson Twins, a British pop group, on its 1986 world tour.

Like Tin Twin, the flutist is a robotized "musician" developed by McAndroids Ltd., a special effects and 3-D animation team composed of two sculptors, a mechanical engineer and a computer artist.

McAndroids' art and technology creations have been on display since 1984 in museums, traveling exhibitions and on TV shows across Western Europe.

The flutist is going to T'auichung in Taiwan along with a collection of musical instruments that visitors will be able to play without touching. Set inside glass cases, the flute, organ, tubular bells, 16-string Chinese zither and drum kit are activated by pressing buttons.

"It's very much a hands-on, discover for yourself exhibit," said sculptor Richard Glassborow. "On one level it's entertainment; on another level it's seriously stimulating."

The push buttons give spontaneous but precise control of the robotics that work the instruments. They can pluck out individual notes or create pulsating effects such as vibrato, tremolo or echo.

Musical phrases, such as a bass line, can be instantly recorded and the playback accompanied by improvisation. The instruments also can be commanded to play a simple preprogrammed tune.

"It was a choice to make it simple," said Glassborow. "If you make it very rich, they (the public) just stand and look at it. We wanted to make it very friendly."

The flute's robotics are the most impressive, employing the head and pneumatically controlled fingers of a humanoid robot, or android. A valve controls the air that is pumped through the delicately positioned rubber mouthpiece into the lip plate.

New CBS Comedies Fall Flat

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS' plan to liven up its schedule with a rash of new half-hour comedies was a ratings failure in its first week. ABC, meanwhile, put the critically praised comedy "The Wonder Years" into the Nielsen top 10.

NBC won the week handily. CBS finished slightly ahead of ABC for the week, but continued to lag in season-to-date ratings and seems destined to finish in last place for the first time.

For the week ending March 20, NBC had an average, prime-time rating of 15.8. CBS had a 12.9 and ABC 12.6. With four weeks left in the season, NBC leads with a 16.3, ABC is second with a 13.9 and CBS third with 13.6.

The good news for CBS was that "CBS Evening News" was still in first place with an average rating of 11.6 and a 22 share. ABC's "World News Tonight" was second with 10.8 and 20, and "NBC Nightly News" third with 9.7 and 18.

Of the new CBS comedies, only "Eisenhower & Lutz," which premiered with double episodes on Monday, fared very well. The first episode ranked 41st. The second was 31st with a rating of 14.2 and a 22 share.

The rating is a percentage of the nation's 88.6 million households with television sets. The share is a percentage of sets in use.

The two new comedies and one returning comedy CBS added on Tuesday night were steamrollered by ABC's normally strong lineup, including "The Wonder Years," a sweet-natured nostalgia comedy set in the late 1960s. It replaced "Growing Pains," which moved to Wednesday night where it continues to be a top-10 show.

The top 10 for last week were: "The Cosby Show" NBC, "A Different World" NBC, "Golden Girls" NBC, "60 Minutes" CBS, "Who's the Boss?" ABC, "Cheers" NBC, "The Wonder Years" ABC, "Night Court" NBC, "Murder, She Wrote" CBS and "Growing Pains" ABC. Half of the top 10 shows were repeats, as the networks began to conserve new episodes for the May sweeps.

On Tuesday night, CBS' "Coming of Age," starring Paul Dooley as an acerbic former airline pilot struggling to adjust to a sunny retirement village, was 59th out of 77 shows. "My Sister Sam" was 75th.

"Sam" had originally done well in the ratings and was brought back from hiatus to fill in for "The Dictator," a new comedy that was delayed by the Writers Guild strike.

Judge Says Gift Of Trombone As A Child Changed His Life

By JERRY KINSER
The Sun Herald

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Rarely does a birthday present change one's life. But that is exactly what happened to Biloxi Municipal Court Judge Lawrence Semski when he was 10 years old.

"My cousin, who was an original women's libber, gave me her old trombone," said Semski. "And that gift changed my life."

The gift also gave him the financial means to attend the University of Mississippi and later graduate from its law school.

Semski said he began in seventh grade to take trombone lessons, and soon he was playing in the Biloxi High School marching and concert bands. In high school, he played with the 15-piece dance band, Melody-Masters, originated by Professor Marion M. Flowers.

But it was Dixieland Jazz that caught Semski's fancy. "The sounds of Dixieland appealed to me right off," he said. "It was area music that I could relate to."

At 15, independently of his high school football and course work, Semski joined a Dixieland combo and played spot jobs around Biloxi on weekends. "I remember when we were playing in North Biloxi once," said Semski. "Pete Fountain sat in with us. He must have been 13 or 14 years old. Even back then, he had a fantastic feel for Dixieland jazz."

Later during a two-year hitch in the Navy, Semski played in dance bands and at one time played with "Sugar Blues" Clyde McCoy while stationed in Memphis.

While attending Ole Miss, the future judge played trombone in the school's famous Rebelaire Band, which gave some 26 performances a year. "I enjoyed the big band work, but it still wasn't Dixieland," said Semski. He then organized a Dixieland combo from members of the larger band.

During school holidays, Semski took his band on the road, playing one-nighters and jumping from one town to another. "Music gave me the means to get through business and law school ... a very enjoyable way of working my way through college," said Semski.

Still, his wide-ranging interests did cause some problems. "Since I was playing in the Ole Miss marching band and (on) the football team at the same time, there were some serious conflicts. My football coach, Johnny Vaught, was mad at me for playing trombone, and my band director was mad at me for playing football. It was a crazy time," said Semski.

He solved the problem by dropping out of football in his sophomore year.

After receiving his bachelor's degree, Semski was offered a permanent job playing with a big dance band from Memphis, and he said he was tempted. "I gave it a lot of thought," he said. "But I realized I wanted a settled family-type life. With a band, you play all night and sleep all day."

Since returning to Biloxi after law school, Semski has kept up his playing. "The only time I didn't play was when I served as Harrison County Family Court judge," he said. "There was just too much work."

Now he plays several times a month, just for fun. "I keep my lip up by playing regularly," Semski says. "Playing Dixieland is the way I express myself. At jam sessions, I can play all night and not be tired the next day. But if I was playing professional jobs, it would be a totally different experience."

Semski looks forward to attending the yearly meeting in Oxford of the Ole Miss Musicians Hall of Fame members. He also regularly attends meetings of the Mississippi Coast Jazz Society, of which he is a founding member.

Farm Bought On Faith Offers Home Setting For Treatment Of Addicts

By ELLIOTT MINOR
Associated Press Writer

ARGYLE, Ga. (AP) — Alcoholics and drug abusers try to shake their habits while performing chores and tending animals on a 74-acre farm that a former alcoholic calls a "miracle."

George Sirmans, chairman of the Clinch County Commission, said he bought the farm on faith in 1986, after serving three months in a federal prison for conspiring to sell alligator meat.

"We give 'em a chance," said Sirmans, 56. "Some leave and get their lives straightened out. Some don't, but that don't matter. We're giving 'em hope."

Known as Bridges of Hope, the farm provides an idyllic setting where drug and alcohol abusers can live for up to six months. The farm's group discussions and self-help programs are designed to help them bridge the gap between hospitalization and a return to society.

Since its opening in January 1987 near Argyle, about 60 men have stayed in the large wooden farmhouse where they eat, sleep and attend group meetings. Argyle, a Clinch County community of 200, is between Valdosta and Waycross in southeast Georgia.

Bridges of Hope operates on contributions and the guests pay no fees, Sirmans said. They grow some of their food, and some of it is donated.

Sirmans, who lives in Fargo on the edge of the Okfenokee Swamp, once was a swamp guide for tourists — "mostly Yankees," he said. At one time, he owned a 50-foot shrimp boat, but that proved to be an economic disaster. He was elected a county commissioner in 1976 and became commission chairman six years ago.

"I'm an alcoholic. I got sober," he said. "I like helping people and working with alcoholics and drug addicts. I like to help people solve their problems. Sometimes it's hard to do."

The house at Bridges of Hope is bordered on two sides by plowed fields where the guests will plant vegetables this spring. Nearby is a grain silo and a barn with stalls for pigs and cows.

Chickens scratch in the barnyard for morsels of grain. Cows and goats gather around the silo as one of the residents hands out ears of corn.

"Most of 'em (the residents) haven't done a thing for so long, they've lost all hope," Sirmans said during a tour of the farm. "This kind of brings 'em back into the mainstream. It takes a while for a man to get his self-respect back."

Manager Jim Peeler said he tries to give the guests chores that keep their thoughts off drugs and booze.

"Our business here is sobriety," he said.

Johnny Lanier, a former Baker County commissioner, has taken over the cooking duties during his stay at Bridges of Hope and recently prepared a tasty lunch of pot roast, black-eyed peas and cornbread.

The other residents filed into the house from their work and heaped food on their plates from pots and pans on top of the stove. Once seated at tables nearby, they laughed and chatted between bites.

"It ain't easy," said Lanier, 46. "I've been drinking since I was 13 years old. It's hard to give it up."

Mickie Griffin Jr., 26, of Douglas said his three months at the farm had changed his life.

"I am a cocaine addict," he said while splitting pine logs at a woodpile near the house. "I've got to prove to myself that I'm going to whip it."

Sirmans said he agreed to pay $75,000 for the farm after serving three months at the federal prison at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida.

"I said, 'Lord, why me?'" recalled Sirmans, who once operated one of the few licensed commercial alligator farms in Georgia.

The commission chairman was charged with conspiring to sell alligator meat to an undercover federal agent. Killing alligators is a federal offense because they are an endangered species.

In prison, Sirmans said, his civilian supervisor turned out to be a reformed alcoholic who had started a halfway house for problem drinkers. The supervisor encouraged him to take a chance on fulfilling a seven-year-old dream of providing a farm where alcoholics could live in a communal setting while drying out.

"I had a vision of a place in the country where alcoholics could be put out by themselves," said Sirmans, noting that he stopped drinking in 1974. "I'd touched all the bases, I thought, but God wanted me to just step out on faith."

Fifteen days after his release, Sirmans said, he learned that a farmer was planning to retire and he almost immediately signed an agreement to purchase the property.

"It was a miracle," he said. "I know God still uses people, places and things to do things."

The next goal at Bridges of Hope is a 28-bed dormitory, said Sirmans, who is president of a five-member board of directors that runs the farm. The directors also want to establish another residence center for alcoholic women.

"We feed people. We offer them hope. We know when we're ready (for growth), God will be ready," he said.

U.S. Was Warmest In '86, '87

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last two years have been the warmest in this country in more than three decades, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration reported Tuesday.

Both 1986 and 1987 recorded average temperatures for the year of 54.0 degrees Fahrenheit over the 48 contiguous states, the agency said.

These were the warmest years since 1953, which averaged 54.7 to tie with 1934 for the warmest year in this century.

By contrast, records going back to 1896 show the normal annual average temperature for the 48 states is 52.5 degrees. The coldest year was 1917, which averaged 50.7.

Tom Karl of the National Climatic Data Center in Asheville, N.C., said the combination of the position of the jet stream upper air currents and the high pressure center located over Bermuda were contributing factors in the recent warm years.

Until 1986 the average temperature of the United States had been running at or slightly below normal in the 1980s, Karl said, even though worldwide temperatures seemed to be on the increase.

In 1986, he said, the spring was particularly warm across the country. The winter of 1986-87 and the spring of 1987 also were unusually warm, particularly in the north-central region.

For The Rest Of My Life

By Julie Brew

As I look back to the days
When life was a simple maze,
I see a girl with a Barbie playing,
And these words I hear her saying:
"I can't tonight. I've got a date."
"Got to work tomorrow. Can't go to bed late."
"I need a new suit. Let's go shopping."
She stops to move; her mother's mopping.

Resettled in a better place,
She puts some blush on Barbie's face.
She makes a desk from a Kleenex box,
And brushes Barbie's shiny locks.
She readies Barbie for a date
And hopes that Ken will not be late.
But it's time for her to go to bed,
At least that's what her mother said.

But the "glamorous adventure" goes on and on Until her consciousness is gone.

And when I think of my life now,
I'm so confused. I wonder how
A child so cute, creative, and small
Could wish so hard to be so tall.

I know she's wishing for adulthood—
Now I only wish I could
Regress to that simple state,
To know no evil, to feel no hate.
And as I make my way through strife,
I'll cherish these memories
for the rest of my life.

Flying In California

By Amy Hamm

I'm going to tell you about the most special Christmas gift ever. My favorite cousin lives in California. He called just before Christmas and said he couldn't come home. I cried because I missed him so much. He promised to send me a Christmas present. Two weeks later I received it.
When I opened the tiny gold box, there were two tiny pink pills inside. The note said,
"Take one pill for practice and one for the real thing. See you soon."

I wondered what that meant. So after supper I took one pill. I felt so strange and then I felt something growing on my back. I looked in the mirror and saw something pink, purple and blue coming out of my back. It was feathers—pink, purple and blue feathers! Suddenly I felt the urge to fly. I flew around my room, and out my window

I went. I knew I was supposed to fly to California to see Mike.

I practiced flying straight and around buildings. I flew down low and high up in the clouds. I knew I was ready. So the next night after supper I took my last pill and took off for California.

I flew over the North Carolina mountains, Texas oil wells, and the desert in Arizona. When I got to California I flew over Hollywood and saw them making a movie. I also saw buildings shake during an earthquake in San Francisco.

About an hour later I got to Mike's. I was tired so I rested for a while and my wings went away. I stayed with Mike a few days and then it was time to go home. He paid for my airplane ticket back home. When I got on the airplane the lady asked me if I liked to fly, I just smiled.

Kangaroo News

By Christy Williams

Kangaroos live in Australia. They jump very high. A kangaroo baby is called a joey. Kangaroos are born alive. They are mammals. They have pockets to carry their babies in.

Kangaroos have big feet and long tails. Their noses are as big as a dog's nose.

Kangaroos have fur. They grow as big as a 13-year old teenager. They do have fat tummys. When they jump, their big feet are only on the ground.

My Treehouse

By Jessie Mills

I remember the days when I was young,
The days of youth and the days of fun.
Bright and glowing, a little girl
Without a care in the whole wide world.
I had a place that was my own,
Close enough to be my home.
I had a place just as a mouse;

It was my home—my own treehouse,
A place to go to be alone,
Where thoughts and feelings could often roam.
I could tell my dolls just what to do,
Those words of wisdom that were so true.
I'd say to the dolls, and I'd say to the toys,
"This is our house for us to enjoy,

We will do the things that we like best.
There is nothing but play and no time for rest.
So on with the laughter, and on with the fun.
Let's use up the day till we run out of sun.
We'll start with a cake so fluffy and light,
Then put on the frosting that makes it just right."
Suddenly I hear someone yell that dreadful sound,
It is only my mother saying time to come down.
I climb down the ladder with sorrow and dismay,

For the hours of fun have slipped away.
I cross the yard, and my mind
blinks,
As I look to the future and my little mind thinks.
A big house of my own will pass the test.
But that little old treehouse will still be the best.

Tar Heel Trivia

Edward R. Murrow

During World War II most Americans tuned in their radios to listen to Edward R.
Murrow's news broadcasts from Europe.

Murrow was born near Greensboro on a farm, but at the age of 5 his family moved to the state of Washington.
While in high school, he served as president of the student body and was a member of the championship debate team. It was in college that he changed his first name from Egbert to Edward.

Although Murrow had no formal news training, he served as director of European broadcasting for CBS during World War II, he hosted television shows "See It Now" and "Person to Person" and later became a CBS vice-president.

In 1963 Murrow officiated at the dedication of the Greenville Voice of America site. At that time, he served as the director of the United States Information Agency.

In 1968, three years after his death, the Greenville Relay Station of the VOA was named after Edward R. Murrow, a man who is one of the most honored people in American broadcasting.

The Cherry Oaks Home and Garden Club recently conducted a tasting luncheon, featuring its 10th anniversary edition cookbook, Deja Vu.

Proceeds from the luncheon will benefit the Child Care Laboratory for Project Learning. A fund-raiser that was conducted during the event will benefit the Creative Living Center.

Some other recipients of the club's fund-raising efforts have been the Ronald McDonald House, the Family Violence Center and the Eastern Pines Rescue Squad. The Cherry Oaks community also has benefited through permanent entrance signs to Cherry Oaks, landscaping at Wintergreen and W.H. Robinson schools, play and picnic areas and a gazebo.

Recipes for the cookbook were selected from other club cookbooks such as Party Fare, Salad Spectacular, That's Entertainment, Easy Does it and A Touch of Taste. It contains recipes for hors d'oeuvres, salads, vegetables, desserts, breads and entrees.

Try some of the accompanying Deja Vu recipes.

DILL VEGETABLE DIP

2/3 cup mayonnaise
2/3 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon dried onion

1 tablespoon parsley
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
1/2 teaspoon dill weed
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 drops Tabasco

Mix all ingredients together the night before you plan to serve it. Serve with a variety of raw vegetables — carrots, cauliflower, green pepper, celery, radishes, broccoli, rutabaga and mushrooms.

STUFFED MUSHROOMS

1 pound fresh mushrooms, destemmed
4 ounces whipped cream cheese
1 can bacon bits
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese
Wash and stem mushrooms. Mix cream cheese, bacon bits and cheeses. Stuff mushrooms. Place on cookie sheet and broil under broiler until golden brown. Can be stuffed the day before and stored in refrigerator (broil before serving).

HOT POTATO SALAD

4 cubed potatoes, cooked
1 cup mayonnaise
3 tablespoons chopped onion
1 cup Swiss cheese, cubed
1/2 cup chopped green olives
Combine all ingredients. Stir to mix. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 to 30 minutes.

Adjusting Dietary Troublemakers Can Be Tricky

By Toni Tipton
L.A. Times-Washington Post
News Service

Manipulating ingredients in recipes to adhere to current recommendations to reduce fat, cholesterol and sodium in the diet can present a problem for cooks. With quick breads, for example, changing the fat and calories in recipes may produce considerably different results than the average cook expects.

Even for those with a working knowledge of food chemistry — the how and why of combining ingredients to achieve desired results, such as the specific reasons for folding, creaming, beating ingredients in well or one at a time and the proper ratio of fat, liquid, dry and leavening ingredients — the desire to have one's cake and eat it too presents quite a problem, indeed.

Today's cook wants to make muffins and quick breads that are light and airy while wholesome and still delicious. This is a scientific accomplishment, at best.

For the purposes of this column, quick breads will be defined as those sweet batters that usually wind up as muffins or in 9- by 5-inch loaf pans and typically include some kind of vegetable or fruit (such as pureed bananas). Technically, however, the term "quick bread" can be used to describe popovers, cream puffs, biscuits and waffles — those breads or bread products that are made without yeast.

In muffin-type quick breads, flour and liquid are combined in a ratio of 2 to 1 that forms a workable batter. It is based on the following formula: 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon baking powder, 1 cup liquid, 2 tablespoons fat, 1 egg and 2 tablespoons sugar. The average recipe adheres to this precisely, varying only the type of flour and amounts of butter, sugar and salt — the trouble makers from a nutritional standpoint.

The flour is essential, but the type selected — whole wheat, all-purpose, cake, self-rising, rice, rye, corn, bran, oat or others — determines the texture of the final product. All-purpose, cake and pastry flours give the lightest texture, whole wheat, bran (and other grains with the bran layer still intact) usually result in more coarsely textured products.

Water or milk provides moisture (in the form of steam) to the batter and although whole milk is usually called for, skim or buttermilk made from skim milk can be substituted without changes in the bread.

The salt and sugar too can be adjusted in recipes. They are provided to enhance the other ingredients. But the fat, which also contributes a great deal to the light texture of the end product, is generally the one health advocates want to cut back on,

if not eliminate entirely.

The problem begins when, for health reasons, a combination of whole-grain cereals and flours substitute for all-purpose flour in diet recipes. Add to this a decrease in the eggs, less oil or butter and sugar — all of which are tenderizers. The result: adapted recipes for quick breads that are significantly more sturdy than those that follow the standard formula. They also tend to be drier and more crumbly.

Sugar also has a tenderizing effect. It aids in the incorporation of air into the batter. Eggs, which contain protein, contribute elasticity to the batter as well.

To accommodate healthy additions or reductions in these tenderizing ingredients, one suggestion is to substitute oil for the butter. Another is to replace one whole egg with two egg whites. It is easy to omit or use only half the required amount of nuts called for in a recipe and substitute raisins and other dried fruits that are good sources of iron. Unsweetened fruit juice can replace some water called for and simultaneously lend sweetness, thus reducing the need for extra sugar. Instead of substituting the entire amount of white flour with brown, start with a gradual substitution — half white, half brown, for instance — this will produce a product that is quite similar to the original. Substitute more than that and the taste and texture begin to change.

Keep in mind that a quick bread, even one that offers as much as 250 to 300 calories per slice, which it derives from fiber-rich whole grains and fresh or dried fruit, is still a better nutritional choice than prepared snack cakes, candies and cookies that exchange virtually nothing for their high fat and sugar calories.

THREE GRAIN BANANA BREAD

2 large ripe bananas
2 cups whole-wheat flour
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 cup cornmeal
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup honey
1/4 cup brown sugar, packed
1/4 cup butter or margarine, softened
2 eggs
1/2 cup buttermilk
1 cup raisins
1/2 cup chopped walnuts

Kathy Kolasa

Ph.D., ECU Dept. Family Medicine

Dear Readers: The National Cholesterol Education Program is in full swing. You are seeing advertisements and public service announcements encouraging you to "Know Your Cholesterol Number." You can ask your family physician to check your cholesterol. To do so, your doctor will have a blood test run. In our community, the Public Health Department and other groups now do cholesterol screening. The Health Department charges $2.

Several food and drug stores have offered screening. On April 16, the School of Medicine and Pitt County Memorial Hospital will be screening at Plaza Mall from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. for $2. Also, on April 26, Sue Daugherty and Dr. Kirk Ways will screen and provide a nutrition education program in the Brody Auditorium at the East Carolina University School of Medicine from 7:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. These are open to the public. The cholesterol check is $2. The lecture is free. The cholesterol screenings done at malls and in stores usually use a machine that determines your cholesterol from a finger prick of blood.

If your blood cholesterol level is more than 200 milligrams per deciliter you will be told that you have a borderline high cholesterol. You should then get some information about risks to heart disease. Information about diet, exercise and smoking cessation, may be put on a blood cholesterol lowering drug by their family physician. As with all drugs, there are some side effects. Therefore, we recommend making diet and lifestyle changes which are healthy first.

Changing your diet can make a big difference. Reducing the fat, reducing the cholesterol and increasing the dietary fiber in your diet, and losing weight if you are overweight, are important changes to lower your cholesterol level. Also, stopping smoking and increasing exercise area all ways to reduce your blood cholesterol. It may take between 3 to 6 months to see a difference in your cholesterol level. People who still have high blood cholesterol, even after making those lifestyle changes, may be put on a blood cholesterol lowering drug by their family physician. As with all drugs, there are some side effects. Therefore, we recommend making diet and lifestyle changes which are healthy first.

Several people have asked me about which books to read. Currently I like, "Eater's Choice: A Food Lover's Guide to Lower Cholesterol," by Ron and Nancy Goor, Houghton Mifflin ($10.95); "The Living Heart" by Michael DeBakey, Simon & Schuster ($10.95); and "Don't Eat Your Heart Out Cookbook," by J. Piscatella, Workman Publishing Co., ($14.95). Your doctor's office may also have booklets to give you, if you have an elevated cholesterol.

Remember, if you have your cholesterol tested at a screening place and they tell you your cholesterol is high, it is important for you to go to your doctor and have it rechecked. If your cholesterol level is not high and you have no other risks of heart disease, then you probably don't need to be tested again for five years. These guidelines are for people over 19 years old.

Q. Please tell your readers that frozen non-dairy toppings have saturated fat and so people watching their cholesterol can't use them too freely. B.G., Greenville.

A. That's right. Many people asked me about the recipes recently published using non-dairy frozen toppings. We double checked all the brands available in Greenville. Each one had in it either coconut or palm oil, which are saturated fats, or partially hydrogenated soybean oil. If you are trying to lower your blood cholesterol, you should use infrequently, foods with coconut oil, palm oil or any hydrogenated oils. Saturated fats make blood cholesterol levels go up.

Split Peas, Lentils Have Bland Image

By Betsy Balsley
L.A. Times-Washington Post
News Service

Mention dried split peas or lentils to the average person and the almost instant reaction is, "Ah yes, soup! I love (or hate) split pea (or lentil) soup." And that's about the only way most of us think to use these fine but commonplace legumes.

Waverley Root's voluminous treatise "Food" (Fireside Books; $15.95) says that lentils have been in the human food chain for more than 8,000 years and peas several thousand years longer; considering that, it really is surprising that these two very basic foods are not used more often in more creative culinary offerings in the American diet.

One reason may be that these are essentially earthy foods; foods associated with filling and more or less unexciting meals. Another may be that both of these vegetables (they actually are seeds of their respective plants), are bland in taste. They need flavor help from fellow vegetables and other seasonings, such as herbs and spices.

Even the colors of lentils and split peas seem to be against them. Ask someone what color a lentil is and you will be told "brown," while split-pea fans will be quick to answer "green." Actually, lentils are available in several colors, including red, pink and yellow, while split peas are commonly available in green and yellow.

Because both of these legumes contain a good quantity of good-quality vegetable protein and have good fiber content, there should be a firm resolve to include them in any well-balanced, nutrient-laden diet, even if they do lack excitement. What is needed here is the touch of creativity that turns a dull dish into a popular one.

Kids Should Learn Healthy Heart Keys

By Toni Tipton
L.A. Times-Washington Post
News Service

Nearly half of all deaths in the United States are caused by cardiovascular disease, according to Marilyn Cowan, a community programs specialist with the Los Angeles chapter of the American Heart Association. And although there is much about the disease that is not understood, it is certain that there are particular risk factors.

Many of these factors — lifestyle, exercise, dietary habits, smoking — are developed early in life. And if very young children had better control over them, it could potentially extend their lives as adults.

That is the theory behind the Heart

Treasure Chest program, a colorful package of activities developed by the heart association. The treasure chest is designed to increase the awareness of preschoolers aged 3 to 5, encouraging them to develop heart-healthy attitudes that will carry them through adulthood.

Based on the idea that it is easier to acquire good habits as a child than to change bad ones as an adult, the kit focuses on the importance of getting enough rest and exercise, not smoking and eating foods that are wholesome — discouraging items like candy, chips and soda — all presented in a fashion that's familiar to

EASY BISCUIT SHORTCAKE

3 cups biscuit baking mix
3 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons butter, melted
1 cup buttermilk
Additional butter, melted (optional)
Sliced fresh peaches or strawberries
Whipped cream

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. In large bowl, combine biscuit mix and sugar. Stir in three tablespoons melter butter and buttermilk; mix well. Spread in greased 9-inch round layer cake pan or 9-inch square pan. Bake 20 to 25 minutes, or until golden. Brush with additional melted butter. Cool 5 minutes; remove from pan. Split into two layers. Serve warm or cool with sliced fresh fruit and whipped cream. Makes one 9-inch cake.

PASTA SALAD
 1 pound vermicelli, cooked and drained
 8 ounces Italian dressing (oil type)
 3/4 jar of McCormick Salad Supreme Seasoning
 1 cucumber, diced
 1 tomato, diced
 1 red onion, diced or sliced

Toss all ingredients together and let set overnight in the refrigerator. Serves 10 to 30.

SOUTHERN DELIGHTS
 1 pound 13-ounce can sweet potatoes
 3/4 cup sugar
 3 tablespoons melted butter
 Small marshmallows
 Coconut

Mash potatoes; add sugar and melted butter. Chill. Make potato mixture into balls. Put one marshmallow in center of ball and cover completely. Roll in coconut. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes until marshmallow starts to melt. Serves 35-40 (or use large marshmallows-makes about 16 to 20).

STUFFED CHERRY TOMATOES
 5 dozen cherry tomatoes
 8-ounce package cream cheese
 1/4 cup mayonnaise
 2 tablespoons half and half

2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
 1/2 teaspoon hot sauce
 1/8 teaspoon garlic salt
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce
 2 teaspoons salt
 Lettuce

Cut a slice from top of each tomato; scoop out pulp, leaving shells intact. Invert tomatoes to drain. Combine cream cheese, mayonnaise, and half and half; mix until smooth. Stir in remaining ingredients except lettuce. Spoon mixture into tomato shells; chill. Arrange on bed of lettuce.

ALABAMA PORK BARBEQUE
 4 to 6 pounds pork roast; loin, butt or end
 10 to 12 ounces hickory-flavored barbecue sauce
 Salt and pepper
 4 to 5 dashes soy or Worcestershire sauce

1 to 2 dashes hot sauce
 4 to 5 ounces beer

Trim fat from roast. Put in crock pot (no liquid added) for 10 to 12 hours on low setting. Remove from crock pot, discard grease, and wipe inside of pot with paper towel. Tear meat into small to medium sized chunks (not fine pieces) and place back in crock pot. Add all ingredients. Cook on high setting 3 hours. Serves 8 to 10.

OLD TIMEY CHEESEY CHICKEN
 8 boned chicken breast halves
 1 stick butter, melted
 1 cup crushed Total cereal
 1/4 cup grated cheddar cheese
 3/4 cup Parmesan cheese
 Salt and pepper to taste

Dip chicken in melted butter. Combine crushed cereal and cheeses. Roll chicken in this mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes in a shallow pyrex dish. Reheats well in microwave. Serves 8.

CHERRY CREAM CHEESE TARTS
 2 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
 3/4 cup sugar
 2 eggs
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 24 Nilla wafers
 1 can cherry pie filling
 1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat cream cheese, sugar, eggs, lemon juice and vanilla until light and fluffy (about 5 minutes). Line muffin tins with paper. Place one wafer in each. Fill with cream cheese mixture 2/3 full. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. Remove from oven and spoon pie filling atop. Chill.

Note: May be prepared several days in advance or may be frozen. Makes 24 tarts.

FAMILY REUNION BANANA PUDDING
 5 to 6 large bananas

2 large boxes vanilla instant pudding
 5 cups milk
 1 box vanilla wafers
 8 ounces sour cream
 8 ounces Cool Whip

Combine pudding, milk, sour cream and half of the Cool Whip. Mix well. Layer vanilla wafers, bananas, and pudding mixture until bowl is full. Top with Cool Whip. This usually makes two 1 1/2 quart casserole bowls full. This can be frozen. Serves 10 to 12.

POPPY SEED MUFFINS
 1 1/2 cups biscuit mix
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 tablespoon poppy seeds
 3/4 cup raisins, chopped
 1 egg, beaten
 3/4 cup commercial sour cream

1 teaspoon vanilla extract
 Combine biscuit mix, sugar, and poppy seeds; make a well in center of mixture. Add remaining ingredients, stirring just until moistened. Spoon into greased muffin pans, filling 1/2 full. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes or until muffins test done. Note: For easy clean-up, use paper-lined muffin tins when baking. Makes a dozen.

TABBOULEH
 1 cup fine bulgur
 3/4 cup cold water
 4 medium bunches parsley, finely chopped
 1 small green pepper, chopped
 1 bunch green onions, chopped
 1/4 cup dry mint, crushed
 3 medium tomatoes, chopped
 1/3 cup lemon juice, about 1/3 cup olive oil, about
 Salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Soak bulgur in cold water 20 minutes until water is absorbed. Add parsley, green pepper, onions, mint, tomatoes, 1-3 cup lemon juice, 1-3 cup olive oil, 1/2 teaspoon salt or to taste and pepper. Mix thoroughly.

Mold, using back of spoon, into oval or circular shape. Adjust seasoning adding more olive oil and lemon juice to taste. Garnish with lemon and tomato slices, if desired. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

DEL MONTE SHOPPING SPREE SWEEPSTAKES

HERE'S HOW TO ENTER:

- On an Official Entry Form Only. Hand-print your name, address and zip code. Mail your entry to: Del Monte Shopping Spree Sweepstakes, P.O. Box 4728, Branford, CT 06405. Limit one entry per envelope. No photocopies or mechanically reproduced entries permitted. Entry must be received by 3/30/88. Not responsible for lost, late or misdirected mail.
- Winners will be selected in a random drawing on or about 4/15/88 from among all eligible entries received by the D. I. Blair Corporation, an independent judging organization whose decisions are final. Limit one prize per name and address.
- Prizes: One Grand Prize of three groceries for five years, to be awarded as winner's choice of one-time payment of $2,500 OR payment of $6,500 one-year groceries or thirty-five years' free food. Prizes of three groceries for one year to be awarded as a check for $5,500. (3) Second Prizes of free grocery shopping stores to be awarded as a check for $350. No substitution or transfer of prizes permitted.
- Sweepstakes open to residents of the U.S. 18 years or older as of 3/30/88. Employees of Del Monte Corporation, its affiliates, subsidiaries, advertising and promotion agencies and the families of each are not eligible. Void where prohibited by law. All federal, state and local laws apply. Taxes on prizes are the sole responsibility of prize winners. Winners will be notified by mail. If a prize notification is returned to the sponsor or to the D. I. Blair Corporation as undeliverable, that prize will be awarded to an alternate winner. Major prize winners must execute an Affidavit of Eligibility within thirty (30) days of notification. Non-compliance within that time period will result in disqualification and an alternate winner will be selected. In acceptance of a prize, winner consents to the use of his/her name and/or likeness for purpose of advertising or public relations without additional compensation. Odds of winning will depend on the number of entries received.
- For a list of prize winners (available after 7/25/88), send a separate self-addressed stamped envelope to: Del Monte Shopping Spree Winners, P.O. Box 4728, Branford, CT 06405.

Slice bananas into blender and process until pureed. Combine flours, cornmeal, baking soda and salt. Cream honey and brown sugar with butter until light, about 3 minutes. Beat in eggs until blended. Beat in 1-3 flour mixture alternately with bananas and buttermilk. Continue folding ingredients together, ending with flour mixture. Fold in raisins and nuts.

Spray 2 (9- by 5-inch) loaf pans with non-stick coating spray. Turn batter into pans. Bake at 325 degrees 50 to 60 minutes until wood pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Invert onto wire rack to cool completely. Makes 2 loaves, 10 servings each.

DARK NUT BREAD

1 cup molasses
1 cup skim milk
2 cups whole-wheat flour
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped pecans
Combine molasses and milk in mixing bowl and stir to blend. Combine flours, sugar, soda and salt in bowl and stir to blend. Add dry ingredients to molasses mixture and beat well. Stir in nuts, then turn batter into 9x5-inch loaf pan sprayed with non-stick coating spray. Bake at 350 degrees 1 hour. Cool in pan before slicing. Makes 1 loaf, 10 servings.

CARROT BREAD

2 eggs
1 cup sugar
2/3 cup oil
1 1/2 cups flour
3/4 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups finely grated carrots
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
3/4 cup raisins
Beat eggs. Add sugar and oil and beat thoroughly. Sift together flour, baking soda, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Add to egg mixture. Beat well. Add carrots, nuts and raisins.
Spray 5 soup cans or 1 (9- by 5-inch) loaf pan with non-stick coating spray. Fill half full with batter. Bake at 350 degrees 45 to 50 minutes for soup cans or 1 hour for loaf pan. Makes 5 small loaves or 10 servings in loaf pan.

BEAN BREAD

2 cups cornmeal
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups skim milk
2 eggs
2 cups cooked pinto beans, drained
Heat well-greased 9-inch square pan in oven. Combine cornmeal, baking powder and salt. Add milk and eggs. Stir in beans and pour into hot pan. Bake at 450 degrees about 20 minutes or until brown. Makes 8 servings.

HERBED BACON-CHEESE BREAD

1 pound bacon
3 cups self-rising flour
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon dried parsley flakes
1/2 teaspoon dried basil leaves
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1 (12-ounce) can beer
Cut bacon into 1/2-inch pieces. Cook in large skillet over medium-low heat until crisp. Drain on paper towels. Combine bacon, flour, sugar, cheese, parsley flakes, basil, oregano and garlic powder. Add beer and stir just to moisten. Pour into 9- by 5-inch loaf pan, 9-inch round cake pan or 8-inch square baking pan sprayed with non-stick coating spray.
Bake at 375 degrees 45 to 50 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool in pan 5 minutes. Remove from pan and cool completely on wire rack. Makes 1 loaf, 12 servings.

SWEET POTATO BREAD

2 2/3 cups flour
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon ground nutmeg
2 cups bite-size crispy wheat cereal squares
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1 (16-ounce) can sweet potatoes
2 eggs
1/3 cup oil
1/3 cup orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
Glaze
Combine flour, sugars, baking powder, baking soda, salt and nutmeg in large bowl. Process cereal in blender or food processor until fine. Add to dry ingredients. Stir in chopped nuts.

Drain sweet potatoes, reserving 2-3 cup liquid. Combine sweet potatoes, reserved liquid, eggs, oil, orange juice and orange peel in blender or food processor. Process until blended and smooth. Add to dry ingredients. Stir until moistened.

Pour into 9- by 5-inch loaf pan sprayed with non-stick coating spray. Bake at 350 degrees 70 to 75 minutes or until bread tests done. Cool in pan 15 minutes. Remove from pan and cool on wire rack. Top with Glaze. Makes 12 servings.

Glaze

1 cup sifted powdered sugar
1 teaspoon light corn syrup
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
1 tablespoon water
Beat sugar, syrup, orange peel and water in bowl until smooth.

WHOLE-WHEAT APPLESAUCE CUPCAKES

1/2 cup oil
3/4 cup brown sugar, packed
1 cup applesauce
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 1/2 cups whole-wheat flour
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
Beat oil and brown sugar together until well mixed. Beat in applesauce and baking soda. Fold in flour and cinnamon, blending thoroughly. Pour batter into muffin tins sprayed with non-stick coating spray. Bake at 375 degrees 20 minutes. Makes 12 cupcakes.

Lentils And Split Peas Have Been Saddled With A Bland Image

The accompanying recipes, though based on nothing more glamorous than these two dried legumes, should delight the taste buds of any diner willing to spend a small amount of time in the kitchen preparing them. And for traditionalists, we have even included a more-or-less classic soup recipe.

SPLIT-PEA DIP

- 1 onion, chopped
 - 3 tablespoons oil
 - 3 1/2 cups water
 - 8 ounces green split peas
 - 1/4 cup finely chopped green chiles
 - 2 cloves garlic, minced
 - Juice of 1 lemon
 - 2 tomatoes, peeled, seeded and chopped
 - 2 tablespoons chopped fresh cilantro leaves
 - 1/2 teaspoon cumin
 - Few drops Chinese chili oil
 - Salt
 - 6 (6-inch) pita breads
- Saute onion in 2 tablespoons oil in 1 1/2- to 2-quart saucepan until tender but not browned. Stir in water and split peas. Bring to boil. Boil 2 minutes, remove from heat, cover and let stand 30 minutes.
- Place pan over heat again and bring to boil. Cover, reduce heat and let mixture simmer about 20 minutes or until peas are tender. Cool slightly, then drain peas, reserving any liquid. Puree peas in food processor or blender, adding enough reserved liquid to reach desired dipping consistency.

Place pureed peas in bowl and stir in chiles, garlic, lemon juice, tomatoes, cilantro, cumin and remaining 1 tablespoon oil. Season mixture to taste with few drops chili oil and salt. Cover and chill well.

Split pita rounds and cut each half into 6 to 8 wedges. Place on baking sheet and bake at 350 degrees 5 to 10 minutes or just long enough to crisp and lightly brown wedges.

To serve, place dip in bowl and serve with crisp pita bread wedges for dippers. Makes about 3 cups dip.

CHEESE AND LENTIL QUICHE

- 3 eggs
- 1 1/2 cups whipping cream
- 1 cup cooked and drained red lentils
- 1 (10-ounce) package frozen mixed vegetables, thawed and drained
- Salt, pepper
- Cheese Pastry Shell
- Minced fresh cilantro leaves

Beat eggs until frothy, then add whipping cream and beat just until well mixed. Stir in lentils and mixed vegetables. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Pour mixture into Cheese Pastry Shell and bake at 350 degrees about 45 minutes or until filling is set. Sprinkle cilantro over top of quiche and serve warm or cold. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Cheese Pastry Shell

- 1 1/2 cups flour
 - 3/4 teaspoon salt
 - 10 tablespoons shortening
 - 1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
 - 4 to 5 tablespoons ice water
- Sift together flour and salt. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles small peas. Lightly stir in cheese. Add water in small amounts, using only enough to make pastry form ball.

Roll out pastry on floured board or pastry cloth and fit into 10-inch pie plate. Flute edges. Pierce entire surface with tines of fork. Loosely press piece of foil into bottom and up sides of pastry shell. Fill foil with dry beans or baker's beads and bake at 350 degrees 15 minutes.

Remove from oven, remove foil and beans from shell and set shell aside. Makes 1 (10-inch) pastry shell.

LENTIL AND HAM SOUP

- 1 cup chopped onions
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1 cup chopped carrots
- 3 tablespoons oil
- 2 1/2 quarts chicken broth
- 1 (1-pound) package lentils
- 2 smoked ham hocks
- 1 tablespoon ground cumin
- 2 tablespoons chili powder

1/4 teaspoon pepper

- Juice of 1/2 lemon
 - Olive oil
- Saute onions, garlic, celery and carrots in oil until tender. Add chicken broth, lentils and ham hocks. Stir in cumin, chili powder, pepper and lemon juice.

Bring mixture to boil, reduce heat and simmer, covered, about 1 hour or until lentils and ham are tender. Remove ham hocks, strip meat from bones and discard bones and skin. Return meat to pot. To serve, ladle into soup bowls and drizzle small amount of olive oil over each serving. Makes about 3 quarts.

CURRIED RICE AND GREEN SPLIT-PEA SALAD

- 1 quart water
 - Salt
 - 1 cup green split peas, rinsed and drained
 - 1 cup rice
 - 1/3 cup oil
 - 1/4 cup rice vinegar
 - 1 tablespoon curry powder
 - 1 clove garlic, minced
 - 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
 - 1 cup diced sweet red pepper
 - 1 cup thinly sliced green onion
- Bring water to boil. Stir in 1 teaspoon salt, split peas and rice. Reduce heat and simmer mixture, covered, until rice is completely cooked and peas are tender-crisp, about 25 to 30 minutes. Drain mixture and set aside to cool.

Combine oil, vinegar, curry powder, garlic and pepper, beating lightly to blend. Season to taste with salt. Combine dressing with rice mixture, red pepper and onions. Chill until serving time. Makes about 6 servings.

BAKED LENTIL BAO

- 1 1/2 cups cooked, shredded pork
- 1 cup cooked yellow lentils
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 1 teaspoon minced ginger root
- 1 (5 1/2-ounce) jar sweet and sour sauce
- Salt, pepper
- 2 loaves frozen bread dough, thawed

Combine shredded pork, lentils, garlic, ginger and sweet and sour sauce. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Cut each loaf of dough into 6 portions. Flatten each portion slightly and place about 1 tablespoon pork mixture in center. Pull sides of dough around filling, sealing well.

Place dough balls, seam side down about 3 inches apart on lightly greased baking sheets. Let rise in warm place until doubled. Bake at 375 degrees 10 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 12 bao.

HUNGARIAN-STYLE RED LENTIL SOUP

- 3 pounds oxtails
- 2 onions, finely chopped
- 2 green peppers, each cut into 8 wedges
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 1/2 cup oil
- 1 (1 pound, 12-ounce) can tomatoes
- 1/4 cup Hungarian paprika
- 1/4 teaspoon finely chopped serrano chile
- Salt
- 1 cup red lentils
- 6 cups chicken broth, about
- 1 potato, peeled and cubed
- 1/2 cup red wine

Saute oxtails, onions, green peppers and garlic lightly in oil. Add tomatoes, breaking up with spoon. Stir in paprika, chile, salt to taste, lentils and 6 cups chicken broth.

Bring mixture to boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 1 to 1 1/2 hours or until lentils and oxtails are tender, adding additional chicken broth as necessary during cooking.

Remove oxtails and cut meat from bones. Return to soup along with potato and wine. Continue simmering until potatoes are tender but still retain shape and texture. Makes 8 servings.

Basics Are Important

the young child, and with an emphasis on fun.

Available at a cost of $35 to licensed day-care centers and preschools nationwide, the little package of activities comes in a bright gold box shaped like a treasure chest. It appears to be very well-received by the youngsters. They have not only raised their own understanding about what is healthy and what is not, but they also are passing along some of their concerns to their parents — in some cases down-right refusing to eat cake even on special occasions and forbidding their parents to smoke in the house, teachers said.

The Heart Treasure Chest contains a curriculum guide for teachers with instructions on how to convey key concepts that might be difficult for young people to understand. It suggests activities and questions teachers might ask the children and instructs through familiar tunes, finger plays and stories.

Another useful teaching tool is a brightly colored board game. Here children roll the die to determine the number of spaces they may move their markers. If they land on a sad face — soda, too tired, too many sweets, too much salt — they must move back one space. If they land on a happy face — juice, milk, jumping rope, cereal, resting, brown bread, don't smoke, water or baked chicken — they get to stay where they are.

Other features of the kit include a "Hear Your Heart" book by Paul Showers; a simple, illustrated description of what happens in the doctor's office; an explanation of how the stethoscope is used; information about the heart, arteries and finding your pulse; oversized physical activity and rest cards that use bright illustrations to exhibit these two types of behavior; a life-size poster of the Heart Child, a body with veins and arteries and a heart shown in proportion to a child's; a large color chart of the inside of your heart; a wall recipe chart for crock-pot vegetable soup; the bulb syringe; stethoscope, filmstrips and a video.

The notion that fat children become fat adults is a valid concern when assessing the potential risk for heart disease. Children today are fatter — more so than their parents were and more so than their grandparents. Research by the Harvard School of Public Health has proven that the prevalence of obesity in children today has increased by more than half in the last 10 to 20 years.

As a result, a great controversy continues to brew over what constitutes a safe diet for children. On one hand, it should provide a child with sufficient nutrients and calories for growth and to carry them through the activities of their day, yet it should be reasonable and consider the American Heart Association guidelines regarding fat and cholesterol consumption.

Until a ruling is made, researchers suggest that parents pursue prudent modification of the diet of healthy young children and encourage sensible eating practices without eliminating the dairy products, meats, eggs and other foods that adults are omitting from their diets in order to keep their fat intake at or below 30 percent of total calories — a figure that is currently considered too severe for a growing child.

To further plead the case of a healthy heart, the American Heart Association is developing four similar programs geared toward children of varying age groups: lower elementary school level students (grades one through three), upper elementary (grades four to six), middle school age (for grades seven through eight) and senior high.

By bringing nutrition information to the child in a format designed for his or her individual stage of development, the American Heart Association hopes to reduce the number of children who may have already adopted unhealthy eating habits, are already overweight, do not exercise properly or who are likely to begin smoking at a very early age. These elementary and upper level programs are still in the testing stage and are as yet unavailable.

Meantime, some suggestions for achieving these goals at home: Offer kids healthy snacks between meals, directing them toward fresh fruit, easy-open individual cans of fruit packed in juice, snack-size sandwiches made with tuna, chicken and turkey, soups, raw vegetables and fruit shakes; participate in regular exercise with your child to set a positive role model, and don't smoke.

The following recipes, from the "American Heart Association Cookbook" (David McKay Company Inc.; $15.95, hardcover, 542 pp., non-illustrated) are healthful snacks and desserts that young children will enjoy between or after meals.

OATMEAL-CARROT BARS

- 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
 - 1/3 cup margarine, melted
 - 1 egg
 - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
 - 3/4 cup shredded carrots
 - 1 cup whole-wheat flour
 - 1 teaspoon baking powder
 - 1/2 cup oats
 - 1/4 cup wheat germ
 - 1/2 cup raisins
- Cream together brown sugar, margarine, egg and vanilla in small bowl until light and fluffy. Add carrots and mix well.

In another bowl, thoroughly stir together flour, baking powder, oats and wheat germ. Stir dry ingredients into creamed mixture. Fold in raisins and pour mixture into 9-inch square pan sprayed with non-stick coating spray. Bake at 350 degrees 30 minutes. Let cool. Cut into bars or squares. Makes 24 bars.

CRUNCHY CEREAL

- 2 1/2 cups old-fashioned oats
- 1/2 cup coarsely chopped peanuts
- 1/2 cup sesame seeds
- 1/2 cup sunflower seeds
- 1/2 cup nonfat dry milk
- 1/2 cup wheat germ
- 1/4 cup brown sugar, packed
- 1/4 cup oil
- 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- 2 teaspoons vanilla

Combine oats, nuts, seeds, dry milk and wheat germ in large bowl. Combine brown sugar, cinnamon and oil, stirring until smooth. Mix with dry ingredients and spread mixture on baking sheet. Bake at 300 degrees 1 hour, stirring every 10 minutes.

Remove from oven, sprinkle with vanilla and allow to cool. Mixture keeps well if stored in airtight container. Makes 16 (1-3 cup) servings.

Note: Dried fruits such as apricots, apples and raisins may be added to cooled mixture.

LEMON FLUFF PUDDING

- 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
 - 12 cup sugar
 - 1 cup boiling water
 - 1/2 cup lemon juice
 - 1/2 cup non-fat dry milk
 - 1/2 cup ice water
 - 1 teaspoon grated lemon zest
- Soften gelatin in 1 tablespoon cold water, then add boiling water and stir to dissolve. Add sugar, 1/2 cup cold water, lemon juice and zest and chill until nearly firm.

Chill a deep mixing bowl and beaters. In bowl, mix powdered non-fat milk with 1/2 cup ice water. Beat until fluffy. Chill.

Break up frozen lemon mixture with fork and add to whipped milk. Beat well with mixer until pudding is fluffy, but not too soft. Chill again until firm. Makes 6 servings.

"YOUR ALL-TIME FAVORITE ACADEMY AWARD FILMS" NATIONAL SWEEPSTAKES

JCPenney National Sweepstakes Official Rules - No purchase necessary

The Sweepstakes is open to all residents of the U.S. and its territories, 18 years of age or older, except employees and their families of J. C. Penney, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, ProMark Promotions and Marketing, their subsidiaries and advertising agencies. Fill out the official entry blank by printing your name, address and telephone number and checking off your 5 favorite all-time Academy Award winning films appearing on the back of the official entry form. Then deposit your entry at any participating J. C. Penney store during normal hours from March 1 through April 2, 1988. Sweepstakes and entry blanks available in approximately 700 participating larger J. C. Penney stores.

For Ohio residents only: You need not go to a J. C. Penney store to enter. Just write your name, address and phone number and the names of your 5 favorite all-time Academy Award winning films (listed in this advertisement) on a 4 x 6" piece of paper and mail it to: J. C. Penney National Sweepstakes, Box 506, Depew, New York 14043. All mail-in entries must be received by April 2, 1988.

Enter as often as you wish but only one entry per store visit or per envelope.

Five winners will be selected by a random drawing to be held by June 1, 1988. One winner will be chosen from each of J. C. Penney's Marketing Regions. Drawing will be conducted by an independent organization whose determination will be final, and winners will be notified by mail. Winners need not be present to win.

Each of the 5 winners will receive: 2 round trip coach class air fare tickets from the airport nearest the winner's home to Los Angeles via American Airlines; deluxe hotel accommodations for 4 nights, 5 days, at the Bel-Age Hotel; and the use of an Avis rent-a-car for 5 days. All other expenses will be the responsibility of the winners. Approximate value of each prize is $3,000 based on airfare from New York to Los Angeles. (Actual value will depend on city of departure.) All trips must be taken between July 15, 1988 and December 31, 1988. Reservations can be on a space available basis only. All prizes will be awarded.

All taxes are the sole responsibility of winners. All Federal, state and local laws apply. Void where prohibited by law. By entry into the Sweepstakes, winners consent to full commercial use of their names and photographs without further compensation. Winners will be required to execute an affidavit of eligibility and release.

All mutilated, illegible or mechanically reproduced entries will be disqualified. No responsibility is assumed for lost, late or misdirected mail. Incomplete entries will be disqualified. No cash in lieu of prizes. Prizes are not transferrable.

For a list of the prize winners, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: J. C. Penney National Sweepstakes, P.O. Box 506, Depew, New York 14043.

FANTASY FUDGE

3 cups sugar	1 7-oz. jar KRAFT Marshmallow Creme
¾ cup PARKAY or CHIFFON Margarine	1 cup chopped nuts
1 5-fl. oz. can evaporated milk	1 teaspoon vanilla
1 12-oz. pkg. semi-sweet chocolate pieces

MICROWAVE: Microwave margarine in 4-quart bowl or casserole on High 1 minute or until melted. Add sugar and milk; mix well. Microwave 5 minutes or until mixture comes to a full rolling boil, stirring thoroughly after 3 minutes. Mix well, scraping sides of bowl. Continue microwaving 5½ minutes, mixing well and scraping bowl after 3 minutes. Stir in chocolate pieces until melted; continue as directed. (If fudge is too soft after cooling, chill.)

Combine sugar, margarine and milk in heavy 2½ to 3-quart saucepan; bring to full rolling boil, stirring constantly. Continue boiling 5 minutes over medium heat or until candy thermometer reaches 234°, stirring constantly to prevent scorching. Remove from heat; stir in chocolate pieces until melted. Add remaining ingredients; beat until well blended. Pour into greased 13 x 9-inch baking pans. Cool at room temperature; cut into squares.

High Altitude: Decrease recommended temperature (234°) 2 degrees for every 1,000 feet above sea level.

NOTE: Do not substitute sweetened condensed milk for evaporated milk.

Variation: Omit nuts. Substitute 1 cup peanut butter for chocolate pieces.

Contest closes 6/30/88. Requests for rules must be received by 5/30/88.
