Art Thieves Pull Off $52 Million Dutch Robbery

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — Three 19th-century paintings, including works by Vincent Van Gogh and Paul Cezanne, were stolen from the Municipal Museum today and officials said the works were worth up to $52 million.

It was the largest art robbery in modern Dutch history.

Stolen were "Carnations," an 1880 work by Van Gogh; "The House of Maitre Billaud in Nevers," by Dutch painter Johan Jongkind, from 1874; and "Bottle with Apples," an 1894 still life by Cezanne, the French impressionist.

Officials from the museum, also known as the Stedelijk Museum, valued the paintings at up to $52 million but Christie's art auctioneer estimated they were worth $11 million.

The theft was discovered after 5 a.m. when someone broke a window in the museum and an alarm went off, said police spokeswoman Heleen van der Weijden.

A police patrol responding to the alarm did not notice anything missing. An hour later, a security guard on a routine round realized the paintings were gone, she said.

Mrs. van der Weijden said all three paintings had been hanging in the same room, several chambers inside the museum.

She said Interpol and customs services around the world have been alerted.

Museum director Willem Beeren told a news conference that the museum, which has an extensive collection of 19th and 20th century paintings, is guarded only by electronic surveillance at night.

He said the stolen paintings, which would be "almost impossible to sell" because they are so well known, were not insured.

Beeren put the value of the paintings at $52 million "because there is a Van Gogh involved, and recent price developments (for Van Goghs) have been dramatic."

But deputy museum director Rini Dippel told reporters that experts from Christie's, the international art auctioneer, had estimated the value of the works at $11 million.

The Christie's experts made their estimate "on the basis of black-and-white photographs in the museum catalogue," Ms. Dippel said, adding that the Cezanne was valued the highest of the three — at $7.8 million.

In March 1987, Van Gogh's "Sunflowers" drew $39.8 million at a London auction. Last November an unidentified collector paid $53 million for the Dutch painter's "Irises."

The Amsterdam Municipal Museum is one of the Dutch capital's major tourist attractions.

A Piano That Pops ...

LENOIR, N.C. (AP) — A burning piano with popping strings may have saved its owner's life when a blaze swept through his home.

"I was awakened by a ping, ping, ping," said Bennie Conner, 41. "It sounded like someone playing it, but it was a high, shrill sound."

The fire, which apparently was sparked by a faulty electrical heater in the basement, started early Thursday and quickly enveloped the two-story wood house in this western North Carolina town, fire officials said.

Conner's wife and one of his two sons had already left for work and school when the sound of the piano woke Conner about 8:15 a.m. An older son does not live with the family.

The piano had caught fire and the flames caused the strings to snap, creating the "pinging" sound.

Conner said he opened his eyes to see smoke curling under the door of the bedroom. He grabbed his clothes and made his way through thick, black smoke to the front door, he said.

Iran Hears Call For Arms Buildup

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — An Iranian leader today reiterated statements that his nation is at war with the United States and called for an arms buildup to confront America.

"The Americans have officially entered into a war with us," said parliament Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani. "We are really at war with the United States at the present time."

Rafsanjani, quoted by Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, made the remarks during a meeting with officials of the Revolutionary Guards Corps. The agency was monitored in Nicosia.

Later in the day, he told Moslem prayer worshippers that if the United States fought Iran, "they must wait to receive lots of their youths' dead bodies."

It was not the first time Iranian leaders have made such statements.

They have said before that their country is at war with the United States, especially after American military strikes against Iranian offshore platforms in the Persian Gulf.

Rafsanjani, who is close to Iranian revolutionary patriarch Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, also repeated previous accusations that the United States participated in a recent Iraqi attack on Iran's Larak island oil terminal.

"U.S. ships guided Iraqi forces and caused trouble for our defensive forces," he said.

Iran and Iraq have been at war since September 1980.

Rafsanjani said the United States had been "active in providing financial and propaganda support for Iraq since the beginning of the war and is itself responsible for this crime (the war)."

JUST SAY NO! — City employee Millard Garris walks past a sanitation truck bearing new signs telling people to "say no" to drugs. The signs are being displayed on city sanitation vehicles as an educational effort by Greenville's Public Works Department. (Reflector Photo by Cliff Hollis)

City Trucks Put Out The Message

By GREG LAUDICK
Reflector Staff Writer

With increasing attention being focused on the problem of drug abuse within the community, one city department is sending forth a message loud and clear to local residents — "drugs are garbage."

And what better place to display such a message than on garbage trucks. According to Public Works Director Mayo Allen, signs which read "Drugs are garbage; say no, we care!" are being placed on all the sanitation vehicles operated by the city.

"I saw this idea at a sanitation conference I attended," Allen said. "Someone was selling similar signs and I thought to myself, 'We've got all the materials, we can make signs like that ourselves.'"

Allen described the signs as being made from the same type material as traffic signs and indicated they were relatively easy to produce.

"We thought it would be a good idea. Folks in the community have a tendency to see the garbage trucks," he said.

"It's a pretty sign and it stands out. It's something you'll see everyday," Allen added.

Sanitation department employee Millard Garris said the placement of the signs is a good idea which might inspire greater public interest and others to do similar projects.

"I think they're real visible, it's a real eye-catcher," he said. Garris also said he hopes the signs might help persuade young people to think twice about getting involved in drugs.

City Council member Rufus Huggins said if just a few people receive the message that "drugs are garbage," the placement of the signs will be worth the effort.

"I feel that we have to use every means possible in the war against drugs. Signs such as these are an educational tool," he said. "Education is the key."

Tourism Bureau Has 300 Guests

More than 300 people attended the open house reception Thursday night hosted by the Pitt-Greenville Convention and Visitors Bureau, according to the bureau's executive director, Al Nichols.

"It gave me a chance to meet some key people in the community," said Nichols, who began the job in late February.

Local elected officials and members of state associations who may influence where meetings and conventions are held were on hand at the reception at the Greenville Hilton, he said.

The bureau distributed a new convention brochure which highlights the hotels and services in the area, as well as an information sheet about the Pitt-Greenville bureau and a brochure created by the North Carolina Convention and Visitors Bureau that explains how the hotel tax is used to fund bureaus across the state and outlines the economic impact of travel and tourism.

Gov. Jim Martin announced in April that travel and tourism generated $63 million in Pitt County in 1987, and the 38 percent jump from 1986 was the highest increase of any major tourism county in the state.

The convention services brochure will be included in a direct mail campaign the Nichols has planned for June, along with a mug displaying the group's logo and a personal letter

Fox Hunters Object To Shooting

By GREG LAUDICK
Reflector Staff Writer

A proposal which would allow foxes to be shot and trapped in Pitt County is drawing ire from a group of people who value the furry creature as part of their sport.

The County Commissioners agreed on Monday to conduct a hearing to obtain public opinion on whether to allow 30 days each year when foxes can be shot or trapped. Eleven other counties across the state now permit such activity.

But Tim Hardee, a member of the North Carolina Foxhunters Association, said such a law would jeopardize the sport of fox hunting.

He described fox hunting as an activity where participants take groups of dogs into the field to chase foxes.

He said the state association, which claims about 1,000 members, sponsors field trial competitions and bench shows.

Hardee said that opening the fox fields to gun hunters and trappers would endanger the fox population.

"The traps they set will also catch our dogs," he added.

Hardee said similar regulations in other parts of the state in place seven years ago resulted in the near extinction of the animals in those areas.

"You couldn't find a fox back then," he remarked. "It's taken till now to repopulate the fields." Hardee said the considerable growth of developed areas which has occurred in Pitt County over the past several years has already placed a burden on the sport by reducing the amount of available fields for fox hunts.

He said he intends to voice his concerns at the public hearing on the matter, which according to County Manager Kramer Jackson, is scheduled for June 1 at 7 p.m. in the second floor of the County Office Building.

Three Men Charged With Drug Violations

BETHEL — A joint investigation by Bethel police and narcotics officers with the Greenville Police Department and the Pitt County Sheriff's Department led to the arrest of three men Thursday on drug law violation charges.

Bethel Police Chief J.B. Buell said today that Dennis Robinson, 28, of Route 1, Bethel, was arrested on 17 felony counts, including conspiracy, sale, manufacturing and delivery of cocaine and marijuana, while Luther Harrell, 38, of Route 1, Robersonville, was charged with three felony counts, including conspiracy, trafficking and the delivery of cocaine.

Buell said Charlie Ray Robinson, 26, of Crawford St. in Bethel was charged with conspiracy, trafficking and sale of cocaine.

Buell said Dennis Robinson was jailed under a $480,000 bond, while Harrell's bond was set at $200,000. Bond for Charlie Ray Robinson was set at $100,000 Buell said.

The Bethel police official said a number of marijuana plants, a pound of marijuana, growing lights, other drug paraphernalia and a car were confiscated after the three were taken into custody.

Buell, who said "this was a joint effort ... a cooperative effort," between the three law enforcement agencies, said additional arrests may be made in connection with the undercover operation.

Car Burns In Front Of Fire Station

A car involved in a traffic accident at the intersection of Charles Boulevard and Red Banks Road burned Wednesday within sight of a temporarily vacant fire department substation.

Police reported cars driven by Thomas Calvin Quinn of 713 Lancelot Drive and Robert Bridgers Wilkerson of Route 3, Greenville, collided at the intersection about 9:56 p.m. The Quinn car, a 1982 Chevrolet, caught fire and was destroyed.

Wilkerson said this morning that two people using small fire extinguishers attempted to extinguish the fire, but with no success.

"I don't know who they were," Wilkerson said. "That was happening while I was trying to call the fire department."

Raymond Carnery, assistant chief of the Greenville Fire-Rescue Department, said today that no one was at the fire substation at the time of the wreck because "the truck assigned to the station had mechanical problems" and the men assigned to the station were "sent to (the) public works (department) to have it repaired. There was no one at the station at the time."

"A backup truck had mechanical problems, also," Carnery said, and a "truck from uptown responded" to the emergency call.

Police estimated damage to the Quinn car at $7,000 and set damage to the Wilkerson vehicle at $2,000.

Officers charged Quinn, the owner of the burned car, with making an improper turn.

Regional FAA Gives OK To Airport Plan

By JOHN BARE
Reflector Staff Writer

An expansion project at the Pitt-Greenville Airport is still on hold, but airport director Jim Turcotte said the tentative allocation could arrive within a week to 10 days.

Officials at the Federal Aviation Administration's Atlanta office have approved the request for at least $600,000 in entitlement money for airport expansion, Turcotte said Thursday at the airport authority's monthly meeting, and officials in Washington, D.C. are now considering the request.

The FAA has promised the entitlement money to the Pitt-Greenville Airport, but the tentative allocation is needed to ensure architects and airport officials that the FAA will approve this specific project.

Estimates from the LPA Group, a South Carolina-based architectural firm with an office in Raleigh, indicate the project will cost between $900,000 and $1 million, and it will enlarge the airport from 5,000 square feet to 13,000 square feet. About $280,000 will be needed from the city and county for the project, and the state will also provide funding.

FAA officials in Washington, D.C. are waiting to approve the tentative allocation for airport expansion so they may also make a decision on providing money for equipment needed for the airport to purchase a full instrument landing system, Turcotte said.

The authority has not been able to convince the FAA to fund the ILS in the past, Turcotte said, and it is moving forward to purchase a full ILS — which uses radio signals to guide pilots to the runway in poor weather — with local and state money.

Every airport in North Carolina that has an ILS received money from the FAA to purchase it, Turcotte said, but the local airport began growing after the FAA changed its policy on funding such projects.

With the airport's request now in Washington, Turcotte said the FAA is considering a national policy to deal with smaller airports that were left out in the past.

Turcotte did not say whether the delay was an indication that money for an ILS may be forthcoming, and he said the airport would continue to proceed with the ILS purchase with local and state funding.

In other business, the authority unanimously agreed to accept a $150,000 grant from the state to be used in land acquisition.

The grant is $50,000 higher than the state initially offered, and because it must be matched with local money, the authority also approved a budget amendment to take $50,000 from the authority's general fund and add it to $100,000 provided by the city of Greenville and Pitt County.

The authority has hired a negotiator who is in the process of making initial offers to three groups of property owners, Turcotte said.

The airport needs to purchase about 20 acres of land west of the airport to increase the clearance zone on either side of the runway and meet FAA regulations, Turcotte said. About 95 percent of the land is farmland.

Flags will be raised in remembrance of American hostages Terry Anderson, Thomas Sutherland, Frank Hebert Reed, Joseph James Cicippio, Edward Austin Tracy, Alann Steen, Jesse Jonathan, Terry Waite, and the late Lt. Col. William Higgins and the late William Buckley.

The idea for the dedication of the land for the memorial and the ceremony was conceived by Greenville area citizens Joe Maines and Jim Simpkins after they attended a Journalists Committee to Free Terry Anderson ceremony in Washington, D.C., several months ago. When the idea of using cemetery land for the memorial site was arrived at, all of the hostages' families were asked for opinions before the go-ahead was made.

The British Broadcasting Co. has indicated it will send a correspondent to the event since Waite is one of the honorees.

Emergency Care

Medical District Needs Support

Greenville's medical district is in need of emergency care.

If the City Council heeds a Planning & Zoning Commission suggestion to rezone the property directly across from Pitt County Memorial Hospital from MD-2 to MD-3, the future of the district will be diminished by commercial development. There is no need to perform this type of unnecessary surgery on a zoning plan that is sound and serves the needs of the public asset it was devised to protect.

Unless the proper treatment is applied by city leaders, serious and permanent injury to the East Carolina Medical Park could occur.

Land uses in MD-1 and MD-2 zones are carefully restricted to protect the area surrounding PCMH and the East Carolina University Medical School from congestion and inappropriate growth. MD-3 is less limiting; it allows endeavors with a more commercial slant. Such a change could significantly destroy the intended decorum of the district.

Besides, it sets a dangerous precedent for accommodating further rezoning requests in the area close to the hospital. Landowners in other MD-2 zones would have sufficient ammunition to demand their property receive similar consideration.

The proposal raises questions about the priorities of Greenville's public boards. The advantage of easing restrictions would be to encourage commercial development. Is that what city officials support — at the expense of a valuable resource? An asset capable of both bringing prosperity and improving quality of life? One that could focus regional, statewide and even national attention on Greenville?

Proponents of easing restrictions might claim this is the only way to make the district prosper and encourage developers to participate in the cost of roadbuilding for completion of Arlington and Moye boulevards. But this position represents a short-sighted view. The potential of the medical park is unlimited. Anticipated medical-related growth will come, if leaders have the vision to allow it to happen. The community must keep its eye on the next century, not just the next year.

In addition, with PCMH and a growing medical school needing transportation connections to the city, Arlington and Moye boulevard roadbuilding projects will become reality, simply by demand.

The city's medical district zoning should remain as it is, not be adulterated by the flawed notion that easing restrictions will encourage roadbuilding and prosperity. That type of thinking is preventive medicine for a medical district that must remain a social and economic asset.

The Afghan Toll

Withdrawal Reminder Of Vietnam

Once, it was United States troops returning from a futile war in Vietnam.

It was a war the nation had lost, not in the sense of surrendering, but by failing to meet the goals that had taken soldiers there in the first place.

Now, history seems to be strangely repeating itself — except this time it is the Soviets withdrawing the first of their troops from an 8½-year war in Afghanistan. The photos of the withdrawal leave no doubt that the military men are deliriously happy to cross the border and return to their own country. Their countrymen cheered the Soviet convoy as it crossed the border into home territory.

The Soviets have said they will withdraw the 155,000 military people in Afghanistan with a nine-month period. That will end a mission which began in December 1979, no doubt with leaders feeling the military could quickly make a difference in supporting the Marxist government of Afghanistan and their troops would soon be home.

It didn't work out that way, just as it didn't work for the United States in Vietnam. Instead, the Afghanistan war dragged out, and while we don't know that much about how citizens reacted, it is a safe bet that Soviets grew weary of hearing about their young men being killed or wounded in a land that meant little to them.

Thus, ending the war in Afghanistan is sure to be a popular move on the part of the Soviet government. Perhaps the Soviets could have applied their full military might and crushed the rebels, but it simply wasn't worth it in expenditures of lives and national treasures. A stalemate resulted.

Now it is over for the first group of returning Soviet soldiers and soon the Afghanistan adventure will end for all Soviet troops. It is not a war that will be glorified and perhaps it will receive little mention in future Soviet history books, but just as Vietnam, it took its toll on a nation.

All Vote As Americans

'In the distorting emotional atmosphere of the political campaign it is especially important for all concerned to remain aware that the black and Jewish segments of America's population still have much more that unites than divides them.'

With three weeks remaining, the California primary is increasingly being seen as the final showdown between Jesse Jackson and Michael Dukakis. Some may also expect it to bring about a further sharpening of hostilities between blacks and Jews.

As so often before, the tensions that are heating up are being caused by a specific personality and event rather than by real differences in interest or attitude.

This time the personality is Rev. Jesse Jackson and the event is his candidacy for president. Jews do not forget Jackson's Jewish slurs and his friendship with anti-Semites like Louis Farrakhan, Yasser Arafat and Moammar Gadhafi. Blacks resent such criticism of Jackson, considering it evidence of racism. They cannot understand how people of good will can reject an idealistic program like that proposed by their favorite candidate.

It is typical of the political process that here, as in so many other instances, the popular generalities ignore the Jews who are backing Jackson, and the blacks — including committed Democrats — who have failed to endorse him.

Perhaps both groups should heed the old American Indian advice of "walking a mile in the others' moccasins." If a Jewish candidate were campaigning for the nomination, would Jews not tend to vote for him (or her) even if they did not see eye to eye on every issue? Would they not resent anyone's presumption that a Jew can't win? Might they not overlook the candidate's questionable associations? Conversely, if any non-black candidate had associated with the grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan or had embraced the prime minister of South Africa while presenting an otherwise attractive political platform, would not blacks hesitate to vote for him (or her)?

In the distorting emotional atmosphere of the political campaign it is especially important for all concerned to remain aware that the black and Jewish segments of America's population still have much more that unites than divides them.

Jews, in spite of the prominence in neoconservative circles of some of their numbers, still tend to be more liberal than other whites of similar socioeconomic backgrounds. Some say that Jews fight for the underdog, support religious and ethnic minorities other than their own, and "vote against their pocketbook" because they remember harsh treatment in Europe and during their immigrant days in the United States. Others point to the emphasis on charity in 3,000 years of teaching by the biblical prophets and generations of rabbis.

Whatever the reason, Jews have moved toward conservatism more slowly than other upwardly mobile elements of the population. They still are found in disproportionate numbers in such organizations as the American Civil Liberties Union and Common Cause. Proportionately, more Jews than other non-blacks may be found among both the founders and the current members of the NAACP and the Urban League.

Similarly, the overwhelming majority of blacks who have escaped the grip of poverty have remained committed to a progressive political agenda. They remember their roots, and they continue to believe that government has an important role to play in creating opportunity and in combating social inequity. Even blacks who are frustrated in their upward economic mobility show little taste for separatism and opt to stay in "the system."

Blacks and Jews share the same enemies, especially the violence-prone neo-Nazi organizations springing up in various parts of our country. They share a common apprehensiveness that acceptance by the dominant WASP culture is a tenuous matter. Though Jews and blacks may differ on the methods to obtain economic and educational justice, with one group preferring goals and timetables while the other opts for quotas, these differences are not insurmountable, nor do they cancel out wide areas of agreement and of potential for cooperation.

The black church, still the major source of spiritual nurture in its community, derives its liberating message not only from Jesus and the Apostles but from the same Moses and the same Hebrew prophets whose words are heard in the synagogue.

Seen in perspective, perhaps Jews and blacks act no differently from any other definable interest groups in the American body politic. They argue their special concerns within each party until the convention. They fight for their party and its candidate after the convention. And on Election Day they vote as Americans.

Everybody Believes In Astrology

WASHINGTON — Not even the National Enquirer's panel of Top Ten Psychics predicted it: Nancy Reagan consulted astrologers about the president's travel plans and to help schedule important events of state.

While Washington wags were agog at the possibility that the agenda of the Free World was occasionally entrusted, at least in some small way, to the Stallone-Will-Marry-Jackie-O crowd, President Reagan's top spinmeisters were frantically engaged in damage control.

They probably didn't have to bother. Many Americans, it seems, are nearly as superstitious as their president. And if a key to Reagan's popularity is that he is the average man writ large, then he may suffer little lasting damage from the stardirt revealed by Donald Regan in his new "quit and tell" book.

A survey of 1,989 adult Americans by the Roper Organization in 1985 disclosed that nearly a quarter — 23 percent — said they believed in astrology. Another 30 percent hedged their bets and said they "weren't sure," while slightly less than half said they did not believe in it.

A survey conducted for the National Science Foundation in 1979 reported that about one out of five adults said they, like the Reagans, read horoscopes or a personal astrology report "quite often," and one out of eight said they read their astrological forecast every day. In total, more than half of those surveyed said they read such columns at least occasionally.

When the NSF asked those questions again in 1985, it found that overall readership of horoscopes had declined slightly to about one in six, although the percentage of people who said they had decided not to do something because of their horoscope had increased from 5 percent to 8 percent, a "statistically significant" gain, according to the NSF.

The survey also found that 39 percent of the American public considered astrology to be "very scientific" or "sort of scientific." Naturally, the scientific establishment found those results slightly dismaying. "If the public is not clear about what is and is not a science," an NSF statement huffed, "then it also may not be clear on what views are regarded as scientific. This may help to explain the lack of acceptance of scientific thinking," as disclosed elsewhere in the survey. After the first details about Reagan's Karnak connections leaked out, more accounts of baffling First Family behaviors soon followed. The bill of particulars, as reported by the press, included the president's belief in lucky numbers.

Reagan's lucky number is 33. White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater opened a press conference last week by telling reporters he would "take your first question at exactly 12:33 and a half," a joke that Washington Post White House correspondent Lou Cannon reported was part of a strategy to make light of the astrology story without directly denying it.

In fact, many Americans say they have lucky numbers or charms. The 1985 NSF survey reported that 43 percent of the American public believes that "some numbers are especially lucky for some people." And a nationwide Audits and Survey poll in 1983 found that 12 percent of adults said they had an object that they considered their "lucky charm."

The disclosure about the Reagans' links to things paranormal raises other issues that Enquiring Minds might like to know more about. Do the Reagans, for example, believe in ghosts? Eleven percent of Americans do, according to a 1978 Gallup survey. And what about witches? Again, 11 percent of 1,553 Americans claimed to believe in them when questioned by Gallup.

Better yet, what about flying saucers? Surveys in recent years consistently show that more than half of all Americans believe that UFOs are real. Those surveys consistently report that about 10 percent of people say they personally have seen a UFO. The NSF poll found that 43 percent believe that at least some of the reported UFOs "are really space vehicles from other civilizations." Frankly, it might be wise political strategy for Reagan to come out of the closet on UFOs, and peddle the notion of an impending War of the Worlds. After all, what better justification could there be for his Strategic Defense Initiative?

IN THE STATE

New Priest

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — Parishioners at Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church Sunday will celebrate mass for the first time with a priest who also is a grandfather.

The 65-year-old widower, the first Our Lady of Lourdes member to become a priest, said the marriage that ended with his wife's death five years ago and his role as father of five children will help his priesthood.

"It is a little unusual for a priest to have a family, but it will be an asset because I will have been on both sides of the pulpit," Kirsch said. "Some people think of me as a married man, but death ends marriage so it's still true that the Catholic church doesn't accept married men in the priesthood."

Kirsch, who will serve as a parochial vicar at Our Lady of Assumption Church in Charlotte, said he doesn't think his age will be a hindrance.

"The Lord has blessed me with good health and I keep asking him for more and more," he said.

Sanford Lease

RALEIGH (AP) — U.S. Sen. Terry Sanford, D-N.C., says he will cancel a lease for Senate office space in a Chapel Hill office condominium that was formerly owned by Sanford and his top aide.

Sanford also said that the staff of the Senate Ethics Committee is taking a second look at that government lease at the request of Paul A. Vick, Sanford's administrative assistant and business partner.

"It was absolutely a mistake," Sanford said. "It may not have been wrong, but it was a mistake. Had I been asked I never would have done it. And, of course, it embarrassed me."

Wife Released

DURHAM (AP) — A Durham woman charged with fatally shooting her baseball coach husband has been released on bond, a month after she told authorities the shooting occurred accidentally while she was removing a pistol hidden under his pillow.

Barbara T. Stager, 39, was released from jail Thursday after her parents and friends posted property bonds totaling $250,000, authorities said.

Mrs. Stager is charged with first-degree murder in the death of her husband, Allison Russell "Russ" Stager III, who coached baseball at Durham High School. Stager died of a single bullet wound in the head. The shooting occurred in the couple's home in northern Durham County. His death originally was listed as accidental, but authorities later arrested Mrs. Stager and charged her with murder.

Students Fall

SPINDALE, N.C. (AP) — Two Rutherfordton-Spindale Central High School students were in stable condition at Rutherford Hospital Thursday after falling about 30 feet from a ferris wheel at the White Oaks Plaza shopping center Wednesday night.

Crystal Dawn Hicks, 16, and Christi Sorrells, 17, were on the ride, owned by Larry's Amusements, when they fell from their seat at about 8:10 p.m., said Spindale Police Chief Jack Conner.

Ferris wheel operator Willie Barksdale said the two girls were swinging back and forth in the seat, and he told them to stop.

"I can't figure out how the pin came loose," he said. "It don't do that unless you rock it. If you rock it, there ain't no telling what will happen."

Suit Settled

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — A 19-year-old High Point man who was shot and paralyzed by a Guilford County sheriff's deputy has settled a lawsuit against the county and the deputy.

The suit filed by David Long against Deputy Bruce Knight had been scheduled for trial this week. Parties to the suit agreed not to disclose the settlement, said Norman Smith, Long's lawyer.

The suit asked for more than $10,000 in damages.

Knight, investigating a break-in at Southwest Guilford High School, shot Long when the deputy found him crouching in a bathroom stall, holding a tire iron. The suit charged the deputy was negligent in shooting because he used unreasonable force against Long, who was later convicted of felony breaking and entering.

Warrant

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — A warrant charging a New Bern woman with murder was issued in the stabbing death of a 65-year-old Pembroke man.

The woman, Audrey Harrison Hyde, 28, of New Bern, is believed to be en route to New York, her native state, said Lt. J.C. Woolard, investigator of the case.

Information on the warrant charging her with the Sunday first-degree murder of Samuel Stallings was entered into the police information computer. Stallings was stabbed 11 times in the attack.

Escapee Returns

RALEIGH (AP) — A convicted rapist who escaped from a prison in Durham County 11 years ago has turned himself in to Raleigh police.

The man, 41-year-old Raymond Nathaniel Leach of Raleigh, had served 10 years of a life prison term for rape when he escaped Oct. 25, 1977, scaling a seven-foot fence at the Guess Road prison unit in Durham County.

Over the years, police said Leach had been arrested for speeding in both Raleigh and Baltimore — but his driving record had never been linked with his criminal record.

Leach was persuaded by family and friends to turn himself in to police last week, said Durham police Officer J.E. Shambley.

Jordan Offers State Day Care Plan

RALEIGH (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan says he will ask the legislature to provide $4.2 million to help start care programs in local schools for so-called "latchkey children" around the state.

"The goal of this latchkey program is really a simple one: to keep children from going home to empty houses after school and to maximize our educational and child care resources," Jordan said Thursday.

The programs would give children a place to stay before and after school while their parents are at work, Jordan said, adding that an estimated 500,000 North Carolina youngsters below age 13 need some type of care facilities.

The $4.2 million appropriation, which Jordan said he would propose during the legislative budget session that convenes June 2, would be divided into grants of $30,000 for each of the state's 140 school systems. The grants would help defray start-up costs — or expansion costs in areas that already have such programs.

The programs would be self-supporting; operating expenses would be financed by fees levied at rates based on parents' ability to pay. Jordan estimated that the typical program's weekly cost would be $12 to $25 per child.

The drastic increase in the number of working mothers and single-parent families has overwhelmed private-sector day care centers, Jordan said. He emphasized that the in-school facilities would not compete with private centers, which typically offer all-day care instead of before- and after-school care.

The percentage of North Carolina mothers in the work force is the nation's highest, he said. "If any state needs more child care, it's North Carolina."

Currently, 351 of North Carolina's 1,500 schools — 17 percent — offer some type of after-school care for children of working parents. These programs serve roughly 17,000 children.

Tornado Hits Hoke

FAYETTEVILLE (AP) — A tornado apparently touched down in Hoke County Thursday night, knocking down trees and power lines about 10 p.m., but no injuries were reported, the National Weather Service said.

"Large objects were picked up and put down, so apparently it was a tornado," said Jim Merrell, a forecaster for the National Weather Service office at the Raleigh-Durham Airport.

High winds knocked down trees and power lines near McCain in Hoke County, authorities said. No injuries had been reported late Thursday night, but authorities said there was an undetermined amount of damage to McCain Correctional Center in Hoke County.

Lightning sparked three or four brush fires in the McCain area, and firemen from the North Raeford, Pine Hill and West Hoke fire departments were still in the area at 11 p.m. Thursday, authorities said.

A Fort Bragg, a funnel cloud was sighted about 10:45 p.m. Trees were knocked down, but no injuries were reported and the roads were cleared before midnight, authorities said.

In Raeford, lightning apparently struck one of two buildings at the First Baptist Church, and the building was damaged and still smoldering at 11 p.m., according to Raeford Police Chief V.L. Wiggins.

Vet Gets Chilly Greeting At RDU

MORRISVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A handicapped glider pilot on a cross-country venture got a chilly reception in his home state when he asked to land at Raleigh-Durham Airport.

"I do not think that it is safe for a glider or lighter aircraft to operate here in a stream of jets," John Brantley III, the airport's director, said Thursday.

While Brantley did not deny landing rights to Vietnam veteran Terry Frazier of Charlotte, the landing was done at Frazier's own risk.

"We said we would not assume responsibility or liability," Brantley said.

Frazier, who lost both legs in Vietnam, landed at RDU about 4:15 p.m. He is scheduled to make a "symbolic landing" today at Kitty Hawk.

His glider was to be taken by trailer from Raleigh to Manteo, where it will be towed into the air and released for the short trip into Kitty Hawk, where the Wright brothers made the first flight in a powered aircraft.

"It's an appropriate symbol to have it (the trip) end there," Frazier said Thursday. "It's the origin of flight... the origin of glider flying."

Frazier, an English professor at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, left Brownfield, Calif., May 1 in the 525-pound glider. He had hoped to become the first glider pilot to go across the country without having to haul his craft on a trailer for long stretches.

But overall, he has only flown about 1,400 miles of the 2,500-mile trip. He still set several records, including his Wednesday flight of 220 miles over Georgia.

Frazier said Thursday afternoon's 140-mile trip from Monroe Airport near Charlotte — of which he glided 60 miles and towed the aircraft the other 80 miles — "wasn't bad to handle at all."

"I've made much worse flights than this," he said. He said the most difficult part of the trip came on the first day, when winds died down as he was attempting to fly over a mountain ridge in Southern California.

"I had some real scary moments... (I was) flying real close to the mountains," looking for wind gusts to lift him out of the area, Frazier said.

A week later, an encounter with high winds forced the glider down at Tucson, Ariz. The glider was towed over land to Hobbs, N.M. There he was delayed for two days, waiting for favorable winds, said Bryant McMurray, a spokesman for the flight.

The rest of the route took him chiefly across the southern United States, from New Mexico into Dallas and across Louisiana and Georgia. Frazier set a sailplane altitude record in Louisiana, flying at heights of up to 10,300 feet, McMurray said.

Grocery, Energy Increases Boost Consumer Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose 0.4 percent in April as clothing costs gained for the second straight month and grocery prices climbed at their fastest pace in 20 months, the government said today.

Energy prices were up sharply as well, reflecting the steepest rise in gasoline prices since August.

The overall gain, only marginally better than March's 0.5 percent gain, meant that for the first four months of 1988 retail prices were up at an annual rate of 4.5 percent.

While this was little changed from the 4.4 percent for all of 1987, economists were concerned because much of the inflationary pressure has shown up in the last two months.

Analysts noted that the March rise had been the most severe since January 1987. Last month's 0.4 percent overall gain was equivalent to an annual inflation rate of 5.3 percent.

More than one-fourth of the April gain came from a steep 2.0 percent jump in clothing costs, tying March for the greatest one-month gain since price records were first kept in 1947.

As was the case with March, analysts said the more expensive clothing was chiefly the result of higher priced women's clothing lines.

Grocery store prices rose 0.8 percent in April, the biggest advance since August 1986. Leading the way were sharply higher prices for beef (up 2.3 percent), fish (up 2.9 percent), and fruits and vegetables (up 1.4 percent).

Gasoline prices climbed 1.1 percent last month after a 0.4 percent March rise. Last month's jump was the steepest since a 3.3 percent rise in August. After that, gasoline prices had fallen for six straight months.

The gasoline price increases over the last two months largely reflected concern that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries would agree with non-member nations to limit production.

But those talks ended in failure and world oil prices have since fallen substantially, leading analysts to believe that retail prices will soon turn downward.

The department gave these other specifics on April retail price activity:

—The record gain in clothing costs reflected an average 3.5 percent gain in the prices of women's apparel, a 2.7 percent rise in the prices for children's goods and a 2.1 percent jump in men's clothing costs.

—New car prices were unchanged while automobile financing costs fell by 1.1 percent.

—Public transportation expenses, reflecting a jump in airline fares, rose 0.8 percent.

—Home heating oil prices rose 0.9 percent, while natural gas and electricity costs rose 0.4 percent.

The April increase left the overall index at 117.1, meaning that a hypothetical selection of goods costing $100 during a 1982-84 base period would have cost $117.10 last month. Unlike the other figures in the report, the overall index is not adjusted for seasonal fluctuations.

Fears of inflation have stirred up financial markets in recent days and economists.

Stocks barely broke a two-day losing streak Thursday after worries about inflation and rising interest rates pushed the Dow Jones industrial average down sharply Tuesday and Wednesday.

Investors have viewed with some alarm a string of seemingly good economic reports in recent weeks.

8-Year-Old Boy Charged In Drug Deal

BALTIMORE (AP) — An 8-year-old boy described as a diligent student was arrested for selling cocaine on a city street corner, and his mother said she did everything she could to stop him, including moving to a new home.

Police said they arrested the boy and Dale Smith, 20, after watching them conduct several drug sales Wednesday night.

Sgt. Fred Bealfeld said Smith had used the second-grader to conduct several drug sales before they were arrested. Police confiscated 14 bags of cocaine worth about $280 from the child after a brief chase that ended at his back porch.

"Using kids this young is becoming the trend rather than the exception," Bealfeld said.

The boy's 28-year-old mother said Thursday she had found bags of cocaine on him in the past and returned them to the dealers.

"I told him, 'They are going to catch you holding drugs,'" she said. She even took him on a tour of the Maryland Penitentiary last month but "it didn't do any good," she said.

The boy said he spent the money he received, about $4 or $5. "The carnival's been here two weeks, and he played the carnival all two weeks," said the mother.

The boy was described by his school principal as a diligent student in his second-grade special education class.

"He turns his homework in on time, completes all his assignments. ... He is really a good student," said Bentolou Elementary School principal Mary A. Winterling.

"I think he knew that drugs were somehow bad, but at his age it's a lot different to say drugs are bad, don't mess with them, than it is to say the stove is hot, don't touch it," Bealfeld said.

The boy's mother said she moved from a public housing project to a rowhouse with her twin sister to get away from an environment of drug dealing but her current neighborhood is just as bad.

The boy's father was killed in a drug-related shooting in the housing projects, and the boy witnessed a drug-related slaying of a 23-year-old man three years ago, she said.

Smith was charged with possession of cocaine with the intent to distribute, possession of cocaine, conspiracy to distribute cocaine and using a minor to distribute cocaine.

The boy was charged as a juvenile with possession of cocaine with intent to distribute. He was later taken home.

Doctorate

LONDON (AP) — The Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. Robert Runcie, will confer a doctorate of literature next month on British playwright Christopher Fry.

The Church of England said the degree will honor the 80-year-old Fry's work as a dramatist and his contribution to religious drama.

As spiritual heads of the Church of England, archbishops of Canterbury are entitled to confer Lambeth degrees under a statute dating back to King Henry VIII. These are full academic degrees from Oxford University, not honorary degrees, the church said.

Fry was a schoolmaster, actor and theater director before making his name as a playwright in the 1940s.

Reagan Says He Considers Gorbachev Personal Friend

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says he considers Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev a friend as well as an adversary and says the West should applaud whatever reforms Gorbachev can achieve.

Reagan also says he believes "it is evident" Gorbachev is encountering opposition from forces "who want to cling to what are more the Stalinist policies" of yesteryear.

Providing a rare insight to the private talks the two have had in recent years, Reagan told foreign broadcasters Thursday that strains in superpower relations have not harmed their personal relationship.

Asked if he considered Gorbachev a friend, Reagan replied, "Well, I can't help but say yes to that. ... Yes, we can debate and we disagree. But there is never a sense of personal animus when the arguments are over."

While Reagan has challenged Gorbachev to prove that his "glasnost" campaign of openness is genuine, he said the West should encourage the move toward change in the Soviet Union.

"If there's any way that outside nations could be helpful in this, they should," he said, "because many of the reforms that he has undertaken are aimed at the things that we have always criticized in the Soviet Union."

"And if there is a way to be helpful in that, certainly, to at least acknowledge our approval of what he is doing, that we should do that."

Reagan's obliging tone came on a day in which the president continued to receive briefings in preparation for his May 29-June 2 summit with Gorbachev in Moscow.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — People who live together before marriage should be denied a full church wedding because "such a wedding would be dishonor," and instead be married in a low-key ceremony, Hartford Archbishop John F. Whealon said in a column published in The Catholic Transcript.

"I would be happy to witness your marriage in a simple, quiet ceremony with two witnesses, and perhaps your immediate families," Whealon said he would tell such couples. His comments were addressed to priests confronted with the issue.

Whealon said, however, couples living together should be granted a full marriage ceremony if they are willing to "live separately and chastely" until they are married.

The statement serves as an advisory and does not set policy. Parish priests say they make the ultimate decisions on church weddings based on pastoral consideration. Whealon said co-habiting couples who want an extravagant church wedding are in effect asking the church to provide "tacit approval" to unacceptable behavior.

Shelter Shutdown

Mountain Children Cast Adrift

By BOB SCOTT
Asheville Citizen

BRYSON CITY, N.C. (AP) — Hawthorn Heights was an oasis for the young children of the mountains who, through no fault of their own, stood alone against turmoil, uncertainty and danger.

It was a shelter for young people who had no reason to care where they went or what would happen as they traveled life's paths.

The children came here on the orders of a judge, a social worker, the police. Some had been tossed out by uncaring parents or those who could no longer cope — those children the staff called "pushouts."

Regardless of why or how, here they found a bed, warmth, food and someone to talk to. They learned responsibility for themselves and respect for others in the shelter's structured setting. Many turned their lives around and got back on track. There were also failures.

But Hawthorn Heights closed last month. It was a victim of too little money and the inability to attract and hold a staff that worked long hours under immense stress. Starting salary for a staff member was $12,200 a year.

Hawthorn Heights was never an imposing structure. There's no air conditioning, wall-to-wall carpet or plush furniture. The rooms are decorated with hand-me-downs and donated furniture.

It had been a single-family brick residence in the Governors Island community, almost directly across from the Highway Patrol office, until it was converted into the shelter in the early 1970s. It was the only thing resembling a peaceful home life that many of the children who passed through here ever knew. There was no charge for Hawthorn Heights's shelter.

Hawthorn housed nine children at a time as the only runaway shelter west of Charlotte for boys and girls 10 to 17 years old who were in need of immediate or short-term placement up to 90 days.

The closing comes at a time when children "seem to be having more serious problems, behavioral and emotional, than they have in the past," said Elizabeth S. Chambers, director of Mountain Youth Resources.

But there was a $30,000 shortfall this year for the private, non-profit corporation licensed by the state Department of Human Resources as a child placing-foster care agency.

Hawthorn Heights was partially funded by the seven westernmost counties and Community Based Alternatives funds. Churches and civic groups also helped the program.

"When we first opened the shelter we didn't see that many kids that seem to need one-on-one care. It's a serious problem. They are troublesome or troubled kids," Chambers said Friday.

Last year 63 children wound up at Hawthorn Heights. The average stay was 38 days. Children who would have been referred to Hawthorn must now be sent to other state institutions or the Buncombe County Detention Center.

In the six months before Hawthorn closed, only 10 of the 31 children placed in the shelter returned home. Five went to group homes or child care institutions, one to live with relatives, three to foster care, two to a psychiatric hospital, one to detention, one to training school and two ran away from Hawthorn, Chambers said.

Chambers doesn't believe people realize the extent of the problems some children in the western counties have with their home life, school or community. "If people realized there is a problem they'd do something about it," she said as she looked out the tall, narrow window of her office at the Jackson County Airport.

"We took any child that there was no place for them to go," Chambers said. "Some were abused ... runaways. One was a 10-year-old girl abused by her stepfather. When people think or talk about runaways they think of the metropolitan areas. Of 16 admissions we had recently, 11 were runaways. This kind of program isn't popular. These kids are not popular. People have turned their backs on these kids.

"The need is there," she said. Chambers hopes Hawthorn will be reopened. In the meantime, Mountain Youth Resources is taking an alternate route by seeking grants to provide intensive in-home, family-oriented services to keep the child in the home. "The bottom line is to find out why the child is having a problem," she said.

Chambers is also looking at specialized foster care.

"But the first priority is to reopen Hawthorn," she said. "There will always be a need for shelter."

Boys will be boys in big, bold bright printed camp shirts and peeced surfer shorts. Little girls will stand above the crowd in sherbet-colored multistriped separates with printed accents.

With These Bills, I Do Thee Wed

By CHANGING TIMES
The Kiplinger Magazine

The traditional wedding has made a big comeback, but traditional wedding prices haven't. If you're planning one, you may be in for a surprise.

$10,000 will buy a standard deal: a nice reception for 100 guests, with a sit-down supper, cake, champagne, a photographer and some live music. A first-class, once-in-a-lifetime blowout can cost $30,000 in many urban areas.

But shed no tears at what a wedding can cost. You can do it in style without breaking the bank.

One of the first things you should do is consider hiring a wedding consultant. They can charge as little as $50 for help on the big day to as much as 15 percent of the total budget for planning and supervising the whole affair. But this can be money well spent, according to Changing Times magazine.

Among the consultant's jobs is advising you which corners can be safely cut. The best consultants are also savvy negotiators who earn back in lower food and beverage prices much of what you pay them. And, if like many people you're too busy to plan and run a wedding, the consultant can do it for you.

Some consultants will orchestrate events on the wedding day itself. This is worth remembering if you're an intransigent do-it-yourselfer. Lots of folks plan like mad to have a nice wedding, but don't wholly enjoy the big day because they're too busy checking table settings and the supply of food and champagne. Also, consultants can often coax superior performances from florists, caterers, bakers and other wedding vendors.

You'll find professional consultants in the Yellow Pages under "Wedding Consultants" or "Bridal Consultants," but they can range from liquor distributors to limo services. Better yet, ask for recommendations from newly married friends. When you find a consultant, ask for and call at least three references. If all else fails, contact the Association of Bridal Consultants, 200 Chestnutland Rd., New Milford, CT 06776, (203) 355-0464.

Planning a wedding on your own works if you're detail oriented and have the moxie of an aluminum-sided salesperson. Hagging is absolutely recommended. So is checking references for all services and products you buy. Make sure everything you agree on with each vendor is written down in either a contract or a letter signed by the vendor, because there will be no chance later to undo mistakes or clear up misunderstandings.

Payment schedules vary, but expect to make deposits on nearly everything costing more than $100, and be ready to pay the balance on the wedding day or even a few days beforehand. You'll probably forfeit deposits if your plans change within six weeks of the wedding day, but you can work out an agreement for this ahead of time. Here are additional cost-saving ideas to consider:

— Food and liquor. In all but the most rural areas, a sit-down dinner served by a caterer or restaurant costs at least $10 per guest. At big-city clubs and restaurants, figure on five to 15 times that amount — $125 per person for a medium-to-fancy seated dinner at Boston's Ritz-Carlton, for instance.

Even though this is the one place where you shouldn't cut corners, there are a variety of strategies for providing good food at least cost.

Maybe your budget can't accommodate a big meal for a big mob. Then a buffet with hot hors d'oeuvres usually makes sense. You can have a sit-down dinner for a small group of family members later on.

You might have a reception between one o'clock and four o'clock in the afternoon with champagne or champagne punch rather than an open bar. You will then have more to spend on hors d'oeuvres and cake.

You might have champagne, wine and beer available instead of a full bar, but never agree to a cash bar. If you can buy your own booze, do so. Hoteliers and some caterers insist on providing it — at a big markup, of course — if they're hosting the event. The only negotiation might be on brands. If it's a premium liquor you want, make sure that's what they really provide.

— Reception site. Where to go for that reception? Anywhere from a private loft to a public library to a state park. Again, prices are all over the lot. You could pay as little as $5 for a public park to $3,000 or more to rent a lavish estate. Many hotels have special packages that include practically everything.

When visiting a reception site, ask how many guests the space can accommodate. For how long does the rental fee reserve it? What are overtime charges? Are there adequate kitchen facilities? What are regulations on decorations, flowers, photography? Is there an in-house caterer or a preferred list of caterers? Can you use one not on the list? Is there a piano?

— Caterers. Some caterers insist on providing not only the food and beverages but also the furniture, decorations, silverware, china, bar and all service personnel. Others are more flexible, allowing you to pick from a menu of services.

You might be able to save money by renting the paraphernalia yourself and letting the caterer supply the eats, drinks and servers. Many big rental stores offer one-stop shopping for wedding parties.

A food markup of 30 percent is standard in the catering business. On a tight budget, you might buy food and hire a free-lance chef. The cost would be between $100 and $200 for the day.

If the caterer furnishes liquor and you pay by the amount consumed, agree on the method of taking inventory and ask who will do it at both the beginning and end of the party. You should also give your caterer a top-line figure so they don't go overboard. Ask to be kept abreast of how much champagne is being poured. If the bottle count pushes uncomfortably high, stop offering it at the bar and offer it only at tables on request.

Key questions to ask prospective caterers: What's the estimated cost per person and what does it include? What is the staff-to-guest ratio? For seated meals, expect one waiter per eight to 10 guests. For cocktails and hors d'oeuvres, one per 25 guests.

Don't Lose Head Over Lightning

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm 30 years old now, but when I was a teen-ager in Kansas, I read a column you wrote about what to do if you're ever caught in a storm with lightning striking all around you. If you can find it, please give it another run. It really helped me. — STILL LIVING IN KANSAS

DEAR STILL: It ran in May 1979, and it's still helpful.

DEAR READERS: No problems today. Instead, I am devoting my entire column to tips that could save your life.

Let's pretend you're a contestant on "Hollywood Squares," and you are asked the following question:

"More people are killed every year by (a) tornadoes, (b) cyclones, (c) lightning."

If you said "lightning," you would be right.

The National Weather Service says that most deaths caused by lightning could have been avoided if only common sense had been used. But common sense is not as common as most people think it is.

Lightning occurs during thunderstorms, so the logical time to start protecting yourself is when you see the storm clouds gathering.

As a general rule, avoid high places, metal and water!

If you are outdoors, seek shelter in a house or other large building. (Steer clear of sheds or small buildings in isolated areas.)

If you are on the golf course and can't reach a building, first drop your golf club, then head for your car — assuming the car is not a convertible, it will act as a "cage" to protect you. (The metal picks up the lightning, conducts it around you and into the ground.) Stay in the car. Keep windows and doors (and sun roof) shut.

Never stand under a tall tree. If lightning strikes the tree, electricity can run down the trunk, through the roots into the ground and into your body.

If you are riding a motorcycle, bicycle or tractor — get off. The rubber tires will NOT protect you.

If you are caught in a flat, open field, bend down and put your hands on your knees. Do not LIE down on the ground. Maintain MINIMUM contact with the ground!

If you are inside, close windows and doors. Lightning can strike through an open window.

Don't take a bath during a thunderstorm. If electricity strikes the plumbing system, it can be conducted into the tub.

Don't use the telephone unless it is absolutely necessary. Electricity can travel through the telephone wires.

If you are jogging, stop and get out of the wide-open spaces or you can run into trouble. You are far safer indoors as long as the doors and windows are closed. Most deaths and injuries from lightning occur outdoors; almost half of all people killed by lightning are engaged in outdoor recreation.

Don't rely on rubber-soled shoes to protect you. Lightning can carry a jolt of up to 100 million volts. Rubber soles are insignificant as an insulator.

It's also not true that lightning never strikes twice in the same place. The conditions that attract the lightning bolt in the first place can attract it again.

Have a safe summer. — Love, ABBY

Choctaw Indian Cafe Serves Ethnic Dishes

By BILL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The rich, beefy smell of the stew mingles with the aroma of hot coffee, drawing the hungry into the small cafe set back from one of the main streets in the northwestern part of Oklahoma City.

Indians, a few wearing braids and beads, mingle with tourists from throughout the United States and maybe a foreign country or two as they dig into such ethnic delicacies as meat pie, fry bread, Choctaw hash and — perhaps the favorite — buffalo stew.

This is the Choctaw Trading Post Cafe, a full-menu, sit-down Indian restaurant and, as such, a rare breed, says owner G.M. "Choc" Charleston.

"The only other one I ever heard of is in New York City," says Charleston, a 63-year-old Choctaw who traces his ancestry back to the tribe's removal from Mississippi to what was then Oklahoma Territory.

"There are taco stands and people sell things at fairs and the like, of course, but no full-menu, sit-down Indian restaurants," Charleston adds. "This is a place where Indian people can come, sit down and order their kind of food."

It's also a place where others can come and find out what Native American cooking is all about.

The walls have traditional Indian decorations — Choctaw stickball sticks, a Cheyenne shield, Navajo rugs, Apache basket and bird, a Sioux peacepipe, Hopi baskets, a Cherokee blowgun, Hopi kachinas and a Pawnee bark drum.

For Charleston and his wife of 43 years, Billie, a Cherokee, the cafe is the culmination of a 15-year dream.

In reality, though, it and a clothing store scheduled to open next door in October and the gift shop across the parking lot had their genesis a lot further back.

"I was sitting in a tank in Germany in 1944 and thinking what I'd like to do after the war," Charleston recalls. "And what I thought was that I'd like to open an Indian trading post, one that had not just the ordinary things like supplies for beadwork and featherwork, but that had all the nice things that Indians make."

The Charltons have been in the Indian shop business for 22 years, the last eight in a building constructed to resemble a frontier trading post.

All the cooks are Indian — as are about 85 percent of his more than 20 employees — and the recipes are authentic, most from relatives or from Indian friends.

One of the staples on the menu is buffalo, which Charleston says "is one of the healthiest meats you can eat. It's low in cholesterol and the doctors say it's good for allergies because buffalo don't eat junk food."

Another favorite is the grape dumplings.

"We consider this very traditional," Mrs. Charleston says. "Most of the Five Civilized Tribes, and I'm sure other tribes, work with what they call a choke cherry or a wild grape or a similar berry-type thing and they'll make a cobbler-tasting dessert. But, actually, it's a soft dough and it's used like a dumpling and it's dropped into big pots of sweetened juice.

"We also make our own filling for the fried pies. We use real dried fruit and make our own crusts. This is the recipe my grandmother used."

Then there are the fried meat pies. "I call it a pow wow meat pie because usually at pow wows you get these pies," she says. "But I put a gravy over mine and, again, I've modified the recipe just a little bit."

"When we got about half-way through with the restaurant, Billie said, 'Wouldn't it be nice if we could have an Indian clothing store.' So we'll feed them, we'll clothe them and we can sell them gifts," Charleston says.

Mrs. Charleston already has designed a line of dresses for the clothing store and they'll carry the Choctaw Trading Post label.

"We'll have ribbon shirts, buckskin and deerskin clothing," Charleston says. "We'll have a line of contemporary-styled dresses."

"I don't want a store filled with traditional Indian clothing. Non-Indian people prefer to wear contemporary Indian clothes. That's the look I'm going after."

"Most of the Indian women have a different-style dress," Mrs. Charleston says. "You know by looking at their dress what tribe they belong to. Most of the Indian women wear rather loose-fitting dresses. They're never tight and they're never short."

What she has done is to take the traditional styles and work them into a contemporary look.

"They're comfortable and they're a very relaxed style of dress," Mrs. Charleston says. "Most women really like them. I think they have a certain amount of class about them because they're not the ordinary thing you see on the clothes rack."

"Those things I dreamed of 40-some years ago are going to come true," Charleston says. "We're going to have a whole Indian complex."

Retired Professors Give Time To Keep Children In School

NEW YORK (AP) — A dozen retired Columbia University faculty members serve as volunteers at Junior High School 118 in New York City's Bronx borough in an effort to keep teen-agers from dropping out of school.

The Brookdale Institute for Aging and Adult Human Development, part of Columbia's School of Social Work, organized the project in which the educators spend at least three hours at the school every week.

"Having the presence of these distinguished professors gives our students an added perspective on life," said the school's principal, Gerald Friedlander. "Believe me, they are moved that these people care about them and take their time to come here."

Roughly 80 percent of the students at the school come from families on welfare.

"Many of these youngsters are very bright and capable," says Columbia's project coordinator Helen R. Hamlin. "Because the social and emotional problems they face are so enormous and complicated, they are not always free to develop their potential."

Among those in the program are Regina Kohn, a retired social work professor who spends Thursdays counseling and advising students; Eugene Raskin, 78, a playwright, songwriter and retired architecture professor who teaches a theater class, complete with student improvisations; and Lloyd Motz, 77, noted astronomer who, by refurbishing an old planetarium at the school, helps students look to the stars.

The retired professors are working with about 150 students as well as teachers, administrators and, in some cases, parents.

"Our teachers have access to a tremendous amount of knowledge by consulting with these professors," Friedlander said. "They are buoyed by interacting with such experts."

"First of all, I'm different," said Kohn of her relationship with the students. "I'm a little old lady, I'm not part of the system, and I'm not here to pass judgment. So the students can say things to me that they can't say even to the best teacher in the world."

Adds Raskin, "The way to combat the (dropout) problem is to make the kids want to come to school, to make it so delightful for them that they would rather go to school than do anything else."

Besides offering a three-part "journey through the solar system for students, Motz gives a seminar for science teachers, "Using the Planetarium as a Teaching Tool."

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — She had walked down the ramp in Atlantic City as 1963's Miss America; by 1970, Jacquelyn Mayer Townsend could neither walk nor talk.

The mother of a 6-year-old boy and a 9-month-old girl at the time, she suffered a stroke, leaving her paralyzed on one side. Although she still has a few problems with reading, memory and what she calls "sloppy speech" when she is tired, Townsend has made a fairly remarkable recovery.

Swindell Tosses Two-Hit Shutout For The Tribe, 1-0

By The Associated Press
Cleveland's Greg Swindell knew he had to be stingy against Dave LaPoint. So he matched zeroes until Cory Snyder stung the White Sox.

Swindell won his eighth game of the season with a sparkling two-hitter, getting the run he needed when Snyder homered off reliever Bobby Thigpen with one out in the ninth inning for a 1-0 victory. Cleveland has won three straight and eight of its last nine games, while Chicago has lost four in a row.

"Everything was working for me," said Swindell, 8-1 and tied with Oakland's Dave Stewart for the major league lead in wins. "I knew LaPoint had a 1.86 ERA coming in and was throwing the ball well, so I knew I had to pitch well."

He pitched so well that he even thought about a possible no-hitter. It took the White Sox until one out in the seventh to get their first hit.

"I was thinking about it (the no-hitter) during the game. It kind of crossed my mind in the pen," Swindell said after allowing a seventh-inning single to Ken Williams, who also doubled in the ninth. "I was feeling good and strong and it was just a matter of taking it out to the mound and making my pitches."

LaPoint made all the right pitches, too. He pitched eight scoreless innings to lower his ERA to an American League-leading 1.64.

But Snyder victimized Thigpen, 1-4, in the ninth.

"In that situation, I'm looking for something to drive, to hit the ball hard somewhere, because even with a base hit, you're still a long way from home plate," Snyder said.

On winning the game for Swindell, his buddy, Snyder added, "That makes me feel real good. When a guy pitches that well you really try to play hard for him."

Elsewhere, California swept a doubleheader from Baltimore, 2-1 in 10 innings and 9-6, while Kansas City routed Minnesota 14-1. The Seattle-New York game was rained out.

Angels 2, Orioles 1
Angels 9, Orioles 6

The teams tied a major-league record by hitting into 12 double plays, including nine in the opener. California won that game on, yes, a double play. Bob Boone scored the winning run as Chili Davis hit into the double play.

The Orioles continued their lack of support for Boddicker, who began the day with a club-record 13-game losing streak since Sept. 4. Baltimore has scored just 21 runs in his last 14 starts.

The Orioles built a 6-1 lead in the second game as Fred Lynn homered twice, then fell apart in a seven-run eighth inning. The Angels sent 13 batters to the plate in the decisive inning, getting ng a season-high seven singles. The tying and winning runs scored on a squeeze play when Mark McLemore laid down a bunt with the bases loaded and reliever Tom Niedenfuer charged it and threw the ball past catcher Terry Kennedy.

"We scored the winning run and I don't care how," said California manager Cookie Rojas, who could have been referring to either game.

The Angels had 25 hits in the doubleheader.

"It's always good to win two games," Rojas said. "But that comeback in the second game was an added bonus. It was a good performance by everyone. That's the way

Realignment Plan Will Cause Changes In Area

From Staff and Wire Reports
The North Carolina High School Athletic Association's Realignment Committee met for more than seven hours Thursday in formulating its proposal for aligning the state's 328 members into conferences.

And the result will mean changes in virtually every conference in the Pitt-Green-Martin-Beaufort area. Several schools will be switching conferences, while consolidation will bring about at least two new schools.

Dr. Emmett Floyd, superintendent of Catawba County schools and co-chairman of the committee, said, "Realignment is a very difficult process at best, and our meeting today certainly generated lively discussion and lots of divergent viewpoints were expressed. We dealt with a lot of complex situations and not every vote we took was unanimous, but we are pleased that we have come up with as fair and as equitable a plan as we could."

The committee came up with 48 conferences — 11 each in 1A and 2A and 13 each in 3A and 4A. There are 14 conferences that will not be affected by the new plan. The realignment will go into effect with the 1989-90 school year and will run for four years.

A total of 25 schools have indicated they would play up in classification and four schools have chosen to play down.

The entire committee was present, including two representatives from each of the NCHSAA's eight regions, representatives of the State School Boards Association, State Department of Public Instruction and the NCHSAA.

Schools wishing to appeal their conference placements must notify the NCHSAA prior to July 1 and then must submit supporting material as to the reason for the appeal prior to August 8. Appeals will be heard by the committee on August 11.

Locally, the Big East Conference will lose one of its eight members. Wilson Beddingfield has elected to drop from the 4-A ranks and play in its true rank, 3-A. It will join the Triangle Conference.

The other two Wilson schools, Fike and Hunt, could also have elected to play in 3-A, but instead will play up to the 4-A ranks. They will join Rose, Northern Nash, Rocky Mount, Northeastern and Kinston in forming the seven-team league.

In the 1A ranks, the Tobacco Belt Conference will lose two schools and pick up two more to remain at 10 members. Belhaven and Bath will consolidate as East Beaufort High School and will join the 2A Northeastern Conference. Roanoke, which has been a member of the Northeastern, will move down, and Hatteras has been moved into the Tobacco Belt.

Hatteras, Bear Grass and Aurora currently do not play football, although Aurora, which dropped the sport last year, may resume it in 1989. Other members include Chocowinity, Columbia, Creswell, Jamesville, Mattamuskeet and North Edgecombe.

The Eastern Plains 2A Conference will lose two members while picking up one, dropping to six members. Charles B. Aycock and South Lenoir will transfer to the East Central Conference while East Carteret comes in, having moved down from the Coastal 3-A.

Other EPC members include Ayden-Grifton (playing up from 1A size), Farmville Central, Greene Central, North Pitt and Pamlico.

In the Northeastern, two teams leave and one joins to bring membership to six also. Ahsokie will merge with Murfreesboro to form Hertford County High School, which will join the 3A Tar Roanoke Conference. Roanoke, as stated, will drop down to the 1A ranks and join the Tobacco Belt. Joining in will be East

Smith, McPherson Homers Lead Rose Past Eagles To Complete Perfect Year

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Perfection is hard to achieve. Going undefeated in the regular season comes seldom to most high school baseball teams, but Rose High School's Rampants achieved that distinction Thursday afternoon with a 10-2 victory over Elizabeth City Northeastern.

The victory boosted the Rampants to 22-0 on the season and to 14-0 in the Big East Conference.

Rose will now place its unbeaten record on the line in the first round of the State 4-A Baseball Playoffs, set to begin next week.

The Eagles didn't go down easily, taking a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning. But then, home runs by Axel Smith and Dallas McPherson quickly dispelled any hopes of an upset by Northeastern as Rose took command, 5-2, by the time the first inning had been completed.

"I'm really glad for our seniors to finish the regular season like we have," Coach Ronald Vincent said. "I thought Dallas (McPherson) had a great game (on the mound)."

McPherson came on in the fourth inning in relief of starter Paul Powers and earned the win, going the next three innings. In those three, he struck out eight of the 11 batters he faced, allowing two walks and a fielder's choice. Tom Moyer came on to retire the side in the seventh inning with a walk and two strikeouts.

Rose played good defense, too, coming up with a pair of double plays to help them out of jams in the first and third innings.

"I'm very proud of our senior class," Vincent continued. "This is their third straight conference championship. Now we have to get ready for the playoffs."

For a while there, however, it looked like Rose might have some trouble as the Eagles erupted for two runs in the top of the first. Jody Gordon led off with a single to right and Jeff Piscorik also banded one through the gap between first and second for another hit. Both then advanced on a passed ball. With one away, Mego Brown grounded back to the infield and the play went to home, but was not in time to get Gordon, who scored. A wild pitch then allowed Piscorik to score the second run. The Rampants then got a double play on a grounder back to third when it hung up runners between third and home and second and third.

The other double play came in the third after two walks and a single had loaded the bases with only one out. But a grounder back to Palmer was relayed to home and on to first for the twin-killing, halting the scoring threat.

Rose quickly bounced back in the bottom of the first to take the lead for good, scoring five times.

With one away, Jay Surles beat out an infield hit and Smith followed with a two-run shot over the fence in left field, his 10th homer of the year. Then, with two away, Tom Moyer and Wes Jackson both walked. McPherson followed that up with another home, this one over the wall in left center, driving in three runs for a 5-2 lead.

Rose added three more in the second, upping the lead to 8-2. Brian Wille led off with an infield hit and Moore singled to center, moving Wille to third. Moore took off for second on the next pitch home, and when the ball got away from the catcher, Wille streaked home and Moore wound up on third, scoring on Surles' infield grounder. David Daniels then reached on an error, stole second and third and trotted home when the throw-down on the latter sailed into left field.

The Rampants picked up a ninth run in the fourth. Wille singled and moved up on an infield grounder. He took third on a passed ball and scored on Smith's triple to center.

The final run crossed in the sixth. Pat Joyner doubled to center and was wild pitched to third. He scored on Scott Fix' infield out.

Smith and Wille each had two hits to lead Rose. Northeastern, with only three hits, had no one with more than one.

The Eagles close out the year with a 6-8 Big East record and an 8-12 overall mark.

Correction

Jamie Brewington pitched Rose to its 3-0 victory over Wilson Hunt on Wednesday, rather than Tom Moyer as reported in Thursday's Daily Reflector.

A misinterpretation of the scorebook led to the error. Brewington went six and two-thirds innings and allowed only three hits. Moyer came on in the final inning to get the last out.

Utah Crushes Lakers To Force Seventh NBA Game

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

The Boston Celtics and Los Angeles Lakers were heavy favorites to battle for the NBA title for the fourth time in the last five years. Atlanta and Utah have other ideas.

The Utah Jazz handed the Lakers the sixth worst playoff defeat in the franchise's history Thursday night, 108-80, to send their series into a decisive seventh game Saturday afternoon at Inglewood, Calif.

Tonight in Atlanta, the Hawks can end the Celtics' season. Atlanta leads the series 3-2, and Game 7, if necessary, will be played Sunday at Boston.

Dallas moved into the Western Conference finals by defeating Denver 108-95 Thursday, clinching the best-of-seven series four games to two. The Mavericks now await the winner of the Jazz-Lakers series.

Prior to the game, Utah coach Frank Layden was upset with Karl Malone for predicting the Jazz would win Game 6. Malone made sure by scoring 27 points and grabbing 11 rebounds.

"He shouldn't say that," Layden said. "When you walk by the lion, it's better to do it softly. You don't want to wake him up."

The Jazz didn't have to wake up the Lakers. They just ran past them. It was the worst playoff defeat suffered by the defending champion Lakers since they fell to the Celtics 148-114 in Game 1 of the finals on May 27, 1985.

"We came out with an attitude to come out running," Malone said. "We didn't back down."

Bobby Hansen scored 25 points on 10-for-11 shooting, while John Stockton had 14 points and 17 assists for the Jazz. Stockton, the NBA assist leader with 13.8 per game, is averaging 14.3 in the playoffs and has had at least 12 in each of the six games against the Lakers.

Los Angeles, meanwhile, combined for only 16 assists Thursday night, with Magic Johnson's nine leading the way.

"Tonight we just didn't shoot the ball well," Johnson said. "The Jazz played great and we couldn't do anything."

The Jazz never trailed after Malone gave them an 8-7 lead and Los Angeles scored just 13 points in the opening quarter.

Five Lakers scored in double figures, led by Byron Scott's 16. Johnson, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Michael Cooper were held to just 10 points apiece, with all of Johnson's coming in the first half.

"Now it's down to one game," Lakers coach Pat Riley said. "When we come out Saturday, we've got to come out with more than we came out with today."

The three losses to the Jazz equal the total number of playoff defeats the Lakers suffered a year ago en route to the NBA title.

Mavericks 108, Nuggets 95
Rolando Blackman scored nine straight points in the fourth period to lead Dallas over Denver and into the Western Conference finals for the first time in the team's history.

"It's absolute fantasy," Mavs owner Donald Carter said. "It's like a fairyland. We've come a long, long way. I feel like a daddy-sized Jolly Green giant."

Blackman and Sam Perkins scored 23 points apiece, while Roy Tarpley, the NBA's best sixth man, had 18 points and 19 rebounds.

"It's a great feeling to be part of history," Tarpley said. "We can always say we were the first ones to get to the Western Conference finals."

Denver's Alex English scored 34 points, but couldn't make up for the loss of Lafayette Lever and Jay Vincent, who missed the last three games with injuries.

"We had to change our lineup and play with what we had," Denver coach Doug Moe said. "We had to scramble to find some scoring. You just have to accept what fate deals you. Some things you have no control over."

Then, in the finals, they lost to Mike Melvin and Marty Cowan, also of Roanoke Rapids, 6-4, 6-2.

Roanoke Rapids won the regional with 37 points while Charles B. Aycock finished second with 25. Farmville Central finished third with 13. Ayden-Grifton tied for seventh with three points but did not qualify anyone for further play.

Sr. Babe Ruth Tryouts Are Set

Tryouts for the Senior Babe Ruth League will be held Sunday at 4 p.m. at Guy Smith Stadium.

The tryouts are for the Greenville teams in the league and for boys 16-18 years old as of August 1.

Pirates Add Two New Golfers

Douglas Hoey and Donnie Cooper will join the East Carolina golf team next season, according to ECU golf coach Hal Morrison.

Hoey, a native of Dearborn, Mich., was the medalist at the Michigan PGA Junior Tournament and finished 16th in the PGA National Junior Tournament.

"Hoey's consistency is his major strong point," Morrison said. "On top of that, he is an excellent student and is expected to graduate at the top of his class this spring."

Cooper is the 1988 Tennessee high school champion and will graduate from Halls High School in Knoxville, Tenn.

"Cooper has a lot of strength and can hit the long ball," Morrison said. "But, he turns in consistent scores also and that's important because about all good high school golfers can hit the ball hard, but being consistent is the key."

Graham Named To Sports Commission

Larry Graham of Greenville has been named to the Sports and Exercise Safety Commission, the advisory board to the American Health and Fitness Foundation.

Graham, a specialist in the field of sports medicine law and liability, serves on the editorial board of "The Physician and Sportsmedicine" magazine and is legal counsel to the National Athletic Trainers' Association. He has published several articles on the subject of sports medicine liability, and is a columnist for "Sportsmedicine Digest" on the top of "The Law and Sports."

Graham spoke this spring on the issue of liability at the Professional Baseball Athletic Trainers Society Conference on Sports Medicine in Orlando, Fla. He was a featured presenter at the recent American Health and Fitness Foundation's national conference at Bolton Valley, Ver., where he addressed the topic of "Sports and the Law: How to Dodge the Bullet of a Liability Lawsuit." The conference was attended by coaches, physicians and fitness professionals seeking sports and exercise safety certification.

ECU Adds New Tennis, Volleyball Coaches

East Carolina Director of Athletics Dave Hart announced today the hiring of a tennis coach for the men's and women's programs and a women's volleyball coach to the Pirates' staff.

Bill Moore becomes the head coach of the ECU tennis program after serving as the Director of Tennis at East Stroudsburg, Pa., University for the past year. He was the assistant coach for the men's and women's programs at the University of Virginia for two seasons while he received his doctoral degree from UVA. in 1986. Moore, a certified member of the United States Professional Tennis Association (USPTA) has also served as a tennis professional at various clubs in Virginia since 1976.

Moore was the top-seeded player during his collegiate career at Pfeiffer College from 1977 to 79. He was ranked second in the state of North Carolina by the USTA for the 21 and under class in 1979.

Judy Kirkpatrick has been named the women's volleyball coach for the Lady Pirates, as she comes to ECU following seven seasons as the head volleyball and women's softball coach at West Georgia College in Carrollton, Ga. Kirkpatrick was named the Gulf South Conference Coach of the Year for women's volleyball this past season at the Division II school. Her career coaching record for softball was 123-88, but her volleyball record was not available.

She received her bachelor's degree from Winthrop in 1979 and a masters from James Madison in 1981.

"We are very pleased to add two fine coaches like Bill Moore and Judy Kirkpatrick," Hart said. "They both came highly recommended and are well respected among their peers in their respective sports."

Moore replaces Pat Sherman while Kirkpatrick replaces Imogene Turner, both of whom have left the ECU staff.

Winston Race Turning Into A Blood Feud

CONCORD (AP) — The drivers don't want to talk about it, but Charlotte Motor Speedway officials are revving up their promotion of Sunday's The Winston NASCAR race as a blood feud between Dale Earnhardt, Bill Elliott and Geoff Bodine.

In the final, 10-lap segment of last year's race, the three drivers began swapping paint. Elliott and Bodine lost control of their cars, and Earnhardt took a shortcut through the infield to emerge with a controversial victory — despite never having led the race.

After Earnhardt took the checkered flag, Elliott waited for him on the backstretch and rammed his Ford Thunderbird into Earnhardt's Chevrolet. The drivers exchanged words and their crews nearly came to blows.

NASCAR officials fined the three drivers a total of $25,000.

Conley Squeezes By Mariners

HOLLYWOOD — Bronswell Patrick singled home Gray Mills with the go-ahead run in the sixth inning as D.H. Conley defeated East Carteret, 6-5, and clinched the Coastal Conference baseball title Thursday.

Conley took an early 2-0 lead and expanded it to 4-0 as Travis Clemons hit a two-run homer in the fourth inning.

East Carteret came back with three runs in the top of the fifth, keyed by a two-run homer by Robert Nelson to make it 4-3.

Conley answered with a run in the bottom of the inning courtesy of a solo homer by Jim Faulkner to make it 5-3.

Nelson hit another two-run homer in the sixth to make it 5-5 but Patrick singled home Mills with the winning run in the bottom of the inning to key the win.

Brian Bullock, who picked up the win with relief help from Hal Conger, and Robbie Nichols had two hits apiece for the Vikings.

Conley moves to 16-5 and 10-2 and begins play in the state 3-A playoffs early next week.

SNOW HILL — Greene Central wound up its regular season Thursday with a 10-0 baseball victory over North Pitt. The game was called in the bottom of the fifth inning because of rain.

The win left Greene Central with a perfect 12-0 record in the Eastern Plains Conference. They are 19-0 overall, their only loss coming to unbeaten 4-A powerhouse Greenville Rose.

Ritchie Britt tossed a one-hitter for the Rams in the five-inning contest, allowing no walks and striking out six.

The lone hit by the Panthers came off the bat of Randy House.

The Rams scored four times in the second inning to put the game away. Cornelius Hill, Walt McKeel and Alan Vandiford all drew walks, loading the bases. Cedric Collins doubled in Hill and McKeel. T.J. Johnson then singled to score both Vandiford and Collins for a 4-0 lead.

The Rams added six more in the third, helped along by a run-scoring double by Tommy Eason and a two-run homer by Vandiford.

Eason led the Ram hitting with three, including his double and a triple, while Collins and Johnson each had two.

The Rams will return to action on Monday, hosting Wake Forest-Rolesville in a 7:30 p.m. game in the first round of the state 2-A playoffs.

Both teams pushed over a run in the first inning and Columbia added two in the second. Jamesville, however, pushed over three to take a 4-3 lead. Columbia, however, tied it up with one in the third.

Jamesville then scored what proved to be the difference in the third. Eric Spruill singled and stole up. He then scored on a hit by David Gardner.

Jamesville added one in the fourth and four in the fifth.

Columbia was batting in the top of the sixth when rains halted the game.

Jeff Phelps led Jamesville with three hits while Doug Jones and

In the bottom of the first, Farmville struck for six big runs. George Burnette led off with a double and Mike Vandiford brought him in with a single. LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton's key baseball game at South Lenoir was rained out Thursday and has been rescheduled for today.

Should Ayden-Grifton win, it would tie Charles B. Aycock for second place in the Eastern Plains Conference standings. If that occurs, the two plan to meet in a playoff game at Greene Central on Saturday at 7:30 p.m. The winner of that game will take the number two spot for the EPC in the State 2-A Playoffs, while the loser takes the number three spot.

Should today's game again be rained out, it will be rescheduled for Saturday and an Ayden-Grifton win would then result in Aycock and the Chargers participating in a draw for the two positions.

A South Lenoir win, however, would give Aycock the second spot and Ayden-Grifton the number three position.

Second Sacker Sax Should Have Save

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tim Leary pitched a complete game shutout against the Montreal Expos, but as far as he was concerned, Steve Sax deserved a save. And Sax is a second baseman.

"I can't say enough about our infield," Leary said after the Dodgers beat the Expos 2-0 Thursday night.

Sax helped bail Leary out in the eighth inning when he started an inning-ending play that robbed Tim Raines of his third hit of the game. Sax went behind second base, backhanded the grounder hit by Raines and threw to Alfredo Griffin, who fired off-balance to first to get the speedy Raines.

"That saved the shutout and kept me in the game for the ninth inning," said Leary, 3-3. "That was a critical play for us, especially when we're only up by two runs."

The hard-luck right-hander finished with a seven-hitter en route to his second shutout and complete game of the season. He walked none and struck out 10 to come within one strikeout of his career high, set against San Diego in a 6-0 performance here April 18.

Elsewhere, it was New York 9, San Diego 4 and St. Louis 5, Chicago 1.

"I give credit to Leary," Sax said. "He pitched a great game. He throws just as hard in the ninth inning as he does in the first. He's had some tough breaks, but he's got a great arm and he's going to win a lot of games because he knows how to pitch."

The Dodgers scored both their runs in the fourth inning. Kirk Gibson led off with a single and went to third on an errant pickoff throw by losing pitcher Dennis Martinez, 3-6.

Pedro Guerrero hit a sacrifice fly before Mike Marshall, whose 12-game hitting streak was stopped Tuesday night, came to the plate. Marshall hit the next pitch into the left field pavilion for his sixth homer of the season.

Leary, who had gone winless with three defeats in his previous five starts, struck out the side in the first and fifth innings and surrendered just three hits over the last six innings. One of them was a check-swing opposite-field double by Martinez, his sixth hit in 20 at-bats.

"Having the split-finger pitch is a big difference for me, because I throw with the same arm speed as my fastball, and it's more of an illusion pitch for the hitters," Leary said. "So I don't have to throw strikes all the time because they'll swing at it and get themselves out." Marshall led the Los Angeles offense with three hits including his solo homer, helping the Dodgers avoid a three-game sweep by the Expos.

"It's tough to sweep any team on the road," Montreal manager Buck Rodgers said. "I don't think this set us back. I hope we can turn it around in San Francisco."

The Expos, who were swept in a three-game series at San Diego last weekend, play at San Francisco this weekend.

Martinez allowed nine hits over six innings, with five strikeouts and no walks. The right-hander has lost four in a row since April 28, when he bruised his right index finger while batting against Houston's Danny Darwin.

"It looks like every time I pitch, there's a lack of hitting," Martinez said. "I have to keep my head up and look to the next game."

"The other guy did a great job. It could have been 2-0 the other way, if everything went right."

The Expos wasted their best scoring opportunity in the second inning. Hubie Brooks and Andres Galarraga opened with singles and executed a double steal. But Jeff Reed struck out, Brooks was thrown out at the plate by Leary on a chopper to the right of the mound by Johnny Paredes, and Tom Foley grounded out to first base.

Mets 9, Padres 4
New York shrugged off a three-game sweep by the Giants last weekend with its four-game sweep in San Diego.

Ron Darling was a pitching and hitting star, despite battling the flu. Darling pitched effectively for eight innings and got two hits, including a single that sparked a four-run seventh inning.

"The best therapy is to be out there. I didn't feel half as bad as I did last (Wednesday) night," Darling said after completing the Mets' first sweep of the Padres in San Diego since 1973.

Keith Hernandez got three of New York's season-high 16 hits.

Darling led off the seventh with a single and was sacrificed to second. Wally Backman hit an RBI single, took second on the throw home and scored on a single by Hernandez. Darryl Strawberry hit an RBI double and scored on Howard Johnson's single.

Keith Moreland homered in the eighth and Marvell Wynne hit a pinch homer in the ninth for San Diego.

Cardinals 5, Cubs 1
At Wrigley Field, Cris Carpenter pitched a four-hitter for his first major league victory as the Cardinals won their fourth straight game. Carpenter struck out five and walked two in his second major-league start. He was the Cardinals' No. 1 pick in last June's draft.

Lounge Lizard Lanny Seizes Share Of Lead

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Call him Lounge Lizard Lanny, the kiss-and-tell bandit of the $750,000 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament.

After 11 unsuccessful passes, Lanny Wadkins spurned the proud and pristine Colonial course for two years, then returned Thursday to fire a 3-under-par 67 and seize a share of the first-round lead with four of his touring colleagues.

"It's like your high school reunion," Wadkins said of his first sub-par round in 36 at Colonial over 11 years. "You go back three or four years later and the girls look better than they ever did before."

The 38-year-old Wadkins, who won the Hawaiian Open this season for his 17th victory, took a rollercoaster route to the top of the leader board, where he shares a spot with John Inman, Scott Hoch, Jodie Mudd and Clarence Rose.

Wadkins got to four under par through 12 holes but slipped back with bogies on the 13th and 14th. He got a stroke back at 16 with a birdie, but gave it back with a bogey at 17. He closed out his round with an 18-foot birdie putt that moved him back into a share of the lead.

"It's kind of fun for a change to get ahead of this golf course," said Wadkins, who has taken liberties with most of the courses he's encountered while amassing $3.4 million in career earnings.

He said he couldn't explain his futility on a course that's only a short trip from his home in Dallas.

"I've always liked Colonial," he said. "But I've always thought it's too close to stay over and too far to drive with all the traffic."

"So for the last couple of years I thought I'd just stay home and save the gas money."

Rose, runnerup last week in the Byron Nelson Classic at Dallas, said he suffered no letdown from his playoff loss to Bruce Lietzke.

"No, not at all," he claimed after a pleasantly erratic round that included six birdies and three bogeys. "Bruce made a birdie and that was it. I didn't give him the tournament or anything. He won it."

Hoch had a bogey-free round, Mudd lost his chance for the outright lead with a bogey at the tough par-3 16th, and Inman blew his chance by lashing an approach shot into the lake guarding the 18th green.

"I didn't do anything great, but I didn't do anything bad, either," Mudd said. "I made a few mistakes but I was able to get away with it for the most part."

Inman was so ecstatic with his 67 that someone wondered if he might not be just a little disappointed about blowing the lead with a bogey on the final hole.

"I'm just glad to be here," he insisted, "and I'm happy to be playing better."

The leaders shared a one-shot edge over Mark Calcavecchia, Buddy Gardner and Ed Fiori while a group at 69 included Steve Pate, a double-winner this year, and former Colonial champions Ben Crenshaw and Lee Trevino.

Thursday's casualty list was headed most notably by Tom Watson, who shot a horrendous 9-over-par 44 on the front side on the way to a plump 78, and Tom Kite, who stumbled in with a 75.

Lady Rampettes Win, Earn Playoff Berth

Rose High School's girls' softball team downed Northeastern, 8-6, Thursday and clinched a spot in the State 4-A Playoffs.

Rose has a makeup game at Wilson Hunt this afternoon. A victory by Rose would tie the Rampettes with Beddingfield for second place in the standings and a playoff game would be needed on Saturday to determine which would be seeded second or third. A loss by Rose would send them into the third-seeded spot in the playoffs for the Big East Conference.

Northeastern broke loose for five big runs in the first inning, but Rose rallied to tie it up in the second.

The Rampettes then pushed over two runs in the third to take the lead for good. Cammie Smith doubled and scored on a double by Joanne Brown. Andrea Rogers added a third double, scoring Brown for a 7-5 lead.

Rose added another run in the fourth while Northeastern got its last run in the fifth.

Gina Parrott, Brown, Rogers and Amy Barr each had two hits to lead Rose. L. Byrum, T. James, D. Harris and L. Blow each had two for the Lady Eagles.

Rose is now 12-7 overall, 8-5 in the Big East.

Simon Oldest, Most Improvising Driver

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Dick Simon, at 54 the oldest driver in the Indianapolis 500 for the sixth consecutive year, is thinking about trading in his driver's uniform for a business suit — under the right circumstances.

Simon, who doubles as a car owner and driver, already has two cars in the Indianapolis 500 and hopes to add a third on Saturday or Sunday, the final two days of qualifying for the May 29 race.

Simon played the role of tutor on Thursday as he tried to help Indy rookie Tero Palmroth of Finland find some speed in his 1987 Lola.

Arie Luyendyk of the Netherlands, who joined Simon's team this year, qualified for the outside of the second row last Saturday at 213.611 mph. Simon earned the inside spot in the sixth row of the tentative starting lineup at 207.555.

Simon doesn't operate one of Indy's big-dollar teams. He does attract some big corporate sponsors, but every buck is wisely spent.

"Arie Luyendyk is the best thing that ever happened to Dick Simon Racing," Simon said. "He knows how to spread a dollar. He and his father went all over Europe (racing) without a lot of money — just a car, a truck and other people's used parts. He values every nickel that's spent."

Luyendyk is as fast as he is frugal, and that's what has Simon thinking about quitting full-time racing.

"I'm ready to do that now, if Arie would sign a contract for next year," said Simon, who counts 16 Indy 500 starts among his 178 Indy-car races. "I would just run Indy next year. It's totally up to him. I cannot afford to get out unless I sign him because I'd lose my sponsors and then I'd be up the creek next year."

"He runs an operation the way I would run it; you spend money in a sensible way," said Luyendyk, who will be making his fourth start here.

"You spend the money you need to run a race car. I used to do that with my dad and now that I'm with Dick, it's kind of like running for my dad."

Twenty-one cars qualified last weekend, leaving 12 spots still to be filled for the $4 million race. Once the field is full, any other driver hoping to make the race must go quicker than the slowest car in the field.

Scott Atchison, the only rookie to qualify so far, is the slowest at 205.142 mph. On Thursday, while driving his backup car, Atchison hit the fourth turn wall. The car was badly damaged and Atchison was held overnight at Methodist Hospital for observation after complaining about pain on the right side of his face.

Thursday was a busy day on the 2½-mile oval, with 31 cars making appearances, including 26 non-qualified cars. Six of those were backups for drivers already in the tentative field.

Raul Boesel of Brazil, the current Indy-car series point leader, was the fastest among the non-qualified entries, turning a lap of 213.270 mph. Pancho Carter was next at 212.270.

Seventeen drivers had non-qualified cars above 200 mph during the practice session, including four-time winner A.J. Foyt, who was above 208 in both his primary car and his backup.

Palmroth got his Lola up to 207.756, while Simon got out briefly in his already-qualified Lola and had a lap of 212.214.

"I really should be out in the garage now working on my own car," Simon said Thursday as he sat in Palmroth's pit area. "But, I feel very confident in our team and the men who are working on it. I want to use the time I've got to help Tero. I get just as much a kick out of helping someone out as I do driving."

Palmroth, who will turn 35 the day before the race, is the latest in a string of newcomers Simon has helped at Indianapolis. The list includes Janet Guthrie, who as his teammate in 1978 became the first and only woman to qualify for the race, and Boesel, who finished 13th in 1986 while driving for Simon.

Palmroth got into an Indy car for the first time only last month. He passed the final phase of his Speedway rookie test Wednesday.

Simon and Luyendyk each gave Palmroth a course on driving at the Speedway on Wednesday, discussing the four turns, the unforgiving walls and the racing groove.

"He came to me last year with the idea that his goal and dream was to drive an Indianapolis race car," Simon said. "I talked to him about that for about a year."

Massey's 67 Earns Lead

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Debbie Massey had six birdies, but she said her bogey on the first hole made all the difference in a round of 67 that staked her to a one-shot lead in the LPGA Championship.

"When I made bogey, that snapped me together," Massey said. "That was the turning point in my round. Then I remembered what I was here to do."

'Roots' Stars Say Sequel 'Classic'

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Louis Gossett Jr. and LeVar Burton, reunited for the first time since the blockbuster 1977 miniseries "Roots," predict the Christmas sequel will become a classic in itself, a kind of American answer to Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol."

"I think it's very wonderful to be able to anticipate sitting down with my loved ones and watching not only the Dickens classic, but 'Roots Christmas' as well, and hopefully year after year. It has the potential to be a classic," said Burton, 31, whose career was launched by the miniseries 12 years ago.

"This is as close to Dickens as we can get in an American story," Gossett said on a break in filming on the grounds of the Hermitage, the plantation home of President Andrew Jackson. "This is ours and we should cherish it. It's our American classic."

"Roots" still ranks as the highest-rated miniseries ever, and Part 8 was the third highest-rated television show in history, according to A.C. Nielsen.

The two-hour sequel, scheduled to air Dec. 11 on ABC, also stars Avery

Brooks, Shaun Cassidy, Michael Learned and Kate Mulgrew.

The story was written by David Eyre based on an outline by Alex Haley, who grew up in the small western Tennessee town of Henning and wrote the Pulitzer Prize-winning book "Roots" after tracing his ancestry 200 years.

In the sequel, Kunta Kinte (Burton) and Fiddler (Gossett) clandestinely plan to lead a group of slaves to freedom on Christmas Eve in 1770.

Gossett, who in 1982 won an Academy Award for his supporting role in "An Officer and a Gentleman," said he expected a new generation to discover "Roots" through the sequel. "It's a new kind of audience, the young people that maybe couldn't have grasped what the show was about the first time," Gossett said. "It's very special, very spiritual."

"It's even better because of, I guess, the mutual growth of all of us and the growth of America especially," he said.

The film's budget is about $4 million, expensive for a two-hour television movie.

Lucas Film Less Than A Smash

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The world's most successful filmmaker and a fabled film company released a $55 million cinematic gamble today with the opening of the medieval fantasy "Willow" amid less than fantastic reviews.

Sharing the bill at 1,000 theaters nationwide are George Lucas, whose "Star Wars" and "Indiana Jones" films have grossed $1 billion, and MGM, once Hollywood's greatest studio.

Both parties need a hit. Lucasfilm has produced two expensive flops, "Labyrinth" and "Howard the Duck." MGM is struggling to regain momentum after several reorganizations.

As a further complication, financier Kirk Kerkorian, who owns 82.4 per cent of the parent MGMUA Communications, is seeking a buyer for the company. A "Willow" hit would enhance the price.

Early reviews have been mixed.

Daily Variety termed the film "a medieval mishmash" but predicted "kids will probably love it," and MGM should recover its investment. The Hollywood Reporter praised the production values but complained that the storyline "never really kicks into overdrive."

"For now, (Lucas') wonder wand is broken," reported Time Magazine, and Newsweek headlined its review with "The Raider of Lost Art."

Meanwhile, People Magazine called "Willow" an "over-produced jumble" and "a shrewd and shameless steal from the Bible, Walt Disney, his own 'Star Wars' and 'The Wizard of Oz.'"

Facing the blockbuster competition of "Rambo III" and "Crocodile Dundee II" on May 25, MGM prudently released "Willow" five days earlier.

Daws Butler, 'Voice' For Yogi, Dies At 71

L.A. Times-Washington Post

HOLLYWOOD — Daws Butler, who for three decades carried on the conversations of such diverse cartoon characters as Yogi Bear and Huckleberry Hound, died Wednesday night of a heart attack at Cedars Sinai Medical Center. He was 71.

A spokesman for Hanna-Barbera Productions, where Butler had been prime studio communicator for three decades, said that the publicly invisible but highly respected actor had suffered a stroke and been battling pneumonia in the past few months.

Unlike even character actors who are occasionally recognized while standing in line at supermarkets, Butler labored in anonymity throughout his life, standing in front of microphones in recording studios and conjuring up the varied voices of Yogi, Quick-Draw McGraw, Snagglepuss, Cap'n Crunch, Augie Doggie, Lippy Lion, Blabber Mouse and Peter Potamus.

Butler was raised in Oak Park, Ill., a self-described shy boy who had wanted to be an artist or writer.

After Navy service he and his bride and first-born son came to Southern California with his parents and Butler auditioned for a role on the old "Dr. Christian" radio series.

In 1948 he began a lifelong friendship with Stan Freberg who was to hire him for Freberg's short-lived radio variety show in 1957.

Butler, who is survived by his wife, Myrtis, four sons and two grandchildren, also made records with Freberg, among them "St. George and the Dragonet," a thinly veiled parody of the "Dragnet" radio and TV series.

A longtime admirer of Mel Blanc, the voice of Bugs Bunny, Butler next decided to try the cartoon field. He was hired by animation director Tex Avery at MGM. There he met and went to work for Hanna and Barbera on their old "Tom and Jerry" series.

When MGM shut down its animation department in the late 1950s Hanna and Barbera formed their own company and from that union came Huckleberry, Yogi, Baba-Looey, Undercover Elephant and other members of the rapidly burgeoning cartoon family.

Joseph Barbera, co-founder with William Hanna, of the animation studios, said that Butler did not just provide the sound but contributed to the development of the characters whose voice he would become.

Horoscope From The Carroll Righter Institute

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY May 21 ARIES (March 21 to April 19): A co-worker has been trying to get you interested in a new recreation, but this would be too costly. Stay at home and relax this evening. TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Work on making your home more attractive and comfortable today, then invite some happy, upbeat guests in for the evening. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): If you are planning to take a trip, go over the arrangements and make sure the car is running well. Be very cautious while driving. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Be very careful when handling finance and property matters today, and avoid a costly mistake. Try to cut down on your expenses. LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): If you have some non-essential meeting scheduled today, it should be postponed if possible. Be sure to get plenty of rest this evening. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Taking the time to handle those small tasks you have been putting off could be quite rewarding today. Be patient with your mate's mood. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): If any good friends ask you for a favor, don't hesitate to do so. Be sure you say exactly what you mean when speaking with others. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Don't try to persuade a superior to do a favor for you, or you will only anger this person. Be sure to get your shopping finished today. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): If you rush out for pleasure without knowing where you are headed or what the cost will be, you will greatly regret it later. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): This is a good time to collect money owed to you, and then pay off any pressing bills you have. Don't let anyone influence your opinion. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Before you present your ideas for a potential new project to a superior, be sure all the facts and figures are completely flawless. PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): Make sure you use clear, concise language in any correspondence. It may be a good idea to revise your budget and cut out the waste. (c)1988, The McNaught Syndicate Inc.

This is the same hand as yesterday! To be more accurate, the North-South hands are the same; headed by the king and only a doubleton club, in which case he might maneuver a club ruff. The odds, however, make this line highly attractive. For information about Charles Goren's newsletter for bridge players, write Goren Bridge Letter, P.O. Box 4426, Orlando, Fla. 32802-4426.
